ARGUMENT

Semele the daughter of Cadmus, a mortal bride of Zeus, was persuaded by Hera to pray the God to promise her with an oath to grant her whatsoever she would. And, when he had consented, she asked that he would appear to her in all the splendour of his godhead, even as he visited Hera. Then Zeus, not of his will, but constrained by his oath, appeared to her amidst intolerable light and flashings of heaven's lightning, whereby her mortal body was consumed. But the God snatched her unborn babe from the flames, and hid him in a cleft of his thigh, till the days were accomplished wherein he should be born. And so the child Dionysus sprang from the thigh of Zeus, and was hidden from the jealous malice of Hera till he was grown. Then did he set forth in victorious march through all the earth, bestowing upon men the gift of the vine, and planting his worship everywhere. But the sisters of Semele scoffed at the story of the heavenly bridegroom, and mocked at the worship of Dionysus. And when Cadmus was now old, Pentheus his grandson reigned in his stead, and he too despised the Wine-giver, saying that he was no god, and that none in Thebes should ever worship him.

And herein is told how Dionysus came in human guise to Thebes, and filled her women with the Bacchanal possession, and how Pentheus, essaying to withstand him, was punished by strange and awful doom.

THE BACCHANALS

I first thrilled, there with fawn-skin girt her limbs,
And gave her hand the ivied thyrsus-spear,
Because my mother's sisters, to their shame,
Proclaimed Dionysus never born of Zeus ;
But Semele by a man undone, said they,
Charged upon Zeus her sin of wantonness—
A subtle wile of Cadmus ! Hence, they vaunted, 30
Zeus slew the liar who named him paramour.
So frenzy-stung themselves I have driven from home,
And mid the hills with soul distraught they dwell,
The vesture of my revels forced to wear ;
And all the woman-seed of Cadmus' folk,
Yea all, I drove forth raving from their homes :
And there, with Cadmus' daughters mingled, these
'Neath green pines sit on crags all shelterless.
For this Thebes needs must learn, how loth soe'er,
What means it not to be in my great rites 40
Initiate, learn that I plead Semele's cause
To men God manifest, whom she bare to Zeus.
Now Cadmus gave his crown and royal estate
To Pentheus, of another daughter born,
Who wars with Heaven in me, and from libations
Thrusts, nor makes mention of me in his prayers.
Therefore to him my godhead will I prove,
And to all Thebans. To another land
Then, after triumph here, will I depart,
And manifest myself. If Thebes in wrath 50
Take arms to chase her Bacchants from the hills,
Leading my Maenads I will clash in fight.
For this cause have I taken mortal form,
And changed my shape to fashion of a man.
Ho, ye who Lydia's rock-wall, Tmolus, left.

Women, my revel-rout, from alien homes
To share my rest and my wayfaring brought,
Uplift the cymbals to the Phrygian towns
Native, great Mother Rhea's device and mine,
And smite them, compassing yon royal halls 60
Of Pentheus, so that Cadmus' town may see.

My Bacchanals, and join the dances there. [Exit.

Far over the hallowed ridges of Tinolus fleeting,
To the task that I love do I speed, to my painless

For the Clamour-king, hailing the Bacchanals' God (Ant. 1)

At his doors who is standing? Avoid!—and let each His lips from irreverence, hallow them. Now, in the lay [pealing.
Dionysus ordains, will I chant him, his hymn out-

O happy to whom is the blessedness given (Str. 2)
To be taught in the Mysteries sent from heaven,
Who is pure in his life, through whose soul the unsleeping
Revel goes sweeping!
Made meet by the sacred purifying
For the Bacchanal rout o'er the mountains flying,
For the orgies of Cybele mystery-folden,
Of the Mother olden,
Wreathed with the ivy sprays, 80

THE BACCHANALS

Singing the Vine-god's praise—

Come, Bacchanals, come !

The Clamour-king, child of a God,

O'er the mountains of Phrygia who trod,

Unto Hellas's highways broad

Bring him home, bring him home !—

(Ant. 2)

The God whom his mother,—when anguish tore her

Of the travail restless that deathward bore her

On the wings of the thunder of Zeus down-flying,— 90

Brought forth at her dying,

An untimely birth, as her spirit departed

Stricken from life by the flame down-darted :

But in birth-bowers new did Zeus Cronion

Receive his scion ;

For, hid in a cleft of his thigh,

By the gold-clasps knit, did he lie

Safe hidden from Hera's eye

Till the Fates' day came ;

Then a God bull-horned Zeus bare,

100

And with serpents entwined his hair :

And for this do his Maenads wear

In their tresses the same.

Thebes, nursing-town of Semele, crown (Str. 3)

With the ivy thy brows, and be

All bloom, embowered in the starry-flowered

Lush green of the briony,

While the oak and pine thy tresses entwine

In thy bacchanal-eccstasy.

And thy fawn-skin flecked, with a fringe be it decked

Of wool white-glistening

From the flutes of the Phrygian land,
And its thunder, soaring o'er revel-shouts' roaring,
They gave unto Rhea's hand ;
But the gift passed on from the Mother, was won 130
By the madding Satyr-band ;
And to Semele's child gave the woodfolk wild
The homage he holdeth dear,
When to feet white-flashing the timbrels clashing
Are wedded in each third year.

From the Bacchanal rout o'er the mountains flying,
One sinks to the earth, and the fawn's flecked hide

Of Phrygia, of Lydia, the wild feet haste, [thrills

Flowing with milk is the ground, and with wine is it flowing, and flowing [Araby soars:
Nectar of bees; and a smoke as of incense of
And the Bacchant, uplifting the flame of the brand of the pine ruddy-glowing,
Waveth it wide, and with shouts, from the point of the wand as it pours, [and throwing
Challengeth revellers straying, on-racing, on-dancing, 150
Loose to the breezes his curls, while clear through the chorus that roars
Cleaveth his shout,—"On, Bacchanal-rout,
On, Bacchanal maidens, ye glory of Tmolus the hill
gold-welling, [thunder-knelling,
Blend the acclaim of your chant with the timbrels
Glad-pealing the glad God's praises out
With Phrygian cries and the voice of singing,
When upsoareth the sound of the melody-
fountain,
Of the hallowed ringing of flutes far-flinging 160
The notes that chime with the feet that climb
The pilgrim-path to the mountain!"
And with rapture the Bacchanal onward racing,
With gambollings fleet [grazing,
As of foals round the mares in the meads that are Speedeth her feet.

THE BACCHANALS

TEIRESIAS

Yea, we alone are wise ; the rest be fools.

CADMUS

Too long we linger. Come, grasp thou mine hand.

TEIRESIAS

Lo there : clasp close the interlinking hand.

CADMUS

Not I contemn the Gods, I, mortal-born !

TEIRESIAS

'Tis not for us to reason touching Gods.

200

Traditions of our fathers, old as time,

We hold : no reasoning shall cast them down,—

No, though of subtlest wit our wisdom spring.

Haply shall one say I respect not eld,

Who ivy-crowned address me to the dance.

Nay, for distinction none the God hath made

Whether the young or stricken in years must dance :

From all alike he claims his due of honour :

By halves he cares not to be magnified.

CADMUS

Since thou, Teiresias, seest not this light,

210

I will for thee be spokesman of thy words.

Lo to these halls comes Pentheus hastily,

Echion's son, to whom I gave the throne. [tell ?

How wild his mood ! What strange thing will he

Enter PENTHEUS.

PENTHEUS

It chanced that, sojourning without this land,

I heard of strange misdeeds in this my town,

How from their homes our women have gone forth

Feigning a Bacchic rapture, and rove wild

O'er wooded hills, in dances honouring

Dionysus, this new God—whoe'er he be.

THE BACCHANALS

And midst each revel-rout the wine-bowls stand
Brimmed : and to lonely nooks, some here, some there,
They steal, to work with men the deed of shame,
In pretext Maenad priestesses, forsooth,
But honouring Aphrodite more than Bacchus.
As many as I have seized my servants keep Safe in the common prison manacled.
But those yet forth, will I hunt from the hills—
Ino, Agave, who bare me to Echion,
Autonoe withal, Actaeon's mother.

In toils of iron trapped, full soon shall they Cease from this pestilent Bacchic revelling.
Men say a stranger to the land hath come,
A juggling sorcerer from Lydia-land,
With essenced hair in golden tresses tossed,
Wine-flushed, Love's witching graces in his eyes,
Who with the damsels day and night consorts,
Making pretence of Evian mysteries.

If I within these walls but prison him,
Farewell to thyrsus-taboring, and to locks
Free-tossed ; for neck from shoulders will I hew.
He saith that Dionysus is a God !

240

Saith, he was once sewn up in Zeus's thigh—
Who, with his mother, was by lightning-flames
Blasted, because she lied of Zeus's love.
Is not this worthy hanging's ruthless doom,
Thus to blaspheme, whoe'er the stranger be ?

But lo, another marvel this—the seer
Teiresias, in dappled fawnskins clad !
Yea, and my mother's sire—O sight for laughter !— 250
Tossing the reed-wand ! Father, I take shame

THE BACCHANALS

Beholding these grey hairs so sense-bereft.
Fling off the ivy ; let the thyrsus fall,
And set thine hand free, O my mother's sire.
Thou didst, Teiresias, draw him on to this :
'Tis thou wouldest foist this new God upon men
For augury and divination's wage !
Except thine hoary hairs protected thee,
Thou shouldst amid the Bacchanals sit in chains,
For bringing in these pestilent rites ; for when 260
In women's feasts the cluster's pride hath part,
No good, say I, comes of their revelry.

CHORUS

Blasphemy !—Stranger, dost not reverence heaven,
Nor Cadmus, sower of the earth-born seed ?
Son of Echion, thou dost shame thy birth !

TEIRESIAS

Whene'er a wise man finds a noble theme
For speech, 'tis easy to be eloquent.
Thou—roundly runs thy tongue, as thou wert wise ;
But in these words of thine sense is there none.
The rash man, armed with power and ready of speech, 270
Is a bad citizen, as void of sense.

But this new God, whom thou dost laugh to scorn,

I cannot speak the greatness whereunto
In Hellas he shall rise. Two chiefest Powers,
Prince, among men there are : divine Demeter—
Earth is she, name her by which name thou wilt ;—
She upon dry food nurturèth mortal men :
Then followeth Semele's Son ; to match her gift
The cluster's flowing draught he found, and gave
To mortals, which gives rest from grief to men 280
Woe-worn, soon as the vine's stream filleth them.

THE BACCHANALS

And sleep, the oblivion of our daily ills,
He gives—there is none other balm for toils.
He is the Gods' libation, though a God,
So that through him do men obtain good things.

And dost thou mock him, as in Zeus's thigh
Sewn? I will show thee all the legend's beauty :
When Zeus had snatched him from the levin-fire,
And bare the babe to Olympus, Hera then
Fain would have cast his godhead out of heaven. 290
Zeus with a God's wit framed his counterplot.
A fragment from the earth-enfolding ether
He brake, and wrought to a hostage,¹ setting so
Dionysus safe from Hera's spite. In time
Men told how he was nursed in Zeus's thigh.
Changing the name, they wrought a myth thereof,
Because the God was hostage once to Hera.

A prophet is this God : the Bacchic frenzy
And ecstasy are full-fraught with prophecy :
For, in his fullness when he floods our frame, 300
He makes his maddened votaries tell the future.
Somewhat of Ares' dues he shares withal :
Hosts harness-clad, in ranks arrayed, sometimes
Are thrilled with panic ere a spear be touched ;
This too is a frenzy Dionysus sends.
Yet shalt thou see him even on Delphi's crags
With pine-brands leaping o'er the cloven crest,
Tossing on high and waving Bacchus' bough,— Yea, great through Hellas. Pentheus, heed thou me :

THE BACCHANALS

Boast not that naked force hath power o'er men ; 310
Nor, if it seem so to thy jaundiced eye,
Deem thyself wise. The God into thy land
Welcome : spill wine, be bacchant, wreathè thine head.

Dionysus upon women will not thrust
Chastity : in true womanhood inborn
Dwells temperance touching all things evermore.
This must thou heed ; for in his Bacchic rites
The virtuous-hearted shall not be undone.

Lo, thou art glad when thousands throng thy gates,
And all Thebes magnifieth Pentheus' name : 320
He too, I wot, in homage taketh joy.
I, then, and Cadmus, whom thou laugh'st to scorn,
Will wreathè our heads with ivy, and will dance—
A greybeard pair, yet cannot we but dancè.
Not at thy suasion will I war with Gods.
Most grievous is thy madness, and no spell
May medicine thee, though spells have made thee mad.

CHORUS

Old sire, thou sham'st not Phoebus in thy speech,
And wisely honourest Bromius, mighty God.

CADMUS

My son, well hath Teiresias counselled thee. 330
Dwell with us, not without the pale of wont.
Thou'rt now in cloudland : naught thy wisdom is :
For, though this God were no God,—as thou sayest,—
God be he called of thee : in glorious fraud
Be Semele famed as mother of a God :
So upon all our house shall honour rest.

Rememberest thou Actaeon's wretched doom,
Whom the raw-ravelling hounds himself had reared
Rent limb from limb in the meads, for that high boast

THE BACCHANALS

That Artemis in hunting he excelled?
Lest such be thy fate, let me crown thine head
With ivy : honour thou with us the God.

PENTHEUS

Hence with thine hand ! Go, play the Bacchant thou,
Neither besmirch me with thy folly's stain.
This seer, thy monitor in senselessness,
Will I chastise. Let someone go with speed—
(To an attendant) Thou, hie thee to his seat of augury ;
Upheave with levers, hurl it to the ground ;
All in confusion turn it upside down ;
His holy fillets fling to wind and storm :
For, doing so, I most shall wring his heart
Some—ye, range through the city, and track down
That girl-faced stranger, who upon our wives
Bringeth strange madness, and defiles our beds.
And if ye catch him, hale him bound with chains
Hither, that death by stoning be his meed,
And so he rue his revelry in Thebes.

TEIRESIAS

Ah wretch, thou knowest not what thou hast said !
Thou'rt stark-mad now, who erst wast sense-bereft.
Let us go, Cadmus, and make intercession
Both for this man, brute savage though he be,
And Thebes, that no strange vengeance of the God
Smite them. Come with me, ivy-wand in hand,
Essay to upbear my frame, as I do thine.
Shame if two greybeards fell !—nay, what of that ?
For Bacchus, Son of Zeus, we needs must serve.
Cadmus, beware lest Pentheus bring his echo,
Repentance, to thine house :—not prophecy here
Speaks, but his deeds. A fool, he speaketh folly.

THE BACCHANALS

CHORUS

O Sanctity, thou who dost bear dominion (Str. 1) 370

Over Gods, yet low as this earthly ground,

Unto usward, stopest thy golden pinion,—

Hear'st thou the words of the king, and the sound
Of his blast of defiance, of Pentheus assailing
The Clamour-king?—hear'st thou his blasphemous railing

On Semele's son, who is foremost found

Of the Blest in the festival beauty-crowned?—

Who hath for his own prerogative taken

To summon forth feet through his dances to leap,

When blent with the flutes light laughters awaken, 380

And the children of care have forgotten to weep,

Whensoever revealed is the cluster's splendour

In the banquet that men to the high Gods tender,

And o'er ivy-wreathed revellers drinking deep

The wine-bowl droppeth the mantle of sleep.

Of the reinless lips that will own no master, (Ant. 1)

Of the folly o'er law's pale stubborn to stray—

One is the end of them, even disaster;

But the calm life, still as a summer day,

But the foot whose faring discretion guideth, 390

Their steadfast state unshaken abideth,

And the home still findeth in such its stay.

Ah, the Heavenly Ones dwell far away,

Yet look they on men from their cloudy portals.

O, not with knowledge is Wisdom bought;

And the spirit that soareth too high for mortals

Shall see few days: whosoever hath caught

At the things too great for a man's attaining,

Even blessings assured shall he lose in the gaining.

THE BACCHANALS

Such paths as this, meseemeth, be sought 400
Of the witless folly that roves distraught.

(Str. 2)

O to flee hence unto where Aphrodite
Doth in Cyprus, the paradise-island, dwell,
The sea-ringed haunt of the Love-gods mighty
To weave the soul-enchanting spell,
Or the fields where untold is the harvest's gold,
Where the stream of the hundred mouths hath rolled,

Whereon rain never fell!

But O for the land that in beauty is peerless,¹
The Pierian haunt where the Muses sing ! 410
On Olympus the hallowed to stand all fearless
Thitherward lead me, O Clamour-king !
O Revel-god, guide where the Graces abide
And Desire,—where danceth, of no man denied,
The Bacchanal ring.

(Ant. 2)

Our God, the begotten of Zeus, hath pleasure
In the glee of the feast where his chalices shine ;
And Peace doth he love, who is giver of treasure,
Who of Youth is the nursing-mother divine. 420
On the high, on the low, doth his bounty bestow
The joyance that maketh an end of woe,
The joyance of wine.
But he hateth the man that in scorn refuseth
A life that on pinions of happiness flies
Through its days and its nights, nor the good part chooseth.

THE BACCHANALS

Hold thee apart : but the faith of the heart 430
Of the people, that lives in the works of the mart,
For me shall suffice.

Re-enter PENTHEUS. Enter SERVANT, with attendants, bringing DIONYSUS bound.

SERVANT

Pentheus, we come, who have run down this prey
For which thou sentest us, nor sped in vain.
This wild-beast found we tame : he darted not
In flight away, but yielded, nothing loth,
His hands, nor paled, nor changed his cheeks' rose-hue,
But smiling bade us bind and lead him thence,
And tarried, making easy this my task.

Then shamed I said, " Not, stranger, of my will,
But by commands of Pentheus, lead I thee."

The captured Bacchanals thou didst put in ward,
And in the common prison bind with chains,
Fled to the meadows are they, loosed from bonds,
And dance and call on Bromius the God.

The fetters from their feet self-sundered fell ;
Doors, without mortal hand, unbarred themselves.
Yea, fraught with many marvels this man came
To Thebes ! To thee the rest doth appertain.

PENTHEUS

Ye are mad ! Once in the toils of these mine hands,
He is not so fleet as to escape from me.

Ha ! of thy form thou art not ill-favoured, stranger,
For woman's tempting—even thy quest at Thebes.
No wrestler thou, as show thy flowing locks
Down thy cheeks floating, fraught with all desire ;
And white, from heedful tendance, is thy skin,
Smit by no sun-shafts, but made wan by shade,
While thou dost hunt desire with beauty's lure.

First, tell me of what nation sprung thou art.

Of flowery Tmolus haply thou hast heard.

PENTHEUS

I know : it compasseth the Sardians' town.

DIONYSUS

Thence am I : Lydia is my fatherland.

PENTHEUS

Wherefore to Hellas bringest thou these rites ?

DIONYSUS

Dionysus, Zeus' son, made me initiate,

PENTHEUS

Lives a Zeus there, who doth beget new gods ?

DIONYSUS

Nay, the same Zeus who wedded Semele here.

PENTHEUS

Dreaming or waking wast thou made his thrall ?

DIONYSUS

Nay, eye to eye his mysteries he bestowed. 470

PENTHEUS

Ay, of what fashion be these mysteries ?

DIONYSUS

'Tis secret, save to the initiate.

PENTHEUS

What profit bring they to his votaries ?

DIONYSUS

Thou mayst not hear : yet are they worth thy knowing.

PENTHEUS

Shrewd counterfeiting, to whet lust to hear !

DIONYSUS

His rites loathe him that worketh godlessness.

CHORUS

All hail, Achelōüs' Daughter,¹ (Str.)
Dirce the maiden, majestic and blest!—in thy cool-welling water

Thou receivedst in old time the offspring of Zeus
'neath thy silvery plashing,
When Zeus, who begat him, had snatched from the levin unquenchably flashing, [the Father cry,

And sealed up the babe in his thigh, and aloud did “Come ! into this, Dithyrambus, the womb of no mother, pass thou :—

By this name unto Thebes I proclaim thee, O God of the Bacchanals, now.”

Ah Dirce, thou thrustest me hence, when I bring thee the glorious vision

Of his garlanded revels!—now why am I scouted, disowned, and abhorred ?

THE BACCHANALS

Yet there cometh—I swear by the full-clustered grace of the vine Dionysian—

An hour when thine heart shall accept Dionysus, shall hail him thy lord.

Lo, his earth-born lineage bewrayeth (Ant.)
Pentheus; the taint of the blood of the dragon of old he betrayeth,

The serpent that came of the seed of the earth-born Titan Echion. [mortal's scion, 540]

It hath made him a grim-visaged monster, and not as a
Duke, that's full of jollity, and that is a knave.

But as that fell giant brood that in strife with immortals stood.

He is minded to fetter me, Bromius' handmaid,
with cords straightway : [revel this day,
He hath prisoned his palace within my companion in Dungeoned in gloom ! Son of Zeus, are his deeds of thine eye un beholden,

Dionysus?—thy prophets with tyranny wrestling in struggle and strain?

Sweep down the slope of Olympus, uptossing thy thyrsus golden : [refrain.]

Come to us, King, and the murderer's insolent fury
(Epode)

Ah, where dost thou linger on Nysa the mother of beasts of the wold,

Waving thy revellers on with thy wand, or where heavenward soar [fold

Crests of Corycia, or haply where far forest-solitudes
Round the flanks of Olympus, where Orpheus constrained by his minstrelsy-lore

Trees round him adoring to proccs, and the beasts

Trees round him adoring to press, and the beasts of the wilderness,
As he passed of yore?

On shall he haste over Lydias the river,
O'er the father of streams, the blessing-giver,
Whose waters fair, as the tale hath told,
O'er the land of the gallant war-steed rolled,
Spread fatness on every hand.

monument of Semele.)

CHORUS 6

Ha ! dost thou see not the wildfire enwreathed
Round the holy tomb—

Lo, dost thou mark it not well ?—
Which Semele thunder-blasted bequeathed,
Her memorial of doom

By the lightning from Zeus that fell ?
Fling to the earth, ye Maenads, fling
Your bodies that tremble with sore dismay !
For he cometh, our King, Zeus' scion, to bring Yon halls to confusion and disarray.

CHORUS fall on their faces. Enter DIONYSUS from the palace.

DIONYSUS

Ho, ye Asian women, are ye so distraught with sheer affright [meseems, the sight
That ye thus to earth be fallen ? Ye beheld,
When the house of Pentheus reeled as Bacchus shook it. Nay, upraise
From the earth your limbs, and banish from your

THE BACCHANALS

Flame-enwrapped, and hither, thither, rushed he, wildly bidding thralls [toiling there.
Bring the water. Now was every bondman vainly
Then he let this labour be, as deeming I had 'scaped
the snare : [his falchion fell.
Straight within the building rushed he, drawing forth
Then did Bromius, as to me it seemed—'tis but my thought I tell,— [thereon straightway,
Fashion in his halls a wraith : he hurled himself 620 Rushed, and stabbed the light-pervaded air, as thinking me to slay. [pride to pass ;
Then did Bacchus bring a new abasement of his
For he hurled to earth the building. There it lies,
a ruin-mass,— [with toil outworn,
Sight to make my bonds full bitter to him ! Now, Letting drop the sword, he falleth fainting. He,
the mortal-born, [passed I through,
Dare to brave a God to battle ! Then unhindered
Recking nought of Pentheus : so from forth his halls
I come to you. [fall's sound there is,—
But, methinks,—for there within the house a foot-
He shall straightway come without. Ha, what shall he say unto this ? [stress ;
Lightly shall I bear his bluster, whatsoe'er his fury's 640
For it is the wise man's part to rein his wrath in soberness.

Enter PENTHEUS. PENTHEUS

Foul outrage this !—the stranger hath escaped,
Though bound but now in fetters fast as fate.
Ha !

There is the man ! What means this ? How hast thou
Won forth to stand before my very halls ?

Stay there, and let thy fury softly tread.

Where most needs wisdom, therein am I wise.

But listen first to yon man, hear his tale

Who with some tidings from the mountains comes.

I will await thee: fear not lest I fly.

The glistering silver arrows of the snow.

I have seen wild Bacchanals, who from this land

Have darted forth with white feet, frenzy-stung.

THE BACCHANALS

I come, King, fain to tell to thee and Thebes
What strange, what passing wondrous deeds they do.
Yet would I hear if freely I may tell
Things there beheld, or reef my story's sail.
For; King, I fear thy spirit's hasty mood,
Thy passion and thine over-royal wrath.

PENTHEUS

Say on : of me shalt thou go all unscathed,
For we may not be wroth with honest men.
The direr sounds thy tale of the Bacchanals,
The sterner punishment will I inflict
On him who taught our dames this wickedness.

HERDMAN

Thine herds of pasturing kine were even now
Scaling the steep hillside, what time the sun
First darted forth his rays to warm the earth,
When lo, I see three Bacchant women-bands,—
Autonoë chief of one, of one thy mother
Agave, and the third band Ino led.
All sleeping lay, with bodies restful-strown ;
Some backward leaned on leafy sprays of pine,
Some, with oak-leaves for pillows, on the ground
Flung careless ;—modestly, not, as thou say'st,
Drunken with wine, amid the sighing of flutes
Hunting desire through woodland shades alone.
Then to her feet sprang in the Bacchanals' midst Thy mother, crying aloud, “ Shake from you sleep ! ”

When fell our horned kine's lowing on her ear.
They, dashing from their eyelids rosy sleep,
Sprang up,—strange, fair array of ordered ranks,—
Young wives, old matrons, maidens yet unwed.
First down their shoulders let they stream their hair :

THE BACCHANALS

Then looped they up their fawnskins,—they whose bands

Had fallen loose,—and girt the dappled fells [while.
Round them with snakes that licked their cheeks the
Some, cradling fawns or wolf-cubs in their arms,
Gave to the wild things of their own white milk,— 700
Young mothers they, who had left their babes, that still [heads

Their breasts were full. Then did they wreath their
With ivy, oak, and flower-starred briony.

One grasped her thyrsus-staff, and smote the rock,
And forth upleapt a fountain's showery spray :
One in earth's bosom planted her reed-wand,
And up therethrough the God a wine-fount sent :
And whoso fain would drink white-foaming draughts
Scarred with their finger-tips the breast of earth,
And milk gushed forth unstinted : dripped the while 710
Sweet streams of honey from their ivy-staves.

Hadst thou been there, thou hadst, beholding this,
With prayer approached the God whom now thou spurnest.

Then we, thine herdmen and thy shepherds, drew
Together, each with each to hold dispute
Touching their awful deeds and marvellous.
And one, a townward truant, ready of speech,
To all cried, "Dwellers on the terraces
Of hallowed mountains, will ye that we chase
From Bacchus' revel Agave, Pentheus' mother,
And do our lord a kindness?" Well, thought we,
He spake, and we in ambush hid ourselves
Mid leaves of copses. At the appointed time
They waved the thyrsus for the revel-rites,
With one voice calling Iacchus, Clamour-king,
Zeus' seed. The hills, the wild things all, were thrilled

THE BACCHANALS

With ecstasy : naught but shook as on they rushed.
Now nigh to me Agave chanced to leap,
And forth I sprang as who would seize on her,
Leaving the thicket of mine ambush void.

Then shouted she, " What ho, my fleetfoot hounds,
We are chased by these men ! Ho ye, follow me—
Follow, the thyrsus-javelins in your hands ! "

O then we fled, and fleeing scantily 'scaped
The Bacchanals' rending grasp. Down swooped they then

Upon our pasturing kine with swordless hand.
Then hadst thou seen thy mother with her hands
Rend a deep-udder'd heifer-bellowing loud :
And others tore the calves in crimson shreds.
Ribs hadst thou seen and cloven hoofs far hurled

740

This way and that, and flakes of flesh that hung
And dripped all blood-bedabbled 'neath the pines.

Bulls chafing, lowering fiercely along the horn
Erewhile, were tripped and hurled unto the earth,
Dragged down by countless-clutching maiden hands.
More swiftly was the flesh that lapped their bones
Stripped, than thou couldst have closed thy kingly eyes.

On swept they, racing like to soaring birds ;
To lowland plains which by Asopus' streams
Bear the rich harvests of the Theban folk :
Hysiae, Erythrae, 'neath Cithaeron's scaur
Low-nestling,—swooping on them like to foes,
This way and that way hurled they all their goods,
Yea, from the houses caught they up the babes :
These, and all things laid on their shoulders, clung
Unfastened ; nothing to the dark earth fell,
Nor brass nor iron ; and upon their hair

They carried fire unscorched. The folk, in wrath
To be by Bacchanals pillaged, rushed to arms :
Whereupon, King, was this strange sight to see :— 760

From them the steel-tipt javelin drew not blood,
But they from their hands darting thyrsus-staves
Dealt wound on wound; and they, the women, turned
To fight men, for some God's hand wrought therein.
Then drew they back to whence their feet had come,
To those same founts the God sent up for them,
And washed the gore, while from their cheeks the snakes

Were licking with their tongues the blood-gouts clean.

Wherefore, whoe'er this God be, O my lord,
Receive him in this city ; for, beside 770
His other might, they tell of him, I hear,
That he gave men the grief-assuaging vine.
When wine is no more found, then Love is not,
Nor any joy beside is left to men.

CHORUS

Words wherein freedom rings I dread to speak
Before the King ; yet shall my thought be voiced :
Dionysus is not less than any God.

PENTHEUS

Lo, it is on us, kindling like a flame,
The Bacchanal outrage, our reproach through Greece !

We may not dally :—to Electra's gate 780
Go thou ; bid all my warriors that bear shield
To meet me, and all riders of fleet steeds,
And all that shake the buckler, all who twang
The bowstring ; for against the Bacchanals
Forth will we march. Yea, this should pass all bounds,
To endure of women that we now endure !

Wherefore? From man shall I to woman turn?

DIONYSUS

Lest they should kill thee, seeing thee there as man.

PENTHEUS

Well said—yea, shrewd hast thou been heretofore.

DIONYSUS

Such science Dionysus taught to me.

PENTHEUS

How then shall thy fair rede become mine act?

DIONYSUS

I will into thine halls, and robe thee there.

PENTHEUS

What robe? A woman's?—nay, but I think shame.

DIONYSUS

Is thy desire to watch the Maenads dead?

PENTHEUS

In what garb, say'st thou, wouldst thou drape my form? 830

DIONYSUS

Thine head with flowing tresses will I tire.

PENTHEUS

And the next fashion of my vesture—what?

DIONYSUS

Long robes: and on thine head a coif shall be.

PENTHEUS

Naught else but these wouldst thou add unto me?

DIONYSUS

Thyrsus in hand, and dappled fell of fawn.

PENTHEUS

I cannot drape me in a woman's robe!

DIONYSUS

Then fight the Maenads—spill thy people's blood.

PENTHEUS

Ay, true :—first must I go and spy them out.

DIONYSUS

Sooth, wiser so than hunt thee ills with ills.

PENTHEUS

Yet, how through Cadmus' city pass unseen ?

840

DIONYSUS

By lone paths will we go. Myself will guide.

PENTHEUS

Better were anything than Bacchants' mock !

We will pass in . . . what fits will I devise.

DIONYSUS

So be it : Howe'er thou choose, mine help thou hast.

PENTHEUS

I go . . . I shall march haply sword in hand,

Or—or—do haply as thou counsellest. [Exit.]

DIONYSUS

Women, the man sets foot within the toils.

The Bacchants—and death's penalty—shall he find.

Dionysus, play thy part now ; thou art near :

Let us take vengeance. Craze thou first his brain, 850

Indarting sudden madness. Whole of wit,

Ne'er will he yield to don the woman's robe :

Yet shall he don, driven wide of reason's course

I long withal to make him Thebes' derision,

In woman-semblance led the city through,

After the erstwhile terrors of his threats.

I go, to lay on Pentheus the attire

Which he shall take with him to Hades, slain

By a mother's hands. And he shall know Zeus' son

Dionysus, who hath risen at last a God

860

Most terrible, yet kindest unto men. [Exit.]

THE BACCHANALS

CHORUS

Ah, shall my white feet in the dances gleam (Str.)
The livelong night again? Ah, shall I there
Float through the Bacchanal's ecstatic dream,
Tossing my neck into the dewy air?—

Like to a fawn that gambols mid delight
Of pastures green, when she hath left behind
The chasing horror, and hath sped her flight
Past watchers, o'er nets deadly-deftly twined,

Though shouting huntsmen cheer the racing hounds 870
Onward, the while with desperate stress and strain
And bursts of tempest-footed speed she bounds
Far over reaches of the river-plain,

Till sheltering arms of trees around her close,
The twilight of the tresses of the woods;—
O happy ransomed one, safe hid from foes
Where no man tracks the forest-solitudes!

What wisdom's crown, what guerdon, shines more glorious
That Gods can give the sons of men, than this—
O'er crests of foes to stretch the hand victorious? 880
Glory is crown and sum of human bliss!

Slowly on-sweepeth, but unerringly, (Ant.)
The might of Heaven, with sternest lessoning
For men who in their own mad fantasy
Exalt their unbelief, and crown it king—

Mortals who dare belittle things divine!
Ah, but the Gods in subtle ambush wait:
On treads the foot of time; but their design
Is unrelinquished, and the ruthless fate;

Hath gathered sanction by our nature's bent.

PENTHEUS

Aha ! meseemeth I behold two suns,
A twofold Thebes, our seven-gated burg !
A bull thou seem'st that leadeth on before ; 920
And horns upon thine head have sprouted forth.
How, wast thou brute ?—bull art thou verily now !

DIONYSUS

The God attends us, gracious not ere this,
Leagued with us now : now seest thou as thou shouldst.

PENTHEUS

Whose semblance bear I ? Have I not the mien
Of Ino, or my mother Agave's port ?

DIONYSUS

Their very selves I seem to see in thee.
Yet, what ?—this tress hath from his place escaped,
Not as I braided it beneath the coif.

PENTHEUS

Tossing it forth and back within, in whirls 930
Of Bacchic frenzy, I disordered it.

DIONYSUS

Nay, I, who have taken thy tire-maiden's part,
Will rearrange it. Come, hold up thine head.

PENTHEUS

Lo there—thou lay it smooth : I am in thine hands.

DIONYSUS

Now is thy girdle loose ; thy garment's folds
Droop not below thine ankles evenly.

PENTHEUS

Yea, by my right foot so, meseems, it is.
To left, true by the sinew hangs the robe.

When sight of sober Bacchants cheats thine hopes. 940

Was warped; but now 'tis even as befits.

PENTHEUS

With arm or shoulder thrust beneath its crests? 950

DIONYSUS

Now nay—the shrines of Nymphs destroy not thou,
And haunts of Pan that with his piping ring.

PENTHEUS

True—true: we must not overcome by force
The women. I will hide me midst the pines.

DIONYSUS

Hide?—thou shalt hide as Fate ordains thine hiding,
Who com'st with guile, a spy on Bacchanals.

PENTHEUS

Methinks I see them mid the copses caught,
Like birds, in toils of their sweet dalliance.

¹ Among signs of incipient madness is a failure to discriminate resistance, so that the patient, while raising slight weights (here, the thrysus), imagines himself to be putting forth strength enough to raise enormous ones.

“ Who hath come hither, hath trodden the paths to the mountain that lead,
Spying on Cadmus's daughters, the maids o'er the mountains that speed,
Bacchanal-sisters ?—what mother hath brought to the birth such a seed ?

Who was it ?—who ?—for I ween he was born not of womankind's blood : [of the wood ;
Rather he sprang from the womb of a lioness, scourge
Haply is spawn of the Gorgons of Libya, the demonbrood.”

CHORUS

Dionysus it is, 'tis the King of the Vine
That hath lordship o'er me, no Thebes of thine !

MESSENGER

This might be pardoned, save that base it is,
Women, to joy o'er evils past recall.

1040

CHORUS

Tell to me, tell,—by what doom died he,
The villain devising villainy ?

MESSENGER

When, from the homesteads of this Theban land
Departing, we had crossed Asopus' streams,
Then we began to breast Cithaeron's steep,
Pentheus and I,—for to my lord I clave,—
And he who ushered us unto the scene.
First in a grassy dell we sat us down
With footfall hushed and tongues refrained from speech,
That so we might behold, all unbeheld.

1050

There was a glen crag-walled, with rills o'erstreamed,
Closed in with pine-shade, where the Maenad girls
Sat with hands busied with their gladsome toils.
The faded thyrsus some with ivy-sprays
Twined, till its tendril-tresses waved again :
Some, blithe as colts from carven wain-yokes loosed,
Re-echoed each to each the Bacchic chant.
But hapless Pentheus, seeing not the throng
Of women, spake thus : " Stranger, where we stand,
Are these mock-maenad maids beyond my ken.
Some knoll or pine high-crested let me climb,
And I shall see the Maenads' lewdness well."
A marvel then I saw the stranger do :
A soaring pine-shaft by the top he caught,

THE BACCHANALS

And dragged down—down—still down to the dark earth.

Arched as a bow it grew, or curving wheel
That on the lathe sweeps out its circle's round :
So bowed the stranger's hands that mountain-stem,
And bent to earth—a deed past mortal might !

Then Pentheus on the pine boughs seated he 1070
And let the trunk rise, sliding through his hands
Gently, with heedful eare to unseat him not.
Far up into the heights of air it soared,
Bearing my master throned upon its crest,
More by the Maenads seen than seeing them.

For scarce high-lifted was he manifest,
When lo, the stranger might no more be seen ;
And fell from heaven a voice—the voice, most like,
Of Dionysus,—crying, “ O ye maids,
I bring him who would mock at you and me, 1080
And at my rites. Take vengeance on him ye ! ”
Even as he cried, up heavenward, down to earth,
He flashed a pillar-splendour of awful flame.
Hushed was the welkin ; all the forest-glade
Held hushed its leaves ; no wild thing's cry was heard.
But they, whose ears not clearly caught the sound,
Sprang up, and shot keen glances right and left.

Again he cried his hest : then Cadmus' daughters
Knew certainly the Bacchic God's command,
And darted : and the swiftness of their feet 1090
Was as of doves in onward-straining race—
His mother Agave and her sisters twain,
And all the Bacchanals. Through torrent gorge,
O'er boulders, leapt they, with the God's breath mad.
When seated on the pine they saw my lord,
First torrent-stones with might and main they hurled,

THE BACCHANALS

Scaling a rock, their counter-bastion,
And javelined him with branches of the pine :
And others shot their thyrsi through the air
At Pentheus—woeful mark !—yet nought availed. 1100
For, at a height above their fury's pitch,
Trapped in despair's gin, horror-struck he sat.
Last, oak-limbs from their trunks they thundered down,
And heaved at the roots with levers—not of iron.
But when they won no end of toil and strain,
Agave cried, “ Ho, stand we round the trunk,
Maenads, and grasp, that we may catch the beast
Crouched there, that he may not proclaim abroad
Our God's mysterious rites ! ” Their countless hands
Set they unto the pine, tore from the soil :— 1110
And he, high-seated, crashed down from his height ;
And earthward fell with frenzy of shriek on shriek
Pentheus, for now he knew his doom at hand.
His mother first, priest-like, began the slaughter,
And fell on him : but from his hair the coif
He tore, that she might know and slay him not,— Hapless Agave !—and he touched her cheek,
Crying, “ 'Tis I, O mother !—thine own son
Pentheus—thou bar' st me in Echion's halls !
Have mercy, O my mother !—for my sin 1120
Murder not thou thy son—thy very son ! ”
But she, with foaming lips and eyes that rolled Wildly, and reckless madness-clouded soul,
Possessed of Bacchus, gave no heed to him ;
But his left arm she clutched in both her hands,
And set against the wretch's ribs her foot,
And tore his shoulder out—not by her strength,
But the God made it easy to her hands.

THE BACCHANALS

And Ino laboured on the other side,
Rending his flesh : Autonoë pressed on—all 1130
The Bacchanal throng. One awful blended cry
Rose—the king's screams while life was yet in him,
And triumph-yells from them. One bare an arm,
One a foot sandal-shod. His ribs were stripped
In mangled shreds : with blood-bedabbled hands
Each to and fro was tossing Pentheus' flesh.

Wide-sundered lies his corse : part 'neath rough rocks,
Part mid the tangled depths of forest-shades :—
Hard were the search. His miserable head,
Which in her hands his mother chanced to seize,
Impaled upon her thyrsus-point she bears,
Like mountain-lion's, through Cithaeron's midst,
Leaving her sisters in their Maenad dance ;
And, in her ghastly quarry glorying, comes
Within these walls, to Bacchus crying aloud,
Her fellow-hunter, helper in the chase
Triumphant—all its triumph-prize is tears !
But from this sight of misery will I
Depart, or ever Agave reach the halls.
Ay, self-restraint, and reverence for the Gods
Are best, I ween ; 'tis wisest far for men
To get these in possession, and cleave thereto. [Exit.]

CHORUS

Raise we to Bacchus the choral acclaim,
Shout we aloud for the fall
Of the king, of the blood of the Serpent who came,
Who arrayed him in woman's pall ;
And the thyrsus-ferule he grasped—but the same
Sealed him to Hades' hall :
And a bull was his guide to a doom of shame !

That to the triglyphs he may nail this head,
This lion's head that I from hunting bring.

Enter CADMUS, with attendants carrying a bier.

CADMUS

Come with me, henchmen, to the palace come,
Bearing this ghastly load that once was Pentheus,
Whose limbs by toilsome searchings manifold,
About Cithaeron's glens all rent apart
I found, and bring—no twain in one place found, 1220
But lying all about the trackless wood.
For of my daughters' desperate deeds I heard,
Even as I passed within the city-walls
With old Teiresias from the Bacchant revel.
Back to the mountain turned I ; and I bring
My son thence, who by Maenads hath been slain.
There her who bore Actaeon to Aristaeus
I saw, Autonoë, saw Ino there
Still midst the oak-groves, wretches frenzy-stung ;
But hitherward, said one, with Bacchant feet 1230
Had passed Agave, and the truth I heard ;
For I behold her—sight of misery !

AGAVE

My father, proudest boast is thine to make,
To have begotten daughters best by far
Of mortals—all thy daughters, chiefly me,
Me who left loom and shuttle, and pressed on
To high emprise, to hunt beasts with mine hands.
And in mine arms I bring, thou seëst, this
The prize I took, against thy palace-wall
To hang : receive it, father, in thine hands. 1240
And now, triumphant in mine hunting's spoil,

THE BACCHANALS

Bid to a feast thy friends ; for blest art thou,
Blest verily, since we have achieved such deeds.

CADMUS

O anguish measureless that blasts the sight !
O murder compassed by those wretched hands !
Fair victim this to cast before the Gods,
And bid to such a banquet Thebes and me !
Woe for our sorrows !—first for thine, then mine !
How hath the God, King Bromius, ruined us !—
Just stroke—yet ruthless—is he not our kin ?

AGAVE

How sour of mood is greybeard eld in men,
How sullen-eyed ! Framed in his mother's mould
A mighty hunter may my son become,
When with the Theban youths he speedeth forth
Questing the quarry ! But he ean do naught
Save war with Gods ! Father, thy part it is To warn him. Who will call him hitherward
To see me, and behold mine happiness ?

CADMUS

Alas ! when ye are ware what ye have done,
With sore grief shall ye grieve ! If to life's end 1260
Ye should in this delusion still abide,
Ye should not, though unblest, seem all accurst.

AGAVE

What is not well here ?—what that calls for grief ?

CADMUS

First cast thou up thine eye to yonder heaven.

AGAVE

Lo, so I do. Why bid me look thereon ?

CADMUS

Here do I bear it, by hard searching found.

AGAVE

Is it all meetly fitted limb to limb?

1300

CADMUS

[Yea,—now I add thereto this dear-loved head.]

AGAVE

But—in my folly what was Pentheus' part?

CADMUS

He was as ye, revering not the God,
Who therefore in one mischief whelmed you all,
You, and this prince, so ruining all our house
And me, who had no manchild of mine own.
Who see now, wretched daughter, this the fruit
Of thy womb horribly and foully slain.

To thee our house looked up, O son, the stay
Of mine old halls; my daughter's offspring thou,
Thou wast the city's dread: was none dared mock
The old man, none that turned his eyes on thee,
O gallant head!—thou hadst well requited him.

Now from mine halls shall I in shame be cast—
Cadmus the great, who sowed the seed of Thebes,
And reaped the goodliest harvest of the world.
O best-beloved!—for, though thou be no more,
Thou shalt be counted best-beloved, O child,
Thou who shalt fondle never more my head,
Nor clasp and call me “Mother's father,” child, Crying, “Who wrongs thee, ancient?—flouts thee who?”

1320

Who vexeth thee to trouble thine heart's peace?
Speak, that I may chastise the wrong, my sire.”
Now am I anguish-stricken, wretched thou,
Woeful thy mother, and her sisters wretched!

When man, embruted shall to a snake be changed.
Thou with thy wife shalt drive a wain of steers
Leading barbaric hordes, Zeus' oracle saith,
And many a city with thy countless host
Shalt sack ; but when they plunder Loxias' shrine,
Then shall they get them bitter home-return.
Thee and Harmonia shall Ares save,
And establish in the Blessed Land your lives.

APPENDIX TO THE "BACCHANALS."

A FEW fragments, given below, of the lost portion of the Bacchae have been collected, chiefly from the Christus Patiens, "a wretchedly stupid drama, falsely attributed to Gregory Nazianzenus, giving an account of the circumstances connected with the Passion of Christ, and consisting of a cento of verses taken chiefly from the Bacchae, Rheus, and Troades" (Tyrrell, Introduction to his edition of the Bacchae).

The lines marked A. may be taken as from the speech of Agave; those marked D., as from that of Dionysus.

A. To find a doom of rending midst the rocks

What corpse is this that in mine arms I clasp?
How shall I press him—woe's me!—tenderly
Unto my breast?—in what wise wail o'er him?

For, had mine hands received not mine own curse²

To rend to utter fragments every limb

Kissing the shreds of flesh which once I nursed

Come, ancient, this thrice-hapless sufferer's head
Compose we reverently, and all the frame
Lay we together, far as in us lies.

O best-beloved face, O youthful cheek
Lo, with this vesture do I veil thine head,
And these thy blood-bedabbled, furrow-scarred
Limbs

Whose is the mantle that shall shroud thy form
Ah, whose the hands that now shall tend thee, son?

APPENDIX

D. He dared the chain, he dared the scoffing word . . .
They which should have been last to slay him, slew . . .
All this hath you man suffered righteously.
Yea, and the nation's doom I will not hide—
To leave you town, a sign to alien men,
To pass to many cities wandering,
Dragging a yoke of thraldom woefully,
War-captives, draining misery's cup to the dregs
Yea, they must leave this city, expiate
The impious pollution of his murder,
And see no more their own land—God forbid
That murderers by their victims' graves should lie !
All woes thou too must suffer will I tell.

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

ARGUMENT

Hercules was hated from his birth by Hera, and by her devices was made subject to Eurystheus, king of Argos. At his command he performed the great Twelve Labours, whereof the last was that he should bring up Cerberus, the Hound of Hades, from the Underworld. Ere he departed, he committed Amphitryon his father, with Megara his wife, and his sons, to the keeping of Creon, king of Thebes, and so went down into the Land of Darkness. Now when he was long time absent, so that men doubted whether he would ever return, a man of Euboea, named Lycus, was brought into Thebes by evil-hearted and discontented men, and with these conspired against Creon, and slew him, and reigned in his stead. Then he sought further to slay all that remained of the house of Hercules, lest any should in days to come avenge Creon's murder. So these, in their sore strait, took refuge at the altar of Zeus. And herein is told how, even as they stood under the shadow of death, Hercules returned for their deliverance, and how in the midst of that joy and triumph a yet worse calamity was brought upon them by the malice of Hera.

*AMPHITRYON, MEGARA, and her three Sons by Hercules,

AMPHITRYON

Who knows not Zeus's couch-mate, who of men,
Argive Amphitryon, sprung from Perseus' son
Alcaeus, father of great Hercules?
Here in Thebes dwelt he, whence the earth-born crop

Of Sown Men rose, scant remnant of whose race
The War-god spared to people Cadmus' town
With children of their children. Sprang from these Creon, Menoeceus' son, king of this land,
Creon, the father of this Megara,

Whose spousals all the sons of Cadmus once 10
Acclaimed with flutes, what time unto mine halls
Glorious Hercules brought home his bride.

But Thebes, wherein I dwelt, and Megara,
And all his marriage-kin, my son forsook,
Yearning for Argos' giant-builded burg
Mycenae, whence I am outlawed, since I slew
Electryon : he, to lighten mine affliction,
And fain to dwell in his own fatherland,
Proffered Eurystheus for our home-return—
Or spurred by Hera's goads, or drawn by fate— 20
A great price, even to rid the earth of pests.
And, all the other labours now achieved,

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

For the last, down the gorge of Taenarus
He hath passed to Hades, to bring up to light
The hound three-headed, whence he hath not returned.

Now an old legend lives mid Cadmus' sons
That erstwhile was one Lyceus Dirce's spouse,
And of this seven-gated city king,
Ere Zethus and Amphion ruled the land,
Lords of the White Steeds, sprung from loins of Zeus. 30
And this man's son, who bears his father's name,—
No Theban, an Euboean outlander,—
Fell on the city by sedition rent,
Slew Creon, and having slain him rules the land.
And mine affinity with Creon knit
Is turned to mighty evil, well I wot.
For while my son is in the earth's dark heart,
This upstart Lyceus, ruler of the land,
Would fain destroy the sons of Hercules,
And slay, with blood to smother blood, his wife 40
And me,—if I be reckoned among men,
A useless greybeard,—lest these, growni to man,
Take vengeance for their mother's father's blood.

And I—for my son left me in his halls
To ward his sons and foster them, when he
Into the earth's black nether darkness passed—
Here with their mother sit, that Hercules' sons
May die not, at the altar of Saviour Zeus,
Which, in thanksgiving for the victory won
O'er Minyan foes, mine hero-scion reared. 50
And, lacking all things, raiment, meat, and drink,
Here keep we session, on the bare hard ground
Laying our limbs; for desperate of life
Here sit we, barred from homes whose doors are sealed.

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

And of friends some, I note, are insincere,
Some, friends in truth, are helpless for our aid :
Such evil is misfortune unto men ;
'Tis friendship's sternest test : may it never come
To friend of mine, how faint soe'er his love !

MEGARA

Ancient, who once didst smite the Taphians' burg, 60
Captaining gloriously the Theban spears,
How are God's ways with men past finding out !
Not Fortune's outcast was I through my sire :
So prospered he, all men acclaimed him great :
Kingship he had—that thing for lust whereof
Long lances leap against men fortune-throned :
Children had he ; me to thy son he gave,
In glorious spousal joined with Hercules.
Now is all dead—on vanished pinions flown !
Now, ancient, thou and I are marked for death, 70
With Hercules' children, whom, as 'neath her wings
A bird her fledglings gathereth, so I keep.
And this one, that one falls to questioning still—
"Mother, in what land stays our father ?—tell.
What doth he? When comes?" In child-ignorance
They seek their sire : and still I put them by
With fables feigned ; yet wondering start, whene'er
A door sounds ; and all leap unto their feet,
Looking to cling about their father's knees.

What hope or path of safety, ancient, now 80
Canst thou devise ?—for unto thee I look.
We cannot quit the land's bounds unperceived,
For at all outlets guards too strong are set :
Nor linger hopes of safety any more.
In friends. What counsel then thou hast soe'er,

AMPHITRYON

Daughter, a fair-wind course may yet befall
From storms of present ills for thee and me.

Yet may he come—my son, thy lord, may come.

Nay, calm thee : stop the fountains welling tears
Of these thy sons, and soothe them with thy words,

Cheating them with a fable—piteous cheat! 100

Sooth, men's afflictions weary of their work,
And tempest-blasts not alway keep their force ;

Nor prosperous to the end the prosperous are ;
For all things fleet and yield each other place.

He is the hero, who in steadfast hope
Trusts on : despair is but the coward's part.

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

Bowed o'er my propping staff—a chanter I
Whose song rings sorrow round— 110

Like some hoar swan I come—a voice, no more,
Like to a night-dream's phantom-show,
Palsied with eld, yet loyal as of yore
To friends of long ago.

Hail, children fatherless! Hail, ancient, thou!
Hail, mother bowed 'neath sorrow's load,
Who mournest for thy lord long absent now
In the Unseen King's abode!

Let feet not faint, nor let the tired limbs trail (Ant.)
Heavy, as when uphillward strain,
Trampling the stones, a young steed's feet that hale
The massy four-wheel wain. 120

Lay hold on helping hand, on vesture's fold,
Whoso hath failing feet that grope
Blindly: thy brother, ancient, thou uphold
Up this steep temple-slope,

Thy friend, who once mid toils of battle-peers
Shoulder to shoulder, did not shame—
When thou and he were young, when clashed the spears,—
His country's glorious name.

Mark ye how dragon-like glaring (Epoede.) 130
As the eyes of the sire whom we knew
Are the eyes of the sons!—and unsparing
His hard lot followeth too
His sons! and the kingly mien
Of the sire in the children is seen.

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

O Hellas, if thou uncaring
Beholdest them slain, what a band
Of champions is lost to our land !

But lo, the ruler of this realm I see,
Lycus, unto these mansions drawing nigh.

Enter LYCUS.

LYCUS

Thee, sire of Hercules, and thee, his wife, 140
I ask—if ask I may :—I may, I trow,
Who am your lord, make question as I will :—
How long seek ye to lengthen out your lives ?
What hope expect ye or help from imminent death ?
Trust ye that he, the sire of these, who lies
In Hades, yet shall come ? How basely ye
Upraise a mourning that ye needs must die ! —
Thou, who through Hellas scatteredst empty vaunts
That Zeus was co-begetter of sons with thee,
And thou, that thou wast named a hero's wife ! 150
What mighty exploit by thy lord was wrought
In that he killed a hydra of the fen,
Or that Nemean lion ?—which he snared,
Yet saith he slew with grip of strangling arms !
By these deeds would ye triumph ?—for their sake
Must they die not, these sons of Hercules ?
That thing of naught, who won him valour's name
Battling with beasts, a craven in all else,
Who never to his left arm clasped the shield,
Nor within spear-thrust came ; but with his bow, 160
The dastard's tool, was ever at point to flee !
Bows be no test of manhood's valiancy :

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

Who bideth steadfast in the ranks, calm-eyed,
Facing the spear's swift furrow—a man is he !
Greybeard, no ruthlessness hath this my part,
But heedfulness : well know I that I slew
Creon, this woman's sire, and hold his throne.
Therefore I would not these should grow to man,
Left to avenge them on me for my deeds.

AMPHITRYON

For Zeus's part—his own son's birth let Zeus 170
Defend : but, Hercules, to me it falls
Pleading thy cause to show this fellow's folly :
I may not suffer thee to be defamed.
First, of that slander—for a slanderous lie,
Hercules, count I cowardice charged on thee,—
By the Gods' witness thee I clear of this :
To Zeus's thunder I appeal, to the ear
That bare the Hero against the earth-born brood,
The Giants, planting winged shafts in their ribs,
When with the Gods he sang the victory-chant. 180
Or thou to Pholoë go, most base of kings,
The four-foot monsters ask, the Centaur tribe,
Ask them whom they would count the bravest man.
Whom but my son ?—by thee named "hollow show" !
Ask Dirphys, Abas' land, which fostered thee ;
It should not praise thee :—place is none wherein
Thy land could witness to brave deed of thine !

And at the bow, the crown of wise inventions,
Thou sneerest !—now learn wisdom from my mouth :
The man-at-arms is bondsman to his arms, 190
And through his fellows, if their hearts wax faint,
Even through his neighbours' cowardice, he dies.
And, if he break his spear, he hath naught to ward

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

Death from himself, who hath but one defence.
But he whose hand is cunning with the bow,—
This first, and best,—lets fly unnumbered shafts,
Yet still hath store wherewith to avert the death.
Afar he stands, yet beats the foeman back,
And wounds with shafts unseen, watch as they will ; 200
Yet never bares his body to the foe,
But is safe-warded ; and in battle this
Is wisest policy, still to harm all foes
That beyond range shrink not, oneself unhurt.
These words have sense opposed full-face to thine
Touching the matter set at issue here.

But wherefore art thou fain to slay these boys ?
What have they done ? Herein I count thee wise,
That thou, thyself a dastard, fear'st the seed
Of heroes : yet hard fate is this for us,
If we shall for thy cowardice' sake be slain, 210
As thou by us thy betters shouldst have been,
If Zeus to us were righteously inclined.
Yet, if thy will be still to keep Thebes' crown,
Suffer us exiled to go forth the land ;
But do no violence, lest thou suffer it,
When God shall haply cause the wind to change.

Out on it !
O land of Cadmus,—for to thee I turn,
Over thee hurling mine upbraiding words,—
Hercules and his sons thus succourest thou,
Him who alone faced all the Minyan host, 220
And made the eyes of Thebes see freedom's dawn ?
Oh, shame on Hellas !—I will hold my peace
Never, who prove her ingrate to my son,— *
Her, whom behoved with fire, with spear, with shield

toils,

Repayment for his purging seas and lands.

Ah boys, such aid to you the Thebans' town

Nor Hellas brings ! To me, a strengthless friend,

Ye look, who am nothing but a voice's sound :

For vanished is the might I had of old,

230

Palsied with eld my limbs are, gone my strength.

Were I but young yet, master of my thews,

I had grasped a lance, this fellow's yellow hair

I had dashed with blood, and so before my spear

Far beyond Atlas' bounds the craven had fled !

CHORUS

Lo, cannot brave men find occasion still

For speech, how slow soe'er one be of tongue ?

LYCUS

Rail on at me with words up-piled as towers :

I will for words requite on thee ill deeds.

(To attendant) Ho ! bid my woodmen go—to Helicon these,

240

Those to Parnassus' folds, and hew them logs

Of oak ; and, when these into Thebes are brought,

On either side the altar billets pile,

And kindle ; so the bodies of all these

Roast ye, that they may know that not the dead

Ruleth the land, but now am I king here.

And ye old men which set yourselves against

My purpose, not for Hercules' sons alone

Shall ye make moan, but for your homes' affliction,

Fast as blows fall, and so shall not forget

250

That ye are bondslaves of my princely power.

CHORUS

O brood of Earth, whom Ares sowed of yore,

What time he stripped the dragon's ravening jaws,

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

Will ye not lift the props of your right hands,
Your staves, and dash with blood the impious head
Of yon man, who, though no Cadmeian he,
Base outland upstart, captains the Young Men?¹
Thou shalt not scatheless lord it over me !
Not that which I have gotten by toil of hand Shalt thou have ! Hence with curses whence thou cam'st !

260

There outrage ! Whilst I live thou ne'er shalt slay
Hercules' sons ! Not hidden in earth too deep
For help is he, though he hath left his babes.
Thou, ruin of this land, possessest her ;
And he, her saviour, faileth of his due !
Am I a busy meddler then, who aid
Dead friends in plight where friends are needed most ?

Ah right hand, how thou yearn'st to grip the spear,
But in thy weakness know'st thy yearning vain !
Else had I smitten thy taunt of bondslave dumb, 270
And we had ruled with honour this our Thebes
Wherein thou joyest ! A city plagued with strife
And evil counsels thinketh not aright ;
Else never had she gotten thee for lord.

MEGARA

Fathers, I thank you. Needs must friends be filled
With righteous indignation for friends' wrongs.
Yet for our sake through wrath against your lords
Suffer not scathe. Amphitryon, hearken thou
My counsel, if my words seem good to thee :
I love my sons,—how should I not love whom 280
I bare and toiled for ?—and to die I count
Fearful : yet—yet—against the inevitable

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

Who strives, I hold him but a foolish man.
Since we must needs die, better 'tis to die
Not with fire roasted, yielding laughter-scorn
To foes, an evil worse than death to me.
Great is our debt of honour to our house :—
Thou hast been crowned with glorious battle-fame ;
Thou canst not, must not, die a coward's death :
Nor any witness needs my glorious spouse 290
That he would not consent to save these sons
Stained with ill-fame : for fathers gently born
Are crushed beneath the load of children's shame.
My lord's example I cannot thrust from me.
Thine own hope—mark how lightly I esteem it :
Dost think, from the underworld thy son shall come ?
Ah, of the dead, who hath returned from Hades ?
Dost dream we might with words appease this wretch ?
Never !—of all foes, still beware the churl !
Yield, if thou must, to wise and high-bred foes ; 300
So thy submission may find chivalrous grace.
Even now methought, “ What if we asked for these
The boon of exile ? ”—nay, 'twere misery
To give them life with wretched penury linked.
For upon exile-friends the eyes of hosts
Look kindly, say they, one day and no more.
Face death with us : it waits thee in any wise.
Thy noble blood I challenge, ancient friend.
Whoso with eager struggling would writhe out
From fate's net, folly is his eagerness. 310
For doom's decree shall no man disannul.

CHORUS

Had any outraged thee while yet mine arms
Were strong, right quickly had he ceased therefrom ;

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

But now I am naught. 'Tis thine, Amphitryon, now
To search how thou shalt pierce misfortune's snares.

AMPHITRYON

Nor cowardice nor life-craving holds me back
From death : but for my son I fain would save
His sons—I covet things past hope, meseems.
Lo, here my throat is ready for thy sword,
For stabbing, murdering, hurling from the rock. 320
Yet grant us twain one grace, I pray thee, king :
Slay me and this poor mother ere the lads,
That—sight unhallowed—we see not the boys
Gasping out life, and calling on their mother
And grandsire : in all else thine eager will Work out ; for we have no defence from death.

MEGARA

And, I beseech, to this grace add a grace,
To be twice benefactor to us twain :—
Open yon doors ; let me array my sons
In death's attire,—for now are we shut out,— 330
Their one inheritance from their father's halls.

IYCUS

So be it : I bid my men throw wide the doors.
Pass in ; adorn you : I begrudge no robes.
But, when ye have cast the arraying round your limbs,
I come, to give you to the nether world. [Exit.

MEGARA

Children, attend your hapless mother's steps
To your sire's halls, where others' mastery holds
His substance, but his name yet lingereth ours.

[Exit with children.

AMPHITRYON

Zeus, for my couch-mate gained I thee in vain,
Named thee in vain co-father of my son. 340
Less than thou seemedst art thou friend to us !
Mortal, in worth thy godhead I outdo :
Hercules' sons have I abandoned not.
Cunning wast thou to steal unto my couch,—
To filch another's right none tendered thee,—
Yet know'st not how to save thy dear ones now !
Thine is unwisdom, or injustice thine. [Exit.]

CHORUS

*The Lay of the Labours of Hercules*¹

Hard on the paean triumphant-ringing (Str. 1)
Oft Phoebus outpealeth a mourning-song,
O'er the strings of his harp of the voice
sweet-singing 350
Sweeping the plectrum of gold along.
I also of him who hath passed to the places
Of underworld gloom—whether Zeus' Son's story, [praises—
Or Amphitryon's scion be theme of my
Sing : I am fain to uplift him before ye Wreathed with the Twelve Toils' garland of glory :
For the dead have a heritage, yea, have a crown,
Even deathless memorial of deeds of renown.

I. The Nemean Lion

In Zeus' glen first, in the Lion's lair,
He fought, and the terror was no more there ; 360
But the tawny beast's grim jaws were veiling
His golden head, and behind swept, trailing
Over his shoulders, its fell of hair.

II. The Centaurs

Then on the mountain-haunters raining (Ant. 1)
Far-flying arrows, his hand laid low
The tameless tribes of the Centaurs, straining
Against them of old that deadly bow.
Peneius is witness, the lovely-gliding,
And the fields unsown over plains wide-spreading,
And the hamlets in glens of Pelion hiding, 370
And on Homole's borders many a steading,
Whence poured they with ruining hoofs down-treading
Thessaly's harvests, for battle-brands
Tossing the mountain pines in their hands.

III. The Golden-horned Hind

And the Hind of the golden-autlered head,
And the dappled hide, which wont to spread
O'er the lands of the husbandmen stark desolation,
He slew it, and brought, for propitiation,
Unto Oenoë's Goddess, the Huntress dread.

IV. The Horses of Diomede

(Str. 2)

And on Diomede's chariot he rode, for he reined them, 380
By his bits overmastered, the stallions four
That had ravined at mangers of murder, and stained them
With revel of banquets of horror, when gore
From men's limbs dripped that their fierce teeth tore.

V. Cyenus the Robber

Over eddies of Hebrus silvery-coiling
He passed to the great work yet to be done,
In the tasks of the lord of Mycenae toiling ;
By the surf mid the Maliae reefs ever boiling,
And by founts of Anaurus, he journeyed on, 390
Till the shaft from his string did the death-challenge sing
Unto Cyenus the guest-slayer, Amphanae's king,
Who gave welcome to none.

VI. The Golden Apples

(Ant. 2)

To the Song-maids he came, to the Garden
enfolden
In glory of sunset, to pluck, where they grew
Mid the fruit-laden frondage the apples golden ;
And the flame-hued dragon, the warder that drew
All round it his terrible spires, he slew.

VII. Extirpation of Pirates

Through the rovers' gorges seaward-gazing 400
He sought ; and thereafter in peace might roam
All mariners plying the oars swift-racing.

VIII. The Pillars of Heaven

To the mansion of Atlas he came, and placing
His arms outstretched 'neath the sky's mid-dome,
By his might he upbore the firmament's floor,
And the palace with splendour of stars fretted o'er,
The Immortals' home.

(Str. 3)

On the Amazon hosts upon war-steeds riding
By the shores of Maeotis, the river-meads green,
He fell ; for the surges of Euxine he cleft. 410
What brother in arms was in Hellas left,
That came not to follow his banner's guiding,
When to win the Belt of the Warrior Queen,
The golden clasp of the mantle-vest,
He sailed far forth on a death-fraught quest ?
And the wild maid's spoils for a glory abiding Greece won : in Mycenae they yet shall be

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

Utterly—woe for the unreturning !
And of friends forlorn doth thy dwelling stand ; 430
And waits for thy children Charon's oar
By the river that none may repass any more,
Whither godless wrong would speed them : and yearning
We strain our eyes for a vanished hand.
But if mine were the youth and the might
Of old—were mine old friends here,
Might my spear but in battle be shaken,
I had championed thy children in fight :—
But mid desolate days and drear 440
I am left, of my youth forsaken !

Lo where they come !—the shrouds of burial cover
Each one,—the children of that Hercules
Named the most mighty in the days past over,
She whom he loved, whose hands draw onward these
Like to a chariot's trace-led steeds,—the father
Stricken in years of Hercules !—woe's me !
Fountains of tears within mine old eyes gather ;
How should I stay them, such a sight who see ? 450

Enter MEGARA, AMPHITRYON, and children.

MEGARA

Who is the priest, the butcher, of the ill-starred ?
Or who the murderer of my woeful life ?
Ready the victims are to lead to death.
O sons, a shameful chariot-team death-driven
Together, old men, mothers, babes, are we.
O hapless doom of me and these my sons
Whom for the last time now mine eyes behold !
I bare you, nursed you—all to be for foes

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

A scoff, a glee, a thing to be destroyed.

Woe and alas !

Ah for my shattered dreams, my broken hopes,
Hopes that I once built on your father's words !

460

Argos to thee¹ thy dead sire would allot :
Thou in Eurystheus' palace wast to dwell
In fair and rich Pelasgia's sceptred sway :
That beast's fell o'er thine head he wont to throw,
The lion's skin wherein himself went clad.

Thou² shouldst be king of chariot-loving Thebes,
And hold the champagnes of mine heritage ;
Thy prayer won this of him that gave thee life ;
And to thy right hand would he yield the club,
A feignèd gift, his carven battle-stay.

To thee³ the land, by his far-smiting bow
Once wasted, promised he, Oechalia.

So with three princedoms would your sire exalt
His three sons, in the pride of his great heart.
And I chose out the choice of Hellas' brides,
Linking to ours by marriage Athens' land,
And Thebes, and Sparta, that ye might, as ships
Moored by sheet-anchors, ride the storms of life.

470

All that is past : the wind of fate hath veered,
And given to you the Maids of Doom for brides,
Tears for my bride-baths. Woe for those my dreams !
And now your grandsire makes the spousal-feast
With Hades for brides' sire, grim marriage-kin.
Ah me ! whom first of you, or whom the last,
To mine heart shall I press ?—whom to my lips ?

² The second son, Creontidas.

³ The third son, Deicōon.

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

Whom shall I clasp ? Oh but to gather store
Of moan, like brown-winged bee, from grief's wide field,
And blend together in tribute of one tear !
Dear love,—if any in Hades of the dead
Can hear,—I cry this to thee, Hercules : 490
Thy sire, thy sons, are dying ; doomed am I,
I, once through thee called blest in all men's eyes.
Help !—come !—though as a shadow, yet appear !
Thy coming as a dream-shape should suffice
To daunt the cravens who would slay thy sons !

AMPHITRYON

Lady, the death-rites duly order thou.
But I, O Zeus, with hand to heaven upcast,
Cry—if for these babes thou hast any help,
Save them ; for soon thou nothing shalt avail. 500
Yet oft hast thou been prayed : in vain I toil ;
For now, meseems, we cannot choose but die.
Ah friends, old friends, short is the span of life :
See ye pass through it blithely as ye may,
Wasting no time in grief 'twixt morn and eve.
For nothing careth Time to spare our hopes :
Swiftly he works his work, and fleets away.
See me, the observed of all observers once,
Doer of deeds of name—in one day all
Fortune hath snatched, as a feather skyward blown. 510
None know I whose great wealth or high repute
Is sure. Farewell : for him that was your friend
Now for the last time, age-mates, have ye seen.

HERCULES appears in the distance.

MEGARA

'Tis he who lay, we heard, beneath the earth,
Except in broad day we behold a dream !

What say I?—see they dreams, these yearning eyes?
This is none other, ancient, than thy son.

Boys, hither!—hang upon your father's cloak.
Speed ye, unhand him not; for this is he,
Your helper he, no worse than Saviour Zeus.

520

Enter HERCULES.

HERCULES

All hail, mine house, hail, portals of mine hearth!
How blithe, returned to life, I look on you!

Ha! what is this?—my sons before the halls
In death's attire and with heads chapleted!—

And, mid a throng of men, my very wife!—
My father weeping over some mischance!

Come, let me draw nigh these and question them.
Wife, what strange stroke hath fallen on mine house?

MEGARA

O best-beloved!—

AMPHITRYON

To thy sire light of life!—

MEGARA

Art come?—art saved for friends' most desperate need?

HERCULES

How?—father, what confusion find I here?

MEGARA

We are at point to die!—thy pardon, ancient,
That I before thee snatch thy right of speech,
For woman is more swift than man to mourn,
And my sons were to die, and I was doomed.

HERCULES

Scorned they the fights with Minyans I endured? 560

MEGARA

Friendless, I tell thee again, misfortune is.

HERCULES

Fling from your hair these cerements of the grave:

Look up to the light, beholding with your eyes

Exchange right welcome from the nether-gloom.

And I—for now work lieth to mine hand—

Will first go, and will raze to earth the house

Of this new king, his impious head smite off

And cast to dogs to rend. Of Thebans, all

Found traitors after my good deeds to them,

Some will I slay with this victorious mace,

570

And the rest scatter with my feathered shafts,

With slaughter of corpses all Ismenus fill,

And Dirce's pure stream red with blood shall run.

For whom should I defend above my wife

And sons and aged sire? Great toils, farewell!

Vainly I wrought them, leaving these unhelped!

AMPHITRYON

Son, worthy of thee it is to love thy friends,
To hate thy foes : yet be not over-rash.

HERCULES

Father, what haste unmeet is found in this?

AMPHITRYON

The king hath many an ally, lackland knaves,
Fellows that have a name that they are rich,
Who sowed sedition, ruining the land, 590
To plunder neighbours, since their own estates,
Squandered by wasteful idleness, were gone.
Thou wast seen entering Thebes: since thou wast seen,
Let not foes gather, and thou fall unwares.

HERCULES

Though all the city saw me, naught reck I.
Yet, since I marked a bird in ominous place,
I knew that trouble on mine house had fallen,
And of set purpose entered secretly.

AMPHITRYON

Good: go thou now, and thine hearth-gods salute,
And show thy face to thine ancestral halls. 600

And sons for murder, and to slaughter me.

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

HERCULES

To Athens, glad to have 'scaped the underworld.
Come, children, follow to the house your sire ;
For fairer to you is your entering-in
Than your outgoing. Nay then, pluck up heart,
And shed the tear-floods from your eyes no more ;
And rally thou, my wife, thy fainting spirit ;
From trembling cease ; and ye, let go my cloak :
I am no winged thing, nor would I fly my friends.
Ha !

These let not go, but hang upon my cloak
Only the more ! Was doom so imminent then ? 630
E'en must I lead them clinging to mine hands,
As ship that tows her boats. Not I reject
Care of my sons. Men's hearts be all like-framed :
They love their babes, as well the nobler sort,
As they that are but naught. In wealth they differ ;
These have, those lack : their children all men love.

[Exeunt HERCULES, AMPHITRYON, MEGARA, and children.

CHORUS

Ah, sweet is youth !—but always eld, (Str. 1)

On mine head weighing, downward drags,

A heavier load than lay the crags

Of Etna on the Titan quelled, 640

Muffling mine eyes in mantle-fold

Of gloom. Not mine be wealth that lies

In Asian tyrants' treasures ;

Not mine be halls of hoarded gold,

If forfeit youth for these must fleet—

Youth, fairest gem of high estate,

In lowliness most fair ! I hate

Age, dark with death's on-coming feet :

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

Deep be it drowned 'neath storm-waves' stress ! 650
Ah, would that ne'er such visitant
Had come, men's homes and towns to haunt,
That yet its wings flew shelterless !

If wisdom, as of sons of earth, (Ant. 1)
And understanding, dwelt in heaven,
Twice o'er the boon of youth were given,
Seal manifest of manhood's worth

On all true hearts : these from the grave
To the sun's light again should climb, 660
To run their course a second time :
One life alone the vile should have.

Then, who are evil, who are good,
By such a sigh might all men learn,
As shipmen 'twixt the clouds discern
The star-host's marshalled multitude.

But now, no line clear-severing
'Twixt good and bad the Gods have drawn : 670
Wealth, as the rolling years sweep on,
Is all the blessing that they bring.

(Str. 2)

The Muses shall for me be twined for ever with the Graces :
For evermore my song shall pour that sweetest union's praises.
No life be mine of songless clown,
But, where for singers shines the crown,
Mine old lips still shall hymn renown of Memory's fair creation.

Great Hercules the triumph-crowned my song 680
extolleth ever, [wine-giver,
In feasts my theme, where beakers gleam of Bromius
And where the lyre of sevenfold string
Sounds, and where Libyan flutes outring :
Ceaseless I'll hear the Muses sing, queens of my inspiration.

mortal, [Leto's scion's portal,

So will I raise the pæan-lay,
Swan-song of singer hoary-grey :
The portals of thine halls to-day shall hear the old lips chanting.

Proud theme hath minstrelsy, to sing mine hero's high achieving : [mounts, far-leaving
He is Zeus' son, but deeds hath done whose glory
The praise of birth divine behind,
Whose toils gave peace to humankind,
Slaying dread shapes that filled man's mind with terrors ceaseless-haunting. 700

So!—in good time, Amphitryon, com'st thou forth.
Ye have tarried all too long as ye arrayed
Your limbs in robes and trappings of the grave.
Haste, bid the sons and wife of Hercules
To show themselves forth-coming from these halls,
By your self-tendered covenant to die.

Thou heapest insult on the heart bereaved.

Dead. Joy it is to see an enemy
Die, suffering vengeance for his ill-deeds done. [Exit.

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

And enthroned is the ancient line
Re-arisen from Hades' drear ghost-haven : 770
Hope springs from despair.

The Gods, O the Gods now are sealing unrighteousness' doom, and revealing

The right, their eternal design. [victorious
But Gold and Fair-fortune, with Power the Harnessed beside them, in folly vainglorious
Hurry man to his doom :—

Law he outpaceth, and Lawlessness lasheth
To speed ; nor his heart doth incline
To take heed to the end—lo, his car suddenly crasheth

Shattered in gloom !¹ 780

Deck thee with garlands, Ismenus, and ye (Str. 3)
Break forth into dancing,
Streets stately with Thebes' fair masonry,
And Dirce bright-glancing :

Come, Maids of Asopus, to us, from the spring
Come ye of your father;
Of Hercules' glorious triumph to sing,
Nymph-chorus, O gather

Pythian forest-peak, Helicon's steep 790
Of the Song-queens haunted,
To my town, to my walls, let the song-echoes leap
Of the strains loud-chanted—

¹ The presumptuous wrong-doer is compared to a reckless charioteer in a race, in which he tries to outstrip the rival chariot of Law. His four horses are Gold and Prosperity as yoke-horses, with Power and Lawlessness for trace-horses.

The warrior nation,

Thebes' light of salvation.

Where for love of the Lady of Perseus' line 800
Zeus' glory descended !

For thy bridal of old is my faith, Zeus, won,

Though I held it a story
Past credence : by time is the might of thy son
Revealed in its glory :

He hath burst from earth's dungeons, hath rifted the chain

Of Pluto's deep prison !
Thou art worthier to rule than the churl-king slain,

O my King re-arisen ! 810

For now the usurper hath proved, when in fight
The sword-wielders have striven,
Whether yet, as in old time, the cause of the right
Is well-pleasing to heaven.

The forms of IRIS and MADNESS appear above the palace.

Ha see ! ha see !
On you, on me, doth this same panic fall ?
Old friends, what phantom hovereth o'er the hall ?

Ah flee ! ah flee
With haste of laggard feet !—speed thou away !

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

IRIS

Fear not : this is the child of Night ye see,
Madness, grey sires : I, handmaid of the Gods,
Iris. We come not for your city's hurt ;
Only on one man's house do we make war—
His, whom Zeus' and Alcmena's son they call.
For, till he had ended all his bitter toils,
Fate shielded him, and Father Zeus would not
That I, or Hera, wrought him ever harm.
But, now he hath toiled Eurystheus' labours through, 830
Hera will stain him with the blood of kin,
That he shall slay his sons : her will is mine.

On then, close up thine heart from touch of ruth,
O thou unwedded child of murky Night :
With madness thrill this man, with soul-turmoil :
Child-murdering, with wild boundings of the feet :
Goad him ; the sheets of murder's sails let ont,
That, when o'er Acheron's ferry his own hand
In blood hath sped his crownt of goodly sons,
Then may he learn how dread is Hera's wrath, 840
And mine, against him : else the Gods must wane
And mortals wax, if he taste not her vengeance.

MADNESS

Of noble sire and mother was I born,
Even of the blood of Uranus and Night.
But not to do despite to friends I hold
My powers, nor love to haunt for murder's sake.
Fain would I plead with Hera and with thee,
Ere she have erred; if ye will heed my words.
This man, against whose house ye thrust me on,

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

Woe for a hero's home!—
But for shedding of blood, not the blood of the grape glad-plashing [oblation.
As the banqueters pour it forth for the Wine-god's

Away, O ye children, in flight, for death, Death shrieks through her pipe by the blast of her breath!

[Cries and sound of rushing within.]

Like a hound is he holding the children in chase!—
Never shall Madness keep revel for naught through his dwelling-place.

Woe, anguish and pain!
Woe and alas for the silver hair 900
Of his father!—woe for the mother who bare
His babes in vain!

[Sound of battering and rending within.]

Lo you, lo you!
A whirlwind is shaking the house—its roofs fall crashing—
Ah what, ah what, Zeus' Son, wouldest thou do?
Down on thy palace the turmoil of hell art thou dashing, [Enceladus flashing.
As the levin from Pallas's hand to the heart of Enter SERVANT from within.

SERVANT

O reverend presences hoary-white—

CHORUS

What meaneth thy cry unto me—thy cry of fear? 910

SERVANT

Within yon halls is a fearful sight!

CHORUS

On the children that fell.

SERVANT

Victims were set before the hearth of Zeus
To cleanse the house, since, having slain the king,
Forth of these halls had Hercules flung the corpse.
And there his children stood in fair array,
His sire, and Megara. Round the altar now [hush.
The maund¹ had passed ; and we kept hallowed
Then, even in act to bear the torch in hand²
And plunge in lustral water, silent stood
Alcmena's son : and, as their sire delayed,

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

His sons looked—lo, he seemed no more the same,
But wholly marred, with rolling eyes distraught,
With bloodshot eye-roots starting from his head,
While dripped the slaver down his bearded cheek.

Suddenly with a maniac laugh he spake :
“ Why, ere I slay Eurystheus, sacrifice,
Father—have cleansing fire and toil twice o'er,
When all in one act I may compass well ?
When hither I have brought Eurystheus' head,
For him, with these now slain, I'll purge my hands. 940
Spill ye the water, cast the maunds away !
Ho there—my bow !—the mace of my right hand !
I march against Mycenae :—I must take
Crowbars and mattocks, that yon Cyclop town,
Yon walls with red line and with gavil squared,
May by my bended lever be upheaved.”
Then set forth, speaking of his ear the while,
Who ear had none, sprang to the chariot-rail,
And thrust, as who held in his hand a goad.

His henchmen, half in mirth and half in fear, 950
Were glancing each at other, and one spake :
“ Doth our lord make us sport, or is he mad ? ”
Still was he pacing up and down the house ;
Then, to the men's hall rushing, cried, “ I have come
To Nisus' town ! ”¹—who stood in his own halls.
He casts him on the bare floor, and prepares
To feast : yet, tarrying there but little space,
He cried, “ I go to Isthmus' woodland plains ! ”
Then from his body cast his mantle's folds,
And wrestled with—no man !—proclaimed himself 960

¹ Megara, half way on his imaginary journey, on the Isthmus of Corinth ; this suggested the Isthmian games.

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

To himself the victor, cried, " Ye people, hear!" —
To none! In fancy at Mycenae then
He stormed against Eurystheus. But his sire
Clung to his brawny hand, and cried to him,
" What ails thee? What mad change of mood is this?
Surely thou art not driven distraught by blood
Of these late slain!" He deemed Eurystheus' sire,
A trembling suppliant, hung upon his hand,
And spurned him back; prepared his quiver and bow
Against his own sons then, thinking to slay 970
Eurystheus' sons. They, quaking with affright,
Rushed hither, thither: his hapless mother's skirts
This sought, that to a pillar's shadow fled;
A third cowered 'neath the altar like a bird

Then shrieked the mother, " Father, what dost thou?
Wouldst slay thy sons?" The thralls, the ancient, cried.

He, winding round the pillar as wound his son
In fearful circlings, met him face to face
And shot him to the heart. Back as he fell,
His death-gasps dashed the column with red-spray. 980
Then shouted Hercules, and vaunted thus.
" One of Eurystheus' fledglings here is slain,
Dead at my feet, hath paid for his sire's hate!"
Against the next then aimed his bow, who crouched
At the altar's base, in hope to be unseen.
But, ere he shot, the poor child clasped his knees,
And stretching to his beard and neck a hand,
" Ah, dearest father," cried he, " slay not me!
I am thy boy—thine!—'Tis not Eurystheus' son!"
He rolling savage gorgon-glaring eyes, 990
Since the boy stood too near for that fell bow,
Swung back overhead his club, like forging-sledge,

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

Down dashed it on his own son's golden head,
And shattered all the bones. This second slain,
He speeds to add to victims twain a third.
But first the wretched mother snatched the child,
And bare within, and barred the chamber-door.
But he, as though at siege of Cyclop walls,¹
Mines, heaves up doors, and hurls the door-posts down,
And with one arrow laid low wife and child : 1000
Then charges down to spill his own sire's blood.
But a Shape came,—as seemed unto our eyes,
Pallas with plumed helm, brandishing a spear ;—
And against Hercules' breast she hurled a rock,
Which stayed him from his murder-frenzy, and cast
Into deep sleep. To earth he fell, and dashed
His back against a pillar, cleft in twain
By the roof's ruin, on the pavement thrown.
Then we, from flight of panic breathing free,
Wrought with the old man, binding him with cords 1010
Unto the pillar, that, awaked from sleep,
He might not add ill deeds to ill deeds done.
There sleeps he, wretched man, a sleep unblest,
Who hath slaughtered sons and wife. For me, I know not
Of mortals any man more fortune-crost.

CHORUS

That murder which Argos remembereth
Was aforetime through Hellas most famous, the strange tale told
Of Danaus' daughters, the workers of death :—
But this hath surpassed, hath outrun, that horror of 1020 old— [the sacrifice done
This horror that blasts Zeus' Son ! I might tell of

At the feet of their wretched father they lie :
And from murder of sons he is resting in awful sleep ;
And around him the bonds with manifold fastenings keep

The body of Hercules in ward,

Yet as in surge and storm of turmoiled soul

Hard-panted from my lungs, not tempered calm.

Bound to half-shattered masonry of stone
Sit I ?—lo, corpses neighbours to my seat !

Which once, like armour-bearers to mine arms,
Warded my side, were kept of me in ward : 1100
Sure, not to Hades have I again gone down,
Who have passed, repassed, Eurystheus' Hades-course ?
Nay, I see not the stone of Sisyphus,

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

HERCULES

Father, why dost thou weep and veil thine eyes,
Shrinking afar from thy beloved son?

AMPHITRYON

Oh my son!—mine, though ne'er so ill thy plight!

HERCULES

Am I in grievous plight, that thou shouldst weep?

AMPHITRYON

Plight whereat Gods might groan, were God so stricken!

HERCULES

Great words!—but what hath chanced thou say'st not yet.

AMPHITRYON

Thyself mayst see, if now thy wit be sound.

HERCULES

Speak, if thou shadowest forth strange ills for me.

AMPHITRYON

I will say—so thy frenzy of hell be past.

HERCULES

Again that word!—ha, what dark riddle this? 1120

AMPHITRYON

Yea, if thy mind be sober yet I doubt—

HERCULES

Naught I remember of a frenzied mind.

AMPHITRYON

Fathers, shall I unbind my son, or no?

HERCULES

*Woe's me! Ah wherefore spare I mine own life,
Who am found the murderer of my dear, dear sons,
And rush not to plunge headlong from a cliff,
Or dash a dagger down into mine heart,*

1150

And make me avenger of my children's blood,

Or with consuming fire burn this my flesh,

To avert the imminent life-long infamy?

But lo, to thwart my purposes of death,

Theseus draws nigh, my kinsman and my friend.

I shall be seen!—this curse of children's blood

Shall meet a friend's eyes, dearest of my friends!

Woe! What shall I do?—where find solitude

In ills?—take wings, or plunge beneath the ground?

Oh let me in black darkness pall mine head;

For I take shame for evils wrought of me,

Nor would I taint him with bloodguiltiness—¹

Nay, nowise would I harm the innocent.

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

O son, refrain thou the furious lion's mood ! 1210
Thou wouldest speed on a race unhallowed, a path of blood,
Who art bent on self-slaughter, on swelling with evil
evil's flood.

THESEUS

Ho ! thee in spirit-broken session crouched
I hail—reveal unto thy friends thy face.
There is no darkness hath a pall so black
That it should hide the misery of thy woes.
Why wave me back with hand that warns 'of blood ?
Lest some pollution of thy speech taint me ?
Naught reck I of misfortune, shared with thee. 1220
Fair lot hath found me—I date it from that hour
When safe to day thou brought'st me from the dead.
Friends' gratitude that waxeth old I hate,
Hate him who would enjoy friends' sunshine-tide,
But will not in misfortune sail with them.
Stand up, unmuffle thou thine hapless head :
Look on me : who of men is royal-souled
Beareth the blows of heaven, and flincheth not.

Hearken, that I may wrestle in argument
With thine admonishings. I will unfold
Why now, as heretofore, boots not to live.
First, I am his son, who, with blood-guilt stained
From murder of my mother's aged sire,
Wedded Alcmena who gave birth to me. 1260
When the foundation of the race is laid
In sin, needs must the issue be ill-starred.

And Zeus—whoe'er Zeus be—begat me foe
To Hera,—nay but, ancient, be not chafed,
For truer father thee I count than Zeus.
When I was yet a suckling, Zeus's bride
Sent gorgon-glaring serpents secretly
Against my cradle, that I might be slain.
Soon as I gathered vesture of brawny flesh,
What boots to tell what labours I endured?
What lions, what three-bodied Geryon-fiends,

THE MADNESS OF HERCLES

Or giants, slew I not?—or with what host
Of fourfoot Centaurs fought not out the war?
The hound o'erswarmed with heads that severed grew,
The Hydra, killed I: throngs of toils beside Untold I wrought: I passed unto the dead
To bring forth at Eurystheus'hest to light
The hound three-headed, warder of Hell-gate.
And this—woe's me!—my latest desperate deed,
Murder of sons—mine home's topstone of ills!

1280

I am come to this strait—in my dear-loved Thebes
I cannot dwell uncursed. Though I should stay,
To what fane can I go?—what gathering
Of friends?—the Accurst, to whom no man may • speak!

Shall I to Argos?—I, an outlawed man!
Nay then, to another city let me go—
And there be eyed askance, a branded man,
My jailers there the scorpions of the tongue—
“Lo there Zeus' son, who murdered babes and wife!”
Shall he not hence?—perdition go with him!”

1290

Now to the man called happy in time past
Reverse is torture: he whose days were dark
Always, grieves not, being cradled in distress.

To this curse shall I come at last, I ween,
That earth shall find a voice forbidding me
To touch her, and the sea, that I cross not,
And river-springs: so, like Ixion whirled
In chains upon his wheel shall I become.
Best so—that none set eyes on me in Greece,
The land where once I prospered and was blest.
Why need I live? What profit shall I have Owning a useless life, a life accurst?

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

Now let her dance, that glorious bride of Zeus,
Beating with sandalled foot Olympus' floor !
She hath compassed her desire that she desired,
Down with his pedestal hurling in utter wreck
The foremost man of Greece ! To such a Goddess
Who shall pray now ?—who, for a woman's sake
Jealous of Zeus, from Hellas hath cut off
Her benefactors, guiltless though they were !

THESEUS

'This is the assault of none of deities
Save Zeus's Queen ; yet thee I counsel not Rather to die than suffer and be strong.
No mortal hath escaped misfortune's taint,
Nor God—if minstrel-legends be not false.
Have they not linked them in unlawful bonds
Of wedlock, and with chains, to win them thrones,
Outraged their fathers ? In Olympus still
They dwell, by their transgressions unabashed.
What wilt thou plead, if, mortal as thou art,
Thou chafe against thy fate, and Gods do not ?

1320

Nay then, leave Thebes, submissive to the law,
And unto Pallas' fortress come with me.
There will I cleanse thine hands from taint of blood,
Give thee a home, and of my substance half.
The gifts my people gave for children saved
Twice seven, when I slew the Cnossian bull,
These will I give thee. All throughout the land
Have I demesnes assigned me : these shall bear
Thy name henceforth with men while thou shalt live.

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

And, when in death thou goest to Hades' halls,
With sacrifice and monuments of stone
Shall all the Athenians' Town exalt thy name :
For a fair crown to win from Greeks is this
For us, the glory of a hero helped.
Yea, this requital will I render thee
For saving me ; for now thou lackest friends.
When the Gods honour us, we need not friends :
God's help sufficeth, when he wills it so.

HERCULES

Ah, all this hath no pertinence to mine ills !
I deem not that the Gods for spousals crave
Unhallowed : tales of Gods' hands manacled
Ever I scorned, nor ever will believe,
Nor that one God is born another's lord.
For God hath need, if God indeed lie be,
Of naught : these be the minstrels' sorry tales.

1340

Yet thus I have mused—how deep soe'er in ills—
“ Shall I quit life, and haply prove me craven ? ”
For he who flincheth from misfortune's blows,
He even from a mere man's spear would flinch.
I will be strong to await death. To thy town
I go. For thy gifts thanks a thousandfold.
Ah, I have tasted travail measureless,
Nor ever shrank from any, never shed
Tear from mine eyes, no, nor had ever thought
That I should come to this, to weep the tear !
But now, meseems, I must be thrall to fate.

1350

Ay so !—thou seëst, O ancient, mine exile ;
Thou seëst me a murderer of my sons.
Give these a tomb, and shroud the dead, with tears 1360
For honour,—me the law withholds therefrom,—

THE MADNESS OF HERCULES

Laid on the mother's breast, clasped in her arms,
Sad fellowship, which I—O wretch!—destroyed Unknowing. When thou hast hid them in the tomb,

Live on in Thebes,—in misery, yet still
Constrain thy soul to share my load of woe.
Ah chidden, your begetter and your sire
Slew you!—ye had no profit of my glory,
Of all my travail and strenuous toil to win
Renown for you—a sire's best legacy.

1370

And thee, lost love, not in such wise I slew
As thou didst save, didst keep mine honour safe
Through all that weary warding of mine house!
Woe for my wife and children! woe for me!
How mournful is my plight, who am disyoked
From babes, from bride! Ah bitter joy of kisses!
Ah bitter fellowship of these mine arms!
Keep—cast them from me—I know not which to do.
Hanging athwart my side thus will they say:
"With us thou slewest babes and wife—yet keep'st

1380

Thy children's slayers!" Shall mine hand bear these?

What can I plead? Yet, naked of mine arms¹
Wherewith I wrought most glorious deeds in Greece,
'Neath foes' feet shall I cast me?—fouly die?
Leave them I may not, to my grief must keep.
In one thing help me, Theseus: come to Argos
To back my claim of hire for Cerberus brought,
Lest grief for children slay me faring lone.
O Land of Cadmus, all ye Theban folk,
With shorn hair grieve with me: to my sons' tomb

1390

¹ He could not replace them by others as good; for they were gifts of Gods—the bow of Apollo, and the club of Hephaestus.

ARGUMENT

Eurystheus, king of Argos, hated Hercules all his life through, and sought to destroy him by thrusting on him many and desperate labours. And when Hercules had been caught up to Olympus from the pyre whereon he was consumed on Mount Oeta, Eurystheus persecuted the hero's children, and sought to slay them. Wherefore Iolaus, their father's friend and helper, fled with them. But in whatsoever city they sought refuge, thence were they driven; for Eurystheus ever made search for them, and demanded them with threats of war. So fleeing from land to land, they came at last to Marathon which belongeth to Athens, and there took sanctuary at the temple of Zeus. Thither came the folk of the land compassionating them, and Eurystheus' herald requiring their surrender, and the king of Athens, Theseus' son, to hear their cause. And herein is told the tale of the war that came of his refusal to yield them up, of the sacrifice of a noble maiden which the Gods required as the price of victory, of an old warrior by miracle made young, and of the vengeance of Alcmena.

IOLAUS

I HOLD it truth, and long have held :—the just Lives for his brother men ; but he whose soul Uncurbed hunts gain alone, unto the state Useless, in dealings hard, is but to himself A friend—nor know this by report alone ; Since I, who might in Argos peacefully Have dwelt, for honour's sake and kinship's bond Bore chief share in the toils of Hercules When he was with us : now, when in the heaven He dwells, his babes I shelter 'neath my wings Defending, who myself sore need defence. 10

For, soon as from the earth their sire had passed, Us would Eurystheus at the first have slain, But we fled. Now our city, our home is lost, Life only saved. We are exiled wanderers From city unto city moving on. For on our other wrongs this coping-stone Of outrage hath Eurystheus dared to set,— Heralds to each land where we bide he sends, Demandeth us, and biddeth drive us forth, Warning them that no weakling friend or foe Is Argos, and himself a mighty king. 20

THE CHILDREN OF HERCULES

And they, discerning that my cause is weak,
These but young children orphaned of their sire,
Bow to the strong, and drive us from their land.
I with his banished babes share banishment,
And with their ill plight am in evil plight.
Forsake them I dare not, lest men should say :
“ See, now the children’s father is no more,
Iolaus wards them not,—their kinsman he ! ” 30
And so, from all the soil of Hellas banned,
To Marathon and the federate land we come,
At the Gods’ altars sitting suppliant,
That they may help ; for Theseus’ scions twain,
Saith rumour, in the plains of this land dwell,
By lot their heritage, Pandion’s seed,
And kin to these ; for which cause have we come
This journey unto glorious Athens’ bounds,
Old captains we that lead this exile-march,—
I, for these lads heart-full of troubled thought ; 40
And she, Alcmena, in yon temple folds
Her arms about the daughters of her son,
And guards : for we think shame to let young girls
Stand, a crowd’s gazing-stock, on altar-steps.
Now Hyllus and his brethren elder-born
Seek some land for our refuge and our home,
If from this soil we be with violence thrust.
O children, children, hither !—seize my robes !
Yonder I see Eurystheus’ herald come
Against us, him of whom we are pursued, 50
The homeless wanderers barred from every land.
Enter COPREUS.
Loathed wretch ! Now ruin seize thee and him that sent,
Who oftentimes to the noble sire of these
From that same mouth hast published evil hests.

COPREUS

Ha, deem'st thou this thy session bravely chosen,
This state thou hast reached thine ally? O thou fool!
There is no man shall choose that impotence
Of thy poor strength before Eurystheus' power.
Away! Why make this coil? Thou must depart
To Argos, where the doom of stoning waits thee. 60

IOLAUS

Never: for the God's altar shall avail,
And the free land whereunto we have come.

COPREUS

Ha! wouldst thou find some work for this mine hand?

IOLAUS

Nor me nor these by foree shalt thou hale hence.

COPREUS

That shalt thou prove: ill seer thou art in this.

[Seizes CHILDREN.]

IOLAUS (resisting)

This shall not be! no, never while I live!

COPREUS

Hands off! these will I hale, though thou say nay,
Accounting them Eurystheus': his they are.

[Hurls Iolaus to the ground.]

IOLAUS

O ye, in Athens dwellers from of old,
Help! Suplicants we of Zeus of the Market-stead 70
Are evil-entreated, holy wreaths defiled,
To Athens' shame and to your God's dishonour!

Enter CHORUS.

CHORUS

What ho! what outcry by the altar wakes?
Now what calamity shall this reveal?

In his feebleness hurled to the ground, woe's me!

CHORUS

Of whom thus pitifully wast thou dashed down?

IOLAUS

This man, O strangers, sets thy Gods at naught,
And drags me from the altar-floor of Zeus.

CHORUS

But from what land, O ancient, hast thou come
To the folk of the Four Burgs' federal home?
Were ye sped overseas by the brine-dipt oar
To our land from Euboea's craggy shore?

80

IOLAUS

Strangers, no island-dweller's life is mine;
From proud Mycenae come we to thy land.

CHORUS

And by what name, ancient of days, did they call
Thee, they which be fenced with Mycenae's wall?

IOLAUS

Hercules' helper haply do ye know,
Iolaus, for not fameless was my name.

CHORUS

I know; long since I heard: but whose are they,
The fosterling lads that thine hand leadeth hitherward?—say.

IOLAUS

Strangers, the sons they are of Hercules,
Which have to thee and Athens suppliant come.

CHORUS

Say, what is your need that here ye are?
Would ye plead your cause at the nation's bar?

Hence, in thy Gods' despite, and sent to Argos.

COPREUS

Ay, but this shall not satisfy thy masters
Whose lordship o'er thee holds, who find thee here. 100

CHORUS

God's suppliants, stranger, must we reverence,
And not with hands of violence tear them hence
From this place where the Holy Presence is:
The majesty of Justice shall not suffer this.

COPREUS

Then from your land send these, Eurystheus' thralls,
And this mine hand shall do no violence.

CHORUS

Now nay, 'twere an impious thing
To cast off suppliant hands to the knees of our city that cling!

COPREUS

'Tis well to keep thy foot from trouble's snare,
And in good counsel find the better part. 110

CHORUS

Thou shouldst have shown respect to this free land,
And told her King, ere thy presumption tore Therefrom the strangers in her Gods' despite.

COPREUS

CHORUS

Be held alone: all else is idle talk.

CHORUS

Lo, hitherward himself in haste draws nigh,
And Acamas his brother, to hear thy claim.

Enter DEMOPHON, ACAMAS, and attendants.

DEMOPHON

Since thou, the old, preventedst younger men 120
In rescue-rush to Zeus's altar-hearth,
Tell thou what chance hath gathered all this throng.

CHORUS

Here suppliant sit the sons of Hercules,
Who have wreathed the altar, as thou seest, O king,
And Iolaus, leal helper of their sire.

DEMOPHON

What need herein for lamentable cries?

CHORUS

Yon man essayed to drag them from the hearth
By force; raised outcry so, and earthward hurled
The ancient, that for ruth burst forth my tears.

DEMOPHON

Yet is the fashion of his vesture Greek; 130
But deeds of a barbarian hand are these.
Man, thine it is to tell me, tarrying not,
From what land's marches hither thou hast come.

COPREUS

An Argive I, since this thou wouldest know.
Wherefore I come, and from whom, will I tell:
Mycenae's king Eurystheus sends me hither
To lead these hence. Stranger, I bring with me
Just pleas in plenty, both for act and speech.
Myself an Argive would lead Argives hence,
Who find them runaways from mine own land, 140
By statutes of that land condemned to die;
For, dwellers in a state subject to none,

THE CHILDREN OF HERCULES

The right is ours to ratify her decrees.
And, though they have come to hearths of many folk,
Still on the same plea did we take our stand,
And ruin on his own head none dared bring.
But these came hither, haply spying folly
In thee, or staking on one desperate throw
Their venture, or to win or lose it all :—
For sure they deem not thou, if sound of wit, 150
Alone in all this Hellas they have traversed,
Wilt have compassion on their hopeless plight.

Weigh this and that :—if thou grant these a home,
Or if thou let us hale them hence—what gain
Were thine? From us these boons thou mayest win :
Argos' strong hand and all Eurystheus' might
Thou mayest range upon this city's side.

If thou regard their pleadings, by their whinings
Be softened, to the grapple of the spear
The matter cometh. Never think that we 160
Will yield this strife but by the sword's award.
What canst thou plead? Of what lands art thou robbed,

That with Tirynthian Argives thou wouldest war?
What allies art defending? In whose cause
Shall those thou buriest fall? Ill fame were thine
With thine Athenians, if for yon old man,
That sepulchre,—mere naught, as men might say,—
And these boys, in deep waters thou wilt sink.

Thy plea at best is hope for days to come.
Scant satisfaction for the present this! 170
For against Argos these, armed, grown to man,
Should make but feeble stand,—if haply this Uplift thine heart ;—and long years lie between,
Wherein ye may be ruined. Nay heed me:

Give naught, but suffer me to take mine own ;
So gain Mycenae's friendship. Do not err,
As oft ye do, taking the weaker side
When ye might choose for friend the stronger cause.

CHORUS

Who can give judgment, who grasp arguments,
Ere from both sides he clearly learn their pleas ? 180

IOLAUS

King, this advantage have I in your land,
I am free to speak and in my turn to hear ;
None, as from other lands, will first expel me.
We and this man have naught in common now ;
We have naught to do with Argos any more
Since that decree : we are exiled from her soil.
What right hath he to hale us, whom they banished,
As we were burghers of Mycenae yet ?
Aliens we are :—or from all Hellas banned
Are men whom Argos exiles ?—claim ye this ? 190
Sooth, not from Athens : she shall drive not forth,
For fear of Argives, sons of Hercules.
She is no Trachis, no Achaean burg,
As that whence thou didst drive these—not of right,
But, even as now, by vaunting Argos' power,—
These, suppliant at the altar as they sat !
If this shall be, if she but ratify
Thine hests, free Athens then no more I know.
Nay, her sons' nature know I, know their mood :
They will die sooner ; for in brave men's eyes 200
The honour that fears shame is more than life.
Suffice for Athens this ; for over-praise

THE CHILDREN OF HERCULES

Is odious : yea, myself have oftentimes,
Praised above measure, been but galled thereby.
But that thou canst not choose but save these boys
I would show thee, who rulest o'er this land.
Pittheus was Pelops' son : of Pittheus sprang
Aethra ; of her was thy sire Theseus born.
Again, the lineage of these lads I trace :
Zeus' and Alcmena's son was Hercules : 210
She, child of Pelops' daughter : cousins' sons
Shall be thy father and the sire of these.
So their near kinsman art thou, Demophon ;
But what requital—ties of blood apart—
Thou owest to these lads, I tell thee :—once
Shield-bearer to their sire, I sailed with him
To win for Theseus that Belt slaughter-fraught ;¹
And from black gulfs of Hades he brought up
Thy sire : all Hellas witnesseth to this.

This to requite, one boon they crave of thee,— 220
Not to be given up, nor torn by force
From thy Gods' fanes, and banished from thy land :
This were thine own shame, Athens' bane withal,
That homeless suppliants, kinsmen,—ah, their woes !
Look on them, look !—be dragged away by force.
I pray thee—these clasped hands are suppliant-boughs,—
By thy beard I implore, set not at naught
Hercules' sons, who hast them in thine hands.
Prove thee to these true kinsman, prove thee friend,
Their father, brother, master—better that 230
Than into hands of Argive men to fall !

THE CHILDREN OF HERCULES

CHORUS

I pity these in their affliction, king.
High birth by fortune crushed I now behold
As ne'er before : born of a noble sire
Are these, yet suffer woes unmerited.

DEMOPHON

Three influences, that meet in one, constrain me,
Iolaus, not to thrust hence these my guests :
The chiefest, Zeus, upon whose altar thou
Art sitting with these nestlings compassed round ;
Then, kinship, and the debt of old, that these 240
Should for their sire's sake fare well at mine hands ;
Third, dread of shame,—this most I must regard :
For if I let this altar be despoiled
By alien force, I shall be held to dwell
In no free land, but cowed by fear of Argos
To yield up suppliants :—hanging were not worse !
I would that thou hadst come in happier plight ;
Yet, even so, fear not that any man
Shall from this altar tear thee with these boys.
Thou (to the HERALD), go to Argos ; tell Eurystheus
this ; 250
And, if he implead these strangers in our courts,
He shall have right. These shalt thou hale hence never.

COPREUS

Not if my cause be just, my plea prevail ?

DEMOPHON

Just ?—to hale hence by force the suppliant ?

COPREUS

Then mine the shame : no harm befalleth thee.

DEMOPHON

My shame too, if I let thee drag these hence.

COPREUS

Banish them thou : then I will lead them thence.

DEMOPHON

O born a fool, who wouldest outwit the God !

COPREUS

So hither felons must for refuge flee !

DEMOPHON

The God's house gives to all men sanctuary. 280

COPREUS

Haply not so shall think Mycenae's folk.

DEMOPHON

Am I not master then in mine own land ?

COPREUS

Not unto Argos' hurt,—so thou be wise.

DEMOPHON

The hurt be yours, so I flout not the Gods.

COPREUS

I would not thou with Argos shouldst have war.

DEMOPHON

I too : yet will I not abandon these.

COPREUS

Yet will I take mine own and hale them hence.

DEMOPHON

Not lightly shalt thou win to Argos back.

COPREUS

That will I now try, and be certified.

[Attempts to seize them.

THE CHILDREN OF HERCULES

DEMOPHON

That will I, if the herald learn not wisdom.

CHORUS

[To HERALD] Depart thou :—touch thou not this man, O king.

COPREUS

I go ; for feeble fight one hand may make.
But I will hither come with brazen mail
And spears of Argos' war : warriors untold
Await me ; and Eurystheus' self, our king,
Their chief, expecting what shall come from hence,
Waits on the marches of Alcathous.¹
He shall flash forth, being told thine insolence,
On thee, thy folk, this land, and all her fruits.
For all this warrior youth were ours for naught
In Argos, if we avenge us not on thee.

DEMOPHON

Begone ! I fear not that thine Argos, I !
'Twas not for thee to shame me and to drag
These hence by force. This city which I hold
Is not to Argives subject : she is free.

[Exit COPREUS.

CHORUS

It is time to prepare, ere the Argive array
Over our marches on-sweepeth ;
For Mycenae's war-spirit is keen for the fray,
And more hot for these tidings upleapeth.
Yea, and after his kind will yon herald be swelling
His wrongs—such aye double a tale in the telling :—
In the ears of his lords, think ye, how will he cry
On the foulness of outrage “ that brought him this day Unto death well nigh ! ”

IOLAUS

No fairer honour-guerdon may sons win
Than this, to spring from noble sires and good,
[And so wed noble wives. Who, passion's thrall, Links him with base folk, ne'er shall have my praise,

300

Who, for his lust's sake, stamps his seed with shame.]
For noble birth stands in the evil day
Better than base blood. We, to deepest depths
Of evil fallen, yet have found us friends
And kin in these : in all the peopled breadth
Of Hellas these alone have championed us.
Give, children, unto these the right hand give,
And to the children ye ; draw near to them.

Boys, we have put our friends unto the test :—

310

If home-return shall ever dawn for you,
And your sires' halls and honours ye inherit,
Saviours and friends account them evermore,
And never against their land lift hostile spear,
Remembering this, but hold them of all states
Most dear. They are worthy of your reverence,
Who have ta'en our burden on them, enmity
Of that great land, that folk Pelasgian.

Beggars they saw us, homeless : for all this
They gave not up nor chased us from their land.
And I, in life,—in death, when death shall come,
With high laud will extol thee, good my lord,
At Theseus' side ; and this shall make him glad,
My tale how thou didst welcome, didst defend Hercules' sons, how nobly Hellas through
Thou guard'st thy sire's renown : thy father's son
Shames not the noble line wherefrom he sprang.

DEMOPHON

Well said of thee ; and sure am I that these Shall so prove ; unforgot shall be our boon.
Now will I muster for the war my folk,
And marshal, that a goodly band may greet
Mycenae's host. Scouts first will I send forth
To meet it, lest unwares it fall on me ;
For swift the Argives throng to the gathering-cry.
Seers will I bring, and sacrifice. Thou, leave
Zeus' hearth, and enter with the boys mine halls :
Therein be they which, though I be afar,
Shall care for thee. Pass, ancient, to mine halls.

340

IOLAUS

I will not leave the altar. Let us sit,
Abiding Athens' triumph, suppliant here.
And, when thou hast brought this strife to glorious end,
Then will we enter. Champion-gods have we
Not weaker than the Argive Gods, O king.
Though Hera, bride of Zeus, before them go,
Ours is Athena ; and this tells, say I,
For triumph, to have gotten mightier Gods ;
For Pallas never shall brook overthrow.

O thou stranger from Argolis faring
To Athens, thou shalt not affright
Our souls by thy bluster high-swelling.

To the land great and fair beyond telling !
Fools—thou and thy despot-lord dwelling 360
In Argos, this Sthenelus' son !

Thou who com'st to a city no lesser (Ant.)

Than Argos, essaying to seize--
And thou alien, O violent oppressor !—
The suppliants that cling to her knees,
The homeless that cry from her altars !
Thou hast not respect to our king,
And with justice thy false tongue palters :—
Who, except from truth's pathway he falters,
But shall count it an infamous thing ? 370

Peace love I well, but I warn thee, (Epoche)

O tyrant, O treacherous-souled,
Though thou march to the gates of our hold,
Not the crown of thy hopes shall adorn thee.
Not for thine hand the war-spear alone
Nor the brass on the buckler hath shone !
O thou that in battle delightest,
Trouble not, trouble not with thy spear
The burg that the Graces make brightest
Of cities :—dread thou and forbear. 380

THE CHILDREN OF HERCULES

No empty promise was your herald's threat.
Their captain, aye triumphant heretofore,
Shall march, I know, with heart uplifted high,
Against our Athens Notwithstanding Zeus
Chastiseth overweening arrogance.

DEMOPHON

They are come, the Argive host and king Eurystheus.
Myself beheld them; for behoves the man, 390
Whoso makes claim to know good generalship,
To see—nor that with eyes of scouts—his foes.
But to the plains not yet hath he marched down
His bands, but, couched upon the rocky brow,
Watcheth—I but make guess of that I tell thee—
Where without conflict to push on his host,
And in the land's heart camp him safety-girt.

Yet all my preparations well are laid :
Athens is all in arms, the victims ready
Stand for the Gods to whom they must be slain : 400
By seers the city is filled with sacrifice
For the foes' rout and saving of the state.
All prophecy-chanters have I caused to meet,
Into old public oracles have searched,
And secret, for salvation of this land.
And, mid their manifold diversities,
In one thing glares the sense of all the same :—
They bid me to Demeter's Daughter slay
A maiden of a high-born father sprung.

Full am I, as thou seest, of good will 410
To you; yet neither will I slay my child,
Nor force thereto another of my folk ;

THE CHILDREN OF HERCULES

And of his own will who hath heart so hard
As from his hands to yield a most dear child ?
Now gatherings mayst thou see of angry mood,
Where some say, right it is to render help
To suppliant strangers, some cry out upon
My folly :—yea, and if I do this thing,
Even this day is civil war afoot.

See thou to this then : help me find a way
Whereby yourselves and Athens shall be saved,
And I shall not be of my folk reproached.
For mine is no barbarian despot's sway.
But by just dealing my just dues I win.

420

CHORUS

How ? do the Gods forbid that Athens help
The stranger, though she yearn with eager will ?

IOLAUS

O children, we are like to shipmen, who,
Escaped the madding fury of the storm,
And now in act to grasp the land, have yet
By blasts been driven from shore to sea again.
Even so are we from this land thrust away,
When, as men saved, even now we touched the strand.

430

Ah, me why didst thou cheer me, cruel hope,
Erst, when thy mind was not to crown thy boon ?
The king I cannot blame, who will not slay
His people's daughters : yea, I am content
With Athens' dealings with us : if my plight
Please Heaven, my gratitude to thee dies not.
Ah boys, for you I know not what to do !
Whitherward flee ?—what Gods rest unimplored ?
What refuge upon earth have we not sought ?
Die shall we, children, yielded up to foes.

THE CHILDREN OF HERCLES

I reck not of myself, if I must die,—
Except that o'er my death you toes shall gloat ;
But for you, babes, I weep in utter ruth,
And for your sire's grey mother, even Alcmena.
O lady, hapless in thy length of days !
And hapless I, who have greatly toiled in vain !
Doomed were we, doomed into a foeman's hands
To fall, and die in shame and agony ! 450
King, help me !—wouldst know how ?—not every hope
Of their deliverance hath fled my soul :—
Me to the Argives yield up in their stead.
So be unperilled thou, the lads be saved.
No right have I to love life : let it go !
Me would Eurystheus most rejoice to seize,— Hercules' ally, me,—and evil-entreat ;
For churl he is. Let wise men pray to strive
With wise men, not with graceless arrogance.
So, if one fall, he stoops to chivalrous foe. 460

CHORUS

O ancient, upon Athens cast not blame !
Haply 'twere false, yet foul reproach were this
That we abandoned stranger-suppliants.

DEMOPHON

Noble thine offer ; yet it cannot be.
Not craving thee doth this king hither march ;
For of what profit to Eurystheus were
An old man's death ? Nay, these he lusts to slay.
For dangerous to foes are high-born youths
Growing to man, and brooding on sires' wrongs ;
And all this he foresees, he needs must so. 470

THE CHILDREN OF HERCULES

In season, set it forth : I am desperate,
Hearing these oracles, and full of fear.

Enter MACARIA from the temple.

MACARIA

Strangers, impute not for my coming forth
Boldness to me : this is my first request ;
Since for a woman silence and discretion
Be fairest, and still tarrying in the home.
But, Iolaus, I heard thy moans, and came,—
Though I be not ordained mine house's head :
Yet in some sort it fits me, for I love 480
These brethren more than all : yea, mine own fate
Fain would I learn,—lest to the former ills
Some new pang added now torments thy soul.

IOLAUS

Daughter, long since have I had righteous cause
To praise thee chieftiest of Hercules' seed.
Our house, that seemed but now to prosper well,
Once more hath fallen into desperate case.
For oracle-chanters, saith this king, proclaim
That he must bid to slay nor bull nor calf,
But a maid, daughter of a high-born sire, 490
If we, if Athens, must not cease to be.
This then is our despair : the king refuseth
To slay his own or any other's child,
And saith to me,—albeit not in words,—
Except we find for this some remedy,
We must needs forth and seek another land ;
But his own land he cannot chose but save.

MACARIA

On these terms hangeth our deliverance ?

IOLAUS

On these,—if in all else our fortune speed.

THE CHILDREN OF HERCULES

MACARIA

- Then dread no more the Argive foeman's spear. 500
Myself—I wait no bidding, ancient—am
Ready to die, and yield me to be slain.
What can we say, if Athene count it meet
To brave a mighty peril for our sake,
And we to others pass the struggle on,
And flee death, when that way deliverance lies ?
Never!—a scoffing to us this should be,
To sit and moan on, suppliant to their Gods,
And—born of that sire of whose loins we sprang—
To show us craven ! Is this like the brave ? 510
Better, forsooth, this town—which God forbid !—
Were ta'en, that into hands of foes I fell,
And suffered—I, from hero-father sprung—
Horrors, and looked on Hades none the less !
Or, banished, shall I wander from this land,
And not be utterly shamed, if one should say,
“ Wherefore come hither with your suppliant boughs,
O ye that so love life?—hence from our land !
For we to cravens will not render help ? ”
- Nay, and not even if all these were slain 520
And I saved, have I hope of happy days ;—
Many, so tempted, have betrayed their friends ;—
For who would stoop to take a friendless girl
To wife, or care to raise up seed of me ?
Better to die than light on such a doom
Unworthy ! Haply this might well beseem
Another maid who hath not my renown.
- Lead on to where this body needs must die :
Wreathe me, begin the rite, if this seem good.
Vanquish your foes ; for ready is this life, 530

THE CHILDREN OF HERCULES

Willing, ungrudging. Yea, I pledge me now
For these my brothers' sake, and mine, to die.
For treasure-trove most fair, by loving not
Life, have I found,—with glory to quit life.

CHORUS

What shall I say, who hear this maid's high words
Consenting for her brethren's sake to die?
What man could utter nobler words than these,
Or who do nobler deed henceforth for ever?

IOLAUS

O child, thine heart is of none other sire—
Thou art his own seed, of that godlike soul,
Hercules, sprung! Exceeding proud am I
For these thy words, but grieve for this hard fate.
Yet how 'twere done more justly will I tell:
Hither be all this maiden's sisters called;
Then for her house let whom the lot dooms die;
But that thou die without lot is not just.

540

MACARIA

I will not perish by the lot's doom, I;
For then is no free grace: thou, name it not.
But if ye will accept me, and consent
To take an eager victim, willingly
I give my life for these, nowise constrained.

550

IOLAUS

Ah, marvellous one!
Nobler thy latter speech is than thy first.
Perfect was that, but thou o'erpassest now
Courage with courage, word with noble word!
Yet, daughter, thee I bid not, nor forbid
To die:—thy brethren dost thou, dying, help.

MACARIA

Thou dost bid—wisely. Fear not thou to take Guilt-stain of me ; but let me die—die free.
Come with me, ancient : in thine arms to die 560
I ask. Be near me ; veil my corse with robes,
Since to the horror of the knife I pass—
If I be of the sire that I boast mine.

IOLAUS

I cannot stand and look upon thy doom.

MACARIA

At least ask thou the king that I may breathe
My last breath not in men's but women's hands.

DEMOPHON

This shall be, hapless among maidens : shame
Were mine to grace thee not with honour meet,
For causes manifold ; for thy great heart,
For justice' sake, and for that thou art brave 570
Above all women that mine eyes have seen.
Wouldst thou say aught to these, or this grey sire,
Speak thy last word, or ever thou depart. [Exit.

MACARIA

Farewell, old sire, farewell, and teach, O teach
These boys to be like thee, in all things wise
As thou art—no whit more : that shall suffice.
And strive from death to save them, loyal soul :
Thy children are we, fostered by thine hands.
Thou seest how my bloom of spousal-tide
I yield up in the stead of these to die. 580
And ye, O band of brethren at my side,
Blessings on you ! May all be yours, for which
The cleaving of mine heart shall pay the price.

Alemena, my sire's mother, honour ye,
And these our hosts. If there be found of heaven
For you release from toils, and home-return,
Remember then your saviour's burial due,—
Fair burial, as is just. I have failed you naught,
Have stood your champion, for mine house have died. 590 .
My treasure this shall be, for babes unborn,
Spousals forgone ;—if in the grave aught be :
But ah that naught might be !—for if there too
We mortals who must die shall yet have cares,
I know not whither one shall turn ; since death
For sorrows is accounted chiefest balm.

IOLAUS

O thou who for high courage hast no peer,
Above all women, know, in life, in death,
Most chiefest honour shalt thou have of us.
Farewell ; for awe I dare not curse the Goddess, 600

How, hath a herald from their Argos come
Again to outrage thee ? My strength is weakness ;

Smite?—yea, but thou thyself ere then mightst fall.

IOLAUS

There is no foe shall dare to meet mine eyes.

HENCHMAN

Thou hast not, good my lord, thine olden strength.

IOLAUS

Yet foes by tale not fewer will I fight.

IOLAUS

There hang within yon fane arms battle-won.

These will I use, and, if I live, restore ;—

The God will not require them of the slain.

Pass thou within, and from the nails take down,

And bring with speed to me, that warrior-gear.

[Exit HENCHMAN.]

Shameful it is—this loitering at home,

That some should fight, some, craven souls, hang back !

CHORUS

Not yet may the years quell thy spirit,

Young in heart, though thy strength be no more !

Why toil to thine hurt but in vain ?

Small help of thee Athens should gain.

Let thine eld yet be wise, and refrain

From things hopeless : thou canst not inherit

Yet again the lost prowess of yore.

ALCMENA

Make all speed to encase in these thy frame.

The fight is nigh, and most the War-god loathes

Go mailless now, and lap thee mid the ranks

In this array : till then will I bear all.

IOLAUS

Well hast thou said : yet ready to mine hand

Bring on the arms : set in mine hand a spear :

Bear up my left arm, ordering my steps.

Shout triumph up through heaven's expansion,
Up to the throne of all men's Lord,
Up to grey-eyed Athena's mansion !

To shear through danger with the sword,
For right of sanctuary.

Zeus' favour is my right, my crown :

In mine esteem above the Blest

Never shall mortals stand.

Our foes are smitten : trophies now are reared
Hung with war-harness of thine enemies.

Marvels thou speakest: yet I pray thee tell
First how the fight was victory for our friends.

SERVANT

One speech of mine shall set forth all to thee.
When host against host we had ranged the array
Of men-at-arms far-stretching face to face,
Then from his chariot Hyllus lighted down,

THE CHILDREN OF HERCULES

And midway stood between the spearmen-lines,
And cried, " O captain of the host, who hast coine
From Argos, wherefore spare we not this land ?
Lo, if thou rob Mycenae of one man,
Naught shalt thou hurt her :—come now, man to man
Fight thou with me : so, slaying, lead away
Hercules' sons ; or, falling, leave to me
My father's honour and halls to have and hold." 810

" Yea ! " the host shouted, counting this well said
For valour and for rest from battle-toil :
Yet he, unshamed for them that heard the challenge,
And his own cowardice, war-chief though he were,
Dared not draw nigh the essay of valour's spear,
But was sheer craven. And this dastard wretch
Came to enslave the sons of Hercules !
So to the ranks again went Hyllus back :
And the priests, knowing now that end of strife
Should not by clash of champion shields be attained, 820
Did sacrifice, nor tarried, but straightway
Spilled from the victims' throats the auspicious blood.

Then mounted these their cars : their shield-rims those

Before their bodies cast. But Athens' king
Cried to his host, as high-born chieftain should :
" Countrymen, now must each one play the man
For this land that hath borne and nurtured him ! "
The while that other prayed his battle-aid
To brook not shame to Argos and Mycenae.
But when the Tuscan trumpet gave the sign 830
High-shrilling, and the war-hosts clashed in fight,
How mighty a crash of bucklers thundered then—

THE CHILDREN OF HERCULES

Think'st thou?—what multitudinous groan and shriek!

At first the onset of the Argive spear
Burst through our ranks: then gave they back again.
Anon foot stood in grapple locked with foot,
Man fronting man, hard-wrestling in the fray:
Fast, fast they fell. Cheers ever answered cheers—
“Dwellers in Athens!”—“Tillers of the land
Of Argos!”—“from dishonour save your town!” 840
With uttermost endeavour and strong strain
Scarce turned we unto flight the Argive spear.

Thereat old Iolaus, marking where Hyllus charged on, with outstretched hand besought
That he would set him on a courser-car.

Then the reins grasped he, then the steeds he sped
After Eurystheus. All the rest I tell
From others' lips: the former things I saw.
For, as he passed beyond Pallene's Hill
Sacred to Pallas, spying Eurystheus' car 850
He prayed to Zeus and Hebe, for one day
To be made young, and wreak the vengeance due
On foes:—now shalt thou hear a miracle.
For two stars rested on the chariot-yoke,
And into gloom of shadow threw the car;
And these, diviners say, were thy great son
And Hebe. Then from out that murky gloom
He flashed—a youth, with mighty-moulded arms!

And glorious Iolaus overtook
By the Scironian Rocks Eurystheus' car. 860
He hath bound his hands with gyves, and hath returned
Bringing the crown of victory, that chief

Zeus, late on mine affliction hast thou looked ;
Yet thank I thee for all that thou hast wrought. 870
Now know I of a surety that my son
Dwelleteth with Gods :—ere this I thought not so.
O children, now, yea now from trouble free,
And from Eurystheus, doomed to a dastard's death,
Free shall ye be, shall see your father's city,

And sacrifice to your fathers' Gods, from whom Banned ye have known a wretched homeless life.

CHORUS

(Str. 1)

Sweet to me is the dance, when clear-pealing

 Ring the flutes o'er the wine,

And when Love cometh sweetly in-stealing

 Yea, and gladness is mine

To look on my dear ones well-faring

Which aforetime were whelmed in despairing.

Many blessings fate cometh on-bearing,

With whom Time paceth on, bringing healing,

 Cronos' offspring divine.

900

In justice, my land, thy path lieth : (Ant. 1)

 This thy crown yield to none,

That thou fearest the Gods : who denieth,

 Into madness hath run.

Lo, what sign is revealed for a token,

How the pride of wrong-doers is broken

Evermore; how to-day hath God spoken,

How the voice of Omnipotence crieth

 In the deeds he hath done !

He hath died not !—to heaven hath risen (Str. 2) 910

 Thy scion, grey queen.

Tell me never that Hades' dim prison

 His long home hath been !

Nay, he soared through the flames leaping round him ;

And with honour the Spousal-god crowned him,

And to Hebe with love-links he bound him,—

Zeus' son to Zeus' daughter,—where glisten

 Heaven's halls with gold-sheen.

 Insatiate for prey.

MESSENGER

O queen, thou seest,—yet shall it be told,—
Leading Eurystheus unto thee we come,
A sight unhop'd, which ne'er he looked should hap, 930
Who ne'er had thought to fall into thine hands,
When from Mycenae with vast shield-essay
He marched, his pride o'er justice soaring high,
To smite our Athens. But our destinies
Fortune reversed, and changed them, his for ours.
Hyllus I left and valiant Iolaus
Raising the victory-trophy unto Zeus ;
But me they charge to bring this man to thee,
Being fain to glad thine heart ; for 'tis most sweet
To see a foe triumphant once brought low. 940

ALCMENA

 trapped thee !
Nay then, first turn thou hitherward thine head,
And dare to look thine enemies in the face.

Caitiff, on my son—whereso now he be ?
For wherein didst thou fear to outrage him,
Who didst to Hades speed him living down,
Didst send him, bidding him destroy thee Hydras 950
And lions ? All the ills thou didst devise
I name not, for the tale were all too long.
Nor yet sufficed thee this alone to dare ;
But from all Hellas me and mine didst thou
Still hunt, though suppliant to the Gods we sat,
These stricken in years, those little children yet.
But men, and a free city, hast thou found,
Which feared thee not. Now die the dastard's death.
Yet is thy death all gain : thou ought'st to die
Not one death, who hast wrought ills manifold. 960

THE CHILDREN OF HERCLES

Aye scheming—Night sat by, and counselled me—
How I might scatter and destroy my foes,
And have thenceforth for housemate fear no more,
Knowing thy son no cipher, but a man
In very deed ; for, though he be my foe,
Praise shall he have, a very hero he.

But, rid of him, was I not even constrained—
Abhorred of these, ware of that heritage
Of hate—to move each scorpion-hiding stone,
By slaying, banishing, and plotting still ?
While this I did, my safety was assured.
But thou, forsooth, had but my lot been thine,
Hadst spared to persecute the infuriate whelps
Left of thy foe the lion,—wisely rather Hadst let them dwell in Argos ? I trow not 1000

Now therefore since, when I was fain to die,
They slew me not, by all the Hellene laws
My death pollution brings on whoso slays.
Wisely did Athens spare me, honouring more
God, far above all enmity of me.
Thou art answered. I must be hereafter named
The Haunting Vengeance, and the Heroic Dead.
Thus is it with me—I long not for death,
Yet to forsake life nowise shall I grieve.

Then yield him dead to friends that come for him.
Touching his corpse I will not cheat the state ;
But die he shall, and do me right for wrong.

EURYSTHEUS

Slay : I ask not thy grace. But I bestow
On Athens, who hath spared, who shamed to slay me,

An ancient oracle of Loxias,
Which in far days shall bless her more than seems.
Me shall ye bury where 'tis fate-ordained, 1030
Before the Virgin's shrine Pallenian ;
So I, thy friend and Athens' saviour aye,
A sojourner shall lie beneath your soil,
But to these and their children sternest foe
What time they march with war-hosts hitherward,
Traitors to this your kindness :—such the guests
Ye championed ! Wherefore then, if this I knew,
Came I, and feared not the God's oracles ?
Hera, methought, was mightier far than these,
And would not so forsake me. Shed not thou 1040
Drink-offerings nor blood upon my tomb !
Ill home-return will I give thy sons' sons
For this ! Of me shall ye have double gain,—
My death shall be your blessing and their curse.

ALCMENA

Why linger then—if so ye must achieve
Your city's safety and your children's weal—
To slay this man, who hear this prophecy ?
Himself the path of perfect safety points.

THE
PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

ARGUMENT

WHEN Oedipus, king of Thebes, was ware that he had fulfilled the oracle uttered ere he was born, in that he had slain his father, king Laius, and wedded his mother Jocasta, he plucked out his own eyes in his shame and misery. So he ceased to be king; but, inasmuch as his two sons rendered to him neither love nor worship, he cursed them with this curse, "that they should divide their inheritance with the sword." But they essayed to escape this doom by covenanting to rule in turn, year by year. So Eteocles, being the elder, became king for the first year, and Polyneices his brother departed from the land, lest any occasion of offence should arise. But when after a year's space he returned, Eteocles refused to yield to him the kingdom. Then went he to Adrastus, king of Argos, who gave him his daughter to wife, and led forth a host of war under seven chiefs against Thebes.

And herein is told how the brothers met in useless parley; by what strange sacrifice Thebes was saved; of the Argives' vain assault; and how the brothers slew each other in single combat.

I, daughter of Menoeceus am I named ;
My brother Creon the selfsame mother bare.
Jocasta men call me : this name my sire
Gave ; Laius wedded me. But when long years
Of wedlock brought no child our halls within,
He went and questioned Phoebus, craved withal
For me, for him, male heirs unto his house.
The God spake : " King of chariot-glorious Thebes, Beget not seed of sons in Heaven's despite.
If so thou do, thee shall thine issue slay,
And all thine house shall wade through seas of blood."

Yet he, to passion yielding, flushed with wine,
Begat a son; and when our babe was born,

Ware of his sin, remembering the God's word,
He gave the babe to herdmen to cast forth.
In Hera's Mead upon Cithaeron's ridge,
His ankles pierced clear through with iron spikes,
Whence Hellas named him Swell-foot—Oedipus.

But Polybus' horse-tenders found him there,
And bare him home, and in their mistress' hands
Laid. To my travail's fruit she gave her breast, 30
Telling her lord herself had borne the babe.
Now, grown to man with golden-bearded cheeks,
My son, divining, or of some one told,
Journeyed, resolved to find his parents forth,
To Phoebus' fane. Now Laïus my lord,
Seeking assurance of the babe exposed,
If dead he were, fared thither. And they met,
These twain, where parts the highway Phocis-ward.
Then Laïus' charioteer commanded him—
“Stand clear, man, from the pathway of a prince !” 40
Proudly he strode on, answering not. The steeds
Spurned with their hoofs his ankles, drawing blood.

Then—why tell aught beyond the sad event?—
Son slayeth father, takes the car, and gives
To Polybus, his fosterer. While the Sphinx
Was ravaging Thebes, when now my lord was not,
Creon my brother published that the man,
Whoso should read the riddle of that witch-maid,
Even he should wed me. Strangely it befell—
Oedipus, my son, read the Sphinx's song, 50
Whence he became the ruler of this land:
Yea, for his guerdon wins the throne of Thebes,
And weds his mother,—wretch!—unwitting he,
Unwitting she that she was her son's bride..

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

And children to my son I bare, two sons,
Eteocles and famed Polyneices' might,
And daughters twain : the one the father named
Ismene, the elder I, Antigone.
But, when he knew me mother both and wife,
Oedipus, crushed 'neath utterest sufferings, 60
On his own eyes wrought ruin horrible,
Yea, with gold brooch-pin drenched their orbs with blood.

Now, being to bearded manhood grown, my sons
Close-warded kept their sire, that his dark fate,
By manifold shifts scarce veiled, might be forgot.
Within he lives ; but, by his fate distraught,
A curse most impious hurled he at his sons,
That they may share their heritage with the sword.
They, terror-stricken lest, if they should dwell
Together, Gods might bring the curse to pass, 70
Made covenant that Polyneices first,
The younger, self-exiled, should leave the land,
That Eteocles tarrying wear the crown
One year—then change. But, once in sovereignty
Firm-seated, he would step not from the throne,
And thrust Polyneices banished forth the land.

To Argos fares he, weds Adrastus' child,
And bringeth huge war-muster of Argive shields.
To our very walls seven-gated hath he come,
Claiming his father's sceptre and his right. 80
And I, to allay their strife, persuaded son
In truce to meet son, ere they touch the spear :
And, saith the messenger I sent, he comes.
O dweller Zeus in heaven's veiling light,
Save us, grant reconciling to my sons !

Enter, above, OLD SERVANT and ANTIGONE.

OLD SERVANT

Fair flower of thy sire's house, Antigone,
Albeit thy mother suffered thee to leave
Thy maiden-bower at thine entreaty, and mount 90
The palace-roof to view the Argive host,
Yet stay, that I may scan the highway first,
Lest on the path some citizen appear,
And scandal light—for me, the thrall, 'twere naught,—
On thee, the princess. This known, will I tell
All that I saw, and heard from Argive men,
When, to thy brother on truce-mission sent,
I passed hence thither, and then back from him
Nay, not a citizen draws nigh the halls.
Climb with thy feet the ancient cedar-stair ; 100
Gaze o'er the plain, along Ismenus' stream
And Dirce's flow, on yon great host of foes.

ANTIGONE

Stretch it forth, stretch it forth, the old man's hand, unto me
The child, from the stair, and my feet upbear,
As upward I strain.

OLD SERVANT

Lo, maiden, grasp it : in good time thou com'st,
For yon Pelasgian host is moving now,
Battalion from battalion sundering.

ANTIGONE

O Queen, O Child of Latona, Hecate !
Lo, how the glare of the brass flashes there 110
Over all the plain !

ANTIGONE

Make answer, ancient. What name beareth he ?

OLD SERVANT

Yon chief proclaims him Mycenean-born :
By streams of Lerna King Hippomedon dwells.

ANTIGONE

OLD SERVANT

Tydeus he, of Oeneus' blood.
Aetolia's battle-fire in the breast of him glows.

ANTIGONE

Is this he, ancient, by spousal-ties
Unto mine own Polyneices allied,
Whose wife's fair sister he won for his bride ?
How half-barbaric his harness, of no Greek guise ?

OLD SERVANT

Nay, child, shield-bearers all Aetolians are,
And most unerring hurlers of the lance.

140

ANTIGONE

And thou, how know'st thou, ancient, all so well ?

OLD SERVANT

Even then I noted their shield-blazonry,
When to thy brother with truce-pact I fared :
I marked them, and I know their bearers well.

ANTIGONE

Who is this by Zethus' sepulchre going, [flowing ?
With the keen, stern eyes and the curls long-
A warrior young,
Yet a chief—for in armour brazen-glowing
See his followers throng !

OLD SERVANT

Parthenopaeus, Atalanta's son.

150

ANTIGONE

With his mother, smite with her bow, and in death

Who is hitherward come for my city's wasting !

ANTIGONE

OLD SERVANT

Of Niobe's unwedded daughters seven.
See'st thou ?

Discern the outline of his frame and chest.
O that as wind-driven clouds swift-racing
I might speed with my feet through the air, and light [embracing
By my brother, mine own, and with arms
Might hold but his dear neck close-enfolden—
So long an exile in dolorous plight !
Lo, how he flasheth in armour golden,
Like the morning shafts of the sun bright-blazing !

OLD SERVANT

Hither with joy to fill thee shall he come
By truce.

Enter CHORUS

(Str. 1)

Afar from the tides against Tyre's walls swelling,
For Loxias chosen an offering,
From the Isle of Phoenicia I came, to be thrall
Unto Phoebus, to serve in his palace-hall,
Where 'neath crags of Parnassus, with arrowy fall
Of the snow overspent, he hath made him a dwelling.
O'er Ionian seas did it waft me, the wing
Of the oar, while the West-wind's chariot sped
Over the furrows unharvested 210
That from Sicily roughened ;—before him fled
Music, till all the heavens were telling
The glory of beauty his breathings bring.

The choice of my city's virgin-flowers, (Ant. 1)
A gift of beauty to Loxias made,
To the land of the children of Cadmus we came,
To the sons of Agenor of ancient fame,
Hither brought to a people by lineage the same
With my fathers, even to Laus' towers.
But as gold-wrought statues to stand arrayed 220
For the service of Phoebus appointed we were ;
And Castaly's fount yet waiteth us there,
That my maiden glory of shining hair
May be oversprayed by its hallowing showers,
Ere for Phoebus's service its tresses I braid.

Hail, rock that flashest a splendour of light (Mesode)
From the cloven tongue of thy flame o'er the height
Of the Bacchic peak Dionysus haunteth !

These fear-stricken waters of Dirce leaving
For Apollo's dells by the world's heart lying !

But this day before the wall (Str. 2)
Furious Ares comes ; his hand 240
Lights for Thebes the slaughter-brand—
God forfend his will befall !
Friend with friend is one in pain ;
And Phoenicia with all bane
Of the stately-towered land
Shall condole, a mourning nation.
One our lineage, one our blood ;
All be hornèd Io's brood :
Mine is all your tribulation.

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Dread I, and the hand of Heaven !
For the strife of him who comes
Mail-clad to the ancient homes
Will with Justice' help be striven.

260

Enter POLYNEICES.

POLYNEICES

Lightly, too lightly, have the warders' bolts
Made way for me to pass within the walls.
Wherefore I fear lest, once within their net,
They shall not let me 'scape but with my blood.
Needs must I then turn every way mine eye
Hither and thither, lest some treachery lurk.
Mine hand with this blade armed shall give to me
The assurance of a desperate courage born.
Ha ! who goes there ?—or fear I but a sound ?
All perilous seems to them that venture all,

270

Soon as their feet are set on hostile soil.
Yet do I trust my mother—and mistrust,—
Who drew me to come hither under truce.
But help is nigh ; for lo, the altar-hearth
At hand ; nor void the palace is of folk.
Into its dark sheath let me plunge my sword,
And ask these by the palace who they be.
Ye alien women, say, from what far land
Unto the homes of Hellas are ye come ?

CHORUS

Phoenician was the land that fostered me.

280

Agenor's sons' sons sent me hitherward
To Phoebus, firstfruits of their battle-spoil.
When Oedipus' famed son would speed me on
To Loxias' awful oracle and hearths,
Even then the Argives marched against the town.

But thou, make answer, who art thou that com'st
Into this fortress of seven-gated Thebes?

POLYNEICES

Oedipus, son of Laius, was my sire ;
Menoeceus' child Jocasta gave me birth ;
And me the Theban folk Polyneices name. 290

CHORUS

O kinsmen thou of old Agenor's race,
My rulers, who forth sent me to this place !—
Low on my knees in obeisance I fall,
After the wont of my people, O king !—
Thou art come at the last, to the land of thy fathers comest thou !
What ho, Queen, ho ! fare forth of the hall !
Wide let the palace-portals swing.
Mother that barest him, hear'st thou my call ?
Why dost thou linger to pass from thine high-roofed bowers now,
And around thy son with thine arms to cling ? 300
Enter JOCASTA.

JOCASTA

Your Tyrian accents ringing clear
Smote, O ye maidens, on mine ear, [near.
And lo, my tottering feet, for old slow-trailed, draw
Catches sight of POLYNEICES.

O my son, I behold
Thy face at the last,
After days untold,
O my son !—now east
Thine arms round thy mother, and bosom to bosom enfold me fast.

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Stoop to me, stoop,
Dear face, from above !
Let the dark head droop
The tresses thereof,

Overshadowing my neck with its clustering curls,
with the banner of love.

Hopes, dreams, they were past 310
As a tale that is told ;
Yet thou comest at last
For mine arms to enfold !

What shall I say to thee ?—how shall I grasp it, the rapture of old ?

By assurance of word,
Or by hands that embrace,
Or by feet that are stirred,
Or by body that sways,

Hitherward, thitherward, tossed as the dance intertwineth its maze ?

Ah son, thy father's desolate home forsaking,
Wast thou by thine own brother's tyrannous wrong
Exiled !—for thee thy lovers' hearts were aching, 320
Thebes' heart for thee ached long.

Therefore my white hair have I shorn for mourning,
With weeping let it fall for thee, my son :
Of white robes disarrayed, for all adorning
These night-hued rags I don ;

While in our halls the sightless ancient, ever
Yearning and weeping o'er that noble twain
Whom from home's yoke of love did hatred sever,
Rushed, eager to be slain 330

By his own hand, with sword, with noose down-trailing
From rafters dim,—now groaning o'er the doom
His malison brought on you, and ever wailing
With anguish, hides in gloom.

But thou, my son, men say, hast made affiance
With strangers: children gotten in thine halls
Gladden thee, yea, thou soughtest strange alliance ! 340
Son, on thy mother falls

Thine alien bridal curse to haunt her ever.
Thee shall a voice from Laius' grave accuse.
The spousal torch for thee I kindled never,
As happy mothers use ;

Nor for thy bridal did Ismenus bring thee
Joy of the bath ; nor at the entering-in
Of this thy bride did Theban maidens sing thee.
A curse be on that sin,

Whether from spell of steel born,¹ from thy father, 350
Or lust of strife, or whether revel rose
Of demons in yon halls!—on mine head gather
All tortures of these woes.

CHORUS

Mighty with women is their travail's fruit;
Yea, dear the child is to all womankind.

POLYNEICES

Wisely, and yet not wisely, have I come,
Mother, mid foes : yet all men are constrained
To love their fatherland ; who saith not so,
Sporteth with words, his heart is elsewhere. 360

In such misgiving came I, in such dread
Lest treachery slay me, of my brother framed,
That through the city sword in hand I passed,
Aye keenly glancing round. One stay I had :—
The truce and thy fair faith drew me within These walls ancestral. Full of tears I came,
So late to see home, altars of the Gods,
The athlete-stead that trained me, Dirce's spring,
Whence banished wrongfully, in a strange town dwell, mine eyes a fountain ever of tears. 370

Thee too, for sorrow's crown of sorrow, I see
With shaven head, and in dark mourning robes
Clad—woe is me for my calamities !
Mother, how dire is strife betwixt near kin,
How hopeless reconciliation is !
What doth mine ancient father in his halls,
Whose light is darkness ? And my sisters twain—
Do these bemoan mine exile's misery ?

JOCASTA

Foully doth some God ruin Oedipus' line.
Thus it began—I bare forfended issue ; 380
Wed under curse thy sire,—and thou wast born !
Yet wherefore this ? The Gods' will must we bear,
But how to ask the thing I would I fear,
Lest I should gall thy soul, yet long for this.

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Mother, to set at one those one in blood,
And end mine, thine, and all the city's toils.
Old is the saw,—yet will I utter it :—
Wealth in men's eyes is honoured most of all,
And of all things on earth hath chiefest power.
Captaining countless spears for this I come ;
For the high-born in poverty is naught.

440

CHORUS

Lo, unto parley Eteocles comes.
Mother Jocasta, thine the task to speak
Words whereby thou shalt set thy sons at one.
Enter ETEOCLES.

ETEOCLES

Here am I, mother—all for grace to thee
I come. What needs to do ? Be speech begun.
For I have stayed from marshalling round the walls
The close-linked cordon of defence, to hear
Thy mediation for the which thou hast wrought
On me to admit this man within our walls.

450

JOCASTA

Forbear : haste brings not justice in its train :
But slow speech winneth oftenest wisdom's end.
Refrain fierce look and passion's stormy breath :
The Gorgon's severed head thou seëst not ;
Thou seëst thine own brother hither come.
And thou, unto thy brother turn thy face,
Polyneices ; for, if thou but meet his eye,
Thou shalt the better speak, and hear his words.
Fain would I wisely counsel thee, and thee.
When he whose wrath is hot against his friend
Cometh to meet him, standeth eye to eye,
Let him look only at that for which he came,
And cherish no remembrance of old wrongs.

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Son Polyneices, be the first word thine,
For thou hast brought yon host of Danans' sons,
Wronged, as thou pleadest. Now be some God judge
Hereof, and reconciler of these ills.

POLYNEICES

Plain and unvarnished is the tale of truth,
And justice needs no subtle sophistries : 470
Itself hath fitness ; but the unrighteous plea,
Having no soundness, needeth cunning salves.

I had regard unto my father's house,
My weal, and this man's : fain to 'scape the curse
Uttered of Oedipus against us once,
Of mine own will I went from this realm forth,
Left him for one year's round to rule our land,
Myself in turn to take the sovereignty,
And not in hate and bloodshed clash with him,
And do and suffer ill—as now befalls. 480
And he consented, in the Gods' sight swore,
Yet no whit keepeth troth, but holdeth still
The kingship and mine half the heritage.

Now ready am I, so I receive mine own,
Forth from this land to send my war-array,
To take mine house, in turn therein to dwell,
And for like space to yield it him again,
And not to waste my fatherland, nor bring
Assault of scaling-ladders to her towers,
Which, save I win my right, will I essay 490
To do. I call the Gods to witness this—
That, wholly dealing justly, robbed am I
Of fatherland, unjustly, impiously.
These things have I said, mother, point by point,

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Not wrapped in webs of words, but, in the eyes
Of wise or simple, naked right, meseems.

CHORUS

To me—albeit Hellas nursed me not,
Yet to me soundly seemest thou to plead.

ETEOCLES

Were wisdom gauged alike of all, and honour,
No strife of warring words were known to men. 500
But "fairness," "equal rights"—men know them not.
They name their names : no being they have as things.

Now, mother, nothing feigning will I speak :—
I would mount to the risings of the stars
Or sun, would plunge 'neath earth, if this I could,
So to win Power, diviner than all gods.
This precious thing, my mother, will I not Yield to another, when myself might keep.
No man's part this, to let the better slip
And grasp the worse ! Nay more—I think foul shame 510
That he should come with arms, lay waste the land,
And win his heart's desire. This were reproach
To Thebes, if I, by spears of Argos cowed,
Should yield my sceptre up for him to hold.
With arms should he not come in quest of peace,
Mother ; for parley can accomplish all
That even steel of foes can bring to pass.
If he on other terms will dwell in Thebes,
That may he. This consent I not to yield.
I, who may rule, shall I be thrall to him ? 520

Wherefore let fire and sword have free course now !
Yoke ye the steeds, with chariots fill the plains :—
I will not render him my sovereignty.

CHORUS

Not fair it is, but an offence to justice.

JOCASTA

My son Eteocles, evil unalloyed
Cleaves not to old age : nay, experience
Can plead more wisely than the lips of youth. 530
Why at Ambition, worst of deities,
Son, grasppest thou ? Do not : she is Queen of Wrong.

Homes many and happy cities enters she,
Nor leaves till ruined are her votaries.
Thou art mad for her !—better to honour, son,
Equality, which knitteth friends to friends,
Cities to cities, allies unto allies.
Nature gave men the law of equal rights,
And the less, ever marshalled foe against
The greater, ushers in the dawn of hate. 540
Measures for men Equality ordained,
Meting of weights and number she assigned.
The sightless face of night, and the sun's beam
Equally pace along their yearly round,
Nor either envieth that it must give place.
Sun, then, and night are servants unto men :
Shalt thou not brook to halve your heritage
And share with him ? . . . Ah, where is justice then
Why overmuch dost thou prize Sovrancy—
Injustice throned !—and count it some great thing ? 550
Is worship precious ? Nay, 'tis vanity.
Wouldst have, with great wealth in thine halls, great travail ?
What is thy profit ?—profit but in name ;

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Seeing enough sufficeth for the wise.
Mortals hold their possessions not in fee :
We are but stewards of the gifts of God :
Whene'er he will, he claims his own again.
And wealth abides not, 'tis but for a day.

Come, if I set two things before thee, and ask,
"Wouldst thou be lord or saviour of thy Thebes ? " 560
Wilt thou say, "Lord ? " But if this man prevail,
And Argos' spears bear down Cadmean might,
Then conquered shalt thou see this city of Thebes,
And many captive maidens shalt thou see
Dishonoured with foul outrage by the foe.
Yea, all this wealth thou covetest shall become Thebes' curse, and thou shalt be ambition's fool.

This to thee ; and to thee, Polyneices, this :—
A foolish grace Adrastus did to thee ;
Madly thou too hast marched to ravage Thebes. 570
Come, if thou smite this land,—which God forbid,—
'Fore heaven, how wilt thou set Zeus' trophies up ?
How sacrifice for fatherland o'ercome ?
And how at Inachns' streams inscribe the spoils ?—
"Polyneices hath burnt Thebes, and to the Gods Offers these shields"—thus ? Never, son, be it thine
To win from lips of Hellenes such renown !
But, he triumphant, vanquished thou, to Argos
How canst thou come, here leaving myriads dead ?
And one shall say, "O cursed betrothal made 580
By thee, Adrastus ! For one bridal's sake
We are ruined !" Evils twain thou draw'st on thee,—
There, to lose all, here, fail mid thine emprise.
Forbear, forbear your vehemence ! When meet
Two headstrong fools, the issue is foulest ill.

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Over meadows and tilth-lands harvest-teeming,
Where sprang, from the spousals levin-gleaming
 Of Zeus, the God of the shout wild-ring^{ing} ; 650
And the ivy arching its bowers around him,
With the fairy chains of its greenness bound him,
 To the babe with its sudden tendrils clinging,
Overmantling with shadow the Blessing-laden,
For a theme of the Bacchanal dance unto maiden
 Of Thebes, and to matron evoë-singing.

There on the hallowed fountain's border (Ant.)
Was the dragon of Ares, a ruthless warder ;
 And the glare of his eyeballs fearful-flashing
Wandered in restless-roving keenness
O'er the brimming runnels, the mirrored greenness : 660
 Then came to the spring for the lustral washing
Cadmus, and hurled at the monster, and slew it ;
For he snatched a boulder, his strong arm threw it
 Down on the head of the slaughterer crashing.
Then, of Pallas, the motherless Goddess, bidden, O'er the deep-furrowed earth, in her breast to be hidden,
He scattered the teeth from the grim jaws parted.
And the travailing glebe flung up bright blossom 670
Of mail-clad warriors over the bosom
 Of the earth ; but slaughter the iron-hearted
Again with the earth their mother blent them,
And drenched with their blood the breast which had sent them
Forth, when to sun-quicken^{ed} air they upstarted.

Unto thee too, Epaphus, scion (Epoë.)
 Of our first mother Io, I moan,

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Unto thee, of our lord Zeus sprung,
With my alien chant upflang
And with prayers of an alien tongue ! 680
Thy sons, who reared Thebes to thee, cry on Their father—O come to thine own !
For Demeter, Persephone, wearing
Twin names, have our land in ward—
Even gracious Demeter All-queen,
Who is Earth, nurse of all that hath been,—
O send them, thy people to screen
From the evil, the Queens Torch-bearing !—
Is there aught for the Gods too hard ?

Eteocles (to attendant)

Go thou, and Creon bring, Menoeceus' son, 690
Who is my mother's, even Jocasta's brother.
This tell him, that I would commune with him
Touching our own advantage and the land's,
Ere we go battleward and range the spears.
But lo, he cometh, sparing thy foot's toil.
Myself behold him drawing nigh mine halls.

Enter CREON.

CREON

Seeking to see thee, far I have wended, King
Eteocles ; round to all Cadmean gates
And guards, still searching for thy face, I passed.

Eteocles

Sooth, Creon, fain was I to look on thee : 700
For little worth I found his terms of peace,
When I for parley Polyneices met.

CREON

Beyond Thebes his ambition soars, I hear,
By Adrastus' kinship, and his host, puffed up.

But these things in the Gods' hands must we leave.
Of our main stumblingblock I came to tell.

ETEOCLES

That Argos' host will straightway wind the net

And plant chiefs, as thou biddest, at the gates,

When foes be camped beneath our very walls.

But I will go, that mine hands loiter not.

Slay him, who came to lay my country waste!

See thou to this. Their late betrothal-plight
Now, as I go forth, do I ratify. 760
Thou art my mother's brother : why waste words ?
Give her fair nurture, for thy sake and mine.
My father hath wrought folly against himself,
Blinding his eyes ;—scant praise of mine he hath ;—
And us his curse shall slay, if so it hap.

One thing abides undone, to ask the seer
Teiresias touching this, if aught he hath
Of oracles to tell ; and I will send
Thy son Menoeceus, of thy father named,
Creon, to bring Teiresias hitherward. 770
With a good will shall he commune with thee :
But the seer's art in time past have I mocked
Unto his face ; so he may bear me grudge.

This, Creon, is mine hest to Thebes and thee :—
If my cause conquer, never bury ye
Polyneices' corpse upon this Theban soil.
Who buries him—though near and dear—must die.
This to thee :—to mine henchmen now I speak.
Bring forth my arms, mine harness—panoply,
That to the imminent conflict of the spear 780
I may set forth, with Right to crown mine arms.
To Heedfulness, of all Gods helpfullest,
That she will save this city, now we pray. [Exit.

A strain to whose witchery dances are wreathing :
But with clangour of harness of fight through the Argive array art thou breathing
 War-lust for the blood of our Thebes athirst, 790
 As thou leadest the dance of a revel accurst
 Where no flutes ring.
Thou art found not where fawn-skin and thyrsus in mad reel mingle and sunder,
But with chariots and clashing of bits and with war-horses' footfall of thunder
 By Ismenus' brimming marge
 With the rushing of steeds dost thou charge,
 Into Argives breathing the battle-hate
 Against the sons of the Dragon-state ;
 And with harness of brass and with targe,
 Fronting our ramparts of stone, dost array
 A host for the fray.
A fearful Goddess in sooth is Strife,
 By whose devising the troublous life
Of the Labdacid kings of the land is anguish-rife. 800

And bearing his offspring to sun-litten cloudland un-trodden departed,

She whom Hades from dens of the dead 810

Against Cadmus' children sped !

But a new curse lights upon Thebes and her halls ;
For 'twixt Oedipus' sons the hell-seed falls

Of strife, and it blossometh red.

O, never may aught that is utter shame

Bear honour's name ;

Nay, nor the unblest spousal's fruit

Are sons true-born, but with stain they pollute

Their begetter, the stock that sprang from the self-same root.

(Epode)

Thou didst bear, O land, thou didst bear of old—
For I heard, yea, I heard in mine home, in an alien tongue, the story—

From the dragon of crimson crest that battened on 820 beasts of the wold [and her glory.

A race of the seed of his teeth, to be Thebes' reproach
To Harmonia's bridal descended of yore¹

The Children of Heaven; and Thebes' walls rose to the harp's voice singing, [her brows' enringing,
When the spell of Amphion's lyre fashioned towers for

In the space 'twixt the rivers twain that pour

Out of Dirce, whose dews drift greenness, shedding
Life o'er the plain by Ismenus spreading.

And our ancestress Io of horned brows

Was mother of kings unto Cadmus' house.

Lo, how hath this city, through line on line 830

Of blessings unnumbered, attained to the height

Where the War god's crowns of victory-might Shine !

Enter TEIRESIAS led by his DAUGHTER, with MENOCECUS.

TEIRESIAS

Lead on, my daughter : to my sightless feet
As eyes art thou, as star to mariners.
Hither, on even ground, plant thou my steps.
Guide, lest I stumble : strengthless is thy sire.
Guard in thy maiden hand the augury-lots
Which, when I marked the bodings of the birds,
In the holy seat I took, where I divine. 840
Thou child Menoeceus, son of Creon, tell
How much remaineth of the townward way
To where thy father waits. Faint wax my knees :
Journeying so long, scarce have I strength to go.

CREON

Take heart, Teiresias, thou art nigh thy friends,
And thy foot's anchorage. Grasp his hand, my child.
Mule-car and aged foot alike are wont
To await the upbearing of another's hand.

TEIRESIAS

Here am I. Why this instant summons, Creon ?

CREON

We have not forgotten. Gather strength, regain
Thy breath, cast off thy journey's toil and strain. 850

TEIRESIAS

Sooth am I spent with toil, brought hitherward
But yesterday from King Erechtheus' folk.
There too was war, against Eumolpus' spear,
Where I to Cecrops' sons gave victory.
This crown of gold, as thou mayst see, have I
As firstfruits of the foemen's spoils received.

I take thy triumph-crown for omen fair ;
For we are, as thou knowest, in mid-surge

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Of Danaid war, and Thebes must wrestle hard. 860
King Eteocles, clad in war-array,
Even now is gone to face Mycenae's might ;
But to me gave in charge to inquire of thee
What deeds of ours shall best deliver Thebes.

TEIRESIAS

For Eteocles sealed my lips had been,
The oracles withheld :—since thou wouldest know,
I tell thee. Creon, long this land hath ailed
Since Laius in heaven's despite begat
Oedipus, his own mother's wretched spouse.
Yea, and the gory ruin of his eyes 870
Was heaven's device, for warning unto Greece.

And Oedipus' sons, who fain had cloaked it o'er
With time, as though they could outrun the Gods,
In folly erred : vouchsafing to their sire
Nor honour nor free air, they stung to fury
His misery : dread malison he breathed
Against them, suffering and shamed withal.
What did I not ? What warnings spake I not ?—
And had for guerdon hate of Oedipus' sons.
But nigh them, Creon, mutual slaughter looms ; 880
And corpses many upon corpses piled,
Transfixed with Argive and Cadmean shafts,
With bitter wails shall dower the Theban land.

Thou, hapless town, art made a ruin-heap—
Except unto my bodings one give heed !
This had been best, that none of Oedipus' line
Remained in Thebes, nor citizen nor king :
They are fiend-possessed and doomed to wreck the state.
But, seeing the evil hath o'erborne the good,
One other way of safety yet remains ; 890

And bitter unto those whom fate endows
With power to give their city safety's balm.
I go. Farewell ! What must befall will I—
One midst a multitude—endure. What help ?

[Turns to go.

CREON

Abide here, ancient !

TEIRESIAS

Lay not hold on me.

CREON

TEIRESIAS

Thy fortune flees, not I.

CREON

Tell citizens and city safety's path.

TEIRESIAS

Wouldst thou indeed hear ? Art thou set thereon ?

CREON

Yea : whereunto more earnest should I be ?

TEIRESIAS

Then straightway shalt thou hear mine oracles.

But of this first would I be certified—

Where is Menoeceus, who hath led me hither ?

CREON

What wilt thou do to me ?—wilt slay my son ?

TEIRESIAS

Others shall see to that. 'Tis mine to speak.

CREON

Whence came on me this curse, and on my son ?

TEIRESIAS

Fair question and demand that I show cause.
In that den where the earth-born dragon lay
Watching the streams of Dirce, must he yield,
Slaughtered, a blood-oblation to the earth ;
For Ares, nursing wrath, 'gainst Cadmus long,
Now would avenge his earth-born dragon's death.
Do this, and Ares for your champion win.

930

If earth for seed gain seed, and human blood
For blood, then kindly shall ye prove the earth
Which once sent up a harvest golden-helmed
Of Sown-men. And it needeth that one die
Born of the lineage of the Dragon's Teeth ;
And sole survivor art thou of the Sown
Of pure blood both on sire's and mother's side,
Thou and thy two sons. Haemon's spousals bar
His slaughter, for he is not virgin man.
Though sealed the rite be not, betrothed is he.

940

But this lad, to his city consecrate,
Dying, should yet redeem his fatherland,
And for Adrastus and the Argives make
Bitter return, their eyes with black death palled,

And make Thebes glorious. One of these two fates
Choose : either save the city, or thy son.
Now hast thou all my tale. Lead on, my child,
Homeward. Who useth the diviner's art
Is foolish. If he heraldeth ill things,
He is loathed of those to whom he prophesies.
If, pitying them that seek to him, he lie,
He wrongs the Gods. Sole prophet unto men
Ought Phoebus to have been, who feareth none.

[Exit.]

CHORUS

Why silent, Creon, with lips held from speech ? 960
On me, too, consternation weighs no less.

CREON

What should one say? But clear mine answer is :
Never such depth of misery will I seek,
As offer for my city a slaughtered son !
For love of children filleth all men's life,
And none to death would yield up his own child.
Let no man praise me while he slays my sons !
Myself—who have reached the ripeness of my years—

For death stand ready, to redeem my land.
But up, my child, ere all the city hear : 970
Heed not the reckless words of soothsayers,
But fly—with all speed get thee from the land !
To the seven gates, the captains, will he go,
And tell the rulers and the chieftains this.
Yet, may we but forestall him, thou art saved ;
But if thou lag, undone we are—thou diest.

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Maidens, how well I have stilled my father's fear
By guileful words, to attain the end I would !
Me would he steal hence, robbing Thebes of hope,
Branding me coward ! This might one forgive
In age ; but no forgiveness should be mine
If I betray the city of my birth.

Doubt not but I will go and save the town,
And give my soul to death for this land's sake.
'Twere shame that men no oracles constrain,
Who have not fall'n into the net of fate, 1000
Shoulder to shoulder stand, bленch not from death,
Fighting before the towers for fatherland,
And I, betraying father, brother, yea,
My city, craven-like flee forth the land—
A dastard manifest, where'er I dwell !

By Zeus star-throned, by Ares, slaughter's lord,
Who set on high in kingship over Thebes
The Dragon-brood that cleft the womb of earth,
Go will I, on the ramparts' height will stand,
And o'er the Dragon's gloomy chasm-cave, 1010
Whereof the seer spake, will I slay myself,
And make my country free. The word is said.

I go, to give my country no mean gift,
My life, from ruin so to save the land :
For, if each man would take his all of good,
Lavish it, lay it at his country's feet,
Then fewer evils should the nations prove,
And should through days to come be prosperous.

Half maiden, half brute-beast,

Monster of roving pinions, talons red

From that raw-ravelling feast,

Anguish of slaughter on our country wreaking,

Wreaking a curse-doom fell !

MESSENGER

Ho there! Who standeth at the palace-gate?

Open ye, bring Jocasta forth her bowers.

Ho there, again! Though late, yet come thou forth:

Hearken, renowned wife of Oedipus; 1070
Cease from thy wailings and thy tears of grief.

Enter JOCASTA.

JOCASTA

Friend—friend!—thou com'st not sure with ill news fraught
Of Eteocles' death, by whose shield aye
Thou marchedst, warding him from foemen's darts?

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

What word of tidings bringest thou to me?
Dead is my son, or liveth he?—declare.

MESSENGER

He lives. Fear not! I rid thee so of dread.

JOCASTA

And the seven towers, how fares the fence thereof?

MESSENGER

They stand unshattered: Thebes not yet is spoiled.

JOCASTA

Were they sore perilled of the Argive spear?

1080

MESSENGER

At ruin's brink: but stronger proved the might
Of Cadmus' people than Mycenae's spear.

JOCASTA

One thing, by heaven!—of Polyneices aught
Canst tell? I yearn for this? Doth he see light?

MESSENGER

Liveth thus far thy chariot-yoke of sons.

JOCASTA

Blessings on thee! How did ye thrust the spear
Of Argos back from your beleaguered gates?
Tell, that I may rejoice the blind old man
The halls within, with news of this land saved.

MESSENGER

When Creon's son, who for his country died,
Climbing a tower's height, had thrust the sword
Black-hafted through his throat to save the land,
Seven bands with captains to the seven gates,
For watch and ward against the Argive spear,
Thy son set, horsemen covering horsemen ranged,
And men-at-arms behind the shield-bearers,

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

That, where the wall's defence failed, succour of spears

Might be hard by. Then from the soaring towers
We marked the white shields of the Argive host Leaving Teumessus. Having neared the foss, 1100
Suddenly charging closed they on Cadmus' burg.
Then paean swelled, and shattering trumpet shrilled,
All blended, from the foe and from the walls.

Parthenopaeus, that famed huntress' son,
First led against the Gate Neüstian
A squadron horrent all with serried shields,
On his mid-targe the blazon of his house,
Atalanta slaying the Aetolian boar
With shafts far-smiting. Against Proetus' Gate,
Slain victims on his chariot, marched the seer 1110
Amphiaraus, with no proud device,
But sober weapons void of blazonry.
The gates Ogygian King Hippomedon
Assailed, in mid-targe bearing for device
Argus, with gemmy eyes for aye at gaze,
Some with the rising of the stars aglare,
While, as the stars set, some were slumber-veiled,
As might be seen thereafter, he being slain.
Against the Gate of Homole Tydeus took
His stand, his shield draped with a lion's hide 1120
All shaggy-haired : Titan Prometheus bore
A torch in hand there, as to burn the town.

Thy son Polyneices at the Fountain Gate
Led on the war. Upon his shield the steeds
Of Potniae racing in fear-frenzy sprang,
Wheeled round within by pivots cunningly
Hard by the hand-grip; that they seemed distraught.
High-stomached for the fight as Ares' self,

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Led Capaneus his troop to Electra's Gate ;
And, for his iron-faced buckler's blazonry,
An earth-born giant on his shoulders bore
A whole town from its basement lever-wrenched,
As token for us of our city's fate.

1130

And at the seventh gate Adrastus was,
His graven shield with five-score vipers thronged
Swung on his left arm, even the Argive vaunt,
The Hydra ; and its serpents from our walls
Were snatching Cadmus' children in their jaws.
Each chief's device I well might mark, who bare
The watchword to the leaders of our bands.

1140

Then first with bows and thong-spod javelins
We battled, and with slings that smote from far,
And crashing stones. But when we 'gan prevail,
Suddenly shouted Tydeus and thy son :
" Sons of the Danaans, ere their bolts quell you,
Why do ye tarry, onward-hurling all,
To assault their gates—light-armed, horse, chariot-lords ? "

Soon as they heard that cry, was none hung back.
Many, with heads blood-dashed, were falling fast ;
And of us many earthward flung thou hadst seen
Before the walls, like divers plunging, dead,
Drenching the thirsty soil with streams of gore.

1150

But Atalanta's son—no Argive he—
Hurls like a whirlwind at the gates, and shouts
For fire and mattocks, as to raze the town.
But his mid-fury Periclymenus stayed,
The Sea-god's son, who hurled a wain-load crag,
A battlement-coping, down upon his shield,
Spattered abroad the golden head, and rent
The knittings of its bones : the checks dark-flushed

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Dashed he with blood. No life shall he bear back
To his archer-mother, Maid of Maenalus.
Then, marking how at this gate all went well,
Passed to the next thy son, I following still.
There saw I Tydeus with his serried shields,
With spears Aetolian javelining the height
Of the roofless towers, that from the rampart's crest
Ours fled in panic. But thy son again
Rallies them, as the hunter cheers his hounds ;
So manned the walls anew. To other gates 1170
On pressed we, having stayed the mischief there.

But how the madness tell of Capaneus ?
For, grasping the long ladder's scaling rounds,
On came he, and thus haughtily vaunted he,
That not Zeus' awful fire should hold him back
From razing from her topmost towers the town.
Thus crying, ever as hailed the stones on him,
He climbed, with body gathered 'neath his targe,
Aye stepping from smooth ladder-rung to rung.
But, even as o'er the ramparts rose his head, 1180
Zeus smiteth him with lightning : rang again
The earth, that all quailed. From the ladder flew
His limbs abroad wide-whirling slingstone-like :
Heavenward his hair streamed, earthward rained his blood :
Hands, feet—Ixion on his wheel seemed he—Whirled round. To earth he fell, a corpse flame-blasted.
Adrastus, seeing Zeus his army's foe,
Without the trench drew off the Argive host.
Then, marking Zeus's portent fair for us,
Forth of the gates our horse their chariots drove : 1190
Our footmen crashed through Argos' mid-array
With levelled spears ;—'twas turmoiled ruin all—

Men dying—falling o'er the chariot-rails—
Wheels leaping—axles upon axles dashed,
And corpses heaped on corpses all confused.

So then for this day have we barred the fall
Of our land's towers ; but if good fortune waits
On Thebes henceforth, this resteth with the Gods :
Only a God's hand rescued her to-day.

CHORUS

Glorious is victory : if more favours yet
The Gods intend—ah, may I so be blest !

Fair are the dealings of the Gods and Fate :
For lo, my sons live, and the land hath 'scaped.
But Creon hath, meseems, reaped evil fruit

Reft of his son, for blessing unto Thebes,
But grief to him ! Take up the tale again,
And tell what now my sons are bent to do.

JOCASTA

That shalt thou—except to heaven thou wing thy flight.

MESSENGER

Alas ! why couldst thou let me not go hence
After good tidings, but wouldst have the ill ?
Thy two sons purpose single fight, apart
From all the host—a desperate deed of shame ! 1220
To Argives and Cadmeans one and all
They spake that which would God they had left unsaid !

Eteocles from a lofty tower began—
Having bid publish silence to the host—
And said : “ O battle-chiefs of Hellas-land,
Lords of the Danaans who have hither come,
And Cadmus’ folk—for Polyneices’ sake
Sell not your lives, nor sell them in my cause.
For I myself will free you of this risk,
And with my brother grapple alone in fight. 1230
If I slay him, mine halls I hold alone :
O’erthrown, I yield them up to him alone.
Argives, forbear the struggle, and return
Unto your land, not leaving here your lives ;
And of the Sown suffice the already dead.”
Thus spake he ; Polyneices then, thy son,
Leapt from the ranks, and hailed the challenge-word ;
And all the Argives shouted yea to this,
And Cadmus’ folk, as righteous in their eyes.
On these terms made they truce, and in mid-space 1240
The chiefs took oaths whereby they should abide.
Then ancient Oedipus’ two sons straightway
’gan case their bodies in all-brazen mail,
Holpen of friends ; by Theban lords the king
Of this land, and by Danaan chiefs his brother.

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

There stood they gleaming,—never paled their cheeks,—

Each panting at his foe to dart the spear.

On this side and on that their friends drew nigh,
With heartening words thus speaking unto them ;

"Thine, Polyneices, is it to set up 1250
Zeus' trophy-statue, and give Argos fame" ;

To Eteocles—"Thou for Thebes dost fight :

Now triumph, and thou hold'st her sceptre fast."

So did they hail them, cheering them to fight.

And the priests slew the sheep : flame-tongue they marked,

And flame-cleft, steamy reek that bodeth ill,
The pointed flame, which hath decisions twain,

Betokening victory or overthrow.

If any power thou hast or cunning words,

Or spell of charms, go, pluck thou back thy sons 1260

From that dread strife ; for grim the peril is ;

And, for dread guerdon, tears shall be thy portion,

If thou of two sons be this day bereaved. [Exit.]

CHORUS

Alas and alas ! (Str.)

Shuddering, shuddering horror of soul have I :
Through the very flesh of me pass
Compassion-thrills for a mother in misery. [lie—
Two sons—who, slain of the other, in blood shall Woe, anguish, and dismay !

Zeus !—Earth !—to you I pray :— 1290

With his throat pierced, his life by a brother sped,
His shield cleft, and his blood by a brother shed ?
Woe's me and well-a-day !

For whom shall I uplift my voice to wail him dead ?

O land, O land ! (Ant.)

Two ravening beasts, two spirits of murderous mood,
With the battle-lust quivering they stand ;
But brother shall soon lay brother low in his blood !
Wretches, that ever on duel bent they stood ! 1300

With wail of alien tongue

Shall my wild dirge be sung,

Tears for the dead, and lamentation's cry.

Fate presseth nearer, murder is hard by,

In the sword's balance hung :—

Curst slaughter, curst, the work of Vengeance-destiny !

Ha, 'tis Creon I behold, that hitherward with clouded brow [but now.

Hasteth to the palace. I will hush the wail begun

Dead is my son ! He died for fatherland,
Winning a glorious name, but woe for me.
Him from the Dragon's crags but now I caught
Self-slain, and woefully bare him in mine arms.
My whole house wails. I for my sister come,
Jocasta,—come, the old to seek the old,—
To bathe and lay out this no more my son.
For he who hath not died must reverence
The Nether-gods by honouring the dead.

Gone is thy sister, Creon, forth the house ;
And with her went her child Antigone.

CREON

In single combat for the royal halls.

CREON

How sayest thou ? Lo, tending my son's corse,
I came not to the knowledge of this deed.

CHORUS

Yea, hence thy sister parted long agone :
And that death-struggle, Creon, now, meseems,
Is ended 'twixt the sons of Oedipus.

A messenger, to tell all horrors done.

CREON

Hapless Jocasta, what an end of life
And marriage hast thou proved the Sphinx's riddle !
How came to pass the death of her two sons,
The strife, of Oedipus' curse that came ?—declare.

MESSENGER

The land's fair fortune in her towers' defence
Thou know'st : the girdling walls be not so far
But that thou mayest know whate'er is done.
Now when in brazen mail they had clad their limbs,
Those princes, sons of ancient Oedipus, 1360
Into the mid-space went they forth and stood,
Those chieftains two, those battle-leaders twain,
As for the grapple and strife of single fight.

Then, gazing Argos-ward, Polyueices prayed :
“ Queen Hera,—for thine am I since I wed
Adrastus' child, and dwell within thy land,—
Grant me to slay my brother, and to stain
My warring hand with blood of victory !”—
Asking a crown of shame, to slay a brother.
Tears sprang from many an eye at that dread fate, 1370
And each on other did men look askance.
But unto golden-shielded Pallas' fane
Eteocles looked, and prayed : “ Daughter of Zeus,
Grant that the conquering spear, of mine hand sped,
Yea; from this arm, may smite my brother's breast,
And slay him who hath come to waste my land !”

Then, when the Tuscan trump, like signal-torch,
Rang forth the token of the bloody fray,
Forth darted each at other in terrible rush ;
And, like wild boars that whet the tameless tusk, 1380
Clashed they, foam-flakes beslivering their beards.

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

With spears they lunged : yet crouched behind their shields,

That so the steel might bootless glance aside.

And, if one saw foe's eye peer o'er the targe,
Aye thrust he, fain to overreach his fence.

Yet cunningly through eyelets of their shields

They glanced, that naught awhile the spear achieved,
While more from all beholders trickled sweat,
Of fear for friends, than from the champions' selves.

But Eteocles, spurning aside a stone

1390

That rolled beneath his tread, without his shield

Showed glimpse of fenceless limb. Polyneices lunged,
Marking the stroke so offered to the steel ;

And through the shank clear passed the Argive lance.
Loud cheered the whole array of Danaus' sons.

But his foe's shoulder by that effort bared

The stricken marked, and Polyneices' breast

Pierced with a strong spear-thrust, and gave back joy
To Cadmus' folk ; yet brake his spear-head short.

So, his lance lost, back fell he step by step,

1400

Caught up a rugged rock, and sped its flight,

Snapping his foe's spear thwart. Now was the fray
Equal, since either's hand was spear-bereft.

Thereupon snatched they at their falchion-hilts,

Closed, clashing shields, and, traversing to and fro,

Made rage the stormy clangour of the fight.

But, having learnt it visiting Thessaly,

Eteocles used the northern warriors' feint :

For, from the instant grapple springing clear,

Back on his left foot, backward still, he sinks,

1410

Watching the while his foe's waist : leaping then,

The right foot foremost, through the navel plunged

His sword, and 'twixt the spine-bones wedged the point.

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Then, ribs and belly inarched in anguish-throe,
Down-raining blood-gouts, Polyneices falls.
Our king, as victor, winner of the fight,
Casting his sword down, fell to spoiling him,
Heeding but that, nor recking his own risk ;
Which thing undid him. Faintly breathing yet,
Still grasping in his grievous fall his sword,
First-fallen Polyneices with hard strain
Plunged into Eteocles' heart the blade. 20
Gnashing in dust their teeth, there side by side
They lie, those twain, the victory doubtful still.

CHORUS

Alas ! I wail thy sore griefs, Oedipus !
Thy malisons, I wot, hath God fulfilled.

MESSENGER

Ah, but hear now what woes remain to tell.
Even as her fallen sons were leaving life,
Their wretched mother rusheth on the scene,—
She and the maid, with haste of eager feet ; 1430
And, seeing them stricken with their mortal wounds,
She wailed, " Ah sons, too late for help I come ! "

Then, falling on her sons, on each in turn,
She wept, she wailed, her long vain nursing-toil
Bemoaning : and their sister at her side—
" Props of your mother's age, dear brethren, who Leave me a bride unwed ! " One dying gasp
Hard-heaving from his breast, King Eteocles
His mother heard, touched her with clammy hand,
Uttered no word, but from his eyes he spake 1440
With tears, as giving token of his love.
But Polyneices breathing yet, and gazing
On sister and on aged mother, spake :

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

"Mother, our death is this. I pity thee,
And thee, my sister, and my brother dead.
Loved, he became my foe : but loved—yet loved !
Bury me, mother, and thou, sister mine,
In native soil, and our chafed city's wrath
Appease ye, that I win thus much at least
Of fatherland, though I have lost mine home. 1450
And close thou up mine eyelids with thine hand,
Mother ;—"himself on his eyes layeth it—
"And fare ye well : the darkness wraps me round."
So both together breathed their sad life forth.

And when the mother saw this woeful chance,
Grief-frenzied, from the dead she snatched a sword,
And wrought a horror : for through her mid-neck
She drives the steel, and with her best-beloved
Lies dead, embracing with her arms the twain.
Leapt to their feet the hosts with wrangling cries,— 1460
We shouting that our lord was conqueror,
They, theirs. And strife there was between the chiefs,
These crying, "First smote Polyneices' spear!"
Those, "Both be dead : with none the victory rests!"
Antigone from the field had stol'n the while,

Then rushed the foe to arms ; but Cadmus' folk
By happy forethought under shield had halted ;
So we forestalled the Argive host, and fell
Suddenly on them yet unfenced for fight.
Was none withstood us : huddled o'er the plain 1470
Fled they, and streamed the blood from slain untold
By spears laid low. So, victors in the fight,
Our triumph-trophy some 'gan rear to Zeus ;
And, some from Argive corpses stripping shields,
Within our battlements the spoils we sent.

When I cast on the earth the tiring that bound mine 1490
Loose flinging my bright robe saffron of hue—
I, by whom corpses with wailing are graveward led.
Polyneices, "the man of much strife"—well named!
Woe's me!—
No strife was thy strife: it was murder by murder brought [fraught
To accomplishment, ruin to Oedipus' house, and
With bloodshed of horror, with bloodshed of misery.
On what bard shall I call?
What harper of dirges shall I bid come
To wail the lament,—O home, mine home!— 1500
While the tears, the tears fall,
As I bear three bodies of kindred slain,
Mother and sons, while the Fiend gloats over our woe

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Who brought in ruin the house of Oedipus low,
In the day when the Songstress Sphinx's strain,
So hard to read, by his wisdom was read,
And the fierce shape down unto death was sped ?

Woe for me, father mine !

Who hath borne griefs like unto thine ?

What Hellene, or alien, or who that sprang
Of the ancient blood of a high-born line,
Whose race in a day is run, hath endured in the sight of the sun

1510

Such bitter pang ?

Woe's me for my dirge wild-ringing !

What song-bird that rocketh on high,
Mid the boughs of the oak-tree swinging,

Or the pine-tree, will echo my cry,
The moans of the motherless maiden,

Who wail for the life without friend
I must know, who shall weep sorrow-laden

1520

Tears without end ?

Over whom shall I make lamentation ?

Unto whom with rendings of hair
Shall I first give sorrow's oblation ?

Shall I cast them, mine offerings, thère
Where the twin breasts are of my mother,

Where a sucking babe I have lain,
Or on ghastliest wounds of a brother
Cruelly slain ?

Come forth of thy chambers, blind father ;
Ancient, thy sorrows lay bare,
Who didst cause mist-darkness to gather
On thine own eyes, thou who dost wear

Weariful days out. O hearken,
Whose old feet grope through the hall,
Who in gloom that no night-tide can darken
On thy pallet dost fall.

Enter OEDIPUS.

OEDIPUS

Why hast thou drawn me, my child, to the light,
Whose sightless hand to thine hand's prop clings, 1540
Who was bowed on my bed amid chambers of night,—
Hast drawn by a wail through tears that rings,—
A white-haired shape, like a phantom that fades
On the sight, or a ghost from the underworld shades,
Or a dream that hath wings?

ANTIGONE

Woe is the word of my tidings to thee !
Father, thy sons behold no more
The light, nor thy wife, who aye upbore
Thy blind limbs tirelessly, tenderly,
O father, ah me !

1550

OEDIPUS

Ah me for my woes ! Full well may I shriek, full well may I moan !
By what doom have the spirits of these three flown
From the light of life ? O child, make known.

ANTIGONE

Not as reproaching, nor mocking, I tell,
But in anguish. Thy curse, with its vengeance of hell,
With swords laden, and fire,
And ruthless contention, on thy sons fell :
Woe's me, my sire !

OEDIPUS

For the evil fate of my sons, it is all too plain !

But ah, mine unhappiest wife !—by what doom, O
my child, was she slain ?

ANTIGONE

Weeping and wailing, that all of her coming were ware,
Hasted she. Unto her children she bare, O she bare

And she found her sons at Electra's portal,

Closing with spears in the combat mortal :

Yea, now the oblation of death fell plashing

And she snatched from the dead, and the bronzehammered blade through her bosom she thrust ;
And in grief for her children, enclasping her child-

CHORUS

Many an ill to Oedipus' house this day
Brings forth. May happier life be yet in store!

CREON

Refrain laments : time is it we gave heed
To burial. Unto these words, Oedipus,
Hearken : thy son Eteocles gave me rule
O'er this land, making it a marriage-dower
To Haemon with thy child Antigone.
Therefore thou mayest dwell therein no more ;
For plainly spake Teiresias—never Thebes
Shall prosper while thou dwellest in the land.
Then get thee forth : this not despiteously
I speak, nor as thy foe, but fearing hurt
To Thebes by reason of thy vengeance-fiends.

1590

OEDIPUS

Fate, from the first to grief thou barest me,
And pain, beyond all men that ever were.
Ere from my mother's womb I came to light,
Phoebus to Laius spake me, yet unborn,
My father's murderer—ah, woe is me !
When I was born, my father, my begetter,—
Doomed by mine hand to die,—accounting me
From birth his foe, would slay me, sent me forth,
A suckling yet, a wretched prey to beasts.

1600

Yet was I saved. Oh had Cithaeron sunk
Down to the bottomless chasms of Tartarus,
For that it slew me not!—but Fate gave me
To be a bondman, Polybus my lord.
So mine own father did I slay, and came,—
Ah wretch!—unto mine hapless mother's couch.
Sons I begat, my brethren, and destroyed,

THE PHOENICIAN MAIDENS

Passing to them the curse of Laius.
For not so witless am I from the birth,
As to devise these things against mine eyes
And my sons' life, but by the finger of God.
Let be :—what shall I do, the fortune-crost?
Who shall companion me, my blind steps guide?
She who is dead? O yea, were she alive!
My sons, a goodly pair? Nay, I have none.
Am I yet young, to win me livelihood?
Whence? Wherefore, Creon, slay me utterly?
For thou wilt slay, if forth the land thou cast.
Yet never twining round thy knee mine hands
A coward will I show me, to betray
My noble birth, how ill soe'er I fare.

CREON

Well hast thou said thou wilt not clasp my knees:
I cannot let thee dwell within the land.
Of these dead twain, be this within the halls
Borne straightway: that—the corpse of him who came
With aliens to smite his father's city—
Forth of the land's bounds toinbless shall be cast. 1630
To all Cadmeans shall this be proclaimed:—
“ Whoso on this corpse laying wreaths is found,
Or with earth hiding, death shall be his meed.
Unwept, unburied, leave him meat for birds.”
But thou thy mourning for the corpses three,
Antigone, leave, and get thee within doors.
Thy maiden state until the morrow keep,
Whereon the couch of Haemon waiteth thee.

ANTIGONE

Father, in what ills is our misery whelmed!
For thee I make moan more than for the dead.

ARGUMENT

In the days when Theseus ruled in Athens, there was war between Argos and Thebes. For the two sons of Oedipus, being mindful of their father's curse, that they should divide their inheritance with the sword, covenanted to rule in turn, year by year, over Thebes. So Eteocles, being the elder, became king for the first year, and Polyneices his brother departed from the land, lest any occasion of offence should arise. But when after a year's space he returned, Eteocles refused to yield to him the kingdom. Then went he to Adrastus, king of Argos, who gave him his daughter to wife, and led forth a host of war under seven chiefs against Thebes. But, forasmuch as in going he set at naught oracles and seers, his array was utterly broken in battle, and of those seven captains none returned, but Adrastus only. Thereafter, according to the sacred custom of Hellas, and the law of war, the Argives sent to require the Thebans to suffer them to bear away their slain that they might bury them. For, among the Greeks, if a man being dead obtained not burial, this was accounted a calamity worse than death, forasmuch as he was thereby made homeless and accurst in Hades. Yet did the Thebans impiously and despitefully reject that claim, being minded to wreak vengeance on their enemies after death. Then king Adrastus, with the mothers of the slain chiefs, came to Eleusis in Attica, and made supplication at the altar of Demeter to Aethra the mother of Theseus, and to the king's self. So Theseus consented to their prayer, and led the array of Athens against Thebes, and there fought and prevailed, and so brought back the bodies of those chiefs, and rendered to them the death-rites at Eleusis.

SUPPLIANTS

On the steps of the altar AETHRA is seated ; and around her sit the members of the CHORUS. The olive-boughs of suppliance lie upon the altar, and from these are stretched woollen fillets, attaching them to AETHRA and the CHORUS. ADRASTUS lies prostrate on the earth, apart from these.

AETHRA

DEMETER, warden of Eleusis-land,
And ye which keep and serve the Goddess' fanes,
Grant me and my son Theseus prosperous days,
Grant them to Athens and to Pittheus' land,
Where in a happy home my sire nursed me,
Aethra, and gave me to Pandion's son
Aegeus, to wife, by Loxias' oracles.

Thus pray I as on these grey dames I look,
These which have left their homes in Argos-land,
And fall with suppliant bough before my knee, 10
Stricken with grievous stroke : for round the gates
Of Cadmus lying are their seven sons dead,
Sons of the childless, they whom Argos' king
Adrastus led, in Oedipus' heritage
To win his share for exiled Polyneices,
His daughter's lord. The mothers now of these,
The spear-slain, fain would lay them in the grave,
Wherfrom the victors let them, and refuse
The corpses, setting the Gods' laws at naught.

SUPPLIANTS

Sharing the burden of their need of me, 20
Adrastus lieth here, his eyes with tears
Drowned, mourning for the battle-shivered spear
And that ill-starred array led forth of him.
Sore pleadeth he with me to bend by prayers
My son to be redeemer of the dead
By speech or spear, and helper to the grave,
Laying this charge alone upon my son
And Athens. Now it chanceth that I come
For the land's harvest's sake from forth mine halls
To this god's-acre, where first rose to light
Above the earth's face bristling ears of corn. 30

And, bound in this strong gossamer-chain of leaves,¹
At the two Goddesses' holy hearths I stay,
Demeter's and her Daughter's, both for ruth
Of these unchilded mothers silver-haired,
And awe of the holy bands. To Athens sped
Mine herald is, to summon Theseus hither,
That he may banish from the land these mourners,²
Or loose this strong constraint of suppliance
By rendering heaven its due. Seemly it is 40
That women, which be wise, still act through men.

CHORUS

(Str. 1)

Reverend Queen, with aged lips do I implore thee ;
In my suppliance at thy knee I fall before thee.
O redeem thou unto me from that assemblage of the dead

¹ The woollen fillets and boughs could not be removed without sacrilege.

² The presence of such, especially at the temple of Demeter, was ominous of evil, which the king only could avert, either by granting their request, or by refusing it and ordering them to depart.

Such desolation worketh woeful war.

ADRASTUS

And these my dead I went to ask of Thebes.

120

THESEUS

Did heralds sanctify thy burial-claim ?

ADRASTUS

Yea : even so the slayers grant them not.

THESEUS

What say they to thy plea of holy right ?

ADRASTUS

Ay, what?—prosperity hath puffed them up.

THESEUS

For counsel com'st thou then, or what wouldest thou ?

ADRASTUS

That thou shouldst rescue, Theseus, Argos' sons.

THESEUS

Where is your Argos ? Is her vaunting vain ?

ADRASTUS

We are fallen and undone. To thee we come.

THESEUS

Dost thou alone will this, or all thy state ?

ADRASTUS

All Danaus' sons beseech thee entomb their dead. 130

THESEUS

Why didst thou march those seven hosts to Thebes?

ADRASTUS

Even that hath ruined many a battle-chief,
O thou in prowess first all Hellas through,
O king of Athens, sore ashamed am I
To fall to earth, and to embrace thy knee,
A grey-haired king in time past prosperous.
Yet to mine evil plight I needs must bow.

Save thou my dead, compassionate my woes,
And these the mothers of the slaughtered sons
Whom hoary age hath found in childlessness, 170
Who have endured to come, on alien soil
To set their feet, who scarce for eld may creep ;
No mission to Demeter's mysteries,
But seeking burial for their dead, a boon
Themselves should have obtained of young strong hands.

Wisely doth wealth consider poverty :
Wisely to wealth the poor uplifts his eyes
Aspiring, that desire of good may spur him : .
So ought the prosperous to look on woe.
[The poet's self in gladness should bring forth 180
His offspring, song ; if he attain not this,
He cannot from a heart distraught with pain
Gladden his fellows : reason sayeth nay.]

Perchance thou askest, " Why pass by the land
Of Pelops, and on Athens lay this charge ? "
Sooth, right it is that I should answer this :—
Sparta is heartless, never at one stay ;
The rest be small and weak : but this thy burg
Alone can stand beneath the mighty strain.

A young and valorous chief, for lack of whom
To lead their hosts, have many cities fallen.

CHORUS

I too put up to thee the selfsame prayer,
Theseus, to have compassion on my lot.

THESEUS

With others oft in wrestle of argument
I have grappled touching this:—there be that say
That evil more abounds with men than good.
Opinion adverse unto these I hold,
That more than evil good abounds with men:
Were this not so, we were not of the light.

200

Praise to the God who shaped in order's mould
Our lives redeemed from chaos and the brute,
First, by implanting reason, giving then
The tongue, word-herald, to interpret speech;
Earth's fruit for food, for nurturing thereof
Raindrops from heaven, to feed earth's fosterlings;
And water her green bosom; therewithal
Shelter from storm, and shadow from the heat,
Sea-tracking ships, that traffic might be ours
With fellow-men of that which each land lacks;
And, for invisible things or dimly seen,
Soothsayers watch the flame, the liver's folds,
Or from the birds divine the things to be.

210

Are we not arrogant then, when all life's needs
God giveth, therewith not ta be content?
But our presumption stronger fair would be
Than God: we have gotten overweening hearts,
And dream that we be wiser than the Gods.
And thou art of this fellowship of folly,
Who didst by Phoebus'hest thy daughters wed,

SUPPLIANTS

To aliens—thus far recognising Gods ;—
Yet mingling thy clear blood with turbid, so Didst mar thine house : thou oughtest ne'er to have blent,
So thou wert wise, just lives with lives unjust,
But for thine house to have gotten heaven-blest friends :
For God, adjudging fates joined hand in hand,
Destroyeth by the sinner's stroke whoe'er
Partaketh with him, though he have not sinned.
Thou leddest forth the Argives all to war, [naught
Though seers spake heaven's warning, setting at 230
These, flouting Gods, didst ruin so thy state,
By young men led astray, which love the praise
Of men, and multiply wars wrongfully,
Corrupting others, one, to lead the host,
One, to win power, and use it for his lust,
And one for lucre's sake, who recketh naught
Of mischief to a people thus misused.
For in a nation there be orders three :—
The highest, useless rich, aye craving more ;
The lowest, poor, aye on starvation's brink, 240
A dangerous folk, of envy overfull,
Which shoot out baleful stings at prosperous folk,
Beguiled by tongues of evil men, their "champions" :
But of the three the midmost saveth states,
Who keep the order which the state ordains.
Shall I then make me ally unto thee ?
How to my nation should I make defence ?
Depart in peace : if thou hast ill devised,
Face fortune's blows thyself ; drag us not down.

CHORUS

He erred ; yet on the young men rests the blame : 250

SUPPLIANTS

In strife of little toil with that wild swine,¹
But when behoved to face the helm, bear brunt
Of the spear's point, a craven wert thou found.
Ah, do not so, my son, as thou art mine !
Hast marked—bemocked for reckless policy,
How on the mockers glares with fierce bright eyes
Thy country?—in her energy is her life.

But states which work in darkness, cautious,
Grope in the darkness, for their caution's meed.
What, to the dead, and women misery-worn
Wilt thou not bring help, son, in this their strait?
I fear naught: justice is with thine essay;
And, though the folk of Cadmus prosper now,
Far otherwise yet for them the dice of doom
Shall fall, I trust:—God bringeth low the proud.

CHORUS

O best-beloved, well hast thou said, for him
And me alike ; herein is twofold joy.

THESEUS

Mother, the words I spake were words of truth
Unto this man, wherein I showed my mind
Touching the counsels by the which he fell.
Yet these thy warnings—yea, I see their force,
That with my life's use it accordeth not
To flinch from peril. Many a glorious deed
Hath shown to sons of Hellas this my wont,
Ever to be a punisher of wrong.

Toil's challenge therefore cannot I refuse :
For what will they which hate me say of me,
When she that bare me—who, beyond all, fears

SUPPLIANTS

For me,—first bids me undertake this toil?
I will unto the deed, redeem their dead
By fair words, if I may; if not, the might
Of spears shall do it, nor the Gods shall grudge.
Yet I require all Athens' sanction here.

My wish should win their sanction ; yet, if I
Show cause withal, the loyaller shall they be.
For I have made the land one single realm,
A free state, with an equal vote for all.
Adrastus for my witness will I take,
And meet their concourse ; their consenting won,
With muster of chosen youths Athenian
Will I return ; and tarrying under arms,
Will send to Creon, asking back the dead.
But ye, grey women, from my mother take
The holy wreaths, that I may clasp her hand,
And lead to Aegeus' halls. A sorry son
Is he that pays not service-debt to parents.
Who giveth of love's best, by his own sons
For all he hath given his parents is repaid.

O thou that usest still thine art to serve
Athens and me, wide publishing mine hests,
Pass thou Asopus and Ismenus' stream,
And to the proud Cadmean despot say :

So make thou the Erechtheid folk thy friend.”

If they consent to grant it, turn thou back.
If they refuse, my second message speak,

By sacred Callichorus for fight prepared.

Took up this task, made ware of my desire.

Your despot, who?—to whom must I proclaim
The words of Creon, lord of Cadmus' land
Since Eteocles by the hand was slain
Of Polyneices by the sevenfold gates?

400

THESEUS

First, stranger, with false note thy speech began,
Seeking a despot here. Our state is ruled
Not of one only man: Athens is free.
Her people in the order of their course
Rule year by year, bestowing on the rich
Advantage none; the poor hath equal right.

HERALD

One vantage hast thou given me, as to one
That playeth draughts:—the city whence I come
By one man, not by any mob, is swayed.
There is none there who, slavering them with talk,
This way and that way twists them for his gain,
Is popular now, and humours all their bent;
Now, laying on others blame for mischief done,
He cloaks his faults, and slips through justice' net.

410

How should the mob which reason all awry
Have power to pilot straight a nation's course?
For time bestoweth better lessoning
Than haste. But yon poor delver of the ground,
How shrewd soe'er, by reason of his toil
Can nowise oversee the general weal.
Realm-ruining in the wise man's sight is this,
When the vile tonguester getteth himself a name
By wooing mobs, who heretofore was naught.

SUPPLIANTS

THESEUS

An eloquent herald this, a speech-crammed babbler !
But, since thou hast plunged into this strife, hear me :— [parley :—

'Twas thou flung'st down this challenge unto
No worse foe than the despot hath a state,
Under whom, first, can be no common laws, 430
But one rules, keeping in his private hands
The law : so is equality no more.

But when the laws are written, then the weak
And wealthy have alike but equal right.

Yea, even the weaker may fling back the scoff
Against the prosperous, if he be reviled ;
And, armed with right, the less o'ercomes the great.
Thus Freedom speaks¹ :—"What man desires to bring Good counsel for his country to the people ?"

Who chooseth this, is famous : who will not, 440
Keeps silence. Can equality further go ?
More—when the people piloteth the land,
She joyeth in young champions native-born :
But in a king's eyes this is hatefullest ;
Yea, the land's best, whose wisdom he discerns,
He slayeth, fearing lest they shake his throne.
How can a state be stablished then in strength,
When, even as sweeps the scythe o'er springtide
mead,

One lops the brave young hearts like flower-blooms ?
What boots it to win wealth and store for sons, 450
When all one's toil but swells a despot's hoard ?
Or to rear maiden daughters virtuously
To be a king's sweet morsels at his will,
And tears to them that dressed this dish for him ?

¹ He quotes the formula with which the herald opened the proceedings of the popular assembly at Athens.

May I die ere I see my daughters ravished !
Such answering shaft to thine do I hurl back.
But thou, what wouldest thou have of this our land ?
Except thy state had sent thee, thou shouldst rue

To speak his message, and to get him back
With speed. Henceforth let Creon to my town
Send a less wordy messenger than thee.

460

CHORUS

Out on it ! When God prospereth evil men,
Wanton they wax, as who should prosper aye.

HERALD

Now will I speak my charge. For our dispute,
Be this thy mind, contrariwise be mine.
But I and all the folk Cadmean warn thee—
Receive Adrastus not into this land.
If in the land he is, ere set of sun
Free from yon wreaths your sacred Mysteries, 470
And drive him forth, nor go about by force
To take those dead : ye have naught to do with Argos.

If thou obey me, thou by storm unscathed
Shalt helm thy city ; if not, our great surge
Of war on thee and thine allies shall fall.

Look to it, nor, being chafed at these my words,—
Because forsooth a city free thou hast,—
Make arrogant answer from a weaker cause.
Hope is delusive : many a state hath this
Embroiled, by kindling it to mad emprise.
For, when for war a nation casteth votes,
Then of his own death no man taketh count,
But passeth on to his neighbour this mischance.
But, were death full in view when votes were cast,

SUPPLIANTS

Never war-frenzied Greece would rush on ruin.
Yet, of elections twain, we know—all know—
Whether is best, the blessing or the curse,
And how much better is peace for men than war ;
Peace, she which is the Muses' chiefest friend,
But Retribution's foe, joys in fair children, 490
In wealth delights. Fools let these blessings slip,
And rush on war : man bringeth weaker man
To bondage ; city is made city's thrall.
Thou helpest men our foes, and dead men they,
Wouldst win for graves them whom their insolence slew !

Good sooth, then, wrongfully did levin blast
Capaneus' frame upon yon ladder's height,
Which he had reared against our gates, and swore
To sack the town, whether God willed or no :
Wrongly earth's chasm snatched from sight the seer, 500
Shrouding with yawning gulf his four-horse car,
While other captains lie before our gates,
The knittings of whose bones great stones have shattered !

Or boast thee to surpass in wisdom Zeus,
Or grant that rightly Gods destroy the wicked.
Behoves the wise to love his children first,
Parents and country next,—to make her great,
Not break her down. Rash leaders, pilots heady,
Mean ruin : the wise in season sitteth still.
This too is manful valour, even discretion. 510

THESEUS

Hold, Adrastus, peace,
And thrust not in before my words thine own ;
For not to thee yon fellow doth his message,
But unto me : 'tis I must make reply.

Now, thy first utterance will I answer first :—

I know no Creon despot over me,
Nor more of might than I, that he should force
Athens to do this. Sourceward back should flow 520
The world's stream, if we brook such hest as his ;
It is not I that launch upon this war,
Seeing with these I sought not Cadmus' land.

But lifeless bodies—harming not your state,
Nor thrusting man-destroying strife on her,—
I claim to bury : lo, all Hellas' law
Do I uphold. How is not this well done ?
For if of Argives ye have suffered aught,
They are dead : with glory ye hurled back your foes,
With shame to them :—but there your right hath 530 end.

Let now the dead be hidden in the earth,
And each part, whence it came forth to the light,
Thither return, the breath unto the air,
To earth the body ; for we hold it not
In fee, but only to pass life therein ;
Then she which fostered it must take it back.

Dost think thou woundest Argos through her dead ?
Not so : the common cause of Greece is this,
If one shall rob the dead of rightful dues,
And hold them from the tomb : this shall unman 540
Even heroes, if such law shall be ordained.
And to me comest thou to bluster threats,
While ye fear corpses, if they be entombed ?

What fear ye? Lest they undermine your land,
There buried?—or in earth's dark womb beget
Children, of whom shall vengeance fall on you?
'Twere idle waste of speech, good sooth, to unmask
Your caitiff terrors and your empty fears!
O fools, learn ye the real ills of men:—
Our life is conflict all: of mortals some Succeed ere long, some late, and straightway some;

550

While Fortune sits a queen: worship and honour
The unblest gives her, so to see good days;
The prosperous extols her, lest her breeze
Fail him one day. Remembering this, should we Meet wrong with calmness, not with fury of rage,
Neither on one whole nation visit wrong.

How shall it be then?—grant to us, who are fain
To render heaven its due, to entomb the dead.
Else, clear is the issue: this will I by force.
Never to Greeks shall it be said, that when
It fell to me and Athens to uphold
Heaven's ancient law, that law was set at naught.

MESSENGER

Women, I come with tidings full of joy,—
Myself escaped, for I was ta'en in fight,
What time those seven bands of chieftains slain
Hard by the fount of Dirce strove their strife,—
Tidings of Theseus' triumph. I will spare thee
Question :—a vassal I of Capaneus
Whom Zeus did blast with blazing levin-bolt.

640

CHORUS

Dear friend, glad tidings this of thy return,
Glad news of Theseus : but if Athens' host
Is safe withal, thou heraldest all joy.

MESSENGER

Safe : and hath fared—I would Adrastus so
Had fared with Argos' sons, whom forth he led
From Inachus to that Cadmean burg.

CHORUS

How then did Aegeus' son uprear to Zeus
The trophy, he and those his spear-allies ?
Tell ; thou wast there : them that were not make glad.

MESSENGER

Bright the sun's beam, true-levelled shaft of light, 650
Smote on the earth. Beside Electra's gate
On a far-looking tower I stood to watch.
And three tribes I beheld of war-bands three :

SUPPLIANTS

A mail-clad host far-stretching up the slopes
Unto the height Ismenian, as men said ;
I saw the king's self, Aegeus' glorious son,
And his own war-band, marshalled on the right
With all the folk of Cecrops' ancient land,
Equal by tale. And all the battle-cars
And Seaboard Men, arrayed with spears, were ranged
By Ares' fountain ; and the clouds of horse 660
Were drawn out on the fringes of the host.
Before their walls were marshalled Cadmus' folk—
Behind them lay those corpses, cause of strife—
On levels 'neath Amphion's hallowed tomb.
So against horsemen panoplied horsemen stood,
And four-yoked chariots were by chariots faced.
Then Theseus' herald cried in all men's ears :
“ Silence, ye people ! Hush ye, ranks of Cadmus !
Hearken—we come but for the corpses' sake, 670
To bury them, and keep all Hellas' law
Inviolate ; nor would lengthen bloodshed out.”
But Creon let his herald answer not,
But silent under shield abode. Thereat
The four-horsed chariot-lords began the fray.
On, down the battle-lanes of foes they swept,
Set down their warriors, spear opposing spear,
And, while these strove with bickering steel, those wheeled
Their steeds about, to aid their fighting-men.
Then Phorbas, captain of the Erechtheid horse, 680
And they withal which led the Theban riders,
Marking the tumult of the battle-cars,
Down charging clashed, now triumphing, rolled back now.
This saw I, and not heard ; for I was there,

SUPPLIANTS

There where the chariots and the warriors grappled.
Of thousand horrors there, which first to tell
I know not—or of dust that surged and soared
Upward unto the heavens, clouds on clouds,—
Of men, by tangling reins snatched from the cars,
Slung earthward,—of the murder-streams of gore,— 690
Men falling here, and there, as crashed the chariots,
With violence hurled head downwards to the earth,
And battered out of life by chariot-shards.

But Creon, marking how our horse prevailed
On one wing, grasped his buckler in his hand,
And vanward pressed, ere allies' hearts should faint.
All down the lines the fronts of battle clashed :
Men slew—were slain—a thunder of wild war-cries 700
Rang, roared, of men on-cheering each his fellow—“Smite !”—“Drive the spear against Erechtheus' sons !”

Ha, but the heart of Theseus fainted not !
On charged he, tossing high his flaming shield.
But the host wrought to man of dragon-teeth
Was a grim wrestler : back it bowed our wing
Far on the left ; but, by our right o'erborne,
Fled theirs : so equal-balanced was the fight.

Then did our captain well and worshipfully ;
His triumph on the right sufficed him not,
But he to his hard-pressed half-array sped fast,
And sent a shattering shout,—earth rang again,— 710
“ My sons, except ye stay the stubborn spear
Of the Dragon-seed, your Pallas' cause is lost ! ”
So thrilled with courage all his Cranaid host.
 Himself that Epidaurian weapon seized,
The fearful mace, and slingwise swung it round,

Then rang a cry and wailing through the town
Of young and old : the panie-stricken thronged
The fanes. But, though the way within lay clear,
There Theseus stayed :—" Not to destroy the town
Came I," spake he, " but to reclaim the dead."
Well might men choose such battle-chief as this,
Who is in peril's midst a tower of strength,
But hates the scorner who, in fortune's hour
Seeking to mount the ladder's topmost round,
Let slip the bliss that lay within their hands.

ADRASTUS

Zeus, wherefore do they say that wretched man
Is wise ? For lo, we hang upon thy skirts,
And that we do, it is but as thou wilt.
We deemed before our Argos none might stand,
Ourselves, a countless host of lusty arms ;
And, when Eteocles proffered terms of peace,
Fair was his offer, yet we would not hear ;
So were undone. Now, prospering in their turn,
Like beggar-wight with sudden-gotten wealth,
Wanton they waxed, and perished in their pride

Who strain the bow beyond the mark, and suffer
Much harm at justice' hand, and yield at last
Not to friends' mediation, but stern facts !
O foolish states, which might by parley end
Feuds, yet decide them in the field of blood !
Yet wherefore this ?—fain would I know of thee 750
How thou didst 'scape ; then will I ask the rest.

MESSENGER

When tumult's battle-earthquake shook the town,
Through that gate slipt I where the host poured in.

ADRASTUS

And the dead bring ye, cause of all the strife ?

MESSENGER

Even all which captained those seven bands renowned.

ADRASTUS

Ha !—and the rest which perished, where be they ?

MESSENGER

Laid in the tomb, hard by Cithaeron's folds.

ADRASTUS.

On that side, or on this ?¹—who buried them ?

MESSENGER

Theseus, where hangs Eleutherae's shadowing rock.

ADRASTUS

Where leftest thou those whom he buried not ? 760

MESSENGER

At hand : for earnest haste brings all things near.

ADRASTUS

With loathing, surely, thralls took up the slain.

¹ i.e. On the Theban or the Attic side of the range : the tombs would be in the possession of the people in whose land they were. Eleutherae was in Attica.

MESSENGER

Bootless thy mourning, stirring these to tears.

770

ADRASTUS

I trow themselves this mourning-lore have taught.
Enough: I raise mine hand to greet the dead,
And pour out songs of death with streaming eyes,
Hailing our loved, bereft of whom—ah me!—
Forlorn I weep: for the one loss is this
That never mortal maketh good again,—
The life of man, though wealth may be re-won.

CHORUS

(Str. 1)

There is joy, there is sorrow this day; for our town
Hath a garland of glory;
And the chiefs of the spear-host, lo, twofold renown 780
Maketh splendid their story.

 Had but caused me unmarried
To abide! Was I wholly in evil case
 While childless I tarried?
Yea, what dark bodings of anguish broke

My peace, when I thought to refuse love's yoke?
 But of dear sons harried
Now see I mine home, no visioned stroke.

Ah, yonder I see the forms draw nigh
 Of our perished children; alas!
O but with these my beloved to die,
 Unto union in Hades to pass!

SUPPLIANTS

Their gallant deeds, too great for words to speak,
Thou saw'st, whereby they hoped to win yon Thebes.

One question, meet for laughter, I ask not—
Whom each of these encountered in the strife,
Or from what foeman's spear received his wound.
For they that hear such tales as much could say
As he which tells. Who, that hath stood in fight, 850
When spear on spear is flying before men's eyes,
Can certainly report who bravely bears him?
I could not ask such vanity as this,
Nor them believe whose impudence would tell.
Scarce can a man see what needs must be seen,
What time he standeth foot to foot with foes.

ADRASTUS

Hear then. To no unwilling lips thou givest
The praise of these: full fain am I to speak
Both truth and justice touching men I loved.

Seest thou yon corpse wherethrough leapt Zeus's bolt? 860

Capaneus he, a mighty man of wealth,
Yet naught thereby exalted, but he bare
A spirit no whit loftier than the poor,
Shunning the man whose pomp of banquets scorned
That which sufficeth. "Not in gluttony,"
Said he, "is good: enough is as a feast."
True friend to friends was he, alike when near
And far: of such is there no multitude.
A guileless heart, a mouth of gracious speech,
Who left no dues unrendered, or to servants 870
Or citizens. Now of the next I speak,

SUPPLIANTS

Eteocles, graced, he too, with excellence.
A young man he, not rich in this world's goods,
But in the Argive land dowered rich with honour ;
Who oft, when friends would lavish on him gold,
Received it not his doors within, to make
His life a slave bowed 'neath the yoke of wealth.
He loathed wrong-doers, not his erring country ;
Seeing the guilt is nowise in the State
That through an evil pilot wins ill fame.

880

Such too Hippomedon was, the third with these.
From childhood up he deigned not turn aside
Unto the Muses' joys, for ease of life ;
But in the field abode, enduring hardness
Gladly for valour's sake, and, hunting still,
Joyed in the steed and hands that strin the bow,
Eager to yield his land his body's best.

The fourth was huntress Atalanta's son,
Parthenopaeus, unmatched in goodlihead :
Arcadian he, but came to Inachus, 890
And lived his youth at Argos. Fostered there,
First, as beseems the sojourner in the land,
He vexed not, nor was jealous of the state,
Nor was a wrangler, whereby citizens
Or aliens most shall jar with fellow-men ;
But in the ranks stood like an Argive born,
Fought for the land, and, whenso prospered Argos,
Rejoiced, and grieved when it went ill with her ;—
Of many a man, of many a woman loved,
Yet from transgression did he keep him pure.

900

Tydeus' high praise next will I sum in brief.
In speech he shone not ; a dread reasoner he
In logic of the shield, and war's inventions :

In counsel not as his brother Meleager,
Yet of like fame, through science of the spear
Getting him ripest scholarship of war.
A soaring soul was his, a spirit rich
Where deeds might serve ; in speech of less avail.

Hearing my words, O Theseus, marvel not
That these before yon towers feared not to die. 910
The fruit that noble nurture bears is honour ;
And whosoe'er hath practised knightly deeds
Would blush to be called craven. Ye may teach
This chivalry ; for even the babe is taught
To speak and hear things not yet understood ;
And what one learneth, that he is wont to keep
To hoary hairs. Then train ye well the child.

CHORUS

O son, for thy sorrow I gave thee
Life of my life 'neath my zone,
And I bore for thee travail-pain : 920
And now is my loss death's gain ;
Of my labours no fruit doth remain,
Nor to foster mine eld may I have thee.
Woe's me that I bare a son !

Who whelmed him with his car down earth's abyss
Living, gave manifest token of their praise.¹

ADRASTUS

Well said. Ye, tarry patiently, for well
Speaks Theseus. When to fire we have given these,
Yourselves the bones shall gather. Hapless mortals !
Why do ye get you spears and deal out death 950
To fellow-men ? Stay, from such toils forbear,
And peaceful mid the peaceful ward your towns.
Short is life's span : behoves to pass through this Softly as may be, not with travail worn.

The funeral procession passes on to the pyres, which are kindled in sight of the stage.

Crowned with fair sons above others (Str.)
No more am I seen,
Neither blessed mid Argive mothers ;
Nor the Travail-queen
To the childless shall give fair greeting !
Forlorn is my life, as a fleeting 960
Lone cloud that flees from the beating
Of storm-scourges keen.

Seven mothers—and heroes seven (Ant.)

To our sorrow we bare :
None princelier to Argos were given.
Now in childless despair
Drear old age creepeth upon me ;
Yet the ranks of the dead have not known me,
Nor the count of the living may own me ;
But an outcast I fare. 970

For me are but tears remaining : (Epode)

Saddest memorials rest
In mine halls of my son—shorn hair
And garlands of mourning are there ;

Libations—for dead lips' draining;
Songs—which the golden-tressed
 Apollo shall turn from in scorn;
 And with wails shall I greet each morn,
Ever drenching with tears fast raining
 The vesture-folds on my breast.

Lo, yonder the fiery bower,
Even Capaneus' sacred pyre :
I see it without the fane,
With Theseus' gifts to the slain.
Ha ! the wife draweth nigh in this hour
To the slain of the levin-fire,
Evadne the princess renowned !
On yon cliff why is she found
Whose crags above this fane tower ?
And she climbs, and she climbs ever higher !

EVADNE appears on the cliff above the pyre of Capaneus, dressed in festal attire.

EVADNE

What light ill-omened shone
When flashed thy wheels, O Sun,
And when the moon raced on,
 And star-lamps glancing
Raced through a lowering sky,
When Argos tossed on high
The gladsome bridal-cry,
 And throbbed with dancing,
And thrilled with song, to see
Mine hero wed with me ?
O love, I rush to thee
 From mine home, raving,

Seeking thy tomb, thy pyre,
Longing with strong desire
To end in that same fire

Mine anguish, braving
Hades—to end life's woe ;
For death is sweetest so
With dear dead to lie low :—
God grant my craving !

CHORUS

Lo, the pyre nigh,—above it dost thou stand,—
Zeus' own possession, on the which is laid
Thy lord, o'erthrown by flash of levin-bolt.

EVADNE

The end !—I see it now,
Here standing. Friend art thou,
Fortune ! From this cliff's brow,
For wifehood's glory,
With spurning feet I dart
Down into yon fire's heart
To meet him, ne'er to part,—

Flames reddening o'er me,—
To nestle to his side,
In Cora's¹ bowers a bride !
O love, though thou hast died,

I'll not forsake thee.
Farewell life, bridal bed !
By happier omens led,
Ah, be our children wed !
May leal love make ye,
Bridegrooms to be, life through
Unto my daughters true :

Lo, here himself, thy sire, is drawing nigh,
Old Iphis, within sound of thy strange speech,
Which, heard not yet, shall wring his heart to hear.

Enter Iphis.

IPHIS

O hapless ye !—O hapless ancient I !
Burdened with twofold grief for kin I came,
To bear unto his fatherland oversea
My son Eteocles, slain by Theban spear,
And seeking for my daughter, who hath fled
Forth of mine halls, the wife of Capaneus,
Longing with him to die. Through days o'erpast 1040
Guarded she was at home : but soon as I
Slackened the watch, for ills that pressed on me,
Forth did she pass. Howbeit here, methinks,
Is she most like to be. Say, have ye seen her ?

EVADNE

Wherfore ask these ? Here am I on the rock.
Even as a bird, my father, hang I poised
In misery o'er the pyre of Capaneus.

IPHIS

My child, what wind hath blown, what journeying led thee ?
Why flee thine home and come unto this land ?

EVADNE

Thou wouldest be wroth to hear my purposes. 1050
O father, I would not that thou shouldst hear.

By wisdom's second thoughts this we amend;
Life lived we may not. Might we but be young
And old twice o'er, if any man should err,
We would amend us in that second life.

For I, beholding others rich in sons,
For children yearned, and by my longing perished.
Had I to that come first,—by suffering proved
What to a father child-bereavement means,
I had never come to this, to this day's woe,

I, who begat a young son of my loins
Most goodly, and am now of him bereft !
No more !—what must I do, the sorrow-fraught ?
Wend home ?—and filled with desolation see
Home—for my life the hunger of despair ?
Or seek the mansion of yon Capaneus ?—

Once sweet, O sweet, when this my daughter lived !

Ah, but she is no more, who wont to draw
Down to her lips my face, fold in her arms 1100

Mine head :—naught sweeter than a daughter is
To grey-haired sire; sons' hearts be greater-framed,
But not, not theirs the dear caressing wiles !

Lead me, with speed O lead me to mine home,
And hide in darkness, there to make an end
Of this old frame, by fasting pined away.

What profit if I touch my daughter's bones ?

Strong wrestler Eld, O how I loathe thy grasp—
Loathe them which seek to lengthen out life's span,
By meats and drinks and magic philtre-spells 1110
To turn life's channel, that they may not die,
Who, when they are but cumberers of the ground,
Should hence, and die, and make way for the young.

The stage gradually fills with a procession, in which the sons of the dead chiefs bear the urns containing their ashes.

The members of the CHORUS advance to meet them.

CHORUS

Woe is me, woe !

Onward, onward the bones of sons, sons dead,
Are borne : O lend me your hands ; my strength is sped,

Handmaids : stricken with eld, in childless pain
I faint for my dear sons slain,

On the light of thy mother, thy glorious face !

THESEUS

Adrastus, and ye dames of Argive race,
Ye see these children bearing in their hands
The dust of gallant sires whom I redeemed :
That dust do I and Athens give to these,
But ye must guard the memory of this grace,
Keeping my boon for aye before your eyes ;
And on these boys I lay the selfsame charge,
To honour Athens, and from son to son
To pass on like a watchword this our boon.
Lo, Zeus is witness, and the Gods in heaven,
How honoured and how favoured hence ye pass.

1170

ADRASTUS

Theseus, our hearts know all thy noble deeds
To Argos, and thy kindness in her need.

SUPPLIANTS

Our love shall ne'er wax old : ye havē dealt with us
Nobly : your debtors owe you like for like.

THESEUS

What service yet remains that I may render ? 1180

ADRASTUS

Fare well ; for thou art worthy—thou and Athens.

THESEUS

So be it. The same fortune light on thee.

ATHENA appears in her chariot above the temple-roof.

ATHENA

Give ear, O Theseus, to Athena's hest

What thou must do—for Athens' service do :—

Yield thou not up thus lightly yonder bones

For these their sons to bear to Argive land.

Nay, first, for thine and Athens' travail's sake,

An oath take of them. Let Adrastus swear—

He answereth for them, despot of their folk,

For all troth of the land of Danaus' sons :—

1190

Be this the oath,—that never Argive men

Shall bear against this land array of war ;

If others come, their spear shall bar the way.

If they break oath, and come against our town,

Call down on Argos miserable ruin.

And where to slay the victims hear me tell :

Thou hast a brazen tripod in thine halls,

Which Hercules, from Ilium's overthrow

Hasting upon another mighty task,

Bade thee to set up at the Pythian hearth.

1200

O'er this three throats of three sheep sever thou,

And in the tripod's hollow grave the oath.

Then give it to the Delphian God to guard,

Token of oaths and witness unto Hellas. [gashed

And that keen knife, wherewith thou shalt have

SUPPLIANTS

The victims with the death-wound, bury thou
In the earth's depths hard by the seven pyres.

For, if they march on Athens ever, this, [shame.
Shown them, shall daunt, and turn them back with
This done, then send the dead dust forth the land. 1210

The precinct where fire purified their limbs
Be the God's Close, by those three Isthmian ways.
This to thee : now to the Argives' sons I speak.
Ye shall, to man grown, waste Ismenus' town
In vengeance for the slaughter of dead sires.
Thou in thy sire's stead, Aegialeus,¹ shalt be
Their young chief : from Aetolia Tydeus' son,
Named Diomedes of his sire, shall come.

When beards your cheeks are shadowing, tarry not
To hurl a brazen-harnessed Danaid host 1220
On the Cadmean seven-gated hold.

Bitter to them, the lions' whelps full-grown
To strength, to sack their city shall ye come.
This is sure doom. "The After-born" through Hellas

Named, shall ye kindle song in days to be ;
Such war-array with God's help shall ye lead.

THESEUS

Athena, Queen, thy words will I obey :
Thou guid'st me ever that I may not err.
Him will I bind with oaths : only do thou
Still lead me aright ; for, gracious while thou art 1230
To Athens, shall we ever safely dwell.

CHORUS

On pass we, Adrastus, and take oath-plight
Unto Theseus and Athens. That worship requite
Their travail for us, is meet and right.
