THE PEACE

INTRODUCTION

THE Peace was exhibited at the great city Dionysia in March 421 B.C., at a time when Athens and Sparta were "alike weary of the long continuance of the Peloponnesian war, and alike disposed to put an end to the conflict upon any fair and honourable terms,"^a the Spartans being especially disheartened by their reverse at Pylos (cf. Thuc. iv. 55), and the Athenians by the military successes of Brasidas in Thrace and their defeat by the Boeotians at Delium in 424.^b The two chief obstacles to peace (cf. Thuc. v. 14-16) had been "Cleon the Athenian demagogue and Brasidas the Spartan general: Brasidas, because of the success and the glory which he was gaining in the war; Cleon, because in quiet times his malpractices would be more apparent and his calumny less easily believed,"^c but both these obstacles had been removed by the death of Cleon and Brasidas in the battle of Amphipolis, and "hardly had this play been produced upon the stage when the Peace of which it sang dawned upon the Hellenic world," the Peace of Nicias—a peace for fifty years—being concluded in March or April 421.

THE PEACE, 16-42

- s. II. By Apollo, no, not I !
 I can't endure this muck a moment longer ;^a
 I'll take and pitch the muck-tub in and all.
- s. I. Aye to the crows, and follow it yourself.
- s. II. Can any one of you, I wonder, tell me
 Where I can buy a nose not perforated ?
 There's no more loathly miserable task
 Than to be mashing dung to feed a beetle.
 A pig or dog will take its bit of muck
 Just as it falls : but this conceited brute
 Gives himself airs, and, bless you, he won't touch it.
 Unless I mash it all day long, and serve it
 As for a lady, in a rich round cake.
 Now I'll peep in and see if he has done,
 Holding the door, thus, that he mayn't observe me.
 Aye, tuck away ; go gobbling on, don't stop ;
 I hope you'll burst yourself before you know it.
 Wretch ! how he throws himself upon his food,
 Squared like a wrestler, grappling with his jaws,
 Twisting his head and hands, now here, now there,
 For all the world like men who plait and weave Those great thick ropes to tow the barges with.
 'Tis a most stinking, foul, voracious brute.
 Nor can I tell whose appanage^b he is :
 I really think he can't be Aphrodite's,
 Nor yet the Graces'.
- s. I. No ? then whose ?
- s. II. I take it
 This is the sign of sulphur-bolting Zeus.^c

not only " bilge-water," but also the " hold of a ship," and so in 18 it is put for the tub which holds the dung.

^b προσβολή, " a sign specifically attached to a deity " : R.

^c Σκαταιβάτου, " because the beetle feeds on filth " (σκάτος) : Ravenna Scholiast. There is a play on Ζεὺς Καταιβάτης, " Zeus who descends in thunder."

^a At the great City Dionysia allies and strangers were admitted.

^b διαβάλλει τὸν Κλέωνα ὡς σκατοφάγον: Schol. In 48 κείνος may be either Cleon or the beetle.

THE PEACE, 43-70

Now I suspect some pert young witling there
Is asking, " *Well, but what's it all about ?
What can the beetle mean ?* " And then I think That some Ionian,^a sitting by, will answer,
" *Now, I've nae doubt but this is aimed at Cleon,^b
It eats the muck sae unco shamelessly.* "

But I will in, and give the beetle drink.

- s. I. And I will tell the story to the boys,
And to the lads, and also to the men,
And to the great and mighty men among you,
And to the greatest mightiest men of all.
My master's mad ; a novel kind of madness,
Not your old style,^c but quite a new invention.
For all day long he gazes at the sky,
His mouth wide open, thus ; and rails at Zeus :
*O Zeus, says he, what seekest thou to do ?
Lay down thy besom, sweep not Hellas bare !*^d

TRYGAEUS (behind the scenes). Ah me ! Ah me !

SE. Hush ! for methinks I hear him speaking now.

TR. (behind the scenes) O Zeus,

What wouldst thou with our people ? Thou wilt drain
The lifeblood from our cities ere thou knowest !

- SE. Aye, there it is ; that's just what I was saying :
Ye hear yourselves a sample of his ravings.
But what he did when first the frenzy seized him
I'll tell you : he kept muttering to himself,
Oh if I could but somehow get to Zeus !
With that he got thin scaling ladders made,
And tried by them to scramble up to heaven,

^a R., with the Scholiast, takes this not of the war-mania but of the μανία δικανική which A. had dealt with the year before in the Wasps. But this seems inconsistent with the prayer in 59, which clearly refers to war.

^d " Make it empty of inhabitants because of the wars " : Schol.

Till he came tumbling down, and cracked his skull.
 Then yesterday he stole I know not whither,
 And brought a huge Aetnaean ^a beetle home,
 And made me groom it, while he coaxed it down

Wee Pegasus, my flying thoroughbred,
Your wings must waft me straight away to Zeus ! ^b
 Now I'll peep in and see what he's about.
 Oh, mercy on us ! neighbours ! neighbours ! help !
 My master's got astride upon the beetle,
 And up they go ascending in the air.

- TR. Fair and softly, my beastlet,^c at first.
 Start not at once with a violent burst,
 In the proud delight of your eager might,
 Ere your joints with sweat are relaxed and wet
 From the powerful swing of your stalwart wing.
 And breathe not strong as we soar along ;
 If you can't refrain, you had best remain
 Down here in the stalls of your master's halls.
- SE. O master of me ! why how mad you must be !
- TR. Keep silence ! keep silence !
- SE. Why, where do you try so inanely to fly ?
- TR. My flight for the sake of all Hellas I take,
 A novel and daring adventure preparing.

 But greet me with blessings and cheers as I go,
 And order mankind to be silent below ;

^c κάνθαρος, says Athenaeus (xi. 47), is the name of a particular kind of ship. It was probably so called " from something in its shape and appearance which made it, with the oars reaching out on each side, bear a certain resemblance to a monstrous beetle " : R.

^d Peiraeus had " three natural bays " (Thuc. i. 93), and one of these seems to have been called Cantharus from a traditional hero of that name.

- GIRL. Yet, O be careful lest you tumble off,
 And (lame for life) ^a afford Euripides
 A subject, and become a tragic hero.
- TR. I'll see to that : goodbye, goodbye, my dears !
 But you, for whom I toil and labour so,
 Do for three days resist the calls of nature ;
 Since, if my beetle in the air should smell it,
 He'll toss me headlong off, and turn to graze.

Up, up, my Pegasus, merrily, cheerily,
 With ears complacent,^b while blithe and bold
 Your curbs shake out their clatter of gold.
 (I wonder what in the world he means
 By pointing his nose at those foul latrines.)
 Rise, gallantly rise, from the earth to the skies,
 And on with the beat of your pinion fleet
 Till you come to Zeus in his heavenly seat.
 From all your earthly supplies of dirt,
 From ordure and muck your nostril avert.
 Man ! man in Peiraeus ! you'll kill me I swear,
 Committing a nuisance ! good fellow, forbear ;
 Dig it down in the ground, scatter perfumes around,
 Heap, heap up the earth on the top,
 Plant sweet-smelling thyme to encircle the mound,
 Bring myrrh on its summit to drop ;
 For if I through your folly shall tumble to-day,
 And my enterprise fail to succeed in,
 Five talents the city of Chios ^c shall pay
 On account of your breach—of good-breeding.

πραέσι, μὴ ὀρθοῖς, with which R. agrees, taking φαιδροῖς as indicating "beaming, sleek good nature." T. wants not spirits but good temper in his steed.

^c There seems, owing to some misconduct of the Chians at Sparta, to have been a popular saying, Χίος ἦν ὁ ἀποπατῶν, "it was a Chian who made the mess." T. therefore assumes that a Chian was guilty in this case.

(The scene suddenly changes) ^a

Zounds ! how you scared me : I'm not joking now.

I say, scene-shifter, have a care of me.

You gave me quite a turn ; and if you don't

Take care, I'm certain I shall feed my beetle.

But now, methinks, we must be near the Gods ;

And sure enough there stand the halls of Zeus.

Oh, open ! open ! who's in waiting here ?

HERMES. A breath ^b of man steals o'er me : whence, whence comes it ?

O Heracles, what's this ?

TR. A beetle-horse.

HE. O shameless miscreant, vagabond, and rogue,^c

O miscreant, utter miscreant, worst of miscreants,

How came you here, you worst of all the miscreants ?

Your name ? what is it ? speak !

TR. The worst of miscreants.

HE. Your race ? your country ? answer !

TR. Worst of miscreants.

HE. And who's your father ?

TR. Mine ? the worst of miscreants.

HE. O by the Earth but you shall die the death

Unless you tell me who and what you are.

TR. Trygaeus, an Athmonian, skilled in vines ^d ;

No sycophant, no lover of disputes.

HE. Why are you come ?

TR. To offer you this meat.

^b Probably φωνή should be supplied in the Greek ; or else δσμή.

- HE. How did you get here, Wheedling ^a ?
 TR. Oho, Greedling !
 Then I'm not quite the worst of miscreants now.
 So just step in and summon Zeus.
- HE. O ! O !
 When you're not likely to come NEAR the Gods !
 They're gone : they left these quarters yesterday.
- TR. Where on Earth are they ?
 HE. Earth, indeed !
 TR. But where ?
 HE. Far, far away, close to Heaven's highest dome.
 TR. How came they then to leave you here alone ?
 HE. I have to watch the little things they left,
 Pipkins and pannikins and trencherlets.
 TR. And what's the reason that they went away ?
 HE. They were so vexed with Hellas : therefore here
 Where they were dwelling, they've established War,
 And given you up entirely to his will.
 But they themselves have settled up aloft,
 As high as they can go ; that they no more
 May see your fightings or receive your prayers.
- TR. Why have they treated us like that ? do tell me.
 HE. Because, though They were oftentimes for Peace,
 You always would have War. If the Laconians
 Achieved some slight advantage, they would say,
 " Noo by the Twa ^b sall master Attic catch it ; "
 Or if the Attics had their turn of luck,
 And the Laconians came to treat for peace,
 At once ye cried, " *We're being taken in,
 Athene ! Zeus ! we can't consent to this ;
 They're sure to come again if we keep Pylus.* "

- TR. Yes ; that's exactly how we talked : exactly.
 HE. So that I know not if ye e'er again
 Will see the face of Peace.
- TR. Why, where's she gone to ?
 HE. War has immured her in a deep deep pit.
 TR. Where ?
 HE. Here, beneath our feet. And you may see
 The heavy stones he piled about its mouth,
 That none should take her out.
- TR. I wish you'd tell me
 How he proposes now to deal with us.
 HE. I only know that yester eve he brought Into this house a most gigantic mortar.
 TR. What is he going to do with that, I wonder !
 HE. He means to put the cities in and pound them.
 But I shall go. He's making such a din
 I think he's coming out.
- TR. Shoo ! let me run
 Out of his way : methought that I myself
 Heard a great mortar's war-inspiring blast.

- WAR.^a O mortals ! mortals ! wondrous-woeful mortals !
 How ye will suffer in your jaws directly !
 TR. O King Apollo, what a great big mortar !
 Oh the mere look of War how bad it is !
 Is this the actual War from whom we flee,
 The dread tough War, the War upon the legs ?^b

cheese, garlic, leek, and honey. " Instead of leek (πράσον), War throws in the homonymous Laconian town of Prasias ; for garlic he takes Megara, the great garlic-producing country ; Sicily, the Stilton of antiquity, is the natural substitute for cheese ; whilst Attica is represented by her own celebrated honey " : R.

^b The first part of the line recalls the description of Lamachus A. 964 ὁ δεινός, ὁ ταλαύριμος, ὅς τ' ἦν Γοργόνα | πάλλει. The meaning of the last part is obscure.

In the present instance he seems to have thought it safe to make all the verbs end in a like termination, and therefore said χαίρομαι for χαίρω": R.

THE PEACE, 289-310

TR. Now may I sing the ode that Datis ^a made,
The ode he sang in ecstasy at noon,
‘Eh, sirs, I’m pleased, and joyed, and comforted.’
Now, men of Hellas, now the hour has come
To throw away our troubles and our wars,
And, ere another pestle rise to stop us,
To pull out Peace, the joy of all mankind.
 O all ye farmers, merchants, artisans,
 O all ye craftsmen, aliens, sojourners,
 O all ye islanders, O all ye peoples,
Come with ropes, and spades, and crowbars,
 come in eager hurrying haste,
Now the cup of happy fortune,
 brothers, it is ours to taste.

CHORUS.^b Come then, heart and soul, my comrades,
 haste to win this great salvation,
Now or never, now if ever,
 come, the whole Hellenic nation !
Throw away your ranks and squadrons,
 throw your scarlet plagues away,
Lo, at length the day is dawning,
 Lamachus-detesting day !
O be thou our guide and leader,
 managing, presiding o’er us,
For I think I shan’t give over in this noble task before us,
Till with levers, cranes, and pulleys
 once again to light we haul Peace, the Goddess best and greatest, vineyard-lovingest of all.

TR. O be quiet ! O be quiet ! by your noisy loud delight
You will waken War, the demon,
 who is crouching out of sight.

THE PEACE, 329-348

TR. Well then, one : make haste about it ;
 only one, and then you stop.

CH. Stop ? of course we stop with pleasure
 if 'twill your designs assist.

TR. Well, but look : you're still proceeding.

CH. Just, by Zeus, one other twist.
 Let me fling my right leg upwards,
 and I'll really then refrain.

TR. This indulgence too I'll grant you,
 so you don't offend again.

CH. Hah ! but here's my left leg also :
 it must have its turn, 'tis plain.

(Dancing vigorously with both legs.)

 I'm so happy, glad, delighted, getting rid of arms at last,
 More than if, my youth renewing,
 I the slough^a of Age had cast.

TR. Well, but don't exult at present, for we're all uncertain still,
 But, when once we come to hold her,
 then be merry if you will ;

 Then will be the time for laughing,
 Shouting out in jovial glee,
 Sailing, sleeping, feasting, quaffing,
 All the public sights to see.
 Then the Cottabus be playing,
 Then be hip-hip-hip-hurrahing,
 Pass the day and pass the night
 Like a regular Sybarite.

CH. O that it were yet my fortune those delightful days to see !
 Woes enough I've had to bear,
 Sorry pallets, trouble, care,

- HE. Then that's the reason why they clipped the days,
And nibbled off their rounds, misguiding sinners.^a
- TR. It is, it is : come, Hermes, lend a hand,
Help us to pull her out. And then for you
We'll celebrate the great Panathenaea,
And all the other rites of all the Gods,
Demeter, Zeus, Adonis, all for you ;
And everywhere the cities saved from woe
Will sacrifice to you, the Saviour ^b Hermes.
Much, much besides you'll gain : and first of all
I give you this (producing a gold cup),
a vessel for libations.
- HE. Fie ! how I soften at the sight of gold !
There, my men, the work's before you !
I've got nothing more to say.
Quick, take up your spades, and enter,
shovelling all the stones away.
- CH. Gladly, gladly will we do it,
wisest of the Gods ; and you,
Like a skilled superior craftsman,
teach us what we ought to do.
I warrant, when the way we know,
you'll find us anything but slow.
- TR. Hold out the vessel, and we'll launch the work
With free libations and with holy prayers.
- HE. Pour libations.
Silence ! silence ! pour libations.
- TR. And as we pour we'll pray. O happy morn,
Be thou the source of every joy to Hellas !
And O may he who labours well to-day
Be never forced to bear a shield again !
- CH. No ; may he spend his happy days in peace,
Stirring the fire, his mistress at his side.

 TR. Pull away, away, away.
 CH. Some of you still are designing us ill.
 TR. Ye who fain Peace would gain,
 Pull and strain, might and main.
 CH. Some one's hindering us again.
- HE. Plague take you, men of Megara ; get out !
 The Goddess hates you : she remembers well
 'Twas you that primed her up at first ^a with garlic.
 Stop, stop, Athenians : shift your hold a little ;
 It's no use pulling as you're now disposed.
 You don't do anything but go to law.
 No, if you really want to pull her out,
 Stand back a trifle further towards the sea.
- CH. Come, let us farmers pull alone, and set our shoulders to it.
- HE. Upon my word you're gaining ground :
 I think you're going to do it.
- CH. He says we're really gaining ground :
 cheer up, cheer up, my hearty.
- TR. The farmers have it all themselves, .
 and not another party.
- CH. Pull again, pull, my men,
 Now we're gaining fast.
 Never slacken, put your back in,
 Here she comes at last.
 Pull, pull, pull, pull, every man, all he can ;
 Pull, pull, pull, pull, pull,
 Pull, pull, pull, pull, all together.

THE PEACE, 520-545

TR. Giver of grapes, O how shall I address you ?
 O for a word ten thousand buckets big
 Wherewith to accost you : for I've none at hand.
 Good morning, Harvesthome : good morn, Mayfair.^a
 O what a lovely charming face, Mayfair !

(Kisses her)

O what a breath ! how fragrant to my heart,
 How sweet, how soft, with perfume and inaction.

HE. Not quite the odour of a knapsack, eh ?

TR. Faugh ! that odious pouch of odious men, I hate it.^b
 It has a smell of rancid-onion-whiffs ;
 But SHE of harvests, banquets, festivals,
 Flutes, thrushes, plays, the odes of Sophocles,
 Euripidean wordlets,

HE. O how dare you
 Slander her so : I'm sure she does not like
 That logic-monger's wordy disputations.

TR. (continuing) The bleating lambs, the ivy-leaf, the vat,
 Full-bosomed matrons hurrying to the farm,
 The tipsy maid, the drained and emptied flask,
 And many another blessing.

HE. And look there,
 See how the reconciled cities greet and blend
 In peaceful intercourse, and laugh for joy ;
 And that, too, though their eyes are swoln and blackened,
 And all cling fast to cupping instruments.^c

TR. Yes, and survey the audience : by their looks
 You can discern their trades.

HE. O dear ! O dear !
 Don't you observe the man that makes the crests

Tearing his hair ? and yon's a pitchfork-seller ;
Fie ! how he fillips the sword-cutler there.

TR. And see how pleased that sickle-maker looks,
Joking and poking the spear-burnisher.

HE. Now then give notice : let the farmers go.

TR. O yes ! O yes ! the farmers all may go Back to their homes, farm-implements and all.
You can leave your darts behind you :
yea, for sword and spear shall cease.
All things all around are teeming with the mellow gifts of Peace ;
Shout your Paeans, march away
to labour in your fields to-day.

CH. Day most welcome to the farmers and to all the just and true,
Now I see you I am eager
once again my vines to view,
And the fig-trees which I planted in my boyhood's early prime,
I would fain salute and visit
after such a weary time.

TR. First, then, comrades, to the Goddess be our grateful prayers addressed,
Who has freed us from the Gorgons
and the fear-inspiring crest.
Next a little salt provision ^a fit for country uses buy,
Then with merry expedition
homeward to the fields we'll hie.

HE. O Poseidon ! fair their order, sweet their serried ranks to see :
Right and tight, like rounded biscuits,
or a thronged festivity.^b

^a Pheidias had been bitterly attacked as the friend of Pericles, and in the end, on the ground that in the battle-scene on the shield of his statue of Athene he had introduced likenesses of himself and Pericles, was thrown into prison and died. In consequence of this and similar attacks on Aspasia and his teacher Anaxagoras, Pericles according to Plutarch (Per. c. 30-31, 32) "fearing the dicasteries," stirred up the Peloponnesian War. See R.

THE PEACE, 591-610

All the joys of life to hold.
Ah! the unbought pleasures free
Which we erst received of thee
In the merry days of old,
When thou wast our one salvation
and our roasted barley grain.
Now will all the tiny shoots,
Sunny vine and fig-tree sweet,
All the happy flowers and fruits,
Laugh for joy thy steps to greet.

Ah, but where has Peace been hiding
all these long and weary hours?
Hermes, teach us all the story,
kindest of the heavenly Powers.
HE. O most sapient worthy farmers,
listen now and understand,
If you fain would learn the reason,
why it was she left the land.
Pheidias began the mischief, having come to grief and shame,^a Pericles was next in order,
fearing he might share the blame,
Dreading much your hasty temper,
and your savage bulldog ways,
So before misfortune reached him,
he contrived a flame to raise,
By his Megara-enactment^b setting all the world ablaze.
Such a bitter smoke ascended while the flames of war he blew,

- That from every eye in Hellas everywhere the tears it drew.
Wailed the vine, and rent its branches,
 when the evil news it heard ;
Butt on butt was dashed and shivered,
 by revenge and anger stirred ;
There was none to stay the tumult ;
 Peace in silence disappeared.

 heard these simple facts narrated,
No, nor knew she was so closely to our Pheidias related.

 that is why she looks so fair.^a Goodness me ! how many things escape our notice I declare.
- e. Then when once the subject cities,
 over whom ye bare the sway,
Saw you at each other snarling, growling angrier day by day,
To escape the contributions,^b
 every willing nerve they strained,
And the chief Laconian leaders
 by enormous bribes they gained.
These at once for filthy lucre,
 guest-deluders as they are,^c Hustling out this gracious lady, greedily embraced the War.
But from this their own advantage ruin to their farmers came ;
For from hence the eager galleys sailing forth with vengeful aim,^d Swallowed up the figs of people who were not, perchance, to blame.

These beheld you poor and famished,
lacking all your home supplies,
Straight they pitchforked out the Goddess,
scouting her with yells and cries,
Whensoe'er (for much she loved you) back she turned with wistful eyes.
Then with suits they vexed and harassed
your substantial rich allies, Whispering in your ear, "The fellow

Like a pack of hounds in chorus on the quivering victim flew.

shivering with disease and fright,
Any calumny they cast her,
ate with ravenous appetite.

 he is all your own,^b you know ;

Therefore whatsoever you call him,
 Knave and slave while yet amongst us,
 Wrangler, jangler, false accuser,
 Troubler, muddler, all-confuser,
 You will all these names be calling
 One who now is yours alone.

(To Peace)

But tell me, lady, why you stand so mute.

HE. Oh, she won't speak one word before this audience :
 No, no ; they've wronged her far too much for that.

TR. Then won't she whisper, all alone, to you ?

HE. Will you, my dearest, speak your thoughts to me ?
 Come, of all ladies most shield-handle-hating.

(Affects to listen.)

Yes, good ; that's their offence : I understand.

Listen, spectators, why she blames you so.

She says that after that affair in Pylus
 She came, unbidden, with a chest of treaties,
 And thrice you blackballed her in full assembly.

HE. And do you
Farewell, dear mortal, and remember me.

TR. Home, home, my beetle ! let us now fly home.

HE. Your beetle's gone, my friend.

TR. Why, where's he gone to ?⁴

HE. Yoked to the car of Zeus, he bears the thunder.⁵

TR. What will he get to eat, poor creature, there ?

HE. Why, Ganymede's ambrosia, to be sure.

TR. And how shall I get down ?

HE. O well enough.

TR. There, by the side of Peace.

TR. Now girls, now girls,
Keep close to me : our youngsters I well know
Are sore all over for the love of you.

CH. Yes, go, and good fortune escort you,^a my friend ;
meanwhile the machines and the wraps,
We'll give to our faithful attendants to guard,
for a number of dissolute chaps
Are sure to be lurking about on the stage,
to pilfer and plunder and steal ;
Here, take them and watch them and keep them with care,
while we to the audience reveal
The mind of our Play, and whatever we may
By our native acumen be prompted to say.

'TWERE proper and right for the Ushers^b to smite,

Were to fill with the praise of himself and his plays
our own anapaestic^a address.
But if ever, O daughter of Zeus, it were fit with honour and praise to adorn^b
A Chorus-Instructor, the ablest of men,
the noblest that ever was born,
Our Poet is free to acknowledge that he is deserving of high commendation :
It was he that advancing, unaided, alone, compelled the immediate cessation
Of the jokes which his rivals were cutting at rags,
and the battles they waged with the lice.
It was he that indignantly swept from the stage
the paltry ignoble device
Of a Heracles needy and seedy and greedy,
a vagabond sturdy and stout,
Now baking his bread, now swindling instead,
now beaten and battered about.
And freedom he gave to the lachrymose slave who was wont with a howl to rush in,
And all for the sake of a joke which they make
on the wounds that disfigure his skin :
“ Why, how now, my poor knave ? ” so they bawl to the slave,
“ has the whiplash invaded your back,
Spreading havoc around, hacking trees to the ground,
with a savage resistless attack ? ”
Such vulgar contemptible lumber at once he bade from the drama depart,
And then, like an edifice stately and grand,
he raised and ennobled the Art.
High thoughts and high language he brought on the stage,
a humour exalted and rare,

Nor stooped with a scurrilous jest to assail
 some small-man-and-woman affair.
No, he at the mightiest quarry of all with the soul of a Heracles flew,
And he braved the vile scent of the tan-pit, and went through foul-mouthed revilings for you.
And I at the outset came down in the lists
 with the jagged-fanged ^a monster to fight, Whose eyeballs were lurid and glaring with flames
 of Cynna's ^b detestable light ;
And around his forehead the thin forked tongues of a hundred sycophants quiver,
And his smell was the smell of a seal, and his voice
 was a brawling tempestuous River,
And his hinder parts like a furnace appeared,
 and a goblin's uncleansable liver.
But I recked not the least for the look of the beast ;
 I never desponded or quailed,
And I fought for the safety of you and the Isles ^c ;
 I gallantly fought and prevailed.
You therefore should heed and remember the deed,
 and afford me my guerdon to-day,
For I never went off to make love to the boys in the schools of athletic display
Heretofore when I gained the theatrical prize :
 but I packed up my traps and departed,
Having caused you great joy and but little annoy,
 and mightily pleased the true-hearted.

It is right then for all, young and old, great and small,
Henceforth of my side and my party to be,
And each bald-headed man should do all that he can
That the prize be awarded to me.
For be sure if this play be triumphant to-day,

Councillors ! Magistrates ! behold Mayfair !^c

And O remember what a deal of fun

That word implies : what pastimes and what feasts.

See here's a famous kitchen-range she brings ;

'Tis blacked a little : for in times of Peace

The jovial Council kept its saucepans there.

Take her and welcome her with joy ; and then

To-morrow morning let the sports begin :

Then we'll enjoy the Fair in every fashion,

With boxing-matches and with wrestling-bouts,

And tricks and games, while striplings soused in oil

Try the pancratium, fist and leg combined.

stage which is nearest to the senatorial benches. In the address itself θεωρία is considered, as she has already been in more passages than one, in a double aspect, as a woman and as a public spectacle ; but, neglecting allusions to the various σπουσιας σχήματα, I have purposely confined my translation (if the vague paraphrase I offer be worthy of the name) to the description, which the poet intends also to give, of the legitimate amusements afforded by a public spectacle" : R.

THE PEACE, 990-1015

These thirteen long years ^a have been pining for you.
When our fightings are stayed, and our tumults allayed,
We will hail thee a Lady for ever :
And O put an end to the whispers of doubt,
These wonderful clever
Ingenious suspicions we bandy about ;
And solder and glue the Hellenes anew
With the old-fashioned true
Elixir of love, and attemper our mind
With thoughts of each other more genial and kind.
Moreover we pray that our market-place may
Be furnished each day with a goodly display,
And for garlic, and cucumbers early and rare,
Pomegranates, and apples in heaps to be there,
And wee little coats for our servants to wear.
And Boeotia to send us her pigeons and widgeons,
And her geese and her plovers : and plentiful creels
Once more from Copaïs to journey with eels,
And for us to be hustling, and tussling, and bustling,
With Morychus,^b Teleas, Glaucetes, all
The gluttons together besieging the stall,
To purchase the fish : and then I could wish
For Melanthius to come too late for the fair,
And for them to be sold, and for him to despair,
And out of his own Medea a groan
Of anguish to borrow,
“ *I perish ! I perish ! bereaved of my sweet,
My treasure, my darling, embowered in her beet* ^c ; ”
And for all men to laugh at his sorrow.

^b In the impassioned address to a Copaïc eel A. 885 it is spoken of as φιλῆ Μωρύχῳ who was an epicure (cf. W. 506).

^c For garnishing eels with beet cf. A. 894, where an eel thus bedecked is similarly spoken of as a beautiful maiden. The lines here are said to be a parody of lines from the Medea of Melanthius.

^b The words of H. are intentionally oracular and obscure. But here there is a skit on the proverb ἡ κύων σπεύδουσα τυφλὰ τίκτει, and κώδων “a bell” is put for κύων because its clapper makes a noise like the yapping of a dog. ἀκαλανθὶς is “a goldfinch,” but is used here “as an epithet of a dog παρὰ τὸ αἰκάλλειν (‘wheedle’) τοὺς γνωρίμους”: R.

^c “These verses are extemporized by Trygaeus in imitation of the Homeric style and phraseology; cf. Iliad i. 464, xvi. 301, xvii. 243; Od. vi. 261, vii. 137 for sundry of the expressions and sentences here strung together”: R.

THE PEACE, 1076-1091

- That we should cease from the strife, till the wolf and the lamb be united.
- TR. How, you scoundrel accurst, can the wolf and the lamb be united ?
- HI. Doth not the beetle, alarmed, emit a most horrible odour ?^a Doth not the wagtail yapper produce blind young in its hurry ?^b
So is the hour not come for Peace to be sanctioned between us.
- TR. What then, what is to come ?
Are we never to cease from the battle,
Always to chance it out,
which most can enfeeble the other,
When we might both join hands,
and share the dominion of Hellas ?
- HI. Canst thou tutor the crab to advance straight forward ? thou canst not.
- TR. Wilt thou dine any more in the Hall of Assembly ? thou wilt not ;
No, nor ever again
shall thy cheating knavery prosper.
- HI. Thou wilt never be able to smooth the spines of the hedgehog.
- TR. Wilt thou never desist bamboozling the people of Athens ?
- HI. Say, what oracle taught you to burn the thighs of the victim ?
- TR. This, the wisest and best,
delivered by Homer the poet :
When they had driven afar
the detestable cloud of the battle,^c
Then they established Peace, and welcomed her back with oblations,

Duly the thighs they burned,
and ate the tripe and the inwards,
Then poured out the libations ;
and I was the guide and the leader ;
None to the soothsayer gave the shining beautiful goblet.

HI. Nothing I know of these :
 these did not come from the Sibyl.

TR. Nay, but wisely and well
 spake Homer the excellent poet :
Tribeless, lawless, and hearthless is he that delighteth in bloodshed, Bloodshed of kith and kin,
heart-sickening, horrible, hateful !

HI. Take thou heed, or a kite,
 by a trick thy attention beguiling,
 Down with a swoop may pounce.

TR. (to the servant) Ah ! take heed really and truly.
 That's an alarming hint :
 it bodes no good to the inwards.

Pour the libation in,
 and hand me a piece of the inwards.

HI. Nay, but if such is the plan,
 I too for myself will be caterer.

TR. Pour libation ! pour libation !

HI. Pour it in also for me, and reach me a share of the inwards.

TR. That is far from the mind of the Ever-blessed Immortals.

Yea, for before that hour—
 —you go, we'll pour the libation.

Holy and reverend Peace, abide with thy servants for ever.

HI. Now, fetch hither the tongue.

THE PEACE, 1128–1149

What a great delight to me,
 From the cheese and from the onions
 And the helmet to be free.
 For I can't enjoy a battle,
 But I love to pass my days
 With my wine and boon companions
 Round the merry, merry blaze,
 When the logs are dry and seasoned,
 And the fire is burning bright,
 And I roast the pease and chestnuts
 In the embers all alight,
 —Flirting too with Thratta
 When my wife is out of sight.

Ah, there's nothing half so sweet as when the seed is in the ground,
 God a gracious rain is sending,
 and a neighbour saunters round.
 “ O Comarchides ^a ! ” he hails me :
 “ how shall we enjoy the hours ? ”
 “ Drinking seems to suit my fancy,
 what with these benignant showers.
 Therefore let three quarts, my mistress,
 of your kidney-beans be fried,
 Mix them nicely up with barley,
 and your choicest figs provide ;
 Syra run and shout to Manes,
 call him in without delay,
 'Tis no time to stand and dawdle
 pruning out the vines to-day,
 Nor to break the clods about them,
 now the ground is soaking through.
 Bring me out from home the fieldfare,
 bring me out the siskins two,

'Tis, he says, true Sardinian tincture,^a
 which they warrant not to run ;
 But if e'er it gets to fighting,
 though his scarlet coat be on,
 He himself becomes as pallid as the palest Cyzicene,^b Running like a tawny cockhorse,^c
 he's the first to quit the scene ;
 Shake and quake his crests above him :
 I stood gaping while he flew.
 Ah, but when at home they're stationed,
 things that can't be borne they do,
 Making up the lists unfairly,
 striking out and putting down
 Names at random.^d 'Tis to-morrow that the soldiers leave the town ;
 One poor wretch has bought no victuals,
 for he knew not he must go Till he on Pandion's^e statue spied the list and found 'twas so, Reading there his name inserted ;
 off he scuds with aspect wry.
 This is how they treat the farmers,
 but the burghers certainly Somewhat better : godless wretches, rogues with neither shame nor—shield,
 Who one day, if God be willing,
 strict accounts to me shall yield.
 For they've wronged me much and sorely :
 Very lions in the city,
 Very foxes in the fight.

Here, take this crest and wipe the tables down,
I've no more use for that, at all events.

And the hot rolls, and quantities of hare.

S.-M. O, my best friend, Trygaeus ! O what blessings
Your gift of Peace has brought us. Till to-day
No man would give one farthing for a sickle ;
And now ! I'm selling them two pounds apiece.
And my friend here sells casks for country use Half a crown each. Trygaeus, freely take
As many casks and sickles as you please.
And take this too (giving money) ; out of our sales and gains

We bring you these, we two, as wedding presents.

TR. Well, lay your presents down, and hie you in
To join the marriage feast : here comes a man
Who trades in arms : he seems put out at something.

CREST-MAKER. O you've destroyed me root and branch, Trygaeus.

crestache ?^a

C.-M. You have destroyed my living and my trade,
And this man's too, and yon spear-burnisher's.

TR. What shall I give you, then, for these two crests ?

C.-M. What will you give ?

TR. Faith, I'm ashamed to say :
Come, there's a deal of work about this juncture^b ;
I'll give three quarts of raisins for the pair.
'Twill do to wipe my table down withal.

C.-M. Go in, then, go, and fetch the raisins out.

And there you'll have a dropping cottabus.^c

of wine were jerked into a little scale (πλάστιγγή) so that it should strike the head of a little statuette placed beneath it. The σάλπιγγξ, a tall straight instrument, is here to have its bell-shaped end weighted with lead so that it will stand firmly, and at the other end the light rod (ράβδος κοτταβική) which carries the scale is laid transversely.

THE PEACE, 1245-1269

TRU. O me ! he mocks me.

TR. Here's another plan :

Pour in the lead as I advised before,
Then at the top suspend a pair of scales
With little cords, and there's a famous balance^a
To weigh out figs for labourers on the farm.

HELMET-SELLER. Thou hast destroyed me, dread un pitying Fate !

These helmets stood me in a good four pounds.

What am I now to do ? who'll buy them now ?

TR. Take them to Egypt : you can sell them there.

They're just the things they measure physic in.^a

TRU. O, helmet-seller, we are both undone.

TR. Why, he's received no hurt.

H.-S. Received no hurt !

Pray what's the use of all these helmets now ?

TR. Just clap on each a pair of ears, like these,^b

They'll sell much better then than now they will.

H.-S. O come away, spear-burnisher.

TR. No, no.

I'm going to buy his spears : I really am.

SPEAR-BURNISHER. What are you going to give ?

TR. Saw them in two,

I'll buy them all for vine-poles, ten a penny.

S.-B. The man insults us : come away, my friend.

TR. Aye, go your way, for here come out the boys,
Those whom the guests have brought us ; I suppose
They're going to practise what they're going to sing.
Come and stand here by me, my boy, and then
Let's hear you practise what you mean to sing.

^a συρμαία was a strong purge or emetic, which in certain parts of Egypt the whole population, according to Herodotus ii. 77, took for three consecutive days every month.

^b The helmets fitted with handles can be used as cups. With the words τοιαντασι λαβίς he points to his own ears.

^b This line occurs eleven times in the Iliad. The other lines are made up from Homer or in Homeric language.

^c "The boy uses θωρήσσοντο in the sense of 'they donned their breastplates,' but Trygaeus understands it in the signification which it not unfrequently bears of 'they fortified themselves with draughts of wine'; cf. A. 1132-5": R.

 Then from the yoke they loosed
 the reeking necks of the horses.”
- TR. Good : they were tired of war, and so they feasted :
 Sing on, O sing, how they were tired and feasted.

THE PEACE, 1288-1310

- TR. Perdition seize you, boy, your wars and all !
 You sing of nought but battles : who's your father ?
- BOY. Whose ? mine ?
- TR. Yes, yours, by Zeus !
- BOY. Why, Lamachus.
- TR. Ugh, out upon it !
 Truly I marvelled, and thought to myself as I heard your performance,
 This is the son of some hacker,
 and thwacker, and sacker of cities.
 Get to the spearmen, sing to them : begone.
 Here, here, I want Cleonymus's son.
 You, sing before we enter : sure I am
 You won't sing wars : you've too discreet a father.
- SECOND BOY. " Ah ! some Saeon is vaunting
 the targe, which I in the bushes
 Sadly, a blameless shield, left as I fled from the field." ^a
- TR. Tell me, you pretty baboon, are you making a mock of your father ?
- BOY. " Nay, but my LIFE I preserved,"
- TR. But you shamed the parents who gave it.
 Well go we in, for sure I am that you,
 Being your father's son, will nevermore
 Forget the song you sang about the shield.
 Now then 'tis right, my jolly rogues,
 that you should, here remaining,
 Munch, crunch, and bite with all your might,
 no empty vessels draining ;
 With manly zeal attack the meal,
 And saw and gnaw with either jaw,
 there's no advantage really
 In having white and polished teeth unless you use them freely.

THE BIRDS

INTRODUCTION

THE Birds was exhibited at the Great Dionysia in the archonship of Chabrias, 414 B.C. It was placed second, the prize being awarded to the Revellers (Κωμασταί) of Ameipsias, and Phrynichus coming third with the Solitary (Μονότροπος).

At this date, "Athens was at the height of her power and prosperity. Six or seven years of comparative peace had recruited her numbers, and replenished her treasury. She had just launched against Sicily the most formidable armament that ever issued from an Hellenic harbour. No shadow of the coming catastrophe dimmed the brightness of the outlook."^a The Peace of Nicias, in 421 B.C., had given her all she had fought for, and before her eyes loomed visions of conquest and empire in Sicily, Carthage, and Libya, when the fleet set sail in B.C. 415. Aristophanes "gives a comic representation of the high schemes and ambitions which were in the air; not as encouraging them, for his caricature is fantastic and ludicrous in the extreme; yet not as discouraging them, since even his fantastic adventure is crowned with a brilliant success. In this sense, and no further, may the Birds be considered as allegorical."^b Yet attempts have been made to fasten the satire to some definite event; the best known being that of Professor Süvern. Others have tried to identify Peisthetaerus with Alcibiades. All these attempts fail when details are examined, and they spoil the spirit of the comedy.

For the names of birds mentioned, the reader may be referred to Professor D'Arcy Thompson's Glossary of Greek Birds (1895); but Mr. Rogers's Introduction describes their looks and habits fully with reference to the allusions in the play.

^b Lit. "threading our way to and fro." The metaphor is from passing the weft to and fro across the warp: Schol.

^d Philocrates "of the bird-market" (οὐκ τῶν ὀρνέων) sold wild birds exposed on earthenware trays.

EUELPIDES.^a Straight on do you bid me go, where the tree

EU. To think that I, poor wretch, at a daw's bidding,
Should wear the very nails from off my feet !

PEI. Why, where we are, I've not the least idea.

EU. Could you from hence find out your fatherland ?

PEI. No, that would pose even—Excecestides ^c !

EU. O, here's a nuisance !

PEI. Go you there, then, friend.

EU. I call Philocrates ^d a regular cheat,
The fool that sells the bird-trays in the market.
He swore these two would lead us straight to Tereus,
The hoopoe, made a bird in that same market.^e

^e The hoopoe is really an actor, who has obtained his plumage in the bird-market, where these birds were also bought ; they might therefore be expected to find him. Pandion of Athens had two daughters, Procne and Philomela ; Tereus of Thrace married the one and outraged the other ; the sisters killed his son Itys, and served him up for his father's dinner ; he pursued them, and they were changed, Tereus into a hoopoe, Procne into a nightingale, and Philomela into a swallow (Apollodorus, iii. 14).

THE BIRDS, 17-44

So then this daw, this son of Tharraleides,^a
 We bought for an obol, and that crow for three.
 But what knew they? Nothing, but how to—bite!
 Where are you gaping now? Do you want to lead us Against the rocks? There's no road here, I tell you.

PEI. No, nor yet here; not even the tiniest path.

EU. Well, but what says your crow about the road?

PEI. By Zeus, she croaks quite differently now.

EU. (shouting) WHAT DOES SHE SAY ABOUT THE ROAD?

PEI. She says

She'll gnaw my fingers off: that's all she says.

EU. Now isn't it a shame that when we are here Ready and willing as two men can be
 To go to the ravens,^b we can't find the way.
 For we are sick, spectators, with a sickness
 Just the reverse of that which Sacas^c has.
 He, no true townsman, would perforce press in;
 Whilst we, with rights of tribe and race unchallenged,
 Townsmen mid townsmen, no man scaring us,
 Spread both our—feet, and flew away from home.
 Not that we hate our city, as not being
 A prosperous mighty city, free for all
 To spend their wealth in, paying fines and fees.
 Aye, the cicalas chirp upon the boughs
 One month, or two; but our Athenians chirp
 Over their lawsuits all their whole life long.
 That's why we are journeying on this journey now,
 Trudging along with basket, pot, and myrtles,^d

THE BIRDS, 45-65

Where we may settle down, and dwell in peace.
Tereus, the hoopoe, is our journey's aim,
To learn if he, in any place he has flown to,
Has seen the sort of city that we want.

PEI. You there !

EU. What now ?

PEI. My crow keeps croaking upwards
Ever so long.

EU. And here's my jackdaw gaping
Up in the air, as if to show me something.
There must be birds about, I am sure of that.
Let's make a noise and we shall soon find out.

PEI. Then harkye ; bang your leg against the rock.^a

EU. And you, your head ; and there'll be twice the noise.

PEI. Well, take a stone and knock.

EU. Yes, I'll do that.

Boy ! Boy !

PEI. Eh ! What ! do you call the hoopoe " Boy " ?
You should call " Whoop-ho there," not " Boy " of course.

EU. O, Whoop-ho there ! What, must I knock again ?
Whoop-ho !

PLOVER-PAGE.^b Whoever are these ? Who calls my master ?

EU. Apollo shield us, what a terrible gape !

P.-P. These be two bird-catchers. O dear, O dear !

EU. (aside) As nasty-speaking, as unpleasant-looking !

P.-P. Ye shall both die !

EU. O, we're not men.

P.-P. What then ?

EU. Well, I'm the Panic-struck, a Libyan bird.

P.-P. Nonsense !

EU. No nonsense : look for yourself and see.^a

P.-P. And he—what bird is he ? come, won't you answer ?

PEI. I ? I'm a pheasant, and a yellow-tailed one.

EU. But O by all the Gods, whatever are you ?

P.-P. A serving-bird.

EU. What, vanquished by some gamecock

In fight ?^b

P.-P. No, but my master, when he first Became a hoopoe, prayed that I might turn Into a bird, to be his servant still.

EU. What, does a bird require a serving-bird ?

P.-P. He does, as having been a man, I fancy.

So when he wants to taste Phaleric sardines,

I run for the sardines, catching up a dish.

Does he want soup ? then where's the pot and ladle ?

I run for the ladle.

EU. A regular running-page.

Now harkye, Plover-page, run in and call

Your master out.

P.-P. Great Zeus ! he has just been eating
Myrtles and midges, and is gone to roost.

EU. But still, do wake him.

P.-P. Well, I know he won't

Like to be waked, still for your sake I'll do it.^c

PEI. Confound the bird ! he frightened me to death.

EU. O dear ! O dear ! my heart went pit-a-pat,

My daw's gone too.

PEI. (severely) Gone ! O you coward you,

You LET him go !

What is this like ?

- HOO. A pleasant life enough.
Foremost and first you don't require a purse.

The cress, the poppy, the white sesame.^a

O the grand scheme I see in the birds' reach,
And power to grasp it, if ye'd trust to me !

- PEI. What ? First don't fly about
In all directions, with your mouths wide open.
That makes you quite despised. With us, for instance,
If you should ask the flighty people there,
Who is that fellow ? Teas^b would reply,
*The man's a bird, a flighty feckless bird,
Inconsequential, always on the move.*
- HOO. Well blamed, i'faith ; but what we ought to do, Tell us.
- PEI. Live all together : found one State.

- PEI. Aye, say you so ? You who have made the most Idiotic speech, look down.

- PEI. Look up.
- HOO. I do.

A marvellous gainer, if I twist my neck !

THE BIRDS, 178-200

PEI. What did you see ?

HOO. I saw the clouds and sky.

PEI. And is not that the Station ^a of the Birds ?

HOO. Station ?

PEI. As one should say, their habitation.

Here while the heavens revolve, and yon great dome
Is moving round, ye keep your Station still.

Make this your city, fence it round with walls,

And from your Station is evolved your State.

So ye'll be lords of men, as now of locusts,

And Melian famine ^b shall destroy the Gods.

HOO. Eh ! how ?

PEI. The Air's betwixt the Earth and Sky.

And just as we, if we would go to Pytho,

Must crave a grant of passage from Boeotia,

Even so, when men slay victims to the Gods,

Unless the Gods pay tribute, ye in turn

Will grant no passage for the savoury steam

To rise through Chaos, and a realm not theirs.

HOO. Hurrah !

O Earth ! ods traps, and nets, and gins, and snares,

This is the nattiest scheme that e'er I heard of !

So with your aid I'm quite resolved to found

The city, if the other birds concur.

PEI. And who shall tell them of our plan ?

HOO. Yourself.

O they're not mere barbarians, as they were

Before I came. I've taught them language now.

"moves about" (πολείται), and all things "go on in it" as they do in space (τόπος). Then πόλος suggests πόλις and πολιται. But it seems impossible to keep up the play on words. "I have given," says Rogers, "a slightly different turn to the passage."

^b About ten or twelve months before the production of this play, the Melians had been reduced by famine; for their terrible fate see Thuc. v. 89-116.

THE BIRDS, 201-225

PEI. But how to call them hither ?

HOO. That's soon done.

I've but to step within the coppice here,
And wake my sleeping nightingale, and then
We'll call them, both together. Bless the birds,
When once they hear our voices, they'll come running.

PEI. You darling bird, now don't delay one instant.
O I beseech you get at once within
Your little copse, and wake the nightingale !

(The Hoopoe's Serenade.)

HOO. Awake, my mate !

Shake off thy slumbers, and clear and strong
Let loose the floods of thy glorious song,
The sacred dirge of thy mouth divine
For sore-wept Itys, thy child and mine ;
Thy tender trillings his name prolong
With the liquid note of thy tawny throat ;^a
Through the leafy curls of the woodbine sweet
The pure sound mounts to the heavenly seat,
And Phoebus, lord of the golden hair,
As he lists to thy wild plaint echoing there,
Draws answering strains from his ivoried lyre,
Till he stirs the dance of the heavenly choir,
And calls from the blessed lips on high
Of immortal Gods, a divine reply
To the tones of thy witching melody.

(The sound of a flute is heard within, imitating the nightingale's song.)

EU. O Zeus and King, the little birdie's voice !
O how its sweetness honied all the copse !

PEI. Hi !

EU. Well ?

PEI. Keep quiet.

Why ?

PEI.

The Hoopoe here

Is going to favour us with another song.

(The Bird-call by the Hoopoe and Nightingale conjointly ; the Nightingale's song being imitated, as before, by the flute.)

HOO. Whoop-ho ! Whoop-ho !

Whoop-hoop-hoop-hoop-hoop-ho !

Hoi ! Hoi ! Hoi ! Come, come, come, come, come !

(The land-birds.)

Come hither any bird with plumage like my own ;
Come hither ye that batten on the acres newly sown,
On the acres by the farmer neatly sown ;
And the myriad tribes that feed on the barley and
the seed,

The tribes that lightly fly, giving out a gentle cry ;
And ye who round the clod, in the furrow-riven sod,
With voices sweet and low, twitter flitter to and fro,
Singing tio, tio, tio, tiotinx ;

And ye who in the gardens a pleasant harvest glean,
Lurking in the branches of the ivy ever green ;
And ye who top the mountains with gay and airy flight ;
And ye who in the olive and the arbutus delight ;
Come hither one and all, come flying to our call,

Triotó, triotó, tobrinx.

(The marsh-birds.)

Ye that snap up the gnats, shrilly voiced,^a
Mid the deep water-glens of the fens,
Or on Marathon's expanse haunt the lea, fair to see,
Or career o'er the swamps, dewy-moist,
And the bird with the gay mottled plumes, come away,
Francolín ! Francolín ! come away !

(The sea-birds.)

Ye with the halcyons flitting delightedly
Over the surge of the infinite Sea,^b coming to receive our visit.^b

Surely not a peacock, is it ?

That's a marsh-bird.

Birds! Two men of subtlest genius hither have arrived to me.

CH. Who! What! When! say that again.

travelling to the birds from man,
And the stem they are bringing with them
of a most stupendous plan.

CH. You who have made the greatest error since my callow life began,
What do you say?

HOO. Now don't be nervous.

We are cheated and betrayed,
 we have suffered shame and wrong !
For our comrade and our friend who has fed with us so long,
He has broken every oath, and his holy plighted troth,
 And the old social customs of our clan.
He has led us unawares into wiles, and into snares,
He has given us a prey, all helpless and forlorn,
To those who were our foes
 from the time that they were born,
To vile and abominable Man !

But for him, our bird-companion,
 comes a reckoning by and by ;
As for these two old deceivers,
 they shall suffer instantly,
Bit by bit we'll tear and rend them.

Shall we ever find, for vengeance,
enemies more rank than they ?

HOO. Enemies, I grant, by nature, very friends in heart and will :

Here they come with kindly purpose,
useful lessons to instil.

CH. What, they come with words of friendship ?
What, you really then suppose

They will teach us useful lessons,
they our fathers' fathers' foes ?

HOO. Yet to clever folk a foeman
very useful hints may show ;

Thus, that foresight brings us safety,
from a friend we ne'er should know,

But the truth is forced upon us, very quickly, by a foe.
Hence it is that all the Cities,

taught by foe, and not by friend,
Learn to build them ships of battle,

and their lofty walls extend ;
So by this, a foeman's, teaching children, home, and wealth defend.

CH. Well, I really think 'tis better that their errand we should know ;

I admit that something useful

may be taught us by a foe
PEI. (to Eu.) Now their anger grows more slack ;

now we had better just draw back.

 The potters, the bathmen, the smiths, and the shield-

 And some will at eve take their sandals and leave.

EU. I can answer for that, to my cost.
 'Twas all through his crowing at eve that my cloak,
 the softest of Phrygians, I lost.
 I was asked to the Tenth-day feast of a child ^c ;
 and I drank ere the feast was begun ;
 Then I take my repose ; and anon the cock crows ;

with so deep a respect did they treat you !
Now they treat you as knaves,
and as fools, and as slaves ;

Yea they pelt you as though ye were mad.
No safety for you can the Temples ensure,
For the bird-catcher sets his nooses and nets,
And his traps, and his toils, and his bait, and his lure,
And his lime-covered rods in the shrine of the Gods !
Then he takes you, and sets you for sale in the lump ;
And the customers, buying, come poking and prying
And twitching and trying,
To feel if your bodies are tender and plump.
And if they decide on your flesh to sup
They don't just roast you and serve you up,
But over your bodies, as prone ye lie,
They grate their cheese and their silphium too,
And oil and vinegar add,
Then a gravy, luscious and rich, they brew,

And pour it in soft warm streams o'er you,
As though ye were carrion noisome and dry.

CH. O man, 'tis indeed a most pitiful tale^a
Thou hast brought to our ears ; and I can but bewail^p
Our fathers' demerit,
Who born such an Empire as this to inherit
Have lost it, have lost it, for me !
But now thou art come, by good Fortune's decree,
Our Saviour to be,
And under thy charge, whatsoever befall,
I will place my own self, and my nestlings, and all.
Now therefore do you tell us what we must do ;
since life is not worth our retaining,
Unless we be Lords of the world as before.

our ancient dominion regaining.

PEI. Then first I propose that the Air ye enclose,
and the space 'twixt the Earth and the sky, Encircling it all with a brick-built wall,
like Babylon's, solid and high ;^b
And there you must place the abode of your race,
and make them one State, and one nation.

EU. O Porphyryon ! O Cebryones !
how stupendous the fortification !

PEI. When the wall is complete, send a messenger fleet,
the empire from Zeus to reclaim.
And if he deny, or be slow to comply,
nor retreat in confusion and shame,

 for if ever you catch them descending,
 You will clap on their dissolute persons a seal,
 their evil designs to prevent !
 And then let another ambassador-bird to men with this message be sent,
 That the Birds being Sovereigns, to them must be paid
 all honour and worship divine,
 And the Gods for the future to them be postponed.
 Now therefore assort and combine
 Each God with a bird, whichever will best with his nature and attributes suit ;
 If to Queen Aphrodite a victim ye slay,
 first sacrifice grain to the coot ^c ;
 If a sheep to Poseidon ye slay, to the duck let wheat as a victim be brought ;
 And a big honey-cake for the cormorant make,

The Eagle soared far above the rest, but when he had attained the highest point to which he could by any possibility ascend, a little golden-crested wren which had nestled unperceived in his plumage, spread its tiny wings and flew up a few yards higher. Hence its claim to be King of Birds ; and hence its association here with Zeus, the King of the Gods": R.

Now thunder away, great Zan ^a !
- CH. But men, will they take us for Gods, and not daws,— do ye really believe that they can—
If they see us on wings flying idly about ?
- PEI. Don't say such ridiculous things !
Why, Hermes, and lots of the deities too,
go flying about upon wings.
There is Victory, bold on her pinions of gold ;
and then, by the Powers, there is Love ;
And Iris, says Homer, shoots straight through the skies,
with the ease of a terrified dove.^b
- EU. And the thunderbolt flies upon wings, I surmise :
what if Zeus upon us let it fall ?
- PEI. But suppose that mankind, being stupid and blind, should account you as nothing at all,
And still in the Gods of Olympus believe—why then, like a cloud, shall a swarm
Of sparrows and rooks settle down on their stooks,
and devour all the seed in the farm.
Demeter may fill them with grain, if she will,
when hungry and pinched they entreat her.^c
- EU. O no, for by Zeus, she will make some excuse ;
that is always the way with Demeter.
- PEI. And truly the ravens shall pluck out the eyes of the oxen that work in the plough,
Of the flocks and the herds, as a proof that the Birds are the Masters and Potentates now.^d

^b Hermes, Victory, Iris, and Eros were represented with wings. In the Iliad (v. 778) Hera and Athena are compared to τρήρωσι πελειάσιν ; in the Hymn to Apollo, Iris and Eileithyia.

PEI. Ay fitter by far !
 No need for their sakes to erect and adorn
 Great temples of marble with portals of gold.
 Enough for the birds on the brake and the thorn
 And the evergreen oak their receptions to hold.
 Or if any are noble, and courtly, and fine,
 The tree of the olive will serve for their shrine.

THE BIRDS, 618-641

No need, when a blessing we seek, to repair
To Delphi or Ammon,^a and sacrifice there ;
We will under an olive or arbutus stand
 With a present of barley and wheat,
And piously lifting our heart and our hand
 The birds for a boon we'll entreat,
And the boon shall be ours, and our suit we shall gain
At the cost of a few little handfuls of grain.

CH. I thought thee at first of my foemen the worst ;
 and lo, I have found thee the wisest
And best of my friends, and our nation intends to do whatsoe'er thou advisest.

A spirit so lofty and rare
Thy words have within me excited,
That I lift up my soul, and I swear
That if Thou wilt with Me be united
In bonds that are holy and true
And honest and just and sincere,
If our hearts are attuned to one song,
We will march on the Gods without fear ;
The sceptre—my sceptre, my due,—
 They shall not be handling it long !
So all that by muscle and strength can be done,
 we Birds will assuredly do ;
But whatever by prudence and skill must be won,
 we leave altogether to you.

HOO. Aye and, by Zeus, the time is over now
For drowsy nods and Nicias-hesitations.^b
We must be up and doing ! And do you,

^b The word is coined in reference to the dilatory character of Nicias (cf. Thuc. vi. 8-25), and also seems to suggest "delaying victory."

HOO. Come, go we in.

PEI. Lead on, and luck go with us.

CH. O darling ! O tawny-throat !

Love, whom I love the best,

Dearer than all the rest,

Playmate and partner in

All my soft lays,

Thou art come ! Thou art come !

Thou hast dawned on my gaze,

I have heard thy sweet note,

Nightingale ! Nightingale !

Thou from thy flute Softly-sounding canst bring

Music to suit With our songs of the Spring :

Begin then I pray

THE BIRDS, 685-698

Ye men who are dimly existing below,
 who perish and fade as the leaf,
 Pale, woebegone, shadowlike, spiritless folk,
 life feeble and wingless and brief,
 Frail castings in clay, who are gone in a day,
 like a dream full of sorrow and sighing,
 Come listen with care to the Birds of the air,
 the ageless, the deathless, who flying
 In the joy and the freshness of Ether, are wont to muse upon wisdom undying.
 We will tell you of things transcendental ; of Springs and of Rivers the mighty upheaval ;
 The nature of Birds ; and the birth of the Gods :
 and of Chaos and Darkness primeval.^a
 When this ye shall know, let old Prodicus ^b go,
 and be hanged without hope of reprieve.
 THERE WAS Chaos at first, and Darkness, and Night, and Tartarus vasty and dismal ^c ;
 But the Earth was not there, nor the Sky, nor the Air,
 till at length in the bosom abysmal
 Of Darkness an egg, from the whirlwind conceived, was laid by the sable-plumed Night.
 And out of that egg, as the Seasons revolved,
 sprang Love, the entrancing, the bright,^d
 Love brilliant and bold with his pinions of gold,
 like a whirlwind, refulgent and sparkling !
 Love hatched us, commingling in Tartarus wide,
 with Chaos, the murky, the darkling, counterpart in Hesiod. We must seek its origin, as Beck observes, in the old Orphic legends, which taught that from a mystic egg, representing the undeveloped universe, sprang Φάνης, the prototype of Ἔρως, the creator of all things, χρυσείαις πτερόγεσσι φορέυμενος ἔνθα καὶ ἐνθα. From the same source comes the ἀπειροσι κόλπαις (in the Orphic hymns ἀπειροσίαις ὑπὸ κόλπαις) mentioned two lines above": R.

THE BIRDS, 699-713

And brought us above, as the firstlings of love, and first to the light we ascended.^a
There was never a race of Immortals at all till Love had the universe blended ;
Then all things commingling together in love,
there arose the fair Earth, and the Sky,
And the limitless Sea ; and the race of the Gods,
the Blessed, who never shall die.
So we than the Blessed are older by far ;
and abundance of proof is existing
That we are the children of Love, for we fly, unfortunate lovers assisting.
And many a man who has found, to his cost,
that his powers of persuasion have failed,
And his loves have abjured him for ever, again
by the power of the Birds has prevailed ;
For the gift of a quail, or a Porphry rail,
or a Persian, or goose, will regain them.
And the chiefest of blessings ye mortals enjoy,
by the help of the Birds ye obtain them.
'Tis from us that the signs of the Seasons in turn,
Spring, Winter, and Autumn are known.
When to Libya the crane flies clanging again,
it is time for the seed to be sown,^b
And the skipper may hang up his rudder awhile,^c
and sleep after all his exertions,
And Orestes^d may weave him a wrap to be warm
when he's out on his thievish excursions.
Then cometh the kite, with its hovering flight, of the advent of Spring to tell,^e

THE BIRDS, 714-733

And the Spring sheep-shearing begins ; and next,
your woollen attire you sell,
 And buy you a lighter and daintier garb,
when you note the return of the swallow.
 Thus your Ammon, Dodona, and Delphi are we ;
we are also your Phoebus Apollo.^a
 For whatever you do, if a trade you pursue,
or goods in the market are buying,
 Or the wedding attend of a neighbour and friend,
first you look to the Birds and their flying.
 And whene'er you of omen or augury speak,
'tis a bird you are always repeating ;
 A Rumour's a bird, and a sneeze is a bird,
and so is a word or a meeting,^b
 A servant's a bird, and an ass is a bird.
It must therefore assuredly follow
 That the Birds are to you (I protest it is true)
your prophetic divining Apollo.

Then take us for Gods, as is proper and fit,
 And Muses Prophetic ye'll have at your call
 Spring, winter, and summer, and autumn and all.^c
 And we won't run away from your worship, and sit
 Up above in the clouds, very stately and grand,
 Like Zeus in his tempers : but always at hand
 Health and wealth we'll bestow, as the formula runs,

And happiness, plenty, and peace shall belong

He claims to have solved the problem of squaring the circle ; whilst in πυργεῖς and διαβήτης there appears to be some reminiscence of Clouds, 96, 178. However the diagram which he explains to Peisthetaerus seems to be to the following effect. He has with him several κατόνες, of which one at least is flexible. Drawing a circle with a pair of compasses he lays the flexible κατόν over the circumference, then with the straight rods he makes radii extending from the centre to, and prolonged beyond, the circumference. CH. Unto me, the All-controlling,
All-surveying,
Now will men, at every altar,
Prayers be praying ;
Me who watch the land, protecting
Fruit and flower,
Slay the myriad-swarming insects
Who the tender buds devour
In the earth and on the branches with a never-satiate malice,
Nipping off the blossom as it widens from the chalice.
And I slay the noisome creatures
Which consume
And pollute the garden's freshly scented bloom ;

And every little biter, and every creeping thing

specially proclaimed ^a to-day ;

Sirs, Diagoras ^b the Melian whosoever of you slay,
Shall receive, reward, one talent ; and another we'll bestow
If you slay some ancient tyrant, dead and buried long ago.^c

We, the Birds, will give a notice,
we proclaim with right good will,
Sirs, Philocrates, Sparroxiian, whosoever of you kill,
Shall receive, reward, one talent, if alive you bring him, four ;
Him who strings and sells the finches, seven an obol, at his store,
Blows the thrushes out and, rudely, to the public gaze exposes,
Shamefully entreats the blackbirds, thrusting feathers up their noses.
Pigeons too the rascal catches, keeps and mews them up with care,
Makes them labour as decoy-birds, tethered underneath a snare.

Such the notice we would give you.
And we wish you all to know,
Who are keeping birds in cages,
you had better let them go.
Else the Birds will surely catch you,
and yourselves in turn employ,
Tied and tethered up securely,
other rascals to decoy.

THE BIRDS, 1088-1109

O the happy clan of birds
Clad in feather ;
Needing not a woollen vest in Wintry weather ;
Heeding not the warm far-flashing
Summer ray,
For within the leafy bosoms
Of the flowery meads I stay,
When the Chirruper in ecstasy is shrilling forth his tune, Maddened with the sunshine,
and the rapture of the noon.
And I winter in the caverns'
Hollow spaces,
With the happy Oreads playing ; and in Spring
I crop the virgin flowers of the myrtles white and tender,
Dainties that are fashioned in the gardens of the Graces.
Now we wish to tell the Judges,
in a friendly sort of way,
All the blessings we shall give them
if we gain the prize to-day.
Ne'er were made to Alexander lovelier promises or grander.
First, what every Judge amongst you most of all desires to win,
Little Lauriotic owlets^a shall be always flocking in.
Ye shall find them all about you,
as the dainty brood increases,
Building nests within your purses,
hatching little silver pieces.
Then as if in stately Temples shall your happy lives be spent,

For the birds will top your mansions

If you hold some petty office,
if you wish to steal and pick,
In your hands we'll place a falcon,
very keen and small and quick.
If a dinner is in question,
crops we'll send you for digestion.
But should you the prize deny us,
you had better all prepare,
Like the statues in the open,
little copper disks^b to wear ;
Else whene'er abroad ye're walking,
clad in raiment white and new,
Angry birds will wreak their vengeance,
spattering over it and you.^c

PEI. Dear Birds, our sacrifice is most auspicious.
But strange it is, no messenger has come
From the great wall we are building, with the news.
Hah ! here runs one with true Alpheian pantings.^d

MESSENGER. Where, where,—O where, where, where,— O where, where, where,
Where, where's our leader Peisthetaerus ?

PEI. Here.

MES. Your building's built ! The wall's complete !

PEI. Well done.

MES. And a most grand, magnificent work it is.
So broad, that on its top the Braggadocian
Proxenides could pass Theagenes^e
Each driving in his chariot, drawn by horses
As bulky as the Trojan.

PEI. Heracles !

PEI. Poseidon, what a height!

MES. The birds, none other; no Egyptian, bearing
The bricks, no mason, carpenter was there;
Their own hands wrought it, marvellous to see.
From Libya came some thirty thousand cranes
With great foundation-stones they had swallowed down; ^b

And these the corn-crakes fashioned with their beaks.
Ten thousand storks were carrying up the bricks; ^c
And lapwings helped, and the other water-birds,
To bring the water up into the air.

PEI. Who bare aloft the mortar for them?

MES. Herons
In hods.

PEI. But how did they get the mortar in?

MES. O that was most ingeniously contrived.
The geese struck down their feet, and slid them under,
Like shovels, and so heaved it on the hods.

PEI. Then is there anything that FEET can't do! ^d

MES. And then the ducks, with girdles round their waists, Carried the bricks: and up the swallows flew,
Like serving-lads, carrying behind them each
His trowel, and the mortar in their mouths.

PEI. Then why should men hire hirelings any more!

Well, well, go on ; who was it finished off
The great wall's woodwork ?

MES. Canny Pelicans,^a
Excellent workmen, hewing with huge beaks
Gate-timber ; and the uproar as they hewed
Was like an arsenal when ships are building.
Now every gateway has its gate, fast-barred,
And watched the whole way round ; and birds are pacing

Their beats, and carrying bells, and everywhere
The guards are stationed, and the beacons blaze
On every tower. But I must hurry off
And wash myself. You, manage what remains.

CH. O man, what ails you ? Do you feel surprised
To hear the building has been built so soon ?

One of the Gods, of Zeus's Gods, has just,
Giving our jackdaw sentinels the slip,
Shot through the gates and flown into the air.

Why, till ye built this city in the air,
All men had gone Laconian-mad ; they went
Long-haired, half-starved, unwashed, Sócratified,
With scytales in their hands ; but O the change !
They are all bird-mad now, and imitate

THE BIRDS, 1368-1394

And let your father be. If you want fighting, Fly off to Thraceward regions, and fight there.
s.-s. By Dionysus, I believe you're right.
I'll do it too.

PEI. You'll show your sense, by Zeus! ^a

CINESIAS (singing). On the lightest of wings I am soaring on high,^b

Lightly from measure to measure I fly;

PEI. Bless me, this creature wants a pack of wings!

CI. (singing) And ever the new I am fitting to find,
With timorless body, and timorless mind.

PEI. We clasp Cinesias, man of linden-wyth.^c

Why in the world have you whirled your splay foot hither?

CI. (singing) To be a bird, a bird, I long,
A nightingale of thrilling song.

PEI. O stop that singing; prithee speak in prose.

CI. O give me wings, that I may soar on high,
And pluck poetic fancies from the clouds,
Wild as the whirling winds, and driving snows.

PEI. What, do you pluck your fancies from the clouds?

CI. Why our whole trade depends upon the clouds;
What are our noblest dithyrambs but things
Of air, and mist, and purple-gleaming depths,
And feathery whirlwings? You shall hear, and judge.

PEI. No, no, I won't.

CI. By Heracles you shall.

I'll go through all the air, dear friend, for you.

(Singing) Shadowy visions of Wing-spreading, air-treading,
Taper-necked birds.

^a As thin, both he and his verses, as the inner bark of the lime-tree. near refers to his musical innovations.

THE BIRDS, 1304-1419

PEI. Steady, there !

CI. (singing) Bounding along on the path to the seas,
Fain would I float on the stream of the breeze.

PEI. O by the Powers, I'll stop your streams and breezes.

CI. (singing) First do I stray on a southerly way ;
Then to the northward my body I bear,
Cutting a harbourless furrow of air.^a

A nice trick that, a pleasant trick, old man.

PEI. O you don't like being feathery-whirl-winged, do you ?

CI. That's how you treat the Cyclian-chorus-trainer
For whose possession all the tribes compete !

PEI. Well, will you stop and train a chorus here
For Leotrophides,^b all flying birds,
Crake-oppidans ?^c

CI. You're jeering me, that's plain.
But I won't stop, be sure of that, until
I get me wings, and peragate the air.^d

SYCOPHANT (singing). Who be these on varied wing, birds who have not anything ?^e

O tell me, swallow, tell me, tell me true,
O long-winged bird, O bird of varied hue !

PEI. Come, it's no joke, this plague that's broken out ;
Here comes another, warbling like the rest.

SY. (singing) Again I ask thee, tell me, tell me true,
O long-winged bird, O bird of varied hue !

PEI. At his own cloak his catch appears to point ;
More than one swallow^f that requires, I'm thinking.

SY. Which is the man that wings the visitors ?

PEI. He stands before you. What do you please to want ?

^f His threadbare cloak shows that he sadly needs the warm spring weather, but "one swallow will not make spring" (μία χελιδὼν ἔαρ οὐ ποιεῖ).

To scare the cities, serving writs all round.

To the tune of wings^d ?

SY. No, but to dodge the pirates,
I'll then come flying homeward with the cranes,
First swallowing down a lot of suits for ballast.

PEI. Is this your business ? you, a sturdy youngster,
Live by informing on the stranger-folk ?

SY. What can I do ? I never learnt to dig.

PEI. O, but by Zeus, there's many an honest calling
Whence men like you can earn a livelihood,
By means more suitable than hatching suits.

SY. Come, come, no preaching ; wing me, wing me, please.

PEI. I wing you now by talking.

SY. What, by talk

Can you wing men ?

PEI. Undoubtedly. By talk

All men are winged.^e

SY. All !

"Aye," says another, "*and that boy of mine
Flutters his wings at every Tragic Play.*"

SY. So then by talk they are winged.

PEI. Exactly so.

Through talk the mind flutters and soars aloft,
And all the man takes wing. And so even now
I wish to turn you, winging you by talk,
To some more honest trade.

SY. But I DON'T wish.

PEI. How then?

SY. I'll not disgrace my bringing up.
I'll ply the trade my father's fathers plied.
So wing me, please, with light quick-darting wings
Falcon's or kestrel's, so I'll serve my writs
Abroad on strangers; then accuse them here;
Then dart back there again.

PEI. I understand.

So when they come, they'll find the suit decided,
And payment ordered.

SY. Right! you understand.

PEI. And while they're sailing hither you'll fly there,
And seize their goods for payment.

SY. That's the trick!

Round like a top I'll whizz.

PEI. I understand.

A whipping-top; and here by Zeus I've got Fine Corcyraean^a wings to set you whizzing.

SY. O, it's a whip!

PEI. Nay, friend, a pair of wings,
To set you spinning round and round to-day.

(Striking him.)

SY. O! O! O! O!

I'll make you spin ! I'll law-perverting-trick you !
Now let us gather up the wings and go.^a

CII. We've been flying, we've been flying
Over sea and land, espying
Many a wonder strange and new.
First, a tree of monstrous girth,
Tall and stout, yet nothing worth,
For 'tis rotten through and through ;
It has got no heart,^b and we Heard it called " Cleonymus-tree."
In the spring it blooms gigantic,
Fig-traducing, sycophantic,
Yet in falling leaf-time yields
Nothing but a fall of shields

Next a spot by darkness skirted,
Spot, by every light deserted,^c
Lone and gloomy, we descried.
There the human and divine,
Men with heroes, mix and dine
Freely, save at even-tide.
'Tis not safe for mortal men
To encounter heroes then.
Then the great Orestes, looming
Vast and awful through the glooming,
On their right a stroke delivering,^d
Leaves them palsied, stript, and shivering.^e

Half-starved, and gibbering like Illyrians, vow
That they'll come marching down on Zeus, unless
He gets the marts reopened, and the bits
Of savoury inwards introduced once more.

CH. Next we saw a sight appalling,
Socrates, unwashed, was calling
Spirits from the lake below,
('Twas on that enchanted ground
Where the Shadow-feet ^d are found).
There Peisander came to know
If the spirit cowards lack Socrates could conjure back ;
Then a camel-lamb he slew,
Like Odysseus,^e but withdrew,

Aelian says that others walked beside these, holding sunshades to protect them.

^a A mythical tribe, who used their huge feet to shade their heads.

^b The reference is to Hom. Od. xi. 35-51 where Odysseus summons the souls of the dead by slaying sheep and letting the blood pour into a trench. Here Peisander who never had any "spirit" (ψυχή) comes to see if Socrates can get it back for him, but cannot go through with the ordeal, and leaves the blood to the dried-up, ghost-like Chaerephon (cf. 1296).

Now, Heracles, what's to be done ?

HERACLES. You have heard

PEI. O welcome, Heracles !

What brings you hither ?

POS. We are envoys, sent

Down by the Gods to settle terms of peace.

SERVANT. There's no more oil remaining in the flask.

HE. O dear ! and bird's-flesh should be rich and glistening.

POS. We Gods gain nothing by the war ; and you,
Think what ye'll get by being friends with us ;
Rain-water in the pools, and halcyon days
Shall be your perquisites the whole year through.
We've ample powers to settle on these terms.

PEI. It was not we who ever wished for war,
And now, if even now ye come prepared
With fair proposals, ye will find us ready
To treat for peace. What I call fair is this ;
Let Zeus restore the sceptre to the birds,
And all make friends. If ye accept this offer,
I ask the envoys in to share our banquet.

HE. I'm altogether satisfied, and vote—

POS. (interrupting)

What, wretch? A fool and glutton, that's what you are!
What ! would you rob your father of his kingdom ?

PEI. Aye, say you so ? Why, ye'll be mightier far,
Ye Gods above, if Birds bear rule below.
Now men go skulking underneath the clouds,
And swear false oaths, and call the Gods to witness.
But when ye've got the Birds for your allies,
If a man swear by the Raven and by Zeus,
The Raven will come by, and unawares
Fly up, and swoop, and peck the perjurer's eye out.

POS. Now by Poseidon there's some sense in that.

HE. And so say I.

PEI. (to Trib.) And you ?

 HE. Do ? Come to terms at once.
 POS. You oaf, he's gulling you, and you can't see it.
 Well, it's yourself you are ruining. If Zeus
 Restore the kingdom to the Birds, and die,
 You'll be a pauper. You are the one to get Whatever money Zeus may leave behind him.
 PEI. O ! O ! the way he's trying to cozen you !
 Hist, step aside, I want to whisper something.
 Your uncle's fooling you, poor dupe. By law
 No shred of all your father's money falls
 To you. Why, you're a bastard,^a you're not heir.
 HE. Eh ! What ? A bastard ? I ?
 PEI. Of course you are.
 Your mother was an alien. Bless the fool,
 How did you think Athene could be " Heiress,"
 (Being a girl), if she had lawful brethren ?
 HE. Well, but suppose my father leaves me all
 As bastard's heritage ?
 PEI. The law won't let him.
 Poseidon here, who now excites you on,
 Will be the first to claim the money then,
 As lawful brother, and your father's heir.
 Why here, I'll read you Solon's law about it.
 " A bastard is to have no right of inheritance, if there be lawful children. And if there be no lawful children, the goods are to fall to the next of kin."^b
 HE. What ! none of all my father's goods to fall
 To me ?

^a Or " half-breed," his mother being a mortal ; for in Attic law, anyone was νόθος whose mother was not a genuine Athenian.

^b Probably the words of Solon's law : the quotation is prose.

THE BIRDS, 1748-1765

Blaze of the lightning, so terribly beautiful,
 Golden and grand !
 Fire-flashing javelin, glittering ever in Zeus's right hand !
 Earth-crashing thunder, the hoarsely resounding, the Bringer of showers !
 He is your Master, 'tis he that is shaking the Earth with your powers !

 All that was Zeus's of old
 Now is our hero's alone ;
 Sovereignty, fair to behold,
 Partner of Zeus on his throne,
 Now is for ever his own.
 Hymen, O Hymenaeus !

- PEL. Now follow on, dear feathered tribes,
 To see us wed, to see us wed ;
 Mount up to Zeus's golden floor,
 And nuptial bed, and nuptial bed.
 And O, my darling, reach thine hand,
 And take my wing and dance with me,
 And I will lightly bear thee up,
 And carry thee, and carry thee
- CH. Raise the joyous Paeon-cry,
 Raise the song of Victory.
 Io Paeon, alalalae,
 Mightiest of the Powers, to thee !

THE FROGS

INTRODUCTION

THE Frogs was produced at the Lenaeon festival of 405 B.C., about six months after the great naval victory of Arginusae; about four after the death of Euripides; and about two after that of Sophocles. It carried off the prize, the Muses of Phrynichus being second and the Cleophon of Plato third, and "at once took its position, which has never since been challenged, among the masterpieces of the Athenian drama."^a But it also achieved "the apparently unique distinction of being acted a second time, and at this second representation the poet was crowned, not with the usual wreath of Bacchic ivy, but with a wreath made from Athene's sacred olive, an honour reserved for citizens who were deemed to have rendered important services to Athene's city."^b

This exceptional honour was accorded "not for its wit and humour, nor yet for what to modern readers constitutes its pre-eminent attraction, the literary contest between Aeschylus and Euripides," but "for the lofty strain of patriotism which breathed through all its political allusions, and was especially felt in the advice tendered, obviously with some misgiving as to the spirit in which the audience would receive it, in the epirrhema to the parabasis (686-705)."^a There the poet appeals to the Athenian people to remember how they had recently enfranchized the slaves who had fought "one battle" (693) at Arginusae and not to leave men, who through "one mishap" (699) had been implicated in the oligarchical schemes of the Four Hundred five or six years before, with no civic rights whatever, and "we are told on the authority of Dicaearchus, a writer of the very greatest weight on such matters, that it was this very appeal which won the admiration of the public, and obtained for the play the honour of a second representation."^b

The Chorus are "the Blessed Mystics, those who had on earth been initiated into the Eleusinian mysteries, and had led a holy and virtuous life in accordance with the doctrines therein inculcated."^c They do not enter at once, but are first heard behind the scenes "chanting the melodious songs of the dead frogs, from whom the comedy derives its name." When they do enter later they "come in singing a series of hymns and songs, which are not mere unconnected lyrics, but are a continuous presentation of the earlier stages of their annual procession to Eleusis."

- XANTHIAS. Shall I crack any of those old jokes, master,
At which the audience never fail to laugh ?
- DIONYSUS. Aye, what you will, except I'm getting crushed :
Fight shy of that : I'm sick of that already.

That if none ease me, I must ease myself ?

- XA. What ! must I bear these burdens, and not make
One of the jokes Ameipsias^d and Lycis
And Phrynichus, in every play they write,
Put in the mouths of all their burden-bearers ?
- DI. Don't make them ; no ! I tell you when I see

^b What the joke was is not expressed in words, but it was probably some vulgarity which X. indicates sufficiently by gestures.

^c ἀνάφορον is a yoke such as is used in carrying milk-pails.

^d Ameipsias and Phrynichus are the old rivals of Aristophanes ; of Lycis we only know the name.

- ΗΡ. ἐν πλοιαρίῳ τυννουτῶι σ' ἀνὴρ γέρων

^a τετριμμένη refers (1) to the road—"well-worn," and (2) to the hemlock which was "pounded" in a mortar to extract the juice. Cf. Plato, Phaedo, 117 D ἐνεγκάτω τις τὸ φάρμακον, εἰ τέτριπται, and the following description of how the cold creeps up from the feet to the shins (κρημάς) of Socrates.

THE FROGS, 123-139

- HE. Then there's a track, a short and beaten ^a cut,
By pestle and mortar.
- DI. Hemlock, do you mean ?
- HE. Just so.
- DI. No, that's too deathly cold a way ;
You have hardly started ere your shins get numbed.
- HE. Well, would you like a steep and swift descent ?
- DI. Aye, that's the style : my walking powers are small.
- HE. Go down to the Cerameicus.^b
- DI. And do what ?
- HE. Climb to the tower's ^c top pinnacle—
- DI. And then ?
- HE. Observe the torch-race started, and when all
The multitude is shouting Let them go,
Let yourself go.
- DI. Go ! whither ?
- HE. To the ground.
- DI. And lose, forsooth, two envelopes ^d of brain.
I'll not try that.
- HE. Which will you try ?
- DI. The way
You went yourself.
- HE. A parlous voyage that,
For first you'll come to an enormous lake ^e
Of fathomless depth.
- DI. And how am I to cross ?
- HE. An ancient mariner will row you over

^b For the Cerameicus and the torch-races cf. 1087.

^c The κρύγος Τιμωρος, believed to be the place where the misanthrope shut himself up.

^d θρίων, "a fig-leaf," in which various dainties, such as brains, were cooked, is used for the dish itself. But D. here applies the term θρίων to the two lobes of his own brain.

^e The Acherusian lake, the first stage in the passage to the world below.

* The traditional fee extracted by Charon was one obol. But Aristophanes names two in allusion to the δύ' ὀβολῶ, which every individual of the many thousands before him had that morning paid for a seat in the Dionysian theatre.

† "As his friend Theseus was the only Athenian who had ever been down there alive, Heracles can only suppose that he took some obols with him, and introduced them there": R.

‡ For the Orphic tradition cf. Plato, Phaedo, 69 c δs ἀν ἀμύητος καὶ ἀτέλεστος εἰς Ἄιδου ἀφίκηται, ἐν βορβόρῳ κείσεται.

THE FROGS, 140-160

- In a wee boat, so big. The fare's two obols.^a
- DI. Fie! The power two obols have, the whole world through!
How came they thither!
- HE. Theseus^b took them down.
And next you'll see great snakes and savage monsters
In tens of thousands.
- DI. You needn't try to scare me,
I'm going to go.
- HE. Then weltering seas of filth^c
And ever-rippling dung: and plunged therein,
Whoso has wronged the stranger here on earth,
Or robbed his boylove of the promised pay,
Or swunged his mother, or profanely smitten
His father's cheek, or sworn an oath forsworn,
Or copied out a speech of Morsimus.^d
- DI. There too, perdie, should he be plunged, whoe'er
Has danced the sword-dance^e of Cinesias.
- HE. And next the breath of flutes will float around you,
And glorious sunshine, such as ours, you'll see,
And myrtle groves, and happy bands who clap
Their hands in triumph, men and women too.
- DI. And who are they?
- HE. The happy mystic bands,
- XA. And I'm the donkey in the mystery show.^f
But I'll not stand it, not one instant longer.

^a A contemptible tragedian ridiculed also in the Knights and the Peace.

^c A dance of youths clad in complete armour. Cinesias, a worthless dithyrambic poet (cf. 364 and B. 1373), seems to have composed a musical accompaniment for it.

^f Donkeys were used in conveying whatever was needed in the procession from Athens to Eleusis: Schol. Hence ὄνος ἀγων μ. was used proverbially of those who underwent toil for the benefit of others.

 CH. Now sit you there, you little Potgut.

was said περὶ τοῦ σώματος ἀγωνιζέσθαι, and the slaves who fought at Arginusæ (see Introduction) are said to have "fought for their flesh," i.e. to become owners of it. Cf. the phrase ὁ λαγὼς τὸν περὶ τῶν κρέων τρέξα, and the full discussion in Rogers's Introd. pp. xi, xii.

 Of Nysaeon Dionysus, son of Zeus,
 When the revel-tipsy throng, all crapulous and gay,
 To our precinct reeled along on the holy Pitcher day,
 Brekekekex, ko-ax, ko-ax.
 DI. O, dear ! O, dear ! now I declare the tunes which, when alive, they had sung in the Marshland (cf. 216 n.) of Athens. For authorities to show that Aristophanes reproduces the exact sound made by frogs in Greece see R.

^c The district called Δίμραι was adjacent to the Acropolis and close to the Theatre. It contained the temple of Dionysus, where Thucydides (ii. 15) tells us the older Dionysia were celebrated on the twelfth day of Anthesterion. The Χύτραι was the name given later to the third day of this festival; cf. A. 1076.

^a In the theatre the priest of Dionysus presided. "He sat in a conspicuous seat in the centre of the front row (the semi-circle which half surrounded the orchestra), with thirty-three honoured guests on each side. The very throne on which, in later days, he sat has been unearthed in the Athenian Theatre, and still bears the legible inscription, Ἱερεὺς Διονύσου Ἐλευθερέως": R. See Frontispiece.

 Breathed o'er me too; a very mystic whiff.

 Of whom he told us, sporting hereabouts.
 They sing the Iacchus which Diagoras ^b made.
 DI. I think so too: we had better both keep quiet
 And so find out exactly what it is.

 here in stately temples ^c dwelling,
 O Iacchus! O Iacchus!
 Come to tread this verdant level,
 Come to dance in mystic revel,
 Come whilst round thy forehead hurtles
 Many a wreath of fruitful myrtles,
 Come with wild and saucy paces
 Mingling in our joyous dance,
 Pure and holy, which embraces
 all the charms of all the Graces,
 When the mystic choirs advance.

Lo, the mead is blazing brightly,
Age forgets its years and sadness,
Agèd knees curvet for gladness,
Lift thy flashing torches o'er us,
Marshal all thy blameless train,
Lead, O lead the way before us;

To the marshy flowery plain.

(The warning-off of the profane.)

All evil thoughts and profane be still:
 far hence, far hence from our choirs depart,
Who knows not well what the Mystics tell,
 or is not holy and pure of heart;
Who ne'er has the noble revelry learned,
 or danced the dance of the Muses high;
Or shared in the Bacchic rites which old bull-eating Cratinus's^b words supply;
Who vulgar coarse buffoonery loves,
 though all untimely the jests they make;
Or lives not easy and kind with all,
 or kindling faction forbears to slake,
But fans the fire, from a base desire
 some pitiful gain for himself to reap;

Your hearts and voices raising,
The Saviour goddess praising
Who vows she'll still
Our city save to endless days,

Break off the measure, and change the time ;

Preserve and succour thy choral throng,
And grant us all, in thy help confiding,
To dance and revel the whole day long ;

Worthy thy feast, may we speak therein.
And when we have bantered and laughed our best,
The victor's wreath be it ours to win.

call him hither without delay,
Him who travels amongst his chorus,
dancing along on the Sacred Way.

 Please dab a sponge of water on my heart.

 DI. Where is it ?
 XA. Ye golden gods,^b
 Lies your heart THERE ?
 DI. It got so terrified
 It fluttered down into my stomach's pit.
 XA. Cowardliest of gods and men !
 DI. The cowardliest ? I ?
 What I, who asked you for a sponge, a thing
 A coward never would have done !
 XA. What then ?
 DI. A coward would have lain there wallowing ;
 But I stood up, and wiped myself withal.
 XA. Poseidon ! quite heroic.
 DI. 'Deed I think so.
 But weren't you frightened at those dreadful threats
 And shoutings ?
 XA. Frightened ? Not a bit. I cared not.
 DI. Come then, if you're so very brave a man,
 Will you be I, and take the hero's club
 And lion's skin, since you're so monstrous plucky ?
 And I'll be now the slave, and bear the luggage.
 XA. Hand them across. I cannot choose but take them.

AE. Torture him, how ?

Pile bricks upon him : stuff his nose with acid :

 A soft-leaved onion, or a tender leek.

AE. A fair proposal. If I strike too hard
 And maim the boy, I'll make you compensation.

 I am a god. You'll blame yourself hereafter

† The actors retire from the stage, and the Chorus, turning to the audience, commence the last Parabasis which has come down to our days. It consists of Strophe 674-685, Epirrhema 686-705, Antistrophe 706-717, and Antepirrhema 718-737. The opening

CHOR.^b Come, Muse, to our Mystical Chorus,

O come to the joy of my song,

O see on the benches before us that countless and wonderful throng,

Where wits by the thousand abide,

with more than a Cleophon's ^c pride—

On the lips of that foreigner base, of Athens the bane and disgrace,

lines of the Strophe are clearly a quotation or a parody of some tragic poet.

^c For this demagogue see 1532. He is here chiefly satirized on account of the strain of Thracian blood which he derived from his mother, and so is ἀμφιγλωστος, " a chatterer in two dialects."

* The swallow's song was commonly spoken of by the Greeks as "barbarous" and "unintelligible" (cf. Aesch. Ag. 1013 χελιδῶνος δίκην | ἀγνώστα φωνήν βάρβαρον κεκτημένη); and yet is often, as here, associated with the nightingale's (cf. the story of Procne and Philomela).

THE FROGS, 680-698

There is shrieking, his kinsman by race,
 The garrulous swallow ^a of Thrace ;
 From that perch of exotic descent,
 Rejoicing her sorrow to vent,
 She pours to her spirit's content,
 a nightingale's woful lament,
 That e'en though the voting be equal, ^b
 his ruin will soon be the sequel.

Well it suits the holy Chorus
 evermore with counsel wise
 To exhort and teach the city ;
 this we therefore now advise—
 End the townsmen's apprehensions ;
 equalize the rights of all ; ^c
 If by Phrynichus's ^d wrestlings
 some perchance sustained a fall,
 Yet to these 'tis surely open,
 having put away their sin,
 For their slips and vacillations
 pardon at your hands to win.
 Give your brethren back their franchise.
 Sin and shame it were that slaves,
 Who have once with stern devotion fought your battle on the waves,
 Should be straightway lords and masters,
 yea Plataeans ^e fully blown—
 Not that this deserves our censure ;
 there I praise you ; there alone
 Has the city, in her anguish, policy and wisdom shown—
 Nay but these, of old accustomed on our ships to fight and win,

1 The occupation of Deceleia had suspended the working of the silver mines at Laureium, so that the old silver coinage (τὰρχαῖον νόμισμα) had to be replaced, and in 407-6 B.C. certain gold statues of Victory were turned into coin (τὸ καινὸν χρυσίον). But in the archonship of Callias 406-5 B.C. copper (or to speak strictly, bronze) coins were, for the first time, issued from the Athenian mint.

THE FROGS, 718-734

Often has it crossed my fancy, that the city loves to deal
 With the very best and noblest members of her commonweal,
 Just as with our ancient coinage,
 and the newly-minted gold.^a Yea for these, our sterling pieces,
 all of pure Athenian mould,
 All of perfect die and metal,
 all the fairest of the fair,
 All of workmanship unequalled,
 proved and valued everywhere
 Both amongst our own Hellenes
 and Barbarians far away,
 These we use not : but the worthless
 pinchbeck coins of yesterday,
 Vilest die and basest metal,
 now we always use instead.
 Even so, our sterling townsmen,
 nobly born and nobly bred,
 Men of worth and rank and mettle,
 men of honourable fame,
 Trained in every liberal science,
 choral dance and manly game,
 These we treat with scorn and insult,
 but the strangers newliest come,
 Worthless sons of worthless fathers,
 pinchbeck townsmen, yellowy scum,
 Whom in earlier days the city
 hardly would have stooped to use
 Even for her scapegoat victims,
 these for every task we choose.
 O unwise and foolish people,
 yet to mend your ways begin ;

^a Zeus ὁμόγγιος was invoked by members of the same family or kindred, and is therefore appealed to here by Xanthias who feels himself akin to Aeacus in rascality. Flourishing off before the highwaymen,
Thieves, burglars, parricides—these form our mob
In Hades—till with listening to his twists
And turns, and pleas and counterpleas, they went Mad on the man, and hailed him first and wisest :

Elate with this, he claimed the tragic chair
Where Aeschylus was seated.

XA. Wasn't he pelted ?

AE. Not he : the populace clamoured out to try
Which of the twain was wiser in his art.

XA. You mean the rascals ?

AE. Aye, as high as heaven !

XA. But were there none to side with Aeschylus ?

AE. Scanty and sparse the good, (regards the audience) the same as here.

XA. And what does Pluto now propose to do ?

AE. He means to hold a tournament, and bring Their tragedies to the proof.

XA. But Sophocles,
How came not he to claim the tragic chair ?

AE. Claim it ? Not he ! When he came down, he kissed
With reverence Aeschylus, and clasped his hand,
And yielded willingly the chair to him.

But now he's going, says Cleidemides,^a
To sit third-man : and then if Aeschylus win,
He'll stay content : if not, for his art's sake,
He'll fight to the death against Euripides.

XA. Will it come off ?

AE. O yes, by Zeus, directly.

And then, I hear, will wonderful things be done,
The art poetic will be weighed in scales.

XA. What ! weigh out tragedy, like butcher's meat ?

AE. Levels they'll bring, and measuring-tapes for words,
And moulded oblongs,^b

XA. Is it bricks they are making ?

AE. Wedges and compasses : for Euripides mostly heard about Sophocles when he withdrew into retirement in his old age.

CHOR. O surely with terrible wrath

will the thunder-voiced monarch be filled,

When he sees his opponent beside him,

the tonguester, the artifice-skilled,
Stand, whetting his tusks for the fight !

O surely, his eyes rolling-fell
Will with terrible madness be fraught !

O then will be charging of plume-waving words with their wild-floating mane,

And then will be whirling of splinters,

and phrases smoothed down with the plane,
When the man would the grand-stepping maxims,

the language gigantic, repel
Of the hero-creator of thought.

There will his shaggy-born crest

upbristle for anger and woe,
Horribly frowning and growling,

his fury will launch at the foe

* Probably, as the Scholiast notes, with reference to ῥήμαθ' ἰτροβάμονα in 820 and line 821: Euripides in his envy will put a curb on the pride of Aeschylus.

^b Here apparently there is a complete change of scene, to the Hall

THE FROGS, 824-846

Huge-clamped masses of words, with exertion Titanic up-tearing
 Great ship-timber planks for the fray.
 But here will the tongue be at work,
 uncoiling, word-testing, refining,
 Sophist-creator of phrases,
 dissecting, detracting, maligning,
 Shaking the envious bits,^a and with subtle analysis paring
 The lung's large labour away.

EURIPIDES.^b Don't talk to me ; I won't give up the chair,
 I say I am better in the art than he.

DI. You hear him, Aeschylus : why don't you speak ?

EU. He'll do the grand at first, the juggling trick
 He used to play in all his tragedies.

DI. Come, my fine fellow, pray don't talk too big.

EU. I know the man, I've scanned him through and through,
 A savage-creating stubborn-pulling fellow,
 Uncurbed, unfettered, uncontrolled of speech,
 Unperiphrastic, bombastiloquent.

AESCHYLUS. Hah ! sayest thou so, child of the garden
 quean !^c

And this to ME, thou chattery-babble-collector,
 Thou pauper-creating rags-and-patches-stitcher ?
 Thou shalt abye it dearly !

DI. Pray, be still ;

Nor heat thy soul to fury, Aeschylus.

AES. Not till I've made you see the sort of man
 This cripple-maker is who crows so loudly.

of Pluto, with Pluto himself sitting on his throne, and Dionysus, Aeschylus, and Euripides in the foreground.

^c Parodied from a line of Euripides, ἀληθες, ὧ καὶ τῆς θαλασσίας θεοῦ, which probably refers to Achilles the son of Thetis. Cleito the mother of Euripides had sold potherbs.

THE FROGS, 873-897

To judge the strife with high poetic skill.

Meanwhile (to the Chorus) invoke the Muses with a song.

CHOR. O Muses, the daughters divine of Zeus, the immaculate Nine,
 Who gaze from your mansions serene on intellects subtle and keen,
 When down to the tournament lists,
 in bright-polished wit they descend,
 With wrestling and turnings and twists
 in the battle of words to contend,
 O come and behold what the two antagonist poets can do,
 Whose mouths are the swiftest to teach grand language and filings of speech :
 For now of their wits is the sternest encounter commencing in earnest

DI. Ye two, put up your prayers before ye start.

AES. Demeter, mistress, nourisher of my soul,
O make me worthy of thy mystic rites !

DI. (to Eur.) Now put on incense, you.

EU. Excuse me, no ;
My vows are paid to other gods than these.

DI. What, a new coinage of your own ?

EU. Precisely.

DI. Pray then to them, those private gods of yours.

EU. Ether, my pasture, volubly-rolling tongue,
Intelligent wit and critic nostrils keen,
O well and neatly may I trounce his plays !

CHOR. We also are yearning from these to be learning
 Some stately measure, some majestic grand Movement telling of conflicts nigh.
 Now for battle arrayed they stand,

In the latter, Niobe was shown, dumb with sorrow for her six sons and six daughters, whom Apollo and Artemis had slain " : R.

Tongues embittered, and anger high.
Each has got a venturesome will,
Each an eager and nimble mind ;
One will wield, with artistic skill,
Clearcut phrases, and wit refined :
Then the other, with words defiant,
Stern and strong, like an angry giant
Laying on with uprooted trees,
Soon will scatter a world of these Superscholastic subtleties.

DI. Now then, commence your arguments, and mind you both display
True wit, not metaphors, nor things which any fool could say.

EU. As for myself, good people all,
I'll tell you by-and-by
My own poetic worth and claims ;
but first of all I'll try
To show how this portentous quack
beguiled the silly fools
Whose tastes were nurtured, ere he came,
in Phrynichus's schools.
He'd bring some single mourner on,
seated and veiled, 'twould be Achilles, say, or Niobe^a
—the face you could not see—
An empty show of tragic woe, who uttered not one thing

DI. 'Tis true.

EU. Then in the Chorus came,
and rattled off a string
Of four continuous lyric odes :
the mourner never stirred.

to set the audience guessing
When Niobe would speak ; meanwhile,
the drama was progressing.

'Twas shameful, was it not ?
(To Aesch.) What makes you stamp and fidget so ?
- EU. He's catching it so hot.
So when he had humbugged thus awhile,
and now his wretched play
Was halfway through, a dozen words,
great wild-bull words, he'd say,
Fierce Bugaboos, with bristling crests,
and shaggy eyebrows too,
Which not a soul could understand.
- AES. O heavens !

* An old-fashioned politician of some note at the time. Meg-aenetus is unknown. Manes is the name of the little statuette with which the game of κότταβος was played (cf. P. 1244), and possibly Megaenetus was fond of the game.

† The epithet refers to the legendary robber Sinis, who tied his victims to two pine-trees which he had bound together, and which, when let go, tore them limb from limb. Both epithets parody Aeschylean grandeur of description.

THE FROGS, 964-986

 Uncouth Megaenetus is his,
 and rough Phormisius ^a too ;

 flesh-tearers with the pine ^b :
 But natty smart Theramenes,

- EU. I taught them all these knowing ways
 By chopping logic in my plays,
 And making all my speakers try
 To reason out the How and Why.
 So now the people trace the springs,
 The sources and the roots of things,
 And manage all their households too
 Far better than they used to do,
 Scanning and searching What's amiss ?
 And, Why was that ? And, How is this ?
- DI. Ay, truly, never now a man
 Comes home, but he begins to scan ;
 And to his household loudly cries,
Why, where's my pitcher ? What's the matter ?
'Tis dead and gone my last year's platter.
Who gnawed these olives ? Bless the sprat,
Who nibbled off the head of that ?

^c i.e. if the party he belonged to came to grief he would at once, like an adroit politician, find a new label for himself, which looked like the old one but might mean anything else he chose.

THE FROGS, 987-1008

*And where's the garlic vanished, pray,
I purchased only yesterday?*

—Whereas, of old, our stupid youths
Would sit, with open mouths and eyes,
Like any dull-brained Mammacouths.^a

CHOR. “All this thou beholdest, Achilles our boldest.”^b
And what wilt thou reply? Draw tight the rein
Lest that fiery soul of thine
Whirl thee out of the listed plain,
Past the olives,^c and o'er the line.
Dire and grievous the charge he brings.
See thou answer him, noble heart,
Not with passionate bickerings.
Shape thy course with a sailor's art,
Reef the canvas, shorten the sails,
Shift them edgewise to shun the gales.
When the breezes are soft and low,
Then, well under control, you'll go
Quick and quicker to strike the foe.^d

O first of all the Hellenic bards high loftily-towering verse to rear,
And tragic phrase from the dust to raise,
 pour forth thy fountain with right good cheer.

AES. My wrath is hot at this vile mischance, and my spirit revolts at the thought that I Must bandy words with a fellow like him :
 but lest he should vaunt that I can't reply—Come, tell me what are the points for which a noble poet our praise obtains.

^a A row of them planted across the end of the Hippodrome.

^d “Do not act in a stormy, tempestuous manner,” the Chorus say to Aeschylus; ‘wait till the breeze is calm and settled, and then more and more you can urge your ship against your opponent and be on your guard against his onset’”: R.

THE FROGS, 1009-1024

- EU. For his ready wit, and his counsels sage,
 and because the citizen folk he trains
To be better townsmen and worthier men.
- AES. If then you have done the very reverse, Found noble-hearted and virtuous men,
 and altered them, each and all, for the worse,
Pray what is the meed you deserve to get ?
- DI. Nay, ask not him. He deserves to die.
- AES. For just consider what style of men he received from me, great six-foot-high Heroical souls, who never would blench
 from a townsman's duties in peace or war ;
Not idle loafers, or low buffoons,
 or rascally scamps such as now they are.
But men who were breathing spears and helms,
 and the snow-white plume in its crested pride,
The greave, and the dart, and the warrior's heart
 in its sevenfold casing of tough bull-hide.
- DI. He'll stun me, I know, with his armoury-work ;
 this business is going from bad to worse.
- EU. And how did you manage to make them so grand, exalted, and brave with your wonderful verse ?
- DI. Come, Aeschylus, answer, and don't stand mute in your self-willed pride and arrogant spleen.
- AES. A drama I wrote with the War-god filled.
- DI. Its name ?
- AES. 'Tis the Seven against Thebes that I mean.
Which whoso beheld, with eagerness swelled to rush to the battlefield there and then.
- DI. O that was a scandalous thing you did !
 You have made the Thebans mightier men,
More eager by far for the business of war.
 Now, therefore, receive this punch on the head.

^a The reference is to the invocation of the dead Darius, Persae 625-676. τὸν θρῆνον ἀκούσας is R.'s conjecture for the unmetrical ἡνίκ' ἤκουσα of mss.; but ἡνίκ' ἐκώκυσα is perhaps better.

THE FROGS, 1025-1039

- AES. Ah, ye might have practised the same yourselves, but ye turned to other pursuits instead.
Then next the Persians I wrote, in praise of the noblest deed that the world can show,
And each man longed for the victor's wreath,
to fight and to vanquish his country's foe.
- DI. I was pleased, I own, when I heard their moan ^a for old Darius, their great king, dead ;
When they smote together their hands, like this,
and Evir alake the Chorus said.
- AES. Aye, such are the poet's appropriate works :
and just consider how all along
From the very first they have wrought you good,
the noble bards, the masters of song.
First, Orpheus taught you religious rites,
and from bloody murder to stay your hands :
Musaeus healing and oracle lore ;
and Hesiod all the culture of lands,
The time to gather, the time to plough.
And gat not Homer his glory divine
By singing of valour, and honour, and right,
and the sheen of the battle-extended line,
The ranging of troops and the arming of men ?
- DI. O ay, but he didn't teach that, I opine,
To Pantacles ; when he was leading the show ^b
I couldn't imagine what he was at,
He had fastened his helm on the top of his head,
he was trying to fasten his plume upon that.
- AES. But others, many and brave, he taught,
of whom was Lamachus, ^c hero true ;

^b ἔπεμπευ=ἐπὶ βρεπυεν : Schol. Pantacles had forgotten to fasten the plume on his helmet before starting.

^c One of the three generals in the Sicilian expedition ; scoffed at in the Acharnians, but here referred to as a typical soldier.

* The love of Phaedra for her stepson Hippolytus is the subject of the play of that name; and the adulterous love of Sthenoboea for Bellerophon was doubtless told in the lost Sthenoboea.

THE FROGS, 1040-1054

- And thence my spirit the impress took,
and many a lion-heart chief I drew,
Patrocluses, Teucers, illustrious names ;
for I fain the citizen-folk would spur
To stretch themselves to their measure and height, whenever the trumpet of war they hear.
But Phaedras and Stheneboeas ^a ? No !
no harlotry business deformed my plays.
And none can say that ever I drew a love-sick woman in all my days.
- EU. For you no lot or portion had got in Queen Aphrodite.
- AES. Thank Heaven for that.
But ever on you and yours, my friend,
the mighty goddess mightily sat ;
Yourself she cast to the ground at last.
- DI. O ay, that came uncommonly pat.
You showed how cuckolds are made, and lo,
you were struck yourself by the very same fate.^b
- EU. But say, you cross-grained censor of mine, how my Stheneboeas could harm the state.
- AES. Full many a noble dame, the wife of a noble citizen, hemlock took,
And died, unable the shame and sin
of your Bellerophon-scenes to brook.
- EU. Was then, I wonder, the tale I told of Phaedra's passionate love untrue ?
- AES. Not so : but tales of incestuous vice the sacred poet should hide from view,
Nor ever exhibit and blazon forth
on the public stage to the public ken.

^b " It was common report that one of his wives misconducted herself with Cephisophon : and some say that both his wives played him false : " R.

* Lycabettus is an insulated rocky peak a little N.E. of Athens.

THE FROGS, 1055-1069

- For boys a teacher at school is found,
 but we, the poets, are teachers of men.
 We are BOUND things honest and pure to speak.
- EU. And to speak great Lycabettuses,^a pray,
 And massive blocks of Parnassian rocks,
 is that things honest and pure to say ?
 In human fashion we ought to speak.
- AES. Alas, poor witling, and can't you see That for mighty thoughts and heroic aims,
 the words themselves must appropriate be ?
 And grander belike on the ear should strike
 the speech of heroes and godlike powers,
 Since even the robes that invest their limbs are statelier, grander robes than ours.
 Such was my plan : but when you began,
 you spoilt and degraded it all.
- EU. How so ?
- AES. Your kings in tatters and rags you dressed, and brought them on, a beggarly show,
 To move, forsooth, our pity and ruth.
- EU. And what was the harm, I should like to know.
- AES. No more will a wealthy citizen now equip for the state a galley of war.^b
 He wraps his limbs in tatters and rags,
 and whines he is poor, too poor by far.
- DI. But under his rags he is wearing a vest,
 as woolly and soft as a man could wish.
 Let him gull the state, and he's off to the mart ;
 an eager, extravagant buyer of fish.^c
- AES. Moreover to prate, to harangue, to debate, is now the ambition of all in the state.

^b To fit out a trireme provided by the state was one of the "public services" (λειτουργίαι) required of wealthy citizens.

^c Lit. "he pops up in the fish-market"; cf. W. 789.

^b Because this was the second representation of the play (see Introduction), and "each has now got a book of the words (βιβλίον, 'libretto')." So R., but others explain more generally that all the audience are well-read.

THE FROGS, 1093-1116

In the direst of straits ; and behold at the gates,
The Ceramites ^a flapped him, and smacked him, and slapped him,
In the ribs, and the loin, and the flank, and the groin,
And still, as they spanked him, he puffed and he panted,
Till at one mighty cuff, he discharged such a puff
That he blew out his torch and levanted.

CHOR. Dread the battle, and stout the combat, mighty and manifold looms the war.
Hard to decide is the fight they're waging,
One like a stormy tempest raging,
One alert in the rally and skirmish, clever to parry and foin and spar.
Nay but don't be content to sit Always in one position only :
many the fields for your keen-edged wit.
On then, wrangle in every way,
Argue, battle, be flayed and flay,
Old and new from your stores display,
Yea, and strive with venturesome daring something subtle and neat to say.

Fear ye this, that to-day's spectators
lack the grace of artistic lore,
Lack the knowledge they need for taking
All the points ye will soon be making ?
Fear it not : the alarm is groundless :
that, be sure, is the case no more.
All have fought the campaign ere this :
Each a book of the words is holding ;
never a single point they'll miss.^b
Bright their natures, and now, I ween,
Newly whetted, and sharp, and keen.

THE FROGS, 1117-1138

Dread not any defect of wit,
 Battle away without misgiving,
 sure that the audience, at least, are fit.

EU. Well then I'll turn me to your prologues now,
 Beginning first to test the first beginning
 Of this fine poet's plays. Why he's obscure
 Even in the enunciation of the facts.

DI. Which of them will you test ?

EU. Many : but first

Give us that famous one from the Oresteia.^a

DI. St ! Silence all ! Now, Aeschylus, begin.

AES. *Grave Hermes, witnessing a father's power,
 Be thou my saviour^b and mine aid to-day,
 For here I come and hither I return.*

DI. Any fault there ?

EU. A dozen faults and more.

DI. Eh ! why the lines are only three in all.

EU. But every one contains a score of faults.

DI. Now Aeschylus, keep silent ; if you don't
 You won't get off with three iambic lines.

AES. Silent for him !

DI. If my advice you'll take.

EU. Why, at first starting here's a fault skyhigh.

AES. (to Dio.) You see your folly ?^c

DI. Have your way ; I care not.

AES. (to Eur.) What is my fault ?

EU. Begin the lines again.

AES. Grave Hermes, witnessing a father's power—

^b Lit. "Hermes of the nether world (i.e. conductor of the shades to it) take to thyself thy father's power, and become my saviour," that is, as thy father is Zeus σωτήρ, so be thou to me Ἐρμῆς σωτήρ ; cf. the explanation given in 1146. ἐποικτεύειν from its use in the Eleusinian mysteries came to mean not only "gaze upon" but "participate in."

^c i.e. in urging me to keep silent.

* E. gives the last three words of 1138 a meaning which they can bear, "that dost survey my father's realm." He then "asks why does Orestes at this solemn moment address Hermes as the surveyor of his father's realm. Does he mean that the god of craft was an onlooker, when Clytaemnestra by craft destroyed her husband?": R.

THE FROGS, 1139-1161

EU. And this beside his murdered father's grave
Orestes speaks ?

AES. I say not otherwise.

EU. Then does he mean that when his father fell
By craft and violence at a woman's hand,
The god of craft was witnessing the deed ? ^a

AES. It was not he ^b : it was the Helper Hermes
He called the grave : and this he showed by adding
It was his sire's prerogative he held.

EU. Why this is worse than all. If from his father
He held this office grave, why then—^c

DI. He was
A graveyard rifler on his father's side.

AES. Bacchus, the wine you drink is stale and fusty.^d

DI. Give him another : (to Eur.) you, look out for faults.

AES. *Be thou my saviour and mine aid to-day,
For here I come, and hither I return.*

EU. The same thing twice says clever Aeschylus.

DI. How twice ?

EU. Why, just consider : I'll explain.

" I come," says he ; and " I return," says he :
It's the same thing, to " come " and to " return."

DI. Aye, just as if you said, " Good fellow, lend me
A kneading trough : likewise, a trough to knead in." ^e

AES. It is not so, you everlasting talker,
They're not the same, the words are right enough.

Pl. 1153-70.

^c " E. again misinterprets the words of Aeschylus, taking πατρῶον γέρας to refer to χθόνιον, whereas it refers to ἐριούσιον. Dionysus then breaks in with an unseemly joke. If Hermes is invoked ἐπὶ τῷ τύμβῳ as χθόνιος he must be a τυμβωρύχος, and this unsavoury business therefore is what he derived from his father": R.

^d i.e. as shown by the stupid joke it produces.

^e Both μάκτρα and κάρδοπος describe the same thing.

AES. Halcyons, who by the ever-rippling^a
Waves of the sea are babbling,
Dewing your plumes with the drops that fall
From wings in the salt spray dabbling.

Spiders, ever with twir-r-r-r-r-ling fingers
Weaving the warp and the woof,
Little, brittle, network, fretwork,
Under the coigns of the roof.

The minstrel shuttle's care.

Where in the front of the dark-prowed ships
Yarely the flute-loving dolphin skips.

Races here and oracles there.

And the tendril of grapes, care-beguiling.
O embrace me, my child, O embrace me.

" O darkly-light mysterious Night,^a

What may this Vision mean,

Sent from the world unseen

With baleful omens rife ;

A thing of lifeless life,

A child of sable night,

A ghastly curdling sight,

In black funereal veils,

With murder, murder in its eyes,

And great enormous nails ?

Light ye the lanterns, my maidens,

and dipping your jugs in the stream,

Draw me the dew of the water,

and heat it to boiling and steam ;

So will I wash me away the ill effects of my dream.

God of the sea !

My dream's come true.^b

Ho, lodgers, ho,

This portent view.

Glyce has vanished, carrying off my cock,

My cock that crew !

O Mania,^c help ! O Oreads of the rock

Pursue ! pursue !

For I, poor girl, was working within,

Holding my distaff heavy and full,

Twir-r-r-r-r-ling my hand as the threads I spin,

Weaving an excellent bobbin of wool ;

Thinking ' To-morrow I'll go to the fair, to throw the grace and dignity of tragic diction. A poor spinning-girl has a bad dream, and when she wakes finds (1342) that Glyce has absconded with her cock" : R.

 PL. And sup before ye^d go.
 DI. A bright idea.
 I'faith, I'm nowise indisposed for that.

- CHOR. Blest the man who possesses a
 Keen intelligent mind.
 This full often we find.
 He, the bard of renown,
 Now to earth reascends,
 Goes, a joy to his town,
 Goes, a joy to his friends,
 Just because he possesses a
 Keen intelligent mind.
 RIGHT it is and befitting,
 Not, by Socrates sitting,
 Idle talk to pursue,

ζῆν μὲν ἐστὶ καταναεῖν, | τὸ καταναεῖν δὲ ζῆν κάτω νομίζεται ; the other from the Phrixus: τίς δ' οἶδεν εἰ ζῆν τοῦθ' ὁ κέκληται θαναεῖν, | τὸ ζῆν δὲ θνήσκειν ἐστὶ ;

^a σφῶ "you two." . . . D. and Aeschylus, who are to be entertained before leaving for the upper world.

^a Re-enter Pluto and Aeschylus.

^b Handing him a rope.

THE FROGS, 1493-1521

Stripping tragedy-art of
All things noble and true.
Surely the mind to school
Fine-drawn quibbles to seek,
Fine-set phrases to speak,
Is but the part of a fool !

PL.^a Farewell then, Aeschylus, great and wise,
Go, save our state by the maxims rare
Of thy noble thought ; and the fools chastise,
For many a fool dwells there.
And this^b to Cleophon give, my friend,
And this to the revenue-raising crew,
Nicomachus, Myrmex, next I send,
And this to Archenomus too.^c
And bid them all that without delay,
To my realm of the dead they hasten away.
For if they loiter above, I swear
I'll come myself and arrest them there.
And branded and fettered the slaves shall go
With the vilest rascal in all the town,
Adeimantus,^d son of Leucolophus, down,
Down, down to the darkness below.

AES. I take the mission. This chair of mine
Meanwhile to Sophocles here commit,
(For I count him next in our craft divine,)
Till I come once more by thy side to sit.
But as for that rascally scoundrel there,
That low buffoon, that worker of ill,

Evidently officials guilty of embezzlement in collecting the revenue.

^a Why he is included here is not known, but he is "the Athenian commander who was credited with having, a few months later, on the fatal day of Aegospotami, betrayed to Lysander the entire Athenian fleet": R.

^a "On two distinct occasions the evil genius of Athens, persuading her to reject a peace which was her only hope of salvation: first, after the brilliant success of Alcibiades at Cyzicus (Diod. Sic. xiii. 53), and again after the more important victory of Arginusæ (Aristotle's Polity of Athens, chap. xxxiv.), when the Lacedæmonians made overtures to Athens for the conclusion of a general peace on the uti possidetis principle": R.

THE FROGS, 1522-1533

O let him not sit in my vacant chair,
Not even against his will.

PL. (to the Chor.) Escort him up with your mystic throngs,
While the holy torches quiver and blaze.
Escort him up with his own sweet songs,
And his noble festival lays.

CHOR. First, as the poet triumphant is passing away to the light,
Grant him success on his journey,
 ye powers that are ruling below.
Grant that he find for the city
 good counsels to guide her aright ;
So we at last shall be freed
 from the anguish, the fear, and the woe,
Freed from the onsets of war.
 Let Cleophon ^a now and his band Battle, if battle they must,
 far away in their own fatherland.
