The Elven Language

12/16/01

Mellonamin,

Below you will find simple grammatical rules and word lists for use in creating elven phrases. Much effort has been put into making the process as simple as possible. A section on elven roleplay may also be found after the word list. The Grey Company's Elven is a growing language based 'loosely' on the elven found throughout JRR Tolkiens works. As we strive to nurture its growth, all input is encouraged and appreciated.

GRAMMAR

1) PLURALS:

- * Denoted r, ea, ie, or, io, and oo. Exact choice is left up to the person creating the plural.
- * Use -rim to denote great numbers or respect

Examples:

nimbrethie = birches
Aredhelrim = elf lords

2) PRONOUNS:

- * when used alone pronouns express subjects (amin mela lle - I love you)
- * when used in possessive phrases they express possession (melamin - my love)

I (my,mine)	amin	him (his)	ho we, us (ours)	lye	her (hers)	he he	ro	they	ron
she	re	them (their)	sen
it (its)	ta	this	sina
you (yours)	lle	that	tanya
you(p) (yours-p)	llie	who	ya

3) POSSESSIVE PHRASES:

SIMPLE

Subject:possessor

* Append pronoun to end of object.

* Pluralize noun first.

Examples:

irmo = desire, irmoamin = my desire or irmoieamin = my desires atar = father, atarho = his father

COMPLEX

Subject of Subject:possessor

* Separate secondary subject (possessed by primary subject) with en from the simple familiar of the primary subject.

Examples:

mela en coiamin

love of the life of I love of my life

tinu en atarahe daughter of the mother of her her mother's daughter

SIMPLE NONFAMILIAR OR PROPER

Subject of Possessor

* use when possessor is expressing distance/separation from object or when possessor is proper.

* Separate subject from possessor with en.

Examples:

mellon en amin friend of I my friend (expresses distance)

megil en Lywnis

sword of Lywnis

Lywnis' sword

4) ADJECTIVES:

* Append to the front of the object/action they are describing.

Examples:

corialote purple flower

lashae wide ocean (last 2 n's from lann dropped)

* when expressing intensities (i.e. bright, brighter, brightest)

1) when stem ends in vowel append -n for -er and -nin for -est

Examples:

tiri = bright, brightly tirin = brighter tirinin = brightest

2) when stem ends in noun append -in for -er and -inin for -est

Examples:

calen = green calenin = greener caleninin = greenest

5) ADVERBS:

* Follows verb in unchanged form.

* Also see intensity rules listed above.

Examples:

cormamin glina tiri my heart it gleams bright

my heart gleams brightly i'aredhelrim quene hodo the elf lords they spoke wise

the elf lords spoke wisely

6) VERBS:

* Conjugate to past, present, future, conditional with e,a, uva, aya past -e present -a future -uva

conditional -aya

Examples:

amin elee = I saw, amin elea = I see, amin eleuva = I shall see, amin eleaya = I would see

* two or more conjugated verbs may exist in one phrase as long as are not strung together.

* use unconjugated verbs when stringing more than one together

Examples:

amin irma quen I desire to speak
lle delotha mel amin You hate to love me
* -ing endings are expressed by appending -ad or -ien to the stem if it ends in a noun or - d if it ends in a vowel.

Example:

amin naa tulien a' i'til I am coming to the point
* -ed endings are expressed using the past tense conjugation.

Example:

nardane ron kaime e' i'ranquie en' ilye n'at entwined they slept in each others arms

7) CREATION OF NEW WORDS

- * keep it simple, use portions of other words, and try to remain true to the flowing nature of elven
- * before using the words your new words, either post them to the GC private folder entitled Elven Language Discussion, or get written permission from the Keeper of The Dictionary.
- * rationalize your derivation, before using the words that you create. If a suitable words for derivation do not exist than make one up keeping in mind simplicity and the nature of elven.
- * when taking a noun from a verb stem:
 - 1) conjugate to present form for direct noun (i.e. ele- to see, elea(v) sees, elea(n) sight
 - 2) for a related term, append either o or u to the stem (i.e. eleo - eye)
 - 3) when ascribing the verb to a person, append ar to the stem
(i.e. oht-war, ohtar - warrior)
- * when creating words from two or more words, append together and drop enough letters from the appendor to avoid cumbersome letter sequences (see below)

8) PHRASE CONSTRUCTION:

- * Use subject - verb - object (add adverbs and adjectives as above)
- * Phrase questions as statements followed by question maker.
- * Words such as a, does, would etc. may be inferred from the context of the phrase.
- * When appending pronouns or adjectives, you may drop letters from the appendor in order to eliminate awkward sequences of letters. Examples would be avoiding 3 consonants in a row, 3 vowels in a row, or 2 of the same vowel in a row.

Examples:

Amin mela lle.	I love you.
Lye nuquernuva sen e dagor	We will defeat them in battle

Story of the elves:

There are many creation stories of how the elven race came about. Elves and magic originated close to the same time, and it was only later that the creation of humans, dwarves and other lesser races came about. Although interesting, the following is where we are at today as this world often becomes a confusing place.

There are four primary branches of the elven race, most common being the high elves, then gray and wood elves and unfortunately, dark, drow elves. Elves tend to be a bit slimmer than most humans, and depending upon variety, either taller or shorter than humans, but rarely an average height. They do not have facial hair. (Although some elves have been seen with beard disguises, <not popular with our sword master>)

The spoken language is one that is as flowing as a melodic brook. An elf may live to be older than 1,200 years and is generally about 130 before he earns the stature of being accepted as mature by other elves. It is very rare, if ever, that an elf is ever known to pass from this life due to the wearing of years. Before that happens, they become compelled to depart the realms of men. Where they go is uncertain.

Elves are generally not evil, with few exceptions such as the drow. Most would be considered neutral as the world is seen more as gray or a balance of good and evil, life and death. Often times there will be a tendency to lean towards being good, just because of the caring of others and nature.

Elves are quite handsome and have a greater appreciation for nature's beauty, dancing and singing. Their humor is clever, as well as is their song and poetry.

As compared to human and dwarves, elves are generally brave and not foolhardy. Their common drink is, unless of course a good Fey wine would happen to be available <sometimes even a poor one if given the choice of ale> that of mead, preferably heated to a blood warm temperature. Drinking to the excess is uncommon, although there are times when a bit of Fey wine or a bit of Dwarven spirits are misjudged. Ale is a very uncommon and somewhat bitter beverage. However some of us have traveled so much with the dwarven clan, a slight taste has been acquired in order to become a gracious acceptor of an offered mug.

Relationships with humans is often times distant. Whether it is by choice or that a human is often hasty, indecisive, and comparatively short lived is questionable. Dwarves are competent allies and some make good friends, but they have different lifestyles that are not generally compatible with elves. Elves do not care for the caverns, caves or mines that our dwarf neighbors are so fond of.

To some other races, elves are sometimes considered aloof, snooty and frivolous and have personalities that are impossible to fathom. In fact they are not, perhaps because of their longevity. Elves have learned the benefits of patience before passing judgment and take time before making judgments. This is also why the waiting period before acceptance into the Grey Company is generally one month. For an elf to not even have patience that long sometimes shows traces of having spent too much time with the other races and their values.

Although they do not make friends easily, elves consider oftentimes associates and friends as near equals. An elf-friend is a very close, dear and honorary title that is difficult to earn and given to those who are stoic, honorable and follow many elven ways. Likewise, an enemy of the elves is never forgotten, especially the evil ones of the woods.

All and all it becomes apparent why the elves have always endured throughout the years and are the most superior of races. With values, pure hearts, respect, honor and closely held blood ties, the elven race will continue far long after man has gone.

Elven holidays

Yenearsira - Winter Solstice, the Elven new year. A day of rebirth.

Sheelala - A day of games and practical jokes celebrated in early spring.

Ehtele'mele - Vernal equinox. A week of romance and song.

Faradome - Summer Solstice. A celebration of the battle between Corellon and Gruumsh One-Eye.
A night of orc hunting.

Yavieba - Autumnal equinox. A week of reflection and a time to remember those who have left this world.
Most important decisions and judgments are made during this week.

Favorite Elven Wines

Saerloonian Glowfire-pale wine, luminous, taste reminiscent of pears.

Saerloonian Topaz-yellow amber wine w/ nutty quality and bold fruit overtones.

Mead-sweet wine of fermented honey.

Elverquisst- a ruby-colored liquor magically distilled from sunshine and rare summer fruits. Utterly smooth, the liquor is nonetheless flecked with gold and has an iridescence of both color and flavor. It is highly prized at all times, but in the autumn rituals it is savored as if it is the gift of one final, perfect summer day.

Evermead-THE elven mead, imported from evermeet. The one to which all others are compared and found wanting Clarry-table wine blend sweetened w/ honey and spices.

Arabellan Dry-fine red wine, very dry woody overtones and a slight berry taste.

Berdruskan Dark-heavy sweet and burning, almost black, HIGH alcohol content.

Morimatra-a spiced wine favored by the Drow.

Other Items Of Interest

Kholiast-elven card game consisting of a 1000 card deck, dice and a very difficult method of counting points. A high elf favorite.

Shalaquin-long necked elven instrument, plucked or strummed string tension is controlled by a ratcheting wheel.
