judicial power of the United States. The power vested in the United States Supreme Court, and such inferior courts as Congress shall from time to time ordain and establish, under and in accordance with Article III of the United States Constitution. Martin v Hunter (US) 1 Wheat 304, 4 L Ed 97.

judicial precedent. See precedent.

judicial proceedings. Proceedings before a court of justice or before a judge acting in a judicial capacity.

As to what constitutes a judicial proceeding within the rule of privilege as to defamatory matter published in the course of such proceedings, see 33 Am J1st L & S § 147.

judicial process. A part of the legal system, contrasting with the administrative process. I Am J2d Adm Law § 16. Broadly, all the acts of the court from the beginning of an action or proceeding to the end. Blair v Maxbass Secur. Bank, 44 ND 12, 176. In a more narrow sense, the means of acquiring jurisdiction over person or thing or the means of enforcing and carrying out the judgment of the court, in other words the ordinary concept of process.

See process.

judicial proof. A clear and evident declaration and demonstration of a matter which was before doubtful, conveyed in a judicial manner. Powell v State, 101 Ga 9, 29 SE 309. Broadly, evidence admissible under the rules of evidence. In another sense of the term, sufficient proof under the rules which determine the weight of evidence.

See juridical proof.

judicial question. A question within the province of the court to decide.

See question of law.

judicial record. See court record.

judicial remedy. A remedy to be pursued in a court rather than before an administrative body.

judicial review. The review of administrative action by an action or proceeding in court.

See appeal.

judicial sale. A sale made under the judgment or order of a court of competent authority by the sheriff or other legally appointed and commissioned to sell, the court being the vendor, while the officer appointed to sell is a mere ministerial agent. Hayes v Betts, 227 Ala 630, 151 So 692, 95 ALR 1484.

See bid; execution sale; redemption; reserved price; stifling bids; upset price.

judicial separation. An establishment by a decree or judgment of a competent court of the right of one spouse to live apart from the other and of the rights of property and the custody of their children, without divorce. In effect, a divorce a mensa et thoro.

judicial visit. See visitation.

judicial writs. Writs which were issued in an action subsequently to the issuance of the original writ or summons, and which issued under the private seal of the court and not under the great seal of England.

They were not tested in the king's name, but in the name of the chief justice if there was one, and in the name of the senior justice if there was not. See 3 Bl Comm 282.

Judicia posteriora sunt in lege fortiora. The more recent decisions are the stronger in law.

judiciary. A judge; a justice. A court; the system of courts in a state or nation. A department of justice. Re Davies, 168 NY 89, 61 NE 118.

Judiciary Act. An act of Congress passed in 1789, which under the Federal Constitution created the courts which were to exercise the judicial functions of the government. United States v Holliday (US) 3 Wall 407, 18 L Ed 182.

judiciary court. The principal criminal court of Scotland.

judiciary police. Members of the police department, especially magistrates, whose function it is to prevent crimes by punishing criminals. State ex rel. Walsh v Hine, 59 Conn 50, 21 A 1024.

Judicia sunt tanquam juris dicta, et pro veritate accipiuntur. Judgments are, as it were, the sayings of the law, and are received as truth. Latin v Kipp, 155 Wis 347, 145 NW 183, 5 ALR 655, 668.

Judiciis posterioribus fides est adhibenda. Confidence should be reposed in the more recent decisions.

Judici officium suum excedenti non paretur. A judge need not be obeyed when he exceeds his jurisdiction.

judiciously. With the exercise of good judgment. Cotes & Patchin v Davenport, 9 Iowa 227, 236.

Judici satis poena est quod Deum habet ultorem. It is a sufficient punishment for a judge that he has God as his avenger.

Judicis est in pronuntiando sequi regulam, exceptione non probata. The exception not having been proved, it is the duty of the judge to follow the rule.

Judicis est judicare secundum allegata et probata. It is the duty of the judge to decide in conformity with the pleadings and the proofs.

Judicis est jus dicere non dare.

[687]

It is the duty of the judge to administer justice and not to make law.

Judicis officium est opus diei in die suo perficere. It is the duty of the judge to complete the day's work within the day.

Judicis officium est ut res ita tempora rerum, quarere; quaesito tempore tutus eris. It is as much the duty of the judge to inquire into the times of things as into the things themselves; by inquiring into the time you will be safe.

judicium. A trial; an action; a decision; an opinion; a judgment; a proceeding before a "judex" or judge. State ex rel. Moreland v Whitford, 54 Wis 150, 157.

Judicium anon suo judice datum nullius est momenti. A judgment rendered by a person who is not a judge is of no avail.

judicium aquae. The judgment of water.

This judgment represented the outcome of a trial by water-ordeal which was performed either by plunging the defendant's bare arm up to the elbow in boiling water, or by casting him into a pool of water. If he escaped harm from the boiling water, or sank in the plunge, he was deemed innocent and acquitted, but if he was scalded by the hot water, or if he floated when thrown into the pool, he was adjudged guilty. See 4 Bl Comm 343.

judicium capitale. A judgment or sentence of death.

judicium Dei. The judgment of God,—the judgment which was the culmination of a trial by ordeal of fire or water, and was sometimes called vulgaris purgatio—common purgation—to distinguish it from the canonical purgation which was by the oath of the party. See 4 Bl Comm 342.

Judicium est quasi juris dictum. A judgment is, as it were, a command of the law.

judicium ferri. The judgment of the iron.

This judgment was the culmination of a trial by fire-ordeal, which was performed either by taking up in the hand a piece of red-hot iron of from one to three pounds weight, or else by walking barefoot and blindfold over nine red-hot ploughshares, laid lengthwise at equal distances. If the accused escaped unhurt, he was acquitted, but if otherwise, as was usually the case, he was adjudged guilty. See 4 Bl Comm 342.

judicium ignis. The judgment of fire.

See judicium ferri.

Judicium non debet esse illusorium; suum effectum habere debet. A judgment ought not to be illusory; it ought to have its effect.

judicium parium. The judgment of his peers.

judicium pro rege. A judgment in favor of the king.

Judicium redditur in invitum. A judgment is rendered against one's will. It is not a contract and is not to be so considered. O'Brien v Young, 95 NY 428.

Judicium redditur in invitum in praesumptione legis. In presumption of law, a judgment is rendered against one's will.

Judicium semper pro veritate accipitur. A judgment is always accepted as true.

jug. An earthenware, plastic, or glass container of liquids, having a small mouth. Slang for jail or prison.

jugerum. A Roman land measure which was equivalent to a little more than half a modern acre, and specifically, measured 240 by 120 feet.

jugulator. A cutthroat; an assassin; a murderer.

jugum. (Civil law.) An ox-yoke; a yoke of land, being a quantity which was ploughable by one ox-team in a day.

jugum terrae. A yoke of land. See yoke.

juicio. (Spanish.) An action; a suit; a trial; a judgment.

juicio de apeo. (Spanish.) A decree establishing a boundary.

juicio de concurso de acreedores. (Spanish.) A judgment against an insolvent debtor directing a pro rata payment to his creditors out of the assets of his estate.

juke box. A record player, found in restaurants and saloons, which operates upon the dropping of a coin in a slot; expressly declared an amusement by statute in some jurisdictions. Fierri v Williamsport, 384 Pa 568, 120 A2d 889.

Julian calendar. The calendar instituted by Julius Caesar in 46 B. C., dividing the year into twelve months to consist alternately of thirty and thirty-one days, with the exception of February, which was to have twenty-nine days in ordinary years and thirty in leap years, and every third year was a leap year.

The Julian Calendar assumed the length of the year to be 365-1/4 days, whereas it is eleven minutes and some seconds shorter, making an error of three fourths of a day in a century. The Gregorian Calendar reduced this error to one day in thirty centuries.

See Gregorian Calendar.

Julian law of treason. See lex Julia majestatis. jument. A plough ox.

jumenta. (Civil law.) Beasts of burden; animals used for carrying or draughting.

jump bail. To flee while released on bail.

jumper. A technical term for a wire used to intercept or cut out a part of an electric circuit. Ballard v State, 68 Okla Crim 39, 95 P2d 239. A wire used in starting the motor of an automobile without a key to the ignition. Edwards v Hartford, 145 Conn 141, 139 A2d 599.

jumper wire. See jumper.

Jun. An abbreviation of junior, infrequently used.

Juncta juvant. United, they flourish. Things which are void severally may be valid jointly.

[688]

junction. In its ordinary acceptation as applied to railroads, the point or locality where two or more lines of railway meet.

Two lines of distinct companies, or separate roads of the same company, or a main line and a branch road of the same company, may have points of union or meeting, styled junctions, but this can hardly be predicated of a single continuous road from one point to another. United States v Oregon & California Railroad Co. 164 US 526, 41 L Ed 541, 17 S Ct 165.

See intersection.

junior. Adjective: Younger; of secondary consequence, standing, or rank; that is junior over which something else stands prior in right. Noun: A suffix appended to a name to indicate a person as the son of a person of the same name; no part of the legal name, being nothing more than a mere title. Huff v State Election Board, 168 Okla 277, 32 P2d 920, 93 ALR 906. Abbreviated "Jr." and "Jun." Carleton v Townsend, 28 Cal 219. No part of a man's name; not essential to the docketing of the judgment against a son, although his father has the same name and resides in the same county. Foshier v Narver, 24 Or 441, 34 P 21.

junior college. A school offering courses of instruction on the level of difficulty for the first two years above high school level, irrespective of the breadth or variety of the field of education covered. Nixon-Clay Commercial College v Woods (Tex Civ App) 176 SW2d 1015, error ref. Best understood as a college providing instruction equivalent to the first two years of an ordinary college, intended to provide a general education so far as the period of study and instruction permits, also to qualify graduates to transfer to other colleges and universities for further work. Pollitt v Lewis, 269 Ky 680, 108 SW2d 671, 113 ALR 691. Not a common school or a public school. An no: 113 ALR 711.

junior creditor. A creditor whose claim is subject to the claim or claims of another creditor or creditors which have priority by force of law.

junior encumbrance. A mortgage or other lien which is inferior in point of priority in law to another mortgage or lien.

junior encumbrancer. A person holding a lien or encumbrance which is in point of priority in law to another lien or encumbrance.

junior equities. Equitable interests in real estate which are junior in point of priority in law to other equities. 55 Am J1st V & P §§ 678 et seq.

See inferior equity.

junior execution. An execution levied after a levy on the same property under another execution issued upon a different judgment. 30 Am J2d Exec § 515. A writ of execution bearing a date subsequent to that of an execution against the same defendant issued upon a different judgment. Continental Distributing Co. v Hays, 86 Wash 300, 150 P 416.

junior high. See high school.

junior incumbrance. See junior encumbrance.

junior incumbrancer. See junior encumbrances.

junior judgment. A judgment which is inferior in point of priority in law to another judgment entered against the same defendant.

junior mortgage. A mortgage over which another mortgage has priority in law.

junior operator's license. A license for the operation of a motor vehicle, with restrictions in reference to the hours of driving, the presence of an adult licensed driver in the vehicle, etc., imposed due to the youth of the licensee. 7 Am J2d Auto § 97.

junior-right. Also called borough-English,—the right of the youngest son to inherit the estate of his deceased father.

junior widow. The surviving spouse of a decedent, claiming dower in lands to which the surviving spouse Of an ancestor Of the decedent is entitled to dower. 25 Am J2d Dow § 87.

juniperus sabina. A plant sometimes called "savin," the product of which is employed in producing abortions.

junk. A word of nautical origin, meaning old or condemned cable and cordage cut into small pieces, which, when untwisted, were used for various purposes on the ship. 47 Am J1st Sec H D § 2. Articles of no value except for the reclaimable material in them. Worn-out or discarded material that still may be turned to some use, especially old metals, ropes, rags, glass, paper, or clothing. State v Shapiro, 131 Md 168, 101 A 703.

Secondhand furniture is not junk. Duluth v Bloom, 55 Minn 97, 56 NW 580.

junk dealer. A person who makes it his business to buy or sell junk as a trader. State v Rosenbaum, 80 Conn 327, 68 A 250; State v Shapiro, 131 Md 168, 101 A 703.

junking motor vehicles. The business of buying up used cars and placing them in a junk yard where they will be available for the removal and sale of their parts or for sale as mere junk. 47 Am J1st Sec H D § 11.

junk shop. A building or room in which junk is sold. Duluth v Bloom, 55 Minn 97, 56 NW 580.

junk yard. A place where junk is stored or stored and sold.

junta. Same as junto.

junto. A secret political council; a political faction.

jura. Rights. Laws.

jura ad personam. Rights in personam, rights against the person.

Jura ad rem. Rights in rem; rights against the thing.

jura coronae. Private rights of the crown. Geiger v Filor, 8 Fla 325, 337.

Jura ecclesiastica limitata sunt infra limites separator. Ecclesiastical laws are limited within distinct confines.

Jura eodem modo destituuntur quo constituuntur. Laws are repealed in the same manner in which they are enacted.

jura fiscalia. Fiscal rights,—rights in the royal revenue. See 3 Bl Comm 45.

jura in re. Rights in a thing.

jura in re aliena. (Civil law.) Rights in property belonging to another person. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 237.

jural. Pertaining or relating to law or to legal matters.

[689]

jura majestatis. (Civil law.) The rights of sovereignty.

Among these rights is the ius eminens, or the supreme power of the state over its members and whatever belongs to them. When applied to property alone, it is called dominium eminens, or the right of eminent domain; that is, the right of the sovereignty to use the property of its members for the public good or public necessity. Gilmer v Lime Point, 18 Cal 229, 251.

juramenta. Plural of juramentum.

juramentum. (Civil law.) An oath.

juramentum calumniae. (Civil law.) The oath of calumny,—an oath disclaiming malice, which was required of each of the parties to an action before trial.

Juramentum corporalis. A corporal oath, an oath taken by swearing on the Bible.

Juramentum est affirmatio vel negatio de aliquo, attestazione sacrae rei firmata. An oath is an affirmation or a denial concerning any matter, confirmed by the attestation of a sacred thing.

Juramentum est indivisibile; et non est admittendum in parte verum et in parte falsam. An oath is indivisible; and it is not to be accepted as partly true and partly false.

juramentum fidelitatis. The oath of fealty, which was the oath which bound the tenant to his lord's service under feudal tenure. See 2 Bl Comm 45.

juramentum necessarium. (Civil law.) A necessary oath,—an oath as to the truth of any matter which a party was required to make on the demand of the other party, and which when so made was binding on such other party.

juramentum voluntarium. (Civil law.) The voluntary oath,—an oath which a party to an action was not required to make, but when made, the other party was required to answer it under oath.

Jura naturae sicut immutabilia. The laws of nature are unchangeable. Anderson v Wilkins, 142 NC 154, 55 SE 272.

jura personarum. The rights of persons,—such rights as belong to every person. See 1 BI Comm 122.

jura praediorum. (Civil law.) The rights of landed estates.

jura publica. Public rights, also called "jura communia," among which are the rights of navigation and fishery; so called in contradistinction to jura coronae, the private rights of the crown. Geiger v Eilor, 8 Fla 325, 337.

Jura publica anteferenda privatis. Public rights are to be preferred to private rights.

Jura publica ex privato promiscue decidi non debent. Public rights ought not to be decided promiscuously with private right.

jurare. To swear; to make oath; to affirm on oath.

Jurare est Deum in testum vocare, et est actus divini cultus. To swear is to call upon God to witness, and it is an act of divine reverence.

jura regalia. Royal rights,—a term comprehending not only those rights which pertain to the political character and authority of the king, but also those rights which are incidental to his regal dignity, and may be severed at his pleasure from the crown and vested in his subjects.

jura regia. Same as jura regalia.

Jura regis specialia non conceduntur per generalia verba. Special rights are not granted by the crown in general terms.

jura rerum. The rights of things, such rights as a man may acquire over external objects, or things unconnected with his person. See 1 BI Comm 122.

jura sanguinis nullo jure civili dirimi possum. The rights of blood cannot be destroyed by any provisions of the civil law. Jackson v Phillips, 96 Mass (14 Allen) 539, 562.

jura summi imperii. The rights of sovereignty.

jurat. The evidence that an affidavit has been duly sworn by the affiant; a certificate evidencing the fact that the affidavit was properly made before a duly authorized officer, the usual and proper form being "Subscribed and sworn to before me," followed by the date, signature, and title of the officer. 3 Am J2d Affi § 16.

Although it has been said that, strictly speaking, the jurat is not a part of the affidavit, common prudence dictates that a properly executed jurat be attached to every affidavit. Cox v Stern, 170 Ill 442, 48 NE 906.

See jurats.

jurata. A jury; a trial jury.

juration. The taking of an oath; the administration of an oath by one authorized.

Jurato creditor in judicio. A person who is sworn is to be believed in a judicial proceeding.

jurator. A juror or member of a jury; a compurgator.

See distringas juratores.

juratores. Plural of jurator.

Juratores debent esse vicini, sufficientes et minus suspecti. Jurors ought to be of the vicinage, sufficiently well off, and free from suspicion.

Juratores sunt iudices facti. The jurors are the judges of fact.

juratory. Relating or pertaining to an oath.

See caution juratory.

jurats. Sworn officers who formed the governing body in certain communities in England.

Plural of jurat.

jure. In right; in law; by right; by law.

[690]

jure alluvionis. By the right of alluvion,—by the right to land formed by the gradual washing up of sand and earth on the shore of a river.

jure alterius. See in jure alterius.

jure belli. By the law of war.

See prize goods.

jure civile. By the civil law of the Romans.

jure coronae. By right of the crown; by royal right. Arnold v Mundy, 6 NJL 1.

jure divino. By divine right.

jure ecclesiae. By right of the church; by the ecclesiastical law.

jure emphyteutico. (Roman law.) By right of emphyteusis.

See emphyteusis.

jure gentium. By the law of nations.

jure mariti. By the right of a husband.

jure naturae. By the law of nature.

Jure naturae aequum est neminem cum alterius detrimento et injuria fieri locupletiores. By natural law it is just that no one be enriched through the loss or injury of another. Berry v Stigall, 253 Mo 690, 162 SW 126.

jure propinquitatis. By right of relationship.

jure proprio. See in jure proprio.

jure representationis. By right of representation.

"There is no difference between the descent to George and the descent to John his son, who, jure representationis, is the same with the father." Lessee of Levy v M'Cartee, (US) 6 Pet 102, 115, 8 L Ed 334, 339.

jure uxoris. In the right of the wife.

jure uxoris estate. The common-law freehold estate of a husband in real property of which his wife is, at the time of the marriage, seised in fee or in which she has a life estate; also extending to real estate of which the wife becomes seised after the marriage. An estate in the right of the wife, entitling the husband to the possession, use, income, and usufruct of the property, but not continuing beyond the death of either of the spouses. Hopper v Gurtman, 126 NJL 263, 18 A2d 245, 133 ALR 624.

judicial. Pertaining to the law; pertaining to the administration of justice.

judicial days. Days which are legal for the holding of court.

judicial proof. A clear and evident declaration or demonstration of a matter which before was doubtful, conveyed in a judicial manner. Powell v State, 101 Ga 9, 21.

See judicial proof.

judicis. Same as judicial.

Juri non est consonum quod aliquis accessorius in curia regis convincatur antequam aliquis de facto fuerit attinctus. It is not consonant with the law that any accessory should be convicted in the king's court before anyone has been attainted of the fact.

juris consultus. Learned in the law.

jurisdictio. Same as jurisdiction.

Jurisdictio est potestas de publico introducta, cum necessitate juris dicendi. Jurisdiction is a power introduced for the public welfare, through the necessity of administering the law.

jurisdiction. A term used in two senses as it applies to a court: (1) In a general sense, the abstract right of a court to exercise its powers in causes of a certain class; (2) in a particular sense, the right of a tribunal to exercise its power with respect to a particular matter. In other words, the power of the court over the subject matter, over the res or property in contest, and for the rendition of the judgment or decree the court assumes to make. 20 Am J2d Cts §§ 87, 88. Summarily stated, the power to act judicially. Industrial Addition Assn. v Commissioner, 323 US 310, 89 L Ed 260, 65 S Ct 289; Monarch Anthracite Mining Co. (CA3 Pa) 102 F2d 337. The power to hear, determine, and adjudicate. Mellette County v Arnold, 76 SD 210, 75 NW2d 641, 644. In criminal case, the jurisdiction which exists for the punishment of crimes; the power of a court to inquire into the fact, to apply the law, and to declare the punishment, in a regular course of judicial proceeding, embracing every kind of judicial action on the subject matter, from finding the indictment to pronouncing the sentence. State v Smith, 29 RI 513, 72 A 710.

Sometimes referring to the power or authority of administrative or executive agencies, even to the power of the state. 20 Am J2d Cts § 87. Sometimes referring to the territorial area, national or state, by way of indicating the law applicable to a case or the place where a cause was tried.

jurisdictional. Vital or essential to the jurisdiction of the court or other tribunal before which a matter is pending.

jurisdictional amount. See amount in controversy.

jurisdictional defect. A defect, whether of omission or commission, in process, pleading, parties, or procedure which deprives the court of jurisdiction.

Neither the fact that an action is brought in the wrong county, nor that other persons should have been joined as parties is necessarily a jurisdictional defect. Stratton v Beaver Farmers' Canal & Ditch Co. 82 Colo 118, 257 P 1077.

jurisdictional dispute. Conflicting claims by labor unions over representation of employees or over the right to do certain types of work. 31 Am J Rev ed Labor § 391.

jurisdictional fact doctrine. The principle that even though supported by evidence, an administrative determination of certain fundamental facts bearing upon a constitutional or jurisdictional issue is not conclusive upon the courts, and that, with respect to such a determination, the courts have the power and duty to exercise their own independent judgment. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 692.

jurisdictional plea. A plea in contest of the jurisdiction of the court; either a plea in abatement or a plea in bar, according to whether the objection is to a particular court or to the subject matter in controversy whatever the particular court may be. United States v J. L. Hopkins & Co. (DC NY) 288 F 173.

[691]

jurisdiction clause. That essential clause in a bill in equity upon which the complainant bases his claim of the jurisdiction of the court in which the suit is brought.

jurisdiction in equity. See equity jurisdiction.

jurisdiction in personam. Jurisdiction over the person of the defendant which can be acquired only by service of process upon the defendant in the state to which the court belongs or by his voluntary submission to jurisdiction. Pennoier v Neff, 95 US 714, 24 L Ed 565.

jurisdiction in rem. Jurisdiction over a res or thing situated in the state, which may be property or a status or relation. Hamm v Hamm, 30 Tenn App 122, 204 SW2d 113, 175 ALR 523. That jurisdiction of the property in contest in an action which is obtained by a seizure under process of the court, whereby it is held to abide such order as the court may make concerning it. Cooper v Reynolds' Lessee (US) 10 Wall 308, 19 L Ed 931, 932.

jurisdiction of federal courts. The power of the court to hear and determine the subject matter in controversy between parties to a suit—the power to decide a justiciable controversy. Binderup v Pathe Exchange, 263 US 291, 68 L Ed 308, 44 S Ct 96. Jurisdiction as conferred by the United States Constitution and acts of Congress enacted under the authority of the Constitution and in conformity therewith. Lockerty v Phillips, 319 US 182, 87 L Ed 1339, 63 S Ct 1019.

jurisdiction of the cause. In the broader sense, the power of the court to proceed to the administration of justice in a particular case, considered from any angle affecting such power, be it want of service of process, the absence of the requisite amount in controversy, etc. In a more precise sense, the power over the subject matter, given by the law of the sovereignty in which the tribunal exists. Re Taylor, 7 SD 382, 64 NW 253.

jurisdiction of the person. See jurisdiction in personam.

jurisdiction of the res. See jurisdiction in rem.

jurisdiction of the subject matter. The power of a court to hear and determine cases of the general class to which the action in question belongs. Schillerstrom v Schillerstrom, 75 ND 667, 32 NW2d 106, 2 ALR2d 271. A jurisdiction not dependent upon the state of facts which may appear in a particular case, or the ultimate existence of a good cause of action in the plaintiff therein. Parker Bros. v Fagan (CA5 Fla) 68 F2d 616.

jurisdiction quasi in rem. Jurisdiction neither strictly in personam nor strictly in rem; an action in personam where a thing or res is indirectly affected by the decision. Hanson v Denekla, 357 US 235, 2 L Ed 1283, 78 S Ct 1228, reh den 358 US 858, 3 L Ed 2d 92, 79 S Ct 10. Jurisdiction in a proceeding affecting a status or relation, for example, a marital status. Hamm v Hamm, 30 Tenn App 122, 204 SW2d 113, 175 ALR 523.

Juris effectus in executione consistit. The effectiveness of the law lies in its execution. An execution is the end of the law. Central Nat Bank v Stevens, 169 US 432, 465, 42 L Ed 807, 819, 18 S Ct 403.

juris et de jure. Of law and by or from law.

The expression is one which is applied to conclusive presumptions; that is presumptions of law which the law does not permit to be disputed or disproved.

juris et seisinæ conjunctio. The union of right and seism, that is the double right, of possession joined with the right of property, which is essential to every good and complete title to real property. See 2 Bl Comm 199.

juris gentium. Of the law of nations.

Juris ignorantia est, cum jus nostram ignoramus. It is ignorance of the law when we are ignorant of our own rights. Haven v Foster, 26 Mass (9 Pick) 112.

juris jurando. See exceptio juris jurando.

jurisperitus. Skilled or learned in the law.

juris positivi. Of positive law.

Juris praecepta sunt haec, honeste vivere, alterum non laedere, suum cuique tribuere. The precepts of the law are these, to live honestly, not to injure another, and to give to each one his due.

juris privati. Of private right; not clothed with a public interest. Munn v Illinois, 94 US 113, 24 L Ed 77.

jurisprudence. The science of law. A division of law, such as admiralty. A treatise on the law or particular subjects of the law, such as American Jurisprudence or Ohio Jurisprudence.

jurisprudentia. Same as jurisprudence.

Jurisprudentia est divinarum atque humanarum rerum notitia; justi atque injusti scientia. Jurisprudence is the knowledge of things divine and human; it is the science of justice and injustice.

Jurisprudentia legis communis Angliae est scientia, socialis et copiosa. The jurisprudence of the common law of England is a science, social and rich.

juris publici. Of public or common right.

jurist. A person who is learned in the law.

juristic act. An act which is calculated to have legal effect.

juris utrius doctor. Doctor of both laws; that is, doctor of civil and canon law, a university degree, abbreviated J. U. D.

juris utrum. A writ sometimes called the parson's writ of right, which lay for an incumbent parson or prebendary at common law and for a vicar by statute, to recover land alienated by his predecessor. See 3 Bl Comm 252.

juro. A kind of pension which is granted by the king of Spain in recognition of public service.

juror. A person on the jury list or roll—any person in a county, city, district, or other venue listed for jury service for a definite period, such as a year, or

[692]

for an indefinite period. A person whose name has been drawn from the jury list or roll and placed in the jury wheel or box. In common usage, a venireman—a person whose name has been drawn from the wheel for a venire or special venire and who has been summoned by a writ of venire and is thereby upon the jury panel for a term of court, or part of a term, or a panel from which jurors are to be selected for a particular case. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 3. Most narrowly defined, a member of a jury which has been sworn to try a case. Anno: 34 ALR 1119.

jury. A body of laymen selected by lot, or by some other fair and impartial means, to ascertain, under the guidance of a judge, the truth in questions of fact arising in either a civil or criminal proceeding. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 2. A body of 12 jurors at common law. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 121.

See challenge for cause; demand for a jury; grand jury; hung jury; instructions to jury; packing a jury; peremptory challenge; separation of jury; special jury; struck jury; talesmen; traverse jury; venire; voir dire examination.

jury box. That portion of the court room in which the jury are seated during the trial of a case.

See jury wheel.

jury commissioner. An officer having administrative duties in reference to the compiling of a jury list, the drawing of jurors for a panel, and the summoning of jurors on the panel for duty.

jury de medietate linguae. A jury seldom, if ever, known to American Jurisprudence, but existing in England from 1353 until abolished by the statute, 33 Victoria, Chapter 14, composed one-half each of English speaking persons and of persons speaking the language of the accused, a foreigner, on trial. Respublica v Mesca (Pa) 1 Dall 73, 1 L Ed 42.

jury list. A list of names of all persons in a county, city, district, or other venue subject to call for jury service. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 3.

juryman. See juror.

jury of annoyance. A special jury which was summoned to investigate and return a report upon public nuisances alleged to exist within the county.

jury of coroner. See inquest jury.

jury of inquest. See inquest jury.

jury of jealous women. A jocose expression for a jury composed of women, or of women for the most part, in a case where a beautiful girl or young woman is a party, especially where the reputation of such party is drawn in issue.

jury of matrons. A jury employed in England until well into the 19th century, and on rare occasions in the United States, to determine the pregnancy of a woman condemned to death, also to determine the fact of pregnancy where a woman was under suspicion of feigning pregnancy by her deceased husband as a reason for withholding land from the next heir. Union Pacific R. Co. v Botsford, 141 US 250, 35 L Ed 734, 11 S Ct 1000. jury of peers. See peer.

jury of physicians. A jury to inquire into the pregnancy of a woman sentenced to punishment by death. New York Criminal Code § 500.

jury of sheriff. See sheriffs jury.

jury of the country. A jury of peers of the accused, being persons of like condition and quality. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 7.

jury of the county. A jury drawn from the entire area of venue, as distinguished from an ancient jury drawn from the immediate vicinity of the event giving rise to the action or criminal prosecution. State v Brown, 103 Vt 312, 154 A 579, 76 ALR 1029.

jury of view. A jury in condemnation proceedings and proceedings to vacate certain ways as nuisances. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 2.

See view by jury.

jury panel. The jury list. The jury empaneled for the trial of a particular case.

See jury list.

jury process. The process of a court employed to summon jurors to attend court and to compel their attendance.

See venire.

jury roll. Same as jury list.

jury room. The room in a courthouse wherein the jury conduct their deliberations.

jury tampering. See tampering with jury.

jury trial. See trial by jury.

jury view. See view by jury.

jury wheel. A receptacle from which the names of persons on the jury list are drawn for summoning as jurors for a term of court, or a part of a term, or for service in a particular case. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 3.

jurywoman. A woman serving as a juror.

See jury of matrons.

jus. Right; justice; law. Freichnecht v Meyer, 39 NJ Eq 551, 560.

jus abstinendi. (Civil law.) The right of renouncing, also called potestas abstinendi (the power of renouncing),—that is, the right which an heir had to renounce his paternal inheritance. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 733.

jus abutendi. The right of abusing; that is the right of doing what one pleases with his own; hence, full ownership.

jus accrescendi. The right of survivorship, which vests in the remaining joint-tenants upon the death of one of their number. See 2 Bl Comm 184.

Jus accrescendi inter mercatores locum non habet, pro beneficio commercii. The right of survivorship has no place among merchants, which is for the benefit of commerce.

Jus accrescendi praefertur oneribus. The right of survivorship is preferred to incumbrances.

Jus accrescendi praefertur ultimae voluntati. The right of survivorship is given preference over the last will. See 2 Bl Comm 186 and note.

jus ad rem. See jus in rem.

jus aesneiciae. The right of esneicy, the right of the first-born to have the first choice on a division of an inheritance between coparceners.

[693]

jus albinatus. Also called the "droit d'aubaine,"—the right of the king, under the law of France, to all the property of a deceased alien, unless he had a peculiar exemption. See 1 Bl Comm 372.

jus alluvionis. The right to an increase of land by the natural process of alluvion. Fowler v Wood, 73 Kan 511, 85 P 763.

jus angariae. The right of the lord of the manor to exact service of a vassal.

jus Anglorum. The law of the Anglo-Saxons.

jus aquam ducendi. Same as jus aqueductus.

jus aqueductus. The right of drainage which existed under the civil law, and which is an easement giving the owner of land the right to bring down water through or from the land of another, either from its source or from any other place. Nellis v Munson, 108 NY 453, 459, 15 NE 739.

jus banci. The right of bench,—the right of particular judges to have an elevated seat.

jus belli. The law of war; the right of war.

jus bellum dicendi. The right to declare war, or to proclaim war.

jus canonicum. The canon law.

The term is applied to both the canon or ecclesiastical law of England and to the ancient law of the church of Rome.

jus civile. The civil law.

Jus civile est quod quisque sibi populus constituit. Municipal or civil law is that which a people establishes for itself.

This was Justinian's definition of municipal law, and although strictly municipal law refers to the particular customs of one single free town, or "municipium," yet it may properly be applied to any one state or nation, which is governed by the same laws and customs. See 1 Bl Comm 44.

Jus civile est quod sibi populus constituit. The civil law is that law which the people establish for themselves. Jackson v Jackson (NY) 1 Johns 424, 426.

jus civitatis. (Roman law.) The right of citizenship.

jus cloacae. The right of sewage or drainage.

jus commune. The common or public law. The common law of England, of the United States, and other countries who have derived it from England.

jus commune, et quasi gentium. The common law, and as it were the law of nations.

Jus constitui oportet in his quae ut plurimum accidunt, non quae ex inopinato. Law ought to be established in respect to those matters which occur most frequently, and not in respect to those which are not to be expected.

jus coronae. The right of succession to the throne. See 1 Bl Comm 191.

jus cudendae monetae. The right of coining money.

jus curialitatis. The right of curtesy.

jus dare. To make or enact the law. The Pedro, 175 US 354, 44 L Ed 195, 175 S Ct 138.

jus deliberandi. (Civil law.) The right of deliberating,—the right of an heir to take sufficient time for determining whether he will take or reject the estate of the deceased person.

Jus descendit, et non terra. The right descends, and not the land.

jus dicere. The right to speak. To declare or state the law; to expound the law. The Pedro, 175 US 354, 44 L Ed 195, 175 S Ct 138.

Jus dicere, et non jus dare. To declare the law, and not to make the law. State ex rel. Barker v Chicago & Alton Railroad Co. 265 Mo 646, 178 SW 129.

Jus dicere, non jus dare. To declare the law, not to make the law. Barry v Mandell (NY) 10 Johns 563, 566.

jus disponendi. The right of disposing; that is, the right which a man has to dispose of his property as he pleases. Vanderbilt v Mitchell, 72 NJ Eq 910, 67 A 97.

jus dividendi. The right to devise one's real property by will.

jus duplicatum. A double right, particularly the right of possession joined with the right of property or title.

jus eminens. (Civil law.) The supreme power of the state over its members and whatever belongs to them; the basis of the right of eminent domain. Gilmer v Lime Point, 18 Cal 229, 251.

jus est ars boni et aequi. Law is the science of that which is good and just.

Jus est norma recti; et quicquid est contra normam recti est injuria. Law is the rule of right; and whatever is contrary to the rule of right is an injury.

Jus et fraus nunquam cohabitant. Right and fraud never live together.

jus et seisinam. The right and the seisin.

Jus ex injuria non oritur. A right cannot spring from a wrong.

jus feciale. Feacial law,—the ancient Roman law governing relations with other nations and declarations of war.

jus fiduciarum. (Roman law.) A right in trust, for which there was a remedy in conscience. See 2 Bl Comm 328.

jus fluminum. (Civil law.) The right of using rivers.

jus fodiendi. The right to dig in the land of another.

jus futurum. (Civil law.) A right expected to be acquired.

jus gentium. The law of nations.

See international law; private international law.

[694]

jus gladii. The right of the sword,—the executory power of the law, to prosecute criminal offenses, which resides in the sovereign power. See 4 Bl Comm 177.

jus habendi. The right of having possession of property.

jus habendi et retinendi. The right of having and retaining,—the right of having and keeping the rewards and fruits of a rectory or parsonage.

jus haereditatis. The right of inheritance; the right to succeed as heir.

jus hauriendi. (Civil law.) The right or servitude of drawing water.

jus honorarium. (Roman law.) The law which was instituted by the edicts of the magistrates. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 37.

jus immunitatis. (Civil law.) The right of immunity from service in public office.

jus incognitum. An unknown law.

jus individuum. An indivisible right; a right which cannot be separated into parts; an individual right.

jus in personam. A right against a person, such as a right arising out of a personal obligation.

jus in re. A right in a thing; a right of property; a property right.

See jus in rem.

jus in re aliena. A right in the property of another person.

Jus in re inhaerit ossibus usufructuarii. The right in anything clings to the (bones) person of him who has the right to use it, the usufructuary.

jus in rem. A right in rem or in re, which implies the absolute dominion over property, the ownership of it independently of any particular relation with another person.

The jus ad rem, the right to a thing, is a right which has its foundation in an obligation incurred by another person. The assignment of a bill of lading transfers the jus ad rem, but not necessarily the jus in rem. The Carlos F. Roses, 177 US 655, 666, 44 L Ed 929, 933, 20 S Ct 803.

jus in re propria. A right in the thing itself; complete ownership.

jus Italicum. (Roman law.) The common right or rights of the people of Italy outside of Rome; the common right or rights of Roman colonists.

Jusjurandi forma verbis differt, re convenit; hone enim sensum habere debet, ut Deus invocetur. The form of an oath differs in wording, but agrees in the substance; for it ought to have this meaning,—that God is invoked.

jus jurandum. Same as jusjurandum.

jusjurandum. An oath.

Jusjurandum inter alios factum nee nocere nee prodesse debet. An oath made between other parties ought neither to harm nor profit.

jus Latii. (Roman law.) The law of Latium (the district of Italy in which Rome was situated), exclusive of the law which governed the city of Rome.

jus legitimum. (Roman law.) A legal right, a violation of which was remedied by the ordinary course of law. See 2 Bl Comm 328.

jus mariti. The right of a husband.

jus merum. A mere right. A mere right of property, the jus proprietatis, without either possession or even the right of possession. See 2 Bl Comm 197.

jus naturae. The law of nature.

jus naturale. Natural law; law the principles of which accord with natural reason.

Jus naturale est quod spud homines eandem habet potentiam. Natural law is the law which has the same power among all mankind.

jus naturalis aut divini. Natural or divine law.

jus navigandi. The right of navigation.

jus necis. The right of death,—the right which a Roman father had of putting his children to death.

Jus non habenti, tote non paretur. He who has no right is safely disobeyed.

Jus non patitur ut idem his solvatur. The law does not suffer the same thing to be paid twice.

jus non scriptum. The unwritten law,—the law which is expressed or sanctioned by the tacit and unwritten customs and consent of men; the common law. See 1 Bl Comm 64.

jus pascendi. The right to pasture cattle.

jus patronatus. (Ecclesiastical law.) A commission from the bishop, directed usually to his chancellor and others of competent learning, who were to summon a jury of six clergymen and six laymen, to inquire into and examine as to who was the rightful patron of a living. See 3 Bl Comm 246.

jus personarum. Singular of jura personarum. jus possessionis. The right of possession. See 3 Bl Comm 177.

jus postliminii. The right under which persons and things taken by an enemy in war are restored to their former state on coming again into the power of the nation to which they belonged. Leitensdorfer v Webb, 1 NM 34, 44.

jus praesens. (Civil law.) A present or existing right; a right which has been completely acquired, as distinguished from jus futurum, which is a right expected to be acquired, but which has not been completely acquired. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 191.

jus praetorium. (Civil law.) The discretion of the praetor,—the power to pronounce the rule of law, and to apply it to particular cases by the principles of equity. See 3 Bl Comm 49.

[695]

jus precarium. (Roman law.) A right obtained by begging or asking for it; that is, a right in courtesy, for which the remedy was only by entreaty or request. See 2 Bl Comm 328.

jus presentationis. (Ecclesiastical law.) The right of a patron to present a clergyman to a benefice. See 3 Bl Comm 246.

jus privatum. A private right.

Any right held by the king of England in his individual capacity was known as jus privatum. Any right which he held in a representative capacity was known as jus publicum, a public right. Lewis Blue Point Oyster Cultivation Co. v Briggs, 198 NY 287, 91 NE 846.

jus projiendi. (Civil law.) The servitude or right to build a projection, such as a balcony or gallery, from one's house over the land of his neighbor. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 317.

jus proprietatis. See jus merum.

Jus prosequendi in judicio, quod alicui debetur. The right of prosecuting to judgment, which is due to everyone. See 3 Bl Comm 116.

jus protegendi. (Civil law.) The right to construct a shed on one's house in such manner that it projected over his neighbor's land. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 317.

jus publicum. A public right; a right held by the king in a representative capacity. Lewis Blue Point Oyster Cultivation Co. v Briggs, 198 NY 287, 91 NE 846.

Jus publicum et privatum quod ex naturalibus praeceptis aut gentium aut civilibus est collectum; et quod in jure scripto jus appellatur, id in lege Angliae rectum esse dicitur. Law, both public and private, is that which is collected from natural precepts either of nations or states; and that which in the written law is called "jus," in the law of England is called "right."

Jus publicum privatorum pactis mutari non potest. A public law or right cannot be altered by the agreements of individuals. Mitchell v First National Bank, 180 US 471, 476, 45 L Ed 627, 630, 21 S Ct 418.

jus quaesitum. The right of demanding or recovering a thing.

jus quiritorium. (Roman law.) The law of Rome, which at first extended only to the patricians, but later to the whole of the Roman people.

Jus quo universitates utuntur est idem quod habent privati. The law which governs corporations is the same as that which governs private persons.

jus regium. Royal right.

That right of the people of a state, as the sovereign of the state, to regulate, improve, and secure for the common benefit of every individual citizen, is nothing more than what is called the jus regium. Arnold v Mundy, 6 NJL 1.

jus relictæ. The right of a widow in the personal property which belonged to her deceased husband.

Jus respicit aequitatem. Law regards equity.

jus sacrum. (Roman law.) The law relating to public worship.

jus sanguinis. The law of the place of one's descent or parentage. The rule of descent or blood. United States v Wong Kim Ark, 169 US 649, 42 L Ed 890, 18 S Ct 456.

jus scriptum. The written law,-the statutes, acts, or edicts, made by the king's majesty, by and with the consent of parliament, the oldest of which, extant and printed in the English statute-books, is the famous Magna Charta. See 1 Bl Comm 85.

jus singulare. A peculiar rule of law established for a special occasion or special reason.

jus soli. The right of the soil or the land. The law of the place of one's birth.

jus stapulae. The right of staple,—an ancient right of some English towns to force the sale of imports to their own people, exclusively.

jus strictum. Strict law; the law enforced with precision and severity.

Jus superveniens auctori accrescit successori. A right coming to the holder of an estate accrues to his successor.

just. Right or fair according to law. Legally right, lawful.

All human actions are either just or unjust as they are in conformity to or in opposition to law. Borden v State, 11 Ark 519.

justa causa. (Civil law.) A just cause; a lawful or proper motive; a lawful claim. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 283.

just and unextinguished title. A title to land good upon its face, not manifestly frivolous, but not necessarily one which shall be determined to be valid in the ultimate test. United States v Conway, 175 US 60, 44 L Ed 72, 20 S Ct 13 (phrase appearing in a private land claim act).

just beyond. Barely beyond; a very little space beyond. Carroll v Cave Hill Cemetery Co. 172 Ky 204, 189 SW 186.

just cause. A legal cause; a fair cause relied upon in good faith. For the removal, discharge or demotion of an officer or employee in the classified civil service:—legal cause or a cause based upon acts or omissions detrimental to the public service. People ex rel. Polen v Hoehler, 405 Ill 322, 90 NE2d 729.

See justification.

just cause of provocation. See provocation.

just claim. A claim or demand enforceable in a court of justice. Bostwick v Mutual Life Ins. Co. 116 Wis 392, 92 NW 246.

just compensation. A familiar term in constitutional provisions and statutes granting or regulating the exercise of the power of eminent domain in the condemnation and taking of private property. Reasonable compensation. A compensation which is just, not merely to the individual whose property is taken, but to the public which is to pay for it. 27 Am J2d Em D § 266. The full and perfect equivalent of the property taken and the damages inflicted by the taking. 27 Am J2d Em D § 266.

[696]

It is not the investment, but the "value of the interest" in land taken by eminent domain that is guaranteed to the owner; the government may neither confiscate the owner's bargain, nor be required to assume his loss. Kinter v United States (CA3 Pa) 156 F2d 5, 172 ALR 232.

just consideration. A consideration legally sufficient. Moruzzi v Federal Life & Casualty Co. 42 NM 35, 75 P2d 320, 115 ALR 407.

Under a statute requiring a chattel mortgage when filed to be accompanied by an affidavit stating inter alia that the mortgage is "just," a statement that the mortgage is given "for value received" and "in good faith" is not sufficient. A consideration may well be for value and yet not "just," and that the mortgage is given in good faith merely indicates that it is not collusive or fraudulent and a denial of collusion or fraud is not an affirmation that the claim due the creditor is just. Schuster v Wendling (CA6 Ohio) 116 F2d 596.

just debts of decedent. All claims which could have been enforced by action against the decedent in his lifetime. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 276. Not estate or inheritance taxes or claims upon indebtedness incurred by personal representative of the decedent. Anno: 37 ALR2d 136.

jus tertii. The right of a third person. 11 Am J2d B & N § 655.

Jus testamentorum pertinet ordinario. The right of testaments belongs to the ordinary.

justice. That end which ought to be reached in a case by the regular administration of the principles of law involved as applied to the facts. Sioux Falls v Marshall, 48 SD 378, 204 NW 999, 45 ALR 447, 451. Nothing more nor less than exact conformity to some obligatory law. Borden v State, 11 Ark 519.

The title of a judge, especially the judge of a high court, such as the United States Supreme Court or the highest court of a state.

See justice of the peace.

justice ayres. The circuits of Scotch judges.

justice court. A term erroneously applied at times to a justice's court, the court of a justice of the peace.

justice de facto. See de facto justice of the peace.

justice de jure. An officer who has the lawful right or title to the office of justice of the peace, with or without the possession of the office. 31 Am J Rev ed J P § 6.

Justice Department. One of the executive departments of the United States, headed by the Attorney General, whose primary duty is to supervise the conduct of all suits brought by or against the United States, and to give advice to the President and the heads of the other departments of the government. 54 Am J1st US § 54. A comparable department of a state government.

justice of the peace. An office of ancient origin, established in the United States as part of the English judicial system under the common law. Brown v Knox County, 187 Tenn 8, 212 SW2d 673, 5 ALR2d 1264. A magistrate; often a township officer, although exercising county-wide jurisdiction, and sometimes regarded as a county officer. 31 Am J Rev ed J P § 3. Essentially a magistrate, a judicial officer, although vested with some administrative or ministerial powers. 31 Am J Rev ed J P § 2. A judicial office of limited jurisdiction, the jurisdiction usually being limited to actions, other than those involving title to real property, wherein the amount in controversy is relatively small, and in criminal cases, to prosecutions for minor offenses and misdemeanors, and preliminary hearings upon charges of felony or serious misdemeanor. The incumbent of the office of justice of the peace. Not a judge for all purposes, for example, not within the meaning of a statute fixing an age limit for "judges." People v Mann, 97 NY 530. But a judge within the meaning of the rule that words spoken by a "judge" in the course of a judicial proceeding over which he is presiding, and in relation to the subject of the proceeding, are absolutely privileged. 33 Am J1st L & S § 177.

justice's court. The title of the court of a justice of the peace.

See justice of the peace.

justice's docket. The book required to be kept by a justice of the peace wherein he shall enter a record of each step taken in an action, suit, or proceeding before him, from the issuance of process to the rendition and entry of judgment, and the issuance of an execution as such may be required for the enforcement of the judgment. 31 Am J Rev ed J P § 59. A docket wherein a justice of the peace shall show the institution and disposition of criminal causes brought before him for prosecution or by way of a preliminary hearing.

justices in eyre. Justices on circuit, judges who were regularly established under Henry the Second in 1176, with a delegated power from the king's great court, or aula regia, being regarded as members of it and who afterwards made their circuit around the kingdom once in seven years to try causes.

Later, by Magna Charta, they were directed to be sent into every county once a year, to take recognitions or assizes. See 3 Bl Comm 57.

justices itinerant. Justices on circuit.

See justices in eyre.

justice's judgment. A judgment rendered by a justice of the peace.

Such a judgment is the judgment of a court not of record, and therefore cannot be established as a record, but is to be established as a public writing, not of record, by evidence. Hamilton v Wright, 11 NC (4 Hawks) 283, 286.

As to filing a transcript of a justice's judgment in a court of record so as to give effect to the judgment as one of a court of record, see 31 Am J Rev ed J P § 94.

justices of assize. Justices of the superior courts of England, who tried causes on their circuits.

justices of gaol delivery. Judges who were commissioned to hear the cases of persons who were in jail.

justices of laborers. Justices specially appointed to hear and determine controversies between workingmen and their employers.

justices of nisi prius. See nisi prius.

justices of oyer and terminer. The judges of the courts of assize and nisi prius.

[697]

justices of the Jews. Judges who were appointed by Richard the First to enforce the usury laws against the Jews.

justices of the peace. See justice of the peace.

justices of the sessions. Two or more justices of the peace who preside at the English sessions of the peace, for the execution of the authority given them by their commission and certain acts of Parliament. People v Powell (NY) 14 Abb Pr 91, 93.

justiciable case. A case which presents a justiciable controversy.

See justiciable controversy.

justiciable controversy. A controversy appropriate for judicial inquiry or adjudgment. 20 Am J2d Cis § 80. A controversy not so exclusively or predominantly involved with political questions as to come within the prerogative of the legislative or administrative branch of the government. Chicago & Southern Airlines v Waterman SS Corp. 333 US 103, 92 L Ed 568, 68 S Ct 431. For the purposes of declaratory relief:-a controversy involving something more than a mere difference of opinion; a controversy involving persons adversely interested in matters in respect of which a declaration is sought. 22 Am J2d Dec J § 11.

justiciar. A justice; a judge. See 3 Bl Comm 38.

justiciarii ad omnia placita. Justices for all pleas.

justiciarii in itinere. Justices on circuit. Same as justices in eyre.

justiciarii itinerantes. Same as justices in eyre.

justiciarii residentes. The English judges who resided at Westminster.

justiciary. A judge or justice.

See court of justiciary.

justicier. (French.) A judge. A lover of justice.

justicies. A special writ by which the sheriff of the county was empowered for the sake of dispatch, to sit in the county court of his county and try causes.

Under this writ, the sheriff could take cognizance of many real actions and all personal actions, to any amount, which without the writ would be tried at Westminster. See 3 Bl Comm 36.

justifiable. By legal sanction. Defensible.

justifiable cause for nonsupport. A cause legally relieving the husband of the duty of support. 23 Am J2d Desert § 15. A cause which he has not helped to create, a result which has not been in any measure caused by his own misconduct,—such as her adultery without guilt or connivance on his part. White v White, 87 NJ Eq A4, 100 A 235.

justifiable homicide. An excusable homicide. State v Trent, 122 Or 463, 259 P 893. A homicide committed: (1) by unavoidable necessity without any will, intention, desire, inadvertence, or negligence on the part of the person killing, (2) for the advancement of public justice, or (3) for the prevention of any atrocious crime attempted to be committed by force. Erwin v State, 29 Ohio St 186.

justifiable trespass. An intentional trespass which the law has authorized; as, an entry into a house through an open door to serve a civil process. In reality, not a trespass, justification being a defense, albeit one to be pleaded specially. 52 Am J1st Tresp § 68.

justification. A showing by sureties of their qualifications as householders or freeholders and of their ability to respond in the amount of the suretyship obligation. Wilson v Eagleson, 9 Idaho 17, 71 P 613. A reason for committing an act which otherwise would constitute an actionable wrong or tort. 52 Am J1st Torts § 85. Just cause or excuse for the commission of an act otherwise criminal. State v Williams, 166 SC 63, 164 SE 415. Good cause for abandoning, deserting, or failing to support wife. 23 Am J2d Desert § 15. The defense of truth in an action for libel or slander. 33 Am J1st L & S § 117. In reference to the rule imposing liability for procuring breach of contract: the presence of exceptional circumstances showing that no tort has been in fact committed, the term connoting lawful excuse which excludes malice, actual or legal, for example, procuring the breach of a contract without knowledge of the contract, or acting in the exercise of an equal or superior right. Childress v Abeles, 240 NC 667, 84 SE2d 176, reh dismd 242 NC 123, 86 SE2d 916.

See justifiable homicide.

justificators. Compurgators,—persons who, in a trial by wager of law, swore to the innocence of the defendant.

justifying bail. The justification of the sureties on a bail bond.

See justification.

Justinian. Emperor of the Byzantine Empire from 527 to 565, renowned for codification of the Roman law.

See Florentine Pandects; Institutes of Justinian; Novels; Pandects.

Justinian Code. Same as Corpus Juris Civilis.

justinianist. A student of Roman law.

justitia. Justice.

Justitia debet esse libera, quia nihil iniquius venali justitia; plena, quia justitia non debet claudicare; et celeris, quia dilatio est quaedam negatio. Justice ought to be free, because nothing is more iniquitous than venal justice; full, because justice ought not to halt; and speedy, because delay is a sort of denial.

Justitia est constans et perpetua voluntas ins suum cuique tribuendi. Justice is the constant and perpetual wish to render to each one his rights.

Justitia est duplex, viz., severe puniens et vere praeveniens. Justice is double, that is to say, severely punishing and truly preventing.

Justitia est virtus excellens, et Altissimo complacens. Justice is excellent goodness, and is pleasing to the Most High.

Justitia firmatur solium. Justice confirms sovereign power.

Justitia nec differenda nec neganda est. Justice is neither to be delayed nor denied.

[698]

Justitia nemini neganda est. Justice is to be denied to no one.

Justitia non est neganda, non differenda. Justice is neither to be denied nor delayed.

Justitia non novit patrem nec matrem; solum veritatem spectat justitia. Justice knows neither father nor mother; justice looks only at the truth.

justitia piepoudrous. Speedy justice.

See court of piepoudre.

justitium. (Civil law.) A suspension of the business of the courts.

jus tripartitum. The law of wills.

Jus triplex est,—proprietas, possessionis, et possibilitatis. A right is threefold,—proprietary, possessory, and in possibility.

jus trium liberorum. (Roman law.) The right of three children; that is, the extraordinary rights, privileges and immunities which the Roman law accorded to a father of three or more children. See 2 Bl Comm 247.

just title. The equivalent of color of title. A title that is imperfect, but not so obviously that the imperfection is apparent to one not skilled in the law. Fernandes & Bros. v Ayllon y Ojeda, 266 US 144, 146, 69 L Ed 209, 211, 45 S Ct 52 (applying law of Porto Rico); 3 Am J2d Adv P § 96.

Justum non est aliquem antenatum mortuum facere bastardum, qui pro tots vita sua pro legitimo habetur. It is not just to make a dead man a bastard, who throughout his whole life was regarded as legitimate.

justness. The quality or state of being just, equitable or right; conformity to truth or justice, lawfulness; rightfulness; honorableness. Correctness; exactness; accuracy. Fuchs v Lehman, 47 ND 58, 188 NW 85.

See just.

jus utendi. The right to make use of a thing.

jus vagum et incertum. Vague and uncertain law. See 1 Pomeroy's Equity Jurisprudence § 60.

jus venandi et piscandi. The right to hunt and fish on the land of another.

Jus vendit quod usus approbavit. The law recommends that which use or custom has approved.

jus vocando. See in jus vocando.

juvenile court. A court having special jurisdiction, of a paternal nature, over delinquent and neglected children. 31 Am J Rev ed Juv Ct § 3.

juvenile delinquent. A generic term, embracing every lapse into wrongdoing from murder to habitual truancy, even certain acts of incorrigibility rather than crime. 31 Am J Rev ed Juv Ct § 36.

See delinquent children.

juxta. Near; according to.

juxta formam statuti. According to the form of the statute.

juxta tenorem sequentem. According to the following tenor.

juzgado. (Spanish.) The judiciary; that faction of a court which concurs in a decree or judgment.

K

k. Abbreviation of kilogram, of the nautical term knot, and of the electrical term kilowatt.

K. Roman numeral for 250.

kadi. A Turkish civil magistrate.

kaia. A quay.

kaiagium. Same as quayage.

kain. A tax; rent paid in produce.

kaiser. An emperor.

kalendae. The first day of the month of the Roman calendar.

kalendar. Same as calendar.

kalends. Same as kalendae.

kangaroo court. A mock court, especially one held by the inmates of a jail. 41 Am J1st Pris & P § 20. A court set up without warrant or authority of law on the frontier for quick trial of an alleged criminal, especially a horse thief or a murderer, usually in anticipation and by way of justification of a lynching.

karat. A weight of four grains, used in weighing gems, usually written "carat."

karl. A churl, a person belonging to one of the lowest classes of freemen.

kavil. A staff or stick used in choosing by lot; a choosing by lot.

K. B. An abbreviation of king's bench; also, an abbreviation of knight of the bath.

K. C. An abbreviation of King's Counsel.

keelage. A duty or toll charged for permitting a ship to enter and anchor in a port or harbor.

keelhaul. To punish a sailor for disobedience or misconduct by dragging him under the ship's keel with a rope.

keels. Coal barges; ships carrying coal.

keep. Verb: To maintain; to carry on; to conduct; to manage; to hold in custody. State v Irvin, 117 Iowa 469, 470, 91 NW 760. Noun: The central structure of a feudal castle.

keep arms. See bear arms.

keeper. One who has the care, custody, or superintendence of anything; as the keeper of a park, a pound, a gate, and (in the English law) keeper of a forest, great seal, and privy seal. One in charge of a jail. A person in charge of animals. Fishell v Morris, 57 Conn 547, 18 A 717. One in possession of a thing, place, or business, whether or not the owner or proprietor. Schultz v State, 32 Ohio St 276, 281.

keeper of dog. A person who keeps, or permits a dog to be kept and maintained on his premises, provided he has at least some possession and control of the animal. Anno: 17 ALR2d 469.

keeper of gambling house. One in charge of a gambling house, irrespective of interest or ownership in or of the property or instrumentalities involved. State v Rand, 238 Iowa 250, 25 NW2d 800, 170 ALR 289.

See keeping common gaming house.

keeper of the forest. The chief officer of a forest; a forest warden.

keeper of the great seal. The chancellor or lord keeper, who was the custodian of the king's great seal, and an officer of great importance and power in the kingdom. In rank he was superior to every temporal lord and held a large number of offices and honors, ex officio. See 3 Bl Comm 47.

keeper of the king's conscience. The lord chancellor of England. See 3 Bl Comm 47.

keeper of the privy seal. An English officer who was the custodian of the privy seal and as such inspected all documents requiring the great seal.

The sign manual was the warrant to the privy seal, and the privy seal was the warrant to the great seal. See 2 Bl Comm 347.

keeper of the rolls. The incumbent of an old office in England. The keeper of the rolls or records of the county, who was the principal justice of the peace. 1 Bl Comm 349.

keep-friend. An iron ring fastened to a chain, used for holding prisoners.

keeping books. See bookkeeping.

keeping common gaming house. A common-law offense, indictable as a criminal nuisance on account of its tendency to bring together disorderly persons, promote immorality, and lead to breaches of the peace.

By judicial evolution and legislative enactment the common-law offense has been so broadened in its scope as to include any place wherein persons are allowed to assemble for the purpose of betting, wagering, gaming, or gambling, and especially where such practices are encouraged by the proprietor. 24 Am J1st Gaming §§ 38 et seq.

See keeper of gambling house; keeping gambling resort.

keeping disorderly house. A common-law offense; a statutory offense in most American jurisdictions. 24 Am J2d Disord H § 14. Keeping a lewd house, a house of ill fame, a house of prostitution, or a house to which people resort for a commission of acts contrary to law and subversive of public morals. 24 Am J2d Disord H § 14.

keeping explosives. The common-law offense of keeping large quantities of gunpowder and other explosives in, or dangerously near to, public places, such as villages and highways. 31 Am J2d Explos § 121.

keeping gambling device. A statutory offense committed by setting up, keeping, or exhibiting gaming or gambling devices, such being the tables and any other apparatus, device, or machine of any kind or description constituting the tangible means, instrument, or thing with or by which money may be won or lost by the arbitrament of chance, as distinguished from the game itself. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 31.

Neither a single act of play at a gaming table, nor even a single day's use of it on the race field, is keeping a common gaming table. United States v Smith, 27 F Cas No 1155.

keeping gambling resort. The maintenance of a place to which persons resort for gambling; a common-law offense irrespective of whether the gambling is lawful or unlawful, since it tends to bring together disorderly persons, promote immorality, and lead to breaches of the peace. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 38.

[700]

keeping good a tender. See keeping tender good.

keeping house of ill fame. See keeping disorderly house.

keeping intoxicating liquor. Within the meaning of liquor laws, keeping for sale or barter, except in the most sumptuary legislation forbidding possession for private or family use. Street v Lincoln Safe Deposit Co. 254 US 88, 65 L Ed 151, 41 S Ct 31, 10 ALR 1548, 1551.

keeping or storing. For the purposes of the prohibitory clause of an insurance policy:-warehousing or safekeeping of deposited goods, not the possessing of a small quantity of the designated articles or substances customarily found on premises such as those insured. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 921.

keeping place for disorderly conduct. See keeping disorderly house.

keeping place for gambling. See keeping gambling resort.

keeping place for unlawful sale of liquor. A criminal offense in some jurisdictions distinct from that of making unlawful sales of liquor. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 263. An offense embracing the possession, management, and control of the liquor and the place. Schultz v State, 32 Ohio St 276.

keeping tender good. Maintaining a readiness and ability to make payment after a tender has been refused. Depositing the sum tendered in court. 52 Am J1st Ten § 28.

keeping to the right. An elementary rule of the road, formally adopted by statute in some jurisdictions. Cupples Mercantile Co. v Bow, 32 Idaho 774, 189 P 48, 24 ALR 1296, overruled on another point Hamilton v Carpenter, 49 Idaho 629 290 P 724; O'Mally v Eagan, 43 Wyo 233, 350 P2d 1063, 5 P2d 276, 77 ALR 582.

keeping, using or allowing. For the purposes of a prohibitory clause in an insurance policy:-the permanent or habitual keeping or using of the designated articles in considerable quantities, not the temporary or occasional use of a small quantity of the articles. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 922.

keep in repair. In reference to a highway:-maintaining the highway in such physical condition as will make it reasonably safe for travel. 25 Am J1st High § 476. As an undertaking by a lessee under a covenant in the lease:-to keep the premises in as good repair as they were when the lease was made. St. Joseph & St. Louis R. Co. v St. Louis I. M. & S. R. Co. 135 Mo 173, 36 SW 602.

keep school. To teach school. To maintain school in session. Borchers v Taylor, 83 NH 564, 145 A 666, 63 ALR 874.

keep the peace. To maintain public order and decorum; to prevent breach of the peace; to refrain from violence See bond to keep the peace.

Kelly Girl. A female employee obtained for temporary work through a service organization.
See service organization.

kelp. A kind of seaweed, sometimes taken for the extraction of iodine therefrom.

kelp-shore. Same as seashore.

Kenilworth Edict. An award for the pacification of the kingdom made by Henry the Third and the English parliament in 1266.

kenning to a terce. A reckoning of the third,—a computation or assignment by the sheriff of a widow's third or dower.

keno. A game of chance played by gamblers. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 28. A gambling game in which there is a "banker" and which is operated with ninety numbered ivory balls placed inside of a rotating oblong wheel. Miller v State, 48 Ala 122, 125. A name applied without circumspection to the game bingo.

kentledge. The pig iron ballast of a ship.

Keogh plan. A relatively new pension plan which offers self-employed business and professional people the chance to obtain for themselves advantages long enjoyed by employees of many businesses.

kept. Maintained; supported. Possessed or held in custody. Even possessing a thing for a short period of time, as in the case of intoxicating liquor in a restaurant brought there by a patron for immediate consumption. Fritzel v United States (CA7 Ill) 17 F2d 965. As the word appears in a statute declaring that a place where intoxicating liquor is manufactured, sold, kept, or bartered in violation of the act, shall constitute a common nuisance:—kept for sale, barter, or other commercial purpose. Street v Lincoln Safe Deposit Co. 254 US 88, 65 L Ed 151, 41 S Ct 31, 10 ALR 1548.

See stored or kept.

kept woman. A paramour or mistress. 33 Am J1st L&S§39.

kern. A vagrant; a vagabond.

kerosene. A thin oil derived by process of distillation from crude oil or coal, formerly much used in lamps for the purpose of illumination, particularly in dwellinghouses; sometimes called coal oil.

key. A metal instrument for moving the bolt of a lock, thereby locking or unlocking. A wharf. An island, for example, Key Largo off the southern tip of Florida. The means of solving a difficult problem.

See cone and key; keys.

keyage. The money or toll taken for lading or unlading wares at a key or wharf. Rowan's Executors v Portland, 47 Ky (8 B Mon) 232, 253.

keys. The house of keys,—the lower house of the Manx legislature.
See key.

kg. Abbreviation of keg.

K. G. An abbreviation of knights of the garter.

Khedive. The viceroy or governor of Egypt.

kick. To strike with the foot. A colloquial term for an objection or complaint.

kickback. The forced return of a part of one's wages. Boehm v United States (CA8 Mo) 123 F2d 791. The payment of money or property to an individual for causing his employer, client, patient, customer, or principal to buy from, to use the services of, or to deal otherwise with, the person making the payment.

Kickback Act. A federal statute which provides that whoever induces any person employed in the construction or repair of any public building or work, or building or work financed by loans or grants from the United States, to give up any part of the compensation to which he is entitled under his contract of employment, is subject to fine or imprisonment, or both. 18 USC § 874.

[701]

kickback agreement. An agreement between an employer and an employee under which the latter agrees to surrender to the former part of the compensation to which the latter is entitled under the contract of employment. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 173.

kicked car. See kicking cars.

kicking cars. A railroad operation in switching wherein the locomotive having given impetus to a car or cars, the locomotive is quickly stopped and disengaged, permitting the car or cars to roll under their own momentum. Chicago, St. Louis & Pittsburg Railroad Co. v Champion, 9 Ind App 510; Promer v Milwaukee, L. S. & W. R. Co. 90 Wis 215, 63 NW 90.

kidder. An engrosser; a forestaller. Slang for one who seeks to impose upon the credulity of another.

kidnaping. Same as kidnapping.

kidnapping. At early common law:—the forcible abduction or stealing of a man, woman, or child from his own country and sending him into another; an aggravated species of false imprisonment. 1 Am J2d Abduct § 1. The offense under statutes generally: the taking or detaining of a person against his will and without lawful authority. Anno: 114 ALR 870. A wilful and intentional detention for an unlawful purpose against one's will and without authority of law. People v Florio, 301 NY 46, 92 NE2d 881, 17 ALR2d 993.

kidnapping for extortion. An aggravated offense of kidnapping. Kidnapping for the purpose of holding the victim for a ransom. 1 Am J2d Abduct § 3.

Kidnapping Law. A federal statute, commonly known as the Lindbergh Law, which prescribes the crime of kidnapping for ransom, reward, or otherwise, where the victim is transported from one state to another or to a foreign country. 18 USC § 1201 (a); 1 Am J2d Abduct §§ 5, 18.

Kiel beer. Near beer; a beer of low alcoholic content.

kilderkin. A cask or keg holding about half a barrel or eighteen imperial gallons.

kill. Verb: To cause death. To put an end to something, as to "kill" a bill in the legislature. Noun: A stream or creek, the word in this sense being derived from the Holland Dutch.

killed instantly. See instantaneous death.

killing by accident. See accidental death.

killyth-stallion. The customary duty of the lord of the manor to provide a stallion for the breeding of his tenants' mares.

kiln. See brick kiln.

kilogram. A unit of weight in the metric system, equivalent to 2.2046 pounds.

kilometer. A unit of linear measure in the metric system, equivalent to 0.62137 miles.

kilowatt. A unit of electrical power, equivalent to 1000 watts.

See watt.

kilter. A colloquial expression for good order or working condition of an instrumentality.

See out of kilter.

Kimbell-Diamond doctrine. The doctrine of income tax law, otherwise known as the unitary transaction rule, that where a taxpayer, who is interested primarily in obtaining a corporation's assets, first purchases the stock of the corporation and then liquidates the corporation in order to acquire the desired assets, the separate steps taken to accomplish the primary objective are treated as a single transaction, and even though the objective is accomplished in form by a purchase of stock, the substance of the transaction is regarded as a purchase of property. United States v Mattison (CA9 Idaho) 273 F2d 13, 83 ALR2d 706.

kin. Relatives. Primarily, relatives by the tie of consanguinity or blood. State v Tucker, 174 Ind 715, 93 NE 3; Re Stoler, 293 Pa 433, 143 A 121, 59 ALR 1402. But including for the purposes of a statute respecting competency to testify as to a transaction with one since deceased, otherwise known as a dead man's statute, relatives by marriage as well as by blood. French v French, 84 Iowa 655, 51 NW 145.

See collateral kinsmen; kindred; nearest blood kin; nearest kin; next of kin.

kinbote. An ancient pecuniary compensation among the Saxons for the killing of a relative. The portion of a regicide's fine which was paid to the community.

kind. Adjective: Gentle, friendly, and considerate. Noun: A class; a variety.

See in kind.

kindergarten. Literally in the translation of the German from which it derives, a children's garden. Actually, a class in school which precedes the first grade; the class which, except for a child which has attended nursery school, is the place in which a child's education by schooling begins, albeit the purpose is to have him become accustomed to school and pleased with it rather than to present a formal course of study. Sinnott v Colombet, 107 Cal 187, 40 P 329.

kindlie. The right of a tenant to have his lease renewed.

kindling. A substance easily ignited, used in starting a fire. The act of starting a fire.

kindred. Relatives. Kin. Usually relatives by blood, but for some purposes only relatives born in lawful wedlock, as where the word appears in a statute of descent. Anno: 48 ALR2d 764, § 3 (c); 10 Am J2d Bast § 149. For some purposes, including relatives by marriage. French v French, 84 Iowa 655, 51 NW 145 (statute relative to competency as a witness to testify concerning a transaction with a person since deceased).

Aliens incapable of inheriting are not such "kindred" as can defeat the right of a surviving spouse to take the whole of the estate of the deceased spouse if there are no kindred. Wunderle v Wunderle, 144 Ill 40, 33 NE 195, error dismd 154 US 524, 38 L Ed 1078, 14 S Ct 1156.

kindred rule. A rule related to another rule, such as the doctrine of the law of the case to the doctrine of res judicata. United States v United States Smelting Refining & Mining Co. 339 US 186, 94 L Ed 750, 70 S Ct 537, reh den 339 US 972, 94 L Ed 1379, 70 S Ct 994.

king. The ruler or sovereign of a kingdom. The lord paramount under the early feudal system of holding real property in England. 28 Am J2d Est § 3.

king de facto. See de facto king.

king de jure. See de jure king.

kingdom. The dominion of a king or queen; a country whose sovereign is a king or a queen.

[702]

king-geld. Escuage,—money paid by the tenant in lieu of knight-service.

King James Bible. A leading Protestant version of the Bible, taking its name from King James I of Great Britain, its publication date, 1611, being within his reign, the preparation of the Bible having been ordered by him in 1604.

king's advocate. The legal advisor of the king of England.

See King's Counsel.

kings and queens of England. See regnal years.

king's bench. See court of king's bench.

king's bench division. A department of the English high court of justice.

king's chambers. The harbors of England; probably so called because they were a part of the territorial waters of the crown.

king's council. A court which, during the Norman period, followed the person of the king.

King's Counsel. See Queen's Counsel.

king's court. A court which was the successor of the very ancient witenagemote of the Saxons.

king's evidence. Same as state's evidence.

king's highways. The federal highways in Canada.

See royal streams.

king's justiciars. Certain persons learned in the law who acted as assistants to the high officers of state who composed the aula regia. See 3 Bl Comm 38.

king's keys. Such axes, bars, and other implements as were used to force an entry to serve a warrant of the king.

kings of England. See regnal years.

king's peace. See peace of the king.

king's premier serjeant. The first in rank of the king's serjeants, so constituted by letters patent and having the first right of pre-audience. See 3 Bl Comm 28, note.

king's silver. Sometimes called the post fine,—an ancient revenue of the king which was due him by royal prerogative and which was required to be paid into the royal treasury at the second stage of a proceeding of levying a fine for alienation of land. See 2 Bl Comm 350.

king's widow. The widow of a tenant of the king, who could not marry again without the consent of the king.

king's year, day and waste. See year, day and waste.

kinless. Without kindred; without relatives.

kinsbote. Same as kinbote.

kinship. The matter of being kin.
See kin.

kinsmen. People who are one's kin.
See kin; kindred.

kintledge. Same as kentledge.

kip. A brothel; a bawdyhouse.

Kirby's quest. John de Kirby's inquest,—a record of ancient English surveys made by de Kirby in the reign of Edward the First.

kissing the Book. The act of kissing the Bible or Testament, often performed in taking an oath, especially an oath of office administered to one qualifying for high office, but not essential to the validity of any oath. 39 Am J1st Oath § 13.

kitchen range. See range.

kitchen sink. See sink.

kith. A person's home or birthplace.

kiting checks. A practice, not to be recommended, indulged by a person short in both cash and credit, in taking care of an overdraft in one bank by depositing therein a check drawn on a bank at some distance, that is, in another city or village, which will result in an overdraft in the second bank until another worthless check is presented in that bank, and so on until the denouement which inevitably occurs except as a windfall takes care of the last check written.

KKK. Abbreviation of Ku Klux Klan.

kleptomania. A morbid propensity to steal, whether consciously or unconsciously. The disease of stealing; an irresistible impulse to steal. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 3. A species of insanity; a weakening of the will power to such an extent as to leave one powerless to control his impulse to appropriate the personal property of others, without regard to whether such impulse is inspired by avarice, greed, or idle fancy. State v McCullough, 114 Iowa 532, 87 NW 503. In some, although not all, jurisdictions, a complete defense in a prosecution for larceny. 32 Am J1st Larc § 42.

Kluxer. Slang for a member of the Ku Klux Klan.

knave. A swindler; a cheat; a servant a rogue; one who has been guilty of dishonest acts. Harding v Brooks, 22 Mass (5 Pick) 244.

knife. An instrument for cutting. In some categories, a deadly weapon. 26 Am J1st Homi § 7; 56 Am J1st Weap § 3.

knight. A man who had attained the dignity of knighthood, which was the first personal dignity, after the nobility. A knight, therefore, in order of rank or precedence, followed a baronet. See 1 Bl Comm 403.

knighthood. The rank, dignity, or station of a knight.

knight marshal. A keeper of decorum within the royal household of the king of England.

knights bachelors. The most ancient, though the lowest, order of knighthood. See 1 Bl Comm 404.

knights banneret. Knights of the order which after certain other dignities ranked below the knights of the order of St. George, or of the garter. See 1 Bl Comm 403.

knight-service. A species of tenure under the feudal system under which each knight or soldier held a knight's fee and was bound to attend the king in his wars forty days in each year.

This service in time degenerated into pecuniary commutations or aids until the military part of the feudal system was abolished in the reign of Charles the Second. See 1 Bl Comm 410.

knight's fee. An estate sufficiently large to maintain a knight.

knights of St. George. Same as knights of the garter.

knights of the bath. An order of knighthood which ranked next after the knights bannerets; so called from the ceremony of bathing the knights before their creation. See 1 Bl Comm 403.

[703]

knights of the chamber. Knights bachelors who attained knighthood in times of peace.

knights of the garter. The highest order of knighthood, ranking next after the nobility.

The order was first instituted by Edward the Third in 1344, and was also called the order of St. George. See 1 Bl Comm 403.

knights of the shire. Members of Parliament representing counties rather than municipal corporations or boroughs.

Knight Templars. See Templars.

knocked down. Struck down; knocked off one's feet by a violent blow. An expression used in auction sales, meaning "sold." 7 Am J2d Auct § 31.

In the language of the auction room, and in common parlance, property is said to be "struck off" or "knocked down" when the auctioneer, by the fall of his hammer, or by any other audible or visible announcement, signifies to the bidder that he is entitled to the property on paying the amount of his bid, according to the terms of the sale. Sherwood v Reade (NY) 7 Hill 431, 439.

As to the meaning of the term "knocked down" as it appears in an accident insurance policy, See Anno: 138 ALR 411.

knot. A nautical mile. Something that binds, such as a marriage, the bonds of matrimony.

See nautical mile.

know. To be aware or informed of something. To have reason to believe. Shaw v Merchants' Nat. Bank (US) 11 Otto 557, 25 L Ed 892.

knowingly. With knowledge; having knowledge. As part of the statutory definition of a criminal offense:—a term without a single fixed and uniform meaning, the meaning in the particular case to be determined according to the character of the offense charged. Riss & Co. v United States (CA8 Mo) 262 F2d 245; sometimes construed as intentionally, in which case it must appear that the person charged was aware of the illegality of his conduct. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 88; more often construed as having knowledge, not of the act's unlawfulness, but merely knowledge of those facts which are essential to make it unlawful. People v Shapiro, 4 NY2d 597, 176 NYS2d 632, 152 NE2d 65, 69 ALR2d 973. As the word is used in federal statutes relating to the use of the mails:—not necessarily a matter of having actual knowledge or intent, the knowledge of circumstances from which the indecent character of matter and the likelihood that the disposition made of it will probably result in the use of the mails, being sufficient. 41 Am J1st P O § 99.

As used in a statute giving a lien to any person doing work under a contract with the owner or with one whom the owner has authorized or "knowingly permitted" to improve the property, the phrase is satisfied if the owner, knowing that the work is being done, fails to object. However, it has also been held, that mere knowledge and a failure to object by the owner, is not sufficient. Anno: 4 ALR 694.

knowingly and wilfully. A purposeful failure to obey the law, with knowledge of the facts. Missouri K. & T. R. Co. v United States (CA8 Kan) 178 F 15; St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v United States (CA8 Me) 169 F 69. An essential term in an indictment where it constitutes a part of the statutory definition of the offense. 27 Am J1st Indict § 67.

knowingly misrepresent. See to knowingly misrepresent.

knowingly permitted. See knowingly.

knowledge. The perception of the mind as to facts; information and intelligence. Utley v Hill, 155 Mo 232, 55 SW 1091, 1102. As an element of a criminal offense, awareness of those facts which are essential to the unlawfulness of the act alleged as criminal. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 88. Within the meaning of a clause of an insurance policy for voiding the contract upon the commencement of foreclosure proceedings "with the knowledge of the insured": actual knowledge or actual notice. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 860.

It has been generally held that under a fidelity bond or policy providing for notice of loss within a specified time after the insured has "knowledge of," "learned of," "discovered," or "become aware of " a loss or a dishonest act, the insured is not required to act respecting the notice provision until he has actual knowledge of the loss or dishonest act. Anno: 23 ALR2d 1076.

See actual knowledge; actual notice; guilty knowledge; notice.

knowledge of custom. Actual or constructive knowledge of a custom consistent with the contract of which it is alleged to be a part. 21 Am J2d Cost & U § 17.

known. A conventional term in a certificate of acknowledgment, indicating the officer's knowledge of the identity of the person acknowledging. 1 Am J2d Ack § 70.

known equivalent. A patent law term; a known device used as a substitute which effects the same result. 40 Am J1st Pat § 160.

known mine. An actual and opened mine which has been worked or is capable of being worked. Colorado Coal & I. Co. v United States, 123 US 307, 31 L Ed 182, 8 S Ct 131.

known personally. A conventional term in a certificate of acknowledgment, indicating the officer's knowledge of the identity of the person acknowledging. 1 Am J2d Ack § 70.

known vein. A mining law term referring to a vein or lode whose existence is known, as contradistinguished from one which has been appropriated by location.

It must either have been known to the applicant for the patent or known to the community generally, or else disclosed by workings and obvious to anyone making a reasonable and fair inspection of the premises for the purpose of obtaining title from the government. Iron Silver Mining Co. v Mike & Starr Gold & Silver Mining Co. 143 US 394, 36 L Ed 201, 12 S Ct 543.

knuckles. See brass knuckles.

koshuba. A Jewish marriage contract or marriage settlement. Hurwitz v Hurwitz, 216 App Div 362, 363, 215 NYS 184, 185.

Ku Klux Act. A federal statute which creates a civil liability for conspiracy interfering with civil rights. 42 USC § 1985(3); 15 Am J2d Civ R § 16.

Ku Klux Klan. A secret society, the membership of which is limited to white men, against which legislation has been directed on account of alleged anti-Negro and anti-Semitic practices.

kyn. Same as kin.

kyth. Same as kith.

L

la. (French.) The, for the feminine.

là. (French.) There.

label. A small card or piece of paper attached to an article of goods or merchandise and indicating the manufacturer, brand, weight, size, dimension, etc. 56 Am J11st W & L §§ 54 et seq. A slip or tag of paper, or other material, bearing the description in the form of a word or words, name, monogram, letter, scroll, or trademark indicating the character, origin, or destination of the article to which it is attached. National Battery Co. v Western Molded Products Co. (DC Cal) 39 F Supp 954. A small card or piece of paper attached to a can or package of food, showing the contents, the nature and ingredients of the food. 35 Am J2d Food § 25. A strip of paper upon which a seal is affixed and which is attached to a written instrument.

See misbranding; union label.

labeling of narcotic. Written, printed, or graphic matter upon any wrapper or container of a narcotic, or accompanying such substance. 21 USC § 321m.

The term applies to circulars shipped simultaneously with the articles to which they relate and kept in the same room of a warehouse for distribution to retail stores. United States v Research Laboratories (CA9 Wash) 126 F2d 42, cert den 317 US 656, 87 L Ed 528, 63 S Ct 54.

labor. Narrowly defined as purely physical toil. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 19; 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 1. Services in a manual occupation; work requiring little skill or special training. 36 Am J1st Mech L § 53; 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 91. Services in following a manual occupation rather than an intellectual pursuit. Michigan Trust Co. v Grand Rapids Democrat, 113 Mich 615, 71 NW 1102. Better defined as work with the hands or with the mind including the application of professional and trade skills. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 19; 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 1. Toil with the brains as well as toil with the hands. Commonwealth v John T. Connor Co. 222 Mass 299, 110 NE 301. In a broad but none the less accurate sense, services of a person whether they be rendered by his hands or by the application of learning and professional skill, including the work of high-salaried corporate officers, engineers, architects, actors, painters, builders, etc. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 1. In political economy, the position held by workers collectively. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 1.

An effort is no less labor because it is carried on with the use of machinery instead of hand tools. Timber Structures v C. W. S. Grinding & Machine Works, 191 Or 231, 229 P2d 623, 25 ALR2d 1358 (within the meaning of a statute granting a mechanic's lien for labor performed.)

labor agitator. One actively engaged in promoting the interests of labor.

The term does not imply the use of unlawful or improper means. Wabash Railroad Co. v Young, 162 Ind 102, 69 NE 1003.

labor a jury. To tamper with a jury or a juror in order to influence the jury's verdict.

labor and material payment bond. A contractor's bond which guarantees the owner that all bills for labor and materials contracted for and used by the contractor will be paid by the surety if the contractor defaults. Standard Acci. Ins. Co. v Rose, 314 Ky 233, 234 SW2d 728.

laborariis. An old English writ to compel a pauper to work.

laboratory fee. A student's fee for the use of laboratories in the institution. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 19.

laboratory report. A scientific report respecting a matter in issue, made by qualified technicians. 23 Am J2d Dep § 322.

laboratory test. A test conducted by a scientist in the field, in a laboratory, by means of instruments adapted to the problem at hand and the use of such chemicals or other materials as are required to reach a conclusion on a scientific basis. Petersen v Widule, 157 Wis 641, 147 NW 966.

labor combination. See labor union.

Labor Day. The first Monday in September, observed as a legal holiday in all the states in honor of labor. State v Thomas, 61 Ohio St 444, 56 NE 276.

Labor Department. An administrative department of the United States Government, headed by the Secretary of Labor. A comparable department of a state government.

labor dispute. A controversy between an employer and his employees as to terms and conditions of the employment. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 369. Any controversy over wages, hours, working conditions, or terms of employment. Anno: 28 ALR2d 297 (involving right to unemployment compensation). For the purposes of the application of the Norris-LaGuardia Act and state anti-injunction laws of a similar nature, any controversy concerning terms or conditions of employment, or concerning the association or representation of persons in negotiating, fixing, maintaining, changing, or seeking to arrange terms or conditions of employment, regardless of whether or not the disputants stand in the proximate relation of employer and employee. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 546.

A labor dispute exists, within the meaning of the Pennsylvania Labor Anti-Injunction Act, where the employees of one plant of the employer, who are on strike following the expiration of a collective bargaining agreement, are picketing another plant of the employer where no labor dispute exists. American Brake Shoe Co. v District Lodge of International Asso. of Machinists, 373 Pa 164, 94 A2d 884, 37 ALR2d 675.

See jurisdictional dispute; strike.

labor dispute insurance. Insurance against loss resulting from strikes or labor disputes. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1371. Insurance of employers of labor in the manufacturing business against loss or damage resulting directly or indirectly from any interference with or interruption or suspension of business or use or operation of plant by reason of employees' strikes. Buffalo Forge Co. V Mutual Secur. Co. 83 Conn 393, 396.

labor done. A type of consideration frequently authorized by statute as acceptable in payment of a subscription to corporate stock. 18 Am J2d Corp § 261.

See service; work.

[705]

laborer. One who performs labor.

See labor.

laborer's lien. A lien upon a chattel for work performed thereon.

See mechanic's lien.

labor laws. Those constitutional provisions, statutes, ordinances, and administrative regulations which regulate labor relations in such matters as hours of labor, wages, unemployment insurance, Sunday observance, preference of wage claims in bankruptcy and insolvency proceedings, minimum wages, collective bargaining, etc.

See contract labor law; labor relations acts.

Labor-Management Panel. A federal agency composed of six representatives of management and six of labor, to advise upon request in the avoidance of industrial controversies and the manner in which mediation and voluntary adjustment shall be administered. 29 USC § 175.

labor market. See free labor market.

labor organization. In the usual sense of the term a labor union. In a less precise sense, an organization in which employees participate. Di Georgio Fruit Corp. v NLRB, 89 App DC 155, 191 F2d 642, 28 ALR2d 377. An organization of any kind, or any agency or employee representation committee or plan, in which employees participate and which exists for the purpose, in whole or in part, of dealing with employers concerning grievances, labor disputes, wages, rates of pay, hours of employment, or conditions of work. 29 USC § 152(5).

Spontaneous or informal activity of employees as that of "labor organization" within protection of National Labor Relations Act. Anno: 19 ALR2d 566.

labor relations acts. The statutes, state and federal, which purport to regulate the relation between capital and labor for the purpose of avoiding industrial disputes and strikes. The National Labor Relations Act, known as the Wagner Act, of 1935 and the Labor-Management Relations Act of 1947, known as the Taft-Hartley Act, amending the Act of 1935, such statutes being codified as Chapter 7, Labor Management Relations, of Title 29 of the United States Code.

Labor Relations Board. A national public agency created by statute to enforce the provisions of the Federal Labor Relations Act; not a tribunal for the enforcement of private rights through administrative remedies. An agency of the United States, an entity apart from its members, having legal capacity to sue in the federal courts to carry out its statutory functions; located in the District of Columbia. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 210.

labor representative. Any representative of a labor organization, whether an officer or lessee agent, and whether elected or appointed. State v Provenzano, 34 NJ 318, 169 A2d 135 (term appearing in statute penalizing bribery).

Labor Standards. A bureau in the Department of Labor of the federal government.

Labor Standards Act. See Fair Labor Standards Act.

Labor Statistics. A bureau of the United States Department of Labor.

labor ticket. A certificate or memorandum given to an employee, showing him entitled to a certain amount of pay for a certain amount of work. Anno: 76 ALR 1305. In practical politics, the group of candidates at a general election supported by organized labor.

labor union. An association of workers existing for the purpose, in whole or in part, of bargaining on behalf of workers with employers about the terms or conditions of employment. A combination of workmen organized for the ultimate purpose of securing through united action the most favorable conditions, as regards wages, hours of labor, conditions of employment, etc., for its members. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 13.

See industrial union; trade union.

laceration. A tear or wound, on face or body, characterized by jagged or irregular edges. Moriarty v New York Cent. R. Co. (Sup) 124 NYS2d 284.

laches. A doctrine, otherwise known as the doctrine of stale demand, by which equitable relief is denied to one who has been guilty of unconscionable delay, as shown by surrounding facts and circumstances, in seeking that relief. Anno: 34 ALR2d 1314

§ 1. More precisely, such neglect or omission to assert a right, taken in conjunction with lapse of time and other circumstances causing prejudice to an adverse party, as will operate as a bar to relief in equity. Re O'Donnell's Estate, 8 Ill App 2d 348, 132 NE2d 74; Boehnke v Roenfan, 246 Iowa 240, 67 NW2d 585, 54 ALR2d 1; Simmerman v Ft. Hartford Coal Co. 310 Ky 572, 221 SW2d 442, 11 ALR2d 381; Aronovitch v Levy, 238 Minn 237, 56 NW2d 570, 34 ALR2d 1306.

lack-learning parliament. Same as parliament of dunces.

lack of. See words and phrases beginning "want of."

La conscience est la plus changeante des règles. Conscience is the most changeable of rules.

La court se voet aviser de cest issue. The court will take this issue under advisement or consideration.

lacta. Lack of weight; short weight.

lacus. (Civil law.) A large body of water; a lake. In older English law, an alloy of silver used in coinage.

lada. (Saxon.) A trial by purgation.

ladder. A means of climbing in the realistic or figurative sense. A series of handholds vertically arranged on the corner of a railroad car, affording a means for the climbing of the car by an employee. 45 USC § 11.

laden in bulk. A shipping term signifying loaded with a loose, unboxed cargo.

lading. See bill of lading.

lading and unlading. Same as loading and unloading.

Lady Day. The twenty-fifth day of March. Doe D. Hall v Benson (Eng) 4 Barn & Ald 588.

lady's friend. The title of an officer in the English house of commons who looked to the enforcement of orders for the support and maintenance of women who had been divorced from their husbands by acts of parliament.

laesa majestas. Injured majesty; high treason. 4 Bl Comm 75.

laga. Law; a law.

lagan. Same as ligan.

lage. Same as laga.

[706]

lage day. Same as law day.

lage man. A lawful man; a man qualified for jury duty; a juror.

lager beer. Beer aged by storing. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 10. A malt beverage; neither a spiritous liquor or a vinous liquor. Sarlls v United States, 152 US 570, 38 L Ed 556, 14 S Ct 720.

laghslite. (Saxon.) An unlawful act; a fine or punishment for breaking the law.

la grippe. A disease, quite similar to a severe cold, otherwise known as "grippe." 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 745.

lagu. Law.

lahman. (Saxon.) A law man; a lawyer.

laicum. See feudum laicum.

laicus. A layman, as distinguished from a person connected with the church.

laioresite. A fine imposed by the lord of the manor for committing adultery or fornication.

lais gents. Men of the laity; laymen.

laity. Same as laymen.

lake. A body of water in its natural state, substantially at rest, usually of fresh water. Trustees of Schools v Schroll, 120 Ill 509, 12 NE 248.

lake peril. See perils of the river, lake, or canal.

lake navigation. See navigation.

La ley favour la vie d'un homme. The law favors human life.

La ley favour l'inheritance d'un homme. The law favors the inheritance of a man.

La ley volt plus tost suffer un mischiefe que un inconvenience. The law will rather suffer a mischief than an inconvenience.

Lambeth degree. A degree of Oxford or Cambridge conferred by the archbishop of Canterbury. See 1 Bl Comm 381.

lammas land. Land which was thrown open after harvest as a common pasture for the cattle of the landowner and others.

lanced. Feudal vassals who labored one day in each week for the lord of the manor, at certain seasons of the year.

land. A general term including not only the soil, but everything attached to it, whether attached by the course of nature, as trees, herbage, and water, or by the hand of man, as buildings, fixtures, and fences. 42 Am J1st Prop § 14. A corporeal thing, but inclusive of a franchise connected with land. Southern Pacific Co. v Riverside County, 35 Cal App 2d 380, 95 P2d 688. A word of art; extending from the surface downward to the center of the earth and upwards indefinitely to the skies. 42 Am J1st Prop § 14. The solid material of the earth; real property, tenements, and hereditaments, and all rights thereto and interests therein, equitable as well as legal. 42 Am J1st Prop § 50. Broadly, town and city lots as well as rural property. 1 Am J2d Adj L § 1. The character of an interest in real estate. 42 Am J1st Prop § 14.

See estate in land; real estate; real property.

land agent. Historically, an agent for the sale of vast tracts of unimproved lands. An agent for sale of large acreages of land in the western states or Canada. In modern parlance, a real estate broker.

land bank. A bank organized under an Act of Congress known as the Federal Farm Loan Act for the purpose in general of making loans upon farm security at low rates of interest. 10 Am J2d Bks § 21.

landboc. (Saxon.) A deed or charter evidencing title to land.

land carrier. See carrier.

landceap. A customary fine paid to the lord of the manor on a transfer of land, in certain manors and boroughs.

land certificate. The obligation of the government entitling the owner to secure the designated quantity of land by following the requirements of the law. Waterman v Charlton, 102 Tex 510, 120 SW 171.

See certificate of entry.

landcheap. Same as landceap.

Land claim. See claim.

land contract. A contract whereby one party agrees to sell and the other to purchase real estate. Pike Rapids Power Co. v Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. R. Co. (CA8 Minn) 99 F2d 902. A contract for the transfer of the title to real estate in consideration of a money price or its equivalent passing from the purchaser to the vendor. Recognized in equity as a transfer of ownership to the purchaser. 55 Am J1st V & P § 356.

land-cop. A sale of land.

"The lord will take a small fine for this land-cop, this sale of land, and soon it may seem that the purchaser acquires his title to the land rather from the lord than from the vendor." Maitland's Domesday Book and Beyond 323.

Land Department. A federal authority consisting of the General Land Office with the Secretary of the Interior at its head, vested by statute with substantially exclusive jurisdiction to determine, in the first instance, all questions of fact respecting the acquisition, disposition, and control of the public lands, so long as the title thereto remains in the United States. 42 Am J1st Pub L § 57. A comparable agency of state government.

land development. Improving and subdividing a tract of land preparatory to the erection of residential, commercial, or industrial buildings; the improvement of land for agricultural purposes. A planned scheme for the construction of houses, street improvements, utility structures, etc. in a particular area, usually with covenants restricting the use of the lots in the area by business or industry.

landed. Owning land. In another sense, having come or been brought ashore.

Persons aboard a ship are landed when they are brought ashore, but sailors on a ship have not landed unless they permanently leave the ship, since it is necessary for commerce that sailors should go ashore temporarily and return to the ship. Taylor v United States, 207 US 120, 52 L Ed 130, 28 S Ct 53.

landed estate. An interest in, and pertaining to, land. Police Jury v Harris, 10 La Ann 676, 677.

See estate in land.

landed interest. The interest or estate which a person holds or owns in land or in the possession of land.

See estate in land; landed estate.

[707]

landed property. Real estate. While the term would ordinarily include a railway company's right of way, such a right of way will not be held to be included in a statutory exemption of landed property from taxation, where the spirit of the exemption statute is against such inclusion. United Railways & Electric Co. v Baltimore, 93 Md 630, 49 A 655.

landed proprietor. See landed estate; landed property.

landefricus. A landlord.

landegandman. A tenant of a manor of an inferior class.

land entry. See entry under homestead law; original entry.

land-gabel. A tax or rent paid for the use of land.

land grant. Broadly, a transfer of title to real estate. In the accepted sense of the term, a grant of public lands by the United States or a state. A grant of land in the public domain made by Congress from time to time for the support of education in the various states. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 30. A grant of land by the government to a railroad company by way of aid in the construction of a railroad. 13 Am J2d Car § 118.

land grant institutions. Educational institutions which have received a land grant made by Congress for the support of education. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 30.

land-grant rates. Favorable rates for railroad transportation of government property or armed forces, obtained because of the fact that the railroad company had obtained a land grant to assist in construction of the line. 13 Am J2d Car § 118.

landing. A pier, other structure, or unimproved area at which the cargo of a vessel can be unloaded or passengers disembark. A place on a river, or other navigable water, for loading and unloading goods, or for the reception and delivery of passengers; either the bank or the wharf, to or from which persons or things may go or be carried to or from some vessel in the contiguous waters. 56 Am J1st Whar § 2. A place for loading or unloading vessels, but not a harbor. 48 Am J1st Ship § 223. A platform maintained by a carrier for receiving or delivering freight or for the use of passengers in boarding and leaving trains. 14 Am J2d Car § 871. The act of a pilot of an aircraft in bringing it to the ground. 8 Am J2d Avi § 102.

landing area. A locality, either of land or water, including an airport or intermediate landing field, which is used, or intended to be used, for the landing and takeoff of aircraft, whether or not facilities are provided for the shelter, servicing, or repairs of aircraft, or for receiving or discharging passengers or cargo. 49 USC § 1301 (22).

landing card. A card handed an alien upon approval of his entry into the country, for presentation to an immigration officer upon the pier.

landing cargo. See loading and unloading.

landing certificate. A requirement by regulation of the Secretary of the Treasury in reference to merchandise landed for exportation or to residue cargo. 19 USC § 1622.

landing field. See landing area.

landing in safety. The responsibility of a carrier in reference to the condition in which a passenger finds himself immediately after he has alighted from the carrier's conveyance. Harries v Atlantic Greyhound Corp. 243 NC 346, 90 SE2d 710, 58 ALR2d 939.

land jobber. A person who makes a particular business of buying and selling land to obtain profit. Vanderbilt University v Cheney, 116 Tenn 259, 94 SW 90.

landing lights. Artificial lights placed close to the ground on a landing field for illumination to permit safe landing of aircraft during hours of darkness. Lights on an aircraft located in such position as to illuminate the landing area for safe landing during hours of darkness. Plewes v Lancaster, 171 Pa Super 312, 90 A2d 279.

landing net. A net used to land a fish after it is hooked. Commonwealth v Wetherill, 8 Pa Dist 653, 655.

landing place. See landing; landing area.

landlord. A lessor. One under whom another holds premises as a tenant or lessee. 32 Am J1st L & T § 2.

landlord's attachment. A remedy provided a landlord by statute for the enforcement or protection of his landlord's lien. 32 Am J1st L & T § 583.

landlord's lien. At common law, a lien for rent in arrears acquired by an actual seizure of property upon the leased premises by the levy of a distress for rent in arrears. 32 Am J1st L & T § 564. A lien in favor of the landlord for the rent, reserved in a lease, on the crops raised or personal property of the tenant brought upon the leased premises. 32 Am J1st L & T § 566. A statutory lien for rent upon property of the tenant brought upon the leased premises and, in the case of farm land, crops raised upon the leased premises. 32 Am J1st L & T § 575.

land lottery. A scheme for the division of land by chance, which is to cut a plot of land into several parcels of uniform size, but of unequal value, and to have each purchaser of a parcel pay a uniform price and select his parcel by lot. 34 Am J1st Lot § 11. Any lottery wherein land in the form of farm or building lot is the prize. Branham v Stallings, 21 Colo 211, 40 P 396.

landman. A tenant of land; a holder of land; a person in the occupation of land.

Land Management Bureau. A federal agency in the Department of the Interior, exercising functions formerly within the province of the General Land Office. 43 USC § 1, note.

landmark. A natural or artificial object having sufficient permanency to serve as a monument or marker of a land boundary. 12 AM J2d Bound § 4. A structure of historical significance. An event illuminative of an historical period, such as the Boston Tea Party. A reported case of great importance in establishing a legal proposition of law.

land measure. Area measure. Measuring by units of acres, square rods, square feet, etc.

land mile. See mile.

Land Office. See General Land Office.

land office records. Records of the General Land Office, kept under official sanction of the government. 30 Am J2d Ev § 999.

landowner. An owner of real property. Sometimes inclusive of a tenant for years. 32 Am J1st L & T

[708]

§ 4. As a person entitled to redeem from an execution sale:—any owner of real estate whose interest was subject to the payment of the judgment upon which it was sold, without regard to whether he is the judgment debtor or claims under him. Anno: 2 ALR 794, s. 95 ALR 1095. As one qualified to object to the issuance of a liquor license:—a holder of the legal title, exclusive of lessee, life tenant, or person vested with title for the sole purpose of qualifying as a signer. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 147. As one to be named in a petition for the establishment of a highway:—any person who has an interest of record in the land over which the highway is to be located. Anno: 2 ALR 788, s. 95 ALR 1091. As the word is used in a mechanic's lien statute:—the owner of the fee or of any interest in lands, legal or equitable, fee simple, or leasehold, including life estates, estates for years, interest as cotenant, lessee, trustee, or vendee in possession under an executory contract of sale. Anno: 2 ALR 795, s. 95 ALR 1095; 36 Am J1st Mech L § 84. Within the meaning of statutes penalizing hunting over property without the consent of the owner: a natural person, a corporation, or a quasi-person or entity such as a partnership, including one who owns an undivided fractional interest, one in possession under a parol contract of purchase, and, under some statutes, one who owns the hunting rights over lands. Anno: 2 ALR 799, s. 95 ALR 1099.

land patent. A conveyance to an individual of that which is the absolute property of the government and to which, but for the conveyance, the individual would have no right or title.

A transfer by the government to the entryman of land covered by a homestead entry, upon payment for the land and proof of settlement, residence, and cultivation. 42 Am J1st Pub L § 31.

land-poor. The condition of one whose ownership of land imposes a financial burden, being unproductive of net revenue. Matteson v Blackmer, 46 Mich 393, 397.

land-reeve. An overseer or superintendent of a portion of a farm or estate.

land regulations. Laws relating to the mode and requisites of a conveyance of title or any interest in real property. Laws relating to the use of premises, such as those relating to restrictive covenants, nuisances, and zoning.

lands available for mining. See valuable for mining.

lands beneath navigable waters. The beds of navigable rivers.

For detailed statement made for the purposes of the Submerged Lands Act, see 43 USC § 1301.

Lands' Clauses Act. An English statute passed in 1845, governing proceedings for the condemnation of private property for public use.

land scrip. See scrip.

land settlement. The settlement of public lands by homesteaders. A settlement upon public lands under a project primarily for the benefit of veterans. 56 Am J1st Vet & V A § 14. The closing of the transaction comprehended by a land contract by payment of consideration, transfer of title to purchaser, etc. A settlement of a controversy respecting the title to or the location of boundaries of real estate.

land's high. The title of a universal body of the common law of Sweden compiled out of the particular customs established by the laghman of every province, about 1250, and analogous to the common law of England.

lands let to lease. Lands conveyed only for life, years, or at will. Wright v Hardy, 76 Miss 524, 24 SW 697.

landslide. A falling or slipping of a large amount of earth or rock from a cliff, mountain, or hill onto lower ground, becoming a destructive manifestation of nature in wrecking buildings and obstructing highways. 25 Am J1st High § 111. A heavy vote in favor of a candidate at an election.

Landsteiner test. A blood test, otherwise known as the Bernstein blood test, devised to assist in the determination of parentage, postulated upon the inheritability of a blood type. 29 Am J2d Ev § 370.

lands, tenements, and hereditaments. Inheritable lands or interests therein amounting to freehold estates. Hutchinson v Bramhall, 42 NJ Eq 372, 383, 7 A 873.

See freehold.

land-tax. A tax imposed upon the beneficial owner of land.

See real estate tax.

land-tenant. A holder of land; a person in the actual possession or occupation of land. A lessee in possession.

land tenure. See estate; tenure.

land-waiter. An English customs officer who measured and weighed and classified imported goods on their arrival at a port.

lane. A narrow way or passage, as distinguished from a public road or highway. Wiggins v Tallmadge (NY) 11 Barb 457, 465.

lanes of traffic. See traffic lanes.

Langdeau Case. A comparatively recent decision of the United States Supreme Court respecting the venue of actions against national banks. Mercantile Nat. Bank v Langdeau, 371 US 555, 9 L Ed 2d 523, 83 S Ct 520.

language. The spoken or written word as a means of communication. The words, sounds, and the forms thereof in grammatical composition, as used in a particular country, or by a particular group of people, as a means of communication.

While it is true that the word is broad enough to include words which are written as well as words which are spoken, it is generally held that statutes regulating the use of objectionable language refer to oral speech only unless written language is specifically mentioned in the statute. Stevenson v State, 90 Ga 456, 458.

See ordinary and concise language.

languidus. Sick; ill.

languidus in prisona. Sick or ill in prison.

lanzas. (Spanish.) An annual money service paid by nobles and grandees to the government, as a substitute for military aid.

lapidation. Stoning to death; the execution of the death penalty by stoning the defendant.

lappage. The area as to which title deeds of rival claimants tend to lap upon each other. Vance v Guy, 224 NC 607, 31 SE2d 766.

lapse. A termination, particularly of a right or privilege. A forfeiture caused by one's failure to perform some necessary act. Winsor v Brown, 48 RI 200, 204, 136 A 434, 435. A policy of insurance becoming ineffective, according to the provisions of the policy, for failure to pay the premium. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 587.

lapsed benefice. The loss or forfeiture by a patron of his right to present a clergyman to a benefice, by not doing so in season.

lapsed land. Land entered by a homesteader upon the public domain under an entry which he did not perfect so as to be entitled to a patent or other conveyance of title by the government. 42 Am J1st Pub L §§ 19 et seq. Land covered by a patent which the patentee has lost by his failure to make payments or to comply with other conditions of the patent; such as the failure to pay quitrents or to cultivate the land. Wilcox v Calloway, 1 Va (1 Wash) 38, 39.

In the early settlement of the country, the man who received a grant of land and failed, at first in three, and afterwards in five years, to seat and improve it, was held to have abandoned it; it received the denomination of "lapsed land," and was declared to be forfeited. Hawkins v Barney's Lessee (US) 5 Pet 457, 468, 8 L Ed 190, 194.

lapsed patent. See lapsed land.

lapsed policy. See lapse.

lapse of legacy or devise. The falling back of the subject matter of a legacy or devise into the testator's estate. Anno: 3 ALR 1689. A legacy or devise which was good when the will was made, but has failed since then by some event which occurred before the testator's death. Occurring under a variety of circumstances, the most frequent of which is the death of the legatee or devisee before the death of the testator. 57 Am J1st Wills §§ 1424 et seq.

lapse of term of court. The ending of a term of court because of the judge's failure to appear on the day fixed by law for the opening of the term. 20 Am J2d Cts § 45.

lapsus. See error lapsus.

lapsus linguae. A slip of the tongue, language differing from that which the speaker intended to say. Chattanooga, Rome, & Columbus Railroad Co. v Liddell, 85 Ga 482, 11 SE 853; State v Owens, 243 NC 673, 91 SE2d 900, 902 (in charge to jury).

larboard watch. See watch.

larcenous. In a thievish manner; connected with the commission of larceny.

larceny. Stealing or theft. People v Campbell, 89 Cal App 646, 265 P 364. At common law:—the felony of taking by trespass and carrying away the goods or things personal of another, without the latter's consent and with the felonious intent permanently to deprive the owner of his property and to convert it to the taker's own use or the use of some person other than the owner. 32 Am J1st Larc § 2. As a statutory offense:—the taking of personal property accomplished by fraud or stealth, with intent to deprive another thereof. State v Uglund, 48 ND 841, 187 NW 237; the felonious stealing, taking, and carrying, leading, riding, or driving away the personal property of another. People v Lardner, 300 111 264, 133 NE 375, 19 ALR 721.

See grand larceny; petit larceny.

larceny after a trust. Embezzlement by bailee. Almand v State, 110 Ga 883, 36 SE 215.

larceny by bailee. An offense as defined by statute. An offense at common law only as it appears that possession was obtained by the bailee from the bailor with the felonious intent of appropriating the thing bailed to his own use and depriving the bailor thereof. 32 Am J1st Larc § 57.

larceny by finder. The taking and carrying away of the lost personal property of another with a felonious intent permanently to deprive the owner of his property and to convert it to his own, the finder's, use. 32 Am J1st Larc § 64.

larceny by fraud. The offense of taking personal property, accomplished by fraud or stealth and with intent to deprive the owner of his property permanently. Bivens v State, 6 Okla Crim 521, 120 P 1033.

larceny by general owner. The taking and carrying away of personal property by the general owner from the possession of a person holding possession under some special right or title, with the felonious intent of depriving such person of his rights, or of charging him with the value of the property. 32 Am J1st Larc § 53.

larceny by trick. The offense of taking personal property, accomplished by trick and with intent to deprive the owner of his property permanently. Commonwealth v Eichelberger, 119 Pa 254, 13 A 422.

larceny from the person. The statutory felony of stealing any article attached to the person of the owner or under his immediate personal protection.

Of course, larceny is "from the person," in any case, in the sense that the taking is with the intent to deprive another of his property.

larceny of mislaid goods. The felonious taking and carrying away of the mislaid goods of another, without his consent, and with the felonious intent permanently to deprive the owner of his property, and to convert it to his own, the finder's, use, which felonious intent may exist at the time of the finding, or subsequently to the finder's taking possession. 32 Am J1st Larc § 72.

larcyn. Larceny.

laron. A thief.

lascivious. Loose; wanton; lewd; lustful; tending to produce voluptuous or lewd emotions. United States v Britton (Comrs Ct Ohio) 17 F 731; United States v Bebout (DC Ohio) 28 F 522, 524. As used in the laws relating to the use of the mails, immorality in the sense of sexual impurity. 41 Am J1st P O § 116.

See lewd and lascivious conduct.

lascivious carriage and behavior. Wanton acts between persons of different sexes, flowing from the exercise of lustful passions, which are grossly indecent and unchaste, and which are not otherwise punished as crimes against chastity and public decency. Fowler v State (Coon) 5 Day 81, 84.

lashlit. Same as lagslite.

last. Adjective: Coming after all others. Noun: A measure of carrying capacity, particularly of a ship, for which purpose it is equivalent to six thousand pounds in some places, but a lesser amount in others. A form over which shoes are built or repaired.

lastage. The load or ballast of a ship; a duty or custom charged at certain fairs or markets to permit a purchaser to go where he pleased with his purchase.

[710]

last and usual place of abode. As the place for substituted service of process by leaving a copy with a member of the family or household, the place of residence or domicile in the state at which the defendant last abided. Tilden v Johnson, 60 Mass (6 Cush) 354.

last antecedent. For the purposes of the rule of construction of a statute that qualifying words, phrases and clauses are ordinarily confined to the last antecedent:—the last words which can be made an antecedent without impairing the meaning of the sentence. Travers City v Blair Township, 190 Mich 313, 157 NW 81.

last antecedent clause. The principle that relative and qualifying words, phrases, or clauses are to be applied to the words, phrases, or clauses immediately precedent, and not extended to other words, phrases or clauses more remote. Montgomery Light & Traction Co. v Avant, 202 Ala 404, 80 So 497, 3 ALR 384.

last clear chance. The doctrine that the negligence of the plaintiff does not preclude a recovery for the negligence of the defendant where it appears that the defendant by exercising reasonable care and prudence might have avoided injurious consequences to the plaintiff notwithstanding the plaintiff's negligence. 38 Am J1st Negl § 215. The principle that a collision of vessels is attributed to the fault of the vessel which had the last clear chance to avoid the collision. 48 Am J1st Ship § 230.

The practical import of the doctrine is that a negligent defendant is held liable to a negligent plaintiff, or even to a plaintiff who has been grossly negligent in placing himself in peril, if the defendant, aware of the plaintiff's peril, or, according to some but not all authorities, although unaware of the plaintiff's peril, reasonably in the exercise of due care should have been aware of it, had in fact a later opportunity than the plaintiff to avoid an accident. Anno: 92 ALR 50, s. 119 ALR 1044; 7 Am J2d Auto § 376.

last commanded. The settled law. Flaherty v Thomas, 94 Mass (12 Allen) 428.

last court. See last resort.

last-court. An ancient English court which was held in the marshes of Kent.

last day. The final day for payment or performance without penalty for delay.

See default day.

last heir. The lord of the manor, or the king, as the case might be, to whom the land of the tenant, upon his death, escheated for want of lawful heirs.

last illness. The illness or sickness which was the cause of the decedent's death, covering the period during which it was continuously operative after it became serious or pronounced. Long v Northrop, 225 Iowa 132, 279 NW 104, 116 ALR 1475. In some connections, a sickness from which a person believed he would not recover, and from which he did not recover, but died. Harrington v Stees, 82 Ill 50.

last in, first out. A method of recording inventory in assessing a stock of merchandise. Anno: 66 ALR2d 834-836. A method of inventory valuation for income tax purposes which assumes that the most recently purchased merchandise is the first sold.

By treating current purchases as being sold first, the method seeks to eliminate from income profits which arose solely from an advance in the price level, thus more accurately matching costs against revenues.

last known address. The place to which the mail is to be directed for service of process by mail where actual personal service cannot be obtained. 42 Am J1st Proc § 60.

As used in a statute authorizing the service of summons on a non-resident defendant by mailing a copy of the summons and complaint to his last known address, the term means not his last address known to the plaintiff, but the plaintiff is required to ascertain at his peril, the last known address of the defendant as a matter of fact, and his failure to do so will amount to a failure to comply with the statute and render the service invalid. State v Belden, 193 Wis 145, 211 NW 916, 214 NW 460, 57 ALR 1218.

last resort. Characterizing a court from the judgments or decisions of which no appeal can be taken.

last sickness. See last illness.

last will. The effective will. Occidental Life Ins. Co. v Powers, 192 Wash 475, 74 P2d 27, 114 ALR 531.

As used in a will which the testator designated as his "last will," the term is not equivalent to "sole," and does not necessarily revoke all former wills. Freeman v Freeman, 27 Eng L & Eq 351.

See will.

last will and testament. See last will; will.

lata culpa. Gross fault or neglect.

Lata culpa dolo aequiparatur. An expression of the principle that gross fault—or gross negligence—is equivalent to fraud.

late. Out of time. Tardy.

late a resident. Last a resident. Beckett v Selover, 7 Cal 215.

latens. Same as latent.

latent. Hidden from view; concealed; not discoverable by ordinary inspection. Miller v Moore, 83 Ga 684, 10 SE 360.

latent alteration. An alteration of an instrument not manifest or visible upon the face of the instrument. Miles City Bank v Askin, 119 Mont 581, 179 P2d 750, 171 ALR 790.

latent ambiguity. An ambiguity in a writing which does not appear until the writing is applied to the circumstances. Putnam v Bond, 100 Mass 58, 60. An uncertainty in an instrument which does not appear on the face, but which is shown to exist for the first time by matter outside the writing. Equivocality of expression, or obscurity of intention, arising not from the words of the instrument themselves, but from the ambiguous or obscure state of extrinsic circumstances to which the words of the instrument pertain, and which is susceptible of explanation by a mere development of extraneous facts without altering or adding to the written language or requiring more to be understood thereby than will fairly comport with the ordinary or legal sense of the words used in the instrument. 30 Am J2d Ev § 1073.

In a will:—an ambiguity which is not discoverable from reading the will, but which appears upon consideration of the extrinsic circumstances, for example, a bequest to "my cousin John," it appearing that the testator has two or more cousins "John." 57 Am J1st Wills § 1042.

[711]

latent danger. A hidden danger.

latent deed. A deed kept hidden in a secret place for twenty years or more. Den ex dem. Wright v Wright, 7 NJL 175.

latent defect. A defect not observable on casual inspection. A hidden defect in a structure, machine, or article of merchandise. A defect in an article constituting the subject matter of a sale, not discoverable on a reasonable examination of the property. 46 Am J1st Sales § 94. A secret defect arising out of the manner in which the article was manufactured. Hoe v Sanborn, 21 NY 552, 555.

A defect in the title to real estate not readily observable even though a matter of public record. Anne: 33 ALR 994.

latent injury. An injury not apparent at the time but capable of producing pain and suffering at a later time. 6 Am J2d Atomic E § 51.

lateral. From or toward the side.

lateral branch. See lateral railroad.

lateral railroad. A railroad line constituting an offshoot from the main line or stem; a feeder of the main line. Blanton v Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad Co. 86 Va 618, 620. A railroad connected, indeed, with the main line, but not a mere incident of it; not constructed simply to facilitate the chief railway, but designed to have a business of its own, for the transportation of persons or property. Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. v Waters, 105 Md 396, 66 A 685.

lateral support. The right to support of soil in its natural state from land adjoining it. 1 Am J2d Adj L § 37. Precisely, the right of an adjoining property owner to support for his land in its natural state from his neighbor's land in its natural state. Carrig v Andrews, 127 Conn 403, 17 A2d 520, 132 ALR 993.

latere. See ex latere.

lath. A thin strip of wood, formerly used extensively on walls to form a base for plaster.

lathe. A machine for cutting and shaping wood or metal.

In some counties in England, an intermediate division between a shire or county and a hundred, containing about three or four hundreds, as the lathes in Kent. In Sussex, these divisions were called rapes. Each lathe had its lathe-reeve, and each rape had its rape-reeve, corresponding to the shire-reeve or sheriff of the shire or county. See 1 Bl Comm 116.

lathe-reeve. See lathe.

latifundium. (Civil law.) A large landed estate.

latifundus. (Civil law.) The owner or holder of a large landed estate.

Latin. A designation applicable to ancient Rome and the people and things of ancient Rome, particularly the language.

Latins. The inhabitants of Latium, the district of Italy in which Rome was situated.

Latitare. To lie hidden; to be concealed.

latitat. He lies hidden; a writ running outside the county to summon one who lay concealed there to the king's bench. See 3 Bl Comm 286.

Latitat et discurrit. He lies hidden, or lurks, and wanders about,-formal words used in a writ of latitat. See 3 Bl Comm 286.

latitatio. (Civil law.) A concealment of one's person; a lying hidden.

Latium. The district of Italy in which the city of Rome was situated.

lator. (Roman law.) A messenger; the bearer of a message; the proposer of a law.

latori praesentium. To the bearer of these presents.

lato sensu. In a broad sense; broadly speaking.

latro. A thief; a robber; a brigand; a freebooter; a bandit.

latrocination. Pillage; robbery committed by force or violence. American Ins. Co. v Bryan & Maitland (NY) 26 Wend 563, 573.

latrocinium. Same as latrocination.

latrociny. Larceny.

latter. Comparative in reference to point of time or of place. The word may mean later in point of time, but as applied to two conflicting provisions in the same code it has reference to place or arrangement in the code. Armstrong v Phillips, 76 Okla 192, 184 P 109.

laudamentum parium suorum. The finding of his peers; that is, the verdict of a jury. See 2 Bl Comm 285.

laudanum. A narcotic drug, a solution of opium in alcohol. Michigan Mut. Life Ins. Co. v Naugle, 130 Ind 79, 29 NE 393.

laudare. (Civil law.) To name; to cite; to quote; to show one's title or authority; to testify favorably as to a person's character. To advise; to arbitrate.

laudatio. (Roman law.) Testimony favorable to a person's character.

laudator. A witness who testifies favorably as to a person's character; an arbitrator; an adviser.

laudemium. (Civil law.) A fiftieth part of the purchase price, or if there was no sale, a fiftieth part of the true value of the estate, paid to the owner for his acceptance of a new tenant or emphyteuta upon the latter's acquisition of the estate by gift, devise, exchange, or sale. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 328.

laudum. An award of arbitrators. A sentence or judgment; a doom.

laughe. A frank-pledge,—an old English pledge or bond given to secure the good behavior of members of a tithing by the other members.

laughlesman. A lawless man; a man who had lost his law; an outlaw.

launch. Noun: A relatively small watercraft with motive power. Verb: To start an enterprise. To let a newly-constructed vessel slide from the way to the water.

laundry. A place wherein the trade of washing and ironing clothing and linen is pursued. 33 Am J1st

[712]

Laundries § 1. Not a manufacturing establishment. Anno: 31 ALR 535.

laundry route. A list of the customers of a laundry by name and street address. Adkins v Model Laundry Co. 92 Cal App 575, 268 P 939.

laundry-supply service. Same as linen-supply service.

laus Deo. Praise be to God. Bills of exchange at one time were written with this sanctimonious beginning.

lavatory. A toilet; a men's room; a powder room for women.

law. The whole body of rules of conduct applied and enforced under the authority of established government in determining that which is proper and should be permitted and that which should be denied, or even penalized, in respect of the relation between a person and the state, between him and society, or between him and another individual, including a provision of a constitution, a legislative enactment or statute, a municipal ordinance, a principle declared in an authoritative decision of a court, a rule of practice prescribed by a legislature or promulgated by a court acting with authority, even, to some extent, a usage or custom. Strother v Lucas (US) 12 Pet 410, 9 L Ed 1137.

There is no word in the language which, in its popular and technical application, takes a wider or more diversified signification. In its popular sense, and in common acceptance, by those for whom laws are made, the word includes the whole body or system of rules of conduct, but it does not include that refined, technical and astute idea which recognizes nothing within the meaning of the term which is not constitutionally and technically perfect. Miller v Dunn, 72 Cal 462, 14 P 27. See also 1 Bl Comm 44.

The constitution of the state is "a law of the state" within the meaning of the Constitution of the United States, prohibiting states from passing laws impairing the obligation of contract. Bier v McGehee, 148 US 137, 37 L Ed 397, 13 S Ct 580.

law action. See action at law.

law and motion day. A court day, in some jurisdictions, upon which issues of law and motions are heard by the court.

lawbook. A book primarily for use by lawyers, such as a digest, law report, text, or a volume of an encyclopedic work such as American Jurisprudence or Corpus Juris.

law borgh. A pledge or security for a person's appearance in court.

law-burrows. Security to keep the peace.

law charges. Costs,—the court and official charges in an action or proceeding.

law clerk. A person employed in a law office, usually for the performance of duties for which admission to the bar is not required. A person following the employment for the purpose of obtaining instruction in the law and the practice of law preliminary to his admission to the bar.

law conclusion. See conclusion of law.

law court. A court having jurisdiction of cases at law as distinguished from cases in equity; a classification no longer of moment in most jurisdictions. 20 Am J2d Cts § 25.

law-day. The exact day specified in a contract upon which money was to be paid. Moore v Norman, 43 Minn 428, 45 NW 857. The day named for the performance of the obligation of a mortgagor. 36 Am J1st Mtg § 380.

The adoption of the lien theory has been regarded as abolishing the significance of a law day, or at least as extending the term to include any day prior to foreclosure. Murray v O'Brien, 56 Wash 361, 105 P 840.

See law and motion day.

law digest. See digest.

law enforcement officer. A policeman, sheriff, deputy sheriff, constable, or other officer whose duty it is to be vigilant in discovering violations of the criminal laws and ordinances and to arrest offenders.

law French. The Norman French which was brought into use in all court proceedings at the time of the Norman Conquest.

Many of its terms survive in modern law.

lawful. According to law. In accord with the spirit of the law, not merely the forms of law. State ex rel. Van Nice v Whealey, 5 SD 427, 431, 59 NW 211.

See legal, also words and phrases following beginning "lawful" and words and phrases beginning "legal".

lawful business. A business lawful as to all who wish to engage in it. Re Co-operative Law Co. 198 NY 479, 92 NE 15.

lawful charges. Impositions lawfully imposed. Charges made in accord with rates prescribed by law.

As the term is used in a statute requiring a party who redeems from a mortgage foreclosure sale to pay all "lawful charges," it is one of very large signification and includes every lien or incumbrance or claim the purchaser may have upon the premises, and for which, at law or in equity, he would be entitled to hold the lands as security, and for the satisfaction of which a court of equity would condemn them. First National Bank v Elliott, 125 Ala 646, 27 So 7.

lawful day. A day which is lawful for the transaction of business or the making of a particular contract.

See legal holiday; nonjuridical day; Sunday.

lawful fence. A good and sufficient fence within the statutory requirement for a fence, frequently prescribed as one such as good husbandmen generally keep. 35 Am J2d Fen § 1.

lawful force. The extent of the force permitted to be used in self-defense, that is, the degree of violence permitted in resisting an attack upon one's person; such degree of violence as is necessary, or is honestly and reasonably believed by the person attacked to be necessary, for his defense. 6 Am J2d Asslt & B §§ 72, 162. That degree of force which a peace officer is permitted to employ in making an arrest; such force as is reasonably necessary to apprehend the offender or effect the arrest. 5 Am J2d Arr § 80.

lawful goods. Articles or substances which are not contraband and may be held, sold, or exported without violating the law. Seton & Co. v Low (NY) 1 Johns Cas 1, 5.

lawful heirs. Those persons upon whom the descent of real property is cast upon the death of the owner intestate. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 43. As the term appears in a will, those persons on whom the law passes the descent of real estate or admits to participate in the distribution of personally, except as a contrary intention appears in the context of the will in which the clause appears. White v Inman, 212 Miss 237, 54 So 2d 375, 30 ALR2d 380. Ordinarily a term of art, constituting words of limitation. 28 Am J2d Est § 118. But sometimes constituting words of purchase. Conger v Lowe, 124 Ind 368, 24 NE 889; 28 Am J2d Est § 118 (construed as meaning "children"). According to some although not all, authority, inclusive of half bloods as well as whole bloods. Anno: 49 ALR2d 1369-1372.

lawful holder. One entitled to possession and in possession.

For definition of term as it appears in a provision of the Carmack Amendment to the Interstate Commerce Act (49 USC § 20(11)), see Pennsylvania R. Co. v Carr, 243 US 587, 61 L Ed 914, 37 S Ct 472; Pennsylvania R. Co. v Olivit Bros. 243 US 574, 61 L Ed 908, 37 S Ct 468.

See holder in due course.

lawful interest. Any rate of interest up to that fixed by statute as the maximum rate at which interest can be charged by contract. Re Hoerman's Estate (Mo) 247 SW2d 762.

See legal interest.

lawful issue. In the broader sense, all the descendants of a person; the technical equivalent of heirs of the body. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1379. Primarily words of limitation, but words of purchase where it appears on the face of a will that the clause should be construed as a word of purchase, as where a devise is to "lawful issue as tenants in common." 57 Am J1st Wills § 1377. A term exclusive of a child born out of wedlock. Olmsted v Olmsted, 190 NY 458, 83 NE 569.

lawful man. A freeman; a man who could make oath and testify as a witness; a man who had not been outlawed or attainted.

lawful money. Gold and silver coin of the United States, or paper money which by act of Congress has been made the equivalent of such coin. Bronson v Rodes (US) 7 Wall 229, 19 L Ed 141.

See legal tender.

lawful order. Any order of court which is not erroneous; any order which may not be reversed on appeal for error. Ex pane Cohen, 5 Cal 494, 495.

lawful rate. The rate for transportation which a carrier must exact and which the shipper must pay. Duholm v Chicago, N. & St. P. Ry. Co. 146 Minn 1, 177 NW 772.

See lawful interest; legal interest.

lawful representative. Same as legal representative.

lawful structure. A structure which conforms to law and is permitted and authorized by law. Pike Rapids Power Co. v Minneapolis, St. P. & S. S. M. R. Co. (CA8 Minn) 99 F2d 902.

lawful war. A war which is lawful by the law of nations. A thing which can never exist without the express concurrence of the war-making power. 56 Am J1st War § 5.

lawful wedlock. Matrimony; the ceremony or state of marriage. State v Coliton, 73 ND 582, 17 NW2d 546, 156 ALR 1403.

lawing a mastiff. The practice of cutting off the claws and ball or pelote of the forefeet to prevent the dogs from running after deer in the king's forest. See 3 Bl Comm 72.

law Latin. The Latin language, considerably mutilated, as used in the old forms and proceedings in England for four centuries, "until the subversion of our ancient constitution under Cromwell." See 3 Bl Comm 319, 322.

lawless. The characterization of a person who does not submit to be governed by the law. Arkansas v Kansas & T. Coal Co. (CC Ark) 96 F 353, 362.

lawless court. A curious ancient court held at Essex in England at cock-crowing, without lights, ink, or pen, whereat all speech was in whispers.

lawless man. A man who had lost his law; an outlaw.

law list. An annual compilation of statistics and important and interesting matters concerning the profession of the law in England. A published list of attorneys at law used in law offices in referring matters and cases to attorneys at a distance.

law lords. Those members of the upper house of the English parliament, the house of lords, who have held high judicial offices.

law martial. See military law.

law merchant. A body of commercial law embracing the usages of merchants in different commercial countries, but not resting exclusively on the institutions and local customs of any particular country, consisting of certain principles of equity and usages of trade which general convenience and a common sense of justice have established to regulate the dealings of merchants and mariners in all the commercial countries of the civilized world. Bank of Conway v Stary, 51 ND 399, 200 NW 505, 37 ALR 1186. Long recognized as a part of the common law. 15 Am J2d Com L § 8. The basis of the jurisprudence regulating bills of exchange and promissory notes, particularly the negotiability of such instruments and the rights and liabilities of persons becoming parties to the instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 36.

The law merchant or lex mercatoria was originally a separate body of law, and, like equity and admiralty law, was administered in separate or special courts. It bore some analogy to the Roman system known as "jus gentium." The lex mercatoria was not, like the common law, the custom of a place or territory; it was the recognized custom of merchants and traders who had business relations in all the countries of Europe, including England. The merchant class and the controversies of its members arising out of commercial transactions, were not subject to the common law. During the sixteenth century the admiralty court declared the principles of the law merchant. Later, the common law judges encroached upon the field of admiralty over commercial transactions. Thus, the law merchant gradually became a part of the legal system of England. Bank of Conway v Stary, 51 ND 399, 200 NW 505, 37 ALR 1186, 1193.

Law of Alaric. A statute book or code of laws which was published in 506 A. D., by Alaric II, often referred to as Lex Romana Visigothorum.

It borrowed much from the code of Theodosius, some from the Gregorian code and some from the Hermogenian code.

law of citations. In the broad sense, the effect of precedent. In a technical sense, a law of ancient Rome prescribing the relative authority of the works of Roman law writers.

law of damages. A term of art applied to the body of principles which determines the size of a verdict. 22 Am J2d Damg § 22.

[714]

law office clerk. See law clerk.

law officer. A public officer having powers and duties in the enforcement of the penal laws. A commissioned officer who presides at a general court-martial.

See peace officer.

law of marque. The law of nations governing the seizure of property of a hostile nation on the high seas.

See letters of marque and reprisal.

law of nations. Same as international law.

law of nature. See natural law.

law of payment. The law relating to performance of the contract.

law of retaliation. The principle that one should be punished for a crime by inflicting upon him the same injury that he inflicted upon the victim of the offense.

law of ship's flag. See law of the flag.

law of the case. The principle that instructions given by the court to the jury during the trial of a case, become, for the time being, the law of the case, binding upon the jury, court and counsel. 53 Am J1st Trial § 492. A rule kindred to the doctrine of res judicata. United States v United States Smelting, Refining & Mining Co. 339 US 186, 94 L Ed 750, 70 S Ct 537, reh den 339 US 972, 94 L Ed 1379, 70 S Ct 994. The principle that a decision of the appellate court, unless properly set aside is controlling at all subsequent stages of the litigation, including the rule that on remand the trial court must strictly follow the mandate of the appellate court. 5 Am J2d A & E § 744. Also inclusive of the principle that if an appellate court has passed on a legal question and has remanded the cause to the court below for further proceedings, the legal questions thus determined by the appellate court will not be differently determined on a subsequent appeal in the same case. Todd v State, 229 Ind 664, 101 NE2d 45 (concurring opinion). The rule that the final judgment of a court on an appeal from the action taken by an administrative agency governs the agency in all further proceedings in the case. Federal Power Com. v Pacific Power & Light Co. 307 US 156, 83 L Ed 1180, 59 S Ct 766; State ex rel. Spurck v Civil Service Board, 226 Minn 240, 32 NW2d 574.

law of the flag. The law of the state or nation whose flag is flown by the vessel involved. 2 Am J2d Adm § 90. The law of the sovereignty to which the ship belongs. 48 Am J1st Ship § 545. A doctrine, perhaps the most venerable and universal rule of maritime law bearing on conflict of laws, that certain maritime matters are determined pursuant to the law of the state or nation whose flag the vessel flies. 2 Am J2d Adm § 90.

law of the forum. The law of the jurisdiction in which the cause is litigated. 16 Am J2d Conti L § 11.

law of the land. The law of the state in which the proceeding is brought, whether common law or statutory law. 16 Am J2d Const L § 547. An implement of the guaranty of due process of law, having reference to the common law as modified by statute and as suited to the wants and conditions of the people. 16 Am J2d Const L § 543.

The term in a constitutional provision that "no person ought to be taken, imprisoned, or divested of his freehold, liberty, or privileges, or outlawed or exiled, or in any manner deprived of his life, liberty, or property but by the law of the land," is synonymous with due process of law. State v Ballance, 229 NC 764, 51 SE2d 731, 7 ALR2d 407.

law of the place. The law of the place in which the circumstances arose on which the litigation is based. 16 Am J2d Confl L § 11.

law of the road. See rules of the road.

law of the staple. The law administered in the enforcement of a statute staple; the law merchant.

See law merchant; statute staple.

law of war. That part of the law of nations which prescribes for, and regulates the conduct of, war and the status, rights and duties of enemy nations and of enemy individuals. Ex parte Quirin, 317 US 1, 87 L Ed 3, 63 S Ct 2.

law question. See question of law.

law report. A publication containing the opinions of a court or courts in actual cases, sometimes, as in the case of the American Law Reports, containing annotations showing additional cases upon or cognate to the point or points decided in the reported case.

law review. A publication of special interest to lawyers and professors in law schools, usually emanating from a law school as the work of professors of law and law students of the more capable and scholarly type, and containing articles on points of law of the most current interest.

law side. The sitting of a court having jurisdiction in both law and equity but for the time sitting as a court of law.

Laws of Oleron. A code of maritime laws which are received by all nations in Europe as the ground and foundation of all their maritime constitutions.

This code was compiled by Richard the First at the Isle of Oleron on the coast of France which was then a possession of the English crown. See 1 Bl Comm 418. The Laws of Oleron have been held in peculiar respect by England, and have been incorporated into her maritime jurisprudence. Per Story, J., in (US CC A) 2 Mason 548.

Laws of the Bretts and Scotts. An ancient Scotch code which was abolished under Edward the First.

laws of the country. In the broader sense of the term, the laws of the United States and the state and local laws.

As the expression is used in a treaty providing that if any citizen of either country shall die in the territory of the other, the consul of the nation to which he belonged shall have the right to administer the decedent's estate, conformably with the "laws of the country," so far as the United States is concerned, the phrase means the local laws of administration and procedure of the respective states of the Union. If the right asserted is necessarily contrary to those laws, it cannot be said to conform to them. Estate of Ghio, 157 Cal 552, 108 P 516.

laws of the several states. As laws to be applied by the federal courts:—statutes and the rules of law as declared by the highest court of the state in the field of the common or decisional law, including matters of general or commercial law. Erie Railroad Co. v Tompkins, 304 US 64, 82 L Ed 1188, 58 S Ct 817, 114 ALR 1487.

As to what actions arise under the laws and treaties of the United States so as to vest jurisdiction in federal courts, see Anno: 14 ALR2d 992.

[715]

law spiritual. The ecclesiastical law.

law student. A person engaged in the study of law with the purpose of obtaining admission to the bar or of engaging in a business in which knowledge of the law is helpful, usually in a college of law but sometimes as a law clerk.

See inns of chancery; law clerk.

lawsuit. An action or proceeding in a civil court in law or in equity, but not a criminal prosecution. Patterson v Standard Acci. Ins. Co. 178 Mich 288, 144 NW 491.

law worthy. Worthy of the protection of the law; entitled to such protection.

lawyer. An attorney or counsellor at law; a barrister; a solicitor; a person licensed by law to practice the profession of the law who thus practices.

A lawyer need not appear in any court, advertise himself as a lawyer, or earn his living by the services he performs as a lawyer, if he occupies some of his time in doing the proper work of a lawyer which contributes to his support, to fall within the term as it is used in a statute exempting the library of a "lawyer" from execution. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v Goode, 101 Iowa 160, 70 NW 113.

See attorney; common lawyer; crown lawyer; practicing lawyer.

Lawyers' Edition. The United States Supreme Court Reports as published by the Lawyers Co-operative Publishing Company of Rochester, New York.

lawyer's liability policy. See lawyer's protective policy.

lawyer's protective policy. A policy insuring an attorney at law against any claim against him arising out of the performance of professional services as a lawyer and caused by any negligent act, error, or omission for which he would be legally liable, excluding claims arising out of fraudulent or criminal misconduct. Anno: 72 ALR2d 1249.

Lawyers' Reports Annotated. A predecessor of the American Law Reports.

See American Law Reports.

Lawyers' Reports Annotated (New Series). A successor to Lawyers' Reports Annotated and a predecessor of American Law Reports.

See American Law Reports.

laxative. A drug or medicine, the effect of which is to induce a bowel movement. Kelly v Carroll, 36 Wash 2d 482, 219 P2d 79, 19 ALR2d 1174.

lay. Adjective: Pertaining to laymen or the laity, as opposed to the clergy. Verb: To place or put in position. A slang expression meaning to engage with in sexual intercourse.

lay a bet. To place a wager.

lay corporation. A corporation the purposes of which are secular, as opposed to religious; a corporation composed of laymen.

lay damages. To allege damages, particularly in a pleading, such as a complaint.

lay days. The days specified in a contract of affreightment during which the charterer of a vessel is permitted to detain her for loading or unloading without incurring liability for demurrage. 48 Am J1st Ship § 608.

lay fee. A feud or fee held by services which were not religious.

lay gents. Same as laymen.

lay impropiator. (Ecclesiastical law.) A layman who held the appropriation of a benefice; an impropriate rector; a lay rector.

laying basis. See laying foundation.

laying foundation. Introducing evidence for the purpose of showing the relevancy and materiality of other evidence sought to be introduced. 53 Am J1st Trial § 117.

laying off. The election and designation of a homestead. 26 Am J1st Home §§ 87 et seq. An employer's act in terminating the employment temporarily. A slang term for desisting from critical comments. A gambler's term for not placing a wager on a particular event.

See laying out; layoff.

laying on of hands. The striking or touching of one person by another. 6 Am J2d Asslt & B § 5:

laying out. Locating and establishing a new highway. Borrowdale v Board of County Comrs. 23 NM 1, 163 P 721.

See laying off.

laying the venue. Stating in the caption of a declaration, complaint, or petition the court and jurisdiction in which the action or proceeding is brought.

lay judge. A person sitting as a judge, usually, if not always, as an assistant, who is not versed or learned in the law.

layman. Singular of laymen.

laymen. Persons not of the profession, whether it be that of the clergy, of lawyers, of actors, or of physicians, but particularly that of the clergy.

layoff. A temporary suspension of employment of a person at the instance of his employer. The act of an employer in suspending the employment of one or more employees during an exigency, such as lack of materials, an oversupply of manufactured articles, etc. Prudential Ins. Co. v Bridgman, 256 Ky 575, 76 SW2d 639.

The courts are divided in view as to whether or not a layoff constitutes a termination of employment within the meaning of a group insurance policy. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1772.

See laying off.

layoff status. The status of an employee receiving no pay during a shutdown. Golubski Unemployment Compensation Case, 171 Pa Super 634, 91 A2d 315, 30 ALR2d 362.

layout. A sketch of a building to be constructed. Walter M. Ballard Corp. v Dougherty, 106 Cal App 2d 35, 234 P2d 745. The plan or scheme determining the style and arrangement of a printed page, a newspaper, or an advertisement.

See mine layout.

layover ticket. A ticket issued by a carrier which permits the passenger to break the journey at various points, resuming travel at his convenience and pleasure, subject to certain overall limitations of time. Chicago Rock Island & P. R. Co. v Boyce, 73 111 510.

lay people. Laymen, particularly jurors.

lay taxes. To levy taxes.

lay tenure. Any tenure which was not of a spiritual nature; that is, a tenure under which lands were held by services which were not religious. See 2 Bl Comm 101.

[716]

lay witness. A witness, other than an expert in the field, whose opinion is sought to be introduced in evidence.

lazaret. A place of quarantine, particularly on a ship, where persons having contagious diseases may be isolated, thus preventing the spreading of the disease.

lazaretto. Same as lazaret.

le. (French.) The, for the masculine.

Le action bien gist. The action well lies.

leading astray. The seduction of a female by persuasion or inducements. 47 Am J1st Seduc § 2.

leading a use. Making a deed to show the object or use previously to a fine or recovery.

If fines or recoveries were levied or suffered without any good consideration, and without any uses declared, they inured only to the use of him who levied or suffered them, unless their force and effect were directed by other deeds expressing particular uses. If such deeds were made before the fine or recovery, they were called deeds to lead the uses. If they were made subsequently, they were called deeds to declare the uses. See 2 Bl Comm 363.

leading case. A case often referred to by the courts and by counsel as having finally settled and determined a point of law.

leading counsel. The counsel or attorney who has charge of his side of a case with other counsel assisting him.

leading devise. A devise which operates to control or vary other distinct provisions of the will which by themselves would have tended toward the creation of an interest or estate other than indicated by the leading devise. Lewis v Payne, 113 Md 127, 77 A 321.

leading question. A question put to a witness which suggests the answer desired, or which assumes to be proved a fact which is not proved, or which, embodying a material fact, admits of an answer by a simple negative or affirmative. Deans v Deans, 171 Ga 664, 156 SE 691, 74 ALR 222; Turney v State, 16 Miss (8 Smedes & M) 104.

lead pencil. See pencil.

lead poisoning. An occupational disability of painters, of idiopathic as distinguished from traumatic origin. Adams v Acme White Lead & Color Works, 182 Mich 157, 148 NW 485.

leaflet. A brochure, often used in advertising, especially in political campaigns, being distributed from house to house.

league. An association or society. 6 Am J2d Asso & C § 1. A unit of linear measure, equivalent to 3 miles. A Mexican unit of area measure.

The Mexican league as used in Texas and applicable to Spanish grants in the Neutral Ground has always been estimated at 4,428.4 acres, being a square of 5,000 varas on each side, the vara being considered 33-1/3 American inches, and grants of leagues in the Neutral Ground should be estimated at that rate. The true vara is slightly less than 33 1/3 inches, but it is by usage estimated at 33-1/3 in Texas, and in California at 33 inches. United States v Perot (US) 8 Otto 428, 25 L Ed 251.

See business league; marine league.

League of Nations. A governmental and juridical agency of international status organized to deal with questions of an international character, being in existence from January 10, 1920 until its dissolution on January 10, 1946, its successor being the United Nations. 30 Am J Rev ed Internat L § 9.

leak. A divulging of information intended to be kept secret.

See leakage.

leakage. The escape of a liquid or a vapor. Loss in a ship's cargo by leaking or breaking in transit.

As used in bills of lading, the term appears to be applied not only to the leaking of liquids from their casks or other containers, but also to the loss attendant upon breaking alone, such as the breakage of glass show cases stowed in a cargo. Thomas v Ship Morning Glory, 13 La Ann 269.

leal. Loyal; lawful; liege.

lealte. Legality; loyalty.

lean-to. A shed, or other dependent structure, the supports of which rest upon or lean against another building.

leap year. A year of 366 days, occurring after a sequence of three common years, that is, years of 365 days, the extra day of the leap year being the 29th day of February.

By the statute 21 Henry III, it was provided that in certain cases of pleading, where February 29th of a leap year intervened, the 28th and 29th were to be counted as one day and statutes in this country have provided that whenever "year" or "years" is used, the year shall be taken to consist of 365 days; and the added day of a leap year, and the day immediately preceding, if they shall occur in any period so to be computed, shall be reckoned together as one day. But each of the 28th and 29th days of February, in the leap year, is a day of twenty-four hours' duration, and where these two days occur in any period of days less than one year, they ought to be and must be regarded as two days, and not as one day, for any purpose. See 52 Am J1st Time § 10.

learned in the law. Having much learning in the law. More precisely admitted to the practice of law or entitled to be admitted to practice without examination. Jamieson v Wiggin, 12 SD 16, 80 NW 137; Danforth v Egan, 23 SD 43, 119 NW 1021.

learned of. Having acquired actual knowledge of. Anne: 23 ALR2d 1076.

lease. Noun: A contract for the possession and profits of lands and tenements on the one side, and a recompense of rent or other income on the other. A conveyance by one to be known as the "landlord" to another to be known as the "tenant," ordinarily for a term of years, but sometimes at will or for the life of the tenant, in consideration of payment of rent or other recompense. 32 Am J1st L & T § 2. Undoubtedly a "conveyance," although it conveys a lesser interest than does a deed. 32 Am J1st L & T § 3. Inclusive in modern times, of the bailment of a chattel, such as an automobile or a computer. Verb: To create a tenancy. Mallory Associates, Inc. v Barving Realty Co. 300 NY 297, 90 NE2d 468, 15 ALR2d 1193. To make a bailment of a chattel.

See leasehold.

lease and release. A form of conveyance, in general use at one time in England, but rarely used in the United States. 23 Am J2d Deeds §§ 14, 15.

A highly artificial method once in use in England for conveying real property, consisting, first, of a lease (or bargain and sale for a year) which by force of the Statute of Uses put the lessee or bargainee in possession, and while he was thus in possession, although by a mere fiction, the lessor or bargainor executed to him a deed of release, which operated by way of enlargement of the estate, and was effectual to transfer the entire title to the lessee or bargainee. Hall's Lessee v Ashby, 9 Ohio 96.

[717]

leased aircraft. An aircraft held under a lease. 8 Am J2d Avi § 24.

leased automobile. A rented automobile.

See renting automobiles.

lease for years. A contract between lessor and lessee by which the lessor contracts to grant the possession and enjoyment of land, or hereditaments of a demisable nature, for a period of years certain, and the lessee usually agrees to render to the lessor a rent in money, or any other kind of payment, at the end of stated periods during the term. 32 Am J1st L & T § 61.

See estate for years.

leasehold. The interest of a lessee. An interest in real estate. 26 Am J1st H & W § 233. An estate in real property which is conveyed to a tenant by his landlord when the landlord makes a lease of the property to the tenant; an estate entirely separate and distinct from the estate which the landlord retains. Stubbings v Evanston, 136 Ill 37, 26 NE 577. Included in a devise of "land" where the testator has no lands which he owns in fee. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1337.

See estate for years.

leasehold estate. Same as leasehold.

leasehold interest. Same as leasehold.

lease in reversion. A lease that becomes effective only at the expiration of the term of the prior lease.

That the lease is to have this effect may be expressed in two ways, i. e., the time set for the beginning of the term in the second lease may be made to correspond with the time set for the expiration of the term of the prior lease, or the second lease may contain a reference to the first, and be so worded as to become effective at the expiration of the term thereof. 32 Am J1st L & T § 94.

lease of personalty. See bailment.

lease on shares. A lease providing for the payment of grain or crop rent.

lease renewable forever. A lease for a term of years, often for ninety-nine years, with unlimited option for renewal. 32 Am J1st L & T § 1039.

lease with option to purchase. A lease in the ordinary form with the usual provisions, and in addition thereto, providing that in consideration of the payment of a specified sum and the stipulated rent and a full compliance with all the terms of the lease, the lessee is to have the option at the end of the term to purchase the property for a specified sum. Cawthorn v McAlister, 217 Ky 551, 552, 290 SW 316.

Leasing Act. A federal statute enacted in 1920, which, as amended, regulates the exploration and development of gas, oil, and mineral lands included within the public domain. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 46; 36 Am J1st Min & M § 65.

leaute. Legal sufficiency.

leave. Verb: To deposit or put a thing in place. To make a disposition of something, particularly by a will. Williams v Kidd, 170 Cal 631, 151 P 1. To refrain from assuming possession of property in the hands of another, thereby committing it to his custody and management. Allen v McFarland, 150 Ill 455, 461. Noun: Permission.

leave and license. The permission of the plaintiff, set up by the defendant as a defense in an action of trespass.

leave of absence. Absence from work with the permission of the employer, Anno: 174 ALR 576, sometimes with pay. Nolan v State (Ct CI) 44 NYS2d 328. The absence of one in the Civil Service, from work, with the permission of his superior. 15 Am J2d Civ S § 31.

leave of court. Permission of court; an order of court granting permission to take a certain step in an action, usually, where it is discretionary with the court to give or refuse the permission. Copperthwait v Dimmer, 18 NJL 258, 260.

leave standing. An expression familiar in reference to statutes and ordinances prohibiting or regulating the parking of vehicles on the streets and other public highways.

As used in a statute making it unlawful to leave standing on a highway any vehicle, whether attended or not, without leaving fifteen feet of the traveled portion of the highway clear for traffic on the left, the words "leave standing" are held to mean "stopping at all without leaving the required clearance." The word "leave" means to put, place, deposit, deliver, or the like. Stand means to cease from movement or progress; to pause; to stop; to remain stationary or inactive. Jaggers v Southeastern Greyhound Lines (DC Tenn) 34 F Supp 667.

leaving process at place of abode. A method of substituted service of process. 42 Am J1st Proc § 60.

leaving scene of accident. The act of one of a callous class known as "hit-and-run" drivers, the purpose being to evade civil or criminal consequences by escape before identity can be established. 7 Am J2d Auto § 246.

leaving vehicle. See alighting from vehicle.

Le batel est obligé a la marchandise et la marchandise au batel. The ship is liable to the cargo and the cargo to the ship.

The owner of the cargo has a lien, by the maritime law, upon the ship for the safe custody, due transport, and right delivery of the same, as much as the ship-owner has upon the cargo for the freight, as expressed in the maxim. The Maggie Hammond v Morland (US) 9 Wall 435, 19 L Ed 772, 777.

leecator. A lecherous person.

lecherous. Lustful; characterized by lechery. Jones v State, 38 Tex Crim 87, 40 SW 807, 41 SW 638.

lechery. Excessive indulgence in sex.

lecherwite. Same as laresite.

le contrat fait la loi. The contract makes the law.

lecto mortali. See in lecto mortali.

L Ed. Abbreviation of Lawyers' Edition.

ledge. A lode or vein of mineral in its natural state.

See lode; vein.

ledger. A book of account, the entries of which are taken from books of original entry or journals.

See post.

[718]

ledgreivus. Same as lathe-reeve.

lees. The dregs of the barrel or vat used in wine-making.

leet. An ancient English criminal court.

leftovers. Merchandise which remains unsold after it has been offered and displayed for sale for some time.

left turn. The movement of a motor vehicle across traffic at an intersection for the purpose of proceeding to the left on the intersecting street or highway. 8 Am J2d Auto § 799.

leg. A limb; the lower limb of the human body. A support, as of a table. A partial accomplishment of an undertaking or task.

According to its common definition, the word leg does not include the foot or any of the bones in the foot. Butler v Eminent Household, 116 Miss 85, 1137, 1139, 76 So 830.

lega. An alloy used in making coins.

legabilis. Chattels which were subject to bequest; whatever could be bequeathed by will.

legacy. A testamentary gift of personal property; a bequest. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1400. In loose usage, inclusive of testamentary gifts of real estate as well as of personal property. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1400.

legacy duty. See legacy tax.

legacy tax. A succession tax or duty on the passing of personal property by will. Knowlton v Moore, 178 US 41, 44 L Ed 969, 20 S Ct 747. An inheritance tax, rather than estate tax. Re Inman, 101 Or 182, 199 P 615, 16 ALR 675.

legal. According to the principles of law; according to the method required by statute; by means of judicial proceedings. Estate of Folwell, 68 NJ Eq 728, 62 A 414. According to law rather than equity.

See lawful, also words and phrases following, beginning "legal," and words and phrases beginning "lawful."

legal accumulation. The withholding by a trustee of the income of a minor for the purpose of creating an increased fund. Anne: 61 ALR 679.

See unlawful accumulations.

legal action. An action at law.

legal age. The age of majority, that is, the age, usually fixed by law at 21 years, at 18 years for females in some jurisdictions, at which an infant acquires the capacity to bind himself by contract, make conveyances and transfers of property, and conduct business as an adult. 27 Am J1st Inf § 5. The age at which a person acquires the capacity to act in reference to certain things, which may be prior to the age of majority. Montoya De Antonio v Miller, 7 NM 289, 34 P 40. The age fixed by the common law, 14 years for males, 12 years for females, or the more common increased age prescribed by statute, at which a person can enter into a marriage. 35 Am J1st Mar § 16.

Although the term in strictness means the age at which a person reaches his majority, which is usually twenty-one years yet in construing a will, where it appeared to be the testator's intention, it was held that the term applied to the age at which a female beneficiary would be entitled by law to receive her estate from her guardian, although that age was eighteen. See McKim v Hardy, 4 Md Ch 228, 236.

legal assets. Assets left by a decedent available for administration without the aid of a court of equity. Agee v Saunders, 127 Tenn 680, 157 SW 64. Moneys in the hands of an executor as administrator arising from the sale of personal property, as distinguished from moneys in his hands arising from the sale of real estate. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 193.

legal assignment. An assignment enforceable without the aid of equity.

A "legal assignment" is a transfer of property or an interest therein from one person to another; and unless in some way qualified, it is properly a transfer of the entire interest. Purman's Estate, 358 Pa 187, 56 A2d 86, 175 ALR 1129.

legal authority. See lawbook; precedent.

legal capacity. The ability to make contracts, conveyances, mortgages, etc. which are binding and beyond nullification for disability of the person arising from infancy, mental incompetency, etc. Pratt v Northern Pacific Express Co. 13 Idaho 373, 90 P 341.

legal cause. The proximate cause of damage. 22 Am J2d Damg § 20. The proximate cause of an injury. 38 Am J1st Negl §§ 49 et seq.

See proximate cause.

legal compulsion. That compulsion which is presumed in law, as distinguished from actual compulsion or compulsion in fact; as, where the law presumes the compulsion of the husband if the wife commits a crime in his presence. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 102.

legal conclusion. A conclusion of law.

legal consideration. A consideration legally sufficient in support of a contract, although not in the nature of pecuniary gain or benefit to the person assuming the obligation. Albert Lee College v Brown, 88 Minn 524, 93 NW 672.

legal constraint. The holding of a person or property under legal process; not duress. State ex rel. Cabel v Sewerage & Water Board (La App) 138 So 2d 856.

legal custody. Custody in accordance with law, for example, the custody of a child by a person appointed guardian of his person. The restraint of a person or of property pursuant to writ or process or otherwise in accordance with law.

legal damages. Such losses or detriments as the law compensates in consequence of a wrong committed. 22 Am J2d Damg § 1.

See legal injury.

legal day. A day in which legal and judicial business can be transacted, as distinguished from dies non.

It is distinguished also from a judicial day, which is a day in which the court is in session. State v Judges of the Court of Appeals, 48 La Ann 1079, 1080, 20 So 282.

legal dependent. A person whom one is legally bound to support. Caldwell v Little, 158 NC 351, 74 SE 10. One who has the right to invoke the aid of the law to require another to support him. National Council J. O. U. A. M. v Tate, 212 NC 305, 193 SE 397, 113 ALR 1514.

legal disability. Incapacity to contract; infancy; unsoundness of mind. Re Price's Estate, 87 Ohio App 23, 93 NE2d 769. Any condition which renders a person unable to act for himself or bind himself so that the law will not regard his acts as void or voidable.

[719]

A disability which may relate to the power to contract or to bring suits, and which may arise out of want of sufficient understanding, as idiocy, lunacy, or want of freedom of will, as in the case of married women and persons under duress; or out of the policy of the law, as alienage when the alien is an enemy, outlawry, attainder, praemunire, and the like. The disability is something pertaining to the person of the party—a personal incapacity—and not to the cause of action, or his relation to it. For the existence of legal disability, there must be a present right of action in the person, but some want of capacity to sue. Berkin v Marsh, 18 Mont 152, 44 P 528.

legal discretion. See legal capacity; judicial discretion.

legal duty. That which the law requires to be done or forborne to a determinable person, or to the public at large, being correlative to a right vested in such determinate person, or the public at large. Bragdon v Perkins-Campbell Co. (CA3 Pa) 87 F 109.

legal easement. A liberty, privilege, or advantage without profit, which the owner, as such, of one parcel of land, may have in the lands of another. Weletoff v Kohl, 105 NJ 181, 147 A 390, 66 ALR 1317.

See easement.

legal entity. An organization or association recognized in law as an entity apart from the individual members.

legal estate. An estate in property recognized at law, not merely in equity. At common law, strictly speaking, the only estate. Sayre v Mohney, 30 Or 238, 47 P 197.

legal estoppel. An estoppel recognized in law, as distinguished from equitable estoppel or estoppel in pais.

legal ethics. Canons of Professional Ethics adopted by the American Bar Association, published in Am J2d Desk Book Document 91. The usages and customs among members of the legal profession involving their moral and professional duties toward one another, toward their clients and toward the courts.

The principles which guide an attorney at law in his professional conduct are not enforced by the court as legal principles, but an attorney maybe disciplined for not observing them. Re Heirich, 10 Ill 2d 357, 140 NE2d 825, 67 ALR2d 827, cert den 355 US 805, 2 L Ed 2d 49, 78 S Ct 22.

legal evidence. Evidence which is legally admissible.

Legal evidence is not confined to the human voice or oral testimony; it includes every tangible object capable of making a truthful statement, such evidence being roughly classified as documentary evidence. In oral evidence the witness is the man who speaks; in documentary evidence the witness is the thing that speaks. In either case the witness must be competent,—that is, must be deemed competent to make a truthful statement. See Curbs v Bradley, 65 Conn 99, 31 A 591.

legal examiners. Members of a state board conducting the examination of applicants for admission to the bar. State ex rel. Clyatt v Hockey, 39 Fla 477, 22 So 721.

legal expenses. See attorney's fee; costs.

legal fiction. See fiction.

legal fraud. Often regarded as synonymous with constructive fraud. Precisely, actual fraud, that is, fraud of which the law will take cognizance as a cause of action or foundation of a defense.

Fraud without damage, or damage without fraud gives no cause of action, but when these two concur, an action lies. This has long been recognized as the governing rule. But the rule has been obscured by the judges in their use of the phrase "legal fraud," which has sometimes been interpreted as meaning fraud by construction, and as indicating that something less than actual fraud may sustain an action for deceit. The gravamen of the action, however, is actual fraud, and nothing less will sustain it. Kountze v Kennedy, 147 NY 124, 41 NE 414.

See constructive fraud.

legal heirs. Essentially the same as heirs, but sometimes subject to construction, as where the term appears in a will. Those persons on whom the law passes the descent of real estate or admits to participate in the distribution of personalty, except as a contrary intention appears in the context of the will in which the clause appears. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1371. Ordinarily a term of art, constituting words of limitation. 28 Am J2d Est § 15. Sometimes construed as words of purchase, 28 Am J2d Est § 118, as where deemed synonymous with "children." 28 Am J2d Est § 118. In one sense, legal representatives.

Where a testator directed a sum of money to be "equally divided among all my children, or their legal heirs," the words "or their legal heirs" were held to be used, not to individuate grandchildren, but to supply a legal succession in the event of the death of anyone, and to mean simply legal representatives; that is, in case of the death of one of the children, his share would not go to the survivors, but would be considered as vested in the deceased child. Reed's Appeal, 118 Pa 215, 11 A 787.

legal holiday. A day declared a holiday by statute, the terms of which, such as provisions respecting the closing of banks, exchanges, public offices, etc., determine the nature of the business which can be legally transacted upon the day.

A statutory declaration that a certain day shall be a "legal holiday" does not indicate an attempt to elevate its status to that of Sunday. 50 Am J1st Sun & H § 2.

The courts do not regard "legal holidays" as nonjuridical days unless constrained to do so by the terms or the necessary effect of statutes. 50 Am J1st Sun & H § 77. Compare State v Duncan, 118 La 702, 43 So 283.

legal impediment. The lack of a quality or qualification provided for by law as a condition precedent.

Residence for a period less than required by statute, or being below the minimum age, may be a legal impediment to marriage. State v Randall, 166 Minn 381, 382, 208 NW 14, 15.

legal incapacity. See disability; legal capacity.

legal injury. An invasion of a legal right; a wrong from which the law imports damage. Allen v Stowell, 145 Cal 666, 79 P 371. An injury for the redress whereof an action will lie.

"The much-argued and interesting case of Allen v Flood (1898) A. C. 1, illustrates the general doctrine that, however harmful to others individual or combined action may be, if it is not unlawful, the damage or harm so inflicted does not constitute legal injury at common law." Wheeler-Stenzel Co.

legal insanity. Insanity of which the law takes cognizance in recognizing it as a defense in a criminal case, as a ground for committing the person to an asylum or state hospital, or as a ground for the appointment of a committee or guardian.

legal intent. A presumed intent, for example, the intent to accomplish the natural and probable consequences of one's acts. 29 Am J2d Ev § 204. A term applied without circumspection to the intent of a testator.

In strict reasoning, a testator can have but one intent,-his own actual intent. To speak of a testator's legal intent is strictly a solecism; there is no such thing. So that, when it is said that a testator's legal intent is to be gathered from the decisions of the court of his domicile, nothing more is meant than that whatever his actual intent may have been, if he has used in his will certain technical terms to which the courts of his domicile have attached a crystallized and settled judicial meaning which has become a rule of property in that state, then such will, wherever it comes under construction in other states, will have the same meaning given to those technical words which the courts of his domicile gave them. That is what the phrase "legal intent" means, and this rule about the legal intent being governed by the courts of his domicile means. In truth, we should only speak of a testator's actual intent, for that is all the testator ever had. If it violates no law, it stands. If it violates the law, the will fails, unless either statute or the settled decisions of the courts have given the terms which he has used a meaning which will save the will. Ball v Phelan, 94 Miss 293, 49 So 956.

legal interest. That rate of interest prescribed by the law which will prevail in absence of any contract between the parties fixing the rate. 30 Am J Rev ed Int § 2.

As to what constitutes the "legal interest" which one seeking equitable relief from a usurious transaction must offer to pay as the condition of obtaining such relief, the courts are not in entire agreement. While there is authority for the view that "legal interest" is to be computed at the rate prevailing in the absence of an agreement, it has also been held that it should be computed at the maximum legal rate, and not at the lesser rate prevailing in the absence of an agreement between the parties regarding interest. 55 Am J1st Usury § 108.

See lawful interest.

legal investment. One of a list of permissible trust investments presented by statute as authorized trust investments. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 381.

legalis homo. Same as lawful man.

legalis moneta Angliae. Lawful money of England.

legality. The matter or question of being in accord, or in conflict, with the law.

legalization. Legalizing; the making lawful of something otherwise unlawful.

See legitimation; validation.

legalize. To make legal that which otherwise is illegal. To confirm something already done; not to authorize something in the future. Barker v Chesterfield, 102 Mass 127.

legalized nuisance. A concept of the legalization by legislative act of that which otherwise would be a nuisance. 38 Am J1st Mon Corp § 650.

legal jeopardy. See prior jeopardy.

legal liability. Liability at law.

legal life estate. A life estate coming into existence by operation of law, such as dower and curtesy, as distinguished from a life estate created by will or grant. 28 Am J2d Est § 56.

legal limit. A limit fixed by law such as a speed limit, a limit upon the amount of municipal indebtedness, or a limit upon the rate of interest which may be charged by contract.

legal lottery. A lottery authorized by law. Clark v Washington (US) 12 Wheat 40, 6 L Ed 544.

legally. According to law; properly.

As the word is used in a statute referring to the legally administered affairs of a bank, it is held to import a compliance with the statutes of the state, and particularly a compliance with the statutes regulating the management of banks. People v Mancuso, 255 NY 463, 175 NE 177, 76 ALR 514.

legally adopted. Adopted according to law, that is, according to the statutes relating to adoption of children. Anno: 141 ALR 1303.

legally constituted court. A court existing under the authority of the law, so that its judgments and decrees are not open to collateral attack. State ex rel. Bales v Bailey, 106 Minn 138, 118 NW 676.

legally dead. See presumption of death.

legally insufficient title. A title which, not being free from reasonable doubt, is not a marketable title. 55 Am J1st V & P §§ 157, 158.

legally interested. Having a legal interest, in property, in a specific fund, or in the subject matter of litigation. Ward v San Diego School Dist. (Cal App) 259 P 349.

legally proved. Established by evidence legally admissible. Paiva v California Door Co. 75 Cal App 323, 242 P 887.

legally sufficient title. A marketable title. Cowdery v Greenlee, 126 Ga 786, 55 SE 91.

legally sworn. Put under oath. Being bound by an oath.

A person can only be "legally sworn" in a matter "judicially pending" before the court in which he makes oath to give true testimony. If the court is wholly without jurisdiction, the matter is not "judicially pending," and a witness therein cannot be "legally sworn." Smiddy v Commonwealth, 214 Ky 100, 102, 282 SW 774.

legal malice. See malice in law.

legal maxim. See maxim.

legal memory. See time of legal memory.

legal name. The given or Christian name in combination with the surname or family name. Butler v Smith, 84 Neb 78, 120 NW 1106; 38 Am J1st Name § 1.

But for all practical and legal purposes, a man's name is the designation by which he is known and called in the community in which he lives and is known. 38 Am J1st Name § 2.

legal notice. Notice complying with the requirements of the law; notice which the law implies either from knowledge of actual facts or from failure to make inquiry where a duty arises to make such inquiry. Jennings v Lentz, 50 Or 483, 93 P 327, 329.

[721]

Legal or implied notice is the same as constructive notice and is notice which cannot be controverted by proof. It is a legal inference from established facts, and, like other legal presumptions, does not admit of dispute. A recorded deed is an instance of such notice. It is of no consequence whether the second purchaser has actual notice of the prior deed or not. He is bound to take, and is presumed to have, the requisite notice. Notice to an agent also is constructive notice to the principal. The law imputes such notice to the party whether he has it or not. See Cooper v Flesner, 24 Okla 47, 103 P 1016.

legal obligation. A debt; an obligation enforceable in an action at law. An obligation to do and perform what the law of the land, as it exists at the time, requires a person to do.

legal officer. A de jure officer. Also inclusive, for some purposes, of a de facto officer.

A person who actually obtains an office, with the legal indicia of title to that office is a legal officer until ousted. Hallgren v Campbell, 82 Mich 255, 46 NW 381.

legal possession. Same as possession in law.

legal presumption. A presumption of law rather than a presumption founded on the basic fact of the experience of men. Gulick v Loder, 13 NJL 68.

See presumption of law.

legal proceeding. In the broad sense, any action or special proceeding in court. In a narrower sense, an action or special proceeding at law rather than in equity.

As used in the Bankruptcy Act nullifying liens obtained by legal proceedings within four months prior to the filing of a petition in bankruptcy, the term contemplates proceedings against the insolvent debtor, and not voluntary proceedings by him. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1025.

legal process. Process which is fair on its face, lawfully issued for a lawful purpose. State v Knopf, 50 Wash 229, 96 P 1076.

legal provocation. See considerable provocation; reasonable provocation.

legal rate. See lawful rate.

legal representative. In primary meaning, an executor or administrator; in secondary meaning, one who succeeds to the rights of another, such as an heir, next of kin, devisee or legatee, assignee, trustee, receiver, etc. 12 Am J2d Bonds § 24; 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 44; 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 4. As a designation of beneficiary of a life insurance policy:—the executor or administrator of the insured, unless a contrary intention in such respect is manifested by the context of the policy or the surrounding circumstances. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1656.

legal research. A study of the authorities, whether case or text, for the purpose of supporting a proposition or the development of an article for publication.

legal reserve. See reserve.

legal reserve insurance. A policy of life insurance issued and maintained on the level-premium basis and supported by a reserve set aside, as required by law, with which to mature or liquidate a claim accrued under the policy. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 56.

legal residence. The place which the law accepts as the residence of a person, notwithstanding it is not the place where he is presently to be found. The equivalent of domicil. Phillips v South Carolina Tax Com. 195 SC 472, 12 SE2d 13; Restatement, Conflict of Laws § 9.

See domicil; residence.

legal settlement. Same as legal residence. Louriston v Swift County Comrs. 89 Minn 91, 93 NW 1052.

See settlement of pauper.

legal residuum rule. The rule that, even though an administrative agency is not bound by the rules and evidence applicable in court and may accept, in its discretion, any evidence that is offered, still in the end there must be a residuum of legal evidence to support the finding of the administrative agency. Carroll v Knickerbocker Ice Co. 218 NY 435, 113 NE 507.

legal reversion. The time within which property sold for debt could be redeemed.

legal right. A claim recognizable and enforceable at law. See Estate of Folwell, 68 NJ Eq. 728, 62 A 414.

legal right of redemption. The right of a mortgagor, in a jurisdiction where a mortgage has the effect of vesting title in the mortgagee, to pay the mortgage debt and thus avoid the effect of the mortgage as a transfer of title. Stevens v Turlington, 186 NC 191, 119 SE 210, 32 ALR 870, 873.

legal sanity. A mental condition whereunder a person is held responsible for his acts, contracts, and other transactions. Not necessarily a mental condition of perfection, devoid of the least aspect of mental weakness. People v Baker, 42 Cal 2d 550, 268 P2d 705.

See legal insanity.

legal situs. See situs.

legal standing. See capacity; standing to sue.

legal strike. A simultaneous cessation or quitting of work by a body of workmen acting in combination for the coercion of their employer in a lawful economic struggle or competition between employer and employee as to the share or division between them of the joint product of labor and capital, hours of work, or working conditions. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 383. As between employees and their union, a strike authorized by the union or its officers empowered to call a strike. Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan Railway Co. v Pennsylvania Co. (CC Ohio) 54 F 730 (involving right to strike benefits.)

legal subrogation. A right of subrogation existing independently of custom or statute and not dependent upon contract, assignment, privity, or strict suretyship, occurring as the legal consequence of the acts and relationship of the parties. 50 Am J1st Subro § 5.

See subrogation.

legal system. The historic and traditional system, including the legislative and judicial process, as contrasted with the emergent or lately adopted system which includes the legislative, administrative, and judicial process. 1 Am J2d Admin L § 16.

legal tender. That sort of money in which a debt, or other obligation calling for money, may be lawfully paid, if a specific medium of payment is not required by statute or the terms of the contract or obligation. 36 Am J1st Money § 22.

Legal Tender Acts. Acts of Congress, particularly the act of February 25, 1862, making treasury notes of the United States a legal tender for the payment of all debts. Legal Tender Cases (US) 12 Wall 457, 20 L Ed 287.

[722]

Legal Tender Cases. Two cases decided together upholding the constitutionality of the Acts of Congress of 1862 and 1863 providing for the issue of paper money by the United States and making such money legal tender for the payment of private debts. (US) 12 Wall 457, 20 L Ed 287.

legal-tender notes. Notes declared legal tender by Act of Congress. State v Beebe, 17 Minn 241.

legal title. A title under rules of law as distinguished from a title recognized in equity according to equitable principles.

See legally sufficient title.

legal visitors. Official visitors.

See visitors.

legal voter. A person authorized by law to cast his ballot at an election. A person who possesses the qualifications for voting prescribed by law and who also has registered as a voter in accordance with the statute. Re Opinion of Justices, 247 Mass 583, 143 NE 142.

legal waste. Voluntary waste in acts done and permissive waste in acts suffered by neglect. 56 Am J1st Waste § 4.

legare. (Civil law.) To bequeath; to leave as a legacy.

legatary. Same as legatee.

legatee. One who takes personal property as beneficiary under a will. A word sometimes inclusive, as a generic term, of a person taking either real or personal property as beneficiary under a will. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1400.

legates. Representatives or ambassadors of the pope of Rome; nuncios.

Legatine Constitutions. Ecclesiastical laws enacted in national synods, held under the cardinals Otho and Othobon, legates from Pope Gregory IX and Pope Clement IV, in the reign of Henry the Third, about 1220 and 1268. See 1 Bl Comm 83.

legation. An embassy; a diplomatic minister of a foreign country, and his assistants; the place of business or residence of a foreign embassy.

legatory. That part of a man's personal property which he can dispose of by will. See 2 Bl Comm 492.

Legatos violare contra jus gentium est. To offer violence to ambassadors is against the law of nations.

legatum. (Civil law.) A legacy; a bequest.

Legatum morte testatoris tantum confirmatur, sicut donatio inter vivos traditione sola. A legacy is confirmed by the death of the testator, just as a gift between living persons is confirmed by delivery alone.

Legatus regis vice fungitur a quo destinatur, et honorandus ets sicut ille cujus vicem gerit. An ambassador functions in the place of the king by whom he is sent, and he should be honored as much as that king whose place he holds.

lege. See ex lege.

legem. See extra legem.

legem amittere. To lose one's law.

When a man was condemned as a recreant, amittere liberem legem—to lose his free law—that is, to become infamous, and not to be accounted liber et legalis homo—a free and lawful man—he was supposed thereby to be forsworn, and therefore never to be put upon a jury or allowed to testify as a witness in any cause. This was one of the disgraceful consequences attending a champion's defeat in trial by battle. See 3 Bl Comm 340.

Legem enim contractus dat. The contract makes the law.

legem facere. To make an oath; to wager one's law.

legem ferre. (Roman law.) To submit a proposed law to the people.

legem habere. To have one's law; to have the right to give testimony under oath.

legem jubere. (Roman law.) To ratify a proposed law which had been submitted to the people.

legem positus. See extra legem positus.

Legem terrae amittentes perpetuam infamiae notam inde merito incurrunt. Persons who lose the law of the land thereby justly incur the everlasting mark of disgrace.

legem vadiare. To wage law.

See wager of law.

legend. A notation, mark, or character upon a map or plat, explanatory of the representation made. Anno: 108 ALR 1424.

legerwite. Same as laresite.

leges. Laws, plural of lex.

Leges Angliae sunt tripartitae; jus commune, consuetudines, ac decreta comitorum. The laws of England are threefold, the common law, the customs or usages, and the resolutions of parliament.

Leges figendi et refigendi consuetudo est periculosissima. The custom of making and remaking laws is most dangerous.

Leges humanae nascuntur, vivunt, et moriuntur. Human laws are born, live, and die.

leges legum. The law of laws; the characterization of the laws of nature. Anderson v Wilkins, 142 NC 154, 55 SE 272.

Leges naturae perfectissimae sunt et immutabiles; humani vero juris conditio semper in infinitum decurrit, et nihil est in eo quod perpetuo stare possit. The laws of nature are the most perfect and immutable, but the condition of human law always runs into infinity, and there is nothing in it which can stand permanently.

leges non scriptae. The unwritten or common law, as distinguished from the leges scriptae, the written or statute law. See 1 Bl Comm 63.

[723]

Leges non verbis sed rebus sunt impositae. Laws are imposed not upon words but upon things.

Leges posteriores, priores contrarias abrogant. New statutes repeal old ones which are repugnant to them. See 1 Bl Comm 89.

Leges quae retrospectiunt raro, et magna cum cautione soot adhibendae neque enim Janus locator in legibus. Laws which are retrospective are rarely and cautiously received, for Janus has really no place in the laws.

The maxim expresses the well-recognized doctrine that retrospective laws are not favored, and although they are not prohibited by the Federal Constitution, nor by the constitutions of many of the states, courts will always, where possible, give a construction which avoids a retrospective meaning. 50 Am J1st Stat § 477.

leges scriptae. The written or statute laws. See 1 Bl Comm 63.

Leges sola memoria et usu retinebant. They retained laws solely by memory and usage. See 1 Bl Comm 63.

leges sub graviore lege. Laws subservient to higher laws. See 1 Bl Comm 84.

Leges suum ligent latorem. Laws should bind their own sponsor or proposer.

leges tabellariae. The laws of the ballot; that is, the laws governing elections.

Leges vigilantibus non dormientibus factae sunt. The laws aid the vigilant and not those who slumber on their rights. 27 Am J2d Eq § 130.

Leges vigilantibus, non dormientibus subveniunt. The laws aid the vigilant, not those who slumber. 27 Am J2d Eq § 130.

legibus. See ex legibus. legibus patriae obtime institute. Those best instructed in the laws of their country. See 1 Bl Comm 69.

legibus solutus. (Civil law.) Immune or exempt from the operation of the laws, the condition of the emperor.

Legibus sumptis desinentibus, lege naturae utendum est. When artificial laws fail, the law of nature must be invoked.

legis. Of the law.

Legis constructio non facit injuriam. The construction of the law does not work injury.

Legis figendi et refigendi consuetudo periculosissima est. The custom of making and remaking the law is a very dangerous one.

Legis interpretatio legis vim obtinet. The interpretation of the law obtains the force of law.

legislation. The product of a legislative body in laws made. The process of making laws.

Legislation looks to the future and changes existing conditions by making a new rule to be applied thereafter to all or some part of those subject to its power. 1 Am J2d Admen L § 163.

legislative act. A law or statute enacted by the legislature. An act which predetermines what the law shall be for the regulation of future cases falling under its provisions.

It is to be distinguished from a judicial act, which is a determination of what the law is in relation to some existing thing done or happened. Wulzen v Board of Supervisors, 101 Cal 15, 35 P 353.

Legislative Assembly. A legislative body provided by Congress for the District of Columbia which ceased to exist on the adoption of the Temporary Organic Act of June 20, 1874, followed by the Organic Act of June 11, 1878. 24 Am J2d DC § 3. The lower house of the legislature in some states.

legislative control. A term applied in the law of corporations to control by the legislature of the affairs of a private corporation. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1447.

legislative court. A court created by legislative action, that is, by statute, rather than by constitutional provisions. 20 Am J2d Cts § 18. A federal court created by Congress under authority derived from provisions of the Constitution of the United States other than Article 3, section 1. 20 Am J2d Cts § 8.

legislative days. Days during which the legislature is in session.

legislative definition. A statement in a statute defining the sense in which words are employed in the statute. 50 Am J1st Stat § 261.

legislative department. One of the three main departments of government, the other two being the executive and judicial departments.

Under the principle of the separation of governmental powers, the legislative power of the state is vested in the state legislature and that of the Federal Government is vested in Congress.

legislative divorce. A divorce granted, without judicial inquiry, by an act of the legislature directed particularly to a specific union of husband and wife and declaring it to be dissolved. Starr v Pease, 8 Coon 540, 541.

legislative intent. The vital part, heart, soul and essence of statutory law; the guiding star in the interpretation of a statute. 50 Am J1st Stat § 223.

legislative journal. See journal.

legislative measure. A statute; an act or joint resolution of the legislature. A measure passed by a municipal council in the exercise of its legislative, rather than administrative or executive, powers. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 209.

legislative power. The power to make, alter, and repeal laws. 16 Am J2d Const L § 227. The determination of legislative policy and its formulation and promulgation as a defined and binding rule of conduct. Yakus v United States, 321 US 414, 88 L Ed 834, 64 S Ct 660. That power which in the Federal Government is vested in Congress, and, in the several states, in their state legislatures. 49 Am J1st States § 28.

[724]

legislative record. The record of the proceedings of the legislature. The daily journals, wherein the proceedings of the bodies are recorded, and copies thereof, such copies being bound and distributed under the direction of a state officer, usually the secretary of state. 49 Am J1st States § 37.

See Congressional Record.

legislative regulation. A term familiar in the field of administrative law; a regulation having the force and effect of law, intended to supplement a statute in accord with the terms of the statute by filling in the details of the rule of conduct sought to be prescribed. Anno: 153 ALR 1191.

See interpretative regulation.

legislator. A lawmaker; a member of a legislative body; a member of the legislature.

Legislatorum est viva vox, rebus et non verbis, legem imponere. The voice of the legislators is the living voice, to impose law upon things, and not upon words.

legislature. Broadly, any body having legislative power. One of the three branches of state government, the law-making branch, usually consisting of two bodies, a senate and a house of representatives made up of members representing districts and elected respectively by the voters of the districts. 49 Am J1st States § 28.

See contempt of legislature.

Legis minister non tenetur, in executione officii sui, fugere aut retrocedere. A servant of the law is not bound in the execution of his office, either to flee or to retreat.

legisperitus. A person who is skilled or learned in the law; skilled or learned in the law.

legitim. The share of a father's movable property to which his children became entitled upon his death.

legitimacy. In the broad sense, the matter of lawfulness. In the usual sense, the matter of having a lawful parentage, that is, of having been born in lawful wedlock. Pratt v Pratt, 5 Mo App 539, 542.

See illegitimate child; legitimate child.

legitima potestas. Lawful power.

legitimate. Adjective: Lawful; of lawful parentage. Verb: To make lawful; to make legitimate. To effect a legitimation of an illegitimate child. McKamie v Baskerville, 86 Tenn 459, 461.

See legitimation.

legitimate child. A child born or begotten in lawful wedlock or a child born out of wedlock who has acquired the status of legitimacy by legitimation.

At common law, a legitimate child is one either born or begotten in wedlock, and where conception takes place during lawful wedlock, the subsequent dissolution of the marriage by death or divorce before birth of the child does not affect its legitimacy. Kowalski v Wojtkowski, 19 NJ 247, 116 A2d 6, 53 ALR2d 556.

See legitimation.

legitimate inferences. Those inferences that necessarily follow from certain evidence; legal inferences reasonably and legally to be drawn from the evidence. Re Little's Estate, 46 Cal App 776, 189 P 818.

legitimacy test. A blood-grouping test helpful in the determination of parentage. 23 Am J2d Dep § 211.

legitimated child. A child born out of wedlock who has acquired the status of legitimacy by the subsequent marriage of its parents or other method of legitimation. Hunter v Whitworth, 9 Ala 965.

See legitimation.

legitimation. In the broad sense, the act of giving the character of lawfulness to that which was unlawful. In the accepted sense, the act of giving the status of a legitimate child to one born out of wedlock, such being done sometimes by statute, at other times by a proceeding provided by statute, but most frequently by the subsequent marriage of the parents. 10 Am J2d Bast §§ 45 et seq.

legitimo per subsequens matrimonium. Legitimation through subsequent marriage, that is, the legitimation of a bastard child by the subsequent marriage of the child's parents. Blythe v Ayres, 96 Cal 532, 31 P 915.

legitimo modo acquietatus. Acquitted in a lawful manner. Poulterer's Case, 9 Coke 55b, 77 Eng Rep 813.

legitime. In Louisiana,—that portion of a father's estate reserved by law for those of his legitimate children who are living at the time of his death. Bauman v Pennywell, 160 La 555, 562, 107 So 425. That portion of a decedent's estate of which a forced heir is not to be deprived. Cox v Von Ahlefeldt, 50 La Ann 1266, 23 So 959.

See forced heir.

Legitime imperanti parere necesse est. It is necessary to obey a person who gives a lawful command.

legitimize. To legitimate; to make lawful.

See legitimation.

legitimus. Lawful; legitimate.

Legitimus haeres et filius est quern nuptiae demonstrant. The lawful son and heir is he whom the marriage shows to be such.

Legit ut clericus. He reads as a clerk.

Legit vel non?. Does he read or not?

This was the question put by the bishop to the ordinary upon presenting a convict who claimed benefit of clergy. The usual answer was, "Legit ut clericus," "He reads as a clerk."

Lego. (Latin.) I bequeath. I appoint.

leguleius. A person learned or versed in the law.

legum Anglicanarum conditor. The founder of the English laws, i. e., Alfred the Great.

le haut meer. (French.) The high sea.

leidgreve. Same as lath-reeve.

leipa. A fugitive; a fugitive from justice.

Le ley de Dieu et le ley de terre sont tout un, et Pun et l'un et l'autre preferre et favour le common et publique bien del terre. The law of God and the law of the land are all one, and both the one and the other preserve and favor the common and public good of the land.

[725]

Le ley est le plus haut enheritance que le roy ad, car par le ley, il mesne et touts ses sujets sont rules, et si le ley ne fuit, nul roy ne nul enheritance serra. The law is the highest inheritance which the king has, for by the law he himself and all his subjects are ruled, and if there were no law, there would be neither king nor inheritance.

Le mort saisit le vif. The death invests the living. Succession of Meunier, 52 La Ann 79, 26 So 776.

lend. To make a loan. Subject to construction, in a proper case where it appears in a will, as a word of gift, conveyance, or bequest. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1334.

lending agency. A loan company, a bank, or building and loan association.

lending credit. Standing as surety or guarantor of a person for the purpose of enabling him to obtain funds on credit or to obtain an extension of credit.

Lent. A period of forty weekdays preceding Easter Sunday, observed by Christians, as a period of great religious significance, in attendance at daily religious services and sometimes in fasting.

See Jack of Lent.

leod. The people; the country; the nation.

leodes. A vassal; a liege man.

leonina societas. A Roman-law term for a partnership deemed unlawful because one partner was wholly excluded from a share in the profits.

leper. A person afflicted with the disease of leprosy. Baltimore v Fairfield Improv. Co. 87 Md 352, 39 A 1081.

leper hospital. An institution for the confinement and care of lepers. 26 Am J1st Hospit § 19.

leproso amovendo. See de leproso amovendo.

leprosy. An infectious disease communicated by close contact characterized by scabs on the skin and in its extremity the wasting away of parts of the body, especially the fingers and toes.

Le roi veut en deliberer. The king wishes to deliberate upon it.

Le roy le veut. The king so wills it. See 1 Bl Comm 184.

Le roy remercie ses loyal subjects, accept leur benevolence, et ausi le vent. The king thanks his loyal subjects, accepts their benevolence, and wills it to be so. The formal expression of the king's assent to a bill of supply after it had passed both houses of parliament and had been presented to him for his approval. See 1 Bl Comm 184.

Le roy s'avisera. The king will advise upon it.—The formal expression of the king's refusal to assent to a bill which had passed both houses of parliament. See 1 Bl Comm 184.

les. (French.) The article "the" in the plural.

Le salut du peuple est la supreme loi. The welfare of the people is the supreme law.

lesbian. A female who is a homosexual. In the vernacular, a lady lover.

lese majeste. High treason.

Les fictions naissent de la loi, et non la loi des fictions. Fictions arise from law, and not law from fictions.

lesion. A hurt, loss, or injury to the body, or any morbid change in structure of organs or parts of the body. Warbende v Prudential Ins. Co. of America (CA7 Ill) 97 F2d 749. (French.) Loss. The injury suffered by one who does not receive a full equivalent for what he gives in a commutative contract.

The remedy given for this injury is founded on its being the effect of implied error or imposition. See Linkswiler v Hoffman, 109 La 948, 34 So 34.

Les lois ne se chargent de punir que les actions exterieures. The laws do not assume to punish other than overt acts.

lespedeza. An annual reseeding plant; a clover. Superior Oil Co. v Griffin (Okla) 357 P2d 987, 87 ALR2d 224.

lespend. A subordinate forest officer.

Les prelates, seigneurs, et commons, en ce present parliament assemblees, au nom de tous vous autres subjects, remercient tres humblement votre majeste, et prient a Dieu vous donner en sante bone vie et longue. The prelates, lords, and commons, in this present parliament assembled, in the name of all your other subjects, most humbly thank your majesty, and pray to God to grant you in health and wealth long to live. See 1 Bl Comm 84.

less or more. See more or less.

lessa. A legacy.

lessee. The party to a lease known as the tenant. The bailee under a lease of personalty.

There is authority to the effect that the presence or absence of possession of the premises is a distinguishing factor between the relationship of landlord and tenant and that of lessor and lessee—that is, the one relation is referable only to the contract, and the other to both the contract and the change in the possession of the premises. Thus, it has been said that the lessee is not a tenant until he enters into possession. Usually, however, the word "lessee" means the same as "tenant." 32 Am J1st L & T § 2.

lesser offense. See included offense.

lessor. One who has leased property to another. The party to a lease known as the landlord, at least where possession of the premises has been delivered under the lease. 32 Am J1st L & T § 2. The bailor under a lease of personalty.

See lease; lessee.

lessor of the plaintiff. The real party in interest who institutes the action in an action of ejectment.

less than freehold. A characterization of estates for years, estates at will, and estates at sufferance. 28 Am J2d Est § 130.

[726]

lestage. Same as lastage.

leswes. Pasture land.

let. To select a contractor from two or more bidders for the job. To lease or demise property.

The verbs "to let" and "to demise" are usually applied to real estate, and mean to lease or to convey, but both words contain the idea of a grant, and where they could only have been intended to convey the meaning of "assign," they will be given that meaning; as where the parties have used them as operative words applied to a transfer of timber rights and contracts passing such interest for ninety-one years. Atlantic & North Carolina Railroad Co. v Atlantic & North Carolina Co. 147 NC 368, 61 SE 185.

let contract. See letting.

lethal. Capable of producing death or great bodily harm. State v Godfrey, 17 Or 300, 20 P 625.

lethal weapon. A deadly weapon. 56 Am J1st Weap § 3. A weapon capable of producing great bodily harm.

A gun, sword, knife, pistol, or the like, is a lethal weapon, as a matter of law, when used within striking distance from the person assaulted; and all other weapons are lethal or not, according to their capacity to produce death or great bodily harm in the manner in which they are used. State v Godfrey, 17 Or 300, 20 P 625.

letter. A symbol of the alphabet, representing a sound, at least in theory. A communication, usually through the mail, by one person to another in the form of writing or typewriting. A classification of mailable matter; the first class of mailable matter. 41 Am J1st PO § 56.

As used in the statutes concerning thefts by postoffice employees, a letter is a writing or document, which bears the outward semblance of a genuine communication, and comes into the possession of the employee in the regular course of his official business, regardless of what he may know of its contents or genuineness. Hence, a decoy letter is as much a letter as any other, if it is regularly transmitted through the mails. See Goode v United States, 159 US 663, 671, 40 L Ed 297, 301, 16 S Ct 136.

See letters.

letter box. See mailbox.

letter carrier. A government employee as a carrier in the delivery of mail. 41 Am J1st P O § 32.

letterhead. The name, address, and usually the telephone number of the person, operation, partnership, or other business enterprise appearing at the top of the paper used in correspondence, together with short pertinent statements respecting the nature of the business.

letter missive. A summons issued by the chancellor directing a peer to defend a suit in equity; a royal letter nominating a bishop.

letter of advice. A written notice of an act which has been done by the writer. A drawer's communication to the drawee that a described draft has been drawn. UCC § 3-701(1). An instrument employed to decrease the risk of forgery of an international sight draft, notifying the drawee that a draft has been drawn and will be forthcoming. 11 Am J2d B & N § 60.

letter of attorney. See power of attorney.

letter of credence. A letter furnished to a diplomatic agent by the sovereign or other chief magistrate of his own state, which, being addressed to the sovereign or state to which such agent is delegated, states the general object of his mission and requests that full faith and credit be given to what he may say in behalf of his government. 4 Am J2d Ambss § 2.

letter of credit. Succinctly, a letter authorizing the addressee to pay money or supply a commodity to a third person on the credit of the writer. 24 Am J1st Guar § 20.

Wilbert Ward, in his "American Commercial Credits" at page 9, says: "A buyer who can place in the hands of a seller a written instrument by the buyer's bank, authorizing the seller to draw in accordance with certain terms, and stipulating in legal form that such bills will be honored, has at his command an instrument which will make his business more attractive to the seller than would otherwise be the case. An instrument by which a bank gives formal evidence of its willingness to undertake this class of operation for one of its customers is what has come to be known as a commercial letter of credit." Ernesto Foglino & Co. v Webster, 217 App Div 282, 293, 216 NYS 225, 234.

letter of introduction. A letter introducing a person to the addressee, sometimes mailed to the addressee but often carried and presented to him in person by the person to be introduced.

letter of license. An agreement entered into between an insolvent person and his creditors extending his time for payment.

letter of recall. A notice sent to a foreign government by another government of the recall of its ambassador or diplomatic representative.

letter of recommendation. A letter commending the services of a former employee and speaking of him in such terms as will tend to bring him to the favorable notice of one to whom he may apply for employment; sometimes being directed to whom it may concern and handed to the former employee to be carried by him, and sometimes directed specially to one to whom he proposes to make application for employment. 35 Am J1st M & S § 39.

letter of recredentials. The reply of a foreign government to a letter of recall.

See letter of recall.

letter of service. A letter of recommendation; a character reference. 35 Am J1st M & S § 39. A clearance card.

See clearance card; letter of recommendation.

letter press. An instrumentality formerly in general use in offices but rarely in use at present, for the making of copies of documents and letters.

letter press copy. A copy made by the use of a letter press.

letter requisitory. Same as letter rogatory.

letter rogatory. A request by a court made of a foreign court in writing to secure the aid of the foreign court, backed by its power, in obtaining desired information in the form of a deposition by a person within the jurisdiction of the foreign court or to obtain the production of a record within the jurisdiction of such court. 23 Am J2d Dep § 23.

While it is usual for a letter rogatory to be accompanied by written interrogatories, this is not essential, unless required by statute; in the absence of any such statutory provision, the testimony may be taken upon oral examination. The absence of written interrogatories may, however, affect the question whether the court in its discretion will honor the letters. Anno: 9 ALR 967, s.108 ALR 384; 23 Am J2d Dep § 23.

[727]

letters. A public or private document granting or delegating some power or authority.

See letter.

letters ad colligendum bona defuncti. Letters to collect the goods of the deceased.

Letters were thus designated which were issued to a person authorizing him to gather and keep in his safe custody the goods of a deceased person. Such letters neither made the person so appointed the executor nor the administrator of the estate of the decedent. See 2 Bl Comm 505.

letters avocatory. Letters officially summoning a citizen to return to his own country from a country with which it is at war, or warning him against the commission of unlawful acts.

letters close. Same as close writs.

letters of abolition. (Civil law.) Letters whereby a punishment for crime was remitted; but the infamy remained unless the letters had been issued before sentence.

letters of administration. The official exemplification of the record of the appointment of an administrator of a decedent's estate by the court. 31 Am J Ex & Ad § 89. Letters granted to a person by a probate court evidencing such person's authority to act as administrator of the estate of a person who has died without leaving a valid will. Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. v Tisdale, 91 US (1 Otto) 238, 23 L Ed 314.

letters of administration with the will annexed. Letters of administration issued in case no executor is appointed in the will or in case the person appointed in the will cannot qualify or refuses to do so.

letters of collection. Letters authorizing a person to gather and keep in his safe custody the goods of a deceased person; not the equivalent of letters testamentary or letters of administration. See 2 Bl Comm 505.

letters of fire and sword. Letters which were anciently directed to the sheriff of the county requesting him to gather all the force necessary to dispossess a tenant who remained in possession of land unlawfully.

letters of marque and reprisal. A commission issued during a state of war by one of the belligerent governments authorizing a privateer to attack the ships and seize the property of a hostile nation on the high seas. See 41 Am J1st Pir § 2.

letters of request. A written waiver of its jurisdiction by a lower ecclesiastical court to a higher one, requesting the higher court to take jurisdiction of a matter.

letters of safe conduct. Passports issued by a government in time of war.

letters of special administration. Letters issued to a special administrator upon his qualifying for the office.

See special administrator.

letters overt. Same as letters patent.

letters patent. The instrument evidencing the grant of a patent for an invention. 40 Am J1st Pat § 2. A royal or governmental grant of property, status, title, authority, or privilege.

letters rogatory. See letter rogatory.

letters testamentary. An official exemplification of the record of the appointment of an executor by the court. 31 Am J Ex & Ad § 91. Letters issued by a court of probate to a person as evidence of his authority and office as the executor of a deceased person's estate.

letting. An Americanism for the act of a public body or private owner for engaging a contractor for the construction of a building or other improvement, normally after bids for the work have been received, thus entailing the selection of a contractor from a number of bidders. Eppes v Mississippi, Gainesville & Tuscaloosa Railroad Co. 35 Ala 33, 55.

See letting contract.

letting contract. The steps in the formation and execution of a contract, particularly a public contract, including an advertising for bids, the reception of bids, and the award of the contract to the lowest bidder, provided he appears to be a responsible bidder.

letting of ship "on a lay." See letting of ship on shares.

letting of ship on shares. The transaction whereby the owner of a vessel lets her to the master who operates on shares or, as sometimes stated "on a lay."

The master is intrusted with entire possession and control, with the right to employ and navigate the vessel as he sees fit, and is required to victual and man her at his own expense. He collects the freights, and after deducting the expenses, divides the net earnings between himself and the owner in the agreed proportions. At a time when vessels were small, this practice was much in vogue. 48 Am J1st Ship § 335.

letting on shares. The making of a lease for crop rent.

See crop rent; letting of ship on shares.

letting out work. See letting contract.

letting premises. The making of a lease.

lettre de change. (French.) A bill of exchange.

leucite. An ore from which aluminum can be made. United States v Aluminum Co. of America (DC NY) 44 F Supp 97.

leukemia. A disease of the blood, the effects of which appear in the bone marrow, generally considered fatal. Kundiger v Prudential Ins. Co. 219 Minn 25, 17 NW2d 49.

levandae navis causa. For the purpose of lightening the ship.

levant. (French.) Rising up.

levantes et cubantes. Same as levant et couchant.

Levant et couchant. Rising up and lying down.

Cattle could not be distrained by a landlord if the lands were not sufficiently fenced to keep them out, until they had been levant et couchant; that is, until they had been there at least one night. See 3 Bl Comm 9.

[728]

levari facias. A common law writ similar to the writ of equitable origin known as sequestration. 47 Am J1st Seques § 2. A writ of execution commanding the sheriff to levy the plaintiff's debt on the lands and goods of the defendant and authorizing the sheriff to seize all the defendant's goods and receive the rents and profits of the land until satisfaction is made to the plaintiff. 30 Am J2d Exec § 29.

levee. An artificial embankment constructed to contain the flood waters of a river. Anno: 70 ALR 1275, 1278; 26 Am J2d Em D § 65. A landing place for vessels, and for the delivery of merchandise to and from such vessels, and, as incident to that, for the temporary storage of the merchandise. St. Paul v Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Co. 63 Minn 330, 63 NW 267, 65 NW 649, 68 NW 458.

levee commissioner. A public officer having duties in reference to the construction and maintenance of levees. Shelby v Alcorn, 36 Miss 273.

levee district. An improvement district created for the construction and maintenance of a levee. A quasi-public corporation like a railroad, not a political or civil division of the state and not created for political purposes nor for the administration of civil government, but created by statute with only such powers as are expressly or impliedly conferred. Board of Directors of St. Francis Levee District v Kurn (CA5 Mo) 98 F2d 394.

level premium. A life insurance premium in the same amount from year to year, such amount being computed on the basis that mortality cost is less during the early years of the insurance and greater in later years. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 56.

The level rate method is a recognized method of fixing rates of life insurance whereby the insured begins at once to pay an amount each year which will in the period of his expectancy be sufficient, with interest accretions to pay the face of his policy. Whether the step rate or level rate plan is used, the total amount paid is the same. Jenkins v Talbot, 338 111 441, 170 NE 735, 80 ALR 638.

level rate. See level premium.

level road. For the purposes of a statute requiring the headlights of motor vehicles to be such that under normal atmospheric conditions and on a "level road" they will produce a driving light sufficient to render clearly discernible all vehicles, persons, or substantial objects a specified distance ahead: -a road with a uniform grade, the provision applying irrespective of whether a car is traveling on a straight level stretch of road which is horizontal, or on an up grade or down grade. O'Rourke v Washington, 304 Pa 78, 155 A 100, 78 ALR 811.

Lever Act. A federal statute of August 10, 1917, re-enacted in the act of October 22, 1919, § 2 (41 Stat 297, c 80), penalizing the exaction of excessive prices upon the sale of necessaries in wartime. United States v L. Cohen Grocery Co. 255 US 81, 65 L Ed 516, 41 S Ct 298.

levlr. (Roman law.) The brother of a wife's husband; a wife's brother-in-law.

levis culpa. Ordinary fault or neglect.

levissima culpa. Slight fault or neglect.

levissima diligentia. Slight diligence. Brand v Troy & Schenectady Railroad Co. (NY) 8 Barb 368, 378.

Levitical degrees. The degrees of relationship between a man and a woman which bar their marriage to each other, as stated in the eighteenth chapter of Leviticus.

levy. An imposition whether of a tax, a burden upon property as authorized by a writ, or compulsory military service. Of tax: The acts of imposing and collecting a tax under authority of law. State v Camp Sing, 18 Mont 128, 44 P 516. The establishment or fixing of a rate of taxation by a duly authorized board or body. More narrowly defined as the imposition of the burden of the tax in the abstract, as distinguished from the ministerial duties in listing and assessment of property and the apportionment of the tax. Borrowdale v Socorro County, 23 NM 1, 163 P 721. Of attachment:—the seizure or taking of possession or custody of property under a writ of attachment by sheriff or other authorized officer. 6 Am J2d Attach § 288. An act symbolizing that land has become bound by the lien of an attachment, and endorsement on the writ of attachment that such has been levied upon property of the defendant, describing the same and noting the date and time of day of the levy, and some form of actual or constructive notice to the defendant of the levy. 6 Am J2d Attach § 311. Of execution:—an absolute appropriation of property of a judgment debtor to the payment of the judgment debt; a ministerial act. 30 Am J2d Exec § 95.

At common law a levy on goods consisted of an officer's entering the premises where they were and either leaving an assistant in charge of them or removing them after taking an inventory. Today courts differ as to what is a valid levy, but by the weight of authority there must be an actual or constructive seizure of the goods. 30 Am J2d Exec § 238. In most states, a levy on land must be made by some unequivocal act of the officer indicating his intention of singling out certain real estate for the satisfaction of the debt. The cases are not agreed on what this act must be, but the better considered ones hold that, in the absence of statute, a valid levy may be made by the sheriff by an endorsement thereof upon the records without even seeing the land, if he is sufficiently informed to describe it properly. 30 Am J2d Exec §§ 245 et seq.

levy at the risk of the plaintiff. An endorsement upon the writ of execution by the execution officer meaning, not only that the execution creditor has agreed to indemnify the execution officer for a wrongful levy, but also that the property may be left with the execution debtor until the sale at the risk of the execution creditor, so that the officer is relieved from responsibility to the execution creditor if the property is not produced at the date of the sale. Keyser's Appeal, 13 Pa 409.

levy court. The body which was at one time charged with the administration of the ministerial and financial duties of Washington county in the District of Columbia; a board which corresponded to the county commissioners and county supervisors of various states of the Union. Levy Court v Woodward (US) 2 Wall 501, 17 L Ed 851.

levying fine. A fictitious proceeding at common law to effect an alienation of land.

See fine to bar entail; fine to convey.

levying war. A term including, not only the act of making war for the purpose of overturning the government, but also any combination forcibly to oppose the execution of any public law of the United States, if accompanied or followed by an act of forcible opposition to such law in pursuance of such combination. Druecker v Salomon, 21 Wis 621.

[729]

War is actually levied when a body of men are actually assembled for the purpose of effecting by force a treasonable object. See Burr's Case (US) 4 Cranch 473, 2 L Ed 686.

levy of attachment. See levy.

levy of execution. See levy.

lewd. A characterization of an act of lewdness.
See lewdness.

lewd and lascivious association. An offense dependent upon repetition of the acts proscribed, single or occasional acts of sexual intercourse unaccompanied by any pretense of living together being insufficient to constitute the offense. Boswell v State, 48 Tex Crim 47, 85 SW 1076.

See lewd and lascivious conduct.

lewd and lascivious behaviour. See lewd and lascivious conduct.

lewd and lascivious conduct. An offense distinct from adultery. 2 Am J2d Adult § 16. Including in some instances acts of illicit intercourse but not the exact equivalent of illicit intercourse; continuing conduct in defiance of the standards of decency and constituting an affront to society. State v Brooks, 215 Wis 134, 254 NW 374, 94 ALR 401.

lewd house. A house to which people resort for lewd acts.

See house of ill fame.

lewdness. The unlawful indulgence of lust; sexual impurity; gross indecency with respect to the sexual relation. State v Rayburn, 170 Iowa 514, 153 NW 59.

The common-law offense of "lewdness" means open and public indecency, and in order to amount to an indictable crime it must always amount to a common nuisance, committed in a public place, and seen by persons lawfully in that place. 33 Am J1st Lewd etc § 2.

If a man and woman resort to a house of ill fame for the purpose of having sexual relations, her purpose is prostitution, and his, lewdness. State v Gardner, 174 Iowa 748, 156 NW 747, overrd on other grounds State v Frey, 206 Iowa 981, 988, 221 NW 445.

lewdly. Lustfully. With unlawful indulgence in lust. State v Lawrence, 19 Neb 307, 313.

lex. Law; a law; the law.

See the singular lex.

Lex aequitate gaudet; appetit perfectum; est norms recti. The law delights in equity; it grasps at perfection; it is the rule of right.

lex aeterna. The eternal law; the moral law; the law of nature; the law which God at the time of the creation of the nature of man infused into his heart, for his preservation and direction. Calvin's Case (Eng) 7 Co Rep 1a.

lex agraria. The agrarian law of the Romans, which limited the amount of land which could be held by a Roman citizen, and provided for the allotment of public lands among the people.

lex alimentaria. The Roman law which provided for the distribution of bread among the poor.

Lex aliquando sequitur aequitatem. The law sometimes follows equity.

lex amissa. A person who has lost his law; a person outlawed; one civilly dead.

Lex Angliae. The law of England.

Lex Angliae est lex misericordiae. The law of England is the law of mercy.

Lex Angliae non patitur absurdum. The law of England does not suffer an absurdity.

Lex Angliae nunquam matris, sed semper patris conditionem imitari partum judicat. The law of England never adjudges that their issue shall partake of the condition of the mother, but always of that of the father.

Lex Angliae nunquam sine parlamento mutari potest. The law of England never can be changed without parliament.

lex annale. The Roman law governing minimum ages for high officials.

lex apparens. Apparent law; manifest law; that is, the law which is apparent or made manifest in a trial by battle or trial by ordeal.

lex atilia. The atilian law,—the Roman law governing the appointment of guardians.

lex atinia. The atinian law,—the Roman law which prohibited the acquisition of title to stolen goods by long-continued possession.

Lex beneficalis rei consimili remedium praestat. A beneficial law furnishes a remedy in a similar case or matter.

lex brehonia. Brehon law,—an ancient system of Irish law.

Lex citius tolerate volt privatum damnum quam publicum malum. The law would rather tolerate a private loss than a public evil.

lex commissoria. A Roman law under which a pledge securing the payment of money was ipso facto forfeited upon the failure to make payment on the due date.

lex communis. The common law.

lex contractus. The law of the contract.

Lex contra id quod praesumit probationem non recipit. The law receives no proof which is contrary to that which it presumes.

lex Cornelia de falsis. The Cornelian law of falsifying,—a Roman law for the punishment of the forgery of the will of a person dying in captivity.

lex Cornelia de injuriis. A Roman law providing a civil action for injury suffered by a beating, or in the forcing into a strange dwelling. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 489.

lex Cornelia de sicariis et veneficis. (Roman law.) The Cornelian law for the punishment of assassins and poisoners.

Lex deficere non potest in justitia exhibenda. The law cannot be deficient in allowing justice.

Lex de futuro; judex de praeterito. The law provides for the future; the judge for the past.

lex dilationes semper exhorret. The law always abhors delays.

lex domicilii. The law of the domicil.

Lex est ab aeterno. Law is from eternity, that is, its origin is in eternity.

Lex est dictamen rationis. Law is the dictate of reason.

Lex est norma recti. Law is the rule of right.

Lex est ratio summa quae jubet quae sunt utilia et necessaria, et contraria prohibet. Law is the consummation of reason, which commands those things which are useful and necessary, and prohibits the contrary.

Lex est sanctio sancta, jubens honesta, et prohibens. Law is a sacred sanction, commanding that which is right and prohibiting the contrary.

Lex est summa ratio insita a natura quae jubet ea, quae facienda sunt prohibetque contraria. Law is the highest reason implanted in us by nature, which commands what should be done and prohibits the contrary.

Lex est tutissima crisis; sub clypeo legis nemo decipitur. Law is the safest helmet; under the shield of the law no one is deceived.

lex et consuetudo parlamenti. The law and the custom of parliament. See 1 Bl Comm 163.

Lex et consuetudo regni nostri. The law and the custom or usage of our kingdom; that is, the common law of England.

lex Falcidia. The Falcidian law,—a Roman statute of 714 A. D., which restricted the disposition of one's property by will or testament.

Lex favet doti. The law favors dower.

lex feudi. The law of the fee or feud.

Lex fingit ubi subsistit aequitas. The law fabricates where equity subsists.

lex fori. The law of the jurisdiction in which the litigation occurs, controlling all that part of the litigation which is concerned merely with remedy. 16 Am J2d Confl L § 11.

lex Furia Caninia. The Fusian Caninian law,—a Roman law which limited the manumission of slaves by will or testament.

lex Hostilia de furtis. (Roman law.) The Hostilian law concerning theft or larceny. See 4 Bl Comm 236.

lexicographical definition. A definition as given in a dictionary.

A correct construction of legislative language may not always be reached by a dogmatic adherence to the lexicographical definition. Anno: 101 ALR 566.

Lex intendit vicinum vicini facta scire. The law presumes that a neighbor is cognizant of the acts of his neighbor.

Lex judicat de rebus necessario faciendis quasi de re ipsa factis. The law judges of things which must necessarily be done as if they were really done.

lex Julia majestatis. (Roman law.) The Julian law concerning treason. See 4 Bl Comm 76.

lex ligeantiae. The law of the country of a person's allegiance.

lex loci. The law of the place in which the circumstances on which the action is based arose or occurred, controlling that part of the litigation concerned with the substantive right or basis of the cause of action. 16 Am J2d Confl L § 11.

lex loci actus. The law of the place of the act.

lex loci celebrationis. The law of the place where the contract or other obligation is solemnized, controlling on questions of form or of formal validity of a contract. Pritchard v Norton (US) 16 Otto 124, 27 L Ed 104, 1 S Ct 102.

lex loci commissi. The law of the place where the act was committed, controlling in reference to matters of substantive right or basis of a cause of action. 16 Am J2d Confl L § 11.

lex loci contractus. The law of the place of the contract,—that is, the law of the place where the contract is made.

As to the law governing the validity and construction of contracts see 16 Am J2d Confl L §§ 38 et seq.

lex loci delictis. The law of the place of the crime, the wrong, the tort.

lex loci rei sitae. The law of the place where the subject matter is situated.

lex loci sitae rei. The law of the place where the property lies. Crapo v Kelly (US) 16 Wall 610, 21 L Ed 430, 438.

lex loci solutionis. The law of the place of payment or performance. Pritchard v Norton (US) 16 Otto 124, 27 L Ed 104, 1 S Ct 102.

lex manifesta. Same as lex apparens.

lex mercatoria. The law merchant. 11 Am J2d B & N § 36.

See law merchant.

Lex necessitatis est lex temporis, i. e., instantis. The law of necessity is the law of the time; that is, of the present time.

Lex neminem cogit ad impossibilia. The law compels no one to perform that which is impossible.

[731]

This maxim is the foundation of the rule that an act of God excuses the failure to discharge a duty. Southern Pacific Co. v Schoer (CA8 Utah) 114 F 466.

Lex neminem cogit ad vane sea inutilia peragenda. The law does not compel anyone to perform vain or useless acts. Gordon v Massachusetts Fire & Marine Ins. Co. 19 Mass (2 Pick) 249, 259.

Lex neminem cogit ostendere quod nescire praesumitur. The law does not compel anyone to divulge that of which he is presumed to be ignorant.

Lex nemini facit injuriam. The law works injury to no one.

Lex nemini operator iniquum, nemini facit injuriam. The law works injustice to no one, does injury to no one.

Lex nil facit frustra, nil jubet frustra. The law does nothing in vain, commands nothing in vain.

Lex nil frustra facit. The law does nothing in vain.

Lex non cogit ad impossibilia. The law does not compel that which is impossible.

Lex non cogit ad vane sea inutilia. The law does not compel vain or useless things.

Lex non cogit sea ad vane aut impossibilia. The law does not compel either useless or impossible things. Green v Litter (US) 8 Cranch 229, 246, 3 L Ed 545, 551.

Lex non carat de minimis. The law does not pay attention to trifles.

Lex non deficit in justitia exhibenda. The law is not deficient in dispensing justice.

Lex non exacte definit, sed arbitrio boni viri permittit. The law does not define exactly, but allows for the judgment of a fair man. See 1 Bl Comm 61.

Lex non favet votis delicatorum. The law does not favor the wishes of the fastidious.

"Trifling results are disregarded, for the courts proceed with great caution, and will not interfere with the use of property by the owner thereof, unless such use is unreasonable, the injury material and actual, not fanciful or sentimental." McCarty v Natural Carbonic Gas Co. 189 NY 40, 81 NE 549.

Lex non intendit aliquid impossibile. The law does not require anything which is impossible. Chew Heong v United States, 112 US 536, 554, 28 L Ed 770, 776, 5 S Ct 255.

Lex non patitur fractiones et divisiones statuum. The law does not intend fractions and divisions of estates.

Lex non praecipit inutilia. The law does not require vain or useless things.

The maxim expresses rather an ideal than an accomplished fact. Rock Island, Arkansas & Louisiana Railroad Co. v United States, 254 US 141, 65 L Ed 188, 41 S Ct 55.

Lex non praecipit inutilia, quia inutilis labor stultus. The law does not command useless acts, because useless labor is silly.

Lex non requirit frustra. The law does not require a vain or useless thing.

Lex non requirit verificari quod apparet curiae. The law does not require that which is apparent to the court to be proved.

lex non scripta. The unwritten law.

lex parliaments. The laws of parliament. Kilbourn v Thompson (US) 13 Otto 168, 186, 26 L Ed 377, 385.

lex patriae. The law of one's country.

Lex plus laudatur quando ratione probatur. The law is more to be praised when it is approved by reason.

Lex posterior derogat prior. A later law repeals an earlier one.

Lex prospicit, non respicit. The law looks forward, it is not retrospective.

Lex punit mendacium. The law punishes falsehood or mendacity.

Lex pure poenalis obligat tantum ad poenam, non item ad culpam; lex poenalis mixta et ad culpam obligat et ad poenam. A law purely penal looks most at the punishment, not at the crime; a mixed penal law looks at both the crime and the punishment.

lex regia. The law which was ordained by the Roman emperor.

lex rei sitae. The law of the locality of the thing,—that is, the law in force at the place where the subject matter is situated, controlling all matters concerning the title and disposition of real property. 16 Am J2d Confl L § 14.

Lex rejicit superflua, pugnancia, incongrua. The law rejects those matters which are superfluous, repugnant, or incongruous.

Lex reprobat moram. The law disapproves of delay.

Lex respicit aequitatem. The law regards equity.

Lex Rhodia de jactu. The Rhodian law concerning jettison.

Historically, this law contributed to form the modern law of general average in marine insurance. Bernard v Adams, (US) 10 How 270, 303, 13 L Ed 417, 431.

lex Romana Visigothorum. See law of Alaric.

lex Salica. Same as Salic law.

lex scripts. Singular of leges scriptae.

Lex semper debet remedium. The law always gives a remedy; a common-law maxim. Smith v Bonsall (Pa) 5 Rawle 80, 89.

[732]

Lex semper intendit quod convenit rationi. The law always intends what is agreeable to reason. Williams v Hays, 157 NY 541, 52 NE 589.

lex situs. Same as lex rei sitae.

lex solutionis. The law of payment,—that is, the law relating to the performance of the contract.

See lex loci solutionis.

Lex spectat naturae ordinem. The law regards the order of nature.

lex sub graviore lege. A law subordinate to higher law.

"A state which has not the exclusive dominion over its territory, is more or less dependent and weak; and its 'eminent domain,' modified by the will of others, is lex sub graviore lege." Sneed v Ewing, 28 Ky 460.

Lex succurrit ignorantibus. The law succors ignorance.

Lex succurrit minoribus. The law aids minors.

lex talionis. The law of retaliation.

See retaliation.

lex terrae. The law of the land.

Lex uno ore omnes alloquitur. The law speaks to all with one mouth.

Lex vigilantibus favet. The law favors those who are vigilant.

Lex vigilantibus, non dormientibus. The law is for the vigilant, not for those who slumber. Toole v Cook (NY) 16 How Pr 142, 144.

Lex vigilantibus, non dormientibus subvenit. The law aids the vigilant, not those who slumber.

ley. Law; the law; an oath.

ley civile. The civil law; the civil law of the Romans.

ley gager. To wage one's law.

See wager of law.

leze majesty. Same as lèse majesté.

liability. Legal responsibility, either civil or criminal. The condition of being bound in law and justice to pay an indebtedness or discharge some obligation. Feil v Coeur D'Alene, 23 Idaho 32, 129 P 643. The state or condition of a person after he has breached his contract or violated any obligation resting upon him. Lattin v Gillette, 95 Cal 317, 30 P 545. A word of different meanings, the pertinent one to be gathered from the context in which it appears, construed in the light of surrounding circumstances. Evans v Kroh (Ky) 284 SW2d 329, 58 ALR2d 1446. Sometimes synonymous with "debt." Anno: 58 ALR2d 1453. Within the meaning of a statute of limitations:—under one view, a contract obligation; under another view, responsibility, embracing tort liability as well as contract liability. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 94. As the word appears in a limitation on the creation of debt or liability of a state in excess of a prescribed amount:—a term having special reference to the warrant and legislative authority on which a state contract must rest, and on which alone a public debt must find its sanction in order to obligate the state. 49 Am J1st States § 66.

liability created by statute. A liability created by a statute which discloses an intention, express or implied, that from disregard of the statutory command, a liability for damages will arise which would not exist but for the statute. Schmidt v Merchants Despatch Transp. Co. 270 NY 287, 200 NE 824, 104 ALR 450, reh den 271 NY 531, 2 NE2d 680. A liability which would not exist but for the statute. See Fidelity & Deposit Co. v Lindholm (CA9 Cal) 66 F2d 56, 89 ALR 279. A liability that comes into being solely by statute and has no existence prior to the enactment creating it. Steel v National Surety Corp. 74 Ariz 193, 245 P2d 960, 32 ALR2d 1236.

A cause of action recognized for centuries by the common law cannot be regarded as a "liability created by statute" within the meaning of a statute of limitations. Fratt v Robinson (CA9 Wash) 203 F2d 627, 37 ALR2d 636.

When the statute merely defines, in the interest of the general public, the degree of care which shall be exercised under certain specified circumstances, it does not "create" a new liability, but merely changes the standard which must be applied in an action to recover damages caused by lack of care. 35 Am J1st M & S § 467.

liability insurance. A policy or contract of insurance whereby the insurer agrees to protect the insured against liability arising from an act or omission of the insured which causes injury to the person or the property of a third person, the liability of the insurer attaching upon the determination that the insured is liable for such act or omission, notwithstanding the insured has not sustained a loss in payment, voluntary or involuntary, made to the third person. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 81; 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1343.

Such insurance is of recent origin when compared with fire insurance, and was unknown in this country prior to 1887, when it was introduced from England. Employers' Liability Assur. Corp. v C. E. Carnes & Co. (DC La) 24 F 128.

liability reserve. See reserve.

liability without fault. See absolute liability.

liable. Under liability or legal responsibility.
See liability.

libel. An initial pleading in a suit in admiralty; the pleading whereby litigation is brought into an Admiralty Court. 2 Am J2d Adm § 175. A malicious publication, expressed either in printing, writing, typewriting, or by signs and pictures, tending either to blacken the memory of one who is dead, or the reputation of one who is alive, and expose him to public hatred, contempt, or ridicule. 33 Am J1st L & S§3.

See innuendo; privileged communication; privileged occasion; publication.

libelant. Same as libellant.

libelee. Same as libellee.

libel in admiralty. The initial pleading in a suit in admiralty, corresponding to the declaration, complaint, or petition in an action or proceeding at law. 2 Am J2d Adm § 175.

See libel of information libellant. The complaining party in an admiralty or ecclesiastical suit.

[733]

libellee. The defendant in an admiralty or ecclesiastical suit.

libellous. Same as libelous.

libellus famosus. (Civil law.) A defamatory publication.

libel of accusation. A formal accusation charging a person with the commission of a criminal offense; an indictment.

libel of information. A pleading in a proceeding brought to obtain a forfeiture containing a substantial statement of the offense upon which the forfeiture is predicated. 23 Am J1st Forf & P § 15. A pleading in admiralty demanding a forfeiture because of breach of revenue, navigation, or other laws of the United States. 2 Am J2d Adm § 176 A pleading asking for the seizure and condemnation of property, such as adulterated or misbranded drugs. 21 USC § 334(a), (b).

libel of information for a forfeiture. See libel of information.

libel of review. A procedure provided for by the rules of some Admiralty Courts for demanding that the court correct or change its decree after the rendition thereof, and after expiration of the term in which it was rendered. 2 Am J2d Adm § 221.

libelous. Containing or constituting a libel; defamatory.

libelous per quod. Words which are not defamatory in themselves but may be shown, under proper allegation in the pleading and the proof, to constitute a libel. McDonald v Lee, 246 Pa 253, 92 A 135.

libelous per se. Written or printed words of such kind that when applied to a person they will necessarily cause injury to him in his personal, social, official, or business relations of life, so that legal injury may be presumed or implied from the bare fact of publication. 33 Am J1st L & S § 5. Written or printed words so obviously hurtful to the person aggrieved by them that no explanation of their meaning and no proof of their injurious character is required in order to make them actionable. Jerald v Huston, 120 Kan 3, 242 P 472.

liber. Noun: A book; a volume; one of the units of a published work, either literary or professional; a book in which public records are made Adjective: Free; freed.

libera chasea. Free chase,—the exclusive right to hunt in a chase or park.

libera eleemosyna. Frankalmoign or free alms,—a Saxon land tenure, which survived the Norman revolution, under which tenure an ecclesiastical corporation held land without fealty and merely by prayer service for the soul of the donor. See 2 Bl Comm 101.

libera faldia. Frank-fold or faldage, the right of the lord of the manor to have the sheep of his tenant manure his land; a term also applied to the fee paid by the tenant to the lord for exemption from the service of thus manuring.

liberal construction. A broad construction. A construction of the words of a contract, either singly or in connection with the subject matter, giving the words full effect so as to carry out the intention of the parties. 17 Am J2d Contr § 253. An interpretation of a statute which is within the reason and spirit of the statute or public policy which animates it, rather than the strict letter thereof; a fair or favorable construction so as to give the statute, if possible, a beneficial operation, one which will tend to promote and effectuate justice, in the interest of the public good, and avoid harsh or incongruous results. International Mercantile Marine Co. v Lowe (CA2 NY) 93 F2d 663, 115 ALR 896, cert den 304 US 565, 82 L Ed 1532, 58 S Ct 948; Fox Park Timber Co. v Baker, 53 Wyo 467, 784 P2d 736, 120 ALR 1020. An interpretation of an administrative rule in a manner similar to that applied in giving a statute a broad and liberal construction. Anno: 40 ALR2d 337, § 2[a].

libera lex. Frank law,—the aggregate rights of a freeman or a citizen.

liberam legem amittere. Same as legem amittere.

libera piscaria. Free fishery,—the exclusive right of fishing in a public river. Arnold v Mundy, 1 NJL 1.

liberare. To liberate; to deliver; to set free; to manumit; to discharge from a debt or other obligation; to release; to restore.

liberari facias. A writ of execution which commands the sheriff to set off real estate taken by him under the writ to the judgment creditor instead of selling it and appropriating the proceeds to the payment of the debt, the lands being appraised at the instance of the sheriff, so that the amount of the credit upon the judgment may be ascertained and made of record. See 7 Stand Pa Proc §§ 140 et seq.

liber assisarum. The book of the assizes,—the fourth volume of decisions reported in the reign of Edward the Third.

Liberata pecunia non liberat offerentem. A restoration of money does not free the offeror. That is, from a criminal charge.

liberate. Verb: To set free; to release from custody. Noun: A conditional writ, ordering the sheriff to cause goods, which have been taken on an extent sued out upon a statute staple, to be appraised, and to deliver them to the creditor, if he will accept them on the valuation thus set, by the appraisement, which he may do, or not, at his election. Re Reed, 21 Vt 635, 640.

liberatio. Livery; delivery; a payment for the delivery of a thing.

liberation. The act of setting free, discharging or releasing from custody. (Civil law.) A payment made for the discharge of, or release from, a contract.

See emancipation; independence.

libera warrena. Free warren,—the liberty, franchise, or royalty, derived from the crown, of taking or killing all inferior species of game, called beasts and fowls of warren. See 2 BI Comm 417.

liber bancus. Free bench,—a widow's dower in copyhold lands, which she usually held subject to the condition that she should remain chaste and unmarried. See 2 BI Comm 129.

liber et legalis homo. A free and lawful man; a juryman.

Liber Feudorum. The book of fiefs or feuds,—a code of feudal law which was compiled and published in the twelfth century.

[734]

liber homo. A freeman; one who owns a freehold and has freedom of mind; that is, a man who, as a member of a jury, can render an unbiased verdict. Turner v State, 128 Tenn 27, 157 SW 67.

liberi. (Saxon.) Freemen; landholders whose tenure was allodial,—who did not hold under a superior. (Latin.) Children. The young.

liberi et legales homines. Freeholders and lawful men. Turner v State, 128 Tenn 27, 157 SW 67. Qualified for duty as jurors as having, not only a freehold, but freedom of mind to stand indifferent as between the persons involved in the litigation, no more inclining to the one than to the other. Turner v State, 128 Tenn 27, 157 SW 67.

liberi et legales homines de vicineto. Free and lawful men of the vicinage, that is, freeholders, without just exception, and of the visne or neighborhood; which is interpreted to be of the county where the fact is committed. People of California v Powell, 87 Cal 348, 25 P 481.

liberis. See liberi.

liberi sokemanni. Tenants in free socage; tenants who held their lands by services which were not only certain, but honorable. See 2 Bl Comm 79.

Liber Judicialis. The Dome Book of King Alfred which probably contained the principal maxims of the common law, the penalties for misdemeanors, and the forms of judicial proceedings. 1 Bl Comm 65.

Liber Judiciarum. Same as Liber Judicialis.

libero maritagio. Same as liberum maritagium.

libero passagio. See de libero passagio.

libertas. Liberty; freedom; a license; a privilege; an immunity; a franchise.

libertas ecclesiastica. Ecclesiastical liberty or immunity.

Libertas est naturalis facultas ejus, quod cuique facere libet, nisi quod de jure aut vi prohibetur. Liberty is a person's natural power of doing as it may please him, unless that is prohibited by law or by force.

Libertas inestimabilis res est. Liberty is a thing of inestimable value.

Libertas non recipit aestimationem. Liberty does not admit of valuation.

Libertas omnibus rebus favorabilior est. Liberty is more favored than all other things.

libertate probanda. See de libertate probanda.

Libertates regales ad coronam spectantes ex concessione regum a corona exierunt. Royal privileges relating to the crown have issued from the crown by royal grant. libertatibus allocandis. See de libertatibus allocandis.

liberti. (Roman law.) Persons who were freed from slavery; freedmen.

liberticide. A destroyer of liberty or freedom.

liberties. Privileged communities or districts. The fundamental rights and privileges of the people guaranteed by the Constitution of the United States and the state constitutions.

See liberty.

liberties of the jail. Graphically, an extension of the walls of a jail. Peters v Henry (NY) 6 Johns 121. The area, within limits prescribed by statute, wherein a prisoner for debt may live or sojourn upon giving bond or other security for such accommodation. Dole v Moulton (NY) 2 Johns Cas 205, 206.

See liberty of the rules.

libertine. One who lacks moral restraint. A licentious person.

libertini. Same as liberti.

Libertinum ingratum leges civiles in pristinam servitutem redigunt; sed leges Angliae semel manumissum semper liberum judicant. The civil laws reduce an ungrateful freedman to his former servitude, but the laws of England adjudge a person who has been once manumitted or freed to be always free.

libertinus. Same as libertus, the singular of liberti. libertus. Singular of liberti.

liberty. Absence of servitude and restraint. A most broad and extensive concept, embracing every form and phase of individual right that is not necessarily taken away by some valid law for the common good. Wright v Hart, 12 NY 330, 75 NE 404. The right to do such acts as one may judge best for his interest, not inconsistent with the rights of others. Ex parte Drexel, 147 Cal 763, 82 P 429. The right to protection from violation of any of the fundamental conceptions of justice which lie at the base of our civil and political institutions. 16 Am J2d Const L § 358.

As the word is used in the United States Constitution, it means not only freedom of the citizen from servitude and restraint, but is deemed to embrace the right of every man to be free in the use of his powers and faculties, and to adopt and pursue such avocation or calling as he may choose, subject only to the restraints necessary to secure the common welfare. There can be no liberty, protected by government, that is not regulated by such laws as will preserve the right of each citizen to pursue his own advancement and happiness in his own way, subject only to the restraints necessary to secure the same right to others. The fundamental principle upon which liberty is based, in free and enlightened government, is equality under the law of the land. Braceville Coal Co. v People, 147 111 66, 35 NE 62.

See life, liberty, and property; life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness. See also "freedom" and phrases beginning "freedom."

liberty guaranty. See guaranty of liberty.

liberty of contract. The right to make a contract and the right to terminate a contract subject only to civil liability for unwarranted termination, both of which rights are protected by the United States Constitution. 16 Am J2d Const L § 373. The right to acquire and possess property and to contract concerning it. Lawrence v Rutland Railroad Co. 80 Vt 370, 67 A 1091. Not an absolute guaranty of freedom to contract without reference to the nature of the contract as perverse, contrary to good morals, or in contravention of sound public policy, but a guaranty against arbitrary or unreasonable restraint upon the right to contract. Lochner v State, 198 US 45, 49 L Ed 937, 25 S Ct 539; Moore v Grillis, 205 Miss 865, 39 So 2d 505, 10 ALR2d 1425; State ex rel. Davis-Smith Co. v Clausen, 65 Wash 156, 117 P 1101. The right granted by a statute to vary the operation of the statute in particular respects by agreement. UCC § 1-102(3)4).

[735]

liberty of port. A phrase in a marine insurance policy which permits use to be made by the insured vessel of a specified port.

The words, "with liberty" of a certain port, do not necessarily give notice to the insurer that the object of the privilege is to trade at that port, and procuring such words to be inserted is not an unequivocal intimation of the nature of the cargo insured; nor is it an intimation to the underwriters that the insured looks to such port, under any circumstances in the contemplation of the parties, as that at which the voyage is designed to terminate. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 992.

liberty of speech. See freedom of speech and of the press.

liberty of the globe. As used in a policy of marine insurance, an expression employed to signify that the vessel shall have the liberty to go to any part of the world. Eyre v Marine Insurance Co. (Pa) 6 Whart 247, 254.

liberty of the press. See freedom of speech and of the press.

liberty of the rules. A privilege, which was sometimes allowed an imprisoned debtor, of living outside the prison, but within prescribed limits.

The territory or district, which is also called "bounds," surrounding the walls of a jail or prison, where a prisoner who has been accorded the "liberty of the prison rules" may go. Ever since the establishment of the prison rules in England, the courts there have held the rules as being in effect an extension of the walls of the jail. The jailer is not bound to allow a prisoner the liberty of the prison rules, unless he shall give bond and security not to depart therefrom. Steinman v Tabb, 6 Ky (3 Bibb) 202.

liberty pole. A flagpole, usually one erected in exhibiting a patriotic spirit during wartime. A pole raised by rioters as a symbol of dissatisfaction with the government. Commonwealth v Morrison (Pa) 1 Addison 274, 275.

See pole-raising.

liberty to contract. See liberty of contract.

liberty to hold pleas. The privilege of holding a court, which was allowed certain manors.

Liberum corpus aestimationem non recipit. The body of a freeman does not admit of valuation.

Liberum est cuique apud se explorare an expediat sibi consilium. Each one is free to determine for himself whether he requires counsel or advice.

liberum et commune socagium. Free and common socage. See 2 Bl Comm 82.

liberum maritagium. Frankmarriage.

An estate in liberum maritagium or frankmarriage was a kind of entailed estate where a tenement was given by one man to another, together with a wife, who was the daughter or cousin of the donor, to hold in frankmarriage; that is, the donees were to have the tenement to them, and the heirs of their two bodies begotten and they were tenants in special tail. See 2 Bl Comm 115.

liberum servitium. Free service.

Free services, under the feudal system, were such as were not unbecoming the character of a soldier or a freeman to perform; as to serve under the lord in his wars, to pay a sum of money, and the like. See 2 Bl Comm 60.

liberum socagium. Free socage.

liberum tenementum. A freehold estate. A plea in an action of trespass quare clausum brought by a person in actual possession of the land, asserting title to the property in the defendant, and the right to immediate possession, but admitting possession in the plaintiff and a color of right thereto. 52 Am J1st Tresp § 69.

liblac. (Saxon:) Witchcraft.

liblacum. Same as liblac.

libra. A pound; a pound in English money.

libra arsa. A burned pound; that is, a pound tested by melting and assaying.

libra numerata. A numbered or counted pound, a pound in English money, ascertained by counting the coins.

libra pensa. A weighed pound, a pound in English money, ascertained by weighing the coins.

librarian. A person in charge of a library, often with special training in library work, having the status of a public officer where the library is a public library maintained by state, county, or city. Anno: 140 ALR 1085.

Librarian of Congress. A federal officer in general charge of the Congressional Library.

librarius. (Roman law.) A transcriber of books; a copyist; an amanuensis.

library. A public or private place wherein books are kept for reference and use, often for lending to patrons of the city, village, or vicinity.

See public library.

library fee. The fee paid by a college student for use of the library. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 19.

Admission into the Kansas State University is made free by statute, and the Board of Regents has no power to collect a fee for the use of the library or to exclude students from the use of the library for the nonpayment of such fee. State ex rel. Little v University of Kansas, 55 Kan 389, 40 P 656.

Library of Congress. A library established by Congress in 1800 for its use, the services of which have been extended for benefit of governmental agencies, other libraries, students, and the public, such institution occupying buildings opposite the Capitol at Washington D.C.

[736]

librata. A pound-land; a piece of land yielding an annual rent of one pound.

libripens. (Roman law.) A scale holder; a weigher.

Librorum appellatione continentur omnia volumina, sive in charta, sive in membrana sint, sive in quavis alia materia. Within the meaning of the term "books" is included all volumes, whether of paper, of parchment, or of some other material.

Libson Shops. A leading case wherein the United States Supreme Court ruled that a net operating loss carry over could be used in reduction of taxable income only against income from the very same business which incurred the loss. Libson Shops, Inc. v Koehler, 353 US 382, 1 L Ed 2d 924.

licenciado. (Spanish.) An attorney; a lawyer.

license. Unrestrained conduct. A special privilege, not a right common to all. The privilege conferred by a public body on a person for the doing of something which otherwise he would not have the right to do. 33 Am J1st Lic § 2. Permission to exercise a right or privilege which has been subjected to regulation. Madden v Queens County Jockey Club, 296 NY 249, 72 NE2d 697, 1 ALR2d 1160. A requirement imposed by way of regulation of an occupation or business such as the business of selling intoxicating liquors. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 116.

A transfer by the owner of a patent right of an interest therein less than that passing by an assignment, being the granting to the licensee of the right to make, use or vend the patented article. 40 Am J1st Pat § 146. Permission to make use of a copyrighted work exclusive of others or to use the work in a particular manner or for particular purposes. Black v Henry G. Allen Co. (CC NY) 42 F 618.

See certificate; implied license; irrevocable license; leave and license; parol license.

license coupled with an interest. A license in real property which confers the right, not the mere permission, to perform an act or acts upon the property, thereby being irrevocable and constituting an interest in the land itself. 33 Am J1st Lic § 101.

licensed material. Source material, special nuclear material, or by-product material received, possessed, used, or transferred under a general or specific license issued by the Atomic Energy Commission pursuant to the regulations of such Commission. 10 CFR Cum Supp § 20.3(a) (8).

licensed vessel. A vessel licensed by the United States for use in the coasting trade and fisheries. 48 Am J1st Ship § 48.

See registry of vessel.

licensee. A person who enters upon the property of another for his own convenience, pleasure, or benefit, his presence being tolerated, not invited, by the person in possession. Greenfield v Miller, 173 Wis 184, 180 NW 834, 12 ALR 982. A person possessing a license, such as a license to practice a particular profession.

license fee. The charge made for the issuance of a license, such being a tax where imposed for revenue, not merely to defray the expense of issuing the license. An imposition or exaction on the right to use or dispose of property, to pursue a business, occupation, or calling, or to exercise a privilege. 33 Am J1st Lic § 2.

license in real property. A personal, unassignable, and ordinarily revocable, privilege conferred either by writing or parol for the doing of one or more acts on land without possessing any estate therein, thereby rendering legal an act or acts which otherwise would be trespasses. 33 Am J1st Lic § 91.

See license coupled with an interest.

license plate. A metal or plastic plate upon which the license or registration number of an automobile or motor truck appears, the requirement being that such plate shall be attached to the automobile in such manner and at such a place that the number be clearly visible.

license tax. Same as license fee.

license to mine. See mining license.

licensing driver. See operator's license.

licensing motor vehicle. A statutory requirement, the purpose of which is to facilitate the supervision of such vehicles, their movement and control, and to establish their identity in relation to the public and to any resultant damage or injury they may cause. 7 Am J2d Auto § 50.

licensor. The grantor of a license.

licentia concordandi. Leave to agree the suit.

In levying a fine to effect a conveyance of land, as soon as the action was brought, the defendant, knowing himself to be in the wrong, was supposed to make overtures of peace to the plaintiff, whereupon the plaintiff asked the court's leave to agree to a settlement or concord. See 2 Bl Comm 350.

licentia loquendi. The liberty of speaking; that is, time for the defendant to talk to the plaintiff for the purpose of ending the controversy without further litigation. See 3 Bl Comm 299.

licentia regis. See ex licentia regis.

licentia surgendi. The privilege of rising,—the duration of the time allowed upon an essoin de malo lecti, that is, upon an excuse for nonappearance at court by reason of illness in bed.

licentiate. The holder of a license permitting him to practice a profession or calling.

licentia transfretandi. A writ to cause a port warden to honor a royal license permitting the holder to pass out of the port.

licentiously. In a licentious manner; freely; loosely; dissolutely. State v Lawrence, 19 Neb 307, 314.

licentiousness. Lack of moral restraint. The acts of a libertine. In an older sense, ruthless disregard of the rights of others.

licere. To be allowed or permitted by law; to be lawful.

licet. It is allowed or permitted by law; it is lawful. Adverb: Although; notwithstanding.

Licet cepit non asportavit. Although he took, he did not carry away.

Licet dispositio de interesse futuro sit inutilis, tamen potest fieri declaratio praecedens quae sortiatur effectum interveniente novo actu.

[737]

Although the disposition of a future interest is ineffectual, yet a declaration precedent can be made which will take effect upon the intervention of a new act.

licet saepe requisitus. Although often requested or demanded.

licet saepius requisitus. Although he was often requested,—a general averment in formal words, which strictest rules of pleading required the plaintiff to insert in a common law declaration for breach of contract. Lent v Padelford, 10 Mass (10 Tyng) 230, 239.

Licita bene miscentur, formula nisi juris obstet. Things which are allowed by law may well be mingled, unless a form of law forbid.

licitare. (Roman law.) To bid; to bid at a public sale or auction; to outbid at an auction sale.

licitation. (Civil law.) Also called "cant," –a mode of dividing property held in common by two or more persons. Hayes v Cuny (La) 9 Mart 87, 89. (Roman law.) The bidding at an auction sale.

licitator. (Roman law.) A bidder at an auction or sale.

Lidford law. Same as Jedwood justice.

lie. Verb: To be appropriate as a remedy. To tell a falsehood knowingly. Noun: A prevarication; an untruth told knowingly.

lie detector. An instrument, sometimes called a pathometer, whose advocates claim for it that when attached to a witness, it will indicate whether he is testifying truthfully or not. People v Forte, 279 NY 204, 18 NE2d 31, 119 ALR 1198. An instrumentality used with some success to determine whether a person is telling the truth, being adapted to the registering of the blood pressure of a person being interrogated as he responds with answers to the questions propounded to him, the principle being that the blood pressure of a person changes upon the exertion of a conscious effort to tell an untruth. Anno: 34 ALR 147, s. 86 ALR 616. An instrumentality comparable to the blood pressure test but applied to the respiration, its operation being based upon the hypothesis that a person's breathing varies according to whether or not he is telling the truth. 29 Am J2d Ev § 831.

See truth serum.

lie detector test. A test made by lie detector.

See lie detector.

liege. The state of a person who is bound in fealty to a superior.

liege fee. See feudum ligium.

liege homage. Such homage or allegiance as was due the king alone, irrespective of tenure. See 1 Bl Comm 367.

liege lord. A superior lord; a sovereign lord; the king.

liegeman. A person from whom allegiance was due to a superior.

liege poustie. The condition of a person's health prerequisite to his freedom in alienating his property either by deed or by will.

lie in franchise. Descriptive of the status of property open to be taken without resort to an action.

lie in grant. Descriptive of a status of property. Property lies in grant when it can be transferred from one person to another by grant alone; as in the case of incorporeal hereditaments such as advowsons, commons, rents, and reversions, which pass by deed alone, since delivery of them cannot be made. See 2 Bl Comm 317.

lie in livery. Descriptive of a status of property. Property lies in livery when livery of seisin is essential to its transfer from one person to another; as in the case of all corporeal hereditaments, such as lands and houses. See 2 Bl Comm 317.

lie in prender. See in prender.

lie in render. See in prender.

lie in wait. See lying in wait.

lien. A charge upon property for the payment or discharge of a debt or duty. The right which the law gives to have a debt satisfied out of a particular thing; a proprietary interest which, in a given case, may be exercised over the property of another. 33 Am J1st Liens § 2. In the aspect of a common-law lien, the mere right in one person to retain that which is in his possession belonging to another until certain demands of the person in possession are satisfied. Agnew v American Ice Co. 2 NJ 291, 66 A2d 330, 10 ALR2d 232.

The word "lien" is of the same origin as the word "liable," and the right of lien expresses the liability of certain property for a certain legal duty, or a right to resort to it in order to enforce that duty. Wood's Appeal, 30 Pa 274, 277.

There are a great variety of liens, such as banker's lien; factor's lien; mechanic's lien, etc.

lien by judicial proceeding. An expression, of particular significance in the law of bankruptcy, for a lien obtained by attachment, judgment, levy, or other legal or equitable process or proceeding. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1022.

See attachment lien; judgment lien.

lien by legal proceeding. See lien by judicial proceeding.

lien creditor. A creditor who holds a lien for the debt owed to him.

lienee. The owner of property subject to a lien.

lienholder. The holder or owner of a lien.

lienor. The holder or owner of alien upon the real or personal property of another.

lieu. See in lieu of.

lieu conus. A well-known place.

lieu lands. Lands of the public domain open to settlement by persons holding unperfected but bona fide claims to public lands, in lieu of the lands covered by such claims. 42 Am J1st Pub L § 15.

lieu taxes. Taxes on transportation or communication companies measured by the amount of their gross receipts, imposed in lieu of all other taxes upon the property of such concern or in lieu of taxes on certain classes of their property, such as that necessary to the carrying on of the business for which they were organized. Anno: 80 ALR 261, 277-279.

lieutenant. A deputy; a substitute; an agent. An officer of the United States Army, either a first lieutenant or a second lieutenant, the latter being the lowest in rank of the commissioned officers, the former being intermediate in rank between second lieutenant and captain. An officer of the United States Navy, ranking immediately below lieutenant commander and immediately above lieutenant junior grade.

[738]

lieutenant colonel. An officer of the United States Army, also of the Air Force, in rank immediately above major and immediately below colonel.

lieutenant commander. An officer of the United States Navy, in rank immediately below commander and immediately above lieutenant.

lieutenant general. A high ranking officer of the United States Army, ranking immediately below a general and immediately above a major general.

lieutenant governor. A state officer, usually the presiding officer of the senate or higher body of the state legislature, and usually the officer succeeding to the duties of the governor in the event of the tatter's death, resignation, removal, incapacity, or other event rendering him incapable of performing the duties of the office. 24 Am J1st Gov § 8.

lieutenant junior grade. An officer of the United States Navy, ranking immediately above an ensign and immediately below a lieutenant.

life. Existence as an animate being.

See beginning of life; expectation of life; full life; lives in being; natural life.

life annuity. An obligation to pay to a specified person a specified sum each year during the remainder of lifetime.

See annuity.

life assurance. Same as life insurance.

lifeboat. A boat carried by a ship for use in event of a forced abandonment of the ship. 48 Am J1st Ship § 361. A boat used by the Coast Guard in rescuing shipwrecked crew or passengers of vessels or other persons in danger of perishing in the sea.

life estate. An estate to be held by grantee or devisee for the term of his own life, or for that of another person, or for more lives than one. 28 Am J2d Est § 56; 33 Am J1st Life Est § 2. An estate of freehold, not of inheritance. 28 Am J2d Est § 56.

A life estate in land is real estate. Croasdale v Butell, 177 Kan 487, 280 P2d 593, 49 ALR2d 1112.

Under the modern law, a life estate and future interest, usually by way of remainder, may be created in personal property. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 5.

life estate by operation of law. A life estate which comes into existence without any act of the parties, such as that which springs from curtesy or dower. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 2.

life expectancy. See expectation of life.

life expectancy table. See mortality table.

lifeguard. A person employed at a beach, swimming pool, or on a ship or boat to effect a rescue of persons in danger of drowning or to prevent swimmers from getting into dangerous waters.

life imprisonment. Imprisonment as punishment for a criminal offense for the lifetime of the offender. State v Evans, 73 Idaho 50, 245 P2d 788.

life insurance. A contract, known as a policy, by which the insurer in consideration of the payment to it by the insured of a certain sum, or certain sums, of money known as a premium or premiums, measured and proportioned in amount according to factors affecting the risk of death, such as the age, health, and occupation of the insured, assumes the risk of insured's death by agreeing to pay a fixed amount to the estate of the insured or a beneficiary designated by the insured; or, in the case of an endowment policy, agrees to pay the insured the amount of the policy in one sum, or in an annuity, upon the expiration of the endowment period during the life of the insured. Tyler v Treasurer, 226 Mass 306, 115 NE 300; Fox v Swartz, 235 Minn 337, 51 NW2d 80, 30 ALR2d 739; St. John v American Mut. Life Ins. Co. 13 NY 31. Not a contract of indemnity. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 4.

life insurance company. A corporation engaged in the business of issuing policies or contracts of life insurance.

See mutual insurance company; reserve; stock company.

life insurance contract. See life insurance.

life insurance policy. See life insurance.

life interest. An interest in property which is to terminate upon the death of the holder of the interest, or upon the death of some other designated person.

See life estate.

life, liberty, and property. A phrase encompassing every right to which a member of the body politic is entitled under the law. Gillespie v People, 188 Ill 176, 58 NE 1007. The rights of self-defense, freedom of speech, religious and political freedom, exemption from arbitrary arrest, the right freely to buy and sell as others may, the right to labor, to follow an occupation, to contract, to terminate contracts, to acquire property, and the right to all liberties, personal, civil, and political—in short, all that makes life worth living. 16 Am J2d Const L § 357.

The term within the meaning of constitutional guaranties of life, liberty, and property does not consist simply of the right to freedom from arbitrary physical restraints or servitude, but includes the right to be free in the use of one's faculties in all lawful ways, to earn one's livelihood where and how he will, subject to such restraints as are necessary for the common welfare. State v Ballance, 229 NC 764, 51 SE2d 731, 7 ALR2d 407.

life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness. Inalienable, fundamental and inherent rights. 16 Am J2d Const L § 346. Substantially the same rights comprehended by the phrase life, liberty, and property. Ruhstrat v People, 185 Ill 133, 57 NE 41; Wyeth v State, 200 Mass 474, 86 NE 925. Inclusive of the enjoyment of all the comforts and pleasures which man's physical, intellectual, and moral nature is capable of acquiring and enjoying by the application and exercise of the various faculties with which he is endowed, and of all that the world can afford him. Lawrence E. Tierney Coal Co. v Smith, 180 Ky 815, 203 SW 731, 4 ALR 1540.

life or limb. See injury to life or limb.

life peerage. The dignity or rank of a baron conferred upon a man by letters patens of the king, to endure for the lifetime of the man and no longer.

That is, the dignity of a life peerage does not descend to the heir. See 1 Bl Comm 401.

life policy. A written contract of life insurance.

See life insurance.

life preserver. A garment or other device worn in water for the purpose of keeping the body afloat, thereby saving the person from drowning. A weapon carried for self-defense.

life-rent. Same as life estate.

life-renter. The holder of a life-rent.

lifesaving station. A building at the seashore for the housing of men and boats to be used as necessary for the saving of the lives of persons imperiled by shipwreck or other marine disaster, or otherwise placed in peril of drowning.

life sentence. See sentence.

life tables. See mortality tables.

life tenancy. See life estate; life tenant.

life tenant. A person who has a life estate, such interest giving him the status of a freeholder. 28 Am J2d Est § 56.
See life estate.

lifetime transfer. Same as inter vivos transfer.

life trustee. A trustee of a business trust holding the office for life. Anno: 156 ALR 138.

LIFO. Abbreviation of last in, first out.

lift. A lifting jack. An elevator in England.
See lifting jack.

lifting corporate veil. Disregarding the corporate entity where to recognize it as something distinct from the incorporators or stockholders results in a violation of public policy. 18 Am J2d Corp § 14.

lifting hand. A formality in the taking of an oath. 39 Am J1st Oath § 13.

lifting jack. A device for raising heavy objects, particularly motor vehicles, for convenience in accomplishing repair work or servicing upon the vehicle. 24 Am J1st Gas Sta § 23. An elevator in England.

liga. A league; an association.

ligan. Goods cast into the sea by shipwreck or in order to save a ship, tied to a buoy. 48 Am J1st Ship § 647. A subject of salvage. 47 Am J1st Salv § 3.

ligare. To bind together; to unite; to join a league.

ligealty. Allegiance.

The fundamental principle of the common law with regard to English nationality was birth within the allegiance, also called "ligealty," "obedience," "faith," or "power," of the king. The principle embraced all persons born within the king's allegiance, and subject to his protection. United States v Wong Kim Ark, 169 US 649, 655, 42 L Ed 890, 893, 18 S Ct 456.

ligeance. Allegiance.
See ligealty.

ligeantia. Ligeance; allegiance.
See ligealty.

ligeantiae actoris. See forum ligeantiae actoris. ligentiae rei. See forum ligeantiae rei.

Ligeantia est quasi legis essentia; est vinculum fidei. Allegiance is, as it were, the essence of the law; it is the bond of faith.

Ligeantia naturalis nullis claustris coercetur, nullis metis refraenatur, nullis finibus premitur. Natural allegiance is restrained by no bars, held by no boundaries, compressed by no limits.

light. See ancient lights; easements of light, air, and view.

light, air, and view. Neither appurtenances nor hereditaments in the absence of an easement. 1 Am J2d Adj L § 89.
See easements of light, air, and view.

light and air. See easements of light, air, and view.

light company. See electric company; gas company.

light easement. See easements of light, air, and view.

lighter. A vessel of shallow draft used in transporting cargo to and from a ship anchored in deep water, shallow water preventing the docking of the ship at the wharf. The Mamie (DC Mich) 5 F 813, 820. A vessel for the purpose of admiralty jurisdiction. The Mackinaw (DC Or) 165 F 351.

lighterage. The transportation of goods by lighter or barge; the charge for transportation by lighter. Western Transportation Co. v Hawley (NY) 1 Daly 327, 332.

lighterman. The proprietor of a lighter.

light fixture. An instrumentality affixed to the ceiling or wall of a building, through which insulated wires carrying electricity are run and to which bulbs for illumination are fastened.

The authorities are conflicting as to whether gas and electric light fixtures retain their quality of personal property when put into place in buildings. Some of the authorities consider that such attachments are fixtures in the true sense of the term, but the greater number of authorities hold that they should not so be considered. 35 Am J2d Fixt § 127.

lighthouse. A comparatively tall structure erected at or near the shore of the ocean or body of water, wherein a light is displayed for the purpose of warning ships during hours of darkness of dangers in shoals or rock.

lighting regulations. Building regulations promulgated primarily for purposes of health. Daniels v Portland, 124 Or 677, 265 P 790, 59 ALR 512.

lighting way. Illuminating a highway or street by artificial lights. 25 Am J1st High § 70.

light manufacturing district. A zoning law classification intended to keep out heavy industries such as cement works, steel mills, paper mills, etc. 58 Am J1st Zon § 33.

light money. A duty, additional to tonnage duties, paid upon all vessels not of United States registry which enter the ports of this country. 48 Am J1st Ship § 650.

lightning. A sudden discharge of electricity from a cloud to the earth, or from the earth to a cloud, or from one cloud to another, that is, from a body positively charged to one negatively charged, producing a vivid flash of light, and usually a loud report called thunder. Spensley v Lancashire Ins. Co. 54 Wis 433, 441. One of the elements of nature. 32 Am J1st L & T § 811. An act of God in its origin, but not necessarily in its consequences. Short v Kerr, 104 Ind App 118, 9 NE2d 114.

lightning clause. A clause in, or attached as a rider to, a fire insurance policy, relative to the risk of loss by lightning. Russell v German Fire Ins. Co. 100 Minn 528, 111 NW 400.

lightning insurance. Insurance against loss or damage by lightning, provided by an independent policy or by a clause in an ordinary fire insurance policy. Anno: 15 ALR2d 1017.

lights. See ancient lights; headlights; load lights;

[740]

side lights; tail light; also words and phrases beginning "light."

ligium. See feudum ligium. ligius. Same as liege.

Ligna et lapides sub "armorum" appellatione non continentur. Sticks and stones are not included in the term "arms."

lignagium. The right to gather fuel in a wood.

lignum. Wood; firewood; cut wood as distinguished from that which is growing.

like effect. Like result. Fine v Soifer, 288 Pa 164, 135 A 742.

likelihood. See in all likelihood.

likely. Adjective: Credible, although often employed in sarcasm, as a "likely" story. Adverb: Probable, but not more than "probable" and sometimes less than "probable" depending upon the context. Not the equivalent of reasonably certain. 22 Am J2d Damg § 352.

In the law of proximate cause, when it is said that an injury is the "likely," and not the improbable result of the wrongful act, the word "likely" is used in the sense of something more than possible, and less than probable. Conchin v El Paso & Southwestern Railroad Co. 13 Ariz 259, 108 P 260.

likeness. A picture; a resemblance.

like result. Like effect. Fine v Soifer, 288 Pa 164, 135 A 742.

limb for a limb. A sentence of one convicted of mayhem, on the principle of retaliation, that he should lose the member of his own body corresponding to the member of which he had deprived the victim of the offense.

By the ancient law of England a person convicted of mayhem was sentenced to lose that member of his own body corresponding to the member of which he had deprived his victim. This method of punishment became obsolete partly because of its inadequacy and partly because it could not be repeated in the case of a repetition of precisely the same act. See 4 Bl Comm 206.

lime kiln. An oven wherein limestone is heated for the purpose of obtaining lime. 32 Am J1st L & T § 493.

limestone. A mineral. Anno: 86 ALR 985; 36 Am J1st Min & M § 5. The raw material from which lime is obtained by the application of heat. Also a building stone.

limine. See in limine. limit. A boundary, a border, the outer line of a thing. A restraining line, often figurative, as "debt limit." Casler v Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. 22 NY 429, 431.

limitatio. A limitation.

limitation. In the broad sense a limit. In a technical sense, a clause or provision in deed, grant, or will which states a condition of the grant or devise, especially a condition which terminates an estate without act performed by the taker of the next estate or interest or a condition which determines the quality of the estate granted or devised. A provision in a lease whereby the lease terminates upon the happening or not happening of a certain event or upon the performance or nonperformance of a condition. 32 Am J1st L & T § 825. The period of time subsequent to the event giving rise to a cause of action or cause for criminal prosecution during which the action or prosecution must be commenced. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 3. The period of time during which adverse possession of property must be maintained in order to ripen into title. 3 Am J2d Adv P §§ 9 et seq.

See conditional limitation; estate upon condition; executory limitation; words of limitation.

limitation of action. The policy of the state as expressed in a statute of limitations prescribing the period of time within which an action or proceeding in law or in equity must be brought. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 3. The policy of the state as expressed in a statute of limitations prescribing the period of time within which a criminal prosecution must be commenced. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 154. The policy of the parties to a contract as expressed by a provision of the contract limiting the period of time within which an action or proceeding may be brought upon the contract. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 67.

limitation of estate. See limitation.

limitation of indebtedness. A provision in a state constitution as found in a number of states, that the state will not, through its legislature, create any debt or liability, except for certain purposes, in excess of a prescribed amount, or a provision that the legislature shall not create an indebtedness to exceed a certain per cent on the assessed value of the taxable value property of the state. 49 Am J1st States § 66. A provision of the state constitution, statute, or charter which places a limit upon the amount of indebtedness which a municipal corporation can lawfully incur. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp § 408. The limit on the amount of indebtedness of the United States as fixed and modified from time to time by Congress.

limitation of liability. A limitation upon a liability otherwise contracted or assumed by entering into a particular relationship, the most common of which is found in contracts of bailment, limiting the liability of the bailee, 8 Am J2d Bailm § 132, such as a carrier, 14 Am J2d Car § 537, the keeper of a hotel or inn, 29 Am J Rev ed Innk § 86, or a warehouseman, Lancaster Mills v Merchants' Cotton-Press & Storage Co. 89 Tenn 1, 14 SW 317, especially in reference to those bailments in which, in the absence of a limitation, the bailee is under an absolute or insurer's liability.

A contractual, statutory, or customary limitation of a shipowner's liability for loss of or injury to goods or merchandise carried on board the vessel. 48 Am J1st Ship §§ 445 et seq. A limitation appearing in a policy of insurance upon the amount of loss for which the insurer is liable. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 189; 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 227. A contractual limitation of a telegraph company's liability for negligence in the transmission of a message. 52 Am J1st Teleg & T § 143. A stipulation in a contract between a credit-reporting agency and a customer which provides that the agency shall not be liable for the negligence of its agents, and that it does not guarantee the verity or accuracy of the information given. Corrigan v Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. (DC RI) 91 F Supp 424. A provision in the indenture of a business trust which states expressly that the shareholders shall not be individually liable for debts or liabilities incurred by the trustees on behalf of the trust, or that persons dealing with the trustees shall look for satisfaction of their demands only to the property and assets of the trust. 13 Am J2d Bus Tr § 37. A clause in the indenture of a business trust which provides that the trustees shall not be personally liable on contracts made by them on behalf of the trust. Anno: 156 ALR 165. The condition of a sale at auction that all complaints must be made at a specified time after the sale. 7 Am J2d Auct § 54.

[741]

A contract against liability for negligence is in contravention of public policy. Anno: 175 ALR 39.

See limited liability acts.

limitation of time. A rule prescribed by statute, order of court, or the common law, whereby a certain action must be taken within a specified time under pain of inability to take such action at a later time.

See limitation of action.

limitation on jurisdiction. See limited jurisdiction.

limitation over. The disposition made by deed or will of an estate or interest following the termination of a prior estate, the stock example of which is a remainder limited after a life estate. Ewing v Shropshire, 80 Ga 374, 377, 7 SE 554.

limitation period. See limitation; limitation of action.

limited. Narrow, restricted, circumscribed, inclosed within a certain limit; hemmed in; confined; bounded. Cheney v Smith, 3 Ariz 143, 23 P 680, 685. Abbreviated ltd. A word used to indicate the corporate status, especially in England and Canada, the connotation being that the liability of a shareholder is limited to his investment in shares. A word used to signify a partnership other than a general partnership.

See limited partnership.

limited-access highway. A superior highway so constructed with feeder lines as to eliminate the intersection of traffic at right angles, the construction permitting an entering vehicle to approach the lane desired in the same general direction as the movement of traffic in the lane and to come into such lane with the least disturbance of the movement of traffic.

limited adoption. The selective adoption of principles of the common law, that is, the adoption by the state of only such common-law principles as are deemed salutary in the light of the conditions existing in the state. Cahoon v Pelton, 9 Utah 2d 224, 342 P2d 94.

limited company. See limited; limited partnership.

limited constitution. A constitution which contains certain specified exceptions to the legislative authority; such, for instance, as that it shall pass no bills of attainder, no ex post facto laws, and the like.

Limitations of this kind can be preserved in practice no other way than through the medium of the courts of justice. Per Alexander Hamilton in The Federalist, No. 78.

limited covenant of warranty. See special warranty.

limited divorce. Otherwise known as a divorce from bed and board or divorce a mensa et thoro. Kelley v Kelley, 183 Or 169, 191 P2d 656. A divorce which varies in its consequences from state to state, but may be defined generally as a judicial decree which terminates the obligation and right of cohabitation but does not affect the status of the parties as married persons or dissolve the marriage. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 1.

limited emancipation. The act of a parent in releasing his child from care, custody, or control for only a part of the period of minority or from only a part of the rights of the parent. Porter v Powell, 79 Iowa 151, 44 NW 295.

limited estate. Any estate less than a fee.

limited fee. See conditional fee; determinable fee; qualified fee.

limited guaranty. A contract of guaranty which is restricted in its operation with respect to obligee, transactions covered, locality, items for which credit may be extended, amount of credit, etc. 24 Am J1st Guar § 72.

limited endorsement. See conditional endorsement; qualified endorsement.

limited interest. An interest which is qualified or which falls short of being an absolute interest. Griffith v Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad Co. 23 SC 25.

See limited estate.

limited jurisdiction. A phrase having reference to inferior courts. Jurisdiction which does not extend to the general administration of justice. Den ex dem. Obert v Hammel, 18 NJL 73, 79

See court of limited jurisdiction.

limited legal investments. A term of significance to trustees.

This term as used in the New Jersey Prudent Man Investment Statute, does not make such investments any less legal than the fiduciary investments authorized by other statutes and labeled "legal investments"; the limitation relates solely to the percentage of the trust which the trustee may invest therein. Fidelity Union Trust Co. v Price, 11 NJ 90, 93 A2d 321, 35 ALR2d 980.

limited legitimation. The legitimation of a child born out of wedlock for some purposes but not to the extent of equalizing its status with that of a legitimate child. 10 Am J2d Bast § 57.

limited liability acts. Statutes which restrict liability to a less amount than the common law would allow. Federal statutes limiting the liability of a shipowner for loss, damage, or injury, enacted for the purpose of encouraging the investment of capital in the building and navigation of ships, by enabling the owners of American ships to compete upon equal terms of liability with foreign shipowners. 48 Am J1st Ship § 567.

limited liability of shipowner. See limited liability acts.

limited owner. An owner whose interest in the property is not absolute, but qualified. Griffith v Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad Co. 23 SC 25.

See limited estate.

limited partnership. A partnership in which the liability of some, but not all, members is limited, being formed under laws permitting an individual to contribute a specified sum to the capital of the firm and then limit his liability for losses to that amount, provided compliance is had with certain established requirements. 40 Am J1st Partn §§ 504 et seq.

As to the effect of writing "limited" or "ltd" after the signatures of the members of a limited partnership appended to a contract, see Bernard & Less Mfg. Co. v Packard & Calvin (CA3 Pa) 64 F 309, 310.

See partnership association.

limited power of appointment. A power of appointment which is exercisable only in favor of persons or a class of persons designated or described in the instrument creating the power. Marx v Rice, 1 NJ 574, 65 A2d 48, 9 ALR2d 584.

[742]

In Pennsylvania, a general power of appointment is not converted into a special power by reason of spendthrift provisions protecting the income during the lifetime of the donee. Legg's Estate v Commissioner (CA4) 114 F2d 760.

limited power of disposal. A qualified power of disposition, a power dependent on a contingency or definitely qualified. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 25.

limited predestination. A doctrine of the Primitive Baptist Church that God predestinated things which may come to pass with reference to the salvation of souls only, repudiating the idea that God predestinated the happening of things in this material world. Bennett v Morgan, 112 Kan 512, 520, 66 SW 289.

limited publication. A publication which communicates the contents of a manuscript or other intellectual production to a definitely selected group and for a limited purpose, and without the right of diffusion, reproduction, distribution, or sale, or under conditions which expressly or impliedly preclude its dedication to the public. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 79.

Prior to publication an author may, without forfeiture of the right of a general publication, make copies of his production and enjoy the benefit of limited or restricted publication, such as performance of a dramatic or musical composition before a select audience, or private circulation of a manuscript. Stanley v Columbia Broadcasting System, 35 Cal 2d 653, 221 P2d 73, 23 ALR2d 216.

limited ticket. A railroad ticket which entitles the holder to ride only certain trains. 14 Am J2d Car § 754.

limited train. A through train, that is, one stopping at only a few stations; a train carrying only first class or extra-fare passengers.

limited voting. Same as restrictive voting.

limits of the jail. See liberties of the jail.

limits on speed. See speed limits.

limousine service. A service, sometimes operating under an exclusive franchise, for the transportation of people to and from a public airport, passengers boarding and leaving the limousines at hotels and other places in the downtown area. 8 Am J2d Avi § 56.

Lindbergh Law. See Kidnapping Act.

line. A wire for the transmission of telegraph messages or the transmission of sound by telephone. A wire through which electricity is conducted for the use of customers. The pipes of a gas company. A course of descent or succession. McIntyre v Ramsey, 23 Pa 317, 320.

See boundary; route.

linea. Same as line.

lineage. Race; progeny; descendants in a line from a common progenitor. Lockett v Lockett, 94 Ky 289, 291.

lineal. In a direct line.

lineal ascendants. The parents, grandparents, great-grandparents, etc. of a person. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 42.

lineal consanguinity. The blood relationship which subsists between persons of whom one is descended in a direct line from the other; as between the son, the father and the grandfather, in the ascending line, and between the father, son, and grandson, and so on downward, in the descending line.

lineal descendants. Blood relatives in the direct line of descent. Re Smith's Estate, 343 Mich 291, 72 NW2d 287, 51 ALR2d 287. The children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, etc. of a person. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 42.

lineal descent. A descent in the direct line of an intestate, as, for example, from father or grandfather to son or grandson, or from son or grandson to father or grandfather. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 42.

lineal heirs. Persons entitled to the property of an intestate as heirs by lineal descent.

See lineal descent.

lineal inheritance tax. A succession tax imposed upon the passing of property of a decedent to persons connected with him by lineal descent. Estate of Macky, 46 Colo 79, 102 P 1075.

See lineal descent.

lineal measure. The measurement of distance, employing units such as the foot, yard, rod, etc.

lineal warranty. A warranty which existed where the heir derived, or might by possibility have derived, his title to the land warranted, either from or through the ancestor who made the warranty; where a father, or an elder son in the lifetime of the father, released to the disseisor of either themselves or the grandfather, with warranty, this was lineal to the younger son. See 1 Bl Comm 301.

linea recta. A straight line; a line of direct descent.

Linea recta est index sui et obliqui; lex est linea recti. A straight line is its own index or criterion and is also that of an oblique or indirect line; law is the line of rectitude.

Linea recta semper praefertur transversali. A direct line of descent is always preferred to a collateral line.

lines transversalis. A collateral line.

line haul. The transportation of goods by railroad from an initial point to a terminal point on the same road or on a connecting road.

Switching service is not a line haul but is an incident to a line haul. Cummings Sand & Gravel Co. v Minneapolis & St. Louis Railroad Co. 182 Iowa 955, 166 NW 354.

line-haul charge. A charge made by a carrier for transportation, inclusive of accessorial or incidental service in receiving or delivering freight in carload lots on private or industrial sidings or spur tracks. 13 Am J2d Car § 467.

lineman. An employee of an electric company, telephone company or telegraph company whose duties are concerned with the erection and maintenance of the power or communication lines. A railroad worker, sometimes known as a section hand, employed in the maintenance of roadbed and track.

linen-supply service. A service for supplying tablecloths, bedsheets, pillow cases, towels, etc., week by week, in cleaned and laundered form, for rent, the customers being hotels, restaurants, industrial, and business concerns. Lonas v National Linen Service Corp. (CA6 Tenn) 136 F2d 433, 150 ALR 697, cert den 320 US 785, 88 L Ed 472, 64 S Ct

[743]

157; Harper v Alderson, 126 W Va 707, 30 SE2d 521, 153 ALR 819.

line of causation. The test of proximate cause. 38 Am J1st Negl § 56.

line of credit. A margin of credit maintained by a customer with a firm through keeping the amount of his account within a certain amount by payments on account from time to time. Schneider-Davis Co. v Hart, 23 Tex Civ App 529, 57 SW 903.

line of descent. See collateral descent; lineal descent.

line of duty. The course of duty whether in the military or in civilian employment.

line of high water. See ordinary high-water mark.

line tree. A tree marking a boundary line or corner.

lineup. A practice by the police in which prisoners held pending preliminary hearing are brought into view for inspection and identification. Owens v Commonwealth, 186 Va 689, 43 SE2d 895.

link-in-chain. The rule which applies the privilege against self-incrimination to protect an individual not only against requiring answers by him that are in themselves directly incriminating, but also against requiring answers that may provide a link in the chain of evidence against him. Estes v Potter (CA5 Tex) 183 F2d 865, cert den 340 US 920, 95 L Ed 664, 71 S Ct 356.

lion's share. The whole of the profits going to one partner.

liquere. To be fluid; to be clear; to be evident; to be apparent.

liquet. It appears; it is evident; it is clear.

liquet satis. It is clear enough; it is sufficiently evident; it appears clearly enough.

liqueur. An aromatic, alcoholic cordial, including creme de menthe and absinthe. Erhardt v Steinhardt, 153 US 177, 38 L Ed 678, 14 S Ct 775.

liquidate. To pay a debt. Flecker v Bank of United States (US) 8 Wheat 338, 5 L Ed 631; Austin v Tecumseh Nat. Bank, 49 Neb 412, 68 NW 628. To obtain by agreement or by action the ascertainment of the amount of a debt. To settle the affairs of a business by selling assets, making collections of accounts receivable, applying the proceeds thus obtained to the payment of the debts of the business, and, if there be a surplus after such debts are paid, dividing it among the owners of the business.

liquidated. Paid. Wound up, as in reference to the affairs of a business. Determined as to amount, as in reference to a debt.

liquidated account. An account the amount of which is agreed upon by the parties, or is fixed by operation of law. State v Staub, 61 Conn 553, 568.

liquidated damages. A sum stipulated and agreed upon by the parties, at the time of entering into a contract, as being payable as compensation for loss suffered in the event of a breach. 22 Am J2d Damg § 212.

As to the distinction between penalties and liquidated damages, see 22 Am J2d Damg § 213.

liquidated debt. A debt which has been paid. A debt, the amount of which has been determined by agreement between the parties or by legal proceedings.

A debt is liquidated when it is certain what is due and how much is due; cum certum est an et quantum debeatur. For although it may appear that something is due, if it does not also appear how much is due, the debt is not liquidated. Roberts v Prior, 20 Ga 561, 562.

liquidated demand. A demand ascertained in reference to the amount. A demand which is undisputed as to amount.

See liquidated debt.

liquidating partner. A partner who accomplishes or participates in the liquidation of the firm. Garretson v Brown, 185 Pa 447, 452, 40 A 293.

Under the provisions of the Uniform Partnership Act, unless otherwise agreed, the partners who have not wrongfully dissolved the partnership or the legal representative of the last surviving partner, not bankrupt, has the right to wind up the partnership affairs, provided, however, that any partner, his legal representative or his assignee, upon cause shown may obtain winding up by the court. Uniform Partnership Act § 37.

liquidating trust. A trust, the purpose of which is liquidation as soon as the circumstances will permit, albeit it may be carrying on a business, where the engagement in business is incidental and necessary to the preservation of assets. Helvering v Washburn (CA Minn) 99 F2d 478.

An incidental intention to liquidate in case of unsuccessful business operations is not sufficient to make a liquidating trust out of what would otherwise be a taxable association under the income tax statute. Jackson v United States (CA9 Cal) 110 F2d 574.

liquidation. The extinguishment of a debt by payment. Flecker v Bank of United States (US) 8 Wheat 338, 5 L Ed 631. The ascertainment of the amount of a debt or demand by agreement or by legal proceedings. In a more common sense of the term, the winding up of a corporation, partnership, or other business enterprise upon dissolution by converting the assets to money, collecting accounts receivable, paying debts, and distributing the net proceeds, if any, among the shareholders, partners, or owners of the business. Garrett Co. v Morton, 35 Misc 10, 71 NYS 17. The winding up of the affairs of a corporation by reducing its assets, paying its debts, and apportioning the surplus, if there be a surplus. Young v Blandin, 215 Minn 111, 9 NW2d 313.

See partial liquidation.

liquidation dividend. Same as dividend in liquidation.

liquidation of corporation. See liquidation.

liquidation of duties. The ascertainment and settlement of the amount of custom duties to be paid upon imported merchandise. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 80.

liquidation of partnership. See liquidation.

liquidator. In the broad sense, one who liquidates. In a technical sense, especially in England and Canada, one who liquidates a corporation in receivership for dissolution; in other words, a receiver. 45 Am J1st Rec § 3.

liquid gas. A product captured and compressed at oil and gas wells, for shipment in containers to individual customers. 26 Am J2d Electr § 5.

liquid measure. The measurement of liquids, the units being pint, quart, gallon, etc.

liquor. Any sort of liquid or fluid substance, but in common parlance a beverage with an intoxicating quality. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 8. A beverage of high potency produced by distillation. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 8. Broadly, an alcoholic or spirituous liquor, either distilled or fermented. Luther v State, 83 Neb 455, 120 NW 125.

[744]

See

Liquor Control Act. The title given in several jurisdictions to the statute regulating the traffic in alcoholic beverages.

intoxicating liquor.

liquor dealer. See dealer in liquor.

liquor dispensary. See dispensaries.

Liquor Enforcement Act. A federal statute enacted following the termination of National Prohibition which is concerned with the interstate transportation of liquor, defining several offenses in connection therewith. 18 USC §§ 1262-1265.

liquor license. A license to manufacture, sell, serve, store, or traffic in any respect in intoxicating beverages.

liquor nuisance. A place of business selling intoxicating liquors as declared a nuisance by statute or ordinance or so conducted as to constitute a material annoyance, inconvenience, discomfort, or hurt to an individual or the public. The selling and delivering of intoxicating liquor on the streets of a municipality in violation of law, repeatedly and persistently. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 415.

liquor traffic. Trade or commerce in intoxicating liquors.

A foreign corporation is a "trafficker" in intoxicating liquors, within the meaning of a statute imposing a tax on the business, where it maintains a storehouse in the state, at which it sells and delivers beer and collects payment. Reyman Brewing Co. v Brister, 179 US 445, 45 L Ed 269, 21 S Ct 201.

lis. (Latin.) A suit; action; controversy, or dispute. State ex rel. Hamilton v Guinotte, 156 Mo 513, 57 SW 281.

lis alibi pendens. An action pending in another place; a plea of an action pending elsewhere.

lis mota. The commencement of a controversy; the commencement of a suit or action.

lis pendens. Literally, a pending suit; in law, the jurisdiction, power, or control that a court has, during the pendency of an action, over the property involved therein. 34 Am J1st Lis P § 1.

See notice of lis pendens.

list. Verb: To make an orderly memorandum of things, persons, or events. To register or enroll real property with a real estate broker or agent, authorizing him to conduct negotiations with prospective purchasers for the sale of the property. E. A. Strout Co. v Gay, 105 Me 108, 72 A 881. To enroll the stock or other security issued by a corporation or a commodity, such as wheat, soybeans, etc. on a stock of commodity exchange for the purpose of the handling of purchases and sales by the exchange. Noun: An orderly memorandum of things, persons, or events, such as a list of customers of a business, 19 Am J2d Corp § 1282, or of the stockholders of a corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp § 188.

See blacklist; cause list; civil list; eligible list; grand list; inventory; jury list; Lloyd's Lists; tax list; unfair list.

listed price. The price at which a landowner lists his property for sale with a real estate broker. 12 Am J2d Brok § 111.

listen. See look and listen.

lister. A person who lists persons and property and who values the latter for purposes of assessment or taxation; an appraiser; an assessor.

listing. See list.

listing contract. A so-called contract whereby an owner of real property employs a broker to procure a purchaser without giving the broker an exclusive right to sell. Under such an agreement, it is generally held that the employment may be terminated by the owner at will, and that a sale of the property by the owner terminates the employment. Such an agreement is not in fact a contract, but is a mere offer, which, if not sooner revoked, ripens into a contract if the broker produces a purchaser while the owner still holds the property. Harris v McPherson, 97 Conn 164, 115 A 723, 24 ALR 1530, 1534.

See list.

list of creditors. A list of the creditors of the seller of a stock of merchandise, required by bulk sales statutes. 24 Am J1st Frd Conv § 237. A schedule of the debts of a bankrupt, including the names and addresses of creditors and a description of the debts with details respecting amount, consideration, and security, to be provided by a bankrupt. 9 Am J2d Bankr §§ 367 et seq.

list of property. A schedule of property required of a bankrupt. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 378.

See inventory.

list of proved claims. A requirement made by a General Order in Bankruptcy of the person with whom proofs of claim or of interest are filed. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 497.

list of referred cases. A statement required of a referee in bankruptcy, showing a list of the proceedings referred to him which have remained open for more than 18 months, giving the reasons in each instance why they have not been closed, the same to be in duplicate and verified, and filed in the office of the clerk of court.

One copy shall be transmitted by the clerk, forthwith upon its receipt, to the Administrative Office of the United States Courts. Order 26, General Orders in Bankruptcy.

list system. A system of voting for public officers. 26 Am J2d Elect § 273.

Under this system, the names of candidates are put on the ballot in lists or blocks, so that those of similar views are grouped together. The elector has but one vote to cast and he casts it for one candidate on one of the lists. This vote counts one in determining how many candidates the adherents of that list are to elect and it also counts one toward the election of a single candidate on that list. The proportion of the total vote which is cast for a single list determines the number of representatives which are chosen from that list; and when that number has been determined, the highest candidates on the list are chosen. Thus an elector may vote for a candidate who is defeated, yet at the same time further the election of another candidate from the same list of the party. 26 Am J2d Elect § 273.

litem. Of or pertaining to litigation.
See in litem; litis.

litem motam. See ante litem motem.

litem suam facere. (Roman law.) To make the action his own. A judge who exhibited partiality was said to do this.

[745]

lite pendente. See pendente lite.

liter. A unit of measure, equivalent to 1.057 liquid quarts and 0.908 dry quart.

litera. A letter. Singular of literae.

litera acquietantiae. A letter of discharge or acquittance.

literacy. Ability to read and write.

literacy qualification. A qualification for jury duty, sometimes imposed directly as a certain minimum or fair education, sometimes imposed indirectly by requiring literacy as a prerequisite to registering as a voter, and then requiring jurors to be selected from the list of registered voters. 31 Am J Rev ed Jury § 168.

literacy test. A test to determine the qualification of a voter according to his ability to read and write or ability to read and understand any section of the State or Federal Constitution. 25 Am J2d Elect § 89.

literae. Letters; written instruments; words; the words.

literae clausae. Close letters, letters or grants from the king, sealed with his great seal, but directed to particular persons, and for particular purposes, and which, not being proper for public inspection, were closed up and sealed on the outside. See 2 Bl Comm 346.

literae mortuae. Dead letters,—superfluous words.

literae patentes. Open letters; letters patent.

Literae patentes regis non erunt vacuae. The letters patent of the king shall not be void.

literae procuratoriae. Letters procuratory; letters of procuracy; letters of attorney; a power of attorney.

literae recognitionis. A bill of lading.

Literae scriptae manent. Written words endure.

literae sigillatae. Sealed letters.

litera excambii. A bill of exchange.

literal. Adhering strictly to the letter; closely following the precise words.

literal construction. A construction, usually narrow, according to the letter or the word rather than according to the intention of the parties as gathered from the entire context. Bear v Millikin Trust Co. 336 Ill 366, 168 NE 349, 73 ALR 173; 16 Am J2d Const L § 71. A construction of a statute which adheres to the mere letter, the literal or strict meaning of the words of the statute. 50 Am J1st Stat § 240. A technical construction of a word or term of a contract which may or may not convey the real meaning of the parties. Lemons v Knox, 72 Ariz 177, 232 P2d 383.

literal contract. (Roman law.) A contract which was wholly in writing, and which was binding on him who signed it, although without consideration.

literal proof. (Civil law.) Proof made by writings received in evidence.

literary journal. A publication devoted to the special interests of literature; a publication of articles selected because of literary merit. 39 Am J1st Newsp § 9.

literary property. An intellectual conception embodied in a form whereby it may be disseminated by the production of multiple copies. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 2. The interest of an author, or of those who claim under him, in his works, whether before or after publication or before or after a copyright has been secured, being in essence, a right to exclude others, to a greater or lesser extent, from making some or all use of the express thoughts of the author. Records Inc. v Mercury Records Corp. (CA2 NY) 221 F2d 657.

literary proprietor. One who owns literary property. An author or his assigns. Keene v Wheatley (CC Pa) F Cas No 7644.
See literary property.

Litera scripta manet. The written word or letter endures.

literatura. Education.

literature. See literary property.

litteris obligation. (Roman law.) An obligation arising out of entries made in certain books of account.

lithograph. The reproduction of a picture or of printed matter by the process known as lithography. Arthur v Moller, 97 US 365, 24 L Ed 1046.

litigant. A person engaged in a litigation; a party to a suit or action.

litigare. To litigate; to go to law; to maintain or defend an action as a party thereto.

litigate. To go to law; to maintain or defend an action as a party thereto; to sue or to be sued.

litigated. Subjected to litigation.

Facts, matters, or questions are said to have been litigated when they have formed the subject matter of litigation. Only those facts are said to have been "litigated" in an action which were necessarily within the issue presented and without proof of which the judgment rendered in the action could not have been rendered. Eastman v Symonds, 108 Mass 567, 569.

litigation. An action or suit; a series or group of related suits or actions.

litigation expenses. A reasonable attorney's fee incurred in any necessary litigation and all other necessary expenses incurred by the personal representative of a decedent or other fiduciary in litigation for the benefit of the estate. 21 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 545.

See allowance; attorney's fee; costs; suit money.

litigiosity. The pendency of a suit or action.

litigious. Contested in a suit or action; eager to enter into a litigation, suit or action.

litigious right. A right contested in a suit. The right ceases to be litigious when judgment has been rendered. See Cucullu v Hernandez (US) 13 Otto 105, 26 L Ed 322.

litis. (Civil law.) Of a litigation suit, or action.

litis aestimatio. (Civil Law.) The measure of damages.

litis contestatio. (Civil and canon law.) The contest of an action or suit; an issue; joinder of issue; a general denial in an ecclesiastical suit.

[746]

litis dominium. (Civil law.) The control or direction of an action or litigation.

litis dominus. (Roman law.) A person who controls or directs an action or litigation.

litis magister. (Roman law.) Same as litis dominus.

litis motae. See forum litis motae.

Litis nomen actionem significat, sive in rem, sive in personam sit. The word "lis" signifies an action, whether an action in rem or an action in personam.

litispence. The pendency of a suit or action.

litre. Same as liter.

little cape. A writ of old vintage, summoning a tenant to answer for default in payment of rent.

little more than. A comparative. About the same. Pierce v Lefort, 197 La 1, 200 So 801.

Littleton. Sir Thomas Littleton, a famous English jurist; the author of a treatise on land tenures which he wrote about 1470, and which formed the basis of Lord Coke's Commentaries.

littoral. Bordering on the shore; pertaining to the shore of the sea.

littoral owner. Same as littoral proprietor. littoral proprietor. The owner of premises on the shores of the sea" or a lake. 56 Am J1st Wat § 273.

If an owner's lands abut upon a river he is deemed a riparian owner. Peck v Alfred Olsen Constr. Co. 216 Iowa 519, 238 NW 416, 89 ALR 1132.

littoral rights. The rights of a littoral owner.

littoral waters. Coastal waters, whether of the sea or a lake.

litura. (Civil law.) An erasure, correction, or blot on a written instrument.

Litus est quousque maximus fluctus a mari pervenit. (Civil law.) The shore is as far as the greatest wave has come up from the sea.

litus maris. The shore of the sea.

live. See alive.

live. To be animate. To reside or abide in a place. For some purposes merely to sojourn in a place.

For the purpose of taking a deposition, a witness "lives" where he can be found, and is sojourning, residing, or abiding for any lawful purpose. Mut. Ben. Life Ins. Co. v Robison (CA8 Iowa) 58 F 723.

See living.

live birth. The birth of a child which breathes after delivery from the womb.

live issue. Issue by a live birth. For the purposes of an estate by curtesy, one delivered or expelled from the body of the mother and living by respiration independent of the mother. 25 Am J2d Dower § 34.

live rail. Same as third rail.

livery. The keeping of horses and vehicles ready for hire. Keen v Ross, 186 Ky 256, 216 SW 605. A private carrier, not a common carrier. Stanley v Steele, 77 Conn 688, 60 A 640.

Delivery. When a male heir arrived at the age of twenty-one, or a female heir at sixteen, they could "sue out their livery" or ousterlemain; that is the delivery of their lands out of their guardian's hands; and for this they paid a fine equal to half a year's profits of the land. See 2 Bl Comm 68.

See livery of seisin.

livery conveyance. A motor vehicle or, as in the old days, a horse-drawn vehicle used to convey passengers for hire.

See public conveyance.

livery in law. The transfer of the possession of land while the parties are in sight of it, but without making an actual physical entry upon it.

liveryman. A person who keeps a livery stable. Elliott v Hodgson, 133 Ga 209, 65 SE 405.

livery of seisin. A ceremonial delivery of possession of real estate, long since obsolete, made in the presence of witnesses in the transfer of title to lands by feoffment. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 11.

livery stable. A building in which either horses or vehicles are kept or let for hire. Elliott v Hodgson, 133 Ga 209, 65 SE 405. A place where horses are kept or boarded for compensation.

See livery.

livery stable lien. Similar to an agister's lien.

lives. Being in a state of animation.

lives. The plural of life.

See joint lives; lives in being.

lives in being. Within the meaning of the rule against perpetuities any lives in being at the time the interest is created, selected expressly or by plain implication for a limitation of the estate. 41 Am J1st Perp § 14.

"Lives in being" within the meaning of the rule against perpetuities, has reference to those in being at the date of the testator's death, not at the time of the execution of the will. Story v First Nat. Bank & Trust Co. 115 Fla 436, 156 So 101.

Within the meaning of the rule against perpetuities which allows the postponement of the vesting of an estate or interest for the period of lives in being and twenty-one years and the period of gestation, there is generally no restriction on the number of lives in being which may be selected as the measure of the period of time permitted by the rule; the only limitation being that the lives in being must not be so numerous that there is not some reasonable way of proving the decease of the survivor of them. 41 Am J1st Perp § 14.

livestock. Domestic animals, particularly cattle, hogs, sheep, and horses.

Livestock includes fur bearing animals domesticated, and raised in captivity. The breeding, raising, and pelting of foxes is agricultural labor as that term is used in the Federal Social Security Act. Fromm Bros. v United States (DC Wis) 35 F 145.

livestock car. A railroad car constructed especially for the transportation of livestock.

livestock feed. See feed.

livestock insurance. A contract of insurance by which the insurer agrees to indemnify the insured against such loss as he may sustain by reason of injury to or death of livestock by the happening of specified risks or causes. Abraham v Ins. Co. of North America, 117 Vt 75, 84 A2d 670, 29 ALR2d 783.

[747]

livestock market. A place where livestock is taken for sale and at which prospective purchasers assemble for the purpose of buying livestock, often operating as an auction sale.

livestock producer. A person who produces livestock by feeding and caring for cattle, hogs, sheep, etc., a "farmer" as such term is defined in the Bankruptcy Act. 11 USC 1 (17).

livestock register. A record of purebred livestock showing the sire and dam of an animal entitled to registration as purebred.
See purebred livestock.

live storage. The safe-keeping of goods in a warehouse or other depository, to be moved or replaced with other goods at the will of the patron. Tipp v District of Columbia, 69 App DC 400, 102 F2d 264. The storage of a motor vehicle in running condition and equipped for operation, the battery being in operating position and connected with the ignition system.

live together. See living together.

live trust. An active trust. Also, a trust inter vivos.

live wire. A wire charged with an electric current, especially where the current is deadly or potent with danger to the person. Phelan v Louisville Electrical Co. 122 Ky 476, 91 SW 703. A colloquial term for an active and energetic person.

living. Being in a state of animation. The state of a person from birth to death and, for some purposes in civil cases, the existence of the animate foetus in the womb. Hall v Hancock, 32 Mass (15 Pick) 255.

See born alive; church living.

living apart. Separation of husband and wife, ignoring the marital relationship and with design or agreement to be separated. 26 Am J1st Husband and Wife § 7. Living in the same house or place of residence but not in an actual marital relationship. 26 Am J1st H & W § 7.

living in adultery. Living together openly as if married and indulging in acts of intercourse. 2 Am J2d Adult §§ 10-12.

living in disorderly house. Being an inmate or resident of a house of ill fame.

living in fornication. Openly living together as if the legal relationship of husband and wife existed and indulging in acts of sexual intercourse. 2 Am J2d Adult §§ 10 et seq.

living persons. See live; living.

living pledge. An estate which arises when a person borrows a specific sum and grants property to the lender to hold until the rents and profits shall repay the sum so borrowed, whereupon the property reverts to the borrower. Spect v Spect, 88 Cal 437, 26 F 203.

living proof. Proof by living witness or witnesses.

Livingston v Jefferson. The litigation between Edward Livingston and Thomas Jefferson wherein it was decided that a suit for wrongful entry on land in Louisiana could not be maintained in a court in Virginia. (CC Va) 1 Brock 203, 4 Hughes 606, F Cas No 8411.

living then. See then living.

living together. See cohabit; family, household; living together as husband and wife.

living together as husband and wife. Living as husband and wife, with voluntary recognition of the relationship and in the absence of design or agreement to live apart free from reciprocal marital rights and duties, irrespective of whether or not there is a common place of living. 26 Am J1st H & W § 7.

See cohabit; living in adultery.

living trust. An active trust. Also, a trust inter vivos.

livre. A book; a pound weight.

L. J. An abbreviation of "law judge."

LL.B. An abbreviation of Legum Baccalaureus, Bachelor of Laws.

LL.D. An abbreviation of Legum Doctor, Doctor of Laws.

Lloyd's. Often referred to as Lloyd's of London, an association of individual insurers or underwriters, which takes its name from the coffee house in London at which insurers, then engaged in marine insurance only, formerly met for the transaction of business. Not an insurance company in the American sense of the term.

Although the Lloyd's insurers originally engaged in marine insurance only, so-called Lloyd's policies are now issued upon risks of almost every conceivable nature.

Lloyd's association. Sometimes known as an American Lloyd's. An unincorporated association engaged in the insurance business. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 51.

Lloyd's bond. An instrument in writing under seal issued by a corporation, acknowledging value received, and promising to pay a certain sum of money.

Lloyd's lists. Published statements of the arrival and departure of vessels and of marine losses and accidents.

Lloyd's of London. See Lloyd's.

loaded cane. A walking stick or cane in which metal has been inserted to make it a deadly weapon. Anno: 30 ALR 816.

loaded dice. Dice which are weighted or carved so that, when thrown, one side will come up much more frequently than would be the case without such tampering therewith.

See cogging.

loaded gun. A firearm charged with powder and ball, that is, with a bullet.

loading. The placing of goods on a ship, railroad car, or truck. Adding to the weight of something. The addition by an insurer, in calculating a premium rate, of a charge for operating expenses or for the contingency of increases in the risk or in the expense of doing business which cannot be foreseen in advance. Fox v Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. (CA8 Mo) 107 F2d 715; United States Life Ins. Co. v Spinks, 126 Ky 405, 96 SW 889. The inclusion in calculating a rate or charge for any service of items which have no material bearing upon what is a reasonable and proper charge.

See loading and unloading.

loading and unloading. The transfer of cargo from wharf or landing to ship and from ship to wharf or landing. 48 Am J1st Ship § 381. A comparable operation in the transportation of goods, merchandise, or other articles by land carrier. 13 Am J2d Car § 319. The business of a wharfinger. 56 Am J1st Whar § 19.

As a general rule, the carrier has the primary duty to load and unload goods or inanimate freight shipped in less than carload lots, and is liable for damages resulting from its failure to perform that duty in a proper manner. The shipper or consignee, however, has the duty to load and unload freight shipped in carload lots, or where for the shipper's convenience the cars to be loaded or unloaded are placed at his warehouse or on public tracks. 13 Am J2d Car § 319.

[748]

See complete operation doctrine; loading and unloading clause.

loading and unloading clause. A familiar clause in liability insurance policies covering trucks and commercial vehicles, providing in substance that the use of the insured vehicle for the purposes stated in the policy includes the loading and unloading of the vehicle, or, to the contrary, that such operation is excluded from the risk insured. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 87.

As a general principle, in construing a policy insuring a truck owner against liability for damage arising out of the use of his trucks, including loading and unloading, the mission or transaction being performed by the insured's employees at the time of the accident is the controlling element in determining whether the situation from which the accident occurred is included in loading and unloading. Pacific Auto Ins. Co. v Commercial Casualty Ins. Co. 108 Utah 500, 161 P2d 423, 160 ALR 1251.

loading charge. See loading.

loading tipple. See tipple.

load lights. Lights displayed at the end of load which projects from the side or rear of a vehicle. Anno: 21 ALR2d 85 § 27; 8 Am J2d Auto § 713.

load line. See Plimsoll Line.

loadman. One who directs the course of a ship, not from the vessel itself, but from a small boat propelled in advance of the vessel.

loadmanage. The piloting of a vessel by a loadman.
See loadman.

loafing. Idling; avoiding work; loitering.
See vagrancy.

loan. Verb: To deliver or transfer personal property or money to a borrower, that is, one who receives it and promises to return it or its equivalent, often with compensation for the use thereof by him, as where he promises to pay interest upon a loan of money. Nichols v Fearson (US) 7 Pet 103, 109, 8 L Ed 623, 625; Kent v Quicksilver Mining Co. 78 NY 159 177; First Nat. Bank v Tjosevig (Wash) 254 P 951. Sometimes, as where it appears in a will, a word of grant. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1334. Noun: The act of making a loan. An asset of the lender, upon completion and before payment.

loan association. See building and loan association; savings and loan association.

loan broker. See personal-property loan broker.

loan company. A company engaged in the making of loans, usually secured loans.

loaned employee. Same as loaned servant.

loaned servant. A general employee of one person performing service for another. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 343. One having the status of an employee who is lent or hired out by his employer to another person for some special service so as to become, as to that service, the employee of such third person, the test being whether, in the particular service which he is engaged to perform, he continues to be under the direction and control of his regular employer or becomes subject to that of the person to whom he has been lent or hired. 35 Am J1st M & S § 18.

loaned servant doctrine. The test by which the status of a person as a loaned servant is determined.
See loaned servant.

loan for consumption. A lending of goods to be consumed and to be returned in kind.

loan for exchange. A contract by which one deliver personal property to another, and the latter agrees to return to the lender a similar thing at a future time, without reward for its use. Section 1902, California Civil Code.

loan for use. A contract by which one gives to another the temporary possession and use of personal property, and the latter agrees to return the same thing to him at a future time, without reward for its use. Section 1884, California Civil Code.

loan of money. See loan.

loan of shares. See loan ticket.

loan on life insurance policy. By insurer: not a "loan" in the ordinary sense of the term, being merely an advance by the insurer of a sum which the insurer ultimately must pay the borrower, that is, the insured. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 615. A loan by a bank or other financial institution in which the policy is assigned to the bank or other institution by way of security.

loan society. An association of individuals formed for the purpose of lending money to its members or to others.

See building and loan association.

loan ticket. A ticket or instrument evidencing a transaction commonly known in the stock-brokerage business as a "loan" of shares of stock.

The loan of stock is usually, though not necessarily, incidental to a "short sale," that is, a contract for the sale of shares which the seller does not own, or the certificates for which are not within his control to be available for delivery at the time when delivery must be made. Provost v United States, 269 US 443, 449, 450, 46 S Ct 152.

loathsome disease. A disease shocking to the senses of other persons. Anno: 5 ALR 1022, s. 8 ALR 1540.

lobby. See lobbying.

lobbying. Services in attempting to obtain the passage of favored legislation. The practice of addressing or soliciting members of a legislative body, in the lobby off the chamber or elsewhere, for the purpose of influencing their votes. Chippewa Valley & Superior Railway Co. v Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway Co. 75 Wis 224, 44 NW 17.

Lobbying Act. A federal statute regulating lobbying in reference to the Congress of the United States. Anno: 98 L Ed 1006-1007.

lobbying contract. Any agreement which tends to introduce personal influence and solicitation as elements in procuring and influencing legislative action. Houlton v Nichol, 93 Wis 393, 67 NW 715. A contract in which one of the parties undertakes to perform lobbying services.

See lobbying.

lobby member. A person who frequents the lobby of a house of legislation for the purpose of influencing measures therein pending. Chippewa Valley & Superior Ry. Co. v Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Ry. Co. 75 Wis 224, 44 NW 17.

[749]

lobbying services. See lobbying.

L'obligation sans cause, on sur une fausse cause, on sur cause illicite, ne peut avoir aucun effet. An obligation without any consideration, or with a false one, or with an unlawful one, cannot have any effect.

local. Pertaining to a particular place, or to a fixed or limited portion of space, as local circumstances; limited or confined to a spot, place, or definite district, as a local custom. Graves v Alsap, 1 Ariz 274, 293.

local acceptance. An acceptance of a bill of exchange or draft whereby the drawee agrees to pay only at a particular place. Uniform Negotiable Instruments Law §141;11 Am J2d B & N § 517.

local action. At common law, an action which can be brought only where the cause of action arose, since the cause is one that in its nature can arise in one place only. 56 Am J1st Ven § 3. The antithesis of a transitory action.

In most jurisdictions, the venue of actions is now wholly regulated by statute, and frequently the character of an action as local or transitory is important in reference to venue only when a foreign cause of action is involved. 56 Am J1st Ven § 3.

local affection. See local disease.

local agent. An agent of a corporation representing it at a given place or within a definite district. Anno: 113 ALR 84, 85. In the insurance business, a term characterizing an agent of an insurance company in reference to the territory in which his services are to be employed on behalf of the company, not in reference to his authority respecting a particular transaction. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 152.

As used in statutes authorizing the service of process on the local agent of a foreign corporation, a local agent who represents the corporation in the promotion of the business for which it was incorporated has been held to be an agent at a given place or within a definite district, but every person who may be employed in any capacity by it is not a local agent. An agent with authority to borrow money and execute notes and deeds of trust in the name of the corporation, a resident sales agent, and a bookkeeper having charge of the finances of the corporation have each been held to be a local agent under such statutes. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 563.

local allegiance. The allegiance which a foreigner owes to the king during his residence in England. See 1 Bl Comm 370.

local assessment. Same as special assessment.

local assessment lien. See special assessment lien.

local benefit. The benefit of a public improvement limited to the inhabitants of a small locality. 26 Am J2d Em D § 31.

local board. The administrative board of the selective draft for the armed forces.

local bounty. A bounty provided by a municipality or other political subdivision of the state. 12 Am J2d Bount § 6.

local cause of action. An action which could have arisen in only one place. 56 Am J1st Ven § 3.

local chattel. A fixture,—something so attached to the realty as to become, for the time being, a part of the freehold.

local civil service. Municipal civil service. 15 Am J2d Civ S § 7.

local court. A court the jurisdiction and process of which are confined to a certain locality. Geraty v Reid, 78 NY 64, 67. A city court, municipal court, police court, or court of a justice of the peace. 20 Am J2d Cts § 30.

local custom. A custom which prevails in some county, city, town, parish, district, or place, the existence of which is to be determined as a matter of fact upon proof. 21 Am J2d Cust & U § 6.

local disease. An affection sufficiently developed to have some bearing on the general health. Cady v Fidelity & Casualty Co. 134 Wis 322, 113 NW 967.

locale. The neighborhood.

local election. An election of local officers.

See municipal election.

local freight. Freight shipped from either terminus of a railroad to a way station, or vice versa, or from one way station to another, that is, over a part of the one railroad only. Mobile & Montgomery Railway Co. v Steiner, McGehee & Co. 61 Ala 559, 579.

local freight train. See local train.

local government. Municipal as distinguished from the state or national government. The government of a county, city, town, or district.

local history. The history of a municipality, a county, a township, or other political subdivision or definite area.

local improvement. A building or other work of construction, the cost and expense of which is chargeable upon private property by way of a special assessment.

An improvement chargeable upon private property and possessing at least two essential elements: (1) It must be of a public nature, that is, it must be such an improvement as the municipality would be justified in constructing and maintaining by general taxation; and (2) it must confer a special benefit on the property sought to be specially charged with its creation and maintenance, over and above that conferred generally upon property within the municipality. Some courts have added a third element, that of permanency, denying the power of local assessment for an improvement of an evanescent type or nature. 48 Am J1st Spec A §§ 21 et seq.

local improvement bond. See improvement bond.

local improvement district. See improvement district.

local improvement lien. See special assessment lien.

local improvement tax. Same as special assessment.

local influence. That influence which might operate in the minds of the people to prevent a citizen of one state sued in the state court of another state from obtaining justice in such state. Games v Fuentes, 92 US 10, 23 L Ed 524. A ground at one time for removal of a cause from a state to a federal court, no longer of moment. 28 USC § 1441, reviser's notes.

See local prejudice.

locality. A place. The vicinity or neighborhood. An area relative in size to the circumstances involved, sometimes measurable in rods, at other times, in miles. Connally v General Constr. Co. 269 US 385, 394, 70 L Ed 322, 330, 46 S Ct 126.

[750]

localization doctrine. The doctrine that a foreign loan association voluntarily subjects itself to the local laws by doing business for a length of time in a state and cannot thereafter abrogate those laws by contractual stipulations to the effect that its local contract shall be governed by the usury laws of the state of its domicil. National Mut. Building & Loan Asso. v Brahan, 193 US 635, 48 L Ed 823, 24 S Ct 532.

local law. The law of the jurisdiction in which the action or proceeding is pending. The state, as distinguished from the federal law. A law enacted by a municipal council or other law-making body of a political subdivision. A statute which in fact, if not in form, is directed only to a specific part of the state, being confined in its operation to the property or persons of a limited portion of the state, touching only a portion of the territory and people of the state. 50 Am J1st Stat §§ 8-10.

As applied to statutes, the term is of modern origin, and is used to designate an act which operates only within a single city, county, or other particular division or place, and not throughout the entire legislative jurisdiction, in this sense, the term "local" is the antithesis of the word "general." State ex rel. Anderson v Tillamook, 62 Or 332, 124 P 637.

See ordinance.

local legislation. The enactment of local laws.

See local law.

local mine. A term of uncertain origin that has not been widely accepted.

For convenience, a mine served by one carrier is called a "local mine," and a mine served by two or more carriers is called a "joint mine." United States v New River Co. 265 US 533, 534, 68 L Ed 1165, 1169, 44 S Ct 610.

local mining rules. See miners' rules and customs.

local nature. See action of a local nature.

local necessity. Geographic and local considerations determining the validity of a statute made applicable only to a segregated area or district. Des Moines v Manhattan Oil Co. 193 Iowa 1096, 184 NW 823, 188 NW 921, 23 ALR 1322.

local officers. Public officers of a county, township, or municipality, sometimes charged with duties to be performed on behalf of the state government as well as duties on behalf of their own bailiwick. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 21.

local operation. A maritime operation which is so local in nature as to permit the application of state workmen's compensation laws. Southern Pacific Co. v Jensen, 244 US 205, 61 L Ed 1086, 37 S Ct 524.

local option. The right given a township, county, or other political subdivision to determine for itself by an election whether or not a certain law shall take effect in such area or district. People v Stimer, 248 Mich 272, 226 NW 899, 67 ALR 552. Laws which provide for leaving to the decision of the electors of a county, municipality, or other prescribed territory the matter of the expediency of permitting or forbidding the sale of intoxicating liquors, or the issuance of licenses for such sale, in any part of the territory in which the vote is had. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 81. Primarily concerned with laws respecting the traffic in intoxicating liquors.

local option election. An election in a county, township, or other political subdivision through which the right of local option is exercised. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 89.

See local option.

local passenger train. See local train.

local prejudice. Prejudice arising out of peculiar local conditions, such as social or economic conditions, racial constituencies, and religious beliefs. 39 Am J1st New Tr § 57. Feeling or excitement in the county rendering it impossible for an accused or a party to a civil action to obtain a fair trial in the county. 56 Am J1st Ven § 56. A strong current of public opinion as to the guilt of an accused such as to render an impartial trial in the locality impossible. Oborn v State, 143 Wis 259, 125 NW 737. A ground at one time for removal of a cause from a state to a federal court, no longer of moment. 28 USC § 1441, reviser's notes.

See local influence.

local rules. Court rules applicable in a single district.

local self-government. The right of self-government as to local affairs; the right of a city, borough, or town to elect local officers from their own citizens and to manage purely local affairs. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 77.

See home rule.

local statute. See local law.

local sun time. The time of day in a given place as shown by a sun dial at that place. Anno: 35 LRA NS 611.

local tax. A tax imposed in and for the benefit of a municipality, county, town, or district as distinguished from a state tax or tax of general application throughout the state. People ex rel. Pratt Institute v Assessors of Brooklyn, 141 NY 476, 477, 36 NE 508.

See special assessment.

local train. A freight train which stops at any siding or station along the line where there is freight to load and unload, be the quantity what it may, as distinguished from a freight train which takes and leaves freight only at certain definite stops, and which is generally called a through train.

Passenger trains are similarly classified. Arizona Eastern Railroad Co. v State, 29 Ariz 446, 242 P 870.

local venue. Venue or jurisdiction which is confined to a single county.

local union. A voluntary association of laborers in a particular locality, subordinate to its national union, but a separate and distinct body, owing its creation and continued existence to the will of its own members. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 42.

local usage. See local custom.

local words. Words having a meaning determined by a peculiar local usage. Collender v Dinsmore, 55 NY 200.

locare. To let out to hire; to bestow in marriage.

locarium. Compensation for hire; rent.

locataire. (French.) A lessee; a tenant.

locatarius. A despositary,—a person who receives a deposit; a depositee.

locate. To place; to set in a particular spot or position; to select, survey, and settle the boundaries of a particular tract of land; or to designate a particular portion of land by limits; to designate and determine a place for something. Murdock v Memphis, 47 Tenn (7 Coldw) 483, 501. To discover where something is by a search therefor.

[751]

locatio. (Civil law.) A letting out to hire; a leasing; a contract of letting and hiring; a lease.

locatio conductio. (Civil law.) A bailment of goods for reward or hire.

locatio custodiae. The hiring of care or services to be performed or bestowed on the thing delivered under a bailment. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 5.

locatio et conductio. A bailment where goods are left with a bailee for some use or service by him, such bailment always being for some reward. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 5.

location. The act of locating, that is, designating a place for something or, in the case of land, designating the boundaries or otherwise describing it so that another may know where it lies and its extent. A statement in a description to real estate of the town, county, or state in which the land is situated; a description of real property by house number in a city. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 223. The selection of a homestead upon the public domain for entry. 42 Am J1st Pub L §§ 19 et seq. A series of acts by which the locator appropriates a portion of the public mineral lands and establishes his right to exploit it to the exclusion of all others. Creede & C. C. Mining & Milling Co. v Uinta Tunnel Mining & Transp. Co. 196 US 337, 49 L Ed 501, 25 S Ct 266. Another word for mining claim. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 69.

location of claim. See location.

location of railroad. The designation and adoption of a route, at least where such is followed by construction of the line. 44 Am J1st RR § 204.

The location of the route is, in its nature, a proceeding preliminary to the acquisition of land therefor by appraisal and condemnation; and the statute regulation must be complied with before the route can be located. The filing of the profile and map required by that section is not the location of the route, but the proposal of one, which may or may not become the actual route, as shall be determined by the subsequent proceedings. Re Niagara Falls Railway Co. (NY) 46 Hun 94, 97.

location of way. The determination of the course of a highway, made as a part of the establishment of the highway. 25 Am J1st High §§ 9 et seq.

location restrictions. Regulations and restrictions respecting the part of a lot or tract upon which buildings and other structures may be erected. 58 Am J1st Zon § 50.

locatio operis. A contract to repair a thing and to supply the materials.

The obligations imposed by the locatio operis and capable of enforcement by an action on the contract are: (a) To do the work which is the subject of the undertaking; (b) to do it within the time agreed on, or within what may be, in view of all the circumstances, a proper time; (c) to do it in a proper manner; (d) to surrender the property on which the labor has been expended on payment for the work done. Zell v Dunkle, 156 Pa 353, 357, 27 A 38.

locatio operis faciendi. The hiring of work or labor to be performed upon a thing. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 5.

locatio operis mercium vehendarum. The hiring of the carriage of goods, when they are bailed, either to a public carrier, or to a private person, for the purpose of being carried from place to place. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 5.

locatio rei. The hire of a thing, whereby the hirer gains the temporary use thereof. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 5.

locative calls. Landmarks, monuments, and other physical objects marking the surveyed line of a boundary, as distinguished from courses and distances which are descriptive calls. Holmes v Trout (US) 7 Pet 171, 194, 8 L Ed 646, 655.

locato. See ex locato.

locator. The bailor in a "locatio" or bailment for hire. One who locates a claim, such as a mining claim, or a homestead claim, to public lands.

See location.

locatum. The same as locatio et conductio.

loc. cit. Abbreviation of loco citato,—in the place cited.

loci. Plural of locus.

lock. A basin in a canal, of sufficient size to hold vessels of the size using the waterway, having gates which may be opened or closed to permit the entry or discharge of water, thereby changing the level of the water as required to permit vessels to advance from a lower to a higher level of the canal, or vice versa. Dawson v Western M. R. Co. 107 Md 70, 68 A 301. A mechanical device for holding fast the door of a building, room, chest, box, or vehicle against opening except by key or known combination.

See ignition.

locked car. A private car on a railroad. 14 Am J2d Car § 860.

locked ignition. The effect of removing the key from the instrumentality of ignition on a motor vehicle. 7 Am J2d Auto § 234.

locked wheel. A disablement of a motor vehicle. Anno: 15 ALR2d 917 § 7.

locker plant. A place where individual lockers for cold storage of food are furnished to customers at a monthly or weekly rental, sometimes furnishing services in cutting meat and otherwise preparing meat and other food for storage.

locker system. An arrangement in a social club whereby a member purchases his own liquor and places it in his own locker, in the club building, to which only he has a key. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 229.

lockjaw. See tetanus.

lockout. An employer's discharge of his employees because of a labor dispute or because of his dislike of his employees' activities as a union. Anno: 173 ALR 675. The temporary closing of the place of employment by the employer without formally discharging the employees, the object being to discourage union activities or to gain acceptance of his views or a compromise which is more favorable to him than the demands made by the employees. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 487.

lockup. A place for the temporary and compulsory confinement and detention of persons under arrest. 41 Am J1st Pris & P § 2.

[752]

locmen. (French.) Local mariners engaged as pilots of vessels coming in or departing from a harbor or traversing a river. Martin v Farnsworth 33 NY Super Ct (1 Jones 48) 246, 261.

loco citato. In the place cited; abbreviated, "loc. cit."

locomotive. The instrumentality which supplies the motive power for the movement of a train, usually placed at the head of the train. A railroad car for the purposes of the application of Safety Appliance Acts. Baltimore & Ohio R. Co. v Jackson, 353 US 325, 1 L Ed 2d 862, 77 S Ct 842.

locomotive engineer. The person in charge of the operation of a railroad locomotive.

loco parentis. See person in loco parentis.

locum. See locus.

locum tenens. Holding the place.

A person whose term of office was expired, is said to be merely locum tenens until he shall be superseded by some person authorized by law to be inducted into the office. State ex rel. Everding v Simon, 20 Or 365, 26 P 170, 174.

locuples. (Civil law.) Wealthy; financially responsible; able to respond to a judgment.

locus. A place; a location; a piece of ground; a neighborhood.

See eo loci.

locus contractus. The place of the contract,—the place where the contract is entered into.

Locus contractus regit actum. The place of the contract governs the act. A principle having reference to the act of solemnization. Scudder v Union Nat. Bank, 91 US 406, 410, 23 L Ed 245, 248.

Locus criminis. The place of the crime,—the place where the crime was committed.

locus delicti. The place of wrongdoing,—the place where the crime or the tort was committed.

locus in quo. The place in which; the premises described in the writ. Moor v Campbell, 15 NH 208, 211.

locus paenitentiae. A place for repentance. The opportunity which a man engaged in the commission of a crime may have to withdraw before its consummation, without incurring criminality. Hyde v United States, 225 US 347, 356, 56 L Ed 1114, 1122, 32 S Ct 793.

Locus pro solutione redditus aut pecuniae secundum conditionem dimissionis aut obligationis est stricte observandus. The place for the payment of rent or money is to be strictly adhered to according to the provision of the demise or obligation.

locus publicus. A public place.

Locus regit actum. The place governs the act.

The meaning of the maxim is that the place where a contract is entered into governs the manner in which it shall be formally solemnized. Pritchard v Norton, 106 US 124, 27 L Ed 106, 1 S Ct 102.

locus rei sitae. The place where the thing or the property is situated.

locus sigilli. The place of the seal. Abbreviated "L. S."

As to the effect of the letters "L. S." appearing on an instrument, as a seal, see 47 Am J1st Seals § 4.

locus standi. A place to stand; a standing.

"He was in the position of an alien enemy, and hence could have no locus standi in that forum." Daniels v Homer, 139 NC 219, 51 SE 992.

lode. A term of mining law, brought to this country by miners from Cornwall as an alteration of the word "lead." A vein or two or more veins constituting a seam or fissure in the crust of the earth filled with quartz or other rock containing gold, silver, or other valuable mineral. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 69.

lode claim. A mining claim that embraces one or more continuous veins, lodes, or ledges of mineral lying within well-defined seams or fissures in the surrounding rock, often deep within the bowels of the earth. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 70.

lode location. A mining claim where the appropriation purports to be a claim to a lode.

In the location of mining claims there are two kinds of locations, lode and placer, which differ somewhat. A discovery within the limits of the claim is equally essential to both. But to sustain a lode location the discovery must be of a vein or lode of rock in place, bearing valuable mineral; and to sustain a placer location it must be of some other form of valuable mineral deposit, one such being scattered particles of gold found in the softer covering of the earth. A placer discovery will not sustain a lode location, nor a lode discovery a placer location. Cole v Ralph, 252 US 286, 295, 64 L Ed 567, 577, 40 S Ct 321.

lodeman. Same as loadman.

lodemanage. Same as loadmanage.

lodge. A small house. A fraternal order; a secret society. State ex rel. Bradford v National Asso. of Farmers' etc. 35 Kan 51, 57.

See fraternal order or society.

lodger. One who resides in a lodging house or rooming house. 29 Am J Rev ed Innk § 6. A person who, for the time being, has his home at his lodging place. 29 Am J Rev ed Innk § 12.

lodging house. A house where bedrooms as such are supplied to guests for compensation usually known as room rent. 29 Am J Rev ed Innk § 6. Characterized by at least some degree of permanency of residence by the guests. Anno: 64 ALR2d 1167.

lodging house keeper. The proprietor or keeper of a lodging house.

lodging house keeper's lien. The statutory lien of the keeper of a lodging house upon goods of a lodger brought upon the premises for the former's charges against the latter for the lodging and services appertaining to the lodging, the lien sometimes being extended by statute to goods of a third person brought upon the premises by the lodger. 29 Am J Rev ed Innk §§ 145 et seq.

lods et ventes. A fine which was formerly imposed for the alienation of land.

log. The section of a tree which has been cut or sawed from the trunk after the latter has been severed from the stump. Craddock Mfg. Co. v Faison, 138 Va 665, 123 SE 535, 39 ALR 1309. The record of an airplane flight kept by the pilot. Ogden v Transcontinental Airport of Toledo, 390 Ohio App 301, 177 NE 536; Liberty Mut. Ins. Co. v Boggs (Tex Civ App) 66 SW2d 787. The rather minute record of the voyage of a ship kept by the master or other officer, containing entries respecting the course and nature of the voyage, the weather encountered, and daily events, especially those pertaining to the operation of the vessel and the administration of discipline upon the vessel. A record required of certain vessels by federal statute. 48 Am J1st Ship § 220.

[753]

logbook. The book or journal in which a log is kept.

See log.

log boom. See boom.

log brand. See log mark.

log-driving company. A corporation supplying facilities to the general public for floating logs and carrying on a large-scale business of driving and rafting logs for other persons. 34 Am J1st Logs § 85.

logger's lien. A lien upon the product of the work for work performed in connection with the cutting of timber, the hauling and rafting of logs, and the sawing of timber into marketable lumber products. 34 Am J1st Logs § 101.

logging. The operation of cutting and taking logs out of standing timber. 34 Am J1st Logs §§ 52 et seq. Felling trees, cutting them into logs, and transporting them to mill or market. Fox Park Timber Co. v Baker, 53 Wyo 467, 84 P2d 736, 120 ALR 1020 (involving workmen's compensation.)

logging license. A license to enter upon land and to cut and remove timber. 34 Am J1st Logs §§ 43 et seq.

logging railroad. A railroad operated by a logging company for the purpose of transporting its own products or materials to be used in logging operations. 13 Am J2d Car § 12.

logia. A lodge.

logical end of instrument. The place where the draftsman stopped writing in the consecutive order of composition, as revealed by a reading of the instrument naturally and consecutively without deviating from the order of the instrument to have the sense continuous. The end of the disposition of property, wherever that may appear in the instrument. 57 Am J1st Wills § 268. The termination of the sequence which the testator intended to give to the writing as revealed upon the face of the instrument. Stinson's Estate, 228 Pa 475, 77 A 807.

logical relevancy. See relevancy.

log jam. A pile of logs lodged in a river or other stream of water so firmly and extensively as to block the use of the river or stream for the purpose of transportation. Elder v Delcour, 364 Mo 835, 269 SW2d 17, 47 ALR2d 370.

log laborer. One who labors on timber or logs in respect of the production and transportation of logs or timber, with his physical powers, in the service and under the direction of another, for fixed wages. Rogers v Dexter & P. R. Co. 85 Me 372, 27 A 257.

log mark. A mark or brand upon logs transported by floatage. 34 Am J1st Logs § 112.

log measure. The measurement of a log for the purpose of ascertaining the number of feet of lumber which may be obtained from the log. Craddock Mfg. Co. v Faison, 138 Va 665, 123 SE 535, 39 ALR 1309.

See board foot; wood measure.

logrolling. A term applied to the submission of a constitutional amendment to the voters in such form that a voter is required to vote for something which he disapproves in order to register approval of other propositions. Fugina v Donovan, 259 Minn 35, 104 NW2d 911. A term applied to a similar practice in drafting and submitting a bill to the legislature for adoption and enactment into law, especially as an expedient in obtaining the passage of special and local legislation. 50 Am J1st Stat § 49. A political term applied to the practice in legislative bodies whereby one member votes for the bill of another member in order to obtain the latter's support and vote for a measure of the former or in which the former is interested.

log timber. Trees such as can be cut into logs convenient in size for sawing into lumber. Ladnier v Ingram Day Lumber Co. 135 Miss 632, 100 So 369.

log wagon. A horse-drawn vehicle, sturdy in construction, formerly in use for the hauling of logs and other heavy material.

loiter. See loitering.

loitering. Being dilatory; standing around or spending one's time idly. State v Badda, 97 W Va 417, 125 SE 159. Idling or lounging upon a street or other public way, especially in such manner or to such an extent as to interfere with or annoy travelers. 25 Am J1st High § 189. Wandering on the streets or in public places. 55 Am J1st Vag § 7.

In reference to a statute rendering it a criminal offense on the part of the proprietor of a place for the sale of intoxicating liquors in permitting a minor to "loiter" in a saloon, some authorities take the position that a minor is "loitering" in such a place if he stays for an appreciable period of time, say 10 or 15 minutes. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 260.

See vagrancy.

lollardy. The offense of being a member of a religious sect known as the Lollards which sprang up in the reign of Henry IV, made indictable by 2 Hen. V, c. 7.

lond. land.

London custom. See custom of London.

London Prize Ring Rules. Rules applied in prize fights. States v Olympic Club, 46 La Ann 935, 15 So 190.

Londres. (French.) The city of London.

long. Extended; not short.

In the language of stockholders, a transaction is "long" where an order is given to a broker to buy, or where the broker receives an order to credit the account with certain stocks. Baldwin v Flagg, 36 NJ Eq 48, 56. A trader is said to be long on the market when he takes the full price risk, whereby he gains if the market price goes up and loses in the event of a decline in the market. Valley Waste Mills v Page (CA5 Ga) 115 F2d 466.

long-and-short haul. See long haul rate.

Longa patientia trahitur ad consensum. Long sufferance is interpreted as consent.

Longa possessio est pacis jus. Long-continued possession is the law of peace.

[754]

Longa possessio jus parit. Long-continued possession ripens into right.

Longa possessio parit jus possidendi, et tollit actionem vero domino. Long possession ripens into the right to possession, and deprives the true owner of his right of action. Campbell v Holt, 115 US 620, 623, 29 L Ed 483, 484, 6 S Ct 209.

long arm statute. A statute providing for constructive or substituted service of process on a nonresident motorist in case such motorist becomes involved in an accident while using the highways in the jurisdiction in which such statute has been enacted, and leaves the jurisdiction before any legal action against him growing out of the accident can be commenced. 8 Am J2d Auto § 849.

longevity pay. An allowance and payment made to certain officers of the armed forces, in addition to regular pay, of a specified per cent of their current yearly pay for each period of a specified number of years of service. 36 Am J1st Mil § 64.

long haul rate. The rate of a carrier which, considered in proportion to the charge made for a shorter distance, is more favorable to the shipper than the ordinary rate. 13 Am J2d Car § 205.

Long Island Sound. The body of water between Long Island and the mainland to the north, not inclusive of the independent bays connected therewith. Tiffany v Oyster Bay, 209 NY 1, 102 NE 585 (Colonial Long Island Charters, bounding grants by the Sound); Re Site for Hunts Point Sewage Treatment Works, 281 App Div 315, 119 NYS2d 391.

long on the market. See long.

long parliament. The English parliament under Charles the First in 1640, reduced in numbers in 1648, dissolved by Cromwell in 1653, and restored in 1659, and finally dissolved in 1660.

long quinto. Literally, long fifth. A name given to the Year Book containing a long and separate set of reports for the 5th year of the reign of Edward IV. This set of reports is distinct from the reports of the same year which are found in their proper chronological order in the Year Books 1-22 Edward IV. The fact that the separate reports were so great in number as to make an entire volume achieved for them the name "Long Quinto."

See Year Books.

longshoremen. See stevedores.

Longshoremen and Harbor Workers Compensation Act. A federal statute which provides, with certain exceptions, for compensation, for injuries occurring in maritime employment, in cases where recovery for the resulting disability or death through workmen's compensation proceedings may not validly be provided by state law. 33 USC §§ 901 et seq; 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 124.

long-staple wool. See worsted.

long ton. A measure of avoirdupois weight; the equivalent of 2,240 pounds.

Longum tempus, et longus usus, qui excedit memoria hominum, sufficit pro jure. Long time and long use, which go beyond the memory of man, take the place of right.

long vacation. The vacation of the English courts which was from August tenth to October twenty-fourth in the law courts, and to October twenty-eighth in chancery, but is now from August thirteenth to October twenty-third for both.

looking and listening. The duty of a person upon approaching a railroad track with the purpose of crossing it. The duty of using the senses in a way that an ordinarily prudent person would do under similar circumstances in order to determine whether it is safe to cross at that time and place. 44 Am J1st RR § 546.

lookout. Exercising the sense of sight with concentration, particularly for the purpose of avoiding injury to one's self or another. Constant vigilance on the part of a locomotive engineer to discover persons and things upon the track. 44 Am J1st RR § 386. Vigilance on the part of a motorist in anticipating and discovering the presence of other persons upon the highway. 7 Am J2d Auto § 355. A vigilant watch ahead required of the operator of a bus in order to prevent injury to other users of the street, whether such users are in vehicles or on foot. Alabama Power Co. v Bass, 218 Ala 586, 119 So 625, 63 ALR 1. A person other than the master, pilot, helmsman, or other officer or member of the crew of a vessel, whose sole business when on duty shall be to look for and report vessels and dangers ahead. 48 Am J1st Ship § 268. One who participates in the execution of a criminal offense by watching at the proper distance to prevent surprise of confederates at the scene of the crime. 26 Am J1st Homi § 65.

This word, as used in connection with the operation of a motor vehicle, has no technical legal significance; its meaning depends on the context. Devore v Schaffer, 245 Iowa 1017, 65 NW2d 553, 51 ALR2d 1041.

loom. A machine for weaving cloth. Hopewell Mills v Taunton Sav. Bank, 150 Mass 519, 23 NE 327.

loom beam. A fixture as an essential part of the loom in a cotton mill. Hopewell Mills v Taunton Sav. Bank, 150 Mass 519, 23 NE 327.

loose character. See loose woman.

loose-leaf account book. An account book in a form other than a bound volume, the book being so devised that sheets containing the accounts of individuals may be inserted or withdrawn at will.

loose wire. A wire, particularly a wire carrying an electric current, which has become detached from the pole or other device to which it is normally secured.

loose woman. A woman of loose character. An unchaste woman; a woman who is sexually impure. Foster v Hanchett, 68 Vt 319, 35 A 316.

loquela. A discourse; a conversation; a talk; a speech; language.

Loquendum ut vulgus; sentiendum ut docti. A person should speak as the masses speak, and think as the learned think.

lord. A member of the British peerage; a feudal proprietor; an official title.

lord advocate. The principal crown counsel in civil causes and the chief public prosecutor in criminal prosecutions.

Lord Brougham's Act. An English statute removing the disqualification of a party as a witness. 14 & 15 Vict c 99.

Lord Cairn's Act. An English statute conferring jurisdiction upon the court of chancery which permits it to award damages in lieu of an injunction. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 292.

Lord Campbell's Act. An English statute passed in 1846, allowing an action for death caused by the wrongful act, neglect, or default of another. 9 & 10 Vict c 93; 22 Am J2d Dth § 2.

lord chancellor. See Lord High Chancellor.

Lord Chesterfield's Act. An English Statute passed in 1751, adopting the Gregorian calendar.

lord chief baron. An English judicial officer who was formerly the chief judge of the court of exchequer.

lord chief justice. The chief judge of the English court of king's (or queen's) bench.

Lord Coke. See Coke.

Lord Cranworth's Act. An English statute passed in 1860 facilitating the functions of trustees and mortgagees by giving them the powers which they usually have by contract or appointment.

Lord Denman's Act. An English statute removing the disqualification of interest in reference to the competency of a witness. 6 & 7 Vict c 85.

Lord Eldon. One of the greatest and most conservative English chancellors. Edgerton v Edgerton, 12 Mont 122, 29 P 966.

lord high admiral. The highest officer of the British navy, and formerly the chief officer of the British courts of admiralty.

Lord High Chancellor. The presiding officer of the House of Lords in Great Britain.

Historically, the highest judicial officer in the kingdom, in rank superior to every temporal lord, created by the mere delivery to his custody of the king's great seal, a privy counsellor and prolocutor of the house of lords by prescription. He had the appointment of all justices of the peace, was keeper of the king's conscience, visitor in the king's right of all hospitals and colleges, the general guardian of all infants, idiots, and lunatics, and supreme judge of the court of chancery. See 3 Bl Comm 47.

lord high constable. See constable of England.

lord high steward. A member of the English house of lords appointed to preside therein in cases of felony and impeachment.

lord high treasurer. An officer who was formerly the chief treasurer of England.

lord in gross. A feudal lord whose lordship was not attached to any manor.

lord justice clerk. The second highest judicial officer in Scotland.

lord keeper. An English officer who was the keeper of the great seal of the kingdom.

Lord Lyndhurst' s Act. An English statute rendering void marriages of persons within certain degrees of relationship.

lord mayor's court. An English court of limited jurisdiction in both law and equity cases, held in London.

lord of a manor. The proprietor or owner of a manor.

lord paramount. The king of England.

Lord's day. The Sabbath day; Sunday.

lordship. The jurisdiction of the lord of a manor; a manor. The title by which a lord is addressed, usually preceded by "your" or "his."

lords marchers. The lords of the marches of Wales and Scotland.

lords of articles. A parliamentary committee which prepared bills for enactment and which was designed to increase the power of the crown, long since abolished by statute.

lords of parliament. The members of the English house of lords, the upper house of parliament.

lords spiritual. Those bishops and archbishops who are members of the English house of lords.

lords temporal. The lay lords,—those members of the English house of lords who are not lords spiritual,—who were neither bishops nor archbishops.

Lord Tenterden's Act. An English statute (9 Geo. IV, ch. 14) providing that no new promise should take a case out of the statute of limitations unless in writing, and signed by the party to be charged. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 289. Also extending the statute of frauds to cover a representation or assurance made or given, concerning or relating to the conduct, credit, ability, trade or dealings, of any other person, to the intent or purpose that such other person may obtain credit, money or goods thereon. 49 Am J1st Stat of F § 8.

lose. To fail of winning or of accomplishing a tie. To drop or otherwise handle something inadvertently so that one is unable to find it later.

To lose is not to place or put anything carefully and voluntarily in the place one intends and then to forget it; it is casually and involuntarily to part from the possession; and the thing is then usually found in a place or under circumstances to prove to the finder that the owner's will was not employed in placing it there. To place a pocketbook, therefore, upon a table, and to omit or forget to take it away, is not to lose it in the sense in which it is referred to as lost property. Foulke v New York Consol. Railroad Co. 228 NY 269, 127 NE 237, 9 ALR 1384, 1387.

loser. One who has lost something. One who has failed of winning or of accomplishing a tie.

As the word is used in a statute authorizing the "loser" in any game of chance to sue for and recover the amount he has lost, the term refers only to the person in whose name the bet or wager has been made, whether he be a principal or only an agent. Haywood v Sheldon (NY) 13 Johns 88, 90.

loss. A deprivation. Damage; also the act of losing and the thing lost. 22 Am J2d Damg § 1.

The word is not one of limited, hard and fast meaning. There are many kinds of loss, besides money out of pocket. No man would doubt that he might rightly call a "loss" that event which changed his status from solvency to insolvency. In the strictest sense of the word a man against whom a tort judgment has become final has suffered a loss. Schamps v Fidelity & Casualty Co. (CAS La) 250 F 6, 6 ALR 1231, 1233.

Even though a showing of losses may be necessary to constitute the particular transaction a joint adventure, the term "loss" does not necessarily mean actual monetary loss. There is a loss if one's time has been for nought. Summers v Hoffman, 341 Mich 686, 69 NW2d 198, 48 ALR2d 1033.

[756]

See actual total loss; constructive total loss; direct loss; fire loss; indemnity insurance; liability insurance; proof of loss; risk and causes of loss; total loss.

loss and loss expense reserve. Terminology of insurers; the estimated amount payable for losses reported but not yet settled, plus a reserve for losses incurred but not yet recorded, including the estimated expenses of adjustment.

loss by breaking. See breaking.

loss by fire. See fire loss.

loss by theft. As a deduction in computing income tax:—a loss in the sense that the taxpayer is worse off financially as a result of the crime. Anno: 62 ALR2d 590.

See theft insurance.

loss claims reserve. See loss and loss expense reserve; reserve.

losses and loss expenses incurred. A phrase common to insurers; representing the total claims and losses paid during the year for which the insurer is reporting, plus the outstanding reserves for unpaid losses and claims at the end of the year, less the reserves for outstanding losses and claims as of the end of the previous year; also including the expense of adjusting and processing all losses and claims paid during the year plus the outstanding reserves for loss and claim expense at the end of the current year, less the reserve for loss and claim expense at the end of the previous year.

loss from liability. The loss which arises immediately upon one becoming liable to another and not the loss which arises upon the payment or extinguishment thereof. Anno: 37 ALR 646.

See liability insurance.

loss of arm. See loss of member.

loss of business time. An insurance term, meaning disability from working at one's specific occupation, irrespective of ability to perform other work. Anno: 31 ALR2d 1222.

loss of capital. See capital loss.

loss of consortium. The loss of a wife's society, companionship, and services. 27 Am J1st H & W § 505. The loss of society and sexual intercourse. 27 Am J1st H & W § 525.

loss of domicil. A matter of change of domicil, involving an abandonment of one domicil with an intent not to return to it as a domicil, and the acquisition of a new domicil by actual residence in such place with an intention of making it a permanent home. 25 Am J2d Dom § 16.

loss of earning capacity. An element of future damages resulting from a personal injury where the effect of the injury extends beyond the time of trial of the action for the injury in a decrease in earning capacity. 22 Am J2d Damg § 89.

loss of earnings. See loss of earning capacity; loss of time.

loss of eye. The actual deprivation of an eye or the deprivation of use of an eye for any practical purpose. Order of United Commercial Travelers v Knorr (CA10 Kan) 112 F2d 679.

loss of foot. A complete loss of the member by severance or an entire destruction of use of the member; as by paralysis. Fuller v Locomotive Engineers Mut. Life & Acci. Ins. Asso. 122 Mich 548, 81 NW 326; Sheanon v Pacific Mut. Life Ins. Co. 77 Wis 618, 46 NW 799.

loss of jurisdiction. The cessation of the right to adjudicate concerning the subject matter in a given case, either by the termination of the power of the court or the destruction or removal of the subject matter. 20 Am J2d Cts §§ 149, 150.

loss of leg. See loss of member.

loss of limb. See loss of member.

loss of member. Loss of arm or leg. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1510. Sometimes meaning an actual severance, at other times including loss of use. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 287.

See loss of foot.

loss of profits. See lost profit.

loss of sight. The deprivation of the use of one's eyes for any practical purpose.

It has been held that an accident resulting in a ninety per cent loss of sight of both eyes was not a loss of sight where the loss could be reduced to fifty per cent by the use of proper glasses. Cline v Studebaker Corp. 189 Mich 514, 155 NW 519.

See loss of eye; total loss of sight.

loss of time. An element of damages for personal injury confined to time prior to trial of the action therefor, being inability of the plaintiff to follow his ordinary pursuits regardless of whether he was being compensated therefor at the time of the accident. 22 Am J2d Damg § 89.

Loss of working time. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1514.

See loss of business time.

loss of use. An element of damages as an interference with the plaintiff's right to use the property involved, usually measured by rental value or the reasonable cost of hiring a replacement. 22 Am J2d Damg § 152.

See loss of member.

loss of wife's society. See loss of consortium.

loss payable clause. A provision in a policy of insurance on property taken out by the owner that the loss, if any, shall be paid to a mortgagee, or other person having an interest in the property, as his interest may appear. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins §§ 728 et seq.

loss ratio. Terminology of insurers; a ratio arrived at by measuring losses incurred, plus loss adjustment expenses, incurred against premiums earned.

See premium earned.

lost corner. A point of a survey of land, the position of which cannot be determined beyond reasonable doubt, either from traces of the original marks or from acceptable evidence or testimony bearing on the original position, and the location of which can be restored only by reference to one or more independent corners. Reid v Dunn, 201 Cal App 2d 612, 20 Cal Rptr 273.

lost deed. See lost instrument.

lost grant. The fiction whereunder it is presumed from long possession and exercise of a right in real estate with acquiescence of the owner that there must have been originally a grant by the owner which has become lost. 25 Am J2d Eas § 39. The presumption that one, who has for a long time been in interrupted possession of real property and committing acts thereon ostensibly of a proprietary nature, maintained such possession and committed such acts under an ancient or lost grant of title. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 3.

[757]

lost instrument. A written instrument, such as contract, deed, mortgage, etc., which cannot be found after careful and thorough search, sometimes including an instrument which has been stolen, burned, or otherwise destroyed. 34 Am J1st Lost Papers § 2.

lost log. A log which in the course of floating upon a stream by way of transportation to a sawmill, has been washed ashore and stranded. 34 Am J1st Logs § 76.

lost monument. A monument mentioned in a description of real estate as marking a boundary, which has been destroyed or misplaced. 12 Am J2d Bound §§ 70, 71.

lost or not lost. A clause in a marine insurance policy whereby the coverage extends to a loss occurring prior to the date of the policy. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 327. A stipulation against past as well as future losses and the law upholds it. Hooper v Robinson (US) 8 Otto 528, 25 L Ed 219.

lost profits. In contract actions, the profit which the nondefaulting promisee expected to make from the breached contract or the profit which he expected to make from the collateral transactions based upon the promised performance. In tort actions, the expected gains from transactions which the injured party expected to complete had it not been for the tort. 22 Am J2d Damg § 171.

lost property. Personal property from which the owner has involuntarily parted through neglect, carelessness, or inadvertence. Danielson v Roberts, 44 Or 108, 74 P 913. Property casually and unknowingly dropped by the owner. Flood v City Nat. Bank, 218 Iowa 898, 253 NW 509, 95 ALR 1168.

lost record. A public record which cannot be found after careful and thorough search. 34 Am J1st Lost Papers § 3.

lost time. See loss of time.

lot. A small area of land; a building lot. as in a municipality. A wood lot, house lot, or store lot. A tract of land smaller than a field. Kaufman v Stein, 138 Ind 49, 37 NE 333. In a technical sense, a tract in a township duly laid out as a lot by the original proprietors. White v Gay, 9 NH 126. A tract of land indicated as a lot in the plan or map of a land development. As the word is used in a mechanic's lien statute:—the entire separate tract upon which the improvement or building, for which the lien is claimed, is asserted. Anno: 84 ALR 124.

In a distinct sense, a determination by chance; an object for determining by chance, be it nothing more than a bundle of long straws and short straws. Lynch v Rosenthal, 144 Ind 86, 42 NE 1103. That which one receives in a determination by chance.

See cemetery lot; street water lots.

lot and scot. See scot and lot.

lot book. A plat book.

lotion. A soothing or healing liquid applied to the skin, much used by barbers. 10 Am J2d Barbers § 19.

lot number. A designation referring to a number ascribed to a lot in the original plat, or an addition thereto, of a city or town. White v Gay, 9 NH 126. The number given a lot laid out by a survey, its purpose being to afford a means of description of the premises. 12 Am J2d Bound § 7.

lottery. A scheme for the distribution of a prize by lot or by chance. A scheme for the distribution of a prize or prizes by chance through selling tickets with numbers corresponding to numbers on tickets in a wheel or box from which the lucky number or numbers are drawn at a time previously announced. 34 Am J1st Lot § 2. A generic term, including any device whereby anything of value is, for a consideration, allotted by chance, State ex rel. Home Planners Depository v Hughes, 299 Mo 529, 253 SW 229, 28 ALR 1305, including policy playing, gift exhibition, prize contest, raffle, and other forms of gambling. 34 Am J1st Lot § 2.

lottery ticket. See having lottery tickets in possession; lottery.

lotto. A game of chance a gambling device where played for money. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 36.

See bingo.

loud and raucous. The characterization of a sound interfering with the peace and quiet of a person. Haggerty v Associated Farmers of California, Inc. 44 Cal 2d 60, 279 P2d 734.

Louisiana law. The law of the State of Louisiana which has its background in the civil or continental law rather than the common law.

L'ou le ley done chose, la ceo done remedie a vener a ceo. Wherever the law gives a right, it gives a remedy to recover.

lounging. See loitering.

love and affection. A good but not a valuable consideration necessary to support a bill or note. 11 Am J2d B & N § 222. A good consideration for a deed where extended toward one to whom a natural duty exists, such as near relatives by either consanguinity or affinity, or based upon a strong moral obligation supported either by some antecedent legal obligation, unenforceable at the time, or by some present equitable duty. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 64.

lovely claim. A donation made by the general government, of two quarter sections of the public lands, according to the legal subdivisions of the public surveys, to a particular class of persons, who are embraced by the act of Congress of the twenty-fourth of May, 1828, and who have complied with the conditions therein imposed, and also with the stipulations of the treaty ratified between the United States and the Cherokee nation of Indians on the twenty-eighth of May, 1828. Logan v Moulder, 1 Ark 313.

love-making. One of the arts of seduction. 47 Am J2d Seduc § 68.

low. Lacking in dignity, refinement, or principle; vulgar; groveling; abject; mean, base; in a mean condition, as a low-born fellow. Arkansas v Kansas & T. Coal Co. (CC Ark) 96 F 353, 362.

low bote. Compensation for the killing of a person in a riot or tumult.

lowboy. A chest of drawers standing on short legs. A trailer used in the trucking and draying business to transport heavy objects. Utica Carting, Storage & Contracting Co. v World Fire & Marine Ins. Co. 277 App Div 483, 100 NYS2d 941, 36 ALR2d 500, reh and leave to app den 278 App Div 629, 102 NYS2d 637.

[758]

low-cost housing. Housing for people of small means or persons on welfare.

lower court. An expression of dual meaning: (1) a trial court as distinguished from the court to which an appeal from its judgment is taken; (2) an inferior court.

lower house. The less important of the two houses of a legislative body; as the house of representatives of the Congress of the United States.

lowering grade. An alteration of a highway by cutting away a hill or incline.

lower offense. See included offense.

lower owner. A riparian owner whose land is downstream in reference to the land of another such owner.

lowers. Derived from the French "loner;" a seaman's wages.

lowest balance doctrine. The modern rule that in order to trace a trust fund, deposited as such in a bank, into the hands of a receiver of the bank, it is only necessary to show that the lowest level of cash in the vaults of the bank never fell below the amount of the fund. Ferguson v Reed (DC Pa) 44 F 387.

lowest reasonable rate. A rate which is not confiscatory in the constitutional sense. Federal Power Com. v Natural Gas Pipeline Co. 315 US 575, 86 L Ed 1037, 62 S Ct 736.

lowest responsible bidder. A bidder on a public contract to be selected by the officers with the exercise of sound discretion, not necessarily the lowest bidder in dollars, but just as clearly not the highest bidder. McIntosh Road Materials Co. v Woolworth, 365 Pa 190, 74 A2d 384.

A municipality may exercise a reasonable discretion in determining the lowest responsible bidder on items of equipment not capable of precise specifications and, in so doing, may consider, in addition to the bid price, substantial differences in quality, suitability, and adaptability of the equipment for the intended use. Otter Tail Power Co. v Elbow Lake, 234 Minn 419, 49 NW2d 197, 27 ALR2d 906.

See responsible bidder.

low flying. An unwarranted interference with a surface proprietor's rights. 8 Am J2d Avi § 4.

low-pressure gas line. A line of pipe through which gas for household use is conveyed at a pressure which renders it safe for household appliances. McKenna v Bridgewater Gas Co. 193 Pa 633, 45 A 52.

low temperature accelerators. See cold vulcanization.

low tide. The lowest point reached by the ebbing tide.

See mean low tide.

low-water channel. The channel of a river when, because of dry weather a minimum of water is in the channel. Cole v Missouri, Kansas & Oklahoma Railroad Co. 20 Okla 227, 94 P 540.

low water line. The line in the bed of a stream to which the water falls in the season of ordinary low water.

low-watermark. The lowest line made by the receding tide, not the lowest line which a stream of fresh water emptying into the sea, or a cove, or tidal river makes with the land. 12 Am J2d Bound § 13.

See ordinary low-watermark.

loyal. Faithful; lawful or legal in the sense of following constituted authority.

loyalty. Adherence to the government, a person, or a principle. Faithfulness or devotion to the government or to law, or to an employer, master, or superior.

loyalty check. A test of one's attitude toward the government and the possibility of his being involved in subversive activities by a course of detection respecting the character of meeting which he attends, the persons with whom he associates, and his past political record, also any criminal record which he may have.

loyalty oath. An oath, required of a public officer or employee, as a condition of employment or continued employment, by which the affiant not only pledges himself in the customary form to support the Constitution of the United States and of his particular state, but also affirms that he is not a member of certain designated organizations, such as the Communist Party, or of any organization believing in or advocating the doctrine of the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force or any unlawful means, and that he does not believe in or advocate such doctrine. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 12. An oath once required as a prerequisite, in certain instances, to maintaining or defending a civil action, the statute so requiring later being held unconstitutional. Pierce v Carskadon (US) 16 Wall 234, 24 L Ed 676.

L. R. Abbreviation of Lloyd's Register.

L.R.A. An abbreviation of Lawyers' Reports Annotated.

L.R.A. (NS.) An abbreviation of Lawyers' Reports Annotated (New Series).

Ls. Abbreviation of locus sigilli, the place of the seal.

As to the effect of the letters "L.S." appearing on an instrument, as a seal, see 47 Am J1st Seals § 4.

l.t. Abbreviation of long ton.

ltd. Abbreviation of limited.

Lubricum linguae non facile trahendum est in poenam. A slip of the tongue ought not to be readily subjected to punishment.

lucid interval. A period of sanity intervening periods of insanity.

The term means more than a mere remission of the manifestations of a person's insanity. It must be such a full return of his mind to sanity as places him in possession of the powers of his mind, enabling him to understand and transact his affairs as usual. Ekin v McCracken (Pa) 11 Phila, 534, 539.

lucrative bailee. The bailee of a lucrative bailment; a bailee for hire.

lucrative bailment. A bailment for hire. A bailment in which the parties contemplate some price or compensation in return for benefits flowing from the fact of bailment. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 9.

lucrative office. Same as office of profit.

lucrative succession. The gift by an ancestor to his heir of all or a portion of the property which the heir would inherit, rendering him liable for the debts of his ancestor.

lucrative title. A term having an origin in the Spanish law. A title derived by donation, inheritance, or devise without onerous conditions attached. Fuller v Ferguson, 26 Cal 546.

[759]

lucris causa. For the sake of gain. Anno: 12 ALR 804.

lucris gratia. For the sake of gain. Mann v State, 47 Ohio St 556, 26 NE 226.

lucro captando. See de lucro captando.

Lucrum facere ex pupilli tutela tutor non debet. (Roman law.) A guardian ought not to make gain out of the guardianship of his ward. Manning v Manning (NY) 1 Johns Ch 527, 535.

luctuosa haereditas. (Civil law.) A sorrowful or mournful inheritance,—an inheritance in the ascending line, as by parents from children. 4 Kent Comm 397.

luctus. See annus luctus.

luctus tempus. See intra luctus tempos.

luggage. See baggage.

lumber. The product manufactured from logs. Building material. Craddock Mfg. Co. v Faison, 138 Va 665, 123 SE 535, 39 ALR 1309.

lumbering. The operation of taking logs from timber and sawing them into lumber. 34 Am J1st Logs §§ 52 et seq.

lumber measure. The actual number of board feet which have been obtained from the sawing of a log. Craddock Mfg. Co. v Faison, 138 Va 665, 123 SE 535, 39 ALR 1309.

See board foot; log measure.

lumberyard. A place where lumber is kept in large quantities for sale at retail.

lumen. (Civil law.) Light; light in a house; a window; the right to receive light.

luminal. Another term for phenobarbital.

Lumley v Gye. An historical and famous case which enunciated the doctrine of liability for interference with a contract relationship. 2 El & Bl 216, 118 Eng Reprint 749, 1 ERC 706.

lumber. See lumping.

lumping. Making a sale for one sum in the aggregate without pricing by unit of measure, such as so much per pound, per bushel, per yard, etc. Vernacular in the field of labor law:—employing a so-called "contractor," who actually is a mere figurehead or "lumper" from the contractual standpoint, furnishing the labor and acting as superintendent of construction, the owner purchasing the material and assuming the responsibility in connection with the contract. People v Weinseimer, 117 App Div 603, 102 NYS 579.

lump-sale. See sale en masse.

lump sum. One sum covering all amounts to be paid.

lump-sum alimony. An award of alimony in gross, that is, an award of one definite sum in the aggregate, whether or not it is to be paid in instalments or in one sum. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 614.

lump-sum payment. A payment in one sum, as distinguished from payment in instalments or at intervals.

lump-sum price. See lumping.

lump-sum settlement. The commutation of periodical payments into one lump sum to be accepted as in full payment and satisfaction. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 548.

lump-sum verdict. A verdict in one sum without specification of the amounts allowed for separate items of damages or as interest. 53 Am J1st Trial §§ 1053, 1054.

lunacy. A misguided or erroneously directed condition of the mind. An impairment of one or more of the mental faculties sufficient to cause instability of mental powers and want of full capacity to reason. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 3.

See lunatic.

lunacy proceeding. A proceeding to determine the mental competency of a person, the purpose being to commit the person to an institution if found to be mentally deranged so that he should be confined, or to obtain the appointment of a guardian or committee for him if found mentally incompetent to manage his own affairs.

lunar month. A month of 28 days. 52 Am J1st Time § 11.

lunatic. An insane person. People v Wells, 33 Cal 2d 330, 202 P2d 53, cert den 338 US 836, 94 L Ed 510, 70 S Ct 43. One incapable from unsoundness of mind to control himself or his affairs. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 3.

lunatico inquirendo. See de lunatico inquirendo.

Lunaticus, qui gaudet in lucidis intervallis. He is a lunatic who enjoys lucid intervals.

lunation. Same as lunar month.

lunch hour. The time taken off from employment or occupation for eating lunch; a variable time but normally one hour.

lunch vendor. A person who goes through a train selling lunches and sometimes other small articles of merchandise to passengers. 14 Am J2d Car § 913.

lung disease. A phrase usually associated with tuberculosis, although inclusive of any affliction of the lungs.

lung examination. An examination of the lungs for the detection of any diseased condition. A physical examination made by way of discovery. 23 Am J2d Dep § 220.

lupanatrix. A she-wolf; a prostitute.

lupinum caput. A wolf head, a person whom anyone might kill and receive a reward for his head,—an outlaw.

lupinum caput gerere. To have one's head regarded as a wolf's, with a bounty for its capture,—to be outlawed.

lupus. A wolf.

lurch. A sudden and unexpected movement of an aircraft due to turbulent atmospheric conditions or other manifestation of nature. 8 Am J2d Avi § 96. A roll, pitch, or sway of a vehicle, in rounding a corner or otherwise changing direction abruptly.

lure to improvidence. The giving of a premium by a dealer to a purchaser of goods or a particular article. 52 Am J1st Trad St § 11.

luring. See entice.

lust. A strong desire for sexual relations. Anno: 19 ALR 1526.

[760]

lustful. Having lust.
See lust.

Lydford law. An allusion to violent acts in the nature of lynching, recorded in literature by Sir Walter Scott in the introduction to his Border Minstrelsy. Daniels v Homer, 139 NC 239, 51 SE 992.

"I oft have heard of Lydford law, How in the morn they hang and draw And sit in judgment after." State v Lewis, 142 NC 626, 55 SE 600.

lyef geld. (Saxon.) A fine which was exacted for leave to till the soil and raise crops.

lying. See lie.

lying at anchor. A vessel floating on the water, but held by her cable and anchor. Reid v Lancaster Fire Ins. Co. 19 Hun 284, 285.

lying-in expenses. Medical, nursing, and hospital expenses in childbirth.

lying in grant. See lie in grant.

lying in livery. See lie in livery.

lying in wait. Ambushing or concealing oneself for the purpose of taking a victim unawares. 26 Am J1st Homi § 16. Concealing oneself in a position to wait and watch for a victim with the intention of inflicting bodily injury upon such person or of killing him. People v Thomas, 41 Cal 2d 470, 261 P2d 1.

lying on. Bounding.

As the words are used in any instrument in the description of metes and bounds and location of land as in the expression "lying on the north side of the mill road," they import in law, as well as in fact, that it extends to and borders upon the boundary designated in the description. Carson v Doe d. Hickman, 9 Del (4 Houst) 328, 337.

lying up. A vessel at berth. Dows v Howard Ins. Co. 28 NY Super Ct (5 Robt) 473, 475.

lynching. Putting a person to death, usually by hanging, ostensibly for the commission of a crime, but without authority of law.

lynch law. Something done without the warrant or sanction of law. State v Aler, 39 W Va 549, 559.

For discussion of derivation of the term, see State v Aler, 39 W Va 549, 558, 20 SE 585.

See also dissenting opinion of Brown, J., in State v Lewis, 142 NC 626, 55 SE 600.

M

M. A numerical symbol for one thousand, being the first letter of the word "mill," the one thousandth part of a dollar. The Roman numeral for one thousand. An abbreviation also of "meridian," signifying noon.

See em.

M. A. Abbreviation of Master of Arts.

macadam. A kind of surface of a highway.

See macadamize.

macadamize. The making of a road surface by spreading successive layers of broken rock and binding such together by the application of tar or asphalt, the term deriving from the name of a Scottish engineer. 25 Am J1st High § 67.

Macedonian decree. A Roman law for the protection of young men against usury and denying an action to recover money from them if lent at a usurious rate.

mace proof. Immune from arrest.

macgrief. A buyer of stolen meat or provisions.

machination. A scheme, plot, or conspiracy to defraud.

machine. Something which utilizes, applies, or modifies force or translates motion. Rosenblad Corp. v United States, 49 Cust & Pat App 81. A device, either simple or complex, whose function is to increase the intensity of an applied force, or to change its direction, or to change one form of motion or energy into another form. Durst Mfg. Co. v United States, 50 Cust & Pat App 56. With less precision, a mechanical device or combination of devices to perform some function and produce a certain effect. Central Trust Co. v Sheffield & B. Coal, Iron & R. Co. (CC Ala) 42 F 106.

machine for voting. See voting machine.

machine gun. An automatic firearm firing a continuous stream of bullets. Commonwealth v Colton, 333 Mass 607, 132 NE2d 398, 399.

Machine Gun Act. One of the uniform statutes. 56 Am J1st Weap § 5.

machinery. A machine plus appurtenances necessary to the working of the machine. Anno: 91 ALR 541; 32 Am J1st L & T § 843. A machine or the constituent parts of a machine taken collectively; any combination of mechanical means designed to work together in accomplishing a given result. Murphy v O'Neil, 204 Mass 42, 90 NE 406. A machine or engine and its working parts, also the means, appliances, and attachments by which the machine or engine becomes effectively operative for its purpose. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 302.

mactator. A murderer.

mad. Madness.

mad dog. A dog afflicted with rabies.

See rabies.

made. Signed and delivered as a negotiable instrument. 12 Am J2d B & N § 1103.

See case made.

made and executed. In reference to a deed, usually the equivalent of signed, sealed, and delivered. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 20.

made known to me by introduction. A clause in a certificate of acknowledgment showing the source of the officer's knowledge of the identity of the person acknowledging the instrument. 1 Am J2d Ack § 71.

made land. Land which has been reclaimed from the waters by filling out into a lake or other body of water from the shore. Carli v Stillwater Street Railway & Transfer Co. 28 Minn 373, 10 NW 205.

madman. See madness.

madness. Insanity or mental derangement, especially in a form resulting in violent acts or other manifestation of acute derangement of the mind. A word which was apparently employed by the earlier writers on the subject of insanity to include almost every form of mental derangement. Owing's Case (Md) 1 Bland Ch 370.

mad parliament. A council held in 1258 to adjust the differences existing between King Henry the Third and the barons, which provided for the king's closer observance of Magna Charta and other reforms.

mad point. The idea or object upon which a monomania, in any given case, is centered. Owing's Case (Md) 1 Bland Ch 370.

See monomania.

maeg. (Saxon.) A kinsman.

maegbot. Same as maegbote.

maegbote. (Saxon.) Compensation for the killing of a kinsman.

maelstrom. A violent whirlpool. A state of agitation, literal or figurative. Any destructive or wide-reaching noxious influence. Wisner v Nichols, 165 Iowa 15, 143 NW 1020.

maeremium. Lumber for building.

magazine. A receptacle in which anything is stored; a storehouse; a warehouse. State v Sprague, 149 Mo 409, 419, 50 SW 901. Particularly a place for the storage of explosives. A periodical publication.

magis. More; the more; in a higher degree.

Magis de bono quam de malo lex intendit. The law inclines rather toward that which is good than toward that which is bad.

Magis dignum trahit ad se minus dignum. The more worthy appropriates to itself the less worthy.

Magis fit de gratia quam de jure. It was done more as a matter of favor than of right.

magister. A master; a chief; a head; a ruler; an instigator; a manager.

magister ad facultates. An ecclesiastical officer who granted dispensations.

magister cancellariae. A master in chancery.

magisterial. Relating or pertaining to a magistrate or his functions.

magisterial precinct. The area or district which constitutes the territorial jurisdiction of a justice of the peace and sometimes serves as an election district or precinct. Breckinridge County v M'Cracken

[762]

(CA6 Ky) 61 F 191, 194 (referring to the term as known to the bar in Kentucky.)

magister litis. The master or person in control of the suit or litigation.

magister navis. The master of a ship.

Magister rerum usus. Use is the master of things.

Magister rerum usus; magistra rerum experientia. Use is the master of things; experience is the mistress of things.

magister societatis. (Civil law.) The manager of an association or partnership.

magistra. A mistress; female manager.

magistralia brevia. Magisterial writs,-writs which were drawn by masters in chancery.

magistrate. A judge or justice of an inferior court; a mayor; a justice of the peace. A judge of court, such as a police court, mayor's court, or justice's court, the jurisdiction of which is restricted to the trial of misdemeanors and the conducting of preliminary hearings upon charges of more serious offenses.

In a broader sense, a magistrate is a public civil officer invested with some part of the legislative, executive, or judicial power given by the Constitution. The President of the United States is the chief magistrate of the nation; the governors are the chief magistrates in their respective states. Childers v State, 30 Tex App 160, 195, 16 SW 903. For the purposes of extradition, any person regarded as a magistrate under the law of the state where the alleged crime was committed. 31 Am J2d Extrad § 39.

See committing magistrate; preliminary hearing.

magistrate's certificate. A certificate required by the terms of some fire insurance policies to accompany proofs of loss, to be procured by the insured from the nearest magistrate, notary public, or other officer, stating that the loss was sustained without fraud. Kelly v Sun Fire Office, 141 Pa 10.

magistratus. (Civil law.) A magistrate; a high Roman official.

magna assisa. The grand assize,-an optional substitute for a trial by battel, which was a trial before a jury of sixteen men. See 3 Bl Comm 341.

magna assisa eligenda. A writ for the choosing of the grand assize.

magna avena. Great cattle,—animals of the bovine species.

Magna Carta. Same as Magna Charta.

Magna Charta. A charter of liberties, now found to be embodied in some form in every one of the American Constitutions; guaranteeing that every person shall be protected in the enjoyment of his life, liberty, and property, except as they may be declared to be forfeited by the judgment of his peers or the law of the land; issued by King John, at the demand of the barons, June 15, 1215, confirmed, with some changes, 9 Hen. III and 25 Edw. I.

For the full text of Magna Charta, see Am J2d Desk Book Document 4.

Magna Charta et Charta de Foresta sont appele les deux grand charters. Magna Charta and Charta de Foresta—the Charter of the Forest—are called the two great charters.

magna componere parvis. To compare great things with little things.

magna culpa. Gross negligence; great fault.

Magna culpa dolus est. Gross neglect or fault is the equivalent of fraud.

magna curia. See curia magna.

Magna negligentia culpa est; magna culpa dolus est. Gross negligence is fault; gross fault is equivalent to fraud. Beers v Boston & Albany Railroad Co. 67 Conn 417, 34 A 541.

magna precaria. See precariae.

magna serjeantia. Grand serjeanty,—a tenure in capite like knight service, but which did not include either personal attendance on the king or escuage. See 2 Bl Comm 73.

magnesia. See milk of magnesia.

magnetic healer. One who practices a special or limited system of healing the sick. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 31.

magnetic meridian. A great circle of the earth which passes through the magnetic, rather than the geographical, poles of the earth. 12 Am J2d Bound § 59. A meridian established by the employment of a magnetic compass without allowing for deviations in direction from the true meridian on account of magnetic variations in the needle of the compass.

In the earlier private surveys made in the United States, it seems to have been the practice to run lines on the ground according to the magnetic meridian, and not according to the true meridian. 12 Am J2d Bound § 59. The Congressional survey of public lands is according to the true meridian. 43 USC § 751.

magnetic variation. The variation from a geographical or true line caused by the influence of terrestrial magnetism upon the needle of the compass. 12 Am J2d Bound § 59.

magnum cape. Grand cape,—a judicial writ which lay to recover the possession of land when the tenant defaulted in a real action.

magnum concilium. The great council,—the English parliament.

magnum concilium regis, curia magna, conventus magnatum vel procerum, assisa generalis. The great council of the king, the high court, the assembly of the nobles, and the general assize. See 1 Bl Comm 148.

magnus rotulus statutorum. The great roll of statutes, the great statute roll, beginning with Magna Charta and including the statutes following through the reign of Edward the Third.

maiden. An instrument anciently used in England for beheading capital offenders. A virgin but not in the absolute sense in all contexts. A young, unmarried woman, or female, but not necessarily a virgin and not necessarily one who has preserved her chastity. State v Shedrick, 69 Vt 428, 431.

[763]

maiden assize. An assize which did not convict any person of a capital offense.

maidenhead. Same as hymen.

maiden name. The surname of a female before her marriage.

maiden rents. A fine paid by the tenant to the lord of the manor for license to marry off his (the tenant's) daughter.

maihem. Same as mayhem.

maihematus. Maimed; wounded.

maihemium. Same as mayhem.

Maihemium est homicidium inchoatum. Mayhem is inchoate or unfinished homicide.

Maihemium est inter crimina majora minimum, et inter minora maximum. Mayhem is the least among the greater crimes, and the grossest among the lesser ones.

Maihemium est membri mutilatio, et dici poterit ubi aliquis in aliqua parte sui corporis effectus sit inutilis ad pugnandum. Mayhem is the mutilation of a member of the body, and may be said to take place when anyone is so injured in any part of his body as to be rendered useless for fighting.

mail. Verb: To place a letter or other mail matter, properly enveloped or packaged, addressed and stamped, in a mail slot, mail chute, or mail box, provided by the post office department for the reception of mail, or to deliver a letter or other mail matter so prepared to a postman or letter carrier employed by the department. Anne: 63 ALR 932; 29 Am J2d Ev §§ 195, 196. Within the meaning of a cancellation clause in an insurance policy:—to deposit a letter containing a notice of cancellation in the mail, irrespective of its actual receipt by the insured. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 386. Noun: Letters, packets, etc. deposited or received for transmission by post to the person or persons to whom they are addressed, in accordance with the postal regulations. 41 Am J1st P O § 48.

The original meaning of the word was a covering, and the word thus came to be applied to the bag or packet in which letters and messages were placed, and later to the contents of the bag or packet.

See acceptance by mail; competition with the mails; first-class mail; fourth-class mail; franking; letter; mailable matter; packet; parcel post; postoffice; registered letter; second-class mail; thirdclass mail; using mails to defraud.

mailability. The quality or condition of a matter which renders it mailable, that is, acceptable for transportation as mail. 41 Am J1st P O § 49.

mailable matter. Matter which may be lawfully conveyed in the United States mails, or be delivered by a postmaster or letter carrier. United States ex rel. Milwaukee Social Democratic Publishing Co. v Burleson, 255 US 407, 410, 65 L Ed 704, 708, 41 S Ct 352.

mailbag. The container in which mail is transported.

mail box. A receptacle for the deposit of mail, whether outgoing mail to be picked up by a carrier or mail arriving for a particular person.

mail car. The car on a train in which United States mail is transported. Cincinnati, Lebanon & Springfield Turnpike Co. v Neil, 9 Ohio 11, 12.

mail carrier. An employee of the government, through the post office department, for the free delivery of mail. 41 Am J1st P O § 32.

mail catcher. See mail crane.

mail clerk. A clerk engaged in the distribution of mail in a mail car on a train.
See post-office clerk.

mail coach. See mail car.

mail contract. A contract entered into between the government and a carrier for carrying mail matter over a fixed route for a definite period of time, at a specified rate of compensation. 41 Am J1st P O § 73.

mail correspondence course. See correspondence course.

mail crane. An upright post planted close to a railroad track with an arm which, when not in use, hangs by the side of the post, but when in use is extended horizontally toward the track, and from which a suspended mail sack may be taken while the train is in motion by means of an iron hook or "mail catcher" attached to the door of the mail car and operated by the mail clerk. International & Great Northern Railway Co. v Stephenson, 22 Tex Civ App 220, 222.

maile. Rent-money.

mailed. See mail.

mail fraud. See using mails to defraud. mailing. See mail.

mailing process. See substituted service.

mail matter. Letters, packets, etc. deposited or received for transmission by government post to the person or persons to whom they are addressed, in accordance with the postal regulations. 41 Am J1st PO§48.
See mailability; mailable matter.

mail offense. An offense directed against the United States mail or an instrumentality of the mail service, such as a post office. A violation of postal laws. 41 Am J1st P 0 § 98.

mail-order divorce. Otherwise known as a Mexican divorce; a divorce in which the plaintiff, without ever becoming a resident of Mexico, corresponds with an attorney of that country who prepares the necessary papers, plaintiff signing and returning them to him, whereupon a divorce is granted in Mexico, without the presence of either party to the marital relation severed by the divorce.

Such a divorce is generally regarded as absolutely void. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 965.

mail stage. A stage coach used in carrying mail in an earlier day.

mail train. Any railroad train carrying United States mail; a railroad train carrying only United States mail.

mail zones. See parcel post zones.

maim. To mutilate a limb, member, or any essential part of the body of another. To commit the crime of mayhem.

The word is also used as a noun, and as thus used it has the same meaning as the word mayhem. See State v Johnson, 58 Ohio St 417, 51 NE 40.

See mayhem.

[764]

main. Adjective: Principal; leading; chief in importance, strength extent or length. Oregon C. & E. Ry. Co. v Blackmer, 154 Or 388, 59 P2d 694. Noun: A pipe or conduit for the conveyance of water or gas, particularly along a street or highway. A mainsail or mainmast. The sea. In a sense now obsolete, a hand.

See en owel main.

main action. Same as principal action.

mainad. False swearing; perjury.

main à main. At once; immediately.

main channel. The channel through which the current courses to best advantage, usually the deeper and more navigable channel of a river of two or more channels at a particular point of the stream.

The description of a boundary line as formed by the center of the "main channel" of a designated river is too indefinite, in many instances, to constitute a description which can be traced. Michigan v Wisconsin, 270 US 295, 311, 70 L Ed 595, 602, 46 S Ct 290.

See main river.

main employment. See principal employment or business.

mainoeuvre. Same as mainovre.

mainour. See in manu; with the mainour.

mainovre. Handwork; manual labor.

mainpernable. Bailable; that is, admitting of bail, as, aailable offense; entitled to bail, as, aailable prisoner.

mainpernors. Sureties on a bond or undertaking for the appearance of a defendant.

See mainprise.

mainprise. A writ directed to the sheriff, either generally, when a man was imprisoned for aailable offense, and bail had been refused, or specially, when the offense or cause of commitment was not properlyailable below, commanding him to take mainpernors or sureties for the prisoner's appearance. See 3 BI Comm 128.

The word is often used in the old books as synonymous with the word "bail," and both are obligations for the appearance of a party and to save him from imprisonment, and the chief difference is said to be that a man's mainpernors are barely his sureties, and cannot imprison him themselves to secure his appearance, as his bail may. Toles v Adee, 84 NY 222, 240.

main river. The principal stream of a river system, as distinguished from the branches or tributaries.

See main channel.

main seas. The high seas. United States v Bevans (US) 3 Wheat 336, 4 L Ed 403.

main stem. A slang expression for main line of a railroad. Anno: 80 ALR 279. Also slang for the principal street of a municipality.

main stream. See main river.

mainstream. A new word coined in political circles for the current general course of social, economic, and political events.

main street. See main stem; main thoroughfare.

mainsworn. Handsworn,—the condition of a person who has committed perjury after having made oath with his hand on the Book.

maintain. To support; to keep in condition; to sustain.

When the word is used with the word construct, it must be held to relate more closely to the structure itself of a building than to such an operation as keeping the floors of the building clean. Juul v School Dist. 168 Wis 111, 169 NW 309, 9 ALR 904, 907.

"We cannot yield our assent to the contention that the word 'maintain' ordinarily means to maintain indefinitely or forever. Its meaning in that respect depends upon the context in which it appears and the subject matter to which it relates." Hasman v Elk Grove Union High School, 76 Cal App 629, 245 P 464.

maintainable action. An action capable of being maintained; capable of being sustained or entertained by a court. McLaughlin v Upton, 2 Wyo 32, 45.

maintain an action. To uphold, continue on foot, and keep from collapse a suit already begun. Smallgood v Gallardo, 275 US 56, 72 L Ed 152, 48 S Ct 23; National Fertilizer Co. v Fall River Five Cents Savings Bank, 196 Mass 458, 82 NE 671.

As used in § 16(b) of the Fair Labor Standards Act providing that an action to recover unpaid overtime and liquidated damages "may be maintained in any court of competent jurisdiction," it has been held that the phrase was merely used to confer jurisdiction on the state courts and not to restrict the operation of the removal statute. But a majority of the cases hold that the phrase in effect amends, or creates an exception to the operation of, the removal statute, giving the employee the right to select the forum in which to prosecute the action to a conclusion, and deprives the defendant of the right to remove the action. The disagreement is due almost entirely to the uncertainty as to the true meaning of the word "maintained." The courts following the first view hold that it means merely that the action may be "commenced" in any court of competent jurisdiction, and that if it is brought in a state court it may be prosecuted to a conclusion there if the defendant does not remove it; but the majority interpret the word "maintained" to mean "prosecute to judgment," so that the statute in effect provides that if the plaintiff brings the action in a state court of competent jurisdiction he may prosecute it there to judgment notwithstanding the desire of the defendant to remove the case to the Federal court. Anno: 172 ALR 1163.

maintain and provide for. In reference to the duty of a husband, the furnishing of support which is reasonable under the circumstances, particularly the husband's financial condition. State v Fredercici, 269 Mo 689, 192 SW 464.

maintain in any court of competent jurisdiction. See maintain an action.

maintainor. A person guilty of the offense of maintenance.

maintenance. Making repairs and otherwise keeping premises or instrumentalities in good condition. Support of a person. Wall v Williams, 93 NC 327. The act of improperly, for the purpose of stirring up litigation and strife, encouraging others either to bring actions or to make defenses that they have no right to make. Schaferman v O'Brien, 28 Md 565. An unlawful taking in hand or upholding of quarrels or sides, to the disturbance or hindrance of common right. Anno: 139 ALR 648. An officious intermeddling in a suit which in no way belongs to the intermeddler by maintaining or assisting either party to the action with money or otherwise, to prosecute or defend it; the intermeddling in a suit by a stranger, one having no privity or concern in the subject matter and standing in no relation of duty to the suitor. Gruber v Baker, 20 Nev 453, 23 P 858.

[765]

See champerty; separate maintenance; support; trading in dormant titles.

maintenance and cure. A term of the maritime law the real meaning of which is maintenance and care.

The duty to make provision for maintenance and cure is annexed as an inseparable incident to the relation of a seaman and his employers. The right of such maintenance is not restricted to those cases where the seaman's employment is the cause of his illness. Moreover, the obligation may continue after the termination of the voyage in which an injury is sustained or an illness begins. Calmar S.S. Corp. v Taylor, 82 L Ed 993, 303 US 525, 58 S Ct 651.

maintenance curialis. Maintenance in a court of justice,—as where one officiously intermeddles in a suit which is not his by assisting either party with money, or otherwise, in the prosecution or defense.

maintenance employee. An employee engaged in the repairing and upkeep of the premises of a business or industry, rather than in production or sales work.

maintenance of action. See maintain an action.

maintenance of highway. Keeping a highway in a state of repair. 25 Am J1st High §§ 52 et seq.

maintenance ruralis. Maintenance committed in the country, as where one assists another in his pretensions to certain lands, or stirs up quarrels and suits in the country, in relation to matters wherein he is no way concerned.

maintenant. Now.

maintes fois. Many times; often.

main thoroughfare. A main street, particularly a street upon which a transit line operates. An interstate, intercounty, or farm to market highway. Heidie v Baldwin, 118 Ohio St 375, 161 NE 44, 58 ALR 1186.

mainzie. Same as mayhem.

maire. (French.) A mayor.

mais. (French.) But; but yet; however.

maison de Dieu. (French.) A house of God; a hospital.

majestas. (Roman law.) Majesty; royal power; sovereignty.

major. Adjective: Greater; more powerful; more important; more eminent. Noun: A military officer, ranking immediately below a lieutenant colonel and immediately above a captain.

majora et minora regalia. The greater and lesser royal prerogatives. See 1 Bl Comm 241.

major and minor fault rule. The rule in admiralty, relative to collisions between vessels that were not equally at fault, that there is a rebuttable presumption, in favor of the vessel with the minor fault, that the major fault of the other vessel was the exclusive contributing cause of the collision. 2 Am J2d Adm § 206; 12 Am J2d Boats § 73.

major annus. A greater year,—a leap year with its three hundred and sixty-six days.

majora regalia. The greater royal prerogatives, including the royal dignity, the high political character of the king, his perfection, his sovereignty or pre-eminence, the sacred quality of his person and indeed all of the royal prerogatives excepting the rights of revenue. See 1 Bl Comm 241.

Majora regalia imperii praeeminentiam spectant; minora vero ab commodum pecuniarium immediate attinent; et haec proprie fiscalia sunt, et ad just fisci pertinent. The greater royal prerogatives appertain to the dignity of royal power; but the lesser have to do immediately with the acquisition of money; and these are properly fiscal and pertain to the right of revenue. See I Bl Comm 241.

Major continet in se minus. The greater includes the lesser within itself.

Majore poena affectus quam legibus statuta est, non est infamis. A person who undergoes a greater punishment than that fixed or established by law is not infamous.

majores. (Roman law.) Persons of consequence.

major general. A high ranking officer of the United States Army, ranking immediately below a lieutenant general and immediately above a brigadier general.

Major haereditas venit unicuique nostrum a jure et legibus quam a parentibus. A greater heritage comes to each one of us from justice and the laws than from our parents.

Majori summae minor inest. The lesser sum or amount is included in the greater.

majority. The age at which infancy terminates and the person acquires contractual capacity. 27 Am J1st Inf § 5. More than half of anything. Re Denny, 156 Ind 104, 59 NE 359.

See age of majority.

majority award. An award in arbitration in which the majority of, but not all, arbitrators concur. 5 Am J2d Arb & A § 131.

majority decision. A decision of the court concurred in by a majority but not all the judges sitting in the case, such decision generally being determinative of the case. 20 Am J2d Cts § 67.

majority interest. See controlling interest.

majority of electors. See majority vote.

majority of members. See majority vote.

majority of qualified electors. See majority vote.

majority opinion. In effect the opinion of the court; an opinion prepared or approved by a majority of the judges sitting in the case. 20 Am J2d Cts § 71.

majority stockholders. Stockholders of a corporation sufficient in respect of the number of shares held in the aggregate to elect directors and ultimately to control and direct the action of the corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp § 496.

See majority vote.

[766]

majority rule. The foundation of the republican system of government. Maynard v Board of Canvassers, 84 Mich 228, 47 NW 756.

majority verdict. A verdict having the assent of a majority of the jury. 53 Am J1st Trial § 1032.

majority vote. A vote of more than half for a candidate for office or a proposition submitted to it" voters at an election. Necessarily the vote received by the winning candidate where there are only two candidates. 26 Am J2d Elect § 309. Of electors, the choice of the majority of the persons voting, except as constitutional or statutory requirements call for a choice by the majority of all the eligible or qualified voters. 26 Am J2d Elect §§ 309 et seq. Of board of directors:—a majority of the directors present and constituting a quorum, unless there are specific provisions in statute, charter, or bylaws of the corporation requiring a larger number of directors to act. As to the Uniform Business Corporation Act, see 19 Am J2d Corp § 112. Of stockholders of a corporation:—a vote of a majority of the stock represented at a legally constituted meeting of the shareholders of a corporation, such being sufficient to decide any question properly presented, in the absence of statute, charter provision, or bylaw requiring more. 19 Am J2d Corp § 627. A majority in interest rather than in number of stockholders. Weinburgh v Union Street Railway Advertising Co. 55 NJ Eq 640, 646.

As to what constitutes a majority of members of a municipal council voting on an issue, see Anno: 43 AL.R2d 698.

The "majority" contemplated by the provision of the Railway Labor Act that "the majority" of any craft or class of employees shall to determine who shall be the representative of the craft or class, is a majority of those voting, although such majority may be less in number than a majority of the entire eligible membership. Virginian Ry. Co. v System Federation, 300 US 515, 81 L Ed 789, 57 S Ct 592.

Major numerus in se continet minorem. The greater number includes in itself the lesser.

Majus dignum trahit ad se minus dignum. The more worthy appropriates or draws to itself the less worthy.

Majus est delictum seipsum occidere quam alium. It is a greater wrong to kill one's self than to kill another.

majus jus. A greater right; a better right.

Majus jus nostrum quam jus alienum servemus. We obey our own laws rather than those of another country. Smith v Union Bank of Georgetown (US) 5 Pet 518, 526, 8 L Ed 212, 215.

make. Verb: To build or construct. To accomplish. To execute an instrument, as, to make a promissory note; to sign; to collect money on an execution. Noun: A style or type.

See made; made and executed.

make a contract. To arrive at an agreement and to put it into effect as a binding obligation, including, in the case of a written contract, reduction of the terms of the agreement to writing and the execution of the instrument thus prepared.

make an assignment. To assign a chose in action, but in the most common sense of the term to assign property for the benefit of creditors. 6 Am J2d Assign § I.

make an examination. To inspect public records. 45 Am J1st Reeds § 14. To inspect corporate records. 18 Am J2d Corp § 178.

See physical examination.

make default. To come into default.

See default.

make few laws. A maxim of questionable propriety which is extended with less propriety:—make few laws, make them easy to obey and hard to break, and hang the man who breaks one.

make one's faith. Scottish for to make one's law.

make one's law. See to make one's law.

maker. One who obligates himself by entering into a contract, executing a promissory note, or drawing a bill of exchange.

makeweight. Something added to fill up space.

An argument was thus characterized in Pennsylvania v West Virginia, 262 US 553, 67 L Ed 1117, 43 S Ct 658.

making an order. The act of the court in announcing or otherwise rendering its order.

See entry of court order.

making false entry. See false entry.

making his law. See to make one's law.

making love. One of the arts of seduction. 47 Am J1st Seduc § 68.

making record. The mechanical act of preparing a record in writing, typewriting, or printing. The presentation of evidence for the record, usually with an appeal in mind.

See offer of proof.

making up train. The work in gathering the cars from sidings and placing them in a train for a trip. 35 Am J1st M & S § 446.

mala. Bad; evil. Bad things; evil things; wicked things.

maladministration. Inefficient administration; bad but not necessarily corrupt administration. Minkler v Slate. 14 Neb 181, 183.

mala fide. In bad faith.

mala fides. Bad faith.

Mala grammatica non vitiat chartam. Bad grammar does not vitiate a deed.

Mala grammatica non vitiat chartam; sell in expositione instrumentorum mala grammatica quoad fieri possit evitanda est. Bad grammar does not vitiate a deed; nevertheless, in the drawing of instruments, bad grammar should, as far as possible, be avoided.

mala in se. Inherently wicked, naturally evil, as adjudged by the sense of a civilized community; illegal from the very nature of the transaction, upon principles of natural, moral, and public law; immoral in its nature and injurious in its consequences, without regard to the fact of its being noticed or punished by the law of the state. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 25. A wrong involving moral turpitude or delinquency. Horrabin v Des Moines, 198 Iowa 549, 199 NW 988, 38 ALR 544. Offenses involving moral turpitude. Du Vall v Board of Medical Examiners, 49 Ariz 329, 66 P2d 1026.

[767]

See contracts mala in se.

Malam cerevisiam faciens, in cathedra ponebatur stercoris. The maker of bad beer was placed in a dung cart,—the punishment for knavish brewers during the reign of Edward the Confessor. See 4 Bl Comm 157.

mala mens. Evil mind; bad intention. Flood v Templeton, 152 Cal 148, 92 P 78.

malam partem. See in malam partem.

malandrinus. A robber; a thief; a pirate.

mala praxis. Same as malpractice. mala prohibita. Wrong only as forbidden by positive law. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 25. A crime not involving moral turpitude. Du Vall v Board of Medical Examiners, 49 Ariz 329, 66 P2d 1026. Evil because prohibited by law. 17 Am J2d Contr § 167. Wrong because prohibited by law but not immoral. Horrabin v Des Moines, 198 Iowa 549, 199 NW 988, 38 ALR 544.

See contracts mala prohibita.

malaria. A morbid condition of the body, formerly believed to be caused by inhalation of bad air coming off decaying vegetation in swamps and marshes, St. Louis v Galt, 179 Mo 8, 77 SW 876; now known as an infectious disease transmitted through the bite of a mosquito. Sometimes a chronic disease. American Life & Acci. Ins. Co. v Nirdlinger, 113 Miss 74, 73 So 875, 4 ALR 871.

mala soi qui mala pens. Evil to him who evil thinks.

mala tolta. A heavy tax or toll; a burdensome or oppressive tax.

malconduct. A term sometimes applied to the unprofessional conduct of a lawyer. People v McCabe, 18 Colo 186, 32 P 280.
See misconduct; misconduct in office.

mal de lit. See essoin de mal de lit.

mal de venue. See essoin de mal de venue.

male. A person or animal of the masculine sex; of the sex that begets offspring; of masculine gender.

male citizen. A citizen of the male sex.

The rule of construction under which females are included in words importing the masculine gender has been held not to apply in the interpretation of a code section prescribing rules for the admission of "male citizens" to the bar. Re Maddox, 93 Md 727, 50 A 487.

male creditus. Of bad credit; of bad or unfavorable reputation.

Maledicta est expositio quae corrumpit textum. That is a very bad interpretation which corrupts the text. State v Norfolk Southern Railroad Co. 168 NC 103, 82 SE 963.

malediction. A curse. Evil speaking. An ecclesiastical curse or anathema which was incorporated into grants to the church and which was directed at anyone who should thereafter interfere with their enjoyment or question their validity.

male estate tail. An estate tail in which the distinctive limitation is to male heirs of the donee's body. Restatement, Property § 78, comments B, C, D; 29 Am J2d Est § 45.

malefactor. A person convicted of crime; a criminal.

malefactoribus in parcis. See de malefactoribus in parcis. malefactors in parcis. See Statute of Malefactors in Parcis.

Maleficia non debent remanere impunita, et impunitas continuum affectum tribuit delinquenti. Evil deeds ought not to remain unpunished, for impunity offers constant encouragement to the wrongdoer.

Maleficia propositis distinguuntur. Evil deeds are distinguishable from plots; evil deeds are distinguishable by their purposes.

maleficio. See ex maleficio.

maleficium. An evil deed; a wrongful act; a tort; a crime.

male heir. An heir of the male sex.

See nearest male heir.

maleson. A curse; a malediction.

malevolence. Ill will.

See disinterested malevolence.

malfeasance. The doing of an act which is positively unlawful or wrong. Allas v Rumson, 115 NJL 593, 181 A 175, 102 ALR 648. An act forbidden by law, or illegal, causing injury to the person or property of another. 35 Am J1st M & S § 588. Of public officer:—the performance of an act in an official capacity that is wholly illegal and wrongful. People ex ref. Johnson v Coffey, 237 Mich 591, 213 NW 460, 52 ALR 1.

malformation. An abnormal condition in the structure of the body or an organ thereof.

malgré. (French.) Against the will.

malice. A state of mind, being ill will, hatred, or hostility entertained by one person toward another. 34 Am J1st Mal § 2. More precisely, that state of mind which prompts the intentional doing of a wrongful act without legal justification or excuse. State v Heinz, 223 Iowa 1241, 275 NW 10, 114 ALR 959; Sall v State, 157 Neb 688, 61 NW2d 256. As a mental element in crime:—sometimes a connotation of ill will, but frequently merely the state of mind prompting a wrongful act without legal justification or excuse. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 86. As an element of murder:—a condition of mind prompting one to commit or direct an act wilfully; a wicked and corrupt disregard of the lives and safety of others; including all those states and conditions of mind accompanying a homicide committed without legal excuse or extenuation. 26 Am J1st Homi § 40. An intent to do the deceased great bodily harm. Commonwealth v Buzard, 365 Pa 511, 76 A2d 394, 22 ALR2d 846. As an element of malicious prosecution:—either personal malice or the malice indicated by an improper motive. 34 Am J1st Mal Pros § 45. Not necessarily, ill will, hatred, or express malice, but a want of probable cause. Schnathorst v Williams, 240 Iowa 561, 36 NW2d 739, 10 ALR2d 1199. As an ingredient of libel or slander:—malice in law; malice in fact or express malice. 33 Am J1st L & S § 111. Importing a publication that is false and without legal excuse. Dixon v Allen, 69 Cal 527, 529. As an element of alienation of affections:—any wrongful or improper motive or intent to do a wrongful or improper act; not limited to a malignant and revengeful disposition and intent. 27 Am J1st H & W § 530. As an element of wrongful and malicious attachment:—either actual malice or legal malice. Brown v Guaranty Estates Corp. 239 NC 595, 80 SE2d 645, 40 ALR2d 1094. An improper motive, not necessarily positive malignity; a wilful disregard of the rights of another, whether in accomplishing an unlawful purpose or a lawful purpose by an unlawful means. 6 Am J2d Attach § 598.

[768]

See actual malice; express malice; general malice; implied malice; particular malice; wilful and malicious act.

malice aforethought. See with malice aforethought.

malice in fact. Actual malice; a positive desire and intention to annoy or injure another person. Gamble v Keyes, 43 SD 245, 178 NW 870. In overcoming privilege, a motive which induces the defendant to defame the plaintiff. Hemmers v Nelson, 138 NY 517, 34 NE 342.

malice in law. The intentional performance of an act harmful to another without just or lawful cause or excuse. Brown v Guaranty Estates Corp. 239 NC 595, 80 SE2d 645, 40 ALR2d 1094. The intent unlawfully to take human life in cases where the law neither mitigates nor justifies the killing. Mann v State, 124 Ga 760, 53 SE 324. The wilful violation of a known contract right. 30 Am J Rev ed Interf § 27. A wicked or mischievous intention; a wanton inclination to mischief; an intention to do wrong or injury to another; a depraved inclination to disregard the rights of others. Morasca v Item Co. 126 La 426, 52 So 565. As an ingredient of libel or slander:—a presumption of malice arising from the use of certain words, not necessarily inconsistent with an honest or even laudable purpose, implying neither ill will, personal malice, hatred, nor a purpose to injure. 33 Am J1st L & S § 111.

malice prepense. Same as malice aforethought.

See with malice aforethought.

malicious. Actuated by malice. Wicked and perverse. Commonwealth v York, 50 Mass 93. Intentional in reference to the commission of a wrongful act by one person toward another, without legal justification or excuse. 34 Am J1st Mal § 2.

malicious abuse of process. A wilful and intentional abuse or misuse of process to attain an objective which is unlawful in itself or beyond the purposes for which the process may be legally employed. Anno: 14 ALR2d 322; 1 Am J2d Abuse P § 6.

malicious act. A wrongful act intentionally done without legal justification or excuse. High v State, 26 Tex App 545, 10 SW 238; 9 Am J2d Bankr § 786 (relating to liability excepted from discharge in bankruptcy). An act committed in a state of mind which shows a heart regardless of social duty and fatally bent on mischief. Bowers v State, 24 Tex App 542, 7 SW 249.

malicious arrest. The term applied where the arrest on which an action for malicious prosecution is based was under civil, not criminal, process; an action not essentially different from an action for malicious prosecution. Waters v Winn, 142 Ga 138, 82 SE 537. Causing an arrest by maliciously bringing a suit upon false charges, or maliciously making a false affidavit. Everett v Henderson, 146 Mass 89, 14 NE 932.

malicious attachment. See malice; probable cause.

malicious burning. An essential element of common-law arson. 5 Am J2d Arson § 11. An act of setting fire performed with a condition of mind that shows a heart regardless of social duty and bent on mischief, evidencing a design to do an intentional wrongful act toward another, or toward the public, without legal justification or excuse. Love v State, 107 Fla 376, 144 So 843.

malicious injury. A wrongful injury intentionally inflicted by one person upon another. State ex rel. Durner v Huegin, 110 Wis 189.

See wilful and malicious injury.

malicious interference with contract. See interference.

maliciously. With harmful motive and in wilful disregard of the rights of others. 34 Am J1st Mal § 2. For some purposes the equivalent of "wilfully and unlawfully." Chapman v Commonwealth, (Pa) 5 Wharton 427; 27 Am J1st Indict § 67.

malicious mischief. The wilful and unlawful injury to or destruction of the property of another with the malicious intent to injure the owner; a malicious physical injury to the rights of another, which impairs utility or materially diminishes value; a malicious or mischievous physical injury, either to the rights of another or to those of the public in general. 34 Am J1st Mal Mis § 2. As used in an insurance policy: wilful or malicious physical injury to or destruction of the insured property; a reckless disregard of the owner's rights in deliberately injuring his property. General Acci. Fire & Life Assur. Corp. v Azar, 103 Ga App 215, 119 SE2d 82.

As to what constitutes "malicious mischief " within the meaning of an automobile comprehensive policy, see Anno: 43 ALR2d 604.

malicious misconduct. The wrong of an election officer for which he may be held liable to electors or to a candidate for public office. 25 Am J2d Elect §§ 47 et seq.

See malicious mischief.

malicious prosecution. A criminal prosecution begun in malice, without probable cause to believe it can succeed, and finally ending in failure. 34 Am J1st Mal Pros § 2. An action for damages brought by one against whom a criminal prosecution, civil suit, or other legal proceeding has been instituted maliciously and without probable cause, after the termination of such prosecution, suit, or other proceeding in favor of the defendant therein. Shedd v Patterson, 302 Ill 355, 134 NE 705, 26 ALR 1004; 34 Am J1st Mal Pros § 2. An action for the wrong of instituting a civil action without probable cause, especially where there is in such action a seizure of property or of the person of the defendant or other circumstances giving rise to special damages. 34 Am J1st Mal Pros § 10.

malicious prosecution of civil action. See malicious prosecution.

malicious use of process. In essence a form of malicious prosecution. The use of civil process without probable cause. Nix v Goodhil, 95 Iowa 282, 63 NW 701.

malign. To defame.

malignancy. A dangerous condition of the body, especially a cancerous condition. A condition of ill will or malevolence.

[769]

malignant pustule. See wool sorter's disease.

malignare. To malign; to defame; to maim.

malinger. To pretend or feign illness or sickness, usually to avoid labor, but sometimes with the idea of enhancing damages or collecting insurance.

malison. Same as maleson.

malitia. Malice.

See ex malitia.

Malitia est acida; est mali animi affectus. Malice is sour; it is an affection of an evil heart.

malitia implicita. Implied malice.

malitia praecogitata. Malice aforethought; malice prepense; evil intended beforehand. See 4 Bl Comm 198-200.

See with malice aforethought.

Malitia supplet aetatem. Malice supplies age, a maxim is applied to offenses committed by children between the ages of seven and fourteen years. See 4 Bl Comm 23.

malo animo. With bad intent; with a wicked or evil heart.

malo lecti. See essoin de malo lecti.

malo sensu. In a bad sense; with an evil or wicked meaning.

malo veniendi. See essoïn de malo veniendi.

malpractice. The violation of a professional duty to act with reasonable care and in good faith without fraud or collusion, as in the case of a public accountant, 1 Am J2d Accts § 15, or a beautician. Ocean Acci. & Guarantee Corp. v Herzberg's Inc. (CA8 Neb) 100 F2d 171. By an attorney at law:—the failure to exercise on behalf of his client the knowledge, skill, and ability ordinarily possessed and exercised by members of the legal profession, whereby an actual loss is caused the client. 7 Am J2d Attys §§ 167 et seq. By physician or surgeon:—the wrong, for which a physician or surgeon is answerable to his patient where it results in injury to the patient, consisting in the want of that reasonable degree of learning, skill, and experience which ordinarily is possessed by others of his profession, the omission to exercise reasonable care and diligence in the exertion of his skill and the application of his knowledge, or his failure to exert his best judgment in the case entrusted to him. 41 Am J1st Phys & S §§ 79, 82. A cause of action predicated by law on the relation which exists between physician and patient, although supported by some cases on the theory of liability under a contract implied by law. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 79.

malpractice insurance. See physician's liability insurance.

malt. Barley or other grain processed for brewing. Grain within the meaning of a statute imposing, in lieu of other taxes, a tax of a stated amount per bushel upon all "grain" received in or handled by an elevator or warehouse. Joseph Schlitz Brewing Co. v Milwaukee, 232 Wis 118, 286 NW 602, 122 ALR 1432.

malt beverage. See malt liquor; near beer; small brew.

malt extract. See malt liquor; near beer; small brew.

malt liquor. An alcoholic beverage produced by the fermentation of malt. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 9.
See small brew.

malt mead. Same as near beer.

malt-tax. A tax of six pence a bushel on malt and a proportionate sum on certain liquors, such as cider and perry, first levied by parliament in 1697, the whole yielding an annual sum of seven hundred and fifty thousand pounds a year. See 1 Bl Comm 313.

Malum hominum est obviandum. The wickedness of men is to be opposed.

malum in se. See mala in se.

Malum non habet efficientem, sed deficientem causam. Evil has not an efficient cause, but a deficient one.

Malum non praesumitur. Evil is not presumed.

malum prohibitum. See mala prohibita.

Malum quo communius eo pejus. The more common an evil, the worse it is.

malus animus. Evil or bad intent. Flood v Templeton, 152 Cal 148, 92 P 78.

Malus usus est abolendus. A bad custom should be abolished. Evans v Waln, 71 Pa 69, 75.

malveilles. Malevolence; ill will.

malveis proeurors. Persons who packed jurors, who used improper or corrupt means in their selection.

malversation. Official misconduct; corruption in office.

man. In the generic sense, a human being, whether male or female; all human beings; mankind. In the narrow sense, a male human being who has reached the age of majority, at least an age above puberty. State v Seder, 106 Wis 343, 82 NW 167.

manacles. Handcuffs.

manage. To direct; to control; to govern; to administer; to oversee. Ure v Ure, 185 Ill 216, 218.

It has been held in a majority of the cases that a testamentary authorization for an executor or trustee to "manage" property includes the power of sale. Anno: 134 ALR 405; 23 ALR2d 1011.

management. Government; control; superintendence; physical or manual handling or guidance; the act of managing by direction or regulation; administration,—as the management of a family or of a household, or of servants, or of great enterprises, or of great affairs. Re Sanders, 53 Kan 191, 36 P 348. The executives in charge of a business, considered collectively.

management contract. A contract for the management, agency, or representation of an actor, musician, dancer, or other professional artist or entertainer. Anno: 175 ALR 621.

management functions clause. A clause in a collective labor agreement under which the right to select, hire, promote, discharge, and discipline employees and to determine work schedules is the sole prerogative of the employer, and his decision with respect to such matters is not subject to arbitration. NLRB v American Nat. Ins. Co. 343 US 395, 96 L Ed 1027, 72 S Ct 824.

[770]

Management Relations Acts. See Labor Relations Acts.

manager. One who has the conduct or direction of anything, as the manager of a theater. Commonwealth v Johnson, 144 Pa 377, 381. One in charge of the business or operations of another. The officer of a private corporation to which the general business of the corporation is entrusted in some corporations the head of one of several departments. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1174. The title of an officer of a business trust who is in charge of the business and managing its affairs. 13 Am J2d Bus Tr § 44. Descriptio personae as appended to the name of a payee of a bill or note and not destroying negotiability of the instrument. 1 I Am J2d B & N § 115.

manager form of government. See city manager.

managing agent. A person invested by a corporation with general powers involving the exercise of judgment and discretion. Anno: 113 ALR 70 et seq. An executive of a co-operative apartment association. 15 Am J2d Con Apt § 21. As one upon whom service of process binding a foreign corporation can be made:—an officer or agent whose position, right, and duties make it reasonably certain that the corporation will be apprised of service made upon him. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 558. An agent whose contract of agency demands of him the exercise of judgment in the business affairs of his principal, and who has charge of all of the business of his principal in the territory covered by his contract. Ord Hardware Co. v J. I. Case Threshing Machine Co. 77 Neb 847, 110 NW 551. As one through whom a corporation may be examined by way of discovery or deposition:—

one authorized to exercise judgment and discretion in dealing with corporate matters and expected to identify himself with the interest of the corporation. Anno: 98 ALR2d 626, 627, § 3[a, b].

managing employee. A term in an automobile liability insurance policy extending the coverage to one other than the named insured; an employee of the named insured who, at the time of an accident giving rise to liability, had the named insured's car under his control and direction and was acting within the scope of his duties. Continental Casualty Co. v Phoenix Constr. Co. 46 Cal 2d 423, 296 P2d 801, 57 ALR2d 914.

managing owner of ship. One of the several owners of a ship who acts as manager for them all.

managium. A mansion,—a dwellinghouse and all within the curtilage thereof.

manas mediae. Inferior persons.

man-bote. (Saxon.) A recompense paid to the lord of a manor for the killing of one of his tenants.

manche present. A present from the hand of the owner; a bribe.

mancipare. (Roman law.) To sell; to sell in a formal manner; to transfer; to give up.

mancipation. (Roman law.) A sale of property attended with certain essential formalities.

mancipia quasi manu capti. Sold, as if taken by the hand. See 1 Bl Comm 423.

mancipium. (Roman law.) An old form of purchase in which the thing sold was taken by the hand in the presence of five witnesses; a slave purchased in the manner above stated; a formal purchase or transfer.

mancomunal. (Spanish.) An undertaking to answer for the debt or obligation of another person.

mandamiento. (Spanish.) A power of attorney.

mandamus. A command by order or writ issuing from a court of law of competent jurisdiction, in the name of the state or sovereign, directed to some inferior court, tribunal, or board, or to some corporation or person, requiring the performance of a particular duty therein specified, which duty results from the official station of the party to whom the writ is directed, or from operation of law. A coercive writ, one that commands performance, not desistance. 34 Am J1st Mand § 2. An extraordinary remedy. State ex rel. Ricco v Biggs, 198 Or 413, 255 P2d 1055, 38 ALR2d 720.

A writ of mandamus was originally a prerogative writ but in this country, in modern practice, it is nothing more than an action at law between the parties and is not now regarded as a prerogative writ. 34 Am J1st Mand § 5.

Since mandamus was originally a prerogative writ, issuing in the king's name, it was not a civil action, but the character of the proceeding and the nature of the writ have been so changed by statute that in most of the states of the Union it is now regarded as a civil proceeding. Nevertheless the supreme court has repeatedly held that it is not a suit of a civil nature at common law or in equity within the meaning of the acts of Congress defining the jurisdiction of the federal courts. Western Union Tel. Co. v State ex rel. Hammond Elevator Co. 165 Ind 492, 76 NE 100.

See alternative mandamus; peremptory mandamus; writ of mandamus.

mandans. Commanding; committing; entrusting.

mandant. Same as mandans.

Mandata licita strictam recipiunt interpretationem, sed illicita latam et extensam. Lawful commands receive a strict interpretation, but unlawful ones receive a broad and elastic one.

mandatarius. Same as mandatary.

Mandatarius terminus sibi positos transgredi non potest. A mandatary cannot transgress the limits of his powers.

mandatary. The person to whom a mandate has been given. A bailee under a bailment of the class known as mandatum.
See mandatum.

mandate. An order; an authoritative command by the court. In technical significance, the official communication made of the judgment of a reviewing court to the court below and the direction given by the reviewing court as to the enforcement, reversal, or vacation, as the case may be, of the judgment below. 5 Am J2d A & E § 989.

[771]

mandator. (Civil law.) The person who makes a bailment of mandatum; one who gives a mandate.

mandatory. Imperative. Required to be done or performed. Compulsory, not a matter of discretion.
See mandatary.

mandatory clause. The part of an alternative writ of mandamus in the form of a command. 35 Am J1st Mand § 351.

mandatory constitutional provision. A provision of a constitution which leaves no discretion to the legislature in respect of obedience to, or disregard of, it, the use of the word "shall" sometimes being emphasized in construction as indicative of mandatory character. 16 Am J2d Const L §§ 90-92.

mandatory continuance. A continuance resulting by operation of law, as where a case is not reached for trial by the end of a term. 17 Am J2d Contin § 1. A continuance to which a party is entitled as a matter of right, for example, in some jurisdictions, a continuance because of the absence of counsel in attendance upon the legislature. Anno: 49 ALR2d 1074 § 1.

mandatory counterclaim. Same as compulsory counterclaim.

mandatory franchise. A franchise, performance of which by conducting the operation licensed is obligatory upon the grantee. Murray v Roberts (CA2 NY) 103 F2d 889.

mandatory injunction. An injunction which compels some positive action involving a change of existing conditions-some affirmative act or acts essential to restore the status quo. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 17.

mandatory order. An order which requires affirmative action to be taken. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 468.

mandatory provision. See mandatory clause; mandatory constitutional provision; mandatory statute.

Mandatory Securities Valuation Reserve. A reserve fund required to be maintained by insurance companies in some states for the purpose of absorbing fluctuations in prices of securities.

mandatory statute. A statute which leaves nothing to the discretion of the court in respect of compliance with its terms; a statute which relates to matters of substance, affects substantial rights, and is of the very essence of the thing required to be done. 1 Am J2d Admin L § 45; 50 Am J1st Stat §§ 180 et seq.

A "mandatory provision" in a statute is one which if not followed renders the proceeding to which it relates illegal and void. State v Parnell, 109 Ohio St 246, 142 NE 611.

mandatum. A bailment of goods without recompense, where the mandatary or person to whom the property is delivered, undertakes to do some act with respect to the thing bailed, as simply to carry it; a bailment of something for some gratuitous service upon it by the bailee. Briggs v Spaulding, 141 US 132, 148, 35 L Ed 662, 669, 11 S Ct 924; Maddock v Riggs, 106 Kan 808, 190 P 12, 12 ALR 216.

Mandatum nisi gratuitum nullum est. A mandatum (bailment), unless gratuitous, is not one.

Mandavi ballivo. I have commanded the bailiff,—a form of sheriff's return on a writ executed by his bailiff.

manens. Remaining.

manerium a manendo. "Manor," from "manendo," a place to remain or reside.

See manor.

Manerium dicitur a manendo, secundum excellentiam, sedes magna, fixa et stabilis. Manor is derived from "manendo, par excellence," a great, fixed, and stable abode.

mangle. A machine constituting part of laundry equipment, being used for ironing. Quinn v Electric Laundry Co. 155 Cal 500, 101 P 794.

See maim.

manhandle. To handle a person roughly; to maul him.

Manhattan. A borough of New York City, consisting of the island of the same name. A cocktail, strong and stimulating, made of whisky, vermouth, and sometimes a dash of bitters, served cold after shaking in cracked ice.

manhole. An opening in a street or highway, permitting a man to go below for the purpose of inspection or work upon subsurface instrumentalities such as telephone wires, sewers, and pipe lines.

manhood. Resolute strength of character. The state of being a man. A feudal ceremony by which the vassal or tenant became the lord's man "from that day forth, of life and limb and earthly honor." See 2 Bl Comm 54.

mania. Violent insanity; an obsession or craze.

See moral mania.

mania a potu. The same as delirium tremens.

maniac. A madman; an insane person; a lunatic.

mania transitoria. Emotional insanity; that is, the case of one in the possession of his ordinary reasoning faculties, who allows his passions to convert him into a temporary maniac. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v Terry (US) 15 Wall 580, 21 L Ed 236, 239.

manifest. Adjective: Evident to the senses; evident to the mind; obvious to the mind. Love v Mt. Oddie United Mines Co. 43 Nev 61, 184 P 921. Noun: In maritime law, a record or statement in writing, carried by a vessel, containing information with respect to the vessel's cargo, passengers, and other matters required by statute or regulation. 19 USC §§ 1431 et seq.; 46 USC §§ 91 et seq. A summary of all the bills of lading for the cargo of a vessel. The Newton Bay (CA2 NY) 36 F2d 729. One of a ship's papers; one to be presented to the customs officers upon the entry of any vessel into the United States. New York & Cuba Mail S.S. Co. v United States (DC NY) 125 F 320, 321.

Manifesta non indigent probatione. Those facts which are manifest do not require proof. Riley v Wallace, 188 Ky 471, 222 SW 1085, 11 ALR 337, 340.

Manifesta probatione non indigent. Manifest facts do not require proof.

manifest impediment. An impediment which operates to prevent a military court from exercising its jurisdiction over a soldier charged with a military offense.

[772]

Such an impediment may consist of his being continuously a prisoner in the hands of the enemy, or of his being imprisoned under sentence of a civil court for crime, and the like. Re Davison (DC NY) 4 F 507, 510.

manifest incapacity. Obvious incapacity. In reference to a physician, a want of power to comprehend or to act, so obvious that no proof is necessary to establish it other than proof of the act or omission itself. Yoshizawa v Hewitt (CA9 Hawaii) 52 F2d 411, 79 ALR 317.

manifest injustice. As a ground for withdrawing a plea of guilty:—something more than the expectation of a sentence less severe than that actually imposed. Injustice from conduct improperly inducing accused to expect lenient punishment or from the accused's misunderstanding, reasonably entertained, of the trial judge's remarks, regarding the severity of the sentence that might be imposed. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 511.

manifest intent. The meeting of the minds of the parties to a contract as manifested by conduct, act, or sign. The intent of an instrument as it appears from the face thereof.

manifestly. Obviously.

Language which "manifestly" tends to the corruption of the youth must be such language as obviously and incontrovertibly has that tendency. It is not sufficient that it might tend to corrupt. Commonwealth v Buckley, 200 Mass 346, 86 NE 910.

manifesto. A public statement issued under the governmental authority of one nation, describing its reasons for its acts or attitude toward another nation. A statement to the public by an organization or group of people, social, economic, or scientific, of its policy or position with supporting reasons.

manifest theft. Same as open theft.

manifestus. See fur manifestus.

manipulation of prices. The artificial control or stabilization of security prices by a pooling arrangement or other joint adventure. 47 Am J1st Secur A § 12; 50 Am J1st Stock Ex § 26.

Mann Act. Same as White Slave Traffic Act.

manner. Way of performing or executing; method; custom; habitual practice. People ex rel. Ahrens v English, 139 Ill 622, 629.

mannire. To cite an adverse party to appear in court; a citation issued at the instance of one of the parties to an action requiring his adversary to appear in court.

mannopus. Stolen goods which have been taken from the hands of a thief.

man of straw. See straw man.

manor. The feudal estate of a lord; a barony; a lordship.

manorial court. A court-baron,—a court held within certain manors in which the tenants litigated and were tried.

manor lease. An estate, formerly legal in New York, now expressly forbidden in that state by constitutional provision, similar to ground rent. 32 Am J1st L & T § 1039.

manqueller. (Saxon.) A man-killer; a murderer.

manred. Same as manrent.

manrent. A vassal's bond or promise of fidelity and service in return for the protection he is to receive from his lord.

manse. A dwelling house, particularly one in which a Protestant clergyman resides.

manser. An illegitimate child; a bastard.

mansion. See mansion house.

mansion house. Deriving from the Latin "mansio," a place where one remains or sojourns. Including, not only the dwelling house, but also the outhouses, such as barns, stables, cow houses, dairy houses and the like, if they be parcel of the message, though they be not under the same roof, or joining contiguous to it. State v Brooks, 4 Conn 446, 448.

See quarantine.

manslaughter. The unlawful killing of another, without malice, and either voluntary, as when the act is committed with a real design and purpose to kill, but through the violence of sudden passion, occasioned by some great provocation, which in tenderness for the frailty of human nature, the law considers sufficient to palliate the offense, or involuntary, when the death of another is caused by some unlawful act, not accompanied with any intention to take life. 26 Am J1st Homi § 17. A crime in various degrees under the statutes, there being inconsistency between jurisdictions as to particulars. First degree:—involuntary manslaughter; a killing by negligence. 26 Am J1st Homi § 219. Second degree:—the killing of one human being by another when committed without a design to effect death. People v Rochester Railway & Light Co. 195 NY 102, 88 NE 22. Third degree:—the killing of a human being in the heat of passion, without a design to effect death. Clemens v State, 176 Wis 289, 185 NW 209, 21 ALR 1490. Fourth degree:—an involuntary killing of a human being in the heat of passion. Clemens v State, 176 Wis 289, 185 NW 209, 21 ALR 1490. A killing by inadvertence amounting to culpable negligence. 26 Am J1st Homi § 219.

manstealing. The offense of kidnapping, or the forcible abduction or stealing away of a man, woman or child from his own country and sending him to another. See 4 Bl Comm 219.

mansuetae naturae. Gentle or tame by nature. 4 Am J2d Am § 2.

mansueta, quasi, manui assueta. Domesticated, made accustomed to the hand, as it were. See 2 Bl Comm 391.

mansuetus. Tamed; gentle; domesticated.

mansum capitale. A manor house.

man trap. A dangerous instrumentality maintained upon one's premises as a protection against trespassers or burglars. 38 Am J1st Negl § 114. A device, such as a spring gun or spring trap, set for the protection of property, but which is a lethal instrument. 26 Am J1st Homi § 200.

menu. See in manu.

manual. Directions for the manner of performance of certain work, particularly the assembly of machines and appliances and the operation of machines. Meccano Ltd. v Wagner (DC Ohio) 234 F 912, affd (CA6) 246 F 603.

See sign manual.

[773]

manual delivery. A hand to hand or physical delivery of an instrument or article by one person to another. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 91.

manual gift. A gift by the donor's own hand. Succession of Gomez, 223 La 859, 67 So 2d 156.

manual labor. Labor under physical power of the laborer, in the service and under the direction of another, for fixed wages. Rogers v Dexter & P. R. Co. 85 Me 372, 27 A 257. Within the meaning of the immigration laws, including both skilled and unskilled work, even work in the mechanical trades, although not professional services. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 62.

manual laborer. See manual labor.

manual rates. The premium rates to be charged for insurance covering risks on property as fixed by a rating bureau or underwriters' association after inspection of the properties. Commercial Standard Ins. Co. v Remer (CA10 Okla) 119 F2d 66; 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 109.

manual seizure. An actual seizure, particularly under a writ of execution. 30 Am J2d Exec § 238.

manual test. A physical test such as that given to determine the degree of intoxication of a person by requiring him to walk along a straight marked line. Alexander v State (Okla Crim) 305 P2d 572.

manual training. Training in work in wood and metals and in other arts and crafts, particularly as given in the public schools. Maxe v Oshkosh, 144 Wis 238, 128 NW 899.

manu brevi. With short hand; briefly; directly.

manucapere. To become surety of mainprise.

See mainprise.

manucaptio. Same as mainprise. manuaptione. See de manuaptione. manuaptors. Same as mainpernors. manufactory. A house or place where anything is manufactured. Halpin v Insurance Co. of North America, 120 NY 73, 23 NE 989.

See factory.

manufacture. Verb: To make and fabricate from raw materials or processed materials by the hand, by art, or by machinery, into a form fit and convenient for use. Attorney General v Lorman, 59 Mich 157, 26 NW 311; Bell v Lamborn, 18 Colo 346, 32 P 989; 51 Am J1st Tax § 592. Noun: The process of converting a raw material into a form fit and convenient for use, that is into finished parts or products. Anno: 10 ALR 1276; 34 ALR 544. An article upon the material of which labor has been expended to make the finished product. Comptroller of Treasury v Crofton Co. 198 Md 398, 84 A2d 86, 30 ALR2d 1434.

manufactured article. An article made either by hand or by machinery into a new form, capable of being used, and designed to be used in ordinary life. Lawrence v Allen (US) 7 How 785, 793, 12 L Ed 914, 917.

manufacturer. One engaged in manufacturing.

See manufacture.

manufacturers' bounties. Payments of public funds to manufacturers for the purpose of stimulating production. 12 Am J2d Bount § 3.

manufacturer's liability. See products liability.

manufacturing corporation. A private corporation organized and operating in reducing raw or processed materials by hand or by machinery into a form fit for use or consumption. 18 Am J2d Corp § 32. A corporation engaged in manufacturing, as its principal business, and not as a mere minor incident to some larger work. Friday v Hall & Kaul Co. 216 US 449, 54 L Ed 562, 30 S Ct 261.

manufacturing establishment. A factory or industrial plant. A place where machinery or mechanical power is utilized in connection with the employment of the individual. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 117. A place where there is an organized force of laborers working with machinery to produce the finished product from raw materials, or converting manufactured articles into a different product. Hotchkiss v District of Columbia, 4 App DC 73 (involving statutes fixing hours of labor or prescribing provisions as to child labor.) For practical purposes, any plant or factory where raw material is converted into a finished product, complete and ready for the final use for which it is intended, or so completed as that in the ordinary course of business of the concern it is ready to be put upon the open market for sale to any person wishing to buy it. Louisville v Zinmeister & Sons, 188 Ky 570, 222 SW 958, 10 ALR 1269, 1273.

manufacturing explosives. The common-law offense of manufacturing explosives near a public place, such as a city or highway. 31 Am J2d Explos § 127.

manu forti. With strong hand; an expression used to characterize an entry upon real estate as partaking of criminality due to its forcible or violent nature. 35 Am J2d Fore E & D § 4.

manu forti et cum multitudine gentium. With strong hand and a multitude of people.

manu longa. With long hand,—in directly; in a roundabout manner.

manumission. Liberation from a condition of servitude by the voluntary act of the master. Fenwick v Chapman (US) 9 Pet 461, 472, 9 L Ed 193, 197. The emancipation of a child by his parent, terminating the parent's right to the services of the child. 39 Am J1st P & C § 82.

Manumittere idem est quod extra manum vel potestatem ponere. To manumit is the same thing as to put out of the hand or power.

manurable. Capable of being manured or cultivated; tillable; capable of being handled; corporeal; tangible.

manure. Verb: To work on by hand; to cultivate; to spread with manure. Noun: Animal excrement applied to the soil to increase fertility. Snow v Perkins, 60 NH 493. Droppings of cattle composted with earth and vegetable matter taken from the land and used to supply the drain made on the soil in the production of crops, which would otherwise become impoverished and barren; sometimes regarded as appurtenant to the real estate. 42 Am J1st Prop § 31.

manure clause. A covenant by a tenant to leave the manure on the land. 32 Am J1st L & T § 814.

menus. A hand; an oath made with the hand on the Book; an oath; a compurgator.

[774]

manuscript. Written or typewritten matter, particularly of a book or article proposed for publication. Becoming property when placed on the market for use or profit. Leon Loan & Abstract Co. v Equalization Board of Leon, 86 Iowa 127, 53 NW 94.

manus mortua. Same as mortmain.

Manus mortua, quia possessio est immortalis, matins pro possessione et mortua pro immortalis. "Manus mortua," dead hand or mortmain, because it is an immortal possession; "manus" stands for possession, and "mortua" for immortal.

manutendo. See de manutendo.

manutenentia. Same as maintenance.

manworth. The value of a man's life or that of a man's head.

many. A multitude. A number relatively large as compared with the whole or possible number of persons or things. Louisville & Nashville R. Co. v Hall, 87 Ala 708, 6 So 277.

map. A condensed representation, usually according to a scale noted, of an area of the earth's surface, large or small, of a nation, a state, a county, a municipality, etc., showing on a fiat surface by lines and characters boundaries and peculiarities of the earth's surface, such as watercourses, other bodies of water, mountains, swamps, etc., and man's accomplishments in cities, towns, and villages established by him, even particular structures erected by him, such as bridges. Banker v Caldwell, 3 Minn 94, 103.

See plat.

marathon. An athletic event consisting in a long race; any endurance contest, sometimes one in dancing. State ex rel. Bluemound Amusement Park v Milwaukee, 207 Wis 199, 240 NW 847, 79 ALR 281.

marauder. A soldier or deserter who robs or steals. Curry v Collins, 37 Mo 324, 328. Broadly, one who roves for pillage and plunder.

marble. A mineral. A stone valuable for use in building and sculpture, resulting in nature from the subjecting of limestone to metamorphism. 36 Am J1st Min & M§ 5.

marca. Same as march.

march. Verb: To walk in an orderly manner, as in a military formation. Noun: A mark; a boundary; a limit; a frontier.

marchers. Noblemen of the marches or frontiers between England and Scotland who exercised a petty sovereignty and made and enforced their own laws. Persons marching.

marcheta. The lord's customary right of spending the first night with the bride of a tenant following the marriage. (English.) Same as maiden rents.

marchioness. An English noblewoman with a rank corresponding to that of a marquis.

mare. A female of the horse family. Precisely, a female horse, donkey, mule, or zebra.

mare. The sea.

mare altum. The high sea.

Lord Hale says: "The sea is either that which lies within the body of a county or without. The part of the sea which lies not within the body of a county is called the main sea or ocean." By the main sea, Lord Hale undoubtedly means the same as is expressed by "high sea," "mare altum," or "le haut meer." United States v Bevans (US) 3 Wheat 336, 340, 4 L Ed 404, 405, argument of Honorable Daniel Webster.

mare apertum. The open sea.

maretum. Overflowed marshes.

margarine. See oleomargarine.

margin. A sum of money, or its value in securities, deposited with a broker to protect him against loss in buying or selling for his principal. Assigned Estate of Taylor, 192 Pa 304, 43 A 793.

marginal hazard. A source of peril to a traveler on the highway, although located along the margin or outside of the highway, not on the traveled portion. 25 Am J1st High § 528.

marginal notations. Notes appearing in the margin of a document offered in evidence. 53 Am J1st Tr § 111. Words and figures written on an instrument outside the body of the instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 66. A part of a bill or note where placed thereon at the time of the execution of the instrument with the intention of making them a part of the contract. 11 Am J2d B & N § 66. Notes appended to the sections of a code of statutes by way of explanation of the codification and for convenience in search and examination. 50 Am J1st Stat § 157.

marginal notes. Same as marginal notations.

marginal purchase. A purchase wherein the full price or cost of the stock or commodity purchased is not given to the broker at the time of the execution of the order of the customer, without regard to whether the purchase was made as an investment with the expectation on the part of the customer of later making full payment and acquiring the ultimate possession, or as a speculation with the intention of reselling upon a rise in the market and without any intention of making full payment therefor or acquiring possession thereof. Austin v Hayden, 71 Mich 38, 137 NE 317.

marginal sale. See short sale.

marginal signature. The signature of a testator appearing in the margin of the instrument. 57 Am J1st Wills § 274.

marginal well. A term of the oil industry.

The term is defined by a Texas statute regulating the production of oil wells as any pumping well having a daily output of production of twenty barrels or less. The statute prohibits restriction of the production of any marginal well as thus defined. Railroad Com. v Rowan & Nichols Oil Co. (CA5 Tex) 107 F2d 70.

margin of credit. The amount of credit which a merchant will extend to a customer over and above a fixed limit in the latter's indebtedness to the merchant upon account, it being understood that the indebtedness will be kept within such limit by payments upon the account from time to time. Schaffran v Mount Vernon-Woodbury Mills (CA3 NJ) 70 F2d 963, 94 ALR 543; Schneider-Davis Co. v Hart, 23 Tex Civ App 529, 530, 57 SW 903.

margin of safety. The margin, to be noted by a trustee in making an investment of funds of the trust, between the value of the security and the amount of the investment. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 426.

[775]

margin on sale. The sum of money or its value in securities required by a broker of his customer in making a short sale, such being for the protection of the broker. 12 Am J2d Brok § 114.

See short sale.

margin transaction. A transaction in stocks or commodities made through a broker, usually as a speculation, wherein no more than an advance is made by way of payment to the broker. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 72.

See margin; marginal purchase; margin on sale.

marijuana. A substance derived from a hemp plant, generally classified as a narcotic. 25 Am J2d Drugs §§ 2, 16.

marinarius. A mariner.

marine. Pertaining or relating to the sea; pertaining or relating to navigation.

A person serving in the Marine Corps.

See Marine Corps.

marine contract. Same as maritime contract.

Marine Corps. A military body in the regular service of the United States, but identified with the Navy. Wilkes v Dinsman (US) 7 How 89, 124, 12 L Ed 618, 634.

While the Marine Corps partakes more of a military body than a naval one and is sometimes loosely referred to as the third branch or element of the military establishment, it is a branch of the navy designed to perform military services. United States v Dunn, 120 US 249, 30 L Ed 667, 7 S Ct 507.

marine hospital. A hospital for sick and disabled seamen. 48 Am J1st Ship § 175.

marine insurance. A policy or contract of insurance covering the risk of loss to ship, cargo, or freight from a peril or perils of the sea. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins §§ 1308 et seq. A maritime contract or guaranty, on the part of the insurer, that the ship or goods shall pass safely over the sea, and through its storms and its many casualties, to the port of its destination; and that if they do not pass safely, but meet with disaster, from any of the misadventures insured against, the insurer will pay the loss sustained. New England Marine Ins. Co. v Dunham (US) 11 Wall 1, 20 L Ed 90. Probably the oldest form of insurance.

marine interest. The interest allowable on bottomry and respondentia bonds, such being at an exceptionally high rate on account of the hazard of loss of both principal and interest. 48 Am J1st Ship § 601.

Although bottomry and respondentia bonds usually make provision for the payment of maritime interest, an agreement for such interest is not a necessary element of a bottomry contract. Force v The Ship Pride of the Ocean (DC NY) 3 F 162, 164.

marine league. The equivalent of three geographical miles. Manchester v Massachusetts, 139 US 240, 257, 35 L Ed 159, 164, 11 S Ct 559.

marine lien. See mariner's lien; maritime lien.

marine mile. Same as nautical mile.

marine protest. A written statement under oath, made by the master of a vessel after the occurrence of an accident or disaster in which the vessel or cargo is lost or injured, with respect to the attending circumstances, being intended to show that the loss or damage resulted from a peril of the sea or other cause for which neither the master nor the owner was responsible, concluding with protestation against any liability of the owner for such loss or damage. 48 Am J1st Ship § 221.

mariner. Every person whose employment is on the sea and who is attached to a ship. Spinetti v Atlas S.S. Co. 80 NY 71, 81.
See seaman.

marine railway. A railway so constructed as to permit a ship to be rather conveniently loaded on a conveyor and pulled from the water. An inclined structure at the water's edge which extends below the water. It carries a cradle which moves on rollers or wheels. The cradle runs below the water and receives the vessel which is then hauled out. Maryland Casualty Co. v Lawson (CA5 Fla) 101 F2d 732, citing Bradford, Glossary of Sea Terms.

mariner's lien. The lien of a mariner for his wages. It is one of the oldest and best recognized of maritime liens. It exists as a rule in favor of every one who, in justice, can be regarded as a seaman. It follows the ship and its proceeds into whatever hands they go. Sheppard v Taylor (US) 5 Pet 675, 8 L Ed 269.

marine tort. Same as maritime tort.

maris. See exercitor maris

Maris et foeminae conjunctio est de jure naturae. The union of the male and the female is according to the law of nature.

maritagio amisso per defaltam. An old writ for the recovery of lands of which a tenant in frankmarriage had been disseised.

maritagium. The right of marriage, which is to be distinguished from matrimonium and in its feudal sense signifies the power the lord or guardian in chivalry had of disposing of his infant ward in matrimony. See 2 Bl Comm 70.

Maritagium est aut liberum aut servitio obligatum; liberum maritagium dicitur obi donator volt quod terra sic data quieta sit et libera ab omni seculari servitio. Marriage is either frankmarriage or obligated with service; it is called frankmarriage when the giver wills it that land so given be secure and free from all secular service.

marital. Pertaining or relating to the marriage relation.

marital deduction. A deduction in computing the taxable estate for federal estate tax purposes, limited to one-half of the decedent's adjusted gross estate, of property passing to the surviving spouse. IRC § 2056(a).

marital discord. Unhappy relations between husband and wife.

marital duties. The personal consequences and incidents of the marital relationship, duties reciprocal to the rights of consortium. 26 Am J1st H & W § 5.

See consortium.

marital infidelity. See infidelity. marital portion. (Louisiana terminology.)

[776]

The rightful share or portion of a widow in the estate of her deceased husband.

marital relationship. The natural and legal relationship of husband and wife; the peculiar relationship growing out of marriage, based upon the reciprocal rights and duties of the spouses. 26 Am J1st H & W § 2.

marital rights. The rights of spouses as such. The personal consequences and incidents of the marital relationship; the rights of consortium. 26 Am J1st H&W§5.

See consortium.

marital rights, duties and obligations. Such rights, duties, and obligations as arise from the contract of marriage, and constitute its object, and therefore embracing what the parties to such a contract mutually agree to perform toward each other and toward society. Kilburn v Kilburn, 89 Cal 46, 26 P 636.

See marital duties; marital rights.

marital settlement. See marriage settlement.

marital status. The status of one as a single or married person.

maritima incrementa. Marine increment or increase,—lands reclaimed from the sea.

maritime. Of the sea. Pertaining to the sea; pertaining to navigable waters. Eclipse Mill Co. v Department of Labor & Industries, 141 Wash 172, 251 P 130.

maritime assizes of Jerusalem. That part of the assizes of Jerusalem dealing with maritime law.

maritime belt. That part of the sea which, in contradistinction to the open sea, is under the sway of the littoral or bordering states, which can exclusively reserve the fishery within their respective maritime belts for their own citizens, whether fish, or pearls, or amber, or other products of the sea. Louisiana v Mississippi, 202 US 1, 52, 50 L Ed 913, 932, 26 S Ct 408, 571.

maritime blockade. See blockade.

Maritime Code. A code of laws pertaining to the navigation of the Mediterranean Sea formerly in effect, having been compiled about 1000 A. D.

Maritime Commission. An administrative agency of the United States, dealing with maritime things and activities, many of its duties being those of the former United States Shipping Board. Isbrandtsen-Moller Co. v United States, 300 US 139, 81 L Ed 562, 57 S Ct 407.

Maritime Commission Liens. The title of Chapter XIV of the Bankruptcy Act relating to the rights of the United States as a mortgage or lien creditor in the receivership or trusteeship of a shipping corporation. Bankruptcy Act §§ 701-703; 11 USC §§ 1101-1103.

maritime contract. A contract relative to a matter, transaction, or service that depends on, assists, or furthers transportation on navigable waters. Basically, a contract the whole substance of which has a connection with navigation of a ship, with her equipment or preservation, or with the maintenance or preservation of her crew. 2 Am J2d Adm § 61.

maritime courts. Courts established in England during the middle ages with jurisdiction over maritime matters.
See admiralty court.

maritime employment. Employment on a vessel, in the operation and repair of vessels, in loading and unloading vessels, and other longshore work. Anno: 83 ALR 1039; 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 124.

A service is not necessarily a maritime service because it is rendered upon the high seas or a navigable river. To be a maritime service it must have some relation to commerce or navigation; some connection with a vessel employed in trade, -with her equipment, her preservation or the preservation of her crew. Cope v Vallette Dry-Dock Co. (CC La) 16 F 924.

maritime hypothecation. See bottomry; respondentia.

maritime insurance. See marine insurance.

maritime interest. Same as marine interest.

maritime law. The law which deals with rights, duties, and liabilities with respect to, or arising out of, the use of navigable waters for the transportation of persons or property by means of ships or vessels, either commercially or non-commercially. 48 Am J1st Ship § 3.

The United States has its own system of maritime law, coextensive with and operating uniformly throughout its boundaries. The basis of this system is the general maritime law but the latter has no inherent force of its own and is operative in this, as in any country, only so far as it has been adopted by the laws and usages thereof. 48 Am J1st Ship § 3.

See admiralty.

maritime lien. A lien on a vessel, enforceable by suit in rem, in favor of any person furnishing repairs, supplies, towage, use of drydock or marine railway or other necessities, to any vessel, foreign or domestic. 46 USC § 971. To be distinguished from a common-law lien on a vessel which depends upon possession. 48 Am J1st Ship § 551. A lien on a vessel by contract, even by tort. 48 Am J1st Ship §§ 553 et seq.

See mariner's lien.

Maritime Lien Act. A comprehensive federal statute on the subject of maritime liens. 46 USC §§ 971 et seq.

maritime loan. A loan wherein the lender loses all the money lent in the event of the total loss of the security, or pro rata in the event of a partial loss.

See bottomry; respondentia.

maritime service. See maritime employment.

maritime state. A collective name sometimes applied to the officers and men of the English navy.

maritime supplies. Articles and substances used in the operation of vessels on navigable waters.

maritime tort. An injury to person or property of which admiralty will take jurisdiction because of its origin on navigable waters in a maritime matter, including torts resulting from malfeasance or negligence, as well as those committed by direct force. 2 Am J2d Adm §§ 77 et seq.; 48 Am J1st Ship § 531.

So long as a tort is committed on navigable waters, it is not essential to its classification as a maritime tort that it be committed on board a vessel. Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co. v O'Hearne (CA4 Va) 192 F2d 968.

[777]

maritime transaction. See maritime contract; maritime lien; maritime tort.

maritus. A married man; a husband.

Maritus potest perdere, dissipare, abuti. The husband can lose, squander and waste. Garrozi v Dastas, 204 US 64, 81, 51 L Ed 369, 379, 27 S Ct 224.

mark. See signature by mark; trademark; visible mark or injury.

marked ballot. A ballot marked by the voter to indicate his choice of a candidate or candidates, normally, in accord with statute, by making a cross in the square appearing opposite the name of the candidate. 26 Am J2d Elect § 258. A ballot having distinguishing marks, permitting it to be identified among all the ballots cast. 26 Am J2d Elect § 263.

marked card. A playing card secretly marked by minute mark, so that a player can identify the card in play.

marked crosswalk. A way for pedestrians across a street marked by lines, usually in white. 7 Am J2d Auto § 421.

marked line. A boundary line based upon monuments, such prevailing, in the construction of a description of real estate, over calls for courses and distances. 12 Am J2d Bound § 72.

marked tree. A tree marked by slash or cut of an axe for identification, particularly for use as a monument of a land boundary.

marker. A stone or metal piece placed at a grave, lettered for the purpose of identifying a body at rest in a grave. 14 Am J2d Cem §§ 33-35.

See monument.

market. At common law, a franchise conferring a right to hold a concourse of buyers and sellers. 35 Am J1st Mark & M § 3. In the modern sense, a place designated by municipal or town authority for the sale of articles necessary or convenient for the subsistence of men and domestic animals. 35 Am J1st Mark & M § 2. Within the meaning of occupation or privilege tax statutes:-a designated place to which all persons can go who wish to buy things necessary for subsistence or for the convenience of life which are there exposed for sale. Jacksonville v Ledwith, 26 Fla 163, 7 So 885. The state of business and prices upon a stock or commodity exchange as active, slow, rising or falling.

The word is derived from the Latin word "mercatus," which signifies trade or traffic, or buying and selling. Re New York, 127 Misc 710, 723, 217 NYS 544.

See corner; forestalling the market.

marketable title. A title good as a matter of law, its validity not being dependent upon the determination of any question of fact. Wurzweiler v Cox, 138 Or 110, 5 P2d 699; First Nat. Bank of St. Johnsbury v Laperle 117 Vt 144, 86 A2d 635, 30 ALR2d 958. A title that a person of reasonable prudence and intelligence, guided by competent legal advice, will be willing to take and pay for according to the fair value of the land. Campbell v Doherty, 53 NM 280, 206 P2d 1145, 9 ALR2d 699. A title not subject to such reasonable doubt as will create a just apprehension of its validity in the mind of a reasonable, prudent and intelligent person. Campbell v Doherty, 53 NM 280, 206 P2d 1145, 9 ALR2d 699. A title free from reasonable doubt both as to matters of law and fact, at law and in equity; a title which a reasonable purchaser, well informed as to the facts and their legal bearings, willing and ready to perform his contract, would, in the exercise of that prudence which businessmen ordinarily bring to bear upon such transactions, be willing to accept and ought to accept. Robinson v Bressler, 122 Neb 461, 240 NW 564, 90 ALR 600. Such ownership as enables and insures to the owner the peaceable enjoyment and control of the land as against all others. Barnard v Brown, 112 Mich 452, 70 NW 1038. A title free from liens or encumbrances, and dependent for its validity on no doubtful questions of law or fact-a title either of record, or, if dependent upon facts extrinsic to the record, dependent only upon facts sure to be easily accessible at all times in the future to a vendee, should his title at any time be attacked. Anno: 57 ALR 1284. A title which the purchaser of real estate under a contract is impliedly bound to accept in the absence of a provision requiring a particular kind of title. Anno: 46 ALR2d 547.

market agency. A person engaged in the business of buying and selling for others on a commission basis livestock in interstate commerce at a stockyard. Tagg Bros. & Moorhead v United States, 280 US 420, 74 L Ed 524, 50 S Ct 22.

market corner. See corner.

market house. The building in which a market is housed.

marketing agreement. See marketing contract.

marketing association. An organization having the purpose of promoting the marketing of agricultural products, sometimes of a particular product.

See co-operative marketing association.

marketing contract. The most vital instrumentality of a co-operative association. Hiroshi Kaneko v Jones, 192 Or 523, 235 P2d 768. A contract between a co-operative association and its members whereby the latter undertake to market their products exclusively through the association for a stated period, and the association undertakes to obtain the best price possible for the products. 18 Am J2d Coop Asso § 21. An agreement between administrative authorities of the federal or state government with a producer, processor, or other person engaged in the handling of agricultural commodities, entered into under the authority conferred by an agricultural adjustment and marketing act and as a means of effectuating the purposes of such statute. Yarnell v Hillsborough Packing Co. (CA5 Fla) 70 F2d 435, 92 ALR 1475.

marketing quota. See quota.

market license. A license to occupy a stall in a public market. Re Emrich (DC Pa) 101 F 231.

market of competition. A market in which two litigants involving trademark or trade-name protection compete in business, irrespective of geographical remoteness from one another. 52 Am J1st Tradem § 107.

market overt. An open, public, and legally constituted market.

In England, sales in market overt are an exception to the rule that no one can transfer even to a bona fide purchaser any greater or better title than he himself has. The established American doctrine is that a purchaser in a public, open market acquires no better title to goods than if he had bought them elsewhere. 46 Am J1st Sales § 462.

market price. A price determined by the demand for the commodity in relation to the supply; the price in an open market. 46 Am J1st Sales § 180.

[778]

If the market is not open but subject to control by all who offer a commodity of like kind, by fixing a price, either by a common, although unexpressed, understanding, the term "market price" means merely quoted price. 46 Am J1st Sales § 180.

market quotations. A list of current or latest prices for commodities or securities bought and sold on a board of trade, stock exchange, or other market. Board of Trade v L. A. Kinsey Co. (CA7) 130 F 507, affd 198 US 236, 49 L Ed 1031, 25 S Ct 637.

market rate. The rate at which a commodity is commonly sold. Gold Brand Confectionery Co. v Dimmick, 276 Mass 386, 177 NE 547.

See market price.

market report. The report of the prices paid for particular commodities or securities upon a particular day or during a certain period of time.

See market quotations.

market value. The price for which an article is bought and sold in the ordinary course of business. 22 Am J2d Damg § 146. The price which would be agreed upon at a voluntary sale between an owner willing to sell and a purchaser willing to buy. 27 Am J2d Em D § 267. Of real estate:—the highest price obtainable in the open market for cash. Anno: 48 ALR 71, s. 68 ALR 152. The resultant of the prediction of many minds as to the usability of real property and probably financial returns from that use, projected into the future as far as reasonable, intelligent men can foresee the future. Palmer v Connecticut R. & Lighting Co. 311 US 544, 85 L Ed 336, 61 S Ct 379, reh den 312 US 713, 85 L Ed 1143, 61 S Ct 609. In condemnation proceedings, the fair market value. 27 Am J2d Em D § 267. As a standard of valuation for inheritance tax:—fair market price; cash value; actual value. Anno: 57 ALR 1158, s. 83 ALR 939 and 117 ALR 143.

In order for it to be said that a thing has a market value, it is necessary that there shall be a market for such commodity—that is, a demand therefor and an ability from such demand to sell the same when a sale thereof is desired. 22 Am J2d Damg § 146.

The courts have recognized the lack of correlation between "market value" and "book value" of corporate stock. Anno: 51 ALR2d 612.

See clear market value; market price.

market wagon. A vehicle, formerly in frequent use on the streets of cities and villages, wherefrom the proprietor dispensed groceries, vegetables, and other articles of merchandise from door to door and house to house. Re Flaherty, 105 Cal 558, 38 P 981.

marking ballot. A part of the process of voting.

See marked ballot.

marking document. Identifying a document by a mark placed upon it upon introducing or offering it in evidence. State v Rhoads, 81 Ohio St 397, 91 NE 186.

mark it off. An expression in the nature of a request accompanying the return of a binder to an insurance company, but insufficient as a request for the cancellation of the policy, the theory being that in insurance parlance a request for cancellation is not unconditional but carries with it the understanding that the policy shall be considered as having never been in force and that the insurer abandons any claim for premiums under such policy. Boutwell v Globe & Rutgers Fire Ins. Co. 193 NY 323, 85 NE 1087.

marksman. A person who, being unable to write his name, signs an instrument by making his mark, either as a witness or a principal. 57 Am J1st Wills § 250.

Marlborough. See Statute of Marlborough.

marque. See law of marque; letters of marque and reprisal. marque and reprisal. See letters of marque and reprisal.

marquee. An awning or roof projecting from a building, especially a theater, over the sidewalk at the main entrance, sometimes supported by columns. Gilbert v Repertory, Inc. 302 Mass 105, 18 NE2d 437.

marquis. An English nobleman ranking next below a duke. See 1 Bl Comm 405, note.

Marquis of Queensbury Rules. Rules governing boxing and sparring exhibitions. State v Olympic Club, 46 La Ann 935, 15 So 190.

marriage. An institution; the foundation of the family and of society. 35 Am J1st Mar § 8. The status or relation of a man and a woman legally united as husband and wife. Baker v State, 86 Neb 775, 126 NW 300. A personal relation arising out of a civil contract to which the consent of the parties is essential. The voluntary union for life of one man and one woman as husband and wife, to the exclusion of all others, for the discharge to each other and to the community, of the duties legally incumbent on those whose association is founded on the distinction of sex. The act of becoming married. 35 Am J1st Mar § 4.

See clandestine marriage; common-law marriage; companionate marriage; coverture; morganatic marriage; putative marriage.

marriageable age. The age of consent, upon arriving at which one becomes capable of entering into a marriage. 35 Am J1st Mar § 16.

See age of consent.

marriage articles. The articles of an agreement made by parties in contemplation of marriage, usually in anticipation of the drafting of a formal marriage settlement. 26 Am J1st H & W § 278.

See marriage settlement.

marriage banns. See publication of marriage banns.

marriage benefit insurance. A contract by which the insurer becomes bound to pay either a stated sum of money to the beneficiary or his wife on his marriage, if the beneficiary will remain unmarried for a certain time, or a sum of money the amount of which is proportioned to the length of time during which the beneficiary remains single.

Such a contract is held void, both as being a wagering contract and as holding out an inducement for the postponement of marriage. White v Equitable Mut. Ben. Union, 76 Ala 251.

marriage broker. See marriage brokerage.

marriage brokerage. The business of a "marriage broker," who undertakes for compensation to procure spouses for those who seek them.

At one time the courts differed as to whether such contracts could be set aside without fraud, deceit, coercion, or a total failure of consideration, but since the House of Lords declared them to be against public policy this view has been quite generally followed in the United States as well as in England. 35 Am J1st Mar § 283.

[779]

marriage ceremony. The giving utterance to and public evidence of the contract of marriage. 35 Am J1st Mar § 25.

marriage certificate. A certificate of the solemnization of a marriage, prepared by the person officiating. 35 Am J1st Mar § 27.

marriage in facie ecclesiae. A marriage in the face of the church. A marriage solemnized by a clergyman of the church. 35 Am J1st Mar §§ 25, 26.

marriage license. A license to marry; a condition precedent to the solemnization of a marriage. 35 Am J1st Lic § 23.

marriage per verba de futuro cum copula. A common-law marriage through carnal intercourse after an agreement to be married in the future, the law presuming a present consent from such agreement and intercourse. 35 Am J1st Mar § 42.

marriage per verba de praesenti. Marriage by means of words of present assent. That is, a common-law marriage entered into by the parties simply by their joint consent, without the interposition of any person authorized to solemnize the marriage and without formal solemnization of any sort. 35 Am J1st Mar § 2a.

marriage portion. The same as the "dot" of the French. The property which a woman brings to her husband upon her marriage. Croft, Petitioner, 162 Mass 22, 27, 37 NE 784.

marriage register. A public record of marriages. A church record of marriages.

marriage settlement. A settlement of property by one spouse on the other or an agreement with respect to the rights of one spouse in the property of the other, as surviving spouse or otherwise, or with respect to the disposition of property, or with respect to support and maintenance. 26 Am J1st H & W § 274.

See antenuptial settlement; property settlement.

marriage speculation contract. A contract whereby an unmarried man in consideration of payments to be made by him receives the promise and engagement of the other contracting party to pay a stated sum to his wife, upon his marriage, provided such marriage does not occur until after a specified time running from the date of the contract. Anno: 63 ALR 733, s. 100 ALR 1457, 119 ALR 1246.

See marriage benefit insurance.

married woman. A status no longer of much more legal significance than the comparable status of married man.

Blackstone said: "By marriage, the husband and wife are one person in law,-that is, the very being or legal existence of the woman is suspended during the marriage, or at least is incorporated and consolidated into that of the husband, under whose wing, protection, and cover, she performs everything." 1 Bl Comm 442. But modern legislation has made one change after another until "what there is left of subjugation by her husband or subjection to him to incapacitate her to make any kind of contract she pleased is difficult to perceive." Harrington v Lowe, 73 Kan 1, 84 P 570.

See Married Women's Acts.

married woman's acknowledgment. An acknowledgment by a married woman of an instrument in the execution of which she joins with her husband, the examination and the act of acknowledgment being separate from the acknowledgment by the husband. 26 Am J1st H & W § 154. A distinctive form of acknowledgment, characterized by a privy examination of a married woman making an acknowledgment before the officer taking the acknowledgment, formerly required generally but now required in only a few states. 1 Am J2d Ack § 2.

married woman's equity for a settlement. See equity for a settlement.

married woman's separate estate. See separate estate of wife.

Married Women's Acts. Statutes or constitutional provisions, now found in most, if not all, American jurisdictions, enacted for the benefit of married women, abolishing common-law restrictions upon their right to contract, sue and be sued, acquire, hold, and convey property in their own right free from interference by their husbands. 26 Am J1st H & W §20.

Married Women's Property Acts. Essentially the same as Married Women's Acts. 26 Am J1st H & W § 20.

See Married Women's Acts.

marsh. A wet tract of land.

marshal. A court officer. An officer vested with power and authority for the execution of process. A town or village police officer in some jurisdictions.

See earl marshal; knight marshal; provost marshal; United States Marshal.

marshal court. Same as court of chivalry.

marshaling assets. The principle that where two or more creditors seek satisfaction out of the assets of their debtor, the creditor who has a lien on only a part of the assets shall be protected so far as possible without doing violence to the rights of the other creditor or creditors. 35 Am J1st Marsh A § 2. The principle that where two or more creditors seek satisfaction out of the assets of their debtor and one of them can resort to two sources whereas another creditor has recourse to only one of the sources for example, where a senior or prior mortgagee has a lien on two parcels of land, and a junior mortgagee has a lien on only one of the parcels-the former may be required to seek satisfaction out of the fund which the latter creditor cannot touch, in order that the latter may, if possible, have his claim satisfied out of the fund which is subject to the claims of both creditors. Showmaker v White-Dulaney Co. 131 Wash 347, 230 P 162, 232 P 695.

See inverse order of alienation.

marshaling liens. Determining the priority as between two or more liens. An expression sometimes loosely used for marshaling assets.

See marshaling assets.

marshaling securities. Same as marshaling assets.

marshal of the king's household. Same as knight marshal.

Marshalsea. An old prison in London which formerly belonged to the court of king's bench.

See court of the Marshalsea.

mart. A market; a public market.

[780]

martial law. Law as applied by military authorities for the government of the civilian population in portions of the country in a state of war, operative only until pacification. 16 Am J1st Const L § 52. That law which is promulgated and administered by and through military authorities and agencies for the maintenance of public order and the protection of persons and property in territory wherein the agencies of the civil law have been paralyzed, overthrown, or overpowered, and are unable, for the time being, fully to operate and function. 36 Am J1st Mil § 84. The law of military necessity in the actual presence of war. United States v Diekelman, 92 US 520, 23 L Ed 742. The will of the military commander in the field. Re McDonald, 49 Mont 454, 143 P 947.

It is to be distinguished from military law which applies to those rules enacted by the legislative power for the government and regulation of the army and navy, and the militia when called into the active service of the United States. Johnson v Jones, 44 Ill 142.

See military law.

martini. A cocktail made of gin, a dash of bitters, and vermouth, cooled by shaking it in cracked ice.

martyrs. See acta martyrum.

Mary. The queen of England from July 6th, 1553, to November 17th, 1558, known to some as Bloody Mary.

mask. A covering over the face or part of the face, worn as a disguise in committing or attempting to commit a crime or in fun, as at a costume ball or party.

mason. A layer of stone or brick. One who builds of brick or stone.

Mason. A member of the secret fraternal order of Masonry, otherwise called Freemasonry, through a masonic lodge.

Masonic lodge. A lodge of Masons or Freemasons, organized and operating in the exemplification of the principles of Masonry. A charitable organization in some jurisdictions, but not in others. 15 Am J2d Char § 149.

masonry. Stone or brick construction.

Masonry. A fraternal and secret order, often called Freemasonry, existing throughout the civilized world in grand lodges and local lodges. The principles taught by Masons in Masonic lodges.

mass. Bulk. A quantity of articles, goods, or substances, usually large in size.

Mass. The service in the Roman Catholic Church.

Mass is an act of public worship, in celebration of the Eucharist as observed in the Roman Catholic Church, and formerly observed in the Church of England, and still observed in some Anglican churches. It is common, and public to all as a religious ceremony, and is therefore a religious or pious use, and is a public charity, as distinguished from a private charity, which it might be if restricted to masses for the souls of designated persons. Ackerman v Fichter, 179 Ind 392, 101 NE 493.

massa. (Civil law.) A mass; a lump; raw material before it has been fabricated.

Massachusetts Colony Ordinance. An important statutory provision pertaining to the boundaries of lands bordering water courses, and the right of a town to grant away a great pond, such provision having been extended by judicial construction to cover the entire state of Massachusetts and apparently having become a part of the common law of Maine. 12 Am J2d Bound § 36.

Massachusetts trust. Same as business trust.

massage. A method of treating the superficial soft parts of the body for remedial or hygienic purposes, consisting in rubbing, stroking and kneading, tapping, etc. with the hands or an instrument. Rubin v United States, 59 App DC 195, 37 F2d 991; Florida Board of Massage v Underwood (Fla) 45 So 2d 184, 17 ALR2d 1181.

See masseur.

mass convention. A political convention of electors as distinguished from a convention of delegates chosen by the electors. 25 Am J2d Elect § 120. A political convention of voters held for the purpose of nominating candidates for office to be voted for at an ensuing election, at which convention every voter represents himself and himself only, as distinguished from a delegate convention at which the delegates vote as representatives. Manston v McIntosh, 58 Minn 525, 60 NW 672.

Masses. See Mass.

masseur. One accomplished in massage, that is in rubbing or kneading muscles or joints so as to relieve pain or stiffness by stimulating the circulation. Anno: 17 ALR2d 1190. A person who practices, administers or teaches the art of body massage. Florida Board of Massage v Underwood (Fla) 45 So 2d 184, 17 ALR2d 1181.

mass picketing. The use of pickets in great numbers in a labor dispute. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 365.

mass sale. See sale en masse.

mast. A pole raised vertically from the deck of a vessel to support the sails and yards. 48 Am J1st Ship § 641.

master. The person in command of a vessel. 48 Am J1st Ship § 113. An official of court assisting in the administration of the functions of the court. An officer similar to commissioner or referee. 20 Am J2d Cts § 4. An outdated term for "employer." 35 Am J1st M & S § 2.

The words "employer" and "employee" are the outgrowth of the old terms "master" and "servant"; they have been adopted by reason of the shift of the relation in general from a personal to an impersonal one, and are the terms now commonly used to describe the relationship. 35 Am J1st M & S § 2.

See master in chancery.

master and servant. The relationship which exists when one person who employs another to do certain work exercises the right of control over the performance of the work to the extent of prescribing the manner in which it is to be executed. 35 Am J1st M & S § 2. The equivalent of the more modern term "employer and employee."

master at common law. A ministerial officer of an English superior court with functions and duties corresponding to those of a master in chancery.

master builder. A contractor who employs men to build. Little Rock, Hot Springs & Texas Railway Co. v Spencer, 65 Ark 183, 198. A person skilled in building, in making plans for building, or in supervision of construction.

master chief petty officer. A noncommissioned officer of the Navy, of a rank comparable to that of sergeant major of the Army.

[781]

master in chancery. An officer of the court. A referee in a suit in equity. An assistant of the chancellor having the function of performing acts, either judicial or ministerial in nature, which the chancellor may see fit in accordance with equity practice, to require of him. 27 Am J2d Eq § 225.

Master of Arts. A postgraduate degree in the liberal arts, humanities, or social sciences. Master of Science. A postgraduate degree in science.

master of ship. The person, usually called "captain," in command of the vessel, including control of the crew, chief charge of the government and navigation of the vessel, and supervision over the care of the vessel and cargo. 48 Am J1st Ship § 113.

master of the crown office. An important English officer performing the functions of public prosecutor in the court of king's bench, and also acting as coroner to the king.

master of the rolls. An assistant judge of the English chancery court holding a court of his own ranking next below that of the lord chancellor.

master of vessel. See master of ship.

master plumber. A skilled plumber. A plumber qualified to work without supervision.

master pro hac vice. A master appointed to act in a particular case and for such case only. 27 Am J2d Eq § 225.

master's mate. See mate.

master sergeant. The highest in rank of noncommissioned officers of the United States Army.

masthead. A term of the printing and publishing business for the part of a page of a publication upon which there is noted the name of the publication, the names of the owner, publisher, and editor, the place of publication, business-office address, the address of the editorial office, and the titles of any prior publications which have been merged or consolidated with the reporting publication. American Photographic Publishing Co. v Ziff-Davis Publishing Co. 27 Cost & Pat App 1014, 127 F2d 308.

mastiff. A large dog formerly in common use for hunting, also as a watchdog.
See lawing.

masturbation. Self-abuse; onanism; the self-excitement of the genitals, usually by manipulation. Sometimes a serious disease within the meaning of an application for life insurance. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 745.

mat. A removable covering for the floor or part of the floor, often placed in vestibules and aisles of the cars of a carrier to prevent passengers from falling on a slippery floor.

match. See boxing match; matched orders; matching.

matched orders. Orders to sell or purchase the same securities in substantially the same amounts, at substantially the same prices, and at substantially the same times at which sales or purchases are made; a means of illegal manipulation of prices on an exchange. 50 Am J1st Stock Ex § 26.

matching. A stock exchange term designating the practice, when dealing in futures, of settling contracts by offsetting purchases against sales. United States v New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange, 263 US 611, 616, 68 L Ed 475, 476, 44 S Ct 225.

mate. A ship's officer, subordinate to the captain. Sometimes regarded as a seaman, although clearly of a rank above an ordinary seaman. 48 Am J1st Ship § 144.

The officers of a ship are the master and the mate. The mate is the first officer under the master. He is sometimes called the "master's mate," and is neither a seaman nor a mariner. Ely v Peck, 7 Conn 239, 242.

Two masters of whaling vessels are said to mate when they enter into a contract of mateship. Baxter v Rodman, 20 Mass (3 Pick) 435.

See contract of mateship.

materfamilias. (Civil law.) The mother of a family; a woman in the position of head of the household.

materia. Materials; matter; subject matter.

See in pari materia.

material. Adjective: Important; relating to the substance rather than form; going to the merits and essence. Noun: Metal, wood, or any substances used in the fabrication of a product. Wood, brick, stone, steel, etc. used in the construction of a building or other improvement. 36 Am J1st Mech L § 69. Collected facts or ideas used by a writer in the preparation of an essay or thesis.

See immaterial. See also terms and expressions beginning immaterial.

material allegation. A statement in a pleading upon which an issue in the action can be made. Miller v Brumbaugh, 7 Kan 343, 353. A statement in a pleading essential to the claim or defense, and which cannot be stricken from the pleading without leaving it insufficient. Tucker v Parks, 7 Colo 62, 67.

material alteration. A change in the terms of a written instrument which gives it a legal effect different from that which it originally had. Barton Sav. Bank & Trust Co. v Stephenson, 87 Vt 433, 89 A 639. An intentional act performed upon an instrument after it has been fully executed, by one of the parties thereto, without the consent of the other, which changes the legal effect of the instrument in any respect. O. N. Bull Remedy Co. v Clark, 109 Minn 396, 124 NW 20. An alteration of an instrument which destroys the identity of the instrument or of the contract evidenced thereby, or which so changes its terms as to give it different legal effect from that which it originally had, and thus works some change in the rights, obligations, interest, or relations of the party. 4 Am J2d Alt Inst § 5. The completion of an executed but incomplete instrument, in a manner other than is authorized, so as to change the contract. UCC § 3-115(a).

Elimination of words which had no legal effect at the time the contract was signed and delivered is not a material alteration. Cities Service Oil Co. v Viering, 404 111 538, 89 NE2d 392, 13 ALR2d 1448.

An instrument is "materially altered" if the change increases the liability of, or injuriously affects, a party or parties. Newman v Cover, 300 Pa 267, 150 A 595.

material breach. A breach of contract which goes to the whole consideration; a breach which gives to the injured party the right to rescind the contract or to maintain an action for damages for a total breach. 17 Am J2d Contr § 446.

material change. An expression which, in reference to a building or construction contract, is so well understood that to attempt to define it in instructing the jury is more likely to confuse than to aid the jury. Nance v Patterson Bldg. Co. 140 Ky 564, 131 SW 494.

See material alteration.

material concealment. A concealment upon which fraud may be predicated where the fact concealed is such that had it been known to the other party he would not have entered into the contract or engaged in the transaction. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 178. In an application for insurance, the concealment of a fact material to the risk. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 689.

In contracts of life insurance, a concealment is material when the knowledge or ignorance of the fact involved will influence the judgment of the insurer as to whether or not it will enter into the contract. Travelers Ins. Co. v Wilkins (DC Fla) 33 F 117.

material error. See prejudicial error.

material evidence. Evidence which bears so closely upon the issues of the case as to warrant its being considered by jury or court as the trier of the facts. 20 Am J Rev ed Ev §§ 253 et seq. Evidence which goes to the substantial matters in dispute or has a legitimate and effective influence or bearing on the decision of the case. Lynch v Rosenberger, 121 Kan 601, 249 P 682. Evidence which has a substantial, as distinguished from a formal bearing upon the merits of the controversy. David Bradley Mfg. Co. v Eagle Mfg. Co. (CA7 Ill) 57 F 980, 986.

Testimony is deemed "material testimony," the falsity of which warrants a conviction of perjury, if it might have substantially influenced the jury's consideration of the merits or the credibility of other testimony going to the merits. People v Kresel, 147 Misc 241, 264 NYS 464.

material facilities. Instrumentalities for the production of special. nuclear material. 6 Am J2d Atomic E§12.

material fact. See material.

material fraud. A fraud which so influenced the conduct of the injured party in leading him to enter into the transaction that without it he would not have done so. Boulden v Stilwell, 100 Md 543, 60 A 609.

See material concealment; material representation.

material injury. An injury resulting in damages of a substantial nature as distinguished from merely nominal damages. Anno: 16 ALR 633. To the freehold:—the term as used in the provisions of a conditional sales act making severability without "material injury to the freehold" a factor in determining the rights, as against third persons, of the seller of the goods which are affixed by the purchaser to realty, does not have reference to the diminution of value or usefulness of the freehold resulting from a removal, but to cases in which the articles sold have been so closely attached to or incorporated into the realty as to lose its identity as personal property. People's Sav. & Trust Co. v Munsert, 212 Wis 449, 249 NW 527, 88 ALR 1306.

materiality. The state of a thing in reference to whether or not it is material or the degree in which it is material.

See material. See also terms and expressions beginning material.

materially altered. See material alteration.

materialman. A person who supplies materials for use in the construction of a building or other structure. A person to whom the protection of a mechanic's lien statute is now generally extended.

See mechanic's lien.

materialman's lien. A lien now generally provided under mechanic's lien statutes for the protection of one who supplies materials for use in the construction of a building or other improvement.

See mechanic's lien.

materialman's maritime lien. The lien upon a ship under federal or state statute for necessary materials or supplies furnished the vessel in port, especially her home port. 48 Am J1st Ship §§ 552 et seq.

material misrepresentation. See material representation.

material mistake. A mistake substantially affecting the rights and obligations of the parties to an instrument. 45 Am J1st Reform Inst § 48. A mistake so great that the parties obviously did not act with knowledge of the true facts, since such would have defeated the very object of the transaction. Anno: 1 ALR2d 79.

material payment bond. See labor and material payment bond.

material representation. As an element of fraud:—a representation of fact which influences a person to act, as to enter into a contract or transaction which, in the absence of the representation, would not have been a subject of engagement by him. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 178; 55 Am J1st V & P § 64. An element of estoppel in Pais. Douglass v Belknap Springs Land Co. 76 NH 254, 81 A 1086. In application for insurance:—a representation of a fact which reasonably careful and intelligent underwriters would regard as substantially involved in the risk of loss and rate of premium to be charged. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 701.

material testimony. See material evidence.

material variance. See variance.

matéria prima. The primary matter,—the groundwork of all natural knowledge. See 3 Bl Comm 322.

maternal. Pertaining to or emanating from the mother.

maternal fee. See feudum maternum.

maternal property. Property which has come from the maternal or mother's side of the family.

maternal welfare. Relief by welfare payments to mother.

See mother's pension.

materna maternis. Maternal things to maternal.

The expression is an abbreviated form of the common-law rule that property which has come through the mother descends to maternal relatives. See 2 Bl Comm 236.

maternity. Motherhood; the state or condition of being a mother.

maternum. See feudum maternum.

mateship. See contract of mateship.

mathematical evidence. Evidence established by computation or demonstration; evidence of a very certain and reliable character.

[783]

mathematical symbols. Arabic numerals and Roman letters for numbers. I Am J2d Abbr § 9.

matima. A godmother.

mating. Taking a spouse; being married. The act of the masters of two whaling ships whereby they enter into a contract of mateship. Baxter v Rodman, 20 Mass (3 Pick) 435.

See contract of mateship.

matricide. The murder of one's own mother; a person who murders his own mother.

matricula. A register containing the names of the members of an institution, association, or society.

matriculation. Enrollment as a student in an educational institution, particularly a college or university. A contract, complete upon payment of the required tuition fee, containing two implied conditions: (1) that no student shall be arbitrarily expelled; and (2) that the student will submit himself to reasonable rules and regulations for the breach of which, in a proper case, he may be expelled. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 25.

matriculation fee. The fee paid by a student upon matriculation at a college or university. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 19.

Matrimonia debent esse libera. Marriages ought to be free.

It was a loose application of this maxim of the old Roman law under which the Romans permitted voluntary divorces. Knost v Knost, 229 Mo 170, 129 SW 665.

matrimonial acquets. (Civil law.) Property acquired otherwise than by descent by a husband or wife during the marriage.

matrimonial action. An action predicated upon the marital relation, such as an action for divorce, for separate maintenance, or for an annulment of a marriage.

Causes involving the marriage relation; causes involving injuries respecting the rights of marriage, including jactitation of marriage (formerly), specific performance of marriage contracts, restoration of conjugal rights, separate maintenance and alimony. See 3 Bl Comm 92 et seq.

matrimonial causes. See matrimonial action.

matrimonial cohabitation. The living together by a man and a woman, ostensibly as husband and wife, either with or without sexual intercourse between them. It is stated, however, that from such cohabitation the carnal act is presumed. Cox v State, 117 Ala 103, 23 So 806; Stevens v Allen, 139 La 658, 71 So 936.

matrimonial domicil. The domicil of the husband which is that of the wife by virtue of the marital relation, her domicil merging into that of her husband.

The unity of the domicil of husband and wife is in reality no more than a fiction of the law. It should not prevail in divorce cases where the purpose is to sever the marital relation and the incidents thereof. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 257.

matrimonial offense. An offense against the vows of marriage. Richardson v Richardson [1950] Prob 16, [1949] 2 All Eng 330, 16 ALR2d 579.

matrimonium. (Roman law.) Matrimony; marriage.

Matrimonium subsequens tollit peccatum praecedens. Subsequent marriage obliterates precedent sin or offense.

matrimony. The state or status of being married. Married life.

matrix. (Civil law.) An original document, as distinguished from copies.

matron. A married woman or widow. A woman serving as an attendant or guard in an institution for females, such as a hospital or prison, or in a similar capacity in a department for females in an institution.

See jury of matrons.

matter. Substance or material. A fact or facts constituting the whole or a part of a ground of action or defense, not to be confused with "evidence," which is that which tends to prove the existence of a fact or facts. Nelson v Johnson, 18 Ind 329, 332. In one sense of the term, a fact or facts material to the issue which is being tried. Bishop v Shurly, 237 Mich 76, 84, 211 NW 75, 78.

The word is often used as synonymous with the word "subject," and sometimes simply to avoid repetition, as in the constitutional clause, "every act shall embrace but one subject, and matters properly connected therewith, which subject shall be expressed in the title." The word "subject" is here used to indicate the chief thing about which legislation is had, and "matters," the things which are secondary, subordinate, or incidental. State ex rel. Duensing v Roby, 142 Ind 168, 41 NE 145.

Matter en ley ne serra mise en bouche del jurors. A matter of law shall not be placed in the mouth of the jurors.

matter in controversy. The subject of the litigation; the matter for which suit is brought and upon which the trial of the action proceeds. Lee v Watson (US) 1 Wall 337, 17 L Ed 557. The claim presented on the record of a case in court to the legal consideration of the court, ordinarily the amount demanded by the plaintiff's pleading. St. Paul Mercury Indem. Co. v Red Cab Co. 303 US 283, 82 L Ed 845, 58 S Ct 586 (relative to removal of case to federal court from a state court).

See amount in controversy; matter in issue.

matter in deed. A matter contained in an instrument under seal.

matter in dispute. Same as matter in controversy.

matter in issue. In the usual sense, the question or questions of fact presented by the pleadings.

Within the meaning of the rule that a judgment is only conclusive upon the matter which was directly in issue upon the former trial, the "matter in issue" is that matter upon which the plaintiff proceeds by his action, and which the defendant controverts by his pleadings. The declaration and other pleadings may show specifically what this is, or they may not. If they do not, the party may introduce other evidence to show what was in issue. But facts offered in evidence to establish the matters in issue are not themselves in issue within the meaning of the rule, although they may be controverted on the trial. King v Chase, 15 NH 9.

See matter in controversy.

[784]

matter in pais. A matter of fact, as opposed to a matter of law. A matter not of record. A matter not in writing, so susceptible of proof only by oral testimony.

matter of defense. An affirmative defense.

matter of fact. See question of fact.

matter of form. A formality involving in the law a technical aspect, particularly in reference to a fixed procedure, the form of an action, or manner of pleading, as distinguished from a matter of substance going to the existence of a cause of action. Meath v Board of Mississippi Levee Comrs. 109 US 268, 27 L Ed 930, 3 S Ct 284; Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway Co. v Kurtz, 10 Ind App 60, 75, 37 NE 303.

matter of law. See question of law.

matter of probate. Such a matter as the probate of a will or the administration of a decedent's estate which is within the jurisdiction of a probate court.

There is a "matter of probate," within the term as used in a state constitution, if the status of heirship or nonheirship, whether dependent on matters of legal or equitable cognizance, becomes material in the probate of a will or in any proceedings incident thereto. Re Stoiber, 101 Colo 192, 72 P2d 276, 112 ALR 1416.

matter of record. A matter entered on the records of a court of record; a matter recorded in the place and manner required by law. Croswell v Byrnes (NY) 9 Johns 287, 290.

matter of substance. A matter going to the existence of a cause of action or defense as distinguished from a matter of formal pleading or procedure. Meath v Board of Mississippi Levee Comrs. 109 US 268, 277 L Ed 930, 3 S Ct 284.

If the right of the party pleading sufficiently appears to the court, the pleading, if defective at all, is defective in a matter of form. If such right does not sufficiently appear to the court from the pleading, the pleading is defective in a matter of substance. Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway Co. v Kurtz, 10 Ind App 60, 37 NE 303.

mature. Adjective: Full-grown. Ripe. Fully developed. Due and payable. Verb: To ripen; to develop. To reach maturity; to become due and payable, as in the case of a promissory note. To accelerate the maturity of an instrument, as to exercise an option to declare it payable at a time before the due date prescribed in the instrument. Vestal v Texas Employers' Ins. Asso. (Tex Com App) 285 SW 1041, 1045.

matured crop. A crop that has come to maturity. Anno: 103 ALR 469. A crop that has stopped growing and is ready for harvesting. 21 Am J2d Crops § 2. A crop which has ceased to draw sustenance from the soil, notwithstanding it may require seasoning before it is ready to be stored or marketed, and therefore may be left standing for a time. Myers v Steele, 98 Kan 577, 158 P 660.

Maturiora sunt vota mulierum quam virorum. The desires of women are earlier than those of men.

maturity. The state of full growth and development. The time specified in a negotiable instrument for the payment thereof. 11 Am J2d B & N § 285.

See acceleration of maturity.

maxim. A precise expression developed over the years in elucidating a principle of law by reasoning. A time-tried rule of thumb, not a law in itself. Ackroyd v Winston Bros. Co. (CA9 Mont) 113 F2d 657. Maxim of equity:—a rule or principle formulated by equity courts for the government and regulation of judicial action. 27 Am J2d Eq § 119. Divisible, with respect to the mode of their operation, into four groups, as follows: (1) maxims governing the action of the chancellor or court; (2) maxims connoting the right or standing of the party to claim a remedy or relief; (3) maxims describing the relative standing of litigants where the question is whether one party or another has the prior or superior right or "equity"; and (4) maxims prescribing the mode of disposition of the case where the "equities" of the parties are shown to be of equal dignity. 27 Am J2d Eq § 119.

Maxime ita dicta quia maxima est ejus dignitas et certissima auctoritas, atque quod maxime omnibus probetur. A maxim is so called because its dignity is greatest and its authority is the most certain, and because it is approved most by all.

Maxime paci sunt contraria, vis et injuria. Those elements which are most opposed to peace are violence and wrong.

maxims of equity. See maxim.

maximum amount. A constitutional or statutory provision which deprives a court of jurisdiction where the amount or value in controversy exceeds a stated amount. 20 Am J2d Cts § 154. A statutory limitation of a penalty. 36 Am J2d Forf & P § 64. A limit on the amount to be allowed by way of workmen's compensation. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 320. A prescribed limit on the amount of damages recoverable under a wrongful death statute. 22 Am J2d Dth § 117. A stipulation in an airplane ticket limiting the amount of the recovery for the passenger's death to a specified amount. Conklin v Canadian-Colonial Airways, 266 NY 244, 194 NE 692. A limitation placed by statute upon the amount of damages recoverable for infringement of a copyright. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 137.

maximum height restriction. A limitation in linear measurement or by a stated number of stories, placed upon the height of buildings within a definite area by restrictive covenant. 20 Am J2d Cov § 263. A limitation placed upon the height of buildings by a restrictive covenant in terms of comparison with other described structures. 20 Am J2d Cov § 263.

maximum hours. A limitation placed upon hours of labor in certain occupations.

See hours of labor; Hours of Service Act.

maximum number. A limitation placed by statute upon the number of signatures to be affixed to a nominating petition. 25 Am J2d Elect § 171.

maximum rate. The highest rate of interest warranted by law. 55 Am J1st Usury §§ 36 et seq.

maximum sentence. The longest sentence provided by statute for a particular criminal offense. A limit placed by statute upon the length of the sentence of an habitual criminal. State v Malusky, 59 ND 501, 230 NW 735, 71 ALR 190.

See indeterminate sentence.

Maximus erroris populus magister. The greatest master of error is the people; the people may be the greatest master or error.

[785]

may. An auxiliary verb qualifying the meaning of another verb by expressing ability, contingency, liability, possibility or probability. United States v Lexington Mill & Elevator Co. 232 US 399, 58 L Ed 658, 34 S Ct 337. Ordinarily a permissive, rather than a mandatory, term in a statute. Burnett v Graves, 230 F2d 49, 56 ALR2d 1; 50 Am J1st Stat § 28. Permissive rather than mandatory and, appearing in a constitutional provision, not to be construed as "shall," unless from the whole context, it plainly appears to be mandatory. State ex rel. Greaves v Henry, 87 Miss 125, 40 So 152. Discretionary in its grammatical sense, but subject to construction as mandatory where the sense of the entire context impels such construction, 1 Am J2d Admin L § 46, as where used in a statute providing that when the bank commissioner has reasonable cause to consider a bank insolvent, he "may" immediately apply for a receiver. State use of Mills v American Surety Co. 26 Idaho 652, 145 P 1097. Frequently construed as mandatory where relating to the duty of a public officer. 34 Am J1st Mand § 72.

A provision in a trust agreement that the trustee "may" use the principal for the beneficiary, has been regarded as mandatory. Re Ward, 186 App Div 261, 174 NYS 182.

may declare due. Terms of an optional provision for acceleration of maturity. 11 Am J2d B & N § 294.

may elect to declare due. Terms of an optional provision for acceleration of maturity. I 1 Am J2d B & N § 294.

Mayflower Compact. A compact made and signed by 41 adult male members of the Pilgrims aboard the Mayflower, off the coast of what later became the state of Massachusetts, in 1620, binding the signers under solemn covenant to form a civil body politic to operate under just and equal laws, acts, ordinances, and constitutions to be enacted from time to time for the good of the Colony.

mayhem. At early common law, the deprivation of the use of a limb or member of the body by which one was rendered unable to defend himself or annoy his adversary. Anno: 16 ALR 955, s. 58 ALR 1320. Under modern statutes, a malicious injury which disables or disfigures the person of another. An offense which is ordinarily a felony. 36 Am J1st May § 2.

mayhemavit. He has maimed.

maynover. The product of hand labor.

See manure.

mayor. A municipal officer, usually the highest charged with administrative duties to be performed on behalf of the municipality. Sometimes having judicial duties as the magistrate of a mayor's court. Waldo v Wallace, 12 Ind 569, 577.

mayor of the staple. The chief officer of the staple or great market at Westminster who acted as one of the substitutes for the chief justices, out of term, in taking acknowledgments of recognizances similar in their nature to statutes staple as security for debts acknowledged to be due. See 2 Bl Comm 160.

mayor's court. A municipal or city court presided over by the mayor.

mazuma. Slang for money, especially money taken illegally or employed for an ulterior purpose.

McCarran Act. A federal statute supporting the power of a state to tax and regulate foreign insurance companies doing business in the state. 15 USC §§ 1011 et seq.

McCarren-Walter Act. See Immigration and Nationality Act.

McGuire Act. A federal statute, the primary significance of which is in allowing states to permit enforcement of fair trade laws against nonsigners of fair trade agreements. Anno: 12 L Ed 2d 1210, 1215.

M.D. Abbreviation of Doctor of Medicine.

See doctor; physician.

mead. A mild fermented beverage made of honey, malt, and spices, with yeast added; sometimes akin to near beer. 30 Am J1st Intox L § 11. Under poetic license, a meadow.

meadow. Grassland, especially grassland kept for the hay crop to be grown thereon.

The term is also applied to the tracts which lie above the sea shore, and are overflowed by spring and extraordinary tides only, and yield grasses which are good for hay. Church v Meeker, 34 Conn 421, 429.

meadow grass. Hay. 21 Am J2d Crops § 23.

meal rent. Rent paid by a tenant in meal.

mean. Adjective: Vicious; bad-tempered. Of little importance; inferior. In a distinct sense, intermediate or in the middle. Noun: An average; a state between extremes.

meander. Verb: To follow a winding or flexuous course. Turner v Parker, 14 Or 340, 12 P 495. Noun: Same as meander line.

meander line. A line established by a survey, defining the sinuosities of a stream which constitutes a land boundary. A line established in surveying land adjacent to a river or stream, whether navigable or not, running from one point to another along or near the bank or margin of the stream in such a manner as to leave a quantity of land lying between the line and the thread or bank of the stream. 12 Am J2d Bound § 29.

A meander line, although not in itself a boundary, affords a means of ascertaining the quantity of land to be paid for by a purchaser of a tract bounded in part by a river. Anne: 71 ALR 1256; 12 Am J2d Bound § 29.

mean high tide. The average height of all the high waters at a place over a considerable period of time. A line, to be determined by taking an average of the rise of the water above sea level for a period of 18.6 years, that fixes the boundary between tideland and upland. Borax Consolidated v Los Angeles, 296 US 10, 80 L Ed 9, 56 S Ct 23.

mean low tide. The line of the average low tide. The average taken at a specific point on a shore of the extreme low tide and the highest line of an ebbing tide.

mean person. A cruel, vicious, or corrupt person. A person without compassion or charity. In an older sense, a person of low degree.

mean reserve. A well-recognized term in the insurance business which, as applied to individual insurance policies may be defined as the mean of the reserve at the beginning of the policy year after the premium for such year is paid and the terminal at the end of such policy year. When applied to the whole business of a life insurance company, the term "mean" as ordinarily understood is that reserve which is in the middle or that which is intermediate, or a condition that is equally removed from two opposite extremes. Western & Southern Life Ins. Co. v Howe (CA6 Ohio) 116 F2d 1008.

[786]

See reserve.

means. Financial resources. An instrumentality for the accomplishment of a purpose. 16 Am J2d Consp § 7.

See accidental means; available means.

means of support. In a general sense, all those resources from which the necessities and comforts of life are or may be supplied, such as lands, goods, salaries, wages or other sources of income. In a limited sense, any resource from which the wants of life may be supplied. Meidel v Anthis, 71 Ill 241, 246.

See visible means of support.

mean solar time. A measure of time calculated upon the motion of a fictitious sun called "the mean sun," which is imagined to move with perfect uniformity, being sometimes behind the true sun, and sometimes in advance of it. Anno: 143 ALR 1238.

mean sun. See mean solar time.

mean sun time. See mean solar time.

mease. A house.

meason. Same as mease.

measure. Verb: To determine the size, weight, or value of something by the use of a recognized standard. Noun: A standard or unit of measure, such as a bushel or a gallon. The size or weight of anything as ascertained by applying a standard. A statute or resolution enacted by a legislative body. McBride v Kirby, 32 Okla 515, 260 P 435.

measured in wall. A term of measurement of mason work, subject to explanation by custom or usage. Miller v Wiggins, 227 Pa 564, 76 A 711.

measure of care. See standard of care.

measure of damages. The rule of law established by statute or decision for arriving at the amount of the plaintiff's damages which he is entitled to recover in a given case. 22 Am J2d Damg § 45.

measure with gold scales. See gold scales.

Meat Inspection Act. A federal statute providing for an elaborate system of inspection of animals before slaughter, of carcasses after slaughter, and of meat food products, with the view of preventing the shipment of impure, unwholesome, and unfit meat and meat food products in interstate and foreign commerce. 34 Stat at L 674, ch 3913; 22 Am J1st Food § 46.

meat processing. Slaughtering and butchering livestock in the preparing of the various parts of the carcass for distribution and sale, the process ending when the meat is placed in the cooler. Shain v Armour & Co. (DC Ky) 50 F Supp 907.

mechanic. For the purposes of laws granting an exemption against claims for indebtedness:—narrowly, a skilled workman employed in shaping materials, such as wood, metal, or stone, into a structure, machine or other object requiring the use of tools in its construction; more commonly and more broadly, any person who works with machines or instruments, including a baker, barber, tailor, even a dentist. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 21. As the term is used in a mechanic's lien statute:—a skilled workman. 36 Am J1st Mech L § 53. For the purposes of a workmen's compensation act:—a person in a manual occupation. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 91.

mechanical. Of or pertaining to, or concerned with manual labor, especially as performed by an artisan. Of, pertaining to, or concerned with machinery or mechanism; made or performed by machinery or with tools. Arizona Eastern Railroad Co. v Matthews, 20 Ariz 282, 180 P 159, 7 ALR 1149, 1155. By rote or settled rule rather than by use of the intellect.

mechanical device for aerial navigation. An aircraft, including a glider and a seaplane. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1263.

mechanical equivalent. A term of art in patent law. A device which accomplishes the same result as that achieved by the patent alleged to be infringed. 40 Am J1st Pat § 156.

The term, when applied to the interpretation of a pioneer patent, has a broad and generous signification, but when applied to a patent for a slight improvement, its meaning is narrow and limited. The range of equivalents depends upon the degree of invention. If the patent is primary in character, the patentee is entitled to a broad range of equivalents. But if the patent is for a slight improvement on an old device or combination which performs the same function before as after the improvement, the range of equivalent is narrow. Mason Corp. v Halliburton (CA10 Okla) 118 F2d 729.

mechanical establishment. In the broad sense, any place or plant where machinery is used in production or other work. Within the meaning of a statute regulating hours of labor, a place where the mechanical element predominates in the activity, thereby excluding a newspaper plant. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 784.

mechanical failure. An accident occurring from a defect inherent in an instrumentality rather than from the act or omission of the operator.

mechanical labor. Work performed by a mechanic or one practicing a mechanical art; the shaping or uniting of materials into any structure, machine, or object, the construction of which requires the use of tools. Arizona Eastern Railroad Co. v Matthews, 20 Ariz 282, 180 P 159, 7 ALR 1149, 1155. Broadly, the work of a mechanic. Labor performed according to rule or rote rather than by use of the intellect.

See mechanic; mechanical pursuit.

mechanical musical device. See jukebox.

mechanical pursuit. An occupation or trade in which the object realized is not dependent for its perfection on the exertion of a controlling intellect, but rather on the adaption of some helpful mechanism, or use of some auxiliary tool or instrument. 33 Am J1st Lic § 39.

See mechanical labor.

mechanical skill. A term contrasted in patent law with inventive faculty.

As distinguished from invention, the term imports simply the display of the expected skill of the calling; it involves the exercise of the ordinary faculties of reasoning, aided by the special knowledge and the facility of manipulation which is acquired through habitual and intelligent practice of the art; and it is in no sense the creative work of that inventive faculty which it is the purpose of the Constitution and the patent laws to encourage and reward. Callison v Dean. 70 F2d 55.

[787]

mechanic's lien. A claim created by law for the purpose of securing a priority of payment of the price or value of work performed and materials furnished in erecting or repairing a building or other structure, usually attaching to the land as well as to the buildings erected thereon. Schwartz v Whelan, 295 Pa 425, 145 A 525, 65 ALR 277. A lien upon moneys withheld by a public body from a contractor in favor of a laborer or materialman for the amount of his claim for labor or materials furnished the contractor upon the improvement under construction by him pursuant to a contract with the public body. Anno: 112 ALR 816.

mechanic's maritime lien. A lien for repairs made upon a vessel provided by the Federal Maritime Lien Act of 1910, re-enacted in 1920, which superseded state legislation upon the same subject. 46 USC §§ 971 et seq.; 48 Am J1st Ship § 555.

See materialman's maritime lien.

mechanism. Working parts of a machine, a watch, or other instrumentality or device.

meddler. See intermeddler.

medfee. A bribe; a reward; the return given in an unequal exchange.

media annata. (Civil law.) Half-yearly profits. McMullen v Hodge, 5 Tex 34, 79.

media concludendi. Plural of medium concludendi.

mediae et infimae manus homines. Men of mean and lowly condition.

mediam viam. See in mediam viam.

media nox. Midnight.

mediante altero. Mediate through another. Intermediate.

See mediate descent.

mediante patre. Mediate through the father. Lessee of Levy v M'Cartee (US) 6 Pet 102, 114, 8 L Ed 334, 339.

medics res. See in medics res.

mediate descent. In one sense of the term, a descent not cast immediately, as where a grandson takes by descent land once owned by his intestate grandfather, but not directly from his grandfather, the descent having first been cast upon his father and then from his father upon him. In a more practical and different sense, a descent cast directly upon the heir but through an intermediate link or degree of consanguinity, as from grandfather to grandson, the father being dead, but nevertheless constituting an intermediate link or degree of consanguinity. Lessee of Levy v M'Cartee (US) 6 Pet 102, 112, 8 L Ed 334, 338. Comparably, a descent to a cousin, the latter not inheriting immediately from the intestate but only mediately through the parents of each of them. Cramer v McCann, 83 Kan 719, 112 P 832.

mediate powers. Those powers which are incidental to authority which has been granted or delegated.

mediate testimony. Same as secondary evidence.

mediation. The settlement of disputes between sovereign nations by the arbitration thereof. 30 Am J Rev ed Internat L § 52. The settlement of labor disputes.

See mediation of labor disputes.

Mediation and Conciliation Service. An independent federal agency, operating under a Director and having regional offices throughout the country, the duties of which are to assist parties to labor disputes to settle such disputes through conciliation and mediation. 29 USC §§ 172-174; 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 371.

mediation of labor disputes. The settlement of labor disputes by conciliation or by arbitration of the matters in dispute. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 371.

mediators of questions. Persons who were appointed under the authority of a statute passed in the reign of Edward the Third to settle disputes arising among merchants.

medical. Pertaining or relating to the science of medicine or to the practice or study of medicine. Lowman v Kuecker, 246 Iowa 1227, 71 NW2d 586, 52 ALR2d 1380.

medical aid. Relief pertaining to the science of medicine for one injured, sick, disabled, or distressed. Olmstead v Lamphier, 93 Conn 20, 104 A 488, 7 ALR 542, 544.

medical attendance. Attendance by a physician for the purpose of medical treatment or medical advice. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 756.

As the term is used in a penal statute requiring a parent to furnish food, clothing, shelter, and "medical attendance" to his minor child, it means attendance by a regularly licensed physician. People v Pierson, 176 NY 201, 68 NE 243.

medical benefits. Aid furnished by a corporation for employees injured in the performance of their duties. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1054. In the broad sense of the term, payments under Social Security, workmen's compensation, or any contract of insurance, to cover medical expenses.

medical boards. Boards established under legislative authority in most, if not all, of the states of the Union, whose chief functions are to supervise the practice of medicine and surgery in their states, to examine applicants for licenses to practice, and to issue and revoke such licenses. 41 Am J1st Phys & S§19.

medical clinic. See clinic.

medical college. An institution, usually one of the colleges of a university, for the education and training of men and women for the medical profession, teaching the nature, source, and causes of disease, the nature and effect of the various drugs, surgery, and whatever is necessary to adequate education in the constantly expanding field of medicine and surgery. Nelson v State Board of Health, 108 Ky 769, 57 SW 501.

medical college hospital. A hospital maintained in connection with a medical school, normally for the purpose of giving students opportunity for clinical observation and instruction.

medical consultation. Consultation with a physician for the purpose of obtaining medical treatment or medical advice. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 756.

medical evidence. Expert testimony of physicians and surgeons. 31 Am J2d Ex & Op §§ 1 et seq.

The opinions of medical men are constantly admitted as to the cause of disease, or of death, or the consequences of wounds, and as to the sane or insane state of a person's mind, as collected from a number of circumstances, and as to other subjects of professional skill. Estate of Toomes, 54 Cal 509.

medical examination. An examination of a person by a physician for the purpose of giving medical treat mentor medical advice. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 756. An examination by a physician to determine the state of health of the person examined, apropos the need for medical or surgical treatment or his acceptability as a life insurance risk. An examination by a physician to determine whether or not a person has a communicable disease. 25 Am J1st Hlth § 32. An examination to determine the existence of venereal disease. 25 Am J1st Hlth § 34. An examination of a litigant for the purpose of determining his physical condition, involving, not only observation of the body, but also an inquiry by questions and answers as to the cause and character of a disability. 23 Am J2d Dep §§ 210 et seq.

[788]

See mental examination; physical examination.

medical examiner. A physician engaged by an insurance company to examine applicants for life insurance. In some jurisdictions, an officer who has succeeded to the authority of the coroner to make inquests and reports. 18 Am J2d Corn § 1. In the broadest sense of the term, a physician making a medical examination.

medical insanity. Some unsoundness of mind but not necessarily such as relieves from legal responsibility for crime. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 32.

medical insurance. Insurance providing for the payment of medical expenses in the event of sickness or disability.

See blue shield; physicians' liability insurance.

medical journal. A publication devoted to the special interests of physicians and surgeons. 39 Am J1st Newsp § 9.

medical jurisprudence. That part or branch of the science of medicine which has to do with questions of law.

medical or surgical treatment. All things performed by a physician or surgeon on the body of a patient in the diagnosis of the ailment or in treatment or operation to effect a cure. Provident Life & Acci. Ins. Co. v Hutson (Tex Civ App) 305 SW2d 837, 65 ALR2d 1443, error ref n r e.

medical practice. The professional practice of a physician.

medical preparations. Substances treated or compounded for administration or use to obtain cure or relief from sickness or pain. Grace v Collector of Customs (CA9 Cal) 79 F 313, 314.

See medicine; patent medicine.

medical record. A record kept in the office of a physician or surgeon or in a hospital of observations made in the course of a medical examination of a patient, of treatment administered to him, and of surgery performed upon him.

medical science. The science in which physicians and surgeons are trained. The branch of science dealing with the human body, disease, the treatment of sickness, and the alleviation of pain and suffering.

medical school. See medical college.

medical service corporation. See blue cross; blue shield.

medical testimony. See medical evidence.

medical therapy. Curative treatment by physician.

medical treatment. The administration of treatment by a physician. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 756.

See medical or surgical treatment; regular care of physician.

medicine. Any substance administered in the treatment of disease; a remedial agent; a remedy. State v Stoddard, 215 Iowa 534, 245 NW 273, 86 ALR 616; Kelly v Carroll, 36 Wash 2d 482, 219 P2d 79, 19 ALR2d 1174; Waldo v Poe (DC Wash) 14 F2d 749. Anything, however simple, administered in the treatment of disease or disorder of the human system. Kelly v Carroll, 36 Wash 2d 482, 219 P2d 79, 19 ALR2d 1174. The science and art of preserving health and preventing and curing disease. Lowman v Kuecker, 246 Iowa 1227, 71 NW2d 586, 52 ALR2d 1380. A technical word, denoting a science or art comprehending, not only therapeutics, but the art of understanding the nature of diseases, the causes that produce them, as well as knowing how to prevent them,—hygiene, sanitation, and the like. Bragg v State, 134 Ala 165, 32 So 767. The practice of medicine.

See curative medicine: medicinal preparations; patent medicine.

medicine chest. A wooden or metal box with cover and lock, having compartments or slots in which drugs and medicines may be safely carried for use as needed by any member of an expedition going abroad or afield. Required equipment of a ship under certain statutes. 48 Am J1st Ship § 176.

medietas advocacionis. The moiety of an advowson; a half right of presentation which existed when two patrons shared the right to present one clerk or parson.

medietas linguae. See jury de medietate linguae. medietate linguae. See de medietate linguae.

medio. See de medio.

medio tempore. In the meantime.

meditatio fugae. The intention of fleeing or running away.

medium. A person who professes ability to communicate with departed spirits. McMasters v State, 21 Okla Crim 318, 207 P 566, 29 ALR 292. One in a confidential relationship to the person advised professionally by him in the realm of spiritualism. Lyon v Home (Eng) LR 6 Eq 655. One who purports to heal disease by the application of forces beyond the physical world. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 31.

medium concludendi. A means of reaching a conclusion; a course of reasoning, as to reach the same result by a different medium concludendi. United States v California & Oregon Land Co. 192 US 355, 358, 48 L Ed 476, 479.

medium deferens. The medium or means of descending; that is the intervening ancestor through whom property descends to the heir from a more remote ancestor; as where a grandson inherits from his grandfather, the grandson's father being dead, the dead father is the medium deferens of the descent or consanguinity. Lessee of Levy v M'Cartee (US) 6 Pet 102, 113, 8 L Ed 334, 338.

medium filum. The middle thread.

medium filum aquae. The middle thread of the water or river.

medium of payment. Money, currency, current funds. 11 Am J2d B & N § 153. Money or, by agreement of the parties, anything of value which the debtor is to give and the creditor to receive as a satisfaction of a debt. 11 Am J2d B & N § 155; 40 Am J1st Paym § 40.

[789]

medius ancestor. Same as medium deferens. medletum. Same as medley.

medley. A mixture of a heterogeneous character. In an old sense, a sudden fight; a melee; an affray.

medsheat. A bribe. Same as medseat.

medseat. A bribe.

meet. See meeting.

meeting. Coming together by approaches from opposite directions; coming face to face; joining. An assembly or convening of persons in large or small numbers.

See directors' meeting; family meeting; race meeting; regular meeting; religious meeting; stockholders' meeting; town meeting.

meeting each other. A phrase not meaning merely persons passing each other while going in opposite directions but implying a coming together in such manner that there would be an actual collision or an apparent danger of one, if they should pursue their course without change of direction. Riepe v Elting, 89 Iowa 82, 56 NW 285.

meeting of creditors. See creditors' meeting.

meeting of directors. See directors' meeting.

meeting of minds. See meeting of the minds.

meeting of stockholders. See stockholders' meeting.

meeting of the minds. A concurrence of intention between a promisor and a promisee. The mutual assent of the parties on all the essential elements or terms of a contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 18.

meeting of vehicles. An exigency for which rules of the road are provided, particularly where physical features of the way obscure the approach of the one vehicle to the driver of the other. 8 Am J2d Auto §§ 687 et seq.

meeting of vessels. An exigency for which steering, sailing, and other pertinent rules of navigation are provided. 48 Am J1st Ship §§ 250 et seq.

meeting place. See place of meeting.

megebote. Same as maegbote.

meindre age. Under age,—under the age of majority.

melancholia. A disease of the brain which, in its simple form, is characterized by deep depression, by inconsolable sorrow, by weary grief, and yet without by no impairment of the intellectual powers. See Browne, Med. Jurisprudence of Insanity, section 266.

That form of melancholia which creates a prevailing propensity to suicide, consists in the unfounded and morbid fancies of the sufferer regarding his means of subsistence or his position in life, or in distorted conceptions of his relations to society or his family, of his rights or duties, or of dangers threatening his person, property or reputation. When fully developed, the hallucination becomes the sole object of attention; the evil seems overwhelming and hopeless. See Connecticut Mutual Life Ins. Co. v Green, 86 Pa 92.

meldfeoh. (Saxon.) A reward paid to an informer.

melior. Better; more advantageous; preferable.

meliorating waste. An act which, although technically waste, results in improving instead of injuring the inheritance. J. H. Bellows Co. v Covell, 28 Ohio App 277, 162 NE 621.

melioration. The equitable doctrine which recognizes the right of compensation for improvements made by an occupying claimant. 27 Am J1st Improv § 26. A betterment; a permanent improvement made upon land.

"It is a maxim suggested by nature, that reparations and meliorations bestowed upon a house, or on land, ought to be defrayed out of the rents." Green v Biddle (US) 8 Wheat 82, 5 L Ed 547, 567.

Meliorem conditionem ecclesiae suae facere potest praelatus, deteriorem nequaquam. A prelate can make the condition of his own church better, but in no wise, or by no means, worse.

Meliorem conditionem suam facere potest minor, deteriorem nequaquam. A minor can make his own condition better, but in no wise, or by no means, worse.

Melior est causa possidentis. The cause of the party who is in possession is the more advantageous.

Melior est conditio defendentis. The position of the defendant is superior. Osborn v Baxter (4 Cush) 58 Mass 406, 408.

Melior est conditio possidentis et rei quam actoris. The position of the party in possession and that of the defendant is more advantageous than that of the plaintiff.

Melior est conditio possidentis, et rei quam actoris, ubi neuter jus habet. The position of the party in possession and that of the defendant is more advantageous than that of the plaintiff, where neither has the right.

Melior est conditio possidentis, ubi neuter jus habet. The position of the party in possession is the more advantageous, where neither party has the right.

Melior est justitia vere praeveniens quam severe puniens. Truly preventive justice is better than severe punishment.

melioribus damnis. See de melioribus damnis.

Melius est in tempore occurrere, quam post causam vulneratum remedium quaerere. It is better to hasten to meet a thing in time than to seek a remedy after his situation has been injured.

Melius est jus deficiens quam jus incertum. A deficient law is better than an uncertain one.

Melius est omnia mala pati quam malo consentire. It is better to suffer every ill than to consent to evil.

Melius est petere fontes quam sectari rivulos. It is better to seek out the springs or sources than to follow the little streams.

[790]

Melius est recurrere quam malo currere. It is better to recede than to rush into error.

melius inquirendum. To be better inquired into,—an ancient writ ordering a further inquiry into a matter.

melting. Dissolving under heat.

member. One who belongs to an organization, such as cooperative association, fraternal order, or membership corporation. Smith v Iron M.T. Terminal Co. 46 Mont 13, 125 P 649. An incorporator or the successor of an incorporator of a corporation which has no capital stock. 18 Am J2d Corp § 460. A hand, foot, arm, leg, finger, toe, testicle, or other organ of the body. See 4 Bl Comm 205.

member of Congress. A member of the lower house, the House of Representatives, of the Congress of the United States. In a broader sense, a member of either the House of Representatives or the Senate.

member of crew. One of a crew of a vessel or of a work force.

As to the meaning of "member of a crew" within Social Security and Unemployment Compensation Acts see Anno: 161 ALR 842.

member of family. Narrowly, one of a group related by blood or marriage. Sometimes limited to a close relative, such as widow, child, or parent. Fennimore v Pittsburg-Scammon Coal Co. 100 Kan 372, 164 P 265 (workmen's compensation statute). Broadly, one of a group living in the same household. Within the meaning of a statute permitting substituted service of process upon the defendant in an action by leaving a copy with a "member of his family":—any person living permanently and continuously with the defendant in the same domestic establishment. Anno: 136 ALR 1505.

The purpose of a clause of an automobile liability insurance policy excluding from coverage an injury to "any member of the family of the insured residing in the same household as the insured" is to exempt the insurer from liability to those persons to whom the insured, on account of close family ties, would be apt to be partial in case of injury, and cases defining the word "family", but involving an entirely different situation, are not authoritative. Tomlyanovich v Tomlyanovich, 239 Minn 250, 58 NW2d 855, 50 ALR2d 108.

The question as to who is a member of the insured's "family" within the coverage clause of a property insurance policy depends upon the precise terminology of the particular policy involved and the particular circumstances present. Anno: 1 ALR2d 561.

member of household. An inmate or resident of a house in which two or more persons reside. A member of the insured's family for the purpose of a clause of an automobile theft insurance policy excepting from coverage a theft by a "member of the household" of the insured. Anno: 48 ALR2d 93, § 32. Within the meaning of a clause of an automobile liability insurance policy excluding from coverage "members of the insured's household":—a person living in the same household as the insured, whether or not the insured is the head of the household. Anno: 50 ALR2d 122, § 3.

The question as to who is a member of the insured's household within the coverage clause of a property insurance policy depends upon the precise terminology of the particular policy involved and the particular circumstances present. Anno: 1 ALR2d 561.

member of the human body. See member.

membership. A condition or status of being a member. In reference to a building and loan association, a matter of contract and ordinarily acquired by taking and holding stock, such being evidenced by the issuance and delivery of a certificate or certificates of stock to the member and the inscription of his name on the books of the association. 13 Am J2d B & L Assoc § 16.

membership certificate. See certificate of membership.

membership corporation. A distinct kind of corporation authorized under the statutes of most jurisdictions, existing for purposes other than profit, often for charitable, fraternal, social, or religious purposes, in which the participants acquire the status of members rather than stockholders. 18 Am J2d Corp § 460.

membership in exchange. See seat on exchange.

membership list. A list of the members of a building and loan association, constituting one of the records of the association. 13 Am J2d B & L Assoc § 18.

membership organization. A voluntary organization which is a charity only as its stated purposes, and the nature and extent of its operations make it so, considering the objective of applicable statutes. 15 Am J2d Char § 149.

See membership corporation.

members of a family. See member of family.

membrana. Membrane; parchment.

membrum pro membro. A limb for a limb.

memoranda. Plural of memorandum.

memorandum. An informal writing. A brief writing to preserve a thing or an event against loss of memory in respect thereof. A writing used by a witness to assist and refresh his memory while on the witness stand. 29 Am J2d Ev § 876. A writing which records the terms of an agreement preliminary to the drafting and execution of a more formal instrument. A writing evidencing a transaction, for example, a sale by auction. 7 Am J2d Auct § 34. As a requirement of the statute of frauds:—a writing which contains the names of the parties to the contract, the terms and conditions of the contract, and a description of the subject matter sufficient to render it capable of identification. 49 Am J1st Stat § 32. A writing submitted by the attorney of the losing party to the attorney of the successful party embodying his objections to the decree as drafted by the latter. 27 Am J2d Eq § 250. A draft of a decree in equity, filed with the clerk of court, not as a record, but merely as a memorandum of the decree to be entered. 27 Am J2d Eq § 250. A written opinion of an equity court. 27 Am J2d Eq § 235.

memorandum articles. See memorandum clause.

memorandum clause. A limitation of liability of a marine insurer for partial loss of articles perishable in their nature or peculiarly susceptible to damage. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1584. Not a finding of fact. Gould v McCormick, 75 Wash 61, 134 P 676. To be regarded as an order of court where its substance is clearly that of an order. Feenaughty Machinery Co. v Turner, 44 Idaho 363, 257 P 38.

[791]

memorandum check. An instrument in the ordinary form of a bank check, with the word "memorandum" written across its face, not intended for immediate presentation, but simply as evidence of an indebtedness of the drawer to the holder. United States v Isham (US) 17 Wall 496, 21 L Ed 728.

memorandum decision. The decision of an appellate court usually contained in a single very brief paragraph, announcing the bare result of the court's decision, without an opinion.

memorandum of alteration. A disclaimer filed by a patentee under the patent laws of England whereby he denied making any claim to certain rights to which he was not entitled in order to prevent the total loss of his patent.

memorandum of association. Same as articles of incorporation.

memorandum of costs. A bill of costs; an itemization of the costs or disbursements to be filed by the party entitled to costs, a copy of which is served upon the adverse party. 20 Am J2d Costs § 91.

memorandum of levy. An entry made by the sheriff upon a writ of attachment of the levy made by him under the writ. 6 Am J2d Attach § 312. A comparable entry made by a sheriff on a writ of execution delivered to him for service. 30 Am J2d Exec § 563.

memorandum of protest. Same as certificate of protest.

See protest.

memorandum sale. Same as sale on approval.

memorial. A manifestation of recognition of a person or an event to stand as a reminder in the future of services or sacrifices made by the person or of the importance of the event. A memorandum; a means of reminding of something to be done. A short note, abstract, memorandum, or rough draft of the orders of court from which the records thereof may at any time be fully made. State v Shaw, 73 Vt 149, 165, 50 A 863.

memorial building. A building erected as a memorial to deceased and living veterans of the armed forces but usually available for public meetings and entertainments of various kinds under conditions prescribed by the management.

Memorial Day. A national holiday, also a legal holiday in most of the states, observed on May 30, in memory of the deceased members of the armed forces, with special recognition to those who made the supreme sacrifice while in service. A legal holiday in some of the southern states in memory of deceased members of the armed forces, including the armed forces of the Confederate States.

memoriter. From memory; that is with nothing to refresh the mind with respect to past events or circumstances.

memory. The power of retaining knowledge in the mind; the mental power of recognizing past knowledge. State v Coyne, 214 Mo 344, 114 SW 8.

See impairment of memory; refreshing memory; time of legal memory.

men. See man.

menace. A threat of harm, of confinement, of personal injury. Morrill v Nightingale, 93 Cal 452, 28 P 1068.

menagerie. A collection of wild or strange animals in an enclosure for exhibition and sometimes for performances. 4 Am J2d Amuse § 3.

menial. Low; servile. A menial servant.

menial servant. A servant whose duties involve the most simple of domestic tasks, requiring little, if any, exercise of discretion, and often consisting in tasks of a degrading nature.

Menials or menial servants were originally so called because they were employed to serve their masters intra moenia, within the walls; that is, in the house. They were domestic or household servants. See 1 Bl Comm 425.

meningitis. A bodily infirmity. First Nat. Bank v Equitable Life Assur. Soc. 225 Ala 586, 144 So 451. A disease of the brain and the spinal cord often resulting in mental derangement and insanity. Tiffany v Tiffany, 84 Iowa 122, 126.

men of straw. See straw man.

mens. (Latin.) Mind; intention; reason; judgment; understanding; conscience.

mensa. A table; a dining table; board; sustenance; support.

mensa et thoro. Bed and board.

See divorce a mensa et thoro.

menses. The periodic flow experienced by a woman from puberty to menopause.

See suppression of menses.

mensis. A month.

mensis vetitus. The prohibited month,—the summer closed season for deer hunting, also called "fence month."

mens legislatories. The intention of the legislature; the legislative intent.

mentor. (Civil law.) A measurer; a surveyor.

mens rea. An evil intent; a guilty mind. Durham v United States, 94 App DC 228, 214 F2d 862, 45 ALR2d 1430; Brown v State 23 Del (7 Penn) 159, 74 A 836. Referring not to one state of mind, but to many different ones for many different offenses. Brown v State, 23 Del (7 Penn) 159, 74 A 836.

Mens testatoris in testamentis spectanda est. In wills, the intention of the testator should be regarded.

mensularius. (Civil law.) A moneychanger; a money dealer.

mensura. A measure.

mensura domini regis. The measure of our lord, the king.

The original standard of measure was so called, and that of weight was called pondus regis, weight of the king. These standards were established by parliament and subsequent statutes directed them to be kept in the exchequer and required that all weights and measures should conform to them, but the requirement was most difficult to enforce. See 1 Bl Comm 276.

mental abstraction. Want of awareness of one's surroundings, even of circumstances fraught with peril. 38 Am J1st Negl § 187.

mental anguish. Grief. Mental suffering as distinguished from physical pain, but inclusive of the mental reaction to physical pain and suffering caused by a personal injury. 22 Am J2d Damg § 195.

[792]

mental capacity. The condition or quality of the mind which renders one criminally responsible for his acts; an essential of criminal responsibility. State v Pinski (Mo) 163 SW2d 785. Sufficient capacity to know and understand in a reasonable manner the nature and character of the transaction engaged in. Shelton v Shelton, (Tex Civ App) 281 SW 331, 334.

See capacity; mental incapacity.

mental condition. The state of mind of a person in reference to his consciousness, senses, and perceptions. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v Terry (US) 15 Wall 580, 588, 21 L Ed 236, 241.

See insanity; mental capacity; mental incapacity.

mental cruelty. As ground for divorce, misconduct which impairs or threatens to impair physical or mental health of the complainant in the action, 24 Am J2d Div & S § 35; conduct on the part of the defendant which renders it impracticable for the complainant to perform the marital duties. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 37.

mental defect. A defect in the mind of a person. For the purposes of the Durham or product test of criminal responsibility, a condition which is not considered capable of either improving or deteriorating, and which may be either congenital, the result of injury, or the residual effect of a physical or mental disease. Durham v United States, 94 App DC 228, 214 F2d 862, 45 ALR2d 1430.

See mental disability.

mental disability. Any abnormal condition of the mind, regardless of its medical label, which substantially affects mental or emotional processes and substantially impairs behavior controls. Blocker v United States, 116 App DC 78, 320 F2d 800, cert den 375 US 923, 11 L Ed 2d 167, 84 S Ct 269.

A witness who has a "mental disqualification" is one who has not the capacity to receive, to record, and to recall impressions and to testify intelligently concerning them. Batterson v State, 52 Tex Crim 381, 107 SW 826.

See insanity; mental incapacity; total mental disability.

mental disease. A disease affecting the mind. For the purposes of a Durham or product test in determining criminal responsibility, a condition which is considered capable of either improving or deteriorating. Durham v United States, 94 App DC 228, 214 F2d 862, 45 ALR2d 1430.

See insanity.

mental disorder. An affliction of the mind.

See insanity.

mental disqualification. See mental disability.

mental endurance contest. A form of public competition for prizes conducted in a place of amusement. 4 Am J2d Amuse § 28.

mental examination. An examination by a psychiatrist to determine the condition of the mind, sometimes conducted as part of a proceeding for the commitment of a person as insane or for the appointment of a committee or guardian of his person or property. An examination by a psychiatrist conducted by way of perpetuating testimony through taking a deposition. 23 Am J2d Dep § 46. An examination of the defendant in a criminal prosecution to determine his criminal responsibility, his ability to stand trial, or his condition while awaiting execution in the event the death penalty has been imposed.

mental healer. One engaged in a peculiar system of practicing medicine. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 31.

mental illness. See insanity.

mental inbecility. See imbecility.

mental incapacity. A condition of outright insanity or other weakness or deficiency of mind which renders the person afflicted incapable of understanding the nature and effect of a business transaction. 13 Am J2d Cane Inst § 13.

Old age, weakening of the memory and understanding, and occasional strange and eccentric acts are not of themselves mental incapacity. Beckley National Bank v Boone (CA4 W Va) 115 F2d 513.

See incompetent person.

mental incompetent. See incompetent person; insane person; mental incapacity.

mental institution. See asylum; state hospital.

mental reservation. The secret understanding of a party to a contract concerning the meaning of the agreement. 17 Am J2d Contr § 248.

mental shock. See nervous shock; shock.

mental suffering. See mental anguish.

mentiri. To lie; to falsify; to deceive; to counterfeit; to misrepresent; to break one's word or promise.

Mentiri est contra mentem ire. To lie is to go contrary to the mind, to do a foolish thing.

mentis. See compos mentis; non compos mentis.

mentition. A lie; a deceit; a falsification.

mephitic. Neither more nor less than what common folks refer to as "stinking."

mer. Abbreviation of meridian.

mera gratia. See e mera gratia.

mera noctis. Midnight.

mercable. Merchantable.

mercantile. Commercial. Pertaining to trade and commerce in merchandise.

Although the word includes trade, it is of a larger significance, being extended to all commercial operations, so that we speak of shipping merchants, commission merchants, and forwarding merchants. But the dishes of a restaurant could not with propriety be described as merchandise, or the proprietor as a merchant, or as engaged in mercantile pursuits. Swift & Co. v Tempelos, 178 NC 276, 101 SE 8, 7 ALR 1581, 1583.

mercantile agency. A person, firm, or corporation, engaged in the business of collecting information relating to the financial standing, credit, character, responsibility, and general reputation of persons, firms, and corporations engaged in business, and furnishing this information to subscribers for a consideration. Annotation: 54 ALR2d 889, § 5; 15 Am J2d Collect § 3. A term sometimes applied to a collection agency.

See collection agency; commercial agency.

mercantile business. The business of buying and selling articles of merchandise. State v Winneshiek Coop. Burial Asso. 237 Iowa 556, 22 NW2d 800, 165 ALR 1092.

mercantile contract. A contract for the purchase or sale of goods, wares, and merchandise. A contract between merchants or persons in trade.

mercantile custom. A custom of merchants.

See custom; trade usage.

mercantile establishment. Any place where goods, wares, and merchandise are offered for sale. Anno: 16 ALR 542. Within the meaning of statutes regulating or limiting hours of labor or otherwise restricting the employment of women and children:—a place where the buying and selling of articles of merchandise are conducted as an employment. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 784.

mercantile law. Same as law merchant.

Mercantile National Bank Case. A recent decision by the United States Supreme Court in respect of the venue of actions against national banks. Mercantile Nat. Bank v Langdeau, 371 US 555, 9 L Ed 2d 523, 83 S Ct 520.

mercantile paper. Same as commercial paper.

mercantile partnership. A trading firm engaged in buying and selling goods.

mercantile restrictions. Limitations placed by covenant upon the location of places of business within a designated and described locality.

mercantile rule. A rule for the application of partial payments as between interest and principal, by which interest is charged on each item of principal on the debit side and credited on each item on the credit side of the account, and a balance of such interest is struck and added to the balance of the principal. In other words, the rule is to compute the interest on the principal debt until maturity or any given time and the interest on payments made, for the time when made, until such time, and then deduct the one sum from the other. 30 Am J Rev ed Int § 49.

mercat. A market.

mercative. Pertaining to trade.

mercatoribus. See De Mercatoribus. mercatum. Same as mercatus.

mercatus. A market; a fair; a public place for the transaction of business.

mercenarius. A mercenary; a hired soldier; a hired servant.

Mercen-Lage. The Mercian laws, which were observed in many of the midland counties of England, and those bordering on the principality of Wales, the retreat of the ancient Britons.

These laws were very probably intermixed with the British or Druidical customs. See 1 BI Comm 65.

merces. (Civil law.) Wages for labor.

merchandise. Noun: Goods, wares, and commodities commonly bought and sold in trade or market by merchants. All kinds of personal property ordinarily bought and sold in the market. Blackwood v Cutting Packing Co. 76 Cal 212, 18 P 248. Goods or things kept for sale, constantly sold and replaced by another supply. Root Refineries v Gay Oil Co. 171 Ark 129, 284 SW 26, 46 ALR 979; McPartin v Clarkson, 240 Mich 390, 215 NW 338, 54 ALR 1535. For the purposes of customs duties, articles, goods, and wares. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 1. As an entry on a ship's manifest, wares, and chattels of every description, even contraband articles the importation of which is forbidden by law. United States v Sischo, 262 US 165, 67 L Ed 925, 43 S Ct 511. Verb: To trade or traffic in goods and wares ordinarily bought and sold by merchants. Ellis v Commonwealth, 186 Ky 494, 217 SW 368, 11 ALR 1030, 1031.

See stock of merchandise.

merchandise broker. A person who negotiates the sale of merchandise for others without having it in his possession or control. See Robinson, Norton & Co. v Corsicans Cotton Factory, 124 Ky 435, 99 SW 305; Jones v Pittsburg, 176 Pa Super 154, 106 A2d 892.

Merchandise Marks Act. An English statute passed in 1862, to protect trademarks from infringement.

merchant. In most common usage, a retailer of merchandise. In a more accurate sense, one who buys and sells merchandise as an entrepreneur.

See commission merchant.

merchantability. See merchantable.

merchantable. Of good quality and salable, but not necessarily the best. Anno: 21 ALR 368; 46 Am J1st Sales § 149. Being at least of medium quality, of such quality as to bring the average price for goods of a similar kind. 46 Am J1st Sales § 149.

The term includes what the law requires. "The Uniform Sales Act carries an implied warranty of merchantable quality. Therefore the defendant's sale to the plaintiff warranted that the kerosene was of the statutory proof." Manning Manufacturing Co. v Hartol Products Corporation (CA2 Vt) 99 F2d 813.

One meaning of the term, as applied to the sale of goods, is that the article sold shall be reasonably suitable for the ordinary uses it was manufactured to meet. Giant Mfg. Co. v Yates-American Machine Co. (CA8 Iowa) 111 F2d 360.

merchantable coal. Coal which is not only salable but salable at a profit. Anno: 28 ALR2d 1031.

merchantable quality. See merchantable.

merchantable timber. Trees suitable for the production of lumber. Anno: 72 ALR2d 734. Trees which will produce any salable product. Anno: 72 ALR2d 735. Timber of a grade or quality to be profitably used, a matter determinable by experts with approximate certainty. Lee Lumber Co. v Hotard, 122 La 850, 48 So 286.

merchantable title. A marketable title. A title which a reasonably prudent man would accept in the ordinary course of business after being fully apprised of the facts and the law applicable thereto. Holliday v Arthur, 241 Iowa 1193, 44 NW2d 717, 24 ALR2d 1302; Campbell v Doherty, 53 NM 280, 206 P2d 1145, 9 ALR2d 699.

See marketable title.

merchantable title, abstract, and deed. A phrase expressive of a vendor's obligation meaning that he must furnish an abstract of title showing in itself a marketable title of record in the vendor and execute a deed conveying a marketable title of record to the purchaser. Campbell v Doherty, 53 NM 280, 206 P2d 1145, 9 ALR2d 699.

merchantman. Same as merchant vessel.

merchant marine. The entire body of ships and their personnel used in commerce of the nation.

Merchant Marine Act. See Jones Act; Merchant Seamen's Act.

merchants' accounts. Such accounts as concern the trade of merchandise between merchant and mer chant, their factors or servants. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 98.

[794]

merchant seamen. Men employed on private vessels of any nation, as distinguished from men employed on public vessels or in naval forces. United States v Sullivan (CC Ore) 43 F 602, 604.

Merchant Seamen's Act. A federal statute which provides that any seaman who has signed an agreement and is discharged before commencement of the voyage or before one month's wages are earned, without fault on his part and without his consent, is entitled to receive from the master or owner, in addition to any wages he may have earned, a sum equal to one month's wages, on adducing evidence satisfactory to the court hearing the case. 46 USC § 594.

See Jones Act.

merchant vessel. A vessel which carries cargo. A vessel which is wholly engaged in commercial service. Petition of United States, 250 US 246, 256, 63 L Ed 962, 968, 39 S Ct 460.

merchet. Same as marcheta.

merciament. Amercement.

Mercian laws. See Mercen-Lage.

merciful. Disposed to spare another the suffering which might be inflicted upon him. Willett v Willett, 197 Ky 663, 7.47 SW 739, 31 ALR 426.

See humane.

Mercis appellatio ad res mobiles tantum pertinet. The term "merx" (merchandise) pertains only to movable things.

Mercis appellatione homines non continere. The term "merx" (merchandise) does not apply to men.

mercy. See in mercy; merciful; recommendation of mercy.

mere. Adjective: Nothing more. Noun: The sea. A term of old English for boundary.

See mere-stone.

mere. (French.) Mother.

mere droit. Same as mere jus.

mere irregularity. See irregularity.

mere jus. A bare right.

See mere right.

mere motion. Of a person's own free will; a voluntary act.

mere possibility. See possibility.

mere right. The jus mereum, or mere right of property, without either possession or even the right of possession. See 2 Bl Comm 197.

mere-stone. A stone marking a boundary line or corner.

meretricious. Lewd; sexually immoral.

meretricious relation. A sexual relation which is immoral, if not illicit.

meretricious union. A marriage in which either or both of the parties is legally incapable; hence, one which is not a matrimonial union.

Such incapacity or disability may result from having another husband or wife still living; from want of age; from want of consent of parents or guardians; or from want of sufficient mental capacity. See 1 Bl Comm 436.

mere volunteer. See volunteer.

merge. To sink or disappear in something else; to be swallowed up; to lose identity or individuality, Marfield v Cincinnati, Dayton & Toledo Traction Co. 111 Ohio St 139, 144 NE 689, 40 ALR 357, 369, as the negotiations for a contract unite and lose identity in the written contract as finally executed, Price v Block (CA7 Ill) 124 F2d 738, as one agreement is lost in a later agreement substituted for it by the parties, 17 Am J2d Contr § 459, as prior negotiations between vendor and purchaser are swallowed up by the deed, 23 Am J2d Deeds § 161, and as a claim by the state disappears in state ownership as acquired by escheat. 27 Am J2d Esch § 39.

merger in judgment. The extinguishment of claim pleaded as a cause of action in the judgment rendered for the plaintiff. Anno: 32 ALR2d 1147. The extinguishment of an obligation for the payment of money existing under a separation agreement in a judgment for alimony. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 908.

merger of action in criminal prosecution. The ancient doctrine of the common law that all civil remedies in favor of one injured by a felony are merged in the felony. 1 Am J2d Actions § 45.

merger of corporations. A combination whereby one of the constituent companies remains in being, absorbing the other or all the other constituent corporations. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1492. A union or combination of pre-existing corporations wherein all but one go out of existence leaving a designated survivor. Anno: 27 ALR2d 777. A union, or amalgamation by which the stock of two corporations is made one, their property and franchises combined into one, their powers become the powers of one, and the identity of the two practically, if not actually, runs into one. State, ex rel. Nolan, v Montana Railway Co. 21 Mont 221, 53 P 623.

A distinction exists between a merger and a consolidation of corporations: in a merger, one of the combining corporations continues in existence and absorbs the others; in a consolidation, all the combining corporations are deemed dissolved and lose their identity in a new corporate entity which takes over the properties, powers, and privileges, as well as the liabilities, of the constituent companies. Dodier Realty & Invest. Co. v St. Louis Nat. Baseball Club, 361 Mo 981, 238 SW2d 321, 24 ALR2d 683; Marfield v Cincinnati, Dayton & Toledo Traction Co. 111 Ohio St 139, 144 NE 689, 40 ALR 357, 369. But the terms "consolidation" and "merger" have been used rather indiscriminately, and some of the courts and text writers have used the terms interchangeably, and, in cases of doubt, conjunctively, to express the idea of complete corporate union, whether a new corporation, normally results or whether a constituent corporation is normally preserved. Alabama Power Co. v McNinch, 68 App DC 132, 94 F2d 601.

merger of crimes. See merger of offenses.

merger of custom. The extinguishment of a custom by a statute which deals with the subject matter. Creekmore v F. T. Justice & Co. 152 Ky 514, 153 SW 738.

merger of estates. The absorption of one estate in another, where a greater estate and a lesser coincide and meet in one and the same person without any intermediate estate. 28 Am J2d Est § 374. The uniting of the legal and equitable interests in the same person. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 88.

[795]

merger of offenses. The common law doctrine that if a misdemeanor is an ingredient of a felony, the misdemeanor is an integral part of the felony and prosecution can only be for the felony. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 9. The embracing of one offense necessarily involved in another in the latter offense, for the purposes of determining the penalty upon conviction on a plea of guilty, for example, rape involving fornication, and robbery involving both assault and larceny. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 9. The doctrine that where an indictment charges more than one offense and the jury returns a general verdict of guilty, such verdict is understood to find the higher offense if there is testimony to support it. State v Nelson, 48 SCL (14 Rich) 169. The encompassing of an attempt to commit a crime in the crime itself when the latter is consummated. Anno: 59 ALR2d 998, § 42.

merger of personalities. The unity of husband and wife.

merger of school districts. Two or more school districts joining in a new or enlarged district. 47 Am J1st Sch § 22.

meridian. Adjective: At noon. Noun: A line of longitude, running north and south from pole to pole.

See magnetic meridian; principal meridian; true meridian.

meridies. Noon; midday.

Merito beneficium legis amittit, qui legem ipsam subvertere intendit. He justly loses the protection of the law who attempts to subvert it.

merito justitiae. See ex merito justitiae.

meritorious condition. See condition meritorious.

meritorious consideration. A consideration for a promise confined to three duties, that of charity, that of paying one's creditors, and that of maintaining a wife and children. Fischer v Union Trust Co. 138 Mich 612, 101 NW 852. A good consideration of natural love and affection, of love and affection based on kindred by blood and marriage. Williston, Contracts 3d ed § 110.

meritorious defense. A defense worthy of a hearing or judicial inquiry, because raising a question of law deserving some investigation and discussion or a real controversy as to essential facts arising from conflicting or doubtful evidence, albeit not a perfect defense or defense assured of prevailing at a trial. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 682.

merits of case. The essential issues. The substantive rights presented by an action. The strict legal rights of the parties to an action, as contradistinguished from those mere questions of practice which every court regulates for itself, and from all matters which depend upon the discretion or favor of the court. Chouteau v Parker, 2 Minn 118, 121.

See affidavit of merits; judgment on the merits; meritorious defense; pleading to the merits.

merit system. The system in the Civil Service whereby appointments and promotions are made according to the merit and fitness rather than by way of political favor. 15 Am J2d Civ S § 20.

merit wage increase. A raise in pay ostensibly in recognition of individual aptitude and industry.

Where a union has been recognized as a bargaining agent of the employees, merit increases in wages cannot be made by the unilateral action of the employer, without being guilty of an unfair labor practice within the meaning of the statute requiring collective bargaining. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 243.

mero jure. See in mero jure.

mero motu. See ex mero motu.

Merton. See Statute of Merton.

merum. Mere; bare; naked.

merry-go-round. An amusement device having carriages or wooden horses upon a revolving platform, particularly appealing to children. Condon v Forest Park, 278 111 218, 115 NE 825. A figure of speech for a continual round of work or pleasure.

merx. Merchandise.

Merx est quicquid vendi potest. Merchandise is whatever can be sold. Baldwin v Williams, 44 Mass (3 Met) 365, 367.

merx peculiaris. (Civil law.) The property of a slave invested in his own business.

mesaventure. Same as misadventure.

mescroyant. An unbeliever; an infidel; an agnostic.

mese. A house.

mesmerism. Same as hypnotism.

mesnality. The manor or estate of a mesne lord.

mesne. Intermediate; intervening; the middle between two extremes. Davis v Dantzler Lumber Co. 261 US 280, 67 L Ed 387, 43 S Ct 349, 28 ALR 834, 836.

mesne conveyance. A conveyance prior to one, but subsequent to another, conveyance of the same property.

mesne damage. The damage allowed in ejectment based upon the profits of the land during the time it was held tortiously by the defendant. 25 Am J2d Eject § 148.

mesne encumbrance. An encumbrance which is prior in right to one encumbrance and subsequent in right to another one.

mesne lord. A lord in the middle, standing between those tenants holding of him and the king of England or lord paramount under whom he holds. De Peyster v Michael, 6 NY 467.

mesne process. Process issued between the beginning of a suit and final judgment, especially process in invoking a provisional remedy, such as attachment or civil arrest.

mesne profits. Intermediate profits; profits accruing between two points of time. Profits accruing from land during an intermediate period, such as a period of tortious holding by the defendant in an action in ejectment. 25 Am J2d Eject § 148.

mesprision. Same as misprision.

mesque. Unless; except.

message. A communication from one person to another. A communication received for transmission for telegraph. 52 Am J1st Teleg & T § 103.

See dead-head message.

messenger. One who delivers written telegrams. One employed for the delivery of messages, running errands, or services of a comparable character.

[796]

The term, by its fair import and significance, does not apply to a public officer acting in an original capacity in the discharge of duties imposed upon him by law, but presupposes a superior in authority whose servant the messenger is and whose mandate he executes, not as a deputy, with power to discriminate and judge, or to bind his superior, but as a mere bearer and communicator of the will of his superior. Pfister v Central Pacific Railroad Co. 70 Cal 169, 11 P 686.

See express messenger.

messenger service. A service, sometimes conducted by a telegraph company in addition to its usual business of transmitting messages by telegram, consisting in furnishing persons for delivering messages or performing other errands. 52 Am J1st Teleg & T' § 102.

Messis sementem sequitur. The crop follows the sower.

messuage. A house. In some contexts, a dwelling house, with its adjacent buildings, orchard, garden, and curtilage. Gibson v Brockway, 8 NH 465.

mestizo. The offspring of parents of different races, particularly the offspring of a Spaniard and an American Indian.

See mustizo.

meta. An object marking a boundary; a monument; a boundary.

metabolism. The processes in the human body by which food is converted for assimilation and energy released.

metachronism. Error in computing time.

metallic poisoning. An occupational disability, of idiopathic, as distinguished from traumatic, origin. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 253.

metallum. (Roman law.) A metal; a mine; a quarry.

metaphysical meaning. An artificial, overly-refined, or subtle meaning. 50 Am J1st Stat § 238.

metatus. A residence; a dwelling house.

metayer. A person who worked a farm on shares; as, for half of the crops raised.

metecorn. Corn paid out for labor.

metegavel. Rent paid in victuals.

metempsychosis. A belief that the souls of men, after death, pass into animals. Bonard's Will (NY) 16 Abb Pr NS 128, 182.

meteorological record. A record of weather or climate. 30 Am J2d Ev § 1001.

meteorological report. A weather report.

meteorological service. Furnishing information concerning the weather to be expected in a given area. A service expected of the Federal Aviation Agency. 49 USC § 1351.

meter. An installation made by a gas, electric, or water company for the purpose of measuring the amount of the product consumed in a particular house, place of business, or factory. A lineal measure of the metric system, equivalent to 39.37 inches.

See parking meter; prepayment meter.

meter charge. A charge made by a public utility for installing a meter. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 55.

meter reader. An employee of an electric, gas, or water company, engaged in reading meters for the purpose of ascertaining and reporting to his employer the amount of the product consumed at particular houses, places of business, or factories.

meter rental. A service charge made by a public utility for the use or rental of one of its meters. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 57.

metes and bounds. The boundary lines and marks of a piece of land. A means of description of land in a deed. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 228.

methanol. Same as methyl alcohol.

metheglin. A drink, otherwise known as mead, made from honey and malt, with yeast added. Marks v State, 159 Ala 71, 48 So 864.

method. Manner of accomplishing something. The way in which a thing is done.

As used in the Federal income tax statute providing that the taxpayer may make his returns in accordance with the "method" of accounting regularly employed in keeping the books of such taxpayer, the word "method" means the way of keeping the taxpayer's books according to a defined and regular plan. Huntington Securities Corporation v Bussey (CA6 Ohio) 112 F2d 368.

methomania. A form of dipsomania. An abnormal craving for intoxicants. The befuddled condition of mind brought on by prolonged excessive use of intoxicants. State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v Savage, 89 Ala 1, 7 So 183.

methy alcohol. Commonly known as wood alcohol; a narcotic poison rather than an intoxicating liquor. Obtained by the distillation of wood. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 14.

metropolitan. Adjective: Pertaining to a metropolis, especially a large city such as New York. Noun: An archbishop.

metropolitan district. An entire center of population comprising a city and its suburbs.

mettrè a large. To set free.

metus. Fear; apprehension; dread; terror.

See exceptio metus. meubles. Same as movables.

See biens meubles.

Meum est promittere, non dimittere. It is mine to promise, not to discharge.

meum et tuum. Mine and thine, my property and yours.

Mexican divorce. Literally a divorce obtained in Mexico, but often associated in the mind with a mail-order divorce. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 965.

See mail-order divorce.

Mexican grants. Land grants by the Mexican Government in areas later ceded to the United States.

Mexico Convention. A copyright treaty or convention to which the United States became a party. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 76.

meynour. Same as mainour.

mezzanine floor. A story of diminished height introduced between two main stories of a building, usually immediately above the ground floor. Biber v O'Brien, 138 Cal App 353, 32 P2d 425.

[797]

mfg. Abbreviation of "manufacturing." Seiberling v Miller, 207 Ill 443, 69 NE 800.

Michaelmas term. An English term of court held from November second to November twenty-fifth.

micel-gemote. One of the names of the general assembly, or general council or great council anciently held in England, which was the ancient predecessor of the body which finally developed into the modern parliament. See 1 Bl Comm 147.

micel-synod. Same as micel-gemote.

micel-synoth. Same as micel-gemote.

michery. Trickery; larceny.

microphone. An instrumentality whereby sounds are intensified, in common use at the present time by public speakers and entertainers, and in radio and television.

microscopic blood test. See microscopic examination.

microscopic examination. A medical examination or analysis by a competent technician or other physician using a microscope to determine the condition of blood, urine, etc. Anno: 135 ALR 885; 23 Am J2d Dep § 220. An examination of blood stains with the aid of a microscope, particularly to ascertain if the blood was that of a human. State v Baker, 33 W Va 319, 370.

mid-air collision. A collision of aircraft, both of which are in flight.

mid-channel. The middle of a navigable stream. 56 Am J1st Wat § 177.

Grotius and Vattel speak of the middle of the river as the line of demarcation between two jurisdictions, but modern publicists and statesmen prefer the more accurate and more equitable boundary of the navigable mid-channel. If there be more than one channel of a river, the deepest channel is regarded as the navigable mid-channel for the purpose of territorial demarcation; and the boundary line will be the line drawn along the surface of the stream corresponding to the line of deepest depression of its bed. The islands on either side of the mid-channel are regarded as appendages to either bank; and if they have once been taken possession of by the nation to whose bank they are appendant, a change in the mid-channel of the river will not operate to deprive the nation of its possession, although the water-frontier line will follow the change of the mid-channel. Iowa v Illinois, 147 US 1, 9, 37 L Ed 55, 58, 13 S Ct 239.

middle lord. A mesne lord, standing in the middle, standing between his tenants who hold under him and the king or lord paramount under whom he holds. De Peyster v Michael, 6 NY 467.

middleman. One who buys from a manufacturer or supplier and sells to a consumer. An intermediary. One engaged, not to negotiate a sale or purchase, but simply to bring two parties together and permit them to make their own bargain. Synnott v Shaughnessy, 2 Idaho 122, 7 P 82; Banta v Chicago, 172 Ill 204, 50 NE 233; Moore v Turner, 137 W Va 299, 71 SE2d 342, 32 ALR2d 713; 12 Am J2d Brok § 173. An agent of an agent. State v Taberner, 14 RI 272.

middle name. The second Christian name of a person, intervening between the first Christian name and the surname; occasionally the name by which a person is called or which he uses.

An early rule, no longer closely adhered to, prevailed in some jurisdictions to the effect that both first and middle names were essential to a proper designation of a person. 38 Am J1st Name § 6.

middle of the river. See middle of the stream.

middle of the stream. The thread of a navigable river at mid-channel, generally equally distant from either bank. 56 Am J1st Wat § 177.

In international law, and by the usage of European nations, the term as applied to a navigable river, is the same as the middle of the channel of the stream. By the language, "a line drawn along the middle of the river Mississippi from its source to the river Iberville," as there used, is meant along the middle of the channel of the river Mississippi. Iowa v Illinois, 147 US 1, 8, 37 L Ed 55, 57, 13 S Ct 239.

See mid-channel.

Middlesex. See bill of Middlesex.

middle thread. The middle or center line of a river, stream, way, street, or road. Ingraham v Wilkinson 21 Mass (4 Pick) 268.

See middle of the stream.

midget racing. A public attraction consisting of the driving by children of small or so-called "midget" automobiles propelled by two-horse power motors. Anno: 83 ALR2d 878.

midnight. Twelve o'clock at night. The opening of the civil day. Jones v German Ins. Co. 110 Iowa 75, 81 NW 188.

midnight deadline. With respect to a bank, midnight on the next banking day following the banking day on which the bank involved receives the relevant item or notice or from which the time for taking action commences to run, whichever is later. UCC §§ 4-104(1) (h).

midshipman. A student in the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland. A young man in training for the purpose of receiving a commission in the Navy. Ranking above enlisted personnel of the Navy when serving aboard ship. United States v Cook, 128 US 254, 32 L Ed 464, 9 S Ct 108.

midway. Adjective: In the middle of a course, route, or journey. Noun: The section of a fair grounds devoted to entertainment and public amusements. The main channel of a navigable river; the deepest or most navigable channel of a river. Louisiana v Mississippi, 202 US 1, 50 L Ed 913.

midwife. A woman who assists another in childbirth. Banti v State, 163 Tex Crim 89, 289 SW2d 244. Sometimes regarded as a female obstetrician. Commonwealth v Porn, 196 Mass 326, 82 NE 31.

midwifery. The work of a midwife, that is assisting a woman in childbirth. Sometimes regarded more highly as the practice of obstetrics. Commonwealth v Porn, 196 Mass 326, 82 NE 31; State v Banti, 163 Tex Crim 89, 289 SW2d 247.

miseses. (Spanish.) Grain crops.

migrant laborer. A laborer who travels from place to place, often with the seasons, for work, usually connected with the farm, particularly the cultivation and gathering of vegetables and the harvesting of fruit crops.

migration. Moving from one place to another, especially from one country to another. A movement by a group of people, for example, the Mormons to Utah in the Nineteenth Century. An ineffectual attempt by a corporation to migrate to a sovereignty other than the state of its creation. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 11.

[798]

See immigration.

migratory birds. Birds which migrate with the change in season, sometimes many thousand miles. 35 Am J2d Fish § 32.

migratory divorce seeker. One who changes his residence or domicil to a state for the purpose of securing a divorce and residing in the state the required length of time for such purpose, but without any intention of remaining in the state permanently or indefinitely. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 252.

milch cow. A dairyman's cow, a cow kept primarily for the milk she produces.

mile. A measure of distance equaling 5280 feet, and often referred to as the "land mile," because it is more common to landmen whose business is on land. Steamboat Co. v Fessenden, 79 Me 140, 146.

See nautical mile.

mileage. The distance between two points. The distance covered on a trip. The total of miles which a motor vehicle has been driven, as indicated by speedometer or odometer. An allowance to a public officer for expense of travel. 43 Am J1st Pub Of § 369. An allowance to a sheriff, constable, or similar officer, or the deputy of either, by way of compensation for the miles they travel in the performance of their duties. 47 Am J1st Sher § 100. An allowance to a juror calculated upon the number of miles traveled as required for attendance as a juror. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 65. An allowance of travel expense made to a witness in attendance at a trial. 58 Am J1st Witn § 878. An allowance of travel expense to an officer in the armed forces. 36 Am J1st Mil § 80.

mileage basis. A basis for the apportionment between states or taxing districts of taxes on the property of a transportation or communication company. 51 Am J1st Tax §§ 879 et seq.

mileage books. Small books of a size convenient for the pocket issued by railroad companies to be purchased and used by passengers as tickets for transportation, each page, or perforated section, good for a specified number of miles of travel, to be removed from the book and taken up by the train conductor as used.

Such books are frequently issued at a lower rate per mile than is charged for single trip tickets. 9 Am J2d Car § 811. The tickets contained in the book, being used on the basis of mileage covered, are to be distinguished from commutation tickets which are good for a specified number of trips between named stations or points. Pennsylvania R. Co. v Towers, 245 US 6, 62 L Ed 117, 38 S Ct 2.

mileage tickets. See mileage books.

miles. A soldier; a knight. Singular of milites.

milieu. The middle.

militare. See feudum militare.

military. Pertaining to the Armed Forces, to war, to warfare. The Armed Forces.

See martial law.

Military Academy. The United States Military Academy at West Point. A classification given many private schools for boys, usually graduating students with the equivalent of a high school diploma, the classification being based upon military training given in the institution.

Military Appeals. See Court of Military Appeals.

military blockade. See blockade.

military bounty. A bounty paid for the purpose of inducing the enlistment of men in the military forces. 12 Am J2d Bount §§ 2, 4, 6.

military causes. Causes falling within the jurisdiction of military courts and tribunals.

military cemetery. A cemetery established in a foreign nation for the burial of members of the Armed Forces of the United States who were killed in action or died in the service of the United States in such country.

See national cemetery.

military commission. A tribunal for the trial and punishment of a military offense committed in time of war, for the trial of which no provision is made by statute. A commission of the state created under statutory authority to set up martial law in districts of the state in which insurrection and rioting exist, for the trial and punishment of offenders against such law in the district. 36 Am J1st Mil § 87.

military court. A court of the military; a court-martial.

military depot. See military post.

military draft. The enforcement by the government of its constitutional right to require all citizens of sufficient age and capacity to enter the military service of the country. Lanahan v Birge, 30 Conn 438, 443. A contingent or body of men for the armed forces called at one time under the selective draft.

See selective draft.

military enterprise. A martial undertaking, involving the idea of a bold, arduous, and hazardous attempt. Wiborg v United States, 163 US 632, 650, 41 L Ed 289, 296. Sometimes synonymous with military expedition but susceptible of a broader interpretation. 56 Am J1st War § 222.

military equipment. Supplies, facilities, accouterments, etc. of the Armed Forces. 36 Am J1st Mil § 16.

military establishment of the United States. The armed forces of the country represented by the army, navy, marine corps, and such other military bodies as Congress may see fit to establish. United States v Dunn, 120 US 249, 30 L Ed 667, 7 S Ct 507.

military expedition. A march or voyage of a body of men made with martial or hostile intentions or military in its character. United States v Ybanez (CC Tex) 53 F 536, 538. A journey or voyage by a company or body of persons, having the position or character of members of an armed service or services, for a specific warlike purpose; the body and the outfit or equipment of a body on a journey for a specific warlike purpose. 56 Am J1st War § 222.

See military enterprise.

military feuds. Feuds or fiefs held by knight-service under the feudal system.

military government. That government which is established by the military authorities upon the occupation of the enemy's territory, such government having the right to displace the pre-existing authority, and to assume to such extent as it may deem proper, the exercise by itself of all the powers and functions of government. 56 Am J1st War § 205.

[799]

military governor. The chief executive of a state, appointed by the President of the United States during a time of war and when the usual civil authority of that state cannot be duly maintained. 24 Am J1st Gov § 2.

military jurisdiction. Power and authority of a threefold character.

Under the Constitution of the United States, there are three kinds of military jurisdiction: one to be exercised both in peace and war; another to be exercised in time of foreign war without the boundaries of the United States, or in time of rebellion and civil war within states or districts occupied by rebels treated as belligerents; and a third to be exercised in time of invasion or insurrection within the limits of the United States, or during rebellion within the limits of states maintaining adhesion to the United States, when the public danger requires its exercise. The first may be called jurisdiction under military law, and is found in acts of Congress prescribing rules and articles of war, or otherwise providing for the government of the national forces. The second may be distinguished as military government, superseding, as far as may be deemed expedient, the local law, and exercised by the military commander, under the direction of the President, with the express or implied sanction of Congress. The third may be denominated martial law proper. Ex parte Milligan (US) 4 Wall 2, 18 L Ed 281.

Military Justice Code. See Code of Military Justice.

military lands. Areas of the public domain reserved for military or naval purposes. Pan American Petroleum & Transport Co. v United States, 273 US 456, 71 L Ed 734, 47 S Ct 416. Public lands held for allotment to veterans of the armed services as a reward for military service.

military law. The Code of Military Justice and other statutory provisions for the government of persons in the Armed Forces, to which may be added the unwritten or common law of the usages and customs of military service. 36 Am J1st Mil § 12.

See martial law.

military occupation. An incident of war; the occupation of hostile territory, displacing the pre-existing authority, and assuming, to such extent as may be proper, the exercise by the occupying power of all the powers and functions of government. Dooley v United States, 182 US 222, 45 L Ed 1074, 21 S Ct 762.

military offense. A violation or infraction of military law, such as desertion, sleeping on duty, etc. A violation of a rule prescribed by the commander of the forces of an occupying power.

military officer. See officer of the armed forces.

military or naval forces. Armed forces of the United States.

As to the meaning of the term as used in § 3 of the Federal Espionage Act, see Anno: 148 ALR 1445.

military outfit. See outfit.

military pension. See pension.

military personnel. Members of the Armed Forces.

military post. A place where troops are assembled; where military stores, animate or inanimate, are kept or distributed; where military duty is performed or military protection afforded; where something, in short, more or less closely connected with arms or war is kept or is to be done. 36 Am J1st Mil § 6.

See military station.

military quota. See quota.

military rank. See rank.

military reservation. A federal enclave established under authority of law as a land area to be devoted to military purposes. Burgess v Montana, 8 Mont 57, 19 P 558.

military search and seizure. Search and seizure by persons in military service.

During a state of war or after martial law has been declared, officers engaged in the military service may lawfully arrest anyone who, from information before them, they have reasonable cause to believe is engaged in opposing the Government, and may order a house to be forcibly entered and searched when there are reasonable grounds for supposing such person may be there concealed. No more force, however, can be used than is necessary to accomplish the purpose. 47 Am J1st Search § 5.

military service. Service in any of the armed forces of the United States in war or in peace. 36 Am J1st Mil §§ 20 et seq.

military state. A totalitarian nation, the existence of which depends upon the maintenance of armed forces to preserve the government by keeping the people in a state of subjection.

The army of the British Government is sometimes referred to as the "military state."

military station. A place or department where a military duty is to be discharged. The synonym of the word "depot," a place where military stores or supplies are kept, or troops assembled. United States v Caldwell (US) 19 Wall 264, 22 L Ed 114. A military post. 36 Am J1st Mil § 6.

See military post.

military tenure. Land tenure by knight-service.

military testament. A soldier's or sailor's will; a will excepted from compliance with formalities required to be observed in the execution of wills generally. 57 Am J1st Wills § 661.

military training. The training of members of the armed forces. Training in military science and tactics given in a university or college which has accepted the benefits of a Federal Land Grant. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 24.

military tribunal. See military court.

military wedding. A slang term for a wedding under duress of threatened prosecution for seduction or bastardy.

milites. Knights who formed a part of the royal army, in virtue of their feudal tenures. See 1 Bl Comm 404.

militia. A body of armed citizens trained to military duty, who may be called out in certain cases, but may not be kept in service, like standing armies, in time of peace. 36 Am J1st Mil § 42.

See active militia; National Guard; state militia.

militibus. See de militibus.

militus. See feudum militus.

milk. A food so vital that it has been the subject of regulation in all jurisdictions to preserve quality and purity of the product.

[800]

milk control. The regulation of the distribution of milk and the fixing of prices. 3 Am J2d Agri § 27.

milk co-operative. A co-operative association of milk producers. Elliott v Adeckes, 240 Minn 113, 59 NW2d 894.

milk cow. See milch cow.

milk dealer. One who buys and sells milk or one who sells milk obtained from his own cows. 22 Am J1st Food § 69.

milk depot. A place at which a dairy or milk dealer receives milk from the producer, sometimes where it is stored pending processing in a dairy. Anno: 31 ALR 187, s. 38 ALR 1506.

milk of magnesia. A proprietary medicine. State v F. W. Woolworth Co. 184 Minn 51, 237 NW 817, 76 ALR 1202.

mill. A factory or manufacturing establishment. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 117.

By the conveyance of a "mill" eo nomine, no other land passes in fee except the land under the mill and its overhanging projections. But the term may include the free use of the head of water existing at the time of its conveyance, or any other easement which has been made with it, and which is necessary to its enjoyment. Morgan v Mason, 20 Ohio 344.

Mill Act. A statute providing for the appropriation of sites for the utilization of water power, upon payment of compensation for the taking. 56 Am J1st Wat § 21.

Millbank Prison. A prison at Westminster, England, where persons who had been sentenced to be transported were temporarily confined.

milled money. Coined money.

Miller Act. A federal statute enacted in 1935, as a successor to the Heard Act of 1894, providing that before any contract, exceeding $2,000 in amount, for the construction, alteration, or repair of any public building or public work of the United States, is awarded to any person, such person shall furnish to the United States a performance bond for its protection and a payment bond for the protection of all persons supplying labor and material in the prosecution of the work provided for in the contract. 40 USC §§ 270a-270d.

Miller-Tydings Act. A federal statute, enacted in 1937, constituting an amendment to the Sherman Anti-Trust Act, declaring in effect that the fixing by agreement of the minimum resale price of commodities shall not be deemed unlawful by reason of anything contained in the anti-trust act, whenever such agreements are lawful where the resale is made. 15 USC § 1.

millimeter. A linear measure of the metric system, equivalent to 0.3937 inches.

milliner. One who designs, makes, or deals in ladies' hats. Woods v Keyes, 14 Allen (Mass) 236.

milling-in-transit. The privilege of a shipper of grain, particularly wheat, to have the shipment stopped for milling at some point upon the route as to which a through rate was determined, and have the shipment continued to destination under the through rate in the form of the flour produced by the milling of the grain. 13 Am J2d Car § 318.

mill man's lien. The common-law lien for his labor that one who saws logs of another into lumber or shingles has, on the general principle that persons who have bestowed labor upon an article or done some other act in reference to it by which its value is enhanced have a right to detain it until they are reimbursed for their expenditure and labor. 34 Am J1st Logs § 101.

mill race. An artificial channel conducting water to be utilized for power.

mill saw. A circular saw used in sawing logs into lumber. Batchelder v Shapleigh, 10 Me 135.

millsite location. The appropriation, under authority of law and the rules of the land department, of land for the accommodation and use of a mill or reduction works to be operated in connection with a mine. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 73.

mina. An ancient measure of weight.

minable coal. Coal so situated that it may be mined profitably by judicious methods. Anne: 28 ALR2d 1031.

minae. Threats; menaces.

minare. To mine.

Minatur innocentibus qui parcit nocentibus. He who spares those who are guilty menaces those who are innocent.

mind. The seat of reason. The ability to will, to direct, to permit, or to assent. McDermott v Evening Journal, 43 NJL 488, 492. The direction of one's thinking.

mind and memory. A term of art much used by the legal profession.

At common law, "mind" and "memory" are convertible terms on the reasoning that without memory there can be no mind, and the person would be the mere recipient of a succession of present sensations, like the lowest type of animal life. Re Forman's Will (NY) 54 Barb 274, 286.

See sound mind and memory.

mind reader. One who professes to know the unspoken and otherwise uncommunicated thoughts of another.

mine. An underground working for the excavation of minerals, consisting of pits, shafts, levels, tunnels etc. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 2. A term broad enough to include open cuts and quarries, by which substances such as coal, clay, ironstone, and limestone are extracted from the earth. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 2.

But the word does not comprehend every possible excavation by which mineral matters are brought to the surface. It appears to be definitely settled, for example, that a gas well or an oil well cannot be regarded as a mine. Nor does a pile of tailings taken from another excavation constitute a mine. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 2.

See mining.

mine development. Work in opening a mine for the purpose of removing minerals from the earth.

mine development costs. As a deduction from gross income, payments made, or debts incurred, for the development of a natural deposit of minerals after existence of minerals in commercially marketable quantities has been disclosed. Internal Revenue Code § 616.

mine dump. A pile of waste material removed from a mine in the process of taking out mineral, often of great size. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 179.

[801]

mine exploration costs. A deduction from gross income of costs paid or incurred in exploring for minerals other than oil or gas. Internal Revenue Code §§ 615, 617.

mine layout. A mining and railroad term for switching facilities for moving cars to and from the tipple. Raymond City Coal & Transp. Corp. v New York Cent. R. Co. (CA6 Ohio) 103 F2d 56.

See tipple.

mine patent. See tunnel location.

mine prop. A piece of timber in the form of a post, used in a mine as a support for the roof. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 147.

miner. One who mines, particularly one engaged directly in the occupation of extracting coal or ore from the earth. Anno: 11 ALR 155.

The meaning of the word "miner" must depend on the construction given in the particular jurisdiction. Watson v Lederer, 11 Colo 577, 19 P 602.

See gin men.

mineral. Broadly, a natural inorganic substance forming a part of the soil or crust of the earth. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 4. Any natural substance having sufficient value to be mined, quarried, or extracted for its own sake or its own specific use. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 4. Any inorganic substance which can be taken from the land, inclusive of oil and natural gas. Scott v Laws, 185 Ky 440, 215 SW 81, 13 ALR 369. A term inclusive of, not only coal and iron, but also oil and natural gas, diamonds, floor spar, gypsum, granite, shale, freestone, and other substances, but not sand, gravel, or clay. 36 Am J1st Min & M §§ 5, 35.

In its ordinary and common meaning, the word is a comprehensive one and includes every description of stone and rock deposit, whether containing metallic or non-metallic substances; and where minerals are reserved in a conveyance, if the ordinary meaning of the word is to be changed or restricted, the language used must be reasonably clear to show that intent. Jeffrey v Spruce-Boone Land Co. 112 W Va 360, 164 SE 292, 86 ALR 866.

As to whether a conveyance or reservation of minerals is inclusive of minerals recoverable only by open pit mining, see Anno: 1 ALR2d 787.

mineral deed. A conveyance of a landowner's interest in minerals lying beneath the surface. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 28. A conveyance by an owner of land of minerals therein, figuratively severing the minerals from the surface and vesting title to them in the grantee. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 32.

mineral industry. An industry in the production and fabrication of metals. 13 USC §§ 131, 132.

mineralizer. A substance which combines with a metal in the soil or crust of the earth to form ore. Armstrong v Lake Champlain Granite Co. 147 NY 495, 42 NE 186.

mineral land. Land made valuable by the deposits therein of mineral or minerals useful in the arts or essential in manufacturing. Northern P. R. Co. v Soderberg, 183 US 526, 47 L Ed 575, 23 S Ct 365.

mineral lease. See mining lease.

mineral reservation. The reservation in a deed of the minerals or a specific mineral in the land conveyed, in effect a reservation of a part of the fee. Kiersey v Hirsch, 58 NM 18, 265 P2d 346, 43 ALR2d 929.

mineral royalty. A royalty under a kind of lease recognized by the coal industry paid on the quantity of mineral mined, with the requirement that a stipulated amount be mined within a stated period of time, or, upon a failure to do so, to pay a certain amount of money equal to the income that would have been received by the landowner had the mineral been mined.

Such payments are royalties and are not to be considered as rentals. Logan Coal & Timber Asso. v Helvering (CA3) 122 F2d 848.

See mining royalty.

minerals in place. See in place.

minerator. A miner.

miner's inch. A unit of measurement of the rate of discharge of water, known in some of the Western states, being the amount of water that flows through an orifice one inch square in a vertical position and under a standard head prescribed by custom or by statute. New Brantner Extension Ditch v Kramer, 57 Colo 218, 141 P 498.

As fixed by California statute, the standard miner's inch of water shall be equivalent or equal to one and one-half cubic inches of water per minute measured through any aperture or orifice. This makes a miner's inch equivalent to one-fortieth of a second foot. Before the adoption of the statute a miner's inch was the quantity of water passing through an orifice one inch square under a four inch pressure, which would make the inch equivalent to one-fiftieth of a cubic foot per second. Lillis v Panoche Land & Water Co. 32 Cal App 668, 163 P 1040.

miners' rules and customs. A body of rules and customs developed by the miners of the western part of the country, constituting a large body of unwritten law to be given effect in all cases wherein they do not conflict with the statutes. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 76.

mingling. The mingling of the logs of one person with the logs of another in the course of a flood during floating operations. 34 Am J1st Logs § 101.

See commingling of funds; commingling of goods.

miniature golf course. A place of amusement consisting of a small area for the playing of golf in a modified form. Anno: 74 ALR 406.

miniature railroad. An amusement device, particularly appealing to children, consisting of a railroad of narrow gauge upon which rides may be had in small coaches pulled by a small locomotive. 4 Am J2d Amuse § 90.

Minima poena corporalis est major qualibet pecuniaria. The smallest corporal punishment is greater than any pecuniary one.

Minime mutanda soot quite certain interpretationem habuerunt. Those matters shall least be changed which have attained a certain interpretation or construction.

The language of this maxim and certain other maxims which are related to it, carries the idea of an observance, an interpretation, a construction, and to some extent a judicial one, as evidenced by the word "interpretationem." O'Donnell v Glenn, 9 Mont 452, 23 P 1018.

miniments. Same as muniments.

minimis non carat lex. See de minimis non carat lex.

minimization of damages. The duty of the plaintiff to take reasonable action to avoid enhancing the damages caused by the defendant. 22 Am J2d Damg § 30. Taking advantage of such means or opportunities as are reasonably available to an injured employee for the purpose of restoring earning capacity, which means co-operating with employer, physician, the industrial board or commission, and, if necessary, the courts. Anno: 105 ALR 1479.

[802]

See mitigation of damages.

minimum area restrictions. Provisions in zoning ordinances prescribing the minimum side or rear yard areas, the percentage of the area of a lot that may be occupied by the building, or the minimum area of lots to be occupied by residences in particular districts. 58 Am J1st Zon § 52.

minimum contacts test. A test of jurisdiction established by the United States Supreme Court under which a state court is permitted to acquire personal jurisdiction over a nonresident, although he is not personally served with process within the state, where he has had such a substantial connection with the forum state that traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice are not offended by exercise of the forum's jurisdiction over the case. International Shoe Co. v Washington, 326 US 310, 90 L Ed 95, 66 S Ct 154 161 ALR 1057. The theory whereby the validity of a state tax on the income of a foreign corporation is to be determined according to whether it has certain minimum contacts with the taxing state, so that imposition of the tax does not offend traditional notions of fair play and justice. Anno: 67 ALR2d 1328; 3 L Ed 2d 1787.

minimum cost restriction. The amount fixed by a restrictive covenant as the lowest limit in cost of construction of any house to be erected upon the premises conveyed by the deed in which the covenant appears, thereby prohibiting the grantee or his successors in interest from erecting a house at a cost in a lesser amount. 20 Am J2d Cov §§ 260 et seq.

minimum damage limitation. Statutory provision prohibiting the allowance of damages in an amount lower than the prescribed amount for infringement of a copyright. 17 USC § 101(d).

minimum en route instrument flight rule altitude. An air traffic rule prescribed by the Federal Aviation Agency. 14 CFR §§ 600.1 et seq.

Minimum est nihilo proximum. The least or smallest is next to nothing.

minimum fee schedule. A schedule of fees for legal services adopted by a bar association, such constituting at least persuasive evidence of what constitutes a reasonable fee for such services. Anno: 143 ALR 719, s. 56 ALR2d 45, § 11[c].

minimum-height restriction. The restriction contained in a covenant of a deed to the effect that no structure less than a certain height prescribed will be erected upon the premises conveyed by the deed in which the covenant appears, thereby prohibiting the erection of a building of a height less than that prescribed. 20 Am J2d Cov § 265.

minimum jurisdictional amount. A constitutional or statutory limitation on jurisdiction which deprives a court of jurisdiction where the amount or value in litigation is less than a specified amount. 20 Am J2d Cts § 154.

minimum number. A limitation placed by statute upon the number of signers of a nominating petition. 25 Am J2d Elect § 171. A limitation placed by statute upon the number of signers of a petition for a special election. 26 Am J2d Elect § 189.

minimum premium. A premium in an amount fixed by the bylaws or board of directors of a building and loan association as the minimum of the charge to be made a member for the privilege of obtaining a loan from the association. 13 Am J2d B & L Assoc § 55.

minimum price. A price communicated by a landowner to his broker as the lowest price at which he will sell, irrespective of what the listing price may be. 12 Am J2d Brok § 110. A price, often referred to as an upset price, fixed by the court in a foreclosure proceeding below which the property may not be sold at the foreclosure sale. 37 Am J1st Mtg § 864. The minimum amount for which property must sell at an execution sale, being fixed by statute at a designated proportion of the appraised value. 21 Am J2d Exec § 227. A price, fixed as a condition of an auction sale, below which the property will not be sold. 7 Am J2d Auct § 18. A reserved price, which it is proper and not unusual in judicial sales, as in other sales at auction, for the court or trustee who conducts the sale to fix, which fixed minimum price must be equalled or exceeded by the highest bid in order that such bid may be accepted and reported. 30A Am J Rev ed Jud S § 93. A price regulation by law aimed at curbing harmful competition. Nebbia v New York, 291 US 502, 78 L Ed 940, 54 S Ct 505, 89 ALR 1469.

minimum rent. (Mining law.) Same as minimum royalty.

minimum residence. A requirement imposed as a condition of poor relief or welfare. 41 Am J1st Poor L §§ 23, 24. A requirement imposed as a condition of voting at an election. 25 Am J2d Elect § 66.

minimum sentence. The lightest sentence permitted by statute for one convicted of a particular offense or as an habitual criminal. State v Malusky, 59 ND 501, 230 NW 735, 71 ALR 190.

minimum share. An exemption from inheritance or succession taxation, based upon an amount fixed by statute, at or below which no tax is imposed. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 296.

minimum wage laws. Statutes establishing a minimum for the amount of wages to be paid employees in certain industries and lines of work. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab §§ 813 et seq.

minimus. The least; the smallest.

mining. Extracting coal or ore from the earth. The actual cutting or hewing of the mineral in a mine and its removal to the surface. Anno: 11 ALR 154. Including the ordinary treatment and processes normally applied by mine owners to obtain the commercially marketable mineral product. United States v Cannelton Sewer Pipe Co. 364 US 76, 4 L Ed 2d 1581, 80 S Ct 1581. A term sometimes deemed inclusive of the taking of clay, ironstone, and limestone from quarries, even the taking of such substances and coal from quarries or open pits. 36 Am J2d Min & M § 2.

By statute enacted in Indiana in the year 1889, it was declared that the word should be deemed to include the sinking of gas wells. See State of Indiana ex rel. Corwin v Indiana & Ohio Oil, Gas & Mining Co. 120 Ind 575, 22 NE 778.

See miner; placer mining; right to coal.

mining by outstroke. The hoisting or removal of ore from a mine through a shaft or opening in an adjoining mine. Speck v Cottonwood Coal Co. (CA9 Mont) 116 F2d 489.

[803]

mining claim. A parcel of public mineral land which has been appropriated under the statutes by a prospector who has discovered a precious metal or other valuable mineral thereon. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 69.

A mining claim, perfected under the law, is property in the highest sense of that term, which may be bought, sold and conveyed, and will pass by descent. Quigley v Gillett, 101 Cal 462, 469, 35 P 1040.

See adverse claim; discovery; lode claim; mining location.

mining district. A section of country usually designated by name and described or understood as being confined within certain natural boundaries, in which gold or silver or both are found in paying quantities, and which is worked therefor, under rules and regulations prescribed by the miners therein; as the White Pine mining district, the Humboldt mining district, etc. United States v Smith (CC Or) 11 F 487, 490.

mining land. See mineral land.

mining lease. A lease of land which grants to the lessee the right to mine and remove coal and minerals from the premises. 36 Am J1st Min & M §§ 39, 40. Sometimes difficult of distinction from a grant of minerals in place. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 43.

See mineral deed.

mining license. An incorporeal right to take ore or minerals from the land of another—a mere privilege, existing contemporaneously with a like right in the grantor, carrying with it no estate or possessory right in the land. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 63.

mining lien. A special lien for the security of a person furnishing labor or materials toward the development of a mine. Berentz v Belmont Oil Mining Co. 148 Cal 577, 84 P 47.

mining location. Precisely, the act of appropriating a mining claim on the public domain. Often regarded and treated as a synonym of mining claim. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 69.

See mining claim; tunnel location.

mining partnership. A partnership formed between co-owners of mines or minerals in place for the development or working of the same or between parties having an interest merely in the operation of a mine, or in carrying on mining operations without actually owning the mine itself; a partnership of a special kind, having some of the features of a cotenancy. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 157.

mining penalty. A statutory penalty imposed on a mine owner for mining within a specified distance of the line of the adjoining owner. Wilson v Shrader, 73 W Va 105, 79 SE 1083. Any penalty imposed for the violation of a statute regulating the business of mining. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 156.

mining right. The right to enter upon and occupy a specific piece of ground for the purpose of working it, either by underground excavations or open workings, to obtain from it the minerals or ores which may be deposited therein.

By implication, the grant of such a right carries with it whatever is incident to it and necessary to its beneficial enjoyment. See Smith v Cooley, 65 Cal 46, 2 P 880.

mining royalty. An amount payable by the lessee to the lessor under a mining lease, based upon the amount of mineral taken from the mine for the term of the lease or a period thereof. 36 Am J1st Min & M §§ 48 et seq.

See mineral royalty.

minis. See de minis.

minister. One who, having been ordained in the ministry, undertakes to perform certain services for another. First Presbyterian Church v Myers, 5 Okla 809, 50 P 70. A clergyman or pastor. The head of a department of the government of the United Kingdom.

See public minister.

ministerial. Subservient or subsidiary; mandatory as opposed to judicial or discretionary; pertaining to an act or duty performed in accordance with legal authority, rather than with regard to propriety, judgment etc. Antin v Union High School Dist. 130 Or 461, 280 P 664, 66 ALR 1271.

ministerial act. An act which does not involve the exercise of judgment. An act the performance of which involves nothing of discretion, official or otherwise, performance being required by direct and positive command of the law. 34 Am J1st Mand § 70. An act which a person performs under a given state of facts, in a prescribed manner, in obedience to the mandate of legal authority, and without regard to or exercise of his own judgment upon the propriety of the act being done. Galey v Board of Comrs. 174 Ind 181, 91 NE 593. An Act in the performance of a duty defined and prescribed by law with such precision and certainty as to leave nothing to the exercise of discretion or judgment. Rains v Simpson, 50 Tex 495.

ministerial duty. An official duty wherein the officer has no room for the exercise of discretion, official or otherwise, the performance being required by direct and positive command of the law. 34 Am J1st Mand § 70. A duty of an officer in respect to which nothing is left to his discretion; a duty absolute, certain, and imperative, involving merely execution of a specific act arising from fixed and designated facts. State ex ref. Sewer Dist. v Ellis, 163 Neb 86, 77 NW2d 809.

ministerial function. In one sense, a ministerial duty of a public officer. In another sense, a private function of a municipal corporation, as distinguished from a public or governmental function of such a body. Bedtke v Chicago, 240 111 App 493, 498.

ministerial officer. An officer who is neither a judicial officer nor an executive officer and whose duties are mainly of a ministerial nature, that is, duties involving little or no discretion. 43 Am J1st Pub Of § 258.

ministerial powers. Powers of a public officer which require no exercise of judgment or discretion. Powers of a trustee which are directory, there being no scope for discretion in any of the details of their exercise. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 291.

ministerial trust. Same as dry trust.

minister of the gospel. See minister.

ministrant. (Ecclesiastical law.) A party who cross-examined a witness.

ministri regis. Ministers of the king.

ministry. The work of a pastor or clergyman. The profession of a clergyman. The ministers, as heads of departments of the government of the United Kingdom considered collectively.

minor. An infant, a person who has not reached the age, usually 21 years, at which the law recognizes a general contractual capacity. 27 Am J1st Inf § 2.

[804]

minor aetas. Under age; minority; infancy.

Minor ante tempus agere non potest in casu proprietatis, nee etiam convenire. A minor under age cannot act in the case of property, nor even enter into a contract.

minora regalia. Minor royal rights or prerogatives.

These were principally the rights and prerogatives of the king which had to do with his revenue. The British constitution vested these rights or prerogatives in the king in order to support his dignity and maintain his power, being a portion which each subject contributes of his property, in order to secure the remainder. See 1 Bl Comm 241, 281.

minori aetate. See administration minori aetate; durante minore aetate.

minor fault rule. See major and minor fault rule.

minority. A status created by law; the status of an infant. 27 Am J1st Inf § 2. The period during which one is an infant. The lesser of two factions in a political or other body of persons. A group or class of persons for whom the protection of the Bill of Rights is intended; persons of a race or religion other than the predominant race or religion in the state or political subdivision.

A characteristic feature of our constitutional system lies in the power of a single individual successfully to resist the claims of the whole community when he is in the right. McKeon v Bisbee, 9 Cal 137.

minority interest. Shares of stock in a corporation which are not sufficient in number to elect directors or otherwise control the action to be taken by the corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp § 496.

minority opinion. An opinion written or approved by one or more, but less than a majority, of the members of the court; to be distinguished from the opinion of the court. 20 Am J2d Cts § 71.

minority representation. A system of voting whereby a part of the voters, although constituting no more than a minority may nevertheless obtain representation by an officer of political principles to their liking, such representation being procured by methods of voting such as cumulative, limited, or restrictive voting. 26 Am J2d Elect §§ 273 et seq.

minority stockholders. Stockholders of a corporation insufficient in reference to the number of shares held in the aggregate to elect directors or otherwise control the management of the corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp § 496.

Minor jurare non potest. A minor cannot make oath.

Minor minorem custodire non debet; alios enim praesumitur male regere qui seipsum regere nescit. A minor ought not to have the custody of a minor; because he is presumed to govern others poorly who does not understand how to govern himself.

Minor non tenetur respondere durante minori aetati; nisi, in causa dotis, propter favorem. A minor is not held responsible during his minority, unless, by reason of grace or favor, in the matter of dower.

minor offenses. See petty offenses.

minor of tender years. Apparently, any minor; not the equivalent of child of tender years.

As the expression is used in pleadings in various connections, as in answers of guardians ad litem appointed for minors in probate proceedings, it may embrace as well minors of twenty years as twenty months. Meyer v King, 72 Miss 1, 16 So 245.

See child of tender years.

minor or major fault rule. See major or minor fault rule.

Minor, qui infra aetatem 12 annorum fuerit, utlagari non potest, nee extra legem poni, quia ante talent aetatem, non est sub lege aliqua, nee in decenna. A minor who is under the age of twelve years cannot be outlawed, nor be placed outside the law, because before such age, he is not under any law, nor in a decennary.

Minor septemdecim annis non admittitur fore executorem. A person under the age of seventeen years is not permitted to be an executor.

mint. Verb: To coin money. Noun: A place for the coining of money; the United States Mint. Bronson v Rodes (US) 7 Wall 229, 247, 19 L Ed 141, 145. Any one of several aromatic plants used in medicines and flavoring extracts, such as peppermint. Adjective: New, particularly in the case of money or stamps.

See assayer of the mint.

mintage. A charge made for coining money.

mint julep. A refreshing and stimulating alcoholic beverage, prepared by combining whisky, sugar, and mint leaves, and served in glasses filled with chipped ice.

minus. Less; reduce by taking away a specific number.

Minus solvit, qui tardius solvit; nam et tempore minus solvitur. He does not pay who pays too late; for he is not discharged by lapse of time.

minus sufficiens in literatura. Deficient in letters. See 1 Bl Comm 390.

minute. Noun: A division of time; one sixtieth part of an hour. Verb: To make a note of something said or done. Hinshaw v State, 147 Ind 334, 377, 47 NE 157.

See minutes.

minutes. A record of the proceedings of the court. 27 Am J2d Eq § 250. A memorandum of what happened or occurred in court during a proceeding in a particular case. 20 Am J2d Cts § 52. Short notes made by a clerk in the course of proceedings of the court, to be extended later in preparation of the record. Hoehne v Trugillo, 1 Colo 161; otherwise known as rough minutes or skeleton minutes. Johnson v Commonwealth, 80 Ky 377, 379. The record of the proceedings and testimony before the grand jury in a particular case. People v Quinn, 24 Misc 2d 111, 201 NYS2d 582. The record of a proceeding by an administrative agency acting judicially. 2 Am J2d Admin L §§ 441 et seq. The record of the business transacted at a meeting of the stockholders of a corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp § 174. The record of the acts of the board of directors of a corporation at a meeting. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1132. The record of the proceedings of an association or club. 6 Am J2d Asso & C § 58.

[805]

See judge's minutes.

minute book. A book in which the proceedings of a court are entered by the clerk of the court; a book in which the proceedings of a corporation's meetings are entered by the secretary. Any book or record containing minutes.

See minutes.

minute tithes. Small tithes.

minutio. (Civil law.) A diminution; a reduction; a subtraction.

mica. Same as mise.

misadventure. An accident. Bad luck.

See homicide by misadventure.

misae. Costs of suit; expenses.

misallege. To state, cite, or quote erroneously.

misapplication of funds. The conversion of funds. As a specific offense, the conversion by a bank officer of funds of the bank to the use of the officer or a third person, something beyond a mere act of official administration. 10 Am J2d Banks § 224.

See misappropriation of funds.

misapprehension. See mistake.

misappropriation. A conversion of property.

misappropriation of funds. An abstraction of cash, or a source of cash. 50 Am J1st Surety § 336. The failure of a person to account for or return a fund committed to him for a specific purpose. Anno: 17 ALR2d 1021.

The word is held not to apply to the payment of an extravagant price for services or materials properly appertaining to the business of the corporation. Dean v Shingle, 198 Cal 652, 246 P 1049.

See misapplication of funds.

misbehaviour. Improper conduct. Intentional wrongdoing rather than mere error in judgment. Smith v Cutler (NY) 10 Wend 589.

misbirth. A miscarriage; an abortion.

misbranded. Characterizing an article which carries a false or misleading label, especially where the falsity is such as to defraud the public. United States v 90-5 Barrels, 265 US 438, 68 L Ed 1094, 44 S Ct 529.

See misbranding.

misbranding. An offering for sale of an article under the name of another article, the offering for sale of an imitation of another article, and the offering for sale in package form of an article which does not bear a label containing the name and place of business of the manufacturer, packer, or distributor and an accurate statement of the quantity of the contents in terms of weight, measure, or numerical count. 21 USC § 343; 35 Am J2d Food § 27.

A brand is a false brand whether it was intentionally erroneous or erroneous because of culpable negligence. Hatcher v Dunn, 102 Iowa 411, 71 NW 343.

See mislabeling.

miscarriage. Abortion; a premature birth. Anderson v Commonwealth, 19 Va 665, 58 SE2d 72, 16 ALR2d 942. The expulsion of the foetus at a period of utero-gestation so early that it has not acquired the power of sustaining an independent life. More precisely, the termination of pregnancy between the 16th and 28th week. 1 Am J2d Abort § 1. In reference to the application of the statute of frauds to an oral contract to answer for the miscarriage of another:—the default of a third person upon his debt or obligation for which the promisor had undertaken to answer. 49 Am J1st Stat of F § 65.

miscarriage of justice. A decision inconsistent with substantial justice. Kotteakos v United States, 328 US 750, 90 L Ed 1557, 66 S Ct 1239. The result of a case in which essential rights of a party were disregarded or denied. People v Musumeci, 133 Cal App 2d 354, 284 P2d 168.

miscasting. A mistake in the audit of an account.

miscegenation. The intermarrying, cohabiting, or interbreeding of persons of different races. A criminal offense under the statutes of a few jurisdictions, principally in the intermarriage of white persons with negroes or persons having a specified percentage of negro blood. 35 Am J1st Mar § 146; 36 Am J1st Misceg § 2.

miscegenetic marriage. A marriage in violation of statute prohibiting the intermarriage of persons of certain different races, particularly persons of the white and black races.

mischarge. See misdirection.

mischievous. Conduct resulting in injury or annoyance to another.

See malicious mischief.

miscognizant. Without knowledge of; ignorant of.

misconception. A misunderstanding. A mistake in interpretation of a statement. Walden v Skinner, 101 US 577, 25 L Ed 963.

misconduct. Improper conduct. A transgression of some established and definite rule of action, where no discretion is left, except what necessity may demand; a violation of definite law; a forbidden act. Citizens' Ins. Co. v Marsh, 41 Pa 386, 394. Intentional wrongdoing. Smith v Cutler (NY) 10 Wend 589.

misconduct in office. See official misconduct.

misconduct of attorney. Professional misconduct or misconduct outside professional dealings which shows one to be unfit for the profession and would have disqualified him from admission to the bar. 7 Am J2d Attys § 25. Immoral practices which demonstrate unfitness to practice law and would affect adversely the administration of justice. Re Gorsuch, 76 SD 191, 75 NW2d 644, 57 ALR2d 1355.

See misconduct of counsel; professional misconduct.

misconduct of counsel. The conduct of counsel for one party which prevents the adverse party from having a fair trial, consisting in improper remarks, comments, or arguments, wilfully and intentionally offering inadmissible evidence, propounding improper questions to witnesses, uncalled-for abuse of witnesses, etc. 39 Am J1st New Tr §§ 3 et seq.

See professional misconduct of attorney.

misconduct of judge. Improper or unjudicial conduct on the part of the judge in the course of the trial of a case, for example improper remarks tending to prejudice the minds of the jury against one of the parties, absence from courtroom, etc. 39 Am J1st New Tr §§ 48 et seq.

[806]

misconduct of jury. Conduct on the part of the jury which impairs the trial from the standpoint of fairness and propriety, such as obtaining and acting upon information outside the evidence adduced at the trial, acting on the personal knowledge of a juror or jurors, expressions of prejudice, partiality, or antagonism toward one of the parties, separation without authority, etc. 39 Am J1st New Tr §§ 70 et seq.

misconduct of physician. Professional misconduct or conduct apart from the practice. of the profession which demonstrates immorality, personal characteristics, and disposition rendering a person unfit for the practice of medicine. 41 Am J1st Phys & S §§ 49, 54, 57.

See professional misconduct.

miscontinuance. A continuance or postponement improperly ordered by the court.

misconveyance by carrier. See misdelivery.

miscreant. An evil person. An unbeliever; a person who entertained doctrines subversive of moral obligation or the Christian religion.

A statute under William the Third provided that if any person with an understanding of Christianity wrote or taught or made speeches denying its truth he thereby rendered himself incapable of holding any office of trust; that for a second offense he should be unable to sue, act as guardian, executor, legatee or purchaser of land and suffer three years' imprisonment without bail. See 4 Bl Comm 44.

misdelivery. The delivery of goods by a carrier to some person other than the one to whom they were consigned. 13 Am J2d Car § 415.

misdemeanant. A person who has committed a misdemeanor.

misdemeanor. Customarily, an indictable offense not amounting to a felony, but sometimes including offenses not punishable by indictment. Commonwealth v Cano, 389 Pa 639, 133 A2d 800, cert den and app dismd 355 US 182, 2 L Ed 2d 186, 78 S Ct 267.

The distinction between misdemeanors and felonies now commonly adopted, frequently by statute, is that offenses punishable by death, or by imprisonment in, the state prison or penitentiary, are felonies, whereas all others, including those punishable by imprisonment in the county jail, are misdemeanors. Roberson v United States (CA5 Ala) 249 F2d 737, 72 ALR2d 434, Bert den 356 US 919, 2 L Ed 2d 715, 78 S Ct 704 (under Alabama law); Eckhardt v People, 126 Colo 18, 247 P2d 673. It is also to be observed that in some jurisdictions, there is a classification, particularly in reference to violations of the Motor Vehicle Law, where the breach is deemed, neither a misdemeanor nor a felony, but an "offense."

misdescription. An error in describing a party to an action; a matter of no consequence if the party is otherwise properly designated. 39 Am J1st Parties § 109. An error in a conveyance in respect of the description of the subject matter. 23 Am J2d Deeds §§ 155 et seq.

misdirection. An error on the part of the court in the charge or instructions given the jury.

mise. A plea of the general issue in a writ of right. 41 Am J1st PI § 141. The costs or expenses of a litigation.

mise en escript. Put in writing.

miserabile depositum. (Civil law.) A deposit made under stress of necessity; as, in the case of great peril such as fire or flood.

Misera est servitus ubi jus est vagum aut incognitum. Wretched is the thralldom where the law is either uncertain or unknown. See 1 Bl Comm 416.

misericordia. Mercy.

misericordia communis. A fine imposed upon a community or a county.

misfeasance. The improper doing of an act which a person might lawfully do. Greenberg v Whitcomb Lumber Co. 90 Wis 225, 63 NW 93. The unlawful and injurious exercise of lawful authority, or the doing of a lawful act in an unlawful manner. Alias v Rumson, 115 NJL 593, 181 A 175, 102 ALR 648. The performance of a duty or act which one ought or has a right to do but in a manner such as to infringe upon the rights of others. Anno: 20 ALR 104.

misfeasance in office. The performance by a public officer in his official capacity of a legal act in an improper or illegal manner. State ex rel. Hardie v Coleman, 115 Fla 119, 155 So 129, 92 ALR 988. A common-law offense, generally termed "official misconduct," and composed of the commission of a series of unlawful acts. State v Bolitho, 103 NJL 246, 261, 136 A 164, 172.

misfeasant. A person guilty of misfeasance; a trespasser.

misfeasor. Same as misfeasant.

misfire. The failure of a cartridge to explode and propel the bullet when the trigger of the firearm is pulled. The ignition of the gas in the combustion chamber of an internal combustion engine at the wrong time or in an ineffective manner.

misfortune. Ill luck; ill fortune; calamity; the suffering of a loss. Anthony & Co. v Karbach, 64 Neb 509, 90 NW 243.

mishering. A freedom or exemption from amercement.

mishersing. Same as mishering.

misjoinder of causes of action. The impropriety in joining in one complaint, declaration, or petition distinct causes of action which should not be joined because of the want of consistency between them, because they do not affect all defendants named in the action, because they do not arise out of the same transaction, or because of other circumstance precluding joinder under the practice in the particular jurisdiction. I Am J2d Actions §§ 100 et seq. A term sometimes used to characterize the improper blending of two or more causes of action in one count of a complaint, declaration, or petition. 41 Am J1st Pl § 107.

misjoinder of parties. The defect of having made parties of record to an action persons who are neither necessary nor proper parties. 39 Am J1st Parties § 118.

miskening. An error in quoting or citing.

[807]

miskering. Same as mishering.

mislabeling. Affixing to an article offered for sale a label which is false or misleading in such particular as to deceive the public in reference to the weight, quantity, or measure of the article. 56 Am J1st Wts & L § 64. Affixing to a package of food a label which incorrectly states the identity, composition, quality, strength, or purity of the article. 22 Am J1st Food § 36. Affixing to the wrapper or container of a drug, or accompanying a drug with, a label which is false or misleading in any particular. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 30.

See misbranding.

mislaid goods. See mislaid property.

mislaid property. Property located in a place of which the owner has no recollection, although he put the property in such place voluntarily and intentionally. 1 Am J2d Aband § 2. Property placed by the owner in a location which he has forgotten, albeit he selected it intentionally as a place where he might later pick up the property. 34 Am J2d Aband § 3.

misleading. Leading into error. Deceiving.

As used in a statute forbidding corporations from taking a name so clearly resembling that of an existing corporation as to be misleading, the word is not synonymous with "confusing," but it means calculated to lead astray or lead into error persons who are contemplating or who are engaged in transactions with an existing corporation. Diamond Drill C. Co. v International Diamond Drill C. Co. 106 Wash 72, 179 P 120.

mismanagement. Improper management or inefficient management, particularly on the part of an officer, agent, trustee, or other person in a fiduciary capacity. Violation of the rules established by charter or bylaws or a culpable lack of prudence on the part of the officers of a corporation in whom the duty of management is vested. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1332.

misnomer. A mistake in a name; the giving of an incorrect name to a person in an accusation, indictment, pleading, or instrument. Culpepper v State, 173 Ga 799, 161 SE 623, 79 ALR 217. A mistake in the name of the plaintiff or defendant in a writ or process. Anno: 124 ALR 86 et seq. A mistake in the name of a party to an action, whether an individual or a corporation. 39 Am J1st Parties § 109. A mistake in the designation of a party or parties to a deed. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 51. In reference to a corporation, something more than a mere variation in words and syllables; such an interpolation, omission, or alteration of words as to constitute a failure to distinguish the corporation from all others. 18 Am J2d Corp § 144.

mispleading. The commission of essential error in pleading a cause of action or defense. Lovett v Pell (NY) 22 Wend 369, 375.

misprision. Contempt of the state, particularly in neglect of duty, obstruction of justice, or the concealment of crime. In loose usage, error or mistake. Merrill v Miller, 28 Mont 134, 72 P 423; Barone v Barone, 207 Or 26, 294 P2d 611.

misprision of felony or treason. The common-law offense of failure to inform the authorities as to a treason or felony that one has witnessed or that has come to his knowledge; the failure to prevent a felony from being committed. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 7. The federal offense of failure to disclose a felony coupled with some positive act of concealment, such as suppression of evidence, harboring of a criminal, intimidation of witnesses, or other positive act designed to conceal from the authorities the fact that a crime has been committed. Bratton v United States (CA10 Okla) 73 F2d 795. The concealment or failure promptly to disclose and make known to the President or some Judge of the United States, or to the Governor or some judge or justice of a particular state knowledge of the commission of any treason against the United States, such concealment or failure to disclose being that of one owing allegiance to the United States. 18 USC § 3.

misreading. The perpetration of a fraud upon a person who signs an instrument by purporting to read the contents to him, but by reading something very different. First Nat. Bank of Sturgis v Deal, 55 Mich 592, 593.

misrecital. A misstatement of a fact or facts.

misrepresentation. The statement of an untruth. A misstatement of fact, which, if accepted, leads the mind to an apprehension of a condition other and different from that which exists. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 2. In application for insurance:—a statement as a fact of something which is untrue, and which the insured states with the knowledge that it is untrue and with an intent to deceive, or which he states positively as true without knowing it to be true, and which has a tendency to mislead, where such fact in either case is material to the risk. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 698.

missed charge. An unexploded charge of explosive. 22 Am J2d Explos § 26.

missed hole. A hole drilled in a rock quarry or mine and charged with dynamite or other explosive, which has failed to explode. Stears v Reidy, 33 Ill App 246, 247.

missile. A thrown object.

Missing Persons Act. Statute providing for the disposition of the property of a person by administration in the probate court where such person has been absent so long and under such circumstances pertaining to his disappearance and continued absence that he is reasonably and fairly presumed to be dead. 1 Am J2d Absent § 3. A federal statute relative to persons presumed to have been killed in action in the armed service and to certain other persons in government service. 50 USC Appx §§ 1001-1017.

missing ship. A ship which is presumed to have been lost because of her long absence without having been heard from.

missio. (Civil law.) A sending; a putting.

missio in bona. (Civil law.) The putting a creditor in possession of his debtor's goods under an execution.

missio iudicum in consilium. (Civil law.) The sending out of the judges to determine upon their decision.

missionary. One sent by a religious society to labor for the propagation of the faith, particularly in a foreign country or in a neglected field in this country. Anno: 17 ALR 1052. In a broader sense, a person who labors for a cause whether in the social, commercial, or political field.

Mississippi River flood control. See flood control; Flood Control Act.

[808]

missive. See letter; message.

Missouri Compromise. The provisions in the act of Congress passed in 1820 admitting the state of Missouri into the Union, whereby slavery was prohibited north of latitude 36° 30' n., excepting in that state.

misstaicus. A messenger.

misstatement. A statement which is in error.

mistake. An erroneous mental conception which influences a person to act or omit to act. Nye v Sochor, 92 Wis 40, 65 NW 854. From the standpoint of relief in equity, some unintentional act, omission, or error, arising from ignorance, surprise, imposition, or misplaced confidence. Scurry v Cook, 206 Ga 876, 59 SE2d 371. As ground for relief by reformation of instrument, an unintentional act, omission, or error arising from ignorance, surprise, imposition, or misplaced confidence. Britton v Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. 165 NC 149, 80 SE 1072.

See unilateral mistake.

mistake of fact. An active mistake, consisting in the belief of existence of a matter or thing which is nonexistent, or vice-versa, or a passive mistake, consisting of unconsciousness, ignorance, or forgetfulness of a fact material to the transaction. Kowalke v Milwaukee Electric R. & Light Co. 103 Wis 472, 79 NW 762. A ground for cancellation of an instrument whether the instrument relates to an executory agreement or to one that has been executed, providing it affects the substance of the contract and is not a mere incident of the agreement. Steinmeyer v Schroepfel, 226 Ill 9, 80 NE 564. As ground for relief in equity by reformation of instrument:—(1) an unconscious ignorance or forgetfulness of a fact past or present and material to the contract; or (2) a belief in the present existence of a thing material to the contract which does not exist, or in the past existence of such a thing which has not existed. 45 Am J1st Reform Inst § 47. In the making of a payment:—a mistaken belief that the money was due the payee, when in truth it was neither legally nor morally due. 40 Am J1st Paym § 189.

mistake of law. An erroneous conclusion by one having a full knowledge of the facts as to their legal effect. Birkhouser v Schmitt, 45 Wis 316. An erroneous opinion or inference arising from an imperfect or incorrect exercise of the judgment upon the facts as they really are. Kowalke v Milwaukee Electric R. & Light Co. 103 Wis 472, 79 NW 762.

mistake of law and fact. A mistake of fact induced by a mistake of law, as in making a payment. 40 Am J1st Paym § 90.

mistery. A trade; a calling; a business.

mistress. A woman who is the head of a household or of an institution such as an orphanage. A female who engages in sexual intercourse with a certain man for an extended period of time, sometimes receiving support money from him.

mistrial. The effect of prejudicial error which cannot be corrected or obviated by any action taken by the court. The equivalent of no trial; a nugatory proceeding.

Where a jury is discharged without a verdict, the proceeding is properly known as a mistrial; and where a verdict is set aside because it ought not to stand, the result is the same. The proceeding has miscarried, and the consequence is not a trial but a mistrial. Fisk v Henarie (CC Or) 32 F 417, 427.

misuse. See misuser.

misuser. The use of the privileges and franchises conferred upon a corporation in such manner as to defeat the ends for which the corporation was established. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1618. A wilful abuse or improper neglect of corporate privileges and franchises. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1619. The use of a franchise contrary to the conditions prescribed therein, 36 Am J2d Franch § 54, such as a refusal to comply with a rate ordinance. 36 Am J2d Franch § 18. The wrongful use or the failure to use a power. Erie & North-East Railroad Co. v Casey, 26 Pa 287, 318. The use of property for a purpose for which it was not designed. 18 Am J2d Conversion § 48. Use of dedicated land for any purpose other than that for which it was dedicated. 23 Am J2d Ded § 67.

mitigate. Verb: To lessen in severity or burden. To reduce: as, where the crime of murder may be reduced to manslaughter by the production of evidence of the defendant's insanity. See Sinclair v State, 161 Miss 142, 132 So 581, 74 ALR 241. Noun: The reduction of damages or punishment by reason of extenuating facts or circumstances.

mitigation of damages. Broadly, every fact tending to decrease the damages allowable in an action. 22 Am J2d Damg § 200. More precisely, those facts which tend to show that the conceded or assumed cause of action does not entitle the plaintiff to as large an amount of damages as otherwise would be recoverable. 22 Am J2d Damg § 200.

There are three typical situations within the more limited definition:—(1) that the plaintiff reasonably could have avoided a part or all the consequences of the defendant's wrongful act; (2) that the plaintiff received a benefit as a result of the defendant's wrongful act; and (3) that in cases where the defendant's conduct is material to the damages recoverable, his conduct was not as wrongful as plaintiff claims. 22 Am J2d Damg § 200.

mitigation of punishment. Lessening the punishment to be inflicted upon a convicted criminal out of consideration of circumstances such as former good behavior, the background of the defendant, the payment of damages by the defendant to the injured person, etc. 21 Am J2d Crim L §§ 584 et seq.

mitiori sensu. See in mitiori sensu.

mitior sensus. A more favorable meaning or interpretation.

Mitius imperanti melius paretur. The more gently a person commands, the better he is obeyed.

mittendo tenorem recordi. See de mittendo tenorem recordi.

mitter. To put; to send; to permit.

mitter à large. To permit to go at large.

mitter avant. To set before; to produce, as, to produce in court.

mittere. To send; to put; to permit; to discharge; to release.

mittere in confusum. To put into hotchpot.

See hotchpot.

[809]

mitter le droit. To pass a right; as if a man be disseised, and release to his disseisor all his right, the disseisor acquires a new right, which changes the quality of his estate, and renders that lawful which before was tortious or wrongful. See 2 Bl Comm 325.

mitter l'estate. To pass an estate; as where one of two coparceners releases all her right to the other, thus passing the fee-simple of the whole. See 2 Bl Comm 324.

mittimus. A warrant of commitment to jail or prison. Biddle v Shirley (CA8 Kan) 16 F2d 566.

mixed action. An action appertaining in some degree to both real and personal actions, and therefore properly referable to neither of such classes. To illustrate, an action for the recovery of the possession of real property and damages for waste committed by the defendant. Thayer v Shorey, 287 Mass 76, 191 NE 435, 94 ALR 307.

mixed ambiguity. An ambiguity partaking of the nature of both a latent and a patent ambiguity. 30 Am J2d Ev § 1073.

mixed blood. Characterizing a person whose ancestors were of different races of men.

mixed blood Indian. Any Indian having an identifiable admixture, however small, of white blood. United States v First Nat. Bank, 234 US 245, 58 L Ed 1298, 34 S Ct 846.

mixed contract. A contract in which the values of the respective considerations are unequal.

mixed estate. A ground rent lease for ninety-nine years, renewable forever. Jones v McGruder (DC Md) 42 F Supp 193.

mixed gift. A gift in which there is included both real and personal property.

mixed government. A government partaking of the attributes of a democracy, a monarchy and an aristocracy at the same time.

mixed insurance company. An insurance company which embodies the characteristics of both a mutual company and a stock company. State v Willett, 171 Ind 296, 86 NE 68. An insurance company that has, at least in part, the nature of both stock and mutual companies, a certain portion of the profits being divided among the stockholders and a distribution of other accumulated funds made among the persons insured. Pink v Town Taxi Co. 138 Me 44, 21 A2d 656.

mixed jury. A jury composed of both men and women. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 101. A jury composed of persons of different races. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 99. An English jury which was composed of men half of whom were of the same nationality as the foreigner who was a party to the action and the other half Englishmen.

mixed larceny. Same as compound larceny.

mixed marine policy. A time and voyage policy wherein the voyage is designated by the policy, but the risk is limited to a specified time. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 324.

mixed marriage. A marriage between persons of different races.

See miscegenation.

mixed nuisance. A nuisance which is both public and private in its effects—public, because it violates public rights, and injures many persons, or all the community; and private, in that it also produces special injury to private rights. 39 Am J1st Nuis §§ 6, 7.

mixed penal law. A law concerned with both the thing to be declared a crime or offense and the punishment.

mixed powers. The mingling of powers normally divided between the executive, legislative, and judicial departments of government. The existence in one department of government of powers generally similar to those of another department, for example, the blending in the legislative powers of the United States of the judicial power of trying impeachments. 16 Am J2d Const L § 214.

mixed property. That kind of property which is not altogether real or altogether personal, but a compound of both, for example, heirlooms, tombstones, keys to a house, fixtures, etc. 42 Am J1st Prop § 28.

mixed question of law and fact. In loose usage, a question, the determination of which involves both law and fact.

There is really no such thing. What is sometimes so misnamed is a question which depends for its solution upon a question or questions of law and a question or questions of fact; but every such complicated proposition, when analyzed, is resolved into its elements of well-defined questions either of law or of fact, to be decided either by the judge or by the jury. State v Hayes, 162 La 917, 923, 111 So 327.

mixed tithes. Those tithes which consisted of natural products which had been nurtured and preserved in part by the care of man, such as of wool, milk, pigs, etc.

One tenth of these products had to be paid in gross, while in respect to personal tithes, only a tenth of the net gains or profits had to be paid. See 2 Bl Comm 24.

mixed train. A railroad train which combines both freight and passenger service. Arizona Eastern Railroad Co. v State, 29 Ariz 446, 242 P 870.

mixed war. A kind of war which can be carried on only between a nation on the one side and private individuals on the other. People v McLeod (NY) 1 Hill 377, 25 Wend 483.

mixing. See commingling of funds; commingling of goods.

mixtion. Confusion,—the mingling of the goods of different owners.

M'Naghten Test. The right and wrong test of criminal responsibility, the terminology being taken from the title of an English Case. M'Naghten's Case, 10 Clark & F 200, 8 Eng Reprint 718.

See right and wrong test.

moat. A ditch filled with water surrounding a fortified town or castle, forming an added protection against invaders.

mob. A large and aggravated riot. Anno: 52 ALR 563. A riotous assemblage. An unorganized assemblage of many persons intent on unlawful violence either to persons or property. Anno: 13 ALR 770, s. 23 ALR 300, 44 ALR 1142, 52 ALR 563. Three or more persons assembled together with intent to do any unlawful act with force and violence against the person or property of another, or to do any unlawful act against the peace, or who, being lawfully assembled, shall agree with each other to do any unlawful act, and shall make any movement or preparation therefor. Blakeman v City of Wichita, 93 Kan 444, 144 P 816.

Blackstone defines the term as the riotous assembling of twelve persons, or more, and not dispersing upon proclamation. See 4 Bl Comm 142.

mobile home. A house resting upon wheels, or so constructed that wheels may easily be placed under it, for easy transportation along the highway to another location.

mobile station. A radio-communication station capable of being moved. United States v Betteridge (DC Ohio) 43 F 53.

mobilia. Latin for movables.

Mobilia inhaerent ossibus domini. Movables cling to the bones of their owner. Holbrook v Ford, 153 Ill 633, 39 NE 1091.

Mobilia non habent situm. Movables have no situs. Wyeth Hardware & Co. v H. F. Lang & Co. 127 Mo 242, 29 SW 1010.

Mobilia personam sequuntur. See mobilia sequuntur personam.

mobilia sequuntur personam. Movables follow the person.

Personal property, no matter how ponderous or unwieldy, in legal contemplation changes location with every change of the owner's domicil. 16 Am J2d Confl L, § 29.

mob violence. The characteristic of mob action.

See mob.

mock. To deride; to laugh at; to ridicule; to treat with scorn and contempt. State v Warner, 34 Conn 276, 279. To imitate in fun or jest.

mock marriage. A marriage performed by way of a jest, with no intention of entering into a contract of marriage or assuming the marital relationship, rights, and duties. Anno: 11 ALR 215.

mode. Manner or method, especially in reference to practice and procedure. Beers v Haughton (US) 9 Pet 329, 360, 9 L Ed 145, 157.

model. A style or design, especially of an automobile. A plan or design for the production and reproduction of works of art. 17 USC § 5(g). A copy or imitation of an object. State v Fox, 25 NJL 566, 602. Someone or something to be admired and imitated. One who wears clothing or jewelry by way of exhibiting it to prospective buyers.

model act. A statute proposed by the National Conference of Commissioners of Uniform State Laws for adoption in the various states as a uniform law.

For particular acts, see the concrete titles, such as Administrative Procedure Act; Nuclear Facilities Liability Act.

model training school. A school conducted in connection with a normal school or college of education for use in teacher training. School Dist. v Bryan, 51 Wash 498, 99 P 28.

moderamen inculpatae tutelae. (Roman law.) The regulation of excusable protection; that is, lawful self-defense.

moderata misericordia. A writ to prevent an excessive amercement or fine.

moderata misericordia capienda. See de moderata misericordia capienda.

Moderate castigavit. He moderately chastised; that is, in a reasonable manner.

moderate speed. Speed, whether of a motor vehicle, train, or ship, which is not excessive under the circumstances or in violation of statute or ordinance. 8 Am J2d Auto § 716.

As applied to navigation, the rule by which to determine whether a given rate of speed is moderate or excessive, in view of the particular circumstances of the occasion, is that such speed only is moderate as will permit the steamer seasonably and effectually to avoid collision by slackening speed, or by stopping and reversing, within the distance at which an approaching vessel can be seen. Macham v New York (CC NY) 35 F 604, 609.

moderator. One who conducts a meeting, particularly one for discussion of propositions and courses of action to be taken, such as the synod or assembly of a religious body. Primarily, the presiding officer at a town meeting. Wheeler v Carter, 180 Mass 382, 386, 62 NE 471.

Modica circumstantia facti jus mutat. A trifling circumstantial fact may change the law.

modicam castigationem adhibere. To administer moderate chastisement. See 1 Bl Comm 445.

modification. See alteration; amendment; change.

modification of alimony. A modification of a judgment for alimony. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 655.

modification of award. A change effected by board, commission, or court of an award of workmen's compensation. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 499.

modification of contract. A change in the terms of a contract by a new or secondary agreement. 17 Am J2d Contr § 458.

modification of custody. The modification of an order awarding custody of a child or children to one of the parties in a suit for divorce. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 812.

modification of judgment. A change in the terms, rather than the reversal of, a judgment. 5 Am Jur 2d A & E § 937. Correcting a judgment to make it speak the truth of what was decided. Changing the terms of a judgment upon sufficient grounds presented therefor. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 656.

modification of lease. A change in the conditions of a lease by agreement subsequent to the execution of the lease. 32 Am J1st L & T § 147.

modification of statute. See amendatory statute.

modification of support. The modification of a judgment or decree for support of spouse or child. 24 Am J2d Div & S §§ 655, 844.

modify. To change or vary, not to create.

A power given to modify or abolish implies the existence of the subject matter to be modified or abolished. When exercised to modify, it does not destroy identity, but effects some change or qualification in form or qualities, powers or duties, purposes or objects, of the subject matter to be modified, without touching the mode of creation. State v Lawrence, 12 Or 297, 7 P 116.

See expressions beginning modification.

modius. A measure; a Roman dry measure equal to a little less than two imperial gallons.

[811]

modo ad hunc diem. See et modo ad hunc diem.

modo decimandi. See de modo decimandi.

modo et forma. In the manner and form. Krause v Board of School Trustees, 162 Ind 278, 283, 70 NE 264.

modus. (Civil law.) Mode; manner; method; form; a measure.

Modus dat legem donationi. The form provides the law for the gift.

modus decimandi. Manner of tithing.

Any means whereby the general law of tithing was altered, and a new method of taking tithes was introduced, was called a "modus decimandi," or special manner of tithing. It was commonly called by the simple name of a "modus." See 2 Bl Comm 29.

modus de non decimando. A manner or custom of not paying tithes.

Where particular persons or lands had become discharged or exempted by immemorial usage or custom from the payment of tithes they thus acquired a prescriptive immunity from such payment, which was called a "modus de non decimando." See 2 Bl Comm 29.

Modus de non decimando non valet. A modus or prescriptive exemption from the payment of tithes is not valid.

This was the rule as to lay tenants, but spiritual persons or corporations, such as monasteries, abbots, bishops, and the like were always capable of having their lands totally discharged of tithes by various means. See 2 Bl Comm 31.

Modus et conventio vincunt legem. The form and the agreement control the law. Merchants' Bank v State Bank (US) 10 Wall 604, 19 L Ed 1008, 1018.

modus habilis. A proper manner.

modus injuriae. The means of injury. Terrell v Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co. 110 Va 340, 66 SE 55.

Modus legem dat donationi. It is the form which gives validity to a gift. See 2 Bl Comm 310.

modus levandi fines. The manner of levying fines.

modus operandi. The method of operation.

modus tenendi. The manner of holding,—the character of the tenure.

modus transferendi. The manner of transferring.

modus vacandi. The manner of vacating or relinquishing.

modus vivendi. The mode of living.

moenia. See intra moenia.

moerda. The ancient Teutonic word for murder. 4 Bl Comm 194.

Mohammedanism. A religion founded by Mohammed, who is regarded by its followers known as Moslems as the true prophet, based upon a belief in one God, Allah, 'out accepting Jesus Christ as a prophet, although lesser than Mohammed. Hale v Everett, 53 NH 9.

moiety. A part; a fraction of a thing.

See advowson of the moiety; taking by moieties; undivided interest.

Moiety Act. An act of Congress providing for the forfeiture of smuggled goods and for an equal division of them between the informer and the government. United States v Auffmordt (DC NY) 19 F 893.

molding. An ornament on the cornice, eaves or surface of a building, becoming involved in litigation where it encroaches on the adjoining premises. 1 Am J2d Adj L § 123.

molendinum. A mill for grinding grain.

molestation. Interference with a church service or other meeting. Annoyance of, or interference with, a person, particularly where the victim is a child.

molestation clause. A provision in a separation agreement that the husband will not disturb, molest, or visit the home of the wife, except as business relations may require a visit. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 923. A comparable clause wherein the wife covenants that she will not molest, disturb, or speak disparagingly of the husband. Verdier v Verdier, 133 Cal App 2d 325, 284 P2d 94; Smith v Smith, 225 NC 189, 34 SE2d 148, 160 ALR 460.

molitura libera. The liberty of having one's grain ground at a certain mill without cost.

molliter. Gently; softly; easily.

molliter manu. Gently with the hand.

molliter manus imponere. To lay hands gently. State v Durham, 141 NC 741, 53 SE 720.

Molliter manus imposuit. He gently laid hands upon him.

molutus. Ground.

momentary delivery. A colorable delivery of property to vest title in the vendee. 37 Am J2d Frd Conv § 49.

momentary seisin. Seisin for an instant; sufficient to endow the wife of the man seized. 25 Am J2d Dow § 29 momentum. A moment of time; an instant. The product of the mass of a moving object and its linear velocity.

monarch. A king.

monarchy. A government entrusted in the hands of a single person. See 1 Bl Comm 49.

monasterium. A monastery; a church.

monastery. A place of residence for monks and other persons who have retired from the world or desire for the time to lead the contemplative life.

moneta. Coined metal; money, the term deriving from the temple of Juno Moneta wherein Roman money was coined.

Moneta est justum medium et mensura rerum commutabilium, nam per medium monetae fit omnium rerum conveniens, et justa aestimatio. Money is the just medium and measure of merchantable goods, for through the medium of money a convenient and proper estimate of all things is made.

[812]

Monetandi jus comprehenditur in regalibus quae nunquam a regio sceptro abdicantur. The right of coining money is included among those royal prerogatives which are never renounced by the royal scepter.

monetary loss. A loss measurable in money.

money. Currency; current funds. Reese v First Nat. Bank (Tex Civ App) 196 SW2d 48, 171 ALR 516, error ref n r e. Cash or coin. Re Rogers, 91 NJ Eq 294 109 A 16. Cash, including both coin and paper. 36 Am J1st Money § 2. In a specific sense, that which is coined or stamped by public authority as a medium of exchange and has its value fixed by public authority. 36 Am J1st Money § 2. The medium of exchange recognized by the custom of merchants and the laws of the country. 36 Am J1st Money § 2. In a general or comprehensive sense, wealth, commodities, everything transferrable in commerce. 36 Am J1st Money § 2. A generic term covering everything which by common concept represents property and passes currently from hand to hand without necessity for inquiry as to title. 11 Am J2d B & N § 11. A term of flexible meaning in a will, having either a restricted or a wide significance, according to the context of the will in which it occurs and those surrounding circumstances which the court is bound to consider in construction, sometimes meaning wealth or property, particularly personal property. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1349.

See pin money; ready money; suit money.

money claims. Claims or demands for money arising out of express or implied contracts. All rightful claims, whether founded upon contract, tort or penalties given by statute. Dittman Boot & Shoe Co. v Mixon, 120 Ala 206, 210, 24 So 847.

money counts. Money had and received money lent, and money paid. 1 Am J2d Actions § 13.

money demand. See money claims.

money deposit. A deposit of money or its equivalent in check, draft, etc. National Surety Co. v Canon, 62 Colo 401, 163 P 284.

moneyed capital. Capital in money employed in a business the object of which is the making of a profit by the use of such money as money. 51 Am J1st Tax § 271.

moneyed corporation. A corporation organized for profit. Anno: 22 ALR2d 1026, § 2. A commercial or business corporation rather than a charitable corporation. In the popular sense, a bank or finance company.

The term is defined by New York statute to mean every corporation having banking powers, or having the power to make loans upon pledges or deposits, or authorized by law to make insurances. Platt v Wilmot, 193 US 602, 611, 48 L Ed 809, 813, 24 S Ct 542.

money had and received. One of the common counts in assumpsit. 1 Am J2d Actions § 13.

An action originally for the recovery of debt, favored because more convenient and flexible than the common-law action of debt, has been gradually expanded as a medium for recovery upon every form of quasi-contractual obligation in which the duty to pay money is imposed by law independent of contract express or implied in fact. Stone v White, 301 US 532, 81 L Ed 1265, 57 S Ct 851.

money in court. See deposit in court.

money judgment. A judgment calling for the payment of a sum of money of one party to the other. A judgment which can be fully satisfied by a payment of money. Fuller v Aylesworth (CA6 Mich) 75 F 694, 700.

money land. Money held under trust to convert it to land.

money lender. A person who lends money as a business, particularly a person who makes small loans upon chattel security and salary assignments. 40 Am J1st Pawnb § 11.

money lent. One of the common counts in assumpsit. 1 Am J2d Actions § 13.

money made. Money collected by a sheriff or other officer under a writ of execution. In a more common sense, money earned by work or accumulated by way of taking a profit on an investment.

money of adieu. Earnest-money paid to bind a bargain, whereupon the parties bade each other adieu.

money of estate. A peculiar expression, the meaning of which may be explained by proof of a trade usage or custom. Howe v Hartness, 11 Ohio St 449.

money on hand. Sometimes including bank deposits, sometimes not. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1354.

money only. A phrase expressive of legal rather than equitable relief. Anno: 154 ALR 113.

money order. An instrument issued by an authorized officer of a bank and directed to another bank, evidencing the fact that the payee may demand and receive upon indorsement and presentation to the bank the amount stated on the face of the instrument, liability for payment resting solely on the issuing bank. 10 Am J2d Bks § 545. Broadly, any order for the payment of money, including a check or bank draft. McDougall v Lueder, 389 Ill 141, 58 NE2d 899, 156 ALR 1059. A telegraphed order for the payment of money, being a convenient method of transmitting money to a person at a distance.

See post-office money order.

money paid. One of the common counts in assumpsit. 1 Am J2d Actions § 13.

money paper. Commercial paper, investment paper, and commodity paper. UCC §§ 3-104, 7-104, 8101, Comment 2.

money rent. Rent payable in money. 32 Am J1st L & T § 61.

moneys. The plural of money and nothing more. Mann v Mann (NY) 14 Johns 1.

Mongolian. A person of the yellow race. A native of Inner Mongolia or of Outer Mongolia.

monition. A citation in a suit in admiralty. 2 Am J2d Adm § 153. A notice in a proceeding in rein for the forfeiture of property, citing the owners and all other persons claiming any right, title, or interest in the property seized to appear and show cause on or before a day named why forfeiture of the property should not be decreed in accordance with the prayer of the libel or information. 36 Am J2d Forf & P § 36. Notice of a proceeding in prize court, summoning all persons interested to show cause against the condemnation of the property as prize of war, such notice being issued and published upon the filing of the libel. 56 Am J1st War § 185.

[813]

monocracy. A government with a single ruler.

monocrat. The ruler of a monocracy.

monogamy. The state or condition of a person who has but one spouse at a time.

monomachy. Single combat; a combat between two persons; a duel.

monomania. Partial or illusional insanity. People v Hubert, 119 Cal 216, 51 P 329; Commonwealth v Rogers, 48 Mass (7 Met) 500. Insanity upon one subject.

monomaniac. A person insane on a particular subject, sane upon all other matters. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 3.

Monopolia dicitur, cum unus solus aliquod genus mercaturae universum emit, pretium ad suum libitum statuens. A monopoly is said to exist when one person alone buys the whole of some sort of merchandise, fixing the price to his own fancy.

monopolium. Same as monopoly.

monopoly. Broadly, the sole power of dealing in an article or doing a specified thing, either generally or in a particular place. 36 Am J1st Monop etc. § 2. A means of suppressing competition by the unification of interest or management or through agreement and concert of action. 36 Am J1st Monop etc. § 2.

monopoly of any part. An expression of the Federal Antitrust Act; a monopoly of any part of interstate or foreign trade or commerce. Lorain Journal Co. v United States, 342 US 143, 96 L Ed 162, 72 S Ct 181; United States v Paramount Pictures, 334 US 131, 92 L Ed 1260, 68 S Ct 915.

monopoly of trade. The acquisition of an exclusive right to, or the exclusive control of, a trade. 36 Am J1st Monop etc. § 2.

monoxide. See carbon monoxide.

monoxide poisoning. See carbon monoxide poisoning.

Monroe Doctrine. A principle established as a policy of the United States, asserting its right to resist any European interference with the affairs of the governments of the American republics.

The doctrine took its name from President Monroe, although it appears that John Quincy Adams, the Secretary of State in President Monroe's cabinet formulated the doctrine for enunciation.

monster. A plant or creature terribly deformed. A human-being by birth, but in some part resembling a lower animal.

"A monster . . . hath no inheritable blood, and cannot be heir to any land, albeit it be brought forth in marriage; but, although it hath deformity in any part of its body, yet if it hath human shape, it may be heir." 2 Bl Comm 246.

monstrans de droit. A showing or setting forth of the right by the defendant in an action at common law under an information for trespass upon lands of the commonwealth. Commonwealth v Hite, 33 Va (6 Leigh) 588.

monstrans de faits. A showing of deeds; a profert of deeds.

monstraverunt. See writ of monstraverunt.

monte. A game of chance played with cards of different colors, the gamble being on the color of a card to be dealt from a deck.

montes pietatis. Rocks of benefaction,—pawn-shops.

They were probably so called because they were, as they still are, in many cases, patronized for the most part by poor persons.

month. A division of time, to be computed by the calendar, unless a contrary meaning is indicated by the statute or contract under construction. 52 Am J1st Time § 11. A calendar, rather than a lunar month. McGinn v State, 46 Neb 427, 65 NW 46 (constitutional provision respecting effective date of statute). For the purpose of computation of time of payment, a calendar month. 11 Am J2d B & N § 291; 40 Am J1st Paym § 13. As the term is used in a lease, a calendar month, as distinguished from a lunar month. 32 Am J1st L & T § 138. A calendar month for the purposes of a statute fixing the period of time for taking an appeal. 4 Am J2d A & E § 296.

monthly reporting policy. An insurance policy containing the requirement of monthly reports by the insured to the insurer of the value of the property covered under the policy, its exact location, and all other specific insurance in force on such property. Anno: 13 ALR2d 718; 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 975.

monticolis Walliae. See de monticolis Walliae.

month to month tenancy. See tenancy from month to month.

monument. A tombstone. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 322. A memorial to a deceased person, usually but not necessarily at his grave; a shaft or stone, not a building. Fancher v Fancher, 156 Cal 13, 103 P 206. Something more imposing than a mere gravestone. Fancher v Faucher, 156 Cal 13, 103 P 206. A marker of stone or metal of a point of historical interest, particularly a battlefield. 26 Am J2d Em D § 63. A physical object on the ground, natural or artificial, such as tree, stone, fence, etc., establishing or tending to establish a boundary line. Delphey v Savage, 227 Md 373, 177 A2d 249.

As the expression is used in a will providing for the erection of a "suitable monument" to the memory of the testator, the word "suitable" gives play to the discretion of the executors in the selection of the monument, its form and style, with reference to the amount of money set apart for the purpose. See Fancher v Fancher, 156 Cal 13, 103 P 206.

Monumenta quae nos recorda vocamus sunt veritatis et vetustatis vestigia. Those monuments which we call records are the marks of truth and antiquity.

moonlighting. The pursuit by a public officer or public employee of employment or occupation apart from that of his public office or employment. Anno: 88 ALR2d 1235.

moonshine. An alcoholic liquor which has been illicitly, illegally, and clandestinely made. Everhart v State, 194 Tenn 272, 250 SW2d 368; State v Wills, 91 W Va 659, 114 SE 261, 24 ALR 1398. Whiskey which has been illicitly distilled or produced; whiskey unlawfully and illegally manufactured. State v Charette, 75 Mont 78, 242 P 343.

moor. To fasten and hold a vessel to anchor or pier by cable or chain. To tie floating logs to a structure, natural or artificial, on shore of the stream. 34 Am J1st Logs § 74.

[814]

moorage. A fee for the privilege of mooring a vessel. Wharf Case (Md) 3 Bland 361, 373.

moored vessel. A vessel at anchor or secured by cable.

Moore v Littel. A famous New York case, reported in 41 NY 33, holding that by virtue of a statute of the jurisdiction, where there is a person in being who would have immediate right to the possession of the land if the intermediate or precedent estate were presently terminated, the remainder is vested and not contingent, notwithstanding the estate may be defeated by subsequent events.

The specific holding is that under a conveyance to one for life and after his decease to his heirs and assigns forever, the remainder is vested. Moore v Littel, 41 NY 66.

mooring. A place to moor a vessel.

See moor.

mooring in good safety. Placing a vessel in position to discharge her cargo. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 330.

moot case. A case involving only abstract questions; a case without relevancy to any controversy between the parties. Reserve Life Ins. Co. v Frankfather, 123 Colo 77, 225 P2d 1035, 39 ALR2d 146.

See moot question.

moot court. A practice or simulated court where law students conduct fictitious suits.

moot question. An abstract or academic question. A hypothetical question. 1 Am J2d Actions § 56. A question which does not rest upon existing facts or rights; a question as to which in reality there is no actual controversy existing; a question which involves no right actually asserted and contested. 5 Am J2d A & E § 762. A question not arising on the facts presented in the case, but existing only in the light of hypothetical circumstances. Associated Press v NLRB, 301 US 103, 81 L Ed 953, 57 S Ct 650. A question which has lost significance because of a change in the condition of affairs between the parties, whether before or after the commencement of the action. 1 Am J2d Actions § 56. In another sense of the term, a debatable point which has never been decided, at least not in the jurisdiction.

mora. A delay; a pause; a hindrance.

See ex mora; in mora.

mora debitoris. See ex mora debitoris.

moral. Adjective: Upright; virtuous, especially in matter of sex. Noun: A principle for determining that which is right and that which is wrong.

moral and social duty. See moral obligation.

moral certainty. See proof to a moral certainty.

moral character. See bad moral character; character; good moral character.

moral coercion. Importunity or overpersuasion in stressing the necessity of action or inaction, sometimes amounting to undue influence. 25 Am J2d Dur § 36. A form of duress. 13 Am J2d Cane Inst § 28. Imposition, oppression, undue influence or the taking of undue advantage of the business or financial stress or extreme necessity or weakness of another. Lafayette Dramatic Productions v Ferentz, 305 Mich 193, 9 NW2d 57, 145 ALR 1158.

moral compulsion. See moral coercion.

moral consideration. A consideration which is good only in conscience.

The idea that in every case where a person is under a moral obligation to do an act, as to relieve one in distress by personal exertions, or to spend money, a promise to that effect would bind him in law, is not supported by principle or precedent. It is a just rule of morality, sanctioned by the highest authority that a man should do towards others what he might reasonably expect from them under like circumstances. But a promise to fulfil the moral obligation created by this rule would not be enforced in any court of justice. Municipal laws will not decide what honor and gratitude ought to induce. It must be left to the forum of conscience. Cook v Bradley, 7 Conn 57.

moral duress. See moral coercion.

moral duty. See moral obligation.

moral eviction. The conduct of a landlord in rendering the premises unfit for the occupation of the tenant, without actually taking possession of any part of the land, as by introducing women of ill fame into other parts of the house. Campbell v Shields, 11 How Pr 365.

moral evidence. Evidence which is not demonstrative in character but of probative value in instructing the trier of the facts upon the issues of fact.

moral fraud. A fraud or deceit which involves moral wrong.

moral hazard. An expression of the insurance business; the chance or risk of the insured destroying the property, or permitting it to be destroyed, for the purpose of collecting the insurance.

In the law of fire insurance, the term is but another name for a pecuniary interest in the insured to permit the property to burn. Statistics, experience, and observation all teach that the moral hazard is least when the pecuniary interest of the insured in the protection of the property against fire is greatest, and that the moral hazard is greatest when the insured may gain most by the burning of the property. Syndicate Ins. Co. v Bohn (CA8 Neb) 65 F 165.

moral insanity. Such mental disease as destroys the ability to distinguish between right and wrong in a particular act; a perversion of the moral sense. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 3.

morality. That which teaches men their duty, and the reason of it; the rule which teaches us to live soberly and honestly. The virtues of justice, prudence, temperance, and fortitude. Lyon v Mitchell, 36 NY 235, 238.

moral law. The law, in a very broad sense of the term "law," of conscience.

Judge Dillon, in his Commentary on the Laws and Jurisprudence of England and America, says: "Not less wondrous than the revelations of the starry heavens, and much more important, and to no class of men more so than lawyers, is the moral law which Kant found within himself, and which is likewise found within, and is consciously recognized by, every man. This moral law holds its dominion by divine ordination over us all, from which escape or evasion is impossible. This moral law is the eternal and indestructible sense of justice and of right written by God on the living tablets of the human heart and revealed in his Holy Word." Moore v Strickling, 46 W Va 515, 33 SE 274.

morally wrong. See wrong.

moral mania. The same as moral insanity.

moral obligation. A duty arising from or connected with what was once a legal liability or from the receipt of benefit of a material or pecuniary nature. 17 Am J2d Contr §§ 132 et seq. An obligation arising from ethical motives, or a mere conscientious duty, unconnected with any legal obligation, perfect or imperfect, or (under the later cases) with the receipt of benefit by the promisor of a material or pecuniary nature. 11 Am J2d B & N § 219; 17 Am J2d Contr § 130. An obligation which, although lacking any foundation cognizable in law, springs from a sense of justice and equity that an honorable person would have, but not from a mere sense of doing benevolence or charity. People v Westchester County Nat. Bank, 231 NY 465, 132 NE 241, 15 ALR 1344.

[815]

As the term "moral and social duty" is used in the law pertaining to privileged communications, it has been defined as a duty recognized by English people of ordinary intelligence and moral principle but at the same time not a duty enforceable by legal proceedings, whether civil or criminal. The question is "would the great mass of right-minded men in the position of the defendant have considered it their duty, under the circumstances, to make the communication." See Watt v Longsdon (Eng) 1 K. B. 130, 69 ALR 1005.

See moral consideration.

moral restraint. A restraint upon the actions of a person, not by the exertion of physical power or the giving of directions, orders, or commands, merely by his conformity to wishes or desires of another. 25 Am J1st Hab C § 24.

moral turpitude. Baseness, vileness, or depravity in the private and social duties which a man owes to his fellowmen or to society in general. Huff v Anderson, 212 Ga 32, 90 SE2d 329, 52 ALR2d 1310; Re Henry, 15 Idaho 755, 99 P 1054; State v Malusky, 59 ND 501, 230 NW 735, 71 ALR 190. Something immoral in itself, irrespective of the fact that it is punished by law. Ex parte Mason, 29 Or 18, 43 P 651.

The term "crime involving moral turpitude" as found in the Immigration Act connotes something more than "illegal" or "criminal". It implies an act which is contrary to the accepted and customary standard of right and duty between man and man prevailing in the United States. The test is not dependent upon a classification between felonies and misdemeanors nor upon a distinction between infamous and not infamous offenses. Jordan v DeGeorge, 341 US 223, 95 L Ed 886, 71 S Ct 703, reh den 341 US 956, 95 L Ed 1377, 71 S Ct 1011.

morandae solutionis causa. For the sake of delaying payment.

Mora reprobatur in lege. Delay is disapproved in the law.

morari. To delay; to hinder; to pause.

moratoria. Plural of moratorium.

moratorium. A period during which an obligor has a legal right to delay meeting an obligation. Anno: 137 ALR 1380. Legislation extending the time for payment of indebtedness. 3 Am J2d Agri § 30. Legislation providing in some manner for the temporary relief of debtors, particularly of those in the Armed Service, during the existence of war. Anno: 137 ALR 1380, 147 ALR 1311. The suspension of remedies against lessees. 32 Am J1st L & T § 1034.

moratory interest. Interest allowed in an action for breach of contract or tort for the unlawful detention of money found to be due. 22 Am J2d Damg § 179.

moratory statute. A statute granting a moratorium. Anno: 137 ALR 1380.

moratory tables. Same as mortality tables.

Moratur in lege. He delays or pauses in law; that is, he demurs.

morbosus. Sickly; diseased; worn out.

morbus soticus. (Civil law.) An illness which incapacitated a person from attending to his business.

more colonico. In a husbandlike manner.

more definite and certain. Relief sought by motion in reference to a pleading that is not sufficiently full, definite, and certain to enable the adverse party to prepare a responsive pleading or to prepare for trial, sought by the adverse party on motion addressed to the defective pleading. 41 Am J1st Pl § 359.

more necessary public use. A comparative presented in certain eminent domain cases.

Where land which has already been appropriated to a public use is sought to be condemned for "a more necessary public use," there are cases holding that the new use must be an absolute public necessity, but other cases hold that there may be a new taking if it be simply for a greater public good. Butte, Anaconda & Pacific Railway Co. v Montana Union Railway Co. 16 Mont 504, 41 P 232.

more or less. A phrase qualifying a statement of an absolute and definite amount, 46 Am J1st Sales § 155, for the purpose of providing against slight, accidental variations. M. W. Kellogg Co. v Standard Steel Fabricating Co. (CA10 Okla) 189 F2d 629, 26 ALR2d 1090. An expression used as an estimate of an otherwise designated quantity, to be interpreted broadly or narrowly according to the context in which it appears. 17 Am J2d Contr § 282. A term in a bill of lading leaving it open to the carrier to make a showing of the whole situation with respect to the quantity received for transportation and the quantity delivered, in determining the liability for deficiency at destination. Anno: 67 ALR2d 1043, § 5; 13 Am J2d Car § 283. Words, which, as applied to quantity of land, are intended to cover some slight or unimportant inaccuracy in description. 12 Am J2d Bound § 75. An expression used in connection with a designation of courses and distances in a boundary, to be disregarded if not controlled or explained by references to monuments, markers, or other expressions of intention, and to be given meaning and effect when so controlled and explained. Inglson v Olson, 199 Minn 422, 272 NW 270, 110 ALR 167; Sowles v Minot, 82 Vt 344, 73 A 1025. A term which, when included in a deed in describing the property conveyed according to a certain number of acres, serves to confine the land conveyed to land within boundaries designated in the description. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 240.

There is no doubt of the general proposition that where the words "more or less" are used as an estimate of an otherwise designated quantity and the object of the parties is the sale or purchase of a particular lot, as a pile of wood or coal, the cargo of a particular ship, or a certain parcel of land, the words used in connection with the estimated quantity are susceptible of a broad construction, and the contract will be interpreted as applying to the particular lot or parcel, provided it is otherwise sufficiently identified. Pine River Logging & Improv. Co. v United States, 186 US 279, 46 L Ed 1164, 22 S Ct 920. If the agreement is to manufacture, furnish, or deliver certain property not then in existence, or to be taken from a larger quantity, the addition of the words "more or less" will be given a narrow construction and held to apply only to such accidental or immaterial variations in quantity as would naturally occur in connection with such a transaction. Pine River Logging & Improv. Co. v United States, 186 US 279, 46 L Ed 1164, 22 S Ct 920.

more specific statement. Relief sought in reference to statement of cause of action or defense on a motion by the adverse party addressed to the pleading.

more than ordinarily legitimate. An anomalous expression which might well be dropped from the language of courts and lawyers.

A child is thus characterized by Blackstone, where, if a man dies and his widow soon marries, and then a child is born at such time that it might naturally be the child of either husband. In such a case, the child may, upon arriving at the age of discretion, choose either of the two men as his father. See 1 Bl Comm 456.

morganatic marriage. Under the law of some countries, a man's marriage to a woman of lower rank who does not share his rank nor enjoy full legal rights as a wife.

morgangiva. A gift made to a bride on the morning of her wedding.

Morgan Plan Company. A company which, while engaged in lending money, does so on a basis distinguishing it quite clearly from an institution operating in competition with a national bank. First Nat. Bank v Louisiana Tax Com. 289 US 60, 77 L Ed 1030, 53 S Ct 511, 87 ALR 840.

morgengeba. Same as morgangiva.

morgue. A place where the bodies of unidentified dead persons are kept and exposed to view for the purpose of identification or that they may be claimed by their friends. Koebler v Pennewell, 75 Ohio St 278, 288. Also the place where the body of a person whose death raises a suspicion of murder or foul play is kept pending an inquest.

Mormon. The name of a religious body founded by Joseph Smith in 1830, otherwise known as the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. A member of the Mormon Church.

Mormon divorce. An invalid divorce consisting of an agreement by the parties to the marriage, with the consent of the church, to dissolve the marital relation. Hilton v Roylance, 25 Utah 129, 69 P 660.

Mormon marriage. A marriage by means of the sealing ceremony entered into before a proper official by members of the Mormon Church competent to contract marriage. Hilton v Roylance, 25 Utah 129, 69 P 660.

moron. Broadly, a person so retarded mentally as to be stupid. Technically, one whose mental performance is not above that of a child between the ages of seven and twelve. State v Driver, 88 W Va 479, 107 SE 189, 15 ALR 917, 921.

morphine. A principal alkaloid of opium; a narcotic, People v Clark, 7 Ill 2d 163, 130 NE2d 195, the two usual forms of which are morphine hydrochloride and morphine sulphate.

Morphine hydrochloride is a chemical combination of morphine and hydrochloric acid and morphine sulphate is a chemical combination of sulphuric acid and morphine. It is generally held that, in an indictment for selling such drugs, the word

"morphine" is sufficiently specific to charge the selling of any of these compounds. Jefferson v State, 34 Okla 56, 244 P 460; Hoffman v United States (CA8 Minn) 20 F2d 328.

Morris Plan bank. A bank of a particular type, organized and operating for the primary purpose of enabling wage earners of good character to obtain credit on an instalment basis. Morris Plan Co. v Currie (Sup App T) 161 NYS 292. A company which, while engaged in lending money, does so on a basis distinguishing it quite clearly from an institution operating in competition with a national bank. First Nat. Bank v Louisiana Tax Com. 289 US 60, 77 L Ed 1030, 53 S Ct 511, 87 ALR 840.

Morris Plan Company. Same as Morris Plan bank.

mors. Death.

Mors dicitur ultimum supplicium. Death is called the extreme penalty or the extremity of punishment.

Mors omnia solvit. Death dissolves, unbinds, or releases everything.

mort. Death.

mortal. Death-producing; coming to an end eventually by death. Man as a creature who must die. State v Baker, 122 Kan 552, 253 P 221.

mortality. The matter of being mortal. The death rate in a country, a state, a locality, or a family or other group of persons.

mortality tables. Statistical tables which show the probable expectancy or continuance of life of a normal person according to sex and age. 30 Am J2d Ev § 894.

mortal sin. A sin which exposes to death ultimately, unless forgiven. State v Baker, 122 Kan 552, 253 P 221.

mortal wound. A fatal wound. 26 Am J1st Homi § 265. A wound which is death-producing. State v Baker, 122 Kan 552, 252 P 221.

mort civile. Civil death,—the cessation of all of a person's legal rights and capacities.

mort d'ancestor. The death of an ancestor; a writ of assize to recover land from an abator of which the demandant's father or mother, brother or sister, uncle or aunt, nephew or niece had died seised. See 3 Bl Comm 185.

Morte donantis donatio confirmatur. A gift is confirmed by the death of the donor.

mortgage. In the ancient sense, an estate in mortuo vadio or dead pledge. At common law, a qualified estate under a conditional conveyance given by way of security for the performance of an obligation, usually one for the payment of money. In the modern sense, a security or lien for the performance of an obligation. 36 Am J1st Mtg § 2. A conveyance of property to secure the performance of some obligation, the conveyance to be void on the due performance of the obligation. 36 Am J1st Mtg § 2.

mortgageable property. Property which can be subjected to a mortgage, the term usually being used in reference to personal property and chattel mortgages. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 21.

mortgage-bond. A bond which is secured by a mortgage.

mortgage clause. Same as mortgagee clause.

mortgage company. See loan company.

mortgage coupon bond. See coupon bond.

mortgage debentures. Debentures by which specific funds or property are pledged as security. Barton Nat. Bank v Atkins, 72 Vt 33, 45, 47 A 176. A paradoxical expression if the definition of debenture as a bond secured, at best, by a pledge of income be accepted.

See debenture.

mortgage deed. A deed given by way of security; a mortgage.

mortgagee. The person to whom a mortgage is made.

A mortgagee is held to be a "purchaser" within the meaning of a statute entitling the widow of a nonresident alien to the same rights in her husband's property as a resident, except as against a "purchaser" from her husband. Estate of Gill, 79 Iowa 296, 44 NW 553.

mortgagee clause. A clause in a policy of insurance covering property which provides for the payment of the proceeds of the policy in the event of a loss to the mortgagee under a mortgage on the insured premises, to the extent of the amount of the mortgage. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 728.

mortgagee in possession. A mortgagee in possession of the property mortgaged to him.

An expression adopted by courts and law writers as a convenient phrase to describe the condition of a mortgagee who is in possession of mortgaged premises under such circumstances as to make the satisfaction of his lien a prerequisite to his being dispossessed, even in jurisdictions where the mortgage itself can confer no possessory right either before or after default; but the authorities are in some confusion as to what these circumstances are. It has been said that the possession must be "lawfully" acquired, or "without force;" that it must be taken under the mortgage, and because of it; that it need not be under the mortgage, nor with a view thereto; that it must be with the consent of the mortgagor, express or implied, etc. But there is probably no case limiting the right of a mortgagee to hold property of which he is in lawful possession to a case where such possession was with the consent of the mortgagor. Stouffer v Harlan, 68 Kan 135, 74P610.

mortgage of goods. A chattel mortgage, a mortgage of personal property.

mortgage of patent. A mortgage of a patent right, the recording of which in the Patent Office, in accordance with the federal statute, is the equivalent of delivery of possession.

mortgagor. A person who mortgages his property to another; the maker of a mortgage.

mortgage pool. A trust created by the owners of several or even many mortgages in transferring the instruments to a trustee to hold for the benefit of the transferrers. Anno: 107 ALR 1458.

mortgage tax. A tax imposed with reference to the recording of a mortgage. 51 Am J1st Tax § 1257.

morth. (Saxon.) Murder.

morthlaga. A murderer.

morthlage. Murder. mortician. An undertaker.

mortification. Extreme embarrassment; humiliation. Mental suffering constituting an element of damages for false imprisonment. 32 Am J2d False Imp § 114. Decay, particularly of the body or a part thereof.

mortis causa. By reason of death; in expectation of death.

Mortis momentum est ultimum vitae momentum. The moment of death is the last moment of life. Terrill v Public Administrator, (NY) 4 Bradf 245, 250.

mortmain. Literally, the dead hand. Property held out of circulation.

To alienate land in mortmain was to convey it to a corporation, aggregate, ecclesiastical or temporal. Perm v Carey, 65 US 465, 16 L Ed 701, 708.

At one time in England, all purchases of land by corporations were said to be purchases in mortmain. Various reasons have been advanced for this. One given by Blackstone is that purchases made by corporations were usually made by ecclesiastical corporations, the members of which having taken the vows of a religious order were reckoned as dead persons in law. See 1 Bl Comm 479.

mortmain statutes. Statutes having the purpose of preventing an uneconomic accumulation of property in control of corporations, either lay or ecclesiastical. Perin v Carey (US) 24 How 465, 16 L Ed 701, 708. The British statutes, 15 Rich. II, ch. 5 (in Am J2d Desk Book Document 107) and 9 George II, ch. 36.

The purpose of the British mortmain act, 9 George 2, chap. 36, was to prevent property from falling into "dead" or unserviceable hands, such as a charitable use was deemed to be. Yates v Yates (NY) 9 Barb 324, 333.

mortua manu. See in mortua manu.

mortuary. A place to which dead bodies may be taken for keeping before burial or cremation. A kind of ecclesiastical heriot in the form of a customary gift claimed by and due to the minister in many parishes on the death of a parishioner. See 2 Bl Comm 425.

mortuary tables. Same as mortality tables.

mortuo vadio. See estate in mortuo vadio.

mortuum vadium. Dead pledge. A landed security known to the common law; a feoffment on condition that the feoffor might re-enter if he paid to the feoffee a certain sum of money at a certain date. 36 Am J1st Mtg § 12.

mortuus. Dead.

Mortuus est. He is dead.

Mortuus exitus non est exitus. A dead issue is not an issue; a child born dead is no child.

mortuus sine prole. Dead without issue.

Moslem. See Mohammedanism. mos pro lege. Custom instead of law. mosquito regulation. A health regulation respecting water in which the larvae of the mosquito may be nourished. Territory v Araujo, 21 Hawaii 56.

[818]

Mos retinendus est fidelissimae vetustatis. A custom of truest antiquity should be preserved.

most favored nation clause. The clause of a treaty between two nations under which either of the parties or its diplomatic or consular representative is entitled to all the rights and privileges of those of the nation most favored by a treaty made with it by the other party. 4 Am J2d Ambss § 19.

mostrencos. (Spanish.) Estrays; waifs.

most significant contract theory. A recently formulated principle of conflict of laws, that in determining the law applicable to the execution, interpretation, validity, and performance of a contract, the court shall look to the law of the place which has the most significant contacts with the matter in dispute. 16 Am J2d Confl L § 42.

mote. A very small particle. (Saxon.) A meeting; a court; a popular assembly.

mot en mot. See de mot en mot.

motel. A structure in several separate units, located along the highway or close to a highway, at which motorists may obtain lodging with parking space and, in some instances, meals. A place of accommodation where lodgings are available for hire, with a minimum of personal service furnished by the proprietor. Schermer v Fremar Corp. 36 NJ Super 46, 114 A2d 757.

mothball fleet. Ships of the Navy taken out of service but held to await necessity for further service.

mother. The female parent.

mother country. In popular usage, England. More precisely, in reference to any part of the United States, the country from whose dominion such part was taken, for example, the status of Mexico in reference to California. 29 Am J2d Ev § 50.

mother-in-law. The mother of one's husband or of one's wife.

mother's natural guardianship. The succession of the mother to the guardianship of her natural children upon the death of her husband and their father, upon his abandonment of the family, or upon his removal from the guardianship of the children by the court. 25 Am J1st G & W § 7.

mother's pension. A means whereby mothers who are without means of support for their children may maintain the family relation not subject to the disgrace attendant on support furnished under the poor law; a provision for the payment of a definite sum, to be fixed by some public agency or court, for the mother and each child, leaving the mother free to spend the money in her own way. State ex rel. Stearns County v Klasen, 123 Minn 382, 143 NW 984.

mother state. The state from which the state of the forum was formed, for example, the status of Virginia in reference to West Virginia. Martin v Baltimore & O. R. Co. 151 US 673, 38 L Ed 311, 14 S Ct 533.

motion. The means of presenting a proposition in a meeting conducted according to parliamentary procedure. An application, normally incidental to an action, made to a court or judge for the purpose of obtaining an order or rule directing something to be done in favor of the applicant. 37 Am J1st Motions § 3.

For particular motions, see the specific relief demanded, such as more specific statement; judgment on the pleadings, nonsuit, etc.

motion costs. The cost pertaining to the bringing on and hearing of a motion. 20 Am J2d Costs § 9.

motion of court. See own motion.

motion picture. See moving picture.

motion day. A day appointed by the court for the hearing of motions.

motion man. The status of one working premises as a licensee under license granted by the owner, particularly one working a quarry. Rockport v Rockport Granite Co. 177 Mass 246, 254.

motion of course. A motion which the opposite party cannot resist without supporting affidavits.

motivation test. A test applied in determining the application of a guest statute to a paying passenger in a motor vehicle, according to whether or not the expectation of payment or compensation was "the" or "the sole" motivating factor for the furnishing of the transportation. McCann v Hoffman, 9 Cal 2d 279, 70 P2d 909.

motive. The reason which leads the mind to desire a result. Baker v State, 120 Wis 135, 97 NW 566. The moving cause which induces action, having wholly to do with desire. 26 Am J1st Homi § 36. The power which impels to action for a definite result; that which leads or tempts the mind to indulge in a criminal act. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 85. The object and purpose of contracting parties. 17 Am J2d Contr § 246.

motive power. The power to move something, such as a vehicle, a bus a railroad train, or an airplane. 44 Am J1st RR § 402.

motor. A source of power; the engine of a motor vehicle.

motorboat. Literally a boat or small craft having a motor or engine for power. For the purposes of regulations prescribed by federal statute, every vessel propelled by machinery and not more than 65 feet in length, except tugboats or towboats propelled by steam, including a boat temporarily or permanently equipped with a detachable motor. 46 CFR § 24.10-17.

Motorboat Act. A federal statute regulating the operation of motorboats in order to promote safety in recreational boating and to encourage uniformity of regulation among the states and the federal government. 12 Am J2d Boats § 4.

See Boating Act.

motorbus. See bus.

motorcar. An automobile. A self-propelled car running on a railroad track.

motor carrier. A carrier by motor vehicle. A carrier operating one or more motor vehicles for the purpose of carrying passengers or freight or both, for hire and profit, over the public highways as a transportation roadbed. Barbour v Walker, 126

Okla 229, 259 P 552. The term includes both a common carrier by motor vehicle and a contract carrier by motor vehicle. Section 303(a) of the Motor Carrier Act of 1935; Interstate Commerce Com. (DC Okla) 41 F 268.

Motor Carrier Act. A comprehensive federal statute applicable to motor carriers transporting passengers or property in interstate or foreign commerce. 49 USC §§ 301 et seq.

[819]

motor carrier transportation agent. A person who acts as an intermediary between the public and a motor carrier in arranging for transportation. Francis v Allen, 54 Ariz 377, 96 P2d 277, 126 ALR 190.

motorcycle. A two-wheeled automotive vehicle having one or two riding saddles and sometimes having a third wheel for the support of a sidecar. 7 Am J2d Auto § 2. Not a motor-driven car. Anno: 138 ALR 420; 38 ALR2d 882.

motor-driven car. An automobile. An automobile having a body and cover for the convenience and protection of persons riding in it. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1239.

motorman. A person who operates a streetcar, being in control of the motive power and brakes and under responsibility of maintaining a lookout for persons on the tracks.

motor number. The number given a motor vehicle by the manufacturer, such being normally embossed upon the engine or motor.

motor train. A railroad motorcar with or without trailers attached, but operated as a train. Anno: 45 ALR2d 438.

motor transportation. The business of carrying passengers or freight in powered vehicles.

motor transportation company. A corporation which provides or furnishes transportation service for hire for the public in general. Affiliated Service Corp. v Public Utilities Com. 127 Ohio St 47, 186 NE 703, 103 ALR 264.

motor truck. See motor vehicle; truck.

motor vehicle. An automobile; any vehicle powered by a motor, such as a truck or bus. State v Ridinger (Mo) 266 SW2d 626, 42 ALR2d 617. Any vehicle propelled by power, other than muscular power, except a traction engine or such motor vehicle as runs only upon rails or tracks. People v Smith, 156 Mich 173, 120 NW 581. For some purposes, a tool or implement. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 62.

Motor Vehicle Theft Act. A federal statute, commonly known as the Dyer Act, making it an offense to transport in interstate or foreign commerce a motor vehicle, knowing the same to have been stolen, or to receive, conceal, store, barter, sell, or dispose of a motor vehicle which constitutes interstate or foreign commerce, knowing the same to have been stolen. 7 Am J2d Auto § 305.

moulding. Same as molding.

mountain time. The time in one of the belts designated for the determination of standard time, such belt being characterized by the Rocky Mountains located therein.

See standard time.

mourant. Dying.

movable freehold. A term applied facetiously to land likely to be gained or lost to the owner by the recession or encroachment of the sea or by change in the course of a stream. Holman v Hodges, 112 Iowa 714, 84 NW 950.

movable rights. Rights in movables; rights in personal property.

movable property. Personal property, including negotiable instruments. 6 Am J2d Attach § 150.

See movables.

movables. Movable property which attends a man's person wherever he goes such as money, clothing, furniture, boats, automobiles, etc. 42 Am J1st Prop § 24. Broadly, personal property.

move. To change position. To change the position of something. To change one's residence or domicil. Barstow v Stone, 10 Colo App 296, 52 P 48. To make a motion; to do whatever things are necessary to be done to obtain an order which the moving party desires that the court should make. O'Hanion v Great Northern Railway Co. 76 Mont 128, 245 P 518.

See motions; removal.

movement freedom. See freedom of movement.

movement of traffic. The movement of vehicles upon a street or highway. 25 Am J1st High §§ 204 et seq.

movent. A moving party, a party who makes a motion. movie. A moving picture.

moving building. The operation of moving a building from one location to another, usually, but not necessarily, accomplished with the building remaining intact throughout the operation.

A building may, be "removed," as a building, that is, as a standing building, intact, but that is not the only way. It may be "removed," within the common understanding, by taking the material and reconstructing, or rebuilding it at another locality. Board of Education v Townsend, 63 Ohio St 514, 59 NE 223.

moving company. A company engaged in the business of moving goods, particularly household goods and furniture, either short distances or long distances the same company often being engaged also in the storage or warehouse business. Having the status of a common carrier where it holds itself out as engaged in the business for all who choose to employ it. 13 Am J2d Car § 17.

moving in commerce. Being transported or moved in commerce. Not inclusive of the holding of sheep at a commercial stockyard, not for immediate shipment, but for fattening and sale, either locally or at a distant place, at some future time. Kirk v St. Joseph Stock Yards Co. (CA8 Mo) 206 F2d 283, 40 ALR2d 980.

moving papers. The affidavits submitted in support of a motion. 37 Am J1st Motions § 14.

moving picture. A form of entertainment; a form of theatrical performance. The casting of photographs or other representations upon a screen in such rapid succession as to create the illusion of moving people or things, usually accompanied in present times by the reproduction of sound. 4 Am J2d Amuse § 2.

moving picture censorship. See copyright.

moving picture booker. One employed by a motion picture distributing agency to keep records of films sent from out of the state to the agency, to supervise the supplying of such films to exhibitors, and to direct their transportation. Republic Pictures Corp. v Kappler (CAS Iowa) 151 F2d 543, 162 ALR 228, affd 327 US 757, 90 L Ed 991, 66 S Ct 523, reh den 327 US 817, 90 L Ed 1040, 66 S Ct 804.

moving picture license. A license required by a municipal corporation of one exhibiting moving pictures as a business. 4 Am J2d Amuse § 30.

moving picture show. An entertainment offered to the public by way of an exhibition of moving pictures. A place where motion pictures are exhibited for the purpose of amusement and entertainment; a public place of amusement. State v Morris, 28 Idaho 599, 155 P 296.

[820]

See moving picture.

moving picture rights. The right to reproduce in a moving picture, with or without sound, a substantial part of the story told in a literary work. Anno: 23 ALR2d 267.

moving picture theater. A theater in which the entertainment offered consists of moving pictures.

See moving picture show.

moyen. Same as mesne.

m.p. Abbreviation of melting point, used in scientific works.

M.P. Abbreviation of Military Police. Abbreviation of member of parliament.

m.p.h. Abbreviation of miles per hour.

Mr. Abbreviation of mister.

Mrs. The title preceding the name of a married woman.

ms. Abbreviation of manuscript.

MS. Abbreviation of motor ship.

M.S. Abbreviation of Master of Science.

M.S.T. Abbreviation of mountain standard time.

mud guards. Rear wheel protectors on motor vehicles, otherwise known as splash guards, to prevent so far as practicable, the throwing of dirt, water, or other materials on pedestrians and other vehicles, particularly the windshields of following vehicles. 7 Am J2d Auto § 159.

muffler. Equipment on the motor of a motor vehicle to prevent excessive noise from the exhaust. 7 Am J2d Auto § 158. Required equipment upon the engine of a motorboat; under some statutes. 12 Am J2d Boats § 12.

mugging. The practice of photographing persons arrested for crime. An assault by throwing an arm around the neck of the victim, usually upon an approach from behind, the purpose being to overpower the victim so that he can be robbed.

mulatto. In the popular sense of the term, a person with mixed white and Negro blood. Precisely, one born of a white parent and a Negro parent. Daniel v Guy, 19 Ark 121, 131.

It is contrary to the laws of nature for both parents of a mulatto to be persons of the white race. 10 Am J2d Bast § 43.

mulct. Noun: A fine imposed for an offense; a penalty. Cook v Marshall County, 119 Iowa 384, 93 NW 378. Verb: To take by fraud or deceit.

Mulctis damnum famae non irrogat. A fine does not inflict damage upon a person's reputation.

mulct tax. A fine or penalty imposed for the purpose of suppressing certain trades or traffic in certain commodities upon which it is assessed, and as a punishment for engaging in such traffic; as where such a tax is laid on cigarettes in order to suppress the traffic in them. Cook v Marshall County, 119 Iowa 384, 93 NW 378. A tax imposed upon person and premises for selling intoxicating liquor in violation of law. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 443.

mule. The hybrid offspring of a jackass and a mare of the horse family. An animal most valuable to the United States Army and to the American farmer prior to the advent of powered vehicles and implements.

See hinny.

mulier. A matron. The status at common law of a woman after her marriage to the father of her son born out of wedlock. See 2 Bl Comm 248.

mulier puisne. The status of the younger son born in wedlock of parents whose older son was born out of wedlock. 2 Bl Comm 248.

Muller Rule. The rule that if one with full knowledge of the evil propensities of a dog or other animal either wantonly excites it or voluntarily and unnecessarily puts himself in the way of the animal, he cannot recover from the harbinger for an injury resulting from an attack by the dog or other animal. Anno: 66 ALR2d 930, 968; 4 Am J2d Am § 107.

Malta conceduntur per obliquum quae non conceduntur de directo. Many things are permitted indirectly which are not permitted directly.

Malta fidem promissa levant. Many promises weaken confidence. Brown v Castles, 65 Mass (11 Cush) 346, 350.

Malta ignoramus quae nobis non laterent si veterum lectio nobis fait familiaris. We are ignorant concerning many things which would not be obscure to us if the reading of the ancients were familiar to us.

Malta in jure communi contra rationem disputandi pro communi utilitate introducta sunt. Many things have been introduced into the common law which are contrary to logical reason, for the sake of the common welfare.

Malta multo exercitatione facilius quam regulis percipies. You perceive many things much more easily by practice than by rule.

Malta non vetat lex, quae tamen tacite damnavit. There are many things which the law does not forbid, which it nevertheless tacitly condemns.

Malta transeunt cum universitate quae non per se transeunt. Many things pass with the whole which do not pass by themselves.

multifactual statement. A statement of two or more distinct facts, sometimes of fact, argument, and conclusion interwoven. Securities & Exchange Com. v Micro-Moisture Controls (DC NY) 21 FRD 164.

multifariousness. The joining or uniting in a declaration, bill, or complaint of two or more matters which are independent of, or unconnected with, one another. Roney v Chicago Title & Trust Co. 354 Ill 144, 188 NE 194. A term loosely applied to the joinder as defendants or plaintiffs of persons without a common interest in the litigation. Essen v Adams, 342 Mo 1196, 119 SW2d 773, 118 ALR 1393. The joining in a statute of dissimilar and discordant subjects. Boise City v Baxter, 41 Idaho 368, 238 P 1033.

multimember district. A legislative district entitled to two or more members of the legislative body. 25 Am J2d Elect § 25.

[821]

Multi multa; nemo omnia novit. Many persons know many things; no one knows all things.

multiphase. Operating in two or more phases, particularly a flow of electricity. Harrison v Detroit, Y. A. A. & J. R. Co. 137 Mich 78, 100 NW 451.

multiple agency. See dual agency.

multiple banking. Banking conducted by means of bank holding companies. 10 Am J2d Banks § 16.

multiple bill of exceptions. One bill embracing several exceptions. 4 Am J2d A & E § 428.

multiple damages. See double damages; treble damages.

multiple deeds. The deeds of two or more persons required in the fulfillment of the vendor's obligation under a land contract. 55 Am J1st V & P § 317.

multiple defendants. Two or more defendants in one action.

multiple dwelling. An apartment house; a flat. A tenement house. Any structure for the accommodation of two or more families or households in separate living units.

Multiple dwelling as violation of restrictive covenant using word "house". See Anno: 14 ALR2d 1425.

multiple evidence. Evidence having probative value in more than one phase; sometimes admitted for one specific purpose to which it is confined. Green v Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Co. 136 SC 337, 343, 134 SE 385.

multiple family house. See multiple dwelling.

multiple interest. The penalty for usury; interest in twice the amount of the interest received from the victim. 55 Am J1st Usury § 144.

multiple issues. Two or more issues in one case.

multiple liability restriction. A clause in a contract for the renewal of a bond which limits the extent of the liability of the surety. 12 Am J2d Bonds § 46.

multiple libels. A method of proceeding for condemnation of misbranded drugs. 21 USC § 334(a).

multiple licensing. Licensing requirements respecting the same trade, imposed by both municipal and state authorities. 41 Am J1st Plumb § 5.

multiple parties. Two or more parties on one side.

multiple poinding. Double distress,—a Scotch proceeding akin to the modern interpleader, whereby a person in possession of money or goods may have the same distributed to the various claimants who are entitled thereto..

multiple proceedings. See multiplicity of suits.

multiple publication rule. The rule that there is a cause of action in favor of the defamed person in every state in which libel is published. Anno: 58 ALR2d 654 § 3.

multiple residence. See multiple dwelling.

multiple sclerosis. A disease of the nervous system evidenced by muscular weakness and tremors. Anno: 68 ALR2d 171-176.

multiple sentence. A sentence of one convicted as habitual criminal, providing a penalty equal to double or treble the penalty imposed for the first offense. Anno: 58 ALR 99, s. 82 ALR 379, 116 ALR 236.

multiple signers. Two or more persons signing as makers of a promissory note.

multiple-stage taxes. Sales taxes applicable to the various transactions in the progress of goods from producer or manufacturer to ultimate consumer, such, for example, as sales by or to wholesalers. 47 Am J1st Sales T § 1.

multiple taxation. See double taxation.

multiple venue. The venue of a criminal prosecution for an offense which began in one district and ended in another. Anno: 5 L Ed 2d 974.

multiplex. A newly-coined word for a multiple dwelling. The system by which two or even several telephone or telegraph messages may be transmitted over one wire at the same time.

Multiplex et indistinctum parit confusionem; et questioner quo simpliciores, et lucidiores. Multiplicity and indistinctness produce confusion; and the more simple questions are, the more lucid they are.

Multiplicita transgressione crescat poenae inflictio. The infliction of punishment should increase with the repetition of the offense.

multiplicates. Two or more copies of a document.

multiplication. The reproduction of copies of literary, artistic, or intellectual works. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 1.

multiplicity of suits. A ground of injunctive relief; something beyond the mere number of suits. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 50.

The mere number of actions which might otherwise be brought does not, in and of itself, constitute a ground for equitable jurisdiction, nor is there any fixed number of actions which will constitute a multiplicity of suits so as to require or justify the assumption of equitable jurisdiction. In order for equity to act on the ground of avoidance of a multiplicity of actions, there must exist in the situation presented to the court something more than the mere number of actions to be avoided, such as the necessity of relief against repeated wrongs, and in any event there must be a community of right, interest, or issues in an action in equity. 27 Am J2d Eq § 48.

multiseller. A gambling device. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 28.

multistate corporation. A corporation incorporated under the laws of more than one state. Re Lyon, 144 App Div 104, 128 NYS 1004.

Multitudinem decem faciunt. Ten make a multitude.

Multitudo errantium non parit errori patrocinium. The multitude of erring persons does not furnish an excuse for error.

Multitudo imperitorum perdit curiam. A multitude of unskillful practitioners ruin a court.

multitude of suits. A number of suits, but to be distinguished from multiplicity of suits from the standpoint of equity jurisdiction. 27 Am J2d Eq § 48.

multiversity. A word newly coined for a university containing many schools, colleges, and departments, and attended by an overwhelming number of students.

[822]

multi will. A will executed by more than one testator; a joint will.

multo fortiori. With much more force; much more forcibly.

Multo utilius est pauca idonea effundere, quam multis inutilibus homines gravari. It is much more useful to bring forth a few worthy things than that men should be burdened with many useless things.

multure. A payment which was made in grain for the grinding of grain.

mund. (Saxon.) Peace.

mundbrye. (Saxon.) A breach of the peace.

munera. Plural of moons.

municeps. (Roman law.) A citizen of a town; a person qualified to hold office.

municipal. Pertaining to the internal government of a state or nation; pertaining to a town or city or to its local government. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 3. Belonging to a city, town, or place having the right of local government; belonging to or affecting a particular state or separate community; local; particular; independent.

The word is usually applied to what belongs to a city, but has a more extensive meaning, and is in legal effect the same as public or governmental, as distinguished from private. Cook v Portland, 20 Or 580, 27 P 263.

The word strictly applies only to what belongs to a city. The word is derived from the Latin word "municipium," meaning a city. In modern times, however, the word municipal has expanded in its meaning and it extends to that which pertains to the state as well as that which pertains to the city, as distinguished from that which is international. Winspear v Holman, 37 Iowa 542, 544.

municipal affairs. The internal business affairs of an incorporated town or city.

An exhaustive account of matters which have been held to come within this definition and of others which have been held not to come within it, will be found in the opinion of Timlin, J., in State, ex rel. Mueller v Thompson, 149 Wis 488, 137 NW 20.

municipal aid. The aid or assistance of a municipality given to a private enterprise, usually to cause it to locate therein. Aid formerly extended to a railroad company for the purpose of obtaining railroad service or connections. 44 Am J1st RR § 50.

municipal aid bonds. See aid bonds; private object.

municipal bond. A public security; a bond issued by a municipality. An evidence of indebtedness issued as one of a series of instruments issued at the same time by a city, town, or other corporate public body, negotiable in form, payable at a designated future time, and intended for sale in the market with the object of raising money for a municipal improvement the expense of which is beyond the immediate recourses of reasonable taxation, and payment of which of necessity or reason should be distributed over a period of years. 43 Am J1st Pub Sec § 6.

municipal bounty. See local bounty.

municipal bylaw. A term used in England and to some extent in this country for what is better known as a municipal ordinance. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 142.

municipal commissioners. See commissioners of municipality.

municipal contract. A public contract. A contract entered into by a municipal corporation. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp §§ 493 et seq.

municipal corporation. A body politic and corporate constituted by the incorporation of the inhabitants of a city or town for the purposes of local government thereof. A city or town or the local government thereof. Anno: 108 ALR 577 (within meaning of tax exemption statute.) A territorial or political subdivision established by the state for the purpose of administering local government. Lane v Minnesota State Agri. Soc. 62 Minn 175, 64 NW 382. The body politic created by organizing the inhabitants of a prescribed area, under the authority of the legislature, into a corporation with all the usual attributes of a corporate entity, but endowed with a public character by virtue of having been invested by the legislature with subordinate legislative powers to administer local and internal affairs of the community, and established as a branch of the state government to assist in the civil government of the state. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 3.

This term includes a county in that it also is a subdivision of the state. Williams v Wylie, 217 SC 247, 60 SE2d 586, 21 ALR2d 717.

See municipal purposes.

municipal corporation by prescription. A municipal corporation which has exercised its powers so long without objection upon the part of the state government that, although no charter is in existence, it is presumed that it was duly incorporated in the first place and that the charter has been lost. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 10.

municipal corporation de facto. The kind of municipal corporation which results when the people of a city, town or village have attempted to incorporate themselves under a statute which authorized such action, and have actually used and exercised the franchise of a municipal corporation by virtue of such proceedings, although the proceedings were so irregular that the validity of the corporation can be successfully attacked in a proceeding brought for that purpose by the state. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 13.

municipal corporation proper. A conventional municipal corporation as distinguished from a municipal corporation de facto or a quasi municipal corporation.

municipal corporations acts. General laws under which cities and towns may be incorporated and governed.

municipal court. A local court created by statute, the jurisdiction of which is usually limited as to territorial ambit, and often as to the subject matter of litigation, sometimes being confined to that of a police court for the enforcement of municipal ordinances and regulations. State, ex rel. Stark v McArthur, 13 Wis 383, 386, but which may be extended, the state constitution permitting, to constitute general jurisdiction. 20 Am J2d Cts § 30.

municipal debt limit. See limitation of indebtedness.

municipal debt readjustment. A proceeding by an insolvent public debtor under the Bankruptcy Act to preserve assets and obtain a composition of indebtedness. 9 Am J2d Bankr §§ 1411 et seq.

[823]

municipal domicil. Domicil in a city or other municipality. 25 Am J2d Dom § 12.

municipal election. An election of municipal officers or of such municipal officers as are to be elected at one time.

municipal franchise. A franchise granted by a municipality.

See franchise.

municipal functions. Powers and duties bestowed and imposed upon a city for the specific benefit and advantage of the urban community embraced within the corporate boundaries. Lob v Jacksonville, 101 Fla 429, 134 So 205, 79 ALR 459.

municipal hospital. A hospital maintained by a municipality.

municipality. An incorporated city, village, or town.

See municipal corporation.

municipal judge. The judge of a municipal court.

municipal law. In the most narrow sense of the term, the law pertaining to municipal corporations. In a more accurate sense, the law of a municipality, a state, even the nation, as distinguished from international law.

Strictly, this expression denotes the particular customs of one single municipium or free town, but it may with propriety be applied to any one state or nation, which is governed by the same laws and customs, and thus understood, it is properly defined to be a rule of civil conduct prescribed by the supreme power in a state, commanding what is right and prohibiting what is wrong. See 1 Bl Comm 44.

See civil law.

municipal lighting plant. A public utility owned or operated by a city, village, or town for the generation and sale of electric power.

municipal note. A note for money borrowed by a municipal corporation, usually payable and issued to a single investor and maturing at a date earlier than a bond issue. 43 Am J1st Pub Sec § 11.

municipal offense. An offense committed against a particular state of the Union or against a separate community. Cook v Portland, 20 Or 580, 27 P 263.

municipal officer. An officer whose duties and functions relate exclusively to the local affairs of a municipal corporation, and in whose conduct and administration of his office the municipality alone is interested. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 233. With less refinement, an officer elected or appointed as an officer of a municipality, albeit he has many duties involving the enforcement of state law. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 21.

municipal order. Same as municipal warrant.

municipal ordinance. See ordinance.

municipal power. A matter of a grant of authority by the legislature, except as a degree of local sovereignty is granted by home rule provisions of the Constitution or where there prevails in the jurisdiction the principle of recognizing inherent right of local self-government with respect to municipal matters. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 111.

municipal purposes. Corporate purposes of a municipal corporation; purposes and activities designed primarily for the exclusive or principal benefit of the inhabitants of a particular municipality. 51 Am J1st Tax § 387. Public or governmental purposes, as contradistinguished from private purposes.

A corporation created for municipal purposes is a corporation created for public or governmental purposes, with political powers to be exercised for the public good in the administration of civil government, whose members are citizens, not stockholders. Cook v Portland, 20 Or 580, 27 P 263.

See corporate act.

municipal records. The books of record of the transactions of towns, city councils, and other municipal bodies, either executive or legislative in nature. 45 Am J1st Recds § 3.

municipal securities. Bonds issued by cities and towns.

See municipal bond.

municipal warrant. An order drawn by one municipal officer on another, in the disbursement of the funds of the municipality and payment of its indebtedness. A means of drawing money from the treasury. 43 Am J1st Pub Sec § 10.

See warrant.

municipal waterworks. A waterworks owned and operated by a municipal corporation. 56 Am J1st Watwk § 24.

municipia. (Roman law.) Plural of municipium.

municipium. (Roman law.) A town the inhabitants of which were Roman citizens, but were governed by their own magistrates and laws; a free town.

muniment. The evidence or writing whereby a man is enabled to defend the title to his estate. United States v Lancaster (CC Ga) 44 F 885.

muniment of title. A document evidencing title. A title deed or other original document which, taken with other documents, shows a chain of title. 55 Am J1st V & P § 178.

See title deeds.

munitions. Supplies for waging war or equipping a military force, especially weapons and ammunition. 56 Am J1st War § 157.

munus. A gift; a feudal grant.

mur. A wall.

murage. A payment of money in lieu of murorum operatio.

mural monuments. Monuments built in walls.

mural painting. A painting on a wall or ceiling.

murder. A technical term or word of art which can be defined with particularity only by resort to the specific statute in the jurisdiction involved. Re Kirby, 162 Cal 91, 121 P 370. At common law, the killing of one human being by another with malice aforethought, either express or implied, that is, with deliberate intent or formed design to kill. 26 Am J1st Homi § 11; Wiley v State, 19 Ariz 346, 170 P 869; Commonwealth v Buzard, 365 Pa 511, 76 A2d 394, 22 ALR2d 846. The intentional killing of a human being without legal justification or excuse and under circumstances insufficient to reduce the crime to manslaughter. 26 Am J1st Homi § 11.

murder in the first degree. Murder with malice aforethought, the unique characteristic of which is deliberation or premeditation, a design or purpose to take life. 26 Am J1st Homi § 38.

[824]

murder in the second degree. The killing of a person by intent but without premeditation or deliberation, or, as otherwise stated, without malice aforethought or express malice. 26 Am J1st Homi § 38. Roughly stated, any offense of murder not in the first degree. Murder without express malice or a state of facts justifying or excusing the killing or reducing the offense to manslaughter. Often defined by statute as the killing of a person perpetrated by any act imminently dangerous to others and evidencing a depraved mind regardless of human life, although without any premeditated design to effect the death of any person. 26 Am J1st Homi § 43.

murdrare. To murder.

murdre. Murder.

murdritor. A murderer.

murdrum. The ancient Teutonic name which was applied to an amercement which the vill in which a moerda or secret killing was committed, was liable to pay; or, if the vill was too poor, the whole hundred was amerced. See 4 Bl Comm 194.

mure. Same as mur.

murorum operatio. A feudal service consisting of labor in the repair and construction of walls and fortifications.

Murphy bed. A wall bed; a folding bed. Murphy Wall Bed Co. v Levin, 57 Ont LR 105, 14 BRC 395, [1925] 3 DLR 107.

murrey. Blood color.

murthrum. Murder.

musculoskeletal conditions. Physical disabilities, such as those of shoulder, elbow, hip, knee, leg and foot. Anno: 2 ALR2d 309 § 4; 22 Am J2d Damg § 124.

museum. A place for the exhibition of articles of interest, whether by way of entertainment or instruction.

musical composition. A tune or melody represented in characters depicting notes, pitch, time, etc. on a staff which are to be followed by player of instrument or singer. A proper subject of copyright. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 36.

An intellectual creation which first exists in the mind of the composer; he may play it for the first time upon an instrument. It is not susceptible of being copied until it has been put in a form which others can see and read. The copyright law has not provided for the protection of the intellectual conception apart from the thing produced. White-Smith Music Publishing Co. v Appolo Co. 209 US 1, 17, 52 L Ed 655, 662, 28 S Ct 319.

musical instrument. A contrivance by which musical sounds are produced. Dunbar v Spratt-Snyder Co. 208 Iowa 490, 226 NW 22, 63 ALR 1016.

music broadcast. See broadcasting.

music school. A school for instruction in the use of musical instruments or in singing.

must. Indicating compulsion. Ordinarily a mandatory word. 50 Am J1st Stat § 28. In a statute, calling for substantial rather than literal compliance. Herron v Harbour, 75 Okla 127, 182 P 243, 29 ALR 905 (statute prescribing the form of an acknowledgment).

A statutory provision may be directory, rather than mandatory, in nature, notwithstanding use of the word "must." Re Johnson (ND) 75 NW2d 313, 55 ALR2d 1049.

muster. To bring together for a purpose, particularly that of military service or service as seamen on a vessel. The gathering together of men by military order at military camp for the purpose of selecting, and of subsequently training, those who on examination appear to possess the necessary qualifications for military service. Bannister v Soldiers Bonus Board, 43 RI 346, 112 A 422, 13 ALR 589. Precisely, the final selection of a person called for military duty as a person fit for service, and the actual enrollment of such person in the military service. 36 Am J1st Mil § 8.

Being derived from the Latin word "monstrare," meaning "to show," the word "muster" by itself may doubtless be applied to a parade of soldiers already enrolled, armed, and trained, but the addition of the preposition of motion removes all ambiguity, and "mustering into the service," or "mustering in," clearly implies that the persons mustered are not already in the service. Tyler v Pomeroy, 90 Mass (8 Allen) 480, 498.

A soldier is said to be "mustered into service" when he is actually called, or ordered, into actual military service. Such service begins on the date when the man is sworn in and becomes a soldier. Anno: 9 ALR 25.

mustered into federal service. Actual enrollment in the armed service of the United States Government; something more than being called for military duty and sent to a training camp for physical examination with the possibility of rejection as physically unfit for military service, without ever having been placed on a muster role. Bannister v Soldiers Bonus Board, 43 RI 346, 112 A 422, 13 ALR 589.

mustered into service. See muster; mustered into federal service.

mustering out. The discharge or separation of a person from service in the Armed Forces.

mustering-out pay. A lump-sum payment paid to a member of the Armed Forces upon his discharge or separation from the service. 56 Am J1st Vet & V A § 4.

muster-roll. A roll or list of the men mustered for service.

mustizo. The issue of a Negro and an Indian. Miller v Dawson, 13 SC Eq (Dud) 174, 176.
See mestizo.

mutation. A change; an exchange; a transfer; a conveyance. In biology, a change in inheritable characteristics, occurring suddenly, as by radiation.

mutation of libel. The amendment of the libel in an admiralty suit.

mutatio nominis. (Civil law.) A change of name.

mutatis mutandis. Those things being changed which should be changed; the respective differences taken into consideration; changed according to circumstances; with the necessary changes.

Mutato nomine de to fabula narratur. The story was told of you under a different name.

mute. Adjective: Silent. Noun: A person without the power of speech.
See standing mute.

mutilate. To tear or destroy in part; to render imperfect.

[825]

mutilated tickets. Railroad tickets which have been so handled or treated as to be deprived of some essential or material part. Young v Central of Georgia R. Co. 120 Ga 25, 47 SE 556.

mutilation of corpse. The wrong, for which civil liability is imposed, of wilfully, recklessly, wantonly, unlawfully, or negligently dismembering or disfiguring by cutting, scratching, or mishandling the body of a dead person. 22 Am J2d Dead B § 31. The criminal offense of dissecting or dismembering, without authority, the dead body of a person. 22 Am J2d Dead B § 49.

mutilation of instrument. Any physical act, falling short of the destruction of the instrument, whereby a written instrument is rendered imperfect. Woodfill v Patton, 76 Ind 575. Tearing or obliterating parts of a will. 57 Am J1st Wills §§ 493, 513.

mutiny. The usurpation by force, fraud, or intimidation of the command of a vessel from the master or other lawful officer in command, or the act of depriving him of authority and command on board, or the act of resisting or preventing him in the free and lawful exercise of his authority and command, or the act of transferring such authority and command to another not lawfully entitled thereto. 18 USC § 484.

The word is sometimes used as synonymous with the word "insurrection." McCargo v New Orleans Ins. Co. (La) 10 Rob 202.

Engaging in a sit-down strike and taking possession of the ship in defiance of the ship's officers are acts constituting at least prima facie evidence that the crew was guilty of mutiny. Peninsular & Occidental S.S. Co. v NLRB (CA5) 98 F2d 411.

mutual. The same on both sides of a transaction or relationship, whether it be a matter of affection, aversion, assistance, or advantage; reciprocal. Sharon v Sharon, 79 Cal 1, 16 P 345.

mutual account. An account in which items are debited and credited on both sides. 1 Am J2d Acctg § 5. With more elaboration, an account arising where there are mutual dealings between two persons and the account is allowed to run with a view to an ultimate adjustment of the balance; an account on which the items on either side belong and on which they operate to extinguish each other pro tanto, so that the balance on either side is the debt between the parties. 1 Am J2d Acctg § 5.

To render an account mutual within the meaning of the statute of limitations, there must be an alternate course of dealing between the parties, giving rise to cross demands upon which they might respectively maintain actions, and there must be a mutual agreement, express or implied, that the items of the account upon the one side and the other are to be set against each other. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 97.

mutual advantage rule. A rule for testing the status of a person in a particular situation.

Under this rule the true test of whether the user of an appliance is an invitee or licensee is whether the owner receives benefit or advantage from the permitted use; if so, the user is an invitee; if not, he is a licensee. Arthur v Standard Engineering Co. 89 App DC 399, 193 F2d 903, 32 ALR2d 408.

mutual assent. A meeting of the minds; consent. 17 Am J2d Contr § 18. Agreement. Martin v Thrower, 3 Ga App 784, 60 SE 825.

mutual benefit bailment. A bailment for compensation; a bailment in which the parties contemplate some price or compensation in return for benefits flowing from the fact of bailment. Armored Car Service, Inc. v First Nat. Bank (Fla App) 114 So 2d 431.

mutual benefit certificate. See certificate of membership.

mutual benefit society. A voluntary association or corporation formed and organized, aside from accompanying fraternal objectives, solely for the purpose of rendering financial aid or other assistance to their members, or certain designated beneficiaries of the latter, when visited by sickness, death, or other misfortune specifically designated. 36 Am J2d Frat O § 1.

The organization is commonly based upon the lodge system, with a graduated series of central or governing bodies, throughout which a representative form of government ordinarily prevails; that is, the directors, delegates, and other officers who have general charge and control of the property and business of the society and the management of its affairs are chosen by the members or their selected representative. 36 Am J2d Frat O § 1.

"Mutuality" is a term which designates payment for fraternal life insurance in exact proportion to its cost. If a fraternal benefit society lacks mutuality in payment for insurance afforded, it faces inevitable ruin. If some pay adequately and others do not, there is still want of mutuality and financial ruin of the society, though postponed, is none the less inevitable. Jenkins v Talbot (Ill) 170 NE 735.

mutual combat. A combat into which the parties enter willingly; a combat with the mutual intent to fight. State v Moss, 24 NM 59, 172 P 199.

mutual conditions. Concurrent conditions. Conditions such that the performance of one, which rests upon a party to a contract, is a condition precedent to the performance of the other as undertaken by the other party to the contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 321.

mutual contract. A contract binding upon both parties, and which is capable of specific performance by each party against the other, or for damages for failure to perform the contract. Jordan v Indianapolis Water Co. (Ind App) 61 NE 12, 15.

Indeed, any valid contract is a mutual contract, since it is essential that it bind both parties.

mutual covenants. Covenants in the nature of mutual conditions, the performance of the one being a condition precedent to the obligation of performance of the other. 20 Am J2d Cov § 9.

mutual credit. A knowledge on both sides of an existing debt due to one party, and a credit by the other party, founded on, and trusting to such debt, as a means of discharging it. This definition is not quite broad enough to cover all the cases, where there being a connection between the demands, equity acts upon it, and allows a setoff under particular circumstances. Courts of equity deviate from the strict rule of mutuality when the justice of the particular case requires it. Scott v Armstrong, 146 US 499, 507, 36 L Ed 1059, 1062, 13 S Ct 148.

See mutuality of parties and demands.

mutual demands. Reciprocal demands existing between the same persons at the same time. 20 Am J2d Countcl § 74.

See mutual credit; mutuality of parties and demands.

mutual easements. Servitudes arising upon the acceptance by the grantee of a deed containing a covenant binding both grantor and grantee. McFarland v Hanley (Ky) 258 SW2d 3.

[826]

mutual fund. Another term for investment trust.

mutual insurance. Insurance under the policies of a mutual insurance company, that is, one operating on a mutual basis rather than for the purpose of profits benefiting stockholders.

See mutual insurance company; reciprocal insurance.

mutual insurance company. A cooperative enterprise wherein the members constitute both insurer and insured, where the members all contribute, by a system of premiums or assessments, to the creation of a fund from which all losses and liabilities are paid, and wherein the profits are divided among themselves in proportion to their interests. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 89. Better known, as an insurance company which is not a stock insurance company, that is, one operating on a mutual basis rather than one operating for a profit to be paid to stockholders.

mutuality. The condition of being mutual, two persons bearing the same relationship toward each other in reference to a particular right or obligation; sharing a common burden or enjoying a common benefit on the same basis. The essential of a binding contract.

mutuality of consent. A meeting of the minds in assent. Caldwell v Cline, 109 W Va 553, 156 SE 55, 72 ALR 1211.

mutuality of contract. A meeting of the minds of the parties, that is, mutual assent. 17 Am J2d Contr §18; 55 Am J1st V & P § 14.

See mutuality of obligation.

mutuality of demands. See mutual credits; mutual demands; mutuality of parties and demands.

mutuality of estoppel. The quality of reciprocity, neither party being bound unless the other party is bound.

An equitable estoppel operates neither in favor of, nor against, strangers, that is, persons who are neither parties nor privies to the transaction out of which the estoppel arose. 28 Am J2d Estop § 115.

mutuality of obligation. The characteristic of binding effect of a contract on both parties, 17 Am J2d Contr § 11; 46 Am J1st Sales § 61, or an undertaking on one side and a consideration on the other. 17 Am J2d Contr § 11; 49 Am J1st Spec Per § 34.

It is a rule of law that there must be mutuality in a contract; that is, it must be binding upon both parties at the same time, if it is to be deemed valid and enforceable as to either. Butterick Publishing Co. v Whitcomb, 225 Ill 605, 80 NE 247.

mutuality of parties and demands. A matter of demands between the same parties in the same capacity at the same time and mutuality as to the quality of the right. 20 Am J2d Council § 74.

The setoff or counterclaim must be such a demand that defendant, in his own name, or in the names of defendants sued, without bringing in the name of a stranger to the suit, may maintain an action upon it against a party, or all parties suing, as the case may be. Less than that is not mutuality. 20 Am J2d Council § 74.

Two persons are said to be mutually indebted when each of them owes a debt to the other. The debts may be simple contract, covenant or judgment,—but the demands must come under the classification of debts. A demand of damages for a tort is not a debt. Caldwell v Ryan, 210 Mo 17, 108 SW 533.

mutuality of remedy. Each party to a bilateral contract having the opportunity to compel performance of the promise to him. Philadelphia Ball Club v Lajoie, 202 Pa 210, 51 A 973. A doctrine asserted in cases of specific performance. The availability to both parties of the remedy of specific performance, or its equivalent in actual performance, at the time of the commencement of the suit or at the time of the decree. 49 Am J1st Spec Per §§ 35-37.

mutual life insurance company. A life insurance company which, while operating upon an old line basis with fixed premiums, cash surrender values, and policies issued strictly on an actuarial basis, has no stockholders its insureds, as members, taking the place of stockholders, is operated on the distinctive basis that net profits from operation shall inure entirely to members or insureds in the form of annual dividends.

See mutual benefit society.

mutually indebted. See mutual credits; mutual demands; mutuality of parties and demands.

mutual mistake. A mistake which is reciprocal and common to all of the parties to a transaction. 27 Am J2d Eq § 33. A mistake of fact common to both parties to a contract, by reason of which each party has done what neither intended. Buol Machine Co. v Buckens, 14 Conn 639, 153 A2d 826. A mistake which is reciprocal and common to both parties to an instrument, each alike laboring under the same misconception in respect to the terms of the instrument. 45 Am J1st Reform Inst § 56. A mistake of all parties to an instrument, on account of which the instrument does not conform to or express their intention or agreement, as where by mistake some material part of a deed is omitted or the instrument is drawn to convey a different interest or a greater or lesser estate than was agreed upon by the parties. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 155.

mutual negligence. See contributory negligence.

mutual, open, and current account. A mutual account which has not been closed, settled, or stated, but in which the inclusion of further dealings between the parties is contemplated. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 96.

mutual promises. The promises of contracting parties, the promise by one party being the consideration for the promise by the other. 17 Am J2d Contr § 104.

mutual subscriptions. The promises of persons subscribing to a fund for the accomplishment of a common object which can only be accomplished through their aggregate efforts, the obligation of each constituting a sufficient consideration for the obligation of another. 50 Am J1st Subscr § 14.

mutual tax exemption. An exemption from taxation created by a contact between states relative to the property of the one state in the other state. Anno: 134 ALR 1417, 1423.

mutual telephone company. An association or corporation conducting a telephone business or maintaining and servicing certain telephone lines, not for profit, merely for the purpose of maintaining telephone service for its members. 52 Am J1st Teleg & T § 8.

mutual trust. See reciprocal trust.

mutual utility. See co-operative utility.

[827]

mutual wills. Sometimes called twin wills. Wills executed pursuant to an agreement between two or more persons to dispose of their property in a particular manner, each in consideration of the other. Anno: 169 ALR 12, 13. Wills executed with a common intention on the part of the testators, irrespective of whether there is a contract between them. Anno: 169 ALR 12, 13.

Mutual wills may be in separate instruments or in the same instrument. Anno: 169 ALR 13.

See reciprocal wills.

mutuant. The person making a loan of the chattel under a mutuum.

See mutuum.

mutuari. To borrow.

mutuary. A term of the Roman or Continental law which applies to the person receiving a chattel or chattels delivered in the relation known as a mutuum. 8 Am J2d Bailin § 37. The person to whom the chattel is lent under a mutuum.

See mutuum.

mutuel. See pari-mutuel.

mutuo. See ex mutuo.

mutus. Dumb; mute.

mutus et surdus. Dumb and deaf.

mutuum. A relation known to the Roman or Continental law; a loan of a chattel for consumption or appropriation by the person receiving the article to his own use. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 37.

my creditors. A phrase inclusive of both individual and partnership creditors. Moody v Downs, 63 NH 50.

myelitis. Inflammation of the spine. Wabash Western Railway Co. v Friedman, 41 Ill App 270, 273.

my estate. An expression having reference, as it appears in a will, to the estate of the testator in probate. 28 Am J1st Inher T § 504.

my hand. See witness my hand.

my hand and seal. See witness my hand and seal.

my just debts. See just debts of decedent.

mynute. Midnight.

my personal estate. The property owned personally by the person, without reference to whether it is real estate or personal property. Davison v Sparrow (App) 44 Ohio Ops 226, 58 Ohio L Abs 529, 97 NE2d 694.

myself. See self.

myself note. A promissory note payable to the maker's own self.

mystery. Something unknown; something kept secret. A person's trade, art, or occupation; such as merchant, mercer, tailor, painter, clerk, schoolmaster, husbandman, or the like. State v Bishop, 15 Me 122, 124.

mystic testament. A term apparently peculiar to the state of Louisiana, referring to a so-called secret will for the execution of which there are statutory requirements distinctive to such form of will, concerning the closing of the instrument by folding it or the placing of the instrument in an envelope and the signing, sealing, and attestation of the folded instrument or envelope. Lewis' Heirs v His Executor, 5 La 387, 393.

mythological name. A name taken from mythology, especially mythology of the ancient Greeks. Hygeia Distilled Water Co. v Hygeia Ice Co. 72 Conn 646, 45 A 957.

N

n. Abbreviation of noon. Abbreviation of north. Burr v Broadway Ins. Co. 16 NY 267, 271. Abbreviation of neutron.

naam. (Saxon.) A taking; a distraining of goods.

nagging. Persisting in criticism, scolding, and complaints, sometimes constituting mental cruelty entitling the injured party to a divorce. Metcalf v Metcalf, 50 Wash 2d 167, 310 P2d 254. Irritating, disturbing, ruffling, or troubling the mind by persistent urging. Buchanan v Davis (Tex Com App) 12 SW2d 978.

naif. A person born a slave; a villein.

naivitas. Villeinage,—the tenure or condition of a villein.

naked. Nude; unclothed; stripped of clothing; bare; incomplete; not full.

A person was held not to have been naked when he was stripped of clothing down to his waist. Commonwealth v Dejardin, 126 Mass 46.

naked confession. A confession which has not been corroborated.

naked possession. Actual possession without color of title. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 26.

naked power. A power of disposal accompanied by no interest or estate in the donee of the power. 41 Am J1st Pow § 5. A power of sale in a mortgage or deed of trust, accompanied by no interest, which can be executed only by the person designated. 37 Am J1st Mtg § 650.

naked trust. Same as dry trust.

nam. (Latin.) For; because.

See naam.

namare. To take; to distrain.

namatio. A taking; a distress.

Nam de minimis non curat lex. For the law does not pay attention to trifles.

name. The designation by which a person is known and called in the community in which he lives and is best known; the word or combination of words by which a person is distinguished from other individuals. 38 Am J1st Name § 2. The label or appellation which a person bears for the convenience of the world at large in addressing him, or in speaking of or dealing with him. Roberts v Mosier, 35 Okla 691, 132 P 678.

name and arms clause. The condition in a will, deed of gift, or deed of trust, that the person upon whom the property or beneficial interest is bestowed shall assume the name and arm, or crest of the testator or settlor. Byng v Byng, 10 HL Cas 171, 11 Eng Reprint 991.

named insured. The person expressly designated in an automobile liability insurance policy as the person insured, as distinguished from other persons who may come within the protection of the policy by virtue of their relationship with the person thus named. Farley v American Auto. Ins. Co. 137 W Va 455, 72 SE2d 520, 34 ALR2d 933.

name index. An index of records of title by the names of grantee and grantee, mortgagor and mortgagee, etc.

name of corporation. See corporate name.

name of partnership. Except as otherwise required by statute, the name selected by the partners as a firm name. 40 Am J1st Partn § 10.

Nam ex antecedentibus et consequentibus fit optima interpretatio. For the best interpretation is made by examining the words which precede and those which follow; i. e., the context.

Nam feudum sine investitura nullo modo constitui potuit. For a fee cannot be perfected in any manner without investiture. See 2 Bl Comm 311.

namium. A taking; a distress of an owner's goods or cattle, either damage feasant, or by way of security for unpaid rent, overdue. See 3 Bl Comm 148.

namium vetitum. A forbidden distress; that is, an improper or wrongful distress; as where goods or beasts have been distrained, under a pretense of their having done damage, and eligned, or carried off to places unknown to their owner. See 1 Bl Comm 148.

Nam leges vigilantibus, non dormientibus, subveniunt. For the laws aid the vigilant, not those who slumber.

Nam nemo est haeres viventis. For no one is the heir of a living person. See 2 Bl Comm 107.

Nam neque quies gentium sine armis, neque arms sine stipendis, neque stipendia sine tributis, haberi quent. For it is neither possible to have the peace of nations without armies, nor armies without pay, nor pay without taxes.

Nam omne testamentum morte consummatum est, et voluntas testatoris est ambulatoria usque ad mortem. For every testament is consummated by death, and the will of the testator is revocable up to his death. See 2 Bl Comm 502.

Nam qui tacit per alium, facit per se. For he who acts through another does the act himself.

Nam qui haeret in literis, haeret in cortice. For he who clings to the letter keeps inside the rind; i. e., one who is too literal does not touch the meat or substance of the transaction.

Nam quilibet potest renunciare juri pro se introducto. For anyone may renounce a right introduced for his own benefit.

Nam qui non prohibet, cum prohibere possit, jubet. For he who does not prevent when he can prevent, orders or sanctions. 1 Bl Comm 430.

[829]

Nam quod remedio destituitur, ipsa re valet, si culpa absit. For that which lacks a remedy is the stronger by reason of that very fact, if it is without fault.

Quoting Lord Bacon, Blackstone says, "The benignity of the law is such, as when, to preserve the principles and grounds of law, it depriveth a man of his remedy without his own fault, it will rather put him in a better degree and condition than in a worse." See 3 Bl Comm 20.

Nam quod semel meum est, amplius meum esse non potest. For that which is once mine cannot be mine more fully.

Nam quo major vis est animi quam corporis, hoc sunt graviora ea, quae concipiuntur animo quam illa quae corporae. For, as the power of the mind is greater than that of the body, in the same way the sufferings of the mind are more severe than the pains of the body. Young v Western Union Tel. Co. 107 NC 370, 11 SE 1044.

Nam silent leges inter arma. For laws are silent among arms.

Nam verba debent intelligi cum effectu ut res magis valeat quam pereat. For words ought to be understood in such a way that they may have some effect, so that the instrument may rather be valid than void.

naphtha. A highly inflammable and explosive liquid obtained by the distillation of petroleum. Standard Oil Co. v Wakefield, 102 Va 824, 47 SE 830. A product of petroleum intermediate between the associate products of gasoline and benzine. Gately v Taylor, 211 Mass 60, 97 NE 619.

naphtha fraction. The elements taken together, more volatile than kerosene, which result from the first distillation of crude oil. United States v Gulf Refining Co. 268 US 542, 547, 69 L Ed 1082, 1086, 45 S Ct 597.

Napoleonic Code. See Code Napoleon.

naprapathy. A drugless system of treating human ailments by manipulation, based on an underlying theory that many human ailments are caused by a tightened or shrunken condition of a ligament. People v Witte, 315 Ill 282, 146 NE 178, 37 ALR 672.

narcotic. Singular of narcotics.

Narcotic Act. A federal statute which renders it unlawful for any person to purchase, sell, dispense, or distribute narcotics except in or from the original stamped package; or to sell, barter, give away, or otherwise transfer narcotics, except upon the written order on a prescribed form issued for a purpose; or for any unregistered person to have narcotic drugs in his possession or under his control, or to send, ship, carry, or deliver narcotics between the states or insular possessions or from or into the District of Columbia. 26 USC § 4724(b). A statute, known in its original form as the Harrison Narcotic Act, the manifest purpose of which is to require every person dealing in drugs to ascertain at his peril whether or not a product he sells comes within the inhibition of the statute, and to penalize any dealer who sells prohibited drugs, even though he may be ignorant of their character as such. 25 Am J2d Drugs §§ 34, 35.

Narcotic Drug Act. An act of Congress (38 Stat 785) which imposed a special tax on the manufacture, importation, and sale or gift of opium, cocoa leaves or their compounds or derivatives. United States v Doremus, 249 US 86, 63 L Ed 493, 39 S Ct 214. One of the uniform laws. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 18.

See dealer.

Narcotic Drugs Import and Export Act. A statute which makes it unlawful, with certain exceptions of narcotics necessary for medical and legitimate uses, to import any narcotic drug into the United States or any territory under its control or jurisdiction; and, with certain exceptions relating to the exportation of certain drugs for medical and scientific uses to countries that are parties to specified international conventions and agreements relating to the control of the traffic in narcotics, prohibits and prescribes punishment for the exportation of narcotic drugs from the United States or from any territory under the control or jurisdiction of the United States. 21 USC §§ 171 et seq.; 25 Am J2d Drugs § 34.

narcotics. Substances which directly induce sleep, allay sensibility and blunt the senses, and which, when taken in large quantities, produce narcotism or complete insensibility. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 2.

narr. An abbreviation of narratio; in the plural, "narrs."

narrare. To narrate; to allege in a declaration or complaint; to allege as one of the counts of a declaration or complaint.

narratio. A declaration or complaint; one of the counts of a declaration or complaint.

narrative. A statement of facts and events in the form of a running commentary.

narrative abstract of record. An abstract of record on appeal summarized in narrative form. 4 Am J2d A & E § 408.

narrative bill of exceptions. A bill of exceptions in narrative form as distinguished from a verbatim transcript of the evidence. 4 Am J2d A & E § 435.

narrative form in taking testimony. A method of receiving the testimony of a witness, the witness being asked to state the facts and then permitted to state them more or less in full in one long statement. Pumphrey v State, 84 Neb 636, 122 NW 19.

narrative transcript. A reporter's transcript in narrative form rather than a verbatim record. 4 Am J2d A & E § 412.

narratores. See banci narratores.

narrow construction. Rejecting the comprehensive sense, in favor of a narrow, contracted meaning, of words. Flaska v Dayton, 51 NM 13, 177 P2d 174. A technical construction. Clarke v Johnson, 199 Ga 163, 33 SE2d 425.

See literal construction.

narrow gauge railroad. A railroad having a width between the rails of less than the standard gauge.

narrow seas. A somewhat parochial term for waters of the ocean on the coast of England inside low-water mark. Commonwealth v Macloon, 101 Mass 1.

narrow view. The designation given the doctrine in reference to the right of a grantee to an easement in street or alley shown on a map or plat referred to in the conveyance to him, that his private right of user is limited to the abutting street or alley and such others as are necessary to give him access to a public highway. 25 Am J2d Ease § 26.

[830]

nasci. To be born.

nasciturus. A person to be born in the future.

nastre. To be born.

natale. The state or condition which a person inherits.

nati et nascituri. Persons already born or in being and those who are to be born in the future.

natio. A nation; a birthplace; a race of people.

nation. A body politic or society of men united together for the purpose of promoting their mutual safety and advantage by their combined strength, occupying a definite territory and politically organized under one government. 30 Am J Rev ed Internat L § 10.

The word presupposes or implies an independence of any other sovereign power more or less absolute, an organized government, recognized officials, a system of laws, definite boundaries, and the power to enter into negotiations with other nations. Montoyo v United States, 180 US 261, 45 L Ed 521, 21 S Ct 358.

See sovereign state; state.

national. Pertaining to the nation, that is, the United States.

See terms and expressions beginning federal; national; United States.

National Acts. Acts of Congress; federal statutes.

See particular terminology, such as Labor Relations Act; Narcotic Act, etc.

national agencies and instrumentalities. Agencies, departments, and instrumentalities of the United States.

See particular agency or instrumentality, such as Interstate Commerce Commission; Labor Relations Board; State Department, etc.

national bank. An instrumentality or agency of the Federal Government although, for the most part, similar in nature to, and governed by, the same rules as state banks insofar as their functions, powers, and liabilities are concerned. 10 Am J2d Bks § 5. A private banking corporation organized under United States statutes, and intended for public accommodation. Ryan v McLane, 91 Md 175, 46 A 340.

National Bank Act. A federal statute having the purpose of authorizing and regulating national banks. 10 Am J2d Bks § 14.

national banking association. A national bank.

As the term is used in the Judicial Code providing that for the purposes of suits against them, they are to be deemed citizens of the states in which they are respectively located, it does not include the Federal Reserve banks but is used to describe the ordinary commercial banks. American Bank & Trust Co. v Federal Reserve Bank, 256 US 350, 357, 65 L Ed 983, 989, 41 S Ct 499.

national bank notes. See bank notes.

national cemetery. A cemetery for which provision is made by Congress, administered by the National Park Service, Department of the Interior, and devoted as a place of burial for members of the Armed Forces, veterans of the Armed Forces, and the wives of such members and veterans. 24 USC § 281.

national citizenship. Citizenship in the United States as distinguished from citizenship of a state. 16 Am J2d Const L § 469.

The Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States bridges the gap left by Article 4, § 2, so as to safeguard citizens of the United States against any legislation of their own states having the effect of denying equality of treatment in respect of the exercise of their privileges of national citizenship in other states. Colgate v Harvey, 296 US 404, 80 L Ed 299, 56 S Ct 252, 102 ALR 54, overruled on another point Madden v Kentucky, 309 US 83, 84 L Ed 590, 60 S Ct 406, 125 ALR 1383.

national corporations. Corporations organized under the authority of acts of Congress.

national currency. That which is issued as money under the sanction of the nation. State v Gasting, 23 La Ann 609.

national debt. The debt of the United States and federal agencies held by the public. In other words, the debt of the United States plus the debts of the federal agencies less United States securities held by federal agencies and federal trust funds, and federal agency securities held by the United States Treasury and other federal agencies.

national defense. The military establishment of the United States and preparation for the defense of the nation against the enemy. Germ v United States, 312 US 19, 85 L Ed 488, 61 S Ct 429, reh den 312 US 713, 85 L Ed 1144, 61 S Ct 617. A power of Congress under Clauses 11 to 16, inclusive, of Section 8 of Article I of the United States Constitution.

national domain. The public lands of the United States which are owned by the national government.

national domicil. Domicil in a nation. 25 Am J2d Dom § 12. The nation or country in which a person has his domicil, as distinguished from his state or local domicil.

national emergency. Any event which threatens peril to the nation or the people. An event of which cognizance must be taken if the safety of the nation and its people is to be preserved.

National Formulary. See Formulary.

national government. The federal government of the United States. The government of a single nation, united as a community by what is termed the social compact, and possessing complete and perfect supremacy over persons and things, so far as they can be made the lawful objects of civil government. Piqua Bank v Knoup, 6 Ohio St 342, 394.

National Guard. An organization of armed men, created and maintained under the United States Constitution, the federal statutes, and state constitutions and state statutes. 36 Am J1st Mil § 42. A primary reserve of the United States Army and Air Force, serving the states in disasters and civil disturbances, and subject to call to service of the United States in time of war or in anticipation of war.

While enrolled as soldiers of the state, the active militia or national guard, are neither "'troops,' nor a 'standing army.'" State ex rel. Madigan v Wagener, 74 Minn 518, 77 NW 424.

[831]

nationality. Belonging and owing allegiance to a nation through being a citizen thereof by birth or naturalization. The national character of a ship as recognized by the law of nations, because it regularly carries the flag of the nation to which it belongs. 48 Am J1st Ship § 39. A term sometimes used incorrectly in referring to the national origin of an alien or naturalized citizen.

The fundamental principle of the common law with regard to English nationality was birth within the allegiance of the king. The principle embraced all persons born within the king's allegiance and subject to his protection. Such allegiance and protection were mutual, and were not restricted to natural-born subjects, or to those who had taken an oath of allegiance; but were predicable of aliens in amity, so long as they were within the kingdom. Children born of such aliens were therefore natural-born subjects. United States v Wong Kim Ark, 169 US 649, 655, 42 L Ed 890, 893, 18 S Ct 456.

Nationality Act. See Immigration and Nationality Act.

nationality of ship. See nationality.

nationalization. The taking over of an industry by a government, sometimes, although not necessarily, involving the confiscation of property.

nationalization loss. A loss incurred by the nationalization of property by a foreign government.

national origin. The descent or extraction of a person in reference to the nationality of his ancestors. Gonzales v Sheely (DC Ariz) 96 F Supp 1004.

National Prohibition. See prohibition.

national public policy. The public policy which prevails throughout the country as distinguished from the public policy of a locality. 17 Am J2d Contr § 176.

National Service Life Insurance. A special statutory type of life insurance for servicemen provided by the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins §§ 1970, 1980 et seq.

National Socialist. See Nazi.

national union. An association of local labor unions which is national in scope. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 42.

nativa. A naif; a female villein.

native. Noun: A person born within the jurisdiction. United States v Wong Kim Ark, 169 US 649, 42 L Ed 890, 18 S Ct 456. One of local birth. Adjective: Indigenous.

nativi. Villeins; vassals.

nativitas. Same as villeinage.

nativity. Birth, particularly the place and surroundings.

Nativity. The birth of Jesus Christ.

nativo habendo. A writ which a lord might have to recover a villein who had escaped and fled.

nativus. A villein.

Natura appetit perfectum, ita et lex. Nature seeks perfection, and so does the law.

Natura Brevium. An old collection of original writs which was compiled during the reign of Edward the Third.

Naturae vis maxima; natura bis maxima. The force of nature is the most powerful; nature is doubly powerful.

Natura fide jussionis sit strictissimi juris et non durat, vel extendatur de re ad rem, de persona ad personam, de tempore ad tempos. The nature of a suretyship is one of strictest law and does not endure or suffer an extension from one thing to another, from one person to another, or from one time to another.

natural. Occurring according to the usual course of nature or according to the operation of natural laws, which, in the particular case, may be unusual and extraordinary in common experience. Shafer v Keeley Ice Cream Co. 65 Utah 46, 234 P 300, 38 ALR 1523, 1527.

natural affection. That affection which a person's near relative is presumed to have for him.

natural allegiance. Allegiance to the sovereign or government of one's native state or country; allegiance by birth.

natural and probable consequence. A test of proximate cause. 38 Am J1st Negl § 57.

See natural consequence; probable consequence.

natural-born citizen. A citizen by birth, as distinguished from a citizen who has been naturalized.

natural boundary. See natural monument.

natural causes. Causes arising from the elements. Causes arising in the course of nature, not produced by man.

natural channel. The channel of a river or stream which has been formed by nature; the floor or bed on which the water flows and the banks on each side thereof as carved out by natural causes. Pima Farms Co. v Proctor, 30 Ariz 96, 245 P 369.

natural child. A child acquired by its lawful parents through birth rather than by adoption. A child born out of wedlock; an illegitimate child.

natural consequence. The consequence of an act which ordinarily follows it. 38 Am J1st Negl § 57. A result which reasonably might have been foreseen. McCann v Newark & South Orange Railway Co. 58 NJL 642, 34 A 1052. A consequence which might naturally be expected to follow; damages which would result in the usual course of things, as distinguished from accidental or collateral injury, or such as would spring from special circumstances not usually attendant upon such transactions. 22 Am J2d Damg § 56.

See probable consequence; proximate result.

natural day. The period of time elapsing between sunrise and sunset. Re Ten-Hour Law for Street Railway Corp. 24 RI 603, 54 A 602.

natural death. A death occurring other than through external violence or human agency. Slevin v Board of Police Pension Fund Comrs. 123 Cal 130, 55 P 785.

natural demand. A call of nature.

natural drainway. A natural means of drainage of surface water. A ravine, gorge, or similar depression, by means of which the surface water of a hilly or mountainous country is drained. Anno: 81 ALR

[832]

271. A depression or channel created by natural causes in which surface water flows at some season of the year. Tide Water Oil Sales Corporation v Shimelman, 114 Conn 182, 158 A 229, 81 ALR 256. A channel cut through the turf and into the soil by the flowing of water. Tide Water Oil Sales Corp. v Shimelman, 114 Conn 182, 158 A 229, 81 ALR 256. Any conformation of land which gives to surface water flowing from one tract to another a fixed and determinate course whereby it is discharged uniformly on the servient tract. 56 Am J1st Wat § 76.

natural easement. See easement ex jure naturale.

Naturale est quilibet dissolvi eo modo quo ligatur. It is natural that any obligation should be released in the same manner in which it is made binding.

natural equity. Common honesty and right in a person's dealings with others.

naturales. (Roman law.) Illegitimate children born of a concubine.

See fructus naturales.

natural father. A real rather than a foster father; the father by birth in lawful wedlock rather than by legal adoption. The father of an illegitimate child. natural flow of stream.

See natural state of stream.

natural flow of surface water. That course which would be taken by surface water falling on the land of the upper proprietor or carried thereto from still higher land, and flowing or running therefrom onto the lands of the lower proprietor, undiverted and unaccelerated by any artificial interference therewith. Le Brun v Richards, 210 Cal 308, 291 P 825, 72 ALR 336.

natural fool. A person born without understanding; an idiot.

natural fruits. Also called fructus naturales,—the fruits and produce of perennial trees, bushes, and grasses. Crops produced by the powers of nature alone. 21 Am J2d Crops § 2.

natural gas. A mineral in the form of a vapor. 26 Am J2d Electr § 4. A gas, characterized by hydrocarbons in mixture, occurring naturally in the crust of the earth, obtained by drilling, and piped to cities and villages, industrial and commercial centers, for use in heating, illumination, and other purposes. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 2. A commodity and property when reduced to possession. West v Kansas Gas Co. 221 US 229, 55 L Ed 716, 31 S Ct 564. For tariff purposes, crude bitumin or crude mineral. United States v Buffalo Natural Gas Fuel Co. 172 US 339, 43 L Ed 469, 19 S Ct 200.

Natural Gas Act. A comprehensive scheme of federal regulation of all sales of natural gas at wholesale in interstate commerce, whether by pipeline company or not, and whether occurring before, during, or after transmission by an interstate pipeline company. Northern Natural Gas Co. v State Corp. Corn. 372 US 84, 9 L Ed 2d 601, 83 S Ct 646, reh den 372 US 960, 10 L Ed 2d 14, 83 S Ct 1011.

natural gas company. A company engaged in supplying natural gas for lighting, power, or other purposes to ultimate consumers. 26 Am J2d Electr § 4.

As used in the Natural Gas Act of June 21, 1938, a natural gas company means a person (including a corporation) engaged in the transportation of natural gas in interstate commerce or the sale in interstate commerce of such gas for resale. Illinois Natural Gas Co. v Central Illinois Public Service Co. 314 US 498, 86 L Ed 371, 62 S Ct 384.

See gas companies.

natural grade. The grade of a highway or street which has not been altered from that of the general lay of the land through which it runs.

natural guardian. See guardian by nature; guardian by nurture.

natural heirs. Heirs of the body, as distinguished from those entitled to succeed on intestacy. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 215. As the term is used in a will:—sometimes a term of limitation, sometimes the equivalent of issue or simply denoting certain individuals, sometimes meaning bodily heirs, the construction depending upon the context of the instrument and the surrounding circumstances. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1371. Sometimes meaning children, thereby excluding collateral heirs. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1368.

naturali laxitate. See in naturali laxitate.

natural impotency. Incurable impotency, not congenital incapacity for the sexual act. Jordan v Jordan, 93 Ill App 633 (ground of divorce); Cofer v Cofer (Tex Civ App) 276 SW2d 214.

natural increase of shares. An increase in the value of shares resulting from an increase in the earnings and profits of the corporation and a consequential increase in dividends. Miller v Guerrard, 67 Ga 284.

natural infancy. The state or condition of a child who is under seven years of age.

natural interruption. Under the civil law,—an interruption of a period of prescription, either by an entry into, and upon immovable things, or in taking away movables. Innerarity v Heirs of Mims, 1 Ala 660, 674.

naturalis possessio. See possessio naturalis.

naturalization. The conferring of the nationality of a state upon a person after birth, by any means whatsoever. 8 USC § 1101 (a) (23); Re Marques, 341 Mass 715, 172 NE2d 262. The act of adopting a foreigner and clothing him with the privileges of a native born citizen. Boyd v Nebraska, 143 US 135, 36 L Ed 103, 12 S Ct 375. An act involving the renunciation of a former citizenship and entrance into a similar relation towards a different body politic. Boyd v Nebraska, 143 US 135, 36 L Ed 103, 12 S Ct 375.

naturalization by marriage. The naturalization of an alien female upon her marriage to a citizen; the former rule in the United States, repealed by the Cable Act of 1922. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 116, note 5.

naturalization proceeding. A proceeding for the naturalization of an alien, which, while a judicial proceeding, is not an adversary proceeding, being merely a proceeding provided by statute for the administration of the naturalization laws in the case of an application for naturalization by an alien, wherein his fitness for citizenship may be determined. Rein v United States, 69 F2d 206.

naturalized citizen. A person who has been made a citizen of the United States under the authority of a federal statute. A citizen in truth, law, and fact; a citizen in every sense of the word. Osborn v Bank of the United States (US) 9 Wheat 739, 827, 6 L Ed 204, 225.

natural law. An abstract concept of law in accord with the nature of man. A rule which so necessarily agrees with the nature and state of man that, without observing its maxims, the peace and happiness of society can never be preserved. Borden v State, 11 Ark 519. Those fit and just rules of conduct which the Creator has prescribed to man, as a dependent and social being; and which are to be ascertained from the deductions of right reason, though they may be more precisely known, and more explicitly declared by divine revelation. Wightman v Wightman (NY) 4 Johns Ch 343, 348.

[833]

See natural rights.

natural liberty. A person's freedom to act as he may desire, excepting in so far as he is restrained or controlled by the laws of nature. See 1 Bl Comm 125.

natural life. A tautological expression.

The word "natural," in this connection, adds nothing to the meaning of the word "life," nor does it change it. Imprisonment for one's natural life is the same as imprisonment for life. The word "natural" may be rejected as surplusage. People v Wright, 89 Mich 70, 93, 50 NW 792.

naturally. In the usual course of things. Mitchell v Clarke, 71 Cal 164, 11 P 882.

natural monuments. Natural objects, such as trees, stones, and the like used in designating and describing land boundaries. 12 Am J2d Bound § 4.

natural objects of bounty. Those members of a testator's family entitled on the face of things to his bounty.

natural obligation. A moral obligation. Re Atkins' Estate (CA5) 30 F2d 761. An obligation which rests wholly in conscience and which is not enforceable under the laws of mankind.

See moral obligation.

natural parent. A real parent as distinguished from an adoptive parent or foster parent. The father of a child born out of wedlock.

natural person. An individual; a private person, as distinguished from an artificial person, such as a corporation.

natural phenomena. The powers, forces, and operations of nature, such as the movement of the heavenly bodies, the annual rainfall, gravity, etc. 29 Am J2d Ev § 100. Natural occurrences, such as storms.

natural pond. A small body of fresh water, created without the aid or interference of man.

See great ponds.

natural possession. See possessio naturalis.

natural premium plan. A form of insurance, also called the "assessment plan" wherein the insurance company limited its assessments or premiums to such a sum as was necessary to cover the actual cost of insurance from one renewal period to another. Westerman v Supreme Lodge, Knights of Pythias, 196 Mo 670, 94 SW 470.

natural presumption. A presumption which arises when a fact is proved, wherefrom by reason of the connection founded on experience, the existence of another fact is directly inferred. Gulick v Loder, 13 NJL 68.

natural resources. The land, waters, and mineral resources. Things of value existing in nature, such as minerals, waterpower, productive soil, etc. natural result.

See natural consequence.

natural right. A right which exists regardless of municipal or other law, if not repealed by legal fiat. Sult v Gilbert, 148 Fla 31, 3 So 2d 729. A right inherent in land, such as that of lateral support, of the right to the benefit of the flow of a stream of water, of the right of an owner of land to have the surface water discharged upon the lower land of his neighbor, etc. 25 Am J2d Ease § 6. An inherent political right, founded on a common necessity and interest, such as the right to appropriate the property of a person to the great necessity of the whole community. 26 Am J2d Em D § 1. A right which, in its primary and strictest sense, belongs to each person as a human being in a state of nature. Re Morgan, 26 Colo 415, 58 P 1071; Bednarik v Bednarik, 18 NJ Misc 633, 16 A2d 80. The right of self defense, a right which existed before the formation of society. 26 Am J1st Homi § 126. A fundamental right actually guaranteed by the constitution. 16 Am J2d Const L § 330. A right entitled to constitutional protection in addition to rights protected under the specific guaranty safeguarding a person in his life, liberty, or pursuit of happiness; for example the affection between parent and child, Lacher v Venus, 177 Wis 558, 188 NW 613, 24 ALR 403; for another example, the right to beget children. 16 Am J2d Const L § 330. According to some authority, a concept in the abstract, apart from constitutional rights. Henry v Cherry, 30 RI 13, 73 A 97.

natural science. See science.

natural state of stream. The condition of a stream of water under the ordinary operation of the physical laws which affect it. 56 Am J1st Wat § 19. The stage of water that ordinarily flows in the spring or other season of the year when the stream stands at the highest water mark. 56 Am J1st Wat § 19.

natural stream. See natural watercourse.

natural support. See easement of natural support.

natural use. The use of the water of a stream for purposes arising out of the necessities of life, such as household use and the watering of domestic animals. Cowell v Armstrong, 210 Cal App 218, 290 P 1036.

natural watercourse. Any well defined channel or arroyo in which surface waters flow in times of heavy rain, irrespective of the fact that the land is cultivated in dry seasons or that in certain places the water of the depression spreads out and no longer flows in a definite channel. Anno: 81 ALR 266. A river or other natural stream, as distinguished from an artificial channel. 56 Am J1st Wat § 6. A stream usually flowing in a particular direction, in a definite channel, and discharging into some other stream or body of water, exclusive of a course conducting surface water from a higher to a lower level. Lambert v Alcorn, 144 Ill 313, 33 NE 53.

A stream does not lose its character as a natural watercourse, because in times of drought the flow may be diminished, or temporarily suspended. It is sufficient if it is usually a stream of running water. Barkley v Wilcox, 86 NY 140, 143.

natural waters. A body or stream of water originating from natural as distinguished from artificial causes. 56 Am J1st Wat § 3.

natural year. A year comprising three hundred and sixty-five and one-fourth days. The period of time in which the earth completes one revolution around the sun.

Natura non facit saltum; ita nec lex. Nature does not make any leaps; neither does the law.

[834]

Natura non tacit vacuum; nec lex supervacuum. Nature does not make a vacuum, nor does the law do anything superfluous.

natura rei. See ex natura rei.

nature. The quality of a thing; the disposition of a person. The totality of the universe.

naulerus. (Civil law.) A shipowner; a shipmaster.

naufragium. Shipwreck.

naught. Bad, defective, or worthless.

naulage. The freight of a ship's passengers.

naulum. (Civil law.) Freight; fare; money paid for passage on a ship.

nauseam. See ad nauseam.

nauta. A sailor; a seaman; a mariner; the charterer of a ship.

nautical assessors. The name applied to experienced shipmasters, two in number, called to the assistance of the admiralty court in all difficult cases involving negligence, who sit with the judge during the argument and give their advice upon questions of seamanship or the weight of testimony. The Empire (DC Mich) 19 F 558, 559.

nautical mile. A marine mile; a linear measure of distance on the sea, equivalent to approximately 6,080 feet, the name being taken from the knots in a ship's log line. Steamboat Co. v Fessenden, 79 Me 140, 146.

The International Nautical Mile is 1.150779 statute miles.

nautico foenere. With marine interest,—that is, with interest at the very high rate which is charged on marine loans.

navagium. The service rendered by a tenant of carrying the goods of his lord by ship.

naval. Pertaining to the Navy.

See Navy.

Naval Academy. The United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Maryland, for the education and training of cadets preparatory to their becoming officers of the Navy.

naval aircraft. Aircraft in the service of the Navy, in the Armed Services.

naval bounty. A bounty paid to induce enlistment in the Navy. 12 Am J2d Bount § 2. A bounty offered to the officers and crew of any ship of the Navy causing the destruction of an enemy vessel. Porter v United States, 106 US 607, 27 L Ed 286, 1 S Ct 539.

naval convoy. See convoy.

naval court martial. See court martial.

naval courts. English courts composed of naval officers and held in foreign countries to hear and determine cases involving the loss of English ships or grievances of their masters or crews.

naval lands. Areas of the public domain reserved for naval purposes. Pan American Transport Co. v United States, 273 US 456, 71 L Ed 734, 47 S Ct 416.

naval law. The rules and regulations governing officers and men of the Navy.

See military law.

naval officer. See Navy.

naval service. See service in the Navy.

naval station. A military station of the Navy. 36 Am J1st Mil § 6.

navigability. The quality of being navigable.

See navigable waters.

navigability in fact. The susceptibility of a river to use in its ordinary condition as a highway for commerce over which trade and travel are or may be conducted in the customary modes of trade and travel on water. Oklahoma v Texas, 258 US 574, 586, 66 L Ed 771, 42 S Ct 406, 411; Blackman v Mauldin, 164 Ala 337, 51 So 23.

navigable airspace. The air space above the minimum altitudes of flight prescribed by regulation issued under the Federal Aviation Act, including air space needed to insure safety in the takeoff and landing of aircraft. 49 USC § 1301 (24). The space above the space extending upward from the surface of land which is necessary for the full use and enjoyment of the land and the incidents of its ownership. 8 Am J2d Avi § 3.

navigable river. See navigable waters.

navigable waters. Rivers or other bodies of water used, or susceptible of being used in their ordinary condition, as highways for commerce, over which trade and travel are or may be conducted in the customary modes of trade and travel on water. Elder v Delcour, 364 Mo 835, 269 SW2d 17, 47 ALR2d 370. A stream or body of water having the capacity and suitability for the usual purpose of navigation, ascending or descending, by vessels such as are employed in the ordinary purposes of commerce, whether foreign or inland, and whether steam, sail, or other motive power. 56 Am J1st Wat § 179.

The test of navigability is whether the river, in its natural state, is used, or capable of being used, as a highway for commerce, over which trade and travel are or may be conducted in the customary modes of trade and travel on water. In the sense of the law, navigability is not destroyed because the watercourse is interrupted by occasional natural obstruction or portages; nor need the navigation be open at all seasons of the year, or at all stages of the water. Economy Light & Power Co. v United States, 256 US 113, 121, 65 L Ed 847, 854, 41 S Ct 409.

Navigability is a term of art, and often may be at variance with the usual and common conception of the meaning of the word. Under English common-law rules, waters were navigable which were salty or subject to the influence and flow of ocean tides, and all other waters were nonnavigable, irrespective of whether or not vessels of commerce or pleasure operated on them in fact. Anno: 47 ALR2d 385.

navigable waters of the United States. Those waters which are subject to the control of the Federal government for the regulation of commerce, and to which the Federal judicial power extends for the purpose of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction. The high seas and such lakes and streams as are navigable in fact, and which by themselves or their connection with other waters form a continuous channel or highway for commerce among the states or with foreign countries. 56 Am J1st Wat § 190.

navigate. To accomplish or participate in navigation.

See navigation.

navigation. The direction of a ship or aircraft in movement; plotting a course and steering by the course plotted. The steering, directing, or managing of a vessel by a person or persons on board. Ryan v Hook (NY) 34 Hun 185, 191.

[835]

To navigate an aircraft. See 49 USC § 1301 (25)(26).

Navigation Act. An English statute enacted in the reign of Charles the Second, which prohibited other countries from trading with the colonies of England.

navigation district. An improvement district organized for the purpose of improvement of navigation upon a watercourse or body of water or a specified portion of a watercourse or body of water.

navigation rules. See rules of navigation.

navis. A ship or vessel.

navis bona. A good ship; a vessel that is seaworthy.

Navy. A military body; one of the Armed Forces, inclusive of officers and men, ships, aircraft, and equipment. 36 Am J1st Mil § 4.

In connection with the transfer of the Navy of the Republic of Texas to the United States, the word was held to include the ships only, not the officers and men. Brashear v Mason (US) 6 How 92, 12 L Ed 357.

Navy Department. A part of the Department of Defense, having general supervision of the naval combat and service forces and such aviation as may be organic therein. 5 USC § 411a.

Navy personnel. Members of the Armed Forces in the United States Navy.

Navy Personnel Act. A federal statute enacted in 1899, providing primarily that commissioned officers of the line of the Navy and of the medical and pay corps should receive the same pay and allowances, except forage, as were or might be provided by or in pursuance of law for officers of corresponding rank in the Army. 36 Am J1st Mil § 69.

navy regulations. See regulations of the navy.

Navy yard. A place maintained and equipped for the construction or repair of vessels of the Navy.

naye. No. A negative vote in a legislative body.

nazeranna. A voluntary payment made to a government in recognition of the bestowal of a land grant or a public office.

Nazi. A contraction of the German term for National Socialist German Workers' Party headed by Adolph Hitler. A fascist or totalitarian in political belief. A derisive term.

N. E. Abbreviation of northeast.

See fraction of section.

ne. Not; lest.

ne admittas. Not to admit. A prohibitory writ which forbade the bishop to admit any clerk to a particular living pending the suit of a clerk to determine his right to the living. See 3 Bl Comm 248.

neap tide. The tide which occurs when the difference between high tide and low tide is the smallest; the tide which occurs at moon's quadrature with the sun. Teschmacher v Thompson, 18 Cal 11, 21.

near. A relative term in speaking of distance. Kirkbride v Lafayette County, 108 US 208, 27 L Ed 705, 2 S Ct 501. A relative term, as it appears in the description in a deed, sometimes the equivalent of "at," at other times importing the sense of "along." 23 Am J2d Deeds § 243.

near beer. A malt liquor containing so little alcohol that it will not produce intoxication, even though consumed in quantity. State v Danenberg, 151 NC 718, 66 SE 301.

nearest blood. Usually regarded as tantamount to next of kin. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1398.

nearest blood kin. Usually same as next of kin. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1398. Ordinarily, words of purchase. Anno: 100 ALR2d 1073, § 2[a].

nearest blood relatives. Usually, although not necessarily, the same as next of kin. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1398. Ordinarily words of purchase. Anno: 100 ALR2d 1073, § 2[a].

nearest heirs. A term of art, ordinarily constituting words of limitation; words of purchase where it appears that the testator used them, not with technical accuracy, but inartificially to denote particular persons. 28 Am J2d Est § 118; 57 Am J1st Wills § 1398.

There is some conflict in the cases as to the effect of the word "nearest" when prefixed to "heir" or a similar term in a testamentary gift. Some of the cases hold that such a phrase includes all the heirs at law of the testator, while others take the view that the word "nearest" confines the gift to heirs at law of the class standing nearest in blood to the testator, excluding all others. However, the variation in the phrases construed and the context in which they are used make it impossible to formulate a definite rule from the decisions. Anno: 11 ALR 329.

nearest kin. Usually tantamount to next of kin. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1398. Often words of purchase. 28 Am J2d Est § 118.

nearest male heir. A term which, when appearing in a will, indicates the testator's nearest male relative. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1398.

nearest of blood. Same as next of kin. Anno: 11 ALR 329.

nearest of kin. Usually tantamount to next of kin. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1398. The nearest relatives by blood. Anno: 11 ALR 331.

nearest relatives. Next of kin. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1398. Words of purchase. 100 ALR2d 1073, nearsightedness. A condition in the eyesight of a person whereby only near objects are seen by him distinctly. Not a local or constitutional disease. Anno: 96 ALR 429.

neat. Tidy; clean. Unmixed, especially in reference to a drink of an alcoholic beverage. In an older sense, net, that is after deductions.

neat cattle. Cattle which have the cloven or split hoof and which also chew their cud.

A cow has both of these attributes, a hog has the first, only, and a horse has neither of them. The term includes all animals of the bovine species. Territory v Christman, 9 NM 582, 58 P 343.

neat profits. An old term, now rare, for net profits.

ne baila pas. He did not deliver.

necation. A putting to death; a killing.

Nec curia deficeret in justitia exhibenda. Nor should the court be deficient in bestowing justice.

[836]

necessaries. In respect of a parent's liability: –such things as are necessary to supply the personal needs of the infant, suitable shelter, food, clothing, medical attention, and whatever else is essential to the health and comfort of the child, including education. 39 Am J1st P & C § 37. Within the rule that an infant may bind himself for necessaries:–those things which are reasonably necessary for the proper and suitable maintenance of the infant in view of his social position and situation in life, the customs of the social circle in which he moves, and the fortune possessed by him and by his parents, including, of course, such things as are obviously for the maintenance of existence. 27 Am J1st Inf § 17. Within the meaning of the liability of an insane person:–articles proper for the normal maintenance of the incompetent, the determination depending not merely on the nature of the articles but also upon their propriety and suitability for the incompetent, according to the circumstances and his condition of life. Belluci v Foss, 244 Mass 401, 138 NE 551. Within the meaning of a husband's duty to provide for his wife:–at common law, necessary food, drink, clothing, washing, medicine, instruction, and a suitable place of residence; with more liberality evidenced by more modern cases, looking to the means, ability, social position and circumstances of both husband and wife for the determination to be made in the particular case. 26 Am J1st H & W § 375. Repairs and supplies furnished a vessel, towage, use of dry dock or marine railway, for which the person furnishing is entitled to a maritime lien. 46 USC § 971.

A necessary article is one which the party actually needs. It is not enough to show that the article is per se classed as necessary, such as food and clothing. It must also be actually needed at the time. State v Thornton, 232 Mo 298, 134 SW 519.

Under the maritime law permitting the master of a ship to pledge the owner's credit for necessaries, the word does not import absolute necessity, but the circumstances must be such that a reasonably prudent owner, present, would have authorized the expenditures, and it is usually sufficient if they are reasonably fit and proper, having regard to the exigencies and requirements of the ship, for the port where she is lying and the voyage on which she is bound. 48 Am J1st Ship § 133.

Within the meaning of exemption statutes, what are necessaries must be largely a question of fact to be determined under the varying circumstances of each case. Goods furnished cannot be regarded as necessaries for the family of the debtor where he is unmarried, nor where they are merely the means by which payment is made for what is necessary, as where they are furnished him on credit and used by him to pay his board precisely as if he were paying it in money. The decisions do not confine the term to articles of commerce, but extend it to include, as well, services rendered even of a professional character, such as medical services or legal services. 22 Am J1st Exemp § 106.

Necessarium est quod non potest aliter se habere. That is necessary which it is not possible to be otherwise.

necessarily used. Reasonably required in the exercise of sound business prudence. Anno: 80 ALR 253.

necessarius. Necessary; unavoidable; inevitable.

necessary. Adjective: Essential; indispensable; unavoidable. Canton v Canton Warehouse Co. 84 Miss 268, 36 So 266; Abraham v Ins. Co. of N. A. 117 Vt 75, 84 A2d 670, 29 ALR2d 783. In an obsolete sense, appropriate; convenient; useful; essential. M'Culloch v Maryland (US) 4 Wheat 316, 4 L Ed 579. Noun: A necessary thing, usually found in the plural in court opinions and legal literature.

See necessaries.

necessary accommodations of carrier. Accommodations reasonably suitable and useful to the public. Chicago I. & L. Ry Co. v Baugh, 175 Ind 419, 94 NE 571.

necessary and indispensable party. See indispensable party; necessary party.

necessary and proper clause. Clause 18 of Section 8 of Article I of the United States Constitution, granting to Congress the power to make all laws which shall be "necessary and proper for carrying into execution" specific powers granted to Congress in preceding clauses of the section.

necessary and proper laws. As a matter of the constitutional authority of Congress to pass laws:—not only such measures as are absolutely and indispensably necessary, without which the powers granted must fail of execution; but all appropriate means conducive or adapted to the end to be accomplished, and which in the judgment of Congress will most advantageously effect it. Legal Tender Case, 110 US 421, 28 L Ed 204, 4 S Ct 122.

necessary business expense. An expense which is appropriate and helpful. Blackmer v Commissioner (CA2) 70 F2d 255, 92 ALR 982.

See ordinary and necessary expense.

necessary deposit. A deposit of something on a person's land or premises which has been made by or on account of some unavoidable cause or accident; as, by vis major or in the case of the salvage of goods from fire.

necessary diligence. That degree of diligence which men ordinarily engaged and acquainted with a certain business will use in conducting such business as one of their own affairs. Sanderson v Brown, 57 Me 308.

necessary domicil. A domicil which is established by operation of law; as in the case of a wife who acquires the domicil of her husband, regardless of her choice. 25 Am J2d Dom § 48.

necessary easement. An easement consisting of a servitude constituting the only reasonable means of enjoying the dominant tenement. Cherry v Brizzolara, 89 Ark 309, 116 SW 668.

necessary expense of business. See necessary business expense.

necessary expense of public body. An expenditure which a municipality is reasonably required to make in order to carry on its work and perform its duties. Anno: 113 ALR 1204. Such an expense as is incurred in procuring those things without which the peace and order of the community, its moral interests, and the protection of property would suffer. Fawcett v Mt. Airy, 134 NC 125, 45 SE 1029.

As to the meaning of the term as used within an exception to a provision requiring a vote of the people to authorize the debt of a political body, see Anno: 113 ALR 1202.

necessary for public use. Reasonably necessary for use in a reasonable time under the circumstances of the particular case. 26 Am J2d Em D § 111.

See public necessity and convenience.

[837]

necessary household furniture. Articles of household furniture which are indispensable or requisite for living in a convenient and comfortable manner. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 73.

necessary implication. A meaning derived from language as a matter of actual necessity or of so strong a probability of the intent of the writer or speaker that a contrary intent is not reasonably to be inferred. Detroit Citizens' Street Railway Co. v Detroit (CA6 Mich) 64 F 628.

necessary litigation. Unavoidable litigation. Litigation required for the protection of person or property.

Litigation is necessary in the sense of a statute providing that an executor or administrator shall be allowed reasonable attorneys' fees in any "necessary litigation" if such litigation is reasonable, useful and proper. Re Feehely, 182 Or 246, 187 P2d 156, 173 ALR 1334.

necessary municipal buildings. Buildings necessary to conduct the affairs of the city government. 26 Am J2d Em D § 40.

necessary party. A person without whom no judgment or decree determining the principal issues in the case can effectively be made; such a person as is necessary to a determination of the entire controversy. 39 Am J1st Parties § 5.

A party to the proceeding whose rights if not determined in that proceeding would be disturbed without due process of law; a party whose rights appear from the facts as they appear in the record to be involved in a determination of the issues before the tribunal. State v Pacific Tel. & Tel. Co. 144 Wash 383, 258 P 313. A person who must be joined as a party if he is within the jurisdiction. McAndrews v Krause, 245 Minn 85, 71 NW2d 153, 53 ALR2d 312. A party on appeal whose interests may be adversely affected by the decision on appeal. 4 Am J2d A & E § 276.

See indispensable party.

necessary repairs. Such repairs by a lessee as are necessary for the use of the leased premises by the tenant for the purposes for which they were leased. Anno: 45 ALR 24, s. 106 ALR 1361.

necessary rule. The rule of some jurisdictions in reference to the right of a grantee to an easement in a street or alley shown on a map or plat, where the conveyance to him is made with reference to such map or plat, that his right of user in the street or alley is limited to the abutting street or alley and such others as are necessary to give him access to a public highway. 25 Am J2d Ease § 26.

necessary tool. A tool or implement needed in the reasonable conduct of the debtor's trade, business, or profession. 52 Am J2d Exemp § 52.

necessary wearing apparel. Such articles of clothing or wearing apparel as are convenient and useful under the circumstances of the particular case. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 79. Clothing or dress which is convenient and comfortable, as distinguished from wearing apparel which is a luxury. Towns v Platt, 33 NH 345.

necessary work animal. A work animal which is indispensable, or merely reasonably necessary, convenient, or suitable, to the owner. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 70.

necessitas. Necessity; that which is inevitable or unavoidable; need; penury; poverty.

necessitas culpabilis. Culpable necessity, that necessity which excuses a man who kills another in self-defense. See 4 BI Comm 187.

Necessitas est lex temporis et loci. Necessity is the law of time and of place.

Necessitas excusat aut extenuat delictum in capitalibus, quod non operatur idem in civilibus. Necessity excuses or extenuates the offense in capital crimes, but it does not operate in the same manner in civil cases.

Necessitas facit licitum quod alias non est licitum. Necessity makes lawful that which otherwise would be unlawful.

Necessitas inducit privilegium. Necessity creates privilege.

Under this maxim, the common law excuses the commission of an act prima facie criminal if such act be done involuntarily, and under circumstances which show that the individual doing it was not really a free agent. Thus, if A by force take the hand of B, in which is a weapon, and therewith kill C, A is guilty of murder, but B is excused. Moral force, however, such as a threat of imprisonment will not excuse him. State v Dowell, 106 NC 722, 11 SE 525.

Necessitas inducit privilegium quoad jura privata. Necessity creates privilege with respect to private rights.

Necessitas non habet legem. Necessity has no law. Heyfron v Mahoney, 9 Mont 497, 24 P 93.

Necessitas publica major est quam privata. Public necessity is more important than private.

The welfare of the public is considered in law superior to the interests of individuals, and, when there is a conflict between them, the latter must give way. Durham v Eno Cotton Mills, 141 NC 615, 54 SE 453.

Necessitas quod cogit, defendit. Necessity defends that which it compels.

Necessitas sub lege non continetur, quia quod alias non est licitum necessitas facit licitum. Necessity is not restrained by the law, because that which otherwise is not lawful necessity makes lawful.

Necessitas vincit legem. Necessity supersedes law.

Necessitas vincit legem; legum vincula irridet. Necessity supersedes law; it laughs at the fetters of the law.

necessitate. See ex necessitate.

necessitate legis. See ex necessitate legis.

necessitate rei. See ex necessitate rei.

necessities. See necessaries; necessity.

necessitous. Pressed by poverty; needy; unable to procure what is necessary for one's station. Destitute. Anno: 36 ALR 872.

[838]

necessitous circumstances. See necessitous condition.

necessitous condition. A condition of want of the necessities of life. 27 Am J1st H & W § 436. Destitution. The condition of one without adequate, sufficient, or reasonable means of support. 23 Am J2d Desert §§ 13, 14. The condition of a child in need of the necessities of life, which cover not only primitive physical needs, things absolutely indispensable to human existence and decency, but also those things which are in fact necessary to the particular person left without support; a condition of great need, extreme want, or poverty, or substantially the absence of means of securing the reasonable necessities of life, except through charity. 39 Am J1st P & C § 111. From the standpoint of a husband's liability for nonsupport, a relative term, the purpose of the statute under consideration and the conditions to which the husband and wife have been accustomed being determinative. 23 Am J2d Desert § 14.

necessity. A compulsion of natural forces or the forces of man. Less pompously, a toilet or water closet. Something necessary.

See necessaries; public necessity; public necessity and convenience; way of necessity; work of necessity.

necessity doctrine. A principle whereunder expressions of present pain are admissible in evidence on the issue of pain and suffering as an element of damages for personal injury, regardless of the person to whom they were made, notwithstanding their hearsay character. 22 Am J2d Damg § 309.

neck verse. A sentence in Latin required to be read by a convicted person in determining his right to the benefit of clergy.

Nec regibus infinita aut libera potestas. With kings, power should neither be unlimited nor free. See 1 Bl Comm 233.

Nec tempus nec locus occurrit regi. Neither time nor place bars or affects the king.

Nec veniam effuso sanguine, casus habet. Nor is there any occasion for indulgence where there is a shedding of blood.

Nec veniam, laeso numine, casus habet. There is no occasion for indulgence where majesty has been affronted.

Nec vi, clam, aut precario. Neither forcibly, secretly, nor by sufferance.

ne deficiat justitia. Lest justice fail.

Ne disseise pas. He was not disseised.

Ne disturba pas. He did not disturb,—the general issue pleaded in an action of quare impedit.

Ne dona pas. He did not give,—the general issue pleaded in a writ of formedon, which was a writ of right to recover lands according to the form of the gift or grant in tail.

nee. Born. A word conveniently used after the name of a married woman to indicate her maiden name, e.g. Esther Roe, née Doe.

need. A necessity. Something required but wanting.

As used in pension plans the term is a wholly relative term and there is no clear line of demarcation as to the requisite financial status of a particular recipient in order to justify the characterization of the benefit to him as charitable. Re Tarrant, 38 Cal 2d 42, 237 P2d 505, 28 ALR2d 419.

See necessaries; needs of business.

needful. Necessary.

As used in Article I, § 8, clause 17, of the Federal Constitution the term "needful buildings" has been held to embrace whatever structures are found to be necessary in the performance of the functions of the Federal Government. James v Dravo Contracting, 303 US 134, 82 L Ed 155, 58 S Ct 208, 114 ALR 318.

needless. Unnecessary, unjustifiable on the theory of necessity. Anno: 82 ALR2d 800, § 4.

needs of business. The amount of a product or material necessary for use in the business of a particular person. The requirements of a business in reference to a particular commodity. 46 Am J1st Sales § 135.

needy. Indigent, necessitous, very poor. Anno: 121 ALR 1007. Distressed by the want of means of living. Juneau County v Wood, 109 Wis 330, 333, 85 NW 387.

nee vife. Born alive.

ne exeat. A writ issued by a court of equity to restrain a person from going beyond the limits of the jurisdiction of the court, until he has satisfied the plaintiff's claim or has given bond for the satisfaction of the decree of the court. 38 Am J1st Ne Ex § 1.

Ne exeat regno. Do not let him leave the realm.

Ne exeat republica. Do not let him leave the state,—the name given to the writ of ne exeat in some of the states of the Union.

nefas. A wrongful, sinful, wicked, unlawful, or criminal act.

negare. To negative; to deny.

Negatio conclusionis est error in lege. The denial of a conclusion is error in law.

Negatio destruit negationem, et ambae faciunt affirmationem. A negative destroys a negative, and both together they make an affirmative.

Negatio duplex est affirmatio. A double negative is an affirmative.

negative averments. See negating defenses.

negative community. A term of art. Used in reference to the political economy as it was when those things which were common to all belonged no more to one than to the others, and hence no one could prevent another from taking of these common things that portion which he judged necessary to subserve his wants.

While he was using them others could not disturb him, but when he had ceased to use them, if they were not things which were consumed by the fact of use, the things immediately re-entered into the negative community and another could not use them. See Geer v Connecticut, 161 US 519, 525, 40 L Ed 793, 795, 16 S Ct 600.

[839]

negative condition. A condition against the occurrence of some event.

negative covenant. The usual form of restrictive covenant; a covenant which calls for refraining from certain acts or certain uses of property. 20 Am J2d Cov § 166.

negative easement. An easement, the effect of which is to preclude the owner of land subject to the easement from the doing of an act which if no easement existed, he would be entitled to do. Northwestern Improv. Co. v Lowry, 104 Mont 289, 66 P 792, 110 ALR 605. A true easement, the right granted being appurtenant to other land and not a mere personal right. 25 Am J2d Ease § 8.

negative evidence. Testimony that a fact did not exist or that a thing was not done, in other words testimony that denies rather than affirms. 30 Am J2d Ev § 1092. Testimony that one did not see or hear something, otherwise called testimony to negative knowledge. Union P. R. Co. v Burnham (CA10 Colo) 124 F2d 500.

"The trial judge practically told the jury that negative testimony was confined to that of a witness who, though present at a transaction, says that he did not see or hear." This is too limited a rule. Testimony which is positive in form may amount merely to negative testimony. Smith v Milwaukee Builders & Traders' Exchange, 91 Wis 360, 64 NW 1041.

The probative force of negative testimony depends largely upon circumstances. In some circumstances, its probative force may be so slight as to reach the vanishing point; in others, it may be more persuasive than the positive testimony of some witnesses. It is only when it is so clear that such testimony has no probative value whatever that reasonable men would not differ in their conclusions in reference thereto that courts are justified in disregarding it on the ground that it does not rise to the dignity of evidence. Union Pacific R. Co. v Burnham (CA 10 Colo) 124 F2d 500.

negative finding. A finding expressly or by necessary implication against the existence of a certain fact. 53 Am J1st Trial § 1143.

negative knowledge. The failure of a witness to see and hear that which he would supposedly have seen or heard if it had occurred. Hoffard v Illinois Central Railroad Co. 138 Iowa 543, 110 NW 446.

negative order. Hardly an appropriate term of art, since an order may be affirmative in fact, although negative in form. Rochester Tel. Corporation v United States, 307 US 125, 83 L Ed 1147, 59 S Ct 754.

negative order doctrine. A rule, generally repudiated by the Supreme Court of the United States, that a federal court had no jurisdiction to review an order of an administrative agency by which the agency merely refused to grant the relief sought. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 574.

negative plea. The terminology of equity for a pleading by the defendant which does not bring new matter of defense into the record but seeks to destroy the efficacy of the plaintiff's case by denying some single critical fact stated in the bill. 27 Am J2d Eq § 204.

negative pregnant. A qualified denial pregnant with the admission of a substantial fact not squarely denied, characteristically in the very words of the allegation denied. 41 Am J1st Pl § 196.

Where the plaintiff alleges the defendant to be a corporation organized under the laws of a named state or country, a denial that it is a corporation organized under those laws is pregnant with an admission that it is a corporation. Wright v Fire Ins. Co. 12 Mont 474, 31 P 87.

negative prescription. (Civil law.) The loss or forfeiture of a right, by the proprietor's neglecting to exercise or prosecute it during the whole period which the law hath declared to be sufficient to infer the loss of it. Townsend v Jemison (US) 9 How 407, 417, 13 L Ed 194, 198.

negative servitude. See negative easement.

negative statute. A statute which forbids or prohibits.

negative testimony. See negative evidence.

negative use. The use of a trademark for no purpose other than to prohibit another from using it. United Drug Co. v Theodore Rectanus Co. 248 US 90, 63 L Ed 141, 39 S Ct 48.

negating defenses. Unnecessary anticipation of defenses, indicating want of skill in pleading a cause of action. 41 Am J1st Pl § 87. Usually unnecessary and inadvisable in drawing an indictment. 27 Am J1st Indict § 63.

In indictments, matters of defense need not, as a rule, be negated, and where the statute creating the offense contains exceptions or provisos, not so incorporated with the clauses of the statute defining the offense that they enter into its description and are inseparable from it, the indictment need not set out that the defendants do not come within the exceptions or negative the provisos, but where the exceptions are stated in the clause which defines the offense, and are so incorporated with it that one cannot be read without the other, or, if embodied in a subsequent clause, section, or statute, they are so incorporated with the words used to define the offense that they become a part of the definition, it is necessary, in the absence of statute, to negative them, so that the description of the offense in the indictment may correspond with the description and elements in the statute. United States v Cook (US) 17 Wall 168, 21 L Ed 538.

negating exceptions. See negating defenses.

negatoire. See action negatoire.

negatum. Denied.

Ne gist en le bouche. It does not lie in the mouth, it is not for one to say.

neglect. Verb: To omit to do or perform some work, act, or duty, required in one's business or occupation, or required as a legal obligation, such as that of making a payment. Noun: Omission to act or perform.

The word does not generally imply carelessness or imprudence, but simply an omission to do or perform some work, duty or act. Rosenplaenter v Roessle, 54 NY 262, 268.

neglected child. A child not cared for in the manner that the circumstances justly demand whether the failure lies in a wilful or unintentional disregard of duty, comprehending not alone a denial of that which is necessary to satisfy ordinary physical needs, but also the affection, guidance, and consideration required for the development of moral principles and ethical concepts in the mind of the child. 31 Am J Rev ed Juv Ct § 37.

A minor child who is not supplied with necessary medical and surgical care is "neglected" so as to subject the parents to the penalties imposed by law therefor. Eggleston v Landrum, 210 Miss 645, 50 So2d 364, 23 ALR2d 696.

[840]

An infant prevented by its parents from receiving a blood transfusion necessary to save its life or to prevent a permanent mental impairment is a "neglected child" within the meaning of a statute defining such child as one who "has not proper parental care" and authorizing transfer of custody of the child to an appointed guardian, although the parents have not failed in their duty in other respects. People ex rel. Wallace v Labrenz, 411 Ill 618, 104 NE2d 769, 30 ALR2d 1132.

neglect of child. The want of reasonable care of a child by the parent, that is, the omission of such steps as a reasonable parent would take, such as are usually taken in the ordinary experience of mankind, provided the parent has such means as would enable him to take the necessary steps. 39 Am J1st P&C§104.

See wilful neglect of child.

neglect of duty. The omission of one to perform a duty resting upon him. The neglect or failure on the part of a public officer to do and perform a duty or duties laid on him as such by virtue of his office or required of him by law. State ex rel. Hardy v Coleman, 115 Fla 119, 155 So 129, 92 ALR 988.

See gross neglect of duty.

neglect to prosecute. See want of prosecution.

negligence. A word of broad significance which may not readily be defined with accuracy. Jamison v Encarnacion, 281 US 635, 74 L Ed 1082, 50 S Ct 440. The lack of due diligence or care. A wrong characterized by the absence of a positive intent to inflict injury but from which injury nevertheless results. Haser v Maryland Casualty Co. 78 ND 893, 53 NW2d 508, 33 ALR 1018. In the legal sense, a violation of the duty to use care. Fort Smith Gas Co. v Cloud (CAS Ark) 75 F2d 413, 97 ALR 833.

The failure to perform an established duty which proximately causes injury to the plaintiff. Northern Indiana Transit v Burk, 228 Ind 162, 89 NE2d 905, 17 ALR2d 572. The failure to exercise the degree of care demanded by the circumstances; the want of that care which the law prescribes under the particular circumstances existing at the time of the act or omission which is involved. The omission to do something which a reasonable man, guided by those considerations which ordinarily regulate human affairs, would do, or doing something which a prudent and reasonable man would not do. 38 Am J1st Negl § 2. More particularly, the failure of one owing a duty to another to do what a reasonable and prudent person would ordinarily have done under the circumstances, or doing what such person would not have done, which omission or commission is the proximate cause of injury to the other. 28 Am J1st Negl § 2.

A negligent act is one from which an ordinarily prudent person would foresee such an appreciable risk of harm to others as to cause him not to do the act, or to do it in a more careful manner. Haralson v Jones Truck Lines, 223 Ark 813, 270 SW2d 892, 48 ALR2d 248.

What constitutes "operation" or "negligence in operation" within statute making owner of motor vehicle liable for negligence in its operation. Anno: 13 ALR2d 378.

negligence as a matter of law. An undisputed fact or facts, so conclusive of negligence in conduct or omission in violation of a standard of care which is clear in its requirements and in its application to the case, that there is no question to be submitted to the jury and the court must declare that negligence is established. 38 Am J1st Negl § 344.

See negligence per se.

negligence of bailee. The failure of a bailee to exercise that degree of diligence and care in respect to the property in his possession under the bailment which the nature of his employment, the character of the bailment, and the attendant circumstances make it reasonable to expect of him. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 198.

negligence per se. Literally, that which is negligence in itself. Negligence without question, negligence involving no debatable issue as to its existence, because the law, ordinarily the law in the form of statute or ordinance, has established the duty of the defendant toward the plaintiff which has been violated by the defendant to the injury of the plaintiff. 38 Am J1st Negl § 158.

Negligence per se results from a breach of a positive standard of conduct imposed by statute. Lavalley v Kaupp, 240 Minn 360, 61 NW2d 223.

negligent. Being guilty of negligence.

See negligence.

negligent escape. An escape occurring without the consent of, but through the carelessness of, the officer entrusted with the custody of the prisoner. Adams v Turrentine, 30 NC (8 Ired L) 147, 150.

negligent homicide. Causing the death of a person, without apparent intent to kill, but in doing an unlawful act or performing a lawful act in a careless or negligent manner, the danger of causing death being apparent. Barfield v State, 118 Tex Crim 394, 43 SW2d 106. The offense under modern statutes of the operation of a motor vehicle in reckless disregard of the safety of others, thereby causing the death of another. 7 Am J2d Auto § 291. Gross or culpable negligence in operating or driving a vehicle of any kind whereby a person is killed. 7 Am J2d Auto § 292.

See manslaughter.

negligentia. (Civil law.) Negligence; carelessness.

Negligentia semper habet infortunium comitem. Negligence always has misfortune for a comrade.

negligent waste. Same as permissive waste.

negotiability. A technical term derived from the usage of merchants and bankers in transferring bills of exchange and promissory notes. 11 Am J2d B & N § 2. The most vital and distinctive characteristic of a negotiable instrument, the term importing a transferable quality in the instrument to which it is applied; a quality of easy or simple transferability by any possessor; a quality of transferability which permits the transferee to take free of equities and defenses which could be asserted against the transferor of the instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 2. A quality turning entirely upon the form of the instrument and the terms in which it is expressed. 11 Am J2d B & N § 2.

negotiable. Having the quality and requisites of negotiability. 11 Am J2d B & N § 2.

negotiable bill of lading. A bill of lading in which it is stated that the goods are consigned or destined to the order of any person named in such bill. Uniform Bills of Lading Act §§ 4, 5. A bill of lading according to the terms of which the goods are to be delivered to bearer or to the order of a named person, or where recognized in overseas trade, if it runs to a named person or assigns. UCC § 7-104.

[841]

negotiable bonds. Bonds issued by private corporations, payable to order or bearer, whether the interest coupons are attached or detached. 12 Am J2d Bonds § 51. Bonds issued by the United States, the states, municipalities, and other political subdivisions which are payable to order or bearer. 43 Am J1st Pub Sec § 161.

negotiable coupons. The interest coupons attached to bonds upon the issuance of the bonds, payable to order or bearer upon their face without reference to any other paper. 12 Am J2d Bonds § 56. 43 Am J1st Pub Sec § 164.

negotiable instrument. Literally, an instrument having the transferable quality known as negotiability. An instrument, constituting a valid contract, for the payment of money in a certain, definite sum, to order or bearer, on demand, at sight, or in a certain time, or on the happening of an event which must occur, and payable absolutely, not on a contingency. 11 Am J2d B & N § 56. An instrument in writing signed by the maker or drawer; containing an unconditional promise or order to pay a sum certain in money; payable on demand, or at a fixed or determinable future time; payable to order or to bearer; and where addressed to a drawee, the latter is named or otherwise indicated with reasonable certainty. Uniform Negotiable Instruments Law § 1; Anno: 44 ALR2d 57, § 11. An instrument signed by the maker or drawer; containing an unconditional promise or order to pay a sum certain in money and no other promise, order, obligation, or power given by the maker or drawer except as authorized by statute; payable on demand or at a definite time; and payable to order or to bearer. UCC § 3-104(1). A bill of exchange, draft, check, promissory note, certificate of deposit, bearer bond, or other instrument to which there is extended the quality of negotiability by the Uniform Commercial Code or other statute. 11 Am J2d B & N § 6.

Negotiable Instruments Act. An attempt to codify the entire field of the law of negotiable instruments. One of the uniform acts. A uniform act specifically repealed by the Uniform Commercial Code. 15 Am J2d Com C § 6. A form of statute promulgated in 1896 by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, based on the British Bills of Exchange Act of 1882, it being an outgrowth of many years of effort on the part of bar associations, jurists, publicists, bankers, and responsible men of business generally to secure uniformity in the law relating to negotiable instruments. Adopted over a period of about 30 years in all of the states-in the majority of them substantially, if not exactly, in the form promulgated by the commissioners. 11 Am J2d B & N § 41. Presently in force in all states except where it has been superseded by the Uniform Commercial Code.

negotiable note. A promissory note having all the requisites of negotiability. Graphically, "a courier without luggage, whose countenance is its passport."

See negotiable instrument.

negotiable paper. See negotiable instrument.

negotiate. To effect a negotiation. To attempt to effect the negotiation of a contract.

See negotiation of contract; negotiation of instrument.

negotiation of contract. The carrying on of a correspondence by letters and telegrams or the conducting of conversations in attempting to arrive at an agreement and contract. 17 Am 12d Contr § 25. The advertising and bids in the award of a public contract.

An order having authorized a finance committee to "negotiate" notes for the city's benefit, the word "negotiate" was held to be sufficient to include the entire transaction of asking for bids, or ascertaining the discount by private inquiry, and of deciding on the amounts, the rate, and the time on which the notes should be given. Brown v Newburyport, 209 Mass 259, 95 NE 504.

negotiation of instrument. The transfer of a negotiable bill or note by a first or subsequent holder to a successor holder. 11 Am J2d B & N §§ 309, 310. The transfer of a negotiable instrument from one person to another in such manner as to constitute the transferee the holder thereof. Uniform Negotiable Instruments Law § 30. To indorse and deliver a bill or note to another so that the right of action thereon shall pass to the indorsee or holder. Weckler v First Nat. Bank, 42 Md 581. The transfer of a negotiable instrument in such manner as to preserve independence of equities on the part of the holder receiving it. 11 Am J2d B & N § 312. The transfer of a bill, note or any instrument in such form that the transferee becomes a holder. UCC § 3-202(1), and Comment 1. The transfer of a negotiable instrument in due course. Edgar v Haines, 109 Ohio St 159, 141 NE 837, 38 ALR 795.

There can be no "negotiation" of a nonnegotiable instrument. Tool v Anderson, 116 Ind 88, 18 NE 445.

negotiant. Same as negotiator.

negotiator. One who negotiates for the purpose of entering into a contract or agreement, sometimes one who specializes in conducting negotiations for others for the same purpose. Banta v Chicago, 172 Ill 204, 50 NE 233. The person who negotiates a negotiable bill or note.

negotiorum gestor. (Civil law.) A person who does business,—a self-appointed agent who assumed the transaction of the business of another person, with no authority to do so.

negotium. (Roman law.) Business; occupation; employment; a business transaction; a money transaction; an affair.

Negro. A person of the black race dominating in equatorial Africa. In some jurisdictions a person of mixed blood descended from Negro ancestry from the third generation inclusive, although one ancestor of each generation may have been a white person. Frasher v State, 3 Tex App 263.

The word as used in a miscegenation statute that does not define it, has been construed to mean only negroes of the full blood, and not octoroons, mulattoes, and persons of mixed blood. 35 Am J1st Mar § 146.

As to negro or colored person within restrictive covenant, see Anno: 3 ALR2d 494.

NE. Abbreviation of northeast.

N. E. I. An abbreviation of Non est inventus. neife. A female villein. See 2 Bl Comm 94.

neighbor. One who lives near another, especially where there are friendly relations between them.

neighborhood. A region, area, or territory of local significance, characterized by people living in it as neighbors; a local community. State v Hughes, 82 Mo 86, 89.

As the term is used in the common-law definition of trial by jury, the members of which were summoned from the visne or neighborhood, the word means the county where the act was committed. See People v Powell, 87 Cal 348, 25 P 481.

neighborhood benefit. A benefit accruing from a public improvement to a certain definite district by reason of its location in reference to the improvement. 27 Am J2d Em D § 367.

neighborhood road. Indiana terminology; a public highway, under the jurisdiction of the local authorities, opened and kept in repair by the public, for which land may be taken under the right of eminent domain. Kissinger v Hanselman, 33 Ind 80, 81.

neighborhood school policy. The policy of school authorities under which all children to be educated in public schools are required to attend a public school in their neighborhood. Taylor v Board of Education (CA2 NY) 294 F2d 36, cert den 368 US 940, 7 L Ed 2d 339, 82 S Ct 382.

neighboring property. Adjoining property or property in the immediate vicinity.

ne injuste vexes. You may not oppress unjustly; an ancient writ in the nature of a writ of right which lay where the tenant in fee simple and his ancestors had held of the lord by certain services, and the lord had obtained seisin of more or greater services than were due, to reduce them to their proper standard. See 3 Bl Comm 234. See also State v Commissioner of Roads, 8 SCL (1 Mill Const) 55.

neither. Not one or the other of two persons or things.

ne luminibus officiatur. (Civil law.) An easement or servitude which entitled its owner to receive unobstructed light in his house.

nem. con. An abbreviation of nemine contradicente.

nemine contradicente. No one saying the contrary; none dissenting.

Neminem laedit qui jure suo utitur. One who makes a lawful use of his own property thereby injures no one. Graham v St. Charles Street Railroad Co. 47 La Ann 214, 16 So 806.

Neminem oportet esse sapienterem legibus. No one ought to be wiser than the laws.

nemo. No man; no one; nobody.

Nemo admittendus est inhibere seipsum. No one is permitted to stultify himself. Coody v Coody, 39 Okla 719, 136 P 754.

Nemo agit in seipsum. No one acts against himself.

Nemo alienae rei, sine satisfactione, defensor idoneus intelligitur. (Roman law.) No one is regarded as a property protector of the property of another, without security.

Nemo alieno nomine lege agere potest. (Civil law.) No one can sue in the name of another.

Nemo aliquam partem recte intelligere potest, antequam totum iterum atque iterum perlegerit. No one can rightly understand any part before he has read over the whole again and again.

Nemo allegans suam turpitudinem audiendus est. No one should be permitted to testify as to his own baseness or wickedness. The United States v Leffler (US) 11 Pet 86, 94, 9 L Ed 642, 645.

Nemo allegans turpitudinem suam, est audiendus. No one asserting his own wickedness should be heard. A Roman-law maxim. People v Coffey, 161 Cal 433, 119 P 901.

Nemo beneficium suum perdat, nisi secundum consuetudinem antecessorum nostrorum et per iudicium parium suorum. No one shall lose his right, unless according to the custom of our ancestors, and by the judgment of his peers. See 3 Bl Comm 350.

Nemo his punitur pro eodem delicto. No one is twice punished for the same offense. See 4 Bl Comm 315.

Nemo his vexari pro eadem cause. No one is to be twice tried for the same cause. State v Lee, 65 Conn 265, 30 A 1110.

Nemo bis vexari pro una et eadem cause. No one shall be twice tried for one and the same cause. United States v Throckmorton (US) 8 Otto 61, 25 L Ed 93.

Nemo cogitationis poenam patitur. No one shall suffer punishment by reason of his thoughts.

Nemo cogitur rem suam vendere, etiam justo pretio. No one is compelled to sell his property, even at a fair price.

Nemo contra factum suum venire potest. No one can go against his own act or deed. New York Continental Jewel Filtration Co. v Jones, 37 App DC 511.

Nemo damnum facit, nisi qui id fecit quod facere jus non habet. No one does harm except the person who does that which he has no right to do.

Nemo dare potest quod non habet. No one is able to give that which he has not.

Nemo dat qui non habet. No one gives who has not. Hendrie v Sayles, 98 US 546, 25 L Ed 176.

Nemo dat quod non habet. No one can give that which he has not. Mitchell v Hawley (US) 16 Wall 544, 21 L Ed 322, 324.

[843]

Nemo debet aliena jactura locupletari. No one ought to be enriched by the loss of another.

Nemo debet bis puniri pro uno delicto. No one ought to be punished twice for one offense.

Nemo debet bis vexari eadem causa. No one ought to be twice tried for the same cause.

Nemo debet bis vexari pro eadem causa. No one ought to be twice tried for the same cause. Womach v St. Joseph, 201 Mo 467, 100 SW 443.

Nemo debet bis vexari pro una et eadem causa. No one ought to be twice sued for one and the same cause. Hunt v Darling, 26 RI 480, 59 A 399.

Nemo debet bis vexari si constet curiae quod sit pro una et eadem causa. No one ought to be sued twice if it appears to the court that it is for one and the same cause.

Nemo debet esse iudex in propria causa. No one ought to be a judge in his own case. People v O'Brien, 111 NY 1, 18 NE 692.

Nemo debet ex alieno damno lucrari. No one ought to profit out of the loss of another.

Nemo debet immiscere se rei alienae ad se nihil pertinenti. No one ought to obtrude himself in the business of another which is of no concern to himself.

Nemo debet in communione invitus teneri. No one ought to be kept in a partnership against his will United Ins. Co. v Scott & Seaman (NY) 1 Johns 106, 113.

Nemo debet locupletari aliena jactura. No one ought to be made rich by another's loss. Green v Biddle (US) 8 Wheat 1, 83, 5 L Ed 547, 567.

Nemo debet locupletari ex alterius incommodo. No one ought to be enriched at the expense of another. Berry v Stigall, 253 Mo 690, 162 SW 126.

Nemo debet rem suam sine facto aut defectu suo amittere. No one ought to lose his property without any fault of his own.

Nemo de domo sua extrahi debet. (Civil law.) No one ought to be dragged out of his own house.

Nemo duobus utatur officiis. No one should occupy two offices.

Nemo ejusdem tenementi simul potest esse haeres et dominus. No one can be the heir and the lord of the same tenement at the same time.

Nemo enim aliquam partem recte intelligere possit antequam totum iterum atque iterum perlegerit. No one can rightly understand any part before he has read the whole over and over again.

Nemo est haeres viventis. No one is the heir of a person who is alive. Heath v Hewitt, 127 NY 166, 27 NE 959.

Nemo est supra leges. No one is above the laws.

Nemo ex alterius facto praegravari debet. No one ought to be oppressed by the act of another.

Nemo ex consilio obligatur. No one is obligated by reason of giving advice.

Nemo ex dolo suo proprio relevetur, aut auxilium capiat. No one is relieved by, or gains advantage from, his own fraud.

Nemo ex proprio dolo consequitur actionem. No one by his own fraud or wrong acquires a right of action. Wright v Orange & Passaic Valley Railway Co. 77 NJL 774, 73 A 517.

Nemo ex suo delicto meliorem suam conditionem facere potest. (Civil law.) No one can make his situation better by his own wrongful act. Whitlock v Auburn Lumber Co. 145 NC 120, 58 SE 909.

Nemo in alium potest transferre plus juris quam ipse habet. No one can transfer to another any better right or title than he himself has.

Nemo inauditus condemnari debet, si non sit contumax. No one ought to be condemned, without having been heard, unless he is contumacious.

Nemo in propria causa judex esse debet. No one ought to be a judge in his own cause.

Nemo in propria causa testis esse debet. No one ought to be a witness in his own cause. Sesler v Montgomery, 78 Cal 486, 19 P 656.

Nemo invitus compellitur ad communionem. No one who is unwilling is forced into a joint possession. See 2 Bl Comm 185.

Nemo jus sibi dicere potest. No one can establish law for himself.

Nemo miles adimatur de possessione sui beneficii, nisi convicta culpa, quae sit laudanda per iudicium parium suorum. No soldier is to be deprived of the possession of his benefice, unless convicted of wrongdoing, which must be declared by the judgment of his peers. 2 Bl Comm 285.

Nemo militans Deo implicetur secularibus negotiis. No one engaged in fighting for God should be bothered by secular business.

Nemo nascitur artifex. No one is the born master of an art.

[844]

Nemo patriam in qua natus est exuere, nec ligeantiae debitum ejurare possit. No one can renounce his native country, nor abjure his obligation of allegiance. Inglis v Trustees of Sailor's Snug Harbor (US) 3 Pet 99, 7 L Ed 617.

Nemo plus commodi heredi suo relinquit quam ipse habuit. (Civil law.) No one leaves behind a greater advantage for his heir than he himself had.

Nemo plus juris ad alienum transferre potest, quam ipse habet. No one can transfer to another any greater right than he himself has.

Nemo plus juris in alium transferre potest quam ipse habet. No one can convey a better title than he himself has. Wasserman v Metzger, 105 Va 744, 54 SE 893.

This was a maxim of the civil law, and it is a principle of the English common law that a sale out of market overt did not change the property from the rightful owner. Ventress v Smith (US) 10 Pet 161, 175, 9 L Ed 382, 387.

Nemo potest contra recordum verificare per patriam. No one can prove by the country contrary to a record.

Nemo potest esse dominus et haeres. No one can be both owner and heir.

Nemo potest esse et dominos et tenens. No one can be both landlord and tenant. Liebschutz v Moore, 70 Ind 142.

Nemo potest esse simul actor et iudex. No one can be both the plaintiff and the judge at the same time.

Nemo potest esse tenens et dominos. No one can be both the tenant and the landlord.

Nemo potest exuere patriam. No one can renounce his country. Inglis v Trustees of Sailor's Snug Harbor (US) 3 Pet 99, 159, 7 L Ed 617, 638.

Nemo potest facere per alium quod per se non potest. No one can do through another that which he cannot do by himself.

Nemo potest facere per obliquum quod non potest facere per directum. No one can do by circumlocution that thing which he is not permitted to do directly. Cummings v Missouri (US) 4 Wall 277, 18 L Ed 356, 363.

Nemo potest mutare consilium suum in alterius injuriam. No one can change his purpose to the injury of another.

Nemo potest patriam exuere. No one can cast off his country. See 1 Bl Comm 370.

Nemo potest plus juris ad alium transferre quam ipse habet. No one can convey or transfer to another any greater right than he himself has.

Nemo potest sibi debere. No one can be indebted to himself.

Nemo praesens nisi intelligat. No one is present unless he understands.

Nemo praesumitur alienam posteritatem suae praetulisse. No one is presumed to have preferred the posterity of another person to his own.

Nemo praesumitur donare. No one is presumed to have made a gift. Haven v Foster, 9 Mass (9 Pick) 112.

Nemo praesumitur esse immemor suae aeternae salutis, et maxime in articulo mortis. No one is presumed to be unmindful of his own eternal salvation, and especially at the point of death.

Nemo praesumitur ludere in extremis. No one is presumed to be jesting while at the point of death.

Nemo praesumitur malus. No one is presumed to be wicked.

Nemo prohibetur plures negotiationes sive artes exercere. No one is prohibited from engaging in several or various businesses or arts.

Nemo prohibetur pluribus defensionibus uti. No one is prohibited from employing several defenses.

Nemo prudens punit ut praeterita revocentur, sed ut futura praeviantur. No prudent person punishes in order that past transactions may be revoked, but he does so in order that future acts may be prevented.

Nemo punitur pro alieno delicto. No one is punished for the crime of another.

Nemo punitur sine injuria, facto, seu defalta. No one is punished without some wrong, act, or fault.

Nemo qui condemnare potest, absolvere non potest. No one who can convict is unable to acquit.

Nemo sibi else judex vel suis jus dicere debet. No one ought to be his own judge or to lay down the law for his own family.

Nemo sine actione experitur, et hoc non sine breve sive libello conventionali. No one goes to law without a cause of action, and he does not do so without a writ or bill.

Nemo suo statuto ligatur necessitative. It is inevitable that no one can break his own statute. Kawananakoa v Polyblank, 205 US 349, 353, 51 L Ed 834, 836, 27 S Ct 526.

[845]

Nemo tenebatur prodere seipsum. No one was bound to appear against himself. See 4 Bl Comm 296.

Nemo tenetur ad impossibile. No one is bound to that which is impossible.

Nemo tenetur ad impossibilia. No one is bound to do things which are impossible.

Nemo tenetur armare adversarium contra se. No one is bound to arm his adversary against himself.

Nemo tenetur armare adversarium suum contra se. No one is bound to arm his adversary against himself. Larson v Salt Lake City, 34 Utah 318, 97 P 483.

Nemo tenetur divinare. No one is bound to divine the future.

Nemo tenetur edere instrumenta contra se. (Roman law.) No one is bound to produce instruments or writings which are against himself.

Nemo tenetur informare qui nescit, sed quisquis scire quod informat. No one who is ignorant is bound to give information, but everyone is bound to know that concerning which he gives information.

Nemo tenetur jurare in suam turpitudinem. No one is bound to give testimony in regard to his own turpitude.

Nemo tenetur prodere seipsum. No one is bound to betray himself.

nemo tenetur seipsum accusare. No one shall be compelled to accuse himself. 58 Am J1st Witn § 36.

Nemo tenetur seipsum infortuniis et periculis exponere. No one is bound to expose himself to misfortunes and dangers.

Nemo tenetur seipsum prodere. No one is bound to betray himself. Ex parte Senior, 37 Fla 1, 19 So 652.

Nemo testis esse debet in propria causa. No one ought to be a witness in his own cause. See 3 Bl Comm 371.

Nemo unquam judicet in se. No one ever renders a decision in his own case.

Nemo unquam vir magnus fuit sine aliquo divino afflatu. No one was ever a great man without some divine inspiration.

Nemo videtur fraudare eos qui sciunt, et consentiunt. (Civil law.) No one is deemed to defraud those persons who have knowledge and give their consent.

nemy. Not neon. A colorless and inert gas.

neon sign. An advertising sign characterized by illumination by the use of tubes filled with neon.

nephew. The son of one's brother or sister. A relative in the third degree according to the civil-law method of computing degrees of kinship which prevails in most American jurisdictions. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 48. As used in a will, sometimes, but not always, inclusive of a grandnephew. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1390.

nephews and nieces. The immediate male and female descendants of the brother or sister of the person named; not inclusive of grand-nephews and grandnieces or more remote descendants. Estate of Woodward, 117 NY 522, 23 NE 120. Sometimes construed as inclusive, at other times as exclusive, of the half blood, the construction depending upon the context of the instrument in which the term appears. Anno: 49 ALR2d 1375.

ne plus ultra. Not to be exceeded. The highest. The greatest.

nepotism. The appointment to public office or public position of a person related within a degree prescribed by statute to the appointing officer or his associate in office. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 98.

Neque leges neque senatus consults its scribi possunt ut omnis casus qui quandoque in sediriunt comprehendatur; sed sufficit ea quae plerumque accidunt contineri. Neither laws nor acts of a legislature can be so written as to include all actual or possible cases; but it is sufficient if they provide for those things which frequently or ordinarily may happen. State v Butts, 111 Fla 630, 149 So 746, 89 ALR 946.

Neque verbis praescriptis solemnibus vestitum est, neque facto aut datione rei transit in contractum innominatum. That which has neither been clothed in prescribed, solemn words, nor by any act or matter of gift, passes into an implied contract. See 2 Bl Comm 445.

Ne quid respublica detrimentis capiat. (Latin.) That the state suffer no harm.

Ne quis plus donasse praesumatur quam in donatione expresserit. Lest anyone should be presumed to have given more than he expressed in his grant.

ne recipiatur. Lest it should be received,—a caveat or caution given to an officer by one of the parties to an action instructing him not to receive the papers of an adverse party.

Ne Rector Prosternet Arbores. The rector is not to fell trees,—the title of an English statute enacted in the reign of Edward the First, directed against the felling of trees in churchyards by parsons.

ne relese pas. He did not release.

nervous disorder. An affliction of the nervous system.

nervous shock. Agitation and emotional tension of an acute nature, for the time rendering one incapable of deliberate action, sometimes operating through parts of the physical organism to produce bodily illness. Dulieu v White & Sons (Eng) 2 KB 669, 17 Times L R 555.

net. Noun: A device woven from cord or string and used to catch fish. 35 Am J2d Fish § 47. That which remains after the deduction of all charges or outlay, as net profit. St. John v Erie Railway Company (US) 22 Wall 136, 22 L Ed 743. Adjective: Characterizing that which is left after deductions.

net balance. As applied to the proceeds of a sale, the balance of the proceeds after deducting the expenses incident to the sale. Evans v Waln, 71 Pa St 69, 74.

net capital stock. The difference between the total assets and the total liabilities of a corporation.

It may be in the form of three items: (1) Capital, which represents the original amount contributed in money or property or services; (2) surplus, which represents the earlier undistributed profits; and (3) undivided profits, which are the later, and usually smaller, undistributed profits. Anno: 45 ALR 1505.

net cash. Cash without the allowance of a discount. Dow Chemical Co. v Detroit Chemical Works, 208 Mich 157, 175 NW 269, 14 ALR 1200. The price of an article after discount deducted. The condition of payment by the purchaser before the seller is under obligation to deliver. 46 Am J1st Sales § 202.

net cash ten days. Payment due ten days from delivery of the goods to the purchaser. 46 Am J1st Sales § 202.

net earnings. The gross receipts of a business less operating expenses. A term often considered as the equivalent of net profits. See net profits.

net estate. The estate of a decedent after deduction of debts, funeral expenses, and expenses of administration.

A statutory provision that the share of a testator's widow electing to take against the will shall not exceed one-third of his "net" personal estate, refers to that part of the estate which remains after payment of all charges against the entire estate including federal estate taxes. Re Uihlein's Will, 264 Wis 362, 59 NW2d 641, 38 ALR2d 961.

See taxable estate.

net gains. Profits; net earnings; the excess of receipts over expenditures. Connolly v Davidson, 15 Minn 519.

nether house of parliament. The lower house, the house of commons of the English parliament.

net income. Income by way of earnings, interest, or rent after the payment of taxes, insurance, expenses of maintenance and repairs, etc. Anno: 128 ALR 234.

See taxable income.

net income, proceeds, and profits. For most purposes, nothing more nor less than "net income." Dumaine v Dumaine, 301 Mass 214, 16 NE2d 625, 118 ALR 834.

net operating loss. A tax-law term for the excess of deductions, subject to certain statutory modifications, over the gross income. Mesaba-Cliffs Mining Co. v Commissioner (CA6) 177 F2d 201.

net operating loss carry over. A net operating loss sustained in one year used to reduce the taxable income of another year. IRC § 832(c)(10).

net premium. The amount of the premium on a life insurance policy less the dividend to which the insured is entitled. Technically, the cost of insurance; the premium charged less the loading for expenses and certain contingencies. Fox v Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. (CA8 Mo) 107 F2d 715.

net price. The price of real estate, stock, or grain, sold by a broker, in excess of the commissions of the broker and other expenses of sale.

net proceeds of sale. The proceeds of a sale less charges which may rightfully be deducted by the custodian or agent making the sale. Becker Steel Co. v Cummings, 296 US 74, 80 L Ed 54, 56 S Ct 15.

net profit. The difference between the end cost of a commodity or a security and the selling price after allowing for the expenses of sale. The gain which accrues on an investment after deducting expenses and losses. MacCulsky v Klosterman, 20 Or 108, 25 P 366. In the language of a bookkeeper, the balance which remains after deduction from gross earnings or profits. Harvey v Missouri Valley Electric Co. (Mo) 268 SW2d 820, 49 ALR2d 1124. The net earnings of a corporation applied to the payment of dividends to stockholders. 19 Am J2d Corp § 805.

The meaning of this term varies according to the context in which and the circumstances under which the words are used. Harvey v Missouri Valley Electric Co. (Mo) 268 SW2d 820, 49 ALR2d 1124.

net rental. Rental over and above all expenses. Perkins v Kirby, 39 RI 343, 97 A 884.

net rents, issues, income and profits. For most purposes, the same as net income. Ash v Ash, 126 NJ Eq 531, 10 A2d 150.

net return. Net income; net profit.

The "net return" of a bond purchased for a specified amount, is the interest paid on such bond increased or diminished by such an amount added or deducted at the time of each interest payment as will restore the purchase price to par at the maturity of the bond. Anno: 48 ALR 692.

net revenues. For most purposes, the same as net income. Re Joy, 247 Mich 418, 225 NW 878, 72 ALR 973. Tax collections less the cost of collection.

net succession. A term found in some inheritance tax statutes. The value of the property remaining for the beneficiary after the satisfaction of such charges and burdens as may be lawfully satisfied in due course of administration. Estate of Hite, 159 Cal 392, 113 P 1072.

net weight. The weight of a shipment of goods less the weight of containers, boxing, crating, chains, and the like. State ex rel. Washington Mill Co. v Great Northern Railway Co. 43 Wash 658, 86 P 1056.

net worth method. A method of calculating the income of a person whose records are inadequate; establishing a net worth of the person as of the beginning of a year, subtracting such amount from the amount established as his net worth at the end of the year, and repeating such calculation for each succeeding year of the period under examination. Holland v United States, 348 US 121, 99 L Ed 150, 75 S Ct 127.

ne unques accouple. Never married.

ne unques administrator. No such administrator; an anciently recognized plea which put in issue the fact of administratorship. Roberts v White, 32 RI 185, 78 A 497.

[847]

ne unques executor. No such executor; an anciently recognized plea which put in issue the fact of executorship. Roberts v White, 32 RI 185, 78 A 497.

ne unques receivour. No such receiver.

Ne unques seisie que dower. He was never seised so that dower could attach.

Ne unques son receiver. He was never his receiver.

neurasthenia. A nervous condition characterized by depression, worry, and pains having no apparent cause. Colorado Springs & I. R. Co. v Nichols, 41 Colo 272, 92 P 691.

See traumatic neurasthenia.

neurological examination. A medical examination conducted by a neurologist. 23 Am J2d Dep § 299.

neurologist. A specialist in the medical field of neurology.

neurology. That branch of medicine which is concerned with the nervous system and diseases thereof.

neurosis. A mental disorder characterized by unwarranted anxiety, sometimes by obsession; less than a pronounced disorganization. A mental affliction without serious derangement but which may constitute total disability. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1525.

neutral. A country observing neutrality as to a war between two or more other nations. 56 Am J1st War §§ 217 et seq. The position of the gears in a motor vehicle at which the engine is disengaged so as not to be applying force in the movement of the vehicle.

neutrality. Taking no part in a dispute between others. Abstinance of a nation from any participation in a public, private, or civil war, and impartiality of conduct toward both parties. The Three Friends, 166 US 1, 41 L Ed 897, 17 S Ct 495.

While a neutral yields to other nations the unobstructed exercise of their sovereign or belligerent rights, her own dignity and security require of her the vindication of her own sovereign right to remain a peaceable and impartial spectator of the war. The Santissima Trinidad (US) 7 Wheat 283, 5 L Ed 454.

neutralization of risk. Taking out an annuity contract and a life insurance contract in combination. Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Co. v Smith, 356 US 274, 2 L Ed 2d 765, 78 S Ct 730.

See hedging.

neutral port. The port of a neutral nation in time of war between two or more other nations.

neutron. A particle of an atom.

ne varietur. Lest it be changed. A mark or annotation placed on an instrument by a notary public by way of identification of the instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 193.

never indebted. The general issue pleaded in an action of debt on simple contract.

new. Newly made, recently manufactured; not previously used. Ajax Petroleum Products Co. v Blake (App) 70 Ohio L Abs I, 126 NE2d 926.

new acquisition. A nonancestral estate; an estate acquired by purchase. Gray v Chapman, 122 Okla 130, 243 P 522.

new action. A subsequent action between the same parties and involving the same subject matter, brought following a prior dismissal.

new and further disability. A physical disability occurring after a period of disability. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 501.

A permanent disability, resulting after a period of temporary disability, has been held to constitute a "new and further disability" within the meaning of the provision permitting the filing of a claim for any new and further disability within a specified period. Cowell Lime & Cement Co. v State Industrial Com. 211 Cal 154, 294 P 703, 72 ALR 1118.

new and useful art. The subject of a patent to the same extent as a piece of machinery; a new and beneficial process of treating materials so as to produce a given result. O'Reilly v Morse (US) 15 How 62, 133, 14 L Ed 601, 632.

As the term is employed in the patent laws, it includes the word "method," which may be used interchangeably with the word "process." Honolulu Oil Corp. v Halliburton, 306 US 550, 83 L Ed 980, 59 S Ct 662.

new assignment. A repleading of the plaintiff's cause of action in different form to meet a plea which shows the declaration to be ambiguous; a restatement, with greater particularity and exactness, of the same cause of action already set up in the complaint or declaration. Bishop v Travis, 51 Minn 183, 185, 53 NW 461.

new building. A structure new from the ground up. A building, constructed in part from an older building but so entirely changed in plan, structure, dimensions, and general appearance as to become in a fair sense and according to the common understanding of men, another building. Mayville v Rosing, 19 ND 98, 123 NW 393.

new cause of action. A phrase applied in determining the application of a statute of limitations to an amended pleading. A cause of action based upon a state of facts different from those in the original pleading, a cause of action pleaded in behalf of parties not named in the original pleading, or a cause of action which embraces both such features. Love v Southern Railway Co. 108 Tenn 104, 65 SW 475.

new consideration. A consideration in addition to the consideration for the original contract, furnished on extension, renewal, or modification of the contract. 11 Am J2d B & N § 917; 17 Am J2d Contr § 460.

new contract. A contract which modifies or supersedes a prior contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 459.

new domicil. A domicil acquired upon the relinquishment of a former domicil.

new edition. Copyrighted material to which new and original matter has been added. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 42.

New England town. A cluster of inhabitants dwelling near each other and possessing the power to manage their own prudential affairs. Hill v Boston, 122 Mass 344. Demonstrating democracy in action in its town meeting.

new enterprise. Within the meaning of a statute granting a tax exemption, a business or establishment created anew, not one which has merely come into the hands of a new owner or one which, although clothed in the dress of a new corporation, actually was built upon the ruins of an old corporation in liquidation and carries on the same business as the liquidated corporation. Continental Tobacco Co. v Louisville, 123 Ky 173, 94 SW 11.

[848]

new evidence. See newly discovered evidence.

new for old. See one third new for old.

new lease. A term of significance in the law of landlord and tenant.

Under an agreement among the executor of a lessor, the lessee, and one who desired to acquire the residue of the term, that the lessee should be released from liability, the lease surrendered, and a "new lease" executed for the residue of the term "on the same terms and conditions in all respects" as the original lease, the phrase "new lease" is referable to the document and not to the agreement creating the relation of landlord and tenant; hence, the new tenant is entitled to a lease containing the same option to purchase as was in the original lease. 32 Am J1st L & T § 308.

newly acquired vehicle. A term familiar in automobile insurance policies extending the coverage, within limitations, beyond the specific vehicle designated in the policy to a vehicle acquired after the inception of the policy. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins §§ 100 et seq.

newly discovered assets. Assets of a bankrupt coming to light after the closing of the estate in bankruptcy. Assets of a bankrupt which the bankrupt did not schedule, and which should have been administered for the benefit of the creditors. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1273.

newly discovered evidence. Evidence discovered after verdict or decision. As ground for new trial:—evidence discovered since the trial, which could not have been discovered before the trial by the exercise of due diligence, and which is material to the issue, and not merely cumulative or impeaching. 39 Am J1st New Tr § 158.

"New proof," to be available in a bill of review, must be such as could not have been discovered before the hearing by the exercise of reasonable diligence. Ketchum v Breed, 66 Wis 85, 26 NW 271.

Facts or evidence forgotten at trial as newly discovered evidence which will warrant grant of new trial in civil case. Anno: 50 ALR2d 994.

new matter. That which, in defense, the defendant must plead affirmatively and prove. 29 Am J2d Ev § 129; 41 Am J1st Pl § 156. Acts, transactions, or happenings which occurred subsequent to those complained of by the plaintiff and which do not form a part of the original contract or transaction but are independent of it. 41 Am J1st Pl § 156. Whatever fact, if proved, would not tend to contradict the plaintiff's pleading, but would tend to establish some circumstance, transaction, or conclusion of fact not inconsistent with the truth of all the allegations in such pleading. Baldwin Locomotive Works v Edward Hines Lumber Co. 189 Ind 189, 125 NE 400, 127 NE 275, 13 ALR 1059.

new promise. A promise in addition to, or substituted for, the promise in an original agreement. 17 Am J2d Contr §§ 459 et seq. A promise made in writing by a debtor to his creditor after the cause of action is barred by the statute of limitations, to revive it, or before the action is barred, to keep it alive. Hellman v Kiene, 73 Iowa 448, 35 NW 516.

new proof. See newly discovered evidence.

news. Information, particularly information recently discovered or ascertained. Reports of recent occurrences of varied character, covering political, social, moral, religious, and other subjects, local or foreign, intended for the information of the general reader. Apparently authentic reports of current events of interest. 39 Am J1st Newsp § 2.

News is not always synonymous with facts, in the sense of verity. Much news ultimately proves fictitious, yet it is news notwithstanding. The word means no more (laying aside hoaxing and intentional falsehood) than apparently authentic reports of current events of interest. Associated Press v International News Service (CA2 NY) 245 F 244, 2 ALR 317, 318.

news company. A company engaged in the distribution of newspapers, magazines, other periodicals, and news sheets to stores which retail such publication.

new series. The continuation of a publication, such as the Atlantic Reporter or the American Law Reports, with new numbering of volumes and usually with some change in format.

new servitude. Same as additional servitude.

newspaper. A publication appearing at regular, or almost regular, intervals at short periods of time, as daily or weekly, usually in sheet form, and containing news, that is, reports of happenings of recent occurrence of a varied character, such as political, social, moral, religious, and other subjects of a similar nature, local or foreign, intended for the information of the general reader. 39 Am J1st Newsp § 2.

See official newspaper.

newspaper notice. A notice prepared for and published in a newspaper. The acclaim or criticism of the performance of an actor, musician, or dancer.

newspaper of general circulation. A newspaper of a state, county, city, or town, published for the dissemination of local or telegraphic news and intelligence of a general character, having a subscription list of paying subscribers, and established, printed, and published at regular intervals in such state, city, or town, and reaching all classes of the public. Anno: 68 ALR 547 (statutory definition). A newspaper which circulates at least to some extent among the general public, although it may be devoted to the interests of a particular class of persons and specialize in news and intelligence primarily of interest to that class. 39 Am J1st Newsp § 8. A newspaper which is not restricted to one county, or necessarily restricted to the state itself. State v Koen, 35 Neb 676, 53 NW 595.

A statute exempting "newspapers" from the operation of a sales tax has reference to the natural, plain, and ordinary significance of the word in general and common usage, and does not include magazines or periodicals. Gasson v Gay (Fla) 49 So 2d 525, 21 ALR2d 412.

Newspaper Publicity Law. The act of Congress requiring proprietors of newspapers, magazines, periodicals, etc., to file semi-annual sworn statements with the postmaster general and the local postmaster giving information as to the management, ownership, editorial department, the number of paying subscribers and other data, requiring publication of the statement and denying the use of the mails as a penalty for non-compliance. 39 Am J1st Newsp § 25.

newsstand. A small structure, sometimes not more than a table or desk, located in a hotel or public building, sometimes on the sidewalk in a downtown section, at which newspapers, magazines, racing forms, etc. may be purchased.

[849]

new style calendar. The modern calendar. The Gregorian calendar.

New Talys. See Novae Narrationes.

new trial. A re-examination of an issue of fact by the trial court with a view to correcting errors which have occurred in the course of the former trial. State v Burns, 312 Mo 673, 280 SW 1026, 44 ALR 848. A re-examination in the same court of an issue of fact after a verdict by a jury, a report of a referee or master, or a decision by the court. 39 Am J1st New Tr § 2. A remedy sought by motion made in the same action. 39 Am J1st New Tr § 186.

new trial on appeal. A new trial or trial de novo with limitations.

The normal review on appeal or by error proceeding is confined to consideration of the record below, with no new testimony taken or issues raised in the appellate court, the tendency being to limit appellate courts of final jurisdiction in their consideration of questions of facts. 4 Am J2d A & E § 1. The nearest approach to a complete trial de novo on appeal is in an appeal or error proceeding taken from a decree in equity, where the appellate court can make independent findings of fact, drawing its own conclusions from the evidence, but even in this instance the review is limited to a consideration of the record made in the lower court. 5 Am J2d A & E § 703.

new work. (Civil law.) Structures erected on land; improvements; alterations or additions which have been constructed on structures previously erected.

See extra work.

nexi. (Roman law.) Debtors who were held in bondage by their creditors as security for their debts.

next blood relations. Words of purchase, as synonymous with "children." McCann v McCann, 197 Pa 452, 47 A 743.

next business day. The secular or business day following a Sunday or a holiday. Uniform Negotiable Instruments L § 194. Within the meaning of the limitation of time for a drawee bank to determine whether or not it will pay a check presented for payment:-until midnight of the next business day following the day of presentment of the check. Rock Finance Co. v Central Nat. Bank, 339 Ill App 319, 89 NE2d 828.

next election. See election to fill vacancy in office.

next friend. The person through whom an infant maintains or defends a suit in the absence of a guardian or guardian ad litem. 27 Am J1st Inf §§ 113 et seq. Not a party to the action so as to be subject to interrogation under Rule 33 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. Ju Shu Cheung v Dulles (DC Mass) 16 FRD 550.

next heirs. A term of art, ordinarily constituting words of limitation. Hamilton v Sidwell, 131 Ky 428, 115 SW 204; Price v Griffin, 150 NC 523, 64 SE 372; Davenport v Eskew, 69 SC 292, 48 SE 223.

next legal heirs. A term of art, ordinarily constituting words of limitation.

See next heirs.

next of kin. Those persons nearest in degree of blood relationship to whom the personal property of an intestate is distributed. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 43. Strictly speaking, not synonymous with "heirs," who take the real estate of an intestate, although sometimes referred to as such. Tillman v Davis, 95 NY 17. Sometimes implying those persons who are entitled to the property of an estate whether they in fact bear any blood relationship or not. Wilcoxon v Owen, 237 Ala 169, 185 So 897, 125 ALR 539. As the term appears in a will:-the nearest blood relatives of the testator, except as the context of the will, properly construed in the light of the surrounding circumstances, indicates a broader significance, 57 Am J1st Wills § 1375; ordinarily inclusive of persons of the half blood. Anno: 49 ALR2d 1372. As used in a workmen's compensation act, nearest in degree of relationship. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 171. In respect to preference in appointment as administrator, ordinarily those persons who take the personal estate of the deceased under the statutes of distribution. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 53.

The Massachusetts rule is that the term "next of kin," as used in a will, means the nearest blood relatives of the designated person, rather than those who would take under the statute of distributions, where the will contains nothing tending to show use of the words in a different sense. Agricultural Nat. Bank v Schwartz, 325 Mass 443, 91 NE2d 195, 32 ALR2d 289.

next-to-beer. Another name for near beer. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 11.

nexum. (Roman law.) A formal contract between a debtor and his creditor whereby the debtor pledged his personal liberty as security for his indebtedness.

nexus theory. Same as minimum contacts test.

N. F. Abbreviation of Norman French.

n/f. An abbreviation of no funds, stamped upon a check when payment refused for want of funds of the drawer.

N. G. Abbreviation of National Guard.

Nicene. The appellation given a religious creed promulgated in 325 A. D. at the first general council of Christians held at Nicea in Asia Minor.

niche. A hollowed space in a wall where a cinerary urn is or may be placed. 14 Am J2d Cem § 1.

nichil. Nothing.

nickel machine. An older term for slot machine.

nickname. Literally, a nicked name, a name snipped or whittled. A name applied to a person other than his true name, sometimes as a joke or in derision, at other times as a term of affection. 38 Am J1st Name § 8. A name given in contempt, derision, or sportive familiarity,—a familiar or opprobrious appellation. Ohlman v Clarkson Sawmill Co. 222 Mo 62, 120 SW 1155. As used in a will, sometimes, but not always, inclusive of a grandniece. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1390.

See nephews and nieces.

niece. The daughter of one's brother or sister. A relative in the third degree according to the civil-law method of computing degrees of kinship which prevails in most American jurisdictions. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 48.

As the term is used in statutes relating to incest and prohibiting marriage between uncle and niece, it is confined to relationship by consanguinity and does not refer to relations by affinity. State v Tucker, 174 Ind 715, 93 NE 3.

See nephews and nieces.

[850]

niefe. Feminine of naif.

nient. (Latin origin.) Not; nothing.

nient comprise. Not included.

nient culpable. Not guilty.

nient dedire. Not to deny; to default.

nient le fait. Not the deed.

nient seisi. Not seized.

night. The hours of darkness. A manifestation of the natural phenomena of the rotation of the earth. 29 Am J2d Evi § 100.

See nighttime.

night auction. An auction sale at night, sometimes prohibited by law. 7 Am J2d Auct § 5.

night deposit. A bank deposit made after banking hours by placing the deposit and deposit slip in a bag or secure package and then placing the bag or package in a chute provided by the bank for receiving such deposits. 10 Am J2d Banks § 358.

night message. A classification of service by a telegraph company for which a reduced rate is charged, made according to the time of transmission. 52 Am J1st Teleg & T § 147.

night owl. See owling.

night season. Same as nighttime.

nighttime. A time of day characterized by want of daylight or crepusculum sufficient to discern a man's face, moonlight not being considered. 13 Am J2d Burgl § 22. Sometimes defined by statute as the period between sunset and sunrise. Anno: 82 ALR2d 644, §§ 1 et seq.

nightwalker. See nightwalking.

nightwalking. The offense committed by a woman in strolling the streets at night for the unlawful purpose of picking up men for illicit intercourse, irrespective of expectation of gain. 42 Am J1st Prost § 1. Making a habit of being abroad at night for the purpose of committing some crime, of disturbing the peace, or doing some wrongful or wicked act. State v Dowers, 45 NH 543, 544.

Nigrum nunquam excedere debet rubrum. The black should never depart from or go beyond the red, meaning that, the black ink text of the statute should not include matters which are not referred to in the red ink title.

nightwatchman. See watchman.

night work. Employment at night, a matter of permissible statutory regulation in reference to women and children, and in reference to particular industries, even of men. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 782.

nihil. Nothing; not; the return of a sheriff who has found nothing belonging to the defendant whereby he may be summoned, attached, or distrained. See 3 Bl Comm 282.

Nihil aliud potest rex quam quod de jure potest. The king can do nothing other than that which he can do under the law.

Nihil capiat per billam. Let him take nothing by his bill,—a formal expression which was used in a decree in equity in favor of the defendant.

Nihil capiat per breve. Let him take nothing by his writ; a formal expression used in a judgment in favor of the defendant.

Nihil consensui tam contrarium est quam vis atque metus. (Civil law.) Nothing is as much opposed to consent as force and fear.

Nihil dat qui non habet. He can give nothing who has nothing to give.

nihil debit. Same as nil debit.

Nihil de re accrescit ei qui nihil in re quando jus accresceret habet. Nothing accrues to a person in respect to a thing who, when the right accrues, has no interest in the thing.

nihil dicit. He says nothing.

Nihil enim aliud potest rex, nisi id solum quod de jure potest. For the king can do nothing, excepting only that which he is able to do lawfully. See 1 Bl Comm 238.

nihil est. There is nothing. A sheriff's proper return on a summons where no service can be made.

Although non est inventus, he has not been found, is the more common form of such return, it is not as full as nihil est, there is nothing; which amounts to an averment that the defendant has nothing in the bailiwick, no dwelling house, no family, no residence, and no personal presence to enable the officer to make the service. Sherer v Easton Bank, 33 Pa 134, 138.

Nihil est enim liberate quod non idem justum. For there is nothing generous which is not at the same time just.

Nihil est magis rationi consentaneum quam eodem modo quodque dissolvere quo conflatum est. Nothing is more agreeable with reason than to discharge anything in the same manner in which it was wrought or brought into being.

Nihil facit error nominis cum de corpore constat. (Civil law.) An error in the name is of no consequence when there is certainty as to the person.

nihil habet. A sheriff's return on a scire facias as to a defendant whom he failed to serve. Sullivan v Johns (Pa) 5 Whart 366, 369.

Nihil habet forum ex scena. The forum holds nothing beyond the stage, meaning that the court or tribunal has nothing to do with what is not before it.

Nihil infra regnum subditos magis conservat in tranquillitate et concordia quam debita ligum administratio. Nothing better preserves the subjects of the realm in tranquillity and concord than the due administration of the laws.

Nihil iniquius quam aequitatem nimis intendere. Nothing is more unfair than to stretch equity too far.

Nihil in lege intolerabilius est, eandem rem diverso jure censi. Nothing is more intolerable in law than that the same matter should be decided differently by the court.

[851]

Nihil magis justum est quam quod necessarium est. Nothing is more just than that which is necessary.

Nihil nequam est praesumendum. Nothing bad or wicked should be presumed.

nihilo nil. See de nihilo nil.

Nihil perfectum est dum aliquid restat agendum. Nothing is perfect while something remains to be done.

Nihil peti potest ante id tempus, quo per rerum naturam persolvi possit. (Civil law.) Nothing can be demanded before the time when in the nature of things it can be paid.

Nihil possumus contra veritatem. We can do nothing against truth.

Nihil praescribitur nisi quod possidetur. There is no prescription except for that which is possessed or held in possession.

Nihil quod est contra rationem est licitum. Nothing is lawful which is contrary to reason.

Nihil quod est inconueniens est licitum. Nothing which is unconventional is lawful. See 1 Bl Comm 70.

Nihil simul inventum est et perfectum. Nothing is invented and perfected at the same time.

Nihil tam conueniens est naturali aequitati quam unumquodque dissolvi eo ligamine quo ligatum est. Nothing is so agreeable to natural equity as that anything should be released or discharged in the same manner in which it was made binding.

Nihil tam conueniens est naturali aequitati, quam voluntatem domini volentis rem suam in alium transferre, ratam haberi. Nothing is so agreeable to natural equity as that the will of an owner who desires to convey or transfer his own property to another person should have validity.

Nihil tam naturale est, quam eo genere quidque dissolvere, quo colligatum est. Nothing is so natural as that anything should be released or discharged in the same manner in which it was made binding.

Nihil tam proprium imperio quam legibus vivere. Nothing is so closely connected with government as to live in conformity with the laws.

nil. A contracted form of nihil.

NIL. Abbreviation of Negotiable Instruments Act.

Nil agit exemplum, litem quod lite resolvit. A precedent which settles a controversy with a controversy does no good. Hatch v Mann (NY) 15 Wend 44, 49.

nil capiat. See judgment of nil capiat.

Nil capiat per billam. Same as Nihil capiat per billam.

Nil capiat per breve. See judgment of nil capiat per breve.

Nil debet. He owes nothing. A plea of the general issue which may be asserted by the defendant in an action of debt on a simple contract, and in all other actions of debt which are not founded on a specialty or conclusive record. 41 Am J1st Pl § 141.

Nil dicit. He says nothing, meaning that he has not pleaded; that he has failed to interpose a plea or answer to the plaintiff's declaration or complaint. Wilbur v Maynard, 6 Colo 483, 485.

Nil facit error nominis si de corpore constat. Same as Nihil facit error, etc.

Nil frustra agit lex. The law does nothing in vain. Doe, ex dem. Gouverneur's Heirs, v Robertson, (US) 11 Wheat 332, 355, 6 L Ed 488, 494.

Nil habuit in tenementis. He has no interest in the tenement.

Nil sine prudenti fecit ratione vetustas. Antiquity did nothing without a wise or prudent reason.

Nil temere novandum. Nothing should be rashly changed or altered.

Nimia certitudo certitudinem ipsam destruit. A certainty which is too certain destroys itself.

Nimia subtilitas in jure reprobatur. Too much subtlety is discountenanced in the law.

Nimia subtilitas in jure reprobatur, et talis certitudo certitudinem confundit. Too much subtlety is discountenanced in the law, and too much subtlety confuses certainty with certainty.

Nimum altercando, veritas amittitur. The truth is lost by too much cross-examination.

nimmer. A thief.

nine hundred ninety-nine year lease. A lease for a term of 999 years, valid in respect of the term in the absence of statute. 32 Am J1st L & T § 64.

Nineteenth Amendment. The amendment to the United States Constitution, the ratification of which was completed on August 26, 1920, the effect of which is to erase from the constitution and laws of each state every provision restricting the right of women to vote, and to make women legal voters to the same extent to which the right of suffrage has been conferred on men by the respective states. Anno: 71 ALR 1332.

ninety-nine year lease. A lease for a term of 99 years, valid in respect of the term, in the absence of statute. 32 Am J1st L & T § 64.

nisi. Unless; if not; except.

nisi convenissent in manum viri. Unless they should come under the care of a husband.

[852]

Among the ancient Greeks and Romans women were never of age, but were subject to perpetual guardianship, unless when married. See 1 Bl Comm 464.

nisi decree. See decree nisi.

nisi feceris. Unless you should do it.

nisi judgment. Nothing more than an order to show cause why judgment should not be rendered. Young v M'Pherson, 3 NJL 895, 897.

See decree nisi.

nisi order. See order nisi.

nisi per legale iudicium parium. See pares regni.

Nisi per legale iudicium parium suorum vel per legem terrae. Unless by lawful judgment of his peers or equals, or by the law of the land.

It was in these famous words that Magna Charta guaranteed to every freeman the right of trial by jury, "the principal bulwark of our liberties," when his person or his property was at stake. See 3 Bl Comm 350.

nisi prius. Unless before. A trial before a single judge. An English court presided over by commissioners detailed on circuit from London to hold jury trials. In modern terminology, the trial, as distinguished from the appellate court, where both have exercised jurisdiction in a cause.

nisi prius court. The trial court.

nisi prius roll. The record of the proceedings of the court in which a case was begun made up for the nisi prius court.

nisi prius writ. An old English writ which directed a sheriff to bring the jurors to Westminster unless before that time the justices of assize came into the county to try cases.

nisi rule. See rule nisi.

nisi ubi leges cum iusticia retrospicere possint. Unless where laws can relate back with justice. Pryor v Downey, 50 Cal 388, 402.

nitrate of soda. A mineral. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 5.

nitroglycerin. A substance which because of its nature as an explosive is dangerous at all times, in all places, and under all circumstances. 22 Am J2d Explos § 3. A substance compounded in a mixture of nitric acid, sulphuric acid and glycerin, which explodes even more readily when heated. Barnhardt v American Glycerin Co. 113 Kan 136, 213 P 663, 31 ALR 721.

nixie. A decoy or test letter; that is, a letter addressed to a fictitious person, or to a place where there is no postoffice. United States v Denicke (CC Ga) 35 F 407.

n. 1. An abbreviation of non liquet.

NLRB. Abbreviation of National Labor Relations Board.

no. An abbreviation of number. Improper as an abbreviation of "north," "n." being the proper definition. Burr v Broadway Ins. Co. 16 NY 267, 271.

no action clause. A clause in an insurance policy purporting to indemnify or insure against loss from injuring the property or person of a third person, which provides in substance that no action shall be had on the policy to recover loss or expense, except as an action shall be brought by the insured for a loss or expense actually sustained and paid in money by the insured after the amount thereof has been fixed by final judgment or by agreement. 7 Am J2d Auto § 169; 29A Am J1st Ins § 1343.

no arrival, no sale. A stated condition in a contract of sale of goods, meaning that if the goods do not arrive at the destination indicated, the buyer acquires no property in the goods and does not become liable for the purchase price. Cundill v A. W. Millhauser Corp. 257 NY 416, 178 NE 680.

It has been held that a contract for goods "to be shipped" by a specified vessel at a price per pound "ex ship," with a provision for a fair allowance if "sea damaged," and saying "no arrival, no sale," does not make the arrival of the goods on the vessel named a condition precedent, where a portion of them are transhipped at an intermediate port because of a disaster to the vessel. See 46 Am J1st Sales § 201.

no award. A plea in an action upon an award which denies that an award was made.

nobile. See feudum nobile.

Nobiles magis plectuntur pecunia. Persons of noble birth are more often punished in money; that is, by fines.

Nobiles magis plectuntur pecunia, plebes vero in corpore. Persons of noble birth are more often punished in money, but the common people in body; that is by corporal punishment.

Nobiles sunt qui arma gentilitia antecessorum suorum proferre possunt. Those persons are nobles who can produce the family arms of their ancestors.

Nobiliores et benigniores presumptiones in dubiis sunt praeferendae. The more noble and charitable presumptions are to be preferred in doubtful cases.

Nobilitas est duplex, superior et inferior. Nobility is twofold, superior and inferior.

nobility. The English class of persons of rank and title which includes dukes, marquesses, earls, viscounts, and barons.

All degrees of nobility and honor are derived from the king, and he may institute what new titles he pleases. Hence, these degrees are not of equal antiquity. See 1 Bl Comm 396.

no bill. An indorsement by a grand jury on an indictment, indicating "not found" or "not a true bill."

noblesse oblige. (French.) Literally, those of the higher rank or better class will be compelled. Inferentially, compelled to humane and proper conduct. The basis of the maxim that those persons who are in comfortable circumstances and possessed of means should set the example of obedience to the laws. State v Colonial Club, 154 NC 177, 69 SE 771.

nocent. Guilty.

nocere. To hurt; to injure; to harm; to damage.

no collusion. See affidavit of no collusion.

no consideration. A form of plea or answer interposed in an action on a contract, advising the court that the contract sued on is not enforceable because it has no foundation to rest upon.

[853]

It has been often held that, under such a plea, the defense will fail if it is shown that there was any consideration whatever for the contract. The amount of it is immaterial. Shirk v Neible, 156 Ind 66, 75, 59 NE 281.

noctanter. Nocturnally; by night.

nocumentum. Nuisance, or annoyance, signifying anything that works hurt, inconvenience, or damage. See 3 Bl Comm 215.

no damage clause. A provision in a contract precluding claims for damages due to delay in performance. Anno: 10 ALR2d 815; 22 Am J2d Damg § 50.

no evidence point. A point made on appeal asserting the absence of evidence to support a finding. Williston v Perkins, 51 Cal 554.

no eyewitness rule. The rule that where there was no eyewitness to a fatal accident, the presumption, or at least the inference, is, that, in the absence of circumstances indicating clearly to the contrary, the decedent exercised ordinary care for his own safety. 22 Am J2d Dth § 216.

no goods. A return, better known as a return of nulla bona, to a writ of execution in which the officer indicates a strict and diligent search by him but inability to find any property of the defendant liable to seizure under the writ. 30 Am J2d Exec § 562.

no immunity doctrine. The doctrine that an institution, which is not a part of the government, is not, merely because of its nature as a charity, immune from liability for damages in tort. 15 Am J2d Char § 158.

NOLCO. Abbreviation of net operating loss carry over, an income tax term.

nolens volens. Willing or not willing; whether willing or not.

nolle. To be unwilling.

no liability clause. A clause in a liability policy, providing that there shall be no liability in case the risk is covered by other valid or collectible insurance. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 201.

nolle prosequi. A formal entry of record by the prosecuting attorney by which he declares unwillingness to prosecute a case or his intention not to prosecute the case further. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 512. An agreement not to proceed further in the suit as to a particular person or cause of action. 24 Am J2d Dism § 3. An entry made on the record by which the plaintiff declares that he will proceed no further. Steele v Beaty, 215 NC 680, 2 SE2d 854.

See judgment of nolle prosequi.

nolo contendere. Literally, "I do not wish to contend." Substantially, though not technically, a plea of guilty; an implied confession; a quasi confession of guilt. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 497. A plea recognized in administrative proceedings. Re 17 Club, Inc. 26 NJ Super 43, 97 A2d 171.

It is difficult to define the exact nature of a plea of nolo contendere; regardless of the label attached, the plea for practical purposes is a plea of guilty, or the equivalent thereof. United States v Safeway Stores, Inc. (DC Tex) 20 FRD 451.

nol. pros. Abbreviation of nolle prosequi.

nolustus mutare. Not willing to change. Noble State Bank v Haskell, 219 US 104, 575, 55 L Ed 112, 341, 31 S Ct 186, 299.

nomen. A name.

nomen collectivum. A collective name.

Nomen dicitur a noscendo, quia notitiam facit. "Nomen" is so called from the word "noscendo," because it causes the thing to be known.

Nomen est quasi rei notamen. A name is, as it were, the distinguishing mark of a thing.

nomen generale. A general name; the name of a genus.

nomen generalissimum. A very general name.

A word or term which refers to a class or species is often referred to as nomen generalissimum. For example, the word horse is often used as a general term including mares, colts, stallions and geldings. State v Dunnavent, 5 SCL (3 Brev) 9.

nomen juris. A name or word of law; a law term.

Nomen non sufficit si res non sit de jure aut de facto. A name is not sufficient if the thing does not exist either in law or in fact.

nomina. Plural of nomen.

nominal. Characterizing an existence in name only; without any actual, substantial existence. Park Amusement Co. v McCaughn (DC Pa) 14 F2d 553.

nominal capital. Capital employed in the conduct of a business which is not a material income-producing factor. Alexander & Garrett v United States (DC Ga) 21 F2d 547, term as found in Internal Revenue Act of 1917.

nominal consideration. A consideration in a nominal sum, such as "one dollar." 17 Am J2d Contr § 102; 23 Am J2d Deeds § 66.

nominal damages. An award to which the plaintiff is entitled, although he gives no evidence of any particular amount of loss, because the law infers damage from the breach of an agreement or the invasion of a right. Ferreira v Honolulu Star Bulletin Ltd. 44 Hawaii 567, 356 P2d 651, reh den 44 Hawaii 581, 357 P2d 112. Damages recoverable where a legal right is to be vindicated against an invasion that has produced no actual present loss of any kind or where, from the nature of the case, some compensable injury has been shown but the amount of that injury has not been proved. 22 Am J2d Damg § 5.

nominal holder. The holder of a negotiable bill or note who is not the beneficial owner and has no beneficial interest in the instrument. 12 Am J2d B & N § 1072.

nominal partner. A person who appears or is held out to the world as a partner, but who has no real interest in the firm or the business. Ditts v Lonsdale, 49 Ind 521, 529; Brown's Executor v Higginbotham (Va) 5 Leigh 583.

nominal party. One suing or defending for the use and benefit of another. A person who is the plaintiff in an action, but who is not the real party in interest. One joined as a party to comply with a technical rule of practice, not because he has an interest in the subject matter of the action.

[854]

nominal payee. The payee named in a negotiable instrument who is not the beneficial owner and has no beneficial interest in the instrument. 12 Am J2d B & N § 1073.

nominal plaintiff. See nominal party.

nominal right. A technical right; a right unimportant from the standpoint of substance. 27 Am J2d Eq § 13.

nominal trust. A dry trust; a passive trust. A trust in which the trustee has no duties to perform, the cestui que trust having the entire management of the estate. A trust of such nature that if the trustee does what he is directed to do, the result will be the same as if the trust were executed into a legal estate. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 13.

nominare. To name; to nominate; to appoint; to accuse; to inform against.

Nomina si nescis perit cognitio rerum. If you do not know their names, the knowledge of things is lost.

Nomina sunt mutabilia, res autem immobiles. Names are mutable, but things are immutable.

Nomina sunt notae rerum. Names are the distinguishing marks of things.

Nomina sunt symbola rerum. Names are the symbols of things.

nominate. To name; to designate; to select or choose a person to be a candidate or proper person to hold an office or trust as an act preliminary to the person's appointment or election. Marbury v Madison (US) 1 Cranch 137, 167, 168, 2 L Ed 60, 70.

nominate contract. (Civil law.) A contract which falls under some special designation or name, such as a pledge, a sale, or a hiring.

nominatim. (Civil law.) By name; expressly; particularly; each in turn.

nominating and reducing. An English method of impaneling jurors.

nomination. The act of nominating. A designation or selection. The designation of a candidate or candidates for public office or public offices, whether by a primary election, a convention, or a mere nominating petition. 25 Am J2d Elect § 128.

nomination of guardian. The selection of a guardian by an infant 14 years old or older. 25 Am J1st G & W §28.

nominator. One who names or appoints another to or for an office or trust.

nomine. See eo nomine.

nomine damni. Under the name or designation of "damages."

nominee. A person who has been chosen or selected as a candidate for an office. State v Hirsch, 125 Ind 207, 24 NE 1062.

nomine poenae. Under the name or designation of the word "penalty."

non. Not; no; by no means.

nonabatable nuisance. See permanent nuisance.

nonabatable structure. A structure which, if erected by an authority clothed with the power of eminent domain, could be made a lawful structure by condemning the property injured by it or the right infringed by it. Tulsa v Grier, 114 Okla 93, 243 P 753, 757.

See permanent nuisance.

nonability. The want of ability or capacity; legal incapacity.

nonacceptance. Want of acceptance.

See dishonor by nonacceptance.

Non acceptavit. He did not accept.

nonaccess. Absence of sexual relations between husband and wife. The fact of the absence of the husband from the wife, in evidence for the purpose of establishing the absence of sexual relations between them for the period.

Non accipi debent verba in demonstrationem falsam, quae competunt in limitationem veram. Words ought not to be taken in a false descriptive sense which are competent to describe a true limitation.

Non accrevit infra sex annos. It did not accrue within six years,—a formal expression used in pleading the statute of limitations.

nonaction by Congress. See inaction by Congress.

nonae. Same as nones.

nonage. The condition of a person under the age of majority; infancy. Want of the requisite age to enter into a marriage or conduct a business transaction.

nonagency station. A station on the route of a common carrier without an agent in charge, so that the delivery of a shipment at such station occurs ordinarily when the goods are unloaded or set off thereat, under conditions which are not unreasonable. 13 Am J2d Car § 413.

nonagium. Same as nonage.

Non alio modo puniatur aliquis, quam secundum quod se habet condemnatio. A person should not be punished in any other manner than that which the sentence of the court provides.

Non aliter a significatione verborum recedi oportet quam cum manifestum est, aliud sensisse testatorem. (Civil law.) The ordinary meaning of the words ought not to be departed from unless it is manifest or clear that the testator intended otherwise.

non allocatur. See et non allocatur.

nonanalogous arts and uses. See analogous arts and uses.

nonancestral estate. An estate the title to which was acquired otherwise than by descent.

There are but two characters of estate known to our jurisprudence. An estate is either ancestral or nonancestral. In some jurisdictions, the latter is termed 'new acquisition' or 'purchase.' " Gray v Chapman, 122 Okla 130, 243 P 522, 524.

nonancestral property. Property acquired otherwise than by descent. Gray v Chapman, 122 Okla 130, 243 P 522.

nonapparent easement. An easement which is not obvious or susceptible of ascertainment by cursory inspection of the premises. 25 Am J2d Ease § 9.

See noncontinuous easement.

nonappearance. The failure of a defendant to enter an appearance in an action. The failure of a party or witness to appear in response to notice, process, or subpoena.

nonapportionable annuity. The ordinary annuity; an annuity not apportionable in respect of time, so that if the annuity dies before the day on which a payment becomes due, the personal representative of the annuitant is not entitled to a proportional part. 4 Am J2d Annui § 24.

non assumpsit. A plea of the general issue in an action of assumpsit. 41 Am J1st Pl § 141.

Non assumpsit infra sex annos. He did not undertake or promise within six years,—formal words used in pleading the statute of limitations in an action of assumpsit.

Non auditur perire volens. A person who desires to die is not to be listened to.

non bis in idem. Not twice for the same.

nonborrowing member. A member of a building and loan association who does not borrow from the association. Oklahoma City Federal Sav. & Loan Assn. v Swatek, 191 Okla 400, 130 P2d 514.

nonbusiness bad debt. A familiar term in income tax law, applying only to noncorporate taxpayers; a bad debt acquired otherwise than in the course of a taxpayer's trade or business. IRC § 166(d)(2).

noncancelable policy. A policy of insurance containing provisions which limit the right of the insurer to cancel the policy, particularly a policy of health and accident insurance restricting cancellation after an illness or accident occurring to the insured. Dudgeon v Mutual Ben. Health & Acci. Assn. 70 F2d 49.

non cepit. A plea of the general issue in replevin. 41 Am J1st Pl § 142.

Non cepit modo et forma. He did not take in the manner and form (alleged),—a formal expression used in pleading the general issue in an action of replevin.

nonclaim. The failure on the part of a claimant of property or rights to assert his claim against another who claims adversely to him.

nonclaim covenant. The equivalent of a covenant of warranty. 20 Am J2d Cov § 43.

nonclaim statute. A special statute of limitation on claims against a decedent's estate, providing, in general, that where a claim has been rejected or disallowed by the executor or administrator, the claimant must bring suit on it within a designated time, under penalty that otherwise the claim may be forever barred. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 926. A statute requiring the presentation of a claim on the obligation of one since deceased to his executor or administrator, within a period of time prescribed by the statute, following the appointment of the executor or administrator. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 270.

noncombatant. A civilian in time of war, especially a civilian in a war area. One in the armed services whose duties do not include engaging in combat with the enemy, such as a chaplain.

noncommercial partnership. Same as non-trading partnership.

noncommissioned officer. A person enlisted in the Armed Forces, who has some rank, but not a rank evidenced by a commission.

See warrant officer.

noncommittal answer. An answer by a witness which avoids a definite statement, such as "I could not say—possibly I did." Anno: 89 ALR2d 1261, § 1.

non-Communist affidavit. An affidavit negating the connection of the affiant with the Communist Party by membership or affiliation. American Communications Assn. v Douds, 339 US 382, 94 L Ed 925, 70 S Ct 674, reh den 339 US 990, 94 L Ed 1391, 70 S Ct 1017.

noncommunity property. A term familiar in community property jurisdictions as property which is not a part of the community. Separate property of a spouse. 15 Am J2d Community Prop § 3.

non compos. Same as non compos mentis.

non compos mentis. Adjective: Mentally incompetent. Having a mental condition approximating total and positive incompetency; destitute of memory and understanding. Van Deusen v Sweet, 51 NY 378. Noun: A person of unsound mind. Beaumont's Case (Pa) 1 Whart 52.

non compotes mentis. Plural of non compos mentis.

Non concedantur citationes priusquam exprimatur super qua re fieri decit citatio. Citations ought not to be granted before it has been stated for what cause it is fitting that a citation should be made or issued.

non concessit. He did not grant.

nonconforming use. A zoning law term; the use of a building or land that does not agree with the regulations applicable to the district in which the building or land is situated. Anno: 114 ALR 991.

nonconformists. Dissenters, persons who dissented from the forms of the orthodox English church.

Non consentit qui errat. He who errs or makes a mistake does not consent.

non constat. It is not certain; it does not appear.

noncontestable clause. See incontestability provision.

noncontinuous easement. An easement the enjoyment of which can be had only by the interference of man, that is, one which has no means specially constructed or appropriated to its enjoyment and which is enjoyed at intervals, leaving between these intervals no visible sign of its existence, such as a mere right of way or a right to draw water. 25 Am J2d Ease § 10.

noncourt receiver. A receiver provided for in a contract in which one of the contracting parties is given the right to appoint a receiver of certain property upon the happening of a certain eventuality. A receiver appointed by a government official of the executive branch. 45 Am J1st Rec § 3.

non cul. An abbreviation of non culpabilis.

non culpabilis. Not guilty.

[856]

noncumulative dividends. Dividends on preferred stock which do not cumulate upon omission of payment so as to require payment of a passed or omitted dividend of one year out of earnings of a following year. 19 Am J2d Corp § 878.

The term means that dividends on non-cumulative preferred stock, once passed or omitted, are dead; can never be made up. Guttman v Illinois Cent. R. Co. (CA2) 189 F2d 927, 27 ALR2d 1066.

noncumulative option. An option provided the maker of a promissory note by the instrument, whereunder he may make payments of principal on dates for payment of interest, in advance of the stated maturity date. 11 Am J2d B & N § 288.

non damnificatus. See plea of non damnificatus.

Non dat qui non habet. He does not give who has not. Holland v Cruft, 69 Mass (3 Gray) 162, 178.

Non debeo melioris conditionis esse, quam auctor meus a quo jus in me transit. I ought not to be in any better condition than my ancestor from whom the right passed on to me.

Non deberet alii nocere quod inter alios actum esset. That ought not to prejudice a person which has been done between other persons.

Non debet actori licere, quod reo non permittitur. That which is forbidden the plaintiff ought not to be allowed the defendant.

Non debet adduci exceptio ejus rei cujus petitur dissolutio. A plea of the very matter, the determination of which is sought, ought not to be interposed.

Non debet alii nocere, quod inter alios actum est. That ought not to prejudice a person which has transpired between other persons.

Non debet alteri per alterum iniqua conditio inferri. An inequitable condition ought not to be imposed by one person upon another.

Non debet cui plus licet, quod minus est non licere. A person to whom a greater license is given ought not to be forbidden that which is less.

Non debet dici tendere in praejudicium ecclesiasticae libertatis quod pro rege et republica necessarium videtur. That which is deemed necessary for the welfare of the king and the state ought not to be said to tend toward the prejudice of ecclesiastical liberty.

Non debet fieri, sed factum valet. It ought not to be done, but when it is done it is valid.

Non decet homines dedere causa non cognita. No cause having been shown, it is unseemly to give men up. Re Washburn (NY) 4 Johns Ch 106, 114.

non decimando. See de non decimando.

Non decipitur qui scit se decipi. A person is not deceived who knows that he is being deceived.

nondeclarant. See alien nondeclarant.

Non dedit. He did not grant.

Non definitur in jure quid sit conatus. What constitutes an attempt is not defined in the law.

nondelegable duty. The duty of a contractor which, under the terms of the contract, is to be performed by him personally. 27 Am J1st Ind Contr § 48.

nondelivery. A failure or omission to deliver.

non demisit. He did not demise,—the name given to a plea denying the demise, in an action for rent.

nondescript. Not such as to be classified. Babcock v Babcock & Wilcox Co. 137 Pa Super 517, 9 A2d 492.

non desidentia clerici regis. See de non desidentia clerici regis.

non detinet. A plea of the general issue in an action of detinue.

non differunt quae concordant re, tametsi non in verbis iisdem. Those matters do not differ which agree in substance although they are not in the same words.

nondisclosure. The failure to reveal a fact, with or without an intent to conceal it. State v Watson, 145 Kan 792, 67 P2d 515, 110 ALR 998; Tube Reducing Corp. v Unemployment Compensation Com. 1 NJ 177, 62 A2d 473, 5 ALR2d 855.

nondiscrimination clause. A provision in a public contract whereby the contractor agrees that he will not discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of race, creed, color or national origin, and also that he will take affirmative action to insure that job applicants are employed, and employees are treated during employment, without regard to their race, creed, color or national origin. Executive Order No. 10925, § 301(1) following 5 USC § 631.

nonenumerated article. An article not specifically enumerated in the tariff schedules. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 51.

non distringendo. A writ which lay to prevent a distress.

Non dormientibus sed vigilantibus, leges subveniunt. The laws do not assist slumberers, but only those who are vigilant. Friezleben v Shallcross, 14 Del (9 Houst) 1, 19 A 576.

Non dubitatur, etsi specialiter venditor evictionem non promiserit, re evicta, ex empto competere actionem. It is not doubted that although the vendor has not specially promised, in the event of an eviction, an action on the contract of sale is competent. See Broom's Legal Maxims 768.

Non efficit affectus nisi sequatur effectus. An intention is of no effect unless a result follows.

non ejusdem generis. Not of the same kind. See 2 Bl Comm 512.

[857]

Non erit alia lex Romae, alia Athenis; alia nunc, alia posthac; sed et omnes gentes, et omni tempore, una lex, et sempiterna, et immortalis continebit. There will not be one law at Rome, another at Athens; one now and another afterward; but one law, eternal and immortal, shall bind all peoples together and for all time.

nones. The ninth hour of the day after sunrise, or about 3 o'clock P. M.; a canonical hour at which was celebrated a religious rite. Rochester German Ins. Co. v Peaslee-Gaulbert Co. 120 Ky 752, 87 SW 3. Under the Roman Calendar, the seventh day of the months of March, May, July, and October, and the fifth day of the other months of the year. Rives v Guthrie, 46 NC (I Jones L) 84, 87.

non est. Is no. Is not.

Non est arctius vinculum inter homines quam jusjurandum. There is no closer bond among men than an oath.

Non est certandum de regulis juris. There is no disputing about the rules of the law.

Non est disputandum contra principia negantem. There is no disputing with a person who denies established principles.

non est factum. A plea of the general issue in an action on a bond, a specialty, or a covenant, impeaching the instrument upon which suit is brought or denying the execution and signing thereof. Dilworth v Federal Reserve Bank, 170 Miss 373, 154 So 535, 92 ALR 1076. A method at common law of raising the issue of fraud in the making or act of execution of a deed. Kuczewski v De Magnussun, 242 Mich 296, 218 NW 657, 57 ALR 756; Dimmel v Morse, 36 Wash 2d 344, 218 P2d 334. A defense presented in equity by a plea in bar. Oliver v Persons, 30 Ga 391.

Non est in facultate mandatarii addere vel demere ordini sibi dato. It is not the function of a mandatary to add or subtract from the authority which has been given to him.

"He (the mandatary) was not authorized to exchange the lands for other property, or to accept the notes of the vendee as cash, or to accept personal security, or any form of security except that specified in the condition." Morrill v Cone (US) 22 How 75, 16 L Ed 253, 255.

Non est inventus. He has not been found—words that are used in an officer's formal return upon his unsuccessful attempt to arrest a defendant under a capias.

Non est inventus in balliva mea. He has not been found in my bailiwick. A form of a sheriff's return on a capias, where he has been unable to find the defendant in his jurisdiction. See 3 Bl Comm 282.

Non est justum aliquem antenatum post mortem facere bastardum, qui tote tempore vitae suae pro legitimo habebatur. It is not just to make anyone a bastard after his death who during his whole lifetime was regarded as legitimate.

Non est novum ut priores leges ad posteriores trahantur. (Civil law.) It is not novel that earlier laws should give way to later ones. Broom's Legal Maxims 28.

Non est recedendum a communi observanti. There should be no departing from common observance.

Non est regula quin fallat. There is no rule which may not fail.

Non est reus nisi mens sit rea. There is no guilt unless there is a guilty intent.

Non est singulis concedendum, quod per magistratum publice possit fieri, ne occasio sit majoris tumultus faciendi. (Civil law.) That which can be done publicly through a magistrate is not to be conceded to individuals, lest it be the occasion of creating a greater disturbance.

nones y pares. A game of chance played on a billiard table. Anno: 135 ALR 124.

nonexclusive power of appointment. A power whereunder the donee has no right to exclude from the distribution any member of the class designated by the donor, grantor, or testator to be favored by the exercise of the power. Fidelity & Columbia Trust Co. v Barret, 166 Ky 411, 179 SW 396.

Non exemplis sed legibus judicandum est. (Roman law.) Judgment should not be rendered from examples, but by the laws.

nonexistent person. A term of importance in reference to fictitious payee. 11 Am J2d B & N § 128. A person who does not exist, in the sense that he was not intended to be the payee by the drawer or maker. 11 Am J2d B & N § 129.

nonexisting bill. A concept involved in the principle that where a promise to accept a nonexisting bill is communicated to a particular person who, upon the face of the promise, takes for value a bill to which it is applicable and which is fairly within the scope of the promise, he is entitled to the benefits of such promise and may maintain an action thereon in his own name. 11 Am J2d B & N § 511.

nonexisting payee. An instrument payable to the order of a nonexisting person, such constituting an instrument payable to bearer where the fact of nonexistence was known to the person making the instrument so payable. 11 Am J2d B & N § 128.

Non ex opinionibus singulorum, sed ex communi usu, nomina exaudiri debent. (Civil law.) The names of things ought not to be learned from individual opinions, but from common usage.

nonexpert evidence. Testimony by one not qualified where particular qualifications are imposed as a prerequisite to the admission of testimony.

Non facias malum, ut inde veniat bonum. You should not do a wicked thing in order that good may come out of it.

[858]

nonfeasance. The failure to act where duty requires an act. Of public officer:—neglect or refusal, without sufficient excuse, to do that which it is the officer's legal duty to do, whether wilfully, or through malice, ignorance, or oversight. State ex rel. Hardie v Coleman, 115 Fla 119, 155 So 129, 92 ALR 988. Of employee:—the failure to enter upon the performance of a duty which the contract of employment imposes upon an employee, Anno: 20 ALR 104 s. 99 ALR 409; the total omission or failure of an employee to enter upon the performance of some distinct duty or undertaking which he has agreed with his employer to do, Hagerty v Montana Ore Purchasing Co. 38 Mont 69, 98 P 643; the omission to do some act which ought to be performed. A matter of "not doing." 35 Am J1st M & S § 586. Of agent:—the total omission or failure of an agent to enter upon the performance of some distinct duty or undertaking which he has agreed with his principal to do. Anno: 20 ALR 104.

Non fecit. He did not do it,—the name given to a plea which denied that the defendant was the maker of the instrument sued on.

Non fecit vastum contra prohibitionem. He has not committed waste in violation of the prohibition,—a form of plea interposed by a tenant against whom a writ of estrepement had been brought. See 3 Bl Comm 226.

nonforfeiture provision. A provision of life insurance policy, or of a statute applicable to such a policy, that in the event of the lapse of the policy when it has a reserve value, the insured shall be entitled under options as follows: (1) to receive the cash surrender value; (2) to have the insurance policy continue in force for the full amount for such a period of extended insurance as the reserve, applied on the single-premium basis, will purchase; (3) or to have the policy become a paid-up policy for such amount as the reserve will purchase. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 620. The provision in a statute whereby a life insurance company is precluded from issuing a policy which provides for the forfeiture of the same upon failure of the insured to pay a loan on the policy or interest thereon, without reference to the fact, as it may be in a particular case, that the total indebtedness on the policy, principal and interest, is less than the loan value. Keeley v Mutual Life Ins. Co. (CA7 Ill) 113 F2d 633.

non-functional. Lacking in usefulness.

See functional.

nongeneral power of appointment. See special power of appointment.

Non haec in foedera veni. I did not enter into this agreement. Smith v United States (US) 2 Wall 219, 17 L Ed 788, 792.

nonimmigrant. A person who enters the United States with the intent to spend some time therein but without any idea of becoming a citizen. An alien coming into the country in a status distinct from that of an immigrant, such as that of a student, crewman of a foreign vessel, accredited representative of a foreign government, etc. 8 USC § 1101(15).

Non impedit clausula derogatoria, quo minus ab eadem potestate res dissolvantur a quibus constituuntur. A derogatory clause does not prevent the dissolution of things by the same authority or power by which they were constituted. See Broom's Legal Maxims 27.

Non impedivit. He did not hinder or disturb; a plea of the general issue in an action under a writ of quare impedit. See 3 Bl Comm 249.

non implacitando aliquem de libero tenemento sine brevi. A writ which lay to prevent officers of the law from interfering with a freehold without the king's writ.

Nonimportation agreement. An agreement, made in protest against British taxation, between the American colonies to boycott all goods shipped from the British Isles and the West Indies.

Non infregit conventionem. He did not break the covenant,—a plea which raises a substantial issue in an action for non-repair according to covenant whether there was a want of repairs or not.

Non in legendo sed in intelligendo leges consistunt. The laws consist not in the reading of them, but in the understanding of them.

Non in regno Angliae providetur, vel est aliqua securitas major vel solennior, per quam aliquis statum certiore habere possit, neque ad statum suum verificandum aliquid solennius testimonium producere, quam finem in curia domini regis levatum; quidem finis sic vocatur, ed quod finis et consummatio omnium placitorum esse debet, et hac de causa providebatur. In the kingdom of England there is not provided any greater or more solemn security by which one can have a more certain title, nor can any evidence more solemn be produced for confirming his title than by a fine levied in the king's court. It is called a fine because it is the finish and the consummation of all suits, and it was provided for that reason. See 2 Bl Comm 349.

nonintercourse laws. Laws prohibiting commerce with another nation. The closing of the ports of a nation to vessels of an offending state and the prohibition of the sailing of vessels from such ports to ports of the offender. 30 Am J Rev ed Internat L§53.

Non interfui. I was not present.

nonintervention will. A will which provides in effect that no bond shall be required of the executor and that the executor is relieved from the duty of reporting his conduct of the administration of the estate to the court.

nonintoxicating liquor. A liquor which although containing some alcohol, will not produce intoxication, even though consumed in quantity. State v Danenberg, 151 NC 718, 66 SE 301.

nonissuable plea. A plea which raises no issue of fact; a plea which does not go to the merits, such as a plea in abatement.

nonjoinder of party. The omission of a necessary party to an action. 39 Am J1st Parties § 110.

[859]

See necessary party.

nonjudicial authorities. Boards and officers not vested generally with judicial powers.

nonjudicial day. Same as nonjuridical day.

nonjudicial foreclosure. The foreclosure of a chattel mortgage under a power of sale granted to the mortgagee by the terms of the mortgage. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 214. The foreclosure of a mortgage or deed of trust, covering real estate, under a power of sale contained in the instrument or created by a separate instrument; a method of foreclosure infrequent in use but possible under the law of some jurisdictions. 37 Am J1st Mtg § 647.

nonjurable. Incapable of taking an oath.

nonjuridical day. A day upon which judicial proceedings shall not be conducted. Sunday, a day which should not be profaned by the tumult of forensic litigation. Vidal v Backs, 218 Cal 99, 21 P2d 952, 86 ALR 1134.

The courts do not regard statutory or legal holidays as nonjuridical days unless constrained to do so by the terms or the necessary effect of statutes, 50 Am J1st Sun & H § 77.

nonlegal investment. An investment by a trustee which does not qualify as a legal investment.

See legal investment.

non juridicus. Nonjuridical; not judicial; not legal.

nonjuror. Any person living in England who refused to make the oath of allegiance to the government.

Non jus ex regula, sed regula ex jure. The law does not come from the rule, but the rule comes from the law.

Non jus, sed seisina facit stipitem. It is not the right, but seism that makes the stock or root.

The meaning of the maxim is, that it is not the mere right to take possession of land, but the actual entry and assumption of possession which vests complete ownership, so as to enable the transmission of the inheritance. See 2 Bl Comm 312.

"(Counsel) rightfully claim that credit is due the courts of this state for repudiating one of the fruits of the feudal system, which has come down preserved to us in the common law maxim, 'Non ins sed seisinā,' " etc. See Todd v Oviatt, 58 Conn 174, 20 A 440.

Non licet quod dispendio licet. That is not permitted which can only be permitted with loss.

non licet verdict. See verdict of non licet.

nonlienable. Descriptive of an article not the subject of a mechanic's lien.

Non liquet. It is not clear.

nonlitigating party. A person joined as a party but who does not appear and actually litigate the controversy. Atty Gen v Pomeroy, 93 Utah 426, 73 P2d 1277, 114 ALR 726.

nonmailable matter. Matter which cannot lawfully be conveyed in the United States mails or delivered from any postoffice or by any letter carrier. United States ex rel. Milwaukee Social Democratic Publishing Co. v Burleson, 255 US 407, 410, 65 L Ed 704, 709, 41 S Ct 352. Not acceptable for transmission by mail.

nonmaritime contract. A contract which has some relation to or connection with a vessel but does not come within the classification of maritime contracts.

See maritime contract.

nonmaritime tort. A tort which does not classify as a maritime tort so as to come within the jurisdiction of admiralty.

See maritime tort.

Non memini. I do not remember.

non molestando. A writ which lay to protect a person from threatened unlawful molestation.

nonmoral. Having no connection with morality or morals.

Non nasci, et natum mori, paria sunt. To be born dead, and not to be born at all, are the same thing.

nonnavigable waters. Private waters; waters which are not navigable. 56 Am J1st Wat § 177.

nonnegotiability. The absence of the quality of negotiability in an instrument.

nonnegotiable bill of lading. Any bill of lading which is not negotiable according to the definition in the UCC § 7-104. A bill of lading in which the goods are consigned or destined to a specified person. Uniform Bills of Lading Act §§ 4, 5. Otherwise known as a straight bill of lading.

nonnegotiable chose in action. A right represented by an instrument which is not negotiable.

nonnegotiable instrument. According to a well understood meaning in the law of bills and notes, a term of art which refers only to commercial paper. An instrument which is not negotiable, that is, any instrument which does not meet the requirements laid down to qualify an instrument as a negotiable one, or an instrument which in its inception was negotiable but has lost its quality of negotiability. Edgar v Haines, 109 Ohio St 159, 141 NE 837. An instrument which meets all requirements as to form of a negotiable instrument except that it is not payable to order or bearer. UCC § 3-805. An instrument which, according to the underlying theory of the Uniform Commercial Code, should be governed by all sections of the Code except as to matters concerned with holders in due course. 11 Am J2d B & N §§ 7, 47.

nonnegotiable paper. See nonnegotiable instrument.

Non obligat lex nisi promulgata. A law is not binding unless it is promulgated.

Non observata forma, infertur adnullatio actus. When formality is not observed, it is inferred that the act is a nullity.

non obstante. Notwithstanding.

non obstante aliquo statuto in contrarium. Notwithstanding any statute to the contrary. See 1 Bl Comm 342.

non obstante veredicto. Notwithstanding the verdict.

See judgment notwithstanding the verdict.

[860]

Non officit conatus nisi sequatur effectus. An attempt works no injury unless a result follows.

Non omne damnum inducit injuriam. It is not every loss that produces the violation of a legal right.

Non omne, quod licet, honestum est. Not all that is lawful is honorable.

The observation is that of Paulus, as quoted in the Digest; "and we have a similar observation from another Paul, who received inspiration from a purer source than the Roman law." (1 Cor, vi. 12.) See Howell v Baker (NY) 4 Johns Ch 118, 121.

Non omnium quae a majoribus nostris constituta sunt ratio reddi potest. A reason cannot be given for all of those things which were established by our ancestors.

Non omnium, quae a majoribus nostris constituta sunt, ratio reddi potest; et ideo rationes eorum quae constituuntur inquiri non oportet; alioquin multa ex his quae certa sunt subvertuntur. It is impossible to give reasons for all of the laws instituted by our ancestors and so it is not needful to inquire into the reasons; otherwise many of those which are established would be overturned. See 1 Bl Comm 70.

nonowned automobile clause. A clause in an automobile insurance policy extending the coverage to include the casual operation of a car other than that described in the policy. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 98.

nonpar stock. Same as nonpar value stock.

nonparticipating royalty. See perpetual nonparticipating royalty.

nonpartisan ballot. A form of ballot in an election, the most frequent use of which is in connection with the election of judges, wherein the names of candidates appear without party label or emblem. 26 Am J2d Elect § 211.

non-par value stock. Corporate stock, issued as statutes permit, without any nominal or par value. 18 Am J2d Corp § 223. Shares of stock issued by a business trust or Massachusetts trust similar to the no-par shares issued by a corporation. 13 Am J2d Bus Tr § 23.

nonpayment. The failure of an obligor to make payment on the maturity of the obligation. Failure to pay according to the terms of an obligation, the effect of which, in case of a bill or note, may be dishonor and protest.

See dishonor by nonpayment; protest.

nonpecuniary damages. Damages for injury of such nature that there is no money standard applicable in measurement of the amount of damages. Broughel v Southern New England Tel. Co. 73 Conn 614, 621. Damages the amount of which depends upon the enlightened judgment of an impartial court or jury, since it is not a matter of mathematical calculation, as illustrated in damages for pain, suffering, and defamation. L. W. Pomereae v White, 70 Neb 171, 97 NW 232.

nonpecuniary injury. See nonpecuniary damages.

nonperformance. A failure or omission to perform. The breach of a contract by failure to perform in accordance with the terms and conditions of the contract. 17 Am J2d Contr §§ 355 et seq.

Non pertinet ad judicem secularem cognoscere de its quite sunt mere spiritualia annexa. It does not belong to a secular judge to notice those matters which are purely spiritual.

nonplevin. The failure of a landowner, whose land had been taken by the king, to sue to recover it within fifteen days after the taking.

Prior to Magna Charta, such failure resulted in the owner's loss of his seisin in the land.

non ponendis in assisis et juratis. A writ whereby a person was freed from assize and jury service.

Non possessori incumbit necessitas probandi possessiones ad se pertinere. (Civil law.) The necessity or burden of proving that his possessions belong to him does not fall upon the possessor. See Broom's Legal Maxims 714.

non possumus. We are not able; we cannot.

Non potest adduci exceptio ejusdem rei cujus petitur dissolutio. A plea of the very matter the determination of which is sought cannot be interposed. See Broom's Legal Maxims 166.

Non potest probari quod probatum non relevat. If it were proved would be irrelevant.

Non potest quis sine brevi agere. No one can sue without a writ.

Non potest rex gratiam facere cum injuria et damno aliorum. The king cannot grant an indulgence attended with injury and loss to others.

The meaning is that the king could not grant any pardon or immunity which would release the wrongdoer from a prosecution by appeal, since appeals were at the suit of the injured party and not of the king. See 4 Bl Comm 398.

Non potest rex subditum renitentem onerare impositionibus. The king cannot burden a protesting subject with impositions.

Non potest videri deisse habere, qui nunquam habuit. (Civil law.) A person who never had cannot be deemed to have ceased to have.

nonpower boat. Sailboat. 12 Am J2d Boats § 77.

Non praestat impedimentum quod de jure non sortitur effectum. That which is of no consequence in law offers no impediment.

nonprobate assets. Property left by a decedent not subject to administration by his personal representative.

non procedendo ad assisam. See de non procedendo ad assisam.

[861]

nonproduction of evidence. The failure of a party to testify, to call an available witness on a material issue, or to introduce documentary evidence within his control. 29 Am J2d Ev §§ 175 et seq.

nonprofit association. An association organized and operating without the purpose of making a profit, such as an association operating for a charitable purpose.

nonprofit corporation. A corporation ordinarily without stockholders, created for or devoted to charitable purposes or supported by charity; a charitable corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp §§ 10, 460.

nonprofit institution. See charitable institution.

nonprofit organization. See nonprofit association; nonprofit corporation.

non pros. Abbreviation of non prosequitur. non prosequitur. An old form of judgment.

See judgment of non prosequitur. non pros'd. Subjected to a judgment of non prosequitur. In modern usage, nonsuited.

Non quieta movere. Not to disturb that which is settled. A good maxim in jurisprudence. Green v Hudson River Railroad Co. (NY) 28 Barb 9, 22.

Non quod dictum, sed quod factum est, inspicitur. Not what is said, but what is done, is regarded. Osborn v Cook, 65 Mass (11 Cush) 532, 536.

nonquota immigrant. An immigrant who is the child or the spouse of a citizen of the United States; an immigrant lawfully admitted for permanent residence who is returning from a temporary visit abroad; an immigrant born in Canada, Mexico, Cuba, Haiti, Dominican Republic, Canal Zone, or an independent country of central or South America, and a spouse or child of any such immigrant; an immigrant who was formerly a citizen of the United States and is applying for reacquisition of citizenship; an immigrant who was formerly a native-born or naturalized citizen of this country but who has lost his nationality by virtue of obtaining naturalization in a foreign state; an immigrant who is an established minister of a religious denomination and whose services are needed by such religious denomination having a bona fide organization in the United States and the spouse or child of any such immigrant; or an immigrant who is an employee or retired former employee of the United States Government abroad with a total of 15 years service, his accompanying spouse, and any child of his. 8 USC § 110(a)(27).

nonrecording insurance. Insurance designed, subject to certain exclusions or exceptions, to compensate a lender for losses resulting solely from the failure to file for public record an instrument securing a debt, usually a bill of sale, conditional sale contract, or chattel mortgage. American Aviation & General Ins. Co. v Georgia Telco Credit Union (CA5 Ga) 223 F2d 206, 51 ALR2d 316.

nonrecourse provision. The direction in a bill of lading whereby the consignor directs the carrier not to deliver the goods to the consignee until the carrier's charges are collected, thereby relieving himself from being compelled to pay any such charges, where the carrier delivers the goods to the consignee without collecting the charges as directed. New York Cent. R. Co. v Trans American Petroleum Corp. (CA7 111) 108 F2d 994, 129 ALR 206.

See without recourse.

Non refert an quis assensum suum praefert verbis, an rebus ipsis et factis. It does not matter whether anyone expresses his assent by words or by acts and deeds.

Non refert quid ex aequipollentibus fiat. It does not matter which one of those things which are equivalent is done.

Non refert quid notum sit judici, si notum, non sit in forma, iudicii. It matters not what is known to the judge, if it is not known to him judicially. Riley v Wallace, 188 Ky 471, 222 SW 1085, 11 ALR 337, 340.

Non refert verbis an factis fit revocatio. It does not matter whether a revocation is effected by words or by acts.

nonrefunding annuity contract. Same as straight annuity. 4 Am J2d Annu § 1.

nonregistered stockholder. A stockholder in fact who because of the failure of a corporate officer or transfer agent is not recorded as a stockholder on the books of the corporation. A term applied in the older period of superadded liability of stockholders to a stockholder who had his stock registered in a fictitious name or in the name of a person not financially responsible in order to avoid liability as a stockholder.

Non remota causa sed proxima spectatur. Not the remote cause, but the one which is proximate, is regarded.

nonresident. One who is in a place other than that of his domicil or residence.

See domicil; residence.

nonresident alien. A person who is neither a citizen nor a resident of this country. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 2. An alien who does not reside within the state. Estate of Gill, 79 Iowa 296, 44 NW 553.

nonresidentio pro clerico regis. A writ which lay to prevent the ouster of a clergyman for nonresidence, where he was absent in the king's service.

nonresident motorist. A status applied to a motorist involved in an accident, usually on a determination of the place of actual residence rather than domicil. 8 Am J2d Auto § 852.

nonresident pupil. A pupil at a public or high school who is not a resident of the school district. 47 Am J1st Sch § 154.

Non respondebit minor, nisi in causa dotis, et hoc pro favore doti. A minor shall not answer except in the case of dower, and this in favor of dower.

nonresponsible party. A person who has no property subject to levy for the enforcement of a judgment against him. A person who by reason of infancy or mental incompetency is not bound upon a contract which he has professed to make.

nonresponsive answer. An answer given by a witness upon examination in a trial or in the taking of a deposition which evades or does not relate to the question or interrogatory directed to him. 23 Am J2d Dep § 125; 58 Am J1st Witn § 575.

[862]

Non reus nisi mens sit rea. There is no guilt unless there is a guilty intent.

non sanae mentis. Not of sound mind.

nonsane memory. Unsound memory; unsound mind.

nonscheduled airline. An airline operating only chartered flights, maintaining no flights on a fixed schedule of departures and arrivals.

nonscheduled airline passenger. A passenger on the aircraft of a nonscheduled airline. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1261.

nonsense. Unintelligible matter which is contained in a writing.

non seq. An abbreviation of non sequitur.

non sequitur. It does not follow.

Non sequitur clamorem suum. He does not press his claim. See 3 Bl Comm 376.

Non solent quae abundant vitiare scripturas. (Civil law.) Those matters which are superfluous do not ordinarily vitiate writings.

Non solum quid licet, sed quid est conveniens considerandum, quia nihil quod inconueniens est licitum. Not only that which is permitted, but that which is convenient or suitable is to be considered, because nothing which is inconvenient or unsuitable is lawful.

non solverunt. They have not paid,—a form of replication interposed upon a defendant's plea of payment. Ware v Hylton (US) 3 Dail 199, 202, 1 L Ed 568, 570.

nonstock corporation. A membership corporation. A corporation not organized for profit and operating under a charter which does not provide for the issuance of stock. American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders Asso. v Fullerton, 325 Ill 323, 156 NE 314; Missionary Baptist State Convention v State, 180 Kan 501, 305 P2d 846.

Non submitit. He did not submit, -the name given to a plea that the defendant did not submit to an arbitration.

non sui juris. Legally incompetent to act for himself in making a contract or in appearing in a cause by himself or through an attorney. 27 Am J1st Inf § 140.

nonsuit. A method of taking the case from the jury for the insufficiency of the plaintiff's proof. 53 Am J1st Tr § 304. A determination that the evidence of the plaintiff is insufficient to support a judgment in his favor, wherefore the case should be taken from the jury. 53 Am J1st Tr §§ 304 et seq. A judgment given against the plaintiff on motion made by the defendant, such motion being in the nature of a demurrer to the plaintiff's evidence, whereby the defendant admits all that the plaintiff has proved to be true, but contends that in law this proof is nevertheless insufficient to entitle the plaintiff to a recovery. 24 Am J2d Dism § 4; 53 Am J1st Tr § 307. A judgment entered by the court when the plaintiff, being called, refuses to appear at the time when the jury is to deliver its verdict, or where the court decides that the plaintiff has given no evidence upon which a jury could find a verdict in his favor. Sandoval v Rosser, 86 Tex 682, 686, 26 SW 933. A judgment given against the plaintiff when he is unable to prove a case, or when he refuses or neglects to proceed to the trial of the cause after it has been put at issue. Deeley v Heintz, 169 NY 129, 132, 62 NE 158. For the purposes of the statute of limitations, a dismissal compelled by the court. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 282.

As used in a statute providing that when the plaintiff shall suffer a nonsuit, he may bring a new action within a prescribed time thereafter, it is generally held that the "nonsuit" need not be a technical one, and that the statute applies to a dismissal. The following have been held to be nonsuits within such a provision: a dismissal as to one of several defendants; a dismissal for failure to pay costs; a refusal to set aside an involuntary nonsuit and entry of judgment for the defendant; and, by some authority, the sustaining of a plea in abatement, and a voluntary dismissal by the plaintiff. The following, however, have been held not to be nonsuits within such a provision: the sustaining of a demurrer to a declaration, the exclusion of an item of account by a referee, and a judgment in bar of a claim, where the plaintiff has not pursued the proper remedy. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 282.

See voluntary nonsuit.

nonsuited. The condition of a plaintiff against whom a nonsuit has been entered.

See nonsuit.

Non sum informatus. I am not informed,—a species of judgment by default which is given against a defendant when his attorney declares that he has no instruction to say anything in answer to the plaintiff, or in defense of his client. See 3 Bl Comm 397.

Non sunt longa ubi nihil est quod demere possis. Those matters are not prolix or superfluous wherein there is nothing which you can omit.

nonsupport. Failure to furnish support for a person, such as one's wife or child, whom he is obligated by law to support. The statutory offense of a husband who neglects or fails to provide his wife and children, or either, with the necessaries of life. Anno: 44 ALR2d 892. As ground for a divorce, the intentional failure of the husband to support his wife, without lawful excuse, when he had the ability to support her. Svanda v Svanda, 93 Neb 404, 140 NW 777.

Non suspicio cujuslibet vani et meticulosi hominis, sed talis qui possit cadere in virum constantem; talis enim esse metus, qui in se contineat vitae periculum, aut corporis cruciatum. It must not be the apprehension of a foolish and fearful man, but such as would affect a courageous man; it should be such fear as would involve danger to life or bodily pain. See 1 Bl Comm 131.

Non temere credere, est nervus sapientiae. Not to believe rashly is the bowstring of wisdom.

Non tenuit. He did not hold,—a name which was given to a pleading in actions of replevin whereby the plaintiff alleged that he did not hold the goods as alleged in the defendant's avowry.

[863]

nontenure. The name given to a plea in a real action wherein the defendant denied his tenancy.

nonterm. A period between two terms of court.

nonterminus. A period between terms of court.

nontestamentary assets. Property left by a testate decedent which does not pass under his will.

nontestamentary paper. An instrument not executed in such manner as to be entitled to probate as the will of a decedent.

nontrading firm. See nontrading partnership.

nontrading partnership. A partnership whose business does not involve buying and selling as a day to day activity. 40 Am J1st Partn § 12.

nonunion goods. Articles produced by a nonunion shop.

nonunion workers. Employees in a plant who do not belong to a labor union.

nonuser. Absence of user; want of user, as of an easement. 25 Am J2d Ease § 105. Failure to use premises for the purpose for which dedicated. Adams v Rowles, 149 Tex 52, 228 SW2d 849. The failure of a public body which has taken land for a public use to devote the property to such use within a reasonable time. 26 Am J2d Em D § 146. A possible method of abandoning a highway. 25 Am J1st High § 112. The failure to exercise a franchise within a reasonable time in accordance with the condition which inheres in the nature of the grant. The nonperformance by a corporation of conditions or requirements upon which its privileges and franchises were conferred. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1619.

Non valet confirmatio, nisi ille, qui confirmat, sit in possessione rei vel juris unde fieri debet confirmatio; et eodem modo, nisi ille cut confirmatio fit sit in possessione. A confirmation is not valid unless he who confirms is in possession of the thing or of the right whereof confirmation is to be made, and in the same manner, unless he to whom the confirmation is to be made is in possession.

Non valet exceptio ejusdem rei cujus petitur dissolutio. A plea of the very matter the determination of which is sought is not valid.

Non valet impedimentum quod de jure non sortitur effectum. An impediment or bar which has no effect in law will not avail.

Non verbis sed ipsis rebus. leges imponimus. We do not impose laws upon words, but upon the things themselves.

Non videntur, qui errant, consentire. Those who err are not deemed to consent. A maxim is of universal application as well as of universal justice. Earle v De Witt, 88 Mass (6 Allen) 520, 543.

Non videntur rem amittere quibus propria non fuit. Persons to whom a thing did not belong are not deemed to lose it.

Non videtur consensum retinuisse si quis ex praescripto minantis aliquid immutavit. Anyone is not deemed to have withheld his consent who has changed anything by the direction of a person who threatens him. See Broom's Legal Maxims, 278.

Non videtur perfecte cujusque id esse, quod ex casu auferri potest. (Civil law.) That is not deemed to belong to a person completely which can, upon occasion, be taken away.

Non videtur quisquam id capere, quod ei necesse est alit restituere. (Civil law.) Anyone is not deemed to recover that which he is obliged to give up to another.

Non videtur vim facere, qui jure suo utitur, et ordinaria actione experitur. (Civil law.) He is not deemed to use force who exercises his own right and sues in an ordinary action.

non vult contendere. See plea of non vult contendere.

Non vult contendere cum domina regina et posuit se in gratiam curiae. The defendant does not wish to contend with our mistress, the queen, but puts himself upon the mercy of the court. Commonwealth v Shrope, 264 Pa 246, 107 A 729, 6 ALR 690, 692.

non vult prosequi. He will not prosecute. See 1 Bl Comm 268.

nonwaiver agreement. See nonwaiver clause.

nonwaiver clause. A clause in an insurance policy limiting the power of agents to waive conditions of the policy or restricting the manner in which a waiver of such condition may be made. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1040.

nonwhite. A person not of the white race, such as a Mongolian or Negro.

noon. Twelve hours after midnight, the sun being at meridian. Abbreviated "M." The beginning of the sidereal day used by the astronomers. 52 Am J1st Time § 14. The middle of the day in common parlance.

noonday. Noon; midday. noon hour.

See lunch hour.

no-par shares. See non-par value stock.

No Popery Riots. Riots of unprecedented magnitude which occurred in London in June, 1780.

A mob of sixty thousand persons had control of the city for several days. The authorities were paralyzed. The cause of it was Lord George Gordon's petition to parliament for the repeal of Sir George Saville's act for the relief of Catholics. The riot spread throughout the kingdom. London was in a state of anarchy. On June sixth, thirty-six fires set by the mob were raging. The Fleet and King's Bench prisons were fired, and the prisoners released. All public buildings were threatened; many private homes were sacked and burned. More than four hundred and fifty persons were killed. The military finally subdued the mob. The courts held the respective hundreds liable for the losses in them. County of Allegheny v Gibson, 90 Pa 397.

[864]

no property found. A return of a writ of execution, somewhat wanting in perfection and completeness, but indicating the absence of property of the defendant upon which to make a levy. 21 Am J2d Exec § 478.

nor. A conjunction properly used in connection with "neither" in stating a negative proposition. State ex rel. Crow v St. Louis, 174 Mo 125, 73 SW 623.

no-raiding agreement. An agreement between rival labor unions that neither will solicit a member of the other for the purpose of inducing a change of membership. United Textile Workers v Textile Workers Union (CA7 Ill) 258 F2d 743.

no recourse. See without recourse.

normal school. A teachers' college. State Teachers College v Morris, 165 Miss 758, 144 So 374; Normal School Dist. v Painter, 102 Mo 464, 14 SW 938. A school particularly for the education and training of school teachers. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 4. Not a common or public school. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 1.

Norman Conquest. The conquest of England by the Normans in 1066, under William of Normandy.

Norman French. See Law French.

Norris-LaGuardia Act. A federal statute of 1932 which prohibits the issuance of injunctions in federal courts in cases involving or growing out of labor disputes, as therein defined, except in strict accord with the provisions of the statute. 29 USC §§ 101-115; 31 Am J Rev ed Lab §§ 541 et seq.

Statutes substantially the same as the Norris-LaGuardia Act have been enacted in a number of states, although some apply to the granting of ex parte and temporary injunctions only. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 541.

north. Due north, unless qualified or controlled by other words of the context in which it appears. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 248. A compass point; the direction of the north pole from any other point on the earth's surface.

Northampton table. A mortality table. 20 Am J2d Ev § 895.

See mortality table.

Northeastern Interstate Nuclear Compact. A compact similar to that of the Southern Interstate Nuclear Compact, proposed for and under consideration by northeastern states. 6 Am J2d Atomic E § 46.

See Southern Interstate Nuclear Compact.

northeast quarter. See fraction of section.

north one-half. See fraction of section.

Northwest Ordinance of 1787. An ordinance passed by Congress for the government of the Northwest Territory, the provisions of which were superseded by the adoption of the Constitution of the United States and are in force only as continued in force by acts of Congress after the adoption of the Constitution. 16 Am J2d Const L § 16.

northwest quarter. See fraction of section.

Northwest Territory. The public domain of the United States following the successful conclusion of the Revolutionary War and the making of a treaty of peace with England, lying west of the state of New York and north of the Ohio River. The domain from which the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and part of Minnesota were formed. A territory of Canada extending from the northern boundaries of British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba beyond the Arctic Circle.

Noscitur a sociis. One is known by his companions.

The maxim is applied to the familiar rule of construction that the meaning of a word or expression may be gathered from the surrounding words, that is, from the context. 50 Am J1st Stat § 247.

Noscitur ex socio, qui non cognoscitur ex se. A person who may not be known by himself is known by his companion.

nota. (Civil law.) A note; a memorandum; a distinguishing mark or sign; a brand.

notabilia. See bona notabilia.

not administered. Literally, assets of a decedent, sometimes his entire estate, not subjected to administration in a probate court.

At common law, goods, chattels, and credits "not administered," meant goods, chattels, and credits which had been the property of the decedent at his death, and remained in specie, unchanged and unconverted when the administrator de bonis non was appointed. Thus, money received by the former executor or administrator in his representative capacity, and kept by itself separate from his own money, is regarded as "not administered;" but if mixed and mingled with his own money, so that its identity is gone, it is regarded as converted, and so "administered," so far as the administrator de bonis non is concerned. Chamberlin's Appeal, 70 Conn 363, 39 A 734.

notare infamia. (Civil law.) To mark or brand a person as a mark of infamy.

notarial. Pertaining or relating to the office or functions of a notary; made or done by a notary.

notarial act. The execution of a deed or contract, such as a contract of adoption, before a notary public. Succession of Thomson, 221 La 791, 60 So 2d 411.

notarial seal. An official seal of a notary public which, when duly affixed, is at least prima facie evidence of the notary's official character and raises a presumption of the truth of statements made by the notary in such character.

The form of the seal is sometimes provided by law, but such a provision has been held merely directory. If a seal is required, he cannot use a private one, but must adopt an official seal inscribed as he may choose, but capable of making a definite and uniform impression on the paper authenticated or on some tenacious substance attached thereto. It is no longer necessary to use wax or some other adhesive substance on which the seal may be impressed and if the law does not positively prescribe otherwise, it is enough that the impress be made upon the paper itself in such manner as to be readily identified on inspection. 39 Am J1st Notary § 34.

notarius. In old English law, a notary or conveyancer. (Roman law.) A rapid writer; a short-hand writer; an amanuensis.

notarizing. Certifying as a notary to the authenticity of a signature on a document.

[865]

notary. Same as notary public.

notary public. An officer whose duty is to attest the genuineness of deeds or writings in order to render them available as evidence of the facts therein contained, 39 Am J1st Notary § 2, and who is authorized by statute to administer various oaths. 39 Am J1st Oath § 9.

notary's certificate. The certificate of a notary public living nearest the place of a fire, the loss under which is covered by an insurance policy, stating that he has examined the circumstances and believes that the insured has actually sustained loss to the amount specified in the certificate. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1405. Broadly, any certification made by a notary public in an official capacity.

notary's record book. A record book which notaries are required in some jurisdictions to keep and to enter therein their notarial acts, which book must be deposited in a designated public office when the notary dies, resigns, or is removed from office, a certified copy of the record being made competent evidence. 39 Am J1st Notary § 45.

notary's seal. See notarial seal.

notation. A writing appearing upon an instrument but not in the regular formal order of the instrument. 17 Am J2d Contr § 263.
See marginal notation.

notch sensitive. A term applied to metals the useful life of which seems to be much more affected by stress than that of others. Northwest Airlines, Inc. v Glenn L. Martin Co. (CA6 Ohio) 224 F2d 120, 50 ALR2d 882, reh den 229 F2d 434, 50 ALR2d 897.

not due. See not payable presently.

note. A notation. A written promise to pay another a certain sum of money at a certain time. Grissom v Commercial Nat. Bank, 87 Tenn 350, 10 SW 774. A kind of commercial paper. UCC § 3-104(2). A negotiable promissory note. Uniform Negotiable Instruments L § 191. A term used interchangeably with promissory note. Shawano Finance Corp. v Julius, 214 Wis 637, 254 NW 355.

note an exception. A professional request, made with deference to the trial judge, but constituting the method of having made of record for use on appeal an exception to a ruling of the judge.

note in payment. A note given in satisfaction or extinguishment of a claim against the maker. 40 Am J1st Paym § 91.

note of a fine. An abstract of the writ of covenant, and the concord; naming the parties, the parcels of land, and the agreement, enrolled of record in the proper office in the process of alienating land by levying a fine. See 2 Bl Comm 351.

note of allowance. A note delivered by one of the masters of the court to a party to an action evidencing the right of the latter to prosecute a writ of error under the English practice.

note of hand. A name given generally by the unlearned, in common, to all those evidences of debts which are verified under the hand of the debtor, and which the creditor keeps.

It is not an apt legal term to describe a debt by judgment; nor is it ever used in that sense as its popular one. Perry v Maxwell, 17 NC (2 Dev Eq) 488, 496.

note of protest. A note of the fact of the protest of a negotiable instrument indorsed thereon by a notary at the time of its protest.

See memorandum; municipal note; promissory note; public note.

notes of stenographer. See stenographer's notes; stenographic notes of court reporter.

notes of the United States. See United States notes.

notes used in circulation. Notes issued by national banks and circulating as currency. United States v White (CC NY) 19 F 723, 724.

note to be renewed until paid in full. A provision in a note for indefinite renewal, but not to be construed as meaning that the maker has as much time as he desires to make payment of the principal sum, he being entitled to one renewal for the period specified in the original note, with no right to a renewal thereafter. Riepl v Sardino, 262 Wis 670, 56 NW2d 493, 35 ALR2d 1087.

not exempt by law. Not exempt under either federal or state law. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 7.

not found. The formal words which are indorsed on a bill of indictment by a grand jury upon its failure to indict the person named as accused in the bill. A form of return of a writ, summons, or notice, by which the officer holding the paper for service states the impossibility of making service due to inability to find the defendant or other person upon whom it should be served. A condition precedent under some statutes to service by publication. 42 Am J1st Proc § 89.

See no property found.

not guilty. See plea of not guilty.

not guilty verdict. See verdict of not guilty.

not hereinbefore disposed of. A familiar term in a residuary clause of a will, usually effective to determine that lapsed legacies and devises pass under the residuary clause. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1449.

nothus. (Roman law.) Spurious; not genuine; an illegitimate; a bastard.

notice. In common parlance, information, intelligence, or knowledge. In law, actual notice, constructive notice, express notice or implied notice. 39 Am J1st Notice § 3. The acclaim or criticism in the press of the performance of an actor, musician, or dancer.

Whatever is sufficient to put a person upon inquiry is notice of all the facts to which that inquiry will lead when prosecuted with reasonable diligence and in good faith. Texas Co. v Aycock, 190 Tenn 16, 227 SW2d 41, 17 ALR2d 322.

See actual notice; constructive notice; express notice; implied notice; personal notice.

notice as soon as practicable. As required of an insured or a person protected by a fidelity bond in reference to a loss, notice within a reasonable time after discovery of the loss. Anno: 23 ALR2d 1083; 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1379.

notice in pais. A notice outside the record or writing; a notice not on the face of the record or writing.

For example, one who has signed a bond is not liable to the obligee thereon if the latter had notice either from the face of the bond or "in pais," that others were to sign it before delivery. 12 Am J2d Bonds § 18.

notice in person. Actual notice. Travelers' Ins. Co. v Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Asso. 211 Iowa 1051, 233 NW 153.

See personal notice.

[866]

notice in writing. Ordinarily a notice given in writing and subscribed by the person giving notice thereby.

A written notice may be a sufficient "notice in writing," although it is not signed, provided it purports to come from the person whose duty it is to give the notice. Cohn v Smith, 37 Cal App 764, 174 P 682.

notice of accident or claim. A notice required of the insured under a liability policy, to be given to the insurer respecting the occurrence of an accident or of a claim for damages resulting therefrom. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 141.

notice of action or proceeding. The formal notice required to confer jurisdiction; a summons or original notice.

A distinction is to be observed between knowledge of the pendency of an action or proceeding and notice thereof. If a defendant does not submit himself to the jurisdiction of the court, jurisdiction can be acquired in no other way than by actual or constructive notice, whatever he may know of the existence of the proceedings. National Metal Co. v Greene Consol. Copper Co. 11 Ariz 108, 89 P 535.

notice of appeal. The method of initiating a proceeding for appellate review, consisting of a notice as provided by statute, designating the court to which an appeal is taken, the judgment, order, or decree to be reviewed, stating the relief sought on appeal, the parties appealing, and the parties against whom relief is sought on appeal, such notice to be served and filed in accordance with statutory requirements. 4 Am J2d A & E §§ 316 et seq.

notice of appearance. The formal method of appearing in an action or proceeding. A written notice of appearance filed in the action or proceeding or a notice given orally in open court by a party or, in the usual case, by his attorney, stating that he appears. 5 Am J2d Appear § 14.

See general appearance; special appearance.

notice of arrival. A notice given by a common carrier to the consignee of a shipment of goods of the arrival of the goods at their destination. 13 Am J2d Car § 398.

notice of assignment. A notice of an assignment of a chose in action given to the debtor for the purpose of completing the assignment and vesting title in the assignee, especially for the purpose of precluding the debtor of the right to deal with the original creditor by making payment or otherwise in reference to the subject matter of the assignment. 6 Am J2d Assign § 96.

notice of attorney's lien. A notice of an attorney's special or charging lien upon a judgment recovered by him on behalf of his client, as such may be required by statute to be given the adverse party. 7 Am J2d Attys § 287.

notice of claim. A notice of claim for damages against a municipal corporation or other public body asserted for tortious injury to person or property, required by statute as a condition precedent to an action at law to recover on such claim. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp § 673. A notice of claim against a municipal corporation required by statute of a more comprehensive nature, embracing both ex contractu and ex delicto claims. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp § 677. A notice of the location of a mining claim. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 79.

notice of copyright. An indispensable part of the process by which the copyright of a published work is secured; a notice in form prescribed by statute, located in each published copy in the position prescribed by statute, and stated in the English language. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 56. For example, "Copyright (c) 1967 by Jurisprudence Publishers, Inc."

notice of defects. A notice of defects in a railroad fence or cattle guards required as a condition of the duty of the railroad company to repair such defects. 44 Am J1st RR § 163. A notice of the defective condition of a highway or street, required as a condition of municipal liability for injuries due to the defects. 25 Am J1st High § 441. A notice given by the purchaser to the seller of goods, wares, or merchandise of defects constituting a breach of warranty, sometimes required by a provision in the contract of sale, and always a matter of good practice before commencing an action for breach of warranty. 46 Am J1st Sales §§ 714 et seq.

notice of directors' meeting. A requirement where the meeting is a special one, calling for personal service, if practicable, upon every member of the board entitled to be present. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1133.

notice of discovery. A notice of location of a mining claim. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 79.

See notice of location.

notice of dishonor. A notice that a bill or note has been dishonored by nonacceptance or nonpayment. An essential of a cause of action of the holder against an indorser or drawer, unless waived or dispensed with, as where, under the circumstances, it cannot be given although due diligence be exercised in an attempt to give it. 11 Am J1st B & N § 801.

notice of dismissal. A notice filed by the plaintiff or served upon the defendant, as the statute may require, upon the voluntary dismissal of an action. 24 Am J2d Dism § 48.

notice of election. The notice, usually by publication, through which the voters are informed of the time, place, and purpose of an impending election. 26 Am J2d Elect § 193.

notice of excavation. A notice given by an owner of land to an adjoining owner of intent to make an excavation, thereby giving the adjoining owner opportunity to protect his premises against the excavation. 1 Am J2d Adj L § 51.

notice of exemption. A demand or claim that property seized under process for debt be released as exempt. 31 Am J2d Exempt §§ 142 et seq.

notice of forfeiture. A notice in a proceeding in rem for the forfeiture of property admonishing the owner and all other persons claiming any right, title, or interest in the property seized to appear and show cause on or before a day named why forfeiture of the property should not be decreed in accordance with the prayer of the libel or information. 36 Am J2d Forf & P § 36.

notice of infringement. See notice of patent right.

notice of intention to move for a new trial. A notice required by statute in some states to be served upon the adverse party by the party intending to move for a new trial, designating the statutory grounds upon which the motion will be made, and whether it will be made upon affidavits or the minutes of the court, or bill of exceptions, or a statement of the case. 39 Am J1st New Tr § 179.

[867]

notice of judgment. Notice to the party against whom a judgment has been rendered of the entry of the judgment, usually a matter of constructive notice from the docketing and indexing, but in a few instances required by statute as a matter of the giving of a formal notice. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 98.

notice of lien. See notice of attorney's lien; notice of mechanic's lien.

notice of lis pendens. The common-law doctrine that a pending suit is notice to all the world, so that one who purchases property involved in the litigation takes it subject to, and is bound by, the judgment rendered therein. 34 Am J1st Lis P §§ 2, 3.

See notice of pendency.

notice of location. (Mining law.) A notice required by statute or local regulation in all, or nearly all, the mining states and territories to be posted on a mining claim sought to be located, containing the name of the locators, the name of the claim and the date of the location. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 79.

notice of loss. A notice of the occurrence of a loss, required to be given by insured to the insurer, as provided by the contract of insurance or statute, within a limited period of time. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins §§ 1373-1439.

See proof of loss.

notice of mechanic's lien. A notice required by statute in many jurisdictions to be given the owner of property by one claiming a mechanic's lien thereon, not for work performed or materials furnished under a contract with the owner, but for work on the premises performed in the capacity of a subcontractor or mechanic or for materials furnished under a contract with the principal contractor. 36 Am J1st Mech L § 125.

notice of motion. A means of bringing a motion on for hearing. A formal notice by one of the parties to an action that a motion described therein will be made before the court at the time and place stated in the notice.

notice of patent right. A notice given by a patentee or his assignee, if he makes or sells the article patented, of his patent right, either to the whole public by marking the article "patented" or to an infringer by informing him of the patent and of his infringement of it. 40 Am J1st Pat § 185.

notice of pendency. A notice filed in an action to recover a judgment affecting either title or possession, use or enjoyment of real property, for the purpose of giving notice on the record that there is a lien or claim outstanding and in force against the particular property, in effect a public announcement to beware of the title since it has a defect. A statutory requirement in states wherein the common-law doctrine of lis pendens has been modified, of a notice setting forth the style, number, and objective of an action, the court in which it is pending, a description of the property in controversy, and the names of the persons whose interests therein are sought to be affected, to be signed either by the party in whose behalf it is filed or by his attorney. 34 Am J1st Lis P § 24.

See notice of lis pendens.

notice of protest. See protest.

notice of stockholders' meeting. A statutory requirement in most jurisdictions to be observed according to the terms of the statute and, in the absence of a form prescribed by statute, to be met by any form of notice which informs stockholders that a meeting has been called and of its time and place, provided the hour as well as the day is specified, and, when necessary under the statute, a statement of the purposes of the meeting. 19 Am J2d Corp §§ 608 et seq.

Where notices are specific as to the time, place, and purpose of a meeting, and comply with the statute, substantial compliance with bylaws relating to the calling of stockholders' meetings is all that is required. Boericke v Weise, 68 Cal App 2d 407, 156 P2d 781.

notice of suit. See notice of action or proceeding.

notice of taking. A notice of the taking of a deposition, generally required by statute in order that the adverse party be afforded an opportunity to be present or to file cross-interrogatories. 23 Am J2d Notice § 34.

notice to perform. A method by which one party to a land contract may fix upon and assign a reasonable time for completing the contract, calling upon the party in default to perform according to the conditions of the contract. 55 Am J1st V & P § 115.

notice to plead. A notice in writing served upon the defendant in an action by the plaintiff, apprising the defendant of the time within which he must plead.

notice to produce. A notice given to the adverse party to produce books or papers in his possession, the purpose of which is to permit the party giving notice to introduce parol or secondary evidence of contents on failure of the adverse party to produce in accordance with the terms of the notice. 29 Am J2d Ev § 842.

notice to quit. Notice terminating a tenancy. 32 Am J1st L & T § 993. A notice required under some circumstances as a condition precedent to an action for forcible entry and detainer. 35 Am J2d Forc E & D § 34. A notice usually required as a condition precedent to an action of ejectment where the defendant entered and held possession legally in the beginning. 25 Am J2d Eject § 56. A notice sometimes required as a preliminary to the execution of a writ of possession issued on a judgment in ejectment. 25 Am J2d Eject § 136.

notice to shore up. The notice to the adjoining landowner, which is required in most jurisdictions, to be given by the owner of land of his intention to make an excavation thereon, so that the adjoining owner may take the necessary precautions to protect the buildings on his land. 1 Am J2d Adj L § 51.

notified. Having been given notice.

In legal proceedings and in respect to public matters, the word is generally if not universally used as importing a notice given by some person whose duty it was to give it, in some manner prescribed, and to some person entitled to receive it, or be notified. Potwine's Appeal from Probate, 31 Conn 381, 384.

notified blockade. An established blockade of an enemy port, notice of which has been given to other governments. 56 Am J1st War § 172.

not impeachable for waste. See unimpeachable for waste.

not in consonance. Not in accord or agreement; inconsistent. Caldwell v Huffstutter, 173 Tenn 225, 116 SW2d 1017.

[868]

not in esse. Not in being.

noting protest. The memorandum, made on the instrument or on some other record, at the time of and embracing the principal facts attending dishonor, the purpose of which memorandum is to have a record from which the instrument of protest may be prepared, so that the notary will not be required to rely upon his memory as to the facts. Moreland v Citizens Sav. Bank, 114 Ky 577, 71 SW 520.

As soon as the presentment and demand of a negotiable instrument have been made, or at some seasonable hour during the same day, the notary makes a minute on the bill, or in his book of registry, consisting of his initials, the month, the day, the year, the refusal or acceptance of payment, and his charges of protest. This is the preliminary step towards the protest, which may be afterwards written out in full, "extended," as the elaboration of the minutes is termed, and it is called "noting." Bank of Ohio Valley v Lockwood, 13 W Va 392, 432, quoting Daniel on Negotiable Instruments.

notitia. Notice; knowledge; information.

Notitia dicitur a noscendo, et notitia non debet claudicare. Notice is so called from "noscendo," becoming known, and notice ought not to be defective.

not less than 10 years. A statutory clause expressing the statutory minimum sentence. Anno: 59 ALR2d 975.

not negotiable. Lacking the character of negotiability.

See nonnegotiable instrument.

not of inheritance. See estate not of inheritance.

notoriety. The state of being well known in the community; a matter of hearsay when offered to prove that which is reputed to exist. 29 Am J2d Ev § 503. The state or character of being well known, usually (and always when applied to crime) in an unfavorable sense. People v Salmon, 148 Cal 303, 83 P 42.

not original bill. See bill not original.

notorious. Unfavorably known to many persons. The open and general recognition of an illegitimate child by the father. 10 Am J2d Bast § 52.

A "notorious character" means a general character, and evidence of general character is admissible under an indictment using the term "notorious bad character." Leader v State, 4 Tex App 162.

notorious adultery. See open and notorious adultery.

notorious claim. A claim so well known in the community that one may be presumed to have had knowledge or notice thereof, including the extent of it. Watrous v Morrison, 33 Fla 261, 14 So 805.

notorious custom. A custom so generally known as to affect a contracting party with knowledge of it and raise the presumption that he dealt with reference to it. 21 Am J2d Cust & U § 17.

notorious possession. The possession of real property in a clearly defined and open manner. 25 Am J2d Eject § 43.

See open and notorious possession.

notorious recognition. See general and notorious recognition.

notorious resistance to lawful authority. A state of affairs so unusual and extraordinary that the usually constituted civil authorities are overpowered and consequently unable and inadequate for the time being successfully to contend therewith. Straus v Imperial Fire Ins. Co. 94 Mo 182, 6 SW 698.

not otherwise provided for. A common phrase in statutes, referring solely to the statute in which they occur. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 38.

not possessed. A name given to a plea in an action of trover which denied the possession of the plaintiff.

not proven. A form of Scotch verdict which acquitted the defendant of the charge against him, but left a suspicion upon him.

not satisfied. An irregular return of a writ of execution, intended as the equivalent of a return of "no goods" or "nulla bona". 30 Am J2d Exec § 562.

not served for want of property. An irregular return of a writ of execution, apparently intended as the equivalent of a return of "no goods" or "nulla bona." 30 Am J2d Exec § 562.

not to be performed within a year. See agreement not to be performed within a year.

not to interrupt. Words used in creating a covenant to stand seized.

A recital in a deed poll that the grantees are "not to interrupt" the grantor "during his lifetime, on the said premises," amounts to a covenant by the grantor to stand seized to his own use for life, with remainder to his grantees. 28 Am J2d Est § 348.

not to sue. See covenant not to sue.

n. o. v. Abbreviation of judgment notwithstanding the verdict.

nova. (Roman law.) New things; political changes; revolutions.

Nova constitutio futuris formam imponere debet, non praeteritis. A new law ought to be prospective, not retrospective, in its operation. 50 Am J1st Star § 478.

nova customa. New and increased customs duties, as distinguished from the ancient hereditary customs. See 1 Bl Comm 314.

Novae Narrationes. New Counts;—the title of a book on pleading published about 1350.

This book was also called The New Talys. See 3 Bl Comm 297.

Nova Statuta. The New Statutes;—a name given to the statutes of England beginning with those enacted in the reign of Edward the Third, 1327.

novatio. (Civil law.) A novation.

novation. The extinguishment of one obligation by another, a concept of the civil law introduced into common-law jurisprudence. 39 Am J1st Nov § 2. A contract that discharges immediately a previous contractual duty or a duty to make compensation and creates a new contractual duty, including as a party one who neither owed the previous duty nor was entitled to its performance. 2 Restatement, Contracts § 424. A mutual agreement among all parties concerned for the discharge of a valid existing obligation by the substitution of a new valid obligation on the part of the debtor or another, or a like agreement for the discharge of a debtor to his creditor by the substitution of a new creditor.

[869]

Greenwood Cotton Mill v Pace, 172 SC 531, 174 SE 423.

Novatio non praesumitur. A novation will not be presumed. Morecraft v Allen, 78 NJL 729, 75 A 920.

novel. Adjective: New; recent. Noun: A narrative with plot in which the author has a property right and is entitled to copyright. 18 Am J2d Copyr §§ 10, 36.

See Novels.

novel assignment. Same as new assignment.

novel case. A case for which no precedent can be found. 52 Am J1st Torts § 8. A peculiar or extraordinary case arising in the complex and diversified affairs of men which cannot be classified under any, of the distinct heads under which jurisdiction has theretofore been administered. 27 Am J2d Eq § 12.

novel design. See novelty.

novel disseisin. New or recent disseisin;—a writ of assize which lay to recover land of which the demandant had been recently seised. See 3 Bl Comm 187.

novel impression. See first impression.

Novellae. Same as Novels.

Novellae Constitutiones. Same as Novels.

Novels. The New Constitutions-Novellae Constitutiones—which were laws promulgated by Justinian and his successors. See Mackeldey's Roman L §§ 80 et seq.

See novel.

novelty. An essential requisite of the patentability of an invention or discovery. A device or process unknown and unused by others prior to its invention or discovery by the applicant for a patent. 40 Am J1st Pat §25.

As used in the patent law the term "novel design" means a thing of distinct and fixed individuality of appearance, a representation, a picture, a delineation, a device which addresses itself to the senses and taste, and produces pleasure or admiration in its contemplation. New York Belting & Packing Co. v New Jersey Car-Spring & Rubber Co. 137 US 445, 34 L Ed 741, 11 S Ct 195.

Noverint universi per praesentes. Know all men by these presents.

novigild. (Saxon.) A ninefold compensation which was in certain cases exacted for injuries to property.

Novi operis nunciatio. (Civil law.) An objection to or protest against a new work.

See new work.

Novis injuriis emersis nova constituere remedia. New injuries having arisen, to establish new remedies for them. See 1 Bl Comm 148.

Novitas non tam utilitate prodest quam novitate perturbat. That which is new or novel does not benefit so much by its usefulness as it disturbs by its novelty.

Noviter ad notitiam perventa. (Ecclesiastical law.) Matters which have recently come to one's notice.

Noviter perventa. Same as noviter ad, etc.

ново. See de novo.

novocain. A local anesthetic but one which may result in disabling and painful consequences due to hypersusceptibility of the patient. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1211.

novodamus. We grant anew,—the granting clause in a renewal charter or franchise.

Novum judicium non dat novum jus, sed declarat antiquum. A new judgment does not promulgate a new law, but declares the old law.

Novum opus. (Civil law.)

Same as new work.

novas homo. A new man,—a man who has been pardoned of a crime.

now. At the moment; presently; contemporaneously. Pike v Kennedy, 15 Or 420, 15 P 637.

Where a lease is to commence in futuro and the covenant of the lessee is to redeliver the premises in the condition they "now are," without specific reference to the time intended, the tendency of the courts is to construe the phrase as relating to the condition of the premises at the time the term commences, not the time of the execution of the lease. Anno: 45 ALR 30, s. 106 ALR 1361.

now for then. See nunc pro tunc.

now standing. A term of a contract for, the sale of standing trees, relating to trees in their size and condition at the time of the execution of the contract, rather than at the time of cutting and removal. Anno: 94 ALR 1420; 34 Am J1st Logs § 22.

noxa. (Civil law.) An injury committed on the person or property of a person by the slave, servant or animal of another.

noxal action. Same as noxalis actio.

Noxalis actio. (Civil law.) An action against the owner of a slave or an animal for injuries to persons or property committed by them.

Noxa sequitur caput. (Civil law.) The injury (committed by the slave or animal) follows the head (the master).

That is, the owner was liable for the acts of his slave or his animal. See Mackeldey's, Roman L § 510.

noxia. Same as noxa.

noxious business. See offensive business.

noxious fume. A gas which is sickening or discomforting. 39 Am J1st Nuis § 58. A gas which is destructive of life, whether animal or vegetable. Pennsylvania Lead Co.'s Appeal, 96 Pa 116.

noxious odor. A bad smell.

noxious substance. A substance which, when administered, is capable of destroying life, but which is not necessarily poisonous.

Pulverized glass, when administered in sufficient quantities, destroys life, but is not poisonous. People v Van Deleer, 53 Cal 147.

noysance. Same as nuisance.

N. P. Abbreviation of "Notary Public." 1 Am J2d Abbr § 5.

NS. Abbreviation of new series.

[870]

nubibus. See in nubibus.

nubile. Of sufficient age and physical development for marriage.

nubiles. See anni nubiles.

nubilis. (Civil law.) Old enough to marry; of marriageable age; marriageable.

Nuclear Compact. See Northeastern Interstate Nuclear Compact; Southern Interstate Nuclear Compact.

nuclear explosion. An explosion incident to nuclear chain reaction. An explosion resulting from the development of energy by nuclear fission or nuclear fusion.

Nuclear Facilities Liability Act. A statute proposed by the National Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws to be applied to the more hazardous types of atomic energy activities, such as those in nuclear reactor installations, wherein a potentiality of an uncontrolled nuclear chain reaction exists, providing in substance that a nuclear facility operator who has entered into an indemnification agreement with the Atomic Energy Commission shall be liable, without proof of fault, for injuries (except those compensable under workmen's compensation laws and injuries to the nuclear facility or to property located at the site and used in connection with the facility) arising out of or resulting from a nuclear incident caused by any reason other than an act of war. 6 Am J2d Atomic E § 47.

nuclear incident. An occurrence within the United States causing bodily injury, sickness, disease, or death, or loss of or damage to property, or for loss of use of property, arising out of or resulting from the radioactive, toxic, explosive, or other hazardous properties of source, special nuclear, or by-product material; provided, however, as to indemnification agreements in connection with a nuclear-powered ship, it shall mean any such occurrence outside the United States rather than within the United States. 42 USC § 2014(o).

nuclear reaction. The reaction consequent to the fission or fusion of atoms.

nuclear reactor. An apparatus, other than an atomic weapon, designed or used to sustain nuclear fission in a self-supporting chain reaction. 10 CFR § 50.2(k); 10 CFR Cum Supp § 115.3(h).

nuda. Nude; bare; mere; naked; unclothed.

Nuda pactio obligationem non parit. A bare or naked promise does not effect a binding obligation. See Broom's Legal Maxims 745.

nuda patientia. Mere sufferance.

nuda possessio. Mere or naked possession.

nuda propiedad. See propiedad.

Nuda ratio et nuda pactio non ligant aliquem debitorem. A bare or mere intention and a bare or mere promise do not bind any debtor.

nude. Naked; unclothed; bare; mere.

nude pact. Same as nudum pactum.

nudism. The criminal offense of indecent exposure of persons. 33 Am J1st Lewd etc § 7.

nudity. The unclothed state of a human being.

nudity in art. Representations of the unclothed human body in painting or sculpture. 33 Am J1st Lewd etc § 13.

nudum pactum. Literally, a bare agreement. A promise not supported by a consideration. Todd v Weber, 95 NY 181.

Nudum pactum est ubi nulla subest cause propter conventionem; sed ubi subest causa fit obligatio, et parit actionem. A nudum pactum is where there is no consideration on account of the promise; but where there is a consideration, an obligation is effected, and it supports an action. See Broom's Legal Maxims 745, 746.

Nudum pactum ex quo non oritur actio. A bare promise is one from which no action arises.

nuictander. Same as nutander.

nuire. (French.) To injure, hurt or harm. Thornton v Dow, 60 Wash 622, 111 P 899.

nuisance. Anything that works hurt, inconvenience, or damage to another. Prior v White, 132 Fla 1, 180 So 347, 116 ALR 1176; Hofstetter v Myers, 170 Kan 564, 228 P2d 522, 24 ALR2d 188. Any- thing done by one which annoys or disturbs another in the free use, possession, or enjoyment of his property, or which renders its ordinary use or occupation physically uncomfortable. Jones v Trawick (Fla) 75 So 2d 785, 50 ALR2d 1319. That which has the effect of prejudicially and unwarrantably affecting the enjoyment of the rights of another. Sullivan v Waterman, 20 RI 372, 39 A 243. Anything done by one that works or causes injury, damage, hurt, inconvenience, annoyance, or discomfort to another in the legitimate enjoyment of his reasonable rights of person or property. District of Columbia v Potten, 55 App DC 312, 5 F2d 374, 40 ALR 1461, cert den 269 US 562, 70 L Ed 412, 46 S Ct 21. Anything which (1) annoys or disturbs the free use of another's property, or which renders its ordinary use or physical occupation uncomfortable, or (2) interferes with the rights of a citizen, either in person, property, the enjoyment of his property, or his comfort, or (3) materially lessens the enjoyment of property or the physical comfort of persons in their homes. Martin v Williams, 141 W Va 595, 93 SE2d 835, 56 ALR2d 756.

What may constitute a nuisance in a particular case depends upon many things, such as the type of neighborhood, the nature of the thing or wrong complained of, its proximity to those alleging injury or damage, its frequency or continuity, and the nature and extent of the resulting injury, damage, or annoyance; each case must, of necessity, depend upon particular facts and circumstances. Lehmkuhl v Junction City, 179 Kan 389, 295 P2d 621, 56 ALR2d 1409.

See liquor nuisance; private nuisance; public nuisance.

nuisance at law. Same as nuisance per se.

nuisance in fact. A nuisance arising, not from the essential nature of the operation or condition involved, but from the location of the premises, the surroundings, or the manner in which the operation is managed or conducted. 39 Am J1st Nuis § 7.

[871]

nuisance per accidens. See per accidens nuisance.

nuisance per se. An act, thing, omission, or use of the property which in and of itself is a nuisance, and hence is not permissible or excusable under any circumstances. State ex rel. Bradford v Stubblefield, 36 Wash 2d 664, 220 P2d 305, 17 ALR2d 1258. An act, occupation, or structure which is a nuisance at all times and under any circumstances, regardless of location or surroundings. Any act or omission or use of property or thing which is of itself hurtful to the health, tranquility, or morals, or which outrages the decency of the community. 39 Am J1st Nuis § 11.

nul. No; no one; none.

nul agard. No award.

nul assets ultra. No other assets.

nul disseisin. A plea of the general issue in an action under writ of entry. 41 Am J1st Pl § 141.

Nul fait agard. No award was made.

null. Nonexistent; void; of no legal effect.

nulla bona. A return of a writ of execution signifying that the officer made strict and diligent search but was unable to find any property of the defendant liable to seizure under the writ, whereof to make a levy. 30 Am J2d Exec § 561. A plea by a garnishee denying that he holds property of, or is indebted to, the defendant.

Nulla curia quae recordum non habet potest imponere finem, neque aliquem mandare carceri, quia ista spectant tantummodo ad curias de recordo. No court which has not a record can impose a fine, nor can it order anyone to be imprisoned, because those matters belong only to courts of record.

Nulla emptio sine pretio esse potest. There can be no sale without a price. Brown v Bellows, 21 Mass (4 Pick) 179, 189.

Nulla impossibilia aut inhonesta sunt praesumenda; vera autem et honesta et possibilia. No impossible or dishonest things are to be presumed, but true, honest, and possible things are.

null and void. That which binds no one; that which is incapable of giving rise to any rights or obligations under any circumstances; that which is of no effect.

But there are cases where the expression means voidable merely, that is, capable of being avoided. Ewell v Daggs, 108 US 143, 149, 27 L Ed 682, 684, 2 S Ct 408.

Nulla pactione effici potest ne dolus praestetur. It cannot be provided in any contract that fraud shall not be answered for. See Broom's Legal Maxims.

Nulle regle sans faute. No rule or government is free from fault.

Nulle terre sans seigneur. There is no land without its lord.

Nulli enim res sua servit jure servitutis. For no one can reserve for his own property a servitude therein.

nullity. Something without legal effect, being null. A proceeding of no effect whatsoever because of a defect therein. Salter v Hilgen, 40 Wis 363, 365.

nullity suit. An action brought for the annulment of a marriage.

nullius filius. Nobody's child; the status of an illegitimate child under the English common law. 10 Am J2d Bast § 146.

Nullius hominis auctoritas spud nos valere debet, ut meliora non sequeremur si quis attulerit. No man's influence ought to prevail upon us not to follow better things, if any one presents them.

nullius in bonis. In the property of no one; not property.

In the language of Lord Coke, the burial of the cadaver is nullius in bonis. Griffith v Charlotte, Columbia & Augusta Railroad Co. 23 SC 25.

nullius juris. Of no legal effect; without support in law.

Nulli vendemus, nulli negabimus, aut differemus, rectum vel justitiam. We will sell to none, we will deny to none, we will delay to none, either right or justice. See 1 Bl Comm 141.

nullo est erratum. A plea to the assignment of errors in a coram nobis proceeding, equivalent to a demurrer, admitting the truth of the error assigned but insisting that in law it is not error. Chambers v State, 117 Fla 642, 158 So 153.

nullum arbitrium. No award.

Nullum crimen majus est inobedientia. No crime is greater than disobedience.

Nullum crimen, nulls poena, sine lege. Without a law, there is no crime and no punishment. State v Burbee, 65 Vt 1, 25 A 964.

Nullum exemplum est idem omnibus. No precedent or example is the same for all cases.

Nullum iniquum est praesumendum in jure. Nothing iniquitous is to be presumed in law.

Nullum matrimonium, ibi nulls dos. There is no dower where there is no marriage. If a marriage is dissolved, dower ceases. Wait v Wait (NY) 4 Barb 192, 202.

Nullum simile est idem. No similar thing is the same thing.

It must be the same case where you apply precedent. Lessee of Sweitzer v Meese (Pa) 6 Binn 500, 506.

Nullum simile quatuor pedibus currit. Nothing which is similar runs on four feet. Lessee or Sweitzer v Meese (Pa) 6 Binn 500.

Nullum tempus occurrit ecclesiae. No time runs against or bars the church. See 3 Bl Comm 103.

Nullum tempus occurrit regi. Time does not run against the king or sovereign. United States v Thompson, 98 US 486, 25 L Ed 194.

[872]

Nullum tempus occurrit reipublicae. Time does not run against the state. Norrell v Augusta Railway & Electric Co. 116 Ga 313, 42 SE 466.

Nullus clericus nisi causidicus. No clerk, unless a pleader; no one is a clergyman who is not also a lawyer. See 1 Bl Comm 17.

Nullus commodum capere potest de injuria sua propria. No one can take advantage of his own wrong. Schmidt v Northern Life Asso. 112 Iowa 41, 83 NW 800.

Nullus debet agere de dolo, ubi alia actio subest. Where any other action exists, no one ought to sue in an action for deceit.

Nullus dicitur accessorius post feloniam sed ille qui novit principalem feloniam fecisse, et illum receptavit et confortavit. No one is called an accessory after the felony but the one who knew that the principal had committed the felony and who received and comforted him.

Nullus dicitur felo principalis nisi actor, aut qui praesens est, abettans aut auxilians actorem ad feloniam faciendam. No one is called a principal felon except the actor, or a person who is present, abetting or aiding the actor in the commission of the felony.

Nullus idoneus testis in re sua intelligitur. No person is deemed to be a qualified witness in his own behalf.

Nullus jus alienum forisfacere potest. No person can forfeit the right of another.

Nullus liber homo aliquo modo destruat nisi per legale iudicium parium suorum, aut per legem terrae. No freeman shall in any manner be made to suffer corporal hurt save by the judgment of his peers or by the law of the land. See 1 BI Comm 133.

Nullus liber homo capiatur vel imprisonetur. No freeman may be taken or imprisoned. See 2 BI Comm 93.

Nullus liber homo imprisonetur. No free man may be imprisoned. See Clark's Case (Eng) 5 Coke's Rep 64a.

Nullus recedat a curia cancellaria sine remedio. No person departs from a court of chancery without a remedy.

Nullus simile est idem. A similar thing is not the same thing. Blake v Hamilton Dime Savings Bank, 79 Ohio 189, 87 NE 73.

Nullus videtur dolo facere, qui suo jure utitur. No one is deemed to work a fraud who exercises his own right. Fisher, Brown & Co. v Fielding, 67 Conn 91, 34 A 714.

Nul ne doit s'enrichir aux depens des autres. No person ought to enrich himself at the expense of others.

Nul prendra avantage de son tort. No one may take an advantage from his own wrongful act. Whitworth v Shreveport Belt Railway Co. 112 La 363, 36 S 414.

Nul sans damage a vera error on attainit. No person shall have error or attainit, without damage.

nul tiel agard. No such award.

nul tiel corporation. No such corporation,—a name given to a plea denying the existence of the defendant corporation.

nul tiel record. A common-law plea of the general issue when defendant intends to dispute the existence of the record upon which the action is based, whether it is a judgment or other record. 41 Am J1st Pl § 141. A plea in a proceeding on a bail bond or recognizance where the surety disputes the existence of the bond. 8 Am J2d Bail § 152.

nul waste. No waste,—a name given to the general issue in an action for waste.

nul waste fait. No waste was committed.

numbers. See numbers game.

numbers game. A form of lottery. 34 Am J1st Lot § 7. A lottery, conducted under a system devised with more or less ingenuity to disguise the character of the enterprise. A lottery scheme wherein the proprietor sells for a specific sum, usually a few cents, certificates or tickets which entitle the purchaser to some article of trifling value, such as a lead pencil, and also permit him to select certain numbers, say 3-9-13, which, if all drawn by a blindfolded person from a revolving wheel in which several numbers have been placed, entitle the purchaser of the ticket or certificate to a money prize much larger in amount than the sum which he has paid for the ticket or certificate. State ex rel. Kellogg v Kansas Mercantile Asso. 45 Kan 351, 25 P 984.

The "numbers game" in which each player places a bet, selects a number, and a winning number is determined by taking the first digit to the left of the decimal of the aggregate of prices paid for first, second, and third in each of the first three races at a certain race track, the holder of the winning number receiving a multiple of the amount of his play, is not a bet on a horse race, but a lottery, although the winning number is not determined by drawing. Forte v United States, 65 App DC 355, 83 F2d 612, 105 ALR 300.

Where one chooses a number and pays a certain sum, and the seller draws from a box an envelope containing a slip with numbers on it, and if the number chosen is on the slip, the buyer receives a multiple of the sum paid, greater or less according to agreement, and if not, he loses what he has paid, the transaction is a lottery. Commonwealth v Wright, 137 Mass 250.

A game in which the operator sells slips of paper containing three numbers with an agreement to pay a cash prize to holders of slips bearing numbers in sequence as they appear in a large number published daily in the press, such as the United States Treasury balance, is a lottery. Gilley v Commonwealth, 312 Ky 584, 229 SW2d 60, 19 ALR2d 1224.

[873]

numbers pool. Same as numbers game.

numeral. An arithmetical figure of Arabic or Roman origin. 29 Am J2d Ev § 92.

numerata pecunia. Money which was enumerated or counted out, as distinguished from that which was weighed.

numerical index. An index of records of title according to the descriptions of land, the names of the parties to instruments, and the instruments themselves. 45 Am J1st Reeds § 98.

Numerus certus pro incerto ponitur. A certain number is placed or put for an uncertain one.

nunciatio. (Civil law.) A protest; a proclamation; a declaration.

nuncio. An ambassador of the Pope of Rome.

nuncius. An announcer; a messenger; a nuncio.

nunc pro tunc. Literally, now for then.

nunc pro tunc amendment. An amendment or correction given retroactive effect by court order.

Thus, a defective jurat of an affidavit may be amended nunc pro tunc by leave of court. Beach v Averett, 106 Ga 73, 31 SE 806.

nunc pro tunc decree. A decree in equity comparable to a nunc pro tunc judgment.

nunc pro tunc entry. See nunc pro tunc judgment; nunc pro tunc order.

nunc pro tunc filing. The filing of a claim in bankruptcy after the expiration of the statutory period for filing claims. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 450. The filing of a pleading to take effect as of an earlier time. Galatis v Galatis (CA5 Fla) 55 F2d 571.

nunc pro tunc intervention. Intervention pursuant to leave of court by order, as of a prior stage of the action. 39 Am J1st Parties § 73.

nunc pro tunc judgment. A method of amending the record of a judgment which is not in accord with that actually pronounced in the cause and rendered, so that the record will speak truthfully as of the date of entry, the amending judgment being literally "now for then." 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 591. A procedural device much employed in correcting defects in titles to real estate. Anno: 57 ALR 1462. A judgment in a criminal case entered pursuant to order as of the date of rendition. People v Lenon, 79 Cal 631, 21 P 967.

nunc pro tunc order. A method of amending a court record. 20 Am J2d Crts § 58. An order entered to take effect as of an earlier time. 37 Am J1st Motions § 30.

nuncupate. To make a nuncupative or verbal will.

nuncupative will. A will declared orally by the testator before witnesses but dependent for validity under some statutes upon being reduced to writing and subscribed by the witnesses after the speaking of the testamentary words. 57 Am J1st Wills §§ 653, 660.

Under the English Statute of Frauds and similar statutes in this country, except in the case of a soldier or seaman, the general rule is that a valid nuncupative will can be made only when the testator is in his last illness. 57 Am J1st Wills § 654. In some jurisdictions the validity of nuncupative wills is denied absolutely. 57 Am J1st Wills § 653.

nundinae. Market-places; fairs; a fair.

nunquam. Nowhere; on no occasion; never.

Nunquam crescit ex post facto praeteriti delicti aestimatio. The degree of a past offense never increases from a subsequent act.

Nunquam decurritur ad extraordinarium sed obi deficit ordinarium. Resort is never made to the extraordinary until the ordinary has failed. See Broom's Legal Maxims 42.

Nunquam fictio sine lege. A fiction never exists without law.

nunquam indebitatus. Never indebted,—the name given to a plea in an action of indebitatus assumpsit whereby the defendant denies that he was ever indebted to the plaintiff.

Nunquam nimis dicitur quod nunquam satis dicitur. That which is never said sufficiently is never said too much.

Nunquam praescribitur in falso. A prescription never exists in the case of falsifying or forgery.

Nunquam res humanae prospere succedunt obi negliguntur divinae. Human affairs never prosper where divine things are neglected.

nuntio. Same as nuncio.

nuntius. Same as nuncius.

Nuper de facto, et non de jure, reges Angliae. Recently kings of England in fact, and not of right. See 1 Bl Comm 204.

nuper obiit. He recently died; an ancestral writ to establish an equal division of land, where, on the death of the ancestor, who had several heirs, one entered and held the others out of possession. See 3 Bl Comm 186.

nuptiae. Nuptials; marriage.

nuptiae secundae. A second or subsequent marriage after the first.

nuptial. Adjective: Relating or pertaining to a marriage. Noun: A wedding; the ceremony of a wedding.

Nuptias non concubitus, sed consensus facit. Not cohabitation, but consent, makes a marriage.

nurse. A person trained to take care of the sick, aged, wounded, or infirm and to assist a physician or surgeon; sometimes acting in the capacity of an independent contractor, at other times as an employee. Anno: 19 ALR 1189, s. 60 ALR 303.

Although the nurses on the staff of a hospital are the employees of the hospital for general purposes, they are not so for the purposes of surgery. When assisting at an operation, they cease for the time being to be the employees of the hospital, inasmuch as they take their orders during that period from the operating surgeon alone, not from the hospital authorities. Anno: 19 ALR 1190, 1191, s. 60 ALR 303.

[874]

See registered nurse.

Nurse Corps. The Army Nurse Corps, Nurse Corps of the United States Navy and United States Naval Reserve, or the Air Force Nurse Corps, such being branches of the United States Military Service.

nursery. A room or apartment in a dwelling house set aside as a place for the care of an infant and as his place for sleeping; a room or apartment in a dwelling house set aside especially for the children of the family as a playroom or as living quarters for them. A place where trees, shrubs, plants, and so forth, are propagated from seed or otherwise for transplanting, for use as stock for grafting, and for sale. Needham v Winslow Nurseries, Inc. 330 Mass 95, 111 NE2d 453, 40 ALR2d 1450.

nursery school. A school for boys and girls under the age of kindergarten pupils.

nursery stock. Small trees, shrubs, or plants raised for transplanting or kept for sale to persons desiring them for transplanting. 3 Am J2d Agri § 50.

nursing home. A place at which sick or disabled persons may be cared for, fed, and housed. Not a hospital within the meaning of a hospitalization policy. Employers Casualty Co. v Givens (Tex Civ App) 190 SW2d 155.

nursing services. The services of a trained or practical nurse. Necessaries within the rule that an insane person may be held liable for necessities. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 74.

nurture. To educate; to rear.

nurture guardian. See guardian by nurture.

nurture period. The period between an animal's birth and the time when it has been weaned, or should have been weaned according to the course of nature or the usual custom of those who raise domestic animals. Anno: 144 ALR 333; 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 71.

nusance. An old form of the word nuisance.

nutander. Nocturnally; in the nighttime; by night.

nutauntre. Same as nutander.

note. Night.

nutricius. See frater nutricius.

nuyt. Night.

NW. Abbreviation of northwest.

nymphomania. A morbid, uncontrollable sexual desire, but not insanity. Hill v Hill, 27 NJ Eq 214. A species of insanity or mental disease manifested in a morbid activity of the sexual propensity, sometimes amounting to irresistible impulse to perform the sexual act. Matchin v Matchin, 6 Pa 332.

O

o. An abbreviation for "son of" in ancient Irish surnames. From such derives the familiar prefix in names such as O'Hara; O'Mara; and O'Shea.

oath. A calling on God to witness what is averred as truth, accompanied expressly or impliedly with an invocation of God's vengeance or a renunciation of God's favor in the event of falsehood. 39 Am J1st Oath § 2. A solemn appeal to God, to a superior sanction, or to a sacred or revered person, to witness the inviolability of a promise or undertaking. People ex rel. Bryant v Zimmerman, 241 NY 405, 150 NE 497, 43 ALR 909. Any form of attestation by which a person signifies that he is bound in conscience to perform an act or to speak faithfully and truthfully. State ex rel. Braley v Gay, 59 Minn 6, 60 NW 676.

The word has been construed to include "affirmation" in cases where, by law, an affirmation may be substituted for an oath. 39 Am J1st Oath § 2.

oath decisory. (Civil law.) A decisive oath, an oath upon which the cause rested where one of the parties to the action elected to leave the issue to the oath of his adversary.

oath ex officio. An oath made by an accused clergyman whereby he might swear his innocence (or others might do so for him) and thus escape the censure or punishment of the ecclesiastical court.

This practice of "canonical purgation," as it was called, continued until it was abolished by statute 13 Charles II, c. 12. See 3 Bl Comm 101.

oath in litem. (Civil law.) An oath as to the value of the thing in dispute.

oath of abjuration. An oath made by a person upon his voluntary abandonment of his citizenship.

oath of allegiance. An oath, required to be taken in open court by a person seeking naturalization, that he will support the Constitution of the United States; that he entirely and absolutely renounces and abjures all allegiance and fidelity to any foreign prince, potentate, state, or sovereignty of which he was before a citizen or subject; that he will support and defend the Constitution and the laws of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic, and will bear true faith and allegiance to them; and that he will bear arms on behalf of the United States when required by law, or perform noncombatant services in the Armed Forces of the United States when required, or will perform work of national importance under civilian direction when required, depending upon his religious training and belief. 8 USC § 1448(a).

oath of calumny. (Civil law.) An oath of good faith which was required of a plaintiff as a prerequisite of his right to sue.

oath of grand juror. A declaration, after having been duly sworn, that the grand jurors will diligently inquire and true presentment make of all such matters and things as shall be given them in charge; that they will keep secret the state's, their fellow jurors', and their own counsel; and that they will present no man for envy, hatred, or malice; neither will they leave any man unrepresented for love, fear, favor, affection, or hope of reward, but will present things truly, as they come to their knowledge, according to the best of their understanding. Anno: 22 ALR 1357.

oath of juror. A statement under oath by a juror that he will do his duty as a juror, that he will well and truly try the issues joined, and a true verdict render according to the law and the evidence. Demato v People, 49 Colo 147, 111 P 703.

oath of loyalty. See loyalty oath.

oath of office. A qualifying oath, in a form prescribed by statute, of a public officer required, as an incident of office, upon assuming the office. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 7. The qualifying oath of an administrator or executor. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 106.

oath purgatory. The oath made by a defendant in a trial by wager of law.

oath suppletory. An oath which was administered to a party to an action who testified in his own behalf.

The rule of the law courts required two witnesses to supply full proof of a single fact, and hence it was held that the testimony of one witness supplied only half proof. And where one witness had testified to a single fact in a party's behalf, he was-contrary to the general rule-in order to make full proof, permitted to testify in his own behalf, and it was then that the suppletory oath was administered to him. See 3 Bl Comm 368, 370.

oathworthy. Worthy of belief when testifying under oath; credible. oats. An agricultural crop. A grain.

ob. On account of; because of; by reason of; in consideration of.

Ob alterius culpam tenetur, sive servi, sive liberi. One is liable for the faults of others, if they are his servants, or if they are his children. See 1 Bl Comm 431.

ob causam aliquem a re maritima ortam. By reason of some cause or consideration arising out of a maritime matter.

ob continentiam delicti. Because of, or by reason of, connection with the tort or the crime.

ob contingentiam. Because or by reason of connection or relationship.

obedient. Submissive to authority, yielding compliance with commands, orders or injunctions; performing what is required, or abstaining from what is forbidden.

The word might with propriety be used to express the same meaning as the word "amenable," which is defined as liable to answer; responsible; answerable; liable to be called to account. Miller v Commonwealth, 62 Ky (1 Duv) 14, 17.

Obedientia est legis essentia. Obedience is the essence of law.

ob favorem mercatorum. In favor of merchants; by reason of partiality toward merchants.

Ob infamiam non solet juxta legem terrae aliquis per legem apparentem se purgare nisi prius convictus fuerit vel confessus in curia.

[876]

By reason of ill repute it is not customary according to the law of the land for anyone to purge himself by lex apparens, unless he was convicted or confessed in court.

obit. To reach the end in death.

obiter. On the way; in passing; incidentally; cursorily.

See dicta.

obiter dicta. Same as dicta.

obiter dictum. Singular of obiter dicta.

See dicta.

Obit sine prole. He died without issue.

obituary. A short resume of the life of a person who has just died, sometimes read at the funeral service, sometimes published in a newspaper.

object. Verb: To make an objection; to protest.

object. Noun: A material thing. Any tangible thing, visible, or capable of discernment by the senses.

As the word is used in an automobile collision insurance policy:—anything tangible and visible; not necessarily an automobile or other vehicle. Anno: 23 ALR2d 400, § 5; 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 61.

objection. A protest against an act or omission. A statement of ground of opposition, for example, to the establishment of a highway. 25 Am J1st High § 25. A protest against a determination by the court, especially a ruling upon the admissibility of evidence. The ordinary method of raising in the trial court a question which would not otherwise appear upon the record, the matter being brought to the attention of the trial court for his ruling, and, when the ruling is adverse, followed with an exception thereto to be noted in the record. Calling attention in a proceeding before an administrative body to nonobservance or noncompliance with the provisions of the law. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 425.

See exception; protest.

objectionable business. See offensive business.

objectionable use. Such use of premises as is reprehensible, offensive, and deserving of disapproval. Theunissen v Huylers, Inc. 58 App DC 106, 25 F2d 530, 61 ALR 706.

objection to grand jury. An objection to the organization of a grand jury, including the matter of exclusion of persons because of race, color, sex, religious or political beliefs, even technical objections, except as a limitation is placed upon the latter by statute. 24 Am J1st Grand J §§ 26 et seq.

objective examination. A physical examination of a person made by a physician wherein he employs the ordinary use of his senses. Reeder v Thompson, 120 Kan 722, 245 P 127.

objective meaning of contract. Not what a promisor has in his mind, but what his promise is understood to mean by a reasonable man in the situation of the promisee. Lee v State Bank & Trust Co. (CA2 NY) 54 F2d 518, 85 ALR 216, cert den 285 US 547, 76 L Ed 958, 52 S Ct 395.

objective symptoms. Those symptoms which a physician by the ordinary use of his senses discovers from a physical examination. Reeder v Thompson, 120 Kan 722, 245 P 127.

objective test. The test in determining the adequacy of the performance of a building or construction contract. Anno: 44 ALR2d 1120, § 5[b].

objective standard of satisfaction. A matter of only operative fitness, quality, or mechanical utility. 17 Am J2d Contr § 367.

object of statute. The aim or purpose of a statute. For some purposes, the equivalent of subject of a statute. 50 Am J1st Stat § 191.

objects of a power. Those persons belonging to a class who are eligible as appointees of a power.

objects of bounty. See natural objects of bounty.

oblata. Offerings; gifts to the crown.

oblatio. (Civil law.) An offer or tender of payment of a debt.

obligacion. An obligation.

Obligacion est on lien de droit. An obligation, is a bond of the law.

obligatio. An obligation.

obligation. In an early and narrow sense, a bond or deed under seal wherein a person binds himself under penalty to do a thing. In the modern and popular sense, that which binds, as an oath, vow, promise, contract, or debt. Hargroves v Cooke, 15 Ga 321, 330.

The word is derived from the Latin word "obligatio," tying up; and that from the verb "obligo," to bind or tie up; to engage by the ties of a promise or oath, or form of law; and obligo is compounded of the verb ligo, to tie or bind fast, and the preposition ob, which is prefixed to increase its meaning. Edwards v Kearzey, 96 US 595, 24 L Ed 793, 796.

obligation of contract. Simply, the binding effect of a contract. The law or duty which binds the parties to perform their agreement, being coeval with the undertaking to perform and consisting in the means which, at the time of the creation of the contract, the law affords for its enforcement, or, as otherwise stated, in the effective force of the law which applies to, and compels performance of, the contract, or a compensatory equivalent in damages for nonperformance. 16 Am J2d Const L § 435.

obligation of surety on bail bond. The undertaking that the accused shall appear in answer to the indictment, abide the orders and judgment of the court, and not depart without leave of the court. State v Benedict, 234 Iowa 1178, 15 NW2d 248.

obligations or liabilities outstanding in the state. A limitation, variously construed, on the effect of a service of process upon a foreign corporation through service upon an agent designated by the corporation or upon a statutory agent. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 484.

obligation under seal. See specialty.

obligatory bill. See bill obligatory.

oblige. See noblesse oblige.

obligee. A promisee. The person to whom an obligation has been incurred. The person to whom a bond is made payable. The person entitled to enforce a guaranty. 24 Am J1st Guar § 30.

[877]

Within the meaning of the Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act:—any person to whom a duty of support is owed, including a state or political subdivision. Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act § 2(h).

obligor. A promisor. One who has incurred an obligation to another. The person, natural or artificial, liable on a bond. Within the meaning of the Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act:—any person owing a duty of support. Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act § 2(g).

obliquus. Oblique; aslant; on the side; collateral; indirect: circumstantial.

obliterated monument. A monument marking the corners or boundary of a tract of land which has been obliterated by the action of the weather, farming operations, logging, mining, etc.

obliterate line. A boundary line obliterated by the action of the weather or by agricultural operations, logging, etc.

obliteration. A blotting out of letters, words, or figures on a written instrument. The effacing of a clause in a will by eraser or inking. 57 Am J1st Wills § 502.

The end may be accomplished by any erasure which shall be partial or complete. It may be done by drawing a pen through the words, or by burning or tearing, and it is not essential for obliteration that the words be rendered illegible, provided it is done with intent to cancel or revoke the instrument. Re Glass' Estate, 14 Colo App 377, 60 P 186.

oblivion. Forgetfulness. In an unusual sense, an overlooking of a criminal offense, a pardon or amnesty.

obloquy. Reprehension; blame; censure; reproach. Tonini v Cevasco, 114 Cal 266, 273, 46 P 103.

obreptio. Same as obreption. obreption. The obtaining of anything by false or fraudulent representations; the fraudulent obtaining of escheated property by false representations.

obrogare. (Civil law.) To amend, alter, or repeal a law by a new law.

obrogation. (Civil law.) The amendment, alteration, or repeal of an existing law by the adoption of a new one.

obscene. Offensive to decency or modesty. Expressing or presenting to the mind or view something which delicacy, purity, and decency forbid to be expressed. United States v Bebout (DC Ohio) 28 F 522, 524.

obscene advertising. An advertisement which contains obscene language or obscene pictures.

obscene exhibition. See obscenity.

obscene language. Words calculated to corrupt morals or excite libidinous thoughts, irrespective of whether the words themselves are impure. 33 Am J1st Lewd etc. § 4. In reference to use of the mails: offensive to chastity; foul and filthy so as to be offensive to a clear minded person. Anno: 76 L Ed 849;41 Am J1st P O § 116.

obscene matter. See obscenity.

obscene picture. A picture which tends to excite lust. 33 Am J1st Lewd etc. § 9.

obscene publication. A book, magazine, pamphlet, etc., containing matter, the tendency of which is to deprave and corrupt those whose minds are open to corrupting influence and into whose hands such a publication may fall. 33 Am J1st Lewd etc. §

10. Any impure or indecent publication tending to corrupt the mind and to subvert the respect for decency and morality. Timmons v United States (CA6 Ohio) 85 F 204, 205.

obscene show. See obscenity.

obscenity. Something offensive to morality or chastity, indecent or nasty. Commonwealth v Buckley, 200 Mass 346, 86 NE 910. That which shocks the ordinary and common sense of men as an indecency. State v Van Wye, 136 Mo 227, 37 SW 938. Any matter of a lewd, lascivious, or obscene tendency, which is calculated to corrupt and debauch the mind and morals of those persons into whose hands it may fall. See Swearingen v United States, 161 US 446, 40 L Ed 765, 16 S Ct 562.

observe. To see. To take notice of by appropriate conduct; to conform one's action or practice to; to keep; to heed; to obey; to comply with. Marshall County v Knoll, 102 Iowa 573, 580, 69 NW 1146.

obsession. Possessed of an idea or a desire which occupies the mind too fully for calm, deliberate, and effective contemplation. Not necessarily insanity or mental affliction relieving from legal responsibility for matrimonial misconduct. Anno: 19 ALR2d 152, 175, §§ 4, 14.

obsignare. (Civil law.) To affix a seal to a will or other document; to sign and seal an instrument.

obsolescence. A condition resulting from unforeseen changes in the art, which make the installation of new apparatus necessary. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 145. The condition of a thing which has passed out of general use, is outmoded, and out of fashion. Re Stout, 151 Or 411, 50 P2d 768, 101 ALR 672. As a matter of deduction in computation of income for taxation, that which renders an asset economically useless, regardless of its physical condition, such as technological improvements, economic changes, and legislative or regulatory changes functional depreciation. Real Estate-Land Title & Trust Co. v United States, 309 US 13, 84 L Ed 542, 60 S Ct 371.

Obsolescence is not necessarily confined to particular elements or parts of a plant the whole may become obsolete. It may arise as the result of laws regulating or forbidding the particular use of the property as well as from changes in the act, the shifting of business centers, loss of trade, inadequacy, or other causes. Burnet v Niagara Brewing Co. 282 US 648, 75 L Ed 594, 51 S Ct 262.

See obsolete.

obsolete. In a condition of obsolescence.

obsolete law. A statute never repealed but no longer enforced.

obstante. Obstructing; opposing; withstanding.

Obsta principiis. Withstand or resist the beginnings.

It is the duty of courts to be watchful for the constitutional rights of the citizen, and against any stealthy encroachments thereon. Legislatures are doubtless actuated by the same motives, but the vastness of their business sometimes prevents them, on a first presentation, from noticing objections which become developed by time and the practical application of the objectionable law. Boyd v United States, 116 US 616, 635, 29 L Ed 746, 752, 6 S Ct 524.

[878]

obstetrician. In the modern sense, a physician practicing obstetrics. In an older sense, inclusive of a midwife.

obstetrics. The branch of medical science which has to do with the care of women during pregnancy and parturition. Stoike v Weseman, 167 Minn 266, 267, 208 NW 993.

obstinate desertion. A determined, fixed, and persistent desertion of one's spouse. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 99.

obstruction. A bond or other obligation.

obstruct. To interpose obstacles or impediments; to hinder, impede, or in any manner, directly or indirectly, to intrude or prevent. 39 Am J1st Obst J § 10. To make difficult or to present obstacles to the accomplishing of a thing. Anno: 148 ALR 1446. To be or come in the way of, as, the bar in the harbor obstructs the passage of ships; clouds obstruct the light of the sun; to cut off the sight of (an object), as, the trees obstruct the distant hills. Silva v Waldie, 42 NM 514, 82 P2d 282.

obstructing easement. An unreasonable interference by the owner of the servient premises with the enjoyment of an easement. 25 Am J2d Ease § 89.

obstructing enlistments. Presenting obstacles to the obtaining of enlistments in the armed forces or simply making the recruiting of men difficult. Anno: 148 ALR 1446.

obstructing highway. Impeding, delaying, or obstructing traffic. 25 Am J1st High § 272. Impeding, embarrassing, or opposing the passage along and over a street or highway, but not necessarily to such an extent as to stop travel. Chase v Oshkosh, 81 Wis 313, 51 NW 560. Placing a structure in the street, or depositing waste material, so as to reduce the width of the way. United States v Republic Steel Corp. 362 US 482, 4 L Ed 2d 903, 80 S Ct 884, reh den 363 US 858, 4 L Ed 2d 1739, 80 S Ct 1605.

obstructing justice. The criminal offense under the common law, and by the statutes of many jurisdictions, of obstructing the administration and due course of justice. 39 Am J1st Obst J § 1.

See obstruct.

obstructing mails. An offense under federal statute in wilfully obstructing or retarding the passage of the mail or its carrier. 18 USC 324.

obstructing navigation. The offense, indictable at common law of obstructing a navigable water way; that is a water way navigable in fact.

Such an offense appears to be punishable as a public nuisance. To render such obstructions a nuisance, it is not necessary that they should actually have interfered with navigation and done it injury; it is sufficient if they rendered such navigation less convenient, less secure, and less expeditious. State v Narrows Island Club, 100 NC 477.

obstructing officer. Impeding a public officer in the performance of his duty by direct or indirect means. 39 Am J1st Obst J § 8.

The word includes any passive, indirect, circuitous impediments to the service or execution of process, such as hindering or preventing an officer by not opening a door or removing an obstacle or by concealing or removing property. 39 Am J1st Obst J § 10.

The word does not mean to oppose or impede the process with which the officer is armed, or to defeat its execution, but that the officer himself shall be obstructed. Davis v State, 76 Ga 721, 722.

obstruction. A blocking of passage, such as an object on or near a railroad track. An impediment.

See expressions beginning "obstructing."

obstruxit. He obstructed.

Obstupare. To stop up.

Obstupavit et obstruxit. He stopped up and obstructed.

obtaining by false pretense. See false pretense.

Obtemperandum est consuetudini rationabili tanquam legi. Obedience is due or owing to a reasonable custom as much as to the law.

obtest. To call to witness.

Obtulit se. He offered himself, he appeared,—a form of the record entry of a person's appearance in court.

ob turpem causam. For a base reason; for an immoral consideration.

obventio. (Civil law.) Rent; revenue; income; yield; profits.

obvious danger. A danger which is observable or discoverable in the exercise of reasonable care which persons of ordinary intelligence may be expected to take for their own safety. Hardy v Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. 139 Iowa 314, 115 NW 8. A risk readily to be perceived either by the eye or by the intellect. Small v Travelers' Protective Asso. 118 Ga 900, 45 SE 706.

obvious defects. See patent defects. obvious peril. See obvious danger.

obvious risk. See obvious danger.

ob vitae solatium. Toward the comfort of life. Thurston v Carter, 112 Me 361, 92 A 295.

o. c. An abbreviation of "ope consilio,"—by the aid of counsel.

occasio. A feudal tribute exacted from tenants by the lord for his necessities.

occasion. An incident. In the strict sense, something which incidentally brings to pass an event, but not an efficient cause of the occurrence. Pennsylvania Co. v Congdon, 134 Ind 226, 33 NE 795. In ordinary use, a synonym of "cause." Williamsburgh City Fire Ins. Co. v Willard (CA9 Cal) 164 F 404.

See privileged occasion.

occasional. For the occasion; not regularly; pertaining to the cause; causal.

occasional contraband. Goods which are not actually contraband but which are treated as contraband by a belligerent.

occision. A killing; a putting to death.

occult. Concealed; hidden; secret. Beyond the understanding of man. Of the mystic arts.

occultatio. Concealment; hiding.

Occultatio thesauri inventi fraudulosa. The concealment of discovered treasure is fraudulent.

[879]

occult crimes. Secret offenses; crimes committed by stealth.

ocupacion. (Spanish.) A temporary taking of property by a competent tribunal or authority without compensation to the owner. The Navemar (DC NY) 24 F Supp 495.

occupancy. Possession in fact. The use of premises. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 895. The taking possession of those things which before belonged to nobody. 42 Am J1st Prop § 34. In reference to the rights of an occupying claimant:—such an occupancy as under the rules of the common law would entitle one to acquire a title by adverse possession, that is actual, open, and peaceable occupancy, but not necessarily occupancy as of one's dwelling place. 27 Am J1st Improv § 8.

"Physical occupancy" of property and legal possession of the same are not necessarily identical. A person may be held in law to be in actual possession of property, though at that time he be not physically upon it. State ex rel. Honey Island Land & Timber Co. v King, 110 La 961, 35 So 181.

occupancy agreement. An agreement carrying with it the right to occupy a specific apartment in a co-operative apartment building. 15 Am J2d Con Apt § 21.

occupant. One in enjoyment of the occupancy of premises. One in actual possession, the tenant as distinguished from the landlord who has possession but not occupancy. Parsons v Prudential Real Estate Co. 86 Neb 271, 125 NW 521.

For the purposes of the statutory requirement of notice of a proceeding for the establishment of a highway, the owner of a farm who is in the actual possession and control of it is the "occupant" thereof, although at the time he does not reside on the farm but in a village near by. A tenant who cultivates leased land is also an "occupant," although he does not reside thereon. 25 Am J1st High § 24.

Occupantis fiunt derelicta. Abandoned goods go to the first taker.

occupare. (Civil law.) To occupy; to take possession of; to lay hold of; to seize.

occupatio. (Civil law.) An occupation; a seizure; a taking possession; a business, occupation or calling.

occupation. The enjoyment of real property. Ward v Crane, 118 Cal 676, 50 P 839. The taking and possessing of enemy territory in time of war. 56 Am J1st War §§ 204 et seq. A more or less continuous or habitual engagement in a certain line of employment or industrial or business activity. Anno: 50 ALR 1176; 106 ALR 1502. That which occupies or engages the time or attention; the principal business of one's life. Union Mut. Acci. Asso. v Frohard, 134 Ill 228, 25 NE 642. A profession, vocation, calling, employment, or trade. Stewart v Barber, 182 Misc 91, 43 NYS2d 560. For the purposes of the application of a diminished liability clause of an accident insurance policy:—the insured's principal vocation or pursuit. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 769. For the purposes of an exemption statute:—any employment in which the debtor is engaged to procure a living, or at which he habitually earns his living. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 3.

occupational disability clause. A provision in a health or accident insurance policy, or in a life insurance policy containing a disability provision, for the payment of periodic indemnity for total disability preventing the insured from performing any of the duties of his occupation, business, or profession. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1516.

occupational disease. A disease which develops gradually and imperceptibly as a result of engaging in a particular employment and is generally known and understood to be a usual and natural incident or hazard of such employment. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 246. A disease caused by or especially incident to a particular employment. Iwanicki v State Industrial Acci. Com. 104 Or 650, 205 P 990, 29 ALR 682, 688. Something other than an accidental injury. But none the less a personal injury, the injury being regarded as sustained when the employee becomes unable to work. Iwanicki v State Industrial Acci. Com. 104 Or 650, 205 P 990, 29 ALR 682.

occupational prejudice. A prejudice against the occupation of a party, such as that of tending bar. 31 Am J Rev ed Jury § 178.

occupational restriction. A restriction contained in a covenant prohibiting the use of property in the pursuit of any occupation or certain prescribed occupations. 20 Am J2d Cov § 197.

occupation tax. A tax imposed for the purpose of revenue only on persons pursuing a certain occupation, vocation, or profession, such as that of practicing law, as distinguished from the charging of a license fee in the course of the regulation of an occupation, vocation, or profession. Royall v Virginia, 116 US 572, 29 L Ed 735, 6 S Ct 510. A tax upon the privilege of selling tangible personal property at retail, a tax sometimes regarded as included within the meaning of the term "sales taxes." 47 Am J1st Sales T § 1.

occupavit. He took possession; a writ which lay to recover land which was lost in time of war.

occupied. Space, time, or even one's mind filled to the exclusion of anything else. Possessed in fact and used. As a warranty or representation in an insurance policy covering a building:—a substantial and practical use of the insured building for the purposes for which it is intended and as contemplated by the policy. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 907.

occupy. To fill space; to take one's attention. To hold, to keep for use, or to possess, real estate. Missionary Soc. v Dalles City (US) 17 Otto 336, 27 L Ed 545, 2 S Ct 672.

occupying claimant. The terminology for one who seeks recovery for improvements made by him upon premises while he was in actual occupancy thereof in the belief that he had a good title.

Occupying Claimant's Acts. Statutes which provide a recovery by an occupying claimant, since dispossessed by the true owner, for improvements made by him while he was in actual occupancy of the premises in the belief that he had good title. 27 Am J1st Improv § 6.

occur. To happen. Johnson v Humboldt Ins. Co. 91 Ill 92.

occurrence. A happening; an event.

The time of the occurrence of an accident within the meaning of an indemnity policy is generally deemed to be the time when the complaining party was actually damaged, and not when the wrongful act was committed. Remmer v Glens Falls Indem.

[880]

Co. 140 Cal App 2d 84, 295 P2d 19, 57 ALR2d 1379.

occurrence witness. A witness having personal knowledge of an event from presence at its occurrence, especially a witness who observed an accident in which a personal injury or injuries were sustained. Krupp v Chicago Transit Authority, 8 Ill 2d 37, 132 NE2d 532.

ocean. The bounding main; the high sea.

ocean going steamer. A vessel equipped to sail the ocean, even including a large pleasure yacht. 12 Am J2d Boats § 1.

ochlocracy. A government by a mob which has overturned the established order.

octabis. Same as octave.

octave. The eighth full tone above a given tone. The eighth day inclusive after a church feast day.

The first return day (the day oil which original writs are made returnable) in every term is the first day in that term; as, for instance, the octave of St. Hilary, or the eighth day inclusive after the feast of that saint. Sec 3 Bl Comm 277.

octoroon. The child of a white person and a quadroon; a person of one eighth Negro blood.

octo tales. A writ to summon men who shall supply a deficiency in the jury panel.

ocular refraction. The adaptation and accommodation of the light rays which enter the eye in keeping with optical principles, to secure proper focus and the formation of an accurate image on the retina. Abelson, Inc. v New York State Board of Optometrists. 5 NJ 412, 75 A2d 867, 22 ALR2d 929.

An applied arm of optical science, resting upon the work and discoveries of physicists and opticians through the ages, down to modern times. It does not treat the eye, whether in health or disease, but adapts the light waves which enter the eye, in accordance with optical principles, so as to produce focused and single vision with the least abnormal exertion on the part of the eye. Its distinction from medicine and its independence of medicine have been affirmed by the United States Supreme Court in every case in which the question has been brought up for adjudication. Silver v Lansburgh & Bro. (DC Dist Col) 27 F Supp 682.

oculist. A physician who specializes in treating abnormalities and diseases of the eye. Black v Bearden, 167 Ark 455, 268 SW 27. One who practices medicine and surgery in the treatment of diseases of the eye. Anno: 141 ALR 884.

The practice of an oculist has relation to the practice of medicine and surgery in the treatment of diseases of the eye, and to the measurement of the powers of vision, and the adaptation of lenses for the aid thereof. Anno: 22 ALR2d 941.

odd lot. A transaction in stock negotiated by a broker involving less than one hundred shares.

Oderunt peccare boni, virtutis amore; oderunt peccare mali, formidine poenae. By reason of their love of goodness, righteous men hate to sin; by reason of their fear of punishment, bad men hate to sin.

odhal or odhall. Allodial, -free; not held in subordination to another: opposed to feudal.

odio et atia. See de odio et atia.

Odiosa et inhonesta non sunt in lege praesumenda. Odious and dishonest things are not to be presumed in law.

Odiosa non praesumuntur. Odious or hateful things are not presumed.

odious plea. A plea that the plaintiff is an alien enemy. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 191.

odium. Hatred or dislike, applied in the law particularly to hatred or dislike of a party to an action or of his cause of action or defense. Brow v Levy, 3 Ind App 464, 468.

odium spoliatoris. See in odium spoliatoris.

oeconomicus. An executor of the estate of a testator.

oeconomus. An administrator; an advocate; a defender.

oecumenical. Same as ecumenical.

odometer. A device for recording the miles traveled by a vehicle.

odor. A refined word for smell. A nuisance when noxious. 39 Am J1st Nuis § 59.

oepts. Use.

oes. Same its oepts.

of. Belonging to. Denoting possession or ownership. Davidson v Click, 31 NM 543, 47 ALR 1016, 249 P 100. Sometimes indicating origin, source, descent and the like. Stone v Riggs, 43 Okla 209, 142 P 298. As the word appears in a tariff schedule:—indicating an article wholly or primarily made from material designated. 19 USC § 1202, Headnote 9(f). Sometimes the equivalent of "in." Sisson v Board of Supervisors, 128 Iowa 442, 104 NW 454.

of a civil nature. See suit of a civil nature.

of age. The condition or state of a person who has attained his or her majority.

See age of majority.

of counsel. A phrase which indicates that the person named is assisting another lawyer in a cause or the trial of a case. A common designation for associate attorneys to distinguish them from the attorneys of record in a cause.

of course. See as of course.

offa execrata. The morsel of execration, the corsned,—a piece of bread which, under the ancient Saxon law, was given to a person accused of crime to be eaten by him.

If it stuck in his throat, he was deemed guilty.

offal. Garbage; waste animal or vegetable matter; any filthy material. 37 Am J1st Mull Corp § 298. That which is permitted to fall away as of no value, for example, the chips in the dressing of a stone offend. To commit a public offense. To hurt the feelings.

offense. A crime. A felony, misdemeanor, or other infraction subject to prosecution. Osborne v Owsley (Mo) 264 SW2d 332, 38 ALR2d 1128. Agression. A hurt to the feelings.

This word in a clause of a contract of employment authorizing the employee's discharge may be given a broader meaning than crime and justify dismissal for conduct for which no one bothered to prosecute the offender, or something that is no legal crime at all. Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. v Lardner (CA9 Cal) 216 F2d 844, 51 ALR2d 728.

offense against the United States. See federal offense.

offense malum in se. See mala in se.

offense malum prohibitum. See mala prohibita.

offensive. Giving offense; causing displeasure or annoyance. Wounding the feelings. People v Whitman (Co Ct) 157 NYS 1107. Being aggressive.

offensive business. A business which is noxious or dangerous to the neighborhood. 20 Am J2d Cov § 198. A business which is noxious, unsanitary, unsightly, unusually noisy, or constituting a nuisance per se. Unity Builders Inc. v Scarborough (La App) 149 So 2d 141. A term of a restrictive covenant to be construed in accordance with the context of the covenant. Babcock v Laidlaw, 113 NJ Eq 318, 166 A 632.

offer. A proposal of terms made with the purpose of securing the acceptance thereof by another, thereby completing a contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 31. A tender of performance.

offer and acceptance. Essentials in the formation of a contract; the means through which the minds of the parties meet. 17 Am J2d Contr § 31. The assent or meeting of the minds of the parties in completing a contract of guaranty. 24 Am J1st Guar § 34.

offered evidence. Evidence presented by a party on the trial of an action.

Such evidence may or may not be received. It is evidence adduced but it does not become evidence introduced unless it is admitted or received by the court. Tuttle v Story County, 56 Iowa 316, 317, 9 NW 292.

offer for the record. See offer of proof.

offering bribe. See bribery.

offering to do equity. A maxim which prescribes a condition of plaintiff's right to relief in equity. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 34.

offer of compromise. A concession by a party to a controversy, such as a reduction in claim, made for the purpose of settlement of the controversy. Daniels v U. S. Rubber Co. (Tex Civ App) 199 SW2d 533.

offer of evidence. Same as offer of proof.

offer of proof. Presenting evidence for admission or for a ruling upon admissibility. A formal offer by a party of proof, showing what testimony he proposes to adduce, and, when necessary, his intention to prove other facts which will render the evidence relevant or competent. Advising the court of the purpose for which apparently irrelevant or incompetent evidence is offered. Chambers v Minneapolis, St. Paul & S. Ste. M. R. Co. 37 ND 377, 163 NW 824, 954. The offer of testimony of a witness ruled incompetent by the trial court or of evidence ruled inadmissible by the trial court, such being an offer for the record, sometimes known as an avowal, the purpose being to present a good record on appeal by preserving the error in an adequate form. 53 Am J1st Trial § 99.

offer of tender. The physical act of offering the money in making a tender. 52 Am J1st Tend § 7.

offer to dedicate. The declaration of an owner of real estate of his purpose to dedicate the property to public use, made by him expressly or by act, by deed, or by plat. 23 Am J2d Ded § 18.

offer to guarantee. A step in the making of a contract of guaranty.

An offer to guarantee the obligation of a third party is not a guaranty. The assent of the parties is essential to a guaranty, and for such assent there must be an offer by one party and an acceptance of it by the other. An offer to guarantee is but a step in the negotiations leading up to the contract; the guaranty is the finished product of the negotiations. 24 Am J1st Guar § 34.

offer to restore. See tender.

office. A term of vague and variant import, the meaning of which varies necessarily with the context and the circumstances surrounding the use of the term. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 2. A place wherein business is transacted. That function by virtue whereof a person has an employment in the affairs of another, whether public, private, or quasi-public and the right to such emoluments as accrue from the employment. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 2. Purpose, for example, the office of a remedy.

office copy. A certified copy made by the officer in custody of the judicial records. State v Board of Public Works, 57 NJL 313, 316, 30 A 581.

office found. A finding of fact by inquest of office or other proceeding equivalent thereto that a certain individual is an alien.

At common law, until office found, an alien is competent to hold land against third persons, and no one has a right to complain in a collateral proceeding, if the sovereign does not enforce its prerogative. Phillips v Moore, 100 US 208, 25 L Ed 603.

office grant. A transfer or conveyance of land to a person entitled thereto by a public officer in certain cases where the owner cannot or will not execute it.

office hours. The period of time when a public or private office is open for the transaction of business.

Office of Alien Property. A division in the Department of Justice of the United States.

office of corporation. See corporate officers; principal place of business.

office of credit. Same as office of honor.

office of honor. An office which yields no profit. Alexander v Jenkins (Eng) LR 1 QB 797.

office of profit. A lucrative office; an office the incumbent of which is entitled to salary or other compensation. State v De Gress, 53 Tex 387, 400. A public office to which a compensation is attached. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 23.

officer. A term of vague and variant import, the meaning of which varies necessarily with the context and the circumstances surrounding the use of the term. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 2. A commissioned officer of the Armed Forces. 36 Am J1st Mil § 51. A policeman. One holding or inseparably connected with an office. Metcalf v Mitchell, 269 US 514, 70 L Ed 384, 46 S Ct 172. A person who holds an office, either public or private. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 2.

An officer is distinguishable from a person who holds a place of trust or profit. Such places are not offices, and yet they occupy the same general level in dignity and importance. Members of the legislature are not officers. Their places are places of trust and profit, but they are not offices of trust and profit. Doyle v Aldermen of Raleigh, 89 NC 133.

See corporate officers; municipal officer; public officer.

officer de facto. See de facto corporate officer; de facto public officer.

officer de jure. See de jure officer.

officer of the armed services. A commissioned officer. 36 Am J1st Mil § 51.

See noncommissioned officer.

officer of the United States. One who holds his office by virtue of appointment by the President, by one of the courts of justice, or by the head of a department authorized by law to make such appointment. 54 Am J1st US § 11.

officer pro tempore. See pro tempore.

officers of corporation. See corporate officers.

office work. Work in a business office; clerical work.

Officia judicialia non concedantur antequam vacant. Judicial offices are not granted or appointed before they become vacant.

official. In the capacity of an officer, especially a public officer. Formal.

While the word usually means pertaining to a public office, it is sometimes applied to persons holding fiduciary positions, to distinguish their transactions in such relations from their purely private business. Bissell v Wayne Probate Judge, 58 Mich 237, 238, 24 NW 886.

official act. An act done by an officer in his official capacity, under color and by virtue of his office.

An act need not be a lawful act that it may be an official one. If this were not so, the sureties on his official bond would never be responsible. Greenberg v People's use of Balaban, 225 Ill 174, 80 NE 100.

To constitute official action, it is not necessary that it shall be prescribed by statute nor that it be prescribed by a written rule or regulation. Duties are often established by settled practice. Whitney v United States (CA10 Okla) 99 F2d 327.

official ballot. A ballot prescribed by the legislature for use at an election, almost invariably being in a form modeled on what is known as the "Australian ballot system." 26 Am J2d Elect § 204.

official bond. A penal bond conditioned upon the performance of duties of office. A bond required of a public officer, in effect, a contract between the officer and the government, binding the officer to discharge the duties of his office, and binding the sureties to make good the defaults of the officer. 43 Am J1st Pub Of § 394.

official forms. Forms officially prescribed for use, for example, the official forms prescribed by the United States Supreme Court for use in bankruptcy proceedings. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 108.

official intermeddling. A matter of maintenance. Anno: 139 ALR 650.

official misconduct. An act constituting a breach of the good faith and right action impliedly required of all public officers. Etzler v Brown, 58 Fla 221, 50 So 416. Any act involving moral turpitude, or any act which is contrary to justice, honesty, principle, or good morals, if performed by virtue of authority of office. State v Examining & Trial Board, 43 Mont 389, 117 P 77. Any unlawful behavior in relation to the duties of his office, willful in its character, of any officer intrusted in any manner with the administration of justice, or the execution of the laws. Brackenridge v State, 27 Tex App 513, 11 SW 630.

official newspaper. A newspaper of a city or county in which public acts, resolutions, advertisements, and notices of the city or county are required to be published. Shelden v Butler County, 48 Kan 356, 29 P 759.

official notice. Another expression for judicial notice. The equivalent of judicial notice by an administrative agency. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 385.

official opinion. See opinion.

official oppression. The wrong of a public officer in exercising his official authority for his own selfish or vindictive reasons to the harm of another. Anno: 83 ALR2d 1008.

official records. Transcripts from books and records of the executive departments of the federal government which, when authenticated according to law, constitute evidence, by virtue of the federal official records statutes, concerning the matters of which they speak, if made by an officer or agent of the government in the course of the discharge by him of his official duty. Anno: 50 ALR2d 1197.

See court record; public record.

Official Records Statute. A federal statute providing that books or records of account, or minutes of the proceedings of any department or agency of the United States, are admissible to prove the act, transaction, or occurrence as a memorandum of which the same were made or kept. 28 USC § 1733(a).

Official Register. A publication compiled by the United States Civil Service Commission, showing persons occupying administrative and supervisory positions in the legislative, executive, and judicial branches of the Government of the United States and in the District of Columbia.

Official Reports as Evidence Act. One of the uniform laws. 30 Am J2d Ev § 994.

official rules. Rules governing the practice and procedure before an administrative agency. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 346.

official seal. The seal affixed to a document by a public officer. Kirksey v Bates (Ala) 7 Port 529. The instrumentality for affixing a seal that goes with a public office as part of the paraphernalia of office.

Such a seal must contain enough to show the official character of the officer and must be capable of making a distinct and uniform impression upon the paper upon which it is used, or on some tenacious substance such as wax attached thereto, capable of receiving an impression. A seal in the form of a scrawl of the pen does not fill the requirements of an official seal. 47 Am J1st Seals § 7.

See great seal; seal of court.

official trustee. An official trustee in bankruptcy under a former practice, now prohibited, of recognizing a particular corporation in the federal district as entitled to appointment as trustee in bankruptcy in all cases arising in the district requiring a trustee. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 621.

official use. An active use; that is, a use under which the feoffee to uses was required to perform active duties with reference to the property conveyed to him.

official visitors. See visitors.

Officia magistratus non debent esse venalia. The offices of magistrates ought not to be the subjects of sale.

officiariis non faciendis vel amovendis. A writ which lay to stay the installation or removal of an officer of a corporation.

offeina fraudis. The workshop of fraud.

offeina gentium. The workshop of nations.

officina justitiae. The workshop of justice, a term applied to the English Court of Chancery. Yates v People (NY) 6 Johns 337, 363.

officio. See ex officio; functus officio.

officio coronatoris. See de officio coronatoris.

officious will. A will wherein the testator leaves his property to his family.

Officit conatus si effectus sequatur. An attempt works an injury if the result follows.

officium. An office.

Officium nemini debet esse damnosum. An office ought not to be a detriment to a person.

offset. A balancing or compensating factor. A printing process.

See setoff; without offset.

offset well. An oil well dug for the specific purpose of preventing drainage of oil to adjoining property. 24 Am J1st Gas & Oil § 43.

offspring. Children or issue. Anno: 23 ALR2d 842845. Sometimes a word of limitation in grant or devise. Allen v Markle, 36 Pa 117.

offstreet parking. A parking lot. Parking places off the street provided for the purpose of relieving traffic congestion. 26 Am J2d Em D § 48.

off-the-road production. The production of materials used in highway maintenance. Thomas v Hempt Bros. 345 US 19, 97 L Ed 751, 73 S Ct 568.

of new. Anew; over again.

of right. A matter of legal right.

See as of course.

Of two possible constructions, adopt the one which will save and not destroy. A canon of construction. Anniston Mfg. Co. v Davis, 301 US 337, 81 L Ed 1143, 57 S Ct 816.

ohm. The unit of electrical resistance; the resistance to a force of one volt in a current of one ampere. Peoria Waterworks Co. v Peoria R. Co. (CC Ill) 181 F 990.

oikeimania. A morbid state of a person's domestic affections, as an unreasonable dislike of his wife or child, without cause or provocation, turning love into hatred. Ekin v McCracken (Pa) 11 Phila 534, 540.

oil. A mineral. Scott v Laws, 185 Ky 440, 215 SW 81, 13 ALR 369.

See crude oil.

oil and gas lease. A grant of the sole and exclusive right to develop the land described in the lease for oil and gas or a demise for a designated term of years for the purpose of such development, subject to the conditions of a payment of royalty in the event of production, of the commencement of drilling operations on or before a specified date, and of the performance within a prescribed time of a certain amount of development work. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 34.

oil and gas license. A distributor's license required because of the dangerous character of the product. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 129. A license required for the storage or keeping of oil, gasoline, or other petroleum product. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 154.

oil filings. Oil locations,—locations made on public lands of the United States and filed in the government land office pursuant to acts of Congress by persons in good faith claiming the land as oil land. Anthony Wilkinson Live Stock Co. v McIlquham, 14 Wyo 209, 83 P 364.

oil lease. See oil and gas lease.

oil license. See oil and gas license.

oil locations. Same as oil filings.

oil refinery. A plant wherein crude oil is refined by splitting it up into a number of commercial products by a process of fractional distillation. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 123.

oil royalty. See royalty.

oil royalty pool. See royalty pool.

oil well. A well bored in the crust of the earth and the components thereof to a deposit of crude oil. A structure within the meaning of a lien law. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 114. Not a mine. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 2.

oil well drilling. See footage drilling; rotary drilling; turn-key drilling.

oir. Same as oyer.

O. K. All right; correct. 1 Am J2d Abbr § 7. An abbreviation frequently used in the commercial world signifying the signer's approval of the instrument on which he indorses it.

The origin of the term "O.K." is obscure. While there are various explanations of the origin, none is well-grounded. It has, however, a well-defined meaning in common and commercial usage. Anything said to be "O.K." is understood to be all right or correct. Lithographical Printing Co. v Chase, 149 Mass 459, 21 NE 765; Morganton Mfg. Co. v Ohio River & C. R. Co. 121 NC 514, 28 SE 474.

OK bill of lading. A bill of lading bearing the written or stamped letters "OK," indicating that the goods were received by the carrier in good condition. Morganton Mfg. Co. v Ohio & Charleston Ry. Co. 121 NC 514, 28 SE 474.

old age. Advanced age; senility. Not mental incompetency in itself. Lindsey v Lindsey, 50 Ill 79; Westerbeck v Cannon, 5 Wash 2d 106, 104 P2d 918.

Old-Age and Survivors' Insurance. The system whereby employees and employers are taxed to provide for the payment of benefits to workers and their wives upon their reaching a stated age or suffering disability, popularly known as social security. 48 Am J1st Soc Sec § 9.

Old-Age and Survivors' Insurance Act. Federal statutes constituting a part of the Federal Social Security Act, providing a system of social security for employees. 26 USC §§ 1400 et seq.

[884]

old-age assistance. A provision made by state statute, complimentary to, and operating in conjunction with, the Federal Social Security Act, for benefits to persons in needy or indigent circumstances or without means of support, who have reached a specified age. 48 Am J1st Soc Sec §§ 39 et seq. In the broad sense, any aid granted by the public or by private persons to the elderly for support, maintenance, or medical care.

old-age exemption. A homestead exemption provided by statute for an aged person, even for an aged person who is not the head of a family. 26 Am J1st Home § 15.

Old Bailey. The name which was given to what was formerly the principal criminal court of London.

old line company. A life insurance company operating on a fixed-premium basis, as distinguished from a mutual benefit society or company issuing policies on an assessment basis, its policies having a cash surrender value after the first year.

See old time policy.

old line policy. A policy of life insurance in which the amount to be paid by the insured is fixed, the premiums to be paid are unalterable, and the liability incurred by the insurance company is also fixed, definite, and unchangeable. Clark v Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 126 Me 7, 9, 135 A 357, 358.

Old Natura Brevium. A book or account compiled in the reign of Edward the Third, describing the writs in common use at that time.

old school. Having a conservative quality.

old school physician. One licensed to practice and practicing medicine according to the system approved by and taught in the leading medical schools. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 85.

old style calendar. The calendar which was in use in England and America prior to the year 1752, when the "new style" or Gregorian calendar was adopted.

oleomargarine. A substance used as butter, made of vegetable oil and other ingredients, and fortified with vitamins. 35 Am J2d Food § 41.

oleo oil. A food; a substance used in the preparation of oleomargarine. 35 Am J2d Food § 1.

Oleron. See Laws of Oleron.

oligarchy. A government which is administered by a few persons.

olograph. A holographic will.

olographic will. Same as holographic will.

om. Same as omme. ome bueno. (Spanish.) A good or responsible man.

omissa vel male apprehiate. Omissions or mistakes in understanding.

omissio. An omission.

Omissio eorum quae tacite insunt nihil operatur. The omission of those things which are tacitly implied is of no importance.

omission. A leaving out. A failure to act. The failure to do something which ought to be done; not doing something required.
See crime of omission.

omissis omnibus aliis negotiis. Putting aside all other business affairs.

omissus. See casus omissus.

omits to provide. A familiar phrase in statutes respecting the rights of pretermitted children.

As the expression is used in a statute providing that if a testator "omits to provide" in his will for his child, the child will take as if the testator had died intestate, it means simply an omission to make a provision for the child in the will, and has no reference to the pecuniary value of such provision, the object of the statute being merely to prevent the child from being overlooked. Allison v Allison, 101 Va 537, 44 SE 904.

omitted property. Property which has escaped taxation. Independent Pipe Line Co. v State Board of Equalization, 168 Okla 432, 33 P2d 797. Property of a decedent omitted in the assessment of inheritance tax. State v Brooks, 183 Minn 251, 236 NW 316. Lands omitted in the original assessment for a local improvement. St. Louis & K. C. Land Co. v Kansas City, 241 US 419, 60 L Ed 1072, 36 S Ct 647.

omme. A man; anyone.

Omne actum ab intentione agentis est iudicandum. Every act is to be judged by the intention of the doer.

Omne crimen ebrietas, et incendit et detegit. Drunkenness both aggravates and lays bare every crime. See 4 Bl Comm 25.

Omne jus aut consensus fecit, aut necessitas constituit, aut firmavit consuetudo. (Civil law.) Consent created, necessity established, or custom confirmed every right.

Omne magis dignum trahit ad se minus dignum, quamvis minus dignum sit antiquius. Every worthier thing draws to itself the less worthy, although the less worthy be the more ancient.

Omne magis dignum trahit ad se minus dignum sit antiquius. Every worthier thing draws to itself the less worthy, although it be older.

Omne magnum exemplum habet aliquid ex iniquo, quod publica utilitate compensatur. Every great example has something of unfairness, which is balanced by public advantage.

Omne majus continet in se minus. Every greater right or thing holds within itself the less.

Omne majus dignum continet in se minus dignum. Every more worthy thing contains the less worthy within itself.

Omne majus minus in se complectitur. Every greater thing embraces the less within itself.

Omne principale trahit ad se accessorium. Every principal thing draws the accessory to itself. Parsons v Welles, 17 Mass 425.

[885]

Omne quod inaedificatur solo cedit. Everything which is built into the soil goes with it. See Broom's Legal Maxims 401.

Omne sacramentum debet esse de certa scientia. Every sworn statement ought to be of certain knowledge.

Omnes actiones in mundo infra certa tempora habent limitationem. All actions in the world have limitation within certain periods of time.

Omnes homines aut liberi sunt aut servi. All men are either freemen or slaves.

Omnes licentiam habere his quite pro se indulta sunt, renunciare. (Civil law). All are free to renounce those things which have been allowed for their benefit. See Broom's Legal Maxims 699.

Omnes prudentes, ilia admittere solent quae probantur its qui in arte suit bene versati sunt. All prudent persons are accustomed to accept those things which have been approved by those who are well versed in their own art.

omnes res suas liberas et quietas haberet. That he should retain all his property free and undisturbed. See 1 Bl Comm 291.

Omnes sorores sunt quasi unus haeres de una haereditate. All sisters are, as it were, one heir of one inheritance.

Omne testamentum morte consummatum est. Every will or testament is consummated or completed by death.

Omnia delicta in aperto leviora sunt. All offenses committed openly are less serious.

Omnia peccata sunt paria. All crimes are alike.

omnia performavit. He has performed in all things. A defendant's plea in an action for breach of covenant. Bailey v Rogers, 1 Me 186, 189.

Omnia praesumuntur contra spoliatores. All things are presumed against a suppressor of testimony. Western & Atlantic Railroad Co. v Morrison, 102 Ga 319, 29 SE 104.

Omnia praesumuntur legitime facta donee probetur in contrarium. All things are presumed to have been done lawfully until the contrary is proved. People ex rel. Copcutt v Yonkers, 140 NY 1, 35 NE 481.

Omnia praesumuntur rite et solemniter acta donee probetur in contrarium. All things are presumed to have been done regularly and with due formality until the contrary is proved. Robideaux v Herbert, 118 La 1089, 43 So 887

omnia praesumuntur rite et solemniter esse acta. All things are presumed to have been done regularly until the contrary is proved. 29 Am J2d Ev § 170.

Omnia praesumuntur rite et solemniter esse acta. All things are presumed to have been done correctly and with due formality.

Omnia praesumuntur rite et solemniter esse acta donee probetur in contrarium. All things are presumed to have been done correctly and with due formality until the contrary is proved. See Broom's Legal Maxims 944.

Omnia praesumuntur rite, legitime, solemniter esse acta, donee probetur in contrarium. All things are presumed to have been done correctly, lawfully and with due formality, until the contrary is proved.

Omnia praesumuntur solemniter esse acta. All things are presumed to have been done with due formality.

Omnia quae jure contrahuntur, contrario jure pereunt. (Civil law.) All contracts which are entered into under a law, become void under a contrary law.

Omnia quae sunt uxoris sunt ipsius viri. All things which belong to the wife are the property of the husband.

Omnia rite acta praesumuntur. All things are presumed to have been regularly done. Fidelity & Casualty Co. v Eickhoff, 63 Minn 170, 65 NW 351.

Omnia rite esse acta praesumuntur. All things are presumed to have been done in due form. See Broom's Legal Maxims 944 n.

Omnia rite praesumuntur. All things are presumed in favor of regularity.

omnibus. A coach or other large vehicle equipped for the carrying of many passengers, propelled in modern times by motor, in an earlier day by horses. (Latin.) Everything; all.

See in omnibus.

Omnibus ad quos praesentes literae pervenerint, salutem. To all to whom the present letters may come, greeting.

omnibus bill. A legislative bill covering various and miscellaneous subjects. A bill purporting to amend many sections of a code. Parkinson v State, 14 Md 184.

omnibus clause. A clause in an automobile liability insurance policy, providing that the term "insured" includes the named insured and also any other person while using the automobile and any person or organization legally responsible for the use thereof, provided the actual use of the automobile is by the named insured or with his permission or consent. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 109.

omnibus count. A count of a declaration or complaint which combines in one all the money counts. Griffin v Murdock, 88 Me 254, 257.

omnibus legislation. See omnibus bill.

omnibus motion. A motion consisting of several motions in combination, including in some instances demands for relief of a different nature, depending on different facts and circumstances wholly unrelated. 37 Am J1st Motions § 6.

Omnibus qui reipublicae praesunt etiam mando, ut omnibus aequos se prebeant iudices, perinde ac in judiciali libro scriptum habetur; nee ququam formident quin jus commune audacter libereque dicant. To all those who govern the republic, I charge them to prove themselves to be fair judges as it is written in the Dome Book and boldly and freely to declare the common law. See 1 Bl Comm 65.

omni exceptione majores. Above or superior to all criticism or exception.

Omnis actio est loquela. Every action is a complaint.

Omnis conclusio boni et veri iudicii sequitur ex bonis et veris praemissis et dictis juratorum. Every conclusion of a good and true judgment follows from good and true premises and the verdicts of jurors.

Omnis consensus tollit errorem. Every consent removes error; error is cured by consent.

Omnis definitio in jure civili periculosa est, parum est enim ut non subverti possit. (Civil law.) Every definition in the civil law is dangerous, because there is little that cannot be subverted.

Omnis definitio in jure periculosa. Every definition in the law is dangerous. Brady v Bartlett, 56 Cal 350, 365. (But a good law dictionary is nevertheless a most valuable asset in a law library.)

Omnis definitio in jure periculosa est; parum est enim ut non subverti posset. Every definition in the law is dangerous, because there is little that cannot be subverted.

Omnis definitio in lege periculosa. Every definition in the law is dangerous.

Omnis exceptio est ipsa quoque regula. Every exception is itself also a rule.

Omnis indemnatus pro innoxio legibus habetur. Every uncondemned person is regarded by the law as innocent.

Omnis innovatio plus novitate perturbat quam utilitate prodest. Every innovation causes more confusion by reason of its novelty than it benefits by its usefulness. Barden v Atlantic Coast Line Railway Co. 152 NC 318, 67 SE 971.

Omnis interpretatio si fieri potest ita fienda est in instrumentis, ut omnes contrarietates amoveantur. Every interpretation of instruments should be so made, if it can be so made, that all contradictions may be removed.

Omnis interpretatio vel declarat, vel extendit, vel restringit. Every interpretation either declares, extends or restrains.

Omnis nova constitutio futuris formam imponere debet, non praeteritis. Every new regulation ought to prescribe a form for the future acts, not for the past.

Omnis persona est homo, sed non vicissim. Every person is a man, but not vice versa.

Omnis privatio praesupponit habitum. Every deprivation presupposes a prior enjoyment or possession.

Omnis querela et omnis actio injuriarum limitata est infra certa tempora. Every complaint and every action for injuries is limited within certain times.

Omnis rati habitio retrotrahitur, et mandato priori equiparatur. Every ratification relates back, and is equivalent to a prior command. Fleckner v Bank of United States (US) 8 Wheat 338, 363, 5 L Ed 631, 637.

Omnis regula suas patitur exceptiones. Every rule is subject to its own exceptions.

omnium. The aggregate.

omnium bonorum. Of all the goods.

Omnium contributione sarciatur quod pro omnibus datum est. That which is given in behalf of all is restored by the contribution of all.

Omnium rerum quarum usus est, potest esse abusus, virtute solo excepta. There can be abuse of all things of which there is use, virtue alone excepted.

on. In contact with the surface or upper part of a thing and supported by it. Rester v Moody & Stewart, 172 La 510, 134 So 690. Often used for "in," as on a train.

More definite in the description of real estate than "at," although sometimes meaning "in the vicinity of," as where the description refers to some geographic feature. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 243.

on acceptance. A condition in a draft making the instrument nonnegotiable. 11 Am J2d B & N § 141.

[887]

on account. Received on one's credit; to be charged.

A purchase of stock "on the account" imports a sale of stock to be delivered at a future time. Clews v Jamieson, 182 US 461, 45 L Ed 1183, 21 S Ct 845.

on account of. A common phrase in an order for the payment of money; not an indication of a particular fund for payment. First Nat. Bank v Lightner, 74 Kan 736, 88 P 59. A form of restrictive indorsement. 11 Am J2d B & N § 362.

on account of whom it may concern. An insurance term which is used to include all persons having an insurable interest in the property insured for whose benefit the policy is intended. Newsom v Douglas (Md) 7 Harr & J 417.

on a lay. A term characterizing the letting of a vessel to the master for operation on shares. 48 Am J1st Ship § 335.

on all fours. Precisely in point.

A case to be on all fours must be identical. Lessee of Sweitzer v Meese (Pa) 6 Binn 500, 506.

on a motor vehicle. See in a motor vehicle.

onanism. Masturbation.

on a passage. A phrase used in marine insurance policies in prescribing the duration of the risk. At sea.

A vessel which is in port where she has put in to obtain the necessary clearance, water, and crew for her voyage is not "on a passage" within the meaning of the term as applied to a time policy continuing the risk if the vessel is "on a passage" at the end of the term. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 331.

on approval. See sale on approval.

on a public conveyance. See in or on a public conveyance.

on arrival. A term of instruction to collecting bank for presentation, giving the bank a reasonable time to await arrival of goods. 10 Am J2d Bks § 713.

See sale on arrival.

on call. On demand; when demanded; at any time called for. Bowman v McChesney, 63 Va (22 Gratt) 609, 612.

on call note. A note payable on demand. 12 Am J2d B & N § 1048.

once a highway, always a highway. An ancient maxim, the strength of which is weakened in modern times by exceptions and qualifications permitting the termination of even a public highway. 25 Am J1st High § 111.

once a mortgage, always a mortgage. A maxim often asserted in the application of the principle that if an instrument is a mortgage at its inception, it remains so with all the incidents thereof. 36 Am J1st Mtg § 3.

Once an Englishman always an Englishman. A phrase which sums up the early common-law doctrine of perpetual and unchangeable allegiance to the country of one's birth. Anno: 15 ALR2d 553 §§ 2-15.

once a week for four successive weeks. A familiar requirement for publication of a notice, having reference to publication so timed that not more than a seven-day interval shall occur between any two successive publications. 30A Am J Rev ed Jud S § 55.

once in jeopardy. Essentially the same as the defense of prior jeopardy, although a distinction is recognized by some authority.

A plea setting up a former jeopardy of the defendant who is now charged with the same offense. The justice of sustaining a plea of former acquittal or conviction is unquestioned and unquestionable, but a plea of "once in jeopardy" stands on narrower, more technical, and less substantial ground. It alleges only that there might have been a conviction or an acquittal if the judge trying the cause had not made a mistake in law which prevented a verdict. Commonwealth v Fitzpatrick, 121 Pa 109, 15 A 466.

See prior jeopardy.

on commission. The status of a salesman compensated by commissions rather than by salary. The status of goods placed in the hands of an agent for sale by him, his compensation to be in the form of a commission based upon a fixed percentage of the price received on sale.

on condition. See condition. on demand. On an actual call or demand for payment. Crofoot v Thatcher, 19 Utah 212, 57 P 171.

See demand paper; payable on demand.

on demand after date. An expression in a promissory note indicating a demand instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 286.

See demand paper.

on duty. Actually engaged in work or services undertaken for another or charged with a present responsibility for the performance of such work or services should occasion for performance arise. United States v Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Co. (DC NM) 197 F 629, 631. Any person in the armed services not on leave or on furlough.

one bite rule. An old doctrine that every dog is entitled to one bite, such being enunciated as a basis for a rule that the owner of a vicious dog is not liable for an injury caused by the dog unless he knew or should have known of its dangerous propensities, which knowledge would not arise until after the dog had made at least one attack upon a person. 4 Am J2d Ani § 95.

one dollar. A recital of a nominal sum as consideration.

A sufficient statement of the consideration for a promise to answer for the debt of another, although the dollar is not in fact paid, if there is other good and valuable consideration for the promise. 49 Am J1st Stat of F § 373.

one dollar and other consideration. A common form of recital of consideration for a deed. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 65.

one dwelling. A phrase in a restrictive covenant subject to construction as against plurality of occupancy, or, according to some authority, as against plurality of houses. Koett v Tate, 248 Ky 135, 58 SW2d 374.

one-family house. A phrase exclusive of multiple dwellings. Virgin v Garret, 233 Ala 34, 169 So 711.

one free bite. Another term for the so-called one bite rule.

one half. See half.

one-man car. A streetcar without a conductor, the motorman at the front end performing the duties of a conductor as well as the duties of motorman. Sullivan v Shreveport, 251 US 169, 170, 64 L Ed 205, 208, 40 S Ct 102.

[888]

one-man corporation. A corporation, the stock of which is owned by one man or at least kept in close control by one man.

one man-one vote rule. A rule of legislative apportionment based on the principle of equality of representation lying at the foundation of representative government and requiring that no voter shall exercise, in the selection of the legislature, a greater voting power than other voters. Reynolds v Sims, 377 US 533, 12 L Ed 2d 506, 84 S Ct 1362.

oneness of husband and wife. The unity of husband and wife as it prevailed at common law, the entire legal existence of the wife being completely merged or incorporated in that of the husband, and as it prevails to a limited extent even in modern times under Married Woman's Enabling Acts. 26 Am J1st H & W § 3.

one-price policy. The doctrine opposed to discrimination between customers in reference to prices charged for goods or services. Shaw's Inc. v WilsonJones Co. (DC Pa) 26 F Supp 713.

onerando pro rata portione. See de onerando pro rata portione.

onerando pro rata portionis. A writ for the relief of a joint tenant or tenant in common who had been compelled to pay more than his pro rata share of the rent.

onerari non. Should not be burdened or charged,—a name given to a plea in an action of debt denying that the defendant ought to be charged.

oneratio. The load or cargo of a ship.

oneris ferendi. Of the burden of support,—an easement by which an adjoining neighbor was entitled to have his structure supported.

one residence. One dwelling.

Although the courts are in substantial agreement that a restriction in a covenant to "residence" purposes, standing alone, does not prohibit multiple dwellings, this unanimity disappears when the modifying term "one" is inserted before the word "residence." Anno: 14 ALR2d 1409.

one residence only. A phrase in a restrictive covenant, meaning that only one person or one person and his family shall reside on the land. Macy v Wormald (Ky) 329 SW2d 212; Gerstell v Knight, 345 Pa 83, 26 A2d 329.

onerous. Burdensome; not without consideration.

onerous cause. A good and legal consideration.

onerous contract. A contract supported by a valid consideration.

onerous deed. A deed which was executed by the grantor for a valuable consideration.

onerous gift. A gift which imposes some obligation upon the donee.

onerous title. A term used in Spanish-American land law signifying a title which was granted upon conditions which were onerous or burdensome to the grantee.

one third new for old. The familiar rule of marine insurance that in case of the partial loss of a vessel, there shall be deducted from the costs of repairs, chargeable to the insurer one third of the new materials replacing the old, on the theory that the new materials render the vessel that much more valuable than it was before the loss. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1567.

one-way street. A street, the travel on which is restricted by ordinance or other regulation to vehicles moving in one direction. 25 Am J1st High § 216.

one-way ticket. The ticket of a passenger calling for transportation to destination only, not to destination and return.

One who institutes suit against another must be prepared to show a prior or superior equity in himself. A maxim of equity. 27 Am J2d Eq § 145.

One who invites another to ride is not bound to furnish a sound vehicle or a safe horse. Cleary v Eckart, 191 Wis 114, 210 NW 267, 51 ALR 576.

one-year clause. The clause in a statute of frauds respecting an agreement not to be performed within a year. 49 Am J1st Stat of F § 23.

on his behalf. For him and as authorized by him. State ex rel. La Follette v Kohler, 200 Wis 518, 228 NW 895, 69 ALR 348.

on information and belief. See upon information and belief.

only. Solely. In a colloquial sense, except for that.

on offer. The state or condition of being for sale.

onomastic. Signed or subscribed in a handwriting other than that which appears in the body of the instrument.

on option. The status of property for the purchase of which an option has been granted. A term used by dealers in commercial paper, meaning that the purchaser has the right to return what he bought, or some of it, at any time within the option limit, to the broker, and get back from the broker the purchase price. Eames v H. B. Claflin Co. (CA2 NY) 239 F 631.

on or about. An allegation of time which lacks precision. A sufficient delegation of time in an indictment where precise time is not a material ingredient of the offense, although not where time is of the essence. 27 Am J1st Indict § 71.

An allegation that the arson charged occurred "on or about" a stated date is sufficient in respect of an allegation of the time of the offense. State v McDonald, 16 SD 78, 91 NW 447.

An allegation that the injury which caused death was inflicted "on or about" a specified time is sufficient as an allegation of time of the homicidal act in an indictment for homicide. 26 Am J1st Homi § 268.

Such phrase, as used in a contract of sale which calls for delivery "on or about" a specified date, admits only of a reasonable departure from the time specified. Arons v Cummings, 107 Me 19, 78 A 98.

on or about the person. A phrase familiar in statements of the offense of carrying a concealed weapon.

As used in a statute making it an offense to carry weapons concealed "on or about the person," the courts have interpreted the expression in two ways. Some courts have held that the words "on" and "about" are not synonymous, but have quite different meanings; the word "on" meaning attached to, and the word "about" meaning in close proximity to, or in easy reach of. However, other courts have held that the two words as used in the phrase are interchangeable, no added significance being given to the use of the word "about." Anno: 50 ALR 1534.

[889]

on or before. A designation of time for performance of an agreement, giving to the promisor the right to perform at any time before the day specified. 52 Am J1st Time § 26.

on or in or about. A familiar phrase in workmen's compensation statutes constituting an elastic term, involving as a whole the idea of physical proximity in reference to a particular area constituting a place of work. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 86.

on or upon the death. A phrase in the limitation of a remainder having reference ordinarily to the right of possession and enjoyment of the property and not preventing the immediate vesting of the remainder. 28 Am J2d Est § 257.

on peut bien recevoir loy d'autrui, mais il est impossible par nature de se donner loy. One may well receive laws from another, but it is impossible in the nature of things for one to make laws for himself. Kawanakoa v Polyblank, 205 US 349, 353, 51 L Ed 834, 836, 27 S Ct 526.

onroerende and vast staat. (Holland Dutch.) Land or real estate. Spraker v Van Alstyne (NY) 18 Wend 200, 208.

on sale. Being for sale. On hand and available for delivery when sold. Connecticut Paper Products v New York Paper Co. (DC Md) 39 F Supp 127.

on sight. Same as at sight.

onstand. The payment of rent by an outgoing tenant to an incoming tenant for use and occupation during the harvesting of the outgoing tenant's crop.

The term has also been applied to the right of a workman, who has been employed to install an apparatus on the premises of another, to return thereto for the purpose of testing the sufficiency of the installation. Indermaur v Dames (Eng) LR 1 CP 274.

on the account. See on account.

on the body. See in and on the body.

on the death. A phrase in the limitation of a remainder having reference ordinarily to the right of possession and enjoyment of the property and not preventing the immediate vesting of the remainder. 28 Am J2d Est § 257.

on the front. At the front.

As used in a statute requiring automobiles during certain hours to display at least two lighted lamps "on the front," the phrase does not necessarily mean the very foremost part of the vehicle, but means such a point in front of the driver as will make the light visible in the direction in which the car is proceeding. State v Reed, 162 Iowa 572, 144 NW 310.

on the merits. See judgment on the merits; merits of case.

on the relation of. See relator.

on-the-spot broadcast. A broadcast directly from the event to the listener, not one from a tape or record previously made.

on trial. Literally, in the course of a trial before court and jury or the court without a jury. In one sense, listed for trial, as where the case appears on the trial docket or calendar.

The term as used in a statute providing that, whenever any criminal case shall be "on trial" at the end of any term, such term shall be continued until such case is finished, has been held to have its literal meaning, and requires that the case must be actually on trial before the court and jury at the end of the term. Commonwealth v MacLellan, 121 Mass 31.

See sale on trial.

onus. An English word of Latin origin. Burden. Also, burden of proof. In the Will of Lawrence Convey, 52 Iowa 197, 198.

onus probandi. The burden of proof.

ope consilii. By or with the aid of counsel.

ope et consilio. By or with aid and counsel.

open. Adjective: Characterizing that which is not secret or concealed. 33 Am J1st Lewd etc. § 2. Not closed, as an open gate. Verb: To make a breach or way in that which was closed. To make the opening statement in the trial of a case.

open account. An account the balance on which has not been ascertained; one which has not been closed, settled, or stated, and in which the inclusion of further dealings between the parties is contemplated. Anno: 1 ALR 1060 s. 39 ALR 369, 57 ALR 201. A transaction some of the terms of which have not been agreed upon, such as the price to be paid, or the time for payment. Anno: 1 ALR 1060, s. 39 ALR 369, 57 ALR 201.

open and continuous account. See continuous account; running account.

open and current account. An account based upon running or concurrent dealings between the parties, which has not been closed, settled, or stated, and in which the inclusion of further dealings between the parties is contemplated. Plunkett-Jarrell Grocery Co. v Terry, 222 Ark 784, 263 SW2d 229, 44 ALR2d 917.

See current account; open account.

open and gross lewdness. See open lewdness.

open and mutual account. See mutual account; open account.

open and notorious. Acts upon the land of another which are not in secret but of such a character as to be well calculated to notify the owner of the use made by such acts. 56 Am J1st Wat § 326.

open and notorious adultery. An offense predicated, not upon private immoral indulgence, but upon the publicity attendant upon the breach of the moral standard in such extent as to debase and demoralize society and degrade the institution of marriage. 2 Am J2d Adult § 9.

open and notorious insolvency. See open insolvency.

open and notorious possession. Possession evidenced by such acts and conduct as are sufficient to put a man of ordinary prudence on notice of the fact that the land in question is held by the claimant as his own. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 47. Possession of such openness as that the owner's knowledge of it and of the extent of it may be presumed. Watrous v Morrison, 33 Fla 261, 278.

open and visible easement. An apparent and obvious easement, one susceptible of ascertainment on a reasonable inspection of the premises by a person ordinarily conversant with the subject, such as a pathway or road. 25 Am J2d Ease § 9.

[890]

open bulk. Goods in the mass; exposed to view; not tied or sealed up. Re Sanders (CC NC) 52 F 802.

open competitive examination. An examination to determine the merits of applicants for a civil service position, open to applicants without reference to whether or not they are already in the service.

open concubinage. A concubinage that is plain and aboveboard, without secret, reserve, or disguise; not merely one that is notorious. Gauff v Johnson, 161 La 975, 977, 109 So 782.

open contract. A contract for the sale of land which contains no conditions relieving the vendor from producing evidence of title.

open corporation. A corporation the stock of which is widely held, the ownership of the shares not being confined to one man, a family, or persons in close association. A corporation in which all of the citizens or corporators have a vote in the election of the officers of the corporation. See McKim v Odom (Md) 3 Bland Ch 407, 416, footnote.

open court. A court in session. A public session of the court, as distinguished from a judge of the court in his chambers. Conover v Bird, 56 NJL 228, 230, 28 A 428. The constitutional guaranty that the courts shall always be open to all alike. 16 Am J2d Const L § 382.

See public trial.

open current account. See open and current account.

open danger. See obvious danger.

open doors. Hospitality. A name given to process which authorizes the officer to break doors if necessary to effect the service of the process.

See opening door.

open-end investment trust. An investment trust the capital structure of which is open to change during the life of the trust by the issuance of new shares and the retirement of existing shares.

open-end settlement. A settlement of a claim for workmen's compensation calling for payments to the injured employee but not fixing the period during which such payments are to continue, properly to be construed as fixing liability during the period that disability continues. Healey's Case, 124 Me 54, 126 A 21.

open fee. A common-law fee which, by reason of the lack of an heir, reverted, on the death of the person last seised, to the lord. See 2 Bl Comm 245.

open hearing. A hearing or investigation by an administrative agency which is open to the public. 2 Am J2d Admin L §§ 229, 258. An essential of a fair hearing before an administrative agency exercising judicial, quasi-judicial, or adjudicatory powers. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 412.

See public trial.

opening. A beginning. The participle of open.

opening a credit. Making an arrangement with a bank for a loan or with a store for a charge account. Coupled with prompt payment of the loan or regular payments upon the charge account, a good method of establishing a credit. To accept or pay the draft of a correspondent who has not furnished the drawee with funds to meet the draft.

opening a foreclosure. The effect of bringing action upon the mortgage debt after foreclosure in giving the mortgage a new right to redeem. Anno: 18 English Ruling Cases 173.

See opening judgment.

opening and closing. The right of the party holding the affirmative of the issue joined in the pleadings and who would be defeated if no evidence were given on either side, unless the trial court in its discretion, for some special reason, otherwise directs. 53 Am J1st Trial § 69.

opening bids. The act of opening the bids received following advertisement for bids in the letting of a contract, and upon the termination of the period for receiving bids as specified in the advertisement, for the purpose of determining the most favorable bid.

The phrase frequently occurs in the English books, and means that if after the biddings at a chancery sale are closed, anyone else comes in and offers a much higher price, the biddings may be opened and the additional offer accepted. It means no more than a suspension of the sale and a continuance of the property in the market. See Andrews v Scotton (Md) 2 Bland Ch 629, 644.

opening case. Making the opening statement. A further trial after decision for the introduction of new evidence or additional argument.

See opening and closing; opening judgment.

opening commission. An entering by the commissioners or commissioner upon the duties to be performed by them or him under a commission.

opening court. The formalities observed in the opening of a session of court.

opening default. Setting aside a default upon cause shown therefor by the defendant to permit him to appear and plead within a period of time fixed by the court.

opening door. A metaphorical expression for the situation in which a party becomes entitled to introduce evidence otherwise inadmissible by reason of the tender or introduction of similar or related evidence by his opponent. 53 Am J1st Tr § 97.

opening highway. The act whereby a highway is legally established. 25 Am J1st High § 19. To put in condition for use, or to place at the service or use of the public, a way which theretofore had a merely legal or paper existence, not having been used. 25 Am J1st High § 51. Removing obstructions. State v Hudson County Avenue Comrs. 37 NJL 12, 14. Clearing the way of snow. Sometimes inclusive of filling and grading. 25 Am J1st High § 67.

opening judgment. Bringing a judgment into view for the purpose of considering whether it should be corrected, modified, or vacated. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm §§ 629, 630. The suspension of a judgment and of proceedings thereon. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 728.

See vacation of judgment.

opening polls. The formal commencement of an election, at a time fixed by statute, when the polling place is opened for the reception of voters and the casting of ballots. 26 Am J2d Elect § 227.

opening record. See searching record.

opening rule. The changing back of a rule absolute to a rule nisi.

open insolvency. The insolvency of a person beyond his power to keep secret.

The term "open and notorious insolvency," as applied to the maker of a note, in connection with the rule that all the property of the maker, subject to the payment of debts, must be exhausted, before recourse can be had to the assignor, implies something more than when the term is used in common parlance. It implies, not the want of sufficient property to pay all of one's debts, but the absence of all property, within the reach of the law applicable to the payment of any debt. Hardesty v Kinworthy (Ind) 8 Blackf 304, 305.

[891]

open law. Trial by battle or trial by ordeal or by wager of law.

opening statement. A statement to the jury, or to the court in a trial without a jury, outlining the facts intended to be proved. State v Sibert, 113 W Va 717, 169 SE 410. A prefatory statement made in advance of the introduction of evidence, setting forth the nature of the controversy and its salient peculiarities, intended to indicate to court and jury the issues of fact involved. 53 Am J1st Trial § 454.

open lands. Unappropriated public lands open to entry as homesteads. 42 Am J1st Pub L § 19.

open letter. A letter addressed to a particular person but published so that its contents shall become known to the public.

open lewdness. At common law, acts of lewdness committed in public. Under statute, any lewdness not in secret, whether it be in the presence of one or several persons. 33 Am J1st Lewd etc. § 2.

The phrase "open and gross lewdness" is not equivalent to the phrase "gross lewdness in an open place." The word "open" has no reference to place at all, nor to number of people. It is used simply to define a quality of the act of lewdness. It is open lewdness as opposed to secret lewdness. It defines the same act, regardless whether it is committed in the presence of one or of many. The offense may be committed by the intentional act of exposing one's person indecently in the presence of one person, to whom it is offensive, as well as in the presence of many persons. It could not change the quality of the act that it was committed in the presence of a child of tender years,—too innocent to be offended by it. State v Juneau, 88 Wis 180, 59 NW 580.

See gross lewdness.

open mine. A mine dug or excavated so that the ore shows in the face of the mine. A mine in operation.

A mine lawfully leased to be opened is an "open mine" within the meaning of the rule that a tenant may, without being guilty of waste, continue to work mines or quarries that were open when the tenancy commenced, except as the contrary may appear by the terms or provisions of the lease or other instrument creating the estate. 56 Am J1st Waste § 25.

open mortgage clause. Same as simple loss-payable clause.

open policy. A policy of insurance covering property in which the value of the property insured is not fixed, but is left to be determined definitely in case of loss. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1586. A term sometimes applied to a running policy. 29 Am J Rev ed open possession. Clearly defined and notorious possession, 25 Am J2d Eject § 43.

See open and notorious possession.

open primary. A primary election at which members of one political party are permitted to vote at the primary for candidates of a different political party, in other words, a primary in which a voter may "cross over" to a party other than his own and participate in the primary of that party. 25 Am J2d Elect § 148.

open running account. An account based upon a connected series of transactions, without break or interruption. Riffith v Portlock, 233 Iowa 492, 7 NW2d 199.

See open account; running account.

open season. The period prescribed by law or regulation during which fish or game, or certain species of fish or game, may be hunted and taken.

open shop. A place of employment in which union and nonunion men are employed without discrimination. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 95. A plan or policy of employers of labor the basic requirement of which is that there should be no discrimination for or against an employee on account of his affiliation or nonaffiliation with a labor union, except that at least one nonunion man in each craft should be employed on each particular job as an evidence of good faith. Industrial Assn. of San Francisco v United States, 268 US 64, 75, 69 L Ed 849, 852, 45 S Ct 403.

See permit system.

open theft. A larceny wherein the thief is caught red-handed.

open trial. See public trial.

open trust. An active trust, which may in some instances be a precatory trust. Anno: 49 ALR 64.

open venire. An order for the summoning of additional jurors in which the persons to be summoned are not indicated, their selection being left to the sheriff or other officer entrusted with the venire. 31 Am J Rev ed Jury § 91.

open, visible, and substantial change of possession. A change in the character of possession indicated by such outward, open, actual, and visible signs as can be seen by and known to the public or persons dealing with the property. Second Nat. Bank v Gilbert, 174 Ill 485, 51 NE 584.

open will. A term of the civil law for nuncupative will. Castro v Castro, 6 Cal 158, 160.

opera. A musical drama, consisting of airs, choruses, recitations, etc., usually enriched with magnificent scenery and costumes, representing the play of emotions, often acts prompted by passion. Bell v Mahn, 121 Pa 225, 15 A 523.

opera house. A theater, especially a theater wherein operas are performed. Egan v San Francisco, 165 Cal 576, 133 P 294; St. Louis Amusement Co. v St. Louis County, 347 Mo 456, 147 SW2d 667; Bell use of Commonwealth v Mahn, 121 Pa 225, 15 A 523.

operarii. Plural of operarius.

operarius. A feudal tenant who held his land by manual labor for the lord of the manor.

operate. To perform surgery. To control the movement of a machine or instrumentality. To direct or superintend. Bosse v Marye, 80 Cal App 109, 118. To function.

As applied to a streetcar, the word is held not to be limited to a state of motion produced by the mechanism of the car, but includes at least ordinary stops upon the highway, and such stops are to be regarded as fairly incidental to its operation. Anno: 11 ALR 1228.

[892]

operating against the enemy. Operating in the field of hostilities, in the area where the enemy is to be found.

Troops in instruction camps across the ocean from the field of war are not "operating against the enemy" within the meaning of a statute giving officers serving with troops "operating against the enemy," when assigned to command above their rank, the pay appropriate to the command exercised. United States v Ferris, 265 US 165, 68 L Ed 161, 44 S Ct 487.

operating aircraft. Using an aircraft, including the navigation of aircraft, or causing or authorizing the operation of an aircraft, whether with or without the right of legal control. 49 USC § 1301(25).

As to what constitutes "operating aircraft" within the meaning of an exception of risk in a life insurance policy, see Anno: 47 ALR2d 1021.

operating automobile. See operating motor vehicle.

operating car. See operating motor vehicle.

operating charges. Costs of production, a matter of knowledge which can be acquired by observation on the part of persons dealing with the producing company. Lytle, Campbell & Co. v Somers, Fitler & Todd Co. 276 Pa 409, 120 A 409, 27 ALR 41.

operating expenses of carrier. All items of cost or expense incident to the actual handling and movement of traffic.

operating expenses of public utility. The cost of operation of the plant, general expenses, and cost of maintaining the property in such condition that its operating efficiency at the end is at least as great as it was at the beginning of the year. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 141.

operating loss. See net operating loss.

operating motor vehicle. In common parlance, driving an automobile or other motor vehicle. Regulating and controlling the actual movements of the car, that is, having charge of it as a driver. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 42. Exercising control over the vehicle, although not at the time in the driver's seat. Anno: 51 ALR2d 928, § 5[a]; 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 42. Any manipulation of the mechanical or electrical equipment of a motor vehicle, which would, alone or in sequence, set in motion the motive power. 7 Am J2d Auto § 256. Not limited to a state of motion produced by the mechanism of the vehicle, but including at least ordinary stops upon the highway, such stops being fairly incidental to operation. Commonwealth v Henry, 229 Mass 19, 118 NE 224.

A truck parked across a road for the purpose of unloading is in operation within the meaning of a statute in respect of lights. Hardware Mut. Casualty Co. v Union Transfer & Storage Co. 205 Ky 651, 266 SW 362.

A statutory provision that the "use and operation" by a nonresident of a motor vehicle within the state shall be deemed an appointment by him of the secretary of state as his attorney to receive service of process in any action growing out of such use is not confined in its operation to nonresidents personally operating motor vehicles within the state, but applies also to nonresidents, including foreign corporations and the individual members of nonresident partnerships, operating motor vehicles in the state through agents or employees who are also nonresidents. Jones v Pebler, 371 Ill 309, 20 NE2d 592, 125 ALR 451.

As to what constitutes "operation" within statute making owner of motor vehicle liable for negligence in its operation. See Anno: 13 ALR2d 378.

operating motor vehicle while intoxicated. Driving while intoxicated. Controlling the operation of the vehicle in any respect, such as starting the motor, while intoxicated. 7 Am J2d Auto § 256.

Some of the cases arising under statute prohibiting the operation of a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition hold that in order to constitute an operation, it is necessary for the vehicle to be in motion. Anno: 47 ALR2d 577, § 4[d].

operating receivership. A receivership in which the receiver operates a business, railroad, public utility, or manufacturing plant. 45 Am J1st Rec § 3.

operatio. A single day's labor performed by an operarius for the lord of the manor.

operatio murorum. See murorum operatio.

operation of law. Through law, not by contract or otherwise by the act of a person.

operation of railroad. The movement of trains, including all acts necessary to permit movement, such as the loading and unloading of cars, the organizing of trains, and the handling of the locomotives and cars which make up a train. Arizona Eastern R.R. Co. v J. A. Matthews, 20 Ariz 282, 180 P 159, 7 ALR 1149; United States F. Ins. Co. v Northern P. R. Co. 30 Wash 2d 722, 193 P2d 868, 2 ALR2d 1065.

operative. Adjective: In working condition; in operation. Noun: One who operates machinery, as in a factory. Ward v Krinsky, 259 US 503, 527, 66 L Ed 1033, 1043, 42 S Ct 529.

operative property. Any property which may be reasonably necessary for use, in the operation and conduct of the particular kind or kinds of business in which such property is employed. Southern California Tel. Co. v Hopkins (CA9 Cal) 13 F2d 814.

operative trust. An active trust. A trust which maintains the legal estate in the trustee, to enable him to perform the duties devolved on him by the donor, and gives the cestui que trust only a right in equity to enforce the performance of the trust. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 13.

operative words. The words in an instrument which give it the character of a particular instrument, such as a deed, mortgage, release, etc. Agnew v Dorr (Pa) 5 Whart 131.

operator for hire. Any person who owns, controls, operates or manages any motor vehicle for hire for the transportation of persons or property on any public highway, or any person who engages in the business of leasing motor vehicles for a compensation for the transportation of persons or property upon the public highways. Louisville Taxicab & Transfer Co. v Blanton, 305 Ky 179, 202 SW2d 433, 175 ALR 1329 (statutory definition.)

operator of automobile. See operating motor vehicle.

operator's license. A license, issued by the Atomic Energy Commission to qualified individuals, for the manipulation of controls of production or facilities for the utilization of atomic energy. 42 USC § 2137. A license to operate a motor vehicle, required as a condition of the right to drive such a vehicle upon the public highway. 7 Am J2d Auto § 93.

operis novi nuntiatio. (Civil law.) Same as novi operis nunciatio.

[893]

ophthalmologist. A physician practicing the branch of medicine known as ophthalmology. Anno: 22 ALR 1177; 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 28.

See ophthalmology.

ophthalmology. The branch of medical science concerned with the eye. Harabedian v Superior Court of Los Angeles County, 195 Cal App 2d 26, 15 Cal Rptr 420, 89 ALR2d 994. The practice of medicine and surgery in the treatment of diseases of the eye, and in the measurement of the powers of vision, and the adaptation of lenses for the aid thereof. Anno: 22 ALR2d 941.

ophthalmoscope. An instrument used for the exploration of the interior of the eye. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Co. v Palmore, 68 Kan 545, 75 P 509.

opiate. A narcotic drug containing opium or a derivative of opium. Any substance which tends to sooth. A drug administered to alleviate pain and quiet the sensibilities of the patient. Muller v St. Louis Hospital Asso. 5 Mo App 390, 393.

Opinio est duplex, scilicet, opinio vulgaris orta inter graves et discretios, et quae vultum veritatis, habet; et opinio tantum orta inter leves et vulgares homines absque specie veritatis. Opinion is twofold, that is to say, common opinion springing from among serious and discreet persons, and which has the appearance of truth; and opinion arising among light-minded and ordinary men without the semblance of truth.

opinion. An inference or conclusion of fact which a person has drawn from facts which he has observed. Lipscomb v State, 75 Miss 559, 23 So 210. A belief rather than a representation of fact. 23 Am J2d Fraud § 45. As disqualification of juror, a prejudgment of the case. 31 Am J Rev ed Jury § 172.

opinion evidence. The testimony of a witness, given or offered in the trial of an action, that the witness is of the opinion that some fact pertinent to the case exists or does not exist, offered as proof of the existence or nonexistence of that fact. 31 Am J2d Ev § 764.

See expert testimony; expert witness.

opinion of administrative agency. A statement in writing by an administrative agency of the reasons which support its decision. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 511.

opinion of appellate court. See opinion of court.

opinion of court. A statement given by the court for its decision, usually presented in writing and published in a court report. 20 Am J2d Cts § 7. A statement in writing by an appellate court of the reasons for its decision or judgment. 5 Am J2d A & E § 901.

An opinion accompanying a decision is an opinion of the court only when it has been approved by the court making the decision, that is, where the court consists of more than one judge, by at least the majority required for a valid decision. 20 Am J2d Cts § 71.

The opinion of the court represents merely the reasons for its judgment, while the decision of the court is the adjudication. 20 Am J2d Cts § 70.

It is the "decision" rather than the "opinion" which is the subject of appellate review. Robertson v Vandergrift, 119 W Va 219, 193 SE 62.

opinion of the attorney general. An opinion prepared by the attorney general by way of advising the executive and administrative heads of the state government upon questions of law touching their official duties. 7 Am J2d Atty Gen § 8. The opinion of the Attorney General of the United States upon a question of law, required by the President or the head of any of the executive departments of the Federal Government. 5 USC §§ 303, 304.

Opinio quae favet testamento est tenenda. An opinion which favors a will is to be upheld.

opium. A narcotic. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 2. A drug used as an ingredient of certain medicines, also used to an extent, especially in the far east, as an intoxicant. State v Lee. 137 Mo 143. 147.

Opium Act. See Harrison Narcotic Act.

opium joint. A place to which opium addicts resort for the purpose of obtaining the drug and partaking thereof.

oportet. It is necessary, fitting, or proper; it must be; it ought to be.

Oportet quod certae personae, terrae et certi status comprehendantur in declaratione usuum. It is necessary that certain persons, lands, and certain estates should be included in a declaration of uses.

Oportet quod certa res deducatur in donationem. It is necessary that a thing certain be brought into the gift.

Oportet quod certa res deducatur in iudicium. It is necessary that a thing certain be brought to judgment.

Oportet quod certa sit res quae venditur. It is necessary that anything which is sold should be a thing certain.

oppidum. A town; a fortified town.

Oppignerare. (Civil law.) To pledge; to pawn; to give in pledge.

opponent. An adversary. A party on the other side of the litigation; an opposing party or his counsel.

opportunity to be heard. See day in court.

opportunity to redeem. See right of redemption.

opposing officer. See obstructing officer.

opposing papers. Affidavits offered in resistance to a motion. 37 Am J1st Motions § 15.

Opposita juxta se posita magis elucescunt. Things which are opposed are illumined more clearly when placed next to one another.

opposite party. An adversary in litigation.

Under the statutory rule that when a suit is prosecuted by the heirs, assigns, devisees, legatees or personal representatives of a decedent, the opposite party, if he testifies on his own behalf, cannot testify to matters which, if true, must have been equally within the knowledge of the decedent, the term

[894]

"opposite party" means the party in interest, the real party, and does not mean a defendant who is a mere nominal party such as an executor, who has no personal interest in the controversy. Penny v Croul, 87 Mich 15, 49 NW 311.

oppression. Bearing down on another or others in an oppressive manner. The exercise of unlawful power or other means, in depriving an individual of his liberty or property against his will. United States v Deaver (DC NC) 14 F 595, 597.

See oppressive.

oppressive. Cruel, severe, unduly dominating and exacting, exercising authority excessively. United States v Deaver (DCNC) 14 F 595, 597.

oppressive child labor. A condition of employment of children under a specified age in certain occupations, as proscribed by statute. 29 USC § 203(1).

oppressive legislation. Burdensome legislation against which, apart from constitutional provisions, the only protection is by an appeal to the people or their legislative representatives. 16 Am J2d Const L § 160.

oppressive litigation. Litigation for the purpose of harassing, annoying, and vexing an opponent, rather than for the adjudication of rights, being invoked, not for the attainment of justice, but to further or satisfy a malicious motive. Bridgeport Hydraulic Co. v Pearson, 139 Conn 186, 91 A2d 778.

oppressive use of process. Harassment by process with the malicious intent of injury or harassment. 1 Am J2d Abuse P § 9.

opprobrium. Infamy; reproach.

ops. Abbreviation of opinions.

optical illusion. Belief in a thing as seen when actually it is not there to be seen.

optician. A person who makes or sells optical instruments, especially eyeglasses. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 28. One who fills prescriptions of the oculist or optometrist, much in the same manner as the druggist carries out the direction and prescription of the physician. Anno: 22 ALR2d 941.

optic nerve. The nerve running between the brain and the eye. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 287.

optics. The science which treats of the nature and properties of light and vision. Abelson Inc. v New York State Board of Optometrists, 5 NJ 412, 75 A2d 867, 22 ALR2d 929.

Optima enim est legis interpretatio consuetudo. For custom is the best interpreter of the law. See Broom's Legal Maxims 931.

Optima est lex quae minimum relinquit arbitrio iudicis. That law is best which leaves the least to the decision of the judge. See Broom's Legal Maxims 84.

Optima est lex quae minimum relinquit arbitrio iudicis; optimus iudex qui minimum sibi. That law is best which leaves the least to the decision of the judge; that judge is best who takes the least upon himself. See Broom's Legal Maxims 84.

Optimam esse legem, quae minimum relinquit arbitrio iudicis; in quod certitudo ejus praestat. That law is best which leaves the least to the decision of the judge; this is because the certainty of it is manifest.

Optima statuti interpretatio est ipsum statutum. The best interpreter of a statute is the statute itself.

Optima statuti interpretatio omnibus particulis ejusdem inspectis ipsum statutum. The best interpreter of a statute, looking into all of its particulars or parts, is the statute itself.

Optimus interpretatio rerum usus. Usage is the best interpreter of things. Destrehan v Louisiana Cypress Lumber Co. 45 La Ann 920.

Optimus interpretandi modus est sic leges interpretare ut leges legibus accordant. The best manner of interpreting the laws is so to interpret the laws that the laws will accord with one another.

Optimus iudex, qui minimum sibi. The best judge is the one who takes the least upon himself. See Broom's Legal Maxims 84.

Optimus legum interpretatio consuetudo. The best interpreter of the laws is custom or usage.

option. An agreement by which one binds himself to perform a certain act, usually to transfer property, for a stipulated price within a designated time, leaving it to the discretion of the person to whom the option is given to accept upon the terms specified. 17 Am J2d Contr § 32. A continuing offer to sell at a price stipulated. Hirlinger v Hirlinger (Mo App) 267 SW2d 46, 44 ALR2d 1207. A stipulation not to revoke for a specified or reasonable time the offer therein made. Warner Bros. Pictures v Brodel, 31 Cal 2d 766, 192 P2d 949, 3 ALR2d 691. A future contract in which one of the parties has the right to insist on compliance with the terms of the contract, or to cancel the contract, at his election. A unilateral contract where given upon a contemporaneous consideration other than a promise. 17 Am J2d Contr § 5. A simple method of speculating in the rise or fall of the market price of commodities or stocks, no actual transaction by sale or purchase being contemplated. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 70. In the entertainment and professional athletic fields, an offer to perform as an actor, musician, etc., or as a baseball player, football player, etc. at a stipulated compensation within a designated time, leaving it to the person to whom the option is given to accept upon the terms specified. 17 Am J2d Contr § 32. The privilege which an archbishop had of nominating his bishop's clerk. See 1 Bl Comm 381.

See stock option; stock-option plan.

optional. Left to choice; discretionary.

optional agreement. An option, the essential feature of which always is that the person to whom it is granted is in position to choose whether or not he shall purchase on its terms. Johnson v Clark, 174 Cal 582, 163 P 1004.

See option.

[895]

optional bond. A bond which may be called for payment before maturity. 43 Am J1st Pub Sec § 8.

optional standard deduction. See standard deduction.

optional statutes. Workmen's compensation statutes open to acceptance or rejection by employee or employer. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp §§ 39 et seq.

optional writ. A common-law writ, designated as a praecipe, wherein the defendant was commanded to do a certain thing or, in the alternative, to show cause why he had not done it and should not be compelled to do it. See 3 Bl Comm 274.

optionee. The holder of an option. Phoenix Iron & Steel Co. v Wilkoff Co. (CA6 Ohio) 253 F 165, 1 ALR 1497, 1502.

option election. See local option election.

option of equivalent value. See seller's option.

option of forfeiture. A right or privilege of the lessor, under the provisions of the lease, upon breach of covenant by the lessee. 32 Am J1st L & T § 849.

option to purchase. A contract by which the owner of property agrees with another person that the latter shall have a right to buy the property at a fixed price within a certain time. 17 Am J2d Contr § 32; 46 Am J1st Sales § 56. The familiar provision in a lease, conferring upon the lessee the option to purchase the demised premises, it being supported, so far as consideration is concerned, by the payment of the reserved rent, so that it cannot be withdrawn by the lessor during the period specified for its continuance, and may be enforced specifically. 32 Am J1st L & T § 299.

option to purchase real property. A contract by which an owner of real estate agrees with another person that the latter shall have the privilege of buying the property at a specified price within a specified time, or within a reasonable time in the future, and imposes no obligation to purchase upon the person to whom it is given. 55 Am J1st V & P§27.

option to rebuild, repair, or replace. The option of an insurer of property, provided by the policy issued by it, to replace, repair, or rebuild the property in the event of its destruction in whole or in part, in lieu of the satisfaction of insured's claim by a payment in money. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1699.

option to renew. A right granted a lessee by the terms of the lease.

option to terminate. A provision in a lease giving the right or privilege to both parties, or one of them, to terminate the lease either at will or on the happening of some contingency, such as the destruction of or injury to the premises, or the decision of the landlord to sell, alter, or improve the property. Anno: 27 ALR 845, 35 ALR 519, s.116 ALR 931.

optometrist. One who practices optometry. One who exercises a degree of mechanical skill and experience in fitting glasses to the eye. Anno: 141 ALR 884.

optometry. The employment of any means other than drugs for the measurement of the power of vision and the adaptation of lenses for the aid thereof. McNaughton v Johnson, 242 US 344, 61 L Ed 352, 37 S Ct 178; Sage-Allen Co. v Wheeler, 119 Conn 667, 179 A 195, 98 ALR 897. Including, subject to same limitation as to means, diagnosis of any optical defect, deficiency, or deformity of the human eye, or visual or muscular anomaly of the visual system, but not including treatment of diseases of the eye. Anno: 141 ALR 890. More narrowly, the measurement of the range of vision. Anno: 141 ALR 883. Not the practice of medicine, being an applied arm of optical science resting upon the work and discoveries of physicists and opticians through the ages down to modern times. Silver v Lansburgh & Bro. 72 App DC 77, 111 F2d 518, 128 ALR 582; Abelson, Inc. v New York State Board of Optometrists, 5 NJ 412, 75 A2d 867, 22 ALR2d 929.

optulit. Same as obtulit.

opus. Work; labor; benefit; advantage. A written work or composition.

opus locatum. Work let out to another.

opus magnificentium. Same as opus manificium.

opus manificium. Work performed with the hands; manual labor.

opus novum. Same as new work.

o, r. An abbreviation of owner's risk.

or. A conjunction normally in the disjunctive. A conjunction properly used with "either" in stating a proposition in the alternative. State ex rel. Crow v St. Louis, 174 Mo 125, 73 SW 623. Usually a word of substitution in a will. Re Boyle's Estate, 121 Colo 599, 221 P2d 357, 36 ALR2d 1106. In a deed, implying a disjunctive or alternative. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 218. The disjunctive form but to be interpreted in a copulative sense when necessary to the spirit and intent of the instrument in which it appears. 17 Am J2d Contr § 283. Subject to construction as "and" where the obvious intention appearing from the entire context of the instrument so requires. Davis v Vermillion, 173 Kan 508, 249 P2d 625. Subject to construction as "and" in a statute or municipal ordinance where such is in keeping with the intent of the statute or ordinance as such appears from the entire context. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 187; 50 Am J1st Stat § 282.

See and/or.

oraculum. A Roman emperor's decision.

oral. By word of mouth; verbal; spoken, as opposed to written.

See expressions beginning "oral" which follow; also expressions beginning "parol." oral chattel mortgage. A transaction which, while oral, contains all the essential elements of a written mortgage. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 39.

oral contract. Same as parol contract.

oral defamation. Defamation by spoken words; slander.

oral demurrer. Same as demurrer ore tenus.

oral license. A license in real property conferred without a writing. 25 Am J2d Ease § 123.

oral trust. A trust in personal property, created and proved by parol. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 44.

oral will. A nuncupative will. The informal will of a soldier or sailor. 57 Am J1st Wills § 220.

See nuncupative will.

orator. A person who prays; a petitioner; a party who files or presents a petition to a court of justice; the complainant in an equity suit. A person skilled in the art of public speech.

[896]

oratrix. Feminine of orator.

or bearer. Words of negotiability. 1 I Am J2d B & N § 105.

orchard. A tract of land, sometimes large, sometimes small devoted to the growing of trees which produce fruit or nuts good for food.

To constitute an orchard within the meaning of provisions in an eminent domain statute exempting orchards from condemnation, the number of fruit trees, within certain limits appears immaterial, but a few scattered or neglected and decayed trees are not considered an orchard. 26 Am J2d Em D § 109.

orchestra. A group of musicians who play together. The main floor of a theater.

orchestration. The arrangement of music for an orchestra. Anno: 19 ALR 970.

orcinus libertus. (Roman law.) A slave who was freed by a provision in the will of his deceased owner.

ordain. To constitute, to establish, to pass an ordinance. Kepner v Commonwealth, 40 Pa 124, 129.

See ordination.

ordeal. The most ancient species of trial for criminal offenses, founded upon the belief of the ancients that if a man were innocent, God would save him from death or injury when he was subjected to an ordeal. See 4 Bl Comm 342. See also Hurtado v California, 110 US 516, 529, 28 L Ed 232, 236, 4 S Ct 111.

See cold-water ordeal; fire ordeal; hot-water ordeal; iron ordeal; trial by water.

ordenamiento. (Spanish.) An order issued by the crown; a royal order.

order. A command or direction. A list of goods or merchandise to be supplied by a dealer. A direction in writing by one person to another person for the payment of money to a third person. 11 Am J2d B & N § 139. The determination of an administrative body or agency. 2 Am J2d Admin L §§ 473 et seq.

See order of court.

order bill of lading. Same as negotiable bill of lading.

order for distribution. An order by the court having jurisdiction over the administration of a decedent's estate directing the administrator or executor to distribute the assets of the estate, such order normally being made after all claims of creditors of the estate have been determined for allowance or rejection, so that the amount of money or assets in kind available for distribution to those entitled to share in the estate is known.

order for publication. An order of court authorizing the service of process in a particular case by publication. 42 Am J1st Process § 94.

order nisi. An order of court which is to become absolute and effective unless cause is shown why it should not become so, or unless some condition specified by the court shall not have been complied with or performed.

order nunc pro tunc. See nunc pro tunc order.

order of calls. The order of precedence which has been established as between different calls for the location of boundaries of land. 12 Am J2d Bound § 65.

order of continuance. An order of court continuing a case. 17 Am J2d Contin § I order of court. Broadly defined, the judgment or conclusion of a court on any motion or proceeding by which affirmative relief is granted or denied. 37 Am J1st Motions § 23. Precisely, a direction of a court or judge made in writing and not included in a judgment. State v Lindeman, 64 ND 518, 254 NW 276, 93 ALR 1442.

order of dismissal. An order of court required on an involuntary dismissal. 24 Am J2d Dism § 71. An order sometimes required for a voluntary dismissal. 24 Am J2d Dism § 50.

order of filiation. An order of a competent court determining the paternity of a bastard child.

order of interpleader. An order in favor of the complainant in interpleader, directing that complainant pay the fund or property into court and be dismissed with his costs, and further that the defendants interplead and settle the controversy between themselves. 30 Am J Rev ed Interpl § 26.

order of reference. An order of court appointing a referee to hear or to hear and determine a matter pending before the court. Gerity v Seeger & Guernsey Co. 163 NY 119, 120.

order of repleader. See repleader.

Order of St. George. See garter; knights of the garter.

Order of the Bath. See knights of the bath.

Order of the Garter. See garter; knights of the garter.

Order of the Coif. An honorary fraternity of lawyers, membership being attained on the basis of exceptional work and standing as a student in a college of law.

order paper. A direction by one person to another person for the payment of money to a third person. 11 Am J2d B & N § 139.

order sua sponte. See sua sponte.

order taking. The taking of an order for goods to be furnished, as distinguished from a sale of the goods. A matter considered in determining whether a corporation is within the purview of statutes relative to foreign corporations transacting business in the state. 23 Am J1st For Corp § 381.

order to show cause. An order or rule of court made ex parte, citing an adverse party to appear before the court and show cause, if he can, why a certain thing shall not be done. 37 Am J1st Motions § 38. An alternative to notice of motion in bringing a motion on for hearing. A form of process. Hayward v Long, 178 SC 351, 183 SE 145, 114 ALR 1130.

ordinance. The act of the legislative body of a municipal corporation. A local law of a municipal corporation, of a general and permanent nature. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 142. A bylaw of a municipal corporation. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 142. A rule established for and in a municipal corporation by authority. State ex rel. Maxey v Swindell, 146 Ind 527, 45 NE 700. In a broader sense, a rule established by authority. State v Swindell, 146 Ind 527, 45 NE 700; Kepner v Commonwealth, 40 Pa 124, 130.

See Northwest Ordinance of 1787.

ordinandi lex. Adjective law,—the law regulating procedure in the courts.

Ordinarius ita dicitur quia habet ordinariam jurisdictionem, in jure proprio, et non propter deputa- tionem. An ordinary is so called because he has ordinary jurisdiction in his own right, and not by deputation or delegation.

[897]

ordinary. Adjective: Usual; normal; common. Hine v Wooding, 37 Conn 123, 126. Noun: An older term for a public house where food and lodging are furnished to the traveler at fixed rates, open to whoever may apply for accommodation, and having a bar. Talbott v Southern Seminary, 131 Va 576, 109 SE 440, 19 ALR 534. An officer with limited judicial powers, particularly a master or commissioner in equity.

A civil-law term applicable to any judge who had authority to take cognizance of causes in his own right, and not by deputation. In England, the ordinary was a judge of the ecclesiastical court. The goods of intestates were given to the ordinary by the crown. The title "ordinary" is also given to certain district judges in South Carolina. Hays v Harley, 8 SCL (I Mills Const) 267, 268.

ordinary action. A civil action carried on by ordinary proceedings. 1 Am J2d Actions § 3.

ordinary and concise language. A phrase embodied in many modern codes to specify the manner in which pleadings shall be prepared and meaning simply that the pleading must be reasonably definite and certain, and not prolix. Harlan v Bernie, 22 Ark 217.

ordinary and necessary expense. A deduction in computation of taxable income where incurred as a common and accepted practice in the taxpayer's field of business, where it is appropriate and helpful in maintaining the taxpayer's business, and where it is not in violation of statute or public policy. Welch v Helvering, 290 US 111, 78 L Ed 212, 54 S Ct 8; Lilly v Commissioner, 343 US 90, 96 L Ed 769, 72 S Ct 497, 27 ALR2d 492; National Brass Works, Inc. v Commissioner (CA9) 182 F2d 526, 20 ALR2d 590.

See necessary expense.

ordinary bailment. A bailment for the sole benefit of the bailor, for the sole benefit of the bailee, or for the mutual benefit of both parties. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 6.

ordinary bailee. See ordinary bailment.

ordinary calling. A pursuit in business, trade, or employment which occupies at least a part of one's time with a degree of regularity. Elks v State, 5 Ga App 615, 617.

ordinary care. A standard for the determination of negligence; the degree of diligence which one must observe in the performance of his common-law duty to use care to prevent injury to others. A relative standard; due care according to the circumstances of the case. 38 Am J1st Negl § 29. That degree of care that a man of ordinary prudence would exercise under the same or similar circumstances with reference to his own property. Smith v Maher, 84 Okla 49, 202 P 321, 23 ALR 270. In reference to pedestrians: such care as persons of ordinary prudence and care, in driving and managing automobiles in the streets of a city, are accustomed to exercise and observe for the protection of persons traveling in the streets. Cincinnati Traction Co. v Harrison, 24 Ohio CCNS 1, 44 Ohio CC 435. As required of an officer or director of a corporation:—such care as a man of common prudence would take of his own affairs; more realistically, such care as a prudent man should exercise in like circumstances, not necessarily the care which such a person would show in the conduct of his own affairs of a similar kind. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1277. As required of a bailee:—such care as ordinarily prudent men, as a class, would exercise in caring for their own property under like circumstances, or, as it is sometimes expressed, when applied to bailees who make a business of keeping property for hire, that degree of care and diligence which may reasonably be expected from ordinarily prudent persons under similar circumstances, or that which capable and reasonably prudent persons engaged in the same business, and experienced and faithful in the particular department are accustomed to exercise when in the discharge of their duties. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 207.

ordinary conveyance. A voluntary deed as distinguished from a divesting of title by judgment of a court or a transfer directed by the court.

ordinary course of business. See in the ordinary course of business.

ordinary course of trade. See in the ordinary course of business.

ordinary diligence. That degree of care, attention, or exertion which, under the circumstances, a man of ordinary prudence and discretion would use in reference to the particular thing were it his own property, or in doing the particular thing were it his own concern. Anne: 15 ALR2d 856, § 13; 10 Am J2d Banks § 479.

ordinary dividend. A regular dividend paid by a corporation, as distinguished from an extra dividend or a stock dividend. 19 Am J2d Corp § 810.

ordinary flood. A flood the occurrence of which is reasonably to be anticipated, considering past experience in the weather and the topographical situation. Anno: 23 ALR2d 757. A flood in a series of floods occurring at intervals which are regular or irregular, frequent or infrequent. Cairo, Vincennes & Chicago R. Co. v Brevoort (CC Ind) 62 F 129.

ordinary flow. The usual volume of water in a watercourse at any given season.

The waters of a river flowing annually therein before, during and after the regularly occurring accretions, caused by melting snows, in the volume thereof constitute the usual and ordinary flow of the river, and are in no sense "storm" or "flood" or "vagrant" or "enemy" waters, as these terms are understood in law. Herminghaus v Southern Cal. Edison Co. 200 Cal 81, 252 P 607.

ordinary high-watermark. The line of the medium high tide between the spring and the neap tides. The average high-watermark. 12 Am 12d Bound § 13. The line along the banks of a river to which the water rises in the seasons of ordinary high water, or the line at which the presence of water is continued for such length of time as to mark upon the soil and vegetation a distinct character. Pacific Milling & Elevator Co. v Portland, 65 Or 349, 133 P 72.

ordinary income. Income from regularly recurring sources, such as earnings from work, interest, and dividends, as distinguished from a bonanza, winnings in a horse race, the prize won in a contest, or a capital gain realized on a sale of property. Sloane v Commissioner (CA6) 188 F2d 254, 29 ALR2d 580.

[898]

ordinary low-watermark. The average low-watermark at low tide. East Boston Co. v Commonwealth, 203 Mass 68, 89 NE 236.

ordinary luggage. Luggage which is personal to the passenger, and carried for his use or convenience, not something, such as merchandise, carried in pursuit of a trade or business. Yazoo & Mississippi Valley Railroad Co. v Blackmar, 85 Miss 7, 37 So 500; Oakes v Northern Pacific Railroad Co. 20 Or 392, 26 P 230.

ordinary negligence. The failure to exercise such care as the great mass of mankind ordinarily exercises under the same or similar circumstances. 38 Am J1st Negl § 46. The want of exercise of ordinary care.

See ordinary care.

ordinary occupation. See ordinary calling.

ordinary partnership. Any partnership other than a commercial partnership or a limited partnership. 42 Am J1st Partn § 11.

ordinary proceedings. The regular and usual method of carrying on a suit by due course at common law. 1 Am J2d Actions § 3.

ordinary prudent man. See the ordinary prudent man.

ordinary rainfall. Such rainfall as is not unprecedented and extraordinary. Cairo, Vincennes & Chicago R. Co. v Brevoort (CC Ind) 62 F 129.

ordinary repairs. Painting, papering or decorating, repairing plumbing fixtures or replacing plumbing, repairing the heating plant, etc. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 453.

ordinary risks of employment. Those perils, hazards, and dangers as are ordinarily and normally incident to or a part of the employment in question and of which the employee has knowledge, actual or implied, or of which it may be said that he is presumed to know. 35 Am J1st M & S § 299. Those dangers in the work which exist after the employer has done everything that he is bound to do for the purpose of securing the safety of the employee. Boatman v Miles, 27 Wyo 481, 199 P 933, 26 ALR 864.

ordinary skill. That degree of skill which men engaged in a particular work or art usually employed, not that skill which belongs to a few men of extraordinary endowment and capacity. Baltimore Baseball Club & Exhibition Co. v Tickett, 78 Md 375, 28 A 279.

ordinary travel. See ordinary use of highway.

ordinary use of highway. Use by motor vehicles, such having almost completely supplanted horse-drawn vehicles. 25 Am J2d High § 430.

In the absence of a specific regulation to the contrary, a bicycle is a vehicle of such nature that it properly may be used upon the highways and streets. 7 Am J2d Auto § 7.

ordinary wear and tear. See wear and tear.

ordination. The religious ceremony, celebration, and service at which a person is made a priest or minister of the Gospel.

ordinatione contra servientes. A writ which lay for a master against his servant who left his service in violation of a statute or ordinance.

ordinatum est. It is ordered.

ordine. See ex ordine.

Ordine placitandi servato, servatur et jus. By observing the order of pleading, the law is also observed. See Broom's Legal Maxims 188.

ordinis beneficium. (Civil law.) The benefit or privilege of order,—the right of a surety to have all of the creditor's remedies first exhausted against the principal, before resort might be had to him, the surety.

ordinum fugitivi. Members of ancient English orders who renounced their adherence.

ordo attachamentorum. The order of attachments.

ordonnance. A compilation of international law on the subject of "prize."

ore. A natural combination of minerals; a natural compound of a mineral and some other substance, such as oxygen, sulphur, or arsenic, called its mineralizer, by which its usual properties are disguised or lost. Marvel v Merritt, 116 US 11, 29 L Ed 550, 6 S Ct 207.

oredelfe. The right to claim ore found in one's land.

Oregon boot. A heavy weight clasped about the ankle of a prisoner to prevent his escape.

ore-leave. The right to dig and take ore from a mine. See Ege v Kille, 84 Pa 333, 340.

ore tenus. By word of mouth; oral; orally.

orfgild. A compensation for, or a restoration of, property taken away, and applied particularly to cattle.

organic act. An act providing and establishing a government, for example the Act of 1878, providing a permanent form of government for the District of Columbia. 24 Am J2d D C § 4.

organic law. Constitutional law or, at least, law which carries a high degree of authority. St. Louis v Dorr, 145 Mo 466, 41 SW 1094, 46 SW 976. The basic law of a state or of a society, such as a mutual benefit society. 36 Am J2d Trat O § 9.

organization. A corporation, government or governmental subdivision or agency, business trust, estate trust, partnership or association, two or more persons having a joint or common interest or any other legal or commercial entity. UCC § 1201(28). Planning, arranging, and developing, as in organizing a corporation or a labor union. A term of practical politics; the leadership of a political party in a town, city, county, or state and those of the party, committeemen and others, who support the leadership.

organization costs. See preconstruction costs; promotion expenses.

organization of corporation. The process of forming and arranging into suitable disposition the parts of the body to be created and of defining the objects of such body. A process stopping short of the conferring of a franchise to be a corporation or charter. Hughes Co. v Farmers' Union Produce Co. 110 Neb 736, 194 NW 872, 37 ALR 1314, 1318. A process completed when the first meeting has been called, the act of incorporation accepted, officers elected, and bylaws providing for future meetings adopted. Roosevelt v Hamblin, 199 Mass 127, 85 NE 98.

[899]

organization tax. A term applied loosely to an incorporation fee. 18 Am J2d Corp § 41.

organization of board. The calling and holding of a meeting of a board or commission for the election of officers. Waterman v Chicago & Iowa Railroad Co. 139 111 658, 29 NE 689.

organized. See organization.

organized bar. See bar association; integrated bar; state bar.

organized labor. Union labor; the aggregate of labor unions and the members thereof.

organized territory. A territory of the United States having any form of autonomous government characterized by system. 49 Am J1st States § 4.

or his heirs. Words of limitation in the devise of a remainder, not preventing the creation of an indefeasible vested remainder. 28 Am J2d Est § 300.

oriel window. A bay window.

original. Adjective: Pertaining to the beginning or origin. Noun: The first or primitive form of a thing. An eccentric person. An instrument from which a copy or copies have been made.

See duplicate; duplicate original.

original asking price. The price at which a landowner lists his property for sale with a real estate broker. 12 Am J2d Brok § 111.

original bill. A bill in equity that begins an independent suit unconnected with any other previous or pending suit in the same court. 27 Am J2d Eq § 179.

original bill in the nature of a supplemental bill. A bill filed in a suit in equity when new parties, with new interests, arising from events which have transpired since the institution of the suit, are to be brought before the court. Whiting v Bank of United States (US) 13 Pet 6, 10 L Ed 33; Bowie v Minter, 2 Ala 406, 411.

original charter. The charter by which the first grant of the land was made by the superior to the vassal.

original construction of railroad. That construction of bridges, grades, culverts, rails, ties, docks, etc., that is prerequisite to the opening of the line for use in the operation of trains. Cleveland, Canton & Southern Railroad Co. v Knickerbocker Trust Co. (CC Ohio) 86 F 73, 76.

original contractor. Same as principal contractor.

original conveyances. A primary conveyance; that is, a conveyance by means of which the benefit or estate is created or first arises.

Such conveyances comprise the following: Feoffments, gifts, grants, leases, exchanges, and partitions. See 2 Bl Comm 309.

original cost. The amount expended in construction of a building or plant, as distinguished from present value or cost of reproduction. National Waterworks Co. v Kansas City (CA8 Mo) 62 F 853.

original cost theory. A theory of valuation of public utility property for rate-making purposes, based upon the idea that the utility is entitled to a return only on the actual sacrifice of funds made in creating the plant for service to the public. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 105.

original damages. Damages arising from an injury to real estate of such nature that one recovery is all that is permitted by law, there being no basis for recovery from time to time as damages accrue. McHenry v Parkersburg, 66 W Va 533, 66 NE 750.

original deed. See original conveyance.

original entry. See book of account; book of original entry.

original evidence. Primary evidence, as distinguished from secondary evidence.

original jurisdiction. The jurisdiction conferred on or inherent in a court in the first instance. 20 Am J2d Cis § 98. The jurisdiction of a trial court, as distinguished from the jurisdiction exercised by an appellate court or a court with supervisory powers. 20 Am J2d Cts §§ 28, 98.

original negligence. A term pertinent to the last clear chance, referring to the negligence of the plaintiff in placing himself in the position of peril. 7 Am J2d Auto § 379.

See primary negligence.

original package. That package which, according to custom respecting the particular articles shipped, is usually delivered by the vendor to the carrier for transportation and delivered as a unit to the consignee. The package, as a unit, which is delivered by the shipper to the carrier at the initial place of shipment in the exact condition in which shipped. 15 Am J2d Com § 45. The unbroken package in the original form in which used by a shipper of intoxicating liquors for shipment and delivery into dry territory, provided the receptacle used is one ordinarily used by honest dealers in the same business and is recognized commercially as a usable receptacle. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 40. A well-recognized method of selling patent or proprietary medicines. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 63. A restriction upon the right to purchase or sell narcotics under the Federal Narcotic Act. 26 USC § 4704(a). The denial of the power to impose a state or local tax upon goods imported from a foreign country while they remain the property of the importer, in his warehouse, in the original form or package in which they were imported. Brown v Maryland (US) 12 Wheat 419, 6 L Ed 678.

In the area of state taxation of goods transported from another state, the doctrine has been definitely rejected. Sonneborn Bros. v Cureton, 262 US 506, 67 L Ed 1095, 43 S Ct 643. Nor has the doctrine been a barrier to state regulation apart from taxation. 15 Am J2d Com § 44.

Original Packages Act. Another name for the Wilson Act of 1890, a federal statute respecting the transportation of intoxicating liquors from one state to another.

See Wilson Act.

original patent. Same as basic patent.

original plat. The first plat made of a town or village, as distinguished from a plat of the town or village in which additions made to the incorporated area are included.

original proceeding. See principal action.

original process. The process by which a suit or action is commenced. Hotchkiss' Appeal from Probate, 32 Conn 353, 355.

original promise. A promise not within the statute of frauds as a promise to answer for the debt of another, because it is made to subserve or promote an interest or purpose of the promisor and upon a consideration beneficial to him. 49 Am J1st Stat of F § 61. A promise, made at the time of or before the creation of the debt, in consideration of which the credit is given. Goldsmith v Erwin (CA4 NC) 183 F2d 432, 20 ALR2d 240.

[900]

original undertaking. See original promise.

original vein. The discovered vein of mineral relied upon in the location and perfection of a lode claim. 36 Am J1st Mines & M § 83.

original work. Work which an author has created by his own skill, labor, and judgment. Anno: 23 ALR2d 264, § 4.

original writ. The beginning or foundation of a common-law action. "It is a mandatory letter from the king in parchment, sealed with his great seal, and directed to the sheriff of the county wherein the injury is committed or supposed so to be, requiring him to command the wrongdoer or party accused, either to do justice to the complainant or else to appear in court and answer the accusation against him." See 3 Bl Comm 273.

In the United States, original writs, properly so-called, never existed, and while they have been abolished in England, their history and original functions are vital and instructive.

See original process.

originate. To give an origin or beginning to; to bring into existence; to take first existence; to have origin or beginning; to begin or exist or act. Dunbar v Spratt-Snyder Co. 208 Iowa 226 NW 22, 63 ALR 1016.

Origine propria nominem posse voluntate sua eximi manifestum est. It is manifest that no one can by his own will or wish free himself from his own origin. See Broom's Legal Maxims 77.

originis. See forum originis.

Origo rei inspici debet. The origin of a thing ought to be regarded.

or in trust for. A form of restrictive endorsement of a bill or note. 11 Am J2d B & N § 362.

or lease. An oil lease obligating a lessee to drill a well within a certain time or pay delay rentals. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 60.

ornamental fixtures. Articles removable by a tenant, although affixed to the premises, because brought on the premises by him and because of their nature as articles pertaining to his own pleasure, domestic comfort, and convenience. Raymond v Strickland, 124 Ga 504, 52 SE 619.

ornamental tree. A tree planted or kept for the beauty it adds to the premises.

or order. Words of negotiability. 11 Am J2d B & N § 105.

or other valuable effects. A term of art used in statutes prescribing the elements of the crime of false pretenses for extending the application of the statute in reference to the things obtained by the accused. 32 Am J2d False Pret § 42.

orphan. A minor child who has lost one or both of his or her parents. Heiss v Murphey, 40 Wis 276, 291.

orphanage part. The distributive share in his estate to which the children of an intestate are entitled by the custom of London.

By this custom their share is not fully vested in them until the age of twenty-one, before which they cannot dispose of it by will. If they die under that age, whether single or married, their share survives to the other children. But after the age of twenty-one, it is free from any orphanage custom and if they then die intestate it falls under the statute of distributions. See 2 Bl Comm 519.

orphanotrophi. (Civil law.) Persons who had the charge or management of orphan asylums.

orphans' court. A probate court, 20 Am J2d Cts § 32, the name being suggested by the jurisdiction exercised in matters involving the care of orphans and their property.

orthopedic appliance. An appliance to be worn or used in the relief of a disease, injury, or deformity of bones and joints.

oscillation. Vibration.

osculation. Close contact; kissing.

or to the use of. A form of restrictive endorsement of a negotiable instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 362.

O. S. Abbreviation of old style, particularly in reference to the calendar. Abbreviation of old series, also of ordinary seaman.

ostendit vobis. It shows to you.

ostensible agency. An agency created by a course of conduct, for example, the agency of a wife to make purchases on the credit of the husband, arising from his acquiescence on many occasions in her thus binding him. 26 Am J1st H & W § 237. An agency existing when the principal intentionally, or by want of ordinary care, causes or allows a third person to believe another to be his agent. Armstrong v Barceloux, 34 Cal App 433, 167 P 895.

ostensible authority. Apparent authority, for example, such authority as an insurance company permits its agent to exercise, or which it holds him out to the public as possessing. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 146. Such authority as a principal, either intentionally or by want of ordinary care, causes or allows a third person to believe the agent to possess. Henry Cowell Lime & Cement Co. v Santa Cruz Nat. Bank, 82 Cal App 519, 255 P 881.

ostensible partner. One made known to the world as a member of a partnership and who in reality is a partner. Dins v Lonsdale, 49 Ind 521, 529. One who, although not a partner by contract or agreement with the other member or members of the firm, is charged with liability as a partner because he has held himself out, or permitted himself to be held out, as being a member of the firm. 40 Am J1st Partn § 71.

ostensible partnership. See ostensible partner.

ostensurus. To show.

ostentum. Same as monster.

osteoarthritis. A type of arthritis; susceptible to aggravation by personal injury. Hanover Fire Ins. Co. v Sides (CA5 La) 320 F2d 437.

osteomyelitis. A disease of the bone. Merritt, Chapman & Scott Corp. v Fredin (CA9 Wash) 307 F2d 370.

osteopath. One who treats human ailments by osteopathy. A physician where licensed by the State Medical Board. State ex rel. Kester v North, 136 Ohio St 523, 17 Ohio Ops 159, 26 NE2d 1020. A physician within the meaning of a statute providing for the registration of births and deaths. Keiningham v Blake, 135 Md 320, 109 A 65, 8 ALR 1066.

[901]

osteopathy. A system of treatment of parts and tissues of the body by manipulations with the hands. State v Hopkins, 54 Mont 52, 166 P 304. A system of treatment of human ailments based on the theory that diseases are chiefly due to the deranged mechanism of bones, nerves, blood vessels, and other tissues, and can be remedied by manipulation. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 2.

osteoporosis. A disabling disease characterized by fragility of bones. Nelson v Twin City Motor Bus Co. 239 Minn 276, 58 NW2d 561.

oster. Same as ouster.

ostercus. Also called "austurcus," –a goshawk used by falconers in hunting fowl; the modern chicken hawk.

ostium ecclesiae. The door of the church, the place where marriages were anciently solemnized.

Oswald's law. The law by which compulsory celibacy was introduced into the priesthood in the tenth century.

other action pending. See plea of another action pending.

other country. See foreign country.

other hard incombustible material. Materials of the same kind as those specifically named. Odessa v Halbrook (Tex Civ App) 103 SW2d 223.

other insurance. Insurance on the same risk for the benefit of the same person.

See contribution between insurers; double insurance; excess insurance.

other insurance clause. The condition of an insurance policy against the existence or procuring of other insurance upon the same risk insured, without the consent of the insurer. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 954. A clause, common in fire insurance policies, the meaning of which is that if the assured has any other policy or insurance upon the property, by assignment or otherwise, by which the interest intended to be insured, is already either wholly or partially protected, he shall disclose that fact and have it indorsed on the policy, or the insurance shall be void. Aetna Fire Ins. Co. v Tyler (NY) 16 Wend 385.

othersworthe. Same as oathworthy.

oultre. See en oultre.

oultre le mere. Beyond seas.

oust. To effect an ouster.

ouster. A forced dispossession of real estate. A disseisin. The wrongful dispossession or exclusion from real property of a person entitled to the possession thereof. 25 Am J2d Eject § 47. The eviction of a foreign corporation from the state, prohibiting it from doing business. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 439.

See eviction.

ouster by abatement. Such an ouster as takes place where a person dies seised of an estate of inheritance, and before the heir or devisee enters, a stranger who has no right enters and gets possession of the freehold. Brown v Burdick, 25 Ohio St 260, 268.

ouster in pais. A dispossession or disseisin of a person in possession of land effected otherwise than by means of resort to legal proceedings.

ouster judgment. A judgment against the defendant in ejectment. 25 Am J2d Eject § 122. A judgment in forcible entry and detainer calling for the restitution of the premises to the plaintiff. 35 Am J2d Fore E & D § 53. A judgment in an election contest rendered against the contestee in possession of the office. 26 Am J2d Elect § 357.

ouster le main. To remove the hand of the guardian. To cause a ward's lands to be delivered or released to him from the hands of the guardian upon the ward's attaining his majority. See 2 Bl Comm 68.

ousterlemain. Same as ouster le main.

See livery.

ouster le mer. Beyond seas.

ouster of jurisdiction. Events occurring after the commencement of an action and the acquisition of jurisdiction causing a loss of jurisdiction. 20 Am J2d Cts §§ 147 et seq.

out. Away from, as out of store. Vernacular for a means of avoidance, as a condition under which one otherwise obligated is permitted to withdraw from the engagement. Cray, McFawn & Co. v Hegarty, Conroy & Co. (DC NY) 27 F Supp 93.

outage. An inspection charge of two dollars per hogshead, fixed by a Maryland statute passed in 1872, to be paid by shippers of tobacco on tobacco shipped out of the state. Turner v Maryland (US) 17 Otto 38, 44, 27 L Ed 370, 373, 2 S Ct 44.

out and out conversion. The rule that real estate intended by partners to constitute a part of the firm property, or treated by them as belonging to the firm, is regarded in equity as converted into personalty for all purposes, as well for the purpose of the adjustment of the partnership debts and the claims of the partners between themselves as for the purpose of determining the succession as between the personal representative of a deceased partner and the heirs at law. 40 Am J1st Partn § 111.

outboard. A motorboat having the motor fastened on the outside at the stern of the craft. A powerboat. United States v Olson (DC Ky) 41 F Supp 433.

outbreak of war. The commencement of hostilities between two nations, with or without a declaration of war. 56 Am J1st War § 8.

outbuilding. A building on the same premises, usually made use of in connection with the dwelling house.

See outhouse.

outcome-determinative test. The rule that a federal court exercising jurisdiction solely because of the citizenship of the parties should apply a state law, although such is deemed a matter of "procedure" in one sense, where refusal to follow it will bring about a result impossible of attainment in a state court. Guaranty Trust Co. v York, 362 US 99, 89 L Ed 2079, 65 S Ct 1464, 160 ALR 1231.

outcrop. The exposure of a mineral vein above the surface of the earth or the point at which the vein comes the closest to the surface. Anno: 1 ALR 422.

outcry. The cry of a person imperiled by an assault, especially a female threatened by a sexual assault. 6 Am J2d Asslt & B § 156. The sound of an auctioneer's voice as he speaks or chants in offering an article for sale and invokes bidding.

outdoor advertising. Advertising appearing upon billboards and other structures in places observable by the public generally.

[902]

outer bar. The junior barristers or counsel, who sit outside the bar in an English court and in some other courts of the Commonwealth.

outer barrister. A barrister who pleads outside the bar; that is, otherwise than as sergeant or king's or queen's counsel.

Outer Continental Shelf. All submerged lands lying seaward and outside of the area of lands beneath navigable waters, and of which the subsoil and sea bed appertain to the United States and are subject to its jurisdiction and control. 43 USC § 1331(a).

Outer Continental Shelf Lands Act. A federal statute declaring and implementing the policy of the United States in reference to the subsoil and sea bed of the Outer Continental Shelf. 43 USC §§ 1313 et seq.

outer door. A door for ingress or egress to or from premises, as distinguished from a door leading from one portion of premises to another part of the same premises.

As to what constitutes an "outer door" within the rule which prohibits an officer from forcing or breaking the outer door for the purpose of serving process, see 42 Am J1st Proc § 42.

outer house. The name given to the lower branch of the Scotch court of sessions.

outfangthef. A thief who was captured outside the manor; a tenant who was arrested for larceny within a manor.

outfit. Equipment for work or activity, such as for plumbers, carpenters, or campers. Equipment for an expedition. The clothing, arms, and accouterments of a soldier. 36 Am J1st Mil § 16. A military unit, especially a division of the Army. An allowance made by the government to its foreign ministers and ambassadors.

See ship and outfit.

outhouse. A building, such as a barn, shed, or garage upon the same premises, and having a connection with the use of the dwelling house. A building adjacent to a dwelling house and subservient thereto, but distinct from the mansion itself. 5 Am J2d Arson § 20. An outside toilet or privy.

outhouse where people resort. A phrase appearing in statutes for the suppression of gambling, meaning any house on the premises standing apart from the house used as a dwelling house or place of business. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 29.

outland. That part of a manor which was occupied by a tenant.

outlaw. In the modern sense of the term, a notorious criminal, especially when a fugitive from the law. At common law, one made defendant in an outlawry proceeding or judicially declared to be an outlaw in a regular proceeding brought for the purpose of such declaration. Dale County v Gunter, 46 Ala 118, 140.

An outlaw is one who is put out of the law; that is, deprived of its benefits and protection. In earlier times he was called a friendless man; one who could not, by law, have a friend. An outlaw was said caput genere lupinum, by which it was meant, that any one might knock him on the head as a wolf, in case he would not surrender himself peaceably when taken. He forfeited everything he had, whether it was in right or possession. All obligations and contracts were dissolved. But in modern times the word has a much less stringent meaning, importing, however, the forfeiture of property and civil rights. Drew v Drew, 37 Me 389, 391.

outlawed. In the earlier common law, the judicial determination and declaration that a named person was an outlaw. In the modern parlance of the layman and to some extent of the profession, barred by the statute of limitations. Drew v Drew, 37 Me 389, 391.

outlawry. A common-law doctrine, long since abolished or come into disuse in the United States, whereunder the property of one convicted of a crime was forfeited to the crown or state, he being placed, as it were, outside the law. United States v Hall, 198 F2d 726, 34 ALR2d 1088. A proceeding at common law under which by judgment a man was placed out of the protection of the law. A judgment declaring the defendant in such proceeding to be an outlaw. See 3 Bl Comm 284. See also Republica v Doan (US) 1 Dall 86, 1 L Ed 47.

See outlaw.

outlay. An expense.

outlet. A way of escape for waters from a lake or a pond. 56 Am J1st Wat § 63. A place or means of disposal of particular articles of merchandise.

out of court. Not in or before the court; as, a settlement out of court. Having suffered nonsuit or dismissal.

out of employment. Not working. In a distinct sense, arising from employment. Gage v Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. (Mo App) 273 SW2d 761, 47 ALR2d 1234.

out-of-kilter. A colloquial expression for out of order, not in condition for use, as a machine with broken working parts. Lonnecker v Borris, 360 Mo 529, 229 SW2d 524, 18 ALR2d 968.

out of my estate. A phrase in a clause of a will directing payment of an estate or succession tax, having reference to the residuary estate, that being sufficient, or the general estate of the testator. Anno: 37 ALR2d 111.

out of pocket. Spent; disbursed.

out-of-pocket expense. Expense which one is compelled to incur and pay.

out-of-pocket-loss rule. A rule of damages for fraud in misrepresentation of value, quality, or condition of property, that the defrauded party is entitled not to the benefit of the bargain, but only to the amount that he is "out-of-pocket" by reason of the fraud, which is the difference between the real value of the misrepresented property and the amount that he paid therefor. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 355; 55 Am J1st V & P § 573.

out of term. Between terms of court; at a time when no session of the court was held.

out of the state. Absent from the state. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 215.

out of time. Not on time; overdue; as a ship which has not arrived at the time expected. Appearing in the wrong generation; not in accord with modern customs, habits, and practices.

outparter. A cattle thief out patient. A person who calls for medical treatment at a hospital, without becoming a room or ward patient.

outpeny. The customary payment made in the early period of the common law by a tenant upon the termination of the tenancy.

[903]

output. The production of a factory or plant for any given time. Anno: 1 ALR 1393.

outrage. An aggravated wrong. A bold or wanton injury to person or property; wanton mischief; gross injury. Mosnat v Snyder, 105 Iowa 500, 504, 75 NW 356. A rape.

outrage and indignity. A wrong capable of causing mental anguish in addition to bodily suffering. McKinley v Chicago & Northwestern Railroad Co. 44 Iowa 314.

outrageous battery. Malicious acts akin to mayhem. Clyde v Parillo, 25 NJ Misc 492, 55 A2d 810.

oultre. Outside; beyond.

autrefois acquit. Same as autrefois acquit.

oultre mere. Beyond the sea. Lands beyond the sea.

outrider. A deputy sheriff who summoned persons at a distance to attend the county court; a highwayman. A rider on horseback who accompanies a carriage or coach. outright gift. An absolute gift.

outroper. A licensed auctioneer.

outside activities. Private employment or business pursued by a public officer or public employee. 43 Am J1st Pub Of § 265.

outside elevator. An elevator maintained in connection with the use of a building, but outside the building, such as an elevator reached through an opening in the sidewalk.

outside hazard. A hazard to a traveler on the highway, located on the margin, that is, outside the traveled portion. 25 Am J1st High § 528.

outstanding accounts. Unpaid accounts, both good and bad. 1 Am J2d Acctg § 2. Sometimes construed in accordance with custom as including accounts remaining after the bad accounts have been charged to profit and loss. McCulsky v Klosterman, 20 Or 108, 25 P 366.

outstanding and open account. An unpaid account not adjusted or reduced to a written obligation. 1 Am J2d Acctg § 2.

outstanding crop. A growing crop in the field, without reference to the state of growth. Sullins v State, 53 Ala 474, 476.

outstanding interest. The interest of a third party not directly involved in the transaction. So, an interest in mortgaged property other than that of mortgagor and mortgagee. 36 Am J1st Mtg § 199. An interest in property seized under execution other than that of the judgment debtor. 30 Am J2d Exec §§ 443 et seq. A claim of title in himself by a person who asserts such claim adversely to the ostensible owner of the land.

outstanding in the state. See obligations or liabilities outstanding in the state.

outstanding note. A note which is still a liability. Spring v Hill, 6 Cal 17.

outstandings. Debts outstanding against an applicant for credit insurance. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1005. Uncollected debts; uncollected revenues. McCulsky v Klosterman, 20 Or 108, 25 P 366.

outstanding stock. Shares of corporate stock held as obligations of the corporation, as distinguished from treasury stock. Borg v International Silver Co. (CA2 NY) 11 F2d 147.

outstanding term. A lease for a term of years entitled to protection against grantees, heirs, and devisees of the lessor.

outstanding title. See outstanding interest.

outstroke mining. See mining by outstroke.

outsucken multures. Payments which were made by a tenant for having his grain ground at a mill at which his tenure did not bind him to have it ground.

outvote. To win an election. To cast more votes than are cast in an comparable precinct, district, or political subdivision.

outworker. Same as homeworker. ouverte. Same as overt.

ovel. Equal. Same as owel.

ovelty. Same as owelty.

over. See bind over; pleading over; remedy over.

overboard. Out of the vessel and into the water.

overbreak. An engineering term signifying that portion of the material removed by a blast which was outside and beyond the slopes indicated by the slope stakes. Porter v State, 141 Wash 51, 250 P 449.

overcertification. The act of an officer or agent of a bank in certifying a check when the amount called for does not actually stand to the credit of the drawer on the books of the bank. 10 Am J2d Banks § 229.

overcharge. An excessive charge. A charge of more than is permitted by law. Woodhouse v Rio Grande Railway Co. 67 Tex 416, 418. A charge made by a carrier for transportation services in excess of those applicable thereto under the tariffs lawfully on file with the Interstate Commerce Commission. 49 USC §§ 16(3) (g), 304(a) (5), 1006(a) (5).

The term "overcharge" as used by the Interstate Commerce Commission covers only cases where carriers have demanded and received a rate in excess of the published rate; it is not used in referring to cases where the published rate has been collected but is alleged, on one ground or another, to be an excessive rate. Miller v Davis, 213 Iowa 1091, 240 NW 743.

overcrowding. The act of a carrier in putting too many passengers in a conveyance.

overcyhsed. Same as overcyted.

overcyted. Found guilty; convicted.

overdraft. An overdrawing by a bank depositor. A payment by a bank from its funds of a check or draft drawn upon it by a depositor who does not have sufficient funds on deposit to pay the check or draft. American Surety Co. v First Nat. Bank (DC W Va) 50 F Supp 180.

An overdraft arises when, by check, draft, or order, a customer of the bank draws from that bank more money than is standing to his credit in his account with the bank. State v Jackson, 21 SD 494, 113 NW 880. The amount of an overdraft is not necessarily the sum drawn, but is the amount drawn less the amount to which the drawer, at the time, is entitled to a credit balance upon his account. Armstrong v Chemical Nat. Bank (CC NY) 41 F 234.

[904]

overdraw. See overdraft.

overdue. Past due. Having run beyond maturity.

Sometimes the term "overdue" is used in reference to a right of action against a drawer or indorser of a bill of exchange. In that connection a bill is not "overdue" until presented to the payee for payment, and payment refused. Sometimes the term is used in considering whether an indorser has been released by a failure of the holder to present the bill for payment, and to give the indorser notice of its dishonor within a reasonable time. The term is also applied to a bill which has come into the hands of an indorser, so long after its issue as to charge him with notice of its dishonor, and thus subject it in his hands to the defenses which the drawer had against it in the hands of the assignor. La Due v First Nat. Bank of Kasson, 31 Minn 33, 38.

See maturity.

overdue paper. An obligation for the payment of money not paid at maturity as fixed by the terms of the instrument or as extended by agreement of the parties.

overflow. To flow over; to flow over the bounds, over the brim; to cover with or as with water or other fluid; to spread over; to inundate: as, when one wrongfully diverts surface water and causes it to overflow another's land, causing damage. Miller v Letzerich, 121 Tex 248, 49 SW2d 404, 85 ALR 451.

overflowed lands. Lands which are covered by nonnavigable waters or are subject to such periodical or frequent overflows of water, salt or fresh (not including lands between high and low water marks of navigable streams or bodies of water, nor lands covered and uncovered by the ordinary daily ebb and flow of normal tides of navigable waters), as to require drainage or levees or embankments to keep out the water, and thereby render the lands suitable for successful cultivation. State of Florida ex rel. Ellis v Gerbing, 56 Fla 603, 47 So 353.

See submerged lands.

overflowing waters. See flood waters.

overhang. That part of a railroad car or streetcar which extends beyond the rails upon which the car is running. 14 Am J2d Car § 979.

overhanging roof. A roof extending over an adjoining property. Sometimes legalized as a continuous easement. Bubser v Ranguette, 269 Mich 388, 257 NW 845.

overhanging sign. A sign placed in such position that it overhangs the sidewalk or street. 3 Am J2d Advertg § 9.

overhanging structure. A structure with projections, particularly projections extending over an adjoining property. overhaul. To repair completely; to recondition.

overhauling. Overtaking. Examining completely to determine needed repairs.

See reconditioning.

overhead. Wages and salaries, rent, telephone service, cost of office supplies, etc. 13 Am J2d Bldg Contr § 20. For the purpose of fixing the rates of a public utility, expenses for services of a nonproductive nature. Lytle, Campbell & Co. v Somers, Fittler, & Todd Co. 276 Pa 409, 120 A 409, 27 ALR 41, 43.

See operating expenses of a public utility.

overhead crossing. A highway elevated and crossing over a railroad track, thereby avoiding a grade crossing. One railroad elevated and crossing above another railroad. 44 Am J1st RR § 286. A highway elevated and crossing over another highway, common in modern highway systems.

overhead door. A door having hinged sections, engaged at the top with an overhead track to permit it to be pushed up and extended at some height in the building in opening it to permit ingress or egress; used extensively in garages, both public and private, and other places of business or work where vehicles are frequently driven in and out.

overhead expenses. Same as overhead.

overhead handrail. A handrail anchored in the top of a bus, upon which a standing passenger may seize in an emergency to prevent being thrown by a sudden movement or stopping of the bus. Fisher v Whitaker (Ky) 260 SW2d 651.

overhead rack. A rack on the side of a railroad car, bus, or airplane being located above the seated passengers, for wearing apparel and small articles of luggage. 14 Am J2d Car § 1034.

overhead through rate. Same as through rate.

overhead use. See supersurface use.

overinsurance. The existence of insurance upon the same risk in violation of the condition of the policy concerning other insurance unknown to the insurer or obtained without the consent of the insurer. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 954. A condition leading to fraud or carelessness on the part of the insured, there being less reason for him to desire the preservation of the property. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 954.

See excess insurance.

overissue. An issue of stock by a corporation in excess of the amount prescribed or limited by its charter. 18 Am J2d Corp § 230. An issue of bonds by a corporation in excess of the limit placed upon the amount of bonded indebtedness by the charter. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1061.

overloading. Crowding a passenger car or bus. Exceeding the license limit on the number of passengers, or the licensed weight, to be carried by an aircraft. Ziser v Colonial Western Airways, Inc. 10 NJ Misc 1118, 162 A 591. Violation of statute or regulation limiting the number of domestic animals to be carried in a single stock car in railroad transportation. Making an excessive charge for operating expenses or the maintenance of contingency reserves in calculating the amount of the premium to be charged for insurance.

overlord. A feudal superior; a master.

overpayment. A payment in excess of the amount of the obligation.

As the word is used in the Federal Revenue Act of 1932, Section 621(d), it is broad enough to include payments erroneously or illegally assessed as well as payments excessive in amount. D. Gottlieb & Co. v Harrison (DC Ill) 27 F Supp 424.

overplus. That which remains; a balance left over. An excess of acreage in a survey of public land. 12 Am J2d Bound § 62.

overreaching. Fraudulent conduct in taking unfair advantage.

overreaching clause. A clause in an indenture creating powers which refers for some powers to an extrinsic instrument, noting that such powers may be in excess of, that is, overreach the powers created by the indenture.

[905]

overriding royalty. A royalty, payable under an oil lease, consisting of a designated fraction or percentage of the working interest or of the total production. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 87. Such fractional interest in the production of oil and gas as is created from the lessee's estate, whether by reservation when the original lessee transfers his interest by a sublease, or by grant when the original lessee conveys a fractional share to a third person. La Laguna Ranch Co. v Dodge, 18 Cal 2d 132, 114 P2d 351, 135 ALR 546.

overriding veto. The enactment of a statute or ordinance, after a veto of the measure by the executive, by the passage of the measure by a stated percentage, fixed by constitution or statute, of the votes of the legislative body. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 148; 50 Am J1st Stat § 112.

overrule. To refuse to grant; to deny, as where the court denies an objection by counsel; to set at naught; to annul.

overruling precedent. The nullification of a prior decision as a precedent by a constitutionally valid statute or the rendition of a decision by the same court or by a higher ranking court which establishes a different rule on the point of law involved. 20 Am J2d Cts § 231.

oversamessa. A fine imposed for a contempt of court or for permitting an escape.

over sea. Beyond the sea. Outside the jurisdiction.

overseas bill of lading. The form of a bill of lading provided by UCC § 2-323.

The provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code relating to bill of lading in overseas trade will not have frequent application, because bills of lading covering export are governed by the Federal Bills of Lading Act and federal regulations, while the negotiability of bills covered by exports is generally determined by the law of the foreign country in which the bill was issued.

overseers of highways. Officers charged with the duty of laying out and maintaining highways within their districts.

overseers of the poor. Local officials to whom is delegated the ministerial work in regard to the relief of the poor. 41 Am J1st Poor L § 15.

oversell. To sell a greater quantity than one can deliver.

oversize baggage. Baggage exceeding the dimensions given in the tariff filed by a carrier with the Interstate Commerce Commission. NAACP v Richmond Greyhound Lines, Inc. 246 NC 547, 99 SE2d 756, 68 ALR2d 1341.

oversman. An umpire chosen by arbitrators to settle a controversy upon the failure of the arbitrators to agree on a settlement.

overt. Open. Johnson v State, 125 Tenn 420, 143 SW 1134. Open to view. Admitting to direct evidence. Ashcraft v United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. (Ky) 255 SW2d 485, 37 ALR2d 1078.

overt act. An act carrying an intent into effect. An open act; a physical act, as distinguished from an act of the mind; an act done pursuant to a formed intent, design, plan, or conspiracy. An act demonstrating a purpose and committed without attempt at concealment. In criminal assault:—a demonstration consisting of an attempt or offer to do injury to the person of another, 6 Am J2d Asslt & B § 22, exciting fear of immediate personal harm or disgrace. Merritt v Commonwealth, 164 Va 653, 180 SE 395. In homicide:—an open act, indicating a present purpose to do immediate great bodily harm. Johnson v State, 125 Tenn 265, 143 SW 1134. For the purposes of a conspiracy:—an act performed for the purpose of carrying out the conspiracy, a step toward its execution, and a manifestation that the conspiracy is at work. 16 Am J2d Consp § 11.

Although intent sometimes may make criminal an otherwise innocent act, the law is not concerned with mere guilty intention, unconnected with any overt act or outward manifestation. People v Belcastro, 356 Ill 144, 190 NE 301, 92 ALR 1223.

overtaking and passing. A manipulation of a motor vehicle whereby, upon coming up behind another vehicle, the former is turned into another lane of traffic, preferably a lane to the inside of the other vehicle, and additional motive power applied to enable the one vehicle to go by the other and return to its original lane of traffic. 8 Am J2d Auto §§ 778 et seq. A rule of navigation which places upon the overtaking vessel the responsibility of avoiding collision with the overtaken vessel. 48 Am J1st Ship § 259.

See passing on the right.

overtaking vessel. A vessel approaching another vessel from astern which continues to be an overtaking vessel until she has passed clear of the vessel overtaken. The Lackawanna (CA2 NY) 119 F2d 666.

See overtaking and passing.

overt. Same as overt.

over-the-counter market. A market in securities other than that existing in transactions through established stock exchanges. Fratt v Robinson (CA9 Wash) 203 F2d 627, 37 ALR2d 636. A market established by transactions directly between brokers and brokerage offices.

overtillage. Bad or inefficient husbandry in farming ground to the point of exhaustion of the soil. 56 Am J1st Waste § 17.

overtime. Work performed over and above the period of the regular working day. Work in addition to the regular hours for which compensation is calculated under the contract of employment. 35 Am J1st M & S § 66. Work after regular hours; sometimes work after hours fixed by contract at less than the statutory maximum hours; sometimes hours worked outside of a specified clock pattern without regard to whether previous work has been done, for example, Sunday or holiday labor. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 611.

overtime premium. Extra pay for overtime work. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 611.

overturning. Upsetting. As the word appears in a policy of automobile insurance:—loss of equilibrium and overbalancing to the extent of placing the vehicle beyond the power of those in charge to stop its movement. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 62.

A loaded truck the wheels of which sank in a soft shoulder, tipping the truck sufficiently to spill a considerable portion of the load, was held "overturned" within the meaning of a policy insuring against loss by overturning. Moore v Western Assur. Co. 186 SC 260, 195 SE 558.

oves. Sheep.

ovesque. With.

[906]

ovis. (Latin.) Sheep.

owe. To be legally indebted. Succession of Guidry, 40 La Ann 671, 673, 4 So 893. To be under a political, moral, or social obligation.

owel. Equal.

owele. Equal. Same as owel.

owel main. See en owel main.

owelty. Equality. A sum paid or secured, in the case of an actual partition of land in which the portions set off are not of equal value, by him who receives the more valuable portion to him who receives the lesser in value, for the purpose of equalizing the shares in value. Waller v George, 322 Mo 573, 16 SW2d 63.

owing. Due. United States v State Bank (US) 6 Pet 29, 8 L Ed 308.
See owe.

owler. A person who is guilty of owling.

owling. A crime which was so called from its being usually carried on in the night, and which consisted of transporting wool or sheep out of England.

The offense existed at common law, but was also made a statutory offense in the reign of Edward the Third. See 4 Bl Comm 154. Being out very late at night for pleasure, often for dissipation.

own. To be the owner of anything. State ex rel. Cole v District Court, 79 Mont 11, 254 P 863. To acknowledge; to admit.

own cousin. Same as first cousin.

owner. One who has complete dominion over particular property. 42 Am J1st Prop § 37. The person in whom the legal or equitable title rests. Anno: 2 ALR 779, s.95 ALR 1086. In common understanding, the person who, in case of the destruction of property, must sustain the loss. 42 Am J1st Prop § 37.

As to the meaning of "owner" as used in statutes relating to the assessment and collection of taxes, see Anno: 2 ALR 792.

As to the meaning of the word "owner" as used in statutes penalizing unlawful cutting of timber, see Anno: 2 ALR 799.

As to the meaning of the term "owner" as used in statutes declaring who may redeem from sale under execution, see Anno: 2 ALR 794.

As to meaning of "owner" as used in real property statutes, see Anno: 2 ALR 778.

As to the meaning of the term "owner" as used in statutes relating to trespass or forcible entry and detainer, see Anno: 2 ALR 798.

See landowner.

owner identification sign. A requirement of statutes intended to prevent or limit the control of retail liquor dealers by distillers, wholesalers, and importers, the retail dealer being under duty to maintain a posted sign in his establishment showing the owner or owners thereof.

owner in fee. See fee simple.

owner of automobile. Not a technical term for the purposes of a registration statute; not confined to a sole owner or a person having an absolute right in the vehicle, and sometimes inclusive of a part owner or a conditional purchaser. 7 Am J2d Auto § 83.

A statute imposing liability on the "owner" of a car for damages resulting from its negligent operation by another extends to plural owners of a single automobile, so as to fasten liability on all of them. Sexton v Lauman, 244 Iowa 570, 57 NW2d 200, 37 ALR2d 353.

owner of land. See landowner.

owner of record. Same as record owner.

ownership. The rights of an owner. Title to property. Dominion over property. The right of possession and control of property, including the right to protect and defend such possession against the intrusion or trespass of others. 42 Am J1st Prop § 40. The right to dispose of a thing as one pleases, provided the rights of others are not thereby infringed or some law violated. See Higgins Oil & Fuel Co. v Guaranty Oil Co. 145 La 233, 82 So 206, 5 ALR 411, 414.

See owner; title.

ownership-in-place theory. The principle followed in a number of jurisdictions that oil and gas in place belong to the owner of the land and that he can convey and encumber them the same as any other mineral estate, subject, of course, to the possibility of their escape and resultant loss of title. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 4.

owner's risk. A term employed by common carriers in bills of lading and shipping receipts to signify that the carrier does not assume responsibility for the safety of the goods. Morrison v Phillips & Colby Constr. Co. 44 Wis 405.

own motion. A disposition made in a pending case by the court, without application made therefor by either party, as where a case is continued without application made therefor, because the judge is needed immediately for the trial of a case of first importance in another division of the court.

own self. See self.

own up. Slang for admitting or confessing.

ox. Any animal within the class known as cattle, but particularly one of a type used in some parts of the world, formerly in this country, as a draft animal. A refined word for bull. Slang for a big boy or man.

oxen. Plural of ox.

oxfield. A restitution made by a hundred for an injury which was committed therein.

oxgang. The maximum quantity of land which was tillable by one ox; a quantity reckoned at between thirteen to fifteen acres.

ox-land. Same as oxgang.

oyer. To hear. The right to hear an instrument read. A hearing at common law on a bail bond. 8 Am J2d Bail § 154.

oyer and terminer. A special or extraordinary commission which the king sometimes issued upon urgent occasions to try those criminal cases which stood in need of immediate prosecution. See 3 Bl Comm 270.

oyez. Hear ye.

oyster. A marine mollusk, relished as food by most people. Figuratively, a source of benefit or advantage.
See shellfish.

oystery. An oyster bed privately cultivated for the production of oysters commercially. A particular kind of fishing, included in a right of fishery. Moulton v Libbey, 37 Me 472.

P

p. Abbreviation of page.

P. Roman numeral for 400.

p.a. Abbreviation of per annum.

paage. Same as pedage.

pacare. To pay.

pacatio. A payment.

pacato solo. See in pacato solo.

pace. A linear measure of two and one-half feet. A step.

Paceatur. Let him be released or discharged.

pace et imprisonmento. See de pace et imprisonmento.

pace et legalitate tuenda. See de pace et legalitate tuenda.

pace et plagis. See de pace et plagis.

pace et roberia. See de pace et roberia.

pace infracta. See de pace infracta.

pacific blockade. An interdiction of commerce with another nation, declared by way of retaliation or retorsion. 30 Am J Rev ed Internal L § 53.

Pacific Railroad Act. The federal statute of July 1, 1862, the purpose of which was to aid in the construction, maintenance, and operation of railroad and telegraph lines over routes specified, to promote the public interest and welfare, and to secure to the government the use of the same for postal, military, and other purposes. 52 Am J1st Teleg & T § 26.

Pacific time. One of the belts of standard time.

See standard time.

pacifist. One opposed to war or the use of force against another nation or another people.

The word is also used and understood to mean one who refuses or is unwilling for any purpose to bear arms because of conscientious considerations and who is disposed to encourage others in such refusal. United States v Schwimmer, 279 US 644, 73 L Ed 889, 49 S Ct 448.

Paci sunt maxime contraria, vis et injuria. Violence and injury are the greatest opponents of peace.

pack. Verb: To place together and prepare for transportation, as to make up a bundle or bale. State v Parsons, 124 Mo 436, 27 SW 1102. To put in a container. To admit more people into a place than it will hold comfortably. To fill a theater, auditorium, or other place of public exhibition or entertainment. Colloquially, in the Midwest, to carry a bundle, basket, or bag. Noun: A package; a bundle. The stores of an expedition carried in vehicles, on the backs of animals, or on the shoulders of men.

package. A bundle or parcel made up of several smaller parcels, combined or bound together in one bale, box, crate, etc. Commonwealth v Schollenberger, 156 Pa 201, 27 A 30. A bundle or bale made up for transportation, sometimes holding only a single article. State v Parsons, 124 Mo 436, 27 SW 1102. Something wrapped, boxed, or crated, rather than merely covered. Anno: 94 ALR2d 1419. Two things: (1) a receptacle of whatever form or character, and (2) the contents thereof. Mexican Petroleum Corp. v South Portland, 121 Me 128, 115 A 900, 26 ALR 965. In reference to misbranding or adulteration of food:—the immediate container of the article intended for consumption by the public. 35 Am J2d Food § 31. As the word appears in the statute respecting the labeling of drugs:—the immediate container of the drug, not the outside wrapping or box containing the parcels made up and intended for sale to the ultimate consumer. Seven Cases v United States, 239 US 510, 60 L Ed 411, 36 S Ct 190.

See original package.

package sale. A sale of liquor in a store in bottle or package, rather than by dispensed drinks.

packer. A person owning, operating, or managing a packinghouse. A corporation engaged in the marketing of meat food products and in the business of manufacturing meats or meat food products for sale or shipment in commerce. United Corp. v Federal Trade Com. (CA4) 110 F2d 473. One who processes and packs goods, particularly articles of food, for preservation and ultimate sale. One employed in placing merchandise or other articles in packages.

Packers and Stockyards Act. A federal statute, enacted in 1921, which imposes conditions upon the right to engage in business as commission men and livestock dealers in stockyards and provides for the regulation of such business in various respects. 7 USC §§ 181 et seq., 201 et seq.

packet. A small parcel. An old term of the postal laws for a written communication on four or more sheets of letter or correspondence-size paper. Williamis v Wells, Fargo & Co. Express (CA8 Ark) 177 F 352.

packinghouse. A place where animals are slaughtered and their carcasses prepared and preserved for ultimate sale as meat products or other products obtained from the carcass. A place where vegetables and fruits are processed and canned.

packing jury. The employment of any means in violation of law for seating upon the jury in a particular case persons whose presence upon the jury is desired in preference to other persons. Strauder v West Virginia, 100 US 303, 309, 25 L Ed 664, 660.

packing price. Raising the price in order to obtain an outrageous profit. Plymouth Dealers Assn. v United States (CA9 Cal) 279 F2d 128.

pact. A compact; a contract; an agreement; a stipulation.

Pacta conventa quae neque contra leges, neque dolo malo inita sunt, omni modo observanda sunt. Agreements which are neither contrary to the laws, nor fraudulently entered into, should be adhered to in every manner. See Broom's Legal Maxims 698

Pacta dant legem contractui. The stipulations furnish the law for the contract.

Pacta privata juri publico derogare non possunt. Private contracts cannot impair public law. Anderson v Eggers, 63 NJ Eq 264, 49 A 578.

[908]

Pacta privata non derogant juri communi. Private agreements do not derogate from common right.

Pacta quae contra leges constitutionesque vel contra bonos mores fiunt, nullam vim habere, indubitati juris est. (Civil law.) It is unquestionably the law that agreements which are made contrary to the laws and the statutes or against good morals, are of no force in law.

Pacta quae turpem causam continent non sunt observanda. Contracts which contain an unlawful consideration will not be enforced.

pact de non alienando. A provision commonly contained in Louisiana mortgages whereby the mortgagee is relieved of making the holder of a subsequent mortgage a party to a suit to foreclose the prior mortgage.

The effect of such a provision in the mortgage is that the subsequent mortgagee must take notice of the proceedings at his peril. He may, however, apply to set aside the sale. 37 Am J1st Mtg § 552.

pacti conventi. See exceptio pacti conventi.

pactio. (Civil law.) A pact; a contract; an agreement; a bargain; a treaty; a covenant.

paction. A pact; a contract; a treaty.

Pactis privatorum juri publico non derogatur. Private contracts do not derogate from public law.

pactitious. Settled by a pact or contract.

Pacto aliquid licitum est, quid sine pacto non admittitur. By agreement a certain thing may be lawful which without the agreement would not be allowed.

pactum. (Civil law.) Same as pactio.

pactum de quota litis. (Civil law.) An agreement by which a person undertook to collect a debt in return for a specified share of the amount collected.

pactum vestitum. (Civil law.) A clothed or vested agreement,—an agreement or promise for which there was no consideration, but which was enforceable because of the formality of its execution. Aller v Aller, 40 NJL 446, 450.

pad. Verb: To fill out a hollow space. To make a cushion. To lengthen a speech or article by the inclusion of the nonessential. To increase an account fraudulently, particularly an expense account. Noun: A cushion. A foundation, as for launching a rocket. A tablet of sheets of paper for writing. A slang term for one's living quarters.

padder. A footpad; a highwayman on foot; a robber. Literally, one who pads.

See pad.

padding payroll. The act of a foreman or other employee in charge of a payroll in allowing unearned time to one or more employees. Anno: 41 ALR 235.

paddy. Rice; a rice field. An effigy of St. Patrick, used in certain parts of Pennsylvania to provoke a riot. Commonwealth v Haines (Pa) 4 Clark 17.

paddy wagon. A police vehicle used for taking arrested persons to jail or to court for arraignment.

padlock laws. Statutes which authorize the courts to order that premises constituting a liquor nuisance may not be occupied or used for any purpose for a specified period of time. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 444.

paga. (Spanish.) Payment.

paganism. The religion of all those persons who have not the true God, but worship idols. Robbin's Religions of All Nations. Hale v Everett, 53 NH 9. In the modern sense, one who does not believe, as do Christians, Moslems, and Jews, in one God.

page. One side of a leaf in a book, magazine, or newspaper.

page cost. An allowance for printing the record on appeal, according to a stated sum per page. 5 Am J2d A & E § 1021.

pagus. A county.

paid. Recompensed by an actual receipt of money or an equivalent in value. Canadian Car & Foundry Co. v American Can Co. (CA2 NY) 258 F 363, 6 ALR 1182, 1191.

paid and satisfied. Paid in fact.

See satisfaction of judgment.

paid reading matter. That part of the content of a newspaper for which money was paid to obtain right of publication. Anno: 35 ALR 12, s. 110 ALR 332.

paid-up addition. The amount of paid-up life insurance purchased, and added to the amount of insurance provided by the policy, by the use of the dividend to which insured was entitled as a single premium. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 648.

paid-up insurance. Life insurance under a policy which shall continue in effect for the full period of the insured's life, the premiums having been fully paid so as to call for no further payment by the insured to keep the policy effective against lapse. Lenon v Mutual Life Ins. Co. 80 Ark 563, 98 SW 117; Hamilton v Mutual Ben. Ins. Co. 109 Ga 381, 382. The amount of insurance which the existing cash surrender value of a life insurance policy will purchase, the same to remain in effect during the full period of the insured's life without payment of additional premiums. 29 Am 1 Rev ed Ins § 619.

paid-up stock. Corporate stock issued upon subscription therefor and full payment of the subscription price. A share in a building and loan association for which the holder has paid in full. 13 Am J2d B & L Assoc § 23.

pain. The sensation one feels when hurt. A protopathic sensation located in the nervous system. 22 Am J2d Damg § 105. Distress of the body or the mind.

See mental anguish; physical suffering; suffering.

paine forte et dure. Same as peine forte et dure.

Paine's Age of Reason. A book written by Thomas Paine, an Englishman, published in 1794, containing statements denying the truth of the Scriptures and the story of Christ. Anno: 14 ALR 888.

pains. Plural of pain. Great effort to please or to accomplish in a most satisfactory manner.

pains and penalties. See bill of pains and penalties.

painter. An artisan. One who paints houses and other structures; a “laborer” for the purposes of an exemption from execution. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 20. An artist. A rope for tying a boat to a wharf.

[909]

painters' colic. Same as lead poisoning.

painter's naphtha. A product of successive distillation of crude oil. United States v Gulf Refining Co. 268 US 542, 547, 69 L Ed 1082, 1086, 45 S Ct 597.

paint stone. A mineral. Hartwell v Camman, 10 NJ Eq 128.

pairing. A practice followed in legislative bodies by members who will be absent from the body for necessity or convenience at a time when a measure is coming up for consideration and vote, whereby a member in favor of the measure and a member opposed to it each agree that in no event will he vote on the measure unless or until the agreement thus made has been terminated.

pairt. See airt and pairt.

pais. The country; the jury; outside of court.

See estoppel in pais; in pais.

paix. Peace.

palabra. See de palabra.

palace car. See stock car.

palace court. An English court of justice which had jurisdiction in all personal actions which arose within twelve miles of the palace of the king.

palagium. A duty which was imposed upon lords of manors for exporting and importing vessels of wine at any of their ports.

palam. (Civil law.) Openly; publicly; without concealment.

Palatinate. A district in West Germany, the name deriving from former rulers known as count palatines.

palatine. Pertaining to a royal palace; possessing royal privileges.

See counties palatine; courts of the counties palatine.

palatium. A palace.

pallio cooperire. The marriage of the parents of an illegitimate child or children followed by a formal adoption of the child or children.

palm off. To palm off means to impose by fraud; to put off by unfair means. Hobart v Young, 63 Vt 363, 21 A 612.

palming off goods The substitution by a dealer of his own or another's goods in the place of those called for by the purchaser, the substitution being made without the latter's consent. 52 Am J1st Tradem § 123.

palmistry. The practice of foretelling the fortune of a person by reading the lines which appear upon the palm of the hand. A crafty science whereby the simple minded are apt to be deceived. 36 Am J2d Fortunetelling § 2.

palm print. An impression left by the lines of the palm of the hand upon a smooth object. Proof of identity where authenticated and compared with other palm prints found at or near the scene of a crime. 29 Am J2d Ev § 770.

palpable. Easily perceptible; plain obvious; manifest; as palpable error in the valuation of property. State ex rel. Pacific Power & L. Co. v Department of Public Works, 143 Wash 67, 254 P 839, 845.

palpable abuse of discretion. A clear, plain, or manifest abuse of discretion. 5 Am J2d A & E § 774.

Panama Canal Act. A federal statute granting powers to the Interstate Commerce Commission with respect to connections between rail and water transportation, whether by the Panama Canal or otherwise. 49 USC § 6(11)(a); 44 Am J1st R R § 281.

Panama Canal Zone. See Canal Zone.

Pandects. The Digests or Pandects, a compilation of the Roman law under Justinian, which was published in the year 533 A. D.

See Florentine Pandects.

pander. A pimp; a procurer.

pandering. The exploitation of the prostitution of females. 42 Am J1st Prost § 3. The acceptance of the earnings of a prostitute. Anno: 74 ALR 314, 320 et seq.

panel. A division of an administrative commission, the membership being divided, but each division having all the jurisdiction and powers of the commission itself. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 196. A list of jurors, comprising the entire number called for jury duty, a particular number required for a particular court, or the number, normally 12, filling the jury box in a particular case. 31 Am J Rev ed Jury § 74.

The word includes the jurors returned upon a special venire to fill out the deficiency after the regular panel has been exhausted. People v Coyodo, 40 Cal 586, 592.

panis. A loaf; a loaf of bread.

panellation. The impaneling of a jury.

paper. See accommodation paper; commercial paper; in paper; judgment paper; paper blockade; paperbook; paper days; paper money; paper office; paper title; ship's papers; valuable papers.

paper-back. A book bound in paper rather than leather or cloth.

paper blockade. A blockade which has been duly proclaimed by the constituted authorities, but which has not been effectively enforced.

paper-book. A printed transcript of the record of a case in the trial court, prepared usually for the convenience of the appellate court.

See paper-back.

paper days. Those days during a term of court on which arguments were heard.

paper levy. The levy of a writ of attachment upon real estate without going on the land. Moore v Walker, 178 Tenn 218, 156 SW2d 439. The levy of an attachment without seizure or the taking of possession of the property intended to be bound by the levy. 6 Am J2d Attach § 296. The levy of an execution made by the mere indorsement thereof upon the writ. 30 Am J2d Exec § 239.

See symbolic levy.

paper money. Money created by public authority, that is, the government, in stamping paper as a medium of payment, indicating the value by denomination, and issuing it to circulate as money. 36 Am J1st Money § 17. Paper that circulates at par without discount. 11 Am J2d B & N § 975.

paper office. An office of the English government where state papers were kept.

[910]

paper patent. A term familiar in the fraternity of patent lawyers. A term applied in scorn or derision in the arguments of patent attorneys to the invention or discovery of the adverse party, meaning that it has never been put into commercial use, never been recognized by the trade, and its possessor has received no royalty for its license. Coltman v Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co. (CA7 Ind) 104 F2d 508.

papers of ship. See ship's papers.

paper title. A title to real estate supported by a chain of conveyances. A title sufficient in support of a plaintiff in ejectment where consisting of a regular chain of title from the government or from some grantor in possession, or a regular chain of title back to the common source from which both plaintiff and his adversary claim. 25 Am J2d eject § 24. A plausible rather than a sound title.

See color of title.

Papist. A somewhat derogatory term for a Roman Catholic. 33 Am J1st L & S § 58. par. Abbreviation of paragraph.

par. Adjective: In the normal or usual condition, especially in reference to a person's health. Average. Noun: A standing of equal status. A fixed value of the money of one country in terms of the value of the money of another country, the exchange rate shifting above or below such fixed value according to the demand in the one country for the currency of the other.

See par value.

parade. A demonstration on street or highway in the marching of persons, the riding of horses the driving of horses or of motor vehicles or vehicles loaded with instruments of war or peace.

paraffin. A hydrocarbon mixture obtained primarily from the distillation of petroleum. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 123.

paraffin wax. Paraffin in the solid state.

parage. Equality of rank, birth, or station; a bride's marriage portion.

paragium. Same as parage.

paragraph. A subdivision, normally indicated by an indent, of a written article, dealing with a particular point of the discussion and preferably unified. A distinct part of a discourse or writing; any section or subdivision of a writing or chapter which relates to a particular point, whether consisting of one or many sentences. Lehmann v Revell, 354 Ill 262, 188 NE 531. In the code pleading of some jurisdictions, a count or integral statement of a cause of action. Bailey v Mosher (CA8 Neb) 63 F 488, 490.

paragraph caption. A heading, appearing at the beginning of a paragraph, more or less indicating the content of the paragraph. Continental Casualty Co. v Trenner (DC Pa) 35 F Supp 643.

parallel. Adjective: Extended in the same direction, and in all parts equidistant; having the same direction or tendency; like; similar. Postal Tel. Cable Co. v Norfolk & Western Railroad Co. 88 Va 920, 926. Noun: A line parallel to the equator. A base line of the government survey of public lands.

See base line.

parallel parking. The parking of a motor vehicle close to and parallel with the curb or side of the highway or street. 7 Am J2d Auto § 232; 8 Am J2d Auto § 813.

parallel railroads. A word of art in statutes concerning the consolidation of railroads. Railroad lines, not necessarily equidistant from each other, but having the same general direction in the same section of the country and therefore likely to come in competition with each other. 44 Am J1st R R § 323.

paralysis. Loss of movement, sometimes of sensation, in a portion or all of the body. Klingbeil v Truesdell, 256 Minn 360, 98 NW2d 134.

paramount. Above all. See 2 Bl Comm 59.

paramount force. See government of paramount force.

paramount right. A superior right.

See eviction by title paramount.

paramount title. A superior title.

See eviction by title paramount.

paramour. A mistress. A lover with whom a woman carries on an illicit relationship. One having an illicit relationship, particularly with a married person. The third party in the triangle presented by infidelity. A word imputing want of chastity. 33 Am J1st L & S § 39.

paranoia. A mental disorder characterized by delusions or hallucinations, 26 Am J1st Homi § 81, particularly delusions of grandeur or persecution. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 3.

A wife's paranoia which created an obsession that her husband was unfaithful to her is not a defense to an action for divorce based on her false accusations of adultery and continual nagging and arguments, where she was able to tell right from wrong. Dochelli v Dochelli, 125 Conn 468, 6 A2d 324.

See insane delusion.

parapherna. Same as paraphernalia.

paraphernalia. At common and civil law, the apparel and ornaments of the wife, suitable and appropriate to her station, which, although being the property of the husband during his life and subject to the claims of his creditors for the satisfaction of such claims and subject to disposal by the husband except by his will, became, on his death, the exclusive property of the widow as against all persons other than the husband's creditors. 26 Am J1st H & W § 53. In equity and under statute, a separate property of the wife. 26 Am J1st H & W § 54.

paraphernal property. A term, particularly of the law of Louisiana, for that part or portion of the property of a married woman which forms no part of the dotal property. Hayes v Pratt, 147 US 550, 37 L Ed 276, 13 S Ct 495.

paraphrasing. Changing the words but reproducing the meaning. Eisenschiml v Fawcett Publications, Inc. (CA7 Ill) 246 F2d 598, Cert den 355 US 907, 2 L Ed 2d 262, 78 S Ct 334.

paratum habeo. I have him ready.—Formal words used in a sheriff's return on a writ for the arrest of a defendant in a civil action.

Paratus est verificare. He is ready to verify; he is prepared to verify.

paravail. See tenant paravail.

parcel. A lot or tract of real estate. Ramsey County v Robert P. Lewis Co. 72 Minn 87, 75 NW 108. A package.

[911]

See baggage; bill of parcels.

parcella terrae. A parcel of land.

parcel post. The fourth class of mail matter, established with intent to provide for the public a means of transmission at moderate rates of articles formerly carried only by express companies at high rates. 41 Am J1st P O § 61.

parcel-post zone. An area prescribed by regulation for the purpose of determining the rate to be charged for a parcel mailed to be carried as parcel post, there being a number of such areas, each progressively farther from the office in which a parcel is mailed and numbered accordingly. 41 Am J1st P O § 61.

parcenary. Same as coparcenary.

parcener. Same as coparcener.

parchment. The skin of an animal prepared as a surface for writing. A fine paper prepared in imitation of a parchment of skin. An instrument or document written on parchment.

parco fracto. Poundbreach; the breaking of a pound to permit impounded animals to escape.

parcus. A park; a cattle pound.

par delictum. Equal wrong; equal fault.

pardon. Forgiveness, release, or remission. An act of grace proceeding from the power entrusted with the execution of laws, which exempts the individual on whom it is bestowed from the punishment the law inflicts for a crime he has committed. 39 Am J1st Pard § 4. A declaration on record by the chief magistrate of a state or country that a person named is relieved from the legal consequences of a specific crime. Biddle v Perovich, 274 US 480, 71 L Ed 1161 47 S Ct 664, 52 ALR 832; Lime v Blagg, 345 Mo 1, 131 SW2d 583. A complete release from the control of the state imposed because of the offense. Re Anderson, 191 Or 49, 229 P2d 633, 230 P2d 770, 29 ALR2d 1051, 1073.

pardoning power. The power to grant pardons; an executive power, as it usually exists, but a power within the control of the people and to be conferred by them upon such officer or officers as they see fit. 39 Am J1st Pard § 12.

paree. See execution paree.

parens. (Roman law.) A parent; any relative in the direct ascending line.

Parens est nomen generale ad omne genus cognationis. "Parens" is a general name for every kind of relationship.

parens patriae. The parent of the country.

parens patriae doctrine. The doctrine that all orphans, dependent children, and incompetent persons, are within the special protection, and under the control, of the state. 27 Am J1st Inf § 101.

parent. The father or mother. 39 Am J1st P & C § 2. In common parlance, the lawful father or mother by blood. Foreman v Henry, 87 Okla 272, 210 P 1026.

See person in loco parentis.

parentage. Parenthood, the state of being a parent.

Descent. Family origin. The state of being in a direct ascending line of relationship.

parent corporation. A corporation which owns all or the majority of the stock of another corporation so that the latter stands in the relation to it of a subsidiary. 18 Am J2d Corp § 17.

parent country. See mother country.

parenthesis. Additional words or clauses, marked off by commas, brackets, dashes, or curved lines, added to a sentence complete in grammatical construction by way of explanation or comment. In an earlier and narrower sense, a mark or sign used in punctuation, thus ( ), generally to indicate that the clause or words thus marked or included between such signs are not essential in the construction of the sentence. Early v Wilkinson & Hunt, 50 Va (9 Gratt) 68.

parenthetical statement. See parenthesis.

parenticide. Homicide in the killing of a parent. One who commits homicide in killing a parent. parent of the country. See parens patriae.

parent state. The state of incorporation of a corporation which has the status of a foreign corporation in another or other states.

See mother state.

Parentum est liberos alere etiam nothos. It is the duty of parents to support their children, even the illegitimate ones.

pares. Peers; equals; persons of equal rank, dignity or station.

pares curiae. Same as pares curtis. See 2 Bl Comm 54.

pares curtis. Peers of the court. Peers bound to attend court.

Pares debent interesse investiturae feudi, et non alii. The peers or vassals of the lord should be present at the investiture of a fee, and no others. See 2 Bl Comm 315.

pareisis. A general breaking down of the nervous system; a wasting away of the brain tissue from syphilis. Lins v Lenhardt, 127 Mo 271, 282.

pares regni. Peers of the realm, reaching the presence of the king. Hurtado v California, 110 US 516, 529, 28 L Ed 232, 236, 4 S Ct 111, 292.

Paria copulantur paribus. Like things unite with like things.

Paribus sententiis reus absolvitur. A defendant is acquitted by equal opinions; that is, where the same number of judges are for and against him.

pari causa. With equal right; on the same footing or basis.

pari delicto. In equal wrong; equally at fault.

See in pari delicto.

parientes. (Spanish.) Relatives.

paries. (Civil law.) The wall of a house.

paries communis. (Civil law.) A party-wall.

parietes. See intra parietes.

[912]

pari materia. See in pari materia.

pari-mutuel. A method of wagering at race tracks, whereby those who bet on the winning horse share the total stakes less a percentage to the management. People v Monroe, 340 Ill 270, 182 NE 439, 85 ALR 605; Utah State Fair Asso. v Green, 68 Utah 251, 249 P 1016, 1028. Bookmaking by machine. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 25. A form of betting on horse races conducted by means of a machine which records the number of bets placed on a particular horse to win, place, or show, the owner of the machine receiving the wagers and giving the bettors tickets or certificates showing which horse they have chosen; the total amount received, less a commission to the owner of the machine, being divided among the winners. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 25.

The machine used in pari-mutuel betting for recording the bets as they are placed and determining the odds from the bets placed. Commonwealth v Samuels, 79 Ky 618, 619.

Statutes have been passed in some states legalizing the pari-mutuel method of betting on horse races, while in others, statutes expressly forbidding such method have been enacted. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 25.

pari-mutuel betting. See pari-mutuel.

pari-mutuel machine. See pari-mutuel.

Par in parem imperium non habet. An equal has no dominion over an equal.

pari passu. Of the same grade; by equal steps; in equal degree.

pari ratione. For like reason; by the same reasoning.

Pari ratione eadem est lex. For a like reason the law is the same. State v Buchanan (Md) 5 Harr & J 317.

Paris Declaration. An international declaration of important points of maritime law made at Paris in 1856.

parish. A political subdivision in Louisiana, corresponding to a county. Re Supervisors of Election (CC Ill) 28 F 840. A corporation established solely for the purpose of maintaining public worship. Milford v Godfrey, 18 Mass (1 Pick) 90, 97. An administrative district of a religious society, headed by a priest or pastor. The members of a church in a parish, considered collectively.

The term in its generic legal sense does not denote any specific religious faith or denomination. Yanow v Seven Oaks Park, Inc. 11 NJ 341, 94 A2d 482, 36 ALR2d 639.

parish apprentices. Children of poor persons apprenticed out by the overseers of the poor to such persons as were thought fitting. See 1 Bl Comm 426.

parish child. A pauper child who is dependent upon the parish for support.

parish church. A local spiritual association or religious society; the building in which the public worship of the inhabitants of a parish is celebrated. Pawlet v Clark (US) 9 Cranch 292, 326, 3 L Ed 735, 747. A consecrated place having attached to it the rites of burial and the administration of the sacraments. 45 Am J1st Reli Soc § 2.

parish constable. A constable whose jurisdiction is confined to a parish.

parish court. A probate court. Simmons v Saul, 138 US 439, 34 L Ed 1054, 11 S Ct 369 (referring to parish court of Louisiana). An inferior English court the jurisdiction of which did not extend outside the parish in which it was held.

parish district. An ecclesiastical division of an English parish.

parish officers. Officers of a parish as a political subdivision; officers of a parish in the sense of a religious district or body. Officers of an English ecclesiastical parish, consisting of constables, churchwardens, and overseers.

paris-mutuel. Same as pari-mutuel.

parity. A yardstick for measuring the prosperity of the farmer, the measurement taken being relative, the purpose being to have the prices of farm products at such levels that such products will have the same purchasing power in terms of goods and services that they had in the so-called base period from 1910 to 1914.3 Am J2d Agri § 28.

Parium eadem est ratio idem jus. In similar cases the reason is the same, the law is the same.

parium iudicium. The judgment of one's peers,—the verdict of a jury of one's peers.

park. A tract of land acquired by a city, town, or other public authority, for ornament, and as a place for the resort of the public for recreation and amusement. 39 Am J1st Pks & S § 2. A tract set apart by the federal government for the enjoyment, health, and comfort of the people, particularly lands of scenic value.

In England, the word, when applied to an inclosed tract of land in the country, signifies that the lands inclosed are the private grounds of the Proprietor. In London, however, as well as in any city in England, the term "park" signifies an open space intended for the recreation and enjoyment of the public, such signification being the same whether the word be used alone, or with some qualifying term, as "Hyde Park," or "Regent's Park." Archer v Salinas City, 93 Cal 43, 28 P 839.

See parking.

park board. See park commission.

park commission. A local, state, sometimes an interstate, administrative body exercising powers in reference to the opening and maintenance of public parks. New York Water Service Corp. v Palisades Interstate Park Com. 14 App Div 2d 794, 220 NYS2d 489; 39 Am J1st Pks & S § 16.

park commissioner. A member of a park commission or park board.

park district. A public corporation or authority established and operating in the acquisition, development, and maintenance of a park. 39 Am J1st Pks & S § 3.

parked. See parking.

parking. A park strip in the street, sometimes between the curb and the sidewalk, sometimes in the middle of the street. The assembling or leaving of things in a place, for example, artillery, vehicles of war, automobiles, or railroad cars, when they are not in use. New Orleans v Lenfant, 126 La 455, 52 So 575. The voluntary act of leaving a vehicle on the street unattended, also the stopping or standing of a vehicle on the street, even though occupied and attended, for a length of time inconsistent with a reasonable use of the street. 7 Am J2d Auto § 231.

The term "parked" is not susceptible of a meaning of momentary hesitation in changing direction of a vehicle. Hartsock v George, 59 Ohio App 249, 12 Ohio Ops 523, 27 Ohio L Abs 65, 17 NE2d 667.

[913]

parking area. A place set apart close to an industrial plant, place of business, hospital, stadium, etc. where customers, employees, and visitors may park their automobiles.

parking facility. See parking area; parking lot.

parking lot. A place for the parking of motor vehicles, usually for a charge. Ex parte Mobile Light & Railroad Co. 211 Ala 525, 101 So 177, 34 ALR 921, 923. A place off the streets where automobiles may be parked, that is, left under the care of the proprietor of the place. A place where automobiles may be driven, left parked or standing, and removed by the owner at pleasure, normally operated for compensation in the form of a fee for the privilege of parking. 24 Am J1st Garag § 3.

parking meter. A meter placed along the curb of a street or in a public parking place wherein coins may be inserted for the purpose of paying for parking space for a time measured and demonstrated automatically by the instrumentality. 7 Am J2d Auto § 238.

parking on the highway. The voluntary act of leaving an automobile on the highway when not in use. A wrecked car, with passengers in it and the outside wheels in the ditch, is not so parked. Kastler v Tures, 191 Wis 120, 124, 210 NW 415, 417.

See parking.

parking place. See parking area; parking lot.

parking station. A parking lot operated for compensation in the form of payments in amounts scaled according to the time the parked car is left at the station.

See parking lot.

park strip. A portion of a street or other public way, either between the curb and the sidewalk or in the middle of the way, in which grass, flowers, bushes, even small trees may be grown, for the purpose of ornamentation. 25 Am J1st High § 72. A comparatively narrow strip of land, lying within the borders and part of a single street, withdrawn from travel and ordinary street uses and devoted to ornamental purposes and perhaps in a small degree to those of rest and recreation. Kupelian v Andrews, 233 NY 278, 135 NE 502.

parkway. A boulevard. A highway designed especially for travel for pleasure and recreation, although not limited to such use in the absence of express regulation to that effect. 25 Am J1st High § 6. A term sometimes used for park strip.

Parle hill. A hill where English courts were anciently held.

parler le ment. To speak the mind. See 1 Bl Comm 146.

Parliament. The legislative department of the English government, consisting of the House of Lords and the House of Commons.

parliamentary. Relating or pertaining to the English parliament; relating or pertaining to legislation or to a legislature.

parliamentary agents. Professional lobbyists, in the employ of private persons and corporations, who exert themselves among the members of parliament in the interest of legislation favorable to their constituents, but in a strictly lawful manner.

parliamentary bill. A draft or skeleton of a statute.

parliamentary divorce. A divorce granted by an act of the legislature. Cooper v Telfair (US) 4 Dall 14, 1 L Ed 721. A divorce granted by the British Parliament. Closson v Closson, 30 Wyo 1, 215 P 285, 29 ALR 1371.

parliamentary law. The body of law which governs the conduct of the meeting of a legislative body.

Such rules are quite different from constitutional provisions which the people have set up as defining and limiting the powers and duties of the legislature. The former are subject to revocation and modification at the pleasure of the body creating them, while the latter are the law of its being, and prescribe the terms upon which it has power to act at all. See Landes v State, 160 Ind 479, 489, 67 NE 189.

parliamentary rules. The rules adopted by an organization to control the conduct of its meetings, such as those applicable to the annual meeting of a religious body, to the conduct of the convention of a veterans' organization, or to a literary society.

See parliamentary law.

parliamentary taxes. Taxes which are imposed by a direct statutory act of the English parliament.

parliamentary will. The so-called will of one who has made no will at all, that is, the so-called intestate laws which provide for the passing of title to the property of one who died without leaving a will to such person or persons as the lawmakers, in their judgment and wisdom, have thought best entitled thereto. Kohny v Dunbar, 21 Idaho 258, 121 P 544.

parliament of dunces. A name which was given to the parliament of 1404, in the reign of Henry the Fourth, and from which all lawyers were excluded.

parliamentum indoctum. Same as parliament of dunces.

parliamentum insanum. Same as mad parliament.

parlor car. A car upon a train for the accommodation of first-class passengers, where beverages and like refreshments may be obtained.

paroche. A parish. Same as parochia.

parochia. A parish.

Parochia est locus quo degit populus alicujus ecclesiae. A parish is the place in which the people of a certain church reside.

parochial. Of or pertaining to a parish; confined or restricted to a parish, without reference to any specific religious faith or denomination. Yanow v Seven Oaks Park, Inc. 11 NJ 341, 94 A2d 482, 36 ALR2d 639. Provincial.

parochial church. Same as parish church.

parochial school. A school maintained by a church or religious body, coupling religious instruction with instruction as given in the public schools. Yanow v Seven Oaks Park, Inc. 11 NJ 341, 94 A2d 482, 36 ALR2d 639.

See sectarian school.

parody. A reproduction or representation of a literary or dramatic work in structure with changes in the names of characters, also in the situations represented, usually for the sake of comedy. 18 Am J2d

[914]

Copyr § 105. The reproduction of a musical work with changes intended to create humor.

par of exchange. The value of the money of one country in that of another; the relative melting value of the gold coins of each of two nations. Murphy v Kastner, 50 NJ Eq 214, 220, 24 A 564.

parol. Oral; by word of mouth. Extrinsic to a writing.

See terms and expressions following which begin parol; also words and expressions beginning oral.

parol agreement. See parol contract.

parol assignment. An assignment of a claim, right, or chose in action made without a writing. 6 Am J2d Assign § 84.

parol authority. The authority of an agent conferred without a writing. 3 Am J2d Agency § 70.

parol contract. In the usual and more simple sense of the term, a contract not in writing; an oral contract. In a technical sense, a simple contract, that is, a contract which, although it may be in writing, is not under seal, is not a specialty. Perrine v Cheeseman, 11 NJL 174; Ballard v Walker (NY) 3 Johns Cas 60, 65.

parol contract of insurance. A contract which is complete in its terms and complies with all the requirements imposed by law in the making of a contract of insurance, except that it is not in writing as may be required by charter provision or statute. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 189.

parol demur; See demurrer ore tenus; the parol demur.

parole. The release of a prisoner of war upon condition, particularly that he will not, unless exchanged, engage in the armed forces against the country which had taken him prisoner, during the pendency of the war. The release of a convict from imprisonment upon certain conditions to be observed by him. Crooks v Sanders, 123 SC 28, 115 SE 760, 28 ALR 940.

Parole is not an act of clemency, but a penological measure for the disciplinary treatment of prisoners who seem capable of rehabilitation outside of prison walls. It does not set aside or affect the sentence; the convict remains in the legal custody of the state and under the control of its agents, subject at any time, for breach of condition, to be returned to the penal institution. Re Anderson, 191 Or 49, 229 P2d 633, 230 P2d 770, 29 ALR2d 1051, 1073.

parole board. An administrative board provided by statute for considering applications for parole and, according to the terms of the statute, granting or denying a parole or making recommendation to the Governor as to the disposition of the application. 39 Am J1st Pard § 86.

parole system. The system whereby the policy of paroling prisoners is administered, usually based in part upon statutory provisions for indeterminate sentences.

See indeterminate sentence.

parol evidence. The oral or verbal testimony of a witness. See 3 Bl Comm 369. Precisely, evidence of matters not contained in the writing, whether oral utterance or other writing, offered as proof of terms and conditions of a contract in writing. 30 Am J2d Ev § 1016.

parol evidence rule. The rule which excludes evidence of prior or contemporaneous oral agreements which would vary a written contract. Garrett v Ellison, 93 Utah 184, 72 P2d 449, 129 ALR 666. The rule that the intention of the parties as evidenced by the legal import of the language of a valid written contract cannot ordinarily be varied by parol proof of a different intention. The rule, correctly regarded as a matter of substantive law, that the purposeful act of embodying all the terms of an agreement in a writing produces the contract of the parties, a single and final memorial of the understanding of the parties which must stand in exclusion of prior or contemporaneous negotiations. 30 Am J2d Ev § 1016.

parol gift. A gift of personal property made without incorporation of terms in a written instrument, evidenced by the manual delivery of the property. 24 Am J1st Gifts § 24. A gift of land without deed or other conveyance. Burris v Landers, 114 Cal 310, 46 P 162. A gift of land rendered ineffective by the statute of frauds, except as the delivery of possession to, and the making of valuable and permanent improvements by, the donee render the gift enforceable notwithstanding its parol character. 24 Am J1st Gifts § 68.

parol lease. A lease not in writing signed by the lessor. 32 Am J1st L & T § 36.

parol license. An authority given to do some act or a series of acts on the land of another, without passing any interest in the land. Hicks Brothers v Swift Creek Mill Co. 133 Ala 411, 31 So 947.

parol may demur. See the parol demur.

parol partition. A division of lands by common consent by coparceners or tenants in common without any writing. Before the statute of frauds was enacted (1677) such a partition was valid and binding, and tenants in common might make partition by parol if it were accompanied with livery of seisin in severalty, and parceners might make partition by parol generally. The authorities are in conflict as to whether such a partition is valid under the statute of frauds. In some states statutes specifically require a writing. 40 Am J1st Partit § 18.

parol representation. A representation by words, acts and conduct, by arts or artifices. 23 Am J1st Fraud § 24.

Parols font plea. Words make the plea.

parol will. A nuncupative will. The informal will of a soldier or sailor. 57 Am J1st Wills § 220.

See nuncupative will.

par oneri. Equal to the burden.

parricide. The murder of one's parent; a person who is guilty of the murder of his parent.

parricidium. (Civil law.) The murder of a parent or any near relation.

pars. A part; a party; a party to an action; a function; a duty.

Parsee. One of a religious sect, the members of which are to be found for the most part in India, which constitutes a remnant of the followers of the ancient religion of Persia established by Zoroaster. Wadia v United States (CA2 NY) 101 F2d 7.

pars ejusdem negotii. A part of the same transaction or business.

pars enitia. The part or share of the eldest.

[915]

pars fundi. A part of the soil.

pars gravata. The party aggrieved.

Pars illa communis accrescit superstitibus, de persona in personam, usque ad ultimam superstitem. That common part accumulates to the survivors from person to person, down to the last survivor. See 2 Bl Comm 184.

pars judicis. The part, function, or duty of a judge.

parson. A pastor; a minister of the gospel or clergyman in charge of a church or parish. A man who, under the English ecclesiastical system had full possession of all the rights of a parochial church.

He was called parson, persona, because by his person the church, an invisible body, was represented; and he is in himself a body corporate, in order to protect and defend the rights of the church, which he personates, by a perpetual succession. He is sometimes called the rector, or governor, of the church. See 1 Bl Comm 384.

parsonage. A dwelling house occupied by the pastor of a church, ordinarily owned by the church. 45 Am J1st Relig Soc § 30.

When a church has acquired all the ecclesiastical rights it becomes, in the language of law, a rectory or parsonage, which consists of a glebe, tithes, and oblations established for the maintenance of the parson or rector to have cure of souls within the parish. Pawlet v Clark (US) 9 Cranch 292, 326, 3 L Ed 735, 747.

parsonage tithes. Tithes belonging to the rector of a parish.

parson imparsonee. Same as persona impersonata.

pars pro toto. A part for the whole. Jennings v Insurance Co. of Pennsylvania (Pa) 4 Binn 244.

pars rationabilis. A reasonable part or share. See 2 Bl Comm 491.

pars rea. A party defendant.

pars viscerum matris. Part of the insides of the mother,—that is, not yet born.

part. A portion; a share; a side; a faction. A division of a court established for cases of a distinct character, as equity part.

part and pertinent. Appurtenant; belonging to.

parte. One side; one party.

parte inaudita. One party not having been heard; ex parte.

Partem aliquam recte intelligere nemo potest antequam totum iterum atque iterum perlegerit. No one can properly understand a part of anything until he has read over the whole again and again.

parte materna. See ex parte materna.

parte non comparente. A party not appearing,—that is, a party in default.

parte paterna. See ex parte paterna.

Parte quacumque integrante sublata tollitur totum. An integral part having been taken away, the whole disappears.

partes. Parties.

Partes finis nihil habuerunt. The parties to the fine had no interest; a plea used to defeat a fine levied by a stranger. See 2 Bl Comm 357.

partial. Biased; prejudiced. Affecting or relating to a part.

See pro tanto.

partial acceptance. An acceptance of a bill of exchange by which the drawee accepts for part only of the amount for which the bill is drawn; a qualified acceptance. 11 Am J2d B & N § 517. An acceptance of a part of the property offered for dedication, the remainder being rejected. 23 Am J2d Ded § 46.

partial ademption. See pro tanto ademption.

partial appointment. The exercise of a power of appointment in reference to a fund without exercising the whole power at one time, applying the power to a portion of the fund or property. 41 Am J1st Pow § 73.

partial assignment. An assignment by a debtor of a part of his property for the benefit of creditors. 6 Am J2d Assign § 39. The splitting of an entire claim or debt arising out of a single transaction and making a part of the claim or debt the subject of an assignment, such being valid at common law only with the consent of the debtor, since he has a right to pay his debt in one lump sum and to refuse to be subjected to suits by more than one claimant. 3 Williston, Contracts 3d ed § 442; 6 Am J2d Assign § 76.

The reasons obtaining at common law for refusing to enforce a partial assignment do not apply in equity, or in jurisdictions with modern practice acts or rules, where the procedure contemplates that all interested persons be made parties and their rights determined by a single decree. 6 Am J2d Assign § 77.

partial breach. The result of a party's failure to perform fully or substantially. 17 Am J2d Contr § 446.

partial condemnation. The taking of a part of a tract or lot of land under the power of eminent domain. 27 Am J2d Em D § 269.

partial custody. Part-time custody of a child awarded in an action for divorce.

partial delivery. A delivery or tender by the seller of only a part of the goods or commodities constituting the subject matter of sale. 46 Am J1st Sales § 218.

partial dependency. The status of a person who depends upon another for part of his support and maintenance. The status of a person who has some means but not sufficient for his support. Utah Fuel Co. v Industrial Com. 80 Utah 301, 86 ALR 858, 15 P2d 297.

partial disability. A disability resulting in only a partial loss of earning power, the claimant still being capable of performing remunerative employment. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 283. Physical power in part only or physical inability in part of injured member. Fidelity Union Casualty Co. v Munday (Tex Civ App) 26 SW2d 676. A physical disability less than total; in contradistinction to total disability. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1515.

partial disclosure. A fraud where accompanied with the wilful concealment of material and qualifying facts. 23 Am J1st Fraud § 86.

[916]

partial dismissal of appeal. A dismissal of appeal as to some of the parties or some of the issues. 5 Am J2d A & E § 923.

partial distribution. An interim distribution by an executor or administrator, that is, a distribution made of funds available for distribution without waiting until the entire estate is available and ready for distribution. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 555.

partial emancipation. The act of a parent in authorizing his minor child to make its own contract of service, and to collect and spend its wages, but retaining custody and control of the child. Lufkin v Harvey, 131 Minn 238, 154 NW 1097. The release of a minor child by the parent as to a part of the period of minority or a part of the rights of the parent in reference to care, custody, and control of the minor. Porter v Powell, 79 Iowa 151, 44 NW 295.

partial embargo. See embargo.

partial eviction. An eviction of a tenant from a part of the premises. 32 Am J1st L & T § 480.

To constitute a partial eviction which will operate as a suspension of rent, there must be either an actual expulsion of the tenant, or some act of a permanent character, done by the landlord with the intention and effect of depriving the tenant of the enjoyment of some part of the demised premises, to which he yields, abandoning possession within a reasonable time. Bartlett v Farrington, 120 Mass 284.

partial failure of consideration. The failure of a party to a contract to receive all that was due him under the terms of the contract. A defense pro tanto; an excuse for nonperformance by the other party where there is no substantial consideration left in support of the promise of the other party. 17 Am J2d Contr § 100. Recognizable only as the part is determinable. 11 Am J2d B & N § 658.

See partial want of consideration.

partial illegality. See partial invalidity.

partial incapacity. See partial disability; partial insanity.

partial insanity. A condition of mind characterized by some derangement. A condition wherein the mind is haunted or weakened, but is not entirely incapable of remembering, reasoning or judging. State v Jones, 50 NH 369. Another term for insane delusion. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 41. A concept without basis from the standpoint of the right and wrong test of criminal responsibility. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 40.

The doctrine has been advanced by some text writers that partial insanity may be a mitigating element in determining the degree of homicide of which the accused may be convicted. The general rule, however, appears to be that insanity, when interposed as a defense in a criminal prosecution is either a complete defense or none at all. 26 Am J1st Homi § 105.

partial integration rule. The rule that where the entire agreement has not been reduced to writing, parol evidence to prove the part not reduced is admissible although not admissible as to the part reduced to writing. 12 Am J2d B & N § 1243; 30 Am J2d Ev § 1043. The merger or extinguishment of the provisions of a land contract in the deed executed in the performance of the contract by the vendor, subject to covenants and stipulations not intended to be incorporated in the deed or not necessarily performed and satisfied by the execution and delivery of the conveyance. 55 Am J1st V & P § 328.

partial intestacy. The condition of the estate of a testate decedent in reference to property owned by him but not disposed of by the will.

partial invalidity. The invalidity of a part of a municipal ordinance, such being sufficient to invalidate the entire ordinance where it has a general influence over the rest of the ordinance. 37 Am J1st Mon Corp § 167. The characteristic quality of a statute which is constitutional in part and unconstitutional in another part. 50 Am J1st Stat § 474. The unconstitutionality of a statute in part, the effect of which upon the remainder of the statute depends upon the severability of the invalid part from the remainder. 16 Am J2d Const L § 181. The characteristic quality of a contract which contains an illegal provision among legal provisions. 17 Am J2d Contr § 230.

See divisible contract; severability of statute.

partiality. Bias; prejudice.

partial law. A law which embraces within its provisions only a portion of those persons who exist in the same state and are surrounded by like circumstances. Hatcher v State, 80 Tenn (12 Lea) 368.

partial liquidation. Literally, a liquidation which does not dispose of all the property or wind up all the affairs of a corporation or an insolvent. Technically, a proceeding involving the surrender by a corporation of a portion of its capital. Smith v Dana, 77 Conn 543, 60 A 117.

partial loss. A loss of the use of a member of the body for some purposes. Partial disability in health, mind, or person. 22 Am J2d Damg § 117. The destruction of a part of insured property. The loss at sea of a part of the cargo.

See general average; particular average.

partially disclosed principal. The principal, for whom an agent acts, whose identity is not known to the person who deals with the agent, such person knowing or having reason to know that the person with whom he deals is or may be acting for a principal. Dodge v Blood, 299 Mich 364, 300 NW 121, 138 ALR 822; Williston, Contracts 3d ed § 283; Restatement, Agency 2d ed § 4.

partial manufacture. A term pertaining to the imposition of customs duties. A mere stage in the development of material toward an ultimate and predestined product. Tide Water Oil Co. v United States, 171 US 210, 43 L Ed 139, 18 S Ct 837.

partial negotiation. An attempt to transfer, by endorsement of a bill or note, a part only of the amount payable, or an attempt to transfer the instrument to two or more indorsees severally. 11 Am J2d B & N § 320.

partial pardon. A pardon which remits only a portion of the punishment or absolves the convicted person from only a portion of the legal consequences of the crime. Warren v State, 127 Tex Crim 71, 74 SW2d 1006.

partial payment. A payment of a part of the obligation owing. An instalment payment.

A payment of interest is a "partial payment" within the provisions of a statute barring partial payments from tolling or extending the limitation period for mortgage foreclosure. Weekes v Rumbaugh, 144 Neb 103, 12 NW2d 636, 150 ALR 129.

partial performance. See part performance.

[917]

partial probate. The probate of only the valid portions of a will which contains invalid clauses. 57 Am J1st Wills § 782.

partial release. A release of the condition upon which an estate was granted, superficially a partial release, but having effect under the rule in Dumpor's Case, to eliminate the condition entirely. 28 Am J2d Est § 169.

partial restraint of trade. See restraint of trade.

partial restraint on alienation. A restraint on alienation other than an unqualified restraint, such as a restriction upon alienation to a particular person or persons or within a certain period of time. 41 Am J1st Perp § 75.

partial reversal. A reversal on appeal as to less than all the parties or as to less than all the issues. 5 Am J2d A & E §§ 949, 950, 953.

partial unconstitutionality. See partial invalidity.

partial verdict. A verdict in a criminal case prosecuted under an indictment containing several counts, wherein the accused is found guilty on some of the counts, without mention of the remaining counts. Jolly v United States, 170 US 402, 42 L Ed 1085, 18 S Ct 624.

partial waiver. A waiver of the condition upon which an estate was granted, superficially a partial waiver, but having the effect under the rule in Dumpor's Case, to eliminate the condition entirely. 28 Am J2d Est § 168.

partial want of consideration. The situation where an instrument is given in part for a valuable consideration and in part as a gift. Anno: 161 ALR 1372, 1378; 11 Am J2d B & N § 244.

See partial failure of consideration.

partial zoning. Zoning ordinances applicable to only a part of the entire area within the limits of the municipality. 58 Am J1st Zon § 34.

partible. Capable of being separated, divided, partitioned, or portioned out.

particeps criminis. A party to the crime. One who participated in some manner in the commission of a crime.

The term, which, in common acceptance, means an act that may be visited by an indictment, or other criminal prosecution, applies also to other transactions contrary to good morals, whether they be immoral per se, or prohibited by statute under a penalty, or by a simple prohibition, or as militating against the policy of a statute, or fraud, or other corrupt contract. Johnson v Cooper, 10 Tenn (2 Yerg) 524.

particeps doli. A party to the fraud.

Particeps plures sunt quasi unum corpus in eo quod unum jus habent et oportet quod corpus sit integrum, et quod in nulla parte sit defectus. Many parceners are, as it were, one body, in this respect; that they have one right and it is necessary that the body be perfect, and that there be no defect in any part.

participate. To receive or have a part or share of; to partake of; to experience in common with others; to have or enjoy a part or share in common with others; to partake; as to participate in a discussion; to take part in; as to participate in joys and sorrows. Bew v Travelers' Ins. Co. 95 NJL 533, 112 A 859, 14 ALR 983, 984.

Participating and assenting both imply affirmative action of some sort, as distinguished from mere silence and inaction. See Mason v Moore, 73 Ohio St 275, 76 NE 932.

participating in aeronautics. Managing and controlling an airplane in flight or making the decisions regarding the flight and directing another or others directly in control of the plane. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1265.

While the earlier cases held that a passenger "participates in aeronautics" within the meaning of an aviation exclusion clause in a life or accident insurance policy, the modern trend of authority is distinctly to the contrary. Anno: 45 ALR2d 462; 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1265.

participating in crime. See participation in crime.

participating policy. A policy of insurance which entitles the holder to share in the profits of the insurer by way of dividends.

participating share. A share in a security or securities constituting a single investment of funds of several individual trusts. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 396.

participation. The act or fact of partaking, having or forming part of; the fact or condition of sharing in common with others; associating or sharing with others in some act or matter. Smith v Mutual Ben. Health & Acci. Asso. 175 Kan 68, 258 P2d 993, 45 ALR2d 456.

participation agreement. An agreement in the trust instrument or bylaw of a business trust organized for the purpose of producing oil, entitling the holder to a certain share of the oil produced. 13 Am J2d Bus Tr § 23.

participation in aeronautics. See participating in aeronautics.

participation in crime. Engaging in the commission of a criminal offense as a principal or as an accessory, alder, or abettor. 21 Am J2d Crim L §§ 115 et seq.

participation in labor dispute. As disqualification for unemployment compensation, an active involvement, such as picketing. Tube Reducing Corp. v Unemployment Compensation Com. 136 NJL 410, 56 A2d 596, affd 1 NJ 177, 62 A2d 473, 5 ALR2d 855.

participation rights. See rights.

particula. A small parcel of land.

particular agent. An agent authorized by his principal to do one or two particular things. Ruby v Talbott, 5 NM 251, 21 P 72.
See special agent.

particular average. A term used in contradistinction to general average, denoting a loss on vessel, cargo, or freight, to be borne by the owner of the particular subject or interest upon which it happens. 48 Am J1st Ship § 621. A term generally regarded as synonymous with "partial loss" when used in a limitation of liability in a marine insurance policy. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1585.

See free from average unless general; free from particular average.

particular averment. An allegation or pleading of a particular fact.

particular custom. A custom confined to a county, city, town, parish, or other locality, its existence to be determined as a matter of fact upon proof. Bodfish v Fox, 23 Me 90.

[918]

particular estate. A term of art in the law of estates for a life estate or estate for years which precedes a future estate or interest, especially where the future estate is a remainder. 28 Am J1st Est § 208.

particular lien. A charge upon a particular piece of property, by which it is held for the payment or discharge of a particular debt or duty. 33 Am J1st Liens § 5.

particular malice. Ill will; grudge; a desire to be revenged on a particular person. State v Long, 117 NC 791, 799, 23 SE 431.

particular pardon. Same as special pardon.

particular power. See particular agent; special power of appointment.

particular preceding estate. See particular estate.

particulars. The items of an account.

See bill of particulars.

particular services. Services rendered by a person in his particular or peculiar profession, art, trade or calling. Buchman v State, 59 Ind 1, 13.

particular strike. A strike against a particular employer rather than against all employers in an industry or territory. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 369.

particular tenant. The holder of a particular estate.

See particular estate.

partido agreement. An agreement of bailment of cattle containing a condition respecting the right to the increase of the cattle during the period of the bailment. Allen v Whiting, 58 Ariz 273, 119 P2d 240; Bowers v Western Livestock Co. (ND) 103 NW2d 109.

parties. See party.

parties' books. Books of original entry, also called "shopkeepers' books," or "shopbooks." 30 Am J2d Ev § 918.

parties to contract. See party; third parties.

parties to a judgment. Strictly speaking, only persons named as parties in the record who are properly served with process or enter their appearance. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 396. For the purposes of the application of the principle of res judicata:—all persons having a direct interest in the subject matter of the suit and having a right to control the proceedings, defend, examine the witnesses, and take an appeal if the case is appealable. Vane v C. Hoffberger Co. 196 Md 450, 77 A2d 152, 22 ALR2d 1450.

partisan feeling. See partisanship.

partisanship. Favoritism toward a party to an action. Prejudice disqualifying a judge. 30A Am J Rev ed Judges § 104.

See bias; political activity; prejudice.

partition. The division made between two or more persons of lands, tenements, hereditaments, or goods and chattels belonging to them as co-owners. Technically, the division of real estate made between coparceners tenants in common, or joint tenants. 40 Am J1st Partit § 2. The action or proceeding through which co-owners of property cause it to be divided into as many shares as there are owners, according to their interests therein, or, if that cannot be done equitably, to be sold for the best obtainable price and the proceeds distributed. Michael v Sphier, 129 Or 413, 272 P 902, 73 ALR 1.

partition commissioners. Commissioners appointed by the court in partition proceedings, whose duty it is to examine the premises, make a preliminary or advisory partition and report back to the court. 40 Am J1st Partit § 76.

partition deed. A deed executed and delivered in effecting a partition of real estate.

See partition.

partitione facienda. See de partitione facienda.

partition fence. A fence erected on the boundary line between the lands of adjoining owners, where there is no road, alley, or the like between the lands. 35 Am J2d Fenc § 6. A common fence, that is, one of which each of the adjoining owners may make use in connection with the use made by him of his premises.

The term does not apply to such fences as may be erected by each proprietor on his own land, though near and parallel to the boundary line. Jeffries v Burgin, 57 Mo 327, 329.

partition sale. A sale of a vessel ordered by an admiralty court. 2 Am J2d Adm § 101. A sale ordered and made in an action for the partition of real estate, where a division of the land into shares according to the several interests of the parties cannot be done equitably, such sale to be made for the best possible price and the proceeds divided in accord with the several interests. Michael v Sphier, 129 Or 413, 272 P 902, 73 ALR 1.

partition wall. A wall which is merely a fence.

"Partition wall" is not a phrase which in legal technology is used to designate a wall used by owners as a party wall. A party wall is such by agreement. Western Granite & Marble Co. v Knickerbocker, 103 Cal 111, 116, 37 P 192.

partner in commendam. A term of the Louisiana law for limited partner. Tatum v Acadian Production Corp. (DC La) 35 F 40.

See limited partnership.

partners. The members of a partnership. Persons who contribute either property or money to carry on a joint business for their common benefit, and who own and share the profits thereof in certain proportions. 40 Am J1st Partn § 2.

partner's equity. See equity of partner.

partnership. An association of two or more persons to carry on as co-owners a business for profit. Uniform Partnership Act § 6. A combination, effected by two or more persons, of capital or personal services for the purpose of conducting a business for their common benefit. The contract of two or more competent persons to place their money, effects, labor, and skill, or some or all of them, in lawful commerce or business, and to divide the profit and bear the loss in certain proportions. 40 Am J1st Partn § 2. But, strictly speaking, a relation or status rather than a contract. Spaulding v Stubbings, 86 Wis 255, 56 NW 469. A distinct legal entity according to some authority; a legal entity for some purposes only, according to other authority. 40 Am J1st Partn § 18. For federal income tax purposes, inclusive of a syndicate, group, pool, joint venture, through or by means of which any business, financial operation, or venture is carried on, and which is not a corporation, an association taxable as a corporation, or a trust or estate. Internal Revenue Code § 761.

[919]

See general partnership; limited partnership; ostensible partner; quasi partner; silent partner.

Partnership Act. One of the uniform laws.

partnership assets. All assets of a partnership applicable to the payment of the partnership debts, under the well-defined principles for the administration of the affairs of insolvent partnerships under the direction of a court of equity. Thayer v Humphrey, 91 Wis 276.

partnership association. A business organization exclusively a creature of statute; a type of artificial person standing halfway between a limited partnership and a corporation. 40 Am J1st Partn § 518. An association in the form of a kind of partnership but departing from a general partnership characterized by unlimited liability of partners, all partners being special partners. 40

Am J1st Partn § 504. An association organized under laws making the capital subscribed alone responsible for the debts of the association; a corporation for the purposes of an adjudication in bankruptcy. 11 USC § 1(8); Bankruptcy Act § 1(8).

partnership goodwill. The advantage which the partnership business has from its establishment or from the patronage of its customers, over and above the mere value of its property and capital.

It rests in the probability that the old customers of the partnership will continue their custom and commend it to others, and it may include the advantages which may be derived from the partners holding themselves out as carrying on the business identified with the name of a particular firm. 40 Am J1st Partn § 109.

partnership inter sese. A real partnership, a partnership characterized by a community of losses, as well as of profits. See Germer v Donaldson (CA3 Pa) 18 F2d 697.

partnership name. The designation or name of a partnership under which it transacts its business.

Such a name may be the name of one or all the members of the firm, or it may be a fictitious name, but the statutes of many jurisdictions required the filing of a certificate setting forth the fact if the names of all the partners are not disclosed in the firm name. 40 Am J1st Partn § 10.

partnership property. That jointly owned property in whatever form which represents the contributions of the several partners toward the capital employed by the firm in its business, plus the earnings, and less the losses, of the firm in its operations. Whitcomb v Converse, 119 Mass 38.

partner's lien. The lien which each member of a partnership may assert upon property belonging to the partnership for the amount of his interest in the partnership, and for advances made by him for the use of the firm. Allen v Hawley, 6 Fla 142. Another term for the equity of a partner. 40 Am J1st Partn § 404.

See equity of partner.

partner's share. The balance to which a partner is entitled after the payment of all the partnership debts and the adjustment of the partnership account between himself and his co-partners. Taft v Schwamb, 80 Ill 289, 300.

See equity of partner.

part owner. One of two or more persons who own property as co-owners. Sexton v Lauman, 244 Iowa 570, 57 NW2d 200, 37 ALR2d 353.

The term is not properly applied to partners, but is in common use in the law to denote a class of persons distinct from partners. Breck v Blair, 129 Mass 127, 128.

See cotenancy; joint tenancy; tenancy in common.

part performance. Performance by a party to a contract which is less in extent than full or substantial performance as measured by the conditions of the agreement. 17 Am J2d Contr §§ 379 et seq. The doctrine that part performance of an oral contract for the sale of real estate has the effect, subject to certain conditions concerning the nature and extent of the act constituting performance and the right to equitable relief generally, of taking such contract from the operation of the statute of frauds, so that equity may decree it specific performance or grant other equitable relief. 49 Am J1st Stat of F § 419. Within the meaning of the equitable doctrine that part performance takes an oral contract out of the operation of the statute of frauds:—such acts as change the plaintiff's position and would result in a fraud, injustice, or hardship upon him, if the contract were not executed or enforced. 49 Am J1st Stat of F § 427.

parts in a set. See bills in a set.

part-time worker. See casual employee.

parturition. Giving birth to a child.

partus. Issue; a child; offspring.

Partus ex legitimo thoro non certius noscit matrem quam genitorem suam. The child or offspring of a legitimate marriage does not know his mother any more certainly than his father.

partus sequitur ventrem. The offspring follows the mother. 4 Am J2d Am § 10.

party. A person who has engaged in a transaction or made an agreement. UCC § 1-201(29). One of the opposing litigants in a judicial proceeding—a person seeking to establish a right or one upon whom it is sought to impose a corresponding duty or liability, including any person by whom or against whom a suit, either at law or in equity, is brought. 39 Am J1st Parties § 4. For the purposes of a right to appeal, persons named as parties in the original pleadings and persons who subsequently come or are brought into the action for the purpose of seeking relief or of being subjected to relief. 4 Am J2d A & E §§ 174, 175. For some purposes, a person interested in the litigation, as well as a party of record, for example, the disqualification of a judge. Anno: 10 ALR2d 1312, or incompetency to testify to a transaction had with a person since deceased. 58 Am J1st Witn § 283. For the purpose of the rule of res judicata, any person who has a direct interest in the subject matter of the suit and has a right to control the proceedings, defend, examine the witnesses, and appeal if an appeal lies. Vane v C. Hoffberger Co. 196 Md 450, 77 A2d 152, 22 ALR2d 1450.

As to who is a party for the purposes of the application of a statute or rule of practice authorizing a physical or mental examination of a party. 23 Am J2d Dep § 226.

See indispensable party; necessary party; political party; proper party.

[920]

party affiliation. Adherence to a political party and support of its candidates for election. 25 Am J2d Elect § 159.

party aggrieved. See aggrieved party.

party candidate. A candidate for election nominated by a political party and running as the candidate of such party. Putnam v Kozer, 119 Or 535, 250 P 625.

party convention. See convention.

party defendant. See defendant.

party in default. See default.

party injured. See injured party.

party in interest. A party to an action who has an actual interest in the controversy, as distinguished from a nominal party.
See interested person.

party interested. See interested person; party in interest.

party jury. Same as jury de medietate linguae.

party litigant. A person named as a party to an action or suit. For some purposes, a party who will really litigate the controversy, as distinguished from one defaulting in the action or consenting to judgment. National Bank v McCrillis, 15 Wash 2d 345, 130 P2d 901, 144 ALR 1197.

party of record. A person formally designated as a party to an action or an appeal, as distinguished from a person who has an interest in the subject matter involved.

party plaintiff. See plaintiff.

party rate. A reduced fare charged by a carrier for persons in a prescribed number traveling as a party, that is, as a group at the same time.

party square. A square on an election ballot which permits the voting of a straight party ticket by one mark only, that is, a mark in the square. 26 Am J2d Elect § 210.

party to a judgment. See parties to a judgment.

party to be charged. A familiar expression in the statute of frauds, meaning the party against whom the contract is sought to be enforced. 49 Am J1st Stat of F § 384.

party wall. A dividing wall for the common benefit and convenience of the tenements which it separates. Lederer v Colonial Invest. Co. 130 Iowa 157, 106 NW 357; Coumas v Transcontinental Garage, Inc. 62 Wyo 99, 230 P2d 748, 41 ALR2d 539. A wall located upon or at the division line between adjoining premises and used, intended to be used or available to be used by both owners of such premises in the construction or maintenance of improvements on their respective tracts. 40 Am J1st Part W § 2.

In order to constitute such a wall, the structure need not stand partly on the land of each adjoining landowner; it may rest entirely on the land of one owner and still have the legal characteristics of a party wall. 40 Am J1st Part W § 2.

Parum cavet natura. Nature takes but little precaution.

Parum cavisse videtur. (Roman law.) He seems to have taken but little care or precaution.

Parum differunt quae re concordant. Those things differ but little which accord in substance.

Parum est latam esse sententiam nisi mandetur executions. A sentence is not sufficiently comprehensive unless it is committed to execution.

Parum proficit scire quid fieri debet, si non cognoscas quomodo sit facturum. It profits but little to understand what ought to be done if you do not know in what manner it should be done.

par value. The value of an instrument for the payment of money as determined by the face of the instrument. The face value of a bond. An amount fixed as the nominal value of a share of corporate stock, such amount indicating the sum of money or value of property or services which a subscriber is represented as having contributed to the corporation in exchange for such share. Randle v Winona Coal Co. 206 Ala 254, 89 So 790, 19 ALR 118; Fort Edward v Fish, 156 NY 363, 370, 371, 50 NE 973.

A sale of bonds at par is a sale at the rate of one dollar in money for one dollar in bonds. This is the accepted meaning in the mercantile world. Ft. Edwards v Fish, 156 NY 363, 50 NE 973.

Par value and the actual value of issued stock are not synonymous; there is often a wide disparity between them. 18 Am J2d Corp § 222.

See nonpar value stock.

parva proditio. Petit treason, the killing of a master by a servant; of a husband by a wife; of a superior by an ecclesiastic.

parva serjeantia. Same as petit sergeanty.

parvum cape. A judicial writ to recover possession of land in a real action in which the tenant had appeared but had made default.

parvum servitium regis. Small service of the king; petit sergeanty.

pas. Precedence; the right to precede.

Pascha. Easter.

pascua silva. (Civil law.) A wooded pasture.

pass. Noun: A short leave of absence for a person in military service. A license to enter a government office, industrial plant, military establishment, or reservation. Permission or license to ride on the conveyance of a carrier without payment of fare. 14 Am J2d Car § 843. A slang expression for attempting familiarity with a female. Verb: To vest in heir or devisee upon death of owner. Estate of Kennedy, 157 Cal 517, 108 P 280.

passage for logs. A passageway over or around a dam whereby logs may be floated and transported. Crookston Waterworks, P. & L. Co. v Sprague, 91 Minn 461, 98 NW 347, 99 NW 420.

passage money. Compensation for the carriage of a passenger on a ship. The Main v Williams, 152 US 122, 129, 38 L Ed 381, 384, 14 S Ct 486.

passage of act. See passage of statute.

passage of statute. The date the act secures the approval of the two houses of the legislature. State v Mounts, 36 W Va 179, 14 SE 407. The date of the approval of the act by the chief executive, or in the absence of his approval, the date of final passage over the veto. 50 Am J1st Stat § 504. Sometimes construed as the effective date of the statute. Consolidated Motors v Skusen, 56 Ariz 481, 109 P2d 41, 132 ALR 1040 (relative to exception of delinquent taxes from interest).

[921]

See final passage.

passageway. A way for entrance or exit. A hallway. A way used for public passage. 25 Am J1st High §3.

passagio. A writ to compel the officers of a port to allow a person who held the permission of the king to depart across the sea.

passagium. A passage; a voyage.

passator. A person having the control of passage on a river.

passbook. A book carried by the customer of a bank in which the teller enters the amount and date of a deposit made. 10 Am J2d Bks § 347. A small account book carried by a shareholder in a building and loan association, showing the state of his account, at least the deposits made by him. Broadly, a book of buyer, customer, or borrower in which the seller, banker, or creditor enters their mutual transactions.

passed dividend. An omitted dividend; a dividend not declared at the time for the declaration of the dividend under former practice of the corporation, especially where the dividend is one payable regularly on preferred stock.

passenger. One riding in a conveyance, as distinguished from one in control of the operation of the vehicle. One who travels in a public conveyance by virtue of contract, express or implied, with the carrier as to payment of fare or that which is accepted as the equivalent of a cash fare. A person whom a common carrier has contracted to carry from one place to another, and has in the course of the performance of that contract received under his care, either upon the means of conveyance, or at the point of departure of that means of conveyance. 14 Am J2d Car § 740. One transported for hire or under a contract with the carrier as distinguished from one riding a train or other conveyance for the purpose of rendering service in connection with the journey. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1253. A person being carried in an elevator or riding on an escalator. 26 Am J2d Elev §§ 23-32, 79.

See guest in aircraft; guest in motor vehicle.

passenger agent. An agent of a railroad company in charge of the passenger business generally or in a particular city or locality. Anno: 113 ALR 87.

passenger car. A railroad car used for the transportation of passengers.

An old passenger car which has been converted into a pay car and is used on the railroad as such is in no sense a passenger car any more than a baggage or mail car could be so considered. Travelers' Ins. Co. v Austin, 116 Ga 264, 42 SE 522.

See passenger motor vehicle.

passenger depot. See depot.

passenger elevator. An elevator for carrying passengers as distinguished from a freight elevator. 26 Am J2d Elev § 2. An elevator so constructed as to be usable only for the carriage of passengers. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1236. An elevator commonly used for the carriage of passengers, whatever the nature of the construction may be and irrespective of whether or not the conveyance is used for both freight and passenger service. Anno: 96 ALR 1411.

passenger motor vehicle. A motor vehicle which, in manner of construction, as well as use, is a vehicle for carrying passengers rather than goods or merchandise. Poncino v Sierra Nevada Life & Casualty Co. 105 Cal App 671, 286 P 729.

See private passenger automobile.

passenger train. A railroad train which carries passengers, their baggage, mail, and express only. Arizona Eastern Railroad Co. v State, 29 Ariz 446, 242 P 870.

pass for cause. To let a juror go unchallenged for cause, leaving open the opportunity for peremptory challenge.

passim. Here and there; indiscriminately.

passing indictment to files. Holding the charge in abeyance; postponement of trial. 27 Am J1st Indict § 23.

passing of act. See passage of statute.

passing of property. See succession; transfer.

passing of title. A transfer of title, voluntary or involuntary.

passing on the right. An offense committed in the operation of a motor vehicle under some statutes and ordinances. 7 Am J2d Auto § 224.

passing vehicle. To go by a vehicle.

As used in a statute requiring motor vehicles to come to a stop before "passing" any school bus which has stopped for the purpose of taking on or discharging school children, the term means to go by, regardless of whether the school bus and the motor vehicle are traveling in the same direction or in the opposite direction at the time when the school bus comes to a stop. Thus a statute contemplates the stopping of motor vehicles approaching from an opposite direction as well as those traveling in the same direction. Fisher v J. H. Sheridan Co. 182 SC 316, 189 SE 356, 108 ALR 981.

See overtaking and passing.

passing vessel. See overtaking and passing.

passion. An intensity of emotion. Hate or love. Sexual desire. Moved by feelings, emotions, or sympathy, without conscious violation of duty. Alabama Gas Co. v Jones, 244 Ala 413, 13 So 2d 873. As an element characterizing the degree of the offense of homicide, rage, anger, resentment, fear, excitement, or nervousness, but of sudden development. 26 Am J2d Homi § 44.

See sudden passion.

passive. Inactive; quiescent; not active; permissive.

passive bond. A noninterest-bearing bond the holder of which is by its terms to have some future advantage or profit from it.

passive concealment. Silence without active suppression of a fact. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 145.

passive connivance. Conduct of the complaining spouse which smoothed the path of the other to the adulterous bed. Vinton v Vinton, 264 Mass 71, 161 NE 817.

passive debt. A debt which bears no interest.

passive indulgence. Failure to proceed against a debtor at a time when the means of collecting against collateral security exists. 50 Am J1st Suret § 115.

passive negligence. Negligence which lies in the failure to act, that is, to do something which one is under a legal obligation to do. 38 Am J1st Negl § 3.

passive participation. Something more than a merely passive attitude toward a conspiracy; a passive consent to the object of the conspiracy and concurring with the purposes of the other conspirators, although actually standing by while the others put the conspiracy into effect. O'Neil v State, 237 Wis 391, 296 NW 96, 135 ALR 719.

[922]

passive receivership. A receivership in which the receiver merely preserves the property, collects the assets, and reports to the court. State Bank v Domestic Sewing Machine Co. 99 Va 411, 39 SE 141.

passive trust. A trust whereof the trustee has no active duties to perform; a trust in which the beneficiary has the entire management of the estate and the retention of legal title is not essential to the performance of any duty imposed upon the trustee. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 13.

See dry trust.

passive use. Same as permissive use.

passive waste. Same as permissive waste.

passport. A formal document issued by a competent officer of a sovereign state or nation to a citizen or subject of the state or nation, certifying his citizenship or allegiance, addressed to foreign powers, and requesting that the bearer of it pass freely and safely. 40 Am J1st Pass § 1. As issued by the United States Secretary of State, a political document by which the bearer is recognized in foreign countries as an American citizen, and which by usage and the law of nations is received as evidence of the fact. Urtetiqui v D'Arbel (US) 9 Pet 692, 699, 9 L Ed 276, 278. A document issued in time of war, under the authority of the government of one of the belligerents, entitling the person to whom it is issued to pass through the country of that belligerent. A document issued in time of war, under the authority of a government which is neutral, entitling a vessel to sail on a proposed voyage to the country of one of the belligerents. The Amiable Isabella (US) 6 Wheat 1, 5 L Ed 191.

past consideration. A consideration given before the making of a promise and without reference to it.

As to sufficiency of a past consideration in support of a promise, see 17 Am J2d Contr §§ 125 et seq.

past due. Overdue. Having run beyond maturity.

See overdue paper.

paster. A small, gummed piece of paper carrying a name, for use in an election in voting for the person named on the paper by inserting the paper in a blank space on the ballot or, as sometimes authorized by statute, by placing the paper over a printed name appearing on the ballot. 26 Am J2d Elect § 269.

pasteurization. The exposure of milk or beer to high temperature for the purpose of destroying noxious bacteria. Pfeffer v Milwaukee, 171 Wis 514, 177 NW 850, 10 ALR 128. A heating of raw milk to the boiling point for the purpose of purification. People ex rel. Empire v Sohmer, 218 NY 199, 112 NE 755.

Pasteur treatment. A method of preventing disease, especially rabies, by inoculation, the name deriving from Louis Pasteur, a French bacteriologist, who first employed it. Buck v Brady, 110 Md 568, 73 A 277.

pastor. A clergyman; a minister of the gospel in charge of a church. An ordained minister of the gospel who has been installed according to the usage of a Christian denomination in charge of a specific church or body of churches. First Presbyterian Church v Myers, 5 Okla 809, 50 P 70.

pasturage. See agistment.

pasture. Verb: To take the cattle or other grazing animals of another on one's land for grazing. Noun: Grass land devoted to the grazing of cattle and other grazing animals.

See admeasurement of pasture; ancient pasture; common of pasture.

pasture bred. Sire unknown.

pastus. Customary provision which was made by feudal tenants for the lord of the manor upon the occasion of his visit to the land.

Pateat universis per praesentes. Know all men by these presents.

patens. See ambiguitas patens.

patent. Adjective: Obvious, evident. Open to view on ordinary inspection. Miller v Moore, 83 Ga 684, 10 SE 360. Noun: A commission evidencing a right, such as a commission entitling one to a public office. A conveyance or grant of public lands, particularly to one who has made a homestead entry and complied with the statutory conditions respecting settlement, residence, cultivation, and payment. 42 Am J1st Pub L § 31. A grant of mineral rights in public lands. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 25. The right of monopoly secured by statute to those who invent or discover new and useful devices and processes. The exclusive right of manufacture, sale, or use secured by statute to one who invents or discovers a new and useful device or process. 40 Am J1st Pat § 2. Verb: To obtain a patent upon an invention.

See patent right.

patentable. Possessing the requisites of utility, novelty, and invention which entitle one to a patent. 40 Am J1st Pat § 21. Referring to a result, together with ingenuity in bringing it about. National Cash Register Co. v Boston Cash Indicator & Recorder Co. 156 US 502, 39 L Ed 511, 15 S Ct 434.

The machine, process or product is but its material reflex and embodiment. It must be new and shown to be of practical utility in order to be patentable. Smith v Nichols (US) 21 Wall 112, 22 L Ed 566.

patentable invention. See patentability.

patentable novelty. A new device produced by the exercise of inventive power and skill. General Electric Co. v DeForest Radio Co. (DC Del) 7 F2d 90.

patentable process. A new and useful method of treatment of certain materials to produce a particular result or product. Holland Furniture Co. v Perkins Glue Co. 277 US 245, 72 L Ed 868, 48 S Ct 474.

patent ambiguity. An uncertainty appearing on the face of an instrument, such that the court, reading the language in the light of all the facts and circumstances referred to in the instrument, is unable to derive therefrom the intention of the parties. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 251. In will:—an ambiguity appearing upon the face of the instrument, for example, a bequest to "some" of the six children of the testator's brother. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1042.

Patent Compensation Board. A board established by the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 to advise the Atomic Energy Commission in reference to the determination of royalty fees, compensation, or awards for the owner of a patent dealing with atomic energy. 42 USC § 2187(a).

[923]

patent danger. An obvious peril. 38 Am J1st Negl § 91.

patent defects. Defects in a subject matter of sale so obvious that a purchaser dealing in person necessarily must see them.

patented claim. A claim to a homestead upon government land upon which a patent has been issued and delivered. A claim to mineral rights in public lands upon which a patent has been issued and delivered. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 25.

See placer claim patent.

patentee. The person to whom letters patent are issued by the government.

patent inside. Content of the inside pages of a newspaper, usually a weekly newspaper, not pertaining to local events or gathered by reporters on the paper, but obtained from an external editorial source. 39 Am J1st Newsp § 8.

patent matter. Same as patent inside.

patent medicine. A medicine compounded by a manufacturer according to his own formula. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 3.

The term does not convey the idea that the medicine is a "patented" medicine. Jacobs v Beecham, 221 US 263, 55 L Ed 729, 31 S CI 555.

Patent Office. A federal bureau located in Washington D. C., headed by the Commissioner of Patents, wherein the merits of an application for a patent are considered and where all records, drawings, models, specifications, and other papers and things pertaining to patents are required by law to be kept and preserved. 40 Am J1st Pat § 10.

patent of precedence. Letters patent granted to certain English barristers as a mark of distinction, and entitling them to certain prerogatives.

patent right. A right under a patent obtained for an invention, held by the patentee or an assignee.

In its usual signification, the term means, a privilege granted by the government to the first inventor of a new and useful discovery or mode of manufacture that he also shall be entitled, during a limited period, to the exclusive use and benefit thereof. In the granting of patents, the Federal Government has never sought to do more, and in fact has never exercised greater authority, than to extend protection to the privilege, such as that granted by a patent for an invention, against the infringement of those who seek to invade it. Crown Cork & Seal Co. v Maryland, 87 Md 687, 40 A 1074.

patent right note. A note given for a patent right. 11 Am J2d B & N § 189.

patent rolls. English records of letters patent.

patent writ. An open or unsealed writ.

pater. A father.

Pater aut mater defuncti, filio non filiae haereditatem reſinquent . . . . Qui defunctus non filios ſed filias relinquerit, ad eas omnis haereditas pertineat. A father or mother having died leave their inheritance to their ſon, not to their daughter . . . . Whoever dying ſhall leave no ſons, but daughters, to them the whole inheritance ſhall belong. See 2 Bl Comm 213.

Pater eſt quem nuptiae demonſtrant. He is the father whom the marriage indicates. 10 Am J2d Baſt § 11.

paterfamilias. The father of a family.

paternal. Belonging to, or proceeding from, the father.

paternal fee. See feudum paternum.

paternal inheritance. An inheritance from or through the father.

paternal power. That parental authority which a father has over his children.

paternal property. That property which has descended from one's father, or from the stock of the father.

paterna paternis. Paternal property descends to paternal descendants.

paternity. The state or condition of being a father; fatherhood.

See presumption of paternity.

paternity proceeding. A proceeding, otherwise known as a bastardy or filiation proceeding, to establish the paternity of a child born out of wedlock and to compel the father to contribute to its support. 10 Am J2d Bast § 74.

paternity test. A scientific test in determining the paternity of a child. A blood-grouping test. 23 Am J2d Dep § 211.

Pater Noster. The Lord's Prayer.

paternum. See feudum paternum.

pater patriae. Same as parens patriae. path. A trail. A way worn by many footsteps. A course taken in traveling. A course of conduct.

See bicycle paths.

pat hand. A hand of draw poker obtained upon the original deal and retained by the player without discard or replacement. An advantage in a prospective controversy.

pathological condition. A diseased condition of the body. Stedmen v United States Mut. Acci. Assn. 123 NY 304, 25 NE 399.

pathological fracture. A bone fracture resulting primarily from a diseased condition.

pathology. The branch of medicine concerned with the nature of disease and the changes in body, bones, and tissues produced by a particular disease. Anno: 135 ALR 885.

pathometer. An instrument for measuring electrical impulses of the human body, employed as a lie detector.

patibulated. Hanged on a gallows or gibbet.

patibulum. A gallows; a gibbet.

patiens. A patient; a person who suffers something to be done.

patient. Noun: One being cared for as sick, disabled, or diseased, by physician or nurse. One receiving dental care or undergoing dental work. A person may be a patient without his consent, when the facts tend to show that through bodily suffering his mind has partially lost its hold, for under such circumstances it may still be the professional duty of the physician to treat him. Meyer v Supreme Lodge Knights of Pythias, 178 NY 63, 70 NE 111. Adjective: Forbearing. Tolerating delay or inefficiency.

patient forbearance rule. The rule that cohabitation with one's spouse is not condonation of a marital offense consisting of acts of cruelty or indignities, where the injured spouse hopes that the other will mend his or her ways and the marriage be saved by patient forbearance. Anne: 32 ALR2d 13.

patria. The country; a country; a neighborhood; a jury.

See bona patria.

Patria laboribus et expensis non debet fatigari. A jury ought not to be troubled with labors and expenses.

patriam. See ad patriam. patria potestas. (Roman law.) Paternal power.

Patria potestas in pietate debet, non in atrocitate, consistere. Paternal power should consist of kindness, not of cruelty. See 1 Bl Comm 452.

patricide. A person who kills his father; the crime of murdering one's own father.

patricius. (Civil law.) A title of the highest honor, conferred on those who enjoyed the chief place in the emperor's esteem. Wharton's Law Dictionary.

patrimonial. Paternal; parental; pertaining to partimony; pertaining to property inherited from a father or from a paternal ancestor.

patrimonium. (Civil law.) Property inherited from or through a father; patrimony.

patrimony. An inherited estate; property inherited from a father or from an ancestor on the father's side.

patrinus. A godfather.

patriotic association. A voluntary association, sometimes a corporation, organized for the promotion of patriotic purposes, the teaching of love of country, and giving the respect to her leaders past and present which they deserve.

patrocinium. (Roman law.) Patronage; protection; a defense in a court of justice.

patron. A customer. One who supports an enterprise or activity such as an art gallery or museum. In a technical sense, a person who possesses the right of presentation to a benefice.

patronage. Resorting to a store, shop, office, or service establishment for obtaining goods, merchandise, services, etc. The right of nominating the minister of a church. See 2 Bl Comm 21. Support and favor.

To state that a certain prostitute is under the "patronage" of a man is held equivalent to stating that she is his kept mistress. Moore v Bennett, 48 NY 472, 475.

patronage dividend. A dividend distributed by a cooperative association, not because of any interest in the cooperative owned by the distributee, but because of his patronage of the business conducted by the association. Internal Revenue Code § 116 (b) (2) (A). A dividend, otherwise known as a patronage refund, paid to members out of the profits of a cooperative association in an amount determined by the use made of the facilities of the association by the patron. 18 Am J2d Coop Asso § 14.

patronage refund. See patronage dividend.

patronatus. Same as patronage.

patronize. To give or bestow patronage. To act in a condescending manner.

See patronage.

Patronum faciunt dos, aedificatio, fundus. An endowment, a building, and a parcel of land, make a patron.

patronymic. A person's surname. The family name derived from one's father.

patroon. The lord of a manor in Dutch colonial New York.

patruelis. (Civil law.) A cousin on the father's side; a paternal first cousin.

patruus. A paternal uncle; an uncle on the father's side.

pattern bargaining. Bargaining by a labor union for a number of labor contracts based on the example of one contract considered desirable. Anno: 9 L Ed 2d 1051.

patting down. Same as frisking. See frisk.

Paul VI. His Holiness, the Pope, Bishop of Rome, Sovereign of the State of Vatican City, and spiritual leader of the Roman Catholic Church, since 1963.

pauper. A poor person; an indigent person. One receiving public aid, eating the public bread. 41 Am J1st Poor L § 4.

pauperis. See in forma pauperis.

pauper settlement. See settlement of pauper.

pave. To cover the ground, especially in street or highway, with a hard substance.

See pavement.

pavement. A hard substance applied to the surface of the ground, especially the substance, usually cement or asphalt, applied to street or highway so as to make a convenient surface for travel. Cedar Rapids v Cedar Rapids & Marion City Railway Co. 108 Iowa 406, 409 (holding that the word does not include the flooring of a bridge).

A pavement is not limited to uniformly arranged masses of solid material, as blocks of wood, brick, or stone; but it may be as well formed of pebbles or gravel, or other hard substance, which makes a compact, even, hard way or floor. Belcher's Sugar Refining Co. v St. Louis Grain Elevator Co. 101 Mo 192, 13 SW 822.

paviage. A paving or highway tax.

pavilion. A building used for public entertainments and exhibitions, often in a park or public ground, sometimes open on the sides. Phelps v Winch, 309 Ill 158, 140 NE 847. An ornamental structure, often found on the grounds whereon a mansion or large dwelling house is located. A structure on hospital or sanitarium grounds wherein patients may relax and be benefited.

paving. See pavement.

pawn. Verb: To pledge personal property as security for payment of a debt. Noun: A bailment of personal property as security for a debt or obligation, redeemable upon certain terms and with the implied power of sale on default. 40 Am J1st Pawnb § 2.

pawnbroker. A person whose business or occupation it is to take or receive, by way of pledge or pawn, any goods, wares, merchandise, or other kind of personal property, as security for the repayment of money lent thereon. 40 Am J1st Pawnb § 2. A person who keeps a shop for the purchase or sale of goods, and takes goods by way of security for money advanced thereon. Levinson v Boas, 150 Cal 185, 88 P 825.

pawnbroker's license. A license required of one permitted to carry on the business of a pawnbroker. 40 Am J1st Pawnb § 7.

pawnee. A person to whom goods are pawned or pledged.

pawnor. A person who makes a bailment of personal property by way of pledge or pawn.

pawnshop. A place at which the business of a pawnbroker is carried on. Asakura v Seattle, 265 US 332, 342, 68 L Ed 1041, 1045, 44 S Ct 515.

pax. Peace.

pax ecclesiae. The peace of the church.

pax regis. The peace of the king.

pax Roma. The peace of Rome.

pax vobiscum. Peace be with you.

pay. Verb: To recompense another in satisfaction of a debt, by way of a reward, or for goods, other property, or services received from or rendered by him. To discharge a debt; to deliver a creditor the value of a debt, either in money or goods, to his acceptance, by which the debt is discharged. Beals v Home Ins. Co. 36 NY 522, 527. Constituting an order to pay, as it appears in a bill of exchange. 11 Am J2d B & N § 139. Noun: That which is received by way of recompense, particularly for work and services.

See salary; wages.

payable. Due or to be paid. Eckel v Jones, 8 Pa 801. To be paid, rather than "may be paid." 40 Am J1st Paym § 58. A word which in itself leaves no option or privilege as to time or manner of payment. Johnson v Dooley, 65 Ark 71, 44 SW 1032; Farmers Bank v Johnson, 134 Ga 486, 68 SE 85. Likely or able to yield a profit; profitable; as, payable wash dirt; a payable commercial undertaking. Guaranty Trust Co. v Henwood (CA8 Mo) 98 F2d 160.

payable as convenient. Some indulgence in extension of credit but nevertheless an acknowledgment of a debt to be paid. Black v Bachelder, 120 Mass 171, 173.

payable at. Designation of bank upon instrument for payment of money, the authorities being in conflict upon the question whether the designation is the equivalent of an order to the bank to pay from any funds of the maker or drawer available for payment. 11 Am J2d B & N § 111.

payable in advance. Due in advance. 30 Am J Rev edInt§12.

payable in kind. See in kind.

payable in trade. Payable in such articles as are dealt in by the party who is thus to make payment. Dudley v Vose, 114 Mass 34, 36.

payable on demand. See demand paper.

payable only to himself. Words negating negotiability. 11 Am J2d B & N § 108.

payable through. A form of designation for collection. UCC, Comment to § 3-120; 11 Am J2d B & N § 11.

payable to bearer. A bearer instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N §§ 106, 124.

payable to bills payable. Designation of an impersonal payee in creating a bearer instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 124.

payable to cash. A designation creating a bearer instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 106.
See pay cash or order.

payable to holder. Words of negotiability. 11 Am J2d B & N § 105.

payable to order. Words of negotiability. 11 Am J2d B & N § 105.

payable upon return of this instrument properly endorsed. A phrase insufficient in itself to create an order instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 107.

pay and divide rule. Same as divide and pay over rule.

pay any bank. An indorsement upon a check or similar item delivered for collection. 10 Am J2d Bks § 694. A form of restrictive indorsement. 11 Am J2d B & N § 362.

Under the provisions of the Uniform Commercial Code, after an item has been indorsed with the words "pay any bank" or the like, only a bank may acquire the rights of a holder until (a) the item has been returned to the customer initiating collection; or (b) the item has been specially endorsed by a bank to a person who is not a bank. UCC § 4-201(2).

pay cash or order. Not the equivalent of an order to pay to a specified person or to bearer so as to constitute the instrument a bill of exchange. Orbit Mining & Trading Co. v Westminster Bank, Ltd. [1962] 3 All Eng 565 (CA).

A promissory note, payable to "cash or order," and indorsed in blank by the maker thereof, is in effect "payable to bearer." Hale v State, 120 Ga 138, 47 SE 547.

pay check. A check given in payment of wages. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab §§ 822-826.

payee. A person to whom a payment is made or who is designated in a bill or note as the person to whom payment is to be made.

The Commercial Code purports to settle the long-continued conflict over the status of the payee as a holder in due course by declaring that a payee may be a holder in due course. UCC § 3-302(2), and Comment 2; 11 Am J2d B & N §§ 415-419.

payer. One who pays or is obligated to make a payment. An essential of a negotiable instrument, the person obligated thereby.

pay in full. To discharge an obligation completely. A direction respecting a legacy sufficient to exonerate it from the burden of taxes. Re Caswell's Estate, 239 App Div 694, 268 NYS 691.

[926]

paying. Making a payment. Profitable, such as a "paying" business. paying quantities.

See in paying quantities.

paying teller. See teller.

payment. The discharge of an obligation by the delivery and acceptance of money, or of something equivalent to money, which is regarded as such at the time by the person to whom the payment is due. State v Tyler County State Bank (Tex Com App) 277 SW 625, 282 SW 211, 42 ALR 1347. The performance of the consideration clause of a contract, or the satisfaction of a liability imposed by law, the term implying a debt from him who pays to him who is to receive, and further that when the payment is complete the debt will be discharged. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v State, 169 Okla 59, 36 P2d 47.

payment by mistake. See payment under mistake of fact; payment under mistake of law.

payment for honor. A former practice of the commercial world, sometimes known as payment supra protest, now obsolete because of existing facilities for quick communication, whereunder, a bill of exchange or promissory note having been protested for nonpayment, a third party would pay in order to protect the credit of the drawer or maker which otherwise would suffer during the period of delay ensuing before the latter could be notified of the protest and take steps of his own to protect his credit. 11 Am J2d B & N § 506.

payment for transportation. The fare paid by a passenger on train, bus, plane, or taxicab.

The "payment" for transportation which will take one out of the category of "guest," the motorist's liability to whom is restricted to cases of wilful or wanton misconduct, must be made under such facts and circumstances as will raise an inference of the acquiescence of the motorist in the assumption of liability for mere negligence. Hasbrook v Wingate, 152 Ohio St 50, 87 NE2d 87, 10 ALR2d 1342.

payment in cash or its equivalent. See cash or its equivalent.

payment in due course. Payment at or after the maturity of the instrument to the holder thereof in good faith and without notice that his title is defective. 11 Am J2d B & N § 964.

For effect of the Commercial Code upon the requirement of a payment in due course for the discharge of a negotiable instrument, see Comment 3 to UCC § 3-603.

payment in good faith. See payment in due course.

payment into court. A deposit in court, of money or property capable of delivery, made through the clerk of the court, pursuant to an order of the court rendered upon an application therefor, to be disposed of ultimately as the rights of the interested parties may appear. 23 Am J2d Funds & D § 2. A requirement imposed upon the plaintiff in interpleader. 30 Am J Rev ed Interpl § 26. A deposit made with the clerk of court of an amount of money which the depositor admits to be due his adversary in an action pending in the court. Dirks v Juel, 59 Neb 353, 80 NW 1045.

payment of check. The act of the drawee bank in handing over money, in the amount in which the check is drawn, to the payee or indorsee, or in giving the payee or indorsee something in lieu of cash, often a credit in his account at the bank in the amount of the check, accepted unconditionally by the payee or indorsee. 10 Am J2d Bks § 543.

While the phrase "to pay" in ordinary parlance may seem to connote only payment to a third party, as a matter of law a bank does "pay" a check drawn on it in its own favor; that is to say, it charges the same against the account of the depositor and causes that check to augment the bank's own funds. Colby v Riggs National Bank, 67 App DC 259, 92 F2d 183, 114 ALR 1065.

payment supra protest. Same as payment for honor.

payment under mistake of fact. A payment made by one person to another on the mistaken supposition of the existence of a specific fact which would entitle the other to the money, where the money would not have been paid if it had been known to the payer that the fact was otherwise. 40 Am J1st Paym § 187.

payment under mistake of law. A payment made by a person who having full knowledge of the facts comes to an erroneous conclusion as to their legal effect. 40 Am J1st Paym § 207.

payment under protest. See protest.

pay no money to agents. A statement made in rendering a bill.

As the expression appears on a bill rendered by a corporation for goods sold, it is the equivalent of a notice not to pay to an unauthorized agent; it is not a notice of limitation on the ostensible authority of the agent who made the sale to receive payment. American Sales Book Co. v Cowdrey, 100 Ark 325, 140 SW 134.

pay only through clearing house. The usual form of indorsement of a check made by a collecting bank in sending the check to a clearing house, such being sufficient to transfer the instrument from the endorsing bank to the redeeming bank. 10 Am J2d Banks § 840.

pay off. To eliminate an obligation by paying the obligee. To pay a confederate for his assistance in committing a fraud or crime. To recompense one for his keeping silent respecting the commission of a crime or the perpetration of a fraud.

payoff. A slang expression for time of reckoning or settlement, also for an unexpected occurrence of importance.

payor. Same as payer.

pay over. See divide and pay over; pay off.

payroll. A list of employees, sometimes inclusive even of corporate officers and executives, entitled to wages or salary for a period of working time, normally a week, and of the respective amounts due such persons for the period. The amount of money required to fund the list.

payroll check. A check representing the wages of an employee upon a payroll. 10 Am J2d Banks § 512.

pays. Same as pais.

See pay.

P. C. Abbreviation of Privy Council.

p.c. An abbreviation of pleas of the crown. Also, an abbreviation of privy council.

pd. Abbreviation of paid.

peace. The tranquility enjoyed by members of a community where good order reigns. 12 Am J2d Breach P § 4. That invisible sense of security which every person feels so necessary to his comfort, and for which all governments are instituted. Miles v State, 30 Okla Crim 302, 236 P 57, 44 ALR 129. The termination of a war, of hostilities between nations. 56 Am J1st War § 13.

[927]

See time of peace.

peaceable entry. An entry upon real estate without the use of force to obtain entry.

peaceable possession. An uncontested and unresisted possession. Such possession of land as is continuous and not interrupted by adverse suit to recover the estate. Stanley v Schwalbe, 147 US 508, 37 L Ed 259, 13 S Ct 418.

peace bill. See bill of peace.

peace bond. See bond to keep the peace.

peace foundation. See World Peace Foundation.

peaceful assembly. See right of assembly.

peaceful persuasion. Persuasion without threat or intimidation.

peaceful picketing. Picketing without violence, intimidation, physical obstruction, or misrepresentation of facts. Anno: 120 ALR 347, s. 124 ALR 773, 127 ALR 887. Absence, not only of violence, but of any unlawful act. Senn v Tile Layers Protective Union, 301 US 468, 81 L Ed 1229, 57 S Ct 857.

peace justice. See justice of the peace.

peace officer. A public officer, such as a sheriff, deputy sheriff, marshal, policeman, or constable.

peace of the king. The protection of the king, as extending over the locality where an offense was committed. State v Jones, 1 Miss (Walk) 83, 85, or to the victim of an alleged offense. State v Dunkley, 25 NC (3 Ired L) 116.

peat. A material consisting of decayed plants which grew in swamp or bog in the geological past. Valuable for covering ground, even used as fuel in certain parts of the world. 27 Am J2d Em D § 279.

peat moss. The form in which peat is sold and used as a ground cover.

pecans. Nuts grown on trees in several of the southern states, edible and nutritious, and constituting an important agricultural crop. Superior Oil Co. v Griffin (Okla) 357 P2d 987, 87 ALR2d 224.

Peccata contra naturam sunt gravissima. Crimes against nature are the lowest.

peccatum. A sin; a crime; an offense; a fault.

Peccatum peccato addit qui culpa quam facit patrocinium defensionis adjungit. A person adds a crime to a crime who connects a wrong which he has committed with his defense.

peck. A unit of dry measure, consisting of eight quarts, one fourth of a bushel.

pecora. Plural of pecus.

pectore judicis. See in pectore judicis.

pecudes. Plural of pecus.

pecudum. See fructus pecudum.

peculation. The betrayal of an official trust by embezzlement or other fraud committed by a public officer in misapplying public property. Bork v People, 91 NY 5, 16.

peculator. A defaulter; an embezzler.

peculatus. (Civil law.) Peculation; the embezzlement of public moneys.

peculiar. Adjective: Eccentric; strange. Noun: An English parish which is independent of the ordinary.

peculiar benefits. An expression of the law of eminent domain for benefits from an improvement to property of the condemnee by reason of the direct relationship of the property to the improvement. 27 Am J2d Em D § 368.

Peculiar People. A religious sect whose belief in prayer as a cure for disease resembles that of the Christian Scientists. Regina v Senior (Eng) 19 Cox, CC 219.

peculiar court. See court of peculiaris.

peculium. (Roman law.) The private property belonging to a son or a slave, independently of the father or the master.

peculium castrense. (Roman law.) The private property of a son which he acquired while he was a soldier or in a military camp.

pecunia. Money. Property, especially property in cattle.

Pecunia dicitur a pecus, omnes enim veterum divitiae in animalibus consistebant. "Pecunia" is so called from the word "pecus" (an animal of the bovine species), because all the wealth of our forefather, consisted of animals.

pecunial. Pertaining to money; pecuniary.

pecuniae non numeratae. See exceptio pecuniae non numeratae.

pecunia non numerata. (Civil law.) Money not paid.

pecunia numerata. Money counted out or paid.

pecuniary. Involving money or money's worth. Financial; pertaining or relating to money; capable of being estimated, computed, or measured by money value.

pecuniary ability. The ability to pay one's debts.

pecuniary benefit. A benefit which can be valued in money. Dallas R. & Terminal Co. v Moore (Tex Civ App) 52 SW2d 104.

pecuniary causes. Certain causes which were cognizable in the ecclesiastical courts; those causes which arose either from the withholding of ecclesiastical dues, or the commission or omission of some act relating to the church, whereby some damage accrued to the plaintiff. See 3 Bl Comm 88.

pecuniary condition. The wealth of a person and his income whether from property or his earnings.
See financial condition.

pecuniary damages. See pecuniary injury; pecuniary loss.

pecuniary injury. An injury, the damages from which are measurable in money. Such an injury as can be, and usually is, without difficulty, estimated by a money standard. Broughel v Southern New England Tel. Co. 73 Conn 614, 621.

[928]

pecuniary interest in action. A direct interest in the result of a particular case. Robinson v State, 86 Ga App 375, 71 SE2d 677. As necessary to sustain a right to appeal:—a substantial and immediate interest, a future, contingent, or merely speculative interest ordinarily being insufficient. 4 Am J2d A & E § 180.

pecuniary interest of judge. Such an interest in the event or subject matter of the suit that the judge will be directly affected by realizing a pecuniary gain or suffering a pecuniary loss. Anno: 10 ALR2d 1320.

pecuniary legacy. A legacy which is to be paid out of the general assets of the testator's estate when they shall be converted into money. Humphrey v Robinson, 52 Hun 200, 203, 5 NYS 164.

pecuniary loss. A loss of money or of something by which money or something of money value may be acquired. Dow v Legg, 120 Neb 271, 231 NW 747, 74 ALR 5; Green v Hudson River Railroad Co. (NY) 32 Barb 25, 33.

As this term is used in death statutes allowing the "pecuniary damages" resulting to the beneficiaries to be recovered in an action, the words are not used in a sense of the immediate loss of money or property, but they look to the prospective advantages of a pecuniary nature which have been cut off by the premature death of the person from whom they have proceeded. 22 Am J2d Dth § 123.

pecuniary profit. Financial gain.

A corporation which is operated for "pecuniary profit" is one which is operated for the pecuniary profit of its stockholders or members. Santa Clara Female Academy v Sullivan, 116 Ill 375, 387.

pecuniary resources. See pecuniary condition.

pecunia sepulchralis. Money which was paid to a priest for prayers at the opening of a grave.

pecunia trajectitia. (Civil law.) Money which was carried across (the sea); a loan in money or in wares which the debtor purchased with the money to be sent by sea, and whereby the creditor assumed the risk of loss from the day of the departure of the vessel until her arrival at the port of destination. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 433.

pecus. (Roman law.) An animal of the bovine species; a beast; a domestic animal; a herd; a flock.

pecus vagans, quod nullus petit, sequitur, vel advocat. Wandering cattle, which no one seeks, follows, or calls. See 1 Bl Comm 298.

ped. A bag.

pedage. A toll paid by pedestrians for the use of certain roads.

pedagium. Same as pedage.

pedaneus. (Roman law.) At the foot; inferior; of lower rank or status.

pedaulus. A Roman judge of lower rank who tried trivial causes.

peddler. One who goes from house to house carrying in a bag goods exposed by him for sale and delivery to whomever may be prevailed on to buy. Crawley v State, 57 Ga App 376, 195 SE 453. In a more modern sense, one who goes from place to place and from house to house carrying for sale and exposing to sale goods, wares, and merchandise which he carries. An itinerant, solicitant vendor of goods who sells and delivers to purchasers the identical goods which he carries with him. 40 Am J1st Ped §3.

peddler's license. A license required of a peddler, primarily as a means of regulation and avoidance of sharp practices and impositions upon the public. 40 Am J1st Ped § 30.

peddler's note. A promissory note which recites the consideration for which given. 11 Am J2d B & N § 189.

pedem ponere. To place the foot upon; to enter upon and take possession of land.

pede pulverosus. Dusty-foot; a huckster or peddler who attended fairs.

pederasty. Unnatural intercourse between males; more particularly between a man and a boy.

pedestrian. Noun: A person walking on sidewalk street, or highway.

As to who is a "pedestrian" with respect to rights given, and duties imposed by traffic rules and regulations, see Anno: 30 ALR2d 866.

pedestrian use. The use of a public way by pedestrians. Home Laundry Co. v Louisville, 168 Ky 499, 182 SW 645. In a distinct sense, a use lacking interest, of little appeal to the imagination.

pedigree. Ancestry. A record of ancestry; family tree. The descent of a pure-bred animal as it appears in a registry.

See tradition.

pedigree evidence. Proof of ancestry, descent, birth, age, race, relationship, and cognate matters, by general reputation, oral and written declarations, admissible under an exception to the hearsay rule, as well as by direct evidence. 29 Am J2d Ev § 508.

See tradition.

pedigree exception. See pedigree evidence.

pedis abscissio. An ancient punishment for crime by cutting off a foot.

pedis positio. The placing of the foot,—the physical act of stepping on the land to effect an entry and an assumption of possession.

pedis possessio. Possession by a foothold; a momentary personal presence on land. Monroe v Rawlings, 331 Mich 49, 49 NW2d 55. In one sense, an actual possession by occupancy of the whole of the entire tract under consideration, as distinguished from virtual possession. Wheeler v Clark, 114 Tenn 117, 85 SW 258.

pedlar. An old form of the word peddler.

Peeping Tom. The lout who looked at Lady Godiva as she rode unclad. One who derives a sexual satisfaction from observing others in the nude or dishabille.

peer. An equal.

A man's equals in rank are his peers. At common law a nobleman was entitled to be tried in a criminal case by a jury composed of his peers or equals. Bishops, however, although lords of parliament, held their baronies by right of the church, and were not of noble blood, and hence, were not so entitled. Peeresses did not have this right at common law, but statute 20 Henry VI, c. 9, gave it to them. See 1 Bl Comm 401.

[929]

peerage. The right or dignity of a member of the English nobility.

The right was originally territorial, annexed to lands, cattles, manors, and the like, but later it became personal, and was confined to the lineage of the party ennobled. In Blackstone's time peers were created by writ or by letters patent. See 1 Bl Comm 400.

peeress. A lady of the nobility. 1 Bl Comm 401.

peers. See peer.

pee-wee golf. See miniature golf course.

peine. Punishment.

peine forte et dure. A cruel and relentless punishment,—the torturing punishment which was anciently inflicted on a defendant accused of felony who refused to plead, as a penalty for his obstinacy. State v Woodward, 68 W Va. 66, 69 SE 385; 4 Bl Comm 325.

pejorative. Disparaging.

pejorem partem. See in pejorem partem.

pelex. (Roman law.) The mistress of a married man; a concubine.

pellex. Same as pelex.

pellagra. A disease caused by dietary deficiency, characterized by stomach and intestinal pains and nervous disorders. Anno: 68 ALR2d 171-176.

pen. Noun: An instrument for writing with ink. A slang term for penitentiary or state prison. Verb: To write. To confine.

penal. An elastic term but strictly and primarily denoting punishment, whether corporal or pecuniary, imposed and enforced by the state for a crime or offense against its laws. 36 Am J2d Forf & P § 2.

penal action. An action founded entirely upon a statute which subjects a wrongdoer to a liability in favor of a person wronged as a punishment for the wrongful act, without limiting such liability to the actual damages suffered. 1 Am J2d Actions § 42. In a very broad sense, inclusive of a criminal prosecution.

penal bill. Same as penal bond.

penal bond. A bond conditioned upon the performance of duties of office, or other obligations undertaken by the principal obligor in the bond or collateral things to be done by him. 12 Am J2d Bonds § 1. A bond conditioned upon the forfeiture of a penalty for its breach, as distinguished from a bond providing for liquidated damages. Carey v Mackey, 82 Me 516, 20 A 84.

penal code. A division of the statutory law of a jurisdiction comprehensive of crimes and criminal proceedings. A model code proposed by the American Law Institute.

penal farm. A correctional institution to which persons convicted of misdemeanors are sent, instead of to the county jail. Summers v State, 198 Ind 241, 243, 151 NE 615, 616. A farm maintained as a part of the correctional system of a state to which prisoners may be sent for rehabilitation by work, whether at agricultural pursuits or industrial plants maintained on the land.

penal law. See penal code; penal statute.

penal statute. A statute which defines and prescribes the punishment for a criminal offense. A statute which provides a penalty enforceable in a civil action. A statute, such as a wrongful death statute, providing for an assessment of damages with reference to the degree of culpability of the defendant. 22 Am J2d Dth § 5. A statute which imposes a penalty for transgressing its provisions. A statute that imposes a penalty or creates a forfeiture as the punishment for the neglect of some duty, or the commission of some wrong, that concerns the good of the public, and is commanded or prohibited by law. 50 Am J1st Stat § 16.

penal sum. The amount of the penalty specified in a bond or undertaking for its breach or non-fulfilment.

penalty. In the broad sense of the term, the consequences visited by law upon the heads of those who violate the law, particularly provisions of the criminal law and police regulations. A punishment for the nonperformance of an act or for the performance of an unlawful act, the character of the imposition not being changed by the manner in which it is inflicted, whether by civil action or criminal prosecution. 36 Am J2d Forf & P § 2. In a narrower sense, an extraordinary liability to which the law subjects a wrongdoer in favor of the person wronged, such liability not being limited to the damages suffered. 36 Am J2d Forf & P § 2. A statutory penalty which an individual is allowed to recover against a wrongdoer as a satisfaction for the wrong or injury suffered, without reference to the actual damage sustained. Nordling v Johnston, 205 Or 315, 283 P2d 420, 48 ALR2d 1369. An agreement to pay a stipulated sum on a breach of contract, irrespective of the damage sustained. A sum inserted in a contract, not as the measure of compensation for a breach, but rather as a punishment for default, or by way of security for actual damages which may be sustained by reason of nonperformance, and involving the idea of punishment. Management, Inc. v Schassberger, 39 Wash 2d 321, 235 P2d 293. An additional payment for a privilege such as that of payment of principal prior to due date. Anno: 70 ALR2d 1334.

penalty adjudged to be paid. A pecuniary penalty, not a penalty by imprisonment. 36 Am J2d Forf & P § 2.
See fine.

penalty for nonpayment of taxes. A penalty, often in the form of imposition of interest charges, on the amount in which a taxpayer is delinquent in payment. 51 Am J1st Tax § 970.

penance. Punishment for an ecclesiastical offense.

pen and ink levy. Same as paper levy.

pence. In British usage, the plural of penny.
See Peter's pence.

pencil. Noun: A slender rod of wood with a core of material which will make marks on a smooth surface, used for writing. Verb: To affix a signature by pencil. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 25.
See writing.

pendant. See auter action pendant.

pendency. The state or condition of being undecided or pending.

pendency of action. The status of an action or suit from the time it is commenced until its final determination by judgment or order. McDowell v Blythe Bros. Co. 236 NC 396, 72 SE2d 860. The period of life of an action from the time of its commencement to its final determination. 1 Am J2d Actions § 91.

[930]

See commencement of action; lis pendens; notice of pendency; pending action.

pendency of another action. See plea of another action pending.

pendency of criminal prosecution. The status of a criminal prosecution from the time it is commenced by (1) the filing of a formal complaint or affidavit, (2) the return of an indictment or the filing of an information, (3) the issuance of a warrant to an officer for service, or (4) the arrest and commitment of the accused, until the final determination made by judgment. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 3.

pendens. Same as pending.
See lis pendens.

pendente. Pending. Suspended.

pendente absentia. See administrator of absentee.

pendente lite. During the pendency of the suit, action, or litigation; while the suit, action, or litigation is pending. .

pendente lite administrator. A special or temporary administrator appointed where the appointment of a general representative is delayed for any reason, particularly the existence of a will contest. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 650.

pendente lite alimony. Same as temporary alimony.

pendente lite allowance. Allowance to a wife of temporary alimony, maintenance, suit money, and attorneys' fees ordered for her maintenance pending litigation and to enable her to prepare her case in a suit for divorce or for alimony, support, separate maintenance, independent of any proceeding for divorce. 27 Am J1st H & W § 414.

See temporary alimony.

pendente lite injunction. See preliminary injunction; temporary injunction; temporary restraining order.

pendente lite nihil innovetur. Nothing should be changed during the pendency of an action. 34 Am J1st Lis P § 2.

pendente lite purchaser. A purchaser of property involved in litigation concerning its ownership or liens claimed against it, who buys while the litigation is pending. Ward v Lockwood, 234 Ky 160, 27 SW2d 692; Newman v Chapman, 23 Va (2 Rand) 93.

pendente lite receivership. A receivership in which a receiver is appointed by the court to hold certain property during the pendency of an action in which the property is involved. 45 Am J1st Rec § 3.

pendente minoritate executoris. See administrator pendente minoritate executoris.

pendente placito. See estrepement pendente placito.

pendentes. (Civil law.) Things that are suspended or hanging; unplucked crops.

pending. Undecided. In suspense.

pending action. An action which has been commenced and has not been terminated by a final judgment or order.

Under statutes providing for removal of causes, it may be said in general that whatever the form of proceeding to bring the defendant into court, the suit is pending when he is subject to judicial orders. 32 Am J2d Fed Proc § 464.

See commencement of action; pendency of action.

pending litigation. See pending action.

pending prosecution. See pendency of criminal prosecution.

penes me. In my possession.

penetration. The entry of the private part of the male, at least to some extent, in the private part of the female. 44 Am J1st Rape § 3.

penetration per anum. Penetration through the external terminus of the alimentary canal. 48 Am J1st Sod § 2.

penetration per os. Penetration in the mouth,—words used in describing certain unnatural practices which according to the weight of modern authority are held to amount to the crime of sodomy, although it was formerly held otherwise in England. 48 Am J1st Sod § 2.

penicillin. A drug used in the prevention of infection, but to which some people are susceptible so as to endure painful disorders upon treatment with it. Johnson v National Life & Acci. Ins. Co. 92 Ga App 818, 90 SE2d 36.

penis. The male organ. Mutual Ben. Health & Acci. Asso. v Blaylock 163 Miss 567, 143 So 406, 87 ALR 679.

penitentiary. A place of imprisonment in which convicts sentenced to hard labor are confined by authority of law. 41 Am J1st Pris & P § 2. In some jurisdictions, a county or other local prison, as distinguished from a state prison; a prison for confinement under relatively short sentences or under civil process.

penny. A cent in United States or Canadian money, the coin of lowest denomination. A British coin equaling one twelfth of a shilling.

See averpenny; bord-halfpenny; testing penny; God's penny; hundred-penny; inpeny; outpenny; pence.

pensa. A weight.

pensata. Weighed.

pensio. (Civil law.) A payment; a payment for the rent or hire of a thing.

pension. A gratuity paid by the government in recognition of past services in the Army or Navy. Dismukes v United States, 297 US 167, 80 L Ed 561, 56 S Ct 400, reh den 297 US 728, 80 L Ed 1011, 56 S Ct 594. A bounty or gratuity bestowed as a token of the government's benevolence. Anderson v United States (CA9 Wash) 205 F2d 326, 40 ALR2d 639. A regular allowance paid to an individual by government in consideration of services rendered, or in recognition of merit, civil or military. 40 Am J1st Pens § 3. A payment made to a widow, the children, or the dependents of a deceased serviceman. 40 Am J1st Pens § 12. A gratuitous payment made to an aged person. 40 Am J1st Pens § 7. A stated allowance or stipend made in consideration of past services or of the surrender of rights or emoluments, to one retired from service. Kneeland v Administrator, Unemployment Compensation Act, 138 Conn 630, 88 A2d 376, 32 ALR2d 896. A periodical payment of a fixed amount made to retired public and private employees by way of retirement pay, often from a fund accumulated by joint contributions of employer and employees.

[931]

As to what constitutes a "pension" within meaning of federal statutes excluding actions on claims for pensions from jurisdiction of federal courts, see An no: 40 ALR2d 646.

See mother's pension; teachers' pensions.

Pension Bureau. A former federal agency the duties of which are within the functions of the present Veteran's Administration.

pensioner. The recipient of a pension; a person who is supported by the bounty of another.

pension fund. A fund provided and accumulated for the payment of pensions to retired employees. Clarke v Ireland, 122 Mont 191, 199 P2d 965.

pension money. Money due, or to become due, to pensioners. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 98.

Pentecost. The seventh Sunday after Easter.

pent road. A highway which is closed at the terminal points. Public Utilities Com. v Jones, 54 Utah 111, 179 P 745. Wolcott v Whitcomb, 40 Vt 40, 41. A road which, having gates and bars at certain points, is not an open highway. Bridgman v Hardwick, 67 Vt 132, 134, 31 A 33.

pentway. A road which furnishes access to lands not reached by a highway, but open for use by anyone who desires to use it. Latah County v Peterson, 3 Idaho 398, 29 P 1089.

peon. A debtor who is compelled to work for his creditor until his debt is paid. Bailey v Alabama, 219 US 219, 242, 55 L Ed 191, 201, 31 S Ct 145.

peonage. The status or condition of compulsory service based upon the indebtedness of the peon to the master. 48 Am J1st Slav § 5. The criminal offense of holding a person to service or labor in liquidation of a debt or obligation. 18 USC § 444. A violation of the acts of Congress which were passed pursuant to the enforcement clause of the Thirteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution. United States v Reynolds, 235 US 133, 59 L Ed 162, 35 S Ct 86.

peonía. (Spanish.) The portion granted to a foot soldier of spoils taken, or lands conquered in a war. Strother v Lucas (US) 12 Pet 410, 442, footnote, 9 L Ed 1137, 1151, footnote.

people. The state; the nation; any consolidated political body. United States v Three Friends, 166 US 1, 41 L Ed 897, 17 S Ct 495. The subjects or inhabitants of a nation. The Pizarro (US) 2 Wheat 227, 246, 4 L Ed 226, 231.

"The popular leaders, who in all ages have called themselves the people," etc. See 4 Bl Comm 438.

people of the state. The representatives of the state itself; the state itself, as where a criminal prosecution is entitled as by "The People of the State."

As the expression is used in some connections, such as with reference to enjoyment of the public waters within the state, it includes all people lawfully within the state, whether of the state, in the sense of being residents thereof or otherwise. Rossmiller v State, 114 Wis 169, 89 NW 839.

people of the United States. The sovereign people. Citizens. Boyd v Nebraska, 143 US 135, 36 L Ed 103, 12 S Ct 375.

peppercorn. A pepper berry. A term often used in the past in expressing the consideration of a contract in which no more than a nominal consideration was intended.

per. By; through; in; by means of; on; with; under. A word used to indicate agency. Indicating signature affixed in the execution of an agency. 11 Am J2d B & N § 558.

A signing by which the name of the principal appears "per" the agent is uniformly regarded as a proper method of executing the agency so as to impose liability upon the principal and, conversely, no personal liability upon the agent. Restatement, Agency 2d § 156, Comment a.

In proceeding under a writ of entry, if the intruder or disseisor has conveyed to a third person, or the land has descended to his heir, the writ must allege the fact, because the action must be against the tenant the defect of whose title must be set forth, whether it arose from his own wrong or that of his predecessor in possession. One such alienation or descent makes the first degree, which is called the "per," because in such case the form of the writ is that the tenant had no right but "by" the original wrongdoer who aliened to him or from whom it descended to him. A second alienation or descent makes another degree called the "per and cut," because in such case the form of the writ is that the tenant had no title to enter but "by" or "under" a prior alienee, "to whom" the intruder demised it. See 3 Bl Comm 181.

per accidens nuisance. An act, occupation, or structure not a nuisance per se, but one which may become a nuisance by reason of circumstances, location, or surroundings. 39 Am J1st Nuis § 11.

per accident clause. A clause in a liability insurance policy limiting the liability of the insurer to a specified amount for each accident or occurrence. Anno: 55 ALR2d 1301.

per aes et libram. (Roman law.) By the brass or copper money and the scales,—a form which was used in certain sales.

per alluvionem. (Civil law.) By alluvion,—by the solid material which is gradually washed up on a person's land by action of the water.

Per alluvionem id videtur adjici, quod ita paulatim adjucitur, ut intelligere non possumus quantum quoque memento temporis adjiciatur. That material is deemed to be added by alluvion which is so accumulated little by little that we are unable to perceive how much is added at any certain moment of time.

per ambages. By evasions; by circumlocution.

perambulation. Visitation for making an inspection.

See visitation.

perambulatione facienda. See de perambulatione facienda.

per and cui. By and to whom.

per annulum et baculum. By the ring and staff.

Prior to the time of Pope Gregory VII, in the eleventh century, all bishops were appointed by the king, the usual method of investiture being a delivery by the king to the bishop of a ring and pastoral staff or crosier. This was known as investiture per annulum et baculum. See 1 Bl Comm 378.

[932]

per annum. By or for a year.

In a contract providing for the payment of interest at a certain rate per annum, the words are held by the authorities to mean that interest is to be computed and paid at the rate specified for the duration of the contract period, and not to mean that interest is payable annually. 30 Am J Rev ed Int § 11.

per anus. Characterizing an examination or treatment of a human body through the opening at the lower end of the alimentary canal.

See penetration per anum.

per autre vie. For the lifetime of another person.

per aversionem. See sale per aversionem.

per bouche. With the mouth; orally; verbally.

per breve de privato sigillo. By writ of privy seal.

"The sign manual is the warrant to the privy seal, and the privy seal is the warrant to the great seal; and in this last case the patent is subscribed, `per breve de privato sigillo.' " See 2 Bl Comm 347.

per capita. By the head or individual. Wagner v Wagner, 303 Ky 140, 197 SW2d 86. Sharing by heads, that is, share and share alike. Anno: 126 ALR 159; 23 Am J2d Deeds § 200; 57 Am J1st Wills § 1291. Sharing by the heads throughout an entire class, for example the ten grandchildren of A taking share and share alike, albeit the ten grandchildren are children of three sons of A, one son having two children, one son three, and one son five. The characterization of a vote in a stockholders' meeting where each stockholder has one vote irrespective of the number of shares owned by him. 19 Am J2d Corp § 635.

Anno: Taking per stirpes or per capita under will. 13 ALR2d 1023.

percennarius. A parcener.

percentage. A part or portion. Precisely, a portion stated in terms of a part of one hundred, as six per cent is six out of one hundred or three out of fifty.

percentage commission. The commission of a broker calculated upon a certain percentage of the price obtained for the customer in a transaction negotiated by the broker. 12 Am J2d Brok § 161.

percentage compensation. An allowance to the trustee of a business trust by way of compensation of a certain percentage of the profits of the business. Anno: 156 ALR 141.

percentage depletion. A specified percentage of a taxpayer's gross income from oil and gas wells, other natural deposits, or timberlands. W. D. Haden Co. v Commissioner (CA5) 321 F2d 169.

percentage of alcohol. A criterion for determining the character of a beverage as intoxicating liquor. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 6.

percentage of safety. A margin, to be observed by a trustee in investing trust funds, between the value of the security and the amount of the investment. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 426.

percentage of vote. The size of the vote cast for the candidates of a political party, or for any one candidate, calculated according to the percentage of total vote cast at the election. 29 Am J2d Elect § 162.

percentage payments. See progress payments.

per centum. By the hundred.

perception. The faculty of comprehension. Acquisition of knowledge. As derived from the Latin "perceptio," a receiving or taking of possession.

perceptual insanity. A mental derangement characterized by illusion or hallucination. 26 Am J1st Homi § 78.

perception-reaction distance. The distance in which an automobile traveling at a stated speed may be stopped.
For chart of driver stopping distances, see Am J2d Desk Book, Document 176.

perch. A unit of lineal measure, the same as a rod. A unit of cubic measure for stone, equalling in most jurisdictions twenty-four and three fourths cubic feet. Baldin Quarry Co. v Clements, 38 Ohio St 587. A roost for a bird. A kind of fish.

per clerum et populum. By the clergy and the people.

percolating waters. Waters which ooze, seep, filter, or percolate through the ground under the surface without a definite channel, or in a course that is uncertain or unknown and not discoverable from the surface without excavation for that purpose. 56 Am J1st Wat § 111. Waters which filter through the ground and collect in underground cavities, forming springs, or in what are commonly known as wells. Erickson v Crookston Waterworks, Power & Light Co. 105 Minn 182, 117 NW 435.

percolation. The movement of a liquid through a porous substance, as water below the surface of the ground.

See percolating waters.

per consequens. In consequence.

per considerationem curiae. By the consideration of the court.

per contra. To the contrary. On the other hand. .

per corpus. By the body; that is, by trial by battle or by ordeal.

per cur. An abbreviation of per curiam.

per curiam. By the court; by the court as a whole.

per curiam opinion. An opinion of the court in which the judges or justices are all of one mind and the question involved is so clear that the opinion is not elaborated by an extended discussion of the supporting reasons. 20 Am J2d Cts § 72.

"It is true this (decision) is criticized as only a per curiam opinion, but why it should have less weight for that reason is not clear." Western Union Tel. Co. v Houghton, 146 Pa 561, 23 A 248.

per day. By the day.

See per diem.

per defaultam. By default.

per descent. By descent.

See assets per descent.

per diem. The compensation of a public officer in the form of an allowance for days actually spent in the performance of official duty. 43 Am J1st Pub Of § 358. Not a fee, but an emolument for a clerk of court, being payable for attendance at court irrespective of whether or not court business is transacted. 15 Am J2d Clk Ct § 13. A fee paid a witness for each day's attendance in a case. 20 Am J1st Costs §§ 53-56.

[933]

The term, signifying "per day," is sometimes and by some courts held to be included in the term "fees," and sometimes otherwise. The two terms are not always synonymous. See Anderson v Beadle County, 51 SD 6, 211 NW 968, 969.

per diem fee or compensation. See per diem.

perdonatio utlagariae. A pardon for a person who had been outlawed for contempt of court.

perduellio. (Civil law.) Treason; a hostile attempt against the state.

perdurable. Everlasting; enduring forever.

peregrine. A stranger; a foreigner; an alien; a resident without civil rights. A falcon.

peregrini. (Civil law.) A stranger; a foreigner; an alien; an alien enemy; a slave.

peremptoria. See exceptio peremptoria. peremptorius. (Civil law.) That which permanently destroys.

peremptory. Final; positive; conclusive.

peremptory challenge. A challenge to a juror to be exercised by a party to a civil action or criminal prosecution without assignment of reason or cause. Bufford v State, 148 Neb 38, 26 NW2d 383. A challenge to a judge without assignment of reason or cause. Austin v Lambert, 10 Cal 2d 73, 77 P2d 849, 115 ALR 849.

peremptory defense. A defense which denies the right of the plaintiff to sue.

peremptory exception. An answer which merely raises an issue of law, the legal effect of which is the same as that of a demurrer. Lambeth v Turner, 1 Tex 364, 367.

peremptory instruction. The direction of a verdict.

peremptory mandamus. Same as peremptory writ of mandamus.

peremptory mandate. Same as peremptory writ of mandamus.

peremptory nonsuit. A judgment for the defendant rendered upon the failure of the plaintiff to establish a prima facie case. Jacques v Fourthman, 137 Pa 428, 429, 20 A 802.

peremptory plea. A plea which sets up the defense that the plaintiff has no right to sue.

peremptory rule. Same as rule absolute.

peremptory writ of mandamus. A writ of mandamus requiring the party to do the thing absolutely, as distinguished from an alternative writ which requires him to do the thing, or show cause why he should not in his answer. 35 Am J1st Mand § 380.

perennial. Lasting throughout the entire year or for a long time.

perennial crop. A crop grown from perennial plants, grasses, bushes, or vines, albeit labor and fertilizer may be required. Twin Falls Bank & Trust Co. v Weinberg, 44 Idaho 332, 257 P 31, 54 ALR 1527; Superior Oil Co. v Griffin (Okla) 357 P2d 987, 87 ALR2d 224.

perennial grasses. See perennial crop.

per equipollens. By an equivalent.

peresewar. Same as pursuer.

per eundem. By the same:

per expressum. By expression; expressly.

per extensum. At length; fully.

Per extraneam personam nihil nobis acquiri potest. Through a stranger we can acquire no rights.

Although this maxim of the Roman law is not in form found in our law, yet its principle is at the foundation of all our rules as to the privity of contract and estate, and as to matters inter alios acta. Kyle v Wells, 17 Pa 286.

per fas et nefas. By right of wrong.

perfect. Free from error or mistake; complete.

perfected. Completed; fully performed; executed.

perfect fool. The man who is his own lawyer.

perfecting bail. Same as justifying bail.

perfecting lien. The filing or service of notice of a mechanic's lien. 36 Am J1st Mech L § 167. The completion of the creation of alien so that it will be effective against the creditors of the lienee in his bankruptcy.

perfecting transfer. A familiar term in the law of bankruptcy, referring to the completion of a transfer of assets so that it will be good against the creditors of the transferor in his bankruptcy.

perfection of appeal. The completion of compliance with all of the steps outlined by statute for obtaining a review of a judgment or decree. 4 Am J2d A & E § 295.

perfection of entry. The performance by an entryman upon public lands of the conditions requisite to perfect his entry and obtain the right to a patent. 42 Am J1st Pub L § 23.

perfection of reason. An encomium given the common law. 1 Bl Comm 70.

perfect obligation. An obligation the performance of which is not dependent upon the will or conscience of the obligor but is a matter of legal right. Edwards v Kearzey, 96 US 595, 24 L Ed 793.

perfect ownership. A perpetual ownership, unencumbered by any real rights in a person other than the owner. Maestri v Board of Assessors, 10 La 517, 34 So 658.

perfect right. A right under the law, not merely a moral right or one dependent upon the conscience of the obligor. Edwards v Kearzey, 96 US 595, 24 L Ed 793.

perfect title. A title that is clear, there being no reasonable doubt as to any fact or point of law upon which validity depends. 55 Am J1st V & P § 149. A title free from litigation, palpable defects, or grave doubts, consisting of both legal and equitable title fairly deducible of record. Pearce v Freeman, 122 Okla 285, 254 P 719. A title uniting in one and the same person the possession, the right of possession, and the right of property. Donovan v Pitcher, 53 Ala 411. As a feature of the implied obligation of the vendor under a contract for the sale of real estate, synonymous with marketable title. 55 Am J1st V & P § 149.

A perfect title must be one that is good and valid beyond all reasonable doubt. To be good, it should be free from litigation, palpable defects and grave doubts; should consist of both legal and equitable titles, and should be fairly deducible of record. Turner v McDonald, 76 Cal 177, 180, 18 P 262.

[934]

perfect trust. An executed trust.

Perfectum est cui nihil deest secundum suae perfectionis vel naturae modum. That is perfect which lacks nothing according to the measure of its perfection or nature.

perfect war. A war formally declared. A war formally declared in which one whole nation is at war with another whole nation. 56 Am J1st War § 4.

perfidy. A breach of faith, trust or confidence.

perform. To act for the purpose of accomplishment. In the usual and ordinary legal sense, to act in complete accomplishment of one's obligation. Wooldridge v Stern (CC Mo) 42 F 311.

per formam doni. By the form of the gift.

Tail-general is so called, because however often the donee in tail shall marry, his issue in general by all and every such marriage is, in successive order, capable of inheriting the estate-tail, per formam doni. See 2 Bl Comm 113.

performance. Such a thorough fulfillment of a duty as puts an end to obligations by leaving nothing more to be done. Reid v Field, 83 Va 26, 32. The doing of the acts required by a contract at the time and place therefor and in the manner stipulated. 17 Am J2d Contr § 355. Nothing less than complete performance for the purposes of the exception from the requirements of the statute of frauds of a contract not to be performed within a year. 49 Am J1st Stat of F § 35. The giving of a show; the rendition of a musical or dramatic work in public.

See part performance; specific performance.

performance bond. A type of contractors' bond; a bond which guarantees that the contractor will perform the contract, and usually provides that if the contractor defaults and fails to complete the contract, the surety can itself complete the contract or pay damages up to the limit of the bond. 17 Am J2d Cont Bond § 1.

performance for profit. The exclusive right of the proprietor of a copyright of a musical composition or his assignee. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 24.

A performance for profit may exist, even though no admission fee is charged or no profit actually made. The performance of a copyrighted musical composition in a restaurant or hotel, without charge for admission to hear it, infringes the exclusive right of the owner of the copyright to perform the work publicly for profit. The performance is a part of a total for which the public pays, and the fact that the price of the whole is attributed to a particular item is not important. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 120.

performance on contract. See performance.

performance test. A test of the subject matter of a contract in the manner provided by a provision of the contract by way of determining whether or not there has been such performance of the contract as to entitle the party to the payment of money or other consideration called for by the contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 372.

performed within a year. See agreement not to be performed within a year.

perform the duties required of him by law. A term apt in stating the condition of the bond of an executor or administrator, extending to all duties in reference to the due administration of the estate, including the payment of debts and the distribution of the net assets among those entitled by law to receive them. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 127.

per fraudem. By means of fraud; by fraud; by deceit.

pericarditis. An inflammation of the membranous sac which encloses the heart.

periculi imminentis evitandi causa. For the purpose of avoiding imminent danger. Barnard v Adams (US) 10 How 270, 304, 13 L Ed 417, 431.

periculo petentis. At the risk of the petitioner.

Periculosum est res novas et inusitatas inducere. It is dangerous to introduce new and untried things.

Periculosum existimo quod bonorum virorum non comprobatur exemplo. I believe that that which is not approved by the example of worthy men is dangerous.

periculosus. Perilous; fraught with peril or danger; dangerous.

periculum. Peril; danger; risk.

Periculum rei venditae, nondum traditae, est emptoris. The risk of a thing sold, but not yet delivered, is that of the buyer.

peril. Exposure to injury, loss, or destruction; imminent or impending danger, risk, hazard, or jeopardy. Terre Haute & Indianapolis Railroad Co. v Bruner, 128 Ind 542, 552, 26 NE 178.

perils of inland waters. See perils of river, lake, or canal.

perils of river, lake, or canal. A term analogous to and of like import with perils of the sea; risks arising from natural accidents peculiar to river, canal or lake which do not happen by the intervention of man and are not avoidable by human prudence. 48 Am J1st Ship § 455.

perils of the sea. Natural and inevitable accidents occurring upon the sea. 48 Am J1st Ship § 454. Accidents peculiar to the sea which do not happen by the intervention of man and are not preventable or avoidable by human prudence. 48 Am J1st Ship § 454. Extraordinary occurrences of the elements at sea; lightning, tempests, rocks, and violent stress of weather, winds, and waves. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1310. Sometimes inclusive of capture by pirates. 48 Am J1st Ship § 454.

A clause of a motor carrier liability policy insuring against perils of the seas, lakes, rivers, or inland waters, while on ferries contemplates a loss arising during the course of transportation by water. Long Motor Lines v Home Fire & Marine Ins. Co. 220 SC 335, 67 SE2d 512.

perils of the street. See street perils.

per incuriam. Through carelessness; through inadvertence; through lack of care.

perinde valere. To be equally valid,—a dispensation whereby a clerk or clergy man who was not qualified was nevertheless admitted to a benefice.

[935]

per industriam. By industry.

per industriam hominis. By the industry of man. See 2 Bl Comm 391.

per infortunium. By misfortune; by misadventure; accidentally.

per interim charge d'affairs. See charge d'affairs.

period. A stage in history or, as in geology, in natural processes. An interval of time.

The word has its etymological meaning, but it also has a distinctive signification according to the subject in connection with which it may be used. It may mean any portion of complete time, from a thousand years, or less, to the period of a day; and when used to designate an act to be done, or to be begun, though its completion may take an uncertain time, as, for instance, the act of exportation, it must mean the day on which the exportation commences, or it would be an unmeaning and useless word in its connection. Sampson v Peaslee, (US) 20 How 571, 579, 15 L Ed 1022, 1027.

periodical. Adjective: Occurring at regular intervals. Noun: A magazine or other publication appearing at regular intervals of time, usually weekly or monthly. Houghton v Payne, 194 US 88, 97, 48 L Ed 888, 890, 24 S Ct 590.

periodical appropriation. An annual appropriation of public funds.

See appropriation.

periodical rests. See rest.

periodic apportionment. The apportionment of legislative districts from time to time as provided by constitution or statute, usually following the taking of the federal census, for the purpose of making the apportionment conform to changes in population. 25 Am J2d Elect § 15.

periodic employee. See casual employee.

periodic insanity. Intermittent insanity; insanity interrupted by lucid intervals.

periodic payments. See instalment payments.

period of gestation. The period of time elapsing between a child's conception and its birth, which is, normally, nine months. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 88.

period of nurture. See nurture period.

period of prescription. See prescriptive period.

period of woman. See menses.

periphrasis. Circumlocution; verbosity.

per ipsum regem et totum consilium in parlamento. By the king himself and the whole council in parliament.

Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act. A federal statute passed under the Commerce Clause of the United States Constitution to facilitate the flow of perishable agricultural commodities in commerce by licensing dealers, commission merchants, and brokers and by prohibiting unfair practices. Rothenberg v Rothstein & Sons (CA3 Pa) 183 F2d 524, 21 ALR2d 832.

perishable cargo. A ship's cargo subject to deterioration from inherent causes. Perry v Cobb, 88 Me 435, 34 A 278.

perishable goods. See perishable property.

perishable property. Property subject to decay, deterioration, or depreciation. Anno: 3 ALR3d 595 § 1. Precisely, property which by its inherent nature is subject to immediate decay, Anno: 3 ALR3d 597-604, to decay in a short time. Illinois Cent. Railroad Co. v McClellan, 54 Ill 58. Broadly, any property which will materially depreciate in value, whether by natural decay or from other causes. Anno: 3 ALR3d 608. For some purposes, as for a sale in bankruptcy, property likely to deteriorate in value, even though physical deterioration is not reasonably to be expected. Re Pedlow (CA2 NY) 209 F 841.

peritonitis. A disease characterized by inflammation of the lining of the abdomen.

Perjurii poena divine, exitium; humane dedecus. The divine punishment of perjury is death; the human punishment, disgrace. See 4 Bl Comm 139.

Perjuri sunt qui servatis verbis juramenti decipiunt aures eorum qui accipiunt. They are perjured who, by preserving the words of the oath, deceive the ears of those who receive it.

perjury. Wilful and corrupt false swearing or affirming, after an oath lawfully administered, in the course of a judicial or quasi judicial proceeding as to some matter material to the issue or point in question. 41 Am J1st Perj § 2. In a broader sense, wilful false swearing in regard to any matter or thing respecting which an oath is required or even authorized by law. State v Miller, 26 RI 282, 58 A 882.

False statements of a witness, made in open court are not the subject of perjury, where they have been corrected before the case was submitted. State v Ledford, 195 Wash 581, 81 P2d 830.

per laudamentum parium suorum. By the declaration of his peers.

per laudamentum sive iudicium parium. By the verdict or judgment of his peers.

per legatē iudicium parium. By the lawful judgment or verdict of his peers.

per legem Angliae. By the law of England.

per legem terrae. According to the law of the land. 16 Am J2d Const L § 542.

per legem term et per communem legem terrae. By the law of the land and by the common law of the land. Hurtado v California, 110 US 516, 525, 28 L Ed 232, 235, 4 S Ct 111, 292.

per le gree ou sans le gree. With consent or without it.

permanent. To continue indefinitely; to continue until a change shall be made.

Not, however, to continue forever, nor perpetually, nor for life, nor for any fixed or certain period. Lord v Goldberg, 81 Cal 596, 601, 22 P 1126, 1128; Newton v Commissioners of Mahoning County (US) 10 Otto 548, 25 L Ed 710, 712.

permanent abode. A domicil or home. Anderson v Pifer, 315 Ill 164, 146 NE 171, 37 ALR 134.

[936]

A home, which a party may leave as interest or whim may dictate, but which he has no present intention to abandon. Sullivan v Detroit, Ypsilanti & Ann Arbor Railway Co. 135 Mich 661, 98 NW 756.

permanent alimony. Alimony awarded by final judgment in an action for the annulment of a marriage. 4 Am J2d Annul § 102. An allowance which a court compels the husband to pay to his wife for her support and maintenance where there exists between them a legal separation or divorce. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 600. Permanent in the sense that it is a final provision for the maintenance of the wife, contained in a judgment either decreeing that she is entitled to separate maintenance or granting her a divorce limited or absolute. Huffman v Huffman, 47 Or 610, 86 P 593.

Alimony is never permanent in the absolute sense, usually terminating upon the death of either one of the parties to the divorce. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 515. In some jurisdictions, a woman entitled to alimony may lose the right to receive it by misconduct. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 685.

permanent building and loan association. A building and loan association which issues its stock, not all at once, nor in series, but at any time when application is made therefor. Cook v Equitable Bldg. & Loan Asso. 104 Ga 814, 821.

Permanent Court of International Justice. The judicial branch of the League of Nations, established in 1920 under the auspices of the league, succeeded by the International Court of Justice established as the judicial branch of the United Nations. 30 Am J Rev ed Internat L § 54.

permanent damages. Literally, lasting injury to person or property. Technically, injury to real estate which is permanent in character, so that all the damages, whether present, past, or prospective must be recovered in a single action. 22 Am J2d Damg § 28.

permanent disability. Narrowly defined, a disability remaining to the end or during the lifetime of the person involved. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1529. More broadly defined, a disability which, with reasonable probability, will continue for some indefinite period of time, there being no present indication of recovery. Stuhlberg v Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. 73 Ohio App 355, 29 Ohio Ops 72, 39 Ohio L Abs 525, 53 NE2d 828, affd 143 Ohio St 390, 28 Ohio Ops 343, 55 NE2d 640.

Under a policy of war risk insurance a person's disability is permanent when it is based upon conditions which render it reasonably certain at the time that it will continue throughout the life of the insured. Adams v United States (CA7 Ill) 116 F2d 199.

permanent employment. Steady employment, a steady job, a position of some permanence, as contrasted with a temporary job or temporary employment. Arentz v Morse Dry Dock & Repair Co. 249 NY 439, 164 NE 342, 62 ALR 231. Employment for an indefinite period, which, in the absence of some special consideration, may be terminated at any time by either party. Dicks v Clarence L. Boyd Co. 205 Okla 383, 238 P2d 315, 28 ALR2d 870.

Under special circumstances the term has been construed to mean continuous or indefinite employment, not terminable at the will of either party. Sullivan v Detroit, Ypsilanti & Ann Arbor Railway Co. 135 Mich 661, 98 NW 756.

permanent franchise. See perpetual franchise.

permanent government. An expression connoting substitution for a former temporary or provisional government. Eckloff v District of Columbia, 135 US 240, 34 L Ed 120, 10 S Ct 752.

permanent improvement. Something done to or put on land which cannot be removed or carried away, either because it has become physically impossible to separate it from the land or because, in contemplation of law, it has been annexed to the soil and is therefore to be considered a part of the freehold. 27 Am J1st Improv § 19.

permanent injunction. An injunction granted after final hearing on the merits, as distinguished from a temporary injunction granted by way of provisional relief. Riggins v Thompson, 96 Tex 154, 157, 71 SW 14.

permanent injury. An injury, the future effect of which as a complete or partial disability appears with reasonable certainty. 22 Am J2d Damg § 117. Within the meaning of the risk assumed by an insurer, a lasting or continuous injury. Rom v Republic Coal Co. 94 Mont 250, 22 P2d 157.

An injury by pollution of well waters may be permanent in a legal sense, though not perpetual, unending, or unchangeable. Haveman v Beulow, 36 Wash 185, 217 P2d 313, 19 ALR2d 763.

See permanent disability.

permanent insurance. A policy of insurance under which the insurer agrees to be and remain forever liable to the insured, his heirs and assigns. Marshall v Franklin Fire Ins. Co. 176 Pa 628, 35 A 204. The policy issued after consideration of an application for insurance, as distinguished from a binder or temporary insurance.

permanent insurance fund. A fund established pursuant to federal statute for insuring deposits in banks insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. 12 USC § 1821; 10 Am J2d Bks § 427.

See state insurance fund.

permanent leasehold. See perpetual leasehold.

permanent location. For purposes of taxation of tangible personal property, a more or less permanent location, as distinguished from a transient or temporary location. Not a location in the sense that real estate has a location, or a location fixed beyond any present intention of ever removing the property. 51 Am J1st Tax § 454.

The expression does not mean that to be so located the goods must remain in the place indefinitely, or until they are worn out. Hopkins v Baker Bros. & Co. 78 Md 363, 28 A 284.

permanent monument. A marker of a boundary line of more or less permanency, at least one not of a perishable nature.

Stakes and posts referred to in the recorded location of a mining claim, may or may not be permanent monuments and their permanency presents a question for the determination of a jury under the evidence produced. J. E. Riley Invest. Co. v Sakow (CA9 Alaska) 98 F2d 8.

permanent nuisance. A nuisance of such a character and existing under such circumstances that it will be presumed to continue indefinitely, being at once necessarily productive of all the damage which can ever result from it. 39 Am J1st Nuis § 131.

permanent receivership. A receivership established by the court after judgment, Decker v Gardner, 124

[937]

NY 334, 26 NE 814, as distinguished from a receivership had by way of provisional relief.

permanent repairs. For practical purposes, improvements. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 454.

permanent residence. Domicile. Re Gape, [1952] Ch 743, [1952] 2 All Eng 579, 35 ALR2d 380.

See domicil; residence.

permanent road. A road surfaced with crushed rock, gravel, macadam, brick, concrete, asphalt-macadam, or any other hard surfacing material. Pine v Baker, 76 Okla 62, 184 P 445 (statutory definition).

permanent scholarship. The tuition of one pupil in perpetuo, that is, the right to send any fit person within the option of the holder to college, as a pupil, to be educated, subject to the usual regulations of the institution, free of tuition. Howard College v Turner, 71 Ala 429.

permanent statute. See perpetual statute.

permanent support order. An order for the permanent support of wife or of a child. 23 Am J2d Desert §§ 49, 112, 118.

permanent trespass. A trespass of a permanent nature, where the injury is continually renewed; as where a man's cattle are habitually permitted to trespass and spoil and consume the herbage. See 3 Bl Comm 212.

per medietatem linguae. See jury de medietate linguae.

per metas et bundas. By metes and bounds.

per minas. By threats.

See duress per minas.

per minas duress. Same as duress per minas.

per mis. In two parts; in half.

per misadventure. By misfortune; by accident; accidentally.

per mis et per tout. By the half, and by all.

permissible levy. The maximum levy of taxes permitted by law. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp § 427.

permission. Leave; license; sufferance.

permission of court. See leave of court.

permission of insured. The consent of the owner of an automobile covered by an insurance policy to the use of the car by another. Anno: 5 ALR2d 608.

See consent of insured.

permissive. Permitted; allowed; suffered to continue.

permissive constitutional provision. A provision of a constitution in such permissive terms that reasonably, it is not to be construed as mandatory. 16 Am J2d Const L § 91.

permissive counterclaim. A counterclaim constituting an essentially independent action, having no relation to the subject matter of the plaintiff's cause of action. Big Cola Corp. v World Bottling Co. (CA6 Tenn) 134 F2d 718. Any claim against an opposing party not arising out of the transaction or occurrence that is the subject matter of the opposing party's claim. Rule 13 (b), Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

permissive franchise. A franchise to be exploited only as the grantee thereof sees fit to exploit it, except as he is influenced toward exploitation by the right of the municipality which granted the franchise to forfeit it for nonuser. Murray v Roberts (CA2 NY) 103 F2d 889.

permissive party. See proper party.

permissive possession. A term loosely applied to the occupation of real property by one person with the consent of the owner or the person entitled to possession, for example, occupation of premises by a licensee. Jeffers v Edge (Okla) 295 P2d 787.

A tenancy at will may arise as a result of the taking possession of land by permission, "permissive possession," as it is called, without any understanding as to the duration of the possession; and this tenancy may, by reason of the reservation or payment of rent, be changed into a periodic tenancy. Smith v Royal Ins. Co. (CA9 Cal) 111 F2d 667.

permissive use. A use of premises which is not hostile or adverse to the owner. The use of premises by express or implied permission or license granted by the owner. 25 Am J2d Eas § 54. The use of the premises of another with his consent or sufferance. The use of premises by the public under, and in connection with, its use by the owner in any manner desired by him. Anno: 58 ALR 240; 23 Am J2d Ded § 29. An interest in real property, recognized only in equity prior to the statute of uses, arising where the legal title was conveyed to one person for the use or benefit of another.

permissive use of highway. The use of street or highway for purposes other than that of travel and transportation. 25 Am J High § 168.

permissive waste. Waste by a tenant, otherwise known as negligent waste or passive waste, in failing to exercise the ordinary care of a prudent man for the preservation and protection of the estate, such as permitting a house to remain uncovered, whereby the timbers become rotten. 56 Am J1st Waste § 4.

permit. Verb: To give permission; to license. To grant leave or liberty; to allow to be done by giving consent or by not prohibiting. Wilson v State, 19 Ind App 389, 46 NE 1050. To tolerate. Cowley v People, 83 NY 464. Noun: A permission granted in writing, such as a building permit. A license.

permit system. A system or practice of employers of labor, adopted to enforce the "open shop" plan, the object of which was to limit sales of certain specified kinds of materials to builders who supported the plan.

To render this restriction effective, the person concerned was required to obtain a permit from the builders' exchange, specifying the kind and quantities of materials to be furnished and the particular job on which they were to be used. Industrial Asso. of San Francisco v United States, 268 US 64, 75, 69 L Ed 849, 852, 45 S Ct 403.

permittere. (Latin.) To permit.

per miter le droit. By the release of the right,—one of the modes in which releases operated at common law, as where a person who has been disseised releases to the disseisor, his heir or feoffee.

By the release, the right which was in the releaser is added to the possession of the releasee, and the two combined perfect the estate. Miller v Emans, 19 NY 384, 387.

per muter l'estate. By the release of the estate,—one of the modes in which releases operated at common law.

[938]

As where two or more are seised, either by deed, devise or descent, as joint-tenants or coparceners of the same estate, and one of them releases to the other, this is said to enure by way of mitter l'estate. Miller v Emans, 19 NY 384, 388.

permitting gambling. Knowingly acquiescing in the use of one's property or premises, or of property or premises under one's control as a place to gamble. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 42. Licensing gambling. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 10.

permit to run at large. Intentionally or negligently permitting one's animals to run at large. Pongetti v Spraggins, 215 Miss 397, 61 So 2d 158, 34 ALR2d 1277.

permutatio. (Civil law.) Same as permutation.

permutation. An exchange or barter of goods.

per my et per tout. By the half or moiety, and by all.

The phrase describes the seisin of joint tenants, in whom there must be unity of possession. They each of them have the entire possession (not merely half), as well of every parcel as of the whole. See 2 Bl Comm 182.

pernancy. The taking, perception, or receipt of the rents, profits, or other advantages arising from an estate in real property. See 2 Bl Comm 163.

pernor. A receiver; a taker; a recipient.

pernor of profits. A person who enjoys the profits or advantages arising out of an estate in real property; a cestui que use.

pernour. Same as pernor.

per omnes. By all persons.

per pais. By the country.

See trial by the county.

per patriam. By the country, by means of a jury of the vicinage.

perpetration of felony. The commission of a felony.

Under the usual statutory provision that homicide committed in the perpetration of a felony is murder in the first degree, where the homicide is committed within the res gestae of the felony charged, it is committed in the perpetration of, or attempt to perpetrate, the felony. Conrad v State, 75 Ohio St 52, 78 NE 957.

See attempt.

perpetrator. One who perpetrates. A principal in the first degree; that is the person who actually commits the criminal act, as distinguished from one who aids or abets in its commission. Myers v State, 19 Okla Crim 129, 197 P 884, 18 ALR 1057.

perpetual. Everlasting or eternal. Continuous; without interruption.

Which of the above variant meanings is to apply in the particular case is to be determined according to the subject to which the adjective is applied. Scanlan v Crawshaw, 5 Mo App 337, 339.

perpetual annuity. An annuity granted in fee. Anno: 54 ALR2d 373 § 6. An annuity to continue for an unlimited time without interruption; one to be enjoyed longer than the lifetime of the first taker or beneficiary. 4 Am J2d Annui § 7.

perpetual care. The obligation of the proprietor of a cemetery, imposed by statute or by contract with a purchaser of lots, for the upkeep of the lots and graves thereon in sodding, cutting grass, planting shrubbery, etc. 14 Am J2d Cem § 20.

perpetual contract. A contract without limit as to duration. 17 Am J2d Contr § 486.

perpetual curacy. A curacy where all the tithes are appropriated, and no vicarage is endowed, but instead thereof, the perpetual curate is appointed by the appropriator. See 1 B1 Comm 393.

perpetual easement. An easement to continue in operation and be enforceable forever. 25 Am J2d Ease § 99.

Perpetua lex est, nullam legem humanam ac positivam perpetuam esse; et clausula quae abrogationem excludit ab initio non valet. The law is perpetual that no human and positive law is to be perpetual; and a clause which excludes or precludes abrogation or repeal is void from the beginning.

perpetual existence of corporation. The immortality of a corporation as spoken of in the Dartmouth College Case. Dartmouth College v Woodward (US) 4 Wheat 518, 4 L Ed 629.

See perpetual succession.

perpetual franchise. A franchise to endure forever, at least so long as the state refrains from interfering to terminate it. Anno: 2 ALR 1109; 35 Am J2d Ferr § 44; 36 Am J2d Franch § 44; 56 Am J1st Watwk § 5.

perpetual injunction. Same as permanent injunction.

perpetual lease. A lease for a yearly rental to one for as long as he shall comply with the contract and pay the rent. The equivalent of a conveyance in fee reserving the rent, 32 Am J1st L & T § 1039; creating a qualified, base, or determinable fee. Smith v Improvement District, 108 Ark 141, 156 SW 455; Piper v Meredith, 83 NH 107, 139 A 294, 55 ALR 148.

perpetually. See perpetual; in perpetuum.

perpetual non-participating royalty. A right to royalties on oil and gas produced which is reserved or granted before any oil and gas lease is executed, granting or reserving no right to participate in the making of future leases. Denver Joint Stock Land Bank v Dixon, 57 Wyo 523, 122 P2d 842, 140 ALR 1270.

perpetual rate. A rate for public utility service fixed as for all time, displacing the power of the municipality to fix reasonable rates. Mobile Electric Co. v Mobile, 201 Ala 607, 79 So 39.

perpetual restriction. A restriction by covenant unlimited in respect of time. 20 Am J2d Cov § 180.

perpetual statute. A statute which, not being by its terms limited in its operation to a particular period of time, will continue in force until duly altered or repealed by competent authority. 50 Am J1st Stat § 513.

perpetual succession. Continuous and uninterrupted succession of a corporation so long as it shall continue to exist as a corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp § 65. In the case of a life insurance company, an existence which may run beyond the period for which the corporation may legally exist, so far as existence is necessary to give effect to the obligations assumed under policies issued by the company. State ex rel. Major v German Mut. L. Ins. Co. 224 Mo 84, 123 SW 19.

[939]

perpetual tax lien. An expression loosely applied to the lien of an assessment which, as provided by statute, shall stand with priority as against future and recurring liens for ad valorem taxes. Altman v Kilburn, 45 NM 453, 116 P2d 812, 136 ALR 554.

perpetuum rei memoriam. See in perpetuum rei memoriam.

perpetuation of testimony. Preserving testimony for possible use in future litigation by taking the deposition of the witness, thus guarding against the possible loss of his testimony by death or incompetency. 23 Am J2d Dep § 8.

perpetuity. Literally, something that lasts forever. In an artificial sense of the term, as used in the law of property, a limitation of a contingent future interest in violation of the rule against perpetuities. A limitation, whether executory or by way of remainder, of either real or personal property, which is not to vest until after expiration of, or will not necessarily vest within, the period fixed and prescribed by law for the creation of future estates and interests, and which is not destructible by persons for the time being entitled to the property subject to the future limitation, except with the concurrence of the individual interested under that limitation. 41 Am J1st Perp § 7.

See rule against perpetuities.

perpetuity of the king. The attribute of absolute immortality which the law of England ascribes to the king, in his political capacity.

Henry, Edward, or George may die, but the king survives them all. For, immediately upon the decease of the reigning prince, in his natural capacity, his kingship or imperial dignity, by act of law, without any interregnum or interval, is vested eo instanti in his heir. See 1 Bl Comm 249.

perpetuum rei testimonium. See in perpetuum rei testimonium. per power of attorney. By power of attorney.

See power of attorney.

per pro. An abbreviation of per procuracy. Giles v Newton (DC NY) 21 F2d 484.

per proc. An abbreviation of per procuracy.

per procuracy. By proxy. An expression used by an agent in executing a note or other contract on behalf of his principal, which indicates that the authority of the agent is special and limited.

per quae servitia. By which services,—a writ by which the cognizee in a fine of lands could have the tenant attorn to him.

perquirere. To acquire; to purchase.

perquisites. Emoluments or profits accruing to a public officer beyond the salary payable to him. 43 Am J1st Pub Of § 359. Fees, allowances, privileges or compensation beyond those of his ordinary salary or wages, which an officer or employee may receive with propriety. Cantling v Hannibal & St. Joseph Railroad Co. 54 Mo 385.

perquisitio. An acquisition; a purchase.

perquisitor. Same as purchaser.

perquisitum. A purchase; an acquisition.

per quod. By which; by means of which.

per quod actio accrevit. By means of which an action accrued.

per quod consortium amisit. Through or by means of which, he has lost the consortium. 27 Am J1st H & W § 501.

per quod defamatory. See libelous per quod; slanderous per quod.

per quod matrimonium amisit. Through or by which he has lost his marriage. Harrison v Cage (Eng) 5 Mod 411.

per quod servitium amisit. By or through which he lost his services.

Per rationes pervenitur ad legitimam rationem. By reasoning one arrives at the legal or proper reason.

Per rerum naturam, factum negantis nulla probatio est. In the nature of things, a person who denies a fact is held to no proof.

per saltum. By a leap or bound, that is, quickly; speedily.

per sceptrum. By the sceptre; by the sword.

per se. By itself. By or through itself; simply; as such; in its own relations. Burr v Winnett Times Publishing Co. 80 Mont 70, 258 P 242.

persecutio. (Civil law.) The act of prosecuting or proceeding against a person in either a civil or a criminal action.

per se defamatory. See libelous per se; slanderous per se.

per se negligence. See negligence per se.

per se nuisance. See nuisance per se.

per se slander. See slander per se.

persistent refusal of sexual intercourse. A ground of divorce in some jurisdictions; constant and continuous refusal. Goucher v Goucher, 82 Cal App 449, 255 P 892.

persistent violator. An habitual criminal. 25 Am J1st Habit Cr § 11.

In some jurisdictions, the term is used to signify that a person charged with a given criminal offense has previously been convicted of a similar offense, and in such states the persistent violator is guilty of an aggravated offense. State v Bruno, 69 Utah 444, 256 P 109.

person. An individual or an organization. UCC § 1201(30). An individual man, woman, or child or, as a general rule, a corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp § 20. Inclusive of bodies politic and corporate. Waterbury v Board of Com. 10 Mont 515, 26 P 1002. As used in the Bankruptcy Act, inclusive of corporations, officers, partnerships, and women, except where otherwise specified. Bankruptcy Act § 1(23); 11 USC § 1(23). Under the negotiable Instruments Law, an individual or a body of persons whether incorporated or not. Uniform Negotiable Instruments Law § 191. As used in the anti-trust laws, inclusive of corporations and associations. 36 Am J1st Monop etc § 186. Inclusive of corporations where used in a statute imposing a license tax. 33 Am J1st Lic § 49. Usually inclusive of corporations in a tax statute, 51 Am J1st Tax § 318. Inclusive of corporations where used in a statute relating to the sale of commodities by weight or measure. 56 Am J1st W & L § 5. Inclusive of corporations in a pure food law. State v Belle Springs Creamery Co.

[940]

83 Kan 389, 111 P 474. For the purposes of the due process clause, either a citizen or an alien. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 8. For the purposes of extradition, either a citizen or an alien. 31 Am J2d Extrad § 17.

A corporation is deemed a "person" within the meaning of the statute of limitations, and consequently, the statute ordinarily runs against corporations and domestic corporations are generally included within the class of persons who may plead the statute, and they may, as a general rule, acquire title by adverse possession for the statutory period in the same manner and to the same extent as an individual. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 372. A municipal corporation is a "person" within the meaning of the statute of limitations. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 397.

Liquor license laws may either expressly permit, or be held susceptible of a construction which authorizes corporations to be licensed thereunder, and the word "person," as used in such legislation, is usually held to embrace a corporation, irrespective of whether there is an express provision to that effect in the license law or in general law. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 126.

The word "person," where used in statutes defining crimes, is usually construed to include a corporation, so as to bring corporations within the prohibition of the statute. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1436.

Dependent upon the entire context of the instrument, the word "person," as used in a will, may or may not include a corporation. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1326.

persona. (Civil law.) A person.

personable. Having a good appearance. In an unusual sense, competent to incur obligations enforceable at law.

Persona conjuncta aequiparatur interesse proprio. The fact of a person's being connected by ties of blood is equivalent to his having a personal interest.

persona ecclesiae. (Eccles.) Person of the church; a parson.

Persona est homo, cum statu quodam consideratus. A person is a man when considered with reference to a certain status.

Personae vice fungitur municipium et decuria. A town or a borough acts as a person. Warner v Beers (NY) 23 Wend 103, 144.

person aggrieved. See aggrieved; aggrieved party.

persona impersonata. A parson who has been inducted into and put into possession of a benefice. See 1 Bl Comm 391.

personal. Pertaining to the person. Terre Haute Electric Railway Co. v Lauer, 21 Ind App 466, 475. Springing from or belonging to one's self; affecting or relating to one individually. Genung v Best, 100 NJ Eq 250, 253, 135 A 514, 516.

personal actions. Action brought for the specific recovery of goods and chattels, or for damages or other redress for breach of contract or other injuries, of whatever description, the specific recovery of lands, tenements, and hereditaments only excepted. 1 Am J2d Actions § 38. As to form, either ex contractu or ex delicto; as to place of trial, local or transitory; as to object, in personam or in rem. 1 Am J2d Actions § 38.

personal ailment. A sickness, but not inclusive of confinement in childbirth. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 758.

personal assets. The personal property of a person. Personal property of a decedent vesting in his executor or administrator as assets available for the payment of the decedent's debts, consisting of goods, chattels, money, credits, unpaid legacies, and corporate stock. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 197.

personal benefit. For the benefit of a person individually.

As the term is used in a testamentary gift, the words do not limit the beneficiary to so much as is necessary for his support. The word benefit is much broader than the word support. But it is not so broad as to include any purpose to which the absolute owner of property can devote it. Re Robinson, 101 Vt 464, 75 ALR 59.

personal bias. See bias.

As a cause for the disqualification of a judge to sit in the trial of a case, "personal bias" must amount to personal prejudice against the party. Such bias cannot be shown by a judicial opinion formed on legal evidence offered in open court in the hearing of a case, however adverse or severe it may be upon the party concerned. Parker v New England Oil Corp. (DC Mass) 13 F2d 497.

personal chattel. Any article of tangible personal property.

An account receivable is not a personal chattel. Plunkett-Jarrell Grocery Co. v Terry, 222 Ark 784, 263 SW2d 229, 44 ALR2d 917.

See personal effects; personal things.

personal contract. See personal service contract.

personal covenant. A covenant which does not run with the land so as to bind the heirs, personal representative, or transferee of the covenantor, but binds only the covenantor personally. 20 Am J2d Cov § 29.

personal earnings. Earnings by physical or mental labor, unaided by capital, except in so far as such may be necessary to supply the means of performing such labor as a necessary incident of the same, such, for instance, as the ax of a wood cutter, or the pen, ink, and paper of a writer. Kerr v Tyler Guaranty State Bank (Tex Civ App) 283 SW 601, 603.

personal easement. Same as easement in gross.

personal effects. Clothing, jewelry, ornaments, and other articles carried or worn upon the person.

See effects.

personal estate. Every species of property not of a freehold nature, including not only goods and chattels, but rights and credits. Bullowa v Gladding, 40 RI 147, 100 A 249.

As to what passes under term "personal estate" in will, see Anne: 53 ALR2d 1059.

See my personal estate.

personal execution. See execution against the person.

personal exemption. See exemption; tax exemption.

personal holding company. A corporation subjected to a special federal income tax in order to avoid the use of the organization by an individual in a high tax bracket for tax avoidance purposes. IRC § 451.

A corporation at least 80 per cent of the income of which in one year was derived from interest, and at least fifty per cent of the outstanding stock of which was owned by not more than five persons, was a personal holding company as defined in Section 351(b) (1) of the Revenue Act of 1934. O'Sullivan Rubber Co. v Commissioner (CA2) 120 F2d 845.

[941]

Personalia personam sequuntur. Personal property follows the person. Flanders v Cross, 64 Mass (10 Cush) 514, 516.

personal immunity. See immunity; privacy.

personal indignity. A ground for divorce, consisting of an act insulting or humiliating to the victim, evidencing hate or estrangement of the offender from the innocent spouse, as a result of which the victim finds further cohabitation intolerable. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 156. Conduct that renders life burdensome and intolerable without being so violent as to endanger life. Sharp v Sharp, 106 Pa Super 33, 161 A 453.

personal injury. An injury to the body of a person. Smith v Buck, 119 Ohio St 101, 162 NE 382, 61 ALR 1343; Rheudasil v Clower (Tenn) 270 SW2d 345, 46 ALR2d 1083. A personal wrong; an invasion of a personal right; an injury which pertains to the person, the individual. People v Quanstrom, 93 Mich 254, 53 NW 165. As the subject of an action:—an injury to the person, whether the action is based upon contract or tort. 34 Am J Rev ed Lim Ac § 103. Any actionable injury to the individual himself, whether or not it involves physical contact. Bennett v Bennett, 116 NY 584, 23 NE 17. Any injury causing actual physical pain, discomfort, or disability to any person, which occasions loss or damage either to such person or to any other person entitled to the benefit of the services of the injured person. White v Safe Deposit & Trust Co. 140 Md 593, 118 A 77, 24 ALR 482, 485 (alienation of spouse's affections); sometimes inclusive of an injury affecting the reputation, character, conduct, manner, and habits of a person. Tisdale v Eubanks, 180 NC 153, 104 SE 339, 11 ALR 374. As the term is used in venue statutes:—a physical or bodily injury. 56 Am J1st Ven § 15. As the term is used in workmen's compensation acts:—any lesion or change in the structure of the body, causing harm thereto and a lessened facility of its natural and normal use. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 194.

There are two classes of personal injuries: those that are fatal, and those that are not fatal. The term naturally includes injuries of both classes because no one of either class is not an injury. The obvious and ordinary meaning of the term is all injuries, whether fatal or not. Hendel v State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. (CA7 Ind) 97 F2d 777.

A right of action exists in favor of a child permanently injured through the negligence of another prior to its birth but after it had become a viable child, under a constitutional provision affording a remedy to every "person" for injury done him in his person. Williams v Marion Rapid Transit, 152 Ohio St 114, 87 NE2d 334, 10 ALR2d 1051.

personalis actio. (Civil law.) A personal action; an action against a person.

personaliter. Personally.

personality. The law which appertains or relates to, or deals with, persons. Identity; individuality.

personality conflicts. See incompatibility.

personal judgment. A matter of personal taste or feeling. 17 Am J2d Contr § 367.

See judgment in personam.

personal jurisdiction. See jurisdiction in personam.

personal knowledge. One's own knowledge. With more accuracy, knowledge derived from the exercise of one's own senses. Little v Massachusetts N. E. St. R. Co. 223 Mass 501, 112 NE 77. A person's direct knowledge of anything, as distinguished from that which he learns by hearsay.

personal law. The law which follows the person, as distinguished from the law of the place where the person may be.

personal liability. An obligation attaching to the person, as distinguished from an obligation enforceable against property. A liability of an agent or fiduciary imposed on a personal basis for something done by him in the course of the agency or administration of the trust.

See stockholder's liability.

personal liberty. That liberty of the individual which consists in the power of locomotion, of changing situation, or removing his person to whatsoever place his own inclination may direct, without imprisonment or restraint, unless by due course of law.

Next to personal security, the law of England regards, asserts, and preserves the personal liberty of individuals. See 1 Bl Comm 134.

See life, liberty, and property.

personal luggage. Whatever the passenger takes with him for his personal use and convenience, according to the habits or wants of the particular class to which he belongs, either with reference to the immediate necessities or to the ultimate purposes of the journey. This would include not only articles of apparel, whether for use or ornament, but also the gun-case or fishing apparatus of the sportsman, the easel of the artist on a sketching tour, or the books of the student, and other articles of analogous character, the use of which is personal to the traveler, and the taking of which has arisen from the fact of his journeying. Oakes v Northern Pacific Railroad Co. 20 Or 392, 26 P 230.

personally acquainted with. A statement of knowledge of identity, common to certificates of acknowledgment. 1 Am J2d Ack § 70.

personally appeared. A phrase common in certificates of acknowledgment, sometimes accepted as the equivalent of "personally known." 1 Am J2d Ack § 69.

personally known to me. A statement of knowledge of identity common to certificates of acknowledgment. 1 Am J2d Ack § 68.

As the words are used in a notary's certificate of acknowledgment stating that the party acknowledging the instrument is "personally known to me" to be the person whose name is subscribed thereto, such knowledge involves such an acquaintance, derived from association with the person in relation to other people, as establishes his identity with at least reasonable certainty. Such an acquaintance cannot depend upon the word of one or two or three individuals, but must be based upon a chain of circumstances surrounding the person, all of which tend to show that he is what he purports to be. Something affirmative in the nature of evidence of identity must appear during the course of the acquaintanceship. Anderson v Aronsohn, 181 Cal 294, 184 P 12, 10 ALR 866, 869.

personal notice. Actual notice. Travelers' Ins. Co. v Farmers' Mut. Fire Ins. Asso. 211 Iowa 1051, 233

NW 153. Notice given individually to the person concerned. Notice communicated directly to a person, not through another. 39 Am J1st Notice § 11.

personal property. Money, goods, and movable chattels. Ralston Steel Car Co. v Ralston, 112 Ohio St 306, 147 NE 513, 39 ALR 334. Goods, chattels, things in action, evidences of debt, and money. All objects and rights which are capable of ownership except freehold estates in land, and incorporeal hereditaments issuing there out, or exercisable within the same. 42 Am J1st Prop § 23.

The ultimate test in determining what particular items pass under a testamentary gift of "personal property" is the intention of the testator. While it is clear that the term is sufficiently broad in its accepted technical significance to include all forms of property other than land or interests in land, if the testator intended that it should embrace so much, in a majority of cases the courts have, in view of the actual intention of the testator as disclosed by the language of the will and the circumstances surrounding its execution, construed the term as carrying a restricted rather than a broad signification. In some instances, it has been held that the term passed only personal or household effects. In other instances, the term has been construed as including only intangibles or as excluding certain kinds of tangible property, such as growing crops. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1339.

personal-property loan broker. One who makes a business of making small loans on the security of chattel mortgages on personal property. 40 Am J1st Pawnb § 9.

personal property tax lien. A lien for unpaid taxes on personal property, usually extending to the real as well as the personal property of the taxpayer, and sometimes a lien only upon the real estate. 51 Am J1st Tax §§ 1011, 1018.

personal release. A release of one co-obligor with the consent of the other co-obligors. Any release of one co-obligor given under circumstances which operate to prevent it from effecting a release of all the co-obligors. 45 Am J1st Rel § 34.

Personal replevin. Ill-chosen terminology for the writ of habeas corpus.

personal representative. Ordinarily, the executor or administrator of a decedent's estate. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 1. For some purposes, an heir, next of kin, assignee, trustee, receiver, etc. 12 Am J2d Bonds § 24; 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1656; 36 Am J2d Frat O § 154. For the purpose of protection against testimony by party or interested person:—the executor or administrator of a deceased person, or a person or party who has succeeded to the right of the deceased, whether by purchase, descent, or operation of law. 58 Am J1st Witn § 237. As a proper party plaintiff to recover for the death of an employee under the Federal Employers' Liability Act:—an executor or administrator only. 35 Am J1st M & S § 474.

personal rights. A classification of the rights which a person has in relation strictly to the duties owed to him by others and the wrongs consequent to the breach or violation of such duties. Duffies v Duffies, 76 Wis 374, 45 NW 522.

See rights of person.

personal security. The security of the debtor's personal promise to pay the debt, as distinguished from property pledged, mortgaged, or held in trust. Merrill v National Bank of Jacksonville, 173 US 131, 43 L Ed 640, 19 S Ct 360. Security in the promise or undertaking of a guarantor or surety, as distinguished from property pledged, mortgaged, or held in trust. A person's legal and uninterrupted enjoyment of his life, his limbs, his body, his health, and his reputation. See 1 Bl Comm 129.

See life, liberty, and property.

personal service contract. A contract for the furnishing of services by the promisor only, that is, services to be performed by no person other than the promisor.

Illustrations of such contracts ordinarily given are: a master's contract to instruct his apprentice; an author's contract to compose a particular work; a contract of a physician or an attorney at law to render professional services. Janin v Browne, 59 Cal 37, 44.

personal service corporation. A corporation whose earnings are primarily from the services rendered by its principal stockholders. Thomas E. Basham Co. v Lucas (DC Ky) 21 F2d 550.

personal service of process. The actual or direct delivery of the summons or notice, or a copy thereof, to the person to whom it is directed or to someone who is authorized to receive it in his behalf. 42 Am J1st Proc §48.

personal services. The work and labor of a certain person. For some purposes, inclusive of the services of an instrumentality, such as a team of horses. 34 Am J1st Logs § 107. Work performed in reference to the person, such as by the valet of a man or the personal maid of a woman.

See personal service contract.

personal servitude. See servitude in gross; slavery.

personal statute. A statute affecting the status and condition of a person, such as one which determines the age of majority. Saul v His Creditors (La) 5 Mart 569.

personal tax. Broadly, the burden imposed by government on its own citizens for the benefits which that government affords by its protection and its laws. United States v Erie Railroad Co. (US) 16 Otto 327, 333, 27 L Ed 151, 155, 1 S Ct 223. In a narrower sense, a poll or head tax.

personal things. Personal effects. Not inclusive of securities, money, or real property. Re Klewer's Estate. 124 Cal App 2d 219, 268 P2d 544, 41 ALR2d 941.

As to what passes under a bequest of "personal things," see Anno: 41 ALR2d 941.

personal tithes. Tithes which were paid in the products of manual labor or manufacture.

personal tort. A wrong against the person. A wrong to the person, such as an assault; also a wrong affecting the feelings and reputation, such as libel, slander, and malicious prosecution. Slauson v Schwabacher, 4 Wash 783, 31 P 329.

A tort which is not an injury to property is a personal tort. Gray v Blight (CA 10 Colo) 112 F2d 696.

personal trademarks and tradenames. Trademarks and tradenames which indicate to the public that the personal care and skill of a certain individual have been exercised in the selection or production of the goods in connection with which the mark or name is used. 52 Am J1st Tradem § 33.

personalty. Same as personal property.

[943]

personal use trust. A trust which is for a specific personal use, the consequence being that the interest of the beneficiary is inalienable and not liable for his debts. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 161.

personam. See in personam; in personam action.

persona non grate. A person who is not acceptable.

persona praedilecta. A highly favored person.

persona standi in judicio. Capacity of standing in judgment; capacity to sue or to be sued.

personation. Assuming the identity of another.

See impersonation.

person beyond the seas. See beyond the seas.

persone. A parson; a rector.

personero. (Spanish.) An attorney.

person in authority. Sheriff, constable, police or peace officer making an arrest and having the prisoner in custody, jailer, prosecuting attorney or district attorney, authorized investigator, a prosecuting witness, an examining magistrate, an interpreter, or the agent of any of the foregoing. 29 Am J2d Ev § 564 (discussing confession made under promise of immunity by "person in authority").

person indemnified. The person with whom an indemnity agreement is executed. 42 USC § 2014(r) (statutory definition of Atomic Energy Act of 1954).

See indemnity.

person in loco parentis. One who has taken a position in reference to a child of that of a lawful father, assuming the office of a father and the obligation of supporting the child, assuming a parental character and discharging parental duties, although not the parent. Brinkerhoff v Merselis' Executors, 24 NJL 680, 683. One who takes a child into his home and treats it as a member of his own family, educating and supporting it as if it were his own child. 39 Am J1st P & C § 61.

person non compos. See non compos mentis.

person of color. See colored person.

person or party interested. See interested person; party in interest.

person primarily liable. A person whose name appears on the face of a negotiable instrument, as a maker or one obligated by the instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 120.

persons meeting. See meeting; meeting each other.

Perspiciua vera non sunt probanda. Evident facts need not be proved. Pollard's Estate, 18 Pa Dist 636, 638.

per stirpem. By representation.

See per stirpes.

per stirpes. Per class, particularly distribution by the class. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 200. Taking together the share that a parent would have taken. Anno: 126 ALR 159; 57 Am J1st Wills § 1291. By representation; taking a share which a deceased ancestor would have taken had he survived the intestate. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 65.

Sometimes a per stirpes distribution has been defined in such a manner as to include, in the definition, the proposition that the number of stocks or roots, into which an estate is originally to be divided is to be determined by reference to the oldest generation which is represented by a living member. Thus, it has been said that in a stirpital distribution the number of stocks in the distribution is determined by the number of the nearest class of blood relatives who survived the decedent and the number of such class who have died leaving issue surviving the decedent. Re McKeon's Estate, 25 Misc 2d 850, 199 NYS2d 158.

Taking per stirpes or per capita under will. Anno: 13 ALR2d 1023.

persuade. To induce. To incline the will, to prevail upon by argument, advice, expostulations, or reasons. Wilson v State, 38 Ala 411, 413.

persuasive authority. See judicial dicta; precedent.

per subsequens matrimonium. By a subsequent marriage.

pertaining to more hazardous occupation. Accident insurance policy provisions for diminution of indemnity where insured engages in, or does act pertaining to, a more hazardous occupation. Anno: 8 ALR2d 481.

pertenencia. A land measure used in Spanish-American land grants, being a square of two hundred varas, or five hundred and fifty feet. Castillero v United States (US) 2 Black 1, 17 L Ed 360.

per testes. By witnesses. Nobles v Georgia, 168 US 398, 406, 42 L Ed 515, 518, 18 S Ct 87.

pertinens. Appurtenant; belonging to.

pertinent. Having a bearing upon a matter at hand, particularly evidence bearing upon the issues made by the pleadings.

pertinent hypothesis. An hypothesis which, if sustained, would logically influence the issue. Graham v State, 125 Tex Crim Rep 210, 67 SW2d 296.

pertinentiae. Appurtenances; things which are appurtenant, or belong to, or are incident to.

per totem curiam. By the whole court,—by all the judges of the court.

per tot, cur. An abbreviated form of per totem curiam.

per totum tempus praedictum. During the whole of the time aforesaid.

per tout. By all.

per tout et non per my. By all and not by the half.

If an estate in fee be given to a man and his wife, they are neither properly joint tenants, nor tenants in common, because the two being considered as one person in law, they cannot take the estate by moieties, but both are seined of the entirety, per tout et non per my; the consequence of which is, that neither of them can dispose of any part without the assent of the other, but the whole must remain to the survivor. See 2 Bl Comm 182, note.

perturbation. A disturbance; a breach of the peace.

perturbator. A person who broke the peace.

perturbatrix. A female who broke the peace.

[944]

per universitatem. (Civil law.) As a whole; as an entirety.

per usucaptionem. By continuous use.

per vadium. By pledge; by way of pledge.

per vadium et salvos plegios. By gage and safe pledges.

Per varios actus, legem experientia facit. By various acts, experience makes the law.

per verba de futuro. In words of the future tense. See 1 Bl Comm 439.

per verba de futuro cum copula. See marriage per verba de futuro cum copula.

per verba de praesenti. In words of the present tense. See 1 Bl Comm 439.

See marriage per verba de praesenti.

per verba de praesenti tempore. By words of the present tense.

perversion of legal remedy. Abuse of process; malicious prosecution; false arrest; false imprisonment.

Per vinum delapsis capitalis poena remittitur. The punishment for a capital offense committed while intoxicated is remitted. A rule of the Roman law which the common law never adopted. See 4 Bl Comm 26.

per visum ecclesiae. By or under the supervision of the church.

per visum juratorum. By the viewing of the jury.

per vivam vocem. By the living voice.

Pervolvat quo planeta suum circulum annus mora motus est. A year is the duration of the movement in which a planet revolves through its orbit.

per year. Annually. Curtiss v Howell, 39 NY 211, 213.

pesage. A toll charged for weighing commodities.

peseta. The monetary unit of Spain.

peso. The monetary unit of the Philippines and some Latin-American countries. A silver coin current and legal tender in the island of Puerto Rico until September, 1900, in which year an act of Congress provided for the redemption of all the coins then in circulation in the island, at the rate of sixty cents in American coins for each peso. Serralles v Esbri, 200 US 103, 111, 50L Ed 391, 395, 26 S Ct 176.

pessimi exempli. Of the worst example.

pest. An animal or insect which preys upon crops.

pest house. A building for the detention and care of persons inflicted with communicable disease.

pestilence. A contagious disease, often fatal; a raging of such a disease in epidemic proportions. Sings v Joliet 237 Ill 300, 86 NE 663; Prichard v Morganton, 126 NC 908, 36 SE 353.

petens. A suitor; a plaintiff; a demandant.

petere. (Civil law.) To seek; to sue; to petition; to demand; to claim; to sue for; to bring an action.

Peter's pence. An ancient tax which was levied upon every dwelling house in England, and upon most of the religious houses as well, and which was paid over to the pope.

petit. Small; petty; little.

petit auxilium. See et petit auxilium.

petit cape. Same as parvum cape.

petite assize. A jury which was empaneled to try the fact of possession.

petitio. A petition; a demand; a claim. In the civil law, a plaintiff's statement of his cause of action in an action in rem.

petition. A formal request in writing addressed to one in a position of authority or to a body, such as a municipal council, usually signed by a number of persons. An application. The name given in some jurisdictions to the pleading by which the plaintiff in a civil action, whether in law or equity, sets forth his cause of action and invokes the jurisdiction of the court. 41 Am J1st Pl § 73. In some jurisdictions, the pleading by the plaintiff in a special proceeding. The pleading which seeks condemnation of property in a proceeding in eminent domain. 27 Am J2d Em D § 395.

petition de droit. A petition of right, by which property in the possession of the crown is recovered in the English court of chancery.

petitioner. One seeking relief by a petition.

See petition.

petition for certiorari. An application for a writ of certiorari, a pleading in effect, the purpose of which is to set the proceeding in motion. Hall v Hood, 121 Misc 572, 201 NYS 498.

petition for highway. An application by property owners for the opening of a highway. 25 Am J1st High § 22.

petition for improvement. A property owner's petition for the formation of a local improvement district, the ultimate purpose being the construction of a public improvement the cost to be defrayed by a special assessment. 48 Am J1st Spec A § 129.

petition for redress of grievances. See redress of grievances.

petition for referendum. See referendum petition.

petition for rehearing. A request for a rehearing.

See rehearing.

petition in bankruptcy. A document filed in a court of bankruptcy or with a clerk thereof initiating a proceeding under the Bankruptcy Act. Bankr Act § 1(24); 11 USC § 1(24). A pleading in effect. Royal Indem. Co. v American Bond & Mortgage Co. 289 US 165, 77 L Ed 1100, 53 S Ct 551.

petitioning creditor. A creditor who institutes proceedings against his debtor in a court of bankruptcy.

petition in insolvency. A petition, voluntary or involuntary, for the adjudication of a person as an insolvent, to the purpose that insolvency proceedings may ensue, wherein such assets as the insolvent has may be distributed according to law. 29 Am J Rev ed Insolv § 14.

[945]

petition in intervention. See intervention.

petition of rights. A declaration of the liberties of the people by the English parliament in the reign of Charles the First, in the year 1629.

petitio principii. Begging the question. Leache v State, 22 Tex Crim 279.

petit judicium. He prays or demands judgment.

petit juror. A trial juror.

See juror.

petit jury. A trial jury; otherwise known as a traverse jury or a common jury. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 2.

See jury.

petit larceny. Larceny in the taking of property of small value, a misdemeanor, rather than a felony under modern statutes. 32 Am J1st Larc § 3.

Under the common law, larceny where the value of the property stolen was twelve pence or under. If the value exceeded twelve pence, the crime was grand larceny. Both offenses were felonies and were distinguished by the punishments inflicted, that of grand larceny being death, and of pent larceny whipping or some other corporal punishment. 32 Am J1st Larc § 3.

petit mal. A mild form of epilepsy.

petitor. A petitioner; a plaintiff; a claimant; a demandant.

petitory action. A proceeding at law for the recovery of real property, corresponding to the common-law action of ejectment, and which can only be maintained where the plaintiff shows a legal title to the property in himself, as distinguished from an equitable title. Gilmer v Poindexter (US) 10 How 257, 267, 13 L Ed 411, 415.

petitory suit. A suit in admiralty brought to try title.

petit sergeanty. Holding lands of the king by the service of rendering to him annually some small implement of war, as a bow, a sword, a lance, an arrow, or the like, with no personal service. See 2 Bl Comm 82.

petit treason. The killing of a husband by a wife; of a lord or master by a servant; of his lord or ordinary by an ecclesiastic.

These were called petit "treason" because they were breaches of the lower allegiance of private and domestic faith. See 4 Bl Comm 75.

peto. I seek; I pray; I demand; I claim.

petrol. The term used in England for gasoline. Minerals Separation v Butte & Superior Mining Co. 250 US 336, 343, 63 L Ed 1019, 1023, 39 S Ct 496.

petroleum. An oil of natural origin formed beneath the surface of the earth. Kelley v Ohio Oil Co. 57 Ohio St 317, 49 NE 399. A solution of hydrocarbons; the product of an oil well in the form in which it comes to the surface or is extracted.

See crude oil.

petroleum products. Oils having a preferential affinity for metalliferous matter. Minerals Separation v Butte & Superior Mining Co. 250 US 336, 343, 63 L Ed 1019, 1023, 39 S Ct 496.

See gasoline; kerosene; naphtha.

pettifogger. A lawyer whose practice is of a small or, petty character; a lawyer of little importance.

pettifogging shyster. An unscrupulous practitioner of the law who disgraces his profession by doing mean work, and resorts to sharp practice to do it. Bailey v Kalamazoo Publishing Co. 40 Mich 251, 256.

petty average. The necessary expenses laid out by the master of a ship, such as towage, wharfage, etc.

petty bag office. An office in the English court of chancery where original writs were issued which related to the interests of the crown.

Those writs that related to a subject were originally kept in a hamper and those which related to the interests of the crown were kept in a little bag. Hence arose the distinction between the "hanaper office" and the "petty bag office." These offices were at all times open to the subject, who might, at any time have on demand any writ for which he might call. Yates v People (NY) 6 Johns 337, 363.

See clerk of the petty bag.

petty chapmen. Persons traveling from town to town with goods and merchandise. Emmou v Lewiston, 132 Ill 380, 24 NE 58.

petty constable. Inferior officers in every town and parish, subordinate to the high constable of the hundred.

The office combined the ancient office of head borough, tithingman, or borsholder and the modern office of constable merely. See I Bl Comm 356.

petty jury. Same as petit jury.

petty larceny. Same as petit larceny.

petty offense. A minor criminal offense, triable by a magistrate without a jury. People v Grogeran, 260 NY 138, 183 NE 273, 86 ALR 1266. In some jurisdictions, inclusive of misdemeanors, at least a misdemeanor not amounting to an indictable offense. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 22.

petty officer. A noncommissioned officer of the Navy, either petty officer first class, petty officer second class, or petty officer third class, the latter ranking immediately above seaman and petty officer first class immediately below chief petty officer.

See chief petty officer; senior chief petty officer.

petty sessions. A justice's court of summary jurisdiction.

petty treason. Same as petit treason.

pew. A seat in a church. A property right; the right to a particular seat in a church. 45 Am J1st Reli Soc §§ 85, 86.

pew holder. One having the right to a particular pew or seat in a church. Massachusetts Baptist Missionary Soc. v Bowduin Square Baptist Soc. 212 Mass 198, 98 NE 1045.

pew right. See pew.

peyote. A drug obtained from a cactus plant, having toxic, deleterious, intoxicating, and hallucinating effects. People v Woody (Cal App) 35 Cal Rptr 708.

Pfc. Abbreviation of Private First Class.

pfd. Abbreviation of preferred.

P.G. Abbreviation of postgraduate.

PHA. Abbreviation of Public Housing Administration.

[946]

pharmacist. One qualified to practice pharmacy. An apothecary. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 4.
See pharmacy.

pharmacopoeia. See United States Pharmacopoeia.

pharmacy. The profession of compounding, preparing, and dispensing drugs, medicines, and poisons. State v Wood, 51 SD 485, 215 NW 487, 54 ALR 719. A drug store.

Pharm. D. Abbreviation of doctor of pharmacy.

phase. A stage in the development of something of a progressive nature. A stage of a movement in cycles, particularly an alternating current of electricity.

phenobarbital. A sedative drug; not a poison. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v Heminover, 100 Colo 231, 67 P2d 80, 110 ALR 1270.

philanthropic. Benevolent. Anno: 115 ALR 1133. Pertaining to philanthropy. Charitable. Rotch v Emerson, 105 Mass 431, 434.

philanthropic purpose. See philanthropy.

philanthropy. Acts or gifts prompted by good will or kind feeling. Not necessarily the equivalent of charity. 15 Am J2d Char § 61.

Philippines. A nation of the far east, occupying territory, formerly known as Philippine Islands, ceded to the United States by Spain under the Treaty of Paris, December 10, 1898, independence having been proclaimed on July 4, 1946, in accordance with the Tydings-McDuffie Act passed by Congress in 1934.

photograph. An image produced by photography.

photographer. One whose occupation is photography; an artist, as distinguished from an artisan or mechanic. New Orleans v Robira, 42 La Ann 1098, 8 So 402.

Photographic Copies of Business and Public Records as Evidence Act. One of the uniform laws. 30 Am J2d Ev § 1012.

photographic copy. A copy of a written instrument made by the process of photographing the original, the copy produced sometimes being reduced in size. Enelow v New York Life Ins. Co. (CA3 Pa) 83 F2d 550, 105 ALR 493, cert den 298 US 680, 80 L Ed 1401, 56 S Ct 948.

A photograph of a document is but a copy of that document, and its admission in evidence as a document is governed by the rules pertaining to copies. Maclean v Scripps, 52 Mich 214, 218.

photography. The art and process of producing images upon a sensitive surface by employing the chemical action produced by light or radiation.

photostat. See photostatic copy.

photostatic copy. A copy of a written instrument made by a photostat, an instrument or device for rapid and inexpensive reproduction by photograph. Enelow v New York Life Ins. Co. (CA3 Pa) 83 F2d 550, 105 ALR 493, cert den 298 US 680, 80 L Ed 1041, 56 S Ct 948.

photo-traffic camera. A camera which provides the basis for a mathematical computation of the rate of speed of a motor vehicle by taking two photos at a set-time interval apart. People v Hildebrandt, 308 NY 397, 126 NE2d 377, 49 ALR2d 449.

PHS. Abbreviation of Public Health Service.

p. h. v. An abbreviation of pro hac vice.

physical abuse. See abuse.

physical and incurable incapacity for marriage. Incapacity to consummate the marriage; impotency. 35 Am J1st Mar § 121.

physical coercion. See coercion.

physical condition. See health; physical defect.

physical cruelty. As ground for divorce:—actual personal violence, or such a course of physical treatment as endangers life, limb or health, and renders cohabitation unsafe. Brown v Brown, 215 SC 502, 56 SE2d 330, 15 ALR2d 163.

physical defect. A condition of the body, resulting from accident or sickness, which impairs bodily function, particularly in movement. Something that materially impairs, weakens, or undermines the constitution, tends to reduce powers of resistance, and thereby enhances the risk of death. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1211.

physical delivery. Manual delivery; a delivery from hand to hand. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 91.

physical depreciation. Deterioration due to age and wear, a constant factor, resulting from use, decay, and the action of the elements. Central Railroad of New Jersey v Martin (DC NJ) 30 F Supp 41.

physical disability. See physical defect; total physical disability.

physical examination. An examination of a person by a physician for the purpose of determining his physical condition, sometimes required of a litigant, involving, not only observation of the body, but also an inquiry by questions and answers as to the cause and character of a disability. 23 Am J2d Dep §§ 210 et seq.

See medical examination.

physical fact. A fact which is perceived by the senses.

physical fact rule. The principle that the testimony of a witness which is physically impossible and unbelievable, being irreconcilable with, or contrary to, physical facts and common observation and experience, is to be stricken or disregarded as being without evidentiary value, even though uncontradicted by other evidence. 30 Am J2d Ev § 1085; 53 Am J1st Tr § 149. The principle that a reviewing court need not accept findings of fact which are inconsistent with well-known physical laws or with other facts or circumstances so well settled as to be the proper subject of judicial notice. 5 Am J2d A & E § 827.

physical force. The power of the body, or of a source of power, applied by man.

The term, as used in relation to assaults, is synonymous with the term "violence," and the two terms are used interchangeably. State v Wells, 31 Conn 210.

See force.

physical impossibility. Impossibility of accomplishment under the state of science and mechanics of the day. A concept which varies from age to age, even from decade to decade, illustrated by the inaptness of the stock example given not so many years ago of traveling from New York to London in one day. Le Roy v Jacobosky, 136 NC 443, 48 SE 796.

physical impossibility doctrine. See physical fact rule.

[947]

physical impotency. See impotency.

physical inability to work. As the clause appears in the regulations of a railway relief department:—inability to perform such labor as the injured member was engaged in at the time of his injury, or similar labor which will enable him to earn wages equally remunerative. Keith v Chicago, Burlington & Q. R. Co. 82 Neb 12, 116 NW 597.

physical infirmity. A condition of the body, resulting from accident or sickness, which impairs bodily function, particularly in movement. Something that materially impairs, weakens, or undermines the constitution, tends to reduce powers of resistance, and thereby enhances the risk of death. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1211.

physical injury. A personal injury. In reference to property, an injury which interferes with an owner's right of dominion, use, enjoyment, and disposition, such as a blocking of ingress or egress, or an injury which directly harms the physical property, such as the destruction of a building. Rigney v Chicago, 102 Ill 64.

physical interference. Broadly, any physical obstruction of movement. In a technical sense, an injury to or a disturbance of land from a physical aspect, as distinguished from a disturbance constituting annoyance or other discomfort of a mental nature and personal to the owner. Annoyances from smoke and noise are of a mental nature. An obstruction to an owner's access to his property is physical. Austin v Augusta Terminal Railway Co. 108 Ga 671, 34 SE 852.

physically incapacitated for marriage. The condition of a person who is unable, by reason of incurable physical imperfection or malformation, to accomplish copulation or coition, the consummation of marriage. Anonymous, 89 Ala 291, 7 So 100.

physical medicine. See physiotherapy.

physical occupancy. See occupancy.

physical ouster. See ouster.

physical possession. The taking hold of property, exercising dominion over it. Galbraith v Buffalo Vegetable Marketing Co. 128 Misc 77, 79, 217 NYS 764.

See occupancy.

physical shock. See shock.

physical suffering. Pain, particularly prolonged pain indicating a physical derangement or unhealthy condition of the body. 22 Am J2d Damg § 105.

physical therapy. Same as physiotherapy.

physical violence. Force violently applied.

As a ground for divorce, "physical violence" may consist in many acts, each slight in its character, and none producing marks of violence upon the person, and yet, considered as a whole, they may be ground for divorce; certainly so when from them the court is able to say the life of the wife is endangered. Thompson v Thompson, 186 Iowa 1066, 173 NW 55, 5 ALR 710, 711.

See physical force; violence.

physical welfare. See health.

physician. Broadly, one who practices the art of healing disease and preserving health. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 2. A person skilled in the art of healing. State v Borah, 51 Ariz 318, 76 P2d 757, 115 ALR 254. One who is proficient in the art of healing by means of the application of physics or medicine to the patient. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 2. One who prescribes remedies for sickness and disease. Travelers Ins. Co. v Bergeron (CA8 Iowa) 25 F2d 680, 58 ALR 1127, cert den 278 US 638, 73 L Ed 553, 49 S Ct 33. Technically, one legally qualified for, and engaged in, the practice of medicine. Joyner v State, 181 Miss 245, 179 So 573, 115 ALR 954. For the purposes of privilege in communications between "physician" and patient:—only one lawfully engaged in the practice of medicine under authority duly granted to pursue that profession. 58 Am J1st Withn § 411.

The word is derived from the Greek word "phusis," meaning nature, and in a restricted sense means one who administers medicine to cure diseases, but, in its proper sense, it has a broader signification, and means one who by a knowledge of the nature and structure of the human system, and of the nature and properties of substances, cures the injuries and diseases to which it is subject. The word includes not only doctors, who administer medicine and physic, but surgeons who, by a knowledge of the human system, are able to amputate an injured and diseased limb, or to extract a bullet with skill and as much safety to life and as little pain as the case admits of. Re Hunter, 60 NC 372.

The word "physician," as used in a statute authorizing the registration of any person who was a reputable resident physician of good moral character and who, on a date designated by the statute, was engaged in the actual practice of medicine within the state, and who submitted a diploma or other credential or evidence of his qualification, was construed as including any person of whatever school, and whether belonging to any known school, engaged in good faith in treating human ills by any remedy or remedies, however simple, so as to be known among the people as a physician, and not limited to such persons as possess that technical knowledge of the human system and the knowledge of the drugs and other remedies, and how to administer them, commonly supposed to be possessed by members in good standing of the great schools of medicine. Anno: 4 ALR2d 684.

physician and patient. The relation whereunder a physician administers professionally to another, essentially consensual. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 71.

The relation between a surgeon performing an autopsy and the body of the dead person is not the relation of physician and patient. Carmody v Capital Traction Co. 43 App DC 245. But the relation may exist between a hospital patient and an intern who is a graduate of a medical school, with a doctor's degree, though, it may be, not licensed to practice his profession in the ordinary way by so holding himself out to the public. Eureka-Maryland Assur. Co. v Gray, 74 App DC 191, 121 F2d 104.

physician's certificate. A death certificate. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1937.

physician's liability insurance. A form of liability insurance, now in common use, which insures a physician against liability from acts or omissions while practicing his profession. Insurance against malpractice, error, or mistake. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1358.

physician's license. A license to practice the healing art. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 15.

physiognomy. The practice of purporting or trying to ascertain the character and aptitudes of a person by examining features of the cranium and face. Anno: 43 LRA NS 203, 204. The facial features of a person.

[948]

physiotherapist. One who practices physiotherapy.

physiotherapy. The treatment of disease or physical disability by massage, heat, exercise, or other physical means, rather than by drugs. Anno: 86 ALR 631, 632.

pia fraus. Pious fraud:—the name was given to the practices of the church in its defeat of the statutes of mortmain by circumvention.

piazza. A public square. A porch. 13 Am J2d Burgl § 11.

picaroon. A robber.

picage. A charge which was made for a booth concession at a fair.

pickery. Petty larcency; small thievery.

picket. A sentry. One engaged in picketing.

See picketing.

picketing. A method of promoting a strike or boycott. The establishment and maintenance of an organized espionage upon the works of an employer and upon persons going to and from them. Thomas v Indianapolis, 195 Ind 440, 145 NE 440, 35 ALR 1194. The stationing of men for observation, or for the purpose of attempting to influence workers to quit their employment or intending workers not to seek employment, or for the purpose of apprising the public of the dispute with the employer and influencing them to withhold their patronage. The acts of the men so stationed in fulfillment of such a purpose, sometimes, although not necessarily, accompanied by acts of coercion or intimidation. 31 Am 1 Rev ed Lab § 432.

See peaceful picketing.

pickpocket. A thief who secretly steals from the pockets of his victims.

See pocket picking.

pick-up service. The service of the carrier involved in calling for and collecting freight, and receipting therefor, from a dock, platform, or doorway directly accessible to highway vehicles, at the consignor's warehouse, factory, store, or similar place of business; and including transportation therefrom to the premises of the carrier's freight depot. Southern Ry. Co. v Acme Fast Freight, Inc. 74 App DC 390, 124 F2d 229. A service undertaken under special contract by a motor carrier, whereby the carrier becomes a delivering carrier under the Interstate Commerce Act. Keystone Motor Freight Lines v Drannon-Signaigo Cigar Co. (CA5 Tex) 115 F2d 736.

pick-up truck. A motor vehicle with small truck body, handy for the transportation of packages and other light articles, being also available for use as an ordinary one-seated automobile. Anno: 38 ALR2d 877.

pie. A pastry. Jumbled printing type. As derived from the Latin "pes," a foot.

piece. A weapon, particularly a firearm.

See bail piece; committitur piece; satisfaction piece.

piece basis. See piecework.

piecemeal appeals. Successive appeals taken from the same decision. 4 Am J2d A & E § 49.

piecemeal construction. The construction of a municipal building or other improvement a part at a time, particularly for the purpose of avoiding violation of debt-limit provisions. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp § 428.

piecemeal zoning. Same as partial zoning.

piecework. Work performed for compensation according to the number of articles produced, sometimes at home. A basis of compensation of census takers. 14 Am J2d Census § 3.

piepoudre court. See pie-powder court.

pie-powder court. An ancient court of England.

The curia pedis pulverizati or court of dusty feet which was said to have been so called from the dusty feet of its suitors, or as Coke thought, because justice was as swift there as dust falling from the feet, or possibly from the French "pied puldreaux," a peddler. It was the lowest and the most expeditious court in England and was a court of record presided over by the steward of each fair or market. See 3 Bl Comm 32.

In the often quoted language of Chief Justice Shaw of Massachusetts: "If a pie-powder court could be called on the instant and on the spot, the true rule of justice for the public would be to pay the compensation with one hand, while they apply the ax with the other." Old Dominion Land Co. v United States, 269 US 55, 65, 70 L Ed 162, 165, 46 S Ct 39.

pier. A structure built out over the water of a harbor at which a vessel may be tied, for use in loading and unloading cargo and for the convenience of passengers boarding the vessel or going ashore therefrom. 56 Am J1st Whar § 2. A projection of the land, and for purposes of jurisdiction to be so treated. The Haxby (DC Pa) 94 F 1016.

pierage. A toll charged for the use of a pier.

piercing the veil of corporate entity. See disregarding corporate entity.

pig. A casting of iron; pig iron. An animal otherwise known as a hog, especially a young hog.

See hog; pig iron.

pigeon shooting. Shooting pigeons after they are liberated from a trap, with the purpose of demonstrating or improving one's marksmanship. Anno: 82 ALR2d 818 et seq; § 6.

piggery. A pigpen; a place where pigs are raised.

pightel. A small inclosed parcel of land.

pig iron. Crude iron, the original basis for the manufacture of steel and forms of iron, produced in a blast furnace. Carnegie Steel Co. v Cambria Iron Co. 185 US 403, 410, 46 L Ed 968, 975, 22 S Ct 698.

pignoratium. (Civil law.) A contract of pledge.

pignoratitia actio. (Civil law.) An action founded upon a contract of pledge.

pignorative contract. A contract of pledge.

pignori acceptum. Delivered and taken in pledge or pawn.

pignoris captio. (Civil law.) The taking of a pledge to secure the payment of a demand.

pignus. (Civil law.) A pledge of goods in which they were delivered by the pledgor to the pledgee. A contract of pledge or pawn. 41 Am J1st Pldg & Col § 2.

[949]

See hypothecation; pledge.

pigsty. A pigpen.

See piggery.

pigtel. Same as pightel.

piissima regina conjunx divi imperatoris. The most pious queen consort of the sacred emperor. See 1 Bl Comm 218.

pilfer. To steal. Becket v Sterrett (Ind) 4 Blackf 499, 500. To ruin by depredation. Anno: 38 ALR 1125.

pilferage. Larceny or stealing, particularly stealing something of small value. Anno: 48 ALR2d 20. Filching or taking a small part only, rather than the whole. 32 Am J1st Larc § 2. Ruin by depredation. Anno: 38 ALR 1125.

pillage. The plundering, ravaging, or carrying off of goods, commodities, or merchandise, by open force or violence. American Iris Co. v Bryan & Maitland (NY) 26 Wend 563, 573.

pillory. A contrivance which was used as a means of punishment for crime, consisting of a wooden board, affixed to a post, through which the head and arms of the culprit protruded.

pilot. A person taken on board a ship at a particular place for the purpose of conducting the ship through a river, road, or channel, or from or into a port. Hobart v Drogan (US) 10 Pet 108, 9 1_ Ed 363. The steersman, a person entrusted with the helm and direction of the vessel on her voyage. Atlee v Northwestern Union. Packet Co. (US) 21 Wall 389, 22 L Ed 619. In aviation:—one who flies or is qualified to fly, an airplane, airship, or balloon. 8 Am J2d Avi § 33.

pilotage. The services of a pilot. That branch of maritime law dealing with the protection and regulation of pilots. 48 Am J1st Ship § 197. The fees, compensation, and charges of a pilot for his services rendered or tendered a vessel entering port or departing therefrom. 48 Ann J1st Ship §§ 195, 210.

pilotage lien. See pilot's lien.

pilot laws. Statutes providing for and regulating pilotage, and the appointment, qualifications, duties, conduct, compensation, and employment of pilots.

Pilot laws are regulations of navigation and are therefore regulations of commerce, but they are within the class of regulations which may be prescribed by the states until Congress sees fit to act, and are their superseded only to the extent that they are in actual conflict with Federal regulations. 48 Am J1st Ship §§ 197 et seq.

pilot light. A small burner on gas stove or furnace, kept lighted for the purpose of igniting a larger burner. Baldrige v Wright Gas Co. 154 Ohio St. 452, 43 Ohio Ops 369, 96 NF2d 300. An electric light kept burning at night to indicate the location of a particular thing, such as stairway, bathroom, or electric switch.

pilot plant. An industrial, but more often a utility plant, built and operated on an experimental basis, primarily for the purpose of determining costs of production and the charges which must be made for goods or services in order to show a profit in operation.

pilots' association. A local association, usually unincorporated, formed for their common benefit by pilots, who ordinarily deposit their fees in a common fund, which, after deducting expenses therefrom, is distributed to the several members according to the number of days they were respectively on the active list. 48 Am J1st Ship § 196.

pilot's license. A license authorizing the licensee to operate and fly an aircraft. A license authorizing the licensee to act as a pilot of vessels. 48 Am J1st Ship § 200.

pilot's lien. A pilot's maritime lien for his services, as performed or tendered, in conducting a vessel into or from port. 48 Am J1st Ship § 195.

pimp. A term of opprobrium, a pimp being the lowest of men, one who obtains customers for a whore. Butte v Yeasley, 18 Mont 303. 45 P 210.

pimping. Obtaining customers for a prostitute. Sharing in the earnings of a prostitute.

To constitute the statutory offense of pimping, the defendant must be a male person; he must have knowledge that a certain person is a prostitute; there must be earnings from the prostitution; the defendant must derive his support in whole or in part from such earnings, knowing them to have been the proceeds from prostitution. People v Fuski, 49 Cal App 4, 192 P 552.

See pandering.

pimp tenure. An ancient land tenure in which the tenant rendered services as a procurer.

pin money. An allowance, particularly by husband to wife, for small needs. An allowance made by a husband to his wife, payable during cohabitation, in money or in granting her the use of his property for profit, in appreciation of her services as a housekeeper. 26 Am J1st H & W § 52. A doctrine peculiar to English equity jurisdiction, under which a husband was allowed to give his wife the privilege of working for herself, acting as a free trader, and of acquiring profits by her earnings and savings which neither he nor his creditors could reach. 26 Am J1st H & W § 52.

pin-money doctrine. See pin money.

pioneer patent. Same as basis patent.

pious uses. An ancient term. Religious uses. Religious uses under the control of the king, as where a vehicle or other article which had caused the death of a person was forfeited to pious uses. Fields v Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. 147 Tenn 464, 249 SW 798, 36 AL.R 1250, 1251.

See deodand.

pipe. A tube of metal, wood, plastic, concrete, or other material through which a liquid is conveyed. A tube for nicking sounds of a musical character.

pipe line. A line of pipe, usually of steel, sometimes of lead or even of plastic, running over or beneath the surface of the earth for the transportation of water, oil, or other liquid. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 131. An instrumentality of commerce within the meaning of the commerce clause of the United States Constitution. 15 Am J2d Com § 48.

The term evidently means something different from "pipes," and conveys the idea of a line of pipe running upon or in the earth, carrying with it the right to the use of the soil in which it is placed. Dietz v Mission Transfer Co. 95 Cal 92. 100, 30 F 380.

pipe-line system. The main transmission line and a network of gathering lines leading to various oil wells being served. Alexander v Cosden Pipe Line Co. 290 US 484, 78 L Ed 452, 54 S Ct 292.

[950]

pipe-roll. A treasury account which was kept in the English exchequer.

pipowder court. Same as piepowder court.

piracy. A term for the infringement of a copyright or a taking of literary property without permission. The crime of being a pirate, an offense against humanity and all mankind. 41 Am J1st Pir § 1. Robbery on the high seas. 41 Am J1st Pir § 3. The committing of depredations against ships on the high seas out of a spirit of malevolence, with or without the taking of plunder.

United States v The Brig Malek Adhel (US) 2 How 210, 11 L Ed 239. Robbery, murder, or other acts of hostility against the United States or citizens thereof on the high seas under color of commission from a foreign state, or under pretence of such authority. 18 USC § 495.

Congress has also declared a seaman who raises violent hands upon his commander, thereby hindering and preventing his fighting in defense of his vessel or goods entrusted to him, and those who, while engaged in a piratical cruise or enterprise, or being members of any such crew or enterprise, land from the vessel and commit robbery on the shore, to be pirates and subject to punishment as such. 18 USC §§ 484, 493; 41 Am J1st Pir § 3.

Pirata est hostis humani generis. A pirate is the enemy of the human race.

pirate. An enemy of the human race. One who roves the sea in an armed vessel without commission or passport from any government, solely on his own authority, and for the purpose of seizing by force, and appropriating to himself without discrimination whatever ships or vessels he may choose to plunder. 41 Am J1st Pir § I. One guilty of piracy.

See piracy.

piratical. Acting in aggression unauthorized by the law of nations, hostile in character, wanton and criminal in commission, and utterly without sanction from any public authority or sovereign power. United States v The Brig Malek Adhel (US) 2 How 210, 232, 11 L Ed 239, 248. In short, acting as a pirate.

See piracy; pirate.

piscaria. Fisheries of all kinds. Moulton v Libbey, 37 Me 472, 490.

piscary. Same as piscaria.

pistareen. A Spanish silver coin which in 1835 passed current in the United States for twenty cents, or one fifth of a dollar, although purporting to be a quarter of a dollar or twenty-five cents; so that its real value, as well as its current value, was uncertain.

Upon a charge of counterfeiting such a coin, it was held that it was not a coin made current by the laws of the United States. United States v Gardner (US) 10 Pet 618, 9 L Ed 556.

pistol. A firearm with short barrel, to be held with one hand in firing; a deadly weapon. 56 Am J1st Weap § 3.

Pistol Act. One of the uniform statutes. 56 Am J1st Weap § 5.

pistol range. A place for training in or testing of marksmanship by pistol or revolver. A place of public amusement. Anno: 140 ALR 415.

pit. A hole or cavity in the ground. A mine, particularly a coal mine. A cavity dug in mining by way of reaching the ore. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 182. A hole dug in the ground and filled with water in which female thieves were drowned, instead of hanging them.

pitfall. A dangerous condition on premises. 38 Am J1st Negl § 105. A trap to ensnare the unwary. Hall v Manson, 99 Iowa 698, 68 NW 922.

pix. Same as pyx.

pix-jury. Same as pyx-jury.

P. J. An abbreviation of presiding judge.

pk. Abbreviation of park or peck.

placard. A printed or written notice for display in a public place.

placarding. Publicizing by exhibition of placards, an activity often engaged in by strikers. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab §§ 427-429.

place. Verb: To come in second in a race, particularly a horse race. To give position to something. Holicer Gas Co. v Wilson, 45 So 2d 96. Noun: A location. A public square. Indian Rocks Beach South Shore, Inc. v Ewell (Fla) 59 So 2d 647, 32 ALR2d 940. A highway. Carlin v Chicago, 262 Ill 564, 104 NE 905. A street. 25 Am J1st High § 7. A structure devoted to a particular use, such as an arsenal or dockyard. United States v Bevans (US) 3 Wheat 336, 390, 4 L Ed 404, 417. A building, even a vessel moored at a wharf. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 460. A region. Wilder v State, 34 Okla Crim 291, 246 P 660. A locality, situation or site. Indian Rocks Beach South Shore, Inc. v Ewell (Fla) 59 So 2d 647, 32 ALR2d 940. An occupied estate. Indian Rocks Beach South Shore, Inc. v Ewell (Fla) 59 So 2d 647, 32 ALR2d 940.

See situs.

place for repentance. The opportunity which a man engaged in the commission of a crime may have to withdraw before its consummation, without incurring criminality. Hyde v United States, 225 US 347, 56 L Ed 1114, 32 S Ct 793.

placeman. A person who, for the time, is serving the state in the performance of a duty required of him as a citizen such as a juror or election inspector, although not in the capacity of a public officer. Worthy v Barrett, 63 NC 199, 202.

See place of trust or profit.

placement. The act, particularly that of an employment agency, in obtaining employment for a person. The act of a carrier by rail in putting a car in location on a sidetrack for loading of goods by a consignor or unloading by a consignee.

See constructive placement of cars.

place name. The name of a place incorporated in a trademark or tradename. 52 Am J1st Tradem § 66.

place of abode. A place where one lives permanently, rather than temporarily. A domicile; a home; a place of residence. Sanders v Greenstreet, 23 Kan 425, 431.

See domicil; home; residence; usual place of abode.

place of amusement. A place to which people resort for diversion or pleasure, some being exhibitiv and others participative, the former being represented by theaters, stadiums, and so forth and the latter by skating rinks, bowling alleys, and so forth. 4 Am J2d Amuse § 1.

[951]

place of burial. A cemetery; a burial plot; sometimes the open sea. Brambir v Cunard White Star Ltd. (DC NY) 37 F Supp 906, affd (CA2) 119 F2d 419.

place of business. A place actually occupied, either continually or at regular periods, by a person or his clerks, in the pursuit of a lawful employment which occupies his time, attention and labor. Stephenson v Primrose (Ala) 8 Port 155.

See place of doing business; principal place of business; usual place of business.

place of contract. The place in which a contract is made, completed, or executed. 16 Am J2d Confl L § 36. The place in which a contract is performed or, according to a most modern view, the place where the contract is of the most significance. 16 Am J2d Confl L §§ 38, 40.

The place where a contract is made is the place where, by acquiescence or final agreement of the minds of the parties, the contract is concluded. Mutual Life Asso. v Harris, 94 Tex 25, 57 SW 635.

If the parties to a prospective contract are in different jurisdictions, the place where the last act is done which is necessary to complete the contract and give it validity is regarded as the place in which the contract is made. 16 Am J2d Contr § 36.

place of delivery. The place where the goods were sold unless the nature of the article, the usage of trade, a condition of the contract, or the previous course of dealing between buyer and seller requires delivery to be made elsewhere. Hatch v Standard Oil Co. (US) 10 Otto 124, 134, 25 L Ed 554, 557. The place specified in a contract for the sale of personal property at which the seller is to make delivery to the purchaser. The place of final delivery of a shipment by the carrier to the consignee. 14 Am J2d Car § 587.

place of destination. See destination.

place of doing business. Any place at which the particulars of a corporate enterprise are conducted. 18 Am J2d Corp § 160.
See principal place of business.

place of election. See polls.

place of holding court. An essential to the conception of a "court;" an appropriate place for the administration of justice. 20 Am J2d Cts § 1.
See venue.

place of meeting. The place fixed for the meeting of the board of directors of a corporation. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1124. The place fixed by statute, charter, bylaw, or determination of the board of directors for a stockholders' meeting. 19 Am J2d Corp § 601.

place of most significant contracts. The place which has the most significant contracts with a dispute concerning a contract the law of which should govern the resolving of the controversy, according to a newly-formulated principle of conflict of laws. 16 Am J2d Confl L § 42.

place of payment. The place fixed by a contract for the payment of money, or by the parties in a subsequent agreement as the place where the payment is to be made. The place, often a bank, designated in a promissory note, as the place where the maker is to pay the obligation. 11 Am J2d B & N § 187. A house, bank, counting room, store, or place of business, where the holder can present the note, where the maker can deposit or provide funds to meet it, and where a legal offer to pay can be made. 11 Am J2d B & N § 972. In the absence of a designation of place in the note, the place of residence of the maker. 11 Am J2d B & N § 89. In the absence of a designation in the contract or an agreement of the parties to the contrary, the residence of the debtor, where the payment is one to be made in property. 11 Am J2d B & N § 972.

place of performance. The place fixed by the terms of the contract in express terms. The place which as determined by fair inference in construction of the contract, is to be the place of performance in accordance with the intention of the parties. In instances where there is neither express nor implied agreement as to the place of performance, the place where the contract was made. 17 Am J2d Contr § 331.

See place of contract; place of payment.

place of resort. Literally, a place to which people resort for pleasure and recreation. In the usual legal sense, a place to which people resort for gambling and other illegal activities. Lynn v State, 247 Tex Civ App 590, 11 SW 640.

place of trial. Venue.

See change of venue; venue.

place of trust or profit. A term comprehensive in the broad sense of public officers, fiduciaries, even corporate officers, but having a particular application in reference to ineligibility for a public office. A position which, although not a public office, occupies the same general level in dignity and importance.

As an office has some relations to the public, so must places of trust and profit involve the exercise of functions affecting the public, in order to constitute a disqualification for other similar places. Doyle v Aldermen of Raleigh, 89 NC 133.

See placemen.

place of work. See working place.

place of worship. A church. A place set apart for rites or services of any kind which express reverence for a deity. People v Stanley, 81 Colo 276, 255 P 610.

The use of the Bible in a public school does not make the school a place of worship. Hackett v Brooksville School Dist. 120 Ky 608, 87 SW 792.

placer claim. A mining claim covering property wherein the valuable mineral is found, not in veins, lodes, or ledges within the rock, but in a loose condition in the softer materials making up the surface of the earth. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 71.

placer claim patent. A patent issued by the federal government covering the surface and minerals to be found in placer form thereunder, also known veins sought to be covered by the patent, and all unknown veins thereafter discovered by the patentee. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 124.

placer location. The marking of the boundaries of a placer claim.

See placer claim.

placer mines. Mines in which the mineral is generally found in the softer material which covers the earth's surface, and not among the rocks beneath. Reynolds v Iron Silver Mining Co. 116 US 687, 695, 29 L Ed 774, 777, 6 S Ct 601.

placer mining. Taking the soft earthy matter in which the particles of mineral are loosely mingled, and, by filtration, separating the one from the other. Reynolds v Iron Silver Mining Co. 116 US 687, 695, 29 L Ed 774, 777, 6 S Ct 601.

place to work. See working place.

placita. Marginal titles. The convening order of the court.

[952]

It was a vital requirement of the common law that the record should contain a "placita." Fifty-three cases were reversed at one term of the Supreme Court of Illinois because the record in each of them failed to contain a "placita." Planing Mill Lumber Co. v Chicago, 56 Ill 304, 305.

placitabile. Pleadable; capable of being pleaded.

placita communia. Common pleas; that is, pleas or suits including all civil actions between subject and subject. See 3 Bl Comm 40.

placita coronae. Pleas of the crown; English criminal actions.

placita juris. Pleas or rules of law.

placitamentum. Pleading.

Placita negativa duo exitum non faciunt. Two negative pleas do not make an issue.

placitare. To plead.

placitator. A pleader.

placitum. Singular of placita.

plaga. A wound; a stroke.

plagiarii. (Civil law.) Persons who committed the crime of plagium, which corresponded to the common-law offense of kidnapping. See 4 Bl Comm 219.

plagiarism. Copying or adopting the literary, musical, or artistic composition or work of another and publishing or producing it as one's own original composition or work. 18 Am J2d Copyr §§ 98 et seq.

plagiarius. Singular of plagiaru.

plagis et mahemio. See de plagis et mahemio.

plagium. (Civil law.) The offense of spiriting away and stealing men and children. See 4 Bl Comm 219.

plaidetur. A pleader.

plain error. Palpable error, as in a valuation of property. State v Department of Public Works, 143 Wash 67, 254 P 839.

plain homage. In feudal tenure, the service of fidelity alone.

plaint. The original or first process, setting forth the cause of action at large, by which an action was begun in an inferior court at common law. Shaw v Dutcher & Harris (NY) 19 Wend 216, 219. A private memorial tendered in open court to the judge, wherein the party injured set forth his cause of action.

In small actions, involving less than forty shillings, which were brought in the court-baron or in the county court, no royal writ was necessary and the suit was not begun by original writ, but by plaint. See 3 Bl Comm 273.

plaintiff. The party complaining in an action or proceeding. A person who brings a suit, action, bill, or complaint. See 3 Bl Comm 25. Any natural or artificial person who institutes an action in his own name or who is joined of record with another or with others who are maintaining an action or proceeding. 39 Am J1st Parties § 4.

plaintiff in error. The unsuccessful party to the action who prosecutes a writ of error in a higher court.

plan. A project, program, design, or scheme. A proposed arrangement, readjustment, or reorganization of a debtor's affairs in a proceeding in the bankruptcy court. A draft, outline, or drawing of a building or other structure. A product of architectural services. 5 Am J2d Arch § 3.

See plans and specifications.

plank in a shipwreck. A graphic expression used to characterize the saving of a junior equity by acquiring the legal title. 27 Am J2d Eq § 151.

plank road. A road of a kind no longer in use but familiar in the early days of the country, characterized by the use of planks or slabs of timber as a surface of the traveled portion of the way in marshy sections otherwise impassable.

planned development. See land development.

plano. See de plano.

plan of doing business. A formulated scheme for the accomplishment of the purpose or purposes for which a business is conducted. N. R. Bagley Co. v Cameron, 4 Pa D & C 81.

plans and specifications. The outline or drawing representing a building or other structure to be erected, together with the particulars or details of construction. 13 Am J2d Bldg Contr § 12. A product of architectural services. 5 Am J2d Arch § 3.

plant. A factory or place where an industry is conducted, inclusive of the machines and instrumentalities therein contained. 35 Am J1st M & S § 424. An establishment where machinery or mechanical power is utilized in connection with the employment of the individual. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 117. The place of generation of electricity, plus the wires, poles, and other appliances necessary for the transmission of the current to users. Brown v Gerald, 100 Me 351, 61 A 785.

In its ordinary sense, the word includes whatever apparatus is used by a business man in carrying on his business, -not his stock in trade, which he buys or makes for sale, but goods or chattels, fixed or movable, alive or dead, which he keeps for permanent employment in his business. Gulf States Steel Co. v Jones, 203 Ala 450, 83 So 356, 23 ALR 702, 704.

The plant of an employer is that part of his fixed property over which he has exclusive control. But the term does not include a place over which the employer has no oversight or method of protecting the employee from the negligent or wrongful acts of third persons. Carlson v Mock, 102 Wash 557, 173 P 637.

plantation. A place brought under cultivation and planted with crops or trees. A large farm. Atty. Gen. v S. B. Judges, 38 Cal 291, 295. A large area of land, cultivated by workers who live upon the land, usually devoted to the raising in quantity of one or two crops, such as cotton, sugar cane, or rice, often given special character by the owner's mansion upon the premises.

For discussion of the construction of a devise of a "plantation," see 57 Am J1st Wills § 1342.

plantation crossing. Same as farm crossing.

plant checker. An employee whose duties consist primarily in compiling reports of production, determining standards of production in reference to the time consumed, and calling attention of his superiors to deviations from job descriptions or standards. NLRB v Armour & Co. (CA) 0) 154 F2d 570, 169 ALR 421, cert den 329 US 732, 91 L Ed 633, 67 S Ct 92.

[953]

plant guard. A person privately employed, acting as a guard at a factory or industrial plant.

plant protection personnel. See plant guard.

plaque. A thin piece of metal, wood, or plaster with a face suitable for carrying an inscription, so as to be usable as a memorial. 15 Am J2d Char § 60.

plaster cast. A cast made of plaster, but especially a cast placed upon a member to keep a fractured bone in place after it has been set. United States v Telles (DC Cal) 226 F Supp 670.

plasterer. One who follows the mechanical pursuit of coating walls and ceilings of rooms with plaster. 33 Am J1st Lic § 39. An artisan; a mechanic. Merrigan v English, 9 Mont 113, 22 P 454.

plastic surgery. A surgical operation for the repair or restoration of an injured or destroyed part of the body, especially a part of the face or head, for the purpose of correcting a disfigurement. 22 Am J2d Damg § 103.

plat. A representation on a fiat surface of a tract of land, depicting the boundaries by indicating monuments, markers, and lines, natural or artificial. A showing of the subdivisions and lots of a city, town, or village. A map or diagram upon which an owner of land lays it off into blocks and streets and sells lots with reference thereto. 23 Am J2d Ded §§ 23 et seq.

Land is said to be "platted" when it is laid out in lots, blocks, and streets, which are so designated on a map or plat thereof. "The mere fact of platting, taken by itself, is rather a circumstance looking to annexation. It is an attempt to impress upon the territory an urban character." Forsyth v Hammond, 142 Ind 505, 40 NE 267, 41 NE 950.

See original plat.

plate. A sheet of metal of uniform thickness and even surface. Sonken-Galamba Corp. v Atchison, T. & S. F. Ry. Co. (DC Mo) 33 F Supp 814. A dish constituting a part of a table service. Metal dishes or ware coated with silver. A holder of false teeth fitted to the mouth and gum.

plate glass insurance. Insurance covering particularly the windows of a building against loss or breakage by perils stated. Vorse v Jersey Plate Glass Ins. Co. 119 Iowa 555, 93 NW 569.

platform scales. A weighing scales so constructed that vehicles, loaded or unloaded, may be weighed thereon. A weighing scales with a platform upon which the barrel, bag, or other receptacle to be weighed may be conveniently placed. 35 Am J2d Fixt § 97.

platted. See plat. play. A dramatic work of either a humorous or a serious nature to be performed or presented to the public on stage, by television, or by motion picture. A form of literary property; a subject of copyright. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 10. Recreation; sport; fun. play around. To be unfaithful to one's spouse.

playground. A place for recreation, especially a place for children to play. A region for recreation.

playhouse. A theater. A small structure for children to play in.

See theater.

playing cards. Sometimes a diversion, sometimes gambling, dependent upon whether or not wagers are made upon the outcome of the game. Cards used in a game.

playing policy. See numbers game.

playright. A term suggested for the right to represent or produce a literary or musical composition. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 1.

See playwright.

play street. A street which, for the benefit and the protection of children playing therein, is completely closed to traffic, except such as is within the requirements of the abutting owners. Tamburrino v Sterrick Delivery Corp. 241 App Div 221, 271 NYS 765.

playwright. A writer of plays.

See playright.

plea. The answer required by law of one formally accused of crime. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 458. The pleading by way of answer to a petition, declaration, or complaint. 41 Am J1st Pl § 115. In equity, a special answer to all or some part of the bill, but on a single issue, setting up, in lieu of a detailed reply to all the allegations of the bill, as in an answer, some particular fact or facts as a cause for dismissing, delaying, or barring the suit as a whole. 27 Am J2d Eq § 204.

plead. To draft and serve or file a pleading, particularly a pleading by defendant. To raise a defense. Farm Bureau Auto. Ins. Co. v Martin, 97 NH 196, 84 A2d 823, 29 ALR2d 811.

pleader. A person who prepares a pleading or pleadings; a party who files or serves a pleading.

pleading. A formal statement by a party to an action or proceeding of the operative facts, as distinguished from evidentiary facts, which constitute the respective claim or defense. McMillan v Plymouth Electric Light & Power Co. 70 Ind App 336, 123 NE 446. The allegation made by a party to an action or proceeding for the purpose of presenting or joining the issue to be tried and determined, whether such issue is of law or of fact. 41 Am J1st Pl § 2. The science and course of allegation whereby a party in court presents his demand or defense against the demand of the other party to be made a matter of record. Kansas City v O'Connor, 36 Mo App 594, 599.

pleading a counterclaim. See counterclaim.

pleading a setoff. See setoff.

pleading a statute. Formally setting forth the terms of the statute. Stating the facts which bring the case within the statute, even without taking formal notice or even a mention of the statute itself. Hart V Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. 6 W Va 336, 348.

pleading in haec verba. Pleading a written instrument in the same words as the instrument.

pleading over. Serving or filing an amended pleading after an attack by one's adversary upon one's pleading. Pleading to the facts after demurrer overruled. 41 Am J1st Pl § 250. A pleading by the defendant in a criminal case after the overruling of a plea by him not going to the merits of the case, such as a plea in abatement. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 466.

pleading to the jurisdiction. See plea to the jurisdiction.

pleading to the merits. Raising and developing the issues between the parties or bringing forward whatever defenses the defendant may have which he wishes to interpose in bar of the plaintiff's claim. 41 Am J1st Pl § 131.

[954]

plea in abatement. A dilatory plea in a criminal case, challenging irregularities in procedure occurring before arraignment, but setting up no facts going to the real merits of the case. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 468. A plea in a civil action bringing to the attention of the court some fact or circumstance, not disclosed on the face of the record, which will defeat the particular action without absolutely and forever precluding or excluding right of recovery in the plaintiff. 41 Am J1st Pl § 124.

plea in bar. A pleading interposed by the defendant in an action as a complete defense, designed to defeat the action for all time. 41 Am J1st Pl § 115. A plea by an accused in a criminal case, asserting any matter in confession and avoidance not admissible under the plea of not guilty. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 464.

plea in confession and avoidance. A plea which admits the cause of action alleged by the plaintiff, to the extent at least of giving color to the matter, and sets up other matter in avoidance of the same. 41 Am J1st Pl § 158.

plea in discharge. A form of plea in confession and avoidance in which the defendant admits the existence at one time of a cause of action but alleges that, before the action, the defendant satisfied and discharged plaintiff's claim by payment. Nichols v Cecil, 106 Tenn 455, 61 SW 768.

plea of another action pending. A form of plea in abatement interposing the objection that a former action between the same parties for the same cause is still pending. 1 Am J2d Abat & R § 38.

plea of former jeopardy. See plea of prior jeopardy.

plea of guilty. A voluntary plea by an accused admitting the commission of the act charged as a criminal offense, generally permitted except in capital cases. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 484. In a criminal case, an admission or confession of guilt, a submission without contest, a waiver of defense, as conclusive as a verdict of a jury, admitting all material averments of fact in the accusation, leaving no issue for the jury, except in those instances where the extent of a punishment is to be imposed or found by the jury. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 495.

plea of liberum tenementum. A plea of freehold; a plea which in some jurisdictions is allowed to be interposed by the defendant in an action of trespass. Fort Dearborn Lodge v Klein, 115 Ill 177, 3 NE 272.

plea of limitations. A pleading which invokes the protection of the statute of limitations in a civil case. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 428. A special plea of the statute of limitations in a criminal case. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 160.

plea of ne unques administrator. See ne unques administrator.

plea of nil debit. See nil debit.

plea of nolo contendere. See nolo contendere.

plea of non assumpsit. See non assumpsit.

plea of non cepit. See non cepit.

plea of non damnificatus. Literally, a plea of not injured. A proper pleading by the defendant in an action on a covenant to indemnify and save harmless. 27 Am J1st Indem § 33. A plea interposed in an action of debt on a bond, which is equivalent to a plea setting up the defendant's fulfillment of his obligation. State Bank v Chetwood, 8 NJL 1, 25.

plea of non detinet. See non detinet.

plea of non possumus. A plea of want of capacity.

plea of non vult contendere. A plea similar to nolo contendere. The defendant will not contest. Re 17 Club, Inc. 26 NJ Super 43, 97 A2d 171.

This is not a confession of guilt, because an accused person might find himself without witnesses to establish his innocence, from their death, absence, or other cause, and hence waive a fruitless contest. Commonwealth v Shrope, 264 Pa 246, 107 A 729, 6 ALR 690, 692.

plea of not guilty. A plea in a criminal case which denies and controverts the existence of every fact essential to constitute the crime charged or to establish the accused's guilt, placing in issue every essential element of the offense charged. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 467. The plea of the general issue in an action for conversion of personal property. 18 Am J2d Conversion § 149. A plea of the general issue in tort actions and ejectment. 25 Am J2d Eject § 85; 41 Am J1st Pl § 141. A plea of the general issue in an action of trespass. 41 Am J1st Pl § 141. A plea of the general issue in an action of trespass on the case. 1 Am J2d Actions § 42.

plea of pregnancy. A plea interposed in a criminal prosecution whereby the execution of a pregnant woman is sought to be stayed by reason of her pregnancy.

plea of prior jeopardy. A special plea in bar, required in some jurisdictions although not in others, to present the defense of former jeopardy. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 473.

See prior jeopardy.

plea of reconvention. A pleading interposing a counterclaim in the answer. McLeod v Bertschy, 33 Wis 176.

plea of sanctuary. A plea anciently allowed in criminal cases under which the defendant, accused of any crime except treason or sacrilege, might set up the privilege of sanctuary.

That is, he might flee to a church or churchyard, and within forty days thereafter go into sackcloth, confess himself guilty before a coroner, state the circumstances of the offense, take oath that he abjured the realm and would quit the kingdom and never return without the king's leave. This privilege of sanctuary was much abridged in 1535, and in 1623 was altogether abolished. See 4 Bl Comm 332.

plea puis darrein continuance. A plea alleging matters of defense arising after the commencement of the action and after issue joined. 41 Am J1st Pl § 168. A plea which impugns the right of further prosecution, not the right of an action altogether. Heim v Carron, 19 Miss 11 (Smedes & M) 361.

please pay. In form a courteous request; in legal effect an order to pay. 11 Am J2d B & N § 139.

plea side. The civil side or department of a court as distinguished from the criminal department.

[955]

pleas of the crown. Criminal cases, so called in England, because the majesty of the whole community centers in the king, who by law is supposed to be the person injured by every infraction of the public rights. See 4 Bl Comm 2.

pleas roll. The record of a case which contains the pleadings which were filed in the action.

pleasure and business purposes. A familiar term in automobile insurance policies; a term usually defined by the terms of the policy.

Whether a particular activity is within the policy definition is to be determined from the particular facts in each case. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 31.

See business use; commercial use.

pleasure drive. See boulevard; parkway. pleasure resort. See resort.

pleasure use. See pleasure and business purposes.

plea to the jurisdiction. A plea in a criminal case strictly limited to the question of jurisdiction, of necessity preceding a plea of not guilty. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 463. A plea in a civil case where the want of jurisdiction is to be shown by evidence. 41 Am J1st PI § 129.

plea to the merits. See pleading to the merits.

plebeian. One of the common people, as distinguished from a member of the patrician class.

plebiscita. The decrees of the Roman people which went into effect without the concurrence of the senate, and which were simply laws established by popular vote.

plebiscite. A popular vote on a proposed law or on any question submitted to the people.

plebiscitum. Singular of plebiscita.

plebity. (Roman law.) The plebes; the plebeians; the common people.

plebs. (Roman law.) A plebeian; one of the common people.

pledge. A bailment of personal property as security for a debt or obligation, redeemable upon terms and with the implied power of sale on default. 41 Am J1st Pldg & Col § 2.

The Roman name applicable to a contract of pledge or pawn was pignus or vadium. The difference between a pignus and a hypothecation consisted in this: in the former, the possession of the thing pledged passed to the pledgee; in the latter, it did not. 41 Am J1st Pldg & Col § 2.

pledgee. A person to whom personal property is pledged by a pledgor.

pledgee's lien. The lien which a pledgee acquires in the thing pledged to the extent of the indebtedness secured, and which is usually held to continue as long as he retains the possession thereof either actual or symbolic and the debt which it was pledged to secure remains unpaid. 41 Am J1st Pldg & Col § 28.

pledgeholder. A third person to whose custody pledged property is entrusted instead of to that of the pledgee.

pledgery. Suretyship. An undertaking to answer for the obligation of another. Gloucester Bank v Worcester, 27 Mass 528, 531.

pledge of affiliation. A pledge of adherence to a particular political party and of support of its nominees, sometimes required as a condition of voting in a primary election. 25 Am J2d Elect § 159.

pledge of rents and profits. Broadening the security of a mortgage by including rents and profits of the mortgaged real estate. 36 Am J1st Mtg § 36.

pledges. Persons who became sureties to answer for the obligation of another. Plural of pledge.

pledges to restore. The sureties on a defendant's redelivery bond in an action of replevin.

pledgor. A person who makes a pledge of personal property to a pledgee.

plee. A plea; an action.

plegiabilis. Personal property which may be lawfully pledged.

plegii de prosequendo. Pledges to prosecute.

Under the ancient action of replevin to recover cattle or goods alleged to have been wrongfully taken in distress, the plaintiff was required to find pledges which should be security to try the right of distress. See 3 Bl Comm 146.

plegii de prosequendum. Same as plegii de prosequendo.

plegii de retorno habendo. Pledges to have the return.

Under the ancient action of replevin to recover cattle or goods alleged to have been wrongfully taken in distress, the plaintiff was bound to find such pledges as security for his return of the thing distrained to the distrainor, if the right should be determined against the plaintiff. See 3 Bl Comm 147.

plein age. See de plein age; plena aetas.

plein vie. See en plein vie.

plena aetas. Full age; majority.

Plena et celeris justitia fiat partibus. Let full and speedy justice be done to the parties.

plena fides. Full faith; full confidence.

plena forisfactura. A full or complete forfeiture; a forfeiture of all one's property.

plena probatio. (Civil law.) Full proof,—proof by two witnesses or by a public document. See 3 Bl Comm 370.

plena propiedad. See propiedad.

plenarie. Fully.

plenarty. The condition of a church as being full, after a clergyman had once been instituted in it, whether his induction had been rightful or not. See 3 Bl Comm 243.

plenary. Full and complete. Commonwealth v Breakwater Co. 214 Mass 10, 100 NE 1034. Unabridged.

plenary action. A suit or action, independent of any other proceeding, in which the merits of the cause are fully inquired into and determined, as distinguished from a summary proceeding in which formalities are less strict and which are usually merely ancillary to some other action or proceeding. May v Henderson, 268 US 111, 115, 69 L Ed 870, 873, 45 S Ct 456.

plenary power. Power as broad as equity and justice require. London v Joslovitz, 279 App Div 280, 110 NYS2d 58.

[956]

plenary suit. Same as plenary action.

plena vita. See in plena vita.

plene administravit. A plea of an executor or administrator, in an action against him on a debt of his decedent, setting forth the fact that he has fully administered the estate. Wilkins v Gibson, 113 Ga 31, 38 SE 374.

plene administravit praeter. A plea of an executor or administrator in an action against him on a debt of his decedent, alleging that he has fully administered the estate, excepting as to assets which are insufficient to meet the plaintiff's claim.

plene computavit. He has fully accounted,—a plea in an action of account alleging that the defendant has already rendered a full account.

plenipotentiary. A person who is fully empowered or commissioned to act for his constituent. An ambassador.

pleno comitatu. See in pleno comitatu.

pleno jure. With full right.

pleno lumine. See in pleno lumine.

plenum dominium. (Civil law.) Full ownership, the right of property in a thing coupled with the right to its use and enjoyment.

plenum rectum. Full, complete, or absolute right.

pleurocentesis. Draining the chest cavity. Breaux v All State Ins. Co. (La App) 86 So 2d 132.

plevina. Security; the liability or undertaking of a surety.

Plimsoll line. A line marked on the side of a merchant ship as a gauge to prevent overloading, the line marking the limit of safe submergence.

Plimsoll mark. Same as Plimsoll line.

pl'it'm. An abbreviation of placitum.

plot. The scheme of a dramatic or literary work. An area of ground marked off. A diagram.

plottage. The added value that accrues to two or more lots in one ownership, where the entire plot can be improved to better advantage than the individual lots. Re New York, 127 Misc 710, 729, 217 NYS 544.

plough-land. As large a tract of land as could be ploughed by one plough in a year. Arable land.

plough silver. Money paid by a feudal tenant to the lord of the manor in lieu of service by ploughing.

plow. A farm implement used to cut and turn over the soil in preparation of a seed bed.

plowbote. A tenant's common-law right of estovers consisting of a sufficient amount of the timber necessary in making or repairing all instruments, tools, and implements used in husbandry. Anderson v Cowan, 125 Iowa 259, 101 NW 92.

plow horse. A work horse, particularly one used in farm work.

plow-land. Same as plough-land.

plowman's fee. An ancient customary descent in equal shares to the sons of the decedent, varied by larger shares to the oldest or the youngest son.

plow silver. Same as plough silver.

plugging well. A conservation measure required by statute in some jurisdictions upon the abandonment of an oil well. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 148.

Water, if not plugged off when a well is abandoned, may migrate through the oil sand to adjacent producing wells and eventually ruin them. Gas sands may also be flooded and gas wasted if gas is allowed to escape into the air. All wells should be plugged if they are abandoned. Forbes v United States (CA9 Mont) 125 F2d 404.

plumber. An artisan who works in fitting and repairing waterpipes, bathroom installations, and the like. 41 Am J1st Plumb § 2.

plumbing. Work connected with the system of pipes, traps, sinks, bowls, etc. whereby water is conducted into, through, and out of a building. Blegman v Winkler, 120 Misc 483, 198 NYS 758. The system itself.

plumbism. Lead poisoning. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp §§ 252, 253. A disease common among painters, usually caused by inhaling lead fumes from the paint. Anno: 29 ALR 694.

plumbum. Lead.

plunder. Verb: To take the property of others by force. To take the property of others by any means, whether force or fraud. To pilfer, to swindle. Carter v Andrews, 33 Mass (16 Pick) 1, 9. Noun: Property acquired by criminal or fraudulent act. The fruits of a crime.

plunderage. Embezzlement committed aboard a ship.

plural. Consisting of more than one.

Pluralis numerus est duobus contentus. The plural number is contented or satisfied with two.

pluraliter. Plurally; in the plural number.

plurality. A plural condition or state, being in excess of one. The excess of one number over another.

plurality estate. See estate in plurality.

plurality of subject matter. A characterization of the content of a statute embracing more than one subject. 50 Am J1st Stat § 192.

plurality of trust. The situation where separate and several trusts, to be administered by the same trustee, are created by the same instrument. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 16.

plurality vote. The largest vote received as between candidates for an office at an election; the winning vote, except where a majority of votes cast is required by constitutional provision or statute. 26 Am J2d Elect § 309.

plural marriage. A marriage of a person who already has one or more living spouses. A bigamous or polygamous marriage.

plural patents. A patent for an entire combination or process and another patent or patents for such part or parts of the combination or process as are new and useful. 40 Am J1st Pat § 83.

Plures cohaeredes sunt quasi unum corpus, propter unitatem juris quod habent.

[957]

Several coheirs are one body, as it were, because they have unity of right.

Plures participes sunt quasi unum corpus, in eo quod unum jus habent. Several parceners are one body, as it were, in this, that they have one right.

pluribus unum. See E Pluribus Unum.

pluries writs. Multiple or successive writs of attachment or execution issued in the same action or upon the same judgment. 6 Am J2d Attach § 278; 30 Am J2d Exec § 84.

At common law, a writ of execution issued after the second or alias writ was a pluries writ. Bigelow v Renker, 25 Ohio St 542. So was a writ of attachment issued after an alias writ had been returned "nothing found." See 3 Bl Comm 283.

pluris petitio. A demand for too much, that is, for more than is owing.

plus. Added to. In Latin, more.

Plus exempla quam peccata nocent. Examples do more harm than offenses.

Plus peccat auctor quam actor. The instigator sins more than the actual perpetrator.

plus petitio. (Roman law.) A demand of too much, that is, of more than is due or owing.

Plus valet consuetudo quam concessio. Custom is more powerful than grant.

Plus valet unus oculatus testis, quam auriti decem. One eye-witness is worth more than ten ear-witnesses.

Plus vident oculi quam oculus. Eyes see more than an eye sees, several see more than one.

ply. To perform in repetition acts of the same kind.

A reference to plying a business at a certain place ordinarily imports that such place is a seat of the business. New York, New Haven & Hartford Rail road Co. v Scovill, 71 Conn 136, 41 A 246.

P.M. Abbreviation of postmaster, also of Principal Meridian.

p.m. Abbreviation of post meridiem, after noon.

pneumatic tire. A rubber tire for a motor vehicle, inflated with compressed air. 7 Am J2d Auto § 70.

pneumoconiosis. A diseased condition of the lungs caused by the inhalation of dust particles such as a stonecutter may be subjected to. Sullivan's Case, 265 Mass 497, 164 NE 457, 62 ALR 1458; Schmidt v Merchants Despatch Transp. Co. 270 NY 287, 200 NE 824, 104 ALR 450, reh den 271 NY 531, 2 NE2d 680, 104 ALR 462.

pneumonia. A disease of the lungs characterized by a severe inflammation of the tissues. Nashville v Reese, 138 Tenn 471, 197 SW 492. A serious disease of the lungs in which the tissues become inflamed and hardened, rendering breathing difficult and painful. Young v New York Life Ins. Co. 360 Mo 460, 228 SW2d 670. A common disease but sometimes classified as an accidental injury for the purposes of workmen's compensation. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 244.

P. O. An abbreviation of "postoffice."

poaching. Trespassing upon land for the purpose of killing and taking game there.

poblador. A term used in certain Spanish-American grants and signifying a person who undertook to bring together a certain number of families or settlers, and build a town. Hart v Burnett, 15 Cal 530, 538.

pocket judgment. A bond given to secure an obligation; a statute merchant.

See statute merchant.

pocket picking. Taking from another's pocket. A form of larceny. 32 Am J1st Larc § 44.

Picking another's pocket, exercising only such force as is necessary to lift and remove the property from the pocket, is not robbery. However, if the thief jostles his victim for the purpose of diverting attention in order to pick his pocket, the force is sufficient to constitute robbery. Duluth St. R. Co. v Fidelity & D. Co. 136 Minn 299, 161 NW 595.

pocket-sheriff. A sheriff appointed by the king without the customary nomination of the judges. See 1 Bl Comm 342.

pocket veto. A veto of a legislative bill effected by the retention of the bill by the executive, his return of the measure as approved or rejected within the time fixed by law being prevented by the adjournment of the law-making body. 50 Am J1st Stat § 121.

pod net. See Dutch net.

poena. A punishment; a penalty; a compensation.

Poena ad paucos, metus ad omnes perveniat. Punishment for the few means that fear comes to all.

poena corporalis. Corporal punishment.

Poenae potius molliendae quam exasperandae sunt. Punishments should rather be softened than aggravated.

Poenae sint restringendae. Punishments should be restrained.

Poena ex delicto defuncti, haeres teneri non debet. The heir ought not to be bound by a penalty imposed for the wrong done by the deceased.

poenalis. (Civil law). Penal; carrying or imposing a penalty.

poenam. See in poenam.

Poena non potest, culpa perennis erit. Punishment cannot be everlasting, but error or sin will be.

poena pilloralis. Punishment in the pillory.

See pillory.

Poena suos tenere debet actores et non alios. The punishment ought to belong to the actual perpetrators and not to others.

Poena tollit potest, culpa perennis erit. The punishment can be removed, but the sin or error will be perpetual.

[958]

poenitentia. Repentance; altered intent.

poetic justice. Rewards for virtue; punishment for sin. A satirical expression for idealistic, rather than practical attempts to regulate the conduct of men and women.

poin. See en poin.

poinding. A distress; an attachment of goods.

point of destination. See destination.

point of impact. A term of conflicts of laws, meaning the point at which the tortious acts of the defendant impinged upon the rights of the complaining party. Ettore v Philco Television Broadcasting Corp. (CA3 Pa) 229 F2d 481, 58 ALR2d 626.

See place of most significant contacts.

point of law. A matter of law, as distinguished from a matter of fact, involved in a case or controversy.

See precedent.

point of production. Within the meaning of a statute exempting from a vehicle tax motor vehicles used exclusively in delivering dairy or other farm products:—the farm where the livestock was prepared for disposal and where milk was produced and agricultural products raised, or where dairy farm products were made. State ex rel. Wisconsin Allied Truck Owners Assn. v Public Service Com. 207 Wis 664, 242 NW 668.

point reserved. See reserved point.

points. The propositions to be presented in a brief. Afflerbach v Yorktown Independent School Dist. (Tex Com App) 289 SW 1003, 1005. Facts, Kent v State, 64 Ark 247, 251, especially circumstances which give the character of excellence, as the "points" of a prize winning animal at a fair.

See terms and expressions beginning point.

point system. A system provided by statute or regulation in some jurisdictions for the purpose of singling out habitual or persistent motor-vehicle-law violators, whereby points are charged against a driver's record for violation, and his license suspended or revoked upon his accumulating a specified number of such points. 7 Am J2d Auto § 112.

poison. A substance which when taken will destroy life or be seriously injurious to health. Anno: 110 ALR 1277, s. 131 ALR 1061; 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1226. Any substance which, where introduced into the system, either directly or by absorption, produces violent, morbid, or fatal changes, or which destroys living tissue with which it comes in contact. Watkins v National Electrical Products Corp. (CA3 Pa) 165 F2d 980. Any substance which, when applied to the body or introduced into the system, without acting mechanically but by its own inherent qualities, is capable of destroying life. People v Van Deleer, 53 Cal 147. A substance of such properties as to be capable of destroying life when taken in small doses. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1226. Any substance which ordinarily has such a harmful or deadly effect on the body that it ought not to be taken internally without technical familiarity or medical direction. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 6.

poisoning. A specific felony under the statutes of some jurisdictions, usually committed by mixing a lethal potion with food or drink served the victim. 26 Am J1st Homi § 604.

poker. A game of chance played with cards, almost invariably for money so as to constitute gambling. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 20.

See draw poker; stud poker.

polar star rule. The principle that a written document which is ambiguous is to be construed according to the intent of the maker, grantor, or devisor as gathered from the four corners of the instrument. Hanks v McDanell, 307 Ky 243, 210 SW2d 784, 17 ALR2d 1.

pole. A slender piece of wood or metal of such strength and length as to serve to support a line, a tent, even a roof of a barn. A linear measure, the equivalent of a rod, sixteen and one half feet.

pole-raising. An indictable offense in the early days of the country, where symbolizing dissatisfaction with the government, because of the tendency to incite violence. Pennsylvania v Morrison (Pa) 1 Addison 274, 275.

pole tax. A license fee imposed on a telegraph or telephone company according to the number of poles erected and maintained in the municipality. 52 Am J1st Teleg & T § 51.

See poll tax.

police. Verb: To keep order. To keep clean, particularly the ground around buildings of the military. Noun: The law-enforcing department of a state or local government having the duty of maintaining order, detecting crimes, and making arrests. Peace officers. In the broadest sense, inclusive of both administrators and magistrates. State ex rel. Walsh v Hine, 59 Conn 50, 21 A 1024.

police court. A local court. 20 Am J2d Cts § 30. A municipal court for the summary trial of petty offenders and violators of city ordinances.

police department. The department of a municipal government, consisting of a head, usually known as the chief of police, captains, lieutenants, inspectors, sergeants, detectives, patrolmen, traffic officers, and other officers within the broad category of policemen, which has the duty of maintaining order, detecting crime, and making arrests.

police force. See police department.

police judge. A magistrate. The judge of a police court.

police justice. A magistrate whose jurisdiction extends only to criminal cases and is the same in such cases as that of a justice of the peace. Wenzler v People (NY) 2 Cow Crim 72, 74.

police magistrate. See police judge; police justice. State v Evans, 161 Mo 95, 61 SW 590.

policeman. A peace officer. 47 Am J1st Sher § 5. An officer of the police department, having such powers as are conferred upon him by statute or municipal ordinance.

police power. A term impossible of abstract, and incapable of complete, definition. Berman v Parker, 348 US 26, 99 L Ed 27, 75 S Ct 98. In one sense, the whole power of government to which all other powers are only incidental and ancillary; nothing more or less than the powers of government inherent in every sovereignty to the extent of its dominions. A.F.L. v American Sash & Door Co. 67 Ariz 20, 189 P2d 912, affd 335 US 538, 93 L Ed 2d 222, 69 S Ct 258, 6 ALR2d 481. An attribute of sovereignty, comprehending the power to make and enforce all wholesome and reasonable laws and regulations necessary to the maintenance, upbuilding, and advancement of public weal and protection of public interests. State ex rel. Whetsel v Wood, 207 Okla 193, 248 P2d 612, 34 ALR2d 1321. That power in government which restrains individuals from transgressing the rights of others, and restrains them in their conduct so far as is necessary to protect the rights of all. State v Dolan, 13 Idaho 693, 92 P 995. The domestic order of the state, whereby the individuals thereof, like members of a well-governed family, are bound to conform their general behavior to the rules of propriety, good neighborhood, and good manners, and to be decent, industrious, and inoffensive in their daily lives. Hunter v Green, 142 Fla 104, 194 So 379. The vast residual power of the state, comprising that portion of the sovereignty of the state not surrendered by the terms of the United States Constitution to the Federal Government. 16 Am J2d Const L § 262.

[959]

police precinct. A subdivision of the area of a municipality to which a part of the force of the city-officers and men are assigned for duty, normally having a station house.

police problem. A pressing element of emergency arising from impending danger to the community and demanding urgent attention to abate or avoid it. Greenberg v Lee, 196 Or 157, 248 P2d 612, 35 ALR2d 567. One who is a persistent violator of laws.

police record. A court record of the conviction or convictions of a person. Any record kept by police as to persons apprehended by them and the charges against such persons. People v Yates, 339 Ill 421, 171 NE 557.

police regulations. Statutes and ordinances dealing with the health, safety, and morals of the people. Mitchell v Cumberland Tel. & Tel. Co. 188 Ky 263, 221 SW 547, 10 ALR 946, 949.

See police power.

police sergeant. See police department.

policy. Expedience. A course of action. Principle. On a much lower scale, the numbers game.

See numbers game; policy of insurance; public policy.

policy game. Same as numbers game.

policy loan. See loan on life insurance policy.

polycymaking. A superior discretionary power or duty. Commonwealth ex rel. Meredith v Frost, 295 Ky 137, 172 SW2d 905.

policy racket. See numbers game.

policy of insurance. The parlance of the insurance business, the contract between the insured and the insurer. State ex rel. Sheets v Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Ry. Co. 68 Ohio St 9, 67 NE 93.

The formal document in which a contract of insurance appears. London Assur. Corp. v Paterson, 106 Ga 538, 32 SE 650.

See annual dividend policy; assessment policy; blanket policy; deferred dividend policy; fire policy; life policy; old line policy; paid-up policy; running policy; term policy; tontine policy; valued policy; voyage policy; wager policy.

policy of the law. The reason for and the principle of the law.

The expression is synonymous with the term "public policy." See Billingsley v Clelland, 41 W Va 234, 245, 23 SE 812.

See public policy.

polio. A colloquial term for poliomyelitis.

poliomyelitis. A disease which attacks the gray matter of the spinal cord, often causing paralysis. Cunningham v State, 18 Misc 2d 367, 186 NYS2d 146, rev'd on other grounds 10 App Div 2d 751, 197 NYS2d 542, aff'd 11 NY2d 808, 227 NYS2d 253, 181 NE2d 852. An infectious disease, especially of children, now well under control by virtue of medical and scientific research supported by funds obtained from well-founded charity.

political activity. Serving on a political committee, holding office in a party organization, making partisan speeches or campaigning for candidates. 30A Am J Rev ed Judges § 56.

Politiae legibus, non leges politiis adaptandae. Politics should be adapted to the laws, not the laws to politics.

politic. Expedient, especially in reference to the effect of a course of action upon others.

See body politic; body politic and corporate.

political. Pertaining to the government. Re Kemp, 16 Wis 359, 396. Pertaining to the establishment of a form of government. Commonwealth v McCarthy, 281 Mass 253, 183 NE 495, 85 ALR 1141. Pertaining to the activity of, or work for, a political party; pertaining to anything connected with candidacy for office or the support of a candidate for office.

political body. A body of government, such as a legislature or municipal commission. A body established as a source or administrator of governmental power, such as a state, a county, a municipality. Not the same as a political party. Brown v Finnegan, 369 Pa 609, 133 A2d 809.

political compact. A treaty between two or more nations. 52 Am J1st Treat § 3. A compact establishing a government.

See Mayflower Compact.

political committee. Any committee or combination of three or more persons co-operating to aid or promote the success or defeat of a political party. Anno: 125 ALR 1031. The organized force of a political party in the nation as the national committee, in the state as the state committee, and locally as a county or town committee, consisting of committeemen, elected in a primary election and leaders known as chairmen or executive committeemen, maintaining an office and staff of workers, particularly in the six months preceding an election.

political convention. See convention.

political corporation. Same as public corporation.

political crime. An offense against the government. Activity in a political uprising without reference to guilt of any specific offense. Anno: 94 ALR 1493; 31 Am J2d Extrad § 23.

political division. See political subdivision.

political economy. A word displaced by the modern term economics.

political equity. Those principles to be followed by states or nations in adjusting matters or controversies between them, such to be distinguished from the equity administered by a court of equity. Rhode

[960]

Island v Massachusetts (US) 12 Pet 657, 738, 9 L Ed 1233, 1266.

political liberty. See civil liberties.

political newspaper. A newspaper published by a political party; a newspaper which adheres to and supports one political party over others.

political offender. See political crime.

political office. Any office of the civil government not connected with the administration of justice. United States v Fitzpatrick (US) 13 Wall 568, 20 L Ed 707, 708. Any office filled by a popular election. Any public office not within the civil service system, that is, one whose occupant is not protected in his tenure by civil service laws.

political party. A number of persons united in opinion and organized in the manner usual to the then existing political parties. State ex rel. Howells v Metcalf, 18 SD 393, 100 NW 923. An unincorporated association of persons sponsoring certain ideas of government or maintaining certain political principles or beliefs respecting governmental policy, formed for the purpose of urging the adoption and execution of such principles in governmental affairs through officers of like beliefs. 25 Am Rd Elect § 116. An organization which has polled a sufficiently large number of votes at the preceding general or municipal election to entitle it to nominate all its candidates for office and to elect all its party officers at primaries, under the provisions of the election law. Brown v Finnegan, 389 Pa 609, 133 A2d 809.

political power. That power which a sovereign or state exerts by his or its own authority. Rhode Island v Massachusetts (US) 12 Pet 657, 738, 9 L Ed 1233, 1266. The power of a political party, a group of persons, or even an individual to influence an election.

political propaganda. See propaganda. political purpose. A purpose to influence the exercise of political rights. Commonwealth v McCarthy, 281 Mass 253, 183 NE 495, 85 ALR 1141.

political question. A question, the determination of which is a prerogative of the legislative or executive branch of the government, so as not to be appropriate for judicial inquiry or adjudication. 20 Am J2d Cts § 80.

It would be difficult to draw a clear line of demarcation between political and non-political questions, but among the questions which have been recognized as political rather than judicial in nature, none comes more clearly within the former classification than those which involve the propriety of acts done in the conduct of the foreign nations with our government. Z. & F. Assets Realization Corp. v Hull, 72 App DC 234, 114 F2d 464.

political revolt. The existence of war in a material sense rather than in a legal sense. Three Friends, 166 US 1, 41 L Ed 897, 17 S Ct 495. A turning away from the leaders of a political party theretofore recognized.

See Young Turks.

political rights. The power to participate directly or indirectly in the establishment or management of government. People v Washington, 36 Cal 658, 662. Constitutional rights, particularly the right of assembly, suffrage, and the right to be a candidate for and to hold public office.

political subdivision. A subordinate political body. A county, township, or municipal corporation. A territorial division to the electors of which there is committed to some extent the power of local government. State v Corker, 67 NJL 596, 52 A 362.

politics. The science of government. In a practical sense, political activity.

See political activity.

polity. A society with an organized government. An established government.

poll. Verb: To cut off, for example, the horns of a steer. To vote. To receive votes in an election. To canvass the electorate for the purpose of forecasting the result of an election. Noun: A head. An individual among several persons. A list of persons, particularly, a list of jurors or of voters. More precisely, a list of persons who voted at an election. Citizens & Taxpayers of De Soto Parish v Williams, 49 La Ann 422, 21 So 647.

See catchpoll; challenge to the poll; deed poll; polls.

pollicitation. A sort of contract recognized in the civil law which arises from a promise made by one party only, without any consent or acceptance by the other.

This peculiar kind of obligation exists only from an individual towards a body politic or government. McCulloch v Eagle Ins. Co. 18 Mass (1 Pick) 278, 283.

polling jury. Examining the jurors individually to ascertain whether they are unanimous in support of the verdict. 53 Am J1st Trial § 1015. A procedure whereby each juror is asked individually the finding at which he has arrived, creating individual responsibility by requiring each juror to answer for himself, and affording the court an opportunity to ascertain with certainty that a unanimous verdict has in fact been reached and that no juror has been coerced or induced to agree to a verdict to which he has not fully assented. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 371.

polling place. See polls.

polls. One of the places where the votes are cast at an election. The place of holding an election within a district, precinct, or other territorial unit. 26 Am J2d Elect § 228.

See poll.

poll tax. A tax of a fixed amount imposed upon all the persons, or upon all the persons of a certain class, resident within a specified territory, without regard to their property or the occupations in which they may be engaged. 51 Am J1st Tax § 38. A tax imposed upon each man of a certain age for road purposes, payable in cash or in services rendered in work upon the roads. 25 Am J1st High § 84. Abolished absolutely as a prerequisite to voting in federal elections by the Twenty-Fourth Amendment to the United States Constitution. 25 Am J2d Elect § 81.

pollution. See air pollution; water pollution.

polo. A game played by teams of four men each, mounted on horses, the object of which is to score by driving a small wooden ball with an instrument known as a mallet, through the goal of the opponents. Douglas v Converse, 248 Pa 232, 93 A 955.

po. lo. suo. An abbreviation of ponit loco suo.

polyandry. The state or condition of a woman who has more than one living husband.

polycythemia. A chronic condition of slow, insidious development, in which the red blood cells increase to exceed the maximum normal count of 5 million per cubic millimeter and the hemoglobin content of the blood increases to exceed the maximum normal of 85 per cent. Miller v Lykes Bros.-Ripley S. S. Co. (CA5 La) 98 F2d 185.

[961]

Polygamia est plurium simul virorum uxorumve connubium. Polygamy is the marriage with several husbands or wives at the same time.

polygamy. The offense or practice of marrying again by one who has a spouse living. Reynolds v United States (US) 8 Otto 145, 25 L Ed 244, 250. Popularly known as the practice of having several wives.

polygarchy. A government by several rulers.

polygraph. A machine for making copies of written instruments. An instrument which records the pulse of the heart in tracings.

polymania. The form of insanity which amounts to general mental alienation. Re Russell (NY) 1 Barb Ch 38, 41.

polyphase. See multiphase.

polytechnic. Pertaining to applied science and engineering.

pomoeria. The bounds. See 1 Bl Comm 30.

pond. A small body of water substantially at rest in its natural state, that is, without a substantial current. 56 Am J1st Wat § 50. A small body of water artificially created by impounding a stream or draining surface water to a depression. A confined or stagnant body of fresh water. Rockland Water Co. v Camden & Rockland Water Co. 80 Me 544, 15 A 785.

See great ponds.

Ponderantur testes, non numerantur. Witnesses are weighed, not counted. Bakeman v Rose (NY) 14 Wend 105, 109.

pondus. Same as poundage.

pondus regis. The king's weight, a standard weight established by parliament. See 1 BI Comm 276.

pone. See de pone; writ of pone.

ponendo sigillum ad exceptionem. See de ponendo sigillum ad exceptionem; ponendum sigillum ad exceptionem.

ponendum in ballium. A writ which lay to admit a person to bail.

ponendum sigillum ad exceptionem. A writ which lay to compel the judges to place the seal of the court upon exceptions to rulings made at the trial of a case.

pone per vadium et salvos plegios. Put by gage and safe pledges.

A writ which was issued after the return of the original writ and the nonappearance of the defendant, ordering the sheriff to attach the defendant by taking gage, that is, certain of his goods, to be forfeited if he did not appear, or by making him find safe pledges or sureties to be amerced in the event of his nonappearance. See 3 BI Comm 280.

ponere. (Latin.) To place. To put.

poniard. A dagger. People v Ruiz, 88 Cal App 502, 263 P 836.

Ponit loco suo. He put him in his place or stead.

Ponit se super patriam. He puts himself upon the country,—he leaves the matter for the jury to decide, that is, he pleads not guilty. See 4 BI Comm 341.

pontage. A tax levied for the maintenance of a bridge; a toll charged for the use of a bridge.

pontibus reparandis. A writ directing the repair of a bridge.

pontium reparatio. The reparation of bridges.

This was a part of the trinoda necessitas which was an obligation falling on all freemen or at least on all free householders and to which their estates were subject, whatever other immunities they might enjoy. No rank or dignity could exempt a man from the service of rendering aid in the construction and repair of bridges and highways. Butler v Perry, 240 US 328, 60 L Ed 672, 36 S Ct 258.

pontoon. A float supporting a bridge or other structure. A vessel for the purposes of admiralty jurisdiction. The Mackinaw (DC Or) 165 F 351.

pony-truck. The truck of a locomotive resting on the small wheels which are in front of the driving wheels. Eker v Pettibone (CA7 Ind) 110 F2d 451.

pool. An association of persons engaged in buying or selling a certain commodity or commodities. Kilbourn v Thompson, 103 US 168, 26 L Ed 377. A contract or combination between competing producers or dealers in commodities, particularly those of prime necessity, whereby the parties effect an illegal restraint of trade by agreement to refrain from competition and to divide profits from their respective businesses in fixed proportions. 36 Am J1st Monop etc. § 18. An arrangement between carriers for division of traffic. 44 Am J1st R R § 360. An agreement between carriers for a division of earnings. United States v Trans-Missouri Freight Asso. (CA8 Kan) 58 F 58. A cumulation of the products of members of a co-operative association for sale of the entire amount. Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Asso. v Stovall, 113 Tex 273, 253 SW 1101. An agreement to unite resources for the accomplishment of a particular purpose, as where the banks of a locality joined in a plan for aiding another bank in financial difficulty. 10 Am J2d Bks § 334. One of several related games of billiards, played by two or more persons on a table with pockets, with numbered balls, a tapered stick known as a cue ball, the object being to drive the balls into the pockets in the order of the numbers, Recreation Club Inc. v Miller, 192 Miss 259, 5 So 2d 678; a game sometimes played as a gambling game. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 21. A combination of persons, each staking a sum of money on the success of a horse in a race, or a contestant in a game, the money to be divided among the successful bettors according to the amount put in by each. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 23. In the most simple sense, a small body of water, such as a swimming pool.

See car pool.

pooling. Commingling the funds of several trusts for investment in one or more securities. 54 Am J1st Trust § 396. Forming a pool. Texas Farm Bureau Cotton Asso. v Stovall, 113 Tex 273, 253 SW 1101.

[962]

See pool.

pooling agreement. See pooling contract.

pooling commissions. An objectionable practice by brokers severally representing the parties to a transaction in dividing the commissions on an even basis. 12 Am J2d Brok § 174.

pooling contract. A contract made in effecting a pool, an illegal contract where the pool is illegal. United States v Trans-Missouri Freight Asso. (CA8 Kan) 58 F 58.

See pool; voting agreement; voting trust.

pooling royalties. An arrangement whereby the owners of separate tracts of land share proportionately in the sum obtained by the payment of royalties on production of all oil wells within the entire area comprehended. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 66.

poolroom. A room open to the public and equipped with tables, cues, etc. for the playing of pool or billiards, a charge being made the players by the keeper. 4 Am J2d Amuse § 24. A turf exchange; that is, a room or place where money is received, won, and lost on horse races, and where tickets for pools on horse races run, or to be run, at divers race courses, are bought, sold, and cashed. State v Vaughan, 81 Ark 117, 98 SW 685.

pool selling. A form of gambling; the receiving from several persons of wagers on the same event, especially a horse race, the total sum of which is to be divided among the winners, subject to the commission or charge exacted by the seller of the pool. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 24. A kind of gambling, but not a lottery. Commonwealth v Kentucky Jockey Club, 238 Ky 739, 38 SW2d 987.

pool table. "Apparatus" for the purposes of an exemption from execution. Anno: 2 ALR 821.

See pool.

pool ticket. A ticket issued by the person conducting a pool by way of gambling.

See pool selling.

poor. Destitute and helpless, lacking in ability to support oneself and without means of support. Busser v Snyder, 282 Pa 440, 128 A 80, 37 ALR 1515.

See poor person.

poor debtors' acts. Statutes whereunder a person arrested under body execution may obtain his discharge from custody by showing inability to satisfy the judgment.

poor debtor's oath. See poor man's oath.

poor farm. A farm lacking in productivity. A farm operated in connection with a poorhouse. 41 Am J1st Poor L § 33.

poorhouse. A place for the care of destitute persons who are unable to support themselves.

See alms house; county farm.

poor laws. See welfare laws.

poor man's oath. An oath taken by a person arrested under a body execution, whereby he may be discharged. 30 Am J2d Exec § 875. An affidavit, made by a plaintiff who, having a just cause of action against the defendant, is, by reason of his poverty, unable to give security for costs, stating that such is the fact. Cole v Hoeburg, 36 Kan 263, 13 P 275.

poor man's will. A name applied, preferably with tongue in cheek, to a joint bank account. 10 Am J2d Bks § 369.

poor officers. Overseers of the poor. Public officers whose duties pertain to the administration of public relief for poor and destitute persons. 41 Am J1st Poor L § 15.

poor or poorest. An ineffectual designation of the objects of one's bounty.

Whenever the term "poor" or the term "poorest" has been used to describe a beneficiary in a bequest or devise, it has been held to be insufficient for uncertainty. McDonough's Executors v Murdoch (US) 15 How 367, 398, 14 L Ed 732, 746.

poor person. A pauper; an indigent or destitute person. 41 Am J2d Poor L § 4. Any person in immediate need of means for obtaining food, clothing, shelter, or medical care, without reference to whether or not he has relatives liable for his support. Goodale v Lawrence, 88 NY 513.

poor rate. A tax levied to raise money for the relief and care of the paupers living in the district.

poor relations. As a designation of beneficiaries of a will, those persons entitled to take under the statute of distribution, without reference to the adjective "poor." Anno: 57 ALR 1185.

poor relief. Support provided the poor and destitute by a public body, better known in the present as welfare.

See welfare; welfare laws.

poor risk. A risk which an insurer does not want to cover.

Pope. The head of the Roman Catholic Church.

Pope Clement. See Clementines.

Pope Gregory. See Gregorian calendar.

Pope John. See John XXIII.

Pope Paul. See Paul VI.

populaire. See action populaire.

popular action. An action to recover a penalty, the cause being given by law to the people in general. 23 Am J2d Forf & P § 61. An action to recover a penalty, prescribed by statute and given to any informer, that is, to any such person as will bring suit for the penalty. Miami Copper Co. v State, 17 Ariz 179, 149 P 758.

popular courts. Old courts in England such as the hundred courts and the borough courts.

popular government. A government wherein the body of the nation keeps in its own hands the empire, or the right of command. Representative democracy, as in the United States. McGowen v Stark, 10 SCL (1 Nott & M'c) 387.

popularity contest. A contest conducted at a gathering of people, such as the audience in a theater, wherein votes are taken to determine the person to be acclaimed as the most popular. A facetious term applied to an election campaign wherein the candidates do not discuss principles.

popular sense. The meaning of a word or phrase according to contemporary usage. Franklin Light and Power Co. v Southern Cities Power Co. 164 Tenn 171, 47 SW2d 86.

popular use. Public use, inclusive not only of a use to which the public is entitled by law, but of occasional and precarious enjoyment of property by members of society in their individual capacities, had without the power to enforce such enjoyment at law.

[963]

populated area. An area along a street or highway wherein so many people reside that a motorist must not drive at a high, excessive, or unwarranted rate of speed. 7 Am J2d Auto § 445.

population. The inhabitants of a place, a state, or a country. Ludwig v Board of County Comrs. 170 Neb 600, 103 NW2d 839.

populiscitum. (Roman law.) Same as plebiscitum.

populus. (Roman law.) The people, including all citizens of every class and rank.

porch. An extension of a building beyond the main wall, sometimes enclosed, sometimes open, providing a place of recreation and enjoyment, often, where situated on a level with the second floor, a place for sleeping. 20 Am J2d Cov § 251.

porpoise. A cetacean. A mammal of the ocean; a whale rather than a fish, although called a fish royal.
See fish royal.

port. A place urban in character, contiguous to navigable waters, with facilities, for the loading, unloading, surfacing, outfitting, and provisioning of vessels. 38 Am J1st Ship § 223. Any place from which merchandise can be shipped for importation or at which merchandise can be imported. 19 USC § 232. In loose usage, a harbor; a safe station for ships. Wharf Case (Md) 3

Bland 361, 369. In a distinct sense, that side of a ship on one's left hand when facing the bow. In a more appealing sense, a dark red wine.

See cinque ports; close port; foreign port; home port; public port.

portable steps. Steps carried by a porter and put in place for use by passengers in boarding or departing a car. 14 Am J2d Car § 1010.

Portal-to-Portal Pay Act. A federal statute covering the matter of compensation of an employee for time spent on the employer's premises in reaching the place where his services are to be rendered in preparing to start actual work, and other nonproductive activities. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 633.

portatica. Port duties.

port authority. A state or local administrative authority vested with powers respecting the establishment and maintenance of a port, sometimes of an airport. Estrada v Parking Associates Corp. 37 Misc 2d 1033, 236 NYS2d 403.

port charges. Charges imposed against a vessel for services received at a port, such as charges for fumigation required under quarantine regulations. Dampskibs Aktieselskabet Jeanette Skinner v Munson S.S. Line (CA2 NY) 20 F2d 345.

See port toll.

port district. The area contiguous to a port. A port authority.

See port authority.

porter. An alcoholic beverage made from browned malt from which it derives color. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 10. One who carries luggage of passengers at an airport, railroad station, etc. One in attendance upon the passengers in a sleeping car on a train. An officer of an English court who carried a white rod before the justices.

portgreve. The chief magistrate of an English seaport town.

portion. A part or share. In a narrow sense, the part of a parent's estate, or of the estate of one standing in the place of a parent, which is given to a child. Dickison v Dickison, 138 Ill 541, 544.

portman. An inhabitant of one of the so-called cinque ports of England.

See cinque ports.

portmote. An ancient court which was held in certain English seaports and in certain towns inland as well.

port of arrival. See port of entry.

port of call. A seaport at which ships usually stop on a given voyage or route.

port of departure. The port from which a vessel clears upon the commencement of a voyage.

The port of departure of a ship sailing from the port of a foreign country to a port of the United States, is the foreign port from which she clears and departs. If the vessel puts in at another foreign port after so clearing and before her departure for the United States, the port at which she thus stops is not her port of departure. United States v The Dago (CA4 Md) 61 F 986, 989.

port of destination. Taking into account, the whole of the outward voyage contemplated at the time a vessel clears, the port at which such voyage is to terminate. Cole v Union Mot. Ins. Co. 78 Mass (12 Gray) 501, 503.

port of deportation. The port from which an alien is deported. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 95.

port of discharge. Any place at which it is usual for ships to discharge cargo and to which a ship is destined for the purpose of discharging cargo. Bramhall v Sun Ins. Co. 104 Mass 510, 513.

See safe port of discharge.

port of entry. A port designated as one of entry for purposes of collecting custom duties. 21 Am J2d Customs § 6. Any place designated by executive order of the President, by order of the Secretary of the Treasury, or by Act of Congress, at which a customs officer is assigned with authority to accept entries of merchandise, to collect duties, and to enforce the various provisions of the customs and navigation laws. 19 CFR § 1.1(d). The port at which immigrants arrive. 8 USC § 1221.

port of unlivery. The port in which a vessel is to discharge its cargo. The Two Catherines (CC RS) F Cas No 14288.

portoria. Plural of portorium.

Porto Rico. See Puerto Rico.

portorium. (Civil law.) Customs duty; a tax levied on exported and imported goods.

portrait painting. The profession or occupation of painting the portraits of persons.

port risk. The risk carried by an insurer upon a vessel while it is in port. Nelson v Sun Mot. Ins. Co. 71 NY 453, 459.

portsale. A public auction.

port toll. A toll charged for landing goods from a ship at a port.

See port charges.

port to port. The status of merchandise arriving at the port of entry for immediate transportation to another port of entry. 21 Am J2d Cust D §§ 72, 76.

See voyage policy.

[964]

port watch. See watch.

position in life. See social position; standard of living.

positive. Absolute; certain. Coleman v Roberts, 1 Mo 97, 100.

positive fraud. Actual, as distinguished from constructive, fraud. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 4.

positive community. The community of interest existing where several persons own a thing, each having a particular and definite portion of the whole. Geer v Connecticut, 161 US 519, 525, 40 L Ed 793, 795, 16 S Ct 600, quoting Pothier.

positive condition. A condition which must happen to bring into existence a right or to bring about a defeasance.

positive evidence. The testimony of an eyewitness. Commonwealth v Webster, 59 Mass (5 Cush) 295. Testimony to the affirmative of a proposition, that is, that a certain event did occur in the sight or hearing of the witness, as distinguished from testimony in the negative, that is, that the witness did not see or hear any such happening. 30 Am J2d Ev § 1092.

positive fraud. Actual, as distinguished from constructive fraud. Intentional deception. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 4.

positive law. The rules of conduct established by tacit acquiescence or by the legislature, and which derive their force and authority from such acquiescence or enactment, and not because they are the dictates of natural justice, and as such, of universal obligation. Commonwealth v Aves, 35 Mass (18 Pick) 193, 212.

positive prescription. (Civil law.) The Roman usucapio, which is the acquisition of property, real or personal, immovable or movable, by the continued possession of the acquirer for such a time as is described by the law to be sufficient. Townsend v Jemison (US) 9 How 407, 417, 13 L Ed 194, 198.

positive representation. A statement made without qualification express or implied. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 203.

positive right. An unqualified right-one which is not dependent upon, and which in fact does not admit of any exercise of, discretion. Chapman v Dorsey, 230 Minn 279, 41 NW2d 438, 16 ALR2d 1015.

positive testimony. See positive evidence.

positivi juris. Of positive law.

Posito uno oppositorum negatur alterum. By the establishment of one of two opposing propositions, the other one is denied.

positus. (Latin.) Placed.

posse. Noun: A body of men, even a single man, summoned by a sheriff or other peace officer to assist him in making an arrest. The power or force of the county. Verb: (Latin.) To be able; to be possible.

posse comitatus. The body of men summoned by a sheriff or other peace officer to assist him in making an arrest. Better known in modern usage as a posse.

See posse.

possess. To have possession.

possessed. Mad; under the control of evil spirits. Having possession. Seized. Flowers v Flowers, 89 Ga 632, 635.

The term is a variable one in the law, and has different meanings as it is used in different circumstances. It sometimes means a temporary interest in lands; as we say a man is possessed, in contradistinction to being seized. It sometimes implies the corporal having; as we say a man is seized and possessed. But it sometimes implies no more than that one has a property in a thing; that he has it as owner; that it is his. In this sense it may be used even though an intruder may have excluded the owner for the time being. And there is never any impropriety in making use of the term when the only possession the intruder has is apparently subordinate to that of the general owner. Mayor of Detroit v Park Com. 44 Mich 602, 603.

possessio. (Civil law.) That condition in which a person exercises his power over a corporal thing at his pleasure, to the exclusion of all others. The physical relation between a person and a thing which forms the basis of every notion of possession. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 238.

possessio bonae fidei. (Civil law.) Possession in good faith,—the possession of one who believes that no other person has a better right to the possession than himself. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 243.

possessio bona fide. Possession in good faith.

possessio bonorum. (Civil law.) The possession of goods. An official installation into the estate of a decedent in consequence of a petition therefor which the praetor granted. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 657.

possessio civilis. (Roman law.) Civil possession,—a possession under a claim of ownership; a possession which anticipated the acquisition of ownership by prescription. See Mackeldey's Roman Law §§ 241, 285.

Possessio est quasi pedis positio. Possession is, as it were, the position or placing of the foot.

possessio fratris. The possession or seisin of the brother.

Possessio fratris de feodo simplici tacit sororem esse haeredem. The possession or seisin of the brother in fee simple, makes the sister the heir. See 2 BI Comm 227.

Possessio fratris facit sororem esse haeredem. The possession of the brother makes the sister the heir. See 2 BI Comm 227.

possessio malae fidei. Possession in bad faith,—the possession of a person who knows that he is not entitled to the possession. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 243.

possession. Occupancy and exercise of dominion over property. 42 Am J2d Prop § 42. The exercise of dominion over land, even without a residence thereon. Morrison v Kelly, 22 Ill 610. A holding of land legally by one's self or through another, such as a lessee, under title, estate, or interest of any kind. Whithed v St. Anthony & Dakota Elevator Co. 9 ND 224, 83 NW 238.

Respecting real property, possession involves exclusive dominion and control such as owners of like property usually exercise over it. The existence of such possession is largely a question of fact dependent on the nature of the property and the surrounding circumstances. 35 Am J2d Forc E & D § 20.

[965]

To constitute possession, within the meaning of a reconveyance act requiring a tax title holder, in order to preserve his interest against redemption, to take possession or institute a proceeding to secure possession within the time provided, the land must be appropriated to the individual use in such a manner as to apprise the community that it is in the exclusive use and enjoyment of the person so appropriating it. Pickens v Adams, 7 Ill 2d 283, 131 NE2d 38, 56 ALR2d 605.

What amounts to possession and what to mere custody in the law of larceny cannot be determined according to any settled formula, but the question in any particular case must depend largely upon the capacity in which the accused was given access to or dominion over the property taken, and upon the powers or duties which the owner gave or imposed upon him with respect thereto. For example, one to whom property is delivered by the owner for some limited, special, or temporary purpose may be regarded as having its custody only, and as capable of committing larceny thereof. Hence, if the owner gives property to another to take to the owner's house, and such other person wrongfully sells it, he is guilty of larceny, although he conceived the intent and purpose so to dispose of it after he had received it. 32 Am J1st Larc § 56.

possessio naturalis. (Roman law.) Natural possession.

Every other kind of possession not qualified for usucapion, whether mere detention or juridical possession, in contradistinction to civilis possessio, was termed naturalis possessio. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 241.

possession by inclosure. An actual adverse possession by inclosing or fencing premises, accompanied by other acts evidencing claim of ownership. Faulks v Schrider, 72 App DC 308, 114 F2d 587.

possession in deed. Same as possession in fact.

possession in fact. Actual possession, sometimes called possession in deed,—an actual and continuous occupancy or exercise of full dominion.

This may be either, first, an occupancy in fact of the whole that is in possession, which is ordinarily called pedis possessio, and may be called substantial possession, or, second, an occupancy of part thereof in the name of the whole, where there is sufficient evidence of the bounds of the whole that is claimed as one entirety, and the circumstances are such that the law extends the possession of the part that is occupied to these bounds. 42 Am J1st Prop § 42.

possession in law. A constructive possession as distinguished from possession in deed, or in fact, by way of actual occupancy; that possession which the law annexes to title. 42 Am J1st Prop § 42.

possession of burglars' tools. A criminal offense, especially where the possession is with intent to use the tools for the purpose of effecting a burglary. 13 Am J2d Burgl § 74.

possession of game. As a criminal offense, the possession of game taken during the closed season. 35 Am J1st Fish § 50.

possession of land. See possession.

possession of liquor. Having personal charge of or exercising the right of ownership, management, or control over liquor. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 59.

possession of liquor-making materials. As a criminal offense, an actual possession with control of the goods and an intent to violate the law. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 59.

possession or enjoyment provision. A statutory provision taxing transfers intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after death. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 159.

possessions. Technically referring to personalty, but subject to construction, where it appears in a will, as including real estate. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1338.

Possessio pacifica pour anns 60 facit jus. Peaceable possession for sixty years establishes a right.

possessio pedis. See pedis possessio.

possessio vaut titre. Possession is as valuable as title.

possessor. One who possesses. The person in possession.

possessor bona fide. See bona fide possessor.

possessor in bad faith. A person who possesses as owner, but who well knows that he has no title to the thing, or that his title is vicious and defective. Gaines v Hennen (US) 24 How 553, 16 L Ed 770, 775.

possessor malae fidei. (Civil law.) A possessor who knows that he is not entitled to the possession.

possessory action. An action brought to recover possession of property. An action to recover possession of real estate, such as ejectment. An action to recover possession of personal property, such as replevin.

In Louisiana, an action to recover the possession of personal property is called a possessory action. Preston v Zabrisky, 2 La 226, 227.

possessory interest. A temporary, qualified property in the things of which the mere possession is delivered to a person. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 71.

possessory judgment. A judgment which establishes the right to possession. In Scottish law, a judgment giving a party the right to possession until the question of possession be decided in due course of law.

possessory lien. A lien which continues only during the possession of the lienor.

possessory proceeding. See possessory action; summary possessory proceeding.

possessory warrant. A process resembling a search warrant used in criminal proceedings, but differing in that it is a civil process under which the property is to be delivered to the person from whom it was violently or fraudulently taken or enticed away or in whose peaceable and lawful possession it last was. Claton v Ganey, 63 Ga 331, 332.

possibilitas. A possibility.

possibility. That which is not contrary to the nature of things and can be accomplished; that which is capable of being conceived or thought of. Topeka City Railway Co. v Higgs, 38 Kan 375, 16 P 667. A mere or bare possibility, such as an expectancy. A real possibility in the sense of a potentiality.

See expectancy.

possibility of death. The possibility of the occurrence of death in an unexpected manner. The possibility of death before termination of the normal span of life. The expectation of death which must come ultimately to all men.

[966]

possibility of issue. See possibility of issue extinct.

possibility of issue extinct. A contingency affecting the character of an estate as vested or contingent, as continuing or as terminated. 28 Am J2d Est § 319. A concept to be denied, both American and English authorities being in accord upon the proposition that, for the purpose of determining whether there is a violation of the rule against perpetuities, the possibility of issue is never considered extinct as long as a person lives. 41 Am J1st Perp § 26.

The courts have declined to fix a period in a woman's life beyond which she cannot have children, or to assert that there is an age limit beyond which they will feel justified in declaring that a woman cannot give birth. United States Fidelity & Guarantee Co. v Douglas, 134 Ky 374, 120 SW 328.

The law does not assume that there is an impossibility of issue at any age, however great, so that a remainder to the children of a woman who has an estate for life is not extinguished until her death, although she may be very old and childless. 28 Am J2d Est § 319.

Although it is a recognized legal presumption that the possibility of issue is never extinct as long as a person lives, the courts nevertheless have on occasion sanctioned distribution of a testamentary gift prior to the death of the woman on whose failure of issue or further issue it was conditioned, upon the theory that, because of her age or physical condition, the improbability of her having children or more children has been established to such a degree that distribution should be permitted. Anno: 67 ALR 542, 543.

As to the doctrine of possibility of issue, see Anno: 98 ALR2d 1285.

possibility of performance. See impossibility of performance.

possibility of reverter. A type of future interest, if it may be properly designated as an interest, which remains in a grantor by deed or his successor in interest or in a testator's heirs or devisees where, by grant or devise, there has been created an estate in fee simple determinable or an estate in fee simple conditional, the fee automatically reverting upon the occurrence of the event by which the estate is limited. Anno: 16 ALR2d 1247; 28 Am J2d Est § 182.

There is a difference between a true possibility of reverter and a power of termination which consists of a right of entry for condition broken retained by the grantor of a fee upon a condition subsequent. Donehue v Nilges (Mo) 266 SW2d 553, 45 ALR2d 1150. Some authorities, however, designate the right of reentry for condition broken or the power of termination which remains in the grantor or his successors in interest or in the heirs or devisees of a testator, where an estate on condition subsequent has been created, as a "possibility of reverter." 28 Am J2d Est § 182.

possibility on possibility. A fatal defect at common law in limitations of future interests. 41 Am J1st Perp § 5. Illustration: a limitation for the life of an unborn person with a limitation after his death to his unborn children. Greenleaf v Greenleaf, 332 Mo 402, 58 SW2d 448.

possible. Liable to happen or come to pass; capable of existing or of being conceived or thought of; capable of being done; not contrary to the nature of things. Topeka City Railway Co. v Higgs, 38 Kan 375, 383, 16 P 667, 674.

See possibility.

post. Noun: A military establishment where a body of troops is permanently on duty. United States v Caldwell (US) 19 Wall 264, 268, 22 L Ed 114, 116. The area assigned to a sentry for the performance of his duty. An upright support, such as in a fence or porch. Verb: To make entries in a ledger from entries previously made in day book or journal. Arnold v Barrier, 100 Kan 36, 163 P 805. To put a letter in the mail. To keep another informed. To keep one's self informed. To attach a written notice or bulletin to a wall, post, or board, so that the contents will be displayed to the public for the information of the public. Iowa-Missouri Grain Co. v Powers, 198 Iowa 208, 196 NW 979, 33 ALR 1268, 1270. Adverb: After; afterward.

See posting.

post act. A subsequent act; an act done afterwards.

postage. The charge imposed by the mail service for carrying matter by mail.

See postage stamp.

postage stamp. An adhesive stamp in various convenient denominations, purchased at a post office or through some other instrumentality of the post office department, and affixed to matter placed in the mail by way of prepayment of the postage upon such matter. United States v One Zurnstein Briefmarken Katalog (DC Pa) 24 F 516.

postal card. A card for mailing, produced by the post office department and sold through its instrumentalities, used for brief messages, and sent as first class mail.

See post card.

postal certificates. Instruments issued to postal savings depositors which could be surrendered in exchange for United States bonds. Pimpel v Pimpel (Ky) 253 SW2d 613, 35 ALR2d 1092.

post card. A card for mailing, privately produced and sold, usually containing a picture or words of greeting or congratulation on one side. Sent as first class mail.

See postal card.

postal clerk. See mail clerk.

postal inspector. A position in the United States postal service involving inspection and investigation in all phases of the postal service. 39 USC § 3523(a).

postal laws. The laws pertaining to the United States mail.

See mail.

postal money order. See post-office money order.

postal note. A post-office money order not exceeding ten dollars in amount. 39 USC § 5105.

See post-office money order.

postal officers. Federal officers whose duties pertain to the mails and post offices.

postal savings. A system once provided by the United States Postal Service whereby persons might open and maintain savings accounts with the Service, discontinued by Act of March 28, 1966; 80 Statutes at Large 92.

postal service. The handling of the mails.

See mail.

[967]

postal zones. See parcel-post zone.

post conquestum. After the Conquest.

See Norman Conquest.

post conspicuously. To post a notice prepared in such a manner and posted in such a place that it is easily observed and easily read. R.S. Oglesby Co. v Lindsey, 112 Va 767, 72 & E 672.

Post-conviction Procedure Act. A uniform law which provides that a person convicted of a crime and incarcerated under sentence of death or imprisonment who claims that his sentence was imposed in violation of the United States Constitution or the Constitution or laws of the state, or that the sentencing court had no jurisdiction, or that the sentence exceeds the authorized maximum, or that the sentence is otherwise subject to collateral attack upon any ground of error previously available under a writ of habeas corpus or of coram nobis or other common-law or statutory remedy, may institute a proceeding under the act to set aside or correct the sentence, which proceeding comprehends and takes the place of all other common-law and statutory remedies previously available and is to be used exclusively in lieu thereof. 18 Am J2d Coram Nobis § 30.

postdate. To place a future date, as the date of its execution, upon an instrument which is presently executed.

postdated check. A check carrying a date later than the date of actual execution, such being held to be payable at sight, or upon presentment thereof at the bank, at any time on or after the day of its date as such appears on the instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 287.

postdated instrument. An instrument for the payment of money dated as of a day after the execution and delivery of the instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 208.

See postdated check.

post diem. After the day.

post disseisin. After the disseisin, a disseisin following a recovery of seisin, committed by the same disseisor.

post disseisinam. Same as post disseisin.

postea. An indorsement on the record, made in the trial court, reciting all the proceedings had in the trial court after the cause was ready for trial. 27 Am J2d Eq. § 243.

posted notice. See post; posting.

post entry. An entry added to an account or list previously completed, such as the manifest of a ship. 19 USC § 1440.

Posteriora derogant prioribus. Later things derogate from earlier ones.

posteriores. (Roman law.) Descendants who follow in a direct line beyond the sixth degree.

posterority. The state or condition of anything which follows in point of time.

posterity. Descendants, inclusive of children, grandchildren, even of the remotest of generations in the descending line. In modern usage, the generations to follow the one which comprises the present social order, God help them. Breckinridge v Denny & Faulkner, 71 Ky (8 Bush) 523, 527.

post exchange. A mercantile establishment conducted on a military reservation or military camp for patronage by members of the armed forces and their families.

post facto. After the fact; after the commission of the crime.

See ex post facto.

post-factum. An after act; an act which is done afterward.

post fine. See king's silver.

postgraduate institution. An educational institution, usually styled a university, having courses of instruction for college graduates leading to doctorate, master-of-arts, or professional degrees. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 1.

post hoc. After this. Indicating in reference to an accident or other distinct event, that which happened after the event. Reynolds v Texas & P. Railroad Co. 37 La Ann 694.

posthumous. Literally, after burial. In common usage, after death, particularly the death of the father.

posthumous child. A child born after the death of the parent. A child in being from the time of conception, for the purpose of the rule of descent, provided he or she is born alive with reasonable assurance of continuing to live. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 88. A child living within the meaning of a bequest to "children living." Hall v Hancock, 32 Mass (15 Pick) 255.

posthumous work. The product of an author whose death occurred before publication. Shapiro, Bernstein & Co. v Bryan (CA2 NY) 123 F2d 697.

Posthumus pro nato habetur. A posthumous child is regarded as born before the death of the father.

Where a gift is to "children born," it is doubtful whether this maxim of the civil law would be followed. Nevertheless, a child en ventre sa mere is to be considered a child living, so as to take under a bequest to "children living." Hall v Hancock, 32 Mass (15 Pick) 255.

posting. A method of publication, for example, the posting of an ordinance in one or more places within the municipality. Simpson v Highwood, 372 Ill 212, 23 NE2d 62, 124 ALR 1459. The giving of notice by posting a written or printed copy in one or more places as the statute may require. 39 Am J1st Notice § 31. A method of service of process. 42 Am J1st Proc § 102. Mailing. Making entries in a ledger from entries previously made in day book or journal.

See post.

post letter. A letter put into the mail.

While there are English cases holding the other way, the general rule of decision in this country is that a letter may be a post letter even though it is directed to a fictitious address, and that whether it can be delivered or not is of no consequence. Goode v United States, 159 US 663, 40 L Ed 297, 16 S Ct 136.

postliminary. The antonym of preliminary. McComb v C. A. Swanson & Sons (DC Neb) 77 F Supp 716.

postliminary activities. An expression of the Portalto-Portal Pay Act, referring to necessary activities of an employee following the work shift. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 637.

[968]

postliminium. Same as postliminy.

Postliminium fingit eum qui captus est in civitate semper fuisse. (Civil law.) Postliminy conceives him who was captured always to have been within the state.

postliminy. The law under which property, if taken by an enemy in time of war, is restored to its former state, upon coming again under the power of the nation to which it formerly belonged. Herbert v Moore (Tex) 1 Dall 592, 593. The resumption by a prisoner of war of his civil rights after his release; the restoration of property captured in war to its owner, after recapture. Leitensdorfer v Webb, 1 NM 34, 44.

post litem motam. After the commencement of the action, suit, or litigation.

postman. A mailman making deliveries on a route, particularly a city route. In the court of exchequer, two of the most experienced barristers, called the postman and the tub-man (from the places in which they sit), have a precedence in motions. See 3 Bl Comm 28, note.

postmaster. One holding a public office established for the benefit of the public in the operation of a post office, the receipt and distribution of the mails from such office, and such other matters as are prescribed by statute for performance by the incumbent. 41 Am J1st P O § 12.

Postmaster General. The head of the Post Office Department of the United States Government and a member of the Cabinet of the President. 41 Am J1st P O § 9.

post meridian. After noon.

post-mortem. After death.

post-mortem examination. See autopsy.

post mortem inquisitio. An inquisition after death,—an inquest, held before a jury of the county, which was instituted to inquire (at the death of any man of fortune) the value of his estate, the tenure by which it was held, and who, and of what age his heir was; thereby to ascertain the relief and value of the primer seisin, or the wardship and livery which should thereupon accrue to the king. See 2 Bl Comm 68.

See inquest.

postnati. Plural of postnatus.

postnatus. A person born in the country subsequently to a great political event occurring in that country. Dawson's Lessee v Godfrey (US) 4 Cranch 321, 2 L Ed 634.

post-note. A note issued by a bank, but distinct from a bank note, which formerly passed as currency, since payable at a future time.

postnuptial. After marriage.

postnuptial agreement. See marriage settlement; property settlement; separation agreement.

postnuptial settlement. See marriage settlement; property settlement.

post obit bond. See bond post obit.

post obit note. A promissory note payable a specified time after the death of the maker. 11 Am J2d B & N § 172.

post office. A particular building or place for the receipt, handling, and delivery of mail matter, or the transaction of other business in connection with the postal service. 41 Am J1st P O § 2.

See branch post office; mail.

post-office clerk. A federal employee in the mail service, his duties, performed in a post office, consisting in handling, distributing, and delivering mail, and in transacting with patrons of his office such business as they may have in reference to the mails and the office.

Post Office Department. A department of the federal government charged with the establishment and maintenance of post offices and post roads, the transmission, distribution, and delivery of the mail. 54 Am J1st US § 53.

post office inspector. See postal inspector.

post-office money order. An order for the payment of money issued by a postmaster in accord with a money order system of the United States Postal Service established for convenience and safety in the remission of funds. 39 USC § 5101. An order for the payment of money to the payee named therein, drawn by one post office upon another under authority of an act of Congress and departmental regulations. 11 Am J2d B & N § 32; 41 Am J1st P O § 44.

postoperative treatment. Treatment of a patient after surgery. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 98.

postpone. To defer. "To delay." Boies v Henney, 130 Ill 130, 146. To delay one creditor by granting a preference to another.

postponement. Deferment. Delay. Often used as synonymous with continuance, but preferably in the sense only of a delay in trial by putting the trial over to another day of the term or to a later hour of the same day. 17 Am J2d Contin § 1.

postponement of enjoyment. See rule against postponement of enjoyment.

postponement of lien. The subordination of alien to another lien on the same property entitled to priority. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 562.

postponement of limitations. The suspension or interruption of the running of a statute of limitations. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac §§ 186 et seq.

postponement of trial. See postponement.

post prolem suscitata. After issue born.

post rem. After the transaction; after the closing of the transaction; after the occurrence of the act.

postremo-geniture. Another name for borough-English, which was a custom attached to burgage tenure whereby the youngest, and not the eldest, son succeeded to the tenement on the death of his father. See 2 Bl Comm 83.

post rem statement. A statement or declaration made after the act or the completion of the transaction. 29 Am J2d Ev § 605.

post road. A road over which the mail is carried.

See post routes.

post routes. All public roads and highways while kept up and maintained. 39 USC § 482. All the waters of the United States during the time the mail is carried thereon, all the railroads or parts of railroads and all air routes which are now, or hereafter may be, in operation; all canals and plank roads during the time the mail is carried thereon; the road on which mail is carried to supply any court house which may be without a mail; the road on which mail is carried under contract made by the Postmaster General for extending the line of post to supply mails to post offices not on any established route, during the time such mail is carried thereon; and all letter-carrier routes established in any city or town for the collection and delivery of mail matter. 39 USC § 481.

[969]

postscript. An addition to a letter appearing after the signature. Something added by the author at the end of a book or article.

post-terminal sittings. Sessions of the court which are held after the expiration of the term.

post terminum. After the term. post-town. Any town containing a post office.

postulatio. (Roman law.) An application or petition which was presented to the praetor for leave to accuse a person of having committed a crime.

postulatio actionis. (Roman law.) An application or petition which was presented to the praetor for leave to institute an action.

post-verdict proceedings. Literally, any proceeding in a case after verdict returned. Specifically, proceedings after verdict rendered in the jury trial of an equity suit. 27 Am J2d Eq § 243.

pot. A cooking vessel of metal, earthenware, or glass. Slang for the abdomen of a person, also for marijuana.

potable. Capable of being used as a drink.

See drinkable.

potability. Capability for use as a beverage. Anno: 91 ALR 518.

potentate. A very powerful ruler or sovereign.

potentia. Power; ability; authority; supremacy; a possibility.

Potentia debet sequi justitiam, non antecedere. Power ought to follow justice, it ought not to precede it.

Potentia est duplex, remota et propinqua; et potentia remotissima et vana est quae nunquam venit in actum.

Possibility is double, remote and near; that which never comes into action is a power the most remote and vain.

Potentia inutilis frustra est. Useless power is vain.

potential. Latent. Endowed with energy. Unrealized. Undeveloped, as in the case of the possibility of disability from a hernia. Ashworth v Calcasieu Paper Co. (La App) 85 So 2d 681, 684.

potential existence. An existence which, while not in actuality, is to come as a natural product of something which is in actual existence. Dickey v Waldo, 97 Mich 255, 56 NW 608. As characterizing the subject matter of a sale:—the natural product or the expected increase of something already belonging to the seller. O'Hare v Peacock Dairies, 26 Cal App 2d 345, 79 P2d 433.

potentially. In possibility not in act, not positively; in efficacy, not in actuality. Long v Hines, 40 Kan 220, 19 P 796.

potential possession. A characterization of the principle whereunder the owner of land is able to sell future crops to be grown thereon, the owner of cows to dispose of their future offspring, and a lessee under an oil and gas lease to transfer effectively a percentage interest in his production. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 94.

Potentia non est nisi ad bonum. Power does not exist, except for good.

potentia propinqua. A near or common possibility, such as death without issue. See 2 Bl Comm 169.

potentia remotissima. A possibility the least likely to come to fruition in occurrence.

potestas. (Civil law.) Power; authority; official authority; magistracy.

Potestas delegata non potest delegari. Delegated power or authority cannot be delegated. Warner v Martin (US) 11 How 209, 223, 13 L Ed 667, 672.

Potestas regis est facere justitiam. The power of the king is to execute justice.

Potestas regis juris sit, non injuriae. The power of the king is of right, not of injury.

Potestas stricte interpretatur. Power is to be strictly interpreted.

Potestas suprema seipsum dissolvere potest, ligare non potest. Supreme power can dissolve itself; it cannot bind itself.

potestate parentis. See in potestate parentis.

Potest quis renunciare pro se, et suis, jus quod pro se introductum est. Anyone can renounce for himself and his (successors) a right which has been created in his behalf.

pot hunting. Killing game indiscriminately. More precisely, hunting for the purpose of marketing game. 35 Am J2d Fish § 34.

Potior conditio defendentis. The position of the defendant is the stronger.

Where there is turpitude, the law will help neither party. The maxim applies in such a case. Burke v Child (US) 21 Wall 441, 22 L Ed 623.

Potior est conditio defendentis. The position of the defendant is the stronger.

Potior est conditio possidentis. The situation of the party in possession is the stronger. Magoun v Lapham, 38 Mass (21 Pick) 135, 140.

pot shot. An easy shot by a hunter; a shot at a sitting bird or reclining game animal without arousing it so as to give it a chance for its life.

Pott's fracture. A fracture consisting of the breaking of one bone of the lower leg between the knee and ankle joints, and a severance of the malleolus process of the other one so as to effect a complete solution of the continuity of both bones. Peterson v Modern Brotherhood, 125 Iowa 562, 101 NW 289.

[970]

potwallopers. The voters of certain English boroughs who were qualified by reason of the fact that they cooked their own food.

Poultry Counter. A name which was given to one of the ancient prisons in London.

pound. A place for confinement of strays and other animals found running at large illegally, maintained by public authority or maintained by a private agency through contract or arrangement with public authority. Massachusetts Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals v Commissioner of Public Health, 339 Mass 216, 158 NE2d 487; Harriman v Fifield, 36 Vt 341, 345. A unit of weight, sixteen ounces avoirdupois, twelve ounces troy. The monetary unit of Great Britain, equalling twenty shillings.

poundage. Fees to which a sheriff is entitled for official services. Commissions or fees to which a trustee or officer of the court is entitled for making a judicial sale. 30A Am J1st Jud S § 46.

poundage fees. See poundage.

pound-breach. The forcible taking of animals from a pound, after they have been actually impounded there. See 3 Bl Comm 146.

poundmaster. A municipal officer in charge of an animal pound. 4 Am J2d Am § 48.

pound net. See Dutch net.

pour autrui stipulation. Same as stipulation pour autrui.

pour compte de qui il appartient. For account of whom it nary concern.

pourparler. (French.) Negotiations leading up to an agreement, contract, or treaty.

pourparty. Same as partition.

pourpresture. Same as purpresture. pourprise. See purpresture.

pour seisir terres. A writ which lay for the seizure by the crown of lands held in dower by the widow of a tenant in capite, if she re-married without the consent of the king.

poursuivant. A messenger of the king.

pourveyor. Same as purveyor.

poustie. Power.

poverty. Absence of assets. Bowersox's Appeal, 100 Pa 434. The condition of being poor, that is, lacking means sufficient for comfortable living.

See poor; poor person.

poverty affidavit. See poor man's oath.

poverty and immorality. By no means synonymous. Edwards v California, 314 US 160, 86 L Ed 119, 62 S Ct 164.

powder mark. A mark on the skin of a person or object hit by a bullet from a gun fired at close range. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v Milward, 1 18 Ky 716, 82 SW 364.

power. The ability to act, regarded as latent or inherent; the faculty- of doing or performing something; capacity for action or performance. Bradley v State ex rel. Hill, 1 1 1 Ga 168, 36 SE 630. Authority in the sense of jurisdiction or the exercise of jurisdiction. Kendall v United States (US) 12 Pct 524, 622, 9 L Ed 1181, 1220. Authority, as the authority of an agent.

Capability of acting to bind one's self or another. In some contexts, a permissive or discretionary term. Wadsworth v Eau Claire County, 102 US 534, 26 L Ed 221. A power of appointment. Physical force. A term exclusive of hand power in workmen's compensation statutes. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 117.

Power Act. A comprehensive federal statute setting forth a complete plan for the development and improvement of navigation and for the development, transmission, and utilization of electric power in any of the streams or other bodies of water over which Congress has jurisdiction under its commerce powers, and upon the public lands and reservations of the United States under its property powers. 16 USC §§ 791(a) et seq.

power appendant. A power of appointment existing under the circumstances that it is given to a person having an estate in the property and the estate to be created by the power is to take or may take effect in possession, during the continuance of the estate to which the power is annexed, as a power to a life tenant in possession to make leases. 41 Am J1st Pow § 5.

power appurtenant. Same as power appendant.

powerboat. A boat which is propelled by power other than man-power. United States v Olson (DC Ky) 41 F Supp 433.
See motorboat; outboard.

power collateral. Same as collateral power.

Power Commission. A commission created by the Federal Power Act, consisting of five members appointed by the President, by and with the consent of the Senate, to carry out the provisions of the act, including the regulation of electric utility companies engaged in interstate commerce. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 236.

power coupled with an interest. A power conferred by a writing which vests in the agent an interest or property in the subject of the agency, not merely an interest in the proceeds or results of the exercise of the agency. Cox v Freeman, 204 Okla 138, 227 P2d 670, 28 ALR2d 430. A power of appointment coupled with an interest in the thing itself, that is to say, a power engrafted on the estate in the thing, not on the product of the exercise of the power. 41 Am J1st Pow § 5.

power district. An improvement district organized to establish and administer a project for the creation and distribution of electric power to consumers, or a district created as a special assessment district to function in the making and collection of special assessments for funds to build a power plant to be administered by a municipality or counts. 48 Am J1st Spec A § 114. Sometimes regarded as a governmental subdivision. Platt Valley P. P. & I. Dist. v Lincoln County, 144 Neb 583, 14 NW2d 202, 155 ALR 412.

power-driven vessel. A vessel propelled by power transmitted through machinery, rather than by sail 12 Am J2d Boats § 1.

powered aircraft. Aircraft having an engine or mechanical means of propulsion of some sort; not a mere glider. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1263. Any airplane other than a glider. Anno: 17 ALR2d 1067; 54 ALR2d 415.

power in gross. A power of appointment given to a person having an estate in the property, where the estate to be created under or by virtue of the power is not to take effect in possession until after the determination of the donee's estate. 41 Am J1st Pow § 5.

[971]

power in trust. See trust power.

power line. An electric line of high voltage, particularly a cross-country line carrying electricity from place of production to cities, towns, and industrial plants. An instrumentality of commerce with the meaning of the commerce clause of the United States Constitution. 26 Am J2d Electr § 14.

power of agent. An ability on the part of an agent to produce a change in a given legal relation by doing or not doing a given task; also a limitation upon the ability of the agent to bind the principal, such ability resting only on his actual or apparent authority. 3 Am J2d Ag § 68.

power of alienation. The right and capacity to convey property.

See rule against suspension of power of alienation. power of appointment. Authority enabling one person to dispose of an interest which is vested in another. Re Zanatta, 99 NJ Eq 339, 131 A 515. A liberty or authority reserved by, or limited to, a person to dispose of real or personal property for his own benefit, or for the benefit of others, and operating on an estate or interest, vested either in himself or in some other person, such liberty or authority, however, not being derived out of such estate or interest, but overreaching or superseding it, either wholly or partially. 41 Am J1st Pow § 2.

See general power of appointment; special power of appointment.

power of attorney. A written instrument, known as a power of attorney, letter of attorney, or warrant of attorney, People v Smith, 112 Mich 192, 70 NW 466, by which one person, as principal, appoints another as his agent and confers upon him the authority to perform certain specified acts or kinds of acts on behalf of the principal. Arcweld Mfg. Co. v Burney, 12 Wash 2d 212, 121 P2d 350. A written instrument authorizing an attorney at law to appear in an action on behalf of the maker or to confess judgment against him. Treat v Tolman (CA2 NY) 113 F 892.

A power of attorney may be general, as where it confers authority to sell property without specification of particular property, or special, as where it authorizes a sale to a particular person. 3 Am J2d Ag § 23.

A power of attorney creates an agency relationship, with the giver of the power remaining the legal owner of any property involved. Smith v United States (DC Hawaii) 113 F Supp 702.

power of attorney to confess judgment. A power or warrant of attorney which confers the authority to confess judgment against the grantor of the power upon an instrument evidencing an obligation. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 170.

power of consumption. The power to use principal, particularly for support maintenance, and comfort. Anno: 36 ALR 1186, 1195.

power of disposal. An expression used in reference to the power of one other than the owner of property to dispose of it by will.

See power of appointment; power of sale. power of eminent domain. See eminent domain. power of sale. A provision in a chattel mortgage for the enforcement of the lien of the mortgage by sale, without the necessity of resort to judicial proceedings. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg §§ 127 et seq. A provision in a real estate mortgage, or in a separate instrument, whereunder a sale may be had by way of enforcement of the mortgage upon default of the mortgagor. 37 Am J1st Mtg § 652. A power given a life tenant to dispose of the estate for the purposes of obtaining means of support, maintenance, education, etc. 28 Am J2d Est § 86. Authority conferred upon an agent for the sale of property of the principal. 3 Am J2d Ag §§ 99 et seq.

See testamentary power of sale. power of termination. The interest which remains in the grantor or his successors, or the successors of a testator, where an estate on condition subsequent has been created, such being a right of re-entry for condition broken. 28 Am J2d Est §§ 188 et seq.

power of the county. A posse comitatus.

See posse.

powers of corporation. See corporate powers.

powers of sale and exchange. Literally, inclusive of any power conferred upon another to effect either a sale or exchange of property.

In the English law, the term has a definite meaning and implies that the proceeds of the sale are to be reinvested in another estate of the same character, and to be settled to the same uses. In practice they are often exercised in aid of, and not to interfere with, the ultimate limitations, and to carry out the intention of the parties. Rail v Dotson, 22 Miss (14 Smedes & M) 176, 184.

powers that be. Same as constituted authorities.

power to modify. See modify.

power to defeat the corpus. See power of consumption.

power to sell. Authority to sell.

Generally speaking, a fiduciary's "power to sell" means the authority given by statute, or by the instrument creating the trust, or the capacity inherent in the functioning of his office, as distinguished from his "right to sell," which is used in the sense of doing that which is proper or correct, in adherence to duty and necessity. Virginia Trust Co. v Evans, 193 Va 425, 69 SE2d 409, 32 ALR2d 769.

See powers of sale and exchange.

poynding. Same as poinding.

Poynings' Laws. A set of statutes enacted in the 10 Henry VII. (1494), so called because Sir Edward Poynings was then lord deputy, restraining the powers of the Irish parliament, and making English statutes then in force effective in Ireland. See 1 Bl Comm 102, 103.

pp. Abbreviation of pages.

p.p. , Abbreviation of per procuration.

Abbreviation of propria persona.

p.p.a. Abbreviation of per power of attorney.

practicable. Feasible; workable; usable.

See if practicable.

practical. That which pertains to actual practice or the doing of things, as distinguished from abstract theory.

practical construction. A construction of an instrument by the parties in interest while in interest. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 171. The construction of a contract, which is ambiguous, in accord with the presumption that the parties contracted with reference to fair, reasonable, and practical results. Ture-man v Altman, 361 Mo 1220, 239 SW2d 304, 26 ALR2d 729. An administrative construction of a statute enacted for the regulation of a department of government. Bloxham v Consumers' Electric Light & Street Railroad Co. 36 Fla 519, 18 So 444.

[972]

practical joke. An act committed against a person with the idea of causing the victim embarrassment, even with the possibility of some real pain and discomfort. 6 Am J2d Asslt & B § 116. The playing of a prank, especially one of a boisterous or rather violent nature, upon a fellow employee. 58 Am J1st Workm, Comp § 268.

practical location. An actual designation by the parties upon the ground of the monuments and bounds called for by the deed. Wells v Jackson Iron Mfg. Co. 47 NH 235.

practice. A custom, usage, or habit. 21 Am J2d Cost & U § 1. Adjective, as distinguished from substantive, law. Those legal rules which direct the course of proceeding to bring parties into court and the course of the court after they are brought in. Kring v Missouri (US) 17 Otto 221, 231, 27 L Ed 506, 510, 2 S Ct 443. The method of procedure whereby a case is started, parties brought in, and the case conducted to judgment or prior termination, even to and through an appeal. Kansas City v O'Connor, 36 Mo App 594, 599. All that relates to the manner in which a case shall be conducted and tried, from its inception to final judgment and execution. Wright v State, 5 Ind 290.

See procedure.

practice act. A statute regulating and prescribing procedure in courts of justice, sometimes in a comprehensive form, at other times supplemented by rules of practice. Helvering v Continental Oil Co. 63 App DC 5, 68 172d 750.

See rules of practice.

practice court. A court which is attached to the king's bench court and which hears ordinary matters and disposes of common motions.

See moot court.

practice of dentistry. The treating of diseases or lesions of the human teeth, or of jaws, or correction of malpositions thereof. State v Brown, 37 Wash 97, 79 P 635. In short the practice of the profession of dentistry.

See dentist; dentistry.

practice of law. Rendering the services peculiar to the profession. The work of an attorney at law in the preparation of pleadings and other papers incident to actions and special proceedings, the management of such actions and proceedings on behalf of clients before judges and courts, the preparation of legal instruments of all kinds, and, in general, advising clients and taking action for them in matters connected with law. 7 Am J2d Attys § 1. Inclusive of counseling as well as trial work. 30A Am J Rev ed Judges § 11. The giving of such advice or the rendition of such service as requires the use of any degree of legal knowledge or skill. Anno: 111 ALR 23. Not a business open to all, since it is limited to qualified individuals. Re Co-operative Law. Co. 198 NY 479, 92 NE 15.

practice of medicine. The practice of the art of healing disease and preserving health. Anno: 86 ALR 623. The treatment of a human being by another person for the purpose of relieving an ailment, with a public profession on the alleged doctor's part of the ability to cure and heal. State v Stoddard, 215 Iowa 435, 245 NW 273, 86 ALR 616. Diagnosing, prescribing, and treating persons who are sick and afflicted. People v T. Wah Hing, 79 Cal App 286, 249 P 229.

See physician; surgery.

practicing dentistry. See practice of dentistry.

practicing law. See practice of law.

practicing lawyer. A person who customarily and habitually holds himself out to the public as a lawyer and who demands compensation for his services rendered as such. State v Bryan, 98 NC 644, 647, 4 SE 522.

A retired lawyer who conducts but one suit in court for a friend or neighbor, without fee or reward, is not a "practicing lawyer." McCargo v State (Miss) 1 So 161.

See practice of law.

practicing medicine. See practice of medicine.

practitioner. A lawyer who is engaged in the practice of his profession; a physician who is similarly engaged. Any person who is practicing a profession. A Christian Science healer.

prados. A term encountered in Spanish-American land grants, signifying fields. See Vernon Irrigation Co. v Los Angeles, 106 Cal 237, 247, 39 P 762.

prae. Before.

praebenda. Same as prebend. praeceptores. Masters in chancery.

praecipe. An order; a command; a writ ordering a person to do some act or to show cause why he should not do it. An application addressed to the clerk of court for the issuance of a summons. McMillon v Harrison, 66 Fla 200, 63 So 427. An order by a judgment creditor to the clerk of court for the issuance of a writ of execution. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v Clarksdale, 257 US 10, 66 L Ed 104, 42 S Ct 27. A demand by an appellant of the clerk of court for the inclusion of designated papers in the transcript. 4 Am J2d A & E § 405.

praecipe in capite. A writ of right which lay when one of the king's immediate tenants in capite was deforced. See 3 Bl Comm 195.

praecipe quia dominos remisit curiam. A writ because the lord has waived his court.

A writ of right thus called was formerly used for the same purpose as the later praecipe in capite to oust the lord of his jurisdiction by suing out this writ in the king's court, instead of by writ of right in the court-baron of the lord. See 3 Bl Comm 195.

praecipe quod reddat. Command him to restore; the name of a writ employed in a common recovery commanding the defendant to restore possession. See 2 Bl Comm 358.

praecipe quod teneat conventionem. The name of the writ which commenced the action of covenant in fines, which were abolished by 3 & 4 William IV, c. 74. See Jones' Blackstone, 1188, note.

praecipitium. An ancient form of punishment wherein the culprit was hurled from some high place head foremost.

praeco. (Roman law.) A court crier; a herald.

praecogitata malicia. See ex praecogitata malitia. praecognita. Matters to be understood beforehand, as a prerequisite to the understanding of other matters.

[973]

praecognitum. Singular of praecognita.

praed. An abbreviation of praedictus.

praedia. Things which partake of the realty; things or rights which pertain to land. See 2 Bl Comm 428.

praedia bella. Same as praedia bellica. praedia bellica. Goods captured in war; booty.

praedial. From the soil; out of the land. Pertaining to land or real estate.

praedial servitude. A servitude or easement in the land of another.

praedial tithes. Tithes which were products of the soil.

praedia rustica. Plural of praedium rusticum.

praedia stipendiaria. (Civil law.) Provincial lands belonging to the Roman people.

praedia tributaria. (Civil law.) Provincial lands of the Roman emperor.

praedia volantia. Volatile estates; that is, movables of a solid character such as beds, tables and heavy furniture which seem fixed to the house and are therefore considered as a part of the building. See 2 Bl Comm 428.

praedicta. Same as praedictus.

praedictum. Same as praedictus.

praedictus. Said; aforesaid; stated before.

praedictus X similiter. See et praedictus X similiter. praedium. Singular of praedia.

praedium dominans. The dominant tenement of an easement. Morgan v Mason, 20 Ohio 401.

Praedium domini regis est directum dominium, cujus nullus est author nisi Deus. The estate of the king is direct ownership of which God alone is the author.

praedium rusticum. (Roman law.) A rural estate.

praedium serviens. The servient tenement of an easement. Morgan v Mason, 20 Ohio 401.

Praedium servit praedio. Land may be subject to an easement in land.

praedium urbanum. (Civil law.) A city estate.

praef. An abbreviation of praefatus.

praefatus. Said; aforesaid; stated before.

praefectus. Same as prefect.

praefectus praetorio. A pretorian prefect,—a high judicial officer in the Roman occupation of England.

praefine. The primer fine, or a noble for every five marks of land sued for, being one-tenth of the annual value, due the king, by ancient prerogative, upon commencing a suit for the alienation of land by fine. See 2 Bl Comm 350.

praejudicialis. (Civil law.) Prejudged; adjudicated beforehand or in advance.

praejudicium. Prejudgment; prejudice.

praejuramentum. A preliminary oath of innocence required of an accused under Saxon law.

praelatus. Same as prelate.

praemissae. The premises. See ex praemissis.

praemissorum fidem. See inpraemissorum fidem.

praemissorum ignarus. Not ignorant of the premises. Gerard v Dickenson (Eng) 2 Coke Rep. Part IV, 18.

praemium. A compensation; a reward; a price.

praemium concubinati. The price of concubinage; the price of the loss of chastity.

praemium pudicitiae. The price or value of chastity.

praemium pudoris. The price of shame.

praemunire. The offense, which was not a capital one, of obeying other authority in preference to that of the crown.

It originated from the exorbitant power claimed and exercised in England by the pope of Rome, and it took its name from the words of the writ which initiated a prosecution for the offense, "praemunire facias," etc., "Cause A to be forewarned that he appear before us to answer the contempt with which he stands charged." See 4 Bl Comm 103.

praenomen. A name preceding the surname or family name; a Christian name. Laflin & Rand Powder Co. v Steytler, 146 Pa 434, 23 A 215. The first of the three names which every Roman had.

praepositus. A presiding officer; a sheriff.

praepositus ecclesiae. A church-warden.

praepositus villae. A town constable.

Praepropera consilia raro sunt prospera. Precipitate or rash counsels are rarely prosperous.

praerogativa regis. The prerogative of the king.

praescriptio. (Civil law.) The mode of acquiring property by uninterrupted possession.

Praescriptio est titulus ex usu et tempore substantiam capiens ab auctoritate legis. Prescription is title taking its essence from use and time by authority of law.

Praescriptio et executio non pertinent ad valorem contractus, sed ad tempos et modum actionis instituendae. Prescription and execution do not affect the validity of a contract, but they go to the time and manner of instituting an action.

[974]

praescriptio fori. An objection to the forum or the jurisdiction.

praesens in curia. Present in court.

Praesentare nihil aliud est quam praesto dare seu offere. To present is nothing other than to give or offer forthwith.

praesentes. See inter praesentes.

praesenti. See in praesenti.

praesentia. See in praesentia.

Praesentia corporis tollit errorem nominis. The presence of the substance cures an error in the name of it. Smoot v United States, 237 US 38, 42, 59 L Ed 829, 830, 35 S Ct 540.

Praesentia corporis tollit errorem nominis; et veritas nominis tollit errorem demonstrationis. The presence of the person cures an error in his name; and the accuracy of the name cures an error of description.

praesentia diversorum. See in auditu; in praesentia diversorum. praesentiam mariti. See extra praesentiam mariti. praeses. A Roman governor.

praestare. (Roman law.) To perform; to fulfil; to execute; to guarantee; to become surety for; to answer for; to be responsible for; to excel.

Praestat cautela quam medela. Caution is better than cure.

praestatio. Same as prestation. praestation. Same as prestation.

Praesumatur pro justitia sententiae. A presumption exists in favor of the justice of a sentence.

Praesumitur pro legitimatione. There is a presumption in favor of legitimacy.

Praesumitur pro negante. There is a presumption in favor of a negation.

Praesumitur pro reo. There is a presumption in favor of a defendant. Culpepper v State, 4 Okla Crim 103, 111 P 679.

praesumptio. (Latin.) Presumption. A bold intrusion.

Praesumptio ex eo quod plerumque fit. A presumption (arises) from that which usually happens.

praesumptio fortior. A stronger presumption.

praesumptio hominis. A human or natural presumption.

praesumptio juris. A presumption of law; a rebuttable presumption; a prima facie presumption.

praesumptio juris et de jure. A presumption of law as to the law; a conclusive or irrebuttable presumption.

Praesumptio juris plena probatio. A presumption of law amounts to full proof.

Praesumptiones sunt conjecturae ex signo verisimili ad probandum assumptae. Presumptions are conjectures from probable indication which are assumed for purposes of proof.

Praesumptio valet in lege. A presumption prevails in law.

Praesumptio violenta, plena probatio. A violent or strong presumption amounts to full proof.

Praesumptio violenta valet in lege. A violent or strong presumption prevails in law.

praeteritorum memoria eventorum. The memory of past events. See 1 Bl Comm 69.

Praetextu liciti non debet admitti illicitum. An unlawful thing ought not to be permitted under a pretext of legality.

praetor. One of the two high Roman officers who performed judicial functions.

praetor fidei commissarius. (Civil law.) A praetor who was specially appointed to decide cases which involved trusts.

praetorian law. The law made by the Roman praetors, as distinguished from the civil law which was made by the people.

praevaricator. (Civil law.) A person who committed a breach of trust.

pragmatic. Practical. Pertaining to the civil or ecclesiastical affairs of a community. In a distinct sense, overly officious.

prairie. Land characteristic of the Mississippi Valley, gently rolling, bearing few trees, except along streams, having a deep fertile soil, and covered with grass until broken for cultivation. A meadow or tract of grass land especially a so-called natural meadow. Interstate Galloway Cattle Co. v Kline, 51 Kans 23, 28, 32 P 628, 629.

prairie fire. A grass fire covering an area often a large area of open or agricultural lands. Rogers v Parker, 159 Mich 278, 123 NW 1109.

Prather speed device. Same as speed watch.

prava consuetudo. A depraved or wicked custom; a perverse custom.

Praxis judicum est interpres legum. The practice of the judges is the interpreter of the laws.

prayer. A supplication addressed to God. That part of a pleading which designates and asks for the relief sought by the party.

The prayer is no part of a plaintiff's cause of action and it cannot aid in curing a defective complaint, but it may serve to show what kind of a case the plaintiff supposes he has made and the kind of relief to which he conceives himself to be entitled, and may indicate the object which he seeks to accomplish. See 41 Am J1st PI §§ 109 et seq.

An appropriate prayer should be incorporated in a bill or petition for equitable relief. 27 Am J2d Eq. § 182.

[975]

prayer for alternative relief. See prayer in the alternative.

prayer for process. A technical requirement of a bill in equity that the plaintiff, as the last formal part of his bill, name the defendant, so that he may be brought into court. 27 Am J2d Eq. § 182.

prayer for relief. See prayer.

prayer healing. A purported healing of disease by prayer alone. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 30.

prayer in aid. In real actions, the tenant may pray in aid; that is, he may call for assistance of another to help him to plead because of the feebleness or imbecility of his own estate.

Thus, a tenant for life may pray in aid of him that hath the inheritance in remainder or reversion, and an incumbent may pray in aid of the patron and ordinary; that is, that they shall be joined in the action and help to defend the title. See 3 Bl Comm 300.

prayer in the alternative. A prayer in a pleading by a plaintiff in doubt as to the specific relief to which he is entitled, being in the alternative, so that if one kind of relief be denied, another may be granted, each kind being consistent with the case made by the complaint or bill. 27 Am J2d Eq. § 182; 41 Am J1st PI § 111.

preacher. See minister; pastor.

preamble. A prefatory statement most aptly illustrated by the fifty-two words at the beginning of the Constitution of the United States. A clause in a statute, following the title and preceding the enacting clause, explanatory of the reasons for the enactment and the objects sought to be accomplished. 50 Am J1st Stat § 152. A statement at the beginning of a municipal ordinance by way of a finding of fact by the council and the reasons, purpose, or occasion of or for the enactment. Continental Oil Co. v Santa Fe, 25 NM 94, 177 P 742, 3 ALR 398.

The preamble to the Constitution of the United States indicates the general purposes for which the people ordained and established the Constitution, but the preamble itself has never been regarded as the source of any substantive power conferred on the Federal Government or on any of its departments. Although one of the declared objects of the Constitution, as stated in the preamble, was to secure the blessings of liberty to all under the jurisdiction and authority of the United States, no power can be exerted to that end by the United States unless, apart from the preamble, it is found in some express delegation of power or in some power to be properly implied therefrom, in the body of the Constitution. Jacobson v Massachusetts, 197 US 11, 49 L Ed 643, 25 S Ct 358.

preamble of constitution. See preamble.

preamble of statute. See preamble.

preappointed evidence. Evidence the form and character of which are prescribed by law.

pre-audience. The right which the crown may grant by letters patent to such barristers as it may think proper to honor as a mark of distinction, by which right those barristers were entitled to be heard before others; sometimes next after the king's attorney general, but usually following his majesty's counsel. See 3 Bl Comm 28.

prebend. The office of a prebendary. See 1 Bl Comm 383.

prebendary. An ecclesiastical officer subordinate to a bishop.

The dean and chapter are the assistants or council of the bishop. The chapter, consisting of canons or prebendaries, are sometimes appointed by the king, sometimes by the bishop, and sometimes elected by the prebendaries themselves. See 1 Bl Comm 383.

precariae. Day-works, which the tenants of certain manors were bound to give their lords in harvest time.

Magna precaria was a great or general reaping day.-Wharton's Law Dictionary.

precarious circumstances. A desperate financial condition. A financial condition approaching insolvency or bankruptcy.

The circumstances of an executor are said to be "precarious" only when his conduct and character present such evidence of improvidence or recklessness in the management of the trust estate, or of his own, as in the opinion of prudent and discreet men, endangers its security. Shields v Shields (NY) 60 Barb 56, 61.

precarious right. A granted right which is revocable at the will of the person who granted it.

precarium. (Civil law.) A convention whereby one person allowed another the use of a thing or the exercise of a right gratuitously till revocation. See Mackeldey's Roman Law § 447.

precatory. Beseeching. Entreating.

precatory trust. A term of dual meaning: (1) a trust which is not enforceable for the reason that the words of entreaty or permission relied upon to create a trust are not to be construed as words of command or direction so as effectively to create a trust; (2) a trust employing precatory words which can be construed as words of command or direction effective to create a valid trust. 54 Am J1st Trusts §§ 54 et seq.

precatory words. Words of request, recommendation, suggestion, or expectation. Re Bernheim, 82 Mont 198, 266 P 378, 57 ALR 1169. Words whose ordinary significance imports entreaty, recommendation, or expectation, rather than mandatory direction, such as, "desire," "request," "beg," "wish," etc., but which, in a proper context, may be construed as words of command. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1180.

precedence. The right or privilege of preceding in time, rank, or order.

precedent. A decision or determination of a point of law made by a court in a case to be followed by a court of the same rank or of a lower rank in a subsequent case presenting the same legal problem, although different parties are involved in the subsequent case. 20 Am J2d Cts § 183. The decision of an administrative agency. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 241.

As to the effect of a decision of a court of one state in a court of a sister state, see 20 Am J2d Cts § 203.

As to the effect of a decision of a court in a foreign country as a precedent, see 20 Am J2d Cts § 200.

See stare decisis.

precedent condition. See condition precedent.

preceding estate. An estate after which a future interest is limited. 28 Am J2d Est § 208.

[976]

prece partium. By the prayer of the parties.

precept. An order or direction. A warrant; an order in writing. A writ or process. Adams v Vose, 67 Mass (1 Gray) 51, 58.

precept of clare constat. The deed of a superior confirming title in the heir of a deceased vassal.

precept of sasine. The order of a superior that his vassal be invested with seisin.

preces. Same as precariae.

precinct. See election district; magisterial precinct; police precinct.

precipe. Same as praecipe.

precipitate. Impetuous. Acting in a hurry.

precipitate. To hurl downward. To form and fall, as rain.

precium. Same as pretium.

precluded. Prevented. Made impossible. Coffin v Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Co. 374 Pa 378, 97 A2d 857, 39 ALR2d 625. Estopped. Baskett v Ohio Valley Banking & Trust Co. 214 Ky 41, 45, 281 SW 1022.

Precludi non debet. He ought not to be barred.

precognition. A preliminary examination of witnesses by the prosecuting attorney before the trial of a criminal case.

precognosce. To pre-examine.

preconceived malice. Same as malice aforethought.

precondition. A condition precedent; a condition which must happen before either party to a contract is bound by it. A redundancy for "condition," to put in shape, as a boxer for a contest.

preconstruction costs. Engineering and superintending expenses; contractors' profits; interest on the cost of plant during construction; insurance and taxes during construction; promotion expenses; and legal expenses connected with the organization of the company. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 117.

precontract. A contract which a person has previously entered into and by which he has incapacitated himself from entering into a second contract of the same kind.

precox paranoia. See dementia precox paranoia.

predated instrument. An antedated instrument, that is, an instrument for the payment of money dated as of a day prior to the execution and delivery of the instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 208.

predating. Dating a contract as of a date earlier than the date of execution. 17 Am J2d Contr § 69.

predatory animal. An animal which preys upon the livestock of farmers.

predecessor. In its common acceptance, the word means a person who goes before or precedes another in a given state, position, or office.

The word does not necessarily express any relation of legal privity. One person may be a predecessor of another without the relation of contractual succession. P. Lorillard Co. v Peper (CC Mo) 65 F 597, 598.

predestination. Destiny. In theology, foreordination of events by God.

See absolute predestination; limited predestination.

predial. Same as praedial.

predial servitude. Same as praedial servitude.

predial tithes. Same as praedial tithes.

predicate. To use as a basis or ground of an action, defense, or argument.

predominant. Greater or superior in power and influence.

Thus, a predominant motive, when several motives may have operated, is one of greater force and effect, in producing the given result, than any other motive. See Matthews v Bliss, 39 Mass (22 Pick) 48, 53.

pre-emption. The act of buying anything before or ahead of others.

An entry made upon unappropriated public lands for homestead purposes. 42 Am J1st Pub L § 19. The right granted by act of Congress to settlers on public lands of the United States to cultivate, improve and acquire title thereto. United States v Fitzgerald (US) 15 Pet 407, 10 L Ed 785; Nix v Allen, 112 US 129, 28 L Ed 675, 5 S Ct 70. The right, otherwise known as a first-refusal option, of a unit owner in a condominium to purchase at a predetermined price or meet any offer of purchase by a matching offer, in the event another unit owner desires to sell. 15 Am J2d Con Apt § 17. The act of a nation in detaining property of foreigners brought within her boundaries, so that her own residents may have opportunity to purchase it.

pre-emption entry. An entry made upon unappropriated public lands for homestead purposes. Hartman v Warren (CA8 Minn) 76 F 157, 161.

pre-emption laws. Federal statutes beginning with the Act of September 4, 1841, under which a settler upon public lands of the United States, surveyed and subject to private entry, might acquire title.

The pre-emption laws differ from the homestead law in that under the former, claims might be initiated prior to record notice, three months being allowed the settler within which to file his declaratory statement with the register of the proper district, while under the homestead law, the rights of the settler only attached to the land from the date of the entry in the proper land office. St. Paul, M. & M. R. Co. v Donohue, 210 US 21, 52 L Ed 941, 28 S Ct 600; Maddox v Burnham, 156 US 544, 39 L Ed 527, 15 S Ct 448.

pre-emption of field. Action taken by Congress in passing legislation in a field theretofore open to state legislation. 16 Am J2d Confi L § 8; 15 Am J2d Com § 23.

pre-emption of land. See pre-emption.

pre-emption of way. The failure of a motorist to give right of way to another vehicle.

pre-emptive rights of stockholders. See rights.

pre-existing debt. See antecedent debt.

pre-existing obligation. See antecedent debt.

prefabricated house. A house constructed of materials cut and fit before they are brought upon the premises. Community Home Builders, Inc. v Town Council of North Kingstown, 83 RI 409, 117 A2d 544.

[977]

prefects. Administrative officers, as known to history and, in some places, even in modern times.

Functionaries well known in the Roman law, and under the empire clothed with extensive powers, both judicial and administrative. With the decline of the empire they seem to have lost their importance and finally to have disappeared; but hundreds of years later, the office was revived in the French Republic in 1800, and was bestowed upon the heads of departments into which the country had been divided by the national assembly in 1790. These prefects were assisted by a council of prefecture. The prefect was charged with the administration of local affairs, and was practically the representative of the central government in public matters. The title was carried into several states of the Union whose legislation was framed upon the Code Napoleon, but until the establishment of the Republic, was apparently unknown in Mexico. It seems to have been recognized there prior to 1836, being mentioned in the constitutional law of that year. Crespin v United States, 168 US 208, 213, 42 L Ed 438, 440, 18 S Ct 53.

preference. The right of one person over other persons, to be appointed administrator, for example, the right of a surviving spouse. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad §§ 50 et seq. A right given to a stockholder of a corporation to subscribe at a stated price for shares of a new issue in proportion to the shares already held by him. Miles v Safe Deposit & Trust Co. 259 US 247, 66 L Ed 923, 42 S Ct 483. A provision in a succession or inheritance tax statute which for the purposes of exemptions and rates divides recipients into classifications based upon relationship to decedent. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 302. A term often confused with "priority," but distinguishable by considering a priority as legal and a preference as something which the law may make voidable. The act of a debtor in preferring one or more of his creditors to others by paying him or them without favoring the others with payment. 37 Am J2d Frd Conv § 89.

See fraudulent preference; preferential transfer; tariff preference; voidable preference.

preference shares. Same as preferred stock.

preference to ports of one state. A restriction upon the power of Congress under the commerce clause of the United States Constitution, but having no effect upon the states in the regulation of their domestic affairs, and restraining Congress in the enactment of legislation only in reference to positive legislation looking to a direct privilege or preference. 15 Am J2d Com § 81.

preferential assignment. An assignment for the benefit of creditors wherein the assignor gives a preference to certain of his creditors. 6 Am J2d Assign for Crs § 69. Broadly, any assignment which prefers one creditor over another.

See voidable preference.

preferential dividend. See preferred dividend.

preferential primary. A form of primary election, such as is now held in New Hampshire, Oregon, and some other states in reference to presidential candidates, which, while not conclusive of nomination, gives the members of a political party, who are qualified to vote at the primary, an opportunity for expressing their choice, and gives a candidate the opportunity of testing his appeal to the voters.

preferential tariff. See tariff preference.

preferential transfer. A transfer of property made by an insolvent debtor to one creditor to the exclusion of others. 29 Am J Rev ed Insolv § 82. An act of bankruptcy; a transfer of any of the property of a creditor for or on account of an antecedent debt, made or suffered by such debtor while insolvent and within four months before the filing by or against him of a petition initiating a proceeding under the Act, the effect of which transfer will be to enable such creditor to obtain a greater percentage of his debt than some other creditor of the same class. Bankruptcy Act § 60(a)(1); 11 USC § 96(a)(1); 9 Am J2d Bankr § 146.

See voidable preference.

preferential voting. A term used to describe various systems under which a voter is permitted or required to express more than one choice for the same office. 26 Am J2d Elect § 275.

preferred. Having a preference. Having an advantage which another person does not have. In the case of a thing, having an advantage attached which another thing of the same character does not have. State ex ref. Thompson v Cheraw & Chester Railroad Co. 16 SC 524, 530.

preferred beneficiaries. Beneficiaries under wrongful death statutes classified according to natural dependency on the deceased. 22 Am J2d Dth § 48.

preferred creditor. See preference.

preferred dividend. A dividend declared and paid on preferred stock. A dividend payable by virtue of contract to one class of stockholders in priority to that to be paid to another class. 19 Am J2d Corp § 809.

preferred legacy. A legacy which, by the terms of the will, is to be paid before other legacies. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1458.

preferred maritime lien. A lien arising prior in time to the recording and indorsement of a preferred ship mortgage; or alien for damages arising out of tort, for wages of a stevedore when employed directly by the owner, operator, master, husband, or agent of the vessel, for wages of the crew of the vessel, for general average, or for salvage, including contract salvage. 46 USC § 953 (a).

preferred share. A share of a business trust carrying a preference in the payment of dividends. 13 Am J2d Bus Tr § 23.

See preferred stock.

preferred ship mortgage. A mortgage of a vessel given a preferred status by the Ship Mortgage Act, subject to conditions respecting the size of the vessel and compliance with registration and other provisions of the Act. 2 Am J2d Adm § 122.

preferred stock. A part of the capital stock of a corporation, the peculiar and distinctive characteristic of which is that it is entitled to a priority over other stock in the distribution of profits. Sometimes called guaranteed stock. Corporate stock given a preference over common stock in the distribution of capital assets upon a dissolution of the corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp § 213. Building and loan association stock to which a preference in payment of dividends or in distribution of assets upon insolvency is attached. 13 Am J2d B & L Assoc § 23.

The holder of preferred stock is a shareholder in the corporation. He is not a corporation creditor, and has no rights as such. His rights are those of the common shareholder, except as those rights are limited by the statute and the contract and the additional right to have his dividends paid out of earnings and his stock redeemed out of assets in preference to the common shareholder. Oklahoma Hotel Bldg. Co. v Houghton, 202 Okla 591, 216 P2d 288, 16 ALR2d 1307.

[978]

prefiled. A legislative bill filed before the opening of the legislative session.

prefix. Something added at the beginning of a word to create a new word, for example, "pre" to "filed" for "prefiled." A title preceding a name, for example, "Mr." or "Mrs." Feldman v Silva, 54 RI 202, 171 A 922.

pregnancy. The physical state of a mother in whose womb gestation has begun. Commonwealth v Parker, 50 Mass (9 Mete) 263, 267.

Pregnancy is neither an ailment, a condition of unsound health, nor a disease. Rasicot v Royal Neighbors of America, 18 Idaho 85, 108 P 1048.

See sickness.

pregnant. With child; bearing a fetus. Anno: 16 ALR2d 951.

See affirmative pregnant; negative pregnant; quick with child.

pre-incorporation services. Services in promoting and organizing a corporation.

prejudge. See prejudice.

prejudgment interest. Interest allowed by way of damages, as for the unlawful detention of money found to be due the plaintiff in action for breach of contract or tort. 22 Am J2d Damg § 179.

prejudice. In one sense, detriment, as where one has changed his position in reliance upon the promise of another. Suffering an invasion of one's legal right. Having one's pecuniary interest affected by a judgment. Gloss v People 259 Ill 332, 102 NE 763. In another sense, partiality; bias. Preconceived opinion. An opinion formed before the facts are known or in disregard of facts. Hudgins v State, 2 Ga 173, 176.

See dismissal without prejudice; dismissal with prejudice; local influence; local prejudice.

prejudice of judge. Pertaining to the mental attitude toward a party to the litigation, not the view entertained regarding the subject matter involved. 30A Am J Rev ed Judges § 170. A hostile feeling or spirit of ill will, or undue friendship or favoritism, directed against or for one of the litigants. Haslam v Morrison, 113 Utah 14, 190 P2d 520.

prejudice of juror. A leaning of the mind, a propensity or prepossession toward a view, so that the mind is not indifferent; a prejudgment of the case, not necessarily a matter of enmity or ill will against either party. 31 Am J Rev ed Jury § 172.

prejudicial. Detrimental or derogatory to a party. Naturally, probably, or actually bringing about a wrong result. State v Farrar, 103 Kan 774, 176 P 987.

prejudicial alteration. Such an alteration of an instrument as materially affects the rights of a party thereto. 4 Am J2d Alt Inst § 8.

prejudicial error. Reversible error. 5 Am J2d A & E § 783. Error of such substance that, upon a review of the record, it appears that the rights of the complaining party have been injuriously affected by the error, or that he has suffered a miscarriage of justice. 5 Am J2d A & E § 783.

prejudicial evidence. In the sense of evidence inadmissible because prejudicial, evidence which has no purpose other than to prejudice the minds of the jury. 29 Am J2d Ev § 260. In another sense, evidence so material to the issues or having such tendency to arouse the sympathy or passions of the jury that its admission, if in error, is ground for reversal on appeal. 5 Am J2d A & E § 801.

prelate. A superior ecclesiastical officer who does not act vicariously; as, a bishop or an archbishop.

preliminary alimony. See temporary alimony.

preliminary arrest. An arrest made before charges preferred against the person taken into custody; an arrest made without a warrant. 5 Am J2d Arr § 22.

preliminary estimate. A statement of value made on filing a declaration of taking under the power of eminent domain. Jacksonville Expressway Authority v Bennett (Fla App) 158 So 2d 821.

preliminary examination. A judicial inquiry to determine whether there is "probable cause" for an accusation of crime, the nature of which offense is thereby made known to the accused, the primary purpose being to ascertain whether there is reasonable ground to believe that a crime has been committed and whether there is just cause to believe that the defendant charged by the accusation committed it. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 443.

See preliminary hearing.

preliminary hearing. The hearing to which an accused is entitled on preliminary examination, leading to his commitment, his release on bail if the offense is bailable, or his discharge from custody for want of evidence to bind him over. 21 Am J2d Crim L §§ 449, 450. Not a "trial" within the meaning of a statute providing grounds for change of venue. State ex rel. Hale v Marion County Municipal Court, 234 Ind 467, 127 NE2d 897. A hearing in an eminent domain proceeding for the determination of questions respecting the right of the petitioner to maintain the proceeding. 27 Am J2d Em D § 401.

preliminary injunction. An injunction granted prior to a hearing on the merits, being in no way dependent upon such hearing, its purpose being merely to preserve the status quo until the final hearing on the merits. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 12.

In some jurisdictions, the term "injunction" means a preliminary, as distinguished from a final, injunction, the latter being considered merely as a decree in equity.

See temporary injunction.

preliminary mandatory injunction. An injunction in a form rarely granted, it being granted only on a clear showing of necessity of preventing irreparable or serious injury, the injunction calling for the performance of some act on the part of the party against whom it is granted. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 22.

preliminary activity. See Portal-to-Portal Pay Act.

preliminary statement. See opening statement.

preliminary term insurance. Term insurance provided during the earlier period of the coverage of a life insurance policy, no net value or reserve being built up during the period of the term, the policy to continue as a regular life insurance policy after the expiration of the preliminary term. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 623.

premarital. A characterization of conduct, particularly sexual relations, prior to marriage.

See antenuptial.

[979]

premature action. An action commenced before the accrual of the cause of action sought to be enforced. Sullivan v Arkansas Valley Bank, 176 Ark 278, 2 SW2d 1096, 57 ALR 296; Broyles v Commonwealth, 309 Ky 837, 219 SW2d 52. An action for divorce commenced before the existence of the ground for divorce. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 184.

premature birth. A birth occurring before the expiration of the natural period of pregnancy. Sullivan v Old Colony Street R. Co. 197 Mass 512, 83 NE 1091.

See miscarriage.

premature delivery. A delivery by the seller of goods in advance of the time of delivery as fixed by the contract of sale. 46 Am J1st Sales § 232.

See premature birth.

premature execution. A writ of execution issued in advance of the time prescribed by law for the issuance of execution. 30 Am J2d Exec. § 49.

premature judgment. A judgment by default entered before return day. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 205.

premature labor. Labor as characteristic in childbirth but occurring before the usual time, unexpectedly early.

See miscarriage.

premature return. The return of an execution at a time prior to that fixed by law. 30 Am J2d Exec § 555.

premature sale. An execution sale made before the day fixed by the notice of sale. King v Cushman, 41 Ill 31. An execution sale at a time in advance of the time prescribed by law. 30 Am J2d Exec § 332.

premature tender. A tender made before maturity of the obligation. 52 Am J1st Ten § 17.

premeditate. To meditate in advance of action; to form a clear intent.

For example, a robber with a dirk or pistol turns a corner and meets a bank messenger with a roll of bills. In a moment he determines to get it. In the next moment he shoots or stabs the messenger dead, takes the package and flees. His malice was deliberately premeditated though it occupied but a few seconds. Commonwealth v Tucker, 189 Mass 457, 76 NE 127.

premeditated. Thought of beforehand for any space of time, however short. State v Landgraf, 95 Mo 97, 8 SW 237.

premeditation. Forethought. Thinking and reflecting, having sufficient volition to make a choice, and by the use of mental powers, to refrain from a homicidal act. People v Barberi, 149 NY 256, 43 NE 635. Thinking beforehand for any time, however short. State v Marsh, 171 Mo 523, 528, 71 SW 1003.

premier serjeant. The first in rank of the king's serjeants, so constituted by letters patent and having the first right to pre-audience. See 3 Bl Comm 28, note.

premises. The grounds of an argument or dissertation. In an instrument, something written before in the same instrument. Alaska Improv. Co. v Hirsch, 119 Cal 249, 255, 47 P 124, 51 P 340. A formal part of a deed, otherwise known as the caption, preceding the habendum clause, containing recitals of the grantor's motive for the conveyance, the names and designations of the parties, the consideration expressed for the deed, words of grant, and the description of the property conveyed. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 33. The part of a bill in equity which embraces the real substance of the suit, setting out all the essential facts on which the plaintiff relies as grounds of relief. 27 Am J2d Eq § 181. Real estate, particularly real estate with buildings. Meador v Blonde, 34 Wyo 397, 244 P 222.

The word "premises," within the meaning of a clause in an insurance policy prohibiting the keeping of certain articles upon the premises, refers to the insured building, and is not inclusive of buildings not connected with the one insured or of the yard of the building insured. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 920.

The word as used in a provision prohibiting the sale of liquor to be drunk on the "premises," is sufficiently broad to include a bench which touches the wall of a house just outside the street door, which is under the control of the house owner, but does not include an independent building not under his control, or the adjoining highway. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 20.

premises liability. The liability of the owner, lessee, occupant, contractor, or other person for a personal injury sustained on the property.

premises liability insurance. Insurance protecting an owner or occupant of real property against liability to a person injured by reason of a defective condition of the premises.

See public liability insurance.

premium. A premium is a reward or recompense for some act done. Alvord v Smith, 63 Ind 58. An amount offered by way of a prize to a successful competitor in a contest. 24 Am J1st Gaming §§ 100 et seq. A purse, prize, stake or sweepstake; some valuable thing offered by a person for the doing of something by others, into the strife for which he does not enter. Harris v White, 81 NY 532. Something given a purchaser of merchandise in addition to the article or commodity purchased. 52 Am J1st Trad St § 11. An amount paid above par value because of quality or of demand. An advance payment of rent in a lump sum, calculated on the basis of present worth of sums to be paid in the future. A sum paid to the master under a contract of apprenticeship, to cover instruction and maintenance. An amount paid by a borrower for the privilege of receiving a loan in preference to other applicants. 13 Am J2d B & L Assoc § 54.

See bond premium; insurance premium.

premium earned. An accounting term in the insurance business, meaning the pro rata portion of a premium, in force during the accounting period, applicable to the expired period of the policy. That part of the premium paid by a borrowing member of a building and loan association which is proportionate to the time which has elapsed upon a premature severance of their relation. 13 Am J2d B & L Assoc § 121.

Since a premium is paid in advance to cover a definite period of time, the company is said to have "earned" the premium in direct proportion to the amount of time that has elapsed since the policy was placed upon the books.

premium loan provision. The provision frequently found in life insurance contracts that upon the failure of the insured to pay a premium within a time stipulated for payment, the insurer, without more, will pay the premium in insured's behalf and charge it as a loan against the policy, provided the reserve value is sufficient. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 551.

[980]

premium note. A note given to an insurance company, particularly a life insurance company, for a premium due upon a policy of insurance. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 542.

premium pudicitiae. Same as praemium pudicitiae.

premium pudoris. Same as praemium pudoris.

premium rate. The premium charged for insurance. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins §§ 503 et seq. The rate at which the premium on an insurance policy is calculated.

premium receipt. The receipt given by an insurance company upon receiving payment of a premium upon a policy.

See interim receipt.

premium reserve. See unearned premium reserve.

premiums written. An accounting term in the insurance business, meaning the amount of premiums for insurance written during the accounting period, subject to deductions for premiums returned to policyholders and risks reinsured.

premunire. Same as praemunire.

prenatal injury. An injury occurring to a child in the womb.

prender. See in prender.

prender de baron. To take a husband; to marry.

prenomen. A first name; a given name.

prenuptial. See antenuptial; premarital.

prenuptial agreement. See antenuptial contract.

prenuptial settlement. See antenuptial settlement.

preoccupation. Engrossed in one's thoughts, a mental condition sometimes so pronounced as to constitute unawareness of surroundings, even danger.

prepaid. Paid in advance.

See prepayment.

prepaid stock. See paid-up stock.

preparation. That which is prepared; something made, equipped, or compounded for a particular purpose. Anno: 77 ALR2d 1246. A drug. A patent medicine. An element considered in determining the offense of an attempt to commit a crime. Devising or arranging the means or measures necessary for the commission of the offense, as distinguished from an attempt which is the direct movement toward commission after the preparations are made. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 111.

No definite line can be drawn between an "attempt" and "preparation" to commit a crime, but the question is one of degree. The accused has frequently been held to have passed beyond "preparation," although interrupted before the last of his intended steps. United States v Coplon (CA2 NY) 185 F2d 629, 28 ALR2d 1041.

prepayment. Payment before the maturity of the obligation.

prepayment meter. An instrumentality containing a slot for money, the placing of which in the slot sets in motion a mechanism whereby a determined amount of gas is released for consumption in house or place of business. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 58.

prepay station. A station at which the carrier delivers freight to the consignee, directly and without the intervention of a local agent, and to which consignments are accepted only upon the condition of charges for transportation being prepaid by the shipper. Bird v Railroads, 99 Tenn 719.

prepense. Planned ahead; premeditated. Sullivan v State, 100 Wis 283, 293.

See premeditated.

preponderance of evidence. The weight, credit, and value of the aggregate evidence on either side; the greater weight of the evidence the greater weight of the credible evidence. In the last analysis, the probability of the truth; evidence more convincing as worthy of belief than that which is offered in opposition thereto. 30 Am J2d Ev § 1164.

The expression does not mean the mere numerical array of witnesses; it means weight, credit, and value. Willcox v Hines, 100 Tenn 524, 45 SW 781.

preprimary convention. The convention of a political party held prior to a primary election for the purpose of nominating candidates, the names of which are to be placed on the primary ballot as convention candidates. State ex rel. Palmer v Miller, 74 NM 129, 391 P2d 416.

prerogativa regis. The prerogative of the king.

prerogative. Precedence. A prior right or privilege. In an older day, that power, pre-eminence, or privilege which the king hath or claimeth over and beyond other persons, and above the ordinary course of the common law, in right of his crown. Atty. Gen. v Eau Claire, 37 Wis 400, 443. In modern times, the inherent and paramount power of the people. Bignell v Cummins, 69 Mont 294, 222 P 797, 36 ALR 634, 637.

prerogative court. A probate court. Robinson v Fair, 128 US 53, 86, 32 L Ed 415, 423.

prerogative cy pres. See cy pres.

prerogative law. The law of royal prerogative.

prerogative of purveyance and pre-emption. A right enjoyed by the crown of buying up provisions and other necessities, by the intervention of the king's purveyors, for the use of his royal household, at an appraised valuation, in preference to all others, and even without the consent of the owner; and also of forcibly impressing the carriages and horses of the subject, to do the king's business on the public roads, in the conveyance of timber, baggage, and the like, however inconvenient to the proprietor, upon paying him a settled price. See 1 Bl Comm 287.

prerogative remedial legislation. A name given by Judge Cooley in his Constitutional Limitations to a species of legislation not obnoxious to the law, based upon the recognized power of the legislature, as parens patriae, to pass proper rules and regulations for superintendence, disposition, and management of the property of infants, lunatics, and others under disability.

Within the legitimate scope of such legislation is the power which may be conferred upon one standing in a fiduciary relation to a minor or incompetent, to change the character of the estate, and even to dispose of its proceeds, when it is to the interest of the minor or incompetent. Rider v Regan, 114 Cal 667, 678, 46 P 820.

prerogative writs. Writs issued in cases of public right and those affecting the sovereignty of the state, its franchises and prerogatives, or the liberties of its people. State ex rel. Goodwin v Nelson County, 1 ND 88, 45 NW 33; Atty. Gen. v Railroad Co. 35 Wis 513. Writs under which extraordinary remedies are made available.

See extraordinary remedies.

[981]

pres. See cy pres.

Pres. Abbreviation of "resident." 1 Am J2d Abbr § 5.

presbyter. An elder in the church; a delegate representing a local church in presbytery. A priest or minister.

Presbyterian Church. A Protestant church. The United Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.

See General Assembly; presbytery; synod.

Presbyterianism. See Calvinism.

presbytery. The governing body of the United Presbyterian Church in the United States of America in a district of the church. The district itself.

prescribable. Capable of, or subject to, being acquired by prescription.

prescribe. To lay down beforehand as a rule of action; to ordain, appoint, define authoritatively. To impose as a peremptory order; to dictate, appoint, direct, ordain. Sevier v Riley, 198 Cal 170, 175, 244 P 323. To give law. State v Seattle Nat. Bank, 130 Wash 69, 226 P 259, 33 ALR 1206, 1209. To give a prescription.

prescribed by law. Made law by actual legislation. Exline v Smith & McFarland, 5 Cal 112. Broadly, made law by any authorized body.

prescribing in a que estate. Prescription in a man and all those persons whose estate he has. 25 Am J2d Ease § 58.

prescription. The acquisition of an easement by adverse user under claim of right for the prescriptive period. The acquisition of incorporeal hereditaments by adverse user. Plaza v Flak, 7 NJ 215, 81 A2d 137, 27 ALR2d 324. A presumption of grant from long possession and exercise of right. 25 Am J2d Ease § 39. In the broad sense of modern times, the gaining of a title by adverse possession. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 4. A direction in writing prepared by a physician, to be presented by the patient to a druggist setting forth the drug or medicine to be furnished the patient by the druggist and the manner in which it shall be prepared, and directions for its use by the patient. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 5. Any direction to a patient for the use or application by him of any drug for the cure of any bodily disease; even an oral direction for the use of a drug. State v Baker, 229 NC 73, 48 SE2d 61.

While it has been contended that the term refers only to medical provision for human beings, there seems to be no reason why a recipe or formula for the treatment of animals may not be called a "prescription," from whatever source it may proceed. Ray v Burbank, 61 Ga 505.

See municipal corporation by prescription; negative prescription; positive prescription; presumed grant.

prescription acts. Statutes establishing the respective periods of time within which various rights or titles may be acquired by prescription. prescriptive easement. An easement arising, created, or acquired by prescription.

See prescription.

prescriptive license. A license in real property acquired by prescription. 33 Am J1st Lic § 97. An anomalous concept, since use under a license, being permissive, cannot ripen into a prescriptive right. Los Angeles Brick & Clay Products Co. v Los Angeles, 60 Cal App 2d 478, 141 P2d 46.

prescriptive period. The period of time necessary to acquire an easement by prescription. 25 Am J2d Ease § 50.

prescriptive title. See title by prescription.

prescriptive way. See way by prescription.

presence. The bearing or personality of a person. The fact of being at a place at a particular time.

The meaning of the word depends upon the circumstances. No one can accurately define it. It implies an area which has no metes and bounds. Anything done within the four walls of a room which is free from outside interference is usually done in the presence of all who are in the room whether it is seen or not. But proximity and consciousness may create presence. Nock v Nock's Exrs. 51 Va (10 Gratt) 106, 117.

See constructive presence.

presence of accused. The fundamental principle of criminal procedure that after indictment found, nothing shall be done in the absence of the prisoner and the correlative right of the accused to be present at his own trial. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 271. The right of the accused to be present at all stages of his trial, applicable in all capital cases, in fact, in all felonies; also applicable in prosecutions for misdemeanors to the extent that the accused undoubtedly has the right to be present, although in some jurisdictions authority to proceed in his absence is recognized where only a misdemeanor is involved. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 272.

presence of officer. When an offense is committed so as to justify an arrest without a warrant:—being in such a position that the commission of the offense is on view or that knowledge of the commission of the offense may be acquired by him through any of his senses including the sense of hearing or smell. 5 Am J2d Arr § 31.

Under the usual statutory provision authorizing a peace officer to arrest without warrant where an offense is committed in his "presence," the words do not necessarily mean within his sight, but it is held sufficient if the officer arrives on the scene immediately after the encounter, attracted by the noise of it. Porter v State, 124 Ga 297, 52 SE 283., presence of the court. A phrase to be given a liberal interpretation as it appears in a statute defining contempt of court.

The court consists not of the judge, the courtroom the jury, or the jury room individually, but all of these combined, so that the court is present wherever any of these constituent parts is engaged in the prosecution of the business of the court according to law. Anno: 42 ALR2d 970; 17 Am J2d Contpt § 7.

A court in session is considered present where its officers jurors, and witnesses are required to be in the performance of their several duties, so that an assault, threat, or act of intimidation against such a person while attendant upon the court is a direct contempt. State v Goff, 28 SC 17, 88 SE2d 788, 52 ALR2d 1292.

Since the grand jury is an arm of the United States District Court, proceedings before the grand jury are to be regarded as being proceedings in the court. Hence, contempts occurring in the presence of the grand jury are to be treated as taking place in the presence of the court and are therefore subject to be punished summarily by the court, without indictment. Camarota v United States (CA3 NJ) 111 F2d 243. -

[982]

presence of the testator. See in the presence of the testator.

present. Noun: A gift; a gratuity; to make a gift or gratuity. Adjective: Being at a place at a particular time.
See presence.

presentation. An offering by one entitled to do so of a qualified person to be installed in a benefice.

presentation of bill. The delivery of a bill passed by the legislature to the executive for his approval or veto. State ex rel. State Pharmaceutical Asso. v Michel, 52 La Ann 936, 27 So 565.

See presentation of claim; presentment for acceptance; presentment for payment.

presentation of claim. A notification by a creditor to the debtor of the existence of the claim, sometimes accompanied with an itemized statement, and usually given for the purpose of inducing payment. The filing of a claim, for example, the filing of a claim for workmen's compensation with the administrative board or commission. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 407. The filing of a claim against a decedent so as to make it a matter of record in court. 21 Am J1st Ex & Ad § 371. The furnishing of a statement or notice of claim against a municipal corporation to the corporation for the purpose of audit and allowance, such being a condition precedent to an action against the municipality upon the obligation comprehended by the claim. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp § 673.

presentation of motion. The making of a motion in court or to a judge at a time when the party making the motion has the right to have it heard by the court.

presentative. See advowson presentative.

present danger doctrine. See clear and present danger.

presented. See presentation and expressions beginning presentation.

presentee. The person to whom a presentation to a benefice was made.
See presentation.

present estate. An estate which is presently vested.

present fact. A fact presently existing. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 47.

present heirs. A man's heirs as determined on the day of his death. In some connections, the heirs apparent. Fountain County Coal & Mining Co. v Beckleheimer, 102 Ind 76, 1 NE 202.

presenting bank. Any bank presenting an item except a payor bank. UCC § 4-105(e).

presenting question in lower court. A fundamental condition of right to review; the raising of objections and the taking of exceptions in the lower court. 5 Am J2d A & E §§ 545 et seq.

present interest. An interest which is presently vested.

As used in the Federal Gift Tax statute, a gift of income beginning at once and lasting for life or for a period of years is a gift of a present interest, and a gift of principal at a future date is a gift of a future interest. These rules are to be followed whether the two sorts of gifts are to different persons or to the same person. Charles v Hassett (DC Mass) 43 F Supp 432.

presently. At once; now; immediately; forthwith.

presentment. An informal accusation, made by the grand jury on its own knowledge, to be used by the prosecutor as the basis for a true bill or indictment. Bennett v Kalamazoo Circuit Judge, 183 Mich 200, 150 NW 141. Precisely, an accusation by the grand jury made on its own motion. Anno: 22 ALR 1367, s. 106 ALR 1388, 120 ALR 437; 27 Am J1st Indict § 4.

The words "presentment" and "indictment" have come to be substantially interchangeable terms. Coons v State, 191 Ind 580, 134 NE 194, 20 ALR 900.

presentment for acceptance. The presenting of a bill of exchange to the drawee therein named for his acceptance and agreement to pay the bill, usually at some time in the future. 11 Am J2d B & N § 730. Any act which amounts to a notification of the holding of a bill of exchange with a request to accept, accompanied by the bill. 11 Am J2d B & N § 734.

Where the acceptance of the bill is in writing, the word "seen," or the word "accepted," or the word "presented," written on the bill itself, or on any other paper relating to the transaction, will amount to an acceptance of the bill. Barnet v Smith, 30 NH 256.

presentment for payment. The method by which it is determined whether a person primarily liable on an instrument will pay or whether it will be necessary to resort for payment to persons secondarily liable. A demand for payment; a personal or face-to-face demand accompanied by a readiness to make actual presentment or exhibition of the instrument and its surrender upon payment. 11 Am J2d B & N § 738.

presentment of bill of exchange. See presentment for acceptance; presentment for payment.

presentment of Englishry. A relic of the Conquest.

In England, under Norman rule, Englishry was said to be presented when it was proved that a murdered man was an Englishman, and thus the county was saved from an amercement which otherwise would have been imposed upon it. See 4 Bl Comm 195.

present prices. As the term is used in a contract to purchase a commodity, the prices prevailing at the time of the making of the contract. Flash v Rossiter, 116 App Div 880, 102 NYS 449.

presents. See these presents.

present use. A new use of an old instrumentality. 40 Am J Pat § 45. A use immediately in existence so as to be operated upon forthwith by the statute of uses. 28 Am J2d Est §§ 340 et seq.

present value. The value under present conditions, as distinguished from the original cost. National Water Works v Kansas City (CA8 Mo) 62 F 853.

present worth. The value, to be ascertained by computation using a stated rate of assumed interest, of a sum to be paid in the future. Commissioner v State St. Trust Co. (CA1) 128 F2d 618, 142 ALR 943.

In reference to the allowance of damages for decreased earning capacity, the jury should be instructed that, in determining the amount of recovery for this item of damage, it should reduce such damages to their present worth. 22 Am J2d Damg § 349.

[983]

preservation of self. See self-preservation.

preservative. A substance placed in foodstuff to enable it to resist decomposition or fermentation. 22 Am J2d Food § 46.

preserve. See game preserve; private preserve.

preserving tender. See keeping tender good.

presidential election. An election at which a President of the United States is elected, albeit indirectly by the election of presidential electors. 25 Am J2d Elect § 9.

presidential electors. Persons chosen at a presidential election, comprising what is known as the electoral college, each state being entitled to as many as the total number of United States Senators and Representatives of such state in the Congress, entitled to elect a President and Vice President of the United States but in actual practice voting in accord with the vote cast in their respective states.

president. A chief officer of many corporations, associations, and societies. The presiding officer at a meeting of a body.

presidential trade agreement. An agreement concluded between the President of the United States and the representatives of a foreign country, intended to promote trade between the two countries and usually containing conditions respecting the granting of tariff preferences. 21 Am J2d Cost D § 11.

president judge. The title in some states of the ranking judge of a court having two or more judges.

president of corporation. A corporate officer, having powers which vary according to statute or the charter and bylaws of the corporation, but who, in the absence of statute, charter, or bylaw to the contrary, is the general manager of corporate affairs with authority to act for the corporation in its business. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1169.

president of the council. A member of the king's council or cabinet having precedence next after the lord chancellor and the lord treasurer. See 1 Bl Comm 230.

President of the United States. The chief executive officer of the federal government, the executive power being vested in him by the Constitution of the United States. Article 2, § 1. That officer of the United States Government upon whom the Constitution has conferred the executive power of the government; whom it has made the commander-in-chief of the army and navy; whom it has authorized, by and with the consent of the senate, to make treaties, and to appoint ambassadors, ministers and consuls; and whose duty it has made to take care that the laws be faithfully executed. See 54 Am J1st US§36.

President's Committee on Equal Employment Opportunity. A federal agency charged with duties intended to prevent discrimination in employment because of race, creed, color, or national origin.

presiding judge. The judge who presides at the trial of a case. Tucker v Yandow, 100 Vt 169, 135 A 600, 601.

press. Verb: To insist; to importune; to force. Noun: A tool or instrument which applies pressure in an industrial operation. A form of punishment by torture. State v Woodward, 68 W Va 66, 69 SE 385. Newspapers and other publications considered collectively.

See freedom of speech and of the press.

press association. An organization engaged in gathering news of events occurring throughout the country and over the world and distributing reports thereof to newspapers. 39 Am J1st Newsp § 26.

press freedom. See freedom of speech and of the press.

pressing of seamen. See impressment.

pressure gauge. A gauge showing the pressure of steam in a boiler or of gas in a chamber.

prest. Ready.

prestation. A feudal rent paid by the tenant to the lord either in services or in the yield of the land.

presume. To assume. To take for granted, on the basis of human experience or of facts in evidence, although the precise thing assumed is not proved. Morford v Peck, 46 Conn 380, 385.

presumed bias. The bias of a juror conclusively presumed on account of his relation to a party or to the cause. United States v Wood, 299 US 123, 81 L Ed 78, 57 S Ct 177, reh den 299 US 624, 81 L Ed 459, 57 S Ct 319.

presumed compulsion. See legal compulsion.

Presumed Decedent's Act. A statute which provides for the disposition of the property of a person presumed dead because of an unexplained absence for a stated number of years. 1 Am J2d Absent § 3.

presumed dereliction. The doctrine that a thing is presumed to have been abandoned when it so appears by acts or circumstances, as when it is thrown away in any public place where it cannot be taken up, or where another is suffered to possess it without contradiction, or where possessory acts have long been abstained from. Rhodes v Whitehead, 27 Tex 304.

presumed grant. A theoretical basis of the acquisition of title by adverse possession or of a prescriptive right by adverse possession or adverse user. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 3; 25 Am J2d Ease § 39.

presumed malice. See malice in law.

presumitur pro reo. It is presumed in favor of the defendant. Culpepper v State, 4 Okla Crim 103, 111 P 679.

See presumption of innocence.

presumptio. Same as presumption.

Presumptio, ex eo quod plerumque fit. A presumption arises from that which occurs many times. Post v Pearsall (NY) 22 Wend 425, 475.

presumptio juris et de jure. Same as presumption de juris et de jure.

presumption. A rule of law that attaches definite probative value to specific facts or draws a particular inference as to the existence of one fact, not actually known, arising from its usual connection with other particular facts which are known or proved. 29 Am J2d Ev § 160. The assumption or taking for granted of the existence of a fact, permitted or required under the law as a self-evident result of human reason and experience. Ward v Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. 66 Conn 227, 238, 33 A 902. An effect of an evidentiary fact from which the trier of fact must find the existence of another fact unless and until evidence is introduced which will support a finding of its nonexistence. UCC § 1-201(31). A rule of law attaching definite probative value to a specific fact, as distinguished from an inference which is a permissive conclusion by a trier of fact, unaided by any rule or theory of law directly applicable. People v Hillebrandt, 308 NY 397, 126 NE2d 377 49 ALR2d 449; Stumpf v Montgomery, 101 Okla 257, 226 P 65, 32 ALR 1490, 1496.

[984]

See conclusive presumption; conflicting presumptions; legal presumption; mixed presumption; presumption; rebuttable presumption; violent presumption.

presumption juris et de jure. A presumption of law and from law; that is, a conclusive presumption.

presumption of access. The presumption of sexual intercourse between husband and wife having opportunity for intercourse. The presumption of access between husband and wife for sexual relations which prevails until the contrary is plainly proved. 10 Am J2d Bast § 12.

presumption of coition. The presumption that married persons have co-habited. Whitney v Whitney, 169 Cal App 2d 209, 337 P2d 313.

presumption of death. The presumption that the death of a certain person has occurred, where his survival to the pertinent date is contrary to the ordinary course of nature, or opposed to the common experience of mankind. Young v Shulenberg, 165 NY 385, 59 NE 135. A presumption arising upon proof that a person disappeared and has not been heard of for a long period of time, usually 7 years, without explanation of the purpose or reason of his absence. 1 Am J2d Absent § 1. The presumption arising from the continued and unexplained absence of a person from his home or place of residence, without intelligence from or concerning him, for a period of seven years. 22 Am J2d Dth § 304.

presumption of fact. A logical and reasonable conclusion of the existence of a fact in a case, not presented by direct evidence as to the existence of the fact itself, but inferred from the establishment of other facts from which by the process of logic and reason, based upon human experience, the existence of the assumed fact may be concluded by the trier of the fact. 29 Am J2d Ev § 161. An inference arising from the commonly accepted experiences of mankind. Meares v Meares, 256 Ala 596, 56 So 2d 661.

presumption of guilt. An anomalous expression except as it be understood to mean something which authorizes but does not require conviction. 13 Am J2d Burgl § 54.

See presumption of innocence.

presumption of innocence. The presumption in a criminal prosecution that the accused is innocent until he is proved guilty, a presumption which places upon the state the burden of proof of guilt and, according to some authority, is of evidentiary value in favor of the accused. 29 Am J2d Ev §§ 225, 226. A presumption which applies, not only in criminal cases, but in civil cases where the commission of a crime is in issue. 29 Am J2d Ev § 224.

presumption of law. An assumption made by the law itself, compelling the court to a resulting conclusion, which may or may not have a logical or reasonable foundation in basic fact. 29 Am J2d Ev § 163. A presumption which derives its force from the law of the jurisdiction, not from logic or probability as such, but is usually founded upon public policy, social convenience and safety. Indianapolis v Keeley, 167 Ind 516, 79 NE 499.

There are two kinds of presumptions of law, irrebuttable or conclusive presumptions and rebuttable or disprovable presumptions. 29 Am J2d Ev § 163.

See conclusive presumption; rebuttable presumption.

presumption of law and fact. See mixed presumption.

presumption of legitimacy. The presumption that a child born in wedlock is legitimate. 10 Am J2d Bast § 11. The presumption that a child was born in lawful wedlock, such prevailing, in the absence of proof to the contrary, upon the broad principles of natural justice and the supposed virtue of the mother. 10 Am J2d Bast § 10.

presumption of marriage. The very strong presumption that a marriage, once shown, is legal and valid. 35 Am J1st Mar § 192. The presumption, where legitimacy is in issue, that the relations between a man and woman who produced offspring were lawful rather than meretricious. 10 Am J2d Bast § 10.

If a former marriage is necessary to sustain the presumption of legitimacy, such marriage will be assumed until proof to the contrary is forthcoming. Re Mathew's Estate, 153 NY 443, 47 NE 901.

presumption of paternity. The presumption that a child born in wedlock is the child of the husband, except as it be proved that the husband did not have access to the wife. 10 Am J2d Bast § 12.

See presumption of access.

presumption of payment. The presumption that a transfer of money or property by a debtor to the creditor is a payment of the debt rather than a gratuity. 40 Am J1st Paym § 238. The presumption that a debt evidenced by a writing has been paid where such written evidence is in the possession of the obligor. 40 Am J1st Paym § 240. The presumption, arising as a matter of convenience and of sound public policy, that after a great lapse of time between the creation of an obligation and an attempt to enforce it, usually twenty years but a lesser period in some jurisdictions, the debt is presumed to have been paid. 40 Am J1st Paym §§ 243 et seq.

presumption of regularity. The presumption, subject to rebuttal, that a public officer has performed his duty, acting in a regular and lawful manner. The rebuttable presumption that regulations, decisions, or orders of an administrative agency acting within the limits of the jurisdiction conferred upon it by law are regular and valid. 2 Am J2d Adm L § 748.

presumption of sanity. The presumption, holding until satisfactory proof to the contrary is presented, that a man is sane, capable of managing his own affairs, competent to enter into contracts, and capable of understanding the nature and effect of his own acts. 29 Am J2d Ev § 203. The presumption that every man is sane and fully competent until satisfactory proof to the contrary is presented; the presumption, in the absence of proof to the contrary, that a man is capable of understanding the nature and effects of his contracts, and that he comprehends the effect and result of legal proceedings. First Christian Church v McReynolds, 194 Or 68, 241 P2d 135.

presumption of survivorship. The presumption that a person shown to be alive at a given time remains alive until the contrary is shown by some sufficient proof, or, in the absence of such proof, until a different presumption arises. 22 Am J2d Dth § 294.

[985]

As to survivorship as between persons who died in a common disaster, see 22 Am J2d Dth §§ 295 et seq.

presumptive. Founded upon or resting upon a presumption.

presumptive damages. Another term for punitive or exemplary damages. 22 Am J2d Damg § 236.

presumptive evidence. A term of variable meaning. Evidence to be considered as proof of a point unless rebutted. Circumstantial evidence; that is, evidence which shows the existence of one fact by proof of the existence of others from which the first may be inferred. State v Kornstett, 62 Kan 221, 61 P 805. Evidence which is not conclusive but subject to rebuttal or explanation.

presumptive heir. See heir presumptive. presumptive title. A title appearing from nothing more than occupancy of the premises. The naked possession of a disseisor. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 236.

presumptive trust. Same as resulting trust.

pretenced. Pretended.

pretended. Sham; fictitious; make-believe.

Pretended Title Statute. The statute 32 Henry VIII., c. 9, providing that no one shall sell or purchase any pretended right or title to land unless the vendor has received the profits thereof for one whole year before such grant, or has been in actual possession of the land, or of the reversion or remainder, on pain that both purchaser and vendor shall each forfeit the value of the land to the king and the prosecutor. See 4 Bl Comm 135.

pretense. See false pretense; pretext.

pretensed. Pretended.

preterition. (Civil law.) The failure of a testator to make some provision in his will for an heir who would be entitled to succeed to his estate or some portion of it in the absence of a will.

pretermission. The act of pretermittting. The condition of being pretermitted.
See pretermit.

pretermit. To fail to take note of a person. To omit a person particularly one's child from one's will. 57 Am J1st Wills § 573.

pretermitted child. See pretermitted heir.

pretermitted heir. One who as a child or descendant of another would have shared in the estate of the latter if the latter had died intestate but who is not named in or provided for by the will left by such ancestor.
As to statutes respecting right of pretermitted children, see 57 Am J1st Wills § 573.

pretext. An ostensible reason or motive assigned or assumed as a color or cover for the real reason or motive false appearance; pretense. State v Ball, 27 Neb 601, 604.

pretium. Price; value; reward; pay.

pretium affectionis. The price or value of affection.

The term is applied to that rule for the estimation of damages for the loss of things having peculiar personal value to the owner, such as a family portrait or a pleasure yacht wherein the measure of damages is the actual value to the owner, taking into account its cost, the practicability and expense of replacing it, and such other considerations as in the particular case affect its value to the owner. The H. F. Dimock (CAI Mass) 77 F 226, 233.

pretium feudi. The price of a fief or fee. See 4 Bl Comm 96.

pretium periculi. The price of peril or risk; the compensation paid or the charge made for assuming a marine insurance hazard.

Pretium succedit in locum rei. The price or value of a thing takes the place of it.

pretor. Same as praetor.

pretorian prefect. See praefectus praetorio.

pretorium. The official residence of a Roman praetor; a court room.

pretrial conference calendar. A court calendar, in addition to the trial calendar, listing the cases wherein a pretrial conference has been called and the time therefor. Union Oil Co. v Hanes, 27 Cal App 2d 106, 80 P2d 516; State ex rel. Kennedy v District Court, 121 Mont 320, 194 P2d 256, 2 ALR2d 1050.

pretrial deposition. See deposition.

pretrial discovery. See discovery.

pretrial procedure. Provision made by statute or rule of court for a conference between court and counsel to consider simplification of the issues, the necessity or desirability of amendment of the pleadings, the possibility of obtaining admissions to avoid unnecessary proof, limitation on the number of expert witnesses, a preliminary reference, and such other matters as may aid in the disposition of the action. 53 Am J1st Trial § 11. An informal proceeding before an administrative agency for the submission and consideration of facts, arguments, offers of settlement, and proposals of adjustment. 5 USC § 1004 (d).

See deposition; discovery.

prevailing party. The party who is successful or partially successful in an action, so as to be entitled to costs. 20 Am J2d Costs §§ 14, 15.

To be a prevailing party does not depend upon the degree of success at different stages of the suit; but upon whether at the end of the suit or other proceeding, the party, who has made a claim against the other, has successfully maintained it. If he has, he is the prevailing party. Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad Co. v Chamberlain, 60 Me 285, 286.

prevailing party on appeal. The party who obtains a reversal or a modification of judgment substantially favorable to him. 5 Am J2d A & E § 1015.

In eminent domain proceedings instituted by the state wherein an appeal is taken to the District Court from an award of the commissioners, the "prevailing party", entitled by statute to an award of costs and disbursements, is the litigant who prevails with respect to the particular issues raised and determined by the appeal, rather than the litigant who ultimately prevails in the condemnation proceeding. State v Miller Home Development, 243 Minn 1, 65 NW2d 900, 50 ALR2d 1377.

prevailing rate of wages. The wages received generally by those who are working at the same trade or occupation. People ex rel. Rolf v Coler, 58 App Div 347 68 NYS 1101. The average, rather than the highest or lowest, wages paid for a legal day's work in the same trade or occupation. Anno: 93 ALR 1255.

prevailing wages. See prevailing rate of wages.

prevarication. A lie. (Civil law.) A breach of trust.

prevent. To hinder; to obstruct; to intercept.

A person who is "induced" by means of representations or promises to delay a suit, is not thereby "prevented" from suing. Burr v Williams, 20 Ark 171, 185.

prevention. The act of preventing. The means of preventing. (Civil law.) The right of a judge to take cognizance of an action over which he has concurrent jurisdiction with another judge.

See writ of prevention.

prevention of cruelty to animals. See society for the prevention of cruelty to animals.

preventive injunction. An injunction in the ordinary form, one directed against an act or acts, rather than one in the affirmative requiring the performance of an act. An injunction which commands the party against whom it is directed to refrain from doing a specified act or acts. Lakesville Woolen Mills v Spray Water Power & Land Co. 183 NC 511, 112 SE 24.

preventive justice. Requiring security to keep the peace. 12 Am J2d Breach P § 41. Any relief, such as an injunction, which prohibits or restrains certain acts.

preventive remedies. Those remedies in equity by which a violation of a primary right is prevented before the threatened injury is done, or by which the further violation is prevented after the injury has been partially effected, so that some other relief for the wrong actually accomplished can be granted.

The injunction is a familiar example. See 1 Pomeroy's Equity Jurisprudence § 112.

previous. Prior; preceding; earlier in point of time; former.

See words and phrases beginning prior.

previous chaste character. A familiar expression characterizing the victim of seduction.

As the expression is used in the ordinary statutory definition of seduction under promise of marriage, as seducing and having illicit connection with an unmarried female of "previous chaste character," it does not mean purity of mind, nor purity of heart, but merely purity of body; that is, that the female has never sustained illicit relations with anyone prior to the alleged offense of the defendant. State v Holler, 32 SD 43, 142 NW 657.

previous experience. See experience.

previous indorsements guaranteed. See prior endorsements guaranteed.

previous insurance. See other insurance; other insurance clause; prior application, rejection, or cancellation.

previously. An adverb of time, used in comparing an act or state named, to another act or state, subsequent in order of time, for the purpose of asserting the priority of the first. Lebrecht v Wilcoxon, 40 Iowa 93, 94.

price. The consideration furnished or to be furnished by a buyer of property. 46 Am J1st Sales § 60; 55 Am J1st V & P § 23.

The consideration for a sale, whether of personally or realty. 46 Am J1st Sales § 60; 55 Am J1st V & P § 334. The consideration for services rendered. The amount charged or asked for property or services.

price book. A book carried by a traveling salesman, showing the current price for the merchandise he sells.

price control. The control and regulation by the government, state, or federal, of the prices at which commodities may be marketed. Charles Uhden, Inc. v Greenough, 181 Wash 412, 43 P2d 983, 98 ALR 1181. Relieving farmers from unfavorable economic conditions by maintaining a price for a farm product or products by government purchases, government loans, or a planned and accomplished reduction of acreage devoted to a particular crop or crops. 3 Am J2d Agri §§ 26, 27. The exercise of the war powers of Congress in providing an effective means for the control of prices of commodities, thus preventing unbridled price inflation. 56 Am J1st War § 39. The exercise of the legislative power in fixing prices of motor vehicles, particularly maximum-price allowances for used cars. 7 Am J2d Auto § 34. Partaking of a judicial nature in some aspects, of a legislative character in others. 1 Am J2d Admin L § 181.

price discrimination. Charging one customer more than another for the same article or service.

Accepting the doctrine that it is unlawful for anyone engaged in interstate commerce to discriminate in price between customers, we would accept the further doctrine that selling to one at a price and refusing to sell to another at any price is a price discrimination, there being no other reason for the refusal to sell. The "one price" policy, although now accepted as sound, wise, and just is of comparatively recent adoption. It has however been written into the amendments to what we know as the Sherman Anti-Trust Act. Shaw's Inc. v Wilson-Jones Co. (DC Penn) 26 F 713.

price fixing. The product of an unlawful combination where perfected by an agreement between manufacturers or dealers to maintain specified prices. 36 Am J1st Monop etc. § 7.

See price control.

price quotations. See market quotations.

Price v Neal. A case known for the doctrine that, as between equally innocent persons, the drawee who pays money on a check or draft the signature to which was forged cannot recover the money from the one who received it; in other words, a drawee who has paid a bill of exchange or check cannot recover the payment from a holder in good faith for value and without fault. 3 Burr 1354, 97 Eng Reprint 871.

pride gavel. A rent or tribute.—Wharton's Law Dictionary.

prier. See age prier.

priest. A clergyman, particularly a clergyman of the Roman Catholic or other Catholic Church.

Priestly v Fowler. An English Case sometimes said to have been the source of the doctrine of assumption of risk by an employee. 3 Mees & W 1, 150 Eng Reprint 1030, 19 ERC 102.

primae impressionis. Of first or novel impression; without a precedent; involving a point not previously decided.

prima facie. At first sight. In reference to evidence, adequate as it appears, without more.

prima facie case. A case supported by sufficient evidence to warrant submission to the jury or trier of the fact and the rendition of a verdict or finding in accord therewith. A cause of action or defense sufficiently established by a party's evidence to justify a verdict in his favor, provided the other party does not rebut such evidence. Atlas Bank v Doyle, 9 RI 78.

prima facie evidence. Evidence which if unexplained or uncontradicted, is sufficient to carry the case to the jury and to sustain a verdict or finding in favor of the side of the issue which it supports, but which may be contradicted by other evidence. McKenzie v Standard Acci. Ins. Co. 198 SC 109, 16 SE2d 529.

That is prima facie just, reasonable, or correct which is presumed to be just, reasonable, or correct until the presumption has been overcome by evidence which clearly rebuts it. Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Co. v State, 23 Okla 210, 100 P 11.

prima facie presumption. A presumption which holds good until overthrown by proof; a rebuttable presumption; a presumption which is not conclusive.

primage. A small compensation paid by a shipper to the master of a ship for his trouble and care bestowed on the shipper's goods and which the master is entitled to retain, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary with the owners of the vessel. Peters v Speights, 4 Md Ch 375, 381.

prima materia. See materia prima.

Prima pars aequitatis aequalitas. The prime or foremost feature of equity is equality.

primaria ecclesia. (Latin.) The main or mother church of the faith.

primariae preces. First prayers or suits,—the imperial prerogative of the emperor of Rome whereby he always exercised the right of naming a person to fill the office of prebendary in the first prebend to become vacant after his accession. See 1 Bl Comm 381.

primaries. See primary election.

primarily engaged. Substantially engaged in an enterprise, even though less than one half of one's time or efforts are expended upon it. Federal Reserve System v Agnew, 329 US 441, 91 L Ed 408, 67 S Ct 411.

primarily for sale to customers. An income-tax law term signifying property held by a dealer for sale to customers in the ordinary course of business. Anno: 46 ALR2d 639.

primarily liable. See primary liability.

primary. Adjective: First in order of time or development; original; preparatory to something higher. State of Indiana v Hirsch, 125 Ind 207, 24 NE 1062. Noun: Any convention, caucus, or meeting of voters, or a primary election, for choosing candidates for public office or selecting delegates to a convention.

See primary election, also words and phrases beginning "principal."

primary administrative jurisdiction. See primary jurisdiction doctrine.

primary boycott. A boycott applied directly and alone to the offending person by withdrawing from him all business relations on the part of the organization that initiated the boycott. Booker & Kinnaird v Louisville Board of Fire Underwriters, 188 Ky 771, 224 SW 451, 21 ALR 531. A combination to refrain from dealing with an employer, or to advise, or by peaceful means persuade, his regular customers to refrain. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 462.

primary cause. An efficient cause; a proximate cause. 38 Am J1st Negl § 50.

See proximate cause.

primary contract. A contract which has been superseded or modified by a later contract called the secondary contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 459. A building or construction contract between the owner of the premises and a building contractor, as distinguished from a contract made by the latter in subletting a part of the work.

primary conveyance. See original conveyance.

primary easement. An easement to which a secondary easement is appendant, as an easement in a ditch attached to which there is a secondary easement of access over the servient premises for the purpose of cleaning out and repairing the ditch. Carson v Gentner, 33 Or 512, 52 P 506.

primary election. A nominating device of a political party; the selective mechanism by which the members of a political party express their preference in the selection of the party's candidates for public office. 25 Am J2d Elect § 148. An election conducted as a party affair for the selection of candidates to be placed on the official ballot at an election. Wagner v Gray (Fla) 74 So 2d 89.

primary evidence. The best evidence of which the case in its nature is susceptible. 29 Am J2d Ev § 448. That evidence which suffices for the proof of a particular fact until contradicted or overcome by other evidence. Cross v Baskett, 17 Or 84, 21 P 47.

primary franchise. The franchise of corporate existence; the result of a grant of special privileges to the incorporators which enables them to act for certain designated purposes as a single individual and exempts them unless otherwise specially provided, from individual liability. 18 Am J2d Corp § 66.

primary jurisdiction. The power of a court to hear and adjudicate a case brought before it. State ex ref. Barker v Assurance Co. of America, 251 Mo 278, 158 SW 640.

primary jurisdiction doctrine. The principle that the courts can not or will not determine a controversy involving a question which is within the jurisdiction of an administrative tribunal, prior to the decision of that question by the administrative tribunal, (1) where the case demands the exercise of administrative discretion, requiring the special knowledge, experience, and services of the administrative tribunal, to determine technical and intricate matters of fact; and (2) where uniformity of ruling is essential to comply with the purposes of the regulatory statute administered. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 788.

primary legal right. A right with which the law invests a person and for the infringement of which he is entitled to a remedy. Granahan v Celanese Corp. of America, Plastics Div. 3 NJ 187, 69 A2d 572; Norwood v McDonald, 142 Ohio St 299, 27 Ohio Ops 240, 52 NE2d 67.

primary liability. The liability of the person who, by the terms of the instrument of obligation, is absolutely required to pay the same. 11 Am J2d B &

[988]

N § 525. The liability of a maker or principal, as distinguished from that of a guarantor, indorser, or other person under secondary liability. Winkle v Scott (CA8 Mo) 99 F2d 299. The liability of personal property, left by a decedent, for his debts before resorting to real estate, left by him, for the satisfaction of such obligations. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 137. The liability of a person causing an injury to another who because of his relation to the injured person and the legal obligation to such person should bear the responsibility in damages rather than another person also liable to the injured person but under a different relationship and different character of legal obligation. Builders Supply Co. v McCabe, 366 Pa 322, 77 A2d 368, 24 ALR2d 319; Schaefer v Fond du Lac, 99 Wis 333, 341.

primary material. Raw material.

primary meeting. A political convention; an organized assemblage of electors or delegates representing a political party or principle.

The usual purpose of such a meeting is the nomination of candidates to be voted for at a general election. Price v Lush, 10 Mont 61, 24 P 749.

primary negligence. The original, as distinguished from the subsequent, negligence of the defendant. 7 Am J2d Auto § 379.

primary obligation. An obligation imposed by law in consequence of a person's voluntary undertaking, or by the law on the ground of public policy or utility; as, for example to perform one's contract or to refrain from committing a trespass. See 8 Harvard L Rev 200.

See primary liability.

primary patent. Same as basic patent.

primary powers. Main or principal powers as distinguished from incidental, implied, or mediate powers.

primary purpose. The principal motivation for a course of conduct. State v Erickson, 44 SD 63, 182 NW 315, 13 ALR 1189.

primary receivership. A receivership to which another receivership, usually in another jurisdiction, is ancillary. 45 Am J1st Rec § 420.

prima seisina. Same as primer seisin.

primate. One of the most highly developed animals ape or man. (Ecclesiastical.) A presiding archbishop in the Church of England.

prima tonsura. The first cutting, the right to the first crop.

prime. First class. First in quality.

prime. (French.) Premium. Bonus.

prime minister. In a parliamentary system, such as that in Great Britain, the head of the government, subject to the will of parliament.

primer. (French.) To lead. To surpass.

primer election. The first choice; the first selection.

primer fine. A sum which by ancient prerogative was due the king upon the suing out of the writ or praecipe at the commencement of a suit to levy a fine.

This sum was a noble for every five marks of land sued for; that is, one tenth of the annual value. See 2 Bl Comm 350.

primer seisin. A feudal burden, only incident to the king's tenants in capite and not to those who held of inferior or mesne lords.

It was a right which the king had, when any of his tenants in capite died seised of a knight's fee, to receive of the heir, provided he was of age, one whole year's profits of the lands, if they were in immediate possession; and half a year's profits, if the lands were in reversion expectant on an estate for life. See 2 Bl Comm 66.

primes. See en primes.

prime serjeant. Same as premier serjeant.

primis. See in primis.

primitiae. First fruits; the first year's profits of a clergyman's benefice, which were claimed by and went to the pope. See 2 Bl Comm 67.

Primo excutienda est verbi vis, ne sermonis vitio obstruatur oratio, sive lex sine argumentis. The force of a word should be weighed in the beginning, lest the sentence be stifled by the fault of expression or the law be without reason.

primogeniture. The condition or state of the child who is the first born. The principle of descent of real estate to the eldest son of the decedent. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 6.

primogenitus. The child first born.

primo venienti. To the first person who comes.

Primum coram comitibus et viatoribus obviis, deinde in proxima villa vel pago, postremo coram ecclesia vel iudicio. First before the inhabitants and the casual travelers, then in the nearest town or village, lastly before the church or court house. See 1 Bl Comm 297.

primum decretum. A preliminary or provisional decree which was granted in ecclesiastical and admiralty suits.

primus inter pares. First among one's peers or equals.

prince. A ruler; a sovereign. As in Great Britain, the son of a king or queen. In a democracy, a person of eminence, a person of quality, an engaging personality.

prince consort. The husband of a reigning queen, as Prince George of Denmark was to Queen Anne. See 1 Bl Comm 222.

Prince of Wales. The oldest son of a British sovereign and, as such, first in line of succession.

princeps. (Civil law.) A chief; a leader; a prince; a ruler; the Roman emperor.

Princeps et respublica ex justa causa possunt rem meam auferre. The sovereign and the state can take away my property for a justifiable cause.

Princeps legibus solutus est. The ruler or sovereign is exempt from the law.

principal. Adjective: Of first importance. In the first rank. Noun: The head of a high school or grade school. The amount of an original indebtedness as distinguished from interest accruing. The corpus of an estate in property. In an agency relationship, the person for whom another acts and from whom he derives authority to act. 3 Am J2d Agency § 1. In bail and recognizance:—the person released on bail. 8 Am J2d Bail § 1. The party to a suretyship who enters into the main contract with the obligee, the one who is directly interested in and benefited by the main contract, and the one to whom or from whom the consideration for the main obligation flows. 50 Am J1st Suret § 3. In guaranty, the person whose obligation is covered by the undertaking of the guarantor. 24 Am J1st Guar § 29. In crime:—one actually or constructively present, and abetting the commission of the offense, that is, doing some act at the time of the commission of the crime that is in furtherance of the offense. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 120.

[989]

Under Federal statutes, he who, in the commission of an illegal act with others, such as maintaining an illicit still, conducting a burglary or a holdup, arms and instructs his confederates to kill if obstructed in the attempt, with the purpose and intent that they do so, is in law a principal in any wilful killing which results from carrying out those instructions. Young v United States (CA5 Tex) 97 F2d 200. See, also principal D, 1010.

principal action. An action in which or from which an auxiliary, ancillary, or provisional remedy develops or arises.

principal administration. The administration of the estate of a decedent in the jurisdiction of his domicil, as distinguished from ancillary administration in another jurisdiction where there are assets left by the decedent which require administration. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 681.

principal cause. See challenge for principal cause.

principal challenge. See challenge for principal cause.

principal contract. A contract entered into by the principals themselves, as distinguished from a contract in which one or both or all the principals are represented by an agent, or by agents.

principal contractor. The contractor standing in direct relation to the owner and responsible to him, but ordinarily permitted by the nature of his contract to perform the contract by subletting to others, if he sees fit. 36 Am J1st Mech L § 51.

principal debt. The original debt, as distinguished from liability enhanced by accruing interest. The primary liability. The obligation of a principal in a transaction. The obligation of a principal debtor, as distinguished from the obligation of his surety, guarantor, or indemnitor. An indebtedness or liability, as distinguished from a promise to pay such indebtedness or liability. London & San Francisco Bank v Bandmann, 120 Cal 220, 52 P 583.

See primary liability; principal.

principal debtor. A debtor whose obligation is covered by a guaranty or contract of suretyship.

principal defendant. The defendant in an action as distinguished from a debtor served with a notice of garnishment in the action.

principal employment or business. The occupation or business on which the debtor chiefly relies for a livelihood, and which engrosses most of his time and attention, not for a day, a week, or a month, but throughout the year. Smalley v Masten, 8 Mich 529.

principal fact. The main or chief fact at issue in a cause.

principal in first degree. One who commits a criminal act either in person or through an innocent agent. State v Wilson, 235 Iowa 538, 17 NW2d 138; State v Minton, 234 NC 716, 68 SE2d 844, 31 ALR2d 682; Red v State, 39 Tex Crim 667, 47 SW 1003.

principal in second degree. One present at the commission of a criminal act, lending countenance, aid, encouragement, or other mental assistance, while another commits the act. Red v State, 39 Tex Crim 667, 47 SW 1003. One present at the time a crime is committed, lending countenance, aid, or encouragement, or one keeping watch at some convenient distance while another person performs the actual criminal act. Brown v Commonwealth, 130 Va 733, 107 SE 809.

principalis. A principal.

Principalis debet semper excuti antequam perveniatur ad fideijussores. The principal debtor should always be exhausted before resort is had against the sureties.

principally engaged. See principal employment or business.

principal meridian. A north and south line, running as any meridian of longitude, established and numbered in connection with the government survey of public lands for the purpose of numbering townships laid out by the survey, a township being given a range number according to the tier of townships in which it appears east or west of such meridian, which number, taken in connection with a number similarly recognized in reference to an east and west or base line, serves to locate the township in the vast area surveyed. Meas v Whitener-London Realty Co. 119 Ark 301, 178 SW 390.

See base line; range.

principal obligation. See principal debt.

principal office. The principal place of business of a corporation, the activities of which extend over a wide area, sometimes over state lines, even into foreign countries. 18 Am J2d Corp § 160.

principal officer or agent. An agent of a foreign corporation upon whom service of process may be made in an action against the corporation; a chief officer or agent. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 556.

principal place of business. The criterion of the residence or nonresidence of a corporation. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 38. As a venue for the adjudication of a debtor in bankruptcy, the place where the debtor's personal business affairs are conducted, notwithstanding his principal income is from a business conducted elsewhere. Re Knox (CA6 Tenn) 11 F2d 743.

The principal place of business of a corporation is that place which has been designated by the corporation in compliance with, and in the manner prescribed by statute. That place is often the principal or main office of the company in the case of a domestic corporation, but obviously the principal place of business as here defined is not necessarily the office of the corporation. State v Vincent, 144 Wash 246, 257 P 849.

Principia data sequuntur concomitantia. The principles given, the concomitants follow.

Principia probant, non probantur. Principles prove; they are not proved.

Principiis obsta. Oppose or withstand beginnings; nip trouble in the bud.

principio. See in principio.

Principiorum non est ratio. A reason for principles does not exist; there is no reason for principles.

principium. The beginning; the outset.

Principium est potissima pars cujusque rei. The beginning is the strongest part of anything.

principium et fons. The origin and source.

principle. The cause, source, or origin of anything; that from which a thing proceeds, as the principle of motion, the principles of action; ground, foundation, that which supports an assertion, an action or a series of actions, or of reasoning; a general truth; a law comprehending many subordinate truths; as the principles of morality, of law, of government. People v Stewart, 7 Cal 140, 143.

print. See printing.

printed form. See form.

printed matter. See printing.

printed scroll. The common modern and valid form of a seal. 47 Am J1st Seals § 4.

printing. Putting words, figures, or characters on paper by the use of type and ink. Arthur v Moller, 97 (US) 7 Otto 365, 24 L Ed 1046, 1047; Forbes Lithograph Mfg. Co. v Worthington, 132 US 655, 660, 33 L Ed 453, 454, 10 S Ct 180. Writing in letters used in printing rather than in the script of ordinary handwriting.

prior. Preceding. Having precedence.

See expressions which follow, beginning "prior;" also expressions beginning "former" or "previous."

prior acquittal. See prior jeopardy.

prior action pending. See pendency of action; pending action; plea of another action pending.

prior adjudication. A previous judgment in which the same matter in a dispute between the same parties was, or might have been put in issue and tried. Cromwell v Sac County (US) 4 Otto 351, 24 L Ed 195.

See res judicata.

prior application, rejection, or cancellation. A matter of information sought by an insurance company of an applicant for insurance respecting prior history of his experience in obtaining or being rejected for insurance.

prior appropriation. The doctrine which prevails in some American jurisdictions that the person who first diverts and applies to a beneficial use the waters of a stream of public right has a prior right of continued use to the extent of his appropriation.

Wyoming v Colorado, 259 US 419, 66 L Ed 999, 42 S Ct 552. The doctrine of the western states concerning the use of water for irrigation. 30 Am J Rev ed Irrig § 18.

prior conviction. As a prerequisite to punishment as a subsequent offender, a conviction which denotes the establishment of guilt according to some legal mode, whether it be by judgment on plea or verdict. 25 Am J1st Habit Cr § 10.

See prior jeopardy.

prior decision. See precedent.

prior equity. A superior equity required as a condition of equitable relief. Jefferson County v McGrath, 205 Ky 484, 266 SW 29, 41 ALR 586.

prior estate. See preceding estate.

priori. See a priori.

prior indorsements guaranteed. A guaranty of the genuineness of the indorsements and no more. Johnston v Schnabaum, 86 Ark 82, 109 SW 1163.

Prior in tempore, potior in jure. First in time, superior in right. He has the better title who was first in point of time. See Broom's Legal Maxims 353.

priority. The attribute or quality of that which is earlier or previous in point of time. Precedence. Of lien:—a superiority of security over other liens either in point of time or as declared by law from considerations of public policy. Of claim:—the right to have one's claim against a decedent's estate satisfied out of estate assets before other claimants are permitted to resort to such assets, 21 Am J1st Ex & Ad §§ 393 et seq; the status of a claim in insolvency proceedings which calls for payment of it before any payment is made on other claims, 29 Am J Rev ed Insolv §§ 46 et seq; in bankruptcy, distribution in order determined by classes of debts of funds not subject to lien in the hands of the trustee in bankruptcy as assets of the estate in bankruptcy. 9 Am 12d Bankr § 528.

See preference.

priority of attachment. Priority of an attachment in reference to another attachment of the same property, as determined by order of levy or by order of issuance of the writs. 6 Am J2d Attach § 468. The priority of an attachment in reference to other liens. 6 Am J2d Attach §§ 464 et seq.

priority of exercise. The principle that in a case of concurrent jurisdiction, the court which first exercises jurisdiction acquires exclusive jurisdiction to proceed further in the case. Scott v Industrial Acci. Coin. 46 Cal 2d 76, 293 P2d 18.

prior jeopardy. A defense, otherwise known as double jeopardy or former jeopardy, based upon a provision of the United States Constitution found in the Fifth Amendment or a similar provision of a state constitution, deriving from a principle of the common law that a man shall not be brought into danger of his life or limb more than once for one and the same offense; a rule prohibiting a second punishment for the same offense and, as well, a second trial for the same offense. 21 Am J2d, Crim L § 165.

The test is not whether the defendant has already been tried for the same act, but whether he has been put in jeopardy for the same offense. See Gavieres v United States, 220 US 338, 55 L Ed 489, 31 S Ct 421.

See identity of offenses.

prior lien. See priority.

prior losses. A matter of information sought by an insurance company of an applicant for insurance respecting the experience of the applicant in reference to losses of his property covered by insurance.

prior mortgage. A mortgage entitled to satisfaction out of the mortgaged property before other liens or mortgages on such property are to be satisfied.

See priority.

[991]

prior negligence. Negligence so remote from the time of the injury as not to constitute a proximate cause. Holwerson v St. Louis & Suburban Railway Co. 157 Mo 216, 57 SW 770.

prior petens. The first applicant; the earlier claimant. A plaintiff who sues first, that is, before the defendant sues him. Conant v Conant, 10 Cal 239, 245.

Prior possessio cum titulo posteriore melior est priore titulo sine possessione. Prior possession with subsequent title is better than prior title without possession.

prior recovery. See prior adjudication.

Prior tempore, potior jure. First in time, superior in right.

prior tenant. Same as casual ejector.

prior testimony. Testimony given at a former trial, admitted under an exception to the hearsay rule upon a showing of necessity arising from the death or incompetency of the witness or his unavailability for the instant case, provided certain conditions such as identity of parties and issues, opportunity for cross examination in the former case, an authenticity of reproduction are met. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 343; 29 Am J2d Ev §§ 738 et seq.

prior title. A title which will prevail in law or equity as against another asserted title, lien, or interest.

prior use principle. The rule that property devoted to a public use is not subject to condemnation under the power of eminent domain for the same use, since no public use or public necessity can be served by such a taking. 26 Am J2d Em D § 93.

priory. A religious house presided over by a prior and next in dignity after an abbey.

prisage. The king's right to share in a prize; his right of taking two tons of wine from every ship importing into England 20 tons or more.

Under Edward 1, this was changed into a duty of 2s. for every ton imported by merchant strangers and called butlerage, because paid to the king's butler. See 1 Bl Comm 315.

prise. A capture, but not necessarily a lawful taking by a belligerent in a lawful war. Dole v New England Mut. Marine Ins. Co. 88 Mass (6 Allen) 373, 388.

See prize.

prisel en outer lieu. A taking in another place.

priso. A prison; a prisoner; a prisoner of war.

prison. A generic term comprising places maintained by public authority for the detention of persons confined under legal process, whether criminal or civil, and whether the imprisonment is for the purpose of insuring the production of the prisoner to answer in future legal proceedings, or whether it is for the purpose of punishment for an offense of which the prisoner has been duly convicted and sentenced. 41 Am J1st Pris & P § 2.

prison bounds. See liberties of the jail.

prison breach. A criminal offense, at common law and by statute in some jurisdictions, in breaking from prison with or by the exertion of force, in contrast to an escape by stratagem. Anno: 96 ALR2d 525-527, §§ 6-8.

prison breaking. Same as prison breach. 27 Am J2d Escape § 2.

prisoner. A person deprived of his liberty by virtue of a judicial or other lawful process. 41 Am J1st Pris & P § 2.

prisoner of war. A person who has been captured by hostile troops while engaged in warfare and who is held by them as a prisoner.

prison rule. A rule whereunder the conduct of a prisoner is regulated and controlled.

See liberty of the rules.

prisoner's domicil. See domicil of a prisoner, supra.

prison warden. See warden.

prist. Ready.

Prius vitiis laboravimus, nunc legibus. First we labored with the vices, now with the laws.

privacy. The right to be left alone, that is, to be free from unwarranted publicity and to live without unwarranted interference by the public in matters with which the public is not necessarily concerned. Prentiss v Morgan, 221 Ky 765, 299 SW 967, 55 ALR 964. The so-called right, founded upon the claim that a man has the right to pass through this world, if he wills, without having his picture published, his business enterprises discussed, his successful experiments written up for the benefit of others, or his eccentricities commented upon either in handbills, circulars, catalogues, periodicals, or newspapers; and, necessarily, that the things which may not be written and published of him must not be spoken of him by his neighbors, whether the comment be favorable or otherwise. Roberson v Rochester Folding Box Co. 171 NY 538, 64 NE 442. The right of a person to demand that his private affairs be not scrutinized in public without his consent. Annos: 138 ALR 22; 168 ALR 446; 14 ALR2d 750. A right premised upon the individual's right to the pursuit of happiness. Barsky v United States, 83 App DC 127, 167 F2d 241, cert den 334 US 843, 92 L Ed 1767, 68 S Ct 1511, rear den 339 US 971, 94 L Ed 1379, 70 S Ct 1001. An independent legal right of the individual, the violation of which constitutes a tort. 4) Am J1st Priv § 2.

The theory that everyone has a right to privacy, and that the same is a personal right growing out of the inviolability of the person. The right to one's person may be said to be a right of complete immunity, to be let alone. That a person is entitled to relief at law or in equity for an invasion of this right, is generally understood to have been first publicly advanced in an article entitled "The Right to Privacy," in 4 Harvard Law Review, 193 (December, 1890), wherein some of the necessities for involving such relief are set out. Henry v Cherry, 30 RI 13, 73 A 97.

private. Adjective: Belonging to an individual or group of persons. Not for the public or open to the public. Noun: An enlisted man in the Army of the lowest, or next to the lowest, rank.

private act. A statute which is confined in operation and effect to particular individuals, associations, or corporations, not affecting the community at large, and must be pleaded and proved by a party who relies upon it. 50 Am J1st Stat § 12.

private alley. A narrow way not open to public use, the use being confined legally to a certain owner or owners of property. 25 Am J1st High § 8.

private attorney. Same as attorney in fact. Hall v Sawyer (NY) 47 Barb 116, 119.

[992]

private bank. An unincorporated bank. 10 Am J2d Banks § 13.

private banker. The proprietor of an unincorporated bank. A person or firm engaged in receiving deposits, discounting commercial paper, selling bills of exchange, and doing a banking business without special privileges or authority from the state. Perkins v Smith, 116 NY 441, 446, 23 NE 21. A person or firm engaged in the banking business under authorization by the state, subject to the general requirements of supervision and inspection. Ex parte Wisner, 36 Mont 298, 92 P 958.

According to most authorities, the legislature may prohibit all private banking and restrict the right to conduct a banking business to corporations. The term "bank" as used in some statutes does not include a private banker. 10 Am J2d Banks § 13.

private bill office. An office in the British parliament where private acts are framed.

private boarding house. See boarding house.

private bonded warehouse. A bonded warehouse but under bond only for the storing of such merchandise as shall belong or be consigned to the owner or proprietor. 19 USC § 1555.

See bonded warehouse.

private capacity. The capacity in which a municipal corporation operates where not engaged as an arm of the state in a governmental capacity. The capacity in which a municipal corporation operates where it enters into the business of furnishing water, lights, power and sewerage, or passenger transportation by streetcar. J. B. McCrary Co. v Winnfield (DC La) 40 F Supp 427.

private car. A railroad passenger car owned or engaged by a certain person or persons only.

private carrier. One who transports only for those with whom he sees fit to contract. Ace High Dresses v J. C. Trucking Co. 122 Conn 578, 191 A 536, 112 ALR 86. One who, without making it a vocation, or holding himself out to the public as ready to act for all who desire his services, undertakes, by special agreement in a particular instance only, to transport property or persons from place to place either gratuitously or for hire. 13 Am J2d Car § 8.

See contract carrier by motor vehicle.

private carrier by motor vehicle. A carrier who is neither a common carrier or a contract carrier by motor vehicle but which transports property of which it is the owner, lessee, or bailee for the purpose of sale, rent, or bailment, or in furtherance of a commercial enterprise. Interstate Commerce Com. v A. W. Stickle & Co. (DC Okla) 41 F Supp 268 (definition in § 305(a) of the Motor Vehicle Carrier Act of 1935).

private cemetery. A cemetery devoted to one family or a small part of the community. 14 Am J2d Cem § 2.

private college or university. A college or university supported by private funds or privately endowed. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 2.

The fact that a private institution of learning receives aid from the state or federal government does not of itself make it a public corporation. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 2.

private communication. See privileged communication.

private convenience yields to the convenience of the public. An equitable principle. North Hill Memorial Gardens v Hicks, 230 Ark 787, 326 SW2d 797.

private corporation. A corporation created for private as distinguished from purely public purposes. Miller v Davis, 136 Tex 299, 130 SW2d 973, 136 ALR 177.

The character of a corporation as public or private is determined by the terms of its charter and the general law under which it was organized, not upon the character of its stockholders or the number of persons engaged in the enterprise. Macon County Tel. Co. v Bethany Mut. Tel. Asso. 270 Ill 183, 110 NE 334.

private court. Not at all a court in the usual and proper sense of the term; merely a body set up by a private organization for its internal purposes. State ex rel. Henderson v Boone County Court, 50 Mo 317.

private credit to seal. See seals of private credit.

private crossing. An overhead crossing erected and maintained by a private person for passageway across a highway. 25 Am J1st High § 295. A passage across, under, or over a railroad track running across a farm, for the use and convenience of the proprietor or tenant of the farm. Wheeler v Rochester & Syracuse Railroad Co. (NY) 12 Barb 227, 230.

private duty. A duty owed by an individual under particular circumstances. The duty of a municipality operating in a private capacity.

See private capacity.

private dwelling. A dwelling house. A room or rooms used and occupied, not transiently, but as a residence, in an apartment house, hotel, or boarding house. Carroll v United States, 267 US 132, 143, 69 L Ed 543, 547, 45 S Ct 280 (definition in statute establishing National Prohibition).

private dwelling house. A dwelling house for a single family. 20 Am 12d Cov § 196.

A majority of courts have reached the conclusion that the term when used in a restrictive covenant prohibits the use of property for a duplex or double house. Anno: 14 ALR2d 1395.

private easement. An easement which confers a benefit upon certain individuals only.

See private way.

private eleemosynary corporation. A corporation created for the administration of a public or private charity, the endowments of which have been received from individuals. 15 Am J2d Char § 43.

private enterprise. Cultivating the soil, manufacturing articles for sale, dealing in merchandise, and the pursuit of numerous and various other activities which enlist individual energy. Dodge v Mission Tp. (CA8 Kan) 107 F 827. In the language of the ultraconservative, something undefiled by governmental regulation or participation.

As used in a provision of a state constitution forbidding the state to be interested in any "private or corporate enterprise," the term has been held not merely to forbid the state to become interested in private enterprise carried on by individuals and corporations, but also to prohibit the state from itself engaging in private enterprises ordinarily undertaken only by private promoters. State ex rel. Wilkinson v Murphy, 237 Ala 332, 186 So 487, 121 ALR 283.

[993]

privateer. A private armed vessel commissioned by a belligerent to capture vessels of the enemy. 56 Am J1st War § 169. A vessel owned and manned by private persons, acting under a commission or letters of marque from a recognized government, and equipped to plunder the maritime commerce of the enemy of the country granting the commission. 41 Am J1st Pir § 2.

privateering. Operating a vessel as a privateer. 41 Am J1st Pir § 2.

See privateer.

private ferry. The means maintained by individuals for personal use in crossing a stream.

Such a ferry is mainly for the use of the owner, and although he may take pay for ferriage, he does not follow it as a business. His ferry is not open to the public at its demand. He may, or may not keep it going. 35 Am J2d Ferr § 2.

private first class. An enlisted man of the Army, ranking immediately above a private.

private function. The function of a municipal corporation in the exercise of powers conferred upon it, not primarily or chiefly from considerations connected with the government of the state at large, but for the private advantage of the compact community which is incorporated as a distinct legal personality, particularly the function in reference to the property or contracts of the municipality. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 114. In a broader sense, any activity in a private as distinguished from a public capacity.

See private capacity; private enterprise.

private gain. A gain accruing to the benefit of an individual, not to the benefit of the public or of a charity.

Under Federal statute exempting the property of educational institutions from taxation in the District of Columbia, provided the property is not used for private gain, as so used, the term has reference only to gain realized by any individual or stockholder who has a pecuniary interest in the corporation, and not to profits realized by the institution, but turned back into the treasury or expended for permanent improvements. District of Columbia v Mt. Vernon Seminary, 69 App DC 251, 100 F2d 116.

private garage. A building or structure appurtenant to a private residence or apartment house, etc., designed for the housing or storage of a motor vehicle by the owner, tenant, or other person. Anno: 61 ALR 312.

private injury. See private wrong.

private international law. The subject of conflict of laws, that which regulates the comity of states in giving effect in one to the municipal laws of another relating to private persons, or concerns the rights of persons within the territory and dominion of one state or nation, by reason of acts, private or public, done within the dominion of another, being based on the broad general principle that one state or country will respect and give effect to the laws of another so far as can be done consistently with its own interests. 16 Am J2d Cones L § 1.

privately stealing. Committing larceny from the person by picking pocket, cutting away a purse, etc. Larceny in taking property directly from the person of the owner, as by snatching it from his hands, albeit the taking is in a public place. 32 Am J1st Larc § 44.

private market. An anomaly since any market, as properly defined, is public in character. 35 Am J1st Mark & M § 2. A market kept by an individual for his personal use and advantage, without letting out of stalls to others. State v Natal, 41 La Ann 887, 890, 6 So 722.

private motor carrier. See private carrier.

private nuisance. A nuisance which threatens injury to one or a few persons. McFarlane v Niagara Falls, 247 NY 340, 160 NE 391, 57 ALR 1. A nuisance which violates only private rights and produces damages to one or to no more than a few persons. Riggins v District Court, 89 Utah 183, 51 P2d 645.

See nuisance.

private passenger automobile. An automobile kept for use by the owner or members of his family, not for carrying passengers for hire as a business. A four wheeled vehicle; a vehicle other than a motorcycle. Paupst v McKendry, 187 Pa Super 646, 145 A2d 725.

See passenger motor vehicle.

private pass way. See private way.

private person. An individual who acts as such, as distinguished from one who acts officially or on behalf of the public.

private pond. A pond above land privately owned and subject to private control only.

To fall within the meaning of the term, the pond must be essentially private. It must be a sheet of water covering exclusively the land of its owner, and must be such as no one could forbid him its use, any more than the cultivation of the soil underneath, if it was free from water. A body of water covering 1040 acres, 1000 acres of which covers land of one owner and forty acres of which covers the land of an adjoining owner, is not a private pond. Peters v State, 96 Tenn 682, 36 SW 399.

For cases holding certain ponds or lakes to be private, see Anno: 15 ALR2d 755.

private powers. The powers of a municipality exercised for the advantage of the inhabitants of the municipality as such, and of itself as a legal personality, not powers exercised in a governmental capacity as a political subdivision of the state. Winona v Botzet (CA8 Minn) 169 F 321.

See private capacity.

private preserve. An area set apart on one's own premises as a game or fish preserve. A natural or artificial pond for the culture of fish, privately owned and maintained. State v Theriault, 70 Vt 617, 41 A 1030.

See game preserve.

private property. The property of a person as distinguished from the property of a government or a governmental body. Inclusive of property privately owned, although devoted to a public purpose. 42 Am J1st Prop § 12.

See right of private property.

private prosecutor. One appointed to assist the state in a particular criminal case or requested to appear by the regular prosecutor. 24 Am J1st Grand J § 43.

See relator.

private publication. See limited publication.

private purpose. A building up of a private fortune; the redress of a private wrong; the improvement of private property; the promotion of private enterprise, except where such is incident to the public benefit. 51 Am J1st Tax § 321.

private railroad. A railroad confined to the transportation of one's own property, not open to public use.

See private track.

private residence. A residence for one family only. Anno: 18 ALR 460.

See private dwelling house.

private right of way. The privilege which one person or particular class of persons have of passing over the land of another in some particular line. 25 Am J2d Ease § 7.

See private way.

private rights. Rights which a person is entitled to exercise as an individual, such as ownership and enjoyment of property, the right to travel, to communicate, privacy, etc. Such rights, when applied to property, as persons may possess unconnected with, and not essentially affecting, the public interest, or growing out of a public institution of society. Rugh v Ottenheimer, 6 Or 231.

private road. A road maintained and open on one's own premises for his own use, the use of his tenant, or the use of their licensees, invitees, or guests; not open to the public. A road which, although public in the sense of being open to use by the public, actually subserves the convenience of such a limited number of persons that it falls within a separate classification in respect to establishment, maintenance, and repair. Sherman v Buick, 32 Cal 242, 252.

See private railroad; private track; private way.

private sale. A sale negotiated and completed otherwise than by auction upon notice. 30 Am J2d Exec § 342; 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad §§ 343, 378, 445; 30A Am J Rev ed Jud S § 67.

private school. A school organized and maintained by a private person or corporation. State v Counort, 69 Wash 361, 124 P 910. A school organized and managed by individuals, and not by the public as an institution of the state. Livingston v Davis, 243 Iowa 21, 50 NW2d 592, 27 ALR2d 1237.

As to what constitutes "private school" within statute making attendance at such a school compliance with compulsory school attendance law, see Anno: 14 ALR2d 1369.

private secretary. A person employed for the rendition of services for one or a few persons, as distinguished from one employed to render services, as such may be required, for any executive, manager, officer, or employee of a business. A "laborer" for the purposes of an exemption from execution. Abrahams v Anderson, 80 Ga 570, 5 SE 778.

private session. A hearing or investigation by an administrative agency not open to the public. 2 Am J2d Admin L §§ 229, 258. A hearing in chambers. A session of court during which the public is excluded from the courtroom by order of the court. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 334.

private statute. See private act.

private stream. See private waters.

private track. A railroad track maintained for the convenience of one or more persons or of one or more industries, not open to public use. A railroad track not constructed or used for general traffic or devoted to public use, as a spur track used by a railroad merely for the purpose of reaching its roundhouse. 44 Am J1st R R § 227.

private trust. Any trust which has been created for a purpose other than a public or charitable purpose. 15 Am J2d Char § 6.

private use. The use of public funds, public property, or the powers of government for such a purpose or in such a manner that it is not a public use.

Under the settled doctrine that a municipal corporation cannot use its funds to promote a private commercial enterprise, a management and use of land as a street to promote the interests of merchants and traders who might occupy it, and to furnish better facilities for doing business and making profits, is not a public, but a private use of the land. Re Opinion of Justices, 197 NY 58, 91 NE 405.

See public use.

private warehouseman. A person maintaining a warehouse for his own use or under conditions such that the function of maintenance is not of any public interest. 56 Am J1st Wareh § 4.

private waters. Waters above land privately owned and subject to private control only. A stream to the bed of which a riparian owner can show title deraigned from the United States or from the state. Webb v Board of Comrs. 124 Kan 38, 257 P 966.

private way. A road or way intended for the exclusive use and benefit of one or more particular persons. 25 Am J1st High § 4. A means of passage for one or more individuals from some place to some other place. Seery v Waterbury, 82 Conn 567, 74 A 908. A way for travel over the surface of land, even over an artificial passageway or stairway. 25 Am J2d Ease § 7. An incorporeal hereditament of a real nature, being the right of going over another man's ground. The privilege which one person or particular class of persons have of passing over the land of another in some particular line. 25 Am J2d Ease § 7.

See way of necessity.

private way appurtenant. An incorporeal right of passage over the land of another, which is annexed to and belongs with another distinct tenement. 25 Am J2d Ease § 11.

private way in gross. The merely personal right or privilege of passing over the land of another in a specified line.

Such a right being personal to the one who is entitled to its enjoyment cannot be transferred by deed, assignment or otherwise, but it ceases to exist upon his death. Kripp v Curtis, 71 Cal 62, 11 P 879.

private wharf. A wharf for private use only, not open to the use of the public. 56 Am J1st Wharves § 3.

private wrong. An infringement or violation of a right belonging to an individual as an individual, in distinction from the violation of a duty to the nation, to a state, or to the community considered as a community. A violation of a duty due from one person to another, for the breach of which the law provides a right of action. Rhobidas v Concord, 70 NH 90, 47 A 82.

Privatio praesupponit habitum. A deprivation presupposes something held or possessed.

Privatis pactionibus non dubium est non laedi jus caeterorum. (Roman law.) There is no doubt that the rights of others are not prejudiced by private agreements. See Broom's Legal Maxims 697.

[995]

Privatorum conventio juri publico non derogat. An agreement of private persons cannot derogate from public right.

Privatorum pacta non derogant juri communi. The agreements of private persons cannot derogate from common right.

Privatum commodum publico cedit. Private convenience must yield to public welfare.

Privatum incommodum publico bono pensatur. Private inconvenience is compensated by the public welfare. The interest of the individual will not be permitted to stand in the way where the public good is concerned. Daniels v Homer, 139 NC 219, 51 SE 992.

privement enceinte. Pregnant in the first stages. Pregnancy not observable on a passing glance.

privies. See privy.

privigna. (Civil law.) A step-daughter.

privignus. (Civil law.) A step-son.

privilege. A right peculiar to an individual or body. Ripley v Knight, 123 Mass 519. An advantage held by way of license, franchise, grant, or permission, not possessed by others. Special enjoyment of a good, or exemption from an evil or burden. Wisener v Burrell, 28 Okla 546, 118 P 999. An immunity existing under the law. For tax purposes, any occupation or business which the legislature may declare to be a privilege and tax as such. Seven Springs Water Co. v Kennedy, 156 Tenn 1, 299 SW 792 56 ALR 496. (Civil law.) A tacit hypothecation of a thing without any transfer of the possession of it or of the right to possession. The Glide, 167 US 606, 42 L Ed 296, 17 S Ct 930.

See immunity; special privilege; writ of privilege.

privilege against self-incrimination. A privilege of one who is accused of a crime, existing under the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the Federal Constitution, as well as under the constitutions of most of the states, not to be compelled to give self-incriminating testimony. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 349. The privilege of a witness, based upon the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, a provision of a state constitution, 58 Am J1st Witn § 36, or a principle of the common law, Allen v State, 183 Md 603, 39 A2d 820, 171 ALR 1138; State v Cdanowicz, 69 NJL 619, 55 A 743. To refuse to answer any question that will incriminate or tend to incriminate himself. 58 Am J1st Witn § 36.

The wisdom of the exemption has never been universally assented to since the days of Bentham, many doubt it today, and it is best defended not as an unchangeable principle of universal justice, but as a law proved by experience to be expedient. Twining v New Jersey, 211 US 78, 53 L Ed 97, 29 S Ct 14.

The privilege of immunity from self-incrimination under the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution, to be available, must be invoked by the witness. The privilege of silence is solely for his benefit and is deemed waived unless invoked. The Fifth Amendment affords no immunity to a witness against the use of his voluntary testimony against him. United States v Mary Helen Coal Corp. (DC Ky) 24 F Supp 50.

See self-incrimination.

privileged communication. A communication between persons in such a confidential relationship, be it attorney and client, physician and patient, or confessor and penitent, that public policy prohibits the disclosure thereof by the person to whom it was made, as a witness testifying in an action or proceeding, upon objection thereto by the person who made it. 58 Am J1st Witn §§ 363 et seq. Communications between husband and wife, declared privileged in encouragement of the utmost confidence between the spouses, thus aiding in the preservation of the marital status, so that neither spouse is competent to testify to a confidential communication, made to him or her by the other spouse, in a civil action, whether or not the husband or wife is a party, or in a criminal prosecution against one of the spouses, apart from actions or prosecutions excepted by statute or which are such that the exclusion of the testimony would not be in fulfillment of the principle of the privilege. 58 Am J1st Witn §§ 375 et seq. Within the meaning of the law of defamation:—a statement uttered or published which, by reason of its character or the occasion upon which it was made, is to be deemed, absolutely or conditionally, wanting in respect of the essential element of the tort or offense of libel or slander, 33 Am J1st L&S § 124; a communication which would be defamatory and actionable, except for the occasion on which, or the circumstances under which it was made. Mullens v Davidson, 133 W Va 557, 57 SE2d 1, 13 ALR2d 887.

As to the effect of an act as a confidential communication between husband and wife, see Anne: 10 ALR2d 1389.

privileged copyholds. Copyholds held in ancient demesne, called "privileged" because, although they could not be conveyed by feoffment, but had to pass by surrender to the lord or his steward, in the manner of common copyholds, yet they were not to be held at the will of the lord, but according to the custom of the manor. See 2 Bl Comm 100.

privileged debts. Obligations entitled to a priority or preference.

See preference; priority.

privileged occasion. An occasion the circumstances of which are such as to make privileged a statement otherwise defamatory, thereby rendering the statement wanting in respect of the essential element of the tort of libel or slander. Blakeslee v Carroll, 64 Conn 223, 29 A 473.

See privileged communication.

privileged relation. A relation of such nature that communications between the parties thereto are protected against disclosure by one of the parties, as a witness testifying in an action or proceeding, upon objection thereto by the other party. 58 Am J1st Witn §§ 363 et seq.

See privileged communication.

privileged vessel. Same as favored vessel.

privileged villeinage. Same as villeinage socage.

privileged will. A civil-law term for nuncupative will. Castro v Castro, 6 Cal 158, 160.

privilege fee. An occupation tax.

The sales tax of Michigan is said to be a privilege fee imposed upon persons doing business at retail. It is not imposed upon the consumer, but upon those engaged in the business of making sales at retail. It is left optional with the retailer whether he will absorb the tax himself or collect it from his customers. Miles Laboratories v Simon (DC Mich) 33 F Supp 962.

[996]

privilege from arrest. See immunity from arrest.

privilege in defamation. See privileged communications.

privilege of five years. A privilege of extension of the term of a lease, granted by a clause in the lease. 32 Am J1st L & T § 961.

privilege of renewing one year more. A privilege of extension of the term of a lease, granted by a clause in the lease. 32 Am J1st L & T § 961.

privilege of return. The right to return a mare for breeding without payment of an additional breeding fee, where the previous service by the stallion has proved to be fruitless. 4 Am J2d Am § 77.

privilege of sanctuary. See sanctuary.

privilege of telegraph company. Absence of liability in transmitting a defamatory message, except where the transmitting agent of the telegraph company happened to know that the message was spurious or that the sender was acting, not in the protection of any legitimate interest, but in bad faith and for the purpose of traducing another. O'Brien v Western Union Tel Co. (CA1 Mass) 113 F2d 543.

privileges and appurtenances. An apt word in a conveyance carrying easements. 25 Am J2d Ease § 95.

privileges and immunities. Synonymous terms in reference to the guarantee of the United States Constitution. 16 Am J2d Const L § 476. Of citizens of the several states within the meaning of the guarantee under Article IV § 2 of the United States Constitution:—the fundamental privileges and immunities belonging of right to the citizens of all free governments, which have at all times been enjoyed by citizens of the several states of the Union from the time of their becoming free, independent, and sovereign states; protection by the government, with the right to acquire and possess property of every kind, and to pursue and obtain happiness and safety, subject to such restraints as the government may prescribe for the general good of the whole people. 16 Am J2d Const L § 477.

See immunity; privilege.

privileges and immunities clause. Section 2 of Article IV of the United States Constitution and a clause of the 1st section of the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution.

See privileges and immunities. privileges and immunities of citizens. See privileges and immunities. privilege tax. A tax upon the pursuit of an occupation or the conducting of a business. Bank of Commerce & Trust Co. v Senter, 149 Tenn 574, 577, 579, 260 SW 144.

When a statute authorizes the levy and collection of taxes upon taxable property, and to license, tax and regulate certain businesses and "all other privileges" taxable by the state, the word "privileges" does not mean such things as are technically privileges, and cannot ever be enjoyed or exercised in England except through the prerogative of the crown or under act of parliament, or, in this country, by authority of law, but to denote other occupations and business of the kind mentioned. Jacksonville v Ledwith, 26 Fla 163, 7 So 885.

See occupation tax.

privilegia. (Roman law.) Private laws.

privilegia favorabilia. A private law enacted for the benefit of an individual or a corporation. Christ Church v Philadelphia (US) 24 How 300, 16 L Ed 602.

privilegium. An advantage or favor granted by law but not possessed under the common law.

privilegium clericale. The clerical privilege, benefit of clergy. See 3 Bl Comm 365.

Privilegium contra rempublicam non valet. Privilege as against the state is of no avail.

Privilegium est beneficium personale et extinguitur cum persona. A privilege is a personal benefit and is extinguished with the person.

Privilegium est quasi privata lex. A privilege is, as it were, a private law.

Privilegium non valet contra rempublicam. A privilege is of no avail as against the state.

privily. Privately or secretly. Coombes v Thomas, 57 Tex 321, 322.

privity. An elusive term. In general, an identity of interest between persons, so that the interest of the one is measured by the same legal right as that of the other. Fleming v Cooper, 225 Ark 634, 284 SW2d 857, 58 ALR2d 694. The relation between two titles where one derives from the other or both derive from a common source. Jax Ice & Cold Storage Co. v South Florida Farms Co. (Fla) 109 So 212, 218. Continuity of interest; successive relationships to the same rights of property, as between decedent and heir, intestate and administrator, testate and executor, and grantor and grantee. Zaragosa v Craven, 33 Cal 2d 315, 202 P2d 73, 6 ALR2d 461. For the purposes of the doctrine of res judicata, such an identity in interest that one person represents the same legal right as another, as a consequence of which, the judgment is binding as to a subsequent grantee, transferee, or lienor of property. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 399. For the purposes of estoppel by judgment, one who has an interest in the subject matter through a party to the action. Seymour v Wallace, 121 Mich 402, 80 NW 242. In reference to the scope and effect of an injunction, mutual or successive relationship to the rights of property. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 296. As an element of admissibility of former testimony of a witness since become unavailable:—a relationship arising from connection with a decedent's estate or out of interest in property, or the relationship of principal and surety or of successive plaintiffs in actions for wrongful death, the word being used in somewhat the same sense as in the field of property law. Re Silvie's River, 115 Or 27, 237 P 322.

privity in law. Identity of interest between persons, so that the interest of one is measured by the same legal right as that of the other. Fleming v Cooper, 225 Ark 634, 284 SW2d 857, 58 ALR2d 694. Successive relationships to the same right of property.

privity of contract. A material interest in the performance of a contract of one who did not join in the making of the contract. The impact of a contract upon a person from or to whom the consideration moves. 17 Am J2d Contr § 297.

[997]

privity of estate. A connection between the estate of one and the estate of another, for example, as between lessor and lessee. Davidson v Minnesota Loan & Trust Co. 158 Minn 411, 197 NW 833, 32 ALR 1418. A succession in rights. Vineberg v Hardison (Fla App) 108 So 2d 922; Heiman v Pittsburgh C. C. & St. L. R. Co. 58 Ohio St 400, 50 NE 986.

See privity.

privity of possession. A continuity of actual possession, as between prior and present occupant, the possession of the latter succeeding the possession of the former under deed, grant, or other transfer, or by operation of law. Vance v Wood, 22 Or 77, 29P73.

privity. One in privity with another. Shew v Call, 119 NC 450, 26 SE 33. One connected with another by reason of their having a mutual interest in the same action or thing. Western Loan & Sav Co. v Silver Bow Abstract Co. 31 Mont 448, 78 P 774. An outside toilet. Monroe v Gerspach, 33 La Ann 1011.

See privity; privity vault.

Privy Council. Advisers of the crown.

privity examination. The examination of a married woman, separately from her husband, in taking her acknowledgment to the execution of a deed or other instrument in which she joins with her husband. Henderson v Smith, 26 W Va 829.

privity in estate. See privity of estate.

privy in representation. The executor of a testator, or the administrator of an intestate.

privy to an action. See privy.

privy seal. A seal which is affixed to royal grants or letters patent which are to pass under the great seal.

The sign manual is the warrant to the privy seal and the privy seal is the warrant to the great seal. See 2 Bl Comm 347.

privy signet. A seal which was always in the custody of the principal secretary of state and was affixed to royal grants and letters patent after the king's own sign manual had been superscribed. See 2 Bl Comm 347.

privy vault. The walled-in space below an outdoor privy. Not a water closet, since no supply of water is maintained for flushing it. Commonwealth v Roberts, 155 Mass 281, 29 NE 522.

privy verdict. A verdict delivered to the judge out of court, relieving the jury from their confinement in case of agreement after the judge has adjourned court, to be affirmed by an oral verdict given publicly in court upon resumption of the session. 53 Am J1st Tr § 1010.

prize. A sum offered by way of reward for the winner of a contest, without opportunity for the person offering it to compete for the purpose of gaining back the thing offered or any part thereof. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 100. That which is offered and is to be won in a lottery. 34 Am J1st Lot § 5. Property legally captured in time of war. 56 Am J1st Wars § 180.

prize candy. A lottery scheme involving the sale of candy in boxes, each box being represented to contain a prize of money or jewelry and the purchaser selecting his box in ignorance of its contents. 34 Am J1st Lot § 7.

prize contest. A contest in which a prize is given as a matter of grace and favor and as a reward for skill or quality of endeavor. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 100. A guessing or puzzle contest; a voting or popularity contest. 34 Am J1st Lot §§ 12, 17. A lottery where tickets are sold, some to draw prizes, some to draw nothing as blanks. 34 Am J1st Lot § 7.

prize court. A court which administers prize law, adjudicating the right to property as prize of war. An anomaly in jurisprudence as a domestic court administering law of the nations. 56 Am J1st War § 182.

Having taken goods of the enemy, the captors have a right to proceed against them as belligerent property in a court of prize; for in no other way, and in no other court can the questions presented on a capture jure belli be properly and effectually examined. The Schooner Adeline & Cargo (US) 9 Cranch 244, 284, 3 L Ed 719, 733.

prize fight. A pugilistic encounter or boxing match for a prize or wager. 4 Am J2d Amuse §§ 81, 86. Engaging in any fight for a prize, stake, or reward, whether in public or private and however conducted, in which the contestants intend to inflict some degree of bodily harm on each other. People v Taylor, 96 Mich 576 56 NW 27; Seville v State, 49 Ohio St 1 17, 30 NE 621.

prize goods. See prize of war.

prize law. A body of international law under which the right to movable property and claimed a prize of war is determined. 56 Am J1st War § 180.

prize money. A sum of money offered by way of a reward to the winner of a contest or as the stake in a lottery. The purse or stake in a prize fight. The proceeds of the sale of a vessel or goods taken as prize of war.

Under the federal prize statutes the net proceeds of all property condemned as prize are to be decreed to the United States and be ordered by the court to be paid into the Treasury of the United States. 56 Am J1st War § 201.

prize of war. Goods or movables in the hands of the enemy, used, or intended to be used, for hostile purposes, captured by land or naval forces in time of war. 56 Am J1st War § 180.

prize package. A scheme of lottery whereby a person who pays a certain price for a package of candy, tea, or other merchandise is entitled to select it from a number of packages, some of which, in addition to the commodity, contain a ticket which entitles the purchaser to a prize, while other packages contain nothing but the commodity. 34 Am J1st Lot § 7.

prize proceeding. A proceeding for the condemnation of property as constituting prize of war. 56 Am J1st War § 181.

prize ring. The so-called "squared circle," enclosed by ropes, where boxing contests and prize fights are held.

prize ring rules. The rules of a prize fight.

See London Prize Ring Rules.

pro. For; before; on behalf of; in favor of; in place of; in consideration of; in proportion to; as; by way of.

[998]

pro aetate probanda. See commission pro aetate probanda. proavo. See de proavo.

proavus. A great grandfather.

probabilis causa litigandi. A probable cause of litigation.

probability. Likelihood, but coupled with some uncertainty, of occurrence.

To instruct the jury that they may act on probabilities means simply that they may act on less than convincing evidence, or without that moral certainty required by law. People v O'Brien, 130 Cal 1, 8, 62 P 297, 299.

See in all probability.

probable. Likely to occur, but involving an element of uncertainty. Green v Catawaba Power Co. 75 SC 102, 55 SE 125. With a greater weight of evidence in support than against. State v Trout, 74 Iowa 545, 38 NW 405.

probable cause. Reasonable cause as shown by the circumstances of the case. Goldstein v Sabella (Fla) 88 So 2d 910, 58 ALR2d 1418.

probable cause for a prosecution. A reasonable ground for suspicion, supported by circumstances sufficiently strong in themselves to warrant a cautious, or as some courts put it, a prudent man, in believing that the party charged is guilty of the offense with which he is charged. The existence of such facts and circumstances as would excite belief in a reasonable mind, acting on the facts within the knowledge of the prosecutor, that the person charged is guilty of the offense for which he is prosecuted. Such facts and circumstances as, when communicated to the generality of men of ordinary and impartial minds, are sufficient to raise in them a belief or real, grave suspicion of the guilt of the person charged. 34 Am J1st Mal Pros § 47.

probable cause for arrest. A reasonable ground of suspicion, supported by circumstances sufficiently strong in themselves to warrant a cautious man in believing the accused to be guilty. In substance, a reasonable ground for belief in guilt. Brinegar v United States, 338 US 160, 93 L Ed 1879, 69 S Ct 1302, reh den 338 US 839, 94 L Ed 513, 70 S Ct 31.

probable cause for attachment. A reasonable belief in the existence of facts necessary to sustain an attachment. The actual existence of facts necessary to sustain an attachment. 6 Am J2d Attach § 599.

probable cause for capture. The existence of circumstances such as to warrant a reasonable ground of suspicion that the vessel is engaged in an illegal traffic. 56 Am J1st War § 198.

probable cause for issuance of a search warrant. A reasonable ground of suspicion, supported by circumstances sufficiently strong in themselves to warrant a prudent and cautious man in the belief that the person accused is guilty of the offense with which he is charged. 47 Am J1st Search § 22.

probable cause for statement otherwise tortious as defamatory. A reasonable ground of suspicion, supported by circumstances sufficient to warrant a cautious man in believing in the truth of the statement pleaded as the basis of a cause of action for defamation. Coates v Wallace, 4 Pa Super 253, 257.

probable cause to hold accused for trial. Reasonable ground to believe that a crime has been committed and just cause to believe that the defendant committed it. State ex rel. Stevenson v Jameson, 78 SD 431, 104 NW2d 45.

probable consequence doctrine. A test of proximate cause according to whether or not the injury was reasonably foreseeable by a person of ordinary intelligence and prudence. 26 Am J2d Electr § 48.

probable consequences. Those consequences which are more likely than not to follow the use of a given means. Western Commercial Travelers' Asso. v Smith (CA8 Mo) 85 F 401. A result which, when viewed in retrospect, appears to be the reasonable rather than the extraordinary consequences of a wrong. Brown v Rhoades, 126 Me 186, 137 A 58, 53 ALR 834. Those consequences which a person of average competence and knowledge being in the situation of a person whose conduct is in question, and having the same opportunities of observation, might be expected to foresee as likely to follow such conduct. 38 Am J1st Negl § 57.

probable evidence. Same as presumptive evidence.

probable expectancy. Such a thing as one has the right to expect as a concomitant of civilized society, for example, the right to a reasonably free labor market. L. D. Wilcutt & Sons v Driscoll, 200 Mass 110, 85 NE 897.

See expectation of life; mortality tables.

Probandi necessitas incumbit illi qui agit. The necessity of proving, the burden of proof, lies upon him who sues.

probandum. See factum probandum.

probans. See factum probans.

probata. See allegata et probata.

probate. The judicial act whereby an instrument is adjudged a valid will and ordered to be recorded; the statutory method of establishing the proper execution of the instrument and giving notice of its contents. 57 Am J1st Wills § 743. Broadly, a characterization of functions of the probate court, whether it be the probate of a will, the approval of the accounts of an administrator of a decedent's estate, or any other judicial act within the province of the court. Johnson v Harrison, 47 Minn 575, 578. In older usage, the equivalent of acknowledgment, 1 Am J2d Ack § 1; relating to proof.

probate code. The body or system of law relating to the estates of deceased persons and of persons under guardianship. Johnson v Harrison, 47 Minn 575, 579.

probate court. A court exercising jurisdiction in probating wills and in matters of administration of decedents' estates, guardianships, absentees, etc. 20 Am J2d Cts § 32.

It is generally considered that probate, orphans' and surrogate courts are courts of special and limited jurisdiction, but instances are not lacking to sustain the statement that such courts have general jurisdiction. 20 Am J2d Cts § 32.

probate duty. A duty to be treated as an expense of administration of a decedent's estate. The earliest form of death duty in England. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 4. An estate tax.

probate estate. The estate of a decedent in probate.

probate fee. See probate duty.

probate homestead. Premises of a decedent set apart to the surviving spouse and minor children, to be held by them exempt from liability for the debts of the decedent. 26 Am J1st Home § 185.

[999]

probate in common form. A survival of probate procedure under ecclesiastical law; an ex parte proceeding instituted by the executor or other proponent of a will to obtain the admission of the propounded instrument to record as a valid will.

It is distinguished from the other form of probate, known as solemn probate, by its ex parte character, no opportunity being given for a contest. 57 Am J1st Wills § 758.

probate in solemn form. A proceeding by the executor or other proponent of a will to obtain the admission of the propounded instrument to record as a valid will, under summons to interested parties calling upon them to witness the proceeding and to take whatever part therein they see fit. An adversary proceeding upon notice or citation in which parties in interest opposed to the will have the opportunity to contest its validity. 57 Am J1st Wills § 758.

probate judge. The judge who presides in a probate court.

probate jurisdiction. A special jurisdiction for the probate of wills, the appointment of executors, administrators, guardians, and committees, the approval of the accounts of such fiduciaries, etc., sometimes exercised by a separate court, at other times by a separate division of a court of general jurisdiction. 20 Am J2d Cts § 32.

probate law. In common understanding, -as distinct and clearly defined a branch of the law as is criminal law or corporation law; in popular signification including all matters of which probate courts generally have jurisdiction, among which are estates of deceased persons. Johnson v Harrison, 47 Mich 575, 579.

probate matters. Matters within the jurisdiction of a probate court. Re Mortenson, 248 Ill 520, 94 NE 120.

See probate jurisdiction.

probate of will. See caveat; probate.

probate proceeding. A proceeding in the probate court, usually upon notice of motion or order to show cause. Sometimes upon summons or other formal process as in the probate of a will in solemn form. A "civil action" for the purpose of a statute which disqualifies a judge in a civil action for causes specified in the statute. 30A Am J Rev ed Judges § 95.

probate research. A matter of searching for heirs of a particular decedent or in finding evidence to substantiate the claim of a person made as an heir. Cochran v Zachery, 137 Iowa 585, 115 NW 486.

See heir hunter.

probate sale. A sale, such as an executor's or administrator's sale, had under order of court in a proceeding in probate.

probate tax. See probate duty; estate tax.

probatio. Proof; a trial; an examination.

probatio mortua. Dead proof; that is, proof by writings or by things or objects offered in evidence.

probation. A trial or test, particularly of the fitness of a person for a position. Also a period for the observance of a person under a suspended sentence for crime with reference to the advisability of giving him opportunity to resume his place in society without undergoing confinement in prison. A matter of action taken before the prison door is closed, being the suspension of sentence or suspension of execution of sentence prior to commitment, for the purposes of education and rehabilitation of the accused. 21 Am J2d Crim L §§ 562 et seq. A discharge from commitment as an insane person upon condition of remaining in a condition of sanity, to be recommitted summarily upon insanity appearing. Metaxos v People, 76 Colo 264, 230 P 608.

probationary custody. An award of the custody of a child of divorced parents, made upon the granting of the divorce, but with the expectation that an application for a final award will be made and heard at a later date. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 809.

probationary discharge. See probation.

probationary status. A person having a period of probation in a civil service position by way of a further test of his qualifications for appointment. 15 Am J2d Civ S § 24. The status of a person convicted of a crime during the period of suspension of sentence, or suspension of execution of sentence, as ordered by the court to afford opportunity for his rehabilitation. 21 Am J2d Crim L §§ 562 et seq.

Probationes debent esse evidentes, id est, perspicuae et faciles intelligi. Proofs ought to be evident; that is, they ought to be plain and easily understood.

probation officer. An officer, usually attached to a juvenile court, who is charged with the care of juvenile delinquents, and in some jurisdictions with the superintendence of convicts who are at large on probation or suspended sentence.

probatio plena. (Civil law.) Full proof; that is, proof by two witnesses, or by a public document. See 3 Bl Comm 370.

probatio semi-plena. (Civil law.) Half proof; that is, proof by one witness only. See 3 Bl Comm 370.

probatio viva. Living proof; that is, proof by a living witness or witnesses.

Probatis extremis, praesumitur media. When the extremes have been proved, those things which lie between are presumed.

probative. Having a tendency to prove or establish.

probative facts. Evidentiary facts. Facts which tend to prove ultimate facts. 41 Am J1st Pl § 8.

probative value. The weight as evidence of evidentiary facts. Wilson v Haughton (Ky) 266 SW2d 115, 41 ALR2d 950.

See weight of evidence.

probator. Also called an "approver" or "prover,"—a person who, after having been indicted for treason, or other felony, and arraigned for it, confesses his guilt before pleading guilty or not guilty and accuses the persons who were his accomplices of the same crime, in order to obtain a pardon for himself. See 4 BI Comm 330.

probi et legales homines. Plural of probus et legalis homo.

pro bono et malo. For good and evil.

[1000]

pro bono publico. For the public good or welfare.

probus et legalis homo. A true and lawful man; that is, a man who can serve upon a jury, be a witness, or bring an action to recover lands or money due him. See 3 BI Comm 102.

procedendo. An order or writ issued by an appellate court commanding a court of inferior jurisdiction to proceed to judgment in a case pending before it, but not attempting to control the inferior court as to what the judgment should be. State ex rel. Davey v Owen, 133 Ohio St 96, 12 NE2d 144, 114 ALR 686. An order issued by a court of review on the decision of a cause on appeal or writ of error, directing the action to be taken or disposition to be made of the cause by the lower court. State v Banning, 205 Iowa 826, 218 NW 572; Yates v People (NY) 6 Johns 337, 403.

procedendo ad iudicium. A remedy under early English common-law and chancery practice to compel an inferior tribunal to proceed to judgment in a given case where the judge of such court was delaying the proceeding, but without directing any particular judgment. Re Press Printers & Publishers (CA3 NJ) 12 F2d 660.

procedendo de loquela. A king's writ which directed the court to proceed in a tenant's real action, in response to the latter's aid prayer.

The aid prayer was a call for assistance to plead because of the feebleness or imbecility of the estate of the tenant himself. See 3 BI Comm 300.

procedendo on aid prayer. See procedendo de loquela.

procedural due process. A regular course of justice, which is not unreasonable or arbitrary, upon notice and hearing, in pursuance of an efficacious remedy secured by the law of the state. 16 Am J2d Const L § 549. An orderly proceeding appropriate to the case or adapted to its nature, just to the parties affected, and adapted to the ends to be attained; one in which a person has an opportunity to be heard, and to defend, enforce, and protect his rights with the assistance of counsel before a competent and impartial tribunal legally constituted to determine the right involved. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 353.

procedural law. The law which governs the manner in which rights are enforced and wrongs rectified. Hardie v Bryson (DC Mo) 44 F Supp 67. The law which prescribes the procedure to be followed in a case.

procedure. The means adopted, that is the practice followed, whereby a court adjudicates controversies within its jurisdiction and properly presented to it, as distinguished from the substantive principles according to which rights and wrongs are determined. Green v Board of Comrs. 126 Okla 300, 259 P 635; Nordling v Johnston, 205 Or 315, 283 P2d 994, 48 ALR2d 1369.

See practice.

procedure extra ordinem. (Civil law.) An informal proceeding before a magistrate terminating in a decision which could not be enforced without a further action to secure execution.

proceeding. In ordinary usage, including all methods of invoking the action of courts and applicable generally to any step taken by a suitor to obtain the interposition or action of a court. 1 Am J2d Actions § 3. An action. More particularly, any application to a court of justice, however made, for aid in the enforcement of rights, for relief, for redress of injuries, for damages, or for any remedial object. 1 Am J2d Actions § 3. In reference to the restriction upon federal courts of granting an injunction to stay proceedings in state courts:-any step taken, or which may be taken, in the state court or by its officers, from the institution of the action to the termination of final process. Hill v Martin, 296 US 393, 80 L Ed 293, 56 S Ct 278. In one peculiar sense, the equivalent of special proceeding. In a broad sense, inclusive of an inquiry before a grand jury. Hale v Henkel, 201 US 43, 66, 50 L Ed 652, 662, 26 S Ct 370, even of the conduct of a matter before an executive department or administrative agency. Bowers v New York & Albany Lighterage Co. 273 US 346, 71 L Ed 676, 47 S Ct 389.

See action; ancillary proceeding; practice; procedure; special proceeding; summary proceeding.

proceeding according to the course of the common law. A rhetorical statement, pleasing to the ear but leaving no definite impression upon the understanding. Hahn v Kelly, 34 Cal 391, 411.

proceeding for information of title. See information of title.

proceeding in admiralty. See admiralty.

proceeding in bankruptcy. In the broad sense, any invoking of the jurisdiction of the bankruptcy court; in a technical sense, a summary proceeding in a court of bankruptcy. 9 Am J2d Bankr §§ 68 et seq.

proceeding in court. See proceeding.

proceeding in error. A proceeding by writ of error for the removal of a cause to a higher court for review. State v Scott, 34 Wyo 163, 242 P 322.

proceeding in insolvency. Any assignment for the benefit of creditors or other proceeding intended to liquidate or rehabilitate the estate of the person involved. UCC § 1-201(22). A proceeding wherein a person may be adjudicated insolvent and the assets of his estate be distributed according to law. 29 Am J Rev ed Insolv §§ 14 et seq.

State insolvency statutes sometimes provide for the discharge of the debtor from his debts, but discharge under state laws is subject to material exceptions or limitations. 29 Am J Rev ed Insolv § 88.

proceeding in personam. See in personam action.

proceeding in rem. See in rem action.

proceeding quasi in rem. See quasi in rem action.

proceeding supplementary to execution. See supplementary proceeding.

proceeds. That which is received for something, whether in cash or other thing of value. Phelps v Harris (US) 11 Otto 370, 380, 25 L Ed 855, 858.

The term as used in a statute requiring labor claims to be first paid out of the "proceeds of sale" of property of an insolvent means, in case of a receivership, what remains after payment of the costs and expenses of the receivership necessary to the carrying out of the trust by the receiver as the hand of the court. Sloan & Z. Co. v Lyons Ref. Co. 290 Pa 442, 139 A 133, 55 ALR 275.

As used in a will or other trust instrument the term, used alone, is generally regarded as equivocal, meaning either (1) the income, product or profits from property, or (2) the fund arising upon the sale of property; its meaning in the particular case is to be determined primarily from the context of the instrument in which it is used and the subject matter to which it is applied. Anno: 1 ALR2d 194.

[1001]

proceeds and avails of insurance. For the purposes of exemption from execution, the amount collected from an insurance company under a contract of insurance. Le Blane's Succession, 142 La 27, 76 So 223.

proceeds of sale. See proceeds.

proceeds receivable by the executor. Funds in the hands of the executor where he is named as beneficiary, where the proceeds are subject to estate obligations, or where there is a legal obligation on the part of the executor to use them for the benefit of the estate. Anno: 80 L Ed 174, s. 85 L Ed 1012, 1013.

proceres. Chiefs; nobles; princes; municipal magistrates.

process. A method of producing something from raw material. Producing by chemical action, by the operation or application of some element or power of nature, or by adding one substance to another. Corning v Burden (US) 15 How 252, 267, 14 L Ed 683, 690. A series of actions, motions, or occurrences; progressive act or transaction; continuous operation or treatment; a method of operation or treatment. Martin v Minerals Separation North American Corporation (DC Md) 29 F Supp 146. In patent law, a manner of treatment of certain materials to produce a given result; an act or series of acts performed upon the subject matter to transform and reduce it to a different state or thing. Cochrane v Deener, 94 US 780, 24 L Ed 139. In a broad sense, all of the acts of the court from the beginning to the end of an action or proceeding. Blair v Maxbass Secur. Bank, 44 ND 12, 176 NW 98. The means by which the purposes of the law may be applied and executed as between private litigants or as between the state and an accused. In a technical sense, the means of compelling a defendant to appear in court, whether in a civil or criminal case. A writ, warrant of arrest, or other means of subjecting person or property to the jurisdiction of the court. 42 Am J1st Proc § 2.

See due process of law; service of process.

processing materials. Applying a process to materials. Materials used in manufacturing; raw materials. Anno: 30 ALR2d 1439.

See process.

process in rem. A process, as that of a court of admiralty, adapted to the establishment and enforcement of a right in a thing, as distinguished from the enforcement of a personal liability. State v Voorhies, 39 La Ann 499, 2 So 37.

procession. A line of persons on foot or in vehicles, proceeding in an orderly manner, as in bearing the body of a friend or relative to place of burial. 25 Am J1st High § 212.

See parade.

processioned. See processioning.

processioner. A person appointed upon the application of the owner or owners of land, the boundaries of which are in doubt, to determine the correct boundary. 12 Am J2d Bound § 94.

processioning proceeding. A special statutory proceeding for the determination of a boundary in dispute. Andrews v Andrews, 252 NC 97, 113 SE2d 47. A proceeding invoked by a landowner who desires a survey whereby the boundary lines of his tract may be surveyed, established, and marked anew, being in the nature of preventive relief. Watson v Bishop, 69 Ga 51, 53.

process of attaint. See attaint.

process of garnishment. See garnishment.

process of gavellet. See gavellet.

process of law. See due process of law; process; service of process.

process of manufacturing. In the broad sense, manufacturing something from raw material. Making an article entirely by hand or machinery into a new form capable of being used and designed to be used in ordinary life. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 43.

process of mining. The obtaining of mineral from an excavation in the earth, which necessarily implies two things: First, the actual cutting or hewing of the mineral; and, second, its removal to the surface. Anne: 11 ALR 154.

See strip mining.

process of outlawry. See attainder by process of outlawry; outlawry.

processor. One who receives material, particularly grain, fruit, or other product of the farm, and converts it to a form suitable for consumption or use.

See process.

process regular on its face. See regular on its face.

process roll. A record wherein process was entered to interrupt the running of the statute of limitations.

process tax. An excise imposed on the processing rather than on the product. Glenn L. Martin Co. v United States (DC Md) 23 F Supp 262.

processum continuando. For continuing the process,—the name given to a writ which lay to keep process of the court alive and in force beyond the time of its normal life.

Processus legis est gravis vexatio, executio legis coronat opus. The process of the law is a grave vexation; the execution of the law crowns the work.

process verbal. A detailed account of the proceedings held before a public officer and the result thereof, formally attested by him as true and correct. Hall v Hall, 11 Tex 526, 539.

procès-verbal. (French.) An official report.

prochain. (French.) Same as prochein.

prochein. Nearest; next.

prochein ami. (French.) Same as next friend.

prochein amy. Same as prochein ami.

prochein avoidance. The next vacancy.

procheyn. Same as prochein.

procheyn heir. The next heir.

proclaimed rate. A rate of customs duty proclaimed by the President. 19 USC § 1202, Headnote 9(d).

proclamare. To call out; to proclaim; to warn.

proclamation. An announcement made on behalf of the government. Lapeyre v United States (US) 17 Wall 191, 21 L Ed 606. An official announcement of a matter of great and vital public interest, such as the ratification of an amendment to the United States Constitution. 16 Am J2d Const L § 25. As made by the President of the United States, a public act of which all courts of the United States are bound to take notice and to which they must give effect. Panama Refining Co. v Ryan, 293 US 388, 79 L Ed 466, 55 S Ct 241.

[1002]

See writ of proclamation.

proclamation of a fine. A statutory requirement.

By 1 Richard III, c. 7 (Fines, 1483), confirmed and enforced by 4 Henry VII, c. 24 (Fines, 1488), the fine, after engrossment, was required to be openly read and proclaimed in court sixteen times (four in the term in which it was made, and four in each of the three succeeding terms), but this requirement was reduced to once each term by 31 Elizabeth, c. 2 (Fines, 1588), and these proclamations were indorsed on the back of the record. See 2 Bl Comm 352.

proclamation of election. The notice of an election to be held for the election of officers or passing upon propositions submitted to the voters. The formal statement made by an election officer at the opening of the polls, usually:—"Hear ye, hear ye, the polls are now open."

proclamation of peace. A proclamation by the President of the United States announcing the end of war and the return of peace. 56 Am J1st War § 13.

proclamation of the President. See proclamation.

proclamation on exigent. In outlawry proceedings, the sheriff's proclamation that the defendant will be outlawed if he does not surrender.

If a non est inventus is returned upon a capias, an alias writ, and a pluries writ, successively, a writ of exigent is sued out requiring the sheriff to cause the defendant to be proclaimed, required, or exacted, in five county courts successively, to render himself; and, if he does, then to take him, but if he does not appear, and is returned required for the fifth time, he is to be outlawed by the coroners of the county. See 3 Bl Comm 283.

pro concilio. For advice.

pro confesso. See confession of judgment; decree pro confesso.

pro correctio et salute animae. For the cure and welfare of the soul.

procreation. The production of offspring.

See words of procreation.

proctor. An officer of the ecclesiastical court corresponding to an attorney at law in the courts of the common law. See 3 Bl Comm 25. One licensed to practice admiralty law. One who stands in the relationship to a litigant in admiralty as the attorney of a party in an ordinary civil action. Jackson v Ore Navigation Corp. (DC Md) 159 F Supp 935. One, familiar to generations of law students, who supervises examinations.

See divorce proctor.

procul dubio. Without doubt.

procuracy. The written authority of a procurator which empowers him to act for his principal.

procurador del comun. A solicitor-general. The title of an officer of the Spanish government frequently encountered in Spanish-American grants in certain districts.

He was an officer appointed to make inquiry, put the petitioner in possession of the land prayed for, and execute the lieutenant-governor's and commandant's orders relative to the premises. Lecompte v United States (US) 11 How 115, 13 L Ed 627.

procuratio. Procuration; management; administration; a letter of attorney; an attorney in fact; an attorney; an agent.

procuration. Every power or authority given by one person to another by means of an instrument in writing. Williams v Conger, 125 US 397, 422, 31 L Ed 778, 789, 8 S Ct 933. (Ecclesiastical.) An annual payment made by a parish priest to the bishop or archdeacon.

procuration money. Charges of a scrivener or broker for procuring loans. See 4 Bl Comm 157.

procurator. The donee of a procuration; a proctor.

See procuration; proctor.

procurator fiscal. A public prosecutor; a prosecuting attorney.

procuratorium. The written authority or proxy of a proctor.

procurator litis. (Civil law.) A person who performed services in a litigation or lawsuit corresponding to those of a modern attorney.

procurator negotiorum. (Civil law.) A manager of affairs; a business manager; an attorney in fact.

procure. To bring into possession; to obtain. Mighell v Dougherty, 86 Iowa 480, 53 NW 402. To cause to occur. To bring about, especially an event fraught with evil. United States v Richmond (CA3 Pa) 17 F2d 28.

procurer. One who uses means to bring anything about, especially one who does so secretly and corruptly. United States v Richmond (CA3 Pa) 17 F2d 28. One who seduces females into prostitution. A pimp.

See pandering; pimp. procuring breach of contract. A tort, in interfering with the right of another, under the doctrine of Lumley v Gye, 118 Eng Reprint 749, 1 ERC 706.

procuring cause. The act which effects a sale or transaction. 12 Am J2d Brok § 189.

As the basis of a broker's right to his commissions, the term refers to the cause originating from a series of events that without break in their continuity results in the prime object of the employment of the broker. Roth v Thomson, 40 Cal App 208, 215; Smith v Preiss, 117 Minn 392, 136 NW 7.

pro defectu. For failure of; because of the lack or want of.

pro defectu emptorum. For want or failure of buyers.

pro defectu exitus. For failure of issue.

pro defectu haeredis. For want or failure of an heir.

pro defectu justitiae. For defect or want of justice.

pro defendente. For, or in favor of, the defendant.

[1003]

pro derelicto. For a derelict; as abandoned property.

prodigal. A spendthrift; an unthrift.

Under the Roman law, if a man by notorious prodigality was in danger of wasting his estate, he was looked upon as non compos, and committed to the care of curators or tutors by the praetor. But under the common law, when a man on an inquest of idiocy has been returned an "unthrift," and not an idiot, no further proceedings are had. See 1 Bl Comm 305.

See spendthrift trust.

pro dignitate regali. For or because of the royal dignity.

Pro dignitate regali, no man can marry a queen dowager, without special license from the king, on pain of forfeiting his lands and goods. See 1 Bl Comm 223.

prodigus. (Roman law.) A prodigal; a spendthrift; an extravagant person.

prodition. Treason.

proditor. A traitor; a person who has committed treason.

proditorie. Traitorously; treasonably.

pro diviso. As divided, that is, in severalty.

pro domino. As master.

pro donato. As a gift; by way of gift.

pro dote. (Civil law.) As a dowry; by way of dowry.

produce. Verb: To give being or form to; to manufacture; to make. Mighell v Dougherty, 86 Iowa 480, 53 NW 402. (prod-us'). Noun: In the broad sense, anything grown or manufactured, whether by hand or machinery. In a more limited sense, products of the farm, particularly those marketed daily or at least weekly, such as milk, other things from the dairy, fruits, and vegetables.

produce broker. A broker who negotiates for the sale or exchange of the produce of others. Banta v Chicago, 172 Ill 204, 50 NE 233.

producent. A party who produces or offers a person as a witness.

producer. One who produces whether by farming or manufacturing, although used more commonly to denote a person who raises crops or puts crops in condition for marketing. Allen v Smith, 173 US 389, 399, 43 L Ed 741, 744, 19 S Ct 446.

producers' bounties. Bounties allowed to producers for the purpose of stimulating manufacturing. 12 Am J2d Bount § 3.

product. That which is produced in manufacturing or farming. The result of a course of conduct. The result of a chemical change. The number obtained upon multiplying one number by another.

See by-product.

product and profit of labor. A term of art.

As the expression is used in a statute prohibiting the product and profit of convict labor, the words do not refer to articles of property, but to the net value of labor. A manufactured article is not known in common parlance, in law or in political economy, as the product of labor. Labor enters into its production, but is often an insignificant element. The article is the product of raw material and labor combined, or, as it is commonly expressed, labor and capital. People v Hawkit-, 157 NY 1, 51 NE 257.

production. A bringing forth. The output of a factory; the grain, produce, fruit, and increase in number or weight of animals realized on a farm. A painting, a literary or musical composition. Dano v Mississippi O. & R. R. Co. 27 Ark 564, 567.

production and subsistence loans. Loans for agricultural purposes where production or economic disaster has caused need of farmers for credit not otherwise available. 7 USC §§ 1007-1009; 12 USC § 1148a-2.

production certificate. A certificate issued by the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Agency authorizing the production of duplicates of an aircraft, aircraft engine, propeller, or appliance for aircraft. 49 USC § 1423(b).

production facility. Any equipment or device determined by rule of the Atomic Energy Commission to be capable of the production of special nuclear material in such quantity as to be of significance to the common defense and security, or in such manner as to affect the health and safety of the public; or any important component part especially designed for such equipment or device as determined by the Commission. 42 USC § 2014(t).

For other definitions contained in the regulations of the Atomic Energy Commission see 10 CFR §§ 50.2(a) (1) (2), 10 CFR Cum Supp § 50.2(a) (3).

production of documents. Relief under statute or according to principles of equity by a discovery. 23 Am J2d Dep §§ 164 et seq.

See subpoena duces tecum.

production of goods for commerce. Manufacturing, mining, handling, or working on goods in any other manner. Borden Co. v Borella, 325 US 679, 89 L Ed 1865, 65 S Ct 1223, 161 ALR 1258.

production of suit. An old term for making a case in the first instance.

Anciently, at common law, a defendant was not required to answer the charge made by the plaintiff until the plaintiff had, by his witnesses, made out at least a probable case, and this was called the "production of the suit." But this practice was discontinued and has not been followed since the reign of Edward the Third. See 3 Bl Comm 295.

production payment. A right to a specified sum of money or a specified amount of minerals, payable out of an agreed share of minerals produced or of proceeds from sale of minerals.

If the right must continue over the entire term of a mineral lease, it is a royalty, not a production payment. United States v Morgan (CA5 Miss) 321 F2d 781.

production tax. A tax upon the production or severance from the soil of natural resources such as timber, oil, gas, and the like. 51 Am J1st Tax § 1259.

See gross production tax.

productio sectae. Same as production of suit.

productivity of land. Cropping value; the ability to produce in terms of specified amounts, such as a stated number of bushels of grain per acre. 55 Am J1st V & P § 84.

products liability. The liability of the manufacturer or seller of an article for an injury caused to person or property by a defect in or condition of the article sold. 46 Am J1st Sales § 799. The liability of a manufacturer or packer of drugs or poisonous substances to an ultimate consumer injured as a result of defects in, or mislabeling of, the product consequent to his want of exercise of due care in the preparation and marketing of the product. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 49. The liability of a druggist for an injury resulting to another from the use of a drug compounded or dispensed by the druggist, where the injury is chargeable directly to a want of due or ordinary care on the part of the druggist in the compounding or dispensing of the drug. 25 Am J2d Drugs §§ 52 et seq.

[1004]

products liability insurance. A contract or policy of insurance specifically designed to protect the producer, manufacturer, or seller of goods against liability arising by reason of injury to the person or property of others caused by the use of his products. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1360.

product test. The test of criminal responsibility according to whether or not the unlawful act was the product of either mental disease or mental defect. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 39.

pro emptore. (Civil law.) As a purchaser.

pro eo quod. For this, that.

pro et durante. For and during.

pro facti. As a fact.

pro falso clamore. For false claim.

pro falso clamore suo. For or by reason of his own false claim.

profane. Adjective: Common rather than sacred. Irreverent toward or contemptuous of sacred things. Verb: To desecrate. To put to an ignoble or improper use.

profane language. See profanity.

profanity. Calling for or implying divine vengeance or divine condemnation, with or without directly employing the name of the Deity. Gaines v State, 75 Tenn (7 Lea) 410.

See blasphemy; cursing.

profanity in presence of female. A distinct crime or offense in some jurisdictions. Ray v State, 113 Ga 1065, 39 SE 408.

profectitium peculium. That property which children make out of the property of their father.

All they acquire in this way, belongs entirely to their father, who has them under his power. Sparks v Spence, 40 Tex 694, 700.

profectitus. (Civil law.) Inheritable property.

profer. Same as profert.

profert. An offer made formally in a pleading to produce a particular document relied upon by the pleader by way of cause of action or defense. 41 Am J1st Pl § 60. The production of, or offer to produce, a document, made by a party to an action for the purpose of enabling his adversary to read and examine the document. A means of getting a bail bond before the court for action. 8 Am J2d Bail § 154.

profert ad curiam. Same as profert in curia.

profert and oyer. The production of a document for reading by the adverse party. 41 Am J1st Pl § 60.

profert in curia. Producing a document in court for reading or attaching a copy thereof to the pleading. Germain v Wilgus (CA9 Cal) 67 F 597, 599.

profession. A statement or declaration, especially a declaration of religious faith or belief. A vocation or employment in preparation for which specialized education and training is required as in law, medicine, or engineering. Cummings v Pennsylvania Fire Ins. Co. 153 Iowa 579, 134 NW 79. A vocation characterized by the use of specialized knowledge or attainments. Ocean Acci. & Guarantee Corp. v Herzberg's, Inc. (CA8 Neb) 100 F2d 171. A vocation wherein one puts his specialized knowledge to use for the benefit of others, not confining its use to study, to the enhancement of knowledge, or to the accomplishment of an abstract purpose. Edwards v Bates County, 163 US 258, 266, 41 L Ed 151, 155, 16 S Ct 998. For the purposes of an exemption statute, the employment in which the debtor habitually earns his living. 22 Am J1st Exemp § 35.

professional. One engaging in a profession in accordance with the standards of conduct required of one in such profession. One who has made a career, engaging for pay or prize money, out of an activity others follow for diversion or pleasure, such as a professional football player or professional golfer. One who has concentrated his efforts upon performing an art for pay as a means of subsistence, as distinguished from the amateur who engages for the sake of the art or his own pleasure.

professional adviser. One advising upon matters purportedly within the scope of his professional capacity. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 52.

professional bailee. One who makes it his business to act as a bailee and deals with the public on a uniform basis, such as a common carrier, the proprietor of a parking lot, or a warehouseman. 8 Am J2d Bail § 131.

professional baseball. A sport conducted for profit in charging admissions. A business for some purposes. Anno: 56 ALR 813.

professional capacity. A function or status characterized by the employment of the specialized knowledge and skill of a particular profession in attending upon another.

Within the statutory rule which prohibits a physician from testifying as to facts learned while attending his patient in a "professional capacity," a physician who was called as a physician, attended the patient as a physician, diagnosed the case as a physician, and administered remedies as a physician, acted in a professional capacity. And he so acted even though called in by a third party and against the protests of the patient. Meyer v Supreme Lodge Knights of Pythias, 178 NY 63, 70 NE 111.

professional corporation. A corporation formed for the purpose of practicing a profession. 18 Am J2d Corp §§ 31, 32.

As a general rule a corporation cannot lawfully engage in the practice of law, or in the practice of medicine, surgery, or dentistry. Some statutes, however, permit persons engaged in other professions to form corporations or associations for the practice of their professions. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1052.

professional employee. Broadly, any employee whose duties call for the practice of a profession. For the purposes of the Fair Labor Standards Act, an employee whose primary duties consist of the performance of work requiring knowledge of an advanced type in the field of science or learning, or original and creative in character in a recognized field of artistic endeavor, and whose work requires the consistent exercise of discretion and judgment in its performance, is predominantly intellectual and varied in character, and is generally compensated on a salary or fee basis in a specified amount. 29 USC Appx § 5431.3.

[1005]

professional ethics. See ethics; judicial ethics; legal ethics.

professional expert. A person who is skilled in a professional occupation, the word professional being here used as it generally is, to distinguish classes of professional persons from those who are engaged in the various occupations of business or trade.

We speak of the professions of medicine, law, and divinity as the learned professions, and also of the profession of arms. And the term has come to be applied to other occupations or callings, all of which require learned and special preparation in the acquirement of scientific knowledge and skill, necessary to a proper understanding and successful management of such occupations; for example the professional occupation of a civil engineer. Commonwealth ex rel. Hensel v Fidler, 147 Pa 288, 23 A 568.

See expert witness.

professional gambler. A person who makes his living or a substantial portion thereof in pursuing the business or practice of unlawful gambling by the use of cards, dice, or other gambling device, with the purpose of thereby winning money or other property, or who conducts, either as owner or employee, a place for gambling. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 46.

professional journal. A publication devoted to the special interests of the members of a particular profession, such as a medical journal or a publication for members of the bar. 39 Am J1st Newsp § 9.

professional judgment. The judgment exercised by a professional man in a bona fide manner and in reference to a matter within the scope of his profession. 41 Am J1st Phys and S § 103.

professional liability insurance. A policy protecting insured, a professional man, against liability arising from his acts or omissions in the practice of his profession. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1358.

professional misconduct. Conduct of an attorney at law which shows him to be unfit or unsafe to manage the business of others in the capacity of a lawyer. 7 Am J2d Attys § 25. Conduct that tends to bring reproach on the legal profession or to injure it in the favorable opinion of the public. Wernimont v State, 101 Ark 210, 142 SW 194. The conduct of a physician which is dishonorable or disreputable in connection with the practice of his profession, which demonstrates incompetency and unfitness for such practice, or is substantially in conflict with the ethics of the profession. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 49.

See misconduct of attorney; misconduct of physician.

professional partnership. A nontrading partnership; a partnership for the practice of a profession, such as a partnership between attorneys at law. 40 Am J1st Partn § 12.

professional services. Services rendered in a professional capacity.

professional society. An organization of the members of a particular profession, for their mutual benefit, the benefit of the profession, and the benefit of the public, on a local, statewide, or national basis, one of the outstanding examples of which is the American Bar Association.

proffer. To offer.

See offer of proof; profert.

profile. A side view represented in a plan prepared by an architect. 27 Am J2d Em D § 424.

pro fine. See capias pro fine.

profit. See profit a prendre; profits; transaction for profit.

profit appendre. Same as profit a prendre.

profit à prendre. A right exercised by one person in the soil of another, accompanied with participation in the profits of the soil or right to take a part of the produce of the land. 25 Am J2d Ease § 4. The power and privilege to acquire through severance ownership of some part of the physical substances included in the possession of land. United States v Gossler (DC Or) 60 F Supp 971.

Examples of profit a prendre are the right to take timber from the land of another, or coal, or to fish in water belonging to another. 25 Am J2d Ease § 4.

profit à rendre. The produce of the soil of his land which the tenant yielded up or rendered to him who had a profit a prendre in the land.

profit corporation. A business corporation, organized with a view toward realizing gains to be distributed among its members. Anno: 16 ALR2d 1347.

profiteering. Any conduct or practice involving the acquisition of excessive profits. Mount v Welsh, 118 Or 568, 247 P 815, 822.

profits. Gains. The excess of gross sales over cost of goods plus expenses of operation. McDaniel v State Fair (Tex Civ App) 286 SW 513, 516. The excess of receipts over expenditures. Connolly v Davidson, 15 Minn 519. For some purposes, the equivalent of income. Anno: 24 ALR 17; 130 ALR 512. The return to capital rather than earnings from labor performed or services rendered. Columbus Mining Co. v Ross, 218 Ky 98, 101, 290 SW 1052.

See mesne profits; net profits; undivided profits.

profit-sharing plan. An arrangement in a corporation whereby the compensation of officers, agents, or employees is in part dependent upon or payable out of profits of the business. 19 Am J2d Corp §§ 1413 et seq.

pro forma. As a matter of form.

progeny. Children, descendants, offspring.

prognosis. A statement by a physician concerning the probable course of a disease or the duration of an injury and the possibility or probability of recovery. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 82.

progress certificate. A certificate issued by an architect or engineer during the course of construction of a building or other improvement, prepared for the information of the owner concerning performance by the contractor, particularly in reference to payments to be made during the course of construction. 13 Am J2d Bldg Contr §§ 32-40.

[1006]

progressive capacity. The capacity of an infant increasing from babyhood to the age of majority. 27 Am J1st Inf § 7 progressive tax. Strictly, a tax which, as in the case of the federal income tax, applies higher rates progressively as the taxable amount increases. State ex rel. Foot v Bazille, 97 Minn 11, 106 NW 93. An excise or license tax on retail merchants computed on their gross sales at a percentage which increases with the volume of the taxpayer's business. Stewart Dry Goods Co. v Lewis, 294 US 550, 79 L Ed 1054, 55 S Ct 525, reh den 295 US 768, 79 L Ed 1709, 55 S Ct 652. Inclusive in the broad sense, of a graduated tax.

See graduated tax.

progress payments. Payments made to a contractor during the performance of the work, usually calculated in amount according to the percentage of work accomplished. Anno: 22 ALR2d 1344; 17 Am J2d Contr § 348.

pro hac vice. For this occasion. McNeal v Braun, 53 NJL 617, 23 A 687.

Prohibetur ne quis facial in suo quod nocere possit alieno. It is prohibited to do on one's own property that which may injure another's. Conrad v Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. 64 W Va 176, 61 SE 44.

prohibit. To forbid, To prevent.

prohibited goods. Goods, merchandise, and other articles, the importation of which into the United States is prohibited. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 22.

prohibitio de vasto, directa parti. A writ which lay to prohibit the tenant from committing waste during the pendency of an action.

prohibition. A remedy the purpose of which is to prevent a tribunal possessing judicial or quasi-judicial powers from exercising jurisdiction over matters not within its cognizance, or exceeding its jurisdiction in matters of which it has cognizance. Anno: 77 ALR 246. A total restraint on traffic in intoxicating liquors. Ex parte Meyer, 84 Tex Crim 288, 207 SW 100. National prohibition under the act of Congress passed in 1919 (41 Statutes at Large, 305), known as the Volstead Act prohibiting the manufacture, sale, transportation, and exportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, for the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution. National Prohibition Cases, 253 US 350, 64 L Ed 946, 40 S Ct. 486, 588.

See writ of prohibition.

For repeal of Eighteenth Amendment, see Twenty-first Amendment.

prohibition agent. A federal officer in the hierarchy for the enforcement of the former National Prohibition Act. Not an internal revenue officer. United States v Parzah, (DC Pa) 18 F2d 1003.

prohibition commissioner. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue in his capacity of officer for administration of the National Prohibition Act. Gnerich v Rutter, 265 US 388, 390, 68 L Ed 1068, 1069.

See prohibition.

prohibition director. A federal officer in the hierarchy for the enforcement of the National Prohibition Act.

See prohibition.

prohibition of waste. See writ of prohibition of waste.

prohibitive. Tending to prohibit or prevent or to exclude or bar.

prohibitive impediments. Those impediments or restrictions which do not make a marriage void, but which render the parties liable to punishment.

prohibitive license. A license required as a condition of doing business the fee for which is so high as to be prohibitive of engaging in the business. 52 Am J1st Trad St § 14.

prohibitory injunction. Same as preventive injunction.

prohibitory writ. See injunction; writ of prohibition.

prohibitum. See malum prohibition.

pro ignorantia literarum. Through ignorance of letters; by reason of inability to write.

pro illa vice. For that occasion.

proinde. Therefore; accordingly.

pro indefenso. As undefended.

pro indiviso. As undivided.

pro interesse suo. In proportion to his own interest.

projecting load. A load on a vehicle on the highway, part of which projects beyond the body of the vehicle, sometimes to the side but more often to the rear. 25 Am J1st High § 234.

projectio. Alluvion, or the gradual washing up of the sand and earth so as to increase the quantity of land owned by a riparian proprietor.

projection. An overhang.

projection of the shore. An extension of the land by wharf or pier. The Russell No. 6 (DC NY) 42 F Supp 904.

projectoscope. An instrumentality for displaying a photographic impression by throwing an enlargement upon a screen. Anno: 72 ALR2d 316, § 6[a].

projet. The draft of a proposed treaty between two or more nations.

pro laesione fidei. For breach of faith.

In the reign of Stephen, the clergy tried to turn their ecclesiastical courts into courts of equity by entertaining suits pro laesione fidei, as a spiritual offense against conscience, in case of nonpayment of debts or breaches of contract generally, until this attempt was checked by the Constitutions of Clarendon. See 3 Bl Comm 52.

prolapsus uteri. Falling of the womb. Cole v Cole, 37 Tenn (5 Sneed) 57.

prolatum. An extra judicial opinion, given in or out of court; a saying not to be accepted as an opinion. Thorne v San Francisco, 4 Cal 127, 156.

pro legato. As a legacy.

proles. Issue; offspring; descendants; posterity.

Proles sequitur sortem paternam. The child follows the lot of the father. Lynch v Clarke (NY) 1 Sandf 583, 660.

proletarius. (Civil law.) A person who had no property to be taxed, but paid a tax only on account of his children.-Wharton's Law Dictionary.

[1007]

prolicide. The killing by a parent of his offspring.

prolixity. Verbosity, particularly in a pleading. 41 Am J1st PI § 27. Excessiveness in wording. 27 Am J1st Indict § 51.

prolocutor. (Ecclesiastical.) The presiding officer in a convocation or assembly of the English clergy.

prolongation. An extension of the time within which an act is required to be done or within which an obligation is to be performed.

pro lucrari. For the sake of gain.

pro majori cautela. For greater caution; for greater security.

promenade. A public place for strolling or walking for pleasure. Appleton v New York, 219 NY 150, 114 NE 73, 7 ALR 629.

promise. Verb: To engage. To pledge one's self to performance. To assure the performance of a particular act. To pledge by contract. Knecht v Mutual Life Ins. Co. 90 Pa 118. Noun: An assurance, in whatever form of expression used, that a thing will or will not be done. Baehr v Penn-O-Tex Oil Corp. 258 Minn 533, 104 NW2d 661. Something more than an acknowledgement of an obligation. UCC § 3-102(I)(c), and Comment 2. A declaration which gives to the person to whom it is made a right to expect or claim the performance or non-performance of some particular thing. Taylor v Miller, 113 NC 340, 342, 18 SE 504. An undertaking which binds the promisor for the happening of a future event, provided it is supported by a consideration. 17 Am J2d Contr § 2.

promisee. The person to whom a promise is made.

promise of immunity. A promise, made by a person in authority in obtaining a confession, that the accused shall be immune in whole or in part from prosecution or punishment. 29 Am J2d Ev § 563.

promise of marriage. An engagement of marriage to the promisee.

As the words are used in the statutory offense of seduction under promise of marriage, the promise need not be expressed in any set form, or in any particular words. It is enough if language is used which implies such a promise, and is intended to convey that meaning, and is in fact so understood by the prosecutrix. State v Brinkhaus, 34 Minn 285, 286.

See breach of promise.

promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another. An undertaking by a person not before liable, for the purpose of securing or performing the same duty for which the original debtor continues to be liable. Dillaby v Wilcox, 60 Conn 71, 22 A 491.

promise to pay. An undertaking to pay. UCC § 3-102(1)(c).

promise to pay the debt of another. See promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another.

promise to pay when able. An acknowledgment sufficient for the purpose of creating a stated account only where there is an absolute assent to the amount. Kaunitz v Wheeler, 344 Mich 181, 73 NW2d 263.

promisio. See stipulatio.

pro misis et custagiis. For his costs and charges.

promisor. A person who makes a promise to another; a person who promises.

promissory estoppel. A new name for an established doctrine. The principle that an estoppel may arise from the making of a promise, even though without consideration, if it was intended that the promise should be relied upon and in fact it was relied upon, and if a refusal to enforce it would be virtually to sanction the perpetration of fraud or would result in other injustice. 28 Am J2d Estop § 48.

A promise which the promisor should reasonably expect to induce action or forbearance of a definite and substantial character on the part of the promisee and which does induce such action or forbearance is binding if injustice can be avoided only by the enforcement of the promise. Fried v Fisher, 328 Pa 497, 196 A 39, 115 ALR 147.

promissory note. A contract in writing for the payment of money, usually with the added feature of negotiability. Annis v Pfeiffer, 278 Mich 692, 271 NW 568; Sabine v Leonard (Mo) 322 SW2d 831. A term used interchangeably with note. Shawano Finance Corp. v Julius, 214 Wis 637, 254 NW 355. A term well understood as indicating a negotiable note. Road Improv. Dist. v Southern Trust Co. 152 Ark 422, 239 SW 8.

See negotiable note; note.

promissory oath. A solemn appeal to God, or, in a wider sense, to some superior sanction or a sacred or revered person (as the temple, the altar, the blood of abel, the Koran, a tribal superior, etc.) in witness of the inviolability of a promise or undertaking. People ex rel. Bryant v Zimmerman, 241 NY 405, 150 NE 497, 43 ALR 909, 913.

promissory representation. A representation as to something which will be or is intended to be done in the future. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 57. In the law of insurance, an allegation as of something to happen during the existence of the insurance. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 698.

As the basis of estoppel, see promissory estoppel.

promissory statement. See promissory representation.

promissory warranty. An absolute undertaking by an insured, contained in a policy of insurance or in a paper properly incorporated by reference, that certain facts or conditions pertaining to the risk shall continue, or that certain things with reference thereto shall be done or omitted. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 709.

promontory. A headland; a high point of land jutting into sea or lake. United States v Otley (DC Or) 34 F Supp 182.

promote. To give a start to something, perchance the organization of a corporation. To forward. To contribute to growth and enlargement. Bank of Italy v Johnson, 200 Cal 1, 251 P 784, 792.

promoter. A person who undertakes to bring about the incorporation and organization of a corporation, procures for it the rights and capital by which it is to carry out the purposes set forth in its charter, and establishes it as able to do business, bringing together the person interested in the enterprise, aiding in procuring subscriptions to stock, and setting in motion the machinery which leads to the formation of the corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp § 106. One who performs in like manner in the organization of a co-operative apartment association. 15 Am J2d Con Apt § 21. In a less well-known sense, an informer, one who is responsible for the starting of a criminal prosecution. In the broadest sense, one who promotes, be it nothing more than a game of cards.

[1008]

promotion. The advancement of an employee from one position in the work to a position of more significance and better compensation. The advancement of a person in the civil service to a higher position on the basis of qualifications. 15 Am J2d Civ S § 20. The work in organizing and establishing a corporation in business, bringing together persons interested in the enterprise, aiding in procuring subscriptions to stock, and doing other work leading to the formation of the corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp § 106. Any activity by a person in the status of a promoter.

See promoter.

promotional examination. A civil service examination given persons in the service as the basis of determining merit for promotion. 15 Am J2d Civ S§10.

promotion expenses. Necessary expenses incurred by promoters before incorporation of the company being organized with their aid. 18 Am J2d Corp § 108.

prompt. Adjective: Punctual. Expeditious; quick. Pearson v Washingtonian Pub. Co. 68 App DC 373, 98 F2d 248. Prepared beforehand. Tobias v Lissberger, 105 NY 404, 12 NE 13. Verb: To urge. To cue an actor.

promptly. Expeditiously. 46 Am J1st Sales § 163. With reasonable diligence. having regard to the circumstances. Bowles v Mutual Ben. Health & Acci. Asso. (CA4 Va) 99 F2d 44, 119 ALR 756.

prompt-note. A notice given to one who has bought on credit of the due date of his obligation to pay.

prompt notice. Notice given within a reasonable time. Anno: 76 ALR 59; 41 ALR2d 853 (notice of breach of warranty). Notice given with reasonable dispatch. Black & W. Cab. Co. v New York Indem. Co. 108 W Va. 93, 150 SE 521 (notice of accident as required by insurance policy).

promptu. See in promptu.

promulgate. To give notice to the public of the enactment of a law or the prescribing of a rule of court.

promulgation. Making known to the public the enactment of a statute or the prescribing of a rule of court. To publish a statute or rule of court. 20 Am J2d Cts § 83.

promutuum. A quasi contract whereby a person to whom money had been paid under a mistake, became bound to repay it.

pro non scripto. As though not written; as though it had never been written.

pronouncement of judgment. The rendition of judgment by the court. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 49. The rendition of judgment and direction for the entry thereof. People v Walker, 76 Cal App 192, 200, 244 P 94, 98.

pronouncement of sentence. The judgment of a court of criminal jurisdiction. Kennedy v Reid, 101 App DC 400, 249 F2d 492. The act of a court of criminal jurisdiction in formally declaring to the accused the legal consequences of the guilt which he has confessed or of which he has been convicted. State v Fedder, 1 Utah 2d 117, 262 P2d 753.

proof. Evidence. More precisely, the effect of evidence; the establishment of a fact by evidence. 29 Am J2d Ev § 2. A matter of conviction or persuasion resulting from a consideration of the evidence. Dege v Produce Exchange Bank, 212 Minn 44, 2 NW2d 423.

proof beyond reasonable doubt. See reasonable doubt.

proof gallon. A gallon of proof spirits or the equivalent thereof. 26 USC § 5002(a)(8).

See proof spirits.

proof of claim. A written and verified statement of a claim against a decedent, presented for payment by filing in the probate court or serving the same upon the personal representative as the statute may require. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad §§ 298 et seq. In bankruptcy, a demand against a fund in possession of the court for distribution. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 428. A statement in writing, signed and verified by the creditor, with caption and title as prescribed by Order 21 of the General Orders in Bankruptcy, setting forth a claim against the estate in bankruptcy, the consideration therefor, whether any and, if so, what securities are held therefor, whether any and, if so, what payments have been made thereon, and declaring that the claim is justly owing from the bankrupt to the creditor. Bankruptcy Act § 57(a); 1 I USC § 93(a); 9 Am J2d Bankr § 439. A sworn statement of subject matter and amount of a claim against an insolvent in insolvency proceedings, made for the purpose of participating in the distribution of assets to creditors. 29 Am J Rev ed Insolv § 31.

proof of death. Evidence of death. 22 Am J2d Dth §§ 299 et seq. The proof of loss under a life insurance policy.

See death certificate.

proof of loss. A statement in writing, usually under oath, of a loss sustained by an insured, required by policy provision or statute to be submitted to the insured within the time prescribed by the policy or statute, stating the amount of the loss and the manner in which it occurred. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins §§ 1373-1439.

See due proof of loss.

proof of publication. An affidavit or certificate of publication made by the publisher of a newspaper or his authorized agent as proof of the publication of a notice, summons, order, and so forth. 39 Am J1st Newsp § 14.

proof of service. See return of process.

proof per testes. Proof of a disputed will by the persons who witnessed its execution.

proof spirits. A liquid which contains one-half its volume of ethyl alcohol of a specific gravity of .7939 at 60 degrees Fahrenheit referred to water at 60 degrees Fahrenheit as unity. 26 USC § 5002(a)(7).

proof to a moral certainty. The equivalent of proof beyond a reasonable doubt, signifying such proof as satisfies the judgment and conscience of the jury, as reasonable men, that the defendant is guilty of the crime charged. 30 Am J2d Ev § 1171.

pro omni servitio. In lieu of all service.

pro opere et labore. For work and labor. See 1 Bl Comm 471.

[1009]

prop. A support.

See mine prop.

propaganda. Ideas communicated for the purpose of influencing the thoughts of another, especially, in the modern sense, distorted principles intended to deceive. An antisocial activity insofar as it advocates the destruction of organized government, of mass industrial revolts against municipal government, and revolutionary mass action for the final destruction of government. 47 Am J1st Sedit Etc § 13.

The term "political propaganda," for the purposes of the Foreign Agents Registration Act, is defined at length in such statute. 22 USC §§ 611616.

One of the qualifications which charitable organizations generally must meet in order that a gift to them may be deductible for gift tax purposes is that carrying on "propaganda" or otherwise attempting to influence legislation shall not constitute a substantial part of their activities. IRC 1954 § 2522; 26 USC 2522.

propane gas. A chemical combination of carbon and hydrogen, about 1-1 /2 times heavier than air, odorless, colorless, invisible, and highly inflammable. 26 Am J2d Electr § 5.

pro patria. For one's country.

proper. Fitting. Conforming to an accepted standard. Decent.

proper action. A technical term of very limited usage for an action brought in the name of the county. Richardson v Stuesser, 125 Wis 66, 103 NW 261.

proper books of account. The books of account of a merchant or trader kept in such a manner, however inartistic or unprofessional it may be, that the real condition of the financial affairs of the business may be ascertained and determined upon an examination thereof. Siegel v His Creditors, 95 Cal 409, 414, 30 P 559.

proper burial. See decent burial; respectable burial.

proper care. See standard of care.

proper district. The federal district to which a cause removed from state court should be brought; the district which includes the county or place where the suit is pending at the time of removal. General Invest. Co. v Lake Shore & N. S. R. Co. 260 US 261, 67 L Ed 244, 43 S Ct 106.

proper election. See election to fill vacancy in office.

proper evidence. See admissible evidence.

proper feud. A military fee or feud.

proper independent advice. Advice by a competent and disinterested person. Zwartz v Dorl, 123 Okla 284, 253 P 75.

proper indorsement. An indorsement of a bill or note, embracing the signature of the indorser and in such form as to transfer title to the instrument and warrant payment by the maker to the indorsee. Thompson v Farmers' State Bank, 159 Iowa 662, 140 N W 877.

The signature of an indorser without additional words is a sufficient indorsement to effect an assignment or negotiation, as the case may be, of a bill or note, when the assignment or negotiation is completed by such delivery as is requisite. Such is the customary or usual indorsement. Additional words, however, may be employed to express the intent to negotiate or assign, as the case may be. 11 Am J2d B & N § 351.

proper lookout. See lookout.

proper name. The first or Christian name of a person. 38 Am J1st Name § 4.

proper parental care. Such care as an ordinarily prudent parent would exercise over the child for its welfare under the same or similar circumstances. Mitchell v Davis (Tex Civ App) 205 SW2d 812, 12 ALR2d 1042.

proper party. A person who may but need not be joined. McAndrews v Krause, 245 Minn 85, 71 NW2d 153, 53 ALR2d 312. A person without whom a judgment or decree may be rendered in the action, but not a judgment or decree which shall completely settle all the questions which may be involved in the controversy and conclude the rights of all the persons who have an interest of some kind in the subject matter of the litigation. Serr v Biwabik Concrete Aggregate Co. 202 Minn 165, 278 NW 355, 117 ALR 1009. Any person materially interested, either legally or equitably, in the subject matter of the litigation, such person, having been joined, being bound by the judgment or decree rendered in the action. 39 Am J1st Parties § 5.

proper person. A person whose condition entitles him to be carried as a passenger by a common carrier, the carrier having the right to refuse transportation to a person who is disorderly, intoxicated, afflicted with a contagious disease, or in such condition otherwise as to render his presence dangerous to the lives or health of passengers. Bogard v Illinois Central Railroad Co. 144 Ky 649, 139 SW 855.

proper purpose of inspection. A lawful purpose, not contrary to the interests of the corporation, whereby a stockholder in good faith seeks information bearing upon the protection of his interest and that of other stockholders in the corporation, as distinguished from a purpose to be vexatious, to gratify curiosity, or to use the information obtained for speculation. Sawyers v American Phenolic Corp. 404 Ill 440, 89 NE2d 374, 45 ALR2d 1.

proper title. A title sufficient to comply with the vendor's obligation under contract of sale. 56 Am J1st V & P § 166.

Within the meaning of the Puerto Rican law that allows a ten-year prescription, a "proper" title does not mean a perfect title. If the title is good on its face, and the possessor under it has no notice of any extrinsic defect, it will found a good title in ten years. Fernandez & Bros. v Ayllon Y Ojeda, 266 US 144, 146, 69 L Ed 209, 211, 45 S Ct 52.

See good title; marketable title.

proper tool or implement. For the purposes of an exemption of a debtor, a tool or implement adapted to the trade or business in which he is engaged. Baker v Maxwell, 183 Iowa 1192, 168 NW 160, 2 ALR 814.

property. In a popular sense, a chattel or tract of land. 42 Am J1st Prop § 3. Inclusive of both real estate and personalty. Anno: 115 ALR 553; 57 Am J1st Wills § 1338. Inclusive of both tangibles and intangibles; that which is corporeal and that which is incorporeal. Bouse v Hutzler, 180 Md 682, 26 A2d 767, 141 ALR 843. Strictly, that dominion or indefinite right of user, control, and disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or objects. 42 Am J1st Prop § 2. The right and interest which a man has in lands and chattels to the exclusion of others. Ralston Steel Car Co. v Ralston, 112 Ohio St 306, 147 NE 513, 39 ALR

[1010]

334. The right of a person to possess, use, enjoy, and dispose of a thing. Willcox v Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. 357 Pa 581, 55 A2d 521, 174 ALR 220. The free use, enjoyment, and disposal of a person's acquisitions without control or diminution save by the law of the land. Department of Financial Institutions v General Finance Corp. 227 Ind 373, 86 NE2d 444, 10 ALR2d 436. Not the material object itself, but the right and interest or domination rightfully obtained over such object, with the unrestricted right to its use, enjoyment, and disposition. Howlett v Doglio, 42 Ill 311, 82 NE2d 708, 6 ALR2d 790; Akron v Chapman, 160 Ohio St 382, 116 NE2d 697, 42 ALR2d 1140. A species of title, inchoate or complete, legal or equitable, embracing rights which lie in contract, executory or executed. Smith v United States (US) 10 Pet 326, 9 L Ed 442.

As the term is used in the guarantee of the Fourteenth Amendment:—the right to acquire, possess, and enjoy particular things and objects in any way consistent with the equal rights of others and the just exactions and demands of the state. Wright v Hart, 182 NY 330, 75 NE 404 Ives v South Buffalo R. Co. 201 NY 271, 94 NE 431; all valuable interests which a man may possess outside of himself—outside of his life and liberty—being more than that which a person owns. 16 Am J2d Const L § 364. As the term appears fit constitutional provisions respecting taking of property:—a word of most general import, extending to every species of right and interest, capable of being enjoyed its such, upon which it is practicable to place a money value. 26 Am J2d Em D § 173.

As used fit a statutory provision authorizing a corporation to receive "property" in payment for its stock, the term is not used fit its broad sense which includes anything susceptible of ownership, but is limited to that which may readily be applied to the debts of the corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp § 258.

Property Act. A uniform law drawn primarily to abolish anachronisms in the law of property, to abolish many out of date characteristics which have come down from the early feudal law of England, and which are out of place in the law of today, in effect to make the law a much more modern and effective instrument and to free courts and lawyers of the present from being compelled in cases involving the title to real property, to wander in a labyrinth of ancient learning. Ellingrod v Trombla, 168 Neb 264, 95 NW2d 635.

property covered. Properly within the coverage of an insurance policy; property within the terms of any instrument, particularly an instrument which purports to create a lien.

property damage. A part of the coverage of an automobile liability policy. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 80.

property dividend. A dividend on corporate stock paid in real or personal property. 19 Am J2d Carp § 809.

property held for sale. See sale in ordinary course of business.

property in custodia legis. Property in custody of the law.

See custody of the law.

property in estate in bankruptcy. Inclusive of both legal and equitable interests, embracing everything that has exchangeable value or goes to make up a man's wealth, and every interest or estate which the law regards of sufficient value for judicial recognition. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 848.

property insurance. Insurance in which the risk is that of the loss of property, as from fire, flood, windstorm, etc A contract of insurance whereby the insurer becomes bound, for a consideration in the form of a premium or premiums, to indemnify the insured for actual loss, in whole or in part, not exceeding title to real property, to wander in a labyrinth policy as insured. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 4.

property not administered. See not administered.

property per industriam. A term of art for the qualified right of property acquired in a wild animal by capturing, confining, taming, and domesticating it. 4 Am J2d Ani § 17.

property propter impotentiam. Property by reason of its inability.

The term is applied to that qualified property which a person may have in animals ferae naturae which are too young to stray; such as young conies fit a burrow, or young birds in a nest. State v Theriault, 70 Vt 617, 41 A 1030.

property propter privilegium. Property by reason of privilege.

The term is applied to that qualified property which a person may have in animals ferae naturae, by reason of his exclusive right or privilege of hunting them. See 2 Bl Comm 394.

property ratione impotentiae. Same as property propter impotentiam. property ratione soli. Property by virtue of ownership of the soil, for example, fish in private waters. 4 Am J2d Ani § 18, 35 Am J2d Fish § 3 property rights. Economic interests supported by the law. United States v Willow River Power Co. 324 US 499, 89 L Ed 1101, 65 S Ct 761.

See property.

property settlement. An agreement between husband and wife settling property rights in anticipation of the breaking up of the marital union: (1) determining the rights of the parties in jointly owned property and stating the disposition to be made of it; (2) settling all claims of each spouse in the property of the other and claims of each spouse to title to property held in the name of the other, (3) mutually releasing all past and present claims except as established by the agreement: (4) waiving and releasing all future rights as spouse in the property of each other; (5) surrendering the right of each on the death of the other, including rights of inheritance, homestead, dower, and the right to administer the estate of the other and to have exemptions and allowances from the estate; and (6) agreeing that each will execute all documents necessary or desirable to carry out the purposes of the agreement. Anno: 35 ALR2d 712, § 2: 24 Am J2d Div & S § 883.

property tax. A tax on the ownership of property, without reference to the particular name by which the tax is designated. 51 Am J1st Tax § 29. A tax assessed on all property or on all property of a certain class located within a certain class located within a certain territory on a specified date in proportion to its value, or in accordance with some other reasonable method of apportionment, the obligation to pay which is absolute and is not based upon any voluntary action of the person assessed. 51 Am J1st Tax § 29. A tax on things tangible or intangible, as distinguished from a tax on a right to use or transfer things, or on the proceeds of a business in which the use of things is essential. Anno: 103 ALR 20.

[1011]

Property taxes are not personal debts; they are enforced contributions to the state or taxing unit and unless otherwise provided are collectible only from the property assessed. Maricopa County v Trustees of Arizona Lodge, 52 Ariz 329, 80 P2d 956.

property tort. An unlawful interference by one person with the enjoyment by another of his private property. 52 Am J1st Torts § 40.

propiedad. A term found in Spanish-American grants signifying the right to enjoy and dispose freely of things which are ours, so far as the law forbids not.

Commonly, the dominion which is not accompanied by the usufruct is called "propiedad" or "nuda propiedad," and the dominion which is accompanied by the usufruct is called "plena propiedad." Castillero v United States (US) 2 Black 1, 17 L Ed 360, 400.

Propinquior excludit propinquum; propinquus remotum; et remotus remotiorem. The one who is nearer excludes the one who is near; the near excludes the remote; and the remote excludes the more remote.

propinquity. Relationship; consanguinity. Nearness in point of time or place.

propinquus. A near relative; next of kin; a kinsman.

propios. (Spanish.) Land reserved for public buildings.

When a town was founded in Spanish America, certain portions of ground termed "propios" were laid off and reserved as the inalienable property of the town, for the purpose of erecting public buildings, markets, etc., or to be used in any other way, under the direction of the municipality for the advancement of the revenues or the prosperity of the place. They were not held for specific purposes, but the municipality might convert them to the uses which it should judge most convenient. Strother v Lucas (US) 12 Pet 410, 442, footnote, 9 L Ed 1137, 1150, footnote.

propone. To propound; to proffer; to offer as, to propone a will for probate; to make a motion.

proponent. A party who proposes or who alleges; a person who offers a will for probate; a party who makes a motion.

proportion. A part; a share. Equality between ratios.

See apportionment.

proportional rate. One carrier's part of a through rate over the lines of two or more carriers. Hocking Valley R. Co. v Lackawanna Coal & Lumber Co. (CA4 W Va) 224 F 930.

See pro rata freight charge.

proportional representation. A generic term for various involved systems of voting, similar in essentials, but varying in details, usually having reference in particular to the election of a legislative body, the underlying theory being that the conventional system of election by a majority or plurality of the votes cast does not result in the election of a body as representative of the people as it is possible to obtain by a more scientific system. 26 Am J2d Elect § 273.

See apportionment; Hare system; list system.

proportional system. Taxation at a fixed and uniform rate in proportion to the amount of taxable property based upon a cash valuation. State ex rel. Foot v Bazille, 97 Minn 11, 106 NW 93.

See apportionment; proportional representation. proportionate negligence. Same as comparative negligence.

proportionate recovery clause. Same as pro rata clause.

proportum. Purport; meaning; import; signification.

proposal. An offer. An offer of marriage. The introduction of a measure in a legislative body. An expression of intention. Taylor v Miller, 113 NC 340, 342, 18 SE 504. Precisely, a suggestion to induce negotiations or offers by others. Williston, Contracts 3d ed § 27; Restatement Contracts § 25; 17 Am J2d Contr § 33.

proposition. A proposed law submitted to the voters at an election. The statement on the ballot in submitting a question of a bond issue to the vote of the people at an election. 43 Am J1st Pub Sec § 88. A proposal or offer inviting an acceptance. Perry v Dwelling House Ins. Co. 67 NH 291, 33 A 731. A proposal to a female that she submit to an illicit relation.

proposition of law. A point of law presented in assignments of error or brief on appeal. 5 Am J2d A & E §§ 661, 684 et seq.

Propositum indefinitum aequipollet universali. An indefinite proposition is equivalent to a general one.

propositus. The person proposed; the person from whom all the degrees of relationship are computed in a tree or table of consanguinity. See 2 Bl Comm 203.

Pro possessione praesumitur de jure. A presumption of law arises from possession.

pro possessore. As a possessor.

Pro possessore habetur qui dolo injuriave desiit possidere. A person is deemed to be a possessor who has been dispossessed by fraud or injury.

pro posse suo. According to his own ability.

propound. To propose. To set forth. To offer a will for probate.

propres. See res propria est quae, etc.

propria causa. See in propria causa. propria manu. By his own hand.

Propria manu pro ignorantia literarum signum sanctae crucis expressi et subscripsi. On account of ignorance of letters I have impressed and subscribed the sign of the sacred cross with my own hand. See 2 Bl Comm 305.

propria persona. See in propria persona. propriedad. (Spanish.) Property.

proprietary. Adjective: In the capacity of an owner. Being a proprietor. Noun: A proprietor. An owner. Trustees of New Castle Common v Gordy (Sup) 33 Del Ch 334, 93 A2d 509, 40 ALR2d 544. A certain owner. Ferguson v Arthur, 117 US 482, 487, 29 L Ed 979, 981, 6 S Ct 861.

[1012]

proprietary function. The function of a municipal corporation which it exercises with respect to its private rights as a corporate body. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 114. The function of a municipal corporation in which it acts and contracts for the private advantage of the inhabitants of the city and of the city itself. Omaha Water Co. v Omaha (CA8 Neb) 147 F 1.

proprietary lease. A lease by a co-operative apartment association which carries with it the right to occupy a specific apartment. 15 Am J2d Con Apt § 21.

proprietary medicine. A medicine compounded of various single ingredients. De Forest (US), 13 How 274, 14 L Ed 143. More precisely, a medicine compounded by a manufacturer according to his own formula. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 3.

proprietary powers. The powers of a municipal corporation in exercising proprietary functions, as distinguished from its public or governmental powers. High Point v Duke Power Co. (CA4 NC) 120 F2d 666.

See proprietary function.

proprietas. (Civil law.) Property; that which is peculiarly one's own; ownership.

proprietas nuda. Naked property; property in which the owner has title without the use.

proprietas plena. Full property; that is, property in which the owner has both the title and the use.

Proprietas totius navis carinae causam sequitur. The property in the whole ship follows that of the keel. Glover v Austin, 23 Mass (6 Pick) 209, 220.

Proprietas verborum est salus proprietatum. The propriety or aptness of words is the salvation of property.

proprietate probanda. See de proprietate probanda.

Proprietates verborum observandae sunt. The proprieties of words should be preserved.

proprietor. An owner of premises. An owner of property. Turner v Cross, 83 Tex 218, 18 SW 578. The owner of a business. Cady v Kerr, 11 Wash 2d 1, 118 P2d 182, 137 ALR 713.

proprietor of subject of copyright. The author or one to whom he assigns his right to the work. 18 Am J2d Copyr §§ 28, 32.

propriis manibus. With his own hands.

proprio jure. In his own right.

proprio motu. See ex proprio motu.

proprio nomine. In his own name.

proprios. (Spanish.) Same as propios.

proprio vigore. Of its own force; by its own force; automatically.

proprium. See feudum proprium.

propter. On account of; by reason of; because of; for.

propter adulterium. By reason of adultery.

propter affectum. See challenge propter affectum.

propter commodum curiae. For the convenience or accommodation of the court.

propter consuetudinem. Property by reason of the tendency of a wild animal to come on a person's land. Hannam v Mockett, 2 Barn & C 934, 107 Eng Reprint 629.

propter curam et culturam. For care and cultivation.

propter defectum. For failure of; because of the lack or want of.

See challenge propter defectum.

propter defectum sanguinis. Through failure of blood; that is, through failure of issue.

If the tenant dies without heirs, it is a cause for the escheat of the land to the lord. See 2 BI Comm 245.

propter delictum. On account of a crime, wrong, or fault.

See challenge propter delictum.

propter delictum tenentis. Through the fault of the tenant.

It was a cause for escheat of the land to the lord if the blood of the tenant was attained. He who was attained suffered an extinction of blood as well as he who died without heirs. See 2 BI Comm 245.

propter hoc. On account of this; because of this. Reynold v Texas & P. Railroad Co. 37 La Ann 694.

propter honoris respectum. See challenge propter honoris respectum.

propter impotentiam. On account of inability.

See property propter impotentiam.

propter majorem securitatem. For greater security.

propter nuptias. See donatio propter nuptias.

propter odium delicti. By reason of the wickedness of the offense.

propter privilegium. By reason of his privilege.

A man may have a qualified property in wild animals because of his privilege (propter privilegium). That is, he may have the privilege of hunting and killing them to the exclusion of other persons. See 2 Bl Comm 394.

See property propter privilegium.

propter rem ipsam non habitum. Because he could not recover the thing itself.

propter saevitiam. Because, or by reason of, cruelty.

pro quer. An abbreviation of pro querente.

pro querente. For the plaintiff.

pro rata. In proportion; proportionately according to the share, interest, or liability of each person concerned. Home Ins. Co. v Continental Ins. Co. 180 NY 389, 73 NE 65. in proportion to some rate or standard, fixed in the mind of the person speaking or writing, manifested by the words spoken or written, according to which rate or standard the allowance is to be made or calculated. Rosenberg v Frank, 58 Cal 387, 406.

[1013]

For the meaning of "pro rata" as the term appears in contracts of sale, see Anno: 74 ALR 995.

See apportionment, also terms commencing pro rata; prorating.

pro rata clause. A clause in an insurance policy, otherwise known as a proportionate recovery clause, to the effect that the insurer shall not be liable for any greater proportion of any loss which may occur than the amount named in the policy shall bear to the entire amount of insurance upon the property. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1707. The provision in an automobile liability insurance policy that if the insured has other insurance against a loss covered by the policy, the insurer shall not be liable for a greater proportion of such loss than the applicable limit of liability stated in the policy bears to the total applicable limit of liability of all valid and collectible insurance against such loss. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 200.

pro rata contribution. Contribution between several co-obligors so that no one of them will be compelled to bear the whole, or more than his just share, of the common burden or obligation. 18 Am J2d Contrib §§ 19 et seq.

pro rata distribution. See pro rating claims.

pro rata freight charge. A charge for delivery of shipment short of destination.

Pro rata freight is sometimes allowed a carrier when transportation has been interrupted or delayed by stress of weather or other cause. In such case, if the freighter or his consignee is willing to dispense with the performance of the whole voyage, and voluntarily accept the goods before the end of the voyage, a proportionate amount of freight will be due as freight "pro rata itineris." 13 Am J2d Car § 465; 48 Am J1st Ship § 432.

See proportional rate.

pro rata itineris. See pro rata freight charge.

pro rata itineris peracti. In proportion to the voyage performed.

See pro rata freight charge.

prorate. To divide or distribute proportionately; to assess pro rata. Rosenberg v Frank, 58 Cal 387, 405.

prorating attachments. Placing all attaching creditors on an equality in point of precedence, each one sharing in the property attached in the proportion which his claim bears to the total of claims of attaching creditors. 6 Am J2d Attach § 467.

prorating claims. A distribution of assets to creditors in proportion to the size of their respective claims where there are insufficient assets for payment of all claims in full. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 314. The rule in bankruptcy as between claims of equal standing and priority. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1262.

prorating taxes. A division of the burden of taxes upon real estate as between vendor and purchaser. Thompson v Crams, 294 Ill 270, 128 NE 508, 12 ALR 931.

proration. Apportionment.

See apportionment; pro rata.

proration allowance. The allowance, made an oil producer as his share of the total production of oil within a given area, in the course of limiting production to prevent economic waste. Champlin Refining Co. v Corporation Com. 286 US 210, 76 L Ed 1062, 52 S Ct 559, 86 ALR 403.

proration of production. An economic measure in oil production to avoid a flooding of the market.

The usual type of statute in this field imposes upon a regulatory body the duty of determining from time to time the reasonable market demand for gas and oil, limiting the total production to the amount of demand, and prorating that among the several producers. Thompson v Consolidated Gas Utilities Corp. 300 US 55, 81 L Ed 510, 57 S Ct 364.

proration statute. A statute providing that the amount of estate taxes shall be paid out of the estate before its distribution and shall be equitably prorated among the persons interested in the estate to whom benefit accrues, except as the testator directs otherwise in his will. Anno: 26 ALR2d 927; 37 ALR2d 203.

See proration of production.

pro rege. For the king; for the crown.

pro rege et republica necessarium. Necessary for the king and the commonwealth.

pro re nata. For the occasion as it arises; for the immediate occasion; according to circumstances.

pro retorno habendo. That he have a return.

See judgment pro retorno habendo.

pro rigore justitiae. For greater strictness of justice. Hurtado v California, 110 US 516, 529, 28 L Ed 232, 237, 4 S Ct 11 1, 292.

prorogue. To terminate a legislative session.

pro salute animae. For the welfare of his soul; for the salvation of his soul.

pro salute animae ejus, ecclesiae consilio. For the salvation of his soul, by direction of the church.

pro salute animarum. For the salvation of souls.

proscribed. Forbidden. (Civil law.) Outlawed; sentenced to civil death.

pro se. For one's self. Appearing for one's self in an action or criminal prosecution. 5 Am J2d Appear § 10; 21 Am J2d Crim L § 310.

prosecute. To proceed against judicially. Brooks v Bates, 7 Colo 576, 580. To maintain rather than to commence or begin an action. Anno: 75 ALR 461, 465 et seq. To maintain a criminal proceeding.

prosecuted with effect. A phrase to be found in appeal bonds.

The weight of authority holds that the expression means more than a mere prosecution of the appeal to a final determination and that it requires a final determination in favor of the appellant. But other authorities hold that the phrase merely means a prosecution of the appeal is to be conducted with due diligence to a final determination, whether favorable or unfavorable to the appellant. 5 Am J2d A & E § 1030.

prosecuting attorney. A public officer elected or appointed, as provided by constitution or statute, to conduct suits, generally criminal on behalf of the state in his jurisdiction. 42 Am J1st Pros Atty § 2.

[1014]

Broadly, any attorney at law who represents the state or political body under which a criminal prosecution is waged. The officer attending on grand jurors with matters on which they are to pass, aiding in the examination of witnesses, and giving such general instructions as they may require, but under duty to retire while the jury is deliberating on the evidence or voting on a matter under investigation. 24 Am J1st Grand J § 43.

prosecuting officer. A prosecuting attorney. The sheriff or other peace officer who makes the affidavit or signs the information under which a criminal prosecution is begun.

prosecuting witness. The witness upon whose complaint a prosecution, particularly a prosecution for rape, is begun.

Prosecutio legis est gravis vexatio; executio legis coronat opus. The prosecution of the law is a grave vexation; the execution crowns the work.

prosecution. In the usual sense, a criminal proceeding at the suit of the government. Tennessee v Davis (US) 10 Otto 257, 269, 25 L Ed 648, 652. Broadly, the maintaining of an action or proceeding, whether civil or criminal.

See prosecute.

prosecution of a common purpose. The distinctive element of a joint enterprise. The equivalent of a joint enterprise. Rodgers v Saxton, 305 Pa 479, 158 A 166, 80 ALR 280.

prosecutor. A prosecuting attorney; a prosecuting officer; a prosecuting witness.

The plaintiff or petitioner for a writ of certiorari is called a prosecutor in some jurisdictions. State, Cape May etc., Railway Co. v Cape May, 59 NJL 396, 36 A 696.

prosequi. To follow; to pursue; to prosecute.

See nolle prosequi.

pro socio. For a partner; in behalf of a partner.

pro solido. As a bulk; in bulk.

prospect. Something in anticipation, as the prospect of a crop or of a victim to be fleeced. (Mining law.) An undeveloped mine. See Kelly v Clark, 21 Mont 291.

prospecting. Looking over the field and taking samples for analysis to determine where there is mineral in paying quantities.

Used with reference to annual labor to be expended upon a mining claim, the word is not used in the sense of exploration and discovery, which are necessary before a valid location can be made, but rather in the sense of development and demonstration, that the value of the ledge may be determined, as distinguished from the ascertainment of its existence. Anno: 14 ALR 1465.

prospective. Looking to the future.

prospective damages. Same as future damages.

prospective heir. See heir apparent; heir presumptive.

prospective statement. See promissory representation.

prospective statute. A statute without retrospective effect, having no application to transactions which occurred, or rights which accrued, before it became operative. 50 Am J1st Stat § 476.

prospectus. A brochure describing property offered for sale. 55 Am J1st V & P § 81. A statement giving information respecting securities offered for sale or to be issued. 47 Am J1st Secur A § 8. A proposal upon which negotiations by offer and acceptance may be based. 17 Am J2d Contr § 34. A statement, usually in the form of a printed brochure, of the advantages of taking shares in a corporation to be organized. 18 Am J2d Corp § 332.

prosthetic appliance. A replacement of a missing limb or other part of the body.

prostitute. One who practices prostitution. A whore. Anno: 14 ALR 1502.

See prostitution.

prostitution. The practice of a female in offering her body to indiscriminate sexual intercourse for pay. 42 Am J1st Prost § 1. In a more general sense, the selling of one's self or devoting to infamous purposes that which is in one's power. State v Gardner, 174 Iowa 748, 156 NW 747, overruled on other grounds State v Frey, 206 Iowa 981, 221 NW 445.

pro suo. As his own.

pro tanto. For so much; for as far as it goes; to such an extent.

pro tanto acquittance. A receipt for part of a demand. State v Shelters, 51 Vt 102.

pro tanto ademption. The destruction or alienation of a part of the subject of a legacy or bequest, the remainder still passing to the devisee or legatee. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1581.

pro tanto validation. The validation of an assignment for the benefit of creditors by assent thereto given by only a part of the creditors. Smith v Leavitts, 10 Ala 92.

protect. To cover, shield, or defend against injury, harm or danger of any kind.

As the word is used in a statute giving alien for materials used for the "protection" of machinery in a mill, the furnishing of lubricating oil is not a protection within the meaning of the statute, although it may preserve the machinery and keep it from wearing out. Standard Oil Co. v Lane, 75 Wis 636, 44 NW 644.

protecting commercial paper. Making sure that it is paid. Equitable Trust Co. v First Nat. Bank, 275 US 359, 72 L Ed 313, 48 S Ct 167, 168.

protection personnel. See plant guard.

protection order. An order of court made for the protection of the property of a wife upon her husband's desertion of her.

protection writ. See writ of protection.

Protectio trahit subjectionem, et subjectio protectionem. Protection draws to itself allegiance, and allegiance, protection. United States v Wong Kim Ark, 169 US 649, 655, 42 L Ed 890, 893, 18 S Ct 456.

protective agency. A detective or investigating agency. Burns v Johnson, 174 Tenn 615, 130 SW2d 89, 123A LR 1022. An agency which furnishes protection personnel for industrial plants, mercantile establishments, public institutions, etc.

[1015]

protective devices. See safety appliances.

protective jurisdiction. Jurisdiction to entertain preventive remedies.

See preventive remedies.

protective tariff. A tariff maintained at such a high rate as to discourage importation, thereby relieving an American industry of competition from abroad.

protective theory. A theory sometimes applied in determining the amount of property which can be taken in condemnation proceeding, the theory being that more can be taken than that which is barely necessary, since if the condemner owned the adjacent land, it could sell it under restrictions preserving the beauty of the project, thus facilitating an increase in the value of the surrounding private properties. Cincinnati v Vester (CA6 Ohio) 33 F2d 242, 68 ALR 831, affd 281 US 439, 74 L Ed 950, 50 S Ct 360.

protective trust. Similar to a spendthrift trust, the indenture of trust protecting against alienation and liability for debts of the beneficiary by providing conditions for the termination or forfeiture of the trust estate, by giving the trustee discretion to be exercised in making disbursements to beneficiaries, or by similar devices. 54 Am J1st Trusts §§ 147, 148.

protector. Literally, one who protects, as a king may be a "protector of the faith."

protectorate. Government by a protector. A country which the United States has taken under its protection but not with the intent to assume sovereignty over it. Pearcy v Stranahan, 205 US 257, 51 L Ed 793, 27 S Ct 545.

protectory. An institution for the education and care of destitute or homeless boys, especially those in danger of becoming delinquent. Duggan v Slocum (CC Conn) 83 F 244, 246.

pro tem. Abbreviation of pro tempore.

pro tem. clerk. A person appointed and serving as clerk of court during the absence of the regular clerk, when he is unable or unwilling to attend to the duties of the office, or during such period of time as he may be under disqualification to act. 15 Am J2d Clk Ct § 8.

pro tem. officer. A person serving in an office during the absence of the duly appointed or elected officer.

pro tempore. For the time; temporarily; during the inability or absence of the regular or standing officer. Cutter v Tole, 3 Me 38, 41.

pro tempore judge. A judge selected to act in the absence, disability, or disqualification of the regular judge, or temporarily under other circumstances, as provided by constitution or statute. 30A Am J Rev ed Judges § 237.

pro termino vitarum suarum. For the term of their own lives.

protest. A remonstrance. A technical term for a proceeding to cancel or defeat an entry of public lands. 42 Am J1st Pub L § 31. A notice, preferably in writing, given at the time a payment is paid, to the person who made the demand, that the person making the payment does not acquiesce in the legality of the demand or surrender any right he may have to recover back the money paid. Meyer v Clark (NY) 13 Daly 497, 509. An objection to the payment of a customs duty; a distinct and clear specification of each substantive ground of objection to the payment of the duty. 21 Am J2d Cust D §§ 91 et seq. An objection within limitations of time fixed by law to an administrative rule or regulation. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 288. A formal objection to the proposed action of a city council or other authority in making a local improvement. 48 Am J1st Spec A § 153. The procedure of a taxpayer who questions his liability to the tax assessed against him or the validity of the statutes or proceeding pursuant to which it was assessed, thereby making a basis for the recovery back of the money paid by showing that payment was not voluntary. Jaynes v Heron, 46 NM 431, 130 P2d 29, 142 ALR 1191.

The expression "under protest" has a well-known meaning in the business world and when written upon a receipt imports that the person writing it intends to enforce his rights. The words ordinarily signify that the receipt or objects to receiving the thing in its condition, or under the circumstances, but does so, under compulsion of circumstances, to prevent still further loss, but at the same time retaining all his rights of action against the other party. Anno: 1 ALR 904.

See marine protest; objection; protest of negotiable instrument; remonstrance.

protestando. A notice or statement by which a party to an action preserves his right of disputing the fact protested against, in some other suit or proceeding. State v Beason, 40 NH 367, 372.

Protestants. Christians but not Roman Catholics or members of the Eastern Orthodox Church.

In consequence of the protest against the decree of the Diet of Spires (or Spire or Speiers), held in Germany, under the Emperor Charles V, in 1529, the followers of Luther were denominated Protestants, a general term which was applied alike to all who adopted the principles of the Reformation in opposition to the Catholic Church, and which has continued to the present time. Hale v Everett, 53 NH 9.

protestation. A formal part of a plea in equity, no longer required or in general use, wherein the defendant negated any confession or acknowledgment by him of all or any part of the matters contained in the bill. 27 Am 72d Eq § 207. A manner of pleading whereby the party interposes an oblique allegation or denial of some fact, protesting that such a matter does or does not exist, and at the same time avoiding a direct affirmation or denial, its purpose being to save the party from being concluded as to some fact, which cannot be directly affirmed or denied without falling into duplicity of pleading, and which if he did not thus protest, he might be deemed to have tacitly waived or admitted. See 3 Bl Comm 311.

protest for nonacceptance. See protest of negotiable instrument.

protest of negotiable instrument. The formal certificate, notice, declaration, or memorandum, drawn up and signed by a notary public, that he presented the instrument for acceptance or for payment and that it was refused. In loose usage, an act or series of acts in presenting the instrument for acceptance or payment, noting the fact of dishonor by nonacceptance or nonpayment, and the making of the formal certificate, declaration, memorandum, or notice of protest by the notary. 11 Am J2d B & N § 789.

For contents and formal requisites of protest or certificate thereof, see 11 Am J2d B & N § 798.

[1016]

prothonotary. A clerk of court, particularly a chief or principal clerk. A ministerial officer of the court, having the custody of its records and seals, with power to certify to the correctness of transcripts from such records, and possessing authority to perform certain acts of a judicial nature incidental to his ministerial duties.

pro timore mortis, et recesserunt quam cito potuerunt. In fear of death, and they ran away as quickly as they could. McGrowther's Case, Fost CL 13, 168 Eng Reprint 8.

protocol. A record; a register; a rough or preliminary draft of a contract or a treaty. Ceremonial forms, particularly those governing conduct toward heads of state or their diplomatic representatives.

protocollum. (Civil law.) A memorandum made by a notary of an official transaction.

protocolo. (Spanish.) The original draft of a document which is retained by the notary.

protonotary. Same as prothonotary.

protutor. (Civil law.) A person who acted as a guardian when he was not one, or who was really a guardian and acted as one without knowing it.

prout. According as; as; as charged.

prout eis visum fuerit, ad honorem coronae et utilitatem regni. As it should appear to them to the honor of the crown and the advantage of the kingdom. See 1 Bl Comm 408.

prout moris est. As is the custom, usage, or practice.

prout patet per recordum. As it appears by the record. Philpot v McArthur, 10 Me 127, 134.

provable claim. See provable debt.

provable debt. A debt susceptible of proof against a bankrupt estate. Davis v Aetna Acceptance Co. 293 US 328, 79 L Ed 393, 66 S Ct 151. A claim provable against an estate in bankruptcy within the meaning of § 63 of the Bankruptcy Act (11 USC § 103). 9 Am J2d Bankr § 390.

prove. To establish a fact by the requisite degree of evidence, whether it be an affirmative or a negative, one which the plaintiff must establish as a part of his case or a defense to be established affirmatively by the defendant. People v Winters, 125 Cal 325, 328, 57 P 1067.

proved. See prove; legally proved.

prover. Same as probator.

pro veritate. For the truth; as true.

provided. Upon condition. Clausen v Title Guaranty & Surety Co. 168 App Div 569, 153 NYS 835, affd 222 NY 675, 119 NE 1035. An apt word in the creation of a condition subsequent. 28 Am J2d Est § 144. An apt and appropriate word in the creation of a contingent remainder. 28 Am J2d Est § 265.

It does not always follow that a clause operates as a proviso in a technical sense, merely because it is preceded by the word "provided." Whether it is a proviso in effect, or merely a conjunction equivalent to the word "and" or the word "but," must in part be determined from the context and from all the provisions relating to the same subject matter. Radil v Morris & Co. 103 Neb 84, 170 NW 363, 7 ALR 539, 541.

providentia. (Latin.) Forethought. Divine will.

province. A duty or function. A colony. A political subdivision of Canada comparable to a state in the United States. A region removed from the center of government and culture. The circuit of an archbishop's jurisdiction. 1 Bl Comm 111.

province of court and jury. The separate and distinctive functions characteristic of a system of jurisprudence derived from the common law, the province of the court being to determine and decide questions of law presented at the trial and to state the law to the jury, the province of the jury being to decide or determine the facts of the case from the evidence adduced, in accordance with the instructions given by the court. 53 Am J1st Trial § 156.

provincial constitutions. The decrees of provincial synods, held under the bishops of Canterbury province, from Stephen Langton in the reign of Henry III (1216-1272) to Henry Chichele in the reign of Henry IV (1399-1413), and adopted also by the province of York in the reign of Henry VI (1422-1461). See 1 Bl Comm 83.

provision. See heir of provision; provided; provisions.

provisional. That which is merely temporary, or for the time being, or for the occasion, excluding the idea of permanency. De Haro v United States (US) 5 Wall 599, 18 L Ed 681, 688.

provisional appointment. An appointment to a civil service position made in an emergency where there is no appropriate eligible list for the position, being made in anticipation of an examination, with a view to the appointee's qualifications to serve for the period of an emergency and pending the promulgation of an eligible list. 15 Am J2d Civ S § 25.

provisional assignee. A receiver.

provisional courts. Courts which were established during the Civil War in insurgent territory occupied by national forces, under the authority of the President as Commander-in-chief of those forces. Mechanics' & Traders' Bank v Union Bank of Louisiana (US) 22 Wall 276, 22 L Ed 871.

provisional government. A government temporarily established, in anticipation of, and to exist and continue until, another shall be instituted and organized in its stead. Chambers v Fisk, 22 Tex 504, 535.

provisional injunction. See temporary injunction.

provisional judgment. A judgment to be made absolute on motion, unless cause is shown against judgment. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 119.

provisional order. An order made during the course of an action or proceeding, not constituting a final adjudication. The temporary order of an administrative agency. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 466.

See interim order; interlocutory order.

provisional policy. Same as monthly reporting policy.

provisional receivership. A term sometimes confused with ancillary receivership, but standing for that which is substantially a pendente lite receivership.

See pendente lite receivership.

provisional remedy. A remedy of a party to an action, not intended as a means of reaching a determination and adjudication of the issue or issues, but as a means whereby the party who invokes it successfully prevents the adverse party from taking steps during the course of the action which would thwart the enforcement of a judgment obtained in the action. Not a special proceeding, but a merely collateral proceeding permitted only in connection with a regular action, and as one of its incidents. Snaveley v Abbott Buggy Co. 36 Kan 106, 12 P 522.

[1017]

See attachment; injunction.

provisional revocation. See dependent relative revocation.

provisioe hominis. See ex provisione hominis.

provisioe legis. By provision of law.

provisioe mariti. See ex provisione mariti.

provisioe viri. By provision of the husband.

Provisions of Oxford. Those enactments of the English Parliament passed to prevent Henry the Third from interfering with the enforcement of Magna Charta.

provisions. Food for men or animals. 31 Am J2d Exemp §§ 77-79.

proviso. A clause which imposes a condition.

See provided.

Proviso est providere praesentia et futura, non praeterita. A proviso is to provide for the present and the future, but not for the past.

proviso in statute. A clause in a statute which limits, restrains, or determines in some particular the application of the statute. 50 Am J1st Stat § 435.

In determining whether a given provision in a statute is an exception or a proviso, the true test is to be found, not in whether the qualifying words are prefaced by the term "except" or "provided," but in the nature or meaning of the qualifying words themselves. 50 Am J1st Stat § 430.

A proviso is not always limited in its effect to the part of the enactment with which it is immediately associated; it may apply generally to all cases within the meaning of the language used. McDonald v United States, 279 US 12, 73 L Ed 582, 49 S Ct 218.

provisor. A candidate for a bishopric or a living nominated by the Pope before there was a vacancy. See 4 BI Comm 111.

provocation. A defense in a divorce case based upon physical violence, verbal abuse, or other course of conduct on the part of the plaintiff likely to lead to retaliation by the defendant, thereby inducing the conduct of the defendant complained of as a ground of divorce. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 174. As an element of voluntary manslaughter as distinguished from murder:—an act, the natural tendency of which is to produce passion in ordinary men, and which, the jury are satisfied, did produce it in the case before them. 26 Am J1st Homi § 25.

It is generally agreed that in the determination of whether the provocation is sufficient or reasonable, ordinary human nature, or the average of men recognized as men of fair average mind and disposition, should be taken as the standard, unless, indeed, the person whose guilt is in question is shown to have some peculiar weakness of mind or infirmity of temper, not arising from wickedness of heart or cruelty of disposition. 26 Am J1st Homi § 25.

provoke. To excite; to stimulate; to arouse to make angry. State v Warner, 34 Conn 276, 279.

See provocation.

provoking a difficulty. Making trouble with a purpose.

An assault or the menace of one, by an overt act, with intent to inflict death or great bodily harm in the event it is resisted, made maliciously to bring about that result and enable the provoking party to wreak his vengeance on the assailant, is an "aggression," or "fault," and a "provoking of a difficulty," within the legal sense and meaning of the terms. Foutch v State, 95 Tenn 711, 34 SW 423.

provocative language. See offensive language.

provoked error. See invited error.

provost. The chief executive officer in certain corporations, principally educational institutions.

In Scotland, a magistrate.

provost court. A military court in occupied territory.

provost marshal. An officer of the military in charge of military police or having custody of prisoners.

prox. An abbreviation of proximus.

proximate cause. As an element of tort liability:—that cause, which, in natural and continuous sequence, unbroken by any efficient intervening cause, produces the injury, and without which the result would not have occurred. The primary moving cause, or the predominating cause, from which the injury follows as a natural, direct, and immediate consequence, and without which it would not have occurred. 38 Am J1st Negl § 50. That act or omission which immediately causes or fails to prevent the injury. Stacy v Williams, 253 Ky 353, 60 SW2d 697. The efficient cause; the one that necessarily sets the other cause in motion, and brings about the result without the intervention of any force started and working actively from a new and independent source. 38 Am J1st Negl § 50. Such cause, not necessarily the last cause or the act nearest to the injury, but such act as actually aided in producing the injury as a direct and efficient cause. Milton Bradley Co. v Cooper, 79 Ga App .302, 53 SE2d 761, 11 ALR2d 1019. As element of liability for wrongful death:—an act which produces the injury and death in a natural and continuous sequence, unbroken by any new, independent cause. 22 Am J2d Death § 31.

As an element of recoverable damages in tort cases:—legal cause, something beyond mere cause in fact, something other than a remote cause. That cause which in natural and continuous sequence, unbroken by an efficient intervening cause, has produced the injuries for which damages are sought to be recovered. 22 Am J2d Damg § 20. As an element of damages in contract cases:—a requirement that gives way to the doctrine of foreseeable or anticipated consequences. 22 Am J2d Damg § 20.

Proximate cause has a different meaning in insurance cases than it has in tort cases. In insurance cases the concern is not with the question of culpability or why the injury occurred but only with the nature of the injury and how it happened. If the nearest efficient cause of the loss is one of the perils insured against, the court looks no further. In such cases, the insurer is not relieved from responsibility by showing that the property was brought within the peril insured against by a cause not mentioned in the contract. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1134.

See concurrent cause; contributory cause; efficient cause; immediate cause; natural and probable consequences; primary cause; producing or inducing cause.

[1018]

promixate consequences. See proximate cause; proximate result.

proximate legal cause. See proximate cause.

proximate result. A result traceable directly to an act or omission, without the occurrence of another culpable and efficient agency intervening. McMann v Newark & South Orange Railway Co. 58 NJL 642, 34 A 1052.

See proximate cause.

proximation doctrine. See cy pres; equitable approximation doctrine.

proximity. Nearness in space, time, distance, kinship, etc.

proximo gradu. See in proximo gradu.

proximus. The nearest; the next.

Proximus est cui nemo antecedit; supremus est quem nemo sequitur. He is next whom no one precedes; he is last whom no one follows.

proximus haeres. The nearest heir; the next heir.

proximus sequente. The next following.

prox, seq. An abbreviation of proximus sequence.

proxy. An authorization, usually given in writing, under which one person acts for another. An authority given in writing by the holder of corporate stock to another to exercise the voting rights to which he is entitled as a stockholder. Commissioner of Banks v Cosmopolitan Trust Co. 253 Mass 205, 148 NE 609, 41 ALR 658. An authority given by one delegate to another whereunder the latter votes in place of the other at a political convention. 26 Am J2d Elect § 235. An authority given by a creditor whereunder another votes in the place of him at a creditors' meeting in a proceeding in bankruptcy. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 593. The person who holds an authorization to act in the place of another. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 593; 19 Am J2d Corp §§ 669 et seq.

proxy holder. See proxy.

proxy signature. A signature affixed for another.

prudence. The matter of being prudent.

prudent. Sensible, cautious, exercising judgment.

There may be an infinitesimal shade of difference between "cautious" and "prudent," but a reasonably prudent person and a reasonably cautious person are substantially the same, and possess identical significance for all practical purposes. Certainly, the words "cautious" and "prudent" are used interchangeably in defining negligence. Malcolm v Mooresville Cotton Mills, 191 NC 727, 730, 133 SE 7.

prudent investment theory. The theory, sometimes applied in the earlier days of public utility rate regulation, that a public utility is entitled to a return based only on its actual sacrifice, represented by the amount of capital prudently put into the business. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 105.

See safe investment rule.

prudent man. See the ordinary prudent man.

prudent man rule. The rule that one taking a negotiable instrument from the payee or prior endorsee is put upon inquiry as to infirmity or defect in the instrument by circumstances calculated to arouse the suspicions of a prudent man, so as to be charged with constructive notice of the infirmity or defect by his failure to make inquiry with reasonable diligence. 11 Am J2d B & N § 431.

prudent operator rule. The rule that a stipulation in an oil and gas lease on a royalty basis that development shall be at the discretion of the lessee does not leave development to the uncontrolled will of the lessee, he being required to do by way of development that which a prudent operator would deem just and proper under the circumstances. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 62.

See the ordinary prudent man.

Prudenter agit qui praecepto legis obtemperat. He acts prudently who is obedient to the precept of the law.

p. s. An abbreviation of public statutes; abbreviation of postscript.

pseudo-corporation. An income-tax term for a closely held corporation.

psoriasis. A chronic inflammatory skin disease. Sawyer v Department of Labor & Industries, 48 Wash 2d 761, 296 P2d 706,709.

psychiatric examination. See mental examination.

psychiatrist. A doctor of medicine who specializes in psychiatry.

psychiatry. The practice of medicine in the study and treatment of disorders of the mind.

psychic healer. One who professes to treat disease by the application of forces beyond the physical world. Post v United States (CA5) 135 F 1022.

psychopath. A person afflicted with a psychopathic condition.

See psychopathic; sexual psychopath.

psychopathic. Characterized by emotional instability, impulsiveness of behavior, lack of customary standards of good judgment, or failure to appreciate the consequences of one's act. Ditrich v Brown County, 215 Minn 234, 9 NW2d 510.

See sexual psychopath.

psychopathic personality. See psychopathic; sexual psychopath.

ptomaine poisoning. A stomach disorder caused by the eating of food containing toxic bacilli. Newsoms v Commercial Cas. Ins. Co. 147 Va 471, 137 SE 456, 52 ALR 363.

Pubertas. In the civil law, the age of a child from fourteen years upward. See 4 Bl Comm 22.

Puberty. The age under the common law at which a person may lawfully marry, twelve for girls and at fourteen for boys. See 1 Bl Comm 436.

pubic. Characterizing the lower part of the abdomen, the part covered with hair.

public. Adjective: Belonging to the entire community. Unrestricted in participation. Noun: The people. The populace; the community. "That vast multitude, which includes the ignorant, the unthinking, and the credulous, who, in making purchases, do not stop to analyze, but are governed by appearance and general impressions." J. W. Collins Co. v F. M. Paist Co. (DC Pa) 14 F2d 614.

It is conceded that the public does not mean all the people in the state or in any county or town. The public is a term used to designate individuals in general without restriction or selection. Garkane Power Co. v Public Service Co. 98 Utah 466, 100 P2d 571, 132 ALR 1490.

[1019]

The word sometimes has the meaning of international sometimes national, and sometimes state. See Morgan v Cree, 46 Vt 773.

public accommodation. A place open to serve the public. An inn. A hotel. A restaurant. A place to obtain food and lodging, rather than a place of amusement. 4 Am J2d Amuse § 1.

public accountant. One who furnishes accounting or auditing service on a fee basis, per diem, or otherwise, for more than one employer. Frazer v Shelton, 320 Ill 253, 150 NE 696, 43 ALR 1086.

One who comes into the offices of a company one or two days a month for the purpose of auditing and balancing its books, reconciling its bank account with its books, checking and totaling the bookkeeper's records of the payroll checks, and who also prepares the income tax returns of the company, performs the services of a public accountant rather than those of a bookkeeper. Jaeger Mfg. Co. v Maryland Casualty Co. 231 Iowa 151, 300 NW 680.

See certified public accountant.

public acknowledgment of paternity. Holding a child out to relatives, friends, acquaintances, and the world as one's own. Estate of Jessup, 81 Cal 408, 21 P 976, 22 P 742.

public act. A statute. 16 Am J2d Const L § 588. An act which concerns the whole community. A statute which concerns the whole community, the public at large. An act which applies equally to all persons within the territorial limits of its operation, even though it applies to a particular locality alone. 50 Am J1st Stat § 12. For some purposes, a statute of another state. Anno: 134 ALR 1472.

public adjuster. One whose business is the adjustment of claims for insurance, employed, not regularly for full time by one person or company, but by members of the public, insureds or insurers, as their need of an adjuster arises. Larson v Lesser, (Fla) 106 So 2d 188.

public administrator. A public officer who administers the estates of decedents where no one else qualifies to act as a personal representative. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 61.

public affair. A matter relating to government. State v Mitchell, 210 Wis 381, 245 NW 640, 86 ALR 1361. An assemblage thrown open to the public. An event much talked about. A scandal constituting an item of conversation for many persons.

public aid. See farm aid; railroad aid; welfare.

public aircraft. An aircraft used exclusively in the service of any government or of any political subdivision thereof, including the government of any state, territory, or possession of the United States, or the District of Columbia, but not including any government-owned aircraft engaged in carrying persons or property for commercial purposes. 49 USC § 1301(30).

public alley. A highway, usually a narrow way bisecting a city block, existing through dedication to the public or acquisition by the municipality. 25 Am J1st High § 8.

publican. One who serves food or drink prepared for consumption on the premises. Friend v Childs Dining Room Hall Co. 231 Mass 65, 120 NE 407, 5 ALR 1100. An innkeeper. A saloonkeeper. (Civil law.) A tax collector.

public and domestic tranquillity. Public peace.

The expression means nothing more than the public peace, which is made up of the aggregate of individual peace and domestic peace, and is nothing more than a subdivision of the one and an aggregation of the other. One cannot lawfully disturb the quiet of domestic life by that same kind of offensive and tumultuous carriage which would anywhere constitute a breach of public peace, although no one but the family of which he is a member is present. Anno: 1 ALR 591.

publicanus. (Civil law.) Same as publican.

publication. A newspaper or magazine; a book. Dissemination of information by notice given the public. State, ex rel. Torryson, v Gray, 21 Nev 378, 32 P 190. The issuance of a newspaper or magazine from the place where it has been printed. Re Monrovia Evening Post, 199 Cal 263, 248 P 1017. The composing, printing, issuance, and distribution of a newspaper to its subscribers and the public. Age-Herald Publishing Co. v Huddleston, 207 Ala 40, 92 So 193, 37 ALR 898, 905. The printing of a notice in a newspaper of general circulation and distribution. 39 Am J1st Notice § 30. A means of service of process where authorized by statute. 42 Am J1st Proc §§ 89 et seq. In reference to copyright and the law of literary property, those acts of an author which evidence a dedication of his work to the public and on which depends the loss of his common-law copyright, the acquisition of his statutory copyright, or both. American Visuals Corp. v Holland (CA2 NY) 239 F2d 740. In the law of libel and slander:—the communication of defamation to one or more persons other than the person defamed. 33 Am J1st L & S §§ 90 et seq. In criminal libel, a communication to anyone at all, even to the person defamed. 33 Am J1st L & S § 311.

publication date. The earliest date when copies of the first authorized edition are placed on sale, sold, or publicly distributed by the proprietor of a copyright or under his authority. 17 USC § 26.

publication of forgery. Asserting expressly or impliedly that a forged instrument is genuine. People v Bradford, 84 Cal App 707, 258 P 660.

publication of marriage bans. The announcement made in church of an intended marriage. 35 Am J1st Mar §24.

publication of newspaper. See publication.

publication of process. See service by publication.

publication of summons. See service by publication.

publication of will. The communication by the testator to the attesting witnesses at the time they attest of his intention that the instrument which they are called upon to attest shall take effect as his will. 57 Am J1st Wills § 283.

public attorney. An attorney at law.

public auction. See auction; public sale.

public authority. An agency created for the construction and maintenance of a public work or public improvement, such as a port authority, power authority, etc. In the most general sense, the authority of government, the power of the nation, state, or political subdivision.

[1020]

public benefit. See public use.

public blockade. A naval blockade of a port, established in fact and publicized by notice given to other governments. 56 Am J1st War § 172.

public body. A governmental body. A public corporation.

public bond. A bond issued by a state, municipality, or other public body, usually, although not necessarily, under seal, constituting a promise binding the obligor to pay a sum of money to the holder thereof or to bearer, and, where made payable to order, or to bearer, having all the qualities of commercial paper. 43 Am J1st Pub Sec § 6.

public bonded warehouse. A warehouse bonded for the storage of imported merchandise generally. 19 USC § 1555.

public bridge. A bridge which forms a part of a public highway and which has been erected for the use of the public. First Nat. Bank v Malheur County, 30 Or 420, 45 P 781.

public building. A building owned by a public body, particularly if it is used for public offices or for other public purpose. Anne: 19 ALR 543.

See public improvement.

public business. The business affairs of the government. The business of a public body. The business of a public service corporation in its relations with the public. Minnesota Canal & Power Co. v Pratt, 101 Minn 197, 112 NW 395.

public calamity. See calamity.

public carrier. A common carrier. A carrier which holds itself out in its dealings and course of business with the public as being ready and willing for hire to perform the services rendered by it and within the field of its operations for the public generally. State v Washington Tug & Barge Co. 140 Wash 613, 250 P 49.

See common carrier.

public cemetery. A cemetery available for use by the general community, a neighborhood, or a church, the characteristic being public use rather than title to the ground. 14 Am J2d Cem § 2.

public character. Same as public personage.

public charge. A person who cannot support himself, has no means of support, has no one to furnish him support, and accordingly must look to a public body or public welfare agency for his maintenance and care. Ex parte Fragoso (DC Cal) 11 F2d 988.

public charity. Any real charity, the word "charity" implying public interest or welfare. 15 Am J2d Char § 6. A charity for the benefit of an indefinite number of persons. 51 Am J1st Tax § 601.

public college or university. A college or university founded or taken over and supported by the state or a political subdivision thereof.

The fact that a college or university founded by the state is given or accepts donations from private persons does not alter the nature of its foundation or change the character of the corporation. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 2.

public contract. A contract for the construction of a public improvement or for the furnishing of supplies to a public body. 43 Am J1st Pub Wks § 10.

public contractor's bond. See contractor's bond.

public convenience. That which is fitted or suited to the public need. Milwaukee Co. of Jehovah's Witnesses v Mullen, 214 Or 281, 330 P2d 5, 74 ALR2d 347, app dismd and cert den 359 US 436, 3 L Ed 2d 932, 79 S Ct 940 (zoning ordinance.)

See public necessity and convenience.

public conveyance. A vehicle used for carrying passengers for compensation. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 35. A conveyance the proprietor of which makes a public offer of conveyance at a fixed fare to all persons. Stanley v American Motorists Ins. Co. 195 Md 180, 73 A2d 1, 30 ALR2d 268; Anderson v Fidelity & Casualty Co. 228 NY 475, 127 NE 584, 9 ALR 1544, 1550. In one sense, a vehicle, such as a passenger elevator, which is open for service to the public, even without payment of a fare. Davis v Colorado Sav. Bank, 78 Colo 509, 242 P 985.

Contract carriers who may not be compelled to become common carriers but who may be subjected to many of the same regulatory requirements as common carriers may be within the term "public or livery conveyances." Stanley v American Motorists Ins. Co. 195 Md 180, 72 A2d 1, 30 ALR2d 268.

public corporation. A municipal or political corporation. A corporation with political powers. Phillips v Baltimore, 110 Md 431, 72 A 902. A corporation created for public purposes only, connected with the administration of the government, the interests and franchises of which are the exclusive property and domain of the government itself. Dartmouth College v Woodward (US) 4 Wheat 518, 4 L Ed 629.

A corporation may have a double aspect according to the nature of the powers granted and exercised. If they were granted and exercised for public purposes exclusively, they belong to the corporate body in its public, political, or municipal character. If the grant was for purposes of private advantage and emolument, though the public may derive a common benefit therefrom, the corporation, quoad hoc, is to be regarded as a private company. 18 Am J2d Corp § 8.

public credit. The value of a thing, the worth of a performance, in the opinion of the public.

See seals of public credit.

public dance. A dance to which the public is admitted, and which is held for profit, direct or indirect. 4 Am J2d Amuse § 3. A place of amusement. 4 Am J2d Amuse § 1.

public danger. See public peril.

public debt. In a narrow sense, national or state obligations; in a broader sense, national obligations, state obligations, county obligations, town obligations, in fact the obligations of any public body. 43 Am J1st Pub Sec § 3.

public debtor. Broadly, the nation, a state, county, town, municipal corporation, or political subdivision obligated under outstanding indebtedness. A municipal corporation, school district, local improvement district, county, or other political subdivision eligible for relief by the composition of its indebtedness under provisions of the Bankruptcy Act. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1416.

public decency. See disorderly conduct; indecency; obscenity.

public defender. An attorney at law appointed to aid indigent persons accused of crime, becoming in the individual case in which he acts counsel for the accused to the same extent as if retained by the accused regularly and for all purposes of the case. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 323.

[1021]

public depository. A bank or other institution authorized to receive deposits of public moneys. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v Kansas, 81 Kan 660, 106 P 1040.

public disorder. See disorderly conduct; insurrection; riot.

public dispensary. A liquor store conducted by the state or municipality. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 204.

public dock. See public wharf.

public documents. Official papers. Documents on file in a public office. All publications printed by order of Congress, or either house thereof. McCall v United States, 1 Dak 307, 314.

public domain. The public lands of the United States or of a state. Barker v Harvey, 181 US 481, 490, 45 L Ed 963, 968, 21 S Ct 690; People v Shearer, 30 Cal 645, 658. Literary, musical, or dramatic compositions so dedicated to the public as not to be subject to copyright. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 42. A device or process so well known and in such common use as not to be patentable. 40 Am J1st Pat § 25.

public duty. A duty owed the public, whether by a public officer or employee or by one who comes in contact with the public.
See governmental functions.

public easement. A public right of way. 25 Am J2d Ease § 7. The right of the public to use a highway; an easement which embraces every reasonable and proper use of the way in the transportation of persons or property not prohibited by law. 25 Am J1st High § 166.

public eating house. A restaurant. 29 Am J Rev ed Innk § 9.

public emergency. An unusual exigency bearing directly upon the public welfare, the determination of which is primarily a legislative function. 16 Am J2d Const L §§ 270, 300. Any emergency so affecting the public health and safety that summary relief by restriction of the offending thing is necessary. 39 Am J1st Nuis § 187.

public employee. A federal or state employee. An employee of any public body. Inclusive of public officer only by express stipulation or where such construction is the only reasonable one under the circumstances. Anno: 5 ALR2d 415.

public enemy. A nation with which the country is at war or a subject or citizen of a nation with which the country is at war. A pirate on the high seas. 14 Am J2d Car § 523.

public escheator. A public officer or public body upon whom rests the duty of bringing actions for escheat or for a sale or conveyance of escheated property. 27 Am J2d Esch § 32.

public exigency. A sudden and unexpected happening, an unforeseen occurrence or condition, a perplexing contingency or complication of circumstances, or a sudden or unexpected occasion for action. Good Roads Machinery Co. v United States (DC Mass) 19 F Supp 652. An occurrence which bears directly upon the public welfare.

See public emergency.

public flag. See flag.

public footway. A footway in public use, independent of a highway.

public fund. Money belonging to the United States, an agency of the United States, a state or subdivision thereof, or a municipal corporation. Smyer v United States, 273 US 333, 71 L Ed 667, 47 S Ct 375; Pinal County v Hammons, 36 Ariz 36, 243 P 919; Beckner v Commonwealth, 174 Va 454, 5 SE2d 525. Money raised by the operation of law for the support of the government or the discharge of its obligation. 42 Am J1st Pub F § 2.

public garage. An automobile repair place or business open for service to the public generally; a garage which accepts cars for parking or storage. 24 Am J1st Garag § 2.

As used in a restrictive covenant the term has been given various meanings. According to some interpretations, it is restricted to places for the storage of automobiles. According to others, it includes every phase of the business, including storing, hiring, sales, servicing, and repairs. Anno: 54 ALR 666; 99 ALR 543.

public grant. A conveyance or grant of land by the United States or a state.

public ground. Ground in which the general public has a common use; streets, alleys, commons, and the like. Patrick v Young Men's Christian Asso. 120 Mich 185, 191.

public health. See health and expressions beginning "health."

Public Health Service. A federal agency of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

public hearing. A hearing or investigation by an administrative agency which is open to the public. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 229.
See public trial.

public highway. A way for the use of the public; a highway. For the purposes of an accident insurance policy which contains a provision for compensation for injuries received on a public highway:—any way used by the public in going from one place to another, such as a platform at a railroad depot used by the public for the purpose of going to and from trains. Rudd v Great Eastern Casualty & Indem. Co. 114 Minn 512, 131 NW 633.

public hospital. A hospital open to the public generally for the rendition of its services, especially where operated without purpose of financial gain, albeit charges are made for its services. Hibbing v Commissioner, 217 Minn 528, 14 NW2d 923, 156 ALR 1294.

public house. An inn, hotel, or other place of public accommodation. A restaurant. 29 Am J Rev ed Innk § 9. A house commonly open to the public, either for business, pleasure, religious worship, the gratification of curiosity, or the like, and including all houses made public by the occupation of them, as taverns or inns, or in any other way. Cole v State, 28 Tex App 536, 13 SW 859.

public housing. Housing provided by public funds in slum clearance and the construction of low-cost housing in the interest of people of limited means. 42 Am J1st Pub H L § 1.

Public Housing Administration. A federal agency assisting local housing authorities in building low-rental public housing for low-income families, making contributions and making or backing up loans to finance such housing.

public ignominy. Infamy, reproach, dishonor. Public hatred or detestation. Mahanke v Cleland, 76 Iowa 401, 405. Public disgrace; public dishonor. Brown v Kingsley, 38 Iowa 220, 221.

[1022]

publici juris. Of public right.

public improvement. Things planned, established, or constructed by public bodies for the use of the public, such as a library, schoolhouse, park, etc. 43 Am J1st Pub Wks § 2. Original construction or substantial reconstruction, as distinguished from repair. Hazard v Main Street Realty Co. (Ky) 262 SW2d 87, 41 ALR2d 609.

As used in connection with municipal government, the term must be taken as applying to those improvements which are the proper subject of police and municipal regulation—such as gas, water, almshouses, hospitals, etc.,—and cannot be extended to subjects foreign to the object of incorporation, and beyond its territorial limits. Low v Marysville, 5 Cal 214, 215.

See public works.

public indebtedness. See public debt.

public institution. One which is created and exists by law or public authority, such as an asylum, charity, college, university, hospital, schoolhouse, etc. Henderson v Shreveport Gas, Electric Light & Power Co. 134 La 39, 63 So 616.

public interest. Matters of general right or interest, such as state or municipal boundaries, the existence or location of a highway, the existence of a private right or privilege in public land, and so forth. 29 Am J2d Ev § 506. Something more than an interest on the part of many members of the public, each from the standpoint of an individual. Anno: 132 ALR 1188.

public international law. The law of nations, being that law which regulates the political intercourse of nations with each other or concerns questions of rights between nations. 16 Am J2d Confl L § 1.

publicist. A writer, particularly a writer on political and international law subjects. 30 Am J Rev ed Internal L § 2. A publicity agent.

publicity. See publication.

public land. Land of the United States or a state, particularly land open to public sale or other disposition under general laws. 42 Am J1st Pub L § 13. A term of varying senses, depending largely on the context in which it appears and the special circumstances of the case. Kindred v Union Pacific R. Co. 225 US 582, 56 L Ed 1216, 32 S Ct 780.

public-land-grant rates. See land-grant rates.

public land survey. See governmental survey.

public laundry. A laundry which distributes the products of its work to the public. Van Zandt's Inc. v Department of Labor, 129 Misc 747, 222 NYS 450.

public lavatory. A lavatory maintained by the municipality or other public body for public use, often with direct access from street or public way.

public law. The part of the law which is concerned with the state in its sovereign capacity, including international law and criminal law. A statute which concerns the public, as distinguished from a private act.

public laws. Statutes.

See public law.

public liability insurance. Insurance protecting the insured against liability to a member or members of the public.

See automobile liability insurance; liability insurance; premises liability insurance.

public library. A general library for the use of inhabitants of a city, village, or political subdivision. A charitable purpose. 15 Am J2d Char § 47.

public market. A place designated by municipal authority for the sale of articles necessary or convenient for the subsistence of men and domestic animals. 35 Am J1st Mark & M § 2. Any market open to the public.

"It may well be doubted whether the term 'public market' is one which is known to our law. Markets overt, such as exist in England, are unknown here; nor is it usual in this country to grant to private parties the franchise or liberty of keeping or holding a fair or market, as is done in England. Our statute authorizes municipal corporations to establish markets and market houses, and to provide for the regulation and use thereof. But we are not aware that any class of markets in this country, not established by municipal authority, or by virtue of a market franchise granted by the state, has been held, merely because of the magnitude of the business carried on therein, to be impressed with a public use, so as to be held by the courts to be public markets, in that sense." American Livestock Com. Co. v Chicago Live Stock Exchange, 143 Ill 210, 32 NE 274.

See market.

public mill. A water, steam, wind, or other mill whose owner or tenant grinds or offers to grind, grain for toll or pay. Howard Mills Co. v Schwartz Lumber & Coal Co. 77 Kan 599, 95 P 559.

public minister. A diplomatic representative serving his government in a foreign country. 4 Am J2d Ambss § 1. A member of the cabinet and head of a department of government in Great Britain.

public money. See public fund.

public necessity. An exigency or expediency which justifies the taking of property for a public use. 26 Am J2d Em D §§ 111 et seq.

See public use.

public necessity and convenience. Need for the services of a carrier to operate upon the highway sufficient to justify the public authority in granting franchise, license, or permission for operation. 13 Am J2d Car § 82. Ground for the improvement of a highway, existing in use by the public rather than for the benefit of one or a few individuals. 25 Am J1st High § 60. The convenience of the public prompting state or municipality in authorizing special, permissive, or incidental use of a highway, always in subordination to the use of the way for travel and transportation. 25 Am J1st High §§ 168 et seq.

The public necessity, which is a statutory condition precedent in many states to the granting of a franchise to a public service corporation, does not mean indispensable to the public. An urgency less pressing will suffice. The expression means a public need without which the public is inconvenienced to the extent of being handicapped in the pursuit of business or wholesome pleasure, or both-without which people generally of the community are denied, to their detriment, that which is enjoyed by other people generally, similarly situated. Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Co. v State, 126 Okla 48, 258 P 874.

See certificate of public necessity and convenience.

[1023]

public note. A note for money borrowed by a public body, usually payable and issued to a single investor and maturing at a date earlier than a bond issue. 43 Am J1st Pub Sec § 11.

public notice. A notice given to the public either by posting the notice in a public place or by its publication in a newspaper.

public nuisance. A violation of a public right, either by a direct encroachment upon a public right or property or by doing some act which tends to a common injury, or by omitting to do some act which the common good requires, and which it is the duty of a person to do, which results in injury to the public. A common nuisance, that is, the doing of, or the failure to do, something that injuriously affects the safety, health, or morals of the public, or works some substantial annoyance, inconvenience, or injury to the public. 39 Am J1st Nuis § 8. A condition of things which is prejudicial to the health, comfort, safety, property, sense of decency or morals of the citizens at large, resulting either from an act not warranted by law, or from neglect of a duty imposed by law. Nuchols v Commonwealth, 312 Ky 171, 226 SW2d 796, 13 ALR2d 1478.

public offenses. Actions or omissions in violation of law for which punishment is provided by law. State ex rel. Streit v Justice Court, 45 Mont 375, 123 P 405. All crimes and misdemeanors, not merely those constituting breaches of the peace. Oleson v Pincock, 68 Utah 507, 251 P 23.

public office. A term of vague and variant import, the meaning of which varies necessarily with the context and the circumstances surrounding the use of the term. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 2. A public agency or trust created in the interest and for the benefit of the people. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 8. An office the duties of which partake in some degree of the sovereign powers of the state or are imposed upon the incumbent by authority of the law. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 4. An office the duties of which are not merely clerical or those only of an agent or employee but are performed in the execution or administration of the law. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 4.

public officer. An incumbent of a public office invested with certain powers and charged with certain duties pertinent to sovereignty. State ex rel. Newman v Skinner, 128 Ohio St 325, 191 NE 127, 93 ALR 331. Such an officer as is required by law to be elected or appointed, who has a designation or title given him by law, and who exercises functions concerning the public, assigned to him by law. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 2.

See de facto public officer; de jure officer.

public park. See park.

public parking. See parking lot.

public passage. A public way over land or water.

public peace. That invisible sense of security, which every man feels so necessary to his comfort, and for which all governments are instituted. State v Benedict, 11 Vt 236.

See public and domestic tranquillity.

public performance. See performance; performance for profit.

public peril. A term pertinent to a discussion of workmen's compensation, referring to a peril to which the public is exposed rather than a peril peculiar to the employment. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 257.

See public emergency.

public personage. A person who, by his accomplishments, fame, or mode of life, or by adopting a profession or calling which gives the public a legitimate interest in his doings, has rendered his affairs and his character matters of public interest, thereby relinquishing at least a part of his right of privacy. 41 Am J1st Priv § 18.

public place. A place commonly open to the general public. Pugh v State, 55 Tex Crim 462, 117 SW 817. A place where the public resorts. Armstrong v New La Paz Gold Mining Co. (CA9 Cal) 107 F2d 453. Within a requirement as to the posting of notices: -a place to which the public resorts, so that a notice in such a place may be expected to be seen by persons who are interested in or affected by the subject of the notice. Anno: 2 ALR 1008; 30A Am J Rev ed Jud S § 52. Within the meaning of statutes defining the criminal offense of exposure of person:—a place where acts performed are likely to be seen by a number of casual observers, for example, a public highway or bus. 33 Am J1st Lewd etc § 7.

public policy. The policy of the law; the policy in relation to the administration of the law. Practically synonymous with public good or public welfare. National Bank of Commerce v Greenberg, 195 Tenn 217, 258 SW2d 765, 38 ALR2d 1337. The policy of promoting the public welfare and opposing that which is at war with society and in conflict with the moral principles of the period. 17 Am J2d Contr § 175. The protection and promotion of public welfare, including public health and morality. Hanks v McDanell, 307 Ky 243, 210 SW2d 784, 17 ALR2d 1. That principle of law which holds that no subject or citizen can lawfully do that which has a tendency to be injurious to the public or against the public good. Consumers' Oil Co. v Nunnemaker, 142 Ind 560, 41 NE 1048. A will-o'-the-wisp of the law which varies and changes with the interests, habits, needs, sentiments, and fashions of the day. Wallihan v Hughes, 196 Va 117, 82 SE2d 553. Not a matter of principle to be laid down by the court, although the court may be called upon to determine what the public policy is in a particular respect, as for example, where it must determine whether a contract is or is not invalid because it is contrary to good public policy. 20 Am J2d Cts § 64.

public port. A complex subject, consisting of something that is natural, as a convenient access from the sea, a safe situation against winds, and a shore upon which vessels may well unlade; something that is artificial, as keys, wharves, and warehouses; and something that is civil, as privileges and regulations given to it by the government.

It often includes more than the bare place where ships may lade or unlade; it is sometimes extended many miles, including several places as members of the port; designating one as a port of entry and another as a port of delivery. Wharf Case (Md) 3 Bland 361, 369.

public proceedings. The proceedings of an administrative board.

See public hearing.

public property. Property owned by the government or a governmental body. Property owned by the public as such in a governmental capacity. 42 Am J1st Prop § 12. Property belonging to the state or a political subdivision thereof, such as a county, city, town, and the like, used exclusively for a public purpose. Anoka County v St. Paul, 194 Minn 554, 261 NW 588, 99 ALR 1157 (tax exemption).

[1024]

See public land.

public prosecutor. See prosecuting attorney; prosecuting officer.

public purpose. A classification distinguishing objectives for which the government is to provide from those which are left to private inclination, interest, or liberality. The support of government, or a recognized object of government, or promotion of the welfare of the community. 51 Am J1st Tax § 326.

To conserve and develop water resources, for domestic use, for irrigation, and for power and light, are all common public purposes or uses. Gallardo v Porto Rico Railway, Light & Power Co. (CA1 Puerto Rico) 18 172d 918.

A use of public property for any public purpose, to warrant exemption from taxation, must be an exclusive use by the public, open to all the people on a basis of equality to such extent as the capacity of the property admits, or an exclusive use by some public or quasi-public agency on behalf of the public. Cleveland v Board of Tax Appeals, 153 Ohio St 97, 91 NE2d 480, 16 ALR2d 1354.

See public use.

public record. A record required by law to be kept, or necessary to be kept, in the discharge of a duty imposed by law, or directed by law to serve as a memorial and evidence of something written, said, or done. 45 Am J1st Reeds § 2. Inclusive of a legislative, judicial, or executive record. 45 Am J1st Reeds § 3. Inclusive of a record of title. 45 Am J1st Reeds § 4.

public relations. A term of frequent usage in modern times, often over-worked, concerned with informing the public of activities and creating favorable public opinion, whether such is sought by a public body, a charitable organization, a corporation, or business enterprise.

public relief. See relief; welfare.

public report. See report; repute.

public revenue. See taxation.

public river. A navigable river.

public road. A way open to all the people, without distinction, for passage and repassage at their pleasure. Sumner County v Interurban Transportation Co. 141 Tenn 493, 213 SW 412, 5 ALR 765, Same as a highway.

public room. A room in an inn or hotel, such as the lobby, to which guests or visitors are admitted indiscriminately.

public sale. A sale at auction to the highest bidder at which the public is given the opportunity to bid. Offredy v Huhla, 135 Conn 20, 60 A2d 779, 4 ALR2d 572. A sale at auction, made upon notice or invitation to the public so that the public be given the opportunity to engage in competitive bidding, and held at a place to which the public have access. 30A Am J Rev ed Jud S § 67.

See auction.

public school. A primary, elementary, intermediate, grammar, or high school, organized and maintained as an institution of the state or a political subdivision of the state, and open to all on equal terms. Yanow v 7 Oaks Park, Inc. 11 NJL 341, 94 A2d 482, 36 ALR2d 639.

public seal. See official seal.

public securities. The bonds issued by a state, municipal corporation, or other public body. In a broader sense, including United States bonds, but usually referring to state and local obligations.

public service. Service rendered as a public officer or employee; service rendered in any capacity for or on behalf of the government, national, state, or local. Utility service, such as the furnishing of gas or electricity. The public service that may entitle certain individuals, including private corporations, to privileges and immunities not enjoyed by the public generally, is a public service that carries with it some measure of public control and supervision; and the right of public control and authority must precede or accompany the grant of the privilege, and be so much a part of it that the privilege cannot be exercised without incurring the responsibility and liability that attaches to the performances of public duties. The beneficiary of the grant must be, in some degree, the servant of the public, and subject to the control and authority of some public agency. This is the test to which the right to the enjoyment of special privileges by individuals and private corporations must be subjected, and by this standard their right to privileges and immunities not allowed to the general public must be adjudged. Louisville Railway Co. v Louisville Fire & Life Protective Asso. 151 Ky 644, 152 SW 799.

public service commission. A state agency to which the state or state legislature has delegated the power to regulate public utilities. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 193.

public service company. See public service corporation; public utility.

public service corporation. A quasi-public corporation, operating for the purpose of supplying gas or electricity to users, carrying passengers or freight, or otherwise as a public utility. 18 Am J2d Corp § 9.

See public utility.

public sewer. See sewer.

public square. See square.

public statute. See public act.

public stocks. Government or municipal bonds or obligations; public securities.

public store. Any premises owned or leased by the, government and used for the storage of merchandise for the final release of which from customs custody a permit has not been issued. 19 USC § 1561.

public streams. Same as navigable waters.

public swearing. Profane swearing, or cursing, or taking the name of God in vain, in the presence and hearing of other persons and in a public place. Commonwealth v Linn, 158 Pa 22, 27 A 843.

public tax. A general federal, state, or municipal tax. J. W. Perry Co. v Norfolk, 220 US 472, 55 L Ed 548, 31 S Ct 465. A tax for a general public purpose, as distinguished from an assessment to obtain funds to expend for a purpose of special or particular benefit to the property of the taxpayer. Schulz v Dixon County, 134 Neb 549, 279 NW 179, 119 ALR 1294.

public toilet. A toilet maintained by the municipality or other public body for public use, often with direct access from street or public way.

public track. A railroad track whereon cars are placed for loading or unloading by shippers or consignees of carload lots. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v Crawford, 244 Miss 300, 140 So 2d 90, 143 So 2d 427.

[1025]

A comparatively short railroad track connecting an industry with the main line of a railroad, used principally by the industry but open to other shippers. Wolfard v Fisher, 48 Or 479, 84 P 850, 87 P 530.

public transportation. Service in transportation of passengers or freight for hire, available to the public, and rendered without discrimination. Rutledge Co-op. Asso. v Baughman, 153 Md 297, 138 A 29, 56 ALR 1042.

public trial. A trial which is not secret; a trial open for attendance by the public, except as a limitation upon number attending, imposed without partiality or favoritism, is necessary to prevent overcrowding or disorder or to obtain the testimony of a witness emotionally disturbed. People v Jelke, 308 NY 56, 123 NE2d 769, 48 ALR2d 1425; State v Hensley, 75 Ohio St 255, 79 NE 462.

See open court.

public trust. A charitable trust. A public office.

See charitable trust.

publicum jus. (Civil law.) Public law.

public urinal. See public toilet.

public use. The use of premises by the public at large, that is, the general, unorganized public, rather than by one person, a limited number of persons, or a restricted group. 23 Am J2d Ded § 5. In patent law, a use in public as distinguished from a secret or experimental use. Electric Storage Battery Co. v Shimadzu, 307 US 5, 83 L Ed 1071, 59 S Ct 675, reh den. 307 US 650, 83 L Ed 1529, 59 S Ct 675.

For the purpose of exercise of the power of eminent domain, a matter of public employment or public advantage dependent upon the view taken in the particular jurisdiction involved. Employment or use by the public involving a right on the part of the public, or some portion of it, or some public or quasi-public agency on behalf of the public; to use the property after it is condemned. From the opposite standpoint, public advantage, convenience, or benefit, anything which tends to enlarge the resources, increase the industrial energies, and promote the productive power of any considerable number of the inhabitants of a section of the state, or which leads to the growth of towns and the creation of new resources for the employment of capital and labor, thereby contributing to the general welfare and prosperity of the whole community. 26 Am J2d Em D § 27.

It is a well-established doctrine that, where the owner of property has devoted it to a use in which the public has an interest, he in effect, grants to the public an interest in such use, and must, to the extent of that interest, submit to be controlled by the public for the common good, so long as such use is maintained. People v Steele, 231 Ill 340, 83 NE 236.

See more necessary public use; public purpose.

public utilities commission. Same as public service commission.

public utility. That which is of use and of service to the public. A corporation or business rendering, and devoting its property to, a public use or service. Nevada-California Power Co. v Borland, 76 Cal App 519, 245 P 209. That which serves, or stands ready to serve, an indefinite public which has a legal right to demand and receive its services or commodities. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 2. Including every common carrier, gas, electric, telephone, telegraph, water, and heat corporation, and warehousemen, where the service is performed for, or the commodity delivered to, the public generally. Garkane Power Co. v Public Service Com. 98 Utah 466, 100 P2d 571, 132 ALR 1490.

public utility franchise. See franchise.

public verdict. A verdict delivered by the jury in open court. 53 Am J1st Tr § 1010.

public vessel. A vessel of the government or of a foreign government. The Navemar, 303 US 68, 82 L Ed 667, 58 S Ct 432; 2 Am J2d Adm § 120.

Public Vessels Act. A federal statute which provides that a libel in personam may be brought against the United States in admiralty, or the United States may be impleaded in admiralty, for damages caused by a public vessel of the United States, and for compensation for towage and salvage service, including contract salvage, rendered to a public vessel of the United States. 46 USC § 781; 2 Am J2d Adm § 120.

public war. Any contention by force between two nations, in external matters, under the authority of their respective governments. 56 Am J1st War § 2.

public warehouseman. The proprietor of a warehouse the services of which are offered on a compensated basis to the public without discrimination. A warehouseman subject to regulation by the government as performing a function of interest to the public. 56 Am J1st Wareh § 4.

public waters. Navigable waters.

public way. A highway.

public weigher. A public officer, weighing grain or other commodities at terminal elevators or other public warehouses. 56 Am J1st Wareh § 18.

public welfare. A variety of interests, spiritual, monetary, physical and aesthetic. The primary social interests of safety, order, and morals. That condition of the public in which it best enjoys the advantages of life as offered by nature to which man must and has oriented himself. 16 Am J2d Const L § 307.

See general welfare.

public wharf. A wharf open to public use in the docking of vessels and the loading and unloading of cargo.

Whether a wharf or landing is public or private depends on the ownership of the soil, the purposes for which it was built, the authority by which it was erected, the uses to which it has been applied, and the nature and character of the structure. If the land on which it is constructed is vested in the public, or if built by public authority on land condemned, or if it be at the terminus of a public highway, and practically forms a part thereof, or has been dedicated by the owner to the use of the public, it may be regarded as a public wharf or landing. See 56 Am J1st Whar § 3.

public works. All works of a fixed nature, such as highways, canals, waterworks, docks, etc., constructed by public bodies for public use, protection, or enjoyment. 43 Am J1st Pub Wks § 2.

See public contract; public improvements.

public worship. Church services. Worship conducted by religious societies constituted according to their own notions of ecclesiastical authority and ritual propriety, opening their places of worship and admitting to their religious services such persons and upon such terms and subject to such regulations as they may choose to designate and establish.

[1026]

public writings. The acts of public functionaries, in the executive, legislative, and judicial departments of government, including the transactions which official persons are required to enter in books or registers, in the course of their public duties, and which occur within the circle of their own personal knowledge and observation. (Greenleaf on Evidence, section 470.)

See public record.

public wrongs. Crimes and misdemeanors, breaches and violations of the public rights and duties, due to the whole community, considered as a community, in its social aggregate capacity. Anno: 23 ALR 529.

publish. To make or effect a publication. To give publicity.

See publication.

publisher. A person who publishes or makes anything known. One whose business is the publishing of a newspaper or periodical.

See publication.

pubendum. The external female genitals. The vulva. State v Wisdom, 122 Or 148, 257 P 826.

pudicity. Chastity; personal purity.

pueblo. A large structure made of stone or adobe, housing a village of Southwestern Indians living on a communal basis. United States v Chavez, 290 US 357, 78 L Ed 360, 54 S Ct 217.

In its original signification, the term means people or population, but it is used in the sense of the English word "town." It has the indefiniteness of that term, and like it, is sometimes applied to a mere collection of individuals residing at a particular place, a settlement or village, as well as to a regularly organized municipality. Trenouth v San Francisco, 100 US 251, 25 L Ed 626.

Pueblo dwellers. Indians of the southwest, sedentary rather than nomadic in inclination, and disposed to peace and industry. United States v Chavez, 290 US 357, 78 L Ed 360, 54 S Ct 217.

See pueblo.

pueblo right. The right of a pueblo under Mexican law to the use of so much of the waters of a stream flowing through it as is necessary for municipal purposes and for the supply of its inhabitants; a right superior to those of riparian proprietors which prevails in modern times in favor of cities which are the successors of the Mexican pueblos. 56 Am J1st Watwk § 45.

puer. (Civil law.) A boy; a child; an unmarried man.

puerility. (Civil law.) The condition of boys from the ages of seven to fourteen, inclusive, and that of girls from the ages of seven to twelve, inclusive.

Pueri sunt de sanguine parentum, sed pater et mater non sunt de sanguine puerorum. Children are of the blood of the parents, but the father and the mother are not of the blood of the children.

pueritia. (Civil law.) The age of childhood; that is, from seven to fourteen years. See 4 Bl Comm 22.

puerperal. The condition of a woman in the labor of child birth. Relating to childbirth.

puerperal insanity. A form of insanity arising from some peculiar transitional condition of the system. Leache v State, 22 Tex Crim 279.

Puerto Rico. An island lying between the Atlantic Ocean on the north and the Caribbean Sea on the south; a free commonwealth associated with the United States under an act of Congress approved by President Truman, July 3, 1952.

pues. Same as pals.

puffer. One who exaggerates, especially in respect of the quality of goods offered for sale by him. A fictitious bidder at an auction, engaged as such by the person conducting the sale. 7 Am J2d Auct § 26.

See puffing.

puffing. The talk of a seller or trader in expounding the merits of his property, so much to be expected of him as not to amount to fraud. Curby v Mastenbrook, 288 Mich 676, 286 NW 123, or a warranty. 46 Am J1st Sales § 326. Making fictitious bids at an auction sale, under employment by the seller or proprietor of the sale, to increase the competition among bidders, thereby enhancing the price at which a bona fide bidder purchases, the fictitious bidder being protected by an understanding with the seller or proprietor of the sale that he shall not be bound by his bids. 7 Am J2d Auct § 26; 30 Am J2d Exec § 365; 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 380; 30A Am J Rev ed Jud S § 97.

pug. A small dog with a snub nose. Slang for pugilist.

pugilist. One who has made an occupation out of boxing or prize fighting.

puis darrein continuance. See plea puis darrein continuance.

puisne. Younger; junior in point of time, right, or rank.

See mulier puisne.

puisne judge. An associate judge.

puis que. After that.

puissance. Power; authority.

pulley. A mechanical contrivance of rope or cable running over a grooved wheel, convenient in lifting weights in its most simple state and a means of increasing the effect of applied power when employed in combinations. A machine for tariff purposes. Nord Light, Inc. v United States, 49 Cast & Pat App 12.

Pullman. See sleeping car company.

Pullman porter. An employee of a sleeping car company who serves passengers as an attendant.

pulmonary embolism. The plugging up of an artery in a lung by a blood clot. Anno: 20 ALR 81.

puncheon. A punch. A tool used by counterfeiters for stamping out counterfeit coins. Ridgeley's Case (Eng) 1 East PC 171. A barrel or cask. A short post.

punctuation. The use of certain marks, such as a comma, colon, semicolon, bracket or parenthesis, in a sentence to give it clarity. A minor, not a decisive or controlling, element in the construction of a statute. 50 Am J1st Stat § 253. Not of controlling significance in the construction of a will. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1155. Subordinate to the text in the construction of a contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 279.

[1027]

punctum temporis. A point of time; a moment; an instant.

pundbrech. Same as pound breach.

punish. To impose punishment. To impose and inflict a penalty. Bradley v State ex rel. Hill, 111 Ga 168, 36 SE 630.
See punishment.

punishable. Liable to punishment.

Where statute makes an offense "punishable" in a certain manner, the use of the word is held to make it a matter of discretion as to whether or not the court will impose the designated punishment. Ex parte Mills, 135 US 263, 34 L Ed 107, 10 S Ct 762.

punishment. Physical or mental distress inflicted. The penalty for a transgression of the law. Orme v Rogers, 52 Ariz 502, 260 P 199. The suffering or confinement inflicted on a person by authority of law and the judgment or sentence of a court for some crime or offense committed by him. Washington v Dowling, 92 Fla 601, 109 So 588. Synonymous with "penalty," "liability," and "forfeiture," as such terms are used in penal provisions. United States v Reisinger, 128 US 398, 32 L Ed 480, 9 S Ct 99.

punitive damages. Damages which are allowed as an enhancement of compensatory damages because of the wanton, reckless, malicious, or oppressive character of the acts of which the plaintiff complains. 22 Am J2d Damg § 236. Damages awarded to punish the defendant for a wilful act and to vindicate the rights of a party in substitution for personal revenge, thus safeguarding the public peace. Winkler v Hartford Acci. & Indem. Co. 66 NJ Super 22, 168 A2d 418.

punitive statute. A statute which creates a forfeiture or imposes a penalty. Peterson v Ball, 211 Cal 461, 296 P 291, 74 ALR 187.

punitory damages. Same as punitive damages.

pupil. One in attendance to receive instruction at a private or public school. (Civil law.) A minor; a ward under guardianship.

pupil assignment laws. The laws governing the assignment of students to the public schools, particularly in reference to the elimination of race segregation. 15 Am J2d Civ R § 42.

pupillaris substitutio. (Civil law.) Pupillary substitution, which consists in a father or paternal grandfather nominating an heir for an impubescent child immediately subject to his paternal power, in the event that such child should die after his father or grandfather, in his impubescence. A testament which one makes for his impubescent child, because his child, while impubescent, cannot testamentate.—Mackeldey's Roman Law § 721.

pupillarity. The age of a child's puerility; minority.

Pupillus pati posse non intelligitur. A ward or minor is not considered as being able to suffer prejudice.

pur. For; during; by.

pur autre vie. For the life of another.

See estate pur autre vie.

pur cause de vicinage. See common because of vicinage.

pur ceo que. Forasmuch as; inasmuch as.

purchase. To acquire title otherwise than by descent. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 2. To acquire title by the voluntary act of another. For the purposes of recording laws, a purchaser acquiring legal title, or, under some statutes, a person acquiring an equitable title, even a mortgagee. 45 Am J1st Reeds § 147. To take as owner, mortgagee, or pledgee. Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act § 58. Including a taking by sale, discount, negotiation, mortgage, pledge, lien, issue or reissue, gift, or any other voluntary transaction creating an interest in property. UCC § 1-201 (32).

See buyer; words of purchase.

purchase money. Money paid by the purchaser upon a purchase or in satisfaction of a debt to the seller or vendor created by the purchase. Austin v Underwood, 37 Ill 438.

purchase-money judgment. A judgment for purchase money due the vendor or seller entered after the conveyance of title to the purchaser. Coke's Appeal, 23 Pa 186.

purchase-money mortgage. A mortgage executed to secure the purchase money or a part thereof by a purchaser of property, contemporaneously with the acquisition of the title thereto, or afterward, but as a part of the same transaction. 36 Am J1st Mtg § 15.

purchase-money paper. A note or draft given the vendor or seller in payment of the purchase price of real or personal property purchased by the maker.

See purchase-money mortgage.

purchase on margin. See marginal purchase.

purchase option rider. Same as guaranteed insurability rider.

purchase price. See price; purchase money; total contract price.

purchaser. A person who takes by purchase. UCC § 1-201(33).

See buyer; purchase.

purchaser for value. A purchaser under a contract based upon a valuable consideration. 17 Am J2d Contr § 85.

A person who acquires property in consideration of the complete satisfaction and discharge of an antecedent debt is a purchaser for value, according to the weight of numerical authority. Noe v Smith, 67 Okla 211, 169 P 1109.

purchaser in bad faith. An inexact terminology for a purchaser who does not qualify as a bona fide purchaser because of notice of defects in title and outstanding equities. Forbes v First Nat. Bank, 21 Okla 206, 95 P 785.

purchaser in good faith. See bona fide purchaser.

purchaser of note or bill. Either an indorsee, assignee, or transferee of a bill or note.

purchaser pendente lite. See pendente lite purchaser.

purchaser's risk. See buyer's risk.

purchaser without notice. See bona fide purchaser.

purchasing agent. An agent whose duties consist in purchasing supplies and materials needed in the operation of an industrial plant. Not a managing agent within the meaning of a statute concerning the service of process upon a foreign corporation. Anne: 113 ALR 78.

[1028]

pure accident. An accident involving two or more persons but no negligence or fault on the part of any one of them. 38 Am J1st Negl § 6.

pure and wholesome water. Water reasonably clean and free from dirt, discoloration, and odor, and reasonably free from bacteria and coli, or any other infection and contamination rendering the water unfit for domestic use and unsafe and dangerous to individuals. 56 Am J1st Watwk § 75.

pure bill of discovery. A bill wherein the only relief sought is a discovery, no demand being made for the recovery of damages or the accomplishment of anything other than a disclosure by the defendant. 23 Am J2d Dep § 141.

pure bill of review. A bill of review in equity to obtain a review and reversal of the decree for error apparent, that is, error or defect on the face of the proceeding. 27 Am J2d Eq § 257.

pure-blooded livestock. See purebred livestock.

purebred livestock. Livestock of one breed only, so kept over years and generations by careful selection of sires and dams for mating.

pure chance. A happening by the hand of fate alone, without control or direction.

pure chance doctrine. The principle followed, particularly in England and Canada that a lottery is characterized by winning or losing entirely by chance; that there is no lottery where merit or skill play any part in determining the distribution to be made. 34 Am J1st Lot § 6.

pure charity. An undertaking for a charitable purpose only. The relief of poverty, advancement of education, advancement of religion, promotion of health, the obtaining of good government, and the accomplishment of that which is beneficial to the community in any other respect. 15 Am J2d Char § 57.

pure democracy. A form of government under which the laws are made, not by elected representatives of the people, but by the people in assembly.

pure endowment insurance. See endowment insurance.

pure food laws. Statutes intended primarily to protect the public from fraud in the sale of food and to secure the general health. 35 Am J2d Food § 2.

See Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

purely. Completely; closely; unqualifiedly. White v Smith, 189 Pa 222, 42 A 125.

purely public charity. See pure charity.

pure obligation. An obligation with respect to which no condition precedent remains which has not been performed.

pure plea. An affirmative plea in equity, consisting entirely of new matter in defense. 27 Am J2d Eq § 204.

pure tax. An obligation, which is not a debt, imposed on property or persons alike for the support of the government or other public purpose. Dressman v Farmers' & Traders' National Bank, 100 Ky 571, 38 SW 1052.

pure villeinage. Same as purum villenagium. purgation. Getting rid of the undesirable. Elimination of contents of stomach or bowels. Cleansing.

purgation by oath. The ancient practice whereby the defendant cleared himself of a criminal charge by a denial of it under oath or by the aid of compurgators who swore to his innocence. The filing in a contempt proceeding of a verified categorical denial of a charge of criminal contempt, thereby disposing of the case in contempt, but leaving the accused punishable for perjury in the event his oath is false. Osborne v Purdome (Me) 244 SW2d 1005, 29 ALR2d 1141, cert den 343 US 953, 96 L Ed 1354, 72 S Ct 1046, reh den 343 US 988, 96 L Ed 1375, 72 S Ct 1072.

purgatory. A state of suffering after this life, in which those souls are for a time detained who depart this life, after their deadly sins have been remitted as to the stain and guilt, and as to the everlasting pain that was due to them, but who have, on account of those sins, still some debt of temporal punishment to pay; as also those souls which leave this world guilty only of venial sins.

In purgatory these souls are purified and rendered fit to enter into heaven, where nothing defiled enters. (Catholic Belief, Lambert.) Harrison v Brophy, 59 Kan 1, 51 P 883.

purge by the hot iron. See ordeal.

purge by water. See ordeal.

purge of wrong. An adequate and effective renunciation and repudiation by a person of his prior unconscionable or wrongful conduct. Dickerson v Murfield, 173 Or 662, 147 P2d 194. The assumption of responsibility for a tortious act committed by another person.

purgery. A room in which hogsheads full of sugar are placed in a standing or upright position for the purpose of being drained of the molasses contained in the sugar. V. & A. Meyer & Co. v Queen Ins. Co. 41 La Ann 1000, 6 So 899.

purging contempt. To free one's self from guilt of contempt of court.

See purgation by oath.

purging tort. See purge of wrong.

purging usury. Removing the taint of usury, as by abandoning the usurious agreement and the execution of a new obligation for the amount of the actual debt, free from the usury, and bearing legal interest. 55 Am J1st Usury § 97.

purlieu. Land which was near a royal forest and which had previously formed a part of the forest itself.

purloin. To pilfer; to steal; to filch.

pur moyen. By means of.

purpart. That part of an estate, which, having been held in common, is by partition allotted to anyone of the parties to it. Seiders v Giles, 141 Pa 93, 101, 21 A 514.

purparty. Same as purpart.

purport. That which appears on the face of an instrument. The United States v Turner (US) 7 Pet 132, 136, 8 L Ed 633, 635. The apparent, but not necessarily the legal, import of the instrument. Lacy v State, 33 Okla 161, 242 P 296.

purport clause. A clause in an indictment, setting forth the substance of a written instrument, not purporting to give the precise terms. 27 Am J1st Indict § 85.

purpose. An aim. A design or plan. An intention.

[1029]

purposely. Intentionally; designedly. Fahnestock v State, 23 Ind 231, 262.

purpose of legislative bill. The general intent of the bill, not the details through and by which such intent is manifested and effectuated. Allied Mut. Ins. Co. v Bell, 353 Mo 891, 185 SW2d 4, 158 ALR 415.

purpose of statute. The object, aim, design, or motive of the statute; the end in view. 50 Am J1st Stat § 303.

purposes of corporation. See corporate purposes.

purpresture. An obstruction of or encroachment on a highway, made without right or proper authorization. 25 Am J1st High § 273. A structure obstructing a navigable water. 56 Am J1st Whar § 10. An encroachment on or appropriation of lands or waters which are common or public. People ex rel. McCormick v Western Cold Storage Co. 287 Ill 612, 123 NE 43, 11 ALR 437. Sometimes known as "pourpresture."

purprisum. An enclosure; a close.

purq. Same as purquoi.

purquoi. Wherefore; why.

purse. A pocket book. The handbag of a woman. Something valuable offered by way of a prize for the winner of a contest. Stone v Clay (CA7 Ill) 61 F 889, 890 (horserace). A wager if the person offering it stands a chance of winning it back in competition. 24 Am J1st gaming § 100.

purser. An officer of a ship, particularly a ship carrying passengers, in charge of the accounts of the vessel and transactions with passengers. A ship's officer who represents the owners of the vessel as their fiscal agent. Spinette v Atlas Steamship Co. (NY) 14 Hun 100, 105. Not a "clerk" within the meaning of a bequest to clerks. Anno: 38 ALR 789, 790.

purse snatching. A form of larceny. 32 Am J1st Larc § 44.

pursuant to. Acting or done in consequence or in prosecution (of anything); hence, agreeable; conformable; following; according. Old Colony Trust Co. v Commissioner, 301 US 379, 81 L Ed 1169, 57 S Ct 813.

pursue. To follow for the purpose of overtaking. To cause a person's prosecution for crime; to prosecute. To follow as a profession or occupation.

pursuer. The complainant in a suit in the ecclesiastical courts.

The plaintiff is so designated in the law courts of Scotland.

See pursue.

pursuit. A following after one for the purpose of overtaking him. Engaging in something as a profession, an occupation, or a recreation. Cook v Massey, 38 Idaho 264, 220 P 1088, 35 ALR 200, 206.

See fresh pursuit.

pursuit of happiness. See life, liberty, and pursuit of happiness.

pursuit of principal debtor. The taking of measures for the collection of a debt from the principal debtor before seeking payment by the guarantor. 24 Am J1st Guar § 108.

pur tant que. Because; forasmuch as.

purum villenagium. Absolute or pure villeinage, wherein the service was base in its nature and uncertain as to time and quantity. See 2 Bl Comm 62.

purus. Pure; clear; absolute.

purus idiota. An absolute idiot. See 1 Bl Comm 303.

purveyance. An ancient prerogative of the English crown in making purchases of provisions and necessities.

It was regulated by Magna Charta and later abolished altogether. By virtue of it, the crown enjoyed the right of buying up provisions and other necessities for the use of the royal household at an appraised valuation, and in preference to all others, even without the consent of the owner. Re Barre Water Co. 62 Vt 27, 20 A 107.

purveyance and pre-emption. The royal prerogative often referred to as purveyance. See 1 Bl Comm 287.

purveyor. A provider; a royal officer who purchased articles for the king at his own price.

purview. The subject matter of a statute in contradistinction to the other parts of it, such as the preamble, the saving, and the proviso. The San Pedro (US) 2 Wheat 132, 4 L Ed 202. All that portion of a statute following the preamble—the whole scope of the enactment. McNeeley v South Penn Oil Co. 52 W Va 616, 44 SE 508.

pus. Suppuration from an infection.

See puis.

push car. A small vehicle propelled by manpower, frequently used in handling baggage at air and railway terminals.

put. An option to sell, particularly corporate stock, securities, or commodities, at a stipulated price, on or before a specific future date or within a specified future period of time, such as 30, 60, or 90 days. An option of the class of future contracts in which one of the parties has a right to insist on compliance with the terms of the contract, or to cancel the contract, at his election. More precisely, the privilege of delivering or not delivering things sold. Anno: 83 ALR 573; 36 ALR2d 1397.

putative. Reputed; supposed; assumed; believed.

putative father. The man charged as the father of an illegitimate child.

putative marriage. A marriage which, although invalid on account of some impediment, is nevertheless contracted in good faith by both or one of the parties. 35 Am J1st Mar § 52.

put in fear. Intimidated.

When a robbery is alleged to have been committed by putting in fear, this does not imply any great degree of terror or fright in the victim. It is sufficient if so much force or threatening by word or gesture, be used as might create an apprehension of danger; or induce a man to part with his property without, or against, his consent. See 4 Bl Comm 243.

put in issue. To raise an issue by the denial of an allegation or the allegations of one's adversary.

To put an alleged fact or matter in issue is to plead by way of plea or answer in such manner as to show that the said fact or matter is in issue, and, if the statute requires, to verify such plea or answer. Johnson v Greenen, 98 Ind App 612, 188 NE 796.

put in suit. To bring an action upon; to sue upon; as, to put a promissory note in suit.

[1030]

put in ure. To put into use or practice.

put out of court. The status of the case after a decision which is final for the purpose of appeal, that is, a decision which places it beyond the power of the court, after expiration of the term, to place the parties back in their original condition. 4 Am J2d A & E § 56. Having sustained the direction of a verdict unfavorable to one's case.

puts. Options.

See put.

putting witnesses under the rule. Excluding subpoenaed or proposed witnesses from the courtroom during the examination of a witness. 53 Am J1st Tr § 31.

put to answer. Held for trial on a criminal charge.

put to a right. Having a mere right to property, without either possession or even the right of possession. 2 Bl Comm 197.

put upon. To submit to trial.

puy. Same as puis.

puz. Same as puis.

puzzle. A difficult problem. A toy which presents a problem, such as a jigsaw picture, the solution of which requires ingenuity. White v Aronson, 313 US 16, 82 L Ed 20, 58 S Ct 95.

puzzle contest. A contest in the working of a puzzle, a prize being awarded to the winner, the question whether such constitutes a lottery being best determined according to whether or not the prize is won by chance or by skill. 34 Am J1st Lot § 12.

pyelogram. An X-ray picture taken with the use of an injected solution necessary to make a picture. Klein v Yellow Cab Co. (DC Ohio) 7 FRD 169.

pykerie. Same as pickery.

pyramiding. Building up to a peak. Merging corporations in a complex form with a holding corporation at the top. Controlling prices in a stock or commodity market by a series of operations.

Pyramiding occurs when a producer authorizes several persons to sell the same coal, and they may in turn offer it for sale to other dealers. In consequence the coal competes with itself, thereby resulting in abnormal and destructive competition which depresses the market price for all coals in the market. Appalachian Coals v United States, 288 US 344, 77 L Ed 825, 53 S Ct 471.

pyromania. An uncontrollable passion or mania for burning buildings. Smith v Commonwealth, 62 Ky (1 Duv) 224, 231, overrd on other grounds Shannahan v Commonwealth, 71 Ky (8 Bush) 463.

pyx. A receptacle in a mint where sample coins are placed for testing.

pyx-jury. A jury composed of goldsmiths, formed to test the English coinage.

Q

Q. B. An abbreviation of Queen's Bench.

Q. C. An abbreviation of Queen's Counsel.

q. c. f. An abbreviation of quare clausum fregit.

q'd. An abbreviation of quod.

qua. As; in what manner; how; in the office's role, or capacity of; as, qua guardian, qua executor.

quack. One who pretends to have more knowledge or skill in a science or profession, especially medicine, than he possesses in fact. An ignorant or fraudulent pretender to medical skill. Brinkley v Fishbein (CA5 Tex) 110 F2d 62. An incompetent physician. Burk v Foster, 114 Ky 20, 69 SW 1096.

quack medicine. A remedy of specific the composition of which is kept secret, and which is sold to be used by the purchaser without the advice of a regular or licensed physician. Kohler Mfg. Co. v Beeshore (CA3 Pa) 59 F 572, 574.

qua cunque via data. Whichever way it is considered. Westcott v Cady (NY) 5 Johns Ch 334.

