Deviation by a ship is a voluntary departure, without necessity or reasonable cause, from the regular and usual or agreed course of a voyage. It may consist also in other departures from the agreed or customary route or method of transportation, such as taking another vessel in tow, shipping by a vessel other than the one specified in the contract of affreightment, shipping part of the way by rail when all water carriage was stipulated, or carrying the goods beyond the delivery point. Whether there has been a deviation or not, upon given facts, is a question of law for the court to determine. 48 Am J1st Ship 393. The term "deviation" in a marine insurance policy means a voluntary departure without necessity or justifiable cause, from the regular and usual course of the voyage. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1000.

See involuntary deviation.

device. Something ingeniously conceived and skil-fully made, especially something whereby to work a trick or perpetrate a fraud. Armour Parking Co. v United States, 209 US 56, 71, 52 L Ed 681, 690, 28 S Ct 428. A distinguishing mark, as upon an election ballot: an emblem, a symbol, such as "O.K." State ex rel. Baxter v Ellis, 111 NC 124, 15 SE 938. A placard, a banner, or a sign, displayed and maintained by strikers near the employer's place of business for the purpose of deferring workmen from entering the place or remaining at work. Arthur v Oakes (CA7 Wis) 63 F 310. As the term is used in connection with patents it means a thing devised or formed by design,—a contrivance, an invention. Bliss Co. v United States, 248 US 37, 43, 63 L Ed 112, 116, 39 S Ct 42.

See gambling device; safety device.

de vicineto. From the particular neighborhood, as distinguished from the county at large. See 3 Bl Comm 360.

See also de corpore comitatus.

devier. To swerve; to deviate.

devil. A term of the printing trade of an older day for boy in the shop who ran errands and did odd jobs.

"It sometimes happens that a junior barrister will be given work which a brother barrister, through press of business, is unable to do. Where a barrister obliges a friend in this way he is said to "devil" for him. Formerly the "devil" got no fee, but at the present day it is usual for him to receive [in the Chancery Division, but not seemingly in the King's Bench Division] half the fee marked on his friend's brief." Marston Garcia, A New Guide to the Bar (6th Ed. 1928) p. 124.

de vi laica amovenda. For removing the force of the laity,—a writ which lay to prevent laymen from giving aid by force to a clergyman in his strife with another one for possession of a church.

devilish character. An eccentric, roguish, quarrel some, or even a mean person, but not an insane person. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 35.

de viridi et venatione. Of vert and venison. The court of attachments, a forest court, was held before the verderers of the forest once in every forty days to inquire into all offenses against vert (the greensward where the deer fed) and venison (the killing of deer). See Bl Comm 71.

devisa. A boundary.

devisavit vel non. The issue which arises upon the contest of a will. 57 Am J1st Wills § 774. An issue of fact as to whether a will in question was made by the testator as his own responsible act. Asay v Hooper, 5 Pa 21. 25.

devise. A testamentary gift of real estate. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1399. Sometimes used loosely to include a testamentary gift of either personalty or real estate, but by the weight of authority, when used in a statute, the word is to be given its technical meaning and is held to apply only to real property, unless it clearly appears that the intention of the legislature was otherwise. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1400. The meaning restricted to real estate, however, will not prevail against language in the will which indicates the testator's intention to include personal property despite his use of the term "devise." 57 Am J1st Wills § 1400. Although in their technical sense the words "devise" and "bequest" are generally applied to the testamentary disposition of real and personal property respectively, a nonlapse statute providing that the lineal descendants of a "devisee" shall take the estates given by the will "in the same manner as the devisee would have done had he survived the testor" will be interpreted as including bequests of personalty as well as devises of realty where the legislature has in other statutes used the terms in a non-technical sense, where the evident legislative intent is to carry out the will of the testator, and where an intent to dispose of realty and personalty on the same basis appears in the will. Hoellinger v Molzhon, 77 ND 108, 41 NW2d 217, 19 ALR2d 1147.

[346]

devise and bequeath. Words which in their ordinary legal meaning, also in common usage, refer to real as well as personal property. Caracci v Lillard, 7 Ill 2d 382, 130 NE2d 514, 53 ALR2d 1053.

devise and grant. Apt words of conveyance in creating a covenant to stand seised. 28 Am J2d Est § 347.

devisee. The beneficiary named in a devise which in the best legal sense is a testamentary gift of real estate.

See devise; residuary devisee.

devisor. A testator who makes a devise by his will.

devoir. Duties; customs.

devolution. The transfer of property from one person to another by operation of law.

See clause of devolution.

devolve. To roll or tumble down or descend; to be transmitted by a course of events, or by operation of law; to transfer from one person to another; to pass by transmission to another; to pass by operation of law upon the death of the owner. Fitzpatrick v McAlister, 121 Okla 83, 248 P 569.

An estate "devolves" upon another when by operation of law, and without any act of the previous owner, it passes from one person to another; but it does not devolve from one person to another as the result of some positive act or agreement between them. Francisco v Aguirre, 94 Cal 180, 185, 29 P 495.

devyer. Same as devier.

de warrantia chartae. A writ of warranty of charter.

de warrantia diei. A writ of warranty of day, under which a man might save himself from suffering a default by reason of his absence in the service of the king.

d'execution. See droit d'execution.

d. h. An abbreviation of the word "deadhead."

See deadhead; deadhead message.

diabetes. A disease having various types but in its most common form characterized by excessive sugar in the blood and urine. Duggan v McBreen, 78 Iowa 591, 593. Usually responding favorably to treatment with insulin.

diagnosis. Etymologically and in its general interpretation, the word signifies a discrimination, a passing of judgment as to physical conditions. Baker v State, 91 Tex Crim 521, 240 SW 924, 22 ALR 1163, 1166. It is an analysis by a physician of the trouble of his patient. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 92. The professional opinion of a physician based on his examination.

diagram. An illustrative outline of a tract of land, or something else capable of linear projection, which is not necessarily intended to be perfectly correct and accurate. At best, it is but an approximation. It is a common and usual method of pointing out localities and lines. Shook v Pate, 50 Ala 91, 92.

diarium. Sufficient food for one day.

diatim. From day to day; daily.

dicasts. Athenian judges who were chosen by lot and who passed upon questions of both law and fact.

dice. Small cubes of bone or plastic, convenient for tossing, marked in the sides by spots in varying numbers running from one to six, used in games of chance by gamblers. Loaded dice.

See cogging.

Dicebatur fregisse juramentum regis juratum. He was said to have broken the sworn oath of a king See 1 Bl Comm 268.

dicere et non dare legem. To expound, but not to make the law. The Curtis, The Camden & The Welcome, 37 F 705.

dicing. The gambling game of throwing dice.

di colonna. A contract under which the owner of a ship and everyone connected with the ship are entitled to share in the profits of the voyage.

dict. An abbreviated form of dictum. An abbreviation of "dictionary."

dicta. Plural of dictum. Often referred to as obiter dicta or obiter, being expressions in an opinion of the court which are not necessary to support the decision. Lawson v United States, 85 App DC 167, 176 F2d 49, cert den 339 US 934, 94 L Ed 1352, 70 S Ct 663, reh den 339 US 972, 94 L Ed 1379, 70 S Ct 994. Language unnecessary to a decision; ruling on an issue not raised, or the opinion of a judge which does not embody the resolution or determination of the court, and made without argument or full consideration of the point. Lawson v United States, 85 App DC 167, 176 F2d 49; 20 Am J2d Cts § 74.

Stare decisis does not attach to such parts of the opinion of a court as are mere dicta. Of course, if nothing can be found in point except dicta, counsel does not hesitate to cite the case which contains it. There is, moreover, a distinction between mere obiter and judicial dicta. The latter term applies to expressions of opinion on a point deliberately passed upon by the court. 20 Am J2d Cts § 74. Judicial dicta, as such, is sometimes given effect as holdings. 20 Am J2d Cts § 190.

While mere obiter is not law of the case, judicial dicta are not excluding from the applicability of the doctrine of the law of the case. 5 Am J2d A & E § 753.

dictate. To pronounce, word by word, what is designed to be written by another. Hamilton v Hamilton (La) 6 Mart NS 143, 146. To give orders with authority.

dictator. An absolute ruler, answerable to no other power or authority.

dictionary. Dictionaries do not give to words their meaning; they only chronicle that which has been done, and the use must precede the chronicling. State v Olson, 26 ND 304, 144 NW 661.

ditto majoris partis. See ex ditto majoris partis.

dictores. Arbitrators.

dictum. An expression in an opinion which is not necessary to support the decision reached by the court. Parker v Stonehouse Drainage Dist: 152 Kan 188, 102 P 1017. A statement in an opinion with respect to a matter which is not an issue necessary for decision. Tillinghast v Maggs, 82 RI 478, 111 A2d 713, 52 ALR2d 1004. A writ employed to obtain the correction of a record on appeal. 4 Am J2d A & E § 478.

[347]

The plural of dictum is dicta. For effect of dictum as precedent or law of the case. See dicta.

dictum of Kenilworth. A compromise of their differences between Henry the Third and Parliament in 1266.

dictus. See alias dictus.

did then and there. Familiar words in alleging time and place of the commission of an offense. 26 Am J1st Homi §§ 267 et seq.; 27 Am J1st Indict § 70.

die. To lose one's life. This does not necessarily import that death must result from an accident or that it must occur in some unforeseen manner. Hershey v Agnew, 83 Colo 89, 262 P 526.

Diebus Dominicis mercari, judicari vel jurari non debet. On the Sabbath there ought not to be any trading, any giving judgment, nor any holding of court. A maxim of the civil law. Richardson v Goddard (US) 23 How 28, 16 L Ed 412, 417.

die by his own hand. Die by suicide. Unless the words are qualified by some other expression, they import a criminal act of self destruction. Hence they do not include a case of suicide while insane. Breasted v Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. 8 NY 299.

die by suicide. Die by his own hand. A self-killing by an insane person, understanding the physical nature and consequences of his act, but not its moral aspect, is not a death by suicide within the meaning of the phrase. Manhattan Life Ins. Co. v Broughton, 109 US 121, 131, 27 L Ed 878, 882, 3 S Ct 99.

died by his own hand. See die by his own hand; death by his own hand.

diei dictio. A notice given by a Roman magistrate of his intention to impeach a citizen upon a certain day.

Diem clausit extremum. He closed his last day; that is, he died,—a writ by which the heir of a deceased tenant in capite compelled the escheator to ascertain what land should escheat to the king.

dies. A day.

dies ad quem. The day to which.

dies amoris. A day of grace, favor, or indulgence.

dies a quo. The day from which; the day from which or upon which a period of time begins to run. 52 Am J1st Time § 17.

dies communes in banco. Common days in banc,—fixed days for appearance in court.

dies consilii. A day set for an argument or hearing.

dies datus. A given day; a day given or set.

Dies Dominicus non est juridicus. The Lord's day is not a juridical day. That is, it is not a day upon which legal proceedings may be conducted. Moss v State, 131 Tenn 94, 173 SW 859.

Diesel engine. An internal combustion engine without sparkplugs, ignition being accomplished by heat.

Diesel-powered single-car unit. Not a train with the meaning of a full-crew statute. Western Pac. R. R. Co. v State, 69 Nev 66, 241 P2d 846, 45 ALR2d 429.

dies excrescens. The extra day—the twenty-ninth day of February—which is added in leap-years.

dies fasti. (Civil law.) Those days on which the business of the courts could be transacted. In the Roman calendar there were in the whole year but twenty-eight judicial or triverbial days allowed to the praetor for deciding causes. 3 BI Comm 424.

dies feriati. Days of rest or idleness; holidays.

dies gratiae. A day of grace, favor, or indulgence.

Dies inceptus pro completo habetur. A day begun is regarded as completed. The law does not recognize fractions of a day.

Dies incertus pro conditione habetur. An uncertain day is regarded as a condition.

dies intercorsi. Days upon which the court was in session during only a part of each day.

Dies interpellat pro homine. The due date makes the demand for the man (the creditor).

dies juridici. Plural of dies juridicus.

dies juridicus. A juridical day, —a day upon which court can lawfully be held; a court day. 50 Am J1st Sun & H § 73.

dies legitimus. A lawful day; a term day of court; a law day; an appearance day.

dies lunaris. A lunar day.

dies nefasti. (Civil law.) Those days of the year in which the business of the courts could not be lawfully transacted. See 3 BI Comm 276.

dies non. An abbreviation of dies non juridicus. Havens v Stiles, 8 Idaho 250, 67 P 919.

dies non juridicus. A day not for litigation. Vidal v Backs, 218 Cal 99, 21 P2d 952, 86 ALR 1134.
See nonjuridical day.

dies solaris. A solar day.

dies solis. The day of the sun,—Sunday.

dies utiles. Available days,—days upon which a proposed or agreed act could be lawfully done.

diet. A legislative assembly; a meeting of delegates. One's daily food; a selection of food made for reasons of health or for reducing weight.

dieta. A day's work; a day's expenses; a reasonable day's journey. See 3 Bl Comm 218.

diet of compearance. A day set for a party's appearance in court.

Dieu et mon droit. God and my right,—the battle slogan of Richard the First which subsequently became the motto of the royal arms of England.

Dieu son acte. God's own act,—an act of God; vis major.

die without issue. A phrase common in testamentary gifts, appearing in the form of "to A, but if he dies without issue, then to B," and presenting the question of construction as between a definite and an indefinite failure of issue, the interpretation whereby the testator is taken to have meant the death of A without surviving issue being termed the "definite failure" construction and the interpretation whereby the testator is taken to have meant the death without surviving issue of A's last descendant, whenever that might be, being called the "indefinite failure" construction.

[348]

While at common law, the "indefinite failure" construction was preferred, the "definite failure" construction was made mandatory in England by statute in 1837, in the absence of a clear testatorial intention to the contrary. In the United States, in the absence of statute, there are two lines of authority, one upholding and one rejecting the common-law rule. In many states, statutes have been enacted requiring the adoption of the "definite failure" construction in the absence of any clear expression of a contrary intention. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1238.

The words "die without issue," and other expressions of the same import, mean an indefinite failure of issue. At common law, in the absence of words making a different intent apparent, the established interpretation of such expressions in a will is that they import a general indefinite failure of issue, and not a failure at the death of the first taker. Parkhurst v Harrower, 142 Pa 432, 21 A 826.

diffacere. To mutilate; to destroy.

differences. See compounding for differences; controversy; issue.

differentiated tax. See graduated tax.

differentiation of taxes. See graduated tax.

Difficile est ut unus homo vicem duorum sustineat. It is distressing that one man should suffer for the vice of two.

difforciare. To deny or keep from a person.

dig. To excavate. To mine. An abbreviation of digests.

digama. Same as deuterogamy.

digamy. Same as deuterogamy.

digests. The Pandects or body of Roman laws compiled under the Emperor Justinian. Law books arranged in an alphabetical order of titles and presenting in analytical distribution summaries and syllabi of cases.

digging. A mine. A slang term for one's living quarters.

dignitary. A person of importance. In an older day, the term was applied to any ecclesiastical officer of a rank or station higher than that of a priest or canon.

dignities. A species of incorporeal hereditaments bearing a near relation to offices. They were originally annexed to the possession of certain estates in land. See 2 Bl Comm 37.

dike. An embankment employed to prevent the inundation of land; a structure of earth or other material usually placed upon the bank of a stream or near the shore of a lake, bay, etc., the ends of which extend across low land to higher ground, forming a continuous bulwark or obstruction to water, and designed to keep it without the inclosure thus formed. Morton v Oregon Short Line Railway Co. 48 Or 444, 87 P 151.

See flee to the wall.

dilacion. A postponement or extension of time granted to a litigant.

dilapidations. Ruins. A kind of ecclesiastical waste, either voluntary, by pulling down; or permissive, by suffering the chancel, parsonage-house and other buildings thereunto belonging to decay. For such wrong an action lay, either in the spiritual court by the canon law, or in the courts of common law. See 3 Bl Comm 91.

dilation. A delay; a continuance; a postponement.

Dilationes in lege sunt odiosae. Delays are obnoxious to the law.

dilatoria. See exceptio dilatoria.

dilatory defenses. Defenses which delay the action without destroying the cause or right of action; defenses pleaded in abatement. 41 Am J1st Pl § 115.

dilatory motion. A motion made for delay. 37 Am J1st Motions § 3.

dilatory plea. Any plea belonging to a class which tends to delay a trial of the case on the merits; such as a plea in abatement or a plea in bar. Parks v McClellan, 44 NJL 552, 557.

See dilatory defenses.

diligence. Active attention to some matter in hand. Heintz v Cooper, 104 Cal 670, 38 P 512. The opposite of laches. 27 Am J2d Eq § 152. A relative term incapable of precise definition, its meaning being dependent upon the particular circumstances of the case.

Under Scotch law, the word is applied to an execution proceeding for the collection of a debt.

See diligent inquiry; due diligence; extraordinary diligence; ordinary diligence; prudence; reasonable diligence; slight diligence.

diligence of bailee. See high diligence.

diligentia. In the civil law, there are three degrees of diligence; diligentia or ordinary diligence; exactissima diligentia or extraordinary diligence; and levissima diligentia or slight diligence. Likewise, there are three degrees of fault or neglect; lata culpa or gross fault or neglect; levis culpa or ordinary fault or neglect; and levissima culpa or slight fault or neglect. Brand v Troy & Schenectady Railroad Co. (NY) 8 Barb 368, 378.

Diligentia quam suis rebus adhibere solet. The diligence which it is customary to exercise in the management of one's own affairs.

diligent inquiry. Such inquiry as a diligent man, intent upon ascertaining a fact, would usually and ordinarily make,—inquiry, with diligence, and in good faith, to ascertain the truth. Van Matre v Sankey, 148 Ill 536, 36 NE 628.

diligiatus. A person who was outlawed; an outlaw.

dillonques. Thenceforth; afterward.

diluvion. The gradual washing away and consequent loss of soil along the banks of a river. Hagen v Campbell (Ala) 8 Port 9. Opposite of alluvion.

dimes. Tenths; tithes. United States coins of the value of ten cents.

[349]

dimidietas. One half of anything.

dimidium. An undivided one-half interest in anything.

diminished liability clause. A provision in an accident insurance policy for a decrease of benefits upon the insured engaging in an occupation more hazardous than the one under which he was insured. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 768.

diminutio. Diminution.

diminution. A taking away or lessening.

diminution of damages. See mitigation of damages.

diminution of salary. The lowering of a salary. Not comprehending the placing of a burden upon a salary in the form of an income tax.

diminution of the record. A term applied to a record on appeal which is in some respect inaccurate or incomplete. State v Reid, 18 NC 382.

dimisi. I have demised.

Dimisi, concessi, et ad firman tradidi. I have demised, granted and leased to farm.

dimisit. He has demised.

dimittere. To dismiss; to release.

dimming headlights. A requirement in driving a motor vehicle imposed in many jurisdictions as a safety measure, preventing a glare interfering with approaching drivers. 7 Am J2d Auto § 226.

dinarchy. A government with two rulers.

Dingley Act. The protective tariff act passed by Congress in 1884.

diocesan courts. Ecclesiastical courts held by the bishop or his chancellor in each diocese.

diocese. The see or jurisdiction of a bishop. See 1 Bl Comm 111.

diode. A vacuum tube for radio or television. Lewis v Avco Mfg. Corp. (CA7 111) 228 F2d 919, 926.

dip. In mining,—the downward course of the vein. "Dip" and "depth" are of the same origin—"dip" is the direction or inclination toward the "depth" —and it is throughout their depth that veins may be followed, and that is surely their downward course. Duggan v Davey, 4 Dak 110, 141, 26 NW 887.

diploma. An instrument conferring some privilege, honor, or authority; now almost wholly restricted to certificates of degrees conferred by schools, universities and colleges. Halliday v Butt, 40 Ala 178, 183.

diplomatic officers. Ambassadors, envoys extraordinary, ministers plenipotentiary, ministers resident, commissioners, charges d'affaires, agents and secretaries of legation. Ex parte Baiz, 135 US 403, 419, 34 L Ed 222, 227, 10 S Ct 854. Officers however denominated who possess the functions, rights, and privileges as agents of their respective governments for the transaction of diplomatic business abroad. 4 Am J2d Ambss § 1.

diplomatics. The science of deciphering ancient documents or that of passing upon their genuineness.

dippers. Certain officers of a court baron who received and depended upon gratuities for their compensation. Weller v Baker (Eng) 2 Wilson 422.

dipping. The placing of animals in a chemical bath for disinfection and removal of parasites such as ticks. Anno: 65 ALR 543.

dipsomania. An irresistible craving for alcoholic beverages; an irresistible impulse to indulge in intoxication, either through the medium of alcohol or other drugs, such as opium. This mania or disease is classed as one of the minor forms of insanity. Ballard v State, 19 Neb 609, 614, 28 NW 271.

direct. Verb: To guide; to regulate; to control. Sometimes creative of a trust as a precatory term. Collister v Fassitt, 163 NY 281, 57 NE 490. Adjective: Immediate or proximate as distinguished from remote. Ermentrout v Girard Fire & Marine Ins. Co. 63 Minn 305, 65 NW 635; Mork v Eureka-Security F. & M. Ins. Co. 230 Minn 382, 42 NW2d 33, 28 ALR2d 987.

direct ascending line. The line of descent traced upward from intestate son, grandson, daughter, granddaughter, great grandson, great granddaughter, etc., to the ancestor. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 36.

direct attack. A challenge of the integrity of a judgment, in the action wherein the judgment was rendered, by a proceeding maintained for the express purpose of vacating, suspending, annulling, reversing, or modifying the judgment. Mitchell v Village Creek Drainage Dist. (CA8 Ark) 158 F2d 475; Hall v Huse, 122 Ark 67, 182 SW 535; Mastin v Gray, 19 Kan 458, 466. Some authorities regard a suit to obtain equitable relief by way of an injunction against the enforcement of a judgment or by the annulment or setting aside of a judgment as a direct attack upon the judgment. Other authorities say that such a suit is an indirect attack upon the judgment, although not to be regarded as a collateral attack. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 856.

direct bounty. A certain amount paid upon the production or exportation of particular articles. The act of Congress of 1895, allowing a bounty upon the production of sugar, and Rev. Stat. §§ 3015-3027 (U. S. Comp. Stat. 1901, pp. 1989-1994), allowing a drawback on certain articles exported, are examples of direct bounties. Downs v United States, 187 US 496, 502, 47 L Ed 275, 277, 23 S Ct 222.

direct cause. An active and efficient cause, that is, a proximate cause.

See proximate cause.

direct competition. See competition.

direct contempt. Words spoken or acts done in the presence of the court, or during its intermissions, which tend to subvert, embarrass or prevent justice, such as telling the judge that he is ignorant and unfair. State v Goff, 28 SC 17, 88 SE2d 788, 52 ALR2d 1292.

direct corporate purpose. A characterization of a purpose of the exercise of power by a municipal corporation which operates with direct and immediate consequences upon the interests of the corporation, such as the suppression of vice and the promotion of good order. State ex rel. Thompson v Memphis, 147 Term 658, 251 SW 46, 27 ALR 1257, 1264.

direct criminal contempt. Conduct directed against the power and dignity of the court during a session of court and in the immediate view and presence of the court. Lynn v State, 38 Okla Crim 313, 260 P 1069.

[350]

See criminal contempt.

direct damages. In one sense, damages which result from a wrongful act without the intervention of any other efficient cause. Loiseau v Arp, 21 SD 566, 114 NW 701. In another sense, the direct or proximate, as distinguished from the remote, consequences of a wrongful act. 22 Am J2d Damg § 20.

direct descending line. The line of descent from intestate to his children, grandchildren, great grandchildren, etc. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 54.

directed. Guided, regulated, controlled.

As used in a statute by which someone is "directed" to perform an act, the word, if standing alone, may well be construed as implying something mandatory, but other words in the context may so control it as to give it the effect of importing discretionary action on the part of the person "directed." Binney v Chesapeake & Ohio Canal Co. (US) 8 Pet 201, 212, 8 L Ed 917, 921.

directed verdict. A verdict which a jury returns as directed by the court. 53 Am J1st Trial §§ 332 et seq.

See motion for directed verdict.

direct evidence. Proof which speaks directly to the issue, requiring no support by other evidence; proof in testimony out of the witness' own knowledge, as distinguished from evidence of circumstances from which inferences must be drawn if it is to have probative effect. 29 Am J2d Ev § 264.

direct examination. The examination in chief of a witness by the party who called him to the stand.

See examination in chief; question in chief; redirect examination.

direct infringement. An infringement of a patent by one's own act, as distinguished from a contributory infringement. See contributory infringement; infringement of patent.

directing powers. See determinative powers.

direct injury. The direct result of the violation of a legal right. Alabama Power Co. v Ickes, 302 US 464, 82 L Ed 374, 58 S Ct 300.

See direct damages; proximate cause.

direction. A command; an order; an instruction to an agent or servant; a court's instruction to a jury; the complainant's address to the court in a bill in equity; control; management; superintendence.

See direct; directed; directed verdict.

direction against apportionment. A special type of tax clause in a will aimed at avoiding or overcoming a statute providing for proration of the estate tax. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 489.

directional signals. Equipment upon a motor vehicle for use in warning other drivers before making a turn. 7 Am J2d Auto § 157.

directional survey. A survey had by way of discovery to ascertain whether an oil well is draining oil from adjoining premises. 23 Am J2d Dep § 184.

direct line. See direct ascending line; direct descending line.

direct loss or damage by fire. Loss or damage occurring with fire as the destroying agency, as distinguished from fire as a remote agency of loss. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1288. A loss which is immediate or proximate, as distinguished from remote or incidental. Clouse v St. Paul F. & M. Ins. Co. 152 Neb 230, 40 NW2d 820, 15 ALR2d 1008. But proximate results may include other things than combustion, such as the resulting fall of a building. O'Connor v Queen Ins. Co. 140 Wis 388, 122 NW 1038.

directly. In a direct manner; in a straight line or course; without curving, swerving, or deviation. State ex rel. Norton v Van Camp, 36 Neb 9, 13.

directly affected. See involved.

directly essential to production. Under the Fair Labor Standards Act covering an employee in an occupation "closely related" and "directly essential" to the production of goods for commerce, the employee's work need not be indispensable to production. General Electric Co. v Porter, 208 F2d 805, 44 ALR2d 854.

directly interested in labor dispute. Interested as the employer; interested as an employee in hours, wages, or working conditions involved. Anno: 28 ALR2d 338, 339.

directo. See ex directo.

Director of the Census. The head of the Federal Bureau of the Census, appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, and directed by law to perform such duties as may be imposed upon him by statute, regulations, or orders of the Secretary of Commerce. 14 Am J2d Census § 3.

directors. Agents and executive representatives of a corporation, who, acting as a board or unit, manage the business of the corporation, constituting, as it has been said, the mind and soul of the corporation, acting according to their best judgment, and beyond control by the stockholders in respect of any particular action taken. 19 Am J2d Corp §§ 1079 et seq.

Corporate directors act as a board, this is, as a unit, in representing the corporation, and transacting its business, but as individuals in the performance of some of their duties, such as inspection of corporate records. State ex rel. Keller v Grymes, 65 W Va 451, 64 SE 728.

See dummy director.

directors' meeting. The coming together of the directors of a corporation to determine their course of action in corporate affairs is an official body. 19 Am J2d Corp §§ 1118 et seq.

directors of bank. Executive representatives of a banking corporation elected by the stockholders, who, acting as a board, manage and control the affairs and business of the corporation. 10 Am J2d Banks §§ 77, 176.

directory. Noun: A listing of the names and addresses of the persons in a particular city, of the members of a fraternal order, club, or profession, or of the subscribers to telephone service in a city or area. Adjective: That which is merely advisory or instructive, as opposed to that which is mandatory.

directory part of a statute. The part which directs that which is to be done or not to be done, the other parts being the declaratory and vindicatory portions. 50 Am J1st Stat § 151. The provision of a statute which is directory or permissive, as distinguished from mandatory provisions of the same statute. 50 Am J1st Stat § 18.

See directory statute.

directory statute. A statute whose provisions are a matter of form only, are not material, do not affect any substantial right, and do not relate to the essence of the thing to be done, so that compliance is a matter of convenience rather than substance. 1 Am J2d Adm L § 46; 50 Am J1st Stat § 25.

[351]

directory trust. A trust in which, by the terms of the trust, the trust funds are to be invested in a particular manner until the time arrives at which they are to be appropriated. Deaderick v Cantrell, 18 Tenn 263.

direct payment. A payment which is absolute and unconditional as to time, amount, and the persons by whom and to whom it is to be made. Ancient Order of Hibernians v Sparrow, 29 Mont 132, 74 P 197. A payment made directly to the obligee, not to an intermediary, direct proceedings. A direct attack upon a judgment.

See direct attack.

direct property tax. The primary form of taxation in most states. 51 Am J1st Tax § 408.

See direct taxes.

direct settlement. A term common in board of trade transactions, signifying the method of settlement consisting simply in setting off contracts to buy a certain amount of a given commodity at a certain time, against contracts to sell a like amount of it at the same time, and paying the difference of price in cash, at the end of the business day. Chicago Board of Trade v Christie Grain & Stock Co. 198 US 236, 247, 49 L Ed 1031, 1037, 25 S Ct 637.

direct taxes. Capitation or poll taxes levied without regard to property, profession or other circumstances; taxes on land. Springer v United States, 102 U S 586, 26 L Ed 253. Also, taxes levied directly on personal property because of ownership. Pollock v Farmers' Loan & T. Co. 157 US 429, 39 L Ed 759, 15 S Ct 673. Such taxes may be distinguished from taxes on importations, consumption, manufacture and sale of commodities, and taxes on business and occupation privileges and the like which Congress may impose without apportionment. The Federal income tax is a direct tax but the requirement of the Constitution that it be apportioned among the states according to population was removed by the Sixteenth Amendment.

direct trust. Same as express trust.

diribitores. Persons who distributed the ballots to the voters at a Roman election.

dirimant impediments. Those bars to lawful matrimony which are not removed by a consummation.

dirk. A deadly weapon. 56 Am J1st Weap § 3..

See dagger.

dirt. Loose earth as distinguished from firm rock. Highley v Phillips, 176 Md 463, 5 A2d 824. Anything unclean. Gossip.

See visible dirt.

disability. A deprivation of ability; a state of being disabled. Miller v American Mut. Acci. Ins. Co. 92 Tenn 167, 21 SW 39. Want of competent power, strength, or physical ability; weakness; incapacity; impotence. Hill v Travelers' Ins. Co. 146 Iowa 133, 124 NW 898. Loss of earning power; loss of a limb or member. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 282. Under some workmen's compensation statutes, impairment of physical efficiency, even though earning power has not been lost. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 282. As used in a policy of accident insurance, the bare term "disability" means disability from performing the occupation which the insured was following at the time of the accident, and not some vocation which he might be able to follow after the accident. Ozark Mut. Life Asso. v Winchester, 116 Okla 116, 243 P 735; 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1518. For the purposes of the Social Security Act, inability by reason of a medically determinable physical or mental impairment, to engage in substantial and gainful activity, commensurate with his age, educational attainments, training, experience, and mental and physical capacities. Teeter v Fleming (CA7 Ind) 270 F2d 871, 77 ALR2d 636.

Want of legal capacity, such as infancy, insanity, and loss of rights consequent to the conviction of a crime. Berkin v Marsh, 15 Mont 152, 44 P 528; 23 Am J2d Crim L § 616.

See legal disability; total disability; total mental disability; total physical disability.

disability clause. A clause in a policy of life insurance providing for a waiver of premiums in the event of the disability of the insured occurring while the policy is in effect, sometimes for monthly or other periodical payments to be made to the insured during the continuance of the disability so incurred.

disability provisions. The terms of health and accident insurance policies, and life insurance policies with disability features, which define and describe the risk covered by the policy. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1504.

disable. To make unfit physically or to incapacitate one to transact business. As used in a statute defining mayhem, the word is held to import a permanent disability, and not a mere temporary one. Vawter v Commonwealth, 87 Va 245, 12 SE 339; Anno: 58 ALR 1320.

disabled from earning a livelihood. Physically incapacitated. Also where a man is so inattentive or forgetful as a result of mental disorder that he cannot be trusted to carry on even simple forms of work, he is as truly disabled from earning a livelihood as one who must refrain from work on account of the condition of his vital organs. United States v Taylor (CA4 NC) 110 F2d 132.

disabling statutes. The statutes, also called the "restraining statutes " passed in the reign of Elizabeth which curbed the leasing of lands by the church and by eleemosynary corporations, and resulted in the turning over to Elizabeth of much valuable land by the prelates, for which she paid nothing. See 2 Bl Comm 320.

disadvantage to promisee. See detriment.

disadvocare. To disavow; to deny.

disaffirm. To repudiate a voidable obligation or deed.

disaffirmance. The repudiation of a voidable obligation or deed, sometimes by the subsequent conveyance of the same premises to a third person. Searcy v Hunter, 81 Tex 644.

disafforest. To release a forest from the operation of the forest laws. Many forests were thus stripped of their oppressive privileges and regulations by the Charta de Foresta, 9 Henry 111. See 2 Bl Comm 416.

disaffranchise. Same as disfranchise.

disagreement. A jurisdictional term in the federal statute in reference to veterans' insurance, meaning a denial of a claim for insurance benefits, after consideration of its merits, by the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs or any employee or organizational unit of the Veterans Administration designated therefor by the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1988.

[352]

disagreement of jury. See hung jury.

disallow. To overrule; to reject; to deny.

disalt. To disable.

disappropriation. The severing of an appropriation from the benefice to which it was annexed, either by presentation of a clerk by the appropriator or patron and his induction to the parsonage, or by the dissolution of the corporation which had the appropriation. See 1 Bl Comm 385.

disapprove. To refuse to approve, confirm, ratify, sanction, or consent to some act or thing done by another. Stewart v Yellowtail (DC Mont) 35 F Supp 799.

disaster relief. Aid to farmers suffering financially from drought, crop failure, calamity, or disaster. 3 Am J2d Agri § 32. Also aid to the inhabitants of a particular city or political subdivision who have suffered losses of property from fire, hurricane, flood, or extremely cold and bitter weather. Emergency relief in furnishing food, clothing, medical and nursing services.

disavow. To repudiate; to disclaim.

disband. To cease to exist as a body. To dissolve a body, such as a school district. Briggs v Borden, 71 Mich 87, 38 NW 712.

disbar. To pronounce a judgment or make an order of disbarment of an attorney; to revoke an attorney's license to practice law. 7 Am J2d Attys § 12.

disbarment. The revocation by judgment or order of court of the right of an attorney at law to practice. 7 Am J2d Attys § 12.
See grounds for disbarment.

disbarment proceeding. A proceeding instituted by an aggrieved client, the state's attorney, a bar association, a committee of a bar association, an individual attorney at law, or a group of attorneys at law not constituting a committee of a bar association, or instituted by the court on its own motion, seeking the disbarment of an attorney at law for cause or causes stated. 7 Am J2d Attys §§ 60 et seq.

disbocation. The clearing of wooded land; the changing of wooded or forest land into pasture.

discarcare. To discharge or unload a cargo.

discargare. Same as discarcare.

disceptatio causae. Same as disceptio causae.

disceptio causae. The argument of a cause by counsel.

discharge. Noun: The performance of an obligation or duty. A release because of performance or as a matter of grace. Union Bank v Powell's Heirs, 3 Fla 175. A release of a debtor in insolvency proceedings by operation of law. 29 Am J Rev ed Insolv § 88. A release from custody, as the discharge of an accused, or release from the performance of a duty, as the discharge of a juror. The separation of a civil service officer or employee from the service. 15 Am J2d Civ S § 33. The release of a member of one of the armed services from such service. 36 Am J1st Mil § 36. The dismissal of an employee. Verb: To perform obligations; to release from a prison or from duty. To release a member of one of the armed services from the service. To dismiss an employee. To unload or deliver cargo from a vessel or freight from a railroad car.

See honorable discharge. See also terms and expressions following which commence discharge.

discharged. The termination of a contract by performance in accordance with its terms. 17 Am J2d Contr § 482. Released from performance of duty; dismissed from employment; released from one of the armed services. 36 Am J1st Mil § 36.

A convict is "discharged" from prison when he is restored to freedom. It may not mean that he has been given the right of suffrage, or the right to hold office, if he lost those rights by conviction, but it does mean that in all other respects he is a citizen, and fully protected in his rights under the organic law. Ex parte Schatz, 307 Mo 67, 269 SW 383, 38 ALR 1032, 1035. As the word is used in a statute exempting a person from jury service who has been "discharged" as a juror within a year, it means one who is discharged from the panel, or for the term, and not one who has been discharged from a case at the close of a trial. White v United States (CA9 Cal) 16 F2d 870.

discharge for money. A receipt for money; a receipted bill; a voucher for money spent. Commonwealth v Brown 147 Mass 585, 18 NE 587.

discharge from draft. A certificate given one who has reported to his draft board for immediate military service but is permitted to return home, without entering the service, because of the termination of hostilities. Patterson v Lamb, 329 US 539, 91 L Ed 485, 67 S Ct 448.

discharge from military service. See discharge.

discharge from payment of tithes. See de modo decimandi.

discharge in bankruptcy. The release of a bankrupt from all of his debts which are provable in bankruptcy, except such as are excepted from discharge by the Bankruptcy Acts Bankruptcy Act § 1(15); 11 USC § 1(15).

discharge of attachment. The dissolution of an attachment (1) upon the occurrence of certain events after the levy, e. g. the loss of legal possession of the goods attached, (2) upon the entry or receipt of security, or (3) as the result of some proceeding taken for the express purpose of defeating or nullifying the attachment. 6 Am J2d Attach § 408.

discharge of bill or note. An expression with a dual aspect, meaning the discharge of the instrument itself and the discharge of the persons primarily and secondarily liable thereon. The NIL provides for discharge of the instrument by specified methods and for discharge of persons secondarily liable by specified methods. The Commercial Code takes a new approach to the concept of discharge. The Code generally does not speak of discharge of the instrument but of discharge of all parties and the discharge of any single party. The methods of discharge are collected and referred to in a single section. 11 Am J2d B & N § 901.

discharge of guardian. The release of a guardian from his trust, either by order of court or by a settlement with his ward when the ward becomes of age or ceases to be incompetent. Berkin v Marsh, 18 Mont 152, 44 P 528.

discharge of jury. The remedy of the prejudiced party upon a mistrial. 53 Am J1st Trial § 965. The release of a jury from further service in a case or a release of all jurors upon the list upon completion of their work at the term.

[353]

discharge of officer in armed forces. A separation from the service at the request of the officer. In any other connection, the term implies some measure of discredit. United States v Sweet, 189 US 471, 473, 47 L Ed 907, 908, 23 S Ct 638.

discharge of prisoner. A remedy sought by motion on presenting exceptions to the return to a writ of habeas corpus. Ex pane Mooney, 26 W Va 36.

discharge of surety. The release of a surety upon performance of the obligation or by operation of law. 50 Am J1st Suret § 40.

discharge of watercourse. The place where a stream or watercourse empties or discharges itself into some other watercourse or body of water. See 56 Am J1st Wat § 10.

discipline. Good conduct; training in good conduct. The maintenance of good order in a voluntary association or club, in a last resort by suspension or even expulsion of a member. 6 Am J2d Asso & C § 32. As applied to a soldier or militiaman, the word means system of drill; systematic training; training to act in accordance with established rules; accustoming to systematic and regular action. State ex rel. Poole v Peake, 22 ND 457, 135 NW 197.

See corporal punishment.

disclaimer. A renunciation or refusal to accept. A refusal to recognize the existence of an obligation. A refusal to retain title obtained as the grantee of a deed not accepted by the grantee. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 127. The object of a deed is to transfer property, but the object of a disclaimer is to prevent a transfer. Watson v Watson, 13 Conn 83, 85.

In patent law procedure, a statement filed by the patentee for the surrender of a separate claim in the patent, or some other distinct and separable matter, which can be excised without mutilating or changing what is left standing. 40 Am J1st Pat § 105.

A pleading filed by a defendant in a suit in equity, setting forth that he has no interest in the subject matter of the suit. 27 Am J2d Eq § 196.

disclaimer of paternity. A refusal to acknowledge a child as one's own. 10 Am J2d Bast § 29.

disclaimer of tenure. The disclaimer of a tenant in an action against him for rent.

disclamation. Same as disclaimer.

disclose. To make known that which before was unknown.

disclosed principal. A situation where the other party to a transaction conducted on the one side by an agent knows that the agent is acting for a principal and has notice of the principal's identity. 3 Am J2d Agency § 307.

discommission. To deprive a person of his office or commission.

discommon. To deprive of a right of common; to change common property into private property.

discontinuance. In the modern sense of the term, a voluntary dismissal or the taking of a nonsuit; at early common law, the failure of a litigant to continue his suit regularly from day to day or from term to term between the commencement of the action and final judgment. 24 Am J2d Dism § 2. The abandonment of work on a project. The abandonment of a use which is nonconforming under a zoning ordinance. Anno: 18 ALR2d 729.

discontinuance of estate. The termination or interruption of an estate tail by a grant by the tenant in tail of a larger estate than he had, thereby either defeating the estate of the tenant in tail or that of the remainderman or reversioner. See 3 Bl Comm 171.

discontinuance of highway. The abolition or vacation of a highway. 25 Am J1st High § 127.

discontinuance of service. The conduct of a public service corporation in refusing to continue operations to supply existing needs. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 78. Shutting off service to customer for nonpayment of bill for service furnished. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 64.

discontinued. Abandoned. The term as used in a zoning ordinance provision that if a nonconforming use is discontinued, any new use of the premises shall be in conformity with the provisions of the ordinance, connotes a voluntary act and is synonymous with abandon. Anno: 18 ALR2d 729.

discontinuous easement. An easement characterized by a use not so continuous as to be conspicuous. 25 Am J2d Ease § 32. An easement which can only be enjoyed by the intervention of a human agency, such as a right of way. In some states continuous easements will pass by implication in a grant and discontinuous easements will not. Anno: 34 ALR 234.

disconvenable. Improper; inappropriate.

discooperta. Same as discovert.

discount. In the broad sense, a deduction from a sum in gross; a reduction from a regular price of an article offered for sale. In a technical sense, interest reserved from the amount lent at the time of making the loan. 30 Am J Rev ed Int § 12. In the banking business a charge for a loan in advance, whether called interest, compensation, or premium, the amount of the discount being deducted from the principal and retained by the bank at the time of making the loan. 10 Am J2d Banks § 689. A rate applied in the commutation of periodical payments to a payment in a lump sum. Anno: 105 ALR 242.

discounting commercial paper. The lending of money upon commercial paper and the deducting of the interest or premium in advance. 10 Am J2d Banks § 689.

discover. Ascertain by sight, hearing, or smell, and by information obtained from others. Carroll v United States, 267 US 132, 69 L Ed 543, 45 S Ct 280, 39 ALR 790.

discovered. Having acquired actual knowledge of something, such as defalcation by an employee within the coverage of a fidelity bond. Anno: 23 ALR2d 1076.

See after-discovered; discover.

discovered peril. For all practical purposes the doctrine of discovered peril is the same in scope and effect as the last clear chance doctrine. Soards v Shreveport Rys. Co. (La App) 8 So 2d 343, 344.

See last clear chance.

discovert. The condition or status of a woman who is at present without a husband, whether she be unmarried, widowed or divorced.

discoverture. The changing of the status of a married woman by the death of her husband or the obtaining of a divorce from him.

[354]

discovery. The finding of something, perchance a cure for a disease, a new land, a new planet, or a mechanical principle which may be adapted to produce an article which has the requisite of patentability. 40 Am J1st Pat § 39. A finding of mineral, the primary factor in the perfection of a mining claim. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 83. The showing of mineral must be of such character that a person of ordinary prudence, whether he is a miner or not, would feel justified in expending further time and money in development of the property in view of prospects of profit. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 87. A remedy for the sole purpose of compelling the adverse party to answer its allegations and interrogatories, and thereby to disclose facts within his own knowledge, information, or belief, or to disclose and produce documents, books and other things within his possession, custody or control, being usually employed to enable a party to prosecute or defend an action. 23 Am J2d Depos § 141.

See bill of discovery; discovery and occupation; pure bill of discovery; statutory discovery.

discovery and occupation. A method of acquiring territory on behalf of a nation. 30 Am J Rev ed Internat L § 42; 54 Am J1st US § 77.

By the law of nations, dominion of new territory may be acquired by discovery and occupation, as well as by cession or by conquest; and when citizens or subjects of one nation, in its name and by its authority or with its assent, take and hold actual, continuous, and useful possession (although only for the purpose of carrying on a particular business, such as catching and curing fish or working mines) of territory unoccupied by any other government or its citizens, the nation to which they belong may exercise such jurisdiction and for such period as it sees fit over territory so acquired. Downes v Bidwell, 182 US 244, 45 L Ed 1088, 21 S Ct 770.

discovery shaft. A shaft which the mining laws of some states require to be sunk within a prescribed number of days after discovery. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 88.

discredit. To injure a person's credit or reputation; to refuse credence; to distrust; to discredit the testimony of a witness is to distrust it, to disbelieve it, to regard it as false. People v Clark, 84 Cal 573, 24 P 313.

discrepancy. Difference appearing upon comparison; inconsistency. A variance between a party's pleading and his proof.

Discretio est discernere per legem quid sit justum. Discretion is the discernment, through the law, of that which is just. "That is, to discern by the right line of law, and not by the crooked cord of public opinion." Commonwealth v Anthes, 71 Mass (5 Gray) 185, 204.

Discretio est scire per legem quid sit justum. Discretion is the knowledge of that which is just through the law. Le Roy v Corporation of New York (NY) 4 Johns Ch 352, 356.

discretion. The equitable decision of what is just and proper under the circumstances; the liberty or power of acting without other control than one's own judgment. The S.S. Styria v Morgan, 186 US 1, 9, 46 L Ed 1027, 1033, 22 S Ct 731. The power or right conferred upon an officer of acting officially under certain circumstances according to the dictates of his own judgment and conscience, uncontrolled by the judgment or conscience of others. United States ex ref. Accardi v Shaughnessy, 347 US 260, 98 L Ed 681, 74 S Ct 499; Farrelly v Cole, 60 Kan 356, 56 P 492; 2 Am J2d Admin L § 191.

See abuse of discretion; age of discretion; judicial discretion; legal capacity.

discretionary divorce. A divorce granted by a court under a statute permitting the granting of a divorce for such cause or causes as the court may find sufficient.

discretionary duty. A duty imposed upon an officer for the performance of an act which involves the exercise of discretion by the officer, the duty not being defined with such precision and certainty as to leave nothing to the exercise of discretion. State ex ref. Linden v Bunge, 192 Wash 245, 73 P2d 516.

discretionary interest. Interest which is awarded by way of damages in any case where it is a matter within the discretion of the court to award interest or to refuse to do so. Redfield v Ystalyfera Iron Co. 110 US 174, 28 L Ed 109, 3 S Ct 208. A discretionary rate of interest allowed as damages. 22 Am J2d Damg § 182.

discretionary trust. An anomalous term from the standpoint of absolute discretion in the trustee, since unbridled discretion in a trustee negatives the necessary separation of legal and equitable ownership. Best defined as a trust in which a broad discretion is vested in the trustee to be exercised in carrying out purposes and objectives for the benefit of another, which are required by the terms of the trust. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 36. A trust which exists when, by the terms of the trust, no direction is given to the trustee as to the manner in which the trust funds are to be invested, until the time arrives at which they are to be appropriated in satisfaction of the trust. Deaderick v Canfrell, 18 Tenn 263. A trust designed to prevent alienation by lodging discretion in the trustee as to the payment of income and withholding from the beneficiary a vesting of the equitable right to compel the distribution. Re Bucklin's Estate, 243 Iowa 312, 51 NW2d 412, 34 ALR2d 1327.

discretion of administrative agency. A power or right, conferred upon an agency by law, of acting officially in certain circumstances according to the dictates of their own judgment and conscience as to what is just and proper under the circumstances, uncontrolled by the judgment or conscience of others. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 191.

discretion of court. A scope of authority of determination granted to a trial court which, in the absence of abuse of discretion, accords finality to a determination made, so that it is not reviewable by a higher court. 4 Am J2d A & E § 80. Necessarily a sound discretion, or as it is sometimes stated, a legal discretion. 20 Am J2d Cts § 69. Exercising the best of judgment upon the occasion that calls for it. Tompkins v Sands (NY) 8 Wend 462. Nothing more nor less than a discretion to do in any particular case what the ends of justice demand. Sioux Falls v Marshall, 48 SD 378, 204 NW 999, 45 ALR 447, 451. The sound choosing by the court, subject to the guidance of the law, between doing or not doing a thing, the doing of which cannot be demanded as an absolute right. Chapman v Dorsey, 230 Minn 279, 41 NW2d 438, 16 ALR2d 1015.

A court without discretion would be a hobby horse. Watts v State, 22 Tex App 572, 577.

[355]

discriminating duty. An additional customs duty imposed on an imported article of a kind for the manufacture, production, and export of which in and from this country a bounty is paid. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 14.

discrimination. Failure to treat everyone alike according to the standards and rule of action prescribed, that is, unreasonable and arbitrary action. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 193. Class legislation and the denial of equal protection of the laws. Arbitrary inclusions or exclusions of persons from the list for jury duty. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 93. A purposeful and systematic exclusion of persons from the jury list on the basis of race or color. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 12. The denial of suffrage on the basis of a classification according to race. 25 Am J2d Elect § 55.

See advantage, concession and discrimination; class legislation; equal protection; price discrimination.

discrimination by common carrier. Any act, device, or arrangement by a common carrier which operates to give to one or more patrons rates, services, or privileges not accorded to all under similar conditions or circumstances, or, vice versa, which operates to render unavailable to some patrons rates, services, or privileges which are available to others similarly situated. 13 Am J2d Car § 197.

As applied to freight rates, the term implies a charge to shippers of freight, as compensation for railroad transportation, of unequal sums of money for the same quantity of freight, for equal distances, more for a shorter than a longer distance, more in proportion of distance for a shorter than a longer distance; more for "local freights," than for "through freights;" more for the former, in proportion of the distance such freights may be carried, than the latter, the railroads being prompted to make such charges by unreasonable competition between two or more of them at competing points. Freight Discrimination Cases, 95 NC 434, 446.

To constitute an "unjust discrimination" in passenger rates, the carrier must charge or receive directly from one person a greater or lesser compensation than from another, or must accomplish the same thing indirectly by means of a special rate, rebate or other device; but, in either case, it must be for a like and contemporaneous service in the transportation of alike kind of traffic, under substantially similar circumstances and conditions. Interstate Commerce Com. v Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. 145 US 263, 281, 36 L Ed 699, 705, 12 S Ct 844.

discumberment. A release of property from an encumbrance or lien.

discussion. A civil law term meaning the seizure and sale of the property of the principal to satisfy the demand against him before proceeding against that of the surety. Schmidt v New Orleans, 33 La Ann 17, 18.

See benefit of discussion.

disease. In a strict or literal sense, any departure from a perfect norm of health, even including some ailments which are more or less trivial. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v Simpson, 88 Tex 333. Better understood in a legal sense as an ailment or disorder of an established or settled character to which the insured is subject, having no reference to a temporary disorder which is new and unusual, and arises from some sudden and unexpected derangement of the system, although it may produce or cause unconsciousness. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1211. As the term "disease" appears in a health insurance policy it is not the equivalent of sickness; sickness is a condition interfering with one's usual activities, whereas disease may exist without such result. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1154. A "disease in any organ of the body" is not every disorder or ailment affecting an organ, lasting for a brief period only and unattended by substantial injury or inconvenience, or prolonged suffering, but is an affection so well defined and marked as materially to derange for a time the functions of that organ. Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. v Union Trust Co. 112 US 250, 258, 28 L Ed 708, 711, 5 S Ct 119.

In an accident policy the words "bodily infirmity or disease" have a well understood meaning. They are practically synonymous and refer to an ailment or disease of a settled character and all the definitions given by the courts negative the idea that they could possibly include a personal peculiarity not in any way impairing bodily health or strength and not in any way interfering with the functioning of the organs of the body. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v Dodge (CA4 Md) 11 F2d 486.

In a strict or literal sense, any departure from an ideal or perfect norm of health is a disease or an infirmity, but when considered with relation to a policy insuring against death caused by "accidental means alone" something more must be shown. If there is no active disease, but merely a frail general condition, so that powers of resistance are easily overcome, or merely a tendency to disease, which is started up and made operative, whereby death results, then there may be recovery even though the accident would not have caused that effect upon a healthy person in a normal state. Bush v Order of United Commercial Travellers (CA2 Vt) 124 F2d 528.

See chronic; contagious disease; exposed to disease; idiopathic disease; illness; incurable disease; industrial disease infectious disease; occupational disease; serious ailment; serious illness; sickness; sound health; sound physical condition; traumatic disease.

disembargo. To release from the restrictions of an embargo.

disencumber. To remove an encumbrance, as, to pay off a mortgage debt; to relieve of a burden.

disencumbrance. The removal of an encumbrance, such as a mortgage; the removal of a burden.

disentail. To break the entail of an entailed estate. This was effected by a disentailing deed whereby the tenant in tail conveyed an absolute title to his grantee, which was authorized by statute in the reign of William the Fourth.

disentailing deed. See disentail.

disestablish. A labor law expression which means the divesting of an agent for collective bargaining of his authority as such. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 281.

disfigure. To cause a disfigurement.

See disfigurement.

disfigurement. "That which impairs or injures the beauty, symmetry, or appearance of a person or thing; that which renders unsightly, misshapen, or imperfect, or deforms in some manner." Superior Mining Co. v Industrial Com. 309 Ill 339, 141 NE 165. A change of external form for the worse. Dickson v United States Sheet & Window Glass Co. 3 La App 83.

As used in a statute defining mayhem, the word means a permanent and not a mere temporary disfigurement. State v Taylor, 105 W Va 298, 142 SE 254. The offense of disfiguring a domestic animal may be complete with no injury of a permanent character. Thus, to shave a horse's mane or tail is a disfiguring of the horse. State v Harris, 11 Iowa 414, 415.

[356]

disforest. To clear wooded land of trees.

disfranchise. To effect a disfranchisement.

See disfranchisement.

disfranchisement. The taking away of a franchise, a person's citizenship, or his right of suffrage. The absolute expulsion of a member from a corporation, and the taking away of his franchise of being a member. White v Brownell (NY) 2 Daly 329, 357.

See amotion.

disgavel. To remove from land the incidents of gavelkind tenure, under which the lands descended equally to all of the sons of the tenant.

disgrace. A cause of shame or reproach; that which dishonors; a state of ignominy, dishonor, or shame. Slawson v State, 39 Tex Crim 176, 178. Loss or respect; disrepute; an element of actionable defamation. 33 Am J1st L & S § 45.

disgrade. To deprive a person of a title or dignity.

disguise. Verb: To conceal identity by assuming or giving a false appearance or guise, as by wearing an unusual clothing or dress. Noun: Clothing, dress, wigs, goggles, or other device put on to conceal identity. Artifice in speech or manner employed to conceal identity. Darneal v State, 14 Okla Crim 540, 174 P 290, 1 ALR 638, 641.

dishabilitation. Corruption of blood. A sentence of dishabilitation was imposed as a punishment for treason.

disherison. Same as disinheritance.

disheritor. A testator who disinherits his heir.

dishes. Containers for serving food and holding food; in one sense, household furniture. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 298.

dishonesty. Want of honesty; lying; stealing; defrauding. Something more than mere negligence, mistake, error in judgment, or incompetence. Irvin Jacobs & Co. v Fidelity & Deposit Co. (CA7 Ill) 202 F2d 794, 37 ALR2d 889. But not necessarily such conduct as imports a criminal offense. Citizens' Trust & Guaranty Co. v Globe & Rutgers Fire Ins. Co. (CA4 NC) 229 F 326.

dishonor. Loss of respect; shame and disgrace. Nonpayment of a bill or note. Nonacceptance of a bill or draft.

See fraud or dishonesty.

dishonor by nonacceptance. A term of the commercial law.

A bill is dishonored by nonacceptance when it is duly presented for acceptance and the prescribed acceptance is refused or cannot be obtained, or when presentment for acceptance is excused and the bill is not accepted. 11 Am J2d B & N § 736.

dishonor by nonpayment. A negotiable instrument is dishonored by nonpayment when it is duly presented for payment and payment is refused or cannot be obtained, or when presentment is excused and the instrument is overdue and unpaid. 11 Am J2d B & N § 739.

disincarcerate. To release a prisoner from imprisonment.

disincorporate. To relinquish a corporate charter; to cause a corporation to cease to exist as a corporation.

disinherison. Same as disinheritance.

disinheritance. Disinheriting an heir; depriving an heir of his inheritance of right to succeed to the estate of his ancestor.

disinter. To exhume or remove a body that has been buried in the earth; to take out of the grave. People v Baumgartner, 135 Cal 72, 74, 66 P 974.

See body snatching; disturbing dead body.

disinterested. Having no interest in a matter or cause. Jones v Larrabee, 47 Me 474, 476.

See interested.

disinterested appraiser. An appraiser who not only is without any pecuniary interest in the property appraised, but one who is not biased or prejudiced in reference to the parties or the property. L. D. Hickerson & Co. v German-American Ins. Co. 96 Tenn 193, 33 SW 1041. The mere fact of other employment by insurance companies does not, as a matter of law, disqualify one from selection as a "disinterested appraiser." Schreiber v Pacific Coast Fire Ins. Co. 195 Md 639, 75 A2d 108, 20 ALR2d 951.

disinterested juror. A juror without a disqualifying interest such as relationship to a party within a degree prohibited as to jurors. Jewell v Jewell, 84 Me 304, 24 A 858.

disinterested malevolence. An epigrammatic phrase coined by Mr. Justice Holmes which is supposed to mean that the genesis which will make a lawful act unlawful must be a malicious one unmixed with any other and exclusively directed to injury and damage of another. Beardsley v Kilmer, 236 NY 80, 140 NE 203.

disinterested witness. A witness who is not biased by reason of any interest in the action.

disinterment. The removal of a body from a grave.

See disinter.

disjunctim. Separately; severally; disjunctively.

disjunctive allegations. Allegations in a pleading in the disjunctive form, that is, an alternative form, and the clauses of which are usually separated by the word "or." The general principle is that allegations in such form vitiate a pleading. 41 Am J1st Pl § 41. An indictment, information, or affidavit is rendered bad by allegations in the disjunctive, unless such form is authorized by statute. 27 Am J1st Indict § 127.

disjunctive condition. A condition which depends upon the happening of but one of several events.

disjunctive denial. The form of denial required in responding to conjunctive allegations in an adversary's pleading. 41 Am J1st Pl § 193.

disjunctive term. A term or expression in an alternative form. Deihl v Perie (Pa) 2 Miles 47, 49.

dislawyer. An ancient word meaning to disbar a lawyer.

dislocation. A condition of disarrangement. A bone out of joint.

dismes. Tenths; tithes.

dismiss. To discontinue; to order a cause, motion, or prosecution to be discontinued, quashed, or dismissed as finally adjudicated against the plaintiff. The term was not originally applied to common-law proceedings, but seems to have been borrowed by the law courts from proceedings in the court of chancery, wherein practice it is applied to the removal of a cause out of court, without any further hearing. It is applied to the removal or disposal of the cause itself, and not to the mere annulment of the writ. Bosley v Bruner, 24 Miss 457, 462.

See dismissal.

dismissal. An order for the termination of a case without a trial of any of its issues; a voluntary discontinuance by the plaintiff. 24 Am J2d Dism § 1. A judgment dismissing a cause as finally adjudicated against the plaintiff. The termination of a criminal case by the prosecuting attorney, the result of which is to free the defendant. Brackenridge v State of Texas, 27 Tex Crim 513, 11 SW 630. The discharge of an employee; a termination of employment in public or private capacity at the instance of the employer. The Fort Gaines (DC Md) 18 172d 413.

See discontinuance; none prosecute; voluntary dismissal; want of prosecution.

dismissal compensation. A payment made by an employer to an employee, in addition to wages or salary then owing by the employer to such employer, upon the termination of the employment, particularly where the employment is under a contract which entitles the employer to terminate the employment and discharge the employee at will. Anno: 147 ALR 151; 40 ALR2d 1044. Sometimes called separation wage; sometimes severance pay.

dismissal of action. See dismissal.

dismissal of appeal. The refusal by the appellate court to examine the merits of the cause—that is, a dismissal on a ground not involving the merits of the cause. 5 Am J2d A & E § 905.

dismissal without prejudice. A voluntary dismissal of an action or proceeding without an adjudication of the cause that would prevent the bringing of a new action upon the same cause. 24 Am J2d Dism §§ 6 et seq. An order of dismissal of an action reciting that it is without prejudice, the effect of which is to prevent the dismissal from operating as a bar to any new suit which the plaintiff might thereafter desire to bring on the same cause of action. W. T. Raleigh Co. v Barnes, 143 Miss 597, 600, 109 So 8.

See two-dismissal rule.

dismissal with prejudice. An order of dismissal granted on motion of the defendant made without reservation as to prejudice. 24 Am J2d Dism §§ 53 et seq. An adjudication on the merits of the case, a final disposition of the controversy which bars the right to bring or maintain an action on the same claim or cause of action. Roden v Roden, 29 Ariz 549, 243 P 413; Pulley v Chicago, R. I. & P. Ry. Co. 122 Kan 269, 251 P 1100.

dismissed. As the word is used in an appeal bond, the removal or disposal of the cause itself. 5 Am J2d A & E § 1031.

Where the entry "dismissed" is made as a minute order on motion of a plaintiff who wishes to abandon his action, such an entry is undistinguishable from an entry "dismissed" made by the court's order after a full examination of the evidence, and is a decision on the merits, while the other is a mere non pros. To avoid the bar presumptively arising from such a decree the entry of the motion to dismiss should be made on the record, or the entry should be made "without prejudice." Brown v Brown, 37 NH 536.

See dismissed.

dismissed agreed. An order "dismissed agreed" not only puts an end to the pending suit but is a bar to any subsequent suit on the same cause of action by the same parties. Virginia Concrete Co. v Board of Supervisors, 197 Va 821, 91 SE2d 415, 56 ALR 1283, except as the plaintiff obtain relief against such order on the theory that the dismissal is entirely the act of the parties and does not involve the exercise of judgment by the court. McDonnell v Wasenmiller (CA8 Neb) 74 F2d 320.

dismortgage. To free or redeem property from a mortgage.

disobedience. See wilful disobedience.

disorderly. Against or in violation of the peace, good order, morals, decency or safety of the public.

disorderly conduct. An act which tends to breach the peace or to disturb those people who hear or see it, or to endanger the morals, safety, or health of the community or of a class of persons or a family. 12 Am J2d Breach P § 30.

disorderly house. Any place where unlawful and illegal practices are habitually carried on. Marvel v State, 127 Ark 595, 193 SW 259, 5 ALR 1458. A place where acts are performed that tend to corrupt the morals of the community or to promote breaches of the peace, or a place kept for the purpose of public resort for thieves, drunkards, prostitutes or other idle and vicious people, without regard to whether there is any actual disturbance of the public peace and quiet. 24 Am J2d Disord H § 1.

See house of ill fame; whorehouse.

disorderly persons. Persons guilty of disorderly conduct.

See disorderly conduct.

disparagation. Same as disparagement. disparage. To suffer or permit a disparagement. To discredit.

disparagement. Discredit; detraction. The wrong suffered by an infant ward at the hands of the guardian in providing an unequal or unsuitable marriage. As a survival of many of the abuses of feudal tenure, the guardian had and exercised the right of selling the ward in marriage for his own profit. See 2 Bl Comm 70, 71.

disparagement of property. Criticism which discredits the quality of merchandise or other property offered for sale. Anno: 57 ALR2d 848; 33 Am J1st L & S § 344.

disparagement of title. Words or conduct which bring or tend to bring in question the right or title of another to particular property. 33 Am J1st L & S § 344.

disparagium. Inequality in blood or station.

Disparata non debent jungi. Dissimilar matters ought not to be connected together.

dispark. To change the use or character of land from that of a park or game preserve.

[358]

dispatch. Verb: To send; to act promptly; to put an end to something; to kill. Noun: A message; speed; an article transmitted to a news agency.

See customary despatch.

dispatch company. A company engaged in the business of transporting goods through the agency and over the lines of other carriers selected by them, the company not owning or controlling any means of conveyance. 13 Am J2d Car § 50.

dispauper. To declare officially that a person who has been a pauper, is no longer a pauper; to deprive or deny a person the right of suing in forma pauperis.

dispensaries. State or municipal places where intoxicating liquors are sold at retail. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 204. Places where medicines are prepared or dispensed.

dispensary act. A statute which forbids the manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage, within the limits of the state, by any private individual, and vests the right to manufacture and sell such liquor in the state exclusively, through certain designated officers and agents. McCullough v Brown, 41 SC 220, 19 SE 458.

Dispensatio est vulnus, quod vulnerat jus commune. A dispensation is a wound, because it wounds common right.

dispensation. Distribution; delivery. An exemption from certain duties or penalties imposed or prescribed by law.

dispensing of drug by physician. The actual delivery of a drug by the physician to the patient, from the physician's office supply, generally, though not always, excluding other actual delivery. Anno: 13 ALR 871.

dispensing power. The authority of an administrative agency to exempt from or relax a general prohibition or to relieve from an affirmative duty. 1 Am J2d Admin L § 141.

dispersonare. To scandalize.

displace. To take the place of; to remove; to remove a person from an office or position and put another person in his place. As applied to the act of a master of a ship in "displacing" an officer or seaman, to displace means to degrade or reduce to a lower station on the ship. Potter v Smith, 103 Mass 68, 69.

displaced person. A product of the ravages of war; a person left in a foreign country without a home because of a war.

displacement waves. Waves produced by a larger vessel proceeding at a high rate of speed, often causing injury to smaller craft. 48 Am J1st Ship § 280.

disposal. Arrangement; the transfer or alienation of property, even by gift, trade, or barter.
See disposition.

disposal plants. Places where the carcasses of animals are rendered into usable products; places where sewage is treated and reduced to the point where it is not harmful or annoying to the senses. A place provided by a municipality for receiving and disposing of garbage, such disposal being by incineration or other method of treatment. A municipal use within the meaning of a zoning ordinance. Lees v Sampson Land Co. 372 Pa 126, 92 A2d 692, 40 ALR2d 1171.

dispose. To arrange; to put in place. To alienate, sell, or transfer. United States v Hacker (DC Cal) 73 F 292, 294; Hubbell v Hubbell, 135 Iowa 637, 113 N W 512. To grant; to convey, even by way of barter or exchange. Phelps v Harris (US) 11 Otto 370, 380, 25 L Ed 855, 859. As the word appears in a statute providing a ground for attachment, it has a broader significance than "transfer," but does not include the mere secretion of property. 6 Am J2d Attach § 237.

disposing mind. A test of testamentary capacity, being a mind capable of knowing and understanding the disposition to be made of one's property by will and the persons upon whom bounty is to be bestowed, notwithstanding some element of mental unsoundness. Freeman v Easley, 117 Ill 317, 321. The mind of a testator who is fully capable of comprehending the testamentary disposition which his will has made of his property. Yardley v Cuthbertson, 108 Pa 395.

See sound and disposing mind and memory.

disposition. Frame of mind; nature or temperament. An arrangement. A transfer of property. The power of disposal.

See fraudulent disposition of property; testamentary disposition.

dispositive mind. Same as disposing mind.

dispossess. To oust; to put out of possession.

dispossession. Changing from the possession of one person to that of another; ouster; a wrong or injury that carries with it the amotion of possession thereby getting the wrongdoer into the actual occupation of the land or hereditament, and obliging him who has a right to seek his legal remedy in order to gain possession, and damages for the injuries he has sustained. See 3 Bl Comm 167.

dispossess proceeding. A summary proceeding brought to oust from possession a tenant who is in default.

See ejectment; forcible entry and detainer.

dispossess warrant. A warrant issued by the court in dispossess proceedings for the ouster of the tenant.

See writ of possession.

disprison. To liberate from prison.

disproof. Proof which tends to rebut or negative other evidence.

disproportionate. Out of proportion, as an award of damages bearing no reasonable proportion to the injury sustained. 22 Am J2d Damg § 366.

disprove. To refute; to negate.

disputable. Rebuttable; capable of being rebutted or refuted.

disputable presumption. A rebuttable presumption. A presumption which can be removed in no other way than by evidence sufficiently strong to rebut it. Joyner v South Carolina Railway Co. 26 SC 49, 55, 1 SE 52.

disputatio fori. (Civil law.) An argument before the court.

dispute. A controversy. An allegation of fact by one person denied by another person, each acting with some show of reason. Knight's Appeal, 19 Pa 493, 494.

See labor dispute; matter in dispute.

disputed claim. As the subject of an accord and satisfaction, a dispute as to the amount of the sum actually due, as to whether anything is due, or as to the construction of the terms of the contract between the parties, which is bona fide, honest, and based upon a reasonably tenable or plausible ground. 1 Am J2d Accord § 27.

[359]

disputes clause. The provision in a contract for the construction of a public improvement that a dispute concerning a question of fact shall be conclusively settled by an administrative decision. Anno: 94 L Ed 263; 96 L Ed 119.

disqualification. Want of qualification, especially for a public office or for jury duty. It may be from want of an abstract qualification, such as a requirement for education, or from an element such as interest in the matter to be handled.

See ineligible.

disqualified judge. A judge disqualified to act in a particular case because of personal interest in the subject matter of the suit or because he is within a certain degree of relationship to one of the parties. 30A Am J Rev ed Judges § 89.

disqualified juror. A juror subject to challenge for want of a requisite qualification such as literacy, character, mental disability, prejudice, bias, relationship to a party, or interest in the suit. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur §§ 157 et seq.

disqualified witness. A witness incompetent to testify because of his mental condition, want of sensibility to the obligation of an oath, the privileged nature of the communication or other source of his knowledge of the facts, or interest in the result of the suit in a case where he is called to testify on his own behalf, in an action in which the adverse party is a personal representative of a decedent or the guardian or committee of an incompetent, concerning a transaction with the person since deceased or become incompetent. 58 Am J1st Witn §§ 102 et seq.

disqualify. To incapacitate; to disable; to divest or deprive of qualifications. Matter of Maguire, 57 Cal 604.

See disqualification.

disrationare. To exonerate one's self; to establish innocence.

disregard. To take no notice of; to give no credence to, as in following an instruction by the court to the jury to disregard certain testimony stricken from the record. Anno: 4 ALR2d 1088.

disregarding corporate entity. Treating a corporation and the individual or individuals owning all its stock as identical; graphically stated, piercing the veil of the corporate entity. Anno: 1 ALR 610; 34 ALR 597.

disruptive discharge. See brush discharge.

dissasina. Same as disseisin.

dissection. The severance of a dead body into parts, sometimes very minute parts, for study of the anatomical structure, or the detection of infection or disease.

disseisee. A person who has been disseised or ousted.

disseisin. An ouster or wrongful dispossession of one in possession of real property who is seised of a freehold therein. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 52. More broadly defined as the wrongful dispossession or exclusion of a person entitled to possession. 25 Am J2d Eject § 47.

Disseisinam satisfacit, qui uti non permittit possessorem, vel minus commode, licet omnino non expellat. A person who commits a disseisin is one who does not permit the possessor to enjoy his property or who renders his enjoyment less comfortable, although he does not expel him altogether.

disseisin by construction of law. Acts committed without force, in themselves equivocal, and not necessarily amounting to an entire and immediate ouster of the freehold, but which the owner may, if he pleases, treat as usurpations of his freehold for the purpose of vindicating his title by an action at law. 25 Am J2d Eject § 47.

disseisin by election. A legal fiction under which an owner might elect to admit disseisin and consider himself disseised for the purpose of securing or availing himself of the remedy by action of novel disseisin against an adverse claimant; but if he did not elect to consider himself disseised, the freehold was not divested, but still continued in him. Varick v Jackson (NY) 2 Wend 166.

See disseisin by construction of law.

disseisin in fact. An actual ouster or dispossession of the owner of the freehold which deprives him even of constructive possession, leaving him a mere right of entry or of property. Varick v Jackson (NY) 2 Wend 166.

disseisor. A person who effects or commits a disseisin.

disseissoress. A female who effects or commits a disseisin.

disseminate. To spread information. The word creates the same picture as broadcast by radio. Norman v Century Athletic Club, 193 Md 584, 69 A2d 466, 15 ALR2d 777.

dissension. A disagreement, particularly in religious societies, leading to heated debate, even angry words, strife, discord, quarrels, and sometimes a disunion or breaking apart. McKinney v Griggs, 68 Ky (5 Bush) 401, 417.

dissent. To disagree with another or with others; to render a minority opinion in the decision of a case. Disagreement of an individual juror with the verdict, announced on the polling of the jury. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 371.

dissenting stockholders. A minority who oppose the action taken by the majority.

dissignare. To break a seal.

Dissimilium dissimilis est ratio. The rule as to matters which are dissimilar; dissimilar.

Dissimulatione tollitur injuria. An injury is extinguished by the condonation of the person injured.

dissipate. To squander; to waste; to scatter completely; to disperse and cause to disappear-used especially of the dispersion of things that can never again be collected or restored. Hughes v Carr, 101 Wash 109, 172 P 224. To over-indulge in pleasure.

dissipation of funds. The free spending by a debtor in failing circumstances without regard for his obligations to creditors; for all practical purposes, a destruction of property within the meaning of opposition to discharge in bankruptcy. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 711.

[360]

dissolution. The separation of a thing into its component parts; a breaking up.

dissolution bond. A bond given by the defendant in an action in which property has been attached, for the purpose of obtaining an entire dissolution of the attachment, the condition of the bond being that the defendant will perform or satisfy whatever judgment is obtained against him in the action. 6 Am J2d Attach § 523.

dissolution of association. The winding up of the affairs of a voluntary association, including the payment of claims against the organization and the distribution of remaining assets, if there be such assets, among the members. 6 Am J2d Asso & C §§ 59 et seq.

dissolution of attachment or garnishment. The termination of an attachment or garnishment upon the happening of certain events or contingencies after the levy, upon the entry or receipt of security, or as the result of some act or proceeding taken for the express purpose of defeating or nullifying the attachment or garnishment. There is a distinction between the "dissolution" of an attachment and the quashing of a levy; in a proper case a levy may be set aside and the writ of attachment stand. 6 Am J2d Attach § 408.

dissolution of corporation. The termination of the existence of the corporation and its utter extinction and obliteration as an entity or body. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1586.

See de facto dissolution; winding up.

dissolution of injunction. The termination or vacation of an injunction upon cause shown for such relief. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 306.

dissolution of marriage. See annulment of marriage; divorce a vinculo matrimonii.

dissolution of partnership. That change in the partnership relation which ultimately culminates in its termination. The change of the relation of partners caused by any partner's ceasing to be associated in the carrying on of the business. 48 Am J1st Partn § 233. Dissolution is not in itself a termination of the partnership or of all the rights and powers of partners, for many of these persist during the winding-up process which follows dissolution. Under statutory provision distinguishing between dissolution of a partnership and winding-up the business, the conduct of a partner inconsistent with the continuance of a partnership results in the dissolution of the partnership in spite of the fact that liquidation is not completed or some appearances of the partnership continue. Fooshe v Sunshine, 96 Cal App 2d 336, 215 P2d 66, 16 ALR2d 1142.

dissolve. To effect a dissolution; as to dissolve a partnership or a corporation.

dissuade. To persuade one not to follow a certain course or perform a certain act.

distances. Indications in describing the boundaries of a tract of real estate.

See assured clear distance; courses; striking distance.

distemper. A contagious disease affecting animals; an emotional state.

distillation. See distilling.

distiller. A person whose occupation is to extract spirits by distillation. Johnson v State, 44 Ala 414, 416.

distillery. A place or building where alcoholic liquors are distilled or manufactured. The term does not, as ordinarily used, apply to every building where the process of distillation is used, such as a paraffin oil factory. Atlantic Dock Co. v Libby, 45 NY 499, 502.

distilling. A refinement of a liquid by the process of heating it to the boiling point, collecting the vapor, and cooling the vapor, thereby reducing it to a liquid of greater strength and purity than the original; a process in the manufacture of alcoholic beverages. The application of heat to liquid by which means it is converted into steam and afterward converted into liquid, the steam being run through a coil which is kept cool, either by water or other process, cool enough so as to condense the steam into liquid. Whisnant v State, 39 Okla Crim 214, 264 P 837, 839; State v Scott, 119 Or 446, 249 P 817.

distinct. Clear to the senses or mind; easily perceived or understood; plain; unmistakable. Hill v Norton, 74 W Va 428, 438, 82 SE 363.

distincte et aperte. Distinctly and openly.

distinctively. Characteristically, or peculiarly; not necessarily exclusively. Western Union Tel. Co. v Green, 153 Tenn 59, 281 SW 778, 48 ALR 301, 314.

distinctive name. As defined in the departmental regulations for the enforcement of the provisions of the Food and Drugs Act of 1906, the term means a trade, arbitrary, or fancy name which clearly distinguishes a food product, mixture, or compound from any other food product, mixture, or compound. United States v Forty Barrels & Twenty Kegs of Coca Cola, 241 US 265, 286, 60 L Ed 995, 1005, 36 S Ct 573. The later statutes in this field do not contain the "distinctive name" provisions of the former act. 35 Am J2d Food § 45.

distinct offenses. Distinct violations of law, even though they may grow out of the same transaction. The test of identity of offenses is whether the same evidence is required to sustain them; if not, then the fact that both charges relate to and grow out of one transaction does not make a single offense where two are defined by the statutes. Morgan v Devine, 237 US 632, 59 L Ed 1153, 35 S Ct 712.

Distinguenda sunt tempora; aliud est facere, aliud perficere. Times must be distinguished; it is one thing to act and another to finish. The maxim has been applied as asserting the doctrine that the law should be construed in a manner to some extent affected by public sentiment. Blocs v Tobey, 19 Mass 320, 327.

Distinguenda sunt tempora; distingue tempora, et concordabis leges. Times must be distinguished; distinguish times and you will reconcile laws.

Distingue tempora, et concordabis leges. Distinguish times and you will reconcile laws.

distinguishing mark. Birthmark, scar, or other mark of identification; such a mark on a ballot, whether letter, figure, character, cut corner, or mere crease, as shows an intention on the part of the voter to distinguish his particular ballot from others of its class.

A distinguishing mark invalidates a ballot, since it furnishes a means of evading the law as to the secrecy of the ballot. 26 Am J2d Elect § 265.

[361]

distracted. Diverted; worried, sometimes to the point of derangement.

distractio. (Civil law.) A creditor's sale of hypothecated property; a pledgee's sale of a pledge.

distrahere. To withdraw; to sell at public auction; to put up for sale.

distrain. To seize the animals or goods of another, as to take up or withhold the cattle or goods of a tenant for the non-payment of rent, or other duties due the landlord. 32 Am J1st L & T § 613. To seize and impound a trespassing animal. 4 Am J2d Am § 55. A "distrain" involves the actual seizure of the property distrained. No distraint is shown by a mere sale of a tax lien on property without disturbance of the debtor's property ownership. Kroell v New York Ambassador (CA2 NY) 108 F2d 294.

See distress.

distress. The act of distraining the goods or cattle of another; the taking of possession of a personal chattel out of the possession of a wrongdoer into that of the party injured, to procure satisfaction for the wrong done. 3 Bl Comm 6. The common-law writ under which a distress was effected. Barnet v Ihrie (Pa) 1 Rawle 44.

See distress damage feasant; distress for rent.

distress damage feasant. A landowner's seizure and impounding of animals found trespassing and doing damage on his land, and holding them until compensation for the damage sustained is made. 4 Am J2d Am § 55.

distress for rent. A common-law remedy for the collection of rent in arrears which permits the landlord to go upon the demised premises and seize anything he may find there as security for rent in arrears, and hold it without sale until the rental is paid. In a number of jurisdictions, distress for rent either has been expressly abolished by statute or impliedly abolished by statutes providing other remedies for the recovery of rent. In most if not all of the states in which the remedy still exists, its exercise is regulated by statute. 32 Am J1st L & T § 613.

distress infinite. A series of distresses made one after another until satisfaction for the wrong done has been made by the owner of the distrained property. A distress of this nature has no bounds with regard to its quantity and may be repeated from time to time until the stubbornness of the party is conquered. It is used sometimes for extraordinary purposes such as summoning jurors. See 3 Bl Comm 231.

distress warrant. A term of variable meaning. In some jurisdictions, a judicial writ in the nature of an execution. Inhabitants of Baileyville v Lowell, 20 Me 178, 182. In other jurisdictions, a writ within a requirement that all writs run in the name of the state, but not judicial process within the requirement of having such process returnable before a court or justice of the peace. State ex rel. Myers v Hodge, 129 W Va 820, 42 SE2d 23. In another jurisdiction, a mere power of attorney by which a landlord delegates the exercise of his right of distraint to an agent. Re Koizim, (DC NJ) 52 F Supp 357. In some jurisdictions, a remedy for the collection of taxes. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 455.

distributable. Divisible.

See allocable.

distribute. To divide; to apportion; to make distribution of the property of a decedent's estate to the persons entitled thereto.

See pro-rate.

distributees. Persons who are entitled, under the statute of distributions, to the personal estate of one who has died intestate. Henry v Henry, 31 NC (9 Ired L) 278, 279. In the nontechnical sense, all persons in whom the law may vest any part of the property of a decedent. Terral v Terral, 212 Ark 221, 205 SW2d 198, 1 ALR2d 1092.

See heirs; next of kin.

distributing literature. A means of advertising and promoting a cause. Pierce v United States, 252 US 239, 253, 64 L Ed 542, 549, 40 S Ct 205.

distribution. Division. The transmission of personal property of a decedent by the passing of title to the personal representative for the payment of decedent's debts and claims against the estate, and finally to distribute the remainder to the persons entitled by the law of intestate succession. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 1. Swift & Co. v Johnson (CA8 Minn) 138 F 867. Sometimes having reference to real as well as personal property. Foster v Clifford, 87 Ohio St 294, 101 NE 269. Sometimes applied to the disposal of the estate of a testate decedent by the executor. Johnson v Knights of Honor, 53 Ark 255, 13 SW 794.

See decree of final distribution; descent; distributees; distributive share; establishment of heirship; final distribution; hotchpot; statute of distribution.

distribution of capital. The distribution of capital assets of a corporation to the stockholders, thereby depriving creditors of property which is primarily liable to the payment of their claims. Davis v Hemming 101 Conn 713, 127 A 514 39 ALR 133. The term does not include an issue of new stock. Trefry v Putnam, 227 Mass 522, 116 NE 904.

distribution of powers. See division of powers.

distribution policy. See deferred dividend policy.

distributive finding of the issue. A finding of facts for both parties, partly for the plaintiff and partly for the defendant.

distributive justice. A concept exemplified by the maxim—"Unto each shall be rendered that which is his." A guaranty of the due process clause.

Due process of law, in spite of the absolutism of continental governments, is not alien to that code which survived the Roman Empire as the foundation of modern civilization in Europe, and which has given us that fundamental maxim of distributive justice. Hurtado v California, 110 US 516, 531, 28 L Ed 232, 237, 4 S Ct 111, 292.

distributive share. The share in the personal estate of an intestate, after the payment of his debts and claims against the estate, to which a distributee or heir is entitled. 22 Am J2d Desc & D § 22.

The term has also been applied with less precision to the share of a legatee, sometimes to a share in the real estate left by an intestate, even to the share of a devisee. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 550. Strictly speaking, a distributee is not entitled to a share of the specific rights and credits, goods, and chattels of the decedent in the hands of his personal representative, but only to a share in the fund produced by administering them. Wright v Holmes, 100 Me 508, 62 A 507.

[362]

district. A word of variable meaning in the law. A portion of the state with limits set by law for governmental purposes. Chicago & Northwestern Railway Co. v Oconto, 50 Wis 189, 6 NW 607. A judicial district. State ex rel. Brockmeier v Ely, 16 ND 569, 113 NW 711. The area or vicinity of an event. State ex rel. Funck v McCarty, 52 Ohio St 363, 39 NE 1041.

district attorneys. Public officers elected or appointed, as provided in the several state constitutions or by statute, to conduct suits, generally criminal, on behalf of the state in their respective districts. They are sworn ministers of justice, quasi judicial officers representing the commonwealth. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 2.

See United States District Attorney.

district courts. Usually, courts of record having general jurisdiction. In some jurisdictions, constitutional courts. 20 Am J2d Cts § 17. Courts of limited jurisdiction in some states.

district courts of the United States. See United States District Courts.

district director of internal revenue. An officer in the field organization of the Internal Revenue Service. 34 Am J2d Fed Tax 11 9261.

districtio. A distress. See 3 Bl Comm 6.

District of Columbia. The seat of government of the United States, having an area of 69 square miles, situated on the Potomac River, on the border of Maryland opposite Virginia, and subject to the power of Congress to exercise exclusive legislation in reference thereto. 49 Am J1st States § 122. It occupies a unique position, being neither state nor organized territory in the usual sense of such terms. Hepburn v Ellzey (US) 2 Cranch 445, 2 L Ed 332. But it is a state as the word is used in reference to the making of treaties with foreign powers. Geofroy v Riggs, 133 US 258, 33 L Ed 642, 10 S Ct 295.

districts. See district.

district school. A public school open to all children of school age. In some cities such schools are denominated "ward schools." Maxey v Oshkosh, 144 Wis 238, 128 NW 899. Many district schools have been eliminated of recent years by the creation and operation of centralized or consolidated schools.

districtus. A district; a distress.

distringas. A writ of distress; a writ to enforce the attendance of jurors by distress of their goods or seizure of their persons; a proceeding in equity to enforce the obedience of a corporation to a summons; a form of execution. "Whether the writ of execution is called a distringas or an habere facias seisinam, is of little consequence, provided it is calculated to carry the judgment into effect." Barnet v Ihrie (Pa) 1 Rawle 44, 51.

distringas juratores. A writ to enforce the attendance of jurors at court by the distress of their goods or by the seizure of their persons. See 3 Bl Comm 355.

distringas nuper vice comitem. A writ of distress which lay against a man who had been sheriff for nonfeasance while in office.

distringas vice comitem. A writ of distress which lay against a sheriff who neglected to execute a writ.

distringere. To distrain.

disturb. To throw into disorder or confusion; to derange; to interrupt the settled state of; to excite from a state of rest. Watkins v Kaolin Mfg. Co. 131 NC 536, 42 SE 983.

disturbance. A wrong done to some incorporeal hereditament, by hindering or disquieting the owners in their regular and lawful enjoyment of it. See 3 Bl Comm 236.

disturbance of common. The incommoding or diminishing of a right of common. See 3 Bl Comm 237.

disturbance of franchises. Such a disturbance as happens when a man has the franchise of holding a court-leet, of keeping a fair or market, of free-warren, of taking toll, of seising waifs or estrays, or any other species of franchise, and he is disturbed or incommoded in its lawful exercise. See 3 Bl Comm 236.

disturbance of patronage. A hindrance or obstruction of a patron to present his clerk to a benefice. This disturbance differed from usurpation which was an absolute dispossession of the patron and happened when a stranger without right presented a clerk who was forthwith admitted and instituted. See 3 Bl Comm 242.

disturbance of public worship. See disturbance of worship.

disturbance of repose. A violation of sepulture in unauthorized exhumation an removal of remains or the desecration of a grave, such being an actionable wrong and a criminal act as well. 22 Am J2d Dead B § 18.

disturbance of tenure. The breaking of the relation which subsisted between a lord and his tenant. To have an estate well tenanted was an advantage to every landlord and the driving away of a tenant from his estate was a considerable injury for the redress of which an action on the case lay at common law. See 3 Bl Comm 242.

disturbance of the peace. A breach of peace. 12 Am J2d Breach P § 4.

See breach of peace; riot.

disturbance of ways. A species of disturbance which happened chiefly when a person who had a right of way over the land of another, by grant or prescription, was obstructed by enclosures or other obstacles, or by ploughing across it, whereby he could not use the way at all, or at least in a less convenient manner than he might have done. See 3 Bl Comm 241.

disturbance of worship. The common-law offense of disturbance of persons gathered for the purpose of religious worship, extended by statute to the protection of all lawful meetings against the wilful and tumultuous conduct of persons attempting to make a disturbance. 24 Am J2d Disturb M § 1. Any act which is disorderly and subversive of the solemnity and decorum due to the occasion and the place, which is committed while a congregation is assembled for public worship; as where a member of the congregation arose from his seat and interrogated the minister, while the latter was taking up the collection, as to remarks made in his sermon. Wall v Lee, 34 NY 141, 149.

disturber. A person who commits a disturbance.

disturbing. See disturbing meeting; and see also terms and expressions beginning disturbance.

[363]

disturbing meeting. Wilful and tumultuous conduct of persons making, or attempting to make, a disturbance at a religious meeting or other lawful assembly. People v Malone, 156 App Div 10, 141 NYS 149. Any conduct which is contrary to the usages of the particular sort of meeting and class of persons assembled and interferes with its due progress or annoys the assembly in whole or in part is a disturbance. It may consist of a physical act, a verbal expression, an indecent gesture, or generally anything violative of the character and purpose of the particular meeting. 24 Am J2d Disturb M § 5.

disuse. See nonuser.

diswarren. To change the use or character of land from that of a warren.

ditch. A hollow space in the ground, either natural or artificial, where water is collected or drained away. Barton v Drainage Dist. 174 Ark 173, 294 SW 418. A way or course of drainage of surface water. Anno: 81 ALR 263.

ditch company. See irrigation companies.

dites ouster. You say over again,—a formal expression used in a judgment of respondeat ouster. See 3 Bl Comm 303.

dittay. The charge of crime contained in an indictment.

ditto mark. The mark ", used to indicate that the word in a line, under which the mark appears, is to be considered duplicated in the line below.

divers. Different, various, sundry, several.

diverse. Different; varied.

diverse citizenship. See diversity of citizenship.

diverse considerations. Not sufficient, at common law, as an allegation of a money consideration. Hartley v McAnulty (Pa) 4 Yeates 95.

diversion of goods. The right and act of a shipper by common carrier in changing the destination of the shipment at any intermediate point through which the goods pass before reaching their original destination. 13 Am J2d Car § 393.

diversion of stream. Changing the course or channel of a natural stream. 56 Am J1st War § 14.

See diversion of water.

diversion of water. The extraction of water from a stream or other body of water for the purpose of making use of it, such constituting an actionable wrong to a lower riparian owner where it is not limited to a taking for a reasonable use, causes a material diminution of the stream, and materially interferes with the rights of the lower riparian owner. Parker v Griswold, 17 Conn 288, 299.

See diversion of stream.

diversis diebus et vicibus. At divers days and times.

diversity cases. Actions properly before federal courts because of diversity of citizenship of the parties. 20 Am J2d Cts § 13.

See diversity of citizenship.

diversity jurisdiction. The jurisdiction of a federal court arising from diversity of citizenship of the parties. 20 Am J2d Cts § 13.

See diversity of citizenship.

diversity of citizenship. A ground for invoking the original jurisdiction of a Federal District Court, the basis of jurisdiction on such ground being the existence of an actual and substantial controversy between citizens of different states. There is a diversity of citizenship, in a case involving a plurality of parties, where all the parties on one side of a controversy are citizens of different states from all those on the other side. Indianapolis v Chase Nat. Bank, 314 US 63, 86 L Ed 569, 62 S Ct 355. The same principle applies in determining diversity of citizenship for the purpose of removing a case from a state court to a federal court. Gainesville v Brown-Crummer Invest. Co. 277 US 54, 72 L Ed 781, 48 S Ct 454.

diversity of person. A plea interposed after a judgment of conviction denying the identity of the prisoner with that of the convicted defendant.

diverso intuitu. With a different purpose or motive. Where the original consideration flows from A, not solely upon the promise of B or C, but upon the promise of both, diverso intuitu, each becomes liable to A, not upon a joint, but a several original undertaking. D'Wolf v Rabaud (US) 1 Pet 476, 500, 7 L Ed 227, 237.

diversorium. A place of entertainment; an inn.

divers persons. At least three or more persons. State v Lustig, 13 NJ Super 149, 80 A2d 309.

dives costs. A rich man's costs, ordinary costs, as opposed to costs taxed to a defendant who appears in forma pauperis.

divest. To deprive or cause the loss of a right or title.

divestiture. A being divested, as by a surrender of a right or title.

divestive fact. A fact, the existence of which divests or modifies a right.

divide. The severance or partition into two equal parts, except as the word may be qualified by other terms. Groves v Jones, 252 Mich 446, 233 NW 375. In common usage, to sever into two parts; to cut or part into several or many pieces. Graves v White, 43 Colo 131, 134.

divide and pay over rule. The rule that where the only words of gift in a testamentary disposition of property are found in the direction to divide or pay at a time subsequent to the death of the testator, time is to be taken as of the essence of the gift and the interest is future and contingent, rather than immediate and vested. See Lytle v Guilliams, 241 Iowa 523, 41 NW2d 668, 16 ALR2d 1377.

divided court. A division of the judges or justices on the decision to be rendered. Division does not affect the character of the case as a precedent, unless the court is equally divided, in which case, the doctrine of stare decisis has no application. 20 Am J2d Cts § 195.

divided custody. An alternating custody of a child between divorced parents. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 799.

divided damages rule. The rule in admiralty that where two parties are jointly responsible for a tort to a third, each is primarily liable only for half of the damages. 2 Am J2d Adm § 212.

divided fractional part. Used in the granting clause of a deed, the term indicates an intention to convey in severalty. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 196.

divided highway. A highway in which traffic moving in one direction is separated from traffic moving in the other direction by a raised portion of a low wall, or an open space.

[364]

divided reputation. A paradoxical expression for diversity of evidence as to general reputation. Jackson v Jackson, 82 Md 17, 33 A 317.

Divide et impera, cum radix et vertex imperil in obedientium consensu rata sunt. Divide and rule, for the root and pinnacle of empire are rated in the consent of the obedient.

dividend. A gain or profit. Hellmich v Hellman (CA8 Me) 18 F2d 239. A division into shares; one of such shares. A payment made by a corporation to its stockholders out of surplus earnings and under authority of a resolution by the board of directors which declares the policy of a paying a portion or all of such surplus to the stockholders. Lamb v Lehmann, 110 Ohio St 59, 143 NE 276, 42 ALR 437. A disbursement by a business trust to its members. A payment made to general creditors in a proceeding in bankruptcy; sometimes used in a broader significance as including a payment made in satisfaction of priority debts. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1262. A payment made to creditors in insolvency proceedings.

Used in the limitation of a life estate and a remainder in connection with a provision for the disposition of extraordinary dividends and distributions as between life tenant and remainder, the term "dividend" is equivalent to "income." 33 Am J1st Life Est § 378.

See cash dividend; cumulative dividends; dividend additions; dividend in scrip; dividend on insurance policy; dividend warrant; guaranteed dividends; non-cumulative dividends; stock dividend.

dividends. An indenture; one of the two parts of an indenture.

dividend addition. A term usually applied to paid-up insurance purchased by a dividend, but at other times understood to mean dividends. 29 Am J1st Ins § 648.

See paid-up addition.

dividend declared. See declaration of dividend.

dividend in kind. A corporate dividend in any medium other than money. Commissioner v First State Bank (CA5) 168 F2d 1004, 7 ALR2d 738.

dividend in liquidation. A payment made to creditors in a bankruptcy proceeding. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1262. A payment made to creditors in insolvency proceedings. A distribution to stockholders in a corporation or members of a firm or business enterprise of the fund remaining after the liquidation of the business and the payment of creditors. Hellman v Helvering, 63 App DC 18, 68 F2d 763.

dividend in scrip. A certificate issued by a corporation to its stockholder evidencing the holder's title to the same extent of interest in the property and franchise as a stock dividend, except that the corporation has the right to pay the dividend out of future earnings, and except also that the scrip dividend confers no right to vote. Bailey v New York Cent. & Hudson River Railroad Co. (US) 22 Wall 604, 22 L Ed 840.

dividend off. A sale of a corporate stock not carrying to the purchaser a dividend previously declared; same as ex dividend. 19 Am J2d Corp § 892.

dividend on. A characterization of a sale of corporate stock carrying a dividend previously declared. 19 Am J2d Corp § 892.

dividend on insurance policy. A payment made by an insurance company to policyholders from the surplus of the company, either in cash, by way of credit on the premium, or by applying it to the purchase of paid-up insurance called a dividend addition. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 110.

See dividend addition.

dividend policy. A most common form of life insurance policy issued under a plan whereby each policyholder pays annually in advance a fixed sum which, when added to like payments by others, probably will create a fund larger than necessary to meet all maturing policies and estimated expenses. At the end of each year the actual insurance costs and expenses incurred are ascertained. The difference between their sums and the total of advance payments and other income, then becomes the "overpayment" or surplus fund for immediate pro rata distribution among policyholders as dividends or for such future disposition as the contracts provide. An "annual dividend" policyholder receives his proportionate part of this fund each year in cash, as a credit upon or abatement of his next premium, or in the form of paid-up insurance purchased by the dividend. New York Life Ins. Co. v Edwards, 271 US 109, 115, 70 L Ed 859, 861, 46 S Ct 436.

dividend warrant. A warrant or order on a corporation treasury for the amount of a stockholder's dividend.

divinare. To divine; to guess; to prophesy.

Divinatio non interpretatio est, quae omnino recedit a literis. It is guesswork and not interpretation which wholly departs from the literal.

divine. Pertaining to God.

divine law. A law which has God for its author, as distinguished from man-made law. The definition is sometimes refined by recognizing two types, natural law and positive or revealed law. Borden v State, 11 Ark 519.

divine right of kings. The old theory that the king derived his power from God.

There has never been any sensible reason for asserting that the title to the throne of England was by divine right. 1 Bl Comm 191.

divine service. Religious worship.

See tenure by divine service.

divining-rod. A rod or twig held in the hand and supposed to indicate the location of subterranean water by being pulled down by a mysterious force at the farther end.

divisa. A boundary.

Divisibilis est semper divisibilis. That which is divisible is always divisible.

divisibility of statute. See severability of statute.

divisible. Susceptible of being divided or separated into component parts.

divisible contract. A contract of which a part is susceptible of separate or independent treatment with respect to some particular right or remedy. 46 Am

[365]

J1st Sales § 140. A contract, the performance of which is divided into different groups, each set embracing performances which are the agreed exchange for each other; in other words, on performance by one side of one of the successive divisions, the other party becomes liable for his performance of that division. 17 Am J2d Contr § 324; 46 Am J1st Sales § 140. A contract enforceable as to a part which is valid, although another part is invalid and unenforceable. 17 Am J2d Contr § 230. An insurance policy under which there may be recovery for the loss of one of several items covered by the policy, notwithstanding a breach of warranty or condition precludes recovery as to another item or items. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 283.

See severability of contract.

divisible divorce. The phrase used in reference to a decree of divorce which is valid insofar as it grants a divorce, but may be invalid insofar as it purports to adjudicate separable personal rights, because of want of personal service of process within the state. Estin v Estin, 334 US 541, 92 L Ed 1561, 68 S Ct 1213, 1 ALR2d 1412. The "divisible divorce" doctrine is a recognition of the fact that dissolution of the marital status by a divorce may or may not extinguish all the obligations of a husband originally created as incidents thereof, including the duty to support the former wife. Pawley v Pawley (Fla) 46 So 2d 464, 28 ALR2d 1358. Under the "divisible divorce" concept, a divorce decree may be completely effective to dissolve a marriage and yet be completely ineffective to alter certain legal and economic incidents of that marriage. Lynn v Lynn, 302 NY 193, 97 NE2d 748, 28 ALR2d 1335.

divisible judgment. See severable judgment.

divisible statute. See severability of statute.

divisim. Severally; separately.

divisim et conjunctim. Severally and jointly.

division. Separation. The ascertainment of a legislative vote by separating the members. A dissension or schism between groups of members of the congregation of a church, causing it to split into factions, each faction claiming to be the true body or congregation of the church. Poynter v Phelps, 129 Ky 381, 111 SW 699.

See benefit of division; political division.

divisional court. An English court composed of two or more judges of the high court of justice and sitting only in special cases.

division fence. See partition fence.

division of administrative body. Organization of a board or commission by panels or divisions, each of which shall have and exercise all the jurisdiction and powers of the board or commission. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 196.

division of commission. See splitting commission.

division of fees. A permissible practice as between attorneys at law representing a client jointly, the division being equal in the absence of a contract to the contrary. 7 Am J2d Attys § 260. A reprehensible practice, which is a ground for disbarment or suspension of license, where performed in consideration of the solicitation of business by the person with whom the fee is split. Utz v State Bar of California, 21 Cal 2d 100, 150, 130 P2d 377; Re Tuthill, 256 App Div 539 10 NYS2d 643, app den 256 App Div 1059 11 NYS2d 842. Also a reprehensible practice, known as fee-splitting, where it consists in the conduct of an employment agency in charging a fee to the worker and paying a part of it to the employer; a practice akin to job-selling by foremen and superintendents. Ribnik v McBride, 277 US 350, 72 L Ed 913.

division of opinion. The disagreement in opinion of the judges of a court when they do not concur in rendering their decisions.

See divided court.

division of powers. The system under the constitution of the United States wherein the powers of government are divided between the federal and the state governments. 16 Am J2d Const L § 198.

See separation of powers.

division wall. A wall on the line or abutting the line between the property of adjoining landowners. Such may become a party wall by agreement or prescription.

See party wall.

divisum imperium. A divided authority; the concurrent jurisdiction of different tribunals over the same subject matter. See 1 Bl Comm 110.

divorce. A dissolution of the marriage relation between husband and wife, the term, standing alone, importing a complete severance of the tie by which the parties were united. Miller v Miller, 33 Cal 353.

A divorce decree is a judgment. Jelin v Jelm, 155 Ohio St 226, 98 NE2d 401, 22 ALR2d 1300.

See absolute divorce; alimony; collusive divorce; discretionary divorce; divorce a mensa et thorn; divorce a vinculo matrimonii; divorced; divorcee; foreign divorce; Indian divorce; interlocutory decree; judicial divorce; judicial separation; legislative divorce; limited divorce; separate maintenance; separation; separation agreement.

divorce'. A divorced man.

divorce a mensa et thoro. A judicial decree which terminates the obligation and right of cohabitation but does not affect the status of the parties as married persons or dissolve the marriage. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 1. A limited, partial or qualified divorce which suspends the marriage relation and modifies the duties and obligations but leaves the marriage bond in full force, a judicial separation. Givens v Givens, 121 Fla 271, 63 So 574; People v John, 181 Misc 921, 44 NYS2d 806.

A final judgment for divorce, if the divorce granted is an absolute divorce, dissolves the marriage bond and changes the status of the parties; if the divorce is limited, or, as sometimes called, a decree of separation from bed and board, it merely relieves the parties from their obligations and rights as to cohabitation, support, and property interests. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 1.

divorce a vinculo matrimonii. A judicial dissolution or termination of the bonds of matrimony, because of matrimonial misconduct or other statutory cause arising after the marriage ceremony, with the result that the status of the parties is changed from coverture to that of single persons. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 1.

divorced. Marriage dissolved absolutely. Miller v Miller, 33 Cal 353.

A husband against whom an interlocutory decree only has been entered is not divorced within the definition. Re Newman, 88 Cal App 186, 262 P 1112.

[366]

divorcée. A divorced woman.

divorce from bed and board. Same as divorce a mensa et thoro.

divorcement. Divorce; divorcing.

See bill of divorcement.

divorce proctor. A public official upon whom the process in a suit for divorce must be served. Smythe v Smythe, 80 Or 150, 149 P 516, 156 P 785.

Divorce Recognition Act. One of the uniform laws. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 494.

divortium. Divorce.

Divortium dicitur a divertendo, quia vir divertitur ab uxore. Divorce is said to be from "divertendo," because a man is diverted or turned away from his wife.

divot. See feal and divot.

divulge. To reveal.

Under a statute forbidding the interception or divulging of a telephone communication without the authority of the sender, to shunt a conversation so that a third person may and does hear it is to "divulge" a communication even though the person doing the shunting does not hear the conversation. United States v Gruber (CA2 NY) 123 F2d 307.

dixième. One-tenth.

dixit. See ipse dixit.

do. I give; I grant.

See dedi.

Dobson Rule. A decision of the United States Supreme Court that a Tax Court decision must stand if the appellate court cannot separate the elements of the decision so as to identify a clear cut mistake of law and the decision of such court has warrant in the record and a reasonable basis in the law. Dobson v Commissioner, 320 US 489, 88 L Ed 248, 64 S Ct 239, reh den 321 US 231, 88 L Ed 691, 64 S Ct 494.

dock. Noun: In common parlance, a wharf or pier. Technically, the space between wharves; a slip. Boston v Lecraw (US) 17 How 426, 15 L Ed 118. An artificial basin in connection with a harbor, used for the reception of vessels in the taking on or discharging of their cargoes, sometimes provided with gates for preventing the rise and fall of the waters occasioned by the tides. The Robert W. Parsons, 191 US 17, 48 L Ed 73, 24 S Ct 8. The word is also used to designate the place reserved in the courtroom for a prisoner on trial. Verb: To bring a vessel into dock. To clip or bob, as to "dock" a horse's tail. Bland v People, 32 Colo 319, 324, 76 P 359.

See dry dock; graving dock.

dockage. Compensation for use of a wharf; the charge made against a vessel for the privilege of mooring to a wharf or in a slip; also called wharfage. 56 Am J1st Whar § 30.

See double wharfage.

dockage lien. See wharfage lien.

docket. Noun: A term somewhat confusing because of variation in meaning between jurisdictions. Literally, a list or register of cases, whether for trial in the nisi prius court (53 Am J1st Trial §§ 5-7) or for hearing on appeal. 5 Am J2d A & E § 678. A record of cases and of the proceedings had in a case, although not a record in the extended form of a journal of the proceedings of a court. Verb: To enter upon the docket. An appeal is docketed when the appropriate papers are received by the clerk of the appellate court and the case has been entered by him on the docket, whether or not the clerk has received the docket fees. Drennen v Johnson, 65 Colo 381, 176 P 479.

See calendar; docketing judgment; striking a docket.

docketed. See docket; docketing judgment.

docket fees. Sums collected for placing the case on the docket or calendar; fees allowable to attorneys under a federal statute. Anno: 22 ALR 1208.

docketing judgment. Noting a judgment, which has been entered of record, upon the judgment docket, so that notice may be taken readily by anyone concerned, and that execution may be issued. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 93. The entry of a judgment is a proceeding distinct from that of docketing. Rockwood v Davenport, 37 Minn 533, 35 NW 377.

See entry of judgment.

docking. See dock.

dock line. Same as harbor line.

dock warrant. A warehouse receipt.

doctor. A term most commonly applied to a physician. Witty v State, 173 Ind 404, 90 NE 627. Equally applicable to a dentist, even to a veterinarian. Applicable in fact to a person who has attained a doctorate conferred by a university in any branch of learning—medicine, law, divinity, philosophy, etc. State v MacKnight, 131 NC 717, 42 SE 580.

The degree of M. D. is something more than a mere honorary title. It is a certificate attesting the fact that the person upon whom it has been conferred has successfully mastered the curriculum of study prescribed by the authorities of an institution created by law, and by law authorized to issue such certificate. It thus has a legal sanction and authority. But it has more. In practical affairs, it introduces its possessor to the confidence and patronage of the general public. Its legal character gives it a moral and material credit in the estimation of the world, and makes it thereby a valuable property right of great pecuniary value. Townshend v Gray, 62 Vt 378, 19 A 635.

The term is applied with a degree of levity to drug clerks, male nurses, hospital attendants, etc. Of course, calling a person "doctor" or "doc" does not qualify him as a professional. A person licensed to practice drugless healing is not a "doctor" and rules of law pertaining distinctively to the latter are not applicable to the former. Kelly v Carroll, 36 Wash 2d 482, 219 P2d 79, 19 ALR2d 1174.

See physician.

doctor and patient. See physician and patient.

Doctor and Student. An ancient treatise on the common law which is written in the form of a dialogue between a teacher and his pupil.

doctor of medicine. See M.D.; physician.

Doctors' Commons. An institution near St. Paul's Cathedral, where the ecclesiastical and admiralty courts are held. In 1768, a royal charter was obtained, by virtue of which the members of the society and their successors were incorporated under the name and title of "The College of Doctors of Laws exercent in the ecclesiastical and admiralty courts.—Wharton's Law Dict.

Doctor's Draft Act. A federal statute providing for the induction of members of the medical profession

[367]

into military service for assignment to the Medical Corps as commissioned officers of rank or grade commensurate with education, experience, and ability. Nelson v Peckham (CA4 Va) 210 F2d 574.

doctrine. A rule or principle of law which has been developed by the decisions of the courts.

For definition of a particular doctrine, see the concrete term, such as anticipatory breach; earmark; inverse order of alienation; laches; pin money; res ipsa loquitur; shifting descents; tacking, virtual representation; etc.

document. Any matter expressed or described upon any substance by means of letters, figures or marks, or by more than one of these means, intended to be used, or which may be used, for the purpose of recording that matter. 29 Am J2d Ev § 834. The term is broadly applied to writings, to words printed, lithographed or photographed, to seals, plates, or stones on which inscriptions are cut or engraved, to photographs and pictures, to maps and plans. Arnold v Pawtucket Valley Water Co. 18 RI 189, 26 A 55. The term is applicable as an instrument having operative effect in itself, such as a document of title, as well as to writings of evidentiary effect.

documentary evidence. Tangible objects capable of expressing a fact or tending to establish the truth or untruth of a matter at issue, including all kinds of documents, records, and writings. 29 Am J2d Ev § 834. In oral evidence, the witness is the person who speaks; in documentary evidence, the witness is the thing that speaks. Curtis v Bradley, 65 Conn 99, 31 A 591.

documentary bill. Same as document bill.

documentary exchange. Same as document bill.

documentary stamp tax. See stamp taxes.

document bill. A bill of exchange drawn by a consignor on a consignee of the goods with negotiable bill of lading attached to the bill of exchange evidencing collateral security, whereby the consignor is enabled to get immediate payment on account of the price of his goods.

document of title. A bill of lading, dock warrant, dock receipt, warehouse receipt, or order for the delivery of goods, and also any other document which in the regular course of business or financing is treated as adequately evidencing that the person in possession of it is entitled to receive, hold, and dispose of the document and the goods it covers. 15 Am J2d Com C § 7.

do, dico, addico. I give judgment, I expound the law, I execute the law. These were the words which the Roman law permitted the praetor to use on triverbial days upon which he was allowed to decide cases. See 3 Bl Comm 424.

Doe. See John Doe.

doer. A person who does an act; an actor; an agent; an attorney.

dog. A canine animal useful in hunting, driving livestock, preventing intrusions upon property, and a source of pleasure as a pet. A thing of value within the meaning of a statute on burglary. 13 Am J2d Burgl § 24.

The old rule of the common law that a dog was not property and accordingly could not be the subject of larceny is preserved in a very few states, but dogs are now generally regarded as chattels and as subjects of larceny. 32 Am J1st Larc § 79.

Stealing a dog was not larceny at common law, because it was deemed not fit that a person should die for a dog. State v Soward, 83 Ark 264, 103 SW 741.

According to some authorities, dogs are livestock within the meaning of statutes relating to the duty of a railroad company toward livestock upon its track, but other authorities are to the contrary. 44 Am J1st R R § 591.

dogdraw. An arrest for killing deer made while the person arrested was on the scent with a dog.

dog hole. A nickname which was given to the Court of the Second Vice-Chancellor of England.

dogma. An order of the Roman senate. A belief, especially in the field of religion; an opinion asserted with arrogance.

dog racing. An amusement. A game within the meaning of some statutes penalizing the placing of bets upon a game. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 22. In some jurisdictions, conducted on a pari-mutuel basis for legalized betting.

dog tag. A metal tag with identification number obtained upon the registration of a dog. 4 Am J2d Am § 23. Jargon of the military for the identification tag worn by a man in the armed service.

doing business. Carrying on business; engaging in business. In the case of a corporation, the exercise of some of the functions and the carrying on of the ordinary business for which the corporation was organized. Home Lumber Co. v Hopkins, 107 Kan 153, 190 P 601, 10 ALR 879, 886.

doing business in state. A foreign corporation is doing, transacting, engaging in, or carrying on, business in the state when, and ordinarily only when, it has entered the state through its agents and is there engaged in transacting through them some substantial part of its ordinary or customary business, usually continuous in the sense that it may be distinguished from merely casual, sporadic, or occasional transactions and isolated acts. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 317. A combination of acts or transactions may constitute doing business, where neither of the acts or transactions taken separately amounts to doing business. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 68. A foreign corporation may safely be said to be doing business wherever an important combination of functions is being performed, such as the ownership, possession, or control of property, dealing with others in reference to the property, the exercise of discretion, the making of business decisions, the execution of contracts, the marketing of a product by advertising and solicitation, and collecting for the sold product. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 319.

doing equity. See he who seeks equity must do equity.

doit. Same as doitkin.

doitkin. A small base coin the use of which was forbidden by statute under Henry the Fifth.

dole. A division of ore among miners; a payment to the unemployed; a gift by way of charity.

do, lego. I give and bequeath.

dolg bote. A compensation paid for inflicting a wound.

doll capax. (Civil law.) Capable of mischief. Between the ages of ten and a half to fourteen children were punishable for crime if they were proved capable of committing it. See 1 Bl

[368]

Comm 464. (Common law.) Between the ages of seven and fourteen children were punishable for crime if they could discern good from evil. See 4 Bl Comet 23.

See doll incapax.

doll incapax. Incapable of mischief. At common law a child under seven was doll incapax; that is, he could not be guilty of felony, but between the ages of seven and fourteen he was only prima facie dots incapax; that is, if it appeared to the court and the jury that he was dots capax and could discern between good and evil, he could be convicted and punished capitally. See 4 Bl Comm 23.

See doll capax.

doli mali. See exceptio doli mali.

dollar. The legal currency of the United States; State v Downs, 148 Ind 324, 327; the unit of money consisting of one hundred cents. The aggregate of specific coins which add up to one dollar. 36 Am J1st Money § 8. In the absence of qualifying words, it cannot mean promissory notes, bonds, or other evidences of debt. 36 Am J1st Money § 8.

dollar sign. An abbreviation ($) for a dollar or dollars. 1 Am J2d Abbr § 9.

dolo. (Spanish.) Malice; fraud.

dolo malo. See de dolo malo; ex dolo malo.

Dolosus versatur in generalibus. A deceiver deals in generalities.

dolphin. A cetacean. A mammal of the sea, being a kind of whale. A porpoise. A buoy or float used as a mooring for a boat and also as a means of boarding a boat.

Dolum ex indicis perspicuis probari convenit. Fraud should be established by clear proofs.

dolus. Malice; fraud; deceit.

Dolus auctoris non nocet successors, nisi in causa lucrativa. The fraud of one prejudices not his successor, unless a valuable consideration is wanting.

Dolus circuitu non purgator. Fraud is not purged by circuitry.

Dolus dans locum contractui. Fraud giving occasion for the contract; false representation, inducing a contract.

Dolus est machinatio, cum aliud dissimulat aliud agit. Deceit is an artifice, because it pretends one thing and does another.

Dolus et fraus nemini patrocinentur; patrocinari debent. Deceit and fraud will protect no one; they require protection.

Dolus latet in generalibus. Fraud lies hidden in generalities.

Dolus malus. Actual fraud arising from facts and circumstances of imposition.

Dolus versatur in generalibus. Fraud deals in generalities.

domain. The land of one who has paramount title and absolute ownership. People v Shearer, 30 Cal 645, 658.

See demesne; public domain.

Dombec. Same as Dome Book.

dome. A judgment.

Dome Book. Same as Dome Book.

Also called "Liber Judicialis,"—a compilation made in the time of Alfred, about 887, which was said to contain the principal maxims of the common law, the penalties for misdemeanors, and the forms of judicial proceedings. See 1 Bl Comm 64.

Domesday Rook. A famous book in two volumes published during the reign of William the Conqueror and finished a short time before his death in 1087. The book contained the great survey of all England, except the counties of Cumberland, Northumberland, Durham, and part of Lancashire, and of all the manors held in ancient demesne, and it came to be of great value and assistance in the establishment of land titles. The book is said to have received its name because it was as general and conclusive as the last judgment will be. See 1 Bl Comm 49, 99; 3 Bl Comm 331.

domesmen. The judges of certain inferior courts in England.

domestic. Adjective: Belonging to the household or home; inhabiting the house. Thurston v Carter, 112 Me 361, 92 A 295. Local as distinguished from foreign. Noun: One employed as a servant in the home.

See domestic servant.

domestic animal. A tame animal, associated with family life, or accustomed to live in or near the habitation of men. Thurston v Carter, 112 Me 361, 92 A 295; Commonwealth v Flynn, 285 Mass 136, 188 NE 627, 92 ALR 206.

domestic association. An association existing in and sanctioned by the laws of a state. United States v Cambridge Loan & Bldg. Co. 278 US 55, 73 L Ed 180.

domesticated animal. An animal wild by nature which has been so reclaimed as to become tame and under the dominion and control of its master. Hurley v State, 30 Tex App 333.

domestication. Taming an animal wild by nature so as to bring it under the dominion and control of its master. 4 Am J2d Am § 17. The procedure by which a foreign corporation is given the status of the domestic corporation. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 374. The term is used at times in reference to procedure in licensing a foreign corporation or granting it a franchise to operate as a public utility and also to the actual reincorporation of a foreign corporation. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 376.

domestic attachment. An attachment which is levied on the property of a debtor who resides in the state where the levy is made. The term is significant in contrast to foreign attachment.

See foreign attachment.

domestic bill of exchange. A bill of exchange which is drawn on a drawee who resides in the same state as the drawer of the bill.

domestic citizenship. Citizenship of a state as distinguished from citizenship of the United States. Dred Scott v Sanford (US) 19 How 393, 15 L Ed 691. This case was decided in 1857. The Fourteenth Amendment declaring citizens of the United States to be "citizens of the State wherein they reside," was adopted in 1868.

[369]

domestic commerce. See intrastate commerce.

domestic corporation. A term contrasting with "foreign corporation," meaning a corporation of the state, that is, a corporation organized and created under the laws of the state. Sometimes, more elaborately defined by statute as a corporation created by or under the laws of the state, or located in the state and created by or under the laws of the United States. First Nat. Bank v Doying (NY) 13 Daly 509, 510. As the term is used in Federal statutes in connection with corporations or partnerships, its usual meaning is created or organized in the United States, and the word "foreign" in the same connection usually means created or organized outside the United States. Hecht v Malley, 265 US 144, 154, 68 L Ed 949, 956, 44 S Ct 46.

See foreign corporation.

domestic fixtures. Such chattels as have been affixed to a dwelling house for the comfort or convenience of the tenant. Such fixtures include stoves and ranges fixed in brickwork, furnaces, gas fixtures, pumps, clocks, window blinds, bath tubs. The tenant may lawfully remove domestic fixtures which have been annexed to the premises by himself for the more advantageous use thereof, provided no material injury results to the realty or to the substantial characteristics of the articles. Raymond v Strickland, 124 Ga 504, 52 SE 619.

domestic judgment. A judgment rendered by a court in the sovereignty or jurisdiction wherein rights or liabilities under the judgment are involved in an action. The term is significant only by way of contrasting such a judgment with a "foreign judgment." 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 232.

See foreign judgment.

domestic medicine. See domestic remedy.

domestic purposes. Uses of the services of a public utility which contribute to health, comfort, and convenience of a family in the enjoyment of their dwelling as a home. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 182; 56 Am J1st Wat Wk § 57. Sometimes more elaborately defined by statute in reference to water rights and irrigation to include water for the household and an additional amount for domestic animals. Anno: Ann Cas 1912, 612.

As the term "domestic use" is used in an ordinance fixing water rates, it means the use to which water is applied by the family, or for family use, and includes all uses to which water is applied around the home; but it does not include the use of water in public parks or public pleasure resorts maintained by the city. Water Supply Co. v Albuquerque, 17 NM 326, 128 P 77.

See family use.

domestic remedy. An herb or other plant having, or believed to have medicinal value. The expression frequently occurs in statutes regulating the practice of medicine, and as there used the words refer to the administration of medicine in the family or in the household, without the aid of a physician. State v Huff, 75 Kan 585, 90 P 279.

domestics. Same as domestic servants.

domestic servants. Household employees rather than farm laborers or chauffeurs working outside. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1395. Servants who receive wages and stay in the house of the person paying and employing them for service to him or his family, such as valets, footmen, cooks, butlers and others who reside in the house. Cook v Dodge, 6 La Ann 275, 277.

domestics infra moenia. Domestics within the walls,—menial servants employed in and about a dwelling house. 35 Am J1st M & S § 530.

domesticum. See forum domesticum.

domesticus. A steward.

domestic use. See domestic purposes.

domicil. The relationship which the law creates between an individual and a particular locality or country. The place where a person has his true fixed permanent home and principal establishment, and to which place he has, whenever he is absent, the intention of returning, and from which he has no present intention of moving. 25 Am J2d Dom § 1.

In a particular context, it may be the same as residence. Anno: 12 ALR2d 759; 57 Am J1st Wills § 766. It is not exactly synonymous with residence. It is (1) the fact of residence and (2) the intention to remain. Ex parte Weissinger, 247 Ala 113, 22 So 2d 510; McIntosh v Maricopa County, 73 Ariz 366, 241 P2d 801, 31 ALR2d 770. A person may have his residence in one place and his domicil in another. Missouri Pacific R. Co. v Lawrence, 215 Ark 718, 223 SW2d 823, 12 ALR2d 748. He can have only one domicil at the same time, though he may have more than one residence. State v Allen, 48 W Va 154, 160, 35 SE 990.

He who stops even for a long time in a place for the management of his affairs, has a simple habitation there, but has no domicil. Re Thompson (NY) 1 Wend 45.

See change of domicil; commercial domicil; corporate domicil; domicil by operation of law; domicil of origin; floating intention; habitancy; habitation; home; loss of domicil; matrimonial domicil; national domicil; permanent abode; place of abode; place of usual abode; residence; settlement of a pauper; voluntary domicil.

domicil by operation of law. That domicil which the law attributes to a person independent of his own intention or selection. This results generally from the domestic relations of husband and wife or parent and child, the domicil of the wife or the child following that of the husband or father as a legal consequence. Re Estate of Jones, 192 Iowa 78, 182 NW 227, 16 ALR 1286, 1289; Re Weber, 187 Misc 674, 64 NYS2d 281.

The words "resides" as used in a statute providing that proceedings to remove disabilities of a minor shall be instituted in the county where he resides, does not mean his bodily presence, but his legal domicil, which is that of his father. Gulf, C. & S. F. R. Co. v Lemons, 109 Tex 244, 206 SW 75, 5 ALR 943.

domicile. Same as domicil.

domiciled note. A promissory note payable at a designated bank. 11 Am J2d B & N § 22.

domiciliary administrator. An administrator of a decedent's estate appointed and acting at the place of the decedent's domicil. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 681.

domiciliary executor. An executor appointed and acting at the place of the testator's domicil. See 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 688.

domiciliate. To establish one's domicil in a place.

domicilii. See forum domicilii.

domicilii actoris. See forum domicilii actoris.

[370]

domicilii rei. See forum domicilii rei.

domicilium ex proprio motu. (Latin.) Domicil of one's own choice.
See domicil of choice.

domicilium originis. (Latin.) Domicil of origin; the domicil assigned to a child at his birth. 25 Am J2d Dom § 13.
See domicil of origin.

domicil of child. See domicil by operation of law.

domicil of choice. The true domicil; the place which a person has voluntarily chosen for himself to displace his previous one. Ex parte Weissinger, 247 Ala 113, 22 So 2d 510; Re Estate of Jones, 192 Iowa 78, 182 NW 227, 16 ALR 1286, 1289.
See domicil of prisoner.

domicil of corporation. See corporate domicil.

domicil of matrimony. See matrimonial domicil.

domicil of nativity. The place of a person's birth.
See domicil of origin.

domicil of origin. The domicil assigned to a child at its birth. 25 Am J2d Dom § 13; Kowalski v Wojtkowski, 19 NJ 247, 116 A2d 6, 53 ALR2d 556. The domicil which a person acquires at birth, it being the domicil of his parents or of the person upon whom he is legally dependent. Ex parte Weissinger, 247 Ala 113, 22 So 2d 510; Re Estate of Jones, 192 Iowa 78, 182 NW 227; 16 ALR 1286, 1289; Re Weber, 187 Misc 674, 64 NYS 281.

domicil of a prisoner. A paradoxical expression. A prisoner, being under legal restraint, cannot acquire a domicil in his prison; his former domicil continues during his imprisonment. Likewise, where a prisoner is compelled to live within the liberties of the prison, he acquires no domicil there; his residence there is merely a continuation of his imprisonment. Nor would his desire to live within the prison make it his domicil. Wendel v Hoffman (DC NJ) 24 F Supp 63.

domicil of wife. See domicil by operation of law; matrimonial domicil.

domigerium. The power or dominion which one person has over another.

domina. A dame; a woman who held a barony in her own right.

dominant.. Controlling; principal; ruling.

dominant estate. Same as dominant tenement.

dominant part. If the purchaser of trade-marked goods would be more likely to remember one part of a mark than another part as indicating origin of the goods, such word is the dominant part of the mark. As, the dominant part of the mark "Wheato-Nuts" is "nuts," and considered in its entirety this mark is confusingly similar to "Grape-Nuts," a mark whose dominant part is the same. Langendorf United Bakeries v General Foods Corp. 29 Cust & Pat App (Pat) 831, 125 F2d 159.

dominant tenement. A tenement for the benefit of which an easement in the form of a charge or burden is imposed upon a servient tenement. 25 Am J2d Ease § 8.

domination. Rule or control.

See interference and domination.

dominical. Pertaining to the Lord or to Sunday.

dominicide. The killing of his master by a servant, slave or vassal.

dominicum. A demesne; a church.

See demesne.

dominicum antiquum. Same as ancient demesne.

dominio. A term used in Spanish-American grants, meaning the right of power to dispose freely of a thing, if the law, the will of the testator, or some agreement does not prevent. Castillero v United States (US) 2 Black 1, 17 L Ed 360, 400.

dominio directo. The term used in Spanish-American grants, meaning, the right a person has to control the disposition of a thing, the use (utilidad) of which he has ceded. Castillero v United States (US) 2 Black 1, 17 L Ed 360, 400.

dominion. Control; ownership. The rights of dominion or property are those rights which a man may acquire in and to such external things as are unconnected with his person. See 2 Bl Comm 1.

dominion over premises. A present ability to control plus an intent to exclude others from control. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 13.

dominio pleno y absoluto. A term used in Spanish-American grants, meaning, the power one has over anything to alienate independently of another-to receive its fruits-,to exclude all others from its use. Castillero v United States (US) 2 Black 1, 17 L Ed 360, 400.

dominio util. A term used in Spanish-American grants, meaning the right to receive all the fruits of a thing subject to some contribution or tribute, which is paid to him who reserves in it the dominium directum. Castillero v United States (US) 2 Black 1, 17 L Ed 360, 400.

dominium. Dominion; control; ownership.

dominium directum. Direct ownership, i. e. allodial or legal tenure.

dominium directum et utile. The complete and absolute dominion in property; the union of the title and the exclusive use. See Fairfax's Devisee v Hunter's Lessee (US) 7 Cranch 603, 618, 3 L Ed 453, 458.

dominium eminens. (Civil law.) The right of eminent domain. Gilmer v Lime Point, 18 Cal 229, 251.

Dominium non potest esse in pendent. Ownership cannot be held in suspense.

dominium plenum. Full or complete ownership of property.

dominium utile. Equitable or beneficial ownership of property.

domino volente. With the consent of the owner.

dominus. Lord; master; principal.

Dominus capitalis feodi loco haeredis habetur, quoties per defectum vet delictum extinguitur sanguis tenentis. The chief lord of the fee is regarded as heir whenever the blood of the tenant becomes extinct either through failure of heirs or attainder. See 2 Bl Comm 247.

[371]

dominos ligius. Liege lord, the king. See 1 Bl Comm 367.

dominos litis. A person who controls a litigation.

dominos manerii. The lord of the manor.

dominos navis. The master of a ship.

Dominus non maritabit pupillum nisi semel. A lord cannot give his ward in marriage more than once.

dominus pro tempore. The temporary master of a ship. The charterer of a vessel may be to some purposes such a master. Laugher v Pointer, 5 Barn & C 547, 108 Eng Rep 204.

Dominus rex nullum habere potest parem, multo minus superiorem. The king cannot have an equal, much less a superior.

domitae. Reclaimed; domesticated; domestic.

domitae naturae. Animals which are naturally tame and gentle or which, by long continued association with man, have become thoroughly domesticated and reduced to such a state of subjection that they no longer possess the inclination or disposition to escape. 4 Am J2d Am § 2.

domo reparanda. A writ to compel a person to repair his house and thus prevent its falling upon his neighbor's property.

dom. proc. An abbreviation of domus procerum, –the house of lords.

domus. house; a dwelling house; a home; a domicil; a residence.

domus capitularis. A chapter house.

domus Dei. The house of God,—a church; a hospital.

domus mansionalis. Mansion house.

See mansion house.

domus mansionalis Dei. The mansion house of God. Lord Coke said that burglary could be committed in a church because it was the mansion house of God. See 4 Bl Comm 224.

domus procerum. The English house of lords.

Domus sua cuique est tutissimum refugium. A man's home is his safest refuge. Davison v People, 90 Ill 221, 229.

Domus tutissimum cuique refugium atque receptaculum. The home of each person is his safest refuge and asylum.

dona. Gifts.

Dona clandestina sunt semper suspiciosa. Secret gifts are always open to suspicion.

donare. To give.

Donari videtur quod nulli jure cogente conceditur. That is considered as given which is transferred under no legal compulsion.

donatarius. A person who receives a gift; a donee.

donate. To give, generally for a specific object; to bestow freely. State v Sioux City & Pacific Railroad Co. 7 Neb 357, 373.

donatio. That which is given; gift.

donatio causa mortis. See gift causa mortis. donatio feudi. The gift of a fee.

donatio inter vivos. Same as gift inter vivos.

donatio mortis causa. See gift causa mortis.

donation. The act by which the owner of a thing voluntarily transfers the title and possession of the same without any consideration. Georgia Penitentiary Co. v Nelms, 65 Ga 499.

The word is synonymous with gift. Mills v Stewart, 76 Mont 429, 247 P 332, 47 ALR 424.

See gift.

Donationes sint stricti juris, ne quis plus donasse praesumatur quam in donatione expresserit. Gifts should be of strict construction, lest anyone may be presumed to have given more than is described in the gift. See 2 Bl Comm 108.

donation inter vivos. Same as gift inter vivos.

donation lands. Lands reserved by the state of Pennsylvania and allotted to citizens of that state who fought in the Revolutionary War.

Donatio non praesumitur. A gift is not presumed to have been made.

Donationum alia perfecta, alia incepta, et non perfecta; ut si donatio lecta fuit et concessa, ac traditio nondum fuerit subsecuta. Some gifts are complete, others are either incipient or not complete, as if a gift were considered and agreed upon, but delivery had not yet followed.

Donatio perficitur possessione accipientis. A gift is perfected by the possession of the donee. A maxim of the ancient English law. Hatch v Atkinson, 56 Me 324.

donatio propter nuptias. A gift in consideration of marriage.

donatio regis. See ex donatio regis.

donatio velata. A veiled or hidden gift; a gift for a pretended consideration.

donative advowson. Same as advowson donative. donative intent. The intent to make a gift. Commissioner v Duberstein, 363 US 278, 4 L Ed 2d 1218, 80 S Ct 1190.

donator. A person who makes a gift; a donor.

donatorius. A person who receives a gift; a donee.

[372]

Donator nunquam desinit possidere antequam donatarius incipiat possidere. A donor never ceases to possess until the possession of the donee begins.

donatory. A person who receives a gift from the crown.

donec. Then.

done. Completed.

See de son done.

donec. Until; while; as long as.

donee. A person to whom a gift is made; a grantee.

donee-beneficiary. A third person designated to receive the benefit of performance by one of two contracting parties under the terms of the agreement with the other, who is a stranger to the consideration and is to receive the benefit of performance as a pure donation by the promisee. Breaux v Banker (Tex Civ App) 107 SW2d 382.

Dongan charter. A charter granted for the city of New York under James the Second in 1686, by Thomas Dongan as lieutenant-governor.

donkey. A domestic animal, often known as a jackass. 4 Am J2d Am § 22.

Donkey Case. See Davies v Mann.

donor. A person who makes a gift.

donque. Same as donc.

donum. A gift.

doom. A judgment. A tragic fate.

dooming. The practice of county assessors in "estimating" the value of property belonging to persons liable to taxation, in cases where such persons have failed or neglected to make returns thereof. Thurston v Little, 3 Mass (3 Tyng) 429, 433.

Doomsday Book. Same as Domesday Book.

door. A movable panel for closing the entrance to a building or room.

See open doors; outer door.

dormant. Sleeping; silent; inactive for the time being; in abeyance.

dormant claim. A claim held in abeyance; a claim barred by the statute of limitations.

dormant execution. An execution which has lost its priority from delay in making any levy under it. A writ of execution duly made out and signed by the clerk of court, and otherwise ready for levy, but marked "to lie," and not issued to an officer for levy. Davis v Roller, 106 Va 46, 55 SE 4.

dormant judgment. A judgment no longer active, its active period having been terminated by the death of a party or the lapse of time and the failure to take any steps to continue or enforce it. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 568. A judgment which must be revived before execution will be issued thereon and before other steps in enforcement may be taken. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 570.

dormant lien of judgment. The lien of a judgment which is in abeyance while the land is exempt from execution, but which becomes active or potential when the exemption ceases to exist. 26 Am J1st Home § 94. The lien of a dormant judgment during the period of dormancy in jurisdictions which adhere to the view that upon the revival of a dormant judgment, the lien of the judgment is considered to have been a continuous lien from the date of entry of the judgment. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 579.

dormant partner. A silent partner, one whose connection with the firm is concealed from the public and who takes no part in the conduct of the business or affairs of the firm. 40 Am J1st Partn § 15.

See silent partner.

dormant titles. A title to real estate held in abeyance, unasserted.

See buying and selling dormant titles; trading in dormant titles.

dormitory. A room or building with sleeping accommodations for a number of people. United Cerebral Palsy Assn. v Zoning Board, 282 Pa 67, 114 A2d 331, 52 ALR2d 1093.

Dormiunt aliquando leges, nunquam moriuntur. Although the laws sometimes sleep, they never die.

Don's Rebellion. A rebellion against the state government of Rhode Island in 1842, led by Thomas W. Dorr. Luther v Borden (US) 7 How 1, 12 L Ed 581.

dorso recordi. See in dorso recordi.

dorsum. The back of anything.

dorture. A lodging place; a dormitory.

dos. A dowry; dower. Roman law dower. 25 Am J2d Dow § 12.

Dos de dote peti non debet. Dower ought not to be sought from dower. Brooks v Everett, 95 Mass (13 Allen) 457, 459.

dos rationabilis. Reasonable or legitimate dower. If no specific dotation was made at the church porch, at the time of the marriage, the common law endowed the wife of a third part of such lands and tenements as the husband was wised at the time of the marriage, and no other. This third part was her dos rationabilis. See 2 Bl Comm 133.

Dos rationabilis vel legitima est cujuslibet mulieris de quocunq; tenemento tertia pars omnium terrarum et tenementorum, quae vir suns tenuit in dominio suo ut de feodo. Reasonable or legitimate dower is for every woman a third part of all the lands and tenements which her husband held in his demesne as of fee.

dot. See dotal property; dowry.

dotage. Feebleness of the mental faculties which proceeds from old age. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 3.

dotalitium. Dower.

dotal property. That property which a wife brings to the husband to assist him in bearing the expenses of the marriage establishment. 15 Am J2d Community Prop § 3.

Dotal property as here defined was not known to the common law, but appears to be peculiar to the state of Louisiana. Hayes v Pratt, 147 US 550, 37 L Ed 276, 13 S Ct 495.

dotation. The endowment of a woman with a dowry or marriage portion; any other endowment, as that of a public charity.

[373]

dote. To be delirious, silly, or insane. Gates v Meredith, 7 Ind 440; 441.

dote assignanda. A writ that lay for a widow, where it was found by office that the king's tenant was wised of tenements in fee or fee tail at the day of his death, and that he held of the king in chief. In such case, the widow came into chancery, and there made oath that she would not marry without the king's leave, and she had this writ to the escheators. These widows were called "king's widows."—Holthouse's Law Dict.

Dote lex favet; praemium pudoris est, ideo parcatur. The law favors dower; it is the reward of virtue, therefore it should be spared or kept alive.

dote unde nihil habet. Dower from whence she has nothing,—a writ of dower which lay for a widow against a tenant of lands to whom her husband had conveyed them and of which her husband was solely seised in fee simple or fee tail, and of which she was dowable. See 1 Bl Comm 182.

dotis administratio. The admeasurement of dower; that is, the assignment or adjustment of a widow's dower.

dotissa. A dowager; an endowed widow.

Douay Bible. The translation or version of the Bible used by the Roman Catholic Church, the name coming from Douay, a municipality of France, where the Old Testament of such translation or version was published early in the 17th century.

double adultery. Adultery committed where both parties to the offense are married persons. Hunter v United States (Wis) 1 Pinney 91.

double agency. An agency on the part of one agent acting for two principals. 11 Am J2d B & N § 479.

double allegiance. See dual nationality.

double avail of marriage. Two times the ordinary or single value of a marriage.
See value of the marriage.

double bond. A bond providing a penalty for its nonfulfillment, as distinguished from a single bond which carries no penalty.

double comma. Same as ditto mark.

double complaint. A complaint made before an ecclesiastical court against both the judge who delayed or refused justice and the defendant in the cause in which the grievance arose.
See double pleading; joinder of causes of action.

double contingency. See remainders on a contingency with a double aspect.

double conversion. That which takes place when land is directed to be sold and converted into money, and these proceeds are directed to be laid out again in land, the whole forming one continuous obligation. The property, in such case, is considered to be in that state in which it is ultimately to be converted; that is, to be land. Double conversion does not differ from single conversion, but the property is treated as if already converted into that species of property into which it is directed to be changed, no matter whether the steps are more or less numerous. Ford v Ford, 80 Mich 42, 53.
See reconversion.

double costs. Additional allowances imposed against a party because of the nature of the action or delaying tactics. Where a statute gives double costs, they are to be calculated thus: the common costs; and then half the common costs. Van Auken v Decker, 2 NJL 108, 111.

double cousin. The relationship of cousin traceable through both the paternal and maternal lines; the same degree of relationship as an ordinary cousin. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 61.

double creditor. A term connected with marshaling assets, meaning a creditor who holds a lien upon two separate and distinct funds or securities. Newby v Norton, 90 Kan 317, 133 P 890.

double damages. Multiple damages awarded under statutory authority for certain classes of wrongs, some courts regarding the excess of the award over the amount of injury actually sustained as an extraordinary liability imposed by way of penalty, others regarding it as an extraordinary liability imposed under a statute which is remedial and nonpunitive. 22 Am J2d Damg §§ 267, 268. The damages awarded for waste in some jurisdictions. 56 Am J1st Waste § 36. A term for an allowance on inconsistent theories. Anno: 17 ALR2d 1323.

See exemplary damages.

double deadwoods. See buffers.

double-decker. A bus with two levels for passengers. 7 Am J2d Auto § 163. Also, a large sandwich.

double derivative suit. An action, brought by a stockholder in a corporation which holds stock in a second corporation for wrongs to the second corporation, where it appears that neither corporation is willing to enforce the right of action. Anno: 154 ALR 1296.

double fine. Same as fine sur done grant et render.

double gibbet. A gibbet with arms projecting in opposite directions for double executions.

double indemnity. A double recovery under an insurance policy for loss occurring under certain conditions, for example, an accidental death of one insured under a life insurance policy.

double insurance. Coverage of the same risk and same interest by different insurers. Western Union Tel. Co. v Houghton, 146 Pa 561, 23 A 248.

See contribution between insurers; excess insurance; other insurance clause.

double jeopardy. See prior jeopardy.

double letter. A term of significance in communications of an older period, meaning a letter consisting of two sheets. Williams v Wells, Fargo & Co. Express (CA9 Ark) 177 F 352.

double liability. Double recovery for a single liability. St. Louis S.W.R.Co. v Meyer (Me) 272 SW2d 249, 46 ALR2d 964.

See double damages.

double liability of stockholder. See superadded liability.

double meaning. See ambiguity.

double parking. The parking of a vehicle on the roadway side of any vehicle parked or standing at the edge or curb of a street. 7 Am J2d Auto § 236.

double patenting. The obtaining of a second patent by the same applicant on the same invention. Mellvaine Patent Corp. v Walgren Co. (DC 111) 44 F Supp 530.

double plea. A plea setting up two or more several

[374]

and distinct defenses. Handy v Waldron, 18 RI 567, 29 A 143.

double pleading. A pleading which in one count or paragraph sets out two or more several and distinct causes of action or two or more several and distinct defenses. Handy v Waldron, 18 RI 567, 29 A 143.

See duplicity.

double possibility. See possibility on a possibility.

double punishment. The punishment of a person two or more times for the same offense, such being within the prohibition of provisions against double jeopardy.

See former jeopardy.

double quarrel. Same as double complaint.

double rent. A common statutory penalty of double the amount of the agreed rental for a holding over by the tenant after the time specified in the landlord's notice to quit.

double taxation. In a very broad sense, any situation in which it can be contended with some show of reason that the same person or property has been subjected to more than one tax burden. 51 Am J1st Tax § 284. More precisely, for the purposes of a constitutional prohibition, taxing twice, for the same purpose, by a tax of the same kind, in the same year, some of the property in the taxing district, without imposing the same levies upon all the property of the same kind in the district. 51 Am J1st Tax § 284.

double voucher. A form of common recovery wherein the praecipe or writ was brought against an indifferent person to whom a conveyance of an estate of freehold had been made as a matter of form, and who then vouched the tenant in tail, the latter thereupon vouching the common vouchee. See 2 Bl Comm 359. See also 2 Bl Comm Appx V.

double waste. Cutting timber to obtain material for making repairs to buildings, without making the repairs.

double wharfage. Double the amount of the usual charge for the use of a wharf, recoverable by statute when a vessel leaves a wharf without paying wharfage. 56 Am J1st Whar § 30.

double wills. Another term for reciprocal wills in which the testators name each other as beneficiaries under similar testamentary plans. 57 Am J1st Wills § 681.

See mutual wills; reciprocal wills.

doubt. Uncertainty. That state of a person's mind which exists where evidence in reference to the fact to be proved fails to generate a rational belief of the existence of the fact. Rowe v Baber, 93 Ala 422, 425.

See reasonable doubt.

doubtful title. A title which is open to reasonable doubt; one for which a purchaser who takes it probably will be subjected to contest and litigation; one which can be established only by parol testimony difficult to procure; one that an ordinarily prudent man would not accept if he were buying the property or taking it as security for a loan. Wanner v De Nyse, 188 NY 378, 80 NE 1088.

dough. The mixture of flour and other ingredients from which bread and pastries are baked. A slang term for money or wealth. See dot.

Do ut des. I give that you may give. This was the first species of consideration under the civil law, and applied to a giving of money or goods under a promise of repayment in money or goods, and to loans of money, and contracts of sale. See 2 Bl Comm 444.

Do ut facias. I pay in order that you may perform. This was the fourth species of consideration under the civil law and was the counterpart of the third (facio ut des); as when I agree with the servant to give him such wages upon his performance. See 2 Bl Comm 445.

doves. Birds of intrinsic value because the carcass is food, but which constitute a subject of property only when in the care and custody of the owner. 4 Am J2d Am § 19. A term recently applied to members of Congress and other public figures opposed to the escalation of the Vietnam War.

dowable. The state or condition of a widow who is entitled to dower out of the real property of her deceased husband. The term is also applied to lands or other property of the husband which are subject to, or chargeable with, dower.

dowager. A widow to whom her dower has been assigned. See 2 Bl Comm 136.

dowager queen. The widow of the king of England, at present the gracious and well-beloved Elizabeth, widow of George VI.

dower. The legal right or interest which the wife acquires by marriage in the real estate of her husband. At common law it consists in the use, during her natural life after the death of her husband, of one-third of all the real estate of which her husband was beneficially seined, at any time during the marriage, by a title such as might pass by inheritance to the children of the marriage. The same term is often used to describe the rights given to widows in the real estate of their husbands by statute, even where the statutory rights differ from the common-law estate of dower. Sometimes the term is used to describe a widow's statutory rights in her husband's real and personal estate, even personal estate alone, and the rights of a husband in the real estate of his deceased wife. 25 Am J2d Dow § 1.

See admeasurement of dower; assignment of dower; dowable; dower consummate; inchoate right of dower; jointure; quarantine; release of dower; tenant in dower; widow's third.

dower ad ostium ecclesiae. Dower at the door of the church,—a form of dower given openly at the time of a marriage ceremony, at the very door of the church wherein the marriage was celebrated by a tenant in fee simple of full age, who after "affiance made and troth plighted," endowed his wife with the whole or a part of his lands, publicly specifying her portion in such manner that after his death she might enter upon the same without further ceremony.

dower by particular custom. That species of dower to which a widow is entitled because of a particular custom, such as that she should have half of her husband's lands, or in some places the whole, and in some others only a quarter. See 1 Bl Comm 132.

dower consummate. The right of a widow to her dower in her husband's real property which accrues to her immediately upon his death. Upon the husband's death, the widow's right of dower becomes consummate. It has ceased to be a contingency. But still it remains a mere right in the nature of a chose in action. She has the right to have the estate assigned to her, but she has no estate until it has been assigned. Underground Electric Railways Co. v

Owsley (CA2 NY) 196 F 278. Once assigned, the consummate dower is a vested right in the property assigned and the widow's rights in other lands of the decedent cease altogether. 25 Am J2d Dow § 8.

dower de la plus belle. Dower of the fairest part,—a species of dower which was assigned to the widow from the fairest part of her husband's lands and which was abolished with the military tenures, of which it was a consequence. See 2 Bl Comm 132.

dower ex assensu patris. Dower by the consent of the father,—a form of dower wherein the husband endowed his wife openly at the time of the marriage and at the door of the church, with lands upon which she might enter upon his death without further ceremony, but in this case it was the father of the bridegroom who was seised in fee of the lands in question, and the father's consent, expressly given, was a necessary part of the son's right to designate such lands as the dower of his wife. By this form of dower, a wife might enter upon her dower after the death of her husband although the father still lived.

dower unde nihil habet. Same as de dote unde nihil habet.

dowle stones. Stones employed to mark a boundary.

dowment. Same as endowment. Also, same as dower.

dowment ad ostium ecclesiae. Same as dower ad ostium ecclesiae.

down draft. A term familiar in aviation, signifying a turbulent atmospheric condition. 8 Am J2d Avi § 96. Downes v Bidwell. See Foraker Act.

dowress. A woman who is entitled to dower.

dowry. A term of several meanings, dependent upon the historical source, but not the same as the dower of the common law.

The "dowry" of biblical times bore no resemblance to common-law "dower," but was a gift made by the suitor to the father or other near relatives of the intended bride. A similar custom prevailed among the Greeks, but Aristotle states that it had come to be looked upon as a relic of barbarism in their ancestors, as it was virtually a purchase of their wives. Neither is it like the dower, called "dot" of the Roman law (or the "dot" still in France), which was the marriage portion which the wife brought to her husband, in land or money. The French "dot" (pronounced "doe"), with its attraction to foreign suitors of American heiresses, is the origin of the slang word "dough" for property. State ex rel. Corporation Com. v Dunn, 174 NC 679, 94 SE 481.

See dotal property.

doz. Abbreviation for dozen.

dozein. An ancient municipal district which was composed of twelve families.

dozer. Same as bulldozer.

D. P. An abbreviation of domus procerum, the English house of lords. Also an abbreviation for displaced person.

dr. Common abbreviation for debtor.

Dr. An abbreviation for Doctor.

Draconian laws. A code of laws compiled by Draco the "lawgiver" of Athens; the term is applied to laws which are unreasonably harsh or severe.

draff. Dirt dregs, impurities. Sometimes confused with "draft," the arbitrary deduction from gross weight of an imported article, formerly employed in customs offices to assure the importer that he was not prejudiced by the scales used.

draft. An order in writing by one person on another to pay a sum of money therein specified to a third person on demand or at a future time therein stated. 11 Am J2d B & N § 14. A term completely synonymous with "bill of exchange." See State v Di Nocla, 163 Ohio St 140, 56 Ohio Ops 185, 126 NE2d 62. A term preferable to bill of exchange in the connotation of commercial paper. UCC § 3-104(2)(a). In military parlance, the enforcement of the duty of a citizen to perform military service. Lanahan v Birge, 30 Conn 438, 443. An arbitrary deduction from the gross weight of an imported article, formerly employed in customs offices to assure the importer that he was not prejudiced by the scales used. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 87; sometimes spelled "draught." A copy of an instrument, such as a will, otherwise known as a first draft, from which the executed instrument was drawn. A rough copy of a plan for the construction of a building or other structure.

A bank draft is a bill of exchange drawn by a bank; where drawn upon another bank, it has the same general effect as a check drawn by an ordinary person. 11 Am J2d B & N § 14.

See military draft; overdraft; selective draft.

draft dodger. One who evades a draft for service in the armed forces of the country.

See Selective Draft Law.

draftsman. A scrivener; the person who prepares a deed, will or other instrument. A person skilled in drawing designs or plans for buildings, other works of construction, and machines.

dragnet clause. A provision of a mortgage which broadens the security clause to cover all indebtedness of the mortgagor to the mortgagee of past or future origin, existing indebtedness, advances to be made by the mortgagee to the mortgagor, and indebtedness of the mortgagor to the mortgagee created subsequent to the execution of the mortgage. Anno: 172 ALR2d 1082.

dragnet of conspiracy. A phrase applied to the tendency of prosecutors, in prosecuting for the crime of conspiracy, to charge as defendants all persons who have been associated in any degree whatsoever with the main offenders. United States v Falcon (CA2 NY) 109 F2d 579.

dragoman. A Turkish court interpreter.

drain. A hollow space in the ground, either natural or artificial, where water is collected or drained away. Barton v Drainage Dist. 174 Ark 173, 294 SW 418. The word has been construed as being broad enough to include a sewer. Barton v Drainage Dist. 174 Ark 173, 294 SW 418.

See drainway; natural drainway.

drainage. The conveying from land, by natural or artificial means, of water not absorbed by the soil. "This word is not inept to express the concept of water which has escaped from a reservoir by percolation and is drawn off when it appears again on the surface." United States v Warm Springs Irrig. Dist. (DC Or) 38 F 239.

See cutoff drainage; right of drainage.

drainage district. A governmental corporation of limited powers, in the nature of a public or quasipublic corporation, similar to a municipal corporation, although not created for political purposes or for the administration of civil government, but for the purpose of creating and maintaining a project for the drainage of lands within the district. 25 Am J2d Drains § 6.

drainage ditch. A ditch dug for the purpose of drainage of land; not a "water course" in the true sense of the term. 56 Am J1st Water § 151.

drainway. A way for the drainage of surface water. 56 Am J1st Water § 76.

See drain; drainage; natural drainway.

dram. An alcoholic beverage in a small portion. Lacy v State, 32 Tex 227, 228.

drama. A story represented by action, the representation being as if the real persons were introduced and employed in the action itself. 4 Am J2d Amuse § 3.

It is ordinarily designed to be spoken, but may be represented in pantomime, when the actors use gesticulations, but do not speak; in the form of ballet where the portrayal is by dance; or in opera where music takes the place of poetry and of ordinary speech, and the dramatic treatment is essentially different from the other methods of representation. Bell v Mahn, 121 Pa 225, 15 A 523.

dram shop. A place where intoxicating liquor is sold at a public bar. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 20.

draw. Noun: A small stream; a creek, Aldritt v Fleischauer, 74 Neb 66, 103 NW 1084; a way for the drainage of surface water. 56 Am J1st Water § 76. The movable section of a drawbridge. Savannah, Florida & Western R. Co. v Daniels, 90 Ga 608, 17 SE 647. Verb: To write in due form; to prepare a draft of, as to draw a memorial, a deed, or a bill of exchange. Hawkins v State, 28 Fla 363, 367. To obtain as a prize.

draw a prize. To ascertain, by chance or otherwise, who is entitled to a particular result, or a particular thing, by means of some pre-arranged mode of ascertaining the result.

As soon as the number, which entitles the ticket holder to the money or article, is drawn from the wheel, or otherwise ascertained, the prize is said to be drawn. The receiving of the prize is a separate act. People v Kent, 6 Cal 89.

drawback. The refund of duties paid upon the importation of materials used in the manufacture or production of articles in the United States, when such articles are exported. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 16.

Dram Shop Acts. Same as Civil Damage Acts.

draught. See draft.

drawbridge. A bridge, one or more sections of which can be lifted or moved aside to permit the passage of boats. Savannah, Florida & Western R. Co. v Daniels, 90 Ga 608, 17 SE 647.

drawee. The person upon whom a draft or bill of exchange is drawn; the person to whom the paper is presented for acceptance and payment. drawer. The maker of a draft or bill of exchange.

drawing. To pull. To drag a person along the ground or pavement to the place of execution, as a part of his punishment, particularly for the crime of treason. State v Woodward, 68 W Va 66, 69 SE 385. See 4 Bl Comm 92.

See draw.

drawing account. The account of an employee, usually a salesman working on a commission or part-commission basis, with the employer, upon which advances are made to the employee at intervals fixed by the contract of employment or upon request by the employee. Anno: 95 ALR2d 505. The privilege of having a drawing account as defined above.

drawing jurors. See selection of grand jurors; selection of jurors.

drawlatches. Thieves; robbers.

drawn. See draw.

drawn in blank. See in blank.

draw on. To prepare, sign, and deliver a draft for acceptance by another.

draw poker. The conventional form of the game of poker, the play being upon a hand of five cards obtained upon one deal or by way of replacement of discards. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 20.

dray. A wagon with detachable sides, horsedrawn, and used for the transportation for hire of goods, wares, merchandise, and other property.

A dray has been held to be exempt from execution, under a statute exempting a wagon. Cone v Lewis, 64 Tex 331.

drayage. The transportation of commodities by drays. Soule v San Francisco Gas-light Co. 54 Cal 241.

See drayman.

drayman. A wagoner or cartman, the forerunner of the modern trucker, his vehicle being pulled by horses. 13 Am J2d Car § 17.

Dr. Bonham's Case. A famous English case which held that a statute impossible of performance or against common right and reason was void at common law.

dredge. A vessel equipped for the removal of accumulated dirt, stone, and refuse in a harbor or waterway; a vessel within admiralty jurisdiction. 2 Am J2d Adm § 33. But not a watercraft for all purposes. Bartlett v Steam Dredge, 107 Mich 74.

dredging. Scooping dirt, rocks, or debris from the bottom of a harbor or river to deepen the harbor or channel, thereby improving navigation; opening a ditch through a swamp or other area to give better drainage.

Dred Scott Case. The famous case of Scott v Sanford (US) 19 How 393, 15 L Ed 691, holding that the United States courts had no jurisdiction over the question as to whether slaves who had been permitted to pass from the state of their domicile into a free state acquired thereby a right to freedom after their return to the state of their domicile, but that the courts of the latter state alone could decide as to their status or condition as free or slave.

dreit dreit. Same as droit droit.

dreng. A tenant in capite; that is, a tenant who held his land immediately of the king.

drengage. The land tenure of a dreng.

dressings. The clothing of a person. An application of drugs or materials to a wound for the purpose of hastening healing and preventing infection. The preparation of a carcass to make it edible and tasty. The process is concluded when the meat is placed in the cooler; it does not include packing, loading, grading, or shipping. Fleming v Swift & Co. (DC III) 41 F Supp 825, affd (CA7) 131 F2d 249.

[377]

drifting. Moving with the wind. The movement of cattle undirected by man, often prompted by weather conditions. In mining parlance, taking earth, gravel, or ore from a position made accessible by means of a tunnel. It is not the same as running a tunnel, which is construction work. Jurgenson v Diller, 114 Cal 491, 493, 46 P 610.

driftland. An annual tribute paid by certain tenants for the privilege of driving their cattle through a manor.

drift of the forest. A driving together of all the cattle in a forest at certain stated periods for much the same purposes as those of a modern "round-up" in the western parts of the United States.

driftway. A common way for driving cattle. Swenson v Marino, 306 Mass 582, 29 NE2d 15, 130 ALR 763.

driller's lien. A special lien to a person contributing labor or materials toward the drilling of a gas and oil well. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 114.

drilling. Making a hole in wood, metal, or other substance; penetrating the earth for oil or gas; preparing a cavity in a tooth for a filling.

See turn key job.

drilling fluid. See rotary drilling.

drill stem. See rotary drilling.

drink. A liquid beverage of any kind, except as the context in which the word appears indicates an alcoholic beverage. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 8. The portion of an alcoholic beverage consumed at one time. A court will take judicial notice that a "drink" of intoxicating liquor is less than one quart in volume. Sappington v Carter, 67 Ill 482, 485.

As used in a town ordinance prohibiting the sale of "drinks" on Sunday, the word was held to include any soft drink usually sold as a beverage, but not to include water, coffee, tea, milk or anything not classed as a beverage. Coca-cola was held to be among the prohibited potations. State v Weddington, 188 NC 643, 125 SE 257, 37 ALR 573.

drinkable. Literally, capable of being drunk, but more practicably, suitable for drinking, that is, potable. Anno: 11 ALR 1237.

drinks. See drink.

drip. The falling of rain-water from the eaves of house.

See eaves-drip.

drive. To compel, urge, or control movement some manner or direction, for example, a team horses or a herd of cattle. Howell v J. Mandelbau & Sons, 160 Iowa 119, 122, 140 NW 397.

See driving a motor vehicle.

drive-in. A development of the automobile age, wherein a business, such as a bank, a lunch room, a confectionery, or an ice cream vendor, serves its customers in their automobiles driven upon the premises.

drive-in theater. A place of entertainment, peculiar in the fact that the patrons drive their automobiles into an enclosure within good view of the screen or stage and view the picture or performance from their seats in the vehicle.

drive-it-yourself system. The business of renting out motor vehicles without drivers. 13 Am J2d Car § 18.
See renting automobiles.

drive other cars clause. A clause in an automobile liability policy which protects the named assured in using an automobile other than the one described in the policy. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 105.

driver's license. See operator's license.

driver's training. Instruction in driving an automobile, obtained as a preliminary to the test for a license or required under a judgment rendered in a prosecution for violation of the Motor Vehicle Law.

driving a motor vehicle. Controlling the motive power. Commonwealth v Crowninshield, 187 Mass 221, 72 NE 963. More precisely, controlling the motive power or movement of a motor vehicle in motion, albeit the movement be only a few feet. 7 Am J2d Auto § 256.

See driving while intoxicated; operating motor vehicle; reckless driving.

driving range. An area, usually a part of a regular golf course, wherein golfers may practice driving the ball.

driving while intoxicated. A criminal offense, known in some jurisdictions as drunken driving, or driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquor or of drugs, the elements of which are the control of a motor vehicle by the accused while it is in movement under power within his control, and while the accused is intoxicated, in an intoxicated condition, under the influence of intoxicating liquor, intoxicated or in any degree under the influence of intoxicating liquor, the statutes varying in the terms which describe the condition of the driver contemplated by the legislature in determining the nature of the conduct to be proscribed. 7 Am J2d Auto §§ 253 et seq.

See operation of motor vehicle while intoxicated.

drofland. Same as driftland.

droit. (French.) A right. Opel v Shoup, 100 Iowa 407, 69 NW 560.

droit administratif. The French system of administrative law based upon the principle of freedom of administrative action in the determination of causes growing out of the relationship of government to individuals. 1 Am J2d Admin L § 9.

droit common. The common law.

droit d'accroissement. The right of survivorship.

droit d'ainesse. A birthright.

droit d'aubaine. The right of a stranger,—the right assumed and exercised by the French government of seizing and confiscating all of the real and personal property situate in France and belonging to an alien who dies in that country. Opel v Shoup, 100 Iowa 407, 69 NW 560.

See jus albinatus.

droit de corvees. A right to feudal service.

droit de déshérence. The right of escheat.

droit de deduction. (French.) A tax levied upon the removal from one country to another of property acquired by succession or testamentary disposition. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 36. A survival from medieval European law. Melson v Johnson, 279 US 47, 73 L Ed 607.

[378]

droit d'eignesse. The right of the eldest.

droit des gens. (French.) The law of nations; international law.

droit de suit. A person's right to pursue the property of his debtor in the hands of a third party; stoppage in transitu.

See stoppage in transitu.

droit d'execution. The right of a broker to sell what he has bought for his principal for the account of his principal after the latter has refused to accept delivery.

droit droit. A double right consisting of the right of possession joined with the right of property. It is an ancient maxim of the law that no title is completely good without this double right. See 2 Bl Comm 199.

droit écrit. The written law,—statute law.

droit international. International law.

droit ne done plus que soil demaunde. The law gives no more than is demanded.

droit ne poet pas morier. Right cannot die.

droits civils. Civil or private rights.

droits of admiralty. The rights of the admiralty,—goods which have been abandoned found at sea; goods captured in time of war by a non-commissioned ship.

droitural. Concerning or pertaining to a person's right or title to property, as distinguished from his right to the possession of it.

droitural action. An action to recover land of which the plaintiff had lost both the possession and the right thereto.

drop letter. A letter posted for delivery by the local post office.

drover. A buyer of cattle for a distant market. A person taking cattle to market or in charge of cattle being taken to market.

drove road. A road where cattle may be driven.

drover's pass. A pass for free transportation on a railroad train of a person in charge of a shipment of livestock. The status of the person carried is that of a passenger for hire. 14 Am J2d Car § 756.

drug. Broadly defined, any substance used as a medicine or in the composition of medicine for internal or external use, including patent and proprietary remedies that possess or are reputed to possess curative or remedial properties. Kelly v Carroll, 36 Wash 2d 482, 219 P2d 79. Technically, articles recognized in the official United States Pharmacopoeia, official Homeopathic Pharmacopoeia of the United States, or official National Formulary, or any supplement to any of them; articles intended for use in the diagnosis, cure, mitigation, treatment or prevention of disease in man or other animals; articles, other than food, intended to affect the structure or any function of the body of man or other animals; and articles intended for use as a component of any articles specified in the foregoing clauses. 21 USC § 321(G), a part of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act.

See Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act; medicine; narcotics.

druggist. Essentially a dealer in drugs, who acquires a professional standing by being licensed as a pharmacist, pharmaceutical chemist, a druggist, or an apothecary; one qualified by education and training to compound drugs and fill prescriptions. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 4. Narrowly defined, one who deals in uncompounded medicinal substances, vegetable, animal or mineral. State v Holmes, 28 La Ann 765.

druggists' liability insurance. A policy protecting a druggist against liability for injury or sickness resulting from malpractice, error, or mistake. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1358.

drugless therapeutics. Hydrotherapy, dietetics, electrotherapy, radiography, sanitation, suggestion, or mechanical and manual manipulation for the stimulation of physiological and psychological action to establish a normal condition of mind and body, but in no way including the giving, prescribing or recommending of pharmaceutical drugs and poisons for internal use. Kelly v Carroll, 36 Wash 2d 482, 219 P2d 79, 19 ALR2d 1174.

drum. An instrument played as one of the instruments of a band or orchestra, being so constructed as to present a taut membrane to be beaten by a small stick, known as a drumstick. A container in the shape of a keg or barrel, usually made of steel, and used for holding explosive or inflammable liquids.

drumhead court-martial. A summary military trial.

drummer. A musician whose instrument is a drum. A traveling salesman in the sense of one who solicits order but carries no stock, except samples, and makes no deliveries. Re Wilson (Dist Col) 8 Mackey 341; Thomas v Hot Springs, 34 Ark 553.

drunk. One in a state of drunkenness; a drunkard; an habitual drunkard.

See drunkard; habitual drunkard; drunkenness. drunkard. A person given to inebriety and the excessive use of intoxicating liquor, who has lost the power or will, by frequent indulgence, to control his appetite for it. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1230. The definition is sometimes extended to include excessive use of either intoxicating liquor or narcotics. Re House, 23 Colo 87, 46 P 117.

See habitual drunkard.

drunken driving. See driving while intoxicated.

drunkenness. That state or condition of a person which inevitably follows from taking excessive quantities of an intoxicant, meaning to some men the condition of being under the influence of an intoxicant to such an extent as to render one helpless, to others a lesser degree of effect, even a slight influence. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 21.

See habitual drunkenness; intoxication.

drunk-o-meter. An instrument to determine the intoxication or extent of intoxication by exposing the breath to chemicals, thereby determining the amount of alcohol in the system. Hill v State, 158 Tex Crim 313, 256 SW2d 93.

dry. Want of moisture. A term applied to one who is opposed to traffic in alcoholic beverages and advocates legislation and strict law enforcement to put an end to it. State v Shumaker, 200 Ind 623, 157 NE 769, 58 ALR 954.

dry-craeft. Witchcraft.

dry dock. A watertight dock provided with machinery for pumping out the water in order that a docked vessel may be repaired. Maryland Casualty Co. v Lawson (CA5 Fla) 101 F2d 732. All injuries suffered by the hulls of vessels below the water line by collision or stranding must necessarily be repaired in a dry dock, to prevent the inflow of water. While the vessel is in such a dock, she is not on land and is within the jurisdiction of the admiralty court. Perry v Haines, 191 US 17, 33, 48 L Ed 73, 80, 24 S Ct 8.

[379]

See graving dock.

dry exchange. A pretended exchange of property employed to conceal a transaction which was in fact usurious.

dry gas. Gas produced by an oil well, from which the gasoline has been removed, thereby rendering it fit for use for the purposes of heat and power. Standard Oil Co. v United States (CA9 Cal) 107 F2d 402.

dry goods. Textiles; cloth. Levy v Friedlander, 24 La Ann 439, 441.

Sometimes considered broadly as including everything in a stock of general merchandise, except groceries.

dry law. A statute prohibiting the manufacture, sale or other disposition of intoxicating liquors.

dry mortgage. A mortgage containing a provision that there shall be no personal liability on the part of the mortgagor for the payment of the obligation secured by the mortgage, beyond the value of the mortgaged property. Frowenfeld v Hastings, 134 Cal 128, 66 P 178.

dry rent. Rent seck,—a rent reserved by deed, without the covenant or clause of distress. 32 Am J1st L & T § 1040.

dry territory. A term peculiar to liquor law, having reference to a county or lesser political subdivision in which, by virtue of local option, the traffic in intoxicating beverages is prohibited.

dry trust. A trust in which the trustee has no duties to perform, and in which the cestui que trust has the entire management of the estate. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 13. A voting trust of corporate stock in which the trustees have no beneficial interest and concerning which they have no duties other than to vote the stock. Anno: 98 ALR2d 387 § 9.

See passive trust.

d/s. An abbreviation of day's sight, as used in negotiable instruments. Thus, 30 d/s would mean 30 days after sight.

d. s. b. Abbreviation of debitum sine breve.

d. s. b. judgment. An abbreviation of judgment debitum sine brevi.

D. Sc. Abbreviation of Doctor of Science.

D. S. T. Abbreviation of daylight saving time.

dual agency. A situation where an agent is acting for both parties to a transaction. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 140. A reprehensible practice in acting for both parties to a transaction, without disclosing the dual representation to both parties. 3 Am J2d Agency § 233.

dual citizenship. A status long recognized in law as existing where a person is claimed as a subject or citizen of two states. The concept recognizes that a person may have and exercise rights of nationality in two countries and be subject to the responsibilities of both. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 118. One nation may claim his allegiance because of his birth within its territory, and the other demand it because at the time of his birth in foreign territory his parents were its nationals. Perkins v Elg, 307 US 325, 83 L Ed 1320, 59 S Ct 884.

dual nationality. See dual citizenship.

duarchy. A government with two rulers.

Duas uxores eodem tempore habere non licet. It is unlawful to have two wives at the same time. See 1 Bl Comm 436.

Duas uxores eodem tempore habere non potest. A man cannot have two wives at the same time.

dub. An abbreviation of dubitat,—it is doubted. To confer a title, a name, or a nickname.

dubii juris. Of doubtful right or law.

dubitans. Doubting.

dubitante. Doubting.

dubitatur. It is doubted; it is doubtful.

dubitavit. He has doubted; he doubted.

duces tecum. Bring with you.

See subpoena duces tecum.

duces tecum licet languidus. A writ which lay to bring a person into court notwithstanding his illness.

duchy court of Lancaster. A court of equity of special jurisdiction in cases relating to lands held of the king in right of the Duchy of Lancaster.

Ducitur in absurdum. It is led into absurdity. Nichols v Fearson (US) 7 Pet 103, 110, 8 L Ed 623, 626.

ducking stool. Also called a cucking stool. A stool or chair upon which a defendant was placed to be plunged three times in the water as a punishment under the early common law for the offense of being a common scold. 15 Am J2d Comm S § 3.

due. Owing; payable. The United States v State Bank of North Carolina (US) 6 Pet 29, 36, 8 L Ed 308, 311; Allen v Patterson, 7 NY 476; currently payable. 6 Am J2d Attach § 264. Fitting; suitable.

due bill. An acknowledgment of a debt in writing. Erickson v Sophy, 10 SD 71, 74, 71 NW 758.

due care. Care according to the circumstances of the case. 38 Am J1st Negl § 29. That degree of care which a man of ordinary prudence would exercise in similar circumstances. Gahagan v Boston & Maine Railroad, 70 NH 441, 50 A 146. As the term appears in an exception from the risk in an accident insurance policy, it means the measure of caution and care that would be required of a reasonably prudent man in like circumstances. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1160.

See due diligence; ordinary care; reasonable care.

due compensation. Just compensation; the compensation to which a person is entitled. As the term is used in the law of eminent domain, it means the compensation which ought to be made; that is, compensation which will make the owner whole pecuniarily for the appropriation or injury of his property by an invasion of it cognizable by the senses, or by interference with some right in relation to property whereby its market value is lessened as the direct result of the public use. King v

[380]

Vicksburg Railway & Light Co. 88 Miss 456, 42 So 204.

due consideration. Giving such thought or weight to a fact as it merits under all the circumstances of the case. New York Tel. Co. v James, 309 NY 569, 132 NE2d 850.

due course. The ordinary course of events; not highlighted by unusual or extraordinary events.

See holder in due course.

due course holder. Same as holder in due course.

due course of justice. The due course of proceedings in the administration of justice, whether leading to a judgment for the plaintiff or a judgment for the defendant, whether to an acquittal or conviction. 39 Am J1st Obst J § 1.

due course of law. According to the law of the land; due process of law. Hanson v Krehbiel, 68 Kan 670, 75 P 1041.

See due process of law; remedy by due course of law.

due course of trade. In the ordinary course of business. The circumstances attendant upon a transaction in the ordinary course of business, such as a sale and payment of the price contemporaneously.

due course of transit. Property being carried with the intent to deliver it at a specific destination. Anno: 80 ALR2d 447.

See deviation from route.

due course payment. See payment in due course.

due date. The date on which a promissory note or other obligation, by its terms, falls due.

due-days. Same as boom-days.

due diligence. Constancy or steadiness of purpose or labor by men who desire a speedy accomplishment of their purposes and such assiduity in the prosecution of the enterprise as manifest to the world a bona fide intention to complete the task within a reasonable time. Ophir Silver Mining Co. v Carpenter, 4 Nev 534. In reference to conduct negating negligence or contributory negligence, that amount of diligence which a reasonable and prudent man would exercise under the circumstances. Perry v Cedar Falls, 87 Iowa 315, 316. As a prerequisite to a continuance on the ground of the absence of a witness, due diligence in attempting to procure the attendance of the witness means that a party avail himself of the means provided by law, when practicable, to force the attendance of the witness. Fritsch v J. M. English Truck Line, Inc. 151 Tex 168, 246 SW2d 856.

See due care.

due east. A compass point, directly east. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 248.

due in advance. A clause used in loan contracts, requiring payment of interest in advance. 30 Am J Rev ed Int § 12.

duel. A combat with deadly weapons between two persons, according to the terms of a precedent agreement and under certain agreed and prescribed rules. Ward v Commonwealth, 132 Ky 636, 116 SW 786; Griffin v State, 100 Tex Crim 641, 274 SW 11. A criminal offense under modern law. 25 Am J2d Duel § 1.

duelling. Fighting a duel.

See duel.

duello. A duel.

duellum. A duel.

due north. A compass point, directly north. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 248.

due notice. Sufficient notice. The notice prescribed by law in the case of where notice is prescribed. Where a statute requires notice to be given, it is the general rule of law that actual personal notice is required, and the notice must be personally served on the person to be notified. 39 Am J1st Notice § 9. Due notice of a trial upon charges made against a person, means that he is to be put upon trial at a specified time upon specified charges; and the notice must be given in season to afford him a reasonable opportunity to make preparation to meet the charges by summoning witnesses in his behalf. Brennan v United Hatters of North America, 73 NJL 729, 65 A 165.

See due process of law; due publication.

due process. See due process of law.

due process of law. A phrase impossible of precise definition; one which asserts a fundamental principle of justice rather than a specific rule of law. 16 Am J2d Const L § 545. Law in the regular course of administration through courts of justice according to those rules and forms which have been established for the protection of private rights. Endicott-Johnson Corp. v Smith, 266 US 291, 69 L Ed 293, 45 S Ct 63.

"Due process of law" implies and comprehends the administration of laws equally applicable to all under established rules which do not violate fundamental principles of private rights, and in a competent tribunal possessing jurisdiction of the cause and proceeding by hearing upon notice. State ex rel. Sweezer v Green, 360 Mo 1249, 232 SW2d 897, 24 ALR2d 340. "Due process of law" requires in each case an evaluation based on a disinterested inquiry pursued in the spirit of science, on a balanced order of facts exactly and fairly stated, on the detached consideration of conflicting claims, and on a judgment not ad hoc and episodic but duly mindful of reconciling the needs both of continuity and of change in any progressive society. Rochin v California 342 US 165, 96 L Ed 183, 72 S Ct 205, 25 ALR2d 1396.

One of the most famous and perhaps the most often quoted definition of "due process of law" is that given by Daniel Webster in his argument in the Dartmouth College case (Dartmouth College v Woodward (US) 4 Wheat 518, 4 L Ed 629), wherein he declared that by due process of law is meant "the law which hears before it condemns; which proceeds upon inquiry, and renders judgment only after trial.

See day in court; deprivation without due process; hearing; law of the land; life, liberty and property; life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

due proof. Sufficient proof.

See due proof of loss; sufficient evidence.

due proof of loss. As required by an insurance policy, reasonable and satisfactory proof; a proof which makes out a prima facie case against the insurer by furnishing information which is substantial and trustworthy enough to enable the insurer to form an intelligent estimate. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1403. Evidence proper in form and sufficient in character to indicate the truth of the facts stated and to show the happening of the event upon which the insurer agreed to pay the loss or claim. Howe v National Life Ins. Co. 321 Mass 283, 72 NE2d 425, 170 ALR 1254.

[381]

due publication. A publication in the manner and form and for the time required by law. Laugel v Bushnell, 197 Ill 20, 63 NE 1086.

due regard. See due consideration.

due regard for the safety of others. See due care.

dues. Annual or other regular payments made by a member of an association, club, society, or fraternal order. The sums of money which a member of a mutual benefit society or benevolent association must pay toward the support of the society in order to retain his membership therein. 36 Am J2d Frat O § 80. The term has been used in the unusual sense of contract obligations, even liability for torts. Whitman v National Bank of Oxford, 176 US 559, 44 L Ed 587, 590, 20 S Ct 477.

due south. A compass point, directly south. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 248.

due to conditions of employment. A phrase in a workmen's compensation statute which serves to emphasize the necessity for a causal relationship between the employment and the injury. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 209.

due west. A compass point, directly west. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 248.

duke. A leader; an English hereditary title which is next in rank below that of a prince.

dulocracy. A government by slaves.

duly. The word has acquired a fixed legal meaning, and when used before any word implying action, it means that the act was done properly, regularly, and according to law. It is often used before such words as "convened," "arrested," "qualified," "served," "presented," "discharged," and many others, and in such cases it has the meaning of the word "legally" or "properly," "according to law." O'Donnell v People, 224 Ill 218, 79 NE 639. Citing Am & Eng Encyc of Law.

duly adjudged. Adjudged according to law,—that is, according to the statute governing the subject, and implying the existence of every fact essential to perfect regularity of procedure, and to confer jurisdiction both of the subject matter and of the parties affected by the judgment. Any step in the cause before the court is necessarily the exercise of jurisdiction, and that step cannot be "duly" taken unless jurisdiction exists. The final step—in particular, the making of the judgment—cannot be "duly" taken unless all of the preliminary steps upon which it is based have likewise been "duly" taken. Brownell v Greenwich, 114 NY 518, 22 NE 24.

duly authorized agent. An agent with authority either express or implied to act in a particular situation, for example, the receiving of notice or proof of loss. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1398.

duly negotiated. Commercial paper transferred from one person to another in such manner and form that the transferee becomes the holder thereof. Uniform Negotiable Instruments Act § 30. The negotiation of a negotiable document of title in the manner stated in the Uniform Commercial Code to a holder who purchases it in good faith without notice of any defense against or claim to it on the part of any person and for value, unless it is established that the negotiation is not in the regular course of business or financing, or that it involves receiving the document in settlement or payment of a money obligation. UCC § 7-501(4).

duly performed. Fully performed. In some jurisdictions, where the statute permits a party in a contract action to allege generally that he has "duly performed" all of the conditions on his part, if he would avail himself of this provision, he must comply strictly with the statute, and the omission of the word "duly" would seem fatal. Accordingly, a substitution of the word "substantially" for the word "duly" was held to be an insufficient allegation of performance. Lusk Lumber Co. v Independent Producers Consol. 35 Wyo 381, 249 P 790.

duly recorded. The term not only imports that the instrument has been filed for record and copied in the proper record book of the registrar, but also that it was in form and substance an instrument which was by law entitled to be recorded. See Marden v Dorthy, 160 NY 39, 54 NE 726.

duly sworn. Having been put under oath, before an officer authorized to administer oaths, in the manner and form required by law. Garner v State, 28 Fla 113. An allegation that one did depose and swear is not the equivalent of alleging that being "duly sworn," he did depose and say. A man may depose as well before an oath has been administered to him as afterwards. Likewise a person may "swear" who is not duly sworn. United States v M'Conaughy (DC Or) 33 F 168, 169.

See swear.

dum. While; as long as; in so far as.

dumb. Lacking the power of speech. Mute. Such disability is not one of mental incapacity. A colloquial expression for stupid.

dumb-bidding. Bidding at an auction sale where all bids below a previously arranged secret figure are to be rejected by the auctioneer.

dum bene se gesserit. As long as he should well behave himself,—during good behavior. 43 Am J1st Pub Of § 156.

dumboc. Same as Dome Book. See 1 Bl Comm 46.

dumb person. See deaf mute; dumb.

dumb waiter. A small elevator or lift in a house for sending food, laundry, trash, etc. from one floor to another. A serving table.

dum fervet opus. While the work is going on; during the transaction.

dum fait infra aetatem. While he was under age.

dum fait in prisons. While he was in prison,—a writ to recover land conveyed under duress of imprisonment.

dum fait non compos mends suae, ut dicit. While he was of unsound mind, as he says. See 2 Bl Comm 291.

dummodo. Provided; provided that.

dummodo constat de persona. Provided that it is clear as to the person.

dummy. One posing or represented as acting for himself, but in reality acting for another; a tool or straw man for the real parties in interest.

dummy corporation. A corporation organized and acting ostensibly as a corporation, but in reality having no real corporate purpose, having been organized with the motive of avoiding personal liability on the part of the incorporator and sole stockholder. Chesapeake Stone Co. v Holbrook, 168 Ky 128, 181 SW 953.

[382]

dummy director. A person who, although nominally a director of a corporation is a mere figurehead and discharges no duties. Goldenrod Mining Co. v Bukvich, 108 Mont 569, 92 P2d 316. A person to whom a share of stock in a corporation is transferred in order to qualify him as a director. Hoopes v Basic Co. 69 NJ Eq 679, 61 A 979.

dummy engine. A small railroad locomotive used only in the yards of a railroad or on the tracks of an industrial plant, sometimes having a muffled exhaust. Birmingham Mineral Railroad Co. v Jacobs, 92 Ala 187, 9 So 320.

dum non fuit compos mentis. While he was of unsound mind.

dump. Noun: The place where the accumulated refuse of a city or center of population is dumped. Bruce v Kansas City, 128 Kan 13, 276 P 284, 63 ALR 325. Verb: To throw away; to unload in a heap, as rubbish.

See dumping; mine dump.

dumping. The sale in the United States of foreign merchandise at less than its fair value. 21 Am J2d Cost D § 15. Cutting the price of merchandise for a quick sale. Unloading a truck filled with heavy material such as coal or ore; unloading refuse at a dump.

See dump.

Dumpon's Case. An old English case from which there was developed the rule that once the condition upon which an estate was granted is waived and therefore gone, it is gone forever. 28 Am J2d Est § 169.

dump truck. A truck equipped so that the power of the motor can be applied to unloading the vehicle by raising the front end of the body, thereby permitting the contents of the load to slide out. A motor vehicle. Anno: 77 ALR2d 948.

dum recens fuit maleficium. While the offense was fresh or recent.

dum sola. While unmarried.

dum sola et casta vixerit. While she shall live unmarried and chaste.

dun. A statement of account with request for payment.

See bum-baliff.

dunces. See parliament of dunces.

dungeon. An underground prison or cell of a prison.

dunnage. Material for the packing or shoring of a ship's cargo. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 49. Chips, planks boughs, and other pieces of wood placed in the bottom of the hold of a vessel to keep the cargo above the water which collects in the hold. Materials used to steady the cargo and prevent one part from rubbing against another. Great Western Insurance Co. v Thwing (US) 13 Wall 672, 20 L Ed 607.

duodecemvirale iudicium. A trial by twelve men, a trial by jury.

duodecima manus. The twelfth hand; twelve hands. The term was used to refer to the twelve right hands of the eleven compurgators and the defendant himself which were raised when the twelve were sworn in a trial by wager of law. See 3 Bl Comm 343.

duodena. A jury composed of twelve men.

duodenitis. A bodily ailment consisting of the stricture or obstruction of the duodenum, sometimes caused by an external physical injury, such as a fall or a twisting of the body, and often causing death. See United States Mutual Accident Association v Barry, 131 US 100, 109, 33 L Ed 60, 64, 9 S Ct 755.

duo non possunt in solido unam rem possidere. Two persons cannot each possess one thing exclusively.

duorum in solidum dominium vel possessio esse non potest. Sole ownership or possession cannot be in two persons.

duo sunt instrumenta ad omnes res aut confirmandas aut impugnandas,—ratio et auctoritas. There are two instrumentalities for the confirmation or repudiation of all things,—reason and authority.

duplex. A dwelling or apartment house consisting of two family units. One of the units of a two-family house or apartment.

duplex querela. A double complaint; an appeal from an ordinary to his next superior, as from the decision of a bishop to an archbishop. See 3 Bl Comm 247.

duplex valor maritagii. Double the value of the maritagium. The amount of the penalty which a ward had to pay if he married without his guardian's consent and thus cut off the guardian's maritagium. See 2 Bl Comm 70.

duplicate. Verb: To make an exact copy or double of something. Noun: The double of anything. Lorch v Page, 97 Conn 66, 115 A 681, 24 ALR 1204, 1206. An instrument, sometimes called a duplicate original, of exact identity with another instrument, executed as an original the same as the other instrument, and having all the legal effect of an original. Anno: 24 ALR 1209; 17 Am J2d Contr § 284; 50 Am J1st Stat § 289. The most significant distinction between a mere copy and a duplicate or duplicate original is that the best evidence rule, which applies to a copy does not apply to a duplicate. 29 Am J2d Ev § 487. The better view is that the different numbers or impressions of a writing produced by placing carbon paper between sheets of paper and writing upon the exposed surface are duplicate originals, of which any may be introduced in evidence without accounting for the nonproduction of the others. Maston v Glen Lumber Co. 65 Okla 80, 163 P 128; 29 Am J2d Ev § 488.

duplicate bill. See bills in a set; duplicate bill of lading; duplicate paper.

duplicate bill of lading. An extra copy of a bill of lading made for the convenience and information of consignor or consignee, which, under statute, must bear the word "duplicate" or some other word or words appropriate to show that the document is not an original bill. 13 Am J2d Car § 268.

duplicate paper. A substitute for a negotiable instrument which has been lost, destroyed, or mutilated. 11 Am J2d B & N § 59.

See bills in a set.

duplicate taxation. Same as double taxation.

[383]

duplicate will. A will which has been executed in duplicate so that the two copies can be placed in the hands of different persons. 57 Am J1st Wills § 495.

See double wills; reciprocal wills.

duplicatio. A Roman law pleading corresponding to the common-law rejoinder, being the defendant's reply to the actor's replicatio. See 3 Bl Comm 310.

See rejoinder.

duplication. The making of a duplicate. In admiralty, a pleading replying to the replication of the defendant.

duplicationem possibilitatis lex non patitur. The law does not permit the doubling of a possibility.

duplicatum jus. A double right.

duplicem valorem maritagii. See duplex valor maritagii.

duplicitous. See duplicity; duplicity in indictment or information; duplicity in pleading.

duplicity. Deception, particularly in double dealing.

See duplicity in indictment or information; duplicity in pleading.

duplicity in indictment or information. Charging two different and distinct offenses in one count. Frohwerk v United States, 249 US 204, 63 L Ed 561, 39 S Ct 249; 27 Am J1st Indict § 124.

duplicity in pleading. A defect in pleading as in violation of the rules which tend to produce singleness or unity in the issue. A declaration, complaint, or petition is duplicitous where it joins in one and the same count different grounds of action of different natures or of the same nature, to enforce a single right of recovery; or where it is based on different theories of the defendant's liability. A plea or answer is bad for duplicity if it contains more than one independent fact, or set of facts, any of which alone is a sufficient answer to the declaration, complaint, or petition, and this, whether the defense is in abatement, in bar, or both. 41 Am J1st Pl §§ 44, 45.

See duplicity in indictment or information.

duplo. See in duplo.

duply. A Scotch pleading corresponding to the rejoinder of the common law, being the same as the Roman law duplicatio.

dura lex scripta tamen. Harsh though it be, the law is thus written. Landry v American Creosote Works, 119 La 231, 43 So 1016.

durante. During; pending.

durante absentia. See administration durante absentia; administrator of absentee.

durante animo vitio administrator. See administrator animo vitio.

durante bene placito. During the pleasure. Before the statute 13 William 111, c. 2, the judges of the superior courts held their offices at the pleasure of the king. See 1 Bl Comm 267. It seems also that a sheriff might be appointed during the pleasure of the king. See 1 Bl Comm 342.

durante furore. During the period of a person's insanity.

durante itinere. During the time when a person is on a journey.

durante minore aetate. During the age of minority.

durante minoritate administrator. See administrator durante minoritate administratoris. durante minoritate administratoris. See administrator durante minoritate administratoris. durante viduitate. During widowhood, while she was a widow. See 2 Bl Comm 124.

durante virginitate. During virginity,—during the time a woman remains unmarried.

durante vita. During a person's lifetime.

duration. The period of existence, People v Hill, 7 Cal 97; continuance in time; the portion of time during which anything exists. Hence, a statute providing that a session should be "limited to sixty days' duration" means sixty days counting one after another, including Sundays, holidays, and any days of temporary adjournment. Cheyney v Smith, 3 Ariz 143, 23 P 680.

duration of risk. The extent of time within which the losses covered by a policy of insurance must occur in order for the insurer to be liable. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 317. The period of time between the effective date of the policy and the termination of the risk by expiration of the period of coverage, cancellation of the policy, or breach of condition.

duration of war. In a legal sense the period continuing to and terminating at the time of a formal proclamation of peace by competent authorities; in common usage by laymen, the period of time terminating on the cessation of actual hostilities. When such term is used in a contract the meaning to be attributed is one of intent of the parties to be determined upon the consideration of the instrument itself and evidence produced as to the circumstances surrounding its execution and the purposes which the party sought to accomplish. Malbone Garage v Minkin, 272 App Div 109, 72 NYS2d 327, affd 297 NY 677, 76 NE2d 331.

duress. Any wrongful act of one person that compels a manifestation of apparent assent by another to a transaction without his volition. Compulsion or restraint by which a person is illegally forced to do, or forbear from doing, some act. 25 Am J2d Dur § 1. A species of fraud in which compulsion in some form takes the place of deception. 25 Am J2d Dur § 1. As a defense in a criminal prosecution, a present, imminent, and impending coercion of such a nature as to induce a well-grounded apprehension of death or serious bodily injury if the act is not done. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 100.

The existence of duress is to be determined by the subjective standard of whether the free will of the victim was, rather than whether that of a person of ordinary courage and firmness would be, overcome thereby. Wise v Midtown Motors, 231 Minn 46, 42 NW2d 404, 20 ALR2d 735.

See business compulsion; coercion; undue influence.

duress by imprisonment. See duress of imprisonment.

duress by public utility. The exaction of a payment demanded for services under threat of terminating service, thereby causing great injury to the property or business of the customer. 25 Am 12d Dur § 8.

[384]

duress by threat. See duress per minas. duress of family. See duress per minas. duress of goods. See duress of property.

duress of imprisonment. An arrest for improper purposes without just cause; an arrest for a just cause but without lawful authority; an arrest for a just cause and under lawful authority for an improper purpose; or ill treatment of a prisoner under imprisonment originally lawful. 25 Am J2d Dur § 4.

duress of property. The refusal of one in possession or control of property of another to surrender the possession or control of it to the owner except upon compliance with an unlawful demand. A contract made by the owner under such circumstances to emancipate the property is to be regarded as made under compulsion and duress and is voidable by the owner. 25 Am J2d Dur § 5. A contract procured by threats inducing fear of the destruction of one's property, and compelling him to act against his will may be avoided on the ground of duress, there being in such a case only the bare form of a contract, wholly lacking the voluntary assent necessary for a binding contract. Cleaveland v Richardson, 132 US 318, 33 L Ed 384, 10 S Ct 108.

duressor. A person who employs duress in his dealing with another.

duress per minas. Compulsion exercised by threat of imprisonment, mayhem, or taking of life or limb. 25 Am J2d Dur § 11. As defined at common law, such duress existed only where the party entered into a contract or performed an act for fear of imprisonment, mayhem, or loss of life or limb; threats or menace of mere battery to the person, or of trespass to lands or loss of goods were not sufficient to constitute such duress as to void obligations entered into because of such threats. 25 Am J2d Dur § 11. By many, if not most, of the modern authorities, however, the true doctrine of duress is held to be that a contract, deed, or any obligation obtained by so oppressing a person by threats regarding the safety or liberty of himself, or of his property, or of a member of his family, as to deprive him of the free exercise of his will and prevent the meeting of minds necessary to a valid contract, may be avoided on the ground of duress, whether the oppression was formerly deemed duress, and relievable at law as such, or was deemed wrongful compulsion remediable only in equity. 25 Am J2d Dur § 12.

Durham Test. A test of insanity constituting a defense in a criminal case, otherwise known as the "product test," which determines criminal responsibility on whether the unlawful act was the product of "mental disease or mental defect." 21 Am J2d Crim L § 39.

See mental disease or mental defect.

during. Throughout a period of time. A point of time within a period, as during the month of January, or during the widowhood of the grantee of a deed. Glendale Mfg. Co. v Protection Ins. Co. 21 Conn 19, 38.

during coverture. While marriage lasts. State ex rel. Hamilton v Guinotte, 156 Mo 513, 57 SW 281.

during good behavior. See good behavior.

during natural life. During the lifetime of a person.

See Shelley's Case.

during the hours of service. A period which includes the hours of active labor on the premises of the employer and the time necessary for going to and from the place of employment where the latter is expressly or impliedly included in the terms of the employment. Any period during which the employee was on the premises of the employer due to his employment. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 214.

during the term. During the time or period for which the officer is elected or appointed. State ex rel. Hamilton v Guinotte, 156 Mo 513, 57 SW 281. Within the period during which a tenant is entitled to possession under his lease.

during trial. See trial.

dusting. Spreading poisonous dust upon crops or land to control or eradicate pests. The operation is normally performed with the aid of an airplane. 3 Am J2d Agri § 47.

dustyfoot. See courts of piepoudre.

Dutch auction. An auction where the property is put up at a price usually greater than its value and the price is then gradually lowered until someone closes the sale by accepting the offer and thus becoming the purchaser. Anderson v Wisconsin C. R. Co. 107 Minn 296, 120 NW 39.

Dutch net. Also called a "pod net" or "pound net,"—a kind of fisherman's net so set with stakes as to form a large trap or weir for fish and from the pod or inner compartment of which they cannot escape. Rea v Hampton & Nichols, 101 NC 51.

dutiable. Subject to import duty.

duties. Obligations, whether imposed by the common law, statute, or contract; when a right is invaded, a duty is violated. Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway Co. v Kurtz, 10 Ind App 60, 67, 37 NE 303. A particular kind of levy or tax made by a government on the importation of commodities into the country. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 1. Not merely duties on the act of importation, but duties on the thing imported. Brown v Maryland (US) 12 Wheat 419, 6 L Ed 678.

See customs duties.

duties and imposts. As used in Clause 1, Section 8, Article I of the United States Constitution, a particular kind of tax commonly applied to levies on imports, but probably comprehending every species of tax or contribution not included under the ordinary terms "taxes" and "excises." Steward Mach. Co. v Davis, 301 US 548, 81 L Ed 481, 24 S Ct 305.

See duties, imposts and excises.

duties, imposts and excises. Words which are often used comprehensively and cover customs and excise duties imposed on importation, consumption, manufacture, and sale of certain commodities, privileges, particular business transactions, vocations, occupations, and the like, being, when so used, subject to construction under the rules that apply to license taxes. Thomas v United States, 192 US 363, 48 L Ed 481. One of the two great classes of taxes, the other being direct taxes, and the two, taken together, including every kind of tax appropriate to sovereignty.

See customs duties; duties and imposts; excises; imposts.

duties of detraction. Duties imposed on legacies payable to aliens and residents of other states. Mager v Grima (US) 8 How 490, 493, 12 L Ed 1168, 1170.

duties on imports. See customs duties; duties.

[385]

duties required of him by law. A common phrase appearing as a condition of the bond required of an executor or administrator, the effect of which is to extend the obligation to all duties in reference to the administration of the estate, including the payment of debts and the distribution of the remainder of the estate among those entitled to receive it. Williams v State, 68 Miss 680, 10 So 52.

duty. See duties.

duty of disclosure. See duty to communicate.

duty of support. A duty of supporting wife or child imposed or imposable by law, or by any court order, decree, or judgment, whether interlocutory or final, and whether incidental to a proceeding for divorce, judicial separation, separate maintenance, or otherwise. Uniform Reciprocal Enforcement of Support Act § 2(f); 23 Am J2d Desert § 131. The obligation to support a parent or other relative imposed by statute. 39 Am J1st P & C § 122. The obligation to support a person under an agreement for support. 50 Am J1st Sup Per § 2.

duty of tonnage. See tonnage duty.

duty to communicate. An agent's duty to make a full disclosure to his principal of all material facts relevant to the agency; to make a prompt, full, and frank disclosure and account to the principal of all matters concerning the agency; to give the principal any information that the latter would desire to have and which can be communicated to him without violating a superior duty to a third person. 3 Am J2d Agency § 200. The duty to communicate criminatory matter to a person having a corresponding interest or duty, not confined to legal duties which may be enforced by indictment, action, or mandamus, but including moral and social duties of imperfect obligation as well. Harrison v Bush, 5 Ellis & Blackburn (Eng) 344.

duty to lessen damages. See mitigation of damages.

duty to retreat. See retreat.

duumviri. Two Roman magistrates possessing the same powers and functions who were elected or appointed as a pair.

dux. A chief; a leader.

D. V. M. Abbreviation of Doctor of Veterinary Medicine.

D. V. S. Abbreviation of Doctor of Veterinary Science.

dwell. To inhabit; to reside; to have a fixed place of residence. Eatontown v Shrewsbury, 49 NJL 188, 190.
See dwelling; residence.

dwelling. A place of abode for people. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 183. A dwelling house. The act of inhabiting or residing in a place.
See dwell; dwelling house.

dwelling house. A building used as a place of abode for people. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 183. A building suitable as a dwelling house, whether or not it is occupied at the time. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 904. For the purpose of the offense of arson, any house intended to be occupied as a residence, or a house in which human beings usually stay, lodge, or reside. 5 Am J2d Arson § 19. For the purpose of the crime of burglary, the apartment, room in a hotel, building, or cluster of buildings in which a man resides with his family, or any permanent building in which a person may dwell and sleep. 13 Am J2d Burgl § 3.

See house; mansion house; residence.

dwelling house of another. As the term is used in the law of arson, a dwelling house of which a person other than the accused is in possession; the person in possession may or may not be the owner. 5 Am J2d Arson § 39.

dwelling-place. See dwelt; dwelling house.

DWI. Abbreviation for driving while intoxicated.

Dyer Act. The National Motor Vehicle Theft Act of 1919, making it an offense to transport a motor vehicle in interstate or foreign commerce with knowledge that the same has been stolen or to receive, conceal, barter or sell a motor vehicle in interstate or foreign commerce, knowing the same to have been stolen. 7 Am J2d Auto § 305.

dying declaration. A declaration by the victim of a homicide or of an abortion resulting in the death of the woman, made while in extremis. 1 Am J2d Abort § 23. More precisely, a statement made by the victim of a homicide while about to die, and without any hope of recovery, concerning the facts and circumstances under which the fatal injury was inflicted, and offered in evidence on the trial of the person charged with having caused the death of the declarant. 26 Am J1st Homi § 385.

dying intestate. Dying without leaving a valid will. Also death without making an effective testamentary disposition. Bradford v Leake, 124 Tenn 312, 137 SW 96.

dying without issue. Dying without a child born either before or after the decedent's death. A term often appearing in devises of real estate, sometimes construed as meaning a definite failure of issue, that is no issue living at the time of the first taker's death, while other authorities construe the phrase as providing for an indefinite failure of issue, thereby invalidating the limitation on the ground of remoteness. 28 Am J2d Est § 272. Of course, the limitation is not evaluated according to its bare bones, the context of the entire instrument must be considered in determining whether the expression is one of a definite failure of issue or an indefinite failure of issue. 28 Am J2d Est § 272. Although it has been held that in executory bequests of personal estates any words in the will may be laid hold of to restrain the generality of the words "dying without issue" and confine them to a dying without issue living at the time of the person's decease, in order to support the intention of the testator, yet even in the limitation of personal estates, the words "dying without issue," standing alone, without the concurrence of any other circumstances indicating an intention of restricting them, will not signify a dying without issue living at the death of the first taker. 28 Am J2d Est § 273.

dying without leaving issue. See dying without issue.

dyke. Another spelling of dike.

dynamo. A device for converting mechanical energy into electricity by magnetic induction. Thomson-Houston Electric Co. v Western Electric Co. (CC Ill) 65 F 615, 616.

dynasty. A royal family succession to a throne or sovereignty.

dysnomy. Bad legislation; the enactment of unwarrantable laws.

dylvour. An insolvent person who had made an assignment of his property for the benefit of his creditors; a bankrupt.

dylvour's habit. The costume which the law prescribed to be worn by a dylvour.

E

e. An abbreviation of "east" in descriptions of land, whether in stating the course of a boundary, e. g. "running e. 80 rods," or designating the fractional part of a section under the Congressional Survey, e. g. "the e. 1 / 2 of the NW quarter of Section 6."

In Latin, a preposition, the equivalent of "ex," meaning from, out of.

E<sup>2</sup>. An abbreviation of a fractional part of a section of land of 640 acres under the Congressional Survey, the figure whether 2, 4, 16, or whatever, indicating the fraction of the section designated, as 1 / 2, 1 / 4, 1 / 16, etc. of a numbered section. For example, E<sup>2</sup> NW<sup>4</sup> Sec 10 means 80 acres comprising the east half of the northwest quarter of section 10. Power v Bowdle, 3 ND 107, 54 NW 404.

each. Every one of the two or more comprising the whole. Adams Express Co. v Lexington, 83 Ky 657, 660. Indicating generally, as it appears in a designation of beneficiaries in a will, a gift to individuals rather than to a class. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1265. Significant in the same connection as tending to show intent for distribution per capita. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1296.

each accident. See per accident clause.

each party. Every one of two or more parties. Appearing in a statute giving "each party" a designated number of peremptory challenges to a juror, the term, in a case involving plural parties, means each side, notwithstanding the parties on one side plead separately, at least where their interests are common and their pleadings are substantially identical. 31 Am J Rev ed Jury § 238.

eadem causa. See in eadem causa.

Eadem causa diversis rationibus coram iudicibus ecclesiasticis et secularibus ventilatur. The same cause is argued with different reasons before both the ecclesiastical and the secular judges.

Eadem est ratio, eadem est lex. The reason being the same, the law is the same. Follett v United States Mut. Acci. Asso. 110 NC 377, 14 SE 923.

Eadem mens praesumitur regis quae est juris et quae esse debet, praesertim in dubiis. The king's mind is presumed to be in accord with law and as it should be, especially in doubtful matters.

eadling. Same as atheling.

Ea est accipienda interpretatio, quae vitio caret. That interpretation is to be accepted which is without fault.

eagle. A United States gold coin of the value of ten dollars. Withdrawn from circulation, along with other gold coin, in 1933.

ea intentione. With that intention.

ealdor biscop. A chief bishop, an archbishop.

ealehus. An alehouse.

e. and o.e. An abbreviation of "errors and omissions excepted," often noted upon financial statements and accounts.

Ea quae commendandi causa in venditionibus dicuntur si palam appareant venditorem non obligant. Those statements which are made in commendation at sales, if they appear openly, do not bind the seller.

Ea quae dari impossibilia sunt, vel quae in rerum natura non sunt, pro non adjectis habentur. Those things which it is not possible to give, or which in the nature of things have no existence, are not regarded as included (in the contract).

Ea quae in curia nostra rite acta sunt debitae executioni demandari debent. Those things which are regularly done in our court should be committed to a due execution.

Ea quae raro accidunt, non temere in agendis negotiis computantur. Those things which rarely happen are not to be taken into account in business transactions without sufficient reason.

ear. The organ of hearing. Grains of corn and the cob to which they are affixed by nature. In a mechanical sense, a part projecting from the side of anything. Consolidated Vapor-Stove Co. v Elwood Gas-Stove & Stamping Co. (CC Pa) 63 F 698.

earl. An English title of nobility below that of a marquis and above that of a viscount in rank. The custody of the shire is said to have been committed to an earl at the first division of the kingdom into counties, but later, by reason of their attendance on the king and other duties, the labor of the office was transferred to the vice-comes or sheriff, the earl, however, retaining the honor. See 1 Bl Comm 339.

earldom. The jurisdiction, seignior, or dignity of an earl.

earles-penny. A piece of money given as an earnest to bind a bargain.

earliest possible convenience. As a limitation upon a promise to pay, "earliest possible convenience" means payment when the promisor is able to pay, that is, has the means to pay. Halladay v Weeks, 127 Mich 363, 86 NW 799.

earl marshal. The eighth great officer of state in England. At one time the earl marshal presided over the court of chivalry when it was held as a military court, or court of honor and when this court was held as a criminal court, it was presided over by the lord high constable jointly with the earl marshal. See 4 Bl Comm 268.

earl palatine. Same as count palatine.

earmark. Any mark or means by which a thing can be identified or distinguished from other things of the same sort. A slit made in one or both ears of cattle, sheep, or hogs, for their identification.

earmark doctrine. The doctrine, now obsolete, that where a trustee or other fiduciary dies, the owner of money which has been entrusted to the decedent shares as a general creditor in the assets of the decedent's estate, unless the money so held had an "earmark" and was thus distinguishable from the mass of the decedent's own property. Such doctrine appears to have given way to the modern principle that the owner can recover the money or its equivalent whenever it can be traced to the estate, no matter what form it may take. First Nat. Bank v Hummell, 14 Colo 259, 23 P 986.

[387]

earn. To gain, obtain, or acquire as the reward of labor or performance of some service. Lewis' Estate, 156 Pa St 337, 340.

earned premium. See premium earned.

earned surplus. The surplus of a corporation derived from undistributed profits, not from a reduction of capital stock. Willcutts v Milton Dairy Co. 275 US 215, 72 L Ed 247.

earnest. Another term for earnest money.

earnest money. A downpayment of part of the purchase price made to bind the bargain. A part payment of the purchase price, within the meaning of the statute of frauds. Goddard v Monitor Mut. Fire Ins. Co. 108 Mass 54; 49 Am J1st Stat of F § 265. A downpayment or deposit required at an auction sale. 7 Am J2d Auct § 45.

earning capacity. The power of a person or a business enterprise to earn money or show a profit; to earn money or show a profit in a particular sum. The power to create property from earnings. Local Loan Co. v Hunt, 292 US 234, 78 L Ed 1230, 54 S Ct 695. An element considered in measuring damages recoverable for a personal injury. 22 Am J2d Damg § 92. The best test of the value of a going commercial enterprise; a test to be employed in the valuation of a corporation for the purpose of reorganization under the Chapter X of the Bankruptcy Act. For such purpose, "earning capacity" means normal capacity rather than an abnormal capacity consequent upon business conditions which cannot reasonably be expected to continue. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1591.

A person may have an earning capacity, even though not employed at any labor or occupation at the particular time in question. 22 Am J2d Damg § 89.

earning power. Same as earning capacity.

earnings. In a pristine sense, the gains of a person from his services or labor, without the aid of capital. 22 Am J2d Damg § 89; 31 Am J2d Exemp § 39. In the modern sense and development of the term, it includes profits from the employment of capital, as illustrated by the earnings of a corporation. 19 Am J2d Corp § 823. The term is equivalent to "income" where used in the limitation of a life estate and a remainder in connection with a provision for the disposition of extraordinary dividends and distributions as between life tenant and remainderman. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 378.

See future earnings; net earnings; personal earnings; surplus earnings.

earnings and profits. Wages of labor and income from business. 27 Am J1st H & W § 466.

See earnings; profits.

earth. The planet on which we live; the world. Soil of all kinds, including gravel, clay, loam, and the like, in distinction from the firm rock. Dickinson v Poughkeepsie, 75 NY 65, 76.

earthquake. A movement of the crust of the earth due to faults in the structure or rock or pressure originating in the interior of the earth; an act of God. 1 Am J2d Act of God § 6; a casualty for the purpose of deducting losses for income tax purposes. Anno: 41 ALR2d 711-713.

ear-witness. A witness who gives hearsay testimony.

ease. Comfort, contentment, enjoyment, happiness, pleasure and satisfaction. National Surety Co. v Jarett, 95 W Va 420, 121 SE 291 easement. A servitude imposed as a burden on land. The right which one person has to use the land of another for a specific purpose not inconsistent with a general property in the owner and not including the right to participate in the profits of the soil charged with it. Precisely, a liberty, privilege, or advantage in land without profit, existing distinct from the ownership of the soil. 25 Am J2d Ease § 1.

easement appendant. Same as easement appurtenant.

See affirmative easement; apparent easement; continuous easement; discontinuous easement; dominant tenement; license; lost grant; necessary easement; negative easement; praedial servitude; praedium dominans; praedium serviens; prescriptive easement; public easement; quasi easement; secondary easement; servient tenement; urban easements; way of necessity.

easement appurtenant. An easement of the conventional type, one that is appurtenant to a dominant tenement. An incorporeal right, a servitude, attached to, and belonging with, some greater or superior right-something annexed to another more worthy thing with which it passes as an incident, being incapable of existence separate and apart from the particular land to which it is annexed and to which it bears a relationship connected with the use of the dominant estate. 25 Am J2d Ease § 11.

easement by custom. A right acquired by custom, in the nature of an easement but lacking a dominant tenement, for example, a right of way by custom in favor of the inhabitants of a particular locality. Such easements have received little, if any, recognition in this country. 25 Am J2d Ease § 19.

easement by implication. See implied easement.

easement by implied grant. Same as implied easement.

easement by natural right. See easement ex jure naturale.

easement by prescription. See prescriptive easement.

easement ex jure naturale. Not a true easement, since not created by the act of man. A right, such as subjacent and lateral support or the right of an owner of land to have surface water flow freely from his land to that of his neighbor, arising by law and existing as a so-called natural right. 25 Am J2d Ease § 6.

easement for years. An easement created to endure for a specified period of time. 25 Am J2d Ease § 99.

easement in gross. An easement not supported by a dominant estate, consisting of a mere personal interest in or right to use the land of another. 25 Am J2d Ease § 12. A right, usufructuary in its nature and character, which entitles the owner to the use of the land for the profits which may be derived from its rents, or from quarrying and digging it for ores, or from harvesting its fruits, crops, and vintages, etc. Smith v Cooley, 65 Cal 46, 48, 2 P 880. A right of way which is personal to the grantee and not appurtenant to other premises. Wagner v Hanna, 38 Cal 111, 116.

[388]

easement of highway. See highway easement.

easement of drip. The servitude of the dripping of water from the eaves of a building on to the land of the adjoining owner. 1 Am J2d Adj L § 31.

easement of natural support. The easement or right which a landowner has to the lateral and subjacent support of his land in its natural condition. Booth v Rome, Watertown & Ogdensburg Terminal R. Co. 140 NY 267, 35 NE 592. An easement ex jure naturale rather than a true easement.

See easement ex jure naturale; lateral support; subjacent support.

easements of light, air, and view. Express or implied easements for the enjoyment of light, air, and view without obstruction by structures on the adjoining premises. 1 Am J2d Adj L §§ 89 et seq.

See ancient lights.

east. A direction; the direction of sunrise; a compass point, the point at which the sun rises at the equinox. A compass point which, appearing in a deed, means due east, in the absence of qualifying words in the instrument. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 248.

Easter. An annual Christian festival in commemoration of the resurrection of Christ. The date of the festival, as fixed by the first Council of Christian Churches in Nicaea in 325 A. D., is the first Sunday after the first full moon that occurs on or after March 21. For table of Easter dates for the 20th century, see The World Almanac, index reference "Easter Sunday."

Easter dues. Same as Easter offerings.

easterly. Due east, in the absence of qualifying words. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 248. When other words are used for the purpose of qualifying its meaning, it means precisely what the qualifying words make it mean. Fratt v Woodward, 32 Cal 213, 227.

See east.

eastern time. See standard time.

Easter offerings. Dues which were paid to the clergy at Easter.

Easter term. An English term of court which begins on April fifteenth and ends on the eighth day of May.

East Greenwich. A royal manor in Kent.

Eastman formula. A formula, said to have been suggested to Congress by Commissioner Eastman of the Interstate Commerce Commission, that fixed charges, under a plan for the reorganization of a railroad, should not exceed eighty per cent of the net available for interest in the three worst years of the last ten. Denver & R. G. W. R. Co. (DC Colo) 38 F Supp 106.

east one-half. See fraction of section.

Ea sunt animadvertenda peccata maxime, quae difficillime praecaventur. Those offenses should be most severely punished which are most difficult to prevent. See 3 Bl Comm 16.

easy coal. A technical term in coal-mining, designating coal which is to be handled with care, since its value is greatly impaired by breakage. Chesapeake & O. Ry. Co. v Kaltenbach (CA4 Va) 124 F2d 375.

easy-divorce state. A state having a number of grounds of divorce, a short residence requirement, and judges who are not inclined to doubt the plaintiff's testimony. Elwert v Elwert, 196 Or 256, 248 P2d 847, 36 ALR2d 741.

easy girl. Slang for a female who is easily seduced.

easy virtue. Willingness to engage in immoral practices, particularly on the part of a girl.

Eat inde sine die. Let him go hence without day,—formal words used in a judgment of acquittal on a charge of crime.

eau. (French.) Water.

eaves. The edges of the roof of a building, projecting beyond the face of the walls. Proprietors of Center St. Church v Machias Hotel Co. 51 Me 413.

eaves-drip. Water which drips from the eaves of a house.

See easement of drip.

eavesdropper. A person who listens under the windows or eaves of a house to hear the discourse therein and thereupon proclaim slanderous and mischievous tales. Such persons were regarded as nuisances at common law, and were required, in the discretion of the court, to find sureties for their good behavior. Pavesich v New England Life Ins. Co. 122 Ga 190, 50 SE 624. It is the habitual commission of the acts stated above which seems to constitute the gist of the common-law offense of eavesdropping, and the proof necessary for conviction must be such as will permit the jury to infer the habit of eavesdropping. State v Davis, 139 NC 547, 51 SE 897.

eavesdropping. See eavesdropper.

ebb. The falling or going out of the tides; the receding of the tide, moving back to the sea.

ebba. Same as ebb.

ebb and flow. The coming in and the falling back of the tide. A rejected test of navigability of water. 56 Am J1st Wat § 178.

ebermord. Same as abermurder.

E bonds. A convenient term for referring to series E of United States Savings Bonds, the distinguishing characteristic of which is an increasing redemption value in lieu of an expressly stated rate of interest.

Ebor. Latin for York.

E.b S. Abbreviation for east by south.

eccentricity. Deviation from the ordinary. Oddity in a person's conduct or manners, often so pronounced as to attract attention. Even glaring eccentricity is not the equivalent of insanity. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 7.

eccl. An abbreviation of ecclesiastical.

eccles. An abbreviation of ecclesiastical.

ecclesia. A church; a place of divine worship; a parsonage.

ecclesia commendata. Also called "commends,"-a church living commended by the crown to the care of a clerk, to hold until a proper pastor is provided for it. This might be temporary for from one to three years; or perpetual: being a kind of dispensation to avoid the vacancy of the living, and is called a commenda retinere. There was also a "commenda recipere," which was to take a benefice de novo, in the bishop's own gift, or the gift of some other patron consenting to it. See 1 Bl Comm 393.

[389]

Ecclesia decimas non solvit ecclesiae. The church pays no tithes to the church. See 2 Bl Comm 31.

Ecclesia ecclesiae decimas solvere non debet. A church ought not to pay tithes to a church.

Ecclesiae de feudo domini regis non possunt in perpetuum dari, absque assensu et consensione ipsius. Parsonages partaking of the king's fee cannot be given in perpetuity without his approval and consent. See 2 Bl Comm 269, note.

Ecclesia est domus mansionalis omnipotentis Dei. The church is the mansion house of God Almighty.

Ecclesia est infra aetatem et in custodia domini regis, qui tenetur jura et haereditates ejusdem manu tenere et defendere. The church is under age and in the custody of the king, who is bound to support and defend her rights and inheritances.

Ecclesia fungitur vice minoris; meliorem conditionem suam facere potest, deteriolem nequaquam. The church occupies the position of a minor; she can make her own condition better, but never worse.

Ecclesia magis favendum est quam personae. The church is more to be favored than the individual.

Ecclesia non moritur. The church does not die.

ecclesiastic. Ecclesiastical; a churchman.

ecclesiastical. Religious; pertaining to the church.

ecclesiastical commission. A court which was instituted by Queen Elizabeth and which was clothed with great powers in religious matters.

ecclesiastical corporations. Corporations, either sole or aggregate the members composing which are all spiritual persons, such as bishops, certain deans, and prebendaries, all archdeacons, parsons, and vicars, all of which are corporations sole, and such corporations aggregate as deans and chapters, prior and convent (formerly), abbots and monks, and the like. See 1 Bl Comm 470; 18 Am J2d Corp § 7.

See religious corporations; religious societies.

ecclesiastical council. Another name for a church court or tribunal taking cognizance of spiritual matters and internal controversies.

See ecclesiastical courts.

ecclesiastical courts. In American usage, church tribunals taking cognizance of spiritual matters and internal controversies. English courts presided over by members of the clergy, which, in the course of time, have exercised jurisdiction over spiritual matters and some matters deemed temporal today. The ecclesiastical court was not made a part of the judicial system of the United States or of the several states. Edgerton v Edgerton, 12 Mont 122, 29 P 966.

ecclesiastical law. That system of jurisprudence which prevails in the ecclesiastical courts of England. There is a conflict of opinion as to whether the ecclesiastical law of England has been adopted as part of the common law of American states. 15 Am J2d Comm L § 10.

ecclesiastical notary. A secretary or clerk employed in the ecclesiastical courts and councils.

ecclesiastical offense. See heresy.

ecclesiastical officer. A person in the hierarchy of control in the Church. Known as a "dignitary" if of a rank superior to that of a priest or canon.

ecclesiastical tribunal. See church tribunal.

ecclesiastical waste. Waste occurring to church property-chancel, parsonage, or other buildings thereunto belonging-of a voluntary or permissive character. 3 Bl Comm 91.

eccliaisticum. See forum ecclesiasticum.

eclampsia. A toxic condition of the body, particularly a toxic condition during pregnancy. Walker v Distler, 78 Idaho 38, 296 P2d 452, 454.

eclectic. Gathered from various sources by choosing; not bound to a conventional system.

eclectic practice of medicine. An unusual and perhaps eccentric system of treating human maladies; selecting methods of treatment from various sources of learning rather than following one school. Bradbury v Bardin, 34 Conn 453.

economic adulteration. The substitution of less expensive ingredients, or the diminution of the proportion of more expensive ingredients, so as to make the product, although not in itself deleterious, inferior to that which the consumer expects to receive when purchasing the product. Anno: 56 ALR2d 1 132. The use of foreign and artificial ingredients as coloring matter in food to deceive or defraud the consuming public. 22 Am J1st Food § 3.

economic burden. Literally, any expense, e. g. supporting a mother-in-law. A speculative abstraction in taxation, signifying the intangible, unascertainable result borne by everybody when a tax is imposed on anybody, the theory being that tax burdens are passed on to be borne by the ultimate consumer. Cudahy Packing Co. v United States (DC Ill) 37 F Supp 563.

economic compulsion. See business compulsion.

economic depression. An unhappy state in commerce and industry, carried over to the entire populace, resulting from decreasing business, falling prices, the closing down of factories, wide-spread unemployment, and increasing numbers of people subsisting on public welfare.

See Great Depression.

economic pressure. The force of circumstances in the field of economics that controls the course taken in a business or industry. The condition which forces one to sell on a low market or purchase on a high market.

See business compulsion; economic depression.

economics. A study in the abstract of the production and distribution of wealth and the problems related thereto, such as those of taxation, finance, labor, etc.

[390]

economic waste. An overproduction of oil and gas, relief against which is obtained by proration of production. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 150.

economizer. Something working in the interest of economy. An attachment to a steam boiler. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1365.

e contra. On the contrary; on the other hand.

e converso. Conversely; turned around.

écrit. See droit écrit.

ecumenical. Universal; pertaining to the Christian church in its entirety; disregarding denominations in order to view the Church as a whole. Belonging to the whole of the Christian church.

ed. Abbreviation of edition.

edge lease. An oil and gas lease located on the edge of an oil bearing structure. Carter Oil Co. v Mitchell (CA10) Okla 100 F2d 945.

edict. A command or prohibition promulgated by a sovereign and having the effect of law.

Edict of Theodoric. See Edictum Theodorici. edictum. Same as edict.

edictum perpetuum. A perpetual edict.

Edictum Theodorici. The Edict of Theodoric,—a code of laws compiled in the sixth century, A. D., under the Roman Emperor Theodoric.

edile. Same as aedile. edition. The total of copies of a book, magazine, or newspaper printed and published at one time or during a period of time, e. g. the second edition of American Jurisprudence, cited Am J2d.

editus. Issued; promulgated.

Edmunds Anti-polygamy Law. A federal statute of 1892 which punished bigamy and also the act of cohabitation with more than one woman at the same time. 10 Am J2d Blg § 5.

Edmundus autem latusferreum, rex naturalis de stirpe regum, genuit Edwardum et Edwardus genuit Edgarum, cui de jure debebatur regnum Anglorum. But Edmund Ironside, natural king from the race of kings, begat Edward and Edward begat Edgar, to whom the kingdom of England belonged of right. See 1 Bl Comm 199.

educate. To lead forth, to train, to develop physically and mentally. McNair v School Dist. 87 Mont 423, 288 P 188, 69 ALR 866.

See education.

education. The cultivation of the mind, the improvement of moral and religious natures, and the development of physical faculties. German Gymnastic Asso. v Louisville, 117 Ky 958, 80 SW 287.

Herbert Spencer said, "to prepare us for complete living is the function which education has to discharge." McNair v School Dist. 87 Mont 423, 288 P 188, 69 ALR 866.

educational appliance. Something necessary or useful to enable the teacher to teach the school children, such as a blackboard, map, or dictionary, but not an ordinary school book. Honaker v Board of Education, 42 W Va 170, 24 SE 544.

educational corporation. A corporation not for profit but for an educational purpose, particularly the establishment and maintenance of a school, college, or university. Public or private according to its foundation; founded by private individuals or supported by private funds or privately endowed, it is a private corporation. Founded and supported by the state or a municipal subdivision thereof, it is a public corporation. See 15 Am J2d Colleges § 3.

educational institution. An institution for the teaching and improvement of its students or pupils; a school, seminary, college, or university. Anno: 95 ALR 63. An institution giving a course of instruction for the cultivation of the mind, the inculcation of a clearer sense of moral and spiritual values, or the obtaining of a better physical development. German Gymnastic Asso. v Louisville, 117 Ky 958, 80 SW 201. Art galleries, museums, public libraries, even labor union buildings have at times been held to be educational institutions. 51 Am J1st Tax § 620.

See general educational institution.

educational purpose. Broadly, the establishment and maintenance of any kind of educational institution, but sometimes acquiring a more restricted meaning from the context in which it appears. In the ordinary and commonly accepted sense, the term does not include a general hospital which has, as an incident to its main purpose and usefulness an educational feature. Cedars of Lebanon Hospital v Los Angeles County, 35 Cal 2d 729, 221 P2d 31, 15 ALR2d 1045. While a public library is in one sense an educational agency, it is not an educational purpose within the meaning of a constitutional provision that no sum shall be raised by taxation for education other than in common schools, etc. Ramsey v Shelbyville, 119 Ky 180, 83 SW 116.

See educational institution.

education expense. A deduction in an income tax return where required to retain salary, status or employment.

Edward I. Edward the First, king of England from November 20th, 1272, to July 7th, 1307.

Edward II. Edward the Second, king of England from July 8th, 1307, to January 25th, 1327.

Edward III. Edward the Third, king of England from January 25th, 1327, to June 21st, 1377.

Edward IV. Edward the Fourth, king of England from May 4th, 1461, to April 9th, 1483.

Edward V. Edward the Fifth, king of England from April 9th, 1483, to June 26th, 1483.

Edward VI. Edward the Sixth, king of England from January 28th, 1547, to July 6th, 1553.

Edward VII. Edward the Seventh, king of England from January 22nd, 1901, to May 7th, 1910.

Edward VIII. Edward the Eighth, king of England from Jan. 20, 1936, to Dec. 11 of the same year, when he abdicated, giving up the throne, as he said, because, as king, he could not marry "the woman I love," the divorced Mrs. Wallis Warfield of Baltimore, Maryland, better known in the press of the United States as Mrs. Simpson.

[391]

Edward the Confessor. King of England from 1043 to 1066. He was so called because of his reputation for piety.

eé. To be.

e. e. An abbreviation of the words "errors excepted," frequently used in accounts.

See e. and o.e.

eeg. Abbreviation for electroencephalogram.

effect. Verb: To accomplish. Noun: An impression. A belonging, especially one of a personal nature.

See effects; in effect.

effecting a loan. Arrangement of terms and completion of a loan of money; to be distinguished from the renewal of a loan. State v Love, 170 Miss 666, 150 So 196, 90 ALR 506.

effective. In force; in effect.

effective absence. The absence of an officer upon an occasion which demands the immediate exercise of his powers. State v Lahiff, 146 Wis 490, 131 NW 824; Anno: 98 ALR 1149.

effective blockade. A blockade so effective as to make it dangerous in fact for vessels to attempt to enter the blockaded port; the question of effectiveness is not controlled by the number of the blockading force. One modern cruiser may suffice. 56 Am J1st War § 173.

effective date. The date when a code of laws, a constitution, or single statute or constitutional amendment becomes binding as law. Anno: 132 ALR 1060.

A bill introduced in the legislature is ordinarily regarded as becoming a law upon its enactment, but the time as of which its provisions become operative may be earlier by application of a legal fiction, or later by the application of an express statutory or constitutional provision. 56 Am J1st Stat § 502.

effective height. The height of a mill dam at which, the dam, being in good condition, will flow land, unaffected by changes in seasons or occasional leakage. Carr v Piscataquis Woolen Co. 110 Me 184, 85 A 497.

effective money. Coin.

effective possession. Otherwise known as virtual possession, being an actual occupancy of part of a tract under color of title, sufficient where continued for the statutory period to support a claim of title to the whole tract as acquired by adverse possession. Sometimes called "constructive possession," but to be distinguished from the conventional constructive possession which follows the title where the owner of the title is not in actual possession and there is no adverse possession. Wheeler v Clark, 114 Tenn 117.

effects. One's belongings, especially things of a personal nature. Personal property. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1344.

In the context of a statute such as one defining the offense of false pretenses, the term may include real as well as personal property. State v Newell, 1 Mo 248. As the word appears in a treaty respecting inheritance rights of aliens, the term may be sufficiently broad, in the light of the context, to include real estate. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 33. Construed in the light of the entire context of a testamentary gift, the term may include both real and personal property. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1346.

See goods and effects.

Effectus punitur licet non sequatur effectus. The act may be punished that the consequence may not follow.

Effectus sequitur causam. The effect follows the cause.

effets. (French.) Effects.

The word "effets" when used in a will, has the same meaning as the English word "effects," and this depends largely upon the context. In some cases the word has been properly held to cover the whole personal estate of the testator. In other cases it has been limited by the accompanying words. Ennis v Smith (US) 14 How 400, 421, 14 L Ed 472, 482.

efficient. Producing outward effects; of a nature to produce a result; active; causative; acting or able to act with due effect; adequate in performance; bringing to bear the requisite knowledge, skill, and industry; capable; competent. Thayer v Denver & R. G. R. Co. 25 NM 559, 185 P 542.

efficient cause. The primary responsible cause of a legal liability, even though, being first of a chain of events leading to the infliction of injury, it is most remote in point of time of any event preceding the injury and connected therewith. Stacy v Williams, 253 Ky 353, 60 SW2d 697. The proximate cause. 38 Am J1st Negl § 50. The cause that necessarily sets the other causes in operation; the act or omission which directly brings about the happening complained of, and in the absence of which the happening complained of would not have occurred. White v Ellison Realty Corp. 5 NJ 228, 74 A2d 401, 19 ALR2d 264.

efficient intervening cause. A cause intervening the negligence of the defendant and the occurrence of injury to the plaintiff, without which the injury would not have occurred. 38 Am J1st Negl § 68. A new and independent force, which breaks the causal connection between the original wrong and the injury, and itself becomes the direct and immediate—that is, the proximate-cause of an injury. Pullman's Palace Car Co. v Laack, 143 Ill 242, 32 NE 285; Ney v Yellow Cab Co. 2 Ill 2d 74, 117 NE2d 74, 51 ALR2d 624; Hall v Coble Dairies, 234 NC 206, 67 SE2d 63, 29 ALR2d 682.

effigy. A stuffed figure made to represent some person. A form of libel where exposing the subject to ridicule. 33 Am J1st L & S § 55.

efflux. A flowing.

efflux of time. The lapse of time.

efforce. To force; to effect an entry by force.

efforcialiter. Forcibly.

effraction. A breaking effected by force.

effractor. A housebreaker; a burglar.

effractores. Plural of effractor.

effranchise. Same as enfranchise.

effray. Same as affray.

effusio sanguinis. The shedding of blood; bloodshed.

e. g. An abbreviation of "exempli gratia," meaning for or by way of example.

egalitarian. A person who advocates equality of political and social rights between all men.

equality. Equality.

[392]

ejecter. To eject.

eglise. Same as eglise.

egidos. Same as exidos.

eglise. A church.

ego. The self. Colloquial term for conceit. (Latin.) The pronoun I.
See alter ego.

ego, talis. I, such a one.

egrediens et exeuns. Going forth and issuing.

egreditur personam. It issues out of his person; that is, he is the author of it. Scott v Shepherd, 2 William Blackstone (Eng) 892.

egress. A means of exit.

egressus. See ingressus et egressus.

eia. An island.

Eighteenth Amendment. The Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, since repealed by the Twenty-First Amendment, established national prohibition of the traffic in intoxicating liquors.

eight-hour law. A term of dual meaning. A statute which restricts absolutely the length of a day's labor to eight hours; a statute which provides that eight hours shall be a lawful day's work. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 780. The federal statute fixing an eight hour day for the purposes of compensation of railroad employees, with certain exceptions. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 799.

eighty per cent credit. A credit provided against federal estate tax for estate, inheritance, or succession taxes paid a state. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 426.

eigne. The eldest.

eignesse. The share of the eldest son. Same as esnecy.

Ei incumbit probatio qui dicit, non qui negat. The burden of proof is upon him who alleges, not upon him who denies. Patterson v Gaines (US) 6 How 550, 596, 12 L Ed 553, 572.

Ei incumbit probatio, qui dicit, non qui negat; cum per rerum naturam factum, negantis probatio nulla sit. The proof is incumbent upon him who asserts, not on him who denies; since in the nature of things there can be no proof of a negative. See 3 Bl Comm 366.

eik. An addition.

ei legitur in haec verba. See et ei legitur in haec verba.

einecia. Same as einetia. einetia. The share of the eldest son. Same as esnecy.

Ei nihil turpe, cui nihil satis. Nothing is base to a person to whom nothing is sufficient.

eins ceo que. Inasmuch as.

eirant. Errant; wandering.

eire. Same as eyre.

Eire. The Republic of Ireland.

Eisdem modis dissolvitur obligatio quae nascitur ex contractu, vel quasi, quibus contrahitur. An obligation which arises in contract or quasi contract is dissolved in the same manner in which it is contracted.

eisna. The eldest.

eisnetia. The share of the eldest son. Same as einetia.

either. Preferably, one or the other of two. Permissibly, one or another of several. Never, one of many. Messer v Jones, 88 Me 349, 356.

either extremity. Any one of the four extremities of the body, that is, of the hands and feet. Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen & Engineers v Aday, 97 Ark 425, 134 SW 928.

either or survivor. A term used in leasing a safe deposit box; a joint tenancy with right of survivorship is not necessarily created by the use of such term. 10 Am J2d Banks § 474.

eject. To turn out; to expel.

ejecta. Refuse matter; offal.

ejection. Compelling a person to leave a place, whether by force administered to his person or by order or command to leave, as where the conductor of a passenger train explicitly orders a passenger to leave the train. 14 Am J2d Car § 1092. An ouster or turning out of a person in possession of land. See 3 Bl Comm 198.

ejection and intrusion. An action to recover real property and also for damages sustained, by a plaintiff who was forcibly dispossessed.

ejectione custodiae. See de ejectione custodiae.

ejectione firmæ. A writ or action of trespass in ejectment which lay when lands or tenements had been let for a term of years, and afterwards the lessor, reversioner, remainderman, or a stranger, ejected or ousted the lessee of his term. See 3 Bl Comm 199.

ejectment. An action which is purely possessory; a form of action in which the right of possession to corporeal hereditaments may be tried and possession obtained. Kingsnorth v Baker, 213 Mich 294, 182 NW 108. At common law a purely possessory action; even as modified by statute, and though based upon title, it is essentially of that nature. 25 Am J2d Eject § 1.

See equitable ejectment; writ of ejectment.

ejector. The person or thing by which a person or thing is ejected.

See casual ejector.

ejectum. Wreckage which has been cast upon the shore by the sea.

ejercitoria. (Spanish.) An action against the owner of a ship for an indebtedness incurred by the master of the ship.

ejettement. Same as ejectment.

ejettement de garde. Ejectment of ward.

ejidos. (Spanish.) Commons. Lands used in common by the inhabitants of a place for pasture, wood, threshing-ground, etc.; particular names are assigned to each, according to its particular use. Hart v Burnett, 15 Cal 530, 554.

[393]

ejurare. To abjure; to renounce by oath; to resign.

ejusdem generis. Of the same kind or class. The rule of construction that where general words are used in a contract after specific terms, they are to be confined to things of the same kind or class as the things previously specified. 17 Am J2d Contr § 270. The principle applicable in the construction of wills that where certain things are enumerated and a more general description is coupled with the enumeration, the general expressions are understood to cover only things of alike kind with those enumerated. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1130. The rule of statutory construction that where general words follow a designation of particular subjects or classes or persons, the meaning of the general words will ordinarily be presumed to be restricted by the particular designation, and to include only things or persons of the same kind, class or nature as those specifically enumerated, unless there is a clear manifestation of a contrary purpose. 50 Am J1st Stat § 249.

The rules as stated above are not to be applied by rote against the obvious intent of the contracting parties, the testator, or, in the case of a statute, the legislature. If upon consideration of the whole subject matter of the contract or the law upon the subject in the case of a statute and the purposes sought to be effected, it is apparent that the intention was that the general words should go beyond the class specifically designated, the rule does not apply. Moreover, if the particular words exhaust the class, then the general words must have a meaning beyond the class, or be discarded altogether. Kansas City Southern Railway Co. v Wallace, 38 Okla 233, 132 P 908.

ejusdem negotii. Of the same transaction.

Ejus est interpretari cujus est condere. It is for him who writes or composes anything to give it interpretation.

Ejus est nolle, qui potest velle. He who can consent can refuse.

Ejus est non nolle qui potest velle. He who can consent should not be noncommittal.

Ejus est periculum cujus est dominium aut commodum. He should have the hazard who has the ownership or profit of a thing.

Ejus nulla culpa est cui parere necesse sit. No blame attaches to a person who is compelled to obey.

ekg. Abbreviation for electrocardiogram.

elaborare. To acquire by labor or effort.

elapse. To pass or slip by; to expire as a period of time; to intervene points of time. Logsdon v Logsdon, 109 Ill App 194.

elder brethren. A name which is applied to the masters of Trinity House, an official board having charge of English buoys and lighthouses.

eldest. Oldest; firstborn.

elect. Verb: To make a choice. To select a person for office by a majority or a plurality of votes. State ex rel. Cook v Doss, 102 W Va 162, 134 SE 749. Noun: A person elected to public office but awaiting inauguration or installation.

See appoint; election.

Electa una via, non datur recursus ad alteram. Having chosen one course, he is not allowed to have recourse to another.

elected. Chosen. In the most ordinary significance, chosen by vote, usually by popular vote, but applicable also to a choice by a restricted vote. Clarke v Irwin, 5 Nev 111, 121.

elected domicil. The domicil of a party or parties to a contract as fixed by the contract for the purposes of the contract. Woodworth v Bank of America (NY) 19 Johns 391.

Electio est creditoris. The creditor has his election.

Electio est debitoris. The debtor has his election.

Electio est intima (interna), libera, et spontanea separatio unius rei ab alia, sine compulsione, consistens in animo et voluntate. Election is the internal, free, and spontaneous separation of one thing from another, without compulsion, and consists of intention and will.

election. In the most common usage, the expression of a choice by the voters of a body politic, or the means by which a choice is made by the electors. State ex rel. La Follette v Kohler, 200 Wis 518, 228 NW 895, 69 ALR 348. Precisely, a choosing or selection, by those having a right to participate, of persons to fill public offices or of public measures which shall be adopted or rejected. 25 Am J2d Elect § 1. The choosing of a public officer by an organized body, such as the legislature of a state. Speed & Worthington v Crawford, 60 Ky (3 Met) 207, 211. The designation of corporate directors by the vote of the stockholders and the designation of corporate officers by the vote of the directors. 19 Am J2d Corp §§ 1081, 1082. In an abstract sense, a choice between two or more substantive rights, either one or any one of which may be asserted at the will of the person making the choice, which are so inconsistent that a choice once made is binding upon beyond recall. Wilhorn Builders v Cortaro Management Co. 81 Ariz 381, 307 P2d 94, supp op 82 Ariz 48, 308 P2d 251. The choice which a person must make between the acceptance of a benefit under an instrument, and the retention of some property already his own, which the same instrument purports to dispose of to another. McDermid v Bourhill 101 Or 305, 199 P 610, 22 ALR 428, 433. The right or privilege, accorded by statute in some states to the eldest heir, if of age, of taking the whole estate of the deceased ancestor, upon paying to the others their just proportions of the value in money.

If the eldest refuse, the next eldest succeeds to the right of election until all the adults have enjoyed the opportunity of election. If all refuse, the property is sold and the proceeds divided. Catlin v Catlin, 60 Md 573, 575.

The doctrine of election is applicable to a taxpayer having a choice of two legal methods of computing his tax and having chosen one he is not permitted to change his mind to the detriment of the revenue. Ross v Commissioner (CA 1) 169 F2d 483, 7 ALR2d 719.

[394]

See corrupt practices acts; cumulative voting; general election; primary election; referendum; registration; special election; suffrage.

election auditor. An officer who audits and publishes an account of election expenses.

election bet. The subject of a criminal offense as prescribed by statute in most jurisdictions. A transaction, whatever the name given it, the real effect of which, as intended, is that one party may lose, and the other may gain, money or property, or the representative of either may so gain or lose, according to whether the election terminates for or against a particular person, or may result in one way or another. 26 Am J2d Elect § 378. To bet that one of the candidates will or will not obtain a stated number of votes is an election bet. Commonwealth v Brandon, 43 Ky (4 B Mon) 1, 2.

election between causes of action. See election of counts.

election between defenses. See election of defenses.

election between dower and will. The doctrine that puts the surviving spouse to an election between her right to dower and the benefits provided for her by the will. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1560.

election between offenses. See election of counts.

election by ballot. Nothing less than an election by secret ballot. Ex parte Arnold, 128 Mo 256, 30 SW 768.

See Australian Ballot System; ballot; distinguishing mark; marked ballot.

election contest. See contest of election.

election district. A territorial unit of a state or of a county or municipality established with reference to various offices to be filled by election, such as legislative, congressional, or councilmanic districts, and often with reference to apportionment according to population. 25 Am J2d Elect §§ 12 et seq. A small territorial unit, otherwise known as an election precinct, established for administrative purposes and laid out with the view of accommodating the voters of the district at a single voting place. Kerlin v Devils Lake, 25 ND 207, 141 NW 756.

election dower. The estate which a widow may elect to take in lieu of dower. Chrisman v Linderman, 202 Mo 605, 100 SW 1090.

See election between dower and will.

electioneering. The solicitation of votes. A criminal offense where conducted at certain times and places on election day. 26 Am J2d Elect § 374.

Electiones fiant rite et libere sine interruptione aliqua. Elections should be made regularly and freely and without any interruption.

election of counts. The doctrine under which the prosecution may be required to elect on which charge it will proceed to the trial under an indictment which is in two or more counts for separate and distinct offenses. 27 Am J1st Indict § 133. The doctrine that a plaintiff, who has misjoined causes of action in his declaration, complaint, or petition will be required upon motion of the adverse party to elect upon which cause of action or count he will proceed in the action. 41 Am J1st Pl § 357.

election of defenses. The doctrine that a defendant who has joined defenses improperly may be required to elect upon which defense he shall rely. 41 Am J1st Pl § 358.

election officers. Wardens, clerks, tellers, inspectors, etc. and sometimes town or township officers, such as selectmen, trustees, and town clerks, whose official duties include taking part in the conduct of a general or special election. 25 Am J2d Elect § 39.

election of place of payment. The right of the holder of a note, payable, by its terms, at any one of several places, to choose the particular place at which payment shall be made. Also, the right of the maker of such note to choose the place of payment, once he has called upon the holder to elect and the holder has failed to elect. 11 Am J2d B & N § 972.

election of remedies. The choosing between two or more different and co-existing modes of procedure and relief allowed by law on the same state of facts. Mansfield v Pickwick Stages, 191 Cal 129, 215 P 389. The doctrine, not a rule of substantive law but a technical rule of procedure, that the adoption, by an unequivocal act, of one of two or more inconsistent remedial rights has the effect of precluding a resort to the others. Arzuaga v Gonzalez (CA1 Puerto Rico) 239 F 60.

election precinct. See election district.

election returns. The report made by the polling officials to the higher authority as to the number of votes cast for each candidate, or the number of votes cast for or against the propositions or questions submitted to the voters at the election. Bond v Rogers, 219 Ark 319, 241 SW2d 371. An official statement of the votes cast at an election, transmitted to some authorized custodian, for the purpose of being canvassed by some proper authority. State v Common Council of St. Paul, 25 Minn 106, 108.

See canvass.

elections. See election.

election to fill vacancy in office. The next election at which a successor to the incumbent of the office would have been elected if there had been no vacancy, or the election next in point of time after the vacancy occurs, the divergence of view arising in the construction of statutes containing such varied phrases as "first annual election," "next election," "regular election," and "proper election." Anno: 132 ALR 574.

election to hold agent. The doctrine applicable in a case of undisclosed principal that since the liability of an undisclosed principal and his agent is an alternative liability, rather than a joint liability or a joint and several liability, the third party, after he becomes aware of the agency and the identity of the principal, is put to an election to hold either the agent or the principal; he cannot hold both. 3 Am J2d Agency § 308.

election under will. The doctrine that one who is given a benefit under a will must choose between such benefit and an estate or interest in the testator's property which he claims but which is taken from him by the terms of the will. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1526. The making of an election to take under or against a will. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1534.

Electio semel facta, et placitum testatum, non patitur regressum. An election once made, and the plea witnessed, is not permitted to be revoked.

Electio semel facta non patitur regressum. An election which has once been made is not permitted to be revoked.

[395]

elective. Contingent upon a selection or choice; subject to choice; dependent upon the votes to be cast at an election by voters.

elective franchise. The right, rather the privilege, of voting at an election; not a natural right or a civil right, but a political right or privilege conferred and existing only by law, that is, by constitution or statute. Chamberlin v Wood, 15 SD 216, 88 NW 109.

See suffrage.

elector. A person having constitutional and statutory qualifications which entitle him to vote, including not only one who votes, but one who is qualified, yet fails to exercise the right of suffrage. 25 Am J2d Elect § 52.

See elective franchise; presidential electors; suffrage.

electoral college. The presidential electors considered as a body.

See presidential electors.

electors of president. See presidential electors.

electric company. A public utility engaged in the production, transmission, or furnishing of electricity to customers for heating, lighting, or other domestic, mechanical or scientific purposes.

electric eye. A device whereby a ray is controlled to open a door, turn on a lamp, etc.; a game played on a machine called the "electric eye," whereby a ray or beam of light is shot at a target. Anno: 135 ALR 158.

electricity. A subtle agency that pervades all space and evades successful definition. A dangerous, invisible, subtle, silent, deadly, and instantaneous force. Austin v Public Service Co. 299 Ill 112, 132 NE 458, 17 ALR 795.

electric line. A line of insulated wire for conducting electricity.

See power line.

electric meter. See meter.

electric plant. See plant; public utility.

electric power line. See power line.

Electric Safety Code. A code of regulations with respect to the installation and maintenance of electrical equipment and wires, issued by the Bureau of Standards of the United States Department of Commerce. 26 Am J2d Electr § 44.

electric telegraph. An apparatus or instrument used to transmit intelligence to a distant point with the aid of electricity. Western Union Tel Co. v Hill, 163 Ala 18, 50 So 248. electric wire. See electric line.

electric work. Construction, installation, operation, alteration, removal or repair of electrical apparatus. Hollingsworth v Berry, 107 Kan 544, 192 P 763, 11 ALR 151.

electrocardiogram. The record of the test made of a heart by an electrocardiograph.

electrocardiograph. An instrument by which the contractions of the heart are measured.

electrocution. Death caused by electricity. A method of executing the death penalty; passing through the body of the convict a current of electricity of sufficient intensity to cause his death. People ex rel. Kemmler v Durston, 119 NY 569, 579.

electrodes. The poles or terminals of an electric circuit or source, such as a battery. California Electrical Works v Henzel (CC Cal) 48 F 375, 378.

electroencephalogram. A record of a medical study of the brain with the aid of apparatus whereby waves of the brain are recorded.

electrolysis. The action of an electric current passing through a chemical compound in a fluid condition or solution; a source of destruction of water mains and steel reinforcements in buildings where a current escapes from a wire to the ground. Lowrey v Cowles Electric Smelting & Aluminum Co. (CC Ohio) 68 F 354, 366.

electrolyte. A chemical substance which, when dissolved in a liquid, will be dissociated and render the liquid conductive of an electric current. Ruben v Ariston Laboratories (DC Ill) 40 F Supp 551.

See electrolysis.

electronic eavesdropping. A recording of speech or conversation by an electronic apparatus operating without the knowledge of the speaker. Anno: 97 ALR2d 1288.

electrotherapy. The use of different forms of electric machines for therapeutic purposes. Joyner v State, 181 Miss 245, 179 So 573, 115 ALR 954.

eleemosyna. Alms.

eleemosynarius. A person who dispenses or bestows alms.

eleemosynary. Charitable. People ex rel. Ellen v Cogswell, 113 Cal 129, 45 P 270.

eleemosynary corporation. A corporation created for or devoted to charitable purposes or one supported by charity. 15 Am J2d Char § 145. A corporation created, not for private gain or profit, but for the administration of a charitable trust or for a charitable purpose, such as the maintenance of a hospital. Gilbert v McLeod Infirmary, 219 SC 174, 64 SE2d 524, 24 ALR2d 60.

eleemosynary purpose. A charitable purpose. A "charitable purpose" as such term is used and understood in treatises and decisions upon the subject of trusts. Estate of Wirt (Cal App) 263 P 271, 272.

elegant. Accurately; with due regard to form.

elegit. A writ, provided by the Statute of Westminster 2, ch. 18, Edw. 1, for the enforcement of a judgment, by virtue of which the sheriff seized and delivered a moiety of the defendant's lands until the debt was levied out of the rents and profits. 30 Am J2d Exec § 29.

See estate by elegit; tenant by elegit.

element. Any one of the four substances or elements, earth, air, fire, and water. A component or essential part, such as proximate cause in liability for negligence.

elementary. Pertinent to the elements, rudiments, or first principles of anything; initial; rudimental. Livingston v Davis, 243 Iowa 21, 50 NW2d 592, 27 ALR2d 1237.

elementary school. A school for the elementary education of children. Livingston v Davis, 243 Iowa 21, 50 NW2d 592, 27 ALR2d 1237.

elements. The four substances believed by former generations to constitute all matter of a physical nature: earth, air, fire and water. Sudden, unusual or unexpected manifestations of the forces of nature, such as floods, tornadoes, etc. 32 Am J1st L & T § 505. Sometimes considered the equivalent of act of God. 32 Am J1st L & T § 811.

[396]

See damage by the elements.

elevated railway. A railway elevated above the streets upon an overhead roadbed. 55 Am J1st Urb Trans § 12.

elevator. A car, platform, or cage, known in England as a "lift," used for the vertical conveyance of persons or property between the floors of a building. More broadly defined as the car, platform, or cage and the power machinery propelling such device, the cables or connections by means of which the power is supplied, and the shaft in which the carriage moves. 26 Am J2d Elev § 1. Cases construing the term as it appears in the double indemnity clause of an accident insurance policy are divided in opinion, some holding that the term is confined to the car, platform, or cage, while others hold that it includes, not only the car, platform, or cage, but the shaft as well. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1235.

A lifter or conveyer, in the form of an endless belt or chain bearing cups or scoops for picking up threshed grain, or other material which handles easily, and carrying it above to another floor or a higher point for processing, is called an "elevator." Also called an "elevator" is a structure used for the storage of grain, usually referred to as a "grain elevator."

See escalator; freight elevator; grain elevator; passenger elevator.

elevator attendant. The person or individual who is engaged in the actual operating, running, or handling of the elevator car, platform, or cage. 26 Am J2d Elev § 1.

elevator operator. An elevator attendant. A person other than the owner of the building who may nevertheless be under duties with regard to an elevator, such as a managing agent in control, or any other person who has general charge of the elevator. 26 Am J2d Elev § 1.

elevator insurance. Insurance against liability arising from the death of or injury to a person or persons caused by the operation of an elevator.

eligibility. Fitness for selection. Fitness for election or appointment to a public office. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 37.

See eligible to an office; qualification.

eligible alien. An alien who may become a citizen of the United States, having the qualifications and meeting the requirements imposed by Congress in granting the privilege of naturalization. Terrace v Thompson, 263 US 197, 68 L Ed 255, 44 S Ct 15.

eligible list. A list of applicants for a Civil Service position found upon a test to possess the qualifications requisite for the position. State v Frear, 146 Wis 302, 131 NW 834.

eligible to an office. A person legally qualified and capable of holding the office at the commencement of the term for which he may be elected or appointed. Demaree v Scates, 50 Kan 275, 32 P 1123.

elimination. The act of removing, getting rid of, or leaving out of consideration.

elinguation. An ancient punishment for crime by cutting out the tongue of the offender.

elisor. A person appointed to perform certain duties pertaining to certain officers, when the latter are disqualified. More specifically, a person who is appointed to perform functions of a sheriff or coroner in cases where they are disqualified or unable to act. Bruner v Superior Court, 92 Cal 239, 245, 28 P 341.

Elizabeth I. Queen of England from November 17th, 1558, to March 24th, 1603.

Elizabeth II. The present Queen of the United Kingdom and Northern Ireland, and Head of the Commonwealth, having reigned since Feb. 6, 1952, and having been crowned on June 2, 1953.

Elkins Act. A federal statute making it a criminal offense for one knowingly to accept a rebate from a railroad common carrier subject to the provisions of the Interstate Commerce Act. Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co. v United States, 250 US 556, 63 L Ed 1138, 40 S Ct 24.

ell. A lineal cloth measure equal to about one yard.

elogium. A will, a testament.

eloign. To take beyond the jurisdiction of the court, particularly to avoid seizure. To take personal property subject to a lien out of the county. Garneau v Port Blakeley Mill Co. 8 Wash 467, 36 P 463. A return to a writ of replevin where the property has been put out of reach.

eloigner. One who eloigns.

See eloign.

eloignment. See eloign.

eloin. Same as eloign.

eloinate. To eloign.

See eloign.

eloinment. Same as eloignment.

elongare. To eloin.

elongata. Eloigned,—a sheriff's return on a writ of replevin if the goods are carried out of the county, or concealed; that is, eloigned. See 3 Bl Comm 148.

elongatus. Eloigned.
See eloin.

elongavit. He has eloigned.

elope. To engage in an elopement.
See elopement.

elopement. The abandonment of a husband by a wife who leaves his home and goes to live with an adulterer. Cogswell v Tibbets, 3 NH 41, 42. The innocent act of lovers, both unwed, in going away secretly to be married.

elsewhere. In any other place. In another place suggested by the context. Commonwealth v Bowser, 61 Pa Super 107.

eluviones. Spring tides.

emanare. To spring from; to issue.

emanavit. It issued.

emancipate. To release; to set free, as to release a minor from parental control.
See emancipation; emancipation of minor.

emancipation. Liberation from slavery or bondage; release of a minor from parental control.
See emancipation of minor.

emancipation by marriage. That emancipation from a parent's control of the time and earnings of his minor child, which necessarily results from the marriage of the child, whether with or without the parent's consent. See 39 Am J1st P & C § 65.

[397]

emancipation of minor. The relinquishment by a parent of control and authority over his minor child, conferring on him the right to his earnings, and terminating the parent's legal duty to support the child. Swenson v Swenson (Mo App) 227 SW2d 103, 20 ALR2d 1409.

See express emancipation; implied emancipation; partial emancipation; statutory emancipation.

emasculate. To castrate; to remove the testicles. To deprive of virility or strength.
See eunuch.

embalmer. A person trained and skilled in the process of treating and preserving a dead body against decay. State ex rel. Kempinger v White, 177 Wis 541, 188 NW 607, 23 ALR 67, 70.
See undertaker.

embalmer's license. A license required of an embalmer by the state under its police power. 54 Am J1st Und & E § 5.

embankment. A bank of earth, usually produced artificially for flood control.

See dike; levee.

embargo. The exclusion of an article from interstate or foreign commerce. 15 Am J2d Corn §§ 73-75. An edict or order of a government forbidding the entry or departure of ships at ports within the dominions of the government, sometimes imposed in carrying on war, at other times imposed merely in the control of trade and the advancement of commerce, in which case it may be total or partial, as when imposed on domestic ships to prevent trade with a particular country. Gibbons v Ogden (US) 9 Wheat 1, 6 L Ed 23. The refusal of a common carrier to accept certain kinds of freight on its line, or freight to be carried between certain points, for a limited or indefinite period of time. Froehling Supply Co. v United States (CA7 Ill) 194 F2d 637.

See disembargo; hostile embargo.

embarrassed. Ill at ease. Impeded.

See financially embarrassed.

embassy. The trust, charge, or mission of the ambassador of a foreign nation; the residence of the ambassador of a foreign nation.

See diplomatic officers; legation.

embedded property. See imbedded property.

embezzlement. A statutory offense, not a common law crime; the fraudulent appropriation or conversion by an agent, an employee, a corporate officer, a trustee, a public officer, or other person acting in a fiduciary capacity or character, of money or property, the possession of which has been entrusted to him by another. 18 Am J1st Embez § 2. The word includes misappropriation of trifling sums, made with intent to restore in due time, and with ample present and prospective ability to restore. United States v Summers (DC Va) 19 F 627. In statutes imposing a double liability in damages for the "embezzlement" of property of a decedent prior to the granting of letters testamentary or letters of administration, the term means the fraudulent appropriation or concealment to one's own use of estate property in one's possession. Anno: 29 ALR2d 256.

embezzlement by agent. The crime of embezzlement committed by one in possession of the converted or misappropriated property by virtue of his employment by a principal and the delegation of authority to do something in the name and stead of such principal. 26 Am J2d Embez § 26.

embezzlement by bailee. The offense of embezzlement committed by one in possession of the converted or misappropriated property as bailee. Although the hirer of property has been held not to be within a statute of embezzlement which includes "any bailee or other agent," it has also been held that a statute making it a crime for any carrier, bailee, or other person to embezzle or convert to his own use property delivered to him, is not confined to bailments for the sole benefit of the bailor, but extends to the bailee of an automobile under a hiring agreement, who fails to return the automobile. 26 Am J2d Embez § 24.

embezzlement by employee. The criminal offense of embezzlement committed by a person who is in the employ of another and who, in the discharge of his duties, is subject to the immediate control and direction of his employer. 26 Am J2d Embez § 25.

embezzlement by fiduciary. The crime of embezzlement committed by an executor, administrator, guardian, or broker. 26 Am J2d Embez § 31. A statute defining embezzlement by a "trustee or factor, carrier or bailee," applies to trustees, factors, carriers, or bailees for artificial persons as well as private persons. Anno: 41 ALR 474.

emblavence de bled. Profits of the crop, that is, emblements.

emblems. Corn, wheat, rye, potatoes, garden vegetables, and other crops, which are produced annually, not spontaneously, but by labor and industry; a classification which is important in reference to the doctrine of a tenant's rights in crops after the termination of the tenancy, which has come to be known as the doctrine of emblems. 21 Am J2d Crops § 2.

emblem. To sow; to steal.

embody. To include or incorporate as a part of something; to include in a written instrument or statute.

embolism. The plugging of a blood vessel by a blood clot. Anno: 20 ALR 81.

See cerebral embolism; pulmonary embolism.

embowel. A rare, if not obsolete, word meaning disembowel.

embrace. To hug a person in demonstrating or expressing affection; to encircle; to encompass, to surround or inclose; to include as parts of a whole, or as subordinate divisions of a part; to accept; to use to advantage.

embraceor. Same as embracer.

embracer. A person who has committed the crime of embracery.

See embracery.

embracery. The criminal offense of attempting to corrupt, influence, instruct, or induce a jury in any way, except by the strength of evidence and the arguments of counsel in open court, to be more favorable to one side of the case than the other. 26 Am J2d Embr § 1.

embrothel. To place or harbor a person in a brothel.

See brothel.

emenda. Amends; that which is given to mend or satisfy an injured party.

emendare. To make amends; to compensate for an injury.

emendatio. An amendment; a rectification; a correction; amends; compensation for injury.

[398]

e mera gratia. Of mere grace, favor, or indulgence.

emergency. Confrontation by sudden peril. 38 Am J1st Negl § 41. A pressing necessity; an exigency; an event or occasional combination of circumstances calling for immediate action or remedy. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp § 450. An unforeseen occurrence or condition calling for immediate action to avert imminent danger to life, health, or property. 43 Am J1st Pub Wks § 136.

The term in the Hours of Service Act is used in its ordinary or popular sense, not synonymous with accident, casualty, or act of God. While unexpected sickness of an employee or the delay of a train caused by a wreck is an emergency, such is not true of an ordinary accident incidental to the operation of a railroad. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 803.

See financial emergency; sudden emergency.

emergency appointment. A temporary or provisional appointment to a civil service position. 15 Am J2d Civ S § 25.

emergency brakes. Hand brakes on a motor vehicle, required and regulated by statute in many jurisdictions. 7 Am J2d Auto § 151.

emergency call. A call by telephone for a physician, police, firemen, ambulance, etc. A call of nature requiring immediate attention.

emergency employment doctrine. The rule that an employee under regular employment possesses implied authority to employ an assistant to aid him in performing a task or tasks within the scope of his employment in case of emergency which renders the engaging of such assistance absolutely necessary, it being impossible for the employee working by himself or with the aid of other employees in regular service to overcome the emergency conditions. Standard Oil Co. v Adams, 271 Ky 221, 111 SW2d 668.

emergency fund. A fund of an insurance company or mutual benefit society provided for use in the event of the occurrence of losses in excess of common experience.

emergency landing. The landing of an aircraft in a place or at a time not within the flight plan.

emergency measures. Acts performed in an emergency. 38 Am J1st Negl § 41. Legislation enacted in an emergency; laws necessary for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health, or safety. 28 Am J Rev ed Init & R § 10. Statutes which, because of the existence of an emergency as declared in the legislation, do by their terms take effect immediately, or from or after their passage, or from or after their approval by the governor. 50 Am J1st Stat §§ 491-493. A municipal ordinance relating to the preservation of public peace, property, health, safety, or morals, taking effect, according to its terms, immediately upon passage. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 152.

emergency operation. Surgery required immediately. An abortion necessary for saving the life of the woman. State v Unosawa, 48 Wash 2d 616, 296 P2d 315.

emergency ordinance. See emergency measures.

emergency price control. The regulation of prices in an emergency, such as the country being at war, which otherwise might result in the inflation of prices of goods most in demand, especially food and clothing, to the disadvantage, discomfort, and suffering of many people. 56 Am J1st War § 39.

emergency relief. Appropriations for relief of distress after a disaster caused by a tornado, hurricane, flood, earthquake, drought, pestilence, unemployment resulting from a sudden shut-down of industries, etc. 41 Am J1st Poor L § 22.

emergency rent laws. Statutes, the primary purpose of which is to limit rents for a period when an unexpected demand for, or a shortage in, housing inflates rentals to an unrealistic amount.

emergency statutes. See emergency measures.

emergency vehicles. Fire trucks, police cars, ambulances, utility repair cars, etc. 7 Am J2d Auto § 206.

emeritus. Retired from service but retaining the title of office.

e.m.f. Abbreviation of electromotive force.

emigrant. A native or national of a country who is leaving the country to take up permanent residence elsewhere. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 48.

emigrant agent. A person engaged in employing laborers for work outside the state. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 762.

emigration. The act of foreigners in leaving their former country for purposes of permanent residence in another country. The term is the correlative of immigration, denoting their coming into a country. That is, a person is an emigrant as to the country which he leaves, and he is an immigrant as to the country to which he comes. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 48.

eminent domain. The power of the nation or a sovereign state to take, or to authorize the taking of, private property for a public use without the owner's consent, conditioned upon the payment of a just compensation. 26 Am J2d Em D § 1. The theory of such power, otherwise known as compulsory purchase or expropriation, is that all lands are held mediately or immediately from the state, upon the implied condition that the eminent domain, the superior dominion, remains in the state, authorizing it to take the same for public uses, when necessity requires it, by paying therefor an equivalent in money. It resembles the ancient prerogative of purveyance whereby the crown enjoyed the right of buying up provisions and other necessaries for the use of the royal household at an appraised valuation, and in preference to all others, even without the consent of the owner. Re Barre Water Co. 62 Vt 27, 30 A 109.

See condemnation; just compensation; public use.

emisset. He bought.

emission. The act of sending forth or issuing, such as issuing bills of credit to circulate as currency. 36 Am J1st Money § 17. The discharge of seminal fluid from the male organ. 2 Am J2d Adult § 1; 44 Am J1st Rape § 4.

emit. To send forth; to issue.

See emission.

emmenagogue. Medicine or drugs administered to a woman to produce menstruation, or to cause an abortion.

emoluments. The profit arising from office or employment; that which is received as compensation for services, or which is annexed to the possession of office as salary, fees, and perquisites; advantage; gain, public or private. State ex rel. Todd v Reeves, 196 Wash 145, 82 P2d 173, 118 ALR 177. Indirect or contingent remunerations which may or may not be earned; remunerations in the nature of compensation or in the nature of reimbursement. Waller v United States, 86 App DC 93, 180 F2d 194, 16 ALR2d 1328.

[399]

emotional insanity. Passion or frenzy produced by anger, jealousy, or other emotion, sometimes of overwhelming force. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 37. The state of mind of one who, while in possession of his ordinary faculties and unaffected by any mental disease, gives way to his passions to such an extent as to become a temporary maniac. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 3.

empalement. Same as impalement. empannel. Same as impanel. emparlance. Same as imparlance. emparler. Same as imparl.

emphyteusis. (Roman law.) A kind of lease of real property, the term of which was usually forever or for a very long period, and which provided for the improvement of the property, reserving an annual rent.

emphyteuta. (Roman law.) A tenant who held land by emphyteusis.

empire. See American Empire.

empiricism. Searching for knowledge by experiment. A practice of medicine founded on mere experience without the aid of science or the knowledge of scientific principles. Nelson v State Board of Health, 22 Ky LR 438, 57 SW 501.

emplazamiento. (Spanish.) A summons or citation to appear before a court.

emplead. Same as implead.

employ. To engage the services of another, usually by contract or agreement for the performance of the services and the payment of a compensation therefor. Pinkerton Nat. Detective Agency v Walker, 157 Ga 548, 122 SE 202, 35 ALR 557, 560. One may employ a person without paying him compensation, for example, making use of a minor in a place of entertainment (31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 768) or in a place where intoxicating liquors are dispensed. Lutkevicz v Brennan, 128 Conn 651, 25 A2d 66.

employed. Being engaged in rendering services or being under contract for the rendition of services. United States v Morris (US) 14 Pet 464, 475, 10 L Ed 543, 548. The services may be intellectual or physical. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 783.

employed in agriculture. See farm laborer.

employed in manufacture. Made use of in manufacture. Hamilton Mfg. Co. v Lowell, 274 Mass 477, 175 NE 73, 74 ALR 1213.

employed in trade. Made use of in business or commerce. Working in a commercial enterprise.

employee. An expression more euphonious than "servant" but ordinarily meaning the same. 35 Am J1st M & S § 2. One who is in such a relation to another person that the latter may control the work of the former and direct the manner in which it shall be done. 35 Am J1st M & S § 2.

One is an "employee" for the purposes of Social Security and Unemployment Compensation where in rendering services for another he acts under the control and direction of the latter, not only as to the result to be accomplished, but as to the means and details by which the result is accomplished. United States v Silk, 331 US 704, 91 L Ed 1757, 67 S Ct 1463; Schwing v United States (CA3 Pa) 165 F2d 518, 1 ALR2d 548. Only persons who perform menial services, manual labor, or work which is subordinate in its nature, and immediately subject to the directions and orders of the superior, are within the contemplation of statutes imposing liability upon corporate stockholders for debts of the corporation owing to laborers, servants, "employees", etc. Anno: 104 ALR 765. In other contexts, the term has a broader meaning, for example, in exemption statutes, where, under the rule of liberal construction, persons engaged in positions requiring services far above those of a menial character, such as sales manager, auditor, comptroller, etc., are deemed "employees." 31 Am J2d Exemp § 20. An officer of a corporation may be an "employee" for the purposes of Social Security. 48 Am J1st Soc Sec § 16.

See public employee; servant.

employee of the United States. Broadly, any person in the employ of the government. For the purposes of the Federal Tort Claims Act, one acting under the control of the government, unaffected from the standpoint of control by any intervening sovereignty, independent agency, or independent contractor. Anno: 57 ALR2d 1449-1453.

Employees' Pay Act. A federal statute providing a method for the division of time and computation of pay for services rendered by persons employed by the United States. 5 USC § 84.

employee stock option. A plan whereby a corporation gives to its employees, or employees who qualify under conditions imposed by the plan, an option to purchase stock of the corporation at a certain price, often the market price on a certain day, sometimes somewhat less than the market price on a certain day, to run for a period prescribed by the plan, irrespective of the market price during the period.

employer. One, formerly known as "master," who is in such relation to another person that he may control the work of that other person and direct the manner in which it is to be done. 35 Am J1st M & S § 2. The person by and for whom an independent contractor is engaged. 27 Am J1st Ind Conti § 27.

The concept of the term in labor legislation is broader than the common law or usual statutory concept. Anno: 1 L Ed 2d 2078. As defined by the National Labor Relations Act, an employer includes any person acting as an agent of an employer, directly or indirectly. 29 USC § 152(2). Expressly excluded from the definition of "employer" in the National Labor Relations Act are the United States, any wholly owned government corporation, any federal reserve bank, or any state or political subdivision of a state; national banks are not excluded. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 185.

employers' association. An association of employers, normally of employers engaged in the same industry.

employers' liability acts. Statutes in reference to an employer's liability for negligence resulting in injury to an employee, the most of which abrogate the fellow servant doctrine and limit the defenses of contributory negligence and the doctrine of assumption of risk (35 Am J1st M & S §§ 395 et seq.), including the Federal Employers' Liability Act relative to common carriers by railroad engaged in interstate commerce and their employees. 35 Am J1st M & S §§ 398 et seq.

[400]

See workmen's compensation acts.

employers' liability insurance. Insurance which protects an employer against liability for the death or injury of an employee occurring within the scope of the employment. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1351.

See workmen's compensation insurance.

employing unit. An employer.

For the purpose of determining the right to a reduced compensation contribution rating as a "qualified employer" under the unemployment compensation act, an "employer" and "employing unit" are synonymous, and are not intended to include a part or department of a going business or to embrace a unit which has no legal entity even though isolated from other units owned, managed, and controlled by the employer. Canada Dry Bottling Co. v Board of Review, 118 Utah 619, 223 P2d 586, 22 ALR2d 664.

employment. The act of employing or being employed. The occupation, business, or profession to which one devotes his services, time, and attention, and which he depends upon for livelihood or profit. Lyons-Thomas Hardware Co. v Perry Stove Mfg. Co. 86 Tex 143, 24 SW 16. The scope of an employee's duties and authority. 26 Am J2d Embez § 15. For the purposes of Social Security, any service, of whatever nature, performed within the United States by an employee for the person employing him, irrespective of the citizenship or residence of either. 48 Am J1st Soc Sec § 15. This comprehends, not only work actually done, but the entire employer-employee relationship for which compensation is paid to the employee by the employer. Social Secur. Board v Nierotko, 327 US 359, 90 L Ed 718, 66 S Ct 637, 162 ALR 1445. In some jurisdictions, for the purposes of workmen's compensation statutes, the term "employment" includes only occupations carried on by the employer for pecuniary gain, excluding employment in public or governmental service and service for charitable institutions. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 80.

See casual employment; permanent employment; scope of employment.

employment agency. A business having the purpose of obtaining employment for persons who make application to it for employment, the agency being compensated by the applicants, usually in the form of a percentage of wages or salaries obtained in the employments in which the applicants are placed by the agency. Adams v Tanner, 244 US 590, 61 L Ed 1336, 37 S Ct 662.

employment at will. A hiring for an indefinite period of time. 35 Am J1st M & S § 19.

employment contract. A contract between employer and employee; a collective labor agreement.

See collective labor agreement; contract of hire.

employment security. The protection given by labor laws. Another term for unemployment insurance.

empower. To authorize; to commission; to delegate; to depute.

emprestido. (Spanish.) A loan.

emptio. A buying; a purchase.

emptio bonorum. The purchase of goods.

emptio et venditio. Purchase and sale.

emptionis venditionis contractae argumentum. An earnest or token of a buying and selling contract; an arra. See 2 Bl Comm 447.

empto. See ex empto.

emptor. A buyer; a purchaser.

See bona fidei emptor; caveat emptor.

Emptor emit quam minimo potest, venditor vendit quam maximo potest. The purchaser buys for the least he can, the vendor sells for the most he can. Michoud v Girod (US) 4 How 503, 554, 11 L Ed 1076, 1099.

emptio. Same as emptio.

emptor. Same as emptor.

emtrix. A female purchaser or buyer.

en. In; into; on.

enabling act. An act of emancipation. A statute which removes a disability, for example, the disability of a married woman at common law. 26 Am J1st H & W § 20. A statute which grants new powers or authority to a person or a corporation; the statute 32 Henry VIII, c. 28 (1540) which enabled three classes of persons to make leases which would last for three lives or twenty-one years. See 2 Bl Comm 319. A statute authorizing a particular act, such as the sale of land of a person under disability. 16 Am J2d Const L § 236.

See curative act.

enabling power. The power of approving or licensing something which the law undertakes to regulate. 1 Am J2d Admin L § 140.

enabling statute. See enabling act.

enact. To establish by law; to perform or effect; to decree. Re Senate File 31, 25 Neb 864, 876.

enacting clause. An orderly, and in some jurisdictions a mandatory, part of a statute, proclaiming the authority by which the statute was enacted, usually in some such form as "Be it enacted by the legislature [general assembly] of the State of [name of state], as follows." 50 Am J1st Stat §§ 153-155.

enactment. The process by which a legislative bill becomes law. Creating a law, that is, giving it an existence, or, as in some jurisdictions, giving it effectiveness. Anno: 132 ALR 1060.

enagenacion. A word encountered in Spanish-American grants, which in its ordinary sense means a transfer of the title, the fee, but in a more enlarged sense it may include the transfer of every estate known to the law, from a fee simple to an estate at will or sufferance; and in this enlarged sense it is equivalent to the English word "alienation." Mulford v Le Franc, 26 Cal 88, 103, 104.

enajenacion. Same as enagenacion.

en après. In the future; hereafter; henceforth.

en ariere. In the past.

en autre droit. In the right of another person.

en autre soile. On the land of another person.

en avant. In the future; for the future.

en banc. (French.) On the bench.

See full bench.

[401]

en barre. In bar.

en bloc. In a mass; as a whole; as a unit.

en bonne foy. In good faith.

en ce. In this.

enceinte. Pregnant; with child.

encephalogram. See electroencephalogram.

en chemin. On the way.

encheson. A cause or reason for anything.

en chiefe. In chief.

enclave. A territory or area foreign to, or apart from, that by which it is surrounded completely.

See federal enclave.

enclose. Same as inclose.

enclosure. See inclosure.

en coste. On the side; collateral.

encourage. To give hope and impart courage. To incite; to induce; to abet.

en court. In court.

encroach. To effect an encroachment.

See encroachment.

encroachment. A movement upon the property, authority, or rights of another; a gradual movement upon and occupancy of the land of another. In the broad sense, a trespass upon real estate, but in the legal sense, usually confined to an intrusion upon a highway by occupying it, fencing or walling in a portion of it, or erecting a structure which protrudes into it. State v Pomeroy, 73 Wis 664, 665; Chase v Oshkosh, 81 Wis 313, 51 NW 560.

See trespass.

encumber. To effect or suffer an encumbrance.

See encumbrance.

encumbrance. Literally a hindrance, impediment, or obstruction, such as an object in a highway. 25 Am J1st High § 272. The significance in the law is that of any right to, or interest in land conveyed, which may subsist in a third party, to the diminution of the value of the land, but at the same time consistent with the passage of the fee thereto. 20 Am J2d Cov § 81; 55 Am J1st V & P § 225. Including whatever charges, burdens, obstructs, or impairs the use of the land, depreciates it in value, or impedes its transfer, such as a lien, a mortgage, deed of trust, or an easement. Anno: 57 ALR 1376; 55 Am J1st V & P § 225. "Encumbrances" fall into two general classes: (1) Those which affect or relate to the title or the record thereof, and (2) those which affect or relate to the actual physical conditions upon the realty such as a path or roadway indicating a servitude. Anno: 64 ALR 1480.

The application of the term "encumbrance" is almost invariably made to real estate, although it would seem entirely proper to speak of a chattel mortgage or lien upon personal property as an "encumbrance."

See covenant against encumbrances.

encumbrancer. The holder of an incumbrance; as a person who holds a mortgage. A person who has a legal claim upon an estate. Warden v Sabins, 36 Kan 165, 169.

end. Finish; terminus; termination. An objective or purpose.

See duration; end of will; end on.

endangering life. Acting so as to imperil the life of a human. Not necessarily by acts of physical violence. Anno; 5 ALR 712.

endeavor. To attempt; to try; to experiment. Success is not an attribute of endeavor. Experimental approach toward the commission of a crime is an endeavor. Guilt is incurred by the trial, -success may aggravate, it is not a condition of it. United States v Russell, 255 US 138, 143, 65 L Ed 553, 555, 41 S Ct 260.

en declaration de simulation. A form of action in France and Louisiana, the object of which is to have an unbelievable act declared to have been feigned. Erwin v Bank of Kentucky, 5 La Ann 1, 4.

en demeure. In default.

en demeyne. In demesne.

See demesne; demesne, as of fee.

endenizen. Same as denize.

endless chain contract. A contract, ostensibly for the sale of the right to vend an article in a designated territory, but in reality cloaking an undertaking by the purchaser to enter into similar contracts with others. 46 Am J1st Sales § 122.

end lines. The boundary lines of a mining claim which cross the lode or vein. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 111.

The legal end lines of the original or discovery vein of a mining claim are the end lines of all veins within the surface boundary with respect to extralateral rights. Jefferson Mining Co. v Anchoria-Leland Min. & Mill. Co. 32 Colo 176, 75 F 1070.

end of war. See duration of the war.

end of will. An expression clothed with pertinency by statutory requirements that a will be signed at the foot or end. Two variant definitions have evolved from the application of such statutes: (1) the physical end of the writing, the point spatially the farthest removed from the beginning; (2) the logical end, the end of the disposition of property wherever that end may appear in the paper, the sequential end, the end as determined by the unmistakable sequence which the testator intended to give to the writing as revealed upon the face of the instrument. 57 Am J1st Wills § 268.

end on. Ships approaching each other from opposite directions, or on such parallel lines as to involve risk of collision on account of their proximity. Brown v Slanson (US) 7 Wall 656, 19 L Ed 157.

See head on.

endorse. Same as indorse. endorsement. Same as indorsement.

endow. In a narrow sense, to give one's wife an estate of dower upon taking the marital vows or entering into the marriage with her. In a broader sense, to bestow property upon a person or an institution, such as a college. Gupton v Gupton, 40 Tenn (3 Head) 487, 489.

endowment. The assignment to a widow of her dower upon the death of her husband. The provision made for the maintenance of officiating ministers by setting apart a glebe or land and by appointing tithes. Such endowments were established when lords of manors first built churches on their own demesnes. See 2 Bl Comm 21. The endowment of an institution, such as a college, is commonly understood as including all property, both real and personal, given to the institution for its permanent support. Millsaps College v Jackson, 275 US 129, 72 L Ed 196, 48 S Ct 94, 95.

[402]

See assignment of dower; fine for endowment.

endowment insurance. In modern terminology, a life insurance policy which provides for the payment of the proceeds of the policy at a stated time after the date of the instrument, sometimes 20, sometimes 30 or more years, but upon the death of the insured if it occurs prior to the expiration of the stated period. 29 Am J1st Ins § 6. In former times, endowment policies appear to have had features of the tontine policy, one of which was that the insurer came under no liability to an insured who did not survive the endowment or tontine period. Such policies have been referred to at times as "pure endowment insurance."

See tontine policy.

en droit. In right; in point of law.

See defense en droit.

ends of justice. In furtherance of justice.

end-use factor. A test of practicability employed before issuance of a certificate of public convenience and necessity. Anno: 5 L Ed 2d 1004. The ultimate use of the product to be supplied by a utility seeking a certificate of public convenience and necessity required as a condition of lawful operation. Anno: 5 L Ed 2d 1004.

enecius. Same as anecius.

enemy. Another nation with which the country is in a state of war; more broadly defined for the purposes of some statutes, as including the individuals and corporations of a nation with which the country is at war. 56 Am J1st War § 83. Narrowly interpreted, an "enemy" is always the subject of a foreign power, who owes no allegiance to our government or country. United States v Greathouse (CC Cal) 4 Sawy 457, 466, F Cas No 15254. Reasonably, a person engaged against the United States in a rebellion or civil war is an "enemy." 56 Am J1st War § 62. The status of a person as an "enemy" for the purposes of the application of the Trading with the Enemy Act is determined with reference to domicile or residence in the territory of the nation which is a belligerent against the United States rather than according to nationality. 56 Am J1st War § 83. For the purposes of such statute, an "enemy" may be a partnership, corporation, or other body of individuals. 56 Am J1st War § 83.

See alien enemy; public enemy.

enemy alien. See alien enemy.

enemy property. All property within enemy territory. If suffered to remain in the hostile country after the war breaks out, it becomes impressed with the national character of the belligerent where it is situated without regard to the owner's sentiments or political opinions, or whether he is an enemy or a friend. The Peterhoff (US) 5 Wall 28, 18 L Ed 564. Under the Trading with the Enemy Act, money and all kinds of property of enemies, both tangible and intangible, including patents, copyrights, applications therefor, trademarks, choses in action, and claims of every character and description, owing to, belonging to, or held for, by, or on account of, or for the benefit of, the enemy may be sequestered. 56 Am J1st War § 85.

enemy waters. Storm, freshet and flood waters of a river, as distinguished from its ordinary and usual flow. Herminghaus v Southern California Edison Co. 200 Cal 81, 252 P 607. Surface waters referred to as the common enemy in supporting the common-law rule that the owner of the lower tenement or estate may at his option lawfully obstruct or hinder the flow of surface water thereon, and in so doing may turn it back or away from his own lands, and onto and over the lands of other proprietors without liability for such obstruction or diversion. 56 Am J1st Wat § 69.

En eschange il covient que les estates soient egales. Same as anecius.

en fait. In fact.

enfeoff. To vest a person, the feoffee, with a fee.

See feoffee; feoffment; feoffor.

enfeoffment. Same as feoffment.

enforceable legal right. A right recognized by law and executed by the law, executed by force within the law where force is necessary. Shaw v Proffitt, 57 Or 192, 109 P 584.

enforceable trust. A trust in which some person or class of persons have a right to all or a part of a designated fund, and can demand its transfer to them, and in case such demand is refused, may sue the trustee in a court of equity, and compel compliance with the demand. Tilden v Green, 130 NY 29, 28 NE 880. In a broader sense, a trust recognized in equity as valid and subsisting. 54 Am J1st Trusts §§ 570 et seq.

Enforcement of Foreign Judgments Act. One of the uniform laws. Anno: 72 ALR2d 1259, § 3. A uniform law, the purpose of which is to give to holders of foreign judgments, with respect to claims on the judgment debtor's property and the remedies of levy and garnishment thereon, the same rights and remedies as the holder of a domestic judgment. Sullivan v Sullivan, 168 Neb 850, 97 NW2d 348, 72 ALR2d 1251.

enfranchise. To confer a franchise upon; to free; to permit a person to vote.

See franchise.

enfranchisement. The act of enfranchising.

See enfranchise; franchise.

enfranchisement of copyhold. The act of the lord of the manor in conveying a fee simple title to a copyholder, thus changing the tenure of the land from copyhold to freehold.

engage. In the oldest sense of the term, to give as a gage or pledge; to pledge property as security. To take part in; to be employed in, however the employment may arise. Anno: 15 ALR 1283. To cooperate actively or take part in an enterprise. Benefit Assn. of R. Employees v Hayden, 175 Ark 565, 299 SW 995, 57 ALR 622. To embark; to bind by appointment or by contract; to bind by promise of marriage. To enter into conflict with an enemy or test of strength and athletic ability with an opponent.

engaged. Taking an active part.

See engage.

engaged in aviation operations. Taking part in the operation of an airplane in some direct way other than merely being a passenger in an airplane. Price v Prudential Ins. Co. 98 Fla 1044, 124 So 817.

See participating in aeronautics.

[403]

engaged in business. Occupied or employed in business as a sustained, progressive, and continuous activity. Lewellyn v Pittsburg, B. & L. E. R. Co. (CA3 Pa) 222 F 177.

See carrying on business; doing business; doing business in state; engaging in or transacting business.

engaged in interstate commerce. In the meaning of the term as it appears in the Fair Labor Standards Act, engaged in activities so closely related to interstate commerce as to be for all practical purposes and in legal contemplation a part of it. Mitchell v C. Vollmer & Co. 349 US 427, 99 L Ed 1196, 75 S Ct 860. Similarly defined for the purposes of the Federal Employers' Liability Act. Southern Pacific Co. v Industrial Corn. of Utah, 71 Utah, 248, 264 P 965, 968.

See commerce; interstate commerce.

engaged in manufacturing. Working with machinery to produce a finished product from raw materials or to convert manufactured articles into a different product. Hotchkiss v District of Columbia, 44 App DC 73.

engaged in military service. Being in the military service. Bradshaw v Farmers' & Bankers' Life Ins. Co. 107 Kan 681, 193 P 332, 11 ALR 1091, 1096. Having passed the examination or examinations, having taken the oath, having been enrolled, and having become subject to the orders of the military authorities. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1204.

engaged in or about. A phrase used in workmen's compensation statutes to emphasize the necessity for a causal relationship between the employment and a compensable injury. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 209.

engage in practice. To pursue a profession such as law, medicine, architecture, etc. or a skilled occupation by a course of professional or business activities, not by single isolated acts. Dane v Brown (CA1 Mass) 70 F2d 164.

engagement. An agreement; a contract; an agreement consisting of mutual promises to marry.

engagements of bank. All pecuniary liabilities and obligations of a bank. Oppenheimer v Harriman Nat. Bank & Trust Co. 300 US 206, 81 L Ed 142, 57 S Ct 719.

engagement to marry. An agreement or contract to marry arising out of the mutual promises of the parties. 12 Am J2d Breach P §§ 2, 3.

engaging in business. See engaged in business.

engaging in or transacting business. To constitute "engaging in or transacting business" in a state, so as to be found or be present there for purposes of personal service of process, a nonresident corporation's activities must be substantial, continuous, and regular, as distinguished from casual, single, or isolated acts. Steinway v Majestic Amusement Co. (CA10 Okla) 179 F2d 681, 18 ALR2d 179.

engine. A skilfully contrived mechanism or machine, the parts of which concur in producing an intended effect; a machine for applying any of the mechanical or physical powers to effect a particular purpose; especially a self-contained mechanism for the conversion of energy into useful work; as a hydraulic engine for utilizing the pressure of water; a steam, gas, or air engine, in which the elastic force of steam, gas, or air is utilized. Haddad v Commercial Motor Truck Co., 146 La 897, 84 So 197, 9 ALR 1380.

See road engine; switch engine; wild-cat engine.

engineer. A graduate of an engineering college. One in charge of the running of an engine, especially a locomotive. One certified as an engineer in charge of the engines of a ship, but not one engaged to perform purely mechanical work on the engines of a ship. Baggaley v Aetna Ins. Co. (CA7 Ill) 111 F2d 134. As the term appears in a clause of an automobile liability insurance policy permitting use of the car in certain occupations, including that of engineers, a person who is not a graduate of an engineering school and has never been licensed as an engineer, but being a general superintendent of a steel company has practical knowledge of the processes involved in the manufacture of steel, and, at the time of the accident in question, is travelling to inspect mechanical equipment for possible use in the steel industry, is an engineer. Employers Liability Assur. Corp. v Accident & C. Ins. Co. (CA6 Ohio) 134 F2d 566, 146 ALR 1186.

engineering work. Any work of construction, alteration, or repair. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 108.

engineer's certificate. See certificate of architect or engineer.

England. The mother country and the source of our common law. 15 Am J2d Comm L § 5.

englecery. Same as engleschire. englescherie. Same as engleschire.

engleschire. A word originating in the time of King Canute, meaning proof, in an action to amerce the inhabitants of a town or hundred for the death of a man occurring by homicide committed in the town or hundred, that the victim was an Englishman.

English. Our language. The people of England.

English church. The established Church of England.

See Church of England.

English consols. See consols.

English institutions. See the particular institution under concrete title or popular name, such as Church of England; Parliament, etc.

Englishman. A native of England; a citizen of England. One of English ancestry.

See Once an Englishman always an Englishman.

English mile. See mile.

English rule or doctrine. See the specific rule or doctrine under concrete title or popular name, such as fifty per cent rule; market overt, etc.

English rulers. The kings and queens of England.

See regnal years.

English Ruling Cases. A publication in the form of a set of books of leading cases decided by the courts of England.

englishry. Same as engleschire.

See presentment of englishry.

English statutes. Acts of Parliament.

For particular statute, see the concrete title or popular name, such as corn laws; mortmain statutes, etc.

English tables. Mortality tables accepted by the courts of England. The Carlisle and Northampton tables.

See mortality tables.

en gross. In gross.

[404]

engross. To prepare a document; to express in legal form; to prepare a legislative bill for enrollment; to demand close attention. To gain a monopoly.

engrossed bill. A legislative bill which has been engrossed or copied for enrollment and is ready to be passed or enacted into a statute.

engrossing. The common-law and sometimes statutory offense of buying up large quantities of a commodity, such as grain, in order to control the market. 36 Am J1st Monop Etc. § 20. Demanding close attention. Making a clear copy of a rough draft of an instrument or writing.

Eng. Rul. Cas. An abbreviation of English Ruling Cases.

enhanced. Increased, especially in value. Thornburn v Doscher, (CC Or) 32 F 810, 812.

enhancement of damages. See aggravation of damages; exemplary damages.

enitia pars. The part or share of the eldest.

enjoin. To forbid; to restrain by injunction; to command; to order. Ordinarily an imperative, but may be given less than mandatory force in the light of the entire context in which it appears. Good v Fichthorn, 144 Pa 287, 22 A 1032. Imperative in legal parlance, except as the mandatory character gives way to the entire context in which the word appears or to common parlance. Clifford v Stewart, 95 Me 38, 49 A 52; Good v Fichthorn, 144 Pa 287, 22 A 1032.

See injunction.

enjoy. See enjoyment.

enjoyment. Receiving the benefit of something; receiving substantial economic benefit rather than a technical vesting of title or estate. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 193. Something less than consumption. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 241. That which gives value to property, including the beneficial use, interest, and purpose to which the property may be put. Pollock v Farmers' Loan Trust Co. 157 US 581, 39 L Ed 759, 15 S Ct 673.

See beneficial enjoyment; covenant of quiet enjoyment; occupation; possession.

enlarge. To free or set at large, as cattle within an enclosure. To increase in size; to expand. To grant to a party to an action an extension of time within which he may comply with a requirement of law or an order of court, as to enlarge his time to plead.

Enlarged Homesteads Act. A federal statute providing for entry of 320 acres or less of public lands in certain states, of a character which is nonmineral, nonirrigable, unreserved, and unappropriated, and for additional entries under certain circumstances. 43 USC § 218.

enlarged liability. An increased liability; a liability to which an obligation has been added or annexed. Buck v Davenport Sav. Bank, 29 Neb 407.

See indorsement with enlarged liability.

enlargement of estate. Adding to an estate in property, thereby increasing the estate in importance and in value, as where the remainderman conveys or releases his interest to the life tenant or tenant for years.

enlarger l'estate. Enlargement of estate.

enlarging statute. A statute is a remedial statute, according to Blackstone (1 Bl Comm 86), which supplies defects, and abridges superfluities, in the former law. This is done by enlarging or restraining the former law, and these remedial statutes are therefore called enlarging or restraining statutes, depending on whether they supply or abridge. 50 Am J1st Stat § 15.

en le mercie. In mercy, liable to amercement.

enlist. To enter one of the armed services other than as a commissioned officer. In the popular sense, to enter the service voluntarily.

enlistment. Entry into one of the armed services other than as a commissioned officer. In the popular sense, entering the service voluntarily. The contract of service which one other than a commissioned officer enters into with the government. 36 Am J1st Mil § 26. Constituting either an original undertaking or a renewal of an original undertaking known as a reenlistment. 10 USC § 3251.

enlistment service. See recruiting and enlistment service.

en masse. In one piece.

See execution sale en masse.

en mort meyne. In mortmain.

See mortmain.

ennoyer. Same as anoyer.

Enoch Arden Statutes. Legislation which facilitates proof of death from absence, particularly for the benefit of the spouse of the absentee.

enormia. Wrongs; crimes; any acts of an unlawful character.

enormis. Excessive; enormous; wicked.

en outre. Furthermore; besides.

en owel main. In equal hand.

en pais. Same as in pais. enparler. Same as imparl.

en passant. In passing; incidentally.

enpleet. Same as implead.

en plein vie. In full life; that is in life in fact as well as in law.

en poigne. Same as en poin.

en poin. In the hand.

en primes. In the first place.

enquest. Same as inquest.

enquet. Same as inquest.

enrichment. Receiving something of value; being enriched. A thing that enriches.

See unjust enrichment.

enroll. To enter upon a roll or record; to record.

enrolled bill. A legislative bill in its final form as enacted and deposited with the official custodian of the statutory laws. 50 Am J1st Stat § 148.

enrolled bill rule. The rule that an enrolled bill imports absolute verity, so that the courts will not look beyond it to ascertain whether it has been regularly enacted or whether it expresses the terms of the statute as enacted. 50 Am J1st Stat § 149.

enrolled order. An order prepared for the signature of the judge and to be entered as the judgment of the court, once his signature has been appended.

enrolled ship. See enrollment of vessel.

[405]

enrollment. The act of entering something upon a roll or record. The recording of a deed.

See clerk of enrollments; Statute of Enrolments.

enrollment for military service. The listing in a register of the names of persons subject to military service; not a draft or an actual calling of the men. 36 Am J1st Mil § 7. Sometimes used as the equivalent of enlistment.

enrollment of judgment. The ministerial act in entering a judgment upon the record of the court to stand as a perpetual memorial of the court's action and to afford a means of proving the judgment. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 92. The act of making up the judgment roll.

See judgment roll.

enrollment of vessel. The listing of a vessel of 20 tons or over in the office of the collector of the revenue of that district which includes the port to which she belongs at the time, the purpose being to evidence the national character of the vessel and enable her to obtain a coasting license. 48 Am J1st Ship § 48.

See registration of vessel.

enrollment of voters. The registration of voters. The listing of voters by party affiliation, by which eligibility to vote in a primary election is determined.

enrolment. Same as enrollment.

en route. On the journey; during the journey.

ens. Existence; a being; a creature.

enschedule. To place or incorporate in a schedule.

enseal. To seal; to affix a seal.

enseint. Same as enceinte.

ensemble. All together.

ensement. Also; likewise; similarly.

enserver. To subject to a service; to subject to servitude.

ensi. Thus; so; likewise.

ensign. A flag. A commissioned officer of the United States Navy, being the lowest in rank of the commissioned officers.

ensilage. Corn in the stalk, clover, alfalfa, or other feed and roughage for livestock, stored while green or partly green in a silo, and allowed to cure therein.

ens legis. A creature or being of the law.

en son damage. In his damage; while doing damage; damage feasant.

en son demeyne come de fee. In his demesne as of fee.

ensue. To follow or come after, sometimes importing a connection with that which precedes, as where a statute provides that one who administers a drug to a woman pregnant with a quick child, with intent to destroy the child, is guilty of manslaughter if the death of such woman "ensues." 26 Am J1st Homi § 196.

ensure. Same as insure.

en suspense. In suspense; in abeyance; in statu quo.

ensy. Same as ensi.

entail. To settle property upon a person with limitations in respect of the succession. Precisely, to create an estate in tail, that is, a fee tail, in conveying or devising real property. To involve, e. g., the trial of a law suit "involves" much preparation.

See fee tail.

entailed-money. Money to be applied on account of the purchase of an estate-tail.

entencion. {Old French.) A plaintiff's declaration or first pleading in an action; a count or cause of action set forth in a declaration.

entendment. Understanding.

entente. An understanding or agreement, especially an agreement between nations.

enter. To go into; to pass in or upon; as to enter a house or a close, sometimes for the purpose of taking possession. To list by name in a competition, as to "enter" a horse for a race. To make note of a fact by way of making a record thereof to be preserved. To make an entry of any kind.

See entry.

entering. See enter; entry.

entering the common rule. In the old common-law action of ejectment, the entry by the clerk of an order of court requiring the casual ejector, if he was a stranger, to give notice to the tenant in possession that he had been sued and would make no defense, and that unless the tenant in possession should defend, he would be turned out. 25 Am J2d Eject § 2.

enter into. To join with another or with others; as, to enter into a contract, to enter into a conspiracy.

enterlesse. Omitted; left out.

enterprise. An undertaking, a project, especially an undertaking or project involving hazard. United States v Ybanez (CC Tex) 53 F 536, 538. Initiative; readiness to engage.

See business enterprise; gift enterprise; joint enterprise; military enterprise.

entertainer. One who entertains, particularly one in the profession of entertainment, such as a comedian, an acrobat, a clown, etc.

entertainment. Diversion; amusement; something of interest. Hospitality.

See house of entertainment.

entertainment expense. A deduction in an income tax return where an ordinary and necessary business expense by way of entertainment, amusement, or recreation furnished a customer, client, or prospective customer or client. IRC § 274(a).

entertainment of suit. Taking jurisdiction, especially for the purpose of a trial or hearing on the merits. Denholm & McKay Co. v Commissioner (CAI) 132 F2d 243; Fernandez v Carrasquillo (CAI Puerto Rico) 146 F2d 204.

entertainment tax. See admissions tax.

en tesmoignance. In testimony; in witness.

entice. To allure or tempt by artifice, the word importing an initial, active and wrongful effort. State v Norris, 82 Or 680, 162 P 859. To lure animals onto one's premises by putting out food by way of bait. 4 Am J2d Ani § 139.

It is true that the word "entice" may be used in a good sense, but that is not its natural meaning, and when so used it is but figurative. Mooney v State, 8 Ala 328, 331.

See induce; inveigle; procure; solicitation.

[406]

enticement of child. The abduction or wrongful taking of a minor child from the custody of the parents for which the parent may have an action for damages based upon loss of the child's services. 39 Am J1st P & C § 72. A possible method of kidnapping. 1 Am J2d Abduct § 13.

enticement of servant. A form of tortious interference, consisting in maliciously inducing an employee in the actual service of his employer to desert and leave his service, to the injury of the employer. 30 Am J Rev ed Interf § 6.

entire. Whole; undivided; not participated in with others. Heathman v Hall, 38 NC (3 Ired Eq) 414, 421. Indivisible. 46 Am J1st Sales § 140.

entire compensation. As used in a statute providing for the recovery of "entire compensation" for the unlicensed use by the government of a patented invention, the term includes interest upon the damages found to have been suffered. Waite v United States, 282 US 508, 75 L Ed 494, 51 S Ct 227.

entire contract. The whole of the contract to be considered in construction. 17 Am J2d Contr § 258.

See entirety of contract.

entire day. A day of twenty-four hours, beginning and ending at midnight. To assure the intervention of a certain number of "entire days" between two specified days, both the first and last days are excluded. 52 Am J1st Time § 17.

entire interest. See all title and interest.

entire loss of hands or feet. Amputation, severance, or complete destruction of use of a member, as by paralysis. Fuller v Locomotive Engineers' Mut. Life & Acci. Ins. Asso. 122 Mich 548, 81 NW 326.

entire loss of sight. The loss of ability to see or perceive objects with the eye or the loss which leaves no sight left for practical use, notwithstanding the ability to distinguish between light and dark, but not a condition where there is limited or partial vision, although not sufficient for the pursuit of the victim's occupation or profession. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1513.

entire output. A term designating the subject matter of a sale of manufactured goods, binding the seller, if he makes any of the product, to sell it to the buyer at the agreed price, and binding the buyer, to take all the product made by the seller at the time the buyer may choose to terminate the agreement. 46 Am J1st Sales § 65.

entire property and assets. Necessarily including cash, notes, accounts, and leases of personal property. Krell v Krell Piano Co. 23 Ohio NP NS 193.

entire tenancy. Sole ownership; ownership which is neither joint nor in common.

entirety. A whole of anything, as distinguished from a part of it; an undivided whole. The joint estate of husband and wife. 26 Am J1st H & W § 66.

See estate by entirety.

entirety of cause of action. A quality to be tested according to the identity of the essential facts; if the same evidence will support both actions, there is deemed to be but one cause of action, although the mere fact that the same evidence may be admissible under the pleadings in each action is not necessarily controlling. 1 Am J2d Actions § 128.

entirety of contract. A confusing term, sometimes meaning that there is but one, rather than several, contracts; at other times meaning that a contract is not divisible or severable. 17 Am J2d Contr § 324.

See divisible contract; severability of contract.

entirety of statute. The quality of a statute which renders it impossible to give effect to one part where another part is invalid. 16 Am J2d Const L §§ 181 et seq.

entitle. To vest the title to anything in a person; to furnish a right or claim to a thing. Barron Estate Co. v Waterman, 32 Cal App 171, 162 P 410. To give a name; to give a title; to supply a heading for a document or pleading.

See beneficially entitled.

entitled. See entitle; vested interest; vested estate.

entity. An existence; a being, actual or artificial.

entity of corporation. See corporate entity.

entity of partnership. See partnership.

entrance. The means or place of entering, as a door or gate. Renfo Drug Co. v Lewis, 149 Tex 507, 235 SW2d 609, 23 ALR2d 1114.

entrance fee. A payment made for admission to a place of entertainment; the charge made for obtaining membership in a labor union.

entrap. To catch; to ensnare; hence to catch by artifice; to involve in difficulties or distresses; to catch or involve in contradistinctions. Roane v State, 55 Okla Crim 332, 29 P2d 990.

See entrapment.

entrapment. The inducement of one to commit a crime not contemplated by him, for the mere purpose of instituting a criminal prosecution against him. People v Makovsky, 3 Cal 2d 366, 44 P2d 536; State v Marquardt, 139 Conn 1, 89 A2d 219, 31 ALR2d 1206. Measures used to entrap a person into crime in order, by making him a criminal, to aid the instigator in the accomplishment of some corrupt private purpose of his own. Woo Wai v United States (CA9 Cal) 223 F 412.

entre. In; within; between; entry.

entrebat. An intruder; a stranger; an interloper.

entrega. (Spanish.) A delivery.

entrepot. A warehouse; a storehouse; a freight depot; a place where goods are temporarily stored awaiting shipment. Coe v Errol, 116 US 517, 525, 29 L Ed 715, 718, 6 S Ct 475.

entruster. Same as truster.

entry. The act of one who enters. In burglary, the act of going into a place; it may consist of the insertion, for the purpose of committing a felony, of any part of the body or of any instrument connected with the body, such as a hook or a gun. 13 Am J2d Burgl § 10. Going upon land. The act of making something of record by noting it in a book or upon a paper.

See book of original entry; breaking and entering; right of entry; writ of entry.

entry ad communem legem. Entry at common law,-a writ under which the holder of a reversion could secure the possession of the land, upon the death of the particular tenant.

entry ad terminum qui praeteriit. An entry at the end of a term which has expired,-a writ of entry for the landlord at the expiration of the tenant's lease.

[407]

entry at customhouse. The exhibition or depositing by a ship's officer of the papers required by law, at the customhouse, or the giving of information to customs authorities with respect to the ship's cargo, for the purpose of securing permission to land or to discharge such cargo. 48 Am J1st Ship § 19. A written statement by the consignee of imported merchandise or his agent which gives such facts in regard to the importation as is required for the purpose of assessing duties and of securing a proper examination, inspection, appraisalment, and liquidation. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 75. The listing by a person entering the United States of merchandise or other articles brought into the country by him. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 74.

For the purposes of tariff schedules, the term "entered" means entered, or withdrawn from warehouse, for consumption in the customs territory of the United States; the term "entered for consumption" does not include withdrawals from warehouse for consumption. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 33.

entry book. The record in the office of a recorder or register of titles where the filing or recording of an instrument is noted, usually under the names of both grantor and grantee, mortgagor or mortgagee. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 92.

See book of original entry.

entry cui ante divortium. A writ which lay for a woman who had secured a divorce from her husband to secure lands which had been alienated by him. See 3 B1 Comm 183.

entry in casu consimili. Entry in a similar case,-a writ of entry which lay to recover a reversion in land which had been alienated by a tenant.

entry into automobile. Stepping into the vehicle or at least making some move in reference to the vehicle other than merely approaching it for the purpose of entering it. New Amsterdam Casualty Co. v Fromer (Mun Ct App Dist Col) 75 A2d 645, 19 ALR2d 509.

entryman. A person who makes an entry of public lands under the homestead laws.

entry of alien. The physical act of coming into the geographical territory of the United States, a coming from outside, from some foreign port or place. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 54.

entry of amendment to state constitution. Entry of the full text of a proposed amendment to the constitution on the journal of each house of the legislature; an entry on the journal of each house sufficient to identify the resolution proposing the amendment, the resolution itself being in the possession of each house when it is passed by the house. 16 Am J2d Const L § 33.

entry of appearance. Indicating the appearance of the defendant in an action by the filing or service of a formal appearance or the announcement in open court that the defendant appears, in both of which methods the name of the attorney appearing for the defendant is given, unless the appearance is pro se.

entry of court order. The placing of an order of court of record by the clerk, after the court has made the order by announcing it or signing it. 37 Am J1st Motions § 29.

See entry of judgment.

entry of decree. Same as entry of judgment.

entry of homestead. See entry on public land.

entry of imports. See entry at customhouse.

entry of judgment. Recording a judgment in judgment book. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 93. Spreading the judgment in full length upon the records of the trial court. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 104. The enrolling of a judgment on the records of the court; a ministerial rather than a judicial act. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 94.

See docketing judgment.

entry on public land. See entry under homestead law.

entry-taker. A state officer whose functions correspond closely with those of registers of United States land offices under Federal statutes. Chotard v Pope (US) 12 Wheat 587, 6 L Ed 737.

entry under homestead law. The act by which an individual acquires an inceptive right to a portion of the unappropriated soil of the public domain, consisting in the filing of a claim in the proper land office of the United States or, in case of the public domain of a state, in the office of an entry-taker or other officer with similar authority. 42 Am J1st Pub L §§ 19 et seq.

See contest of land entry; original entry; preemption entry.

enumerate. To count; to specify; to mention in detail; to enumerate property is to specify with precision its amount, quality or number. San Francisco v Pennie, 93 Cal 465, 29 P 66.

To place articles among those designated as "enumerated" in the Tariff Act, it is not necessary that they should be specifically mentioned. It is sufficient that they are designated in any way to distinguish them from other articles. Junge v Hedden, 146 US 233, 36 L Ed 953, 13 S Ct 88.

Enumeratio infirmat regulam in casibus non enumeratis. Enumeration or specification disaffirms the rule in cases which are not specified or enumerated.

Enumeratio unius est exclusio alterius. The enumeration or inclusion of one is in effect the exclusion of another. Re Washburn (NY) 4 Johns Ch 106.

enure. Same as inure.

en ventre sa mere. (French.) In the womb of the mother. Same as the Latin in utero matris.

envers. Against.

en vie. In life; while alive.

envoy. A messenger sent by one government to another for the purpose of transacting some business of an international character.

See diplomatic officers.

eoath. An oath.

eodem delicto. In the same wrong; equally guilty of the offense. Conant v Conant, 10 Cal 239, 245.

eodem fiatu. In the same breath. Green v Biddle (US) 8 Wheat 1, 103, 5 L Ed 547, 572.

Eodem ligamine quo ligatum est dissolvitur. A band is released by the same means by which it was made binding.

[408]

Eodem modo quo oritur, eodem modo dissolvitur. Anything is dissolved or discharged in the same manner in which it was created.

Eodem modo quo quid constituitur, eodem modo destruitur. Anything is released in the same manner in which it is made binding.

eo instante or eo instanti. At that moment; instantly; immediately. 1 Bl Comm 196.

eo intuitu. With that intention; with that intent.

eo ipso. By the thing itself; by the very thing.

eo loci. In that place; in that state, condition, or situation.

eo nomine. By or in that name or designation.

eo quod plerumque fit. See ex eo quod plerumque fit.

eorl. Same as earl.

epidemic disease. A disease prevalent and spreading in the community.

See contagious disease; infectious disease.

epilepsy. A chronic disease of the nervous system characterized by paroxysms or convulsions, such seizures at times resulting in unconsciousness. Gould v Gould, 78 Conn 242, 61 A 604. Corbit v Smith, 7 Iowa 60. The older view that the inevitable course of epilepsy was to insanity has vanished in the light of better medical knowledge of the subject and improvement in medical treatment. It is also negated by the fact that some great figures in history were afflicted with epilepsy.

epiqueya. (Spanish.) The word is practically the equivalent of our word "equity."

episcopacy. The rule or government of the church by bishops.

episcopal. Administered and governed by bishops.

See archiepiscopal.

Episcopal Church. The Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States; the Church of England.

episcopalia. Certain dues which were paid by the clergy to the bishops.

episcopus. A Roman overseer or manager; a bishop of the church of England.

See archiepiscopus.

Episcopus alterius mandato quam regis non tenetur obtemperare. A bishop is not bound to obey any other command than that of the king.

epistola. A written communication; a letter.

epistolae. Opinions of the Roman emperors on matters and questions which were propounded to them.

e pluribus unum. One out of many; one composed of many,—the motto of the United States government.

equal. Adjective: Impartial; not discriminating; unbiased; uniform. Verb: To make equivalent to, to recompense fully, to answer in full proportion. Fry v Hawley, 4 Fla 258, 279.

equal election. An election in which every elector has the right to have his vote counted for all it is worth in proportion to the whole number of qualified electors desiring to exercise their privilege. McKinney v Barker, 180 Ky 526, 203 SW 303. An election where the vote of every elector is equal in its influence upon the result to the vote of every other elector; where each ballot is as effective as every other ballot. Blue v State, 206 Ind 98, 188 NE 583, 91 ALR 334.

equal equities. The equity of one party shown to be equal to the equity of the other; one party as well situated as the other to foresee and prevent the prejudicial consequence. 27 Am J2d Eq § 145.

equal guilt. See recrimination. equality. The state or condition of being equal; uniformity. A state not exclusive of distinctions, provided the distinctions are based upon reason. State v Finch, 78 Minn 118, 80 NW 856. The absence of arbitrary distinctions.

equality clause. A clause which anciently was commonly inserted in charters of common carriers, requiring the carrier to furnish transportation to its patrons on equal terms. Hilton Lumber Co. v Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Co. 141 NC 171, 53 SE 823.

equality is equity. A maxim of equity. 27 Am J2d Eq § 125. The basis of the doctrine of advancements. 3 Am J2d Advancem § 3.

equalization. The act or process of making things equal, of producing uniformity.

equalization board. See board of equalization.

equalization of assessments. A proceeding the general purpose of which is to bring the assessments of different parts of a taxing district to the same relative standard so that no one of the parts may be compelled to pay a disproportionate part of the tax. Huidekoper v Hadley (CA8 Mo) 177 F 1. Used with less precision to designate the process of raising or lowering the amount of a tax assessment upon an individual piece of property to render it equal to the assessments on other individual pieces of property of the same class in the taxing district. 51 Am J1st Tax § 741.

equalization of taxes. A process necessary properly to fulfil constitutional requirements of equality and uniformity in taxation. The process of adjusting the aggregate values of property as between different taxing districts, so that the value of the whole tax imposed on each taxing district shall be justly proportioned to the value of the taxable property within its limits, in order that one county or taxing district shall not pay a higher tax in proportion to the value of its taxable property than another. People ex rel. Bracher v Orvis, 301 111350, 133 NE 787, 24 ALR 325. The process of raising or lowering the total assessments on all the property in a taxing district to equalize them with the total assessments in other taxing districts of the same kind in the state, or of raising or lowering the entire assessment on a given class of property, such, for example, as mining rights, in order to equalize it with the total assessment made with respect to other classes of property in the taxing district in question, or other taxing districts, or with the total assessment on the same class of property in other taxing districts. 51 Am J1st Tax § 741.

[409]

equalize. To make equal; to produce uniformity.

See equalization.

equally. In an equal degree or quantity. Gulf, Colorado & Santa Fe Railroad Co. v Warlick, 1 Indian Terr 10, 16, 35 SW 235. Importing a division per capita when used to indicate an equal division among a class, but not necessarily requiring a per capita equality of division, being satisfied at times by an equality between a class and a legatee named, and always subject to control by a context which calls for a per stirpes distribution. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1297.

See share and share alike.

equally between. Appearing in a legacy or devise, usually, but not necessarily, indicating a bequest to individuals rather than to a class. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1265.

equally divided court. The number of justices holding for affirmance equalling the number holding for reversal, so that the judgment of the lower court must stand. 5 Am J2d A & E § 902.

equal protection of the laws. A phrase not susceptible of exact definition; generally, a guaranty under the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution that no person or class of persons shall be denied the same protection of the law which is enjoyed by the other persons or other classes under like circumstances, in their lives, liberty, property, and in pursuit of happiness. Truax v Corrigan, 257 US 312, 66 L Ed 254, 42 S Ct 124, 27 ALR 375. Concisely stated, the guaranty of equal protection means that the rights of all persons must rest upon the same rule under the same circumstances, both in privileges conferred and in liabilities imposed. Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection & Ins. Co. v Harrison, 301 US 459, 81 L Ed 1223, 57 S Ct 838.

equal rights statutes. The designation sometimes given to those statutes enacted since the civil war and the abolition of slavery which exemplify the changed feeling of the people towards the African race and are intended to place the colored man upon a perfect equality with all others before the law. Ferguson v Geis, 82 Mich 358. The modern terminology is "civil rights acts." But statutes removing the disabilities of married women and forbidding discrimination against women are sometimes referred to as "equal rights laws" or "equal rights statutes."

See civil rights acts.

equal watches. Successive and continuous watches of sailors on a vessel at sea. To be constituted in numbers as nearly equal as the sum of the whole number will permit. New York & Cuba Mail S. S. Co. v Continental Ins. Co. (CA2 NY) 117 F2d 404.

eques. A knight.

equip. To furnish for service, or against a need or exigency; to fit out; to supply with whatever is necessary to efficient action in any way; to furnish with means for the prosecution of a purpose. Anno: 24 ALR 743.

equipage. An outfit or equipment for a particular purpose, such as a trip or expedition. Anno: 24 ALR 743.

See equipment.

equipment. The means with which a task can be accomplished; an outfit. The personal luggage of a traveler or passenger. Metz v California Southern Railroad Co. 85 Cal 329, 24 P 610. As the word is used in construction contracts, it means the outfit necessary to enable the contractor to perform the agreed service, the tools, implements, and appliances which might have been previously used, or might be subsequently used by the contractor in carrying on other work of like character. United States Rubber Co. v Washington Engineering Co. 86 Wash 180, 149 P 706. As used in the Federal Employers' Liability Act, the term "equipment" has reference more to personal and movable property than to fixed real property. 35 Am J1st M & S § 426.

See railroad equipment.

equitable. Just. 27 Am J2d Eq § 23. The characterization of a right which should be recognized, even though it is not a legal right or title. 27 Am J2d Eq § 63.

equitable action. An expression that has lost much of its significance because of the enactment of statutes and the promulgation of rules of procedure abolishing the distinction between an action in equity and an action at law. Where the distinction still prevails, an "equitable action" is one to be prosecuted and tried in accordance with the modes of procedure known to courts of equity. 27 Am J2d Eq § 177. Although the distinction between an action in equity and an action at law may have been abolished in a particular jurisdiction, an action in equity in such jurisdiction still has a distinctive character in respect of the relief sought, relief which historically has been obtainable only in equity, relief demanded, not only on account of the substantive character of the right sought to be enforced, but also on account of the inadequacy of the legal remedy. 27 Am J2d Eq § 5. An "equitable action" is an action which is not only remedial in its nature, but which may be brought for the purpose of restraining the infliction of contemplated wrongs or injuries, and the prevention of threatened illegal action, which may be the occasion of serious injury to others. Thomas v Musical Mut. Protective Union, 121 NY 45, 24 NE 24.

equitable adoption. The principle that a contract or agreement to adopt a child, clear and complete in its terms, and entered into by persons capable of contracting, which has been fully and faithfully performed on the part of the child so that relief for him is required as a matter of justice and equity, will be enforced in equity to the extent of decreeing that the child occupy in equity the status of an adopted child, and be entitled to the same rights of inheritance in intestate property of the promisor to which he would have otherwise been entitled had the intended adoption proceedings been legally consummated. 2 Am J2d Adopt § 16.

equitable approximation doctrine. The principle applied in a few cases whereby a testamentary gift is saved from defeat by the rule against perpetuities by the contrived reasoning that the intent of the testator was that the donee should have the property and that the time of vesting of the property in the donee was a matter of subordinate consequence. Anno: 95 ALR2d 808.

See cy pres.

equitable assets. Rights or interests, which may be either real or personal, but require the aid of the court of equity for their subjection. Agee v Saunders, 127 Tenn 680, 157 SW 64. Lands or personalty in which a debtor has an equitable estate or interest, so that they may be reached by a creditor's bill, notwithstanding the legal title is in another. 21 Am J2d Cred B § 33.

[410]

equitable assignment. An order, writing, or act by the assignor which makes an absolute appropriation of a chose in action or fund to the use of the assignee with the intent of transferring a present interest, but not amounting to a legal assignment. An executory agreement or declaration of trust, not enforceable as an assignment by a court of law, which a court of equity, exercising a sound discretion will enforce. 6 Am J2d Assign § 1.

equitable chattel mortgage. Any contract so convincingly established as to show that there was a clear intention to give a lien on specified chattels of, and in the possession of, the lienee, and that the contract ought, in good conscience and equity, to be enforced according to that intention. An agreement founded on a valuable consideration to give a mortgage on a chattel, an instrument inartificially drawn, a mortgage defectively executed, or an imperfect attempt to create a mortgage, or to appropriate specific property to the discharge of a debt. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 3.

equitable chose in action. A personal right of which equity will take cognizance for the purpose of granting relief, such, for example, as a right against a trustee to enforce the execution of a trust. McIlvaine v Smith, 42 Mo 45.

equitable claim. A claim of which equity will take cognizance for the purpose of granting relief, especially a claim for breach of duty by a fiduciary. Seminole Nation v United States, 316 US 286, 86 L Ed 1480, 62 S Ct 1049.

equitable construction. The construction of a statute by either restraining or enlarging the letter of the statute. Riggs v Palmer, 115 NY 506, 22 NE 188. The interpretation of instruments agreeably to and in conformity with the principles and rules of equity. By and large, the rules for the construction of a contract are the same in equity as in law. Neither a court of law nor a court of equity can interpolate in a contract what the contract does not contain either in words or by necessary implication. 17 Am J2d Contr §§ 241, 242.

equitable conversion. That constructive alteration in the nature or character of property whereby, in equity, real is for certain purposes considered as personalty, or whereby personalty for similar considerations, is regarded as real estate, and in either instance, it is deemed to be transmissible and descendible in its converted form. 27 Am J2d Eq Conv § 1.

equitable defense. A defense which recognized by courts of equity acting solely upon the inherent rules and principles of equity, altogether outside and independent of those rules and defenses which obtain in a court of law. Kelly v Hurt, 74 Mo 561, 565, 569. A concept of little significance in most jurisdictions, modern rules of practice permitting the pleading in an action of defenses either legal or equitable. 27 Am J2d Eq § 19.

equitable easements. A term frequently applied to covenants running with the land. Werner v Graham, 181 Cal 174, 183 P 945. Restrictive covenants as to the use of land or the location or character of buildings or other structures thereon are primary examples. 20 Am J2d Cov § 166.

equitable ejectment. A paradoxical expression, since ejectment is a legal, not an equitable remedy, but nevertheless applied to an equitable remedy employed in obtaining the specific performance of contracts for the sale of real estate and in some other instances. McKendry v McKendry, 131 Pa 24, 18 A 1078.

equitable election. Essentially, the principle of election.

See election.

equitable estate. An equity; an estate or interest in property recognized only in equity, especially a trust. McIlvaine v Smith, 42 Mo 45.

See equitable title.

equitable estate of wife. See separate estate of wife.

equitable estoppel. A term which, for all practicable purposes, is the same as estoppel in pais; an estoppel of a party to plead or prove an otherwise important fact, because of something which he has done or omitted to do. 28 Am J2d Estop § 27.

See estoppel in pais.

equitable execution. Any one of the procedures whereby equity enforces its decrees; writ of assistance; sequestration; distringas, receivership, etc. 27 Am J2d Eq § 252.

equitable foreclosure. See foreclosure.

equitable garnishment. A form of judgment creditor's action, statutory proceeding under which, when an execution has been returned wholly or partly unsatisfied, the judgment creditor may maintain an action against the judgment debtor and any other person to compel the discovery of any property belonging to the judgment debtor, and of any money, thing in action, or other property due him, or held in trust for him, and to procure satisfaction of the judgment out of such property. Giest v St. Louis, 156 Mo 643, 57 SW 766.

equitable interest. See equitable right; equitable title.

equitable jointure. The satisfaction of a wife's right to dower made by a settlement before marriage, enforceable in equity where it consists of a competent livelihood to take effect upon the husband's death and to continue at least for the life of the wife, and was accepted by her in lieu of, or as the equivalent of, dower. 25 Am J2d Dow § 114.

equitable lien. A right, not recognized at law, to have a fund or specific property, or its proceeds, applied in whole or in part to the payment of a particular debt or class of debts. 33 Am J1st Liens § 18.

equitable maxim. See maxim.

equitable mortgage. An instrument not effective as a mortgage at law but regarded as a mortgage and given the effect of a mortgage in equity, the same as if a mortgage in due form had been executed, under various circumstances, such as the reservation of alien on property which is conveyed, an appropriation of specific property to secure the performance of an obligation, an attempt to create a mortgage, and an agreement to give a mortgage, provided the instrument does not merely assume that a lien has been or will be created, but purports through its own terms and efficacy to create the lien. 36 Am J1st Mtg § 13. Another term for vendor's lien. Gessner v Palmater, 89 Cal 89, 26 P 789.

See equitable chattel mortgage; imperfect mortgage.

equitable owner. See equitable title.

equitable partition. See partition.

equitable plaintiff. Broadly, the plaintiff in an action or suit in equity. Precisely, the holder of the beneficial interest where a suit has been instituted by or in the name of the holder of the legal title as nominal plaintiff for the benefit of the owner of the beneficial interest. 39 Am J1st Parties § 15.

[411]

equitable plea. A plea in an action at law which presents an equitable defense.

See equitable defense.

equitable rate of interest. A rate of interest chargeable against a fiduciary, as fixed by a court of equity, usually lower than the statutory rate. 30 Am J Rev ed Int § 35.

equitable recoupment. A reduction of the claim affirmatively urged in an action so far as in reason and action it ought to be reduced. Gooch Mill & Elevator Co. v Commissioner (CA8) 133 F2d 131, revd on other grounds 320 US 418, 88 L Ed 139, 64 S Ct 184. The doctrine of recoupment exists in equity as well as at law, and has been said to be equitable in nature. 20 Am J2d Count § 6.

See recoupment.

equitable rescission. Relief by way of rescission had in a court of equity without restoration by the plaintiff, prior to the commencement of the action, of that which he received from the defendant under the contract which he seeks to have rescinded. Morgan Munitions Supply Co. v Studebaker Corp. 226 NY 94, 123 NE 146.

equitable right. A right which equity will protect, even though it is not a legal right or title. 27 Am J2d Eq § 63. A right recognized by a court of equity and enforceable only by a court of equity, except as statutes or modern rules of practice have wiped out the distinction between an action at law and a suit in equity. Brown v Circuit Judge of Kalamazoo County, 75 Mich 274, 42 NW 831; Estate of Folwell, 68 NJ Eq 728, 62 A 414.

See equitable title.

equitable rule. Literally, the rule followed by equity courts. A rule which is just.

equitable seisin. By analogy to legal seisin, the possession of land coupled with the right to possess it by virtue of a freehold estate therein which equity will recognize and protect.

equitable servitude. See equitable easements.

equitable setoff. A remedy open to the defendant where, from the nature of the claim or the situation of the parties, it is impossible to obtain justice by plea or cross action—in other words, in those cases where, through no fault of the defendant, he has no adequate remedy at law. 20 Am J2d Countcl § 24.

equitable title. A title which is recognized as ownership in equity, whatever cognizance may be taken of it at law, for example, the title of the vendee under a contract for the sale of real estate. 56 Am J1st V & P § 356. A title which is not a legal title and is enforceable only in a court of equity, except as statutes or modern rules of practice have wiped out the distinction between an action at law or a suit in equity. A title derived through a valid contract or relation, and based on recognized equitable principles; the right in the party, to whom it belongs, to have the legal title transferred to him. Harris v Mason, 120 Tenn 668, 115 SW 1146; Estate of Folwell, 68 NJ Eq 728, 62 A 414.

equitable trust fund doctrine. See trust fund doctrine.

equitable waste. Acts which at law would not be deemed waste under the circumstances of the case, but which, in the view of a court of equity are regarded as waste from their manifest injury to the inheritance, although such acts are not inconsistent with the legal rights of the party who commits them. 56 Am J1st Waste § 5.

equitas. A corruption of aequitas.

equitatura. The equipment of a traveler.

equites aurati. Knights were called "aurati" from the gilt spurs which they wore, and "equites" because they always served on horseback. See 1 Bl Comm 404.

equities being equal, the law prevails. A maxim of equity, meaning that where two persons have equal equitable claims upon, or interests in, the same subject matter, or, in other words, if each is equally entitled to the protection and aid of a court of equity with respect to his equitable interest, and one of them in addition to his equity has obtained also the legal estate in the subject matter, he who thus has the legal estate will prevail. 27 Am J2d Eq § 150.

equity. A term having a variety of meanings. The mitigating principles, by the application of which substantial justice may be attained in particular cases wherein the prescribed or customary forms of ordinary law seem to be inadequate. A complex system of established law and jurisprudence. The standing of a party to claim relief. An interest in property which a court of equity will protect. 27 Am J2d Eq § 1.

See at law and in equity; bill in equity; court of equity; decree; equity term; in equity; strong arm of equity.

equity acts in personam. A maxim in equity. The Latin form, aequitas agit in personam. Schmaltz v York Mfg. Co. 204 Pa 1, 53 A 522.

Equity deals primarily with the person, and usually only through him with the res. Atlantic Seaboard Natural Gas Co. v Whitten, 315 Pa 529, 173 A 305, 93 ALR 615. The operation of the maxim has been greatly modified by statute. Although an equity court still has the power to act in personam, by force of statute, its judgment or decree also operates in rein to establish a title or right. 27 Am J2d Eq § 122.

equity aids no man to the injury of another. A maxim of equity. The Latin form is aequitas neminem juvat cum injuria alterius.

equity aids the vigilant and diligent. A maxim of equity, sometimes stated as "equity aids the vigilant, not the sluggards." The Latin form is aequitas subvenit vigilantibus non dormientibus. In application, the maxim is essentially the equivalent of the doctrine of estoppel. Equity will not take rights acquired by one who has been vigilant and give their benefit to one who has lost them through inaction. 27 Am J2d Eq § 130.

equity assists ignorance, but not carelessness. A maxim of equity. The Latin form is aequitas ignorantia opitulatur, oscitantiae non item. The meaning is that equity should deny relief to those who do not take care of themselves, and who thereby suffer losses which ordinary care would have prevented. Tackett v Bolling, 172 Va 326, 1 SE2d 285.

[412]

equity corrects a law which is too broad in that particular in which it is defective. A principle or maxim of equity. The Latin form is aequitas est correctio legis generaliter latae, qua parte deficit. Riggs v Palmer, 115 NY 506, 22 NE 188.

See equitable construction.

equity corrects errors. A familiar function of equity. 27 Am J2d Eq § 28. The Latin form is aequitas erroribus medetur.

equity court. See court of equity.

equity credits. The credits to which a member of a co-operative association is entitled in the revolving capital fund accumulated by the association from operating profits or a portion of the operating profits. 18 Am J2d Co-op Asso § 15.

equity delights in amicable adjustments. A maxim of equity; a maxim addressed to the judicial conscience and intended to govern the court in the determination of disputes between litigants. Troll v Spencer, 238 Mo 81, 141 SW 855.

equity dislikes superfluity. The Latin form is aequitas supervacua odit.

See equity regards substance and intent rather than form.

equity does justice completely, not by halves. A maxim of equity. 27 Am J2d Eq § 119.

equity does not change the nature of a thing. The Latin form is aequitas naturam rei non mutat.

equity does not confuse jurisdiction. The Latin form is aequitas jurisdictiones non confundit.

equity does not cure defects in positive requirements of the law. The Latin form is aequitas non medetur defectu eorum quae jure positivo requisita alium. 27 Am J2d Eq § 124.

equity does not make the law, but assists the law. A maxim of equity. The Latin form is aequitas non facit jus, sed juri auxiliatur.

equity does not permit a person to get double satisfaction for the same grievance. The Latin form of the principle is aequitas non sinit ut eandem rem duplici via simul quis persequatur.

equity does not suffer him who holds a true right to prosecute it to extremes. The Latin form of the principle is aequitas non sinit eum qui jus verum tenuit, extremum jus persequi.

equity does not supply those things which may be in the hands of the complainant. The Latin form of the principle is aequitas non supplet ea quae in manu orantis esse possunt.

equity favors the redemption of a pledge. An undoubted principle of equity. 41 Am J1st Pldg & Col § 105. The Latin form is aequitas rei oppignoratae redemptionibus favet.

equity follows the law. The Latin form is aequitas sequitur legem. A maxim of equity which is subject to various interpretations, but the main purpose seems to be to keep judicial action within the boundaries which have been established by the prior course of adjudication, in line with the precepts that equity will follow established rules and precedents and will not change or unsettle rights which are defined and established by existing legal principles. 27 Am J2d Eq § 123. Assuredly, equity is bound by statutes. 49 Am J1st Stat of F § 535.

equity for a settlement. A married woman's right, recognized and enforced by courts of equity, for a suitable allowance or a settlement out of her choses in action, interest in a decedent's estate, and other personalty which at common law became the property of her husband when he reduced them into his possession. 26 Am J1st H & W § 48.

equity for marshaling. See equity to marshal assets.

equity gives the power of the law to him who wishes to observe it. The Latin form of the principle is aequitas in eum qui vult summo jure agere summum jus intendit.

equity imputes an intention to fulfil an obligation. The maxim embodies a statement of a general presumption upon which a court of equity acts. It is commonly applied in cases involving the performance and satisfaction of covenants, the rule being that wherever a deceased person has covenanted to do an act and has done that which may pro tanto be considered as a performance of his covenant, he will be presumed to have done the act with that intention and his estate will be treated as if he had been a trustee to complete the performance. 27 Am 12d Eq § 128.

equity is a certain perfect reasoning which interprets and amends the written law; not embraced in any writing, but consisting simply in true reason. The Latin form is aequitas est perfecta quaedam ratio quae jus scriptum interpretatur et emendat; nulla scriptura comprehensa, sed solum in vera ratione consistens.

equity is a relaxing or alleviation of the law. It is a mitigating principle by the application of which substantial justice may be attained in particular cases wherein the prescribed or customary forms of law seem to be inadequate. 27 Am J2d Eq § 1. The Latin form of the principle is aequitas est laximentum juris. Pomeroy's Equity Jurisprudence, § 46.

equity is equality, and equality is equity. A maxim of equity. The Latin forms are aequitas est aequalitas and aequitas est quasi aequalitas. As sometimes stated, equity delights in equality. Equity treats all members of a class on an equal footing, and imposes burdens and distributes rights without preference, either equally or in proportion to the several interests. 27 Am J2d Eq § 125.

equity is not vague and uncertain but has fixed boundaries and limits. The Latin form of the statement is aequitas non vaga atque incerta est, sed terminos habet atque limites praefinitas. But a want of equity jurisdiction is not inferred from the novelty of the question. The fact that there is no precedent for the precise relief sought is not fatal to equity jurisdiction. 27 Am J2d Eq § 13.

[413]

equity jurisdiction. A broad and flexible jurisdiction to grant remedial relief where justice and good conscience demands it, but without purporting to create rights, being limited to determining what rights the parties have and whether or in what manner it is just and proper to enforce them. A jurisdiction in two categories, the one dependent upon the substantive character of the right sought to be enforced, the other dependent upon the inadequacy of the legal remedy. 27 Am J2d Eq § 5.

equity jurisprudence. That portion of our system of jurisprudence traditionally expounded and administered by courts of equity. 27 Am J2d Eq § 1. It remains a distinct part of the system, notwithstanding in many jurisdictions legal and equitable remedies have been commingled in one form of civil action and a court of general jurisdiction may hear both law and equity cases. 27 Am J2d Eq § 4.

equity never aids contention where it can give a remedy. The Latin form of the principle is aequitas nunquam liti ancillatur ubi remedium potest dare.

equity never contravenes the law. The Latin form of the principle is aequitas nunquam contravenit legis. The principle is a corollary of the principle that equity follows the law.

equity of partner. The right to have the partnership assets applied in liquidation of the partnership debts before any one of the partners or his creditors can claim any right or title to them, and to have the surplus assets divided among the members of the firm. 40 Am J1st Partn § 404.

equity of redemption. The right, recognized by courts of equity from early times, of a mortgagor, following a breach of the condition of the mortgage, to redeem property from the forfeiture by discharging the obligation secured within a reasonable period; such right is a real and beneficial estate in the land under the concept of a court of equity that despite its terms, a mortgage is a transaction of security, not of purchase. 36 Am J1st Mtg § 180.

See foreclosure.

equity of statute. The reason and spirit underlying a statute as aids to its interpretation. 50 Am J1st Stat § 304.

equity pleading. A pleading in a suit in equity, whether bill, complaint, petition, answer, plea, or cross bill, etc., governed by traditional equity practice. In most jurisdictions today, distinctive rules of equity pleading have been largely, if not entirely, supplanted by statutory provisions or rules of court which prescribe rules of pleading, especially in those jurisdictions where law and equity courts have been combined or in which there is but one form or kind of action in a civil case, known as a "civil action." 27 Am J2d Eq § 179.

equity prevents mischief. A maxim of equity, a maxim addressed to the judicial conscience. Funk v Voneida (Pa) 11 Serg & R 109.

equity receiver. A receiver appointed by a court by virtue of its equity jurisdiction and without reference to statutory authority. 45 Am J1st Rec § 3.

equity receivership. A remedy for the dissolution or reorganization of a corporation in financial distress.

equity regards as done that which ought to be done. A maxim of equity which means that a court of equity, in determining a dispute between litigants, regards and treats as done that which, in fairness and good conscience ought to be or should have been done. 27 Am J2d Eq § 126.

equity regards substance and intent, rather than form. A maxim of equity sometimes stated as "equity regards form and circumstance as of less consequence than the subject matter itself." The Latin form is aequitas rem ipsam intuetur de forma et circumstantiis minus anxia. The meaning of the maxim is that the rights of the parties are not to be sacrificed to the mere letter, but that the intent or spirit of a contract, agreement, or transaction will in equity at least be the paramount consideration. 27 Am J2d Eq § 127.

equity relieves against accidents. An undoubted principle of equity. 27 Am J2d Eq § 44. The Latin form of the principle is aequitas casibus medetur.

equity rules of practice. A set of rules supplanted by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, effective September 16, 1938. Schlaefler v Schlaefler, 71 App DC 350, 112 F2d 177.

equity seeks to do justice. A maxim of equity reflecting the principle that the first principle of equity is justice. Tompers v Bank of America, 217 App Div 691, 217 NYS 67.

equity side. The sitting of a court having jurisdiction in both law and equity but sitting for the time as a court of equity.

equity supplies defects. A maxim or principle of equity. 27 Am J2d Eq § 2. The Latin form is aequitas defectus supplet.

equity term. A term or session of court without a jury, such being the term at which equity cases are tried.

equity to a settlement. See equity for a settlement.

equity to marshal assets. The equity to marshal the assets, securities and funds of a debtor is the right of a creditor who has a junior lien on or interest in only a part of the assets, securities, or funds of the debtor to have a creditor who has a prior lien on or interest in the same assets, securities or funds, before resorting to the assets, securities and funds thus charged, to exhaust other assets, securities or funds of the debtor on which the prior creditor has a lien or in which he has an interest, but on which or in which the junior creditor has no lien or interest. 35 Am J1st Marsh A § 2.

equity which is prior in time is better in right. A principle or maxim of equity. The Latin form is qui prior est tempore potior est jure. The meaning is that where opposing equities are otherwise equal, the one which is prior in time is entitled to precedence or preference. 27 Am J2d Eq § 149.

equity will not do or require the doing of a vain or useless thing. A maxim of equity, meaning that a court of equity must look to the practicalities of the situation and the relief sought to be had. 27 Am J2d Eq § 119.

[414]

equity will not suffer a wrong to be without a remedy. A maxim of equity. The legal maxim is: Where there is a right, there is a remedy. 27 Am J2d Eq § 120.

equivalent. Adjective: Of equal value, weight, force, etc. Noun: A thing of equal value, weight, force, etc. In patent law, a device which accomplishes the same result as that achieved by a patent alleged to have been infringed. 40 Am J1st Pat § 156.

See seller's option.

equivocal. Possessing a double or doubtful meaning.

equivocum. A double meaning.

equuleus. A kind of rack which was employed by the Romans for the purpose of extorting the confessions of persons accused of crime.

era. A period of time characterized by outstanding events, such as Christian era, machine era, and atomic era.

eradication. The annihilation of something, for example, the suppression and prevention of animal diseases. 4 Am J2d Ani § 34.

Erant in Anglia quodammodo tot reges vel potius tyranni quot domini castellorum. There were in England as many kings or rather tyrants as there were lords of castles. See 1 Bl Comm 263.

Erant omnia communia et indivisa omnibus, veluti unum cunctis patrimonium esset. All things were common and undivided, as if there were a single patrimony for all. See 2 Bl Comm 3.

erase. To rub, scrape, or wipe out.

erasure. A rubbing, scraping, or wiping out; a method of alteration of an instrument. 4 Am J2d Alt Inst § 36. Sometimes an effective revocation of a will or a portion of a will. 57 Am J1st Wills §§ 502 et seq.

See obliteration.

erection. The construction of a building or structure complete from the ground up or of some part of the building or structure, such as the foundation, a pillar, or support, even a driveway serving the building or structure. Red Lake Falls Milling Co. v Thief River Falls, 109 Minn 52, 122 NW 872. A building or structure. Strauss v Ginzberg, 218 Minn 57, 15 NW2d 130, 155 ALR 1000.

erer. To plough.

ergo. Therefore; consequently; accordingly.

ergo hic. Therefore here.

ergot. A drug sometimes used in abortions, the tendency of which is to contract the uterus and throw out the foetus. State v Alcorn, 7 Idaho 599, 64 P 1014.

Erie R. Co. v Tompkins. A landmark case, overruling a doctrine theretofore followed for many years, and establishing the doctrine that, under the Federal Judiciary Act, except as to matters governed by the United States Constitution, Acts of Congress, or treaties, the law to be applied in any case in the federal court is the law of the state, and that the phrase "the laws of the several states" refers, not only to state law as enacted by the state legislature, but to the law of a state as declared by its highest court, whether the law thus declared is local in nature or is general, common, or commercial. The case is reported in 304 US 64, 82 L Ed 1188, 58 S Ct 817, 114 ALR 1487, and the case long cited as authority for the principle which was overruled is Swift v Tyson (US) 16 Pet 1, 10 L Ed 865.

erigimus. We establish; we erect.

erosion. The gradual eating away of the soil by the operation of currents or tides, so that the portion of land which is eaten away is lost to the riparian or littoral owner, except and until it be restored to him by accretion. Mulry v Norton, 100 NY 426, 3 NE 581. A gradual wearing away or disintegration from any cause.

erotic mania. A form of mental disease better known in modern times as nymphomania.

See nymphomania.

errant. Wandering; itinerant; traveling from place to place.

See bailiff errant.

erraticum. Same as estray.

erroneous. Wrong, mistaken. Particularly, in reference to a determination made by a court. Deviating from, or contrary to, the law, as an erroneous ruling. It means or imports the power to act, but error in its exercise. The word does not appear to be used either by courts or text writers as applying to a corrupt or evil act. Mitchell v Bowers (CA9 Cal) 15 F2d 285.

erroneous judgment. A judgment rendered according to the course and practice of the courts, but contrary to law; that is, based upon an erroneous application of legal principles. Stafford v Gallops, 123 NC 19, 21.

erroneously or illegally charged. As used in a statute providing for a refund of taxes so exacted, the phrase is held to refer to a jurisdictional defect as distinguished from a mere error of judgment, and it is generally held that no recovery of taxes paid under protest can be had under such statutes on the theory that there has been a mistake in the valuation of the property, which resulted in an excessive assessment. Anno: 110 ALR 670.

erronice. Erroneously; through error or mistake.

error. A mistake of law or fact; a mistake of the court in the trial of an action; a writ to review a judgment of an inferior court in a higher court for errors appearing on the face of the record. A proceeding under a writ of error, distinct, under the older practice, from an appeal, in respect primarily of the scope of review, the typical error proceeding calling for a trial de novo. 4 Am J2d A & E § 2.

See appeal and error; assignable error; assignment of errors; clerical error; common error; confession of error; cross errors; favorable error; fundamental error; harmless error; invited error; judicial error; palpable; prejudicial error; proceeding in error; reversible error; substantial error; technical error; writ of error.

error apparent. A manifest, plain, or obvious error. An error on the face of a proceeding, in the pleadings, judgment, or decree, as distinguished from an error in the evidence discoverable only upon the examination of the record. Milliken v McKenzie (Tex Civ App) 285 SW 1110, 1111.

error coram nobis. See coram nobis.

[415]

error coram vobis. See coram vobis.

Errores ad sua principia referre, est refellere. To refer errors to their source is to refute them.

Error fucatus nuda veritate in multis est probabilior, et saepenumero rationibus vincit veritatem error. Error disguised is in many instances more probable than naked truth, and error very often overcomes truth in argument.

error in extremis. A mistake committed in good faith while in great danger, so that it must be weighed according to a standard different from that applied to an error committed under less distressing and distracting circumstances. 48 Am J1st Ship § 233.

error juris. An error or mistake of law; ignorance of law.

Error juris nocet. An error of law works an injury.

error lapsus. An error by mistake or slip, as distinguished from an error through ignorance, as by ignorance of law.

Error nominis nunquam nocet, si de identitate rei constat. A mistake or error in a name is never prejudicial, if the identity of the thing is clear.

error of fact. A mistake of fact as distinguished from a mistake of law. A finding of fact by the trial court contrary to the weight of the evidence. Southern Surety Co. v United States (CA8 NM) 23 F2d 55, 59.

See ignorance of fact; mistake of fact.

error of judgment. A mistaken conclusion. Not negligence if committed in good faith in the observance of the standard or ordinary or reasonable care. 38 Am J2d Negl § 33.

If one, assuming to act as an expert, has knowledge of the facts and circumstances connected with the duty he is about to perform, and, bringing to bear all his experience and skill, weighs those facts and circumstances, and decides upon a course of action which he faithfully attempts to carry out, his want of success would be due to error of judgment, and not to negligence. Luka v Lowrie, 171 Mich 122, 136 NW 1106.

Although a druggist is not necessarily responsible for the results of an error of judgment which is reconcilable and consistent with the exercise of ordinary skill and care, a presumption or an inference sufficient to require the druggist to disprove negligence arises upon proof of mistake or inadvertence on his part. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 56.

error proceeding. See proceeding in error.

Error qui non resistitur approbatur. An error which is not objected to is waived.

Error scribentis nocere non debet. An error or mistake of a scrivener ought not to prejudice.

Erubescit lex filios castigare parentes. The law blushes at reproofs which children administer to their parents.

erysipelas. A painful affection of the skin, or mucous membrane, characterized by local inflammation and fever. Owing's Case (Md) 1 Bland Ch 370. An affliction of the body, but not a mental or bodily infirmity within the meaning of a warranty in an insurance policy. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 749.

esartum. Same as assart.

escaeta. Same as escheat.

escaetor. Same as escheator.

escalator. A power-driven moving stairway, used in department stores, airports, underground parking places, banks, office buildings, etc., made up of interconnected platforms and risers, usually of grooved metal, normally inclined at an angle of about 45 degrees, so constructed that it can be moved either up or down, at speeds which may be varied within limits, and having the distinguishing characteristics of being in constant motion, operating under the control of neither attendant nor passenger, and available to passengers so that they enter and leave the conveyance at any floor by merely stepping on and off. 26 Am J2d Elev § 78. An elevator within the meaning of the double indemnity provision of an accident insurance policy. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1235.

escalator clause. A clause in a contract of sale or lease, made during a period when prices and rentals are limited in amount by law, which gives the vendor or landlord the benefit of such increases in the price or rent as may be made by law during the life of the contract or lease.

escaldare. To scald.

escambio. Exchange; a writ to authorize the drawing of bills of exchange on persons who are in a foreign country.

escambio monetae. See de escambio monetae.

escambium. Exchange.

escape. A criminal offense at common law, and by statute in most jurisdictions, consisting in the unlawful departure of a legally confined prisoner from custody or the act of a prisoner in regaining his liberty before being released in due course of law. The criminal offense committed by a jailer, warden, or other custodian of a prisoner in permitting him to depart from custody unlawfully. 27 Am J2d Escape § 1. In common usage, the flight of a person seeking to avoid arrest, also any act or movement by a person to avoid a peril. An animal's departing the custody of its owner, the effects of which, in the case of an animal ferae naturae, is to deprive the owner of his rights as such. 4 Am J2d Ani § 19.

See prison breaking; rescue.

escape clause. A clause in the lease of a tenant-stockholder in a cooperative apartment which permits him to assign his stock and lease to the cooperative association without receiving compensation therefor but enabling him to escape continuing liability to the association for payments otherwise coming due under the lease. 15 Am J2d Con Apt § 27. A clause in a contract relieving a promisor of liability for nonperformance in the event of contingent developments rendering performance impossible. 17 Am J2d Contr § 404.

escape warrant. A warrant which directed any sheriff in England to arrest a person who had escaped from an imprisonment on civil process.

escaping fire. A fire which has spread out of the place where it is ordinarily maintained, thereby becoming a "hostile fire." 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1287.

[416]

escaping substances. The doctrine, often called the doctrine of Rylands v Fletcher, or Fletcher v Rylands (LR 1 Exch 265, LR 3 HL 330, 4 Hurlst & C 263, 1 Eng Rul Cas 236), that a person who, for his own purposes, brings on his lands and collects and keeps there anything likely to do mischief if it escapes must keep it in at his peril; and if he does not do so, he is prima facie liable for all the damage which is the natural consequence of its escape. 38 Am J1st Negl § 139.

escapium. An escape; an accident; that which happened by chance.

eschaeta. See de eschaeta.

Eschaetae vulgo discutur quae decidentibus its quae de rege tenent, cum non existit ratione sanguinis haeres, ad fiscum relabuntur. They are commonly called escheats which, upon the dying out of those who hold of the king when there is no heir by consanguinity, revert to the treasury.

Esch Car Service Act. See car service.

escheat. An obstruction of the course of descent by chance or accident. 27 Am J2d Esch § 1. The preferable right of the state to an estate left vacant because of the absence of persons legally entitled to make claim thereto. University of North Carolina v High Point, 203 NC 558, 166 SE 511. The reversion of property to the state when the title fails. Delaney v State, 42 ND 630, 174 NW 290. The state does not take as an heir; escheat is not succession. 27 Am J2d Esch § 1.

A word deriving from the French or Norman French which, in its most comprehensive scope, means the reversion or forfeiture of property to the government upon the happening of some chance event or default. 27 Am J2d Esch § 1. In England, real estate escheats, but the Crown takes personal property, where there is no owner, that is bona vacantia. 27 Am J2d Esch § 1.

escheat grant. See escheat patent.

escheator. An English county officer who looked into and made report of escheats reverting to the king. A public officer or public body upon whom rests the duty of bringing actions for escheat or for a sale or conveyance of escheated lands. 27 Am J2d Esch § 32.

escheat patent. The formal deed or conveyance by which escheated lands are regranted by the state. 27 Am J2d Esch § 43.

escheat propter defectum sanguinis. Escheat for failure of blood relations.

escheat propter delictum tenentis. Escheat for the fault of the tenant; as through the attainder of the tenant.

escheat warrant. Same as escheat patent.

escheceum. A jury; an inquisition.

eschoir. To escheat.

escippare. To ship. Same as eskipper.

escribano. A term encountered in Spanish-American grants, being the name of an officer whose functions are quite similar to those of a notary public under our law. Panaud v Jones, 1 Cal 488, 502.

escrier. To proclaim.

escript. A writing; a written instrument.

escrit. Same as escript.

escritura. (Spanish.) A deed; a writing; a written instrument.

escrow. A written instrument which by its terms imports a legal obligation and which is deposited by the grantor, promisor, or obligor, or his agent, with a stranger or third party to be kept by the depository until the performance of a condition or the happening of a certain event, and to be delivered over to the grantee, promisee, or obligee. 28 Am J2d Escr § 1.

In its origin, the doctrine of escrow applied only to deeds of grant or conveyances of land, but it was soon extended to other sealed instruments and has come to apply to a variety of instruments, including bonds, contracts for the sale of land, contracts for the purchase of personal property, corporate stocks, deeds, discontinuances and releases of cause of action, contracts for the settlement of will contests, commercial paper, applications for insurance, and subscription papers. 28 Am J2d Escr § 2.

See delivery as an escrow.

escrow account. A bank account created by a special deposit to be held in escrow and returned to the depositor upon the occurrence of a specified contingency. 10 Am J2d Banks § 366.

escrow holder. The third party to an escrow.

See escrow.

escrowl. Same as escrow.

escuage. Also called "scutagium," or "servitium scuti," derived from "scutum," which was at one time a common word for money, and meaning the pecuniary satisfaction which a tenant paid to his lord for a release from the troublesome and inconvenient personal attendance of knightservice. At first the tenant was permitted to send a substitute and later escuage developed. See 2 Bl Comm 74.

See king-geld.

esketoires. Robbers; pillagers.

Eskimos. Native inhabitants of Alaska, so similar in features to Orientals, especially Orientals in Siberia across the Bering Sea from Alaska, as to suggest what many anthropologists state after scientific observations, that they emigrated from Siberia some thousands of years ago. Classified as Indians by statute. United States v First Nat. Bank, 234 US 245, 58 L Ed 1298, 34 S Ct 846.

eskipmentum. The tackle of a ship; skippage.

eskippare. To ship.

eslier. To choose; to select.

eslisor. Same as elisor, a person who chose or selected a jury.

esloigner. Same as eloign.

esne. A person in a condition of servitude.

esnecy. The right or privilege of seniority. The privilege or prerogative given to the eldest among coparceners, to have the first choice after the inheritance is divided.

espera. The time which a court has fixed for the performance of an act.

esperons. Spurs.

[417]

espionage. Spying, especially for military purposes; a criminal offense where the activity is employed against the United States. 47 Am J1st Sedit Etc. § 5. The obtaining of national defense information and communicating it to a foreign nation in time of war. Rosenberg v United States, 346 US 273, 97 L Ed 1607, 73 S Ct 1152.

Espionage Act. The federal statute which denounces and provides for the punishment of actual espionage and deals in addition with a wide variety of matters relating to and connected with the national defense and war activities of the United States. 50 USC §§ 31 et seq.

esplees. The products and profits of land which it yields, such as the hay of the meadows, the herbage of the pasture land, the corn of the arable land, rents, services, etc. Fosgate v Herkimer Mfg. & Hydraulic Co. (NY) 9 Barb 287, 293.

espousals. The mutual promises of a man and a woman to marry each other.

espouse. To engage to marry; to give or bestow in marriage; to engage in the defense of another; as, to espouse his cause.

espurio. (Spanish.) A spurious offspring; a bastard.

esq. An abbreviation of esquire.

esquire. The term is applied to barristers-at-law, and in the United States it is customary to append the title to attorneys at law in addressing them by letter.

Blackstone has said it is a matter somewhat unsettled what constitutes the distinction between a gentleman and an esquire, or who is a real esquire. See 1 Bl Comm 406.

essart. Wooded land which has been cleared and cultivated.

essartum. Same as essart.

esse. To be; being; to appear.

See in esse.

essence. The gist or substance of anything; the vital constituent of a thing.

See time is of the essence.

essence of the contract. The gist or substance or vital constituent of the contract; an important part of a contract.

essendi quietam de theolonia. An exemption from the payment of tolls.

essendo quietum de theolonio. See de essendo, etc.

essentialia negotii. The essentials of the transaction or business.

Esse optime constitutam republicam quae ex tribus generibus illis, regali, optimo, et populari, sit modice confusa.

That the best constituted republic is that which is moderately composed of three elements, royalty, aristocracy and democracy.
1 Bl Comm 50.

essoign. An excuse made to the court by a defendant who failed to appear according to the summons of a writ. See 3 Bl Comm 278.

essoign day. That day of a term of court, which was called the essoign day of the term, upon which the court sat to take or hear essoigns. See 3 Bl Comm 278.

essoign roll. The record of essoigns.

essoin. Same as essoign.

essoin day. Same as essoign day.

essoin de infirmitate. An essoign of illness or infirmity.

essoin de mal de lit. Same as essoin de malo lecti. essoin de mal de venue. Same as essoin de malo veniendi.

essoin de malo lecti. An essoign that the defendant was sick in his bed.

essoin de malo veniendi. An essoign that the defendant met with an accident on his journey to court.

essoin de outre mer. Same as essoin de ultra mer.

essoin de servitio regis. An essoign that the defendant was away in the service of the king.

essoin de terra sancta. An essoign that the defendant was absent in the holy land.

essoin de terre seynte. Same as essoin de terra sancta.

essoin de ultra mer. An essoign that the defendant was beyond seas.

essoineour. Same as essoiniator. essoiniator. The person who presented an essoign to the court in behalf of the defendant who failed to appear.

essoin service del roy. Same as essoin de servitio regis.

est. It is; he is; there is.

establish. To originate, to create; to found and set up; to put or fix on a firm basis; to put in a settled or efficient state or condition. State, ex rel. Bragg v Rogers, 107 Ala 444, 19 So 909.

As used in an instruction requiring a party to clearly "establish" a fact by evidence, it means to settle certainly or fix permanently what was before uncertain, doubtful, or disputed, and is therefore improper as applied to the party having the burden of proof in a civil case, in that it requires too high a degree of proof, that is, it requires a higher degree than is reached by a mere preponderance, which is sufficient. Fisher v Travelers' Ins. Co. 124 Tenn 450, 138 SW 316.

To establish may mean to settle or fix unalterably, but that is not its necessary meaning. As used in a statute authorizing the establishment of water rates, the word does not convey the idea of permanency and it has no such meaning. The power of the board is not exhausted by one exercise nor has its result unalterable fixity. Knowlton v Moore, 178 US 22, 38, 44 L Ed 961, 969, 20 S Ct 860.

established business. A business which has an element of fixity and permanence. A doctor's office or a farm of a farmer, which is the locally established center from which he distributes what he has to sell may be said to be a place where he has an established business. Allen v Commonwealth, 188 Mass 59, 74 NE 287.

established highway. A highway which has been located, created by dedication, prescription, or by the direct action of the public authorities, and opened for use by the people of the state at their pleasure for the purpose of travel. Palatka & Indian River Railroad Co. v State, 23 Fla 546.

[418]

establishing a market. Nothing more than designating a space within a city or town where goods of a certain character may be bought and sold. 35 Am J1st Mark & M § 4.

establishing credit. See opening a credit.

establishment. The fixing of something on a firm basis; making certain that which before was uncertain. The place in which one is permanently fixed for residence or business; residence with grounds, furniture, equipage, etc., with which one is fitted out; also, any office or place of business, with its fixtures. Trustees of Academy v Bohler, 80 Ga 159, 162. An industrial plant or other place of employment. Matson Terminals v California Employment Com. 24 Cal 2d 695, 151 P2d 202.

establishment clause. The provision of the First Amendment to the Constitution of the United States concerning establishment of religion, the meaning of which is that neither a state nor the federal government can set up a church; neither can pass laws which aid one religion, aid all religions, or prefer one religion over another; neither can force nor influence a person to go to or remain away from church against his will or force him to profess a belief or disbelief in any religion. Illinois ex rel. McCollum v Board of Education, 33 US 203, 92 L Ed 649, 68 S Ct 461, 2 ALR2d 1338; Everson v Board of Education, 330 US 1, 91 L Ed 711, 67 S Ct 504, 168 ALR 392, reh den 330 US 855, 91 L Ed 1297, 67 S Ct 962.

establishment of dower. Same as assignment of dower.

establishment of grade. The fixing of the grade of a street or highway at an official grade, either by a direct act of the legislature or under authority delegated by the legislature to municipalities, or to private corporations or individuals. Nicholsen v New York, N. H. R. Co. 22 Conn 74. Required in some jurisdictions as a condition precedent to improvement. 25 Am J1st High § 59.

establishment of heirship. A part of the ordinary administration of an estate, either by one claiming the right under the statute to administer, or by one claiming a distributive share. An incident of some action in which the court has general jurisdiction. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 104.

See heirship proceeding.

establishment of religion. See establishment clause.

estadal. A Spanish lineal measure equivalent to about eleven English feet.

estadia. (Spanish.) The time for which demurrage is chargeable for the delay of the charterer or the consignee in unloading the cargo of a vessel.

Est aliquid quod non oportet, etiam si licet; quicquid vero non licet certe non oportet. A thing may not be proper, although it is lawful, but certainly anything which is not lawful is not proper.

est ascavoir. It is understood; that is to say; to wit; viz. For practical purposes, synonymous with scilicet.

estate. In the pristine technical sense, the degree, quantity, nature, and extent of interest which a person has in real property. 28 Am J2d Est § 1.

Otherwise, a word of several meanings, neither of which imports a legal entity: the property left by a decedent, the property of a ward, a mentally incompetent person, or a bankrupt; in its most popular sense including both real and personal property. Re Glassford's Estate, 114 Cal App 2d 908, 34 ALR2d 1259. Including every vested right and interest attached to and growing out of property. Lee v Hill, 87 Va 497, 12 SE 1052. Including tangible and intangible property. Anno: 34 ALR2d 1271. Including even a contract of employment for personal services. Lee v Hill, 87 Va 497, 12 SE 1052. When used in a will, usually, but not necessarily, comprehending all property of the testator whether real or personal in character. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1337. It includes both real and personal property, and is sufficient to pass a fee in land, unless restricted by words expressing a different intention. It has long been held that the devise of all a man's "estate," where there are no words to restrain or control its operation, should be construed not merely to mean his lands, but the quantity of interest which he has in them. The word may likewise include an equitable interest. However, the word "estate" in a will is not to be understood as a word of art, but of interpretation, and its meaning may be affected by other clauses and disposition in the will. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1337.

A person's degree or rank in life.

estate at sufferance. Same as estate by sufferance.

estate at will. A lease of lands or tenements to be held at the will of the lessor but actually determinable at the will of either party. 28 Am J2d Est §§ 130, 131. The estate of a tenant who has entered upon the premises under a lease to hold during the joint wills of the parties. Public Service Co. v Voudomas, 84 NH 387, 151 A 81, 70 ALR 480.

estate by elegit. The interest of a creditor in land of which he is in possession by virtue of a writ of elegit. 2 Bl Comm 160.

estate by entirety. An estate predicated on the legal unity of husband and wife, being taken, upon a conveyance or devise to them, to hold as a single person with the right of survivorship as an incident, so that when one dies, the entire estate belongs to the other by virtue of the title originally vested. 26 Am J1st H & W § 66.

estate by new acquisition. Same as estate by purchase.

estate by purchase. An estate acquired by sale or gift, or by any other method, except only that of descent, there being no distinction known to the law between a gift or devise by a stranger, and a gift or devise by an ancestor. See Hall v Jacobs (Md) 4 Harr & J 245, 254, wherein the question was as to whether an estate became vested in the deceased by descent or by purchase so as to admit the half blood.

estate by statute merchant. The interest or estate of the creditor in land conveyed to him under the statute 13 Edward I, De Mercatoribus, and therefore called a statute merchant. This conveyance was by way of security to be held by the creditor as "tenant by statute merchant" until the income and profits from the land conveyed should discharge the debt, which was an ascertained and definite sum. This transaction was entered into between the parties before the chief magistrate of some trading town. See 2 Bl Comm 160.

[419]

estate by statute staple. The interest or estate of the creditor in land conveyed to him under the statute 27 Edward III. c. 9, before the mayor of the staple, that is the grand mart for the principal commodities or manufactures of the kingdom in certain trading towns, and therefore called a statute staple. This conveyance was by way of security to be held by the creditor as "tenant by statute staple" until the income and profits from the land thus held by him should discharge the debt which was an ascertained and definite sum. See 2 Bl Comm 160.

estate by sufferance. A holding by one who came into possession rightfully, after the termination of the interest under which he came into possession, for example, the continuance in possession after the termination of a life estate by a person who had entered under a lease from the life tenant. 28 Am J2d Est §§ 130, 131.

See tenancy at sufferance.

estate by the curtesy. See curtesy.

estate duty. See estate tax.

estate for years. An estate which must expire at a period certain, fixed in advance. United States v First Nat. Bank (CA5 Ala) 74 F2d 360. An interest arising from an agreement or contract for the possession of lands or tenements for some definite period, such estate being regarded at common law as a chattel. 28 Am J2d Est § 136. A chattel real rather than real estate, except as a contrary definition is provided by statute or a reasonable construction of a will in which the term appears demands that it be deemed inclusive of a leasehold. Anno: 103 ALR 826; 57 Am J1st Wills § 1337.

estate from year to year. An estate for an uncertain term for which an annual rent is reserved. See 2 Bl Comm 147.

See tenancy from year to year.

estate in bankruptcy. Assets which vest in the trustee in bankruptcy. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 847.

estate in common. The common estate of persons holding as tenants in common. 20 Am J2d Coten § 2.

estate in coparcenary. An estate known to the common law but virtually obsolete under modern statutes, whereby joint heirs hold as tenants in common. 20 Am J2d Coten § 1.

estate in dead pledge. See dead pledge.

estate in expectancy. See expectant estate.

estate in fee. See fee simple.

estate in fee conditional. See fee conditional.

estate in fee simple. See fee simple.

estate in fee tail. See fee tail.

estate in gage. See dead pledge; living pledge; mortgage; pledge.

estate in joint tenancy. An estate held by two or more persons jointly, with equal rights to share in its enjoyment during their lives, and having as its distinguishing feature the right of survivorship, by virtue of which the entire estate goes to the survivor (or in case of more than two joint tenants, to the survivors, and so on to the last survivor), free and exempt from all charges made by his deceased cotenant or cotenants. 20 Am J2d Coten § 3.

estate in land. The degree, quantity, nature, or extent of interest which a person has in land. Robertson v Vancleave, 129 Ind 217, 29 NE 781.

See estate; landed estate.

estate in mortuo vadio. Estate in dead pledge.

See dead pledge; mortgage.

estate in pledge. See dead pledge; living pledge; mortgage; pledge.

estate in plurality. An estate in which there is always a plurality of tenants, that is, more than one. Such estates are of three varieties, estates in joint tenancy, estates in coparcenary and estates in common. See 2 Bl Comm 179.

estate in possession. An estate under which the owner has an immediate right to the possession of the land. Sage v Wheeler, 3 AD 38, 37 NYS 1107.

See vested estate.

estate in remainder. See remainder.

estate in reversion. See reversion.

estate in severalty. An estate held by a person as the sole tenant thereof in his own right only, without any other person being joined or connected with him in point of interest, during his estate therein. This is the most common and usual way of holding an estate, and all estates are supposed to be of this sort unless expressly declared to be otherwise. See 2 Bl Comm 179.

estate in vadio. Estate in pledge.

See dead pledge; living pledge; mortgage; pledge.

estate in vivo vadio. Estate in living pledge.

See living pledge.

estate jure uxoris. See jure uxoris estate.

estate less than freehold. Any estate the duration of which is regarded in law as being less than that of a life estate, in real property either corporeal or incorporeal. An estate for years, an estate at will, or an estate at sufferance. Decatur Coal Co. v Clokey, 332 Ill 253, 163 NE 702.

estate not of inheritance. A freehold estate for life. See 2 Bl Comm 104. Broadly, any interest, whether in real or personal property, which passes to the executor or administrator rather than directly to the heir or heirs. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 18.

estate of cestui que trust. See trust estate.

estate of deceased person. Broadly speaking, such an estate may be deemed to exist only from the death of the decedent until it is finally wound up by an order of the court having jurisdiction of it. After the property of the decedent's estate has been paid out or otherwise distributed to those entitled thereto in accordance with the court's orders, and thereupon the estate has been declared closed, it can no longer be said to exist. State ex rel. Petters & Co. v District Court, 76 Mont 143, 245 P 529.

See administration; administrator; descent; executor; heirs, probate; residuary estate.

estate of freehold. See freehold.

estate of freehold not of inheritance. A freehold estate which does not pass to the heirs of the holder but is only for his lifetime or that of another person. Such estates are conventional, that is, expressly created by the acts of the parties; or they are legal, that is, they are created by construction and operation of law. See 2 Bl Comm 119.

estate of inheritance. A freehold interest in land, otherwise called a fee, where the tenant is not only entitled to enjoy the land for his own life, but where, after his death, it is passed by the law upon the person or persons who successfully represent him in perpetuum in right of blood, according to a certain established order of descent. 28 Am J2d Est § 8.

[420]

estate of tenant by the curtesy initiate. See tenant by the curtesy initiate.

estate of trustee. See trust estate.

estate on condition. An estate in real property with a qualification annexed by which it may, on the happening of a particular event, be created, enlarged, or destroyed. Munro v Syracuse L. S. & N. R. R. Co. 200 NY 224, 93 NE 516. The conditions annexed to estates are those implied by law and those expressed in the grant or devise which creates the estate. Express conditions are those declared or set forth in the instrument creating an estate or superimposed by a collateral agreement. Conditions implied in law are those which the law itself annexes to either certain estates or estates held under certain circumstances. 28 Am J2d Est § 132.

See fee conditional.

estate on condition precedent. See condition precedent.

estate on condition subsequent. See condition subsequent.

estate pur autre vie. An estate which is to endure for the life of a person other than the grantee or devisee. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 3.

estates of the realm. One of the two constituent parts of parliament, consisting of the lords spiritual, the lords temporal and the commons, the other part being the king. The king and these three estates form the great corporation or body politic of the kingdom, of which the king is the head. See 1 Bl Comm 153.

estate tail. See fee tail.

estate tail after possibility of issue extinct. See fee tail after possibility of issue extinct.

estate tail female. See fee tail female.

estate tail general. See fee tail general.

estate tail male. See fee tail male.

estate tail special. See fee tail special.

estate tax. A tax upon the transmission of property by a deceased person, that is, upon the privilege of transmitting property. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 5. A tax imposed upon the net or taxable estate of a decedent without reference to the relationship of the recipients to the decedent or to the amount which a recipient takes. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 5. A tax upon the transfer of property at death by a decedent, as distinguished from a succession tax, which, in its essence, is a tax upon the right to receive property from the estate of a decedent. McLaughlin v Grenn, 136 Conn 138, 69 A2d 289, 15 ALR2d 1210.

See Federal estate tax.

estate upon condition. Same as estate on condition.

estate upon condition expressed in grant or devise. See estate on condition.

estate upon condition implied in law. See estate on condition.

estate upon limitation. See estate on condition; words of limitation.

estate vested in interest. See vested estate.

estate vested in possession. An estate whereof there is a right of present enjoyment. 28 Am J2d Est § 2.

See vested estate.

estate vested subject to defeasance. An estate subject to a condition subsequent. Anno: 131 ALR 712.

See condition subsequent.

Est autem jus publicum et privatum, quod ex naturalibus praeceptis aut gentium, aut civilibus est collectum; et quod in jure scripto jus appellatur id in lege Angliae rectum esse dicitur. Public and private law is that which is collected from natural precepts or from nations or from citizens; and that which in the written law is called "jus," in the law of England is called "right."

Est autem vis legem simulans. Violence may also be masquerading as law.

Est boni judicis ampliare jurisdictionem. It is the duty of a good judge to interpret his jurisdiction liberally.

este. Been.

ester in judgment. To enter an appearance as a party to a pending action.

esthetic. See aesthetic.

estimate. Verb: To form an opinion from data as to the weight, value, etc. of something. Duncan v National Mut. Fire Ins. Co. 44 Colo 472, 98 P 634. Noun: An approximation or rough calculation of the size, weight, etc. of something.

estimated. The equivalent of more or less. Jeffreys v Weekly, 81 Or 140, 158 P 522. Appearing in a written contract, an indication that the quantity or amount of the subject matter is not attempted to be stated with mathematical exactness, and that the instrument must not be interpreted as if it contained an exact statement of the quantity or amount. 17 Am J2d Contr § 282. In connection with the designation of the amount of goods to be delivered under a contract of sale, it is an indefinite term comparable to the terms "about" or "more or less," and does not require or constitute a guaranty that the amount so estimated will be delivered. 46 Am J1st Sales § 156. A word of precaution in describing an area of land, intended to cover slight and unimportant inaccuracies. 55 Am J1st V & P § 131.

estimated cost. The reasonable cost of a building erected in accordance with certain plans and specifications, not necessarily the amount of some actual estimate made by a builder, an estimate agreed upon by the parties, or an estimate or bid duly accepted. Lambert v Sanford, 55 Conn 437, 12 A 519.

estimated tax. An income tax estimated as to amount, prior to the actual accrual of the entire income, as a basis for payment in instalments during the year and, if the taxpayer is employed, for withholding of a certain amount by the employer from each salary or wage payment, to be turned over to the government and credited to the employee in his income tax return for the year in which withheld.

[421]

estimation. See by estimation; estimate; estimated.

Est ipsorum legislatorum tanquam viva vox; rebus et non verbis legem imponimus. The voice of the lawmakers is like the living voice; we impose law upon things and not upon words. The meaning of the maxim is that legislative acts should be interpreted as ordinary language is understood.

esto. Be it; let it be.

estop. To bar; to stop; to prevent; to operate as an estoppel.

See estoppel.

esto perpetua. Be it perpetual or everlasting.

estopped. See estoppel.

estoppel. A bar which stoppeth a person or closes up his mouth to allege or plead what actually may be the truth. 2 Coke, Littleton 352a. A bar which precludes a person from denying or asserting anything to the contrary of that which has, in contemplation of law, been established as the truth, either by the acts of judicial or legislative officers or by his own deed or representations, express or implied. 28 Am J2d Estop § 1.

A waiver, being the intentional relinquishment of a known right, is consensual in nature and is distinguished from an estoppel which is not consensual, but is given effect to defeat the inequitable intent of the party estopped. Seavey v Erickson, 244 Minn 232, 69 NW2d 889, 52 ALR2d 1144.

The elements of estoppel by acts or representations are reliance by a person entitled to rely on the acts and representations, the misleading of such person, and, in consequence, a change of position to his detriment, so that the person responsible for the misleading will not be permitted to deny the truth of his own statements, express or implied. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1009. Although the terms "waiver" and "estoppel" are not convertible, the distinction between the two terms is not entirely clear in insurance cases. Grantham v State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. 126 Cal App 2d Supp 855, 272 P2d 959, 48 ALR2d 1088.

See judicial estoppel; promissory estoppel; waiver.

estoppel by bond. The preclusion of a party to a bond to deny the truth of the recitals in the instrument, the estoppel operating similarly to estoppel by deed. 28 Am J2d Estop § 25.

estoppel by conduct. An equitable estoppel or estoppel in pais. 28 Am J2d Estop § 27.

See estoppel in pais.

estoppel by contract. A bar against denying the truth of facts agreed upon and settled by force of entering into a contract. Gress v Gress (Tex Civ App) 209 SW2d 1003, 15 ALR2d 700; a bar arising from acts done under or in performance of the contract. Re Schofield's Estate, 101 Colo 443, 73 P2d 1381.

estoppel by deed. A bar which precludes one party to a deed and his privies from asserting as against the other party and his privies any right or title in derogation of the deed or from denying the truth of any material facts asserted in it. 28 Am J2d Estop §§ 4, 5, 8.

estoppel by inaction. See estoppel by silence; estoppel by standing.

estoppel by judgment. Technically, the bar of a judgment against the relitigation of particular facts and issues, but used sometimes to indicate a bar against the relitigation of particular causes of action. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 328.

See res judicata.

estoppel by mortgage. An estoppel operating from the recitals in the bond or the mortgage, similar to estoppel by deed.

See estoppel by bond; estoppel by deed.

estoppel by oath. The bar of a party to deny in subsequent litigation that which he has previously stated on oath in a former litigation, in a pleading, deposition, or oral testimony. Such bar is limited in most jurisdictions to persons who were parties to the former suit. 28 Am J2d Estop § 71.

estoppel by record. The preclusion to deny the truth set forth in a record, whether legislative or judicial, and also to deny the facts adjudicated by a court of competent jurisdiction. 28 Am J2d Estop § 2.

estoppel by silence. An estoppel in pais. An estoppel which arises where a person who by force of circumstances is under a duty to another to speak, refrains from doing so and thereby leads the other to believe in the existence of a state of facts in reliance upon which he acts to his prejudice. Engelhardt v Gravens (Mo) 281 SW 715, 719. An estoppel by standing by. 28 Am J2d Estop §§ 43, 53.

estoppel by standing by. See estoppel by silence.

estoppel by verdict. A bar to the relitigation of particular facts and issues. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 328.

estoppel in pais. Otherwise known as equitable estoppel. 28 Am J2d Estop § 33. A term applied to a situation where, because of something which he has done or omitted to do, a party is denied the right to plead or prove an otherwise important fact. 28 Am J2d Estop § 27. It arises out of the acts and conduct of the party estopped, such being the characteristic which distinguishes it from a technical estoppel by deed, record, or judgment. Sequin v Maloney, 198 Or 272, 253 P2d 252, 256 P2d 514, 35 ALR2d 1412.

Estoveria sunt arandi, arundi, construendi, et claudendi. Estovers are of burning, ploughing, building, and fencing.

estoveriis habendis. See de estoveriis habendis.

estoverium. Same as estovers.

estovers. The right of a tenant of farm land, whether for life or for years, to take from the leased premises such amount of wood or timber as is sufficient or necessary for fuel, the repair of buildings, the repair of implements of husbandry, the repair of fences, and other agricultural needs. 32 Am J1st L & T § 219. Another sense of the term is that of support.

Est quiddam perfectius in rebus licitis. There is something more perfect in things which are permitted.

Est quidem alia praestatio quae nominator herietum; obi tenens, liber vel servos, in morte sua, dominum suum, de quo tenuerit, respicit de meliori averio suo, vel de secundo meliori, secundum diversam locorum consuetudinem.

[422]

There is a certain other sort of prestation which is called a heriot; where a tenant, whether a freeman or a slave, at his death provides the lord of whom he held with his best beast or with the second best, according to the custom of the place. See 2 Bl Comm 424.

estrapamento. See de estrapamento.

estray. A beast, by nature tame or reclaimable, in which there is a valuable property, such as a cow, pig, or horse, found wandering at large or lost, its owner being unknown. 4 Am J2d Ani § 46.

estreat. To extract; to take out. Where a bond or recognizance to keep the peace was broken, the bond became forfeited and was "estreated," that is, it was taken out from among the other records and it was sent up to the exchequer, whereupon the sureties on the bond became the absolute debtors of the king. See 4 Bl Comm 253.

estrepamentum. Same as estrepement.

estrepe. To strip; to lay bare; to lay waste; to commit waste.

estrepement. Waste; extirpation; a common-law writ which lay after judgment in any real action, and before the sheriff delivered possession, to stop any waste which the losing party might be tempted to commit in lands which were determined to be no longer his. See 3 Bl Comm 225.

estrepement pendente placito. Estrepement pending suit; a writ given by the statute of Gloucester to prevent waste pending the outcome of any real action. See 3 Bl Comm 226.

estrepment. Same as estrepement.

estuary. The wide mouth of a tidal stream; a bay or inlet.

et. And; also.

et ad huc detinet. And he still detains.

et adjournatur. And it is adjourned.

et al. An abbreviation of the Latin "et alius," meaning and another, and also of "et alii," meaning and others. Re McGovern's Estate, 77 Mont 182, 250 P 812.

et alii. And others.

et alai a contra. And others to the contrary.

et alios. And others.

et alios. And another.

et allocatur. And it is allowed.

et als. An abbreviation of "et alios," –and others.

etc. Abbreviation of et cetera, and so forth, sometimes written "&c." 1 Am J2d Abbr § 8. And others; other things of alike kind. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1335.

et cetera. And so forth, and others, and other things, and the rest, and so on. 1 Am J2d Abbr § 8.

The meaning of the term depends so much upon the context of the instrument, the description and enumeration of matters and things preceding it and the subject matter to which it is applied that in one instance it may mean one thing and a different thing in another. Muir v Kay, 66 Utah 550, 244 P 901.

See etc.

et curia consentiente. And the court consenting.

Et de ceo se mettent en le pays. And as to this matter, they put themselves on the country; that is, they leave it to the jury to decide.

Et de hoc ponit se super patriam. And of this he puts himself on the country. That is, he leaves it for the jury to decide.

et ei legitur in haec verba. And it is read to him in these words.

eternal law. The moral law; the law of nature. The law which God in the creation of man infused into him for his direction and preservation. Calvin's Case (Eng) 7 Co Rep 1a.

et habeas ibi tunc hoc breve. And have you then there this writ.

et habit. And he had it.

ethical. In accord with ethics.

See ethics.

ethics. A code, system, or body of moral principles or good conduct, particularly a system for a group of people or a profession, such as law or medicine. In a profession, the sum of professional experience as to standards of professional behavior. Abelson's, Inc. v New Jersey State Board of Optometry, 5 NJ 412, 75 A2d 867, 22 ALR2d 929.

See judicial ethics; legal ethics.

Ethiopian. A native of Ethiopia. Used loosely, any African of the black race.

ethling. Same as atheling.

et hoc paratus est verificare. And this he is ready to verify; that is, to prove.

et hoc petit quod inquiratur per patriam. And this he prays may be inquired of by the country; that is, by the jury.

et hoc ponit se super patriam. And of this he puts himself upon the country. This was the formal conclusion of a defendant's traverse or denial of the plaintiff's allegations, whereby he-the defendant-tendered the issue and thus submitted himself to the judgment of his peers, that is, to the verdict of the jury. See 3 Bl Comm 313.

ethyl alcohol. Ordinary or common alcohol.

et inde petit iudicium. And thereof he prays judgment.

et inde producit sectam. And thereupon he brings suit. The formal conclusion of a common-law declaration was always in these words. Originally, they meant that the plaintiff came with his witnesses or followers. He was then required to use them to make out at least a prima facie case by their testimony before the defendant was put to the trouble of answering the charge. This latter practice was discontinued in the reign of Edward the Third, but the form of it survived. See 3 Bl Comm 295.

et issint. And so.

et modo ad hunc diem. And now, at this day.

[423]

et non. And not.

et non allocatur. And it is not allowed.

et petit auxilium. And he prays aid.

et praedictus X similiter. And the said X likewise.

Et quod non habet principium, non habet finem. And that which has no beginning, has no end.

et semble. And it seems et seq. An abbreviation of et sequitur.

et sequitur. And as follows.

et sic. And so.

et sic ad iudicium. And so to judgment.

et sic ad patriam. And so to the country; that is, to the jury.

et sic fecit. And he did so.

et sic pendet. And so the matter hangs or rests.

et sic ulterius. And so further; and so forth.

et sim. An abbreviation of et similis, meaning and the like. Penas v Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Ry. Co. 112 Minn 203, 127 NW 926.

et similis. And the like.

See et sim.

Et stet nomen universitatis. And the name of the corporation may remain. See 1 Bl Comm 469.

et ux. An abbreviation of et uxor.

et uxor. And his wife.

eugenics. The improvement of the race by scientific controls, based on study of hereditary factors.

eugenics laws. Statutes having a background in eugenics, for example, a statute which requires a medical examination and certificate of freedom from venereal disease before issuance of a marriage license. Peterson v Widule, 157 Wis 641, 647.

Eum qui nocentem infamat, non est aequum et bonum ob eam rem condemnari; delicta enim nocentium nota esse oportet et expedit. If anyone defames a bad man, it is not just and right that he should on that account be condemned, for it is proper and expedient that the crimes of wicked men should be made known.

eundo, redeundo et morando. In going, in returning and in remaining.

eonuch. A castrated male of the human species. Eckert v Van Pelt, 69 Kan 357, 76 P 909.

EURATOM. Abbreviation for European Atomic Energy Community. This community is composed of the governments of France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxemburg. 6 Am J2d Atomic E § 41.

EURATOM Co-operation Act. A federal statute providing for a joint nuclear power program between the United States and the European Atomic Energy Community. 42 USC § 2291 (c); 6 Am J2d Atomic E § 41.

European plan. A system of hotel operation under which a guest engages a room for a charge which does not include meals, although a dining room is operated by the hotel, such being available to the guest if he desires, he to pay for such meals as he may order there. New Galt House v Louisville, 129 Ky 341, 111 SW 351; Wellsboro Hotel Co's Appeal, 336 Pa 171, 7 A2d 334, 122 ALR 1396.

evade. To escape; to slip away; to take refuge in flight or artifice. Keegan v United States, 325 US 478, 89 L Ed 1745, 65 S Ct 1203.

evangelist. A minister of the gospel who, traveling from church to church or city to city, preaches sermons intended and usually effective to obtain conversions to the religion espoused.

Evangelists. The four writers of the gospels, the first four books of the New Testament.

evaporation. Changing into vapor; a problem in conducting water through irrigation ditches. 30 Am J Rev ed Irrig § 24.

evasio. An escape.

evasion. Avoiding something by flight or artifice, especially a penalty or obligation. Keegan v United States, 325 US 478, 89 L Ed 1745, 65 S Ct 1203.

evasion marriage. A marriage entered into for the purpose of avoiding military service under the Selective Training and Service Act. United States v Baird (DC NY) 39 F Supp 388.

evasion of tax. See tax evasion.

event. The consequence of anything; the issue, end, conclusion; that in which an action, operation, or series of operations, terminates. Fitch v Bates (NY) 11 Barb 471, 473. The culmination or end that the means may have produced or brought about. Continental Casualty Co. v Willis, 28 F2d 707, 61 ALR 1069.

event causing injury. As the expression is used in an accident insurance policy covering disability immediately following the event causing the injury, the "event" is not the injury itself but it is the accidental means by which the effect on the body -the injury-is caused. Hatch v United States Casualty Co. 197 Mass 101, 83 NE 398.

eventual waste. Waste done by an admitted particular tenant after the institution of a suit involving the title or a partition suit. 56 Am J1st Waste § 6.

Eventus est qui ex causa sequitur; et dicitur eventus quia ex causis evenit. An event is that which follows from the cause; and it is called an event because it comes out of the causes.

Eventus varios res nova semper habet. A new circumstance always holds possibility of a different result.

everlasting. See perpetual.

every. All of a whole collection or aggregate number, considered separately, one by one; each, considered as a unitary part of an aggregate number. Salo v Pacific Coast Casualty Co. 95 Wash 109, 163 P 384. Appearing in a statute, generally regarded as a word of inclusion. 50 Am J1st Stat § 286.

every corporation. A term broad enough to include foreign, as well as domestic, corporations. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 152. Not including municipal corporations, where it appears in a statute, the obvious intent of which is against the inclusion of such corporations. Phillips v Baltimore, 110 Md 431, 72 A 902.

everyone. All of a group or body, considered separately, one by one. For some purposes, as in a statutory definition of a crime, including a corporation. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1436.

every other reasonable hypothesis. A conventional term in an instruction to the jury in a criminal case on circumstantial evidence, the admonition being to "exclude every other reasonable hypothesis." Jones v State, 34 Tex Crim 490, 30 SW 1059, 31 SW 664.

everything. All of a group or collection of things, considered separately, one by one. A term subject to limitation in scope by the application of the rule of ejusdem generis. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1362.

evesche. The diocese of a bishop.

evesque. A bishop.

eviction. Dispossession, actual or constructive. A term with peculiar reference to a tenant, being the disturbance of his possession, his expulsion or amotion, depriving him of the enjoyment of the demised premises, or any portion thereof, by title paramount or by entry and act of the landlord. 32 Am J1st L & T § 245. A breach of covenant of quiet enjoyment. 20 Am J2d Cov § 101. A breach of a covenant of warranty. 20 Am J2d Cov § 54.

See constructive eviction; eviction by title paramount.

eviction by title paramount. The eviction of a tenant by one whose title is superior to that of the landlord. 32 Am J1st L & T § 245. A breach of a title covenant of quiet enjoyment. 20 Am J2d Cov § 101; a breach of a title covenant of warranty. 20 Am J2d Cov § 54.

Within the meaning of a covenant in a deed against eviction by "paramount right," the term includes any right which commencing before the deed is not passed by it, but exists independently of it, and can be asserted with the effect of rightfully evicting the tenant under the deed. Davis v Logan's Heirs, 44 Ky (5 B Mon) 341, 342.

evidence. The means by which any matter of fact, the truth of which is submitted to investigation, may be established or disproved. That which demonstrates, makes clear, or ascertains the truth of the very fact or point in issue, either on the one side or the other. Lynch v Rosenberger, 121 Kan 601, 249 P 682, 60 ALR 376.

The law of evidence embraces those rules which determine what testimony is to be admitted or rejected in the trial of a civil action or a criminal prosecution and what weight is to be given to evidence which is admitted. 29 Am J2d Ev § 1.

evidence aliunde. Same as extrinsic evidence.

evidence by comparison. Evidence admitted to prove the quality of a thing by comparing one thing with another under such circumstances that the similarity of the subjects of comparison is reasonably sufficient to give the result of the comparison sound probative force. 46 Am J1st Sales § 310.

See comparison of handwriting.

evidence in mitigation. Proof of facts tending to show that the conceded or assumed cause of action does not entitle the plaintiff to as large an amount of damages as might otherwise be recoverable. 22 Am J2d Damg § 291.

evidence introduced. See introduced evidence.

evidence of debt. Any written instrument for the payment of money.

evidence offered. See offered evidence.

evidence of title. A deed or other instrument establishing title to property, particularly real estate.

evident. Plainly seen or understood; manifest; obvious.

Under a constitutional provision guaranteeing the right to bail except in capital cases when the proof is "evident," the word has been viewed as meaning manifest, plain, clear, obvious, apparent, and notorious. 8 Am J2d Bail § 50. In a more technical and precise sense, such probative facts as are requisite to prove ultimate facts. Ultimate facts are the facts which are pleaded and probative and evidentiary facts are those which supply the proof of the ultimate facts. 41 Am J1st Pl § 8.

evidentiary facts. The facts admissible in evidence.

evidently. In an evident manner.

See evident.

evil. That which is wicked, morally bad. evil spirits. See conjuration; witchcraft.

ew. Marriage.

ewage. A toll paid for passage over water.

ewbrice. Breach of marriage; adultery.

ewe. A female sheep.

ex. From; out of; in; of; in accord with; because of; by reason of.

ex. Sometimes used as an abbreviation of "exhibit." (Latin.) Out of, from.

ex abundanti cautela. From or out of abundance of caution.

Ex abuso non arguitur ad usum. The utility of anything cannot be argued from the abuse of it.

exaction. The excessive or unauthorized taking or collecting of moneys as fees or dues by an officer or by a person pretending to be an officer. An excessive demand. An amount demanded and taken without right.

See extortion.

exactissima diligentia. Extraordinary diligence.

exactor. One who makes an exaction. (Latin.) Collector, especially of taxes and duties.

exactor regis. An officer who collected taxes and other moneys for the royal treasury. A sheriff.

exact science. Mathematics.

See books of exact science.

ex adverso. On the other side.

ex aequitate. According to equity.

ex aequo et bono. In equity and good conscience. Scott v Ford, 45 Or 531, 80 P 899.

exaltare. To raise; to lift; to elevate.

exaltare stagnum. To raise the water in a pond or pool.

ex altera parte. Of the other part.

[425]

examen. A trial.

examination. Inspection, close observation; investigation, usually by questioning a person or persons.

In connection with legal proceedings, commonly understood to mean an examination under oath or affirmation. Edelstein v United States (CA8 Minn) 149 F 636.

The right of the insurer to "examine" the body of the insured, conferred by a clause in an accident policy, does not include the right to make an autopsy, dissection, or exhumation. Suddath v Travelers' Ins. Co. (CC Ky) 106 F 822.

See investigation.

examination before trial. See deposition; discovery.

examination in chief. The first or direct examination of a witness by the party who has called him to testify. Webber v Barry, 66 Mich 127, 33 NW 289.

examination of bankrupt. An examination provided by the Bankruptcy Act at which the bankrupt is required to submit, under oath, to questioning concerning the conduct of his business, the cause of his bankruptcy, his dealings with his creditors and other persons, the amount, kind, and whereabouts of his property, and, in addition, all matters which may effect the administration and settlement of his estate or the granting of his discharge. Bankruptcy Act § 7(x)(10); 11 USC § 25(a)(10); 9 Am J2d Bankr §§ 606, 611.

examination of juror. An examination of a juror called for a particular case to ascertain by questioning him whether or not he is subject to a challenge for cause, and, if not, whether he should be kept off the jury by a peremptory challenge. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 136. The court is not bound by the answers of the juror, but may take such other means as may be necessary to determine his competency. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 145.

examination of witness. The obtaining of the testimony of a witness by oral questions and answers made under oath in open court. 58 Am J1st Witn § 553.

See cross examination; depositions; direct examination; leading questions.

examined copy. A copy proved by oral evidence to have been examined with the original document and to correspond therewith. 29 Am J2d Ev § 910.

examiner. An officer or other person who is authorized to conduct an examination. A person appointed in a corporate reorganization proceeding, where the debtor is continued in possession, to prepare and file a plan of reorganization and to perform other duties prescribed for trustees in corporate reorganization proceedings. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1540.

See bank examiner; bar examiner; medical examiner; trial examiner.

examiners in chancery. Officers appointed by the English court of chancery to take the testimony of witnesses and to return the same to the court. examining court. A committing magistrate; a magistrate authorized to act, and presiding as, a magistrate inquiring into an accusation of the commission of a crime, preferred against a person by complaint, information, or affidavit, for the purpose of binding the accused over to await the action of the grand jury upon finding that there is probable cause to believe that an offense has been committed and that the accused committed it. State v Rogers, 31 NM 485, 247 P 828; Childers v State, 30 Tex App 160.

examining trial. A trial or hearing held before a magistrate while presiding as such in an examining court for the purpose of inquiring into a criminal accusation which has been preferred against a person. Childers v State, 30 Tex App 160.

ex animo. From the mind; arising from one's conscience.

ex antecedentibus et consequentibus. From those matters which precede and those which follow that is, from the whole instrument. Brannan v Mesick, 10 Cal 95, 101.

Ex antecedentibus et consequentibus fit optima interpretatio. The best interpretation is made from those matters which precede and those which follow. State ex rel. Patton v Marron, 22 NM 632, 167 P 9.

ex arbitrio iudicis. At the will or discretion of the judge. See 4 Bl Comm 394.

ex assensu curiae. With the consent of the court.

ex assensu patris. With the consent of the father.

ex assensu suo. With his own consent.

ex audito. From what has been heard; from hearsay.

ex bonis. From or of the goods.

ex bonis maternis. From maternal goods; from the goods inherited from the mother.

ex bonis paternis. From paternal goods,—from the goods inherited from the father.

excambia. See excambium.

excambiator. One who exchanges; a broker; an agent employed to effect an exchange of real property.

excambion. Same as excambium.

excambium. Exchange; an exchange of property; a place where merchants met; a contract for an exchange of lands.

See billa excambia.

ex capite doli. On the ground of deceit.

ex capite fraudis. On the ground of fraud.

ex cathedra. From the chair; from authority.

ex causa. From or with cause; by title.

ex causa lucrativa. From voluntary consideration; by gratuity; gratuitously.

except. Verb: To object; to take or reserve an exception to a ruling or order of the court in a judicial proceeding. Preposition: Other than.

excepta dignitate regali. With the exception of royal dignity. See 1 Bl Comm 205.

exceptant. A party to an action who causes an exception to be entered.

[426]

except by accident. An occurrence which is unexpected, not according to the usual course of events. Hutcherson v Sovereign Camp, W. W. 112 Tex 551, 251 SW 491, 28 ALR 832.

excepted. Excluded; taken out. Occasionally confused with "accepted."

Where the word has been written across the face of a draft with the signature of the party, courts have admitted parol evidence to show that the word "accepted" was intended. "The law is not a system of quirks and quibbles upon which courts may seize to defeat rights, but a system of rules and principles. and it is the duty of a court to disregard mere pretexts." Cortelyou v Maben, 22 Neb 697.

excepted risk. See exception in insurance policy.

excepting. Leaving out. Making an exception.

See exception.

exceptio. An exception; a plea; a defense; an objection. A Roman law pleading corresponding to the "plea" of the common law. See 3 Bl Comm 310.

exceptio ad breve prosternendum. A plea in abatement.

exceptio dilatoria. (Roman law.) A plea which was interposed for delay.

exceptio doli mali. (Roman law.) A plea of fraud.

Exceptio ejus rei cujus petitur dissolutio nulla est. A plea of the same transaction of which a dissolution or discharge is sought, is a nullity.

Exceptio falsi omnium ultima. A false plea is the worst of all.

Exceptio firmat regulam in casibus non exceptis. An exception confirms the rule in cases not excepted.

Exceptio firmat regulam in contrarium. The exception affirms the rule to be the contrary.

exceptio juris iurandi. (Roman law.) A plea of an oath,—a plea that the defendant had, at the instance of the plaintiff, sworn that he owed the plaintiff nothing.

exceptio metus. (Roman law.) A plea of fear, compulsion or duress.

exception. Someone or something excluded. A protest against the ruling of the trial court upon a question of law, designed for the protection of the court so that it may reconsider its action and of the opposing counsel so that he may consent to a change by the court in its ruling, but primarily designed to bring upon the record on appeal, by a bill of exceptions, the ruling objected to, which otherwise would not constitute a part of the record. 5 Am J2d A & E § 558; 53 Am J1st Trial § 132.

In Louisiana the word is a comprehensive term referring to defenses. Buty v Goldfinch, 74 Wash 532, 133 P 1057.

See bill of exceptions; objection; peremptory exception; reservation.

exceptional. The rare—the unusual or extraordinary case or circumstance. Re Irving-Austin Bldg. Corp. (CA7 Ill) 100 F2d 574.

exceptional and extremely unusual hardship. A matter of suspension of the deportation of an alien, for determination by the Attorney General acting with a sound discretion, according to whether deportation will result in exceptional and extremely unusual hardship to the alien or to his spouse, parent or child, who is a citizen or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence. 8 USC § 1254 (a); Jay v Boyd, 351 US 345, 100 L Ed 1242, 76 S Ct 919.

exceptional bailment. A bailment which affects the public interest in such a way that the law imposes on the bailee a somewhat different liability from that of the ordinary bailee for hire, for example, a bailment to a carrier or innkeeper. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 6.

exception in admiralty. A plea filed in a suit in admiralty corresponding to a plea in abatement or a special plea in bar in an ordinary civil action. United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corp. v Rosenberg Bros. & Co. 276 US 202, 72 L Ed 531, 48 S Ct 256. An objection to the sufficiency, fullness, distinctness, relevancy, or competency of any pleading or interrogatory. Rules of Practice in Admiralty and Maritime Cases, Rule 27.

exception in an equity suit. Written objections to a pleading, filed in the suit.

exception in contract. Something omitted from the operation of the contract in reference to the subject matter.

As the word is frequently used in contracts, it usually indicates that something is taken out from the principal matter provided for in the clause or paragraph in which the word is found, and not that something is taken out of or changed from other provisions in other clauses of the entire contract. Anvil Mining Co. v Humble, 153 US 540, 548, 38 L Ed 814, 817, 14 S Ct 876.

exception in deed. A withdrawal of some part of the thing granted by the general description which otherwise would pass to the grantee, which was in esse at the time of the conveyance, and which until such conveyance and the severance thereby was comprised in the thing granted. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 262. Although distinguishable, the terms "exception" and "reservation" are quite commonly used as interchangeable. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 262.

See reservation.

exception in insurance policy. A provision of a contract of insurance which withdraws a certain risk or risks from the coverage of the contract. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins §§ 1132 et seq.

exception in lease. The exclusion of some part of the demised premises from the operation of the lease by the terms thereof. 32 Am J1st L & T § 185.

exception in statute. A clause in a statute which takes away from the operation of the measure that which, but for it, would be included. State ex rel. Crow v St. Louis, 174 Mo 125, 73 SW 623.

An "exception" is similar to a "proviso," although undoubtedly there is a technical distinction between them.

See proviso in statute.

exception taken on trial. See exception.

exception to bail. A formal objection to the sureties on a bail bond, or to the amount of the bond.

exception to hearsay rule. Hearsay evidence taken out of the general rule against the admissibility of hearsay in the interest of justice, and in accord with sound policy, so as to be admissible notwithstanding the rule, for example, a dying declaration, a declaration against interest, etc. 29 Am J2d Ev §§ 495, 496.

[427]

Exceptio nulla est versus actionem quae exceptionem perimit. There is no plea against an action which destroys the plea.

exceptio pacti conventi. (Roman law.) A plea that the plaintiff had agreed with the defendant that he would not sue.

exceptio pecuniae non numeratae. (Roman law.) A plea that the money had not been paid to the defendant.

exceptio peremptoria. (Roman law.) A peremptory plea,—a plea which denied the right of the plaintiff to sue.

Exceptio probat regulam. The exception proves the rule. Where the rule is stated and the exceptions are stated and the matter is not within the exceptions, the rule governs. Lamkin & Foster v Ledoux, 101 Me 581, 64 A 1048.

Exceptio probat regulam de rebus non exceptis. The exception proves the rule in matters not excepted. He who asserts the right to an exclusive privilege in any department of business must bring himself under the protection of some recognized exception to the rule of unrestricted liberty in the practice of all arts and trades. P. C. Wiest Co. v Weeks, 177 Pa 412, 35 A 693.

Exceptio quae firmat legem, exponit legem. An exception which confirms the law, expounds it. Neary v Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad Co. 12 Del (7 Houst) 419, 438.

Exceptio quoque regulam declarat. An exception also declares or affirms the rule.

exceptio rei adjudicatae. (Roman law.) A plea of res adjudicata, that the same matter had been previously determined by a judgment in an action between the same parties.

exceptio rei venditae et traditae. (Roman law.) A plea that the thing was sold and delivered.

Exceptio semper ultima ponenda est. An exception should always be placed last.

exceptio temporis. (Roman law.) A plea that the plaintiff's cause of action has expired by lapse of time.

exceptor. A party to an action who makes or reserves an exception to a ruling of the court.

excerpta. Extracts; excerpts.

excerpts. Extracts.

ex certa scientia. Of or from certain knowledge.

excess. Surplus; indulgence to an extreme.

See corporate excess; overtime; surplus.

excess baggage. The weight of baggage in excess of the maximum weight of baggage of a passenger which will be carried free of charge. 14 Am J2d Car § 1221.

excess insurance. Insurance which, by a provision in the policy, is relieved from contributing to other insurers of the same risk; such a policy renders the insurer liable only for the amount of loss or damage in excess of the coverage provided by another policy or policies covering the same risk. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1715.

A liability insurance policy issued to a lessor of automobiles and covering liability of the lessee, which expressly provides for its inapplicability to liability "for such loss as is covered on a primary, contributory, excess, or any other basis by insurance in another insurance company," does not constitute "other valid and collectible insurance" within the meaning of a liability insurance policy issued with respect to the lessee's own automobile, but covering the insured while driving another car, subject to the proviso that such insurance "shall be excess insurance over any other valid and collectible insurance available to the insurance . . .". Continental Casualty Co. v Weeks (Fla) 74 So 2d 367, 46 ALR2d 1159.

excessive. Running or operating to excess; extreme.

excessive award. An award by arbitrators which embraces matters not contained in the submission. 5 Am J2d Arb & A § 150.

See excessive damages.

excessive bail. An imposition prohibited by both the United States Constitution and state constitutions, being bail set at an amount higher than reasonably calculated to insure that the accused will appear to stand trial, considering the factors of the ability of the accused to give bail, the nature of the offense charged, the penalty for the offense charged, the character and reputation of the accused, the health of the accused, the kind and strength of the evidence, the probability of the accused appearing at trial, the forfeiture of other bonds, and whether the accused was a fugitive from justice when arrested. 8 Am J2d Bail § 71.

excessive damages. An award of damages by verdict which appears to have been given under the influence of passion or prejudice; an award so large as to shock the judicial conscience; an award so out of proportion to the damages proved as to indicate an abuse of the jury's discretion. 22 Am J2d Damg § 366. See also 5 Am J2d A & E § 896.

excessive deposit. A deposit or account in excess of the amount which a savings bank is authorized to receive or carry. 10 Am J2d Banks § 275.

excessive fine. An imposition prohibited by the Constitution of the United States and many of the state constitutions; a relative matter, dependent upon many factors, including the financial status of the person penalized. An imposition so disproportionate to the offense as to present a plain conflict between the constitutional prohibition and those of the statute prescribing the punishment. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 601.

A fine imposed in a criminal case is excessive, even though within the maximum provided by statute, if it is apparently beyond the power of the defendant to pay it forthwith, or even during a lifetime of effort. State v Ross, 55 Or 450, 104 P 596.

excessive force. Force which is unnecessary and unreasonable in the performance of an act otherwise lawful, such as the use of force in self-defense so far beyond a necessity of the case as to appear vindictive. 6 Am J2d Asslt & B § 162. Force used in making an arrest in excess of the force reasonably necessary to apprehend the offender or effect the arrest. 5 Am J2d Arr § 80. Ham v Santa Rosa Bank, 62 Cal 125.

[428]

excessive homestead. A selected homestead exemption which exceeds in value the amount fixed by the statute which creates the exemption. 26 Am J1st Home § 43. Not a selection which creditors can attack successfully as illegal, their remedy being to reach the excess in value.

excessive levy. A levy upon more property of the defendant than in the opinion of a reasonably prudent man is necessary to satisfy the debt, interest, and costs, considering various factors, such as encumbrances upon the property, the fact that a forced sale usually results in a sacrifice, and the convenience of division or separation of the property for purposes of levy and sale. 6 Am J2d Attach § 294; 30 Am J2d Exec §§ 96, 97. A form of abuse of process. 1 Am J2d Abuse P § 10.

excessive loan. A loan in an amount in excess of the amount which the lender, a bank, is authorized by statutory or charter provision to make. 10 Am J2d Banks § 684.

excessive or unusual noise. Appearing in a statute which requires a muffler as equipment on a motor vehicle to prevent "excessive or unusual noise," the expression means any noise from the operation of a motor vehicle in excess of what is usual when a muffler in sound condition is used. Smith v Peterson, 131 Cal App 2d 241, 280 P2d 522, 49 ALR2d 1194.

excessive sentence. A sentence for a term in excess of what the law permits as punishment for the particular offense. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 536. A sentence which should be reduced in the exercise of a sound discretion by the court, notwithstanding it is not in excess of the maximum penalty prescribed for the offense of which the defendant was convicted. State v Ross, 55 Or 450, 104 P 596.

excessive speed. Motor vehicle: Speed in excess of the limit fixed by law or the rate which is reasonable and prudent under the circumstances. 8 Am J2d Auto §§ 717, 718. Vessel: A speed such as will not permit the vessel seasonably and effectually to avoid collision by slackening speed, or by stopping and reversing, within the distance at which an approaching vessel can be seen. Macham v New York (CC NY) 35 F 604, 609.

excessive use of intoxicating liquors. Such an indulgence in intoxicants as tends to impair the health or mental faculties of the insured, or to render the insurance risk more hazardous. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 775.

excessive verdict. See excessive damages.

Excessivum in jure reprobatur; excessus in re qualibet jure reprobatur communi. Excess is reprehended in the law; any kind of excess is reprehended in the common law.

excess of jurisdiction. An act which, although within the general power of the judge, is not authorized and therefore void with respect to the particular case, because the conditions which alone authorize the exercise of his general power in that particular case are wanting, and hence the judicial power is not lawfully invoked. 30A Am J Rev ed Judges § 78.

excess of privilege. A basis of liability for defamation, notwithstanding the subject matter of the communication lies within the field of privilege, where the statement goes beyond the duty or interest of the publisher or utterer, is irrelevant or extraneous to the field of privilege, is defamatory to a person outside the privilege, is violent or intemperate, or goes beyond the duty to publish or communicate which supports the privilege. 33 Am J1st L & S §§ 183 et seq.

excess profits tax. A type of income tax based on net income in excess of a certain percentage of the taxpayer's invested capital and imposed at progressive rates. Greenport Basin & Constr. Co. v United States, 260 US 512, 67 L Ed 370, 43 S Ct 183.

See invested capital.

excess waters. The waters of a stream subject to appropriation for beneficial use over and above what may reasonably be subjected to a beneficial use on the lands bordering the stream. Rindge v Crags Land Co. 56 Cal App 247, 205 P 36.

exch. An abbreviation of "exchange," "exchequer."

exchange. A voluntary association or corporation organized for the purpose of furnishing its members a convenient and suitable place to transact their business, of promoting uniformity in the customs and usages of merchants, of inculcating principles of justice and equity in trade, of facilitating the speedy adjustment of business disputes, of acquiring and disseminating valuable commercial and economic information, and generally of securing to its members the benefits of co-operation in the furtherance of their legitimate pursuits. 50 Am J1st Stock Ex § 2. An organized and established place of business wherein the marketing of securities is conducted and accomplished. Fratt v Robinson (CA9 Wash) 203 F2d 627, 37 ALR2d 636. A stock exchange, a place where securities are bought and sold; a commodity exchange, a place where grain, cotton, wool, etc. is bought and sold. 50 Am J1st Stock Ex § 2. An association acting in the mutual exchange of insurance contracts by the subscribers thereto under a system of reciprocal or interinsurance. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 102. An exchange of the money of one country for the money of another at a rate which depends upon the respective values of the two currencies in the money markets of the world. 36 Am J1st Money § 26. A transfer of money from one person to another at a distant place at an agreed or customary rate of exchange. A word indicating negotiability where it appears on the face of an instrument calling for the payment of money to a named payee. UCC § 3-110(1).

A reciprocal transfer of property for property, in other words a trade, barter, or swap. 30 Am J2d Ex P § 1. An executed contract which operates per se as a reciprocal conveyance of the thing given and of the thing received in exchange, each of the parties being individually considered in the double light of vendor and vendee. Preston v Keene (US) 14 Pet 133, 10 L Ed 387. For tax purposes, a bona fide transfer of property for property other than money or a cash equivalent.

See arbitration of exchange; barter; bill of exchange; dry exchange; first of exchange; loan for exchange; par of exchange; rate of exchange; sale and exchange; second of exchange; set of exchange; stipulation for exchange; trade.

Exchange Act. See Securities Exchange Act.

exchange broker. A broker who makes and concludes bargains for others in matters of money or merchandise; learns the rate of exchange, and notifies his employers. Portland v O'Neill, 1 Or 218, 219. A broker who negotiates bills of exchange drawn on foreign countries or on other places in the United States. Little Rock v Barton, 33 Ark 436, 446. A broker who transacts business on a stock or commodity exchange. 50 Am J1st Stock Ex § 20.

[429]

exchange certificate. A certificate of membership in a stock or commodity exchange. Anno: 44 ALR2d 947, § 16.

Exchange Commission. See Securities and Exchange Commission.

exchange of goods. See barter; exchange; trade.

exchange of judges. A practice expedient in relieving a crowded trial calendar in a court circuit or district, whereby a judge of another circuit or district is brought in temporarily to assist the regular judges. York v State, 91 Ark 582, 121 SW 1070.

exchange of policy. The substitution of one policy for another accomplished by the agreement of the insurer and insured or pursuant to a policy provision. Baine v Continental Assur. Co. 21 Cal 2d 1, 129 P2d 396, 142 ALR 1253.

See conversion of insurance policy.

exchanges. See exchange.

exchanging work. Practice of farmers in helping one another, in which case, they do not work as employees. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 132.

exchequer. The English department of revenue. A very ancient court of record, set up by William the Conqueror, as a part of the aula regia, and intended principally to order the revenues of the crown, and to recover the king's debts and duties. It was called exchequer, "scaccharium," from the checked cloth, resembling a chessboard, which covers the table.

See barons of the exchequer; Black Book of the Exchequer; chancellor of the exchequer; court of exchequer; exchequer bills; information in the exchequer; receipt of the exchequer.

exchequer bills. English bills of credit issued by the government under the authority of parliament.

exchequer chamber. See court of exchequer chamber.

excisable. Subject to or liable for excise taxes.

excise. Same as excise tax.

excise tax. A tax which does not fall within the classification of a poll tax or a property tax, and embraces every form of tax burdens not laid directly upon persons or property. Idaho Gold Dredging Co. v Balderston, 58 Idaho 692, 78 P2d 105. A tax imposed on the sale, even the use, of a certain article and on certain transactions and occupations.

Sums assessed as meals taxes and paid, on the claim of the commissioner of taxation, under protest and duress to avoid imposition of penalties, are received "as excise on account of the Commonwealth" within the meaning of constitutional and statutory provisions requiring the tax collector to pay money so collected into the treasury of the commonwealth, even though they were illegally exacted. Oakley Country Club v Long, 325 Mass 109, 89 NE2d 260, 14 ALR 377.

See corporation excise tax; duties; income excise tax; license tax; privilege tax.

excitement. Impulsion; agitation. The act of exciting, or the state of having increased action. That which excites or rouses; that which moves, stirs or induces action; a motive. Morris v Territory, 1 Okla Crim 617, 99 P 760.

excluding. Taking out; keeping out; excepting. Often used as synonymous with "reserving." 23 Am J2d Deeds § 262.

See excepting; reserving.

exclusive. Pertaining to the subject alone; not including, admitting, or pertaining to any other or others; undivided; sole; as, an exclusive right or privilege; exclusive jurisdiction. Vicksburg v Vicksburg Waterworks Co. 202 US 453, 471, 50 L Ed 1102, 1112, 26 S Ct 660. Restrictive, as in the case of a club with membership restricted to a distinct class.

A computation of time by including one terminal day and excluding the other has been applied in a case where a statute required the performance of acts a certain number of days, "exclusive," before a known future date. Anno: 98 ALR 1372.

exclusive agency. A term embracing three classes of situations: (1) where the contract does not prevent the principal from making direct sales but deprives him of the right to appoint other agents; (2) where the agent is the only one with any right to sell; and (3) where the exclusive agency is accompanied with a stipulated right to commissions on all sales whether made through the agent or not. 3 Am J2d Ag § 259.

The use of the terms "exclusive agency," or "exclusive sale" in a contract giving one the right to sell for another is not conclusive that the right given is an exclusive one, but all the circumstances must be considered. Navy Gas & Supply Co. v Schoech, 105 Colo 374, 98 P2d 860, 126 ALR 1225.

An exclusive agency to sell having been granted, the owner may still sell the property without incurring liability to the broker for commission, unless the broker has procured a purchaser able and willing to buy prior to the time that the owner makes the sale. Anno: 64 ALR 395; 12 Am J2d Brok § 226.

See exclusive right of sale.

exclusive agency to sell. See exclusive agency.

exclusive control. A control which is limited in respect of the person by whom exercised, but not necessarily limited to one person. Mack v Reading Co. 377 Pa 135, 103 A2d 749, 41 ALR2d 927.

The word "exclusive" when used to define the nature of the control necessary to invoke the doctrine of res ipsa loquitur does not connote that such control must be in a single person, and the fact that a collapsing scaffold causing the injury was in control of both defendants, a general contractor and his subcontractor, does not preclude operation of the doctrine. Meny v Carlson, 6 NJ 82, 77 A2d 245, 22 ALR2d 1160.

exclusive fishery. An exclusive right to fish in a given place, either with or without the property in the soil at such place, no person other than the owner of the fishery being lawfully entitled to take fish at such place. 35 Am J2d Fish § 6.

exclusive lease. In loose usage, an exclusive license.

See exclusive license.

exclusive license. A license to pursue a calling or occupation which in effect creates a monopoly in the licensee. 33 Am J1st Lic § 23. A grant by the proprietor of a patent to another person of the right to make, use, or sell the patented article, including the condition that the grantor will grant no further license of the kind in respect of such article to any other person. 40 Am J1st Pat § 146.

[430]

The mere grant by a state of an "exclusive ferry lease" for a specified distance along a river does not prevent the state from erecting a bridge within the prescribed limits. Larson v South Dakota, 278 US 429, 73 L Ed 441, 49 S Ct 196.

exclusively. With the exclusion of all others; without admission of others to participation.

Under a statute exempting from taxation property used "exclusively" for a public purpose, the word has been held to mean "substantially all" or "for the greater part." Anoka County v St. Paul, 194 Minn 554, 99 ALR 1137, 261 NW 588.

exclusive possession. An exclusive dominion over land and an appropriation of it to one's own use and benefit. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 50. Possession of land by a claimant for himself, as his own, and not for another. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 50.

exclusive power of appointment. A power of appointment under which there is granted to the donee the right to exclude from the distribution any of the designated objects of the power. Anno: 100 ALR 343.

exclusive representative. An exclusive agent. For the purpose of collective bargaining under the National Labor Relations Act, the sole and exclusive bargaining agency of all the employees it represents for the purpose of bargaining as to rates of pay, wages, hours of employment or other conditions of employment. International Union, U. A. A.A.I.W. v J. I. Case Co. 250 Wis 63, 26 NW2d 305, 170 ALR 933.

See exclusive agency.

exclusive right. A sole and undivided right or privilege. Vicksburg v Vicksburg Waterworks Co. 202 US 453, 471, 50 L Ed 1102, 1112, 26 S Ct 660.

See exclusive right of sale.

exclusive right of sale. The right of an agent to be the sole sale's agent appointed by his principal and to be free from competition by the principal personally. 3 Am J2d Ag § 259. Not the same exactly as an exclusive agency.

An exclusive agency to sell having been granted to a broker, the owner may still sell the property without incurring liability to the broker for a commission, unless the broker has procured a purchaser able and willing to pay prior to the time that the owner makes the sale. But where a broker is given an exclusive right to sell property, as distinguished from an exclusive agency, he is held entitled to the agreed commission, or at least damages, where a sale is made by the owner, and it is immaterial that he was not the procuring cause thereof, provided, however, that the employment contract is supported by consideration and is not a mere unilateral offer, and provided also, according to some cases, that the broker has produced a ready, able, and willing purchaser or can show damage. 12 Am J2d Brok § 226.

exclusive sale. See exclusive agency; exclusive right of sale.

exclusive sales contract. A contract by which a manufacturer or wholesale dealer agrees to sell his commodities exclusively to a dealer in a particular locality, or the dealer agrees to purchase exclusively from the manufacturer or wholesaler. Such a contract is valid where not monopolistic in tendency, and where there is no combination to control prices or to stifle competition. 36 Am J1st Monop etc. § 32.

See exclusive agency; exclusive right of sale.

exclusive use. A use which gives rise to a prescriptive right, not because it excludes the holder of the legal title or other persons from the premises, but because it is not dependent upon a similar right in another person. Marta v Trincia, 26 Dei Ch 94, 22 A2d 519; Jurgensen v Ainscow, 155 Neb 701, 53 NW2d 196.

ex colore. Under color of; by the pretence of.

ex comitate. By comity; by courtesy; by public policy.

excommengement. Same as excommunication.

ex commodato. From a loan.

ex commodo. At one's convenience; leisurely.

excommunicate. To impose a sentence or order of excommunication.

See excommunication.

excommunication. Expulsion from membership in a church. Nance v Busby, 91 Tenn 303, 333. A sentence of excommunication, by an ecclesiastical court. This sentence was of two grades. The lesser excluded the person from partaking of the sacraments the greater excluded him from the company of all Christians. See 3 Bl Comm 101.

excommunicato capiendo. See de excommunicato capiendo. excommunicato deliberando. See de excommunicato deliberando.

Excommunicato interdicitur omnis actus legitimus, its quod agere non potest, nec aliquem convenire, licet ipse ab aliis possit conveniri. Every legal act is forbidden a person who has been excommunicated, so that he cannot act, nor can he sue anyone, but he himself can be sued by others.

excommunicato recapiendo. See de excommunicato recapiendo.

ex comparatione scriptorum. By comparison of handwritings.

ex concessione. By or out of grant.

ex concessis. From or out of the things which have been granted.

ex concessio. From what has been conceded or granted.

See argumentum ex concessio.

ex concessu. Same as ex concessio.

ex consulto. With or from consultation or deliberation.

ex continenti. At once; forthwith; immediately.

ex contractu. Arising out of a contract; founded upon contract, as an obligation ex contractu, or an action ex contractu. See 3 Bl Comm 117.

See action ex contractu; quasi ex-contractu.

[431]

ex culpa levissima. From the least fault or negligence.

exculpatory clause. A clause in a trust instrument relieving the trustee from liability for any act performed by him under the trust instrument in good faith. Anno: 78 ALR2d 36.

ex curia. Out of court; elsewhere than in court.

excursion. A round trip taken for pleasure or health, usually at a reduced rate. 14 Am J2d Car § 845.

excursion permit. A permit issued to authorize a vessel certified for the carriage of passengers to carry additional passengers or to go out of the waters over which it is authorized by its certificate to ply. 48 Am J1st Ship § 360.

excursion rate. A round trip and reduced rate for passengers on an excursion. 14 Am J2d Car § 845.

excursion river boat. A place of amusement and entertainment. Shannon v Streckfus Steamers, Inc. 279 Ky 649, 131 SW2d 833.

excursus. A running out; a departure; a deviation a frolic of one's own. Bugge v Brown (Austr) 26 deviation; 26 CLR 110.

excusable. Deserving excuse or pardon; that which is forgiven or condoned; that which is not wholly free from fault, but for which there is no liability.

excusable homicide. A homicide committed in doing a lawful act, without any intention to hurt, as by accident or misadventure, or a homicide committed in self-defense. 26 Am J1st Homi § 102.

excusable neglect. See excusable negligence.

excusable negligence. A paradoxical phrase, since if the failure to exercise reasonable care under the circumstances is excusable, there is no negligence. 38 Am J1st Negl § 12.

As the term is used in statutes authorizing the opening of a default and allowing a party to defend on the merits, the courts appear to be in irreconcilable conflict as to what constitutes "excusable neglect," but well considered cases have seemed to agree that a reasonable excuse is sufficient, where it appears that the defense is meritorious and no substantial prejudice will result from setting aside the default. Citizens' Nat. Bank v Branden, 19 ND 489, 126 NW 102.

excusable trespass. A trespass for which no action will lie because the law forgives or pardons it. A trespass for which there is justification.

Generally speaking, justification as a defense to an action of trespass must be specially pleaded. 52 Am J1st Tresp § 68.

Excusat aut extenuat delictum in capitalibus, quod non operator idem in civilibus. That excuses or extenuates fault in capital cases which would not operate similarly in civil cases.

excusatio. An excuse.

Excusatur quis quod clameum non opposuerit, ut si toto tempore litigii fuit ultra mare quacunq̄ occasione. A person is excused for not resisting a claim if during the whole period of the litigation, he is for some reason, beyond seas.

excuse. Verb: To relieve from liability; to relieve from a duty or obligation. Noun: A grant of relief from duty or obligation. A reason for being relieved from duty or obligation. A reason for relieving a person from jury duty. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 70.

See justification.

excused. Relieved from duty or liability.

See excuse.

excuss. To seize goods under process of a court.

excussio. (Civil law.) The exhaustion by a creditor of his remedies against the principal debtor before resorting to the surety.

ex damno absque injuria non oritur actio. From loss or damage, without the violation of a legal right, no action arises.

See damnum absque injuria.

ex debito justitiae. From a debt of justice; from that which is owing; from one's right as of right. Thompson v Jackson, 24 Va (3 Rand) 504.

ex debito naturali. From natural obligation.

ex defectu juris. From or because of a defect or failure of right.

ex defectu natalium. From failure of lawful birth; because of being born out of wedlock. A phrase that loses meaning with the mitigation by statute of the rigors of the common law concerning the status and rights of an illegitimate child. 10 Am J2d Bast § 8.

ex defectu sanguinis. From or because of failure of blood; for want of issue.

ex delicto. From or out of a wrongful act; tortious; tortiously.

See action ex delicto; chase ex delicto.

ex delicto quasi ex contractu. An action wherein there is combined a cause or ground of action for breach of a special contract with a cause or ground of action for a tort in violation of a common-law duty. Nelson v Great Northern Railroad Co. 28 Mont 297, 72 P 642.

ex dem. An abbreviation of ex demissione.

ex demissione. From or on the demise of.

ex dicto majoris partis. By the order or command of the larger side; by the voice of the majority.

ex directo. Directly; forthwith; immediately.

Ex diuturnitate temporis, omnia praesumuntur solemniter esse acta. From length or lapse of time, all things are presumed to have been duly performed.

ex dividend. An expression familiar to corporate officers and directors, stockbrokers, and persons who deal in stocks, meaning that a quotation of a price for a stock is for a sale not including a dividend previously declared by the corporation. This is in accord with the modern corporate practice according to which corporations declare dividends payable to stockholders of record on a specified date, after which date the stock is said to be "ex dividend." 19 Am J2d Corp § 891.

[432]

ex dolo malo. From or out of fraud.

Ex dolo malo non oritur actio. No action can arise out of fraud; no court will lend its aid to a man who founds his cause of action upon an immoral or an illegal act. Hill v Walker, 41 Ga 449.

Ex donationibus autem feoda militaria vel magnum serjeantium non continentibus oritur nobis quoddam nomen generale, quod est socagium. From grants containing neither military fees nor grand serjeanty, a certain general name has sprung up among us which is "socage." See 2 Bl Comm 79.

ex donatio regis. By the gift of the king.

exeat. See ne exeat.

exec. An abbreviation of executor.

execration. A form of trial by purgation, consisting in feeding the accused a small bit of consecrated cheese or bread, and at the same time praying for his ability to swallow it if innocent and to choke to death on it if guilty; the morsel given the accused in the purgation. 4 Bl Comm 345.

execute. To complete; to sign; to sign, seal, and deliver. Perko v Rock Springs Commercial Co. 37 Wyo 98, 259 P 520. To perform or carry out a mission, a command, a duty, or obligation. To put a man to death pursuant to a sentence of death.

executed. Signed. Signed, sealed, and delivered, that is, the completion of the transaction. Bensimer v Fell, 35 W Va 15, 12 SE 1078. See also Worthley v Worthley, 33 Cal App 473, 165 P 714. Equivalent of "signed, sealed, and delivered," for the purpose of a certificate of acknowledgment. 1 Am J2d Ack § 75.

Put to death pursuant to a sentence of death.

executed agreement. See executed contract.

executed and recorded. As an allegation in a pleading, the equivalent of executed and delivered. McReynolds v Grubb, 150 Mo 352, 51 SW 822.

executed compromise. The full and complete performance of a compromise agreement, whether the agreement is an executory accord or a substituted contract, such performance often involving a surrender and release of rights. 15 Am J2d Compr § 24.

executed consideration. A past consideration; something given and received before the making of a promise. 17 Am J2d Contr § 125.

See past consideration.

executed contract. A contract, the terms of which have been fully performed. Henehan v Hart, 127 Cal 656, 60 P 426. A contract performed in fulfillment of the object of the contract and the accomplishment of everything required to be done under it. 17 Am J2d Contr § 6.

executed contract of sale. A present conveyance, that is a contract sufficient in itself to convey title to real estate. 55 Am J1st V & P § 100. A land contract which has been performed by both vendor and purchaser, the purchase price having been paid and the deed executed and delivered. Miller v Kemp, 157 Va 178, 160 SE 203, 84 ALR 980. A contract of sale of personal property so fully performed that nothing remains to be done under it, title having passed to the buyer and the risk of loss or destruction of the chattel having been shifted from the seller to him. 46 Am J1st Sales § 412.

executed deed. A deed completely prepared for delivery; more appropriately, a deed which has been signed, also sealed, acknowledged, and attested, as may be required by statute, and delivered to the grantee or someone in his behalf. Turlington v Neighbors, 222 NC 694, 24 SE2d 648.

executed estate. Same as estate in possession.

executed insurance policy. A policy of insurance that has been signed by or on behalf of the insurer and, if the instrument so provides as conditions of effectiveness, countersigned and delivered. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins §§ 214, 215.

executed gift. A gift which has been delivered by the donor with the intent to transfer title and accepted by the donee. 24 Am J1st Gifts § 22.

executed license. An irrevocable license in real property. 33 Am J1st Lic § 99. A license in return for which the licensee has paid a consideration to the licensor, or upon the faith and in consequence of which the licensee has made valuable improvements or expended money or invested capital. Flickinger v Shaw, 87 Cal 126, 25 P 268.

executed remainder. An old term for vested remainder. See 2 Bl Comm 168.

executed trust. In one sense, an intention to create a trust, executed by a definite and unequivocal disposition of property in accordance with the intention; in another, and more familiar sense, a trust that is final and definite in respect of the limitations of the equitable interest, so that no aid by an equity court is required to settle and model the limitations in accordance with the intention of the creator of the trust. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 7.

executed unilateral contract. An offer fully performed in accordance with the conditions of the offer, including a limitation of time. Bethlehem Silk Co. v Commissioner (CA3) 124 F2d 649. An offer accepted by part performance to the extent that the offer can not be revoked or withdrawn. 17 Am J2d Contr § 37.

executed use. A use which has become a legal interest under the Statute of Uses or its equivalent in American jurisdictions. 28 Am J2d Est § 344.

executed will. Broadly, a will which has been signed by the testator and attested in accord with statutory requirements. More narrowly defined in the terms of what the testator must do, that is, a will signed by the testator. Re Johnson (ND) 75 NW2d 313, 55 ALR2d 1049.

executed writ. A writ, the command of which has been fully executed or complied with by the officer to whom the writ was directed.

executio. Execution; administration; management; full performance; full compliance; fulfillment.

executio bonorum. The administration or management of goods.

Executio est executio juris secundum iudicium. Execution is the fulfillment of the law in accordance with the judgment.

Executio est finis et fructus legis. Execution is the end and the fruit of the law.

[433]

Executio juris non habet injuriam. The fulfillment or carrying out of the law cannot operate as an injury.

execution. A writ or process for the enforcement of a judgment. A remedy afforded by law for the enforcement of a judgment, which is not an action but is included in the phrase "process in an action." 30 Am J2d Exec § 1.

The signing of an instrument; signing, coupled with sealing, acknowledgment, and attestation, as such may be required by statute, and the delivery of the instrument. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 18. The signing and delivery of a negotiable instrument. Re Tynans Estate, 142 Neb 671, 7 NW2d 628.

The performance of a duty, assignment, or obligation. The acts of a sheriff in serving the writ or process of execution. 30 Am J2d Exec § 207. The performance of a promisor's obligation under a contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 355. The imprisonment of a person pursuant to a sentence; putting a man to death by hanging, electrocution, or gas pursuant to a death sentence. 21 Am J2d Crim L §§ 590 et seq.

See fieri facias; ground writ; levy of execution; pluries writs; supplementary proceedings.

execution against the person. A writ or process for the enforcement of a judgment, usually a judgment of a particular nature in reference to the obligation adjudicated, by arresting and detaining the judgment debtor until he be legally discharged. 30 Am J2d Exec § 865. A form of execution well known at common law and effected by the writ of capias ad satisfaciendum, which was directed to the sheriff or coroner, and commanded him to take the person therein named and him safely keep so that he might have the body in court on the return day of the writ, to satisfy the party who had recovered judgment against him. 30 Am J2d Exec § 873.

execution creditor. A person who, having recovered a judgment against one obligated to him, has caused an execution to be issued on such judgment. Anno: 61 ALR 984.

executione iudicii. See de executione iudicii.

executioner. A person who executes a death sentence; a headsman; a gangman.

execution in duplicate. The signing and putting into effect of two or more instruments identical in content, each instrument being made thereby an original. 17 Am J2d Contr § 284.

execution lien. A lien created by or as an inseparable incident of the levy of an execution. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 479. A constructive lien insofar as the levy is upon real estate without a manual seizure or taking possession. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 480.

execution of instrument. See executed; executed deed; executed insurance policy; executed will.

execution patee. A proceeding under the law of France under which a creditor can seize and sell the property of his debtor to satisfy a judgment by confession.

execution sale. A sale, usually at public auction, by a sheriff or other ministerial officer of property seized by him in levying an execution, pursuant to and under the authority of the writ or process of execution, for the purpose of obtaining from the proceeds of the sale an amount sufficient to satisfy the execution and the judgment whereunder it was issued. Sometimes the term "judicial sale" is used in the reported cases to include a sale under execution, and sometimes, judicial sales are referred to as "special execution sales." 30 Am J2d Exec § 304.

See certificate of sale; redemption; sale en masse; sheriffs deed.

execution sale en masse. See sale en masse.

executive. Noun: One who manages or administers. One who enforces the law as distinguished from one who makes the law or one who interprets the law. Adjective: Pertaining to the administration or enforcement of the law. State ex ref. Jameson v Denny, 118 Ind 382, 21 NE 252.

executive agencies. See administrative agencies.

executive agreement. An agreement made by the President of the United States, acting within his exclusive powers as the executive, with the authorized representative of a foreign government. Russia v National City Bank (CA2) 69 F2d 44.

executive capacity. An administrative capacity. The status of one in business or industry who manages the business or a department thereof or directs operations of the industry. Anno: 40 ALR2d 332.

See executive employee.

executive committee. A committee of a voluntary association or club, the authority of which is determined by the constitution or bylaws. 6 Am J2d Asso & C § 44. A committee chosen from among the directors of a corporation, authorized to act for the board, during intervals between meetings of the board, in respect of the ordinary business of the corporation. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1160.

executive department. The department of government, headed by the President in the case of the United States Government and by the governor in the case of a state government, in whom the executive, as distinguished from the legislative or judicial, power is vested. 16 Am J2d Const L § 216. One of the major administrative or executive agencies of the federal or a state government, such as the State Department, War Department, Department of Justice, etc.

executive employee. An employee who may have administrative duties but has at least some managerial authority. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 668.

executive officer. Any officer in whom executive power of a state or other government is vested. The President is the chief executive officer of the United States. The respective governors are the chief executive officers in the several states. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 25.

An officer of a corporation having at least some degree of managerial responsibility for the affairs of the corporation generally, and having a close connection with the board of directors and high officers of the company. Bruce v Travelers Ins. Co. (CA5 La) 266 F2d 781; Flight Equipment & Engineering Corp. v Shelton (Fla) 103 So 2d 615.

The cashier of a bank is an executive officer. First Nat. Bank v Mee, 126 Okla 265, 259 P 523.

See cashier.

executive order. An order promulgated by the President of the United States or the governor of a state.

executive ordinance. A municipal ordinance passed in the exercise of administrative or executive, rather than legislative power, and accordingly not subject to referendum. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 209.

executive power. The power vested in the executive department of the United States Government or the government of a state; the power vested in executive officers of a county, town, municipality, or other political subdivision; the power to administer and enforce the laws. State ex rel. Jameson v Denny, 118 Ind 382, 21 NE 252.

[434]

See executive department; executive officer; supreme executive power.

executive proceeding. Action taken by an executive officer or executive department without invoking the jurisdiction or aid of a court, for example, the summary collection of taxes by distraint and seizure of property of a person liable for payment of the taxes. 34 Am J2d Fed Tax ¶ 9403.

executive warrant. See extradition warrant.

executor. The person nominated by a testator to carry out the directions and requests in his will and to dispose of the property according to his testamentary provisions after his decease. One to whom a testator has given his goods, chattels, and personal estate for the purpose of paying all his debts. 21 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 3.

It is not to be implied that in order to name an executor by will, the will must dispose of property. There is an abundance of authority for the proposition that an instrument properly executed as a will may be probated as a will if it names or nominates an executor, notwithstanding it does not purport to dispose of any property further than to provide for the payment of debts which the law would require the personal representative to pay if the estate was intestate. Reeves v Duke, 192 Okla 519, 137 P2d 897, 147 ALR 634.

See domiciliary executor; foreign executor; independent executor; instituted executor; joint executor; renunciation of executorship; substituted executor; substitutionary executor.

executor de son tort. Literally, executor of his own wrong. A person who, without authority granted by the decedent or a court of probate, assumes, by interference with the estate of a decedent, to act as executor or administrator and performs such acts with respect to the personal property of that estate as can legally be done only by a properly appointed executor or administrator; one who intrudes himself into the office of personal representative of a decedent without legal authority, and of his own authority enters into the possession or assumes the management of, or intermeddles with, the property of the decedent. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 661. A quasi executor for the purpose only of being sued or made liable for the assets with which he has intermeddled. Grace v Seibert, 235 Ill 190, 85 NE 308.

executorial trustee. A person who is executor of a decedent's estate but is given powers and duties as a trustee, in reference to a testamentary trust created by the will, beyond the powers and duties of an executor. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 163.

executor's bond. The bond required of an executor as a condition of his right to act as personal representative of the decedent, the amount, form, and conditions of which are usually prescribed by statute. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 126.

executorship. The office of executor in relation to a particular estate of a decedent.

See executor.

executor's right of retainer. See retainer.

executor to the tenor. A person who, without any appointment as executor, performs certain of the functions of an executor.

See executor de son tort.

executory. Not yet executed; not yet fully performed, completed, fulfilled or carried out; to be performed either wholly or in part.

executory accord. An accord which has not been fully performed. 1 Am J2d Accord § 52. A compromise agreement which provides for the acceptance in the future of a stated performance in satisfaction of the antecedent claim. 15 Am J2d Compr § 24.

executory bequest. A testamentary gift of personal property on a contingency after an absolute gift to another. Robinson v Harris, 73 SC 469, 53 SE 755.

executory consideration. A consideration for a promise or an act, which consideration has not yet been performed and which the party who is to perform is either bound by contract to perform or not.

If a promissory note is given for future services of the payee, his rendition of the services furnishes a consideration to uphold the note which is equally valid whether or not he made a binding promise to render them. Miller v McKenzie, 95 NY 575.

executory contract. A contract to be performed, each party having bound himself to do or not to do a particular thing. 17 Am J2d Contr § 6.

executory contract of sale. A contract, the terms and conditions of which must be performed before title passes. 46 Am J1st Sales § 412. A land contract under which the execution and delivery of a further instrument is necessary for the passing of title to the purchaser. 55 Am J1st V & P § 100. A contract which gives the purchaser an interest in the land involved as the subject matter of the contract. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 832.

executory devises. Estates in futuro consisting of executory interests created by devises, recognized in equity and validated by the Statute of Uses and the Statute of Wills, but invalid under the early common law as in contravention of the rigid rules against a limitation of a fee on a fee or the taking effect of a future estate by the cutting short of a prior estate. 28 Am J2d Est §§ 333, 334.

executory estate. An estate which is to vest in possession at a future time.

See executory interests.

executory instrument. A written instrument which has not been fully executed or made effective by the parties; as a written contract which has been signed by the parties but has not yet been delivered. Stiebel v Grosberg, 202 NY 266, 95 NE 692.

executory interests. Estates in futuro created by executory devises or by conveyances to uses, recognized in equity and validated by the Statute of Uses, but invalid under the early common law as in contravention of the rigid rules against a limitation of a fee on a fee or the taking effect of a future estate by the cutting short of a prior estate. 28 Am J2d Est 333.

executory judgment. A judgment which remains unpaid; a judgment which has not been satisfied by voluntary payment, by an execution, or other method of enforcement. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 119.

executory limitation. Same as executory interest.

executory process. A proceeding under the civil law to enforce a judgment by confession by the seizure and sale of the property of the debtor. The term in French is "execution peree."

executory trust. In one sense, a trust not completely achieved in legal effect. In another sense, a trust indefinite in limitations of the equitable interest, so that it may be necessary to invoke the jurisdiction of equity to settle the limitations and model the trust in accordance with the intention of the creator of the trust. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 7.

[435]

executory use. A use which is to come into existence at a future time; a springing use, which arises from the seisin of the grantor with no estate preceding it.

See executory interest; shifting use; springing use; Statute of Uses.

executory warranty. A promissory warranty.

See promissory warranty.

executress. Same as executrix.

executrix. Feminine of executor.

executry. That portion of the personal property of a decedent which passes to his executor, as distinguished from that portion which goes to his heirs.

exegence. Same as exigent.

Exempla illustrant non restringunt legem. Examples illustrate the law; they do not restrict it.

exemplary damages. Damages given as an enhancement of compensatory damages because of the wanton, reckless, malicious, or oppressive character of the acts complained of, and by way of punishment of the defendant and a deterrent to others. 22 Am J2d Damg § 236. Damages awarded to punish the defendant for a wilful act and to vindicate the rights of a party in substitution for personal revenge, thus safeguarding the public peace. Winkler v Hartford Acci. & Indem. Co. 66 NJ Super 22, 168 A2d 418.

exempli causa. For or by way of example.

exemplification. A portrayal by example. The authentication of a copy by attestation or certification under seal.

See exemplified copy.

exemplified copy. An authenticated copy; a copy of a public document or record verified by the great seal or the seal of the court. 29 Am J2d Ev § 910.

exempli gratia. For or by way of example. The expression is commonly abbreviated, "e. g." or "ex. gr."

exemplum. An example; a copy; a transcript; a model.

exempt. Noun: A person who is free from any charge, burden, or duty. Re Strawbridge & Mays, 39 Ala 367, 379. Adjective: Free of an obligation which is binding on others.

exempt income. Income exempt from payment of income tax. Income not subject to levy or garnishment.

exemption. A privilege, sometimes referred to as a right, granted to a debtor by the grace and favor of the state on the grounds of public policy for a humane and generous purpose, which permits him to retain a portion of his property or earnings free from seizure or sale by his creditors under judicial process. 31 Am J2d Exemp §§ 1, 2. Freedom or release from duty or obligation, such as military service or service on a jury, not granted to others indiscriminately. Maine Water Co. v Waterville, 93 Me 586, 45 A 830; Green v State, 59 Md 123. An allowance of a deduction in computing net income for tax purposes by way of a personal exemption, an old-age exemption, or a blindness exemption. IRC § 151. The person for whom an exemption may be claimed in an income tax return. IRC § 151.

See limitation of liability.

exemption from arrest. The privilege, granted by constitutional provision or statute, of being free from arrest in a criminal case or a criminal case of a certain character. The privilege granted by constitutional provision, statute, or the common law of being free from arrest in a civil case. 5 Am J2d Arr § 95.

exemption from income tax. A fixed amount allowed by statute to the taxpayer for himself, spouse, and dependents against net income in determining taxable income; income of a certain nature, such as interest on certain bonds, rendered not subject to income tax by statute or common-law principle.

exemption from jury duty. The release of a class of persons by force of statute from the general duty of serving as a juror.

Such exemption is to be distinguished from an excuse granted a juror from service in a particular case or at a particular term of court. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 70.

exemption from military service. A release of a class of persons from compulsory military service or from certain phases of such service. 36 Am J1st Mil § 23.

exemption from self-incrimination. See self-incrimination.

exemption from service of process. A privilege, granted by constitutional provision or statute, or given by the courts upon grounds of public policy, to be free at certain times from the service of process in a civil action or proceeding, examples of which are attorneys at law while in attendance at court, persons in the active military service, members of Congress or of a state legislature while in attendance upon their legislative duties, etc. 42 Am J1st Proc § 135.

exemption from taxation. In the broad sense, all property not taxed; in a narrower sense, the grant of immunity, express or implied, to particular persons or corporations, or to persons or corporations of a particular class, from a tax upon property or an excise which persons and corporations generally within the same taxing district are obliged to pay. 51 Am J1st Tax § 495.

See tax exempt income; tax exemption; tax exempt organization.

exemptions. See exemption.

ex empto. From purchase; arising from or out of purchase.

exempt offices. Offices and employments excluded from the operation of civil service law. 15 Am J2d Civ S § 14.

ex eo quod plerumque fit. From that which frequently happens.

exequatur. (Latin.) Let it be executed. The formal grant of authority to a foreign consul by the country to which he is sent and by virtue of which he is able to exercise his official functions within its territorial limits. 4 Am J2d Ambss § 12.

exercise. To avail or make use of, as to use a peremptory challenge to a juror or to take up an option.

exercise of judgment. Acting advisedly; using sound judgment; acting with due care.

[436]

exercise of judicial discretion. See judicial discretion.

exercise of power of appointment. A disposition of property. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 216. A disposition of property made in accord with the mode or manner of execution provided for or designated in the power. 41 Am J1st Pow § 35.

exercitorial action. An action against the owner for breach of a contract made by the master of a ship.

exercitor maris. (Civil law.) A person who outfits a ship for a voyage; a "ship's husband."

exercitor navis. The charterer of a ship.

ex facie. On the face; as, on the face of an instrument.

ex facto. From the act; from the fact; by reason or in consequence of an act or fact.

Ex facto jus oritur. The law springs from the fact; law is born of fact.

ex fictione juris. By fiction of law; by legal fiction.

exfrediare. To commit a breach of the peace.

Ex frequenti delicto augetur poena. Punishment is increased by the frequency of crime.

ex. gr. Abbreviation of exempli gratia; abbreviation of ex gratia.

ex gratia. Not a matter of right, but resting in the exercise of a sound discretion to determine the demands of justice. 5 Am J2d A & E § 998.

ex gravi querela. From or on the grievous complaint,—an ancient writ for the recovery of land by a devisee from whom it was wrongfully withheld by the heir of the testator.

exhaeres. A person who has been disinherited by his ancestor.

exhaeridatio. A disinheritance.

exhausted. Tired out; drained; used up. The application of all the assets of a debtor to the claims of his creditors, so that further executions on judgments against him will be returned unsatisfied. Globe Publishing Co. v State Bank of Nebraska, 41 Neb 175, 59 NW 683.

exhausting security. The necessity of a creditor to look to a lien which secures him alone before seeking satisfaction from a lien which secures other creditors as well as him. 35 Am J1st Marsh A § 2.

exhaustion of remedy. The doctrine that where an administrative remedy is provided, relief must be sought exhausting such remedy before the courts will act. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 595.

exheredate. To disinherit.

exhibere. To produce; to produce in a court of justice; to offer as an exhibit.

exhibit. A copy of a written instrument on which a pleading is founded, annexed to the pleading and by reference made a part of it. 41 Am J1st Pl § 55. Any paper or thing offered in evidence and marked for identification. Item of real or demonstrative evidence offered in evidence for observation by court or jury. 29 Am J2d Ev § 771. Something on exhibition.

See exhibition.

exhibitant. A party to an action who offers an exhibit.

exhibitio billae. The exhibition of a bill,—the filing of a suit.

exhibition. A fair; a show; a presentation of works of art or of trade and commerce for viewing by the public or a class of persons. A suit to compel a person to produce writings. exhumation. The removal of a body from the grave.

ex hypothesi. Upon the hypothesis or supposition.

exidos. Vacant spaces for exercise, and for threshing corn, or other general uses, which were reserved or set apart for such purposes in the laying out of Spanish-American towns. Strother v Lucas (US) 12 Pet 410, 444, note, 9 L Ed 1137, 1150, note.

exigence. Same as exigency.

exigency. An urgency; a demand; a need; a requirement; a condition.

See public exigency.

exigency of a bond. The condition upon which the enforcement of the bond depends.

exigendary. Same as exigenter.

exigent. A writ which was used in outlawry proceedings when the defendant could not be found. The writ required the sheriff to cause the defendant to be proclaimed, required or exacted in five county courts successively, to render himself, and if he did, to take him. If he did not appear, he was outlawed by the coroners of the county. See 3 Bl Comm 283.

exigenter. An officer of the English court of common pleas who issued writs of exigent.

exigible. Capable of being demanded or required; as the payment of a debt.

exigi facias. Same as exigent.

exile. To banish, to send a person out of the country as a punishment for crime; banishment; a person who has been banished. See 1 Bl Comm 137.

Exilium est patriae privatio, natalis soli mutatio, legum nativarum amissio. Exile or banishment is a deprivation of country, a change of natal soil, a loss of native laws.

ex improviso. Without any preparation.

ex incontinenti. With incontinence; incontinently; immediately; summarily.

ex industria. On purpose; purposely; intentionally. Martin v Hunter's Lessee (US) 1 Wheat 304, 334, 4 L Ed 97, 104.

ex insinuatione. Upon the information of; upon the suggestion of.

ex integro. Anew; over again; afresh.

ex intervallo. After an interval.

exire. To go out; to come out; to issue forth; to issue.

exist. To be; to have being; to come into existence; to have existence.

[437]

existence. Life; a state of being; a corporation endowed with the capacity to transact the legal business for which it was created. 18 Am J2d Corp § 43.

See entity; potential existence.

existimatio. An opinion which one man has of another; estimation; reputation; the award of an arbitrator.

existing. Existing; in existence; having being.

existing creditors. As the term appears in a statute which provides for the avoidance of a fraudulent transfer or conveyance as to "existing creditors," persons having subsisting obligations against the grantor or donor at the time of the transfer or conveyance, whether or not the obligations had been reduced to judgment at that time, even immature or contingent obligations. Carr v Davis, 64 W Va 522, 63 SE 326; Sallaske v Fletcher, 73 Wash 593, 132 P 648; Uniform Fraudulent Conveyance Act § 1. For some purposes, an "existing indebtedness" is a liquidated demand or a sum of money due by certain and express agreement.

See existing indebtedness. existing debt. See existing indebtedness.

existing equity. An existing right enforceable in equity, if not at law.

The right of a carrier to deny as to the shipper receipt of the goods for which its agent has issued a bill of lading is an "existing equity" within the provision of the Federal Bill of Lading Act that a straight bill cannot be negotiated free from existing equities. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. v State Nat. Bank, 280 Ky 444, 133 SW2d 511, 130 ALR 1306.

See equitable right.

existing indebtedness. For some purposes, a liquidated demand or a sum of money due by certain and express agreement. Craig v Gaddis, 171 Miss 379, 157 So 684. 95 ALR 1494 (availability of remedy of attachment); Wing v Slater, 19 RI 597, 35 A 302 (personal liability of stockholders for existing debts of corporation). In other connections, one may have the status of an "existing creditor," even though the obligation owing to him is immature or contingent.

See existing creditors.

existing insurance. Other insurance on the same risk in existence at the time of application for insurance. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 778.

Benefit certificates in mutual aid societies have been held not to constitute "existing insurance" as the term is employed in applications for life insurance, but there is respectable authority to the contrary. Penn Mill. Life Ins. Co. v Mechanics' Sav. Bank & Trust Co. (CA6 Tenn) 72 F 413, reh den 73 F 653.

existing law. A broad term but, in the particular context in which it appears, it may be limited to statutory law, as distinguished from common law, or to Federal law, as distinguished from state law. Chicago, St. Paul etc. R Co. v Latta, 226 US 519, 57 L Ed 328, 33 S Ct 155; Adams Express Co. v Croninger, 226 US 491, 57 L Ed 314; 33 S Ct 148 (application of provision of Carmack Amendment).

existing use. A familiar term in zoning ordinances and regulations, usually employed in characterizing a nonconforming use excepted from the application of the ordinance or regulation, and meaning an actual, as distinguished from a mere contemplated, use, existing at the time of the enactment of the ordinance or the passage of the regulation, but not necessarily a use in actual operation at that time or a use which utilizes the entire tract involved. De Felice v Zoning Board of Appeals, 130 Conn 156, 32 A2d 635, 147 ALR 161.

exit. Verb: To go out. (Latin.) To issue something, for example, a writ or process. Noun: A way out, particularly a way out of a building or off a stage in a theater.

exitu. See in exitu.

exitus. An issue. An issue, "exitus," being the end of all the pleadings, is the fourth part or stage of an action, and is either upon matter of law, or matter of fact. See 3 Bl Comm 314.

exit wound. A wound made by a sword or other weapon or instrument at the point where it comes out of the body after having passed through it.

ex jure naturale. From the law of nature.

See natural law; natural rights.

ex juste causa. From or with a just or lawful cause; by a just or legal title.

ex latere. From the side or flank; collaterally.

exlegalitas. Outlawry.

exlegare. To cause a felon to be outlawed.

exlegatus. Outlawed; an outlaw.

ex lege. According to law; by law; as a matter of law.

ex legibus. According to the laws; by the laws.

exlex. An outlaw, a felon who has been outlawed.

ex licentia regis. By leave or license of the king.

ex locato. From a lease; from a letting.

ex majore cautela. For greater caution.

Ex mala causa non oritur actio. From all unlawful transaction, no cause of action arises. Commercial Nat. Bank v First Nat. Bank, 118 NC 783, 24 SE 524.

ex maleficio. From or out of wrongdoing; tortious; tortiously.

See trustee ex maleficio.

Ex maleficio non oritur contractus. A contract cannot be born of wrongdoing.

Ex malis moribus bonae leges natae sunt. Good laws are born of bad morals.

ex malitia. From or out of malice; maliciously.

See malice.

ex militia sua praecogitata. With his malice aforethought; with malice aforethought.

ex merito justitiae. For the benefit of or in the interest of justice.

ex mero motu. On the court's own motion, without application made by either party.

ex mora. From or by reason of delay.

[438]

ex mora debitoris. From or by reason of the delay of the debtor.

ex more. By or according to the custom or usage.

Ex multitudine signorum, colligitur identitas vera. From a large number of signs or marks the true identity of anything is gathered or established.

ex mutuo. From or out of the loan of a thing.

ex natura rei. From the nature of the thing.

ex necessitate. From or by reason of necessity.

ex necessitate legis. By necessity of law; by legal necessity; as where a woman is capitally convicted and pleads her pregnancy, it is cause to stay execution until her delivery. See 4 Bl Comm 394.

ex necessitate rei. From the necessity of the thing; from the exigency or urgency of the matter.

Ex nihilo nihil fit. Nothing comes from nothing.

Ex nudo pacto non oritur actio. No action can accrue out of a mere naked promise, that is, a promise for which there is no consideration. Cook v Bradley, 7 Conn 57.

ex officio. From or by virtue of the office. A right or privilege in an office arising from one's status as the holder of another office, for example, the right of a justice of the peace to membership on a town board.

ex officio informations. Informations charging crime filed by the attorney general of England.

ex officio justice of the peace. An officer having all the powers of a justice of the peace, without being actually elected or appointed to that office, the powers and duties being attached to some other office, such as that of mayor or magistrate of a municipality. 31 Am J Rev ed J P § 5.

exonerare. To exonerate; to discharge; to release from liability; to free.

exoneration. Absolving of a charge or imputation of guilt; the lifting of a burden; a discharge; a release from liability; the application of the personal property of an intestate to the payment of his debts and the relief of his real property therefrom. 21 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 391.

See contribution; indemnity.

exoneratione sectae. See de exoneratione sectae.

exoneration of bail. The release from liability of the sureties on a bail bond either by their surrender of their principal to the proper authorities; by his surrender of himself before the day stipulated in the bond; by the acquittal of the principal or the termination of the prosecution by any other means before the forfeiture of the bond or undertaking. 8 Am J2d Bail § 120.

exoneration of surety. The discharge of a surety. 50 Am J1st Suret § 40.

See exoneration of bail.

exoneretur. Let him be discharged, –a notation made on a bail-piece discharging the sureties from liability.

exor. An abbreviation of executor.

ex ordine. From or according to the order.

Ex pacto illicito non oritur actio. From an unlawful agreement, no action can arise.

ex parte. Of or from one side or party. Application made to the court without notice to the adverse party.

ex parte deposition. A deposition taken without notice in cases of necessity and in cases where all that is sought in the way of testimony is mere formal proof or proof of an isolated fact. Walsh v Rogers (US) 13 How 283, 14 L Ed 147.

ex parte injunction. An injunction issued without prior notice to the adverse party. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 248.

ex parte materna. On the maternal or mother's side.

ex parte motion. A motion made to the court without notice to the adverse party. 37 Am J1st Motions § 26.

ex parte order. An order made by the court upon the application of one of the parties to an action without notice to the other. 37 Am J1st Motions § 26.

ex parte paterna. On the paternal or father's side.

expatriate. Verb: To quit one's country, renouncing citizenship in and allegiance to that country and taking residence in and becoming a citizen of another country. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 120. Noun: One who has expatriated himself.

expatriation. A voluntary change of allegiance from one country to another, effecting an absolute termination of all civil and political rights as of the date of such act. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 120.

The concept of expatriation has no application to the removal from this country of a native citizen during minority. In such case the voluntary action which is the essence of the right of expatriation is lacking. That right is fittingly recognized where a child born here, who may be, or may become, subject to a dual nationality, elects on attaining majority citizenship in the country to which he has removed. Perkins v Elg, 307 US 325, 83 L Ed 1320, 59 S Ct 884.

See expatriate.

Ex paucis dictis intendere plurima possis. It is possible to express very much in a few words.

expect. To anticipate. A secondary meaning of "to demand". Sillman v Spokane Sav. & Loan Soc. 103 Wash 619, 175 P2d 296.

expectancies. Estates in anticipation, not in present possession or enjoyment. 28 Am J2d Est § 2. Reversions, remainders, and estates in the nature of remainders known as executory interests. A mere naked possibility not coupled with an interest. Hart v Gregg, 32 Ohio St 502. The bare hope of succession to the property of another, something so inchoate as to have no attribute of property. Johnson v Breeding, 136 Tenn 528, 190 SW 545.

See possibility.

[439]

expectancy of life. See expectation of life.

expectancy tables. See mortality tables.

expectant estates. Future interests, whether vested or contingent or of an executory nature. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 30. Reversions, remainders, vested or contingent, and executory interests. But not including the mere possibility of a reverter, which the grantor has after he has conveyed in fee on condition subsequent. Upington v Corrigan, 151 NY 143, 45 NE 359.

expectant fee. See expectant estates; fee-expectant.

expectant heir. See heir apparent.

expectant right. See expectancies; expectant estates.

expectation. See anticipation; expectancies; in expectation.

expectation of life. The presumption of the continuance of life. 22 Am J2d Dth § 294. The expected duration of the life of a man or woman of a particular age, as calculated according to the statistics of mortality and listed in mortality tables.

See mortality tables.

expected return. The total amount or the estimated amount to be received under an annuity contract. IRC § 72(c) (2).

expect to pay. Words importing a desire, a willingness, or an intention to pay, but not a promise. Coe v Rosene, 66 Wash 73, 118 P 881.

expediency of measure. The wisdom or propriety of a measure adopted by an administrative agency to which the formulation and execution of policy has been entrusted. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 677.

expedient. Advantageous; suitable for the particular purpose.

expediente. A complete statement of every step taken in the proceedings to acquire a Mexican grant. Ainsa v United States, 161 US 208, 40 L Ed 673, 16 S Ct 544.

expeditate. To cut off the feet.

expedition of dogs. Also called the "lawing" of dogs,—the practice of cutting off the claws and ball or pelote of the forefeet of mastiffs, to prevent them from running after deer in the king's forests. See 3 Bl Comm 72.

expeditio. Service; execution.

expeditio brevis. The execution or service of a writ.

expeditio contra hostem. Military service against an enemy, a part of the "tri-noda necessitas" or three-fold burden to which every man's estate was subject under the ancient laws of England. Butler v Perry, 240 US 328, 60 L Ed 672, 36 S Ct 258.

expedition. A journey by several persons or a body of persons; ordinarily not inclusive of a journey by one person, notwithstanding hazard to the person in making the trip. King v Equitable Life Assur. Soc. 232 Iowa 541, 5 NW2d 845, 155 ALR 1022.

See aeronautic expedition; military expedition.

Expedit reipublicae ut sit finis litium. It is of advantage to the state that litigation should come to an end. Eastman v Cooper, 32 Mass (15 Pick) 276.

Expedit reipublicae ne sua re quis male utatur. It is for the welfare of the state that no one should make an ill use of his property.

expel. To drive out or put out. To terminate the membership of a person in a club, lodge, or association. Macauley v Tierney, 19 RI 255, 33 A 1.

See expulsion.

expended. Actually paid out or disbursed. School Dist. v Smith, 82 Or 443, 161 P 706.

expeditors. Paymasters.

expenditure. A word impossible of precise definition, the meaning of which must be determined from the circumstances under which it is used. United States v CIO, 335 US 106, 92 L Ed 1849, 68 S Ct 1349. For some purposes, a necessary outlay of money, that is, an expense. Natural Gas Pipe Line Co. v State Commission of Revenue, 155 Kan 416, 125 P2d 397, 140 ALR 1341. For other purposes, a contribution, for example, an expenditure in aid of a candidate for political office. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 175.

See capital expenditures.

expensae. Expenses; charges; costs.

expensae circa funus. Expenses at the time of a funeral; funeral expenses.

expensae litis. Costs of suit.

expense. The cost of a thing or of services; the charge made for something; a paying out for something.

See expenditure; family expenses; funeral expenses; operating expenses; ordinary and necessary expense; overhead expenses.

expense incurred. An expense for which one has become liable, even though not defrayed. Brown v Helvering, 291 US 193, 78 L Ed 724, 54 S Ct 356.

expense of litigation. Court costs and attorneys' fees.

As the expression is used in an indemnity insurance policy giving the insurer the right to control the litigation, it embraces all the expenses the assured was put to by the litigation, including costs, damages and interest, although there are decisions which do not include these items in ruling on such policies. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v Bowling Green Gaslight Co. 150 Ky 732, 150 SW 994.

expense ration. Terminology of insurers; an amount arrived at by measuring expenses incurred, including all expenses incurred in acquiring, writing and servicing business, but excluding loss adjustment expenses, against premiums written.

expenses of administration. See administration expenses.

expenses of family. See family expenses.

expenses of last illness. See death-bed expenses; funeral expenses.

expensis civium et burgensium. See de expensis, etc.

experience. Work, pleasure, any facet of life gone by, as distinguished from that which is only imagined or anticipated. That from which a degree of proficiency in a profession or occupation is expected to result. The proficiency of an employee at his work, including his knowledge of the work, particularly dangers inherent therein. 35 Am J1st M & S § 290. An insurer's record of losses in respect of a particular class of risks carried, such as automobile liability, inland marine, and plate glass. The result of the operation of an unemployment compensation law in the state in reference to all employers and employees engaged under the act. Broadway v Alabama Dry Dock & Shipbuilding Co. 246 Ala 201, 20 So 2d 41.

Under a credit insurance policy which permits credit to be extended according to the previous "experience" of the insured with the customer, the word thus used denotes closed transactions, that is, indebtedness which has been paid. Philadelphia Casualty Co. v Cannon & Buyers Millinery Co. 133 Ky 745, 118 SW 1004.

[440]

experience tables. See mortality tables.

Experientia per varios actus legem facit. Magistra rerum experientia. Experience by various acts makes law. Experience is the mistress of things.

experimental evidence. Proof of a fact by way of an experiment performed in court, at any rate in the presence of judge and jury, or evidence of experiments performed out of court under similar conditions and like circumstances to those existing in the case at issue. People v Levine, 85 Cal 39, 22 P 969, 24 P 631.

expert. One who is so qualified, either by actual experience or by careful study, as to enable him to form a definite opinion of his own respecting a division of science, branch of art, or department of trade about which persons having no particular training or special study are incapable of forming accurate opinions or of deducing correct conclusions. Scott v Astoria & C. River R. Co. 43 Or 26, 72 P 594.

Accountants, engineers, clerks, and stenographers are properly to be considered experts within the meaning of a statutory provision which authorizes a public service commission to employ experts to assist the members of the commission in obtaining extensive information regarding public utilities. Anno: 10 ALR 1453, s. 18 ALR 946.

See expert witness.

expert opinion. See expert testimony; expert witness.

expert testimony. The opinion of an expert witness; the testimony of persons who are particularly skilled, learned, or experienced in a particular art, science, trade, business, profession, or vocation a thorough knowledge of which is not possessed by men in general, in regard to matters connected therewith. 31 Am J2d Exp & Op § 1.

See expert witness; medical evidence.

expert witness. A person who is so qualified, either by actual experience or by careful study, as to enable him to form a definite opinion of his own respecting a division of science, branch of art, or department of trade about which persons having no particular training or special study are incapable of forming accurate opinions or of deducing correct conclusions. 31 Am J2d Exp & Op § 1. A witness qualified by scientific or specialized knowledge or experience so as to be permitted to testify not only to the facts, but to his opinion respecting the facts, so far as necessary to inform the jury and enable them to understand the issues of fact and arrive at a proper conclusion. 26 Am J1st Homi § 432.

expilare. To despoil; to pillage; to plunder; to rob.

expiration. Coming to an end; termination by lapse of time.

expiration of policy. The termination of an insurance policy by expiration of the period of coverage stated in the instrument.

See expirations.

expiration of term. An ending of the term of a lease by the lapse of the time provided by the lease for its duration. 32 Am J1st L & T § 138. Any termination of a lease, whether by expiration of the period of the lease or by the occurrence of a condition which calls for a termination. Pringle v Wilson, 156 Cal 313, 104 P 316.

See option to terminate.

expirations. A technical term in the insurance business; a record kept by an insurance agent of policies issued which contains the dates of issuance, names of the insureds, expiration dates, the amounts of the policies issued, the amounts of the premiums, the properties covered and particular terms of the insurance. Anno: 124 ALR 1356.

expire. To exhale. To emit the last breath; to perish; to cease; to come to an end; to conclude; to terminate.

See expiration.

expired. Having come to an end. Having died.

See expiration; expire.

expiry of the legal. The expiration of the period of time within which property subjected to a judgment might be redeemed.

explees. Same as esplees.

explicatio. A pleading under the civil law which corresponded to the surrejoinder of the common law.

exploration expenditure. The cost of geological or geophysical work in prospecting for oil and gas or other minerals.

See mine exploration costs.

exploratory drilling test. A test had by way of discovery to ascertain the extent of mineral deposits. 23 Am J2d Dep § 184.

explosion. A bursting with violence and loud noise caused by internal pressure; a sudden bursting or breaking up or in pieces from an internal or other force. 31 Am J2d Explos § 1. A violent bursting or expansion, following the production of great pressure, or a certain release of pressure. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1296.

explosive. Any substance the decomposition or combustion of which generates gas with such rapidity that it can be used for blasting, in firearms, or for the generation of power. 31 Am J2d Explos § 1. Material from which through nuclear transformation tremendous forms of energy are released. 6 Am J2d Atomic E § 2.

exportation. The sending of goods from one country to another country.

export certificate. A certificate issued by the keeper of the English Stud Book when a horse entered in the book is exported, by means of which the foreign purchaser is enabled to register the horse in his own country. Halbronn v International Horse Agency & Exchange [1903] 1 King's Bench 270.

exports. Articles shipped from a port of the United States to a foreign country. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 5. Goods and merchandise exported to foreign countries. 51 Am J1st Tax § 104.

export value. The value of imported goods in the country of export. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 83.

expose. To disclose; to make known; to exhibit; to leave unprotected.

exposed to disease. Subjected to existing conditions under which a disease may be communicated. Re Smith, 146 NY 68, 40 NE 497.

[441]

expose for sale. To exhibit goods to persons solicited to purchase, or to have them in hand in the presence of such persons and to offer to exhibit them without actually doing so. Commonwealth v Hana, 195 Mass 262, 81 NE 149.

exposing buildings. A term familiar in insurance; such buildings as tend to increase the risk of loss by fire and naturally may be considered in fixing the rate of premium. Macatawa Transp. Co. v Fireman's Fund Ins. Co. 168 Mich 365, 134 NW 193.

exposing for sale. See expose for sale.

expositio. Exposition; interpretation; explanation.

Expositio, quae ex visceribus causae nascitur, est aptissima et fortissima in lege. That interpretation which springs from the essence of a cause is the most apt and the most powerful in law.

expository statute. A statute which does not purport or attempt to amend an existing statute, but which provides a rule or manner for its construction or interpretation. Lindsay v United States Sav. & Loan Co. 120 Ala 156, 24 So 171.

ex post facto. After the thing is done; after the act is committed. Calder v Bull (US) 3 Dall 386, 1 L Ed 648. Signifying something done after, or arising from or to affect, another thing committed before. State v Masino, 216 La 352, 43 So 2d 685, 14 ALR2d 720.

ex post facto law. A law which, in its operation, makes that criminal which was not so at the time of the act, or which increases the punishment, or, in short, which, in relation to the offense or its consequences, alters the situation of a party to his disadvantage. Lindsey v Washington, 301 US 397, 81 L Ed 1182, 57 S Ct 797. A law that deprives a person accused of crime of a substantial right in which he was protected and granted immunity by the law in force at the time of the commission of the offense. Murphy v Commonwealth, 172 Mass 264, 52 NE 505. A law which operates upon a subject not liable to it at the time the law was made. State v Masino, 216 La 352, 43 So 2d 685, 14 ALR2d 720.

exposure. The state of being exposed; openness to danger; accessibility to anything that may affect, especially detrimentally. In the business of fire insurance, a source of danger external to the insured property itself. Davis v Western Home Ins. Co. 81 Iowa 496, 46 NW 1073.

See indecent exposure; involuntary exposure; unnecessary exposure.

exposure of person. See indecent exposure.

ex praecogitata malicia. With malice aforethought.

ex praemissis. From the premises.

express. Adjective: Stated, explicit, clear; declared; not left to implication. State ex rel. Holt v Denny, 118 Ind 447, 21 NE 274. Noun: A method of transportation of property or remittance of money.

express acceptance. An acceptance of an offer expressed in words of acceptance, leaving nothing to inference or implication. 17 Am J2d Contr § 44. The acceptance of a dedication by formal ratification by the proper official board of the municipality or other public body concerned, the adoption of a municipal ordinance, the vote of a town council, the signing of a written instrument by the proper authorities, the execution of an official map by a city showing the street offered to be dedicated, or the act of the legislature incorporating a town, or adopting a map showing its limits. 23 Am J2d Ded § 50.

express agency. An actual agency created as a result of the oral or written agreement of the parties. 3 Am J2d Ag § 18.

express aider. The doctrine that a defect in pleading is aided if the adverse party pleads over to or answers the defective pleading in such a manner that an omission or informality therein is supplied or rendered formal or intelligible. Cross v Chicago, 198 Ill App 177.

Expressa nocent; non expressa non nocent. That which is expressed may injure; that which is not expressed will not.

Expressa non prosunt quae non expressa proderunt. Things which are expressed may be detrimental which if not expressed would be beneficial.

express assumpsit. An undertaking supported by an express promise.

express authority. Such authority as is directly granted to or conferred upon an agent or employee in express terms. 3 Am J2d Ag § 69.

express business. See express company.

express cars. The cars of an express company carried on railroad trains.

express color. A characterization of an evasive plea setting up feigned matter.

express company. A common carrier, its business being that of transporting over a regular route and at regular times money, goods in packages of limited size, and other small but valuable parcels for the public generally. 13 Am J2d Car § 15. At one time the most outstanding example of a joint stock company. 30 Am J Rev ed Jnt Stk Co § 8.

A person who carries goods from one city to another, and from one place to another in either city, solely on call and at special request without making regular trips or going over regular routes, is merely a truckman and is not in the express business. Retzer v Wood, 109 US 185, 27 L Ed 900.

express condition. Literally, a condition stated rather than implied. A qualification annexed to an estate in real property by the terms of the instrument which creates the estate. Raley v County of Umatilla, 15 Or 172, 13 P 890.

express consideration. A consideration which is expressed in the contract.

express contract. A contract, the terms of which are stated by the parties. 17 Am J2d Contr § 3. A contract which expresses the intentions of the parties in words. 58 Am J1st Wk & L § 2.

Where there is an actual promise, a contract is said to be express; where there is no actual promise, a contract is said to be implied. Damron v Stewart & Weir, 253 Ky 394, 69 SW2d 683.

express covenant. A covenant stated in words more or less distinctly exposing the intent to covenant. 20 Am J2d Cov § 11.

express dedication. A dedication made explicitly by deed, note, memorandum, or oral declaration. 23 Am J2d Ded § 1.

[442]

express direction. As the term appears in a statute of frauds which requires a writing signed by the party to the contract sought to be charged or by another at his "express direction": –any word or act intended as a direction to sign, the term not being limited to a direction in words. Ex parte: Leonard, 39 SC 302, 18 SE 216.

express easement. An easement created by grant, reservation, exception, agreement or covenant. See 25 Am J2d Ease §§ 20-22.

express emancipation. That emancipation which takes place when the parent freely and voluntarily agrees with his child, who is able to take care of and provide for himself, that he may leave home, earn his own living, and do as he pleases with his earnings. 39 Am J1st P & C § 64.

express invitation. An invitation extended by an owner of property in terms to a person or persons to come upon the premises, to make use of them, or to do something thereon. Robinson v Leighton, 122 Me 309, 119 A 809, 30 ALR 1386, 1389.

Expressio eorum quae tacite insunt nihil operatur. The statement of those things which are tacitly understood can avail nothing. Stuart v Easton, 170 US 383, 395, 42 L Ed 1078, 1082, 18 S Ct 650.

expressio falsi. A falsehood; an untrue statement.

expression of opinion. See expert testimony; opinion; opinion evidence.

Expressio non prosunt quae non expressa proderunt. Things which are expressed may be disadvantageous which not expressed would benefit.

expressio unius est exclusio alterius. The expression of one thing implies the exclusion of another thing. A maxim applied in a construction of contracts to the effect that the expression in a contract of one or more things of a class implies the exclusion of all not expressed. 17 Am J2d Contr § 255. A principle of statutory construction, but as an aid to construction, not a rule of law, the principle being of limited use and application. 50 Am J1st Stat §§ 244, 245.

express lien. A charge upon property for the payment or discharge of a debt or duty created in stated and explicit terms.

expressly. Clearly, directly, plainly, distinctly. State ex rel. Holt v Denny, 118 Ind 447, 21 NE 274.

express malice. A deliberate or premeditated design to inflict injury or take life. 26 Am J1st Homi § 38. For the purposes of the law of defamation, malice in fact as distinguished from implied malice. 33 Am J1st L & S § 111.

See malice in fact.

express messenger. An employee of an express company in charge of the express car on a railroad train. Louisville N. O. & T. R. Co. v Douglass, 69 Miss 723, 11 So 933.

express notice. Actual notice by direct information. 39 Am J1st Notice § 6.

express permission. As the term appears in a statute rendering an automobile owner liable for injury caused by the car in operation by another with "express permission" –prior knowledge of the intended use and an affirmative and active consent to it. 8 Am J2d Auto § 605.

express ratification. The ratification of an unauthorized act by spoken or written words. 3 Am J2d Agency § 162.

express trust. A trust which arises out of a direct or positive declaration of trust. A trust that comes into existence by the execution of an intention to create it by the person having legal and equitable dominion over the property made subject to it. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 30.

Expressum facit cessare tacitum. The express declaration puts to an end anything which silence might signify. Siegel v Herbine, 148 Pa 236, 23 A 996.

express warranty. A part of a contract of sale of personalty:—being a statement in so many words that the subject of the sale has a certain quality or condition. 46 Am J1st Sales § 299. In a contract of insurance:—an agreement contained in the policy whereby the insured stipulates that certain facts relating to the risk are or shall be true, or that certain acts relating to the subject of the insurance have been or shall be done. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 709.

expressway. A superior highway.

See limited-access highway.

Ex procedentibus et consequentibus optima fit interpretatio. The best interpretation or explanation is made from the matter which precedes and follows.

ex professo. By profession; professedly.

Expromissio. A kind of novation in the civil law, whereby the creditor accepted a new debtor in the place of the original one and released the latter.

expromissor. (Civil law.) A person who assumed the payment of a debtor's obligation, thus releasing the original debtor upon the creditor's acceptance of the new debtor.

expromittere. To become bound as an expromissor.

See expromissor.

expropriate. In modern usage, to condemn for public use; in older usage, a surrender or renunciation of a claim to property.

expropriation. The English and Canadian term for eminent domain.

See eminent domain.

ex proprio motu. Of his own motion; of his own accord.

ex proprio vigore. Of its own force; by its own force; automatically.

ex provisione hominis. By provision of man; that is, by a man's own act, not by operation of law.

ex provisione mariti. By or from the provision of the husband.

ex provisione viri. By or from the provision of the husband.

expulsion. A driving out with force. An enforced withdrawal from or termination of membership in a lodge or mutual benefit society. 36 Am 12d Frat

[443]

O § 64. The removal of a member of a nonprofit corporation from the list of members and the elimination of his rights as a member. 18 Am J2d Corp § 473. The dismissal of a student from a university or college. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 25. The dismissal of a public school pupil for breach of a rule, regulation or requirement of the school authorities. 47 Am J1st Sch § 177.

See deportation; excommunication.

expurgation. A purging; a cleansing; a purification.

ex quasi contractu. As if from a contract; as if arising out of a contract.

ex rel. An abbreviation of ex relatione.

ex rel. action. An action in which a relator appears as one beneficially interested, the action being maintained on his behalf.

See relator.

ex relatione. On the relation of; on the information of.

See relator.

ex rigore juris. From or according to the rigor or harshness of the law.

exrogare. (Roman law.) To adopt a part of an old law in the enactment of a new one.

exscript. A copy; a transcript.

ex scriptis olim visis. From writings formerly seen.

ex ship. In connection with the stipulated price in a contract for the sale of merchandise: all expenses incurred to the time the goods leave the ship's tackle are to be borne by the seller; all expenses incurred after that time are to be borne by the buyer. Harrison v Fortlage, 161 US 57, 40 L Ed 616, 16 S Ct 488.

A bill of sale of goods in bulk at the time of the sale in a foreign country, to be delivered "ex vessel" in New York Harbor, means that the merchandise should be delivered at New York, and not at the place where it was when sold. Tinsley v Weidinger, 15 Daly 534, 8 NYS 476.

ex speciali gratia. From special grace, favor, or indulgence.

ex speciali gratia, certa scientia, et mero motu regis. By special favor, certain knowledge, and mere motion of the king: a usual clause in a king's grant. See 2 Bl Comm 347.

ex statuto. According to the statute.

ex tempore. For the time being; for the occasion; temporarily; from lapse of time.

extend. To stretch; to lengthen; to prolong. Quinn v Valiquet, 80 Vt 434, 68 A 515. To levy a writ of extent. Den ex dem. Murray v Hoboken Land & Improv. Co. (US) 18 How 272, 15 L Ed 372. To make a complete record of a judicial proceeding.

extended insurance. Life insurance for the full amount of the policy, less contractual deductions, for the period contemplated by the nonforfeiture table. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 619.

extendi facias. A form of writ of execution, also known as a writ of extent, against the body, goods, and lands of the judgment debtor. 30 Am J2d Exec § 29. In some jurisdictions, a writ under which lands are seized by the sheriff and delivered to the plaintiff for the purpose of the recovery of the debt out of the rents and profits, but appraised at their full extended value before delivery to the plaintiff. 30 Am J2d Exec § 29.

Extenditur haec pax et securitas ad quatuordecim dies, convocato regni senatu. This tranquillity and protection is extended to fourteen days from the assembling of the senate of the kingdom. See 1 Bl Comm 165.

extension. A stretching; a lengthening; a prolongation; a continuance; a grant of further time. An addition to the system of lines of a public utility for the purpose of serving new territory. State ex rel. Mason v Consumers' Power Co. 119 Minn 225, 137 NW 1104. A railroad running off a main line like a spur but constituting a part of the railroad system to be operated as a common carrier. 44 Am J1st RR § 231.

extension of building. An enlargement of a building. An addition to a building. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 294.

extension of charter. A prolongation of the existence of a corporation by statute or pursuant to statute. 18 Am J2d Corp § 69.

While the term "extension" has frequently been used synonymously with "renewal", it has been held that to "extend" a charter is to give one which now exists greater or longer time to operate in than that to which it was originally limited, while "renewal" of a charter is to give a new existence to one which has been forfeited, or which has lost its vitality by lapse of time. Moers v Reading, 21 Pa 188.

extension of debt. See extension of time.

extension of lease. The lengthening of the term of a lease by mutual agreement or by the exercise by the lessee of an option contained in the lease. 32 Am J1st L & T §§ 953 et seq.

In some of the cases, the courts seem to disregard any distinction in meaning between a renewal and an extension. However, generally a distinction is drawn between a provision in a lease for a renewal and a provision for the extension of the term at the option of the lessee, the courts treating the latter, upon the exercise of the privilege, as a present demise for the full term to which it may be extended and not a demise for the shorter period with a privilege for a new lease for the extended term. 32 Am J1st L & T § 956.

There is a distinction between a stipulation in a lease to renew it for an additional term and one to extend it, in that a stipulation to renew requires the making of a new lease, while a stipulation to extend does not. Grant v Collins, 157 Ky 36, 41, 162 SW 539.

extension of mortgage. The extension of the maturity of the obligation secured. 36 Am J1st Mtg § 381. The extension of the security of the mortgage to cover an additional indebtedness or future advances. 36 Am J1st Mtg §§ 67, 68.

extension of note. See extension of time.

extension of record. The preparation of the complete record of an action or proceeding in court from the processes and pleadings on file. 15 Am J2d Clk Ct § 23.

extension of term. See extension of lease.

extension of time. The prolongation of a period previously fixed. Modification of an obligation by giving additional time for performance. 11 Am J2d B & N § 297. Prolonging the time for payment of a note to a date beyond the due date stated in the note. Rossville State Bank v Heslet, 84 Kan 315, 113 P 1052. Relief granted to a debtor by a court of bankruptcy in respect of unsecured indebtedness in an arrangement proceeding under the Bankruptcy Act. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1317.

[444]

See extension of lease.

extenso. See in extenso. extensores. Officers appointed to extend or appraise lands.

extent. A writ or process usually called an "extent" or "extendi facias," because the sheriff is to cause the property seized to be appraised at its full extended value, before he delivers it to the plaintiff, that it may be known how soon the debt will be satisfied. This writ or process was commonly used upon forfeitures of recognizances on statutes merchant or statutes staple when body, lands and goods of the debtor might all be taken on execution. See 21 Am J2d Exec § 29.

Size, amount, coverage, applicable to time, space, proportion, etc., in fact a word which varies in meaning according to the subject to which it is applied. Wilson v Rousseau (US) 4 How 646, 698, 11 L Ed 1141, 1164. A writ of execution, otherwise known as extendi facias.

See extendi facias.

extent in chief. A writ of extent sued out at the instance of the king.

extenuate. To lessen; to weaken; to palliate; to excuse to some extent.

extenuating circumstances. Facts which reduce the damages in a civil case or the penalty in a criminal case.

extenuation. The mitigation of damages or of punishment for crime; a fact warranting mitigation.

extermination. The abatement of an agricultural nuisance by preventing the spread of insect pests or diseases detrimental to agriculture. 3 Am J2d Agri § 43.

exterminator. A substance in powder, liquid, or fumes for use in eliminating insect pests from house or lands. A person whose occupation is that of eliminating pests.

external administration. That part of the law which is concerned with the legal relations between administrative authorities and private interests. 1 Am J2d Admin L § 5.

external and visible signs of injury. A condition of recovery under many accident insurance policies, the purpose being to protect the insurer against sham claims. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins §§ 1169, 1170.

external means. A term limiting the coverage of an accident policy for the purpose of protecting the insurer against hidden or secret diseases where there is no manifestation of harm to the external body. American Acci. Co. v Reigart, 94 Ky 547, 23 SW 191. Not limiting recovery to a case where the external means should itself cause injury or death, the limitation being only that the cause be external to the person, although it may act on the insured internally. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1165.

external or visible evidence. A familiar term in accident insurance policies covering injury sustained while riding in a motor vehicle, requiring as a condition of the insurer's liability that there be external or visible evidence of a collision or accident on the motor vehicle in which the insured alleges that he was riding when injured. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1246.

external, violent, and accidental means. A clause limiting the risk of loss in an accident insurance policy, meaning that in order to support a recovery, it must be shown, not only that the means were external and violent, but also that they were accidental; in other words, all three tests must be met before coverage is afforded. Schonberg v New York Life Ins. Co. 235 La 461, 104 So 2d 171.

See accidental means; violent means.

external, violent, or accidental means. A disjunctive statement of coverage in an accident insurance policy, so that if an injury is external and violent, it need not be accidental in order to be covered. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1165.

See accidental means; violent means.

extritoriality. See extraterritoriality.

Exterus non habet terras. An alien cannot hold land.

ex testamento. By the will or testament.

extinct. Extinguished; having come to an end; discharged; released

Extincto subjecto, tollitur adjunctum. The subject having become extinct, the adjunct or incident of it disappears.

extinguish. To terminate; to put an end to; to cancel; to discharge.

extinguishment. Discharge; destruction; termination; cancellation.

extinguishment of common. The termination of a right of common from any cause, for example, the acquisition of title by the person holding the right.

extinguishment of copyhold. The conversion of the tenure of a copyhold tenant to a freehold.

extinguishment of debt. The extinction or cancellation of a debt; as, by payment, by merging of the debtor and the creditor, by novation, or by the merger of a debt in a judgment. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 321.

extinguishment of easement. The termination of an easement, as by abandonment of use, merger of dominant and servient estates, release, etc. 25 Am J2d Ease §§ 101 et seq.

extinguishment of rent. The termination of a tenant's liability for rent, as, by his acquisition of title to the land or by a release granted by the landlord.

extorsively. With intent to commit the crime of extortion. Leeman v State, 35 Ark 438.

extort. To commit the offense of extortion.

See extortion.

Extortio est crimen quando quis colore officii extorquet quod non est debitum, vel supra debitum, vel ante tempus quod est debitum. Extortion is a crime when anyone under color of office extorts that which is not due, or more than is due, or before the time when it is due.

extortion. Oppression under color or right; the criminal offense of obtaining money or other valuable thing by compulsion, actual force, or force of motives applied to the will; more technically defined as the unlawful taking by an officer of the law, by color of his office, of any money or thing of value that is not due to him, or the taking of more than is due, or the taking of money before it is due. Bush v State, 19 Ariz 195, 168 P 508; 31 Am J2d Extort § 1. A method of abuse of process. 1 Am J2d Abuse P § 12.

[445]

Ex tota materia emergat resolutio. The explanation or solution should arise out of the whole subject matter.

extra. Outside of; out of; beyond; better than expected; additional.

extra allowances. See additional allowances.

extra baggage. See excess baggage.

extra compensation. Compensation over and above that fixed by contract for the work agreed to be done. Weston v State, 262 NY 46, 186 NE 197, 88 ALR 1219. Money paid out of public funds to a public officer or servant in excess of his regular salary for the performance of services that are within the scope of his official duties. Mullane v McKenzie, 269 NY 369, 199 NE 624.

extract. Noun: That which is extracted or taken from something else; a copy of a portion of a record or document; a selection, as from a treatise or a book. Verb: To take something out of something else.

extraction. The removal of a tooth. The descent of a person in reference to the nationality of his ancestors.

extradition. The surrender by one nation or state to another of an individual accused or convicted of an offense outside of the former's territory and within the territorial jurisdiction of the latter, which, being competent to try and punish him, demands the surrender. State ex rel. Treseder v Remann, 165 Wash 92, 4 P2d 866, 78 ALR 412.

Extradition Act. One of the uniform laws.

extradition treaty. A treaty between two or more nations which provides for the extradition from each of the countries to any of the others of persons charged with specified offenses.

extradition warrant. The formal warrant of arrest issued by the governor or executive of the state or country for the apprehension and detention of the person whose surrender has been demanded of that state or country by another state or country. 31 Am J2d Extrad §§ 61, 62.

extra dividend. Sometimes called an "extraordinary dividend;" a dividend, whether cash or stock, paid by a corporation and representing an accumulated excess of earnings over normal return on capital invested and constituting a distribution or a capitalization of surplus profits remaining after distribution of ordinary dividends. 19 Am J2d Corp § 810.

extradotal property. Same as paraphernal property.

extra feodum. Out of the fee; out of the seigniorship.

extrahazardous. A descriptive term applicable to articles insured or articles permitted to be kept on insured premises; something beyond hazardous; extra dangerous. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 927.

extra-hazardous employment. A relative term. An occupation attended by a risk of danger to the person employed greater than in an ordinary employment. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 90.

extrahura. An estray.

extrajudicial. Aside from or without the intervention of a court; outside of the court's jurisdiction.

extrajudicial confession. A confession made elsewhere than before a magistrate or in court. Stewart v State, 41 Okla Crim 117, 271 P 959.

extrajudicial identification. A former identification made out of court; sometimes imbued with such trustworthiness because of the circumstances under which it was made as to be competent evidence. 29 Am J2d Ev §§ 372, 373.

extrajudicially. In a manner other than judicial; by means outside of court.

extrajudicial oath. An oath which is not administered in the due and regular course of judicial proceedings which is not authorized by law, and which, accordingly, is not binding upon the person making it. State v Bowman, 90 Me 363.

extrajudicial opinion. An opinion on a question not presented or necessary to a decision in the case; obiter. Warner v Steamer Uncle Sam, 9 Cal 697, 732.

See obiter; obiter dictum.

extra judicium. Outside of court; extrajudicial.

extra jus. Beyond the law; beyond the requirements of the law.

extralateral rights. A doctrine of mining law which refers to that part of a vein which, on the dip, lies outside of the side lines of the location within whose surface lines the apex of the vein appears, and not to any part of such vein, either the outcrop or the segments on the dip thereof, which lie wholly within planes drawn downwards coincident with the surface boundaries of the location.

The extralateral rights of the locator of a lode mining claim do not attach until after, in pursuit of his vein on its dip, he crosses the side lines of his location. Jefferson Mining Co. v Anchoria-Leland Mining & Milling Co. 32 Colo 176, 75 P 1070.

extra legem. Outside of the law; beyond the protection of the law.

extra legem positus. Placed outside the law; subjected to civil death, an accompaniment of attainder of treason or felony whereby the attainted person was disqualified as a witness, as a plaintiff or as having capacity to perform any legal function; legally dead. 21 Am J2d Crim L §§ 626 et seq.

Extra legem positus est civiliter mortuus. A person who is placed outside the law (that is, outlawed) is civilly dead.

extraliminal rights. Same as extralateral rights.

extraneous. Not pertinent. Something coming from outside.

extraneus. An alien; a foreigner; a stranger.

Extraneus est subditus qui extra terram, i. e., potestatem regis natus est. An alien or foreigner is a subject born outside the land; that is, outside the power of the king.

extraordinary. Beyond or out of the common order or rule; not usual, regular or of a customary kind; not ordinary; remarkable; uncommon; rare. Ten Eyck v Rector, etc. of Albany (NY) 65 Hun 194, 197, 20 NYS 157.

[446]

extraordinary care. A very high degree of care. 14 Am J2d Car § 916. More than ordinary care; great care. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 202.

Even the standard of "due care" varies with the danger involved and is proportionate thereto. 38 Am J1st Negl § 31. What a prudent man will do, and what a very prudent and thoughtful man will do under special circumstances, are questions for the jury. Wallace v Clayton, 42 Ga 443, 448.

extraordinary costs. See additional allowances.

extraordinary diligence. See extraordinary care.

extraordinary dividend. See extra dividend.

extraordinary flood. A flood of unprecedented magnitude; a flood frequently regarded as an act of God. 56 Am J1st Wat § 91. A flood, the magnitude and destructiveness of which could not have been anticipated or provided against by the exercise of ordinary foresight. Schweiger v Solbeck, 191 Or 454, 230 P2d 195, 29 ALR2d 435.

extraordinary physical effort. As the term applies in a statute prescribing a maximum and minimum age limit for certain positions in the civil service requiring "extraordinary physical effort," a physical effort of long duration or an effort involving extraordinary exertion at times, but not necessarily an effort beyond the ordinary, in respect of exertion of strength, which is continuous. Deodati v Kern, 280 NY 366, 21 NE 355, 122 ALR 1446.

extraordinary proceedings. See extraordinary remedies.

extraordinary remedies. Remedies, developed by the application of common-law or prerogative writs and confirmed with modifications by statute, intended to make available types of relief not obtainable in an ordinary action in law or equity, most notable of which are those employed in reference to the acts and determinations of administrative agencies:—certiorari, mandamus, and prohibition. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 708. Other administrative remedies:—assistance under writ, 6 Am J2d Assist § 1; quo warranto or proceeding in the nature of quo warranto, Casey v McElrath, 177 Ga 35, 169 SE 342; and receivership. Prudential Securities Co. v Three Forks, H.& N.V.R. Co. 49 Mont 567, 144 P 158.

extraordinary repairs. Such repairs as are made necessary by some unusual or unforeseen occurrence which does not destroy the building but merely renders it less suited to the use for which it was intended. Courtney v Ocean Acci. & G. Corp. 346 Mo 703, 142 SW2d 858, 130 ALR 234.

extraordinary risk. A term of application in reference to the safety of the working place; not a risk which is uncommon or unusual in the sense that it is rare, but one which arises out of unusual conditions resulting from the employer's negligence. Van Kirk v Butler, 19 NM 597, 145 P 129.

extraordinary session. See special session.

extraparochial. Some lands, either because they were in the hands of irreligious and careless owners, or were situated in forests and desert places, or for other reasons, were never united to any parish. See 1 Bl Comm 113.

extra praesentiam mariti. Outside the presence of the husband.

extra provincial company. A Canadian term for foreign corporation.

See foreign corporation.

extra quatuor maria. Beyond the four seas; that is, outside the kingdom of England. See 1 Bl Comm 457.

extra regnum. Outside the kingdom.

extra services. Services performed by an agent additional to or beyond the scope of the contract made by him with the principal, 3 Am J2d Agency § 248; services not covered by the contract but performed by a building contractor at the request or without objection on the part of the owner, the other contracting party, 13 Am J2d Bldg Contr § 19; services, by one hired to perform work and labor, beyond the stipulations of the contract, 58 Am J1st Wk & L § 34; services of a public officer incident to his office but for which no compensation is provided by law. Board of Comrs. v Blake, 21 Ind 32, 34.

extra session. See special session.

extraterritorial. Outside of the boundaries of the state or country.

extraterritoriality. The operation of the laws of a state or country beyond or outside of its physical boundaries. The fiction that a diplomatic officer, although actually in a foreign country, remains in the territory of his sovereign, applied in support of the immunities and privileges of ambassadors and other public ministers serving in a foreign country. 4 Am J2d Ambss § 4.

extraterritorial wrong. A wrong according to the law of the place where it occurred rather than the law of the jurisdiction wherein the action is brought. 1 Am J2d Actions § 6.

extra territorium. Beyond or outside the territorial boundaries.

Extra territorium jus dicenti non paretur impune. A person may not with impunity obey the law laid down by a body exercising jurisdiction outside of its territorial limits.

extravagance. Excess, especially in dress, manner of living, or expenditures of public funds.

See sumptuary laws.

Extravagantes Communes. Common extravagants, the decrees of the popes who followed Pope John XXII. See 1 Bl Comm 82.

Extravagantes Joannis. The twenty constitutions of Pope John XXII. See 1 Bl Comm 82.

extra viam. Outside the way; off the highway.

extra viam rights. The right of a traveler upon the highway to travel over the abutting property where the highway is out of repair and impassable for practical purposes. 25 Am J1st High § 615. The right of one having an easement of way to depart from the regularly traveled way or path and pass over the abutting land of the servient owner where the latter has obstructed the private way or made it impassable. 25 Am J2d Ease § 70.

extra vires. Same as ultra vires.

[447]

extra work. Services additional to that undertaken by a contractor. 58 Am J1st Wk & L § 34.

extreme. Outermost; utmost. Sometimes employed as the opposite of moderate, but more often as meaning far advanced or excessive, e. g. "extreme cruelty." Estate of Nelson, 132 Cal 182, 191.

extreme care. Such care as a prudent man would exercise in a place of danger. Schlosstein v Bernstein, 293 Pa 245, 142 A 324.

extreme cruelty. As a ground of divorce, the same in meaning as "cruel and inhuman treatment" and "intolerable severity." 24 Am J2d Divorce § 32. Not confined to physical violence, but including conduct that wounds the feelings and sensibilities so grievously as to impair physical or mental health. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 35.

extreme tide. The tide which occurs when the difference between high tide and low tide is the greatest.

extremis. See in extremis.

Extremis probatis, praesumuntur media. When the extremes have been proved, those things which are between them are presumed.

extremity. The outermost; the hands and feet. Danger. The end of life.

See either extremity.

extrinsic. Outside; from outside; foreign; derived from outside.

extrinsic evidence. See parol evidence.

extrinsic fraud. The character of fraud which will afford a ground for setting aside a judgment, that is, fraud which is collateral to the issues tried in the case wherein the judgment was rendered. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 657. For the purpose of a ground of equitable relief against a judgment, fraud which has prevented a party from having a trial, from presenting all his case to the court, or has so affected the manner in which the judgment was taken that there has not been a fair submission of the controversy to the court. Farley v Davis, 10 Wash 2d 62, 116 P2d 263, 155 ALR 1302. For the purpose of serving as a defense to an action on a foreign judgment, any fraudulent conduct of the successful party in the foreign action, practiced directly and affirmatively on the defeated party outside the actual trial of the case, whereby he was prevented from presenting his side of the cause fully and fairly. Britton v Gannon (Okla) 285 P2d 407, 55 ALR2d 667. Actual fraud characterized by an evil intent to take undue advantage of another person for the purpose of actually and knowingly defrauding him. Flood v Templeton, 152 Cal 148, 92 P 78.

extum. Thence.

ex turpi causa. A claim, asserted as a cause of action, which arises from the transgression of a positive law. 11 Am J2d B & N § 1001.

Ex turpi causa non oritur actio. No cause of action can arise out of an immoral (or illegal) inducement (or consideration). 1 Am J2d Actions § 51.

Ex turpi contractu actio non oritur. From an immoral (or illegal) contract no action can arise. Anheuser-Busch Brewing Asso. v Mason, 44 Minn 318, 46 NW 558.

exuere patriam. To renounce allegiance to the government of one's country; to expatriate one's self.

exulare. To exile; to banish.

ex una parte. Of or from one part or side.

Ex uno disces omnes. From one thing you can find out all.

ex usu. From the use; by using.

ex utraque parte. From both sides.

ex utrisque parentibus conjuncti. Connected with both parents; related by ties of full blood.

ex vessel. See ex ship.

ex vi aut metu. By or from force or fear.

ex visceribus. From the bowels; from the vitals.

ex visceribus testamenti. From the vitals of the will, that is, from the whole will; a rule of construction. Homer v Shelton, 48 Mass (2 Met) 194, 213.

ex visitatione Dei. By the visitation of God; by divine dispensation.

ex visu scriptionis. From the sight of the writing; from seeing the person write.

ex vi termini. By the force of the term; by the intrinsic import of the term or expression.

See right of way ex vi termini.

ex vi terminorum. By the force of the terms or words used: that is, by their intrinsic import.

ex voluntate. Emanating from the will; voluntary; voluntarily; of one's own volition.

ey. Water; a place surrounded by water; an island.

eye. See sight.

eyesight. See sight.

eyewitness. A person who testifies to what he has seen. Ellis v Interstate Business Men's Acci. Asso. 183 Iowa 1279, 168 NW 212.

A person may be an eyewitness to his own injury. Lewis v Brotherhood Acci. Co. 194 Mass 1, 79 NE 802.

eyewitness provision. A clause in an accident insurance policy which requires proof of the accidental character of an injury by eyewitnesses other than the insured or claimant. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1933.

eyewitness testimony. Testimony by a witness to what he has seen.

See eyewitness.

eygne. The eldest.

eyott. A small island; an islet.

eyre. A journey; the journey of a judge from place to place upon his circuit.

See justices in eyre.

eyrer. To journey; to travel.

F

f. Abbreviation for Fahrenheit, also for fathom. The brand by which the hand of a convicted felon was marked in olden times in England.

F. A. A. Abbreviation of free from all average.

See free from all average.

fabricare. To fabricate; to falsify; to forge; to make false coins; to counterfeit.

fabricate. To construct, especially by assembling parts. To falsify; to forge; to make false coins; to counterfeit. 20 Am J2d Counterf § 1.

fabrication. Making or preparing; deception by making up a story or tale. 20 Am J2d Counterf § 1.

fabric lands. Lands which were given for the erection and upkeep of churches and cathedrals.

fabrika. The coinage of money.

fabula. An agreement; a covenant; a contract.

face. The matter which appears on document, pleading, statute, writ or other written or printed instrument, without explanation or addition.

face amount certificate company. An investment company. 15 USC § 80a-4.

face amount of policy. The amount of straight life insurance provided by a life insurance policy, without giving effect to additional indemnity provisions. Pierce v Businessmen's Assur. Co. (Mo) 333 SW2d 97.

face of instrument. The side of an instrument upon which the terms and conditions appear.

face of insurance policy. The entire insurance contract contained in the policy. Julius v Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. 299 Ill 343, 132 NE 435, 17 ALR 956.

face of judgment. The sum or amount for which the judgment was rendered, without interest. Osgood v Bringolf, 32 Iowa 265, 270.

face of mine. See working face.

face of the record. The entire record of a case in court up to the point at which reference is made to it. State v Haines, 51 La Ann 731, 25 So 372.

facere. To do; to make; to act; to cause.

face to face. The confrontation of a witness in court with the opportunity to cross-examine him. State v Heffernan, 24 SD 1, 118 NW 1027.

face value. The full amount to be paid, principal and interest, according to the terms of the instrument. Anno: 91 ALR 30, 31. The par value of corporate stock which has a par value. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. v United States, 273 US 100, 71 L Ed 558, 47 S Ct 263.

For the purpose of computing a stock transfer tax, the "face value" of the shares transferred is to be determined from the provisions of the corporate charter, not from the face of the certificate. Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. v United States, 273 US 100, 71 L Ed 558, 47 S Ct 263.

facias. You do it; you cause.

See exigi facias; extendi facias; fieri facias; levari facias; replegiari facias; scire facias; venire facias.

facie. See ex facie.

facie curiae. See in facie curiae.

faciendo. In doing; in making; in causing.

facies. Same as face.

facilitate. To make easy or less difficult; to free from difficulty or impediment; as to facilitate the execution of a task or the completion of a trip. Pon Wing Quong v United States (CA9 Cal) 111 F2d 751.

facilitation. Assistance rendering a task easier of accomplishment.

See facilitate.

facilities. Appliances and services necessary or convenient in keeping house or operating a business or industry. Utilities; conveniences; restrooms. Equipment of a carrier.

As the word was at one time used in promissory notes which provided that they were payable in "facilities," the word was understood to mean certain notes of some of the banks in the state of Connecticut, which were made payable in two years after the close of the war of 1812. Springfield Bank v Merrick, 14 Mass (14 Tyng) 322.

facilities tax. A tax upon the amount paid or collected for the use and enjoyment of certain facilities and services. 26 USC §§ 4231 et seq.

facility. Singular of facilities. A state of mental unsoundness warranting the appointment of a guardian or other legal intervention.

facility of payment clause. An appointment by the parties to an insurance contract of persons or classes of persons who may receive payment of the benefits or proceeds accruing under the contract, give receipt therefor to the insurer so as to discharge it from liability, and thereafter hold the amount received for the benefit of the person ultimately entitled thereto. Anno: 166 ALR 12. Better known is the clause in industrial life insurance policies whereby the insurer is permitted to discharge its liability for the proceeds by payment to the beneficiary named or to any other person appearing to the insurer to be equitably entitled to the proceeds. Annos: 28 ALR 1350; 49 ALR 939.

facility of transportation. A means of transportation, an automobile, a motorcycle, even a riding horse. Bernardine v New York, 249 NY 361, 62 NE2d 604, 161 ALR 364.

Facinus quos inquinat aequat. An evil deed or a crime levels those whom it contaminates.

Facio ut des. (Civil law.) I perform so that you are to pay. This was the third species of consideration under the civil law and signified an agreement to perform anything for a price, either specifically mentioned, or left to the determination of the law to set a value on it. See 2 Bl Comm 445.

Facio, ut facias. (Civil law.) I perform so that you are to perform. This was the second species of consideration under the civil law and signified a man's agreement to do work for another if the other will do work for him; or to do any other positive acts on both sides. Or, it may be to forbear on one side on consideration of something done on the other. See 2 Bl Comm 444.

facit. He or it does or acts.

[449]

Facit ex curvo rectum, ex nigro album. It renders straight that which is crooked and white that which is black. Jeter v Hewitt (US) 22 How 352, 364, 16 L Ed 345, 348.

facsimile. An exact and precise copy of anything. An exact reproduction, for example, the signature reproduced by rubber stamp. 11 Am J2d B & N § 210.

fact. A deed; an act; that which exists; that which is real; that which is true, an actuality; that which took place, not that which might or might not have occurred. Churchill v Meade, 92 Or 626, 182 P 368.

facta. Facts; deeds; acts.

Facta sunt potentiora verbis. Acts or deeds are more powerful than words.

Facta tenent multa quae fieri prohibentur. Deeds contain many things, the doing of which is prohibited.

fact-finding body. The board or body of an administrative agency in which is vested the power of decision. Wilson & Co. v NLRB (CA7 Ill) 126 F2d 114.

fact findings. See findings.

fact in issue. The fact upon which the plaintiff proceeds by his action, and which the defendant controverts in his pleadings. Garwood v Garwood, 29 Cal 514.

factions. Groups within a body which are united in opinion and endeavor, such as factions in a church. 45 Am J1st Reli Soc § 44.

factio testamenti. (Roman law.) The making of a will,—the ability to make a will.

facto. In fact; in deed.

See ex facto; ex post facto; ipso facto.

fact of general notoriety. A fact of a public, as distinguished from a private, nature; historical facts, not within the memory of living men, but provable by historical works of deceased authors of established reputation. Bixby v Omaha & Council Bluffs Ry. & Bridge Co. 105 Iowa 293, 75 NW 182.

factor. A person employed specially to receive and take possession of goods from a principal and to sell them for a compensation called "factorage" or "commission." Sometimes called a consignee or commission merchant. Under some definitions, the term includes an agent empowered to purchase, as well as to sell. 22 Am J2d Fact § 1.

See del credere factor; interim factor; supercargo. factorage. Commissions paid to a factor for his services as such. 22 Am J2d Fact § 1.

factorage financing. A method of financing wherein the security arrangement leaves the security more or less in possession of, and subject to sale or handling by, the debtor, as part of a going business; usually substitutions of security from time to time are required to keep the collateral adequate in amount. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 965.

factoring process. A synonym of garnishment process. 6 Am J2d Attach § 2.

See garnishment.

factorizing. A proceeding more commonly known as garnisheeing. Cross v Brown, Steese & Clarke, 19 RI 220, 248, 33 A 147.

See garnishment.

factorizing process. See factorizing.

Factors' Acts. An English statute and its counterpart in many American states, the object of which is to make a factor's possession of goods and merchandise such evidence of ownership as to enable him to do all acts which the true owner might, thus making the owner responsible for the factor's acts and protecting bona fide purchasers in any transaction fairly effected with the apparent owner. 22 Am J2d Fact § 53.

factor's lien. The general lien which a factor has on goods of his principal in his possession, their proceeds and securities taken for the price, for advances, expenses, and commissions, and extending to the general balance of his accounts, to debts connected with the agency, which the factor has undertaken as surety or for the accommodation of the principal, and to interest on subsequent advances, but not to debts outside the agency. 22 Am J2d Fact §§ 20, 21.

factory. A place where an industrial operation is conducted; a place where mechanical power is used. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 117; a place where natural substances are converted to articles of value and use. 51 Am J1st Tax § 592. A mill, workshop, or other manufacturing establishment. Anno: 16 ALR 539. Any place where goods or products are manufactured or repaired, cleaned or sorted. Ritchie v People, 155 11198, 40 NE 454. A settlement maintained by factors for trading.

See manufacturing establishment.

factory weight. The weight of a motor vehicle as it is driven or hauled from the factory, often taken as the weight for the purpose of fixing the amount of a license or registration fee; sometimes the measure of fees charged motor vehicles used in the business of transportation. Dixie Ohio Exp. Co. v State Revenue Com. 306 US 72, 83 L Ed 495, 59 S Ct 435.

fact questions. See questions of fact.

facts. See fact.

factum. The fact; the existence; the doing; the making.

See ante-factum; factum of will.

Factum a iudice quod ad ejus officium non spectat non ratum est. The act of a judge which does not belong to his office is void.

Factum a iudice quod ad officium ejus non pertinet ratum non est. The act of a judge which does not pertain to his office is void.

Factum cuique suum, non adversario, nocere debet. A person's act ought to prejudice himself and not his adversary.

Factum infectum fieri nequit. A thing which has been done cannot be undone.

Factum negantis nulla probatio. The denial of a fact requires no proof; he who denies a fact need not prove his denial.

Factum non dicitur quod non perseverat. A thing is not spoken of as done which is not finished.

[450]

factum of will. The making of a will, not the mere signing and publication, but acting with knowledge of the contents of the instrument and its effect as a disposition of property. Dorsey v Sheppard (Md) 12 Gill & J 192.

factum probandum. A fact to be proved.

factum probans. A proving fact; a fact of probative value; a fact tending to establish the existence of another fact.

Factum reputabitur pro voluntate. The act will be considered according to the intent.

Factum unius alteri nocere non debet. The act of one person should not prejudice another.

Facultas probationum non est angustanda. The right of offering proof is not to be curtailed.

faculty. The ability to perform a particular act. The operation of one of the senses, as the faculty of speech or hearing. The authority vested in an agent, or other representative, by his principal or other constituent. The teaching staff, professors, associate professors, assistant professors, and instructors of a university, college, or school. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 15.

See allegation of faculties; court of faculties; husband's faculties.

faculty of advocates. An association of lawyers practicing in the highest courts of Scotland.

faggot. The ancient form of punishment of a person by burning him alive.

faggot votes. Votes cast by persons who were merely nominal owners of the amount of land necessary to qualify them as electors; sham or illegal votes.

faida. A spirit of revenge; malice.

fail. To refuse; to neglect; to become insolvent.

Although the word has in law the same general meaning as "refuse," as where the condition to be performed depends on the will of the party who fails or refuses, yet where the condition does not depend upon the party's will, but upon the will of those whom he cannot control, there is a manifest distinction. One is an act of the will, the other may be an act of inevitable necessity. Taylor v Mason (US) 9 Wheat 325, 344, 6 L Ed 101, 106.

The word sometimes has the meaning of to become worthless, but it may also mean to become worthless in part or to a certain extent, as where consideration "fails." Shirk v Neible, 156 Ind 66, 59 NE 281.

failed bank. A bank which is insolvent, or has failed to meet its obligations to depositors and other creditors, and has been taken over by the banking department for liquidation and closing of its affairs. Godfrey v Terry (US) 7 Otto 171, 24 L Ed 944; 10 Am J2d Banks §§ 754 et seq.

See insolvency of bank.

failing circumstances. The circumstances of an individual or a business wherein the debts become increasingly difficult of payment; the approach of insolvency. Utley v Smith, 24 Conn 290.

failing of record. The failure of a party to produce a record after pleading it.

faillite. (French.) Failure; bankruptcy; insolvency.

failure. Inability to meet obligations as they become due; insolvency. Boyce & Henry v Ewart, 14 SC Eq (Rice) 126, 140.

See failing circumstances.

failure of bank. See failed bank.

failure of consideration. The circumstance or combination of circumstances under which the consideration for a contract, which was sufficient at the inception of the contract, has become worthless, has ceased to exist, or has been extinguished, whether by nonperformance or an innate defect in the thing to be given. 11 Am J2d B & N § 237; 17 Am J2d Contr § 397.

failure of evidence. See total failure of evidence.

failure of issue. See definite failure of issue; indefinite failure of issue.

failure of proof. Want of proof of a fact alleged or proof which departs so far from the cause of action or defense pleaded that it may fairly be said that the facts alleged remain unproved. E. B. Ryan Co. v Russel, 52 Mont 596, 161 P 307.

failure to file a tax return. Want of a properly executed income tax return within the time prescribed by law for filing; not the filing of a return which is incorrect in reference to the amount of the tax. Plunkett v Commissioner (CA1) 118 F2d 644.

failure to make delivery. Failure to make any delivery or, for some purposes, a misdelivery. 14 Am J2d Car § 582. The failure of the seller of personal property to deliver the goods to the purchaser in accord with the terms of the contract, fairly construed. 46 Am J1st Sales §§ 161 et seq.

failure to prosecute. See want of prosecution.

failure to provide. See nonsupport.

faint action. Same as feigned action.

fainting spell. Temporary loss of consciousness caused by want of sufficient blood supply for the brain; not a disease or bodily infirmity. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 749.

faint pleading. A false or collusive manner of pleading, with the purpose of deceiving persons who are not parties to the action.

fair. An exhibition of industrial or agricultural products, sometimes of the artistic and mechanical products of a school, a state hospital, or orphans' home, coupled with various amusements and entertainments. In an old and primary sense of the term, a market for the buying and selling of exhibited goods, livestock, and other articles. State v Long, 48 Ohio St 509, 510.

See agricultural fair.

fair and equitable. A term of art, developed in corporate reorganizations in equity receiverships and applied as well in reorganizations under the Bankruptcy Act and other statutes, to characterize the necessity, in formulating and adopting plans of reorganization, of according to creditors and classes of creditors the priorities to which they are entitled by contract and to stockholders of one class the superior position to which they are entitled by the charter of the corporation over stockholders of another class. Securities & Exchange Com. v United States Realty & Improv. Co. 310 US 434, 84 L Ed 1293, 60 S Ct 1044; Otis & Co. v Securities fair and impartial trial. A guaranty of due process, requiring a competent and impartial tribunal, the right to be represented by counsel, the right to cross-examine adverse witnesses, the right to offer testimony on one's own behalf, and the right to have such advance notice of trial as will permit preparation for trial. 21 Am J2d Crim L §§ 221, 222. A jury trial in an action of such nature that a party is entitled to a jury trial, as in a prosecution for desertion and nonsupport, unless he has voluntarily and knowingly waived such right. 23 Am J2d Desert § 43.

[451]

& Exch. Com. 323 US 624, 89 L Ed 511, 65 S Ct 483.

See fair trial.

fair and legal. A redundant expression, since the word "fair" can add no force to the word "legal." Wood v Strother, 76 Cal 545.

fair and true value. Market value, and in the absence of a standard market for the particular kind of property involved, a fair value as determined by reference to all relevant facts in evidence. State v Wagner, 233 Mich 241, 46 NW2d 676, 23 ALR2d 762.

fair a scavoir. To make to know. Ray Consol. Copper Co. v United States, 268 US 373, 69 L Ed 1003, 45 S Ct 526.

fair average value. For the purpose of assessing capital stock of a corporation for excise tax, a value determined in part according to the fair net value of the assets of the corporation, not entirely by the value of the aggregate shares of the stock.

fair book value. A contract price for corporate stock to be determined by ascertaining the net worth of all the assets and deducting therefrom the liabilities, without allowance of more than a nominal amount for good will. Early v Moore, 249 Mass 223, 144 NE 108, 33 ALR 362.

fair cash value. Actual cash value. The price which the property in question will bring in a fair market, after fair and reasonable efforts have been made to find the purchaser who will give the highest price; the fair or reasonable cash price for which the property can be sold in the market. Birmingham Fire Ins. Co. v Pulver, 126 Ill 329, 18 NE 804.

The term as used in a statute providing that, upon a merger or consolidation of corporations, a dissenting stockholder shall be entitled to receive a "fair cash value" of his shares, means the intrinsic worth of his stock, which is to be arrived at after an appraisal of all the elements of value. Adams v United States Distributing Corp. 184 Va 134, 34 SE2d 244, 162 ALR 1227.

fair comment. Comment on a matter of public interest which is confined to comment on things and the acts of persons and does not extend to attacks upon personal character or to imputing immoral or corrupt motives. 33 Am J1st L & S § 162. Any criticism of a book or other literary production which does not go beyond the critic's honest opinion, does not misstate any material fact contained in the work, and does not attack the character of the author. 33 Am J1st L & S § 164. Criticism of dramatic productions and public entertainers based upon facts and not actuated by malice or evil purpose, however hostile and pointed it may be in holding the subject up to ridicule. 33 Am J1st L & S § 165.

fair competition. A phrase of the National Industrial Recovery Act enacted during the first administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt but held unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court meaning open, equitable, and just competition, fair to competitors and to customers. United States v National Garment Co. (DC Mo) 10 F Supp 104.

fair consideration. An adequate, just, or proper consideration; something more than a nominal consideration. Rude v Levy, 43 Colo 482, 96 P 560. A consideration fairly proportioned to the money, property, or services furnished by the contracting party. Manello v Bornstine, 44 Wash 769, 270 P2d 494, 45 ALR2d 494. The discharge of an antecedent debt, provided it is the obligation of the contracting party. Hansen v Cramer, 39 Cal 2d 321, 245 P2d 1059, 30 ALR2d 1204.

As defined by the Bankruptcy Act for the purpose only of that portion of the statute dealing with the avoidance of fraudulent transfers, a consideration given for the property or obligation of a debtor is "fair" (1) when, in good faith, in exchange and as a fair equivalent therefor, property is transferred or an antecedent debt is satisfied, or (2) when such property or obligation is received in good faith to secure a present advance or antecedent debt in an amount not disproportionately small as compared with the value of the property or obligation obtained. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1113.

fair, concise summary. A condensation which is accurate and does not destroy the substance. Sears v Treasurer & Receiver General, 327 Mass 310, 98 NE2d 621.

fair construction. A reasonable, rational, and just construction of a contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 252.

fair criticism. See fair comment.

fair dealing. Good faith (this index).

faire. To do; to make; to act.

fair employment practices legislation. Statutes intended to prohibit employers from discriminating in the hiring of employees on the ground of race, color, creed, or national origin. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 12.

fair enjoyment. The measure of the right of the dominant owner in the use of an easement; a right of use consistent with the purpose and character of the easement and also with the correlative right of the servient owner to use the premises for any purpose which does not interfere with the lawful use of the easement. Unversagt v Miller, 306 Mich 260, 10 NW2d 849; Malher v Brumder, 92 Wis 477, 66 NW 502.

fair knowledge. Ordinary knowledge; reasonable knowledge. Jones v Angell, 95 Ind 376, 382.

Fair Labor Standards Act. A federal statute, commonly known as the Wage and Hour Law, regulating the hours and wages of employees engaged in interstate commerce or in the production of goods for interstate commerce. 29 USC §§ 201 et seq.

fairly. Impartially; in a manner free from prejudice, bias or improper influence.

The word is not synonymous with "truly." Language may be truly, yet most unfairly repeated. The answer of a witness may be truly written down, yet it may convey a meaning quite different from that which the witness intended to convey, and did convey. Moreover, language may be fairly reported, yet not in accordance with strict truth. Lawrence v Finch, 17 NJ Eq 234, 239.

fairly and legally. In good faith. People v Mancuso, 255 NY 463, 175 NE 177, 76 ALR 514 (construing term respecting fraudulent insolvency of corporation).

fair market price. Market value; clear market value. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 359. The result of the opposing views of the willing seller not compelled to sell and a willing purchaser not required to buy. Vale v Du Pont, 37 Del 254, 182 A 668, 103 ALR 946.

See clear market value; fair market value.

fair market value. Actual value or value in money. Re Patton, 227 Wis 407, 278 NW 866, 117 ALR 140. That which property will sell for as between one who wants to purchase and one who wants to sell; in the absence of a ready market and a market price, a constructive value determined upon an appropriate basis selected by the court. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 609.

See clear market value.

fairness of plan. See fair and equitable.

fair-play men. A court which was held in Pennsylvania before the Revolutionary War.

fair pleader. A prohibition addressed to the sheriff directing him not to take a fine for a bad pleading.

fair pleading. Pleading fairly or aptly, or to the purpose.

fair preponderance of evidence. A characterization of the degree of proof required in some civil cases, particularly in reference to proof of fraud. 37 Am J2d Fraud §§ 468, 470. Not the larger number of witnesses, but the probability of truth. Schangel v United Electric Light & Power Co. 127 Misc 24, 25, 215 NYS 217, 218.

See preponderance of evidence.

fair return. An expression much employed in the fixing of public utility rates, meaning a reasonable return on the value of the property used in rendering the services. 52 Am J1st Teleg & T § 57. A reasonable return on the investment of a public utility, determinable only by the exercise of sound judgment and common sense, being a matter of fair approximation, not capable of exact mathematical demonstration. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 156.

The term has a double aspect, one legislative and the other judicial. In the judicial aspect it is the equivalent of nonconfiscatory. Judicially, a rate is unreasonable only when it yields a return less than the minimum which the capital invested may of right demand. In the legislative aspect, the return may exceed such amount; for the legislature or the commission may add to it to carry out some public policy rates which are substantially higher than the line between validity and unconstitutionality properly may be deemed to be just and reasonable, and not excessive or extortionate. Idaho Power Co. v Thompson (DC Idaho) 19 F2d 547.

fair sale. A sale conducted with fairness as respects the rights and interests of the parties affected by it. Lalor v M'Carthy, 24 Minn 417, 419. A judicial sale conducted according to law at auction at which all persons have the right to appear and bid. 30A Am 1 Rev ed Jud S § 67.

Fair Sales Act. A statute prohibiting sales of commodities below cost, except under particular circumstances. Anno: 118 ALR 506, supplemented 128 ALR 1126.

Fair Trade Acts. Statutes which remove or except price-maintenance agreements of the vertical type, that is, agreements between the producer and distributors of trademarked, tradenamed, or branded articles, from the operation of the rules and provisions relating to monopolies and restraints of trade, thereby authorizing and protecting such agreements. 52 Am J1st Tradem § 173.

fair trial. A legal trial; a trial conducted in all material things in substantial conformity to law. People v Wolf, 183 NY 464, 472, 76 NE 592, 594. In a criminal case, a trial before an impartial judge, an honest jury, and in an atmosphere of judicial calm. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 235. A trial, not only with observance of the naked forms of law, but in a recognition and just appreciation of its principles. Sunderland v United States (CAS Neb) 19 F2d 202. A trial according to law, not necessarily free from all error, but from substantial error. State v Schimsky, 243 Minn 533, 69 NW2d 89; People v Becker, 210 NY 274, 311, 104 NE 396, 409.

The right of one charged with the commission of a crime to a fair trial does not embrace the right to be tried by any particular judge or jury, but is enough if the jury is impartial and the judge one whose neutrality is indifferent to every factor in the trial but that of administering justice. State ex rel. Brown v Dewell, 131 Fla 566, 179 So 695, 115 ALR 857.

See fair and impartial trial.

fair use doctrine. The principle which entitles a person to use copyrighted material in a reasonable manner, including the use of the mere theme or idea, without the consent of the copyright owner. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 109.

fair valuation. For the purpose of determining "insolvency" within the definition provided by the Bankruptcy Act (Bankr Act § (19); 11 USC § 1 (19)), the fair market value of the property as between one who wants to buy and one who wants to sell, or the value that can be made promptly effective by the owner of the property for payment of debts. Nicolai-Neppach Co. v Smith, 154 Or 450, 58 P2d 1016, 60 P2d 979, 107 ALR 1124.

See fair value.

fair value. For the purpose of, and as a base for, fixing the rates of a public utility:—the present value of the property of the utility as determined, not by formula, such as original cost, prudent investment, or cost of reproduction, but by consideration of all relevant factors entering into the worth of the property at the time of the inquiry made for rate-fixing. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 105. As used in a statute permitting dissenting stockholders to obtain the "fair value" of their stock:—the intrinsic worth of the stock, which is to be arrived at after an appraisal of all the elements of value. Lucas v Pembroke Water Co. 205 Va 84, 135 SE2d 147.

See fair and true value; fair average value; fair book value; fair cash value; fair market value; fair valuation.

fairway. The navigable channel of a river, gulf, or other body of water, variously called "thalweg," "main channel," "midway." Louisiana v Mississippi, 202 US 1, 49, 50 L Ed 913 930. Any one of the parts of a golf course, lying between a tee and a putting green, where the grass is cut fairly short.

faisant. Same as feasant.

fait. A fact; a deed; an act; an act done.

See en fait.

[453]

fait enrolle. A deed which has been enrolled.

faith. The assent of the mind to what is stated or put forward by another; trust or confidence in the veracity of another. Patzwald v United States, 7 Okla 232, 54 P 458.

See abiding faith; articles of faith; bad faith; good faith; religion.

faithful. Noun: Those who believe in and sincerely practice the principles of a religious faith. Adjective: In temporal affairs, diligent, without unnecessary delay; as a faithful officer, a faithful servant, in applying to their duties. Den ex dem. Perry v Thompson, 16 NJ L 72, 73.

The guaranty of the "faithful" discharge of the duties of a county treasurer, contained in the bond required of, and furnished by, him is a guaranty, not only of personal honesty, but also of competency, skill and diligence in the discharge of the treasurer's duties. The word is held to imply that the bonded person has assumed that measure of responsibility laid on him by law, had no bond been given; and everything is unfaithfulness which the law does not excuse. Thurston County use of Vesely v Chmelka, 138 Neb 696, 294 NW 857, 132 ALR 1077.

faith healing. The restoration, or attempted restoration, of health by prayer and religious faith. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 30.
See Christian Science.

faitours. Vagrants; vagabonds; idle persons.

fake. Noun: A swindler; an imposter. A trick employed to obtain money. Midland Publishing Co. v Implement Trade Journal Co. 108 Mo App 223, 83 SW 298. A false pretense. Adjective: Spurious, counterfeit.

falcare. To cut; to mow.

falcidia. The falcidian part or portion of an ancestor's estate; that is, the one fourth part of it, of which he could not, under the Falcidian Law of Rome, deprive his heir by his will.

falcidia lex. Same as Falcidian Law.

Falcidian Law. A Roman statute, enacted in 714 A. D., which restricted the disposition of property by will to the extent that one fourth of the property of a testator, who was the father of a family, was reserved from the exercise of testamentary power in such manner as to deprive the heir or heirs thereof. United States v Perkins, 163 US 625, 41 L Ed 287, 16 S Ct 1073.

Falcidian portion. The one-fourth part of a father's property which, under the Falcidian Law of Rome, he could not dispose of by will. United States v Perkins, 163 US 625, 41 L Ed 287, 16 S Ct 1073.

See Falcidian Law.

faldae cursus. A sheep trail.

faldage. The right of the lord of the manor to have the sheep of his tenant manure his land; the term was also applied to the fee paid by the tenant to the lord for exemption from the service of thus manuring.

faldata. A flock of sheep.

fald-fee. Same as faldage.

faldsoca. Same as faldage.

faldworth. A person who had attained an age which qualified him to be one of the ten of a decennary.

falk-land. Same as folk-land.

fall. Noun: The autumn season. A sudden dropping from a higher to a lower position. Verb: To come down, to move down involuntarily. To descend, as in the devolution of property from ancestor to heir. M'Cullough's Heirs v Gilmore, 11 Pa 370, 373.

fall due. To become due. White v Leyden, 112 Neb 774, 201 NW 637.

falling of the womb. See prolapsus uteri.

fallo. (Spanish.) A final judgment or decree.

fall of hammer. The completion of the sale of an article at an auction the signal that the bidding is closed. 7 Am J2d Auct §§ 20, 21.

fall of land. A parcel of land equivalent to the one hundred and sixtieth part of an acre.

fall of soil. Caving or washing. 1 Am J2d Adj L § 43.

fallout. The dropping of radioactive particles following an atomic explosion.

fall out. The words of command given by the officer or noncommissioned officer in charge of a military formation to release the men from the formation.

fallow land. Land which has been ploughed up but which has been left unseeded in order to allow it to recuperate its fertility.

falsa demonstratio. False or erroneous description.

Falsa demonstratione legatum non perimi. An erroneous description will not nullify a legacy.

It was a rule of the civil law, that a legacy should not perish by reason of a false description, but the statute of wills modifies the maxim to some extent. Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum v Emmons (NY) 3 Bradf 144, 149.

Falsa demonstratio non nocet, cum de corpore constat. An erroneous description is harmless, when it is clear as to the person intended. 57 Am J1st Wills §§ 1048, 1199.

Falsa grammatica non vitiat chartum. Faulty grammar will not vitiate an instrument.

falsa moneta. False money; counterfeit money.

Falsa orthographia, sive falsa grammatica, non vitiat concessionem. Neither faulty spelling nor faulty grammar will vitiate a grant.

falsare. To falsify; to forge; to make false coins.

See counterfeiting; forgery.

falsarius. A counterfeiter; a forger.

See counterfeiting; forgery.

false. Sometimes meaning untrue, at other times, designedly untrue, implying an intention to deceive, as where it is an element of actionable fraud. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 2. Unlawful. Mahan v Adam, 144 Md 355, 124 A 901.

false account. An account which is morally false,—known to be untrue. Putnam v Osgood, 51 NH 192, 207.

See false oath or account.

false action. Same as feigned action.

[454]

false advertising. Untrue and fraudulent statements and representations made by way of advertising a product or a service. 3 Am J2d Advertg § 2.

false affidavit. The statutory offense of perjury in an affidavit authorized by law. 41 Am J1st Perj § 26. A false claim against the government, such having reference to the form of the paper rather than its legal character, so that an affidavit may be "false," irrespective of the absence of an oath administered by an officer qualified to administer oaths. Williams v Territory, 13 Ariz 27, 108 P 243.

false and fraudulent. Having the dual quality of falsity and intent to deceive. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 2.

false appeal. An older English term for unsuccessful appeal of felony. See 4 Bl Comm 316.

false answer. A criminal offense in wilfully giving a false answer to a question propounded by a taker of the federal census. 14 Am J2d Census § 9. Perjury by a witness. 41 Am J1st Perj § 2.

false arrest. The unlawful restraint by one person of the physical liberty of another under an asserted legal authority to enforce the processes of the law. 22 Am J2d False Imp §§ 1, 2.

false bank note. A forged paper in the similitude of a bank note, or which on its face appears to be such a note. Williams v Territory, 13 Ariz 27, 108 P 243.

false brand. See misbranding.

false branding. See misbranding.

false certificate of acknowledgment. A misstatement of a material fact, especially a misstatement respecting the identity of the person acknowledging. 1 Am J2d Ack §§ 117, 118. Additional elements of negligence and wilful misconduct imposed by statutes rendering the officer taking the acknowledgment liable in civil or criminal aspect. 1 Am J2d Ack §§ 118, 119.

false certificate of citizenship. A certificate of citizenship which is false in its recital of facts. Dolan v United States (CA8 Mo) 133 F 440.

false certification of check. The statutory offense committed by an officer of a national bank in wilfully certifying a check the drawer of which has not on deposit at the time an equal amount of money. Potter v United States, 155 US 438, 39 L Ed 214, 15 S Ct 144.

Although the certification of checks by a national bank without an equivalent amount of money on deposit is in violation of the National Bank Act, a valid debt of the bank is created thereby. Thompson v St. Nicholas Nat. Bank, 146 US 240, 36 L Ed 966, 13 S Ct 66.

false character. A fraudulent letter of recommendation concocted to aid a person who is seeking employment as a servant.

See false personation.

false check. A check drawn upon a bank in which the drawer has no funds or which he has no reason to believe will honor it. Williams v Territory, 13 Ariz 27, 108 P 243.

false claims against the government. Claims presented against the government and also allegations, as in income tax returns, which cause pecuniary or property loss to the government. Capone v United States (CA7 Ill) 51 F2d 609, 76 ALR 1534, cert den 284 US 669, 76 L Ed 566, 52 S Ct 44.

See false affidavit.

false colors. Colors carried on a vessel different from those of the nation of registration. 56 Am J1st War § 200. An impersonation.

See impersonation.

false demonstration. The doctrine that where the description of a person or a thing in a will is made up of more than one part, and one part is true while the other is inexact or false, then, if the part which is true describes the subject or object of the gift with sufficient certainty, the untrue part may be rejected and the gift sustained. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1199.

falsedad. (Spanish.) Falsity; deception; fraud.

false document. A document purporting to be made by a person who did not make the same, or a document purporting to be made by some person who did not in fact exist. Williams v Territory, 13 Ariz 27, 108 P 243.

See forgery.

false entry. Literally, an entry in a book or record which does not speak the truth. A criminal offense by a bank officer or employee in making false entries in reports or statements of the bank with the intent to injure or defraud. 10 Am J2d Banks § 234.

false financial statement. An inaccurate statement by a public accountant, through the medium of the balance sheet, of the financial condition of the client. 1 Am J2d Accts § 16. A ground of opposition to a discharge in bankruptcy where consisting of a materially false statement in writing respecting the financial condition of the bankrupt made or published by the bankrupt in obtaining money or property on credit or in obtaining an extension or renewal of credit. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 701.

falsehood. A lie; a wilful act or declaration contrary to truth, as the more common meaning. Putnam v Osgood, 51 NH 192, 207.

false imprisonment. The unlawful restraint by one person of the physical liberty of another. 22 Am J False Imp § 1. An unlawful violation of the personal liberty of another, whether considered as a tort or a crime. Parrot v Bank of America Nat. Trust & Sav. Asso. 97 Cal App 2d 14, 217 P2d 89, 35 ALR2d 263.

To constitute an unlawful arrest or a false imprisonment, it is not necessary that force be used. The wrong done is one which may be committed by acts or by words, or by both. An unlawful restraint of the person, or an interference with his personal liberty, is essential, but he is deemed to have been put under restraint if words or acts induced a reasonable apprehension that force would be used, if he did not submit. In short, any unlawful exercise or show of force, by which a person is compelled to remain where he does not wish to remain or to go where he does not wish to go is an unlawful arrest. Durgin v Cohen, 168 Minn 77, 209 NW 532.

false instrument. A forged instrument; a counterfeit instrument; an instrument which carries on its face the semblance of that for which it is counterfeited. People v Bendit, 111 Cal 274, 43 P 901.

false judgment. An English writ for the correction or reversal of a judgment of an inferior court not a court of record.

false Latin. A term used in the earlier English cases for the erroneous use of Latin in a court record or a writ.

See vicious for false Latin.

[455]

falsely. Implying, as the word is used in a statute prescribing the offense of forgery, that the paper or writing in question is not genuine but false or counterfeit. 36 Am J2d Forg § 6. Implying, in reference to the obtaining of money or property by false pretenses, fraud rather than mistake or mere untruth. 32 Am J2d False Pret § 72.

false making. As applied to the crime of forgery, the making of a writing which falsely purports to be the writing of a person other than the writer. People v Bendit, 111 Cal 274, 43 P 901. Not to change or form an instrument to resemble an existing genuine instrument or to represent that it is the act of a genuine and existing obligor, but rather to make an instrument which has no original as such and no genuine maker whose work is copied, although in form it may resemble a type of recognized security. Pines v United States (CA8 Iowa) 123 F2d 825.

false measures. Fraudulently constructed measures or containers for measuring size or capacity, employed to defraud.

false oath. In reference to a bankruptcy proceeding, an intentional untruth stated under oath respecting a matter material to an issue which is itself material. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 694.

See false swearing; perjury.

false packed. Goods or commodities, which are sound and merchantable, so packed or loaded, with intent to defraud a purchaser, as to conceal defective or unmerchantable goods or commodities underneath in the same box, basket, barrel, crate, or other container. Garretson v Ferrall, 83 Ga 684, 10 SE 360.

false personation. See impersonation.

false pleading. A pleading good in form but sham for want of good faith in making the allegations. 41 Am J1st Pl § 50.

See sham pleading.

false pretense. Literally, a false representation of a fact or circumstance calculated to mislead. 32 Am J2d False Pret § 2. Any trick or device whereby the property of another is obtained. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 2. As an essential element of the offense of obtaining property or money by false pretenses, an intentional false statement concerning a material matter of fact, in reliance on which the title or possession of property is relinquished. 32 Am J2d False Pret § 3. As the basis of the exception from discharge in bankruptcy of a liability for obtaining money or property by false pretenses, a false and intentional pretense or representation which induced the creditor to part with money or property to be repaid or paid for later. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 782.

See false advertising.

false registry. The term usually applied to the registration of a vessel in violation of the Federal registry statutes which provide that if any certificate of registry or record is fraudulently, or knowingly used for any ship or vessel not then actually entitled to the benefit thereof, according to the true intent of the act, such ship or vessel shall be forfeited to the United States, with her tackle, apparel, and furniture. See 48 Am J1st Ship § 23.

false report. A criminal offense by a corporate officer or director. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1354.

See false entry.

false representation. A misrepresentation. 22 Am J2d False Pret § 72.

See false pretense; representation.

false return. A criminal offense by a census officer or employee, consisting in wilfully and knowingly making a false certificate or fictitious return. 14 Am J2d Census § 8. A return of process by a sheriff or other officer to whom the writ was issued for service which is false in reference to the acts performed by him in respect of the writ or other facts regarding the service or attempted service which it is his duty to report on the return. 47 Am J1st Sher § 78. An income tax return falsified for the purpose of evading the tax owing by the taxpayer. Capone v United States (CA7 Ill) 51 F2d 609, 76 ALR 1534, cert den 284 US 669, 76 L Ed 566, 52 S Ct 44. The wilful making, subscribing and verifying of a return which he does not believe to be true and correct by one liable for an internal revenue tax 34 Am J2d Fed Tax ¶ 9386. A return of taxable property falsified with intent to deceive or mislead or with culpable negligence. Ratterman v Ingalls, 48 Ohio St 468, 28 NE 168, 171.

false statement. A statement which is false. For most purposes of the law, a statement which is wilfully false. Fougera & Co. v New York, 224 NY 269, 120 NE 642, 1 ALR 1467, 1473.

See false representation.

false suit. Same as feigned action.

false swearing. Knowingly and intentionally stating upon oath that which is not true; swearing corruptly, or wilfully and knowingly deposing falsely in a sworn statement before some officer authorized to administer an oath, concerning some fact. Schoenfeld v State, 56 Tex Crim 103, 119 SW 101. Distinguished from perjury under the common law in the respect that false oath in perjury must be made in a judicial proceeding, whereas in false swearing it need not be made in such a proceeding. 41 Am J1st Perj § 3.

As a matter of defense to an insurer, "false swearing" means false statements wilfully made with respect to a material matter and with the intention of deceiving the insurer thereby. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1419.

false teeth. A denture, often referred to as a plate where complete in reference to the number of teeth contained, the preparation and fitting of which, is distinctly a part of the practice of dentistry. Anno: 83 ALR2d 114, 151, 284 et seq.

false testimony. See false oath; false swearing; perjury.

false token. A device for the effecting of a cheat or the obtaining of money by false pretenses; a device having the semblance of authenticity to the public but spurious a false weight or measure; impersonation of another person. 22 Am J2d False Pret § 20.

See counterfeit.

false verdict. A verdict not reached by due deliberation upon the evidence and under the instructions given by the court; a verdict arrived at by chance rather than by understanding, such as a verdict arrived at by drawing lots or casting dice, or a quotient verdict. 53 Am J1st Trial §§ 1029, 1030.

false weights. Weighing devices so constructed as to enable a tradesman to cheat and defraud his customers; a kind of false token. 22 Am J2d False Pret § 22. A crime at common law and under statute in most jurisdictions. 56 Am J1st Wts & L § 46.

falsi crimen. An offense characterized by fraud through concealment, untruthfulness, false weights, forgery, etc. An offense involving untruthfulness so glaring as to affect the administration of justice injuriously. 58 Am J1st Witn § 138.

[456]

falsifier. A liar. One who wilfully makes untruthful statements. Tawney v Simonson, Whitcomb, & Hurley Co. 109 Minn 341, 124 NW 229.

falsify. To misrepresent the facts. To tell a falsehood. Fraudulently to alter a record or document. To disprove. To disprove the correctness of an account which is prima facie presumed to be correct. Rehill v MeTague, 114 Pa 82, 7 A 224.

falsify a judgment. Formally to declare against the court for having rendered a false or erroneous judgment. This liberty was allowed by the Assizes of Jerusalem, but the person availing himself of it was obliged to fight all the members of the court including both judges and suitors, one after another. The privilege was seldom claimed.

falsifying evidence. The offense, distinct from that of perjury or subornation of perjury, of giving, offering, or promising to give something to a witness or prospective witness in order to induce him to give false testimony. People v Teal, 196 NY 372, 89 NE 1086.

falsing. The crime of falsifying; the crime of forgery.

falsing of dooms. Objecting to, protesting against, or pointing out errors in a sentence or judgment of a court.

falso clamore. See in misericordia.

falsonarius. A forger.

falso retorno brevium. A writ against a sheriff who made a false return of his disposition of process.

falsum. Something falsified, counterfeit, or forged.

falsus in uno, falsus in omnibus. False in one thing, false in everything.

The maxim expresses the general principle of law that where a witness has testified falsely to some material matter in a cause, the jury are at liberty to disregard his testimony in other respects, unless it is corroborated by other proof. 58 Am J1st Witn § 872.

fama. A person's good name or reputation; report; rumor.

famacide. A reputation killer; a defamer; a slanderer.

Fama, fides, et oculus non patiuntur ludum. Good name, faith and eyesight cannot endure deceit.

Fama, quae suspicionem inducit, oriri debet apud bonos et graves, non quidem malevolos et maledicos, sed providas et fide dignas personas, non semel sed saepius, quia clamor minuit et defamatio manifestat. Rumor, which induces suspicion, ought to have its origin among good and serious minded persons, not indeed from the malevolent and evil-tongued, but from cautious and worthy persons, not once, but often because praise dies out and evil gossip spreads.

familia. The family.

familiares regis. Familiars of the king,—certain clerks of the English chancery courts were so referred to.

familiarities. Undue liberties taken with a person, whether in speech, by touching him or her with the hands, or by otherwise coming in contact with him or her physically. 6 Am J2d Asslt & B §§ 98, 106.

family. A word of great flexibility, its meaning varying according to the connection in which it appears. Tomlyanovich v Tomlyanovich, 239 Minn 250, 58 NW2d 855, 50 ALR2d 108. Primarily, the collective body of persons who live in one house and under one head or management; secondarily, those persons who are of the same lineage, or have descended from one common progenitor. Dodge v Boston & P. R. Co. 154 Mass 299, 28 NE 243. Within the meaning of welfare statutes:—those, and only those, persons for whose support and maintenance the law requires the person who seeks relief to provide. Newbury v Brunswick, 2 Vt 151.

For some purposes, synonymous with household, as in the clause of an automobile theft insurance policy excluding theft by a member of the household. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 56. As the word appears in the rule that services rendered for a member of the "family" are presumed to have been rendered gratuitously:—persons living together in a state of mutual dependence irrespective of how close the tie of blood between them may be. Robinson v Johnson, 119 Kan 639, 240 P 962. As used in an exemption statute:—those who reside with, or compose the household of, the debtor. 22 Am J2d Exemp § 27. For the purposes of a statutory exemption of the homestead:—two or more persons who reside in a common household under the direction of one of them who is designated expressly or impliedly the head of the family. 26 Am J1st Home § 68. As used in the charter of, or certificate issued by, a mutual benefit association:—parents, wife, children, brothers, sisters, or other relatives, even stepchildren so long as they comprise a part of the household of the member. 38 Am J2d Frat O § 143. As used in those provisions of workmen's compensation acts which specify persons entitled to compensation as dependents of a deceased employee:—persons having an abode in common with the employee as the single head or in single management of the group. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 172. Within the meaning of a statute providing for substituted service of process by leaving a copy with one of defendant's family:—persons living together permanently and continuously within the same domestic establishment, irrespective of what the blood relationship, if any, between them may be. 42 Am J1st Proc § 63. Expressly defined in some zoning laws:—any number of persons living or cooking together as a single housekeeping unit; a number of individuals living together on the premises as a single nonprofit housekeeping unit, including domestic servants. Carroll v Arlington County, 186 Va 575, 44 SE2d 6, 172 ALR 1169. In reference to free transportation of the employee of a carrier or the members of his "family":—wife, parents or children of the employee living in the same household with him in a state of mutual dependence or reciprocal duties beyond those arising from the ties of consanguinity. Wentz v Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. 259 Mo 450, 168 SW 1166. But not all members of the household for the purposes of a clause in a fire insurance policy covering wearing apparel of the insured and his "family." 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 303.

As used in a statute providing for an allowance out of the estate of a decedent for his "family":—the widow and minor children of the decedent; the widow alone, if she has no children or no children who are minors; broadly defined by some authorities as including all persons who constituted the family of the decedent at the time of his death. 21 Am J2d Ex & Ad §§ 329-331.

[457]

Appearing in a will, the term "family" has such a variety of meanings that little of a general nature can be said as to its proper interpretation. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1392. Much depends upon the context of the entire will or of the pertinent portion. Anno: 154 ALR 1414. Sometimes, it means children or wife and children; at other times, a group of persons related to each other by marriage or blood living together under a single roof and comprising a household the head of which is usually the father or husband. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1392.

See branch; consanguinity; member of household; members of a family; relative.

family agreement. Same as family settlement.

family allowance. An allowance in a judgment for divorce or separation for the support of the child or children of the parties, often granted in a unitary award for wife and child or children. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 664. An award to be paid by the personal representative of a decedent's estate out of the assets of the estate to provide for daily necessities of the surviving family during the period of readjustment following the death of the breadwinner, until such time as a final settlement or award can be determined and effectuated. 31 Am 12d Exec & Ad § 24.

family arrangement. An expression characterizing the method of operation of a private boarding school; a family association for pupils and headmasters under a common roof, by a common fireside, in a common lodging, and at a common table. State ex rel. Spillers v Johnson, 214 Mo 656, 113 SW 1083.

family Bible. A Bible which has been used in a family for years, sometimes passed down from one generation to another in the family; often the place of recording events of important, even sacred, significance, such as births, deaths, marriages, baptisms, etc.

family burial ground. See family cemetery.

family car doctrine. See family purpose doctrine.

family cemetery. A family burial ground in which no lots are sold to the public and in which burials are restricted to a group of persons related to each other by blood or marriage. Union Cemetery Asso. v Cooper, 414 Ill 23, 110 NE2d 239.

family corporation. A corporation, the stock of which is held for the most part by the members of one family. 18 Am J2d Corp § 13.

family expense. An expenditure for an article or service which contributes to the comfort or enjoyment of the family as a unit, at least where reasonable and necessary. 26 Am J1st H & W § 387.

family history. The family record, often found in a family Bible, of births, deaths, marriages, baptisms, confirmations, etc. A medical term for the prevalence among members of a family of a particular disease, physical disability or bodily weakness.

family immunity. The absence of liability for an act, otherwise a tort, because of a family relationship between the person who performed the act and the injured person.

family meeting. An advisory jury, differing radically from an ordinary jury in that it is constituted with direct reference to its members having a bias, a partiality, an affection for those whose affairs it is called to deliberate. It is called to aid the court in determining affairs in which the members of the family are interested, such as the appointment of the curator of an interdict, a lunatic or an infant. Interdiction of Bothick, 44 La Ann 1037, 1041, 11 So 712. See also Lemoine v Ducote, 45 La Ann 857, 12 So 939.

family member. See members of a family.

family name. See surname.

family of a pauper. Those, and those only, for whom the law requires a pauper to provide. Newbury v Brunswick, 2 Vt 151.

family physician. The physician who usually attends and is consulted by the members of a family in the capacity of physician. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 759.

One may stand in the relationship of family physician to another, notwithstanding the latter has not consulted him or been attended by him. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 759.

family purpose doctrine. The rule that the owner of a motor vehicle purchased or maintained for the pleasure of his family is liable for injuries inflicted by the negligent operation of the vehicle while it is being used by members of the family for their own pleasure, on the theory that the vehicle is being used for the purpose or business for which it was kept, and that the person operating it is therefore acting as the owner's agent or servant in using it. 8 Am J2d Auto § 588. A doctrine which has been considered in reference to the operation of motorboats. 12 Am J2d Boats § 39.

family settlement. An agreement between the members of a family settling the distribution of family property among them.

family use. The use of a public service, such as that of a municipal waterworks, appropriate to the needs of the individual members of the household and of the household in a collective capacity for drinking, bathing, laundering, etc. Spring Valley Water Works v San Francisco, 52 Cal 111, 120.

See domestic purposes.

famosi libelli. Plural of famosus libellus.

famosus libellus. A libelous book or publication; a libel.

fanatica mania. A form of insanity produced by a morbid state of religious feeling. Ekin v McCracken (Pa) 11 Phila 534, 540.

fanega. A Spanish land measure equal to about sixty-four hundred square yards.

fan-tan. A card game, usually played by gamblers; a Chinese gambling game involving the guessing of the number of counters.

farce. A short dramatic entertainment in which ludicrous qualities are greatly exaggerated for humor. Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents (NY) 60 Barb 152, 156.

farcy. Same as glanders.

fordage. Same as dunnage.

fardel. A fourth part.

farding deal. A one-fourth of an acre of land.

[458]

fare. The price for the transportation of a passenger by a carrier. 14 Am J2d Car § 781. A passenger in a taxicab or other vehicle of a carrier.

According to one view, a fare is a payment made when the right of carriage is claimed, so that the purchase of a ticket is not the payment of a fare, the ticket becoming a fare only when accepted by the conductor and not before. Shelton v Erie R. Co. 73 NJL 558, 66 A 403.

fare-paying passenger. Ordinarily but not universally a person who has paid his fare in money of his own or in money supplied by a third person. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1271.

farinagium. A mill where grain was ground into meal.

farleu. Money paid by the tenant to the lord of the manor in lieu of a heriot.

farlingarii. Panderers; procurers.

farm. A tract of land, consisting of one or any number of acres, having one or many fields, located in one or more than one township or county, devoted to agriculture, either to the raising of crops or pasturage, or both. People ex rel. Rodgers v Caldwell, 142 Ill 434, 32 NE 691, 693; Dorsett v Watkins, 59 Okla 198, 158 P 608, 9 ALR 278, 281.

Appearing in a will as the subject of a devise, the term will include lands accessory to a cultivated farm, notwithstanding they are not actually cultivated, for example, woodland. 57 Am J1st Wills § 14. Even noncontiguous lands may be included in a devise of a farm, if such tracts were used by the testator for farming purposes or for purposes incidental to the operation of his farm. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1342.

See county farm; penal farm.

farm aid. Aid extended by the government, directly or indirectly, to persons engaged in agriculture. 3 Am J2d Agri §§ 16 et seq.

farm commodities. The products of the farm, such as grain, meat, milk, etc.

Farm Credit Administration. A federal agency in the Department of Agriculture with facilities to be expanded in time of economic depression in agriculture and utilized for the refinancing of farm indebtedness. 12 USC §§ 636-1148d.

farm credit institutions. Federal land banks, joint stock land banks, national farm loan associations, federal intermediate credit banks, Central Bank for Cooperatives, regional banks for cooperatives, federal credit unions, regional and local agricultural credit corporations, and other institutions of a similar nature. 51 Am J1st Tax § 251.

farm crossing. A passage across, under, or over a railroad track running across a farm, for the use and convenience of the proprietor or tenant of the farm. Wheeler v Rochester & Syracuse Railroad Co. (NY) 12 Barb 227, 230.

farmer. In an older meaning, the tenant or lessee of a farm; the eldest son of such tenant or lessee; a yeoman. In the modern sense of the term, a person who earns his living by, or follows the occupation or profession of farming or agriculture, whether he be the owner or tenant of the land in his use. Hickman v Cruise, 72 Iowa 528. As defined in the Bankruptcy Act:—an individual personally engaged in farming or tillage of the soil, including an individual personally engaged in dairy farming or in the production of poultry, livestock, or poultry or livestock products in their unmanufactured state, if the principal part of his income is derived from any one or more of such operations. Bankr § 1(17); 11 USC § 1(17).

A debtor's act in growing garden products for the use of his table, upon premises adjacent to his residence, does not make him a farmer for the purpose of the exception of farmers from involuntary bankruptcy. Nicholson v Williams & S. Co. (CA4 SC) 121 F2d 740.

If a debtor's vocation or business is that of a farmer, he will be entitled to the exemptions from execution granted by statute to a "farmer," although he is not at the time of the levy engaged in farming, or doing any specific thing as a farmer, and may not own a farm or have one leased at the time. 22 Am J2d Exemp § 23.

Farmer Cooperative Service. A federal agency in the Department of Agriculture.

farmers' cooperative. A cooperative association of farmer-producers. 18 Am J2d Co-op Asso § 1.

farm implements. Machines, tools, and utensils commonly used in farming; the implements of husbandry. 22 Am J2d Exemp § 60.

See implements of husbandry.

farming. The ancient and honorable occupation, business, or profession of cultivating land, including horticulture, viticulture, and gardening. Estate of Slade, 122 Cal 434, 55 P 158.

See agriculture.

farming on shares. See croppers; share rent.

farming out convicts. See hiring out convicts.

farming utensils. See farm implements.

farm laborer. One employed upon a farm in raising and harvesting crops, doing general farm work, or employed in a special line of farm work, such as production of milk for distribution over a retail milk route. 3 Am J2d Agri § 3. One employed in the cultivation of the soil and its fruits or in such processes or steps as are necessary and incident to the raising, harvesting, and processing of the harvested products for consumption or marketing. Anno: 53 ALR2d 406; 48 Am J1st Soc Sec § 30. One employed by a farmer to perform work which ordinarily is incidental to farming. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 97. For the purposes of the National Labor Relations Act, one employed in any one of the following enterprises: farming in all its branches, including, among other things, the cultivation and tillage of the soil; dairying; the production, cultivation, growing, and harvesting of agricultural or horticultural commodities; the raising of livestock or poultry, etc. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 685.

A man is not a farm laborer when in the employ of a man who travels about from farm to farm with a corn-husking machine, engaged in the business of husking corn for a stated compensation. Roush v Heffelbower, 225 Mich 664, 196 NW 185, 35 ALR 196, 198, 199.

farm let. Formal words in a lease, expressed in the Latin form, "ad firmam tradidi," signifying a letting on a certain rent payable in produce. See 2 Bl Comm 317.

Farm Loan Act. A federal statute enacted to provide loans on farm lands or assistance in obtaining such loans. 3 Am J2d Agri § 25. An act of Congress providing for the creation of federal land banks and joint stock land banks to facilitate the making of loans upon farm security at low rates of interest.

[459]

12 USC §§ 641 et seq., 810 et seq.; 10 Am J2d Bks § 21.

The beneficent purpose of loans under this statute is to enable farmers who are in debt, and without ability to make payment, to constitute the federal agency the sole creditor and thereby eliminate, by way of compromise, all other creditors. International Harvester Co. v Young, 288 Mich 436, 285 NW 12.

farm manager. An agent intrusted with the management of a farm, but ordinarily authorized to borrow money on the credit of his principal only as borrowing is indispensable to the operation of the farm. 3 Am J2d Ag § 89.

farm produce. See farm products.

farm products. Products of the pursuit of farming or agriculture, including swine, horses, cattle, and sheep, as well as grain vegetables, fruit, eggs, milk, butter, lard, and other provisions consumed as food. 3 Am J2d Agri § 2. Including for the purpose of tax or licensing statutes products of the field and garden, fruit trees, livestock, poultry, eggs, dairy products, meats, and honey. 3 Am J2d Agri § 2. Crops, livestock, or supplies used or produced in farming operations. UCC § 9-109(3).

See crops.

farm relief. The relief of burdensome indebtedness of farmers by means of refinancing farm mortgages at low rates of interest through governmental agencies. 3 Am J2d Agri § 30. A form of relief under the Bankruptcy Act, known as agricultural compositions and extensions, provided as a temporary measure in 1933 but continuing until March 1, 1949, and even beyond that date as to proceedings then pending the primary objective of which was to enable the farm debtor to hold onto his property and keep operating under extensions of time for payment or redemption. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 162.

farm tractor. See tractor.

farm use. As the term appears in an automobile insurance policy, use in pursuance of the profession of farming. Anno: 10 ALR2d 674.

farm vehicles. Motor vehicles employed in transporting or delivering dairy or other farm products or livestock. 7 Am J2d Auto § 78.

faro. A card game played by gamblers. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 37.

farrago libelli. Book, compiled or written in a confused or disorderly manner.

farrier. One who shoes horses; a person who takes care of sick horses.

farsightedness. Better vision for distant than near-by objects.

farthing. A British coin of very small value practically out of circulation. Anything of extremely small value.
See smoke farthings.

farthing damages. Nominal damages; that is, such damages as are awarded when judgment is for the plaintiff and no actual damages have been or can be shown.

Faryndon Inn. One of the ancient inns of court in London.

f.a.s. Abbreviation of free alongside steamer.
See free alongside steamer.

fas. That which is right or just in the sight of God, as distinguished from "jus," which more frequently refers to that which is right in the aspect of man-made law. See 3 Bl Comm 2.

Fascist. One who advocates, or is a member of an organization which advocates, the establishment of a totalitarian dictatorship.

fast. Speedy. Living in a state of dissipation. Tied.

In railroading, a train is going fast within the meaning of yard rules when traveling at the full authorized rate of fifteen miles an hour. Missouri Pacific R.R. Co. Baldwin (CA8 Ark) 117 F2d 510.

fast bill of exceptions. A bill of exceptions which is entitled to review by the higher court without the usual delay. Sewell v Edmonston, 66 Ga 353.

fastening seat belt. A precaution to be taken by one riding in an airplane at time of takeoff or landing or during a turbulence. 8 Am J2d Avi § 96.

fast estate. An unusual term for real property. Jackson ex dem. Decker v Merrill (NY) 6 Johns 185, 191.

fasti. Those days on which the praetor could administer justice under the Roman law.

fast writ. Any matter or proceeding which is entitled to precedence on the calendar of the court. Young v Hamilton, 135 Ga 339, 69 SE 593.

fast writ of error. A proceeding by writ of error entitled to precedence on the court docket. Gordon v Gordon, 109 Ga 262, 34 SE 324.

fatal. Causing death; deadly or mortal. Boyer v State, 84 Neb 407, 121 NW 445.

fatale. See damnum fatale.

fatal error. See prejudicial error.

fatal injury. A personal injury resulting in death. Provident Life & Acci. Ins. Co. v Johnson (Tex Civ App) 235 SW 650.
See personal injury.

fatal variance. A material variance between the pleading and the proof, a variance which actually misleads the opposing party to his prejudice in maintaining his cause of action or defense. 41 Am J1st Pl § 371.

fate. Inevitability; destiny.

Fatetur facinus qui judicium fugit. A person who flees from judgment admits his guilt.

father. A person's male parent; a male who has be gotten a child. An adoptive male parent. Lind v. Burke, 56 Neb 785, 790, 77 NW 444, 445. A priest; a person honored or respected because of age or position.

father's natural guardianship. The modern status of the father as the natural guardian of the person of all his children until they have attained the age of twenty-one. 25 Am J1st 10 G & W § 6.

fatigue life. The useful life of a metal, it being recognized as a scientific fact that even hard metal may in time, by the action of the elements, stress and strain, cease to have the resistance which makes it useful. Northwest Airlines Inc. v Glenn L. Martin Co. (CA6 Ohio) 24 F2d 120 50 ALR2d 882, reh den 229 F2d 434, 50 ALR2d 897.

fatty degeneration. Abnormality in the appearance of particles of fat in tissues; not a bodily infirmity as a matter of law. Modern Woodmen Acci. Asso. v Shryock, 54 Neb 250, 74 NW 607.

[460]

fatua mulier. A ruined woman; a whore.

fatuitas. Fatuity; idiocy.

fatuity. Stupidity. Folly.

fatum. Fate; vis major.

fatuous person. A silly person. In rare usage, an idiot.

fatuum judicium. A fatuous, foolish, or idiotic judgment.

fatuus. Fatuous; foolish; idiotic; an idiot.

Fatuus, apud jurisconsultos nostros, accipitur pro non compos mentis; et fatuus dicitur, qui omnino desipit. "Fatuus," among our men learned in the law, is treated as meaning not in one's right mind, and he is called "fatuus" who is altogether foolish.

Fatuus praesumitur qui in proprio nomine errat. He is presumed incompetent who mistakes his own name. Van Alst v Hunter (NY) 5 Johns Ch 148, 161.

faubourg. In Louisiana,—a suburban town or community.

fauces terrae. Headlands inclosing a bay.

fault. A wrongful act, omission, or breach. UCC § 1-201(16). An error or defect of judgment or conduct; any deviation from prudence, rectitude, or duty; any shortcoming or neglect of care or performance, resulting from inattention, incapacity, or perversity; a wrong tendency, course, or act; including but not limited to negligence; not necessarily imputing moral delinquency. Louisville, Evansville & St. Louis Railroad Co. v Berry, 2 Ind App 427, 431.

fausse. False.

fautor. A patron; a supporter; an abettor.

faux. False.

fauxer. To falsify; to forge.

favor. Grace; indulgence; prejudice; bias.

See challenge to the favor.

favorabilia in lege sunt fiscus, dos, vita, libertas. Favorites of the law are the revenue, dower, life, and liberty.

Favorabilia in lege sunt vita, fiscus, dos, libertas. Life, the revenue, dower and liberty are favorites of the law. State ex rel. Corporation Com. v Dunn, 174 NC 679, 94 SE 481.

Favorabiliores rei potius quam actores habentur. Defendants are favored rather than plaintiffs.

Both parties are the objects of the law's equal protection, but to make the protection equal, a certain position is assigned to the defendant; he is so placed that he may not be overcome by surprise. Hunt v Rousmanier's Administrators (US) 8 Wheat 174, 195, 5 L Ed 589, 594.

Favorabiliores sunt executiones aliis processibus quibuscunque. Executions are more favored than all other processes.

favorable construction. See liberal construction.

favorable error. An error of the trial court which is favorable to a party and is therefore one which he cannot assign as error either on a motion for a new trial or on appeal. 5 Am J2d A & E § 784.

favored vessel. A vessel to be favored by other craft in navigation. Connolly v The Ace (CA2 NY) 164 F2d 86. The ship, boat, or other watercraft to which other vessels must give way in order to avoid collision and injury. 12 Am J2d Boats § 80; 48 Am J1st Ship §§ 250 et seq. The one of two vessels approaching each other which is required by the rules of navigation to keep her course and speed. The Knoxville City (CA9 Cal) 112 F2d 223.

Favores ampliandi sunt; odia restringenda. Favorable comments should be encouraged, expressions of hatred should be restrained.

favoritism. See bias; discrimination; favor; prejudice.

favor of. On the side of, as in announcing the score of a game or contest. An informal term for the creation of a fiduciary relationship.

A check made payable to the order of one person "favor of another person makes the payee upon accepting the check a fiduciary for the other person and the words "favor of" are equivalent to "collect for" or "for account of." White v National Bank, 102 US 658, 26 L Ed 250.

f. b. Abbreviation of freight bill.

FBI. Abbreviation of Federal Bureau of Investigation.

See Bureau of Investigation.

FCC. Abbreviation of Federal Communications Commission.

fcp. Abbreviation of foolscap.

FDA. Abbreviation of Food and Drug Administration.

feal. Faithful; loyal.

feat and divot. A servitude of taking sod, corresponding closely to the English common of turbary.

fealte. Same as fealty.

fealty. An incident of feudal tenure, being the obligation of fidelity which a tenant owed to his lord. 19 Am J2d Est § 3.

fear. A state of agitation and anxiety prompted by the nearness or imagined nearness of danger or evil. A basic element of the instinct of self-preservation.

Fear consists in capitulating to the human instinct of self-preservation. The bravest of men know what it is. It is not a ridiculous malady, nor one that a person need be ashamed of under ordinary circumstances. Everett v Paschall, 61 Wash 47 , 111 P 879.

In robbery, the fear which moves the victim to part with his goods may be the apprehension of injury to his person, property or reputation. No matter how slight the cause creating the fear may be, nor by what other circumstances the taking may be accomplished, if the transaction be attended with such circumstances of terror, such threatening by word or gesture, as in common experience are likely to create an apprehension of danger, and to induce a man to part with his property for the safety of his person, he is put in fear. See 46 Am J1st Rob § 16.

The fear of disease, which is sometimes an element in depriving a person of the comfortable enjoyment of his property, is real in that it affects the movements and conduct of men. Such fears are actual and must be recognized by the courts as other emotions of the human mind. Everett v Paschall, 61 Wash 47, 111 P 879.

See fright.

fearm. Same as farm.

fear of death. See fear; gift causa mortis.

feasance. A doing; a making; putting into effect.

See malfeasance; misfeasance; nonfeasance.

feasant. The process of acting or putting into effect.

See damage feasant.

feasibility. Capability of accomplishment. Gilmartin v D. & N. Transp. Co. 123 Conn 127, 193 A 726, 113 ALR 1322.

feasor. One who performs or commits.

feasts. Ecclesiastical festivals or holidays. Rent days and days for holding court were often fixed by reference to these feasts.

febrile. Feverish.

See delirium febrile.

featherbedding. The exaction of pay for services not to be performed. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 261.

feciales. Ancient Roman officers upon whom devolved the functions of declaring war and peace.

fecial law. The ancient Roman law governing declarations of war and peace.

federal. Joined in a union having central and predominate authority. Appertaining to the community of sovereign states, the United States of America. Piqua Bank v Knoup, 6 Ohio St 342.

See terms and expressions beginning federal; national; United States.

federal act. See federal statute.

federal agencies and instrumentalities. Agencies, boards, bureaus, commissions, institutions, and services of the United States Government.

For particular agency, bureau, commission, service, or instrumentality, see the pertinent title or popular name, such as Bureau of Investigation; Civil Service Commission; Deposit Insurance Corporation; Housing and Home Finance Agency; Mediation and Conciliation Service; Power Commission, etc.

federal agency. A federal administrative board or commission. A means or agency used by the Federal government. Capitol Bldg. & Loan Asso. v Kansas Com. 148 Kan 446, 83 P2d 106, 118 ALR 1212.

See federal agencies and instrumentalities.

federal aid. The use of federal funds in giving financial aid to states or state agencies, for particular purposes, such as the construction of highways, the elimination of slums, the control of disease, etc.

See foreign aid.

federal airports. Airports in the continental United States in, or in close proximity to, national parks, national monuments, and national recreation areas. 16 USC §§ 7a-7e.

federal airway. A portion of the navigable air space of the United States designated by the Administrator of the federal aviation agency as a federal airway. 49 USC § 1301(18).

federal bureaus. See federal agencies and instrumentalities.

federal census. The census taken every 10 years by the Federal Government. 14 Am J2d Census §§ 1-4.

Federal Code. See United States Code.

federal commissioner. See United States Commissioner.

federal commissions. See federal agencies and instrumentalities.

federal common law. A concept intriguing to legal theorists. Strictly speaking, a nonentity. 15 Am J2d Com L § 4. In a less than strict usage, the common law enforced generally throughout the United States. Western Union Tel. Co. v Call Pub. Co. 181 US 92, 45 L Ed 765, 21 S Ct 561.

While there is no common law of the United States in the sense of a national customary law, the courts of the United States enforce the law as they find it in the several states and apply the common law, as a national institution, in the interpretation of the constitution. State ex ref. Powell v State Bank, 90 Mont 539, 4 P2d 717, 80 ALR 1494.

Although there is no national common law in the United States distinct from the common law which each state has adopted for itself and applies as its local law subject to alteration by statute, there is a federal common law in the sense that the United States Constitution, treaties, and statutes are construed in the light of common law principles and in the further sense that the federal courts also apply common law principles in cases involving substantive matters in transactions substantially involving the interests or obligations of the federal government or its instrumentalities. 15 Am J2d Com L § 4.

"Notwithstanding Erie Railroad v Tompkins, 304 US 64, 82 L Ed 1188, 58 S Ct 817, 114 ALR 1487, there still exist certain fields where legal relations are governed by a Federal common law, a body of decisional law developed by the Federal courts untrammelled by state court decisions." O'Brien v Western Union Telegraph Co. (CA1 Mass) 113 F2d 539.

Federal Control Act. The statute which provided for the operation of the railroads by the federal government during World War I. 31 USC § 191.

federal corporation. A corporation chartered by act of Congress or organized under federal laws. 23 Am J2d For Corp §§ 112, 113.

federal courts. See United States Courts.

federal district. An area for the seat of government in a country under the federal system; the District of Columbia in the United States. A judicial district in the federal system of courts.

federal enclave. A federal institution, such as a military base, within a state. A place falling within the special maritime and territorial jurisdiction of the United States. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 395.

Federal Government. The government of the United States; the government of a community of independent and sovereign states, united by compact. Piqua Bank v Knoup, 6 Ohio St 342, 394.

See United States.

federal grant. A transfer of title to public lands of the United States by act of Congress, through treaty provisions, or by patent under general laws. 42 Am J1st Pub L § 30.

[462]

federal instrumentality. A means or agency used by the Federal government. Capitol Bldg. & Loan Asso. v Kansas Com. 148 Kan 446, 83 P2d 106, 118 ALR 1212.

See federal agencies and instrumentalities.

Federalist. A series of political essays on the United States Constitution, written by Alexander Hamilton, James Madison, and John Jay in advocating the adoption of the great document, to which recourse has often been had in the interpretation of the constitution. 16 Am J2d Const L § 89.

federal judge. A judge of a court of the United States. Fong Yue Ting v United States, 149 US 698, 37 L Ed 905, 13 S Ct 1016.

federal lands. See public lands.

federal legislation. See federal statute.

federal offenses. Offenses defined by Congress and for which Congress prescribes punishment. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 15.

An offense created by a statute which is operative only within the District of Columbia is an offense against the United States. Beard v Bennett, 72 App DC 269, 114 F2d 578.

federal police power. A power analagous to the police power of the states; the police power appropriate to the exercise of any attribute of sovereignty specifically granted the federal government by the Constitution of the United States. 16 Am J2d Const L §. 276.

federal powers. The powers granted the federal government by the Constitution of the United States.

See resulting powers.

federal prison. A prison erected under authority of Congress at any place within the jurisdiction of the United States for the confinement of persons sentenced to imprisonment under the laws of the United States or a state prison designated by Congress under arrangement with a state for the reception of Federal prisoners. 41 Am J1st Pris & P § 7.

federal question. A genuine and substantial controversy, arising under the Constitution, a law, or treaty of the United States, presented in such form that the judicial power is capable of acting upon it, and so directly involved in a case that a determination thereof is necessary to a decision. Kansas v Colorado, 206 US 46, 51 L Ed 956, 27 S Ct 655; Smith v Kansas City Title & Trust Co. 255 US 180, 65 L Ed 577, 41 S Ct 243.

Federal Register. An official publication in daily issues of executive orders and proclamations of the President, rules, regulations, etc. of the federal departments, commissions, and agencies. A publication prescribed by law wherein every federal agency shall publish: (1) descriptions of its central and field organization, including delegations by the agency of final authority and the established places at which, and methods whereby, the public may secure information or make submittals or requests;

(2) statements of the general course and method by which its functions are channeled and determined, including the nature and requirements of all formal or informal procedures available as well as forms and instructions as to the scope and contents of all papers, reports, or examinations; and substantive rules and statements of general policy. 5 USC 1002.

See Code of Federal Regulations.

federal reserve. See reserve system.

federal reserve bank. See reserve bank.

Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. A comprehensive set of rules governing procedure in the United States District Courts, promulgated by the United States Supreme Court under power delegated to the court by Congress, replacing the Conformity Act and the Federal Rules of Equity Practice.

Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure. A comprehensive set of rules governing the procedure in criminal cases in the United States District Courts, promulgated by the United States Supreme Court.

Federal Rules of Equity Practice. A set of rules, adopted by the United States Supreme Court, governing the practice and procedure in equity suits in the United States District Courts, since supplanted by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure which govern in all suits in such courts of a civil nature whether cognizable as cases at law or in equity.

federal statute. The written will of Congress as expressed formally by an Act of Congress. 50 Am J1st Stat § 2.

For particular statute, see the pertinent title or popular name, such as Alcohol Administration Act; Bank Conservation Act; Farm Loan Act; Interpleader Act; Miller Act; Ship Mortgage Act, etc.

federal taxes. See internal revenue.

federation. A combination of states or bodies to which the components surrender at least some measure of their powers. A combination of labor unions.

fee. The royalty paid for the use of a patent or copyright under license. The charge made for services of a professional man, such as a lawyer, physician, or abstractor. 1 Am J2d Abstr T § 3, the charges for the services of a public officer in his official capacity (Rose v Superior Court, 80 Cal App 739, 252 P 765), especially the services of the clerk of court. 15 Am J2d Cl C § 14. A charge imposed upon students for an incidental, such as a fee for use of library or laboratory, a student-union fee, an athletic fee, or a matriculation fee. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 19. A perpetual annuity. 4 Am J2d, Annu § 7.

An estate in real property, which, unless qualified by additional terminology, is an estate in inheritance where the tenant is not only entitled to enjoy the land for his own life, but where, after his death, it is cast by law upon the persons who successfully represent him in perpetuum in right of blood, according to a certain established order of descent. 19 Am J2d Est § 8. Often used as a synonym of fee simple.

The word was originally used in contradistinction to the word "allodium," and signifies that which was held of another, on condition of rendering him a service. And although the word is now generally used to express the quantum of the estate, it is also used to designate a fee simple. Hay's Estate v Commissioner (CA5) 181 F2d 169, 39 ALR2d 453; Wendell v Crandall, 1 NY 491, 495.

See conditional fee; determinable fee; fee tail.

feeble-minded. A condition of incomplete development of mind of such a degree or kind as to render the individual incapable of adjusting himself to his social environment in a reasonably efficient and harmonious manner and to necessitate external care, supervision, or control. Re Masters, 216 Minn 553, 13 NW2d 487, 158 ALR 1210. Having a subnormal mentality. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 28.

fee conditional. See conditional fee.

feed. Noun: Provender for cattle and other animals. Verb: To supply food, as to "feed" the starving of the world out of our abundance.

feeder. A canal which intersects another and larger canal to which it brings traffic; a railroad line which intersects a trunk line with which it exchanges traffic; a steer or heifer of such size and condition as to be ready for feeding preparatory to marketing the animal.

Feed Grain Program. Various activities of the Federal Government carried on to reduce the acreage of land planted to feed grains, conducted for the purpose of stabilization of prices.

feed loans. Government loans for livestock feed made when, by reason of drought, destruction or failure of crops, farmers are unable otherwise to procure them. 3 Am J2d Agri § 33.

fee-expectant. A fee which is limited to a man and his wife and the heirs of their bodies.

See expectant estates.

fee farm. A letting of lands to farm in fee-simple, instead of the usual methods for life or years. See 2 Bl Comm 43.

See rent charge.

fee farm rent. The rent reserved in letting a fee farm.

See rent charge.

fee in abeyance. See in abeyance. feelings. Emotions.

Injury to feelings is often used as synonymous with the term mental suffering. Bovee v Danville, 53 Vt 183, 191. fees.

See fee.

fee schedule. See minimum fee schedule.

fee simple. The largest estate in land known to the law and implying absolute dominion over the land; an estate of inheritance clear of any condition, limitation, or restriction, to particular heirs. 28 Am J2d Est § 10. An estate of lawful inheritance or pure inheritance, "fee" standing for inheritance and "simple" for pure or lawful. A legal or equitable estate in land constituting the largest estate and implying absolute dominion, although possibly subject to executory limitations or conditions subsequent. Hay's Estate v Commissioner (CA5) 181 F2d 169, 39 ALR2d 453; Ford v Unity Church Society, 120 Mo 498, 25 SW 394.

See fee simple.

fee simple absolute. A fee simple.

fee simple conditional. Same as conditional fee.

fee splitting. See division of fees.

feet. See foot.

fee tail. A legal or equitable estate in which lands and tenements are given to one and the heirs of his body begotten, in other words, an estate of inheritance which is to pass by lineal descent only. 19 Am J2d Est § 45. An estate resulting from the application of the Statute de Donis to the conditional fee. 19 Am J2d Est § 45.

The name was borrowed from the feudists, among whom it signified any mutilated or truncated inheritance from which the heirs general were cut off, or, as some say, because ownership of the subject was cut in two parts, one going to the donee and the heirs of his body, and the other remaining as a reversion in the donor. Gannon v Albright, 183 Mo 498, 81 SW 1162.

See barring the entail; common recovery; fine to bar entail; Statute de Donis.

fee tail after possibility of issue extinct. An estate which is not a conventional one, but is of the legal kind and arises when a tenant is tenant in special tail and a person from whose body the issue was to spring, dies without issue; or, having left issue, that issue becomes extinct. In either of these cases the surviving tenant in special tail becomes tenant in tail after possibility of issue extinct. 2 Bl Comm 124.

fee tail female. An estate tail in which the distinctive limitation is to female heirs of the donee's body. 28 Am J2d Est § 45.

fee tail general. An estate tail where the limitation is to the heirs of a man's body generally. 28 Am J2d Est § 45.

fee tail male. An estate tail in which the distinctive limitation is to male heirs of the donee's body. Restatement, Property § 78, Comments b, c, d; 28 Am J2d Est § 45.

fee tail special. See special estate tail.

fegangi. A fleeing thief who was captured with the stolen goods in his possession.

feigned accomplice. One who participates in an act, otherwise criminal, with the intent, not to accomplish that which constitutes a crime, but to secure the apprehension of the other participant or participants. 13 Am J2d Burgl § 26.

feigned action. A fictitious suit; a suit instituted to obtain a judicial opinion, without an actual or existing controversy between the parties. 1 Am J2d Actions § 56.

feigned appearance. Disguise. A false registration of emotions.

feigned conduct. Disguising one's feelings, emotions, intent, or purpose by assuming a posture.

feigned injury. A pretended personal injury asserted by way of exaggerating a claim for damages.

feigned issue. An issue in a suit in equity presented for trial at law before a jury under the guise of a fictitious wager. 27 Am J2d Equity § 240.

Feigned issues were also frequently used in courts of law, by consent of the parties, to determine some disputed right without the formality of pleading, thus saving time and expense. See 3 Bl Comm 452.

FELA. Abbreviation of Federal Employers' Liability Act.

feldspar. A mineral. Anno: 86 ALR 984.

fele. Same as feal.

Felix qui potuit rerum cognoscere causas. He is fortunate who is able to understand the causes of things.

fellow-heir. A joint heir; a co-heir; a person sharing an inheritance with another or with others.

fellow servant doctrine. The common-law rule which absolves an employer from liability to one engaged in his employment for injuries incurred or suffered solely as the result of the negligence, carelessness, or misconduct of others who are in the service of the employer and who are engaged in the same common or general employment as the injured employee. 35 Am J1st M & S § 334.

fellow servants. Literally, co-workers in the same employment. For the purposes of the fellow servant doctrine:—the injured person and the person who caused the injury engaged in the service of the same employer and acting at the time the injury was sustained within the scope of their employment. 35 Am J1st M & S § 377. With refinements:—servants of a common master, who are engaged in and about a common work under one common master workman or superintendent, and who in doing their work can observe and influence each other's conduct and suggest delinquencies to a correcting power. Relyea v Kansas City, Fort Scott & Gulf Railroad Co. 112 Mo 86, 93, 20 SW 480.

[464]

All the members of the crew on the same vessel, with the exception, according to some authorities, of the master or other commanding officer, are fellow servants of each other, though their duties and functions differ; and the same is true of workmen engaged in building, repairing, loading or unloading a ship. 48 Am J1st Ship § 127.

felo. A felon.

felo de se. A self-destroyer; a suicide.

felon. One who has been convicted of a felony and whose disabilities arising from such conviction have not been removed. An infection of finger or toe extruding pus and very painful. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1173.

felonia. A felony.

feloniae, per quas vasallas amitteret feudum. Felonies through which a vassal would lose his fee. See 2 Bl Comm 284.

Felonia, ex vi termini, significat quodlibet capitale crimen felleo animo perpetratum. Felony, by the force of the term, signifies any capital crime perpetrated with felonious intent.

Felonia implicatur in qualibet prodicione. Felony is implied in every treason.

felonice. Feloniously. An allegation that the criminal act was committed "feloniously" or "felonice," was a vital formality in every indictment charging the commission of a felony. See 4 Bl Comm 307.

Felonice abduxit unum equum. He feloniously led away one horse.

felonice cepit. He feloniously took.

felonious. Having the quality of a felony; malignant; malicious; villainous; perfidious; in a legal sense, done with intent to commit a crime. State v Bush, 47 Kan 201, 207.

See felonious intent.

felonious homicide. Murder, in some one of the degrees of the offense, or manslaughter, depending upon the presence or absence of malice, express or implied, or upon the fact that the homicide was committed by the slayer while in the perpetration of another felony. 26 Am J1st Homi § 2.

The killing of a human creature of any age or sex, without justification or excuse. This may be done either by killing one's self, or another man. The term therefore includes self-murder, murder and manslaughter. See 4 BI Comm 188-190.

felonious intent. The intent to commit a felony. As an element of the crime of larceny:—an absence of color, of right or excuse for the act, combined with an intent to deprive the owner permanently of his property, sometimes including an element of concealment. 32 Am J1st Larc § 36.

It is not sufficient in an indictment for burglary, to charge simply intent to commit a felony; the particular felony intended must be specified. 13 Am J2d Burgl § 36.

feloniously. Acting with intent to commit a felony or to do that which constitutes a felony under the law even perhaps without knowledge of the legal effect. Acting with an evil heart or purpose. State v Clark, 83 Vt 305, 75 A 534. A technical, but in many jurisdictions an essential, word in an indictment charging a felony, at least where the offense is a felony at common law. 27 Am J1st Indict § 67.

feloniously and burglariously. A conventional expression in an indictment for burglary employed in charging an intent to commit a felony. State v Wiley, 173 Md 119, 194 A 629, 113 ALR 1267.

felony. A generic term for certain high crimes, such as murder, treason, robbery, and larceny, for the purpose of distinguishing them from minor offenses known as misdemeanors. 13 Am J2d Burgl § 36. An offense punishable by death, or by the imprisonment in a state prison or penitentiary. Briggs v Board of County Comrs. 202 Okla 684, 217 P2d 827, 20 ALR2d 727. Such a serious offense as was formerly punishable by death or by forfeiture of lands or goods. Bannon v United States, 156 US 464, 39 L Ed 494, 15 S Ct 467.

Within the meaning of a statute which provides that a homicide committed in the perpetration of a felony is murder, a "felony" is an act punishable either capitally or by imprisonment in state prison, whether the act is one proscribed by the common law or by statute. 26 Am J1st Homi § 39.

female. One of the sex that bears offspring. State v Hemm, 82 Iowa 609, 48 NW 971.

See chaste female; fee tail female; virtuous female.

female disease. A disease not common to both sexes, peculiar to females. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1158.

female estate tail. An estate tail in which the distinctive limitation is to female heirs of the donee's body. 28 Am J2d Est § 45.

feme. A woman.

feme covert. A married woman.

feme sole. An unmarried woman.

feme sole trader. A married woman who engages in business on her own account. M'Daniel v Cornwell 10 SC Eg (1 Hill) 428, 429.

femicide. The killing of a woman.

femme. A woman.

fen. A marsh or swamp.

See submerged fen.

fenatio. The breeding season of deer.

fence. An inclosure about a field or other space, or about any object, especially an inclosing structure of wood, iron, or other material, intended to prevent intrusion from without or straying from within; a visible or tangible obstruction which may be a hedge, ditch, wall, trestle, frame of wood, wire, rails, or any line of obstacle interposed between two portions of land so as to part off and shut in the land and set it off as private property or for the purpose of using it separately from adjacent land of the same owner. 35 Am J2d Fen § 1. A place where thieves, robbers, and burglars may dispose of their plunder. State v Rosenbaum, 80 Conn 327, 68 A 250.

[465]

See lawful fence; partition fence; spite fence.

fence district. Same as fencing district.

fence-mouth. The closed or fawning season for deer.

fence operation. Receiving stolen property; receiving stolen vehicles. 7 Am J2d Auto § 307.

fence viewer. An officer, usually a township officer, having the duty of ascertaining the true boundary between adjoining landowners in case of dispute, and, in some jurisdictions, authorized to determine the sufficiency of a fence on a boundary line.

fencing district. A district established under statute for the purpose of requiring the owners of livestock within such district to keep their animals restrained against trespassing upon the premises of other persons, in order that crops may be cultivated on unfenced premises. 4 Am J2d Ani § 51.

fender. A guard and protection against danger. State, Cape May, etc. Railway Co. v Cape May, 59 NJL 396, 403, 36 A 696. A metal pattern placed over the wheels of a motor vehicle to prevent the splashing of mud and the throwing of particles from the highway. The cowcatcher of a locomotive.

feneration. The lending of money at interest; interest; usury.

fengeld. A tax imposed for warding off or repelling enemies.

feod. A fee, a fief.

feodal. Same as feudal.

feoda; actions. Same as feudal actions.

feodality. Same as fealty.

feodal law. Same as feudal law.

feoda propria et impropria. Proper (military) and improper (nonmilitary) feuds. See 2 Bl Comm 58.

feodary. Same as feudary.

feodatory. Same as feudatory.

feodi firma. Same as fee-farm.

feodo. See de feodo.

feodum. Same as feudum.

feoffment. A common law method of conveying the title to real estate, accompanied by traditional and conventional livery of seisin. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 11.

feodum antiquum. An ancient fee. Same as feudum antiquum.

Feodum est quod quis tenet ex quacunque causa, sive sit tenementum sive redditus. A fee is something that a person holds from whatever cause, whether it be tenement or rent.

Feodum est good quis tenet sibi et haeredibus suis, sive sit tenementum, sive redditus, etc. A fee is that which one holds for himself and his heirs, whether it be a tenement or a rent.

feodum nobile. Same as feudum nobile.

feodum novum. Same as feudum novum.

Feodum simplex quia feodum idem est quod haereditas, et simplex idem est quod legitimum vel purum; et sic feodum simplex idem est quod haereditas legitima vel haereditas pura. It is called a "fee simple," because "fee" is the same as inheritance and "simple" is the same as lawful or pure; and so "fee simple" is the same as lawful inheritance or pure inheritance.

feodum talliatum, i. e., haereditas in quandam certitudinem limitata. A fee tail, that is, an inheritance limited in a certain descent.

feoffamentum. A feoffment,—derived from feoffare or infeudare, to give one a feud. See 2 BI Comm 310.

feoffare. To enfeoff; to grant a fee.

feoffator. Same as feoffor. feoffatus. Same as feoffee.

feoffavit. He has enfeoffed.

feoffee. A person to whom a fee is conveyed; a person to whom a feoffment is made; the donee of any corporeal hereditament; one who is enfeoffed. See 2 BI Comm 310.

feoffee to uses. A person to whom a fee is conveyed to the use of another person, who is called the cestui que use.

feoffment. The act of enfeoffing or investing a person with a fee. The transfer of a fee, a freehold or a corporeal hereditament by livery of seisin.

See livery of seisin.

feoffor. A person who conveys a fee; a person who makes a feoffment; one who gives any corporeal hereditament to another; one who enfeoffs another. See 2 Bl Comm 310.

feoh. A fee; a reward.

feorme. Same as farm.

ferae bestiae. Wild beasts; wild animals.

ferae igitur bestiae, et volucres, et omnia animalia quae mari, coelo et terra nascuntur, simul atque ab aliquo capta fuerint, jure gentium statim illius esse incipiunt. Quod enim nullius est, id naturali ratione occupanti conceditur. (Roman law). Hence, wild animals and birds, and all animals which spring from the sea, the air and the earth as soon as they have been taken by anyone by the law of nations forthwith become his. For what belongs to no one by natural reason is given to the one taking it. See 2 Bl Comm 411.

ferae neturae. Wild animals. 4 Am J2d Ani §§ 2, 4.

ferdwit. (Saxon.) A fine for not joining a military expedition.

ferens ligna in sylva. Carrying wood to the forest; superfluous.

[466]

The expression is applied to the tautologous use of adjectives, as a "round" ball, an "open" assumption of marital rights, duties, and obligations. Sharon v Sharon, 75 Cal 1, 75, 16 P 345, 379.

feria. A fair; a ferry; a holiday.

feriae. Plural of feria.

ferial days. Holidays; also, working-days other than Sundays.

ferita. A wound.

ferme. Same as farm.

fermented liquor. Alcoholic beverages prepared in part by utilizing the natural process of fermentation.

fermer. Same as farmer.

ferret. See tax ferret.

ferrriage. Transportation by ferry. The price or fare fixed by law for the transportation of the traveling public, with such goods and chattels as they may have with them, across a river, bay, or lake. People v San Francisco & Alameda Railroad Co. 35 Cal 606, 619.

ferry. Verb: To transport persons and their belongings across a river or other body of water. 35 Am J2d Ferr § 1. Noun: A place where persons are taken across a river or other body of water in boats or other vessels for hire. A boat, barge, or raft, which, plying back and forth across a stream or other body of water for the conveyance of passengers and their belongings, thereby serves as a connection of the highways located on the opposite banks or shores. 35 Am J2d Ferr § 1. A merchant vessel. Re Ellingson (DC Cal) 300 F 225. The right or franchise granted by the state or an authorized political subdivision to continue, by means of watercraft, an interrupted land highway over interrupting waters and to charge a fee for the use thereof by the public. See 35 Am J2d Ferr § 2.

ferry boat. See ferry.

ferry bridge. A structure floating on water, which is hinged or chained to a wharf. 47 Am J1st Salv § 4.

ferry customers. Persons transported by ferry. Persons wishing to go along the highway, of which the ferry constitutes a part, and whom the proprietor of the ferry would be bound to transport on being called by them, and not such as wish to travel from one of the ferry landings to a point out of the highway. Taylor v Wilmington & Manchester Railroad Co. 49 NC (4 Jones L) 277, 282.

ferry franchise. The right or privilege, usually exclusive, granted by or under the authority of the legislature, to operate a ferry at a certain designated place. A public right obtained under a grant by the state or an authorized political subdivision to a designated person vesting in him the authority to continue an interrupted land highway over interrupting waters. 35 Am J2d Ferr § 6.

ferryman. A person operating a ferry.

In the understanding of the common law, a ferryman was a person who had the exclusive right of transporting passengers over rivers and other watercourses, for hire, at an established rate; and no other person could keep or employ a boat to his prejudice, either at the same place, or within a limited distance above or below him; and he was bound at all times to be ready with good boats and craft to convey passengers backwards and forwards, otherwise an action would lie against him. Clarke v State, 7 SC Eq 2 M'Cord 47.

ferry ramp. The sloping way leading from the land portion of a highway down to a ferry landing or up from a ferry landing to the land portion of a highway; a part of the highway generally but not necessarily a "highway" for all applications of a traffic regulation. Dilich v Templemen Bros. (La App) 164 So 261.

fertilizer. A substance, natural, as in the case of manure, or artificial, as in the case of bone meal, applied to the soil to increase fertility.

fesaunt. Same as feasant.

Festinatio justitiae est noverca infortunii. The hastening of justice is the stepmother of misfortune.

festingman. A surety.

felting penny. Money paid over as an earnest to bind a contract of hiring.

festinum remedium. A speedy remedy.

festival. A celebration, especially an annual celebration of a religious event. A merrymaking with music and other entertainment.
See feasts.

festuca. Same as fistuca.

festum. A feast; a festival.

fet. Done; made; a fact; a deed. fete. An entertainment held outdoors; a festival.

fetiales. Same as feciales.

fetial law. Same as fecial law.

feticide. The killing of the foetus in the uterus; a criminal abortion.

fetters. Manacles; shackles; irons and chains used to secure prisoners.

fetus. Same as foetus.

feu. Fire; a hearth; a fee; a Scotch land tenure under which the holding was by the payment of rent either in produce or in money.

feu annuals. (Scotch.) The annual rent paid by the holder of a feu.

feuar. (Scotch.) The holder or tenant of a feu.

feud. A long continued enmity, especially a quarrel between families lasting for generations. Another term for fee or fief.
See fee; fief; vendetta.

feuds antiqua. Plural of feudum antiquum.

feuds individua. Impartible feuds or fees; that is, feuds or fees which were so made that they could descend only to the eldest son. See 2 Bl Comm 215.

feudal. Pertaining to that kind of land tenure under which the land was held of a superior, as opposed to allodial, where it was not. Pertaining to the feudal system of the medieval period.

feudal actions. Real actions,—actions which concerned real property only. Formerly, these actions were employed to settle all disputes concerning real property, but owing to their complicated nature they were superseded by more expeditious proceedings for trying titles. See 3 Bl Comm 117.

feudal canons of descent. The five canons of the English law of descent during the feudal period, their primary purpose being to support military power by preventing diffusion of the ownership of real property and promoting the accumulation of such property in the hands of a few. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 7.

[467]

feudalism. Same as feudal system.

feudalize. To invest lands with the feudal system of tenure.

feudal law. The law pertaining to the feudal system of land tenure.

feudal system. The economic and social control of the medieval period, characterized by a stratification of the populace into classes of lords, men of arms, and serfs, its most important feature from the standpoint of the law being the system of land tenure.

See feudal tenure.

feudal tenure. That system of land tenure which had as its foundation the principle or fiction that the king is the universal lord and original proprietor of all the lands in his kingdom and that no man possesses or can possess any part of such lands which has not mediately or immediately been derived as a gift from the king, to be held upon feudal services. See 2 Bl Comm 51. The system which gave birth to the feud or fief.

See bordage; fealty; fief; free services; homage, et seq. ; honorary services; investiture; knight-service; primer seisin; relief; services; subinfeudation.

feuda nova. Plural of feodum novum.

feudary. Pertaining to the feudal system of land tenure; a tenant who held his land by feudal tenure, a feudatory.

feudatory. A person to whom a feud had been granted by his superior. See 2 Bl Comm 46.

feudbote. A fine imposed for engaging in a feud or quarrel.

feude. Deadly hatred; vengeance.

See feud.

feudist. A writer or commentator on the law connected with the feudal system of land tenure. One having a long-continued enmity toward another or one participating in a family feud.

See feud.

feudo. (Spanish.) A feud; a fee.

feodum. A feud; a fee; a fief.

feodum antiquum. An ancient feud; a feud which a person inherited by descent from his ancestors. See 2 Bl Comm 212.

According to the doctrine of the feudists, interests in land were divided into but two kinds, feuda antiqua and feuda nova, which are defined to be those to which the possessor succeeds as heir to his ancestor, and those which he has acquired in some other way. Priest v Cummings (NY) 20 Wend 338, 349.

feodum apertum. A free or open feud or fee,—a feud or fee which, by reason of the lack of an heir, on the death of the person last seized, reverted to the lord of the fee, by whom, or by those whose estate he had, it was given. See 2 Bl Comm 245.

feodum francum. A free feud; a frank fee.

feudum hauberticum. A feud or fee held by the service of being present in full armor at the call of the lord.

feudum improprium. An improper or derivative feud; that is, a feud having extraordinary incidents in its creation, such, for instance, as were originally bartered and sold to the feudatory for a price. See 2 Bl Comm 58.

feudum individuum. An impartible feud or fee; that is, a feud or fee so made that it could descend only to the eldest son. See 2 Bl Comm 215.

feudum laicum. A lay fee.

feudum ligium. A liege fee,—a fee or feud held directly of the king, with no intermediate lord.

"Allegiance is the tie, or ligamen, which binds the subject to the king, in return for that protection which the king affords the subject." See 1 Bl Comm 366.

feudum maternum. A maternal fee; that is, a feud or fee which could only descend to heirs on the mother's side of the family. See 2 Bl Comm 212.

feudum militare. A knight's fee, —a determinate quantity of land held under tenure by knight-service, the measure of which was about twelve ploughlands and its value was about twenty pounds a year. See 2 Bl Comm 62.

feudum militus. A knight's fee.

See feudum militare.

feudum nobile. A feud or fee which was held by guard service, fealty, and homage.

feudum novum. A new fee; a fee acquired in a manner other than succession or inheritance.

feudum novum ut antiquum. A new fee held as an ancient one; that is, a new fee with all the qualities annexed to a fee descended from ancestors. See 2 Bl Comm 212.

feudum paternum. A paternal fee; that is, a feud or fee which could only descend to heirs on the father's side of the family. See 2 Bl Comm 222.

feudum proprium. A proper feud or fee; that is a feud or fee held by services which were strictly military. See 2 Bl Comm 58.

feudum simplex. Same as fee simple.

Feodum sine investitura nullo modo constitui potest. A fee cannot be created in any manner without an investiture.

feudum talliatum. Fee-tail. See 2 Bl Comm 112, note.

feu holding. The tenancy of lands under a feu right.

few. Noun: A fee. Adjective: Small in number.

f. f. An abbreviation of fieri facias.

f.f.a. Abbreviation of "free from alongside."

See free alongside steamer.

f.g.a. Abbreviation of free of general average.

See free from general average.

FHA. Abbreviation for Federal Housing Administration.

fiancé. The male party to an engagement to wed.

fiancée. The female party to an engagement to wed.

[468]

fiancer. To promise; to engage; to pledge.

fiar. The holder of a fee or feu.

fiar prices. Prices at which grain could be sold, as fixed by the sheriffs of the several counties.

fiat. An order emanating from an authoritative source and in the positive terms of "let it be done."

fiat in bankruptcy. An English term; an order signed by the lord chancellor authorizing the issuance of a commission in bankruptcy and the prosecution by the creditors of their complaint.

Fiat justitia. Let justice be done.

Fiat justitia ruat coelum. Let justice be done though the heavens fall asunder. Missouri, Kansas & Texas Railroad Co. v Merrill, 65 Kan 436, 70 P 358.

Fiat prout fieri consuevit; nil temere novandum. Let it be done in the customary manner; nothing should be adopted rashly.

Fiat ut petitur. Let it be done as he asks or demands.

fictio. A fiction.

Fictio cedit veritati. Fiction gives way to truth. Louisville v Portsmouth Sav. Bank (US) 14 Otto 469, 478, 26 L Ed 775, 778.

Fictio cedit veritati. Fictio juris non est, ubi veritas. Fiction gives way to truth. A fiction of law will not prevail where the fact appears.

Fictio est contra veritatem, sed pro veritate habetur. Fiction is opposed to truth, but a fiction is taken for the truth.

Fictio juris non est ubi veritas. A fiction of law will not prevail where the fact appears. Louisville v Portsmouth Sav. Bank (US) 14 Otto 469, 478, 26 L Ed 775, 778.

Fictio legis inique operatur alieni damnum vel injuriam. A legal fiction should not be employed to work loss or injury to another.

Fictio legis neminem laedit. A legal fiction injures no one.

fiction. In the sense of a fiction of law, a contrived condition or situation; the simulation of a status or condition with the purpose of accomplishing justice, albeit justice reached by devious means, as the fiction of casual ejector whereby the action of ejectment was converted into an action for the determination of title to real estate. 25 Am J2d Eject § 2.

As a literary work, a novel, a portrayal with imaginary characters. In pleading a false averment on the part of the plaintiff which the defendant is not allowed to traverse, the object being to give the court jurisdiction. Snider v Newell, 132 NC 614, 625, 44 SE 354.

For particular fictions of the law, see the specific term, such as lost grant.

fictione juris. Fiction of law.

See fiction.

fiction of law. See fiction.

fictitious. Imaginary; not real; counterfeit; false; not genuine. State v Tinnin, 64 Utah 587, 232 P 543, 43 ALR 46, 48.

fictitious action. A feigned action.

See feigned action.

fictitious bidding. Bidding at an auction without purpose of purchasing, merely to augment the final bid. 7 Am J2d Auct §§ 26, 27.

See puffing.

fictitious credit. An indorsement on a promissory note, made without the authority of the maker or any indorser, of credit for a payment not made. 4 Am J2d Alt Inst § 62.

Such an indorsement is sometimes made by payee or indorsee for the purpose of tolling the statute of limitations. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 347.

fictitious debt. A feigned debt; one not real or genuine; a debt arbitrarily invented and set up, to accomplish an ulterior object; such as to defraud the revenue laws and the state. West Virginia Mortgage & Discount Corp. v Newcomer, 101 W Va 292, 296, 132 SE 748.

fictitious increase in capital stock. The issuance of stock in a corporation otherwise than for money paid, labor done or property actually received. Stein v Howard, 65 Cal 616, 4 P 662.

fictitious name. Any name which a person adopts or assumes either for business purposes or in his social relations, other than the name of his parents. 38 Am J1st Name § 11. A name artificially contrived or adopted. General American Oil Co. v Wagoner Oil & Gas Co. 118 Okla 183, 247 P 99. A purely artificial name or a name that is or may be applied to a natural person. Pease v Pease, 35 Conn 131. A name other than the true name of a corporation, used by the corporation in transacting business or conducting its affairs. 18 Am J2d Corp § 143.

A feigned or pretended name employed by one relating it to another, not to himself. Soekland v Torch, 123 Ark 253, 185 SW 262. A name selected by a person perpetrating a fraud involving the employment of commercial paper, without intent that it represent any person, notwithstanding there is a person in the community who bears that name. Jordan-Marsh Co. v National Shawmut Bank, 201 Mass 397, 87 NE 740.

fictitious party. A party in whose name an action has been brought without any authority from him.

If committed in any of the king's superior courts, it was punishable as a high contempt to bring an action in the name of a person who did not exist, or of one who was ignorant of the suit. See 4 Bl Comm 134.

See fictitious payee; John Doe.

fictitious payee. A fictitious person, as where the name is feigned or pretended or where a name is inserted as payee without any intention that payment shall be made only in conformity therewith. 11 Am J2d B & N § 128.

It is well settled that an existing person may be a fictitious person within the meaning of the Negotiable Instruments Law. The rule is that when an instrument is made payable to an existing person, but with no intention that he shall have any interest in it, the name being used entirely as a matter of form, it is considered to be payable to a fictitious payee and so payable to bearer. Pennsylvania Co. v Federal Reserve Bank (DC Pa) 30 F Supp 982.

fictitious person. An imaginary person.

See fictitious payee.

fictitious plaintiff. See fictitious party.

fictitious proceeding. See feigned action.

[469]

fictitious purchase. A purchase reported by a broker to a customer, although not actually made. 12 Am J2d Brok § 126.

fictitious receipt. A warehouse receipt issued for goods not actually in storage. Sykes v People, 127 Ill 117, 19 NE 705. A receipt issued by a seller of goods under a pretense of warehousing. Anno. 133 ALR 250.

fictitious return. A criminal offense by an officer or employee of the federal census, consisting in wilfully and knowingly making a feigned or pretended return. 14 Am J2d Census § 8.

fictitious sale. A sale reported by a broker to a customer, although not actually made. 12 Am J2d Brok § 126. A sale by a broker to a dummy for the purpose of securing the securities for himself. 12 Am J2d Brok § 153.

fictitious stock. Watered stock. Corporate stock not actually paid up but issued as fully paid up. 19 Am J2d Corp § 764. fictitious suit.

See feigned action.

fictitious warrants. Warrants purporting to have been issued by a public body, which are in fact fictitious and therefore void, even in the hands of innocent purchasers. People v Hayes, 365 Ill 318, 6 NE2d 645.

fide. See bona fide.

fide commissary. A euphonious term suggested as a euphonious substitute for the awkward tongue-crippling "cestui que trust." Brown v Brown (NY) 83 Hun 160, 164, 31 NYS 650.

fidei commissa. Plural of fidei commissium.

fidei-commissarius. Same as fide commissary.

fidei commissum. A trust arising upon a bequest with directions to deliver the subject matter or some portion of it to another person; in equity, an estate in possession, encumbered with the charge to surrender it to another. McDonough's Executors v Murdoch (US) 15 How 367, 407, 14 L Ed 732, 750; Succession of Meunier, 52 La Ann 79, 26 So 776.

See precatory trust; precatory words.

fidei laesione. See de fidei laesione.

fide-jubere. (Civil law.) To become surety for the obligation of another person.

fide-jussio. (Civil law.) The transaction or agreement whereby one person becomes surety for the performance of the obligation of another person.

fide-jussor. (Civil law.) A surety; a guarantor; a person who undertakes to answer for the debt or obligation of another.

fidelis. Faithful; loyal.

fidelitas. Fidelity; fealty.

fidelitate. See de fidelitate.

fidelity. See good faith.

fidelity bond. A bond conditioned upon payment of loss resulting from embezzlement by an officer or employee, usually construed as an insurance contract, notwithstanding it is nominally in the form of a contract of suretyship.

See fidelity guaranty insurance.

fidelity guaranty insurance. A contract whereby one, for a consideration, agrees to indemnify another against loss arising from the want of integrity or fidelity of employees or persons holding positions of trust. People ex rel. Kasson v Rose, 174 Ill 310, 51 NE 246. In substance and effect a contract to be construed as a policy of insurance notwithstanding it may be nominally in the form of a contract of suretyship, having a principal, surety, and obligee. Anno: 7 ALR2d 946; 50 Am J1st Suret § 324.

fidem. Trust, confidence.

fidem mentiri. To break the oath of fealty; that is, the oath of fealty which a tenant had made to his lord.

fide-promissor. Same as fide-jussor.

fides. Faith; trust; confidence; a trust.

See bona fides.

Fides est obligatio conscientiae alicujus ad intentionem alterius. A trust is an obligation of conscience of one person to the wishes of another.

fides facta. Formal acts symbolizing the contracting of an obligation.

fides servanda. Good faith is to be observed or kept.

"Fides servanda is indeed a rule of law, as well as of morality, and will be vigorously enforced in favor of one who is chargeable with no culpable negligence or inattention to his own interest. But to one so chargeable the law will not afford relief." Bostwick v Mutual Life Insurance Co. 116 Wis 392, 89 NW 538, 92 NW 246.

Fides servanda est. Good faith is to be observed. Smith v Richards (US) 13 Pet 26, 43, 10 L Ed 42, 50.

Fides servanda est; simplicitas juris gentium praevaleat. Good faith is to be observed; the simplicity of the law of nations should prevail.

fiducia. (Roman law.) A kind of pledge in which a transfer of the goods was made on condition that after satisfaction of the transferee's claim, he would retransfer them. See Mackeldey's Roman L § 334.

fiducial relation. Same as fiduciary relation.

Fiduciaries Act. One of the uniform statutes. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 271.

fiduciary. Adjective: Held or founded in trust or confidence. Noun: A trustee, at least where the trust is an express trust. Svanoe v Jurgens, 144 Ill 507, 513, 33 NE 955.

The word embraces those and only those who are bound for the discharge of express trusts-technical trusts, where bond is required to be given by law-and it does not include those engaged in the execution of trusts springing from contract. Barnard & Co. v Sykes, 72 Miss 297, 302.

fiduciary capacity. The position of one in whom special confidence is reposed, and who is bound in equity and good conscience to act in good faith with due regard to the interest of the person reposing the confidence. Illinois v Riggins, 8 Ill 2d 78, 132 NE2d 519, 56 ALR2d 1149. For practical purposes, the capacity in which a trustee acts. Svanoe v Jurgens, 144 Ill 507, 513, 33 NE 955.

[470]

As the term is used in reference to exception from discharge in bankruptcy of debts created in a fiduciary capacity, it has reference to technical or express trust, not to those trusts which the law implies from a contract or from the position of parties to a transaction. Anno: 16 ALR2d 1152 § 2; 9 Am J2d Bankr § 802.

fiduciary contract. A contract which embraces trust and confidence reposed by one party in the other, refers to the integrity and fidelity of the party trusted rather than his credit or ability, and contemplates good faith rather than legal obligation. Smith v Vogilvie, 127 NY 143, 27 NE 807.

fiduciary fund. A fund entrusted to a fiduciary.

See trust fund.

fiduciary relation. Often, but perhaps somewhat loosely, considered as the equivalent of confidential relation.

There is a technical distinction between a fiduciary relation and a confidential relation, the former being more correctly applicable to legal relationships between parties, such as guardian and ward, administrator and heirs, trustee and cestui que trust, principal and agent, etc., while the latter includes such relationships and also every other relationship wherein confidence is rightfully reposed and is exercised. Roberts v Parsons, 195 Ky 274, 242 SW 594.

See confidential relation.

fief. An estate in fee in real property, otherwise known as a feud; an inheritable estate. Dowdel v Hamm (Pa) 2 Watts 61, 65. Under the feudal system, an estate held by the performance of services for the grantor; a tenure by service rendered a superior lord.

Feuds originated in the military policy of the northern or Celtic nations who swarmed all over Europe on the decline of the Roman Empire. The conquering general allotted large districts of land to the superior officers of the army, and they, in turn made allotments to the soldiers. These allotments were the feuds which were given out as rewards or stipends for faithful services to be rendered by the donees in peace and in war; and in the event of a failure to render such services, the land reverted to him who granted it. See 2 Bl Comm 45.

See derivative feud; Book of Fiefs; honorary feud; impartible feud; improper feud; military feuds; proper feud.

fief d'haubert. The Norman designation of a knight's fee. See 2 Bl Comm 62.

fief tenant. The holder of a fief or fee.

field. A cultivated tract of land. State v McMinn, 81 NC 585, 587. A tract of land cultivated or pastured. An area where athletic games are played, for example, Soldiers' Field, in Chicago. An area of special knowledge or scientific endeavor, as the field of geology.

See common field.

field audit. An examination of the books and records of the taxpayer to determine the accuracy of his income tax return.

field book. A book containing the notes made by a surveyor in the field while making a survey, which describe by course and distance, and by natural or artificial marks found or made by him, the running of the lines, and the establishment of the corners. 12 Am J2d Bound § 1.

field manager. An employee or agent of a corporation rather than an officer of the company. Badger Oil & Gas Co. v Preston, 49 Okla 270, 152 P 383.

field notes. The notes in a surveyor's field book.

See field book.

field warehousing. A device whereby manufacturers, jobbers, wholesalers, and others borrow money on the security of goods remaining stored in warehouses, or on storage ground, on their own premises, the procedure being to give as security warehouse receipts issued by a warehouseman placed in possession of the goods. Anno: 133 ALR 234. A method of business financing wherein the security is left more or less in possession of, and subject to handling and sale by, the debtor, as part of a going business, and often involving the substitutions of security from time to time as required to keep the collateral adequate in amount. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 965.

field work. Farm work. Scientific work close to nature, e. g. the observation by a biologist of ground squirrels in a meadow.

fierding courts. Ancient Gothic courts of very inferior jurisdiction which were so named because there were four of them in every superior district or hundred. See 3 Bl Comm 34.

fieri. See in fieri.

fieri facias. A writ of execution; the ordinary writ for the seizure and sale of property of a judgment debtor. 30 Am J2d Exec § 28.

See testatum writ.

fieri facias de bonis testatoris. A writ of execution against an executor as such, on account of a debt due from his testator and which can only be levied on property which belonged to the testator.

fieri feci. I have caused it to be done or made,—formal words used in the sheriff's return on a fieri facias after he has made a levy under the writ.

Fieri non debet, sed factum valet. Although it ought not to have been done, having been done, it is valid. Nichols v Ketcham (NY) 19 Johns 84, 92.

fi. fa. An abbreviation of fieri facias.

fifteenths. Temporary aids issuing out of personal property, and granted to the king by parliament. These aids which were said to have been first granted under Henry the Second for the crusades, were first levied in tenths and later in fifteenths were a form of tax representing that fraction of the valuation of all personal property. See 2 Bl Comm 309.

FIFO. Abbreviation of first in, first out.

Fifth Amendment. An amendment to the Constitution of the United States, contained in the Bill of Rights, which, in popular parlance and legal literature, is synonymous with the privilege against self-incrimination. Quinn v United States, 349 US 155, 99 L Ed 964, 75 S Ct 668, 51 ALR2d 1157.

fifth degree of kinship. A second cousin under the civil law method of computing degrees of kinship which has been adopted in most American jurisdictions. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 48.

fifty-fifty. Division into halves. Chafin v Main Island Creek Coal Co. 85 W Va 459, 102 SE 291, 11 ALR 657.

[471]

fifty per cent rule. The rule of marine insurance that where the loss or cost of repair equals or exceeds 50 per cent of the value of the vessel, there may be an abandonment and recovery as for a total loss. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1577.

fight. Verb: To strive for victory in battle or over an opponent in single combat; an attempt to defeat an opponent or the enemy by blows or weapons. Sullivan v State, 67 Miss 346, 351. To work hard for a cause against opposition; to strive for success in an endeavor. Noun: An altercation accompanied by blows. The meeting of opponents or opposing forces in battle or contest. The striving for a cause or for success in an endeavor.

See challenge to fight; combat; fighting; prize fight.

fighting. Engaging in a fight, irrespective of which participant is the aggressor. United States Mut. Acci. Asso. v Millard, 43 Ill App 148.

fightnite. Same as fightwite.

fightwite. A fine for the offense of disturbing the peace by fighting.

filacer. One of the clerks in the English superior court at Westminster who filed writs and issued process.

filare. To file.

filch. To steal, particularly something of petty value. Peck v Bez, 129 W Va 247, 50 SE2d 1.

file. Verb: To deposit an instrument or document with a public officer at his office with the purpose of having him preserve the instrument or document as one of the records of his office. 45 Am J I si Reeds § 67. To place an instrument, document, even an exhibit or small object, in a place of deposit, usually indexed or marked in a manner making location of the subject convenient. To receive an instrument or document officially, as where a clerk of court receives a pleading and notes the fact of the filing and the date thereof by way of an endorsement on the pleading. Meridian Nat. Bank v Hoyt & Bros. Co. 74 Miss 221, 21 So 12. Noun: A place where instruments, documents, exhibits, etc. are deposited and kept, preferably in covers so marked and tabbed that the subjects may be readily located.

file clerk. An employee, sometimes a public employee, whose duty it is to file instruments under a system of separate categories and keep the files in a usable condition.

filed for record. Deposited with a proper officer at his office with direction, express or implied, for recording. 45 Am J1st Reeds § 67.

Indorsing the fact and time of its deposit is not an essential part of the filing. Neither does it appear to be an essential that the deposit be made within the hours fixed by law for keeping the office open. Edwards v Grand, 121 Cal 254, 53 P 796.

filiate. See affiliate.

filiatio. Filiation; paternity.

filiation. See affiliation.

Filiatio non potest probate. Paternity cannot be proved. Powell v State ex ref. Fowler, 84 Ohio 5t 165, 95 NE 660.

filiation proceeding. See affiliation proceeding.

filing. See file; filed for record.

filing articles of incorporation. The depositing of articles of incorporation in the public office specified by statute as the place of filing with the intent that the document is to remain on file in the office. 18 Am J2d Corp § 39.

filing bill in equity or other pleading. See file.

filing claim in bankruptcy. The delivery of a proof of claim against a bankrupt to the clerk of the district court, the referee, if the case has been referred, or to the trustee in bankruptcy. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 449.

filing date. The time as of which a claim or demand must be filed. The date of filing as endorsed upon an instrument or pleading by the officer who receives it.

The filing date of an application for a patent is the date upon which the application was filed in the patent office, and not the date on which the filing fee was paid. Hazeltine Corp. v Electric Service Engineering Corp. (DC NY) 18 F2d 662.

filing fee. The fee charged by a public officer for the filing of a pleading, an instrument, or document in his office. The amount to be paid to the clerk of court upon filing a petition in bankruptcy or a petition for relief in the bankruptcy court by way of reorganization or plan for rehabilitation of debtor. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1627.

filing laws. Statutes which require the filing of an instrument as a condition of complete effectiveness.

filing libel. Commencement of action in admiralty. 2 Am J2d Adm § 153.

filiolus. A godson.

filius. A son.

Filius est nomen naturae, sed haeres nomen juris. "Son" is the natural name, but "heir" is the legal name.

filius families. A son of the family,—a son who is under the control of his parents.

Filius in utero matris est pars viscerum matris. A son in his mother's womb is part of his mother's vitals.

filius mulieratus. A mulier; a mulier puisne; that is, the legitimate son of a woman who, before her marriage to his father, gave birth to a bastard by the same father. See 2 Bl Comm 248.

filius nullius. The child of nobody; the common law status of an illegitimate child. 10 Am J2d Bast § 8.

filius populi. The child of the people; the common law status of an illegitimate child.

filizer. Same as filacer.

fill. A roadbed, whether for railroad or highway, which is raised by an embankment above the natural level of the land. O. & R. V. R. Co. v Severin, 30 Neb 318, 322; 25 Am J1st High § 67. A method of reclamation. 56 Am J1st Water § 501.

fill an office. To accept and discharge the duties of an office. Johnston v Wilson, 2 NH 202, 203.

file. A girl; a daughter.

filled cheese. A cheese enriched by adding food elements in manufacture.

filled cheese tax. A federal tax upon the manufacture, importation, or dealing in the product known as filled cheese. 30 Am J1st Int Rev § 113.

[472]

filled land. Land which has been artificially raised in elevation by depositing or dumping dirt, refuse, or rubble thereon. An area where the grade has been raised. 1 Am J2d Adj L § 27.

filling. Bringing a highway or a railroad to a proper grade by raising an embankment. Dumping dirt, refuse, or rubble on a tract of low land.

See fill; filled land.

filling blanks. The completion of an operative deed by filling in blanks above the grantor's signature, with the authority of the grantor. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 138. An alteration of an instrument delivered as a complete instrument, notwithstanding it contains some blank spaces. 4 Am J2d Alt Inst § 39. An act which may be authorized by a grantor, maker, or obligor, either expressly or impliedly. 50 Am J1st Surety § 26.

filling in instrument. See filling blanks.

filling prescription. Furnishing, preparing, and combining the requisite materials in due proportion as prescribed. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 5.

filling station. See gasoline filling station.

fill out. To complete a document by writing in the blank spaces left for that purpose.

See filling blanks.

filly. A young mare. An obsolete expression for a lively, roistering, or wanton girl. Lunsford v State, 1 Tex App 448, 450.

filis. A son.

filtering. Removing foreign matter from water intended for domestic use. 56 Am J1st Watwk § 76.

filthy. Dirty, foul, corrupt. In application to food; containing dirt, refuse, offal, or impurities, or adulterations, so as to be unfit for consumption. Anno: 45 ALR2d 861. As used in federal statutes respecting the use of the mails: nasty, dirty, vulgar, indecent, offensive in the moral sense, morally depraving. Anno: 76 L Ed 850.

filum. A thread; an edge.

filum aquae. The thread of the water, -the middle or center line of a river or stream. Ingraham v Wilkinson, 21 Mass (4 Pick) 268.

filum forestae. The edge or boundary of a forest.

filum viae. The thread or center line of a way, street, or road.

fin. The end.

final. Conclusive; terminating all controversy, doubt or dispute; the end, ultimate, or last. Saylor v Duel, 236 Ill 429, 86 NE 119.

See finality.

final account. See final report.

final and appealable order. See final order.

final appealable order. See final order.

final appeal court. The court of delegates, -which was at one time a court of final appeal in English admiralty and ecclesiastical cases.

final assessment. A special assessment from the confirmation of which no appeal is taken within the time for appeal. 25 Am J2d Drains § 52.

final concord. The final agreement of the parties in levying a fine.

final costs. The costs of suit as allowed and awarded upon entry of final judgment or the termination of the litigation; the costs awarded to the party ultimately prevailing. 20 Am J2d Costs § 9.

final decision. For the purpose of appellate review: a decision which disposes of the whole case, adjudicates all rights including questions of liability and compensation, ends litigation on the merits, and leaves nothing for the court to do but execute the judgment, Lewis v E. I. Du Pont De Nemours & Co. (CA5 Ga) 183 F2d 29, 21 ALR2d 757; a decision which terminates the suit and puts the case out of court, although it does not adjudicate the merits of the litigated controversy, 4 Am J2d A & E § 55; a decision which terminates an action or proceeding, although it does not dispose of the whole subject matter in litigation. 4 Am J2d A & E § 53.

A "final decision" rendered appealable by 28 USC 1291 involves the idea of a definitive judgment, order, or decree determining something more than a mere procedural incident in a lawsuit, and a judgment definitively adjudicating a claim for relief in a civil action clearly comes within the term. Bendix Aviation Corp. v Glass, 195 F2d 267, 38 ALR2d 356.

final decision on the merits. A determination of the merits of a cause which will, in due time, by operation of law, lead to a final judgment in the cause. Fisher v Sun Underwriters Ins. Co. 55 RI 175, 179 A 702, 103 ALR 1097.

final decree. The decree rendered by a court of bankruptcy whereby the estate of a debtor undergoing readjustment or reorganization in bankruptcy is closed, the receiver or trustee, if any discharged, and such other relief by way of injunction or otherwise, as may be equitable is granted. A decree in equity which disposes of the cause or a part thereof, reserving no question or direction for future determination in reference to the cause or the part of the cause adjudicated, 27 Am J2d Eq § 245; the practical equivalent of final judgment in modern practice.

According to some authorities, a decree may be partly final and partly interlocutory-final as to its determination of all issues of fact and law, and interlocutory as to its mode of execution. 27 Am J2d Eq § 245.

See final judgment.

final distribution. The final allocation of the property in the estate of a decedent under order of court to the person or persons entitled thereto. Kemster v Evans, 81 Wis 247, 51 NW 327.

final estimate. For the purpose of a limitation of time for suit upon a contractor's bond:-the conclusion and determination of a person having final authority to make the estimate. Consolidated Indem. & Ins. Co. v Fischer Lime & Cement Co. 187 Ark 131, 58 SW2d 928.

final hearing. The hearing which results in a final decision or adjudication. 27 Am J2d Eq § 235.

final injunction. A final decree of injunction which adjudicates the merits of the cause. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 319.

See permanent injunction.

finalis concordia. Same as final concord.

finality. Conclusiveness; completeness. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 483. The quality in a judgment or decision of being a full and unconditional determination. 4 Am J2d A & E § 51. The quality of conclusiveness, which may be the result of statute or, as in the case of an agreement for arbitration, of contract. 5 Am J2d Arb & A § 29.

[473]

See final.

final judgment. A judgment which determines and disposes of the whole merits of the cause before the court by declaring that the plaintiff is or is not entitled to recovery by the remedy chosen, or completely and finally disposes of a branch of the cause which is separate and distinct from other parts thereof. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 121. A judgment which determines a question in such a manner as to terminate or end the matter so completely as to preclude all future inquiry concerning the truth itself. Re Enger, 225 Minn 229, 30 NW2d 694, 18 ALR2d 1048. A judgment which puts at an end the judicial labor in a cause. Ruth v United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. (Fla) 83 So 2d 769, 55 ALR2d 541. For any purpose of the application of the doctrine of res judicata:—any judicial decision upon a question of law or fact which is not provisional and subject to change in the future by the same tribunal. Bannon v Bannon, 270 NY 484, 1 NE2d 975, 105 ALR 1401. For the purposes of appeal:—a judgment which terminates the litigation between the parties on the merits and leaves nothing to be done but to enforce by execution what has been determined. St. Louis, Iron Mountain & S. R. R. Co. v Southern Express Co. 27 L Ed 638, 108 US 24, 2 S Ct 6.

The sentence in a criminal case. Miller v Aderhold, 288 US 206, 77 L Ed 702, 53 S Ct 325.

As used in the federal statute conferring jurisdiction on the Supreme Court to review the "final judgment" of a state court, the expression is defined as applying to all judgments and decrees which determine the particular case, that is, such as terminate the litigation between the parties on the merits of the case, so that, in case of affirmance in the federal court, the court below would have nothing to do but to execute the judgment or decree it had already rendered. Georgia R. & Power Co. v Decatur, 262 US 432, 67 L Ed 1065, 43 S Ct 613.

final judgment or decree. See final decree; final judgment.

final jurisdiction. A jurisdiction which, once exercised, is exclusive of the exercise of jurisdiction over the same matter by any other court. Saylor v Duel, 236 111429, 86 NE 119. A term of particular reference to criminal cases, being jurisdiction to convict and sentence or acquit and discharge, as distinguished from jurisdiction over a preliminary hearing wherein the accused may be released from custody or bound over to the grand jury. State v Fox, 83 Conn 286, 76 A 302.

finally compelled. In reference to a public utility "finally compelled" to put lower rates in effect:—the entry by a court of a final order making effective a challenged rate structure. Texarkana v Arkansas, Louisiana Gas Co. 306 US 188, 83 L Ed 598, 59 S Ct 448.

final meeting. The meeting of creditors in a bankruptcy proceeding, to be held, as ordered by the court, whenever the affairs of the estate are ready to be closed, wherein there shall be considered the trustee's statement of his administration of the estate, his accounts, the discharge of the trustee, and the closing of the estate, and such other matters as may be required for determination. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 584.

final order. A final decision or judgment for purposes of an appeal. An administrative order which is conclusive; an administrative order which has reached such stage of completeness that it can be subjected to judicial review. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 483.

An order affecting a substantial right in an action, when such order, in effect, determines the action and prevents a judgment, and an order affecting a substantial right, made in a special proceeding or upon a summary application in an action after judgment. Exchange Trust Co. v Oklahoma State Bank, 126 Okla 193, 259 P 589.

In habeas corpus proceedings, an order which either discharges the writ or discharges the relator is a final order and appealable, but an order which sustains the writ and remands the relator to custody that a rehearing may be had, is not final. United States v Curran (CA2 NY) 18 F2d 958.

See final decision; final judgment.

final passage. The completion of legislative action in the adoption of a bill or other legislative measure as one to become law. Norman v Kentucky Board of Managers, 93 Ky 537, 20 SW 901. The passage of a bill over a veto. 50 Am J1st Stat § 504.

final process. Process issued in an action or proceeding after judgment has been entered; as a writ of execution. Amis v Smith (US) 16 Pet 303, 313, 10 L Ed 973, 976.

final proof. The showing made by a homesteader which will entitle him to a patent. 42 Am J1st Pub L §§ 23, 73.

final report. The report required of a trustee in bankruptcy, wherein he is required to set forth a detailed statement of his administration of the estate. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1260. The final account and report by an executor or administrator, a guardian, a receiver, or other fiduciary, of his acts in the administration, his receipts and disbursements, and the money and property in his hands for disposition.

Regardless of how designated, any report as to the last or final acts of a guardian, on which a hearing is had and on which the court fixes and determines the amount due the ward's estate from a guardian then or theretofore removed from office, is the final account of such guardian, in so far as the guardian is concerned. Re Kostohris' Estate, 96 Mont 226, 29 P2d 829.

final settlement. An agreement fully settling the rights of partners after a dissolution of the partnership. 40 Am J1st Partn § 489. The winding up of the affairs in the estate of a decedent, a receivership, a guardianship, or other fiduciary engagement, preliminary to the closing of the estate and the discharge of the fiduciary.

When used in connection with a public transaction and account, the term connotes an administrative determination of the amount due, that is, an appropriate administrative determination of the amount which the government is finally bound to pay, or entitled to receive, as indicated by some public or official act; it does not depend upon the existence of a dispute with the other party. Antrim Lumber Co. v Hannan (CA10 Okla) 18 F2d 548; Anno: 119 ALR 280.

final submission. As the ending of the period within which a case may be dismissed, or otherwise voluntarily terminated, without prejudice:-in a jury case, the moment when the court directs the jury to retire in charge of an officer for their consideration of the case, or to enter upon consideration of the case without retiring, 24 Am J2d Dism § 33; in a trial before the court without a jury, the moment when the court takes the case under advisement, the evidence having been presented, the arguments made, and the briefs filed. 24 Am J2d Dism § 34.

[474]

finance. The public revenue; public or government funds; the management of money.

finance charges. See carrying charges.

finance company. A company engaged in making loans, usually on the security of additional sale contracts, instalment sale contracts, chattel mortgages, or trust receipts.

financial circumstances. See financial condition.

financial condition. The wealth of a person and his income, whether from property or his earnings.

financial corporation. A familiar term in taxation statutes, the meaning of which varies according to the nature of the activities of the particular entity involved and the context of the entire statute, one of the broader interpretations including all classes of corporations organized and created for business purposes, as distinguished from public, charitable or other corporations. 51 Am J1st Tax § 930.

financial depression. An economic depression.

financial emergency. In reference to the condition frequently appearing in trusts for the benefit of the widow of a testator whereunder the trustee is authorized to withdraw funds from principal for payment to the widow in event of a "financial emergency":-not a temporary unavailability of resources to meet a need, but a situation where the widow's financial resources, including her income from the trust estate are, in the best informed judgment of the trustee in considering an urgent need of the widow, in such a state of insufficiency or unavailability that the encroachment upon principal will be immediately necessary for the widow's maintenance, comfort, and general welfare. Lyter v Vestal, 355 Mo 457, 196 SW2d 769, 2 ALR2d 1375.

Widespread unemployment is an "emergency," especially during severe winter weather. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp § 450.

financially embarrassed. Incumbered with debt; beset with urgent claims and demands; unable to meet pecuniary engagements. Hayes v Press Co. 127 Pa 642, 18 A 331.

financial rating. See credit standing.

financial reports. The reports periodically issued by a corporation to stockholders, showing the financial condition of the corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp § 174.

financial responsibility laws. Statutes requiring proof of financial responsibility as a condition of the granting of a driver's license or certificate of registration; statutes providing for the suspension or revocation of a driver's license or certificate of registration for failure to satisfy a final judgment or furnish proof of responsibility after an accident or a violation of a motor vehicle statute. 7 Am J2d Auto § 135. Statutes requiring insurance as a condition of the operation of a motor vehicle.

See compulsory insurance.

financial standing. See credit report; credit standing.

financial statement. A statement in writing often required of a borrower of money from a bank stating fully all of his assets and liabilities. Re Sine (DC W Va) 25 F Supp 800.

See credit statement.

financial worth. The value of a person's property less what he owes, or the value of his resources less his liabilities. Boney v Central Mut. Ins. Co. 213 NC 470, 196 SE 837.

find. To discover a lost chattel. To discover a person with whom one has been out of touch. To learn or become apprised of something. To arrive at a decision or, if a jury is involved, at a verdict. State ex rel. Higgins v Beloit, 74 Wis 267, 42 NW 110. To ascertain by judicial inquiry. State ex rel. Morris v Bulkeley, 61 Conn 287, 23 A 186.

find and establish. To ascertain and confirm that which was previously doubtful; as, for example, the pre-existing line, on the respective sides of which the parties had held the title ever since they became the proprietors of the adjoining lots. Weeks v Trask, 81 Me 127, 16 A 413.

find bail. To furnish or provide bail; to secure bail or to secure persons to act as sureties on a bail bond.

finder. A person who discovers personal property lost by him or by another. For the purpose of the crime of larceny by finder, one who discovers lost property with knowledge that it is lost property. Weeks v Hackett, 104 Me 264, 71 A 858.

See lost property; treasure-trove.

finder's lien. The lien of a finder of lost property upon the property for his expenses in caring for the property, 1 Am J2d Aband § 31, also for the reward offered for the restoration of the property. 1 Am J2d Aband § 25.

finding. Discovering property which has been lost. Becoming apprised of something. The ascertainment of a fact by the judge or chancellor in an equity suit. 27 Am J2d Equity § 238. A judicial statement of a conclusion of law or fact. State ex rel. Higgins v Beloit, 74 Wis 267, 42 NW 110. A determination made by an administrative agency. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 434.

See finding of fact.

finding of fact. The result of reasoning from the evidentiary facts. Greenbeig v Lee, 196 Or 157, 248 P2d 324, 35 ALR2d 567. A conclusion drawn by the trial court from the facts without the exercise of legal judgment. 53 Am J1st Trial § 1132. A written statement of an ultimate fact as found by the court, signed by the court, and filed in court, often required by statute as support for the decision and judgment in a trial to the court. 53 Am J1st Trial § 1131. A finding made by arbitrators. 5 Am J2d, Arb & A § 127. Finding of referee or master. The finding of a coroner or medical examiner at an inquest conducted to ascertain the cause of death of a person. 18 Am J2d Corn § 16.

In a trial to the court, the court makes findings. A jury, on the other hand, ordinarily makes no findings of fact. It arrives at a verdict, making findings of fact only as special findings or a special verdict is required in a particular case. State ex rel. Higgins v Beloit, 74 Wis 267, 269, 42 NW 110.

See special finding; special verdict.

fine. A sum of money exacted of a person guilty of an offense as a pecuniary punishment, the amount of which may be fixed by law or left to the discretion of the court. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 599. A payment required of a member of a club, society, or fraternal order for misconduct or delinquency in attendance or payment of dues. 6 Am J2d Asso & C § 32.

See excessive fine; fine to bar entail; joint fine.

[475]

Fine and Recoveries Act. A statute enacted in England in 1833, abolishing fines and common recoveries and providing for conveyances by deed instead.

fine capiendo pro terris. See de fine capiendo pro terris.

fine for alienation. A sum of money which was exacted by the lord from his tenant in chivalry whenever the tenant had occasion to make over his land to another person. See 2 Bl Comm 71.

fine force. Absolute necessity; actual compulsion.

fine for endowment. A sum of money exacted from a widow by the feudal lord upon the assignment of her dower. This was one of the oppressions which was remedied first by the charter of Henry the First, and afterwards by Magna Charta. See 2 Bl Comm 135.

finem facere. To impose a fine; to pay a fine.

fine non capiendo pro pulchre placitando. See de fine non capiendo pro pulchre placitando.

fine pro redisseisina capiendo. See de fine pro redisseisina capiendo.

fine sur cognizance de droit come ceo que il ad de son done. A fine of land upon the acknowledgment of the right (of the cognizee) as that which he has by the gift (of his cognizor); wherein the cognizor acknowledges his gift of the land to the plaintiff, the cognizee.

This was the best and surest kind of a fine; for thereby the deforciant, in order to keep his covenant with the plaintiff, of conveying to him the lands in question, and at the same time to avoid the formality of an actual feoffment and livery, acknowledged in court a former feoffment, or gift in possession, to have been made by him to the plaintiff. See 2 Bl Comm 352.

fine sur cognizance de droit tantum. A fine upon acknowledgment of the right merely; not with the circumstance of a preceding gift from the cognizor. This fine was commonly used to pass a reversionary interest, which was in the cognizor. See 2 Bl Comm 353.

fine sur concessit. A fine of land wherein the cognizor, in order to make an end of disputes, though he acknowledges no precedent right, yet grants to the cognizee an estate de novo, usually for life or years, by way of supposed composition. And this may be done reserving a rent, or the like; for it operates as a new grant. See 2 Bl Comm 353.

fine sur done, grant et render. A double fine, comprehending both the "fine sur cognizance de droit cum ceo," etc., and the fine "sur concessit." This fine might be used to create particular limitations of estate, whereas the fine sur cognizance de droit cum ceo, etc., conveyed nothing but an absolute estate, either of inheritance or at least of freehold. See 2 Bl Comm 353.

fine to bar entail. A method, long since obsolete, if not entirely illegal, of defeating a fee tail, being a fictitious proceeding under which the entail could be barred, consisting of the acknowledgement in a feigned suit in open court of a previous conveyance by the tenant in tail. 28 Am J2d Est § 47.

See common recovery.

fine to convey. A collusive proceeding at common law whereby a married woman by uniting with her husband in a suit upon a purported agreement was enabled to effect a conveyance of her real estate.

fingerprinting. Taking and preserving the fingerprints of a person for purposes of identification and of connecting him or exculpating him from participation in a criminal offense. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 369.

fingerprints. Marks left by a person's fingers on objects, the most singular characteristic of which is the dissimilarity between the fingerprints of any two persons, which has rendered fingerprints most desirable evidence for purposes of identification. Impressions of the fingers taken and preserved on cards so as to be readily available for purposes of identification of the person as such may ultimately be required.

The fact that every fingertip has a series of convolutions in the skin surface, no two of which are alike, and which students of the subject can classify and describe so as to facilitate search, has made identification of a criminal almost certain whenever a clear impression of bloody or dirty fingers has been left on the scene of the crime. See 29 Am J2d Ev § 770.

finibus levatis. See de finibus levatis.

finire. To finish; to end; to fine; to impose a fine; to pay a fine.

finis. A finish; a fine; the end; the limit; a boundary.

Finis est amicabile compositio et finalis concordia ex consensu et concordia domini regis vel justiciarum. A fine is a friendly settlement and final concord by the consent of our lord the king or the justices.

Finis finem litibus imponit. The termination of a suit puts an end to litigation. State v Lee, 65 Conn 265, 30 A 1110.

finished article. A completed article for the purposes of a tariff act. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 44.

Finis rei attendendus est. The completion of anything ought to be attended to.

Finis unius diei est principium alterius. The end of one day is the beginning of another.

finitio. The finish; the end; the completion.

finium regundorum actio. (Civil law.) An action to establish a boundary line.

firdnite. Same as ferdwit.

fire. Verb: To discharge an employee; to make or keep something burning; to supply fuel, as to a furnace. Noun: A burning; a conflagration. As used in a fire insurance policy: a hostile, rather than a friendly fire. 29A Am J Rev Ins § 1287.

See destroyed by fire; friendly fire; hostile fire; loss by fire.

fire and sword. See letters of fire and sword.

firearms. Rifles, shotguns, revolvers, any weapon by which a shot is discharged by an explosive force. Weapons which act by the force of gunpowder. Harris v Cameron, 81 Wis 239, 243.

[476]

As used in a statute prohibiting parades of unauthorized bodies with firearms, any gun which to the ordinary observer appears to be an efficient weapon capable of being discharged is held to be a firearm whether it has in fact been rendered harmless or not. Commonwealth v Murphy, 166 Mass 171, 44 NE 138.

Firearms Act. A federal statute having for its purpose the regulation and taxation of the transfer of certain firearms. 26 USC §§ 2700 et seq.

fire bell. A fire alarm.

firebote. The right of estovers.

See estovers.

fire clause. A clause common in bills of lading exempting the carrier from loss or damage to the freight caused by fire. 14 Am J2d Car § 570.

fire department. An agency of a municipality or town created, organized, and equipped to extinguish fires.

fire door. A door of fireproof material, to be kept closed as a precaution against the spread of fire in a building. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 930.

fire extinguisher. A portable device containing a chemical element which can be sprayed upon a fire for the purpose of controlling or extinguishing it; required equipment upon a motorboat under some statutes. 12 Am J2d Boats § 12.

fireguard. A person employed to maintain a watch against the breaking out of fire. Anno: 12 ALR2d 1142. A fire door; a screen to prevent the spread of an open fire.

fire hazard. A building of such structure and in such condition as to be in danger of catching on fire. Any collection of combustible material, but particularly material easily ignited. An industrial operation which emits sparks.

fire insurance. A contract to indemnify the insured against loss by fire to the property insured. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 4. A personal contract between the insurer and the insured. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 183. A form of automobile insurance. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 43.

fire insurance policy. A personal contract to indemnify the insured against loss by fire to the property insured; a contract of indemnity to reimburse the insured for his actual loss not exceeding an agreed sum. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 4. A contract of indemnity by which the insurer agrees to indemnify the insured against loss or damage to the insured property by fire, not exceeding the amount of the insurance. Citizens Ins. Co. v Foxbilt, Inc. 226 F2d 641, 53 ALR2d 1376.

fire limits. An area wherein the erection of buildings is regulated in reference to the kinds of building materials used, the purpose of regulation being to avoid or lessen the risk of fire. 13 Am J2d Bldgs § 19.

fire loss. The risk covered by a fire insurance policy. Inclusive of the destruction of property directly or indirectly pursuant to the orders of civil authorities. Anno: 76 ALR2d 1140, 1146, 1147. Loss from a hostile fire, not loss from a friendly fire. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1287. Including a loss caused by an explosion resulting from a fire. German American Ins Co. v Hyman, 42 Colo 156, 94 P 27.

Loss or damage by fire, as the terms are used in fire insurance policies, means loss or damage of which fire was the immediate or proximate cause.

The damage need not be caused by direct contact with the fire and it is not necessary that any part of the insured property actually ignite or be consumed by fire; as where it was held that the fall of the insured building was within the policy, although no part of it ignited or was consumed by fire. Russell v German fire Ins. Co. 100 Minn 528, 111 NW 400.

See fire.

See destroyed by fire.

fireman. A man on the force of a fire department. A man who feeds and maintains the fire in an engine or furnace.

firemen's pensions. Pensions paid to superannuated or disabled firemen. 40 Am J1st Pens § 18.

fire ordeal. See trial by fire.

fire policy. See fire insurance policy.

fireproof. Literally, incombustible or proof against fire, but, in the ordinary legal sense, indestructible by an ordinary fire. Diebold Safe & Lock Co. v. Huston, 55 Kan 104, 39 P 1035.

See incombustible.

fireproof safe clause. Same as iron-safe clause.

fire regulations. Regulations relating to the materials used, location, and method of construction of buildings, having the purpose of reducing the fire hazard, particularly in business sections and thickly populated areas. 13 Am 12d Bldgs §§ 12 et seq. Statutes or ordinances requiring fire drills and periodic inspections for fire hazards.

fire underwriters. See underwriters.

firkin. A liquid measure equivalent to eight and four-fifths American gallons or nine imperial or English gallons.

firm. Noun: An unincorporated business, particularly a partnership; the members of a partnership, collectively. Ryder v Wilcox, 103 Mass 24, 28. Adjective: Binding.

firma. Same as farm.

firma alba. White rents,—rents payable in silver money.

firma feodi. Same as fee-farm.

firman. A passport; a license; a permit.

firmaratio. The right of a tenant to his lands.

firmarius. A tenant who held his land for life or for a term of years.

firme. Same as farm.

Firmior et potentior est operatio legis quam dispositio hominis. The operation of the law is more firm and more powerful than the disposition of man.

firm name. See partnership name.

firm name and style. See partnership name.

first aid clause. Another term for the medical expense provision of an automobile liability policy whereunder the insurer contracts to pay for medical expenses, within specified limits, incurred by persons injured as a result of the condition or use of the automobile. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 154.

first annual election. See election to fill vacancy in office.

[477]

first bite. The old doctrine that every dog is entitled to one bite, enunciated in relieving an owner from liability for the first bite; a doctrine long since disavowed as out of keeping with a modern humanitarian society. Perkins v Drury, 57 NM 269, 258 P2d 379.

first board. The board of directors of a corporation as it appears in the articles of incorporation, the names of the directors being noted. 18 Am J2d Corp § 36.

first class. A word descriptive of chattels offered for sale, implying the best of their kind in general use, not the best of a single manufacturer, unless the situation is one in which the two superlatives coincide. 46 Am J1st Sales § 150.

first class dwelling. A superior dwelling place, but not necessarily excluding quarters in a multiple dwelling. Bowers v Fifth Ave. & Seventy-seventh Street Corp. (Sup) 209 NYS 743.

first-class funeral. A funeral in keeping with the previous social status and financial condition of the person to be interred. Mackovsky v Manhattan Railway Co. 11 NY 649, 650.

first-class investments. Investments permissible for the employment of trust funds. Investments producing income consistent with safety of the principal. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 371. Investments which require little or no personal care or supervision in order to avoid loss. Sparks Mfg. Co. v Newton, 57 NJ Eq 367, 41 A 385.

first-class mail. Written matter, comprising letters and postal cards; matter sealed or closed against inspection. 41 Am J1st P O § 56.

first-class misdemeanor. A person who has been found guilty of a misdemeanor but who has been adjudged to be deserving of leniency.

first-class passage. Transportation by a carrier at a fare higher than for ordinary passage, usually with accommodations superior to those of ordinary passage.

first-class state of repair. As a term descriptive of the tenant's obligation under a covenant to repair:-a variable term, the meaning in a particular case to be ascertained from the entire context of the lease and the surrounding circumstances. Puget Invest. Co. v Wenck, 36 Wash 2d 817, 221 P2d 459, 20 ALR2d 1320.

first-class theater. A term descriptive of the character of the performance within the building, rather than of the building itself. Asa G. Chandler, Inc. v Georgia Theater Co. 148 Ga 188, 96 SE 226.

first-class title. A marketable title; a good and valid title, at least a title free from reasonable doubt. Vought v Williams, 120 NY 253, 24 NE 195.

first class turn-key job. An expression of the construction industry, meaning the building of a complete house, one ready for occupancy as a dwelling. 13 Am J2d Bldg Contr § 10.

first conviction. As the term appears in an habitual criminal statute which makes provision for determining the length of a sentence for a subsequent conviction by multiplying the time imposed for the first conviction:-the first conviction for the subsequent offense for which the defendant has presently been convicted. Anno: 82 ALR 380, s. 116 ALR 236.

first cousin. The child of an uncle or an aunt. Anno: 54 ALR2d 1011. A relationship in the fourth degree according to the civil-law method of computing degrees of kinship which prevails in most American jurisdictions. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 48.

first cousin once removed. A child of a first cousin. 54 ALR2d Anno: 54 ALR2d 1012. A relationship in the fifth degree. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 48. Often called a second cousin.

first degree manslaughter. See manslaughter.

first-degree murder. See murder in the first degree.

first-degree principal. See principal in first degree.

first domestic processing. An internal revenue term; the first use in the United States, in the manufacture or production of an article intended for sale, of the article with respect to which the tax is imposed. 26 USC § 4512.

first-fruits. The annates or profits of the first year of a church preferment or living. See 1 Bl Comm 284.

first impression. An action without precedent to govern it. 1 Am J2d Actions § 49.

first in, first out. A method of recording inventory for the purpose of taxation of a stock of merchandise. Anno: 66 ALR2d 834. A rule applied in the valuation of inventory for purposes of federal taxation, that where goods are so intermingled that they cannot be identified with specific invoices, the goods in the inventory will be considered to be the goods most recently purchased or produced. The rule that, for income tax purposes, securities sold are charged off against the earliest purchase, in order to compute gain or loss, where the identity of the securities sold cannot be determined.

See first money in, first money out.

first in payment of taxes. The rule which determines rights by adverse possession where taxes paid by both adverse claimant and owner. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 127.

first in possession is first in right. The rule as between persons who are both intruders upon real estate. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 237.

first in time. The principle that, as between courts of concurrent jurisdiction, the first to exercise jurisdiction has exclusive jurisdiction to proceed further in the case. 20 Am J2d Cts § 128.

See priority.

first in time, first in right. A maxim applicable where the equities otherwise are equal. Walton v Hargroves, 42 Miss 18.

first inventor. He who first reduces an invention to practice. 40 Am J1st Pat § 70.

first meeting. The first meeting of creditors of a bankrupt, to be held not less than 10 nor more than 30 days after the adjudication, for the allowance of claims of creditors, the examination of the bankrupt, the election of a trustee in bankruptcy, and such other matters as may be pertinent and necessary for the promotion of the best interests of the estate. Bankruptcy Act § 55(c); 11 USC § 91(c); 9 Am J2d, Bankr §§ 581, 582.

first money in, first money out. A rule applied in determining the existence of alien upon a fund, such as a bank deposit, where during a period, there are various deposits and withdrawals. Mississippi Cottonseed Products Co. v Canal Bank & Trust Co. 172 Miss 105, 159 So 404. The rule under which a particular credit in a bank is not regarded as having been drawn on until there is drawn an amount of money greater than the amount in the account at the moment prior to such credit and the credit is completely withdrawn when the depositor has drawn a sum equal to the amount in the account when the credit was entered plus the amount of the credit. 11 Am J2d B & N § 342.

[478]

first mortgage. A mortgage having priority as a lien over the lien of any other mortgage of the same property. A mortgage having priority over any other lien on the same property.

first name. See Christian name.

first occupant. The rule that by the law of nature unclaimed goods belonged to the first finder. See 1 Bl Comm 298.

See first in possession is first in right.

first of exchange. The first of a set of bills of exchange, drawn in duplicate or triplicate, the honoring of any one of which avoids the others. Bank of Pittsburgh v Neal (US) 22 How 96, 16 L Ed 323.

See bills in a set.

first option. The preferential right of a lessee to a new lease to run after the expiration of the existing lease under which he holds. Landowners Co. v Pendry, 151 Kan 674, 100 P2d 632, 127 ALR 890.

first papers. Declaration by an alien of his intention to become a citizen of the United States. 3 Am J2d, Aliens § 147.

first privilege. See first option.

first processing. The operations in the canning and packing of fruits and vegetables which precede the point where the fresh fruit or vegetables are converted to a nonperishable form. McComb v Hunt Foods, Inc. (CA9 Cal) 167 F2d 905, cert den 335 US 845, 93 L Ed 395, 69 S Ct 69.

first publication. The common law right of an author, sometimes spoken of as "copyright before publication." 18 Am J2d Copyr § 1. The earliest date when copies of the first authorized edition were placed on sale, sold, or publicly distributed by the proprietor of a copyright or under his authority. 17 USC § 26.

first purchaser. He who first acquired the estate to his family, whether the same was transferred to him by sale or by gift, or by any other method, except only that of descent. Blair v Adams (CC Tex) 59 F 243, 247.

first resolution in Wild's Case. A famous and much controverted rule that an estate tail is created by a devise to a person and his children or issue if such person then has no issue, but if such person has issue at the specified time, the words are words of purchase and no estate tail is created. 28 Am J2d Est § 52.

first return. A term of application in matters of internal revenue, meaning a tax return for the first year of tax, including a timely amended return for that year. Haggar Co. v Helvering, 308 US 389, 84 L Ed 340, 60 S Ct 337.

firsts. In mercantile usage, articles of best quality. Iselin v United States, 271 US 136, 138, 70 L Ed 872, 873, 46 S Ct 458.

fisc. The treasury of a state, a government, or a prince.

fiscal affairs. The financial affairs of a public body; business transactions, the raising of revenue, the issuance of securities to obtain funds for public improvements, appropriations, and the disposition of public funds. 49 Am J1st States § 64. In the case of a county, the performance of such duties as are placed upon the county board or such as uniformly pertain to the office of its members. Martin v Tyler, 4 ND 278, 60 NW 392.

fiscal agent. An agent acting for a public body in reference to its financial affairs. An agent invested with the funds and the conduct of the financial affairs of another person, business, association, society, or club.

fiscal court. See county court.

fiscal year. An accounting period of twelve months, such as that of the United States Government which ends on June 30th of each year. The annual period on the basis of which the taxpayer regularly computes his income in keeping his books. IRC § 441(c).

fiscus. A fisc.

See fisc.

fish. Cold-blooded animals, with backbones, living in water, and having gills for breathing. Animals ferae naturae where wild, unconfined, and in a state of nature. 35 Am J2d Fish § 2.

The term is sufficiently comprehensive to include shellfish, such as oysters, clams, lobsters, and crabs. State v Savage, 96 Or 53, 184 P 567, 189 P 427.

fish and game laws. Statutes, enacted in the interest of conservation of natural resources in fish and game in the wild state, which limit the taking of fish and game by establishing open and closed seasons and in some instances absolutely prohibiting the taking at any time of certain species.

fishery. In common usage, a place for fishing. In a legal sense, a right, other than one arising from ownership of a particular shore or beach, to employ within a particular stretch of water, lawful means for the taking of fish which may be found there. 35 Am J2d Fish § 6.

See common fishery; common of fishery; exclusive fishery; fishing right; free fishery; royal fishery; several fishery; shellfishery.

fish for evidence. See fishing expedition.

fishgarth. A fish-trap or fish-weir.

fishing bill. A derogatory term for a bill in equity in which the plaintiff shows no cause of action, and endeavors to compel the defendant to disclose one in the plaintiff's favor. Carroll v Carroll (NY) 11 Barb 293, 298.

fishing expedition. A discovery, not so much in aid of a cause of action, as to determine whether there is a cause of action. 23 Am J2d Dep § 150. Using a subpoena duces tecum for the purpose of discovering evidence. 58 Am J1st Witn § 25. Seeking an order against an adverse party to compel the production of books, paper, and writings, for the purpose only of searching for evidence and witnesses. 29 Am J2d Ev § 843.

fishing place. See fishery; fishing right.

fishing preserve. See private preserve.

fishing right. The right to fish on the premises of another. The right to fish in all the arms of the sea and other public waters of the state; a right to fish granted by the United States or a state. 35 Am J2d Fish § 6. A profit a prendre. 25 Am J2d Ease § 4.

See fishery.

[479]

fishing tool. A term used by oil well drillers for an instrument employed to grapple with or otherwise engage an object in a drill pipe for the purpose of removing such object. Raymond v Wickersham, 27 Cust & Pat App (Pat) 1079, 110 F2d 863.

fish net. See net.

fish royal. Fish which when brought ashore were the property of the king; such fish were confined to sturgeons, whales, and porpoises.

The whale was called a royal fish because by an ancient perquisite of the crown, when taken on the coast of England, the head was the property of the king and the tail went to the queen to furnish her wardrobe with whalebone. See 1 Bl Comm 222.

Actually, neither whale nor porpoise is a real fish.

See porpoise; whale.

fishtail. The lateral movement of the rear of a motor vehicle in a skid. A controlled movement of an airplane to reduce speed for landing.

fishway. A way, provided in the construction of a dam, whereby fish may journey from below to above the dam or vice versa. 55 Am J1st Supp Water § 23.

fisk. Same as fisc.

fissionable material. Substances of such atomic structure that the atom may be split, thereby releasing energy.

fisticuffs. A fight in which the blows are delivered only by the fists. A boxing match arranged by agreement. Champer v State, 14 Ohio St 437.

fist-law. The law of the fist; that is, the law of force.

fistuca. A rod or staff used as a symbol in making livery of seisin.

fistula. An abscess, particularly a large abscess on a horse, characterized by a hollow passage. (Civil law.) A water conduit or pipe.

fit. Adjective: Proper; suitable; befitting; adapted to. Noun: A medical term for a convulsion in which the victim usually becomes unconscious.

fit for cultivation. Such a condition of the soil, in its natural condition, as will enable a farmer bringing to business a reasonable amount of skill, to raise regularly and annually by tillage, grain or other staple crops. Keeran v Griffith, 34 Cal 580, 581.

Fit juris et seisinæ conjunctio. A joining is made of right and seisin.

fitness. The condition of being fit.
See warranty of fitness.

fitness of parent. An issue raised in awarding custody of a child or children in a suit for divorce, to be determined not alone from financial condition or even specific instances of moral weakness, but upon the primary consideration of the welfare of the child, coupled with recognition of the fact that misconduct toward a spouse is not necessarily moral unfitness for taking custody of a child. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 788.

fitting or suited to the public need. Public convenience. Milwaukee Co. of Jehovah's Witnesses v Mullen, 214 Or 281, 330 P2d 5, 74 ALR2d 347, app dismd and cert den 359 US 436, 3 L Ed 2d 932, 79 S Ct 940.

fittings. The furniture, appliances, or other equipment in a building or vessel.

fitz. A son. A prefix to surnames, such as Fitzgerald and Fitzpatrick.

five civilized tribes. The Creeks, Cherokees, Chickasaws, Choctaws, and Seminoles. Keokuk v Ulam, 4 Okla 5, 10.

Five Mile Act. A statute enacted in England in 1665, which restricted the right of certain non-conformists to preach. The statute was repealed in 1689.

Five Ports. The ports of Hastings, Romney, Hythe, Dover, and Sandwich, all on the southern coast of England.

fix. Verb: To fasten securely; to mend or repair. To arrange, establish, or prescribe. Colloquially, to bribe a juror or a judge. Noun: A determined position in navigation. Colloquially, a predicament or awkward situation. Also colloquially, a portion of narcotic drugs taken by one other than for medicinal purposes.

See increase and fix.

fix by law. To arrange, establish, or prescribe by statute, for example, the qualifications for a public office. Anno: 34 ALR2d 178.

fixed by law. Allowed or prescribed by law. Daggs v Phoenix Nat. Bank, 177 US 549, 44 L Ed 882, 20 S Ct 732.

fixed charges. The expenses to be defrayed by a business or industry whether or not the place of business or plant is in operation for the time, being for charges which spread over the entire establishment, such as taxes, mortgage interest, insurance, depreciation, or rent, according to whether the plant is owned or leased. Standard Printing & Publishing Co. v Bothwell, 143 Md 303, 122 A 195, 31 ALR 1269, 1275.

fixed liability. Literally, an absolute or certain liability. A liability "evidenced by a judgment or an instrument in writing, absolutely owing at the time of the filing of a petition in bankruptcy by or against the debtor, whether then payable or not, with any interest thereon which would have been recoverable at that date or with a rebate of interest upon such liability as was not then payable and did not bear interest. Bankr Act § 63 (a) (1); 11 USC § 103 (a) (1).

fixed premium. A premium is a definite fixed sum, for example the premium paid annually upon an old-line life insurance policy or the premium paid upon obtaining a loan from a building and loan association. 13 Am J2d B & L Assoc § 54. A noncompetitive premium charged a borrower by a building and loan association, that is, a premium not determined by competitive bidding, 13 Am J2d B & L Assoc § 55.

fixed prices. Agreed-upon prices, not necessarily uniform prices. United States v Food & Grocery Bureau (DC Cal) 43 F. Supp 966.

See price-fixing.

fixed route. A definite route followed by a carrier.

fixed schedule. The schedule by which the vehicles or trains of a common carrier are operated, the periods of their arrival and departure being fixed, not beyond all possibility of change in the future, but subject only to such changes as may be approved by the regulatory authority.

fixed standard. A standard so capable of ascertainment that it can be stated in definite terms of money, for the purposes of a testator in giving a third person a power to determine the amount of a bequest within limits of a "fixed standard." 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 332.

[480]

fixed tenure. The term of a public officer, the length of which is definitely prescribed by constitution or statute. 43 Am J1st Pub Of §§ 156, 158. A term sometimes applied to the protection against termination of employment given by civil-service laws to an employee after a certain number of years of satisfactory service.

fixed termini. The starting and ending points in the route of a common carrier, such places being fixed, not beyond the possibility of change in the future, but subject to only such changes as may be approved by the regulatory authority.

fixing bail. The determination by the court or judge of the amount of bail or a bond which a prisoner must furnish to effect his release from custody.

fixture. An article, once a chattel, but which, by being physically annexed or constructively affixed to the realty, has become accessory to it and part and parcel of it. 35 Am J2d Fixt § 1. Something so annexed to the freehold for use in connection therewith that it cannot be removed without injury to the freehold and accordingly has become a part of the freehold, losing its original identity as personal property. 35 Am J2d Fixt § 2.

See constructive annexation; trade fixtures.

flag. Verb: To droop; to lose speed. To signal with a flag. To signal a bus or train to stop for a passenger. Noun: Flat stones used in making a sidewalk or the portion of a street set apart for use by pedestrians, occasionally used in paving ways for vehicles. Re Phillips, 60 NY 16, 21. An emblem of cloth, usually in colors and usually on a staff, particularly the emblem of the nation or state.

"The flag is the emblem of national authority. To the citizen it is an object of patriotic adoration, emblematic of all for which his country stands,—her institutions, her achievements, her long roster of heroic dead, the story of her past, the promise of her future; and it is not fitting that it should become associated in his mind with anything less exalted, nor that it should be put to any mean or ignoble use." Halter v State, 74 Neb 757, 105 NW 298.

A public flag cannot always be considered as a true indication of the arms of the country to which it belongs; for most countries have two banners the one borne by vessels of war, and the other by those engaged in commerce. Kirksey v Bates (Ala) 7 Port 529.

See fly the flag; law of the flag; red flag.

flagellat. Whipped with a scourge.

flagellis et fustibus acriter verberare uxorem. To beat his wife violently with scourges and sticks. See 1 Bl Comm 445.

flagging. See flag.

flagman. A trainman, also a watchman at a railroad crossing.

flagrans. Burning; raging; in course of perpetration, as a crime.

flagrans crimen. While the crime was being perpetrated or committed.

flagrant. Outrageous; notoriously bad.

flagrante bello. During the time the war is raging.

flagrante delicto. In the perpetration of the crime; in the very act of committing the offense. See 4 Bl Comm 307.

flagrantly against the weight of the evidence. A verdict not supported by substantial evidence. 5 Am J2d, A & E § 835.

flagrant necessity. Burning need; such necessity as will excuse an act which otherwise would be unlawful.

flag salute. A ceremony in opening school and at the beginning of a meeting of a youth organization, consisting in saluting the national flag by raising the right hand to the head, or in other chosen and appropriate form, and in reciting the pledge of allegiance. 47 Am J1st Sch § 170.

flag station. A railroad station at which the trains or some of the trains stop only on signal.

See flag.

flare. A light, usually produced by the burning of an inflammable liquid in a container closed except for a small orifice from which flame appears, used as a warning signal, particularly on vehicles left standing on a street or highway during hours of darkness. 7 Am J2d Auto § 157.

flash boards. Boards fastened to the top of the permanent structure of a dam, by the use of which, it is possible to raise the water above the ordinary height of the dam. Lammot v Ewers, 106 Ind 310.

flashing light. Equipment on a police car, ambulance, or other emergency vehicle. 8 Am J2d Auto §§ 756, 757. A signal light on the highway which flashes on and off or changes from red to green. 8 Am J2d Auto § 745. Signal at railroad crossing warning of the approach of a train.

flashover. A technical term in electricity, meaning an electrical discharge through the air to the ground from a high potential source or between two conducting portions of a machine or structure.

flash signal. See flashing light.

flat. An apartment or suite of rooms for housekeeping purposes on one story of a building; an edifice which contains suites of rooms for housekeeping purposes; a multiple dwelling or multiple family house. Elterich v Leicht Real Estate Co. 130 Va 224, 107 SE 735, 18 ALR 441.

See flats.

flat house. See flat.

flat marker. The marker of a grave, flush with the ground, required in cemeteries of the memorial park type. 14 Am J2d Cem § 35.

flat race. A horse race wherein the horses are ridden by jockeys. A race by thoroughbreds.

flats. Flat lands, especially tidelands and lands along a river.

Mr. Justice Story defined shores or flats to be the space between the margin of the water at low stage and the banks which contain it in its greatest flow; Lord Hale defined the term "shore" to be synonymous with flat, and substituted "flat" for "shore." Mr. Justice Parker did the same. Alabama v Georgia (US) 23 How 505, 514, 16 L Ed 556, 560.

A mussel bed over which the water flows at every tide is not an island but is flats. Fowler v Wood, 73 Kan 511, 85 P 763.

See flat.

[481]

flattery. An effort to influence another by the use of false or excessive praise; insincere complimentary language or conduct. Hall v State, 134 Ala 90, 32 So 750.

flatu. See eodem flatu.

flax. The plant which produces the fiber from which linen is made and the seeds from which linseed oil is produced; sometimes deemed a grain. State v Cowdery, 79 Minn 94, 81 NW 750.

flection. See flexion.

fledwit. The pardon of a person who had been outlawed; the price which such a person paid for his pardon.

flee. See fleeing from justice; flight.

fleece. To cheat; to defraud; to rob.

fleeing from justice. Departing a place with the intention of avoiding prosecution for a crime, whether or not a prosecution has been commenced or is pending. Strep v. United States, 160 US 128, 40 L Ed 365, 16 S Ct 244.

See flight; fugitive from justice.

Fleet. An ancient London prison, famous as a place where persons were imprisoned for debt. The naval force of the country.

fleet coverage. The inclusion within the risk covered by an automobile liability policy of the entire number of cars operated by the insured, coverage being extended automatically when newly acquired vehicles are added to those already insured. Anno: 34 ALR2d 946, 947 §§ 13, 14.

flee to the wall. See retreat to the wall.

flem. An outlaw; a fugitive from justice.

flemens-firth. The offense of harboring a fugitive from justice, or giving him aid.

flet. A house; a home.

fleta. An ancient treatise on the English law which is believed to have been written about 1300 by a judge while he was imprisoned in the Fleet prison in London.

Fletcher v. Rylands. See Rylands v. Fletcher.

fleth. Same as flet.

flexion. Sometimes referred to as "flection." A bending, especially the bending of a limb.

flichwite. Same as fightwite.

flight. The act of flying. The scheduled trip of an airplane over a prescribed route at a prescribed time. 8 Am J2d Avi § 38. The common-law offense of running away upon an accusation of crime. See 4 Bl Comm 387.

See escape; fleeing from justice.

flight risk. A term used in the law of aircraft insurance: coverage, or the exclusion of coverage, while the insured craft is in flight, as distinguished from coverage, or the exclusion of coverage, of ground risk, that is, the risk of loss sustained while the craft is on the ground. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1363.

flight to avoid killing. See retreat to the wall.

flightwite. Same as fledwit.

float. As certificate issuing out of the United States land office authorizing the person to whom it was issued to enter a specified amount-such as a quarter section-of the public lands. Marks v Dickson (US) 20 How 501, 15 L Ed 1002.

floatability. See floatable waters.

floatable waters. Streams which, while not navigable by vessels, are usable for the transportation of certain kinds of property, such as logs and timber, by floating, or which are navigable only downstream. 56 Am J1st Wat § 188. Any stream which is capable in its natural condition of being commonly and generally used for floating saw logs, posts, ties, etc. cut from the timber along its banks. Anno: 47 ALR2d 386; 34 Am J1st Logs § 57.

floatage. Same as flotsam.

floater. A voter whose vote is for sale; one who makes a practice of voting in places where he is not qualified by residence for voting. One who puts down no roots in a locality but changes residence frequently. A blanket policy of insurance.

See blanket policy.

floating bethel. A church for sailors which is moored to a wharf and kept in place by piles. 47 Am J1st Salv § 3.

floating capital. Funds of a corporation or other business institution which have been set apart for the payment of general expenses.

floating charge. The term used in England for floating security.

See floating security.

floating debt. Same as floating indebtedness. floating drydock. A drydock moored or attached to a wharf but floating. 48 Am J1st Ship § 36.

floating indebtedness. Indebtedness of a municipality for the payment of which there is no fund in the treasury specifically designated or particular means of providing funds by taxation or other method. Huron v Second Ward Sav. Bank (CA8 SD) 86 F 272.

floating intention. An expression frequently applied in the law of domicil to the intention of a person, upon departing one place to live at another, to return at some indefinite future time to the former place of abode. 25 Am J2d Dom § 27.

floating pier. A pier built to float on the surface of the water. The Haxby (DC Pa) 94 F 1016.

floating policy. Another term for blanket policy.

See blanket policy.

floating security. A form of security by equitable charge wherein the property standing as security is left with the debtor to be handled and even sold in the due course of a business, with provisions for replenishing the security whenever it becomes depleted. Pennsylvania Co., etc. v United Railways, etc. (DC Me) 26 F Supp 379.

It is what might be called an equitable lien, a continuing charge on the assets of the company creating it, but permitting the company to deal freely with the property in the usual course of business until the security holder shall intervene to enforce his claim, whereupon the lien or charge becomes fixed or crystallized and the company which gave it has no further authority to deal with the property. Nor can the general creditors take the property charged with the lien after the secured creditor has intervened to enforce the lien. Pennsylvania Co., etc. v United Railways, etc. (DC Me) 26 F Supp 379.

float policy. Another term for blanket policy.

See blanket policy.

[482]

flodemark. The highest mark left by the sea on the shore at high tide.

flogging. Inflicting punishment by whipping. State v Cannon, 55 Del 587, 190 A2d 514; Commonwealth v Wyatt, 27 Va (6 Rand) 694.

flood. An overflow of water, classified as an ordinary or extraordinary flood. 56 Am J1st Wat § 91. An overflow of a natural watercourse. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1332. An Act of God, particularly if unprecedented. 1 Am J2d Act of God § 5. A relative term which may refer to mere surface water causing temporary inconvenience or which may refer to a collection of water so great as to amount to an inundation. Tulsa v Grier, 114 Okla 93, 243 P 753.

See extraordinary flood; ordinary flood.

flood channel. The channel of a river when swollen by rains and melting snows, extending over the bottom lands along the regular channel. Cole v Missouri, Kansas & Oklahoma Railroad Co. 20 Okla 227, 94 P 540.

flood control. An enterprise, sometimes private, but usually public, in character, whereby artificial channels are dug, dams constructed, storage basins created, and dikes built, for the purpose of preventing floods, or if they do occur, preventing great damage therefrom. 56 Am J1st Wat §§ 95 et seq.

See conservancy districts.

Flood Control Act. A federal statute providing Flood Control Act. A federal statute providing for the control of floods along the Mississippi River. 56 Am J1st Wat § 97.

Flood Control Acts. Federal and state statutes, including the Mississippi Flood Control Act, providing for the control of floods by various means and methods. 56 Am J1st Wat § 97.

flood insurance. A policy of insurance protecting the insured against loss of or damage to property caused by flood. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1332.

floodlight. An intense artificial light, covering an area of considerable dimension, usually with the aid of a reflector; blinding to motorists within the beam. Anno: 22 ALR2d 413 § 26.

flood-tide. The rising or in-coming tide of the sea. A river out of its banks, inundating land not normally covered by its flow. Perkins v Byrnes, 364 Mo 849, 269 SW2d 52, 48 ALR2d 97.

flood waters. Waters above the highest line of the ordinary flow of the stream. Texas Co. v Burkett, 117 Tex 16, 296 SW 273, 54 ALR 1397. Forming a continuous body with the water flowing in the ordinary channel, or, if temporarily overflowing presently to return to such channel, to be regarded as still a part of the stream. 56 Am J1st Wat § 92; Anno: 20 ALR2d 656.

floor. The surface of a room, house, or other building at the bottom; the surface that an occupant uses. A single story of a building two or more stories in height, including the walls. 32 Am J1st L & T § 166.

See story.

floor area restrictions. Zoning laws prescribing minimum floor areas for dwellings to be erected in a certain district. 58 Am J1st Zon § 53.

floor tax. A tax levied under act of Congress upon liquor and tobacco produced in or imported into the United States upon which the internal revenue tax previously imposed had been paid, and which thereafter are held for sale or for use in the manufacture of an article intended for sale. Leeb v United States (DC NY) 16 F2d 937.

Florentine Pandects. A copy of the Pandects or Digests of Justinian which was found at Amalphi in Italy in 1137.

florin. An English coin which at one time was the equivalent of six shillings, but later, since 1849, two shillings. A coin of medieval Florence.

flotage. Same as flotsam.

flotation of securities. Issuing securities and selling the issue for the purpose of beginning or financing a business.

floterial district. A multimember legislative district. 25 Am J2d Elect § 25.

flotsam. Goods cast into the sea in order to save a ship, or by shipwreck, and floating. 48 Am J1st Ship § 647. Odds and ends of little value.

flotsan. Same as flotsam.

flow. See flowage; return flow.

flowage. A right to overflow the land of another in the accumulation and maintenance of an artificial body of water, acquired by grant or prescription, or reserved in conveyance. Union Falls Power Co. v Marionette County, 238 Wis 134, 298 NW 598, 134 ALR 958.

flowage right. See flowage.

floud-marke. Same as flode-mark.

fluctus. Same as flood-tide.

flues. Chimneys; tubes in a steam boiler for the passage of hot air and smoke.

flume. An artificial waterway in the nature of an inclined chute or narrow channel for transporting logs or other materials down a mountainside or conducting water for power purposes.

flumen. An old term for eavesdrip.

See easement of drip.

Flumina et portus publica sunt; ideoque jus piscandi omnibus commune est. Rivers and ports are public and the right to fish is therefore common to all.

Fluminis naturalem cursum non avertere. A stream should flow unimpeded in its natural course. Cubbins v Mississippi River Coin. 241 US 351, 60 L Ed 1041, 36 S Ct 671.

fluorspar. A mineral. Anno: 86 ALR 984.

flushing streets. A governmental function. Hale v Knoxville, 189 Tenn 491, 226 SW2d 265, 15 ALR2d 1283.

fluvius. A river; a stream.

fluxus. The flow of the tides.

flying machine. An obsolete term for airplane.

flying nondescript. A facetious characterization of a sleeping car company.

flying school. A school for instruction in the science and art of flying and in the repair, alteration, maintenance, and overhauling of aircraft. 8 Am J2d Avi § 36.

flying switch. A method of switching railroad cars wherein at one point in the operation a car or cars run free, having been "kicked", that is shoved violently by a locomotive. Chicago & Northwestern R. Co. v Calumet Stock Farm, 194 1119, 61 NE 1095.

[483]

flyma. A fugitive from justice; a fugitive.

flyman-frymth. Same as flemens -firth.

fly the flag. Acts of possession which put the true owner of real estate upon notice that his land is held under an adverse claim of ownership. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 23.

flywheel insurance. Casualty insurance covering injuries from a flywheel.

FM. Abbreviation of frequency modulation.

See frequency modulation.

f.o.b. Abbreviation of free on board.

See free on board.

f. o. b. acceptance final. See free on board acceptance final.

f.o.b. cars. See free on board cars.

focage. A right of estovers.

See firebote.

focale. Same as focage.

fodder. Roughage for animals, usually the stalk and leaves of the corn plant.

fodder shed. A building for the storage of fodder or other roughage for animals; a structure to be distinguished from a barn. 5 Am J2d Arson § 21.

foderum. Fodder.

foedus. (Latin.) A compact or agreement between individuals or between nations; a league; a treaty between nations.

Foeminae ab omnibus officiis civilibus vel publicis remotae sunt. Women are excluded from all offices whether private or public.

Foeminae non sunt capaces de publicis officiis. Women are not qualified for public office.

foemina viro co-operta. A feme covert,—a married woman.

foeneration. Same as feneration.

foenus. That which is produced; the interest of money.

foenus nauticum. An agreement for the repayment of a marine loan, with extraordinary interest. See 2 Bl Comm 458.

foeticide. The killing of a foetus or unborn child; a criminal abortion.

foetura. The increase of animals; fruit.

foetus. An unborn child.

foetus in utero. See pregnant woman.

fog. Technically, water vapor in fine particles lying close to the surface of the earth or sea. In the law of navigation, a generic term, descriptive of all conditions of the atmosphere increasing the perils of navigation by obscurity. Flint & Pere Marquette R. Co. v Marine Ins. Co. (CC Mich) 71 F 210, 215. In common usage, something that prevents clear thought.

fogagium. A kind of rank grass available for feed only at certain times of the year.

foghorn. A horn or other device for giving sound signals in time of fog; required equipment under rules of navigation. 48 Am J1st Ship § 271.

fogy pay. Same as longevity pay.

foi. Fealty; loyalty.

foil. To prevent the accomplishment of the purpose of another.

See counterfoil. foinesun. Same as fenatio.

foirfault. Same as forfeit.

foirthocht. Aforethought; premeditated.

fois. Time.

foiterers. Vagrants; vagabonds.

folc-gemote. Same as folcmote.

folc-land. Same as folk-land.

folcmote. An ancient Saxon assembly of the people.

folc-right. A jus commune,—a law to all the people of the kingdom; the common law. See 1 Bl Comm 67.

foldage. Same as faldage.

folgarii. Followers; menial servants.

folgere. A follower; a retainer; a menial servant.

folgers. Same as folgarii.

folio. A large sheet of paper folded so as to form two leaves, making available four pages for a manuscript or book numbered on both sides of the leaves. A unit for the measurement of the length of a legal document; in the United States, a page of one hundred words; in England, as used in conveyancing, seventy-two words; in English parliamentary, chancery and probate matters, ninety words.

In this country, in counting, each figure in a folio is counted as a word, and when there are over fifty and under a hundred words, they are counted as one folio, but a less number than fifty words is not counted, unless the whole document contains less than fifty words. Erwin v United States (DC Ga) 37 F 470.

Folio Edition. An edition of the Year books, otherwise known as the Vulgate Edition or the Edition of 1679.

See Year Books.

folk. The people, particularly the common people.

See borel folk.

folk-land. Land which was held by no assurance in writing, but distributed among the common folk or people at the pleasure of the lord, and resumed at his discretion. See 2 Bl Comm 90.

folknote. Same as folcmote.

follow. To come after; to result from; to pursue. To adhere to a decision as a precedent.

See ensue.

following federal rule. The binding effect of federal court decisions in state court.

following fund. See following trust fund or property.

following proceeds of sale. The right of a mortgagee under a chattel mortgage to the proceeds of a sale of the property by the mortgagor. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 161.

following state court decisions. The duty of a federal court, not only as to questions of the statutory law of the state, but also as to questions of general common law or commercial law. Erie Railroad Co. v Tompkins, 304 US 64, 82 L Ed 1188, 58 S Ct 817, 114 ALR 1487; Fashion Originators' Guild v Federal Trade Com. 312 US 457, 85 L Ed 949, 61 S Ct 703.

following too closely. Negligence or even negligence per se on the part of a motorist. 8 Am J2d Auto § 773.

following trust fund or property. Pursuing property wrongfully converted by a fiduciary for the purpose of compelling restitution to the beneficiary, such pursuit encompassing a following through all changes in state and form, so long as such property, its product, or its proceeds are capable of identification and so long as the property has not passed into the hands of a bona fide purchaser for value. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 248. A practice in favor of a surety on the bond of a trustee who has diverted funds. 50 Am J1st Subro § 132. Tracing specific funds in the hands of a trustee in insolvency or assignee for the benefit of creditors and enforcing the trust therein. 6 Am J2d Assign for Crs § 116. Identifying or tracing trust funds for the purpose of reclaiming them from an insolvent trust company or bank. 10 Am J2d Bks § 805.

foment. To encourage; to incite; to abet.

fond. See au fond; au fond en droit; au fond en fait.

fonsadera. (Spanish.) A loan or tribute paid to the king for the purpose of carrying on war.

fontana. A fountain; a spring.

food. Anything eaten for the nourishment of the body. 35 Am J2d Food § I. Articles used for food or drink for man or animals and the components of any such article. 21 USC § 321. All articles used for food, drink, confectionery, or condiment by man or other animals, whether simple, mixed, or compound. 35 Am J2d Food § 2.

Food and Drug Administration. A federal agency of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

food coloring. See coal tar colors.

Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act. A statute regulating interstate traffic in food, drugs and cosmetics, covering such matters as adulteration, misbranding, false guaranties against adulteration or misbranding, the alteration, obliteration, removal, or destruction of labels, and having the purpose in general of keeping dangerous products out of interstate commerce, preventing fraud, and protecting the public health. 21 USC § 331(a)-(k).

food premium. Something of value given a purchaser of food in addition to the commodity purchased. 52 Am J1st Trad St § 11.

food preservative. See preservative.

fool natural. An idiot.

foot. A lineal measure, consisting of 12 inches. The segment of the limb of a vertebrate upon which the body rests in standing.

The human foot consists of three parts: the ankle or torsos, the instep or metatarsus, and the toes or phalanges. Jones v Continental Casualty Co. 189 Iowa 678, 179 NW 203, 18 ALR 1329.

See loss of feet.

foot acre. A method of determining the value of coal land for tax purposes, applying the measure of one acre of coal one foot thick, but excluding exhausted areas, barrier pillars, areas entirely unminable because of physical conditions, or areas of unproved minability, unless development and exploration discloses minable coal therein. Re Hudson Coal Co. 327 Pa 247, 193 A 8.

footage drilling. The drilling of an oil well under a contract whereby the contracting driller is paid at an agreed rate per foot of well drilled, plus the cost of equipment. Walker v Chitty (CA6 Ohio) 112 F2d 79.

foot frontage. A basis of apportionment of a special or local assessment. 48 Am J1st Spec A § 67.

footgeld. An amercement which was imposed under the forest laws for failure to expedite a dog.
See expedition of dogs.

footing. A base or support. A place to stand.

footman. A male servant in the household. A person on foot; a pedestrian.

A person riding on a bicycle is not a footman or pedestrian, whether he is riding on the sidewalk or elsewhere. Mercer v Corbin, 117 Ind 450, 20 NE 132.

foot of the fine. The fifth or concluding part of a fine. This part included the whole proceeding, reciting the parties, day, year, and place, and before whom the fine was acknowledged or levied. Indentures of this were made, or engrossed at the chirographer's office, and delivered to the cognizor and the cognizee; usually beginning, "haec est finalis concordia," this is the final agreement, and then reciting the whole proceeding at length. See 2 Bl Comm 351.

footpath. See path.

footpound. A unit of energy; the energy required to raise a weight of one pound one foot.

footstool. A stool placed below the lower step of a railroad passenger car for the use of passengers in boarding or leaving the car. 14 Am J2d Car § 1010.

footway. A sidewalk; a path.
See iter; public footway. for. Because of, on account of, by reason of. Glassell Development Co. v Citizens' Nat Bank, 191 Cal 375, 216 P 1012, 28 ALR 1427, 1434. In consideration of Brooks v Coppedge, 71 Idaho 156, 228 P2d 248, 27 ALR2d 645. Throughout or during the continuance of a period of time. Finlayson v Peterson, 5 ND 587.

A designation of agency in the execution of a contract by an agent on behalf of his principal, that is, purporting to sign "for" for the principal, e.g. Robert Roy, Agent "for" John Smith, by which liability is imposed upon the principal and not the agent. 3 Am J2d Ag § 190.

for account of. A form of indorsement of commercial paper for collection. 10 Am J2d Bks § 407; 12 Am J2d B & N § 1277.

for account of whom it may concern. See on account of whom it may concern.

forage. Verb: To search for food or other need. Noun: Rough feed for domestic animals; fodder; hay.

Foraker Act. An act of Congress approved April 12, 1900, entitled "An Act Temporarily to Provide Revenues and a Civil Government for Porto Rico, and for Other Purposes." Downes v Bidwell, 182 US 247, 45 L Ed 1088, 21 S Ct 770.

[485]

foraneus. A foreigner; an alien.

forathe. A term used in the forest laws meaning a witness who would testify in one's behalf.

forbalca. Same as forebalk.

forbannitus. A person who had been banished or exiled.

forbarrer. To bar out; to exclude; to estop.

forbatudus. An aggressor who was killed in an encounter.

forbearance. Submitting without complaint. Giving a debtor additional time for payment. Withholding of action constituting a sufficient consideration for a guaranty. Anno: 78 ALR2d 1418.

It has long been settled that the term, as applied to usury laws, cannot be predicated of any other transaction than a loan of money. Title Guaranty & Surety Co. v Klein (CA3 Pa) 178 F 689.

forbearance to sue. Refraining from the commencement of an action. Abandonment of the right to institute or assert a claim in legal proceedings. 15 Am J2d Compr § 17.

See covenant not to sue.

for cause. For legal cause, e.g. the challenge of a juror on voir dire for want of the qualifications prescribed by law, 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 147, or the removal of a public officer upon a ground of removal provided by constitution or statute. State ex rel. Nagle v Sullivan, 98 Mont 425, 40 P2d 995, 99 ALR 321.

force. The impetus of power; physical power or strength exerted against a person or thing. 5 Am J2d Arr § 80; 6 Am J2d Asslt & B §§ 5, 39. Not necessarily confined to a physical manifestation; there may be an exertion of force through the practice of a deceit. Commonwealth v Stratton, 114 Mass 303.

As an essential ingredient of rape, "force" does not necessarily imply the positive exertion of actual physical force in the act of compelling submission; but force or violence threatened as the result of noncompliance, and for the purpose of preventing resistance, or extorting consent, is equivalent to force actually exerted. 44 Am J1st Rape § 5.

See actual force; armed force; constructive force; duress; excessive force; force and violence; forcible entry and detainer; fresh force; irresistible force; superior force.

force account. A contract between a contractor and his employer under which the workmen are paid by the foot or yard, the contractor hiring the labor and supervising the job and receiving from the employer an agreed percentage above the total cost. Anno: 55 ALR 292.

force and arms. Actual violence. Taylor v State, 25 Tenn (6 Humph) 284, 286.

force and violence. As used in a statutory definition of riot:—something more than the force necessary to do an unlawful act; a defiance of constituted authority or of the rights of a person injured, or of his effort to protect such rights. Walter v Northern Ins. Co. 370 111 283, 18 NE2d 906, 121 ALR 244. As an element of the crime of robbery:—actual force, which implies personal violence, and constructive force which includes all demonstrations of force, menaces, and other means by which the person robbed is put in fear sufficient to suspend the free exercise of his will or prevent resistance to the taking. State v Snyder, 41 Nev 453, 172 P 364.

forced heir. A person who, in reference to a certain portion of his ancestor's property, can not be disinherited by the will of the ancestor, except where there is a just and legal cause to disinherit him.

The doctrine of forced heir is one of the Roman law and the civil law of the Continent of Europe, and is preserved in Louisiana by a provision of the state constitution. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 90.

forced landing. An aircraft landing in an emergency, caused by lack of fuel, weather turbulence, or mechanical mishap.

forced sale. A sale other than at the will and pleasure of the owner. An execution sale; a sale on foreclosure; a sale made under the authority of any judicial proceeding at law or in equity which seeks to appropriate the property to the payment of debts, whether or not denominated a sale. 26 Am J1st Home § 99.

force majeure. (French.) The equivalent of vis major.

force with force. Repelling an unlawful use of force with force. State v Durham, 141 NC 741, 53 SE 720.

forcheapum. Same as forestalling.

forcible detainer. The unlawful holding or detention of real property by force, threats, or menaces after the making of a peaceable, though unlawful, entry thereon. 35 Am J2d Fore E & D § 1.

See forcible entry and detainer.

forcible entry. An entry by breaking doors to make an arrest or a search of premises. 5 Am J2d Arr §§ 86, 87. An entry, with at least some degree of actual force, for the purpose of committing a felony. 13 Am J2d Burgl §§ 11, 12. An entry on real property peaceably in the possession of another, against his will, without authority of law, by actual force, or with such an array of force and apparent intent to employ it for the purpose of overcoming resistance, that the occupant, in yielding and permitting possession to be taken from him, must be regarded as acting from a well-founded apprehension that resistance by him would be perilous or unavailing. 35 Am J2d Forc E & D § 1.

See forcible entry and detainer.

forcible entry and detainer. A common-law offense against the public peace committed by violently taking or keeping possession of lands and tenements, with menaces, force and arms, and without the authority of law. 4 Bl Comm 148. A remedy to obtain restitution to possession of one turned or kept out of possession of real property by strong hand, violence, or terror. 35 Am J2d Forc E & D § 5.

forcible trespass. A trespass amounting to a breach of the peace. Carroll v State, 23 Ala 28.

forcibly. With force, as in a breaking and entry for the purpose of committing a felony. 13 Am J2d Burgl §§ 11, 12.

forcibly to defile. To commit rape. State v Montgomery, 79 Iowa 737, 45 NW 292.

for clearing house purposes only. An ordinary form of indorsement of a check by a bank holding it for collection; an indorsement which does not constitute a representation that the bank is the owner. 10 Am J2d Bks § 840.

for collection. A form of restrictive indorsement. 12 Am J2d B & N § 1278. A form of restrictive endorsement of commercial paper left with a bank for collection, whereunder the bank becomes a mere agent of the depositor for the purpose of obtaining funds upon the paper. 10 Am J2d Bks § 402. An indorsement which warns the drawee bank that the responsibility of determining the genuineness of the paper is placed upon it. 10 Am J2d Bks § 615.

for commerce. See production of goods for commerce.

for compensation. For a consideration. A test of the character of a company as a public utility; not the equivalent of "for profit." Mountain States Tel. Co. v Project Mut. Tel. & Electric Co. PUR 1916E 370.

See for hire; for hire or compensation.

ford. A place for crossing a stream where there is no bridge.

forda. A ford.

fordanno. The aggressor in an encounter.

for deposit. A form of restrictive indorsement. 11 Am J2d B & N § 362. A restrictive indorsement which indicates that the indorsee bank is an agent for collection, not the owner. 10 Am J2d Bks § 403.

for deposit only. A form of restrictive indorsement. 11 Am J2d B & N § 362.

See for deposit.

fordyka. Grass growing on the bank of a dyke or ditch.

fore. Before.

forebalk. A strip of land left unploughed on lands adjoining a highway.

foreclose. To obtain an order for foreclosure or otherwise to proceed with a foreclosure.

See foreclosure.

foreclosure. In the original inception of the term, a suit to extinguish the equity of redemption. A proceeding in a court of justice, conducted according to legal forms, in and by which a mortgagee, or assigns, or successor, or anyone who has by law succeeded to the rights and liabilities of a mortgagee, undertakes to dispose of, or bar, or cut off the legal or equitable claims of lien-holders, or of the mortgagor, or those who have succeeded to the rights and liabilities of the mortgagor. Arrington v Liscom, 34 Cal 365. In the ordinary present-day sense of the term, the enforcement of a lien, deed of trust, or mortgage in any method provided or sanctioned by law. Arrington v Liscom, 34 Cal 365.

foreclosure by action and sale. A suit to obtain a decree of foreclosure and a sale of the mortgaged premises in accordance with that decree, the proceeds to be applied, first to the payment of the costs of suit, the mortgage debt, and interest thereon, second to junior encumbrancers, and third to the owner of the premises. McMillan v Richards, 9 Cal 365, 411.

foreclosure by entry and writ of entry. The remedy in some jurisdictions for enforcing a mortgage by entry and possession by the mortgagee. 37 Am J1st Mtg § 531.

Upon a foreclosure by entry and possession after a breach of the condition of the mortgage, and by holding such possession for the period allowed for redemption, the mortgage debt will be deemed paid to the extent of the value of the land. 37 Am J1st Mtg § 531.

foreclosure by sale. A summary method of foreclosure of a mortgage or deed of trust by sale of the mortgaged premises under a power of sale contained in the mortgage or deed of trust, or even in a separate instrument. 37 Am J1st Mtg § 647.

See foreclosure of chattel mortgage.

foreclosure of chattel mortgage. An action to declare judicially the forfeiture for condition broken and to obtain a sale and transfer of title to the subject of the mortgage. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 208. A sale of the property covered by the mortgage, upon a default by the mortgagor, under a power of sale contained in the instrument. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 211.

foreclosure receivership. See receivership in foreclosure.

foreclosure sale. A sale, judicial or otherwise, made in the enforcement of alien, mortgage, or deed of trust.

foreclosure suit. See foreclosure by action and sale.

forefault. Same as forfeit.

foregift. A premium or bonus paid for a leasehold in addition to rent.

foregoer. A progenitor; an ancestor.

foregoing instrument. An identifying term commonly used in acknowledgments. 1 Am J2d Ack § 59.

forehand rent. Rent paid in advance. Also the bonus or foregift paid by the tenant upon the making of the lease.

See foregift.

foreign. Belonging to another nation or country.

In a political sense, we call every country foreign which is not within the jurisdiction of the same government. In this sense, Canada, Mexico, and all transatlantic countries are foreign to the United States. Cherokee Nation v Georgia (US) 5 Pet 1, 56, 8 L Ed 25, 45.

foreign acknowledgment. An acknowledgment taken outside the state wherein the efficacy of the instrument authenticated is to be determined. 1 Am J2d Ack § 26.

foreign administration. The administration of property belonging to the estate of a decedent situated in a jurisdiction other than that of his residence; otherwise known as ancillary administration. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 680.

foreign administrator. See foreign representative.

foreign adoption. An adoption under a decree granted by a court in state or country other than that wherein effect is sought to be given to it. 2 Am J2d Adopt §§ 12, 115.

foreign affidavit. An affidavit involving a matter of concern in one state but taken in another state or country before an officer of that state or country. 3 Am J2d Affi § 19.

Statutes relating to the authentication of affidavits taken in a foreign state may require, in addition to the ordinary attestation with the seal of the notary or other officer, that the affidavit be accompanied by a certificate of the county clerk or other proper officer of the foreign state, under his hand and official seal, stating that the officer before whom the affidavit was taken is duly commissioned and authorized by the statutes of his state to administer oaths. Turtle v Turtle, 31 AD 49, 52 NYS 857.

Foreign Agents Registration Act. A federal statute enacted for the purpose of protecting the national defense, internal security, and foreign relations of the United States, by requiring public disclosure by persons engaged in propaganda and other activities for or on behalf of foreign governments, foreign political parties, and other foreign principals, so that the government and people of the United States may be informed of the identity of such persons and may appraise their statements and actions in the light of their associations and activities. 47 Am J1st Sedit etc. § 10.

[487]

foreign aid. The making of loans and of grants of money and property, particularly grain, by the United States for the benefit of foreign nations, intended for the rehabilitation of countries in distress economically, thereby assisting them to establish and maintain stable government of the democratic form.

foreign attachment. The attachment of property within the jurisdiction but owned by a nonresident defendant. Greene v Johnston, 34 Del Ch 115, 99 A2d 627, 42 ALR2d 906.

foreign award. An award made in arbitration in another state or country. 5 Am J2d Arb & A § 153.

See foreign judgment.

foreign bank. A bank in a foreign country; a bank incorporated under the laws of another state.

foreign bill. A bill of exchange which is not, or does not purport to be, both drawn and payable within the state. Uniform Negotiable Instruments L § 129.

The primary importance of the distinction between an inland and a foreign bill of exchange lies in the necessity of protest of a foreign bill upon nonacceptance or nonpayment. 11 Am J2d B & N § 790.

foreign broker. A broker from without the state. 12 Am J2d Brok § 17.

foreign building and loan association. A building and loan association operating outside the jurisdiction of its origin or domicil. 13 Am J2d B & L Assoc § 122.

foreign cause. A cause of action arising under the laws of another jurisdiction.

foreign charity. A charity which by the terms of the instrument creating it is to be administered in a state or country other than the one in which it is created. Taylor v Trustees of Bryn Mawr College, 34 NJ Eq 101, 104. A charitable institution or operation outside the jurisdiction of the domicil of the donor. 15 Am J2d Char § 109.

foreign commerce. Commerce between citizens of the United States and citizens or subjects of foreign nations; every species of commercial intercourse between the United States and foreign nations, including the entrance of ships, the importation of goods and property, and the bringing of persons into the ports of the United States. 15 Am J2d Coin § 4.

foreign consul. See consul; exequatur.

foreign corporation. In respect of a particular state or country:-a corporation created by, or organized under, the laws of another state, government, or country. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 1. As the term is used in federal statutes:-a corporation created or organized outside the United States. Hecht v Malley, 265 US 144, 154, 68 L Ed 949, 956, 44 S Ct 46. For income tax purposes, a corporation which is organized outside the United States or under any law other than that of the United States, a state or the District of Columbia. IRC § 7701(a)(3), (4), (9).

See residence of corporation.

foreign country. A country exclusively within the sovereignty of a foreign nation, and without the sovereignty of the United States. De Lima v Bidwell, 182 US 1, 45 L Ed 1041, 21 S Ct 743.

foreign court. A court of a foreign state or nation.

See foreign judgment.

foreign credit. Credit provided by a bank to a customer in a foreign country or another state by the transmission of funds. 10 Am J2d Banks § 308.

foreign currency. The coin or bills constituting money in a foreign country.

Foreign Depositions Act. One of the uniform laws, adopted in a number of states, with modifications in some instances, concerned with the taking of depositions within the enacting state to be used in a foreign jurisdiction. 23 Am J2d Dep § 12.

foreign divorce. A divorce granted in another state or country.

foreigner. A citizen of a foreign country; an alien who has not been naturalized. Lessee of Spratt et al. v Spratt (US) 1 Pet 343, 7 L Ed 171.

See transient foreigner.

foreign exchange. Foreign money; commercial paper payable in foreign money; the rate at which money of one country is converted to the money of another by exchange; the transfer of credits from one country to another in settlement of debts of residents of the former owing to residents of the latter.

foreign executor. See foreign representative.

foreign extradition. International extradition, that is, extradition to the United States from a foreign country or from the United States to a foreign country: See 31 Am J2d Extrad § 7.

foreign government. The government of a foreign country. The recognized government of a foreign country. Zaph v Ridenour, 198 Iowa 1006, 200 NW 618.

foreign guardian. A guardian appointed in a jurisdiction other than that of the ward's residence. 25 Am J1st G & W § 215.

foreign investment. The investment of trust funds in property, securities, and obligations, where the property or obligor is outside the state. Merchants Loan & Trust Co. v Northern Trust Co. 250 Ill 86, 95 NE 59.

foreign investment company. A foreign corporation which is either (a) registered as a management company, or a unit investment trust under the 1940 Investment Company Act, or (b) engaged in the investment business at a time when a majority interest is held by United States investors-United States citizens or residents, domestic partnerships or corporations, and "domestic" (nonforeign) trusts. IRC § 1246(b); IRC § 7701(a)(30).

foreign judgment. A judgment rendered by a foreign court or a court of an independent unconnected jurisdiction. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 232. Narrowly defined, a judgment rendered by a court of a foreign country. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 232. Precisely, any judgment, decree or order of a court of the United States or of any state or territory which is entitled to full faith and credit. Anno: 72 ALR2d 1256, quoting provisions of Uniform Enforcement of Foreign Judgments Act.

foreign jurisdiction. A jurisdiction other than that of the forum.

[488]

foreign law. The law of a state or country other than the forum. The law of a state or jurisdiction other than the state or jurisdiction in which it is sought to enforce such law. Marshall v Sherman, 148 NY 9, 42 NE 419.

See conflict of laws.

foreign minister. In the diplomatic use of the term, any minister who comes as the representative of another jurisdiction or government. Cherokee Nation v Georgia, (US) 5 Pet I, 56, 8 L Ed 25, 45.

See diplomatic officers.

foreign nation. A political union or community of people under a sovereignty other than that of the United States.

A nation is foreign to another nation, that is, it is a foreign nation with reference to that nation, unless the two nations owe a common allegiance; so that the term is applicable by either nation to the other. Cherokee Nation v Georgia (US) 5 Pet 1, 8 L Ed 25.

foreign office. That department of a government which carries on the communications of its government with those of foreign countries.

foreign pauper. An indigent person who has no legal settlement in the city, town, district, or county in which aid is sought to be obtained for him from the department of public welfare. Opinion of the Justices, 42 Mass (1 Met) 572, 578.

foreign personal holding company. A foreign corporation, the primary part of the income of which is personal holding company income and the stock of which is owned to the extent of 50 percent in value by less than six individual United States citizens or residents. IRC § 554.

foreign port. Precisely, a port in a foreign country. Sometimes applied more broadly to a port of a foreign country or of another state of the Union. Cohen v Charleston Fire & Marine Ins. Co. 23 SCL (Dud) 147.

foreign representative. An ambassador or other diplomatic officer. A consul. An agent representing his principal in a foreign country. The status of an executor or administrator in a state other than that of the domicil of the decedent in which he was appointed. An ancillary executor or administrator. Hopper v Hopper, 125 NY 400.

foreign state. Another state; another country.

For all national purposes embraced by the Federal Constitution, the states and the citizens thereof are one: united under the same sovereign authority, and governed by the same laws. But in other respects the states are necessarily foreign to and independent of each other. See Cherokee Nation v Georgia (US) 5 Pet 1, 57, 8 L Ed 25, 45.

foreign surety company. A corporation organized in one state for the purpose of transacting business as surety on the obligations of persons or corporations, authorized by statute of another state to transact business therein, upon compliance with certain specified conditions, the most common of which is assuring its financial responsibility by the deposit of securities with a specified officer of the authorizing state. 50 Am J1st Suret § 315.

foreign tax credit. A credit against income tax designed to ease the burden of double taxation by permitting a dollar-for-dollar credit against the United States tax for the tax paid to a foreign country. IRC § 901(a).

foreign trademark. A trademark registered or used in a foreign country and not registered in this country or established in this country by actual use. 52 Am J1st Tradem § 27.

foreign-trade zone. An isolated policed area adjacent to a port of entry where foreign goods may be unloaded for immediate transshipment or stored, repacked, sorted, mixed, or otherwise manipulated without being subject to import duties. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 17.

foreign will. A will made and executed in, and in conformity with, the laws of a state of the Union other than the state in which it is offered for probate, or made and executed in, and in conformity with, the laws of a foreign country. Estate of Clark, 148 Cal 108, 82 P 760.

foreign. Same as foreign.

forejudge. To expel from the court; to take away by a judgment; to banish.

forejudger. A judgment by which a person is forejudged.

foreman. A man in charge of a group of employees in an industrial plant or in construction work. Moore v Dublin Colton Mills, 127 Ga 609, 56 SE 839. One of the jury appointed by it, or, in some jurisdictions, by the court, as the spokesman of the jury. Bulk v Hodge, 211 Mass 156, 97 NE 920.

The foreman of the jury is not an officer of the court; he can neither exercise authority over the jury nor control their deliberations. 53 Am J1st Trials § 849.

See foreman of grand jury.

foreman of grand jury. A member of the grand jury appointed by the court to act as such, thus constituting him the organ through which their inquiries and proceedings are reported to the court, and upon whom particular duties are devolved which are distinct from the duties of the other members of the jury. Cody v State, 4 Miss (3 How) 27, 29.

forensic. Pertaining to or belonging to the courts. In the field of public discussion or debate.

forensic medicine. Medical jurisprudence, that is, the science of medicine as connected with law.

forensis. Same as forensic.

fore-rent. Same as forehand rent.

foreright. The first or preferred right to inherit; tile right of primogeniture.

foresaid. Aforesaid; previously mentioned in the same instrument.

foreseeable. The characteristic of an event making it one to be anticipated. 14 Am J2d Car § 914; 38 Am J1st Negl § 24.

foresight. Prudence in anticipation of an event, particularly one fraught with danger. 14 Am J2d Car § 914; 38 Am J1st Negl § 24.

foreshore. The territory lying between the lines of high water and low water, over which the tide ebbs and flows. 12 Am J2d Bound § 13.

forest. See forests.

forestage. Duties which were exacted by the royal foresters.

forestagium. Same as forestage.

forestal. Pertaining or relating to the royal forests.

[489]

forestall. To prevent something by anticipating it and taking obstructive tactics against it. To forestall the market.

See forestalling the market.

forestaller. A person who committed the ancient offense of forestalling the market. 36 Am J1st Monop etc. § 20. A tenant who by an ancient method of forestalling worked a disseisin of freehold rent either by besetting the way with force and arms or by threats of bodily violence so frightening the landlord as to keep him off the premises. See 3 Bl Comm 170.

forestalling the market. Buying victuals on their way to market before they reach it, with intent to sell them again at a higher price, or in dissuading persons from buying merchandise there; every practice or device by act, word, or news to enhance the price of victuals or other merchandise. 36 Am J1st Monop etc. § 20.

forestarius. Same as forester.

forest courts. Courts which were instituted for the government of the king's forests in different parts of England, and for the punishment of all injuries done to the king's deer or venison, to the vert or greensward, and to the covert in which the deer were lodged. These were the courts of attachments, of regard, of sweinmote, and of justice-seat. See 3 Bl Comm 71.

forester. One of the officers of the king who had charge of the royal forests and of the wild game therein.

forest law. The laws pertaining to the royal forests.

See Charta de Foresta; disafforest. forest liberties. The royal grant of the right or privilege of hunting in royal forests.

forest products. Logs, timber, lumber, turpentine, tar, etc.

forest reserves. National Forest Areas of the United States, under supervision and control of the Forest Service of the Department of Agriculture; state forests in areas reserved from private acquisition, developed and maintained in the interests of conservation and recreation.

forests. Woodlands. In an earlier time in England, waste grounds belonging to the king, replenished with all manner of beasts of chase or venery and under the king's protection, for the sake of his royal recreation and delight. For the preservation of the king's game, there are particular laws, privileges, courts and offices belonging to the king's forests. See 2 Bl Comm 38, 289.

See beasts of the forest; drift of the forest; logs; timber.

Forest Service. A federal agency under the Department of Agriculture, exercising authority over National Forest Areas, National Grasslands, land utilization projects, and other special areas, and engaging in the acquisition of land for National Forests.

forethought. See aforethought; malice aforethought.

forethought felony. Premeditated felony; felony previously planned.

forever. A word not necessarily inconsistent with the grant of a life estate, where it appears in the granting clause of a deed. Johnson v Barden, 86 Vt 19, 83 A 721. A word ineffective in the grant of an estate to vest more than a life estate, in the absence of a limitation to "heirs." 28 Am J2d Est § 14.

forfang. The recaption of goods which have been stolen; a reward paid for the return of stolen goods.

forfault. Same as forfeit.

forfaulture. Same as forfeiture.

forfeit. Verb: To lose, particularly in consequence of a default or an offense. 36 Am J2d Forf & P § 3. Noun: That which is forfeited or lost by neglect of duty, or, in other words a fine, a mulct, a penalty, a forfeiture. State v Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. (Md) 12 Gill & J 399.

See forfeiture.

forfeiment. Same as forfeiture.

forfeiture. A word often used as a synonym of "penalty" but which is, precisely, a divestiture of property without compensation, in consequence of a default or an offense, 36 Am J2d Forf & P § 1; an enforced and involuntary loss of a right. Storm v Barbara Oil Co. 177 Kan 589, 282 P2d 417.

A judicial act, such as the forfeiture of a bail bond or recognizance. Re Wright, 228 NC 584, 46 SE2d 696. An incident of the old attainder whereby, as a form of punishment for crime, the estate of a convicted felon was extinguished, the property going to the king. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 616. An incident of attainder consequent upon the flight of a felon. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 91.

forfeiture by alienation. The forfeiture of land to the crown by the alienation of it to a stranger. See 2 Bl Comm 274.

forfeiture of bail. The consequence of a breach of the condition of a bail bond, particularly, the failure of the surety to deliver the principal into the custody of the proper officer of the law, or to procure his attendance in court, as required by the bond. 8 Am J2d Bail § 139.

forfeiture of bond. A breach of condition in consequence of which the obligee is entitled to declare a forfeiture.

See forfeiture of bail.

forfeiture of insurance. See nonforfeiture provisions.

forfeiture of lease. The forfeiture of a leasehold at common law, as in the case of a disclaimer of title, by virtue of a statutory provision, or under a clause in the lease providing for a forfeiture upon breach of covenant or condition. 32 Am J1st L & T § 847.

forfeiture of marriage. A forfeiture or penalty exacted of a ward in chivalry for marrying without the consent of his guardian.

forfeiture of mining claim. The loss of the right to a mining claim consequent to the failure to perform conditions imposed by law, particularly the condition requiring the performance of annual development work. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 115.

forfeiture of mining lease. The forfeiture of a mining lease for nonpayment of rent or the breach of other conditions of the lease. 36 Am J1st Min & M §§ 58 et seq. The forfeiture of a mining lease of property constituting public lands of the United States for default in nonpayment of royalty or the violation of other provisions of the lease. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 141.

Forfeitures Abolition Act. An English statute enacted in 1876 which abolished the forfeiture of property as a punishment for felony.

forfeng. Same as forfang.

[490]

forgavel. A small rent which was payable in money.

forge. To shape by beating, particularly metal. In law, to fabricate an instrument by imitation with intent to defraud. People v Mitchell, 92 Cal 590, 28 P 597; State v Sotak, 100 W Va 652, 131 SE 706, 46 ALR 1523, 1526. To commit a forgery.

See forgery.

forged check. In common parlance, a check upon which the maker's name is forged. Kleinman v Chase Nat. Bank, 124 Misc 173, 207 NYS 191.

forged deed. A deed of conveyance to which the grantor's name has been forged, such instrument being absolutely void and wholly ineffectual to pass title, even to a subsequent innocent purchaser. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 139.

forgery. A criminal offense at common law and under statutes defining the term variously. 36 Am J2d Forg § 1. Essentially, the false making or material alteration, with intent to defraud, or, under some statutes, intent to injure. (Green v State (Fla) 76 So 2d 645, 49 ALR2d 847), of any writing which, if genuine, might apparently be of legal efficacy or the foundation of a legal liability. 36 Am J2d Forg § 1.

For the purposes of a policy of forgery insurance: an act which, under applicable principles of criminal law, will amount to the crime of forgery. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1339. Of course, where a policy insuring against "forgery" contains its own definition of the term, such definition rather than a technical definition of the crime of forgery will prevail. Anno: 52 ALR2d 209.

Falsification of a paper or the making of a false paper of legal efficacy apparently capable of effecting a fraud and a fraudulent intent are essentials of the offense of forgery; and the falsity of the writing relates to the want of genuineness in its making and not to the truth or falsity of the statements contained therein. To constitute forgery, the name signed on writings designed and used as instruments of fraud need not be identical with that of the person whose signature it purports to be, but merely idem sonans; and the use of a recurrent middle initial not in the simulated signature is not a fatal variance. Peoples Bank & T. Co. v Fidelity & Casualty Co. 231 NC 510, 57 SE2d 809, 15 ALR2d 996.

forgiveness. See condonation; reconciliation.

for good cause. See good cause.

forgotten invention. An art or device which has been forgotten, thereby becoming unknown and of no use to society. 40 Am J1st Pat § 38.

forgotten notice doctrine. A rule applicable where one taking a negotiable instrument contends that he did not have notice of an infirmity in the instrument at that time, although he had such notice at a prior time, the principle being that a lapse of memory or inadvertent omission to look for the notice is mere negligence, not bad faith destroying the taker's status as a holder in due course. 11 Am J2d B & N § 429.

forgotten property. Property of which the owner has no recollection.

See mislaid property.

for hire. A test applied in determining the character of a company as a public utility; a test by which a mutual company furnishing telephone service without profit held not to be a public utility. State ex rel. Buffum Tel. Co. v Public Service Com. 272 Mo 627, 199 SW 962, PUR1918C 158.

See for compensation; for hire or compensation.

for hire or compensation. In reference to a motor vehicle:—a vehicle operated to carry passengers or freight of other persons for a direct charge, not a vehicle used for the delivery of one's own property or products. 7 Am J2d Auto § 74.

Transactions in which a company delivering goods to customers outside the city makes a direct charge to them for the cost of transportation are within the contemplation of a statute requiring the licensing or registration of motor vehicles for hire or compensation. Collins-Dietz-Morris Co. v State Corp. Com. 154 Okla 121, 7 P2d 123, 10 ALR 561.

forinsecus. Same as forinsic.

forinsic. Foreign; outside; extrinsic; external.

foris. Outside; without; abroad; foreign.

forisbanitus. Banished; exiled.

forisfacere. To forfeit.

Forisfacit omnia quae juris sunt. He has forfeited all of his legal rights.

Forisfacit patriam et regnum, et exul efficitur. He has forfeited his country and his kingdom and has been made an exile.

Forisfacit utlagatus omnia quae pads sunt. An outlaw forfeits all things which pertain to peace.

forisfacta. Lands and goods whereof the property is gone away or departed from the owner; that is, which have been forfeited to the king for offenses. The underlying reason for such forfeitures appears to be that since the individual has derived his property from society, as a right conferred upon him in exchange for the natural freedom which he relinquishes as a member of society, it is just that for good cause the state should resume the property which the laws had assigned to him. See 1 Bl Comm 299.

forisfactum. Singular of forisfacta.

forisfactura. Same as forfeiture.

forisfactura maritagii. See de forisfactura maritagii.

forisfactus. A person who has forfeited his life; a felon.

forisfamiliaratus. A son provided for by his father in the latter's lifetime instead of inheriting after his father's death. See 2 Bl Comm 220.

forisfamiliaratus. Same as forisfamiliaratus. forisjudicatio. Same as forejudger. forisjudicatus. Forejudged.

See forejudge.

forisjurare. To forswear; to abjure, to renounce by oath.

forjudge. Same as forejudge.

forjurer. Same as forisjurare.

fork. A term unfamiliar in present usage for the practice of delaying the progress of litigation against joint defendants by entering appearances at intervals instead of all at once.

[491]

form. The antithesis of substance; the appearance or superficial aspect rather than the substance or the essence. State v Japone, 202 Iowa 450, 455, 209 N W 468, 471. Shape or configuration of a body; the figure as defined by lines and surfaces. See Sherill v O'Brien, 188 NY 185, 81 NE 124. A printed or typed formulary contract or other instrument with blank spaces for the insertion of the names of the parties and such other particulars as may be required to make it a complete instrument. Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. v Welch, 71 Okla 59, 175 P 45, 48. A printed or typed composition of allegations typical of a particular kind of a pleading, motion, court order, or judgment, containing blanks for the insertion of the names of parties and allegations required to adapt the composition to use in a particular case.

See common form; matter of form.

forma. Form.

See modo et forma; pro forma.

Forma dat esse. Form imparts existence.

Forma dat esse rei. The form of the thing imparts to it its existence. District of Columbia v Bailey, 171 US 161, 178, 43 L Ed 118, 126, 118 S Ct 868.

forma et figura judicii. The forms and shapes of judgment or judicial action. See 3 Bl Comm 271.

formal conclusion. A conclusion drawn by the court in the exercise of its legal judgment as a basis of the decision in the case. 53 Am J1st Trial § 1132. The concluding statement in a special verdict that "if on the facts found, the law is with the plaintiff, then we find for the plaintiff; if the law is with the defendant, then we find for the defendant." 53 Am J1st Trial § 1092.

formal contract. A written contract duly executed, also under seal where a seal is required by law.

formaldehyde. An organic compound oxidation product of alcohol. St. Louis v Schuler, 190 Mo 524, 89 SW 621. In solution, a disinfectant and preservative.

Forma legalis forma essentialis. Legal form is essential form.

formal error. Harmless error. 5 Am J2d A & E § 776.

formalities. The prescribed robes of office.

formality. Adherence to forms and customs.

formal party. A classification of parties to an action. A nominal party rather than a necessary or indispensable party. Minnis v Southern Pacific Co. (CA9 Cal) 98 F2d 913. A person having no interest in the subject matter of the action but whose joinder as a party is required by statute. Tregear v Etiwanda Water Co. 76 Cal 537, 18 P 658.

Forma non observata, infertur adnullatio actus. If form is not observed, it is inferred that the act is a nullity.

forma pauperis. See in forma pauperis.

form a quorum. See quorum.

formata brevia. Same as brevia formata.

formed action. An action in which a set form of words has been established or prescribed.

formed design. A plan or course of conduct deliberately conceived with premeditation. Lang v State, 84 Ala 1.

formedon. An ancient writ of right which lay to recover lands according to the form of a gift or grant in tail.

formedon in the descender. A writ which lay where a gift in tail was made, and the tenant in tail aliened the lands entailed, or was disseised of them and then died. In such a case the heir in tail had his writ of formedon in the descender to recover these lands so given in tail against him who was then the actual tenant of the freehold. See 3 Bl Comm 192.

formedon in the remainder. A writ which a remainderman had against a stranger who intruded and kept him out of possession of land upon the death of the tenant for life or in tail without issue inheritable. See 3 Bl Comm 192.

formedon in the reverter. A writ which a reversioner had where there was a gift in tail, and then by the death of the donee or his heirs without issue of his body the reversion fell in upon the donor, his heirs or assigns. See 3 Bl Comm 192.

former. Prior in point of time.

See terms and expressions beginning "prior", such as prior adjudication; prior jeopardy; prior testimony.

formerly. See heretofore. formido periculi. The fear of danger.

form of action. The designation by which an action is known in the law, as trover, trespass, assumpsit, an action ex delicto or an action ex contractu.

While technical forms of action have been abolished in most jurisdictions, leaving only one form of action in civil suits, known as the "civil action," in all jurisdictions, the fundamental and substantial distinctions upon which the old common-law forms of actions were based, remain. 1 Am J2d Actions § 5.

formula. A set or prescribed form of words which remains in use but has lost its original meaning, having become a merely conventional expression. A list of ingredients and directions for preparing or compounding a food or medicine. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 3.

formulae. Plural of formula.

Formulary. An official list of medicines with description of method of compounding. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 1.

fornagium. Same as furnage.

fornication. At common law, the act of illicit intercourse by a man, married or single, with an unmarried woman; more broadly defined by modern authorities as illicit sexual intercourse, whether between married or unmarried persons. 2 Am J2d Adult § 1. Particularly defined by some authority as the living together and having intercourse with each other, or habitual intercourse without living together, of a man and a woman, neither of whom is married. 2 Am J2d Adult § 1.

The word is derived from the Latin word "fornix," which originally meant the forceps of a beetle, then an arch, then an underground vault or cavern, then a brothel, because in Roman cities brothels were kept in underground vaults or caverns. A "fornicator," then, was one who carried on illicit sexual intercourse in a brothel or for hire; that is, what we now term a "prostitute." State v Phillips, 26 ND 206, 144 NW 94.

[492]

fornication statutes. Modern statutes which place fornication in the catalogue of crimes. 2 Am J2d Adult § 8.

fornicator. See fornication.

fornix. A brothel; a house of prostitution.

forno. An oven; a bakehouse.

foro. In the forum; within the jurisdiction; in the court.

foro seculari. In the secular court.

for other purposes. A phrase in the title of a statute which calls attention to provisions in the body of the statute germane to the general subject, although not referred to expressly in the title. 50 Am J1st Stat § 175.

for own use. A limitation or restriction.

For meaning of term as it pertains to the rights and duties of a life tenant with power to anticipate or enjoy the principal, see Anno: 2 ALR 1266.

for plaintiff. See verdict for plaintiff.

forprise. Something withheld; an exception or reservation in a grant or conveyance.

for public use. As a test of the character of a company as a public utility:—of or belonging to the people; open to all the people to the extent of the capacity of the plant. State Public Utilities Com. v Monarch Refrigerator Co. 267 Ill 528, 108 NE 716.

for purpose of argument. A phrase often used in qualifying a concession. 5 Am J2d A & E § 712.

Forrester intoximeter test. An alcohol breath test used to determine intoxication. 7 Am J2d Auto § 332.

for so long as he shall occupy. A phrase which gives a life estate. 28 Am J2d Est § 63.

forsque. Only; but.

forstal. Same as forestall.

forstellarius. A forestaller.

Forstellarius est pauperum depressor, et totius communitatis et patriae publicus inimicus. A forestaller is an oppressor of the poor and is a public enemy of the whole community and the country.

forswear. To abjure; to swear falsely; to commit perjury.

forsworn. Having made a false statement under oath; sometimes, but not necessarily, the committing of perjury. Sheely v Biggs (Md) 2 Harr & J 363.

fort. A place, usually a location having some natural advantages pertinent to the purpose, equipped for defense against an attacking force and protected by heavy walls or embankments of earth. United States v Tichenor (CC Or) 12 F 415, 424.

fortax. To tax heavily or immoderately.

forthcoming. An action to carry out an arrestment.

forthcoming bond. Same as delivery bond.

for the purpose and consideration stated. A formal clause in an acknowledgment. 1 Am J2d Ack § 77.

for the uses and purposes herein set forth. A formal clause in an acknowledgment. 1 Am J2d Ack § 77.

forthwith. With all reasonable diligence and dispatch. Within a reasonable time. As a limitation of time in a covenant for repairs contained in a lease:—with all reasonable celerity, not immediately. 32 Am J1st L & T § 800. As a limitation of time for the giving of a notice:—with reasonable promptness, 8 Am J2d Auto § 869; 32 Am J1st L & T § 800; with promptness according to the exigency of the occasion, such as the necessity of locating the person to receive notice. Northwestern Nat. Ins. Co. v Cohen, 138 Va 177, 121 SE 507.

fortia. Force; violence.

fortia frisca. Same as fresh force.

fortility. A fort; a stronghold; a castle.

fortior. Stronger; more forcible; greater; more powerful; more effective.

Fortior est custodia legis quam hominis. The custody of the law is stronger than that of man.

Fortior et equior est dispositio legis quam hominis. The disposition of the law is stronger and fairer than that of man. See Jackson v Gardner (NY) 8 Johns 393, 401.

Fortior et potentior est dispositio legis quam hominis. The disposition of the law is stronger and more powerful than that of man.

fortiori. See a fortiori; multo fortiori.

fortis. Strong; forcible; effective; powerful.

fortius contra proferentem. More strictly against the party offering. Dodge v Walley, 22 Cal 224, 228.

fortuit. Fortuitous; accidental; occurring by the arbitrament of chance.
See cas fortuit.

fortuitment. Same as fortuit.

fortuitous. Accidental. Zappala v Industrial Acci. Com.82 Wash 314, 144 P 54. Occurring by the arbitrament of chance.

fortuitous collision. An accidental collision of vessels without fault on either side. Peters v Warren Ins. Com. (US) 14 Pet 99, 112, 10 L Ed 371, 378.

fortuitous event. An accident; something happening by chance. Stertz v Industrial Ins. Com. 91 Wash 588, 158 P 256.

No sound distinction can be made between those injuries to employees resulting from accident and those resulting from some fortuitous event. See Zappala v Industrial Acci. Com. 82 Wash 314, 144 P 54.

fortuitum. See forum fortuitum.

fortunam faciunt iudicem. They make fortune or chance the judge.

forty. A word in common use, especially in the middle west and west, to designate a quarter of the quarter section of land, that is, a forty acre tract.

forty-days court. One of the ancient English forest courts.

fortunetelling. The craft of looking into the future and foretelling or predicting events to occur, particularly those which bear upon the life of a particular person. 36 Am J2d Fortunetelling § 1.

[493]

forum. A court; a tribunal; a jurisdiction; a place where justice is administered; the place of jurisdiction.
See law of the forum.

forum actus. The place of jurisdiction over the act.

forum conscientiae. The court or forum of conscience; a term sometimes used to characterize a court of equity.

forum contractus. The forum of the contract, the place where the contract is entered into.

forum domesticum. A domestic forum or jurisdiction.

forum domicilii. The forum of domicile; the place or jurisdiction where a man resides and has the right to be sued.

forum domicilii actoris. The forum or jurisdiction of the plaintiff's domicile.

forum domicilii rei. The forum or jurisdiction of the domicile of the defendant.

forum ecclesiasticum. An ecclesiastical court or forum.

forum fortuitum. The forum of chance; that is, the jurisdiction in which the action happens to be filed.

forum ligeantiae actoris. The forum of the plaintiff's allegiance that is the court or forum of the country to which the plaintiff owes allegiance.

forum ligeantiae rei. The forum of the defendant's allegiance; that is, the court or forum of the country to which he owes allegiance.

forum litis motae. The forum or jurisdiction in which the action is brought.

forum non conveniens. (Latin.) The doctrine or principle that where, in a broad sense, the ends of justice strongly indicate that the controversy may be more suitably tried elsewhere, jurisdiction should be declined and the parties relegated to relief to be sought in another forum. Universal Adjustment Corp. v Midland Bank, 281 Mass 303, 184 NE 152, 87 ALR 1407. The doctrine that an American court has power to decline to assume jurisdiction where the litigation is between aliens or nonresidents, or can more appropriately be conducted in a foreign tribunal. Canada Malting Co. v Paterson Steamships, 258 US 413, 76 L Ed 837, 52 S Ct 413.

forum originis. The forum or jurisdiction in which the person was born.

forum regis. The king's court.

forum rei. The forum of the defendant; that is, the forum or jurisdiction of the residence of the defendant; also the forum or jurisdiction of the subject matter of the action.

forum rei gestae. The forum or jurisdiction where the act was done or committed.

forum rei sitae. The forum or jurisdiction where the subject matter of the action is situated.

forum saeculare. A secular court, as distinguished from an ecclesiastical court.

for value. For consideration.

See purchaser for value; trust for value.

for value received. An admission of the receiving of value by way of consideration. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 659. Importing, where used in a contract, that the promisor did receive something of some value. Sullivan v Lear, 23 Fla 463. Importing, where used in a deed, a consideration sufficient to raise a use in the bargainee. Jackson ex dem. Hudson v Alexander (NY) 3 Johns 484.

See having received full value; value received.

forward. Adverb: Onward; toward the front. Adjective: Advanced; precocious. Verb: To dispatch; to transmit; in one sense, to put something on its way to an ultimate destination, not including the idea of completing a delivery. Nicoletti v Bank of Los Banos, 190 Cal 637, 214 P 51, 27 ALR 1479, 1483. In reference to the obligation of a receiving carrier:—To undertake under the terms of the contract with the shipper for through transportation to a point beyond the carrier's own line. 14 Am J2d Car § 691.

See forwarder.

forwarder. A lawyer who sends an item of business accepted from a client to another lawyer, usually a lawyer at a distance, who, by reason of jurisdictional considerations or of proximity to a party or the subject matter of the business, can handle it more expeditiously. 7 Am J2d Attys § 259. One who, without owning or controlling the actual means of carriage, such as ships, railroad cars, etc., arranges for the transportation of the goods of a consignor in the ships or vehicles of an actual carrier. Anno: 141 ALR 919; 93 L Ed 831.

With the appearance of the practice by railroad companies of offering shippers greatly reduced freight rates for shipments in carload quantities, a modern concept of the term "forwarder" arose, as one who picked up the less-than-a-carload shipment at the shipper's place of business and engaged to deliver it safely at its ultimate destination, charging a rate covering the entire transportation and making its profit by consolidating the shipment with others in carload quantities to take advantage of the spread between the carload rates paid by him to the railroad company and the higher rates, approximating less-than-carload rates, which he charged the various shippers. United States v Chicago Heights Trucking Co. 310 US 344, 84 L Ed 1243, 60 S Ct 931.

Forwarder Act. A federal statute which subjects freight forwarders and their operations to the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission. 49 USC §§ 1001 et seq.; Anno: 93 L Ed 831.

forwarder's receipt. The receipt for goods given by a forwarder. Another term for bill of lading.

forwarding. See forwarder.

forwarding bank. A bank which transmits an item for collection to another bank.

forwarding fee. The part of the fee for handling a matter of legal business forwarded by one attorney to another attorney to which the forwarder is entitled. 7 Am J2d Attys § 259.

forwarding suit papers. The obligation of one insured under an automobile liability policy, arising under a co-operation clause or an express provision of the policy, which requires the insured to forward immediately to the insurer every demand, notice, summons, other process, or pleadings received by him or his representative in connection with a claim made or suit brought against him based upon a liability alleged to arise out of the use and operation of the vehicle covered by the policy. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 185.

[494]

forwards and backwards at sea. From port to port in the course of the voyage.

for whom it may concern. A phrase which, appearing in an insurance policy, may extend the protection to any person having an insurable interest and within the contemplation of the parties at the time of the execution and delivery of the policy. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 241.

fossa. A ditch; a grave; a water hole where female felons were drowned; a castle moat.

fossage. A tax or duty paid by the inhabitants of a town for the upkeep of a moat surrounding the town.

fossagium. Same as fossage.

fossatorium operatio. Work or service performed on moats or ditches.

fossatum. A ditch; a dyke; a moat.

fossway. One of the ancient roads constructed by the Romans in England.

fosterage. The rearing of the child of another as one's own.

foster-child. The child of another who is being reared by a person as his or her own.

fosterland. Land which has been assigned or set apart for the support of a person or an institution.

fosterlean. Remuneration given to a foster-parent for the rearing of a foster-child.

foster-parent. One who is rearing the child of another as his or her own.

See adoptive parent.

foto-patrol. A device, similar to the photo-traffic camera, for measuring the speed of an automobile, operating on an electronic impulse which activates a light and a camera. People v Pett, 13 Misc 2d 975, 178 NYS2d 550.

See photo-traffic camera.

fouage. Same as fuage.

fouling waters. Corrupting waters. 56 Am J1st Wat §§ 405 et seq.

found. Room and board. Past tense of verb "find": Determined as a fact or facts; a finding made. Discovered or ascertained, as where, for jurisdictional purposes, a corporation is "found" to be doing business in a given judicial district. Haskell v Aluminum Co. of America (DC Mass) 14 F2d 864.

See finding of fact; office found.

foundation. A support, as of a building. The preliminary basis required for the admission of certain evidence.

A term often applied in modern times to a charitable organization, especially where a large fund of money is involved in the dispensing of charity. The endowment of a charitable or educational institution.

founded on statute. A proposition of law for which a statute is cited or which involves the application of statute. Compagnie Transatlantique v United States (DC NY) 21 F2d 465.

founded upon contract. Any action based on a contract which requires the support of the contract to sustain it. Republic Iron Mining Co. v Jones (CC Ga) 37 F 721.

founder. The person who makes the first gift for the foundation of a college, a hospital or other eleemosynary institution. In the sense that the king alone could incorporate a society, he was called the founder of all corporations. See 1 Bl Comm 481.

founderosa. Founderous; out of repair; in need of repair.

foundling. A child of very tender years abandoned by unknown parents. Anno: 16 ALR 1027.

foundling home. A charitable institution for the care of abandoned children.

fountain-pen gun. A weapon for the discharge of tear gas, of such size as to be carried easily and secretly. Bates v Taylor, 115 W Va 4, 174 SE 485, 92 ALR 1093.

fourcher. To fork,—a practice of delaying the progress of a litigation against two or more defendants by entering their appearances at intervals instead of all at once.

fourching. Delaying a litigation.

four corners. A figurative expression signifying the whole face of an instrument, omitting nothing in arriving at its meaning and intent.

four seas. The four seas surrounding the British Isles.

See beyond the four seas.

Fourteenth Amendment. The amendment to the Constitution of the United States which extends citizenship to all persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, and contains the due process and equal protection clauses.

fourteen-year-old child. See child of fourteen.

fourth branch of government. The administrative agencies. 1 Am J2d Admin L § 11.

fourth class mail. See parcel post.

fourth-degree manslaughter. See manslaughter.

Fourth of July. See Independence Day.

four unities. Essentials in the creation and existence of an estate by the entirety; interest; title, time, and possession. Anno: 44 ALR2d 603.

fowl. Domesticated birds, especially large birds used for food; poultry. In one sense, any bird. Domestic fowl and wild fowl, the distinction being whether the fowl has been tamed and subjected so as to constitute property. 4 Am J2d Ani § 12.

fowls of warren. Wild fowl which were protected from promiscuous killing by the English forest laws. These fowls were of three classes, campestres, as partridges, rails and quails; sylvestres, as woodcocks and pheasants; and aquatiles, as mallards and herons. See 2 Bl Comm 38, note.

fox hunt. Literally, a hunt for a fox. In popular usage, an elaborate enterprise with social significance, referring to a group of riders from a hunt club or assembled by invitation, mounted on wellbred horses known as "hunters," and following hounds directed by a master of the hunt in pursuit of a fox raised from cover or one turned loose for the purpose of chasing him.

[495]

fox raising and pelting. Agricultural labor. Fromm Bros. v United States (DC Wis) 35 F Supp 145.

foy. Fealty; fidelity; allegiance.

See en bonne foy.

f.p. Abbreviation of fire policy, also of floating policy.

FPC. Abbreviation of Federal Power Commission.

See Power Commission.

fr. Abbreviation of fractional, often used in descriptions of real estate.

fractio. A fraction; a fragment; a fractional part; a division.

fraction. A quantity less than the whole of something, expressed as a decimal or by numerator and denominator. A fragment; a fragmentary part of a whole, disconnected and distinct within itself, rather than an undivided interest; a several, not a joint, interest. Jory v Palace Dry-goods & Shoe Co. 30 Or 196, 46 P 786.

fractional. Small, comprising no more than a fraction of the whole.

fractional lot. A city or village lot containing an area less than that of the normal lot laid out by a survey.

fractional part. A fraction of an entire unit.

A conveyance of a fractional part of a designated tract of land, without specifying the location within the tract, is construed as conveying an undivided interest to the extent of the fraction. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 246.

fractional section. A section of land laid off in the governmental survey with less than the normal 640 acres, by way of allowance for the convergence of the meridians in running toward the pole.

See fraction of section.

fractional share. A fractional part of a share of corporate stock, such being nonvoting, except as voting has been authorized by statute. Commonwealth ex rel. Cartwright v Cartwright, 350 Pa 638, 40 A2d 30, 155 ALR 1088.

fractionem diei non recipet lex. The law does not recognize fractions of a day.

fraction of a day. A fractional part of a day. A division of a day; a half-day; an hour or a minute.

At common law, fractions of a day are generally rejected in computing the time for the performance of an act. 52 Am J1st Time § 15.

The maxim that there are no fractions of a day is a fiction of law, and when it is material to distinguish, the truth may be shown; for a fiction of law, introduced for the sake of convenience and justice, ought never to be allowed to work a wrong; thus, when it is necessary to determine the priority of two attachments, the precise time of each attachment may be shown; and so in many other cases. Westbrook Manufacturing Co. v Grant, 60 Me 88.

fraction of section. A fraction of a section of land as laid out by the government survey, designated in words or figures, for example, "northeast quarter" or "NE4"

Throughout those portions of the United States in which the government system of land surveys is used, initials of the points of the compass, followed by the figure "2" or the figure "4," are employed to describe fractional portions of a 640-acre section of land, the figure "4," written as above, meaning one quarter, and the figure "2," thus written, meaning one half; thus E2 NE4 sec. 10 means eighty acres comprising the east half of the northeast quarter of section 10. Power v Bowdle, 3 ND 107, 54 NW 404.

See fractional section.

fractura navium. The breaking up of ships; shipwrecks.

fracture. A break, crack, or split in a bone. A crack or break in a steam boiler. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1365.

See Pott's fracture.

fragentibus prisonam. See de fragentibus prisonam.

fragmentary appeals. Successive appeals from the same decision. 4 Am J2d A & E § 49.

frais. Costs; expenses; charges.

frais de justice. Costs incurred in an action; costs of suit.

frame. Verb: To give a shape to something. To put a border around something, e.g. a picture. To draft the outline of a constitution or a form of government. Frieszleben v Shallcross 14 Del (9 Houst) 1, 19 A 576. A term on the border between slang and accepted usage for producing a case to convict an accused, without scruples as to the propriety or the trustworthiness of the evidence offered.

franc. Free. The standard unit of the currency of France, also of Switzerland and Belgium.

franc aleu. Free land; allodial land; land held free from any service to a superior.

franchilanus. A freeman; a free tenant.

franchise. In the most general sense of the term, a right or privilege conferred by law, e.g. the right to vote. 23 Am J2d Franch § 2. A privilege conferred by law upon a corporation or an individual which permits the recipient to make use of a street or public place in an activity or operation which, except for the grant of the franchise, would constitute a wrong or trespass. People ex rel. New York C. & H. R. Co. v Gourley, 198 NY 486, 92 NE 398. In a narrower sense, the privilege of doing something which does not belong to all citizens as a matter of common right. 23 Am J2d Franch § 2; a privilege or immunity of a public nature which cannot be legally exercised without a legislative grant. 23 Am J2d Franch § 2. A special privilege, conferred by the state on an individual, which did not theretofore exist and which does not belong to the individual as a matter of right. Madden v Queens County Jockey Club, 296 NY 249, 72 NE2d 697, 1 ALR2d 1160. A grant to a public service corporation or public utility conferring the right to carry on business, which, when accepted by the grantee, constitutes a contract between the parties by which their rights and obligations are to be determined in accordance with its terms and conditions. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 16.

A primary corporate franchise, the result of a grant of special privileges to incorporators which enables them to act for certain designated purposes as a single individual and exempts them, unless otherwise specially provided, from individual liability; a secondary corporate franchise in the powers granted to a corporation by the sovereign and specified in its charter. 18 Am J2d Corp § 66.

See special franchise.

franchise taxes. Taxes in five classes:—(1) organization taxes, or fees exacted of domestic corporations for the grant of corporate powers; (2) excises levied periodically, usually annually, upon the franchise of domestic corporations; (3) excises charged foreign corporations for the privilege of entering and doing business within the state; (4) excises upon special privileges enjoyed by particular corporations; (5) ad valorem taxes on franchises as property. 51 Am J1st Tax § 809.

[496]

Francigena. A native of France; hence, an alien in the United States until naturalized.

franclaine. A freeholder; a freeman.

franc tenancier. A freeholder. francum.

See feudum francum.

francus. Free; a freeman.

francus bancus. Same as free bench.

francus homo. A freeman.

francus plegius. Same as frankpledge.

See frank-pledges.

francus tenens. A freeholder.

frank. Free. The privilege of sending mail matter without postage. The mark or indorsement used in exercising such privilege.

See franking privilege.

frankalmoign tenure. A form of land tenure whereby a religious corporation held lands of the donor to them and their successors forever. Tenure in free alms,—a Saxon tenure which survived the Norman revolution, and under which tenure an ecclesiastical corporation held land without fealty and merely by prayer service for the soul of the donor. See 2 Bl Comm 101.

frank bank. Same as free bench.

frank chase. Free chase,—the exclusive liberty or privilege of hunting within a prescribed area. The granting of such a liberty was a prohibition against the cutting of any wood on the land, even by the owner, without the consent of the king's forester. See 2 Bl Comm 39.

frank fee. A species of freehold tenure which was exempt from all services, but not from homage. Copyhold lands could be altered into frank fee by means of a fine levied in the king's court, but a writ of deceit lay to change it back to copyhold. See 2 Bl Comm 368, footnote.

frank ferme. A species of socage tenure which was exempt from homage, ward, marriage and relief, and with respect to which the nature of the fee was changed by feoffment out of chivalry or knight service for certain yearly services. See 2 Bl Comm 80.

frank fold. Same as faldage.

franking privilege. A privilege conferred by statute upon certain persons and certain classes of mail matter by virtue of which certain matters may be transmitted by mail without postage, subject to conditions prescribed in the statute. 39 USC §§ 321 et seq.

frank law. The aggregate rights of a freeman or a citizen.

franklyn. A freeholder; a freeman.

frank marriage. A species of entailed estate which was created when an estate-tail special was given to a man and his wife, the near relative of the donor, and to the heirs of their bodies to the fourth generation, free of all service but fealty. See Bl Comm 115.

frank-pledges. Free pledges. The tithings or decennaries of the Saxons were so called because each of the members of a tithing was a surety or free pledge to the king for the good behavior of the other members, and if any offense was committed in the district, they were bound to produce the offender. See 1 Bl Comm 114.

frank tenant. A freeholder.

frank tenement. A free tenement; a freehold.

frank tenure. Same as free tenure.

frassetum. A tract of wooded land.

frater. A brother.

frater consanguineus. A brother born of the same father, but a different mother.

frater fratri uterino non succedet in haereditate paterna. A brother shall not succeed his uterine brother in the paternal inheritance. See 2 Bl Comm 233.

fraternal beneficial society. A mutual benefit society. As defined by statute in one jurisdiction, a corporation, society, or voluntary association, organized and carried on for the sole benefit of its members, and their beneficiaries, and not for profit, and in which the payment of death benefits shall be for families, heirs, blood relatives, affianced husband or wife, or dependents. Lafferty v Supreme Council Catholic Mot. Ben. Asso. 259 Pa 452, 103 A 280.

See mutual benefit society.

fraternal benefit society. See mutual benefit society.

fraternal insurance. Mutual life, accident, and health insurance which is issued to their members by fraternal orders or societies.

fraternal order or society. An organization of men created and maintained for the improvement of its members by instruction through rituals and lectures in the principles of true brotherhood, real charity, and loyalty to country, for fellowship, and for aiding the widows and orphans of members, often by providing mutual benefit or fraternal insurance. Re Mason Tire & Rubber Co. 56 App DC 170, 11 F2d 556.

fraternia. A fraternity; a brotherhood.

fraternity. A fraternal order or society; an organization of college students, usually providing living quarters for the members. An organization of highschool students.

See fraternal order or society.

frater nutrients. A bastard brother.

frater uterinus. A uterine brother,—a brother by the mother's side; that is one who had the same mother but a different father. See 2 Bl Comm 232.

fratriage. Inheritance by a younger brother.

fratricide. The killing of a brother or a sister; a person who kills a brother or a sister.

fraud. Deceit, deception, artifice, or trickery operating prejudicially on the rights of another, and so intended, by inducing him to part with property or surrender some legal right. 23 Am J2d Fraud § 2. Anything calculated to deceive another to his prejudice and accomplishing the purpose, whether it be an act, a word, silence, the suppression of the truth, or other device contrary to the plain rules of common honesty. 23 Am J2d Fraud § 2. An affirmation of a fact rather than a promise or statement of intent to do something in the future. Miller v Sutliff, 241 111 521, 89 NE 651.

[497]

For the purpose of the exception to discharge in bankruptcy of debts incurred by officers and fiduciaries through "fraud":—positive fraud, fraud in fact, involving moral turpitude or intentional wrong. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 801. As a ground for annulment of a marriage:—concealment or deception affecting the free consent of the injured party, involving such matters as identity, birth, rank, family, fortune, health, character, morality, habits, temper, reputation, etc. 35 Am J1st Mar § 90.

See badge of fraud; constructive fraud; deceit; extrinsic fraud; fraudulent conveyance; legal fraud; misrepresentation; positive fraud.

fraud in equity. A conception of fraud which includes whatever amounts to actionable fraud in law and other acts, transactions, and circumstances, wherein it appears that one person has obtained an unconscionable advantage over another, from which equity conceives the existence of a constructive fraud. Gierth v Fidelity Trust Co. 93 NJ Equity 163, 115 A 397, 18 ALR 976.

fraud in the factum. Fraud exercised in reference to the manual acts of signing and delivering an instrument, sometimes by a substitution of documents accomplished by deception. Blackburn v Morrison, 29 Okla 510, 118 P 402. Gomillion v Forsythe, 218 SC 211, 62 SE2d 297, 53 ALR2d 169.

fraud in the inducement. Fraud exercised in inducing the signing of an instrument. Gomillion v Forsythe, 218 SC 211, 62 SE2d 297, 53 ALR2d 169.

fraud of creditors. See fraudulent conveyance.

fraud order. An order by the Postmaster General directing the return of mail to the sender upon finding that the addressee is engaged in conducting prohibited schemes, enterprises, or devices. 41 Am J1st P 0 § 97.

fraud or dishonesty. As a phrase expressive of the undertaking of the surety in a fidelity bond:—acts extending beyond those which are criminal; a phrase inclusive under a broad construction against a paid surety of acts and circumstances whereby loss is caused the obligee, even though not such as would support a criminal prosecution. Prior Lake State Bank v National Surety Corp. 248 Minn 383, 80 NW2d 612, 57 ALR2d 1306.

frauds, statute of. See Statute of Frauds. fraudulent. That which is done with intent to defraud. Luttrell v State, 85 Tenn 232.

See fraud.

fraudulent assignment. An assignment for the benefit of creditors made with intent to prevent the immediate application of the property to the payment of assignor's debts. 6 Am J2d Assign for Crs § 63.

fraudulent concealment. The suppression of, or silence concerning, a fact material to be known and which the party is under a duty to communicate because of a confidential relationship between the parties or the particular circumstances of the case. American Nat. Bank v Fidelity & Deposit Co. 131 Ga 854, 63 SE 622. As a bar to discharge in bankruptcy:—the failure of the bankrupt to disclose his property to his trustee in bankruptcy after having had reasonable opportunity so to do. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 695. As a criminal offense against the Bankruptcy Act:—knowingly to conceal from the receiver, custodian, trustee, marshal, or other officer of the court charged with the custody or control of property, or from creditors in any proceeding under the Bankruptcy Act, any property belonging to the estate of a bankrupt; to conceal property knowingly, in contemplation of a bankruptcy proceeding, with intent to defeat the bankruptcy law. 18 USC § 152, paragraphs (1),(6).

fraudulent contract of marriage. A ground of absolute divorce consisting of fraud perpetrated upon the plaintiff in inducing him or her to enter into a marriage which is void because of consanguinity, imbecility, or other circumstance rendering the marriage void from the beginning. Gould v Gould, 74 Conn 242, 61 A 604.

fraudulent conversion. An essential element of the crime of embezzlement, which may consist either of an appropriation of the money or other personal property to the personal use of the accused, that is, of his disposition of it for his own personal benefit and his own private business, or in putting it to some other use than a proper discharge of the trust imposed, or after obtaining lawful possession, in failing to account for or pay over on proper or lawful demand. Blake v State, 12 Okla Crim 549, 160 P 30. A conversion by a fiduciary made with intent to deprive the beneficiary of the money permanently, or at least until restoration should be compelled. United States v Summers (DC Va) 19 F2d 627.

fraudulent conveyance. A conveyance in fraud of creditors. A transaction by means of which the owner of real or personal property has sought to place the land or goods beyond the reach of his creditors, or which operates to the prejudice of their legal or equitable rights, or a conveyance which operates to the prejudice of the legal or equitable rights of other persons, including subsequent purchasers. 37 Am J2d Frd Conv § 1.

See Bulk Sales Acts; fraudulent transfer.

Fraudulent Conveyance Act. One of the uniform laws. 37 Am J2d Frd Conv § 3.

fraudulent disposition of property. A disposition of property with respect to which three things must concur:—first, the thing disposed of must be of value, out of which the creditor could have realized all, or a portion of his claim; second, it must be transferred or disposed of by the debtor, and, third, it must be done with intent to defraud. Hoyt v Godfrey, 88 NY 669, 670.

fraudulent-enlistment or appointment. The procuring of one's own enlistment or appointment in the armed forces by false representations or deliberate concealment as to his qualifications for the enlistment of appointment and receiving pay or allowances thereunder. 10 USC § 883. The effecting by one person of an enlistment or appointment in the armed forces of one known by him to be ineligible for such enlistment or appointment. 10 USC § 884.

fraudulent exchange. An exchange of property fraudulent as to the creditors of one of the parties. 37 Am J2d Frd Conv § 59.

fraudulent joinder. A plaintiff's joinder of a resident of the state as a party defendant without the right to do so and in bad faith, but in order to prevent a removal of the cause to the federal court. Good v Hartford Acci. & Indem. Co. (DC SC) 39 F Supp 475.

[498]

fraudulently. Acting with a deliberately-planned purpose and intent to deceive and thereby to gain an unlawful advantage. Bank of Montreal v Thayer (CC Iowa) 7 F 622, 625. A word insufficient in itself as an allegation of fraud, a sufficient allegation being nothing less than a statement of the fraudulent conduct. Garst v Hall & Lyon Co. 179 Mass 588, 61 NE 219.

fraudulent mortgage. A mortgage fraudulent as to the creditors of the mortgagor. 37 Am J2d Frd Conv § 58.

fraudulent practice. Literally, the practice of fraud that is, fraudulent conduct. In reference to conduct proscribed by a Blue Sky Law, all acts which have a tendency to deceive or mislead the purchasing public, whether or not they originate in an actual evil design or contrivance to perpetrate fraud or do injury to the rights of another person. People v Federated Radio Corp. 244 NY 33, 154 NE 65.

fraudulent preference. Giving a creditor an undue advantage over other creditors in securing his agreement to a composition. 15 Am J2d Comp Cred § 8. The act of a debtor in preferring one of his creditors by making payment to him with intent thereby to hinder, delay, or defraud other creditors. 37 Am J2d Frd Conv §§ 87 et seq.

A preferential transfer voidable under the Bankruptcy Act is not necessarily fraudulent. In the actual cases, however, a purpose to prefer, which is usually aimed at benefiting relatives or business associates, is important for consideration in determining whether there was also a purpose to defraud. Van Iderstine v National Discount Co. 227 US 575, 57 L Ed 652, 33 S Ct 343.

fraudulent representation. A representation proceeding from, or characterized by, fraud, and the purpose of which is to deceive. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 2. A representation that is knowingly untrue, or made without belief in its truth, or made recklessly, and, in any event, for the purpose of inducing action upon it. Clark v Haggard, 141 Conn 668, 109 A2d 358, 54 ALR2d 655.

fraudulent separation. The procuring of one's own separation from the armed forces by false representations or deliberate concealment as to his eligibility for separation. 10 USC § 883. The effecting by one person of the separation of another from the armed forces, knowing the latter to be ineligible for separation. 10 USC § 884.

fraudulent transfer. A transfer voidable in bankruptcy because made with actual intent to hinder, delay, or defraud existing or future creditors, or a transfer fraudulent in law, without reference to an actual fraudulent intent on the part of the bankrupt, because of the insolvency of the bankrupt at the time of the transfer and the absence of a fair consideration. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1115.

See fraudulent conveyance.

fraudulent use of process. A form of abuse of process; the use of legal process for a fraudulent purpose, as by attempting to enforce a judgment on a fictitious claim or the use of legal process as a mere cover for the creditors in obtaining property of the defendant in order to put it to their own use. I Am J2d Abuse P §§ 9-12.

fraudum legis. See in fraudum legis. fraunche. Free. Same as frank.

fraunchise. Same as franchise.

fraunke. Free. Same as frank, fraunke. ferme. Same as frank ferme.

fraunk homo. A freeman.

fraus. Fraud.

fraus dans locum contractui. Fraud inducing the making of the contract.

fraus est celare fraudem. It is fraud to conceal a fraud. Anno: 50 ALR 807.

fraus est odiosa, et non praesumenda. Fraud is odious and will not be presumed.

fraus et dolus nemini patrocinari debent. Fraud and deceit ought not to excuse anyone.

fraus et jus nunquam cohabitant. Fraud and justice never live together.

fraus latet in generalibus. Fraud lurks or lies hidden in generalities.

fraus legis. Fraud of the law; fraud upon the law.

fraus meretur fraudem. Fraud merits or begets fraud.

fray. An affray.

frectare. To freight; to load.

frectum. Freight.

frednite. Immunity or exemption from fine or amercement.

fredum. A payment made to obtain a pardon where the offense was breach of peace. A sum paid to a magistrate for protection against vengeance.

free. Without restraint or coercion; not enslaved; not bound; exonerated. Thrown open, or made accessible to all; to be enjoyed without limitations; unrestricted; not obstructed, engrossed, or appropriated; open for use or enjoyment without charge. Flaherty v Fleming, 58 W Va 669, 52 SE 857. Not subject to customs duty. 21 Am T2d Cust D § 36.

free alms. See frankalmoign; in libera eleemosyna.

free alongside steamer. Free alongside ship; a term in commercial usage which binds a seller to delivery of the goods to the buyer at the dock. Iwai & Co. v Hercules Powder Co. 162 Ga 795, 802, 134 SE 763.

Free Baptists. A religious body of the Baptist persuasion generally, characterized in particular by adherence to the doctrine of conditional election and reprobation as opposed to absolute predestination. Park v Champlin, 96 Iowa 55, 64 NW 674.

free bed. An endowed bed in a hospital or sanitorium. Kapiolani Maternity & G. Hospital v Wodehouse (CA9 Hawaii) 70 F2d 793.

free bench. A widow's dower in copyhold lands, which she usually held subject to the condition that she should remain chaste and unmarried. See 2 Bl Comm 129.

free-borough men. The inhabitants of a free burgh.

free burgh. A borough which had its charter rights from the crown.

free competition. A free and open market among both buyers and sellers for sale and distribution of commodities. Maple Flooring Mfrs. Asso. v United States, 268 US 563, 69 L Ed 1093, 45 S Ct 578. The requisite of the bidding at a judicial sale. 30A Am J Rev ed Jud S § 98.

[499]

free course. A vessel sailing with a favorable wind.

free delivery. A service rendered by some retail establishments.

See rural free delivery.

free delivery limits. The boundaries of the area within which a telegraph company will deliver messages without charge.
freedman. A person who has been freed from bondage, involuntary servitude or slavery. Slaughter House Cases (US) 16 Wall 36, 21 L Ed 395.

freedom. Liberty; absence of restraint.

See also liberty and phrases beginning "liberty."

freedom of contract. Same as liberty of contract.

freedom of movement. The right to travel-to go where and when one pleases-only so far restrained as the rights of others may make restraint necessary for the welfare of all other citizens. 16 Am J2d Const L § 359. The right of removal from one state to another. 16 Am J2d Const L § 478.

freedom of religion. A constitutional guaranty under the First Amendment, and the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, to the Constitution of the United States and the provisions of some state constitutions, embracing the two concepts of freedom to believe and freedom to act, the first being absolute and beyond interference by legislation, the second being subject to regulation to prevent acts subversive of the civil government or otherwise criminal. Oney v Oklahoma City (CA10 Okla) 126 F2d 861; 16 Am J2d Const L §§ 336 et seq. One of the liberties included within and protected by the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. Hamilton v Regents of the University of California, 293 US 245, 79 L Ed 343, 55 S Ct 197.

freedom of speech and of the press. A constitutional guaranty under the First Amendment, and the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, to the Constitution of the United States and provisions in many state constitutions, embracing the concept that free discussion is essential to the growth, development, and well being of our free society under a democratic form of government and should be limited by regulation only to prevent abuse of the right. 16 Am J2d Const L §§ 341 et seq.

Liberty and freedom of speech under the Constitution do not mean the unrestrained right to do and say what one pleases at all times and under all circumstances, and certainly they do not mean that, contrary to the will of Congress, one may make of the post office establishment an agency for the publication of his views of the character and conduct of others, as distinguished from the carriage of the mails. Warren v United States (CA8 Kan) 183 F 718.

freedom of the press. See freedom of speech and of the press.

free election. An election at which the voter is left in the untrammelled exercise, whether by civil or military authority, of his right or privilege,—that is, where no impediment or restraint of any character is imposed upon him either directly or indirectly whereby he is hindered or prevented from participation at the polls. 25 Am J2d Elect § 7. An election where the voters are subject to no intimidation or improper influence, and where every voter is allowed to cast his ballot as his own judgment and conscience dictate. Blue v State, 206 Ind 98, 188 NE 583, 91 ALR 334.

free employment agency. A state employment agency. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 761.

free fee. See feudum apertum.

free feud. See feudum francum.

free fishery. The exclusive liberty of taking and killing fish in a public stream or river. By an express provision of Magna Charta no new franchise of this liberty could be granted by the crown. See 2 Bl Comm 417.

free flow of labor. The right of a prospective employer to be free from unlawful interference with the employment of workmen who wish to enter his employment, not a right to employ workmen who for any reason do not wish to enter such employment. Boylston Housing Corp. v O'Toole, 321 Mass 538, 74 NEW 288, 172 ALR 1251.

freefold. Same as faldage.

free from average unless general. A limitation of liability in a marine insurance policy, having the same effect as the clause free from particular average. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1585.

free from particular average. A clause in a marine insurance policy used in a limitation of liability, generally defeating liability of the insurer for a partial loss. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1585.

free government. A government of the republican form, the powers of which are divided between departments, preferably, legislative, executive, and judicial, each of which is separate from the others, neither being subordinated to nor encroaching upon the functions of the others, and each operating as a check upon the activities of the others, thereby preventing the usurpation of absolute power by any one of the separate departments. Re Davies, 168 NY 89, 61 NE 118; State ex rel. Zillmer v Kreutzberg, 114 Wis 530, 90 NW 1098.

free handicap. A horse race as to which no liability for entrance fee or stake is incurred until acceptance of the weight allotted to the entry, either by direct acceptance or omission to declare the horse out of the race. Stone v Clay (CA7 111) 61 F 889.

freehold. Any estate of inheritance or for life, in either a corporeal or incorporeal hereditament, existing in, or arising from, real property of free tenure. 28 Am J2d Est § 8.

See freehold estate not of inheritance; freehold estate of inheritance.

freeholder. The owner of a freehold. One who owns lands, having an estate of inheritance or an estate for life, not merely a contingent or an expectant estate. State ex rel. Cain v Toomey, 27 SD 37, 129 N W 563. For the purpose of qualification as a voter in certain elections:—one having legal title to real estate or one in the possession and control of real estate as the apparent owner thereof. 25 Am J2d Elect § 80.

See chosen freeholders; freehold; freeholder voter of such city; resident freeholder.

freeholder voter of such city. As a qualification of the signer of a petition for a local option election:—a voter as well as a freeholder of the city, not including a voter of the city whose only land is located outside the city or a man who lives in the city but has no interest in real estate in the city other than the contingent or expectant interest of a husband in real estate owned by his wife. State ex rel. Cain v Toomey, 27 SD 37, 129 NW 563.

[500]

freehold estate. Same as freehold.

freehold estate not of inheritance. A freehold estate for the life of the grantee or some other person. 28 Am J2d Est § 8.

freehold estate of inheritance. A freehold estate in fee simple absolute, fee simple conditional, fee simple determinable or defeasible, and estates in fee tail. 28 Am J2d Est § 8.

freehold in law. A freehold to which a person is lawfully entitled, but upon which he has not entered.

freehold land societies. Societies formed for the assistance of workingmen in acquiring freeholds.

freehold tenure. Same as free tenure.

free justice. A constitutional guaranty against the sale of justice under the guise of exorbitant fees imposed on litigants or demands by judges for gratuities for giving or withholding decisions. 16 Am J2d Const L § 382.

free labor market. The right of one conducting a business or industry to have a free flow of labor for the purpose of carrying on the business or industry, such being not merely an abstract right, but one recognized as the basis of a cause of action where there is an unlawful interference therewith. L. D. Willcutt & Sons Co. v Driscoll, 200 Mass 110, 85 NE 897. A right to a market in which no compulsion is put upon the will of others a right to a market to which transactions proceed according to the ordinary laws of trade, without interference other than may be occasioned by the bona fide exercise of rights by others. Anno: 6 ALR 913, 16 ALR 230, 27 ALR 652, 32 ALR 779, 116 ALR 485.

free legal advice. A ground for disciplinary proceedings against an attorney at law when offered in an advertisement. Re Cohen, 261 Mass 484, 159 NE 495, 55 ALR 1309.

free list. A list of articles on the importation of which no duties are charged, contained in the former § 1201 of Title 19 of the United States Code.

In the present tariff schedules, the dutiable list and the free list are combined in 19 USC § 1202 by specifying, in the "rates of duty" columns, either the particular duty payable or the word "free."

freeman. One born free; one who has been freed from the bonds of slavery. A person in possession in all the civil rights to which a person may be entitled. McCafferty v Guyer, 59 Pa 109, 116. In the feudal period, a freeholder, as distinguished from a villein.

freeman's roll. A list of those persons who are entitled to participate in the government of a village.

Freemasons. See Masons.

free negro. See freedman; freeman; free woman of color.

free of average. See free from all average; free from average unless general.

free of duty. The characterization of an article which may be imported without payment of customs duty. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 36.

free on board. A commercial term, familiar in sales contracts under the abbreviation "f.o.b." which, where no place is designated, binds the seller to deliver the goods upon car, truck, or vessel at the usual place of shipping goods of the kind sold, without expense to the buyer for such delivery, but leaving to the buyer the responsibility for the payment of charges for the transportation from such point of delivery; and which means, where it appears as "F.o.b." point of destination, that the charges for delivery and transportation to the point of destination are to be paid by the seller. 46 Am J1st Sales § 188.

No agreement by the consignee of goods to pay the freight charges thereon will be implied from his acceptance of the goods from the carrier, where the goods have been purchased by the consignee under an agreement providing for their delivery "free on board" at the place of destination. 13 Am J2d Car § 475.

free on board acceptance final. A regulation adopted under the authority of the Secretary of Agriculture, whereunder a buyer accepting produce f.o.b. cars at shipping point is without recourse against a seller because of change in condition of the produce while in transit. Anne: 21 ALR2d 845.

free on board cars. A sale upon the terms that the subject of the sale is to be placed on the cars for shipment without any expense or act on the part of the buyer, and that as soon as so placed the title is to pass absolutely to the buyer, and the property be wholly at his risk, in the absence of any circumstances indicating a retention of such control by the seller as security for purchase money, by preserving the right of stoppage in transitu. Geogehan Sons & Co. v Arbuckle Bros. 139 Va 92, 123 SE 387, 36 ALR 399.

Sometimes construed as meaning merely that the seller is required to load the property for shipment without expense to the purchaser, not involving the matter of time of passing of title. Sadler Machinery Co. v Ohio Nat. Inc. (CA6 Ohio) 202 F2d 887, 38 ALR2d 649.

free pass. See pass.

free passage. The passage of vehicles in the ordinary course of traffic on the improved portion of the highway; a sufficient width of the improved portion of the highway left unobstructed to permit the passage of vehicles in separate adjacent lanes of traffic. Pugh v Akron-Chicago Transp. Co. 64 Ohio App 479, 18 Ohio Ops 211, 32 Ohio L Abs 159, 28 NE2d 1015, affd 137 Ohio St 164, 17 Ohio Ops 511, 28 NE2d 501.

free right of way. A right of way unobstructed by any act of the servient owner. Flaherty v Fleming, 58 W Va 669, 52 SE 857.

free services. See gratuitous services.

free ships. Ships of nations which are neutral during a war.

free socage. Tenure of land by services which were certain, free and honorable. See 2 Bl Comm 62.

free socmen. Tenants in free socage. See 2 Bl Comm 79.

freestone. A mineral. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 35. A stone fit for the facade or any exterior wall of a building because it is easily shaped or cut without splitting.

[501]

free tenure. Freehold tenure; tenure by free services; that is, by services which were becoming a freeman or a soldier. See 2 Bl Comm 62, 89, 90.

free textbooks. A means of aid to poor persons. 41 Am J1st Poor L § 32. A service in education in the public schools and high schools in many states, being applied without reference to financial circumstances of the parents of the recipients. 47 Am J1st Sch § 204.

free time. Hours or days not counted in determining liability for demurrage. 13 Am J2d Car § 482.

free transportation. The transportation of pupils to and from school at public expense. 47 Am J1st Sch § 160. Discrimination by a common carrier. 13 Am J2d Car § 204.

See pass.

free warren. The liberty, franchise or royalty, derived from the crown, of taking or killing all inferior species of game, called beasts and fowls of warren. See 2 Bl Comm 417.

freeway. A public highway, particularly, a superior or divided highway for fast movement of traffic, for the use of which there is no toll.

freewheeling. Coasting in an automobile, unimpeded by the motor. Anno: 78 ALR2d 231, § 6. A slang term for unrestrained action.

free white. See white person.

Free Will Baptists. See Free Baptists.

free woman of color. A female of African descent freed from slavery. Hearn v Bridault, 37 Miss 209.

freeze. An Act of God where unprecedented as to time or violence. 1 Am J2d Act of God § 5.

freezer. A device for freezing anything. A place for the preservation of meat or poultry where the temperature is kept below the freezing point,—from zero up to thirty-two degrees. Allen v Somers, 73 Conn 355, 47 A 653.

freezing. Subjecting something to freezing temperature, causing it to harden or solidify. Preserving the status quo—for example, prohibiting withdrawals from, or additions to, a fund in litigation.

fregit. See clausum fregit.

freight. A freight train. The load or cargo carried by a carrier by land or water. The charge or hire for a carrier's services in the transportation and delivery of property, 48 Am J1st Ship § 424; it is in such sense that the term appears in a marine insurance policy on "freight." 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1308.

See dead freight; lien for freight; local freight.

freight agent. An agent of a carrier authorized to receive freight and make contracts for transportation thereof at least over the line of the carrier and, under certain circumstances, over connecting lines in order to accomplish through transportation. 14 Am J2d Car § 690.

freight booking. The making, in advance, of specific arrangements for the transportation of goods by a particular vessel. Ocean S.S. Co. v Savannah Locomotive Works. 131 Ga 831, 837, 63 SE 577.

freight car. A railroad car for the transportation of goods, merchandise, and other property, not of passengers.

freight charges. The charges made by a carrier for the transportation of property. 13 Am J2d Car §§ 461 et seq.

freight collected from consignee. A stipulation in a contract of sale of personalty or a bill of lading, indicating that the charges for transportation are to be collected from the consignee. 13 Am J2d Car § 477.

freight depot. A place provided by a carrier for the receiving and delivery of freight.

freight elevator. A classification sometimes made on the basis of the regular and primary use of the instrumentality in carrying goods, merchandise, and other property, irrespective of its form or size; at other times made according to the construction of the instrumentality. 26 Am J2d Elev § 2.

freighter. A ship used for carrying cargo primarily; also the owner of the vessel hired under a contract of affreightment. The latter definition derives from the French and is not accepted in common-law jurisdictions without some disagreement. At times, the person to whom the vessel is let is called the "freighter."

freight forwarder. See forwarder.

Freight Forwarder Act. See Forwarder Act.

freight lien. See carrier's lien.

freight line company. A company furnishing or leasing cars to railroads for freight transportation. Cudahy Packing Co. v Minnesota, 246 US 450, 452, 62 L Ed 827, 829, 38 S Ct 373.

freight prepaid. A term familiar in sales contracts, imposing upon the seller the obligation of payment of freight charges. A term, which, when marked or stamped on a bill of lading, does not necessarily, but may, under the circumstances of a particular case, estop the carrier to deny the prepayment of freight charges. 13 Am J2d Car § 479.

freight pro rata. Or freight pro rata itineris peracti,—freight for the completed portion of the voyage; freight in the proportion that the part of the voyage performed bears to the entire length of it, the right to which is exclusively a matter of contract, express or implied. 48 Am J1st Ship § 432.

freight pro rata itineris. Freight charges proportioned to the voyage.
See freight pro rata.

freight pro rata itineris peracti. See freight pro rata.

freight rate. The rate according to which a carrier is compensated for the transportation of goods, merchandise, and other property. 13 Am J2d Car §§ 105 et seq. Not necessarily the rate for transportation by railroad, the term being applicable as well to the rate for transportation by truck. Lyman-Richey Sand & Gravel Co. v State, 123 Neb 674, 243 NW 891, 83 ALR 1301.

See class rate.

freight shipment. See shipment by freight.

freight train. A railroad train which carries freight alone, and which has a caboos attached to it for the use of the train crew. Arizona Eastern Railroad Co. v State, 29 Ariz 446, 242 P 870. A railroad train provided by a carrier primarily for the carriage of freight, but used incidentally for the carriage of passengers. 14 Am J2d Car § 860.

[502]

French. The people of France. The language of France.
See Law French.

French pool. The pari-mutuel system in betting, particularly on horse races.
See pari-mutuel.

French Spoliation Claims. Claims of two classes:(1) claims of American citizens arising out of depredations by French naval forces against American ships between 1793 and 1798, used by the United States government as an offset against claims of France against the United States in effecting a treaty with France, thereby becoming claims against the United States, some of which remain unpaid to this day, particularly claims held by insurance companies under the right of subrogation; (2) claims growing out of French seizure and confiscation of American ships and cargoes under a series of decrees issued by Napoleon, finally settled for about sixty cents on the dollar of the total award of damages made by a special commission.

frendlesman. Same as friendlesman.

frendwit. A fine imposed upon a person for the offense of harboring a friend who had been outlawed.

freneticus. A madman; a lunatic.

frentike. Same as freneticus.

frenzy. A state of delirium of short duration, approaching madness or insanity. Lowe v State, 118 Wis 641, 96 NW 417.

See blood-frenzy.

freoborgh. Same as frank pledge.

frequency. The number of times something occurs within a stated period. A term pertaining particularly to electricity, signifying the number of cycles per second of an alternating electric current.

frequency modulation. Abbreviated FM; reproduction of sound over the radio in which exactness is maintained by changing the frequency of the wave in accord with the sound intended to be transmitted.

frequent. Adjective: Occurring at short intervals. Verb: To visit or resort to a place often.

To frequent a gaming house is to make a habit of going there. A person may be guilty of frequenting a gaming house for the purpose of gaming without actually engaging in any game. Green v State, 109 Ind 175, 176.

frequenter. One who comes to a place often. A person, other than an employee, in a place of employment who, by reason of the circumstances, particularly the acquiescence of the employer in many past visits by such person, is not to be regarded as a trespasser. Sullivan v School Dist. 179 Wis 502, 191 NW 1020, 22 NCCA 863 (statutory definition).

Frequentia actus multum operatur. The frequency of an act effects much.

fresh. New; recent; recently produced; uncured; not salty.

fresh disseisin. Recent disseisin, such disseisin as the person disseised might resist with force.

freshet. The sudden overflow of a stream from a heavy rain or an accumulation of water from melting snow or other source.

freshet waters. See enemy waters; storm waters.

fresh fine. A fine of land which had been levied within the year next preceding.

fresh force. Recent force, that is force used to effect a disseisin within the next preceding forty days.

See assize of fresh force.

fresh pursuit. The pursuit of a person for the purpose of arresting him, which has been continued without substantial interruption from the time of the issuance of the warrant for his arrest or from the time of the commission of the offense, or the discovery of the offense, where the arrest is to be made without a warrant. An "immediate pursuit" in a reasonable sense of the term. People v Pool, 27 Cal 573. A pursuit maintained purposefully, albeit with some interruptions, such as a delay for the purpose of seeking assistance. 5 Am J2d Arr § 33. A pursuit of a thief immediately after the theft to apprehend him and recover the property. 1 Bl Comm 297.

fresh suit. An Old English term for fresh pursuit.

fresh water. See inland waters.

fresh-water river. A river which has banks, not shores such as are characteristic of a tidal river. State v Faudre, 54 W Va 122, 46 SE 269.

fret. Verb: To worry; to be irritated. Noun: An irritation. (French.) Freight.

freter. (French.) To freight.

freteur. (French.) See freighter.

frettum. Freight. The charge for carrying a shipment.

fretum. An arm of the sea; a strait.

friars. The members of certain religious orders who lived in monasteries.

friborg. Same as frank pledge.

friction-hoist elevator. An elevator in which the lifting power is transmitted by friction gears instead of the conventional gears with teeth.

fridborg. Same as frank pledge.

friend. An acquaintance for whom one has at least some degree of fondness. An alien enemy residing in this country but not adhering to the enemy. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 173. Insufficient as a designation of beneficiary of a trust. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 140.
See next friend.

friendlesman. One who could not, by law, have a friend; an outlaw. Drew v Drew, 37 Me 389, 381.

friendly fire. A fire lighted and contained in a usual place for fire, such as furnace, stove, incinerator, and the like, and used for the purposes of heating, cooking, manufacturing, or other common and usual every day purposes. Youse v Employers Fire Ins. Co. 172 Kan 111, 238 P2d 473.

friendly receivership. A receivership constituted where contending parties have agreed to the appointment of a receiver of certain property for a certain purpose in a bona fide case by a court with jurisdiction. 45 Am J1st Rec § 3. A receivership which is obtained indirectly by the debtor himself or with his connivance, wherein through his attorney or otherwise he contrives to cause his creditor to institute proceedings for the appointment of the receiver. Harkin v Brundage, 276 US 36, 72 L Ed 457, 48 S Ct 268.

friendly society. A mutual aid or benefit society.

[503]

friendly suit. Same as amicable action.

friend of the court. Same as amicus curiae. fright. Sudden fear; apprehension of immediate injury to the person. 6 Am J2d Asslt & B § 4.

The fright of one who is robbed must be under the law an objective fright, as contradistinguished from subjective fright; it must have been due to some act on the part of the accused, and not arise from the mere temperamental timidity of the person whose property happens to be stolen from his person or presence. State v Parker, 262 Mo 169, 170 SW 1121.

See fear.

frigidity. Want of normal sexual desires, but not equivalent to impotency. S. v S. 211 Ga 365, 86 SE2d 103.

frilingi. Freemen.

fringe benefits. Benefits received by any employee in addition to wages or salary, such as group insurance, pension rights, etc.

friscus. Fresh; recent; new; not salty.

friscus fortia. Same as fresh force.

frisk. To filch; to steal; to search a person, particularly by running the hands over his clothing. Mason v Wrightson, 205 Md 481, 109 A2d 128.

frithbote. A fine imposed for a breach of the peace.

frithbreach. A breach of the peace.

frithman. A member of a company or fraternity.

frithsocne. Same as frithsoken. frithsoken. Power to preserve the peace.

frithsplot. Sacred ground, where fugitives from justice might safely hide; a sanctuary; an asylum.

frivolous. So clearly and palpably bad and insufficient as to require no argument or illustration to show the character as indicative of bad faith upon a bare inspection; as a pleading, argument, motion, or objection. Strong v Sproul, 53 NY 497, 499.

frivolous answer. An answer which does not, in any view of the facts pleaded, present a defense to the action; an answer which forms or tenders no material issue; a false answer, a sham answer. 41 Am J1st Pl § 50.

frivolous appeal. An appeal where the exceptions are so obviously frivolous on their face as to require no argument. Dachrach v Manhattan R. Co. 154 NY 178, 47 NE 1087.

frivolous claim. A claim asserted where there is no bona fide dispute between the parties. Excercycle Corp. v Maratta, 9 NY2d 329, 214 NYS2d 353, 174 NE2d 463.

frivolous demurrer. A demurrer which is so clearly untenable, the insufficiency of which is so manifest upon a bare inspection of the pleadings, that the court or judge is able to determine its character without argument or research. Farmers & Millers' Bank v Sawyer, 7 Wis 379, 383.

frivolous plea. A plea which does not in any view of the facts pleaded present a defense to the action; a plea which tenders no material issue; a false or sham plea. 41 Am J1st Pl § 50.

frivolous pleading. A pleading good in form but false in fact and not pleaded in good faith. 41 Am J1st Pl § 50. A pleading palpably and manifestly false on its face. Commonwealth ex rel. Meredith v Murphy, 295 Ky 466, 174 SW2d 681.

See frivolous answer.

frivolous question. A question presented to the court which is devoid of substance or so clearly determined by previous decisions as to foreclose the subject. California Water Service Co. v Redding, 304 US 252, 82 L Ed 1323, 58 S Ct 865.

frivolous suit. A suit without purpose to determine an actual controversy, as where the parties control by interest both sides of the litigation. 1 Am J2d Actions § 56.

frl. An abbreviation of fractional, often used in descriptions of real estate.

frodmortel. An exemption or immunity from punishment for manslaughter.

frog. In common parlance, a small four-legged creature developing from a tadpole and living in water or on land, characterized by ability to leap. In the parlance of a railroad man, a section of a rail, or of several rails combined, at a point where two railways cross or at the point of a switch from a line to a siding or to another line, its function being to enable a car or train to be turned from one track to another track. 35 Am J1st M & S § 221.

See blocked frog; unblocked frog.

frolic of his own. The activity of an agent or an employee who has departed from the scope of the agency or the employment and is not while thus engaged a representative of his principal or employer or one whose acts are binding upon, or productive of liability of, the principal or employer.

from. As the word appears in a statement of the voyage covered by a marine insurance policy, e.g. "from" New York to Port au Prince:-the risk attaches at the time of weighing anchor and breaking ground for the voyage, but is not exclusive of intermediate ports stated in the policy. Bradley v Nashville Ins. Co. 3 La Ann 708. As the word appears in the designation of a boundary of real estate, e.g. "from" the [a designated monument or object]:-the designation is exclusive of the monument or object specified. except as the entire context requires its inclusion. Bonney v Morrill, 52 Me 252.

A word productive of some confusion in determining whether it denotes inclusion or exclusion of the day from which a reckoning is to be made, the courts, however, ordinarily proceeding on the theory that the word is not per se a word either of inclusion or exclusion, but is to be construed as one or the other according to the tenor of the instrument or the intent of the parties and the equities of the particular case. 52 Am J1st Times § 23.

When the words "from" a day named, are used in connection with the creation of an estate or interest, and it is not contrary to the express intention of the parties, the date named from which the estate or interest is to exist is to be included, and the estate vests on that day. Budds v Frey, 104 Minn 481, 117 NW 158.

from and after. A term ordinarily signifying the exclusion of the day from which the reckoning is to be made, but not so considered where such construction will defeat the purpose of the contract or statute in which the term appears. 52 Am J1st Time § 27. An expression of futurity but, as it appears in a testamentary gift of a remainder, following a life estate, it does not make the remainder contingent, in the absence of anything else on the face of the will to show that vesting was postponed or intended to be postponed beyond the death of the testator. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 111.

[504]

from and after passage. A provision in a statute specifying the effective date, sometimes interpreted as meaning that the statute takes effect on the day of its passage, but in other cases interpreted as rendering the statute effective the day following passage. 50 Am J1st Stat § 506.

from the making. A common term in a provision of the statute of frauds respecting agreements not to be performed within one year "from the making" thereof; the words excluding the day on which the agreement was made. Nickerson v Harvard College, 298 Mass 484, 11 NE2d 444, 114 ALR 414.

from the person. See taking from the person.

from time to time. At intervals. First Nat. Bank v Stover, 21 NM 453, 155 P 905.

from whatever cause arising. An expression in a bill of lading or other contract of carriage in reference to relief of the carrier from liability for damage to the shipment. 14 Am J2d Car § 566.

front. Noun: That which faces forward. Appearance. A union which has complied with the National Labor Relations Act acting on behalf of a union which has not complied with such statute. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 222. Verb: To stand opposite something. A store operating in a basement which extends under the sidewalk and out to the curb of a street, from which an entrance was made to the store, "fronts" on that street within the meaning of a provision in a lease giving the lessee the exclusive right to sell cigars and tobacco in that part of the building "fronting" on such street. Anno: 90 ALR 1461.

The narrow end of a lot "fronts" on the street upon which it abuts; it does not front on another street although it is a corner lot which abuts on both streets. The end of an unimproved lot fronts on the street upon which it abuts, toward which the house, when constructed, is intended to face according to the plan or usage in the particular block or district. Rhinehart v Leitch, 107 Conn 400, 140 A 763. But some authority holds that a corner lot "fronts" on both streets. Des Moines v Dorr, 31 Iowa 89, 93.

frontage. The measure in feet or other linear unit of measurement of the boundary between a street or highway and an abutting property. The measure of the line between a river or other body of water and land abutting thereon. The buildings fronting upon a street, whether business or residential. 7 Am J2d Auto § 191.

In determining "frontage" occupied by business buildings, for the purpose of applicability of a speed limit prescribed by statute for business districts, an intersecting street or highway is not included. Hinson v Dawson, 241 NC 714, 86 SE2d 585, 50 ALR2d 333.

frontage cost. The entire cost of a local improvement in front of the property assessed. 48 Am J1st, Spec A § 66.

front door of the courthouse. A good and sufficient designation of the place where a judicial sale of real estate shall be made at auction.

front foot plan. A plan or method of levying local assessments for street work upon the property abutting on the portion of the street to be improved, in proportion to the length of the frontage of each lot along the improvement. Crummey v Popp, 79 Cal App 230, 249 P 29.

fronting. See front.

fronting and abutting property. A term, frequently used in statutes providing for street improvement by special assessment, for property between which and the improvement there is no intervening land. Wilburton v McConnell, 119 Okla 242, 249 P 708.

front tooth. A part or member of the body within the meaning of the offense of mayhem. High v State, 26 Tex App 545.

Whether a corner tooth is a front tooth is a question of fact for the jury. High v State, 26 Tex App 545.

frost damage. Injury by freezing.

frozen navigable river. A public highway, a way on which a traveler has the paramount right of passage. 56 Am J1st Wat § 208.

fructuarius. A person entitled to the fruits and profits of property; a lessee.

fructus. Fruit; fruits; increase; usufruct.

Fructus augent haereditatem. The fruits go to increase the inheritance.

fructus civiles. Civil fruits; revenues; recompenses; compensations.

fructus industriae. Same as fructus industriales. fructus industriales. Crops that must be planted or sown each year and which require the attention of man to produce them. 21 Am J2d Crops § 2.

See emblems.

fructus legis. The fruit or product of the law,—execution.

fructus naturales. Crops produced by the powers of nature alone. 21 Am J2d Crops § 2. The fruits and produce of perennial trees, bushes, and grasses.

fructus pecudum. The produce of the flocks; such as the wool and milk of sheep and goats.

fructus pendentes. Hanging fruits; unplucked fruits.

Fructus pendentes pars fundi videntur. Unplucked fruits are regarded as part of the soil.

Fructus perceptos villae non esse constat. Gathered fruits are not a part of the farm.

fructus rei alienae. The fruit or product of the property of another.

fructus separati. Severed fruit; plucked fruit.

fruges. Fruits; produce.

fruit. The seed of plants, or that part of plants which contains the seed, and especially the juicy, pulpy products of certain plants, covering and containing the seed. Nix v Hedden, 149 US 304, 37 L Ed 745, 13 S Ct 881.

See first-fruits; natural fruits.

fruitless. Unproductive; unavailing.

As applied to a congressional investigation, the word means that it could result in no valid legislation on the subject to which the inquiry refers. Sin- clair v United States, 279 US 263, 73 L Ed 692, 49 S Ct 257.

[505]

fruits of crime. Loot; booty; anything acquired in or by the commission of a criminal offense.

fruits of property. Gains and profits from property.

Frumenta quae sata sunt solo cedere intelliguntur. Grain which has been sowed is understood to go with the soil.

frumentum. (Civil law.) Grain; anything which grows on an ear.

frumgild. The initial recompense paid to the relatives of a person who has been murdered.

frusca terra. Barren, waste, or desert land; uncultivated land.

frussura. A breaking up or ploughing.

frustra. In vain; vainly; unsuccessfully; to no purpose.

Frustra agit qui iudicium prosequi nequit cum effectu. He sues vainly who is unable to prosecute his judgment with effect.

Frustra est potentia quae nunquam venit in actum. A power or authority is a vain one if it is never exercised.

Frustra expectatur eventus cujus effectus nullus sequitur. It is vain to look forward to an event which is not to be followed by any result.

Frustra feruntur leges nisi subditis et obedientibus. Laws are made to no purpose unless for those who are subject and obedient.

Frustra fit per plura, quod fieri potest per pauciora. That is done or executed vainly through many means or agencies, if it could be done through few.

Frustra legis auxilium quaerit qui in legem committit. A person who has transgressed the law vainly seeks the law's aid.

Frustra petis, quod mox es restiturus. You vainly seek to get what you must immediately restore. Jarvis v Rogers, 15 Mass (15 Tyng) 389, 407.

Frustra petis quod statim alteri reddere cogaris. You vainly seek that which you will be compelled to restore to another immediately.

Frustra probatur quod probatum non relevat. It is idle to prove that which when proved is irrelevant. Farnum v Farnum, 79 Mass (13 Gray) 508, 511.

frustrated expectations. Developments or absence of developments contrary to expectations; not the equivalent of failure of consideration. 11 Am J2d B & N § 245.

frustrum terrae. A piece or parcel of land lying segregated from other land.

frustration. The prevention of accomplishment of purpose.

See commercial frustration; frustrated expectations.

frustration of ancestral or testamentary intention. The violation by heir, devisee, or legatee of a promise to the testator to hold an inheritance, devise, or legacy, for another or to give it to another, upon which the testator relied in the making or changing of his will in order to favor such other person. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 242.

frustration of contract. See commercial frustration.

frustration of conversion. See reconversion.

frutex. Singular of frutices.

frutices. Bushes; shrubs.

frutos. (Spanish.) Fruits; profits; products.

frythe. Clear land between woods; a strait; an arm of the sea.

FSLIC. Abbreviation for Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

ft. An abbreviation of "feet" or "foot."

FTC. Abbreviation of Federal Trade Commission.

ft-lb. Abbreviation of foot pound.

fuage. An old tax of England. A duty or tax paid by custom to the king for every chimney in the house; hearth-money, a tax upon every hearth or fireplace.

fuel oil. Oil used for fuel in industrial plants, also in dwelling houses.

fuer. To fly; to flee; flight.

fuer en fait. Flight in fact; actual flight; the physical act of fleeing.

fuer en ley. Flight in law, a failure to appear in court when summoned.

fuero. (Spanish.) A use and custom combined, having the force of law. See Strother v Lucas (US) 9 Pet 410, 446, 9 L Ed 1137, 1151.

fuero de Castilla. The ancient law of the Castellians.

fuero de correos y caminas. A Spanish tribunal which had jurisdiction over post offices and roads.

fuero de guerra. A Spanish tribunal which had jurisdiction over military matters.

fuero de marina. A Spanish tribunal which had jurisdiction over naval affairs.

fuero juzgo. The ancient Visigothic law of Spain.

fuero municipal. The charter of a Spanish town or city.

fuga catallorum. A drove of cattle.

fugacia. A chase; a hunt.

fugam fecit. He has fled.

fugatio. A privilege of hunting.

fugator. A driver.

fugatores carucarum. Wagon drivers.

fugie. A fugitive.

fugie-warrant. A warrant for the arrest of a debtor who has fled.

fugitate. To outlaw a person accused of crime.

[506]

fugitation. Outlawry; the flight of a criminal from justice.

fugitive. A person fleeing from danger or from justice. People ex rel. Merklen v Enright, 217 App Div 514, 517, 217 NYS 288.

See fugitive from justice.

fugitive from justice. A person who commits a crime and then withdraws himself from the jurisdiction, whether or not such jurisdiction is his home state. 31 Am J2d Extrad § 15. A person who, having committed a crime, is absent from the state when he is sought to answer therefor and is found within the jurisdiction of another state. 31 Am J2d Extrad § 15. One who, with knowledge that he is being sought pursuant to court process, absents himself or flees, even though he believes himself innocent. Tobin v Casaus, 128 Cal App 2d 588, 275 P2d 792, 49 ALR2d 1419. Under federal law:—a person who, having committed a crime in violation of the laws of the United States, flees from the jurisdiction of the court where the crime was committed, or departs from his usual place of abode and conceals himself within the district. United States v Farrell (CA8 Minn) 87 F2d 957. See, also, Greene v United States (CA5 Ga) 154 F 401.

fugitive oil and gas. A redundant expression, since oil and gas in their natural state in the earth are always fugitive in nature, possessing no fixed situs in any particular portion of the area where they may be, having the power, as it were, of self-transmission. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 2. Oil and gas drained from premises by operations on adjoining property. 24 Am J1st Gas & O § 43.

See hot oil.

fugitive slave. A slave who had fled from his master.

Fugitive Slave Acts. The Act of Congress of February 12, 1793, and that of September 18, 1850, recognizing the existence of slavery, the object and purposes of the acts being to authorize and enable the owners to recover their fugitive slaves who should escape from their service and flee into a state where slavery did not exist. McElvain v Mudd, 44 Ala 48.

fugitive witness. A person wanted as a witness who has left the jurisdiction in order to avoid service of a subpoena upon him. A person wanted as a witness who is a fugitive from justice. 17 Am J2d Contin § 31.

fugitivus. A fugitive; a fugitive from justice.

fait coactus. He was compelled.

full. Ample; complete; perfect; not wanting in any essential quality. Mobile School Com. v Putnam, 44 Ala 506, 537.

full actual loss. The entire loss, which, in the case of goods damaged in transit, is ordinarily established by the difference between the fair market value of the goods undamaged and their fair market value as delivered in damaged condition. Meltzer v Baltimore & Ohio R. Co. (DC Pa) 38 F Supp 391.

full admiral. An admiral, as distinguished from a vice admiral or rear admiral.

See admiral.

full age. The status of a person who has reached the age of majority, usually, as at common law, the completion of the twenty-first year, but in some jurisdictions, in respect of females, the end of the eighteenth year. 27 Am J1st Inf § 5. The status of a person who has become an adult in the eyes of the law by a proceeding removing the disability of infancy or, as provided by statute in some jurisdictions, by marriage. 27 Am J1st Inf § 5.

full and fair statement of all the facts. As an element of a defense to an action for malicious prosecution:—all the facts within the knowledge of the person making the statement, not all facts discoverable. 34 Am J1st Mal Pros § 7.

full and satisfactory evidence. A refinement of the law which imposes a requirement in reference to the degree of proof in a civil case beyond that of a preponderance of the evidence. 30 Am J2d Evi §§ 1167.

A statute which provides that a divorce may be granted only upon "full and satisfactory evidence" does not mean that plaintiff's testimony must be corroborated in all cases. Anno: 15 ALR2d 186, § 5.

full and true value. A value determined by reference to all relevant facts in evidence; not a fictional value in cases where there is no standardized market for the subject of valuation. State v Wagner, 233 Minn 241, 46 NW2d 676, 23 ALR2d 762. The amount the owner would be entitled to receive as just compensation upon a taking of the property by a state or the United States in the exertion of the power of eminent domain. Great Northern R. Co. v Weeks, 297 US 135, 80 L Ed 532, 56 S Ct 426.

So far as respects the rule by which the duties on imported goods are to be ascertained, the true value shall be deemed to be the actual cost of the goods to the importer at the place from which they were imported, and not the current market value of the goods at that place. United States v Tappan (US) 11 Wheat 419, 424, 6 L Ed 509, 510.

full answer. An answer to a bill in equity which is full and complete; that is an answer which is ample and sufficient. See Bentley v Cleveland, 22 Ala 814, 817.

full bench. The court with all the qualified judges sitting in a case, particularly an appellate court.

See in bank.

full blood. The relationship between children of the same father and mother.

full cash value. As the criterion for the assessment of property for taxation:—the amount at which the property would be appraised if taken in payment of a just debt due from a solvent debtor. State v Virginia & Truckee Railroad Co. 23 Nev 283, 46 P 723 (statutory definition.)

full court. Same as full bench.

full cousin. A first cousin. Anno: 54 ALR2d 1011.

full crew law. A statute requiring crews of a certain minimum in number of employees on a railroad locomotive or train. 44 Am J1st RR § 405.

full faith and credit. The measure of the recognition required by Article IV, section 1, of the Constitution of the United States to be accorded by a court to the public acts, records, and judicial proceedings of a state other than that in which the court is sitting. 16 Am J2d Const L § 585. The requirement that the public acts of every state shall be given the same effect by the courts of another state that they have by law and usage at home. Chicago & Alton Railroad Co. v Wiggins Ferry Co. 119 US 615, 30 L Ed 519, 7 S Ct 398. A provision of the United States Constitution, one essential purpose of which is that litigation once pursued to judgment shall be as conclusive of the rights of the parties in every other court as in that in which the judgment was rendered, so that a cause of action merged in a judgment in one state is likewise merged in every other. Magnolia Petroleum Co. v Hunt, 320 US 430, 321 US 801, 88 L Ed 149, 64 S Ct 208, 150 ALR 413.

[507]

full hearing. A hearing in which ample opportunity is afforded to all parties to make, by evidence and argument, a showing fairly adequate to establish the propriety or impropriety, from the standpoint of justice and law, of the steps asked to be taken. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 415.

The right to a full hearing in a quasi-judicial proceeding conducted by an administrative agency embraces not only the right to present evidence, but also a reasonable opportunity to know the claims of the opposing party and to meet them. The full hearing upon which the Packers and Stockyards Act conditions the power of the Secretary of Agriculture to fix maximum rates to be charged by market agencies at stockyards requires that the agencies under investigation be fairly advised of what the government proposes and be heard upon its proposals before it issues its final command, even where the proceeding is not of an adversary character but is initiated as a general inquiry. Morgan v United States, 304 US 1, 82 L Ed 1129, 58 S Ct 773, 999.

full income. As the term appears in a bequest of the income from designated securities purchased at a premium:—the annual interest paid in on the securities, without deducting therefrom a progressively increasing sum in each year to meet the wearing away of the premiums as the times of the maturity of the securities approach. McLouth v Hunt, 154 NY 179, 48 NE 548.

full indorsement. An indorsement of a bill or note which is not a mere signature; an indorsement with words added, such words varying from those of special indorsement adding the name of the indorsee, to words of assignment and transfer, waiver, or other agreements. 11 Am J2d B & N § 359.

full life. Life or existence both in law and in fact, de jure and de facto.

full name. In a literal sense, first name, middle name, if any, and surname or, with almost equal formality, first name, initial of middle name, and surname. In a practical sense, the name which provides the most certainty of identification, the whole of such name as is used by a person and his associates to identify him. Lafin & Rand Powder Co. v Steytler, 146 Pa 434, 23 A 215.

The early rule that both first and middle names of a person were essential to a proper designation of a person no longer prevails. 38 Am J1st Name § 6.

full officer. An officer of the military holding a regular commission, as distinguished from an officer holding a rank by brevet. United States v Hunt (US) 14 Wall 550, 20 L Ed 739.

full pardon. A pardon which remits the punishment and blots out the existence of guilt, so that in the eyes of the law the offender is as innocent as if he had never committed the offense. Ex parte Garland (US) 3 Wall 333, 380, 18 L Ed 366, 371.

full priority. See strict priority.

full proof. A degree of proof higher than the degree of preponderance of evidence usually prevailing in civil cases; evidence which satisfies the minds of the jury of the truth of the fact in dispute, to the entire exclusion of every reasonable doubt. Kane v Hibernia Mut. Ins. Co. 38 NJL 441.

full prosecution. The prosecution of an action or proceeding to a final judgment. Bensley v Mountain Lake Water Co. 13 Cal 307.

full settlement. See in full settlement.

full stop. A complete stop by a vehicle a stop to the extent that no wheel turns. 7 Am J2d Auto § 228.

full time. The characterization of an employee in regular rather than casual, seasonal, or temporary employment. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 92. As used in a provision of a workmen's compensation act making the basis of compensation the average weekly earnings of the workman when at work on full time during the preceding year; the normal labor period for the kind of work which the workman is hired to perform, and not to such time during the preceding year as the employer had work for him. Cote v Bachelder-Worcester Co. 85 NH 444, 160 A 101.

Compensation for a week or other period without deduction for absence or hours of work missed.

full-time child. Under an older view, a child whose birth is forty weeks after conception. Young v Makepeace, 103 Mass 50, 51. In the modern view, a child born within or after the thirty-sixth week of gestation, especially if he has a birth weight over 5-1/2 pounds.

fullum aquae. An aqueduct or flume; a stream of water.

full value. See full cash value.

fully. Amply; sufficiently; clearly; distinctly. Riley v State (Miss) 18 So 117, 118.

fully accounted. A full account rendered, not necessarily a proper expenditure of all money received. Kane v Kane, 120 Conn 184, 180 A 308.

full year. As an element of a legal settlement of a pauper, the full space of one year continuously and without interruption. Eaton Town v Shrewsbury, 49 NJL 188, 6 A 319.

fully equipped. Literally, completely equipped, but subject to explanation by parol evidence of usage. Halifax Auto Co. v Redden, 48 NS 20, 12 BRC 307, 15 DLR 34.

fully paid stock. Corporate stock for which the full par value has been paid to the corporation. 18 Am J2d Corp § 494.

fulmen. See brutum fulmen.

fumage. Same as fuage.

fumes. Gases which may be inhaled. 29A Am JRev ed Ins § 1277.

function. Whatever a person is employed or appointed to do; the duty of an office or officer. The operation of a mechanism. 40 Am J1st Pat § 15.

See judicial function; ministerial functions; quasi-judicial functions.

functional. Having or performing a function. Affecting the purpose, action, or performance of goods, or the facility or economy of processing, handling, or using them. J. C. Penney Co. v H. D. Lee Mercantile Co. (CA8 Mo) 120 F2d 949.

Where used in patent law with reference to the exact point of novelty in an invention, "means" or "mechanism" may expose the inventor's claim of patentability to attack on the ground that it is functional, but where used with reference to the makeup of the field in which the real invention finds its usefulness or with reference to the connecting parts which permit the salient novelty of the invention to accomplish its function, these words are only a convenient formula of the broadest equivalency of which the real invention permits. Goodwin v Carlross Co. (CA6 Tenn) 116 F2d 644.

[508]

functional depreciation. As considered in the valuation of property for taxation:—the result of lack of adaptation to function; the result of change of conditions and surroundings which renders the structure ill adapted to the work, especially a growth of business which calls for the substitution of other equipment and structures. Central Railroad Co. v Martin (DC NJ) 30 F Supp 41.

functionary. A public officer.

functus. Dead; expired; void; of no effect. Manning v Louisville & Nashville Railroad Co. 95 Ala 392, 11 So 8.

functus officio. Having performed its office; legally defunct.

The term is applied to a process which has been returned; to an agent or officer whose authority has expired; to an association which has ceased to function. Allen v Long, 80 Tex 261.

fund. Noun: A sum of money, either in hand or on deposit in a bank or other institution. A deposit or accumulation of resources, such as the assets of a decedent's estate, from which supplies are drawn, out of which expenses are provided, or which may be available for the payment of debts or the discharge of liabilities. Jewett v State, 94 Ind 549, 552. As used in a disposing clause in a will:—an accumulation of money, a security, an evidence of indebtedness, etc., but ordinarily not any kind of property. Anno: 67 ALR2d 1445. A designation of one of the accounts of a state or public body to be applied to a particular purpose, e.g. a school fund. People v New York Cent. Railroad Co. (NY) 34 Barb 123, 135. Verb: To convert an indebtedness, such as a warrant, into a more permanent form with an extended time of payment. 43 Am J1st Pub Sec § 155.

See blended fund; current funds; funded debt; funding system; guaranty fund; public funds; school fund; sinking fund; slush funds; surplus funds.

fundamental. At the foundation; basic.

fundamental error. An error of such character as to render a judgment void, as where the lower court proceeded without jurisdiction of the subject matter of the action. State v Cruikshank, 138 W Va 332, 76 SE2d 744. An error of the court which goes to the foundation of the case, or which takes from a defendant a right essential to his defense on appeal. Morrison v State, 37 Okla Crim 359, 258 P 1050. An error of the court which, in some jurisdictions, will be considered on appeal, notwithstanding the absence of an exception in the lower court or of an assignment of the error on appeal. Hollywood v Wellhausen, 28 Tex Civ App 541, 544, 68 SW 329.

fundamental law. Those principles, some in the form of declaration, others by way of implied or express provision, and some in the form of grant, deemed supposed to be limitations essential to conserve human liberty, security, equality and happiness, and not to be subject to change except in a way calculated to arouse the highest judgment and the most efficient, deliberate, and considered choice. State ex rel. Mueller v Thompson, 149 Wis 488, 137 NW 20.

fundamental rights and privileges. Life, liberty and property, except as such may be declared to be forfeited by the judgment of one's peers of the law of the land; the inherent rights common to all citizens. 16 Am J2d Const L § 328. Freedom of religion, freedom of speech and press, due process, etc. Individual rights immutable against all hostile legislation not required by considerations of public health or safety. National Mut. Ins. Co. v Tidewater Transfer Co. 337 US 582, 93 L Ed 1556, 69 S Ct 1173.

See bill of rights.

The preservation of fundamental rights by principle is primarily an Anglo-American concept. Conger v Pierce County, 116 Wash 27, 198 P 377, 18 ALR 393.

fundamus. We found:—a formal word used in the king's letters patent or charter upon his creation of a corporation. Other similar words thus used were "creamus," we create; "erigimus," we erect; "incorporamus," we incorporate. See 1 Bl Comm 473.

fundatio. A foundling.

fundator. A founder; a person who makes an endowment to an institution.

funded debt. A debt for which revenues have been provided to pay the interest and to make payments upon the principal so that the debt will be gradually reduced. Ketchum v Buffalo, 14 NY 356, 367.

fundi. Lands.

funding. See fund.

funding system. A plan whereby on the creation of a debt for money borrowed provision is made for the revenues whereby the interest can be paid and the principal gradually reduced. Merrill v Monticello (CC Ind) 22 F 589, 596.

fund in hand. Cash on hand or money due. Parsons v Armor (US) 3 Pet 413, 70 L Ed 724; Marrow v Marrow, 45 NC 148.

See fund.

fundi patrimoniales. Lands of inheritance.

fundi publici. Public lands; lands belonging to the state.

funditores. Pioneers.

fundus. Land; soil; a farm; an estate. See 3 Bl Comm 209.

funds. See fund; fund in hand.

funeral. A ceremony or service conducted upon the burial or cremation of a dead person.

See first-class funeral; funeral director; funeral expenses; monument; undertaker.

funeral director. A person who follows the profession or business of arranging and conducting funerals.

See undertaker.

funeral expenses. Those necessary and, in fact, compulsory expenditures, the necessity for which arises immediately upon and after the death of a person and which embrace the embalming, arraying, coffining, and sepulture or cremation of his body, together with those accustomed forms and ceremonies which attend upon the present disposition of his remains. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 322. Allowable as a debt of a decedent's estate or an expense of administration where reasonable in amount in the light of the station in life, pecuniary circumstances, and social condition of the decedent. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 321.

[509]

funeral expenses clause. A clause usually contained in standard automobile liability policies which provide, by way of extra coverage, for the payment of funeral expenses of a person killed as a result of the condition or use of the automobile covered by the policy. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 154.

funeral procession. See procession.

funeral vehicles. The hearse and other vehicles in a funeral procession.

fungible. Consumable by use, and returnable in kind.

fungible goods. Goods of such nature that one unit is identical with another unit and is a replacement for another unit, the primary example being grain, such as wheat, oats, or corn. 1 Am J2d Access § 15.

fungible goods or securities. Goods or securities of which any unit is, by nature or usage of trade, the equivalent of any other like unit. UCC § 1-201(17).

F. U. R. See homo trium litterarum.

fur. The hair on the bodies of certain animals. A processed skin of a fur-bearing animal with the fur on it; merchandise within the meaning of an insurance policy covering loss by robbery. Kaplan v United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. 343 Ill 44, 174 NE 834. (Latin.) A thief; a person who has committed larceny.

furandi animo. With intent to steal.

furandi animus. Intent to steal.

fur-bearing animals. Animals whose skins are well covered with fur, especially such animals as the mink, beaver, etc., which bear fur that thickens and becomes more valuable with the onset of winter.

furca. A fork; a gallows; a gibbet.

furca et flagellum. Gallows and whip,-the name of the lowest form of servile tenure, wherein the body and the life itself of the tenant were in the hands of the lord.

furca et fossa. Gallows and pit,-signifying the punishment of men by hanging and that of women by drowning.

furcare. To fork. Same as fourcher.

fur diurnus. A daytime thief.

furem, si aliter capi non posset, occidere permittunt. They allow one to kill a thief if he cannot otherwise be taken. See 4 Bl Comm 179.

furent criblés. They were debated.

furigeldum. The payment of a fine for stealing.

Furiosi nulla voluntas est. A madman has no will.

furiosity. Raving madness.

furiosus. Mad; insane; a madman; a lunatic who is violent.

Furiosus absentis loco est. A madman is in the same position as a person who is absent.

Furiosus furore solo punitur. A lunatic is punished by his madness alone. State v Strasburg, 60 Wash 106, 110 P 1020.

If a man becomes non compos after he commits a crime, he shall not be indicted; if after conviction, he shall not receive judgment; if after judgment, he shall not be ordered for execution. Nobles v Georgia, 168 US 398, 407, 42 L Ed 515, 518, 18 S Ct 87.

Furiosus furore solum punitur. Only because of his insanity, a lunatic is not punished. See 4 Bl Comm 24.

Furiosus nullum negotium contrahere (gerere) potest (quia non intelligit quod agit). An insane person cannot make a contract (because he cannot understand what he is doing.)

Furiosus nullum negotium gerere potest, quia non intelligit quod agit. A lunatic cannot transact any business, because he does not understand what he is doing.

It is a rule, not merely of municipal law, but of universal law, that contracts of all such persons are utterly void. The Roman law adopted this doctrine as expressed in the maxim. See American Trust & Banking Co. v Boone, 102 Ga 202, 29 SE 182.

Furiosus stipulari non potest nee aliquod negotium agere, qui non intelligit quid agit. An insane person who does not understand what he is doing, cannot contract nor transact any business.

furlong. An eighth of a mile.

furlough. Leave of absence for more than three days granted to an enlisted member of the armed forces. Williams v Brents, 171 Ark 367, 372, 284 SW 56.

fur manifestos. A person who is manifestly or palpably a thief,—a thief who is caught in the act of stealing.

furnage. Fees exacted from tenants for the use of the oven or bakehouse of the lord of the manor.

furnish. To supply, provide, equip, or fit out. Tibbets v Moore, 23 Cal 208; Dickinson v Gray, 10 Ky LR 292, 8 SW 876, 9 SW 291.

Although it has been said that "furnish" is synonymous with "deliver," the terms are usually not synonymous. 17 Am J2d Contr § 281. But a person indicted for "furnishing" opium may be convicted upon evidence of a sale and delivery of the narcotic. Territory v Hu Seong, 20 Hawaii 669.

furnishing. The furniture and fixtures in a room or house. Attaway v Hoskinson, 37 Mo App 132.

See furnish.

furnishing instrumentality for commission of crime. The handing or delivery of an instrumentality ordinarily used for lawful purposes to one who uses it in the commission of a crime. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 116.

furnishing liquor. Selling, disposing, or making a gift of liquor. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 219.

furniture of a store. Implements and instruments used in carrying on the business. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 77. The equipment or outfit of a trade or business; whatever may be supplied to a stock of goods or to a business, to make it convenient, useful, or gainful. Brody v Chittenden, 106 Iowa 524, 526.

[510]

furniture. Articles of common household use or ornament, excluding articles which have a personal history or peculiar relation as keepsakes to the proprietor or his family or which are kept for some special purpose which is independent of housekeeping. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 77. As the word is used in an exemption statute:—about everything of the nature of personalty with which a house or any other building or place may be equipped. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 73.

See household furniture.

furniture of a ship. Everything required to be furnished a ship in order to make her seaworthy.

fur nocturnus. A nighttime thief.

furor brevis. Sudden anger.

furor contrahi matrimonium non sinit, quia consensu opus est. Insanity prevents a marriage from being contracted, because consent is essential.

furrow. A groove or rut 12 to 14 inches in width from which the earth has been turned by a plow.

further. Adjective: Farther out; at a greater distance. Adverb: A word of comparison; additional; moreover; furthermore; something beyond what has been said; likewise; also. Jones v Executors of Creveling, 19 NJL 127, 133.

further advance. An additional loan made to a mortgagor, often secured in anticipation by the original mortgage.

See future advances.

further assurance. See covenant for further assurance.

further assessment. See additional assessment.

further disability. See new and further disability.

further proceedings. Additional proceedings, usually in the same case. Schlaefer v Schlaefer, 71 App DC 350, 112 F2d 177, 130 ALR 1014.

furtively. Stealthily; by stealth.

furto. A theft, a taking by stealth.

furtum. Theft; larceny; anything which has been stolen.

furtum conceptum. Discovered or detected larceny or theft.

furtum est contrectatio fraudulosa, lucri faciendi gratia, vet ipsius rei, vet etiam usus, possessionisve. Larceny is the fraudulent taking or making use of a thing, or of the possession of it, for the sake of making gain.

furtum est contrectatio rei alienae fraudulenta, cum animo furandi, invito illo domino cujus res illa fuerat. Larceny is the fraudulent taking of the goods of another with intent to steal and against the will of the person in whose control they were.

furtum grave. Aggravated larceny.

furtum manifestum. Manifest, open, palpable theft; as, where the thief is caught in the act of stealing.

furtum non est ubi initium habet detentionis per dominum rei. It is no larceny where the detention of the thing has its beginning through the owner of it.

furtum oblatum. The offering of stolen property; the offense of receiving stolen goods.

fuse. A device for setting off an explosion without injury to the person. An explosive cap, sometimes employed by railroad trainmen to signal a stop by placing it on the rail ahead of an approaching train. An electrical term; a wire of low melting point inserted in an electric circuit as a safety measure taken against the possibility of a current exceeding the safety level, the fuse wire melting and breaking upon an unwanted increase in the current, thereby breaking the circuit and cutting off the current.

Fusian Caninian Law. See Lex Furia Caninia.

fustigatio. An old form of punishment for certain offenses by beating the culprit with a club or cudgel.

fustis. A staff. Same as fistuca.

futile act. See vain act.

future acquired property. See after acquired property.

future advances. Loans made by a mortgagee to a mortgagor after the initial loan for which the mortgage was given, usually secured by the mortgage under an express affirmative provision therein. 36 Am J1st Mtg § 64.

future damages. The consequences of the defendant's wrongful act to occur in the future, that is, after the commencement of action. 22 Am J2d Damg § 26.

future debt. An existing debt which is not yet due.

See future advances.

future earnings. Wages, salaries, or the net income from an occupation, profession, or business to be earned or accrue later.

future estates. Estates to vest, either in title or in enjoyment, at a future time, whether or not under a limitation that creates an intervening estate. Moore v Little, 41 NY 66, 75.

See expectancies; future interests.

future fund. A fund to accrue and be developed in the future.

future interests. Remainders, reversions, executory interests, and other interests to come into possession or enjoyment in the future, whether vested or contingent, and whether or not supported by a particular estate. The title of an advanced course on the law of property in law schools.

See expectancies.

future premiums. As the term appears in a waiver of premiums clause in an accident insurance policy:—all premiums which the insurer would otherwise be entitled to demand after the commencement of the disability of the insured. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 581.

future rent. Rent to accrue in the future.

future right. A right, expected to mature in the future under a contract already in existence, but conditional rather than absolute. Re New York, N. H. & H. R. Co. (DC Conn) 25 F Supp 874.

See future interests.

[511]

futures. Contracts for the sale of securities, such as bonds and stocks, or of certain commodities, such as grain and cotton, which call for delivery at a future time, the value of such a contract fluctuating with changes in the market value of the security or commodity. Lemonius v Mayer, 71 Miss 514, 521, 14 So 33. Transactions upon stock and commodity exchanges calling for future delivery and payment, wherein it is understood that the vendor is not at the time of the transaction the owner of the property which is the subject matter of the transaction but that he intends to purchase it on or before the date of delivery. 50 Am J1st Stock Ex § 24. Transactions in stocks or commodities ostensibly calling for future delivery and payment but which actually do not contemplate delivery under any circumstances, the arrangement, as understood by the parties, being for a settlement between the parties to be made according to the rise and fall of the market. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 66.

Those who deal in "futures" are divided into three classes: First, those who use them to hedge, i.e. to insure themselves against loss by unfavorable changes in price at the time of actual delivery of what they have to sell or buy in their business; second, legitimate capitalists, who, exercising their judgment as to the conditions, purchase or sell for future delivery with a view to profit based on the law of supply and demand; and, third, gamblers, or irresponsible speculators, who buy or sell as upon the turn of a card. United States v New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange, 263 US 611, 619, 68 L Ed 475, 477, 44 S Ct 225.

See margin; matching; option.

future sales. In a sense developed in some commercial activities, a sale under terms calling for delivery later in the current month, or in some future month. Board of Trade v United States, 246 US 231, 62 L Ed 683, 38 S Ct 242.

futuri. Persons of the future; persons who have not yet come into existence.

futuro. See de futuro; in futuro.

fyhtwite. Same as fightwite.

fyrdwite. Same as ferdwit.

G

G. A slang term for one thousand dollars. Standing for four hundred, as a Roman numeral.

g. a. Abbreviation of general average, also of general agent.

G. A. Abbreviation of General Assembly.

gabel. Same as gavel.
See land-gabel.

gabella. Same as gavel.

gablum. Same as gavel.

gabulus denariorum. Rent paid in money.

Gadsden Purchase. See Gadsden Treaty.

Gadsden Treaty. A treaty made December 30, 1853, between the United States and Mexico, whereby, under the so-called "Gadsden Purchase," the United States added a strip along the southern boundary of the Territory of New Mexico. Ainsa v United States, 161 US 208, 220, 40 L Ed 673, 677, 16 S Ct 544.

gafol. Same as gavel.

gafolgild. The payment of taxes, tribute or rent.

gafol-land. Land which was liable to the payment of gafolgild.

gag. Something forced into a person's mouth to prevent outcry.

gage. Noun: A pledge; a challenge; a wager. Verb: To pledge; to wage; to challenge.

gager. Verb: To pledge; to wage; to challenge. Noun: A government revenue officer charged with the duty of measuring the contents of liquor casks.

gager de deliverance. To give security; to give pledge for the delivery of goods by the person who had distrained them, after an action had been brought against him for their recovery.

gager del ley. Wager of law.

gain. That which is acquired or comes as a benefit; profit. Thorn v de Breteuil, 86 App Div 405, 416, 83 NYS 849.

gainage. The gain or profit accruing to a farmer from his crops; animals and implements employed in the raising of crops.

gain derived from capital. Not a growth or increment of value in the investment; but a gain, a profit, something of exchangeable value proceeding from the property, severed from the capital, however invested or employed, and coming in, being derived, that is, received or drawn in by the recipient for his separate use, benefit, and disposal. Eisner v Macomber, 252 US 189, 64 L Ed 521, 40 S Ct 189, 9 ALR 1570, 1577.

See capital gain.

gainery. Same as gainage.

Gaius. See Institutes of Gaius.

gale. A strong or violent wind; technically, a wind of the velocity of from 35 or 40 to 75 or 80 miles per hour. Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. v Columbia, 65 Kan 390, 69 P 338. An older term for a license in real estate and the rent paid for such license.

Gales. Wales, now a part of Great Britain, but at one time a separate kingdom.

gallery. The section of a theater in which the least expensive seats are located. A walk having a roof supported by pillars. A collection of works of art. The place of business of a professional photographer.

See rogues' gallery.

gallows. A framework made of two upright posts and a bar across on which criminals convicted of capital offenses are put to death by hanging. Anciently it was sometimes made with but one upright post or by a bar across the fork of a tree.

gallows-tree. Same as gallows.

galravage. Same as gilravage.

gamacta. An assault; a battery; a stroke; a blow.

gamalis. A legitimate child; a child born of parents who are married to each other; a child born of parents who are engaged to marry each other, but who are not yet married.

gamble. To play at any game for any sum of money or other property of any value. State v Book, 41 Iowa 550. To take a monetary risk on the chance of receiving a monetary gain, 24 Am J12st Gaming § 2; in short, to stake money or property on a chance. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 2.

To play any game for cigars or drinks, or under an agreement that the loser shall treat to cigars, drinks or other refreshments, is a form of gambling. Zotalis v Cannellos, 138 Minn 179, 164 NW 807.

gambler. One who gambles; a person who follows or practices games of chance or skill, with the expectation and purpose of thereby winning money or other property. See Buckley v O'Niel, 113 Mass 193.

See common gambler; gamble; professional gambler.

gambling. See gamble.

gambling contract. A contract in which the parties, in effect, stipulate that they shall gain or lose on the happening of an event which is uncertain of occurrence and in which they have no interest except that arising from the possibility of such gain or loss. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 62. A contract wherein the parties stake their property or money on an event which in its nature may or may not happen, and whereby one of them is to lose and the other is to win. State v Stripling, 113 Ala 120, 21 So 409.

gambling den. Another term for "gambling house." Buckley v O'Niel, 113 Mass 193.

gambling device. The tangible means, instrument, contrivance or thing with or by which money may be lost or won, as distinguished from the game itself. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 31. Gilley v Commonwealth, 312 Ky 584, 229 SW2d 60, 19 ALR2d 1224. An instrument or device used for the purpose of gambling, although capable of use for another purpose. 24 Am J 1st Gaming § 31. Any machine which is so contrived that the player is attracted by the chance that he will either immediately or ultimately receive something for nothing. Marvin v Sloan, 77 Mont 174, 250 P 443.

[513]

gambling house. A house kept for the purpose of permitting persons to resort to it for gambling. 24 Am J2d Disord H § 3. A place to which persons are permitted to resort for gambling. Buckley v O'Niel, 113 Mass 193. A place whose use is intended to facilitate gambling and where sporting characters are invited to congregate for purposes of illegal amusement and gain, and to stake money or other thing of value upon trials of chance, skill, or endurance. St. Louis Fair Asso. v Carmody, 151 Mo 566, 52 SW 365.

See common gaming house; house money; keeper of common gaming house.

gambling machine. See gambling device.

gambling partnership. A partnership organized for the purpose of gambling. 40 Am J1st Partn § 29.

gambling policy. A wager policy; that is, a policy of life insurance wherein the person for whose use it was issued has no pecuniary interest in the life of the insured. Gamb v Covenant Mut. Life Ins. Co. 50 Mo 44, 47. An insurance policy in which the insured has no insurable interest in the subject of the insurance. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins §§ 432 et seq.

gambling room. A room to which persons are permitted to resort for gambling. Any room with books, apparatus, or paraphernalia for the purpose of recording or registering bets or wagers or of selling pools. People v Weithoff, 93 Mich 631.

See gambling house.

gambling table. A table adapted, devised, and designed for the playing of a game or games of chance for money or property. Any table kept and used for gambling, being characterized, not by structure or appliances attached, but by the use to which it is put. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 32.

gambling verdict. A verdict reached by chance, for example, by tossing a coin or drawing lots. Anno: 73 ALR 94; 53 Am J1st Trials § 1029.

game. A contest for success or superiority in a trial of chance, skill or endurance; in its connection with gambling, a means of playing for money or other things of value, so that the result depends more on chance than skill. James v State, 4 Okla Crim 587, 112 P 944.

Birds and beasts of a wild nature obtained by hunting and trapping. 35 Am J2d Fish §§ 1, 2. All animals of both land and sea which are hunted for sport:—fish, deer, pheasants, partridges, and even wild bees. State v Higgins, 51 SC 51, 28 SE 15. Sometimes construed to include animals and birds which are by nature wild although bred in captivity and confined, being thereby to a certain extent domesticated. 35 Am J2d Fish §§ 1, 2.

A contest for success or superiority in a trial of chance, skill or endurance; a sporting event, such as a game of football or baseball. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 13. In the narrower sense of a connection with gambling, an activity employed as a means of playing for money or other thing of value; as a means of determining who wins a bet. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 13.

gamecock. See cock fight.

gamekeeper. A person employed to guard wild game in a park or game preserve and to prevent poaching.

game laws. See fish and game laws.

game of chance. Such a game as is determined entirely or in part by lot or mere luck, and in which judgment, practice, skill, and adroitness play no part at all or are thwarted by chance. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 18.

game preserve. A private park or tract, stocked with wild game for hunting.

A tract of publicly owned land closed to hunting or in which hunting is limited according to season or kind of game, the tract being maintained in the interest of conservation.

game warden. Same as gamekeeper.

gaming. To play at any game for money or property; in short to stake money or property on a chance. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 2. Essentially the same as gambling.

See gamble.

gaming contract. Same as gambling contract.

gaming device. See gambling device.

gaming house. See gambling house.

gaming table. See gambling table.

ganancial property. (Spanish.) That property which husband and wife, living together, acquire during matrimony, by a common title, lucrative or onerous; or that which husband and wife, or either, acquire by purchase, or by their labor and industry, as also the fruits of the separate property which each brings to the matrimony or acquires by lucrative title during the continuance of the partnership. Cartwright v Cartwright, 18 Tex 626, 634.

ganancias. (Spanish.) The income derived from the community property of a husband and his wife.

gang. A number of persons associated together for work or sport. A group of employees directed by a foreman. A body of persons organized and directed for criminal purposes. An old term for currency or current money.

gang-days. Same as gang-week.

gangiatori. Ancient officers whose duty it was to inspect weights and measures.

gangplank. A movable platform or stairway for boarding or leaving a ship.

gangster. One of a gang organized for and directed in the commission of crime; one of a gang of roughs or hirelings. State v Gaynor, 119 NJL 582, 197 A 360.

gangway. Passageway.

gang-week. Rogation week; that is, the week in each year when the boundaries of parishes and manors were surveyed.

gantlet. Same as gauntlet.

gantlope. Same as gauntlet.

gaol. Same as jail.

gaol delivery. Same as jail delivery.

gaoler. Same as jailer.

gaol liberties. See liberties of the jail.

gaol limits. See liberties of the jail.

garage. A word appropriated from the French, meaning a place where a motor vehicle is housed or housed and kept in condition. 24 Am J1st Garag § 2. A "workshop" within the meaning of a workmen's compensation statute, as a place where repairs are made on the vehicles of customers. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 110.

See private garage; public garage.

[514]

garage liability insurance. A liability insurance policy specifically designed to protect garage-keepers, operators of service and repair stations, rental agencies, or automobile dealers, against loss by reason of the inflicting of injury to the person or property of others in the pursuit of business operations. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 96.

garageman's lien. The lien of the keeper of a garage for service upon, or storage of, a motor vehicle. 24 Am J1st Garag § 48.

garandia. A warranty.

garathinx. A gift.

garaunt. A warranty.

garaunter. To warrant.

garauntor. A warrantor.

garba. A bundle or sheaf of unthreshed grain.

garbage. The accumulation as refuse of animal, fruit, or vegetable matter, liquid or otherwise, that attends the preparation, use, cooking, dealing in, or storing of meat, fish, fowl, fruit, or vegetables; any worthless or offensive matter. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 298.

garbage disposal plant. See disposal plants.

garbales decimae. Tithes of grain.

garble. To mix up a story; to distort the facts in relating an occurrence or event. In very rare usage, to sort the good from the bad in a quantity of a commodity.

garbling coins. In rare usage, the practice of dealers in money of taking the good coins out of circulation for melting and keeping the worn ones in circulation.

gard. A guard; a guardianship; care; custody; wardship.

garde. Same as gard.

gardein. A guardian; a keeper; a warden.

garden. A tract, usually of a limited area, for the growing of vegetables or flowers. A part of the curtilage of the dwelling house. 5 Am J2d Arson § 1.

garden apartment. An apartment in an apartment house, the occupants of which are entitled to join with the occupants of other apartments in the use and enjoyment of open areas around the apartment building. Shapiro v Baltimore, 230 Md 199, 186 A2d 605, 99 ALR2d 861.

gardianus. A guardian; a keeper; a warden.

gardinum. A garden.

garene. A warren or private game preserve where wild game and wild fowl were kept for hunting.

garner. To warn, being the word from which the term "garnishment" derives. Lynch v Johnson, 196 Va 516, 84 SE2d 419. To garnish; to garnishee.

See garnishment.

garnetted wool. Wool shorn from the animal which bore it, cleaned, and partially processed. Interstate Commerce Com. v Wagner (DC Tenn) 112 F Supp 109.

garnir. Another spelling of garner. Lynch v Johnson, 196 Va 516, 84 SE2d 419.

garnish. To warn; to notify; to cause a garnishment to be levied on a garnishee; to garnishee.

garnishee. Noun: The person upon whom a garnishment is served, usually a person indebted to, or in possession of property of, the defendant in the main action. Verb: To commence a garnishment proceeding; to serve a notice of garnishment; to effect a garnishment of a debtor of the defendant in the main action. Burlington & Missouri River Railroad Co. v Thompson, 31 Kan 180, 1 P 622.

See garnishment. garnishee execution. The employment of the remedy of garnishment under an execution issued upon a judgment. Sarver v Towne, 285 NY 264, 34 NE2d 313, 138 ALR 1344.

garnishee process. Same as garnishment. garnishing process. Same as garnishment.

garnishment. A proceeding by a creditor to obtain satisfaction of the indebtedness out of property or credits of the debtor in the possession of, or owing by, a third person; the person instituting the proceeding being generally referred to as the creditor or plaintiff, the person indebted to the creditor being called the debtor or defendant, and the person holding the property of, or who is indebted to, the defendant being called the garnishee. In effect, an action by the defendant against the garnishee for the use of the plaintiff, or a suit by the defendant in which the plaintiff is subrogated to the rights of the defendant; sometimes called a compulsory novation. 6 Am J2d Attach § 2. Known in some states as factoring process or trustee process. 6 Am J2d Attach § 2. Distinguished from attachment in the respect that it reaches funds, effects, or credits belonging to the defendant which are in the hands of third persons and that property reached by the proceeding is left in the hands of the garnishee pending the outcome of the principal action. 6 Am J2d Attach § 3.

garnishment bonds. A bond required in obtaining a garnishment as a provisional remedy, the condition of which is that the plaintiff shall pay the costs and damages which the defendant may sustain if the writ has been sued out wrongfully. 6 Am J2d Attach § 518. A bond, otherwise known as a "forthcoming" or "delivery" bond, given by the defendant to obtain a release of property reached by a garnishment, the condition of which is that the property will be forthcoming in the event judgment is rendered against the defendant in the main action. 6 Am J2d Attach § 523. A bond furnished in obtaining a dissolution of the garnishment, the condition of which is that the defendant will perform and satisfy whatever judgment is obtained against him in the main action. 6 Am J2d Attach § 523.

garote. Same as garrote.

garrant. A warrant; authority.

garrantie. A warranty.

garrena. A warren; a game preserve.

garrote. A form of capital punishment, adopted by some countries; strangulation or the severance of the spinal cord by an iron collar tightened by a screw.

garsumne. A fine; an amercement.

garter. The badge of the order of the garter, which was also called the order of St. George, and was the highest order of British knighthood. The members of this order ranked next after the nobility. See 1 Bl Comm 403.

[515]

garth. A yard; a small enclosure; a fish-weir.

gas. A substance of such nature that it can expand indefinitely, thereby completely filling its container; a form neither liquid nor solid, in other words, a vapor. An inflammable used for lighting and heating. A colloquial term for gasoline. As the word appears in an insurance policy provision excluding the risk of death or injury from "gas:" -any substance in an aeriform state, having noxious or poisonous qualities. Anno: 92 ALR 167.

See carbon monoxide; casing head gas; natural gas; wet gas.

gas company. A company engaged in the business of supplying artificial or natural gas to ultimate consumers for lighting, power, or heating purposes. See 26 Am J2d Electr §§ 6-9. A public utility rendering service to industrial plants, business buildings, mercantile establishments, residences, etc.

See natural gas company.

gas franchise. The right to use the streets of a city or village or public highways outside a city or village for laying pipes, mains, etc. through which gas may be conveyed and furnished for public or private use. See 26 Am J2d Electr § 18.

gas jet. A flame of burning gas. The burner on a gas fixture.

gas lease. See oil and gas lease.

gas meter. See meter.

gasoline. A volatile and inflammable liquid produced from crude oil by successive distillations; used as fuel in engines, particularly the engines in motor vehicles, and for other domestic and industrial purposes. United States v Gulf Refining Co. 268 US 542, 69 L Ed 1082, 45 S Ct 597.

gasoline clause. A clause in a fire insurance policy whereby the policy is rendered void if gasoline is kept or used on the insured premises without the written consent of the insurer. German American Ins. Co. v Hyman, 42 Colo 156, 94 P 27.

gasoline filling station. A place of business, located on premises abutting on a street or highway, supplying motorists with gasoline, lubricating oil, and some automobile accessories, and furnishing services connected with motor vehicles, such as tire repair, lubrication, washing, and even repairs upon the vehicle itself.

gasoline license. A municipal license required for the storage or keeping of gasoline. 24 Am J1st Gas & O§154.

gasoline permit. See gasoline license.

gasoline premium. Something given a purchaser of gasoline in addition to the product itself, usually trading stamps. 52 Am J1st Trad St § 11.

gas station. See gasoline filling station.

gast. Waste; whatever is done to land to impair the value of the inheritance.

gastaldus. A bailiff; a steward.

gaster. To commit waste.

gastine. Waste land; uncultivated land.

gastric analysis. The removal of food contents from the stomach by pump, followed by an analysis of such contents to determine the chemicals present, the chemical action, even the presence of radioactive material. Cardinal v University of Rochester, 188 Misc 823, 71 NYS2d 614, affd 271 App Div 1048, 69 NYS2d 352.

gastric lavage. The withdrawal of the contents of the stomach to prevent disastrous effects of poison therein or for the purpose of making an analysis of the contents.

gastritis. A disease of the stomach, particularly an inflammation of the lining, but not necessarily a serious disease within the meaning of a life insurance policy. Anno: 153 ALR 723 et seq.

gas well. A well which produces gas in such quantities and under such pressure that it can be operated commercially or at least that the gas produced can be used profitably on the premises. Prichard v Freeland Oil Co. 75 W Va 450, 84 SE 945. Not a mine. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 2.

gas works. A plant for the manufacture of artificial gas.

gate. A barrier which can be swung or raised to permit passage; an opening in a fence or wall, sometimes with, sometimes without, a movable barrier. Bars at a railroad crossing which may be raised or lowered to permit or restrain traffic on the highway. In a peculiar sense of the term, a servitude or easement for the pasturage or passage of cattle.

See toll gate.

gatemmen. Railroad employees at railroad crossings, whose primary duty is to raise and lower the gates according to the movement of trains and traffic upon the highway.

gathered crop. A mature and harvested crop. 21 Am J2d Crops § 1.

gauge. A measure; an instrument for taking a measure. The width of a railroad track, meaning the distance between the rails.

gauging. An operation for determining the physical, chemical, or other properties or characteristics of an article for the purpose of the application of customs duties. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 62.

gaugeator. Same as gager.

gauger. Same as gager.

gaugetum. The measure of the capacity of a barrel, cask or other like container.

gauntlet. A former type of military punishment in which the offender was required to pass between two files of soldiers who struck him with sticks or whips as he passed. A punishment sometimes imposed by a "kangaroo court."

gavel. A tax; an excise; a duty; rent. A mallet used by a presiding officer or judge holding court to obtain order and decorum by rapping it on the table or bench.

gavelbred. Rent paid in bread or provisions.

gaveled. Held by gavelkind tenure.

gavelet and cessavit. A common-law process, long since in disuse, by which a landlord could seize the land itself for rent in arrear and hold it until payment was made. 32 Am J1st L & T § 613.

gavelgeld. Yearly profit, toll, or tribute; the subject of such profit, toll, or tribute.

gavelherte. A service of ploughing rendered by customary tenants.

[516]

gaveling men. Tenants who paid rent and who rendered customary services.

gavelkind. A form of socage tenure which originated in Kent and of which the principal characteristics were: (1) That the tenant could dispose of his estate by feoffment at the age of fifteen. (2) That the estate did not escheat in case of attainder and execution of the tenant for felony, under the maxim "The father to the bough, the son to the plough." (3) In most places, the tenant could pass his lands by devise, even before statute permitted it. (4) The lands descended to all the sons together, and not to any one of them. See 2 Bl Comm 84.

See Irish gavelkind; tenure in gavelkind. gaveller. An officer appointed by the king, who had charge of coal mining in certain districts of England.

gavelman. A tenant who held his land under gavelkind tenure.

gavelmed. The customary service, rendered by tenants, of mowing meadows.

gavelrep. The service of reaping at the command of the lord of the manor.

gavelwerk. Customary services of tenants rendered by manual labor or with carts.

gazette. Noun: A magazine or other periodical. Verb: To publish in an official publication, especially in the British Gazette.

See Gazette.

Gazette. A British official newspaper announcing declarations of bankruptcy, official promotions and public events.

gebocced. Conveyed, the term being derived by a flagrant corruption of Latin.

gebocian. To convey; to convey by a writing.

See gebocced.

gebur. A person who owned an allotment of land.

geburscript. A neighborhood; a village.

Geiger counter. An instrument which detects radiation, one of the important uses of which is the discovery of radioactive minerals. Anno: 66 ALR2d 560.

geld. Noun: A sum of money; a fine; a tribute; a tax. A castrated horse. Verb: To castrate a horse.

geldabilis. Same as geldable.

geldable. Taxable; liable to pay a tax or tribute.

gelded. See gelt.

gelding. See gelt.

gelt. See geld.

gem. A precious stone fit for cutting and polishing as a jewel.

A singular distinction appears in old authority a jewel is a stone which is valuable but kept as a curiosity; a jewel is a valuable stone prepared and mounted for wear. Cavendish v Cavendish (Eng) 1 Bro Ch 409.

gemma. A gem; a jewel; a precious stone.

gemot. A meeting; an assembly.

gemote. Same as gemot.

genealogy. Family history. The tracing of a person's descent from his ancestors. The science of tracing the history of a family in respect of lineage.

genearch. The head or chief of a family or tribe.

geneath. A villein; a vassal.

gener. A son-in-law.

general. Common to many, or the greatest number; widely spread; prevalent; extensive though not universal; having a relation to all; common to the whole. Koen v State, 35 Neb 676, 53 NW 595, quoting Webster.

general acceptance. An acceptance of a bill of exchange by the drawee whereby he engages to pay according to the tenor of the bill, without qualification. Uniform Negotiable Instruments L § 139. Cox v National Bank, 100 US 704, 25 L Ed 739.

general accident policy. A contract insuring against accidents happening to the person of the insured, without limitation as to the means of or the occasion, that is, not limited to accidents involving motor vehicles, airplanes, etc. Employers' Liability Assur. Corp. v Merrill, 155 Mass 404, 29 NE 529, 530.

general act. Same as general statute.

General Accounting Office. The accounting and auditing office of the United States, headed by the Comptroller General, and the Assistant Comptroller General, of the United States, having a European Branch and a Far East Branch, and various Divisions for distinct parts of the work, such as Defense Accounting and Auditing Division, Civil Accounting and Auditing Division, and Field Operations Division.

general administrative law. Administrative law which is common to all or to many different types of administrative agencies. 1 Am J2d Admin L § 7.

general administrator. An administrator who administers the whole of the estate of a decedent. Clemens v Walker & Brickell, 40 Ala 189, 198.

General Advisory Committee. A committee established by the Atomic Energy Act to advise the Atomic Energy Commission on scientific and technical matters. 42 USC § 2036.

general agent. An agent authorized to perform all acts connected with the business or employment in which he is engaged; one authorized to conduct on behalf of a principal a series of transactions involving a continuity of service; one authorized to bind his principal by an act within the scope of his authority, notwithstanding it may be contrary to his special instructions. 3 Am J2d Agency § 6. An agent of a corporation with responsibility, but not necessarily an officer. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1080.

See general agent of foreign corporation; general agent of insurance company.

general agent of foreign corporation. One who is authorized to transact all the business of the principal at a particular place or of a particular kind generally. Anno: 113 ALR 83.

general agent of insurance company. An agent authorized to transact all the business of the company of a particular kind or in a particular place, and whose powers are prima facie coextensive with the business entrusted to his care. Southern States Fire Ins. Co. v Kronenberg, 199 Ala 164, 74 So 63.

general and notorious recognition. As a means of legitimation of a child born out of wedlock: -open and extensive recognition; not necessarily universal recognition; such conduct and bearing of the father toward the child that a substantial portion of the community believes that the child is his. 10 Am J2d Bast § 52.

[517]

general appearance. An appearance whereby the person appearing submits himself to the jurisdiction of the court, regardless of whether process has been served upon him, and renders himself before the court for all further proceedings in the cause or incidental to the original suit. 5 Am J2d Appear § 1. An appearance by invoking the judgment of the court in any manner on any question other than that of the jurisdiction of the court over his person, thereby waiving any defects in the jurisdiction of the court for want of valid summons or a proper service thereof. Re Blalock, 233 NC 493, 64 SE2d 848, 25 ALR2d 818.

General Assembly. The official title of the legislature in nineteen of the states. The body highest in the government of the United Presbyterian Church in the United States of America.

general assignment. As an act of bankruptcy:-any conveyance at common law or by statute by which one intends to make an absolute and unconditional appropriation of all his property to pay his creditors, share and share alike. Anno: 57 ALR 859.

See general assignment for benefit of creditors; general assignment of error.

general assignment for benefit of creditors. A conveyance by a debtor without consideration from the grantee of substantially all his property to a party in trust to collect the amount owing to him, to sell and convey the property, to distribute the proceeds of all the property among his creditors, and to return the surplus, if any, to the debtor. 6 Am J2d Assign for Crs § 1.

general assignment of error. An assignment of error on appeal which does not clearly indicate the particular rulings of which complaint is made by appellant. 5 Am J2d A & E § 670.

general assize. An old name for the British parliament.

general assumpsit. Assumpsit in the common courts: indebitatus assumpsit, quantum meruit, quantum valebant, money had and received, money lent, money paid, and insimul computassent or count on account stated. 1 Am J2d Actions § 13.

general average. A contribution by all the parties in a sea adventure to make good the loss sustained by one of their number on account of sacrifices voluntary made of part of the ship or cargo to save the residue and the lives of those on board from an impending peril, or for extraordinary expenses necessarily incurred by one or more of the parties for the general benefit of all the interests embarked in the enterprise. An obligation resting upon the vessel, the cargo, and the freight, in proportion to their respective values, and upon the owners of each, in proportion to the value of their property at risk, and enforceable by resorting to a lien upon the property saved from the common peril, or by actions against the persons bound to contribute. 48 Am J1st Ship § 621.

While general average is not, eo nomine, insured against in marine policies, where it is payable in consequence of a peril insured against, the insurer is liable therefor. Peters v Warren Ins. Co. (US) 14 Pet 99, 10 L Ed 371.

In case of a general average loss, the insurer is directly liable for the whole of the insured value of the property sacrificed for the general benefit, and upon payment is subrogated to the rights of the insured for contribution. Dickenson v Jardine (Eng) LR 3 CP 639, 14 ERC 431.

See free from average unless general.

general average bond. A kind of bond, also called an "average bond," which it is customary and lawful for the master of a ship to exact as a condition precedent to the delivery of the cargo in case a dispute has arisen as to liability for general average, or where investigation is necessary before claims can be adjusted; which bond is conditioned upon the payment of such average, if any, as may be found due upon proper adjustment conformably to law and the usage of the port.

The legal operation and effect of such a bond is to fix the measure of the obligor's liability, and to secure the payment of the amount, unless it shall afterward appear that it was not a case of general average. 48 Am J1st Ship § 645.

general average contribution. See general average.

general average lien. See general average.

general average loss. See general average.

general ballot. A ballot which contains the names of all candidates for both local and state offices to be voted upon at an election. Re Ballot Act, 16 RI 766, 19 A 656.

general benefits. For the purposes of the rule that "general benefits" are not to be deducted from compensation or damages in eminent domain:—those benefits from the improvement which are enjoyed, not only by the property of the condemnee concerned in the litigation, but also by other property. 27 Am J2d Em D § 367.

general bequest. See general legacy.

general building scheme. A scheme or plan under which the owner of a large tract of land divides it into building lots, to be sold to different persons for separate occupancy, and to be conveyed to them by deeds which contain uniform covenants restricting the use which the several grantees may make of their premises. Besch v Hyman, 221 App Div 445, 223 NYS 231.

general cancellation. A sweeping and general termination by one act and at one time of all the outstanding policies issued by an insurance company. State Mut. Fire Underwriters v Glen Cove Mut. Ins. Co. (CA8 SD) 124 F2d 681.

general character. The estimation of a person by the members of the community in which he resides. Douglas v Tousey (NY) 2 Wend 352, 354. The reputation of a person.

See reputation.

general charge. See general instruction.

general circulation. See newspaper of general circulation.

general claim. See general creditor.

general construction business. The business of constructing houses, buildings in industrial plants, office buildings, and other structures. A term broad enough to include the making of boxes, crates, and parts for prefabricated houses. Gilman Paint & Varnish Co. v Legum, 197 Md 665, 80 A2d 906, 29 ALR2d 286.

general constructive possession. That possession which the law attaches to the title to real property where there is no actual possession in the owner of the title, and no one in adverse possession of the property; to be distinguished from that constructive possession known as "effective possession" or "virtual possession." Wheeler v Clark, 114 Tenn 117, 85 SW 258.

[518]

General Court. The official title of the legislature in Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

general court-martial. The highest in rank of the three kinds of courts-martial, conducted before a body of at least five persons who shall be commissioned officers, except as one of them must be an enlisted man where the accused, an enlisted man, so demands, and usually convened for the trial of capital cases.

general covenant of warranty. A warranty of title to real estate unrestricted as to claims or claimants, that is, a warranty against the lawful claims of all persons whomsoever. Burton v Price, 105 Fla 544, 141 So 728.

general credit. The general reputation of a witness for veracity.

general creditor. A creditor whose claim is unsecured by mortgage, judgment lien, or other lien, and is not entitled to priority. Stepp v McAdams (CA9 Cal) 97 F2d 874; Dempsey v Pforzheimer, 86 Mich 652, 49 NW 465; Wolcott v Ashenfelter, 5 NM 442, 23 P 780.

general criminal intent. A matter of conscious wrongdoing from which a prohibited result follows, without a subjective desire for the accomplishment of that result. State v Daniels, 236 La 998, 109 So 2d 896.

general custom. A custom which prevails throughout a country or a large portion of a country and becomes its law, its existence being determined by the court. 21 Am J2d Cust & U § 6.

A custom observed generally in a particular trade or locality. United States v Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing Co. (CA10 Okla). 113 F2d 194.

general damages. Those damages which are the natural and necessary result of the wrongful act or omission asserted as the foundation of liability. Parker v Harris Pine Mills, 206 Or 187, 291 P2d 709, 56 ALR2d 382. Those damages which are traceable to, and are the probable and necessary result of, the injury complained of, or which are presumed by, or implied in, law to have resulted therefrom. 22 Am J2d Damg § 15.

general damages in defamation. Such damages as will compensate for the natural and probable consequences of the publication. Turner v Hearst, 115 Cal 394, 47 P 129.

general damages in eminent domain. Properly, those damages which result from the taking of the property, including compensation for the property taken and injury to adjacent land of the condemnee. 26 Am J2d Em D § 159. In a very special sense of the term, damages common to the entire community through which or in which the project of condemnation is established. Lewisburg & Northern Railroad Co. v Hinds, 134 Tenn 293, 183 SW 985.

general damages in sales. For breach by seller: -the difference between what the buyer agreed to pay, and the sum for which he could have supplied himself with goods of the same character at the place of delivery, or if not obtainable there, then at the nearest available market, plus any additional freight resulting from the breach. Lawrence v Porter (CA6 Mich) 63 F 62. For breach by buyer: -the difference between the contract price and the market or current price at the time or times when the goods ought to have been accepted, or, if no time was fixed for acceptance, then at the time of the refusal to accept. 46 Am J1st Sales § 616.

general demurrer. A demurrer directed to a matter of substance and attacking a pleading on the ground that the averments are insufficient in substance to state a cause of action or defense. 41 Am J1st PI § 204.

In equity, where the practice is not controlled by rules of practice, a general demurrer challenges, in general terms, the right of the plaintiff to have any relief, or discovery and relief, on the facts stated in the bill. Its usual form is that of the general demurrer for want of equity on the face of the bill. Marsh v Marsh, 16 NJ Eq 391.

general denial. A pleading in modern practice which bears a close analogy to the general issue in common law pleading; a pleading, in response to what purports to be an affirmative allegation of a cause of action, which operates as a denial of every material allegation of such complaint or other pleading as fully as if it had been specifically and separately denied. 41 Am J1st PI §§ 148, 149. A pleading by a defendant which goes to destroy the plaintiff's cause of action but presents no defense grounded on new matter or matter in avoidance. 41 Am J1st PI § 149.

general deposit. A delivery of money or funds into the possession of a bank, whose property the deposit becomes, in return for which the depositor receives a credit of the amount represented by the deposit, against which credit the depositor may draw in the usual course of the bank's business. 10 Am J2d Banks § 360.

general deputy sheriff. An under sheriff,-a deputy sheriff who, by virtue of his appointment, has authority to execute all the ordinary duties of the office of sheriff. Allen v Smith, 12 NJL 159, 162.

general devise. A devise which does not refer to real estate by a specific designation or description of the property but instead is inclusive of perhaps several distinct properties, as where the devise is of "all" or the "remainder" of the testator's real property. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1404. In much less common usage, a devise without words of limitation, that is, without any words which limit the quantity of the estate devised. Doe, d. Hitch v Patten, 13 Del (8 Houst) 334, 16 A 558.

Generale dictum generaliter est interpretandum. A general statement should be interpreted generally.

general disability clause. A disability provision of a health or accident insurance policy, which provides for benefits for total disability preventing the insured from performing any work or following any occupation for compensation or profit, or which indicates in some other way that the insured's disability, in order to be total, is not limited merely to inability to perform the duties of his own particular occupation or profession. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1516.

general educational institution. A common school; a public school. So defined by some authority as to be more mythical than real: -a school with kindergarten, primary, preparatory, and collegiate departments, with courses of instruction in all the elementary and advanced sciences, and ancient and modern languages, and with courses of instruction, in the advanced departments, usual in the colleges of the state. Parsons Business College v Kalamazoo, 166 Mich 305, 131 NW 553.

[519]

general election. An election recurring at stated intervals as fixed by law, without any superinducing cause other than the passage of time. 25 Am J2d Elect § 3. An election held for the purpose of selecting an officer to succeed to the office on the expiration of the full term of the incumbent. People ex rel. Elder v Quilici, 309111 App 466, 33 NE2d 492; Grant v Payne, 60 Nev 250, 107 P2d 307, 132 ALR 568.

general emancipation. The release of a child from custody and control by the parent upon the child's reaching the age of majority. A complete severance by the parent of the filial tie in releasing his minor child permanently from custody and control and authorizing the child to make its own contract of service and to collect and spend its wages and other earnings. 39 Am J1st P & C § 64.

Generale nihil certum implicat. A general expression implies nothing certain.

general estate. The entire estate both real and personal of a person, but particularly the entire property left by a decedent. In a more narrow sense, that part of the estate of a decedent, a bankrupt, a debtor in receivership, or an assignor under an assignment for the benefit of creditors, which is available for the payment of claims of general creditors. In a more technical sense, the residuary estate, the property of the decedent not specifically devised or bequeathed. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 515.

Generale tantum valet in generalibus, quantum singulare in singulis. That which is general prevails in general matters, as that which is particular prevails in particular matters.

general execution. The ordinary execution issued upon a judgment; a writ which directs the sheriff to levy upon property of the defendant which is not exempt in such amount as to satisfy the judgment, as distinguished from a special execution, as in a mortgage foreclosure, where the writ directs levy upon the property covered by the mortgage.

general executor. An executor who has been appointed to administer the whole of the estate of a decedent.

general exemption from taxation. An exemption applicable to all persons of a certain class or of all property of a certain kind; a prerogative of the legislature except as controlled by constitutional provision. Eyers Woolen Co. v Gilsum, 84 NH 1, 146 A 511, 64 ALR 1196.

general finding. A finding of fact by the trial court, in a trial to the court, in terms such as "all the issues of fact presented under the pleadings are determined in favor of the plaintiff," such finding usually being sufficient to support a judgment in the absence of a statute or rule of practice to the contrary, since it imports a finding of every subsidiary fact. 53 Am J1st Trial § 1141. A finding of the ultimate facts and all the special facts necessary to sustain the finding. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 456.

general franchises. The primary corporate franchise which grants special privileges to incorporators, enabling them to act for certain designated purposes as a single individual and usually exempts them from individual liability; and the secondary corporate franchise consisting in the powers granted to a corporation and specified in its charter. 18 Am J2d Corp § 66.

The right to be a corporation, or the corporate right of life, is inseparable from the corporation itself. It is a part of it, and cannot be sold or assigned. That franchise is general and dies with the corporation, for it cannot survive dissolution or repeal. Lord v Equitable Life Assur. Soc. 194 NY 212, 87 NE 443.

general freight agent. A carrier's agent authorized to make contracts for transportation, even for through transportation to a point beyond the line of the carrier. 14 Am J2d Car § 690.

general guaranty. A guaranty which is addressed to persons generally and may be acted upon and enforced by anyone to whom it is presented, the requisite meeting of minds occurring when advantage is taken of the general guaranty by the creation of a debt thereunder. Burckhardt v Bank of America Nat. Trust & Sav. Asso. 127 Colo 251, 256 P2d 234, 41 ALR2d 1207.

general guardian. A guardian of the person of the ward, or of all of the property of the ward situated within the jurisdiction of the court which appointed him, or of both the person and of such property. To be distinguished from a guardian ad litem or special guardian.

general heir. See heir general.

general hypothecation. The hypothecation by a debtor of all of his property for the benefit of his creditors.

Generalia praecedunt; specialia sequuntur. General matters precede; special matters follow.

Generalia specialibus non derogant. General terms do not control special ones. Burnett v Maloney, 97 Tenn 697, 37 SW 689.

Generalia sunt praeponenda singularibus. General matters should be placed before particular matters.

Generalia verba sunt generaliter intelligenda. General words are to be understood generally.

Generalibus specialia derogant. Special words derogate or take away from the meaning of general ones.

general income tax. An income tax, which taxes income from all sources, with certain definite exceptions. United States v Safety Car Heating & Lighting Co. 297 US 88, 80 L Ed 500, 56 S Ct 353, reh den 297 US 727, 80 L Ed 1010, 56 S Ct 495.

general indefinite failure of issue. See indefinite failure of issue.

general indorsement. An indorsement of a bill or note made without qualification. Uniform Negotiable Instruments L § 66; 11 Am J2d B & N § 359. An indorsement in which no indorsee is named. Santa Marina Co. v Canadian Bank of Commerce (CA9 Cal) 254 F 391.

general insanity. An expression sometimes used in distinguishing partial insanity and illusion from insanity generally. Reeves v State, 196 Ga 604, 27 SE2d 375. Madness on all subjects. National Life & Acci. Ins. Co. v Hannon, 214 Ala 663, 666, 108 So 575.

[520]

general instruction. An instruction by the court to the jury of such a nature that it is required, or at least proper, in all cases, for example, the charge that the jury shall consider only the evidence and the instructions given them by the court in arriving at a verdict. A charge to the jury in the form of an affirmative statement with a hypothesis, such being proper in some jurisdictions where there is no conflict in the evidence and where the facts testified to, if proved, entitle one party, plaintiff or defendant, to a verdict, the charge, in effect, stating that the jury shall find for such party if they believe the evidence or if they are satisfied that the facts are as testified. 53 Am J1st Trial § 550.

A general charge in a criminal case is an instruction that the jury shall find the defendant guilty if they believe the evidence produced by the state, or, more properly, if they are satisfied beyond a reasonable doubt that the facts are as testified; such a verdict is never proper unless the evidence justifies a conviction and any other verdict would be inconsistent with the evidence as a whole. 53 Am J1st Trial § 551.

general intent. See general criminal intent.

general interrogatories. Interrogatories contained or referred to in a bill in equity, constituting a definite part of such a bill under traditional equity practice. 27 Am J2d Equity § 181.

generalis clausula non porrigitur ad ea quae antea specialiter sunt comprehensa. A general clause is not extended to include those things which have been previously specially included.

generalis regula generaliter est intelligenda. A general rule should be generally understood.

general issue. A common law pleading, abolished as such in most states using a reformed system of pleading, consisting of a denial in short form of all that is material in the complaint or declaration. Somewhat analogous to the general denial of modern code and rules procedure. 41 Am J1st Pl § 140.

See general denial.

generality of custom. A requisite of a binding custom; the element of universality from which knowledge of the custom may well be presumed; in the case of a custom becoming a part of a contract, such general practice that it is a fair inference that both parties had knowledge of the custom and contracted with reference thereto. 21 Am J2d Cust & U § 5.

general judgment. A judgment in personam. Smith v Colloty, 69 NJL 365, 55 A 805.

See judgment in personam.

general jurisdiction. The jurisdiction of a trial court which is generally, although not absolutely, without limitation. 20 Am J2d Cts § 103.

See court of general jurisdiction.

general jurisdiction clause. A clause of a bill in equity consisting of an allegation in general terms to the effect that the acts complained of are contrary to equity and tend to the injury of the plaintiff, and that the plaintiff has no remedy, or no adequate remedy, without assistance from the court of equity.

The clause will not confer jurisdiction where the case otherwise made in the bill is not one of equitable cognizance. 27 Am J2d Equity § 181.

General Land Office. That agency of the government which was established to supervise the various proceedings whereby a conveyance of the title from the United States to portions of the public domain is obtained, and to see that the requirements of different acts of Congress are fully complied with. Steel v St. Louis Smelting & Refining Co. 106 US 447, 450, 27 L Ed 226, 228. An agency of the past, its functions having been transferred to the Bureau of Land Management in the Department of the Interior. 43 USC § 1, note.

general law. A statute having a uniform operation, that is a statute operating equally or alike upon all persons, entities, or subjects within the relations, conditions, and circumstances prescribed by the law, or affected by the conditions to be remedied. 50 Am J1st Stat § 6.

See general public law.

general legacy. A legacy designated primarily by quantity or amount, such as a gift of a stated amount of money, and which may be satisfied out of the general assets of the testator, without the necessity of delivering any particular chattel or fund to the legatee. Spinney v Eaton, 111 Me 1, 87 A 378; Re Goggin's Estate, 43 Misc 233, 88 NYS 557; Crabtree v Kelly, 65 ND 501, 260 NW 262.

general legislation. See general law.

general letter of credit. A letter of credit addressed to any and every person, and therefore giving to any person to whom it may be shown authority to make loans and advances upon it, the effect of the letter and the making of a loan or advance in response thereto being to bind as guarantor the person who issued the letter. 24 Am J1st Guar § 22.

general lien. The right to retain particular chattels as a security, not merely for the sum due in respect of those chattels, but for the entire amount owing on a general balance of account in respect of business done, but not in respect of loans or other transactions outside the regular course of trade. 33 Am J1st Liens § 5. The retaining lien of an attorney at law.

See retaining lien.

generally appear. Entering a general appearance or taking or agreeing to take some step or proceeding in the cause other than one to contest jurisdiction. 5 Am J2d Appear § 14.

general malice. Malice toward a group of persons rather than specifically toward one's victim in a homicide. 26 Am J1st Homi § 40. Wickedness; a disposition to do wrong; a black and diabolical heart, regardless of social duty and fatally bent on mischief. State v Long, 117 NC 791, 799, 23 SE 431.

general manager. A formal term for an executive in charge of a business; the status of a business officer under another title who is actually in the general management of the business. The person to whom the general business of a corporation is entrusted; the principal officer of a corporation, having general charge of the business matters for the carrying on of which the company was incorporated, and having the implied or ostensible authority for the performance of any act which is usual or necessary in the ordinary transaction of the company's business. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1174. One of the trustees of the business trust designated by the trustees to manage the operations of the trust, with power and authority to execute notes. Martin v Security Nat. Bank (Tex Civ App) 257 SW 645.

[521]

general notoriety. See fact of general notoriety.

general objection. An objection which does not point out the specific ground; an objection to evidence as incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial, not coupled with any statement of the specific grounds or reasons why the evidence is not admissible. Hicks v Demer, 187 Ill 164, 58 NE 252.

general obligation bond. A bond issued by a public body as the obligation of the body payable from its general resources raised by taxation, as distinguished from a bond issued by such a body but payable from a special fund only. 43 Am J1st Publ Sec § 282.

general occupant. A person who took and retained possession of land, as anyone might do, after the death of a tenant for the life of another, and while the person for whose life the estate had been granted still lived. See 2 Bl Comm 258. He was also called "common occupant."

general orders. Standing orders of the court, issued, not in a particular suit or proceeding, but for application in any action or proceeding to which the substance is pertinent, the best illustration of which is found in the General Orders in Bankruptcy. 37 Am J1st Motions § 25.

General Orders in Bankruptcy. Orders formulated and prescribed by the Supreme Court of the United States for the purpose of carrying the Bankruptcy Act into force and effect. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 108.

general or retaining lien. See retaining lien.

general owner. One having unqualified dominion over a thing. Farmers' & Merchants' Nat. Bank v Logan, 74 NY 568, 581. The person in ultimate ownership, as distinguished from a person interested as a bailee, lessee, mortgagee, or lienor.

See larceny by general.

general ownership. See general owner.

general partner. A partner in an ordinary partnership, as distinguished from the special or limited partner in a limited partnership. 40 Am J1st Partn § 510. The member of a limited partnership who has rights and powers analogous to those possessed by the members of an ordinary general partnership. Uniform Limited Partnership Act § 9.

general partnership. The ordinary partnership, as distinguished from a limited partnership or partnership association.
See partnership.

general power of appointment. A power of appointment exercisable without limitation as to the person appointed, except as to the rule of some jurisdictions which limit exercise to exercise by will, in which event the donee cannot appoint himself, although he can appoint his estate. Lyon v Alexander, 304 Pa 288, 156 A 84, 76 ALR 1427. For the purpose of the federal estate tax:-a power which is exercisable in favor of the decedent, his creditors, or the creditors of his estate except certain powers limited by an ascertainable standard and certain powers exercisable by the decedent only in conjunction with another person. 26 USC § 2041(b)(1).

general power of attorney. See power of attorney. general prayer. A prayer of a bill in equity whereby the plaintiff seeks generally such relief as he is entitled to under the allegations of the bill. Usually, a prayer, joined with a prayer for special relief, for such other and further relief as plaintiff may be entitled to in the premises. 27 Am J2d Equity § 182.

general proxy. A proxy for representation of a corporate stockholder at a corporate meeting which empowers the proxy to do all that the principal might do if present at the meeting. 19 Am J2d Corp § 673.

general publication. An expression familiar in the law of copyright and literary property; such a disclosure, communication, circulation, exhibition, or distribution of the subject matter of a literary work, tendered or given to one or more members of the general public, as implies dedication to the public. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 79.

See newspaper of general circulation.

general public law. That body of law under which due process of law is accorded; the law which is binding upon-all members of the community under all circumstances, including no private or special acts affecting only the rights of certain individuals or certain classes of individuals especially favored. Eden v People, 161 111 296, 43 NE 1108.

general receivership. A receivership under which the receiver takes custody of all the property of a corporation or of an individual for some general purpose, such as the administration of such property for the benefit of creditors. 45 Am J1st Rec § 3.

general recognition. As a means of legitimation of a child born out of wedlock:-extensive recognition; not necessarily universal recognition. Van Horn v Van Horn, 107 Iowa 247, 77 NW 846; Record v Ellis, 97 Kan 754, 156 P 712.

See general and notorious recognition.

general relief. Relief sought by a bill, complaint, or petition in equity in terms of a prayer for such relief as is equitable in the premises. 27 Am J2d Equity § 182.

general replication. A pleading which raises an issue on affirmative matter pleaded in the answer by controverting it in general terms, such pleading being unnecessary under reformed practice in some jurisdictions, such practice dispensing with a replication by deeming affirmative matter in the answer denied as a matter of course. 41 Am J1st Pl § 175.

general reply. See general replication.

general reputation. The evidence to which proof of the good or bad character of a party to a civil action or the defendant in a criminal prosecution is confined. 29 Am J2d Ev §§ 339, 344-346.

The determining factor in measuring the worth and weight of evidence of a man's good character is whether the community in which he has lived his life is sufficiently large for the persons to become acquainted with his character and to form a general opinion of it. This we call general reputation. People v Colantone, 243 NY 134, 139, 152 NE 700.

general reputation in the family. Evidence of kinship, pedigree, births, deaths, and other matters of family history; tradition handed down by the declarations of deceased members of the family made ante life motam. Re Estate of Hurlburt, 68 Vt 366, 35 A 77.

general repute. See general reputation; general reputation in the family.

general restraint of marriage. See restraint of marriage.

general restraint of trade. A restraint which constitutes a monopoly or unlawful restraint of trade. Not necessarily a complete monopoly. Any contract or combination to the end of a complete monopoly and to the deprivation of the public of the advantages which flow from free competition. 36 Am J1st Monop etc § 13.

[522]

A contract is said to be in general restraint of trade when it contains an agreement not to carry on a certain business or occupation anywhere. Kellogg v Larkin (Wis) 3 Pinney 123, 3 Chandler 133.

general retainer. The engaging of the professional services of an attorney at law by a client for a specified period of time, often a year, such services to be rendered only upon the request of the client, but the attorney being bound not to accept any retainer in opposition to the client for the period and accordingly entitled to be paid for the retainer in any event. Rhode Island Exchange Bank v Hawkins, 6 RI 198, 206.

See retaining fee.

general revival acts and rules. Statutes and rules of practice which make the common-law rule that all pending personal actions abate on the death of a sole plaintiff or defendant of historical interest only by setting up a procedure to prevent such an arbitrary cessation of an action, in cases where the cause of action survives, and providing for the substitution of the personal representative or other proper party and the continuation of the matter in his name. I Am J2d Abat & R § 47.

general sales tax. A tax applicable to goods or commodities in general. 47 Am J1st Sales T § 1.

general sessions. See clerks of the general sessions of the peace; Court of General Sessions.

general saving provision. A provision of constitution or statute intended to prevent the retrospective operation of the repeal of a statute by providing that the repeal of a statute shall not affect any right, liability, or penalty accrued or arising prior to the effective date of the repealing statute. 50 Am J1st Stat §§ 573, 574.

general ship. A vessel in which the master or the owners engage separately with a number of persons unconnected with each other, to convey their respective goods to the place of the vessel's destination.

While a general ship is abroad, the master has power to make contracts in relation to freight which will be binding upon the owners. Ward v Green (NY) 6 Cow 173.

general statute. See general law.

general strike. A strike against all the employers in an industry or a territory. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 369.

general superintendency. The scope of supervisory jurisdiction exercised by some appellate courts over the lower courts. 20 Am J2d Cts § 115.

general survival acts. Numerous statutes in the various states providing for survivorship of many causes of action that did not survive at common law, some of them providing in sweeping terms that all causes of action survive the death of either the person in whom the cause is vested or the person liable thereon, while others provide for general survival of personal tort actions, except for those matters that are secondary to the principal cause of action and are purely personal to the person injured. 1 Am J2d Abat & R § 52.

general tax. The customary annual tax imposed upon all taxable property within the taxing district to provide revenue for the usual and ordinary day-to-day expenses of the government, being imposed without reference to return by the government of special benefit to any property, only securing to the taxpayer the general benefit which results from protection to his person and property and the promotion of various enterprises and schemes which have for their object the welfare of all residents of the district. 51 Am J1st Tax § 27.

general tenancy. Such a tenancy as was not fixed and made certain in point of duration by the agreement of the parties. Brown's Admrs. v Bragg, 22 Ind 122, 123.

See tenancy at will.

general ticket. See general ballot.

general usage. See general custom.

general verdict. The final declaration by the jury as to the truth of the matter submitted to their determination and at issue between the parties. 53 Am J1st Trial § 1005. The response to and decision upon the issues between the parties upon the evidence adduced, rendered with such certainty and in such form that judgment can be entered thereon. Stafford v King, 30 Tex 257.

A general verdict for the plaintiff imports a finding of all issues in the plaintiff's favor and, in a case where the evidence was susceptible to different inferences, that the jury drew inferences favorable to the plaintiff. Railway Express Agency v Little (CA3 Pa) 50 F2d 59, 75 ALR 963.

general welfare. A generic term often employed in connection with protection of the peace, safety, health, and good morals of the people. Allinder v Homewood, 254 Ala 525, 49 So 2d 108, 22 ALR2d 763. The safety, prosperity, health and happiness of the people. 16 Am J2d Const L § 6.

See public welfare.

generation. Production, particularly electricity. Bringing into being, particularly by birth, as the increase of animals. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 28.

One level in the succession of living beings. In this connection, the word has no technical meaning and hence it must be considered as used in the sense of succession, its ordinary import, rather than as meaning a degree of removal, in computing descents. McMillan v School Committee of Croatan Dist. 107 NC 609, 12 SE 330.

generator. Electrical term meaning a machine for converting mechanical into electrical energy by moving a coil in a magnetic field, so as to embrace a varying flux, thereby inducing an electromotive force.

generic. Applicable or referring to a kind, class, or group; inclusive.

generis. Kind.

See ejusdem generis.

generosi filius. The son of a gentleman.

generosus. A gentleman.

Geneva Award. See Alabama Claims.

Geneva Copyright Convention. See Universal Copyright Convention.

genitals. The reproductive or sex organs.

genito-urinary ailment. Affliction centering in the genitals or the urinary tract. Anno: 53 ALR2d 702.

gens. A Roman tribe composed of families of the same name, all of whom were descended from a common ancestor. In French, people, folk, men, servants, attendants.

[523]

gentes. Plural of gene.

gentile. One who is not a Jew. Among Mormons, one not a Morman.

gentiles. Members of the same gene.

See gene.

gentleman. In a former period, any man who ranked above a yeoman; a man who had the right to use a crest or coat-of-arms. In the modern sense, a courteous man, a well-behaved man.

gentlewoman. A woman of the same rank or status as that of a gentleman. In a more modern sense, a refined woman.

gents. People; persons.

genuine. Real or original, as opposed to adulterated, false, fictitious, simulated, spurious, or counterfeit. Baldwin v Van Deusen, 37 NY 487, 492. Free of forgery or counterfeiting. UCC § 1-201(18).

genuineness of the instrument. The validity of an instrument in respect of it being what it purports to be. Warranted by an indorsement of a negotiable instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N § 611.

genus. A class embracing two or more species. Smythe v State, 17 Tex App 244, 251.

See species.

geodectic survey. See coast and geodetic survey.

geographical mile. See mile.

geology. The science and course of study which deals with the structure of the earth, particularly the crust.
See aereal geology.

George the First. The king of England from August 1st, 1714, to June 11th, 1727.

George the Second. The king of England from June 11th, 1727, to October 25th, 1760.

George the Third. The king of England from October 25th, 1760, to January 29th, 1820. To Americans, the despicable character who ruled England during the Revolution.

George the Fourth. The king of England from January 29th, 1820, to June 26th, 1830.

George the Fifth. King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland from May 7th, 1910 to Jan. 20th, 1936.

George the Sixth. King of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland from Dec. 11th, 1936 to March 24th, 1953. Honored in England and respected in the United States as a courageous ruler during the perilous period of the Second World War.

gerefa. A reeve; a shire-reeve; a sheriff.

gerens. Bearing; carrying on; engaging in.

gerens datum. Bearing date.

gerere. To act; to behave; to carry on; to engage in.

gerere pro haerede. To act as heir.

germain. Same as germane.

german. Germane; fully related, as brothers of the same parents.

german cousin. A first cousin.

germane. Closely allied; relevant. Roark v People, 79 Colo 181, 244 P 909.

germane to the title. An essential of a statute; a statute, the subject matter of which is fairly and reasonably expressed, embraced, or indicated by the title. Roark v People, 79 Colo 181, 244 P 909.

germanus. Of the same parents; of the same stock.

gerrymandering. A word derived from the name of Hon. Elbridge Gerry, a former governor of Massachusetts. So contriving in fixing the boundary lines of legislative districts as to give an unfair advantage to one political party. Anno: 2 ALR 1337; 25

Am J2d Elect § 18. An unfair method adopted by a political party in control of the legislature, whereby the boundaries of election districts are altered and arranged as to prevent a majority vote in such districts in favor of the opposing political party, which, under a fair and normal apportionment, would represent a majority vote in those districts. State ex rel. Morris v Wrightson, 56 NJL 126, 28 A 56. Fixing school attendance zones in such manner as to segregate the races in the schools. 15 Am J2d Civ R § 39.

gersome. Same as gersume.

gersume. A reward; a recompense; a fine imposed for an offense; an exaction from a tenant for permitting him to transfer his tenancy to another; a bonus paid for a rebate in rent on a lease.

gent. (Saxon.) A guest; a stranger who stayed at a house a second night.

gesta. Plural of gestum.

gestation. The development of the foetus in the body of the mother from conception to birth.

gestation period. See period of gestation.

geste. Same as gest.

gestio. An act; behavior; conduct; a performance; a transaction.

gestio pro haerede. Behavior or conduct as an heir; such conduct as renders the heir liable for the debts of his ancestor.

gestor. (Civil law.) A person who transacts business for another; an agent.

gest-taker. Same as agister. gestu et fama. See de gestu et fama.

gestum. (Roman law.) Something done; a deed; an act; a transaction; business.

gestura. Behavior.

gewitnessa. (Saxon.) Testifying as a witness.

gewrite. (Saxon.) Written instruments, such as deeds and charters.

gibbet. An upright post with a projecting arm from which capital offenders were hanged.

See double gibbet.

gift. A voluntary transfer of property by one to another without any consideration or compensation therefor; anything given or bestowed, or any piece of property voluntarily transferred by one person to another. 24 Am J1st Gifts § 2. As the word is used in liquor legislation:-a transfer without price or reward; a gratuitous transfer without any equivalent. Parkinson v State, 14 Md 184.

See sham gift; substitutional gift.

gift causa mortis. A gift of personal property made in expectation of the donor's death and upon condition that the property shall belong fully to the donee in case the donor dies as anticipated, leaving the donee surviving him, and the gift is not in the meantime revoked. 24 Am J1st Gifts § 4.

All gifts are necessarily inter vivos, for a living donor and donee are indispensable to a valid donation; but when the gift is prompted by the belief of the donor that his death is impending, and is made as a provision for the donee, if death ensues, it is distinguished from the ordinary gift inter vivos, and is called donatio causa mortis. But by whatever name called, the elements necessary to a complete gift are not changed. Walsh's Appeal, 122 Pa 177, 15 A 470.

gift enterprise. A scheme for the division or distribution of certain articles of property, to be determined by chance, among those who have taken shares in the scheme. A sporting artifice by which a merchant or tradesman sells his wares for their market value, but by way of inducement gives to each purchaser a ticket which entitles him to a chance to win certain prizes, to be determined after the manner of a lottery. 34 Am J1st Lot § 10.

gift exhibition. See lottery.

gift in contemplation of death. A gift impelled by the thought of death, as distinguished from a purpose associated with life. United States v Wells, 283 US 102, 75 L Ed 867, 51 S Ct 446.

See in contemplation of death.

gift of contemplation of marriage. A transaction which is something less than a real gift, since in such case the donor may recover back the property if the "donee" breaks the engagement to marry. Williamson v Johnson, 62 Vt 378.

gift inter vivos. A real gift. A gift between living persons; a voluntary transfer of property by one living person to another living person, without any valuable consideration, which becomes absolute and irrevocable during the lifetime of the parties. 24 Am J1st Gifts § 4.

gift in trust. A gift which withholds the legal title from the donee.

Legal title may be transmitted to a third person, or it may be retained by the donor, but in either case the equitable title has gone from him, and unless the declaration of trust contains the power of revocation, or the wide discretion of chancery attaches, it leaves him powerless to extinguish the trust. Bath Sav. Institution v Hathorn, 88 Me 122, 33 A 836.

gift nominatim. A gift to individuals described by name. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1261.

gift note. A donor's promissory note payable to the donee. 24 Am J1st Gifts § 93.

gift of bastardy. The gift by the crown of the property of a bastard who died intestate and without heirs.

gift of public money. Any appropriation of public money for the benefit of one who has no claim to be compensated which is enforceable at law or in equity, irrespective of what the moral obligation may be under the circumstances. Conlin v San Francisco Board of Supervisors, 99 Cal 17, 33 P 753.

gift over. A limitation of an estate to follow the termination of a prior estate.

gift tax. An excise tax on the transfer by a living person of money or other property by gift. A tax imposed on the transfer of property by gift inter vivos without relation to the death of the donor, being distinguished from succession or estate taxes imposed on certain inter vivos transfers, such as gifts made in contemplation of death or intended to take effect in possession or enjoyment at or after death.

The tax is imposed on the transfer, not on the property transferred, since it applies even though the property transferred may be exempt from income or other taxes. IRC § 2501(a).

gift to a class. A gift of an aggregate sum to a body of persons uncertain in number at the time of the gift, to be ascertained at a future time, who are all to take in equal or some other definite proportions, the share of each being dependent for its amount upon the ultimate number. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1256.

gild. Verb: To apply a substance to metal or stone so as to give luster such as that of gold. Noun: A guild; an English mutual benefit society. A term sometimes used for "geld" in the sense of a sum of money, tribute, or tax. A surface or covering which makes a substance appear more valuable than it really is. In one sense, same as guild.

See ceapgild; cenegild.

gildable. Same as geldable.

gilds mercatoria. A mercantile company or corporation; a mercantile meeting or assembly. See 1 Bl Comm 473.

gildam mercatorium. A grant by the king to a body of men establishing them as a mercantile corporation. See 1 Bl Comm 473.

gild hall. The meeting place of a gild.

gildo. A member of a gild.

gill net. A fish net so constructed that the fish is caught by its gills when it attempts to escape from the meshes of the net.

Such nets are regulated as to their use in some jurisdictions and forbidden in others. State v Lewis, 134 Ind 250, 33 NE 1024; Barker v State Fish Com. 88 Wash 73, 152 P 73.

gillravage. Same as gilravage.

gilour. A beguiler; a betrayer; a cheat; a deceiver.

gilravage. To ravage; to plunder; to pillage.

gilt-edged bonds. Securities reputed to be most safe for investment.

gin. An intoxicating alcoholic liquor. Skaggs v State (Okla Crim) 276 P2d 267 49 ALR2d 760. A liquor distilled from grain and flavored with the juice of juniper berries. A machine used to remove the seed from the fiber of the cotton plant.

gin men. Laborers in a mine without special employment but performing tasks of a general nature as ordered and directed. Smith v North Jellico Coal Co. 131 Ky 196, 114 SW 785.

ginning. The process of separating the fiber of cotton from the seeds.

Girl Scouts. A world-wide organization for training girls in citizenship and leadership and promoting patriotism, which qualifies as having a charitable purpose. 15 Am J2d Char § 68.

girth. A linear measure equivalent to a yard or thirty-six inches. The circumference of an object or of the waist of a person. A band placed around the body of a horse to hold a saddle or pack upon the back of the animal.

gisant. Resting; lying; reclining.

gisel. A pledge.

gisement. Same as agistment.

giser. To lie; to rest; to recline.

gisetaker. Same as agister.

gist. The main point of a question or of a discussion. The pith of a matter. Hoffman v Knight, 127 Ala 149, 156, 28 So 593.

See gravamen.

gist of an action. The cause for which an action will lie; the ground or foundation of a suit, without which it would not be maintainable; the essential ground or object of a suit, and without which there is not a cause of action. First Nat. Bank v Burkett, 101 Ill 391, 394.

give. To make a gift; to convey; to transfer to grant. A word of grant in a conveyance. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 35.

give and grant. Apt words in creating a covenant to stand seized. 28 Am J2d Est § 348. Words of conveyance sufficient in themselves in a deed to indicate the intent to effect an immediate transfer of title. Smith v Furbish, 68 NH 123, 44 A 398.

See devise and grant; give, grant, sell, and convey.

giveaway program. A radio or television program calling for the distribution of prizes to listeners, selected wholly or in part on the basis of chance, as an award for correctly solving a given problem or answering a question.

Such a program is not a lottery or gift enterprise. Federal Communications Com. v American Broadcasting Co. 347 US 284, 98 L Ed 699, 74 S Ct 593.

give, grant, bargain, etc. Words in a deed appropriate to indicate an intent to effect an immediate transfer of title. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 35.

See give, grant, sell, and convey.

give, grant, sell, and convey. Words in a deed appropriate to indicate an intent to effect an immediate transfer of title. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 35. Words of transfer or conveyance usually considered appropriate to convey an estate in fee. 28 Am J2d Est § 17. Not in themselves implying a covenant of warranty. 20 Am J2d Cov § 13.

given as collateral security with agreement. A means of referring in a bill of exchange or promissory note to an extrinsic contract, thereby depriving the bill or note of negotiability. Toledo Scale Co. v Gogo, 186 Mich 442, 152 NW 1046.

given for a patent right. A required recital in a promissory note, under statutes of some jurisdictions, where the consideration is a patent right. 11 Am J2d B & N § 189.

given for life insurance. A required recital in a promissory note, under the statutes of some jurisdictions, where the consideration is the initial premium for a policy of life insurance.

given name. See Christian name.

give precedence. To accord a priority. To recognize superior importance. Kansas City Terminal Railway Co. v Central Union Trust Co. 271 US 445, 455, 70 L Ed 1028, 1033, 46 S Ct 549.

giver. One who gives. The maker of a gift.

giving aid and comfort to enemy. As an element of the offense of treason:-overt acts committed which, in their natural consequence, if successful, would encourage and advance the interests of the enemy. Young v United States, 97 US 39, 24 L Ed 992.

glanders. A dangerous and highly contagious and infectious disease of horses and mules affecting the glands beneath the lower jaw. Pearson v Zehr, 138 111 48, 29 NE 854.

glare. See blinding lights.

gleaning. The gathering together of crops which have been reaped. Going over a harvested field and collecting grain not taken by the harvesters. Obtaining information in bits.

gleba. Same as glebe.

glebae. See adscriptus glebae.

glebae ascriptitii. Villeins in socage tenure who were regarded as fixtures while they performed services due.

glebe. A parcel of tillable land attached to a parish church. Pawlet v Clark (US) 9 Cranch 292, 326, 3 L Ed 735, 747.

glebe-land. Same as glebe.

glider. An aircraft without motive power. Anno: 54 ALR2d 413.

gloss. A translation; an explanation; an interpretation. Superficiality. Luster.

glossa. Same as gloss.

glossary. An alphabetical list of terms taken from a book, appearing in the back of the volume, with explanations intended to be of assistance to the reader.

glossator. A translator; a commentator; an annotator.

Glossa viperina est quae corrodit viscera textus. It is a viperous gloss or interpretation which eats out the vitals of the text.

Gloucester. See Statute of Gloucester.

glove contest. A boxing match, a mere exhibition of skill in sparring with gloves, not calculated to do great bodily injury. See State v Olympic Club, 46 La Ann 935, 15 So 190.

glove-money. Money to buy gloves,-money given by the sheriff to certain officers of the court when there were no offenders left for execution.

glove-silver. Same as glove-money.

glyn. A glen; a ravine.

go. To move along, physically as in walking or running or figuratively as in the transmission or devolution of a title from one person to another.

See shall go.

goat. A cud-chewing domestic animal. 4 Am J2d Ani § 2. A slang expression for scapegoat.

gobnaciones. A Spanish term applied to the former provinces of Spain in the New World and the governments of such provinces. Footnote in Strother v Lucas (US) 12 Pet 410, 441, 9 L Ed 1137, 1149.

go-between. An intermediary. An agent who acts for both of the parties in a transaction.

[526]

God and my country. See by God and my country.

godbote. A fine imposed for an ecclesiastical offense.

go-devil. A crude conveyance consisting of two poles attached one to each side of a horse with the ends dragging behind, somewhat like a sled, on which goods are carried. Hamp v Pend Oreille County, 102 Wash 184, 172 P 869.

God's acre. A cemetery. A place for the burial and repose of the dead. Hertle v Riddell, 127 Ky 623, 106 SW 282.

God's penny. Earnest money paid to bind a bargain.

goggles. A disease of sheep, constituting a breach of warranty of soundness. 46 Am J1st Sales § 399. Large eyeglasses worn to protect the eyes against dust and small particles carried by the wind or blown in the air by industrial processes.

goging stole. Same as cucking-stool.

go hence acquitted. Formal words in a judgment of acquittal. State v Buchanan (Md) 5 Harr & J 317.

go hence without day. To leave the court without the necessity of returning; to be discharged or exonerated. Hiatt v Kinkaid, 40 Neb 178, 185, 58 NW 700.

go in evidence. To be considered as in evidence.

A stipulation that documents are "to go in evidence" means that the documents are to be considered in evidence; that is, as having been received and admitted as a part of the evidence before the court, and the expression does not mean that they may be read or offered and received as evidence. Protection Life Ins. Co. v Palmer, 81 Ill 88, 91.

going and coming rule. The rule which determines the right of an employee to workmen's compensation benefits for injuries sustained by him while going to or returning from work. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 217.

going business. See going concern.

going concern. A business in operation for the purpose for which it is organized, unhampered by insolvency or legal prohibitions.

A corporation is a going business or establishment when it is still in good faith prosecuting its line of business, with the prospect and expectation of continuing to do so, even though its assets are insufficient to discharge its liabilities in full. Corey v Wadsworth, 99 Ala 68, 11 So 350.

going-concern value. The amount by which the assets of a business as a whole, assembled for the conduct of the business, exceeds the aggregate of the value of the separate items of property in the business. Pacific State Sav. & Loan Co. v Hise, 25 Cal 2d 822, 155 P2d 809, 158 ALR 955. The aggregate value of items of property in a place of business, not as isolated articles separated from the whole, but as parts of the whole business and as useful in the business. Re Nathanson Bros. Co. (CA6 Ohio) 64 F2d 912. The value of the plant of an established business as distinguished from the plant of a concern whose business is not yet established. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 139. A term in common use in the fixing of rates for the service of public utility companies, meaning the value of the plant as a whole upon which the company is entitled to a fair return, as distinguished from its bare physical value. Pioneer Tel. & Tel. Co. v State, 64 Okla 304, 167 P 995.

Used as a test of determining solvency or insolvency, the term may have two distinct meanings: it may denote (1) the value which could be realized by a sale of an enterprise as an operating unit as opposed to piecemeal liquidation; or (2) the value of the enterprise to its owners. Anno: 158 ALR 968.

going forward with the evidence. The burden of proof in the sense of the duty of producing evidence to meet the evidence produced or the prima facie case made by one's adversary. 29 Am J2d Ev § 124.

going, going, gone. The chant of an auctioneer, given immediately before the closing of the bidding. 7 Am J2d Auct § 31.

going to the country. Arriving at an issue of fact by the pleadings in an action preparatory to the submission of such an issue to the jury. The submission of a case to a jury.

going value. Same as going concern value.

going witness. A person whose testimony is sought in an action and who is about to depart from the jurisdiction of the court.

gold. A mineral. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 5. A precious metal so highly regarded as to have served for a period reaching into the remote past as a medium of exchange and the substance of coinage.

The act of Congress of 1792 established a mint for the purpose of a national coinage. It was the result of very careful and thorough investigation of the whole subject, in which Jefferson and Hamilton took the greatest parts. It provided that the gold of coinage should consist of eleven parts fine and one part alloy, which alloy was to be of silver and copper in convenient proportions, not exceeding one half silver; and that the silver of coinage should consist of fourteen hundred and eighty-five parts fine, and one hundred and seventy-nine parts of an alloy wholly of copper. Bronson v Rodes (US) 7 Wall 229, 247, 19 L Ed 141, 145.

The coinage of gold has been discontinued and gold coins withdrawn from circulation. 36 Am J1st Money § 16.

See bullion; queen-gold.

gold certificates. A form of currency circulating in the United States prior to the withdrawal thereof from circulation by act of Congress in 1933, such certificates being backed by, and redeemable in, gold. 36 Am J1st Money § 16.

gold clause. The provision of a contract, bond, or mortgage requiring payment in gold, all such clauses having been nullified by an Act of Congress in 1933. Norman v Baltimore & Ohio R. Co. 294 US 240, 79 L Ed 885, 55 S Ct 407, 95 ALR 1352.

gold coinage. See gold.

golden rule. A guide for jurors in their deliberations, sometimes suggested in arguments of counsel, that the jurors place themselves in the position of a litigant. Norton Bros. v Nadebok, 92 Ill App 541, affd 190 111695, 60 NE2d 843. An erroneous principle that in assessing damages the jurors should put themselves in the injured person's place and render such a verdict as they would wish to receive were they in his position. 22 Am J2d Damg §§ 342, 346.

gold or its equivalent. A clause which purports to establish the medium of payment of an obligation, meaning payment in gold or any kind of money which is legal tender. 40 Am J1st Paym § 58.

gold reserve. The gold of the United States set aside as a backing for the currency.

gold scales. See weigh with gold scales.

[527]

goldsmiths' notes. Notes issued by English banks or bankers, called goldsmiths' notes because all of the bankers were at one time goldsmiths.

gold standard. A monetary system in which the basic unit of currency is redeemable in a specified quantity of gold, the United States having withdrawn from such standard in 1933 by legislation calling in all gold coin from circulation. 36 Am J1st Money § 16.

Gold Star Mothers. A membership corporation composed of numerous chapters throughout the United States, organized for patriotic and charitable purposes, every member being a mother of one killed in the service of his country in the armed forces in wartime. American Gold Star Mothers, Inc. v National Gold Star Mothers, Inc. 89 App DC 269, 191 F2d 488, 27 ALR2d 948.

golf course. An area for the playing of the game of golf, consisting of either 9 or 18 holes, each of which is surrounded by a putting green of close cropped grass; fairways, such being open spaces between the greens, kept mowed fairly short; and spaces adjacent to the fairways known as "the rough" wherein the grass is usually long and the surface somewhat rough.

gong. A bell used as a warning, particularly at railroad crossings.

gonorrhoea. A venereal disease, not so serious as syphilis. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 745.

See gram stain test.

good. Beneficial rather than harmful; effective rather than ineffective; genuine rather than forged or counterfeited. As applied to commercial paper, genuine rather than certain of collection. Commonwealth v Stone, 45 Mass (4 Met) 43, 48. As applied to articles offered for sale, of a merchantable quality. Northern Supply Co. v Wangard, 123 Wis 1, 100 N W 1066.

As used in a representation by a restaurant owner that he would serve a customer a "good" sandwich, the term signifies no more than agreeable to the taste, and is too indefinite to be the basis of an express warranty of the quality of the food. Albrecht v Rubinstein, 135 Conn 243, 63 A2d 158, 7 ALR2d 1022.

See certified check.

good abearing. Good behavior, lawful conduct. See 4 Bl Comm 256.

good accounts. Accounts of a merchant which are worth their face value, and which are collectable in the ordinary course of business and by usual business methods, resort to suit or execution not being necessary. Stillman v Lynch, 56 Utah 540, 192 P 272, 12 ALR 552, 559.

good and indefeasible title. A title which enables the owner to exercise absolute and exclusive control as against all others. Adams v Henderson, 168 US 573, 42 L Ed 584, 18 S Ct 179.

good and lawful men. As the expression appears in the caption of an indictment:-freeholders. 27 Am J1st Indict § 36. As applied to the members of a grand jury:-including every statutory, as well as every common-law, qualification required of them. Jerry v State (Ind) 1 Blackf 395, 396.

good and sufficient deed. A condition to be performed by the vendor in a land contract by the delivery of a deed sufficient in form and conveying a good and sufficient title in compliance with the terms of the contract. 55 Am J1st V & P § 162.

good behavior. Conduct of a prisoner warranting a deduction in time to be served. 41 Am J1st Pris & P §§ 41 et seq. The condition of a bond given as security to keep the peace. 12 Am J2d Breach P § 44. For the purpose of an order suspending sentence during good behavior:-no higher standard than conduct conformable to law. Ex parte Hamm, 24 NM 33, 172 P 190. In reference to the removal of the incumbent of a public office for breach of "good behavior":-behavior from the standpoint of official action, without regard to conduct outside the office, however immoral it may be. Commonwealth v Williams, 79 Ky 42.

good cause. Substantial reason, a legal excuse. Pines v District Court in Woodbury County, 233 Iowa 1284, 10 NW2d 574. Legal cause, in reference to the right of the state to dissolve a corporation and recall the franchise granted to it. Wheeler v Pullman Iron & Steel Co. 143 Ill 197, 820, 32 NE 420. As a ground for the revocation of a certificate of convenience and necessity, the failure to comply with a condition precedent to the issuance of the certificate. Midwestern Motor Transit, Inc. v Public Utilities Com. 126 Ohio St 317, 185 NE 194. As ground for a continuance, something which deprives the applicant of a fair trial if forced to proceed at the appointed time. Ex Parte Venable, 86 Cal App 585, 261 P 731; People v O'Connor, 88 Cal App 568, 263 P 866; People v Clayton, 89 Cal App 405, 264 P 1105. As an excuse for failure to file a claim for workmen's compensation within the period provided by statute:-a mistake on the part of claimant or other reasonable cause. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 414. A vague and unintelligible term, as it appears in a clause of a contract providing for termination of the contract by either party for "good cause." Cummer v Butts, 40 Mich 322.

As used in unemployment compensation statutes that an employee shall be ineligible for compensation if he has voluntarily left work without "good cause", it has been held that removal from the area of employment because of marital obligation is such cause as to entitle the claimant to the statutory benefits. Such holdings have, however, been criticized as opening the door to fraud. Anno: 13 ALR2d 875, 876.

good character. See good moral character.

good commercial title. Such a title as an attorney for a purchaser should advise his client to accept. Ward v James, 83 Or 695, 164 P 370.

good condition. A relative term; an expression to be construed according to the context in which it appears.

As used in a lessee's covenant to keep and yield up the leased premises in good condition, the words do not have a fixed or technical meaning which is always the same regardless of the character and use of the building to which they refer. A building adapted for use as a tannery might be in good condition for that purpose and absolutely untenable as a watch factory. Codman v Hvgrade Food Products Corp. 295 Mass _195, ,3 NE2d 759, 106 ALR 1354.

good condition and repair. As a phrase stating the obligation of a tenant in reference to the state of the premises upon his surrender thereof:-a reasonable state of repair, allowing for the age and condition of the premises at the inception of the tenancy. 32 Am J1st L & T §§ 803 et seq.

[528]

good conduct. See good behavior.

good consideration. A consideration founded either on love and affection toward one to whom a natural duty exists, such as a near relative by either consanguinity or affinity, or on a strong moral obligation supported either by some antecedent legal obligation, although unenforceable at the time, or by some present equitable duty. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 64. The consideration, sometimes called a meritorious consideration, of blood, of natural love and affection, or of love and affection based on kindred by blood or marriage. Williston on Contracts (3d ed) § 110.

good custom. See custom.

good faith. Fairness and equity. The antithesis of fraud and deceit. Acting in the absence of circumstances placing a man of ordinary prudence on inquiry. Pennington County Bank v First State Bank, 110 Minn 263, 125 NW 119 (accepting a forged check.) Acting with a sincere belief that the accomplishment intended is not unlawful or harmful to another. Smith v State, 214 Ind 169, 13 NE2d 562 (a physician prescribing a narcotic drug.) Acting in the belief that a prudent and sensible man would hold in the ordinary conduct of his own business affairs. Kelly v Fourth of July Mining Co. 21 Mont 291, 53 P 959 (issuance of stock.) Absence of improper motive and of a negligent disregard of the rights of others. Allen v Pioneer Press Co. 40 Minn 117, 41 NW 936 (rebutting malice in utterance or publication alleged to be defamatory.) Acting without culpable negligence or a wilful disregard of the rights of others and in the honest and reasonable belief that the act is rightful. Anno: 21 ALR2d 393 (a trespasser upon land taking property therefrom.)

good faith declarant. An alien who may, and who intends to, become a citizen of the United States, and who in good faith has made the declaration required by the naturalization laws.

good faith holder. See holder in due course.

good faith in adverse possession. For practical purposes in most jurisdictions, actual, open, notorious, exclusive and hostile possession; in other jurisdictions, by force of statute, occupancy under a bona fide belief in one's title as a valid title. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 98.

good faith in collective bargaining. An honest and sincere intent and purpose to explore all possibilities of settlement of the matters in dispute, until the exhaustion of all reasonable efforts and the arrival at a point where a definite decision is reached, presupposing freedom from any fixed purpose to employ the machinery of negotiation as a cloak for other designs, or to disregard either the objects or methods of negotiation prescribed by the statute. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 268.

good faith in filing petition for reorganization. Something more than honesty of purpose and good intention; a filing with reasonable belief that reorganization is attainable. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1527.

good faith in possession. See possession in good faith.

good faith of occupant making improvement. A reasonable and honest belief of the occupant in his right or title, such state of mind not being negated by any showing that diligence would have revealed the absence of any title held by him. 27 Am J1st Improv § 14.

good faith operation. See bona fide operation.

good faith purchaser. See bona fide purchaser.

good faith residence. See bona fide residence.

good firms. See terms good firms.

good for this day only. A provision in a passenger's ticket, usually held ineffective to preclude a stopover privilege as against a ticket agent's representation of the existence of such privilege. 14 Am J2d Car § 840.

Good Friday. A day observed in remembrance of the crucifixion of Christ; a legal holiday in some states. 50 Am J1st Sun & H § 77.

good health. Sound health; the absence of any grave, important, or serious disease, or ailment seriously affecting the general soundness or healthfulness of the system. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 746.

good moral character. A quality which varies according to the particular circumstances, and from one generation to another; conduct which comports with a good character; a character which measures up as good among the people of the community, that is, up to the standard of the average citizen. Anno: 22 ALR2d 250, § 3. Character evidenced by conduct which conforms to the generally accepted moral conventions current at the time. Anno: 22 ALR2d 250, § 3.

An habitual violator of the law, "especially the laws regulating the conduct of the liquor traffic," is not a person of good moral character, no matter how honest he may be in business or clean in his private life. Whissen v Furth, 73 Ark 366, 84 SW 500.

Even a single lapse from marital fidelity by an applicant for naturalization is not, in the absence of extenuating circumstances, consistent with the requirement of five years of unbroken "good moral character," and the burden of proof of the extenuating circumstance rests upon the applicant. Johnson v United States (CA2 NY) 186 F2d 588, 22 ALR2d 240.

good mortgage. A mortgage which is legal and constitutes sufficient security for the obligation. DuFlon v Powers (NY) 14 Abb Pr NS 391.

good note. A collectible note. Hammond v Chamberlin, 26 Vt 406, 413.

good order. A term often used in describing goods in a contract of sale which is somewhat flexible in meaning and varies according to the understanding of the particular trade or business, but not necessarily requiring absolute soundness or perfection. 46 Am J1st Sales § 150.

As applied to streets, the term is not synonymous with "good repair." A portion of a street might be in good repair as a dirt road, or as cobblestone pavement, and yet might be in bad order, plight, or condition to bear the increased burdens and accommodate the travel of a modern city. Danville v Danville Railway & Electric Co. 114 Va 382, 76 SE 913.

The term as it appears in a naturalization statute which provides that no person shall be naturalized unless he is well disposed to the "good order" of the United States, is a term of vague content, which of necessity must be construed with the purpose of the statute in mind, that is to admit to citizenship only persons who are in accord generally with the basic principles of the community. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 138.

[529]

good order and condition. A recital in a bill of lading respecting the condition of the subject of the bill. 13 Am J2d Car § 285.

Good Parliament. The reform parliament of 1376 in England.

good potatoes. Merchantable potatoes. Northern Supply Co. v Wangard, 123 Wis 1, 100 NW 1066.

good repair. Reasonable or proper repair. 32 Am J1st L & T § 789 (condition in lease respecting obligation of tenant.)

See good order; habitable repair.

good repute. Good reputation. State v Wheeler, 108 Mo 658, 665, 18 SW 924. Good character. Commonwealth v Davis, 3 Pa Dist 271 (pertaining to prose cutrix in prosecution for rape.)

good right to convey. See covenant of good right to convey.

goods. A term of variable meaning, sometimes having the significance of personal property. Tisdale v Harris, 37 Mass (20 Pick) 9. Sometimes inclusive of corporate stock. Spencer v McGuffin, 190 Ind 308, 130 NE 407, 14 ALR 385.

In other connections, limited to merchandise kept for sale. McPartin v Clarkson, 240 Mich 390, 215 NW 338, 54 ALR 1535. Sometimes having reference to chattels or merchandise in storage or about to be placed in storage. 56 Am J1st Wareh § 3 (Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act.) Constituting articles, wares, or merchandise for the purpose of a revenue law imposing customs duties. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 1.

See confusion of goods; dry goods; fungible goods; green goods; lawful goods; mislaid goods; shipwrecked goods; worldly goods.

goods administered. Goods, chattels, or credits of the decedent which have been changed, altered, or converted by the executor or administrator before the appointment of an administrator de bonis non. Chamberlin's Appeal, 70 Conn 363, 39 A 734.

good safety. See in good safety; mooring in good safety.

goods and chattels. Subjects of personal property which are perceptible to the senses and deliverable in specie. 42 Am J1st Prop § 24. Sometimes exclusive of commercial paper and money. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1343.

goods and effects. In common parlance, chattels or movable s, but in some connections including real as well as personal property. 52 Am J1st Treat § 41; 57 Am J1st Wills § 1343.

goods and merchandise. Usually having reference to goods kept for sale or purchased with the intent of placing them in a stock of merchandise.

goods and movables. See goods.

goods bargained and sold. The subject of an action; an action of general assumpsit. 1 Am J2d Actions § 15.

goods, effects, and credits. A very comprehensive term, covering tangibles and intangibles, but not inclusive of a claim for unliquidated damages not in judgment. Wilde v Mahaney, 183 Mass 455, 67 NE 337.

goods not administered. Goods, chattels, and credits which had been the property of the decedent and remained in specie, unchanged and unconverted, when an administrator de bonis non was appointed. Chamberlin's Appeal, 70 Conn 363, 39 A 734.

goods of another. For the purpose of a definition of larceny:-property owned by another or in the possession of another so as to be presumptively his property. People v Davis, 97 Cal 194, 31 P 1109.

goods sold and delivered. The subject of an action; an action of general assumpsit. 1 Am J2d Actions § 15.

good standing. The status of a member of a fraternal order or mutual benefit association or society whose dues and obligations to the order or society have been paid or are not delinquent and whose conduct has not been such as to bring him in bad repute as a member and to subject him to expulsion or suspension. Overton v Woodmen of the World, 206 Ala 584, 91 So 485, 23 ALR 337, 340.

goods to arrive. A term in a contract for the sale of personal property which ordinarily renders the obligation of the seller to perform the contract by an actual transfer of the property contingent upon the arrival of the goods. 46 Am J1st Sales § 201.

goods, wares, and merchandise. Goods or things which are kept for sale and which are constantly sold or replaced by other merchandise. 37 Am J2d Frd Conv § 252. Imported articles within the meaning of the revenue laws imposing customs duties. 21 Am J2d Cust & D § 1.

good time. That length of time, fixed by statute, by which the prison term of a convict is shortened by reason of his good behavior while in prison. Re Canfield, 98 Mich 644, 645, 57 NW 808.

good title. A valid title and a marketable title. 55 Am J1st V & P § 166. Not merely a title which is valid in fact, but a marketable title which can again be sold to a reasonable purchaser, or mortgaged to a person of reasonable prudence as security for the loan of money. Moore v Williams, 115 NY 586, 22 NE 233. A title free from litigation, palpable defects, and grave doubts, and fairly deducible of record. Reynolds v Borel, 86 Cal 538, 25 P 67.

good watch. See constant watch.

good will. The expectation of continued public patronage. Stott v Johnston, 36 Cal 2d 864, 229 P2d 348, 28 ALR2d 580. The probability that old customers will resort to the old place. Every positive advantage acquired, arising out of the business of the old firm, whether connected with the premises where it was carried on, with the name of the old firm, or with any other matter carrying with it the benefit of the business of the old firm. The advantage or benefit which is acquired by an establishment beyond the mere value of the capital stock, funds, or property employed therein, in consequence of the general public patronage and encouragement which it receives from constant or habitual customers on account of its local position, or common celebrity, or reputation for skill, or affluence, or punctuality, or from other accidental circumstances or necessities, or even from ancient partialities or prejudices. 24 Am J1st Good W § 2. A species of property of an intangible nature so connected with a going concern or business as to be disposable only in connection with a disposition of such concern or business. 24 Am J1st Good W § 4.

go quit. To be dismissed by the court's order; to be exonerated.

gorge. A defile between hills or mountains; that is, a narrow throat or outlet. Gibbs v Williams, 25 Kan 214, 217. A natural drainway of surface water in a hilly or mountainous area. Anno: 81 ALR 271.

[530]

goring. A specific kind of India rubber fabric. Robertson v Salomon, 144 US 603, 36 L Ed 560, 12 S Ct 752.

goshawk. A hawk used by falconers in hunting; the modern chicken hawk.

gossip. Veritable hearsay, inadmissible in any court. Re Mantell, 157 Neb 900, 62 NW2d 308, 43 ALR2d 1122.

gote. A gutter; a drain.

go to protest. A negotiable instrument being protested for nonacceptance or nonpayment.

See protest.

gouge. Noun: A blade for making grooves or holes. Verb: To make a hole or a groove with a gouge. Also, to cheat in a bold or brutal manner; to overreach in a bargain; to deceive and defraud; to impose upon; to trick; to mislead. Shubert v Variety, Inc. 128 Misc 428, 429, 219 NYS 233.

govern. To direct and control; to regulate; to influence; to restrain; to manage. State v Ream, 16 Neb 681, 683.

governing law. See conflict of laws.

government. Management; administration; control; power or authority to check or restrain. See St. Louis v Howard, 119 Mo 41, 24 SW 770.

The ligament that holds the political society together; the public political authority which guides and directs the body politic, or society of men called the "state," united together to promote their safety and advantage by means of their union. Thomas v Taylor, 42 Miss 651. The political agency through which the state acts. Texas v White (US) 7 Wall 700, 19 L Ed 227. A term usually applied to the government of the United States, but equally applicable to the government of any of the states.

governmental act. An act done in pursuance of some duty imposed by the state on a person, individual or corporate, which duty is one pertaining to the administration of government, and is imposed as an absolute obligation on a person who receives no profit or advantage peculiar to himself from its execution. Markwardt v Guthrie, 18 Okla 32, 90 P 26. More broadly, an act of the government.

See governmental functions.

governmental agencies. See administrative agencies.

governmental duties. See governmental functions.

governmental functions. The performance of duties imposed upon a municipal corporation by the state as a part of the sovereignty of the state to be exercised by the municipality for the benefit of the whole public living both within and without the corporate limits. Pass Christian v Fernandez, 100 Miss 76, 56 So 329. The functions of a municipal corporation which are to be exercised, not only in the interest of the inhabitants, but also in advancing the public good or welfare as affecting the public generally, including the promotion of public peace, health, safety, and morals. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 114. Acts performed by a municipality for the common good of all, not for the special benefit or profit of the corporate entity. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp § 574.

governmental immunity. See immunity.

governmental lien. A lien to repayment of public money expended for the benefit of individuals engaged in agriculture. 3 Am J2d Agri § 15.

See tax lien.

governmental power. The power exercised by the government as a sovereign, being distinguished from power exercised by the government in a proprietary or business capacity. Omaha Water Co. v Omaha, 147 F 1.

See governmental functions.

governmental purposes. Imposing punishment for crime, prevention of wrong, the enforcement of a private right, or in some manner preventing wrong from being inflicted upon the public, or upon an individual, or redressing some grievance, or in some way enforcing a legal right, or redressing or preventing a public or individual injury. Owensboro v Commonwealth ex rel. Stone, 105 Ky 344, 49 SW 320.

See governmental functions; municipal purpose.

governmental subdivision. A public body, such as a county, town, township, city, village, or other municipal corporation, even a public corporation such as an irrigation district, created and vested with powers by the state. Platt Valley P. P. & I. Dist. v Lincoln County, 144 Neb 584, 14 NW2d 202, 155 ALR 412.

governmental survey. The survey of the public domain, sometimes known as the Congressional Survey, by which the land is laid out in townships, sections, quarter sections, and quarters of quarter sections, the section being one mile square and containing 640 acres.

government bond. A United States bond. A contract which imports a loan of money by an individual to the government at a stipulated rate of interest, payable at a designated time and place. New York Life Ins. & Trust Co. v Baker, 165 NY 484, 59 NE 257.

government contracts. Contracts with the United States; public contracts.

government corporation. A corporation created by statute through which a function or functions of the government are exercised. Federal Housing Administration v Burr, 309 US 242, 84 L Ed 724, 60 S Ct 488.

See Home Owners' Loan Corporation; public corporation.

government de facto. See de facto government.

government grant. A deed of public lands by the federal or state government.

government lands. See public lands.

government of paramount force. A de facto government. 30 Am J1st Internat L § 12.

government survey. See governmental survey.

government traffic. Vehicular traffic of the army and navy and of governmental agencies. Golden Gate & Highway District v United States (CA9 Cal) 125 F2d 872 (involving free use of Golden Gate bridge at San Francisco, Cal.)

governor. The chief executive of a state in the restricted or local meaning of the word "state"—that is, one of the United States. Texas v White (US) 7 Wall 700, 19 L Ed 227, overruled on other grounds Morgan v United States 113 US 476, 28 L Ed 1044, 5 S Ct 588. The chief executive officer of a state or territory of the United States. Whitsett v Forehand, 79 NC 230, 233.

governors of the Federal Reserve System, see Reserve Board.

go without day. To go out of the court without any day appointed for returning; hence, to be dismissed by order of the court.

[531]

See go hence without day.

grab. A seizure or acquisition by violent or unscrupulous means. Smith v Pure Oil Co. 278 Ky 430, 128 SW2d 931.

grab irons. Handholds on railroad cars, required by law for the safety of employees. 45 USC §§ 4, 11.

grace. Indulgence, favor, mercy, and clemency.

See act of grace; days of grace.

grace period. See days of grace.

gracias. (Spanish.) Thanks. Thank you.

See gratia.

gradatim. Step by step; by degrees; gradually.

grade. Noun: An inclination, as in a highway. The lay of the land in reference to the elevation of adjoining lands. The amount of difference between the "grade line" and a level or horizontal line. Davies v East Saginaw, 66 Mich 37, 39. A degree or rank, in order or dignity. People v Rawson (NY) 61 Barb 619, 631. The rank of a class in school. The rank of a thing or product in order of merit or excellence, as grade A eggs. Verb: To bring the surface of a street to the grade line, whether by excavation or fill. Davies v East Saginaw, 66 Mich 37. To determine an order of excellence or merit, for example, rating the quality of grain in a granary. To classify positions in the civil service. 15 Am J2d Civ S § 16.

grade crossing. The intersection formed by a railroad and a highway at a common grade. Cowles v New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Co. 80 Conn 48, 66 A 1020.

grade crossing elimination. The elimination of a grade crossing by relocation of the railroad line or the highway or by the construction of an underpass or overpass. 44 Am J1st RR §§ 300 et seq.

graded income tax. See progressive tax.

graded probate fee. See progressive tax.

graded tax. See graded income tax; progressive tax.

grade line. The line which determines the grade of a highway or street where such highway or street is constructed otherwise than as a level or horizontal way.

The grade of a street is the amount of difference between the "grade line" and a level or horizontal line. To grade a street means to bring the surface of the street to the grade line. The term includes excavation and filling, so as to make the surface conform to the grade line. See Davies v East Saginaw, 66 Mich 37, 39.

grade of street. See street grade; grade line.

grader. See road grader.

grade school. See elementary school.

grades of crime. Classification according to felony, misdemeanor, or a mere offense or violation. Classification according to the measure of punishment meted out on conviction and the consequences to the person convicted, the severity of the punishment varying according to the heinousness of the crime and the injury inflicted thereby upon society. People ex rel. Stezer v Rawson (NY) 61 Barb 619, 631.

grading. See grade; street grade.

gradual decrease. Not necessarily an equal or uniform reduction per year. Moss v Aetna L. Ins. Co. (CA6 Tenn) 73 F2d 339.

The term, appearing in a clause of a life insurance policy relative to surrender charges, does not require equal or uniform reductions, particularly not, if the policy shows the net sums available at the close of each year of the policy. Anno: 111 ALR 974.

graduate. Noun: A person who has honorably passed through that prescribed course of study and received a certificate or diploma to that effect. Sweitzer v Fisher, 172 Iowa 266, 154 NW 465. Of a college:-one who has received a degree upon the completion of a prescribed course or curriculum. People ex rel. Johnson v Eichelroth, 78 Cal 141, 20 P 364; People ex rel. Johnson v Fichelroth, 78 Cal 141, 20 P 364. Verb: To receive a degree, diploma, or certificate, upon the completion of a prescribed course of study in a school, college, or university.

graduated license fee. A fee varying according to the weight, power, or value, of the instrumentality licensed, especially a motor vehicle. 7 Am J2d Auto § 63.

graduated tax. A term sometimes applied to a progressive tax. Precisely, an inheritance or succession tax under rates which change according to the degree of relationship between the decedent and the heir or successor. State ex rel. Foot v Bazille, 97 Minn 11, 106 NW 93.

See progressive tax.

graduate nurse. A person who has graduated from an accredited training school for nurses. Moore v Fidelity & C. Co. 203 Cal 465, 265 P 207, 56 ALR 860.

graduate work. Postgraduate study, usually for a higher degree in a college or university.

graduation. The act of graduating from a school, college, or university. The satisfactory completion of the courses of study required for a degree or diploma, as determined by the faculty. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 28. A successive raising or lowering of a figure in proportion to some external control, for example, changes in freight rates corresponding to differences in value of the goods shipped. 13 Am J2d Car § 107.

gradus. A step; a grade; a degree; a status; a degree of relationship.

gradus parentelae. A genealogy; a family tree.

graf. A magistrate; a chief.

graffarius. Same as graffer.

graffer. A notary; a scrivener; a copyist.

graft. Gain by taking advantage of one's position, particularly a position in public office. A dishonest transaction in relation to public or official acts. Quinn v Review Publishing Co. 55 Wash 69, 104 P 181. The fraudulent obtaining of public money unlawfully by the corruption of public officers. 33 Am J1st Lib & Sl § 27.

grafter. One who grafts; a swindler or dishonest person. One who takes or makes graft, or dishonest private gain, especially in positions of trust, and in ways peculiarly corrupt. State v Sheridan, 14 Idaho 222, 93 P 656.

grain. Wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, flax, and sorghum. Trusler v Crooks, 269 US 475, 479, 70 L Ed 365, 366, 46 S Ct 165. (Federal Futures Trading Act.) More broadly, the seed of any cereal plant.

[532]

grainage. A duty of the twentieth part collected by the mayor of London on all salt imported by aliens.

grain broker. A person who, for commission or other compensation, is engaged in selling or negotiating the sale of grain belonging to others. Braun v Chicago, 110 Ill 188, 191.

grain company. A corporation, sometimes a co-operative association, which handles grain by buying from producers and shipping it to mills or other markets, and often deals in grain futures.

grain doors. Inside doors for freight cars, required in shipping loose products, such as grain. 13 Am J2d Car § 470.

grain elevator. A building for the storage of grain. A warehouse for grain, equipped with elevators, hoppers, spouts, motors, etc. to facilitate the rapid handling of the product in receiving and storing it, and in moving it to railroad cars and trucks for transfer to mill or market.

grain in stacks. Unthreshed grain in bundles erected into stacks, but not unthreshed grain in mow in a barn. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 299.

grain rent. See crop rent.

grain rust. A plant disease caused by fungi, especially prevalent in growing crops of grain, indicated by red or dark brown spots on stalks and leaves. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1330.

Grammatica falsa non vitiat chartam. Faulty grammar does not vitiate a deed.

grammatical construction. The construction of a contract, deed, or other instrument according to the rules of grammar, such construction giving way to a contrary intent apparent from the context. 17 Am J2d Contr § 278; 23 Am J2d Deeds § 210.

gram stain test. A laboratory test for symptoms of gonorrhoea, universally used, and considered to be practically conclusive, certainly so when the objective symptoms are present. Peterson v Widule, 157 Wis 641, 147 NW 966. granage (gran'aj). Same as grainage.

granary. A structure or room or bin within a structure devoted particularly to the storage of grain. Anno: 10 ALR2d 226; 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 299.

See grain elevator.

granatarius. The manager of a granary.

grand assize. The great jury, instituted by Henry II,—a jury composed of sixteen knights, before whom a tenant or defendant in a writ of right might have a trial, if he chose this course in preference to a trial by battle. See 3 Bl Comm 351.

grand bill of sale. An English term for a bill of sale conveying the title to a vessel. Thuret v Jenkins (La) 7 Mart 318, 355.

grand cape. Same as cape magnum.

grandchild. A child of one's child. A child of one's legally adopted child. Batchelder v Walworth, 85 Vt 322, 82 A 7. Including an illegitimate child of one's own child only where the context in which it appears indicates a clear intent to include an illegitimate child. 10 Am J2d Bast §§ 138, 142. Included in a designation of "child" or "children" only where the context of the instrument or the surrounding facts and circumstances clearly indicate that such construction is required to accord with the intent of the grantor or maker. Bennett v Humphreys, 159 Kan 416, 155 P2d 413. A "child" for the purpose of the doctrine of advancements. 3 Am J2d Advancem § 25. A "child" within the meaning of the designation of dependents in a workmen's compensation statute. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 174. Ordinarily not a "child" within the meaning of such term appearing in a deed or will. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 216; Anno: 14 ALR2d 1242 23 Am J2d Deeds § 216; 53 Am J1st Wills §§ 1364, 1366. Not a "child" within the meaning of a designation of beneficiaries of a life insurance policy. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1658.

The word "children" in a statute relating to descent and distribution to brothers and sisters of the decedent and to "children" of any deceased brother and sister by right of representation does not include grandchildren. Dennis v Omaha Nat. Bank, 153 Neb 865, 46 NW2d 606, 27 ALR2d 674.

grand days. English court holidays which are celebrated by elaborate banquets at the inns of court.

grand distress. A writ issued in an action of quare impedit, after the defendant has defaulted, to distrain all of his property situated in the county for the purpose of forcing him to appear.

grandfather. See grandparent.

grandfather clause. A clause in a licensing statute which exempts persons already engaged in the regulated business or occupation. Application of Richardson, 199 Okla 406, 24 P2d 642. A provision in a statute requiring a certificate of public convenience and necessity which excepts carriers currently operating. 13 Am J2d Car §§ 85, 86. The popular designation of a provision found in the constitutions of southern states exempting from property and literacy restrictions on suffrage descendants of persons voting before 1867, or descendants of persons who were in military service of the United States or the Confederate states in time of war. Anno: 4 ALR2d 670.

grand juror. A person serving upon a grand jury.

grand jury. A body composed of a number, which varies from state to state, sometimes six, sometimes twelve, and occasionally more than twelve, to which is committed the duty of inquiring into crimes committed in the county from which the members are drawn, the determination of the probability of guilt, and the finding of indictments against supposed offenders. 24 Am J1st Grand J § 2.

See foreman of grand jury; indictment; minutes; presentment; special grand jury; true bill.

grand jury report. See report by grand jury.

grand larceny. At common law, larceny wherein the value of the property stolen exceeded twelve pence. Under modern statutes, the offense of the larcenous taking of property above a specified value, also such a taking of property of a specified kind, from a specified place, or from the person of another, irrespective of the value of the property taken. 32 Am J1st Larc § 3.

grand list. A schedule of the polls and ratable estate of the inhabitants upon which taxes are to be assessed. Wilson v Wheeler, 55 Vt 446, 452.

grandmother. See grandparent.

grandnephew. The son of one's nephew or niece.

Ordinarily not a "nephew" within the meaning of such term as it appears in a will. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1390. Ordinarily not inclusive of a male child adopted by a nephew or niece. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1390.

[533]

grandniece. The daughter of a nephew or niece. Ordinarily not included in a bequest to a "niece." 57 Am J1st Wills § 1390. Ordinarily not inclusive of a female child adopted by a nephew or niece. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1390.

grandparent. The parent of one's father or mother. A relative in the second degree according to the civil-law method of computing degrees of kinship which prevails in most American jurisdictions. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 48.

grand serjeanty. A tenure in capite like knight service, but which did not include either personal attendance on the king or escuage. See 2 Bl Comm 73.

grand serjeanty, per magnum servitium. Grand serjeanty by distinguished service,—whereby the tenant was bound, instead of serving the king generally in his wars, to do some special honorary service to the king in person; as to carry his banner, his sword, or the like; or to be his butler, champion, or other officer, at his coronation. See 2 Bl Comm 73.

grand stand. Adjective: A colloquial term characterizing an act or performance intended primarily to win applause. Noun: The covered structure occupied by the spectators at a sporting event, such as a baseball game.

grand theft. Another term for grand larceny.

grange. A farm, with all of its barns, sheds, stables, and other buildings. An organization of farmers intended for the promotion of their welfare and service in the national interest.

grangiarius. The steward or keeper of a grange.

grant. Noun: A conveyance or transfer of real property, especially of public lands. The conferring of something by one person upon another. Nicholas & Co. v United States, 249 US 34, 39, 63 L Ed 461, 465, 39 S Ct 218. As the term appears in a treaty: —any concession, warrant, order, or permission to survey, possess, or settle, whether evidenced by writing or parol, or presumed from possession. Strother v Lucas (US) 12 Pet 410, 9 L Ed 1137. Verb: A word of conveyance or transfer. An apt word of conveyance, effective to create a covenant to stand seised. 28 Am J2d Est §§ 255-257.

The word is not a technical word like the word "enfeoff," and although, if used broadly, without limitation or restriction, it would carry an estate or interest in the thing granted, still it may be used in a more restricted sense, and be so limited that the grantee will take but a mere naked trust or power to dispose of the thing granted, and to apply the proceeds arising out of it to the use and benefit of the grantor. Rice v Minnesota & Northwestern Railroad Co. (US) 1 Black 358, 17 L Ed 147, 153.

See capitation grant; congressional grant; devise and grant; glue; give, grant, bargain, etc.; grant, bargain and sell; grantor; grant to uses; hereby granted; inclusive grant; lie in grant; lost grant; office grant; presumed grant; railroad grant; recession; regrant; reservation; right of way by grant; royal grant.

grant and demise. A term in a lease for years creating an implied warranty of title and a covenant for quiet enjoyment. Stott v Rutherford (US) 2 Otto 107, 23 L Ed 486.

grant, bargain, and sell. Words of conveyance with contractual significance, operating under statute in some jurisdictions as a warranty against incumbrances made or suffered by the grantor. Mullanphy Sav. Bank v Schott, 135 Ill 655.

grantee. A person to whom a grant is made. The party in a deed to whom the conveyance is made. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 41.

granting clause. Apt words of grant which manifest the grantor's intent to make a present conveyance of the land by his deed, as distinguished from an intention to convey it at some future time. De Bergere v Chaves, 14 NM 352, 93 P 762, Affd 231 US 482, 58 L Ed 325, 34 S Ct 144; New Home Bldg. Supply Co. v Nations, 259 NC 681, 131 SE2d 425.

grant of patent. A transfer in writing of an entire patent for an invention, of an undivided part thereof, or of an exclusive right for a limited or unlimited territory to make and use or vend the thing patented. Moore v Marsh (US) 7 Wall 515, 19 L Ed 37, 39.

grantor. A person who makes a grant. The party to a deed who makes the conveyance. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 41.

grant to uses. A grant of land made to one person for the use or benefit of another person called the cestui que use.

grantz. Grandees; noblemen.

granum crescens. Growing grain.

graph. A writing. A representation by means of a line imposed upon a series of bars of changes appearing in a variable quantity or amount, such as stock market quotations, populations, temperatures, etc, grass. A perennial plant for pasturage or the beautification of a lawn or public grounds. Superior Oil Co. v Griffin (Okla) 357 P2d 987, 87 ALR2d 224.

grass colt. A colt having an unknown sire. A slang expression for an illegitimate child.

grasshearth. A customary service of a single day's work for the lord of the manor.

grassum. Same as gersome.

grass widow. A term of little, if any, legal significance, for a woman who has been divorced from or is living separate and apart from her husband.

gratia. (Latin.) Favor; indulgence. Thanks.

See a gratia; bona gratia; de gratia; Dei gratia; exempt gratia; ex gratia; ex speciali gratia; lucri gratia.

Gratian. See Decretum Gratiani.

gratification. Pleasure or satisfaction. A gratuity bestowed voluntarily upon a person for services rendered or benefits received.

gratis. As a favor; for nothing; gratuitously; without consideration.

gratis appearance. An appearance in an action by a defendant without waiting for or requiring service of process.

gratis dictum. A gratuitous statement; a statement made for no particular purpose a statement made without any intention that it should be relied or acted upon. Medbury v Watson, 47 Mass (6 Met) 246, 260.

[534]

gratuities received in the usual course of business. Tips received by an employee in work, such as that of a waiter in a restaurant, a bell hop, or porter, at a place where it is customary for customers or guests to give gratuities and for the employee to keep them as part of his compensation. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 314.

gratuitous. By way of gift; without consideration.

gratuitous agent. An agent acting as such without compensation.

gratuitous bailee. See gratuitous bailment.

gratuitous bailment. A bailment without compensation; according to some authority a bailment intended for the sole benefit of the bailor or a bailment intended for the sole benefit of the bailee. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 7.

In view of the fact that some courts regard a gratuitous bailment as on only for the sole benefit of the bailor, it is perhaps better to avoid altogether a classification of bailments as "gratuitous", and to adopt instead the three-fold general classification of (1) those for the sole benefit of the bailor; (2) those for the sole benefit of the bailee; and (3) those for the mutual benefit of both parties. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 7.

gratuitous contract. An anomaly in the field of contracts; a contract the purpose of which is to benefit the promisee, but without any consideration given or promised from the promisee. Georgia Penitentiary Co. v Nelms, 65 Ga 499.

gratuitous conveyance. A conveyance made without consideration.

gratuitous pension. See pension.

gratuitous guest. A person served or entertained without charge, particularly a person transported in an automobile without charge.

gratuitous licensee. A person using a common passageway in a building occupied by several tenants, at the invitation of an employee of a tenant; such guest is a gratuitous licensee of the employer and accordingly an invitee of the landlord. Snyder v Jay Realty Co. 30 NJ 303, 153 A2d 1, 78 ALR2d 95.

gratuitous rider. See guest.

gratuitous services. Work or labor rendered without charge. A matter for disciplinary proceedings against an attorney at law where offered by advertisement. 7 Am J2d Attys § 43. Services rendered by a public utility for a municipality, without charge, under contract with the municipality. 56 Am J1st Watwk § 54. The carrying of a passenger on a pass. 14 Am J2d Car § 946.

Such services attached to feudal tenure as were becoming a freeman or a soldier, such as were not base. The service was free, but uncertain under tenure by knight-service, and it was free and certain under free socage tenure. See 2 Bl Comm 62.

See liberum servitium.

gratuity. A present; a recompense; a gift; a reward; a tip. Georgia Penitentiary Co. v Nelms, 65 Ga 499.

gratulance. A bribe.

gravamen. Gist; essence; substance; sting.

gravatio. A charge; an accusation. grave. A place of burial.

gravel. A mixture of sand and small rocks. A species of stone which is a mineral. Wright v Carrollton Gravel & Sand Co. (Ky) 242 SW2d 751, 26 ALR2d 1449. Disintegrated rock.

gravel pit. A digging upon land where gravel in saleable quantities is obtainable. Williamson v Jones, 43 W Va 562, 27 SE 411.

gravel road. A road, the surface of which is gravel applied, by a spreader, for the purpose of making the way passable in wet weather.

graveyard. See cemetery.

graying dock. A dock which is put to use somewhat as a floating dock but is permanently attached to the land. 2 Am J2d Adm § 35. Except for details of construction, the same as a dry dock. Maryland Casualty Co. v Lawson (CAS Fla) 101 F2d 732.

gravi querela. See ex gravi querela.

gravis. Grave; grievous; important; serious.

gravity. A term familiar in oil price quotations, referring to what is called "Baume" gravity, under which the lighter the oil the higher the gravity. Ohio Oil Co. v Conway, 281 US 146, 74 L Ed 775, 50 S Ct 310.

gravity switch. A switching of railroad cars from one track to another by allowing them to run detached from a locomotive down grade over the switch. 44 Am J1st RR § 454.

gravius. Same as graf.

Gravius est divinam quam temporalem laedere majestatem. It is more serious to offend divine majesty than temporal.

Gray's Inn. One of the inns of court at London.

grazing right. The right to graze animals on the land of another; a profit a prendre. 25 Am J2d Ease § 4.

great. Important; extraordinary; paramount; grave; serious.

great aunt. The aunt of one's father or mother. A relative in the fourth degree of kinship according to the civil law method of computing kinship which prevails in most American jurisdictions. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 48.

great bodily harm. See great bodily injury.

great bodily injury. A phrase so self-expressive as to be difficult of definition. An injury great in degree as contrasted with a trifling hurt. Lawlor v People, 74 Ill 228, 231.

What constitutes such an injury, and whether the circumstances were such as to justify one in believing that such an injury is about to be committed upon him, is a matter which, to a great extent, must be left to the jury. Rogers v State, 60 Ark 76, 29 SW 894.

Great Body of Laws. A code of statutes adopted in the Province of Pennsylvania in 1682. James v Commonwealth (Pa) 12 Serg & R 220, 232.

Great Britain. England, Scotland, and Wales; a division of the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth.

great calamity. See calamity.

great cape. See cape magnum.

great care. Extraordinary diligence; that degree of care or diligence which a very prudent person takes of his own concerns, or which a person of ordinary prudence usually exercises about his own affairs of great importance. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 206.

[535]

great cattle. Cattle which have reached their full growth.

Great Charter. See Magna Charta.

great emergency. See great necessity or emergency.

Great Depression. The extremely unfavorable economic condition of the United States which began in 1929 and continued in various degrees of intensity for ten years, the period being marked by business failures, much unemployment, and low prices for agricultural products. 3 Am J2d Agri § 26.

great diligence. See great care.

greater rate. As the term appears in the provision of a statute on taxation that national bank shares shall not be taxed at a "greater rate" than the tax on other moneyed capital, it means that neither the rate of assessment nor the valuation shall be higher than on other moneyed capital. New York v Weaver, 100 US 539, 25 L Ed 705.

greatest convenience to the parties in interest. A phrase relative to the venue of a bankruptcy proceeding, without absolute meaning, to be applied according to the circumstances of each case-proximity to the court of bankrupt, creditors, and witnesses, the location of assets, and the economic and efficient administration of the estate. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 35.

great fee. A fee held directly of the king.

great-grandchild. The son or daughter of one's grandchild. Ordinarily not a "grandchild" within the meaning of such term as it appears in a will by way of designation of a beneficiary, although such construction will be adopted where necessary to carry out the intention of the testator as such appears from the entire context. Anno: 104 ALR 309. A relative in the third degree of kinship according to the civil law method of computing degrees of kinship which prevails in most American jurisdictions. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 48.

great grandparent. The father or mother of one's grandmother or grandfather. A relative in the third degree of kinship according to the civil law method of computing degrees of kinship which prevails in most American jurisdictions. 48 Am J2d Desc & D § 48.

great-great-grandparent. The father or mother of one's great-grandparent. A relative in the fourth degree of kinship according to the civil law method of computing degrees of kinship which prevails in most American jurisdictions. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 48.

great jury. Same as grand assize. See grand jury.

Great Lakes. Inland seas; open seas except for the characteristic freshness of water and the absence of observable tides. Illinois C. R. Co. v Illinois, 146 US 387, 36 L Ed 1018, 13 S Ct 110. Sometimes included within the classification of high seas. United States v Rodgers, 150 US 249, 37 L Ed 1071, 14 S Ct 109.

Great Law. Same as Great Body of Laws.

great necessity or emergency. As the word is applied to a necessity or emergency authorizing an extra tax levy:—of grave character and serious moment. San Christina Investment Co. v San Francisco, 167 Cal 762, 141 P 384.

great ponds. A term familiar in the New England states; ponds covering over 10 acres. 56 Am J1st Wat § 53.

great prejudice. Material pecuniary loss, not mere temporary inconvenience, or temporary impairment of income, slight in comparison with the value of the property for the uses for which it is suitable. Williamson Invest. Co. v Williamson, 96 Wash 529, 165 P 385 (the term appearing in a statute authorizing a sale of the property in an action for partition where an actual partition cannot be made "without great prejudice" to the owners.)

great seal. A seal of state; the seal of the United States; the seal of a state; the seal of Great Britain, of which the lord high chancellor is the custodian.

See seal of the United States.

great tithes. Tithes of corn, hay, wood or grain.

great uncle. The uncle of one's father or mother. A relative in the fourth degree of relationship according to the civil law method of determining kinship which prevails in most American jurisdiction. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 48.

great writ of liberty. The writ of habeas corpus.

greave. An old and obsolete form of "grove."

greaves. A substance which remains in solid form when fat is melted; a crackling.

gree. An agreement; a satisfaction for an injury; a consent; to effect a compromise.

See de son gree.

Greek bearing a gift. See onerous gift.

Greek letter fraternities. College fraternities, sometimes high school fraternities, having names composed of Greek letters.

See fraternities.

green. See Gretna Green.

greenback. Paper money, the term deriving from the green color of the back of the bill or note. Levy v State, 79 Ala 259, 261. A derogatory term applied to paper money not supported by a deposit or reserve of gold or silver.

green cloth. An English court which was held in the royal household.

green goods. An American slang expression signifying counterfeit paper money.

greengrocer. A retail dealer in fresh fruits and vegetables.

greenhouse. A building constructed principally of glass, usually provided with artificial heat for protection against the ravages of the weather, wherein plants, flowers, and sometimes vegetables are raised for purposes of sale. Hultin v Klein, 301 11194, 133 NE 660, 20 ALR 230; Needham v Winslow Nurseries, Inc. 330 Mass 95, 111 NE2d 453, 40 ALR2d 1450.

greenhouse business. The cultivation of plants, flowers and vegetables in a greenhouse for disposal to purchasers. Needham v Winslow Nurseries, Inc. 330 Mass 95, 111 NE2d 453, 40 ALR2d 1450.

Green River ordinance. A type of ordinance forbidding uninvited entry by peddlers, solicitors, and the like. Anno: 77 ALR2d 1225.

green silver. A feudal customary annual rent.

[536]

greeve. Same as gerefa.

Gregorian Calendar. The calendar so named after Pope Gregory who corrected the errors of several centuries in the calculation of time and put in force a new style by which the error is reduced to one day in thirty centuries.

Christian nations have generally adopted the Gregorian Calendar, authorized by Pope Gregory in 1582, numbering the years from the birth of Christ, and when a year is mentioned in legislative or judicial proceedings, and no mention is made of any other system of reckoning, the Gregorian or Christian Calendar is understood. 52 Am J1st Time § 9.

Gregorian Code. A compilation of Roman laws made by the jurist Gregorianus in the fourth century.

Gregorian epoch. The period of time beginning in 1582, when the Gregorian Calendar was adopted, and continuing to the present.

Gregorianus. See Gregorian Code.

Gregory, Pope. See Gregorian Calendar.

gremio legis. See in gremio legis.

gremium. Lap; bosom; breast.

gressame. Same as gersome.

gressum. Same as gersome.

gressume. Same as gersome.

Gretna Green. A place in Scotland very near the Scotch border where English runaway couples went to marry and thus escape publication of the banns and other formalities required by English law. A term applied in the United States to any city or village, to which many couples resort for marriage, for the purpose of escaping requirements imposed in other locations, of preserving secrecy respecting the marriage, or of having the ceremony performed in pleasant surroundings.

Gretna Green marriage. A marriage which was valid in Scotland and required only the mutual declarations of the parties made in the presence of witnesses. A marriage performed in a literal or figurative Gretna Green.

See Gretna Green.

grievance. A cause for complaint or protest. The crux of an industrial or labor dispute. Anno: 158 ALR 1176; 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 369.

grievance day. The day on which the complaint of a taxpayer concerning the assessment of his property is to be made. 51 Am J1st Tax §§ 728 et seq.

grieved. Aggrieved.

griff. A term familiar in Louisiana; the child of a Negro and a mulatto; a person too black to be a mulatto and too light in color to be a Negro. State v Treadway, 126 La 300, 52 So 500.

grippe. A disease caused by a virus, similar to a severe cold. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 745.

gripping efficiency. The efficiency of brakes on a motor vehicle.

See braking distance.

grist. A quantity of grain, particularly an amount taken by a farmer to a mill to be ground into flour and collateral products for the farmer. A term sometimes applied to the amount of flour retained by the miller for his services in grinding the grain.

grith. (Saxon.) Peace; the public peace.

grithbrech. (Saxon.) A breach of the peace.

grithstole. (Saxon.) A seat or place of peace; a sanctuary.

grocer. A dealer in groceries. An engrosser.

grocery store. A building or structure in which groceries are kept for sale. Goldstine v State, 230 Ind 343, 103 NE2d 438.

gros. Large; great.

gross. Noun: Twelve dozen. Adjective: Without deduction. As a whole or in an entirety; total. Large; lacking refinement. Braun's Appeal, 105 Pa 414, 415.

See in gross.

gross abuse of discretion. An arbitrary, unreasonable, individualistic, unjust, and unconscionable act or decision. 5 Am J2d A & E § 774.

gross adventure. Bottomry; a maritime loan.

See bill of gross adventure.

gross allowance. A lump-sum award of alimony. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 614.

gross average. Same as general average.

Grosscup Rule. A rule applied in determining the rights and liabilities of a borrowing member of a building and loan association in the event of the insolvency or dissolution of the association. 13 Am J2d B & L Assoc § 121.

grosse avanture. Same as gross adventure.

grosse bois. Great wood; timber.

grossement. Greatly.

gross estate of decedent. The value of all property left by a decedent, determined as of the date of death. For federal tax: the value of all property to the extent of the decedent's interest therein at the time of his death; virtually all property transferred either by the will of the decedent or under the local intestacy laws. Estate of Kinney v Commissioner (CA9) 80 F2d 568. For the purposes of the statute which provides for an estate tax lien:-the estate or property on which the tax chargeable to the decedent's estate is computed, including property which does not pass as part of the estate but by right of survivorship. Detroit Bank v United States, 317 US 329, 87 L Ed 304, 63 S Ct 297.

gross immorality. Wilful, flagrant, or shameful immorality, showing a moral indifference to the opinions of the good and respectable members of the community and to the just obligations of the position held by the delinquent. Moore v Strickling, 46 W Va 515, 33 SE 274 (involving ground for removal from public office.)

gross inadequacy of consideration. Inadequacy of consideration which is shocking to the conscience; which implies fraud, oppression, or the taking of advantage of a relationship of trust or dependence. 17 Am J2d Contr § 102. Inadequacy of value received so great as to evidence fraud or imposition. 11 Am J2d B & N § 217.

gross income. The whole or entire profit arising from a business or pursuit. Braun's Appeal, 105 Pa 414, 415. For income tax purposes: the total income of the taxpayer; the income from all sources without deductions or allowance for exemptions; the total of gains and profits of the taxpayer, irrespective of immorality or viciousness in the method of acquisition. Steinberg v United States (CC NY) 14 F2d 564.

[537]

That portion of the gross profits arising out of the sale of capital assets which represents gain or increase acquired must be regarded as "gross income" within the meaning of the Federal Corporation Excise Tax Act. Doyle v Mitchell Bros. Co. 247 US 179, 62 L Ed 1054, 38 S Ct 467.

gross income from the property. For the purpose of a percentage depletion for income tax computation involving income from oil or gas well: the amount for which the taxpayer sells oil or gas in the immediate vicinity of the well. If the oil or gas is not sold on the premises but is, before sale, manufactured or converted into a refined product of transported from the premises: the equivalent of the representative market or field price, at the well head on the date of sale, before conversion or transportation. If sold in place and extracted by the buyer: it does not include the buyer's cost of extraction. 34 Am J2d Fed Tax ¶ 7684.

gross incompetency or recklessness. Act or conduct which is grossly incompetent or reckless according to the common judgment, that is, in the judgment of the people. Klafter v State Board of Examiners, 259 Ill 15, 102 NE 193 (ground for revocation of a professional license).

See gross negligence.

gross lewdness in an open place. Not to be confounded with "open and gross lewdness." The former has reference to the place where the act is committed, while the latter has not, but simply means lewdness which is not secret. Burroughs v Eastman, 88 Wis 180, 59 NW 580.

See open and gross lewdness.

gross misdemeanor. A misdemeanor of a more serious nature than the ordinary misdemeanor. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 21. A term invented to permit a distinction between petty offenses and those of a more serious nature. State v Kelly, 218 Minn 247, 15 NW2d 554, 162 ALR 477.

gross misdemeanor of public school pupil. Gross misbehavior but not necessarily criminal conduct; persistent disobedience of the proper and reasonable rules and regulations of the school. Holman v Trustees of School Dist. 77 Mich 605, 43 NW 996.

gross national product. The market value of all the goods and services our economy produces in a given period.

gross neglect of duty. As a ground for divorce:—neglect attended with circumstances of indignity or aggravation; such a glaring, shameful neglect of marital duties as to be obvious from common understanding and inexcusable under all the relevant facts of the case. Morris v Morris, 132 Okla 291, 270 P 833. By a public officer:—a dereliction which, from the gravity of the situation or the frequency of instances, becomes so serious as to endanger or threaten the public welfare; not necessarily inclusive of every instance of wilful neglect or intentional official wrongdoing. Attorney-General, ex rel. Rich v Jochim, 99 Mich 358, 58 NW 611. Clearly beyond mere inadvertence. Clemens v State, 176 Wis 289, 185 NW 209, 21 ALR 1490. Acting with such an utter disregard of consequences as to suggest something of an intent to cause injury. Astin v Chicago, M. & St. P. R. Co. 143 Wis 477, 128 NW 265.

gross negligence. A classification as difficult as any classification according to degrees of negligence. 38 Am J1st Negl § 43. Negligence characterized by the want of even slight care. Acting, or omitting to act in a situation where there is a duty to act, not inadvertently but wilfully and intentionally with a conscious indifference to consequences so far as other persons may be affected. 38 Am J1st Negl § 47.

gross negligence in homicide. Aggravated or culpable negligence; conduct constituting such a departure from the conduct of an ordinarily prudent or careful man under the same circumstances as to be incompatible with a proper regard for human life; conduct amounting to a disregard of human life or an indifference to consequences to human life. 26 Am J1st Homi § 210.

gross negligence of bailee. An expression without a precise or definite meaning; a concept to be considered in the light of all the circumstances surrounding the bailment. Broadly, the failure to exercise reasonable care, skill and diligence, or the failure to exercise that care which the property in its particular situation demands. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 212.

gross negligence of carrier. In respect of limitation of liability to passenger riding on a pass:—a term not susceptible of precise definition; a question to be resolved ultimately in the factual situation of the case. 14 Am J2d Car § 951.

gross negligence toward guest in automobile. A term not susceptible of precise definition; a question to be resolved according to the circumstances of the particular case, Broadly, an entire failure to exercise care, or the exercise of so slight a degree of care as to justify the belief that there was an indifference to the things and welfare of others; that want of care which raises a presumption of conscious indifference to consequences; indifference to present legal duty and utter forgetfulness of legal obligations. 8 Am J2d Auto § 487.

gross proceeds. The entire proceeds. The proceeds of a sale or of a collection without deduction for cost, commissions, or any other expenses whatsoever. Ross Jewelers, Inc. v State, 260 Ala 682, 72 So 2d 402, 43 ALR2d 851; Duhamé v State Tax Commission, 65 Ariz 268, 179 P2d 252, 171 ALR 684.

gross receipts. The entire earnings of a business without deduction; the total as opposed to the net. Greene County Bldg. & Loan Assn. v Milner Hotels, Inc. 240 Mo App 1048, 227 SW2d 111. For the purpose of a sales tax:—the proceeds of sales of personal property without deduction on account of cost of the property or any other expense whatsoever. Ross Jewelers, Inc. v State, 260 Ala 682, 72 So 2d 402, 43 ALR2d 851.

Receipts from employees' purchases at wholesale cost, voluntarily allowed, constitute "gross receipts" derived from trades, businesses or commerce, taxable under a gross income tax law. Walgreen Co. v Gross Income Tax Div. 225 Ind 418, 75 NE2d 784, 1 ALR2d 1014.

gross sales. The entire amount of the entire sales of a business for a specific period of time.

As used in a tax statute imposing a privilege tax on the "gross sales" of wholesale dealers, the term means the gross prices paid for the products named. Pure Oil Co. v State, 244 Ala 258, 12 So 2d 861, 148 ALR 260.

grossome. Same as gersome.

gross premium. The net premium, which is the cost of the insurance, that is, the amount required on an actuarial basis to carry the risk, plus loading for expenses and contingencies. Fox v Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. (CA8 Mo) 107 F2d 715.

[538]

gross production tax. A state tax upon the gross production of certain industries which is substituted for and takes the place of an ad valorem tax imposed under general tax laws; a tax in lieu of all other taxes on the leases and minerals or the equipment used in producing or in the operation of oil wells or mines. New England Oil & Pipe Line Co. v State Board of Equalization, 121 Okla 277, 249 P 914.

gross ton. A measure of avoirdupois weight. The equivalent of 2,240 pounds.

gross weight. The weight of a thing or commodity without any allowance or deduction.

Grotius. One of the earlier outstanding authorities on international law.

ground. The earth or soil. An electrical term, meaning an object of metal buried in the earth whereby an electrical connection is made with the earth. A point a reason; support for a cause of action. The basis for taking a step in an action for example, a ground of attachment. 6 Am J2d Attach § 218.

groundage. A fee charged by port authorities for allowing a ship to remain in a port.

ground annual. An annual rent.

ground collision. A collision between aircraft on take-off or landing.

ground crew. A detail of men necessary for the landing and handling of an airship on the ground. Preferred Acci. Ins. Co. v Rhodenbaugh (CA6 Ohio) 160 F2d 832, 834; Miner v Western Casualty & Surety Co. 241 Iowa 530, 41 NW2d 557, 14 ALR2d 1358.

ground vessel. A stranded vessel.

ground for disbarment or discipline. Misconduct of an attorney at law, either within or outside his professional activities, which shows that he is unfit to discharge the duties of his profession or unworthy of confidence. 7 Am J2d Attys § 25.

ground for divorce. A legal cause for divorce. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 20. Misconduct of a spouse which, as provided by statute, entitles the other spouse to a divorce. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 20.

ground landlord. A landlord to whom a tenant pays ground rent.

See ground rent.

ground of action. Essentially, the cause of action. Johnston v Sikes, 56 Conn 589, 594. The basis of an action as determined under the law and upon the facts pleaded.

ground rent. A rent reserved to himself and his heirs by a grantor of land, out of the land itself, constituting real estate and having the usual characteristics of an estate in fee simple. 32 Am J1st L & T § 1039.

ground rent lease. An expression familiar in Maryland but anomalous in some other jurisdictions.

The chief characteristics of the Maryland ground rent leases are (1) the owner of the land in fee leases it to the named lessee for the period of ninety-nine years, (2) with covenant for renewal from time to time forever, upon payment of a small renewal fine (3) upon the condition, however, of the payment of a certain sum of money (usually payable semi-annually) and (4) upon the further condition that if the payment of the rent is in default for a stipulated time the lessor may reenter and avoid the lease. The grantee also covenants to pay all taxes upon the whole property; and under the present (1941) taxing system the taxes are assessed to the lessee. Jones v Magruder (DC Md) 42 F Supp 193.

The typical Pennsylvania ground rent is not created by a lease but results from a conveyance by the absolute owner of the land to the grantee in fee, subject to the payment of rent. The difference between the Maryland and Pennsylvania ground rent systems is said to be attributable to the somewhat different provisions of the respective royal charters to Cecelius Calvert and William Penn for the proprietary provinces of Maryland and Pennsylvania, with respect to the application of the Statute of Quia Emptores. Jones v Magruder (DC Md) 42 F Supp 193.

ground risk. The risk of any direct loss or damage to an aircraft while not in flight. Acme Flying Service v Royal Ins. Co. (Sup) 83 NYS2d 740, affd without op 275 App Div 766, 88 NYS2d 904.

ground writ. An English writ running to a county outside of the county in which it was issued and upon the authority of which a writ of execution is issued in the outside county.

group. A number of persons or things existing or brought together with or without interrelation, orderly form, or arrangement. Hope v Flentage, 140 Mo 390, 41 SW 1002.

group annuity. A contract providing annuities for the members of a defined group of persons, usually the employees of a business or industry, or of such part of them as desire to participate and are eligible under the arrangement or plan provided, the conditions of the contract being stated in a master policy and the participation by an individual being noted in a certificate of insurance issued to him.

grouping of contracts. A theory of conflict of laws otherwise known as the "center of gravity theory." 16 Am J2d Confl L § 42.

See center of gravity theory.

group insurance. A contract providing life, accident or health insurance for the members of a defined group of persons, usually the employees of a business or industry, or of such part of them as desire to participate and are eligible under the arrangement or plan provided, the conditions of the contract being stated in a master policy and the participation by an individual being noted in a certificate issued to him.

group medicine. Arrangement by contract, certificate, or policy, having the purpose of providing medical treatment for special groups or classes of people, especially those of limited means. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 25.

growing concern value. The value which inheres in a public utility plant having an established business, as distinguished from a plant which has yet to establish its business; a property right which should be considered in determining the value of the property upon which a public utility company has a right to a fair return. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 139.

growing crop. Literally, a crop in the process of growth, an unmaturing crop. But a disputed term in legal parlance.

Some authorities hold that a growing crop may be either above or below the surface of the soil, while other authorities hold that a crop is not a growing crop unless it shows above ground, and that underground sprouts do not constitute such a crop. Again, some authorities hold that a crop is growing from the time the seed is planted until the harvest, while other authorities hold that a matured, ungathered crop is not growing. 21 Am J2d Crops § 2. Whether grass in a pasture is a growing crop is also a controverted question. Anno: 87 ALR2d 238.

[539]

growing timber. Trees in the process of growth; live trees. Exclusive of felled or dead trees. Anno: 72 ALR2d 740.

See growth of timber.

growing value. The value which inheres in a public utility plant having an established business, as distinguished from a plant which has yet to establish its business; a property right which should be considered in determining the value of the property upon which a public utility company has a right to a fair return. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 139.

growth corporation. A corporation characterized, not by growth in earnings but by growth in plant, capabilities for the future, and in expansion of sales outlets.

growth half-penny. A tax which was imposed on oxen and other non-producing cattle.

growth of timber. Literally, timber growing on premises but sometimes meaning future growth. Baker v Kenney, 145 Iowa 638, 124 NW 901.

growth theory. The rule that rights in respect of pure or technical trademarks are the result of growth, that is, of increasing amount of use over a period of time. 52 Am J1st Tradem § 22.

gruarii. The chief officers of a forest.

grubbing contract. A contract to take out the roots, stumps, and obstacles imbedded in the surface of the ground along the right of way of a railroad, except where not required on account of cuts or fills. Cervien v Erickson Constr. Co. 94 Wash 500, 162 P 567.

grubstake. An advance made to a person about to engage in a venture for living expenses. A vernacular term coined by miners, used loosely in legal opinions for various kinds of joint ventures in prospecting. Anno: 70 ALR2d 907.

grubstake contract. A contract between one person known as an outfitter and another person known as the miner, wherein the former agrees to supply the latter in a mining adventure which the latter agrees to follow for a prescribed period. 36 Am J1st Min & M §§ 171, 172. An arrangement by which one of the parties undertakes to supply finances, supplies or equipment which the other party is to use in discovering and locating mineral claims on the public domain the parties to share in any claims located. Anno: 70 ALR2d 907. Sometimes spoken of as a prospecting partnership, but to be distinguished from a mining partnership. Anno: 70 ALR2d 907.

Guadalupe Hidalgo Treaty. The treaty, perhaps better called the Treaty of Queretaro, of Feb. 2, 1848, which ended the War between the United States and the Republic of Mexico. 9 Stat 923.

guadia.. A pledge.

guarantee. The creditor under a contract of guaranty, being the person to whom the principal debtor is primarily liable and to whom the guarantor is secondarily liable. 24 Am J1st Guar § 2. In another sense, a guaranty.

See guaranty.

guaranteed annual wage. An undertaking by an employer that he will pay a specified total amount in wages during the year to an employee employed by the hour or the day.

guaranteed dividends. An expression which is somewhat anomalous so far as it relates to corporate dividends, since dividends are payable only from net profits or surplus earnings, and is ordinarily construed to mean only that dividends are guaranteed in the event there are net profits from which they may properly be dispersed. 19 Am J2d Corp § 872. A "guaranty of dividend" by a corporation is nothing more than a pledge of the funds, legally applicable to the purposes of a dividend. Taft v Hartford P. & F. R. Co. 8 RI 310.

guaranteed insurability rider. A rider attached to a life insurance policy at time of issuance, permitting the insured to obtain, without medical examination, policies of life insurance, subject to limitation upon amount contained in the rider. Otherwise known as purchase option rider.

guaranteed sales. See sales guaranteed.

guaranteed stock. See preferred stock.

guaranteed title. A title to real estate such as designated title insurance company will approve and insure.

See title insurance.

guarantor. The person bound, by a contract of guaranty. 24 Am J1st Guar § 2. One who undertakes to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another.

guaranty. An undertaking or promise, on the part of one person called the guarantor, which is collateral to a primary or principal obligation on the part of another, and which binds the guarantor to performance in the event of nonperformance by such other person, the latter being primarily bound to perform. 24 Am J1st Guar § 3. Concisely, a promise to answer for the debt, default, or miscarriage of another person, provided such person does not respond by payment or performance. Hickory Novelty Co. v Andrews, 188 NC 59, 123 SE 314.

The fundamental difference between a contract of guaranty and one of suretyship is that the guarantor's contract is collateral to and independent of the contract the performance of which he guarantees while that of a surety is an original obligation. 24 Am J1st Guar § 11.

See absolute guaranty; collateral guaranty; conditional guaranty; continuing guaranty; general guaranty; guaranty insurance; letter of credit; limited guaranty; merger of guaranty; offer to guarantee; prior indorsements guaranteed; special guaranty; suretyship; warranty.

guaranty fund. See depositors' guaranty fund; reserve.

guaranty insurance. A guaranty or insurance against loss in case a person named shall make a designated default, or be guilty of specified conduct. People ex rel. Kasson v Rose, 174 Ill 310, 51 NE 246.

See credit insurance; fidelity guaranty insurance; title insurance.

guaranty of collection. A guaranty which is not absolute but implies that the creditor will make diligent effort to enforce the collection of the obligation from the principal debtor. To be distinguished from a guaranty of payment. 24 Am J1st Guar § 17.

[540]

guaranty of dividend. See guaranteed dividend.

guaranty of liberty. The guaranty under the Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution that no state shall deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law.

guaranty of payment. A guaranty which binds the guarantor to pay the debt of another, known as the principal debtor, at maturity, in the event the money has not been paid by the principal debtor, the obligation of the guarantor becoming fixed upon the default of the latter. 24 Am J1st Guar § 17.

guaranty of prior indorsements. See prior endorsements guaranteed.

guaranty policy. An insurance policy whereby the insurer undertakes to pay the insured creditor in the event of nonpayment by his debtor.

See credit insurance; guaranty insurance; solvency policy.

guard. Noun: A person whose duty it is to protect the person or property of another. A watchman. A railing around a shaft in a building, open hole in a highway or street, or other place of danger to pedestrians or drivers. Verb: To keep watch against danger; to protect the person or property of another. To control or restrain.

See castleguard; cattleguard; custodia; safeguards.

guardage. Wardship.

guardia. The ward of a guardian.

guardian. A person to whom the law has intrusted the custody and control of the person, or estate, or both, of an infant, lunatic or incompetent person. A person in a trust relation of the most sacred character, known as a guardianship, in which he acts for another person called the "ward," whom the law regards as incapable of managing his own affairs. Harrison v Harrison, 21 NM 372, 155 P 356. Sometimes in the relationship of in loco parentis with the ward. 25 Am J1st G & W § 62.

The guardian, at common law, performs the office of tutor or curator of the Roman civil law, the former of whom had charge of the maintenance and education of the minor, the latter the care of his fortune. Mercer v Watson (Pa) 1 Watts 330, 348.

See committee; conservator; general guardian; joint guardian; protutor; special guardian; testamentary guardian.

guardian ad litem. A person appointed by the court during the course of litigation, in which an infant or a person mentally incompetent is a party, to represent and protect the interests of the infant or incompetent.

guardian by custom. A person who, by the custom of the place, had the right to act as guardian.

guardian by election. A person selected by an infant as his guardian and appointed by the court to act in such capacity. 25 Am J1st G & W § 5.

guardian by infant's election. See guardian by election.

guardian by judicial appointment. The most common kind of guardian, being a person appointed by the court as the guardian of the person, of the property, or of both person and property, of an infant or mental incompetent.

guardian by nature. The father of an infant, 25 Am J1st G & W § 6; the mother of an infant upon the death of the father, upon his removal as guardian, or upon his abandonment of wife and children. 25 Am J1st G & W § 7. In some jurisdictions, although not in others, the next of kin of an infant where the parents are both deceased. 25 Am J1st G & W § 7. One having a right to the custody of the person of the ward, but no right of custody or control over his estate, except as such right is conferred by statute or other law. 25 Am J1st G & W § 10.

At common law guardianship by nature was a guardianship of the person only, was limited to the eldest son, and continued until the ward became twenty-one. 25 Am J1st G & W § 5.

guardian by nurture. A common-law guardian of the person only, the guardianship being that of the father and extending to all his children, and continuing until the ward reached the age of fourteen if a boy, or sixteen if a girl. A type of guardianship long since succeeded by that of guardianship by nature. 25 Am J1st G & W §§ 5, 6.

See guardian by nature.

guardian by statute. An expression which, in England, designates a guardian appointed by the father's will. Huson v Green, 88 Ga 722, 725, 16 SE 255.

guardian de son tort. A person who, without legal appointment or qualification, assumes the functions of a guardian by exercising control over the person, or estate, or both, of a minor or insane person. Maish v Valenzuela, 71 Ariz 426, 229 P2d 248, 25 ALR2d 747.

guardian for nurture. See guardian by nurture.

guardian in chivalry. A status acquired by a lord of the manor, upon the death of a tenant holding by knight service, in reference to children of the tenant, such guardian having the right to the custody of the ward's person, and to take the profits of his land, as recompense for the loss of knight service, the guardianship terminating when the ward, if a male, reached the age of 21, or, if a female, the age of 14. 25 Am J1st G & W § 5.

guardian in socage. A guardian of an infant under 14 years inheriting lands held in socage, the guardian being the next of blood to the heir and one who could by no possibility inherit the socage estate in guardianship. 25 Am J1st G & W § 5.

guardian of spendthrift. A guardian appointed by a court, on the institution of appropriate proceedings for that purpose, to take charge of the estate of an improvident person, profligate, spendthrift, or drunkard, the appointment of such a guardian being authorized by statute in some states. 25 Am J1st G & W § 20.

guardian of the spiritualities. See custos spiritualium.

guardian of the temporalities. See custos temporalium.

guardian's bond. The bond required of guardian by judicial appointment. 25 Am J1st G & W § 47. The bond sometimes required of a natural guardian. 25 Am J1st G & W § 47.

guardian's commission. The fees of a guardian for performance of the duties of his office; the compensation to which a guardian is entitled. 25 Am J1st G & W § 182.

guardianship. The office of a guardian; the functions and duties pertaining to the office of a guardian. A trust relation of the most sacred character, in which one person, called a "guardian," acts for another, called the "ward," whom the law regards as incapable of managing his own affairs. Harrison v Harrison, 21 NM 372, 155 P 356.

[541]

See guardian.

guardians of the peace. Same as conservators of the peace.

guardians of the poor. The board or body having charge of the care and support of the persons of a county who are dependent upon the county for their support.

guardianus. Same as gardianus.

guardrail. A protection around a stairway, open shaft, or other place of danger; an additional rail at an intersection of railroads, intended to prevent cars from jumping the track.

See handrails.

guarra. War.

guastald. Same as gastaldus.

gubernator. A helmsman; a pilot; a governor.

gubernatorial. Pertaining to or connected with the office of a governor.

gue. A vagrant; a vagabond.

guerpi. Abandoned; deserted.

guerra. War.

guerre. Same as guerra.

guess. A conjecture; an estimate made without knowledge of the facts.

guessing contest. A contest at prophesying or predicting, for a prize, the best answer to a question or the nearest approximation to a figure, the correctness of which answer or prediction will determine the winner of the prize; not a lottery where skill or judgment is the dominant element in determining the winner. 34 Am J1st Lot § 12.

guest. One invited or received at the home, table, or other place of another, for food, lodging, entertainment, or sociability. A person stopping at an inn, hotel, motel, or other place of public accommodation, for food or lodging, without becoming a permanent resident or tenant. 29 Am J1st Innk § 12.

See business visitor; visitor.

guest in aircraft. A person who is not a passenger for hire or an employee but is carried in an aircraft with the knowledge and consent of the owner or operator. Anno: 12 ALR2d 657; 8 Am J2d Avi § 81.

guest in motor vehicle. One who is invited, either directly or by implication, to enjoy the hospitality of the owner or operator of a motor vehicle, and who accepts such hospitality and takes a ride either for his own pleasure or on his own business, without making any return to or conferring any benefit upon the owner or operator of the motor vehicle other than the mere pleasure of his company. 8 Am J2d Auto § 475.

This term does not include one becoming a passenger for the substantial benefit of the owner or operator. Antonen v Swanson, 74 SD 1, 48 NW2d 161, 28 ALR2d 1.

guest statutes. Statutes relative to the liability of the owner or operator of a motor vehicle, aircraft, or pleasure boat, for injury to a guest. 8 Am J2d Auto § 471; Avi § 81; 12 Am J2d Boats § 37.

guest-taker. Same as agister.

guia. (Spanish.) A way; a right of way.

guidage. A reward or compensation paid by a traveler to a guide for his safe conduct in a strange country.

guide. A person whom others follow for the purpose of arriving at a specific destination. A person who conducts tourists or strangers in a region through the region and buildings and other points of interest therein. Something to follow, be it a book, a design, or a plan.

guide book. A compilation depicting, describing, and furnishing information as to points of interest, historical and natural attractions in a city or region, prepared for tourists and also with the idea of advertising the city or region so as to attract tourists. A writing of an author within the meaning of the copyright law. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 38.

Guidon De La Mer. The title of an authoritative treatise on maritime law, written about 1670.

guild. A term, more familiar in England than in the United States, for a union of men in the same craft, trade, or occupation, or for an association for mutual aid and improvement of the members.

guild-hall. The meeting place of a guild.

guilt. Criminality; culpability; guiltiness; the antithesis of innocence.

guilty. The plea of a defendant in a criminal prosecution who admits having committed the crime with which he is charged. Having guilt; justly chargeable with a crime; not innocent; criminal. The state of a person who has committed an offense. Commonwealth v Walter, 83 Pa 105, 108.

See plea of guilty.

guilty knowledge. An element of offenses, such as receiving stolen property or accepting bank deposits with knowledge of insolvency of the bank, consisting of actual knowledge of the relevant fact or of notice of facts and circumstances from which knowledge of the relevant fact may be implied, but not merely of an innocent bona fide ignorance arising from neglect to keep posted or to inquire. Utley v Hill, 155 Mo 232, 55 SW 1091.

guilty mind. General criminal intent. 21 Am J2d Crim L §§ 81, 82.

See mens rea.

guilty plea. See plea of guilty.

gulch. A natural waterway for the drainage of surface water, characterized by precipitous banks. 56 Am J1st Wat § 76. A deep or precipitous cleft, especially the sharply hollowed-out bed of a torrential intermittent stream; a ravine; a deep gully. Popham v Holloron, 84 Mont 442, 275 P 1099.

gule of August. The first day of the month of August.

gulf. An arm of the ocean or of an inland sea extending into the land. gullible. Easily imposed upon or cheated.

gully. A ravine or gulch; a natural watercourse for the drainage of surface waters. Not necessarily a watercourse, although sometimes considered to be such. Anno: 40 ALR 852.

gun. In military parlance, a heavy weapon with a long barrel, such as a cannon. In common parlance, a rifle, pistol, revolver, machine gun, or other instrumentality having a barrel or tube from which a bullet or other projectile is discharged by force, usually the force generated by the explosion of gunpowder. Harris v Cameron, 81 Wis 239.

[542]

See firearm; spring gun.

Gunpowder Plot. The name given to a conspiracy to kill James I of England, and blow up the House of Parliament, by an explosion, in retaliation for anti-Catholic legislation, most of which had been enacted in the reign of Elizabeth I.

gunwale. The upper edge of the side of a watercraft.

gurgites. Gullies or pools of water on a man's land, isolated from other water, in which he has the exclusive right of taking fish. Arnold v Mundy, 6 NJL 1.

gust. A burst of wind or rain. A Saxon term for a guest, especially a guest for two nights running.

gutter. A long receptacle and conduit hung on a building to catch the eavesdrip. A narrow ditch along the side of a street or highway for drainage.

Guy Fawkes. The chief of the conspirators in the Gunpowder Plot.

See Gunpowder Plot.

guy wire. A wire which holds a pole, building, or other structure to the ground, being attached to an upper portion and running downward but laterally to the ground, wherein it is anchored, its purpose being to support the pole or other structure against stress, especially that produced by high wind.

gwabr merched. A fee paid to the lord of the manor upon the loss of her maidenhood, by marriage or otherwise, of the daughter of a tenant.

gwalstow. A place where capital offenders were put to death.

gwayf. Stolen property which was dropped in the highway to avoid discovery.

gylwite. Amends or compensation paid to settle a fraud or a trespass.

gymnasium. A building or room for the practice of gymnastic exercises, as distinguished from field athletics, but often including a rowing tank, a cage for winter practice of baseball, etc.; a place or building where athletic exercises are performed; a school of gymnastics. McNair v School Dist. 87 Mont 423, 288 P 188, 69 ALR 866. An adjunct of schools in modern times. 47 Am J1st Schools § 75.

gymnasium fee. An incidental charge imposed upon a student in college or university. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 19.

gynarchy. A government ruled by a woman; as, by a queen. gypsum. A mineral. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 5.

gyro compass. A form of compass used for steering a ship consisting of a rapidly spinning rotor so swung as to maintain its axis in the geographical meridian in pointing to the true north, often equipped with a course recorder so that the course of the vessel is recorded automatically on a graph which shows the heading of the vessel, in degrees on the compass, at any and all times. The Sakito Maru (DC Cal) 41 F Supp 769.

gyrotiller. A self-propelled plowing device, used by sugar planters throughout the West Indies, so constructed and equipped as to turn the soil, pulverize it, and prepare the ground for planting, all in one operation. Central Aguirre Sugar Co. v Domenech (CAI Puerto Rico) 115 F2d 502.

gyves. Handcuffs; shackles.

H

H. A. Abbreviation of "in this year," being derived from "hoc anno."

hab. corp. An abbreviation of habeas corpus.

habeas corpora. Same as habeas corpora juratorum.

habeas corpora juratorum. That you have the bodies of the jurors, a writ of the court of common pleas commanding the sheriff to have the bodies of jurors named in the panel, or else to distrain them by their lands and goods, to compel their appearance in court upon the day appointed. See 3 Bl Comm 354.

habeas corpus. A high prerogative writ of ancient origin, the vital purposes of which are to obtain immediate relief from illegal confinement; to liberate those who may be imprisoned without sufficient cause, and to deliver them from unlawful custody; or to obtain a proper custody of persons illegally detained from the control of those who are entitled to the custody of them. 25 Am J1st Hab C § 2. A generic term in one sense, being applicable to each of several different writs, but as used generally, referring to the writ of habeas corpus ad subjiciendum. 25 Am J1st Hab C § 2.

Habeas Corpus Act. An English statute (31 Car. II) passed to remedy a condition of indifference or disregard of the rights of the people which had through royal influence and other causes reached the point where the common law writ became so little respected that it no longer afforded real or substantial benefits to English subjects.

The act had the desired effect, although it introduced no new principle, conferred no right upon the subject and made no change in the practice of the courts in granting the writ, but it did correct certain imperfections of the common law writ and tended to make the prisoner's remedy a speedy one. 25 Am J1st Hab C § 6.

habeas corpus ad deliberandum et recipiendum. A writ of habeas corpus which issues where it is necessary to remove a prisoner in order that he may be tried in the proper jurisdiction namely, that wherein the act was committed. 25 Am J1st Hab C § 4.

habeas corpus ad faciendum et recipiendum. A common writ of habeas corpus which issues where a person is sued and arrested in some inferior jurisdiction and is desirous of removing the action into a superior court, commanding the inferior judges to produce the body of the defendant and to state the day and cause of his caption and detainer. 25 Am J1st Hab C § 4.

habeas corpus ad prosequendum. A writ of habeas corpus which issues for the purpose of removing a prisoner in order to prosecute him in the proper jurisdiction, namely, that wherein the act was committed, or to enable him to become the prosecuting witness in a criminal case. 25 Am J1st Hab C § 4.

habeas corpus ad respondendum. A writ of habeas corpus which issues where one has a claim against another, who is in custody under process of an inferior court, in order to remove the prisoner and prefer the claim against him in the higher court. 25 Am J1st Hab C § 4.

habeas corpus ad satisfaciendum. A writ of habeas corpus which issues where a prisoner has had judgment against him in an action, and the plaintiff is desirous of bringing him up to some superior court to charge him with process of execution. 25 Am J1st Hab C § 4.

This writ is not available in the United States, because here one court never awards execution on the judgment of another. 25 Am J1st Hab C § 4.

habeas corpus ad subjiciendum. The ordinary writ of habeas corpus.

See habeas corpus.

habeas corpus ad testificandum. A writ of habeas corpus, although not a high prerogative writ, its issuance lying in the sound discretion of the court, which issues to remove a prisoner in order for him to bear testimony. 25 Am J1st Hab C § 4.

habeas corpus cum causa. The same as habeas corpus ad faciendum et recipiendum.

habeas ibi tunc hoc breve. See et habeas ibi tunc hoc breve.

Habemus optimum testem, confitentem reum. We have the best witness, a defendant who is confessing.

habendum clause. That part of a deed, usually following the premises, which sets forth the estate to be held and enjoyed by the grantee.

Words of inheritance are commonly used, but contrary to the rule at common law, under the statutes now in force in most states, such are not necessary to pass a title in fee simple. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 38.

habendum et tenendum. To have and to hold.

habentes homines. Men who have things; wealthy men.

habentia. Riches.

habere. To have.

habere facias possessionem. The technical term applied to a writ of possession for the execution of a judgment in favor of a plaintiff in ejectment. 25 Am J2d Eject § 133. A writ of possession directed to the sheriff of the county commanding him to give actual possession to the plaintiff who had established his right to recover a chattel interest in land in a real or mixed action. See 3 Bl Comm 412.

Habere facias seisinam. That you give him seisin,—a writ of seisin of a freehold,—a writ directed to the sheriff of the county commanding him to give actual possession to the plaintiff, who had established his right to recover land in a real action. See 3 Bl Comm 412.

habere facias visum. A writ which directs the sheriff to view the premises in controversy.

[544]

habere licere. To allow to hold, to allow a person to take possession.

Habeto tibi res tuas. Take your effects or belongings to yourself—a Roman formula for divorcing a wife.

hab. fa. An abbreviation of habere facias possessionem.

habiles ad matrimonium. Fit for marriage.

habilis. Suitable; proper; fit; capable.

habit. A customary method of doing a thing. See 29 Am J2d Ev § 303. Customary conduct, deriving as a tendency arising from frequent repetition. Knickerbocker Life Ins. Co. v Foley, 105 US 350, 26 L Ed 1055.

When a person has repeatedly acted in a particular way at intervals, whether regular or irregular, for such length of time as that we can predicate with reasonable assurance that he will continue so to act, we may affirm that this is his habit. State ex rel. Atty. Gen. v Savage, 89 Ala 1, 7 So 183.

It would be incorrect to say that a man has a habit of anything from a single act. A habit of early rising, for instance, could not be affirmed of one because he was once seen abroad before sunrise; nor could intemperate habits be imputed to him because his appearance and actions might indicate a night of excessive indulgence. Knickerbocker Life Ins. Co. v Foley (US) 15 Otto 350, 26 L Ed 1055.

habitable. Fit for habitation; tenantable; reasonably fit for occupation by a tenant of the class which occupies it. Miller v McCardell, 19 RI 304, 33 A 445.

habitable repair. Good repair; such state of repair as renders a building fit for occupancy by an inhabitant.

habitancy. Residence or domicil; a residence at a place with the intent to make and regard it as a home. Lyman v Fiske, 34 Mass (17 Pick) 231.

See domicil; residence.

habit and repute. Habits and reputation.

habitatio. Same as habitation.

habitation. A component part of the concept of domicil, as an abiding in a place. Re Lester, 377 Pa 411, 105 A2d 376. A place of abode, either permanent or temporary. Union Hotel Co. v Hersee, 79 NY 454.

habit-forming drugs. Narcotic drugs.

habitual. By habit; constant; customary, accustomed, usual; common; ordinary; regular; familiar. Peltz v Printz, 186 Pa 347, 349.

habitual carnal intercourse. Sexual intercourse, had at least more than one time, between persons not husband and wife. 2 Am J2d Adult § 3.

habitual criminal. A second or subsequent offender; a convicted person with a prior criminal record. A term usually defined with precision by statute in a jurisdiction where the status permits or requires an increase in term of imprisonment imposed for a crime.

See sterilization.

habitual criminal statute. A statute which imposes a greater punishment for a second or subsequent offense than for the first. Tucker v State, 14 Okla Crim 54, 167 P 637.

Such statutes have been enacted in order that one who persists in the commission of crime may be put away permanently and the state may rid itself of the depravity when its efforts to reform have failed. Coleman v Commonwealth, 276 Ky 802, 125 SW2d 728.

habitual drunkard. One who drinks intoxicating liquors to excess and with habitual frequency, as the opportunity permits. One who has lost the power or will to control his appetite for intoxicating liquors or narcotics, and has the fixed habit of drunkenness. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 8.

habitual drunkenness. A very frequent condition of intoxication. The result of indulging a natural or acquired appetite for intoxicating liquors, by continued use, until it becomes a customary practice. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 8. A disease of mind and body, analogous to insanity. Leavitt v Morris, 105 Minn 170, 117 NW 393. As ground for divorce:—habitually drinking intoxicating drinks immoderately and a habit of getting drunk. Anno: 120 ALR 1177.

habitual intemperance. A very frequent condition of intoxication.

See habitual drunkenness.

habitual intoxication. Same as habitual drunkenness.

habitually. By habit, customarily. By frequent practice.

The word does not appear to mean "exclusively" or "entirely." Stanton v French, 91 Cal 274, 27 P 657.

habitual user. A drug addict.

See habitual drunkenness.

habitum et tonsuram clericalem. The clerical garb and tonsure. See 4 Bl Comm 367.

habitus. Habit; garb; appearance; apparel.

habitus et tonsura clericalis. The dress and tonsure of a priest or clergyman.

hacienda. (Spanish). An estate; the public domain.

hack. A vehicle for hire in the transportation of persons. A term inclusive of automobiles in so far as a regulation of the transportation of passengers for hire is concerned. Fletcher v Bordelon (Tex Civ App) 56 SW2d 313, error ref.

See taxicab.

hadbote. A fine or mulct imposed for the offense of committing an assault on a clergyman.

Haddock Case. A decision of the United States Supreme Court in a divorce case (Haddock v Haddock, 201 US 562, 50 L Ed 867, 26 S Ct 525) involving the application of the full faith and credit clause of the United States Constitution to a divorce decree obtained against a nonresident defendant upon constructive service of process, once regarded as a leading authority upon the question determined, but now to be considered in the light of more recent decisions of the same court. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 951.

hade. A grassy slope.

haderunga. Hatred; ill will; malevolence.

hadgonel. A tax.

Hadley v Baxendale. An English case notable for the principle that the damages recoverable for breach of contract are such as may fairly and reasonably be considered as arising naturally—that is, according to the usual course of things—from the breach of the contract itself, or such as may reasonably be supposed to have been in the contemplation of both parties at the time they made the contract, as the probable result of its breach. 9 Exch 341, 156 Eng Reprint 145.

Haec est conventio. This is the agreement.

Haec est finalis concordia. This is the final agreement,—the formal words which usually formed the beginning or introductory part of the indentures which after being engrossed were delivered to the cognizor and cognizee, and which recited at length all of the steps in the levying of a fine at common law. See 2 Bl Comm 351.

Haec quae nullius in bonis sunt, et olim fuerunt inventoris de jure naturali, jam efficiuntur principis de jure gentium. These things which are the goods of no one and which were formerly the property of the finder by natural right, now are made those of the king by the law of nations. See 1 Bl Comm 299.

Haec sunt institutiones, quas Rex Edmundus et episcopi sui cum sapientibus suis instituerunt. These are the institutions which King Edmund and his bishops and his wise men have established. See 1 Bl Comm 148.

Haec sunt judicia quae sapientes consilio regis Ethelstani instituerunt. These are the decrees which the wise men with the advice of King Ethelstane have ordained. See 1 Bl Comm 148.

haec verba. See in haec verba; pleading in haec verba.

haereda. The name given to the hundred-court in the Gothic constitution. See 3 Bl Comm 35.
See hundred-court.

haerede deliberando. See de haerede deliberando, etc.

Haeredem Deus facit, non homo. God makes an heir, not man.

haerede rapto et abducto. See de haerede et abducto.

haeredes. Heirs, plural of haeres.

Haeredes est nomen collectivum. Heirs is a collective name.

haeredes extranei. (Civil law.) Foreign heirs; that is, heirs who were neither the children nor the slaves of the decedent.

haeredes facti. (Civil law.) Made heirs; that is, beneficiaries under the will of the decedent.

haeredes necessarii. (Civil law.) Heirs of necessity; that is, heirs who were so without their election to become heirs.

haeredes proximi. Nearest heirs, next heirs, children or descendants of the decedent.

haeredes recti. Right heirs. See right heirs.

haeredes remotiores. More remote heirs; that is heirs of more remote relationship than haeredes proximi.

haeredes sui et necessarii. (Civil law.) Descendants of the deceased and haeredes necessarii.

Haeredi magis parcendum est. An heir should be dealt with more leniently.

haeredipeta. A person seeking an inheritance; that is, the next heir.

Haeredipetae suo propinquo vel extraneo periculoso sane custodi nullus committatur. No one should be committed to his next heir or to a stranger, certainly a dangerous guardian.

haereditas. An inheritance.

Haereditas, alia corporalis, alia incorporalis; corporalis est, quae tangi potest et videri; incorporalis quae tangi non potest nec videri. An inheritance is either corporeal or incorporeal; corporeal is that which can be touched or seen; incorporeal is that which can neither be touched nor seen.

haereditas damnosa. A detrimental or burdensome inheritance; that is, an inheritance which would render the heir liable for debts of the deceased ancestor.

Haereditas est successio in universum jus quod defunctus habuerat. Inheritance is the succession to every right which the deceased had.

haereditas jacens. (Roman law.) A fallen or prostrate inheritance; an inheritance which the heir has not yet received or accepted; an inheritance with no owner. See 2 Bl Comm 259.

haereditas luctuosa. (Civil law.) A sorrowful or mournful inheritance,-an inheritance in the ascending line, as by parents from children was considered as disturbing the natural order of inheritance. See 4 Kent Comm 397.

Haereditas nihil aliud est, quam successio in universum jus, quod defunctus habuerit. An inheritance is nothing but the succession to all the rights which the deceased had.

Haereditas nunquam ascendit. An inheritance never ascends. This very ancient maxim was recorded in writings in the time of Henry the Second and was probably of feudal origin and formed the basis of the first canon of descent that inheritances should lineally descend to the issue of the person who last died actually seised in infinitum; but should never lineally ascend. See 2 Bl Comm 208, 211.

See haereditas luctuosa.

haereditas paterna. A paternal inheritance, an inheritance from the heir's father.

[546]

Haeredum appellatione veniunt haeredes haeredum in infinitum. Under the name "heirs" come the heirs of heirs without limit.

haeres. (Roman law.) A person who succeeds to the rights of a decedent in real or personal property, whether by the law of descent or under a will. Adams v Akerlund, 168 Ill 632, 639, 48 NE 454.

haeres actu. (Roman law.) A person who became such by the act or appointment of the deceased in his lifetime.

haeres astrarius. An heir in the actual possession of his inheritance.

haeres de facto. Same as haeres factus.

Haeres est alter ipse, et filius est pars patris. An heir is a man's other self, and the son is a part of his father.

Haeres est aut jure proprietatis aut jure representationis. A person is an heir either by right of property or by right of representation.

Haeres est eadem persona cum antecessore. An heir is the same person as his ancestor.

Haeres est nomen collectivum. Heir is a collective name.

Haeres est nomen juris; filius est nomen naturae. Heir is the legal name, son is the natural name.

Haeres est pars antecessoris. The heir is a part of his ancestor. Schoonmaker v Sheely (NY) 3 Hill 165, 167.

Haeres est quem nuptiae demonstrant. The heir is the person whom the marriage shows to be the heir.

haeres ex asse. (Civil law.) An heir to the whole estate of the deceased; a sole heir.

haeres extraneus. (Civil law.) A foreign heir,-an heir who was neither a slave nor a child of the deceased.

haeres factus. (Civil law.) A made heir,-a heir appointed by will or by settlement, as distinguished from an heir born; a devisee. See 1 Bl Comm 196.

haeres fideicommissarius. (Civil law.) A beneficiary heir,-a testamentary cestui que trust.

haeres fiduciarius. (Roman law.) A fiduciary heir, a fiduciarius or trustee who was made haeres by will for the benefit of the fidei-commissarius. Mackeldey's Roman Law § 783.

Haeres haeredis mei est meus haeres. The heir of my heir is my heir.

haeres legitimus. A lawful heir,-an heir born out of lawful wedlock.

Haeres legitimus est quem nuptiae demonstrant. He is the lawful heir whom the marriage points out to be such. Jackson v Jackson, 82 Md 17, 33 A 317.

Haeres minor uno et viginti annis non respondebit, nisi in casu dotis. An heir who is under twenty-one years of age is not answerable, except in the matter of dower.

haeres natus. A born heir; an heir who is entitled to inherit by descent. See 1 Bl Comm 196.

haeres necessarius. Singular of haeredes necessarii.

Haeres non tenetur in Anglia ad debita antecessoris reddenda, nisi per antecessorem ad hoc fuerit obligatus, praeterquam debita regis tantum. The heir is not bound in England to pay his ancestor's debts unless he was bound to this by the ancestor, excepting whatever is owed to the king.

haeres rectus. A right heir.

See right heir.

haeres suus. (Civil law.) His own heir,—a proper heir; an heir by descent.

haeretare. To attach an hereditary character to a gift.

haeretico comburendo. See de haeretico comburendo.

haesitabant. They were in doubt.

hafne courts. Haven courts,—courts anciently held in ports of England.

haga. A house; a house in a city or borough.

Hague Tribunal. A name applied first to an international court of arbitration established by the International Peace Conference of 1889, later to the Permanent Court of International Justice established under the auspices of the League of Nations in 1920, but now to the International Court of Justice established as the judicial branch of the United Nations. 30 Am J Rev ed Internat L § 54.

haie. (French.) A hedge; an enclosure.

haiebote. Same as haybote.

hail. Whole; the whole.

hailworkfolk. Same as halywerfolk.

haimsucken. Same as hamesecken.

hair stylist. A hairdresser. 10 Am J2d Barbers § 2.

hale. Healthy.

halegemot. Same as halmote.

half. A fraction. The part obtainable in an equal division. As descriptive of the premises in a deed:—an undivided interest of one half. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 246. A half section of land.

half blood. Broadly defined, relatives by blood but having only one common ancestor. The relationship between children who have but one of their parents in common. Butler v King, 10 Tenn (2 Yerg) 115, 118.

In a number of cases wherein the language of the will was unambiguous or there was no expression of an intent to the contrary, it has been held that half bloods share equally with whole bloods in a testamentary gift to "heirs," "heirs at law," "legal heirs," etc. Anno: 49 ALR2d 1369. In other cases, however, it has been held that half bloods do not share equally in such gifts. Anno: 49 ALR2d 1372.

[547]

half brother. A man or boy related to one through a common parentage limited to one parent. Wood v Mitcham, 92 NY 375, 379.

See half blood.

half-endeal. One-half.

half fare. A reduced charge made by a carrier of passengers for certain persons, especially children and students. 14 Am J2d Car § 847.

half gelt. A horse castrated to the extent only of removing one of his testicles. Douglas v Moses, 89 Iowa 40.

half-notes. Notes which were given as payment and torn in half; half of each note was given to the seller when the buyer ordered the goods and the other half upon delivery of them.

half pilotage. The fee to which a pilot is entitled under compulsory pilotage laws where his services are offered but declined. 48 Am J1st Ship § 204.

half-proof. An obsolete term for proof by a single witness or by a single document. 3 Bl Comm 370.

half-section. Three hundred twenty acres of land according to the government survey.

half sister. A woman or girl related to one through a common parentage limited to one parent. Wood v Mitcham, 92 NY 375, 379.

See half blood.

half-tongue. A term applied to a jury, part of whom speak one language and part another.

half-truth. Deceit consisting in only a partial disclosure of the facts. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 151. A fraud where spoken with a design of influencing the opposite party who does not have equal means of knowledge. Addison v Wilson, 238 Ky 143, 37 SW2d 7.

half-year. One hundred and eighty-two days, odd hours being rejected in the computation. 52 Am J1st Time § 15.

hali-gemote. Same as halle-gemote.

Halimass. Same as Hallowmass.

hallage. A toll charged for the privilege of selling goods in a hall or fair.

hallazco. (Spanish.) The acquisition of title to goods which have been abandoned by finding them.

hall day. A court day.

halle-gemote. A manor court; a court baron.

Halloween. The evening of Oct. 31; the evening preceding All Saints Day, generally celebrated by masquerading, especially by children who go from house to house seeking treats under threat of "tricks."

Hallowmass. All Saints' Day, the first day of november.

hallucination. A morbid error in one or more of the senses; a perception of objects which do not, in fact, make any impression on the external senses.

The basic distinction between an hallucination and a delusion is that the former is a matter of false perception, the latter a matter of false idea or belief. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 3.

halmote. Same as court-baron.

halt. Infirm. A stop. To stop, especially on command.

halywerfolk. Tenants who held their land by the service of repairing or defending a church.

ham. A home; a house; a dwelling house. In the more modern sense, meat of the hog taken from the quarters, usually marketed after curing; the thigh and buttock. A slang term for an incompetent actor or an actor who overplays.

hamble. To hamstring an animal; to expedite a dog, that is, to remove the balls of his feet to prevent the chasing of game.

hamel. A village.

hamesecken. Home-sacking,—the ancient word for burglary, or nocturnal housebreaking. See 4 Bl Comm 223.

hamesucken. Same as hamesecken.

hamfare. An assault upon a person committed within a house or dwelling.

hamlet. A small village; a vill.

hamma. Same as curtilage.

hamsocne. Same as hamesecken.

hamsoken. Same as hamesecken.

hamstring. To disable an animal by severing the hamstring, the tendon in the hock. To place such restraint upon a person that he is unable to act.

hanaper. A hamper; a receptacle where writs and their returns were kept. See 3 Bl Comm 49.

hanaper office. An old term for an office in the English court of chancery where original writs pertaining to subjects, as distinguished from writs relating to the crown, were issued. Yates v People (NY) 6 Johns 337, 363.

Hanc Tuemur, Hac Nitimur. This we defend, this we lean upon.

The words are those of a motto which appears on the face of a medallion on the title page of the journal of the proceedings of the Colonial Congress of 1774, representing Magna Charta as the pedestal on which was raised the column and cap of liberty, supported by twelve hands; one for each of the twelve colonies. Hurtado v California, 110 US 516, 554, 28 L Ed 232, 245, 4 S Ct 111, 292.

hand. The terminal of the arm; a member of man and apes adapted for grasping things. Champlin Refining Co. v State Industrial Cont. 153 Okla 45, 4 P2d 1. A lineal measure of four inches. A word often used to indicate handwriting.

See beat hand; bloody hand; clean hands; entire loss of hands or feet; note of hand; strong hand; unclean hands; witness my hand; witness my hand and seal.

hand baggage. See baggage.

handbill. A printed sheet of advertising, of a convenient size for passing out along the street or from house to house. A circular. People v McLaughlin, 33 Misc 691, 693, 68 NYS 1108.

handborow. A hand pledge; a pledge; a frank pledge.

handcar. A small car upon which railroad trackmen ride to and from work, the term continuing in use notwithstanding hand-power has been replaced by diesel or electric power. Any small cart or vehicle pushed by hand.

handcuffing. Putting handcuffs on a person.

handcuffs. Manacles; shackles. Metal rings or chains placed around the wrists and locked to prevent the use of the hands and incidentally the escape of a prisoner. 5 Am J2d Arr § 75.

[548]

handfasting. A kind of trial marriage which prevailed anciently in parts of Scotland, referred to in The Monastery by Sir Walter Scott, Chapter XXV.

See trial marriage.

hand grith. Protection at the hands of the king himself.

handhabend. Same as bacberend.

handholds. See grab irons; handrail.

handicap. Something that hampers a person in an endeavor or activity. A game, especially golf or bowling, in which the competition is equalized by artificially burdening the better players and favoring the players with an inferior record by adding to or subtracting points from the actual score as the plan or scheme of the game play requires. The number of points imposed to the disadvantage of a particular player. A horse race in which the horses are weighted according to the estimate of the handicapper for the purpose of equalizing their chances of winning. Stone v Clay (CA7 Ill) 61 F 889.

handicapper. One who fixes the handicaps of horses in a race or of players in a game such as bowling or golf.

See handicap.

handled. Moved or manipulated by the hand. Bought or sold in commerce. For the purposes of the Fair Labor Standards Act: very kind of incidental operation preparatory to putting goods in the stream of commerce. Western Union Tel. Co. v Lenroot, 323 US 490, 89 L Ed 414, 65 S Ct 335.

handling. As used in the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act of 1918, the word has been defined as those physical operations customarily performed in obtaining agricultural or horticultural commodities from producers' farms, transporting them to and receiving them at the establishment, weighing them or otherwise determining on what basis the producer is to be paid, placing them in the establishment where further operations are to be performed, and delivering the commodities to warehouses. Gordon v Paducah Ice Mfg. Co. (DC Ky) 41 F Supp 980.

handling charges. Charges covering a variety of small services by brokers, banks, even cooperative associations, in completing transactions on behalf of customers or clients.

handling firearms. Using firearms or merely carrying firearms. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1284.

handling, slaughtering or dressing. An expression pertaining to labor relations, meaning work in reference to the processing of meat and poultry concluded when the product is placed in the cooler, thus not including packing, loading, grading, or shipping. Shain v Armour & Co. (DC Ky) 50 F Supp 907.

handrail. A metal or wooden handhold securely fastened along a stairway to give support to users. A handhold of metal affixed to passenger cars for the convenience and protection of passengers boarding or leaving; also a metal handhold at .points inside a passenger car for the protection of passengers standing or walking when the car sways on curves or is stopped abruptly.

handsale. A sale made under the ancient custom of the northern countries by shaking hands to bind the bargain; later the same word came to be used to signify the price or earnest which was given immediately after the shaking of hands, or instead of shaking hands. See 2 Bl Comm 448.

handsel. Same as handsale.

hand signals. Signals made by movement of the arm and hand, especially those made by a brakeman on a railroad train or a motorist.

hand sled. See sled.

hands of justice. A familiar term in exceptions from the risk found in life insurance policies, meaning an act performed under public authority, as by a police officer in the discharge of his duty. Not including the killing by a husband of the paramour of his wife, although under the circumstances and the law, such killing is a justifiable homicide. Supreme Lodge, K. T. v Crenshaw, 129 Ga 195, 58 SE 628.

handsworn. See mainsworn.

handwriting. Chirography; penmanship. In the broad sense, anything written by the hand. Commonwealth v Webster, 59 Mass (5 Cush) 295.

See comparison of handwriting; court hand.

handwriting expert. A person qualified by study and practice to identify handwriting as that of a particular person by comparison with a sample of handwriting known to be that of such person, irrespective of whether or not he makes a business of identification of handwriting. Christman v Pearson, 100 Iowa 634, 635.

hangar. The structure in which aircraft are sheltered, repaired, or serviced.

hanging. A method of execution of the death penalty. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 613. Suspending a person convicted of a capital offense by the neck until he is dead, as the penalty for such an offense.

hanging-gale. An old term for overdue rent.

hanging in chains. The practice, at one time common in England, of suspending the body of a murderer, who had been executed, by chains in a public place.

hangman. An executioner; a person employed to execute a capital sentence by hanging the convict.

hangwite. The ancient practice of hanging a thief without bringing him to trial; a fine for permitting a thief to escape.

hanse. An association formed by the merchants of different towns and cities for their mutual protection, welfare, and advantage.

hanseatic. Relating to a hanse or to the Hanse towns.

Hanseatic League. A politico-commercial association or league of cities in the north of Germany and adjoining states during the middle ages.

Hanse towns. Those towns which were associated together as members of the Hanseatic League.

See Hanseatic League.

hantelode. An arrest.

happiness. Contentment, consisting in many things or depending upon many circumstances, such as the right of an individual to follow his preference in selecting an occupation. Ruhrstrat v People, 185 Ill 133, 57 NE 41.

See life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

harangue. A noisy, bombastic, ranting speech. Commonwealth v Brown, 309 Pa 515, 164 A 726, 86 ALR 892.

harassing litigation. Vexatious or oppressive litigation. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 210.

[549]

harassment. Torment. A form of abuse of process. 1 Am J2d Abuse P § 10.

See harassing litigation.

harbor. Noun: A haven for a vessel. A place on navigable waters, either landlocked or artificially protected, where vessels may resort for safety. 48 Am J1st Ship § 223. A word sometimes used as synonymous with "port", which is in fact a broader term. 48 Am J1st Ship § 223. Verb: To secrete or conceal a person. Jones v Van Zandt (US) 5 How 215, 12 L Ed 122. To keep, shelter, or protect.

harbor dues. Fixed charges for a ship's use of a harbor.

harboring a criminal. Almost indistinguishable from being an accessory after the fact; secreting a criminal or acting as a go-between to enable him to escape arrest and punishment. 39 Am J1st Obst J § 17.

harboring an alien. Keeping, maintaining, or aiding an alien to reside in the United States contrary to law. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 104.

Within the meaning of the Federal statutes dealing with the importation and harboring of alien girls not lawfully entitled to enter or to reside within the United States, to harbor means only that the girls shall be sheltered from the immigration authorities and shielded from observation to prevent their discovery as aliens. United States v Smith (CA2 NY) 112 F2d 83.

harboring an animal. Giving shelter and protection to an animal, as by keeping it in one's house or place of business. McClain v Lewiston Interstate Fair & Racing Asso. 17 Idaho 6, 104 P 1015.

harbor lines. Limits established in a navigable body of water by the federal government, a state, or a municipality for the erection of wharves, piers, or other structures to be available for convenient use in the loading or unloading of vessels. 56 Am J1st Wat § 201.

harbor master. The officer who enforces the public regulations pertaining to a harbor. 56 Am J1st Whar § 27.

harbor watch. One or a small number of men detailed to keep a lookout for the safety of a vessel while it is in harbor. O'Hara v Luchenbach Steamship Co. 269 US 364, 70 L Ed 313, 46 S Ct 157.

Harbor Worker's Compensation Act. See Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act.

hard action. A tort action or an action to recover a penalty. Cronemillar v Duluth-Superior Milling Co. 134 Wis 248, 114 NW 432.

hard cider. Cider which has fermented. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 17.

hard labor. A special condition of imprisonment for crime. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 615.

Describing the labor as hard, in a sentence imposing imprisonment at hard labor, does not signify that it shall be of unusual severity. It means no more than that it is compulsory, and continuous during the term of imprisonment. Brown v State, 74 Ala 478, 483.

hard money. Specie; a coin of the precious metals, of a certain weight and fineness, with the government stamp thereon, denoting its value as a medium of exchange, or currency. Henry v Bank of Salina (NY) 5 Hill 523, 536.

hardpan. A hard stratum of earth. Dickinson v Poughkeepsie, 75 NY 65, 76. Earth difficult to dig because of its hardness:-(1) semi-indurated clay, with or without admixture of stony matter; (2) cemented gravel; or (3) clay, with or without admixture of stony matter, which is very tough because of its strong cohesion. Newport v Temescal Water Co. 149 Cal 531, 87 P 372; Baker v Multnomah County, 118 Or 143, 246 P 352.

hardship. Suffering privations; financial loss suffered in the performance of a contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 402. Conditions making life miserable and productive activities difficult. 49 Am J1st Spec Per § 59.

Hare System. A form of proportional representation, whereby candidates for public office are not elected by their obtaining a majority or plurality of the votes cast, but by their obtaining a quota of a designated number of votes or a certain proportion of the entire vote, the electors being permitted to express second, third, or additional choices. Johnson v New York, 274 NY 411, 9 NE2d 30, 110 ALR 1502.

Harger drunkometer. A device used in taking a breath test for the purpose of determining intoxication according to the amount of alcohol in the breath. 7 Am J2d Auto § 332.

hariot. Same as heriot.

harlot. A whore; a prostitute.

harm. Hurt; injury.

See bodily harm; great bodily harm; serious bodily harm.

harmless. Not causing or productive of harm. In a more rare sense, unharmed.

harmless error. Trivial, formal, or merely academic error; a determination which although erroneous, is not prejudicial to the substantial rights of the party who assigns it and in no way affects the final outcome of the case. State v Britton, 27 Wash 2d, 336, 178 P2d 341.

harmonizing. Preserving a statute or part of a statute against repeal by another statute or part of a statute by construction which reconciles the statutes and parts with one another so that effect may be given to all provisions. 50 Am J1st Stat § 363. Reconciling clauses or provisions of a contract in construction, so as to ascertain the meaning of the contract by reasoning which dispels apparent repugnancy between the clauses or provisions. 17 Am J2d Contr § 267. Giving effect to an entire will by reconciling apparent inconsistencies, on the theory that the testator intended all parts of the will to operate. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1129. Reconciling apparent conflicts in testimony for the purpose of giving effect to all testimony, if possible. State v Pettit, 33 Idaho 326, 193 P 1015.

harnasca. Harness; armor.

haro. Hue and cry.

Harrison Narcotic Act. See Narcotic Act.

harrou. Hue and cry.

harsh contract. A hard bargain, even a foolish contract, from the standpoint of a party, but not necessarily the result of undue advantage having been taken of his trust and confidence. 17 Am J2d Contr § 192.

Harter Act. An act of Congress approved February 13th, 1893, which was designed to fix the relations between the cargo and the vessel and to prohibit contracts restricting the liability of the vessel and owners in certain particulars connected with the construction, repair and outfit of the vessel and the care and delivery of the cargo. 48 Am J1st Ship § 447.

[550]

harth-penny. Same as chimney-money.

harvest. Noun: A crop produced and taken from the ground. The time when crops of small grain, such as wheat, oats, and rye, are gathered; not applicable to the cutting of a second crop grown on a field from which one crop was taken during the same season. Wendall v Osborne & Co. 63 Iowa 99, 103. Verb: To sever a crop from the soil and take it in hand for giving it such care at the time as is necessary to conserve it for ultimate use or processing as food or clothing.

As used in a statute providing that crops raised and harvested pass with a judicial sale of the land, raised is used in the sense of "matured" and harvested in the sense of "severed." The words are not thus used synonymously, for it is well known that there are a variety of crops that are harvested before their maturity, grain especially. McNulty v Dean, 154 Wash 110, 281 P 9, 66 ALR 1417.

harvesting ice. The cutting and taking of ice from the water upon which it has formed. 52 Am J1st Trespass § 17.

has been. A term which, as it appears in a statute, may be construed to permit retrospective operation, provided such construction is not in violation of constitutional provisions. Nervo v Mealy, 175 Misc 952, 25 NYS2d 632.

haspa. The hasp of a door, which was often used in making livery of seisin of the land on which the building stood.

hasp and staple. See seizin by hasp and staple.

hasten death. In legal effect, to cause death. Avignone Freres, Inc. v Cardillo, 73 App DC 149, 117 F2d 385.

Hastings. A city of England, the name of which has been given to the battle of Oct. 14, 1066, near the English Channel, in which the Normans, invading from across the channel, defeated the Anglo Saxons, thereby winning a victory which lead ultimately to Norman control of all England.

hasty legislation. Statutes enacted without time for due consideration by the legislative body. 50 Am J1st Stat § 71.

hatch. An opening in the deck of a vessel; an opening in the roof or the floor of a building permitting access below.
See hatchway.

Hatch Act. A federal statute making it unlawful for any person employed in the executive branch of the Federal Government, or any agency or department thereof, to use his official authority or influence for the purpose of interfering with an election or affecting the result thereof, or for any such officer or employee to take any active part in political management or in political campaigns, although such person maintains the right to vote as he may choose and to express his opinions on all political subjects and candidates. 5 USC § 118i(a).

hatchway. An opening through the deck of a vessel to a lower deck or the hold. An opening through a sidewalk over an areaway. 25 Am J1st High § 263. Not a stairway or basement-way. State v Armstrong, 97 Neb 343, 350, 149 NW 786.
See hatch.

hat-money. Prim age,—compensation paid to the master of a ship for his care of goods entrusted to him.

hauberik. A coat of mail.

haubert. Same as hauberik.

hauberticum. See feudum hauberticum.

haugh. Low lands which were sometimes overflowed by a river.

haul. A pull. The movement of railroad cars whether on the main line or in switching operations. United States v Erie R. Co. 237 US 402, 59 L Ed 1019, 35 S Ct 621.

See line haul; long-and-short haul.

haura. A hall; a court.

hauled or used. A term employed in safety appliance acts in reference to railroad cars. Hauled in a train or otherwise used. United States v St. Louis S. W. R. Co. (CA5 Tex) 184 F 28.

hauler. One who hauls goods, merchandise, or other things for compensation.
See contract hauler.

hauling crosscut. A way in the underground workings of a mine. Anno: 15 ALR 1504.

haul-out. The removal of a yacht or other watercraft from the water for storage, repairs, and care. 12 Am J2d Boats § 30.

haur. Hate; malevolence.

haustus. A drawing, as of water from a well.

haut. High.

haut bois. High wood.

haut chemin. A highway.

haut en bas. See de haut en bas.

haut estret. A high street.

Havana. The capital of Cuba. A cigar made in Cuba or of Cuban tobacco. El Moro Cigar Co. v Federal Trade Com. (CA4) 107 F2d 429.

have. To possess, either temporarily or permanently. State v Lowry, 166 Ind 372, 77 NE 728.

have and hold. See to have and to hold.

haven. A shelter or place of safety. A bay, recess, or inlet of the sea, or the mouth of a river, which affords a good anchorage and a safe station for ships. Lowndes v Huntington, 153 US 1, 23, 38 L Ed 615, 621, 14 S Ct 758.

having a car under control. See control of vehicle.

having an interest. See interest.

having due regard. A directory phrase, as it appears in a statute, not of mandatory or all-controlling influence. Lape v Lape, 99 Ohio St 143, 124 NE 51, 6 ALR 187.

having lottery tickets in possession. An offense by ordinance or statute passed to suppress lotteries, some of which make it an offense to have the tickets in one's possession, unless it is shown that the possession is innocent or for a lawful purpose. See 34 Am J1st Lot §26.

having received full value. A recital in a deed, insufficient in itself to establish a good or valuable consideration. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 65.

See for value received.

Hawaii. The fiftieth state of the Union, admitted in 1959.

[551]

Hawaiian Islands. A group of islands in the Pacific Ocean, formerly incorporated as a territory of the United States, now contained in the fiftieth state of the Union, the State of Hawaii.

hawker. A peddler who makes noise in advertising his product, either by crying or shouting, or by ringing of bells, or by other means. 40 Am J1st Ped § 3. One who not only carries goods for sale, but seeks for purchasers, either by outcry, by actual exhibition or exposure of the goods, by placards or labels, or by a conventional signal, such as the sounding of a horn for the sale of fish. South Bend v Martin, 142 Ind 31, 41 NE 315.

Hawkeye. An Indian chief, whose name has been given to residents of Iowa and the athletic teams of the University of Iowa at Iowa City, Iowa.

hawser. A tow line. 48 Am J1st Ship § 503.

hay. A harvested crop growing annually from grasses, such as clover, alfalfa, or timothy. Baumgartner v Sturgeon River Boom Co. 120 Mich 321, 323, 79 NW 566, 567.

haybote. One of the three estovers implied in England from the mere leasing of land, whereby a tenant for life or years may take from the land a sufficient amount of timber for repairing hedges and fences. 32 Am J1st L & T § 219.

hay grinder. A machine on wheels, used in the grinding or shredding of hay into small particles for blowing into a silo or for commercial use; a vehicle within the exception of the use of an insured automobile for towing any vehicle. Moffitt v State Auto. Ins. Asso. 140 Neb 578, 300 NW 837.

Haymarket Riot. The violent result in deaths and serious injuries, sometimes attributed to anarchists, of a demonstration by the forces of labor at Hay-market Square in Chicago, Illinois, March 4, 1886.

hay press. A machine for bailing hay. Phoenix Ins. Co. v Stewart, 53 Ill App 273.

haywards. Officers regularly appointed whose duty it is to impound estrays. Adams v Nichols (Vt) 1 Aik 316, 319.

hazard. Danger; peril. In the parlance of insurance, risk, the likelihood or probability of loss. State Ins. Co. v Taylor, 14 Colo 499, 24 P 333.

See increase of hazard; moral hazard.

hazardous. Subject to hazard, that is to possibility of danger or of loss.

hazardous contract. A contract, the performance of which depends on an uncertain event.

hazardous employment or occupation. A relative term in the absence of qualifying terms, meaning an employment or occupation attended with greater risk of injury or death than is true of other employments or occupations under consideration. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 90.

hazardous goods. Articles or substances which are explosive or highly inflammable. A classification of goods made for the purpose of prohibited-article clauses of fire insurance policies; a classification not inclusive of articles or substances which are specially hazardous or extra-hazardous. Pindar v Continental Ins. Co. 38 NY 364.

hazing. Horseplay and practical jokes perpetrated on a freshman student, or neophyte in an organization, by way of initiation or discipline. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 27.

H. B. M. An abbreviation of His or Her Britannic Majesty.

H-bomb. A hydrogen bomb.

H. C. An abbreviation of House of Commons. Also an abbreviation of habeas corpus.

h.e. of l. Abbreviation of high cost of living.

head. A leader or commander. Nautical slang for a toilet.

headborough. Same as headborow.

headborow. The head or chief man of a borough; a frank pledge or tithing.

head gate. A gate controlling the flow of water in an irrigation canal or other canal as at a lock. 30 Am J Rev ed brig § 14.

heading. See caption.

headings. Words and phrases placed at the head of main subdivisions of codes and other law books to indicate the character of matter contained therein. 50 Am J1st Stat § 157.

See caption.

headland. A strip of unploughed land left at the end of a ploughed field.

headlights. The lights on a motor vehicle which illuminate the way in front of the vehicle as it advances. The front lights carried by locomotives.

head money. A gratuity distributed among the officers and crew of a ship in the same manner as prize money is distributed. A reward for the taking of a person wanted for prosecution, or an escaped convict, dead or alive. An admission tax.

Head Money Cases. Certain famous cases in which the United States Supreme Court sustained the validity of the Act of August 3, 1882, imposing upon the owners of steam or sailing vessels bringing passengers from a foreign port a duty of fifty cents for each such passenger not a United States citizen. Cunard S.S. Co. v Robertson, 112 US 580, 28 L Ed 798, 5 S Ct 247.

headnote lawyer. A term applied to a lawyer who relies on the headnotes of decisions and omits the reading of the decisions.

headnotes. Statements in summary and concise form, otherwise known as syllabi, which appear in law reports at the head of the reported cases, to indicate the propositions decided by a case and, in general, the order in which various propositions declared in a case appear in the opinion. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 44. Usually the work of the court reporter, but sometimes of the court itself, in which event they may constitute the official opinion of the court under a rule of court to such effect. 20 Am J2d Cts § 77. Often prepared by members of the editorial staff of the publisher of court reports.

head of a department. A person in charge of a department, whether it be in a business or industry or in the municipal, state, or national government.

As the term is used in connection with the Federal Government, it means the secretary in charge of a great division of the executive branch of the government, such as the state, treasury, and war, who is a member of the cabinet. The term does not include the heads of bureaus or lesser divisions. Burnap v United States, 252 US 512, 515, 64 L Ed 692, 694, 40 S Ct 374; Brooks v United States (DC NY) 33 F Supp 68.

head of a family. A phrase familiar in statutes providing exemption from execution, especially the exemption of the homestead The person who is under a legal or moral obligation for the support of a family, consisting of two or more persons, living in one household. Moyer v Drummond, 32 SC 165, 10 SE 952. The person who has assumed the burden of supporting such a family although under no duty to do so. Holloway v Holloway, 86 Ga 576, 12 SE 943; Sternberg v Levy, 159 Mo 617, 60 SW 1114.

See householder.

head of stream. In common parlance, the source of a stream, whether it be a spring, a lake, or a swamp. Technically, the highest point on a stream which furnishes a continuous stream, not necessarily the longest fork or sprong. Uhl v Reynolds, 23 Ky LR 759, 64 SW 498.

head of water. That quantity of water which will flow each second through an opening one foot square. Watkins Land Co. v Clements, 98 Tex 578, 86 SW 733. More precisely, the quantity of water which will flow in a given time, through an opening of a specified size, from a source defined in terms of a measurement taken with the water at rest. 56 Am J1st Wat § 263.

head-on. A term descriptive of a collision of motor vehicles in which the impact of each vehicle is against the front of the other vehicle.

See end on.

head pistareen. A Spanish silver coin which in 1835 passed current in the United States for twenty cents, or one fifth of a dollar; not a coin made current by the laws of the United States. United States v Gardner (US) 10 Pet 618, 9 L Ed 556.

headquarters of state officer. A room for the discharge of duties; something more than mere space in the capitol. People v Peck, 138 NY 386, 34 NE 347.

headright certificate. A certificate issued by the United States Land Office representing a conditional grant of 640 acres of land. Cannon v Vaughan, 12 Tex 399, 400.

headspring. A spring which is the original surface source of the water which flows away from it.

"Toyah creek is a stream with well-defined channels and banks, its source being what is called a 'headspring,' which flows twelve heads of water." See Watkins Land Co. v Clements, 98 Tex 578, 86 SW 733.

headstone. A cornerstone; a stone marker placed at the head of a grave.

head tax. See poll tax.

headwater. See head of stream; head of water.

healer. A person or thing that heals.

See Christian Science healer.

healgemote. Same as halmote.

healing. Making better; making well.

healsfang. A pillory, a means of punishment for certain offenses, consisting of a wooden bar, through which the head and hands of the culprit protruded, affixed across the top of an upright post.

health. The condition of a living being in reference to well-being and the presence or absence of sickness or disease afflicting him. Absence of disease; soundness of body; freedom from pain, sickness or disease.

The word is said to be derived from an Anglo Saxon word which is to be traced through the word "hale," and which may be rendered "whole" or "sound." State, etc., v Paterson, 45 NJL 310.

See bill of health; good health; sound health.

health board. See board of health.

health insurance. A contract wherein one known as the insurer agrees, in consideration of the premium paid and to be paid by the other party known as the insured, to indemnify the latter for losses caused by illness, providing indemnification for both expenses and loss of time resulting from sickness and disease. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1154.

For the purpose of the exemption from taxable income under the Internal Revenue Code, the term "health insurance" is not limited to the particular forms of conventional insurance made available by commercial companies, but includes sickness benefits payable under an employer's plan. Haynes v United States, 353 US 81, 1 L Ed 2d 671, 77 S Ct 649.

health laws. Statutes and bylaws or ordinances pertaining to sanitation and the preservation of the health of the public.

See health regulations.

health officers. Members of a board of health and administrative officers empowered to enforce ordinances, rules, bylaws, and regulations, as well as statutes, enacted and promulgated for the purpose of preserving public health.

health plan. An arrangement or contract for medical services or medical supplies. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 12.

See health insurance.

health regulations. Statutes, ordinances, and administrative regulations in the interest of promoting or preserving health, for example regulations respecting the installation in buildings of water closets, flush bowls, etc. 13 Am J2d Bldgs § 29.

health resort. A place to which people resort for improvement of health, often having hot or mineral springs for bathing or even imbibing. A boarding house rather than an inn or hotel. 29 Am J Rev ed Innk § 10.

healthy. In good health. Free from disease or bodily ailment, or a state of the system peculiarly susceptible or liable to disease or bodily ailment. Bell v Jeffreys, 35 NC (13 Ired L) 356, 357.

See health.

healthy condition. In the condition of good health. In reference to a sale of animals, a healthy as opposed to a diseased condition. 46 Am J1st Sales § 150.

hear. To exercise the sense of hearing. To try a case; to consider a motion upon presentation thereof by counsel.

As the verb "to hear" is used in an artistic sense, it requires certain procedural minima to insure an informed judgment by the one who has the responsibility of making the final decision and order. Southern Garment Mfrs. Asso. v Fleming, 74 App DC 228, 122 F2d 622.

hear and determine. To try and decide all the questions involved in a controversy presented to court. Quarl v Abbett, 102 Ind 233, 1 NE 476. The disposal of a case by a referee by proceeding to trial and decision of the matter as distinguished from the function of a referee under a reference to hear and report. 45 Am J1st Ref § 22.

hear and report. The function of a referee under a reference to take testimony and report it to the court for decision by the court. 45. Am J1st Ref § 22.

hear and see. Literally, the exercise of the senses of sight and hearing. A metaphor in expressing apprehension or conscious knowledge.

A person may hear or see and yet not observe; that is, he may not have a conscious knowledge of the object or noise he actually sees or hears, and, ordinarily, when questioned as to the fact, he will say that he did not see or hear. Seaboard Air Line Railway Co. v Myrick, 91 Fla 918, 109 So 193, 195.

Heard Act. A federal statute of 1894 requiring a contractor's bond, containing conditions prescribed by the statute, in any case of a contract for the construction, alteration, or repair of any public building or other public improvement of the United States. 17 Am J2d Cont Bond § 43. The statute has been succeeded by the Miller Act of 1955. 40 USC §§ 270a-270d.

hearing. The physical sense through which sound becomes audible, thereby constituting a means of communication. A term originating in equity but almost as familiar in present-day law actions. A prerequisite to a finding of facts. Re Anderson, 191 Or 49, 229 P2d 633, 230 P2d 770, 29 ALR2d 1051, 1073. A constitutional right of one accused of crime. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 309. An essential of due process of law. Denver v State Invest. Co. 49 Colo 244, 112 P 789.

The presentation and consideration of proofs and arguments, and determinative action with respect to the issue. Re Enger, 225 Minn 229, 30 NW2d 694, 1 ALR2d 1048; Handlon v Belleville, 4 NJ 99, 71 A2d 624, 16 ALR2d 1118. Either an interlocutory hearing, the purpose of which is to get the case into such shape that it may, in the end, be properly heard and finally adjudicated on the merits, or the final hearing in which the case is absolutely determined. 27 Am J2d Equity § 235. The presentation of a case or defense before an administrative agency, with opportunity to introduce evidence in chief and on rebuttal, and to cross-examine witnesses, as may be required for a full and true disclosure of the facts. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 397. An arbitration at which the arbitrators are present to hear the persons whose rights are affected, such persons having been given notice and opportunity to be heard. 5 Am J2d Arb & A § 122.

Where statute provides for a "hearing," the term necessarily implies the power to administer some adequate remedy. See Adams v Shelbyville, 154 Ind 467, 57 NE 114.

See final hearing; interlocutory hearing; rehearing; rehearing on appeal; trial.

hearing officer. An examiner in an administrative proceeding, similar to an auditor or special master in a plenary action. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 407.

hearsay. Evidence, whether oral or written, which derives its value, not solely from the credit to be given to the witness upon the stand, but in part from the veracity and competency of some other person. 29 Am J2d Ev § 493. Evidence which is inadmissible because the statements thus made are not subjected to the ordinary tests required by law for ascertaining their truth, the author not being exposed to cross-examination in the presence of a court of justice and not speaking under the sanction of an oath, no opportunity being afforded to investigate his character and motives, and his deportment not being subject to observation. 29 Am J2d Ev § 493.

hearsay evidence. See hearsay.

heart attack. A sudden impairment of the heart.

See coronary occlusion.

heart balm statutes. Legislation abolishing the right of action for breach of promise to marry. 12 Am J2d Breach P § 18.

hearth money. A duty or tax laid by the king upon the hearth of every dwelling; abolished in 1688 by the statute 1 W. & M., st. 1, c. 10. See 1 Bl Comm 324.

hear ye, hear ye, the polls are now closed. The formal statement made by an election officer at the closing of the polls.

hear ye, hear ye, the polls are now open. The formal statement made by an election officer at the opening of an election, the polls.

hear ye, hear ye, this honorable court is now in session. The formal statement made by the bailiff at the opening of court.

heating service. The furnishing of steam by a public utility to heat business places and dwellings. Milligan v Miles City, 51 Mont 374, 153 P 276.

heat of passion. The expression for a mental state on the part of the accused reducing the offense of the killing of a person from murder to manslaughter; heat in the sense of an emotional state, produced by an adequate or reasonable provocation and before a reasonable time has elapsed for the blood to cool and reason to assume its habitual control. State v Forsha, 190 Mo 296, 88 SW 746; State v Seaton, 106 Mo 198, 204; Johnson v State, 129 Wis 146, 108 NW 55.

heat prostration. Same as heat stroke.

heatstroke. A morbid condition of the person resulting from exposure to excessive heat. Continental Casualty Co. v Johnson, 74 Kan 129, 85 P 545.

hebbberman. A person who fished in the Thames below London bridge, which was against the law.

he be out of the state. An expression common in statutes of limitation, meaning the personal absence of the debtor from the state. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 219.

hectare. A land measure under the metric system; the equivalent of 2,471 acres. Ainsa v United States, 161 US 208, 219, 40 L Ed 673, 677, 16 S Ct 544.

hedagium. A toll charged for landing goods at a wharf.

hedge-bote. Same as hay-bote.

hedgerow. A row of shrubs, usually shrubs with prickles or needles, and usually kept trimmed to a height between 5 and 6 feet, maintained as a fence.

hedging. A transaction by which one who has made a contract for the sale or purchase of a commodity protects himself against loss through a fluctuation in the market by making a countercontract for purchase or sale of an equal quantity of the commodity; a practice generally recognized as a legitimate and useful method of insuring against losses on contracts for future delivery. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 94.

See sales against the box.

[554]

hedging bets. The placing of a bet or bets upon a team or contestant in a sporting event after having made a bet or bets upon the opposing team or contestant, the purpose being to minimize losses.

hedging sales. See hedging; sales against the box.

heed. To pay attention, especially to an instruction or direction as to conduct in a situation fraught with some danger.

heedlessness. Carelessness or negligence. Silver v Silver, 108 Conn 371, 143 A 240, 65 ALR 943.

Hegira. The escape of Mohammed from the Meccans on Friday, July sixteenth, 622 A. D., which date marks the beginning of the calendar used by the Arabians and the Turks.

heifer. A female calf of the bovine species, from the end of the first year, until she has had a calf; a young cow. Freeman v Carpenter, 10 Vt 433, 435.

height regulations. Statutes or municipal ordinances which limit the height of buildings in the promotion of public health, safety, and welfare. 13 Am J2d Bldgs § 16. Zoning ordinances establishing a maximum or minimum height for buildings in certain districts. 58 Am J1st Zon § 49.

heir. Broadly, one who succeeds to either real or personal property of a decedent who dies intestate. Re Rawnsley's Estate, 94 Cal App 2d 384, 210 P2d 888. At common law and by modern technical usage in some jurisdictions, one who succeeds to the real property of one dying intestate. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 43.

See heirs.

heir apparent. A person who stands in such relationship to another that he is sure to inherit the estate of the latter if he outlives the latter and the latter dies intestate.

See heir presumptive.

heir beneficiary. An heir who has accepted his inheritance under an inventory regularly made.

heir by adoption. One who inherits by force of a legal adoption of him as the child of another or by or through a relationship created by the legal adoption of a child. 2 Am J2d Adopt § 100.

heir by custom. A term used in England for one who inherits in accordance with a local custom.

heir by devise. An anomalous expression applied to a person to whom land is devised by will.

heir collateral. See collateral descent; collateral heir.

heir conventional. A person who succeeds to an estate under a contract or agreement, usually between him and the decedent.

See heir of provision.

heiress. A female who is an heir.

See heir.

heir expectant. See heir apparent.

heir general. An heir who inherits an estate by the ordinary rules of descent.

heir hunter. One who makes a business of ascertaining and contacting potential distributees of estates. 7 Am J2d Attys § 87.

heir institute. A term of the Scotch law for an heir conventional.

See heir conventional.

heir-land. Land which descended to an heir upon the death of his ancestor.

heir legal. (Civil law.) An heir who succeeded to the estate of his ancestor by descent under the law of succession, as distinguished from an heir who took under a will or a contract.

heirloom. A piece of property that goes to an heir along with an estate, being defined in this respect as property which is not altogether real or altogether personal, but a compound of both. 42 Am J1st Prop § 28.

Such goods and personal chattels, as, contrary to the nature of chattels, go by special custom to the heir along with the inheritance, and not to the executor, of the last proprietor. Loom is from the Saxon, meaning a limb or member. Hence, an heirloom is a limb or member of the inheritance. See 2 Bl Comm 427.

heir of conquest. An heir who succeeded to property which his ancestor acquired by conquest.

heir of line. An heir who succeeded to an estate as a lineal descendant of his ancestor.

heir of provision. A person who succeeded to property of a decedent under the provision of some instrument.

See heir conventional.

heir of tailzie. Same as heir special.

heir presumptive. One who would be the heir if the ancestor were to die at the contemplated time, but whose possibility of inheritance may be destroyed by the birth of some one more nearly related, as well as by his death before that of the ancestor.

See heir apparent.

heirs. The plural of heir; persons taking by descent. Designation of grantees in a deed:-the persons who are entitled under the law of intestate succession. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 215. Sometimes construed as meaning children, as where otherwise the deed will be void for uncertainty. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 215.

Designation of beneficiaries under a wrongful death statute:-kin of the decedent who would inherit from him under the governing statute of descent and distribution. 22 Am J2d Dth § 47. Designation of beneficiaries of a life insurance policy:-those persons entitled under the statutes of descent to the personal estate of the insured in the event of his intestacy. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1659. Designation of beneficiaries of a certificate or policy issued by a mutual benefit society: those persons entitled under the statutes of descent to the personal estate of the member or insured in the event of his intestacy. 36 Am J2d Frat O § 154.

A word of art in a grant or devise, constituting a word of limitation rather than of purchase. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 147; 28 Am J2d Est § 119. Essential at common law to the passing of a fee by deed, such requirement having been eliminated by statute in many jurisdictions. 28 Am J2d Est §§ 14-16.

Used as a designation of beneficiaries in a will, the primary significance of the word "heirs" is, in the absence of context to the contrary, the persons who would take the property of the person designated as ancestor in case of his death intestate. Generally speaking, the term, as used in a will, will apply to a gift of personal property notwithstanding the applicable statute of the jurisdiction designates different persons for taking an intestate's personalty from those indicated to take his real property. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1369. The term may be interpreted as the equivalent of "children" or

[555]

"next of kin," where the context so requires. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 140; 57 Am J1st Wills § 1369.

Sufficient as a designation of the beneficiaries of a trust. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 140.

See behavior as heir; bodily heirs; co-heir; defect of heirs; fellow-heir; forced heir; heir; illegitimate child; irregular heirs; joint heir; last heir; lawful heirs; lineal heirs; natural heirs; nearest heir; nearest male heir; present heirs; presumptive heir; pretermitted heir; right heirs; unconditional heirs.

heirs and assigns. Words which are used in the habendum clause of a deed and which have a well defined and settled meaning in the law as words apt and appropriate to pass a fee simple absolute, if not followed or accompanied by other modifying words. Jamaica Pond Aqueduct Corp. v Chandler, 91 Mass (9 Allen) 159, 168. Words of inheritance or limitation in the grant of an easement. Riley v Pearson, 120 Minn 210, 139 NW 361.

The words of the statute, "the patentee, his heirs and assigns," whether construed according to the rules of grammar or to the intent of Congress mean "the patentee, or his heirs or assigns." They comprehend the legal representatives, assignees in law, and assignees in fact, and the phraseology raises no limitation in the sense of the strict common law rule applied to realty. De La Vergne Refrigerating Machine Co. v Featherstone, 147 US 209, 37 L Ed 138, 13 S Ct 283.

heirs at law. Essentially the same as the more simple term "heirs." Mullen v Reed, 64 Conn 240, 29 A 478. Sometimes construed as words of purchase. 28 Am J2d Est § 118. Designation of beneficiaries of contract or certificate issued by a mutual benefit society:-those persons who under the statutes of distribution would be entitled to the personal estate in the event of the member's intestacy. 36 Am J2d Frat O § 154. Sufficient designation of beneficiaries of a trust. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 140.

Used in a will, the term "heirs at law" indicates those persons on whom the law casts the descent of real estate or admits to participation in the distribution of personal property, except as a contrary intention may be exhibited in the context of the instrument considered in its entirety. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1371.

heirs by blood. Words of limitation sufficient to confer a fee simple title when used in a deed. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 215. As words of purchase, persons whose relationship is by consanguinity.

heirship. The status of an heir; the right of an heir to inherit.

heirship movables. Certain personal property of a decedent which under the law went to the heir and not to the executor. In a will, sometimes equivalent to "issue," "heirs," or "natural heirs." 57 Am J1st Wills § 1371.

See bodily heirs.

heirship proceeding. A special proceeding, authorized only by statute, to determine the heirs and distributees of the property of a decedent. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 104.

heirs of her body begotten. A technical term but sometimes construed as words of purchase. 28 Am J2d Est § 118. Technical words used in creating an estate in fee tail, being construed as words of limitation except as the entire context discloses an intention of the testator to use them as words of purchase. 28 Am J2d Est § 49.

heirs of the body. Ordinarily considered to be a technical legal term, or word of art, constituting Words of limitation, not of purchase. 28 Am J2d Est § 119.

heir special. An heir in respect of an entailed estate.

heir substitute, in a bond. The obligee of a bond payable on the death of a creditor.

heir testamentary. A person to whom property is left by will.

Hejira. Same as Hegira.

held. Having grasped or clutched. In reference to property, a word of variable meaning; actual possession; the right to possession; invested with title. Federal National Bank v Miller, 128 Okla 82, 261 P 206, 208.

See hold.

held for sale. Property in the possession of an agent authorized to sell it. Merchandise or stock of goods in place of business. A clause describing the subject matter of a dealers' collision insurance policy, so that the protection of the dealer's automobile continues until the sale thereof, whether absolute or conditional, has been completed, by transfer of title if absolute, or of possession if conditional. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 73.

held in trust. Property in the possession of a trustee; property in the possession of, one other than the owner, such as an agent, bailee, factor, etc., who must account to the owner for the property or the proceeds thereof.

As used in fire insurance policies, phrases describing property as held in trust, or on commission, and kindred terms in a policy to an agent, factor, or the like, have been held to give to the owner a right to take the place of the insured, to adopt the contract, and enforce it in his own name or that of his agent. Waring v Indemnity Fire Ins Co. 45 NY 610.

helicopter. An aircraft the propeller of which is placed on top the fuselage, thereby enabling a craft to rise without the take-off required for an ordinary aircraft; an aircraft becoming increasingly useful in the transportation of passengers in populated areas and also as a military plane.

hell. A place under the English exchequer chamber where debtors of the king were confined. A profane word for a very disagreeable experience. The place to which, according to the Christian faith as expressed by fundamentalists, sinners and unbelievers are sent at death.

"There are those who, for reasons satisfactory to themselves, contend that there is no such place; but even this class will admit that, if there is such a place, there is nothing there which is consistent with honesty, decency, or the right conception of things. Both the popular and the theological idea of hell has nothing in it to make any connection with the place either desirable or comfortable from a physical or spiritual point of view. The word is a synonym for all that is evil and corrupt in the grossest and basest sense of those terms." Atlanta News Publishing Co. v Medlock, 123 Ga 714, 51 SE 756.

hell and high-water rule. A term for the liberal rule in the construction of the omnibus clause of an automobile liability insurance policy. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v Smith (CA9 Ariz) 279 F2d 678.

helmet. A head covering worn for protection of members of the armed services in combat, of parncipants in violent sports, and persons exposed to the sun.

[556]

See branding-helmet.

hemiplegia. A brain disease, usually caused by a tumor pressing on the brain or by a blow, resulting in a paralysis of one-half of the body.

The disease may be either complete or incomplete. When it is complete, one-half of the body is paralyzed; when incomplete, one-half of the body is only partially paralyzed. If the disease comes on quickly, it is called quick hemiplegia; if it comes on gradually, it is called chronic. Quick hemiplegia is more apt to affect the mental faculties than chronic. Baughman v Baughman, 32 Kan 538, 542.

he must protect himself if he can do so at trifling expense. A principle of the law of damages; the obligation of an injured person to take steps of alleviation, even by incurring expense, where such is small in relation to the consequential damages. 22 Am J2d Damg § 32.

henceforward. Henceforth; hereafter.

The word does not necessarily convey the idea of perpetuity; it means no more than the word "hereafter," which may import a temporary or a permanent arrangement, according to the general tenor of the instrument, and the nature of the subject matter about which it is used. Adams v Bucklin, 24 Mass (7 Pick) 121, 128, footnote.

hence without day. See go hence without day.

henfare. A fine which was imposed upon a person for having fled from a charge of murder.

henghen. A prison; a house of correction.

hengwyte. Same as hangwite.

Henricus vetus. Henry the Elder, -a name which was applied to Henry the First to distinguish him from the subsequent kings of that name.

Henry I. Henry the First, the king of England from August 5th, 1100, to December 1st, 1135.

Henry II. Henry the Second, the king of England from December 19th, 1154, to July 6th, 1189.

Henry III. Henry the Third, the king of England from October 28th, 1216, to November 16th, 1272.

Henry IV. Henry the Fourth, the king' of England from September 30th, 1399, to March 20th, 1413.

Henry V. Henry the Fifth, the king of England from March 21st, 1413, to August 31st, 1422.

Henry VI. Henry the Sixth, the king of England from September 1st, 1422, to March 4th, 1461.

Henry VII. Henry the Seventh the king of England from August 22nd, 1485, to April 21st, 1509.

Henry VIII. Henry the Eighth, the king of England from April 22nd, 1509, to January 28th, 1547.

heordwerch. Same as herdwerck.

he or they paying freight. A term in a bill of lading indicating the consignee's obligation for payment of freight charges. 13 Am J2d Car § 477.

Hepburn Act. An act of Congress amendatory of the Interstate Commerce Act, June 29, 1906, 34 Stat 589.

heptarchy. A government by seven rulers; that period of English history beginning with the coming of the Saxons in 449 and the uniting of the seven kingdoms of Northumbria, Mercia, East Anglia, Essex, Kent, Sussex and Wessex, in 828.

herald. A messenger; an English officer in charge of matters pertaining to heraldry.

heraldry. The office of a herald in England; the art of tracing genealogy and inheritable titles and decorations.

Heralds' College. A corporation chartered by the king (Richard the Third) in 1483, for the purpose of tracing and preserving the records of heraldry.

herbage. The right or easement of pasturing one's cattle on the land of another.

herbagium. Same as herbage.

herbagium anterius. A first crop of grass or hay.

herb doctor. One who treats sick persons by herbs, sometimes combining such treatment with massage. 41 Am J1st Phys & S § 31.

herbergare. To entertain at an inn; to harbor; to accommodate with lodgings.

herbery. An inn.

herd. Noun: A collection of many beasts assembled together. Brimm v Jones, 13 Utah 440, 448. Verb: To form beasts into a large body for care or for moving the animals. A colloquial term for attending animals to keep them from straying or from encroaching upon growing or matured crops in field.

herdbook. A record kept of the breeding of animals, particularly cattle, which show the date of breeding of a female, the sire, and the date, also facts respecting the date of birth of the progeny.

herdwerck. Herd work,-the work of a herdsman or shepherd.

hereafter. A word of futurity. Keller v Ashford, 133 US 610, 33 L Ed 667, 10 S Ct 494. Sometimes, but not necessarily, conveying the idea of perpetuity; importing a temporary or permanent arrangement according to the tenor of the context in which it appears. Adams v Bucklin, 24 Mass (7 Pick) 121, 128, footnote.

hereby granted. See there is hereby granted.

heredad. (Spanish.) Farmed land.

heredad yacente. (Spanish.) Same as haereditas jacens.

heredero. A term frequently encountered in Spanish-American title records, which means the person who by a testamentary disposition or by law succeeds to the rights which a deceased person held at the time of his death. Emeric v Alvarado, 64 Cal 529, 2 P 418.

hereditaments. A comprehensive term, including anything capable of being inherited, be it corporeal, incorporeal, real, personal or mixed. 42 Am J1st Prop § 17.

See corporeal hereditament; incorporeal hereditament.

hereditary. Something inherited. Passed along by inheritance. Douglas v Lewis, 131 US 75, 33 L Ed 53, 9 S Ct 634.

hereditary disease. A disease arising in a physical or mental weakness inherited from an ancestor.

See hereditary insanity.

hereditary insanity. Mental illness of a character to be transmitted from parent to child or later descendant.

"There is nothing unreasonable in referring wild, furious and unnatural actions, not otherwise accounted for, to the aberrations of a mind the reflux of that of a crazy parent." People v Smith, 31 Cal 467; Prewitt v State, 106 Miss 82, 6 ALR 1476, 1478, 63 So 330.

hereditary real estate. Real estate of inheritance. Douglas v Lewis, 131 US 75, 33 L Ed 53, 9 S Ct 634.

hereditary succession. The passing of title under the laws of descent.

hereditary successor. A successor by hereditary succession.

hereditas. Same as haereditas.

heredity. The universal law of organic life, the biological law by which all things living tend to repeat themselves in their descendants; the natural tendency to reproduce in offspring the characteristics of the parent organ or body. Prewitt v State, 106 Miss 82, 63 So 330, 6 ALR 1476.

heredium. (Roman Law.) The homestead or hereditary domain allotted as the private property of a citizen, and which was inheritable and alienable; comprising space for house, yard, and garden, -usually about one and a quarter acres.

heregeat. Same as heriot.

heregeld. A tax or tribute levied for the support of an army.

heregild. Same as heregeld.

herein. A locative adverb, the meaning of which varies according to the context, referring to a certain part, page, or paragraph of a writing, or, in other connections, to the entire writing, such being true whether the word be used in a statute or a private writing or document. Re Pearsons, 98 Cal 603, 33 P 451.

hereinafter. Relating to a thing or matter mentioned in a later part of a private writing or statute.

hereinbefore. Relating to a thing or matter mentioned in a preceding part of a private writing or statute.

heres. (Civil law.) Same as haeres.

heresy. The ecclesiastical offense of entertaining religious views or beliefs which are not in harmony with those of the established church; the entertainment of an erroneous religious belief. Any political or philosophical view contrary to established view.

heretofore. At a time before the present; formerly. Andrews v Thayer, 40 Conn 156.

As used in the constitutional phrase "the right of trial by jury as heretofore enjoyed," the word relates to the past and to determine the true meaning of the phrase, it is necessary to go back to the common law of England. See State v Harney, 168 Mo 167, 67 SW 620.

hereunder. A word of location in a private writing or a statute, the meaning varying according to the context, sometimes referring to the entire instrument, and, at other times, to only a clause, paragraph, section or other division or subdivision of the writing or statute. Pringle v Wilson, 156 Cal 313, 104 P 316.

hereyeld. Same as heregeld.

heriot. A fruit or appendage of copyhold tenure consisting of a render of the best beast or other thing (as the custom may be) to the lord of the manor on the death of the tenant. See 2 Bl Comm 97.

heriot custom. A heriot due under custom or usage.

heriot service. A heriot which was due the lord of the manor under a special reservation in his grant.

herischild. A species of military service under feudal tenure.

heritable. Inheritable; capable of being inherited; subject to inheritance.

heritable bond. A bond secured by inheritable property; that is, by land.

heritable jurisdiction. A royal grant of criminal jurisdiction to a family.

heritable rights. Rights in real property. Rights capable of being inherited.

heritable security. The pledge of an inheritance as security for the fulfillment of an obligation.

heritage. An inheritance; an inheritable estate. Dowdel v Hamm (Pa) 2 Watts 61, 65. A culture handed down from one generation to another.

heritor. The proprietor of an inheritance.

hermandad. A Spanish society organized for the preservation of public peace and order.

hermaphrodite. A human being with sexual organs, more or less perfect, of both sexes.

In some of the states, to say of a woman that she is a hermaphrodite is actionable as defamation without alleging special damages. Eckert v Van Pelt, 69 Kan 357, 76 P 909.

Hermaphroditus tam masculo quam foeminae comparatur, secundum prevalentiam sexus incalescentis. A hermaphrodite is regarded as male or female according to the predominance of the attributes of sex.

hermer. A great lord.

hernia. As commonly understood by laymen, -a rupture or noticeable protrusion from some part of the abdominal cavity. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1217.

What constitutes "hernia" within exclusionary clause of health or accident insurance policy. Anno: 55 ALR2d 1020.

heroin. A habit forming narcotic; a derivative of opium. Chadwick v United States (CA5 Tex) 117 F2d 902; Baker v State, 123 Tex Crim 209, 58 SW2d 534. An item of the illegal traffic in narcotic drugs. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 2.

herring silver. Customary money payments made for the purpose of supplying a religious house with herring.

herus. Master; owner; lord; head of a household.

Herus dat, ut servus faciat. The master gives or pays that the servant may work. See 2 Bl Comm 445.

hesia. An easement.

hetaeria. (Roman law.) An association; a society.

[558]

heterogeneous goods. Articles or substances dissimilar in kind. Goods of different structure. The antithesis of homogeneous goods.

he that hath committed inequity shall not have equity. A maxim of equity. 27 Am J2d Equity § 136.

heugelborh. (Saxon). A guarantor; a surety.

he who comes into equity must come with clean hands. A maxim of equity. 27 Am J2d Eq § 136.
See clean hands doctrine.

he who made the loss possible must suffer. A maxim applicable especially in the law of bailments. 8 Am J2d Bailm §§ 198 et seq.

he who owns land owns to the sky above it. A maxim which is qualified as between adjoining owners, giving way to a rule of convenience more just, equitable, and beneficial to both parties. 1 Am J2d Adj L § 22. A maxim considerably modified in adjudicating rights in air space for the operation of aircraft. 8 Am J2d Avi § 3.

he who owns the soil, owns to the heavens. Same as he who owns land owns to the sky above it.

he who seeks equity must do equity. A maxim of equity. 27 Am J2d Eq §§ 131 et seq. A condition of injunctive relief. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 34. A maxim which requires one who seeks the cancellation of an instrument to restore to the defendant the position occupied by the latter before the transaction sought to be nullified. 13 Am J2d Cane Inst § 2.

heybote. Same as hay-bote.

HHFA. Abbreviation for Housing and Home Finance Agency.

hidage. A tax which was levied by the king on each hide of land.

hidalgo. A Spanish nobleman of lower rank.

hidden defects. Those imperfections which cannot be discovered by simple inspection. Bulkley v Honold (US) 19 How 390, 15 L Ed 663.

The term is a relative one and what may be apparent in the daytime may become a pitfall in darkness or in dim light, and conditions obvious to one with opportunity to investigate maybe a trap to one precluded by nature of his work from making careful examination. Franklin v Maine Amusement Co. 133 Me 203, 175 A 305.

hidden meaning. A refined or subtle meaning. 50 Am J1st Stat § 238.

hidden property. See conceal; treasure trove.

hide. A raw or tanned skin of an animal. An ancient measure of land, a quantity of land which could be worked by one team of oxen.

The number of acres contained in a hide varies in the works of different writers and has been variously estimated at from thirty to one hundred and twenty.

See conceal; secrete; treasure trove.

hide and gain. Ploughable land; arable land.

hidegild. A tax levied on each hide of land.

hidel. A hiding place; a sanctuary; an asylum.

hide lands. Lands allotted in hides.

See hide.

hierarchy. The government of a church, such as the Roman Catholic Church, by ecclesiastics in an ascending scale of authority.

higgling. A stock-exchange term for negotiations by offers to sell and offers to purchase through which a price is agreed upon and a sale accomplished. Nicol v Ames, 173 US 509, 518, 43 L Ed 786, 792, 19 S Ct 522.

high. As stated of things, not of persons, tall and lofty; elevated in reference to some other level. That which is common, open, and public, such as a road, way, or navigable river which used freely by the public. United States v Rodgers, 150 US 249, 258, 37 L Ed 1071, 1074, 14 S Ct 109. Slang for: intoxicated.

high bailiff. In England, an officer of the county court who performs certain services which are not within the duties of a sheriff; in Vermont, an officer with functions similar to those of an elisor.

highbinder. An old term for a member of a Chinese tong or society organized for blackmailing or murder, or both.

High Commission Court. An English ecclesiastical court which was "justly abolished by statute" in 1641, because of its having arbitrarily usurped powers which were almost despotic. See 3 Bl Comm 67.

high constable. The constable or peace officer of a hundred. They were appointed by the court leets of the franchise or hundred over which they presided. See 1 Bl Comm 355.

High Court of Admiralty. An English court of admiralty which was presided over by the lord high admiral until its jurisdiction and functions were taken over by the high court of justice.

High Court of Chancery. An English court which appears to have attained its full development in the reign of Edward II, 1307-1327, and which by reason of the royal prerogative could afford relief above and beyond that available in the common-law courts.

High Court of Delegates. An English court, no longer existing, which formerly had jurisdiction of appeals from the ecclesiastical and admiralty courts.

High Court of Justice. A division of the English supreme court of judicature, established in the reign of Victoria.

High Court of Parliament. The English parliament comprising the house of lords and the house of commons; the house of lords in the exercise of its judicial functions.

high crimes and misdemeanors. Such immoral and unlawful acts as are nearly allied and equal in guilt to felony, yet, owing to some technical circumstance, do not fall within the definition of felony. State v Knapp, 6 Conn 415.

The term "high misdemeanor" is of statutory origin, invented to permit a distinction between petty offenses and those of a more serious nature. State v Kelly, 218 Minn 247, 15 NW2d 554, 162 ALR 477.

See gross misdemeanor.

high degree of care. Great care; more than ordinary care. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 205.

high diligence. Great care; more than ordinary care. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 205.

[559]

higher and lower scales. The two scales or schedules regulating the fees to be paid to counsel in England.

Higher Education Facilities Act. A federal statute of 1963 enacted to authorize assistance to public and other nonprofit institutions of higher education in financing the construction, rehabilitation, or improvement of needed academic and related facilities in undergraduate and graduate institutions. 20 USC §§ 701 et seq.

higher schools. Public schools which includes grades above the eighth grade.

highest and best. A term in reference to price; the best price obtainable under the circumstances, even the price offered by one bidder, where he is the only bidder present. Lathrop v Tracy, 24 Colo 382, 51 P 486.

highest bidder. The successful bidder at an auction, but the unsuccessful bidder at the letting of a contract.

highest court. See court of last resort; highest court of a state.

highest court of a state. A state court, the decision of which is not subject to review by a higher state court by appeal or otherwise. Southern Electric Co. v Stoddard, 269 US 186, 70 L Ed 227, 46 S Ct 71.

A judgment rendered by a division of the state supreme court, consisting of four of the seven judges of that court, is not reviewable in the United States Supreme Court, as one of the highest courts of a state, where the state constitution, although providing that the state court shall consist of two divisions, and that the judgments of either division shall have the force and effect of a judgment of the court, also authorizes the transfer of a cause from a division to the court en banc, and requires such a transfer, on the application of the losing party, "when a federal question is involved," and the rules of the state supreme court authorize a transfer from either division to the court en banc after final disposition of the cause by a division. Gorman v Washington University, 316 US 98, 86 L Ed 938, 5 S Ct 369.

highest degree of care. Care in an extraordinary degree. The standard of care required of a common carrier of passengers. 14 Am J2d Car § 916.

highest legal interest. Any rate of interest up to that fixed by statute as the maximum rate. Daniel v Gibson, 72 Ga 367.
highest point. The apex of a vein of mineral.

high justice. The right or jurisdiction of a feudal lord to try all crimes.

See high Court of Justice.

high justicier. A feudal lord who asserted the right or jurisdiction of high justice.

high line. A line carrying an electric current of high voltage.

high misdemeanor. A misdemeanor of a more serious nature than the ordinary misdemeanor. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 21.

See gross misdemeanor; high crimes and misdemeanors.

high power accelerator. An organic accelerator used in the vulcanization of crude rubber, the outstanding feature of which is efficiency in permitting vulcanization, without pressure, at a relatively low degree of heat. Vultex Corp. v Heveatex Corp. (CAI Mass) 100 F2d 838.

high prerogative writ. A writ issued not as an ordinary writ, of strict right, but at the discretion of the sovereign acting through that court in which the sovereign is supposed to be personally present. Ex parte Thompson, 85 NJ Eq 221, 96 A 102.

high-pressure gas line. A line of pipe through which gas is conveyed at a high pressure, as contrasted with a line which conveys gas for household use at a pressure which is safe for use in household appliances. McKenna v Bridgewater Gas Co. 193 Pa 633, 45 A 52.

high school. A school where the higher branches of a common school education are taught. Whitlock v State ex rel. School Dist. 30 Neb 815, 822. One of the common or public schools, usually including grades 9 to 12, inclusive, but sometimes divided so as to have a junior high and a senior high school. McLeod v State, 154 Miss 468, 122 So 737, 63 ALR 1161.

high seas. Rough water. The waters of the oceans and the arms thereof beyond the territorial jurisdiction of any nation. Including waters on the sea coast without the boundaries of low-water mark, such as the waters of the port of Yokohama. Ross v McIntyre, 140 US 453, 471, 35 L Ed 581, 588, 11 S Ct 897. Also including any large body of navigable water other than a river, which is of an extent beyond the measurement of one's unaided vision, and is open and unconfined, and not under the exclusive control of any one nation or people, but is the free highway of adjoining nations or people. United States v Rodgers, 150 US 249, 259, 37 L Ed 1071, 1075, 14 S Ct 109.

high-tension wire. A wire carrying electric current of high voltage.

high tide. The highest line to which the tide rises. The time of day at which the tide reaches such line.

See mean high tide; neap tide; spring tide.

high treason. Treason against the king or the government.

See treason.

high water. See flood; high tide; high-watermark.

high-watermark. As applied to tidal waters:-the line marked by the periodical flow of the tide, excluding the advance of the water above the line, occasioned by wind, storm, or other unusual condition; usually construed to indicate the "ordinary" high water-that is, the line of the medium high tide between the spring and the neap tide. 12 Am J2d Bound § 13. As applied to fresh water lakes and streams:-the mark where the presence and action of the water are so common and usual as to mark upon the soil of the bed a character distinct from that of the banks in respect to vegetation as well as to the nature of the soil itself. Re Minnetonka Lake Improv. 56 Minn 513, 58 NW 295. The line to which the water rises in the seasons of ordinary high water; the line at which the presence of water is continued for such length of time as to mark upon the soil and vegetation a distinct character. 56 Am J1st Wat § 448.

Bounding a grant on a pond does not per se extend title to the center if the boundary of the tract is indicated by an old and definite line following the high watermark. Jennings v Marston, 121 Va 79, 92 SE 821, 7 ALR 855.

See ordinary high-watermark.

highway. A generic term including all public roads and ways. Carlin v Chicago, 262 Ill 564, 104 NE

[560]

905. A way open to the public at large, for travel or transportation, without distinction, discrimination, or restriction, except such as is incident to regulations calculated to secure to the general public the largest practical benefit therefrom and enjoyment thereof. 25 Am J1st High § 2. In a broad or general sense, every common way for travel in any ordinary mode or by any ordinary means, which the public has the right to use either conditionally or unconditionally, including turnpikes and toll roads, bridges, canals, ferries, navigable waters, lanes, pent roads, and crossroads. 25 Am J1st High § 5.

See by-road; cartway; common highway; country road; established highway; intersection; lane; neighborhood road; park strips; pavement; pent road; right of way; road; rules of the road; shun pike; thoroughfare; town way; turnpike.

highway by prescription. A highway the right to maintain which has been obtained by prescription. Brown v Peck, 125 Iowa 624, 625, 101 NW 443.

highway by user. A highway established by long continued use, that is, a prescriptive way. 25 Am J1st High § 11.

See highway by prescription.

highway commission. An agency of the state, a subdivision of the state, or a municipal corporation, exercising governmental functions pertaining to highways. 25 Am J1st High § 600.

highway district. An improvement district established for the construction and maintenance of highways. 25 Am J1st High § 601.

highway easement. An easement belonging to the public embracing all public travel not prohibited by law, on foot, in carriages, omnibuses, stages, sleighs, or other vehicles, as the wants and habits of the public demand. Carli v Stillwater Street Railway and Transfer Co. 28 Minn 373.

"Whether it be travel, the transportation of persons and property, or the transmission of intelligence, and whether accomplished by old methods or new ones, they are all included within the public highway easement, and impose no additional servitude upon the land, provided they are not inconsistent with the reasonably safe and practical use of the highway in other and usual necessary modes, and provided they do not unreasonably impair the special easements of abutting owners in the street for purposes of access, light and air." Cater v Northwestern Tel. Exchange Co. 60 Minn 539, 63 NW 111.

highway intersection. See intersection.

highwayman. A person who commits the crime of highway robbery. Anderson v Hartford Acci. & Indem. Co. 77 Cal App 641, 247 P 507. A robber who finds his prey on highways.

highway patrol. Police or other law enforcement officers assigned to the highways; an independent department of law enforcement officers organized for service upon highways.

highway robbery. The common-law crime of robbery committed on the highway. Anderson v Hartford Acci. & Indem. Co. 77 Cal App 641, 247 P 507.

high wind. See gale; storm.

higler. Same as huckster.

higuela. (Spanish.) A receipt for his inheritance, signed by the heir.

H. I. H. An abbreviation of His or Her Imperial Highness.

hiis testibus. With these witnesses.

hiis testibus clause. An attestation clause.

hiis testibus Johanne Moore, Jacobo Smith, et aliis, ad hanc rem convocatis. By these witnesses, John Moore, Jacob Smith and others gathered together for that purpose, i. e. as witnesses to attest the deed. See 2 Bl Comm 307.

hijacker. A robber. Franklin v State (Tex Crim) 283 SW 802, 803. More precisely, one who robs by taking property in transit, especially property such as intoxicating liquors or narcotic drugs illegally possessed or transported.

hijodalgo. Same as hidalgo.

Hikenild Street. One of the four great ancient Roman roads in England, also known as Ikenild street.

Hilary rules. A set of English rules and forms of pleading and practice which were adopted by the superior courts in 1834.

Hilary term. An English term of court which began with the eleventh of January and ended on the thirty-first.

himself order. Words of negotiability, the same as "himself or order." Day & Night Bank v Coffee (CA6 Ky) 25 F2d 403, 58 ALR 1002.

himself or order. A phrase appended to the payee of an instrument, making the instrument negotiable. Day & Night Bank v Coffee, (CA6 Ky) 25 F2d 403, 58 ALR 1002.

hinc inde. On each side; mutually; reciprocally.

hind. An agricultural servant; a field hand; a rustic.

Hinde Palmer's Act. An English statute of 1869, placing specialty debts and simple contract debts in the same rank in the settlement of decedents' estates.

hindering and delaying creditors. Acts which impede or retard creditors in their lawful efforts to subject the property of their debtor to their lawful claims, performed with the fraudulent intent to defraud. Clayton v Clark, 76 Kan 832, 92 P 1117. An act impeding or retarding creditors, whether done innocently or with intent to hinder and delay them; a sale of property by a debtor at less than the fair value. Mente & Co. v Old River Co. (CA5 Tex) 17 F2d 350.

Hindu. A name applied to one of the peoples of India. One who is a believer in the religion of Hinduism.

hine. Same as hind.

hinny. The hybrid offspring of a horse and a jennet or female donkey.

hipoteca. (Spanish.) A real property mortgage.

hire. Verb: To employ a person. To rent or engage the use of an article, receiving it as a bailee under obligation to return the article at the end of the term of the hiring. Farquhar v McAlevy, 142 Pa, 233. Noun: The amount paid or to be paid for the services of a person. The amount paid or to be paid for the use of a chattel. Bledsoe v Nixon, 69 NC 89.

[561]

See bailee for hire; carrier for hire; contract of hire; operator for hire.

hired automobile clause. The clause of an automobile liability insurance policy which provides coverage for the insured while operating a rented automobile, but usually excluding from coverage the owner of such vehicle or his employee. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 108.

hired driver. One employed for the specific purpose of driving, not including one whose duties under employment by another include driving, for example one employed to sell soft drinks and proceeding from house to house to make sales from the vehicle. Anno: 138 ALR 425.

hire or retain. To engage the services of another, especially professional services.

The phrase as used in a statute making it a criminal offense to "hire or retain" any person to go beyond the limits of the United States with intent to be enlisted in a foreign military or naval service means to pay for services, or to engage services, and the consideration need not be pecuniary or be paid at once. United States v Blair-Murdock Co. (DC Cal) 228 F 77.

hirer. A person who by contract acquires the right to use a thing belonging to another. Turner v Cross, 83 Tex 218, 18 SW 578. One who employs a person to render service for him.

See hire.

hiring. See hire; hiring at will; hiring out convicts.

hiring at will. A hiring which can be terminated by either of the parties at any time, subject to such notice of intent to terminate as may be required by the contract of hire. Warden v Hinds (CA4 Va) 163 F 201.

hiring automobile. See drive-it-yourself system; renting automobiles; taxicab.

hiring hall. A place where prospective employers may engage the services of persons available for employment, maintained by a labor union. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 250.

hiring-hall agreement. A provision in a collective labor agreement respecting the maintenance of a hiring hall by the union, the characteristic feature of which is the clause respecting discrimination against prospective employees because of the presence or absence of union membership. International Brotherhood of T. C. W. & H. v NLRB, 365 US 667, 6 L Ed 2d 11, 81 S Ct 835.

hiring out prisoners. See convict labor; convict labor contract.

hirst. Same as hurst.

his heirs. See heirs; heirs and assigns.

his mark. Words frequently employed in identifying a signature by mark, in a form such as: "his x mark," but not essential to the validity of the signature, authenticity being sufficiently assured by the attestation required by law. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 25.

His saltem accumulem donis, et fungar inani munere. At least I have added to what he has given and I have served to defend one who is dead. Briscoe v Bank of Kentucky (US) 11 Pet 257, 350, 9 L Ed 709, 746.

historical society. A society the purpose of which is to preserve historical records and mementos and to arouse an interest in history and the realization of its significance. Mitchell v Reeves, 123 Conn 549, 196 A 785, 115 ALR 1114.

his verbis. See in his verbis.

hit-and-run. See leaving scene of accident.

hit-and-run driver. See leaving scene of accident.

hitch. A fastener or coupler by means of which one object is attached to another, as a trailer to a motor vehicle. Slang for a period of enlistment in the armed services.

hitchhiker. A person who stands in the highway close to the paved or traveled portion for the purpose of obtaining a ride, usually indicating such purpose by gestures.

hitching. Tying an animal to a post, tree, or other object, so as to prevent him from running at large. Tying an object to an engine or vehicle under power for the purpose of towing the object. hithe. A harbor; a port.

hit the jackpot. To win the stake in a game of chance. To have a great success.

H. L. An abbreviation of house of lords.

hlaford. A lord.

hlafordswice. Betraying a lord; treason.

hlothbote. (Saxon.) A fine for attending a hlothe or unlawful assembly.

hlothe. An unlawful assembly.

H. M. Abbreviation of His Majesty or Her Majesty.

H<sub>2</sub>O. The symbol representing the chemical compound of water; two parts of hydrogen and one part of oxygen.

hoard. Noun: An accumulation of savings. A supply held in reserve. Verb: To accumulate by way of having a reserve.

As defined by the Lever Act which was a war measure of Congress passed in 1917 and amended in 1919, "necessaries shall be deemed to be hoarded when withheld, whether by possession or under any contract or arrangement, from the market by any person for the purpose of unreasonably increasing or diminishing the price." United States v Cohen Grocery Co. 255 US 81, 65 L Ed 516, 41 S Ct 298, 14 ALR 1045, 1052.

hoarding. Noun: A protective board fence; a palisade; a billboard. Verb: See hoard.

Hobbs Act. A federal Anti-racketeering Act. 18 USC § 1951. A statute manifesting a purpose to use all the constitutional power of Congress to punish interference with interstate commerce by extortion, robbery, or physical violence. Stirone v United States, 361 US 212, 4 L Ed 2d 252, 80 S Ct 270.

Hobson's choice. An election by compulsion or without freedom of choice; a choice without an alternative. Pictorial Review Co. v Helvering, 68 F2d 766.

hoc. This; with, by, or in, this. See absque hoc; ad hoc.

hoccus saltis. A salt-pit.

hochepot. Same as hotchpot.

hock. Noun: The joint between the upper and lower bones of the hind leg of an animal or the leg of a fowl. Verb: To hamstring an animal. Slang for pawning.

hock-day. An ancient English festival, the second or third Tuesday after Easter.

[562]

hockey. A game, usually played on ice by teams on skates, the players using sticks curved at the end, the object being to make goals constituting scores by driving a disc, known as a puck, into the goal of the opposing team. A popular spectator sport where played by professionals in indoor arenas. 4 Am J2d Amuse § 79.

hockle. Same as hamstring.

hock-money. Contributions for the celebration of hock-day.

Hoc paratus est verificare. This he is ready to verify.

Hoc paratus est verificare per recordum. This he is ready to verify by the record.

hoc paratus verificare. See et hoc paratus verificare.

hoc petit quod inquiratur per patriam. See et hoc petit quod inquiratur pro patriam.

hoc ponit se super patriam. See et hoc ponit se super patriam.

Hoc quidem perquam durum est, sed ita lex scripta est. This indeed is very hard, but such is the written law. See 3 Bl Comm 430.

Hoc servabitur quod initio convenit. That shall be preserved which is useful in the beginning.

hoc titulo. Under this title.

Hoc vobis ostendit. This makes clear to you; this shows you.

hoc voce. By or under this word.

hodge-podge. Same as hotchpot.

hog. A domestic animal which provides ham, bacon, and lard upon butchering. 4 Am J2d Ani §§ 2, 21, 22. Slang for a greedy person.

hoghenhyne. (Saxon.) A domestic servant; a house servant.

hogshead. A big barrel. A measure of volume or capacity equivalent to sixty-three gallons.

hoist. Noun: A device for lifting materials or articles. Verb: To lift or raise.

H.O.L.C. An abbreviation of Home Owner's Loan Corporation.

hold. Verb: To stand fast. To maintain a grip on something. To own or have title to something. To retain in one's keeping; to possess, occupy, and maintain authority over real property, whatever the source of title or authority may be. Miller v Oliver, 54 Cal App 495, 202 P 168; Ure v Ure, 185 Ill 216, 217; Cooke v Doron, 215 Pa 393, 64 A 595. Noun: The space in a ship below deck for cargo.

See held.

holder. A person who holds; a person who is in the actual or constructive possession of land. State v Wheeler, 23 Nev 143, 44 P 430. A technical term of the law merchant, the Negotiable Instruments Law, and the Uniform Commercial Code. The person in possession of a bill or note which is payable to bearer. Capitol Hill State Bank v Rawlins Nat. Bank, 24 Wyo 423, 160 F 1171, 11 ALR 937, 950. A person in legal possession of a negotiable instrument and entitled to demand payment in accordance with its terms, whether in his own right or as an agent. Bowling v Harrison (US) 6 How 248, 258, 12 L Ed 425, 429. The payee or indorsee of a bill or note, who is in the possession of it, or the bearer thereof. Uniform Negotiable Instruments L § 191. A person who is in possession of a document of title or an instrument or an investment security drawn, issued, or indorsed to him or his order or to bearer or in blank. UCC § 1-201 (20). One in possession of a negotiable instrument and entitled to maintain an action at law on it or anyone in actual or constructive possession of such an instrument and entitled to recover or receive its contents from the parties to it. Buckman v Hill Military Academy, 182 Or 621, 189 P2d 575.

holder for value. One who has given a legal consideration for a negotiable instrument. Birket v Elward, 68 Kan 295, 74 F 1100.

See holder in due course.

holder in due course. Broadly, a bona fide holder for value without notice. 11 Am J2d B & N § 397. A holder of a negotiable instrument or document of title who has taken the instrument under the following conditions: that it is complete and regular upon its face; that he became the holder of it before it was overdue, and without notice that it had previously been dishonored, if such was the fact; that he took it in good faith and for value; that at the time it was negotiated to him he had no notice of any infirmity in the instrument or defect in the title of the person negotiating it. Uniform Negotiable Instruments L § 52. A holder who takes a negotiable instrument, document of title, or an investment security, for value, in good faith, and without notice that it is overdue or has been dishonored or of any defense against of claim to it on the part of any person. UCC § 3-305; 11 Am J2d B & N § 397.

holder in good faith. One who has accepted a bill or note without notice that it is overdue or has been dishonored or of any defense to it or claim thereto on the part of any person.

See bona fide holder; holder in due course.

holder of life insurance policy. The named insured or an assignee, for the purpose of obtaining the cash surrender value under a nonforfeiture provision of the policy. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 686.

holder of warehouse receipt. A person who has both actual possession of, and a right of property in, a warehouse receipt. Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act § 58. The person in possession of a document of title which is a warehouse receipt. UCC § 1-201(5).

holding. The land which is held by a person; a tenure. Possessing; occupying.
See hold.

holding company. A supercorporation which owns or at least controls such a dominant interest in one or more other corporations that it is enabled to dictate their policies through voting power, or which is in position to control or materially to influence the management of one or more companies by virtue, in part at least, of its ownership of securities in the other company or companies. 18 Am J2d Corp § 12. A term often applied to a corporation which owns banks. 10 Am J2d Bks § 60. A device sometimes employed to obtain a monopoly or suppress competition between the constituent companies. 36 Am J1st Monop etc § 94.

holding corporation. See holding company.

holding court. The act of a judge in presiding over a term or session of a court. Keeping a court open, the judge and all officers of the court being present.

[563]

holding for ransom or reward. An element of the offense of kidnapping. Gooch v United States, 297 US 124, 80 L Ed 522, 56 S Ct 395.

holding out. Assuming a status, for example holding out to be a carrier. 13 Am 12d Car §§ 2, 5. Refusing to join in an agreement or course of action entered into or upon by others.

holding over. Any actual retention of possession by a tenant under a lease, without the consent of the landlord, after the expiration of the term of the lease. 32 Am J1st L & T § 920. The acts of a public officer, elected or appointed for a fixed term, in continuing to exercise the functions and duties of the office after the expiration of such term. State v Simon, 20 Or 365, 26 P 170. The act of a bailee under a bailment for a definite term of holding the property after the expiration of the term. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 277. A method of adverse possession. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 229.

See hold over.

holding period. The period of time that the taxpayer holds property before disposing of it, such being determinative of whether a gain is short term or long term. IRC § 1222.

holding track. See hold track.

holdman. One who works, within the hold of a ship. Union Stevedoring Corp. v Norton (CA3 Pa) 98 F2d 1012.

hold over. A public officer who continues in office after the expiration of the term for which appointed or elected, sometimes by re-election or re-appointment, sometimes for want of a successor, sometimes under color of right or title but without legal authority. 43 Am J1st Pub Of § 484. A tenant under a lease who continues in possession without the consent of the landlord after the expiration of the term of the lease.

See holding over.

hold pleas. To take jurisdiction as a court or judicial tribunal. Thus, the county court might hold pleas of debt or damages under the value of forty shillings. See 3 Bl Comm 35.

hold to bail. See affidavit to hold to bail; binding over.

hold track. A railroad track used by a railroad company for cars awaiting movement to the place where the freight carried shall be delivered ultimately to the consignee. State ex ref. Crow v Atchison, T. & S. F. R. Co. 176 Mo 687, 75 SW 776.

holdup. A robbery committed by threats and the use of deadly weapons. Leo v State, 63 Neb 723, 724, 89 NW 303.

holiday. A day set aside for worship, or reverence to the memory of a great leader and benefactor of humanity, to rejoice over some great national or historical event, or to rekindle the flame of an ideal. Gidal v Backs, 218 Cal 99, 21 P2d 952. A day declared a holiday by statute.

See feasts; grand days; legal holiday; nonjudicial day.

holimote. Same as halmote.

Hollywood muffler. A muffler on a motor vehicle so constructed that the noise from the exhaust is much louder than that permitted by a standard type muffler. 7 Am J2d Auto § 158.

holm. A small island.

holografo. (Spanish.) A holographic will, holograph. A writing which is wholly in the handwriting of the ostensible author. A holographic will.

holographic will. A will that is entirely written and signed by the testator in his own handwriting. 57 Am J1st Wills § 632.

The requirement of attestation is not imposed in the case of a holographic will, since a successful counterfeit of another's handwriting is exceedingly difficult and the requirement that the instrument be in the testator's own handwriting is a sufficient protection against forgery. If a date is required, as it is in some jurisdictions by statute, the date must also be in the handwriting of the testator. 57 Am J1st Wills § 632.

holt. A grove; a piece of wooded land.

holymote. Same as halmote.

holy orders. The rank or station of ecclesiastical officers.

homage. A formal acknowledgment or profession of fealty by a feudal vassal or tenant to his lord upon investiture.

The vassal or tenant knelt openly and humbly, ungirt and uncovered, and holding up his hands together between those of the lord, who sat before him, he there professed that "he did become his man, from that day forth of life and limb and earthly honor," and then the lord kissed him. The feudists called the ceremony "homagium" or "manhood." See 2 Bl Comm 53.

homage ancestral. A feudal tenure wherein a man and his ancestors had immemorially held land of another by the service of homage. This also bound the lord to warranty, the homage being an evidence of such a feudal grant. See 2 Bl Comm 300.

homage jury. The jury of a courtbaron drawn from tenants. See 2 Bl Comm 54.

homager. A tenant or vassal by homage.

homagio respectuando. See de homagio respectuando.

homagium. Same as homage.

homagium ligium. Liege homage; that is, such homage as is due the king irrespective of land tenure.

Homagium, non per procuratores nec per literas fieri potuit, sed in propria persona tam domini quam tenentis capi debet et fieri. Homage cannot be done by proxy nor by letter, but ought to be received and made in the proper person of the lord as well as that of the tenant.

homagium planum. Plain homage; that is, homage made by the service of fidelity alone.

homagium reddere. To renounce homage.

hombre bueno. (Spanish.) A good or worthy man; a district judge.

home. A word so suggestive of love, affection, and security as to be one of the most pleasantly sounding words in the English language. A place where a husband and wife may live in the enjoyment of each other's society and rear their offspring. Anno: 38 ALR 340. The place to which, when weary, one can go and sit, with shoes unlaced, and rest. Johnson v Harvey, 261 Ky 522, 88 SW2d 42. The place where a family lives in the close relation of people who enjoy the company of each other and the comfort and security of abiding together or where some are dependent upon others for care and protection.

[564]

A word of variable meaning in legal significance. A house in one respect, but in a proper sense including not only the house, but the entire surroundings and appurtenances enjoyed with the house. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1356. Sometimes, but not necessarily, the equivalent of domicil, since one may abandon his home without losing his domicil at the place (25 Am J2d Dom § 7) and incidental references to a place as "my home" are not conclusive against the existence of the domicil of the declarant in another place. Dodd v Lorenz, 210 Iowa 513, 231 NW 422. Sometimes including not only a place of abode, but also support and maintenance. Anno: 101 ALR 1487.

In ancient law French, the word also signified a man.

As to what passes under a devise of my "home." Anno: 38 ALR2d 840.

home consumption. The consumption of merchandise either by use or by its being manufactured into another product. J. H. Cottman & Co. v United States, 20 Cust & Pat App 344, cert den 289 US 750, 77 L Ed 1495, 53 S Ct 695.

home factor. A factor who resides in the same state or country as his principal. Ruffner v Hewitt, 7 W Va 585.

home farm. The farm upon which a family, some of whom, at least, are farmers, make their home. Doolittle v Blakesley (Conn) 4 Day 265.

home loan bank. A financial institution organized and operating under Title 12 of the United States Code, making loans to its members consisting of building and loan associations, savings and loan associations, and homestead associations, and also to certain non-member borrowers.

Home Loan Bank Board. A federal agency directing the operations of the federal home loan bank system and the federal savings and loan insurance corporation. 12 USC § 1464(a).

Home Loan Bank System. A creation of the federal government for providing a reserve credit pool for member home-finance institutions.

Home ne sera puny pur suer des briefes en court le roy, soit il a droit ou a tort. A man shall not be punished for suing out writs in the king's court, whether he is right or wrong.

home occupation. An occupation, customarily incidental to the use of a building as a residence, carried on in a home or a building accessory thereto, by an occupant of the dwelling, usually the owner or some member of his immediate family, without employees or assistants other than resident members of the family or other occupants of the dwelling. Anno: 73 ALR2d 442.

home office. The office or department of the British government which supervises the internal affairs of the empire.

homeopath. A physician of the school which teaches that a disease is cured by the administration in small amounts of a drug which will produce the disease if administered in large amounts to a person theretofore healthy. Anno: 78 ALR 699.

Homeopathic Pharmacopoeia. See United States Homeopathic Pharmacopoeia.

Home Owners Loan Act. A chapter of the United States Code which provides for the organization, incorporation, examination, operation, and regulation of associations to be known as Federal Savings and Loan Associations, delegating authority to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to give charters to and regulate such associations. 13 Am J2d B & L Assoc § 10.

Home Owners' Loan Corporation. A corporation established by Act of Congress in 1933 to refinance the indebtedness of homeowners threatened by foreclosure; liquidated in 1951.

home place. The dwelling house and the entire estate and appurtenances which surround it. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1356. In the usage of the Middle West, a farm which is held and occupied by the owner as his place of residence.

As to what passes under a device of "my home place." Anno: 38 ALR2d 840.

home port. The port where a documented vessel of the United States is registered or enrolled, or the place in the same district where the vessel was built, or where one or more of the owners resides. 46 USC § 47.

home rule. The powers of local self-government conferred upon municipalities by constitutional provision. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 102.

home rule charter. A charter of a municipal corporation which is framed by the municipality itself and is adopted by popular vote of its own people.

The constitutions of many states authorize such charters. In some of them the state legislature must confirm the charter before it can become effective, and the legislature is permitted to alter and amend the submitted charter both before and after confirmation. In other states, the legislature is given no power of confirmation, alteration, or amendment, the charter becomes final upon its adoption by vote of the people of the municipality and it may be amended by them at future elections. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 103.

homesoken. Same as hamesecken. homestall. A word used in the ancient law to designate the mansion house. Dickinson v Mayer, 58 Tenn (11 Heisk) 515, 521.

homestead. In a popular sense, the place of the home—the residence of the family; it represents the dwelling house in which the family resides, with the usual and customary appurtenances, including the outbuildings of every kind necessary or convenient for family use, and the lands used for the purposes thereof. In a legal sense, a term strictly American, but susceptible to a variety of conceptions, one being immunity from the claims of creditors, another the restriction of the conveyance or encumbering of such property, still another a provision for surviving spouse and minor children to be made out of the lands of a decedent, which may or may not be property to which a homestead exemption has attached, and, in still other senses, the right, based on residence and cultivation, to acquire a tract of land out of the public lands of the United States, and the subject of such a right. 26 Am J1st Home § I.

[565]

Used in a will by way of describing the subject matter of a devise, it is uniformly held that the term "homestead" is not limited to the quantity or value of land denominated in applicable statutes as constituting an exemption from execution. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1356.

See abandonment of homestead; admeasurement of homestead; declaration of homestead; entry under homestead law; excessive homestead; head of family; homestall; homestead entry; homesteader; homestead ex vi terminis; homestead right; householder; probate homestead; reassignment of homestead; right of homestead; rural homestead; urban homestead.

homestead association. An association comparable to a savings and loan association.

homestead entry. See entry under homestead law.

homesteader. The claimant of a homestead; one who has made a homestead entry on public lands and is residing, upon the lands entered for the purpose of perfecting his entry and ultimately acquiring title. 42 Am J1st Home §§ 19 et seq.

homestead exemption. The exemption created by act of Congress declaring that no lands acquired under federal homestead and timber culture laws shall be liable for the satisfaction of any debt contracted prior to their acquisition from the government. 42 Am J1st Pub L § 27. The exemption from execution, provided by constitution or statute, of a prescribed amount or tract of land occupied by the debtor as the head of the family residing thereon. 26 Am J1st Home §§ 2 et seq.

homestead ex vi termini. A homestead by the force of the term or expression; that is, in its ordinary meaning, the family seat or mansion. Turner v Turner, 107 Ala 465, 18 So 310.

homestead laws. The statutes relative to the acquisition of a homestead out of the public domain. 42 Am J2d Pub L § 20.

See homestead exemption; pre-emption laws.

homestead right. A quality annexed to land whereby an estate is exempted from sale under execution for debt. Littlejohn v Egerton, 77 NC 379, 384. A statutory privilege which may be asserted where the homestead property of the family is sought to be subjected to the payment of a debt not a lien, whereunder either or both spouses may claim the homestead as exempt from seizure. Thompson v Marlin, 116 Okla 159, 243 P 950. The right to enter upon unappropriated public land for the purpose of occupying a tract and ultimately acquiring title to it under the homestead laws. 42 Am J1st Pub L §§ 19 et seq.

homestead servants. Domestic servants. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1395.

homework. Industrial work performed at home according to instructions and directions given by the employer, a good example of which is needlework on clothing. Anno: 143 ALR 420.

homeworker. One who performs industrial work in his or her own home for others. Anno: 143 ALR 419.

homicidal insanity. See homicidal mania.

homicidal mania. A morbid and uncontrollable appetite for man-killing. 29 Am J1st Homi § 3. A heart totally depraved and fatally bent on mischief. Leache v State, 22 Tex Crim 279.

homicide. The killing of a human being under any circumstances by the act, agency, or omission of another. 26 Am J1st Homi § 2.

The word is generic and embraces every mode by which the life of one man is taken by the act of another man. It may be lawful, as where a man is killed in war or put to death under the valid sentence of a court, or it may be unlawful. It may also be justifiable or excusable, as in the prevention of a violent felony or in self-defense. The word includes both murder and manslaughter. Commonwealth v Webster, 59 Mass (5 Cush) 295.

See criminal homicide; felonious homicide; femicide; fratricide; infanticide; manslaughter; matricide; murder; parricide; patricide; proicide; regicide; retreat to the wall; self-defense; suicide; uxoricide.

homicide by misadventure. An accidental killing of a human being. 26 Am J1st Homi § 220. A killing by pure accident, that is, where a man, doing a lawful act, without any intention of hurt, unfortunately kills another; as where a man is at work with a hatchet, and the head of it flies off and kills a by-slander. See 4 Bl Comm 182.

homicide per infortunium. Same as homicide by misadventure.

homicide se defendendo. The killing of a human being in self-defense.

See self-defense.

homicidium. Same as homicide.

homicidium in rixu. The killing of a human being while engaged in a quarrel.

homicidium per infortunium. Same as homicide by misadventure. homicidium per misadventure. Same as homicide by misadventure.

homicidium se defendendo. Same as homicide se defendendo.

hominatio. Same as homage.

homine capto in withernam. See de homine capto in withernam.

homine eligendo. A writ which directed the members of a corporation to select a successor to a dead man who had held one part of an indenture under a statute merchant.

homine replegiando. See de homine replegiando.

homines. Plural of homo; men.

homines ligil. Liege Men,—the vassals of their sovereign or liege lord under that exalted species of fealty called feudum ligium, a liege fee. See 1 Bl Comm 367.

hominium. Same as homage.

Hominum cause jus constitutum est. Law is constituted for the benefit of mankind.

homiplagium. Mayhem.

homme. A man.

hommes de fief. Men of the fief or feud, —feudal tenants or vassals.

hommes feodaux. Same as hommes de fief.

homo. A man; a feudal tenant or vassal.

homo astrer. A householder.

[566]

homo chartularis. A freeman by deed or charter.

homo commendatus. A freeman who voluntarily placed himself under the subjection of a lord in order to secure his protection.

homo ecclesiasticus. A vassal or bond slave of the church.

homo exercitalis. A man of the army; a soldier.

homo feodalis. A man of the feud; a feudal tenant; a vassal.

homo francus. A freeman.

homogenous goods. Uniform in structure; composed of the same elements. Substances, such as seeds of grass, which are indistinguishable when intermingled. The antithesis of heterogenous goods.

homo ingenuus. A freeman.

homo liber. A freeman.

homo ligius. Singular of homines ligii.

homologacion. (Spanish.) Same as homologation. homologare. Same as homologate. homologate. (Civil law.) To say the like, homos logos similiter dicere. Viales' Syndics v Gardenier (La) 9 Mart 324, 325.

homologation. A confirmation; an approval; saying the same. Hecker v Brown, 104 La 524, 527, 29 So 232.

homo novus. A new man; that is, a feudal tenant who took a new fee.

homonymiae. (Civil law.) Cases containing repetitions of the same principles and rules of law which had been set down in previous cases.

homo pertinens. A feudal vassal who went with the soil.

Homo potest esse habilis et inhabilis diversis temporibus. A man can be capable and incapable at different times.

homo regius. A man of the king, a king's vassal.

homo Romanus. A Roman.

homosexual. One, especially a male, whose desire for sexual relations is directed to a person of the same sex.

homosexuality. Sexual relations between persons of the same sex, males especially.

See sodomy.

homos logos similiter dicere. See homologate.

homo sui juris. See datio in adoptionem.

homo trium litterarum. A man of three letters; that is "F" "u" "r," meaning a thief.

Homo vocabulum est naturae; persona juris civilis. Man is a natural word; person is a term of the civil law.

homsoken. Same as hamesecken.

homstd. An abbreviation of "homestead," sometimes employed in descriptions of real estate, but the use of which is not recommended, since it is only a little shorter than the whole word.

Hon. An abbreviation of Honorable.

honest. Descriptive of one who does not lie or cheat.

See true.

honeste vivere. To live honorably or respectably.

Honeste vivere, alteri non laedere suum cuique tribuere. Live honorably, injure no one else, render to each man that which is his.

honesty. The quality of being honest, neither cheating nor lying.

The word is derived from the Latin "honestus," and is essentially one which takes its meaning from its context. Primarily, it means suitable, becoming, or decent. In money transactions, it means financial integrity. In affairs of state, it means loyalty. In matters of friendship, it means steadfast. In sexual relations, it imports fidelity. State v Snover, 63 NJL 382, 384, 43 A 1059.

honey. A product of bees, whether produced in a hive or in the hollow of a tree by wild bees. 4 Am J2d Ani § 18. A term of endearment.

honor. Verb: To pay or to accept and pay. UCC § 1-201(21). Noun: Adherence to right principles of conduct; integrity. Respect accorded another. A seigniorship consisting of an aggregation of manors held under one lord paramount was so called, especially if it had belonged to an ancient feudal baron, or had been at any time in the hands of the crown. See 2 Bl Comm 91.

See acceptance for honor; payment for honor.

honorable. An English title bestowed upon younger sons of earls and upon the children of viscounts and barons; in the United States, a title of courtesy applied to judges, members of Congress and state legislatures, and other federal and state officers of rank.

honorable discharge. A formal final judgment passed by the government upon the entire military record of a soldier, and an authoritative declaration by the government that the soldier has left the service in a status of honor. United States v Kelly (US) 15 Wall 34, 21 L Ed 106.

honorarium. A fee paid for professional services rendered gratuitously or under such conditions that there is no legal obligation for payment.

honorary. As an honor; without profit, fee or reward, and in consideration of the honor conferred by holding a position of responsibility and trust. Haswell v New York, 81 NY 255, 258.

honorary feud. A feudal honorary rank or title of nobility, which was not of a divisible nature and which could only be inherited by the eldest son. See 2 Bl Comm 56.

honorary office. A public office to which no fees or salary are annexed; an office accepted from desire to be of service to the public. State v Stanley, 66 NC 59. An office in an association, society, or corporation created to honor an incumbent, not to impose duties upon him.

honorary rank. See brevet; emeritus; honorary office.

[567]

honorary services. Feudal services of a special nature rendered to the king in person, such as carrying his banner or his sword. See 2 Bl Comm 73.

See honorary office.

honorary trust. An alleged trust predicated upon nothing more than a moral, ethical, or honorary obligation. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 15.

honor-court. A court held within an honor or seigniorship.

honoring paper. See honor.

honoris causa. As a mark of honor.

honour. Same as honor.

hood. Slang for hoodlum or gangster.

hoodlum. A rowdy. A gangster.

See gangster.

Hooper ratings. A system used to ascertain the number of listeners tuned in to a particular radio program. Stanley v Columbia Broadcasting System, 35 Cal 2d 653, 221 P2d 73, 23 ALR2d 216.

hootch. Slang for an alcoholic beverage. State v Vesper (Mo) 289 SW 862, 863.

"We should take judicial notice that the words hootch, moonshine, white mule, etc., are generally used in connection with the unlawful manufacture of whisky." State v Wright, 312 Mo 626, 632.

hop ale. A drink akin to hop beer.

See hop beer.

hop beer. A nonintoxicating malt liquor, otherwise known as near beer, widely marketed during the period of National Prohibition. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 11.

A court will not recognize, by way of taking judicial notice, that hop beer or hop jack is an intoxicating liquor. Jacob Ruppert, Inc. v Caffey, 251 US 264, 64 L Ed 260, 40 S Ct 141.

hope. A desire; an expectation. A precatory word; the equivalent of a command or direction in a will where coming from a testator who has the power to command. Pembroke Academy v Epsom School Dist. 75 NH 408, 75 A 100. A term of the old English for valley.

hopelessly insolvent. Irretrievably insolvent; such state of insolvency that it is manifestly impossible to continue in business and meet obligations. Forsythe v First State Bank, 185 Minn 255, 241 NW 66, 81 ALR 1074.

Where, at the time in question, there is a reasonable hope and expectation on the part of the officers of a bank that a consolidation plan may be consummated and that the business of the bank may be continued and its fortunes retrieved, the bank is not hopelessly and irretrievably insolvent. Washington Shoe Mfg. Co. v Duke, 126 Wash 510, 218 P 232, 37 ALR 611.

hope of benefit. As an inducement to a confession: -a temporal or worldly benefit, the hope of escaping punishment in whole or in part, not hope of a moral or spiritual benefit. 29 Am J2d Ev § 560.

hop jack. Same as hop beer.

hopping car. Boarding a vehicle while it is in motion, especially the car of a carrier.

hops. A crop mainly dependent on annual cultivation, used in the making of beer. 21 Am J2d Crops § 4.

horae judiciae. The hours of the sessions of a court.

Hora non est multum de substantia negotii, licet in appello de ea aliquando fiat mentio. The hour (of the day) is not of much consequence in business affairs, but mention of it is sometimes made in appeals.

hord. See bock hord.

hordera. A treasurer.

horizontal. Toward the horizon; lateral rather than vertical; across the board; uniform.

"It was not the intention to prohibit carriers from making reductions in tariffs at will, provided such reductions were uniform,—what are frequently called `horizontal reductions.' " Steenerson v Great Northern Railway Co. 60 Minn 461, 472, 62 NW 826.

horizontal agreement. An agreement entered into between competing producers or dealers, whereby they seek to control the market price off a commodity. 52 Am J1st Tradem § 173.

horizontal measurement. The use of the chain in measuring land which is mountainous or hilly in such manner that it is kept level rather than following the acclivities or depressions. The antithesis of the surface measurement wherein the chain is run along the surface, following the acclivities and depressions. 12 Am J2d Bound § 58.

Horizontal Property Acts. Statutes relative to condominiums or similar structures under other names. 15 Am J2d Con Apt § 1.

horizontal union. Same as trade union.

horn. A musical instrument used in an orchestra or band, occasionally in a solo a device on a motor vehicle to signal its approach by sound.

hornage. Same as cornage.

horngeld. A tax which was levied on horned animals in a forest.

horning. An ancient practice under the Scotch law whereby a debtor was summoned by the sounding of a horn to satisfy his obligation under pain of imprisonment for default. Borden v State, 11 Ark 519; Fisher, Brown & Co. v Fielding, 67 Conn 91, 34 A 714.

hornswoggle. Slang for cheat or swindle. United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v Rochester (Tex Civ App) 281 SW 306, 314.

horn tenure. Same as cornage.

horoscope reading. A purported demonstration of the determination of the destiny of a person by examining the position of the planets and other heavenly bodies at the time of his birth. State v Neitzel, 69 Wash 567, 125 P 939.

hors. Out; outside; out of; without.

hors de combat. Out of the combat or struggle; worsted.

hors de court. Out of or away from court.

hors de son fee. Out of his fee.

In England at common law, the property of the tenant could never be taken after the disruption of the relation of landlord and tenant and a removal from the demised premises. In such cases the tenant pleaded "Hors de son fee." That was to say, "I am no longer your tenant and am with my goods out of your land." In other words, "I am out of your seignior." Mather v Wood, 12 Pa Co 3, 4.

horse. A domestic animal. 4 Am J2d Am § 2. A large four-footed animal, characterized by flowing mane and tail and solid hoofs. In one sense limited to a gelding or stallion; in another sense, inclusive of a female or mare as well as a male. McCarver v Griffin, 194 Ala 634, 69 So 920; State v Dunnavant, 5 SCL (3 Brev) 9.

See colt; filly; gelding; mare; ridgling; work horse.

horse game. See horseplay.

horseless carriage. An obsolete term for motor vehicle.

horseplay. Having fun in a rough and boisterous manner, often at hazard of personal injury to participant or spectator. The "good, clean, fun" of assaulting a victim from behind, when his attention is directed elsewhere, by rushing at him and violently pushing him forward. Markley v Whitman, 95 Mich 236, 54 MW 763.

See rush.

horsepower. A unit of measure first used in reference to steam engines but now employed for other engines and motors. The unit in estimating the power required to drive machinery. Eastern Pennsylvania Power Co. v Lehigh Coal & Navigation Co. 246 Pa 72, 77, 92 A 47. The power required to lift a weight of 550 pounds 1 foot in 1 second.

horsepower rating. The rating of a watercraft or vehicle according to the horsepower of its motor or engine, sometimes noted for purposes of identification in licensing.

horse race. A contest by way of sport wherein horses are pitted against each other, either a flat race wherein the horses are ridden by jockeys, or a harness race wherein they are driven by drivers riding in light carts known as sulkies. A game or gaming within the meaning of some statutes prohibiting gambling or gaming. 24 Am J1st Gaming § 22.

As defined by the American racing rules, a race is any contest for purse, stake, premium, or wager for money, or involving admission fees, on any course, and in the presence of a judge or judges. Stone v Clay (CA7 Ill) 61 F 889, 890.

See bookmaking; French pool; handicap; pool; pool selling; parimutuel; purse; race meeting; sweepstakes.

horse show. An exhibition of horses, often including a demonstration of the gaits of the animals.

horse trailer. A trailer towed by a motor vehicle and used for the transportation of a horse or horses.

horseway. A private way usable for a rider on horseback. Jones v Venable, 120 Ga 1, 47 NE 549

horsing around. A slang expression for activities directed toward no serious purpose and often of a mischievous nature.

hors pris. Taken out; except.

horticulture. A branch of agriculture; the science or art of cultivating the soil and its fruits. 3 Am J2d Agri § 1.

hortus. A garden.

hospes. See hospitium.

hospital. A place for the reception of persons sick or infirm in body or in mind; a building founded through charity, where the sick and disabled may be treated solely at their own expense, or at the expense of the institution. An institution for receiving, maintaining and, as far as possible, ameliorating the condition of persons suffering from bodily defects, mental maladies, or other misfortunes affecting health and physical condition adversely. 26 Am J1st Hospit § 2.

A hospital is primarily a service organization. It serves three groups: the patients, its doctors, and the public. It furnishes the place where the patient, whether poor or rich, can be treated under ideal conditions. It makes available room, special diet, X-ray, laboratory, surgery, and a multitude of other services and equipment now available through the advances of medical science. Cedars of Lebanon Hospital v Los Angeles County, 35 Cal 2d 729, 221 P2d 31, 15 ALR2d 1045.

As the term appears in a policy of hospital insurance, it does not include a nursing home, a convalescent home, or a private dwelling. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1532.

See public hospital.

hospitaler. Another spelling for hospitalier.

hospital fee. An incidental charge imposed upon a student in a university or college. 15 Am J2d Colleges § 19. Broadly, a fee charged by a hospital for a service rendered a patient.

hospital insurance. A policy or contract whereby the one party, known as the insurer, in consideration of the payment of premiums by the other party, known as the insured, agrees to pay the hospital expenses of the insured or members of his family for care required because of sickness, disease, or disability suffered or incurred during the term of the policy.

hospitalization contract. See Blue Cross; hospital insurance; hospital service contract.

hospitalier. A member of an order of knighthood which cared for the sick and the poor.

hospital liability insurance. A contract of insurance insuring a hospital against liability in damages for the death of or injury to a patient. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1355.

hospital service contract. A contract issued by a corporation, ordinarily one organized as a nonprofit body, whereby the corporation agrees to provide the members with hospitalization as such may be required by a member or the members of his family. 29 Am J Reved Ins § 12.

See Blue Cross; blue cross contract.

hospital service corporation. See hospital service contract.

hospital staff. The officers and employees of a hospital, especially professional people such as physicians, surgeons, and nurses. 26 Am J1st Hospit § 8.

hospital zone. An area surrounding a hospital wherein motor vehicle traffic is regulated as to the speed of the vehicles and sometimes the sounding of horns.

hospitator. A host; an innkeeper.

hospitelarius. A host; an innkeeper.

hospites. The proprietors or hosts in mansions of ancient Rome.

See hospitium.

hospitia. Plural of hospitium.

hospitia curiae. The inns of court.

hospiticide. The killing of a host or the guest at an inn; the person who did the killing.

[569]

hospitium. An inn; a hostel; a household.

Among the ancient Romans, on either side of the spacious mansions of the wealthy patricians were smaller apartments, known as the "hospitium," or place for the entertainment of strangers, and the word "hospes" was a term to designate the proprietor of such a mansion, as well as the guest whom he received. Cromwell v Stephens (NY) 2 Daly 15, 17.

See intra hospitium.

host. Noun: An innkeeper. One who receives another for refreshment, lodging, or entertainment. Verb: To be a host on a particular occasion. In a usage now obsolete, to put up at an inn. Cromwell v Stephens (NY) 2 Daly 15, 20.

hostage. An inn; a lodging; a person held in unlawful custody for the purpose of obtaining the performance of demands made by the person holding him.

hosteler. A host; an innkeeper.

hostelier. Same as hosteler.

hostellagium. A lord's right of lodging on the premises of his tenant.

hostelry. An inn; a lodginghouse; a hotel.

hostes. Enemies.

Hostes hi sunt qui nobis, aut quibus nos, publice bellum decrevimus; caeteri latrones aut praedones sunt. Those are enemies who have publicly declared war against us, or against whom we have done so; the others are thieves or robbers. See 1 BI Comm 257.

hostes humani generis. Enemies of the human race.

Hostes sunt qui nobis vel quibus nos bellum decernimus; caeteri traditores vel praedones sunt. Enemies are those against whom we declare war or who declare it against us; others are either traitors or pirates.

host-guest relationship. See guest.

hosticide. The killing of an enemy; a person who kills an enemy.

hostile. Belonging to an enemy; appropriate to an enemy; showing ill-will and malevolence, or a desire to thwart and injure; occupied by an enemy or a hostile people; inimical; a hostile country; hostile to a sudden change. Ballard v Hansen, 33 Neb 861, 865, 51 NW 295; Brewer v Brewer, 238 NC 607, 78 SE2d 719, 40 ALR2d 763.

hostile act. An act of war; that is, an act which tends to involve one nation in war with another nation; an act committed with intent to injure another.

hostile embargo. An embargo directed against the ships of a present or prospective enemy nation.

See embargo.

hostile fire. A term familiar in the law of fire insurance as signifying the opposite of friendly fire. A fire unexpected, unintended, not anticipated, in a place not intended for it to be and where fire is not ordinarily maintained, or a fire which has "escaped" in the usual and ordinary sense of the word. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1287.

See escaping fire.

hostile in its inception. Referring to an adverse claim by a disseisor; relating, not to the original entry of the disseisor, but to the act by which the possession became adverse. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 33.

hostile paramount title. An element of constructive eviction of tenant; an assertion of title which justifies the bona fide belief that the threat of dispossession will be carried out in the foreseeable future. Anno: 172 ALR 37.

hostile possession. Possession of land under a claim of an exclusive right thereto, thereby denying the right of any other person. An open and notorious possession of such a character that a claim of ownership inconsistent with the existence of a right on the part of any other person is unquestionably to be inferred. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 34.

Ill will, malevolence or a desire to thwart and injure are not essential characteristics of hostile possession. Brewer v Brewer, 238 NC 607, 78 SE2d 719, 40 ALR2d 763.

hostile witness. A witness who is subject to cross-examination by the party who called him, because of his evident antagonism toward that party as exhibited in his direct examination.

hostilian law. See lex hostilia.

hostilities. Actual operations, offensive or defensive, in the conduct of war. Anno: 95 L Ed 80.

hostility. See bias; hostile; hostilities; prejudice.

hot. Stolen or otherwise involved in illegal operations. People v Carrow, 207 Cal 366, 278 P 857.

hot cargo clause. A provision in a collective labor agreement under which union members have the right to refuse to handle unfair or struck goods. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 255.

hotchpot. The blending and mixing of property belonging to different persons in order to divide it equally. Pitts v Metzger, 195 Mo App 677, 187 SW 610. The grouping with the assets of a decedent's estate of the value of property given by him by way of advancement to heirs or distributees during his lifetime, so that the whole may be divided so far as possible in accordance with the statutes of descent and distribution, each share being charged with what has already been received. 3 Am J2d Advancem § 54. In admiralty practice, the adding of all the items of damage to both ships injured in a collision, once it has been determined that both contributed to the collision, for the purpose of dividing the loss between the two ships. Cayzer, Irvine Co. v Carron Co. (Eng) LR 1883-1884, 9 App Cas 873.

hot dog. See wiener.

hotel. A word usually considered synonymous with "inn." A house which is held out to the public by the proprietor as a place where transient persons who come in a fit condition will be received and entertained as guests for compensation. 29 Am J Rev ed Innk § 2. Sometimes considered an inn of the better class. Dixon v Robbins, 246 NY 169, 158 NE 63, 53 ALR 986.

hotel keeper. See innkeeper.

See American plan; apartment hotel; European plan; tavern.

hot-foot. An ill-conceived practical joke in secretly placing a match between the sole and vamp of a person's shoe and then igniting the match.

hot gasoline. Gasoline manufactured from hot oil.

[570]

United States v Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. (CA7 Wis) 105 F2d 809.

See hot oil.

hot iron ordeal. An ancient form of trial for crime.

hot oil. Crude oil produced in violation of state prorating statutes limiting oil production. United States v Socony-Vacuum Oil Co. (CA7 Wis) 105 F2d 809.

See Connally Act.

hot pursuit. See fresh pursuit.

hot rod. A slang term for an automobile, usually an older vehicle, which has been equipped by some form of supercharger for high speed.

hot vulcanization. The process of incorporating vulcanizing ingredients, such as sulphur, and accelerators, into a mass of crude dry rubber by milling, and subjecting the mass to heat and pressure. Vultex Corp v Heveatex Corp. (CA1 Mass) 100 F2d 838.

hot-water ordeal. An ancient form of trial for crime in which the defendant's arms were plunged into scalding hot water.

hound-bailiff. Same as bound-bailiff.

hours for presentment. The hours for presenting a bill of exchange or draft for acceptance. 11 Am J2d B & N § 732. The hours for presenting a bill or note for payment, for the purpose of charging a person secondarily liable. 11 Am J2d B & N §§ 755, 756.

hours of banking. See banking hours.

hours of business. See business hours.

hours of labor. The time in hours per day or per week spent by an employee in the service of his employer. Statutes enacted under the police power, in consideration of the health of laborers and the safety of the public, applicable in certain occupations which are particularly fatiguing, such statutes being distinguishable from those which prescribe what shall constitute a day's work in the absence of an agreement by the parties on the point. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 780.

As used in the Federal Fair Labor Standards Act, the term includes not only the hours that employees were actually engaged in manual labor, but also such hours during which they were charged with the operation of the plant. Fleming v Rex Oil & Gas Co. (DC Mich) 43 F Supp 951.

Whether sleeping time allowed an employee at his station is work time within the meaning of the Fair Labor Standards Act depends upon the express or implied agreement of the parties and, in the absence of an agreement, upon the nature of the service. General Electric Co. v Porter (CA9 Wash) 208 F2d 805, 44 ALR2d 854.

See day's work; Hours of Service Act.

hours of service. See day's work; hours of labor; Hours of Service Act.

Hours of Service Act. A federal statute intended to promote the safety of employees and travelers upon railroad by regulating and limiting the hours of labor of railroad employees who are engaged in or connected with the movement of train in interstate or foreign commerce. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 799.

hours of voting. See voting hours.

hours worked. See day's work; hours of labor; Hours of Service Act.

housage. A fee or charge paid for, the storage of goods.

house. A building, Simmons v State, 234 Ind 489, 129 NE2d 121. Any building, edifice, or structure enclosed with walls and covered. State v Beckwith, 135 Me 423, 198 A 739; Mulligan v State, 25 Tex App 199, 7 SW 664. A building, whether for private or public use. State v Beckwith, 135 Me 423, 198 A 739. A structure intended or used for human habitation; especially a human habitation which is fixed in place and is intended for the private occupation of a family or families. Bolin v Tyrol Invest Co. 273 Mo 257, 200 SW 1059. For some purposes, a dwelling house. 5 Am J2d Arson § 19; 13 Am J2d Burgl § 6. Sometimes confined to a single-family residence. 20 Am J2d Cov § 196. For other purposes a single room. Wolcott v Ashenfelter, 5 NM 442, 23 P 780, landlord's lien statute. Including for some purposes, outhouses, party walls, and subsidiaries necessary to convenient occupancy. 5 Am J2d Arson § 20; 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 293. Including, where it is the subject of a grant, an interest in land upon which the structure is located, except as the contrary appears by other terms of the instrument. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 244. Including, where it indicates the subject of a devise, not only the land physically covered, but an additional amount, necessary or convenient to the enjoyment of the structure itself. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1356.

house boat. A vessel within admiralty jurisdiction. 2 Am J2d Adm § 33.

housebote. A right of estover; the right of a tenant to cut and take timber and wood for the repair of buildings and fences and for fuel. 32 Am J1st L & T § 219.

housebreaking. The breaking and entering into the dwelling house of another; an element of the crime of burglary. Sometimes a statutory offense similar to burglary.

house-burning. See arson; pyromania.

house confinement clause. A clause of a health and accident policy, generally understood to be intended to show the extent of disability rather than to impose a strict condition of absolute confinement to a house. A clause which calls for substantial confinement by reason of illness or accident, not confinement so close as to exclude a period of disability during which the insured went out for exercise or visits to his physician. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1530. A clause which is satisfied by confinement in a hospital or sanitarium, as well as at home. Anno: 29 ALR2d 1427.

household. Noun: Persons who dwell together as a family. Arthur v Morgan, 112 US 495, 499, 28 L Ed 825, 5 S Ct 241. A family residing together in one dwelling, using common living quarters and facilities under such domestic arrangements and circumstances as create a single family unit or establishment. Anno: 88 ALR2d 923. A family relation of a character both permanent and domestic, not that of persons abiding together as strangers or mere boarders. Robbins v Bangor Railway & Electric Co. 100 Me 496, 62 A 136. Quite the same as "family" for the purpose of the exclusion, in a policy of automobile theft insurance, of "theft" by a member of insured's "hou'sehold." Anno: 48 ALR2d 93. Adjective: Pertaining to or belonging to the house or family. Rydstrom v Queen Ins. Co. 137 Md 349, 112 A 586, 14 ALR 212, 214.

household effects. Articles having some connection with the management of a household. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1347.

See household furniture.

householder. For some purposes, the head of a family, not necessarily an owner of property. The head, master, or person who has charge of and provides for a family. Nelson v State, 57 Miss 286. (Qualification as a juror). For the purpose of a homestead exemption:—the head or master of a family who provides for it. 26 Am J1st Home § 17. For the purpose of exemption statutes generally, a person owning or holding and occupying a house. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 26.

Under some statutes, a person may qualify, as a "householder," for a homestead exemption notwithstanding he or she is not the head of a family. 26 Am J1st Home § 17.

household furnishings and effects. An expression which, appearing in a will, may include all of the testator's personal property. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1347.

See household effects; household furniture.

household furniture. Not necessarily synonymous with "household goods". As the term appears in a statement of the subject matter of a fire insurance policy:—a variety of articles chiefly associated with the household in their general nature and use. Anno: 41 ALR2d 720; 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 298. As the term appears in a statute exempting certain property from execution:—those articles which, not becoming fixtures, are designed in their manufacture originally as instruments of the household, essential or useful for comfortable living persons. 31 Am J Rev ed Exemp § 73.

See necessary household furniture.

household goods. Not necessarily synonymous with "household furniture." 57 Am J1st Wills § 1347. As the term appears in the statement of the subject matter of a fire insurance policy:—articles in great variety, associated with the household in their general nature and use. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 298.

household servant. Domestic servant. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1395.

See menial servant.

household stuff. See household effects; household furnishings and effects; household furniture.

housekeeper. A woman who takes care of a house or supervises servants of the household.

Generally speaking, the term has reference to services performed in the taking care of a house in connection with the inmates residing therein, but exactly what special and particular duties are to be regarded as embodied within the term must always be decided by the duties which are actually performed under the agreement as made. Edgecomb v Buckhout, 146 NY 332, 40 NE 991.

housekeeping unit. A family under certain zoning laws. 58 Am J1st Zon § 56.

house money. The sum put up for play by the proprietor of a gambling house. Anno: 1 ALR 1403. The percentage of the pool claimed by the proprietor of a gambling house.

house number. The number of a house on a designated street. Sufficient as a description of property conveyed by deed where the municipality, having a known system of numbering, is designated. 23 Am J1st Deeds § 229.

house of assignation. A bawdyhouse or house of ill fame; a house resorted to for purposes of prostitution. McAlister v Clark, 33 Conn 91, 92.

House of Commons. The lower house of the English parliament.

house of correction. An institution for the reception and care of orphans, indigent, wayward, incorrigible, or vicious youths, children whose parents are incapable or unworthy, and, in some instances, adults, such as unfortunate or abandoned women, first offenders, and other particular classes, where they may be taught habits of industry, morality, and religion, and be freed from the corrupting influence of improper associates. 26 Am J1st House of C § 2.

house of entertainment. A tavern; an inn. Bonner v Welborn, 7 Ga 296, 304.

house of his usual abode. The house where a person resides which, in the case of a married man, is prima facie or presumptively the house wherein his wife and family reside. Berryhill v Sepp, 106 Minn 458, 119 NW 404.

house of ill fame. A disorderly house. A house resorted to for the purpose of prostitution. Anno: 74 ALR 314, 320 et seq. A place kept for the convenience of people of both sexes in resorting to lewdness; a place many people may frequent for immoral purposes; a house where one may go for immoral purposes without an invitation. 24 Am J2d Disord H § 2.

House of Keys. The lower house of the legislature of the Isle of Man.

house of legislature. One of the bodies of a bicameral legislature. The membership of a house of the legislature or a majority of the members of such a house. According to some usage, the number of members constituting a quorum. State v McBride, 4 Mo 303.

House of Lords. The upper house of the English parliament; the supreme court of England which is composed of those members of the house of lords who have performed judicial functions.

house of prostitution. A house of ill fame. A house resorted to for the purpose of prostitution. 42 Am J1st Prost § 3.
See house of ill fame.

house of public worship. Any building which is primarily devoted to the worship of God and to such incidental exercises and functions as are usually connected with such worship. St. Paul's Church v Concord, 75 NH 420, 75 A 531.
A schoolhouse does not become a house of religious worship merely because the Bible is read to the classes without note or comment thereon by the teachers. Hackett v Brooksville School Dist. 120 Ky 608, 87 SW 792.
See church.

house of reformation. Same as house of correction.

house of refuge. Essentially the same as house of correction.

house of religious worship. See church; house of public worship.

House of Representatives. The lower house of the Congress of the United States. One of the houses of a bicameral state legislature.

house of usual abode. See house of his usual abode.

house physician. A resident physician in a hospital; a physician available in a hotel for the treatment of guests.

house rules. The regulations provided by a hotel, apartment house, co-operative apartment, or lodging house, respecting the conduct of the guests and occupants and their visitors with reference to the safety of the premises and the comfort and convenience of all concerned.

house to house. Advertising by distribution of circulars and bills. 3 Am J2d Advertg § 11.

house trailer. See trailer.

Housing Administration. An agency of the United States within the Housing and Home Finance Agency, operating programs for the improvement of housing conditions and the creation of a sound mortgage market.

Housing and Home Finance Agency. A federal agency created for the purpose of co-ordinating federal functions in reference to housing projects.

See Housing Administration.

Housing laws. See public housing.

housing projects. Arrangements for the construction of a number of houses in a particular locality, often for the construction of public housing.

hovel. A hut; a shed.

hovering vessel. Any vessel found or kept off the coast of the United States, if from its history, conduct, character, or location, it is reasonable to believe that such vessel is being used or may be used to introduce or promote or facilitate the introduction or attempted introduction of merchandise into the United States in violation of the revenue laws. 19 USC §§ 1401(n), 1709(d).

howe. A word of the Old English for hill.

hoy. A small sailboat usually employed in and about a harbor for lightering larger craft.

hoymen. A man in charge of a hoy.

H. R. H. An abbreviation of his or her royal highness.

hstd. An unrecommended abbreviation of homestead.

huckster. A dealer in smaller items of merchandise; a peddler rather than a merchant. One who carries his stock with him, going house to house to make sales. Mays v Cincinnati, 1 Ohio St 268, 272.

huckstering. The business or trade carried on by a huckster.

hue and cry. "The old common-law process of pursuing with horn and with voice, all felons, and such as have dangerously wounded another." 4 Bl Comm 293.

See Statute of Hue and Cry; vociferatio.

huebra. A land measure used in Spanish-American grants signifying as much land as two oxen can plough up in a day.

huis. Same as huy.

huisher. Same as huissier.

huissier. (French.) A court usher; a process server.

hull. An outer covering. As a marine term, the body of a ship; the container of the cargo. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 304.

hullus. A hill.

humagium. A humid or moist place.

human. Of the form and characteristics of man.

human being. A person, male or female.

human body. See body.

humane. Kind, tender, compassionate. Disposed to eliminate the cause of suffering of man or beast.

Humane differs from the ordinary use of "merciful," in that it expresses active endeavors to find and relieve suffering, and especially to prevent it, while "merciful" expresses the disposition to spare one the suffering which might be inflicted. Willett v Willett, 197 Ky 663, 247 SW 739, 31 ALR 426, 428.

Humane Society. An organization for the prevention of cruelty to animals. 4 Am J2d Ani § 30 humanitarian considerations. Feelings of kindness and sympathy as illustrated by the motivation of the good Samaritan to minister to the sick and wounded at the roadside. 38 Am J1st Negl § 16.

humanitarian doctrine. A doctrine; unsupported in law, which would render one liable for the injurious consequences of an accident which was within his power to avert, because of the existence of a moral duty, where he was under no legal duty to act. Oklahoma Natural Gas Co. v Young (CA10 Okla) 116 F2d 720. Another term for the doctrine of "last clear chance." 38 Am J1st Negl § 215 human laws. Laws made by man; not divine law. Borden v State, 11 Ark 519.

humbug. An impostor; a deceiver; a cheat.

humdinger. A slang expression for a case decided in another jurisdiction, but well-considered and clearly in point.
howe. A word of the Old English for hill.

humiliating insults. Personal indignities, sometimes constituting a ground for divorce. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 150.

humiliation. The feeling that one is disgraced or made to seem weak, unimportant, foolish, or contemptible. An element of damages for tort, but measured by no precise rules of damages. 22 Am J2d Damg § 86.

hunc modum. See in hunc modum.

hundred. The round number of ten times ten. A superior division made up of ten towns or tithings, which, in turn, were each composed of ten families of freeholders. In some of the more northern counties these hundreds were called "wapentakes." See 1 Bl Comm 115.

See bailiffs of hundreds; century; Chiltern hundreds; wapentakes.

hundredarius. Same as hundredary.

hundredary. The chief officer of a hundred.

hundred court. A larger court-baron which was held for all the inhabitants of a particular hundred, instead of a manor. Not a court of record. See 3 Bl Comm 34.

hundreders. Those members of a hundred who were liable to jury service.

hundredfeh. Same as hundred-penny.

hundred gemote. An assembly of the freeholders of a hundred.

hundred lagh. The law of the hundred; liability of members of a hundred to attend the hundred court.

hundredman. Same as hundreders.

hundredors. Same as hundreders.

[573]

hundred-penny. A tax levied on a hundred and collected by the sheriff or by the lord of the hundred.

hung jury. A trial or petit jury which cannot reach a unanimous verdict or a verdict supported by the requisite number of jurors.

hunting. Looking for that which is lost. Looking for a person whose whereabouts for the time are unknown. The pursuit and taking of wild game.

See season; closed season.

hunting heirs. See heir hunter.

hunting license. A license required in most, if not all of the states, under statutes which usually prescribe the fee to be paid therefor and make the procuring of such a license a prerequisite to hunting wild game in the state. 24 Am J1st Game § 45.

hunting preserve. See game-preserve.

hunting privilege. See hunting license; hunting right.

hunting right. The right to hunt on the land of another; a profit a prendre. 25 Am J2d Ease § 4.

hurdle. A sledge on which a person convicted of high treason was dragged or drawn to the gallows. See 4 Bl Comm 92.

hurricane. A violent storm characterized by the vehemence of the wind and its sudden changes. Queen Ins. Co. v Hudnut Co. 8 Ind App 22, 26, 35 NE 397. Known in recent years as a storm originating in tropical seas, often moving to land in the temperate zone, causing terrific losses in life and property by the violence of the wind and the heavy rains which accompany it. Not to be confused with the cyclone or tornado.

See cyclone; tornado.

It appears that for the purposes of insurance, the terms "hurricane," "tornado," and "windstorm" are often treated as synonymous. See windstorm insurance.

hurricane insurance. See windstorm insurance.

hurst. A grove; a wooded place.

hurt. Noun: A very general term for an injury to the body or even the feelings. Montgomery v Lansing City Electric Railway Co. 103 Mich 46, 61 NW 543. In an application for life insurance:-an injury to the body causing an impairment of health or strength, or rendering the person more liable to contract disease or less able to resist its effects. Bancroft v Home Benefit Asso. 120 NY 14, 23 NE 997. Verb: To injure; to cause pain.

husband. Noun: The male of the two parties to a marital relationship. A farmer; a manager. Verb: To farm; to till the soil; to engage in husbandry. To conserve, for example, a supply of food in the wilderness.

See husbandry; ship's husband.

husband and wife. A natural and legal relation. The relation between a man and a woman created by their valid marriage to each other giving rise to the mutual rights; duties and liabilities arising out of that relation. 26 Am J1st H & W § 2.

See marriage; married woman; unity of husband and wife; wife.

husband de facto. A husband in conjugal relation, not living apart.

husband de jure. A husband by a legal marriage.

husband infra brachia. A husband both de jure and de facto.

husbandry. Care and management, especially of a farm. The business of a farmer, comprehending the various branches of agriculture. Estate of Slade, 122 Cal 434, 55 P 158. The business of a farmer, comprehending agriculture or tillage of the ground, the raising, managing, and fattening of cattle and other domestic animals, the management of the dairy and whatever the land produces. Slycord v Horn, 179 Iowa 936, 162 NW 249, 7 ALR 1285, 1290.

See animal husbandry; implements of husbandry.

husband's faculties. The financial condition and the ability and power of a husband to earn money, whether or not he exerts such power, considered with reference to the determination of the amount of an award of alimony. Fowler v Fowler, 61 Okla 280, 161 P 227.

husbrece. Same as housebreaking.

huscarle. A household or domestic servant.

husgablum. House rent; a tax levied on houses.

hustings. Same as hustings court.

hustings court. A city police court with jurisdiction in criminal cases similar to that of a justice of the peace. Smith v Commonwealth, 47 Va (6 Gratt) 696, 697. Formerly, the county court of the city of London.

There were also hustings courts at York, Winchester and Lincoln. See 3 Bl Comm 80.

hustler. An employee of a house of prostitution. 24 Am J2d Disord H § 35.

hutesium et clamor. Same as hue and cry.

hybrid class action. An action maintained by one on behalf of others, not as a typical class suit, since the requisite community of interest is absent, the interests of the members of the class being several, not joint or common, support for the action in such form existing in the presence of property in which all members of the class have an interest and a mutuality of interest in the question involved. Deckert v Independent Shares Corp. (DC Pa) 39 F Supp 592.

hydraulic mining. A method of mining free gold wherein a large volume of water is thrown with great force through a pipe or hose upon the sides of a hill, the gold-bearing earth and gravel thereby being washed down so that the gold can readily be separated. Jennison v Kirk, 98 US 453, 25 L Ed 240.

hydraulic power. Power developed by the movement and force of a liquid, such as the power applied to the brakes on a motor vehicle or to a lifting jack. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 108.

hydrophobia. See rabies.

hydroplane. An airplane equipped to land on water; a light motor boat with a flat bottom, such structure rendering it possible to skim at the surface of a water at high speed.

hydrostatic pressure. The pressure of water coming from a higher to a lower level. 1 Am J2d Adj L § 22. A phenomenon of Alaska due to the fact that the source of many of the streams is in the mountains at a high altitude.

hymen. The membrane that covers part of the opening of the vagina in a virgin. 44 Am J1st Rape § 3.

hypermetropia. An affection of the eye commonly described as farsightedness.

[574]

Baker v State, 91 Tex Crim 521, 240 SW 924, 22 ALR 1163, 1165.

hypersensitiveness. Undue sensitivity to some unpleasant thing, such as a surgical operation. Cody v John Hancock Mut. Life Ins. Co. 111 W Va 518, 163 So 4, 86 ALR 354.

hypersusceptibility. A peculiarity which renders a person subject to painful consequences of the administration of a certain drug, such as penicillin or novocain. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1211.

hypnotism. A state of artificial catalepsy or induced somnambulism. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 3.

hypobolum. A testamentary gift of a husband to his wife in addition to her dowry.

hypothec. Same as hypothecation.

hypotheca. (Roman law.) A mortgage of real property; a mortgage or pledge of personal property.

hypothecaria actio. Same as hypothecary action.

hypothecary action. A term known in Louisiana, being an action brought by a creditor against the property which has been hypothecated to him by his debtor, in order to have it seized and sold for the payment of the debt. Lovell v Cragin, 136 US 130, 142, 34 L Ed 372, 376, 10 S Ct 1024.

hypothecate. To enter into a contract whereby certain specified real or personal property is designated as security for the performance of an act, without any transfer of the possession of the property. Spect v Spect, 88 Cal 437, 26 P 203.

hypothecation. A Roman-law name for a pawn or pledge wherein the feigned pledge remained in the possession of the pledgor. 41 Am J1st Pldg & Col § 2. A contract whereby, without change of possession, specific property is designated as security for the payment of a debt or the performance of an obligation.

The contract does not include a transfer of possession as one of its essentials and, therefore, when, in addition to the contract of hypothecation, the debtor gives to his creditor the possession of the premises, he thereby pledges to him the land also as security for the debt, and confers upon him such rights as are incident to a pledge. Spect v Spect, 88 Cal 437, 26 P 203.

See general hypothecation; maritime hypothecation; tacit hypothecation.

hypothecation bond. The bond given under a contract of bottomry or respondentia.

See bottomry; respondentia. hypothèque. Same as hypothecation. hypothesi. See ex hypothesi.

hypothesis. A supposition, a proposition, or principle which is assumed or taken for granted, in order to draw a conclusion or inference for proof of the point in question; something not proved, but assumed for the purpose of argument, or to account for a fact or an occurrence. People v Ward, 105 Cal 335, 38 P 945, quoting Webster's Dictionary.

hypothetical case. A case, the facts of which are assumed for the purpose of explaining and discussing the law applicable.

hypothetical instruction. An instruction to the jury as to the law on a hypothetical statement of facts, submitting to the jury the question whether such facts are proved. 53 Am J1st Trial § 547.

hypothetical question. A question addressed to an expert witness, based upon assumed facts stated. 23 Am J2d Dep § 103. A question addressed to an expert witness which assumes or hypothesizes the existence of a certain state of facts and asks for the opinion of the expert witness based upon such facts. 31 Am J2d Expert § 53; 53 Am J1st Trial § 605. A question designed to elicit the opinion of an expert witness on a given condition or state of facts in evidence in the case, the things which counsel claims or assumes to have been proved being stated as an hypothesis and the opinion of the expert asked thereon. Shaughnessy v Holt, 236 Ill 485, 86 NE 256.

hysterical diathesis. A highly emotional state of congenital origin which may aggravate an injury. 22 Am J2d Damg § 123.

hysterotomy. Same as caesarean operation.

hythe. Same as hithe.

I

I. Roman numeral for 1.

The personal pronoun in the singular of the nominative case. Sufficiently connected with the person executing the instrument where it appears in the body of a deed, that he is bound, although his name does not appear above his signature. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 49.

I am satisfied. A phrase which, appearing in an acknowledgment, is insufficient as a statement of the officer's knowledge of identity of the person acknowledging. Newton Finance Corp. v Conner, 161 Tenn 441, 33 SW2d 95, 72 ALR 1286.

I believe. Not necessarily indicative of a conclusion; a phrase which, appearing in the testimony of a witness, indicates that the witness is speaking from observation and recollection or from what he remembers. See 31 Am J2d Ex & Op § 35.

ibi. There; at that place; then; thereupon.

ibid. Same as ibidem.

ibidem. In the same place; in that very place. In the same book.

Ibi esse poenam, ubi et nox est. Where the crime is, there the punishment should be also. A principle of the Roman law which precluded forfeiture as a punishment of posterity. See 4 Bl Comm 383.

Ibi jus, ibi remedium. A maxim of the common law. See equity will not suffer a wrong, etc.

Ibi semper debet fieri triatio ubi juratores meliorem possunt habere notitiam. The trial of an action ought always to be held in that place where the jurors can have the better information.

I. C. Abbreviation of inspected and condemned. Bergen v Riggs, 34 Ill 170.

I.C.C. Abbreviation of Interstate Commerce Commission.

ice. Frozen water; in its uncut state, partaking of the nature of real estate as an accession or increment to the land. 27 Am J1st Ice § 2. But capable of being transferred as personally, either in a cut or uncut state. 27 Am J1st Ice § 11. A profit a prendre in taking from the premises of another by right. 25 Am J2d Ease § 4. Underworld slang for diamonds.

icebox. A refrigerator in which ice is the cooling element.

ice cream. A frozen food consisting of cream or milk to which eggs and other food elements and flavorings are added. 35 Am J2d Food § 61.

ice hockey. See hockey.

ice house. A building or cave in which ice is stored for purpose of later use.

ice plant. A building in which artificial ice is frozen. Also, a place where ice is stored.

ice rack. A rack of wood construction, carried upon an ice wagon, and loaded with ice. Anno: 2 ALR 828.

ice skating. See skates; skating rink.

ice wagon. A truck carrying ice for delivery from door to door; familiar to all in an older day but fast disappearing with the extension of electric lines furnishing current for refrigerators.

icing cars. The supplying of old style refrigerator cars on railroads with ice.

ictus. A bruise; a blow; a stab; a thrust; a stroke.

ictus orbis. A blow or stroke making a bruise without breaking the skin.

id. It; that.

id certum est quod certum reddi potest. That is certain which can be made certain. 11 Am J2d B & N § 113; 17 Am J2d Contr § 77; 55 Am J1st V & P § 6; 57 Am J1st Wills § 35.

An agreement need not contain definitely and specifically every fact in detail to which the parties may be agreeing; it is sufficient if the phrases can be made certain by proof. 17 Am J2d Contr § 77.

Id certum est quod certum reddi potest, sed id magis certum est quod de semetipso est certum. That is certain which can be rendered certain, but that is more certain which is certain in itself.

idea. A concept; a product of the mind.

See copyright; literary property; patent.

ideal lien creditor. A term of the law of bankruptcy relative to the preferred status of a trustee in bankruptcy in asserting priorities; a hypothetical creditor holding a lien by legal or equitable proceedings at the date of bankruptcy, whereby the trustee in bankruptcy, being armed with such a lien by virtue of a provision of the Bankruptcy Act, is enabled to assert priorities as against secret liens, unfiled or unrecorded mortgages, and the like. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 857.

idem. The same; the same thing.

Idem agens et patiens esse non potest. A person cannot at the same time be the person acting and the person acted upon. Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen v Barnhill, 214 Ala 565, 108 So 456, 47 ALR 270, 281.

Idem est facere, et nolle prohibere cum possis. It is the same thing to do a thing as not to prohibit it when you can.

Idem est nihil dicere et insufficienter dicere. It is the same thing to say nothing as not to say enough.

Idem est non probari et non esse; non deficit jus sed probatio. A thing is the same when not proved as when non-existent; the law is not lacking, but the proof is.

Idem est scire aut scire debet aut potuisse. To know, to be bound to know and to be able to know, are all the same thing.

Idem non esse est non apparere. Not to exist is the same thing as not to appear.

The maxim applies to a purchaser, without notice of an unrecorded deed. Neslin v Wells Fargo & Co. (US) 14 Otto 428, 439, 26 L Ed 802, 806.

idem per idem. The same for the same; like for like.

idem quod. The same as.

Idem semper antecedenti proximo refertur. "Idem" (the same) always refers to the immediate antecedent. Stewart v Stewart (NY) 7 Johns Ch 229, 248.

idem sonans. The same sound. The doctrine, applicable in all legal proceedings, that the use of a name being merely to designate the person intended, such object is fully accomplished where the name given to him has the same sound as his true name. State v Wahl, 118 Kan 771, 236 P 652. The doctrine that in all proceedings, whether civil or criminal, a mistake in spelling the name of a party is immaterial if both the correct and the incorrect mode of spelling has the same sound. Bennett v Winegar, 103 Neb 843, 174 NW 512. A doctrine applied in determining the effect of mistakes as to the names of parties in entering, docketing, and indexing of judgments, with the result that if two names may be sounded alike without doing violence to the power of the letters formed in the variant orthography, the variance is immaterial. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 111.

Names are idem sonans if the attentive ear find difficulty is distinguishing them when pronounced, or if common and long-continued usage has by corruption or abbreviation made them identical in pronunciation. 38 Am J1st Name § 36.

identical. The same exactly. A word sometimes construed according to the context in which it appears. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 86.

Under a statute which provides that the rights of inheritance of the heirs of the deceased spouse of an intestate shall accrue only where the intestate dies possessed of the "identical" property which came from such deceased spouse, the word "identical" will not be given such a strict and literal construction as to deprive the statute of meaning; a mere change in the evidence of ownership does not require the conclusion that the property owned by an intestate at death is not the "identical" property acquired from a deceased spouse. Millar v Mount Castle, 161 Ohio St 409, 119 NE2d 626, 49 ALR2d 381.

identical causes of action. See identity of causes of action.

identical crimes. See identity of offenses.

identical goods. See fungible goods.

identical offenses. See identity of offenses.

identical parties. See identity of parties.

identical property. See fungible goods; identical.

identifiable event. Within the rule that a deductible loss for income tax purposes based on the worthlessness of a stock must be one fixed by an "identifiable event":—an incident or an occurrence that points to or indicates a loss. Industrial Rayon Corp. v Commissioner (CA6) 94 F2d 383; Bartlett v Commissioner of Internal Revenue (CA4) 114 F2d 634.

identification. The means or act of identifying a person, an instrument, or property. Proof that a person or thing is the person or thing it is supposed or represented to be. A Roman law term for imputable negligence. Duval v Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Co. 134 NC 331, 46 SE 750.

identification of instrument. See identification.

identifying number. See account number.

identifying trust fund. See following trust fund or property.

Identitas vera colligitur ex multitudine signorum. True identity is gathered from a multitude of signs.

identitate nominis. A writ which lay for the release of a prisoner who had been committed under the same name as that of the real offender.

identity. Sameness; the state of being the same as someone or something assumed, described, or represented. For some purposes, the means of identification. State v Evjue, 253 Wis 146, 33 NW2d 305, 13 ALR2d 1201.

identity certificate. See certificate of identity.

identity of causes of action. The same cause of action in two cases, an essential element of res judicata. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 363. Two actions asserting the same rights, demanding the same relief, and founded on the same facts. Anno: 31 ALR2d 446 § 3. Not necessarily a matter of identity of subject matter. Creek v Laski, 248 Mich 425, 227 NW 817, 65 ALR 1113. Tested generally according to whether or not the same evidence would sustain both causes of action. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 365.

A prerequisite to a plea of abatement on the ground of prior action pending; a term characterizing two actions of the same character, for the same cause and relief, and in all respects identical. McAllister v McAllister, 147 Fla 647, 3 So 2d 351. Actions of the same character, for the same cause and relief, and in all respects identical, or actions having the same subject matter, although not demanding exactly the same specific relief. 1 Am J2d Abat & R § 26.

Identity exists irrespective of whether the same specific relief be demanded, if the subject matter of both actions is the same, the ultimate inquiry being whether a judgment in the one action such being rendered first, will be conclusive on the parties with respect to the matters involved in the second. 1 Am J2d Abat & R § 26.

identity of interests. See identity of parties.

identity of issues. See identical causes of action.

identity of legal personalities. The unity of husband and wife under the common law. 26 Am J1st H & W § 3.

identity of offenses. A matter of prior jeopardy, the common law rule and the constitutional provisions against second jeopardy applying only to a second prosecution for the same act and crime, both in law and in fact, on which the first prosecution was based; the test being whether the two offenses are essentially independent and distinct or notwhether one offense can be committed without necessarily committing the other. State v Westbrook, 79 Ariz 116, 285 P2d 161. Another test being whether the same evidence is required to prove the offenses. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 182.

As the term "same offense" is used in the constitutional provision that no person shall be twice put in jeopardy for the same offense, or another offense of which the first is a necessary element and constitutes an essential part. People v Stephens, 79 Cal 428, 21 P 856.

[577]

If a man simultaneously commits two offenses, either of which may be committed without the other and is then prosecuted for each of the offenses, even if the two prosecutions are based on the same acts, he is not twice put in jeopardy for the same offense; a fortiori, if the two prosecutions are based on different acts though committed simultaneously. Berry v United States, 72 App DC 229, 113 F2d 183. A matter of res judicata.

The plea of res judicata may be available in cases where there is no such identity of offenses in the two prosecutions that a plea of former jeopardy could be sustained. Anno: 147 ALR 992.

identity of parties. The prerequisite to joinder of causes of action that all causes should affect all parties to the action, both parties defendant and parties plaintiff. State ex rel. Alderson v Halbert, 133 W Va 337, 56 SE2d 114. Not a mere matter of form, but of substance, since parties nominally the same may be, in legal effect different; and parties nominally different may be, in legal effect, the same. Chicago Rock Island & Pacific R. Co. v Schendel, 270 US 611, 70 L Ed 757, 46 S Ct 420, 53 ALR 1265. A prerequisite to a plea of abatement on the ground of prior action pending; the same parties on both sides in two or more actions, appearing in the same capacity in each action, and representing the same interest. 1 Am J2d Abat & R § 26.

identity of the person. A collateral issue which may be pleaded in bar of execution after a judgment of attainder against the defendant, whereby the question is raised as to whether he is the same person who was thus attained. See 4 Bl Comm 396.

See identity of parties.

ideo. Therefore; on that account.

ideo consideratum est. Therefore it is considered.

Ideo consideratum est per curiam. Therefore, it is considered by the court. Prohibitions Del Roy (Eng) 12 Coke's Rep 63.

ides. The name given under the ancient Roman calendar to the 15th day of the months of March, May, July, and October and to the 13th day of all the other months. Rives v Guthrie, 46 NC 84.

"Beware the ides of March." The warning to Caesar-in Act I, Scene II, of Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar."

id est. That is; it is; that is to say.

idiochira. A privately executed instrument.

idiocy. A total absence of mind or reason; a condition of hopeless mental incapacity existing from birth. Slaughter v Heath, 127 Ga 787, 57 SE 69; Owing's Case (Md) 1 Bland Ch 370.

idiopathic disease. A disease which develops gradually, or at least imperceptibly, and, while it may be attributable to external conditions, is also dependent in part on conditions inherent in the individual; a disease which cannot be regarded as an injury by accident. Iwanicki v State Industrial Acci. Com. 104 Or 650, 205 P 990, 29 ALR 682, 688.

idiosyncrasy. A peculiarity in the temperament of a person; an element of individuality.

See hypersusceptibility.

idiot. One in the state of idiocy.

See idiocy.

idiots a casu et infirmitate. An idiot by accident and infirmity.

idiots a nativitate. An idiot from birth, a natural fool,—a person who was without understanding from the time of his birth, and therefore is presumed by law never likely to attain any. See 1 Bl Comm 302.

idiots inquirendo. See de idiota inquirendo.

idle. Not employed. In the case of an industrial plant, not operating in production. Anno: 87 ALR 1144.

idle funds. Unappropriated public funds. Uninvested funds in a trust.

idoneare. To prove one's own innocence; to disprove one's own guilt.

idoneus. Appropriate; fit; capable; adequate; suitable; qualified.

idonetas. Fitness; adequacy; capability.

Id perfectum est quod ex omnibus suis partibus constat. That is perfect which is correct in all of its parts.

Id possumus quod de jure possumus. We may do that which we are able to do lawfully.

Id quod est magis remotum, non trahit ad se quod est magis junctum, sed e contrario in omni casu. That which is more remote does not draw to itself that which is more proximate, but the contrary, in every case.

Id quod nostrum est, sine facto nostro, ad alium transferri non potest. That which is ours cannot be transferred to another without our act.

Id solum nostrum quod debitis deductis nostrum est. That only is ours which is ours after the deduction of our debts.

Id tantum possumus quod de jure possumus. We may do only so much as we are able to do lawfully.

Id tenementum dici potest socagium. That tenure may be called socage. See 2 Bl Comm 79.

idus. Same as ides.

i. e. An abbreviation of id est, meaning that is; that is to say.

if. A word implying a condition; showing that the expectation of a fulfilment is uncertain, and presupposing that it may not occur. Doe v Wilson, 20 Miss 12 Smedes & M 498, 504. Ordinarily, a term of contingency in a will. 57 Am J1st Wills §§ 1222, 1333. An apt term in a contract to indicate a condition. 17 Am J2d Contr § 320.

if affirmed. A stipulation in an appeal bond, meaning finally affirmed, so that the bond guarantees the payment of the judgment if affirmed finally, even though it may have been first reversed and then affirmed on rehearing or, in the case of an appeal to an intermediate court, it may have been reversed there but subsequently affirmed on a final appeal to the highest court. 5 Am J2d A & E § 1031.

[578]

if any. In reference to children of a life tenant:having the effect of making a remainder contingent. Anno: 57 ALR2d 128.

The charter of a bridge company requiring the payment of damages "if any," by reason of the erection of the bridge, means all damages including consequential damages. Buckwalter v Black Rock Bridge Co. 38 Pa 281.

if any remains. A clause which, appearing in a will following a gift of personal property, shows the testator's intention to give the legatee the specific property, with the right to use it for his or her benefit and to consume it in such use if his or her judgment should dictate or his or her necessities compel that course. Anno: 108 ALR 551, 558, 564.

if appeal is dismissed. A stipulation in an appeal bond, the effect of which may be to render the sureties liable upon dismissal of the appeal, even though the dismissal be erroneous, but not to render them liable where the writ of error is merely quashed for formal defect in the writ itself, since such would not be a disposal of the cause itself. 5 Am J2d A & E § 1031.

"if" condition. A condition which goes to the existence of an obligation. 11 Am J2d B & N § 141.

if living at his death. A reference to children of a life tenant to whom the remainder is bequeathed which has the effect of making the remainder contingent. Collins v Crawford (Mo) 103 SW 537, affd on reh 214 Mo 167, 112 SW 538.

I. F. L. W. U. Abbreviation of International Fur and Leatherworkers Union.

if no agreement is reached. A clause having reference to condemnation of property under the power of eminent domain; the condition of absence of agreement, not imposing upon the public body or condemner the duty of attempting to acquire the property by purchase. Re New York, 45 Misc 184, 91 NYS 987.

Other authority adheres to a general principle that a bona fide effort to purchase the property by agreement is a condition precedent to the initiation of condemnation proceedings. 27 Am J2d Em D § 387.

if practicable. A condition which looks to the aspects of time, space, and physical effort.

As used in a traffic regulation providing it to be the duty of motorists passing in opposite directions to reasonably turn to the right so as to give half the traveled portion of the highway "if practicable" and a fair and equal opportunity to the person so met to pass, the term is not restricted in operation to the physical condition of the highway, but may properly be regarded as applying also to situations created by the person met as by invasion by the latter of the operator's right side of the road, of itself or in conjunction with other circumstances rendering compliance with the statutory direction impracticable. Gilmartin v D. & N. Transp. Co. 123 Conn 127, 193 A 726, 113 ALR 1322.

if you believe. A phrase used in formulating a hypothetical instruction to jury. 53 Am J1st Trial § 549.

iglise. Same as eglise.

ignis judicium. Trial by fire.

ignitegium. Same as curfew.

ignition. Catching on fire; setting on fire; the means by which a fire is set. The device in an internal combustion engine which ignites the explosive mixture in the cylinder. The instrument on the instrument panel of a motor vehicle whereby the device for igniting is actuated, such instrument usually being provided with a lock, so that the motor can be started only by the use of a key. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 29.

ignition lock. A lock placed in the instrumentality of a motor vehicle known as the ignition, which, when used, as usually required by statute, is a deterrent to theft and also a safety device in the respect that it prevents interference with the vehicle's stationary condition and mechanical immobility. Kass v Schneiderman, 21 Misc 2d 518, 197 NYS2d 979.

ignominy. Infamy, reproach, dishonor, public disgrace; public hatred or detestation. Mahanke v Cleland, 76 Iowa 401.

See public ignominy.

ignoramus. Noun: An ignorant person; a vain pretender to knowledge; a dunce. See Pentuff v Park, 194 NC 146, 138 SE 616, 53 ALR 626. Verb: Not to know; to take no notice. A word indorsed by the grand jury on the back of the bill when they thought the charge it made was groundless, the intimation being that it might be true but that they did not know. Commonwealth v Miller (Pa) 2 Ashm 61.

ignorance. A passive state, a want of knowledge. Not a matter of being mistaken. Lawrence v Beaubien, 18 SCL (2 Bail) 623, 649.

ignorance of fact. Literally, want of knowledge. Equivalent in legal terminology to "error of fact," occurring either when some fact, which really exists, is unknown, or when some fact, which is supposed to exist, really does not exist.

ignorance of the law. An expression having reference for the purpose of the presumption that every one knows the law and the corollary that ignorance of the law is no defense, to knowledge of the law of one's own state or country, not the laws of other states or other countries. Haven v Foster, 26 Mass 112.

ignorance of the law is no excuse. A maxim applicable in criminal cases. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 94. A maxim applicable in both civil and criminal cases. 29 Am J2d Ev § 222. A maxim of equity. 27 Am J2d Equity § 37.

"Law" for the purposes of the maxim is general law, the ordinary law of the country. The maxim has no application to a private law in support of a private right. Freichnecht v Meyer, 39 NJ Eq 551, 560.

ignorantia. Ignorance.

Ignorantia eorum quae scire tenetur non excusat. Ignorance of those things which a person is deemed to know is no excuse.

Ignorantia excusatur, non juris sed facti. Ignorance excuses, that is, ignorance of fact, but not ignorance of law.

Ignorantia facti excusat. Ignorance of fact is an excuse.

[579]

Ignorantia facti excusat, ignorantia juris non excusat. Ignorance of fact excuses, ignorance of the law does not excuse. Scott v Ford, 45 Or 531, 78 P 742.

Ignorantia iudicis est calamitas innocentis. The ignorance of a judge is the misfortune of an innocent person.

Ignorantia juris haud excusat. Ignorance of the law is by no means an excuse. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 94.

Ignorantia juris neminem excusat. Ignorance of the law excuses no one. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 94.

Ignorantia juris non excusat. Ignorance of the law does not excuse. Freichnecht v Meyer, 39 NJ Eq 551, 560; Scott v Ford, 45 Or 531, 80 P 899.

Ignorantia juris quod quisque tenetur scire, neminem excusat. Ignorance of the law, which everyone is presumed to know, does not excuse. Haven v Foster, 26 Mass (9 Pick) 112. Rankin v Mortimere (Pa) 7 Watts 372, 374.

Ignorantia juris sui non praejudicat juri. Ignorance of one's own right does not prejudice the right.

Ignorantia legis neminem excusat. Ignorance of the law excuses no one. 29 Am J2d Ev § 222.

Ignorantia legis non excusat. Ignorance of the law does not excuse. 29 Am J2d Ev § 222.

Ignorantia praesumitur ubi scientia non probatur. Ignorance is presumed when knowledge is not proved. Ignorance of the law is no defense. 2 Am J2d Adult § 15.

ignorare. To be ignorant of; to ignore.

Ignorare legis est culpa. To be ignorant of the law is negligence.

Ignorare legis est lata culpa. To be ignorant of the law is gross negligence.

ignoratio elenchi. In argument, a mistake or misapprehension of the question under discussion. Statute for Distribution (Va) Wythe 302, 309.

Ignoratis terminis artis, ignoratur et ars. The terms employed in an art being unknown, the art is also unknown.

ignore. In common parlance, to refuse to take notice, to refuse to consider. To reject or throw out as false or unfounded, as where a grand jury refuses to indict, thereby rejecting the bill. See Ex parte Morton, 69 Ark 48, 51, 60 SW 307.

Ignoscitur ei qui sanguinem suum qualiter redemptum voluit. He is excused who chooses to defend his own life. See 1 Bl Comm 131.

ignotum per ignotius. That which is unknown by one who is still more unknown.

iisdem terminis. See in iisdem terminis.

Ikenild Street. One of the four great ancient Roman roads in England.

il. He; it.

il covient. It is fitting.

Il est communement dit. It is commonly said.

ilet. A small island.

illegal. Unlawful; contrary to law; illicit. State v Haynorth, 35 Tenn 64, 65.

See illicit; unlawful.

illegal acts. A very general and all inclusive term, ineffective, in an injunction, to describe the acts to be restrained. Anno: 120 ALR 349, 124 ALR 776, 127 ALR 888.

illegal agreement. See illegal contract.

illegal ballot. A ballot which because of the method of preparation, the method of marking, or the want of qualification of the voter, should not be counted in determining the result of an election. 26 Am J2d Elect §§ 291 et seq. A ballot which is not to be counted, because not received according to law. 26 Am J2d Elect § 292.

illegal branding. The statutory offense of branding or marking cattle without the consent of the owner, and with intent to defraud. State v Hall, 27 Tex 333. The misbranding of a product for the purpose of deceiving the public. 56 Am J1st Wts & L § 64.

illegal conditions. See illegal contract.

illegal consideration. An act or forbearance, or a promise to act or forbear, which is contrary to law or public policy. 17 Am J2d Contr § 157.

An illegal consideration is insufficient to support a contract, and an agreement founded upon it is illegal. Smith v Southwestern Bell Tel. Co. (Okla) 349 P2d 646, 83 ALR2d 454.

illegal contract. An agreement contrary to law, morality, or public policy. 17 Am J2d Contr § 156. A contract founded upon a consideration contrary to good morals, against the principles of sound public policy, in fraud, or in contravention of the provisions of some statute. Goodrich v Tenney, 144 Ill 422, 33 NE 44; Ovitt v Smith, 68 Vt 35, 33 A 769. Precisely, an agreement, the intent of which conflicts with a statute, a well-clarified rule of the law set forth by judicial decision, or the recognized rights of others so as to threaten the life, disturb the peace, or endanger the safety or morals of other citizens. Win. Lindeke Land Co. v Kalman, 190 Minn 601, 252 NW 650, 93 ALR 1393.

illegal entry. A federal offense by an alien entering the United States at an unauthorized time or place, or to elude examination or inspection, or to obtain entry fraudulently. 8 USC § 1325.

illegal fee. A fee collected by a public officer for private gain, whether collected from a private individual or from the state, a county, or a municipality. Skeen v Craig, 31 Utah 20, 86 P 487.

illegal gaming. The making of a wager, the placing of bets, in violation of law.

The term implies gain and loss between the parties by betting such as would excite a spirit of cupidity. Hankins v Ottinger 115 Cal 454, 47 P 254.

illegal interest. Usury; interest in excess of the rate allowed by law. 30 Am J Rev ed Int § 2.

[580]

illegality. Unlawfulness; the state of being illegal.

The word is not synonymous with irregularity. Illegality denotes a radical defect, while irregularity is a want of adherence to some prescribed rule or mode of proceeding. United States v Salomon (DC La) 231 F 461, aff (Ca5) 231 F 928.

illegality of contract. See illegal contract.

illegally procured. Procured in violation of law.

As used in the naturalization law providing for the cancellation of a certificate "unlawfully procured," the term means procured by subornation or some other illegal means used to impose upon the court; it does not mean that the certificate was issued through error of law. See United States v Luria (DC NY) 184 F 643.

illegal operation. A surgical operation in violation of law, such as an abortion.

illegal transaction. Something beyond a mere intent to violate the law. An illegal intention, accompanied by an act which is criminal or prohibited by law. Smith v Blachley, 188 Pa 550, 41 A 619.

See illegal contract.

illegal vote. See illegal ballot; illegal voting.

illegal voting. A criminal offense consisting, not merely in voting when not possessed of the proper qualifications, but in doing so wilfully, that is, designedly or purposely, involving either knowledge of disqualification or a reckless disregard of the question of qualification. 26 Am J2d Elect § 375.

illegitimate. Broadly, contrary to law. Usually understood in the narrower sense of being born out of wedlock.

See illegitimate child.

illegitimate child. A natural child, a child born out of wedlock, or born to a married woman under conditions where the presumption of legitimacy is not conclusive and has been rebutted. 10 Am J2d Bast § 1. Not an "heir" within the meaning of a devise or bequest to "heirs," unless the context indicates an intent to consider such child as included or a statute gives an illegitimate child the status of an heir. 10 Am J2d Bast § 135. Not an "heir" of either parent, for the purposes of descent, unless a right of inheritance has been conferred upon such child by statute. 10 Am J2d Bast § 146. Not "issue" within the meaning of such term in the designation of the beneficiary of a gift, unless the intention to include an illegitimate child is clearly deducible from the entire context. 10 Am J2d Bast § 136. Not included in a legacy or devise to "children," unless it appears clearly and unmistakably in other parts of the instrument that the intention of the testators was to include an illegitimate child or children. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1074.

Statutes which provide generally for the distribution of intestate property of a deceased person among certain classes of persons without mentioning illegitimates, are construed to refer to legitimates only, unless there is something in the language of the particular statute which indicates a different intention on the part of the legislature. Anno: 48 ALR2d 764, § [3c]; 10 Am J2d Bast § 149. But the term "issue" appearing in a statute of descent may include children born out of wedlock, where they are capable of inheriting. 10 Am J2d Bast § 149.

The term "illegitimate child" shall not be used in any local law, ordinance, or resolution, or in any public or judicial proceeding, or in any process, notice, order, judgment, record, or other public document or paper, but there shall be used in place of such term the expression "child born out of wedlock." New York General Construction L § 59.

illegitimate war. An unlawful war under the law of nations; conquest and depredation. 56 Am J1st War § 5.

Ille non habet, non dat. A person cannot grant a thing which he has not. Pennock v Coe (US) 23 How 117, 16 L Ed 436, 441.

illeviable. Not leviable; exempt from levy.

ill fame. Bad; repute.

See house of ill fame.

illicenciatus. Unlicensed; not licensed or permitted.

illicit. Unlawful; illegal; prohibited or forbidden by law. State v Miller, 60 Vt 90, 92, 12 A 526.

illicit cohabitation. A term more narrow than illicit intercourse; living together as man and wife, though not married. Thomas v United States (DC Mass) 14 F2d 229.

illicite. Unlawfully; illegally.

illicit intercourse. See adultery; fornication; illicit cohabitation.

illicit relation. Literally, an illegal relation; usually having reference to an illegal sexual relation, such as adultery or illicit cohabitation.

illicitum collegium. (Civil law.) An unlawful corporation,—a voluntary association of persons attempting to form a corporation contrary to law. See 1 Bl Comm 472.

Illinois Rule of Liquidation. Same as Grosscup Rule.

illiteracy. Inability to read or write; want of education. The state of one who is illiterate.

See illiterate.

illiterate. Unlettered; ignorant of letters or books; untaught, unlearned; uninstructed in science.

A person who can sign his name, may still be illiterate. Hence it is improper to describe a person who cannot sign his name by the word "illiterate." Re Succession of Carroll, 28 La Ann 388, 389.

illiterate person. See illiteracy; illiterate.

illness. Sickness; disease. For some purposes inclusive of both severe and slight attacks, even attacks of a less grave and serious character than a disease. Connecticut Mut. Life Ins. Co. v Union Trust Co. 112 US 250, 259, 28 L Ed 708, 712, 5 S Ct 119. For the purposes of an application for life insurance, a disease or ailment of such a character as to affect the general soundness and health of the system seriously, and not a mere temporary indisposition, which does not tend to undermine or weaken the constitution of the applicant. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. v Brubaker, 78 Kan 146, 96 P 62.

See confined; disease; last illness; serious ailment; serious illness; severe illness; sickness.

illocable. Not capable of being hired or let out to hire. ill treatment. Cruelty; abuse. Unfairness.

illud. That; that thing.

Illud dici poterit foedum militare. That shall be called military tenure. See 2 Bl Comm 79.

Illud, quod alias licitum non est necessitas facit licitum; et necessitas inducit privilegium quod jure

[581]

privatur. That which is otherwise not lawful, necessity makes lawful; for necessity produces a privilege which dispenses with law.

Illud, quod alteri unitur extinguitur neque amplius per se vacare licet. That which is united to another thing is extinguished, nor can it again be detached.

illuminated signs. Advertising signs characterized by flashing, intermittent, or steady lights. Anno: 72 ALR 374.

illuminating oil. See kerosene.

illumination of way. See lighting way.

illusion. That which a person believes that he sees, but which he does not really see. A false conception.

See hallucination.

illusory. Permeated with illusion; deceiving.

illusory appointment. An insubstantial or merely nominal disposition of property made under a power of appointment. 41 Am J1st Pow § 64.

illusory promise. A promise so conditioned that the performance thereof is a matter of promisor's option, such promise not being sufficient as consideration for another promise. 17 Am J2d Contr § 105.

illustrious. An honorary designation applied to a person who has been born to rank or has attained rank. A term of infrequent use in the United States, except in fraternal orders.

ill will. See malice.

imaginary damages. A paradoxical term sometimes applied to punitive or exemplary damages. 22 Am J2d Damg § 236.

imagine. To conceive in the mind.

iman. A Mohammedan chief.

imbargo. Same as embargo.

imbasing of money. Same as debasing coin.

imbecile. A person weak or decrepit in mind. Campbell v Campbell, 130 Ill 466, 22 NE 620. A person with a pronounced mental deficiency. In loose usage, a stupid or very foolish person.

See imbecility.

imbecility. A term inclusive of many conditions and forms of mental weakness, which may or may not amount to incompetency. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 3.

See imbecile.

imbedded property. Property embedded in the earth. 1 Am J2d Aband § 4. Precisely, property other than gold or silver, found imbedded in the soil under circumstances indicating that some person had placed it where found. Ferguson v Ray, 44 Or 557, 77 P 600.

imbezzle. Same as embezzle.

imbladare. To sow grain.

imbracery. Same as embracery.

imitation. Sometime contrived with the purpose of having it appear to be the same as another product. 35 Am J2d Foods § 19.

See colorable imitation.

immaterial. Not material; not pertinent; of no consequence.

immaterial allegation. An unessential allegation in a pleading; an allegation which can be stricken from the pleading without leaving it insufficient; an allegation which need not be proved or disproved. Green v Palmer, 15 Cal 411, 416.

immaterial alteration. An alteration of an instrument which does not change its legal effect. An alteration of an instrument which does not vary, or have any tendency to vary, the meaning in any essential particular, does not change in any manner the rights or interests, duties or obligations, of either of the parties, and does not mislead any person. 4 Am J2d Alt Inst § 5.

immaterial averment. Same as immaterial allegation.

immaterial evidence. Evidence which is offered to prove or disprove a fact or proposition which is not at issue. 29 Am J2d Ev § 252.

See material evidence.

immaterial issue. An issue which occurs where a material allegation in the pleadings is not answered, but an issue is taken on some point which will not determine the merits of the case, so that the court must be at a loss to determine for which of the parties to give judgment. Garland v Davis (US) 4 How 131, 146, 11 L Ed 907, 914.

immaterial representation. A representation in an application for insurance, particularly life or accident insurance, concerning a matter which, if truly stated by the applicant, would not prompt further inquiry by the insurer, does not increase the chance of loss so substantially as to bring about the rejection of the risk or the charging of an increased premium, and is not expressly made material by the terms of the contract of insurance. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 701.

immaterial variance. A variance between pleading and proof which is not so substantial as to mislead the adverse party to his prejudice in maintaining his cause of action or defense. 41 Am J1st Pl § 371.

immature claim. A claim upon an obligation which is not due.

immature crop. See growing crop.

immaturity. Lacking discretion or judgment because of youth. Lacking full growth. The quality of an obligation arising from the fact that it is not yet due or payable.

immediate. A word of qualification of both time and distance but having no one precise signification in either respect, being relative to the event. People v Pool, 27 Cal 573. As the word appears in a provision for forwarding papers, contained in a liability insurance policy:—with reasonable dispatch. Harmon v Farm Bureau Mut. Auto. Ins. Co. 172 Va 61, 200 SE 616.

With reference to locality the word imports not far apart or distant, but like the word presence, it is elastic and is used relatively. In robbery, it is dependent on circumstances or conditions; the distance which property might intervene between the victim and the property taken might vary considerably and still be in the "immediate" presence of the victim. People v Lavender, 137 Cal App 582, 31 P2d 439.

immediate cause of injury. A phrase often used in defining proximate cause but which itself is incapable of precise definition. Rodgers v Missouri Pacific Railway Co. 75 Kan 222, 88 P 885.

immediate death. Death resulting within a short time after an injury, not necessarily instantaneously. 22 Am J2d Dth § 26.

[582]

As an example of an "immediate" rather than an "instantaneous" death, one court has suggested the situation in which a blow on the head produces unconsciousness and renders the victim incapable of intelligent thought, speech, or action for several minutes until he dies. Sawyer v Perry, 88 Me 42, 33 A 660. A death resulting about five and one half days after injury, during which time the victim never regained consciousness, has been held to come within a statute authorizing an action for injuries causing "immediate" death. Farrington v Stoddard (CAI Me) 115 F2d 96, 131 ALR 1344.

immediate delivery. A delivery with expedition, with reasonable haste consistent with fair business activity. 46 Am J1st Sales § 163.

The term does not mean a delivery instanter; the character of the property, its situation, and all the circumstances must be taken into consideration in determining whether there was a delivery within a reasonable time so as to meet the requirement of the statute, and this will often be a question of fact for the jury. Feeley v Boyd, 143 Cal 282, 76 P 1029.

immediate descent. In one sense of the term, a descent cast directly upon the heir, as where the descent is to a grandson of the intestate, the father or intermediate person being dead. In another and distinct sense, a descent directly from the intestate without intervening link or degree of consanguinity, as from father to son, but not from grandfather to grandson, the latter descent being mediate from this standpoint. Lessee of Levy v M'Cartee (US) 6 Pet 102, 8 L Ed 334.

immediate disability. A disability which follows directly from an accidental hurt, within such time as the processes of nature consume in bringing the person affected to a state of incapacity. Rathbun v Globe Indem. Co. 107 Neb 18, 184 NW 903, 24 ALR 191, 201 (term as used in an accident insurance policy).

See immediate injury.

immediate family. As the word appears in a mutual benefit certificate or in the rules and regulations of a mutual benefit society:—those members of the same household to which the insured belongs who are bound together by ties of relationship, such as one's parents, wife, children, brothers and sisters, excluding no one within the household for the reason only that he or she is not one whom the head of the family is legally bound to support. 36 Am J2d Frat O § 144.

immediate hazard. As a situation for the application of a rule of the road for yielding the right of way, the imminence of collision when the relative speeds and distances of the two vehicles are considered; circumstances from which it must appear to a person of ordinary prudence in the position of a driver that if the two vehicles continue on their respective courses at the same rate of speed, a collision is probable. 7 Am J2d Auto § 202.

immediate injury. An injury resulting directly from an act rather than an injury ensuing the act. Mulchanock v Whitehall Cement Manufacturing Co. 253 Pa 262, 98 A 554.

See immediately disability.

immediately. Promptly, with expedition, with reasonable haste consistent with fair business activity. 46 Am J1st Sales § 163. As used in a request made to a carrier for freight cars:—at once. 13 Am J2d Car § 153. As an adverb of time in the clause of an accident policy providing for certain indemnity in case of injury causing total disability "immediately":—proximity of time with the injury, as presently, or without any substantial interval between the accident and the disability. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1526. As a limitation of time for the commencement of an action:—within a reasonable time and without unnecessary delay. Putnam v Putnam, 86 Mont 135, 282 P 855.

Courts, looking at the substance of contracts and statutes, have, during the last two centuries, repeatedly declared that the word "immediately," although in strictness it excludes all meantimes, yet to make good the deeds and intents of the parties, it shall be construed "such convenient time as is reasonably requisite for doing the thing." Anno: 16 ALR 609.

immediately adjacent. Adjoining or abutting, rather than in the vicinity. Parsons v Wethersfield, 135 Conn 24, 60 A2d 771, 4 ALR2d 330 (term in a statutory provision requiring a unanimous vote of the commission on a question of rezoning property over the protest of 20 per cent of the owners of lots "immediately adjacent").

immediately due at the option of the holder. Immediately due upon or after the holder's election to exercise the option. Damet v Aetna Life Ins. Co. 71 Okla 122, 179 P 760, 5 ALR 434.

immediately on demand. Payment after a reasonable opportunity for complying with the demand. 40 Am J1st Paym § 15.

immediate medical assistance. As the word appears in a "first-aid" clause in a liability insurance policy:—within a reasonable time after the accident, considering the facts and circumstances of the particular case. United States Casualty Co. v Johnston Drilling Co. 161 Ark 158, 255 SW 890, 34 ALR 727.

immediate notice of defects. Notice within a reasonable time. Anno: 41 ALR2d 853 (notice of defects constituting breach of warranty).

immediate notice of dishonor. A broad characterization of the requirements of the Negotiable Instruments Law, which provides that unless delay is excused, notice of dishonor must be given within the time fixed by the statute. Legal Discount Corp. v Martin Hardware Co. 199 Wash 476, 91 P2d 1010, 129 ALR 420 (having reference to Uniform Negotiable Instruments L § 102).

immediate notice of loss. Notice to insurer:—notice given with reasonable dispatch, and within a reasonable time, in view of all the facts and circumstances of the case, 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1379; notice within such convenient time as is reasonably requisite for communication, after knowledge of the fact comes to the person charged with the duty of giving the notice. Anno: 16 ALR 609. Automobile theft insurance: notice given with due diligence and reasonable promptness under the circumstances of the case. Friedman v Orient Ins. Co. 278 Mass 596, 180 NE 617. Fidelity bond or policy of fidelity insurance. Notice within such time after the discovery of the loss as is reasonable under all the circumstances of the case. Anno: 23 ALR2d 1083.

immediate payment. See immediately on demand.

immediate surgical relief. As the expression appears in a "first-aid" clause of a liability insurance policy:

[583]

—emergency or firsthand relief, as distinguished from relief in the usual and ordinary course of treatment of the victim of an accident continued for some time in order to restore him, if possible, to his normal condition. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1443.

immediately upon arrival. Phrase appearing in direction to factor to sell:—as soon after arrival as a sale can be made, irrespective of loss, the factor being precluded from exercising his discretion. Courcier v Ritter (CC Pa) F Cas No 3282.

immediate vicinity. A place adjoining or abutting. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 243. An expression not capable of precise definition, its meaning depending upon the context in which it appears, sometimes indicating actual contact, while at other times and in other connections applicable even where there is an intervening space between the objects or tracts of real estate under consideration. Smith v Furbish, 68 NH 123, 44 A 398.

immemorial. Before the time of legal memory; time out of mind. Kripp v Curbs, 71 Cal 62, 11 P 879.

See legal memory.

immeubles. Same as immovables.

immigrant. Every alien in the country except an alien within one of the classes of non-immigrant aliens specified in the Immigration and Nationality Act. 8 USC § 1101(a)(15).

immigrant alien. An alien entering the United States for permanent residence with the view of becoming a citizen of the United States. 8 USC §§ 1101(a)(15), 1181, 1184.

immigrant visa. A visa required by law of an alien entering the country as an immigrant, issued by a consular officer of the United States. 8 USC § 1101 (16); 3 Am J2d Aliens § 55.

immigration. The coming of foreigners into the country for purposes of permanent residence. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 48.

Immigration and Nationality Act. A comprehensive federal statute controlling the immigration, admission, entry, and exclusion of aliens, also the naturalization and admission of aliens to citizenship. 8 USC §§ 1101 et seq.

Immigration and Naturalization Service. A federal agency in the Department of Justice, for the administration of immigration laws, particularly the Immigration and Nationality Act. 5 USC §§ 342b; 8 USC § 1101(34); 3 Am J2d Aliens § 52.

immigration officer. Any employee of the Immigration and Naturalization Service designated to perform functions in reference to the admission, naturalization, etc. of aliens. 8 USC § 1101 (18).

immigration quota. See quota.

Immigration Service. See Immigration and Naturalization Service.

imminence of danger. The presence of danger of death or great bodily harm, as will justify a killing in self-defense. 26 Am J1st Homi § 137.

See imminent peril.

imminence of death. The approach of death, not merely the expectation of death which all mortals must entertain. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 128.

imminent. Overhanging, about to materialize, especially something of a dangerous nature. Threatening; full of danger. Collins v Liddle, 67 Utah 242, 247 P 476.

imminent insolvency. Insolvency likely to occur at any moment. Arnold v Globe Exchange Bank, 40 F2d 555.

imminently dangerous article. An article, such as poison or an explosive, which contains within itself the elements which render it dangerous to life and limb at all times and under all conditions. An article of a kind in common use without disastrous results, but dangerous to life and limb unless safely and properly constructed, such as a machine operated by power. Olds Motor Works v Shaffer, 145 Ky 616, 140 SW 1047.

imminently dangerous motor vehicle. A motor vehicle which because of defective construction is reasonably certain to place life and limb in peril when put to use. 8 Am J2d Auto § 658.

imminent peril. Threatened peril; danger immediately at hand.

See imminence of danger.

immiscere. To mingle; to mix.

immittere. To put into possession; to admit.

immobilia. Immovables.

See bona immobilia.

Immobilia situm sequuntur. Immovable things follow their location (as to the law which governs them).

immobilis. Immovable.

immoderate. Beyond reasonable limits.

immoral. Wicked. Hostile to the welfare of the general public; having a tendency to mischievous or pernicious consequences. Jones v Dannenberg Co. 112 Ga 426, 37 SE 729. Unrestrained by law or principles of good conduct in sexual relations; licentious.

immoral consideration. A consideration, the furnishing of which is against public morals and public decency, a stock example of which is the commencement or continuance of meretricious sexual intercourse. 17 Am J2d Contr §§ 183, 184.

immoral contract. An agreement clearly repugnant to sound morality. Veazey v Allen, 173 NY 359, 66 NE 103.

See immoral consideration.

immorality. Conduct, behaviour, or practices which are immoral, that is, in violation of principles of decency and good conduct, especially meretricious sexual relations; licentiousness. 17 Am J2d Contr §§ 183, 184. Something more than the mere refusal of a minority to obey the wishes of the majority, or to subscribe to every view the majority may express as to their religious convictions. Poynter v Phelps, 129 Ky 381, 111 SW 699.

See gross immorality; poverty and immorality.

immoral purpose. Literally, a purpose to commit an act which is immoral. A term to be construed according to the context in which it appears.

As used in a provision of the Immigration Act excluding aliens who are prostitutes or persons coming into the United States for the purpose of prostitution or for any other "immoral purpose," the term is limited to purposes of like character with prostitution, and does not include extramarital relations, short of concubinage. Hansen v Haff, 291 US 559, 78 L Ed 968, 54 S Ct 494.

The interstate transportation, by a member of a religious sect, one of whose tenants is polygamy, of a plural wife either for the purpose of cohabiting with her or for the purpose of aiding another member of the cult in such a project, is for an "immoral purpose" within the meaning of the term as it is used in the Mann Act making an offense the transportation in interstate commerce of any woman or girl for the purpose of prostitution or debauchery, or for any other "immoral purpose." Cleveland v United States, 329 US 14, 91 L Ed 12, 67 S Ct 13.

[584]

See debauchery and immoral purpose.

immortality of corporation. One of the most important attributes of a corporation, as spoken of in the Dartmouth College Case. Dartmouth College v Woodward (US) 4 Wheat 518, 4 L Ed 629. Meaning only the capacity of continuous succession during the time of the existence of the corporation, whether that is definite or indefinite. 18 Am J2d Corp § 94.

immovable property. Real property and some things attached to realty but not in the nature of freehold and constituting personalty rather than realty. 42 Am J1st Prop § 24. Land and chattels real. Sneed v Ewing, 28 Ky (5 JJ Marsh) 460.

immovables. Immovable property.

immunity. A personal favor granted by law, contrary to the general rule. Ex parte Levy, 43 Ark 42. A privilege or special privilege; a favor granted; an affirmative act of selection of special subjects of favors not enjoyed in general by citizens under constitution, statute, or laws. Hammer v State, 173 Ind 199, 89 NE 850. A right in the negative form of freedom from action or restraint which otherwise might be taken against or imposed upon a person, such as the right of a witness to be free from arrest while attending court.

See exemption; privilege; privileges and immunities; waiver of immunity.

immunity bath. A person availing himself of the opportunity to give testimony which incriminates him in order to take advantage of statutory immunity granted a witness. 58 Am J1st Witn § 86.

immunity clause. A provision in a deed of trust securing corporate bonds which limits the trustee's liability, usually in providing that the trustee shall not be answerable for anything except his own gross negligence or wilful misconduct in the discharge of his duties. Anno: 57 ALR 470, s. 71 ALR 1414.

immunity from arrest. A privilege of narrow scope whereunder a few persons are rendered not subject to arrest on a criminal charge. 5 Am J2d Arr § 95. A privilege of broader scope whereunder a person of a certain class or performing a particular function at the time is rendered not subject to civil arrest, such privilege usually being applicable to mesne process as well as body executions. 5 Am J2d Arr § 95.

See sanctuary.

immunity from liability. An exemption from liability based on the nature of the defendant, such as a charitable corporate body; not nonliability under the application of tort law. Anno: 25 ALR2d 36. The rule that a judge is not civilly liable for acts done in the exercise of his judicial functions. 30A Am J Rev ed Judges § 73. The immunity of a public officer or administrative agency for discretionary, judicial, or quasi judicial acts. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 799; 43 Am J1st Pub Of § 274.

See limitation of liability.

immunity from process. The privilege of exemption from service of civil process of persons acting in certain capacities, or occupying a certain status, at the time, such as Congressmen, members of a legislature, and parties or witnesses in attendance at court. 42 Am J1st Proc §§ 135 et seq.

immunity from suit. The removal of certain persons or things from the exercise of jurisdiction for reasons of public policy. The established principle of jurisprudence, applicable in favor of the United States and a state, that the sovereign cannot be sued in its own courts, or in any other court, without its consent and permission. 49 Am J1st States § 91; 54 Am J1st US § 127.

There can be no legal right as against the authority that makes the law on which the right depends. A sovereign is exempt from suit, not because of any formal conception of obsolete theory, but on this logical and practical ground. Holmes, J., in Kawanakoa v Polybank, 205 US 349, 51 L Ed 834, 27 S Ct 526.

Such immunity is a high attribute of sovereignty –a prerogative of the state itself –which cannot be availed of by public agents when sued for their own torts. The Eleventh Amendment to the Federal Constitution was not intended to afford them freedom from liability in any case where, under color of their office, they have injured one of the state's citizens. To grant them such an immunity would be to create a privileged class free from liability for wrongs inflicted or injuries threatened. Public agents must be liable to the law, unless they are to be put above the law. Old Colony Trust Co. v Seattle, 271 US 426, 431, 70 L Ed 1019, 1022, 46 S Ct 552.

immunity of witness. See immunity from process; immunity provisions; judicial immunity of witness; self-incrimination.

immunity provisions. Constitutional and statutory provisions intended to render available testimony from a witness, who otherwise would remain silent under the privilege against self-incrimination, by granting him immunity from prosecution. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 148.

See immunity bath.

immurement. Imprisonment; incarceration.

impair. To make worse; to diminish in quality, value, excellence, or strength; to deteriorate. Swinburne v Mills, 17 Wash 611, 50 P 489.

impairment of capital. A deficiency in the capital of a bank, but not necessarily a condition of insolvency. 10 Am J2d Bks § 41. Distribution reducing capital of corporation. 19 Am J2d Corp § 819.

impairment of earning ability. Decrease in earning capacity. 22 Am J2d Damg § 89.

impairment of justice. See obstruction of justice.

impairment of memory. Forgetfulness. A condition of the mind in which recollection of past events becomes difficult, if not impossible. 27 Am J2d Eq § 170.

impairment of mind. Mental weakness or incompetency.

impairment of obligation of contract. Within the meaning of the constitutional provision, known as the contract clause appearing in Article 1, Section 10, of the United States Constitution: the effect of a statute enacted subsequently to the making of a contract which annuls it or changes its terms by adding or releasing material conditions, provisions, or stipulations or which changes the remedy for a breach, so that the new remedy is not substantially the equivalent of the old one, thereby lessening the value of the agreement. 16 Am J2d Const L §§ 444 et seq.

[585]

In determining whether state legislation unconstitutionally impairs contract obligations, no unchanging yardstick can be fashioned, applicable at all times and under all circumstances, by which the validity of every statute may be measured; each case must be determined upon its own circumstances. Re People (Title and Mortgage Guaranty Co.) 264 NY 69, 190 NE 153, 96 ALR 297.

impairment of vested rights. See retrospective legislation.

impalare. To impound.

impalement. An inclosure. The execution of the death penalty, as in ancient times, by thrusting a stake through the body.

impanel. To place the names of the jurors on a panel; to make a list of the names of those persons who have been selected for jury duty; to go through the process of selecting a jury which is to try the cause. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 129.

impanelment of jury. See impanel; panel.

imparcare. To impound; to imprison.

impargamentum. An impounding; the right to impound.

imparl. To discuss a controversy in an effort to effect an amicable settlement after action pending. See 3 Bl Comm 299.

imparlance. A discussion between the parties to a pending action in an effort to effect an amicable settlement of the controversy. See 3 Bl Comm 299.

imparsonee. Inducted into and placed in possession of a benefice; the clergyman who has been thus inducted and placed.

impartial. Being indifferent as between parties. Sunderland v United States (CA8 Neb) 19 F2d 202.

impartial hearing. A fair and open hearing, without bias or prejudice; indifferent as between the parties. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 412.

impartiality. Absence of bias or prejudice. Indifference as between the parties.

impartial juror. A juror who will render an impartial verdict on the evidence. International News Service v News Publishing Co. 118 Okla 113, 247 P 87.

impartial trial. See fair and impartial trial.

impartible fee. Same as impartible feud.

impartible feud. A feud or fee which was so conditioned in its creation that it could only descend to the eldest son. See 2 Bl Comm 215.

impatronization. The induction of a parson or clergyman into a benefice and vesting him with the possession of it.

impeach. To effect an impeachment.

See impeachment.

impeachable for waste. A phrase indicating the liability of the life tenant for waste as to conduct in encroaching upon the corpus of the estate. 33 Am J1st Life Est §§ 313 et seq. Also indicating the liability of a tenant under a lease for years for waste. 32 Am J1st L & T §§ 779 et seq.

See without impeachment of waste.

impeachment. The act of discrediting a person or a thing. Calling the integrity or ability of a person into question. The imputation of fault or of defective performance, particularly that of a public officer. Shanks v Julian, 213 Ky 291, 303, 280 SW 1081, 1085. Showing imperfection or error, for example, attacking the certified record on appeal by comparing it with the transcript. 4 Am J2d A & E § 503. Questioning the authenticity of a document or the veracity of a witness.

To impeach, as applied to a person, is to accuse, to blame, to censure him. It includes the imputation of wrongdoing. To impeach his official report or conduct is to show that it was occasioned by some partiality, bias, prejudice, inattention to, or unfaithfulness in, the discharge of that duty; or, that it was based upon such error that the existence of such influences may be justly inferred from the extraordinary character or grossness of that error. Bryant v Glidden, 36 Me 36, 47.

impeachment court. A court for the trial of an impeached officer. 20 Am J2d Cts § 34. The upper house of a legislative body. 20 Am J2d Cts § 34.

In the impeachment of an officer of the United States, the accusation is made by the House of Representatives, and tried by the Senate, under section 3 of article I of the United States Constitution. In some of the states the same procedure is followed. In other states, the legislature has relegated impeachment cases to the courts. Re John J. Marks, 45 Cal 199.

impeachment of account. Questioning correctness of an account. 1 Am J2d Accts § 35.

impeachment of acknowledgment. Disproving the facts stated in the certificate. 1 Am J2d Ack § 98.

impeachment of award. A proceeding at law or in equity for the setting aside of an arbitration award which is void or where cause for setting it aside may be shown. 5 Am J2d Arb & A § 167.

impeachment of public officer. Seeking the removal of a public officer upon charges, formally made, of the commission of a crime or of official misconduct or neglect. Technically, the adoption of articles of impeachment upon inquiry by the lower house of Congress or the legislature, the filing of such articles with, and their acceptance by, the United States Senate in the case of a federal officer, or the upper house of the legislature or court of impeachment in the case of a state officer. 43 Am J1st Pub Of §§ 175, 178.

impeachment of title or right to office. An action to determine the title or right of a judge to the office. 30A Am J Rev ed Judges § 235.

impeachment of verdict. An attack against a verdict based upon grounds concerning the deliberations of the jury and the manner of arriving at a verdict. 53 Am J1st Trial §§ 1105 et seq.

impeachment of waste. See impeachable for waste.

impeachment of witness. An attack on the credibility of a witness by the testimony of other witnesses that the facts about which he has testified are other than as he has stated; by proof that his general reputation is bad; by proof that he has previously made contradictory or inconsistent statements, or by proof of his bias, interest, or hostility. Harris v Tippett, 11 Eng Rul Cas 144. Any means through proof of impairing the credit of the witness, involving matters affecting the general credit of a witness as well as those affecting his credit in the particular case. 58 Am J1st Witn §§ 674 et seq.

[586]

impechiare. To impeach.

impediens. A person who impedes or hinders; a person who withholds land from the true owner; a defendant.

impediment. An obstruction, for example, an obstruction in a highway. 25 Am J1st High § 272. A bar; a disqualification, for example, insanity barring marriage. 35 Am J1st Mar § 17.

See canonical impediments; dirimant impediments; impediments to marriage; legal impediment; manifest impediment.

impedimento. (Spanish.) An impediment or bar to matrimony.

impediments to marriage. Disqualifications, such as nonage, mental incapacity, etc.

See prohibitive impediments; relative impediment.

impeditor. A person who interferes with the right of a patron to make presentation to a benefice.

impensae. (Civil law.) Expenses; moneys spent or laid out for expenses.

imperative. Mandatory; commanding.

imperative direction. An essential of equitable conversion; an expression in some form of an absolute intention that a conversion shall be effected, that is, that land shall be sold and turned into money, or that money shall be expended in the purchase of land. 27 Am J2d Eq Conv § 4.

imperative power. A power in trust. The essential distinction between a power of appointment and a trust, the former being discretionary, the latter imperative. 41 Am J1st Pow § 3.

imperative statute. A mandatory statute; that is, one which plainly commands something to be done or refrained from, as distinguished from a statute which is merely directory and hence leaves a choice between doing or not.

imperative words. Words of command rather than precatory words.

When in a will words of recommendation, request, and the like are used in direct reference to the testator's estate, they are prima facie testamentary and imperative and not precatory. While the desire of a testator for the disposal of his estate is a mere request when addressed to his devisee, it is to be construed as a command when addressed to his executor. All expressions indicative of his wish or will are commands. Estate of Tooley, 170 Cal 164, 149 P 574.

imperator. Emperor,—a title frequently appended to the name of the king of England in charters which were granted before the time of the Norman Conquest. See 1 Bl Comm 242.

Imperator solus et conditor et interpres legis existimatur. The emperor alone is deemed to be both the founder and the interpreter of the law. 1 Bl Comm 74.

imperceptible process. In reference to the rule of accretion:—imperceptibility in progress, notwithstanding perceptibility after a long lapse of time. 56 Am J1st Wat § 484.

imperfect. Incomplete; lacking in some essential; defective.

imperfect delegation. A substitution of a new debtor for an old one without releasing the old one.

imperfect gift. A gift incomplete because of the omission of act or circumstance which the law requires as necessary to pass title. 24 Am J1st Gifts § 43.

imperfect mortgage. A mortgage good in equity, although not at law. Another term for vendor's lien. Gessner v Palmater, 89 Cal 89, 26 P 789.

imperfect obligation. An obligation not enforceable by suit, depending for fulfillment upon the will and conscience of the obligor. Edwards v Kearzey, 96 US 595, 24 L Ed 793.

imperfect right. A right which is not a full or perfect right because he who would enjoy it has been guilty of some wrong, fault, or blame in the matter out of which the right accrued; as where a man sets up the plea of self-defense when he was the original aggressor. Wallace v United States, 162 US 466, 40 L Ed 1039, 16 S Ct 859.

imperfect sexual intercourse. See sexual intercourse.

imperfect trust. A trust, the legal effect of which has not been achieved or, if achieved, is not complete and final in its limitations. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 7.

imperfect war. A war not formally declared and limited as to places, persons, and things, but nevertheless an external contention by force between members of the two nations, authorized by the legitimate powers. 56 Am J1st War § 4.

imperial parliament. A name once used for the parliament of England.

Imperil majestas est tutelae salus. The majesty of the empire is the safety of its protection.

imperite. Unskillfully; without skill.

imperitia. Unskillfulness; lack of skill.

Imperitia culpa adnumeratur. Unskillfulness is rated as negligence.

Imperitia est maxima mechanicorum poena. Lack of skill is the greatest sin of mechanics.

imperium. Rule; power; authority. The power vested in a Roman magistrate to command the citizen to the end of preserving order in time of peace and discipline in time of war.

imperium in imperio. A government within a government.

impersonal. Without reference to any person.

impersonalitas. Impersonality; the quality of referring to no person.

Impersonalitas non concludit nec ligat. Impersonality neither concludes nor binds.

impersonal payee. A payee of a bill or note designated as "cash," "bills payable or order," or otherwise than in the name of a person, association, partnership, or corporation, the consequence being that the instrument is payable to bearer. 11 Am J2d B & N § 124.

impersonal trademark or trade name. A trademark or trade name not of a character representing in itself a personal element in the production of the article but which may be associated with kind and quality so as to identify the article. 52 Am J1st Tradem §§ 47 et seq.

[587]

impersonation. Assuming the name and identity of another person. 11 Am J2d B & N § 132. A means of committing a fraud. 27 Am J2d Fraud § 28. Representing oneself as another person, such constituting the offense of false pretenses, when done for the purpose of defrauding another. 32 Am J2d False Pret § 18. Assuming the character or personality of another, for example assuming the personality of another for the purpose of voting in his name at election. 26 Am J2d Elect § 375.

impertinence. Rudeness; insolence. Matter in a complaint, bill, answer or other pleading not properly before the court for decision at any stage of the suit (27 Am J2d Eq §§ 187, 198, 201) particularly, scandalous allegations. 27 Am J2d Eq 187; 41 Am J1st Plead § 351.

impertinent matter. See impertinence. impescare. Same as impeach.

impetere. To impeach.

impetitio vasti. Same as impeachment of waste.

impetrare. To obtain by asking.

impetration. The obtaining of a thing by request or petition.

impie. (French.) Reprobate. Infidel.

impier. An arbiter; an umpire.

impierment. Impairment.

impignorata. Pledged; mortgaged.

impignoration. A pledge; a mortgage; pledging or mortgaging property.

Impius et crudelis judicandus est qui libertati non favet. He should be adjudged impious and cruel who does not favor liberty.

implacitare. Same as implead.

implead. To sue; to make a person a party to an action or suit. To bring into an action as a party a person not named as a party in the action as originally instituted.

impleader. Broadly, the joining of a person as a party to an action. As known under modern code or rules practice, the bringing into an action as a party of a person liable over to or liable with the defendant. 39 Am J1st Parties § 90. The bringing into an action of either a person or a thing, whether wholly or in part liable or liable only by way of remedy over or contribution. 2 Am J2d Adm § 151.

See third-party practice.

implement. Noun: A tool, instrument, utensil, or machine for carrying on work, particularly a machine for agricultural work. A thing necessary to a trade and without which the work cannot be performed. Anno: 2 ALR 818. As used in an exemption statute:—a usable article, an instrument employed as a means to effect an end in debtor's trade or occupation. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 51. Verb: To put into effect; to provide with means for accomplishing a purpose.

As used in a statute with reference to the power of the board of county supervisors to purchase or hire "implements" and material and employ labor in connection with the reconstruction or repair of highways, the term embraces such road machines as tractors, graders, etc., especially where the statute expressly provides that the board may do any and all things necessary to be done to construct, reconstruct, and maintain the public roads. Mississippi Road Supply Co. v Hester, 185 Miss 839, 188 So 281, 124 ALR 574.

implements of husbandry. Farm implements. As something exempt from a statutory requirement of registration of motor vehicles, a vehicle designed and used primarily as a farm vehicle but which may be operated or moved temporarily upon the highway. Allred v J. C. Engelman, 123 Tex 205, 61 SW2d 75, 91 ALR 417.

A statutory definition of an "implement of husbandry" as a "vehicle which is designed for agricultural purposes and exclusively used by the owner thereof in the conduct of his agricultural operations" includes a grain combine being hauled on the highway by a tractor, so as to bring such combine within the statutory exception of "implements of husbandry temporarily moved upon a highway" from restrictions as to width of vehicles on the highway, although at the time of the accident the combine was being hauled by its owner, a farmer, to the farm of another, some eighteen miles away, to be used by the owner in combining soybeans for a fixed fee. Worthington v McDonald, 246 Iowa 466, 68 NW2d 89, 47 ALR2d 135.

Any instrument used directly in the business of farming, and for no other purpose is an implement of husbandry. Horse rakes, gang plows, headers, threshing machines, and combined harvesters are as clearly implements of husbandry as are hand rakes, single plows, sickles, cradles, flails, or an old fashioned machine for winnowing. There is no ground for excluding an implement from the operation of the exemption statute because it is an improvement and supplants a former implement used with less effectiveness for the same purpose. Estate of Klemp, 119 Cal 41, 50 P 1062.

implication. Something implied. The evident consequence, or some necessary consequence resulting from the law, or the words of an instrument, in the construction of which the words, the subject, the context, the intention of the person using them, are all to be taken into view. Rhode Island v Massachusetts (US) 12 Pet 657, 723, 9 L Ed 1233, 1260. The matter of being involved, as in a crime.

See implied.

implied. Accepted as that which was intended although not stated expressly. Understood. Suggested.

implied abandonment. In some jurisdictions, the nonuser of a highway. 25 Am J1st High § 112.

implied abrogation. See implied repeal.

implied acceptance. An acceptance understood from acts and circumstances where not expressly stated. The acceptance of an offer implied from acts or conduct, including performance by the offeree of his undertaking. Cole-McIntyre-Norfleet Co. v Holloway, 141 Tenn 679, 214 SW 817, 7 ALR 1683. Duquesne Lumber Co. v Keystone Mfg. Co. 90 W Va 673, 112 SE 219. An acceptance of an offer of dedication through positive conduct on the part of the authorized public officers evincing their consent on behalf of the public. Blowing Rock v Gregorie, 243 NC 364, 90 SE2d 898; Henry v Ionic Petroleum Co. (Okla) 391 P2d 792. An acceptance of a deed implied where the intention to accept is manifested by conduct such as that of retaining possession of the deed, conveying the property, or otherwise exercising the rights of an owner, provided the grantee had, at the time he acted, knowledge of the conveyance. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 128. The acceptance of a gift operating entirely to the benefit of the donee. 24 Am J1st Gifts § 117. Of a draft or bill of exchange: –an acceptance by the drawee implied from circumstances such as his retention or destruction of the instrument, 11 Am J2d B & N § 509; a concept at variance with the provision of the Uniform Commercial Code that the signed engagement of the acceptor must be written on the bill or draft. 11 Am J2d B & N § 510.

[588]

implied accord. The usual situation of accord in which a sum less than the whole claim is remitted or tendered on condition that it be accepted as full satisfaction, and accord and satisfaction resulting from its acceptance. Shinn v Kitchens, 208 Ark 321, 186 SW2d 168; Virginia-Carolina Electrical Works, Inc. v Cooper, 192 Va 78, 63 SE2d 717.

implied actual notice. See implied notice.

implied admission. An admission by act, conduct, or silence. 29 Am J2d Ev § 623.

implied agency. An actual agency, the existence of which as a fact is proved by deductions or inferences from the other facts and circumstances of the particular case, including the words and conduct of the parties. Turnbull v Shelton, 47 Wash 2d 70, 286 P2d 676.

implied assignment. An assignment by operation of law, for example, the passing of a decedent's personal assets to the executor or administrator of his estate. 6 Am J2d Assign § 2.

implied assumpsit. General assumpsit or indebitatus assumpsit. 1 Am J2d Actions § 11.

implied authority. The actual authority of an agent, circumstantially proved, which the principal is deemed to have actually intended the agent to possess; authority of an agent arising independently of any express grant of authority, as from some manifestation by the principal that the particular authority in question shall exist in the agent, or arising as a necessary or reasonable implication in order to effectuate other authority expressly conferred, embracing authority to do whatever acts are incidental to, or are necessary, usual, and proper to accomplish or perform the main authority expressly delegated to the agent. Annotation: 55 ALR2d 27, § 4[a]; 3 Am J2d Agency § 71.

See implied powers.

implied banker's lien. A lien of a bank for the balance owing upon a general account upon the securities of the customer or depositor in the possession of the bank, implied from the usages of the banking business or the law merchant. 10 Am J2d Banks § 660.

implied bequest or devise. A bequest or devise inferred from expressions in a will raised for the purpose of carrying out what the testator appears on the whole to have really meant, but failed to express as distinctly as he should have done. O'Hearn v O'Hearn, 114 Wis 428, 90 NW 450.

implied bias. Presumed bias; bias which is supposed to exist on account of the relation which the juror bears either to the cause or to some of the parties thereto. 31 Am J Rev ed Jury § 171.

implied coercion. Existing where a person is induced to do an act contrary to his will in consequence of his legal subjection to another. Fluharty v Fluharty, 38 Del 487, 193 A 838.

implied condition. A condition which is not expressed but which is either implied by the law or by the common intention of the parties. As applied to estates in real property, a condition otherwise known as a condition in law, a condition which the law implies either from its being always understood to be annexed to certain estates, or as annexed to estates held under certain circumstances. Raley & Johns v Umatilla County, 15 Or 172, 13 P 890.

See estate upon condition.

implied confession. Admissions by the accused from which guilt may be inferred, whether by words, acts, or, in some instances silence. See 29 Am J2d Ev § 523. A confession which is implied by law where a defendant, in a criminal case not capital, does not directly own himself guilty, but in a manner admits it by yielding to the state's mercy, and desiring to submit to a small fine. Commonwealth v Shrope, 264 Pa 246, 107 A 729, 6 ALR 690, 692.

implied consent. Acquiescence. By the prosecutrix in a prosecution for rape:—conduct of such nature as to create in the mind of the accused an honest and reasonable belief of free submission to the carnal act, 44 Am J1st Rape § 12; failure to oppose the carnal act when one is awake, of mature years, of sound mind, and not in fear. 44 Am J1st Rape § 12.

implied consideration. The consideration for an act performed or forbore at the request of another without an express stipulation as to compensation or other consideration. Bixler v Ream (Pa) 3 Penr & W 282, 284.

implied constitutional provision. A condition implied in a constitution, whether the Constitution of the United States or a state constitution, because deemed within the meaning and intention of the constitution on judicial inspection thereof. 16 Am J2d Const L § 72.

implied contract. A contract inferred from the conduct of the parties, although not expressed in words. Corriveau v Jenkins Bros. 144 Conn 383, 132 A2d 67. Implied in fact:—a real contract but one inferred from the circumstances, the conduct, acts, or relation of the parties, rather than from their spoken words, Gleason v Salt Lake City, 94 Utah 1, 74 P2d 1225. A contract to pay the reasonable value of services performed by one person for another, where there is no express agreement as to the compensation, but the circumstances, particularly the conduct of the person for whom the work was done, is such as to justify an understanding by the person performing the work that the former intended to pay for it. Anno: 54 ALR 549; 58 Am J1st Wk & L § 3. Implied in law:—a quasi or constructive contract implied by law on the grounds of justice and equity, usually to prevent unjust enrichment. 58 Am J1st Wk & L § 2.

implied contract of sale. A contract for the sale of goods implied from the facts and circumstances of the case creating an obligation on the part of the buyer to pay for goods received from another. Ordinarily when one person receives goods or merchandise from another, the law implies a contract on his part to pay therefor, which will support an action for goods sold and delivered. 46 Am J1st Sales § 37.

implied covenant. A covenant in law; a covenant which may reasonably be inferred from the whole agreement and the circumstances attending its execution. 20 Am J2d Cov § 12. Such a covenant as the law will imply from the making of a lease or from the use of certain words in the lease; a covenant of quiet enjoyment free from any interference with the lessee's occupation of the premises by the lessor and a covenant of good title and right to make the lease on the part of the lessor. 32 Am J1st L & T § 143.

[589]

The theory of estoppel by deed under which an after-acquired title passes to the grantee. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 294. The theory upon which a dedication occurs from the sale of land with reference to a map or plat. 23 Am J2d Ded § 25.

implied dedication. An acquiescence by the owner of land in a public use thereof; acts or conduct of the owner of land manifesting an intent to devote the property to public use. 23 Am J2d Ded § 1.

implied delivery. A constructive delivery to bailee, meaning all those acts which, although not truly comprising real possession of the goods transferred, have been held, by legal construction, equivalent to actual delivery, including, in this sense, symbolical or substituted delivery. 8 Am J2d Bailm § 55.

implied devise. See implied bequest or devise.

implied easement. An easement by implication in favor of a grantor or grantee, being a creature of the common law, existing only in connection with a conveyance, and based on the theory that whenever one conveys land adjacent to land owned and retained by him, he includes or intends to include in the conveyance whatever is necessary for its beneficial use and enjoyment and to retain whatever is necessary for the use and enjoyment of the land retained. Trattar v Rausch, 154 Ohio St 286, 43 Ohio Ops 186, 95 NE2d 685.

To create an easement by implication there must be (1) a separation of title; (2) a use, before the separation, so long continued, obvious, and manifest as to show the use was meant to be permanent; and (3) a use essential to the beneficial enjoyment of the land granted or retained. Kling v Ghilarducci, 3 Ill 2d 454, 121 NE2d 752, 46 ALR2d 1189.

implied election. An election to take under or against a will implied from the acts or conduct of the beneficiary on whom the election evolves, or, as it is occasionally stated, evidenced by matters in pais. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1534.

implied emancipation. That emancipation of a child which results when the parent without any express agreement, impliedly consents by his acts and conduct that the child may have his own time and the control of his earnings, or such consent is inferred from or shown by circumstances. 39 Am J1st P & C § 64.

implied exception. An exception of a right or easement from the grant made by an absolute conveyance in fee where such right or easement is essential to the enjoyment of land remaining in the grantor's ownership. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 270.

implied finding. A negative finding implied where the findings by the trial court leave some issue or material fact undetermined, the implication being that such issue or fact was not proved by the party having the burden of proof thereon. 53 Am J1st Trial § 1143. An anomaly in an administrative proceeding where express findings are required as a matter of procedural law. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 449.

implied force. The employment of words or conduct to put another in fear of bodily harm if he does not give way or submit. See 35 Am J2d Forc E & D § 58.

implied franchise. A franchise to use the streets, for the purpose of rendering service as a public utility, conferred by necessary implication from the negotiations between the city and the company claiming the franchise. Eichels v Evansville St. R. Co. 78 Ind 261.

implied illegality. That which, although neither expressly forbidden nor authorized, is contrary to the plain implication of a statute. Luria v United States, 231 US 9, 58 L Ed 101, 34 S Ct 10.

implied in fact. See implied contract.

implied in law. See implied contract.

implied intent. A guilty intention inferable from the act relied upon by the prosecution as constituting the offense. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 81.

implied invitation. An act of the owner or occupant of premises, or of someone else with his permission, which he knows, or reasonably should know, may give rise to the belief, in a mind of a person ordinarily discerning, that the owner or occupant intended such person to come upon the premises. Black v Central R. Co. 85 NJL 197, 89 A 24.

In its real value and significance, as derived from its application in the adjudged cases, the term imports knowledge by the defendant of the probable use by the plaintiff of the defendant's property so situated and conditioned as to be open to, and likely to be subjected to such use. Lepnick v Caddis, 72 Miss 200, 16 So 213.

See implied license.

implied lease. The relation of landlord and tenant existing under an implied contract, that is, a relation from the acts and conduct of the parties consistent only with the existence of a lease and the creation of the relation of landlord and tenant thereunder. 32 Am J1st L & T § 24.

implied license. A license to perform an act or acts upon the land of another existing by virtue of acquiescence of the owner or inferred from the acts of the parties, their relations with each other, from custom, or from the habits of the country, but giving the licensee no interest in the land. McKee v Gratz, 200 US 127, 67 L Ed 167, 43 S Ct 16 (license to go upon land for purpose of hunting or fishing).

The principle on which an implied license may be distinguished from an implied invitation is that where the privilege of user exists for the common interest or mutual advantage of both parties, it will be held to be an invitation; but if it exists for the mere pleasure and benefit of the party exercising the privilege, it will be held to be a license. Douglas v Bergland, 216 Mich 380, 185 NW 819, 20 ALR 197.

implied lien. A lien which may be created in the absence of an express contract, based upon the fundamental maxims of equity and which may be implied and declared by a court of equity out of general considerations of right and justice as applied to the relations of the parties and the circumstances of their dealings. 33 Am J1st Liens § 21. The lien in favor of a vendor who has conveyed the legal title to real estate to a purchaser, as security for the unpaid purchase money. 55 Am J1st V & P § 462.

implied malice. An expression of dual meaning, sometimes being used in the sense of constructive malice and at other times indicating presumed malice. The mental state of ill will, spite, wicked intention, or enmity which the law infers from or imputes to certain acts. Griswold v Horne, 19 Ariz 56, 165 P 318. The inference or implication from a wilful and intentional act performed for the accomplishment of a wrongful object or ulterior purpose. 1 Am J2d Abuse P § 6. An application of the presumption that one intends the natural and probable consequences of his voluntary and deliberate acts. Taylor v State, 201 Ind 241, 167 NE 133. As an element of the crime of murder:—the absence of a deliberate mind and formed design to take life, but where the killing, nevertheless, is done without justification or excuse, and without provocation, or without sufficient provocation to reduce the offense to manslaughter. State v Trott, 190 NC 674, 130 SE 627, 42 ALR 1214. The showing of an abandoned or malignant heart by all the circumstances. People v Crenshaw, 298 Ill 412, 131 NE 576, 15 ALR 671.

[590]

It is a matter of the greatest difficulty to distinguish between express malice and implied malice so as to render those terms intelligible to a jury. Turner v Commonwealth, 167 Ky 365, 180 SW 768.

implied notice. A kind of actual notice rather than constructive notice; sometimes referred to as implied actual notice. 39 Am J1st Notice § 6. Notice inferred from the means of knowledge open to a person, without proof that he used them. Texas Co. v Aycocck, 190 Tenn 16, 227 SW2d 41, 17 ALR2d 322. Sometimes confused with "constructive notice" which is a matter of legal inference rather than actual notice. 39 Am J1st Notice § 6. Hunt v Ellis, 27 NM 397, 201 P 1064.

implied obligation. See implied contract.

implied permission. See implied license; implied permission to use motor vehicle.

implied permission to use motor vehicle. A sufferance of use or passive permission deduced from a failure to object to a known past, present or intended future use under circumstances where the use should be anticipated. Bradford v Sargent, 135 Cal App 324, 27 P2d 93.

implied powers. The powers necessary to effectuate the powers expressly conferred. Re Munger, 168 Iowa 372, 150 NW 447 (powers of executor or administrator). Sometimes in loose usage referred to as inherent powers. Re Berman, 245 NC 612, 97 SE2d 232. The powers of a public officer which, although incidental and collateral, are germane to, or serve to promote or benefit, the accomplishment of the principal purposes of the office. Moore v Nation, 80 Kan 672, 103 P 107. Federal powers under an implied grant in the United States Constitution. 16 Am J2d Const L § 199. The powers of a corporation to effectuate the powers expressly granted and to accomplish the purposes for which the corporation was formed, except as the particular act is prohibited by law or by the charter. 19 Am J2d Corp § 953.

The implied powers which a corporation has in order to carry into effect those expressly granted and to accomplish the purposes of the creation of the corporation are not limited to such as are indispensable for these purposes, but comprise all that are necessary, in the sense of appropriate and suitable, including the right of reasonable choice of means to be employed. 19 Am J2d Corp § 953.

See implied authority.

implied publication. The communication by the testator to the attesting witnesses by word, sign, motion, or conduct, his intent that the instrument take effect as his will. 57 Am J1st Wills § 283.

implied ratification. An inference from a course of conduct, lapse of time, or acquiescence, indicating an intention to approve, confirm, and adopt something which in the first instance he might have successfully avoided. Peter v Irwin, 69 W Va 200, 71 SE 115. Recognizing the validity of a transaction, or remaining silent when called upon to speak, whereby others have been injured. Anno: 48 ALR 425, 54 ALR 1246. Of contract:-accepting the benefits growing out of it or remaining silent or acquiescing in a contract for any considerable length of time after opportunity is afforded to avoid it or have it annulled, or recognizing the validity of the contract by acting upon it. 25 Am J2d Dur § 28. An election, definitely manifested, by one, after reaching majority, to let a contract made by him while an infant stand in force. Hermenu v Zazzarino, 108 NJ Eq 451, 155 A 459. Of act or transaction by agent:-any act, words, or course of conduct on the part of the principal which reasonably tends to show an intention on his part to ratify the unauthorized acts or transactions of the alleged agent. 3 Am J2d Agency § 162. The ratification of an agent's acts by accepting the benefits thereof or failing to repudiate the acts after notice that the agent has exceeded his authority. Howell v Grocers Inc. (CA6 Mich) 2 F2d 499.

An alteration of an instrument is ratified where the obligor under the instrument, with knowledge of the alteration, agrees to pay the amount of the instrument as altered, renews the instrument, or accepts and retains benefits under the instrument with knowledge that it has been altered. 4 Am J2d Alt Inst § 67.

implied rejection. A rejection of an offer of dedication by acts of the authorized public officers indicating an intention to reject. Ramstad v Carr, 31 ND 504, 154 NW 195.

implied remainder. A remainder created by implication according to the intention of the testator or grantor, as where a remainder is deemed to have been devised by words of gift directing a payment or distribution in the future. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 62.

implied repeal. The superseding of a rule of the common law, without an express directive to that effect, as by adoption of a statute dealing comprehensively with the subject to which the common law rule relates. Banko v Weber, 9 App Div 2d 720, 192 NYS2d 260, affd 7 NY2d 758, 193 NYS2d 670, 162 NE2d 750. The repeal of a statute by a later statute, in the absence of an express repeal by the later statute, where there is such a positive repugnancy between the provisions of the old and the new statutes that they cannot stand together or be harmonized. Pacific Milling Elevator Co. v Portland, 65 Or 349, 133 P 72. The repeal of a statute by the adoption of an amendment to the constitution which is inconsistent with and repugnant to the provisions of the statute. 16 Am J2d Const L § 49. The repeal of a provision of a constitution by the adoption of an amendment to the constitution which is inconsistent with such provision. 16 Am J2d Const L § 27.

A portion of a statute may also be repealed by implication, as where it is in conflict with a provision of a later statute. State v Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. 56 Fla 617, 47 So 969.

implied representation. A representation made, not directly by words, but indirectly by words, acts, or conduct from which the representation of a fact may be implied. See 32 Am J2d False Pret § 17. A conclusion which, while not expressed directly in a statement, is one clearly to be drawn from the statement. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 698.

[591]

implied rescission. A rescission of a contract which the law implies when the parties make a new contract concerning the same matter with terms so inconsistent with the terms of the former contract that they cannot stand together. 17 Am J2d Contr § 493. A rescission of a contract by acts or conduct of the parties inconsistent with the continued existence of the contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 494.

implied reservation. A reservation of a right or easement from the grant made by an absolute conveyance in fee where such right or easement is essential to the enjoyment of land remaining in the grantor's ownership. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 270.

implied review. A constitutional right of review of an administrative determination. State ex rel. Watson v Lee, 157 Fla 62, 24 So 2d 798, 163 ALR 862.

implied revocation of will. A revocation by operation of law consequent to certain important changes in the family or domestic relations of the testator, such as marriage or the birth of a child after the making of the will, or changes involving the property of the testator or the beneficiaries of the will. 57 Am J1st Wills §§ 521 et seq. The revocation of a will by a later will or codicil which is inconsistent with the prior will, 57 Am J1st Wills § 474; a question of the intention of the testator as such appears from the general tenor and structure of the later will and the nature and character of the provisions contained therein. Kearns v Roush, 106 W Va 663, 146 SE 729.

implied tenancy. See implied lease; implied tenancy at will.

implied tenancy at will. The tenancy of one who enters on land by permission of the owner for an indefinite period without the reservation of any rent. 32 Am J1st L & T § 66.

implied trust. A trust which comes into existence through the application of intention to create a trust as a matter of law. A term also used for what is really a constructive trust, a trust by operation of law irrespective of and even contrary to the intention of him who is charged as trustee. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 5.

See constructive trust.

implied use. An implied trust.

See implied license.

implied waiver. A waiver shown by the acts and conduct of the parties from which an intention to waive reasonably may be inferred. 56 Am J1st Waiver § 17. A waiver implied as a reasonable inference from the act or silence of the party who has the power to waive. Roumage v Mechanics' Fire Ins. Co. 13 NJL 110. The waiver of notice of the taking of a deposition or of defects in such a notice by failure to object in writing. 23 Am J2d Dep § 37.

implied warranty. A statement, description, or undertaking by the insured under a marine policy which binds the insured as though expressed in the contract. Procacci v United States Fidelity Ins. Co. 118 NJL 423, 193 A 180. In sale of personal property:-a warranty by the seller of the quality or condition of the goods sold, imposed by operation of law, that is, a warranty inferred by law irrespective of any intention of the seller to create it, 46 Am J1st Sales § 332; a warranty of quality or condition implied from affirmations of the seller made without using technical words of warranty but with apparent intention to warrant, such being a warranty implied in fact rather than a warranty implied in law. 46 Am J1st Sales § 332. The obligation of an indorser of a negotiable instrument, apart from statute. 11 Am J2d B & N § 610.

import. Verb: To bring or carry a substance or article into the country from outside. Cunard S.S. Co. v Mellon, 262 US 100, 67 L Ed 894, 43 S Ct 504, 27 ALR 1306 (intoxicating liquor.) Within the meaning of the law of customs duties, to bring an article into the country from the outside, usually but not necessarily through a custom house. Pomplaim v United States (CA5 La) 42 F2d 203, cert den 282 US 886, 75 L Ed 881, 51 S Ct 89, following Cunard S.S. Co. v Mellon, 262 US 100, 67 L Ed 894, 45 S Ct 504, 27 ALR 1306. For some purposes, to bring articles into a state from another state. 24 Am J1st Game § 18. Noun: A substance or article carried into the country from abroad; a shipment from a foreign country to the United States. Faber v United States, 221 US 649, 55 L Ed 897, 31 S Ct 659.

An "imported" article is an article brought or carried into this country from abroad. A steam yacht coming into a port of the United States under her own steam is not an imported article. The Conqueror (DC NY) 49 F 99, 102.

As the term is used in the tenth section of the first article of the Federal Constitution, declaring that "no state shall without the consent of Congress lay any imposts or duties on imports or exports," it refers to articles imported from foreign countries into the United States, and it does not refer to those articles which are carried from one state of the Union into a sister state. Brown v Houston, 114 US 622, 29 L Ed 257, 5 S Ct 1091.

Within the meaning of section 9 of article I of the United States Constitution providing that the migration or importation of such persons as any of the states now existing shall think proper to admit, shall not be prohibited by the Congress prior to the year one thousand eight hundred and eight, the word "migration" had exclusive reference to persons of the African race. The two words "migration" and "importation" refer to the different conditions of this race as regards freedom from slavery. When the free black man came here, he "migrated;" when the slave came, he was imported. The latter was property and could be taxed as an import. People v Compagnie Generale Transatlantique (US) 17 Otto 59, 27 L Ed 383, 2 S Ct 87.

importation. An import. The act of importing.

See import.

import cost. The price at which an article is freely offered for sale in the ordinary course of trade in the usual wholesale quantities for exportation to the United States, plus all necessary expenses of bringing it to the United States when these are not included in such price. 19 USC § 1332(e)(2).

import duties. See customs duties.

imported. See import.

importer. A person who brings goods and merchandise into the United States from a foreign country; the consignee of a shipment to the United States from a foreign country. Meredith & Ellicott v United States (US) 13 Pet 486, 493, 10 L Ed 258, 262. One bringing articles, particularly intoxicating liquors, into a state from another state. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 129.

[592]

import-export clause. Clause 2 of Section 10 of Article I of the Constitution of the United States which provides that no state shall, without the consent of Congress, lay any impost or duties on imports or exports, except what may be absolutely necessary for executing its inspection laws.

imports. See import.

import taxes. Taxes imposed on certain articles imported into the United States. 26 USC §§ 4521 et seq; 21 Am J2d Cust D § 1.

See customs duties.

importunity. Persistent solicitation; continued begging. Persistent request or entreaty. 47 Am J1st Seduc § 67. A form of undue influence. 25 Am J2d Dur § 36.

impose. To place a burden upon a person, for example, a tax. Hertz v Woodman, 218 US 205, 54 L Ed 1001, 30 S Ct 621.
See imposition; impost.

imposed duties. Literally, duties, the burden of which is imposed upon a person. In a technical sense, those duties of a municipal corporation which are superadded to merely governmental functions, like the special private corporate duty to maintain streets in a safe condition for public travel, or 'the special, private corporate duty to maintain and manage corporate property so that city employees shall have safe places in which to work. Edson v Olathe, 81 Kan 328, 105 P 521.

impositio. Same as imposition.

imposition. Fraud, deception. Taking advantage of good nature to impose a burden. Any form of tax or enforced contribution to the public treasury. State v Heppenheimer, 58 NJL 633, 34 A 1061.

impossibilis. Same as impossible.

impossibilitas facti. The impossibility of doing a thing; that is, the inability of a person to perform an act, as distinguished from an act which in the nature of the thing is impossible. Klauber v San Diego Street Car Co. 95 Cal 353, 30 P 555.

impossibilitas rei. An impossibility in the nature of the thing, as distinguished from an inability of the person to do it. Klauber v San Diego Street Car Co. 95 Cal 353, 30 P 555.

impossibility. That which is impossible.

See impossibility of performance; impossible; physical impossibility.

impossibility of performance. Impossibility of accomplishment. Something beyond mere difficulty in performance. Impossibility having reference to the nature of the thing to be accomplished, not to the inability of the person. Mineral Park Land Co. v Howard, 172 Cal 289, 156 P 458. Original impossibility, an impossibility of performance existing when the contract was entered into, so that the contract was to do something which was from the outset impossible; supervening impossibility, that is impossibility from something developing after the inception of the contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 404. No excuse for nonperformance of condition precedent to the vesting of an estate. 28 Am J2d Est § 158. A reason for extinguishment of condition subsequent whereby the estate vests free from the condition. 28 Am J2d Est § 158.

impossibility of proof. A fact, such as damages in certain peculiar cases, not susceptible of proof. 27 Am J2d Eq § 98. The impossibility of determination after the facts are in.

Whether or not any such impossibility of determination will exist is a question which properly should await the ascertainment of the facts. Anniston Manufacturing Co. v Davis, 301 US 337, 81 L Ed 1143, 57 S Ct 816.

impossibility of relief. A ground of jurisdiction in equity; the impossibility of evaluating damages in dollars and cents; damages not susceptible of proof. 27 Am J2d Eq § 98.

Impossibilium nulla obligatio est. There is no obligation to do the impossible.

The law never requires the doing of an impossible thing, though it often awards damages for a failure to perform express contract stipulations where performance was rendered impossible by reason of intervening overpowering causes other than act of God. First Nat. Bank v McConnell, 103 Minn 340, 114 NW 1129.

impossible. Not capable of accomplishment. For some purposes, not reasonably practical, as where a statute prohibits under penalty the parking of a motor vehicle upon the traveled portion of a highway, unless it is "impossible to avoid stopping and temporarily leaving the vehicle" in such position. 7 Am J2d Auto § 235.

See impossibility of performance.

impossible condition. A condition precedent or subsequent in a contract which, at the time when the contract is entered into, purports to bind a party to do that which is absolutely impossible in itself. Jones v United States (US) 6 Otto 24, 24 L Ed 644.

impossible contract. A contract to do a thing which is in the nature of things impossible.

Such a contract is to be distinguished from one which could be performed by anyone possessing the means, skill and knowledge requisite for performance, but which the party is unable to perform; as a contract binding a party to pay money who is without funds to pay. Klauber v San Diego Street Car Co. 95 Cal 353, 30 P 555.

impossible statement. A representation so extravagant that only a credulous person will believe it. 23 Am J2d Fraud § 156.

impost. Any tax or imposition, but particularly a duty on imports. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 1.

The word "impost" is derived from the Latin word "impono," which was generally used among the Romans as meaning to lay or levy a tax, and in our language has scarcely had any other meaning than a tax, however assessed, levied or collected by a government, although by usage "impost" has acquired the more restricted meaning of taxes or duties imposed by government on imports. Neary v Philadelphia, Wilmington & Baltimore Railroad Co. 12 Del (7 Houst) 419, 440.

impostor. One who poses as another. In a restricted sense, a person who misrepresents himself as another person, or as agent for another person. Anno: 54 ALR 1330. One who perpetrates a fraud by impersonation. Comment to UCC § 3-405.

See impersonation.

impotence. Same as impotency.

impotency. A term applying to both male and female. 4 Am J2d Annul § 32. Incapacity, whether from malformation or organic defect, to have natural and complete sexual intercourse. 4 Am 12d Annul § 32. Incapacity for ordinary and complete sexual intercourse, whether arising from malformation or absence of the sexual parts or organs or genital weakness. 35 Am J1st Mar § 121. Inability to engage in, or lack of capacity for, normal sexual intercourse. Anno: 65 ALR2d 778 § 2.

[593]

Excessive sensibility rendering sexual intercourse practically impossible on account of the pain it would inflict is within the meaning of impotency which renders a marriage voidable. S. v S. 192 Mass 194, 77 NE 1025.

See triennial test; viripotens.

impotency quoad hoc. Incapacity for sexual intercourse with this person.

impotent. In a state of impotency.

See impotency.

Impotentia excusat legem. Impossibility cuts out or dispenses with law. See 2 Bl Comm 127.

impotentiam. See property propter impotentiam. impound. To place animals taken up or distrained in a building or enclosure known as a pound. 4 Am J2d Ani § 40. To hold animals, goods, or funds in legal custody.

See pound.

impounded animal. Any animal in the custody of an animal pound. 4 Am J2d Ani § 48.

impounded funds. Funds held in legal custody.

impounded property. Movable property held in legal custody.

impoverishment. See pauper.

impracticable. Not feasible. Not capable of successful or worthwhile accomplishment.

In matters of business, a thing is commonly treated as "impracticable" when it cannot be done without laying out more money than the thing is worth. Devitt v Providence Washington Ins. Co. 61 App Div 390, 70 NYS 654.

imprescriptibility. Incapability of being acquired by prescription.

imprescriptible right. A right which a person cannot secure by prescription; such as a right to maintain a nuisance.

impression. An image fixed in the mind; a belief. Riggs v Tayloe (US) 9 Wheat 483, 6 L Ed 140. An indentation, fissure, or other mark made by the weight of one object applied to another or by the hammering of an object.

impressment. Forcing into service, particularly public service or military service. The seizure of seafaring men for compulsory service in the navy.

The power to impress seamen appears to have had a common-law origin, but even the early English statutes greatly curtailed it. See 1 Bl Comm 419. The impressment of American citizens into service in the English navy, however, was one of the causes of the War of 1812.

imprest. See auditors of the imprest.

imprest money. Money paid for the impressment of seamen.

impretiabilis. Without price; invaluable.

imprimatur. Let it be printed,—a license from the government which was formerly required in England for the publication of a book.

imprimere. To impress; to print.

imprimis. Especially; first of all; principally.

imprison. To deprive a person of his liberty without his consent. Efroymson v Smith, 29 Ind App 451, 453, 63 NE 328.

imprisoned on a criminal charge. The state or condition of a person who is imprisoned, but not yet convicted. Mitchell v Greenough (CA9 Wash) 100 F2d 184.

imprisonment. The holding of a person from the time of his commitment to the time of his discharge. 41 Am J1st Pris & P § 2. The holding of a person as a prisoner under a commitment ordered pursuant to a sentence for a crime or a commitment for temporary detention pending the disposition of a criminal charge. Any restraint placed upon a person contrary to his wishes and amounting to a physical detention of his person. United States ex rel. Carapa v Curran (CA2 NY) 297 F 946, 36 ALR 877. Any exercise of force, or express or implied threat of force, by which in fact a person is deprived of his liberty, compelled to remain where he does not wish to remain, or to go where he does not wish to go. 32 Am J2d False Imp § 11.

See close confinement; commitment; false imprisonment; hard labor; prison; prisoner; solitary confinement.

imprisonment at hard labor. See hard labor.

imprisonment for debt. Imprisonment under an execution against the person of the judgment debtor. 30 Am J2d Exec § 865. Taking and holding a person in custody under mesne process to secure his presence until final judgment. 5 Am J2d Arr § 52.

Most of the state constitutions contain provisions which, although varying considerably in terminology and application, prohibit imprisonment for debt. In some jurisdictions, imprisonment for debt is prohibited by statute. 5 Am J2d Arr § 54.

The effect of a commitment for contempt for failure to comply with an order of court requiring a trustee to turn over assets is not an imprisonment for debt. Watkins v Rives, 75 App DC 109, 125 F2d 33.

imprisonment on civil process. Imprisonment for debt, whether under execution against the person or under mesne process; imprisonment for contempt in failing to comply with an order of court. 17 Am J2d Contpt §§ 104 et seq.

See imprisonment for debt.

impristi. Sympathizers; partisans; allies; backers.

improbare. To disallow; to disapprove; to reject; to overrule.

improbation. An action to have an instrument declared void on the ground of forgery. improbatory. See articles improbatory.

improper. That which is not suitable; unfit; not suited to the character, time and place. Chadbourne v Newcastle, 48 NH 196, 199. Not fitted to the circumstances. Pennsylvania Co. v Sloan, 125 Ill 72, 80.

improper conduct. Such conduct as a man of ordinary and reasonable care and prudence, would not have been guilty of, under the circumstances, particularly, conduct which is immoral. Palmer v Concord, 48 NH 211, 214.

[594]

See immorality.

improper fee. Same as improper feud.

improper feud. A fee or feud such as was originally sold to the feudatory for a price; such as was held upon base or less honorable services, or upon a rent, in lieu of military service; such as was in itself alienable, without mutual license; and such as might descend indifferently either to males or females. See 2 Bl Comm 58.

improperly. Acting in a manner which is unsuitable, unfitting, or wrong, especially in reference to the time, place, and circumstances. In connection with the conduct of a person, acting in a manner much different from that which a man of ordinary and reasonable care and prudence would have followed under the circumstances of the case. Cairnes v Hillman Drug Co. 214 Ala 545, 547, 108 So 362.

improper navigation. Navigation of a vessel in a manner contrary to the rules of navigation; navigation of a vessel not in a fit condition for navigation with safety to the vessel or cargo. The Manitoba (DC NY) 104 F 145, 155.

improper use doctrine. The doctrine of patent law, also known as the unclean hands doctrine, which denies the owner of a patent relief against one who supplies unpatented material to a licensee of the patent, although there is an agreement between the patent owner and the licensee that all unpatented materials used in connection with the patent shall be purchased from the patent owner, the latter having no right to exact such an agreement of the licensee. Carbice Corporation of America v American Patents Development Corp. 283 US 27, 75 L Ed 819, 51 S Ct 334.

impropriate rector. A layman who had been invested with a benefice and thus made a rector.

impropiation. The investiture of a benefice in a layman or in a lay corporation.

impropiator. A layman or lay corporation holding the appropriation of a benefice. An impropriate rector.

improprrium. See feudum hauberticum.

improve. To become better. To use to good purpose. To make better; to increase the value of something by alteration or addition. To construct buildings, put up fences and provide drainage ditches on land. The performance of any act, whether on or off a lot or tract of land, the direct and proximate tendency of which is to enhance its value in the market. Vandall v South San Francisco Dock Co. 40 Cal 83, 90. In a meaning peculiar to Scotch law, to disprove; to impeach; to annul.

improved land. Land used or employed to good purpose, or turned to profitable account. Johnson v Frederick, 163 Ala 455, 50 So 910. Land upon which buildings have been erected to render the use of the land more profitable and more convenient. Vandall v South San Francisco Dock Co. 40 Cal 83.

improvement. A change for the better. Anything that enhances the value of real property permanently for general uses, including buildings, fixtures, fences, wells, orchards, etc., including additions to existing buildings. 27 Am J1st Improv § 2; 36 Am J1st Mech L § 43. Original construction or substantial reconstruction as distinguished from repair. Hazard v Main Street Realty Co. (Ky) 262 SW2d 87, 41 ALR2d 609 (statutory definition for purposes of special assessment.)

Although there is some authority to the contrary, it has been held in a few instances that labor performed in clearing, grading, landscaping, and the like, did not come within the meaning of the words "improvement" under mechanic's lien statutes covering erection, construction, alteration, repair, or other improvements with regard to buildings, structures, and appurtenances. Anno: 39 ALR2d 870.

An "improvement" contemplated by a provision in a lease for its cancellation in case the lessor "desires" to improve the premises has been held to be something substantial in character, as distinguished from that which is petty or minute; and it must be permanent in its use and value, as distinguished from that which is ephemeral or subject to easy and frequent change. 32 Am J1st L & T § 835.

See improvement on invention; public improvement.

improvement bond. A bond issued by a municipality or other public body to be paid from no source other than an improvement fund. Manker v American Sav. Bank & Trust Co. 131 Wash 430, 230 P 406, 42 ALR 1021. An obligation of an improvement district payable only from the fund provided by special assessment. Northern Trust Co. v Wilmette, 220 111 417, 77 NE 169.

improvement district. A drainage district, sewer district, or other area organized for the construction and maintenance of a public improvement. An area or district within which property is specially benefited by a local public improvement with the consequence that a special or local assessment is made against such property to finance the improvement. 48 Am J1st Spec A § 114. A public debtor within the provisions of the Bankruptcy Act for relief to public debtors. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1416.

improvement lien. A lien recognized in equity in a proper case for the benefit of one who claims compensation for an improvement made on the land of another. 27 Am J1st Improv § 30.

See mechanic's lien; special assessment lien.

improvement on invention. That which improves on a patentable or patented invention. 40 Am J1st Pat § 18. A change in a machine by introducing some mechanical principle or mode of operation not previously existing in the machine. 40 Am J1st Pat § 52. An achievement which marks a distinct advance in an art. 40 Am J1st Pat. § 54. The selection and adaptation of an existing form beyond the mere exercise of the imitative faculty, the result of which is in effect a new creation. Smith v Whitman Saddle Co. 148 US 674, 37 L Ed 606, 13 S Ct 768.

improvement patent. A term applied to the vast majority of patents and covering discoveries made in the fields where others have already labored but have failed to obtain that state of perfection which frequently follows experience, further study, and experimentation. Northwest Engineering Corp. v Keystone Driller Co. (CA7 Wis) 70 F2d 13.

improvement petition. A petition for a public improvement, the expense of which is to be defrayed by special assessments.

improvements. See improvement; public improvement.

[595]

improvidence. Want of thrift. Amado v Aguirre, 63 Ariz 213, 161 P2d 117, 160 ALR 1126. Carelessness, indifference, prodigality, wastefulness, or negligence in reference to the care, management, and preservation of property. Re Davis' Estate, 10 Mont 228, 25 P 105.

improvident contract. A contract which is unwise, unprofitable or oppressive, resulting from bad calculation or the want of vigilance on the part of the party who seeks relief therefrom. 27 Am J2d Eq § 25. A contract disadvantageous to one of the parties; a contract financially improvident or a contract so unreasonable and such an abnegation of legal rights that, for protection of the public, it should not be enforced; a contract, the enforcement of which will bring about an unreasonable restriction of the liberty of a person to exercise his profession or occupation or earn his living. 17 Am J2d Contr § 192.

improvident person. A spendthrift. One given to improvidence.

See improvidence. improvisio. See ex improviso.

impruiamentum. Same as improvement.

impruiare. To improve; to erect improvements on land.

impubes. (Civil law.) A child over seven years of age who has not yet reached the age of puberty.

impulse. Sudden force. A spontaneous inclination of the mind prompting an immediate involvement in something not theretofore in contemplation. Curry v Federal Life Ins. Co. (Mo) 287 SW 1053, 1056.

See irresistible impulse; uncontrollable impulse.

impulsive insanity. That form of insanity by which a person is irresistibly impelled to the commission of an act, sometimes accompanied by delusions and sometimes not, sometimes apparent and sometimes concealed. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v Terry (US) 15 Wall 580, 21 L Ed 236. Otherwise known as irresistible impulse.

impunitas. Same as impunity.

Impunitas continuum affectum tribuit delinquendi. Impunity offers a constant opening to the delinquent.

Impunitas semper ad deteriora invit. Impunity always invites greater offenses.

impunity. Freedom or exemption from punishment.

See immunity.

impure. Adulterated; containing foreign matter, especially deleterious substances. Immoral.

impure water. Water injurious to health or unreasonably muddy so as to be unfit for use in a laundry. 56 Am J1st Watwk § 75.

Impuris manibus nemo accedat curiam. Let no one approach the court with unclean hands.

imputable negligence. See identification; imputed negligence.

imputatio. (Civil law.) Legal responsibility.

imputation of payments. A term of the civil law for application of payments.

imputed. Attributed or charged to a person, not as the one who personally perpetrated the wrong or created the situation from which injury has resulted, but as one who, because of his relationship to another person, is responsible for the acts or omissions of that person. Anno: 42 ALR 719.

imputed intent. See implied intent.

imputed knowledge. An agent's knowledge which is binding upon his principal because of the agency relationship between them. 3 Am J2d Agency § 273; 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1019. Knowledge of a fact or facts charged to a person because the circumstances are such that a person of ordinary common sense would know them. 29 Am J2d Ev § 27. That which it is one's duty to know and concerning which he has the means of knowing. Darling & Co. v Petri, 138 Kan 666, 27 P2d 255.

imputed negligence. The negligence of one person which, by reason of his relation to another person, is chargeable to that person. 38 Am J1st Negl § 234. A ground for defeating liability for negligence by charging the plaintiff with the concurrent negligence of a third person, thereby rendering the defense of contributory negligence available. 38 Am J1st Negl §§ 235 et seq. Also a basis for charging the negligence of one person to another in establishing the liability of the latter to a third person. 38 Am J1st Negl § 253.

in. Within, as "in an hour." Indicating a location, as "in Boston." Rogers v Galloway Female College, 64 Ark 627, 44 SW 454. Abbreviation of inch, also of inches.

With Latin words and phrases the word, as a preposition, has many meanings; in; on; to; into; within; according to; in the course of; at; among.

in abeyance. Said of a fee when there is no person in being in whom it can vest and abide, although the law considers it as always potentially existing, and ready to vest whenever a proper owner appears. See 2 Bl Comm 107.

inability. Want of ability or capacity to act or perform. Want of physical capacity or of capacity in an abstract sense, as inability of a trust company to act as trustee under a deed of trust, arising from its insolvency. State ex rel. Bannister v Gantley, 330 Mo 943, 62 SW2d 397.

inability to bear. Inability to become a mother, which may or may not arise from impotency. 4 Am J2d Annul § 30.

inability to beget. Inability to be a father or sire, which may or may not arise from impotency. 4 Am J2d Annul § 30.

inability to pay. Not insolvency in itself. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 160.

inability to testify. Mental or physical inability to testify. Hansen-Rynning v Oregon-Washington R. & Nav. Co. 105 Or 67, 209 P 462.

inability to work. For the purposes of allowing workmen's compensation, inability to carry on one's usual employment. Clini v New Haven Brewing Co. 119 Conn 556, 177 A 745.

See physical inability to work.

in absentia. In the absence.

in absurdum. See ducitur in absurdum.

inaccessible. In a place which cannot be reached.

Whether or not a witness beyond the jurisdiction of the state is inaccessible, in the sense in which the word is used in a statute making his inaccessibility an excuse for failure to produce him, is a question for the trial judge to determine. In the absence of such a statute, a witness so situated would doubtless be deemed inaccessible. Atlanta & Charlotte Air-Line Railway Co. v Gravitt, 93 Ga 369, 371, 20 SE 550.

[596]

inaction. A condition or state of no action or motion. A matter of not speaking or acting.

See estoppel by inaction.

in action. A right asserted in, and awaiting determination by, an action.

Property is "in action," where one is not in the occupation of it, but has a bare right to occupy or possess it, which he may enforce in an action or suit. See 2 Bl Comm 396.

See chose in action.

inaction by Congress. The absence of congressional legislation, particularly in the field of interstate commerce. 15 Am J2d Com § 20.

inactive account. A savings bank account which has stood for years without a deposit or withdrawal. 10 Am J2d Banks § 416.

inactive concert or participation. A nonparty who, while engaging in the prohibited act, aids and abets, or is legally identified in interest with, an enjoined defendant, who likewise engages in the enjoined act. Rule 65(d) Fed Rules of Civ Proc; Anno: 97 ALR2d 491.

in actual use. As the term appears in a statute exempting wearing apparel from import duties:—apparel being worn at the time and also apparel in a passenger's trunks or luggage intended for and awaiting use in wearing it. Astor v Merritt, 111 US 202, 28 L Ed 401, 4 S Ct 413.

inadequacy of plant. The condition of a public utility plant where an increase in business requires the replacement of equipment by new equipment fitted more adequately to the demands of the service. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 145.

inadequacy of price. The price obtained at a judicial sale:—inadequacy so gross as to shock the conscience and raise a presumption of fraud, unfairness, or mistake. 30A Am J Rev ed Jud S § 135.

inadequate damages. An award so small as to indicate passion, prejudice, partiality, or corruption on the part of the jury, or to make it appear that the jury disregarded the instructions of the court or labored under a vital mistake or misapprehension of the principles by which they should have been governed in making the award. 22 Am J2d Damg § 398. An award in an amount so small as to bear no reasonable relation to the loss suffered by the plaintiff or to indicate an evident failure of justice. 22 Am J2d Damg § 398.

inadequate remedy at law. A remedy which, although available at law, is not plain, clear and certain, prompt or speedy, sufficient, full and complete, practical, efficient to the attainment of the ends of justice, and final. 27 Am J2d Equity § 94. A remedy which is circuitous or doubtful, or is not as plain, complete, and efficient as an equitable remedy. 49 Am J1st Spec Per § 11. Specifically, a remedy limited to compensatory damages which under the circumstances of the case does not do complete justice between the parties. 49 Am J1st Spec Per § 10.

inadmissible. Not receivable as evidence.

in adversum. Against an adverse party; against the will or without the consent.

inadvertence. The state of one acting in an inadvertent manner. Absence of intention. Harris v Piggly Wiggly Stores, 236 Ill App 392. Acting without thought or premeditation. 38 Am J1st Negl § 5. A mistake; oversight. Tremont Trust Co. v Burack, 235 Mass 398, 126 NE 782, 9 ALR 1067, 1069. An unplanned occurrence.

inadvertent. See inadvertence.

inaedificatio. (Civil law.) A building; so constructing a building as to encroach upon the land of another; constructing a building on one's own land with materials belonging to another.

In aedificiis lapis male positus non est removendus. In buildings, a stone badly placed cannot be removed.

in aequali jure. In equal right. An essential element in the application of the principle of contribution. 18 Am J2d Contrib § 1.

In aequali jure melior est conditio possidentis. In a case of equal right the situation of the party in possession is the better.

In aequali jure potior est conditio possidentis. In a case of equal right, the situation of the party in possession is the stronger.

in aequali manu. Same as in aequa manu.

in aequa manu. In equal hand; that is, in the hands of an indifferent person.

in aid of its jurisdiction. A phrase permissive of the power of a federal court to stay by injunction a proceeding in a state court. 28 USC § 2283.

inalienability. The quality of being nontransferable.

By giving to certain lands allotted to Indian tribes the character of inalienability, it is held that Congress has thereby made the lands nontaxable, because in order to make the restriction against alienation properly effective, nontaxability follows as an implied concomitant. Colonial Trust Co. v Lewellyn (DC Penn) 12 F2d 481.

inalienable. Incapable of being aliened, transferred, or conveyed; non-transferable.

inalienable rights. The fundamental rights and privileges; the right to personal liberty and individual ownership of property, freedom of religion, freedom of speech and press; due process of law, etc. 16 Am J2d Const L § 328.

in alieno solo. On the land of another.

in alio loco. In another place.

[597]

in all likelihood. With reasonable certainty. Coppinger v Broderick, 37 Ariz 473, 295 P 780, 81 ALR 419.

in all probability. The highest degree of probability; with reasonable certainty. Coppinger v Broderick, 37 Ariz 473, 295 P 780, 81 ALR 419.

In alta proditione nullus potest esse accessorius sed principalis solummodo. In high treason no one can be an accessory but each one is a principal. Ex parte Bollman and Ex parte Swartout (US) 4 Cranch 75, 126, 2 L Ed 554, 571.

In alternativis electio est debitoris. In alternatives, the debtor has his election.

In ambigua voce legis ea potius accipienda est significatio quae vitio caret, praesertim cum etiam voluntas legis ex hoc colligi possit. In an ambiguous expression of law, that construction ought rather to be adopted which renders it free from fault, especially when the intent of the law can thus be gathered.

In ambiguis casibus semper praesumitur pro rege. In doubtful cases, the presumption is always on the side of the crown.

In ambiguis orationibus maxime sententia spectanda est ejus qui eas protulisset. In ambiguous expressions, the intent of him who made them ought to be regarded as most important.

In ambiguo sermone non utrumque dicimus sed id duntaxat quod volumus. In ambiguous discourse or conversation, we do not say either one thing or the other, but neither more nor less than we wish.

in amity. In peace.

In amity with the United States is an expression commonly used in acts of Congress dealing with the Indian tribes and means at peace, or more specifically, carrying on no hostilities toward the United States, its citizens or its property. Leighton v United States, 161 US 291, 40 L Ed 703, 16 S Ct 495.

in a motor vehicle. A phrase indicating a relationship between a person and a vehicle, such as riding in the vehicle or being in the process of entering or leaving the vehicle, but not limited to one sitting in the vehicle in the place provided for the accommodation of driver or passenger. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1241.

in and on the body. A phrase used in an indictment charging the use of an instrument in an abortion or attempted abortion. State v Longstreth, 19 ND 268, 121 NW 1114.

in an elevator. A clause in an accident insurance policy or double indemnity provision of a life insurance policy; comprehending an injury, the moving or primary cause of which originates in an elevator, for example, a fall down the shaft subsequent to an accident involving the elevator car, or an injury consequent to a fall by one intending to be a passenger into the pit of the shaft. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1235.

In Anglia non est interregnum. In England there is no interregnum. The king never dies, for immediately upon his decease, his kingship is vested in his heir. See 1 Bl Comm 249.

in an intoxicated condition. Under the influence of intoxicating liquor. 7 Am J2d Auto § 257.

There is, however, authority to the effect that while all persons intoxicated by the use of alcoholic liquors are "under the influence of intoxicating liquor," the reverse is not true. 7 Am J2d Auto § 257.

in another state. See arising in another state.

in any degree under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Intoxicated. Anno: 13 ALR2d 1003.

in aperta luce. In open daylight.

in apicibus juris. In the extremes of the law.

inapplicable. No applicable. In one sense, not suitable. Freedman v Petty, 93 Ga App 590, 92 SE2d 588, 589.

in a public conveyance. See in or on a public or passenger conveyance.

in arbitrio judicis. In the discretion of the court; for the decision of the court. Rhodes v Whitehead, 27 Tex 304.

in arbitrium alieno. In the discretion of another person.

in arbitrium judicis. In the decision or discretion of the court.

in arcta et salva custodia. In close and safe custody.

in articulo. At the point; at the moment.

in articulo mortis. At the point of death.

See in extremis.

In atrocioribus delictis punitur affectus licet non sequatur effectus. In the more atrocious crimes, the attempt is punished although the result does not follow.

in auditu. Within the hearing. Brown v Brashier (Pa) 2 Penr & W 114.

inauguration. The installation into office of a person elected or appointed to a high office of state. Making a beginning; putting into effect.

Inauguration Day. The day, January 20, following their election, for the inauguration of the President and Vice President of the United States. The day fixed by law of a state for the inauguration of the Governor.

in auter droit. In the right of another person. 2 Bl Comm 177.

in bad faith. With actual intent to deceive or mislead. Penn Mut. Life Ins. Co. v Mechanics' Sav. Bank & Trust Co. (CA6 Tenn) 73 F 653.

See bad faith.

in banco. On the bench; in bank, that is, when all of the judges of the court are sitting.

in bank. With all of the judges of the court sitting.

[598]

in bar. See plea in bar.

in being. In existence; alive. An unborn child, after conception, if it is subsequently born alive and so far advanced to maturity as to be capable of living, is considered as "in esse" from the time of its conception where it is for the benefit of the child that it should be so considered. Hone v Van Schaick (NY) 3 Barb Ch 488, 509.

For the purpose of taking any estate which is for his benefit, whether by descent, devise, or under the statute of distributions, a person is held both in England and in the United States to be "in being" from the time of his conception, the commencement of foetal existence being placed at a time nine months before birth. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 88; 57 Am J1st Wills § 154. If the child is born dead or in such an early stage of gestation as to be incapable of living, the situation is as though he had never been conceived or born. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 88; 57 Am J1st Wills § 154.

See in.

in blank. An instrument drawn and executed with blank spaces left to be filled later.

See indorsement in blank.

inblaura. Produce of the soil; the profit of such produce.

inboard. Stowage of cargo under deck or, at least, with no part projecting over the rail of the vessel.

inboard motorboat. A motorboat, the engine of which is mounted within the hull.

in body. See in person.

in bona fide operation. An expression in the "grandfather clause" of the Federal Motor Carrier Act indicating prior service that was actual rather than simulated and legal rather than in defiance of the laws of the state. McDonald v Thompson, 305 US 263, 83 L Ed 164, 59 S Ct 176, reh den 305 US 676, 83 L Ed 437, 59 S Ct 356.

See grandfather clause.

in bonis. Among the goods; in the property.

in bonis defuncti. Among the goods or in the property of the deceased.

in bonis, in terris, vel persona. In either his goods, his lands or his person. See 1 Bl Comm 141.

inborow. A gatehouse between principalities.

inbound common. A common with definite boundaries but not fenced.

In Britannia tertia pars bonorum decedentium ab intestato in opus ecclesiae et pauperum dispensanda est. In Britain a third part of the goods left by an intestate is to be distributed for the needs of the church and the poor. See 2 Bl Comm 495.

in camera. In chambers; in private. A trial in which the court excludes the public from the courtroom. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 334.

incapable. Unfit for work, or for the performance of a particular task, for want of physical strength, education, or mentality. Having physical or mental disability. Ineligible; disqualified.

A statute which provided for certain action to be had upon the death or disability of the judge would ordinarily be construed to refer to the physical or mental disability of the judge. Used in this connection, it would not in the customary use of language be construed to mean if the judge was incapable to act because of disqualification. Todd v Bradley, 97 Conn 563, 117 A 808, 25 ALR 22, 25.

incapable of being ascertained. The absence of any rule for the guidance of the jury or the trier of the facts for the determination of the amount of actual damages from breach of contract, wherefrom a stipulation in the contract may be deemed a provision for liquidated damages, not a penalty. 22 Am J2d Damg § 218.

incapacitated. See incapacity; physically incapacitated.

incapacity. In the broader meaning, physical or mental inability to act. In some contexts, confined to mental disability or incapability. Ellicott v Ellicott, 90 Md 321, 45 A 183 (incapacity to pursue a college education.) For the purposes of workmen's compensation:—inability to procure employment or incapacity to perform the service. 58 Am J1st Workm C § 282.

See mental incapacity; physical incapacity.

incapacity for work. A familiar phrase in workmen's compensation statutes; including not merely want of physical ability to work, but lack of opportunity for work; loss of earning power as a workman in consequence of the injury, whether the loss manifests itself in inability to perform such work as may be obtainable, or inability to secure work to do. Ray v Frenchmen's Bay Packing Co. 122 Me 108, 119 A 191, 33 ALR 112, 114.

incapacity of physician. See manifest incapacity.

incapacity to defend. Infancy. 27 Am J1st Inf § 116. Insanity. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 123.

incapacity to sue. Want of capacity arising from infancy, incompetency, lack of authority, etc., as a result of which the plaintiff lacks standing to maintain the action. 39 Am J1st Parties §§ 105 et seq. incapax. See doliincapax.

in capita. To the polls.

A challenge in capita, or to the polls, is a challenge to a particular juror. See 3 Bl Comm 361.

in capite. In chief.

See tenure in capite.

incarcerate. To imprison; to confine in a prison or jail.

in case of need. See referee in case of need.

in cash. A requirement imposed upon the insured under some insurance policies as a condition in reference to the payment of premium. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 542.

See cash.

in casu consimili. In a similar case.

In casu extremae necessitatis omnia sunt communia. In a case of extreme necessity, all things are common property.

in casu proviso. In the case provided.

incaustum. Ink.

incautacion. (Spanish.) A taking of property without thought of restitution, somewhat by way of punishment, as in the expropriation of property of a deposed king. The Navemar (DC NY) 24 F Supp 495.

[599]

Incaute factum pro non facto habetur. An act which is done carelessly is regarded as not having been done.

incautious. Careless; negligent; lacking in circumspection.

incendiarism. A wilful, as distinguished from an accidental, starting of a fire. Williamsburgh City Fire Ins. Co. v Willard (CA9 Cal) 164 F 404.

incendiary. Adjective: Kindled. Wilfully set on fire. Noun: A person guilty of arson or an attempt to commit arson.

incendi crimen. (Latin.) Arson.

Incendit et combussit. He set on fire and burned.

Incendium aere alieno non exult debitorem. A fire does not discharge a debtor of his debt.

incentive compensation. Bonus and profit-sharing plans for corporate officers and employees. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1413. Stock options for executives.

incentive plan. See bonus plan.

incentive wages. Bonuses or other payments made to employees in addition to guaranteed hourly wages. 31 Am J Rev ed Labor § 615.

See incentive compensation.

inception. An initial stage. The beginning.

The word does not refer to a state of actual existence, but to a condition of things or circumstances from which the thing may develop, as the beginning of work on a building. Oriental Hotel Co. v Griffiths, 88 Tex 574, 33 SW 652.

inception of lien. The commencement or attachment of alien, particularly a lien predicated upon judgment or execution. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm §§ 520 et seq.

inception of risk. Assuming the consummation of a contract of insurance, the attachment of the risk covered by the policy. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 309.

inception of title doctrine. The doctrine of community-property law that property is acquired, for the purpose of classification as separate or community, at inception of spouse's title. Hollingsworth v Hicks, 57 NM 336, 258 P2d 724.

Incertain et caducam hereditatem relevabat. It freed the uncertain and fallen inheritance. See 2 Bl Comm 56.

Incerta pro nullis habentur. Uncertain things are regarded as nullities.

Incerta quantitas vitiat actum. An uncertain quantity vitiates the act.

incest. Sexual intercourse, either habitual or in a single instance, and either under form of marriage or without it, between persons too closely related in consanguinity or affinity to be entitled to intermarry; sexual intercourse between persons so closely related that marriage between them would be unlawful. 27 Am J1st Incest § 1.

incestuous adultery. Incest committed by a person who is married.

incestuous bastard. A person whose conception was in the perpetration of the crime of incest by his parents; a bastard born of the incestuous relations of his parents with one another.

incestuous marriage. A marriage between persons forbidden by law to intermarry, because they are related to one another in a certain degree. 35 Am J1st Marr § 140.

inch. A unit of linear measurement, one-twelfth of a foot or 254.00 centimeters. Am J2d Desk Book Document 156. Also a measure of surface area and of volume, respectively a square inch and a cubic inch.

See inch of water; miner's inch.

in charge of motor vehicle. Being in control of the movement of a motor vehicle, whether by application of the power of the motor or steering the vehicle while it is being towed or pushed by another vehicle. Anno: 47 ALR2d 585, § 5[c].

in chief. See examination in chief; question in chief.

Inchmaree Clause. A clause of a marine insurance policy, covering loss of, or damage to, the hull or machinery, through the negligence of master, mariners, engineers or pilots, or through explosions, bursting of boilers, or breaking of shafts, or through any latent defect in the machinery or hull, provided such loss or damage has not resulted from want of due diligence by the owners of the vessel or any of them or by the manager. Anno: 91 ALR2d 1296; 98 ALR2d 953.

inchoate. Imperfect; incipient; not completely formed.

inchoate battery. An assault. Johnson v Sampson, 167 Minn 203, 208 NW 814, 46 ALR 772.

inchoate curtesy. A term variously defined as the right of the husband akin to the inchoate right of dower of the wife; the right of the husband in a jurisdiction in which the husband's right of curtesy is by statute the same as the right of dower, such right attaching the moment the wife becomes seized in fee simple during coverture; the doctrine that on the birth of issue, even though the husband has no greater interest in the wife's property during her life because of the Married Woman's Act, he nevertheless has a potential life estate in his wife's real property conditional on his surviving her. 25 Am J2d Dow § 2.

inchoate dower. See inchoate right of dower.

inchoate lien. A lien that has not actually attached to the property, as in the case of a tax lien prior to the assessment of the tax. 51 Am J1st Tax § 1020. The state of a mechanic's lien before filing or giving of notice. 36 Am J1st Mech L § 167.

inchoate right. A rudimentary interest.

inchoate right of dower. The right, or expectation of a future right, that a wife has in real estate, of which her husband has become seized, while he is still living, such right becoming consummate as her dower if he dies leaving her surviving and she has not previously released her interest. American Blower Co. v MacKenzie, 197 NC 152, 147 SE 829, 64 ALR 1047.

inch of candle. See auction by inch of candle.

inch of water. A measurement of rainfall. Flowing water:-an indefinite term, without meaning in and of itself in the absence of extrinsic evidence indicating the kind of inch or the method of measurement. 56 Am J1st Wat § 4. In some jurisdictions, the amount of water that flows through an orifice one inch square in a vertical position and under a stand and head prescribed by custom or by statute. New Brantner Extension Ditch Co. v Kramer, 57 Colo 218, 141 P 498.

[600]

incidence of tax. The burden of a tax, that is, where the burden of payment is ultimately imposed, as where a person obligated to pay a stamp tax shifts the burden to another by charging him directly or indirectly the amount of the tax paid. 49 Am J1st Stamp T § 20.

incident. An event, happening, or thing, of moment because of its connection with a main or principal event, happening, or thing. Commonwealth use of Vicars v Wampler, 104 Va 337, 51 SE 737.

incidental authority. See implied authority.

incidental beneficiary. A person to whom the benefits of a contract accrue merely as an incident to the performance of the contract.

A person for whose benefit a contract is made may maintain an action thereon. It must definitely appear, however, that the contract was made for his benefit; it is not sufficient that he is merely an incidental beneficiary. Shapiro Bros. Factors Corp. v Automobile Ins. Co. (DC NJ) 40 F Supp 1.

incidental fees. Student union fee, matriculation fee, hospital fee, laboratory fee, athletic fee, etc., collected by a state university or college, admission to which is generally free by constitutional or statutory provision. 15 Am J2d Univ & C § 19.

incidental jurisdiction. See ancillary jurisdiction.

incidental power. A power that is directly and immediately appropriate to the execution of the specific power granted. Nicollet National Bank v Frisk-Turner Co. 71 Minn 413, 74 NW 160; People ex rel. Peabody v Chicago Gas Trust Co. 130 Ill 268, 22 NE 798.

See implied authority.

incidental proceeding. An ancillary proceeding, that is a proceeding which stems from a main or principal action or proceeding.

See ancillary proceeding.

incidental relief. Relief granted by a court of equity beyond that specifically requested in the bill or complaint. 27 Am J2d Equity § 108.

incidental rights. See appurtenant rights.

incidental third-party beneficiary. Same as incidental beneficiary.

incidental use. The use of a highway for a purpose other than travel or transportation, which is conducive to public convenience or tends to make the highway of greater utility, or for the purpose of travel or transportation by a special instrumentality or mode of conveyance not inconsistent or incompatible with the primary purpose of a highway or its use in the customary manner. 25 Am J1st High § 168. A familiar term in zoning laws; a use of premises dependent on or pertaining to the principal or main use. Needham v Winslow Nurseries, Inc. 330 Mass 95, 111 NE2d 453, 40 ALR2d 1450. A use accessory to a permitted use, sometimes limited to a use on the same premises or a use other than for business or industrial purposes. 58 Am J1st Zoning § 46.

incident and appurtenant. A characterization of those things which pass by a conveyance of lands, though not designated in the conveyance. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 256.

incidents of ownership. A test of taxability of the proceeds of life insurance under an estate tax law. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 254.

incident to employment. A characterization of those dangers in the work and injuries compensable under a workmen's compensation statute, although not located or occurring directly on the premises of the employer. Kozdeba v Peoples Gas Light & Coke Co. 232 Ill App 495. A characterization of a basis for recognizing the authority of an agent or the duties and scope of employment of a servant.

incidere. To happen; to occur; to attack.

Incidit in Scyllam evitare Charybdis. He falls upon Scylla in avoiding Charybdis.

As where counsel, in his effort to prove his client innocent of one offense, shows him to be guilty of another. Commonwealth v Eagan, 190 Pa 10, 42 A 374.

incinerator. A large receptacle of metal for receiving and burning rubbish and other trash. 39 Am J1st Nuis § 94. A structure equipped for the burning of the rubbish and waste of the inhabitants of a city.

incipitur. It is begun.

incite. To arouse to action, sometimes to violence, mob action or riot, even to revolution. State v Diamond, 27 NM 477, 202 P 988, 20 ALR 1527, 1532. To solicit the commission of a crime, such as larceny. 32 Am J1st Larc § 91.

incitement. An arousing to action.

See incite.

inciting fraudulent litigation. A form of obstruction of justice. 39 Am J1st Obst J § 4.

incivile. Unjustly; tyrannically; improperly; unfairly.

Incivile est, nisi tota lege prospecta, una aliqua particula ejus proposita, judicare vel respondere. It is unfair, unless the whole of the law has been examined to adjudge or to advise respecting some particular provision of it.

The word "prospect" in the maxim is sometimes written as "perspecta."

Incivile est, nisi tota sententia inspecta, de aliqua parta judicare. Unless the whole of a sentence has been examined, it is unfair to pass judgment upon any certain portion of it.

In civilibus ministerium excusat, in criminalibus non item. In civil cases agency is an excuse, but it is not so in criminal cases.

incivility. Rudeness; conduct which may constitute a ground for divorce as an indignity. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 159.

incivism. The failure of a person to perform his duty as a citizen.

In claris non est locus conjectures. In matters which are clear there is no room for conjecture.

inclausa. An enclosure; an enclosed space.

inclement weather. Bad weather.

in clientelam recipere. To take into protection or patronage. See 2 Bl Comm 21.

[601]

inclination. An encroachment, as where the wall tips or leans over adjoining premises. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 44.

incline. A hill or grade.

inclose. To encompass, bound, fence, or otherwise part off or hem in a tract of land on all sides. White Chapel Memorial Asso. v Wilson, 260 Mich 238, 244 NW 460; Kimball v Carter, 95 Va 77, 27 SE 823. To place in an envelope, particularly with a letter; the same as "enclose."

inclosed land. Fenced land. Land surrounded by a fence, hedge, ditch, wall, or any line of obstacles interposed so as to part off and shut in the land and set it off as private property, but not necessarily so securely as to prevent the passing of cattle to and from the premises. Kimball v Carter, 95 Va 77.

inclosure. A fence, wall, hedge, rail, or other tangible obstruction protecting premises against encroachment. The area protected by such visible or tangible obstruction.

As used in a statute relating to damage done by cattle, it was held to mean a tract of land surrounded by an actual fence together with such fence, and not to include that part of a public highway of which the fee belonged to the owner of an adjoining inclosure. Peck v Williams, 24 RI 583, 54 A 381.

See ancient inclosure; fence; possession by enclosure. include. To comprise, embrace, contain, or comprehend as a component part or member. Montello Salt Co. v Utah, 221 US 452, 55 L Ed 810, 31 S Ct 706; Red Wing Malting Co. v Willcuts (CA8 Minn) 15 F2d 626, 49 ALR 459, 464.

included offense. A criminal offense included, within an indictment for a more serious offense, as a lesser offense, or one of a lower degree of the same general class as the more serious offense, for which the accused may be convicted under the indictment, provided he is not convicted of the more serious offense. 27 Am J1st Indict § 105.

including. The present participle of "include," used in the sense of "inclusive of." A term of enlargement rather than limitation. Montello Salt Co. v Utah, 221 US 452, 464, 55 L Ed 810, 814, 31 S Ct 706.

See include.

Inclusio unius est exclusio alterius. The inclusion of one is the exclusion of the other. Ex parte Cox, 44 Fla 537, 33 So 509.

inclusive. Embracing; comprehensive; forming a part of.

See include; including.

inclusive deed. See inclusive grant.

inclusive grant. A term applied to a deed without exception of acreage excepted in the conveyance under which the grantor holds. Logan v Ward, 58 W Va 366, 52 SE 398.

inclusive survey. See cadastral survey.

incola. An inhabitant; a person who dwells in a place.

incolae territorii. The inhabitants of the territory.

incolas domicilium facit. Residence makes the domicil. Arnold v United Ins. Co. (NY) 1 Johns Cas 363, 366.

incombustible. Incapable of being burned or consumed by fire, at least an ordinary fire. Sylvania v Hylton, 123 Ga 754, 51 SE 744.

income. A word having different meanings, dependent upon the connection in which it is used and the result intended to be accomplished. Equitable Trust Co. v Prentice, 250 NY 1, 164 NE 723, 63 ALR 263. For tax purposes, the gain derived from capital, from labor, or from both combined (Eisner v Macomber, 252 US 189, 64 L Ed 521, 40 S Ct 189, 9 ALR 1570), including profit gained through a sale or conversion of capital assets. Doyle Case, 247 US 183, 62 L Ed 1054, 38 S Ct 467. In reference to a life tenant, something produced by capital and severed from capital, leaving the property or principal intact. Rhode Island Hospital Trust Co. v Tucker, 51 RI 507, 155 A 661, 83 ALR 1253, mod on reh 52 RI 277, 160 A 465, 83 ALR 1259. Ordinarily, but not necessarily, cash or money; sometimes taking the form of property. United States v Siegel (CA8 Mo) 52 F2d 63, 78 ALR 672, cert den 284 US 679, 76 L Ed 574, 52 S Ct 140. In the usual signification, net, rather than gross, income. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 284. Profits earned rather than a fixed annuity. 4 Am J2d Annu § 3.

See gross income; net income; ordinary income.

income and revenues. That which will accrue to a municipality from all sources of its operations and employment of its taxing power, including delinquent taxes which are collectible. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp § 479.

income averaging. An elective method of computing income tax by an individual, not a corporation or trust, who has unusually large income in the current taxable year as compared with the four preceding years, whereby the taxpayer may elect to have the excess taxed, in effect, as if he had received it over five years instead of all in a single year. IRC §§ 1301, 1302, 1305.

income bearing. Productive of income. Re Briggs' Estate, 139 Cal App 2d 802, 294 P2d 478, 481.

income excise tax. See income tax.

income execution. Garnishment for the purpose of collecting a judgment out of income of the judgment debtor. 30 Am J2d Exec § 774.

income, rents, and profits. As the term appears in a will, deed, or trust instrument:—net income. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 285.

income tax. A tax based on income, gross or net. Powell v Gleason, 50 Ariz 542, 74 P2d 47, 114 ALR 838. Usually regarded as an excise rather than a property tax. Sims v Ahrens, 167 Ark 557, 271 SW 720; Miles v Department of Treasury, 209 Ind 172, 199 NE 372, 97 ALR 1474, 101 ALR 1359, app dismd 298 US 640, 80 L Ed 1372, 56 S Ct 750.

Income tax laws do not profess to embody perfect economic theory. They ignore some things that either a theorist or a businessman would take into account in determining the pecuniary condition of the taxpayer. Weiss v Wiener, 279 US 333, 73 L Ed 720, 49 S Ct 337.

income tax return. See tax return.

in commendam. In trust.

In commodato haec pactio, ne dolus praestetur, rata non est. (Civil law.) In a commodatum, an agreement that fraud is not to be answered for is not valid.

[602]

Incommodum non solvit argumentum. An inconvenience does not settle an argument.

in common. Participating or sharing in ownership, use or enjoyment of anything. Land open to public use. 35 Am J2d Fen § 19.
See estate in common.

in communi. In common.

incommunication. The confinement of a prisoner in such a manner as to prevent his seeing or conversing with other persons.

incompatibility. Conflicts in personalities and dispositions. As a ground for divorce:—conflicts in personalities and dispositions which are so deep as to be irreconcilable and irremediable, and which render it impossible for the parties to continue to live together in a normal marital relationship. Burch v Burch (CA3 Virgin Islands) 195 F2d 799. Such conflict of personalities as to destroy the legitimate ends of matrimony and the possibility of reconciliation. Wegener v Wegener (Okla) 365 P2d 728.

See incompatible offices; incompatible things.

incompatible. See incompatibility; incompatible offices; incompatible things.

incompatible offices. Public offices which cannot be held by one person at the same time. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 70. Two public offices having respectively such duties and functions that the performance of the duties of the one will so interfere with the performance of the duties of the other that it will be impossible for the same incumbent to discharge the duties of both offices faithfully, impartially, and efficiently. Haymaker v State ex rel. McCain, 22 NM 400, 163 P 248; State ex rel. Metcalf v Goff, 15 RI 505, 9 A 226.

incompatible things. Things which cannot coexist without disturbance at the same time and place. Commonwealth v Staunton Mut. Tel. Co. 134 Va 291, 114 SE 600.

incompetence. See incompetency.

incompetency. Inefficiency; a lack of some requisite ability. Anno: 4 ALR3d 1095. Inadequacy or insufficiency, either physical or mental, as the incompetency of a child for hard labor or of an idiot for intellectual labor. Brandt v Godwin, 24 NYSE 305, 3 NYS 807, 811. Want of qualification or eligibility. Of public officer:-the absence of a physical, moral, or intellectual quality, incapacitating one to perform the duties of his office, characterized by gross neglect of duty or gross carelessness in the performance of duty, lack of judgment, and want of sound discretion. State ex rel. Hardie v Coleman, 115 Fla 119, 155 So 129, 92 ALR 988. Of a schoolteacher:-want of knowledge of the subject matter to be taught; inability to maintain discipline; physical mistreatment of pupils; even improper conduct outside of school. Anno: 4 ALR3d 1102, 1109, 1117. Of an employee:-want of ability suitable to the task, as regards natural qualities or experience, or deficiency of disposition to use one's ability and experience properly. 35 Am J1st M & S § 197. Of fellow servant: want of ability suitable to the task with which the fellow employee is charged, either as regards natural ability or experience, or deficiency of disposition to use one's ability and experience properly; qualities and characteristics calculated to cause reasonable apprehension that the admission to the service or the retention therein of the incompetent will or may imperil the safety of other employees. Still v San Francisco & Northwestern Railway Co. 154 Cal 559, 98 P 672; 35 Am J1stM&S§350.

See mental incapacity; physically incapacitated.

incompetency proceeding. A proceeding for the determination of the competency or incompetency of a person for the purpose of determining whether the state may or should assume jurisdiction over his person or property, or for the purpose merely of giving public notice of the existence of such status. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per §§ 9 et seq. A special action within the meaning of a statute providing for appeal from a final order made in a special action. State ex rel. McPherson v Rakey, 236 Iowa 876, 20 NW2d 43.

incompetent. See incompetency; incompetent person.

incompetent, irrelevant, and immaterial. A very general objection to the admissibility of evidence, usually held insufficient, when standing alone, for want of a statement of specific ground or reason. 53 Am J1st Trial § 138.

incompetent person. Literally and broadly, one lacking competency, physical or mental. Usually having reference in the law to an insane or feeble-minded person; a person lacking the mental capacity to make a contract or engage in business transactions. Sometimes inclusive of any one incapacitated for the making of a contract or the transaction of business, whether his incapacity arises from mental unsoundness or infancy. Walgreen Co. v Industrial Cem. 323 Ill 194, 153 NE 831, 48 ALR 1199, 1202.

See incompetency; spendthrift.

incomplete dedication. A defective statutory dedication or an ineffectual attempt to make a statutory dedication, operating by way of estoppel when accepted by the public or when rights are acquired under it by third persons. Hooper v Haas, 332 Ill 561, 164 NE 23, 63 ALR 658.

incomplete gift. See imperfect gift.

incomplete possession. Literally, a possession of less than the whole or which lacks the quality of complete dominion. Technically, a possession of land involving a struggle with another claimant to maintain it or under such circumstances that such struggle appears imminent. 35 Am J2d Fore E & D § 18.

incomplete trust. See executory trust.

inconclusive. Not conclusive; subject to disproof; subject to rebuttal.

in confidence. In a confidential relationship; in secret and to be kept a secret.

in confinio comitatus. Within the boundary of the county.

It is said in Co. Litt. 154a that "for a common of pasture, of turbary, of piscary, of estovers and the like in one county, appendant or appurtenant to land in another county, in assize in confinio comitatus did lye at common law, and so it is of a nusans done in one county to lands lying in another county, the like assize did lye at common law." Worster v Winnipiseogee Lake Co. 25 NH 525, 532.

in confusum. See mittere in confusum.

In conjunctivis oportet utramque partem esse veram. In conjunctives it is necessary that each part should be true.

in consequence of. As the result of; because of. Tierney v Occidental L. Ins. Co. 89 Cal App 779, 265 P 400.

[603]

in consequence of intoxication. A clause found in dram-shop or civil damage acts, meaning that intoxication was the proximate cause, or at least a contributory cause, of the injury for which recovery may be had under such statute. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 541.

inconsequential error. An error occurring on trial which perpetrates no injustice and denies no substantial right. 39 Am J1st New Tr § 28.

in consideratione inde. In consideration thereof.

in consideratione legis. In consideration of law; in contemplation of law.

in consideratione praemissorum. In consideration of the premises.

In consimili casu, consimiledebet esse remedium. In a similar case, there ought to be a similar remedy.

inconsistency. Want of harmony or accord. The quality of being inconsistent. Want of harmony between two clauses of an instrument, as where there are conflicting descriptions in a deed of the property conveyed. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 237. Repugnancy in a pleading; an inconsistency between allegations such that one destroys the effect of the other. 41 Am J1st Pl § 47.

See inconsistent counts; inconsistent defenses; repugnancy. inconsistent. Repugnant; not in harmony or accord. Contradictory of one another.

inconsistent counts. Causes of action pleaded which are repugnant to each other. 41 Am J1st Pl § 48.

inconsistent defenses. Defenses pleaded in an answer which disagree with one another. 41 Am J1st Pl § 48. Defenses which contradict each other or disprove each other, thus being mutually destructive. 41 Am J1st Pl § 163. Defenses which raise issues triable by different methods or by different courts. 41 Am J1st Pl § 163.

inconsistent offices. See incompatible offices.

inconsistent pleading. See inconsistency; inconsistent counts; inconsistent defenses.

inconsistent position. A position assumed in litigation directly contrary to one previously assumed by the party, constituting an estoppel in pais where he had, or was chargeable with, full knowledge of the facts and another will be prejudiced by his action. 28 Am J2d Estop § 68.

inconsistent remedies. For the purposes of the doctrine of election of remedies: two or more coexisting remedies available to the litigant at the time of the election which are repugnant and inconsistent, 25 Am J2d Elect R § 10; not, in reality, an inconsistency between the remedies themselves, but an inconsistency between a certain state of facts relied on as the basis of a certain remedy and another certain state of facts relied on as the basis of another remedy. Brady v State Ins. Co. 100 Neb 497, 160 NW 882.

Remedies are inconsistent when the right to any of them necessarily yields or concedes the right to another. Crane v Atlanta & Lowry Nat. Bank, 40 Ga App 83, 49 SE 58.

inconsistent things. Things which are opposed to each other. Commonwealth v Staunton Mutual Tel. Co. 134 Va 291, 114 SE 600.

inconsistent verdict. A verdict which is self-contradictory, as where, on a charge of conspiracy, one of the two defendants is convicted and the other is acquitted. Sasser v United States (CA5 Ga) 29 F2d 76.

in conspectu ejus. Within his view; in his sight.

In consuetudinibus, non diuturnitas temporis sed soliditas rationis est consideranda. In customs or usages, not lapse of time, but the soundness of the reason for their existence should be considered.

inconsulto. (Civil law.) Without being advised; inadvisedly; unintentionally.

in contemplation of bankruptcy. See contemplation of bankruptcy.

in contemplation of death. See contemplation of death.

in contemplation of insolvency. See contemplation of insolvency.

in contempt. The status of a person who has committed a contempt of court and who has not expiated his offense.

incontestability provision. A provision in a life insurance policy to the effect that the policy shall be incontestable from date or incontestable after a specified period, sometimes subject to express reservation of enumerated specific circumstances under which the provision shall not be operative, the effect of such a provision being to preclude the insurer from contesting the validity of the contract as such, the truthfulness of the answers to questions propounded to the applicant, and other matters ordinarily constituting defenses, such preclusion, of course, being subject to the terms of the provision and the reservations contained therein. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins §§ 1107 et seq.

incontestable clause. See incontestability provision.

incontinent. Want of restraint, especially in sexual activity. 33 Am J1st L & S §§ 35 et seq.

incontinenti. Immediately; at once.

In contractibus, benigna, in testamentis, benignior, in restitutionibus, benignissima interpretatio facienda est. In contracts, a liberal, in wills, a more liberal, and in restitutions, a most liberal construction should be adopted.

In contractibus, rei veritas potius quam scriptura perspici debet. In contracts, the truth of the matter ought to be regarded as of more consequence than the writing.

In contractibus, tacite insunt quae sunt moris et consuetudinis. In contracts, matters of custom and usage are tacitly implied.

In contrahenda venditione, ambiguum pactum contra venditorem interpretandum est. In the negotiation of a sale, an ambiguous clause is to be interpreted or construed against the vendor.

[604]

in control of a motor vehicle. In control of the movement of a motor vehicle, whether by application of the power of the motor or by steering the vehicle while it is being towed or pushed by another vehicle. Anno: 47 ALR2d 585, § 5 [c].

incontrovertible. So clear and certain as not to admit of dispute. McCreary v Skinner, 75 Iowa 412, 413.

inconvenience. Disquiet; uneasiness; annoyance; trouble. Jenson v Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha R. Co. 86 Wis 589, 57 NW 359.

inconvenience of legal remedy. Vexatious irritation, annoyance, or embarrassment consequent on a recourse to a court of law. Cook v Carpenter, 212 Pa 165, 61 A 799.

inconveniences of trial. Difficulties and burdens in transporting witnesses, taking depositions, transporting books and documents, employing local counsel, expenditures of time by the parties and the loss of time of their employees, the necessity of proving foreign law, and the possibility of the necessity of trial in another jurisdiction. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 224.

inconvenient forum. The doctrine that where the plaintiff could have brought the action in a court other than that in which he instituted the suit, in other words had a choice of forum, the court may, in the exercise of sound discretion, decline to assume or exercise jurisdiction of the case brought before it by the plaintiff, if it believes that the case may more conveniently, yet justly, proceed in another court before which the plaintiff may bring it after refusal of the exercise of jurisdiction by the court in which the action was first brought. 20 Am J2d Cts § 173.

inconvenienti. See ab inconvenienti.

In conventionibus contrahentium voluntas potius quam verba spectari placuit. In contracts, it is well to regard the intention of the parties rather than their mere words. Jackson ex dem. Craigie v Wilkinson (NY) 17 Johns 146, 150.

Incorporalia bello non adquiruntur. Incorporal things are not acquired in war.

incorporalis. Same as incorporeal.

incorporamus. We incorporate.

A formal word employed in the king's grant of a corporation charter. See 1 Bl Comm 473.

incorporate. To combine in one unit. To form a corporation.

See incorporation.

incorporated. Combined with something else. Made or formed as a corporation.

While the usual meaning of the term, as applied to an association of persons, imports that they have formed a corporation, as the word is used in a statute providing that every corporation, jointstock company or association "incorporated" under the laws of the state shall pay a specified tax, "incorporated" is not to be taken in a technical or restricted meaning and confined to an association brought into being according to the formality of a statute, but as including any combination of individuals upon terms which embody or adopt as rules or regulations of business the enabling provisions of the statutes. People, ex rel Platt v Wemple, 117 NY 136, 22 NE 1046.

incorporated company. A business or stock corporation, as distinguished from a charitable, religious, literary, or membership corporation. Catlin v Trinity College, 113 NY 133, 20 NE 864.

incorporated territory. A territory incorporated into the United States so as to be a part thereof. 49 Am J1st States § 4. Territory included in the incorporation of a municipality or added later to the municipality.

incorporating state. The state wherein a corporation was created by law and became an entity. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 85.

incorporation. The creation of a corporation whether directly by special legislative act, or by compliance with general laws. 18 Am J2d Corp §§ 24 et seq. An incorporated company; a corporation. The combining of one thing with another. The addition of a material to a building or other structure. 36 Am J1st Mech L § 72.

incorporation by reference. The doctrine that a will, duly executed and witnessed according to statutory requirements, may incorporate into itself by an appropriate reference a written paper or document which is in existence at the time of the execution of the will, irrespective of whether such document is one executed by the testator or a third person, whether it is executed and attested as a will, or whether it is in and of itself a valid instrument, provided the document referred to is identified by clear and satisfactory proof. 57 Am J1st Wills § 233. The permissible practice of referring to; and thereby making a part of one count or defense, the whole or a part of the allegations of another count or defense in the same pleading. 41 Am J1st Pl § 58. Making a map, plat, or writing a part of a deed by reference thereto in the deed, particularly for the purpose of furnishing a description of the property conveyed. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 232. Making prior certificates in an abstract of title a part of the last certificate by a reference in the latter. 1 Am J2d Abstr T § 20. Making a separation agreement a part of decree of divorce by reference thereto in the decree. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 907. Making an extraneous writing a part of a written contract by reference thereto in the contract in terms of making it a part of the contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 263.

incorporation fees. Fees the payment of which is required by the constitutions and statutes of many states as a prerequisite to the exercise of corporate powers. 18 Am J2d Corp § 41.

incorporation under general laws. The usual method of incorporation, calling for compliance with statutes imposing requirements generally relative to the formation of a corporation and the exercise of powers thereby. 18 Am J2d Corp §§ 23 et seq.

incorporation under special laws. Acquiring corporate status under a special act conferring upon designated persons and their associates the right to be a corporation and exercise corporate powers. 18 Am J2d Corp § 26.

incorporator. Same as corporator.

in corpore. In body; in substance.

incorporeal. Having no body or substance; intangible; without physical existence.

incorporeal chattel. Same as chose in action.

[605]

incorporeal hereditament. A right without the substance of a body but issuing out of a substance of real or personal property, such as rent issuing out of land, and capable of being inherited. 42 Am J1st Prop § 17.

incorporeal property. Property that has no corporeal tangible substance. Transcontinental Oil Co. v Emmerson, 298 111 394, 131 NE 645, 16 ALR 507. Intangibles without the substance of a body, but sometimes issuing out of corporeal property, which the law gives effect to as property by attaching to them certain sanctions enforceable in the courts. Curry v McCanness, 307 US 357, 83 L Ed 1339, 59 S Ct 900, 123 ALR 162.

See chose in action; intangible; intangible property.

incorrigibility. See incorrigible child.

incorrigible child. A child unmanageable by parents or guardians. Annos: 45 ALR 1533, 85 ALR 1099. A child incapable of being corrected or reformed in his present situation and under his present control. Re Hook, 95 Vt 497, 115 A 730, 19 ALR 610, 615.

See delinquent children.

in course of employment. See in the course of employment.

in court. Literally, one's presence during a session of court. Having appeared in an action in which named as a party. Having been subjected to service of legal process, so as to be bound by the proceedings in court.

See day in court.

in crastino. On the morrow; tomorrow.

in crastino animarum. On the morrow of all souls; a return day for writs in Michaelmas term at Westminster. See 1 Bl Comm 342.

increase. Verb: Deriving from the Latin "crescere"; to grow. To augment in size or in value. Anno: 32 ALR 854. Noun: Growth or augmentation; amount of growth.

See accession; accretion; increase of livestock.

increase and fix. A term found in statutes involving the salary of a public officer or employee; importing stability, not the power to decrease compensation. Cochnow v United States, 248 US 405, 63 L Ed 328, 39 S Ct 137.

increase of capital. An increase in the stated capital of a corporation the same involving a fundamental change in the corporation, and authorized only where the power to increase is expressly conferred by law. 18 Am J2d Corp § 226.

increase of hazard. Same as increase of risk.

increase of livestock. A term familiar in chattel mortgages covering livestock, particularly cattle. That which is added to the original stock by augmentation, or growth; produce; profit; interest; progeny; issue; offspring. Stockyards Loan Co. v Nichols (CA8 Okla) 243 F 511, 1 ALR 547, 551. Ordinarily, not inclusive of the wool grown on sheep. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 68.

increase of risk. Something which increases the probability of the occurrence of the loss insured against under the terms of an insurance policy. Some alteration in or change in the situation or condition of the property insured which tends to increase the risk—something of duration, and not a casual change of a temporary character. Angier v Western Assur. Co. 10 SD 82, 71 NW 761.

increase of shares. See increase of capital; natural increase of shares.

increment. Increase; gain. The amount of increase or growth.

incrementa. Increments; increases.

incrementum. Increment; increase.

increscitur. (Latin.) The act of the appellate court in increasing the amount of damages awarded by the verdict, the defendant being put to the choice of accepting the increased verdict or having a new trial. 5 Am J2d A & E § 946.

In criminalibus, probationes debent esse luce clariores. In criminal cases, the proofs ought to be clearer than light.

In criminalibus, sufficit generalis malitia intentionis, cum facto paris gradus. In crimes, general malicious intent accompanied by an act of equal degree is sufficient. Isham v State, 38 Ala 213, 220.

In criminalibus, voluntas reputabitur pro facto. In criminal cases, the will will be taken for the deed.

incriminate. To charge with a crime. Davis v State, 51 Neb 301, 323, 70 NW 984. To make it appear that one is guilty of a crime.

incriminating circumstance. A circumstance which tends to show that a crime has been committed, or that some particular person committed it. Davis v State, 51 Neb 301, 323, 70 NW 984.

incriminating statement. An accusation in the presence of the accused. A statement by the accused which involves him in the crime charged.

See self-incrimination.

incrimination. The act of accusing or charging with the commission of a crime or of making it appear that one is guilty of a crime. Rendering a person liable to a criminal prosecution, as by giving or furnishing evidence against him. Counselman v Hitchcock, 142 US 547, 35 L Ed 1110, 12 S Ct 195.

incrimination of self. See self-incrimination. incroachment. Same as encroachment.

In cuius rei testimonium. In witness of which transaction; in witness whereof.

In cuius rei testimonium huic chartae (vel scripto) nostra sigilla apposuimus. In witness whereof we have set our seals to this charter (or writing).

inculpate. To incriminate; to accuse a person of crime or fault.

inculpatory. Incriminatory; accusing.

incumbent. One who holds an office, particularly one who holds it under legal authority to discharge the duties of the office. State v McCollister, 11 Ohio St 46, 50.

incumber. Same as encumber.

incumbrance. Same as encumbrance. incumbrancer. Same as encumbrancer.

[606]

incur. To bring upon one's self. To become subject to liability by act or by operation of law. Maryland Casualty Co. v Martin (Tex Civ App) 289 SW2d 655.

incurable. Not curable; beyond the power and skill of medicine. Not susceptible of cure; applied to both patients and disease. Freeman v State Board of Medical Examiners, 54 Okla 531, 154 P 56.

incurable disease. A disease which is incurable according to the general state of knowledge of the medical profession at the time in question. Freeman v State Board of Medical Examiners, 54 Okla 531, 154 P 56.

in curia. In court.

incuria. Negligence; carelessness; absence of care.

incuria dans locum injuriae. Negligence at the place or locality of the injury. Thomas v Quartermaine, L. R. (Eng) 18 QBD 685.

In curia domini regis, ipse in propria persona jura decernit. In the king's court, the king himself in person, decides the cases.

incurrumentum. Liability to fine or amercement.

incurred. See incur.

in currency. In any kind of money in circulation and constituting legal tender. 40 Am J1st Paym § 58.

in current funds. In funds equal in value to the current coin of the country, such as is received and paid on debts, in the purchase of property, and in ordinary business transactions, at par, and without discount. 40 Am J1st Paym § 58.

in custodia legis. See custodia legis; custody of the law.

in custody. In jail or prison. Under the direct or indirect restraint of an officer of the law armed with authority to restrain.

A prisoner who is at large on bail is not in custody, but, although a prisoner to whom a parole has been granted is permitted to go and remain at large under the supervision of the court, he is held to be in custody. Carpenter v Lord, 88 Or 128, 171 P 577.

in damno. In damage; doing damage.

inde. Thence; from there; from that place; from thence; then; thereupon; from that time.

indebitatus. Indebted.

indebitatus assumpsit. Being indebted, he undertook. A common-law form of action. In its specific sense, that form of assumpsit which is available for the recovery of any simple common-law debt without regard to any express promise to pay the debt; in its enlarged sense, a remedy embracing all cases in which the plaintiff has equity and conscience on his side and the defendant is bound by ties of natural justice and equity to pay the money, even being applied to all the common counts, namely the quantum counts, the money counts, and the count upon an account stated. 1 Am J2d Actions § 13.

indebitatus nunquam. Never indebted.

indebiti solutio. An undue payment, that is, the payment of that which is not due or owing.

indebitum. Not due; not owing.

indebitus. Not owed; not due.

indebted. Obligated to make a payment for money, property, or services. Obligated upon a debt, although not necessarily a debt due.

As the word appears in a statute prescribing the contents of an affidavit for attachment, to say that a "debt" is due means that it is presently owing and due; to state that a defendant "is indebted" is not the equivalent of saying that he owes a debt which is due. 6 Am J2d Attach § 264.

See debt; deeply indebted; mutually indebted.

indebtedness. The aggregate of a person's debts. A single debt. The state of being obligated upon a debt or debts. For the purpose of deducting interest in computing net income for tax purposes:—an unconditional obligation. Gilman v Commissioner (CA8) 53 F2d 47, 80 ALR 209; Johnson v Commissioner (CA8) 108 F2d 104.

The term in former constitutional or statutory provisions imposing personal or superadded liability upon stockholders of a corporation was said not to include a claim for unliquidated damages. 19 Am J2d Corp § 779. As the word appears in a constitutional provision limiting the amount of indebtedness of a municipal corporation:—every obligation contracted for which there is no present means of payment. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp § 410.

Tax liabilities have frequently been held included in agreement for assumption or payment of another's indebtedness. Anno: 4 ALR2d 1315.

See bonded indebtedness; debt; involuntary indebtedness.

indebtedness of decedent. For the purpose of a deduction from the estate in determining an estate or inheritance tax; debts of the decedent allowed in the administration proceeding, not including expenses of administration. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 387.

See claim against decedent's estate.

indecenty. A state of being indecent, some forms being punishable as criminal offenses. 33 Am J1st Lewd etc. § 3.

See indecent.

indecent. Lewd, lascivious, obscene, grossly vulgar, unbecoming, unseemly, unfit to be seen or heard, or violating the proprieties of language or behavior. 33 Am J1st Lewd etc § 3. Not decent; unfit to be seen or heard. United States v Bebout (DC Ohio) 28 F 522, 524. The characterization of an act which is a violation of modesty or an offense to delicacy, such as an exhibition of obscene pictures or the exhibition of one's naked body in public. Timmons v United States (CA6 Ohio) 85 F 204, 205; McJunkins v State, 10 Ind 140, 144.

See indecenty.

indecent assault. The act of a man in taking indecent liberties with the person of a female, such as fondling her in a lewd and lascivious manner. 6 Am J2d Asslt & B § 41. An indecent proposal followed by actual or attempted physical contact. Lynch v Commonwealth, 131 Va 762, 109 SE 427. The act of a man in taking indecent liberties with another man. 6 Am J2d Asslt & B § 42. Taking indecent liberties with the person of a child. Tidd v Skinner, 225 NY 422, 122 NE 247, 3 ALR 1145.

See indecent proposal.

indecent exposure. An exposure of the person in such manner and at such time and place as to offend against public decency, occurring by intent or by recklessness from which an intent may be inferred.

[607]

Anno: 93 ALR 998. Exposing another person in an indecent or compromising attitude. 33 Am J1st Lewd etc § 6.

An indecent exposure of the person committed once does not constitute the common-law offense of committing or maintaining a public nuisance, but the latter offense is committed by continuous and repeated exposures on the public streets thereby creating a more or less existing condition prejudicial to the sense of decency. Nuchols v Commonwealth, 312 Ky 171, 226 SW2d 796, 13 ALR2d 1478.

indecent gesture. A movement of the body or some portion of the body in a manner which is obscene or suggestive of obscenity. A method of interrupting and disturbing a public meeting or assembly. 24 Am J2d Disturb M § 5.

indecent language. Language which is obscene, profane, or shocking to the moral sense.

indecent proposal. A proposal made directly or Indirectly for unlawful or improper sexual relations. Barbknecht v Great Northern R. Co. 55 ND 104, 212 NW 776.

indecimable. Non-titheable; not liable to the payment of tithes.

Inde datae leges ne fortior omnia posset. Laws were made lest the stronger might become all powerful.

in deed. In fact.

See possession in deed.

indefeasible. Not to be defeated or avoided.

indefeasibly vested. Vested and not subject to divestiture. Keepers v Fidelity Title & D. Co. 56 NJL 302, 28 A 585.

indefensus. Not defended; not denied; a defendant who does not plead.

indefinite award. An award of arbitrators which leaves open the possibility or probability of future disputes and litigation. 5 Am J2d Arb & A § 151.

indefinite contract. A term appearing in some teachers' tenure statutes; the right of a permanent teacher upon the expiration of his or her contract, such being a protected contractual right entitling the teacher to a succession of definite contracts having terms in accord with and meeting the requirements of other statutes governing teachers' contracts. Lost Creek School Twp. v York, 215 Ind 636, 21 NE2d 58.

indefinite failure of issue. A failure of issue whenever it shall happen, sooner or later, without any definite period within which it must happen. Downing v Wherrin, 19 NH 9. A period when the issue or descendants of the first taker become extinct and when there is no longer any issue of the issue of the grantee, without reference to any particular time or any particular event. 28 Am J2d Est § 363. Death without issue of the last descendant of the devisee. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1238.

See die without issue.

indefinite imprisonment. The punishment of imprisonment prescribed by a sentence for crime, the term of which is fixed or rendered calculable by neither the sentence nor statute. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 534.

A sentence prescribing imprisonment until a fine, the amount of which is specified, is paid, does not prescribe an indefinite imprisonment, because, under it, there need be no imprisonment at all. Ex Parte Bryant, 24 Fla 278, 4 S 854.

See indeterminate sentence.

indefiniteness. The quality of not being sufficiently specific.

indefiniteness of pleading. Want of certainty of allegation, a defect constituting a ground of attack upon the pleading by motion or demurrer in accordance with the practice of the jurisdiction. 41 Am J1st Pl §§ 30 et seq.

indefinite sentence. See indefinite imprisonment; indeterminate sentence.

Indefinitum aequipollet universali. That which is unlimited is equivalent to the whole.

Indefinitum supplet locum universalis. The undefined supplies the place of the whole.

indelicacy. Want of tact, good taste, or good manners, but not necessarily immorality. 33 Am J1st L & S § 46.

in delicto. In fault; in the wrong. In the wrong, although not in equal wrong with the other party. 37 Am J2d Fraud § 304.

See in pari delicto.

indemnatus. Uncondemned.

indemnification. The act of indemnifying; being indemnified. Payment made by way of compensation for a loss suffered.

See indemnify; indemnity.

indemnificatus. Indemnified.

indemnify. To save harmless; to secure against future loss or damage; to give indemnity. To recompense for a past loss. 27 Am J1st Indem § 2.

See indemnity.

indemnify and save harmless. See to indemnify and save harmless.

indemnifying bond. See indemnity bond.

indemnis. Undamaged; unharmed; harmless.

indemnitee. One for whose benefit a contract of indemnity is made; one whom another is under obligation to indemnify.

indemnities. In common usage, the plural of indemnity. A technical term of the grain market or board of trade.

For many years prior to August 24, 1921, members of grain exchanges bought and sold in large quantities agreements for contracts for purchase or sale of grain subject to acceptance within a definite time thereafter, commonly known as "indemnities." When the holder of one of these elected to exercise his rights, the specified amount of grain was bought and sold on the exchange indicated for future delivery, and the agreement was thus finally consummated. By far the larger percentage of such agreements were subject to acceptance during the following day at a price ordinarily within one fourth of a cent of the price prevailing when the market closed on the day of the agreement. During many years the uniform consideration paid was one dollar per thousand bushels. Trusler v Crooks, 269 US 475, 481, 70 L Ed 365, 367, 46 S Ct 165.

indemnitor. One who indemnifies another; one upon whom there rests an obligation to indemnify or save another from a legal consequence of the conduct of one of the parties to the obligation or of some other person. 27 Am J1st Indem § 2.

[608]

indemnity. A term inclusive of two primary concepts: (1) compensation in money or property for a loss suffered; (2) a contract to save another from the legal consequences of the conduct of one of the parties or of a third person. Also inclusive in a proper sense of the security by way of deposit or bond furnished for the performance of an undertaking to save another harmless. Builders Supply Co. v McCabe, 366 Pa 322, 77 A2d 368, 24 ALR2d 319; 27 Am J1st Indem § 2. An obligation or duty resting on one person to make good any loss or damage another has incurred while acting at the request of the former or for his benefit. 27 Am J1st Indem § 2. The right of one who has been compelled to pay that which another person should have paid. Security to protect against loss in assuming a status such as that of a guarantor or surety. From the standpoint of an insurance contract:-the stipulated desideratum to be paid to the insured in case he suffers loss or damage through the risk specified and covered by the contract. Physicians' Defense Co. v Cooper (CA9 Cal) 199 F 576.

indemnity and guaranty. Two distinct undertakings, in that a guaranty is a collateral undertaking, and presupposes some contract or transaction to which it is collateral, while an indemnity is essentially an original contract. Anderson v Spence, 72 Ind 315.

indemnity belt. The designated strip or belt of land from which indemnity lands may be selected. Elling v Thexton, 7 Mont 330, 338, 16 P 931, 933.

See indemnity lands.

indemnity bond. A bond to indemnify the obligee or indemnitee against loss from the conduct of the obligor or indemnitor or from the conduct of a third person. 12 Am J2d Bonds § 1. A bond, the condition of which is the indemnification of the obligee against loss from the inurrence of liability from an act, for example a bond indemnifying a sheriff in seizing and holding property claimed by a person other than the defendant under the process with which the sheriff is armed. 30 Am J2d Exec § 752.

Where the legislature in licensing occupational groups, requires a bond as a part of the general scheme of protection of the public, the bond is an indemnity rather than a penal bond. Anchor Casualty Co. v Commissioner of Securities, 259 Minn 277, 107 NW2d 234.

indemnity contract. A contract whereby one agrees to save another from the legal consequence of the conduct of one of the parties or of some other person. 27 Am J1st Indem § 2.

See indemnity; indemnity bond.

indemnity for damage to the person. Compensation for everything then on, about, or belonging to the person, as well as for all bodily injuries which are proved to be the result of the accident. Woodman v Nottingham, 49 NH 387.

indemnity insurance. Insurance under a policy providing indemnification for actual loss or damage suffered by the insured (Shealey v American Health Ins. Corp. 220 SC 79, 66 SE2d 461, 27 ALR2d 942) as distinguished from insurance, particularly insurance under a policy covering a life, which provides for the payment of a specified sum upon the occurrence of the event insured against without reference to what the actual loss or damage arising from the event may be. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 4. A policy of insurance protecting the insured against loss due to injuring the property or person of a third person, under which the insurer does not become liable to the insured until the latter has sustained an actual loss in the discharge of liability to the third person, being distinguished in this respect from a liability policy under which the liability of the insurer attaches when the liability of the insured attaches, notwithstanding the insured has not sustained a loss in payment, voluntary or involuntary, made to the third person. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 81; 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1343.

indemnity lands. Lands which, by statute, are allowed to be selected by the grantee under a grant in aid of railroad construction, in lieu of parcels lost from the designated or granted lands by previous disposition or reservation. 42 Am J1st Pub L § 49.

See indemnity belt.

indemnity mortgage. A mortgage executed to indemnify the mortgagee against future loss.

A mortgage given to secure future advances which may be made by the mortgagee to the mortgagor is such a mortgage. Lawrence v Tucker (US) 23 How 14, 16 L Ed 474.

indemnity policy. See indemnity insurance.

indemnity provision. A provision in a building or construction contract or subcontract whereby the contractor or subcontractor, as indemnitor, agrees to indemnify or hold harmless the owner or principal contractor, as the case may be, for injuries resulting from the indemnitor's own negligence. 13 Am J2d Bldg Contr § 141.

indempnis. Same as indemnis.

indenization. Same as denization.

indent. To prepare a deed or an agreement in the form of an indenture. To enter into articles of apprenticeship.

See indenture.

indented deed. See indenture.

indenture. In modern sense, a deed executed by both grantor and grantee or all parties to the instrument. The term derives from an old practice of actually "indenting" the deed executed by both grantor and grantee or all parties to the instrument. Sterling v Park, 129 Ga 309, 58 SE 828. Anciently, deeds of indenture were deeds which were made in two parts formed by cutting or tearing a single sheet across the middle in a jagged or indented line, so that the two parts might be subsequently matched, and they were executed by both grantor and grantee. Later the indenting was discontinued, yet the term came to be applied to all deeds which were executed by both parties. See 2 Bl Comm 295.

indenture of apprenticeship. A contract executed in duplicate by which an apprentice becomes bound to the service of a master.

See apprentice; articles of apprenticeship.

indenture of fine. The indenture of the foot of a fine.

The fifth step, or concluding part, of a fine for the alienation of land included the whole proceeding, reciting the parties, day, year, and place, and before whom the fine was levied or acknowledged. Indentures of this were made, or engrossed at the chirographer's office, and delivered to the cognizor or cognizee; usually beginning, "haec est finalis concordia," this is the final agreement, and then reciting the whole proceeding at length. See 2 Bl Comm 351.

[609]

indenture of trust. See trust indenture.

indenture trustee. The trustee named in an indenture which creates a trust.

independence. The state of being free from the control of another. The state of a country free from and unfettered by control exercised by another nation.

See Declaration of Independence.

Independence Day. July Fourth, a national holiday of the United States in celebration of the adoption of the Declaration of Independence on July Fourth, 1776.

independent advice. As a statutory condition precedent to the validity of a legacy or devise to a person in a fiduciary or confidential relationship toward the testator:—advice given to the testator by one with whom the testator had a full and private conference respecting such legacy or devise before the preparation and execution of the will, who was not only competent to inform him correctly as to its legal effect, but who was, furthermore, so disassociated with the interests of the legatee or devisee as to be in a position to advise with the testator impartially and confidentially as to the consequences to himself of his proposed benefaction. Post v Hagan, 71 NJ Eq 234, 65 A 1026.

independent adjuster. An adjuster of claims against insurance companies, who usually represents the company, although, at times, the insured, occupying in neither instance the status of a regular employee of his principal.

independent candidate. A candidate for public office, entitled by virtue of having been legally nominated to have his name on the ballot, but who is not the nominee of any existing political party. Stanfield v Kozer, 119 Or 324, 249 P 631.

independent condition. A condition in a contract which can be enforced without showing the performance of any other condition. 17 Am J2d Contr § 322.

independent consideration. A consideration furnished a guarantor other than that furnished the principal debtor. 24 Am J1st Guar § 49.

independent contract. A contract, the enforcement of which does not depend upon the performance of any other contract. The engagement made by an independent contractor for the performance of services.

See independent contractor.

independent contractor. One who, exercising independence in respect of his choice of work to be performed by him, contracts to do or perform certain work for another person according to his own means and methods, without being subject to the control of such other person except as to the product or result of the work. NLRB v Steinberg (CA5) 182 F2d 850; United States Fidelity & G. Co. v Spring Brook, 135 Conn 294, 64 A2d 39, 13 ALR2d 769; Hammond v El Dorado Springs, 362 Mo 530, 242 SW2d 479, 31 ALR2d 1367; Gomillion v Forsythe, 218 SC 211, 62 SE2d 297, 53 ALR2d 169; Hanks v Landert, 37 Wash 2d 293, 223 P2d 443, 30 ALR2d 1012. Not a "laborer" for the purposes of a statutory exemption. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 20.

The principal test in determining whether one rendering services for another is an independent contractor is whether the employer has the right to control the details of the work, although the place of the work, the time of the employment, the method of payment, and the right of summary discharge, are also to be considered. Huebner v Industrial Com. 234 Wis 239, 290 NW 145, 126 ALR 1113.

independent covenant. A covenant which relates to only a part of the consideration upon both sides of a contract or deed, is of such nature that a breach may be compensated in damages, and for the breach of which an action may be maintained without an averment by the plaintiff of performance or an offer to perform on his part. 20 Am J2d Cov § 8; 55 Am J1st V & P § 102.

See independent promises.

Independenter se habet assecuratio a viaggio navis. Insurance of the voyage is independent of the voyage of the ship.

"If a ship sails on a voyage from Saint Maio to Toulon, and is insured from Saint Maio to Cadiz, the latter is the voyage insured, but the former is the voyage of the ship." See 3 Kent Comm 318, footnote.

independent executor. The executor named to execute a will without administration in the probate court, thus avoiding the usual costs of regular administration. 21 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 824.

independent fires. Fires started by different causes, as where one is traceable to a person and the other attributable to some unknown or irresponsible origin. 35 Am J2d Fires § 40.

independent intervening cause. A cause which operates in succession to and independent of a prior wrong as a proximate cause of an injury. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v Smithers (Tex Civ App) 228 SW 637.

independently engaged. For the purposes of an exception to a provision for unemployment compensation, a business or trade established and conducted independently of an employer. Fuller Brush Co. v Industrial Cont. 99 Utah 97, 104 P2d 201, 129 ALR 511.

independent promises. The mutual promises of the parties to a contract so plainly independent of each other that the one can never by fair construction be a condition of the performance of the other. 17 Am J2d Contr § 322.

Courts will not and ought not to construe promises as independent unless no other construction is possible and such construction appears to have been the deliberate intention of the parties at the time the instrument was executed. Palmer v Fox, 274 Mich 252, 264 NW 361, 104 ALR 1057; Summer v Fabregas, 52 NJ Super 399, 145 A2d 659.

See independent covenant.

independent school district. A school district which has not been consolidated with any other school district. See Harp v Consolidated School Dist. 115 Okla 48, 241 P 787. A school district whose affairs are administered independently of a school township, ordinarily conterminous with, or located in, a city or village.

independent stipulation. See independent covenant; independent promises.

independent tortfeasors. Tortfeasors who injured the same person or the same property but who acted without common design or concert of action and in the absence of any circumstance, such as common duty, joint enterprise, or relationship, which would make them joint tortfeasors. Husky Refining Co. v Barnes (CA9 Idaho) 119 F2d 715.

[610]

inde petit judicium. See et inde petit judicium. inde producit sectam. See et inde producit sectam.

in descendu. By descent.

indeterminate. Uncertain; not ascertained; not fixed; not made certain.

indeterminate damages. A little-used and unsatisfactory term for punitive or exemplary damages.

indeterminate permit. A kind of franchise granted public service corporations, provided for by statute in some jurisdictions, to continue in force until such time as the municipality shall exercise its option to purchase as provided by the statute. Superior Water, Light & Power Co. v Superior, 263 US 125, 132, 68 L Ed 204, 209, 44 S Ct 82.

indeterminate sentence. A sentence imposed for a crime, not for a precise period of time, but in terms of a minimum period and a maximum period of imprisonment as provided by statute for the particular offense. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 540.

index. Titles or subjects with lines thereunder in brief form suggestive of subject matter, all in alphabetical order, and so prepared and arranged as to point out the page, or volume and page in case of a multi-volume work, where the discussion of a particular point or bit of subject matter may be found.

Index animi sermo. Speech is the index of the mind.

Where a law is plain and unambiguous whether it is expressed in general or limited terms, the legislature should be understood to mean what they have plainly expressed, and consequently no room is left for construction. Where the intention is clearly ascertained, the courts have no other duty to perform than to execute the legislative will, without any regard to their own views as to the wisdom or justice of the particular enactment. Shellenberger v Ransom, 41 Neb 631, 59 NW 935.

index on appeal. See index to transcript of record.

index to judgments. See judgment index.

index to records of title. An index of instruments of title recorded or filed in the office of clerk of court, registrar of titles, or county recorder, usually under the names of both grantor and grantee, mortgagor and mortgagee, lienor and lienee, pointing out the book and page of the records of title upon which a particular instrument is recorded or the file in which a particular instrument is filed. 45 Am J1st Reeds § 72.

An index to the record of an instrument is the means provided for pointing out or indicating where the record may be found. It may in many cases be indispensable in order to secure the full benefit of the record to the public. But its office is to facilitate the researches of those having occasion to examine the records; and strictly, in the absence of statute, it cannot be said to form part of the record. Green v Garrington, 16 Ohio St 548.

Where the statute makes the indexing part of the record, the record is not complete as to notice if the index is not properly made. Re Labb (DC NY) 42 F Supp 542.

index to transcript of record. A convenience for the appellate court required by rule of court in some jurisdictions. 4 Am J2d A & E § 406.

Indian. A member of the aboriginal race which inhabited the continents of North America and South America at the time of the discovery by Columbus. 27 Am J1st Indians § 2. A word descriptive of race, that is, the red race, so that a white man or negro does not become an "Indian" by adoption into an Indian tribe. 27 Am J1st Indians § 2. In a meaning secondary in the United States, a person of India. If born or naturalized in the United States, a citizen of the United States and of the state wherein he resides. 3 Am J2d Aliens § 116.

See mestizo; mixed blood; pueblo dwellers; reservation Indians.

Indian adoption. An adoption of a child in pursuance of a tribal custom. Non-She-Po v Wa-Win-Ta, 37 Or 213, 62 P 15. Adoption of a person by a tribe of Indians, having the effect of bestowing on the person adopted the privileges and immunities of the other members and subjecting him to the laws and usages of the tribe. 27 Am J1st Indians § 2.

Indian Affairs Bureau. A federal agency in the Department of the Interior, headed by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs who is appointed by the President by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, the purpose of the agency being to facilitate and simplify the administration of the laws governing Indian Affairs. 25 USC §§ 1, 1a.

Indian agent. A United States government officer who lives on or near an Indian reservation as the representative of the government in its relations with the tribe and whose duty it is to serve the interests of the Indians of the tribe.

Indian allotment. A conveyance of land by the United States to an individual Indian, usually the head of a family, made in pursuance of a policy adopted in reference to the Indians. 27 Am J1st Indians § 27. A term also applied to any allotment of land to Indians, the title of which is held in trust by the United States or which remains inalienable without the consent of the United States. 27 Am J1st Indians § 45.

Indian band. A company of Indians, not necessarily, though often, of the same race or tribe, united under the same leadership in a common design. Connors v United States, 180 US 271, 45 L Ed 525, 21 S Ct 362.

Indian chief. The leader of a tribe. That officer of an Indian nation, such as the Cherokee Nation, who discharges the duties which usually pertain to the office of governor. Whitsett v Forehand, 79 NC 230, 233.

Indian country. The territory formerly held by Indians and to which their title remains unextinguished, also any tract of land, which, being a part of the public domain, is lawfully set apart as an Indian reservation, and also any Indian allotment, the title of which is held in trust by the government or which remains inalienable by the allottee without the consent of the United States. 27 Am J1st Indians § 45.

Indian divorce. A divorce of husband and wife married and continuing to live in Indian territory, in accordance with established custom among the Indian tribe, effected completely by separation by mutual consent. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 8. A divorce in accordance with tribal custom, effected by mutual consent or the abandonment of one spouse by the other. Cyr v Walker, 29 Okla 289, 116 P 934.

Indian lands. Lands allotted to and in the possession of an Indian tribe. Lands reserved under acts of Congress for occupancy by Indian tribes. United States v Powers, 305 US 527, 83 L Ed 330, 59 S Ct 344. Lands held in trust for Indians by the United States. McCurdy v United States, 264 US 484, 68 L Ed 801, 44 S Ct 345. Lands owned by the United States and subject to sale by it, but in the manner and for the purposes provided for in the special agreements of the government with the Indians. Ash Sheep Co. v United States, 252 US 159, 166, 64 L Ed 507, 511, 40 S Ct 241. Lands to which Indians have a right of perpetual occupancy with the privilege of using them in such manner as they see fit until such right of occupation has been surrendered to the United States, the fee of such land being vested in the United States. 27 Am J1st Indians § 24.

See Indian title.

Indian maize. See corn.

Indian marriage. A marriage contracted by members of an Indian tribe, who are living with the tribe in tribal relation and subject to the tribal government, in accordance with the laws and customs of the tribe. 35 Am J1st Mar § 40.

Indian nation. A large tribe of Indians, or a group of affiliated tribes, as, bear witness, the Iroquois, 27 Am J1st Indians § 6.

Indian reservation. Land set apart from the public domain by treaty or executive order for perpetual occupancy by Indians or until the right of occupation has been surrendered to the United States. 27 Am J1st Indians § 24.

See reservation Indians.

Indian territory. A former territory, now a part of the state of Oklahoma.

See Indian country.

Indian title. By virtue of prior occupancy of the continent of North America, at best, nothing more than a right of occupancy. Northwestern Bands of Shoshone Indians v United States, 324 US 335, 89 L Ed 985, 65 S Ct 690; nothing more than permissive occupancy; not a title which could be conveyed so as to transfer to the grantee a title which the United States was bound to recognize. Johnson and Graham's Lessee v M'Intosh (US) 8 Wheat 543, 574, 5 L Ed 681, 688. A right not beyond that of permissive occupancy, except as Congress might recognize a right of permanent occupancy not to be disturbed. Tee-Hit-Ton Indians v United States, 348 US 272, 99 L Ed 314, 75 S Ct 313.

The right of Indians to occupy lands in the United States over which they had sovereignty prior to conquest by the white man is not a property right but amounts to a right of occupancy which the sovereign grants and, although protecting against intrusion by third parties, may terminate; such lands may be fully disposed of by the sovereign itself without any legally enforceable obligation to compensate the Indians. Tee-Hit-Ton Indians v United States, 348 US 272, 99 L Ed 314, 75 S Ct 313.

Exclusive title to American lands passed to the white discoverers subject to the Indian title, with power in the white sovereign alone to extinguish that right by purchase or conquest. Northwestern Bands of Shoshone Indians v United States, 324 US 335, 89 L Ed 985, 65 S Ct 690.

Indian treaties. Treaties made and entered into between the various American Indian tribes and the United States. Worcester v The State of Georgia (US) 6 Pet 515, 8 L Ed 483.

Indian tribe. A body of Indians, united in a community under one leadership or government, and inhabiting a particular territory. 27 Am J1st Indians § 4.

See commerce with the Indian tribes; Indian adoption.

Indian tribe member of adoption. See Indian adoption.

Indian war. A war in which American Indians engaged the whites. 27 Am J1st Indians § 12.

indicate. To indicate; to designate; to show; to declare; to make known; to reveal.

indication. Something which points to, or gives direction to the mind. Coyle v Commonwealth, 104 Pa 117, 133.

indicavit. A writ of prohibition which a person who was sued in the ecclesiastical court might obtain. State v Commissioners of Roads, 8 SCL (I Mill Const) 55.

indicia. Plural of indicium.

indicia of ownership. Evidence of title; as, a deed to land, or a bill of sale of personal property.

indicium. A mark; a sign; a token; a symbol; a disclosure; a thing furnishing information.

indicia of fraud. Badges of fraud; circumstances such as insolvency, or heavy indebtedness on the part of a grantor, and lack of consideration which indicate, in the absence of explanation to the contrary, that a conveyance was made in fraud of creditors. 24 Am J1st Frd Conv § 14.

indict. To charge one with the commission of a crime by an indictment.

See indictment.

indictable. Subject to indictment; as, a person who has committed a felony. The proper subject of an indictment; as, an offense amounting to felony.

indictable attempt. A direct ineffectual act performed intentionally toward the commission of an indictable offense. Commonwealth v Crow, 303 Pa 91, 154 A 283. Broadly, any attempted offense subject to prosecution by indictment under the law of the jurisdiction.

indictable nuisance. A common law offense against the public peace, the public health, or the public morals. State v Waymire, 52 Or 281, 97 P 16. A public, as distinguished from, a private nuisance. 39 Am J1st Nuis § 178.

indictable offense. A crime to be prosecuted under an indictment; in some jurisdictions, any felony. In some jurisdictions, any felony and any misdemeanor of a certain class, particularly a misdemeanor of a serious nature. State v Berlin, 42 Mo 572, 576. At common law, treason, a capital offense, or a felony. 27 Am J1st Indict § 5.

indictare. To indict.

indicted. Charged with the commission of a crime by the filing of an indictment or an information of weight equal to an indictment under the law of the jurisdiction. United States v Borger (CC NY) 7 F 193, 196.

indictee. A person against whom a grand jury has returned an indictment.

[612]

indictio. An indictment; a proclamation; a declaration.

indictment. An accusation or charge of the commission of an indictable offense, made in writing by a grand jury against one or more persons upon evidence heard by the grand jury and presented by them under oath at the instance, and by the authority, of the state or the government. State v Hamilton, 133 W Va 394, 56 SE2d 544, 12 ALR2d 573.

See indictable offense; information.

Indictment de felony est contra pacem domini regis, coronam et dignitatem suam, in genere et non in individuo; quia in Anglia non est interregnum. An indictment for felony reads "against the peace of our lord the king, his crown and dignity," in general, and not against the king individually, because in England there is no interregnum.

indictment for wrongful death. A form of proceeding formerly authorized by statute in some states for the recovery of damages for death by wrongful act.

These statutes have been everywhere superseded by laws modeled on Lord Campbell's Act allowing a civil action. 22 Am J2d Dth § 2.

indictor. A person who causes another to be indicted.

in diem. For a day; on a day; at a day.

See de die in diem.

indifferent. Neutral as to the parties or subject-matter involved in a dispute, controversy, or litigation; impartial; unbiased.

indifferent person. One without interest in favoring either party to an action or in doing anything to the prejudice of either party. 45 Am J1st Rec § 131. A person so situated with reference to certain other persons that there is not such a relation between him and them as could bias his mind and induce him to act with partiality. Mitchell v Kirtland, 7 Conn 228, 231.

indigena. A native subject or a subject who has been naturalized.

indigent. In need; in want of a comfortable subsistence; poor.

indigent person. One destitute of property or means of comfortable subsistence. Juneau County v Wood County, 109 Wis 330, 333, 85 NW 387. A poor person. A pauper. Risner v State, 55 Ohio App 151, 9 NE2d 151; Lynchburg v Slaughter, 75 Va 57, 62. A person who has no money or property, or insufficient money or property available for his immediate relief from want, is without credit, and is unable to maintain himself because of inability to work or to obtain employment. 41 Am J1st Poor L § 17. A person who has neither money nor estate, is without credit, and is unable to maintain himself because of inability to work or to obtain employment. 41 Am J1st Poor L § 17.

indigent relief. See poor relief.

indigestion. A physical condition of the body resulting from the inability of the stomach to change its content of food to a form capable of assimilation. Not a serious disease within the meaning of an application for life or accident insurance. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 745.

indignity. Insult; an affront to one's sensibilities. An affront to self respect. Conduct humiliating to another. A matter of compensatory, rather than punitive or exemplary, damages. 22 Am J2d Damg § 197. Unmerited contemptuous conduct; any act towards another which manifests contempt for him; contumely, incivility or injury accompanied with insult and amounting to a species of cruelty to the mind. Lynch v Lynch, 87 Mo App 32, 37. As a ground for divorce under some statutes: humiliating and degrading conduct of such a character and continuity as to manifest a settled hate and estrangement, or to render the plaintiff's condition intolerable and life burdensome. Kranch v Kranch, 17 Pa Super 169, 84 A2d 230.

See outrage and indignity; personal indignity.

indirect. Not direct, circuitous, as an indirect road. Not leading to the fulfillment of a purpose by the plain and obvious course, but obliquely or by remote means; roundabout; not resulting directly from an act or cause, but more or less remotely connected with or growing out of it. Maryland Casualty Co. v Scharlack (DC Tex) 31 F Supp 931.

indirect bounty. A bounty indirectly paid by the government by the remission of taxes upon the exportation of articles which are subjected to a tax when sold or consumed in the country of their production, of which the laws permitting distillers of spirits to export the same without payment of internal revenue tax or other burden, is an example. Downs v United States, 187 US 496, 502, 47 L Ed 275, 277, 23 S Ct 222.

indirect contempt. An act committed elsewhere than in the presence of the court or judge, which tends to obstruct the administration of justice, or to bring the court, or judge, or the administration of justice into disrespect. Re Dill, 32 Kan 668, 5 P 39; Osborne v Purdome (Mo) 244 SW2d 1005, 29 ALR2d 1141. An act committed, not in the presence of the court, but at a distance from it, generally characterized by disobeying or resisting process, intimidating a witness out of the presence of the court, making a false report of a proceeding pending before the court, etc. La Grange v State, 238 Ind 689, 153 NE2d 593, 69 ALR2d 668. Sometimes referred to as constructive contempt.

indirect corporate purpose. A purpose which does not in its direct and immediate consequences operate upon the corporators, but the beneficial effects of which are to be experienced in a remoter degree, and which have to be traced to their source before they can be duly comprehended and appreciated. State, ex rel. Thompson, v Memphis, 147 Tenn 658, 251 SW 46, 27 ALR 1257, 1265.

indirect evidence. Evidence of value and weight because of the presumptions and inferences arising therefrom.

See circumstantial evidence.

indirect review. A collateral attack on a judgment. 2 Am J2d Adm L § 494.

indirect solicitation. A term found in statutes prohibiting and penalizing ambulance chasing by attorneys; any circuitous means of reaching the injured person and obtaining control of the claim. Hightower v Detroit Edison Co. 262 Mich 1, 247 NW 97, 86 ALR 509.

indirect tax. Categorically, a tax other than one imposed directly upon property according to its value, for example, an occupation tax. Foster & Creighton Co. v Graham, 154 Tenn 412, 285 SW 570, 47 ALR

[613]

971, 975. Loosely, a tax paid by a person who can shift the burden to another person or who is not under legal compulsion to pay. 51 Am J1st Tax § 25.

In disjunctivis sufficit alteram partem esse veram. In disjunctives it is sufficient if either part be true.

indispensable. That which cannot be dispensed with; vital; essential.

indispensable evidence. Evidence the absence of which renders the proof of a given fact impossible.

indispensable party. A person materially interested either legally or beneficially in the subject matter of the suit. Green v Brophy, 71 App DC 299, 110 F2d 539, 9 ALR2d 1. A person who must be joined as a party if the action is to succeed. McAndrews v Krause, 245 Minn 85, 71 NW2d 153, 53 ALR2d 312. A person who has an interest in the subject matter of the controversy in litigation of such nature that the final judgment cannot be rendered between the other parties to the suit without radically and injuriously affecting that interest, or without leaving the controversy in such a situation that its final determination may be inconsistent with equity and good conscience. 39 Am J1st Parties § 5.

The true rule as to indispensability of parties calls for a reconciliation of the desirability, on the one hand, of preventing multiplicity of suits and obtaining a complete and final decree between all interested parties, and, on the other hand, of having some adjudication if at all possible rather than none. Gauss v Kirk, 91 App DC 80, 198 F2d 83, 33 ALR2d 1085.

indispensable repairs. See necessary repairs.

indisputable. Not subject to dispute; undeniable; irrebuttable; conclusive.

indisputable presumption. Same as irrebuttable presumption.

in dispute. See dispute.

indissolvable union. The Union of the States in the United States. 49 Am J1st States § 11.

indistributable. Incapable of being distributed.

inditee. Same as indictee.

individual. Adjective: Single. Pertaining to one person alone. Noun: A person. A natural person, as distinguished from a corporation. Commonwealth ex rel. Reinboth, v Councils of Pittsburgh, 41 Pa 278.

The purchaser may recover for injuries resulting from drinking liquor where the remedy is given by dramshop or civil damage act to "individuals" who sustain damage. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 539.

See quasi individual.

individual banker. Same as private banker.

individual enterprise. See private enterprise.

individual estate. See separate estate of wife.

individual liability. See personal liability; superadded liability of stockholders.

individually. As an individual or person; personally. State v Robinson, 71 ND 463, 2 NW2d 183, 148 ALR 332.

Where lands were conveyed to husband and wife to be held by them "individually," they were held to take the lands by moieties, as tenants in common, and not by the entirety. Distributing Co. v Carraway, 189 NC 420, 127 SE 427.

individual operator's license. See operator's license.

individual rights. See fundamental rights and privileges.

individuo. See in individuo.

individuum. Incapable of division; indivisible; inseparable.

indivisible. Incapable of division; inseparable.

indivisible contract. A contract impossible of division so as to render a valid part enforceable pro tanto where another part is invalid. 17 Am J2d Contr § 230. A contract impossible of division so as to render a party liable upon performance by the other party of one of successive divisions. 17 Am J2d Contr § 324.

See divisible contract; entirety of contract; severability of contract.

indivisible statute. A statute of such nature that a part of it will not be enforced where another part is invalid. 16 Am J2d Const L §§ 181 et seq.

indivisibility. The quality of something that cannot be divided.

See entirety.

indoctrination of prospective jurors. The instruction of prospective jurors upon court procedure and general principles of law, a practice which, while perhaps salutary in theory, is deemed dangerous in practice and is generally condemned by the courts. Anno: 2 ALR2d 1104.

in dominico. In demesne.

See demesne.

indorsat. Indorsed.

indorse. A verb derived from the Latin words "in," meaning "on" and "dorsum" meaning "the back." To write one's own name on the back of an instrument. Commonwealth v Spilman, 124 Mass 327. Implying delivery. Babbitt Bros. Trading Co. v First Nat. Bank, 32 Ariz 588, 261 P 45; Cady v Bay City Land Co. 102 Or 5, 201 P 179, 21 ALR 1367. To approve as worthy of support, as to endorse a candidate for election.

indorsed note. A promissory note endorsed by the payee or by payee and prior endorsee.

See approved endorsed note.

indorsed over. Indorsed and delivered. Babbitt Bros. Trading Co. v First Nat. Bank, 32 Ariz 588, 261 P 45.

indorsee. The person named in a special endorsement of a bill or note.

The holder of an instrument on which the only or last endorsement is a blank endorsement is a "bearer," rather than an "endorsee." 11 Am J2d B & N § 371.

indorsee in due course. A person who in good faith, in the ordinary course of business, for value, before its apparent maturity or presumptive dishonor, and without knowledge of its actual dishonor, acquires a negotiable instrument duly endorsed to him, or endorsed generally, or payable to bearer. Reese v Bell (Cal) 71 P 87.

See holder in due course.

indorsement. Literally, as derived from the Latin "indorsa," a writing on the back; employed in common as well as legal usage to designate the transaction whereby the holder of a bill or note transfers his right to such instrument to another person and incurs the liabilities incident to the transfer under the law. 11 Am J2d B & N § 349. The writing of one's own name on the back of a negotiable instrument, whereby one not only transfers one's full legal title to the paper but likewise enters into a contract, implied or express, dependent upon whether or not the signing of the name is accompanied by other words, and the particular words used, such as an implied guaranty that the instrument will be paid. Glaser v Connell, 47

[614]

Wash 2d 622, 289 P2d 364. An additional contract on the instrument; a new, independent, and substantive contract. 11 Am J2d B & N § 349. (For liability of indorser, see 11 Am J2d B & N §§ 598 et seq.) Signing one's name on the face of a bill or note with words indicating the character of the signature as an indorsement or the character of the signer as an indorser. Peoples Nat. Bank v Dicks, 258 Mich 441, 242 NW 825. A signature on a security in registered form or on a separate document assigning or transferring the security or granting a power to assign or transfer it, or the mere signature on the back of a security of a person having the right or authority to assign or transfer the instrument or empower another person to assign or transfer it. UCC § 8308(1).

Broadly, a writing on the back of an instrument for any purpose, not necessarily the purpose of transfer or assumption of liability. 11 Am J2d B & N § 349. Technically confined to the theory of negotiability, but commonly used in application to the writing of a name on the back of a nonnegotiable instrument. Bank of America v Butterfield, 77 SD 170, 88 NW2d 909.

A signature upon the back of a will. 57 Am J1st Wills § 263. Most broadly, a writing upon either the back or margin of an instrument, for example, a writing indicating part payment. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 347. The marking of an envelope which contains a deposition to indicate such content and the title of the cause. 23 Am J2d Dep § 82.

See backing; blank indorsement; for account of; for clearing house purposes only; for collection; for deposit; full indorsement; general indorsement; guaranty of previous indorsements; irregular endorsement; previous indorsements guaranteed; proper indorsement; qualified indorsement; regular indorsement; restrictive indorsement; special endorsement; transfer by indorsement; usual course of business; waiver of presentment; waiver of protest; without recourse.

indorsement after maturity. An indorsement of a bill or note, the legal effect of which is, in general, that the holder takes the instrument subject to all the equities which existed between the original parties. 11 Am J2d B & N § 481.

indorsement before due. An indorsement of a bill or note the legal effect of which is that the holder takes the instrument discharged of all defenses which could arise out of equities which existed between the original parties. 11 Am J2d B & N § 398.

indorsement for account of. See for account of.

indorsement for clearing house purposes only. See for clearing house purposes only.

indorsement for collection. See for collection.

indorsement for deposit. See for deposit.

indorsement in blank. See blank indorsement.

indorsement in full. See full indorsement.

indorsement of ballot. A statutory requirement in reference to ballots delivered to voters at an election; the initiating of a ballot upon the back thereof by an election official. 26 Am J2d Elect § 255.

indorsement of deed. Words of conveyance indorsed on an instrument to give it operation as a conveyance of property. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 37.

See in the within deed.

indorsement on indictment. Words written upon an indictment denoting its character as a "true bill." 27 Am J1st Indict § 42.

indorsement on information. Giving the names of witnesses for the state. 27 Am J1st Indict § 46; 6 Am J2d Attach §§ 312, 316; 30 Am J2d Exec § 552.

See return of process.

indorsement on instruction. The noting by the judge at the trial on each written instruction presented to him by counsel, the fact of giving or refusing it, by writing thereon either "given" or "refused" as the case may be. The court's error in omitting this practice is generally regarded as harmless. 53 Am J1st Trial § 534.

indorsement on policy. A physical addition to an insurance policy by written, typed or printed matter appearing on the margin of the instrument, on the back of the instrument, or on a separate sheet or sheets attached to the instrument, or to any manner other than in the body of the instrument. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 267.

indorsement on writ. In effect a return of the process by the officer to whom it was issued, noting the acts performed by him under the writ or the absence of service of the process.

indorsement sans recours. Indorsement without recourse.

See without recourse.

indorsement with enlarged liability. An indorsement of a bill or negotiable instrument with the written words "demand, notice, and protest waived, and payment guaranteed," appearing above the signature of the indorser. Buck v Davenport Sav. Bank, 29 Neb 407.

indorsement without recourse. See without recourse.

indorser. One who indorses; one who signs as an indorser; even one who signs on the face of the instrument, provided he indicates his character as an indorser in writing appearing with the signature. Peoples Nat. Bank v Dicks, 258 Mich 441, 242 NW 825. One who indorses a registered security by way of transferring or assigning the instrument or granting another the authority to assign or transfer it. 15 Am J2d Com C § 32.

See accommodation indorser; indorsement; satisfactory indorser.

indorser duly notified in writing. A phrase used in the entry of the protest of a negotiable instrument. Bell v Perkins, 7 Tenn (Peck) 261.

indorser not holden. See without recourse.

indorser's liability. The liability incurred by the endorsement of a negotiable instrument. 11 Am J2d B & N §§ 598 et seq.

in dorso. On the back.

in dorso recordi. On the back of the record.

In dubiis, benigniora praeferenda sunt. In doubtful cases, the more liberal constructions are to be preferred.

In dubiis, magis dignum est accipiendum. In doubtful cases, the more worthy is to be adopted or accepted.

[615]

In dubiis, non praesumitur pro testamento. In doubtful cases, there is no presumption in favor of a will.

in dubio. In doubt; in case of doubt; in a doubtful case.

In dubio, haec legis constructio quam verba ostendunt. In a doubtful case, that construction which the words indicate should be adopted.

In dubio, pars mitior est sequenda. In a doubtful case, the milder course should be pursued.

In dubio pro dote, libertate, innocentia, possessore, debitore, reo, respondendum est. In case of doubt the response is in favor of dower, liberty, innocence, of the possessor, of the debtor, and of the defendant. Chrisman v Linderman, 202 Mo 605, 100 SW 1090.

In dubio, pro lege fori. In case of doubt, the law of the forum governs.

In dubio, sequendum quod tutius est. In a doubtful case, that course should be followed which is the safer one.

indubitable proof. Evidence that is not only credible, but is of such weight and directness as to make out the facts alleged beyond a doubt. Hart v Carroll, 85 Pa 508.

induce. To lead on, to influence, to prevail on, or move by persuasion or influence. Bradbury v Brooks, 82 Colo 133, 257 P 359.

induce and encourage. A term broad enough to include every form of influence and persuasion. International Brotherhood, E. W. v NLRB, 341 US 694, 95 L Ed 1299, 71 S Ct 954.

induced error. See invited error.

inducing cause. See procuring cause.

inducement. That which prevails on a person to promote an act or acts by him, for example, fraud inducing the making of a contract. 23 Am J1st Fraud § 111. That part of a declaration or complaint in an action for libel or slander the office of which is to narrate the extrinsic circumstances which, coupled with the language published or uttered by the defendant affect its construction, and render it actionable, where, standing alone and not thus explained, the language would appear either not to concern the plaintiff, or, if concerning him, not to affect him injuriously. 33 Am J1st L & S § 239.

See entrapment.

induciae. An armistice; a truce; a suspension of hostilities; an indulgence.

induct. To lead or conduct. To place a person formally in the possession of an office or a benefice To place or install a person in an office. To bring into one of the armed forces a person called for service under a compulsory service act. 36 Am J1st Mil § 24.

inducted. Led or conducted. Placed in an office or a benefice. Made a member of one of the armed forces after having been called under a compulsory service act. 36 Am J1st Mil § 24.

A registrant has been "inducted" when he has appeared before his local board, has been passed by its medical examiners on the preliminary or screen examination, has passed his blood test at the local hospital or state board of health, has passed his medical examination at the hands of the army doctors at the induction center, and has taken the oath as a member of the armed forces of the United States. Hoellman v Abel, 293 Ky 776, 170 SW2d 26.

inductio. (Civil law.) A cancellation; an obliteration.

induction. Being made a member of one of the armed forces after having been called under a compulsory service act. 36 Am J1st Mil § 24. The flow of electricity, through the medium of the atmosphere, from one wire to another without actual contact. 26 Am J2d Electr § 2. Producing an effect in a conductor of electricity.

Being formally placed in office. The investing of a clergyman with the actual possession of the temporalities of a benefice by means of some symbolic act. Godwin v Liman (Va) Jeff 96, 99.

in due course. See holder in due course.

in due course of transportation. Between delivery of the shipment to the carrier and delivery to the consignee or one acting for the consignee. Anno: 80 ALR2d 447, 452. For the purposes of stating the risk of protection by an insurance policy, prior periods of actual movement or periods of rest while property is being carried from one place to another with the intention to take it to a destination conceived in the mind, not the mere possession of something in the course of a casual wandering. Anno: 80 ALR2d 447.

indulgence. The granting of a favor, such as an extension of time to a creditor. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 367. In the Roman Catholic Church, a remission of punishment for sin. In other connections, a grant of religious liberties to persons not members of the established church.

indulto. (Spanish.) A pardon by the king for the commission of an offense.

indument. Same as endowment.

in duplo. In double the amount.

in duplum. In double the amount.

industria. See ex industria.

industrial. Pertaining to industry.

industrial accident commission. A special agency or board administering the workmen's compensation act of the jurisdiction. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 371. An agency known in other states as the workmen's compensation commission.

industrial accident fund. See state insurance fund.

industrial arts. Mechanical arts.

industrial bank. A bank of a particular type, operating with the primary purpose of giving credit to wage earners of good character on an instalment-payment basis.

industrial blindness. Impairment of vision to the extent of preventing one from engaging in an industrial pursuit. Powers v Motor Wheel Corp. 252 Mich 639, 234 NW 122, 73 ALR 702.

industrial bounties. Bounties to industry provided by Act of Congress in promotion of national defense. 12 Am J2d Bount § 2.

industrial commission. Same as industrial accident commission.

industrial development. An area devoted to industries, that is, a section in which industrial plants have been built and are operating. The process of creating an area for industries, the obtaining of industries for the section, and the construction of industrial plants.

industrial disease. A disease peculiar to a certain employment because of the place of employment and conditions affecting the health in such place. A sudden and unexpected development of a traumatic origin in an employment. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 246. An infirmity which does not arise by "accident" and, in the absence of an express provision in the act, is not an injury or personal injury within the meaning of a compensation statute. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 246.

industrial dispute. See labor dispute; strike.

industrial district. See industrial zone.

industriales. See fructus industriales.

industrial establishment. A place for engaging in an industry, particularly manufacturing, requiring both capital and labor. State ex rel. Kansas City Power & Light Co. v Smith, 342 Mo 75, 111 SW2d 513.

industrial exhibition. An exhibition in which industries of the state or locality, depending upon the sponsor, exhibit their products and demonstrate some of their manufacturing operations. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 128.

industrial homework. See homework; homeworker.

industrial hospital. A hospital maintained by a railroad or industrial corporation for the benefit of the employees, supported usually by the employer or partly by the employer and partly by the employee. 26 Am J1st Hospit § 15.

industrial insurance. A form of life insurance, the primary purpose of which is to provide for the expenses of the last illness and burial of the insured, characterized by the relatively small amounts in which the policies are written, the circumstance that the premiums are payable monthly, and the additional circumstance that ordinarily the premiums are collected by collectors employed by the insurer who make house to house calls.

industrial life insurance. See industrial insurance.

industrial railroad. A railroad within the limits of an industrial plant operated for the benefit or convenience of the industry. 13 Am J2d Car § 12.

industrial relations. The relations between the employing industry and the workers, often referred to today as capital and labor.

As the words are used in the title of an act relating to an administrative body for the regulation of industrial relations, the word industrial means relating to industry, and industry embraces those departments devoted to public service. The word relations has the meaning of "affairs." Fifty years ago the words would have conveyed little or no information, but in the light of common knowledge of the science of government, and particularly the regulation of industry by administrative tribunals as they now exist, anyone whose interests might be affected by the legislation would be directed to details by the title. State ex rel. Hopkins v Howat, 109 Kan 376, 198 P 686, 25 ALR 1210, 1228.

industrial relations court. An administrative board established for the regulation of industrial relations. State ex rel. Hopkins v Howat, 109 Kan 376, 198 P 686, 25 ALR 1210, writ of error dismd 258 US 181, 66 L Ed 550, 42 S Ct 277.

industrial relations department. A department of a state government administering the workmen's compensation act; otherwise known in some jurisdictions as the workmen's compensation commission.

industrial school. An institution for the reception, education, and training of wayward, incorrigible, or vicious youths or youths from broken homes or whose parents are incapable or unworthy of caring for children, where they may be inculcated with habits of industry and morality and be free from the corrupting influence of bad associates. 26 Am J1st House of C § 2.

industrial solids. Refuse and waste from an industrial plant.

industrial union. A labor union organized on an industrial basis without regard to the particular occupations or skills of the members, taking in as members all employees of a particular industrial unit. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 13.

industrial zone. An area where the construction and operation of industrial plants is permitted under zoning ordinances. 58 Am J1st Zon § 33.

industry. Diligence in employment or self-employment, exercised bodily or mentally. Carver Mercantile Co. v Hulme, 7 Mont 566, 571. A business, plant, or enterprise for the production of goods, merchandise, machines, motor vehicles, etc. for sale, particularly a manufacturing plant employing many people and requiring the support of large capital. A distinct branch of trade or business, such as the sugar industry, the printing industry, or the clothing industry. State ex rel. Kansas City Power & Light Co. v Smith, 342 Mo 75, 111 SW2d 513. A thing involving capital and labor but distinct from both.

industry affecting commerce. As defined by the Taft-Hartley Act, any industry or activity in commerce or in which a labor dispute would burden or obstruct commerce or intend to burden or obstruct commerce or the free flow of commerce. Shirley-Herman Co. v International Hod Carriers, Bldg. & C. L. Union (CA2 NY) 182 F2d 806, 17 ALR2d 609.

indutiae. Same as induciae.

in eadem causa. In the same cause; in the same case; in the same suit or action; in the same condition or state. A person in a condition of chronic inebriety, whether caused by the excessive use of intoxicating liquors, morphine, or other narcotics. Leavitt v Morris, 105 Minn 170, 117 NW 393 (statutory definition.)

inebriate. Noun: An habitual drunkard. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 8. A drunken person. Verb: To intoxicate or make drunk.

inebriated. Intoxicated.

inebriation. Same as intoxication.

inebriety. Same as intoxication.

in effect. In force; in operation; effective. In fact.

ineffectual judgment. A judgment which grants full relief to the successful party but is unenforceable in his behalf because of substantial defect. Anno: 69 ALR2d 727, § 11[b].

[617]

inefficiency. Incompetency; a lack of some requisite ability. Anno: 4 ALR3d 1095. Incapability, as for a public office. State ex rel. Rockwell v State Board of Education, 213 Minn 184, 6 NW2d 251, 143 ALR 503.

See efficient.

In ejus unius persona veteris reipublicae vis atque majestas per cumulatas magistratum potestates exprimebatur.

The power and majesty of the old commonwealth were represented in that one man through the combined powers of the magistrates. 1 Bl Comm 251.

ineligibility. The state of being ineligible.

See ineligible.

ineligible. Want of eligibility. The lack of the legal qualifications essential for an office or trust. Barnum v Gilpin, 27 Minn 466, 8 NW 375.

See eligibility.

in emulationem vicini. In envy or hatred of a neighbor.

In eo quod plus sit, semper inest et minus. The less is always included in the greater.

in equal shares. Sometimes, although not always, indicating a gift to individuals rather than to a class. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1265.

in equal wrong. See in pari delicto.

inequitable. Unjust; not according to the principles of equity.

inequitable conduct. A course of conduct contrary to the principles of equity. Unconscionable conduct; unfairness; conduct prompted by bad motive. 27 Am J2d Eq § 138.

in equity. In a court of equity; through or by means of proceedings in equity.

in esse. Alive; living; in being.

See in being.

in essentialibus. In the essentials.

Inesse potest donationi, modus, conditio sive causa; ut modus est; si conditio; quia causa. There can be manner, condition, or cause in a gift; "ut" is for the manner; "si" is for the condition; and "quia" for the cause.

Inest de jure. It is implied in law.

in evidence. Before the court, after having been offered or introduced, and received, as evidence.

inevitable. Not to be avoided; unavoidable.

inevitable accident. A purely accidental occurrence, the origin of which is either in the agency of men or in a natural force. King v Richards-Cunningham Co. 46 Wyo 355, 28 P2d 492. An unusual, unexpected, or extraordinary occurrence. French v Pirnie, 240 Mass 489, 134 NE 353, 20 ALR 1098. A collision of ships which occurs, even though both parties have endeavored, by every means in their power, with due care and caution and a proper display of nautical skill, to prevent it, and in spite of everything that nautical skill, care, and precaution can do to keep the vessels from coming together. 48 Am J1st Ship § 232.

An Act of God is an inevitable accident because no human agency can resist it, but the expression "inevitable accident" is broader and more comprehensive than "Act of God." 38 Am J1st Negl § 6. But as the term is employed in the law of common carriers, it is a technical expression and "a loss by inevitable accident" is held to be synonymous with "a loss by act of God." Neal v Saunderson, 10 Miss 2 Smedes & M 572.

See inevitable casualty; unavoidable accident.

inevitable casualty. A term, apparently favored in the drafting of leases, meaning inevitable accident. An occurrence of an unusual, unexpected, or extraordinary character, without the direct participation of either landlord or tenant. Anno: 20 ALR 1101; 32 Am J1st L & T § 505.

See inevitable accident.

inewardus. A warden; a guard; a watchman.

in excambio. In exchange.

in execution under sentence of the court. The state or condition of a person who is imprisoned in execution of a sentence. Mitchell v Greenough (CA 9 Wash) F2d 184.

in exitu. Same as in issue.

in expectancy. See estate in expectancy; expectancy.

in expectation. In anticipation rather than in present enjoyment or endurance.

As used with reference to estates, the term is used in contradistinction to the term "in possession." Both terms contemplate a title vested and indefeasible, but in one instance the right of enjoyment is immediate, "in possession;" in the other it is postponed, "in expectation." People v McCormick, 208 Ill 437, 70 NE 350.

inexperience. Want of experience. Want of judgment in matters of business arising from lack of participation in such matters; not the incompetency which justifies the appointment of a guardian. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 6.

See experience.

In expositione instrumentorum, mala grammatica, quod fieri potest, vitanda est. In the drawing of instruments, bad grammar is to be avoided as much as possible.

in extenso. At length; in full; verbatim.

in extremis. In the last stage and extremity of the last illness. As a characterization of the circumstance under which a declaration becomes admissible in a prosecution for homicide as a dying declaration, the victim being the declarant:—at the point of death from the wound to which the declaration refers, although not necessarily taking the last breath. 26 Am J1st Homi § 405.

in eyre. See adjournment in eyre.

in facie curiae. In the face or presence of the court. Cooke v United States, 267 US 517, 536, 69 L Ed 767, 773, 45 S Ct 390.

in facie ecclesiae. In the face of the church, that is, in a church.

See marriage in facie ecclesiae.

[618]

in faciendo. In doing; in making; in performing. In fact. In truth. In reality. In existence rather than in theory. In circumstances rather than in law.

See assignee in fact; attorney in fact; possession in fact.

in facto. In fact; in deed.

In facto quod se habet ad bonum et malum, magis de bono quam de malo lex intendit. In a deed which may be held to be either good or bad, the law directs its attention more to the good than to the bad.

infamia. Infamy; disgrace; dishonor; ignominy; ill repute.

infamia facti. Infamy in fact; the infamy which in fact exists where a person is supposed to be guilty of a crime, but it has not been judicially proved.

He who has been declared infamous in one country is infamous in a foreign country in fact, but not in law. Commonwealth v Green, 17 Mass (17 Tyng) 515, 541.

infamia juris. Infamy in law; that is, infamy established by law as a consequence of crime. Commonwealth v Green, 17 Mass (17 Tyng) 515, 541.

infamis. Of ill repute; infamous; disreputable.

infamous. See infamia facti; infamous crime.

infamous crime. A term of more than one connotation; sometimes referring to the manner of punishment, at other times to the effect of a conviction upon the credibility of the delinquent. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 23. Determined by the nature of the punishment rather than the circumstances of the commission of the particular offense for which punishment imposed. Briggs v Board of Comrs. 202 Okla 684, 217 P2d 827, 20 ALR2d 727. At common law, a crime infamous in the opinion of the people respecting the mode of punishment or infamous in respect of the future credibility of the delinquent. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 23. An offense punishable by death or by imprisonment in a prison or penitentiary, particularly if the period of imprisonment is more than one year. Anno: 24 ALR 1004; 27 Am J1st Indict § 10. Within the meaning of the Fifth Amendment of the Federal Constitution, an offense punishable by imprisonment in a state prison or penitentiary with or without hard labor. Ex parte Mills, 135 US 263, 267, 34 L Ed 107, 109, 10 S Ct 762. Treason, felony, and those crimes of dishonesty included within the term "crimen falsi." 21 Am J2d Crim L § 23. In one sense of the term, any felony. State ex rel. Anderson v Fousek, 91 Mont 448, 8 P2d 312, 84 ALR 303.

An offense which is typified by collateral results such as disqualification for voting or holding office. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 23. An offense which can be prosecuted only by indictment by a grand jury or the equivalent in an information. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 23. An offense expressly declared "infamous" by statute. People ex rel. Latimer v Randolph, 13 Ill 2d 552, 150 NE2d 603, cert den 358 US 852, 856, 3 L Ed 2d 85, 90, 79 S Ct 80, 89.

In determining whether a crime is infamous, the punishment which the statute authorizes is regarded, and not the punishment which is actually awarded. 27 Am J1st Indict § 9.

infamous crime against nature. See pederasty; penetration per anum; sodomy.

infamous offense. Same as infamous crime.

infamous punishment. Punishment characterized by infamy; punishment for a felony rather than punishment for a misdemeanor. 27 Am J1st Indict § 9.

Two hundred years ago, punishments clearly infamous were death, gallows, pillory, branding, whipping, confinement at hard labor, and cropping. Whipping and being put in the stocks were not so regarded in colonial times, but would probably be considered infamous today. Punishment by confinement in a state prison or penitentiary, or other similar institution is held to be infamous punishment. Ex parte Wilson, 114 US 417, 428, 29 L Ed 89, 93, 5 S Ct 935.

infamy. Disgrace; loss of reputation. The stigma which attaches to a person who has been convicted of an infamous crime. Schuylkill County v Copley, 67 Pa 386, 390. Disgrace resulting from the conviction of a crime whereby the privileges attendant upon citizenship are lost or one's competency or credibility as a witness adversely affected. Ex parte Wilson, 114 US 417, 422, 29 L Ed 89, 91, 5 S Ct 935.

infancy. A status created by law; the status of nonage; in other words, the status of an infant.

See infant.

infangenthef. The right or privilege of the lord of the manor to pass judgment on a thief taken within the manor.

infangthefe. Same as infangenthef. infans. (Civil law.) A child under the age of seven years.

Infans non multum a furioso distat. An infant does not differ much from a lunatic.

infant. In ordinary usage, a child of a tender and helpless age. In law, a person who has not reached the age of majority, usually 21 years, at which the law recognizes a general contractual capacity. 27 Am J1st Inf § 2.

In some states females become of age at the end of the eighteenth year and the statutes of some states make all persons adults upon their marriage. See 27 Am J1st Inf § 5.

See emancipation of minor; legal capacity; majority; natural infancy.

infantia. (Civil law.) Childhood from birth to the age of seven years.

infanticide. The killing of a young child shortly after its birth.

infantile paralysis. See poliomyelitis.

Infants' Marriage Act. An English statute which enabled an infant to enter with court sanction into a valid marriage settlement. 18 & 19 Vict c 43.

infanzon. (Spanish.) A person of noble birth.

infatuation. An attraction without reason.

In favorabilibus magis attenditur quod prodest quam quod nocet. In matters which are favored, more attention is paid to that which is beneficial than to that which is harmful.

in favorem libertatis. In favor of liberty. Re Justus, 3 Okla Crim 111, 104 P 933.

[619]

in favorem prolis. In favor of the offspring or descendants.

in favorem vitae. In favor of life.

in favorem vitae, libertatis, et innocentiae, omnia praesumuntur. All things are presumed in favor of life, liberty, and innocence.

infected. Having an infection or having caused an infection.

See infection.

infection. The state or condition of a person or animal whose body is affected with a disease, or in or on whose body the germs of a disease are present. Summers v Houston, 62 Okla 280, 162 P 474. The transmitting of a disease from one person to another. An absorption of germs at a definite external point of contact on the human body, such as a scratch, abrasion, or vulnerable tissue, or through the nose, mouth, or other normal channel of entry. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 251. The transmitting of a feeling, perchance gaiety, from one person to others.

infectious. Capable of transmitting a feeling, particularly a feeling of gaiety. In a somber sense, capable of causing an infection leading to a disease. Having a contaminating character in the literal sense or in a figurative sense, as where it is said contraband articles are "infectious" in a cargo, subjecting the whole to condemnation. 56 Am J1st War § 157.

infectious disease. A disease caused by bacteria, virus, or other parasite in the body. A disease likely to be spread to other persons by infection.

A disease which presupposes a cause acting by hidden influences, like the miasma of prison ships or marshes, or through the pollution of water or the atmosphere, or from the various dejections from animals. As applied to Texas fever, if it were infectious, it would be communicated by cattle carrying the germs of the disease from the infected district, and depositing them upon the range and waters occupied by other cattle susceptible to the infection, so that they would become infected therefrom. Grayson v Lynch, 163 US 468, 477, 41 L Ed 230, 233, 16 S Ct 1064.

An infectious disease may or may not be contagious, that is, communicable by contact or body exhalation. Grayson v Lynch, 163 US 468, 41 L Ed 230, 16 S Ct 1064.

in fee. A term descriptive of the highest and most enlarged estate in real property, meaning "in fee simple." 28 Am J2d Est § 9.

"When it is said that a man is seised in fee, without more saying, it shall be intended in fee simple; for it shall not be intended by this word 'in fee,' that a man is seised in fee taylor, unless there be added to it this addition, fee taylor." "When the terms in fee, without adjunct, are used as applied to estates, they are to be taken as descriptive of the highest and most enlarged estate, as contradistinguished from a fee conditional at the common law, or a fee tail by the Statute De Donis." Pennington v Pennington, 70 Md 418, 17 A 329.

See fee simple.

in fee simple. See fee simple.

in fee tail. See fee tail.

infest. Same as enfeoff.

infertment. Same as enfeoffment.

infeodare. To enfeoff; to invest with a fee.

infeodatio. Same as enfeoffment.

infeodation. Same as enfeoffment.

infeodo. In fee.

infeoffment. Same as enfeoffment.

infer. To reason and conclude from a known fact. Derived from the Latin word "inferre," compounded of "in," meaning from, and "ferre," to carry or bring; so, its strict meaning is to bring a result or conclusion from something back of it; that is, from some evidence or data from which it may be logically deduced. Morford v Peck, 46 Conn 380, 385.

inference. In common usage, that which is inferred. In legal usage, a permissible deduction from the evidence before the court which the jury may accept, reject, or accord such probative value as they desire. 29 Am J2d Ev § 161. A permissible deduction which the trier of the facts may adopt, without an express deduction of law to that effect. Rose v Missouri Dist. Tel Co. 328 Mo 1009, 43 SW2d 562, 81 ALR 400. In a proper sense, the thing proved. Not guesswork. Whitehouse v Bolster, 95 Me 458, 50 A 240. A presumption of fact, but not presumption of law.

See presumption; presumption of fact.

inferential. Inferable or deducible from facts which have been proved.

inferior. Less or lower in power, authority, rank, or station; subordinate.

inferior agent. An ordinary agent or employee of a corporation, who acts in an inferior capacity, and under the direction of superior authority, both in regard to the extent of the work and the manner of its execution.

Such an agent is to be distinguished from a managing agent who is invested with general power, involving the exercise of judgment and discretion. The distinction is made in reference to the statutes which have usually provided that service of process may be made on a foreign corporation by service upon its managing agent. Foster v Charles Betcher Lumber Co. 5 SD 57, 58 NW 9.

inferior court. A classification of somewhat flexible character, but usually meaning that the court is one whose proceedings are not endowed with the presumption of jurisdiction. 20 Am J2d Cts § 28. A court of limited jurisdiction. 20 Am J2d Cts § 28. A court of original jurisdiction as distinguished from a court having appellate jurisdiction; a court of original jurisdiction as distinguished from a court exercising supervisory control over it. 20 Am J2d Cts § 28. A court subject to control under a writ of mandamus directed to it by another court. 35 Am J1st Mand § 250.

inferior equity. A right subordinate to another or other rights from the standpoint of the relative standing of the parties in equity. The degree of right of the party who is shown to have been in the better position to avert the loss, injury, or prejudice now to be borne by the one or the other. Champa v Consolidated Finance Corp. 231 Ind 580, 110 NE2d 289, 36 ALR2d 185.

See junior equity.

inferior use. A public use of land of lesser rank in respect of public necessity than another public use for which it is sought to condemn the property. 26 Am J2d Em D § 90.

inferred. Concluded from a known fact.

See infer; inference.

[620]

infeudation. Same as enfeoffment.

infeudation of tithes. The investing of a layman with the right to receive tithes.

in feudis stricte novis. In feuds strictly new. See 2 Bl Comm 229.

in feudis vere antiquis. In feuds really ancient.

inficiari. (Civil law.) To deny; to repudiate an obligation; to deny liability.

inficiatio. (Civil law.) A denial; a denial or repudiation of liability; a denial or repudiation of an obligation.

In fictione juris consistit aequitas. In the fictions of law, equity supports it.

In fictione juris semper aequitas existit. In a fiction of law, an equity always survives; that is, a fiction of law is always consistent with equity.

"All fictions of law, we have been taught, were created to enable the court to do justice, and where to indulge a fiction is to cause injustice, its just limit has been found." Estate of Walker, 125 Cal 242, 57 P 991.

In fictione juris semper est aequitas. In fiction of law, equity always exists. To apply a legal fiction to work a wrong is a violation of the maxim. Emerson v Thompson, 19 Mass (2 Pick) 473, 495.

In fictione juris subsistit aequitas. In the application of a fiction of the law, equity will prevail. State ex rel. Watson v Standard Oil Co. 49 Ohio St 137, 30 NE 279.

A fiction is maintained where it may contribute to the advancement of justice; it will not be allowed to work an injury or prejudice to any party. Low v Little (NY) 17 Johns 346, 348.

infidel. One without trust in God or belief in immortality. State v Rozell (Mo) 225 SW 931, 16 ALR 400, later app (Mo) 279 SW 705. In a parochial view, one who does not believe in the Bible or believe that Jesus Christ was the true Messiah, the Son of God; one who necessarily must be both anti-Catholic and anti-Protestant. Hale v Everett, 53 NH 9.

infidelis. An infidel; an unbeliever; a person who violated his oath of fealty.

infidelitas. Infidelity; unfaithfulness; disloyal to one's oath of fealty.

infidelity. In one sense, the state of being an infidel. In modern usage and generally the usage in the law, unfaithfulness in marriage; practically synonymous with adultery; a stated ground of divorce under the statutes of some jurisdictions. Bradshaw v Tinker, 129 Okla 244, 264 P 162.

See adultery; infidel.

in fieri. In the making; unfinished; incomplete.

At common law, misspellings and other clerical errors could be amended while all the proceedings were "in paper," and therefore subject to the control of the courts, but when the record was made up, no amendment could be made unless within the term of court in which the record was made. Later, however, the law relaxed and permitted such an amendment to be made at any time before judgment was given, because until then, the proceedings were considered as being "in fieri." See 3 Bl Comm 406.

infiht. (Saxon.) An assault upon a person who lived in the same house as the assailant.

in fine. At the end; as, at the end of a page; at the end of a book.

infinite. Without limit.

See distress infinite.

infinitum. Endlessly.

Infinitum in jure reprobatur. Endlessness is disapproved in the law.

infirm. Weak; sickly; feeble in mind or body, particularly from old age. Lacking purpose.

infirmary. A building or part of a building devoted to the care of sick and disabled persons.

infirmative. Tending to weaken or lessen.

infirmitate. See de infirmitate; essoin de infirmitate.

infirmity. Disease; physical or mental weakness. Including abnormal weaknesses, such as impaired heart functions, as well as acute diseases. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1211. Something beyond a temporary disorder; an ailment of a somewhat established or settled character which, at least, has a tendency to impair a person's health and physical vigor. Anno: 26 ALR 1515. As the word appears in an application for life, health, or accident insurance or in any representation, warranty or condition contained in such a policy:—a defective condition of a substantial character which in some material degree impairs the physical condition and health of the applicant, and increases the chance of death, sickness, or accident against which the insurance company is asked to issue insurance. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 749.

infirmity exemption. A homestead exemption granted an infirm person, although he is not the head of a family. 26 Am J1st Home § 15.

in flagrante delicto. In the act of committing the offense; "red-handed." State v Smith, 156 NC 628, 72 SE 321.

inflammable. A substance easily ignited.

inflammable substance. See inflammable.

inflation. An economic condition characterized by rising prices and a decrease in the purchasing power of money. 22 Am J2d Dam § 87; 27 Am J2d Em D § 274.

inflict. To impose as a burden. To cause, as to produce injury by striking. To impose as punishment pursuant to sentence.

The word does not necessarily imply direct violence. There is no more appropriate use of the word than in connection with punishment and to inflict punishment clearly includes imprisonment and involuntary restraint, as well as hanging, beheading, or whipping. Commonwealth v Macloon, 101 Mass 1.

inflicted injury. Any bodily harm which is caused to be suffered by the act of one person upon another. Commonwealth v Macloon, 101 Mass 1. For some purposes, confined to an injury intentionally produced, not including an injury caused by an insane person. Great Southern Life Ins. Co. v Campbell, 148 Miss 173, 114 So 262, 56 ALR 681 (phrase appearing in exception stated in double indemnity provision of life insurance policy.) Noun: The quality possessed by a person through ability, education, social standing, or wealth to affect the course of conduct or of the acts of another.

[621]

influence. Verb: To alter, move, sway, or affect. State v Ventola 122 Conn 635, 191 A 726, 110 ALR 578. In some connotations, as in labor relations, pressure applied to corrupt or over-ride the will, at least something beyond innocent communications and friendly intercourse between employer and employee. Texas & N.O. R. Co. v Brotherhood of R. & S.S. Clerks, 281 US 548, 74 L Ed 1034, 50 S Ct 427.

See undue influence.

influence of liquor. See under the influence of liquor.

influencing election. Restricting the liberty of an elector to vote according to his best judgment and conscience or bringing to bear any influence calculated to affect adversely the purity of an election. 26 Am J2d Elect § 385.

influencing jurors. Bringing a bad influence to bear upon jurors for the purpose of obtaining a desired verdict. 31 Am J Rev ed Jury § 66.

influenza. An inflammation of the respiratory tract. A common disease. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 244. But a disease which spreads rapidly by infection and may be deadly, especially in its aftereffects, unless medical treatment is obtained.

in force. In effect; operative, as in the case of a contract which is in force until it is abrogated or rescinded voluntarily or in judicial proceedings, or it terminates in accordance with a provision for termination contained in the contract. Malanti v Metropolitan Life Ins. Co. 127 Misc 674, 675, 216 NYS 643, 644.

informal. Lacking in form; not according to formal rules or requirements.

informality. The quality of being informal. In pleading, a deviation, in alleging necessary facts and circumstances, from the well approved forms of expression, and a substitution in lieu thereof of other terms, which nevertheless constitute plain, intelligible and explicit language. State v Gallimore, 24 NC (2 Ired L) 372, 377.

in forma pauperis. In the status of a poor person. The characterization of an action or proceeding authorized by statute by a person who by reason of poverty is unable to give security for the payment of costs, where the statute requires security to be given. Anno: 6 ALR 1285. The characterization of an appeal by a poor person, especially in a criminal case. 4 Am J2d A & E § 345.

See dispauper; dives costs; poverty affidavit.

information. In common parlance, acquired knowledge or knowledging of facts which advise and lead to the acquisition of knowledge. In the technical legal sense, an accusation of the commission of a crime, otherwise known as a complaint or affidavit, upon which an accused is brought to trial and prosecuted for a misdemeanor or trivial offense or, if a felony is charged, whether there is probable cause for the accusation so that the accused should be held for, or bound over to await the action of the grand jury. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 441. In another sense of the term, a written accusation of crime preferred by a public prosecuting officer without the intervention of a grand jury. 27 Am J1st Indict § 27.

See libel of information.

informational agencies. Administrative agencies with investigatory or inquisitorial powers. 1 Am J2d Admin L § 85.

information and belief. See upon information and belief.

information for an intrusion. A prosecution against intruders upon the public domain; a method of redress for a trespass committed on the lands of the commonwealth in the nature of an action of trespass quare clausum fregit. Commonwealth v Hite, 33 Va (6 Leigh) 588.

information in chancery. A bill in chancery filed in behalf of the crown. For all practical purposes in modern times, the same as a bill in equity, although at one time distinguishable from an ordinary bill in equity in the regard that, since filed on behalf of the crown, all that was required was a statement of facts, it not being necessary for the crown to assume the position of a suitor or orator and pray for relief.

information in equity. See information in chancery.

information in rem. A proceeding instituted by the government for the forfeiture of goods imported from a foreign country, for failure to pay import duties thereon. Boyd v United States, 116 US 616, 29 L Ed 746, 6 S Ct 524.

information in the exchequer. The institution of a suit in the English court of exchequer on behalf of the king for money, or an action in the king's behalf for damages for trespass.

information in the nature of quo warranto. A remedy often considered to be the same as quo warranto, although actually a remedy substituted for the latter, an older remedy under writ of quo warranto. 44 Am J1st Quo W § 2. A common law proceeding more modern than the writ of quo warranto, and properly a criminal prosecution, instituted not only to fine a usurper, but to oust him from an office, franchise, or liberty. 44 Am J1st Quo W § 3.

See quo warranto.

information of intrusion. See information for an intrusion.

information of title. A common-law proceeding for the confirmation of title by escheat. 27 Am J2d Esch § 29.

information return. A return required by tax law of an employer, bank, corporation, etc. of the amounts paid by way of wages, salaries, interest, dividends, etc. to employees, customers, stockholders, etc.

informatus non sum. I am not informed,—a species of judgment by default which is given against a defendant when his attorney declares that he has no instruction to say anything in answer to the plaintiff, or in defense of his client. See 3 Bl Comm 397.

informer. One giving notice to the authorities of a violation of law; one who swears to an information for prosecution. In a more technical sense, one who prosecutes an action on behalf of the state for the recovery of a penalty, usually for the purpose of sharing in the penalty. 36 Am J2d Forf & P § 79. One who communicates to the revenue authorities information which he has of the violation of revenue laws; 34 Am J2d Fed Tax ¶ 9381, A person not an officer of the United States who detects and seizes any vessel, vehicle, merchandise, or baggage, subject to seizure and forfeiture under the customs laws and who reports the same to an officer of the customs, or who furnishes to a United States attorney, to the Secretary of the Treasury, or to any customs officer original information concerning any fraud upon the customs revenue, or a violation of the customs laws, perpetrated or contemplated. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 110.

informer's action. Broadly, any action brought by an informer. Technically, a qui tam action.

See informer; qui tam action.

in foro. In the forum; in the court; in the jurisdiction.

in foro conscientiae. In the forum of conscience, in good faith. See footnote in Laidlaw v Organ (US) 2 Wheat 178, 185, 4 L Ed 214, 215.

in foro contentioso. In the forum of contention; in a court of litigation.

in foro domestico. In the domestic forum; in the home.

in foro ecclesiastico. In the ecclesiastical court.

in foro legis. In a court of law.

in foro saeculari. In a secular court.

infortunium. Misfortune; misadventure; accident; ill luck.

infra. Below; beneath; under; within; during.

infra aetatem. Under age.

infra annos nubile. (Civil law.) Below marriageable age; that is, the condition of a woman under the age of twelve years.

infra annum. Within a year.

infra annum clause. The within a year clause,—that clause of the Statute of Frauds which relates to "any agreement that is not to be performed within the space of one year from the making thereof. 49 Am J1st Stat F § 23.

infra annum luctus. (Civil law.) Within the year of mourning. See 1 Bl Comm 457.

infra brachia. Within her arms.

infra civitatem. Within the state.

infra comitatum vet extra. Within the county or without.

infra corpus comitatus. Within the body of the county; within the physical boundaries of the county. Waring v Clarke (US) 5 How 441, 464, 12 L Ed 226, 237; Commonwealth v Macloon, 101 Mass 1.

infraction. A violation of law, particularly a traffic rule or regulation. Ando v Woodberry, 8 NY2d 165, 203 NYS2d 74, 168 NE2d 520. A breach or violation of a duty, or obligation.

infra dig. An abbreviation of infra dignitatem.

infra dignitatem. Beneath the dignity.

infra dignitatem curiae. Below the dignity of the court. Moore v Little (NY) 4 Johns Ch 183, 184.

infra furorem. During insanity; while insane.

infra hospitium. Within the inn. 29 Am J Rev ed Innk § 107.

infra jurisdictionem. Within the jurisdiction.

infra ligeantiam domini regis. Within the territory of our lord the king. Commonwealth v Macloon, 101 Mass 1.

infra ligeantiam regis. Within the allegiance of the king.

infra maneria. Within the manors.

infra metes. Within the metes or boundaries.

infra moenia. Within the walls; about the house.

infra praesidia. Within the walls; under the protection; within complete subjection.

infra quatuor maria. Within the four seas; that is, in England.

infra quatuor parietes. Within the four walls; in prison.

infra regnum. Within the kingdom.

infra sex annos. Within six years.

infra tempos semestre. Within six months.

infra triduum. Within three days.

in fraudem creditorum. In fraud of creditors.

in fraudem legis. In fraud of the law.

In fraudem legis facit, qui salvis verbis legis, sententiam ejus circumvenit. He works a fraud upon the law, who, observing the letter of the law, circumvents its spirit. State ex rel. Matthews v Forsyth, 147 Ind 466, 44 NE 593.

infringement. A violation of a right or privilege; an encroachment.

infringement of copyright. Copying, in whole or in part, in haec verba or by colorable variation, that which is protected under the Federal Copyright law; doing anything that the owner of a copyright alone has the right to do, without the consent of such owner. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 104.

infringement of name. The adoption by a corporation of a name so similar to that of another corporation, association, or firm as will result in confusion or deception. 18 Am J2d Corp § 156.

See infringement of tradename. infringement of patent. A tort. Carbice Corp. v American Patents Development Corp. 283 US 27, 75 L Ed 819, 51 S Ct 334. The violation of a right secured to the inventor by the Patent Law. The manufacture, use, or sale of the patented process or instrumentality without authorization on the part of the patentee. Goodyear Shoe Machinery Co. v Jackson (CA 1 Mass) 112 F 146. The use of a patented invention beyond the valid terms of a license. General Talking Pictures Corp. v Western Electric Co. 305 US 124, 83 L Ed 81, 59 S Ct 116, reh den 305 US 675, 83 L Ed 437, 59 S Ct 355.

infringement of trademark. A use or imitation of one's trademark by another on the letter's goods in such manner that the purchasers of such goods are deceived, or likely to be deceived, and induced to believe that they were manufactured or sold by the owner of the trademark. 52 Am J1st Tradem § 84.

[623]

infringement of tradename. Such a colorable imitation of a tradename that the general public, in the exercise of reasonable care, might think that it is the name of the one first appropriating it. 52 Am J1st Tradem §§ 127 et seq.

infugare. To chase; to compel to flee; to put to flight.

infula. A band or fillet; a coif; a head dress.

in full. In complete performance, especially in reference to an obligation for money. A phrase written upon a check or appearing in a letter accompanying a check, employed for the purpose that the acceptance of the check may operate as an accord and satisfaction. 1 Am J2d Accord § 18.

See full indorsement; receipt in full in full life. Alive both civilly and physically.

in full settlement. A phrase indicating receipt of payment in full or acknowledging payment or performance accepted as the equivalent of complete performance or satisfaction.

Under a contract executed "in full settlement of all claims and demands," the phrase covers all rights, demands, claims or disputes as to property existing at the time of execution of the contract. Golden v Golden, 155 Okla 10, 8 P2d 42.

in futuro. In the future; at a future time.

In generalibus versatur error. Error thrives on general terms. Underwood v Carney (1 Cush) 55 Mass 285, 292.

in generali passagio. In the general passage; that is, in the journey with the Crusaders to the Holy Land.

in genere. In kind.

In genere quicumque aliquid dicit sive actor sive reus, necesse est ut probat. In general, whoever alleges anything, whether plaintiff or defendant, is under the necessity of proving it.

ingenium. A trick; a fraudulent scheme or device.

ingenui. Plural of ingenuus.

ingenuitas. The condition of a freeman or that of a manumitted slave.

ingenuitas regni. The freemen or yeomanry of the kingdom.

ingenuus. A native who was born a freeman.

in gold or the equivalent thereof in United States legal tender notes. A provision under which an obligation is completely discharged by a payment in legal tender notes, dollar per dollar. Killough v Alford, 32 Tex 457.

in good faith. With honesty, whether done negligently or not. Uniform Warehouse Receipts Act § 58.

in good order. See good order.

in good safety. A warranty phrase in marine insurance, amounting to a stipulation by the insured that the insurance shall not attach in case the vessel or cargo shall have been lost or damaged at the time appointed for the attachment of the risk. Alexander, Ramsay & Kerr v National Union Fire Ins. Co. (CA2 NY) 104 F2d 1006.

in good standing. See good standing.

ingredients. The two or more substances which are the components of a thing. The two or more substances from which a drug is fabricated. 25 Am J2d Drugs § 31.

in gremio legis. In the bosom of the law,—that is, in abeyance. A term expressive of the status of the fee during the period intervening between the creation and the termination of a contingent remainder. 28 Am J2d Est § 223.

ingress. Access; entrance; means of entry. A going in; entry; a right to enter.

ingressu. A writ of entry.

ingressus. Same as ingress.

ingress and egress. The right or privilege of entering upon land and departing therefrom.

ingressus et egressus. Ingress and egress; the right or liberty of entering upon land and departing therefrom.

in gross. Without deduction; considered as a whole. Braun's Appeal, 105 Pa 414. In one sum. At large; attached to a person rather than appurtenant to land.

See alimony in gross; common in gross; easement in gross.

ingrossator. Same as engrosser.

ingrossing. An obsolete form of engrossing.

inhabitability. The condition of premises such as to permit occupancy as living quarters.

inhabitancy. A term, the meaning of which may vary according to the context in which it appears. Literally, the state or condition of an inhabitant. For some purposes, a dwelling house. For other purposes, domicile or legal residence. Thayer v Boston, 124 Mass 132.

The word will not be construed as involving the idea of domicile where it reasonably appears that such meaning is not consistent with the legislative intent. 25 Am J2d Dom § 10.

See inhabitant.

inhabitant. A word impossible of precise and inclusive definition, since the meaning varies according to the context in which it appears, particularly where the matter is one of determining the legislative intent in a statute. 25 Am J2d Dom § 10. Narrowly, a dweller or householder, whether he be a tenant in fee simple, a life tenant, a tenant for years, a tenant at will, or one who has no interest in the premises other than that it is his habitation and dwelling. One having a domicile in a particular place. 25 Am J2d Dom § 10. One domiciled in or having a fixed residence in a given locality. Anno: 53 ALR 1394. One, who, although he may not be a citizen, dwells or resides in a place permanently, or has a fixed residence therein, as distinguished from an occasional lodger or visitor. Re Wrigley (NY) 4 Wend 602, 603. Synonymous with the term "resident" where used in a general sense in a statute respecting requisites to jurisdiction of an action for divorce. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 247. For income tax purposes:—sometimes regarded as the equivalent of a domiciled person; at other times regarded as a resident. Anno: 82 ALR 982. A corporation in the state of incorporation. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 34.

See inhabitancy; inhabitants.

inhabitants. The plural of inhabitant; synonymous with population for the purpose of a statute respecting the census. Ludwig v Board of County Comrs. 170 Neb 600, 103 NW2d 838.

[624]

inhabited house duty. An English tax or duty which was imposed upon each inhabited dwelling-house.

in hac parte. On this side; in this behalf.

in haec verba. In these words.

In haeredes non solent transire actiones quae poenales ex maleficio sunt. Actions which are penal and which arise out of the commission of crime do not pass to the heirs.

inhalation. The breathing in of air and sometimes, in unfortunate situations, of fumes, gases, dust, or other harmful elements. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 252. For some purposes, a voluntary act, as in an exception in a life or accident policy of death or injury from "inhalation" of gas. Travelers' Ins. Co. v Ayers, 217 Ill 391, 75 NE 506 (noting a division of authority.)

inherent. An inseparable quality or part of a thing or a person; intrinsic to a thing or a person. Anno: 23 ALR 1095.

inherent condition. A condition not added by a separate clause but contained in the agreement as an intrinsic part of the substantial provisions. A condition which is not newly imposed but previously existing.

inherent covenant. A covenant in a deed which relates directly to the grant.

inherent danger in work. A danger incidental to, and characteristic of, certain work, not one arising solely from the method of performance of the details of the work. Anno: 23 ALR 1095.

inherent jurisdiction. The jurisdiction of a court existing under a grant of general jurisdiction to the court, not by a grant of jurisdiction for a specific purpose. Kelly v Conner, 122 Tenn 339, 123 SW 622.

See inherent power of court.

inherently dangerous article. An article fraught with danger lying in the character and content of the article, albeit the disastrous consequences are caused immediately by an external force. 46 Am J1st Sales § 814. An article, the use of which is dangerous because of the nature or character of the article, for example, gun powder. 46 Am J1st Sales § 815.

inherent power. The doctrine that the federal government has sovereign and inherent powers in addition to the powers given to it expressly or impliedly by the United States Constitution; a doctrine refused recognition as law by the United States Supreme Court. Kansas v Colorado, 206 US 46, 51 L Ed 956, 27 S Ct 655.

inherent power of court. A power essential to the very existence of the court or its ability to function in dispensing justice; the power to punish contempt, 17 Am J2d Contpt § 62; the power to grant a continuance in the interest of justice. State ex rel. Buck v McCabe, 140 Ohio St 535, 24 Ohio Ops 552, 45 NE2d 763. A power included within the scope of a court's jurisdiction which a court possesses irrespective of specific grant by constitution or legislation; a power which can neither be taken away nor abridged by the legislature. State ex rel. Ricco v Biggs, 198 Or 413, 255 P2d 1055, 38 ALR2d 720.

inherent power of officer or agent. A power native to the position, although it may not be sanctioned by an express grant of authority. 10 Am J2d Banks § 99.

inherent right. A term denoting the functional character of rights of members of a community in an unorganized state. State ex rel. McGrauel v Phelps, 144 Wis 1, 128 NW 1041.

See fundamental rights and privileges.

inheretrix. An heiress; a woman who inherits property.

inherit. To take as an heir at law by descent. 23 Am J2d Desc & D § 1. The succession to the property of a decedent by those entitled to it. Glascott v Bragg, 111 Wis 605, 87 NW 853. Technically, to take by descent or succession rather than by will. Warren v Prescott, 84 Me 483, 24 A 948. But, appearing in a will, sometimes construed to include a taking by devise. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1329.

inheritable blood. Hereditary blood; relationship by blood through which an inheritance may be transmitted. See 2 Bl Comm 254.

inheritance. In strict usage, the taking of property by descent or intestate succession. In common parlance, the taking of real or personal property by either will or intestate succession. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 8; 57 Am J1st Wills § 1329. An estate which has descended to the heir and has been cast upon him by the single operation of law. Estate of Donahue, 36 Cal 329. Property inherited; in common usage, property acquired by descent or through a will.

As used in a provision of the Bankruptcy Act that all property which vests in the bankrupt within six months after bankruptcy by bequest, devise, or "inheritance" shall vest in the trustee, the word is confined to property, both real and personal, coming to the bankrupt by intestate succession and is not to be distorted by making it apply to something that accrues as a result of a death but is not acquired through intestate succession. Thus, the word, could not include a recovery under the Federal Employers' Liability Act. Friedman v McHugh, 168 F2d 350, 11 ALR2d 733.

See descent; words of inheritance.

Inheritance Act. The statute of 3 and 4 Wm. IV., c. 106, which amended the English law of descents.

For an outline of this statute see footnote in 2 Cooley's Blackstone, Commentaries 201.

inheritance tax. A succession tax; a tax on the privilege of taking property of a decedent in accordance with law or on the right to receive property of a decedent. Not a tax on decedent's privilege of disposition of his property. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 8. A tax on the right to successioty to property, and not on the property itself, and collectible out of each specific share or interest, and not out of the general property of the estate. Re Estate of Kennedy, 157 Cal 517, 108 P 280. Not a debt. Anno: 150 ALR 1287; 47 ALR2d 1015.

Although the term "inheritance tax" has been sometimes so employed as to include taxes of the nature of estate duties, proper regard for the etymology of the term is sufficient to restrain extension of its meaning beyond succession duties. The term as used in a private document, however, may well be deemed to have been intended to cover taxes which are technically estate taxes as well as those which are strictly inheritance taxes. 28 Am J Rev ed Inher T § 8.

[625]

See collateral inheritance tax; estate tax; lineal inheritance tax; net estate; net succession; progressive tax.

inherited and equally divided. A phrase in a will suggestive of an immediate taking of the interest devised. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1329.

inhibition. A prohibition; a writ to prohibit a judge from proceeding further in a matter.

inhibition against a wife. A writ to prohibit business transactions with a married woman.

in his demesne. See demesne, as of fee.

in his demesne as of fee. See demesne, as of fee.

In his enim quae sunt favorabilia animae, quamvis sunt damnosa rebus, fiat aliquando extentio statuti. In matters which are good for the soul, though they may be injurious to material things, some elasticity should be given to the statute.

in his own favor. As a phrase of a statute rendering incompetent the testimony of the surviving party to a contract in an action between him and the personal representative of the deceased party:—testimony which will tend to establish a present legal interest in the contract of cause of action to which it has reference. Proulx v Parrow, 115 Vt 232, 56 A2d 623.

in his own right. A phrase which excludes acquisition in a clearly representative capacity. Sigler v Sigler, 98 Kan 524, 158 P 864.

in his presence. See presence.

In his quae de jure communi omnibus conceduntur consuetudo alicujus patriae vel loci non est allegenda. In those matters which in law are conceded to be common to all, a custom of a particular county or place should not be alleged.

in his verbis. In these words.

in hoc. In this.

inhonestus. Dishonorable; shameful; disgraceful.

inhumanity. See inhuman treatment.

inhuman treatment. Cruelty; want of mercy.

See cruel and unusual punishment; cruelty to animals; inhuman treatment which endangers life.

inhuman treatment which endangers life. A ground of divorce under some statutes; not confined to physical or violent acts; may consist wholly of abusive and insulting words, much depending upon the moral, mental, and spiritual qualities of the victim. Thompson v Thompson, 186 Iowa 1066, 173 NW 55, 5 ALR 710; Ekerson v Ekerson, 121 Or 405, 255 P 480.

in hunc modum. In this manner.

in iisdem terminis. In the same terms.

in individuo. In its individual character; that is intact; in specie. Wright v Payne, 62 Ala 340.

in infinitum. To infinity; without end or limit.

in initialibus. In the beginnings.

in initio. In the beginning; at the commencement.

in initio litis. At the beginning of the action or litigation.

in integrum. Anew; over again.

in interest. Interested; having an interest.

See real party in interest.

in interstate commerce. See engaged in interstate commerce; interstate commerce.

in invidiam. In prejudice of; to the prejudice.

in invitum. Against the will; without consent.

in ipsis faucibus. In the very entrance.

in ipso articulo temporis. At the very moment of time; on the very instant.

Iniquissima pax est anteponenda justissimo bello. A most unfavorable peace is to be preferred to a war which is most just. Root v Stuyvesant (NY) 18 Wend 257, 305.

iniquity. Want of justice. A judicial error; an error of the court or judge.

Iniquum est alios permittere, alios inhibere mercaturam. It is unfair to permit some to carry on trade and to prohibit others.

Iniquum est aliquem rei sui esse judicem. It is improper for a person to be a judge in his own cause.

Iniquum est ingenuis hominibus non esse liberam rerum suarum alienationem. It is unjust for freemen not to be at liberty to alienate their own property.

in issue. Regularly and properly in controversy before the court. Timken Roller Bearing Co. v Pennsylvania Railroad Co. 273 US 665, 71 L Ed 829, 47 S Ct 550.

initial. Adjective: The first. Noun: The first letter of a name, often used in place of the name in a signature, especially in place of the middle name. Verb: To sign with an initial or initials.

See initials.

initial carrier. The first carrier in a pair or series of connecting carriers, the carrier who received the goods from the shipper. 14 Am J2d Car § 700.

It has also been held that the term refers to the carrier contracting with the shipper, and is not necessarily the one whose line constitutes the first link in transportation. Knapp v Minneapolis, St. P & S. S. M. Ry. Co. 33 ND 291, 156 NW 1019.

initial court. See nisi prius.

initialia testimonii. The preliminary examination of a witness.

initialibus. See in initialibus.

initial notice of loss. A summary or abbreviated form of notice of loss of, or damage to, goods in the possession of a carrier, sometimes required by stipulation in the contract of carriage. 14 Am J2d Car § 584.

[626]

initialing protest. Same as noting protest.

initials. The first letters of a person's christian name or names and the first letter of his surname or family name, e.g. J. F. K. for John F. Kennedy. 38 Am J1st Name § 7. Sufficient as a designation of the creditors of a bankrupt in the schedule of creditors. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 373. Sufficient as a signature of a negotiable instrument. Merchants Bank v Spicer (NY) 6 Wend 443. Insufficient as a signature binding a person as bail. 8 Am J2d Bail § 64. Not a proper signature to a bill of exceptions. 4 Am J2d A & E § 466.

initiate. Verb: To start a movement. To commence something, for example a proceeding. To propose for approval. Idaho Power Co. v Thompson (DC Idaho) 19 F2d 547. To bring a person into an activity, a fraternal order, association, or social club. Noun: One newly brought into a fraternal order, association, or club.

initiate curtesy. See curtesy initiate.

initiate tenant by curtesy. See curtesy initiate.

initiated law. A statute enacted by the people as an initiative measure.

See initiative.

initiation. A ceremony, formal or informal, by which one is received into a fraternal order, social group, or membership corporation.

initiation fee. A sum paid by a member to a club or other association for the privilege of joining the club. Masonic Country Club v Holden (CA 6 Mich) 18 F2d 553. The charge imposed by a labor union upon one joining the union.

initiative. The power reserved to the people to propose laws and amendments to the constitution and to enact or reject the same at the polls generally independent of the legislature. 28 Am J Rev Init & R § 2. The name which has been given to a proceeding which has been authorized in a number of states by constitutional amendments of comparatively recent adoption, whereby the people reserve to themselves the right to propose laws to be enacted by the legislature and submitted to the vote of the electors of the state. 28 Am J Rev ed Init & R §§ 3 et seq. As applied to municipalities:-the power reserved to the people of a municipality residing therein to propose laws or ordinances and amendments to the charter. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp § 204.

in itinere. On the journey, particularly a journey made with the purpose of acquiring a new domicile. 25 Am J2d Dom § 35. On the voyage; on the circuit; in transit.

initio. A beginning; a commencement.

See ab initio.

initio litis. See in initio litis.

initium. A beginning; a commencement.

injection. See hypodermic injection.

in jeopardy. A technical expression used in stating the rule of former jeopardy or double jeopardy; on trial before a court of competent jurisdiction, on an indictment sufficient in form and substance to sustain a conviction, the jury having been charged with deliverance, that is, having been impaneled and sworn. 21 Am J2d Crim L §§ 175, 176.

in judgment. In a court. Merged in judgment.

See ester in judgment.

In judiciis, minori aetati succurritur. Persons of minor age are assisted in judicial proceedings.

in judicio. In the presence of a judge; before a judge; in court.

In judicio non creditur nisi juratis. In a court of justice no one is believed who is not sworn.

injunction. A term of dual meaning, having reference to a suit to enjoin or to the writ, process, or restraining order issued pursuant to an order or decree obtained in the suit. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 2. In the former aspect, a form of action in equity which is designed to protect a plaintiff from irreparable injury to his property or other rights of which a court of equity will take cognizance, by prohibiting or commanding the doing of certain acts. Ladner v Siegel, 298 Pa 487, 148 A 699, 68 ALR 1172. In the latter aspect, a formal command of the court couched in the form of an order, writ, or process, as the local practice may require, directing the persons named therein to refrain from doing certain specified acts which appear to be against equity or conscience, or, where the relief is mandatory in form, commanding them to take certain steps to undo the wrong or injury with which they are charged—a command to refrain from, or to do a particular act. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 2.

In the legal usage of the term in some jurisdictions, reference to an "injunction" is to what is known in other jurisdictions as a temporary injunction. In such jurisdictions, an injunction in the sense of a final order which determines a controversy is deemed essentially the same as any other judgment or decree in equity, notwithstanding the order may include the enjoining of the performance of an act or an order requiring the performance of an act.

See common injunction; irreparable injury; mandatory injunction; preliminary injunction; prohibitory injunction; restraining order; special injunction; temporary injunction.

injunction against suit. See stay.

injunction bond. A bond required of the plaintiff as a condition of obtaining relief by a preliminary or interlocutory injunction. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 301.

injunction in labor dispute. A pertinent classification because of the prevailing pendency to regulate such relief closely by statute. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab §§ 490 et seq.

injunction pendente lite. A temporary injunction which is to operate pending a hearing of the suit on its merits, or until the final decree of the court is rendered. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 12.

in jure. In law; in right.

injure. To harm; to hurt; to wound, but short of causing death at the time. Interstate Business Men's Acci. Asso. v Dunn, 178 Ky 193, 198 SW 727, 6 ALR 1333, 1336. To harm, damage, or reduce the value of property directly, or indirectly, as by obstructing access Jones v Erie & Wyoming Valley Railroad Co. 151 Pa 30, 46.

in jure alterius. In the right of another.

In jure causa proxima non remota spectatur. In law,

[627]

the proximate, and not the remote, cause is regarded.

injured. Hurt, damaged, wounded.

See injure.

injured party. A person wronged by the action of the other. Lee v Lee, 182 NC 61, 108 SE 352. The plaintiff; a person having a right of action, particularly a person having a ground of divorce.

A statute specifying incurable insanity as a permissible cause for divorce does not, in providing that divorces may be decreed upon the application of the "injured party," make the divorce unattainable because there is no injury to the other party to the marriage, the term referring only to a husband or wife who, by the plain terms of the act, is intended to have a right of action for divorce on the grounds of incurable insanity. State v Brown, 213 Ind 118, 11 NE2d 679, 113 ALR 1243.

See innocent or injured person.

In jure non remota causa sed proxima spectatur. In law, not the remote cause, but the proximate cause is regarded. Maryland Steel Co. v Marney, 88 Md 482, 42 A 60.

in jure proprio. In a person's own right.

injuria. A wrong; the violation of a legal right. See 3 Bl Comm 2. In the Roman law, a legal wrong for which redress would be granted, whether against the person or against property. Pavesich v New England Life Ins. Co. 122 Ga 190, 50 SE 68. A tortious act, whether intentional or accidental. Wright v Chicago & Northwestern Railway, 7 111 App 438, 446.

injuria absque damno. Wrong without damage. 1 Am J2d Act § 69.

But a direct invasion of a legal right imports damage. 52 Am J1st Torts § 6.

injuria atque damnum. The violation of a legal right coupled with actual loss.

Injuria fit ei cui convicium dictum est, vel de eo factum carmen famosum. An injury is done to him of whom reviling things are said, or concerning whom a defamatory poem is composed.

Injuria illata judici, seu locum tenenti regis, videtur ipsi regi illata maxime si fiat in exercentem officium. An injury offered to a judge or to a person holding the place of the king, seems to be as if it were offered to the king himself, if done while the person is in the exercise of his office.

Injuria non excusat injuriam. An injury does not excuse an injury.

Injuria non praesumitur. Injury is not presumed.

Injuria propria non cadet beneficium facientis. No benefit shall accrue to a person from his own wrongdoing.

Injuria servi dominum pertingit. The wrongdoing of the servant attaches to the master.

injuria sine damno. The violation of a legal right without damage,—an obvious impossibility as pointed out by Lord Holt, for the reason that every injury imports damage in the nature of it. See 52 Am J1st Torts § 6.

injuriously affected. As a condition of the right to damages in eminent domain, the consequences of an act which would have given a right of action if the act had not been authorized by the statute. Meriiphis & Charleston Railroad Co. v Birmingham, Sheffield & Tennessee River Railroad Co. 96 Ala 571, 11 So 642.

injury. The invasion of a legal right. Bowman v Davenport, 243 Iowa 1135, 53 NW2d 249, 63 ALR2d 853. To be distinguished from "damage," which is the loss, hurt, or harm resulting from the "injury." 22 Am J2d Damg § 1.

As the word appears in an application for life, health or accident insurance:—a substantial injury affecting the general health. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 750. As the term is used in a workmen's compensation statute:—any lesion or change in the structure of the body, causing harm thereto and a lessened facility of its natural and normal use. Sullivan's Case, 265 Mass 497, 164 NE 457, 62 ALR 1458. Damage or harm to the physical structure of the body, although not necessarily presenting external or visible signs of its existence, 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 194; sometimes construed to include simple and common diseases, 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 244; including also nonoccupational diseases and disorders of an idiopathic nature, as well as those having a definitely traumatic origin. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 244.

injury arising by accident. See accident.

injury arising out of employment. The existence of a direct cause and effect relationship between the injury and the employment. Gage v Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. (Mo App) 273 SW2d 761, 47 ALR2d 1234.

injury by the elements. Such an injury as results from the operation of the most common destructive forces of nature against which buildings need to be protected. Hanchett v O'Reilly, 76 NJL 212, 68 A 1066.

injury in his property. An injury to his property; also the diminishing of his property by a transfer of property, or a payment of money, induced by fraud. Wheeler-Stenzel Co. v National Window Glass Jobbers Asso. (CA3 NJ) 152 F 864. Harm or damage resulting to his property directly or indirectly. Jones v Erie & Wyoming Valley Railroad Co. 151 Pa 30, 46.

injury in person or property. An expression in the disjunctive, often used in statutes for comprehensive effect in providing for recovery of damages caused by a violation of the statute, e.g., in a civil damage or dramshop act. Anno: 6 ALR2d 798.

injury to life or limb. A personal or bodily injury. Bailey v Bailey, 97 Mass 373. Not limited to such an injury as results in death or the actual loss of a limb. Iola v Birmbuam, 71 Kan 600, 81 P 198.

See bodily injuries; personal injury.

injury to property. Something materially affecting the capacity of particular property for ordinary use and enjoyment. Evans v Reading Chemical Fertilizing Co. 160 Pa 209, 219, 28 A 702.

injury to the person. See personal injury.

In iustitia recipienda, minimo de regno suo comparetur. In receiving justice, he should be placed on a level with the meanest person in the kingdom. Chisholm v Georgia (US) 2 Dal 419, 460, 1 L Ed 440, 458.

[628]

Injustum est, nisi tota lege inspecta, de una aliqua ejus particula proposita judicare vel respondere. Without having examined the whole of a law, it is unfair to judge or to give an opinion concerning some particular provision of it.

in jus vocando. By calling or summoning into court. See 3 Bl Comm 279.

in jus vocare. To call or summon to court.

ink. See recording; writing.

in kind. In produce or goods in place of money. 32 Am J1st L & T § 61. In the same or a similar commodity or kind of goods.

As the expression is used in a statute providing that the commissions of a tax collector shall be paid "in kind," it is held to mean that the commission shall be paid in the same kind of funds that the collector has legally received in payment of the tax. Wilson v State, 51 Ark 212, 213.

See in specie.

inlagare. To restore an outlaw to the protection of the law.

inlagation. Restoration of an outlaw to the protection of the law.

inlagh. A person who is under the protection of the law.

inland bill. A bill of exchange which is, or on its face purports to be, both drawn and payable within the state. 11 Am J2d B & N § 20.

inland bill of exchange. Same as inland bill.

inland marine insurance. A term suggestive of risks carried upon ships or cargoes to be found on inland waters of the United States but employed by insurers in an indiscriminate manner for a much broader category of insurance, including various risks having no relation to transportation by water, even some, such as floating policies on jewels, clothing, etc., which have only a tenuous connection with transportation of any kind.

inland navigation. Navigation upon waters lying wholly within the boundaries of a state, and hence not including any of the great lakes. Moore v American Transportation Co. (US) 24 How 1, 16 L Ed 674. Navigation upon inland waters.

See inland rules of navigation; inland waters.

inland rules of navigation. Special navigation rules made by local authority relative to river, lake, or other inland water. 33 USC § 1092.

inland waters. Rivers, lakes, great ponds, and other bodies of water within, or partly within, the boundaries of the United States, which are not tidal waters. Chamberlain v Hemingway, 63 Conn 1, 27 A 239.

"All the gulfs, all the inland seas, form only portions detached, but not entirely separated from that universal sea denominated the ocean." The Orient (CC La) 16 F 916, 920.

As the expression "inland waters of the United States" was used in the act of Congress regulating prize proceedings and the distribution of prize money, it referred to all waters of the United States upon which a naval force could go, other than bays and harbors on the sea coast. In most instances, property of the enemy on them could be taken, if at all, by an armed force, without the aid of vessels of war. United States v Vessels of War (US) 16 Otto 607, 27 L Ed 286, 1 S Ct 539.

See Great Lakes.

inland waters of the United States. See inland waters.

inlantal. Same as demesne land.

inlaughe. (Saxon.) Under the protection of the law.

inlaw. To restore from a condition of outlawry back to the protection of the law; to pardon a person of attainder.

in-law. A blood relative of one's spouse. A relative by marriage.

See brother-in-law; sister-in-law.

in law. As it is according to law. Existing under the law. Implied by law; presumed by law. In law, as distinguished from equity.

inleashed. Trapped; ensnared.

in lecto. In bed.

in lecto mortali. On one's deathbed.

in libera eleemosyna. In free alms. See 2 Bl Comm 101. Same as frankalmoign tenure.

in libero socagio. In free socage.

See free socage.

in lieu of. In substitution for or in place of. Ordinarily implying the existence of something to be replaced. Lamb v Milliken, 78 Colo 564, 243 P 624.

But a mere statement in a lease that a certain paragraph is "in lieu of prior paragraphs does not necessarily eliminate such prior paragraphs. Milan Bldg. Co. v Dannelley (Tex Civ App) 57 SW2d 345.

in limine. On the threshold; at the outset.

in linea recta. In the direct line.

in litem. In or during the suit or litigation.

in loco. In the place.

in loco parentis. See person in loco parentis.

in majorem cautelam. By way of greater caution; for greater security.

in majorem cautelam, si qua forte sit irregularitas. For greater caution, if perchance there might be irregularity.

In majore summa continetur minor. The lesser sum is contained or included in the greater.

in malam partem. In an evil sense.

In maleficiis voluntas spectator, non exitus. In criminal offenses, the intent and not the outcome is regarded.

In maleficio, ratihabitio mandato comparator. In tort, a ratification is regarded as a command.

in manu. In his hand.

See with the mainour.

inmate . A co-lodger; a person who lives in the same abode with another or others. A person confined with others in a state prison, penitentiary, jail, state hospital, etc.

[629]

In maxima potentia minima licentia. Where power is greatest freedom is least.

In mediam viam tutissimus ibis. In the middle of the road you will journey most safely. Bledsoe v Nixon, 69 NC 89.

in medias res. Into the midst of the thing; into the meat of the matter.

In mercibus illicitis non sit commercium. There should be no commerce in illicit merchandise.

in mercy. Liable to amercement.

At the early common law, if a plaintiff failed in his suit, he was at the mercy of the king with regard to the fine which was to be imposed upon him for his false claim. Day v Woodworth (US) 13 How 362, 14 L Ed 181.

in mero jure. Of mere right; on the mere right.

in misericordia. Liable to amercement for unjust detention from the plaintiff.

At one time, by the common law, if the plaintiff failed to recover, he was amerced pro falso clamore (sentenced to pay a fine for bringing a false claim), but if he recovered judgment, the defendant was in misericordia for his unjust detention of the plaintiff's debt. Day v Woodworth (US) 13 How 362, 14 L Ed 181.

in misericordia domini regis pro fatso clamore suo. At the mercy of the king for his false claim. See 3 Bl Comm 376.

in mitiori sensu. In the milder or less harmful sense.

It was a doctrine of the early common law, since departed from, that when words charged as defamatory were capable of two constructions, the court would presume that they were intended to be used in the less harmful sense. Bash v Sommer, 20 Pa 159, 162.

in modum assisae. In the manner of an assize.

in mora. In delay; in default.

in mortmain. See mortmain.

in mortu manu. In mortmain.

See mortmain.

inn. A public house of entertainment for all who choose to visit it. 29 Am J Rev ed Innk § 2. Elaborately defined, a house held out to the public by the proprietor thereof as a place where transient persons who come in a fit condition will be received and entertained as guests for compensation. 29 Am J Rev ed Innk § 2.

innamium. A pledge.

in naturali laxitate. In a natural state of freedom; the unconfined and unrestrained state of wild animals. Geer v Connecticut, 161 US 519, 524, 40 L Ed 793, 795, 16 S Ct 600.

in naufragorum miseria et calamitate tanquam vultures ad praedam currere. To run like vultures to their prey amidst the misery and misfortune of those suffering shipwreck. See 1 Bl Comm 293.

innavigability. The state of a ship which is unseaworthy; the state of a waterway which is impassable for ships.

innavigable. Descriptive of the condition of innavigability.

See innavigability.

inner barrister. An English barrister who is privileged to plead within the bar.

inner house. The superior department of the high court of sessions in Scotland.

inner temple. See inns of court.

innings. Tide lands which have been reclaimed by man. The successive periods in a baseball game in which both teams come to bat. Figuratively, opportunity.

innkeeper. The proprietor of an inn. 29 Am J Rev ed Innk § 2.

See inn.

innkeeper's lien. The lien of the proprietor of an inn or hotel upon the effects of a guest in the inn or hotel for the amount of unpaid reasonable charges for the keeping and entertainment of the guest. 29 Am J Rev ed Innk § 145.

innocence. Freedom from guilt.

See presumption of innocence.

innocent. Free from wrongdoing or from guilty participation therein. Not guilty.

innocent agent. A person who acts in violation of law, being moved to the act by another, but incurs no guilt, because either he lacks the capacity to commit a crime or was entirely unaware of the circumstances which made his act a violation. Smith v State, 21 Tex App 107, 132, 17 SW 552.

innocent conversion. See technical conversion.

innocent conveyance. A conveyance which transfers only the title of the grantor, as opposed to a tortious conveyance which purports to convey a larger estate than the grantor has.

innocent holder for value. One who has acquired property from another for value without notice of a third person's equities in or claims to the property.

In order that a payee of trust funds may prevail as an innocent holder for value, in addition to being innocent of its trust character at the time of its receipt, he must have parted with some value, suffered some detriment, or forborne the exercise of some right which he might otherwise have asserted. Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. v Local Building & Loan Asso. 162 Okla 141, 19 P2d 612, 86 ALR 526.

See holder in due course; innocent indorsee.

innocent indorsee. One who has acquired the instrument by indorsement without notice of defects in the instrument, prior dishonor, or of a third person's equities in or claims to the instrument. Christensen v Farmers' Warehouse Asso. 5 ND 438, 67 NW 300.

See holder in due course.

innocent or injured person. The status of a party to an action for annulment of a marriage on the ground of a prior undissolved marriage, which is negated by knowledge of the existence of the prior marriage at the time of entering into the marriage sought to be dissolved. 4 Am J2d Annul § 56.

See innocent party.

innocent party. One who did not participate in the disputed transaction understandingly, intention ally, or of his own free will, and could not have ascertained the facts by the exercise of due diligence. 27 Am J2d Eq § 22.

[630]

See innocent or injured person.

innocent purchaser. See bona fide purchaser.

innocent trespasser. One who trespasses under color of right, or in good faith by mistake. Hughett v Caldwell County, 313 Ky 85, 230 SW2d 92, 21 ALR2d 373.

innocent woman. A woman who has never had illicit sexual intercourse with a man. State v Shoemaker, 101 NC 690, 693.

innominate. (Civil law.) Unclassified; not assigned to any particular class.

In nomine Dei, Amen. In the name of God, Amen.

Formerly, a will was ordinarily thus begun. Today it is common practice to begin a will with the same words in English.

innonia. An inclosure; a close.

In nostra lege unum comma evertit totum placitum. In our law one comma overturns a whole plea. See 3 Bl Comm 410, note.

innotescimus. We make known.

in notis. In the notes.

innovation. A change in method. A novation; a mode of extinguishing one obligation by another.

In novo casu novum remedium apponendum est. In a novel case, a new remedy must be applied.

innoxiare. To exculpate; to purge an accused person of guilt.

inns. See inns; inns of chancery; inns of court.

inns of chancery. Associations of solicitors in London, existing originally for the purpose of instruction in chancery law and practice, later as preparatory schools for students intending to enter one of the inns of court, both of which functions have long been in disuse.

See Barnard's Inn; Clifford's Inn.

inns of court. Associations of lawyers at London existing for the purpose of the instruction of students in the law and the practice of law and of calling men to the bar, the four principal inns being The Inner Temple, The Middle Temple, Lincoln's Inn, and Gray's Inn.

See Gray's Inn; Farydon Inn; inns of chancery.

in nubibus. Among the clouds, that is, in abeyance. A term expressive of the status of the inheritance or fee during the period intervening between the creation and the termination of a contingent remainder, meaning in abeyance. 28 Am J2d Est § 223.

in nuce. In a nutshell; concisely.

innuendo. A meaning conveyed by indirection. An allegation in the complaint, declaration, or petition, in an action for defamation, the purpose of which is to show the meaning of the publication or utterance and bring out its defamatory character and effect by reference to the antecedent matters contained in the inducement and the colloquium. 33 Am J1st L & S § 241.

in nullius bonis. In the goods of no one.

in nullo est erratum. No error has been committed. A form of pleading filed by the defendant in error in proceedings for review by writ of error. Edwards v Elliott (US) 21 Wall 532, 549, 22 L Ed 487, 489.

In obscura voluntate manumittentis, favendum est libertati. In the case of a doubtful wish for the manumission of a slave, liberty is to be favored.

In obscuris, inspicere solere quod verisimilius est, aut quod plerumque fieri solet. In obscure or doubtful matters, it is customary to inquire into what is probable or what is ordinarily done.

In obscuris, quod minimum est sequimur. In obscure or doubtful matters, we follow that which is the least so.

in octavis. In eight (days).

inoculation. The injection of a virus into the body for the purpose of causing a disease in a mild form, thereby building up an immunity. 25 Am J1st Hlth § 35.

in odium spoliatoris. To the prejudice of the pirate; a presumption applied in infringement of patent cases. Coffin v Ogden (US) 18 Wall 120, 21 L Ed 821, 823.

In odium spoliatoris omnia praesumuntur. All things are presumed to the prejudice of the pirate or the despoiler.

inofficiosum. Neglectful of natural duty, or contrary thereto; unkind; unnatural.

inofficiosum testamentum. An undutiful or unkind will. See 2 Bl Comm 503.

inofficious testament. Same as inofficious will.

inofficious will. A will omitting the testator's nearest relatives; a will deficient in natural duty. See 2 Bl Comm 503.

In omni actione ubi duae concurrunt distractiones, videlicet, in rem et in personam, illa distractio tenenda est quae magis timetur et magis ligat. In every action where two distresses concur, that is to say, in rem and in personam, that distress will hold which is the more dreaded, and which binds the more firmly.

in omnibus. In all things, in everything.

in omnibus causis motis et movendis. In all cases pending and in all cases which may be instituted. Per Holt, C. J., in Parker v Kett (Eng) 1 Salk 95, 96.

In omnibus contractibus, sive nominatis sive innominatis, permutatio continetur. In all contracts, whether nominate or innominate, a consideration is contained.

In omnibus imperatoris excipitur fortuna; cui ipsas leges Deus subiecit. The property of the emperor should in all matters be excepted; with respect to him, God has subjected the laws themselves. 1 Bl Comm 239.

[631]

In omnibus obligationibus in quibus dies non ponitur, praesenti die debetur. (Civil law.) In all obligations in which no time is designated for their fulfillment, the obligation is presently due.

In omnibus poenalis iudiciis, et aetati et imprudentiae succurritur. In all penal judgments, both youth and lack of prudence are favored.

In omnibus quidem, maxims tamen in jure, aequitas spectanda sit. In all matters indeed, but especially in matters of right, equity should be regarded.

In omni re nascitur res quae ipsam rem exterminat. In all things, something arises which exterminates the thing itself.

in open court. Before the court while it is in public session, as distinguished from a judge or judges of the court in chambers. Conover v Bird, 56 NJL 228, 230, 28 A 428.

See open court.

inoperative deed. A deed ineffectual to convey legal title, although possibly operating contractually. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 137.

inoperative patent. A patent for an invention which fails to secure to the inventor a monopoly of his actual invention. National Nut Co. v Sontag Chain Stores Co. (CA9 Cal) 107 F2d 318.

inoperative will. A will which is ineffective because of statutory restrictions upon the disposition attempted by the will. Re Houston, 383 Pa 466, 119 A2d 304.

inopportune. Unseasonable in time; at the wrong time. Pennsylvania Co. v Sloan, 125 Ill 72, 80.

inops consilii. Without the aid of counsel. Den ex dem. Davenport v Wynne, 28 NC (6 Ired L) 128.

in or about. A phrase having reference to an area and expressing the idea of physical proximity. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 86.

inordinatus. An intestate; a person who dies without leaving a valid will.

in ore. In the mouth.

in or on a motor vehicle. A clause depicting the risk of loss under a policy of accident insurance which, as such, is to be construed in favor of the insured. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 262. Having the body in some sort of physical contact with the automobile, not necessarily sitting in the place provided for the seating of passengers. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1241.

The insured does not have to be actually or wholly on the car in the sense of being entirely off the ground. In some instances, the coverage has been held to extend to situations in which there was actually no physical contact, before injury, between the person injured and the automobile, it appearing, however, that such person was either preparing to enter the automobile or in close proximity thereto after alighting. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1241.

in or on a public or passenger conveyance. Within the meaning of a provision of an accident policy which depicts the coverage or a double indemnity provision of a life insurance policy: riding inside the conveyance and, as well, riding on the platform or even while being in the act of boarding or alighting from a bus or car. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1254.

in or upon. See phrases beginning in or on.

in ovo. In the egg; in the first stage; at the beginning.

in pacato solo. On peaceful soil.

in pace Dei et regis. In the peace of God and the king.

in pais. In the country; outside of the court; away from court; out of court. In free translation:—in an informal manner rather than in a formal attempt to comply with the law.

See estoppel in pais; notice in pais.

in paper. The state of the proceedings in a case, in reference to a memorandum or record thereof, before the complete record is extended. 3 Bl Comm 406.

in pari cause. In a similar or like case; under similar or like conditions.

In pari cause possessor potior haberi debet. Under like conditions, the party who is in possession ought to be deemed the stronger.

In pari cause potior est conditio possidentis. Under similar conditions, the situation of the party who is in possession is the stronger.

in pari delicto. In equal wrong equally at fault. 27 Am J2d Eq § 72. The status of both parties to an illegal agreement or transaction where they are equally at fault. 1 Am J2d Acctg § 56; 17 Am J2d Contr § 221.

It is a trite and commonplace maxim that where parties are equally in wrong, the court will not give one legal redress against the other but will leave them where it finds them. Anno: 116 ALR 1018. So, where the parties are equally at fault the defendant and the party in possession hold the strong position. 17 Am J2d Contr § 221.

In pari delicto melior est conditio defendentis. Where the parties are equally at fault, the situation of the defendant is the more favorable.

If a person suffers injury while violating a public law, the other party being also a transgressor, he cannot recover for the injury, if his unlawful act was the cause of the injury. Gilmore v Fuller, 198 Ill 130, 65 NE 84.

In pari delicto melior est conditio possidentis. Where the parties are equally at fault, the situation of the party in possession is the preferable one. Fawcett v Supreme Sitting of Order of Iron Hall, 64 Conn 170, 29 A 614.

In pari delicto potior est conditio defendentis. Where the parties are equally at fault, the defendant holds the stronger position.

The general rule of the maxim applies not only to the original parties to an illegal, immoral or fraudulent transaction, but to their heirs, and to all parties claiming under them or by title derived from them, where no equitable rights intervene to protect such parties. Dennehy v McNulta (CA7 Ill) 86 F 825.

[632]

In pari delicto, potior est conditio defendentis et possidentis. Where the parties are equally at fault, the defendant and the party in possession hold the stronger position.

In pari delicto potior est conditio possidentis. Where the parties are equally at fault, the situation of the party in possession is the stronger one. Morrison v Bennett, 20 Mont 560, 52 P 553.

in pari jure. In equal right. 27 Am J2d Eq § 148.

in pari materia. In relation to the same matter, subject, or object. Winston v State, 186 Ga 573, 198 SE 667, 118 ALR 719.

Statutes which relate to the same thing or to the same subject or object are in pari materia, although they were enacted at different times and it is a fundamental rule of statutory construction that such statutes should be construed together for the purpose of learning and giving effect to the legislative intention. 1 Am J2d Admin L § 40; 50 Am J1st Stat § 348.

in pari passu. On equal footing.

in part. Less than the whole, as a stock of goods consisting "in part" of inflammables.

in part of. A characteristic description of an article for the purpose of customs duties, meaning that the article contains a significant quantity of the named material. 19 USC, Headnote 9(f).

it patiendo. In suffering; in allowing; in permitting.

in paying quantities. A clause familiar in oil and gas leases. A yield of oil or gas in excess of operating costs. Barnard v Gibson, 100 Cal App 2d 527, 224 P2d 90. Characterizing the production of a gas well in excess of the producing and marketing cost. Benedum-Trees Oil Co. v Davis (CA6 Tenn) 107 F2d 981; Barbour, Stedman & Herod v Tompkins, 81. W Va 116, 93 SE 1038.

Under the usual habendum clause, which fixes the duration of the lease at a designated number of years and so long thereafter as gas or oil shall be produced in "paying quantities," the right to an extension accrues only in the event of attainment of profitable production within the fixed term. Anno: 67 ALR 526.

in payment. See in full; in full settlement; note in payment of an account.

in pectore judicis. In the breast of the court.

in pejorem partem. In the worse part; on the worse side.

in pendente. In suspense.

See pendente lite.

inpeny. The customary payment which a tenant made to his landlord upon entering upon his tenancy.

in performance of duty. See in the course of the employment.

in perpetuum. In perpetuity; forever.

Where land was conveyed in fee, and, as a part of the consideration, the grantor imposed a condition as to maintaining fences which was to be "perpetually" binding on the owners of the land, it was held that the condition did not impose an obligation on the grantee in perpetuum, but only upon the owners of the land, whoever they might be. Hickey v Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway Co. 51 Ohio St 40, 36 NE 672.

See perpetual.

in perpetuum rei memoriam. For the perpetuation of the memory of the matter. The characterization of a deposition taken in advance of trial, for use in the event the attendance of the witness at the trial cannot be secured. Richter v Jerome, 115 US 55, 29 L Ed 345, 5 S Ct 1162.

in perpetuity. Of endless duration. Central R. Co. v New York Tel. Co. 101 NJL 353, 128 A 160.

See perpetuity.

in perpetuum. In perpetuity; forever.

in perpetuum rei testimonium. In perpetual memory of the matter; establishing a matter forever.

in person. Appearing without counsel in the conduct of one's action or defense. For some purposes, in body, as where a civil damage or dramshop act provides for the recovery of damages for an injury "in person."

in persona. In person; appearing in an action without the aid of counsel.

in personam. Against the person; involving the person.

See judgment in personam; right in personam.

In personam actio est, qua cum eo agimus qui obligatus est nobis ad faciendum aliquid vel dandum. An action in personam is one in which we sue a person who is obligated to us to do something or to give something.

in personam action. An action having the objective of a judgment against the person, as distinguished from a judgment against property, being an action to enforce personal rights and obligations, brought against the person and based on jurisdiction of the person, notwithstanding it may involve his right to, or the exercise of ownership of, specific property, or seek to compel him to control or dispose of it in accordance with the mandate of the court. Atlantic Seaboard Natural Gas Co. v Whitten, 315 Pa 529, 173 A 305, 93 ALR 615. A proceeding against a person involving his personal rights and based on jurisdiction of his person. McCormick v Blaine, 345 111461, 178 NE 195, 77 ALR 1215.

in personam judgment. See judgment in personam.

in personam jurisdiction. See jurisdiction in personam.

in personam, not in rem. A maxim characterizing equity jurisdiction, indicating that remedies administered in equity are made effectual by decrees operating in personam. 27 Am J2d Eq § 122.

in pios usus. For religious uses or purposes. See 2 Bl Comm 505.

in place. Descriptive of minerals unsevered from the soil, constituting a part of the freehold. Williams v Gibson, 84 Ala 228.

[633]

in plena vita. In full life; that is, both civilly and physically alive.

in pleno comitatu. In the full county court. See 3 Bl Comm 36.

in pleno lumine. In full light; in the daytime.

in plurality. See estate in plurality.

In poenalibus causis benignius interpretandum est. In penal cases, the more liberal interpretation is to be adopted.

in poenam. In punishment; by way of punishment or penalty.

in posse. In possibility; in potentiality, as opposed to "in esse."

in possession. Holding possession.

See chose in possession; estate in possession; estate vested in possession.

in posterum. In the future.

in potentia. In possibility.

In potestate parentis. Under the control of a parent.

in praemissorum fidem. In the attestation of the premises. A phrase used in technical language of a notary.

In praeparatoriis ad iudicium favetur actori. (Civil law.) In those matters which precede the judgment, the plaintiff is favored.

in praesenti. At the present time; at once; immediately effective. Van Wyck v Knevals (US) 16 Otto 360, 27 L Ed 201, 1 S Ct 336.

in praesentia. In the presence.

in praesentia diversorum. In the presence of divers persons.

in praesentia et auditu aliorum. In the presence and hearing of others. Broderick v James (NY) 3 Daly 481.

In praesentia majoris potestatis, minor potestas cessat. In the presence of the superior power, the inferior power ceases. In presence of the major the power of the minor ceases. See Broom's Maxims 111.

in prender. Characterization of incorporeal hereditaments which the landlord had the right to take. See 3 Bl Comm 15.

in presence. See in the presence of the testator; presence; presence of the court.

In pretio emptionis et venditionis, naturaliter licet contrahentibus se circumvenire. In respect to the price, in buying and selling, it is naturally permitted to the contracting parties to cheat one another.

in primis. In the first place; at first; at the outset.

in principio. In the beginning. In principle.

in privity. See privity.

in promptu. Impromptu; in readiness.

In propria causa nemo iudex. No one can be a judge in his own cause.

in propria persona. In one's own person or behalf. Appearing in an action without counsel.

in proximo gradu. In the next or nearest degree.

in puris naturalibus. In a quite natural state; naked; unclothed.

in quantum lucratus est. To the extent to which he has profited.

inquest. An investigation conducted by a coroner or medical examiner, sometimes with the aid of a jury, to determine the cause of death of a person in a case where death is due, or is supposed to be due, to violence or other unlawful means. 18 Am J2d Corn § 7.

See post mortem inquisitio.

inquest in lunacy. A hearing to determine the sanity of a person. 26 Am J1st Homi §§ 82, 83.

inquest jury. A jury summoned by a coroner, medical examiner, or comparable officer to determine the cause of death of a person in a case in which death is due, or is supposed to be due, to violence or other unlawful means. 18 Am J2d Corn § 12.

inquest of drunkard. A statutory proceeding, similar to that provided for the determination of sanity, to ascertain whether a person is incapable of conducting his own affairs in consequence of habitual drunkenness. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 11.

inquest of office. An inquiry made by a jury before a sheriff, coroner, escheator, or other government officer, or by commissioners specially appointed, concerning any matter that entitled the sovereign to the possession of lands or tenements, goods or chattels, by reason of an escheat, forfeiture, idiocy, and the like. Hughes v Jones, 116 NY 67, 22 NE 446. Anno: 23 ALR 1233. An inquest conducted by a sheriff to determine the title to goods levied upon by him. 47 Am J1st Sher § 153.

inquest of title. A trial of the title to goods levied upon by a sheriff; not a judicial proceeding or part of a judicial proceeding—merely an inquest of office to indemnify the sheriff in making his return to the writ. 47 Am J1st Sher § 153.

inquilinus. (Roman law.) A person who dwells in a place not his own; a tenant; a lodger.

in quindena. In fifteen days.

inquirendo. An authorization to institute an inquiry on behalf of the government.

inquiry. A seeking for information. An examination or investigation.

See court of inquiry; diligent inquiry; judicial inquiry; writ of inquiry.

inquisitio. An inquisition; an inquest; an investigation; an inquiry.

inquisition. A church tribunal for the discovery and suppression of heresy. In law, an inquest.

See inquest; inquest in lunacy; inquest of office; inquest of title.

inquisitio post mortem. An inquisition or inquest after death.

See post mortem.

inquisitor. An official investigator.

[634]

inquisitorial power. Investigating authority. 24 Am J1st Grand J § 33. The power of an administrative agency to inspect accounts, records, etc. or to require the disclosure of information through the testimony of witnesses or the production of documents. 1 Am J2d Admin L § 85.

in quo. In what; in which.

See locus in quo.

In quo quis delinquit, in eo de jure est puniendus. In that wherein a person has committed an offense, he is to be punished by the law.

in re. In the matter; in the transaction.

in re aliena. In the affair or business of another; in the property of another.

in rebus. In matters; in transactions.

In rebus manifestis, errat qui auctoritates legum allegat; quia perspicua vera non sunt probanda. He errs who cites authority of law in respect to things which are manifest, because plain truths do not have to be proved.

In rebus quae sunt favorabilia animae, quamvis sunt damnosa rebus, fiat aliquando extensio statuti. In matters where the intent is good, although there is damage to property, there should be given some elasticity to the statute.

In re communi neminem dominorum jure facere quicquam, invito altero, posse. No one of the owners of common property may exercise any dominion over it against the will of another of them.

In re communi potior est conditio prohibentis. In relation to property held in common, the position of the one who holds back (the conservative partner) is the more favorable.

In re dubia, benigniorem interpretationem sequi, non minus justius est quam tutius. In a doubtful matter, to follow a more liberal construction is no less the more just than it is the more safe.

In re dubia magis infitatio quam affirmatio intelligenda. In a doubtful matter, the negative rather than the affirmative is to be understood.

In re lupanari, testes lupanares admittentur. In a matter involving a brothel, the inmates are admitted as witnesses. Van Epps v Van Epps (NY) 6 Barb 320, 324.

in rem. Against a thing and not against a person; concerning the condition or status of a thing. Re Will of W. F. Storey, 20 Ill App 183, 190.

In rem actio est per quam rem nostram quae ab alio possidetur petimus, et semper adversus eum est qui rem possidet. An action in rem is one by means of which we seek our property in the hands of another, and is always against him who holds possession of the property.

in rem action. In the more strict sense of the term, a proceeding to determine the right in specific property, against all the world, equally binding on everyone, but taking no cognizance of the owner or person with a beneficial interest, being against the thing or property itself directly, and having for its object the disposition of the property without reference to the title of individual claimants. 1 Am J2d Actions § 40. Most clearly illustrated by the proceeding against a vessel in a court of admiralty. 2 Am J2d Adm §§ 93, 94. Inclusive in the broad sense of actions quasi in rem.

See quasi in rem action.

in remainder. See estate in remainder; remainder.

in rem judgment. See judgment in rem. in rem jurisdiction. See jurisdiction in rem. in rem proceeding. See in rem action.

in rem process. See process in rem.

in rem suam. In his own business; in his own affair.

in rem versum. Used in one's business; used to one's advantage.

in render. Characterization of incorporeal hereditaments which the tenant was required to render to the landlord. See 3 Bl Comm 15.

In re pari potiore causam esse prohibentis constat. In a matter of equal rights the cause of the party who is seeking to prohibit is deemed the stronger. Griswold v Waddington (NY) 16 Johns 438, 491.

in re propria. In one's own business; in one's own affair.

In re propria iniquum admodum est alicui licentiam tribuere sententiae. It is most unfair for anyone to assign to himself the privilege of deciding his own case.

In republica maxime conservanda sunt jura belli. It is of the highest importance that the laws of war be observed in the state. Tyler v Pomeroy, 90 Mass (8 Allen) 480, 484.

in rerum natura. In the nature of things.

In restitutionem, non in poenam haeres succedit. An heir succeeds to a restitution, but not to a penalty.

In restitutionibus benignissima interpretatio facienda est. In restitutions, the most liberal construction is adopted.

in reversion. See estate in reversion; reversion.

in rixa. In a quarrel.

inroll. Same as enroll.

inrollment. Same as enrollment.

insane. Of unsound mind; afflicted with insanity.
See insanity.

insane delusion. The product of a diseased mind or brain. 26 Am J1st Homi § 81. A belief which cannot be dispelled by reason and can be accounted for only as the product of mental disorder. A belief in things which do not exist and which no rational mind would believe to exist. 57 Am J1st Wills § 80. A belief in something impossible in the nature of things or under the special circumstances; a belief in a state or condition of things which no rational person would believe and which refuses to yield either to evidence or reason. Jackman v North, 398 11190, 75 NE2d 324, 175 ALR 868. Such an aberration as indicates an unsound and deranged condition of the mental faculties. Brown v Ward, 53 Md 376. Insanity, in effect, as to an act, such as to render one incapable of entertaining criminal intent. 26 Am J1st Homi § 81.

[635]

insane person. A person afflicted with insanity.

The term is a generic one and includes idiots, lunatics, persons who are non compos mentis, and persons who are deranged. Hiett v Shull, 36 W Va 563, 565.

See insanity.

insanity. An unsound, deranged, delirious, or distracted condition of mind. Manley v Staples, 62 Vt 153, 19 A 983. A condition of mind so impaired in function, or so deranged, as to induce a deviation from normal conduct in the person so afflicted. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 2. Such a degree of mental incapacity as renders one unable to understand and deal with the common affairs of life. Lewis v Lewis, 199 SC 490, 20 SE2d 107. Such impairment of the mind as renders it impossible for one to understand the nature and consequences of his acts, or the character of a transaction in question. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 2. A sickness. Robillard v Societe St. Jean Baptiste De Centreville, 21 RI 348, 43 A 635. A physical disease, consisting of a diseased or disordered condition or malformation of the organs or tissues, through which the mind receives impressions, and operates, and by which the will and judgment are impaired, and conduct rendered irrational. Blackstone v Standard Life & Acci. Ins. Co. 74 Mich 592, 42 NW 156.

Defense in criminal case. Incapacity to form a guilty intention. People v Schmidt, 216 NY 324, 110 NE 945. Mental disease or mental defect producing the unlawful act. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 39. Such a condition of mind and want of reason as to act from irresistible impulse. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 36. Want of substantial capacity, as a result of mental disease or defect, to appreciate the criminality or wrongfulness of conduct or to conform conduct to the requirements of law. American Law Institute Model Penal Code, proposed official draft § 4.01(1). Such defect of reason, from disease of the mind, as not to know the nature and quality of the act, or if the accused did know it, that he did not know that what he was doing was wrong; such being the definition of the celebrated M'Naghten Case, 10 Clark & F 200, 8 Eng Reprint 718. Sometimes tested, in homicide cases, according to the ability to distinguish between right and wrong. 26 Am J1st Homi §§ 78, 79. Inability to understand the nature and quality of the act or inability to distinguish right from wrong in respect to the act. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 34.

At time of trial for crime. The want of capacity to comprehend one's position, to understand the nature and object of the proceedings, to conduct his defense in a rational manner, and to co-operate with his counsel to the end that any available defense may be interposed. People v Burson, 11 Ill 2d 360, 143 NE2d 939.

At the time punishment for crime to be imposed, particularly the execution of the death penalty. The want of sufficient intelligence to understand the nature of the proceedings, what the trial was for, the purpose of punishment, the impending fate, or of sufficient understanding to know any fact which might exist making punishment unjust or unlawful, or of intelligence requisite to convey such information to attorneys or the court. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 76.

As a condition which operates to prevent or suspend the running of a statute of limitations. Such a mental impairment as renders one incompetent to manage his own affairs and endangers his person or property. Brown v Smith, 119 Colo 469, 205 P2d 239, 9 ALR2d 961.

As a matter of avoidance of the effect of an exception in a life insurance policy of death by suicide. An impairment of the reasoning faculties so far that one is not able to understand the moral character, the general nature, the consequences and effect of an act he is about to commit, or is impelled to the act by an impulse which he is not able to resist. 29A Am J Reved Ins § 1144.

See idiocy; imbecility; inquest in lunacy; non compos mentis; right and wrong test; total mental disability; wild beast test.

Insanus est qui, abjecta ratione, omnia cum impetu et furore facit. A person is insane who, deprived of reason, does everything in violence and fury.

In satisfactionibus non permittitur amplius fieri quam semel factum est. In settlements more should not be paid than was paid once for all.

in scaccario. In the exchequer.

inscribe. To mark or engrave words, letters, or signs in such manner and upon such substance that they will have some degree, at least, of permanency.

inscribere. To inscribe; to write in or on; to charge with the commission of a crime.

in scrinio judicis. Among the notes or papers of the judge; that is, not contained in the record.

inscriptio. (Civil law.) A written accusation of crime; the consent of an accuser to suffer the penalty prescribed for the offense with which he charges the accused, in the event of the acquittal of the accused.

inscription. Words, letters, or signs marked or engraved upon stone, metal, or other enduring substance so that they will stand in some degree of permanency, at least. Another term for the registration or recording of a deed, mortgage, or other instrument entitled to be inscribed or recorded in the public records. Bondurant v Watson (US) 13 Otto 281, 26 L Ed 447.

See reinscription.

in se. In itself; in themselves.

See mala in se.

insecticide. A substance sprayed or dusted upon the soil or vegetation to kill or prevent the propagation of insect pests. 1 Am J2d Adj L § 35.

insect infestation. The overrunning of plants and growing things, particularly crops, by insect pests. A risk of loss under crop insurance pursuant to the Federal Crop Insurance Act. 21 Am J2d Crops § 6.

insecure clause. Same as insecurity clause.

insecurity clause. A provision in a chattel mortgage which gives the mortgagee a right to take possession of the mortgaged chattels whenever he deems himself insecure. 15 Am J2d Chat Mtg § 202. A clause in an instrument for the payment of money which authorizes acceleration of maturity if and when the holder deems his claim insecure. 11 Am J2d B & N § 185.

[636]

insensible. Unconscious; unintelligible; meaningless.

in sensu et re ipsa. In the meaning or intention and regarding the very thing itself. Culpeper Agricultural & Mfg. Soc. v Digges, 27 Va (6 Rand) 165.

inseparable error. An error by the trial court affecting all coparties of such nature that a reversal must apply to all such parties notwithstanding less than all of them appealed. 5 Am J2d A & E §§ 951, 952.

in separali. In severalty.

insert. Verb: To add a line or lines between lines or even a page between pages. Noun: A line or lines or even a page added to a writing.

See write-in candidates.

in session. A court engaged in the administration of justice and the business of the court, with the judge on the bench and discharging his official function. The status of a court between the time that it has convened for the term and the time that it adjourns sine die. State v Root, 5 ND 487, 67 NW 590.

in severalty. The character of a holding of land by one person in his own right only, without any other person being joined or connected with him in point of interest during the continuance of his estate in the land. State ex rel. Anderton v Somers, 242 Wis 484, 8 NW2d 263, 145 ALR 1324.

inside a motor vehicle. Inside the vehicle in the place ordinarily occupied by one driving or riding. Anno: 39 ALR2d 961 (construing phrase as it appears in an accident insurance policy or the accident feature of a life insurance policy).

inside information. The information acquired by a director or officer of a corporation by reason of his position. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1326.

inside lane. The lane nearest the center line of the highway on a highway containing more than one lane of traffic proceeding in the same direction. Richards v Warner Co. 311 Pa 50, 166 A 496, 87 ALR 1159.

insiders. Officers and directors of a corporation who acquire knowledge of the business and condition of the corporation by their official position. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1326.

insider short-swing transaction. A term of the Securities Exchange Act, typifying a transaction in the stock of a corporation by a director, officer, or principal stockholder, buying and selling on the basis of information obtained by him through his position in the company. Anno: 40 ALR2d 1349.

insidiatio viarum. Lying in wait for one on the highway,—a common-law felony for which benefit of clergy was not allowed, because it was said to be one of those offenses which bordered on treason. See 4 Bl Comm 373.

insidiator. A spy; a waylayer; a traitor; a lurker.

insidiatores viarum. Highwaymen; highway robbers; persons lurking in the highways to commit crime.

insidious machination. A deceitful scheme or plot with evil design, or, in other words, with a fraudulent purpose. Strong v Repide, 213 US 419, 53 L Ed 853, 29 S Ct 521.

insignia. Coats of arms; armorial bearings; emblems of rank. Pins, badges or ribbons worn by members of a club. 6 Am 12d Asso & C § 17.

In the days of chivalry and knight errantry, and at the present time, where distinctions are recognized by law, between wealth and other adventitious influences, and poverty or weakness, the adventurous and the great have adopted their insignia, suggested by valorous achievement, or other causes. These are called their arms or family escutcheon, and are usually engraved on their seals. Kirksey v Bates (Ala) 7 Port 529.

As the term is used with reference to notarial seals, it means the armorial ensign of a state or political community, intended to distinguish it from others, and which is usually transferred to its national flag or banner. Yet, perhaps a public flag cannot always be considered as a true indication of the arms of the country to which it belongs; for most countries have two banners—one borne by vessels of war, and the other by those engaged in commerce. Kirksey v Bates (Ala) 7 Port 529.

insilium. Rash advice; bad counsel.

in simile materia. In a like or similar matter.

in simplici peregrinatione. In simple pilgrimage.

insimul. At the same time; together; jointly.

insimul computassent. Literally, they accounted together. A common count in assumpsit pleaded in an action upon an account. 1 Am J2d Acctg § 37.

insinuacion. (Spanish.) The submission of a public document to a judge for his approval.

insinuare. To deposit in the records of the court; to declare or acknowledge before a judge.

insinuatio. Suggestion; information.

insinuation. A suggestion of something, particularly bad or criminal conduct. 33 Am J1st L & S § 9. (Civil law.) Copying anything into a public record.

insinuatione. Insinuation.

See ex insinuatione.

insinuation of a will. (Civil law.) The production of a will of a decedent for probate.

in situ. As located; in its place.

insolence. The conduct of one who is insolent.

See insolent.

insolent. Rude; insulting; abusive; offensive. State v Bill, 35 NC (13 Ired L) 373, 377.

in solido. In a lump; in a lump sum; in one payment; as a whole; for the whole sum.

As used in the Louisiana code, the term appears to have the meaning of jointly and severally, so that debtors bound "in solido" must be all obliged to do the same thing, so that each may be compelled for the whole. Henderson v Wadsworth, 115 US 264, 29 L Ed 377, 6 S Ct 40.

See creditors in solido; debtors in solido.

in solidum. As a whole; for the whole.

in solo. In the soil; on the land; on the ground. By one's self alone.

[637]

in solo proprio. On one's own land.

in solutum. In payment.

insolvency. The insufficiency of the entire property and assets of an individual to pay his debts. 29 Am J Rev ed Insolv § 2. In a practical commercial sense, the inability of a person to pay his debts as they become due in the ordinary course of his business, such being the sense of the term as applied to traders and merchants, permitting a determination of insolvency, although the debts of the person actually may be paid at some future time on a settlement and winding up of his affairs (29 Am J Rev ed Insolv § 2) but apparently giving to a debtor the advantage of the use of his credit to raise money for the payment of his debts. United States v Anderson Co. (CA7 Ind) 119 F2d 343.

By definition in the Bankruptcy Act, controlling for the purpose of determining the commission of an act of bankruptcy:-the status of a person whenever the aggregate of his property exclusive of any property which he may have conveyed, transferred, concealed, removed, or permitted to be concealed or removed, with intent to defraud, hinder, or delay his creditors, shall not at the fair valuation be sufficient in amount to pay his debts. Bankr Act § 1(19); 11 USC § 1(19); 9 Am J2d Bankr § 160. For the purpose of determining whether a transfer is fraudulent under the Bankruptcy Act:-the status of a person when the present fair salable value of his property is less than the amount required to pay his debts. Bankruptcy Act § 67 (d) (1) (d); 11 USC § 107 (d) (1) (d). (This definition is controlling as against the preceding definition, also from the Bankruptcy Act, inasmuch as Congress intended less stringent requirement in proof of insolvency in fraudulent transfer cases than in other phases of bankruptcy. Holohan v Lewis (DC Fla) 182 F Supp 473.)

In reference to the qualification of a person to administer the estate of a decedent, not the mere not owning of property, but the owing of debts in excess of the value of property. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 68.

A debtor is "insolvent" within the meaning of a statute giving priority to debts due the United States from an insolvent debtor, if, not having sufficient property to pay all his debts, he either makes a voluntary assignment of his property for the benefit of his creditors or commits an act of bankruptcy. United States v Gotwals (CA10 Okla) 156 F2d 692, 169 ALR 619. No lien is created by the statute; the priority established can never attach while the debtor continues the owner and in the possession of the property, although he may be unable to pay all his debts; no evidence can be received of the insolvency of the debtor until he has been divested of his property in one of the modes stated in the statute. 29 Am J Rev ed Insolv § 68.

See acts of insolvency; assignee in insolvency; hopelessly insolvent; open insolvency.

insolvency laws. See insolvency statutes.

insolvency of bank. An expression of dual meaning: -(1) the insufficiency of assets to pay liabilities within a reasonable time; (2) an insufficiency of assets to pay liabilities as they become due in the ordinary course of business. Anno: 85 ALR 812.

See hopelessly insolvent; receiving deposits while insolvent.

insolvency of building and loan association. Inability to satisfy the demands of members. Anno: 98 ALR 111; 13 Am J2d B & L Assoc § 101. Inability to pay back to members the amount of their contributions dollar for dollar. Rummens v Home Sav. & L. Asso. 182 Wash 539, 47 P2d 845, 100 ALR 570.

insolvency of corporation. An insufficiency of assets to pay debts. In a more commercial sense, an inability to pay debts as they become due in the ordinary course of business. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1569.

See also insolvency.

insolvency of insurance company. A depletion of assets to the extent that they are insufficient for the payment of the just debts and obligations of the company. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 116.

An insurance company is not insolvent when the value of its property is greater than the amount of its liabilities and it is able to pay its debts when they mature, although the excess of the value of its property above its liabilities may be less than the par value of its stock. Shearer v Farmers' L. Ins. Co. (CA8 Mo) 262 F 861.

Actuarial solvency of a mutual benefit company requires that the funds of the company on hand and the present value of future payments to be made by the members shall be equal to the accrued obligations and the present value of the insurance in force. Jenkins v Talbot, 338 Ill 441, 170 NE 735, 80 ALR 638, app dismd 283 US 782, 75 L Ed 1412, 51 S Ct 342.

insolvency of lessee. In reference to re-entry by the lessor:-the failure of a lessee to meet obligations as they mature, or such financial condition as throws the lessee's relations into confusion, delays payment of the rent, impounds his property for an indefinite time, and in general makes it important for the lessor to be free to re-enter. Re Wil-Low Cafeterias Inc. (CA2 NY) 95 F2d 306, 115 ALR 1184, cert den 304 US 567, 82 L Ed 1533, 58 S Ct 950.

insolvency of partnership. Insufficiency of the aggregate joint property to pay the firm liabilities, without reference to the solvency or insolvency of the individual partners. 40 Am J1st Partn § 256.

In determining insolvency of a partnership for the purposes of ascertaining whether a transfer is fraudulent under the Bankruptcy Act, there shall be added to the partnership property the present fair salable value of the separate property of each general partner in excess of the amount required to pay his separate debts, and also the amount realizable on any unpaid subscription to the partnership of each limited partner. Bankr Act § 67 (d) (1) (d); 11 USC § 107 (d) (1) (d).

insolvency of savings and loan association. See insolvency of building and loan association.

insolvency proceedings. See proceedings in insolvency.

insolvency statutes. State statutes, comparable to the National Bankruptcy Act, which provide a proceeding by or against a debtor to have him declared insolvent and his property brought into court for disposition among his creditors in accordance with law. Vanuxem v Hazelhursts, 4 NJL 192.

insolvent. Characterizing a person who either has ceased to pay his debts in the ordinary course of business, cannot pay his debts as they become due, or is insolvent within the meaning of the Federal Bankruptcy Act. UCC § 1-201(24). One in a condition of insolvency.

See insolvency.

[638]

insolvent bank. See insolvency of bank.

insolvent building and loan association. See insolvency of building and loan association.

insolvent corporation. See insolvency of corporation.

insolvent estate. The estate of a decedent which is to be administered according to a special statutory method because of the fact of insolvency. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 312.

insolvent law. See insolvency statutes.

insolvent partnership. See insolvency of partnership.

insomnia. Inability to sleep; prolonged sleeplessness. United States v Ridgeway (CC Ga) 31 F 144, 147.

in spe. In hope; in expectation.

in specie. Payment in the designated number of gold or silver dollars of the coinage of the United States; in gold or silver coin of the United States. 40 Am J1st Paym § 58.

inspect. To look upon; to examine for the purpose of determining quality, detecting what is wrong, and the like; to view narrowly and critically; as to inspect conduct. Fairchild v Ada County, 6 Idaho 340, 55 P 654.

inspector. An adversary.

inspected and condemned. See US brand.

inspection. The act of inspecting, whether it be articles offered for sale, real estate, or the conduct of a person. The right by which, as a general rule, the buyer of goods is entitled to a fair opportunity to inspect or examine the article or commodity tendered by the seller to see if it conforms to the contract, and if it does not do so, to reject it. 46 Am J1st Sales § 247. Under an inspection law:—an examination to determine whether the article inspected is fit for use or commerce; something which can be accomplished by looking at or by weighing or measuring the thing to be inspected or applying to it some crucial test, without resort to other evidence. 29 Am J Rev ed Insp L § 2.

"Inspection" of the home by a health officer is a "search" thereof within the meaning of the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States prohibiting unreasonable searches. District of Columbia v Little, 85 App DC 242, 178 F2d 13, 13 ALR2d 954.

See inspect; physical examination; right of visitation; trial by inspection.

inspection by customs. An examination by customs officers of goods, merchandise, and baggage brought into the United States from a foreign country. 21 Am J2d Cust D §§ 73, 74.

inspection charges. Duties laid by the states on goods imported to, and exported from them, under the authority of section ten, article one, of the United States Constitution, for services rendered in executing their inspection laws. Turner v Maryland (US) 17 Otto 38, 27 L Ed 370, 2 S Ct 44. An exception to the prohibition on the states to lay duties on imports or exports. Brown v Maryland (US) 12 Wheat 419, 6 L Ed 678.

Inspection Division. An agency established within the Atomic Energy Commission for gathering information as to whether or not contractors, licensees, officers, and employees of the commission are complying with the statutes and the rules and regulations of the commission. 42 USC § 2035.

inspection duties. Same as inspection charges.

inspection laws. Police regulations, designed to safeguard the public against fraud, imposition, or injury and to promote the public health, safety, and welfare, by providing for the examination or inspection of property by an authorized public official in order to determine whether prescribed standards are met by compliance therewith. Anno: 51 L Ed 78, s. 63 L Ed 180, 83 L Ed 776. Characterized by concern with the quality of the article, the form, capacity, dimensions, and weight of a package, the manner of putting up, and the markings and brandings of various kinds, all these matters being supervised by a public officer having authority to pass or not to pass the article as lawful merchandise, according to the prescribed requirements. Turner v Maryland, 107 US 38, 27 L Ed 370, 2 S Ct 44.

inspection of corporate records. See inspection of records.

inspection of documents. The preliminary examination of documents by the party who is opposing the party who offers the documents in evidence.

inspection officer. See inspector.

inspection of records. A right which entails access to, free examination of, and the taking of copies from, public records. 1 Am J2d Abstr T § 8; 45 Am J1st Recds §§ 14 et seq. The right of a stockholder to examine the books of the corporation by virtue of the fact of ownership of stock. 18 Am J2d Corp §§ 178 et seq.

See interested person.

inspection of vessels. Inspection under federal statutes for the purpose of ascertaining whether there has been compliance with requirements respecting construction and equipment. 48 Am J1st Ship § 58.

inspector. A common term for a person of rank in a detective or police force. Often a public officer, for example, a building inspector, customs inspector, grain inspector, or health inspector. 42 Am J1st Pub Of § 16. A public officer, quasi-public officer, or merely a public employee, engaged in the administration of inspection laws, particularly by conducting inspections in accord with such laws. 29 Am J Rev ed Insp L § 7.

inspectors of election. The persons conducting an election of directors of a corporation at a corporate meeting. 19 Am J2d Corp § 629. The title of officers of election who administer election laws in the conduct of the voting in precincts and districts.

Inst. See Institutes of Coke.

install. To induct or place in office. To place a pastor elect formally in the pastoral relation to the congregation. 45 Am J1st Reli Soc § 29. To place and establish a machine or other instrumentality in position and use, as to "install" a furnace.

Unless modified by other terms, a contract to "install" certain equipment, binds the promisor, not only to set up and connect the parts, but also to furnish suitable and adequate material. Bernstein v Alcorn, 194 Iowa 1109, 190 NW 975.

installation. The act of installing.

See install.

installation services. The assembling and setting up of machinery, household appliances, and other apparatus as an incident of the sale of such things. 15 Am J2d Coin § 43. More broadly, any act of installing.

See install.

instalment. One of successive parts of a performance, such as delivery of goods or the payment of money.

[639]

instalment contract. A contract the consideration in which is expressed in separate and distinct items. A contract calling for payment or performance in instalments; not necessarily a divisible contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 328. A contract for the purchase of real estate which provides for payment of the purchase price to be made in instalments, and for the conveyance of the title to be made on the completion of the payments. 55 Am J1st V & P § 106.

A provision in a contract for payment in instalments, which instalments are not referable to severable items or portions of the performance but are referable to the performance of the whole, does not render or characterize such contract as severable. Condon v H. C. Hazen Contracting Co. 122 Ohio St 100, 170 NE 870.

instalment judgment. A judgment for a sum to be paid in instalments; a judgment calling for instalment payments, such as a judgment for the payment of alimony at stated periods. United States v Ewing (DC Miss) 19 F2d 378.

instalment legacy. A bequest of a certain amount payable in stated instalments at definite periods in the future. A legacy in the form of an annuity created by the will. 4 Am J2d Annui § 4.

instalment note. A promissory note the principal of which is payable in two or more certain amounts at different stated times.

instalment payments. Partial payments on account of a larger sum. Payments at fixed intervals until the entire principal and interest on an obligation is satisfied, according to a provision contained in a contract, note, conditional sale contract, chattel mortgage, or trust receipt. Partial payments to be made to a building contractor as the work progresses. Anno: 22 ALR2d 1343.

instalment sale. A sale of personal property in which the purchase price is payable in instalments. 47 Am J1st Sales § 830. Usually, although not necessarily, a conditional sale in reference to the security provided by the contract for the payment of the purchase price. 47 Am J1st Sales § 830.

See conditional sale.

instalments of insurance. Payments of a stated amount at recurring intervals, such as disability benefits payable under a policy of life or accident insurance. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1508. Fixed instalments of the proceeds of a life insurance policy paid at regular intervals; not constituting an annuity, unless the person entitled to the proceeds has himself made a contract with the insurer, separate and distinct from the insurance policy, for the payment of the proceeds in instalments, can properly be regarded as an annuity. Commonwealth v Beisel, 338 Pa 519, 13 A2d 419, 128 ALR 978.

instance. A request; a precedent; instigation; solicitation. An occasion.

instance court. One of the two branches of the admiralty court; the branch which exercises jurisdiction in reference to maritime contracts and maritime torts. Percival v Hickey (NY) 18 Johns 257. The other branch is the prize court.

instancia. (Spanish.) The filing of an action and the prosecution of it to judgment.

Instans est finis unius temporis et principium alterius. An instant is the end or termination of one time and the beginning of another.

instantaneous. Done or occurring in an instant, or without any perceptible duration of time; as the passage of electricity appears to be instantaneous. Not synonymous with "immediate." Sawyers v Perry, 88 Me 42, 48.

instantaneous death. A death occurring in an instant or without any appreciable duration of time after an injury or seizure. 22 Am J2d Dth § 26.

Although the possibility of a death that is truly simultaneous with the injury that caused it has been denied, it has been pointed out that death may be so contemporaneous with the fatal injury as to be instantaneous in the sense that there can be no recovery for the victim's pain and suffering. Moffett v Baltimore & O. R. Co. (CA4 W Va) 220 F 39.

instantaneous seisin. The doctrine that a transitory seisin for an instant, when the same act which conveys an estate to a person conveys it away from him, is not a seisin to "abide" in him, that is, to be in him "beneficially for his own use," which will permit such a right as dower, homestead, mechanic's lien or vendor's lien, to attach to the land. Lassen v Vance, 8 Cal 271; Libbey v Tidden, 192 Mass 175, 183.

instante. See eo instante.

instanter. Instantly; on the instant; at once; immediately.

instantly. Without delay; immediately. Not the equivalent of "then and there" in an indictment. Lester v State, 9 Mo 666, 667.

instar. An image; a likeness; like; equal.

instar dentium. Like teeth; indented, as in an indenture. See 2 Bl Comm 295.

instar omnium. Equal to all.

in statu quo. In the situation in which he was. As that situation which is preserved by restraining order or preliminary injunction:—the last actual, peaceable, noncontested status preceding the pending controversy, as distinguished from a status effected by a wrongdoer before institution of the suit. Steggles v National Discount Corp. 326 Mich 44, 39 NW2d 237, 15 ALR2d 208; State ex rel. Pay Less Drug Stores v Sutton, 2 Wash 2d 523, 98 P2d 680.

Within the meaning of the rule which requires that a party to an executory contract, who for proper cause would rescind the contract, must as a condition precedent to such rescission place the other party to the contract "in statu quo, the expression means that he shall place him "in the same position" in which he was at the time of the inception of the contract which is sought to be rescinded. Daly v Bernstein, 6 NM 380, 28 P 764.

in statu quo ante helium. In the state in which it was before the war.

in statu quo ante fait. In the state in which it was before.

instaurum. Farming equipment.

instigate. To stimulate or goad to an action, especially a bad act. State v Fraker, 148 Mo 143, 165. To incite, to foment, especially the commission of a crime. 36 Am J2d Forf & P § 69; 32 Am J1st Larc § 27.

See entrapment.

instigation. The act of instigating.

See instigate.

[640]

instinct of self-preservation. See self-preservation.

instinctive statements. See res gestae.

In stipulationibus cum quaeritur quid actum sit verba contra stipulatorem interpretanda sunt. In agreements, when it is questioned as to what was done, the words are to be construed against the stipulator.

In stipulationibus, id tempus spectatur quo contrahimus. In agreements, the time at which we contract is regarded.

In stipulationibus quum queritur quid actum sit verba contra stipulatorem interpretanda sunt. In agreements, when it is questioned as to what was done, the words are to be construed against the stipulator.

instirpare. To establish.

in stirpes. According to the roots.

See taking per stirpes.

institor. (Civil law.) A factor; a broker; an agent; a huckster; a peddler.

institorial action. (Civil law.) An action against a principal on a contract made for him by his "institor" or agent. See Mackeldey's Roman L § 513.

institorial power. The power or authority of an agent.

institute. Verb: To start; to establish. Noun: An educational institution, especially a school or college providing training for particular work. An established principle of law. A treatise on law. A person appointed by will and by the will directed to transfer property by the will devised to him, to a person called the "substitute."

See institution; teachers' institute.

institute an action. To begin an action.

The word differs from the word "maintain." An action must be instituted before it can be maintained. National Fertilizer Co. v Fall River Five Cents Sav. Bank, 196 Mass 458, 82 NE 671.

instituted. Commenced; established.

instituted executor. An executor who is appointed by the testator without any condition.

institute heir. See heir institute.

institutes. Plural of institute.

Institutes of Caius. Same as Institutes of Gaius.

Institutes of Coke. A treatise on the common law which was written in four volumes by Sir Edward Coke.

The first volume is an extensive comment on the treatise on tenures which was compiled by Judge Littleton in the reign of Edward the Fourth, and is cited as Coke's Littleton, abbreviated "Co. Litt." or "1 Inst." The second volume is a comment on many old acts of parliament. The third is a treatise of the pleas of the crown; and the fourth is an account of the several species of courts.

The three volumes following the first are cited respectively as "2 Inst.," "3 Inst.," and "4 Inst."

Institutes of Gaius. An elementary treatise on the Roman law written by Gaius, a Roman jurist who preceded Justinian and whose work is said to have formed the basis for the Institutes of Justinian.

Institutes of Justinian. An elementary treatise on the Roman law written in the sixth century A. D.

institutio haeredis. (Roman law.) The appointment of an heir by will.

institution. The act of instituting or establishing something. Something that has been established, particularly a place where an educational or charitable enterprise is conducted. Trustees of Kentucky Female Orphan School v Louisville, 100 Ky 470, 36 SW 921. A school, library, hospital, or auditorium, provided by a municipal corporation. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp §§ 559 et seq.

A charitable institution for the reformation of girls and women does not become a "State institution" or a governmental agency, so as to become immune from liability for the torts of its employees, simply because the state law authorizes a magistrate to commit a girl to its custody. Gallon v House of Good Shepherd, 158 Mich 361, 122 NW 631.

See institute.

institutional decision. A decision made by an organization, not by an individual or agency head. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 435, 2 Davis, Admin L p 36.

institution and prosecution of action. The filing or service of a proper complaint, declaration, or petition, the service of process, or obtaining the waiver of process, to bring the parties into court, and judicial inquiry according to the rules and practice of the court. Zanesville v Zanesville Tel & Tel Co. 64 Ohio St 67, 59 NE 781.

instituciones. Same as institutes.

institution of a clergyman. The formal act of the bishop of the diocese of investing a clergyman or clerk with the actual possession of the temporalities of a parsonage or vicarage. The clergyman was thus "instituted" by some symbolic act of the bishop after he had been presented to the bishop by his patron. See 1 Bl Comm 389.

institution of action. The commencement of an action at law or in equity.

See institution and prosecution of action.

institution of learning. Broadly, an educational institution, any school. In a narrower sense of the term, as it appears in a tax exemption statute, an enterprise conducted for educational purposes which includes a grade or grades higher than are included in the public schools, not limited to incorporated or public enterprises. Montgomery v Wyman, 130 Ill 17, 22 NE 845.

in stricto jure. In strict law; in strict right.

instruct. To direct; to advise; to impart knowledge; to order; to give instructions.

See instructions.

instructed verdict. See directed verdict.

instruction. The imparting of knowledge. The directing of an employee or subordinate.

See instructions to jury; sectarian instruction; shipping instruction.

instructions to jury. To final charges given by the court to the jury upon the submission of the case to the jury, explaining the law of the case and pointing out the essentials to be proved on the one side or the other, the purpose being to furnish guidance to the jury in their deliberations, and to aid them in arriving at a proper verdict, so far as it is competent for the court to assist them. 53 Am J1st Trial § 509.

[641]

As usually understood, the term does not include anything which the court might say during the progress of the trial as to the purpose for which certain evidence is admitted or as to what facts have been admitted by one side or the other; oral directions to the jury to reject evidence, made when it is given; directions during the trial to disregard improper or incompetent evidence given in the examination of the witness, or to disregard prejudicial remarks of counsel; oral directions as to the form of the verdict, or other comment and statements of the trial judge as to collateral matters made during trial. 53 Am J1st Trial § 508.

See abstract instruction; additional instructions; advisory instruction; argumentative instruction; conditional instruction; contradictory instruction; general instruction; indorsement of instructions; peremptory instruction.

instructor. A teacher, whether in a university or college, a public or private school, an art school, a dancing school, or a factory the processes of which are such that new employees must be instructed therein.

instrument. A negotiable instrument. Uniform Negotiable Instruments L § 2; UCC § 3-102(1)(e). A negotiable instrument or a security or any other writing evidencing a right to the payment of money, and of a type transferred in the ordinary course of business by delivery with any necessary endorsement or assignment. UCC § 9-105(1)(g). A writing or document, such as a contract deed or mortgage. Cardenas v Miller, 108 Cal 250, 39 P 783, 41 P 472. Compare Nash v Rehmann Bros. (CA8 Iowa) 53 F2d 624 (holding that the bilateral nature of a contract may preclude it from falling within the meaning of the term "instrument").

A tool; a device for performing work or accomplishing a purpose, sometimes the performance of highly skilled services, such as those of a physician, surgeon, or dentist. An inclusive term where it appears in a statute respecting the mode of committing an offense. Lee v State, 66 Tex Crim 567, 148 SW 567. Inclusive of a substance, such as carbolic acid. Lee v State, 66 Tex Crim 567, 148 SW 567. In a very broad sense, things animate and inanimate, even witnesses presented to the court in the process of producing evidence upon a trial. Cardenas v Miller, 108 Cal 250, 39 P 783, 41 P 472. As used in an exemption statute:—a usable article employed as a means to effect an end. 31 Am J2d Exemp § 53.

See implement; tool.

instrumenta. Unsealed writings admitted as evidence in a trial.

instrumentality. An agency, a means of accomplishment.

See dangerous instrumentality; federal instrumentality.

instrument flying. Flying an aircraft, the course of which is kept by instruments, the pilot being free for the performance of other duties. 14 CFR §§ 600.1 et seq.

instrument for the payment of money. An instrument which acknowledges an absolute obligation to pay, not conditional or contingent; one, the execution of which being admitted, it would be incumbent on the plaintiff, in an action to enforce it, only to offer the instrument in evidence to entitle him to a recovery,—that is, an instrument that admits an existing debt. Ancient Order of Hibernians v Sparrow, 29 Mont 132, 74 P 197. A promissory note.

instrument inter panes. An instrument which records in writing a transaction between two or more persons; an instrument between the persons named therein as executing it. Smith v Emery, 12 NJL 53, 60.

See deed inter panes.

instrument of appeal. A petition on appeal in a divorce suit in England.

instrument of evidence. A document, witness or thing which may be presented in evidence for inspection. Cardenas v Miller, 108 Cal 250, 39 P 783, 41 P 472. In a more common sense, a document or writing presented and admitted in evidence.

instrument of war. An instrument subject to embargo as a military instrument. Gibbons v Ogden (US) 9 Wheat 1, 6 L Ed 23.

instrumentum patrisfamilias domesticum et quotidianum. The domestic and everyday conveniences of the family; that is, household stuff, such as tables, chairs, beds, pots, pans, kettles and the like. Hoope's Appeal, 60 Pa 220.

instrument under seal. See sealed instrument; specialty.

insubordination. Refusal to obey directions.

in subsidium. By way of subsidy; in aid of.

in substantialibus. In substance; substantially.

insufficiency of repair. A state of neglect or disrepair. In reference to a highway;—inadequacy of original construction, subsequent deterioration, and such obstacles or defects as render the use of the highway dangerous to one exercising ordinary care. 25 Am J1st High § 476.

See defective highway.

insufficient consideration. See sufficient consideration.

insufficient funds. The want of sufficient funds in a bank account for the payment of a check drawn by the depositor. 11 Am J2d B & N § 763.

See overdraft.

insufficient pleading. A pleading which will not stand against a demurrer or motion which is the equivalent of a demurrer. State v Burgdoerfer, 107 Mo 1, 17 SW 646.

insufficient record. See defective record.

insula. An island; a detached building; a building let out to several poor families.

insular courts. Courts established by Congress and invested with jurisdiction to be exercised in insular possessions of the United States.

insulated car. A freight car insulated to exclude the cold and prevent the freezing of perishable goods. 13 Am J2d Car § 170. Also, insulated to exclude heat where the car is cooled artificially.

insulation. Material used to prevent the passage or leakage of electricity, heat, or sound. A wrapping of nonconductive material around a wire intended to carry an electric current, for the purpose of preventing the discharge of electricity from the wire and of preventing disastrous consequences if the wire should happen to come in contact with a heavily and dangerously charged wire. Western Union Tel. Co. v State, 82 Md 293, 33 A 763; Lynch v Carolina Tel. & Tel. Co. 204 NC 252, 167 SE 847. The process of insulating structures or wires.

[642]

insulator. A material or device which serves as insulation particularly a glass or porcelain device affixed to pole or cross bar of pole, whereto telephone, telegraph, or electric lines are attached. Owen v Appalachian Power Co. 78 W Va 596, 89 SE 262.

See insulation.

insulin. A drug taken for diabetes, capable of inducing intoxication within the meaning of statutes prohibiting driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated. 7 Am J2d Auto § 258.

insult. An indignity; a humiliation by word or gesture. An affront to self respect; in some jurisdictions an item of compensatory damages, in other jurisdictions an item of punitive damages. 22 Am J2d Damg § 197.

insultus. An assault.

in summa. On the whole.

in summo jure. In strictest law; in strictest right.

in suo genere. Of its own kind.

In suo quisque negotio hebetior est quam in alieno. Everyone is more stupid in his own business than in that of another.

insuper. Above; over; over and above; moreover; besides.

in superficie. On the surface; superficially.

insurability. The quality or condition of being insurable. Kahn v Continental Casualty Co. 391 111 445, 63 NE2d 468, In reference to life insurance:—all those physical and moral factors reasonably taken into consideration by life insurance companies in determining coverage or matters affecting the risk. Rosenbloom v New York Life Ins. Co. (DC Mo) 65 F Supp 692, remanded (CA8) 163 F2d 1. As a condition of the reinstatement of a life insurance policy:—good health; good health plus circumstances rendering the risk desirable from the standpoint of the insurance company. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 371.

insurable interest. An essential of a valid contract of insurance, being, in general, that which takes a contract out of the class of wagering policies; best defined in reference to the particular risk or thing insured. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 432.

See interest or no interest clause; wager policy.

insurable interest in liability. The interest that the insured has in the possibility of death of or injury to third persons, or of the destruction of or injury to the property of third persons, which may be the basis of a liability established against him or, at least, of suits brought against him. Anno: 77 ALR j 1256.

insurable interest in life. One's interest in his own life. Any reasonable expectation of benefit or advantage from the continued life of another person, which advantage or benefit need not be capable of pecuniary estimation, but may be predicated upon any relation which is such as warrants the conclusion that the person claiming an insurable interest has an interest, whether pecuniary or arising from dependence or natural affection, in the life of the person insured. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 474.

Any pecuniary interest in the continued life of another is an insurable interest. Butterworth v Mississippi Valley Trust Co. 362 Mo 133, 240 SW2d 676, 30 ALR2d 1298.

insurable interest in property. An interest in property to the extent that the owner of the interest derives a benefit from the existence of the property and will suffer a loss from its destruction. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 438. Any interest in property or any relation thereto or liability in respect thereof which is of such a nature that a contemplated peril might directly cause the insured a loss. Farmer's Union Mut. Protective Asso. v San Luis State Bank, 86 Colo 293, 281 P 366, 66 ALR 1166.

It is not necessary, to constitute an insurable interest, that the interest be such that the event insured against would necessarily subject the insured to loss; it is sufficient that it might do so and that pecuniary injury would be the natural consequence. Rogers v Lumbermen 's Mut. Casualty Co. 271 Ala 348, 124 So 2d 70; United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v Reagan, 256 NC 1, 122 SE2d 774.

A property or estate, legal or equitable, in the thing insured is not essential to an "insurable interest," which term is more extensive than property or estate and includes a qualified or limited interest in, or a reasonable expectation of legitimate profit or pecuniary benefit from the continued existence of, the subject of insurance. North British & M. Ins. Co. v Sciandra, 256 Ala 409, 54 So 2d 764, 27 ALR2d 1047; American Indem. Co. v Southern Missionary College, 195 Tenn 513, 260 SW2d 269, 39 ALR2d 714.

insurable risk. Any foreseeable risk of loss, except one caused by the insured's own misconduct or one of such nature that to insure it is prohibited by law or sound public policy. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1133.

insurance. A contract whereby one undertakes to indemnify another against loss, damage, or liability arising from an unknown or contingent event. Meyer v Building & Realty Service Co. 209 Ind 125, 196 NE 250, 100 ALR 1442. An agreement by which one person for a consideration promises to pay money or its equivalent, or to perform some act of value, to another on the destruction, death, loss, or injury of someone or something by specified perils. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 3. A contract of indemnity where it affords protection against actual loss or damage; not where, as, in the case of life insurance, payment is to be made by the insurer upon the occurrence of the event insured against, without reference to the actual loss in dollars and cents. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 4.

The nature of a contract as one of insurance depends upon its contents and the true character of the contract actually entered into or issued—that is, whether a contract is one of insurance is to be determined by a consideration of the real character of the promise or of the act to be performed, and by a consideration of the exact nature of the agreement in the light of the occurrence, contingency, or circumstances under which the performance becomes requisite. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 5.

insurance adjuster. See adjuster.

insurance agent. A person expressly or impliedly authorized by an insurance company to represent it in dealing with third persons in matters relating to insurance. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 135. One who represents an insurance company as a solicitor of business or as a collector of premiums. Home Beneficial L. Ins. Co. v Unemployment Compensation Com. 181 Va 811, 27 SE2d 159. One who represents another in making application for insurance or otherwise in dealing with an insurance company in reference to insurance, called agent of insured. A person within an exemption from execution in favor of any mechanic, miner, or other person. Wilhite v Williams, 41 Kan 288, 21 P 256.

[643]

An insurance agent over whom the company retains no control in regard to the physical acts incidental to the performance of his general duties is not an agent of the company, but an independent contractor, in relation to the operation of his automobile while making collections and calling on clients. American National Ins. Co. v Denke, 128 Tex 229, 95 SW2d 370, 107 ALR 409.

See insurance broker; soliciting agent.

insurance agent's lien. See insurance broker's lien.

insurance broker. One who acts as a middleman between the insured and the insurer, and who solicits insurance from the public under no employment from any special company, but having secured an order, either places the insurance with a company selected by the insured, or in the absence of any selection by the latter, then with a company selected by himself. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 135.

Whether an insurance broker represents the insurer or the insured is a question which cannot be answered categorically but which depends upon the circumstances of the particular case. Under certain circumstances and for certain purposes, an insurance broker may represent either the insured or the insurer or both. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 139.

insurance broker's lien. Lien of an insurance broker or agent of the insured upon all policies in his hands procured by him for his principal, and also upon all moneys received by him upon such policies, for the payment of the amount due him for commissions, disbursements, advances, and services in and about the negotiation of that particular insurance and all past insurance, but not for the balance of a general account embracing items wholly disconnected with the business of placing insurance. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 175.

insurance business. The business of writing and issuing contracts of insurance, that is, insurance policies. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 5.

The business of insurance consists in accepting a number of risks, some of which will involve losses, and of spreading such losses over all risks so as to enable the insurer to accept each risk at the slightest fraction of possible liability upon it. Home Title Ins. Co. v United States (CA2 NY) 50 F 107.

insurance carrier. A familiar term in workmen's compensation cases, referring to the state fund, corporation, or association with which the employer has insured. Sheehan Co. v Shuler, 265 US 371, 373 (footnote), 68 L Ed 1061 (footnote), 44 S Ct 546. In the broad sense of the term, a company engaged in the business of insurance.

insurance collector. A person authorized by an insurance company to collect premiums becoming due under policies issued by it, particularly insurance companies engaged in the business of industrial insurance.

insurance commissioner. The head of a state department regulating insurance companies.

insurance company. A company engaged in the business of making contracts by which it agrees to indemnify the other parties thereto from a loss or damage which they may suffer from a specified peril. Strictly construed, an insurance company regularly incorporated and doing business as an old-line company, not a benevolent society or fraternal order providing insurance benefits for its members. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 781. An investment company within the meaning of § 3(a) of the Federal Investment Company Act. 15 USC § 80a-3(a).

As the term appears in a tax statute:—an incorporated organization, as contrasted with an unincorporated company or association; including a mutual company, a guaranty or surety company, a hospital service association, and an insurance association created by the legislature as an integral part of a workmen's compensation act. On the other hand, it has been held, under the statutory phraseology and facts and circumstances of a particular case, that for the purposes of such statute, the term may not be applied to a reciprocal insurance exchange, to a company dealing in industrial group insurance, to a mutual company, or to a corporation engaged in the business of servicing mortgages, investing in, and buying and selling bonds and mortgages, and originating and selling mortgage loans. Anno: 146 ALR 464 et seq.

See benevolent insurance company; mutual benefit society; mutual insurance company; old line company; stock insurance company.

insurance contract. A contract whereby one person undertakes to indemnify another against loss, damage or liability arising from an unknown or contingent event. An agreement by which one party for a consideration promises to pay money, or its equivalent, or do some act of value, to the assured, upon the destruction or injury of something in which the other party has an interest. State v Willett, 171 Ind 296, 86 NE 68. A contract whereby the insurer in return for a stated consideration agrees on the happening of a specified event to pay the insured a fixed or ascertainable sum of money. Re Barry's Estate, 208 Okla 8, 252 P2d 437, 35 ALR2d 1052.

See binder; blanket policy; cash-surrender value; floating policy; insurance; oral insurance contract; rider; slip.

insurance cost. A term significance primarily in life insurance.

Cost is established by mortality tables and invariably increases with age. It is the sum necessary to be paid in during the period of expectancy to amount with interest accretions to the face of the policy. It has nothing to do with rates. It is the toll annually taken from the insurer's assets. Jenkins v Talbot, 338 Ill 441, 170 NE 735, 80 ALR 638.

insurance department. A state agency for the supervision or regulation of insurance companies.

insurance exchange. An association of insurance companies or insurance agents for the purpose of promoting the business, welfare, and convenience of the members, and to secure uniformity in the insurance business. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 109. In another and distinct sense, the operation of the system known as reciprocal insurance, interinsurance, or interindemnity, whereby individuals, partnerships, or corporations, engaged in a similar line of business, undertake to indemnify each other against a certain kind or kinds of losses by means of a mutual exchange of insurance contracts, usually through the medium of a common attorney in fact appointed for that purpose by each of the underwriters, under agreements whereby, as between themselves, each member separately becomes both an insured and an insurer with several liability only. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 102.

[644]

insurance fund. See state insurance fund.

insurance money. Money recoverable on a policy of insurance by the insured against the insurance company which issued the policy. Stacey v Fidelity & Casualty Co. 21 Ohio App 70, 73, 152 NE 794, 795.

insurance patrol. A salvage corps operated by an insurance company, or insurance companies in combination, for the purpose of attending at fires and salvaging or protecting the imperiled property. Coleman v Fire Ins. Patrol, 122 La 626, 48 So 130.

insurance policy. The name by which the formal written instrument in which a contract of insurance is embodied is known. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 186.

See insurance contract.

insurance premium. The agreed price for assuming and carrying the risk—that is, the consideration paid an insurer for undertaking to indemnify the insured against a specified peril. State ex rel. Sheets v Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad Co. 68 Ohio St 9, 67 NE 93.

insurance rate. The premium rate. 29. Am J Rev ed Ins § 503.

See manual rates.

insurance reserve. See reserve.

insurance solicitor. An insurance agent who solicits business for his company in the form of insurance policies or contracts. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 135.

See insurance agent.

insurance trust. See life insurance trust.

insure. To contract to indemnify a person against loss from stated perils; to enter into a contract of insurance as insurer.

insured. Ordinarily, synonymous with "assured." 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 239. The person in whose favor a contract of insurance is operative and who is indemnified against, or is to receive a certain sum upon, the happening of a specified contingency or event. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 239. Protected by insurance. The person protected by an automobile liability policy, although not the insured named in the policy, by virtue of the standard provision of the policy extending the protection to any person using the vehicle covered by the policy with the permission of the named insured. Libero v Lumbermen's Mut. Casualty Co. 141 Conn 574, 108 A2d 533, 47 ALR2d 550.

The circumstance that one who takes out a policy of insurance on his own life may never obtain the benefits of the insurance directly is of no weight against considering him as the "insured," such a contract being his, at least in part. Heffelfinger v Commissioner (CA8) 87 F2d 991, 109 ALR 1045, cert den 302 US 690, 82 L Ed 533, 58 S Ct 10.

When used as a noun in fire insurance policies, the word should be construed to include the person whose property is insured and his legal representatives, but, in the absence of clauses protecting other persons, it should not be extended to include any other persons, such as a mortgagee of the property. Collinsville Sav. Soc. v Boston Ins. Co. 17 Conn 676, 60 A 647.

See loss payable clause; mortgagee clause; standard mortgagee clause.

insured bank. A bank, the deposits of which are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Anno: 59 ALR2d 972.

insured deposit. A bank deposit insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The net amount due to any depositor for a deposit in an insured bank (after deducting offsets), less any part thereof which is in excess of $10,000. 12 USC § 1813(m).

insured premises. The real property covered by a policy of insurance protecting against loss or damage or against liability for an injury to a third person occurring on the premises.

insured's permission. See permission of insured.

insured title. A title to real estate insured by a policy of title insurance. A title to real estate such as a designated title insurance company will approve and insure. 55 Am J1st V & P § 165.

See title insurance.

insurer. The party to a contract of insurance who assumes the risk and undertakes to indemnify the second party known as the insured or to pay a certain sum on the happening of a specified contingency. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 238.

insurer's liability. Literally, the liability of an insurer. In common usage, a term of art. importing absolute liability. A liability which is absolute except as the injury is caused by the public enemy or an act of God or is self-inflicted. Anderson Hotels of Oklahoma, Inc. v Baker (CA10 Okla) 190 F2d 741, cert den 342 US 869, 96 L Ed 654, 72 S Ct 111.

Insurers' Liquidation Act. One of the uniform laws. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 118.

insurgent. A person who engages with others in an insurrection; partaking of or relating to an insurrection. A term of politics for a member of a party who goes against the leadership either in advocacy of principle or in an attempt to overthrow the leadership.

insurrection. A rising against civil or political authority, more than a mob or riot, sometimes amounting to a rebellion, at least, an incipient or limited rebellion. Gitlow v Kiely (DC NY) 44 F2d 227, affd (CA2) 49 F2d 1077, cert den 284 US 648, 76 L Ed 550, 52 S Ct 29; County of Allegheny v Gibson, 90 Pa 397.

In a marine insurance policy on a cargo of slaves, the words "insurrection" and "mutiny" were held to be substantially identical in meaning. McCargo v New Orleans Ins. Co. (La) 10 Rob 202.

See rebellion.

insurrectionaries. The individual participants in an insurrection or rebellion.

insurrectionists. Same as insurrectionaries.

in suspenso. In suspense; in abeyance.

in syllabis et verbis. In syllables and words.

intact value. The real value of a share of corporate stock as distinguished from its book value. 18 Am J2d Corp § 219.

intake. The opening in a pipe in lake, pond, or river through which water is taken for a public water supply. 56 Am J1st Watwk § 51.

intaker. A receiver of stolen goods.

in tali casu editum et provisum. In such case made and provided.

In tali conflictu magis est, ut jus nostrum, quam jus aliorum servemus.

In such conflict it is better that we obey our own law than the laws of other nations. That is, in the conflict between the lex fori and the lex loci contractus, the comity of nations should not prevail over our law. McMahan v Green, 12 Ala 71.

intangible. Adjective: Incorporeal; without physical substance; difficult to appraise. Noun: A chose in action; a thing, perhaps of value, but without physical substance in itself.

See chose in action; intangible property.

intangible property. Rights not related to physical things, being merely relationships between persons, natural or corporate, which the law recognizes by attaching to them certain sanctions enforceable in the courts. Curry v McCannless, 307 US 357, 83 L Ed 1339, 59 S Ct 900, 123 ALR 162. Property rights protected by the due process clause equally with ordinary real and personal property. 16 Am J2d Const L § 365. For purpose of taxation:-enforceable claims and solvent credits such as bills, notes, and other obligations to pay money, and shares of corporate stock. 51 Am J1st Tax § 420.

An unallowed claim for a refund of Federal income taxes is taxable as "other taxable intangibles" rather than as "credits," under statutes taxing money, credits, investments, deposits, and other intangible property, defining "credits" as the excess of current accounts receivable over current accounts payable, defining "current accounts" as items receivable or payable on demand or within one year of the date of inception, and defining "other taxable intangibles" as including every valuable right, title, or interest not comprised within or excluded from the preceding statutory sections of a specific nature. Glidden Co. v Glander, 151 Ohio St 344, 86 NE2d 1, 9 ALR2d 515.

See chose in action; incorporeal property; situs; situs for taxation. intangible res. An intangible, such as a claim for freight, made the defendant in a proceeding in rem. United States v The Mt. Shasta, 274 US 466, 71 L Ed 1156, 47 S Ct 666.

intangible value. A right or value in a public utility plant evidenced by no physical object but for the development of which the owner has incurred expense and which is properly considered in evaluating the plant for rate-making purposes. 43 Am J1st Pub Util § 132. Going-concern value.

in tantum. In so much.

integer. Whole; entire; undiminished; unharmed; blameless.

integral. Lacking nothing of completeness. Tebeau v Ridge, 261 Mo 547, 170 SW 871. In mechanics, all of one piece, as of metal or wood. Heuberger v Becker, 27 Cust & Pat App 746, 107 F2d 601.

integral part. A part essential to completeness. A test employed in determining whether an employer whose business is restricted to selling merchandise in a local market at retail is within the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board, the doctrine being that if the retailer is an "integral part" of an interstate system of distribution, as where he operates under a franchise from, and is subject to the control of, a national manufacturer, his business affects interstate commerce and he is subject to the jurisdiction of the board. Anno: 98 L Ed 221.

integrated bar. A governmental body created by statute or rules of court, composed of all the practicing attorneys in the state, their membership in the body being compulsory, operating to control the practices of attorneys by requiring adherence to a code of ethics and instituting disciplinary proceedings for infractions of the code. 7 Am J2d Attys § 7.

integrated bar association. In effect, a bar association to which all practicing attorneys must belong.

See integrated bar.

integrated contract. A written contract which contains all the terms and conditions of the agreement. 17 Am J2d Contr § 260.

integration. In the most modern sense of the term, the bringing together of people of all races, but particularly of the black and white races, in all the common concerns of men-educational, political, industrial, religious, and social-by removing all bars of discrimination based on race or color. As a term of economics, the status of an industry operating in continuity from the extraction of the raw materials to the last process in the completion of the product. United States v United States Steel Corp. 251 US 417, 438, 64 L Ed 343, 348, 40 S Ct 293.

integration of the bar. See integrated bar.

integration theory. The theory that the business situs of intangible property, for the purposes of property taxation in a state other than the domicile of the owner, is determined according to whether or not the intangibles have become an integral part of some business activity, and their possession and control localized in an independent business or investment away from the owner's domicile, so that their substantial use and value primarily attach to and become an asset of the outside business, or, in other words, that the local independent business controls and utilizes the intangible property in its own operations. Anno: 143 ALR 367; 51 Am J1st Tax § 470.

integrity. Uprightness of character and soundness of moral principle; honesty; probity. Crocheron v Babington, 16 Idaho 441, 101 P 741.

A married woman's unfaithfulness to her husband and her violation of marital obligations, does not tend to show her lack of integrity to qualify as administratrix of his estate, under a statute making "lack of integrity" a disqualification. Estate of Newman, 124 Cal 688, 57 P 686.

integro. See de integro; ex integro.

integrum. See in integrum.

intellectual insanity. Mental unsoundness to the extent of being unable to distinguish between right and wrong, or, as sometimes stated, incapacity to understand the nature and quality of the act or, if aware of such, inability to know that it is wrong to commit such act. 26 Am J1st Homi §§ 78, 79.

intellectual property. Those property rights which result from the physical manifestation of original thought. Weil, Copyright L 1917 § 6.

intelligence office. An unusual term for an office kept for the purpose of obtaining places of employment for female domestic servants or other laborers. Keim v Chicago, 46 Ill App 445, 446.

intelligence quotient. A rating by number of the level of intelligence of a particular person.

intemperance. Want of restraint in habits and conduct. The intemperate use of intoxicating liquor. Anno: 26 ALR 1291. The habitual and excessive use of intoxicating liquor. Deadwyler v Grand Lodge, K. P. 131 SC 335, 126 SE 437. Indulging in intoxicants excessively whenever the occasion offers. Tatum v State, 63 Ala 147, 152. Overindulgence in the use of intoxicating liquors so frequently as to constitute a habit. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 774.

[646]

See habitual intemperance; intoxication.

intemperant use of intoxicating liquor. An expression found in the form of a question propounded by the insurer in an application for life insurance, meaning indulgence to the point of impairment of mental or physical health, thereby rendering the risk more hazardous. Anno: 26 ALR 1291.

See intemperance.

intemperate habits. See intemperance; habitual intemperance.

intend. To intend is to fix the mind upon; to have a design; to purpose. People v Vanderpool, 1 Mich NP 264, 267.

intendant. A superintendent; a manager; an important officer.

intended. Fixed in the mind; designed; purposed.

As used in a statute barring a right to recover the purchase price of preparations intended or designed for illegal use, the words are held to include a design and intention on the part of the vendor that the preparation sold by him will be used in an unlawful manufacture. The word intended is held to mean more than mere knowledge and to import knowledge of the seller accompanied by some act on his part indicating consent to or encouragement in the unlawful use. Jacobs v Danciger, 328 Mo 458, 77 ALR 1237, 41 SW2d 389.

intending passenger. A person who enters upon the premises of a carrier of passengers with the bona fide intention of becoming a passenger, and awaits the arrival of his train or other conveyance at a proper place, in a proper manner, and within a reasonable time before the arrival of such train or other conveyance. Palmer v Willamette Valley Southern Railway Co. 88 Or 322, 171 P 1169.

intendment. The meaning of a word. Legal meaning. 27 Am J1st Indict § 55.

See common intendment; rule of intendment.

intendment of law. A presumption of law; legal meaning; meaning peculiar to the law.

intent. Adjective: With fixed purpose; earnest; determined; engrossed. Noun: Purpose. The purpose to use a particular means to effect a certain result. Baker v State, 120 Wis 135, 97 NW 566. A constituent element of all criminal acts, but not necessarily conscious wrongdoing. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 81. An inference of law from facts proved. State v La Page, 57 NH 245.

See common intent; criminal intent; design; felonious intent; general criminal intent; legal intent; rational intent; specific intent.

intentio. (Civil law.) Intent; intention; meaning; the formal complaint of the actor or plaintiff in an action.

Intentio caeca mala. A concealed intention or meaning is bad.

intentio inservire debet legibus, non leges intentions. Intention should be subservient to the laws, not the laws to intention.

Intentio mea imponit nomen operi meo. My intent stamps or impresses a name upon my act.

intention. Purpose. That which is intended.

See declaration of intention; floating intention; intend; intent.

intentional. Performed or done with intent.

In the law of private nuisance an invasion of another's interest in the use and enjoyment of land is intentional when the person whose conduct is in question as a basis for liability acts for the purpose of causing it, or knows that it is resulting from his conduct, or knows that it is substantially certain to result from his conduct. Anno: 54 ALR2d 769.

intentional injury. An injury inflicted by positive, willful, and aggressive conduct; an injury inflicted with design and foresight, as distinguished from an injury caused by negligence or sustained by mishap. Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis Railway Co. v Tarrt (CA7 Ill) 99 F 369; American Acci. Co. v Carson, 99 Ky 441, 36 SW 169.

intentionally. In an intentional manner, with design, of purpose. McNamara v St. Louis Transit Co. 182 Mo 676, 81 SW 880.

intention of parties. The primary consideration in determining the making, as well as in the interpretation of a contract.

intention of testator. The intention manifested in the terms of the will, not necessarily the intention existing in the mind of the testator. Yeates v Yeates, 179 Ark 543, 16 SW2d 996, 65 ALR 466.

intent to commit a felony. See burglary; felonious intent.

intent to defraud. An intent to commit a fraud.

The words as used in a statute making it an offense to pretend to be an officer or employee acting under the authority of the United States, do not require more than that the person charged has, by artifice and deceit, sought to cause the deceived person to follow some course he would not have pursued but for the deceitful conduct. United States v Lepowitch, 318 US 702, 87 L Ed 1091, 63 S Ct 914.

See fraud.

intent to kill. See assault with intent to kill; intent to take life; murder.

intent to nuncupate. The intention of one who is in extremis to make a nuncupative will. 57 Am J1st Wills § 656.

intent to rape. See assault with intent to rape.

intent to steal. The intent or purpose which a thief has to deprive another of his goods. The intent of one taking personal property without the consent of the owner to deprive the owner permanently of his property or its value. 32 Am J1st Larc § 36.

intent to take life. The willingness to take, or unwillingness to respect, human life. 26 Am J1st Homi § 34.

inter. Between; among; amid; in; during.

inter absences. Among or between persons who are absent.

inter else. Among other things or matters. See 4 Bl Comm 129.

Inter alias causas acquisitionis, magna, celebris, et famosa est cause donationis. Among other means of acquisition, there is a great, frequently used and famous means, that of gift.

[647]

inter alios. Among others; between other persons.

inter alios acta. Acts or transactions between other persons; acts or transactions between persons other than those before the court.

Inter alios res gestas aliis non posse praejudicium facere saepe constitutum est. It has often been decided that matters which were transacted between some persons cannot operate as a prejudice to other persons.

Inter-American Coffee Agreement. An agreement made by the President of the United States with the representatives of coffee producing countries of the Western Hemisphere, providing quotas for the importation of coffee into the United States from such countries. 19 USC § 1356.

inter amicos. Among or between friends.

inter apices juris. Among the extremities or subtleties of the law. Hinsdale v Miles, 5 Conn 331, 334.

Inter arma silent leges. Amidst arms the laws are silent; that is, in time of war.

inter brachia. Between arms.

inter caeteros. Among or between other persons.

intercalate. To insert; to insert or intercalate a month or a day in the calendar.

intercalary month. An extra month in the calendar inserted at intervals by the Jews, Arabs and Turks, who still use the lunar month, as did the ancient Greeks, for the purpose of reconciling solar time with lunar time.

inter canem et lupum. (Latin.) Literally, between the dog and the wolf. Figuratively, the twilight, the time when the dog goes to rest and the wolf to hunt.

intercedere. (Civil law.) To stand between; to intervene; to interpose as a mediator; to stand surety.

intercepted shipment. A shipment of goods by the seller which the buyer intercepts before it reaches its original destination, thereby actually and lawfully obtaining possession. Anno: 7 ALR 1385; Uniform Sales Act § 58(2)(a).

intercepting merchandise on way to market. See forestalling the market.

intercepting telephone conversation. A breach of privacy in listening without the consent of the communicants, whatever the method used to hear or record the conversation may be. United States v Polakoff (CA2 NY) 112 F2d 888, 134 ALR 607. Obtaining a telephone communication or message by wiretapping device. Benanti v United States, 355 US 96, 2 L Ed 2d 126, 78 S Ct 155.

interchangeably. In the way, mode or form of exchange.

"A term constantly used in the concluding clause of indentures (in witness whereof the said parties have hereunto interchangeably set their hands and seals) and properly imputing not only an execution by all the parties, but an actual interchange of signatures and seals and such as takes place in the case of instruments executed in duplicate, or in part and counterpart, where the signature and seal of each party are affixed to the part given to the other." Roosevelt v Smith, 17 Misc 323, 325, 40 NYS 381.

interchange of cars. The practice in railroading whereby the cars of one company are transported over the lines and in the trains of other companies. Jacobson v Wisconsin M. & K. R. Co. 71 Minn 519, 74 NW 893, affd 179 US 287, 45 L Ed 194, 21 S Ct 115.

interchange of traffic. The movement of freight, also of passengers from a carrier to a connecting carrier. 14 Am J2d Car § 662.

intercommon. To enjoy mutual rights of common in adjoining lands; as where the beasts of each of two adjoining owners stray mutually into the field of the other, without any molestation from either. See 2 Bl Comm 33.

intercommoning. Enjoying the rights of intercommon in adjoining lands.

See intercommon.

inter conjuges. Between a husband and his wife.

inter conjunctas personas. Between conjunct persons.

See conjunct persons.

intercourse. A commingling; intimate connections between persons or nations, as in common affairs and civilities, in correspondence or trade; communication; commerce, especially interchange of thought and feeling; association; communion. Not necessarily sexual intercourse. People v Howard, 143 Cal 316, 320, 76 P 1116.

See commerce; sexual intercourse.

interdict. Verb: To prohibit. Noun: An interdiction.

See interdiction.

interdiction. An authoritative prohibition. An order of a high ecclesiastical officer prohibiting divine services in certain specified places or under the direction of certain specified persons.

interdiction of commerce. A reprisal by one nation against another whereunder, by order promulgated by the authorities of the former, all trade between it and the other must cease for the time. The Edward Scott (US) 1 Wheaton 261, 272, 4 L Ed 86, 88. The closing of a port to commerce. Craig v United Ins. Co. (NY) 6 Johns 226.

interdiction of fire and water. An interdict ordering a person to be banished from the kingdom and prohibiting any person from furnishing him with either fire or water.

interdictum salvianum. (Roman law.) The foreclosure of a pledge of the goods of a tenant given by him as security for the payment of rent.

Interdum evenit ut exceptio quae prima facie justa videtur, tamen unique noceat. It sometimes happens that a plea which on its face seems just, is nevertheless unfair and inequitable.

interesse. Interest; an interest.

interesse termini. The interest of a lessee acquired upon the execution of the lease and before taking possession of the premises. 32 Am J1st L & T § 27.

interest. A right in, or share of, something. Concern. The compensation allowed by law, or fixed by the parties, for the use, detention, or forbearance of money or its equivalent. 30 Am J Rev ed Int § 2. Compensation payable on a contractual basis or allowed by way of damages. 22 Am J2d Damg § 179. A means of compensation, as distinguished from a penalty which is a means of punishment. United States v Childs, 266 US 304, 69 L Ed 299, 45 S Ct 110. As taxable income:—the compensation paid for the use of money. Sayles v Commissioner of Corp. & Taxation, 286 Mass 102, 189 NE 579, 91 ALR 1267.

The word as used in a codicil may, depending upon the context and the presence or absence of qualifying words have the meaning of "income" in one part of the instrument and "share" in another. Hilton v Kinsey, 88 App DC 14, 185 F2d 885, 23 ALR2d 830.

See absolute interest; adverse interest; affected with a public interest; appealable interest; beneficial interest; declaration against interest; interest in property; party in interest; power coupled with an interest.

interest annually. See annual interest; at interest; compound interest; conventional interest; customary interest; discount; discretionary interest; Jewish interest; legal interest; legal rate of interest; marine interest; maritime interest; mercantile rule; moratory interest; per annum; rests; simple interest; United States rule; with interest; with interest annually.

interest-bearing stock. Another term for preferred stock. 19 Am J2d Corp § 872.

See preferred stock.

interest by way of damages. Sometimes called moratory interest,—interest allowed in actions for breach of contract or tort as damages for the unlawful detention of the money found to be due, not by way of contract or arbitrary rule, but by way of reparation as justice demands. 22 Am J2d Damg § 179.

interest coupons. Instruments attached to a note or bond to evidence the interest maturing at stated intervals over the term of the principal debt, usually executed in a form which constitutes them separate promissory notes distinct from the obligation to which attached. 11 Am J2d B & N § 21.

See interest from bond.

interest, dividends, rents and profits. As the term appears in stating the subject of a gift or grant by will, deed, or trust instrument:—net income. Re Heaton, 89 Vt 550, 96 A 21.

interested. Having an interest.

See interested person.

interested in estate. One having some pecuniary interest in the estate of a decedent, so as to be entitled to notice of hearing upon the final report and prayer for discharge of the personal representative. Re Holman, 216 Iowa 1186, 250 NW 498, 98 ALR 1363.

interested in patent. Owning the exclusive right at the time an infringement was committed. Moose v Marsh (US) 7 Wall 515, 19 L Ed 37, 39 (construing statute authorizing action for infringement by person interested.)

interested person. A person concerned or having an interest. Within the meaning of a statute designating persons eligible to contest a will:—one who has such an interest as may be impaired or defeated by the probate of the will or benefitted by setting it aside. Re Plaut, 27 Cal 2d 424, 164 P2d 765, 162 ALR 837. In reference to the right to appeal from a judgment, one who has some immediate legal right, or is under some legal liability, that may be enlarged or diminished by the judgment. 4 Am J2d A & E §§ 182 et seq. As a person incompetent to testify against the personal representative of a deceased person, a person having a direct legal interest, a pecuniary interest, in the result of the suit. 58 Am J1st Witn § 287. In reference to the right to intervene in an action, an interest in the matter in litigation of such direct and immediate character that the intervenes will either gain or lose by the direct legal operation and effect of the judgment. 39 Am J1st Parties § 61.

A statute disqualifying a judge for relationship to "any person" interested in the proceedings has been held to disqualify a judge on the basis of his relationship to an attorney in the cause before him, where the attorney's fee was dependent upon his success. Vine v Jones, 13 SD 54, 82 NW 82.

As to who is a "person interested" in the estate of a decedent under statutes apportioning the estate tax among persons interested, see Anno: 37 ALR2d 215.

interest eo nomine. Interest on money specially provided for by statute. Oppenheim v Hood, 33 SW2d 265.

interest equalization tax. A tax on the acquisition of foreign securities, being an economic device imposed to increase the cost to foreigners of borrowing United States capital, for the purpose of cutting down the flow of United States capital abroad, thereby improving the position of the United States respecting the balance of international payments. IRC § 4911(a).

interest from bond. Interest payable in the usual sense, that is, as compensation for the use of money, notwithstanding the obligation is encompassed in a coupon. Sayles v Commissioner of Corps. & Taxation, 286 Mass 102, 189 NE 579, 91 ALR 1267; Commissioner of Corps. & Taxation v Williston, 315 Mass 648, 54 NE2d 43, 151 ALR 1395.

interest in case. A pecuniary or property interest in the event or subject matter of the action or in the judgment to be rendered. Anno: 10 ALR2d 1320.

See interest in subject matter.

interest in contract. A term familiar in statutes respecting the private concern of a public officer in a public contract negotiated by him, meaning any interest which prevents him from exercising absolute loyalty and undivided allegiance to the best interests of the public body which he serves, not necessarily an interest involving direct financial gain upon his part. Miller v Martinez, 28 Cal App 2d 364, 82 P2d 519.

interest in land. See interest in property.

interest in litigation. See interest in subject matter.

interest in property. In the broader sense of the term, ownership of a particular property, whether of the full or a lesser interest. More precisely, a right in or to property which is less than ownership or title, 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 825. A right less than an estate. Garner v Milwaukee Mechanics' Ins. Co. 73 Kan 127, 84 P 717. In free usage, an estate. Embracing both legal and equitable rights. Gibb v

[649]

Philadelphia Fire Ins. Co. 59 Minn 267, 61 NW 137.

Under a statute requiring a license to engage in the business of buying and selling interests in real estate, there is strong support for the view that a person engaged in buying or selling businesses as going concerns, including real estate as a part of the subject matter of the transfer, is not within the statute. But there is authority to the contrary. 12 Am J2d Brok § 15.

The term "interest in land," as used in the statute of frauds, means some portion of the title or right of possession, and does not include agreements which may affect land but which do not complete the transfer of any title, ownership, or possession. 49 Am J1st Stat of F § 154.

See change of interest; chattel interest; estate; executory interests; insurable interest; landed interest; license coupled with an interest; life interest; limited interest; possessory interest; power coupled with an interest; public interest; qualified interest; royalty interest; unity of interest; vested in interest; vested interest.

interest in real property. See interest in property.

interest in subject matter. For the purpose of intervention, some legal or equitable interest in the subject of the action which a judgment or decree will or may affect. Universal Oil Products Co. v Standard Oil Co. 6 F Supp 37. For the purpose of a statute rendering one interested in the subject matter incompetent as a witness in an action by or against a legal representative of a decedent, one having a direct pecuniary interest in the subject matter of the litigation before the court so as to constitute him at the time an "opposite party" to the estate of deceased. Beaupre v Holzbaugh, 327 Mich 101, 41 NW2d 338, 27 ALR2d 532. In reference to parties on appeal, one whose interest may be adversely affected by the decision on appeal. 4 Am J2d A & E § 276.

interest in the event. One's position in reference to an action being such that he will either gain or lose by the direct legal operation and effect of the judgment of the court disposing of the facts in dispute, or such that the record of a judgment will be legal evidence for or against him in some other action. 58 Am J1st Witn § 288.

interest may appear. See as interest may appear.

interest on indebtedness. Compensation for the use or forbearance of money. Deputy v DuPont, 308 US 488, 84 L Ed 416, 60 S Ct 363.

See interest.

interest on interest. A middle course between simple interest and compound interest. 30 Am J Rev ed Int § 61.

See compound interest.

interest on money. See interest.

interest or no interest clause. A clause or provision in an insurance policy whereby the insurer waives the right to question the interest or ownership of the insured in the property insured. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins §§ 1013, 1015.

interest policy. A true rather than a wager policy; a policy protecting a real and substantial interest of the insured. Sawyer v Dodge County Mut. Ins.. Co. 37 Wis 503, 539.

interest upon condition precedent. A contingent interest. Anno: 71 ALR 1053, 1054.

interest upon condition subsequent. A vested interest subject to be divested. Anno: 71 ALR 1053, 1054.

Interest reipublicae ne maleficia remaneant impunita. It is to the interest of the commonwealth that malefactors do not go unpunished. Abbott v Territory, 20 Okla Crim 1, 94 P 179.

Interest reipublicae ne sua quis male utatur. It is in the interest of the state that no one make a bad use of his own property.

Interest reipublicae quod homines conserventur. It is in the interest of the state that men should be protected.

Interest reipublicae res judicatas non rescindi. It is of interest to the state that judgments should not be reversed or set aside.

Interest reipublicae suprema hominum testamenta rata haberi. It is of interest to the state that the last wills of men should be held valid.

Interest reipublicae ut carceres sint in tuto. It is of interest to the state that the prisons should be safe.

Interest reipublicae ut pax in regno conservetur, et quaecunq̄ue paci adversentur provide declinentur. It is of interest to the state that peace should be preserved within the kingdom, and whatever things are opposed to peace should be prudently avoided.

Interest reipublicae ut quilibet re sua bene utatur. It is in the interest of the state that each person should make a good use of his own property.

Interest reipublicae ut sit finis litium. It is in the interest of the state that there should be an end of a lawsuit.

interests. See interest.

interest suit. A contest between parties interested in the estate of a deceased person for the right to administer it.

interest upon interest. See interest on interest.

interference. A tort in violating the right of another to be secure in his business and contract relationships and in his relationship with another as an employer or employee. A tort actionable as malicious in the legal sense where not justified or constituting an exercise of an absolute right. 30 Am J Rev ed Interf § 2. An employer's restraint or coercion of employees in respect of their exercise of rights guaranteed by the Labor Management Relations Act, particularly the right of collective bargaining. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 226. The acts of a labor union in impeding the exercise of the right of a worker to dispose of his services in a free labor market. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 144. The acts of a labor union, performed maliciously and without justifiable cause, to induce third persons to leave an employment, to induce others not to enter into the service, or to combine to injure an employer by inducing workmen not to enter into employment with him. 31 Am J Rev ed Lab § 140. Another term for interference proceeding. 40 Am J1st Pat § 73.

[650]

An obstruction or hindrance to use, such as the placing of railings or barriers in a highway. 25 Am J1st High § 532.

interference and domination. The participation of a corporation employer in revamping or recasting the organization of an independent labor union. Continental Oil Co. v NLRB (CA 10) 113 F2d 473.

interference proceeding. A proceeding before officers of the Patent Office for the purpose of determining the relative priority of two inventions which conflict with each other. 40 Am J1st Pat § 73.

interference with burial. A tort consisting in interfering with the right to the solace of burying the body of one's spouse or kin, whether by mutilation of the body after death, disturbing it otherwise, withholding it or preventing entrance to the cemetery. 22 Am J2d Dead B § 17. An unconstitutional interference with private rights in refusal on the part of a public officer, to permit one to bury the body of his friend or relative except under unreasonable restrictions. 22 Am J2d Dead B § 2.

interference with mail. Any obstruction to or hindering of the transportation and delivery of the mail. 41 Am J1st P O § 72.

interference with military activities. A criminal offense in obstructing or interfering with the recruiting or enlistment services of the United States, or other military, naval, or war activities or efforts. 47 Am J1st Sedit etc. § 12.

interference with trade or calling. A term applied to the tort of intermeddling in certain relations affecting a man's trade occupation, profession, or means of gaining a livelihood. 30 Am J Rev ed Interf § 44.

interfere with. Affirmative conduct essentially; not including a refusal to deal with employees collectively. Anno: 123 ALR 622; 83 L Ed 691.

interim. Meanwhile; in the meantime. Hence, temporary, as interim receipt.

interim allowance. See temporary allowance.

interim certificate. A receipt issued on a subscription for corporate stock or a purchase of bonds or other securities, to be held by the subscriber or purchaser until the securities purchased are ready for delivery, being in effect the promise or obligation of the issuer to deliver the securities when issued. 11 Am J2d B & N § 28.

interim committitur. An order of commitment directing temporary custody of a person.

interim curator. A temporary guardian or custodian of property.

interim dividend. A corporate dividend payable on a date between regular dividend paying dates; a dividend which may be rescinded or revoked where such action is made advisable by an adverse change in the circumstances of the corporation. Lagunas Nitrate Co. v Schroeder & Co. (Eng) 85 LT NS 22, 17 Times L 625.

interim factor. A temporary trustee appointed to take charge of the property of a bankrupt.

interim officer. An officer appointed to take charge and to perform the duties of an office temporarily; an officer pro tempore.

interim order. A provisional order of court, such as a temporary injunction. A provisional or temporary order by an administrative agency. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 466. An interlocutory order.

See interlocutory order; provisional order.

interim ordinance. A zoning ordinance intended to preserve the status quo of a particular section or sections of the municipality pending the adoption of permanent zoning regulations, the purpose of the ordinance being to prevent the evasion of a comprehensive zoning plan in prospect by entering upon a course of construction during the time that it takes to work out the details of and enact a complete zoning plan. 58 Am J1st Zon § 137.

interim receipt. In insurance parlance, a binder or contract of temporary insurance. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 205.

See interim certificate.

interim receiver. Same as temporary receiver.

interim report. A report by a fiduciary of the condition of the estate and his administration thereof, furnished between the filing of the inventory of the estate and the final report, either as required by law or by order of the court. A report required of a trustee in bankruptcy concerning the condition of the estate in bankruptcy, the amount of money on hand, and such other details as may be required by the court, one to be furnished within the first month after the appointment of the trustee, and one every two months thereafter, unless otherwise ordered by the court. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1259.

interindemnity. Same as reciprocal insurance.

interinsurance. Same as reciprocal insurance.

interinsurance association. An association engaged in providing reciprocal insurance for its members. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 102.

See reciprocal insurance.

Interior Department. An executive department of the United States Government, headed by a Secretary of the Interior, who is charged with supervision of public business relating to public lands, Indians, mines, reclamation, fish and wildlife service, geological survey, and other subjects and agencies. 54 Am J1st US § 52.

interline. To write between lines already written, for the purpose of adding to, or correcting what is written. Russell v Eubanks, 84 Mo 82, 88.

interlineation. The act of interlining. That which is interlined. An alteration of an instrument. 4 Am J2d Alt Inst § 36.

See interline.

interlocking device. A device at a railroad crossing installed to control the signals and gates so that one will not be working independently of the other. Anno: 40 ALR 758.

interlocking directorate. The relationship between two or more corporations who have directors or officers in common. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1307.

interlocking directors. Directors common to the boards of two or more corporations. 19 Am J2d Corp § 1307.

interlocutio. Same as imparlance.

interlocution. The making of an interlocutory application or the rendition of an interlocutory decree or judgment during the pendency of an action or suit.

interlocutor. A judgment, order, or decree of a court.

[651]

interlocutory. Not decisive of the cause but determining an intervening matter relating to the cause. Mora v Sun Mut. Ins. Co. (NY) 13 Abb Pr 304, 307. Intermediate.

interlocutory accounting. See intermediate accounting.

interlocutory application. A motion made during the progress of a case invoking provisional or interlocutory relief rather than a final judgment or decree. An application for an order by way of getting the case in such shape that in the end it may be properly heard and finally adjudicated. 27 Am J2d Eq § 235.

interlocutory award. An award made by arbitrators, not final in character because of incompleteness or other cause. Jones v Jones, 229 Ky 71, 16 SW2d 503.

interlocutory costs. Costs or disbursements on an intermediate motion or proceeding. Cardoff v Cardoff, 152 Minn 399, 189 NW 124. Costs allowable, taxable, and payable during the progress of a case. Goodyear v Sawyer (CC Tenn) 17 F 2, 6.

interlocutory decision. See interlocutory; interlocutory judgment.

interlocutory decree. A decree intended, not as a final adjudication, but as a determination made for the purpose of presenting the case in such form that it may, in the end, be heard on the merits and finally adjudicated. 27 Am J2d Eq § 235. The determination of a matter preliminary to trial or hearing for the rendition of a final decree. Comans v Tapley, 101 Miss 203, 57 So 567. A decree of divorce, that is, a decree which determines that a party is entitled to a divorce, such decree not to be final until after the expiration of the period of time prescribed by the statute. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 427.

See interlocutory judgment.

interlocutory divorce. See interlocutory decree.

interlocutory hearing. Any hearing for the purpose, not of an ultimate determination and final adjudication, but to obtain a presentation of the case in such form that it may, in the end, be properly heard and adjudicated finally on the merits. 27 Am J2d Eq § 235.

interlocutory injunction. A provisional or temporary injunction. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 12.

See temporary injunction.

interlocutory judgment. An intermediate judgment, a judgment which lacks finality. United States v Howe (CA2 Vt) 280 F 815, 23 ALR 531, cert den 259 US 587, 66 L Ed 1077, 42 S Ct 590. A judgment which "speaks between", that is does not speak the last word which the court may be required to speak in the case. Keffer v Keffer, 307 Ky 831, 212 SW2d 314. A judgment rendered in the middle of a cause upon some plea, proceeding, or default, which is only intermediate and does not finally determine or complete the suit. Jacoby v Carrollton Federal Sav. & Loan Asso. (Ky) 246 SW2d 1000. A judgment which is made before a final decision, for the purpose of ascertaining a matter of law or fact preparatory to a final judgment, or which determines some preliminary or subordinate point or plea, or settles some step, question, or default arising in the progress of the case, but does not adjudicate the ultimate rights of the parties or finally put the case out of court. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 121.

A judgment on the merits defining and settling the rights of the parties is not rendered interlocutory by the fact that further orders may be necessary to carry into effect the rights settled by the judgment. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 122.

See interlocutory decree.

interlocutory judgment or decree of divorce. A judgment or decree which determines that a party is entitled to an absolute divorce, such decree not to be final until after the expiration of the period of time prescribed by the statute. 24 Am J2d Div & S § 427.

interlocutory motion. See interlocutory application.

interlocutory order. An order rendered in an action or proceeding by way of provisional relief or upon a motion or application made during the course of the action or proceeding by way of determining the manner or form in which the case shall be presented for a final trial or hearing and an adjudication on the merits; not in itself an adjudication on the merits. Re Blalock, 233 NC 493, 64 SE2d 848, 25 ALR2d 818; People v Priori, 163 NY 99, 57 NE 85, 87; Mackowain v Gulf Oil Corp. 369 Pa 581, 87 A2d 314, 37 ALR2d 584.

See interlocutory decree; interlocutory judgment.

interloper. A trader operating without the license required by law. A party who takes an appeal or participates in an appeal taken by others who has no financial interest or other right which could be affected either adversely or favorably by the outcome of the litigation. Re Bush's Trust, 249 Minn 51, 82 NW2d 221.

interlude. An intervening event. A short dramatic piece, generally accompanied with music, usually represented or performed between the acts of longer performances. Society for Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents v Diers (NY) 60 Barb 152, 156.

intermarriage. The act of marrying. People v Bord, 243 NY 595, 596, 154-NE 620.

intermarry. To enter into a marriage.

intermeddler. One who stirs up litigation.

A person who officiously intrudes into a business to which he has no right.

The distinction between an intermeddler and a trespasser is not in any case very great. Vassor v Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Co. 142 NC 68, 950, 954, 54 SE 849.

intermeddling. A form of maintenance. Anno: 139 ALR 650.

See intermeddler.

intermediary. A go-between. One through whom a transaction is performed for another, for example, a person paying the rent of another with funds provided by the latter. 3 Am J2d Agency § 22.

intermediary bank. A bank which receives a collection from another bank and forwards it to a third bank for collection. Any bank to which an item is transferred in course of collection except the depository or payor bank. UCC § 4-105(c).

intermediate. Occurring between two events. Interlocutory; intervening.

See interlocutory.

intermediate accounting. An accounting by a fiduciary at intervals between the filing of the inventory of the estate and the final accounting. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 511.

intermediate administrative appeal. An appeal from an administrative order to an officer on an intermediate level, a subsequent appeal to the head of lands of one's neighbor. Eaton v Boston, Concord the department or agency being available. 2 Am J2d Admin L § 540.

[652]

intermediate appellate court. Same as intermediate court of appeal.

intermediate carrier. One of three or more connecting carriers, who is neither the initial nor the terminal carrier. 14 Am J2d Car § 662.

intermediate costs. Same as interlocutory costs.

intermediate court of appeal. The lower court of a two-level appellate system; a court whose decision is subject to review by a higher appellate court. 4 Am J2d A & E § 11.

intermediate estate. An estate intervening the interest giving a right of present possession and the remote future interest, the effect of which is to prevent a merger of such present and future interests to create a fee simple. 28 Am J2d Est § 374.

intermediate hearing. See interlocutory hearing.

intermediate injunction. See interlocutory injunction.

intermediate interest. An interest in real estate so limited as to be between a life estate and an ultimate interest by way of remainder. McCreary v Coggeshall, 74 SC 42, 53 SE 978.

See intermediate estate.

intermediate judgment. See interlocutory judgment.

intermediate landing field. See landing area.

intermediate lien. See intervening lien.

intermediate order. See interlocutory order.

intermediate point. A place along the route of a shipment of goods between the place of shipment and the place where the shipment is to be delivered according to the terms of the contract of carriage. 13 Am J2d Car § 393.

intermediate port. A port between the sailing port and the port of termination of a voyage. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 332.

intermediate rate. A freight rate established expressly for a shipment between designated places, such as Chicago and Omaha. 13 Am J2d Car § 119.

intermediate witness. A witness who testifies to a fact on the strength of other testimony, and not of his own knowledge.

intermediator. One who settles or attempts to settle a dispute or controversy between others.

See arbitrator.

interment. See burial.

intermingling. For the purpose of the application of the doctrine of confusion of goods, a wilful and tortious mixture and confusion of goods by the owner with the goods of another so that they are indistinguishable and not susceptible of division according to the rights of each owner. 1 Am J2d Access § 15.

See commingling of funds; commingling of goods.

inter minora crimina. Among the minor crimes.

in terminis terminantibus. In determinate or determining terms; in express terms.

intermittent easement. An easement which is only used occasionally, or that is used or usable only at times; such as a right of occasionally flooding the lands of one's neighbor. Eaton v Boston, Concord & Montreal Railroad, 51 NH 504.

intermittent injury. The opposite of constant and continuous injury; temporary, depending on future conditions which may or may not arise. Harvey v Mason City & Fort Dodge R. Co. 129 Iowa 465, 105 NW 958.

intermittent stream. Same as intermittent watercourse.

intermittent watercourse. A watercourse, which although dry at times, has a well-defined and substantial existence; a watercourse with a usual or frequent flow which occurs regularly at certain seasons, and upon which dependence may be placed. 56 Am J1st Wat § 9. A stream in which the flow of water is discontinuous. 56 Am J1st Wat § 9.

intern. Verb: (in-tèrn). To apprehend, restrain, and detain an enemy alien. To confine prisoners of war in the interior of the country. To hold a person as a political prisoner. On the part of a neutral, to detain ships, sailors, soldiers, or property of a belligerent. Noun: (in'tèrn). A physician, usually one in the first year after graduation from medical college, who serves in a hospital in a professional capacity, assisting the physicians on the staff and attending upon patients in the hospital under the direction of their physicians or members of the hospital staff.

See interned alien; internment.

internal administration. Public administration on the institutional side, that is, as a going concern, including the legal structure or organization of administration, the legal aspects of its institutional activities, and the legal questions involved in overall management of such activities. 1 Am J2d Admin L§5.

internal affairs of corporation. Of private corporation: –transactions and relations which affect only the corporation and the stockholders as between themselves. Edwards v Schillinger, 245 Ill 231, 91 NE 1048. Something which concerns one solely in his capacity as a member of a corporation, whether as incorporator, stockholder, director, president, or other officer, and is the act of the corporation, whether acting in stockholders' meeting or through its agents, the board of directors. 23 Am J2d For Corp § 410. Of municipal corporation:—such business as a municipal corporation of like character is normally required to transact in order to effectuate the purpose of its charter, such as providing a police force, a jail, buildings for offices, etc. Lewis v Pima County, 155 US 54, 39 L Ed 67, 15 S Ct 22.

internal commerce. Commerce which is completely internal within a state of the Union, which is carried on between man and man in a state, or between different parts of the same state, and which does not extend to, or affect other states. North River Steamboat Co. v Livingston (NY) 3 Cow 713, 731.

internal improvement. A highway, toll road, canal, or other public improvement. 38 Am J1st Mun Corp § 559.

See works of internal improvement.

internal medicine. A branch of the practice of medicine. Treatment of diseases of the internal organs.

internal revenue. Revenues of the federal government. California ex rel. McColgan v Bruce (CA9 Nev) 129 F2d 421, 147 ALR 782.

Internal Revenue Bureau. An older terminology for what is now known as the "Internal Revenue Service."

[653]

Internal Revenue Code. Title 26 of the United States Code, inclusive of sections on income taxes, estate taxes, gift taxes, excises on alcohol and tobacco, and various other excises, together with provisions on the administration of such tax laws and the procedure to be followed.

internal revenue law. See Internal Revenue Code; revenue law.

internal revenue officers. See Internal Revenue Service; revenue officers.

Internal Revenue Service. The organization which administers the Internal Revenue Code, headed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and embracing a national office in Washington, D. C. and a field organization of revenue regions, each headed by a regional commissioner, and internal revenue districts, each headed by a district director. 34 Am J2d Fed Tax ¶ 9260.

internal revenue stamps. See revenue stamps. internal revenue tax. An exaction for the support of the federal government; a contribution imposed on individuals by the government for its services. Bailey v Drexel Furniture Co. 259 US 20, 66 L Ed 817, 42 S Ct 449, 21 ALR 1432. More narrowly defined as federal taxes with the exception of customs duties. Leeb v United States (DC NY) 16 F2d 937.

Internal Security Act. Legislation intended to protect the government and the people against subversive activities tending to the overthrow of the government.

international. A characterization in a general manner of business or transactions between nations or between persons of different nations. Koehler v Sanders, 122 NY 65, 25 NE 235.

See public.

international agreement. A treaty between nations. A contract in which nations are the contracting parties.

international airport of entry. An airport designated as an international airport of entry for purpose of collecting customs duties. 21 Am J2d Cust D § 60.

international bank. A bank which engages in business transactions in foreign countries. 10 Am J2d Banks § 835.

International Bank for Reconstruction and Development. See World Bank.

international commerce. See foreign commerce.

International Co-operation Administration. A federal agency in the Department of State.

international copyright. A copyright which by force of international agreement is extended, in reference to the protection granted an author, beyond the territorial limits of the jurisdiction in which it was obtained. 18 Am J2d Copyr § 76.

International Copyright Act. An English statute growing out of the Berne Convention of 1887.

International Court of Justice. The principal judicial organ of the United Nations, established by Ch. XIV of the United Nations Charter. Am J2d Desk Book Document 16.

international courts. The international court of arbitration, known as the Hague Tribunal, established by the International Peace Conference in 1899; the Permanent Court of International Justice, established under the auspices of the League of Nations in 1920, which was the successor of the Hague Tribunal; and the International Court of Justice established as the judicial branch of the United Nations Organization, which is the successor to the Permanent Court of International Justice. 30 Am J Rev ed Internat L § 54.

international extradition. The surrender by one nation of an individual accused or convicted of an offense outside of the territory of the former and within the territorial jurisdiction of the latter, which, being competent to try and to punish him, demands the surrender. 31 Am J2d Extrad § 1.

international labor union. See international union.

international law. The rules and principles which govern the relations and dealings of nations with each other. New Jersey v Delaware, 291 US 361, 78 L Ed 847, 54 S Ct 407. The usage of all civilized nations. United States v Arre Don Do (US) 6 Pet 691, 8 L Ed 547.

International law in its widest and most comprehensive sense includes not only questions of right between nations, governed by what has been appropriately called the law of nations, but also questions arising under what is generally called private international law, or the conflict of laws, and concerning the rights of persons within the territory and dominion of one nation, by reason of acts, private or public, done within the dominion of another nation. Such was the force accorded the term "jus gentium" by the Roman juris-consults, but today private international law is deemed quite separate and distinct from the law of nations. 30 Am J Rev ed Internat L § 1.

See private international law; public international law.

International Monetary Fund. A fund established by Articles of Agreement adopted by a large number of nations at the Bretton Woods Conference in 1944, constituting in gold and national currencies the largest source of quickly available international credit.

International Nautical Mile. See nautical mile.

International Organization Immunities Act. A federal statute pertaining to the status of international organizations in reference to their capacity as parties. 22 USC § 288a.

International Peace Conference. A conference held in 1899, to which the leading nations of the world sent representatives, best remembered for its establishment of the international court of arbitration, known as the Hague Tribunal. 30 Am J Rev ed Internat L § 54.

international public law. The law which governs nations in their dealings and relations with one another. 30 Am J Rev ed Internat L § 1.

International Refugee Organization. An organization functioning under the United Nations Charter. International Refugee Organization v Republic S.S. Corp. (CA4) 189 F2d 858.

International Rules for Navigation at Sea. Federal statutes applying generally to all public and private vessels of the United States, also referred to as Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea. 33 USC §§ 143-147(d). Substantially, a code of navigation law, similar to that adopted by the leading maritime nations. 48 Am J1st Ship § 245.

International Rules to Prevent Collisions. Same as International Rules for Navigation at Sea.

[654]

international sight draft. A sight draft drawn in a foreign country against a drawee bank of this country. 10 Am J2d Banks § 494.

international union. A labor union whose organization and activities transcend the territorial limits of the country. A union of nations; the United Nations.

interne. Same as intern.

interned alien. An enemy alien confined pursuant to an order issued by the President; for the purposes of a writ of habeas corpus, confined as a prisoner of war. 56 Am J1st War § 68. A status which does not prevent the enforcement of contract rights or the right of the alien to sue in the courts of the country in which he is interned. 56 Am J1st War § 141.

internist. One qualified as a physician who specializes in internal medicine.

internment. The detention of a resident enemy alien during the existence of a declared war between his country and the United States. Johnson v Eisentrager, 339 US 763, 94 L Ed 1255, 70 S Ct 936. The apprehension, restraint, and removal of an enemy alien to a designated place pursuant to an order by the President. 56 Am J1st War §§ 67, 68. The confinement of prisoners of war in the interior of a country. The act of a neutral nation in detaining ships, sailors, soldiers or property of a belligerent.

inter nos. Between ourselves.

internuncio. A representative of the pope of Rome at a minor court.

internuncius. A messenger; a joint agent acting between two parties.

inter partes. Between the parties.

See deed inter partes; instrument inter partes.

interpellation. A citation to appear before a court; a summons.

interplea. A proceeding by an adverse claimant, somewhat in the nature of an action in replevin, wherein all of his rights in property attached may be determined. Farmers State Bank v Hess, 138 Okla 190, 280 P 305, 66 ALR 894.

See interpleader.

interplead. To interpose or file an interpleader in a pending suit.

interpleader. A remedy, equitable in origin, devised and exercised on behalf of one in possession of property as a disinterested stakeholder, or obligated for the payment of a debt or the performance of a legal duty, to prevent loss or embarrassment to him from separate suits by rival claimants seeking to cover the same property from him or to enforce against him the same debt or obligation, the efficacy of the remedy lying in its function of requiring the rival claimants to litigate their demands without embroiling the stakeholder or debtor in the controversy. 30 Am J Rev ed Interpl § 3.

See bill in the nature of interpleader.

Interpleader Act. A statute which, as adopted in 1917 and subsequently amended, gives to the federal courts original jurisdiction of bills of interpleader and of bills in the nature of interpleader. 30 Am J Rev ed Interpl § 19.

interpolation. Adding words to an instrument or manuscript; a method of altering an instrument. 4 Am J2d Alt Inst § 36. Reading words and clauses into a contract in the construction of the contract. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 253.

See interlineation.

interposing a defense. To plead a defense in an answer or to insist upon it at any stage of the action. Rosa v Butterfield, 33 NY 665, 667.

interposition. Intervention. In a distinct sense, a fully discredited and disavowed concept that the United States is a compact of states, any one of which may interpose its sovereignty against the enforcement within its orders of any decision of the Supreme Court or Act of Congress, irrespective of the fact that the constitutionality of the act has been established by a decision of the Supreme Court, and that, a state having so acted, the law or decision is not enforceable in the interposing state until approved by an amendment to the Constitution of the United States. Bush v Orleans Parish School Board (DC La) 188 F Supp 916, affd per curiam op 365 US 569, 5 L Ed 2d 806, 81 S Ct 754.

See intervening cause; intervention.

inter praesentes. Among or between persons present.

interpret. To construe; to explain; to expound; to translate from a foreign language.

Interpretare et concordare leges legibus est optimus interpretandi modus. To interpret and reconcile laws with laws is the best manner of explaining them or construing them.

Interpretatio chartarum benigne facienda est, ut res magis valeat quam pereat. The construction of deeds or charters should be liberal in order that the transaction may be effective rather than impotent.

Interpretatio chartarum benigne facienda est, ut res magis valeat quam pereat quando res non valet ut ago valeat quantum valere potest. The construction of instruments should be liberal, that the transaction may be effective rather than impotent when the transaction is not valid as I do it, let it have as much validity as it can have. Bond v Bunting, 78 Pa St 210, 219.

Interpretatio fiends est ut res magis valeat quam pereat. Construction should be such that the transaction may be effective rather than perish.

interpretation. A translation. The art of finding the true sense of any form of words or symbols. Bloomer v Todd, 3 Wash Terr 599, 19 P 135.

The term is not synonymous with "construction," the latter meaning the determination, not of the sense of the words or symbols, but of the legal meaning of the entire contract. 17 Am J2d Contr § 240.

See rational interpretation; restrictive interpretation.

interpretation clause. A clause contained in many statutes which governs the construction of the statute, or which defines one or more terms of the statute.

interpretation test. A test given to prospective voters, involving the interpretation of any section of the federal or state constitution. 25 Am J2d Elect § 89.

[655]

Interpretatio talis in ambiguis semper fienda est ut evitetur inconueniens et absurdum. Such construction of ambiguous expressions should be made that inconvenience and absurdity shall be avoided.

interpretative regulation. A regulation by an administrative body purporting to interpret a statute of doubtful meaning. A regulation issued as a Treasury Decision, designed to interpret the doubtful meaning of a tax statute. Anno: 153 ALR 1191.

interpreter. One who interprets, particularly one who interprets words written or spoken in a foreign language. A person appointed by the court to interpret the testimony of a witness who speaks a foreign tongue because he does not understand and speak the English language. 53 Am J1st Trial § 29. A person employed in the taking of a deposition to translate into English for the benefit of the reporter questions and answers given in a foreign language. 23 Am J2d Dep § 51.

interpretive regulation. Same as interpretative regulation.

inter quatuor parietes. Within the four walls.

interracial marriage. A marriage between persons of different races.

See miscegenation.

interregnum. The interval of time between the death of an hereditary sovereign and the beginning of the reign of his successor.

Theoretically, there can be no interregnum in England because upon the death of the king, the right of the crown vests instantly in his heir, whence the saying, "The king is dead. Long live the king." See 1 Bl Comm 196.

The eleven-year period from 1649 to 1660, between the execution of Charles I and the reign of his son, Charles II; that is, the period of the commonwealth under Cromwell, is often referred to as "The Interregnum," but Blackstone refers to that unpleasantness as "the rebellion" which "broke out" in the reign of Charles I, and, following "the trial and murder of their sovereign" (Charles I), continued into the reign of Charles II until his "restoration." That is, Blackstone does not admit any break in the royal succession. See 4 Bl Comm 437.

interrogating. Propounding questions; questioning, especially, a witness, a prospective witness, or one suspected of the commission of a crime.

interrogating part of bill in equity. A term familiar in discussions of pristine equity pleading. The part of a bill in equity following the general jurisdiction clause and generally comprising two features:-the general interrogatory and the special interrogatories.

The general interrogatory calls on the defendant to make full, true and perfect answer to each and every allegation of the bill, or, what is the same in effect, it prays the court to require the defendant to appear in court and answer those allegations. The special interrogatories constitute the interrogating part of the bill as more generally understood and are properly put in series very much as the interrogatories for the taking of a deposition, being consecutively numbered for reference. 27 Am J2d Eq § 181.

interrogatories. Questions addressed to a person, especially a witness. Questions propounded in writing or orally in obtaining a deposition. 23 Am J2d Dep § 1. Questions propounded in obtaining a discovery. Questions submitted in writing by the plaintiff for answer by a garnishee, constituting, in effect, a form of discovery of assets of the defendant in the hands of the garnishee. 6 Am J2d Attach § 346. Questions submitted by one party to another in a case in admiralty by way of obtaining a discovery. 2 Am J2d Adm § 140. Questions submitted to the jury upon request for special verdict or' special findings. 53 Am J1st Trial §§ 1063 et seq. Preliminary questions, propounded to a person called as a witness, for the purpose of determining his capacity, particularly in reference to a witness who is obviously a minor or mentally deficient. Den v Vancleve, 5 NJL 695, 765.

See cross interrogatories; special interrogatories.

in terrorem. By way of warning or intimidation. Tending to inspire fear or dread, for example, the punishment for crime or contempt. State v Shepherd, 177 Mo 205, 228, 76 SW 79. A condition subsequent in a gift or devise, void as in terrorem, in itself or for want of a limitation over, the absence of a limitation over indicating that the primary purpose was to intimidate. 28 Am J2d Est § 145. A condition in restraint of marriage, appearing in a deed or gift of property, imposed with the view of preventing marriage rather than in furtherance of a legitimate purpose, especially where there is no gift over. 35 Am J1st Mar §§ 247, 266.

in terrorem populi. To the terror of the populace. Commonwealth v Runnels, (10 Tyng) 10 Mass 518, 520.

interruptio. (Civil law.) Same as interruption.

Interruptio multiplex non tollit praescriptionem semel obtentam. Repeated interruption will not defeat a prescription after it has been acquired.

interruption-of-business insurance. See business interruption insurance.

interruption of possession. An interruption of the continuity of the possession of an adverse claimant; any substantial interruption in the possession of an adverse claimant. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 68.

The effect is to restore constructive possession to the owner. 3 Am J2d Adv P § 54.

interruption of prescription. Any unambiguous act of the owner of land evincing his intention to exclude others from the interrupted use of the right claimed, thereby preventing the acquisition of an easement in the land by prescription. Red Star Yeast & Products Co. v Merchandising Corp. 4 Wis 2d 327, 90 NW2d 777. Under the civil law, an entry by the owner into and upon immovables or his taking away movables. Innerarity v Heirs of Mims, 1 Ala 660, 674.

interruption of statute. The suspension of the running of a statute of limitations. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac §§ 186 et seq.

See suspension of statute of limitations.

inter rusticos. Among or between rustics; among or between persons who are illiterate.

inter se. Among or between themselves.

[656]

intersecting lines. One railroad line connecting with or crossing over another railroad line. 44 Am J1st RR § 283.

intersecting streets or highways. Streets or highways meeting with one another. 7 Am J2d Auto § 203.

Some authorities include the meeting of one way with another even though one of the streets stops at and does not cross the other; but in a few cases it has been held, in view of the language of the particular statute or ordinance, that the two ways must actually cross each other in order to be intersecting. 7 Am J2d Auto § 203.

The intersection of a public thoroughfare with a private way does not come within the terms of a statute which, by language or definition, relates to the intersection of "highways," or which defines the intersecting way as any "public highway, street, avenue, road, alley, park, or parkway. Anno: 50 ALR 204; 7 Am J2d Auto § 204.

intersecting veins. Veins of minerals which cross one another. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 112.

intersecting way. See intersecting streets or highways.

intersection. The space of intersecting streets or roadways common to both the ways as determined by a continuation of the curb or similar lines. Neuman v Apter, 95 Conn 695, 112 A 350, 21 ALR 970; Stewart v Olson, 188 Wis 487, 206 NW 909, 44 ALR 1292. The point at which railroad lines intersect; the city or village in which railroad lines intersect.

See intersecting lines; intersecting streets or highways.

inter se liability. Liability as between themselves, such as liability as between the shareholders of a business trust. 13 Am J2d Bus Tr § 41.

inter se rights. Rights as between themselves, such as rights as between the shareholders in a business trust. 13 Am J2d Bus Tr § 41.

inter sese. Same as inter se.

interspousal transfers. Transfers of property between husband and wife.

interstate commerce. Literally, commerce between states. A practical rather than a technical legal conception, impossible of comprehensive definition, but having the distinguishing feature and indispensable element of importation into one state from another state. 15 Am J2d Cem § 3. A term comprehending all commercial intercourse between different states and all the component parts of that intercourse. 15 Am J2d Com § 3. As defined in the Federal Employers' Liability Act:—acts which shall in any way directly or closely and substantially affect commerce between the states. 45 U SC § 51. Interstate transportation or work so closely related thereto as to be practically a part of it. 35 Am J1st M & S § 442.

There is no single concept of interstate commerce which can be applied to every federal statute regulating commerce. McLeod v Threlkeld, 319 US 491, 87 L Ed 1538, 63 S Ct 1248.

See commerce clause; engaged in interstate commerce.

Interstate Commerce Act. A federal statute creating the Interstate Commerce Commission and providing for the regulation, supervision, and investigation of interstate carriers by the commission. 49 USC § 11.

interstate commerce clause. See commerce clause.

Interstate Commerce Commission. A body corporate, essentially an administrative board invested with administrative powers of supervision and investigation, although exercising quasi-judicial powers. 13 Am J2d Car § 33. A federal agency created in 1887 by the Interstate Commerce Act in order to bring into existence a body which, from its special character, would be best fitted to deal with interstate carriers and, among other things, to determine whether, upon the facts in a given case, there was an unjust discrimination against interstate commerce. Florida v United States, 292 US 1, 78 L Ed 1077, 54 S Ct 603.

interstate extradition. See extradition.

interstate ferry. A ferry operating between landing places in different states.

interstate free pass. A pass for free transportation of a passenger on a trip between states, forbidden by law, subject to certain exceptions, particularly drovers or caretakers of livestock in charge of a shipment. 14 Am J2d Car § 756.

interstate highway. A highway of a superior nature constructed with federal aid, intended to facilitate the movement of traffic between states.

interstate surface water. Water flowing over the surface of lands located in two states. Caldwell v Gore, 175 La 501, 143 So 387.

interstate traffic. Traffic that is moving from one state or territory into or through some other state or territory. United States v Chicago Great Western Co. (DC Iowa) 162 F 775.

See interstate commerce.

interstate watercourse. A watercourse which borders upon or passes through two or more states. 56 Am J1st Wat §§ 373 et seq.

interterritorial. Between one territory and another.

interurban. See interurban railroad.

interurban bus. A bus running between cities or other centers of population.

interurban railroad. Literally a railroad running between cities, but known more particularly as a railroad line of limited extent in length, making use of electric passenger cars quite similar to streetcars. 44 Am J1st RR § 7. A means of transportation which became widely established with the advent and extended use of electric passenger cars, but has since been almost completely replaced in the United States by busses. Partaking somewhat of the nature of an ordinary railroad and of a street railway, resembling the former when operated on its private right of way, outside the traveled portion of a public highway, and the latter when operating over a public street. 44 Am J1st RR § 7. More in the nature of a railroad than a street railway. Louisville & N. R. Co. v Anchors, 114 Ala 492, 227 So 279.

See commercial railroad.

interurban railway passenger traffic. The transportation of passengers between cities without rendering streetcar service in any city. Milwaukee v Milwaukee Electric R. & Light Co. 173 Wis 400, 180 NW 339, 181 NW 821, 13 ALR 802.

interval. A space of time or distance.

See lucid interval.

[657]

intervallo. See ex intervallo.

intervene. To come between. To become a party to an action by way of intervention.

See intervention.

intervener. One who intervenes. One who becomes a party to a suit by the proceeding of intervention. 39 Am J1st Parties § 55.

See intervention.

intervening. As a matter of designation of time;—intermediate; implying an exclusion of both first and last terminal days. Anno: 98 ALR2d 1369. Acquiring the status of a party to an action by way of intervention.

See intervention.

intervening agency. An act or omission which comes between cause and effect. Ahern v Oregon Tel. & Tel. Co. 24 Or 276, 33 P 403, 35 P 549.

See intervening cause.

intervening cause. A cause which supersedes a prior wrong as the proximate cause of an injury by breaking the sequence between the prior wrong and the injury. Mahoney v Beatman, 110 Conn 184, 146 A 762, 66 ALR 1121.

The test of the sufficiency of an intervening cause to defeat recovery for negligence is not to be found in the mere fact of its existence, but rather in its nature and the manner in which it affects the continuity of operation of the primary cause, or the connection between it and the injury. Sandel v State, 115 SC 168, 104 SE 567, 13 ALR 1268, ovrd on other grounds Sistine v State, 132 SC 241, 253, 128 SE 172.

See efficient intervening cause.

intervening damages. Damages resulting to an appellee from the delay caused by the appeal. Peasely v Buckminster (Vt) 2 Tyler 264, 267.

intervening efficient cause. See efficient intervening cause.

intervening force. See intervening cause.

intervening human agency. The instrumentality of man. The antithesis of act of God. Cachick v United States (DC Ill) 161 F Supp 15.

intervening lien. A lien which, in point of time or of record comes between other liens or other conveyances or transfers of the same property.

intervention. The act or fact of intervening-any interference that may affect the interest of others. In legal terminology, the proceeding by which one not originally a party to an action is permitted, on his own application, to appear therein and join one of the original parties in maintaining the action or defense, or to assert a claim or defense against some or all of the parties to the action as originally instituted. 39 Am J1st Parties § 55. A proceeding within an attachment or garnishment proceeding wherein third party claimants assert their rights. 6 Am J2d Attach § 577. An appearance by a consul on behalf of his nation interested in the estate of a decedent. Anno: 157 ALR 108. A proceeding in admiralty by a third person to establish a claim to property or the proceeds of property brought into court in a suit in admiralty, where the suit is in rem, or to establish the right or rights of the third person in a proceeding for limitation of a shipowner's liability. 2 Am J2d Adm § 184.

intervention on appeal. A practice generally refused after the case has reached the appellate court, or after the time for appeal has expired, parties being brought in to an appeal by order of the appellate court only where the effective administration of justice demands it. Mullaney v Anderson, 342 US 415, 96 L Ed 458, 72 S Ct 428.

intervertebral discs. The structure of the spine. 22 Am J2d Damag § 374.

interview. The method of obtaining information by conversation. An informal method of obtaining answers to interrogatories propounded in obtaining a discovery. 23 Am J2d Dep § 289.

inter virum et uxorem. Between husband and wife.

inter vivos. Between living persons.

See gift inter vivos. inter vivos gift. See gift inter vivos.

inter vivos instrument. An instrument taking effect during the life of the grantor, mortgagor, or lienee.

inter vivos transfer. A transfer effective during the life of the transferor.

inter vivos trust. Same as trust inter vivos. intestabilis. Disqualified from being a witness; disqualified to make a will; dishonored; infamous.

intestable. A person who is not qualified to make a will; as, a lunatic.

intestacy. The status or condition of a person who dies without leaving a valid and operative will. Re Noble, 194 Iowa 733, 190 NW 511, 26 ALR 86. More precisely, the status of the estate or property of a decedent who dies without leaving a valid or operative will. Murdoch v Murdoch, 81 Conn 681, 72 A 290.

See dying intestate; partial intestacy.

In testamentis et ultimis voluntatibus tractatur de probanda voluntate defuncti post ejus mortem. In the case of testaments and last wills matters shall be administered according to the proven wishes of the deceased, after his death. Panaud v Jones, 1 Cal 488, 505.

In testamentis plenius testatoris intentionem scrutamur. In wills, we should search thoroughly for the intention of the testator.

In testamentis plenius voluntates testantium interpretantur. In wills, the intentions of the testators should be fully determined.

In testamentis ratio tacita non debet considerari, sed verba solum spectari debent; adeo per divinationem mentis a verbis recedere durum est. In wills a secret intention ought not to be considered, but only the words ought to be regarded; it is so difficult to recede from the words by guessing at the intention.

intestate. The characterization of a person, or of the estate or property of a person, who dies in the status or condition of intestacy, that is, without leaving a valid and operative will. Re Noble, 194 Iowa 733, 190 NW 511, 26 ALR 86. One who dies without leaving a valid and operative will. Kohny v Dunbar, 21 Idaho 258, 121 P 544.

See dying intestate; intestacy; partial intestacy.

[658]

intestate estate. The estate of a person who dies without leaving a valid and operative will.

See partial intestacy.

intestate laws. The body of statutes which provide and prescribe the devolution of estates of persons who die without disposing of their estates by last will or testament. Guinness v State, 40 Wash 2d 677, 246 P2d 433.

intestate property. See intestate estate; partial intestacy.

intestate succession. Succession or inheritance from a person who dies without leaving a valid or operative will. Not a natural or inherent right. 23 Am J2dDesc&D§11.

intestato. See ab intestato.

intestatus. (Civil law.) Intestate; without leaving a will; an intestate.

Intestatus decedit qui aut omnino testamentum non fecit; aut non jure fecit; aut id quod fecerat ruptum irritumve factum est; aut nemo ex eo haeres exstitit. A person dies intestate who either made no will, or made one not according to law, or the one which he made has been broken or rendered ineffectual, or who is one whom no devisee survives.

in testimonium. In testimony; in witness whereof.

in the air. Literally, an operation off the ground, such as flying an aircraft. Figuratively, without basis or foundation.

Proof of negligence in the air, so to speak, will not do. Martin v Herzog, 228 NY 164, 126 NE 814.

in the alternative. One in the place of another, not the two taken together. Montgomery Ward & Co. v Duncan, 311 US 243, 85 L Ed 147, 61 S Ct 189.

See alternative.

in the bosom of the country. An expression used in relation to the situs of articles of commerce.

Such articles are in the "bosom of the country" before they become articles of foreign commerce or commerce between the states of the Union. Turner v Maryland (US) 17 Otto 38, 27 L Ed 370, 2 S Ct 44.

in the bosom of the court. See breast of the court.

in the cepit. See replevin in the cepit.

in the course of the employment. A phrase sometimes understood to mean the same as within the scope of the employment, at other times construed to mean during the period of employment, such variation, of course, being most confusing where it is sought to impose liability on the employer for an injury occurring to a third person by the act of an employee. Penas v Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway Co. 112 Minn 203, 127 NW 926. While engaged in the service of the employer; not synonymous with the phrase "during the period covered by his employment." Hickson v W. W. Walker Co. 110 Conn 604, 149 A 400, 68 ALR 1044; Slater v Advance Thresher Co. 97 Minn 305, 107 NW 133. Engaged in that activity which he was employed to pursue; not engaged in a pursuit of his own. White v Eastern Mfg. Co. 120 Me 62, 112 A 841, 16 ALR 1165, 1168; Jackson v American Tel. & Tel. Co. 139 NC 347, 51 SE 1015. Performing the work of the employer pursuant to the employer's directions. Braen v Pefeifer Oil Transp. Co. 361 US 129, 4 L Ed 2d 191, 80 S Ct 247. At work in the employer's service. Cox v Kansas City Refining Co. 108 Kan 320, 195 P 863, 19 ALR 90. Engaged in matters fairly incidental to the employment relationship. Gage v Connecticut General Life Ins. Co. (Mo App) 273 SW2d 761, 47 ALR2d 1234 (provision of group accident policy.) For the purposes of workmen's compensation:—within the period of employment, at a place where the employee reasonably may be in the performance of his duties, and while he is fulfilling those duties or engaged in doing something incidental thereto, or, as otherwise stated, engaged in the furtherance of the employer's business. 58 Am J1st Workm Comp § 212.

See scope of employment.

in the custody of the law. See custody of the law.

in the debet and detinet. See debet et detinet.

in the detinuit. In possession by virtue of a writ of replevin.

in the employ. Working for another whether as a menial, a mechanic, or a manager of the business. Kay v General Cable Corp. (CA3 NJ) 144 F2d 653.

in the event. A phrase setting up a condition. 11 Am J2d B & N § 141.

in the nature of quo warranto. See information in the nature of quo warranto.

in the opinion of the agency. A clause in a statute delegating powers to an administrative agency, the effect of which is to confer unwarranted policymaking power upon the agency. State v Marana Plantations, Inc. 75 Ariz 111, 252 P2d 87.

in the ordinary course of business. In the course of business of mercantile men generally, not those engaged in a particular trade. Romeo v Martucci 72 Conn 504, 45 A 1. A sale such as made in the regular course of business, not one such as will be made only a few times in the life of a merchant. Sternberg v Rubenstein, 305 NY 235, 112 NE2d 210, 36 ALR2d I 136. According to the usages and customs of commercial transactions. Christensen v Farmers' Warehouse Asso. 5 ND 438, 67 NW 300.

As to whether sales are made in "ordinary course of trade or business" within the meaning of the Federal income tax rules as to property deemed held primarily for sale to customers in ordinary course of trade or business, see Anno: 46 ALR2d 649.

in the premises. A familiar phrase used in a prayer for relief in equity, meaning on the case as made by the plaintiff, for example:-wherefore plaintiff demands [specific relief requested, such as foreclosure, injunction, etc.] and such other and further relief as he may be entitled to in the premises.

in the presence. See in the presence of the testator; presence.

in the presence of the court. See presence of the court.

in the presence of the testator. A signing of the will within the view of the testator, such view being uninterrupted and the testator conscious. A signing within the actual range of vision of the testator. 57 Am J1st Wills § 338.

It has been held that the words "in the presence of the testator," in a statute relating to the execution and attestation of wills, do not necessarily mean that the testator and the witnesses must be in the same room, or that he must have actual sight or inspection of the process of signing by the witnesses, but there is respectable authority to the contrary. Cook v Winchester, 81 Mich 581, 46 NW 106.

[659]

Due regard must be had to the circumstances of each particular case, as it is well settled by all the authorities that the statute does not require absolutely that the witnessing of the signing by the testator must be done in the actual sight of the testator, nor yet within the same room with him. If the witnesses sign within his hearing, knowledge, and understanding, and so near as not to be substantially away from him, they are considered to be in his presence. Re Will of Cunningham, 80 Minn 180, 83 NW 58.

in the public domain. See public domain. in the residence. As the term appears in a statute giving a landlord a lien upon all property of the tenant situated "in the residence":-all property on the premises. 32 Am J1st L & T § 586.

in the service of the ship. See service of the ship.

in the trial. At the trial; during the trial; while the case is actually being tried. Carpenter v Winn, 221 US 533, 539, 55 L Ed 842, 845, 31 S Ct 683.

in the vicinity. See vicinity.

in the within deed. An indorsement of a deed which may have the effect of conveying the property described by the instrument. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 37.

in this state. A phrase embracing all territory within the geographical limits of the state. Collins v Yosemite Park & C. Co. 304 US 518, 82 L Ed 1502, 58 S Ct 1009.

intimacy. A friendly relationship. In another sense, an illicit, improper, and degrading relationship; an illicit sexual relationship. Collins v Dispatch Publishing Co. 152 Pa 187, 191.

intimate. Closely acquainted. In one sense, having illicit sexual relations. 33 Am J1st L & S § 39.

A man and woman not married to each other are said to have been intimate when it is intended to convey the meaning that they have indulged in sexual intercourse together. Crosslands v Hamilton, 128 Okla 213, 262 P 196, 198.

As applied to the relations between a man and a woman, the adjective does not necessarily import misconduct. To charge a woman with being intimate with a man does not of itself amount to a charge of unchastity, although the word "intimate" is capable of use in a defamatory sense, and if it is so used it is actionable per se in many jurisdictions. 33 Am J1st L & S § 39.

intimation. A hint or suggestion. A mere conclusion from something said-that something should have been stated. Miller v Miller (Pa) 2 Serg & R 266.

intimidate. To put one in fear. To cause a state of intimidation.

See intimidation.

intimidation. The act of putting another in fear or a state of timidity by means of a threat or declaration of an intention or determination to injure such person by the commission of an unlawful act. Payne v Western & Atlantic Railroad Co. 81 Tenn (13 Lea) 507. Not necessarily implying an overt act of violence, or even a direct threat of violence. United Constr. Workers v New Burnside Veneer Co. (Ky) 274 SW2d 787.

See business compulsion; duress.

intimidation of voter. Producing fear sufficient to deter a voter from the exercise of his free will, thereby affecting the integrity of an election, irrespective of the degree in which force is displayed. 26 Am J2d Elect § 286.

intitle. Same as entitle.

into. Toward and within.

There is no difference, so far as a lessor's covenant to repair is concerned, between entrances leading "to" the premises and entrances leading "into" it. Renfro Drug Co. v Lewis (Tex) 235 SW2d 609, 23 ALR2d 1114.

The prohibition of a federal statute against transporting intoxicating liquor in interstate commerce "into" any state or territory the law of which prohibits the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes does not include the movement through a dry state as a mere incident of the transportation to another state, whether such transportation is by personal carriage or by common carrier, the word "into" referring to the state of destination, and not to the means by which that end is reached. United States v Gudger, 249 US 373, 63 L Ed 653, 39 S Ct 323.

intol and uttol. Tolls or duties which were levied on imports and exports.

intolerable indignity. An indignity amounting to a species of mental cruelty, thereby constituting a ground of divorce under some statutes. Wirthman v Wirthman, 225 Mo App 692, 39 SW2d 404.

intolerable severity. As a characterization of cruelty constituting a ground for divorce:—extreme cruelty. Mathewson v Mathewson, 81 Vt 173, 69 A 646.

intolerance. Bigotry; narrow-mindedness. An intrusion upon our traditional concept of religious liberty. United States Nat. Bank v Snodgrass, 202 Or 530, 275 P2d 860, 50 ALR2d 725.

in totidem verbis. In so many words; in just as many words.

in toto. In the whole; altogether; wholly.

In toto et pars continetur. In the whole a part is also contained, or embraced, or included.

intoxicants. Any substance which intoxicates.

See intoxicating liquors.

intoxicated. In common parlance, in which sense it is used in an application for life insurance, drunk or inebriated. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v Johnson, 64 Okla 222, 166 P 1074. In a state of intoxication. Within the meaning of a limitation of risk in a life or accident insurance policy:—a disturbance of mental or physical faculties substantially or materially impairing a sense of responsibility, arising from the use of an alcoholic beverage or a drug or drugs. Anno: 13 ALR2d 987, 999.

See intoxicated condition; intoxication. intoxicated condition. Under the influence of intoxicating liquor. 7 Am J2d Auto § 257.

See intoxication. intoxicating bitters. An alcoholic beverage. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 16.

See bitters.

intoxicating liquor. A liquor intended for use as a beverage, or capable of being so used, which contains alcohol in such percent that it will produce intoxication when imbibed in quantities that practically may be drunk. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 4.

[660]

A liquor which contains alcohol capable of producing intoxication when taken into the stomach in such quantities as the stomach may reasonably contain. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 4. Liquors defined by statute as "intoxicating," regardless of their alcoholic content or intoxicating quality. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 6.

See alcoholic beverage; alcoholic liquor; sale of intoxicating liquor.

intoxicating quality. The distinctive characteristic of an intoxicating liquor, being that quality which renders a beverage such that when used it will produce intoxication to some extent. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 5.

intoxication. An undue abnormal excitation of the passions or feelings, or the impairment of the capacity to think and act correctly and efficiently. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 21. As a ground for cancellation of a contract, such an impairment of capacity as deprives a person of reason and renders him bereft of the power to understand the nature and effect of his act in the transaction. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 83. A state of inebriation or drunkenness. That state or condition of a person which inevitably follows from taking excessive quantities of an intoxicant. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 21. To some persons, being under the influence of an intoxicant to such an extent as to render one helpless; to other persons, a person even only slightly under such influence. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 21.

See habitual drunkenness; involuntary intoxication.

intra. Within; in the space of; within the bounds of.

intra anni spatium. Within the space of a year.

in trade. In commerce; in business.

As used in the Federal Income Tax Act that losses actually sustained during the year, incurred "in trade," shall be allowed as a deduction, the term means the trade or trades in which the person making the return is engaged; that is, in which he has invested money otherwise than for the purpose of being employed in isolated transactions, and to which he devotes at least a part of his time and attention. Mente v Eisner (CA2 NY) 266 F 161, 11 ALR 496.

See payable in trade.

In traditionibus scriptorum, non quod dictum est, sed quod gestum est, inspicitur. In the delivery of written instruments, not what was said, but what was done, is regarded.

intra family. Within the family, between the members of a family.

intra fidem. Within belief; credible.

intra hospitium. Within the precincts of the inn.

in trajectu. In passing over.

intra luctus tempus. Within the time of mourning.

intra moenia. Within the walls; pertaining to the household. See 1 Bl Comm 425.

in transit. Literally, in the course of passing from point to point. Technically, between delivery to the carrier and delivery to the consignee or one acting for the consignee. Anno: 80 ALR2d 448, 452. For the purpose of an insurance risk, periods of actual movement or periods of rest while property is being carried from one place to another with the intention to take it to a destination conceived in the mind, not the mere possession of something in the course of a casual wandering. Anno: 80 ALR2d 447.

The term includes not only the carriage of goods to their destination, but also their delivery there in accordance with the terms of the contract with the carrier. Anno: 7 ALR 1389.

See in transitu.

in transitu. In transit. A phrase familiar in the law of sales, meaning the period while the goods are in the possession of a carrier, whether by land, water, or air, until they are delivered into the possession of the consignee, whether or not the carrier has been designated by the buyer. 46 Am J1st Sales § 530.

See in transit; stoppage in transitu.

intra parietes. Inside the walls of the house; among friends.

intra praesidia. Same as infra praesidia.

intra quatuor maria. Inside or within the four seas; that is, in England.

intrastate. Wholly within the external boundaries of a single one of the United States.

intrastate commerce. Commerce within the limits of one state.

Substance, not form, controls in the determination of the character of the transaction; the courts look to practical considerations and the established course of business. NLRB v Jones & L. Steel Corp. 301 US 1, 81 L Ed 893, 57 S Ct 615, 108 ALR 1352.

intra-urban. Within the limits of a city.

intra vires. Within the powers; within the authority given by law.

See ultra vires.

intrinsic danger. See inherent danger in work.

intrinsic fraud. Fraud practiced in procuring a transaction. Toledo Scale Co. v Computing Scale Co. 261 US 399, 67 L Ed 719, 43 S Ct 458. In the trial of an action:—perjury, forgery, bribery of a witness, and other frauds which could have been relieved by the court in the action itself. Caldwell v Taylor, 218 Cal 471, 23 P2d 758, 88 ALR 1194. In reference to relief from a judgment: fraudulent acts pertaining to an issue involved in the original action, or fraudulent acts which were or could have been litigated in the original action. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm §§ 657, 784.

intrinsic value. The true, inherent, and essential value of a thing, not depending upon accident, place, or person, but the same everywhere and to everyone. Bank of North Carolina v Ford, 27 NC (5 Ired L) 692, 698. Of corporate stock:—the amount which the assets behind the stock will bring at a sale fairly conducted. Jackson Co. v Gardiner Invest. Co. (CA1 NH) 217 F 350, affd on reh 220 F 297, app dismd 239 US 628, 60 L Ed 475, 36 S Ct 164.

introduced evidence. Evidence offered by a party on the trial of a case and admitted or received by the court. Tuttle v Story County, 56 Iowa 316, 9 NW 292.

introduction. A bringing in. A preliminary by way of explanation of what follows. In pristine equity practice, a distinct part of a bill in equity indicating the names of the parties and the capacity in which the plaintiff brings the suit if it is brought in the right of another. 27 Am J2d Eq § 180.

[661]

See clandestine introduction.

intruder. A person who commits an intrusion. A person entering upon premises without invitation, especially a person expressly prohibited from entering. One who usurps a public office, having neither title nor color of right. Hamlin v Kassafer, 178 SC 351, 183 SE 145, 114 ALR 1130. An entry by a stranger on lands after a particular estate of freehold in them is determined and before entry by the remainderman or reversioner. See 3 Bl Comm 169.

See information for an intrusion; monstrans de droit; purpresture.

intrusion. The act of an intruder.

See intruder.

intrusione. See de intrusione.

intrust. To transfer or deliver property to another to hold as trustee.

in trust. The status of property held by a trustee. A phrase in an instrument strongly indicative of the intent to create a trust rather than convey an absolute estate. Anno: 147 ALR 609, 611. A phrase generally inconsistent with the idea that the grant of an absolute estate was intended, but not conclusive in such respect. Flynn v Palmer, 270 Wis 43, 70 NW2d 231, 51 ALR2d 1000. A clause which, appearing in a will, strongly but not conclusively indicates the creation of a trust. 57 Am J1st Wills § 1323.

in trust for any purpose. Limited to technical or special trusts; not inclusive of a trust implied from the situation of the parties or the nature of the transaction. Schaack v Reiter, 372 Ill 328, 23 NE2d 714, 125 ALR1482.

intuitu. See eo intuitu.

intuitu matrimonii. In contemplation of marriage.

intuitu mortis. In contemplation of death.

intuitus. View; contemplation; consideration.

in tuto. In safety; safe; secure.

inundation. A flood.

inure. To accrue to the benefit of a person; to devolve upon a person. Malachowski v Varro, 76 Cal App 207, 244 P 936.

inurement of title. The benefit of the title of one for another, for example, the title of one cotenant benefitting another cotenant. 20 Am J2d Coten § 69. The passing of title to property from one person to another, without any writing or other formality than some act which thereafter estops the grantor from asserting title to the property as against his grantee. Dickerson v Colgrove (US) 10 Otto 578, 583, 25 L Ed 618, 620. The transfer of an after acquired title of the grantor to the grantee of a deed by operation of law. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 308.

in utero matris. In the womb of the mother.

See unborn child.

Inutilis labor et sine fructu non est effectus legis. Useless and fruitless labor is not the end of the law.

in utroque jure. In both laws.

in vacation. See vacation of court.

in vacuo. In space.

invade. To make an invasion; to assault.

invadiare. To pledge; to mortgage.

invadiatio. A pledge; a mortgage.

invadiatus. The principal debtor in a contract of pledge or suretyship; a person who has had pledges given for him.

in vadio. In gage; in pledge; by way of security.

See estate in vadio.

invalid. Adjective: Illegal, having no force or effect or efficacy; void; null. State ex rel. MacKenzie v Casteel, 110 Ind 174, 182. Noun: A sick person, especially one without hope of restoration to health.

invalidated. Rendered illegal or deprived of legal effect.

A provision in a fire insurance policy that a mortgagee's interest in the policy shall not be invalidated by any act of the owner, means that the interest of the mortgagee in the policy shall not be injuriously affected thereby. Tarleton v De Veuve (CA9 Cal) 11 F2d 290, 132 ALR 343.

invalid chair. wheelchair.

invalidism. A condition of chronic ill health, sometimes coinciding with mental incompetency, but by no means the equivalent of mental incompetency. Groff v Stitzer, 77 NJ Eq 260, 77 A 46.

invalidity. See illegality.

invalid pension. See pension.

invasion. An intrusion upon the property or rights of another. The entry of a hostile military force. The hostile entry of a public enemy. Aetna Ins. Co. v Boon (US) 5 Otto 117, 24 L Ed 395.

invasion of corpus. Taking from the principal of a trust estate when the income is insufficient for the payment of annuities to, or the defrayment of expenses of, the beneficiaries as provided by the indenture of trust. 4 Am J2d Annui § 18.

invasion of privacy. A violation of the right of privacy.

See privacy.

invasion of province of jury. The decision by the court of a question of fact within the province of the jury or interference by the court with the jury in attempting to control or determine the verdict to be rendered by them. 39 Am J1st Tr § 48.

invecta et illata. (Civil law.) Things which were carried and brought, -the goods of a tenant which he brought on the land and pledged to the landlord to secure his rent.

inveigle. To deceive for the purpose of accomplishing an evil purpose. State v Lacoshus, 96 NH 76, 70 A2d 203. To allure, incite, instigate, seduce, or entice into the doing of an improper act. Mooney v State, 8 Ala 328, 331.

inveniendo. Finding.

Inveniens libellum famosum et non corrumpens punitur. A person who finds a defamatory libel and does not destroy it, is punished.

[662]

invent. To create. Bliss Co. v United States, 248 US 37, 63 L Ed 112, 39 S Ct 42. To think of something, especially a new device, and of a method of creating it, and to follow through with the creation of the thing.

inventio. (Civil law.) A finding of goods.

invention. A creation of something new. Within the meaning of the patent laws:—an operation of the intellect, a product of intuition, of something akin to genius, as distinguished from mere mechanical skill. 40 Am J1st Pat § 40. A word impossible of definition affording any substantial aid in determining whether a particular device involves an exercise of the inventive faculty or not. 40 Am J1st Pat § 40.

See caveat; caveator; improvement; patent; patentable invention.

inventor. The originator of an invention.

See patent; patentable invention.

inventory. An itemized list or schedule of articles in a stock of goods or merchandise, usually including notations of values. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 946. The foundation of the bookkeeping required by the bookkeeping clause of a fire insurance policy covering a stock of merchandise. Hartford Fire Ins. Co. v Farris, 116 Va 880, 83 SE 377. A list of the goods and merchandise to be offered at an auction sale, sometimes setting forth the cost of the several items; an inventory of all goods and merchandise sold at an auction sale, giving the prices received for the items listed. Steinberg-Baum & Co. v Countryman, 247 Iowa 923, 77 NW2d 15. A list made by an officer serving a writ of execution of the items of personal property subjected to the levy. 30 Am J2d Exec § 298. A list made by the sheriff or other officer to whom a writ of attachment was issued, of the property seized by him in serving the writ. 6 Am J2d Attach § 310. A list made by an executor or administrator of the personal assets of the decedent. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad §§ 209 et seq. A complete list, to be prepared and filed by a trustee in bankruptcy or a trustee in an arrangement or reorganization proceeding in the bankruptcy court, of all the property of the bankrupt or debtor that comes into his possession, except where a receiver or other officer of the court has previously prepared and filed such an inventory. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1259. A schedule to be made and filed by a bankrupt showing the amount and kind of property owned by him the location thereof, and its money value, in detail. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 378. A detailed list of property to be prepared, verified, and filed by a bankrupt, when required by the court, showing the cost to him of his merchandise or of such other property as may be designated, as of the date of his bankruptcy. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 381.

inventory goods. Goods held by a person for sale, lease, or furnishing under a contract of service, raw materials, work in process, or materials used or consumed in a business. UCC § 9-109(4).

in ventre sa mere. In the womb of the mother.

inventus. Found.

In veram quantitatem fidejussor teneatur, nisi pro certa quantitate accessit. A surety should be held for the true quantity, unless he agreed for a certain quantity. Bean v Parker, 17 Mass (17 Tyng) 591, 597.

In verbis, non verba, sed res et ratio, quaerenda est. In expressions, not the words, but the thing itself and the meaning, are to be inquired into.

invertare. To verify; to prove.

inverse condemnation. The taking of property by an actual interference with or disturbance of property rights, without an actual entry upon the property. 26 Am J2d Em D §§ 157 et seq.

inverse order of alienation. The doctrine that where land subject to a paramount encumbrance is subsequently sold or encumbered in parts or parcels at different times, no intention being disclosed in the instrument that the purchaser or the encumbrancer of the part should pay the whole or his proportion of the paramount encumbrance, the parcel retained by the grantor should be first subjected to the discharge or payment of the paramount encumbrance, and the parcels alienated or encumbered should be reached only in the event the parcel retained by the grantor is not sufficient to pay the paramount encumbrance in full, and then only to the extent of the deficiency and in the inverse order of alienation; and that if all of the land covered by the paramount encumbrance has been successively alienated or encumbered in parcels, the parcel last alienated or encumbered must be first exhausted for the payment or discharge of the paramount encumbrance, before the parcel alienated or encumbered next preceding to the last may be reached, and so on in that order until the parcel first alienated or encumbered is reached, if need there be, provided the alienee or the junior encumbrancer of the party against whose parcel recourse must be had had notice of the prior alienation or encumbrance of another part. 35 Am J1st Marsh A § 32. A doctrine analogous to but at the same time in contrast with the doctrine of marshaling assets. 35 Am J1st Marsh A § 33.

invest. To vest; to clothe with authority; to confer upon. To make an investment of money or other property; that is, to place it where it will yield an income or revenue. Savings Bank of San Diego County v Barrett, 126 Cal 413, 58 P 914; Drake v Crane, 127 Mo 85, 29 SW 990.

invested. See invest; invested capital; investment.

invested capital. Literally, the money or property put into an enterprise. For the purpose of the wartime federal revenue acts, actual cash paid in, or the actual cash value of tangible property paid in, other than cash, for stock or shares in the corporation, or paid-in or earned surplus and undivided profits. Duffy v Mutual Ben. Life Ins. Co. 272 US 613, 71 L Ed 439, 47 S Ct 205.

investigate. To inquire; to make an investigation.

See investigation.

investigation. An administrative function, the exercise of which ordinarily does not require a hearing. 2 Am J2d Adm L § 257. In a more complete sense, an inquiry, judicial or otherwise, for the discovery and collection of facts concerning a certain matter or matters.

Authority to a legislative committee to make an investigation includes the power to call witnesses and to compel them to testify under oath. People v Sharp, 107 NY 427.

Investigation Bureau. See Bureau of Investigation.

investigatory powers. Powers conferred on administrative agencies to inspect, secure or require the disclosure of information. 1 Am J2d Admin L § 85. Judicial powers or other powers to inquire and collect facts concerning a certain matter or matters.

[663]

See investigation.

investitive fact. A fact the existence of which gives rise to a right.

investiture. The act of making livery of seisin; the act of investing or clothing a person with actual possession.

The ancient custom of feudal tenure whereby, while feuds were precarious, the vassal on descent of lands was admitted in the lord's court and there received his seisin. This was in the nature of a renewal of his ancestor's grant in the presence of the feudal peers. At a later period, when the right of succession became indefeasible, an entry on any of the lands within the county was considered as equivalent to the formal grant of seisin and made the tenant capable of transmitting his estate by descent. See 2 Bl Comm 209.

investment. The act of placing money where it will yield an income or revenue. Savings Bank of San Diego County v Barrett, 126 Cal 413, 58 P 914; Drake v Crane, 127 Mo 85, 29 SW 990. The laying out of money in such a manner that it may produce a revenue, whether the particular method be a loan, or the purchase of stocks, securities or other property. Putting money on interest, either by way of loan, or the purchase of income-producing property. Drake v Crane, 127 Mo 85, 29 SW 990. A note, bond, or share of stock purchased for income.

This word, within the meaning of a clause authorizing executors and trustees to retain investments or any property in which the estate may be "invested" at the time of the testator's death, means property from which an income or profit is expected to be derived in the ordinary course of events. Anno: 47 ALR2d 196.

See investiture.

investment adviser. Any person who, for compensation, engages in the business of advising others, either directly or through publications or writings, as to the advisability of purchasing or selling securities, or who, for compensation and as a regular business, issues analyses or reports concerning securities, excluding certain persons, such as lawyers, accountants, teachers, and engineers, who may incidentally engage in such activities. 15 USC § 80b-1.

Investment Advisers Act. A federal statute having the general objective of protecting the public and investors against malpractices by persons paid for advising others about securities. 15 USC § 80b-6.

investment bonds. The obligations of private and public bodies taken by the holders as investments. 12 Am J2d Bonds § 49.

investment brokers. A person or corporation licensed to deal, and actually dealing with the general public in the purchase and sale of securities. Trading Associates Corp. v Magruder (CA4 Md) 112 F2d 779.

investment company. A company which either itself or through others engages in business within the state of selling or offering for sale securities issued by itself, including a foreign corporation. 47 Am J1st Secur A § 32. Any issuer of securities which is engaged primarily in the business of investing, reinvesting, or trading in securities or in the business of issuing face-amount certificates of the instalment type. 15 USC § 80a-3(3).

Investment Company Act. A comprehensive federal statute regulating investment companies as defined in the act. 15 USC §§ 80a-1 et seq.

investment contract. A contract providing for the investment of capital in a way intended to secure income or profit from its employment. State v Evans, 154 Minn 95, 191 NW 425, 27 ALR 1165. An investment, as well as a contract, since the purchasers rely upon the efforts of other persons to make the investment a profitable one. 47 Am J1st Supp Secur A § 16.

If a corporation issues its securities to purchasers who pay their money justly expecting to receive an income or profit from their investment, there results an investment contract such as is referred to in blue sky laws. State v Heath, 199 NC 135, 153 SE 855, 87 ALR 37.

investment credit. A direct credit against the federal income tax applied where certain depreciable property having a useful life of at least four years is placed in service during the taxable year, the amount of the credit being seven per cent of the qualified investment which in turn depends upon the useful life of the property. IRC §§ 46(c)(1), 48(a)(1).

investment scheme. A plan for the making of an investment or investments. Sometimes a lottery, as where a fund is created by the payment of designated sums at stated intervals by the holders of certificates, which shall be matured and paid to the investor in an amount dependent upon chance. 34 Am J1st Lot § 14.

investment security. A security dealt in upon securities exchanges or markets or commonly recognized in any area in which it is issued or dealt in as a medium for investment, evidencing a share, participation, or other interest in property, or in an enterprise, or evidencing an obligation of the issuer. UCC § 8-102(1)(a).

A security normally traded on securities markets, as distinguished from ordinary commercial paper. This distinction is of importance in the case of bonds of private or public bodies, since, prior to the enactment of the Uniform Commercial Code in a particular jurisdiction, such bonds were subject to the requirements of the Negotiable Instruments Act, while, under the code, such bonds are subject to the code article dealing with "investment securities." 12 Am J2d Bonds § 49.

investment trust. A corporation which keeps its assets invested in stocks or bonds and distributes the returns by way of dividends and profits to the shareholders of the trust.

investment value. The real value of a share of corporate stock as an investment, as distinguished from book value. 19 Am J2d Corp § 520. The value calculated by the capitalization of income from the property. 27 Am J2d Em D § 286.

invidiam. See in invidiam.

in vinculis. In chains; in bondage; under duress. Under undue influence. 25 Am J2d Dur § 36.

inviolable. Not to be violated; immunity from being violated; immunity or exemption from violence.

inviolate. Unhurt, uninjured, unpolluted, unbroken. Flint River Steam Boat Co. v Roberts, Allen & Co. 2 Fla 102, 114. Freedom from substantial impairment. Commonwealth v Almeida, 362 Pa 596, 68 A2d 595, 12 ALR2d 183, cert den 339 US 924, 94

[664]

L Ed 1346, 70 S Ct 614, and cert den 340 US 867, 95 L Ed 633, 71 S Ct 83.

in viridi observantia. In fresh attention; present in one's mind.

in vita. In life; living; alive.

invitation. A direct or implied inducement by the owner or occupier of premises to another person to enter or pass over such premises. Sweeny v Old Colony & Newport R. R. Co. 92 Mass (10 Allen) 368.

See express invitation; implied invitation; invitee.

invited error. An error induced or provoked by the party who complains thereof on appeal. Pettingill v Perkins, 2 Utah 2d 266, 272 P2d 185.

invited visitor. See invitee.

invitee. A person on the premises of another at the express or implied invitation of the latter for business purposes, for mutual advantage, or for purely social purposes. Smith v Kroger Grocery & Baking Co. 339 111 App 501, 90 NE2d 500, 20 ALR2d I; Strand Enterprises v Turner, 223 Miss 588, 78 So 2d 769, 47 ALR2d 1431; English v Thomas, 48 Okla 247 149 P 906; Southcote v Stanley (Eng) I H & N 247.

A guest of an employee of a tenant is an invitee of the landlord in the use of a common passageway. Snyder v L. Jay Realty Co. 30 NJ 303, 153 A2d 1, 78 ALR2d 95.

See business visitor; guest.

invito. See ab invito.

Invito beneficium non datur. A benefit is not conferred upon a person against his will.

invito debitore. Against the will or without the consent of the debtor.

invito domino. The lord or master being unwilling, -against the will of the owner.

invitum. See in invitum.

invitus. Against the wish; against the will; unwilling; without consent.

in vivo vadium. See estate in vivo vadium.

In vocibus videndum non a quo sed ad quid sumatur. In discourse it should be observed not from what but to what end it is leading.

invoice. A list of all the goods in a mercantile establishment, or in a department of a mercantile establishment, sometimes with the values of the items listed, such being prepared at regular times for the purpose of ascertaining the net worth of the store. A mere list of the items of personalty included in a sale-not in itself, a bill of sale. 46 Am J1st Sales § 452. A list of items included in a shipment, usually forwarded by mail to the purchaser or consignee.

See inventory.

invoice price. Literally, the amount of value placed upon an item of goods or merchandise in the invoice in which the item appears.

Appearing in a stipulation in a contract of carriage that the liability in case of loss of the goods shall be limited to the invoice price at the point of shipment, the term "invoice price" is not rendered meaningless by the fact that no invoice was actually made out or agreed upon; by application of the rule of reasonable construction, it should be considered to mean the actual value of the goods where loaded and ready for transportation. Pierce v Southern Pacific R. Co. 120 Cal 156, 47 P 874, 52 P 302.

See invoice purchase price.

invoice purchase price. A familiar term in contracts for the sale of a stock of goods; a price to be determined on appraisement according to what the seller paid for the articles when he bought them, not at what it would cost to buy them at the time of appraisement. 46 Am J1st Sales § 179.

invoice value. The invoice price. The cost price rather than the actual value. Knopfler v Flynn, 135 Minn 333, 160 NW 860.

See invoice price.

involuntary. Not voluntary; unintentional; without willing; independent of volition or consent; accidental. Riley v Interstate Business Men's Acci. Asso. (Iowa) 169 NW 488, 2 ALR 57, 62.

involuntary adjudication. An adjudication in bankruptcy on an involuntary petition. Bankruptcy Act § 1(2); 11 USC § 1(2). A determination, whether by decree or by operation of law, that a person is a bankrupt. 29 Am J2d Bankr § 264. A determination, whether by decree not sought by him or by operation of law, that a person is a bankrupt. 29 Am J2d Bankr § 264. In a broader sense, any judgment other than a consent judgment.

involuntary admission. A self-incriminating statement by one accused of crime influenced by hope, fear, or the calamity of a situation. 29 Am J2d Ev § 612.

involuntary alienation. A parting with the title to property resulting from its attachment, levy and sale for taxes or debts due from the owner, or from proceedings in insolvency, bankruptcy, or otherwise, whereby the owner is deprived of his interest in the property. Manierre v Welling, 32 RI 104, 78 A 507.

involuntary assent. An anomaly; a consent obtained by force, duress, or undue influence.

involuntary assignment. An assignment by operation of law, for example, the passing of a decedent's choses in action to the executor or administrator of his estate. 6 Am J2d Assign § 2. The transfer of the choses in action of a bankrupt to the trustee in bankruptcy. An assignment for the benefit of creditors by operation of law where a preferential or fraudulent transfer or conveyance has been made by the debtor. 6 Am J2d Assign for Cr § 3.

involuntary assignment for benefit of creditors. See involuntary assignment.

involuntary association. An association, such as a professional society, membership in which constitutes a valuable right, not merely a social privilege. 6 Am J2d Asso & C § 18.

involuntary bailee. A bailee under an involuntary bailment.

See involuntary bailment.

involuntary bailment. A bailment arising by the accidental leaving of personal property in the possession of any person, without negligence on the part of its owner. Grossman Co. v White, 52 Okla 117, 152 Pe 816. The deposit or placing of goods in a person's possession without his consent, as where a departing lodger leaves goods behind; or lost goods are found on land. Preston v Neale, 78 Mass (12 Gray) 222, 223. A bailment resulting from the action of the elements in moving property onto the premises of one other than the owner of the property, for example, the stranding of goods or merchandise carried by a flood onto another's land. Mitchell v Oklahoma Cotton Growers Asso. 108 Okla 200, 235 P 587, 41 ALR 1011.

[665]

involuntary bankruptcy proceeding. A proceeding in a court of bankruptcy instituted by the creditors of a person, firm, or corporation, without his or its consent, to have him or it adjudicated and declared to be a bankrupt. Re Murray (DC Iowa) 96 F 600, 602.

See involuntary adjudication.

involuntary confession. A confession obtained under the influence of fear, especially fear induced by threats of bodily harm, torture, personal violence, or abuse, by methods known as "sweating" or "third degree" or by holding out a promise or hope of a reward or immunity-in short, a confession which is forced or extorted in any manner by over persuasion, promise, or threats. 29 Am J2d Ev § 543.

involuntary consent. See involuntary assent.

involuntary conveyance. See involuntary alienation.

involuntary deposit. An involuntary bailment.

See involuntary bailment.

involuntary deviation. A deviation by a ship from the voyage, neither planned nor necessarily anticipated upon leaving port.

If the circumstances under which a ship leaves port are such that it must be known that she will be compelled to deviate from her voyage, as, for example, with a shortage of fuel, the deviation is voluntary. But if the ship leaves port unseaworthy, which includes a ship badly stowed, even if it was known, she does not voluntarily deviate if she seeks a port of refuge. The Malcolm Baxter, Jr. (CA2 NY) 20 F2d 304.

Literally, there is no such thing as an "involuntary deviation," since one of the elements of a deviation is voluntariness of the departure. See 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1000.

involuntary discontinuance. The forcing of a case out of court for some error in pleading, technical omission, etc., better called an involuntary dismissal. Hunt v Griffin, 49 Miss 742.

involuntary dismissal. The dismissal of an action on motion by the defendant. 24 Am J2d Dism § 53. The ultimate dismissal by a judgment against the plaintiff upon the verdict of the jury or the decision of the court in a case tried to the court.

involuntary exposure. A merely inadvertent and unintentional exposure to a known danger, under peculiar circumstances not affording opportunity for deliberate action, or an exposure to an unknown danger, through a voluntary act. Diddle v Continental Casualty Co. 65 W Va 170, 63 SE 962.

involuntary indebtedness. An indebtedness incurred in the performance of a duty and obligation imposed by the law of the state;—a debt incurred by a county in holding a special election as directed by statute. State v Stannard, 84 Or 450, 165 P 571.

involuntary insolvency. A proceeding under a state insolvency statute brought against an alleged insolvent. 29 Am J Rev ed Insolv § 14.

See involuntary bankruptcy.

involuntary intoxication. Drunkenness characterized by an absence of exercise of independent judgment and volition in taking the intoxicant, as where intoxication results from taking drugs prescribed for medical treatment or from deception respecting the character of the substance taken. Johnson v Commonwealth, 135 Va 524, 115 SE 673, 30 ALR 755; 21 Am J2d Crim L § 108. .

involuntary losses. Losses of capital not intentionally or voluntarily incurred. New England Trust Co. v Paine, 317 Mass 542, 59 NE2d 263, 148 ALR 262.

involuntary manslaughter. The unintentional killing of another occasioned by a person engaged at the time in doing some unlawful act not amounting to a felony and not likely or naturally tending to endanger life, or engaged in the doing of a lawful act in an unlawful manner. 26 Am J1st Homi § 18. The killing of another without malice and unintentionally, (1) in doing some unlawful act not amounting to a felony or naturally tending to cause death or great bodily harm, or (2) in negligently doing some act lawful in itself, or (3) by the negligent omission to perform a legal duty. Commonwealth v Comber, 374 Pa 570, 97 A2d 343, 37 ALR2d 1058.

involuntary nonsuit. See nonsuit.

involuntary payment. A payment forced or compelled. A payment made against the will of the person who pays, that is, a payment made under some fact or circumstance which overcomes the will and imposes a necessity of payment in order to escape further ills. 40 Am J1st Paym § 162. A payment, as of taxes, made under an immediate and urgent necessity. 51 Am J1st Tax § 1185. A payment made because of some actual or threatened exercise of power possessed, or believed to be possessed, by the party exacting or receiving the payment over the person or property of another, for which the latter has no other means of immediate relief than by making the payment. 40 Am J1st Paym § 162; 51 Am J1st Tax § 1185.

involuntary peonage. A redundancy, since peonage, however arising or created, is involuntary servitude. Ex parte Hollman, 79 SC 9, 60 SE 19.

See peonage.

involuntary petition. A petition filed in a court of bankruptcy which seeks an adjudication of bankruptcy against the defendant. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 207.

involuntary plea of guilty. A plea of guilty made under such inducements as would cause an innocent person to confess guilt. Pennington v Smith, 35 Wash 2d 267, 212 P2d 811.

involuntary self-destruction. Death at one's own hand but unintended.

The expression includes all cases where a person, without intending to accomplish his own death, carelessly and negligently does acts which may naturally and probably result, and do in fact result, in death. It would thus include all cases where there exists on the part of such person any direct and immediate legal or moral responsibility for his own death. But as the term is used in a life insurance policy it would not include cases where the act of the insured contributed to shorten or terminate his life, without design or negligence on his part. Courtemanche v Independent Order of Foresters, 136 Mich 30, 98 NW 749.

involuntary separation of jury. The separation of the jurors after the submission of the cause to them, from overwhelming necessity, such as tempest, fire, or the like. Armleder v Lieberman, 33 Ohio St 77.

involuntary servitude. Compulsory labor under bondage. Slavery or peonage, except as imposed by way of punishment for a crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted.

[666]

involuntary trust. A trust founded on a contract supported by a consideration; a trust arising by operation of law. 54 Am J1st Trusts § 5. Another term for constructive trust. Newman v Newman, 60 W Va 371, 55 SE 377.

See constructive trust.

involved. Implicated; affected or concerned in some degree.

A subject matter, a question, or specific property is said to be "involved" in an action when it is "affected" or "directly affected" by such action. Williams v Western Union Tel. Co. 1 NY Civ Proc 194, 199.

in withernam. In retaliation; by way of reprisal or requital.

in witness whereof. A formal expression commonly used at the beginning of the attestation clause of any signed document, making it clear that the persons signing are witnesses.

in writing. See writing.

iodine. An antiseptic. A drug or medicine within the meaning of various statutory provisions. State Board of Pharmacy v Matthews, 197 NY 355, 90 NE 966.

iota. A Greek letter. A most minute quantity.

I.O.U. A memorandum of debt, consisting of the three letters, "I.O.U.," a statement of the amount, and debtor's signature, constituting an instrument for the unconditional payment of money only, and, according to some but not all the authorities, a promissory note. 11 Am J2d B & N § 140.

I promise to pay. The obligating phrase in a promissory note. 11 Am J2d B & N § 570.

See I, we, or either of us.

Ipsae leges cupiunt ut jure regantur. The very laws themselves are desirous of being ruled by what is right.

Ipsa utilitas justi prope mater et aequi. Utility itself is very nearly the mother of that which is just and equitable.

ipse. He, himself; himself.

Ipse dixit. He himself spoke. That is, it was his own statement not made on the authority of any precedent.

ipsis faucibus. See in ipsis faucibus.

ipsissimis verbis. By the very words themselves. Gardiner v New York Central & Hudson River R. Co. 201 NY 387, 94 NE 876.

ipsius patris bene placito. By the kindly grace of his father. See 1 Bl Comm 351.

ipso. Itself; by itself.

ipso articulo temporis. See in ipso articulo temporis.

ipso facto. By the fact itself by the very fact; by the act itself. State v Lansing, 46 Neb 514, 64 NW 1104.

ipso facto et ipso jure. By the very act and by the law itself.

ipso jure. By the law itself.

ipsum matrimonium. Marriage itself. Holt v Clarencieux (Eng) 2 Strange 937.

i. q. An abbreviation of idem quod, meaning "the same as."

I.Q. Abbreviation of intelligence quotient.

Ira furor brevis est. Anger is brief insanity.

"Short, however, as it is, the policy of the law is to restrain its natural operation. A few moments is all the toleration that can be given to it." Beardsley v Maynard (NY) 4 Wend 336, 355.

ira motus. Excited or enraged by anger or passion.

irato. See ab irato.

IRC. Abbreviation of Internal Revenue Code.

ire ad largum. To go at large; to go free of restraint.

Ireland. See Eire.

Irish corporation. A corporation incorporated in Ireland, such being a foreign corporation in England. 36 Am J2d For Corp § 1.

Irish gavelkind. A kind of land tenure under which upon the death of the proprietor there was a fresh division of all the lands in this district, including his own.

iron. A mineral. 36 Am J1st Min & M § 5. A metal. A tool made of iron. A term for a shackle.

See carry the iron; pig iron; trial by the iron.

Iron Age. One of the ages of man, characterized by the introduction of tools, weapons, and other instruments made of iron into the life of man.

iron ordeal. An ancient form of trial for crime wherein the prisoner was handed a hot iron which he carried in his hand for nine feet, whereupon his hand was bandaged and sealed to the iron and kept so for three nights. Then the bandages were removed.

If the iron was clean, he was pronounced innocent, but if unhealthy matter was found upon it, he was adjudged guilty. Sayre's Cases on Criminal Law 30.

iron ore. A substance containing iron which can be extracted by a process.

iron puddler. A person performing the process of making wrought iron from pig iron by heating and stirring it. Adcock v Smith, 97 Tenn 373, 37 SW 91.

iron safe clause. A provision, in a policy of insurance covering a stock of goods or merchandise, that the insured shall make and keep inventories and books of account which shall be kept in an iron or other fire proof safe, or other secure place, and that the insured shall, upon demand, produce such books and inventories for the inspection of the insurer, in default of which the policy shall be void. Diebold Safe & Lock Co. v Huston, 55 Kan 104, 39 P 1035; Westchester Fire Ins. Co. v Gray (Ky) 240 SW2d 825, 33 ALR2d 608.

irrebuttable presumption. Same as conclusive presumption.

irrecusable. Not to be avoided, although made an obligation without one's consent. See 8 Harvard L Rev 200.

irredeemable. Not subject to redemption.

See redemption.

irredeemable ground rent. A rent reserved to himself and his heirs by the grantor of land, out of the land itself. It is not granted like an annuity or rent charge, but is reserved out of a conveyance of the land in fee. It is a separate estate from the ownership of the ground, and is held to be real estate, with the usual characteristics of an estate in fee simple, descendible, devisable, alienable. Wilson v Iseminger, 185 US 55, 59, 46 L Ed 804, 806, 22 S Ct 573.

[667]

irregular. Lacking adherence to some prescribed rule or mode of proceeding, either in omitting to do something that is necessary for the due and orderly conduct of a suit, or in doing it in an unreasonable time or improper manner. Ex parte Gibson, 31 Cal 620, 625.

See irregularity.

irregular deposit. A deposit of money for safekeeping whereunder the depositee is not to return the specific money deposited, but he is to return an equal sum to the depositor. Rozelle v Rhodes, 116 Pa 129.

irregular heirs. (Civil law.) Those persons who took the land of a deceased person by statute in case there were neither testamentary heirs nor legal heirs.

irregular indorsement. Sometimes referred to as an "anomalous indorsement," meaning an endorsement for the purpose other than to transfer the instrument, an indorsement by a stranger to the instrument or a person not in an actual or apparent chain of title, or an indorsement made prior to delivery of the instrument to the payee, the purpose of such an indorsement usually being that of adding the indorser's credit to the instrument. 11 Am 12d B & N § 364.

irregular indorser. One who makes an irregular endorsement of a negotiable instrument.

See irregular indorsement.

irregularity. A failure to follow appropriate and necessary rules of practice or procedure, omitting some act essential to the due and orderly conduct of the action or proceeding, or doing it in an improper manner. Sache v Gillette, 101 Minn 169, 112 NW 386. A violation or nonobservance of established rules and practices. State ex rel. West v Des Moines, 96 Iowa 521, 65 NW 818. The failure to observe that particular course of proceeding which, conformably with the practice of the court, ought to have been observed in the case. Griggs v Hanson, 86 Kan 632, 121 P 1094. Such a defect as consists either in omitting to do something that is necessary to the due and orderly conduct of a suit, or doing it in an unseasonable time or improper manner. Salter v Hilgen, 40 Wis 363, 365.

The word must be given a broad enough meaning to cover a case where the court has acted upon an erroneous understanding of the facts. Such has been the practical construction placed upon it. Cooper v Rhea, 82 Kan 109, 107 P 799.

A direct violation of an ordinance in regard to the manner in which a municipal corporation shall enter into a contract is not a mere irregularity, but is a substantial defect rendering such a contract unenforceable. Holbrook v Girand, 52 Ariz 291, 80 P2d 695.

irregular judgment. A judgment rendered or entered with a want of adherence to some prescribed rule or mode of procedure, consisting either in omitting to do something that is necessary, or in doing it at an unreasonable time or in an improper manner. Murray v United Zinc Smelting Corp. (Mo) 263 SW2d 351. A judgment which, for want of conformity to the course and practice of the courts, is subject to vacation or reversal, but which may stand until vacated or reversed. Stafford v Gallops, 123 NC 19, 31 SE 265.

irregular process. Process not conforming to law. Defective process.

Sometimes the term has been defined to mean process absolutely void, and not merely erroneous and voidable, but, usually, the term has been applied to all process not issued in strict conformity with the law, whether the defects appear upon the face of the process, or by reference to extrinsic facts, and whether such defects render the process absolutely void or only voidable. Doe v Harter, 2 Ind 252, 253.

irregular water course. See intermittent water course.

irrelevancy. Want of pertinency, whether in a pleading or in evidence. Not pertinent; not forming or tendering any material issue in the case; redundant. People v McCumber, 18 NY 315. A term descriptive of the quality facts and circumstances which throw no light and have no logical relation the facts in issue which must be established by one party or disproved by the other; facts and circumstances which are remote and collateral. 29 Am J2d Ev §§ 251, 252.

irrelevant. Having the quality of irrelevancy.

See irrelevancy.

irreparable damage. See irreparable injury.

irreparable injury. As the term applies in the law of injunctions:—an injury of such a character that a fair and reasonable redress may not be had in a court of law, so that to refuse the injunction would be a denial of justice—in other words, where, from the nature of the act, or from the circumstances surrounding the person injured, or from the financial condition of the person committing it, the injury cannot be readily, adequately, and completely compensated for with money. Miller v Lawlor, 245 Iowa 1144, 66 NW2d 267, 48 ALR2d 1058.

To be irreparable, the injury need not be beyond the possibility of repair or beyond possible compensation in damages, nor need it be very great. The term "irreparable damage" does not have reference to the amount of damage caused, but rather to the difficulty of means measuring the amount of damages inflicted. 28 Am J Rev ed Inj § 48.

irrepleviable. Incapable of being recovered in an action of replevin.

irresistible force. A force incapable of being resisted, repelled or overcome; an overwhelming force, such as that of a mob.

irresistible impulse. A form of insanity, frequently termed "impulsive insanity," by which a person is irresistibly impelled to the commission of an act, for example, the killing of a person. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins Per § 3. A product of mental insanity, as distinguished from moral insanity. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 36. An impulse to commit an act, otherwise criminal, which one is powerless to control in consequence of a disease of the mind or brain, although he may be able to comprehend the nature and consequences of his act and know that it is wrong. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 36. An impulse produced by and growing out of some mental disease affecting the volitive as distinguished from the perceptive powers, so that the person afflicted, while able to understand the nature of the consequences and to perceive that the act is wrong, is unable because of such mental disease to resist the insane impulse to do it. Durham v United States, 94 App DC 228, 214 F2d 862, 45 ALR2d 1430

[668]

Insanity constituting a ground for divorce, where generated by a diseased mind. Willis v Willis (Mo App) 274 SW2d 621.

It is essential carefully to distinguish between instances of irresistible impulse and those situations where persons in the possession of their reasoning faculties are impelled by passion to the commission of acts which in their calmer moments would prove repulsive. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v Terry (US) 15 Wall 580, 21 L Ed 236.

irresistible superhuman cause. An act of God. A natural cause, the effect of which cannot be prevented by the exercise of prudence, diligence, and care, and the use of those appliances which the situation of the party renders it reasonable that he should employ. Fay v Pacific Improv. Co. 93 Cal 253, 261, 26 P 1099.

irretrievably insolvent. See hopelessly insolvent.

irreversible. Not capable of being reversed or annulled.

irrevocability. The want of power to recall or nullify a grant. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 6. The characteristic of a deed which distinguishes it from a will. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 6.

See irrevocable.

irrevocable. Not revocable at the will of one party. Re Zimmerman, 236 NY 15, 139 NE 764.

The usual meaning of the word is never to be revoked; never to be abrogated, annulled, or withdrawn. But a court will not so interpret the word when such a construction would be unreasonably harsh. Mutual Reserve Fund Life Asso. v Boyer, 62 Kan 31, 61 P 387.

Even an agreement made irrevocable by statute is revocable by the mutual consent of the parties. 5 Am J2d Arb & A § 41.

irrevocable election. An election between inconsistent remedies made by a party, with knowledge of the facts, and in the absence of fraud or imposition. 25 Am J2d Elect R § 32. Flickinger v Shaw, 87 Cal 126, 25 P 268. Also, in some jurisdictions, a license in connection with which the licensee has made expenditures in maintenance and improvement. 33 Am J1st Lic § 103.

It is a general rule that a license in the nature of a special privilege conferred by a public body may be withdrawn at the discretion of the body or sovereignty which granted it. 33 Am J1st Lic § 65.

irrigate. To convey water to or upon anything; to wet or moisten. Charnock v Higuerra, 111 Cal 473, 44 P 171.

irrigating plant. A mechanical device installed upon land for the purpose of irrigation. Gracy v Gracy, 74 Fla 63, 76 So 530.

irrigation. The artificial watering of agricultural land in regions where the rainfall is insufficient for crops; application of water to land for the production of crops, whether by channels, by flooding, or merely by sprinkling. 30 Am J Rev ed Irrig § 2.

See return flow.

Irrigation Act. See Reclamation Act.

irrigation company. A private company organized for the purpose of constructing and operating irrigation works as an independent business enterprise. A mutual company of individual landowners in association for the purpose of obtaining water and using it for the irrigation of their own lands. A company organized for the purpose of the purchase and development of tracts of arid land and the construction of irrigation works in connection with the enterprise, with the view of the subsequent sale of smaller tracts with appurtenant irrigation rights. 30 Am J Rev ed Irrig § 46. A public utility subject to regulation and control as such where it holds itself out generally to serve for compensation all who may apply for water within the area served by its irrigation system. 30 Am J Rev ed Irrig § 47.

irrigation district. An improvement district established under government authority to accomplish the purpose of irrigation by the united efforts of landowners. 30 Am J Rev ed Irrig § 60. A public debtor within the meaning of the provisions of the Bankruptcy Act for the composition of the indebtedness of certain public agencies or instrumentalities. 9 Am J2d Bankr § 1416. Sometimes regarded as a governmental subdivision. Platt Valley & I. Dist. v Lincoln County, 144 Neb 584, 14 NW2d 202, 155 ALR 412. Not a public service corporation in the sense of being a common carrier, since its operations are confined to the business of carrying and supplying water for the irrigation of lands within its area. Stephenson v Pioneer Irrigation Dist. 49 Idaho 189, 69 ALR 1225, 288 P 421.

irritancy. Becoming void; making void; avoiding.

irritant. Rendering void or null.

irritant clause. A clause in a deed or other instrument containing a condition the happening of which will render the instrument void.

irritant poison. A poison such as arsenic which, when administered internally, causes severe irritation of some or all parts of the alimentary canal.

The most general effect of irritant poisoning is acute inflammation of the stomach. Joe v State, 6 Fla 591, 605.

irritus. Ineffectual; void.

irrogare. (Civil law.) To inflict; to impose; to levy; as, a tax.

irrotulatio. An enrollment; a record; a roll.

is cui cognoscitur. He to whom it is acknowledged; a cognizee.

Islam. The Mohammedan religion and its followers.

See Mohammedanism.

island. A body of land surrounded by water. 56 Am J1st Wat § 504.

To constitute an island in a river, the formation or body must be of a permanent character, not merely surrounded by water when the river is high, but permanently surrounded by a channel of the river, and not a sand bar subject to overflow by the rise of the river and connected with the main land when the river is low, but it is not necessary that the formation on the bed of the river and extending above its surface be suitable for agricultural purposes in order to constitute it an island. Howler v Wood, 73 Kan 511, 85 P 763.

isolated transaction. A transaction which stands alone, not one of repeated or successive transactions. Brannan, Beckham & Co. v Ramsaur, 41 Ga App 166, 152 SE 282.

isolation hospital. A hospital wherein persons having contagious diseases are confined.

isotope. See radioisotope.

[669]

is qui cognoscit. He who acknowledges; a cognizor.

issint. Thus.

issuable. Prepared and ready for issue, as bonds. Capable of being raised as an issue.

issuable facts. Ultimate facts, as distinguished from matters of evidence. Heyward v Long, 178 SC 351, 183 SE 145, 114 ALR 1130.

issuable plea. A plea which goes to the merits of the case. Welsh v Blackwell, 14 NJL 344, 346.

issuable terms. The terms of court at which the issues were made up for the assizes. See 3 Bl Comm 353.

issuance. The act of issuing.

See issue.

issue. Verb: To come forth; to come out. To put forth, as to issue corporate securities. Noun: That which is issued at a particular time, as a bond issue. An increment, product, profit, or crop arising from real estate. 33 Am J1st Life Est § 313. All the copies of a newspaper or magazine issued at one time. An essential of the proper disposition of a case in court; a single, certain, and material point or question arising out of the pleadings of the parties, being either of law or of fact. 41 Am J1st Pl § 362.

All the persons who may occupy the position of a descendant of one ancestor, Re Farmers' Loan & Trust Co. 213 NY 168, 107 NE 340, 2 ALR 910; embracing all future descendants. 57 Am J1st Wills §§ 1377-1384. Including, when used in a deed, descendants of every degree in the absence of an explanatory context to the contrary. 23 Am J2d Deeds § 216. Under a power to appoint to "issue:" –not limited to children but including descendants in any degree, unless an intent to limit to children is apparent. 41 Am J1st Pow § 58. But sometimes construed, when it appears in a will, as meaning "children" and not including grandchildren. Watterson v Thompson, 404 Ill 515, 89 NE2d 381, 14 ALR2d 1239.

Prima facie a word of limitation equivalent to "heirs of the body." 57 Am J1st Wills §§ 1377-1384.

A word of limitation creating an estate tail. 28 Am J2d Est § 51. But not a technical word either of limitation or of purchase, readily yielding to construction in this respect in accordance with the intention of the testator or grantor. 28 Am J2d Est § 120. Construed as a word of purchase in a will where the context of the instrument demands such construction. 28 Am J2d Est § 43. A word of limitation or of purchase in a will depending upon a sound construction of the instrument. 57 Am J1st Wills §§ 1377 et seq. Appearing in a deed ordinarily as a word of limitation, but as a word of purchase if the grantee has issue living at the time of the deed or if the context of the deed shows that the word is not used in a technical sense but refers specifically to children. Anno: 114 ALR 619.

issue at law. A question or point of law arising in a case upon demurrer or motion.

Under the equity practice of submitting an issue at law to be tried by a jury, the words "issue at law" mean such an issue as has always been known and employed in the administration of equity jurisprudence. Brady v Carteret Co. 70 NJ Eq 748, 64 A 1078.

issue begotten of her body. As the phrase appears in a will, sometimes but not necessarily indicating "children." 57 Am J1st Wills § 1380.

issue by marriage. Children, except as the entire context indicates to the contrary. Anno: 2 ALR 937.

issue devisavit vel non. See devisavit vel non.

issue extinct. See possibility of issue extinct. issue in law. See issue at law.

issue joined. See joinder of issue.

issue legally begotten. Sometimes, but not necessarily, importing inheritance and procreation, thereby, as a limitation, creating a fee simple conditional. 28 Am J2d Est § 41.

issue of fact. A single, certain, and material part of dispute arising upon a denial of a material allegation in the adversary's pleading, or where by force of statute a material allegation is to be considered controverted without further pleading. 41 Am J1st Pl § 362. Such an issue as is made by the pleadings in a civil action, where the facts alleged, constituting the cause of action, are denied. Dean v Willamette Bridge R. Co. 22 Or 167, 29 P 440.

Arising when a fact or conclusion of fact is maintained by one party, and is controverted by the other in the pleadings. Harris v San Francisco Sugar Refining Co. 41 Cal 393, 404.

In a criminal prosecution an issue of fact may arise upon a plea of not guilty, or upon a plea of former conviction, or acquittal of the same crime. State v Walton, 50 Or 142, 91 P 490.

issue of his body. Words of limitation converting a fee simple into a fee tail, being words of inheritance as well as words of procreation. 28 Am J2d Est § 51.

issue of patent. The grant of letters patent for an invention upon application made therefor, together with a description and a drawing, specimen, or model of the device. 40 Am J1st Pat §§ 40 et seq.

issue of riens per descent. See riens per descent.

issuer. In general one who issues something. A person who places or authorizes the placing of his name on a security (otherwise than as authenticating trustee, registrar transfer agent, or the like) to evidence that it represents a share, participation, or other interest in his property or in an enterprise or to evidence his duty to perform an obligation evidenced by the security; directly or indirectly creates fractional interests in his rights or property which fractional interests are evidenced by securities; or becomes responsible for or in place of any other person described as an issuer. UCC § 8-201(1).

issue roll. A record upon which the issues in an action were entered as soon as they were reached by the pleadings filed.

issues. See issue.

issuing bonds. See bond issue.

issuing execution. See issuing writ of process.

issuing insurance policy. A phrase variously construed:-(1) the signing and execution of the policy by the officers of the insurance company; (2) act of delivery of the policy fully executed; (3) the certain date indicated by the policy as the effective date. 29 Am J Rev ed Ins § 312.

issuing money. The act of the government in putting coins and bills into circulation, the purpose being to have them circulate as money. 36 Am J1st Money §§ 11 et seq.

[670]

issuing negotiable instrument. The first delivery of a negotiable instrument complete in form to a person taking it as a holder. Uniform Negotiable Instruments L § 191.

An instrument is "issued" rather than negotiated to the original payee. Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. v Central Nat. Bank, 159 Ohio St 423, 50 Ohio Ops 364, 112 NE2d 636; Texas Gulf Trust Co. v Notias (Tex Civ App) 352 SW2d 925 error ref n r e.

issuing stock. All the process of authorizing, executing, and delivering the certificates of stock to the subscribers, thereby conferring upon and vesting in them the rights and privileges of stockholders. Majestic Household Utilities Corp. v Stratton, 353 Ill 86, 186 NE 522, 89 ALR 852; Don Johnston Drilling Co. v Howard (Okla) 347 P2d 640, 78 ALR2d 824.

Something more than merely procuring contracts of subscription to the stock of the corporation not in being, but which maybe organized in the future. Felton v Highlands Hotel Co. 165 Ga 598, 141 SE 793, 57 ALR 987.

The issuance of new stock certificates to replace lost certificates or to evidence a stock transfer, or upon a split up of outstanding existing shares of stock, does not involve "issuance of new or additional stock," within a statute subjecting a public service corporation to the payment of a fee for each authorized "issue of securities." Lake Superior Dist. Power Co. v Public Service Com. 250 Wis 39, 26 NW2d 278, 170 ALR 680.

When certificates of stock are officially executed and delivered by a corporation to its stockholders they are "issued" in the ordinary sense, but when such stock is called in and canceled as of record the original shares can no longer be said to be "issued." Majestic Household Utilities Corp. v Stratton, 353 Ill 86, 186 NE 522, 89 ALR 852.

issuing writ or process. The preparing, signing, sealing, and delivering of the writ or process to the sheriff or other proper officer for service or levy. Ball v Jones (Fla) 65 So 2d 3, 37 ALR2d 922; Pease v Ritchie, 132 Ill 638, 24 NE 433.

ita. Thus; so.

Ita est. It is thus; it is so.

Ita lex scriptis est. The law is thus written; such is the written law. Hawaii v Mankichi, 190 US 197, 248, 47 L Ed 1016, 1034, 23 S Ct 787.

ita quod. So that.

Ita semper fiat relatio ut valeat dispositio. Let the reference always be so made that the disposition may prevail.

Ita te Deus adjuvet. So help you God.

Ita utere tuo ut alienum non laedas. So use your own property that you do not injure that of another.

it being understood. Words of qualification; the equivalent of:-if such and such is true, then it is agreed. Phoenix Iron & Steel Co. v Wilkoff Co. (CA6 Ohio) 253 F 165, 1 ALR 1497. A phrase which, appearing in a grant, imports a covenant rather than a condition. 28 Am J2d Est § 146.

item. A particular, a detail; a distinct and severable part.

itemize. To state in items or by particulars. Lovell v Sny Island Levee Drainage Dist. 159 Ill 188, 42 NE 600.

item of gross income. Any item or amount which affects gross income as such exists for the purpose of an income tax. Anno: 54 ALR2d 573.

items of appropriation. The distinct subjects of appropriation in an appropriation bill. Anno: 35 ALR 602.

iter. A footway. Jones v Venable, 120 Ga 1, 47 NE 549.

iteratio. An iteration; a repetition.

Iter est jus eundi, ambulandi hominis, non etiam jumentum agendi vel vehiculum. A way is a right of going or walking by man, and not of driving a beast of burden or a vehicle.

I think. Not necessarily indicating a conclusion; consistent with considering the testimony of a witness, who uses the expression as a preface, as a matter of his own observation and recollection. Losey v Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railway Co. 84 Kan 224, 114 P 198. An expression capable of construction as an allegation of fact. 41 Am J1st Perj § 9.

itinera. Plural of iter.

itinerant. Traveling from place to place; wandering; a person who roams or travels from place to place.

itinerant dealer. One who establishes himself in business in a locality with the intention and determination to remain there for a short period of time only, whether such period is a definite or indefinite one, such as a period of one or more weeks or months, or until a particular stock of merchandise is disposed of, or until the local market for the commodity handled by the dealer has been exhausted, and who for such limited period engages or occupies a building or other place for the exhibition and sale of his goods or wares. Anno: 94 ALR 1084, 1088. Sometimes called an "itinerant merchant." Carrolton v Bazzette, 159 111284, 42 NE 837. Distinguished from a peddler in the respect that he has a definite place for the exhibition and sale of his goods, however temporary his stay at such place may be. Anno: 94 ALR 1083.

itinerant domicil. The domicil of a person in the course of a trip from an old to a new home, such being the old domicil until the new is reached. 25 Am J2d Dom § 35.

itinerant merchant. Same as itinerant dealer.

itinerant photographer. A photographer without any fixed place of business who obtains his orders by soliciting them from house to house or place of business to place of business. Anno: 116 ALR 1377, s. 134 ALR 1382.

itinerant physician. A physician not entitled to a license to practice, because of the want of a fixed place for the practice of his profession and further because of the solicitation of patients. Anno: 61 ALR 346.

itinerant vender. A hawker, peddler, or itinerant merchant.

A statutory definition of the term includes all persons, both principal and agents, who engage in a temporary or transient business in this state, either in one locality or in traveling from place to place selling goods, wares, and merchandise, and who, for the purposes of carrying on such business, hire, lease, or occupy any building or structure for the exhibition and sale of such goods, wares, and merchandise. A person having a permanent place of business may still be an itinerant vender elsewhere within the state. State v Foster, 22 RI 163, 46 A 833.

[671]

See hawker; itinerant merchant; peddler.

itinere. See durante itinere; in itinere.

it is lawful. A permissive term in a statute, especially where the act involved does not affect third persons, and is not clearly beneficial to them, or to the public generally. 50 Am J Stat § 28.

it is understood. Same as it being understood.

I, we, or either of us. A series of pronouns referring to the makers of a promissory note, the effect of which is to render the promise to pay joint and several. 11 Am J2d B & N § 587.

J

J. An abbreviation of judge, also of justice.

J. A. An abbreviation of judge advocate.

ja. Now; yet. Yes, in German.

Jac. I. An abbreviation of Jacobus 1, meaning James I.

Jac. II. An abbreviation of Jacobus 11, meaning James II.

jacens. Lying down; in abeyance.

jacens haereditas. An estate which is lying in abeyance.

jacet in ore. It lies in the mouth.

jack. A male, especially a male jackass.

See lifting jack; standing jacks, jackass. A male donkey, one of the characteristics of which is the making of a loud noise called braying. 4 Am J2d Ani § 22. A silly or stupid person; a person whose purposes of accomplishment are ill-conceived and unfortunate in result.

jacket. A cover, especially the cover on a book to protect it while on shelf for sale. A coat.

See straightjacket.

Jack Ketch. A name sometimes given to an English hangman or executioner.

jackknifing. A familiar cause of highway accidents, being a movement of a trailer contrary to the movement of the tractor, so that, joined together, they bend in the middle. 8 Am J2d Auto § 715.

The movement known as jackknifing will result from the application of brakes to the tractor without putting on the brakes of the trailer. Fruehauf Trailer Co. v Gusewelle (CA8 Mo) 190 F2d 248, cert den 342 US 866, 96 L Ed 651, 72 S Ct 105.

Jack of lent. An effigy personifying the lenten season.

jackpot. A game of chance. Anno: 135 ALR 129. The stake in a game of chance, particularly a game of cards in which the stake is cumulative with the progression in the betting. The amount in a slot machine which may be released to a winner.

jactitation. A false boast. In medical terminology, any involuntary convulsive muscular movement. Leman v Manhattan Life Ins. Co. 46 La Ann 1189, 15 So 388.

jactitation of marriage. The wrongful boasting or giving out by a person that he or she is married to a certain person, contrary to the fact, whereby a common rumor of their marriage may ensue. See 3 Bl Comm 93.

jactitation of tithes. A person's false boasting of his right to take tithes.

jactitation of title. An action, the object of which is to force a party who is not in possession, but who asserts a right to the property out of court, to come into court and disclaim or assert the right judicially. The procedure used in some jurisdictions to recover damages for slander of title. 33 Am J1st L & S § 354.

jactivus. Thrown away; cast away; lost.

jactura. A word used in the civil law with the same meaning as the English word jettison.

jactura evitanda. See de jactura evitanda.

jactus. A throwing; a cast; a throw. Jettison. Barnard v Adams (US) 10 How 270, 303, 13 L Ed 417, 431.

jactus lapilli. Throwing down a stone.

Under the civil law this was an act which was symbolic of an assertion of right or title in land and was employed to bar the acquisition of a prescriptive right or title by adverse possession.

jail. A prison pertaining to a county or municipality in which are confined for punishment persons convicted of misdemeanors committed in the county or municipality; also a place in which persons accused of crime, who are not able to furnish bail, or are not entitled to furnish bail, pending action by the grand jury, or the filing of an information, are confined, prior to being brought on for trial. 41 Am J1st Pris & P § 2.

See common jail; lockup; state jail.

jail breaking. The offense of breaking out of a jail through any confining wall by force or violence.

A mere constructive breaking, as by walking out through an open door, or an escape accomplished by stratagem is not a jail breaking, unless accompanied by force, but force used to overcome a jailer or turnkey is sufficient. State v Clark, 121 Kan 816, 250 P 300.

jail delivery. The clearing out or ridding a jail of the persons committed there to await their trials, by disposing of their cases. See 4 Bl Comm 270.

jail delivery judges. See judges of gaol delivery.

jailer. The custodian or keeper of a jail. 41 Am J1st Pris & P § 5. A public officer subject to the commands of courts to receive and retain prisoners committed to their custody by legal process. 41 Am J1st Pris & P § 10.

jail liberties. See liberties of the jail.

jail limits. See liberties of the jail.

jake. A slang term for Jamaica ginger. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 19.

Jamaica ginger. An extract of ginger with an alcoholic content. State v Intoxicating Liquors & Vessels, 118 Me 98, 106 A 711, 4 ALR 1128. Generally regarded as an intoxicating liquor because of its use as an intoxicant. 30 Am J Rev ed Intox L § 19.

James I. James the First, the king of England from March 24th, 1603, to March 27th, 1625.

James II. James the Second, the king of England from February 6th, 1685, to 1689.

jamundilingi. Same as jamunlingi.

jamunlingi. Freeman who voluntarily placed themselves and their property under the duties of subjection and service of a man of wealth in order to secure his protection.

janitor. A person who cares for a building, such as an apartment house, in respect of keeping it clean and orderly. A doorkeeper.

Japanese curfew. A restriction in the form of a curfew established by executive order against all persons of Japanese ancestry residing in the West Coast Military Area during the war between the

[673]

United States and Japan. Yasui v United States, 320 US 115, 87 L Ed 1793, 63 S Ct 1392.

Japanese evacuation. The evacuation of Japanese from certain areas on the West Coast and their relocation elsewhere at the beginning of the war with Japan, as authorized by Act of March 21, 1942 and Executive Orders 9066, 9102.

Japanese exclusion. A policy, since abrogated, of excluding Japanese, along with other members of the yellow race, from immigration. Japanese Immigrant Case (Yamataya v Fisher) 189 US 86, 47 L Ed 721, 23 S Ct 611. The former policy, since abrogated, of excluding Japanese, along with other members of the yellow race, from naturalization. Re Yamashita, 30 Wash 234, 70 P 482. The exclusion of Japanese from certain areas on the West Coast at the beginning of the war with Japan, as authorized by Act of March 21, 1942 and Executive Order 9066.

jar. A container, usually earthenware. A shock. The technical name for a tool used by oil well drillers to dislodge objects which have become fastened in a well. Raymond v Wickersham, 27 Cost & Pat App 1079, 110 F2d 863.

Jason Clause. A clause in a maritime bill of lading, the effect of which is to invest the master of the carrying vessel with authority and responsibility to act directly for cargo in relation to contribution in general average. Aktieselskabet Cuzco v The Sucarseco, 294 US 394, 79 L Ed 942, 55 S Ct 467.

jaundice. A disease characterized by the presence of bile in the blood; sometimes resulting from transfusions of blood following an injury. Duvall v T. W. A. 98 Cal App 2d 106, 219 P2d 463. Often developing as a direct result of injuries. Helms v Leonard (DC Va) 170 F Supp 143.

javelour. A jailer.

jaw-strap. An iron bar on a railroad car used for hauling coal, running below and between the ends of the axles under the body of the car. Coates v Boston & Maine Railroad, 153 Mass 297, 26 NE 864.

jaywalking. A pedestrian crossing a street diagonally, or at other than right angles, or crossing at a place other than an intersection or designated crossing. 7 Am J2d Auto § 243.

J. C. D. Abbreviation of Doctor of Civil Law.

J. D. Abbreviation of Doctor of Laws.

Jedburgh justice. An ancient name for modern lynch law, under which a prisoner is put to death without a trial.

Sir Walter Scott refers to a species of lynching when he refers to what was called "Jedwood" justice, "hang in haste and try at leisure." State v Lewis, 142 NC 626, 55 SE 600.

Jeddart justice. Same as Jedburgh justice.

Jedwood justice. Apparently the same as Jedburgh justice.

jeep. A small but sturdy motor vehicle adaptable to the purposes of a small truck as well as to the carrying of passengers, but not a passenger automobile of the pleasure-car type. Pennell v United Ins. Co. 150 Tex 541, 243 SW2d 572.

Jehovah's Witnesses. A religious sect, the practices of which in living up to the precepts of their belief have brought them into litigation repeatedly, particularly criminal prosecutions.

The Witnesses claim and are entitled to the constitutional guaranties of freedom of speech and of religion within the conditions of the application of such guaranties. 12 Am J2d Breach P § 14.

Jencks Act. A federal statute the major concern of which is with limiting and regulating defense access to government papers, the provision being that in any criminal prosecution brought by the United States, no statement or report in the possession of the United States which was made by a government witness or prospective government witness (other than the defendant) to an agent of the government shall be the subject of subpoena, discovery, or inspection until said witness has testified on direct examination in the trial of the case. 18 USC § 3500; Palermo v United States, 360 US 343, 3 L Ed 2d 1287, 79 S Ct 1217.

jennet. A female donkey.

jeofail. A mistake or error in a pleading.

jeofaile. Same as jeofail.

jeofail statute. A statute curing imperfections in pleading, civil or criminal. Witte Iron Works v Holmes, 62 Mo App 372.

jeopardy. Danger. In a criminal case, the danger of punishment which the defendant incurs when brought to trial before a court of competent jurisdiction, on an indictment, presentment, or information which is sufficient in form and substance to sustain a conviction, and a jury has been charged with his deliverance. 21 Am J2d Crim L §§ 169 et seq.

See prior jeopardy.

jepardy. Same as jeopardy.

jerguer. An English customs officer.

jerk. A sudden movement of a railroad car occurring as a result of the stress produced by a sudden start or stop of the train. Foley v Boston & Maine R. Co. 193 Mass 339, 79 NE 765. A sudden moving of the body or a part of the body by an abrupt application of force, as where a motor vehicle in which a person is riding suddenly stops. A slang term for a silly person.

See lurch.

Jerusalem assizes. See assizes of Jerusalem.

jest. A joke. A remark made in a taunting manner.

jet. An airplane propelled by jets of gas and developing great speed as compared with an airplane powered by the conventional piston engine.

jet routes. The routes prescribed by the Federal Aviation Agency for jet planes. 14 CFR §§ 600.1 et seq.

jetsam. Goods cast into the sea in order to save a ship, or by shipwreck, which sink and remain under water. 48 Am J1st Ship § 647. A subject of salvage. 47 Am J1st Salv § 3.

jetsom. Same as jetsam.

jetsome. Same as jetsam.

jettage. A tax laid on incoming ships.

jetting. A technical term of the construction industry for the process of filling an excavation with the same material as that removed in excavating and soaking the fill with water. Leo F. Piazza Paving Co. v Bebek & Brkich, 141 Cal App 2d 226, 296 P2d 368, 369, footnote.

jettison. The voluntary casting overboard of part of the cargo in order to relieve the ship in distress. 48 Am J1st Ship § 633. A peril of the sea within the meaning of a marine insurance policy. 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1314.

[674]

jetty. A structure, usually in the form of a wall, sometimes a dam built and extending into a river or other body of water for the purpose of deflecting the current, thereby protecting a harbor by deepening the channel and strengthening the banks of the stream. Morton v Oregon Short Line Railroad Co. 48 Or 444, 87 P 151.

jeux de bourse. (French.) Speculations in stocks or futures.

jewelry. Ornaments used for personal adornment. Anno: 40 ALR2d 871. Inclusive also of useful articles such as a watch, tie-clasp, etc. Rains v Maxwell House Co. 112 Tenn 219, 79 SW 114. Including gems, whether mounted or unmounted. Automobile Ins. Co. v Denny (CA8 Mo) 206 F2d 401, 40 ALR2d 865.

Jewish interest. An expression, common in England in an older day, for usury.

Jews. The chosen people of the Old Testament. Persons whose ancestors were the ancient Hebrews.

See Judaism.

jigsaw puzzle. A puzzle in the assembling of the severed parts of a picture, presenting a problem requiring ingenuity in solution; not a game within the meaning of a tax on games. White v Aronson, 303 US 16, 82 L Ed 20, 58 S Ct 95.

Jim Crow car. A car provided by a carrier for the carriage of colored passengers only, such passengers not being permitted to ride in coaches with whites; an instrumentality of unlawful segregation. 15 Am J2d Civ R § 35.

jim-jams. A slang term for delirium tremens, also slang for a nervousness, even for a belly-ache.

jimmy. A prying-bar used by burglars for opening doors and windows. United States ex rel. Guarino v Uhl (CA2 NY) 107 F2d 401.

jitney. An automobile which carries passengers on a regular route for a relatively small fare. Memphis v State, 133 Tenn 83, 179 SW 631. A competitor of the streetcar in an older day. Columbia v Alexander, 125 SC 530, 119 SE 241, 32 ALR 746. A slang expression for a nickle.

jitney bus. Same as jitney.

jitters. A slang term for nervousness.

JJ. An abbreviation of "judges."

J. K. B. An abbreviation of "justice of the king's bench." jobber. A middleman, a dealer in merchandise who buys from the manufacturer, wholesaler, or importer and sells to retailers. Steward v Winters (NY) 4 Sandf Ch 587, 590. One who does piece work.

See piece work.

jobbers' association. An association by the jobbers of a locality for the purpose of obtaining cooperation in purchasing and distribution of commodities. Arkansas Brokerage Co. v Dunn (CA8) 173 F 899.

jobbery. A form of extortion; the misuse of a public office for private gain.

job differential. A circumstance such as undesirable hours, disagreeable work, or danger in the work, for which wages are paid at premium rates. Bay Ridge Operating Co. v Aaron, 334 US 446, 92 L Ed 1502, 68 S Ct 1186.

job lot. A commercial term for goods of various kinds or of various makes brought together for sale in one lot. 46 Am J1st Sales § 361.

job printing. The business or occupation of furnishing special printed matter upon orders from customers, such as letterheads, calling cards, circulars, mail-order catalogues, printed briefs of attorneys, etc.

job selling. A term of the profession for fee-splitting.

See division of fees.

jocalia. Jewels.

joclet. A small farm.

jockey. Verb: To maneuver for position or advantage. Noun: A person employed by the owner to ride a horse in a race. Moore v Clarke, 171 Md 39, 187 A 887, 107 ALR 924.

jocus. A game of chance.

jocus partitus. An ancient means of deciding a case by chance.

John. The king of England from May 27th, 1199, to October 19th, 1216.

John XXIII. His Holiness, The Pope, 1958-1963, revered by Roman-Catholic, Protestant, and Jew alike, as an enlightened, progressive, and gracious spiritual leader.

John Doe. A fictitious name of a person which is often substituted in an action or proceeding for a party's real name until the latter can be ascertained.

John Doe action. An action brought against "John Doe" as an unknown uninsured motorist. 7 Am J2d Auto Ins § 137. Any action in which the defendant is designated as "John Doe," his real name being unknown to the plaintiff.

John Doe summons. A summons in which the name of the defendant being unknown to the plaintiff at time of issuance, the defendant is designated as John Doe, his true name to be added after service. 42 Am J1st Proc § 16.

John Doe warrant. A warrant for the arrest of a person designated as John Doe or by some other fictitious name because his real name is unknown. 5 Am J2d Arr § 9.

Johnson Act. A federal statute which limits the jurisdiction of the federal courts in state tax cases to cases where the state courts do not give a plain, speedy and efficient remedy. 28 USC § 1341.

join. To unite; to act jointly with another person or with other persons; to act together; as where a husband and wife join or act together in the execution of a deed. Nolan v Moore, 96 Tex 341, 72 SW 583.

joinder. Acting jointly with one or more other persons; joining.

joinder in demurrer. The formal acceptance by the adverse party to an action of the issue of law which is tendered by a party's demurrer to such adverse party's pleading.

joinder in issue. A party's formal acceptance of the tender of an issue of fact which is made by the pleadings on file in the action.

See joinder of issue.

joinder of actions. See consolidation of actions; joinder of causes of action.

[675]

joinder of causes of action. Union of two or more causes of action, each of which could be made the basis of a separate suit, in the same complaint, declaration, bill, or petition. Linseott v Linscott, 243 Iowa 335, 51 NW2d 428, 30 ALR2d 789. An impropriety in joining in one and the same count different causes of action of the same nature or of different natures in support of a single right of recovery. 41 Am J1st Pl § 44.

See joinder of counts.

joinder of counts. The inclusion in a complaint, declaration, or petition, of two or more counts intended to present separate causes of action or to plead the same count in different ways in order to meet any possible phase of the evidence. 41 Am J1st Pl § 106. The joinder of distinct offenses by including separate counts in an indictment or information, each count being in legal effect a separate indictment or information. 27 Am J1st Indict § 129.

joinder of defenses. Different and distinct defenses set up in the same plea or answer. 41 Am J1st Pl § 161.

joinder of issue. The raising and presentation for trial of an issue of fact. 41 Am J1st Pl § 362. In a criminal case, a plea of not guilty in response to an indictment information or complaint. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 458.

joinder of motions. Presenting two or more motions as one, sometimes resulting in a combination of demands for relief of a different nature, depending on different facts and circumstances wholly unrelated. 37 Am J1st Motions § 68.

joinder of offenses. The charging of two or more offenses in separate counts in a single indictment, information or presentment. 27 Am J1st Indict § 129. Duplicity in the joinder of two or more distinct and separate offenses in the same count of an indictment or information. 27 Am J1st Indict § 124.

joinder of parties. The uniting of two or more parties as plaintiffs or as defendants in an action or suit. See 39 Am J1st Parties §§ 24 et seq.

See fraudulent joinder.

joined. United.

joint. Adjective: Operating or acting in unity. Merrill v Pepperdine, 9 Ind App 416, 36 NE 921. Noun: Slang for a restaurant, cigar store, pool hall, or similar place, of an inferior quality, especially one frequented by criminals, narcotic addicts, pimps, or prostitutes. State v Shoaf, 179 NC 744, 102 SE 705, 9 ALR 426, 428.

joint action. An action which is prosecuted or defended by two or more persons acting for their common interest.

joint administrators. Two or more persons duly appointed, qualified, and acting in the administration of a decedent's estate. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad §§ 624 et seq.

joint adventure. The relationship created when two or more persons combine in a joint business enterprise for their mutual benefit with the understanding that they are to share in the profits or losses and that each is to have voice in its management. Chisholm v Gilmer (CA4 Va) 81 F2d 120, affd 299 US 99, 81 L Ed 63, 57 S Ct 65, reh den 299 US 623, 81 L Ed 458, 57 S Ct 229. An association of persons in a single business enterprise for profit, for which purpose they combine their property, money, effects, skill, and knowledge, without forming a partnership or corporation. Summers v Hoffman, 341 Mich 686, 69 NW2d 198, 48 ALR2d 1033; Brooks v Brooks, 357 Mo 343, 208 SW2d 279, 4 ALR2d 826. More precisely, an association of persons with intent, by way of contract, express or implied, to engage in and carry out a single business adventure for joint profit, for which purpose they combine their efforts, property, money, skill, and knowledge, but without creating a partnership in the legal or technical sense of the term, or a corporation, and they agree that there shall be a community of interest among them as to the purpose of the undertaking, and that each coadventurer shall stand in the relation of principal, as well as agent, as to each of the other coadventurers, with an equal right of control of the means employed to carry out the common purpose of the adventure. 30 Am J Rev ed Jut Adv § 2.

See joint enterprise.

joint agency. An agency conferred on two or more persons which is to be exercised jointly by the designated agents, the principal having bargained for and obtained the combined personal ability, experience, judgment, integrity, and other personal qualities of the agents. Egner v States Realty Co. 223 Minn 305, 26 NW2d 464, 170 ALR 500.

joint and mutual will. A will executed jointly by two persons, the provisions of which are reciprocal, and which shows on its face that the devises are made one in consideration of the other. 57 Am J1st Wills §§ 680 et seq.

joint and several. A term importing unity, as distinguishing from separate or several which implies division or distribution. Merrill v Pepperdine, 9 Ind App 416, 36 NE 921.

joint and several bond. A bond in which the obligors are, by its terms, bound both jointly and individually to pay the full amount of the bond.

The rule is that where an instrument worded in the singular is executed by several, the obligation is a joint and several one, and those who so execute it may be sued either separately or together. It is not necessary to use the technical words "joint and several" in the bond in order to make the obligation thereunder a joint and several one; it is sufficient for this purpose if any of the terms import the meaning of a joint and several obligation. 12 Am J2d Bonds § 29.

joint and several contract. A contract with two or more contracting parties on one side, presenting distinct engagements and rights, each contractor being liable and entitled individually and the two or more of them being liable and entitled jointly. 17 Am J2d Contr § 298.

The use of the pronoun "we" usually creates a joint obligation, although despite the use of that word, the language of some contracts permits of a construction that the parties were intended to be bound severally as well as jointly. If an instrument worded in the singular is executed by several parties, the obligation is a joint and several one. 17 Am J2d Contr § 298.

joint and several covenant. A covenant under which the two or more covenantees on one side bear the burden or receive the benefit not only jointly, but severally. 20 Am J2d Cov § 10.

joint and several demurrer. A demurrer in which the parties demurring to a pleading assail it both collectively and individually.

[676]

A demurrer may be joint, several, or both joint and several as to the parties demurring; for the defendants may assail the complaint collectively or individually, or collectively and individually. Merrill v Pepperdine, 9 Ind App 416, 36 NE 921.

joint and several judgment. A judgment against two or more parties and each of them. Tucker v Gautier, 196 Okla 267, 164 P2d 613. A judgment in the ordinary form as taken against two or more defendants.

joint and several liability. The liability of joint tortfeasors. 52 Am J1st Torts § 110. The liability of the two or more contracting parties on one side under an agreement in such terms as to engage the two or more jointly and each one individually.

See joint and several bond; joint and several contract; joint tortfeasors.

joint and several note. A promissory note which is the note of all and of each of the makers as to its legal obligation between the parties to it.

A promissory note in the form, "I promise to pay," etc., and signed by two persons is as much a joint and several note as one which reads, "We jointly and severally promise to pay," similarly signed. Ladd v Baker, 26 NH 76; UCC § 118(e) and Comment 6; Uniform Negotiable Instruments L § 17(7).

joint and survivorship annuity. An annuity contract providing for payments to be made during the lives of two annuitants and to continue, after the death of one, for the life of the surviving annuitant. 4 Am J2d Annu § 6.

joint and survivorship estate. A joint tenancy; an estate held by two or more jointly to continue during their joint lives and to vest upon the death of one in the remaining joint tenant or joint tenants, and so on, in a case of more than two joint tenants, until the survivor of all of them takes the entire estate.

joint appeal. A proceeding on appeal or in error in which two or more parties join. 4 Am J2d A & E § 276.

joint authorship. Joint participation in the production of a literary work giving rise to joint ownership. Silverman v Sunrise Pictures Corp. (CA2 NY) 273 F 909, 19 ALR 289.

joint bank account. A bank account in the names of two or more persons which may or may not embrace a survivorship feature. A bank account so created that two persons shall be joint owners during their mutual lives, and the survivor take the whole on the death of the other. 10 Am J2d Bks § 369.

joint bill of exceptions. A bill of exceptions filed by appellant in which the respondent has incorporated his exceptions. 4 Am J2d A & E § 440.

joint bond. A bond on which the obligors are only liable in combination, that is, jointly, and not severally. Municipal Court v Whaley, 25 RI 289, 55 A 750.

See joint and several bond.

joint cause of action. A cause of action pleaded by the obligees under a joint contract, also a cause pleaded by two or more persons upon claims presenting a single question of law or fact common to all the plaintiffs. Commodores Point Terminal Co. v Hudnall (DC Fla) 283 F 150.

Joint Chiefs of Staff. A body in the Department of Defense headed by a chairman and made up as follows:—Chief of Staff of the Army, Chief of Naval Operations, Chief of Staff of the Air Force, and the Commandant of the Marine Corps.

Joint Committee on Atomic Energy. A committee of Congress established by the Atomic Energy Act, with the authority and duty to make continuing studies of activities of the Atomic Energy Commission and of problems relating to the development, use, and control of atomic energy, and to conduct hearings on the state of the atomic energy industry. 42 USC § 2252.

joint contract. A contract under which an obligation is incurred by or a right given to two or more persons, there being absent any distinct word of severance indicating or producing a several responsibility or right. Dean v Dean, 229 SC 430, 93 SE2d 206.

See joint and several contract.

joint covenant. A covenant made with two or more covenantees who carry the burden or receive the benefit as one person. 20 Am J2d Cov § 10.

See joint and several covenant.

joint creditors. Creditors who can only enforce their claims by acting together; the obligees under a contract giving them joint rights.

See joint contract.

joint debtors. Persons who are jointly indebted. Walsh v Miller, 51 Ohio St 462, 487, 38 NE 381. The obligors under a contract joint as to them.

See joint contract.

joint debtors' acts. Statutes found in most jurisdictions which permit the rendition of judgment against one or more of joint obligors. 30 A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 78.

joint defense. A defense in which two or more defendants in an action join. 41 Am J1st Pl § 119.

joint demurrer. A demurrer in which two or more parties unite to raise an objection to the sufficiency in law of a pleading. 41 Am J1st Pl § 230.

joint deposit. See joint bank account.

joint donees. Two or more persons holding a single power of appointment. 41 Am J1st Pow § 29. Two or more persons designated to receive together the whole of a specific item of property.

joint donors. Two or more persons who unite in making a gift.

joint drawees. Two or more persons upon whom a bill of exchange is drawn. 11 Am J2d B & N § 502.

joint enterprise. A term pertinent in the law of imputed negligence. The pursuit of an undertaking by two or more persons having a community of interests in the objects and purposes of the undertaking, and an equal right to direct and govern the movements and conduct of each other. St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad Co. v Bell, 58 Okla 84, 159 P 336; Fox v Lavender, 89 Utah 115, 56 P2d 1049, 109 ALR 105.

Persons riding in an automobile are not, within the law of negligence, engaged in a joint enterprise unless there is a community of interest in the object and purposes of the undertaking and an equal right to direct and govern the driving of the car, and to determine the point of destination. Sizemore v Hall, 148 Kan 233, 80 P2d 1092; Gardner v Hobbs, 69 Idaho 288, 206 P2d 539, 14 ALR2d 478.

joint execution. An execution against all defendants against whom the judgment rendered. 30 Am J2d Exec § 66.

[677]

joint executors. Two or more persons acting jointly as executors in the administration of a decedent's estate. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad §§ 624 et seq.

joint feasons in pari delicto. See in pari delicto; joint tortfeasors.

joint fiat. See joint order.

joint fine. An anomaly, since two or more defendants, although jointly charged, are sentenced separately upon both or all having been found guilty. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 533.

joint gift. See joint donees; joint donors.

joint grantees. Two or more persons named in a deed as the persons to receive the grant.

joint grantors. The two or more persons named in a deed as the persons conveying.

joint guarantors. Two or more guarantors of the same obligation by the same contract of guaranty.

joint guardians. Two or more persons appointed, qualified, and acting with joint and several authority as guardians over the same fund, property, or person. 25 Am J1st G & W § 214.

joint heir. A co-heir; a person who inherits jointly with another heir or other heirs.

joint indictment. An indictment charging two or more persons as defendants, such being a permissible finding and return where the offenses arise wholly out of the same joint act or where the same evidence as to the act constituting the crime applies to all the persons indicted. 27 Am J1st Indict § 123.

jointist. A person who runs a joint. A Kansas concept of a bootlegger, not an ordinary bootlegger, but one who has risen above his class by maintaining a place of business wherein he may obtain support for the little woman and wee bairns at home by selling intoxicating liquors, albeit unlawfully. Scriven v Lebanon, 99 Kan 602, 162 P 307, 309.

See joint.

joint letters of administration. Letters of administration granted and issued to two or more persons jointly. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 45.

joint liability. The liability of two or more persons as one, so that, in the absence of statute, where one of them is sued, the other or others liable with him must be joined as defendants if living and within the jurisdiction. 39 Am J1st Parties § 37.

See joint and several liability.

joint lives. A period of time which will terminate upon the death of any one of two or more specified persons.

jointly. Unitedly; sharing together; in unity of interest or liability. Soderberg v Atlantic Lighterage Corp. (DC NY) 15 F2d 209. Appearing in the habendum of a deed, not necessarily indicative of a joint tenancy. 20 Am J2d Coten § 13. As a matter of ownership of property within the meaning of the ownership clause of an insurance policy:—an affirmation that the insureds together own the property and that no other person is interested in it, not a representation that the insureds are tenants in common. Webster v Dwelling House Ins. Co. 53 Ohio St 558, 42 NE 546.

jointly and severally. See in solido; joint and several liability.

joint maker. A person who with another, or with others signs a negotiable instrument on the face thereof and thereby becomes primarily liable for its payment. First Nat. Bank v Guardian Trust Co. 187 Mo 494, 86 SW 109. As to the status of an irregular indorser as a comaker, see 11 Am J2d B & N § 522.

joint mine. A term of uncertain origin that has not been widely accepted.

For convenience, a mine served by one carrier is called a "local mine," and a mine served by two or more carriers is called a "joint mine." United States v New River Co. 265 US 533, 68 L Ed 1165, 44 S Ct 610.

joint negligence. See joint tortfeasors.

joint obligor. One of two or more persons bound by a joint obligation or a joint and several obligation. One of two or more persons jointly liable upon a negotiable instrument as makers, indorsers, accommodation indorsers, etc.

joint offenders. Participants in the same criminal offense. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 115.

joint offense. A criminal offense committed by two or more persons participating as joint offenders. State ex rel. Flaherty v Ermston, 209 Ind 117, 197 NE 908.

See joint offenders.

joint order. An order directed against two or more persons.

joint owners. Co-owners.

See cotenancy.

joint parties. Parties to an action on the same side, as either plaintiffs or defendants.

joint patent. A patent issued to two or more persons jointly where both have participated in the process of discovery and invention. 40 Am J1st Pat § 66.

joint payees. The persons to whom a negotiable instrument drawn payable to the order of two or more persons jointly is payable. Uniform Negotiable Instruments L § 8(4); 11 Am J2d B & N § 117.

The Commercial Code declares that an instrument payable to order may be payable to the order of two or more payees together or in the alternative, eliminating the word "jointly" as used by the NIL in order to avoid any implication of survivorship. Comment 1 to UCC § 3-110.

joint policy. An adaption of the tontine plan, being a policy on the lives of two or more persons, the proceeds payable to the survivor.

See tontine policy.

joint possession. A possession of premises held by two or more persons jointly, as by tenants in common, coparceners partners, and the like.

Such persons are seized for themselves and for each other. All are equally entitled to possession, and the possession of any one of them is the possession of all. Knapp v Reed, 88 Neb 754, 130 NW 430.

joint rate. The freight rate for a through shipment by connecting carriers, often called a through rate. 13 Am J2d Car § 206.

Such charge is so apportioned to the separate carriers that each shall receive a just and reasonable part of the joint charge. Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern Railroad Co. v Dey, 82 Iowa 312, 48 NW 98.

A through rate is not necessarily a joint rate. It may be an aggregation of separate rates fixed independently by the carriers involved in the through transportation. St. Louis Southwestern Railway Co. v United States, 245 US 136, 139, note, 62 L Ed 199, 205, note, 38 S Ct 49.

[678]

joint resolution. A resolution concurred in by both houses of a legislative body, but which, in most jurisdictions, does not have the effect of a statute, at least not without the approval of the executive. 50 Am J1st Stat § 4.

joint return. A single return for income tax made by husband and wife, reporting their combined incomes, deductions, and exemptions.

joint sentence. A sentence of two or more defendants under a joint indictment, which imposes the punishment jointly against them. Ex parse Gafford, 25 Nev 101, 57 P 484. An anomaly, since two or more defendants, although jointly charged, are sentenced separately upon both or all having been found guilty. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 533.

joint session. A meeting of the upper and lower houses of a legislative body in combination, usually for ceremonial purposes or the reception of the executive and the reading of his message or other communication to the legislature. Snow v Hudson, 56 Kan 378, 43 P 260.

joint-stock association. Same as joint-stock company.

joint stock bank. See joint-stock land bank.

joint-stock company. An unincorporated association of individuals for the purpose of carrying on business and making profits, having a capital stock contributed by the members, which is commonly divided into shares of which each member possesses one or more and which are transferrable by the owner; governed by articles of association which, subject to statutory and other limitations, prescribe its objects, organization, and the rights and liabilities of its members, and usually provide that its business shall be under the control of selected individuals called "managers" or "directors." Earlsboro Gas Co. v Vern H. Brown Drilling Co. 175 Okla 320, 52 P 730.

A joint-stock company created solely by agreement of its members and in which their individual rights and liabilities are not merged as in the case of a corporation is not a stock corporation. People, ex rel. Winchester v Coleman, 133 NY 279, 31 NE 96.

joint-stock land bank. A federal bank authorized by and created under the Federal Farm Loan Act. 10 Am 12d Bks § 21.

joint tenancy. An estate held by two or more persons jointly, with equal rights to share in its enjoyment during their lives, and having as its distinguishing feature the right of survivorship, or jus accrescendi, by virtue of which the entire estate, upon the death of a joint tenant, goes to the survivor (or, in the case of more than two joint tenants, to the survivors, and so on to the last survivor), free and exempt from all charges made by his deceased cotenant or cotenants in which he did not concur. 20 Am J2d Coten § 3.

See joint bank account.

joint tenant. Precisely, one of two or more tenants under a joint tenancy. In loose usage, a cotenant.

See joint tenancy.

joint through rate. See joint rate.

joint tort. See joint tortfeasors.

joint tortfeasors. Two or more persons who unite in committing a tort, or whose acts concur in contributing to and producing a single indivisible injury upon a third person. 52 Am J1st Torts §§ 110 et seq. Two or more persons jointly or severally liable in tort for the same injury to person or property, whether or not judgment has been recovered against all or some of them. Anno: 34 ALR2d 1108 (referring to Joint Tortfeasor Act of the Uniform Laws.)

To make tortfeasors liable jointly, there must be some sort of community in the wrongdoing, and the injury must be in some way due to their joint work, but it is not necessary that they be acting together or in concert if their concurring negligence occasions the injury. Brow v Twin Falls Land & Water Co. 24 Idaho 266, 133 P 673.

All the tortfeasors are jointly and severally liable for all the damages done the injured party where the tort is committed by two or more persons jointly by force applied directly, or in the pursuit of a common purpose or design, or by concert, or in the advancement of a common interest, or as the result of joint concurrent negligence, although the wrongful conduct or negligence of some may have contributed less than that of others to the injury. Hale v Knoxville, 189 Tenn 491, 226 SW2d 265, 15 ALR2d 1283.

A tort jointly committed by several may be treated as joint or several at the election of the aggrieved party. 52 Am J1st Torts § 110.

jointress. A married woman upon whom a jointure has been settled.

See jointure.

joint trespass. A trespass committed by the united action of two or more persons, or by the action of one or more of them with the authority or assent of the others. Bonte v Postell, 109 Ky 64, 58 SW 536.

See joint trespassers.

joint trespassers. Two or more persons who unite in the act of committing a trespass; two or more persons, one or more of whom commit a trespass with the authority, encouragement, advice, countenance, cooperation, or aid of the others. 52 Am J1st Tresp § 31.

joint trial. See consolidation of actions.

joint trustees. See cotrustees.

jointure. A provision made for a wife by way of a marriage settlement. 26 Am J1st H & W § 308. Precisely, the settlement on the wife before marriage, in satisfaction of dower, of a competent livelihood by way of a freehold in the husband's property, to take effect in possession immediately after his death and to continue at least for the life of the wife. 25 Am J2d Dow § 114.

jointuress. Same as jointress. joint venture. See joint adventure; joint enterprise.

joint will. A single testamentary instrument which contains the wills of two or more persons, is executed jointly by them, and disposes of property owned jointly, in common, or in severalty by them. Anno: 169 ALR 12.

See joint and mutual will; mutual wills; reciprocal wills.

joists. Heavy bases that hold up the floor of a building, being tied into the frame in such manner as to take up the stress. 13 Am J2d Bldgs § 13.

joke. See jest; practical joke.

joker. One who jests. A slang term for an inefficient person.

See practical joke.

jolt. See jerk.

[679]

Jones Act. A federal statute which enlarges the rule of liability under the maritime law by providing that any seaman who shall suffer personal injury in the course of his employment may, at his election, maintain an action for damages at law, and that in such action, all statutes of the United States modifying or extending the common-law right or remedy in cases of personal injury to railway employees shall apply. 46 USC § 688; 48 Am J1st Ship § 179.

jostling. Crowding a person. 4 Am J2d Amuse § 60.

jour. A day.

jour en banc. A day in bank.

See in bank.

journal. A publication, such as a magazine. A formal record of court proceedings. A court record in which judgments are entered. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 91. The book in which the proceedings of a house of a state legislature are recorded, particularly the proceedings in the enactment of a law. 49 Am J1st States § 37; 50 Am J1st Stat § 137. The record in which the minutes of a city council meeting are recorded. 37 Am J1st Mun Corp §§ 64, 65. In bookkeeping, a daybook, but, more precisely, the record to which original entries are transferred.

journal entry. An entry on a journal.

See entry of judgment; journal.

journal entry rule. The rule that courts have recourse to journals of either house of the state legislature for ascertaining whether a law has in fact been passed in accordance with constitutional requirements. 49 Am J1st States § 37.

Journal of Congress. See Congressional Record.

journée. A court day; a day for holding court.

journey. A trip. Traveling from place to place.

The original meaning of the word was a day's travel. It is now applied to travel from place to place without restriction to time, but when thus applied, it is employed to designate a traveling which is outside the ordinary habits, business, or duties of the person, to a distance from his home, and beyond the circle of his friends and acquaintances. This is held to be the meaning of the word as it is used in a statute prohibiting the carrying of concealed weapons, except when traveling or setting out on a "journey." Gholson v State, 53 Ala 519.

journeyman. A worker who has learned the trade, having progressed beyond the status of an apprentice. One who has become qualified at his trade or occupation, for example, a journeyman plumber. Re Means, 14 Cal 2d 254, 93 P2d 105, 123 ALR 1378.

journeys account. A common-law rule often said to have been the origin of statutes which operate to prevent the bar by statute of limitations of a new action commenced after the expiration of the limitation period, following the failure of an action commenced within such period. 34 Am J1st Lim Ac § 279.

An ancient common-law practice or doctrine under which the plaintiff might in certain cases cause a suit which had abated to be revived by the issuance of a new writ. At one time the plaintiff had as many days within which to apply to the court of chancery for the new writ as he was days' journeys from the court, allowing twenty miles for each day, but this time was later arbitrarily fixed at thirty days. The practice was referred to as being "antiquated" in 1814. Richards v Maryland Ins. Co. (US) 8 Cranch 84, 3 L Ed 496.

journey-work. The work of a journeyman.

joyride. A ride taken in an automobile purely for pleasure, often in the vehicle of another person taken without his consent. Fredericksen v Employers Liability Assur. Corp. (CA9 Cal) 26 F2d 76; United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. v Brann, 297 Ky 381, 180 SW2d 102. A ride in a motor vehicle at a dangerously high rate of speed, for the purpose merely of enjoying the exhilarating and pleasurable sensations incident to the swirl and dash of rapid transit. Farmers' Bank & Trust Co. v Henderson, 179 Ky 220, 200 SW 330.

JP. Abbreviation for Justice of the Peace. 1 Am J2d Abbr § 5.

J. Q. B. An abbreviation of "justice of the queen's bench."

Jr. Abbreviation of Junior. No part of a man's name. Foshier v Narver, 24 Or 441, 34 P 21.

jubere. (Civil law.) To order; to command.

jubilacion. (Spanish.) The retirement of a government officer without depriving him of either his title of office or his salary.

J. U. D. An abbreviation of juris utrius doctor.

Judaism. The religion of the Jews. Hale v Everett, 53 NH 9.

Judaismo. See de Judaismo.

Judaismus. Same as Judaism.

judex. A judge.

judex ad quem. A judge to whom; that is, a judge to whose court a cause has been removed by appeal.

Judex aequitatem semper spectare debet. A judge ought always to regard equity.

Judex ante oculos aequitatem semper habere debet. A judge ought always to have equity before his eyes.

judex a quo. A judge from whom; that is, a judge from whose court a cause has been removed by an appeal.

Judex bonus nihil ex arbitrio suo faciat, nee propositione domesticae voluntatis, sed juxta leges et jura pronunciet. A good judge should do nothing of his own choice, nor from the prompting of his private wish, but he should pronounce judgment according to laws and justice.

Judex damnatur cum nocens absolvitur. A judge is condemned when a guilty man is acquitted.

judex datus. (Roman law.) An appointed judge; that is, a judge appointed by the praetor to try a case.

Judex debet judicare secundum allegata et probata. A judge ought to decide according to the pleadings and the proofs.

judex delegatus. A delegated judge, a judge specially appointed.

[680]

Judex est lex loquens. The judge is the law speaking; that is, he is the mouthpiece of the law.

judex fiscalis. A judge with jurisdiction in matters pertaining to the fiscus or public treasury.

Judex habere debet duos sales, salem sapientiae ne sit insipidus, et salem conscientiae, ne sit diabolus. A judge ought to have two salts, the salt of wisdom, that he be not foolish, and the salt of conscience, that he be not diabolical.

Judex non potest esse testis in propria causa. A judge cannot be a witness in his own case.

Judex non potest injuriam sibi datam punire. A judge cannot punish a wrong which has been inflicted upon himself.

Judex non reddit plus quern quod petens ipse requirit. A judge should not render judgement for a larger sum than the plaintiff himself demands.

judex ordinarius. (Civil law.) An ordinary judge; that is, a judge having jurisdiction in his own right as judge, as distinguished from a judge appointed or delegated for the trial of a particular case.

judex pedaneus. (Roman law.) A judge appointed by the praetor to try a case of lesser importance.

judex selectus. Singular of judices selecti.

judge. A public officer who, by virtue of his office, is clothed with judicial powers. Better understood as one who conducts or presides over a court of justice. 30A Am J Rev ed Judges § 2. Clearly to be distinguished from "court" but often used interchangeably and indiscriminately with the latter term, even in some statutes. Broadfoot v Florence, 253 Ala 455, 45 So 2d 311. A title applied in some states to members of a so-called "county court" or board of supervisors or county commissioners who are in no proper sense judicial officers or charged with judicial duties.

Within the meaning of the rule that words spoken by a judge in the course of a judicial proceeding over which he is presiding, and in relation to the subject of the proceeding are absolutely privileged, the following officers have been held to be included within the term "judge," for the purpose of enjoying this protection from suits for libel or slander, when in the discharge of judicial duties; magistrates, justices of the peace, judges in other courts of inferior and superior jurisdiction, equity judges, coroners, members of courts-martial, and receivers in making reports to the courts appointing them. 33 Am J1st L & S § 177.

See justice; justice of the peace.

judge ad quem. The judge to which,—the judge of the court to which a case comes on appeal from a lower court,—from a judge a quo.

Judge Advocate. See Judge Advocate General; staff judge advocate.

Judge Advocate General. Severally, the Judge Advocates General of the Army, Navy, and Air Force, and except when the Coast Guard is operating as a service in the Navy, the General Counsel of the Department of the Treasury. 10 USC § 801(1).

Judge Advocate General's Department. A department of the Army, Navy, and Air Force, headed by a Judge Advocate General.

judge a quo. The judge from which,—the judge of the court from which the case is appealed to the judge ad quem,—of the higher court.

judge de facto. See de facto judge.

judge in chambers. A judge of a court of record acting out of court. Frawley v Cosgrove, 83 Wis 441, 53 NW 689.
See chambers decision; chambers judgment; chambers order.

judge-made law. See judicial legislation.

judgement. Another spelling for judgment.

judge ordinary. A judge of the English court of probate for divorce and matrimonial causes.

judge pro tem. A temporary judge; a substitute judge.

judge's calendar. A calendar of cases prepared for the use of a judge, often with room on the separate sheets for the individual cases for the writing of his minutes.

See judge's minutes.

judge's certificate. A statement signed by the judge before whom a case was tried awarding a party his costs in the action. Any certificate given by a judge in his official capacity.

judge's chambers. See chambers.

judge's minutes. The entries made by a judge upon his calendar or other book or sheet in reference to the proceedings taken in the cases brought before him as the court or in chambers, particularly the granting of orders for judgments. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 93.

judge's notes. Same as judge's minutes.

judges of elections. Officers conducting elections and assisting in the canvassing of returns. 25 Am J2d Elect § 39.

judges of gaol delivery. Judges who were specially commissioned to hear and determine the cases of persons imprisoned in a jail.

judgment. The final consideration and determination by the court of the rights of the parties, as those rights presently exist, upon matters submitted to it in an action or proceeding. The judicial determination or sentence of the court upon a matter within its jurisdiction. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 2. More precisely, the conclusion of the law upon the matters contained in the record, or the application of the law to the pleadings and to the facts as they appear from the evidence in the case, and as found by the court or jury, admitted by the parties, or as deemed to exist upon their default in the course of judicial proceedings. State ex rel. McDonald v Louis, 326 Mo 644, 33 SW2d 98. In a criminal case, the action of a court of criminal jurisdiction formally declaring to the accused the legal consequences of the guilt which he has confessed or of which he has been convicted. 21 Am J2d Crim L § 525. Sometimes synonymous with decision, as where both words are used in a statute requiring a liberal construction. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 14. In theory, a determination sought by a motion.

[681]

In common parlance, the formation of an opinion or notion concerning something by exercising the mind upon it.

The word is distinguished from desire which imports a wish of more or less intensity. Cleveland Clinic Foundation v Humphreys (CA6 Ohio) 97 F2d 849.

See decree.

judgment book. A court record in which judgments are entered. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 91.

judgment by cognovit actionem. A judgment rendered, after service of process upon the defendant, upon his acknowledgment and confession that the plaintiff's cause of action is just and rightful. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 156.

judgment by confession. A judgment entered by confession of the defendant. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 156.

judgment by confession relicta verificatione. A judgment rendered against the defendant where, after pleading and before trial, he has both confessed the plaintiff's cause of action and withdrawn or abandoned his plea or other allegations, the judgment being entered upon such confession. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 156.

judgment by consent. See consent judgment.

judgment by default. See default judgment.

judgment by default and inquiry. A judgment which establishes a right of action in the plaintiff as declared in the complaint, the precise character, extent, and amount of which remains to be determined by a hearing in damages and a final judgment thereon. De Hoff v Black, 206 NC 687, 175 SE 179.

judgment by default final. A default judgment in final form, effective by way of estoppel and res judicata, upon the allegations of the complaint. De Hoff v Black, 206 NE 687, 175 NE 179.

judgment by nil dicit. Same as judgment nihil dicit.

judgment by non sum informatus. A judgment rendered when, instead of entering a plea or answer, the defendant's attorney says he is not informed of any answer to be given to the action. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 119.

judgment by one's peers. See judgment of his peers.

judgment creditor. A creditor who has secured a judgment against his debtor for the amount of his debt; a person in whose favor a judgment has been entered, which has not been satisfied.

judgment creditor's action. As usually understood, an action in equity or of an equitable nature to enforce the payment of the judgment out of property or interests of the debtor which cannot be reached by ordinary legal process. 21 Am J2d Cred B § 1.

judgment debitum sine brevi. He owes without declaration filed; debt evidenced by confession of judgment without suit. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 156.

judgment de bonis intestati. A judgment affecting the property of the intestate,—a proper form of judgment in all cases where an administrator is a party defendant and the estate of his deceased intestate is liable for the debt. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 759.

judgment de bonis testatoris. A judgment affecting the property of the testator,—a proper form of judgment in all cases where an executor is a party defendant and the estate of his decedent is liable for the debt. 31 Am J2d Ex & Ad § 759.

judgment debt. An indebtedness evidenced by a judgment; a debt owing on a judgment.

judgment debtor. A person against whom a judgment has been entered and which has not been satisfied.

judgment debtor summons. A summons issued against a debtor under the English Bankruptcy Act.

judgment de melioribus damnis. A judgment for the highest amount found by the jury, where its verdict differs in amounts as to the different defendants who are liable as cotortfeasors.

judgment de tarris. A judgment obtained on a dower charge on land. Byers v Byers, 339 Pa 146, 14 A2d 93.

judgment docket. A book kept and prepared in the office of the clerk of court wherein there is noted the facts respecting judgments entered and recorded, such as the date of entry, the parties, satisfaction, execution taken and returned, the page of the complete record of the court upon which a particular judgment appears, etc. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 91.

judgment d. s. b. Same as judgment debitum sine brevi.

judgment for want of prosecution. See judgment of nolle prosequi; judgment of non pros.

judgment fund statute. A statute which provides an indemnity fund for losses caused by uninsured or unknown motorists. 7 Am J2d Auto § 301.

judgment index. An index of the judgments entered in a court, alphabetically arranged, usually under the names of both plaintiff and defendant.

judgment in error. The judgment of the higher court rendered on a writ of error.

judgment in personam. A judgment, necessarily on a personal obligation, which follows the person wherever he may be, and which may be enforced by action or levy, wherever he may be found, binding the person of the defendant. A money judgment which is rendered in an action in personam, which proceeds, not against the property, but against the person; and binds only those who are parties to the action, and those in privity with them. Bardwell v Anderson, 44 Minn 97, 46 NW 315.

judgment in rem. A judgment pronounced upon the status of some particular subject matter, or rendered in a proceeding instituted against property, or brought to enforce a jus in re, with no cognizance taken of the owner or persons having a beneficial interest in the property. Combs v Combs, 240 Ky 155, 60 SW2d 368, 89 ALR 1095.

judgment lien. Security for the judgment debt. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 480. A lien predicated upon the rendition or entry of judgment, the same being the right given the judgment creditor to subject by levy or seizure the property of the judgment debtor to the satisfaction of the judgment. Jones v Hall, 177 Va 658, 15 SE2d 108.

[682]

judgment nihil. A judgment against a party taken upon his failure to plead. Graves v Cameron, Castles & Storey, 77 Tex 273, 275, 14 SW 59. Substantially the same as a judgment by default. Wilbur v Maynard, 6 Colo 483, 485; Stevens v State, 100 Vt 214, 136 A 387.

judgment nisi. A rule to show cause why judgment should not be rendered. Young v M'Pherson, 3 NJL 895, 897.
See decree nisi.

judgment non obstante veredicto. See judgment notwithstanding the verdict.

judgment non sum informatus. Same as judgment by non sum informatus.

judgment note. Same as cognovit note.

judgment notwithstanding the verdict. A judgment rendered upon a motion made after verdict but before rendition of judgment on the verdict in which the applicant prevails in showing that he is entitled to judgment under the law notwithstanding the verdict returned against him by the jury. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 292.

Although the motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict was available only to the plaintiff at common law, it is now generally available to both parties, either as a result of judicial relaxation of the common-law rule confining the remedy to the plaintiff, or as a result of express statutory provisions granting the remedy to defendants. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 292.

judgment nunc pro tunc. See nunc pro tunc judgment.

judgment of affirmance. See affirmance.

judgment of assets in futuro. A judgment which is enforceable against a future interest of the defendant in real property.

judgment of cassetur bills. A decree of a court of equity ordering a dismissal of the bill.

judgment of cassetur breve. Same as judgment of cassetur bills.

judgment of conviction. A judgment against the defendant in a criminal case; a judgment denoting the action of a court of criminal jurisdiction formally declaring to the accused the legal consequences of the guilt which he has confessed or of which he has been convicted. Ellis v State, 100 Fla 27, 129 So 106, 69 ALR 783.

judgment of dismissal. See dismissal; dismissal without prejudice; dismissal with prejudice.

judgment of God. See judicium Dei.

judgment of his peers. A trial by a jury who are the peers of the party accused, being of like condition and equality in the state. 31 Am J Rev ed Jur § 7.

judgment of interpleader. Same as decree of interpleader.

judgment of nil capiat. A judgment that he (the plaintiff) take nothing.

A judgment which is entered when the defendant has pleaded in bar and the plaintiff's demurrer to the plea is overruled. Such a judgment should be entered, although there may be also one or more issues of fact; because, upon the whole, it appears that the plaintiff had no cause of action. La Tourette v Burton (US) 1 Wall 25, 53, 17 L Ed 604, 609.

judgment of nil capiat per billam. Same as judgment of nil capiat per breve.

judgment of nil capiat per breve. A judgment rendered in favor of the defendant on an issue raised by a plea in bar or by a plea in abatement.

judgment of nolle prosequi. A judgment rendered in favor of the defendant upon the formal refusal of the plaintiff to proceed with the action; sometimes styled nol. pros. Commonwealth v Casey, 94 Mass (12 Allen) 214, 218. A type of judgment superseded in many jurisdictions by judgment of nonsuit. Steele v Beaty, 215 NC 680, 2 SE2d 854.

judgment of nol. pros. Same as judgment of nolle prosequi.

judgment of non pros. Abbreviation of judgment of non prosequitur.

judgment of non prosequitur. A judgment entered when the plaintiff at any stage of the proceedings fails to prosecute his action, or any part of it, in due time. 24 Am J2d Dism § 4. An old form of judgment displaced by the more modern form of involuntary nonsuit. Steele v Beaty, 215 NC 680, 2 SE2d 854.

judgment of nonsuit. See nonsuit.

judgment of ouster. See ouster judgment.

judgment of repleader. See repleader.

judgment of respondeat ouster. A judgment rendered against a defendant upon an issue of law raised by his dilatory plea, the effect of which is to overrule the plea and require the defendant to answer to the merits of the action.

A judgment on demurrer against the defendant should be respondeat ouster. Cooke v Crawford, 1 Tex 9. judgment of restitution. See restitution.

judgment of retraxit. A judgment rendered against a plaintiff who has withdrawn his action.

See retraxit.

judgment of the iron. See judicium ferri.

judgment of water. See judicium aquae.

As used in a statute giving a right to a new trial in ejectment when the judgment is rendered on either default or verdict, it has been held that the term "judgment on a verdict" was intended to embrace all cases where the decision upon which the judgment was rendered had been given on contestation, as distinguished from a "judgment on default," and that such statute applies in cases where judgment is entered on the mandate of an appellate court. Smalles v Mitchell, 143 US 99, 36 L Ed 90, 12 S Ct 353.

judgment on demurrer. The judgment rendered upon the determination made by the court after hearing a demurrer.

For conclusiveness of judgment rendered upon sustaining or overruling a demurrer, see 41 Am J1st Pl §§ 251 et seq.

judgment on the merits. A judgment based on legal rights as distinguished from mere matters of practice, procedure, jurisdiction, or from-in other words, a judgment that determines, on an issue either of law or fact, which party is right. Rosenthal v McMann, 93 Cal 505, 29 P 121.

[683]

judgment on the pleadings. A judgment rendered on motion:—in favor of the defendant for failure of the plaintiff to state a good cause of action in his complaint declaration, or petition; in favor of the plaintiff where the defendant fails to state in his answer a defense sufficient in law to the cause of action alleged by the plaintiff or fails to tender any real issue of facts in the case. 41 Am J1st Pl § 335.

judgment on the verdict. A judgment rendered on a verdict of a jury as distinguished from a judgment rendered on a decision by the court in a trial to the court without a jury.

judgment paper. The paper on which the final judgment of the court in an action is written and signed.

See judgment roll.

judgment par contumace. In French law, a judgment condemning a person to death. President of United States v Kelly (CA2 NY) 96 F2d 787.

judgment pro confesso. A judgment by confession.

judgment pro retorno habendo. A judgment ordering a restoration of goods.

judgment quando acciderint. A judgment rendered against an heir or an executor which can only be enforced against assets which may afterwards come into his hands.

judgment quasi in rem. A judgment, the object of which is to determine as between particular persons, the title to particular property or the right to possession of particular property, or to subject certain property of a particular person to the payment of a particular obligation of such person, either because such personal obligation is secured by a lien on the property, or because jurisdiction over the person of the obligor cannot be acquired. Sometimes regarded as a qualified judgment in personam rather than a qualified judgment in rem. 30A Am J Rev ed Judgm § 126.

judgment quod computet. A judgment ordering the defendant to render an account.

judgment quod eat inde quietus. Judgment that he go hence acquitted,—a judgment of acquittal on a criminal charge. State v Buchanan (Md) 5 Harr & J 317.

judgment quod partes replacitent. A judgment that the parties replead.
See repleader.

judgment quod partitio fiat. A judgment that a partition be made, a judgment ordering a partition of property.

judgment quod recuperet. A judgment that he should recover, that is, a judgment rendered in favor of the plaintiff otherwise than on a dilatory plea.

judgment record. The record of a judgment.

judgment rendered. A judgment by judicial action. Dieffenbach v Roch, 112 NY 621, 20 NE 560.
See rendition of judgment.

judgment rendered and satisfied. Indicating for the purpose of a limitation provision in a liability insurance policy, the time when a final judgment is paid and satisfied. Anno: 83 ALR 759; 29A Am J Rev ed Ins § 1798.

judgment roll. A collection of papers including every part of the action or proceeding, or such parts as the statute may specify, to be preserved where the action or proceeding is in a court of record, usually the summons, affidavit of service, pleadings, instructions to the jury, minutes of the verdict or findings, the decision, if the trial was to the court, and judgment, the common practice being to include all the papers that would be printed upon an appeal. Peerson v Mitchell, 205 Okla 530, 239 P2d 1028, 26 ALR2d 1362, cert den 342 US 866, 96 L Ed 652, 72 S Ct 106.

judgment satisfied. An entry on the record indicating payment and satisfaction of a judgment.

The entry of "judgment satisfied" is not a part of the judgment of the court. It is an entry of record to be used as evidence in case there is a question about the plaintiff's right afterwards to collect the judgment. The entry has no effect on the plaintiff's right to appeal from the judgment itself. Preston v Henshaw, 192 Mass 34, 77 NE 1153.

judgment setoff. See setoff of judgments.

judgment vacated, verdict set aside, and new trial granted. The formal order for a new trial to be entered in the court record. Fisher v Hestonville, Mantua & Fairmount Passenger Railway Co. 185 Pa 602, 40 A 97.

Judicandum est legibus, non exemplis. We must judge by the laws, not by examples. See 4 Bl Comm 405.

judicare. To judge; to decide; to determine.

judicata. See doctrine of res judicata.

judicatio. (Civil law.) The announcement or rendition of a judgment; the passing of a sentence.

judicatores terrarum. Tenants in certain parts of England who, under their tenure, performed judicial functions.

judicatories. See church judicatory; judicatory.

judicatory. A court of justice. Macon v Shaw, 16 Ga 172, 185.

See church judicatory.

judicato solvendo. See de judicato solvendo.

judicature. Judicial power; jurisdiction; a judicatory; a court of justice.

judicature acts. Statutes which were enacted in the reign of Victoria providing for the reorganization of the courts of England.

Judicature Commission. An instrumentality of judicial reform created to make recommendations for improvement in judicial procedure and the administration of the business of the courts.

judices delegati. Plural of judex delegatus.

Judices non tenentur exprimere causam sententiae suae. Judges are not bound to give the reasons for their decisions.

judices ordinarii. Plural of judex ordinarius.

judices pedanei. Plural of judex pedaneus.

[684]

judices selecti. (Civil law.) Selected or chosen judges; judges chosen by the praetor to try and decide questions of fact in criminal cases, bearing remarkable resemblances to the jury of the common law. See 3 Bl Comm 366.

judicia. (Roman law.) Trials; lawsuits; judgments; decisions.

Judicia in curia regis non adnihilentur, sed stent in robore suo quosque per errorem aut attinctum annullentur. Judgments in the king's court are not to be ignored, but they stand in force until they are annulled by error or attain.

Judicia in deliberationibus crebro maturescunt, in accelerato processu nunquam. Judgments often mature through deliberations, never through hurried proceedings.

judicial. Characterizing whatever emanates from a judge as such, or whatever proceeds from courts of justice. State of Indiana ex rel. Hovey v Noble, 118 Ind 350, 21 NE 244; Merchants' Nat. Bank v Jaffray, 36 Neb 218, 54 NW 258. Pertaining to courts and their functions. Well-considered; decided or determined upon facts and the law.

judicial act. The act of a judge in applying the law to the situation presented, as distinguished from a legislative act which predetermines what the law shall be for future cases. Wulzen v Board of Supervisors, 101 Cal 15, 35 P 353. The act of a judge, or an officer other than a judge, performing a duty which is judicial or quasi judicial in nature. Motor Credit Co. v Tremper, 121 NJL 91, 1 A2d 301. An act performed in the exercise of judicial power. People ex rel. Riordan v Hersey, 69 Colo 492, 196 P 180, 14 ALR 631, 635.

judicial action. An adjudication upon the rights of parties who, in general, appear or are brought before the court by notice or process, and upon whose claims some decision or judgment is rendered.

See judicial act.

judicial admission. An admission made by a party in the course of judicial proceedings. 29 Am J2d Ev § 615.

judicial branch. See judiciary.

judicial business. The business transacted by courts.

See judicial act.

judicial circuit. See circuit.

Judicial Code. Title 28 of the United States Code, covering the Federal Courts and Judicial Procedure.

judicial comity. See comity.

judicial committee of the privy council. An English tribunal which had jurisdiction of appeals in admiralty and lunacy cases until 1873.

Judicial Conference of the United States. A conference of judges of the United States courts on a representative basis, held pursuant to statute, the primary functions of which are to consider measures for expediting the business of the federal courts and to maintain a continuous study of the general rules of practice and procedure now or hereafter in use in such courts. 28 USC § 331.

judicial confession. A confession made before a committing magistrate or in a court in the due course of legal proceedings. 29 Am J2d Ev § 524. Narrowly defined as a plea of guilty made by the accused in a fit state of mind to plead, before a court which is competent to try him for the offense charged and which, upon the entry of the plea, is competent to enter judgment and fix the penalty. 29 Am J2d Ev § 524.

judicial contempt. Same as contempt of court.

judicial control. The control by a court of its own officers, such as receivers, referees, masters, etc., in the exercise of their duties. The exercise of jurisdiction to declare legislative or executive acts void as unconstitutional.

judicial convention. An agreement entered into between the parties to an action pursuant to an order of the court. A convention of delegates meeting for the nomination of candidates for judicial offices.

Judicial Council. A permanent instrumentality of judicial reform, created to study the organization and operation of the judicial system and to suggest improvements in procedure and administration.

Judicial Council of the Circuit. A council of the circuit judges for the circuit, held pursuant to statute in each federal circuit to consider the necessity of and to make orders in the interest of the effective and expeditious administration of the business of the federal courts in the circuit. 28 USC § 332.

judicial cy pres. See cy pres.

judicial day. A day upon which court is in session. State v C.C.A. Judges, 48 La Ann 1079, 20 So 282. (Civil law.) One of the twenty-eight days which were allowed in each year to the praetor for deciding cases.

These days were called triverbial days, because on these days the praetor announced his jurisdiction in the words: do, dico, addico,—I give, I say, I adjudge. See 3 Bl Comm 424.

judicial decision. A decision by the court.

See decision.

judicial decree. See decree.

judicial definition. The definition of a term as made by a court. Robinson v Rogers, 237 NY 467, 143 NE 647, 33 ALR 1291.

judicial department. One of the three independent departments of government which derives none of its power from either the legislative or executive departments but directly from the Constitution.

This is true of both the National Government of the United States and also of the state governments.

judicial department of the United States. The department created by article III of the Federal Constitution, consisting of one Supreme Court and of such inferior courts as Congress shall, from time to time, ordain and establish.

In these courts is vested the judicial power of the United States. This power of Congress to create inferior courts does not make it a matter of discretion to create them or not at its pleasure, but is rather a duty to vest the whole judicial power. Martin v Hunter (US) 1 Wheat 304, 4 L Ed 97.

judicial dicta. An expression of opinion by a court on a point not necessary to a decision but deliberately passed upon by the court. Scovill Mfg. Co. v Cassidy, 275 111 462, 114 NE 181. Sometimes given effect as a holding of the court. 20 Am J2d Cts § 190.

[685]

judicial discretion. A discretion to be exercised judicially rather than arbitrarily. A discretion founded upon the facts and circumstances presented to the court, from which it must draw a conclusion governed by the law. People v Rosner, 78 Cal App 497, 248 P 683.

The discretion conferred by statute upon courts with respect to the vacation of judgments is a legal discretion to be exercised in conformity with the spirit of the law and in a manner to subserve and not defeat the ends of justice. King v Mitchell, 188 Or 434, 214 P2d 993, 216 P2d 269, 16 ALR2d 1128.

A statutory provision authorizing a public functionary to act in his "discretion" may be construed to mean judicial discretion or not, according to the subject matter involved. Re Anderson, 191 Or 409, 229 P2d 633, 230 P2d 770, 29 ALR2d 1051, 1073.

judicial district. A division of a state for judicial purposes, sometimes as a matter of jurisdiction, at other times as a matter of venue. State ex ref. Brockmeier v Ely, 16 ND 569, 113 NW 711. The territorial unit of a federal district court.

judicial divorce. A dissolution of the marriage contract by decree of court after a judicial inquiry to ascertain the breach of the contract. Starr v Pease, 8 Conn 540, 546. A divorce granted by the court as distinguished from a legislative divorce.

judicial documents. Documents in the files of a court, constituting proof of its proceedings in particular cases. Hammatt v Emerson, 27 Me 308, 337.

judicial duty. Such a duty as legitimately pertains to an officer in the department of the government designated by the Constitution as "judicial," that is, an officer of the judiciary. State ex ref. Hovey, v Noble, 118 Ind 350, 21 NE 244.

See judicial act.

Judicial equity. Equity administered by a court of justice, decreeing the aequum et bonum of the case, let who or what be the parties before them. Rhode Island v Massachusetts (US) 12 Pet 657, 738, 9 L Ed 1233, 1266.

judicial error. An error into which the court itself falls. State v District Court, 55 Mont 324, 176 P 608. An error in the decision as distinguished from an error in entering the decision or making it of record. Anno: 14 ALR2d 233.

judicial estoppel. An estoppel arising from sworn statements made in the course of judicial proceedings. Helfer v Mutual Ben Health & Acci. Asso. 170 Tenn 630, 96 SW2d 1103, 113 ALR 921. Otherwise known as "estoppel by oath."

judicial ethics. Canons adopted by the American Bar Association, published in Am J2d Desk Book, Document 67.

judicial foreclosure. Foreclosure of a mortgage or lien by an action, as distinguished from foreclosure by seizure and sale.

The function of a judicial foreclosure is to declare judicially the forfeiture for condition broken, to obtain an order for sale, and to perfect a transfer of title to the purchaser. Larson v Anderson, 97 Wash 484, 166 P 774.

judicial function. A function exercised by the employment of judicial powers. People ex ref. Riordan v Hersey, 69 Colo 492, 196 P 180, 14 ALR 631, 635.

Counting, weighing, and measuring are not judicial functions, they are ministerial functions. Dickering v Moore, 67 NH 533, 32 A 828.

See judicial power; quasi-judicial function.

judicial immunity. The freedom of a judicial officer from personal liability for his decisions or acts.

judicial immunity of witness. An exemption from criminal prosecution promised a witness by the court in consideration of his giving testimony that may tend to incriminate him. 58 Am J1st Witn § 93.

judicial inquiry. An inquiry which investigates, declares, and enforces liabilities as they stand on present or past facts and under laws supposed already to exist. Keller v Potomac Electric Power Co. 261 US 428, 67 L Ed 731, 43 S Ct 445.

judicial intervention. A court review of an administrative determination or a restraint by the court of an administrative act.

judicial knowledge. See judicial notice.

judicial legislation. An uncomplimentary term applied to certain decisions. Encroachment by the court upon the function of the legislature; making law rather than declaring, construing, or enforcing the law. 16 Am J2d Const L § 225.

judicial location. The determination of the location of an easement by a court of equity. 25 Am J2d Ease § 68.

judicially. Belonging to, or emanating from, a judge. Commonwealth ex ref. Bressler v Gane (Pa) 3 Grant Cas 447, 459.

judicial mortgage. Same as judgment lien.

judicial notice. The cognizance of certain facts which a judge under rules of legal procedure or otherwise may properly take or act upon without proof because they are already known to him or because of that knowledge which a judge has, or is assumed to have by virtue of his office. Riley v Wallace, 188 Ky 471, 222 SW 1085, 11 ALR 337.

Judicial notice takes the place of proof and is of equal force. It displaces evidence, since it stands for the same thing. 29 Am J2d Ev § 14.

Judicial Notice of Foreign Law Act. One of the uniform laws.

judicial oath. An oath authorized by law and administered in the due and regular course of judicial proceedings. State v Bowman, 90 Me 363. The qualifying oath of a judge.

judicial office. An office constituting a part of the judicial department of government. People v Ransom, 58 Cal 558. An office, the duties and functions of which are principally judicial. People v Jackson, 191 NY 293, 84 NE 65. An office for the administration of justice by the person appointed or elected to the office, not by one acting under delegated authority. Twenty Per Cent Cases (United States v Fitzpatrick) (US) 13 Wall 568, 20 L Ed 707.

judicial officer. A judge; an incumbent of a judicial office.

See judge; judicial office.

judicial opinion. See opinion of court.

judicial partition. A compulsory partition in action by which co-owners of property cause it to be divided into as many shares as there are owners, according to their interests therein, or, if that cannot be done equitably, to be sold for the best obtainable price and the proceeds distributed. Michael v Sphier, 129 Or 413, 272 P 902, 73 ALR 1.

judicial power. That power which is granted to a court or judicial tribunal. Rhode Island v Massa- chusetts (US) 12 Pet 657, 738, 9 L Ed 1233, 1266. That part of the sovereign power which belongs to the courts or, at least, does not belong to the legislative or executive department. 16 Am J2d Const L § 222. A power which a regularly constituted court exercises in matters which are brought before it in the manner prescribed by statute or established rules of practice, and which do not come within the powers granted to the executive or vested in the legislative department of the government. 16 Am J2d Const L § 220. The power of a court to decide and pronounce a judgment and carry it into effect between persons who bring a case before it for decision. Muskrat v United States, 219 US 346, 55 L Ed 246, 31 S Ct 250; People ex rel. Riordan v Hersey, 69 Colo 492, 196 P 180, 14 ALR 631, 635.

[686]

The term is not capable of more precise definition but it is to be said that the common source of the power and authority of every court, and all questions concerning jurisdiction of a court must be determined according to the constitution, with the exception of certain inherent powers belonging to all courts. Re Buckles, 331 Mo 405, 53 SW2d 1055.

See quasi judicial power.

