Strategies for learning

Aims of this book

The aim of this book is to help you, as an advanced learner of English, to extend and improve your vocabulary by:

- increasing the number of words that you know.
- helping you to use words in a more natural, more accurate way.
- improving your knowledge and active use of collocation.
- presenting additional meanings or metaphorical uses of words you may already know.

Using the book

Do the first eight units, i–viii, before you start on any other units.

Then do not just work through the book from the first to the last page – choose the units you need most or that appeal to you most and do them first.

When you are working on any of Units 1 to 100:

- read the left-hand page.
- attempt the exercises on the right-hand page.
- check your answers in the key.

When checking your answers in the key, you will find that it sometimes contains extra useful information about the area of language you are working on. So, read it carefully and make notes of any interesting language that you learn from it.

Revising

You will learn most effectively if you revise the units you study:

- a week after you first worked on the unit.
- again after a month.

Dictionaries

You will also be able to gain much more from the language presented in this book if you follow up words that especially interest you in a good learner's dictionary (see Unit iii). By doing this, you can extend your vocabulary still further.

You may find, for example:

- other useful collocations.
- other meanings for the words you look up.
- other words based on the same root.

Personalising words

Research studies show that we remember new words much more easily if we think about them in relation to our own experience and use them in a context that is meaningful to us as individuals. So, as well as doing the exercises here, write any new words or phrases that you particularly wish to learn in a context that has some personal meaning for you. You could, for example, use the language you wish to learn in a sentence about an experience you have had personally, or about a story you have read in a newspaper or magazine, or about a film or TV programme you have watched.

This helps in two ways by:

- revising language you have already worked on.
- making language personally more meaningful and, thus, more memorable.

Grouping words

Research shows that it is very useful to organise a set of vocabulary items being studied into groups. It does not matter how you group those words or whether your groupings would make sense to anyone else or not. It is thinking about the words enough to create groups that improves how we learn those words.

- As another revision technique, try organising the words you have worked on in a unit into three or four (or more) groups in any way that you find appropriate.

Going beyond this book

Although this book deals with many useful words and expressions for advanced learners, it is clearly impossible to cover all the words that you may come across in English. The best way to increase your vocabulary further is to read and listen to as much English as you can and there are a lot of tips in the book suggesting ways in which you can do this.

Remember you can also usefully expand your vocabulary by:

- reading – novels, newspapers or magazines
- exploring websites
- reading things in English that relate to your job or academic interests
- watching films or videos
- watching cable TV
- listening to the radio
- listening to songs
- listening to audio books.

So, good luck with your advanced study of English vocabulary. We hope that you will learn a lot from using this book and that you will enjoy working with it.

Types of meaning

Basic meaning

When you look up a word, the main thing that you want to know is its basic meaning. For example: in She has fair hair the word fair = light, opposite of dark or in It's time to wind up the discussion now the words wind up = end.

However, there are a lot of other aspects of meaning that it is important to be aware of, particularly when you are studying at a more advanced level of English.

B

Polysemy or multiple meanings (see Unit v)

A great many words in English have more than one meaning.

Look at fair and wind up /waɪnd ʌp/ and their different meanings in these examples:

That wasn't a very fair thing to say! [adjective: just]

The handsome knight fell in love with a fair maiden. [adjective: beautiful]

His knowledge of French is fair. [adjective: neither very bad nor very good]

She has a fair chance of winning the prize. [adjective: reasonable]

Fair weather is forecast for tomorrow. [adjective: dry and pleasant]

There's a fair on at the park this week. [noun: public event with games and rides]

Don't forget to wind up your watch. [turn a knob on a clockwork watch so it keeps going]

She seems to enjoy winding him up. [tell someone something in order deliberately to annoy]

If he carries on like this, he's going to wind up in prison. [end up in an unpleasant situation]

C

Synonymy

English has a lot of different words with similar but slightly differing meanings. Look at these words that are synonymous with fair and wind up (with the meanings illustrated in A): fair – light, blonde, pale, colourless, bleached wind up – end, finish, complete, close, stop, conclude, terminate, discontinue, abort

Collocation (see Unit iv)

Words are used with each other (or collocate) in fairly fixed ways in English. You cannot, for example, use all of the synonyms in C as replacements in the example sentences in A. Hair can be fair, light, blonde or bleached (though each of these has a slightly different meaning), but it is not usually described as pale or colourless.

Skin can be fair, light and pale but it is not usually described as blonde, colourless or bleached. Colourless collocates with, for example, gas or liquid.

Connotation (see Unit viii)

Words do not only have meanings, they also have associations. At an advanced level of English, it is important to develop an impression of what connotations certain words have. The sentence Who is the fairest of them all, for example, immediately makes English speakers think of the wicked stepmother in the children's fairy tale Snow White and the fairer sex refers to women. Fair meaning beautiful or attractive is an old-fashioned word and it has associations with fairy tales and stories about the past.

F

Register (see Unit vii)

It is important also to note whether any words you are learning have a particular register. For example apparel is a formal or literary word for clothing and to wind someone up is both British and informal.

Exercises

ii.1 The underlined words in the sentences below have a number of different meanings. What is their meaning in the contexts of these sentences?

- 1 What does polysemy mean?
- 2 Make a note of any special register characteristics that a word has.
- 3 The judge increased the sentence to life imprisonment.
- 4 We had a light lunch.
- 5 Carl is very good at putting on different accents.
- 6 Does Spanish writing use any different accents?
- 7 Where does the stress go on the noun 'photographer'?
- 8 There are a lot of points to think about when considering the meaning of words.

ii.2 Choose a synonym from the box in order to complete the response to these statements.

worn out	famished	annoying	excruciating	pouring appropriate	brilliant	gorgeous

- 1 Are you hungry? Yes, I'm
- 2 Is she an intelligent girl? Yes, she's absolutely
- 3 Your little boy looks tired. Yes, he's
- 4 I like her dress. Yes, isn't it ?
- 5 Is it raining? Yes, it's
- 6 The film was pretty bad, wasn't it? Yes, I thought it was
- 7 Did you think the sentence was fair? Yes, I thought it was
- 8 Does she deliberately wind him up? Yes, she loves him.

ii.3 Match the words on the left with the words they collocate with on the right.

- | | |
|------------------|----------------|
| 1 to contemplate | a worker |
| 2 to dismiss | a mistake |
| 3 to do | a good time |
| 4 to dribble | your future |
| 5 to have | a rope |
| 6 to make | a compliment |
| 7 to pay | innocence |
| 8 to plead | cards |
| 9 to set | some gardening |
| 10 to shuffle | an opportunity |
| 11 to waste | a ball |
| 12 to wind | an example |

ii.4 Answer these questions about connotation and register.

- 1 Which of these things have lucky connotations in British English – horseshoe, mascot, black cat, the number 13?
- 2 Mistletoe is a kind of parasitic plant, but what are its special connotations?
- 3 Give the standard meaning and the informal meaning of the following words – loaf, bread, nick, kid, wicked.
- 4 What does the word register mean for a) a linguist, b) a school teacher, c) a musician?

TIP

When you are looking up a new word, make sure that you check what other meanings and forms it may have. Also note down any points relating to collocation, connotation or register.

Making the most of your dictionary

Types of dictionary

type	comments
alphabetical	the most common type; words are arranged in alphabetical order
thesaurus /θɪ'sɔːrəs/	the words are arranged according to meaning, usually under a broad heading, e.g. under walk we would find stroll , plod , stride , etc., with explanations
monolingual	in one language only; popular learners' dictionaries of English are often monolingual, and have detailed explanations in English, with examples of use bilingual	in two languages, usually yours and the language you are learning; useful because they give translations, but may not be so good for distinguishing between possible translations dictionaries of synonyms /'sɪnənɪmz/	words are grouped according to their closeness in meaning, e.g. start and begin ; sometimes antonyms (opposites) are also given and explanations of differences in meaning dictionaries of false friends (or cognate words)	these give advice on words which are easily confused with similar-looking words in other languages, e.g. see Unit 6 of this book
CD-ROM and online dictionaries	some publishers include a CD-ROM with their learners' dictionaries and/or have put their dictionaries on the Internet; with these dictionaries, searching is very quick and easy – you can search for words, meanings, examples, words you only half-know, all much faster than using a book

The publisher of this book, Cambridge University Press, includes a CD-ROM with the Cambridge Advanced Learner's Dictionary, the Cambridge Dictionary of American English and the Cambridge Learner's Dictionary. You can also look up words online in these three dictionaries, as well as in the Cambridge International Dictionary of Phrasal Verbs and the Cambridge International Dictionary of Idioms.

Information in dictionaries

A good dictionary will tell you some or all of the following:

information	comments
word	regional alternatives may be given, e.g. nappy (UK) versus diaper (US)
spelling	perhaps more than one correct spelling exists, e.g. encyclopedia and encyclopaedia , or regional spellings, e.g. centre (UK) versus center (US)
pronunciation	this may involve phonetic symbols; the dictionary usually gives a list of the symbols used; alternative and/or regional pronunciations may be given, e.g. /tə'mɑːtəʊ/ (UK) versus /tə'meɪtəʊ/ (US)
meaning	a definition, or a picture, or a diagram; regional differences in meaning may also be given, e.g. Slim in East African English means the disease AIDS
senses	the word face has several different senses, including (1) the eyes, nose, mouth, etc., (2) one's expression (a sad face), (3) the front, vertical part of something, e.g. a cliff face . (See Unit v.)

information	comments grammar and word class	Is the word a noun? Can it also be a verb? Which prepositions follow it? (e.g. is compared with the same as compared to ?)
collocations	What words normally combine with this word, e.g. alibi and cast-iron , see Unit 77? (See also Unit iv.)
register	Is the word formal or informal? Is it old-fashioned, poetic, academic? (See Unit vii.)
connotations and cultural information	Does the word have a positive or negative association, e.g. see the verb cause in Unit 70? Is it often used ironically? Does the word have an interesting history? Was it borrowed from another language? (See Unit viii.)
related words	Is it a synonym or antonym of another word? (See Unit ii.)
examples	Good learners' dictionaries give example sentences or phrases. Examples are often taken from computer databases of real texts or else written specially to illustrate key features of meaning and use.

TIP When buying a dictionary, take a checklist based on B above, and see how many of the types of information each dictionary offers, then choose the one that is best for your needs.

Exercises

iii.1 In a good dictionary, such as the Cambridge Advanced Learner's Dictionary, look up the word dissimilar. Are there any special aspects of usage that you should make a note of?

If your dictionary does not tell you anything special about its usage, look at the notes about usage of dissimilar in Unit 71.

iii.2 Look in your dictionary and find out which two prepositions normally follow the adjective liable.

iii.3 Find a dictionary which has the word ought in it. What special information does the dictionary give about its usage?

iii.4 If you can access the Internet, go to the website for Cambridge University Press dictionaries at dictionary.cambridge.org and find out if the two phrasal verbs catch up with and catch up on are the same, or whether there are differences in meaning.

A

Collocation is concerned with the way words occur together, often in unpredictable ways. It is a very good idea when learning new words to learn any typical collocations that go with them.

Adjective + noun collocations

Nouns often have typical adjectives which go with them. Here are some examples.

Compare article and thing:

We say	but not usually ...
the real thing	the genuine thing
the genuine article	the real article

Examples:

I don't like recorded music, I prefer the real thing. [i.e. real, live music]

These trainers are the genuine article. Those others are just cheap imported copies.

Other examples:

You can give a broad summary of something. (Not: a ~~wide summary~~)

You can describe something in great detail. (Not: ~~in big detail~~)

Some adjectives go with a restricted range of nouns.

For example: a formidable task/opponent/amount/person

Verb + adverb collocations

Often, verbs have typical adverbs that collocate with them. The lines in the chart show which collocations are normal:

Other examples:

It's something I feel strongly about. (Not: I ~~feel powerfully about~~)

If I remember rightly, it happened at about six-thirty. (Not: ~~If I remember perfectly~~)

Adverb + adjective collocations

It is useful to learn which adverbs most typically modify particular types of adjectives. For example, the adverb utterly, which means totally or completely, generally occurs before an adjective. The majority of these adjectives have a negative connotation. Typical examples are: alien, appalling, blank, dismal, depressed, disgusting, distasteful, false, fatuous, impossible, lost, ludicrous, naïve, ridiculous. Try to notice this kind of regularity when learning words.

Verb + object collocations

Verbs and their objects often form collocations.

You raise your hand to ask a question. (Not: ~~lift your hand~~)

You can raise a family. (i.e. bring up children; not: ~~lift a family~~)

You can visit / go to / check out a website on the Internet.

Exercises

iv.1 Choose between real and genuine in these sentences. Circle the more normal collocation. If both are acceptable, circle them both.

- 1 The Egyptian Pyramid hotel in Las Vegas is great, but I'd prefer to see the real/genuine thing.
- 2 He just doesn't live in the real/genuine world. He lives in a fantasy world all the time.
- 3 This briefcase is made of real/genuine leather.
- 4 She is a very real/genuine person. If she promises something, she'll do it.
- 5 This home-made champagne is nice, but it's not as good as the real/genuine article.

iv.2 Choose one of the words below each sentence to fill the gaps. In each case only one of them is the normal collocation for the underlined word.

- 1 After his death, she went to the hospital to collect his personal
a) affairs b) objects c) effects d) extras
- 2 He made a rather attempt at an apology, but it didn't convince anyone.
a) faint b) frail c) fragile d) feeble
- 3 George was a opponent, and I respected him for that.
a) formidable b) dreadful c) forbidding d) threatening
- 4 I was feeling anxious when she didn't arrive.
a) totally b) pretty c) utterly d) blatantly
- 5 She seemed to be bewildered by the answer they gave her.
a) vividly b) strongly c) utterly d) heavily iv.3 Circle the most suitable collocation in these sentences. The word you choose should have the approximate meaning given in brackets.

- 1 A brisk/brusque/brash (quick and energetic) walk before breakfast helps to enforce/sharpen/grow (increase, make stronger) the appetite.
- 2 The death tally/tale/toll in the earthquake has now risen to 20,000. (number or total)
- 3 Let's take a sluggish/plodding/leisurely stroll along the beach, shall we? (slow and not energetic)
- 4 If you want to stay at home tonight, that's utterly/perfectly/blatantly OK with me. (completely, 100%)
- 5 My aunt bequeathed/bequested/bereaved £20,000 in her will to cancer research. (gave after her death)
- 6 If I remember rightly/keenly/fairly she had two brothers, both older than her. (correctly)
- 7 If you want information about the publisher of this book, you can accede/call/visit their website at www.cambridge.org (consult, look at).
- 8 Eating all those peanuts has spoilt/attacked/lowered my appetite. I don't feel like dinner now. (destroyed, decreased) iv.4 Which collocation is more likely? Circle the correct answer.

- | | |
|---------------------------------|--|
| 1 a strong car / a powerful car | 4 a doleful party / a doleful expression |
| 2 strong tea / powerful tea | 5 a lengthy car / a lengthy meeting |
| 3 auburn hair / auburn carpet | |

FOLLOW UP

During the next seven days, try to find one new collocation that you were not aware of before for each of these categories:

ADJECTIVE + NOUN VERB + OBJECT VERB + ADVERB

Polysemy

Polysemy is concerned with the way words often have a number of different meanings.

A

Look at these sentences and think about how you would translate the words in italics into your own language.

It's only fair that we should share the housework.

The Frankfurt Book Fair is a very important event for most publishers.

Our caravan gives us shelter through fair weather or foul.

I've got fair eyelashes and my eyes look awful without mascara.

His marks in his final exams were fair to disappointing.

The firefighters managed to save the children from the burning third-floor flat.

The countryside round here is terribly flat and boring.

To join the Fitness Club you pay a flat fee of £500.

The tune is in B flat minor.

He erected the shed in five minutes flat.

You probably need a different word to translate fair and flat in each sentence.

These sentences illustrate what linguists call polysemy, i.e. the fact that many words in English have more than one meaning. Sometimes the meanings are clearly related – flat as in countryside has a connection with flat as in apartment in that they both include an idea of being on one level. Sometimes, however, there is no connection at all.

For example, the meaning of fair as in Book Fair does not seem to be connected in any way with any of the other meanings of fair. Words like this can also be called homographs (same spellings but different meanings).

Here is another example. Which polysemous word can fill the gaps in all these sentences?

He struck a and we slowly began to look around the dark cave.

The teenage cooks in the competition were a for any of the adults.

Their marriage has been called a made in heaven.

B

One element of polysemy in English is that the language is very flexible and words can sometimes be used as different parts of speech. Flat with its apartment meaning, for instance, can become an adjective, e.g. a set of flat keys.

C

It is useful to be aware of polysemy in English for two main reasons.

- You need to be aware that the meaning you first learnt for a word may not be the one that it has in a new context.
- Learning about the range of meanings that a word can have can help you, as it were, to learn several meanings for the price of one.

The context of a word with multiple meanings will usually make it absolutely clear which of the word's possible meanings is intended. What, for example, would the noun drill probably mean in (a) a dental context, (b) an army context, (c) a road-building context?

We shall deal with some examples of polysemy at different places in this book. However, you should also be aware of it when you are using your dictionary and should note down any useful additional meanings for words that you have looked up.

Metaphor is concerned with using words in abstract rather than literal ways.

A

Metaphor is a way of expressing something by comparing it with something else that has similar characteristics.

If we call a city a jungle, for example, we are using a metaphor. We are suggesting that a city is like a jungle in that it is wild and full of dangers.

If we say that someone lights up our life, we are using a metaphor. We are suggesting that person is like a light in our life in that they bring us great happiness.

Many idioms are metaphorical expressions which are in common use. For example: to be on the ball [to be very aware of things and ready to act – like a good footballer], or to keep someone or something on a tight rein [to have a lot of control over someone or something – like a rider having control over a horse] are also metaphors.

vi.1 Here are some more idioms which are based on metaphors. What is the idiom in each sentence and what does it mean? What aspect of life does it draw its image from?

- Jane's going to be in the saddle while the boss is on holiday.
- It's hard to know what to do when management keeps moving the goalposts.
- Starting his own decorating business was just another of his half-baked ideas.
- We've had to tighten our belts since Sam lost his job.

vi.2 More unusual and original metaphors are used a great deal in literature. Here are some famous metaphors from Shakespeare. Underline the metaphors in each case and explain what they suggest.

- All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players.
- Night's candles are burnt out; and jocund day stands tiptoe on the misty mountain tops.
- There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune.

C

Many words in English are so frequently used in a metaphorical way that English speakers may no longer notice that they are metaphors. Here are some examples.

- Intelligence is equated with light; for example, a clever person is called bright and a less intelligent person dim.
- Intensity of feeling or passion is equated with temperature; someone who is enthusiastic at one time and not at another is said to blow hot and cold.
- The movement of people is equated with the movement of water; we can, for example, talk of people flooding or trickling out of a hall.
- Time is equated with money; both can be spent or wasted or used profitably.
- Business is likened to a military operation; strategies, tactics and campaigns are used in both.

vi.3 Here are some more examples of the five metaphorical concepts above. Underline the metaphor and say which concept it exemplifies and what it suggests.

- This book throws a great deal of fresh light on the history of the period.
- We could save half an hour at least if we went through the wood.
- Try to keep cool even if he argues with you.
- She spent all her life fighting to get her company recognised.
- Police tried to control the flow of the fans as they left the concert.

Register is concerned with the overall tone of a text or conversation, and the relationship that is built between the speaker and listener, or reader and writer. It is important to speak and write in the appropriate register for the situation.

A Formal and informal words

Some words may be more formal or informal, while other words may be quite neutral. It is a good idea to mark words as formal or informal if they have such associations.

Is your other half not with you today? [informal: husband/wife]

She brought her new bloke to the party. [informal: boyfriend]

I saw him conversing with a woman in a red car. [formal: having a conversation]

Sometimes it is possible to arrange words into sets of neutral, formal and informal words:

neutral	formal	informal
TV/television		the box/telly
glasses	spectacles	specs
clothes	clothing/garments	clobber/kit

B Speech and writing

Some words are more associated with either spoken or written language. Again, in such cases, it is worth noting if a word has a particularly strong association with speech (S) or writing (W).

word/phrase	S/W	comment and example subsequently	W	conjunction: in speech more likely to be 'later' or 'afterwards', e.g. The police found some important clues. Subsequently , three people were arrested.
in sum	W	conjunction: means 'to sum up', e.g. In sum , we may say that most, but not all, English adverbs end in -ly.
whatsisname/ whatsername	S	vague word: used when we cannot remember the name of a person, e.g. I met whatsisname at the party, you know, the guy who works at the university.
thingy	S	vague word: used as a noun, of people and things whose name one cannot remember, e.g. Give me that thingy there, yes, that bottle opener.
mind you	S	discourse marker: used to bring attention to an important point, e.g. He's a good actor. Mind you , he should be; he went to the best drama college.
now then!	S	discourse marker: used to get people's attention when something is about to happen, e.g. Now then! I want everyone to put their luggage together in one pile.

C Outdated words

Some words and expressions may be correct, but may sound archaic (outdated) or old-fashioned, e.g. asylum [hospital for the mentally ill], frock [dress], wireless [radio], consumption [tuberculosis/TB], eyeglasses [glasses].

Exercises

vii.1 Make the underlined words in these sentences formal or informal, as instructed.

- 1 She works in a shop that sells women's clothes. (formal)
- 2 I've got some new spectacles. Do you like them? (informal)
- 3 Did you see that documentary about Wales on TV last night? (informal)
- 4 Have you met Lily's new boyfriend? (informal)
- 5 I spent the morning talking with the Director. (formal)
- 6 Molly was there with her other half. He's a nice chap. (formal) vii.2 Complete the table using the words from the box. Do not fill the shaded boxes.

shades meal kids cop ensure umbrella children
neutral	formal	informal offspring sunglasses
policeman/woman	police officer broolly repast
make sure

vii.3 Decide whether these words are more likely to be associated with everyday spoken or everyday written English. Write S or W next to the word.

- 1 frequently 2 start 3 begin 4 maybe 5 moreover vii.4 What do you think are the present-day equivalents of these now outdated English words? Use a dictionary if necessary.

- 1 apothecary 2 damsel 3 poesy 4 whither vii.5 Look at these text extracts and decide which register types you would classify them in. Underline key words which help you decide the register. For example, if you think the text is 'formal, poetic, archaic and written', which word(s) make you think that?

Some register types:

literary/poetic/non-literary archaic/modern spoken/written academic/non-academic technical/non-technical formal/informal

1 When using a .pst file that is stored in a shared directory, or else one that is located on a file server, use the Macron file system to restrict access to the .pst file.

2 Views are certainly divided on the answers to the questions listed above; even whether it matters that pluralism and different paradigms reign in SLA is a matter of ornery and splenetic debate. (Block 1996; Gregg et al 1997)

3 Sweetest love, I do not go,
For weariness of thee,
Nor in hope the world can show
A fitter love for me;
But since that I
Must die at last, 'tis best,
To use my self in jest
Thus by feigned deaths to die.

4 And so, my fellow Americans: ask not what your country can do for you – ask what you can do for your country. My fellow citizens of the world: ask not what America will do for you, but what together we can do for the freedom of man.

5 Mind you there was a lot of rain in Germany over Christmas wasn't there, cos I saw the river in Bonn on the news on telly. The Rhine. Yeah. The river in Bonn.

Connotation and cultural associations

Connotation is concerned with the associations which a word or expression has.

A

Now that you are at an advanced level of English you need to become more aware not only of what words mean but also of what their connotations are. Connotation is the term which linguists use to refer to the associations which words have for speakers of a language.

For example, the word cowboy, as used in an expression like cowboy builders or cowboy plumbers, has associations of dishonesty and unreliability.

The connotations which words have are often exploited in advertisements. For example, an advertisement for an Indian firm of builders took the slogan:

You've tried the cowboys. Now try the Indians.

This slogan draws on two sets of connotations – the cowboy association mentioned above and the association of cowboys and Indians as from Wild West films. It neatly suggests that Indians, as the traditional opponents of cowboys, embody as builders the opposite characteristics of honesty and reliability.

Very often connotations may be quite personal. Someone who had a bad experience of dogs in childhood may think of a dog as being fierce and frightening, whereas for others dogs may represent loyalty and friendship. It may help you to learn words if you keep your own personal connotations in mind as you try to memorise them.

For example, imagine that you want to learn the three words below. What personal associations do they have for you? Close your eyes and imagine these things in your own personal context as you try to learn the words.

a diamond

Some connotations, however, are shared by all or most members of a language group and you need to appreciate what such connotations are in order fully to understand much of modern writing, in particular journalism. What are the connotations of shark, scar and diamond for English speakers in general?

C

Connotations used in journalism may be quite short-lived. The phrase The Iron Lady, for example, used to refer to Mrs Thatcher when she was Prime Minister of Britain in the 1980s, (the image being of a strong, hard and unyielding woman), soon lost any strong associations for most people when she lost office. Sometimes connotations are not the same for all native speakers of the same language but may vary from one geographical area to the next. Black cats, for example, have associations with good luck in Britain but with bad luck in the USA. Good modern dictionaries will give you information about widely shared connotations.

D

The connotations which words have in English may be the same in your language too. Can you match the colours with their connotations in English? Are any of these the same in your language?

- | | |
|----------|---------------|
| 1 blue | purity |
| 2 green | evil |
| 3 yellow | miserable |
| 4 red | inexperienced |
| 5 white | danger |
| 6 black | a coward |

In this book we shall refer to connotations whenever they are relevant. Be aware of them also in your own reading and listening. Make notes of any interesting examples you encounter.

I Abbreviations and acronyms

Abbreviations are simply the shortening of words and expressions.

Some common abbreviations come from Latin:

e.g. for example, from exempli gratia

i.e. that is, from id est

NB note well, from nota bene

AD the year of Our Lord, used to count years since the birth of Christ, from Anno Domini

Some come from shortened words:

bedsit: one room which is a bedroom and a sitting room sitcom: short for situational comedy (a kind of TV programme)

sci-fi: science fiction

Some are pronounced as individual letters:

EU European Union

ID identity document

BC Before Christ, used to count years before the birth of Christ

asap as soon as possible

Some abbreviations are acronyms, i.e. they are formed from the first letters (or occasionally syllables) of a word or series of words and are pronounced as a word:

AIDS /eɪdz/ acquired immune deficiency syndrome

NATO /'neɪtəʊ/ North Atlantic Treaty Organisation

Some can be pronounced both as an acronym and as individual letters:

VAT value-added tax, pronounced /væt/ or /vi: eɪ ti:/

UFO unidentified flying object, pronounced /'ju:fəʊ/ or /ju: ef 'əʊ/

B

Sometimes abbreviations can have more than one meaning.

AA Alcoholics Anonymous [an organisation helping people with alcohol-related problems] and the AA the Automobile Association [a UK motorists' club]

PC personal computer or Police Constable [the lowest rank of police officer in the UK] or politically correct [avoiding expressions which may suggest prejudice and cause offence]

m metre, mile, million, male, married p per, pence, page

Some abbreviations are particularly common in writing.

RSVP reply please [used on invitations, from French, répondez s'il vous plaît]

PTO please turn over

FAQ frequently asked question [found mainly on websites]

These abbreviations are increasingly common in electronic text messages:

FYI for your information AFK away from keyboard LOL laughing out loud

BTW by the way R are C see U you EZ easy 4 for 2 to, too, two

Abbreviations are often used in newspaper small ads for accommodation.

£300 pcm excl: rent is £300 per calendar month excluding payment for gas, electricity, etc.

£60 pw inc: rent is £60 per week including gas, electricity, etc.

f/f: fully furnished s/c: self-contained [has all it needs within itself] suit n/s prof female: would suit a non-smoking woman in a professional job all mod cons: all modern conveniences, e.g. washing machine

ch: central heating d/g: double garage o.n.o.: or nearest offer

Note that you may see different punctuation for these expressions – c/h, c.h. and ch

Exercises

1.1 Insert the correct Latin abbreviations from A into the gaps.

- 1 This antique vase dates from 1500
- 2 Fruit, the usually sweet part of a tree or bush which contains seeds, is normally delicious to eat.
- 3 fruit cannot be taken across the border into the USA.
- 4 Fruits, lemons, pears and grapes, are sometimes added when cooking poultry.

1.2 How are the abbreviations in these sentences pronounced? What do they stand for?

- 1 If he can't kick the habit on his own, he should try joining AA.
- 2 Read pp.10–22 for homework.
- 3 Cars must not exceed 30 mph in a built-up area.
- 4 The film gives a convincing depiction of life BC despite some curious anachronisms.
- 5 Do you believe in UFOs?
- 6 Write back asap.

1.3 What do these abbreviations stand for? Choose from the words in the box. Use each word once only.

- 1 WHO 2 UNESCO 3 IMF 4 OBE 5 GMT 6 IOC 7 RSPCA 8 EST

Animals	Educational	International	Organisation	Standard
British	Empire	Mean	Organisation	Time
Committee	Fund	Monetary	Prevention	Time
Cruelty	Greenwich	Nations	Royal	United
Cultural	Health	Olympic	Scientific	World
Eastern	International	Order	Society

1.4 Translate this mobile phone text message into standard English.

c u 4 t at 3, OK? BTW K's going 2 b here 2.

1.5 As requested in the note below, write an advert to appear in the small ads column of the local newspaper. Use D opposite to help you and be as brief as possible.

Could you prepare an advert for a girl to rent the third bedroom in our flat? We want someone who doesn't smoke and it would be nice to have a teacher or a nurse or someone in a reasonably reliable job. The advert had better mention that the flat is fully furnished and centrally heated and has all the kitchen appliances she might need. Don't, of course, forget to say that she would have to pay £220 a month, not including bills.

1.6 Write an advert for someone to rent your own house or flat.

1.7 Sometimes the exact name of an organisation is chosen so that its acronym has a humorous or memorable effect. For example, ASH stands for Action on Smoking and Health. Here are some more examples. What do you think the other letters stand for?

- 1 DUMP Disposal of Medicines and
- 2 NOW National of Women
- 3 UNITE of National Income Tax Employees
- 4 CALL Computer Assisted Learning
- 5 AAAAA American for the of Abbreviations and Acronyms

A

Preposition-based prefixes: different meanings

Over- may indicate (a) an excess of something, or (b) something that covers or dominates something, or (c) the crossing of some kind of barrier.

- (a) EXCESS That film was overrated in my view. [people said it was better than it really was]
It was a bad restaurant, with an overpriced menu. [too high prices]
- (b) COVER In this program, you can choose to overwrite the existing file or to save it as a new file. [cover/replace the old text with the new text]
Our garden is overshadowed by the block of flats next door. [the flats cast a shadow over our garden]
She always felt overshadowed by her older, more successful, sister. [metaphorical use, felt less important than]
- (c) CROSS He overstepped the mark when he said that. [crossed a barrier into offensive/unacceptable behaviour]
Will you be staying overnight? [from one day to the next]

Under- may indicate (a) less than the desired amount, or (b) something below another thing, or (c) some kind of negative behaviour.

Cross- (from across) usually indicates a link between two separated things.

- Cross-border cooperation has led to a number of arrests of drug smugglers. [across the frontiers of two or more countries]
Cross-cultural misunderstandings often happen. [between people of different cultures]

B

Less frequent prefixes

Con-/com- often suggests mixing things together. It often occurs in verbs of communication.
converse commiserate condolences congeal contaminate

E- can give the idea of something coming out of something.

- They were ejected from the restaurant for bad behaviour. [formal: thrown out]
The machine emitted a loud noise and then stopped working. [formal: gave out]

A(d)- often means adding something to something or that things are connected. Sometimes the 'd' is replaced by doubling the following consonant.

- The building is adjacent to / adjoins the hotel. [formal: is next to]
She gave me an annotated edition of Shakespeare's works. [with notes added]

Pro- can often suggest pushing something forward or increasing it.

- promote proliferate procrastinate procreate

Exercises

2.1 Decide which of the meanings of over- and under- are most obvious in the words in bold. Use the labels (a), (b) or (c), as in A opposite. Circle the correct letter. Use a dictionary if necessary.

- | | | | |
|--|---|---|---|
| 1 I really think she overstated her case, and lost a lot of sympathy. | a | b | c |
| 2 The plane's undercarriage failed to open and it crashed. | a | b | c |
| 3 A detailed list of awards is given overleaf . | a | b | c |
| 4 He has a very overbearing personality. | a | b | c |
| 5 The project was underfunded from the outset. | a | b | c |
| 6 During the cruise, a child fell overboard and drowned. | a | b | c |

2.2 Rewrite these sentences using words from the opposite page.

EXAMPLE Cooperation across the frontier has been very good.
 Cross-border cooperation has been very good.

- The hotel gave me a luxury room instead of the ordinary one I'd booked.
- Would you like to spend the night there or come back the same day?
- The problem that lies under the surface is a very serious one.
- Misunderstandings between cultures are, sadly, very frequent.
- I think this hotel charges too much.
- It's slippery walking just here. Be careful.
- The company experienced a rise in popularity since it changed its name.
- I felt that what she said was critical of my position and weakened it somewhat.
- It would be a mistake to think Frances was less intelligent than she really is.

2.3 Which of these words may be used with the prefix a(d)- as in B opposite? Circle YES or NO. How is the prefixed word written? Use a dictionary if necessary.

EXAMPLE	fix	YES	NO	affix
1	locate	YES	NO
2	verse	YES	NO
3	state	YES	NO
4	mission	YES	NO
5	pertain	YES	NO
6	minister	YES	NO
7	drain	YES	NO

2.4 Write sentences to illustrate the meaning of these words. Use a dictionary if necessary.

- 1 promote 2 proliferate 3 procrastinate 4 procreation

2.5 What is the approximate meaning of the prefixes highlighted in the following words? Use a dictionary if necessary.

- abdicate abscond abduct
- ablaze afloat adrift
- extraterrestrial extraneous extracurricular
- interrelated interdepartmental Internet
- intravenous intradepartmental intranet

Suffixes: productive suffixes and word classes

A Productive suffixes

Some suffixes are productive [used to create new words]. You therefore need to understand their meaning if you are reading contemporary English. You might also feel adventurous enough to try coining [creating] some words of your own! The meaning of the example words below is clear from the meanings of the root and the suffix. (In the word washable, wash is the root and able is the suffix.)

- able can be used productively, whereas -ible never is. It combines with verbs to form adjectives. Note that -able means 'can be': a washable jacket is one that can be washed. disposable nappies, predictable results, avoidable problems, a manageable situation
- conscious combines with nouns to form adjectives that describe people who consider one aspect of their lives especially important: health-conscious person, class-conscious society, safety-conscious company, time-conscious workforce
- esque combines with the names of famous people to form adjectives that describe something or someone similar in style: Picasso-esque paintings
- free combines with nouns describing something undesirable to form adjectives to describe nouns without that undesirable aspect: stress-free life, tax-free shop, additive-free food
- rich combines with nouns (often chemical or organic substances) to form adjectives to describe nouns with a lot of that substance: fibre-rich diet, calcium-rich foods
- led combines with nouns and nationality adjectives to form adjectives describing things that are controlled or influenced by the original noun or nationality: community-led initiative, student-led protest, worker-led uprising
- minded combines with adjectives or nouns to form new adjectives describing people with particular characters, opinions or attitudes: like-minded friends [with similar interests], career-minded young women, money-minded managers
- proof combines with nouns to form adjectives describing things that can resist the damage or difficulty caused by that noun: ovenproof dish, waterproof jacket, soundproof room, idiot-proof instructions
- related combines with nouns to form adjectives to describe one thing as connected with another: stress-related absence from work, age-related earnings, tobacco-related illness
- ridden combines with nouns to form adjectives describing people or things with a lot of that noun: guilt-ridden person, crime-ridden city. Note that if a person is bedridden, they have to stay in bed because they are ill.
- worthy combines with nouns to form adjectives that describe people or things that merit whatever the original noun refers to: newsworthy incident [worth reporting in the news], praiseworthy action/pupil [deserving praise]

B Different word classes

- ly is not only an adverb ending, it also forms quite a few adjectives: lively children [full of energy], costly holiday [expensive], leisurely walk [relaxed], miserly man [mean with money]
- ant is most familiar as an adjective ending (relevant information, distant hills) but it can also make nouns from verbs to describe a person: an applicant for a job, an insurance claimant, a police informant, a quiz contestant, an occupant of a house
- en makes adjectives from nouns (woollen jumper, golden hair) but it also makes verbs from adjectives: to moisten your lips, to sweeten tea, a situation worsens, a face reddens

Exercises

3.1 Complete the table below with your own examples.

suffix	new example in phrase	suffix	new example in phrase
-able	a debatable issue	-minded
-conscious		-proof
-free		-related
-rich		-ridden
-led		-worthy

3.2 Match each adjective on the left with the two nouns it best collocates with in the box.

EXAMPLE student-led rebellion, demonstration

- 1 additive-free
- 2 avoidable
- 3 disposable
- 4 guilt-ridden
- 5 high-minded
- 6 newsworthy
- 7 oil-rich
- 8 ovenproof
- 9 soundproof
- 10 stress-related

knives and forks	income	drinks	mistake rebellion	delay	foods	criminal expression	glove	booth	speech
dish	country	demonstration	personality
principles	problems	economy

3.3 Which of the suffixes in A opposite could combine with the words in the box below to make new words? Note that there is more than one possibility for each word.

age dust Byron sugar work

3.4 Rewrite the sentences using the suffix given in brackets.

EXAMPLE The weather can't be predicted. (-able) The weather is unpredictable.

- 1 Poisonous mushrooms can be easily identified. (-able)
- 2 He thinks so much about his career that he has no time for his family. (-minded)
- 3 The new phone boxes are supposed to be indestructible by vandals. (-proof)
- 4 During the Civil War, the country was totally overcome by terror. (-ridden)
- 5 The soil on that farm contains a lot of nutrients. (-rich)
- 6 The bank decided that he did not have enough income to allow him credit. (-worthy)

3.5 Using a suffix from A make up words with the following meanings.

- 1 operating in the style of the current President of the USA
- 2 food for vegetarians must be this
- 3 connected with class
- 4 containing a lot of vitamins
- 5 can be dry-cleaned
- 6 very aware of people's clothes
- 7 initiated by the government

3.6 Are the following words adverbs, adjectives or verbs? Check in your dictionary.

- | | | | |
|------------|----------|------------|----------|
| 1 dampen | 3 dearly | 5 roughen | 7 kindly |
| 2 friendly | 4 silken | 6 masterly | 8 darken |

Word-building and word-blending

Many literary or academic words in English are formed using ancient Greek and Latin prefixes and roots. Many English speakers are not aware of the meanings of the word parts listed here, but knowing them can help you to understand and remember new words.

A Common well-established word parts

word part*	meaning	example
auto-	self	an autonomous country [self-ruling]
bio-	life, living things	biodegradable packaging [able to decay naturally]
cyber-	relating to computers and robots	a cybercafé [café where customers can use computers with the Internet]
de-	opposite action	to decolonise a country [remove colonists from]
-graph-, -gram	writing	a monograph [long article or short book on a subject that the writer has studied for a long time]
-gress-	step, walk, go	a congress [a conference, i.e. a meeting where people come together]
-ics	an area of study or knowledge	obstetrics [the study of childbirth]
-phon-	sound	phonetics [the study of human speech]
-ology	study	criminology [the study of crime]
pre- (opposite = post-)	before	prepaid postage [paid for in advance]
retro-	back, backwards	retroactive law [taking effect from a date in the past]
techno-	relating to advanced machines	technophobia [fear of using technological machines such as computers]
tele-	over a distance	telepathic experience [feeling something from a distance]

*The dash (-) in this column indicates whether the word part is usually found at the beginning, in the middle or at the end of a word.

Although these word parts above will help you to understand words, you cannot use them as freely to form new words as the productive prefixes and suffixes in Unit 2 and Unit 3.

B Blends

An interesting, if much less common, way of forming words is by combining two well-established words, e.g. brunch = a meal that is a combination of breakfast and lunch.

heliport: a place where helicopters can land and take off (helicopter + airport)

smog: polluted fog (smoke + fog) motel: a roadside hotel for people travelling by car (motor + hotel)

Chunnel: tunnel linking Britain and France (Channel + tunnel) guesstimate: an approximate calculation (guess + estimate; verb – to guesstimate) docusoap: TV series about real people using hidden cameras (documentary + soap opera) breathalyser: a device to find out how much alcohol a person has drunk (breath + analyse)

Exercises

4.1 Using information from the table in A, explain the basic meanings of these words.

EXAMPLE biography = writing about a life

- | | |
|-----------------|------------------|
| 1 telegram | 5 to retrogress |
| 2 telephone | 6 graphology |
| 3 autobiography | 7 to destabilise |
| 4 phonology | 8 autograph |

4.2 Can you think of five more words using only those word parts listed in A and any other basic endings like -ist or -ical?

4.3 Look at the following prefixes. Use your dictionary to find two new words beginning with these prefixes and write them in your vocabulary notebook.

Choose only words that use the prefixes studied in this unit. Postman, for example, clearly has not been formed using the prefix post-.

- | | | | |
|----------|---------|--------|--------|
| 1 cyber | 3 retro | 5 auto | 7 post |
| 2 techno | 4 tele | 6 pre | 8 phon |

4.4 Rewrite these sentences, replacing the underlined words with a word that includes the word part given. Use a dictionary if necessary.

EXAMPLE I had to put off my trip to Japan. (POST)

I had to postpone my trip to Japan.

- 1 She asked the star for his signature on the back of her table napkin. (GRAPH)
- 2 She took a degree in the science of crime at Stockholm University. (OLOGY)
- 3 The novel is largely based on the writer's own life. (BIO)
- 4 It's an exhibition looking back at the painter's life and work. (RETRO)
- 5 He believes you can cure yourself by telling yourself you are cured. (AUTO)
- 6 Working at home and keeping in contact with the office by phone, fax and modem is becoming increasingly common. (TELE)
- 7 Some areas are now deliberately trying to become less industrial. (DE)
- 8 Crime committed through the Internet is a growing cause for concern. (CYBER)

4.5 Rewrite these sentences, replacing the underlined word with an explanatory phrase.

EXAMPLE Most of the time planes fly on autopilot.

Most of the time planes fly automatically, controlled by a computer rather than the pilot.

- 1 The firm makes job applicants do a graphology test.
- 2 Johnny loves his cyberpet.
- 3 Matt's a techno-wizard!
- 4 He's giving a paper at a pre-conference event in Spain.
- 5 Is it OK if I post-date this cheque?

4.6 What words have been combined to make these blends? What do you think they mean?

- | | | |
|---------------|--------------|-------------|
| 1 infomercial | 3 cybrary | 5 swimathon |
| 2 edutainment | 4 vegeburger | 6 funtastic |

Global contact and language enrichment

Read the texts about English vocabulary and note the words and expressions that are useful for talking about language enrichment.

When one language takes words from another, the new items are called loan words or borrowings – though neither term is really appropriate as the receiving language does not give them back. Whereas the speakers of some languages take pains to exclude foreign words from their lexicons [vocabulary], English seems always to have welcomed them. Over 120 languages are on record as sources [where something comes from] of its present-day vocabulary.

English has been enormously extended by each wave of invaders coming to Britain. Thus, for example, Viking and Norman invasions hugely enriched [made richer] the basic Anglo-Saxon word stock [set of words]. Scholarship then introduced many words of classical origin [from ancient Latin or Greek] at the time of the Renaissance. Moreover, English speakers' contact with the world as, for example, explorers, pirates, imperialists, convicts or fortune-seekers have all had linguistic consequences [results affecting language].

Some English words may look like words in your language but have a different meaning. Such words are known as false friends, e.g. the German word Gift looks like the English word gift [(birthday) present] but actually means poison in German. The English word sympathetic resembles a word meaning, simply, nice in many other European languages, but in English sympathetic has a much narrower meaning [understanding and caring about someone else's suffering]. Note also that the pronunciation of a word borrowed into English may be quite different from its pronunciation in its language of origin.

At work: colleagues and routines

A Colleagues

Look at this extract of someone talking about their job and their colleagues.

Well, Philip is my opposite number [has the same position/does the same job as me] in the company's New York office.

He and I have a good working relationship [how we communicate and work together]. Last month we got a new boss, who quickly established a good rapport [ræp'ɔː/ communication/relationship] with everyone in the office. I do socialise with my workmates [informal: colleagues, especially in non-professional jobs] but we try not to talk shop [informal: talk about work].

The company is generally very hierarchical [haɪər'ɑːkɪkəl/ has a structure with powerful and less powerful people]; there's a pecking-order [a system where some people have the right to get benefits/promotions before others] for everything. I do a job-share [we each have a 50% contract for the same job] with a woman called Rosemary. It suits us both as we each have children to look after.

B Daily work routines

Nancy gets to work at about 8.45. She has to clock in and clock out [use an electronic card to record the time she arrives and leaves each day]. She works fixed hours; she has a nine-to-five job. Brett can come in at any time from eight o'clock till ten in the morning; he works flexi-time / he's on flexi-time, but his core hours are 10.00 to 12.00 and 2.00 to 4.00. Archie doesn't go to the office at all. He works from home with his computer; he's a teleworker. Bert works different times each week; every third week he works nights; he does shift work / he's a shift worker. Mick has his own company; he's self-employed and works from home. His wife works for different companies at different times; she's freelance / she works freelance.

C During the day (different work-patterns)

Most of the day I do routine tasks, but occasionally there's a crisis or I have to meet a deadline [have something finished by a fixed day or time]. At certain times of the year I have a very heavy workload [amount of work I have to do] but at other times it can be quite light.

I start work at my machine at seven o'clock when I'm on the day shift. The job's very mechanical [you don't have to think about what you are doing] and repetitive [the same thing every day].

All I ever think about is knocking off at three [informal: finishing work]. The shift I hate most is the night shift. I start at ten and work all night till six in the morning. The job's a bit monotonous [boring because it never changes].

I have a glamorous job [very exciting, which everyone admires]. I'm a pilot. The hours are irregular and antisocial [do not enable one to have a normal social life], but

I'm not stuck behind a desk [informal: sitting in an office all day] and there's a lot of variety. The stress levels can be quite high when you know people's lives depend on you. I feel sorry for people who are stuck in a rut [stuck in a job they can't escape from] or working in dead-end jobs [jobs with no prospects of promotion].

D Types of work

I have a lot of paperwork to do by tomorrow. [letters/reports to write, forms to complete]
My father did manual work all his life and was very fit. [hard and physical]
I think I'd like vocational work, like being a nurse or a teacher. [which helps people]

Exercises

7.1 Correct the mistakes in this paragraph.

I think I have a good work relationship with most of my colleagues. I tried to establish a good report with them from the very beginning. The person I like most is my opposite member in our office in Paris. Generally, when I socialise to my colleagues outside of work, we try not to talk about shop, but it's not easy and sometimes we have a good gossip about people who are not there.

7.2 Give three adjectives which you think describe each of these jobs (for example, stressful, glamorous, dead-end). Think of words you would use in your own language, then try to translate them into English. Use a dictionary if necessary.

- | | |
|------------------------|--------------------|
| 1 assembly-line worker | 5 lifeguard |
| 2 shop steward | 6 trawlerman |
| 3 PR officer | 7 private eye |
| 4 bodyguard | 8 refuse collector |

7.3 Use words and phrases from B and C on the opposite page to complete these sentences.

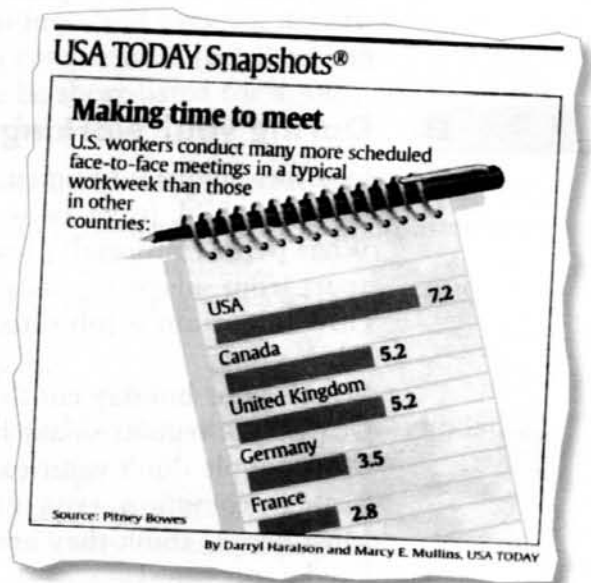

- I would get bored if I had a nine
- When I arrive in the morning and leave the office in the evening I use this card to
- I'm very tired; recently I've had a very heavy
- I don't want an office job. I don't want to spend all day stuck
- I can clock in any time between eight and ten and clock out between four and six; I'm on
- I'd hate to feel trapped in my job and to be stuck in
- He's not here this evening, he's working nights; you see, he does
- I work for different companies at different times as it suits me. I'm
- I used to work for someone else, but now I'm my own boss; I'm
- I stopped working in the hamburger restaurant. It was just a dead-.....
- When I was working in the factory, all I could think of all day was the moment when I could knock
- Being a nurse is a good job, but you can't go out much with friends. The hours are a bit

7.4 Using a dictionary if necessary, give one example of ...

- a manual job
- a vocational job
- a job with great variety
- a job with irregular hours
- a job with routine tasks
- a job with regular deadlines
- a job with lots of paperwork

The text has some words with similar meanings in connection with work; learn them in pairs:

motivated and eager (person) dynamic and fast moving (industry/profession) to seek a career in ... and to look to work in ... (note look to, meaning consider or hope, not look for)

B During your working life

In some countries, women are allowed maternity leave and men paternity leave if they're having a child. [time away from work to have a new baby]

What perks (informal) / (extra) benefits (formal) do you get in your job? [extra things apart from salary, e.g. a car]

How important is job satisfaction to you? [the feeling that your job is worth doing and fulfils you]

What's your holiday entitlement? [number of days you have the right to take as holiday]

Do you get regular salary increments? [formal: increases/rises]

Most people don't want to reach/hit a glass ceiling. [reach a level where you cannot get further promotion, even if you deserve it]

Most people think they are overworked and underpaid. [often said together as a humorous fixed expression]

Exercises

8.1 Make these rather informal sentences more formal by using words and phrases from the opposite page.

- 1 Do you often look at the job ads?
- 2 I haven't worked in sales before.
- 3 There's a lot of money in selling computers. I made 70k last year.
- 4 We sell quite a mixed range of products.
- 5 I thought I would apply for the job since it sounded just like me.

8.2 Find expressions on the left-hand page which mean the opposite of the underlined words or phrases.

- 1 a very loosely organised team
- 2 a very frustrating job
- 3 to have low motivation
- 4 a rather static and slow-moving profession
- 5 a drop in your salary

8.3 Read the text and answer the questions.

- 1 Why does 'a career' sound better than 'a job'?
- 2 What are 'ambiguous' situations?
- 3 What expression means 'not depending on other people'?
- 4 What is the abstract noun that means 'your ability to find clever or imaginative ways of doing things'?
- 5 What mental quality do you need for this job?
- 6 What job do you think this advertisement is for?

An exciting outdoor career

If you're an out-of-the-ordinary person who is looking for more than just a job, we are offering a unique career that requires you to use your intelligence, self-reliance and responsibility. If you have an adventurous spirit, a strong, positive personality, a tough mind and a high level of personal integrity, and if you think you can deal with rapidly-changing, ambiguous and unpredictable situations that will test your resourcefulness to the limit, then contact us now.

Phone 070037652, or e-mail personnel@leadership.com

8.4 Put these expressions into two groups: usually negative (-) and usually positive (+). Some of them are new expressions not on the opposite page.

- | | |
|--------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| 1 to hit a glass ceiling | 5 to be passed over for promotion |
| 2 to have a lot of perks | 6 to get turned down for a job |
| 3 to be snowed under | 7 to be short-listed for a job |
| 4 to be demoted | 8 to be a high-flyer |

8.5 Some words here are not used correctly or in their usual way. Correct them.

- 1 I started studying French at university, but I didn't finish my career and left after one year.
- 2 My boss rose my salary with £2,000 a year. I was delighted.
- 3 I'm underpaid and overworked, like everybody! And I'm always stressed up.
- 4 My holiday titlement is four weeks a year.
- 5 He got maternity leave when his wife had a baby.

8.6 Imagine you are a careers adviser. What advice would you give to someone who is ...

- 1 money motivated and who is prepared to take risks?
- 2 a very talented musician who is not necessarily money motivated?
- 3 an achiever who has a background in IT and is a very confident person?
- 4 suffering from a lack of job satisfaction in their present job?

A Modern business techniques

When John left school he was desperate for a job so he took the first one he was offered – in telesales¹. He thought telemarketing² sounded quite glamorous but soon found that most of the people he phoned hated cold-calling³ and put the phone down when he tried the hard sell⁴. When he realised that the company made most of its money through the rather dubious techniques of inertia selling⁵ and confusion marketing⁶, he decided to leave and train as a hairdresser instead.

- ¹ selling or marketing goods and services by phone
- ² see note 1
- ³ phoning people who have not requested a call in order to try to sell them something
- ⁴ attempt to sell something by being very forceful
- ⁵ when a company behaves as if you agreed to buy something because you did not actually refuse it
- ⁶ selling products and services in a package, in a way that makes it very difficult to work out which company is cheapest

B Buying and selling

Supermarkets sometimes sell an item very cheaply just so that they attract a lot of people into the shop where they will also buy more profitable items – the item being sold very cheaply is called a loss leader.

If a company finds a niche market, it finds a specialised, small group of customers with particular interests that that company can meet.

People sometimes make a purchasing decision based on brand loyalty. [confidence in that particular make and a tendency always to choose it]

If you shop around, you try different companies or shops to see which offers best value.

If you buy something on approval, you have the right to return it if it is not satisfactory.

If you have first refusal on something, the seller promises that you will be asked if you would like to buy it first, and only if you do not want it will it be offered for sale to others.

If an item is said to come/go under the hammer, it is sold at an auction. [sale of goods or property where people make gradually increasing bids and the item is then sold to the highest bidder]

C A business career

Sally started her own catering business and this turned out to be very lucrative¹. However, she got increasingly irritated by all the red tape² involved in business and when a larger company suggested merging³, she was interested. The two companies did not agree immediately on all the details of the takeover but they managed to reach a compromise⁴ and hammer out a deal⁵ without too much delay. In some ways Sally was sad that her company had been swallowed up⁶ but she is now quite glad to be free of the hassles of entrepreneurship⁷. She has used the money raised by the sale of her capital assets⁸ to buy a large house in the south of France.

- ¹ producing a lot of money
- ² bureaucracy (negative)
- ³ joining together to form one new company
- ⁴ come to an agreement in which both sides have to give in a little bit on what they would have otherwise liked
- ⁵ talk seriously and in detail until a business agreement is made
- ⁶ taken over by a larger company (slightly negative)
- ⁷ involvement in business and taking financial risks
- ⁸ buildings and machines owned by a company

Here are some things that people have said about business.

We demand that big business give the people a square deal; in return we must insist that when any one engaged in big business honestly endeavors to do right, he shall himself be given a square deal. (Theodore Roosevelt)

It is difficult but not impossible to conduct strictly honest business. What is true is that honesty is incompatible with the amassing of a large fortune. (Mahatma Gandhi)

The growth of a large business is merely the survival of the fittest [...] The American Beauty rose can be produced in the splendour and fragrance which bring cheer to its beholder only by sacrificing the early buds which grow up around it. (John D. Rockefeller)

The salary of the chief executive of the large corporation is not a market award for achievement. It is frequently in the nature of a warm personal gesture by the individual to himself. (J. K. Galbraith)

Accountants are the witch-doctors of the modern world and willing to turn their hands to any kind of magic. (Lord Justice Harman)

British management doesn't seem to understand the importance of the human factor. (Charles, Prince of Wales)

Cramming for success: study and academic work

A Study and exams

Before an exam you can revise or cram¹ for it. If the exam happens every year, you can look at past papers². Some things can be memorised or learnt off by heart. But rote-learning³ is not sufficient for most subjects. It is also possible to use mnemonics⁴. But tricks alone are not enough, and the best idea is to bury yourself in your books⁵ until you know the subject inside out⁶.

- ¹ study intensively for a short time
- ² exam papers from previous years
- ³ learning purely by repetition
- ⁴ [/'nɪ'mɒnɪks/] tricks that help you remember something, for example: 'i' after 'e' except after 'c' is a mnemonic for English spelling (e.g. friend, but receive)
- ⁵ spend the maximum time studying
- ⁶ know it completely

B Written work for courses, etc.

word	description
composition	could be just 50–100 words, often used to refer to children's work essay	longer than a composition, more serious, hundreds or even thousands of words assignment	a long essay, often part of a course, usually thousands of words project	like an assignment, but emphasis on student's own material and topic portfolio	a collection of individual pieces of work, not necessarily written dissertation	a long, research-based work, perhaps 10–15,000 words, for a degree or diploma thesis	a very long, original, research-based work, perhaps 80–100,000 words, for a higher degree (e.g. PhD)

C The writing process and evaluation

■ It's a good idea to start with a mind-map¹ when preparing an essay. Always write a first draft² before writing up the final version. Your essay should be all your own work; plagiarism³ is a very serious offence in most colleges and universities. There is usually a deadline⁴. After the essay is submitted⁵, it will be assessed⁶ and usually you can get feedback⁷.

- ¹ diagram that lays out ideas for the topic and how they are connected to one another
- ² first, rough version
- ³ /'pleɪdʒərɪzəm/ using other people's work as if it was yours
- ⁴ date by which you must hand in the work
- ⁵ handed in (formal)
- ⁶ evaluated and given a grade
- ⁷ comments from the teacher/tutor

D Aspects of higher academic study

University academics carry out [less formal 'do'] research and are expected to read academic journals [note: not magazines], which publish papers/articles on specialised subjects. If a library does not have a book or journal, you can usually get it through inter-library loan [system where libraries exchange books/journals with one another]. Academic study can be very demanding and intensive, and some students drop out [leave the course before the end because they cannot cope], but the majority survive till finals [the last exams before receiving a degree].

Exercises

11.1 Correct the wrong usage of words to do with written work in these sentences.

- 1 His PhD assignment was 90,000 words long and was on the history of US place names.
- 2 Little Martha did her first dissertation in school today. It was called 'My family'.
- 3 We have to hand in an essay at the end of the course. It can consist of up to five different pieces of work.
- 4 The teacher gave us the title of this week's project today. We have to write 1,000 words on the topic of 'If I ruled the world' and hand it in next Monday.
- 5 At the end of this course you have to do a 5,000-word thesis which will be assessed, and the grade will contribute to your final degree.
- 6 I think I'll do a study of people's personal banking habits for my MSc composition. It has to be about 12,000 words.
- 7 I've chosen to do the portfolio instead of the two exams, because I like to do one single piece of work where I can research something that interests me personally.

11.2 Rewrite this short text using words and phrases from A instead of the underlined words.

When I'm preparing intensively for an exam, I don't see any point in looking up exam papers from previous years, nor is there any point in just learning things by memory. I know some people develop very clever memory tricks to help them remember the material, but there's no real substitute for re-reading and going over the term's work. It's a good idea to have some sort of diagram to organise your ideas, and memory-learning is useful, but in a limited way. At the end of the day, you just have to read a huge amount until you feel you know the subject 100 per cent.

11.3 Here are some idiomatic expressions about studying and exams which are not on the opposite page. Use the context to guess what they mean and choose the right answer.

- 1 It's very easy to fall behind with your studies if you miss even just a few classes.
a) stay close behind other students b) find yourself far behind other students
c) get ahead of other students
- 2 She seemed to just breeze through the exams. Everyone else was in such a panic and almost had nervous breakdowns.
a) do them calmly and efficiently b) not take them seriously c) cheat in them
- 3 I just can't seem to get the hang of English prepositions. Just when I think I've learnt them I make new mistakes.
a) memorise b) understand c) enjoy
- 4 When I sat down and looked at the exam paper my mind just went blank. Everyone else seemed to be writing away quite happily.
a) became confused b) became very focused c) became empty

11.4 Answer these questions.

- 1 What do we call the first attempt at writing something, e.g. an essay?
- 2 What word means 'the date by which you must do something'?
- 3 What word means 'using someone else's ideas as if they were yours'?
- 4 What are more formal words for 'to hand in' and for 'to mark'?
- 5 What verb do we use when someone doesn't complete their course?
- 6 What is another word for an academic article? Where can you read them?
- 7 What is the name of the system for getting books from other libraries?
- 8 What word means 'the comments you get back from the teacher about your work'?

A Opportunity, equality, etc.

Read the text and note the phrases and collocations in bold.

All education systems may ultimately be judged in terms of equality of opportunity¹. This is not the same as the debates over selective² versus comprehensive³ schooling⁴. It is rather a matter of whether everyone has the same opportunities for educational achievement or whether elitism⁵ of one sort or another is inherent in⁶ the system. League tables⁷ for schools and colleges may actually help unintentionally to perpetuate⁸ inequalities, while claiming to promote the raising of standards. Inevitably, league tables divide the world into good and bad, success and failure, resulting in a two-tier system⁹, even if that is only how the public perceives¹⁰ it. The ability of the better-off¹¹ parents and well-endowed¹² schools to push children towards the institutions at the top of the league may, in the long term, have the effect of depressing¹³ opportunity for the less well-off¹⁴ or for children from home environments that do not provide the push and motivation to excel¹⁵.

- 1 when everyone has the same chances
- 2 pupils take exams for entry
- 3 everyone enters without exams
- 4 education received at school
- 5 when you favour a small, privileged group
- 6 existing as a basic part of something
- 7 lists of schools or colleges from the best down to the worst
- 8 make something continue forever
- 9 a system with two separate levels, one of which is better than the other
- 10 sees, considers
- 11 richer
- 12 receiving a lot of money in grants, gifts from rich people, etc.
- 13 reducing
- 14 poorer
- 15 achieve an excellent standard

B Other debates and issues

example sentence	meaning of words in bold
Some people think we should return to an emphasis on the three Rs .	reading, writing and arithmetic, the traditional, basic skills
Literacy and numeracy are skills no one can afford to be without.	– the ability to read – the ability to count / do basic maths
Curriculum reform is often done for political reasons rather than for good educational ones.	changes to the educational programme, e.g. the national syllabus
Nowadays, lifelong/continuing education is an issue, and creating opportunities for mature students is important.	– education for all ages – adult students older than the average student
Special needs education is expensive because class sizes need to be small or one-to-one .	– education for children who cannot learn in the normal way, because they have some disability – one teacher and one pupil, not a group
He was unhappy at his new school because the older boys were bullying him.	frightening or threatening

'Leadership and learning are indispensable to each other.' (US President John F. Kennedy)

Exercises

12.1 Complete the collocations by filling in the missing words according to the meaning given in brackets.

- 1 tables (lists of schools from best to worst)
- 2 education (entry to schools is decided by exam results)
- 3 equality of (when everyone has the same chances)
- 4 inequalities (making inequalities continue forever)

12.2 Change the underlined words, using more formal and more appropriate words from A. Make any other changes that are necessary.

- 1 Inequality is built into the education system.
- 2 Giving access only to privileged groups is bad for the country in the long term.
- 3 Education where everyone gets into the same type of school without exams is a basic political ideal in many countries.
- 4 A system where there are two levels of schools reduces the opportunities for children from poorer families and favours those from richer families.
- 5 Some private schools have lots of wealth and receive gifts of money, and this means they can have better resources.
- 6 All parents want their children to achieve the best possible results at school.
- 7 Emphasis on the three Rs is considered by parents to be the key to success.

12.3 Which words or expressions from B mean ...

- 1 the ability to read?
- 2 the ability to count and do basic maths?
- 3 changes made to the official programme of education in a country?
- 4 the traditional basic skills of reading, writing and maths?
- 5 a student who is older than the typical age, for example, in a university?
- 6 teaching with one teacher and just one pupil?

12.4 Answer these questions for your own country.

- 1 Under what circumstances do school closures occur?
- 2 What are typical discipline problems in your country? What do teachers do?
- 3 What special needs provision is there in typical schools?
- 4 What provisions are there for lifelong education?

12.5 Match the words on the left with the definitions on the right. The words refer to people involved in education. Use a dictionary if necessary.

- | | |
|---|--|
| 1 PTA | a) teacher who works in a school when needed (e.g. if someone is sick) |
| 2 school governors | b) group consisting of teachers and parents who meet regularly |
| 3 supply teacher | c) teacher who works in different schools and travels between them |
| 4 peripatetic teacher
/perɪpə'tetɪk/ | d) group which oversees all the business of the school |

B

Charming, witty, wise – recognise yourself? Stingy, selfish, sly – must be somebody else! Some words in the chart above have positive associations, others negative ones. Here are some words from the chart together with other words that share some aspects of their meaning. The table shows which have positive and which have negative associations.

positive	negative	positive	negative generous, unstinting	extravagant, immoderate	shrewd, astute	cunning, sly resolute, dogged	stubborn, mulish	sober, serious	morose, sullen thrifty, frugal	stingy, parsimonious	witty, pithy	sharp-tongued, terse diligent, industrious	work-obsessed, (a) workaholic	tolerant, broad-minded	unprincipled, unscrupulous

13.1 Match the words on the left with their opposites on the right. Use a dictionary if necessary.

- | | |
|------------------|---------------|
| 1 altruistic | unsystematic |
| 2 diligent | generous |
| 3 intellectual | thick-skinned |
| 4 methodical | unhelpful |
| 5 morose | flexible |
| 6 obliging | low-brow |
| 7 quick-tempered | selfish |
| 8 sensitive | cheerful |
| 9 stingy | placid |
| 10 stubborn | lazy |

13.2 Answer these questions.

- 1 Which animal represents you? To what extent do the characteristics apply to you?
- 2 Think of a friend and find their animal in the chart. Give examples of why you think each characteristic is appropriate or not.

EXAMPLE My friend is a rooster. I think he is industrious because he worked very hard to find a lot of information for a research project he had to complete at college. I don't think he is shrewd because someone tricked him into investing in a non-existent company.

13.3 Arrange all the adjectives and descriptive phrases from A into three columns under the following headings. describe me might describe me do not describe me

13.4 Which people does the speaker have a positive opinion of and which a negative one?

Let me tell you about my new colleagues. Pat, my boss, seems very astute and witty. I find her deputy, Vince, a bit parsimonious and work-obsessed. I share an office with Julie who's a bit sullen and mulish. I also do a lot of work with Sam who's very tolerant and generous.

13.5 Now imagine that someone else is talking about the same people, but sees them in a different light. How might he or she describe them?

EXAMPLE Pat is very sly and terse.

13.6 What are the abstract nouns from these adjectives? Use a dictionary if necessary.

- | | | | | |
|----------------|------------|---------------|-----------|-----------------|
| 1 altruistic | 3 diligent | 5 industrious | 7 gallant | 9 morose |
| 2 parsimonious | 4 placid | 6 sagacious | 8 terse | 10 unscrupulous |

13.7 The words in 13.6 are more unusual words and are most likely to be found in writing. Give a synonym for each word that would be more likely to be used when speaking.

EXAMPLE altruistic – unselfish

Relationships: positive aspects

A Love and romance

When Tom met Lily it was love at first sight. [love began the first moment they saw each other]

She fell head over heels in love with him. [fell deeply and madly in love]

Nick only has eyes for Diana. He's not interested in other girls. [is only attracted to]

I've often seen David and Valerie at the cinema together, but it's purely a platonic relationship. [affectionate relationship between people of the opposite sex that is not sexual]

Nora was more than infatuated with [romantically obsessed with] Brian; she was completely besotted with [almost stupidly or blindly in love with] him.

B Friendships and other positive relationships

Anona and I hit it off immediately [liked each other the moment we met]. We're true soulmates [people who feel close to each other in spirit and who understand each other deeply].

Nelly was my mother's lifelong companion. [friend who was with her all her life]

The moment I met Rob I could see he was a man after my own heart. [someone you admire because they do or think the same as you; can also be woman after one's own heart]

Charlie and I get on like a house on fire. [have a very good, enjoyable relationship]

Jim and Tony have been bosom friends/buddies/pals for years. [very close, good friends]

Patricia and Carmen are inseparable. [always want to be together, very close]

There's always been a close bond between Kirsten and her aunt. [relationship or feeling of togetherness]

C General social relationships: collocations

The replies in these conversations are another way of saying what the first speaker says.

A: You seem to be very similar to Alan – the way you think and look at life.

B: Yes, we've always been kindred spirits.

A: What a nice wedding! Ian and Sally seem to be perfect for each other.

B: Yes, such a well-matched couple!

A: Our Spanish friends are always phoning their brothers and sisters.

B: Yes, well, I think family ties in Spain are much stronger than here.

D Nouns and adjectives

adjective	noun	example
affectionate	affection	He never shows much affection for his children.
amiable	amiability	She always treats us with great amiability.
considerate	consideration	'Have some consideration for the other students!' she said angrily.
faithful	faithfulness	Faithfulness is the key to a good marriage.
fond	fondness	Over the years she developed a fondness for Mario that went beyond a purely business relationship.
loyal	loyalty	He was a great team captain who inspired loyalty in the players.

Exercises

14.1 Match words on the left with words on the right to complete the expressions. Then use the expressions to complete the sentences below.

love	pals
head	it off
bosom	over heels in love
hit	spirits
kindred	at first sight

- 1 When Patrick met Andrea it was
- 2 Phil and Colin look at life in the same way. They're
- 3 Ever since they worked together, Lucy and Clare have been
- 4 They just looked at each other and fell
- 5 When Joss and I met, we immediately

14.2 Fill the gaps in these sentences.

- 1 Rachel only has for Mark these days. She's crazy over him.
- 2 They look such a couple. I wonder if they will get married?
- 3 Sheila and I have always got like a house
- 4 He's completely with her. I've never known him to be so much in love before. He's like a teenager. (two possible answers)

14.3 Complete the following tables with the correct noun or adjective forms. There are some words not on the opposite page. Use a dictionary if necessary.

noun	adjective loyal consideration passion devoted fond faithful

noun	adjective respect affection romantic support amiable trust

14.4 Now complete these sentences which include words from the table above, using the correct preposition. Use a dictionary if necessary.

- 1 She's absolutely devoted her mother and visits her every day.
- 2 I've always had a lot of respect my boss, and I do enjoy my job a lot.
- 3 She's been so loyal me all these years, I can't let her down now.
- 4 He's very supportive his colleagues; they're very lucky.
- 5 I'm quite fond Larry, but that doesn't mean I want to marry him.
- 6 He puts a lot of trust me, and I feel I can trust him too.

14.5 Answer these questions, giving a reason why.

Name someone in your life who ...

- 1 you feel a close bond with.
- 2 is a real soulmate for you.
- 3 is a person after your own heart.

A Friendship

I think we should all be more careful in the use of the word 'friend'. It does not, and should not, be applied to a casual acquaintance. There are colleagues, allies and partners – all of them pretending to be friends because it suits their purpose. True friends want nothing from you and don't expect any special favours. We should ask nothing from them except loyalty, despite our faults. They should speak well behind our backs. Such friends are hard to find ...

The text says a friend is not the same as a casual acquaintance [person you know, but not very well]. Friends should show loyalty [support for us in good and bad times]. They should not talk behind our backs [say bad things about us when we are not there]. Here are some qualities of friendship and their opposites:

quality	opposite
loyal (adj.) loyalty (noun)	disloyal (adj.) disloyalty (noun) supportive [always supports you]	unsupportive, critical honest, truthful	dishonest, untruthful

Other key words:

Russia and America were allies [countries which fight on the same side] in the Second World War.

We were business partners [people who own the same business] but now we're bitter rivals [people in competition with each other in an aggressive and negative way].

Examples of problematic friendships. Note the prepositions.

Terry has been disloyal to me on a number of occasions.

Jo's always very critical of her friends. I don't like that.

OK, I was dishonest with you. I'm sorry, but I didn't want to hurt you.

Note these collocations of some of the words in the table.

Jim has always been scrupulously honest in his dealings with us.

I would never expect complete and unswerving loyalty from a friend.

Monica has always been my staunchest ally at work. I can always rely on her to support me.

I was amazed that someone who called herself a friend could be so deeply critical.

B Breakdowns: expressions and collocations

Relationships can break down because of genuine misunderstandings.

A rift [serious disagreement that divides people] can develop between two people or groups.

There's been a lot of discord [disagreement and discontent] in the office lately.

My father and I don't see eye to eye [have different opinions] on most things.

His love affair with Anna has turned sour [become bad]. I think they'll split up [separate].

Our marriage has had its ups and downs [had good and bad moments], but basically we're OK.

a bumpy relationship [up and down like a car on a road with bumps]

a broken home [family split up by divorce]

a family feud /fju:d/ [quarrel in a family causing bad feeling for many years]

Exercises

15.1 Give the opposites of these adjectives. Some are from A opposite; some are new. Use a dictionary if necessary.

- 1 loyal 2 truthful 3 honest 4 welcoming 5 contented 6 warm-hearted

15.2 Some words in these sentences have been used incorrectly. Rewrite the sentences using the correct word from A.

- We both own the company: we're bitter rivals.
- I've made several casual colleagues since moving to London, but no close friends yet.
- Were Britain and the USA colleagues in the First World War too?
- The two companies hate each other: they're acquaintances.

15.3 Fill the gaps with suitable adjectives or adverbs from the opposite page.

- You need allies at work who won't let you down.
- His honesty is a quality I greatly admire.
- I don't know why she was so critical of him; it seemed very unfair.
- Her and loyalty to him was a mistake. He betrayed her in the end.
- Ray and Hilary were rivals at work, but seemed to get on well outside of the office.
- When all my other so-called friends drifted away, Jack always remained a friend to me.

15.4 Rewrite these sentences to give the opposite meaning.

- Rick and his sister shared the same opinion on a lot of things.
- Her affection for Andrew has grown stronger lately. I expect they'll get engaged.
- Our relationship stayed firm because we always understood each other.

15.5 Use expressions from the opposite page to describe these situations.

- We both thought the other was going to pick up Roger. There was a ...
- The kids have been unhappy since their parents divorced. They come from a ...
- Her marriage has been both good and bad at different times. It has ...
- The two union leaders have had a serious disagreement which has split them. A serious ...
- Two of the brothers have not spoken to their other brother for twenty years because of something bad that happened. I think it's a ...

15.6 Fill the gaps with a suitable preposition.

- I know I'm not perfect, but I've never been dishonest you.
- She's very critical her colleagues.
- Why are you always so disloyal me?

15.7 Say what you think these expressions mean in your own words. Use a dictionary if necessary.

- to die of a broken heart
- to hate someone's guts
- to have it in for someone
- to be on bad terms with someone

Passions: reactions and emotions

Here are some verbs which refer to having a strong desire that is hard to control.

Pregnant women crave / have a craving for strange things like tuna and banana pizza!
I still hanker after / have a hankering for a bright red sports car. [Hanker is especially used about something you cannot have.]

Young children often seem to thirst / have a thirst for knowledge. [To hunger for can also be used in the same way as to thirst for.]

Sometimes my cousin just yearns to be on her own with no family responsibilities. [If you yearn to do / yearn for / have a yearning for something, it means that you want something that you do not have and, often, can never have.]

An Olympic gold is probably the most coveted sporting prize. [To covet something means to want to possess it very much.]

B

Here are some verbs describing ways of reacting to other people's emotions.

word	meaning	example sentence
defuse	make a dangerous or tense situation calmer	Jane tried to defuse the tension by changing the subject.
placate	stop someone feeling angry	Jim was very angry with his daughter and it took all her charm to placate him.
conciliate	end a disagreement between two people or groups by acting in a friendly way towards both sides	An independent advisor has been brought in to conciliate between the unions and the employer.
appease	end a disagreement by giving the other side an advantage that they are demanding (normally used in a disapproving way)	Although appeasing the enemy postponed the war for another year, it did not ultimately prevent it from happening.

A useful adjective from placate is implacable. (NB ~~placable~~ doesn't exist.) It is used about someone's opinions and feelings and means that they cannot be changed. I cannot understand the implacable hatred that he still feels for his old rival.

C

Here are some more words which refer to being extremely happy.

to rejoice: be extremely happy Everyone rejoiced at the news of her recovery.

exultant: feeling great pleasure and happiness, usually because of a success Sarah was in an exultant mood for weeks after doing so well in her exams.

jubilant: expressing great happiness especially at a victory

There were jubilant shouts as the results of the referendum were announced.

rapture: extreme pleasure or happiness (adjective = rapturous)

He listened to the opera with an expression of pure rapture on his face.

bliss: perfect happiness (adjective = blissful) Note that the adverb blissfully collocates strongly with happy, ignorant and unaware.

They are blissfully happy even though they're poor.

There are a number of colloquial expressions which mean to be very happy.

You look full of the joys of spring today.

My daughter's just had a baby girl. We're thrilled to bits at the news.

I feel on top of the world. It's great to have a job again.

I've been floating/walking on air ever since I heard I got into drama school.

How did you feel when you scored the winning goal? – I was over the moon!

Exercises

16.1 Choose one of the words below each sentence to fill the gaps.

- 1 Since giving up smoking, I now find that I chocolate.
a) thirst b) crave c) hunger
- 2 Martha is very good at difficult situations.
a) placating b) appeasing c) defusing
- 3 Everyone is to bits that Joe was so successful in the competition.
a) blissful b) thrilled c) exultant
- 4 If he has a tantrum, you mustn't try to him. Don't give in!
a) conciliate b) appease c) defuse
- 5 When Lorna retires, there will probably be a lot of internal applicants for what must be the most job in the company.
a) yearned b) hankered c) coveted
- 6 Fortunately, her parents were unaware of what was going on.
a) rapturously b) blissfully c) exultantly

16.2 Make a word from the same root as the word in brackets in order to complete the sentences. You may need a dictionary to help you.

- 1 Even after so many years away from the country where I was born, I still have a to return there some day. (HANKER)

You will find the language of passions and emotions in many different texts – e.g. in songs, in reviews, horoscopes or problem pages in magazines, and in literature. Make a note of any particularly expressive language that you come across. Write it down in a context that has some relevance for you. If you come across the phrase to be on cloud nine [to be very happy, colloquial], you might write down I was on cloud nine when I heard I'd passed all my exams.

Feelings: antipathies and aversions

A Antipathies and aversions

Antipathy is a feeling of strong, often active, dislike or opposition towards something or someone, e.g. Antipathy towards the government has increased as a result of the current crisis. The adjective with this meaning is not antipathetic but hostile or unsympathetic, e.g. a hostile crowd of protesters; an unsympathetic remark.

Aversion is a feeling of intense dislike or an unwillingness to do something, or it can also be the person or thing which causes that feeling. It is often used in the phrase have/feel an aversion to, e.g. I felt an instant aversion to the new manager. Arrogance has always been my pet aversion [the thing I dislike most of all].

Averse to means opposed to, usually used with not, e.g. I'm not averse to a good night out.

B More words for intense negative feelings

noun	meaning	adjective	verb
loathing	intense hatred	loathsome	loathe
abhorrence	intense disgust	abhorrent	abhor
scorn	lack of respect for something or someone felt to be worthless	scornful [showing lack of respect]	scorn
revulsion	strong disgust	revolting	revolt repulsion	opposite of strong attraction	repulsive	repulse

C Adjectives with negative associations

Here are some words with strong negative connotations. Words marked * are informal.

Observing others: appearance and mannerisms

A Words connected with size, weight and general appearance

word	meaning	example
scrawny	unattractively thin and bony-looking	He was too scrawny to be a football player.
lanky	very tall and thin, and usually moving awkwardly	A lanky teenager walked in.
gangling/gangly	with long, thin arms and legs and rather awkward movements; often used of men and boys	A gangling/gangly youth approached him.
portly	with fat stomach and chest; often used humorously about older men	A portly figure stood near the ticket desk.
stout	with a quite fat, solid body; used of men and women	She's the stout woman wearing glasses, over there.
corpulent	fat (formal, literary word)	She introduced me to a rather corpulent gentleman.

B Aspects of facial appearance and complexion

I've noticed Robert has put on weight; he's getting a double chin [fat around the chin]. His hair always looks so unkempt [untidy; scruffy]. I don't know why he doesn't look after it. His sister is the opposite: never a hair out of place [her hair is always neat and tidy]. He has a rather swarthy [dark-coloured, used about skin] complexion. His sister's complexion is more sallow [yellowish and unhealthy-looking]. He works incredibly hard; he often looks haggard [his face shows tiredness and age, with the skin hanging in folds] and exhausted.

C Facial expression

Look at those models pouting¹ for the photographers!

[positioning their lips in a sexually attractive way]

If she doesn't get what she wants, she pouts for the rest of the day. [positions her lips in a look of annoyance]

You don't have to grimace² every time I eat raw garlic. I happen to think it's delicious. [make an expression of pain or strong dislike]

I arrived late and she just scowled³ at me. [gave a bad-tempered, angry look]

He was leering⁴ at us. I felt very uncomfortable and wanted to leave. [looking in an unpleasant, sexually interested way]

D Mannerisms and actions with the hand

I asked him for advice but he just shrugged his shoulders. [lifted his shoulders up and down to show he didn't know or couldn't answer]

He folded his arms [crossed one arm over the other close to his body] and crossed his legs [crossed one leg over the other while sitting] and waited for me to speak.

She bites her nails and picks her nose all the time. It drives me crazy!

She clenched her fist and told him to get out of the room at once. [closed her hand as if to hit him]

He just tapped his fingers and waited. [made quick, light hitting movements, e.g. on a table]

Exercises

18.1 From memory, put these words into two groups: 'fat' words and 'thin' words.

stout corpulent scrawny portly gangling lanky

18.2 Rewrite these sentences using one of the words from 18.1 instead of the underlined words. Use each word once only, and make any other necessary changes.

- 1 She looks as if she needs a good meal; her body is so thin and bony.
- 2 Marian and Frank are very suitable for each other; they're both very tall and thin individuals.
- 3 A rather round, overweight, middle-aged man offered to show us the way.
- 4 A very tall, thin, bony, awkward-looking boy carried our bags for us.
- 5 She's become quite fat these days, ever since she stopped playing tennis.
- 6 A rather overweight gentleman ascended the stairs, red-faced and breathless.

18.3 Use words from B opposite to write a sentence describing each of these pictures.

18.5 Answer these questions. Use a dictionary if necessary.

- 1 The verb to pout had two meanings on the opposite page. What were they?
- 2 If someone scowls at you, how are they probably feeling?
- 3 What is the difference between a swarthy complexion and a sallow complexion?
- 4 What do we mean when we talk about someone's gait?
a) their way of looking b) their way of walking c) their way of talking
- 5 Give two reasons why someone might scratch their head.
- 6 Why might someone raise their eyebrows?
- 7 When would you clench your fists?
- 8 When do people normally shrug their shoulders?
- 9 What might you do with your fingers if you were nervous or impatient?
- 10 In what situations do you (a) fold your arms (b) cross your legs?

A Visible behaviour: some useful adjectives

word	meaning	example
impetuous	acts on a sudden idea without thinking first; generally negative	He's so impetuous ; I wish he would consider things first.
impulsive	similar to impetuous , but can be used in a more positive way	His impulsive generosity led him to give away most of his money.
effusive	gives exaggerated expression of pleasure, praise or gratitude	She always gives you such an effusive welcome.
excitable	easily excited by things	He's a very excitable child; he needs to calm down.

garrulous	talks too much, especially about unimportant things	Freddie's so garrulous ; it's impossible to get any work done.
taciturn	reserved or says very little (generally negative)	I thought he was rather taciturn when I first met him. He hardly spoke.

B Sociability

Jean's such an introvert [inward-looking and quiet], and her brother Mark is such an extrovert [outward-looking and sociable]. Strange, isn't it?

Mr Rogers is such a diffident man. [lacks confidence; has a low opinion of himself]

English people are traditionally thought of as rather reserved. [not immediately sociable]

Barbara tends to be rather aloof. I don't know if she's just shy. [unfriendly and not sociable]

My aunt Annie can be very haughty [unfriendly and thinks herself better than others] and disdainful [does not believe others deserve respect] at times, but she's lovely really.

I've always found Professor Mactoft very unapproachable [not easy to be sociable with or start a conversation with], but his colleague Dr O'Daly is very approachable.

Nancy is so conceited [thinks herself wonderful] and self-important [has an exaggerated sense of her importance], but Flora is such a modest person. [prefers not to exaggerate her own qualities]

My boss is such a flirt, though I would never call her that to her face. Nobody in the office is safe. [makes constant romantic approaches]

C Character traits

Joss is a somewhat naïve person; he thinks love can solve all the world's problems. [/'naɪ:ɪv/ willing to believe simple things perhaps because of inexperience]

Telephone salespeople often take advantage of gullible people. [easily deceived]

My father was a very conscientious man; he never took time off work unless he was really sick. [/'kɒnʃi:ənʃəs/ always took his work very seriously]

He's quite an unscrupulous character; I should be very careful if I were you. [lacking in moral principles, prepared to do very bad things]

Exercises

19.1 Answer these questions.

- 1 What is the opposite of approachable?
- 2 What word is a stronger way of saying obstinate?
- 3 If someone is diffident, do they have lots of or little self-confidence?
- 4 How could you describe a greeting that showed exaggerated pleasure?
- 5 Is scrupulous the opposite of unscrupulous? (Use a dictionary if necessary.)
- 6 Which tends to be more negative, impetuous or impulsive?

19.2 Complete the following tables by writing the noun forms of the adjectives. Use a dictionary if necessary.

adjective	noun
excitable	excitability disdainful impetuous obstinate modest

adjective	noun
gullible reserved garrulous conceited pig-headed

19.3 Fill the gaps with adjectives from the opposite page. The first letter of each word is given.

I remember my grandmother so well. Her i..... (1) generosity meant she was always giving money to beggars and other poor people. She was very a..... (2), never a..... (3), and would always chat to strangers; in fact she was quite an e..... (4) and would sing and dance at parties. But when it came to work she was very c..... (5) and never missed a day in forty years. She was a very determined person, indeed she could be

Birth and death: from cradle to grave

DOCTORS praised the fortitude of a mother yesterday who made medical history¹ when she gave birth to triplets, one of whom had grown outside her womb². The surgeons delivered³ the triplets by Caesarean section⁴ last Friday after it was discovered that one of the babies had created its own placenta⁵ outside the womb, putting the life of the mother at risk.

Doctors had discovered that the mother was expecting triplets earlier in the pregnancy but it was not until the 28th week that they realised that Ronan had developed outside the uterus⁶ and was the result of an ectopic pregnancy⁷. The mother had conceived⁸ naturally and was not taking any fertility drugs. The majority of ectopic pregnancies result in termination⁹.

- ¹ did something medically very unusual
- ² woman's organ where egg develops into a baby
- ³ helped mother to give birth
- ⁴ operation in which mother's stomach and womb are cut to allow baby to be born

- ⁸ become pregnant
- ⁹ intentional ending of a pregnancy, usually by a medical operation (also called an abortion); a miscarriage is an early unintentional end of pregnancy

I come from a 'ripe old age'¹ sort of family – I'm 70 now – and like the idea of living for a long time. I have an aunt, my late² mother's sister, who is 102. She lives in sheltered accommodation³ but has all her wits about her⁴. Funerals used to be about people mourning⁵; now they are more likely to be a celebration of the person's life, which I think is much healthier. I haven't mentioned my funeral in my will⁶ – I just want something absolutely plain and simple, a family-only cremation⁷ service. I would like my ashes⁸ scattered⁹ on Ilkley Moor, near Leeds, where I spent a lot of time as a lad. I don't want any memorial stones. As for obituaries¹⁰, I would just like them to be large. I just hope I don't die on the same day as a previous prime minister.

- ¹ living well into old age; usually used in the phrase to live to a ripe old age
- ² now dead
- ³ special housing, usually for old people, where care staff also live
- ⁴ is able to think and react quickly
- ⁵ expressing their sadness after someone's death (the mourners have been bereaved)
- ⁶ legal document saying what is to happen to your possessions after your death

- ⁷ service where a dead body is burned (as opposed to a burial, where the body is buried in the ground)
- ⁸ the remains of your body after cremation
- ⁹ thrown (people sometimes have their ashes scattered in a place which has special associations for them)
- ¹⁰ newspaper articles giving details about the lives of people who have died

colloquial expressions for being close to death – to be at death's door, to be on one's last legs euphemisms for 'to die' – to pass away, to pass on newspaper words – fatalities [dead people], perished [died], slaughtered [violently killed] legal words – the deceased [the dead person], to bequeath [to leave something – a bequest – in a will], to inherit [to receive something – an inheritance – from someone who has died], to die intestate [without having made a will]

All the rage: clothes and fashion

Read the newspaper article below about how different types of clothes are appropriate for different types of people and situations.

Karen Hyland, 22, a self-confessed 'scruff¹', about to graduate from the University of East Anglia this summer, is among those desperately seeking a speedy transition from the campus uniform of jeans, trainers and sweatshirts to smart suit and shoes, without resorting to the pastel², power outfits³ favoured by New Labour's fresh female intake. Short skirts are to be avoided, as are Eighties shoulder pads, but no one wants to look frumpy⁴ and the student budget is inevitably tight. 'I have to create a new image for my proposed career in television,' explained Karen. 'Money aside, choosing the right outfit⁵ for my pending interviews is giving me nearly as much worry as my finals.' What Karen needed was The Interview Suit – something smart, young and modern, which would be suitable for most office dress codes⁶, while being individual enough to convince prospective employers that she could bring personality and flair to the job.

² in pale colours

³ formal clothes to make you seem powerful

⁴ old-fashioned and boring

⁵ set of clothes for a particular occasion

⁶ accepted way of dressing in a particular social group

Here are some other words and expressions used in discussing clothes.

In offices many staff dress down on Fridays. [wear less formal clothes]

Sometimes an invitation or a restaurant or nightclub will ask people to dress in smart-casual clothes. [clothes that are informal but clean, tidy and stylish]

Clothes can be informally described as dressy [suitable for formal occasions], skimpy [close-fitting, using little material], baggy [loose, e.g. of sweater], snazzy [modern, stylish].

To be dressed to kill means to wear clothes intended to attract people's attention (sexually). Some rich people buy designer (label) clothes but most people prefer to buy clothes more cheaply off the peg/rack or on the high street.

Here are some more words and expressions relating to fashion.

A few years ago denim jackets were all the rage. [very fashionable]

They were dressed in the height of fashion. [an extremely fashionable way]

The magazine has up-to-the-minute fashion articles. [dealing with the most recent trends]

The film has set a new trend for the leather trousers worn by the heroine. [started a new fashion]

If you are ahead of your time, you have new ideas or opinions before they are fashionable.

If a fashion/trend catches on, it becomes popular.

A slave of/to fashion is someone who is strongly influenced by fashion.

Words and expressions connected with clothes are often used metaphorically.

to speak off the cuff [without having prepared anything] to be hand in glove with someone [to have a close working relationship with someone] cloak-and-dagger [involving secrecy and mystery] to have/take the shirt off someone's back [someone's last possession] to do something on a shoestring [spending as little as possible] without frills [simple and plain] to put someone in a straitjacket [restrict someone's freedom] to wear the trousers (usually used of a woman) [to be the dominant partner in a marriage]

A Homestyles

A squat /skwɒt/ is an empty building where people start living without the owner's permission.

A hovel /'hɒvəl/ is a very poor, dirty house or flat in a bad condition.

A pied à terre /pjeɪd/ɑː/'teə/ is a small flat or house in a city owned or rented by people in addition to their main home and used when they are visiting the city.

A penthouse is a luxury flat at the top of a building.

Council housing is provided by the state for people who cannot afford to buy their own homes.

High-rise flats are flats in a tall, modern building with a lot of floors.

A granny flat is a set of rooms for an elderly person, connected to a relative's house.

B Modern lifestyles

Today many people want to get out of the rat race [unpleasant way in which people struggle competitively for wealth or power] and live a less stressful or less conventional lifestyle.

Feng Shui: a Chinese philosophy which states that the position of buildings and the arrangement of objects in the home affects the health and well-being of people living there.

minimalism: a style which involves using the smallest possible range of materials, colours, etc. and only the most simple shapes or designs.

post-modernism: a style of architecture, the arts, etc. popular in the 1980s and 1990s which includes features from several different periods.

New Age: a way of life and thinking which developed in the late 1980s and includes a wide range of beliefs and activities, e.g. astrology, alternative medicine, that are not accepted by most people and are a reaction against modern scientific and economic developments.

subsistence farming: where people live by growing just enough food for their own family.

C Idioms and metaphors relating to homes and lifestyles expression	meaning	example

a household word/ name	something everyone knows	Nike has become a household name.
a drink on the house	a free drink	The restaurant owner offered us a bottle of wine on the house.
home truths	information that is true but not pleasant or welcome	It's time he was told some home truths about the way he's been behaving!
nothing to write home about	nothing special	The town is OK but nothing to write home about.
hit home	become fully understood or fully felt	The difficulty of managing without a regular salary is hitting home now.
That's the story of my life.	That's what always happens to me. (used humorously)	Everyone got a pay rise the week after I resigned. That's the story of my life!
have the time of your life	have a wonderful time	Paul's having the time of his life in Canada.
get a new lease of life	become more energetic and active than before	When Sue moved jobs she seemed to get a new lease of life.

Exercises

23.1 Complete the following table about the types of accommodation in A.

accommodation	What kind of person lives there?	Would you like to live there? Why/Why not?
squat	a homeless person or someone with very little money	I wouldn't like it because you never know when you might be evicted.
pied à terre council housing granny flat high-rise flat hovel
penthouse

23.2 Which of the lifestyles in B might be illustrated by doing these things?

- ensuring no chairs have their back to a door
- working in the office from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. and at weekends
- having all one's flat painted white with no more than one picture on any wall
- owning a cow and growing all the vegetables you need
- living in a caravan, using traditional herbs for medicinal purposes and planning your life in accordance with an astrological chart

23.3 Look at the words describing trends in modern lifestyles in B. What kind of people do you think would be attracted by these lifestyles? What do you think of them yourself?

EXAMPLE Feng Shui principles would appeal to people who are strongly aware of their surroundings and the influence that they have on them. The principles sound nice to me but I am sceptical about whether they are really true and I don't think I could be bothered rearranging all my belongings.

Now choose three words from B and write your own paragraphs.

23.4 Look at C. Fill the gaps in these sentences.

- Because it was my birthday, the barman offered me a drink on the
- Mandy's so selfish, she deserves to be told a few
- The party was all right, I suppose, but nothing to home about.
- The handsome new man at work is already married but that's the of my life!

23.5 Choose one of the idioms from C to replace the underlined words in these sentences.

- We had the most marvellous time on holiday this year.
- As soon as spring comes I feel as if I'm becoming energetic and active again.
- The problems caused by the floods are only making themselves fully felt now.
- I imagine that being a servant in the past was very hard and tedious.
- All over the world everybody knows about McDonald's.

A Socialising

Socialising implies simply spending leisure time with other people. This can be done in lots of formal and informal ways. Here are some different ways in which people socialise.

a housewarming (party): a party to celebrate moving to a new house or flat a launch (party): a party to celebrate the publication of a new book or product a fancy dress party: a party where everyone dresses up in costume as other people a stag party: a party before a wedding for the future husband and his male friends a girls' night out / a hen party: an evening just for female friends spent at a restaurant, theatre or club, perhaps; a hen party is usually just before one of them gets married a reception: a formal party, e.g. after a wedding or to meet an important visitor

Note that the phrase, the wedding party, usually refers to the main group of close family and friends at a wedding, rather than to the reception after the wedding.

A black tie or a white tie event suggests a formal party at which men have to wear black bow ties or white bow ties respectively.

B Networking

Socialising is meeting people purely for pleasure but networking is making contacts that will be useful to one's business or career. In the past career networking in England usually happened simply through the old school tie or old boy network [contacts made by the children of the traditional ruling class while at expensive private schools]. Now people are perhaps rather more pro-active [taking action yourself rather than waiting for something to happen] in trying to make useful contacts. They may try to put themselves about [informal: make themselves visible in the hope of being noticed by someone important and, thus, help themselves to climb the career ladder]. Networking involves such things as exchanging (business) cards and promising to do lunch sometime.

To hobnob is usually used with rather negative associations meaning to be friendly with someone who is important or famous.

I saw Dick hobnobbing with the boss after work yesterday.

To rub shoulders with is an informal expression meaning to mix socially with people who are famous. I hear you've been rubbing shoulders with royalty!

C Informal expressions

Here are some of the many informal expressions connected with socialising.

I don't like the people Rick hangs out with / knocks around with. [spends social time with]

Would you like to come to a bash/do/get-together/booze-up we're having on Saturday?

[a party; the last expression is very colloquial and suggests that a lot of alcohol will be drunk]

(Said to your host) I hope I'm not outstaying my welcome. [staying too long]

Sandy's a real party animal [someone who loves going to parties] but her boyfriend can be a bit of a party pooper [someone who spoils parties by being disapproving or miserable].

Do you fancy going clubbing this evening? [going to one or more nightclubs]

Let's go out on the town. [enjoy the entertainments in a town, e.g. the bars, pubs and clubs]

Mandy's very chummy/pally with the boss's wife. [friendly]

I hate it at my new job – everyone's so cliquey. [a clique is a disapproving word for a small group of people who spend time together and do not allow others to join them]

Are they really an item? [having a romantic relationship]

If he ever stood me up [failed to turn up for a date], I'd drop him [end our relationship].

They've gone on a pub crawl. [gone to spend an evening going to several different pubs]

Exercises

24.1 Look at A and decide what kind of party you might be invited to if ...

- 1 a friend of yours is about to get married and is having a party before the wedding.
- 2 you are going to help a friend celebrate on the day of their wedding.
- 3 some friends have just moved into a new flat.
- 4 a friend has just had a book published.
- 5 your local council is arranging for important people in the area to meet a visiting dignitary.
- 6 you have friends who love dressing up as characters from famous films.

24.2 Rewrite these sentences by replacing the underlined words from B and C with an expression that means the same thing.

- 1 It's always good to see Hugh but somehow he always manages to outstay his welcome.
- 2 You wouldn't believe it but Helen and Mark are now an item!
- 3 I don't really approve of the way Erica puts herself about, but I'm sure it'll help her to make a success of going freelance.
- 4 Don't forget your old friends when your film becomes a hit and you're rubbing shoulders with the rich and famous.
- 5 I'm going to a birthday bash this weekend. Should be fun.
- 6 We must invite Jane to our do. She's a real party animal!
- 7 Mike'll want to go on a pub crawl as soon as his exams finish.
- 8 Let's have a night on the town as the children are with their grandparents tonight.

24.3 Answer the following questions relating to the expressions on the opposite page.

- 1 Who would you call a party animal and who would you call a party pooper and why? Which of these are you more likely to be called and why?
- 2 Does the old school tie network have any significance in your country?
- 3 If not, are there any other networks which can help people up the career ladder?
- 4 In which sort of careers do you think it is important to network?
- 5 It's Friday night. Would you prefer to go clubbing or to go on a pub crawl?
- 6 Which of the types of party listed in A have you personal experience of? How did you enjoy them?
- 7 If you describe an atmosphere as cliquey, do you like the atmosphere? Why / Why not?
- 8 Have you ever been stood up? What happened?

24.4 Complete the text by filling each of the gaps with one word.

Jeremy in our marketing department didn't go to a (1) school so he didn't have access to any of the privileges offered by the old (2) network. The people he (3) about with when he was at school mostly took quite menial jobs or had long periods of unemployment. However, Jeremy spent a few months doing work experience in a large bank. There he became

..... (4) with several people who later helped him to further his business career. He also became very skilled at (5) himself about and this has also stood him in good stead over the years. He's very good at organising get- (6) at his home for influential people. He seems to get a kick out of rubbing (7) with important people.

Exercises

25.1 From memory, give an adjective from A which is opposite in meaning to the following words.

- 1 credible/believable
- 2 original/novel
- 3 underrated
- 4 exaggerated
- 5 coherent/smooth-flowing

25.2 Now use other adjectives from A instead of the underlined words in these sentences. Make any other changes that are necessary to produce a correct sentence.

- 1 The musical shocked some people because they thought it was immoral and was attacked by several politicians and religious figures.
- 2 Her performance was one of those you will never forget, simply marvellous.
- 3 I can't remember the last time I saw such a film that keeps you in suspense and totally absorbed all the time.
- 4 It was a play that aroused very deep emotions in me.
- 5 It's a film that is difficult to watch without getting very upset.
- 6 Some of his films are absolutely impossible to understand because they are so dense and obscure.

25.3 Answer these questions.

- 1 Would you like to go to a play that was universally lauded by all the critics? Why / Why not?
- 2 Good performers deserve an encore. True? Would you give one?
- 3 Would you like to see a film that was panned by the cinema critics? Why / Why not?
- 4 What are the top Hollywood awards for films normally called? What is their more correct name?
- 5 Do most actors like to become typecast? Why / Why not?
- 6 A standing ovation shows that the audience disliked the performance. True? Why / Why not?

25.4 Read the text and underline the words or phrases that match the eight definitions. Use a dictionary if necessary.

- 1 the way an actor creates a picture of a person
- 2 he/she is the wrong actor for that part
- 3 a film/book/play that keeps you in suspense
- 4 keep you in suspense / constantly excited
- 5 up-and-coming
- 6 a film which huge numbers of people will go and see
- 7 a police or crime theme
- 8 a very great work of art

Cliffhanger not to be missed

In this latest blockbuster cops-and-robbers movie from the Holdart Studios, budding Hollywood star Florida Packline plays country-boy Ricky Smart, who gets involved with a gang of criminals intent upon stealing ten million dollars from a Chicago bank. However, their plans are spoilt by the discovery of a dead body in the tunnel they are digging through to the bank. Who is the mystery dead woman? Is she a stranger, or someone from Ricky's own past? Packline's portrayal of the confused boy from a small town caught up in big city crime is convincing, but Julia Fischer as his long-lost sister is somewhat miscast. Not a masterpiece, but it will certainly keep you on the edge of your seat.

The plastic arts

A

Read this extract from an article about the British public's attitude to modern art.

■ You have heard it so often, that all those modern artists are only pulling the wool over the public's eyes¹, and it is easy to laugh, in a superior kind of way, both at the more extreme examples of contemporary art and at the apparent philistinism² of its detractors³. But, almost by stealth, the British public has discovered it perhaps does like modern art after all. Has the public wised up⁴, or has the art dumbed down⁵? If people find that contemporary art is not so difficult or complicated or highbrow and impenetrable as they once thought, it could also mean that art is somehow becoming less intelligent, less sophisticated than it was.

- ¹ deceiving
- ² inability to appreciate art or culture (disapproving)
- ³ critics
- ⁴ become more sophisticated
- ⁵ become less intellectual (usually to appeal to a mass audience)

The same article puts the attitudes to contemporary art in a historical perspective.

■ The current enthusiasm for modern art – there are more people visiting Tate Modern¹ every week than there were people in Florence at the height of the Renaissance² – appears to be more than a fad³. If people got nothing from what they see there, they would vote with their feet⁴. At the end of the 19th century a lot of people had problems with Impressionism⁵, and, later, when confronted with cubist⁶ paintings, the gallery-going public had problems with those too. The surrealists⁷ were often deemed⁸ mad, but liking surrealism⁹ is perfectly sane and acceptable, and it appears everywhere, from posters to advertising campaigns. As a result, we are all now more visually literate¹⁰ than before, more immune to¹¹ shocks, inured to¹² surprises.

- ¹ new modern art gallery in London
- ² period of new interest in the arts in Europe in the 14th to 16th centuries, especially in Italy
- ³ a short enthusiasm for something (disapproving)
- ⁴ stop coming
- ^{5,6,7,9} types of artist and schools of art of the last 150 years
- ⁸ considered (formal)
- ¹⁰ educated with regard to art
- ^{11,12} not affected by

C

Here are some words that can be used to comment on art. The opposites are in brackets.

- highbrow: intended for educated, intelligent people, disapproving (lowbrow)
- impenetrable: extremely difficult to understand (transparent)
- sophisticated: showing advanced skills and understanding (primitive)
- challenging: demanding considerable effort to be understood (undemanding)
- dazzling: inspiring great admiration because it is brilliant in some way (pedestrian)
- evocative: calling up images and memories (uninspiring)
- exquisite: having rare beauty or delicacy (clumsy)
- intriguing: interesting because it is strange or mysterious (dreary)
- peerless: better than any other (run-of-the-mill)
- tongue-in-check: not intended to be taken seriously despite appearing serious (earnest)

Words whose first association is with the arts are also often used metaphorically.

The writer paints his hero in a fascinating light. Minor characters are more shadowy but they are also depicted quite powerfully even though the focus is, inevitably, on the two central characters. These are portrayed with great sensitivity. The heroine is particularly colourful and we see how her character is shaped and moulded by events. Some say the author illustrates his motifs in a black-and-white fashion but the images he creates to illuminate the evils of slavery will remain with me forever.

Exercises

26.1 Are the following statements true or false according to the texts in A and B?

- 1 Most modern art is amusing.
- 2 Attitudes to modern art are changing in Britain.
- 3 People may be becoming more sophisticated or art may be becoming simpler.
- 4 Not many people visit modern art exhibitions in London these days.
- 5 People have often found it hard to accept new trends in art.
- 6 People don't have so much exposure to art these days.

26.2 Choose a word or phrase from A or B to complete these sentences.

- 1 Although some people liked the exhibition there were far more than enthusiasts among the reviewers.
- 2 When the price of cinema tickets doubled, the public simply and audiences declined dramatically.
- 3 Politicians have accused TV companies of their news broadcasts with the result that there is less public interest in political issues.
- 4 Every year there seems to be some new food that is quickly forgotten when the next thing comes on the scene.
- 5 Rick managed to his wife's for several years before she found out about his affair.
- 6 After spending such a long time camping, they have become to the discomfort of living in such a confined space.

26.3 Look at the twenty adjectives in C. Divide them into categories:

usually positive associations usually negative associations negative or positive associations

26.4 Choose one of the words from each pair of opposites in C and think of a work of art (of any kind) that you could apply it to. Write a sentence explaining why you think it applies.

EXAMPLE I think that the poetry of the 17th century English poet, John Milton, could be called highbrow because you need to be able to understand his classical allusions.

26.5 Circle the correct underlined word to complete these sentences.

- 1 I think that the artist's cartoons are usually rather highbrow/dreary/lowbrow as they are intended to appeal to a mass audience.
- 2 When an artist sent in an ordinary red brick to an exhibition, no one was sure whether it was impenetrable/run-of-the-mill/tongue-in-cheek or intended as a serious statement.
- 3 Although these cave paintings were made thousands of years ago they are in some ways very primitive/pedestrian/sophisticated.
- 4 I find those painter's pictures of dull grey street scenes rather dreary/peerless/dazzling.
- 5 The design on that china plate is earnest/exquisite/transparent – however did they manage to paint such fine detail?
- 6 Although his photographs are quite challenging/evocative/intriguing, it is worth making the effort to understand them.

This article is about the language used to label food products.

As a food label is often nothing more than an advert to tempt you to buy the product, you should pay particular attention to the choice of words used. Always watch out for the word 'flavour', as this may mean that the product contains synthetic¹ ingredients. Chocolate-flavour topping, for example, will not contain chocolate, even though chocolate-flavoured topping will contain a small percentage – so read carefully. Many manufacturers also use a range of meaningless descriptions. Feel-good words, such as 'wholesome²', 'farmhouse', 'original' and 'traditional' do not mean anything. Other words such as 'farm fresh' and 'country fresh' also intentionally blur the true nature of a product's source. 'Fresh egg pasta', for example, means that the pasta was indeed made with real and not powdered eggs, but maybe months ago. Words that you can trust are 'organic', 'wholemeal³', 'natural mineral water', 'Fair Trade⁴', 'free-range⁵' and the 'V' vegetarian symbol.

Consumer pressure over GM⁶ foods has led to better labelling but loopholes⁷ still exist. GM product derivatives⁸, such as starches, sugars, fats and oils where no genetically modified protein or DNA material still remains, still go unlabelled in many products such as cereal bars, fish fingers, jellies and vegetable burgers.

Take particular care over low-fat and low-sugar products. Guidelines state that 'low-fat' foods must not have more than 5 per cent fat, while 'reduced fat' means that the total fat content is 25 per cent less than the standard versions of the same product. The terms 'light' or 'lite' are meaningless since they could refer to texture, fat content, sugar content or even colour.

² good for you, physically or morally

³ containing all the natural substances in the grain with nothing removed

⁵ relating to farm animals that are not kept in cages

⁶ genetically modified, i.e. the genes (DNA) of a natural product have been altered in some way

⁷ ways of getting round regulations (usually because they have not been written in a precise enough way)

B Food metaphors

Inviting Joe and his ex-wives to the same party was a recipe for disaster. [situation sure to lead to]

The film has all the ingredients of a box office hit. [all the necessary characteristics]

Let's invite lots of friends to our wedding to dilute the relatives a bit. [make less dominant]

I'm not going to call him. I'm going to let him stew for another few days at least. [worry or suffer especially about something you think is his fault]

The police grilled the suspect for hours, but eventually let him go. [asked a lot of questions]

I'm sure this is going to be another of his half-baked schemes that never comes to anything. [unrealistic or not thought through properly]

Let's hire a karaoke machine – that'll spice up the office party. [make more lively]

Rick has started hanging around with some unsavoury characters. [unpleasant, morally offensive]

They started their business with high hopes but things soon turned sour. [went wrong]

Let's go for a coffee and you can tell me all the juicy gossip. [exciting and interesting]

Exercises

28.1 Answer these questions about the text in A. You may need a dictionary to help you with some of your answers.

- 1 Are food labels meant to provide information or to advertise the products?
- 2 Why do manufacturers try to hide the fact that foods contain synthetic ingredients?
- 3 In the phrase fresh egg pasta, does fresh refer to egg or pasta?
- 4 What do organic, wholemeal and vegetarian mean when describing food?
- 5 What does GM stand for? Explain what it means.
- 6 What is DNA?
- 7 Cereal bars, fish fingers and vegetable burgers are all types of fast food. Describe them.
- 8 This text is from a British magazine, so what does the word jelly mean? What would it mean in a US text?
- 9 How much fat would there be in low-fat cheese? And how much would there be in reduced fat cheese?

28.2 Which do you think would be tastier and why?

- 1 strawberry flavoured yoghurt or strawberry flavour yoghurt
- 2 orange drink or orange juice
- 3 raspberry jam or raspberry flavoured jam
- 4 farmhouse chicken or free-range chicken

28.3 As pointed out in the text, light is an ambiguous word, i.e. it can be understood in different ways. Explain these phrases. Where possible, suggest an opposite to light.

- | | |
|-----------------------|------------------------------------|
| 1 light coloured hair | 6 a light aircraft |
| 2 a light wind | 7 the light of my life |
| 3 a light comedy | 8 Got a light? |
| 4 a light sleeper | 9 to light on the solution |
| 5 to light a fire | 10 In the light of the reports ... |

28.4 Explain the literal meanings of the words used metaphorically in the sentences in B.

EXAMPLE recipe – instructions for cooking a dish

28.5 Rewrite these sentences using the metaphors from B.

- 1 My mother asked me a lot of very searching questions about where I had been last night.
- 2 Let's make the evening more interesting by organising some party games.
- 3 What's been happening while I was on holiday? You must fill me in on all the interesting gossip.
- 4 Don't tell her that her briefcase has been found. Let her suffer for a bit longer – perhaps she'll be more careful with it in future.
- 5 It might be a good idea to make these investments a bit less dominant in your portfolio by exchanging some of them for others in a different line of business.
- 6 They lived together happily for many years, but things changed for the worse when his mother came to live with them.
- 7 Patience combined with interest in your pupils is bound to lead to success for a teacher.
- 8 Lance's ideas are never thought through properly.

Dinner's on me: entertaining and eating out

A Paying the bill

We'll split the bill, shall we? [each person will pay for him/herself]

Lunch is on me today. [informal: I am paying for you]

Will you join us [come with us] for dinner at the City Plaza hotel? We'd like you to be our guest. [formal: we will pay]

Let me get this. [informal: pay the bill this time]

I was wined and dined every night by our New York office. [invited out to restaurants]

B Describing service

A new Italian restaurant called Bella Roma has just opened in the High Street, and we went there the other night to try it. I couldn't help comparing it to the Casa Italia, where we ate last week. In the Bella Roma, the service was impeccable¹ and quick; at the Casa Italia it's always a bit sluggish². In the new place the waiters are courteous³ and friendly without being overbearing⁴. In the other place they tend to be sullen⁵ and the service is rather brusque⁶, which I find very off-putting⁷. But at Bella Roma they'll go out of their way⁸ to give you what you want.

³ polite

⁴ too confident / too inclined to tell people what to do

⁵ bad-tempered / unwilling to smile

⁶ quick and rude

⁷ makes you feel you do not want to go there again

⁸ do everything possible

C Food preferences

I have a sweet tooth and can never say no to cakes or biscuits. [love sweet things]

I won't have dessert, thanks. You're lucky being so slim; but I'm afraid I have to count the calories / I have to be a bit calorie-conscious these days. [be careful how many calories I eat]

I like to end the meal with something savoury like cheese. [salty in flavour or with herbs]

Ben's a bit of a fussy eater. [person who has very particular demands when eating]

No, thanks, I won't have wine. I'm teetotal. [never drink alcohol]

Before I book the restaurant, do you have any particular dietary requirements? [formal: special needs or things someone cannot eat]

I won't have any more wine thanks. I don't want to overdo it. [eat or drink too much]

D Entertaining at home

A: Why not come home and eat with us? You'll have to take pot luck.
[eat what we're eating, nothing special]

B: Thank you. Shall I bring a bottle? [usually means a bottle of wine]

A: Should I wear a suit on Friday?

B: No, no, it isn't a dinner party [rather formal dinner with guests], it's just an informal get-together. [informal group of people meeting for a meal/drinks/etc.]

A: Does anyone want seconds? [a second helping/serving of a dish]

B: Oh, yes please. It was delicious.

A: Can I pour you some juice? Say when. [tell me when I have served enough]

B: When! [That's enough, thanks.]

A: Help yourself to some nibbles. [things like nuts, crisps, etc., before a meal]

A: We leave at six. We can grab a bite to eat on the way. [have a quick meal]

B: Or we could get a takeaway when we get there. [ready-cooked meal bought to take home]

Exercises

29.1 Rewrite the underlined parts of these sentences using expressions from A.

- 1 No, please. Put your credit card away. I'm inviting you for dinner. (Use an informal expression.)
- 2 Let me pay for this one. You can pay next time. (Use an informal expression.)
- 3 Visitors to the company's head office in London are always taken out to the best restaurants. (Use a phrase with two words which rhyme with each other.)
- 4 Fancy coming with us for lunch tomorrow?
- 5 When we eat out as a group, each person usually pays for their own food and drink. (Use a shorter expression meaning the same.)
- 6 I'd like to pay for you at the theatre tomorrow night. (Use a formal expression.)

29.2 Rewrite the underlined parts of these sentences using expressions from the opposite page to describe food and drink preferences.

- 1 I never drink alcohol. (Use an adjective.)
- 2 I don't really like sweet things. (Use an idiom.)
- 3 Are there things you can't or mustn't eat? (Use a formal/polite expression.)
- 4 Just a small portion for me, please. I don't want to eat too much. (Use an expression that means the same.)
- 5 She's become very careful about how many calories she's eating. (Give two different ways of saying the same thing.)
- 6 Sasha is such a choosy person when it comes to food. It's difficult to find things she likes. (Use an expression that means the same.)

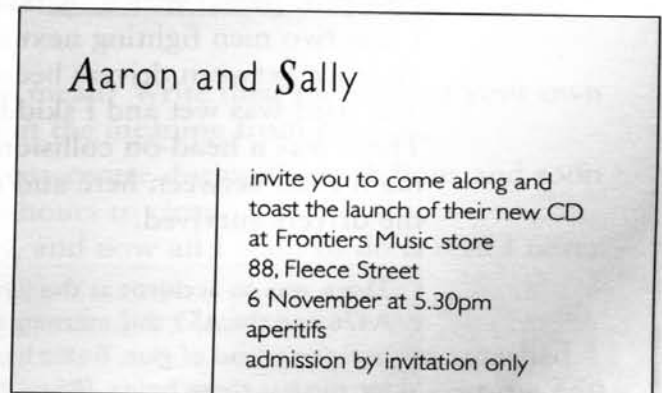

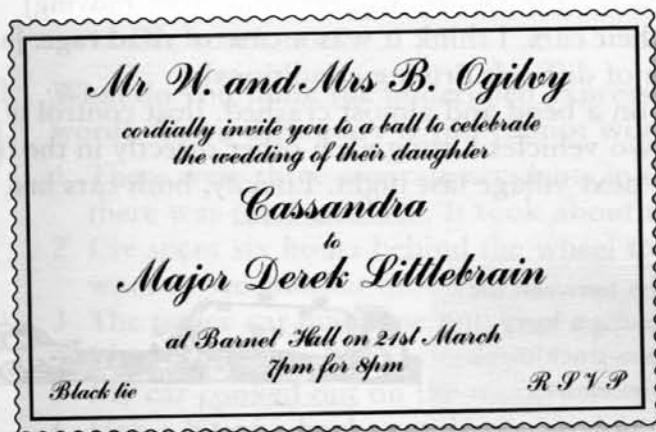

29.3 Give words from the opposite page which contrast with or are the opposite of ...

- | | |
|----------------------|--------------------|
| 1 a sweet dish | 4 rude staff |
| 2 a friendly waiter | 5 quick service |
| 3 a formal gathering | 6 dreadful service |

29.4 Which expressions on the opposite page mean ...

- 1 eat whatever your hosts are eating at home, not a special dish for you?
- 2 tell me when I've poured enough in your glass?
- 3 get a quick meal or some other food that does not take a long time?
- 4 small items you eat before a meal, or perhaps at a reception?
- 5 another portion of what you have just eaten?
- 6 a semi-formal party or reception in someone's house, probably not a meal?

29.5 Make sure you know what all the words mean on these invitation cards.

A UK driving and traffic regulations

Note the collocations.

■ You must give way at a give-way sign. On a roundabout, traffic coming from your right has the right of way [is allowed to go before other traffic]. Sounding/hooting/tooting your horn is prohibited except in emergencies. Jumping [not stopping at] a red light is a serious offence. Reckless driving [very dangerous driving, without any care for others] is also a very serious offence.

■ Drink-driving may result in a heavy fine or imprisonment. You may be asked to take a breathalyser [instrument you breathe into to measure alcohol level] test. Hit-and-run [running over or into someone and not stopping] accidents are extremely serious and could result in a ban [removal of one's driving licence] for several years and/or imprisonment. Less serious offences may result in penalty points [negative points on your licence which are added up over time]. On-the-spot fines [given at the scene of the offence] may be issued for careless driving and other offences.

■ Exhaust emissions [waste gases produced by the vehicle] must meet government standards, and the car must be roadworthy [in a condition that it can be driven safely], which includes a minimum depth of tyre tread [the depth of the grooves in the tyre rubber].

B Traffic problems

Note the words in bold in these comments by people talking about driving problems they have experienced and other events on the road.

It was the rush hour, and there was a long tailback on the motorway. [line of slow or stopped traffic]

There was a pile-up [crash between several or many cars] involving ten cars, because of the fog, so the road was closed and we were diverted [directed away from our road] on to a narrow country lane.

I had stupidly parked in a towaway zone and came back to find my car had gone! [area where your car may be taken away if you park illegally]

I just parked for a few minutes outside the station, but when I came out my car had been clamped. [fitted with a metal device on the wheel to prevent it from moving]

I saw two men fighting next to their cars. I think it was a case of road rage. [anger or violence between drivers because of difficult driving conditions]

The road was wet and I skidded on a bend and almost crashed. [lost control of the steering]

There was a head-on collision [two vehicles hitting each other directly in the front] on the main road between here and the next village last night. Luckily, both cars had air bags and the drivers survived.

There was an accident at the junction between the A476 and the A53 this morning involving a lorry carrying a load of glue. Traffic has been stuck there for the last three hours. (Radio announcement)

Exercises

30.1 Fill the gaps in these sentences using words and phrases from the opposite page.

- 1 We can't park here; it's a zone.
- 2 There was a five-mile on the motorway because of road works.
- 3 Fog caused a number of, one of which involved 15 cars.
- 4 If it's a sign, you don't have to stop if the road is clear, but if it's a stop sign, then you must always stop.
- 5 Who has the at a corner in your country? Cars or pedestrians?
- 6 It was a accident, but the police have a description of the car.
- 7 The permitted level of is to be lowered in an attempt to reduce air pollution in big cities.
- 8 He was given a test and it was discovered he had consumed a huge amount of alcohol. He was charged with and fined £500.
- 9 In some countries drivers their just because they get frustrated. As a result, the city streets are incredibly noisy.

30.2 Respond to these comments as in the example, so that your response explains the meaning of the underlined words. Use words from the opposite page.

EXAMPLE A: I came out and saw a big metal thing on my wheels.

B: Oh, so your wheels had been clamped!

A: Yes. I had to pay £100.

- 1 A: As I drove round the corner there was some ice on the road and I lost control of the steering.
B: Oh, so
- 2 A: The two women were obviously having an argument about the way one of them had driven. Then suddenly they started hitting each other!
B: Oh, I guess it was a case of A: Yes. It's happening more and more these days.
- 3 A: The policeman looked at my tyres and said they were illegal.
B: Oh, so you didn't have the minimum depth of
- 4 A: The road was closed. Two lorries had come straight at each other and crashed.
B: Oh, so it was a
- 5 A: The policeman fined me £100 there and then. I have to pay it within seven days.
B: Oh, really? I didn't know they could give
A: Yes. You have no choice. They just give it to you and you can't dispute it at the time.
- 6 A: The man at the garage said my car wasn't in a fit condition to be driven legally.
B: Oh, so it's not

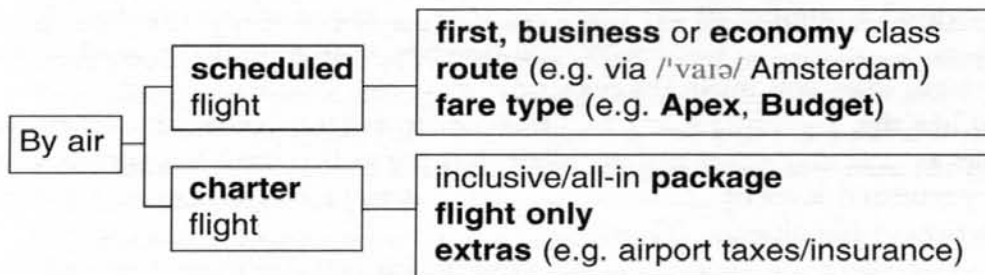

30.3 What do you think the underlined expressions mean? Write their meaning in your own words. Use a dictionary if you cannot work out the meaning from context.

- 1 There were three separate accidents in the city centre during the rush hour and soon there was total gridlock. It took about two hours to clear.
- 2 I've spent six hours behind the wheel today, and now all I want to do is rest. I never want to see another motorway.
- 3 The police car made me pull over and they checked my lights.
- 4 I had a minor bump yesterday. It wasn't serious, but one of my lights got smashed.
- 5 My car conked out on the motorway and I had to ring for assistance. It cost me £50.
- 6 He's a bit of a back-seat driver, so don't be surprised if he criticises your driving.

A Booking travel and holidays

Here are some choices you may make when booking travel/holidays:

A scheduled flight is a normal, regular flight; a charter flight is a special flight taking a group of people, usually to the same holiday destination. Apex fares normally have to be booked a fixed number of days in advance and they offer value for money. Budget fares are usually cheaper but may have restrictions (e.g. you can only travel on certain days) and are usually non-refundable [you can't get your money back] or if you cancel, you may have to pay a cancellation fee. Some tickets allow a stopover [you may stay somewhere overnight before continuing to your destination]. All-in packages normally include accommodation and transfers [e.g. a bus or coach to and from your hotel].

Sea travel is normally on a ferry, and the journey is called a crossing, but you can have a holiday on the sea if you go on a cruise. For some people a luxury cruise is the holiday of a lifetime [one you will always remember].

You may decide to book a berth in a shared cabin [a bed in a cabin with other people], or to have a single or double cabin. For more money, you can often get a deluxe cabin, perhaps on the upper deck [the higher part of the ship, which is often bigger and more comfortable]. Cruises often go to exotic [unusual or exciting] islands where you can get away from it all [escape your daily life and routines].

Car hire is another way of getting around [informal: travelling to different places]. When you book it, you normally choose whether you want unlimited mileage [/'maɪlɪdʒ/ you can travel as many miles as you like for the same price]. There may also be extras to pay such as accident insurance. If you hire a car it gives you the freedom to go as you please [go where you want when you want].

B Accommodation

Some people prefer hotels. Others prefer self-catering [where you do your own cooking] accommodation, such as a holiday apartment or chalet [/'ʃæleɪ/ small cottage or cabin specially built for holiday-makers]. In Britain and Ireland, guest houses [private homes offering high standard accommodation] and inns [similar to pubs, but also offering accommodation; usually beautiful old buildings] offer good accommodation which is often cheaper than hotels, and there are many private homes offering bed-and-breakfast [often called B and B]. Some types of accommodation offer half board [usually breakfast and one other meal] or full board [all meals].

Exercises

31.1 Use vocabulary from A opposite to express these sentences more briefly, as in the example.

EXAMPLE It was a regular flight which the airline runs every day.
It was a scheduled flight.

- 1 I hate those special flights where everyone is booked to the same holiday destination.
- 2 It was a ticket you had to book 30 days in advance to get the cheaper fare.
- 3 The ticket allowed us to spend up to three nights in Singapore on the journey from London to Sydney.
- 4 You can get a bed on the ferry in a little room with three other beds.
- 5 We hired a car, with as many miles as we wanted free.
- 6 When you get there, the bus or taxi to your hotel is included in the cost of the holiday.
- 7 It was a special cheap fare, but there were some things you were not allowed to do.

31.2 Match the words on the left with their collocations on the right.

- | | |
|-------------|---------------|
| 1 bed | catering |
| 2 full | for money |
| 3 self- | mileage |
| 4 unlimited | island |
| 5 exotic | and breakfast |
| 6 value | board |

31.3 Which expressions in the box do you associate with each of the holidays below? Use a dictionary if necessary. Each expression may go with more than one type of holiday.

to rough it	an exhilarating experience	to be out in the wilds to lounge around	to keep on the move	to sleep under the stars
a real learning experience	to be your own boss	to just drift along a cosy atmosphere	to go as you please	to spend a fortune on entrance fees

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|-------------------------|
| 1 self-catering holiday | 5 trekking holiday |
| 2 camping trip | 6 cruise |
| 3 staying in an inn or a guest house | 7 sightseeing holiday |
| 4 skiing holiday | 8 holiday with car hire |

31.4 Use the correct expressions from 31.3 in these sentences.

- 1 It was a lovely cruise; we just all day.
- 2 I prefer self-catering because I like to
- 3 Camping is OK if you don't mind
- 4 Skiing is always such
- 5 Sightseeing's great but it's easy
- 6 The guided tour of the ancient ruins was
- 7 Inns and guest houses usually have quite

31.5 Here are some pictures associated with holidays. Using vocabulary from the opposite page, and in your own words, what kind of holiday do you associate them with?

A General descriptions of tourist destinations

FOR TOURISTS YEARNING to escape the crowd¹, wander off the beaten track² and get back to nature³, Suriname increasingly looks a promising choice⁴. Nobody in Suriname claims that the country boasts⁵ the best sand, sea and sun in the Caribbean. But that, in a way, is precisely the point: there aren't hordes⁶ of people either.

As Henk Essed, director of the Suriname Tourism Foundation, observes: We don't really need masses of tourists like we have in the rest of the Caribbean. Instead, Suriname's modest tourism sector⁷ focuses on what makes the country different. The biggest attraction for visitors seeking something out of the ordinary⁸ is the wealth of⁹ wildlife. Large tracts¹⁰ of the country are still covered by virgin¹¹ rainforest, home to a huge range of flora and fauna¹².

There is great potential to develop eco-tourism¹³ as one of the major sources of income in the near future, says Harold Sijlbing, managing director of Stinasu, an organisation which promotes conservation of wildlife and ecological awareness.

- 1 go where there are not many people
- 2 go to places tourists don't normally go
- 3 live a natural, rural style of life
- 4 a choice which could be a very good one
- 5 this use of boast is for listing the good qualities of a place (formal)
- 6 crowds, in a negative sense
- 7 tourist industry (formal)

- 8 common collocation: looking for something different/unusual
- 9 large amount of (formal)
- 10 areas of land, collocates with large, vast, huge
- 11 original and natural
- 12 plants and animals (Latin); a fixed phrase
- 13 holidays that respect the environment

B Travel advertisements

Waterfront⁵ villas, self-catering, sleep up to six

Awe-inspiring⁹ national parks

Savour¹² the renowned landscapes in our heartland¹³

- 1 /ʌn'waɪnd/ relax, reduce your general level of stress
- 2 get back your energy (like recharging a battery)
- 3 a term for the wild, tree- or grass-covered areas of Africa or Australia
- 4 pronounced four by four; vehicles with driving power on all four wheels
- 5 on the edge of the sea or of a river
- 6 who knows what he/she wants in terms of good quality
- 7 extremely beautiful
- 8 no other company can offer cheaper ones for the same service
- 9 it fills you with a sense of the power and beauty of what you are looking at
- 10 These three words represent a scale of length and difficulty. A ramble is a long, pleasant walk, not too demanding. A hike is more demanding, suggesting more difficult terrain. A trek is usually of several days over wild country.
- 11 no other holiday programme can match this
- 12 a word typically used in advertisements meaning enjoy
- 13 the inland areas furthest away from the sea or from borders with other countries

Exercises

32.1 Complete the expressions and collocations in these sentences, using words from A.

- 1 Malaysia some of the loveliest beaches in Asia.
- 2 The tourism is very important to the economies of many developing countries.
- 3 It is vital that tourism should not damage the flora and of beautiful areas of wildlife.
- 4 Most tourists like to feel free to off the track.
- 5 Nobody likes to travel to a place where there will be of other tourists.
- 6 People who spend all their time in big cities often like to back to when they go away for a holiday.
- 7 If you're something out of the why not try a snowboarding holiday? It's certainly different!
- 8 When I travel I always try to the crowd and find somewhere quiet.
- 9 There are vast of unspoilt land in the north of the country, with rainforests and a of wildlife.
- 10 We've studied the brochures and Tasmania looks a choice for this year.

32.2 Look at these extracts from travel and tourism advertisements and, in your own words, say what they mean. Use a dictionary if necessary.

- 1 Itinerary includes three shore excursions and 10 nights at sea
- 2 Flights subject to availability
- 3 Single room supplement £30 per night
- 4 For instant bookings or quotations, call 01785 67844532
- 5 Fly-drive option available on request

32.3 Use words from B opposite to fill the gaps, based on the words given in brackets.

- 1 This company is excellent and their prices are (RIVAL)
- 2 You should go into the to see the true culture of the country. (HEART)
- 3 There are some absolutely beaches to the north. (STUN)
- 4 I think Suntravel is when it comes to cheap destinations. (BEAT)

Describing the world

A Climate

On a journey from north to south across this huge region, you would pass through a fascinating series of hot tropic landscapes. Plenty of rain falls in the far south, whereas the arid¹ northerly region is prone to² serious drought³. (West Africa)

- ¹ dry
- ² tending to have a particular negative characteristic
- ³ period without rain

B Vegetation

About one third of the landscape of Canada lies within the Arctic Circle and can remain frozen for up to nine months of the year. In these cold areas, known as the tundra¹, any vegetation² is limited. However, further south, large areas of land are covered by dense, coniferous³ forests, known as taiga. Towards the border with the USA lie the mixed, temperate forests and the grasslands of the prairies⁴. (Canada)

- ¹ area in north with no trees and permanently frozen ground
- ² plant life
- ³ trees that are evergreen [green all year round] and produce cones, unlike deciduous trees, which lose their leaves in winter
- ⁴ flat grasslands in Canada and northern USA (similar to steppes in Asia or pampas in South America)

C Agriculture

In the south the main crop is rice, though tea, cotton, fruit and vegetables are also grown. The rice is planted in flooded paddy fields¹. Two crops of rice and one of vegetables are harvested in a good year. In the north and west, which is drier and hillier, farmers grow a single crop of cereals² and tend³ sheep and cattle. (China)

- ¹ fields planted with rice growing in water
- ² type of grass cultivated to produce a grain, i.e. a food plant like rice, wheat or maize
- ³ take care of animals

D Industry

One of the world's leading industrial nations, France has large manufacturing¹, steel and chemical industries and stands at the forefront² of engineering and technology. The country is a major producer of cars and aircraft. France has a large nuclear industry which generates³ about 75 per cent of the country's electrical power. (France)

- ¹ producing goods in large numbers
- ² in an important position
- ³ produces

E Population

THE POPULATION of Brazil is a mixture of peoples. Some are descended from¹ native Indians who have always lived in Brazil, others from the Portuguese who ruled there for 300 years. Many Brazilians have African ancestors² who were brought over in the 17th century to work as slaves on sugar plantations. During the 20th century large numbers of European migrants³ settled⁴ in the south. (Brazil)

- ¹ are related to
- ² relatives from earlier times: we are our ancestors' descendants
- ³ people who move to live in another country (an emigrant is someone who leaves a country and an immigrant is someone who moves to live in a country – emigrants from Britain currently outnumber immigrants coming to live here)
- ⁴ made their homes

Exercises

33.1 Some of the expressions from the opposite page are strong collocations. Match them.

- | | |
|--------------|------------|
| 1 coniferous | plantation |
| 2 industrial | industry |
| 3 paddy | forest |
| 4 chemical | field |

A Weather conversations

Here are some more unusual but still useful words about weather so that you can have typical weather conversations where you agree with someone by using a synonym. In these examples B replies using more informal language.

A: Bit chilly today, isn't it?

B: Yes, it's freezing/nippy, isn't it?

A: It's hot, isn't it?

B: Yes, it's boiling/sweltering/roasting!

A: It's a bit windy today!

B: Yes, really blowzy/breezy, isn't it?

A: What oppressive/sultry weather!

B: Yes, isn't it stifling/heavy/close?

A: What a downpour/deluge!

B: Yes, it's chucking it down/it's pouring!

A: Isn't it humid today?

B: Yes, horribly muggy/clammy.

B Climate and metaphors

Climate metaphors are often used, particularly in written English. The word climate can refer to the general atmosphere or situation in society.

His dishonest policies towards the workers created a climate of distrust.

The government reforms have created a climate of change.

The words, cultural, current, economic, financial, moral, political, social and prevailing all collocate strongly with climate in this social sense.

She has a very sunny disposition – she's hardly ever miserable.
Job prospects are sunny.

Unfortunately, our plans met with a frosty reception.

'You lied to me, didn't you?' she said icily.

I'm snowed under with work – I'll never get through it all in time.

After the company accounts were examined, the manager left under a cloud of suspicion.
Don't let your love for him cloud your judgement.

The soldiers were hit with a hail of bullets.

The Prime Minister was greeted with a hail/storm of abuse.

After the long flight I was in a haze for a day or two.

I've only a hazy idea what you mean.

The truth is hidden in the mists of history.

She looked at him misty-eyed – clearly in love.

The article sparked off a whirlwind of speculation.

They had a whirlwind romance.

The horses thundered down the race track.

Thunderous applause followed his speech. (Note that thundery is used to describe stormy weather while thunderous describes a loud noise.)

The winds of change/discontent/democracy are blowing across the country.

Exercises

34.1 Respond to these statements about the weather. Agree using slightly more formal language like that of speaker A in the dialogues opposite.

- | | |
|---------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| 1 It's a bit nippy outside, isn't it? | 5 Close today, isn't it? |
| 2 What a sweltering day! | 6 It's chucking it down! |
| 3 Isn't it muggy here? | 7 It's clammy today, isn't it? |
| 4 It's blowy, isn't it? | 8 What a stifling day! |

34.2 What is the link between the literal and metaphorical meanings of these words from B opposite?

EXAMPLE sunny – pleasant and positive

- | | | |
|----------------|-----------------|--------------|
| 1 frosty | 4 whirlwind | 7 in a haze |
| 2 icily | 5 hail | 8 to thunder |
| 3 snowed under | 6 under a cloud | |

34.3 Find collocations for these words. You will find some on the opposite page, but use a dictionary to find more if necessary.

- | | | |
|------------------|-----------------|--------------------|
| 1 | 4 | the winds of |
| climate | | |
| | | |
| 2 | 5 | |
| prevailing | a frosty | |
| | | |
| 3 | 6 | |
| to cloud | a hail of | |
| | | |
| | | |

34.4 Read the text below and find words in the text which mean the following.

- | | |
|-----------------------------|---|
| 1 average | 6 rays from the sun |
| 2 dry | 7 make less extreme |
| 3 height above sea level | 8 situated very far from the sea |
| 4 distance from the equator | 9 differing weather conditions at different times of the year |
| 5 rain and snow | |

Schemes for dividing the Earth into climatic regions are based on a combination of indices of mean annual temperature, mean monthly temperature, annual precipitation totals and seasonality. The climate of a place is affected by several factors. Latitude affects the amount of solar radiation received, with the greatest in equatorial regions and the least in polar regions. Elevation affects both temperature and precipitation; mountainous areas are generally cooler and wetter. Location close to the sea or to large bodies of water moderates temperature; continental areas are generally more arid and more affected by extremes of temperature.

34.5 Are climate and weather words used metaphorically in your own first language or in other languages that you know well? If so, do specific weather features evoke the same images in other languages as in English?

A Buildings

Note how cement is used both to make buildings stronger and to make relationships stronger. It can be used in this way both as a noun and a verb: Let's have a drink together to cement our partnership.

Brick wall used metaphorically means a barrier: When I tried to find out what had happened to my tax claim, I came up against a brick wall.

Ceiling can be used to suggest a limit to something: They put a ceiling of twenty thousand pounds on the redundancy payments.

The glass ceiling is a phrase used to refer to an invisible barrier that stops people, especially women, from rising to top positions at work.

Roof as a metaphor: The roof fell in on my world on the day he died.

Notice how the colloquial phrase go through the roof has two different meanings. If prices go through the roof, they increase in a rapid, uncontrolled fashion. If, however, a person goes through the roof, he or she loses their temper.

Hit the roof, similarly, can be used about prices but it is far more commonly used to mean lose one's temper: The teacher will hit the roof when she sees the mess we've made of this work.

As a very tall building, tower conveys an idea of distance from ordinary people. If someone lives in an ivory tower, he or she does not know about the unpleasant and ordinary things that happen in life: Academics are often criticised for living in their ivory towers.

If a person is a tower of strength, they are extremely strong (in an emotional rather than a physical sense): Our friends were a tower of strength when our house burnt down.

If a person or thing towers above something or someone else, they are either outstandingly tall or outstanding in some other positive way: Jack towers above all his classmates although he is actually one of the youngest pupils.

B Entrances

Gateway is used metaphorically in the phrase be a gateway to, meaning provide access. A degree in law is a gateway to a well-paid job.

Door can also be used in a similar way to gateway above, but it is also used in many other metaphorical phrases as well: Failing his final exams closed/shut a lot of doors for him. Knowing several languages opens doors when it comes to finding work.

The new century gives us the opportunity to close the door on our past and make a fresh start. Doing something through/by the back door suggests doing it unofficially: Joe came into the business by the back door – the manager knew him from university.

Key can be used as a noun or an adjective to suggest the importance of something: This research may provide/hold the key to developing a cure for cancer.

Knowing the right people is the key to success in that country.

The key figures in the government all went to the same universities.

As an adjective key collocates strongly with:

Exercises

35.1 Match the words on the left with those on the right to make metaphors. Explain what each metaphor means.

- | | |
|---------|---------|
| 1 glass | door |
| 2 ivory | feature |
| 3 brick | ceiling |
| 4 back | tower |
| 5 key | wall |

35.2 Complete these sentences by inserting the necessary verb.

- 1 The boss through the roof when she saw Robert arriving late again.
- 2 We hope that this scientist's work may the key to solving the problem.
- 3 A degree in economics the door to a number of interesting job opportunities.
- 4 Whenever you try to initiate something in this company you find that, sooner or later, you up against a brick wall.
- 5 Jan's father the roof when he saw that she'd dyed her hair purple.
- 6 Bill over all the other lawyers in his firm. He is by far the most able.
- 7 Her argument with the board last year has, unfortunately, a lot of doors for her in this company.
- 8 The roof in on their world the day that war was declared.

35.3 Rewrite the underlined parts of these sentences using one of the expressions on the opposite page.

- 1 My brother is always enormously supportive whenever I have a problem.
- 2 I would be reluctant to work for a company that does a lot of business in an unofficial way.
- 3 The fee for this work will depend on the time it takes but cannot be more than twenty thousand dollars.
- 4 The cost of petrol has risen dramatically in the last six months.
- 5 Having children often makes a marriage stronger.
- 6 Vancouver is the ideal place for starting to explore Western Canada.
- 7 The most important decision we have to take now is where to locate our business.
- 8 The professor has spent all his life in one university or another and really finds it very difficult to cope in the real world.

35.4 Here are some more metaphors based on aspects of buildings. Can you guess what the underlined expressions mean and rewrite them?

- 1 The company has been locked in a legal battle for several years now.
- 2 The speaker's request for questions was met with a wall of silence.
- 3 Working on this project together should help to lay the foundations for a good relationship in the future.
- 4 Her eyes were locked on mine as she told me she was planning to go abroad.
- 5 When Jack returned to this country he found his marriage in ruins.
- 6 This government should clean up its own back yard before criticising other countries.

35.5 Which of the metaphors in this unit also work as metaphors when translated literally into your own language? Look at exercise 35.4 as well as the opposite page.

Trees, plants and metaphors

Here are some metaphors based on parts of trees and plants.

Seed(s) is often used to talk about the start of an idea or feeling: the seeds of success, the seeds of discontent, the seeds of revolution.

Root(s) is used to suggest the origins of something. You can talk about going back to your roots, for example, meaning going back to the place where your family came from. You can also talk about the root of a problem or the roots of a tradition.

Putting down roots means settling down and making your home in one place: After travelling the world for a couple of years, I was ready to go home and put down some roots.

When an idea becomes known or accepted, it can be said to take root.

Deeply and firmly collocate with rooted as in, for example: Its origins are firmly/deeply rooted in the nineteenth century.

The grass roots of an organisation or society are the ordinary people in it, not the leaders.

Stem is used as a verb to signify that something originates in something else: Her discontent stems from a traumatic experience she had last year.

A branch is something that grows off or branches out from a main organisation. So we talk about branches of a shop or a business branching out into new directions.

We haven't a blue sweater in your size, but you could try our Oxford Street branch.

Bud [flower before it opens] is used in the expression nipped in the bud [stopped before it develops into something].

He's showing signs of neglecting his work – we'd better nip that in the bud.

The adjective budding can also mean showing promise of future development:

She's a budding young actress.

B

Here are some metaphors based on verbs connected with plant growth and gardening.

The new boss is planning to weed out older or less experienced staff. [get rid of]

The government will probably have to prune back its proposals. [cut/limit]

At last she is reaping the reward of all her years of study. [is getting results from]

The journalists have dug up some interesting facts. [have discovered]

The idea was germinating while we were on holiday. [was beginning to develop]

Out-of-town shopping centres have been sprouting all over the country. [have been appearing quickly in large numbers]

Our business is flourishing. [is doing very well]

A deciduous tree sheds its leaves. [loses]

People can shed employees/traditions/worries/inhibitions/weight.

Plants fade, wither, shrivel and wilt when they die. These verbs can all be used metaphorically:

Hopes of finding survivors are fading. [becoming smaller]

High inflation means that our savings are shrivelling. [becoming less]

It was so hot in the classroom that the students were starting to wilt. [lose energy]

A glance/look/remark can wither or be withering. [make the recipient feel scorned]

She gave him a withering look.

Exercises

36.1 Match the beginnings of the expressions with their endings.

- | | |
|-------------|----------------|
| 1 nipped | of the problem |
| 2 a budding | root |
| 3 grass | poet |
| 4 the root | of discontent |
| 5 to reap | roots |
| 6 to take | in the bud |
| 7 the seeds | rewards |

36.2 Fill the gaps in these sentences.

- 1 Alec has spent most of his life in London, but he is keen to back to his roots when he retires.
- 2 The business is firmly in the west of England.
- 3 The idea took some time to root but it's very fashionable now.
- 4 His grandfather sowed the of the business's success.
- 5 The US bookshop chain is opening a number of in the UK.
- 6 It's about time she down some roots.
- 7 The idea for her novel from her interest in mountain climbing.
- 8 The St James's Drama College turns out a hundred actors every year.

36.3 What is the link between the literal and metaphorical meanings of these words from B?

- | | | | | |
|-----------|------------|-------------|--------------|-----------|
| 1 fade | 3 flourish | 5 germinate | 7 prune back | 9 reap |
| 2 shrivel | 4 sprout | 6 weed out | 8 wilt | 10 wither |

36.4 Suggest three nouns that each of these adjectives could describe.

- 1 budding
- 2 flourishing
- 3 withering
- 4 fading
- 5 deeply rooted

36.5 Answer these questions.

- 1 What would you like to shed at this point in your life?
- 2 Can you think of a situation where you reaped the rewards of something you did?
- 3 What in your life is flourishing at the moment?
- 4 When did you last feel that you were wilting?

36.6 Here are some further metaphors based on plants. Answer the questions and use a dictionary if necessary.

- 1 If you are the apple of your teacher's eye, does your teacher like or dislike you?
- 2 If something, for example new houses, is said to be mushrooming, what is happening?
- 3 If someone lives in clover, do they live very poorly or very luxuriously?
- 4 What kind of person is a couch potato?
- 5 If discussions are fruitful, what are they like?

A Describing animals and birds

word	definition and/or examples mammal	animal that gives birth to live babies, not eggs, and feeds them on its own milk (e.g. cat, cow, kangaroo)
rodent	e.g. mouse, rat
reptile	e.g. snake, lizard
carnivore	animal that eats meat (e.g. lion, tiger)
herbivore	animal that eats grass/vegetation (e.g. deer, cow)
predator	animal that hunts/eats other animals (e.g. eagle, lion, shark)

B Describing typical animal behaviour

word	meaning	example
docile	behaves very gently	Our old cat is a very docile creature.
tame	not afraid of humans	These birds are so tame, they will sit on your hand.
domesticated	lives with or is used by humans	Dogs and cats became domesticated thousands of years ago.

Animal rights activists often demonstrate outside this factory because animals are used in experiments there. [people who actively campaign for the protection and rights of animals]

Exercises

37.1 Rewrite the underlined expressions in these sentences using more technical terms.

- 1 There are dozens of different types of squirrels, mice and things like that living in the woods.
- 2 A whale isn't a fish, it doesn't lay eggs. It's actually an animal that gives birth directly.
- 3 There are some interesting turtles and crocodiles and that sort of thing near the river.
- 4 Everyone thinks these animals eat meat, but in fact they only feed on certain kinds of leaves.
- 5 The mother bird protects her eggs from animals that attack them.

37.2 Fill the gaps in these sentences using adjectives from B on the opposite page to describe gentle or aggressive behaviour, or the relationship between animals and humans.

- 1 Sheep are generally rather animals, but the other day one attacked our dog.
- 2 The lions look very with their huge teeth and large heads.
- 3 Elephants are in several countries in Asia, and they work hard carrying heavy weights.
- 4 The dolphins are very and will swim along with human beings.
- 5 I don't think birds should ever be hunted. They should be left in peace in their natural surroundings.

37.3 Here are the beginnings and endings of some words related to animals and birds. Can you fill in the missing letters? You are given a clue as to the meaning.

- 1 h.....t (natural home)
- 2 s.....y (protected place)
- 3 r.....e (protected area, often for big game)
- 4 s.....r (place for homeless animals)

37.4 Answer these questions.

- 1 What do we call sports that deliberately injure or kill animals for pleasure?
- 2 What name is given to the activity of buying and selling elephants' tusks?
- 3 What do we call people who illegally hunt or catch animals or fish?
- 4 What arguments would animal rights activists have against the fur trade?

37.5 Complete the following table. Do not fill the shaded boxes. Use a dictionary if necessary. In the noun and adjective columns, mark which part of the word is stressed.

noun	verb	adjective carnivore
herbivore predator
poacher

You probably already know a lot of words for talking about the environment, pollution, and so on. In this unit we look at words that are often used together (collocations). Try to learn some of these expressions and use them in your writing.

A Threats and potential threats to the environment

Shrinking habitats¹ are a threat to both plants and animals, and endangered species² need legal protection if they are to survive. Meanwhile, global warming³ will produce rising sea levels and climatic changes⁴, and carbon dioxide emissions⁵ from the burning of fossil fuels⁶ are contributing to the greenhouse effect⁷. In addition, population growth exerts severe pressure on⁸ finite resources⁹, and the ecological balance¹⁰ may be upset by uncontrolled deforestation¹¹. Demographic projections¹² suggest the world population will grow before it begins to stabilise. One of the worst case scenarios¹³ is that there will be no tropical forests left by the year 2050. Our only hope is that pristine environments¹⁴ such as Antarctica can be protected from development and damage.

- ¹ places where animals live and breed which are decreasing in size
- ² types of animals/plants which are in danger of no longer existing
- ³ steady rise in average world temperatures
- ⁴ changes in the weather/climate
- ⁵ carbon dioxide gas from factories, cars, etc.
- ⁶ coal, oil, etc.
- ⁷ warming of the Earth's surface caused by pollution
- ⁸ formal: puts pressure on
- ⁹ limited resources
- ¹⁰ balance of natural relationships in the environment
- ¹¹ destruction/clearing of forests
- ¹² forecasts about the population
- ¹³ the worst possibilities for the future
- ¹⁴ perfectly clean/untouched/unspoiled areas

B Responses to environmental issues and problems

Look at these newspaper headlines and note the useful phrases.

GOVERNING PARTY IN BID TO IMPROVE
GREEN CREDENTIALS

* reputation for positive support of the environment

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT*
THE ONLY ANSWER FOR EMERGING COUNTRIES, SAYS UN COMMISSION

* development of industry, etc. which does not threaten the environment or social and economic stability

PROPHETS OF DOOM AND GLOOM*
SHOULD LISTEN TO SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE, SAYS PRIME MINISTER

* people who always make the most depressing or pessimistic forecasts for the future

PIECEMEAL CONSERVATION*
INEFFECTIVE – NATIONAL POLICY NEEDED, SAYS NEW REPORT

*carrying out conservation one bit at a time, with no overall plan

Exercises

38.1 Make these sentences formal by using words and phrases from A opposite instead of the underlined words. Make any other necessary changes to produce a correct sentence.

- 1 All that carbon-what's-it-called gas put out by cars and factories is a major problem.
- 2 These flowers here are a type there's not many left of, so it's illegal to pick them.
- 3 A lot of wild animals have to survive in smaller and smaller areas where they can live.
- 4 Most of Patagonia is a completely spotless area that's never been touched.
- 5 We have to look after the things we use on this planet because they won't last forever.
- 6 If the cutting down of trees continues, there will be no forest left ten years from now.
- 7 Burning coal and oil and stuff like that causes a lot of pollution.
- 8 The sea will get higher if this heating up of the world continues.
- 9 Increasing population puts really big pressure on economic resources.
- 10 The way things all balance one another in nature is very delicate.

38.2 Complete the following table, using a dictionary if necessary. Do not fill the shaded boxes.

noun	verb	adjective	adverb
demography project

38.3 Correct the mistakes in this paragraph.

Profits of boom and gloom are always saying that we are heading for an environmental catastrophe, and that unless we adopt a policy of attainable development we will cause irreparable damage to the planet. The worst place scenery is of a world choked by overpopulation, the greenhouse affect and traffic gridlock. Much of what is claimed is exaggerated, but politicians are influenced by such voices and are always trying to improve their green potentials in the eyes of the voters.

38.4 An American newspaper recently published these statistics. Read them and answer the two questions below.

- 1 There is one word in the picture for a type of animal not mentioned on the opposite page. What does this new word mean? Use a dictionary if necessary.
- 2 Which phrase in this unit means the same as threatened species?

Here to help: service encounters

A Good service

Look at these comments by someone about a company they recently used.

They're a good company. They always make sure you get a prompt [quick, without delay] reply to any query [/'kwɪəri/ question or enquiry about service] and they're very responsive to complaints [they listen, take them seriously and act]. When I rang to ask if I could change the delivery date, they were very accommodating [willing to understand and help] and got back to me [called me with an answer to my query] within ten minutes with a new date. Whenever I ring I get impeccable [100% perfect] service; they're always very helpful and obliging [willing and happy to do things for you], whatever the problem is.

B Bad service

adjective	meaning	example incompetent	failing through insufficient skill, knowledge or training	It wasn't just bad service; they were completely incompetent .
impersonal	lacking a personal element	I find supermarkets so impersonal .
shoddy	poor quality (of service or of goods)	They repaired my car but the work was very shoddy .
substandard	below the standard expected (often used about actions)	It was a substandard performance altogether for such a big company.
uncooperative	not supportive, unwilling to work together	The secretary was very uncooperative . So I ended up doing it myself.

There's a huge backlog of orders and they can't deliver for three weeks. [number which are waiting to be dealt with]

They never seem to have any sense of urgency when you ring them. It's exasperating. [feeling that your request is important or urgent]

They have a helpline [telephone number where you can get help if you have problems], but it's useless; they always put you on hold [make you wait] every time you ring.

My TV broke down but it was still under guarantee/warranty so I didn't have to pay to get it repaired. [having a written promise by a company to repair or replace a faulty product]

C Service encounters on the Internet

Some expressions you might find when using Internet websites for goods and services: Most big companies on the Internet offer a secure site [web address where no outside person can read your details] and have a privacy policy guaranteeing safe transactions [business exchanges which protect, e.g. your credit card from use by someone else].

This site has a very good FAQ [(pronounced as initials) frequently asked questions] link where you can find answers to the most important questions.

This Internet bookshop is excellent: you can browse and it has a very good site index. [look at the list of goods/services offered before buying]

Most large Internet shopping sites offer immediate dispatch [goods will be sent at once] and a nationwide service [covering the whole country].

Exercises

39.1 Fill the gaps with appropriate words or phrases from the opposite page. There may be more than one possible answer.

- 1 I rang to complain and they put me for about 15 minutes. Then I spoke to someone who promised to ring me again, but they never got me. I'll have to call them again.
- 2 They promised immediate of the goods I ordered, but I've been waiting over a week now, and nothing has arrived.
- 3 I've always found the company very to complaints and inquiries.
- 4 I was expecting a reply to my letter, but I've been waiting two weeks now, and still haven't had an answer.
- 5 I asked why they hadn't dealt with my order yet and they said there was a of orders which had built up over the Christmas holidays.
- 6 In my opinion, the goods and the service were both pretty I would have expected better quality from such a famous firm.
- 7 Staff in that shop are so ; they are genuinely helpful.
- 8 I rang the , but they couldn't solve my problem.

39.2 Answer these questions for yourself.

- 1 Do you have a backlog of anything at the moment?
- 2 Have you had any recent experience of someone being very accommodating towards you?
- 3 What sort of companies or services usually have a helpline? Have you ever rung one? If so, what for, and was it successful?
- 4 Has anyone who has served you been uncooperative recently? What was the situation?

39.3 Here are some buttons taken from current Internet shopping and service sites. Match them with the list of functions.

Authorities: customs and police

A Entering and leaving: customs

On arrival in most countries as a foreigner you have to show your passport, a landing card¹ and often a customs declaration form². You may need a visa and a vaccination certificate³, depending on the entry restrictions⁴. Customs carry out spot checks / random checks⁵ on people's luggage. They use sniffer dogs⁶ to search for drugs and explosives. In most cases, you have to clear customs⁷ at the port of entry⁸. Genuine refugees may try to seek political asylum⁹. Customs officers also look out for illegal immigrants, some of whom may be economic migrants¹⁰.

- ¹ form with your personal details and date of arrival

C Other types of policing

name	definition
security forces	often a name for the army and police together enforcing the law plain clothes/undercover police	police who do not wear uniform
paramilitary police	police who are more like soldiers than civilian police officers drug squad	police specially trained to fight the illegal drug trade anti-corruption squad	police specially trained to discover and fight bribery/corruption

Exercises

40.1 Rewrite these sentences using phrases and collocations from A instead of the underlined words.

- 1 You'll have to show a paper proving that you have had injections for tropical diseases when you enter the country.
- 2 People entering from war-torn countries often ask for permission to stay to avoid political oppression in their own country.
- 3 You have to take your baggage through customs if you arrive on an international flight at San Francisco airport, even if you are flying on within the USA.
- 4 You have to fill in a paper saying how much money you're bringing into the country before going through customs control.
- 5 Some of the people were people who were poor and travelling hoping to find jobs, rather than genuine political refugees.
- 6 Passenger to airline cabin attendant: Could you give me one of those papers for filling in my passport number and personal details before we arrive, please?
- 7 At the airport the security guards had those special dogs that can smell drugs.
- 8 You'll need a visa; the rules about who can enter the country are very strict.
- 9 You have to fill in the city where you first entered the country in this box here.

40.2 Give possible reasons for the circumstances in which the police might do the following (based on your own country or your own experience). Some of the things are not on the opposite page. Guess their meaning or use a dictionary if necessary.

- | | |
|---|-------------------------------|
| 1 carry out spot checks on lorries | 6 set up a roadblock |
| 2 charge someone with drink-driving | 7 publish a photofit picture |
| 3 tap someone's telephone | 8 ask you to make a statement |

Festivals in their cultural context

A Describing festivals

Look at these short extracts about Chinese cultural festivals.

The Taipei Lantern Festival is held at the time of China's traditional Lantern Festival, which falls two weeks after the Chinese New Year and features children parading about the streets at night carrying homemade lanterns. Lanterns remain the focus of the festival. The most spectacular of all is the theme lantern at the Chiang Kai-shek Memorial Hall.

Chinese New Year's Day will normally fall between January 10 and February 19. It is the grandest holiday for all Chinese around the world and is celebrated in many ways during the course of the season, depending on your age, sex, and marital status. It celebrates the birth of a new year, a time for renewed hope.

noun	verb	adjective
There are big celebrations on New Year's Day.	New Year's Day is celebrated in many ways. The festival celebrates the New Year.	It was a public holiday and everyone was in a celebratory mood.
The festival is a time of renewal .	Each year, the festival renews the national spirit of the people.	The success of the cancer drugs gave her renewed hope.
The festival is held in March. [special day(s)/event] The festivities go on for days. [enjoyable activities]		There was a festive mood in the village during the spring holiday.
The parade in the town square was a very colourful spectacle .		The parade is always very spectacular .
Many customs have their origin in pagan ceremonies .		A ceremonial procession is held through the streets of the city.

B Other useful words and phrases connected with festivals

A lot of people are very superstitious, especially about numbers and colours.
[have illogical beliefs about hidden forces in nature]

The festival celebrated the centenary/bi-centenary of the country's independence.
[100th anniversary / 200th anniversary]

In some cultures, traditional festivals celebrate the end of periods of penance [actions to show you are sorry for bad deeds] and fasting [not eating for a long period].

The Rio de Janeiro carnival is always a very flamboyant [extremely colourful and exaggerated] and raucous [very noisy] event.

The Festival of the Dead was very sombre [serious, heavy and sad] and atmospheric [had a special feeling or atmosphere].

The annual holiday commemorates all those who died in the country's civil war. [formal: respects and remembers officially]

Exercises

42.1 Use words and phrases from A opposite to rewrite the underlined words. Use the word-class indicated and make any other necessary changes to the sentence.

- 1 For Christians, Christmas is a celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ. VERB
- 2 The festival events included parades, sports and musical gatherings. NOUN (plural)
- 3 There was a feeling of celebration about the whole weekend. ADJECTIVE
- 4 For the country people, the spring festival symbolically renews the fertility of the land. NOUN
- 5 There was an atmosphere of ceremony as the military bands marched round the main square. ADJECTIVE
- 6 People tend to be in a mood for having a festival when the harvest is successfully completed. ADJECTIVE
- 7 You should go and see the lantern festival. It's always very spectacular. NOUN

42.2 Here is an extract of someone talking about a festival using rather informal language. Write it as a more formal description, using words and expressions from the box instead of the underlined words, and making any other necessary changes.

parade	atmospheric	focus	be believed to	associate pagan	symbolise	sombre	superstitious	flamboyant
raucous	trace

Well, it's called the Festival of Flowers, and it's all to do with the coming of spring, after the dark, serious winter months. It all started with a religious tradition of taking flowers to the church to offer them to God. Spring flowers are the main thing in the festival, and there's always a big gang of people marching through the streets dressed in traditional costumes. It's all very lively and extremely colourful and rather noisy, and it has a great feeling about it. The flowers mean new life, and people thought they would be guaranteed a good harvest later in the year if they were offered to God. Nowadays most people don't have such funny beliefs about nature, but there's still a really old, pre-Christian atmosphere about it all ...

42.3 Which of these important days are celebrated in your country? Make sure you can describe what people do on these days in English. Use a dictionary or encyclopedia if necessary.

Mother's Day Independence Day May Day Valentine's Day

FOLLOW UP

Use the vocabulary of this unit to write a description for tourists of an important festival in your country, religion or culture. Try to answer the following questions: When does it fall? What does it symbolise or commemorate? What is its main focus? What does it feature? What are its origins? When does it date back to? What sort of atmosphere does it have? Remember to alternate your vocabulary to avoid too much repetition.

A Some major world language families

Indo-European [major group of languages in Europe and parts of Asia]

family name	examples
Slavic	Polish, Russian, Bulgarian
Germanic	Swedish, English, Dutch
Romance	Spanish, Romanian, French
Indo-Arian	Hindu, Romany (gypsy language), Farsi (spoken in Iran)
Celtic	Welsh, Irish, Breton (spoken in Brittany, France)
Semitic	Arabic, Hebrew
Austronesian	Malay, Tagalog (spoken in the Philippines), Maori (spoken in New Zealand)

B Some technical terms for talking about your language

Syntax: the grammar and word order

How does your language express modality? [meanings such as possibility and necessity] English does it with modal verbs like must, could and should.

Phonology: the sound system, i.e. pronunciation and intonation

How many vowel phonemes does your language have? [different sounds that distinguish meanings] English has 12 and 10 diphthongs. [sounds made by combining vowels, such as æ and eɪ]

Lexicon: technical term for vocabulary

The Germanic languages have many compounds [words formed by combining words, e.g. software]. English has a mixture of Graeco-Latin [originally from Greek and Latin] words and Anglo-Saxon [language of England from 500–1000 AD] words.

Orthography: technical term for writing systems

The English alphabet has 26 characters [letters or symbols]. Some writing systems, such as Chinese, are not alphabetic but have pictograms [characters representing pictures] or ideograms [characters representing ideas/concepts].

Morphology: how words are formed

There are three morphemes in unthinkable: un, think and able [units of meaning]. The Romance languages are inflected [words have endings to show tense, person, etc.], while the Chinese languages are isolating [each word has only one morpheme].

Written accents

|------------------|-----------------------|------------------|
| 1 puño (Spanish) | 3 grâce (French) | 5 siège (French) |
| 2 gären (German) | 4 facção (Portuguese) | 6 café (French) |

43.3 Rewrite these sentences using more appropriate technical terms from B on the left-hand page instead of the underlined words.

- The writing system of Burmese is quite difficult for a foreign learner.
- Japanese uses several different writing systems with hundreds of letters and symbols.
- The vocabulary of a language like English is constantly changing. A lot of new technical words are based on roots from Latin and Greek, rather than words from the period pre-1000 AD.
- Unlike English, some world languages have very few vowel sounds and no combinations of vowels.
- This ancient and beautiful alphabet uses symbols that evoke pictures to express meaning.
- Windscreen* is a noun made from two nouns.
- Meanings connected with probability and obligation are expressed in different forms in different languages.

43.4 Complete the word formation table below. Use a dictionary if necessary. If your dictionary gives pronunciations, mark any differences in stress between the noun form and the adjective form.

Here are some terms which are useful for talking about history, especially about power in history. The meanings of the words in bold should be clear from their context.

Lord Acton said, 'All power corrupts but absolute power corrupts absolutely.' Historically, power in Britain rests with the monarchy. Kings and queens succeed one another to the throne according to the laws of succession. A new monarch accedes to the throne as soon as his or her predecessor dies. The eldest son of the current monarch is the heir apparent with other close relatives said to be, say, second, third or fourth in line to the throne. If the eldest son is too young to reign, then a regent may take his place until he reaches a suitable age. There have been times in history when a pretender has laid claim to the throne, saying that it should rightfully belong to him, rather than to the person proclaimed king. In other words, he is trying to depose that king and to seize power for himself. His opponents would say that such a pretender is trying to usurp power. If he succeeds, then the person whose place he takes can be said to fall from power. A person who does not use power well can be said to abuse power.

Here are some words which you will meet when reading about the past in history books or literature. They may be fairly unusual concepts for the modern world but they are all still very familiar words which are also sometimes used metaphorically about life today.

Periods

feudal: relating to a social system strictly organised according to rank, typical of e.g. Europe in the Middle Ages medieval: of or from the Middle Ages i.e. 1000–1500 AD

Renaissance: period of new growth of interest and activity in the arts especially in Europe in the 14th to 16th centuries

Victorian: relating to the period 1837–1901 when Victoria was Queen of Britain – associated with values of self-control, hard work, loyalty, strong religious beliefs

Military

infantry: soldiers on foot cavalry: soldiers on horseback legion: Roman army

(suit of) armour: metal protective clothing worn by soldiers

Transport

chariot: two-wheeled vehicle pulled by a horse and used in ancient times for racing and war galleon: large sailing ship with three or four masts used in trade and war in the 15th to 18th centuries

stagecoach: covered vehicle pulled by horses that carried passengers and goods on regular routes cart: open vehicle with two or four wheels and pulled by an animal

People

serf: person working on the land who legally belongs to his master jester: person who entertained people in the Middle Ages with jokes minstrel: person who entertained people in the Middle Ages with music and poetry highwayman: man on horseback who robbed travellers on roads

Exercises

44.1 Look at A. Choose six of the expressions in bold that you would particularly like to learn and use them in sentences about the history of a country you know well.

44.2 Which of the words described in B do these pictures represent?

44.3 Here are some of the words from B used in a metaphorical way in a modern context. Read the sentences and answer the questions about the underlined phrases. The literal meanings of the words in B should help you to work out their metaphorical implications.

- 1 The princess swept into the room like a galleon in full sail.
Was the princess (a) small and awkward or (b) large and stately?
- 2 Offering him the job before the interview is rather like putting the cart before the horse.
Is this doing things in (a) the right order or (b) the wrong order?
- 3 He's a very reserved person and you'll probably find it hard to penetrate his armour.
Is the person described likely to be (a) thick-skinned or (b) self-contained and retiring?
- 4 The company was quite feudal in its organisation.
Was the company (a) hierarchical or (b) democratic?

A World poverty

DEFINING POVERTY Absolute poverty is defined according to an absolute minimum standard, often called the 'poverty line'. Relative poverty means that you are poor in relation to those around you. Income poverty ('less than a dollar a day', for example) means that you are poor if you have less money than the defined poverty line for your country. Human poverty takes into account other factors, such as life expectancy, infant malnutrition¹, illiteracy² and lack of food or clean water.

THE RICH In 1960, the 20% of the world's people who live in the richest countries had 30 times the income of the poorest 20%; now it is 82 times. The world's 225 richest people have a combined wealth of over $1 million million. Only four per cent of this wealth – $40 billion – would be enough for basic education and healthcare, adequate food, and safe water and sanitation³ for all the world's people.

- the 15 richest people have assets that exceed the total Gross Domestic Product (GDP)⁴ of sub-Saharan Africa.

- the assets of the 84 richest people exceed the GDP of China, which has 1.2 billion inhabitants.

AIDING THE POOR The UN has set the target for overseas aid at 0.7% of a country's GNP⁵. Only the Netherlands and Sweden currently meet this target and the US aid budget is the lowest of all. Overall, the average aid provided by richer countries is 0.22% of GNP. If it had stayed at its 1992 level of 0.33%, it would today be $24 billion more than it is.

The majority of aid is not spent on direct poverty alleviation⁶. Some is 'tied' to trade deals, or debt servicing⁷. In 1997, debt-service payments from sub-Saharan Africa amounted to 80% of aid. Only 24.3% of overseas aid goes to the poorest countries.

² inability to read or write

³ systems for taking dirty water and waste from homes to ensure good hygiene

⁴ the total value of all the goods and services produced in a country in one year, excluding income received from abroad

⁵ Gross National Product is GDP plus money earned from abroad by companies based in that country

⁶ reducing the level of poverty

⁷ paying back money owed on loans

B Other words and expressions relating to poverty

A number of artists who only became famous after their deaths spent their lifetimes in penury. [the state of being extremely poor]

It's a very poor country – over 60% of the population live on (or below) the breadline. [having the level of income of an extremely poor person]

The charity's main aim is to improve healthcare in impoverished areas of the world. [poor, without much money to live on]

Everywhere in the city you see destitute people living in shop doorways or under bridges. [without money, food, home or possessions]

Unfortunately the number of deprived children in the world is growing, even in so-called rich countries. [not having the things necessary for a pleasant life – food, home, money]

When we were first married we were living from hand to mouth, so it's nice to be able to spend a bit more now. [having just enough money to live without suffering]

Ever since I lost my job, money has been tight. [there has not been much money]

Exercises

45.1 Do these statements reflect the points made in the article in A? Mark each one True or False. If the statement is false, correct it.

- 1 Income poverty takes health factors into account as well as money.
- 2 If the 225 richest people in the world each gave up 4% of their wealth, there would be no poverty problems in the world.
- 3 15 people each have wealth that is worth more than the GDP of sub-Saharan Africa.
- 4 The US gives 0.7% of its GNP to overseas aid.
- 5 The proportion of GNP given as overseas aid is increasing.
- 6 More than three quarters of aid is used to pay back previous loans from richer countries.
- 7 Just over a quarter of overseas aid actually goes to the poorest countries.

45.2 Choose one of the words in the box to complete each of the sentences below.

absolute	alleviation	Domestic	malnutrition relative	sanitation	servicing	National

- 1 The figure for a country's Gross Product will be larger than that for its Gross Product.
- 2 In countries where food is scarce, is inevitably a major problem.
- 3 Using overseas aid for debt does not directly help any people who are suffering through poverty.
- 4 The amount of money earned by someone suffering from poverty will be greater in a rich area than in a poor area, whereas poverty does not take account of a person's immediate environment.
- 5 The Child Poverty Action Group does all it can for the of poverty among children in the United Kingdom.
- 6 Temporary refugee camps usually have rather poor facilities.

45.3 Match the two halves of the collocations. They are all used in the text in A.

- | | |
|------------|--------------|
| 1 poverty | poverty |
| 2 life | deal |
| 3 overseas | servicing |
| 4 minimum | aid |
| 5 debt | standard |
| 6 infant | expectancy |
| 7 trade | line |
| 8 income | malnutrition |

45.4 Choose the best word to complete each of these sentences.

- 1 A person who sleeps in a cardboard box on the street and begs for money can best be described as impoverished/destitute.
- 2 Without my husband's income, we were very much living from hand to mouth/foot.
- 3 When we were children, money was always small/tight.
- 4 Even children with rich parents can be deprived/destitute in terms of love and affection.
- 5 An increasing number of people live below the penury/breadline.

45.5 Write a paragraph about the issue of poverty in your own country.

British politics

A

This text from an incisive commentator on British politics and society, Anthony Sampson, uses many words and expressions which are useful when talking or writing about politics.

Behind the public debates of parliament, the hidden pressures on government influence legislation¹ much more than speeches. Growing numbers of Members of Parliament (MPs) are themselves well-paid to represent commercial or special interests, sometimes more assiduously than their own constituents². But the most powerful lobbies³, like the big corporations⁴ or the Institute of Directors⁵, do not bother much about Members: they can go straight to ministers⁶ and civil servants⁷. [...] Lobbyists⁸ reach their annual climax when the Chancellor of the Exchequer⁹ is preparing his annual budget¹⁰ and receives petitions¹¹ from business interests pressing for tax concessions¹².

- ¹ law-making (person = a legislator; verb = legislate)
- ² people who elected one MP (as a group = constituency)
- ³ interest groups who try to influence MPs (verb = lobby)
- ⁴ large companies (adjective = corporate)
- ⁵ organisation of top business people
- ⁶ MPs with top responsibilities, e.g. for health, education
- ⁷ people employed in government departments (the Civil Service)

- ⁸ people who lobby (see note 3)
- ⁹ finance minister (in the UK)
- ¹⁰ yearly financial plan (of tax rates, etc.)
- ¹¹ formal requests often signed by lots of people
- ¹² reductions in taxes (verb = concede)

In this text Anthony Sampson looks at the relative strengths of different types of lobbyists.

The interests of producers¹ – centralised², close-knit³ and well-funded⁴ – inevitably win over the consumers⁵, who are scattered and fragmented⁶, and the most powerful pressures of all, like the road-and-car lobby, change the face of the country through backstairs pressures which are concealed from any public debate. Gradually non-commercial lobbies have also become much better organised, like Friends of the Earth⁷ or the Child Poverty Action Group⁸, some with hundreds of thousands of paid-up members⁹. Others relentlessly lobby Members of Parliament with mass-produced letters and deputations¹⁰ to intimidate and encircle them. [...] They have done much to counter¹¹ big-business pressures with the help of effective publicity; but they cannot take account of grievances¹² of the individual, who can only appeal to¹³ his own Member of Parliament.

- ¹ manufacturers; a person or business that makes something (note words from same root – product, productive, mass-produced, etc.)
- ² concentrated in one central organisation (noun = centralisation)
- ³ with close ties to each other
- ⁴ with plenty of financial support
- ⁵ people who use/buy products

- ⁶ separate; not centralised
- ⁷ large environmental organisation
- ⁸ large organisation helping children
- ⁹ people who have paid their membership fees, i.e. committed members
- ¹⁰ people sent to speak for a group
- ¹¹ oppose
- ¹² complaints about unfair treatment
- ¹³ request support from

Exercises

46.1 Are these statements about the texts true or false?

- 1 Parliamentary debates are the main influence on legislation.
- 2 Some MPs do more for big business than for their constituents.
- 3 The most powerful business organisations approach ministers directly.
- 4 Business is influential partly because it is well-organised and has money.
- 5 The public is well-informed about all the different lobbies.
- 6 Non-commercial organisations are getting better at influencing MPs.
- 7 The individual can do nothing if he or she has a grievance.

46.2 Read the texts opposite and find three examples of:

- 1 nouns denoting people (Text A)
- 2 adjectives that can be used to describe social organisations (Text B)
- 3 verbs that can have a strong political association (Text B)

46.3 Find words from the texts formed from the same roots as the words in the box.

1 commerce	3 constituency	5 consumption	7 legislate
2 mass-produced	4 petitioner	6 pressurise	8 representative

46.4 Now match the words in the box in 46.3 to their meanings below.

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1 person standing for the interests of a group | 5 area represented by one MP |
| 2 person signing a formal request | 6 to try to force someone to do something |
| 3 made in large quantities | 7 amount purchased, used or eaten |
| 4 to make laws | 8 all the activities associated with business |

46.5 Explain the meanings of these words from the texts and put them in a typical phrase.

Text A: influence assiduously a climax press for Text B: close-knit backstairs relentlessly intimidate encircle

46.6 Which word from A or B also has the meaning in italics and fits the gap in the sentence?

EXAMPLE polite His behaviour was civil, but not particularly friendly.

- 1 place where customers stand to buy things in a shop or drinks in a bar.
Customers are requested to queue at the other end of the
- 2 the entrance hall of a house/building Let's meet in the hotel at 8 p.m.
- 3 be attractive to someone That kind of music doesn't to me at all.
- 4 vicar Jo married a and had lots of work to do helping in his parish.
- 5 not criminal Divorce cases are heard in courts.
- 6 round piece in a game Each player takes it in turn to move his or her around the board.

46.7 Answer these questions about politics in your own country.

- 1 What processes lead to legislation in your country?
- 2 What is the role of debate in government in your country?
- 3 How powerful are (a) big-business and (b) non-commercial lobbies in your country?

A Changes in attitudes to war

One area in which great changes occurred in the twentieth century is in the public attitude to war and peace. The vocabulary in which war is spoken about has ceased to be one of courage, patriotism¹ and pride, and has instead become one of failure or of unimaginable disaster. The 'War Office' has in general become the 'Ministry of Defence'; the greatest destructive weapons ever invented have become 'deterrents'². Most people went out of the century with a view of the military 'virtues', of the place of war in a civilised society, fundamentally different from that of the nineteenth century and earlier.

The inventor of dynamite at the end of the nineteenth century believed that his invention would outlaw³ war, since the devastation it could produce would make any major outbreak destructive beyond imagination. After 1918⁴ the same view was held about aerial warfare⁵. My childhood was dominated by the conviction that a major war would end up wiping out the cities of the industrial world. Since 1945⁶, the possibility of nuclear annihilation⁷ has seemed to make war between the great powers⁸ an act of collective suicide. These factors alone have contributed to a revulsion against⁹ large-scale military operations among thinking people in all nations – though the world is unquestionably still full of national, ethnic and political causes¹⁰ whose supporters see a resort to bullets and bombs as the only means of gaining their ends¹¹.

A International aid, debt and development

In a public question-and-answer session on the Internet in 1999, Clare Short, the Minister responsible for Britain's international development policies and activities, gave this answer to a question from someone in Harare, Zimbabwe.

Question: Are the UK and Europe tired of trying to encourage real and lasting development projects in Africa?

Answer: It may surprise you to learn that there are many encouraging signs in Africa. Over the last three years, 31 African countries achieved economic growth of more than 3% per year. Foreign direct investment, although still too small, has been rising. Africa's share in world trade has shown signs of recovering from its long decline. Some countries, such as Mozambique, Côte d'Ivoire, Uganda and Mauritius, have done much better than this.

But some 250 million people in Africa still live in deep poverty and we must do better. With other development agencies we are committed to supporting those African governments which are following policies to reduce poverty and improve access to better health, education and clean water.

* abject poverty is also a typical collocation

Useful collocations for debt:

Development grants are often given to poor regions. [money to help economic development]

Sustainable development is the most important goal for most countries. [development that does not destroy the economy/the environment, etc.]

B Trade and cooperation

Free trade agreements often cause disputes between countries, especially when one country thinks the other is engaged in restrictive practices¹. Occasionally, trade wars erupt, and sanctions² or embargoes³ are imposed on countries, and may not be lifted for long periods. On the other hand European countries closely related economically and enjoying good relations have entered into monetary union and have a single currency.

¹ the placing of unfair restrictions, e.g. limiting imports

² restrictions on what a country may import/export

³ total prohibitions on importing/exporting certain goods

C Economic difficulties and negative practices

If an economy is badly affected by war, we may refer to it as a war-torn economy. Economies in a bad state are often referred to as ailing economies.

Devaluation/revaluation of the currency may be necessary. [reduction/increase in value against other currencies]

Economies may go into recession and not come out of / emerge from recession for several years. A country may suffer from a slump in prices for its goods [serious fall/collapse in prices]. Fiscal measures [measures concerning taxes, etc.] may be used to boost the economy [give the economy a lift] when it is in recession.

Exercises

49.1 Try to recall from memory the collocations highlighted in A. Fill the gaps in these sentences.

- 1 Development is important, but it should be development, not the kind that destroys the environment and social structure.
- 2 The government is a policy of giving aid only where it is used to poverty.
- 3 There have been some signs that development aid is working in many countries.
- 4 Millions of people still live in poverty. (Give two answers.)
- 5 The economy has from its decline and is now doing well.
- 6 The struggle to economic growth in developing countries is a constant one.
- 7 It is important to encourage development projects, not just short-term ones.
- 8 The goal should be to improve to better health and education for the poor.

49.2 Rewrite these sentences about international debt using more appropriate language from the opposite page to replace the underlined words.

- 1 Over a period of five years, the country got huge debts which it could not pay back.
- 2 Countries in debt are completely at the mercy of the rich nations.
- 3 The weight of debt is so great in some countries that their economies are collapsing.
- 4 Richer countries could do a lot to make the debt of poor countries less heavy (give two answers), and indeed, in some cases, could forget the debt altogether.

49.3 Vocabulary quiz

- 1 What kind of war can break out between countries concerning imports and exports?
- 2 Which two verbs are used with sanctions and embargoes to mean (a) 'placing' and (b) 'removing'?
- 3 What is the name for activities which make free trade difficult or impossible between countries?
- 4 What kind of union is it when two or more countries decide to share a single currency?
- 5 What do we call sums of money given to poor regions to assist development?
- 6 What can we call an economy that is devastated by war?
- 7 What adjective beginning with the letter 'a' can be used to describe an economy in a bad state?

She must have changed her e-mail address – the e-mail I sent her bounced. [came back to me]

That file you sent me as an attachment was unreadable. The text was completely garbled. [just a series of meaningless letters and numbers]

Exercises

52.1 Match the words and phrases on the left with the explanations on the right.

- | | |
|--------------|---|
| 1 attachment | Internet site where people with common interests can e-mail each other online |
| 2 cookie | unwanted web pages (e.g. advertisements) sent to you via the Internet |
| 3 spam | company that gives you access to the Internet and offers news pages, shopping, etc. |
| 4 chat room | program sent to your computer from the Internet, used to follow your activities |
| 5 ISP | file sent at the same time as an e-mail message |

52.2 Some of these pairs of opposites exist in the language of Internet/computer communications, others do not. Tick the box for 'exists' or 'doesn't exist'.

	word	opposite	exists	doesn't exist
1	delete	undelete
2	download	upload
3	update	downdate
4	inbox	outbox
5	online	offline
6	install	uninstall

52.3 Use the correct words from the table above to fill the gaps in these sentences. You are given a paraphrase of the meaning in brackets.

- I sent a photo of my house by e-mail to my friend in Canada, but it took ages to (transfer from here to there) and I spent 20 minutes (connected to the Internet).
- I've had your message in my (a place where unread e-mails are stored) for two days but haven't had time to read it yet.
- I had a lot of trouble trying to (add to the programs already on my computer) that new software I bought.
- How do I (restore something accidentally rubbed out) on this computer?
- I write my e-mails (while disconnected from the Internet) and then connect to send them.

52.4 Look at these expressions taken from magazine articles and advertisements for computers and Internet services. In your own words, say what the words in bold mean.

- A new law has given e-signatures the same legal status as handwritten ones.
- E-learning will become more and more common as an alternative to traditional learning.
- We have e-enabled everything you need to study on the Internet.
- E-books are beginning to seriously compete with traditional books.
- The dotcom economy has attracted hundreds of new businesses hoping to make a fortune.

53.3 Look at G opposite. What are these examples of?

53.4 Look at this text of an advert. What comments can you make on its language?

Radiance renewed

VITATONIC deep skin refresher

VITATONIC is a remarkable new cream which will nourish your skin so effectively that it becomes as soft and smooth as a child's. A special blend of natural herbs and life-giving oils, it will dramatically revitalise the texture of your skin, restoring the freshness and glow of youth. Massage in with your fingertips morning and evening and you will soon be enjoying compliments on your complexion.

53.5 Write an advert for one of these products – a lipstick, a car or a school. Try to make use of all the features in A to F. Use some of the new vocabulary from this unit.

A Gathering the news

JOURNALISTS gather news in a number of different ways. They may get stories from pressure groups¹ which want to air their views² in public. They seek publicity³ for their opinions and may hold press conferences⁴ or may issue a statement / press release⁵. A person who especially wishes to attract news attention will try to include a sound bite⁶ in what they say. It is particularly hard for journalists to get material in the silly season⁷.

Journalists also get stories by tapping useful sources⁸ and by monitoring⁹ international news agencies like Reuters. The more important a story is, the more column inches¹⁰ it will be given in the newspaper. Journalists of different political persuasions often put their own gloss/spin on a story¹¹ and some journalists gather stories by muck-raking¹².

¹ people trying to influence what other people think about a particular issue

² express their opinions

³ want to reach a wider audience

⁴ meetings to give information to and answer questions from the press

⁵ give a formal announcement to the press

⁶ short memorable sentence or phrase that will be repeated in news bulletins and articles

⁷ time of year, summer in the UK, when there is not much happening and trivial stories end up on the front page

⁸ making use of people or organisations which regularly provide news

⁹ regularly checking

¹⁰ space

¹¹ present a story in a particular way

¹² collecting scandal (informal and disapproving)

B Delivering the news

A rag is an informal word for a newspaper and it suggests that it is not of very high quality. The gutter press is a disapproving term used about the kind of newspapers and magazines that are more interested in crime and sex than serious news. A glossy is an expensive magazine printed on good quality paper.

Journalists produce copy, which has to be ready for a deadline. When everything is ready the newspaper goes to press. A very important story that comes in after going to press may find its way into a stop press column. A very new newspaper or story can be said to be hot off the press.

A story that is only to be found in one newspaper is an exclusive. A scoop is a story discovered and published by one newspaper before all the others. A major story can be said to hit the headlines on the day it is published. At that time the story breaks or becomes public knowledge. If it is an important story it will receive a lot of coverage or space in the press. A newspaper may be taken to court for libel or defamation of character if it publishes an untrue story that harms a person's reputation. If you are doing research into a news event, you may want to get hold of some previous issues of newspapers, or back copies, and you may wish to make a folder of cuttings from the papers about the event. ■

Exercises

54.1 Match the two parts of the collocations used in the text in A opposite.

54.2 Fill the gaps with words from B.

I started my career as a journalist working as a reporter on the local (1) in my home town. The first thing I had to do was to take over the role of agony aunt. This was quite difficult for an eighteen-year-old boy straight out of school! Still, I managed to produce enough (2) and in time for my first (3). When that first column of mine (4) to press, I felt extremely relieved and was so proud that I stayed up all night so that I could get half a dozen copies (5) off the press for all the members of my family! I still have a copy of that first article of mine in a folder where I keep (6) of all the work that I am especially proud of.

54.3 Answer these questions about the language in the text in B.

- 1 Would you write to a chief editor asking for a job on 'his rag'? Why / Why not?
- 2 What do you think about newspapers if you refer to them as the gutter press?
- 3 What is it very important for journalists not to miss?
- 4 Can you give an example of a famous fashion glossy?
- 5 What two words might describe the kind of story that a journalist dreams of getting?
- 6 What two expressions refer to the moment of publication of a big story?
- 7 Which two crimes are mentioned in the text and what do they consist of?
- 8 What might a film star keep in her scrapbook of press cuttings?

54.4 Rewrite these sentences so that they mean the same thing, using the word in brackets.

- 1 Every newspaper inevitably gives its own particular view of events. (SPIN)
- 2 I have to find some articles from some previous editions of The Times. (BACK)
- 3 Read all about the royal divorce! Only just published. (HOT)
- 4 The floods took up more space in the papers than any other story this week. (COLUMN)
- 5 Politicians are always ready and willing to give their opinions to the press. (AIR)
- 6 The story about the scandal surrounding her uncle broke on her wedding day. (HIT)
- 7 Any newspaper does all it can to prevent being sued for libel. (CHARACTER)
- 8 Muck-raking is a characteristic activity of an inferior kind of newspaper. (PRESS)

A Phrasal verbs and verb-preposition collocations for health and illness

I'm fighting off a cold at the moment. [trying to get rid of]

Marge isn't in today; she's gone down with flu. [has caught, usually a non-serious illness]

I won't be going today. I've come down with a dreadful cold. [with I we say come down not go down]

I had a virus last week, but I got over it quite quickly. [got better/recovered]

My sister's recovering from a major operation. [getting better: used for more serious illnesses]

Harry suffers from hay fever and sneezes a lot if he is near grass or flowers. [used for more long-term problems]

He died of/from lung cancer. [Not: He ~~died with~~ lung cancer.]

B Health systems

In Britain, healthcare¹ is paid for through taxes and national insurance² payments taken directly from wages and salaries. The government decides how much will be spent on the National Health Service³, but a lot of people feel they do not spend enough. Hospital treatment and visits to a family doctor (or GP)⁴ at a surgery⁵ or clinic⁶ are free, but there is a prescription charge⁷. Dentists and opticians charge fees. Private healthcare is available and a large number of insurance schemes exist to enable people to 'go private'⁸.

- ¹ general expression for all of the services offered by hospitals, clinics, dentists, opticians, etc.
- ² tax paid by most adults which covers the costs of healthcare for everyone
- ³ British name for the service that covers hospitals, clinics, dentists, etc.
- ⁴ doctor who looks after people's general health: GP means general practitioner
- ⁵ small centre with just two or three doctors
- ⁶ large centre with several doctors and kinds of services
- ⁷ charge for the medication the doctor prescribes, which you pay at a pharmacy
- ⁸ choose private healthcare

C Serious illnesses and health problems

Here are some serious illnesses, with the word-stress underlined. Make sure you know the stress-pattern when learning longer words or phrases. It is a good idea to make a note of it.

diabetes: disease where the body does not properly absorb sugar and starch bronchitis: inflammation in the breathing system, causing you to cough heart disease: serious illness connected with the heart which can lead to a heart attack skin cancer / lung cancer / breast cancer: harmful tumours in those areas

TB (or tuberculosis): infectious disease in the lungs cholera: an intestinal disease that can be caused by bad drinking water hepatitis: inflammation of the liver typhoid: fever, with red spots on the chest and abdomen heart attack/failure: when the heart fails

Exercises

55.1 Which is the odd one out in each group, in terms of the main word stress? Use a dictionary if you are not sure about words which are not on the opposite page.

EXAMPLE tablets medicine prescription (answer: prescription; stress on second syllable)

- 1 diabetes bronchitis cholera
- 2 heart attack sore throat lung cancer
- 3 hepatitis typhoid tuberculosis
- 4 illness disease sickness
- 5 consultant doctor surgeon
- 6 hospital ambulance transfusion
- 7 heart disease surgery TB

55.2 Sort these everyday phrasal verbs and expressions connected with health and illness into two groups, depending on whether they have positive or negative meanings with regard to health. Use a dictionary if necessary.

be poorly	feel a bit under the weather	be over the worst	fight off
be on the mend	be back on one's feet again	get over	come down with

Now fill the gaps using the expressions above.

EXAMPLE [Nurse to visitor in a hospital] 'I'm sorry, Mr Pickering is rather poorly today and we're not allowing visitors.'

- 1 [Someone speaking to a colleague just returned to work after an illness] 'Hello, Frank, good to see you
- 2 [Person ringing their place of work] 'Jo, I won't be in today, I've a cold.'
- 3 [Person in hospital, just beginning to get better, talking to a visitor] 'Oh, I'm OK. I'm now. I still feel bad, but I should be out within a week or so.'
- 4 [Parent to a child with a cold] 'Don't worry, darling. Everyone has a cold now and then. You'll it.'
- 5 [Someone to their partner, who is worried about them] 'Don't worry. It's nothing serious. I'm just feeling, that's all.'
- 6 [Someone ringing a workmate] 'I'm trying to the flu, but nothing seems to help. I don't think I'll be in work tomorrow.'
- 7 Hilary was quite ill last week, but she's now and should be back at work next week.

55.3 Which of these collocations are normal, and which are not normal? Correct the inappropriate ones.

- 1 Her mother died with skin cancer.
- 2 Is there a prescription price in your country?
- 3 In Britain, national security is a separate tax from income tax.
- 4 Healthcare is the biggest item in the nation's budget.
- 5 Are there insurance societies for private healthcare in your country?
- 6 Private dentists charge very high fees.
- 7 She suffers of a severe allergy and can't be in a smoky room.

A Minor ailments and ways of talking about minor problems

Note that hurt is different from ache:

My arm hurts where I banged it against the car door. [gives pain caused by an injury]
My wrists ache from too much typing at the computer.

The fixed expression (the usual) aches and pains is often used to refer in a non-serious way to minor problems.

A: How've you been keeping recently, Mona?

B: Oh fine, you know, just the usual aches and pains. (~~Just the usual pains and aches~~)

The fixed expression cuts and bruises can refer to minor injuries.

A: I hear you fell off your bicycle. Are you all right?

B: Yeah, fine, just a few cuts and bruises, nothing serious. (~~Just a few bruises and cuts~~)

Some other kinds of physical discomfort:

My hand is stinging since I touched that plant. [sudden, burning pain]

My head is throbbing. [beating with pain]

I have a stiff neck from turning round to look at the computer screen all day. I'll have to move the monitor to a better position. [pain and difficulty in moving your neck round]

I feel a bit dizzy. I think I should sit down. [a feeling that you are spinning round and can't balance]

She was a bit feverish this morning, so I told her to stay in bed. [with a high temperature]

I had a terrible nauseous feeling after taking the medicine, but it passed. [/'nɔ:siəs/ feeling that you want to vomit]

He was trembling all over; I knew it must be something serious. [shaking]

My nose is all bunged up today with this horrible cold. [blocked]

Other informal expressions that mean 'not well, but not seriously ill':

You look a bit off-colour today. Are you all right?

I was feeling a bit under the weather, so I stayed home that day.

I'm just feeling a bit out of sorts, it's nothing to worry about. I'll be fine tomorrow.

B Alternative medicine

Nowadays a lot of people prefer alternative medicine (different from typical western systems). For example:

acupuncture /'ækjʊpʌŋktʃə/chiropractic /kai'rəʊ'præktɪk/

herbal medicine

homeopathy /həʊmi'ɒpəθi/: taking tiny amounts of natural substances to treat an illness aromatherapy /ərəʊmə'therəpi/: using aromatic oils and massage

Exercises

56.1 Correct the mistakes in these sentences.

- 1 She was feeling out of the weather and a bit fevering so she took the day off.
- 2 I felt really off my colour yesterday and my head was throwing, so I took a tablet.
- 3 I felt a bit off the sorts and seemed to have more pains and aches than usual.
- 4 My arms are hurting after carrying that heavy suitcase of yours.

56.2 Rewrite the underlined parts of these sentences using words and phrases from A.

- 1 I was feeling quite as if I had a high temperature.
- 2 The drugs always gave her a feeling that she wanted to vomit.
- 3 I felt as if my head was spinning and went and lay down for an hour.
- 4 My nose was blocked so I got a spray from the chemist.
- 5 I got a pain in my neck from driving a long time in an awkward position.
- 6 Joanna was shaking and looked unwell, so I asked her if she needed help.

56.3 Complete these sentences with words from the box. Use a dictionary if necessary.

- 7 The doctor gave me a for my employer. I was off work for two weeks.

56.4 What do we call the type of alternative medicine which ...

- 1 uses herbs and other natural plants?
- 2 uses oils which smell nice and are rubbed into your body?
- 3 uses needles to stick into specific parts of your body?
- 4 uses tiny amounts of substances which cause the illness the doctor is trying to cure?
- 5 manipulates your spine and bones to ease backache and other pains?

56.5 Here are four pictures of things to do with health and medicine which are not on the opposite page. Can you match them with the labels?

- a) donate blood c) get contact lenses
b) have physiotherapy d) have a filling

A Medical information leaflets

Read these extracts from a leaflet contained in a packet of headache pills.

If your answer to any of the following questions is YES, then you should tell a doctor or pharmacist before taking these pills.

- Are you pregnant or breastfeeding?
- Are you sensitive to any of the ingredients in these pills?
- Do you suffer from liver, kidney or heart problems?
- Do you suffer from haemophilia [problems with your blood not clotting¹ properly]?
- Are you taking any other medicines – particularly for blood pressure, anticoagulants for thinning the blood, antidepressants, cortico-steroids, anti-epileptic drugs?

- Are you asthmatic?
- Are you suffering from dehydration²?
- Do you suffer from or have you suffered from a stomach ulcer³?

WARNING:

DO NOT EXCEED THE STATED DOSE

Medicines may cause unwanted side effects⁴ in some people. If, after taking this medicine for the first time, you have an asthma attack or bronchospasm (difficulty in breathing), gastro-intestinal haemorrhage (vomiting of blood or passing of dark, tarry stools⁵), stop taking these pills and consult a doctor or pharmacist.

² not having enough water in your body

³ painful infected area on the skin or inside your body

⁴ unwanted effects in addition to the intended one

⁵ medical term for (formal) excrement or (informal, childish) pooh

B Medical metaphors

Problems and bad situations in society or other aspects of people's lives are often talked about as if they were illnesses.

The word symptom is often used when talking about problems in society.

The current spate of car thefts is a symptom of a deeper underlying problem.

This behaviour is symptomatic of his general lack of self-confidence.

The causes of a problem can be diagnosed and the outlook for a situation can also be referred to as the prognosis in the same way as we talk about the prognosis of an illness [how experts expect it to develop].

Here are some other examples of medical metaphors:

an ailing organisation [one that has a lot of problems] The economy has been ailing for some time, but it is hoped that the new government will improve things.

a rash of burglaries [a number of similar things happening at the same time]

World Cup fever election fever [great excitement] at fever pitch to reach fever pitch [a point of very high intensity]

With a week to go before Anne's wedding, preparations had reached fever pitch.

Experts in the history of the area take a rather jaundiced view of the likely success of the peace talks. [unenthusiastic or sceptical because of previous bad experiences] to carry the scars of / be scarred by [be permanently affected by a negative experience]

I'm afraid that children will always be scarred by having experienced war at so young an age.

Exercises

57.1 Complete the word formation table. Use a dictionary if necessary.

verb	noun	adjective pregnant breastfeed sensitive clot drug dehydration ulcer effect

57.2 Replace the underlined expressions with one of the metaphors from B. Make any other necessary changes.

- Excitement grew extremely strong as the day of the final match dawned.
- Unfortunately, a number of our investments are weak at the moment.
- There has been a sudden large number of car thefts in our part of town.
- Unfortunately, she is still affected in a negative way by her divorce.
- Ralph's jealousy is a characteristic feature of a person with general low self-esteem.
- What do you think the prospects are for the peace talks?

57.3 The medical words in the box below can also be used in a metaphorical way. Fill the gaps in the following text using these words. Use a dictionary if necessary.

paralysed disease	ailing prognosis	fatal fever	rash contagious
----------------------	---------------------	----------------	--------------------

The country has been (1) by the latest rail strike, with no rail services at all running today. The railway service has been (2) for some time, but if today's action is prolonged it may prove (3) to the rail industry. The Minister for Transport commented, 'The country has been suffering from a (4) of local strikes since the first one in Nortown last month. It was (5) and one strike led to another. Things reached (6) pitch last week and we can only hope that this (7) will come to an end soon.' The minister's (8) is that things will only start to improve once people appreciate the seriousness of the situation.

A Cholesterol and health

Cholesterol¹ only becomes a problem when you have too much of it and it starts to promote the production of a fatty plaque² that can clog the arteries. Interruption of blood flow to a main heart vessel can cause a heart attack; a blocked blood vessel on the way to the brain could cause a stroke.

Some say that cholesterol-rich foods such as eggs, shellfish and offal³ should be banished from the diet, but these foods don't significantly raise cholesterol levels. The cholesterol in them is broken down quite efficiently and then excreted⁴, so they are fine to eat in moderation.

Fibre⁵ produces substances that help to clear the blood of bad cholesterol and acts as a 'buffer'⁶, so less fat is brought into contact with blood vessels and less is absorbed. Fibre also keeps bad cholesterol within the gut⁷ from where it can be excreted.

- ¹ fatty substance found in the body tissue and blood of all animals
- ² unwanted substance that forms on the surface of the arteries
- ³ organs from inside animals which are eaten as food (brains, heart, kidneys, liver)

- ⁴ got rid of from the body
- ⁵ substance in food that travels through the body as waste, helping digestion
- ⁶ something (or someone) that helps protect from harm
- ⁷ tubes that carry food from the stomach

B Running and calories

Running, or swift walking, uses the major muscle groups, making it the most efficient form of cardiovascular¹ exercise. It has been shown to have a positive effect on blood fats by reducing cholesterol levels. It also lowers blood pressure and helps diabetics² by improving glucose³ tolerance and reducing insulin⁴ resistance.

Running is a very efficient way to burn calories. Converting your weight into pounds⁵ and then multiplying the result by 75 per cent will give you the amount you burn per mile. The average is about 500 calories for every three miles. If you did this three times a week, you'd lose $\frac{1}{2}$ lb a week, 2 lb a month or 24 lb a year.

This all-round form of exercise is used in the treatment of mental illness and depression, because it is thought to raise levels of the mood enhancer⁶, serotonin.

- ¹ affecting the heart and blood circulation
- ^{2,3,4} people suffering from diabetes, an illness in which the body cannot cope with glucose [sugar] because it does not produce enough insulin [hormone that controls the level of sugar in the body]
- ⁵ measure of weight, 1 pound (lb) = 454 grams
- ⁶ hormone that makes you feel happier

C Sport and fitness metaphors

- I scored an own goal when I told my boss it had only taken me a day to write the report. Now she wants me to write several a week. [made things worse rather than better]
- My boss always seems to be moving the goalposts, which makes it very difficult to know what he wants. [changing the rules]
- The new EU laws aim to provide a level playing field for all member states. [fair situation]
- He's too young to be in the running for such a job. [seriously considered]
- The two main parties in the election are still neck and neck in the opinion polls. [level with each other and equally likely to win]
- Politicians often skate around a subject. [don't talk directly about]
- The students all sailed through their exams. [passed very easily]

Exercises

58.1 Answer these questions about text A.

- 1 What two health problems may be caused by too much cholesterol?
- 2 Plaque can also form on teeth. Do you try to encourage or prevent this?
- 3 What do eggs, shellfish and offal have in common?
- 4 What sorts of food contain fibre?
- 5 Why is fibre useful?

58.2 Answer these questions about text B.

- 1 For what three conditions might doctors recommend running as a form of exercise?
- 2 How far on average does someone have to run to use up 500 calories?
- 3 In what way does this vary from person to person?
- 4 What mental health problem is also improved by running?
- 5 Why does running help with this problem?

58.3 Suggest opposites for the underlined words using vocabulary from A and B.

- | | |
|------------------------------------|----------------------------|
| 1 can unblock the arteries | 4 a mood depressant |
| 2 glucose intolerance | 5 gentle walking |
| 3 to lower serotonin levels | 6 gain 2 lbs a week |

58.4 What sports do each of the metaphors in C come from?

58.5 Rewrite these sentences using metaphors from C.

- 1 Sarah passed her exams without any difficulty at all.
- 2 I wish he'd get directly to the point.
- 3 I've been told that they are seriously considering me for the job of supervisor.

58.7 Write five pieces of advice relating to diet and fitness. In each sentence use at least one vocabulary item worked on in this unit.

FOLLOW UP

Find a magazine article on the theme of diet and fitness. Read it and write a summary of it.

A Processes and practices

expression	explanation	opposite expression	explanation
heavy industry	e.g. steel works, shipbuilding	light industry	e.g. manufacturing car parts, TV sets manufacturing industry	making things; e.g. consumer goods	service industry	serving people; e.g. tourism, banking
high-technology (informal: high-tech)	involving computers; e.g. software industry	low-technology (informal: low-tech)	involving little or no computer technology
privatisation	e.g. selling off state railways to private companies	nationalisation or state ownership	when industry is owned by the government

Many big industries are run as public-private partnerships. [partly state-owned, partly owned by private industries or businesses]

The car industry receives huge subsidies from the government. [money/grants which enable it to stay in profit]

Foreign companies are often given sweeteners by the government to persuade them to open factories in poor or underdeveloped areas. [money/grants or tax benefits to encourage them to open a factory or business]

The government tries to encourage inward investment. [investment from foreign companies]

B Industrial practices

example	explanation
Most of the factory workers are on piecework which puts them under great stress.	they are only paid for the amount they produce
Child labour is a serious problem in some developing countries.	the employment of children to do adult jobs
In many countries, the right to trade union representation has only come after long struggles.	the right to have a union that negotiates wages and conditions
Many cheap electrical goods are produced in sweatshops in poorer countries.	factories where people work very long hours for low wages
The company became a lame duck and collapsed after five years.	weak business that loses money
The big multinationals ¹ often close factories as a cost-cutting exercise ² and relocate ³ and switch production ⁴ to countries where labour and costs are cheaper.	1 big companies with operations in many different countries 2 effort to reduce their costs 3 move the company's offices to a different place 4 move the centre of manufacturing to a different place, often where labour is cheaper
Industries cannot grow successfully if there is too much red tape .	bureaucracy, i.e. government rules and regulations
Retraining and reskilling are necessary when an economy is modernised.	training people for new jobs and teaching them new skills for things they have not done before

Exercises

59.1 Use the expressions from the table in A to rewrite these sentences with more appropriate vocabulary instead of the underlined words.

- 1 The economy cannot depend only on things like restaurants and hotels. We need to encourage industries that make things we can sell.
- 2 In this area there are a lot of industries that use computers and things, while in the north, they depend more on industries that don't use such up-to-date technology.
- 3 The idea that everything should be owned by the government is not very popular any longer, and selling industries off is the typical pattern all over the world now.
- 4 Industry with big factories producing things like steel and so on has declined, and now we're more dependent on industry that makes things like bicycles and furniture.

59.2 Give words or expressions which mean:

- 1 a payment or tax benefit to a company to persuade it to open a factory somewhere
- 2 a combination of state ownership and private ownership
- 3 payments or grants from the government which enable loss-making industries to continue
- 4 investment in a country by foreign companies
- 5 a weak industry that is losing money and cannot be rescued
- 6 bureaucracy and rules and regulations that restrict industry
- 7 an economy that depends on factories producing large quantities of cheap goods based on long hours and low wages
- 8 to change the location where goods are produced (two expressions)

59.3 Here are some more expressions relating to problems in industry. Make sure you know what they mean, then use them to fill the gaps in the sentences below. Use a dictionary if necessary.

black market
money laundering

copyright infringement

industrial piracy

industrial espionage

- 1 is a serious problem in many parts of the world, with factories producing illegal copies of top brand names.
- 2 It was a serious case of The designs for the new aircraft were photographed illegally and sold to a rival company.

- 3 a scientist producing a new type of wheat which does not need to be sprayed against insects
- 4 a camera that does not use film
- 5 a computer that could make decisions for itself

FOLLOW UP

The language and terminology connected with computers changes very quickly. If you want to keep up with it, read computer advertisements in newspapers and magazines, or else visit the websites of well-known hardware and software manufacturers, and note any new vocabulary and how it is used.

A Technology

Some things we might see more of in the future:

smart buildings	computer-controlled buildings where things like lighting, heating, security, etc. are completely automatic; the adjective smart can be used for anything that is fully automatic, making its own decisions (e.g. a watch, a credit card, a camera, dishwasher, cooker)
virtual reality	computer-generated experiences that feel like the real thing; the adjective virtual can be used for any experience you can have without leaving your computer (e.g. a virtual university/supermarket)
interactive TV	TV set where you can choose exactly what to watch and when, and which can also be used as a computer for the Internet, etc.; the adjective interactive can be used for anything where the communication between you and the machine is two-way (e.g. interactive video : you do not just watch it, you can also send your own pictures)
interplanetary travel	travel to planets in outer space
e-commerce	doing business via the Internet

B The environment and nature

A doomsday scenario for the environment sees a world choked with pollution where many plants and animals have become extinct. [the worst possible prediction]

Traffic in cities may become gridlocked. [unable to move at all]

Genetic modification may be used to change fruit and vegetables so that they grow better. [changing genes] However, many people object to the idea of genetically modified (or GM) food. [food created by changing the genes of the ingredients]

Genetic engineering [making artificial changes to the genetic structure of organisms] and gene therapy [changing genes in order to prevent disease or disability] will be used to eradicate diseases, thanks to our knowledge of the human genome [the 'map' or index of all the genes in a human being].

Designer babies may be possible. [babies whose genetic characteristics are artificially created]

Cloning of animals, and even human beings, may become common. [making a genetically identical copy]

C Society and people

The breakdown of the traditional family structure has already occurred in some countries. In future, the nuclear family¹ may no longer be the main type of family unit, and more loosely defined relationships will develop. Communications and trade will be globalised². Globalisation will also affect our relationships, how we mix and work with other people, and the world will become a global village³. We may even make contact with extraterrestrial beings⁴. The gulf⁵ between rich and poor nations will widen if we do not do something about it.

¹ family with father, mother and one or two children

² cover the whole world

³ a single community covering the whole world

⁴ creatures from other planets

⁵ gap/difference

Exercises

61.1 Match the words in the left-hand column with those in the right to make common collocations.

- | | |
|--------------|--------------|
| 1 gridlocked | reality |
| 2 genetic | village |
| 3 human | traffic |
| 4 virtual | genome |
| 5 global | modification |

61.2 What do we call ...

- 1 food which has been grown by interfering with plant genes?
- 2 an identity card that holds every possible kind of personal information about you?
- 3 the experience of near-reality you can get with certain computer programs?
- 4 an exact genetic copy of something?
- 5 creatures from other planets?
- 6 the process of altering human and animal genes?
- 7 the process of treating defective genes to get rid of diseases?
- 8 a baby whose genetic features have been chosen by its parents?

61.3 Rewrite the underlined words in these sentences using expressions from the opposite page.

- 1 The worst possible prediction for human society is that we will destroy ourselves with nuclear weapons.
- 2 Travelling to other planets may become normal in the coming centuries.
- 3 Doing business via a computer will become more and more normal.
- 4 The team of scientists is doing research into the index of all the genes in a human being.

61.4 Which words or phrases from the opposite page are associated with these sentences?

- 1 These tomatoes will stay fresh for several months.
- 2 A typical family is often said to consist of husband, wife and 2.4 children.
- 3 This sheep is identical in absolutely every respect to the sheep standing next to it.
- 4 Doctors will be able to cure most diseases within the next one hundred years.
- 5 The world is becoming a very small place in terms of economics and communication.
- 6 Soon you'll be able to decide what you watch and when you watch it on TV.

61.5 Only one of the following ideas is actually not true. Can you guess which one?

- 1 A Canadian businessman is developing a way of breaking up and melting Arctic icebergs so that he can sell very pure mineral water.
- 2 Russian scientists want to put a vast mirror into orbit that will be half as bright as the moon, to light up dark parts of the earth (e.g. Siberia in the winter).
- 3 Small, low-lying islands in Florida will be raised on huge metal stilts to protect them from rising sea-levels due to global warming.
- 4 Computer scientists are developing fully-functioning computers that can be worn on the wrist like a watch.

61.6 Write a short composition (about 100–150 words) entitled My vision of the future. Consider the future in terms of technology, the environment and society.

A Things occupying a lot of space

word	typical contexts of use
extensive	Edinburgh has extensive traffic-free routes. The building contains extensive educational facilities.
spacious	a spacious garden The city of Washington is spacious and green.
roomy	a roomy car The house was roomy.
rambling	a large, rambling building a rambling family mansion

Other words and phrases connected with occupying a large amount of space:

I like Canada because I love wide open spaces. [large areas without buildings or trees]

Little white cottages were scattered across the landscape. [covered a wide area]

The problem with this university is that the buildings are rather spread out and it takes a long time to get from one place to another. [not close to one another]

B Insufficient space or things occupying too small a space

word	typical contexts of use cramped	cramped hotel rooms living in small, cramped apartments
poky (informal)	two poky little rooms a poky little flat congested	tanker traffic on the congested waterway the congested streets (full of traffic, people, etc.)

Here are some adjectives often used with taking (a) step(s) in a metaphorical context.
 backward big critical decisive first giant major significant unprecedented [never having happened before]

Exercises

64.1 The walking verb in each of these sentences is incorrect. Which verb would be a better choice for each sentence? Look at A to help you.

- 1 The tramp strutted wearily homeward, his shoulders hunched in the rain.
- 2 The mother trudged across the bedroom, doing her best not to wake the baby.
- 3 Those tight shoes with their ridiculously high heels are making her amble.
- 4 Ever since he had an accident last year, he has stamped a bit.
- 5 The drunken men strode unsteadily out of the pub at closing time.
- 6 Please try not to stumble on the daisies – they look so pretty in the grass.
- 7 The little dog tramped after the postman and caught his trouser leg in his teeth.
- 8 The sea was so rough that even the sailors were tiptoeing around the decks.

64.2 Answer these questions about the sentences in B opposite.

- 1 How successful and enjoyable was the maths lesson?
- 2 Did Tony's business come to a sudden end?
- 3 Did people expect Jane to do so well in her exams?
- 4 Did the government seem to take each crisis smoothly and in its stride?
- 5 What kind of person do you think Maria is?
- 6 What do parents and teachers do to children's dreams, if they trample on them?
- 7 How exactly might this person chase the Campbells?

64.3 Look at the water words in each of the example sentences in C. What does the word suggest about the way the people in those sentences are moving?

64.4 Use the water words in C in sentences that illustrate the movement of water or liquid.

64.5 Complete these sentences in any appropriate way.

- 1 Rudi took his first steps towards becoming a doctor today when he
- 2 was a very significant step for humankind.
- 3 Yesterday the British government took the unprecedented step of
- 4 It was a big step for me to
- 5 I think you took a backward step when you
- 6 The business took a critical step today when it

64.6 Here are some more verbs of movement. Complete a table for them like the one used in A opposite. Use a dictionary if necessary.

verb	type of movement	reason for type of movement saunter

sidle glide mill around

64.7 Which of the verbs in exercise 64.6 would these people probably do?

- | | |
|-----------------------------------|---------------------------------------|
| 1 graceful dancers | 4 someone who is irritatingly anxious |
| 2 guests at a cocktail party | to make you like them |
| 3 schoolchildren going into class | 5 tourists exploring in a relaxed way |

A Manners

When I was a child, gentlemen used to raise their hats to female acquaintances on the street and I was taught to mind my Ps and Qs¹ and to give up my seat for my 'elders and betters'² on the bus. Now I am grown-up, no one either raises their hat to me or offers me a seat on a crowded bus. It's as if courtesy³ itself is now a thing of the past! Some might call it prim or starchy⁴ to hanker after an old-fashioned code of etiquette⁵, but things must somehow have been pleasanter when people tried to behave in a gentlemanly or ladylike⁶ way. I don't believe that people observed the social graces⁷ just because they were anxious about doing the done thing⁸; it was more a matter of being considerate to others and oiling the wheels of⁹ social interaction. So, let's stop being offhand¹⁰ with each other and stand on ceremony¹¹ just a little bit more.

¹ make an effort to be polite

² people older than you

³ politeness (adjective = courteous)

⁴ very formal and correct; without humour (other words for this are strait-laced and prissy)

⁵ formal rules of behaviour

⁶ polite in a rather formal way

⁷ polite behaviour

⁸ informal phrase for 'socially acceptable behaviour' (opposite = not the done thing)

⁹ making easier

¹⁰ casual, slightly rude

¹¹ insist on formal behaviour

B Body language

Research shows that we communicate more through body language than we are aware. Here are some examples of how we indicate emotion through body language.

verb	what it indicates	comment
flutter your eyelashes	flirting	used of female behaviour towards a man raise your or others' eyebrows	surprise or shock (either showing or causing)	either a person or behaviour can raise eyebrows
twitch	nervousness	repeated small movements with part of the body
flinch	pain or fear	sudden small movement
squirm	embarrassment or nervousness	move from side to side on your chair in an awkward way
smirk	self-satisfaction	smile (negative associations)

Words and expressions for specific colours pitch black: intensely black, used about darkness, night, etc. (pitch is an older word for tar) jet black: intensely black, used about hair, eyes, etc. (jet is a black semi-precious stone) scarlet: brilliant red, the colour of traditional British letter boxes crimson: strong deep red shocking pink: an extremely bright pink ginger: orangy red, used about hair and cats

navy: dark blue, used about clothes, not eyes turquoise: greenish blue, used about fabrics, paint, sea, etc. but not usually eyes beige: a light creamy brown mousy: a light not very interesting brown, used only about hair chestnut: a deep reddish brown, used about hair and horses auburn: a red-brown colour, usually used about hair

B

Words for talking about colour

Red, blue and yellow are primary colours, by mixing them together you can make other colours. Pastel colours are pale shades of colour – pink, mauve [pale purple] and pale yellow, for example. Strong colours are the opposite of pastels. Vivid colours are strong, bright colours like scarlet or turquoise. Fluorescent colours are very bright colours which seem to glow in the dark. Electric blues or greens are extremely bright blues or greens. If white has a tinge of green, there is a very slight shade of green in it. If something is monochrome, it uses only one (or shades of one) colour, e.g. black, white and grey. The suffixes -y and -ish show that a colour is partly present, e.g. bluey green, reddish brown.

Colour metaphors

blue = depression (to feel blue); pornographic or indecently referring to sex (blue movie, blue joke); physical or unskilled (blue-collar workers)

red = anger (to see red = to be very angry); danger (red alert, a red flag); special importance (The royal visitor was given red carpet treatment. The day we met will always be a red-letter day for me.); left-wing in politics (red point of view)

green = nausea (to look green; People who are seasick often turn/go green and sometimes vomit.); envy (She turned green with envy when she saw her friend's diamond engagement ring.); care for the environment (green tourism; the Green Party) black = depressing or without hope (a black future); anger (to look as black as thunder); illegality or incorrectness (black market, black sheep of the family, black mark). During the war people bought many goods on the black market. If I don't finish this report in time, that'll be another black mark against my name. My brother was the black sheep of the family and left home at seventeen.

grey = lack of clarity (a grey area); brains (grey matter, grey cells)

white = purity (white as snow, whiter than white); being pale (She was afraid and went white as a sheet; a white knuckle [terrifying] ride at a theme park); office workers (white-collar workers)

- 8 Which of the words are (a) purplish red (b) creamy white and (c) yellowy orange?

68.5 Choose ten words or expressions that you particularly wish to learn from this unit and write them down in sentences of your own.

A Going fast

These verbs suggest going somewhere very quickly on foot or by a means of transport – race, dash, tear. I dashed/raced/tore to the station just making it in time for the last train.

These verbs also suggest fast movement but are used mainly for going short distances – nip, pop, zip, dart, whizz. I nipped/popped/zipped/darted/whizzed into the post office to buy some stamps and came out only to see my bus disappearing into the distance.

The verb bolt also suggests fast movement over a short distance but it also has the added association of running away from something. The frightened horse bolted across the field.

The verb career suggests that something is moving rapidly and is out of control. The car skidded and careered down a bank. The company seems to be careering into financial ruin.

These verbs – scamper, scurry, scuttle – suggest small rapid steps, often of lots of small animals together. As we went into the dark shed, we saw mice scampering away and spiders scurrying into corners. Cockroaches scuttled into a crack in the floor.

These verbs emphasise the fact that speed is increasing – speed up, accelerate. Accelerate is used only about transport whereas speed up can also refer to movement on foot. Both verbs can be used figuratively. We'd better speed up if we're going to get there on time. The growth of the company has accelerated since it started exporting.

B Going up or down fast

These verbs suggest a downward movement as well as speed – plunge, plummet.

He put on a lifejacket and plunged into the icy water.

Notice that they are mainly used metaphorically. When export sales began to decline, our hopes of business success plummeted. After the death of his father, he was plunged into despair.

These verbs suggest a fast upward movement – soar, rocket. Notice that they are mainly used metaphorically and have strong associations with financial matters such as prices and share values. When export sales rocketed our hopes of success soared.

The primary association of soar is with birds and when it is used about people's feelings it provides associations of happiness and carefreeness.

My heart soared when I heard that he was coming home.

The opposite of soar and rocket in a financial context would be slump or tumble. Both suggest a rapid downward movement. Shares slumped on the stock market yesterday with telecommunication companies tumbling most dramatically of all.

C Going slowly

These intransitive verbs emphasise that the movement is slow – crawl, creep. They are often used metaphorically.

Prices have been creeping up since May. It was rush hour and the traffic was crawling.

Totter also suggests a fairly slow movement but it is one that is particularly unsteady as well. Mary tottered down the road laden with parcels and bags.

Sidle means to walk anxiously and nervously.

Sam sidled up to the boss's desk and coughed to attract his attention.

Dawdle means to move more slowly than is necessary. Don't dawdle on the way home.

Exercises

69.1 Answer these questions.

- 1 Would you be more likely to dash to the shops if you had plenty of time or if you were in a hurry?
- 2 If a car accelerates, does it speed up or slow down?
- 3 If you stop to look in shop windows, are you scampering or dawdling?
- 4 If traffic is said to be crawling, is it moving freely or is there a traffic jam?
- 5 If you plan to sell some shares, would you prefer their price to rocket or to tumble?
- 6 If a woman is wearing particularly high heels, is she more likely to scurry or to totter?
- 7 If a car slips on ice, is it more likely to be said to career or to dart across the road?
- 8 Who do you think is feeling more confident – a person who races up to greet you or someone who sidles up to greet you?
- 9 If you are thinking of buying your first flat, would you prefer the price of accommodation to be creeping up or to be soaring?
- 10 We sometimes say that people bolt their food. Does this mean that they eat fast or slowly?

69.2 Would you be pleased or not to read the following headlines in your newspaper?

- | | |
|--|---|
| 1 Taxes rocket in new budget | 4 Hopes soar for more Olympic medals |
| 2 Shares plunge in uncertainty over US presidency | 5 Profits plummet |
| 3 Economy totters on the brink | 6 Jobless figures creep up |

69.3 Which do you think is the best verb to fill each of these gaps?

- 1 When the car suddenly swerved to avoid hitting the dog, it out of control and crashed into a tree.
a) popped b) bolted c) careered d) dashed
- 2 When she switched the bathroom light on she was horrified to catch a glimpse of cockroaches away into cracks in the tiles.
a) plummeting b) scuttling c) creeping d) nipping

a) scurry b) totter c) plunge d) pop
- 8 Richard into the house, trying hard not to wake his parents.
a) soared b) crept c) scampered d) accelerated

69.4 Do you notice anything about the form of these words – race, dash, tear, nip, zip, pop, dart, bolt? Can you suggest why this form fits the meaning?

A 'Cause' verbs and their collocations

The differences between these verbs is best learnt by observing their typical collocations.

Cause usually collocates with negative results and situations.

The new computer system has caused us a lot of problems.

His stomach cancer was caused by exposure to atomic radiation.

Produce is more neutral, and deals with more concrete results. It is used in formal contexts. Scientists can produce statistics and figures that can prove almost anything. In low light conditions, a fast film will produce the best photographs.

While cause usually collocates with negative situations, give can be used for positive or negative ones. Give is less formal than cause. Our dog has given us a lot of pleasure over the years.

This car is giving me so much trouble, I'm going to get rid of it.

Generate is often used in contexts where people are forced to do more than usual, and in computer contexts. It sometimes has a rather negative feel. It is used in formal contexts. It's going to be difficult to generate sufficient interest in the project. The government will have to generate the extra funds somehow or other.

General comment: Cause and give are often used for things happening without people doing anything: The hurricane caused terrible damage.

Produce and generate usually suggest some sort of intervention by people: His presentation generated a lot of interest in the project.

B Other 'cause' verbs

The news provoked a feeling of despair in everyone.

The events in the north precipitated / sparked off a political crisis. [quickly/suddenly caused]

The invention of the car has brought about great changes in our lives. [gradually produced]

Your action has resulted in a formal complaint from a member of the public. [produced]

Exercises

70.1 Decide which verb from the opposite page best fits each gap. There may be more than one possible answer.

- 1 The decision by the government to relax the regulations has a lot of investment in the poorer regions.
- 2 We need to a list of names and addresses by six o'clock tonight.
- 3 Her death was by a sign falling from a shop front in the heavy winds.
- 4 The Governor's remarks almost a full-scale war between the two regions.

- 6 Your letters have me so much pleasure. Please don't stop writing them.
- 7 The book a lot of anger amongst female readers.
- 8 I don't necessarily want to a crisis, but I have some bad news to tell you all.

70.2 Use a dictionary to look up these 'cause' verbs which are not on the opposite page. Write a sentence illustrating the meaning of each one.

incite prompt induce breed

70.3 Rewrite these sentences using a more formal connecting expression from the box to replace 'because of'. There may be more than one possible answer.

thanks to as a result of owing to due to as a consequence of

- 1 Because of the crash on the motorway, all traffic is being severely delayed.
- 2 We got there in time, because of your advice.
- 3 My computer crashed, because of which I lost all the data.
- 4 Because of one bad decision after another, he's lost all his money.
- 5 The flight was cancelled because of bad weather.

70.4 Use any of the words and expressions from the opposite page to connect the events in the left-hand column with those in the right-hand column, as in the example.

EXAMPLE Scientists have produced statistics showing a direct link between smoking and cancer.

- | | | |
|--------------------------|---|---|
| 1 scientists | — | stunning images and graphics |
| 2 the higher taxes | — | statistics showing a direct link between smoking and cancer |
| 3 icy roads | | the breakup of his marriage |

Complaining and protesting

Here are some expressions that are useful when complaining.

Note that the formality and strength of a complaint also depend on the speaker's stress and intonation. The expressions listed as 'neutral' here may become more informal if the speaker uses a particularly heavy stress or intonation pattern.

Informal: Look here! I've just about had enough of ...
Honestly! You can't possibly do that!
For goodness sake! I'm fed up with ...
You've got to do something about ...

Neutral: It just won't do!
I wish you would(n't) ...

Something will have to be done about ...
I'm not at all satisfied about ...

Formal: I wish to complain in the strongest terms about ...
I take great exception to ...
I really must object to ...
This is most unsatisfactory.

B

- 3 The long-standing agreement to work together between the government and the unions is in danger of
- 4 The generals the agreement to end fighting while peace terms were worked out at midday on 25th February, 1968.

A Collocations with compliment and praise

The boss would get better results if he paid his staff compliments occasionally. He asked us what we thought of his suit, but he was really only fishing for compliments. Take it as a compliment that he feels relaxed enough to fall asleep at your dinner party! A back-handed compliment is one that seems to say something pleasant about someone but could in fact be taken as an insult, e.g. That dress makes you look quite slim. A double-edged compliment is similar in that it has both a positive and a negative side to it, but does not seem to have the slightly malicious intention on the complimenter's behalf that often seems to be there with a back-handed compliment, e.g. He paid me the double-edged compliment of saying my driving was pretty good for a beginner.

The phrase give praise to is usually reserved for a god. An action or person that deserves praise is praiseworthy and people are praised for their actions. Other common collocations are widely/highly praised praised to the skies to sing someone's/something's praises to shower/heap praise on someone/something To damn someone with faint praise is to praise with such a lack of enthusiasm that you give the impression of actually having rather negative feelings.

B Other expressions relating to praising

expression	meaning	example
pay tribute to	praise (formal)	At the memorial service I paid tribute to his kindness.
give someone a standing ovation	stand up and clap loudly for a long time	At the end of the concert, the audience gave the young pianist a standing ovation .
extol the virtues/benefits of	praise highly (formal)	I'm fed up of listening to her extolling the virtues of her private tennis coach.
be the toast of	be admired for some recent achievement	A few months ago hardly anyone had heard of her but now she's the toast of Hollywood.
pat someone on the back / give someone a pat on the back	praise, often children	My teacher patted me on the back / gave me a pat on the back for my good marks in the maths test.
earn/win plaudits	get positive comments (formal)	The exhibition earned plaudits from all the major reviewers.
laud *	praise highly in official situations (formal)	The Prime Minister has lauded the new peace initiative.

* Related adjectives are laudable (of behaviour) and laudatory (of comments or remarks).

These mostly informal expressions imply praising someone for your own benefit. to flatter to make up to to crawl to suck up to to lick someone's boots Someone who behaves like this can be called smarmy, slimy or a crawler (all informal); or (more formal) servile or obsequious.

Notice how flatter can also be used more positively: That dress flatters her figure. [makes her figure look better than it really is] The noun flattery is often used in the phrase Flattery will get you nowhere! [insincere praise will not achieve anything].

Exercises

78.1 Look at A and then fill the gaps in these sentences with one word.

- 1 A: Do you like my new hairstyle? B: Don't for compliments.

- 6 There's no point saying how good I am. will get you nowhere!
- 7 Whilst we cannot but the skill of their actions we must express a certain disapproval of the risks they took.

A Promises

If you promise someone the earth/moon, you promise them a great deal. It is usually implied that such a promise is unrealistic.

The afternoon promises to be interesting! [the speaker expects it will be interesting]

Promise can also be used to indicate positive future development:

The child already shows great promise as a violinist.

She's a promising artist although her style is still rather immature.

An oath is either a formal promise or an example of taboo language.

In court, witnesses are put on/under oath when they have to swear to tell the truth.

To swear is either to make a formal promise or to use swear words / bad language. [taboo expressions]

Notice how swear is often used in informal spoken English in expressions like these:

I could have sworn I left my purse on the table. [was absolutely certain]

I think she lives on Rose Street but I couldn't swear to it. [am not totally sure]

My mother swears by these vitamin pills. [uses them and thinks they are wonderful]

To pledge (a pledge) means to promise something, often friendship or money:

On the last day of term we all pledged eternal friendship.

To vow (a vow) is to make a determined decision or promise to do something: He vowed to discover who had killed his father. The couple exchanged vows in the marriage ceremony.

Both vow and pledge are found more in written than spoken English.

New Year's resolutions are special promises to turn over a new leaf [to change one's behaviour for the better] at the beginning of a new year. Resolutions and vows, like promises or pledges, can be made, kept or broken.

B Bets

To bet (a bet) is to risk money on the unknown result of something in the hope of winning more money. People spend (and lose) a lot of money betting on horses, for example. The amount of money that you risk is your stake. You can stake a sum of money on something happening. A more formal word for bet is wager: She put a wager of £10 on a horse. Both words can be used in a non-literal sense: I'd wager that he will come to a bad end.

There are a number of colloquial expressions connected with betting.

Your best bet would be to look for a part-time job. [the best decision or choice]

You think Stuart'll win? Don't bet on it! [I think what you've just said is unlikely to happen.]

My granny enjoys having a flutter on the horses. [having a small bet]

I'd put money / my life on Jack getting the job. [I'm sure that Jack will get the job.]

C Famous promises or quotations about promises

I swear by Almighty God that the evidence I shall give in court today shall be the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. (in court of law)

... to have and to hold from this day forward, for better for worse, for richer for poorer, in sickness and in health; to love and to cherish, till death us do part. (part of Church of England wedding vows)

Promises and piecrusts are made to be broken, they say. (Jonathan Swift, Irish writer, 1667-1745)

- 2 What point is Jonathan Swift making, in your opinion, and how is his use of language effective?
- 3 Mark Twain said, 'To promise not to do a thing is the surest way in the world to make a body want to go and do that very thing.' (Mark Twain, American novelist, 1835–1910) Do you agree with him?

Reminiscences and regrets

Here are some clichés which are sometimes used when people reminisce.

In the good old days ...

Schooldays are the best/happiest days of your life.

We used to have to make our own entertainment in those days.

Life wasn't as easy then.

We didn't have it as easy as young people today do.

Things aren't what they used to be.

They don't make bikes/songs/trains, etc., like they used to.

Here are some other examples of the language people use when reminiscing.

A: It's great to see you again. It must be ten years since we were at school together! Do you keep in touch with any of our old teachers?

B: No, I wonder what happened to whatsisname? Er, I think he was called Mr Cain. I realise now how difficult things must have been for them, having to teach the likes of us! And do you ever hear anything of James?

A: No, I wonder whether he and Karen ever got married. And whatever became of Sal?

B: Mmm, and I often wonder what Sarah ended up doing. We did have good times, didn't we? Do you remember how we used to leave notes for each other in that hole in the wall?

A: Of course I do. I'll never forget how I used to look forward to checking what was there. I often wonder what would have happened if anyone else had looked in that hole and found our notes.

B: I must say that what stands out in my mind is the relative freedom we used to have.

A: Me too. When I look back, I appreciate how much things have changed.

B: Yes, though we probably see the past through rose-tinted spectacles rather than how it really was.

C

Sometimes people feel sorry about a situation. Here are some ways of expressing regret.

I wish I'd known you were arriving today.

I wish I hadn't given up learning the piano.

It's disappointing that the exam results are so poor this year.

I'm disappointed in you.

I regret not spending more time with my aunt when she was ill.

He showed no sign of remorse for what he had done.

Some more informal ways of expressing regret:

If only I hadn't spoken to her like that!

If I'd only known then what I know now.

If only we could have our time all over again!

It's a pity/shame we can't stay longer.

I'm sorry I forgot your birthday.

The team's behaviour was a disgrace.

He should never have done that – it's a scandal!

Some formal, rather literary ways of expressing regret:

I rue the day we ever met. [I regret very much that we ever met]

I lament the passing of time. [I feel sad that time passes]

I mourn my lost opportunities. [I feel sad about opportunities I had but did not take up]

- Intolerance is increasing and there have been isolated outbreaks of violence.
- There is increasing pressure on the Minister to think again.
- Several different approaches have emerged which could weaken unity.
- To disagree is everyone's right, but a sense of responsibility is also important.

- 81.3 Rewrite the sentences using a noun instead of the underlined word. Make any other necessary changes.

- The President has conceded that the opposition party should be allowed a place on the committee.
- I think one should always be as discreet as possible when it is a question of people's private lives.
- The landowners settled their dispute with the authorities over the route of the road.
- The negotiating team were able to compromise and put an end to the long strike.

FOLLOW UP

Read or listen to a news broadcast in English on radio, TV or the Internet and see how many words refer to agreeing and disagreeing in political and other contexts.

Units 82 and 83 deal with vocabulary that is often used in academic writing in any subject.

A Presenting arguments and commenting on others' work

If you advocate something, you argue in favour of it: He advocated capital punishment.
 If you deduce something, you reach a conclusion by thinking carefully about the known facts: Look at these sentences and see if you can deduce how the imperfect tense is used.
 If you infer something, you reach a conclusion indirectly: From contemporary accounts of his research, we can infer that results were slower to come than he had anticipated.
 If someone's work complements someone else's, it combines well with it so that each piece of work becomes more effective.

If someone's work overlaps with someone else's work, it partially covers the same material.

You might call someone's work: empirical [based on what is observed rather than theory] ambiguous [open to different interpretations] coherent [logically structured] comprehensive [covering all that is relevant] authoritative [thorough and expert]

B Talking about figures and processes

If figures or decisions are referred to as arbitrary, they are based on chance rather than a plan or any particular reason.

Figures that deviate from the norm are different from what is typical.

If statistics distort the picture, they give a false impression.

If you refer to the incidence of something (e.g. left-handedness), you are talking about how often it occurs in the population.

If something (e.g. the incidence of brown eyes) is predominant, it is the largest in number.

If things (e.g. stages in a process) happen in sequence, they happen in a particular order.

If you want to say that something happens in many places or with many people, you can say that it is widespread: widespread outbreaks of an illness, widespread alarm

84.4 Fill the gaps in these sentences.

- 1 Students may submit their essays in or in handwriting.
- 2 With the computer, I can the document before printing it, so that it looks professional. You can't really do that with an old-fashioned typewriter.
- 3 She works in the museum, conserving ancient
- 4 I need to improve the paragraphing of my essay. I'll try to cut and and move some sections around.

A

In spontaneous speech we make frequent use of rather vague words like thing or get. Here are some examples of how they are used:

- That's one of the things I want to talk to him about. [thing = subject]
 Anne has got a thing about mice. [She either really likes or dislikes them.]
 Don't make such a big thing of it! [Don't make so much fuss about it!]
 There wasn't a thing we could do about it. [a thing = anything]
For one thing, I haven't got time. For another thing, I can't afford it. [Firstly ... Secondly ...]
The thing is, I have to get the essay in by tomorrow morning. [used to introduce a topic or provide an explanation]
As things are at present ... [As the situation is]
 I don't get it. [understand]
 We must get that parcel in the post today. [send]
 She had big plans to travel the world but she just never got it together. [took positive action or organised herself]
 Jill will get things sorted out today. [organise things so that the problem is solved]
 I hope I can get her to myself this evening. [be alone with her]

B

When we can't remember the word for something, we often replace it with a vague word:

- for objects: thingy thingummy thingumajig thingumabob whatsit whatchamacallit whatnot
 for people: whatsisname (for a man) whatsername (for a woman) whosit
 I can't find the thingy we use for crushing garlic.
 Did you see whatsisname today?

C

Certain quantifiers are common in speaking though rare in writing. For example, the following expressions mean a lot of:

- bags of loads of masses of buckets of oodles of a load of a mass of umpteen
 I'll help you – I've got bags of time.
 They can afford to go on exotic holidays as they've got oodles of money.
 I've tried phoning her umpteen times but she never seems to be at home.
 These expressions mean a little or some: a bit of a scrap of a touch of You've been sitting there all day but you haven't done a scrap of work.
 Bill's got a touch of flu but he should be fine by next week.
 I've got a bit of a headache.

D

Here are some expressions which we can use in speech to make what we are saying sound less threatening and potentially offensive to the person we are talking to.

- It's not the most practical idea – and I mean that in the nicest possible way.
 It's not the most practical/sensible/intelligent/appropriate thing you've ever done. [It's impractical / not very sensible / rather unintelligent / inappropriate.]
 What a load of idiots – present company excepted, of course. [not including you or me]
 I think a lot of the staff here, myself included, have not been working quite as hard as we should.
No offence intended, but I think you've misunderstood the basic problem.
If you don't mind my saying so, I think that you could have handled that better.
That's true up to a point, but I think it's basically giving a rather misleading picture.

Exercises

85.1 Look at A. Explain what the expressions with thing and get mean in the following sentences.

- 1 Don't make such a big thing about it. I'm only going for a few days.
- 2 Jorge has got a thing about Madonna. He plays her music all the time.
- 3 The thing is, I don't know when we'll get back.
- 4 Unless things change, we won't be able to get away for a holiday.
- 5 We've got a number of things to get through before lunchtime.
- 6 I don't get on with them very well. For one thing, we like different things. For another, I find them quite rude.
- 7 Did you get what the lecturer was saying? I didn't get a thing.
- 8 I hope we can get everything sorted out today. It's time we got it together!

85.2 What words do you think the speaker is looking for in each of these sentences? Choose from the words in the box.

colander	protractor	corkscrew
Leonardo DiCaprio	pliers	Leonard Nimoy

- 1 Where's the thingummy for opening wine bottles?
- 2 Look, isn't that whatsisname? The actor who was in Titanic.
- 3 I can't find the thingumabob for measuring angles.
- 4 Have you got a whatsit for pulling out nails?
- 5 Where's the thingy for draining potatoes?
- 6 The book is about Leonard whosit – the guy who was in that sci-fi series.

85.3 Write out the sentences in exercise 85.2 again using a different vague word from the one used in the exercise.

EXAMPLE Where's the whatsit for opening wine bottles?

85.4 Look at C. Write these sentences in a more formal style.

- 1 There's no need to rush – we've got oodles of time.
- 2 I've asked her out umpteen times, but she's always got some excuse.
- 3 He hasn't done a scrap of useful work here since he first got the job.
- 4 I've got a load of papers I want to get rid of.
- 5 Pat asked masses of people to her get-together at the weekend.
- 6 Sue's got bags of energy – don't know where she gets it all from!

85.5 Look at D, then fill the gaps in this text.

This is a very boring party, present (1) excepted, of course. No one, myself (2), I suppose, seems to be making much of an effort to chat. No (3) intended, but don't you think you could have dressed a bit more smartly? If you don't (4) my saying so, I think you should have put on a bit of make-up. I mean that in the nicest (5) way, of course!

85.6 Look up thing and get in an English learner's dictionary. Make a note of any other good expressions that you find. Write them down in example sentences of your own.

A Verbs denoting volume: from quiet to loud

 QUIET

Mumble and mutter are both usually negative: Stop mumbling! I can't hear what you're saying. He was muttering something under his breath, probably complaining, as usual.

Murmur can be more positive: They murmured their approval when he told them the plan. The phrase without a murmur means without any protest or complaint or comment: They accepted it all without a murmur. I was surprised. Normally they complain.

Raise one's voice can be used in positive or negative contexts:

You'll have to raise your voice a bit. She's a little hard of hearing. [speak louder] 'Don't you raise your voice at me!' [Do not speak in that loud, angry tone.]

Shout, yell, scream, roar and shriek are all followed by at: Don't shout at me. Yell often conveys urgency, anger, frustration; it is also used when there is much surrounding noise: He yelled at the children to stop messing around with his computer. 'Stay where you are!' he yelled above the noise of the traffic.

Shriek means loud and very high-pitched. It can be used in negative and positive contexts. 'Oh, wow! That's fantastic!' she shrieked.

Roar suggests very loud volume, but deeper-pitched, like a lion. It is used in positive and negative contexts: As he kicked the ball into the goal, the crowd roared, 'Yes!' 'How dare you come in here!' he roared.

LOUD

B Verbs describing episodes of speech and styles of conversation

Note how away is used to emphasise continuous/extended talk:

He's been chattering away on the phone all morning. [suggests light, non-serious talk]

Tom and Lily are always nagging (at) each other. [criticising faults or duties not done]

We always gossip about work when we go out together. [talk about people, rumours, etc.]

Stop bickering you two! Why can't you be friends? [arguing in an irritated way]

It took him a long time to realise they were winding him up. [/'waɪndɪŋ/ informal: teasing/fooling him]

They spent all evening slagging off their colleagues. [informal: criticising]

I realised she was buttering me up for some reason. [negative: saying nice things to me because she wanted something from me]

Janet is always whining and whingeing about something. [informal, negative: complaining]

Speech and articulation problems

B Making ideas and actions less precise in informal conversation

More or less is often used with verbs and adverbs to make things more vague:

I think we've more or less solved the problem with the computer now.

My English is more or less on the same level as the other students in the class.

A bit and a bit of a are used with adjectives and nouns to soften the meaning:

I'm a bit fed up with all the complaints I'm getting.

We were in a bit of a panic when we heard there was a strike at the airport.

Or whatever, or something and things like that / that kind of thing are useful expressions for referring vaguely to things and actions:

You could work Saturday then spend Sunday going to museums or whatever. [or similar activities]

If you don't want tea, have a lemonade or something. [any other kind of drink you want]

In the evenings we played quiz games and things like that / and that kind of thing.

[different kinds of entertaining activities]

We need a big container made of plastic; a dustbin or something along those lines would do. [something fitting that description]

He said he was fed up with all the attacks and criticisms, or words to that effect. [or similar words expressing the same meaning]

Note: the words and phrases in this unit are mostly for informal conversation, except where indicated, and may sound inappropriate in more formal contexts.

Exercises

87.1 Make the numbers in these sentences less precise, using expressions from A opposite.

- Ruth and Paul raved after the play.

90.3 Complete the idioms in this text by filling each of the gaps with one word.

Sarah has met the man of her (1). She loves him (2) bits. Fortunately he gets on like a house on (3) with her parents. I've known Tony for years and also have a (4) spot for him. He is a (5) of information. He works in a library where he is in his (6). He certainly knows what's (7) in libraries and can help anyone, even those people who are as thick as two short (8). Tony and Sarah have both been on (9) of the world since they met. I haven't a (10) when they will get married, but I am sure that they will marry as they are clearly head over (11) in love. Sarah's last boyfriend was very different. His behaviour really got her father's (12) up and I must admit he got up my (13) as well. He was such a know-..... (14) even though I actually thought he had (15) between the ears. I can't understand why Sarah was so down in the (16) when they split up. Never mind, she's in (17) heaven again now.

90.4 Look up these idioms in your dictionary. Do they fit best into A, B or C opposite?

- | | |
|---------------------------------|---------------------------------|
| 1 to put someone in the picture | 4 to hit it off |
| 2 to think the world of someone | 5 to be walking on air |

Idioms that comment on stories and reports

A

Note how some idioms in the text below set the scene (1–3), some make the events more intense or exciting (4–8), and some comment on the events and draw conclusions (9–16).

One day, I was sitting at my desk in the office, minding my own business¹ and just twiddling my thumbs², when my colleague Tom Jessop came walking towards me. I could feel it in my bones³ that something was going to happen. Suddenly, out of the blue⁴, and without so much as a by-your-leave⁵, he pulled the power cable out of the back of my computer, switching it off instantly. Before I knew where I was⁶, he was switching it on again, and in next to no time⁷, it was working normally. He explained that he had noticed out of the corner of his eye that I was just about to open an e-mail which he knew contained a dangerous virus, and he reacted quickly to stop me doing it. He explained that he had just opened the infected e-mail himself and that now his computer had completely crashed. To cap/crown it all⁸, he had lost a long, important report he had almost finished. But, would you believe it?⁹, I had not saved my work for about an hour, and, to cut a long story short¹⁰, by pulling out my power cable he caused me to lose a report I was writing too, even though he saved me from the virus! However, as luck would have it¹¹, I remembered later that I had a copy on my laptop, so everything turned out all right in the end¹², and all's well that ends well¹³, at least for me. I lived to tell the tale¹⁴, but poor old Tom lost everything on his computer. I know it was just one of those things¹⁵, but still, it just goes to show¹⁶ how you can never trust technology.

- ¹ doing nothing special
- ² feeling bored, with nothing to do
- ³ I could sense
- ⁴ completely unexpectedly
- ⁵ without asking permission or warning anyone
- ⁶ before I had time to be aware of what was happening
- ⁷ very quickly
- ⁸ as the worst event in a series of bad ones

- ⁹ said when one is about to tell a coincidence
- ¹⁰ to tell something briefly
- ¹¹ purely by luck
- ¹² finished well
- ¹³ said as a comment on a good ending to a series of bad events
- ¹⁴ I survived the events
- ¹⁵ it was an event that one just has to accept
- ¹⁶ used to state the moral or logical conclusion of the events

B Other expressions that occur in narratives

- A: It turned out she went to the same school as my sister.
 B: Well! It's a small world, isn't it? [said when a coincidence happens between people]

"So I said, I'm not afraid of animals, let me carry it. Famous last words! It was a six-foot snake!" [said when one later regrets something one has said]

FOLLOW UP

Look in the letters column of an English language magazine at the kind of letter where someone writes in to recount something unusual that has happened to them. Note any idioms of the kind illustrated in this unit.

There are a great many phrasal verbs in English and the next three units cannot, of course, deal with them all. The aim of these units is to approach phrasal verbs in a number of different ways and to give you some tips to help you understand and learn them.

A

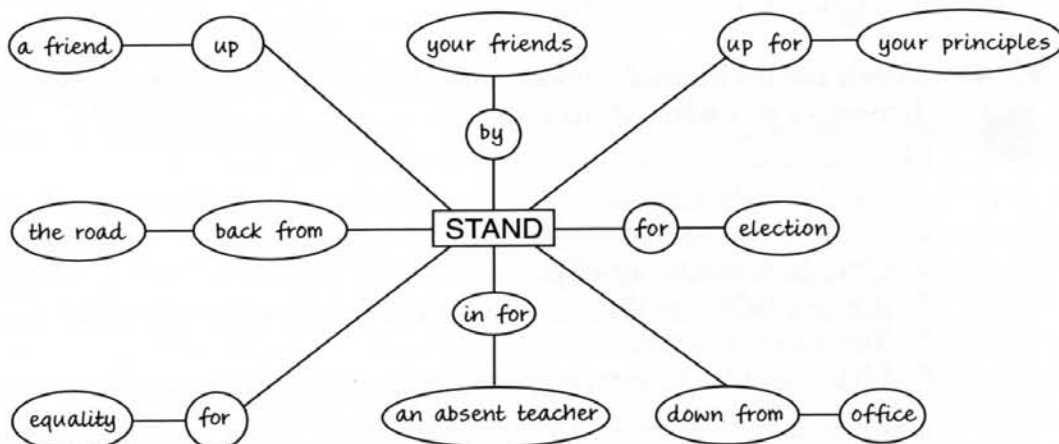

The best way to learn phrasal verbs is undoubtedly in context. Keep a section of your vocabulary notebook or file for phrasal verbs. When you come across one in a text that you are reading or listening to, note it down in a complete sentence or paragraph.

Here are a couple of useful points to remember about phrasal verbs.

- A verb + particle/preposition combination may have a number of different meanings. Look, for example, at these different meanings for take off: a plane takes off you can take off a coat/glasses/make-up a burglar may take off if he hears someone coming something is taken off a bill when a discount is allowed.
- You will probably find it best to concentrate first on understanding phrasal verbs rather than trying to use them. There is usually another English word you can use instead of a phrasal verb. For example, instead of saying the burglar took off, or 10% was taken off the bill, you can say the burglar left hurriedly, or 10% was deducted from the bill. Note that an alternative is not always possible. For example, it is not possible to find a synonym to replace take off when talking about planes taking off or taking off clothes.

B

Many phrasal verbs in English are based on verbs like do, make, get, go, run, turn, which have very little precise lexical meaning of their own, or verbs such as stand, which have several different meanings. One approach to learning phrasal verbs is to build a ripple diagram based round one of these verbs. For example:

C

Such a diagram will be particularly useful if accompanied by sentences that illustrate the meanings of the phrasal verbs more clearly.

Ron waited an hour for Alice, then he realised he had been stood up and furious, went home. You should always stand by your friends when they are in trouble.

You should also stand up for your principles, even if it makes you unpopular.

The house stands back from the road, so you wouldn't notice it as you drive past.

There are three people standing for election in this constituency.

The party that I support stands for equality and improved social services.

I often had to stand in for other teachers who were absent.

After ten years as Mayor, Damian Taylor decided it was time to stand down.

Exercises

93.1 Complete these sentences containing stand in any way that seems appropriate to you.

- 1 The police asked people to stand back
- 2 When he was at school, John always used to stand up for
- 3 Michael Porter has decided to stand down
- 4 I always knew that Laura would stand by
- 5 The Socialist Workers' Party stands for
- 6 On my first day as a teacher I had to stand in for
- 7 I would never dream of standing up.
- 8 Masha is considering standing for

93.2 In the ripple diagram on the opposite page, you have two distinct uses of stand for. Use your dictionary to help you find two further ways in which stand for is used and then write one sentence to illustrate each meaning.

93.3 Here are some sentences based on phrasal verbs with keep, tell, blow and pull. Use your dictionary to help you complete the sentences by adding the necessary prepositions or particles.

- 1 The draught was so strong that it blew the candle.
- 2 He was very ill last year but, thank goodness, he pulled
- 3 The stress of his illness eventually told his wife and she fell ill too.
- 4 How do you plan to keep your English once this course finishes?
- 5 It is almost impossible to tell the original and the forgery
- 6 The papers are full of the scandal, but in a few days it will all have blown
- 7 The bus pulled sharply at a red light and I lost my balance and fell over.
- 8 Sara walks so fast that I can't possibly keep with her.
- 9 Wages have been kept for far too long even though prices have gone up.
- 10 An argument blew at the end of the meeting and it ended on a sour note.
- 11 The teacher told the boy for chewing gum in class.
- 12 The invigilator wouldn't have realised Sue was cheating if Amy hadn't told her.

93.4 Rewrite these sentences using a phrasal verb based on the verb in brackets. Use a dictionary if necessary.

- 1 Please don't walk on the grass. (KEEP)
- 2 Sam is going to the dentist to have a tooth extracted this afternoon. (PULL)
- 3 This is such a lovely photo. I'd like to have it enlarged and framed for my wall. (BLOW)
- 4 Rod's going to apply for the job, but the fact that he has so little experience will make it less likely for him to get it. (TELL)
- 5 Her idea for a new business is brilliant. I just hope she can succeed. (PULL)
- 6 Do you think that Ken might not be telling us the whole truth? (KEEP)

93.5 Make ripple diagrams to help you learn both the verbs you have been working on in exercises 93.3 and 93.4 and other phrasal verbs based on keep, tell, blow and pull.

93.6 Rewrite the example sentences in C without using any phrasal verbs.

A

In Unit 93 we looked at some phrasal verbs based on basic verbs like stand, keep and tell. In this unit, we look at phrasal verbs based on more unusual verbs or verbs which do not give rise to so many different phrasal verb constructions. The phrasal verbs are grouped according to their preposition or particle.

* marks the phrasal verbs that are more informal.

away

The boy tried to escape from his country by stowing away on a passenger liner. [hiding on ship, plane or other form of transport]

Taxes have been whittling away at our savings for some time now. [gradually destroying]

It's said to be better to share your feelings with someone rather than to bottle them up. [keep feelings hidden]

It was raining heavily earlier on, but it's easing up a bit now. [becoming less intense]

TIP

You may find it helpful to note such phrasal verbs down in your vocabulary book according to the preposition or particle. Try to note down an example sentence to help you remember the phrasal verb.

Exercises

- 94.1 Complete these sentences by adding a verb from the opposite page in each of the gaps.
- 1 Before I can go home, I must out the papers in my in-tray.
 - 2 My grandfather has the talent of being able to off at any time in any place.
 - 3 Jo's been away at her revision all morning. Why don't you take her a cup of coffee?
 - 4 The company agreed to on some food at the party but workers would have to provide their own drinks.
 - 5 We would have gone for a walk if it hadn't been down.
 - 6 I'm sorry, I'm going to be late home again tonight. Something urgent has just up.
 - 7 The escaped convict away on an oil tanker.
 - 8 I really hate my job and don't think I can it out much longer.
 - 9 We were very busy at the weekend but things have up a bit now.
 - 10 Every year the management is away at jobs. Now there are fewer than 100 employees in the whole company.

- 94.2 Look at the underlined nouns in each of the sentences below. What do you think they mean? They are all connected with one of the phrasal verbs on the opposite page.
- 1 Thanks to a tip-off, the police were able to locate the bomb before it exploded.
 - 2 Look at the cat having a doze on the window ledge. It's a wonder it doesn't fall off.
 - 3 Two stowaways were found in the hold of the aircraft just before take-off.
 - 4 I've finished the book now but I found it quite a slog.
 - 5 The team has been badly affected by a crop of injuries.
 - 6 The President is said to be very good at making people feel at ease.

- 94.3 What is the literal meaning of the basic verb in these phrasal verbs? Does this meaning have any connection with the meaning of the phrasal verb?
- | | | | |
|-------------|--------------|------------|----------------|
| 1 bottle up | 3 step on it | 5 crop up | 7 stick it out |
| 2 pelt down | 4 stow away | 6 sort out | 8 whittle away |

- 94.4 Does each of the six particles opposite seem to convey any specific idea that might help you to work out the meanings of the phrasal verbs? Note that there is more than one meaning for each of the particles/prepositions.

EXAMPLE away conveys the ideas of: at a distance (stow away) continuous activity (whittle away, slog away)

- 94.5 New phrasal verbs are constantly being invented in English, particularly ones based on more unusual words. Can you use your knowledge about the meanings of basic verbs and prepositions in English, as well as the context, to work out what these underlined phrasal verbs mean?

- 1 I'm conferenced out now. I'm really ready to go home.
- 2 The advertising campaign led to sales rocketing off.
- 3 We decided to tile up the old fireplace.
- 4 The children surfed away on the Internet all day long.

In this unit we look at two other ways of organising phrasal verbs.

A

You may want to group together verbs which have two prepositions or particles. Here are some examples:

Because Joe was often ill as a child, he missed out on a lot of schooling. [was not able to receive]

Capital punishment was done away with in Britain forty years ago. [abolished]

The sales manager really seems to have it in for her new secretary. She criticises her work all the time. [be determined to find fault with]

Why don't you come round for a cup of coffee this evening and we can catch up with all the gossip? [get up-to-date with]

Eva has gone/come down with flu and won't be able to attend today's meeting. [started to suffer from]

Bill fell out with his brother when they were in their twenties and they didn't see each other for fifteen years. [quarrelled with]

When parents are stressed at work, they sometimes take it out on their children. [get unfairly cross with]

B

You may also be able to organise some phrasal verbs by topic. Here are some verbs classified according to a couple of topics which produce a lot of phrasal verbs.

Work and business

Our business went through a bad patch last year, but things seem to be picking up now. [improving]

Last year the company decided to branch out into some new lines. [expand]

We've been snowed under with work all month. [had a lot to deal with]

Two hundred workers have been laid off at the British Aerospace factory. [made redundant from their jobs]

House prices fell steeply earlier this year but now they seem to have bottomed out. [reached the lowest point from which they will not fall any further]

Mood and emotions

He's looking so miserable! What can we do to cheer him up? [make him feel happier]

Come to the bar with us – work isn't everything. You need to chill out! [informal: relax]

You really must try to stay calm. Don't get so worked up about it. [upset]

He's still angry. Wait until he has simmered down before talking to him. [become calmer]

The food looked so good, I got a bit carried away and ordered far too much. [lost control, became excited]

Knowing that I wouldn't tell anyone else, Susanna opened up to me a little. [told some secrets]

Being spoken to like that really took me aback. [surprised/shocked me]

Anne was bubbling over with excitement at the thought of seeing her boyfriend again. [full of]

"I got a bit carried away."

Exercises

95.1 Put the words in the right order to make sentences. To help you the first and last words are already in the correct position.

95.2 Complete these sentences with either a verb or a preposition or particle.

- 1 Alex was feeling very miserable when he got home but a good meal and his favourite TV programme him up.
- 2 Jade was quite taken when she realised that she was the only person at the party who was in fancy dress.
- 3 Janet always gets terribly up over her exams.
- 4 Mel's decided to leave his job and out on his own.
- 5 It is rumoured that they are planning to off more staff next month. I hope I'm not one of them.
- 6 The children haven't talked to me at all about the accident but they might just up to their grandmother.
- 7 I'm absolutely snowed at work. I hope things ease up soon.
- 8 Sales have been very poor so far this year but there are signs that they may be up now.

95.3 Can you reword each of these sentences using one of the phrasal verbs from either A or B?

- 1 There's no point in trying to talk to your father until he's a bit less angry.
- 2 Do you think it would be a good idea to abolish selective education?
- 3 Sam's father died when he was six and so he grew up without a male role model at home.
- 4 When Mr Brown was made redundant, the family decided to emigrate to Australia.
- 5 Emily was very moved by the emotional way in which Richard read the poem.
- 6 Do you consider that oil prices have now fallen as low as they are going to?
- 7 You take life too seriously. Relax!
- 8 The newly married couple were full of happiness.

95.4 Look at the phrasal verbs in Unit 94. Which of these could also be included in either the Work and business or Mood and emotions categories?

95.5 A number of the phrasal verbs in B are based on metaphors. Find four examples and explain what the metaphor is and why it is appropriate.

Divided by a common language: American and British English

A Streets and roads

Street has a wider range of meaning in American English.

American speaker: Let's cross the street here. There's more traffic further down. However a British speaker would normally say cross the road, especially in a busy city. Here are some more examples of American English words and expressions not used in British English. The British English expressions are given in square brackets.

Go two blocks down and the car rental office is kitty-corner to [informal: diagonally opposite] the gas station [petrol station].

You should always use the crosswalk to cross the street. [pedestrian crossing / zebra crossing] There's a trail [path] that leads down to the creek [stream, small river].

Take a left [turn left] here and you'll come to the Interstate [major motorway in the US connecting different states] after about three miles.

After the intersection, look for a sign saying 'International Airport'. [road junction]

I hit a shopping cart [trolley] in the parking lot [car park] when I was backing up [reversing].

Look for the overpass [flyover, i.e. bridge that carries one road over another] and then take the next exit for downtown Chicago.

Note: in British English road numbers use the, in American English no article is used.

British English: Take the M4 as far as Newbury, then turn off on to the A34 for Oxford.

American English: Take I-45 north for about 20 miles, then take 25 west.

B Air travel

A number of expressions to do with air travel are different in British and American English. Here are some announcements you might hear at American and British airports.

American	British
Statewide Airlines announces the arrival of Flight 606 from Phoenix. This flight will deplane momentarily .	Monarch Airlines announces the arrival of Flight 505 from Lisbon. Passengers will be disembarking shortly .
Coach class passengers may now board.	Economy class passengers may now board.
Passengers are reminded that carry-on baggage is restricted to one item only.	Passengers are reminded that hand baggage is restricted to one item only.

C Around the home

This cable is the ground (US)/earth (UK).

[cable that takes electricity safely into the ground]

We need a dumpster (US)/skip (UK) to put all this old furniture in. [large metal container for putting rubbish in]

I left the faucet (US)/tap (UK) running and nearly flooded the kitchen.

I have to cook for five people, so we need a big stove (US)/cooker (UK). [piece of kitchen equipment to cook food]

I fried the fish in a skillet (US)/frying pan (UK).

"Something's wrong here, Harriet. ... This is starting to look less and less like Interstate 95."

Exercises

96.1 Who do you think is most likely to be speaking, an American or a British person? What would someone who speaks the other variety have said instead?

- 1 I lost my way at the big intersection just south of the city.
- 2 Why are there always so many shopping trolleys left in the car park?
- 3 Cross the road at the pedestrian crossing, then turn left.
- 4 You can't drive any further; you'll have to back up, the street is very narrow.
- 5 You'll see the petrol station just after the flyover on the A56.
- 6 Once you get on to the Interstate, it will only take you two hours to get there.
- 7 The bookstore is kitty-corner to the Chinese restaurant.
- 8 There's a creek at the end of the trail. It's about three miles from here.

96.2 Match the words on the left with their equivalent on the right, and write US for American English and UK for British English in the boxes.

- | | | | |
|--------------|--------------------------|---------|--------------------------|
| 1 dumpster | <input type="checkbox"/> | skillet | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 2 ground | <input type="checkbox"/> | skip | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 3 frying pan | <input type="checkbox"/> | stove | <input type="checkbox"/> |
| 4 cooker | <input type="checkbox"/> | earth | <input type="checkbox"/> |

96.3 Fill the gaps with a British English (UK) word or an American English (US) word.

- 1 Do you want to check in that bag or take it on board as ? (UK)
- 2 Zodiac Airlines wishes to announce the arrival of Flight 347 from San Francisco. This flight will momentarily. (US)
- 3 class is always the cheapest way of flying. (US)

96.4 In English, we often respond to something someone says with a single adjective or adverb instead of yes or no, or in order to express our feelings or reaction.

EXAMPLE

A: Here's that book I promised you.

A: Could you hold this for me?

B: Oh, lovely. Thanks.

B: Sure. No problem.

Research shows that in conversation some words used as short responses are much more frequent in one variety of English than the other. The ticks (✓) in this table show in which variety the word is more frequent.

Now cover the table and label these conversations with US (most likely American) or UK (most likely British).

- 1 A: The plane arrives at 6.30.
B: Brilliant. I'll meet you at the exit.
- 2 A: I'm coming to town this weekend.
B: Wonderful! Let's eat together Friday.
- 3 A: Will you help us tomorrow?
B: Sure, no problem!
- 4 A: I'll pick you up at 8.30.
B: Fine.
- 5 A: I just got a new bike.
B: Cool!

US	word	UK
	lovely	✓
✓	sure fine	✓
	brilliant	✓
✓	cool marvellous	✓
✓	wonderful

Other Englishes: diversity and variety

English is spoken in a wide range of countries outside of Great Britain and the USA. In this unit we look at some other varieties of English you may encounter.

A Ireland

Irish English has some words and phrases you may see or hear on a visit to Ireland which are different from British English. Many of them come from the Gaelic language of Ireland. Here are some examples.

word	meaning
craic /kræk/	fun, enjoyment
guards or gardai /gɑ:r'di:/	police
boreen /bɔ:'ri:n/	narrow, quiet country lane
fleadh /flæ:/	festival, usually of traditional music
Taoiseach /'ti:fɔk/	Prime Minister

B Australia

Many people feel that Australian English has introduced a relaxed, informal tone to English vocabulary. Australian slang is sometimes called 'strine'. Here are some examples.

You'll have to forgive him; he's just an ignorant ocker. [person who is not well educated and does not behave in a polite way]

There was a young Australian in the shopping centre playing a didgeridoo. [/dɪdʒərɪ'du:/ ancient Australian wind instrument which produces long deep notes]

They live on a sheep station north of here. [large farm; also used in New Zealand]

'Struth! [gosh/wow] Look at that bloke [man] over there, mate [informal way of addressing a male]!'

Be careful of the dingos [kind of wild dog] when you're out in the bush [the natural, uncultivated land away from towns]. (Bush is also used in this way in African varieties of English.)

Travelling across the outback [the wild, uncultivated land, especially the desert] in Oz [slang name for Australia] can be dangerous, but there are some beaut [/bju:t/ beautiful] places to see.

C Some other English varieties

variety	example	meaning/comments
Malaysian	We shifted a month ago. Here's my new address.	moved house
Canadian	The washroom is on the left.	public toilet
Hong Kong	We have to pay at the shroff .	car park payment office
Scottish	They have three bairns . /beənz/	children

Exercises

97.1 Look at these news extracts and decide whether they are likely to have appeared in an Australian newspaper or in an Irish newspaper.

1 Will the 2002 Fleadh be held here?

The city and environs could be in for a multi-million pound boost next year.

3 BEAUT BANGLES – Diamond fiesta

Drooling at diamonds is probably not a healthy pastime, unless you're a born money bags.

2 OZ SNAPS UP $100m US GEAR

American sports clothing has become a mega-business of the decade

4 He pointed out that all three men had apologised to the Gardai on the day following the incident.

97.2 Answer these questions.

- 1 What is the name for a kind of wild dog found in Australia?
- 2 Who or what is the Taoiseach?
- 3 When an Australian talks about the outback, what are they referring to?
- 4 What is an Irish person referring to when they talk of 'the craic'?
- 5 Where would you find a boreen?
- 6 Where would you find a station without trains or buses?
- 7 What would you do with a didgeridoo?
- 8 Is an ocker a person or thing? Explain.

97.3 Match the words on the left with their definitions on the right. Try to guess the answers for those words not on the opposite page.

- | | |
|-------------|--|
| 1 shroff | Scottish word for 'small' |
| 2 joker | Scottish word for a child |
| 3 wee | Malaysian word for 'university' |
| 4 varsity | Australian word for 'person' |
| 5 bairn | Caribbean word for a godmother |
| 6 washroom | Hong Kong word for a payment office at a car park |
| 7 macommere | Irish word for 'idiot/fool' |
| 8 eejit | South African word for flat, open countryside with few trees |
| 9 veld | Canadian word for a public toilet |

FOLLOW UP

If you can, read Chapter 7 on 'World English' of The Cambridge Encyclopedia of the English Language by David Crystal, published by Cambridge University Press, where you will find examples of English from different parts of the world.

A Gender awareness and vocabulary

A number of vocabulary changes are being introduced as a result of the feminist movement and heightened awareness of the sexist nature of some English vocabulary. David Crystal in The Cambridge Encyclopedia of the English Language writes:

Attention has been focused on the replacement of 'male' words with a generic meaning by neutral items – chairman, for example, becoming chair or chairperson (though not without controversy) or salesman becoming sales assistant. In certain cases, such as job descriptions, use of sexually neutral language has become a legal requirement. There is continuing debate between extremists and moderates as to how far such revisions should go – whether they should affect traditional idioms such as *man in the street*¹ and *Neanderthal Man*², or apply to parts of words where the male meaning of man is no longer dominant such as *manhandle*³ and woman. The vocabulary of marital status has also been affected with the introduction of Ms as a neutral alternative to Miss or Mrs.

¹ a typical person (could be replaced by person in the street) ² primitive people who lived in Europe and Asia 2.5 to 3 million years ago ³ handle roughly, using force

Here are some examples of non-sexist variations of vocabulary:

older usage	current usage
spokesman	spokesperson
fireman	firefighter
male nurse	nurse
to man	to staff
man-hours	working hours

older usage	current usage
air hostess	flight attendant
cleaning lady	cleaner
foreman	supervisor
manpower	human resources
mankind	human race

B Words relating to gender

words	meaning/comment	example
male, female	used for gender classification in biology	male and female bees
masculine, feminine	having qualities felt to be typically male or female	masculine pride, feminine charm
manly, womanly	having positive qualities felt to be typically male or female	manly strength, womanly grace virile	manly (usually used in a sexual context)	handsome and virile men effeminate	resembling a woman (used of men, negative)	his effeminate walk mannish	resembling a man (used of women, negative)	her mannish haircut
a tomboy	a young girl who behaves and dresses like a boy	She's a real tomboy .
a sissy	a boy who behaves like a girl, or a weak and cowardly person (informal, negative)	He's such a sissy !
butch	used of men and women, aggressively masculine in looks and behaviour (informal)	butch stars of cowboy films

Exercises

98.1 Answer these questions about the text.

- 1 Why do you think there have been attempts to introduce non-sexist language of the kind described by David Crystal?
- 2 How would you explain this expression: male words with a generic meaning?
- 3 Why do you think there might have been controversy about attempts to change the word chairman?
- 4 What do more extreme advocates of making English sexually neutral want to do that is unacceptable to the moderates?
- 5 Why was Ms introduced and why is it useful?

98.2 A modern editor would probably alter these sentences. How would this be done?

- 1 Three firemen helped put out a fire at a disused warehouse last night.
- 2 A spokesman for the Department of Education provided us with a statement.
- 3 Cleaning lady wanted for house in Priory Street.
- 4 The switchboard is continuously manned even during holiday periods.
- 5 All our air hostesses are fluent in at least three languages.
- 6 Miss Jones is in charge of the Manpower Department of the company.
- 7 Policemen today spend more time in cars than on the beat.
- 8 Brenda's husband is a male nurse.
- 9 It took a great many man-hours to clean up the stadium after the concert.
- 10 This was a great step for mankind.
- 11 The man in the street has little time for such issues.
- 12 They manhandled the hostage into the van.

98.3 Circle the best of the underlined words to complete each sentence.

- 1 That suit makes her look rather mannish/manly.
- 2 Go on, jump. Don't be such a tomboy/sissy!
- 3 Younger men are said to be more male/virile than older ones.
- 4 She always dresses in a very feminine/effeminate way. You never see her in trousers.
- 5 The masculine/male cat is less aggressive than his sister.

98.4 Answer these questions.

- 1 Does your language ever use male words generically?
- 2 If so, have there been attempts to change them to avoid sexual stereotyping?
- 3 Do you think that using sex-biased words does affect people's attitudes to men and women's roles in society?
- 4 How do you feel about imposing language changes of the different kinds that David Crystal describes?
- 5 Do terms of address (i.e. Mr, Mrs, etc.) in your language indicate whether people are married?
- 6 Do you think it is better if terms of address indicate marital status or not? Why?
- 7 A grammatical problem in this area is the use of he/his to refer to a person of either sex. In the sentence 'A government minister may have to neglect his family.' the minister could be a man or a woman. However the use of 'his' assumes, perhaps wrongly, that it is a man. How could you rewrite this sentence to avoid this problem?

Language of age and social class

A

In English, certain expressions will date the speaker or place them in a particular social or age group. People are often judged on the way they speak and listeners may decide that the person is either posh (upper class, negative) or common (lower class, negative). Here are some disapproving words which are used to comment on a person's class.

expression	refers to	comment a pleb	lower-class person	adjectives plebby (informal) and plebeian (formal)
an oik	lower-class man	implies bad behaviour
riff-raff	lower social class	implies lack of culture
hoi polloi	ordinary people	excludes the rich or the educated
the chattering classes	well-educated middle-class people	implies readiness to express an opinion on any subject
bourgeois	middle class	implies someone who is narrow-minded and materialistic (can also be used more objectively in a historical context)
the upper crust	upper class	people with money and influence stuck-up / snooty	behaving in a snobbish way to lower-class people	implies someone who thinks that he or she is better than other people
new money	people who have recently become rich	implies spending money in a showy way
a toff	rich upper-class person	usually used humorously

People often continue to use the expressions that were popular when they were young. Cool! or Wicked! are the current terms of approval, whereas in the 1940s it was Spiffing! Similarly, the words people choose to use for inventions may also date them because older people may continue to use a name that was the everyday word in their youth but which has since changed. Thus, some older people may refer to a car as a motor (car), to a radio as a wireless, to trousers as slacks.

In general, older people, particularly older people from the upper classes, are more likely to use one as a pronoun, often where the meaning is really I:
One doesn't always agree with what she has to say.

C

Social class in English affects vocabulary choice in some possibly unexpected ways as certain words are, for no obvious reason, held to be either common or posh, depending on your point of view.

Luncheon, for example, is an upper-class version of lunch. Toilet is considered by some people to be a more lower-class way of referring to the lavatory or loo. Addressing parents as Mother or Father rather than Mum or Dad also suggests that the speaker is likely to be upper class. These distinctions are probably less marked than they used to be, but you may come across them in works of fiction where they may be used by writers to indicate the social background of their characters.

Exercises

99.1 Choose the best word or expression from the box to fit each sentence.

- 1 They're probably called the because they like to spend hours sitting at a pine dinner table over their fettucine discussing the latest book or exhibition.
- 2 Pink Rolls Royces are much more likely to be owned by than the old aristocracy.
- 3 I don't know why they allow such in a lovely classy restaurant like this.
- 4 Although her dad's a duke, she's not at all
- 5 Karl was glad to have escaped the attitudes of the small town he had grown up in and to be living in the much more liberal atmosphere of a city.
- 6 Her parents sent her to a private school mainly because they did not want her to grow up talking in a way that they considered
- 7 The expression derives from the fact that the most important people in the medieval dining hall were given the best or top part of a loaf of bread.
- 8 Maria's parents, Lord and Lady De Vere, are very upset that she wants to marry someone whom they consider to be an ignorant 99.2 What does the language used in the sentences below tell you about the speakers?

- 1 The whole family used to gather together and listen to the wireless every Sunday evening.
- 2 We all still dress for dinner even when no one is expected. One has to do one's best to keep up standards.
- 3 Old Jack has bought a spiffing new motor.
- 4 Your new mobile is wicked – I'll text you from uni this afternoon.
- 5 We wasn't doing nothing, was we, Tracey?

99.3 The comic novels by the writer P.G. Wodehouse about a 'toff' called Bertie Wooster make extensive use of a now rather dated upper-class dialect of English. What do you think the underlined words, typical of these novels, mean?

- 1 Don't be such a chump! Aunt Angela won't bite you!
- 2 You must help me, old sport. I'm in an awful fix.
- 3 I'm short of money now but I'm hoping an old uncle, who's rolling in stuff, will kick the beam soon and leave me his fortune.

FOLLOW UP

Read the play Pygmalion by Bernard Shaw which is based on the relationship between class and English. In the play, a professor tries to teach a poor lower-class girl to speak English in such a way that she can pass as a duchess. You can access the text of the play at: www.bartleby.com/138

Newspaper headline language

A Features of headline language

Here are some typical examples of headlines from tabloid newspapers with comments on their use of language. [popular papers with smaller pages than more serious papers]

EXPERT REVEALS NEW MOBILE DANGERS

- Articles, prepositions and auxiliary verbs are often omitted from headlines.
- This use of the present simple instead of the past tense makes the story sound more immediate.
- The use of language is often ambiguous. It is not entirely clear, for example, what mobile refers to here. It is actually about the dangers of mobile phone use but it could have referred to dangers that can move in some way. Readers have to look at the story in order to find out.
- Words with dramatic associations such as danger are often used.

TV STAR TRAGIC TARGET FOR MYSTERY GUNMAN

This story is about how a well-known television actor was shot by an unknown killer.

- Tabloid newspapers like to use references to royalty or popular figures like film or pop stars or sports personalities in order to attract readers' attention.
- Alliteration such as TV Star Tragic Target is often used to attract the eye in headlines and to make them sound more memorable.
- Newspapers tend to use strong, simple words such as 'gunman' in order to express an idea or image as briefly and as vividly as possible.

B Violent words

Violent and militaristic words are often used in newspaper headlines, especially in tabloid newspapers, in order to make stories seem more dramatic.

EU acts to crush terror of the thugs
Crackdown on soccer louts

Palace besieged by journalists
Typhoon rips through town

C Playing with words

Many newspaper headlines in English attract readers' attention by playing on words in an entertaining way. For example, a story about the theft of traffic signs erected to help tourists coming to see a solar eclipse in the area was headlined Dark deeds. In this collocation dark usually carries the meaning of wicked, but the headline is cleverly playing with the word dark because at the time of an eclipse the sky goes dark.

Another example is the use of the headline Ruffled feathers to describe an incident where a wife was angry with her husband, a wildlife expert, for allowing a Russian steppe eagle to sleep in their bedroom. We use the idiom to smooth someone's ruffled feathers, meaning to pacify someone after an argument. It is apt to use it here as the story is about a bird (although, of course, it was the woman's feathers which were ruffled).

TIP

The English newspaper The Guardian is particularly fond of playing with words in its headlines. See if you can find some examples at its website: www.guardian.co.uk

Exercises

100.1 Read these headlines. What do you think the stories might be about?

- | | |
|--|----------------------------------|
| 1 MOSCOW BLAST TERROR | 4 CRACKDOWN ON PORN |
| 2 PM TO REVEAL SOCCER LOUPT PLANS | 5 THUGS BESIEGE TEEN STAR |

- c) a half-baked idea = an idea that is not fully thought through; idiom from cookery
- d) to tighten our belts = to reduce our spending; idiom from dressing

- vi.2 a) All the world's a stage and all the men and women merely players.
The lines suggest that life is like a theatre and that possibly the roles are written in advance, with people being like actors in that they all have different parts to play.
(From As You Like It)
- b) Night's candles are burnt out; and jocund day stands tiptoe on the misty mountain tops.
The lines say that night has finished and day is about to break. 'Night's candles' conjures up an image of the stars because now that dawn has come the stars are no longer visible and so they can be said to have burnt out. Day standing tiptoe suggests that day is poised ready to start a race down the mountain tops. It also implies the quietness of early morning because we tiptoe when we want to be quiet and not wake someone who is sleeping. (From Romeo and Juliet)
- c) There is a tide in the affairs of men, which, taken at the flood, leads on to fortune.
The lines suggest that our lives have tides like the sea and we must take advantage of lucky opportunities, metaphorical flood tides, in order to be transported to good times.
(From Julius Caesar)

- vi.3 a) This book throws a great deal of fresh light on the history of the period.
This books tells us a great deal that is new about the history
From the concept of intelligence as light.
- b) We could save half an hour at least if we went through the wood.
We could gain half an hour From the concept of time as money.
- c) Try to keep cool even if he argues with you.
Try to keep calm From the concept of intense feeling as heat.
- d) She spent all her life fighting to get her company recognised.
(Two metaphors) She devoted all her life to trying hard to get her company recognised.
From the concepts of time as money and business as a military operation.
- e) Police tried to control the flow of the fans as they left the concert.
Police tried to control the movement of the fans From the concept of movement of people as water.

Unit vii

- vii.1 1 She works in a shop that sells ladies' clothing. (Ladies' garments might be an even more formal equivalent.)
- 2 I've got some new specs. Do you like them?
- 3 Did you see that documentary about Wales on telly / on the box last night?
- 4 Have you met Lily's new bloke? ('Lily's new man' is also possible.)

| 2 girl/young unmarried woman | 4 to where / where to |

- vii.5
- This computer text could be called written, modern, technical. Terms such as .pst file, shared directory and file server are technical. The style is typically written, especially with the use of passive voice verbs and the word located; in non-technical spoken language we would probably just say 'one that is on a file server'.
 - This is typical modern, written academic text. Key written items are above, and the citation of other researchers' works. The adjectives ornery and splenic (which mean angry/argumentative and bad-tempered/irritable) are very rare outside of academic and literary registers. Other typical academic words are paradigm (which means a dominant set of beliefs or methods in an academic field) and the initials SLA, which mean Second Language Acquisition.
 - This is rather archaic poetry (by the English poet John Donne, 1572–1631). Thee is an archaic form of singular you; 'tis is an archaic form of it is; in jest is rather formal and/or literary and means 'as a joke / not serious'. Other rather formal or literary words are weariness and feigned (pretended).
 - This is formal spoken language. It is from a speech by US President John F. Kennedy (1917–1963). Key items are the formal ask not instead of 'don't ask', my fellow, and the freedom of man instead of human freedom or freedom for everyone. Formal speeches and lectures are often very close to formal written texts, and this text could possibly also have been a written text (e.g. a political pamphlet or electioneering literature).
 - This is informal, modern conversation. Key items are mind you (rare in written language), telly instead of television, cos instead of because, and yeah instead of yes. The text is quite fragmented too (The Rhine. Yeah. The river in Bonn). Written registers tend to be more integrated (e.g. The River Rhine in Bonn).

Unit viii

B These are the connotations which these words have for most English speakers:

- | | |
|---------|---|
| shark | a dishonest person, someone who persuades other people to pay too much money for something |
| scar | something ugly which spoils, for example, a landscape |
| diamond | typical stone in engagement ring; referring to a period of 60 years, e.g. diamond wedding, diamond anniversary; diamonds is one of the red suits in playing cards |

Unit 7

7.1 I think I have a good working relationship with most of my colleagues. I tried to establish a good rapport with them from the very beginning. The person I like most is my opposite number in our office in Paris. Generally, when I socialise with my colleagues outside of work, we try not to talk shop, but it's not easy and sometimes we have a good gossip about people who are not there.

7.2 Possible answers:

- 1 assembly-line worker This is a worker who stands at a moving mechanical belt and repeats the same job or process, so it could be called tedious, monotonous, repetitive, mind-numbing [deadens your mind], soul-destroying [destroys your spirit and ambitions and dreams].
- 2 shop steward This is a trade union officer who negotiates with management on behalf of the union members, so it could be called demanding, stressful, hectic, intensive, sensitive, thankless [nobody is ever really grateful to you].
- 3 PR officer A Public Relations Officer gives statements to the press and information to the public in general. This job could be called varied, unpredictable, glamorous [the PR officer might appear on radio and TV], demanding, stressful, never-ending.
- 4 bodyguard This is a job where someone protects a person whose life may be in danger. It is definitely a (potentially) dangerous, stressful, intense, demanding job, for highly-trained people, but it could also be glamorous, exciting and exhilarating.
- 5 lifeguard This is a job where someone saves people who get into difficulties in swimming pools and/or in the sea, and generally watches over their safety, so it could be called rewarding, indispensable, (potentially) dangerous, stressful, demanding, but sometimes monotonous.
- 6 trawlerman This job on a large fishing boat is dangerous, unenviable, essential, stressful, physically demanding, unpredictable.
- 7 private eye A private eye is a private detective, so this job could be called glamorous, exciting, dangerous, fascinating, but for some people it is contemptible [they hate or despise private eyes].
- 8 refuse collector This is a person who collects the rubbish from people's houses, generally a monotonous, unglamorous, unenviable, low-paid, dirty, unpleasant, but essential job.

- 2 Unclear situations, which might demand (difficult) decisions.
- 3 Self-reliance.
- 4 Resourcefulness.
- 5 You need a tough mind.
- 6 The job advertisement is for a youth adventure leader. This is a person who takes young people on challenging outdoor trips and expeditions such as mountain-climbing, canoeing, sailing, etc.

8.4 Suggested answers:

- 2 +
- 3 - It means to have far too much work to do.
- 4 - It means to be given a lower position.
- 5 - It means to not get the promotion you expected or deserved.
- 6 - It means to be refused/rejected.
- 7 + To be short-listed for a job means you are one of perhaps five or six people from all the applicants who are being seriously considered.
- 8 + To be a high-flyer means to be someone who is rising fast in the job, and will probably be promoted frequently.

8.5

- 1 I started studying French at university, but I didn't finish my course and left after one year. ('Career' is not normally used to refer to university studies; it usually means a job or a profession.)
- 2 My boss raised my salary by £2,000 a year. I was delighted. (Don't confuse rise (intransitive) with raise something (transitive). Verbs of increase and decrease are normally followed by by + quantity/number, e.g. The temperature rose by 10 degrees.)
- 3 I'm overworked and underpaid, like everybody! And I'm always stressed out. ('Overworked and underpaid' is a binomial expression; normally these cannot be reversed: for example, we say 'a black and white film' in English, never 'a white and black film'.)
- 4 My holiday entitlement is four weeks a year.
- 5 He got paternity leave when his wife had a baby.

8.6 Possible answers:

- 1 You could get a job in a 'dot-com' company (an Internet-based company), where profits can be very high, or else perhaps in the financial sector, or in a highly paid profession such as the law or dentistry.

- 2 You could try to get a job in a band or orchestra, but it will be tough. Maybe teaching music would be a better option.
- 3 You could get a job in the computer industry, perhaps setting up systems in companies, or perhaps approach a big international computer company and sell yourself very hard to them.
- 4 First talk to your superiors, if you have a good rapport with them. If not, look around for another job, but don't give up the one you have (yet).

Unit 9

- 9.1
- 1 loss leader

- | | | |
|---------------------|-------------|--------------------|
| 1 hammer out a deal | 3 merging | 5 entrepreneurship |
| 2 red tape | 4 lucrative | 6 swallowed up |

9.4 Possible answers:

- 1 cold-calling, hard sell, inertia selling, confusion marketing, red tape, swallowed up
- 2 buildings, machinery, computers
- 3 on approval, bidding, first refusal, shop around, brand loyalty
- 4 loss leader, niche market, telesales, cold-calling, inertia selling, confusion marketing
- 5 Red tape is used to refer to bureaucracy. The metaphor is based on the red ribbon that used to be used to tie up sets of documents and it is appropriate because it relates to documents in large quantities.
Swallowed up is used to refer to a smaller company being taken over by a larger one. It is based on the idea of a larger creature eating a smaller one and is appropriate in that when something is eaten it becomes part of the bigger whole.
Come under the hammer is used to refer to something being sold at auction and it is appropriate in that a hammer is used by the auctioneer when he is announcing that he has taken the final bid. He traditionally uses the words 'going, going, gone' and then hits with his hammer to announce the sale.
Hammer out an agreement is again a metaphor based on hammering. This time the image is one of hammering out a piece of metal to make it flat and acceptable in a way that clearly has associations with getting rid of problems that may stand in the way of an agreement.

Unit 10

Unit 22

- 22.1 1 She meant that she tends to dress in an untidy, careless way.
 2 Jeans, trainers [sports shoes] and sweatshirt [informal top with long sleeves, usually made of thick cotton].
 3 Personal answer
 4 She is about to do her finals [last university exams] and so stop being a student and begin working. In the work environment clothes tend to be more important than they are for a student.
 5 They do not want pastel colours, shoulder pads or very short skirts. They also do not want to appear frumpy.
 6 She would like it to be smart, young and modern. It should be conventional enough to fit most dress codes but also with some individuality to show a potential employer that she is a person with a degree of special style and originality. It also must not be too expensive.
 7 This will depend, but in many workplaces, the dress code for men is a suit with a shirt and tie. For women it may be a dress or skirt rather than trousers.
 8 There are many ways of answering this question, of course, but the article from which the extract was taken went on to recommend a honey-coloured trouser suit in stretch fabric.

- 22.2 1 kill 3 dress down 5 snazzy
 2 smart-casual 4 designer (label); high street 6 baggy

22.3 Possible answers:

- 1 Mini scooters and dresses with uneven hemlines.
 2 Platform shoes, sarongs and pashminas.
 3 That they must be rather stupid and insecure to need to follow fashion so closely. (Note that this expression is disapproving so it would be unusual to have a positive opinion about people described in this way.)
 4 Not very interested at all.
 5 Film stars, pop stars, business people who wish to make money from selling new fashions.

- 22.4 1 I'm no good at speaking off the cuff.
 2 Although he's the head of a large company, his wife wears the trousers at home.
 3 Have you any idea what all these cloak-and-dagger meetings at work are about?
 4 Be careful what you say to Helen – she's hand in glove with the boss.
 5 I wouldn't invite them to stay if I were you – they'll take/have the shirt off your back before you know where you are.
 6 The new legislation has really put us in a straitjacket.

- 22.5
- 1 The literal meaning of frill is a piece of cloth with folds along one side which is sewn onto another piece of material for decoration. The metaphorical meaning of no frills is basic, simple, no extras.
 - 2 The literal meaning of the verb hem is to sew up the bottom edge of e.g. a dress so that it does not develop loose threads. Hemmed in means completely surrounded.
 - 3 A seam is a line of sewing joining two pieces of material so that if, say, a bag is bursting at the seams, it is almost splitting open. The metaphorical meaning of bursting at the seams is very, very full.
 - 4 Literally, to cloak is to cover with a cloak. The metaphorical meaning of cloaked is kept secret.
 - 5 Literally a feather in someone's cap is simply a feather decorating one's cap or hat. The metaphorical meaning of the expression is an achievement to be proud of.

Unit 23

23.1 Possible answers:

accommodation	What kind of person lives there?	Would you like to live there? Why/Why not?
squat	a homeless person or someone with very little money	I wouldn't like it because you never know when you might be evicted.
pied à terre	someone who is wealthy enough to have a small second home which they use occasionally	I'd love to be able to afford a flat in the capital so that I could stay there if I wanted to have a weekend shopping and going to theatres.
council housing	people who do not have enough money to buy a house of their own	It would depend on the area – some council housing is very nice and has a friendly atmosphere. Other areas are rather run-down and depressing.
granny flat	an elderly relative of the people who live in the main house	When I'm old I would like to live close to my family but with at least a degree of independence.
high-rise flat	any type of person might live in one of these, though it would probably be someone in a large city	I prefer to live in a house because it is good to have a garden.
hovel	a very poor person or someone who is not good at looking after themselves	I should hate to live somewhere dirty and in a bad condition.
penthouse	someone with a lot of money	You might have wonderful views from a penthouse flat, but I prefer to live somewhere that has a garden.

- 23.2
- 1 Feng Shui
 - 2 the rat race
 - 3 minimalism
 - 4 subsistence farming
 - 5 New Age

23.3 Author's answers:

Young, fashionable people are most likely to be attracted to minimalist décor. It would be very hard for people with children or people who like collecting souvenirs to live in such a way. I'm afraid it is not suited to my way of life because I have collected too much clutter over the years.

Post-modernism is likely to appeal to people who are quite eclectic in their tastes. It appeals to me because I think it allows you to put together all sorts of different things without having to try to be consistent in your approach.

New Age is likely to attract rather unconventional younger people, especially those who are tired of a more materialist way of life. Some aspects of it interest me, but I enjoy the comforts of a conventional life too much to be tempted by a totally New Age lifestyle.

Subsistence farming is often something that is forced on people by circumstance rather than adopted by choice. However, it is an attractive life for people who like the outdoor life and who enjoy hard physical work. I like the idea of growing all my own food, as you would know that it had not been contaminated by chemicals of different kinds. Also, home-grown food tends to be fresher and to taste better. However, it would be a difficult lifestyle to have and would not be one that I personally would choose.

23.4 1 house 2 home truths 3 write 4 story

- 23.5
- 1 We had the time of our life/lives on holiday this year.

24.2 Suggested answers:

- 1 It's always good to see Hugh but somehow he always manages to stay too long.
- 2 You wouldn't believe it but Helen and Mark are now going out together (as boyfriend and girlfriend)!
- 3 I don't really approve of the way Erica actively makes contacts with influential people, but I'm sure it'll help her to make a success of going freelance.
- 4 Don't forget your old friends when your film becomes a hit and you're mixing socially with the rich and famous.
- 5 I'm going to a birthday party this weekend. Should be fun.
- 6 We must invite Jane to our party. She adores going to parties!
- 7 Mike'll want to spend an evening going round different pubs as soon as his exams finish.
- 8 Let's spend an evening enjoying the various entertainments available in the town as the children are with their grandparents tonight.

24.3 The answers to these questions will mainly depend on your own personal circumstances. Note, however, the following points about questions 3, 4 and 7.

- 3 Note that other networks that may influence progress up the career ladder include family connections and contacts made in clubs or churches.
- 4 People who want to succeed in a political or business career are likely to need to do some networking.
- 7 If you use the word 'cliquey' you do not like the atmosphere because you feel that people are in exclusive little groups which you are not able to join.

dazzling evocative exquisite intriguing peerless usually negative associations highbrow lowbrow impenetrable undemanding pedestrian uninspiring clumsy dreary run-of-the-mill negative or positive associations transparent challenging tongue-in-cheek earnest sophisticated primitive

26.4 Possible answers:

I think soap operas are usually rather lowbrow as they are intended to appeal to a mass audience.

I find some modern sculpture rather impenetrable as I neither know what it is meant to represent nor find it beautiful in any way.

I think operas by the German composer Wagner are very sophisticated in that you need to have had some musical education in order to appreciate them.

I find paintings by the surrealist artist Salvador Dali rather challenging as they contain so many curious and unexpected images.

I recently saw a performance of the ballet Swan Lake, which I thought was rather pedestrian because it contained nothing original.

I find paintings by Toulouse-Lautrec very evocative of the Paris of a century or so ago because they make me feel as if I am there myself.

In my opinion the designs on ancient Chinese porcelain are often exquisite as they are so delicate and so carefully executed.

I found a recent work that won a prestigious art prize – an unmade, rather grubby bed – extraordinarily dreary as it made me feel miserable rather than uplifted, as I believe art should.

I believe that Turner's paintings of the sea are peerless as no other painter seems to capture the colour and light of the sea so effectively.

Most articles and books by the writer Sue Townsend are tongue-in-cheek as they do not take anything too seriously.

- 26.5 1 lowbrow 3 sophisticated 5 exquisite
2 tongue-in-cheek 4 dreary 6 challenging

2 concise information about a subject compendium
3 record of a recent examination or test of a lorry logbook
4 day-to-day record of life during a war in 1776 journal

27.6 Possible answers:

1 Some books will be forgotten soon after we have read them; others will always be great, and will last in people's memories for all time.

2 Some books can be just read in parts, some should be read completely, and some should be read carefully and thought about.

Unit 28

- 28.1
- 1 The consumer often thinks that the labels provide information, but manufacturers often use meaningless terms just to make the product appear more attractive.
 - 2 Because people feel happier with the idea that foods are natural rather than synthetic.
 - 3 It refers to egg. It is, however, rather ambiguous and manufacturers exploit this.
 - 4 Organic means that artificial fertilisers and chemicals have not been used in the food's production.
Wholemeal refers to flour that contains all the natural fibres of the grain with nothing removed through processing.
Vegetarian means without meat, i.e. suitable for eating by vegetarians.
 - 5 Genetically modified. In other words, it refers to food which has had its genes modified in some way in order to make the crop more profitable.

Vegetable burgers are burgers that are not made of meat but of vegetables (typically lentils or beans).
 - 8 It is a kind of pudding – like solid fruit juice made by adding gelatine to juice. In US English jelly means what is called jam in British English.
 - 9 There must be less than 5% fat in low-fat cheese. In reduced fat cheese there would be 25% less fat than in standard cheese.

28.2 The following should taste nicer:

- 1 strawberry flavoured yoghurt: because at least some of the flavour will have come from real strawberries
- 2 orange juice: because it contains the juice from oranges instead of artificial flavourings
- 3 raspberry jam: because it has been made using real raspberries
- 4 free-range chicken: because the chicken was able to move freely on the farm rather than being kept in a small cage (battery farming)

55.2 positive meanings:

be over the worst
 be on the mend
 be back on one's feet again get over negative meanings:

be poorly
 feel a bit under the weather come down with

Whether you consider fight off to be positive or negative depends on whether you feel that 'fighting something off' is always used in a negative situation, or whether you are succeeding in 'fighting off' your cold/flu/headache, etc., in which case you might see it as positive.

- 1 'Hello, Frank, good to see you back on your feet again.'
- 2 'Jo, I won't be in today, I've come down with a cold.'
- 3 'Oh, I'm OK. I'm over the worst now. I still feel bad, but I should be out within a week or so.' (Over the worst suggests getting better, but that you are still quite ill. On the mend [see 7 below] suggests the person is getting back to normal health.)
- 4 'Don't worry, darling. Everyone has a cold now and then. You'll get over it.'
- 5 'Don't worry. It's nothing serious. I'm just feeling a bit under the weather, that's all.'
- 6 'I'm trying to fight off the flu, but nothing seems to help. I don't think I'll be in work tomorrow.'

- 4 Quite a few students failed the exam. I was rather surprised and disappointed.

87.2

- 1 Her hair's a sort of reddish colour, and I'd say she's, well, forty, forty-fiveish.
Sort of is used here with an adjective, but it can be used with almost any type of word. The -ish suffix is used here with a descriptive adjective and a number denoting age, but it is also often used with clock times (e.g. We arrived around half-past sevenish). Well is often used to make things less direct.
- 2 The garden was a bit on the big side, but it was very pretty.
 The expression a bit on the ... side is used with adjectives to denote a quality that is not what we want or hope for (e.g. The living room was a bit on the dark side, but we bought some new lamps and it was OK).
- 3 There was a kind of elastic thing that held the two parts together, and I've lost it.
Kind of and sort of can both be used with adjectives and with almost any other word class. Putting the -y suffix on a noun or adjective to make it indirect or less precise occurs in informal conversation (e.g. It was a brownish colour. It has a kind of acidic taste).
- 4 They're good shoes. They're comfortable on long walks and that.
And that just means 'and similar things'. It is very informal. Here it is used with a noun, but people often use it with verbs too (e.g. They were singing and that at the party last night).
- 5 I've been to the doctor's and had treatments and suchlike and I'm sure it helps in one way or another.
And suchlike normally follows a plural noun, but could also be used with an uncountable one (e.g. It'll be useful for your work and suchlike).

88.1

I always try (1) to make the most of any opportunity to make new friends, such as a party or a social event. But it's not always easy (2) to break the ice, and when you don't know someone, it's so easy (3) to put your foot in it by saying something insensitive or something which unexpectedly (4) rubs someone up the wrong way. But if you (5) keep an eye on what you say, (6) play it by ear and just try to act naturally, it can (7) make all the difference and you may find you (8) stand a good chance of making a new acquaintance or even a good friend.

- 1 get the maximum benefit from a situation
- 2 create a relaxed social atmosphere
- 3 say or do something socially embarrassing
- 4 irritates someone
- 5 be watchful/careful about something

 - 6 I was all at sea.
 - 7 Helena's in a world of her own.

- 91.5
- 1 a rope attached to an animal, keeping it within a fixed piece of land
If you are at the end of your tether, you have gone as far as the rope allows you to go. Obviously this is likely to cause frustration and annoyance.
 - 2 to go into a small ball
If you curl up you look smaller, which is how we wish we looked when we have done something we feel is embarrassing or stupid.
 - 3 a small safety part in an electrical device which causes it to stop working if the electricity is too powerful
The idiom suggests a strong reaction caused by a surge of anger rather than electricity.
 - 4 a valuable stone
Diamonds are very hard and they need to be cut to give them their full beauty – a rough diamond can similarly be a person whose strong qualities are hidden behind a rough exterior.
 - 5 used to refer to a weapon that is shot through the air
The idiom suggests a violent, aggressive reaction like that of a powerful weapon against its enemy.

- 7 I often had to substitute for other teachers who were absent.
- 8 After ten years as Mayor, Damian Taylor decided it was time to stop putting his name forward for election.

Note that when you change sentences like this, the new sentences do not always have exactly the same meaning or connotation as the original sentence.

Unit 94

- 94.1
- | | |
|------------|--------------|
| 1 sort | 6 cropped |
| 2 doze | 7 stowed |
| 3 slogging | 8 stick |
| 4 lay | 9 eased |
| 5 pelting | 10 whittling |

- 94.2
- 1 information provided by a secret informer
 - 2 a sleep
 - 3 people trying to travel illegally by finding a hiding place on some means of transport
 - 4 hard work
 - 5 a number of instances appearing suddenly and at more or less the same time
 - 6 comfort (at ease = comfortable, relaxed)

- 94.3
- 1 to bottle: to enclose in a bottle. This clearly connects with the idea of bottling up feelings.
 - 2 to pelt: to throw something repeatedly in order to attack. This has a clear connection with heavy rainfall.
 - 3 to step: to stand. The image in step on it is from stepping on the accelerator to make a car go faster and so there is a connection between the basic verb and the phrasal verb.
 - 4 to stow: to put something away carefully, neatly and out of sight. It is particularly used about packing things on some means of transport where space is often at a premium.
 - 5 to crop: to provide a good crop. This unusual verb is related to the more common noun crop. So there is a connection between something growing and something appearing.
 - 6 to sort: to organise or classify. The particle out really adds very little to the basic meaning of the verb.
 - 7 to stick: to fix with glue. So the connection is one of remaining fixed in one place.
 - 8 to whittle: to cut or scrape thin slices off wood, typically with a penknife. The connection is thus one of removing slowly but steadily.

Note that sometimes the literal meaning of the basic verb helps you to understand the meaning of the phrasal verb but sometimes the connection is not close enough to give much of a clue to the phrasal verb's meaning.

- 94.4
- | | |
|--|---|
| 1 down may have the meaning of:
downward movement (pelt down)
decreasing (dumb down, play down) | 4 out may have the idea of:
completing something (sort out, stick it out)
excluding (bottle out) |
| 2 off may have the meaning of:
movement away (doze off, pull it off) | 5 up may have the idea of:
an improvement (ease up)
an upward movement (crop up) |
| 3 on may have the meaning of:
touching (step on it)
adding (lay on, catch on) | |

As you encounter new phrasal verbs, see if the prepositions or particles seem to fit these meanings. Some of them will, but some won't. Appreciating the meanings of the particles or prepositions will sometimes help, but not always.

- 94.5 1 conferenced out: have had enough of conferences
 2 rocketed off: rose at great speed
 3 tile up: cover with tiles

- 95.4 The most obvious verbs to include in Work and business are:
 slog away ease up

The most obvious verbs to include in Mood and emotions are:
 bottle out stick something out bottle something up

- 95.5 To branch out is based on the metaphor of a tree. It is appropriate because it suggests that the business is growing and spreading out as a tree does.
To be snowed under is based on the metaphor of being covered by snow. It is appropriate because it suggests being buried by work in a way that makes it difficult to escape from it.
To chill out, simmer down and bubble over are all based on the temperature of liquid and they are appropriate because they compare being cool to being relaxed, being heated to being angry (simmer down) and bubbling over to excitement. Bubble over may also have associations with a glass of champagne or some other fizzy drink bubbling over the edge of the glass. This kind of literal effervescence is also comparable to an excited mood.

Unit 96

- 96.1 1 American. British version: I lost my way at the big junction just south of the city.
 2 British. American version: Why are there always so many shopping carts left in the parking lot?
 3 British. American version: Cross the street at the crosswalk, then take a left.
 4 American. British version: You can't drive any further; you'll have to reverse, the road is very narrow.

- 5 British. American version: You'll see the gas station just after the overpass on I-34 (or Highway 26, or some other typical American road designation).

Unit 98

- 98.1
- 1 To try to make the language less stereotyped with regard to gender and also perhaps to try to alter sexist attitudes in this way.
 - 2 The expression means words that have male connotations but are referring to people in general.
 - 3 There might have been controversy perhaps because some people felt it was an unnecessary change or that it was impossible to try to impose language change artificially.
 - 4 They want to get rid of 'male' words in traditional idioms like man in the street by using such phrases as the person in the street or the average person instead. They even want to get rid of man in words like manhandle and woman where the male idea has really been lost.

- 5 It was introduced as a title which does not focus on whether a woman is married or not. It is useful if you do not know what a woman's marital status is or if a woman does not want people to know her marital status.

98.4

- 1-6 personal answers

- 7 The sentence can be altered by either using he or she: A government minister may have to neglect his or her family.
Or by making it plural: Government ministers may have to neglect their families.
It is also becoming increasingly common and acceptable for their to be used as a generic pronoun with a singular referent, e.g. A government minister may have to neglect their family. Note that some people consider this to be incorrect.
Note that some writers use the pronoun s/he instead of he or she.

99.1

- 1 chattering classes
- 2 new money
- 3 riff-raff
- 4 stuck-up
- 5 bourgeois
- 6 common
- 7 upper crust
- 8 oik

99.2

- 1 The speaker is probably an older person reminiscing – this is suggested by the use of the word wireless.
- 2 The speaker is upper class and older – the meaning of the sentence suggests this as does the use of one as a pronoun meaning we.
- 3 The speaker is probably quite old because of the use of spiffing and motor.
- 4 This is probably a young person talking to a contemporary – young people tend to abbreviate – mobile for mobile phone, uni for university.
- 5 The speaker is probably working class – the use of ‘incorrect’ grammar like we was / we ain't done nothing is a feature of some working class speech.

99.3

- 1 idiot
- 2 friend; difficult situation
- 3 very rich; die To be rolling in money is still used to mean ‘very rich’ but ‘stuff’ is a dated piece of slang. To kick the bucket is a similar idiom meaning to die which is still in use.

Unit 100

100.1 Suggested answers:

- 1 A bomb explosion in Moscow terrorises the population there.
- 2 The Prime Minister is going to announce plans for dealing with football hooligans.
- 3 A high-ranking Member of Parliament is fighting for or trying to achieve something on his own.
- 4 A strong campaign against pornography has been launched.
- 5 Violent men surround a teenage star.
- 6 The police decide to focus on dealing with violently behaved and offensive young men.

100.2

- 1c use of nudity; use of dramatic words like 'sensation' to attract attention
- 2b use of familiar name for King (shows either lack of respect or friendly familiarity); colloquial and dramatic expression 'mash-up' for battle
- 3e alliteration of Marathon Man and Drop-dead Dash; dramatic words and image
- 4a royalty and scandal – favourite topics for tabloids
- 5d colloquial expression 'It's curtains for ...' [It's the end for ...]; alliteration of curtains and Corinth

100.3

- 1g Dracula was a vampire known for drinking blood. Bad blood is also an expression used to mean bad feelings between people. There will probably be bad blood between the vicar of Whitby and the people who are making a profit from the Dracula connections of the town.
- 2e School days are often referred to as the 'happiest days of one's life'.
- 3b Shell-shocked means traumatised or in a state of great shock. It is referring to how soldiers in the trenches in World War I felt after they had been subjected to shells or bombs for a long time. Terrapins and tortoises have shells and they would certainly be shocked (in the medical sense) by falling from such a height.
- 4a Dentists make impressions of teeth and false impressions is a common collocation used to mean incorrect impressions created by a person.
- 5d This is meant to recall the phrase 'happy hunting'. Haunting, however, is what a ghost does. An apparition is a kind of ghost.
- 6h Hopping mad is a collocation meaning extremely cross. It is appropriate here as toads and frogs hop along the ground. Hopping mad is also no doubt how the police felt when they discovered they had been called out by a toad.
- 7f A loo is a toilet and toilets flush (= water passes through them). Flushed also means to have a pink colour in one's skin because one is happy. It collocates strongly with the phrase 'flushed with success', as the people who have sold the toilet for such a large sum of money are likely to be.
- 8i Highly embarrassed is a collocation meaning extremely embarrassed. It is doubly appropriate here as the man is so high up the tree that he has to be rescued by the fire brigade – certainly an embarrassing situation.
- 9c Sheepdogs round up sheep. Labradors and golden retrievers are kinds of dogs and it is suggested that they should round up the children.
