Talk to you soon!

Sincerely, Victoria

Dear Friends,

I have just returned from the Living Food Expo in Mt. Shasta where I met Mark Perlmutter, producer of the film "Raw for 30 days," and watched several pieces of his and optimal health expert and author Kevin Gianni's up-coming movie that features 12 of the foremost health, wellness and living food experts in the world.

I was impressed with the strong message of this eye-opening movie and I have faith that it will inspire the general public to live a healthier lifestyle. I feel honored to have been invited to be a guest expert.

Mark and Kevin tell me that each expert was selected because what they do works! It's the information we have all been searching for and I'm delighted to be involved.

So here's how you can benefit from all this good news--

They've convinced each expert--including myself--to reveal our tricks, tips and protocols on topics such as raw and living foods, activism, optimal health, fighting disease and much more.

Better still, to get involved is free. This expert knowledge costs nothing for those of you who are my subscribers!

Right now, the project is set for release to the general public on August 8th, but we wanted you to take a look at it first and make sure you sign up as there will be additional bonus material free to those who sign up early.

So, if it's something that you feel will help, you may join us today.
