

IMPORTANT NOTES

1. If you are viewing this document with Adobe Acrobat, please remember to click on the “Show/Hide Navigation Pane” button in the upper left portion of the toolbar or alternatively hit the F5 key. This will make navigating this rather large document MUCH easier. This button presents a hotlinked table of contents (TOC) for the complete document to make it easy to quickly locate the section you want to look at.
2. If you wish to search for a word or phrase, use the Ctrl-F key the first time and hit F3 to search for the next occurrence after the first.
3. If you would rather have a printed copy of this book than read it on a computer, then please don't call us to ask for one or buy one. We aren't in the printing business, don't sell ANYTHING and never have (including copies of this book), and don't maintain any financial or fiduciary relationships with FedEx Office or anyone else that would connect this book or our website or our activities with commercial activity of any kind. As we make plain on our website, this is a non-profit Christian ministry and NOT a business of any kind so that nothing we publish can be classified as commercial speech and subject to censorship by the government.
4. If you want to make your own attractive and durable paper copy of this book, we invite you to submit the Acrobat version of it to your nearest FedEx Office copy center via either the address at <http://weborder.FedEx Office.com> or submit it to them on CD-R media or using a USB drive. Then have FedEx Office print the electronic file on double-sided paper and comb-bind (19 hole punch) it with thick dark blue vinyl covers. The cost is about $120 and you will end up with a very attractive, useful, and durable version of the book that you and your whole family can enjoy for a long time to come! You will also have something you can reproduce and send to the IRS along with your tax return to use as prima facie evidence of your position. If you don't have a FedEx Office in your area, then we're sure you can find at least one in the country who will do this by phone using a credit card and drop the result in the mail for you overnight. The document is definitely too big to bind into a single volume, so we recommend splitting it into THREE volumes. Volume 1 will be chapters 1-3. Volume 2 will be chapters 4-5. Volume 3 will be chapters 6-8. If you are making a copy of the book for the IRS or your state tax authorities to include in your administrative record with your tax return, we recommend printing only Chapters 4 through 6, which will cost you about $40.
5. When you print the book, we recommend printing the book in modular fashion, so that each chapter is independent of the other and can be removed by itself. That way, as chapters are updated, you replace them along with the preface at the beginning without reprinting the whole book. This makes keeping up to date simpler and more cost-effective. If you would like to keep the sheer volume of pages down, most laser printer drivers allow you to print double-sided with two pages per side. This will cut the volume down to ¼ the size! This approach is useful if you intend to attach a copy of the book to an IRS filing and want to keep the size and cost down.
6. Remember that this document is updated frequently to reflect changes in and new understanding of the legal issues discussed herein. We are constantly improving and expanding it. It is always a good idea to come back to our website at <http://famguardian.org> or one of our mirror sites (shown on the opening page of our website) to obtain a recent copy (see the version number on the title page to know the date and version number) so that you can be sure you have the latest information, and this is especially true if you are involved in litigation over any of the issues discussed in the document.
7. The Revision History at the beginning of the document is a good place to find out what we changed between versions so that if there is an update, you don't have to go back and reread or reprint the whole huge document again to update yourself or your copy of the book.
8. Feedback and corrections on this document are very welcome and we recommend you send us emails with any such feedback. Complements and encouragement are even more welcome, since these are the only reward we get for the hard work we have put into this document.

WHERE TO GET COPIES OF THIS BOOK: If you like this publication, then you can manufacture your own very nice book from the electronic version downloadable from our website at <http://famguardian.org/Publications/GreatIRSHoax/GreatIRSHoax.htm>. Simply call up any FedEx Office or other publishing store and give them the web address above or take a USB drive CD-R of the Acrobat file (or email it to them or have them download it off our website) and then have them print it out on double-sided paper. Then have them comb-bind (19 hole punch) it and use thick dark- blue vinyl covers. The total cost is about $120. You will end up with an attractive, durable document to add to your reference library which will prove very useful to you over the years as you organize and defend your case with the IRS. If you don't have a FedEx Office in your area, then we're sure you can find at least one in the country who will do this by phone using a credit card and drop the result in the mail for you overnight. If the document is too big to bind into a single volume, then we recommend splitting it into four volumes. Volume 1 will be chapters 1-3. Volume 2 will be chapters 4-5. Volume 3 will be chapters 6-9. If you are making a copy of the book for the IRS or your state tax authorities to include in your administrative record with your tax return, we recommend printing only Chapters 4 through 6, which will cost you about $60. When you print the book, we recommend printing the book in modular fashion, so that each chapter is independent of the other and can be removed by itself. That way, as chapters are updated, you replace them along with the preface at the beginning without reprinting the whole book. This makes keeping up to date simpler and more cost-effective. If you are making a copy of the book for the IRS or your state tax authorities to include in your administrative record with your tax return, we recommend printing only chapters 1-6. Line numbers are included on every page of this document to make it easier to refer to when people are talking about the content of a specific item in it. That makes it useful as a litigation tool as well, since you can make it an exhibit and refer to sections within it in your pleadings. If you want to reduce the size of the finished book, the best way we have found is to tell your printer to print two pages per page, so that if you print the book on double-sided paper, you will get four pages per page, cutting the size down to only about 650 physical pages.

Finally, if you are viewing this document with Adobe Acrobat Reader, we recommend clicking on the "Show/Hide Navigation Pane" button in the upper left-hand corner of your screen (in the Acrobat toolbar) to make it MUCH easier to navigate this rather large document. This button presents a hotlinked table of contents for the document to make it easy to locate the section you want to look at.

NOTE: As a nonprofit ministry, we do not make any money from FedEx Office in making the above recommendation and have no financial relationship whatsoever with FedEx Office or anyone else in connection with this book or our website.

COPYRIGHT/SOFTWARE LICENSE AGREEMENT: Use of this document or our web site or any of the materials found on the website constitutes an implied agreement by the user to:

1. Never use or abuse the materials or services provided on this website:
  - 1.1. For an illegal purpose that violates any enacted positive law which applies within the jurisdiction where you are situated or domiciled.
  - 1.2. For an unlawful purpose.
  - 1.3. For an injurious purpose cognizable under the common law of the jurisdiction where you are situated.
2. Take full complete, exclusive, and personal responsibility for the consequences of any violations of law or injuries that might occur by virtue of using the materials or services available through this website.
3. Never register a complaint about this website or its contents to any law enforcement or government organization.
4. Never provide evidence about their experiences to law enforcement or government that might be used to prosecute or punish us.
5. Compensate the website administrator in full for legal and attorney fees and personal time associated with defending himself against any complaints registered by or evidence provided by the user to either government or law enforcement regarding this website, the materials on it, or any communications with us.
6. Substitute himself/herself as being liable for any judgments against this ministry or its agents relating to complaints filed by him/her or evidence provided by him/her to third parties or litigation initiated by him/her which result in prosecution of this ministry or its agents.
7. If any evidence or information is used from this website in a court trial, then the party to the suit calling the witness AND the witness submitting it to any court stipulates with the Ministry as a condition of the copyright license, pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 29 and the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure:
  - 7.1. To admit THE ENTIRE website into evidence (except the rebuttal letters), including but not limited to the Tax Deposition CD, the Family Guardian Website DVD, the Great IRS Hoax book, etc.. No part of the website can be admitted without the ENTIRE website also being admitted and subject to examination by the jury.
  - 7.2. That everything contained on this website is factual, truthful, actionable, and accurate IN THEIR CASE but not in the case of any other Member or officer of the Ministry.
  - 7.3. To take complete and personal and exclusive responsibility for all consequences arising out of the nature of evidence they provide as being factual or actionable.
8. Agree never to refer to anything on this website as an "investment", "tax shelter", "business", or "trade or business" as defined in the Internal Revenue Code, or anything other than religious worship. None of the donations made to this ministry are refundable, and therefore they cannot be referred to as "investments", nor are ministry offerings available to "taxpayers", who are the only proper audience for "tax shelters" to begin with.
9. If any litigation results from the materials or information offered here, users agree:
  - 9.1. To litigate ONLY in a state court WITH a jury trial under the laws of the state and not the federal government, and to allow the jury to rule on BOTH the facts AND the law. No member of the jury or the judge may be either a "taxpayer", a "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401, or be in receipt of any government benefit, to ensure that the trial is completely impartial.
  - 9.2. That if the party using the materials from this publication or the Family Guardian website for litigation is any state or federal government, then they stipulate with the accused party to answer the Tax Deposition Questions, Family Guardian Fellowship in their entirety on a signed affidavit, and to provide at least an "Admit" or "Deny" answer to each question. Any question not answered by the government or its agents shall be deemed to be "Admit". They also stipulate to admit their response to the questions into evidence in any trial involving this website or the activities of the ministry or its officers, volunteers, or members.
  - 9.3. None of the persons called as witnesses by either side at any trial involving this ministry may work for the federal or state government, receive retirement benefits from the government, receive financial benefits of any kind from the government, nor be "taxpayers", "U.S. citizens", or "U.S. residents". This will ensure that the all witnesses called will be completely objective, neutral, and unbiased.
  - 9.4. Users and readers of our materials stipulate that their duty and allegiance to abide by this agreement is superior to their employment duties and any other agency they may claim to be exercising. Judicial, sovereign, or official immunity are therefore subordinate to the terms of this agreement. Readers and users of our materials agree that any and all lawsuits in which they are participants acting by or for or as witnesses for the Plaintiff shall be deemed to be filed by them personally, regardless of the party which they claim to be representing or which is named on the Complaint. For instance if a government attorney named "John Doe" quotes or uses our licensed materials in any legal proceeding in which he or she is the Plaintiff or an agent for the Plaintiff, and files the lawsuit in the name of the "United States", this agreement stipulates that the definition of "United States" or "United States of America" shall instead mean "John Doe" and John Doe stipulates that he is acting by and on his own behalf and not on the behalf of the government of the states united by and under the Constitution of the United States of America. This will ensure that the plaintiff or prosecuting attorney does not try to claim that he had no authority to bind the U.S. government to abide by this agreement. An important implication of this provision is that if John Doe prosecutes this case on paid time for the U.S. Government, then he can and will be fired and disciplined for conducting private business on company time.

10. Users who violate this copyright license agreement, who work either directly for the government in the legal or tax profession or as contractors for these functions, and who participate as either witnesses, informants, or representatives in any litigation directed against this ministry or its volunteers or members agree to a personal liability/fine of $300,000 payable out of their private funds and which they agree NOT to accept reimbursement for from the government. Payment shall occur BEFORE any trial is heard which involves them and is against this ministry.
11. Always use the very latest version of any information and this agreement provided on this website in any litigation, and to dispose of and stipulate NOT to admit into evidence any information that is older. They agree to apply the current terms of this agreement retroactively to any behavior of theirs that might adversely affect this website or ministry, and especially in respect to any litigation they might initiate or become involved in that is against this ministry, its agents, or participants. Ministry reserves the right to modify the terms of this agreement without notice to User and User waives the right to complain about or challenge this provision.
12. Bring any false statements noted on this website or in any of our statements to our attention immediately at the time noticed and give us an opportunity to remedy it BEFORE pursuing any litigation or injunctions against us because any information provided is false. If we are physically able to correct the erroneous information, then we will do so immediately, provided that your comments are accompanied with credible, admissible evidence that the information provided is wrong. If this requirement is not heeded by the reader, then the reader agrees to:
  - 12.1. Forfeit 50% of their pay as a federal public servant for the remainder of their life, and donate it to this ministry to help those who have been hurt by your failure to correct erroneous information provided on this website. This is in satisfaction of the IRS website's Mission Statement, which says in IRM Section 1.1.1.1 that the mission of the IRS is to "Provide Americas taxpayers top quality service by helping them [correctly] understand and meet their tax responsibilities with integrity and fairness all."
  - 12.2. Pay the website administrator $10,000,000 prior to any litigation relating to false statements on this website and to not testify at all if they cannot pay the damages.
13. If readers find anything in any our publications which conflict with other information on this website or which conflicts with itself, you agree to presume that what is written is fiction and bring it to our attention immediately so that we may promptly correct the conflict. This applies even to conflicts that a reader was not aware of at the time they first read something.
14. If you as a reader work for any government or as an agent, withholding agent, or public officer in relation to any government, you agree to be bound by the following franchise protecting the materials and services available through this website:

Sovereignty Franchise and Agreement, Form #06.027

The purpose of the above license agreement is not to condone or allow unlawful behavior of any kind by this website, but instead to:

1. Protect the First Amendment rights of the author.
2. Discourage and prevent anti-whistleblowing activity on the part of public servants directed against this website.
3. Further the ends of liberty and justice for ALL, which is the sole function of this website and the object of our pledge of allegiance.
4. Help eliminate ignorance, fear, and presumption of the average American towards the legal and judicial process through education and personal empowerment.
5. Encourage you, the reader, to take complete and exclusive and personal responsibility for yourself and to prevent you from transferring that responsibility in any form to us. It would be completely hypocritical of us to on the one hand say we want to encourage personal responsibility, but then on the other hand tell people that they can transfer any part of the responsibility for themselves, their lives, or their choices to us.
6. Provide strong protections for you and your Fourth Amendment privacy and personal data by ensuring that our organization is never infiltrated by government moles who mean to do anyone harm.
7. Ensure that we are LEFT ALONE, which the Supreme Court has unequivocally ruled is a Constitutional Right:

"The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They recognized the significance of man's spiritual nature, of his feelings and of his intellect. They knew that only a part of the pain, pleasure and satisfactions of life are to be found in material things. They sought to protect Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions and their sensations. They conferred, as against the Government, the right to be let alone - the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized men."

Therefore, it cannot be said that the above license agreement has any illegal purpose whatsoever that might render it unenforceable in a court of law.

The data in this document is the collaborative experience, contributions, and research of various websites, legal books, tax documents, researchers, associates, attorneys, CPA's, etc. and does not constitute legal advice. These materials have been prepared for educational and informational purposes and are intended for "nontaxpayers" who live outside the federal zone only. If you are a "taxpayer" or you live inside the federal zone, then instead please consult <http://www.irs.gov> for educational materials.

This website and the educational materials on it were prepared for the use of the authors only by themselves. Any use of the terms "you", "your", "individuals", "people", "persons", "we recommend", "you should", "we" or "our readers", "readers", "those", "most Americans", "employers", "employees", and all similar references either on the website or in any verbal communications or correspondence with our readers is directed at the authors only and not other readers. The only exception to this rule is the Copyright/Software License Agreement below, which applies to everyone EXCEPT the author or ministry. All the authors are doing by posting these materials is sharing with others the results of their research and the play book they developed only for use by themselves. For instance, the bottom of every page of this book says: "TOP SECRET: For Treasury/IRS Internal Use ONLY (FOUO)". Then in the "Disclaimer" at the beginning of the book, we define "Treasury" as the "Family Department of the Treasury". Consequently, how those materials impact or influence others is of no concern or consequence to them, and no motive may be attributed to any statements by the authors that would appear to be directed at third parties, because such statements are actually directed at themselves only. How readers use or apply the materials appearing here is entirely their choice and we assume no responsibility for how they act, or fail to act, based on the use of these materials. This approach is no different from that of the federal government, where the term "employee" in the Internal Revenue Code is made to "appear" like it applies to everyone, but in fact it only applies mandatorily to government workers and instrumentalities pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6331\(a\).

Every possible effort has been made to ensure that the information appearing here is truthful, accurate, complete, and consistent with prevailing law. However, you should not assume or presume that we agree wholly or partially with anything not specifically written by us. The materials on this site are not legal advice or legal opinions on any specific matters. Legal advice involves applying the law to your specific and unique situation, which is your responsibility and not our responsibility. You must validate this information yourself with your own research, legal education, experience, and the advice of a competent attorney and/or tax professional, if, of course there is such a thing! Readers should not act upon this information without first getting fully educated using the materials provided here and elsewhere. They are also advised to consult professionals in this area who are NOT attorneys,

1. The Holy Bible, New King James Version

3. United States Constitution
4. Internal Revenue Code
5. Code of Federal Regulations

9. Tax Fraud Prevention Manual

Any representations that contradict the above shall be regarded as untrue by the hearer. Also, any representations that make any promises about the success of any of the methods or information documented on this website shall be regarded as unauthorized and untrue. We assume no responsibility for the statements, writings, or promotional efforts of any third parties. We also refuse to be held to a higher standard of accountability than the IRS or the government itself. The IRS claims in section 4.10.7.2.8 of its own Internal Revenue Manual that you cannot rely on its publications, which include its tax preparation forms. The courts have also said that you cannot rely on the IRS' telephone support personnel or its Internal Revenue Manual. Therefore, we will not be held to a higher standard than the IRS for our publications, which include everything on this website, or for anything we say or write. We make all the same disclaimer statements about our publications, statements, and support as the IRS, in fact, which means we can have no liability for anything we produce. Click here for our article on this subject.

*"Behold, the wicked [IRS] brings forth iniquity;
Yes, he conceives trouble and brings forth falsehood [in their publications and their phone support],
He made a pit and dug it out,
And has fallen into the ditch [this disclaimer] which he made.
His trouble shall return upon his own head,
[Psalm 7:14-16, Bible, NKJV]*

We do not sell anything connected with this website or the materials on it, nor do we condone or encourage unlawful behavior. Never have, never will. Consequently, nothing on this website may be truthfully characterized as false or injurious "commercial speech" or excluded from First Amendment free speech protections. We do not sell or promote any kind of investment or tax shelter, nor do we sell any kind of plan or arrangement under 26 U.S.C. §6700 (abusive tax shelters), which is guaranteed or likely to produce any kind of result against the IRS. As a matter of fact, the lawless, avaricious, ignorant, incompetent, and criminal misapplication of the federal tax laws by our government and the treasonous refusal of the judiciary to punish such despicable abuses virtually guarantees unpredictable and unjust results in the administration of our tax laws when the techniques described on this website are used. The definition of the term "person" used in 26 U.S.C. §6700 and found in 26 U.S.C. §6671\(b\) doesn't even apply to natural persons such as us who don't work for corporations or partnerships within the federal United States (federal zone). Furthermore, even though the government has attempted to use this statute to try to prosecute tax honesty advocates, they have done so illegally since there are no implementing regulations for this statute under the income tax "imposed" in section 1 of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A and because they have done so against persons not domiciled within their territorial jurisdiction. See the following OFFSITE LINK for details on this SCAM:

The noteworthy failure of the government to at any time rebut anything appearing in our Great IRS Hoax book or on our website since this site stood up in Nov. 2000 constitutes a legal admission of the truthfulness and accuracy of our materials.

If the government wants to assert that any of the materials on this website are in error, then they as the moving party have the burden of proof, and they must meet that burden of proof under the Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C. §556(d) and the due process clauses found in the Fifth, Sixth, and Seventh Amendments of the Constitution BEFORE we will respond to any summons, questions, or accusations. Attempts at calling our claims false or “frivolous” without specifically answering the admissions at the end of each of the memorandums of law in section 1.5 of the link below:

and rebutting any inaccuracies contained in these memorandums on notarized IRS stationary signed under penalty of perjury proves the existence of the following by the U.S. government:

1. Violation of the public trust and the fiduciary relationship between Americans and the government that is supposed to be their servant under Natural Law and the rulings of the supreme Court but has attempted through fraud to elevate itself to being a tyrant dictator.
2. Constructive fraud
3. Theft by deception
4. Violation of due process
5. Unwillingness to accept its Constitutional responsibility to respond to our Petition for Redress under the First Amendment.
6. Frivolous actions: Refusal to identify any legal basis for their lawless and unlawful actions of war against the American people they are supposed to be serving.

Unlawful. That which is contrary to, prohibited, or unauthorized by law. That which is not lawful. The acting contrary to, or in defiance of the law; disobeying or disregarding the law. Term is equivalent to “without excuse or justification.” State v. Noble, 90 N.M. 360, 563 P.2d. 1153, 1157. While necessarily not implying the element of criminality, it is broad enough to include it.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth, p. 1536]

Illegal. Against or not authorized by law.”
[Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 747]

The government likes to cite irrelevant federal case law of ignorant persons who filed the wrong IRS 1040 form as evidence of why the average American is liable for I.R.C. Subtitle A taxes, but such cites are irrelevant and void judgments when applied to the very different citizenship (“non-citizen national”) and filing status of those people using materials on this website.

Evidence we have showing personnel from the IRS and the government downloading our book further bolsters our arguments in this area. In accordance with the Internal Revenue Manual, Section 4.10.7.2.9.8, you are not authorized and it would be frivolous to cite any court case below the supreme Court as your legal authority in your rebuttal, as cites of lower courts only apply to individual taxpayers in question rather than all Americans. Furthermore, it would be hypocritical and unethical of the government to pursue prosecution or legal action against us without first corresponding with us in a SIGNED AND NOTARIZED AFFIDAVIT ON IRS STATIONARY rebutting any specific claims you take issue with and citing the legal authorities you base your assertions on. You should use our Test for Federal Tax Professionals (at <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/FalseRhetoric/Questions.htm>) and our Tax Deposition (at <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/Deposition.htm>) to provide your rebuttal.

We make no guarantees about the effectiveness of anything appearing in this book or on our website, nor do we profit in any way from the information presented. This book and our website are strictly offered as a free educational public service designed to:

1. Encourage freedom and liberty, which means promoting a much smaller and more limited national government than we have now.
2. Encourage self-government and self-reliance and completely eliminate any need for or dependence on government. This way, people won't need the government or the law profession or lawyers to be involved in their lives anymore.
3. Encourage the values that made this nation great, including patriotism, faith in God, morality, personal responsibility, and strong reliance on family.
4. Educate the reader about the federal and state statutes and regulations and about any conflicts these laws might have with God's laws.
5. Ensure that both the reader and more importantly their government, obeys all laws and does not harm or abuse its Citizens or inhabitants.

6. Encourage people to be more involved in the political process.
7. Encourage an ethical and moral government that protects our Constitutional rights.

We do not advocate violence or terrorism or threats of any kind against anyone, and especially by our government against its people. All of the remedies we advocate to the problems our society faces as documented in this book and on our website focus on public education and outreach, nonviolent confrontation, and political and legal activism.

The IRS Logo or mentions of the "Department of the Treasury" appearing throughout this document is meant as a parody and is in no way is intended to create the perception that anything in this publication conforms with official United States Treasury or IRS government policy. Pursuant to 17 U.S.C. §105, the government may not copyright its work products, so government logos may be freely used without copyright infringement. The "Department of the Treasury" referred to is instead the Family Guardian Fellowship Department of the Treasury.

Furthermore, because we:

8. Are all compelled illegally and under duress to pay income taxes by the IRS and the corrupt federal courts (and then are lied to by our government when they say we live in a free country...what a laugh!)
- I. Must declare that our income is "effectively connected with a trade or business" in the United States in accordance with 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) in order for it to be taxable, which means we are holders of public office in the United States Government.

Then it is technically not an exaggeration to say that most "taxpayers" qualify as Congressmen and Public Officials in the United States Government in receipt of excise taxable privileges. This compelled public officer of the United States Government hereby elects to exercise his official sovereign powers as a Treasury/IRS appointee. If you are going to give me a job guys, then I want to be where ALL the MONEY is so I can be a fat cat like the rest of you! Furthermore, since the federal courts hypocritically refuse to make the REAL United States government IRS/Treasury responsible for the content or accuracy of their publications (see Einhorn v. DeWitt, 618 F.2d. 347 (5th Cir. 1980); United States v. Goldstein, 342 F.Supp. 661 (E.D.N.Y. 1972); Boulez v. C.I.R., 810 F.2d. 209 (D.C. Cir. 1987); United States v. Will, 671 F.2d. 963, 967 (6th Cir. 1982)), then we elect as officers of our own Department of the Treasury to have the same degree of lack of accountability to anyone for the content of this document or any conclusions drawn from it. We used the fine print here because the audience this disclaimer is intended for in the United States Treasury/IRS are experts at writing and reading fine print. Who else but such an expert, after all, could painstakingly compile the 9,500 pages of fine print that constitute the scandalous and extortionary Internal Revenue Code?

TESTIMONIALS: WHAT PEOPLE ARE SAYING

There are a lot of very smart, passionate, and patriotic people here in America, the land of the free and the home of the brave. One of the exceeding joys of writing this book for an audience like that is that once you show people your work, if you tell them you want input, they will overwhelm you with suggestions and practically write the book for you! That has been my experience so far. All I have had to do is sit back and be a good listener and volunteer to be a scribe and a cheerleader and the rest takes care of itself! This whole book, as a matter of fact, constitutes one giant Petition for Redress of Grievances under the First Amendment to the Constitution which has been authored by all of you for the wrongs and injustices you have suffered at the hands of a corrupted government over the years. We get so many very insightful and helpful suggestions from people out there on how to improve this book and our website, which is the main reason how both got to be so comprehensive, large, complete, and good (at least that's what people tell us because we don't toot our own horn, in accordance with God's Law in Prov. 27:2)! My sincere thanks go to all of our 100,000 readers and growing for helping me in the monstrous task of writing, researching, and perfecting this book and standing up our website. You're a great bunch of people who I'm proud to serve and proud to call my friends. I'm as proud of all of you as I am of being an American. God bless you all, and God Bless America!

About This Book:

". . . I would like to say, thank you and all the researchers for your very fine and important work. Not a day goes by that I am not reading either the Great IRS Hoax or the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual. I read it, preach it and try to help others to learn the truth. I also do as said in the books, I look up, verify and I always recommend your work to anyone that will listen as being true and on point. Thank you again for all the efforts!!!"

[Ken, 12/23/2004]

"I have finally finished the IRS Hoax book. It took me about half a year to absorb all the information. I'm enraged and a little scared about the incredible evil of the people that control our government. I'm taking the appropriate steps to remove myself from slavery."

[K. Truman, 2/25/2004]

"The Great IRS Hoax book is awesome. I have read all of it at least twice this year and selected areas I have read several additional times."

[E. Haymond, 12/31/2003]

"I am fascinated by your book the 'Great IRS Hoax.' I have been reviewing the facts on income taxes via Mr. Larkin Rose's and Mr. Irwin Schiff's websites. It has been an interesting two years. Now I have come across your site via the Tax Freedom Now group site at Yahoo. And I thought Mr. Schiff's info was deep. I have downloaded your book and have begun to read it."

[D. Wolfman, 7/29/2003]

"I love your book by the way, it is very thorough. I want to make it clear that I am right here with you on your efforts."

[S. Sykes, 5/26/2003]

"Thanks again for the fine book. Kinko's did a nice job."

[J. Guaracci, 5/23/2003]

"Read your book and used your web site many times. Great work on both in all aspects."

[C. Robinson, 4/20/2003]

"For this incredibly wonderful book—I just downloaded it. I want to commend your undertaking of such a task and immensely thank you for sharing the resulting information with us all! I hope you will not hesitate to ask for help, if I can ever be of any."

[J. Spada, 4/19/2003]

"I'd like to thank you for your incredible work on your book and website. It has allowed me to graduate from kindergarten to, oh, maybe, junior high or high school in tax freedom perspective in just a few short weeks of intense study."

[J. Ferguson, 4/10/2003]

-----
"I have been reading "The Great IRS Hoax" for months. From page 1, I would say that my emotions while reading the book have run the gamut, starting with skepticism, growing into incredulity and now having matured into righteous fury at having been the unwilling slave of an evil and corrupt system. Thank you so very much for your monumental efforts in creating this priceless volume; I eagerly look forward to employing this knowledge in the battle to free myself and my family from the involuntary servitude into which we were born... Thank you again for your magnificent work, and may God bless you."

[T. Smith, 4/7/2003]

"It is very impressive that you are able to keep such a massive work updated with the 'catch me if you can' little changes and twists of logic constantly being perpetrated on the populace. You must have tremendous fortitude and an immortal commitment to this republic that give you the energy and immense wisdom required to provide such a great service to the lazy and distracted people of this country such as myself.

I wasted about eighteen months going thru the Nite and TaxGate websites. But you have provided the actual tools that give the average citizen a viable option - to fight back the tyranny and stop living in fear and confusion. I appreciate and respect your work more than I can convey."

"Downloaded the GIH book back in May of this year, and I am just now in chapter six. While I had done a great deal of research (from taxgate.com and through my attorney Dr. Ed Rivera) on my own before running across your book through the We the People web site, your book is amazing! Let me commend you on the tremendous work you have done. It is truly a wonderful compendium. ...Again, let me praise your work!"

[R. Nethers, 12/20/2002 ]

"After visiting your site for some time, I was glad to see that you had taken part in the Truth-in-Taxations hearings with Mr. Shulz. Your sharp insight and depth of research shows. I'm especially pleased that you do this from a Biblical perspective. A specific example of this is your chart on Sovereignty at Great IRS Hoax Section 4.1. These thoughts may be a springboard for my sermon tomorrow.

I'm just beginning my journey into freedom. I know there is much to learn and many struggles ahead. I pray to come through them on the right side. I hope to lead my family into a new way of life. I pray that, within the coming generation, this nation will learn the truth and be set free. If not now, it may never happen. Thanks for Sharing the truth with us. May God bless your good work."

"Unbelievable!...I am telling everyone I can about what I have learned. Keep it up."

[T. Fowler, 10/28/02]

"I was enlightened about your website and haven't been able to stop reading 'The Great IRS Hoax'. Thank you for all of your hard work and having the courage to come forward and be such a blessing to others."

[T. Kahale-Taylor, 10/18/02]

"I want to thank you for the amazingly comprehensive and extensive research compilation you accomplished in 'The Great IRS Hoax' and your respective website. Your efforts have saved me and many others years of preparatory work. Wish I had paid attention to your work sooner. As a compiler myself of sovereignty-related information and references, I understand how much work it takes and what presence of mind to hold all that information together. Thank you so much for your dedication and service to the 'freedom movement.'

I have downloaded and printed the entire document, read it, took notes, indexed and cross-referenced it along with the DOJ Criminal Investigation Manual. I have spent weeks pouring through research and documentation in preparation for what might become the 'trial of the century.' I will fight for my freedom with all the resources I can muster."

"I just want to thank you from the bottom of my heart for this remarkable piece of literature!! Until I stumbled across your book, I was almost constantly being harassed by the IRS. I followed your suggestions for expatriation and am preparing my 'Request for Refund Affidavit', using your sample letter and enclosures. You have to be the most unselfish person I have ever had the pleasure of "coming in contact with". I pray you have nothing but the best that life has to offer, your "gift" to me (and everyone I can tell about your book and website) is probably the best I have ever gotten. Again, Thank you and God Bless You, for your hard work, research and truly giving nature. You are truly an extraordinary individual!"

[T. Allen, 8/17/02]

"My eyes are a blur after reading all 2000 + pages. Now I find myself doing more and more research. We know that those in government don't have credible characters, so why wouldn't we expect the cover-up to continue? I must admit that I was a skeptic because many claims at the IRS web site "Truth About Frivolous Tax Arguments" match what was in the index. I then began to think how ironic the title is TRUTH about .... I couldn't remember the last time a govt. official told me the truth. Then I couldn't get the thought out of my head and I thought what the heck, I'll begin to read the IRS Hoax. 2000+ pages along with other readings and that great web site www.law.cornell.edu has made me a believer."

"This book is one that can't be put down. I think I fell asleep once or twice while reading last night! Thank you so much for what you have done! My eyes are getting wider with each day that goes by in my own search for the truth. You are one of many whom I owe gratitude to for sharing your knowledge."

[A. Muse, 5/15/2002]

"Your work is monumental. I would love to see it in encyclopedic form with each chapter being its own volume. It can be and is the definitive family law library for freedom in America. I printed out the 2700 + pages and have read much of it."

[C. Green, 5/7/2002]

"So far in my reading, I am enthralled with your publication. It is simply fascinating."

[B. Heneman, 4/23/2002]

"Over the years I have been subjected to some of the most ridiculous philosophies ever, and you have clarified each and every question or doubt that I may have had. How did you ever find the time to put together the most comprehensive analysis of how we have allowed our public (dis)servants to stray. The greatest compilation of facts that I have ever seen in one assembly. Congratulations!"

[D. Fleming, 2/10/2002]

"Today I took your advise and checked out the 8th chapter of your on-line book "IRS Hoax" concerning sovereignty. WOW! You're right!! I can't believe how detailed your book is. Thanks so much for making available such good info...not just in "Hoax" but your entire website. The fact that you are not charging "fees" to view the info is also greatly appreciated. I'm going to pass along the URL to my Christian friends also. God Bless your efforts!"

[Lazerwood 1/27/02]

"Words can not express my feelings about your book. After 5 years (on and off) of studying the various reasons why we should not pay income taxes, I have finally found what most should consider the 'Bible' of de-taxing of America. It will take me a long time to read the entire book and even longer to fully understand what is presented, but I will do so in the next few months. The fact you are making it available free makes everything even more accurate and believable. I have a hundred questions which I am sure I will find the answers to shortly.

I guess all I can say is thank you. THANK YOU! Take care and may God BLESS you."
[M. Wood, 1/10/2002]

"In reading your book 'The Great IRS Hoax', I'm very impressed with your extensive research and insight on this most important subject. I'm especially impressed that you are not charging anyone for this extensive information, which just proves your sincerity and seals it with your blood. You are a true patriot."
[S. Hale, 12/27/2001]

"Congratulations on an important, immensely far-reaching piece of work. The enormity of the hoax tempts us into nasty ironies like "WE WANT TO TRY TO ILLEGALLY STEAL AND EXTORT MONEY FROM YOU WITH AS LITTLE EFFORT AS POSSIBLE AND COMPEL YOU INTO VOLUNTARY COMPLIANCE," but in the long run I believe such rhetoric mars the document's dignity. The intelligent, receptive bureaucratic answer would be something like "THIS KIND OF ENFORCEMENT IS ENCOURAGED BY CUSTOMARY CONSENT TO ABBREVIATED PROCESS," which renders the speaker just as guilty, but doesn't spoil his epiphany by forcing him to confess to extortion.

Purged of all its passive-aggressive vindictiveness ("I DON'T HAVE ANY DELEGATION OF AUTHORITY ORDER PERMITTING ME TO DO THIS. I AM, INSTEAD, COMMITTING FRAUD AND EXTORTION UNDER THE COLOR OF OFFICE IN VIOLATION OF 26 U.S.C. Section 7214"), the Test is still a guillotine.

Many thanks for this significant accomplishment"
[Tupper Saussy, <http://tuppersaussy.com/HTMFILES/ROEtour.htm>, 10/4/2001]

"I thank you for your informative and well defined material. I also thank you for not having the drivel of some of the 'patriot' money scams and mis-direction which gets many in trouble. You have good, solid information."
[R. Moats, 9/6/2001]

"First, thank you for putting together such a fantastic work! And to continuing to improve/update/correct it. This is an incredible service. And I am appreciative of the gift of service you have made, a patriotic service of the magnitude of our founding fathers! We all owe you a debt of gratitude..."
[N. Stephenson, 8/10/2001]

"Today I downloaded your book off the internet and started reading it. Wow! Thank you! Best regards. Your biggest fan."
[M. Santell, 7/30/2001]

"I have just picked up my copy of your work from Kinko's. You are to be commended for your diligence, intelligence, and perseverance. This is a work I would have written if I had the time and money to do so. Keep me posted...I have been in a long dispute with the hoaxers, almost 6 years now, and we seem to be winning...when Americans are inspired to overcome fear and intimidation, then the true Republic will be birthed out of this existing slavery."
[J. Lamenzo, 7/24/2001]

"...I can see that you are a bible believer and I am glad that you are putting God in your publications."
[H. Parson, 7/9/2001]

"I want to take a moment to email you regarding your book 'The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax,' and let you know how profound an affect it has had on me. Having just discovered it a couple days ago, I have read a large portion of it already. It may indeed be the single most enlightening (and enraging) things I have ever read. I have registered with the We The People Foundation offering to volunteer my services in any way possible and would like to find out from you how else I can get involved in righting this atrocity of the government. The amount of time and effort put into your research is nothing short of incredible I'm sure and I want to thank you for helping me to understand the truth. It inspired me to write a column, using your book as a reference extensively, which I am sending out to everyone I know and any and all news outlets I can reach..."

[C. Newton, 7/5/2001]

"...I would like to praise you and your work. Specifically, your book 'The Great IRS Hoax'. I applaud you and your efforts to make the truth known. I have been aware of many aspects of this hoax, but until now I have been unable to find so much in one complete source. Kudos to you for getting the truth out!"

[S. Vogt, 6/29/2001]

"I recently obtained your manual entitled 'The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax'. It was printed and bound by FedEx Office.

I wanted to let you know it is the best work I've ever seen in terms of educational material. Hands down, I have never seen any document, journal, or book with so many well-organized chapters and information. Much thanks for the tenacity, endurance, and persistence that went into it! I will be giving these binders out to family and friends."

[S. Ellison, 5/3/2001]

"I was the person that called you today from Africa. I downloaded your book off the net regarding the IRS and the Income Tax and found it very thorough. You have done a superb job, and with all my heart I thank you for the great effort that you have expended in the cause of liberty in our land."

[G. Beauchemin, Missionary, Africa, 4/30/2001]

"Words cannot express the greatest that you deserve in your efforts in putting together this information...Please inform me how to purchase the book..."

[T. Strain, Baton Rouge, LA, 4/28/2001]

"We just discovered this and this book is AWESOME!!! THANK YOU! THANK YOU!! THANK YOU!!! May God richly bless you with abundant peace, joy, health, happiness, love, good friends, and financial success!"

[K. Hughes, 3/26/2001]

[S. Mathewson, 8/23/2003]

"Your website is absolutely fantastic - I've caused quite a stir by posting much of the tax information at my work, and it's opened up the eyes of quite a few people...I believe the "tipping point" is close at hand for governmental reform! Keep up the good fight, God Bless"

[M. Lang, 7/27/2003]

[K. Dixon, 7/7/2003]

[T. Galvin, 6/6/2003]

"I think that you have done a wonderful job in informing the public about the IRS scam. Your web page has some very pertinent information on it. I was particularly amused about the information that you put there and addressed to government/IRS agents who might think they will raid your site. That's very good. Always take the high ground."

[Richie, Texas 6/5/2003]

"I just found your site last week through the AWARE Group, and I must say that I'm VERY impressed with it."

[R. Gaumont, 5/9/2003]

"I'd like to thank you for your incredible work on your book and website. It has allowed me to graduate from kindergarten to, oh, maybe, junior high or high school in tax freedom perspective in just a few short weeks of intense study."

[J. Ferguson, 4/10/2003]

"You are to be commended for such a comprehensive web site. I almost get overwhelmed by so much to study. And I thank you for providing so much freely. You surely have obeyed the Lord Jesus when He said, "Freely ye have received, freely give." And being a "semi retired" pastor with little of this world's goods, I sure do appreciate ALL your efforts. You also encourage me that you bring so much of the Word of God to bear, since I am often criticized for being a rebellious Christian because I do not accept the "party line" about taxes, etc."

[Baxter, Missouri 4/5/2003]

"Abusive taxation in this country has made the task of inflicting other abuses onto the unwitting individual so much easier that the process has become routine and predictable and is constantly on the increase. But, to cut off the financial source of their abuse is certainly a big first step in prevention of further abuse through the democratic system. And here, I have brought up another disappointing aspect of the passive slavery in this country; how many people are even aware that the constitutional government of this country is republican and not democratic or even know or care about the difference? I hope the number is far greater than my limited experience has shown. If I ask twenty-five people about the difference, I am lucky to find even one who knows about the deception and cares enough to discuss the issue."

"The people are too busy with their eight-hour per day slavery and their own self-imposed distractions of taking the children to soccer practice or watching the television or attending sports events to even give their rights or the peril of their country a second thought. They just don't have the time. And, it's just not important anyway.

"The government-controlled education has precipitated such a complete trance-like state of cognitive dissonance that people are, it seems, simply incapable of understanding the truth no matter how well the facts are presented nor how compelling the argument.

"But I have to say, for you to have been involved in your search for such a short time, what you have accomplished is no less than remarkable. I could not have done as much in ten or fifteen years time. If you can put so much time and effort into helping this country free itself, one citizen at a time, from the domestic enemies who have acquired their power to oppress, in large part, from the illegal taxation fraud, then the least I can do is to absorb the information you have provided and make as many others aware of the process needed to achieve freedom as possible."

"... thank God for your site. I am sure you have made some 3 letter agencies unhappy with all of the truth published here."

[Paul, 2/14/2003]

"I like your website and recommend it to many people."

[J. Rizzo, 1/23/2003]

"I have finished reading EVERY shred of information on your site relating to marriage, divorce and family matters. I've also read all the jokes, listened to the songs and checked out all the links....Thanks again for making your website. It's like a University for Christians and Truth seekers! Awesome!"

[S. Grovin, 1/9/2003 ]

"Your website is a godsend! ... Thanks for all your good work."

[D. M. Leugers, 1/7/2003]

"Thanks for putting together such an incredible site. I most appreciate your efforts!!"

[Louie, 12/22/2002]

"You have a great web site. One OF THE BEST ON THE INTERNET. I BET YOU GET LOTS OF SPECIAL ATTENTION FROM THE IRS :-)"

[Mike and Carol from N.H., 11/30/2002]

"Excellent site. I have not seen so much great info in one place ever before!"

[M. Bauman, 10/26/02]

"Thank you for writing a thoughtful and thorough rebuttal to the Luckey Report. I was wondering when someone was going to do it. It is a frustrating dilemma: the coordinated confiscation of citizens money—and the "legal" system and their minions are willing accomplices. I never imagined such brazen, systemic corruption was possible in America. SOUTH America maybe, but not in the United States...Thank you for your work in this movement."

[C. Gyorgy, 10/18/2002]

"I am amazed with your site. I have never come across a more informative site on the web. I can't thank you enough for providing this information to the public. I would love to see you create a infomercial and air it at least once per day. What would it take to make that a reality? I would gladly collect donations for this and I'm certain others would do the same. Perhaps a form or note of some kind can be created and given to those making donations so they can deduct it from any taxes they are liable for. I see different people everyday in my work and I inform them of the tax issues. I always tell them about your site and 'We The People.' I just can't say enough good things about your site. Keep up the most excellent work."

[B. Rush, 10/17/2002]

"The site is incredible, and right on the money. It dis-spells myths of all kinds concerning the fallen theories of some freedom fighters. Best Blessings and regards for Family Guardian"
[L. Williams, 8/20/2002]

"I just wanted you to know that I came across your website and think it is the best thing on the Internet. Very informative and plan on sending a link to all in my address book."
[A. Marta, 8/8/2002]

"I just wanted to commend you on your very informative site. I became aware about 10 months ago. I have been discouraged by this situation for years. I was happy to see there are many like-minded people out there who are fed up with being robbed each year."

"I have already spent hours researching your site and downloading pages for future reading and printing."
[B. Rush, 7/30/2002]

"I want you to know how much I appreciate what you are doing with your website. The information and the tools are superb. What I can download in a short time must have taken you endless hours to prepare. I only hope that everyone I tell about famguardian.org actually looks at and uses the information."
[R. C. Keech, M.D." 6/30/2002]

"Thanks for the tremendous effort that you have put into the collection and running of your website. Its a shame that it takes more than just making the information available to get the word out.

Thanks to your work and data collection and the complete body of evidence that you present, I am inspired to do what I should have done a long time ago at my mother's urging, become an attorney so that I could fight for the rights of the people as guaranteed in the Constitution. For years as a teen I would argue with my mother about much of what I saw the government doing (as seen in the news and such). She suggested that if I wanted to have a significant impact on the way this country works, I needed to do it through the law and that eventually I could effect change if that was my goal. So I think I am going to become an attorney and practice "Constitutional Law" and "Civil Rights Law".

So maybe there will be at least one HONEST Lawyer working to track and watch the government."
[R. Winter, 5/14/02]

"I absolutely agree your work is second to NONE!! I would like to link your site from www.uslawbooks.com/ajs/"
[Sir Martin Davis, U.S. Lawbooks, <http://www.uslawbooks.com>, 3/25/02]

"Man, what a GREAT site! I only wish we had the same amount of research and documentation for Canada as you do for the IRS."
[C. Givens, 3/13/02]

"I have been looking at your site and .... it is GREAT! I think you should get more stuff, what have you been doing? I'm JOKING! Man, I like it. And your reference to God ..... well that is what we need more in the world and nation! GREAT job!"
[T. Bernard, 1/17/02]

"I must first start off by telling you what a wonderful website you have, it works in perfect conjunction with The Great IRS Hoax [book]. All I can say is that 'you're brilliant.' ... I've spent well over two hundred hours in the past two months researching this issue, and I've read MANY conflicting viewpoints. Your ideas and beliefs not only seem to be the strongest and best presented, they are in unison as well, and do not conflict from one page to another, as I've found in some sites and books. I also commend you for not 'selling' your information, as I'm sure you spent an amazing amount of time researching and writing."

"I have to say that your web site is the most extensive on the issue of Income Taxes that I [have] come across."
[Daniel, 11/21/2001]

"The information on your site I find to be extremely accurate, amazingly understandable, and a HUGE blessing to those of us in America that are getting educated on all the deception out there."
[M. Rothbauer, 9-20-2001]

"I really enjoy your website. You have links to unlimited resources. I am in full agreement with your arguments."

"I have wondered for so long how someone would charge another for information of this import. Your site is a God-send and I wish to let you know that I am appreciative of it. ...I believe that there is an abundant resource of persons who wish to complain when given the opportunity but a scarce amount of those willing to complain will stand! up to the bully to see what will happen. I sincerely believe that there is a great amount of 'dirty Dancing' going on within Title 26 and have found numerous loop de-loops and dead ends trying to understand it myself. I really can't believe that no one has attempted to get the whole title thrown out as Void for Vagueness. "

I've visited it before and downloaded that tome [The Great IRS Hoax book] but don't remember if I've ever contacted you directly. "I just wanted to express my appreciation of the monumental effort you have put in to share the truth. "I just found your site...I saw your hitmeter only registering 1, so I assume it is broken! Or it should be. I am one of a growing number who have stopped filing and paying, because of the dignity I must live with. Finding this out has been an adventure and will continue to be. Thank you for this great page."

"You have by far, one of the greatest web sites I have ever had the 'right' to read and study. I stumbled across it in a search for knowledge on building codes and their application...Anyhow, I began to dig into legal resources and the like and discovered that a building permit was actually a contract forced through threat and deception. With encouraging sites like yours, I am no longer afraid to skip the permit, do my research, and secure my God-given rights to use my property as I see fit. Thanks again for the encouragement and God Bless you and yours.

As soon as I get time, I'm going to conduct an in-depth study of your tax information. That is another topic of law that disturbs me. I never have been able to figure out how I can be directly taxed (unapportioned) against my constitutional rights. Thanks for being such a diligent citizen. You would no doubt been party to signing the Constitution."

It is quite common for the government and anti-tax protester websites to try to slander and discredit many of the above individuals or attack their methods in order to arrest the spread of the truth about the government's massive tax hoax. They especially like doing this because we rely on some of their research in this book. They even try to exploit the pride and arrogance of individuals to get them slandering and discrediting each other. This is called dividing and conquering. We think solidarity and appreciating the good things about our contributors is a much more beneficial attitude. We wish to clarify that we do not rely on ALL of the ideas of the above individuals or those ideas that have been proven to fail. Instead, we have examined their views, ideas, failings, and methods in their entirety and have been very selective about the materials that we use from each of these individuals. We only use those arguments which have a good legal foundation and are defensible in court. It cannot be said that we agree entirely with ANY one of the above individuals because there are imperfect and flawed ideas to be found in every living human being, including both us and every one of these individuals. The strength of this book is that we compile the "best of breed" ideas from around the globe and draw on the research and ideas of the entire country in formulating the combination of concepts, ideas, and methods documented in this book which have the likelihood of being most effective in the real world and which are most consistent with both the law, the legislative intent, and with our nation's history.

The goal of this document is to educate you about your legal rights as an American National (not a "U.S. citizen"), and to ensure that the government obeys its own laws by respecting the requirement for consent in every interaction it has with you. We hope that you will be vigilant in getting educated about the law and in defending your legal rights as they are described here, because by doing so, we will all be better off.

It is only by liberty advocates like us being better informed, organized, and coordinated than the tyrant lawyer-bureaucrats and organized extortionists at the Illegal Robbery Squad (IRS) that we will ever hope to secure our liberty and human rights under the law. The one thing the IRS fears more than anything else is for us to use the same tactic it has always used against us: spread the truth far and wide (tell everyone you know about this book and the ideas in it and give copies of the book to your friends!), band together, organize, establish rules and procedures for engagement, and fight systematically and diligently to secure our constitutionally guaranteed rights and suppress tyranny and conspiracy against those rights by our tyrannical public DISservants! If we are going to accomplish this goal collectively as an organized group, then we will need to subordinate our pride and egos and sense of ownership over the ideas presented here to a higher cause and to the call of liberty. If we pursue this cause with a profit motive, then it is doomed from the start and the IRS will win the war! They will use our pride and egos to keep us warring with each other so that the movement as a collective goes nowhere.

In fulfillment of that objective, I would like to emphasize that this document, although copyrighted, may be freely reproduced, copied, and distributed only in its entirety (not portions or quotes) to whomever you so choose without cost or obligation to you. As a matter of fact, we also encourage you to send it (or the website address where you can download it) electronically to everyone you know to "wake them up" to the truth! Make photocopies of it and send it to everyone you know! However, you are NOT allowed to charge anything for providing it to anyone beyond the (non-profit) cost of reproduction.

The sole reason we diligently wrote this document was to benefit all of "We the People" (you!), who we would like to see join and be part of this constitutional liberty revival movement that is against all income taxes, and the making of America into a liberal, depraved, socialist state, as we have seen slowly happening over the past several years.

This document is designed to be a self-replicating, polymorphic virus that will evolve over time to be more potent as it (and the truths in it) grows and spreads. Your assistance, encouragement, feedback, and well-researched suggestions for improvement will be the main reason for its increase in potency over time. The damaging component of the virus is the Truth that it carries, which injects itself into the legal process and uses the law itself to destroy the bad parts of government. The virus is spread via email and the Internet and it will hopefully infect and destroy the bad parts of the IRS and the personal (Subtitles A through C) income tax system as we know it, because they are both a fraud and a hoax on Americans that have made a travesty of liberty, justice, mercy, and our constitutional freedoms. We don't want to eliminate the entire tax system or any part of our lawful government, but only those portions that are unconstitutional and/or illegally administered.

If this document serves its purpose, then the states of this great country (but not nation) will be back in control of their destiny and the federal government will be begging them for money, like the original founding fathers wanted. Wouldn't that be great? I would definitely like to see that in California, because here we have initiatives, so that if states decide to impose income taxes and they get too high, we can pass a state-wide referendum to lower them. The feds will no longer be able to act as demagogues to turn the government into some kind of "robinhood" (take from the rich and give to the poor), which will be the ultimate destruction of our republic because of the socialism and conflict of interest that it creates. The feds will no longer be using money grants derived from extorted funds to twist the arms of states to do things like make SSNs mandatory for driver's licenses, because if they do, the states can just deduct their apportionment payments to the Feds and they will go bankrupt! There will be a renewed emphasis on family because people will no longer be able to depend on the socialist state for retirement or entitlement programs. Instead, Citizens will be put on notice that they instead will need to rely on their family, relatives, and community church like they did during the first 130 years of this country. The only thing national income taxes have done is usurp the role of the family and the church, and this is idolatry and a sin that must be righted by fighting the income tax valiantly and persistently. With the elimination of national income taxes, parents will have control of their kids back because kids will have more reasons to obey their parents since they won't be able to rely on any state benefits and have to instead ask their parents for help when they need it. A renewed emphasis of the family will once again hold everyone to a much higher moral standard and prevent the kind of moral decay we have seen since religion was kicked out of the public schools in 1962 and abortion was legalized. That will be better for everyone. If you want to know how a political system without income taxes would work, then read Atlas Shrugged, by Ayn Rand. It's a fascinating read that used to be taught in the schools, back when public schooling had high standards.

We believe many Americans have a mistaken idea about what this country stands for. Most people say America is about "FREEDOM". We beg to differ. Do you remember the pledge of allegiance to the flag we used to say in school (before they had to outlaw prayer and guns in school)?:

"I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic, for which it stands, one nation, under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all!"

Do you see the word "freedom" anywhere in that pledge? The only word close to "freedom" in the above is "liberty", and there is a very good reason for that. America is about LIBERTY, and LIBERTY is about FREEDOM WITH PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY...for oneself and one's own family, and for friends and people we love.

"Liberty Means Responsibility. That's why most men dread it."
[George Bernard Shaw]

Thomas Jefferson, the author of our Declaration of Independence, said it best himself:

"Of liberty I would say that, in the whole plenitude of its extent, it is unobstructed action according to our will. But rightful liberty is unobstructed action according to our will within limits drawn around us by the equal rights of others. I do not add 'within the limits of the law,' because law is often but the tyrant's will, and always so when it violates the right of an individual."
[Thomas Jefferson to Isaac H. Tiffany, 1819]

"That liberty [is pure] which is to go to all, and not to the few or the rich alone."
[Thomas Jefferson to Horatio Gates, 1798. ME 9:441]

Lazy and idolatrous people who don't want the responsibility part of liberty will try to make the government and everyone else into their caretaker, and that ultimately leads to socialism. This is the kind of deluded thinking that puts some bureaucrat thousands of miles away who doesn't even know their name in charge of our money (and property), and that money will be squandered on extravagances for the bureaucrat and his campaign contributors and on everything but what he is elected or appointed to do! How can someone that far away in Washington and that far removed ever hope to be accountable or responsible for anything?

The PERSONAL RESPONSIBILITY attending our liberties is based on accountability, personal relationship, morality, empathy, respect, and the Christian virtues that made this nation great. The pledge above says "liberty and justice for all". However, we can't have justice without liberty, and we can't have liberty with direct income taxes. Why? Because sooner or later, when the government or a politician wants to micromanage your life and suppress your convictions or desires by outlawing some unwanted behavior (even if there is nothing wrong with it according to your religion or moral views), they will in effect outlaw the behavior by simply imposing a new kind of income tax that punishes that behavior and controls and manipulates your life and your freedom! The motto in that case is: "Don't say no, but make the price of yes so high that people won't do it." This is the approach that Canada took toward cigarettes and smoking. Do you call that liberty? The Supreme Court warned against this evil abuse of federal power in the case of Bailey v. Drexel Furniture Co., 259 U.S. 20 (1922).

To tax human beings on their earnings from labor is to treat people's work and precious time as government-owned and controlled property and to subject people to constant anxiety about trying to avoid things that are taxed and do things that aren't, and the more complex the tax codes get, the more the worry will be. Is that liberty, or is it simply slavery and "social engineering" and "institutionalized plunder" by the government disguised as liberty? Taxing human beings for selling or exchanging their valuable time for money (an equal exchange of value, I might add) treats them essentially as slaves of the government and assumes that their labor, which is property according to the Supreme Court, has NO VALUE whatsoever and that all the money they receive for this exchange is "profit" within the meaning of the law. But we need to remember that government in America exists to serve the people, and not the other way around. People were around a long time before civilization or government ever appeared. And God was there before people appeared! That's the natural order of things that we seem to have lost sight of. Once again, Thomas Jefferson confirmed the natural order of things, when he said the following about liberty:

"Can the liberties of a nation be thought secure when we have removed their only firm basis, a conviction in the minds of the people that these liberties are of the gift of God? That they are not to be violated but with His wrath?"

[Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XVIII, 1782. ME 2:227]

"Peace, prosperity, liberty and morals have an intimate connection."

[Thomas Jefferson to George Logan, 1813. ME 13:384]

"A free people [claim] their rights as derived from the laws of nature, and not as the gift of their chief magistrate."

[Thomas Jefferson: Rights of British America, 1774. ME 1:209, Papers 1:134]

The Bible also confirms Jefferson's views in the following scripture:

"Now the Lord is the Spirit; and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty."

[2 Cor. 3:17]

The very quote above is the central reason why the founders put the two phrases "In God We Trust" and "Liberty" together on all of our money! We would argue the inverse is true as well:

"Where the spirit of the lord ISN'T, there will seldom if ever be found liberty."

President Abraham Lincoln also had some very inspiring things to say about liberty on Sept. 11, 1858 in a speech at Edwardsville, Illinois:

"What constitutes the bulwark of our own liberty and independence? It is not our frowning battlements, our bristling sea coasts, our army and our navy. These are not our reliance against tyranny. All of those may be turned against us without making us weaker for the struggle.

Our reliance is in the love of liberty which God has planted in us. Our defense is in the spirit which prized liberty as the heritage of all men, in all lands everywhere.

Destroy this spirit and you have planted the seeds of despotism at your own doors. Familiarize yourselves with the chains of bondage and you prepare your own limbs to wear them.

Accustomed to trample on the rights of others, you have lost the genius of your own independence and become the fit subjects of the first cunning tyrant who rises among you."

[Abraham Lincoln]

Without God involved in our daily lives, there will never be a any freedom or liberty, but only tyranny, socialism, sin, and corruption masquerading as a counterfeit liberty, like the counterfeit money we carry around from the private banking system known as the (non)Federal Reserve. As a matter of fact, in Latin/Spanish, the word "sin" means "without". We would argue that the thing that people are without when they sin is God. As our fellow atheistic and idolatrous citizens misuse the machinery of government to systematically purge God (and the conviction and guilt they feel for their sin through the Holy Spirit) from our schools, our public icons, and our government, they are creating an environment ripe for corruption and oppression of their rights, freedoms, and liberties by their own government in the name of "tolerance" and "inclusiveness" or "human rights". Lets be truthful by calling this kind of advocacy what it really is: A license to sin by the government free of legal consequence; or turning the ability to sin into a taxable privilege guaranteed and protected by the law. People involved in this kind of advocacy are slaves of their own sin, and they are so deluded in their thinking that they think they are helping society by advocating sin. The decision or the ability to sin should never be made into a right that is protected or endorsed by our government, and thousands of years of human history have shown that any civilization that uses the law to protect sin or sinners is doomed to destruction, like what happened to the Romans and what is happening to the United States right now. The Apostle Paul said so in Galatians 5:13-18:

For you, brethren, have been called to liberty; only do not use liberty as an opportunity for the flesh, but through love serve one another.

[COMMENTARY: Who does the Internal Revenue SERVICE serve?...themselves, of course, using tax dollars illegally extorted from individuals]

For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this: "You shall love your neighbor as yourself."

[COMMENTARY: Is decriminalizing sin or making it into a right an act of love?...NO!..that just spreads misery and injustice. Is the kind of arrogant disinformation, irresponsibility, and complete avoidance of talking about the law on the part of most IRS agents what you would call "love"?)

But if you bite and devour one another, beware lest you be consumed by one another!

[INTERPRETATION: Civilization will be destroyed by pursuits of the flesh]

I say then: Walk in the Spirit, and you shall not fulfill the lusts of the flesh.

For the flesh lusts against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh; and these are contrary to one another, so that you do not do the things that you wish.

[INTERPRETATION: Don't use government to advocate or legalize sin, and don't do the things you want, do what is good for your brother instead!]

18 But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the law.

[INTERPRETATION: If you follow the bible, then no government can or should pass a law against anything you do. The government can only regulate and control sinners, not believers. Law is there to protect believers from the sinful acts of others.]

Recall that this country has had two wars:

1. The revolutionary war was fought to free us from excessive taxation by the British.
2. The Civil War was fought to eliminate slavery (and to promote state's rights).

Now we have both types of insidious oppression SIMULTANEOUSLY: 1. Slavery to the IRS far more widespread than black people in the south ever experienced (we call it "The New White Slavery"); and...2. Tax rates that are many times higher than they were when we fought the War of Independence (some historians estimate that tax rates were only 3% when we went to war with the British). Here's the way one of our readers put it:

"The civil war was about states rights. The way the USA government is today I tend to think that the wrong side won that war!"

We couldn't agree more. Also note that every year, tax freedom day keeps getting later (Tax Freedom day is the day at which people stop working for the government and start taking home 100% of their pay). Do you see anyone protesting like they did during both previous wars that involved the same issues? No! Because they are too distracted and mesmerized and obsessed by fear of the IRS, the ignorance that our abysmal public education system created in them, TV, sports, materialism, the Internet, pornography, patching up their disintegrating families, and paying off the big credit card bills at usurious rates accumulated in the process of buying things they didn't need! They have become "slaves to their own passions, their own sins, and to the government." They have made themselves into slaves by signing away their rights in the process of procuring government "privileges" and benefits like Socialist Security and Medicare. This has made them easy prey to be led like lemmings off the cliff by our power- and money hungry- politicians, who are so well organized and such slick weasel-wording lawyers that we don't even realize what they are doing to destroy our country and the foundation of our liberties and property rights. Jesus said it all:

"Most assuredly, I say to you, whoever commits sin is a slave of sin."

[John 8:34, Bible, NKJV]

Those who aren't vigilant or who are lazy or irresponsible won't have liberty because:

"The price of liberty is eternal vigilance!"

"Freedom is NOT a spectator sport."

[Family Guardian Fellowship]

Irresponsibility and laziness are just as much a sin as adultery or murder, and this sin expresses itself in the political realm as advocacy of the abuse of the machinery of government to compel our brother into becoming our involuntary caretaker and provider: our slave. But this simply doesn't work because:

"You cannot strengthen the weak by weakening the strong. You cannot help small men by tearing down big men. You cannot help the poor by destroying the rich. You cannot lift the wage earner by tearing down the wage payer. You cannot keep out of trouble by spending more than your income. You cannot help men permanently by doing for them what they could and should do themselves."
[Abraham Lincoln]

"Government big enough to supply everything you need is big enough to take everything you have. The course of history shows that as a government grows, liberty decreases."
[Thomas Jefferson]

We can't be lazy and irresponsible and then demand government benefits to subsidize our idleness without ultimately contributing to evil and the growth in the size and jurisdiction of the government. Since governments don't produce anything, the government then has to steal the money it needs to pay us from our brother. In effect, we have to abuse our democratic voting rights to get people elected into the government who are willing to abuse their power to extort money from our fellow working citizens and in doing so, our brother has to give up his property rights, labor, and ultimately his happiness to subsidize the evil of our idleness and irresponsibility. This causes chaos, civil unrest, conflict, and depresses the economy because the government then is abusing the tax system to punish those who work to subsidize those who don't. This kind of injustice leads to civil wars eventually if the number of parasite looters gets too large relative to the number of producers.

"Democracy ... while it lasts is more bloody than either [aristocracy or monarchy]. Remember, democracy never lasts long. It soon wastes, exhausts, and murders itself. There is never a democracy that did not commit suicide."
[John Adams, 1815]

But when the rights of one man are compromised in subsidizing this evil and failure, then the rights of ALL men are compromised because the Declaration of Independence says we all have EQUAL rights. Remember that the only thing that governments can ethically pass laws against is sin and the more laws we have, the less freedom and liberty we have. These laws against sinful behaviors (murder, theft, fraud, violation of contract, etc.) then become the government's means of controlling us and making us slaves, whether it be by putting us in jail, fining us, taxing us, or putting us on work furlough. Those who want to abuse the machinery of government to compensate for their own laziness by forcing their richer brother to be their caretaker should remember the following right from the mouth of our founding father Thomas Jefferson:

"Force [is] the vital principle and immediate parent of despotism."
[Thomas Jefferson: 1st Inaugural, 1801. ME 3:321]

"The compulsions of the law seem to have been provided for those only who require compulsions."
[Thomas Jefferson to Albemarle County Commissioners, 1780. Papers 15:590]

"The sheep are happier of themselves than under the care of the wolves."
[Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XI, 1782. ME 2:129]

"How soon the labor of men would make a paradise of the whole earth, were it not for misgovernment, and a diversion of all his energies from their proper object -- the happiness of man -- to the selfish interest of kings, nobles, and priests."
[Thomas Jefferson to Ellen W. Coolidge, 1825. ME 18:341]

"The Giver of life gave it for happiness and not for wretchedness."
[Thomas Jefferson to James Monroe, 1782. ME 4:196, Papers 6:186]

"In every government on earth is some trace of human weakness, some germ of corruption and degeneracy, which cunning will discover, and wickedness insensibly open, cultivate and improve."
[Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XIV, 1782. ME 2:207]

The last quote above describes the Federal Reserve, the Social Security System, Medicare, welfare, and every other government entitlement scam: a misguided attempt to exploit human weakness and insecurity to spread socialism, financial slavery, communism, and totalitarianism. Charity is a legitimate function, but ONLY within the confines of the church and the family. The government has no business addressing these issues because they can never enforce the kind of personal responsibility and accountability that churches and families can and should on their own members. We should always remember that compelled charity is really just slavery disguised as benevolence.

Why do we tolerate this kind of insidious evil from our own government? Do we value the false security of a bloated and tyrannical government that loots the people and plays Robinhood more than we value faith in God, freedom, liberty, personal responsibility, and justice? Shame on us! If people took one tenth the time they spent on television and sports and instead reserved it for reading the Bible, the U.S. Constitution, the law, and responsibly doing their civic duties, like voting and jury duty and the militia, then we wouldn't even have an income tax because an informed and engaged electorate wouldn't have let things get this bad. Because of our passiveness, we have allowed television to corrupt our culture and teach us and our children how to be vain and selfish:

"I will set nothing wicked before my eyes [sex, violence, vanity on TV]; I hate the work of those who fall away; it shall not cling to me. A perverse heart shall depart from me; I will not know wickedness."
[Psalm 101:3-4, Bible, NKJV]

"Turn away my eyes from looking at worthless things [TV], and revive me in Your way. Establish Your word in Your servant, who is devoted to fearing You."
[Psalm 119:37-38, Bible, NKJV]

Please remember that you are not fighting for your individual rights, but for the collective rights of ALL American Nationals who have income from within the United States of America, (and not the "United States") and who have been deceived by the IRS and ignorant employers and financial institutions everywhere into thinking that they are obligated to pay taxes on their domestic income. Let's stick together and end this tyranny together, because:

"Power concedes nothing without a demand. It never did, and it never will. Find out just what the people will submit to and you have found out the exact amount of injustice and wrong which will be imposed upon them; and these will continue until they have resisted with either words or blows, or by both. The limits of tyrants are prescribed by the endurance of those whom they suppress."
[Frederick Douglas]

As a person who still serves in the U.S. Military and has for the past 26 years, when I first joined the U.S. Navy, I took an oath as follows:

"I swear that I will support and defend the constitution against all enemies, foreign and domestic, so help me God!"

This document is an attempt to do precisely that. In this case, the enemy is foreign (for Americans who retain their correct citizenship as a "national" rather than a "U.S. citizen") and it is the IRS! We have met the enemy, and it is our own ignorance of the law and our collective failure to vociferously demand justice from our deceitful public servants. This book is not a war against the government, but against ignorance. How ironic it is that people like me who want to honor their country with military service and such an oath to defeat tyranny and treason all over the world against their government get no respect and nothing but tyrannical abuse from their very own government in their dealings with the IRS. Instead, members of our own military are targets of persecution by the IRS and the selfsame government whom they swore to protect and defend!

For those of you who work for the IRS, the legal profession, the accounting profession, the tax preparation profession, or the government and who think this book, rather than the IRS, is a "Great Hoax", we CHALLENGE YOU to find EVEN ONE inaccurate fact, claim, or statement in this very thoroughly researched document, and if you can't, then you are encouraged to join a tax freedom organization like the rest of us and "come clean" as we talk about in section 2.8 of our Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual. We also challenge you, as did Joe Banister, an Ex IRS Criminal Investigator (<http://freedomabovefortune.com>) who was fired for doing so, to bring the concerns raised in this book to your IRS or Treasury supervisor and ask him to refute them. We predict that if you do, you will be promptly fired rather than treated respectfully by your supervisor, and that none of your questions will ever be answered before you are fired. This is part of the IRS and government cover-up we thoroughly document in Chapter 6 of this book. That act of whistleblower retaliation alone ought to be proof enough of the fraud described in this document foisted upon us by our own dishonest and dishonorable government. We haven't yet heard a peep out of even one of you to date, as we predicted would happen in section 7.4.2 under "Plausible Deniability". Silence is acquiescence in the legal field, so we therefore wish to thank you kindly for your confirmation of the accuracy of this document after more than 100,000 people have downloaded it and counting. We have recorded several web hits on the download page for this book both by the IRS and the Treasury and have not heard anything from our government readers that would question or discredit the contents of this book.

We invite our readers to visit our website to download an updated version (higher version number) of this document. It is frequently updated and revised with the latest-breaking information so that it is as accurate, timely, authoritative, and useful as we can make it. The website also addresses many other subjects of great interest to the general populace, including social problems and family and spiritual issues. We encourage you to investigate the other subjects and articles we have on the website as well, and especially a document on the site that relates very closely to this one called Family Constitution. Family Constitution is meant to help everyone build and strengthen their families and it is the foundation upon which this document was developed and patterned after. It shows you how to get the government out of your life, your marriage, your children's school, and your pocketbook. The web address of our website is:

We can easily summarize the content of this entire lengthy book for you with three simple words, and those three words are:

ALWAYS QUESTION AUTHORITY!!

Authority includes contractors, bosses, lawyers, law enforcement, the courts, sales people, accountants, and ESPECIALLY the IRS, government officials, politicians, and the laws they write! This is also equivalent to saying the following in the legal arena:

ALWAYS CHALLENGE JURISDICTION!!

Thomas Jefferson endorsed the above, when he said:

"Never trust your government. The price of freedom is eternal vigilance. A revolution is needed every twenty years just to keep the government honest."
[Thomas Jefferson (1743-1826)]

GOOD LUCK, and GOD BLESS AMERICA!

CONVENTIONS USED CONSISTENTLY THROUGHOUT THIS BOOK

CONVENTIONS:

1. Key to Capitalization Conventions within Laws. Whenever you are reading a particular law, including the U.S. Constitution, or a statute, the Sovereign referenced in that law, who is usually the author of the law, is referenced in the law with the first letter of its name capitalized. For instance, in the U.S. Constitution the phrase “We the People”, “State”, and “Citizen” are all capitalized, because these were the sovereign entities who were writing the document residing in the States. This document formed the federal government and gave it its authority. Subsequently, the federal government wrote statutes to implement the intent of the Constitution, and it became the Sovereign, but only in the context of those territories and lands ceded to it by the union states. When that federal government then refers in statutes to federal “States”, for instance in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(10) or 4 U.S.C. §110(d), then these federal “States” are Sovereigns because they are part of the territory controlled by the Sovereign who wrote the statute, so they are capitalized. Foreign states referenced in the federal statutes then must be in lower case. The sovereign 50 union states, for example, must be in lower case in federal statutes because of this convention because they are foreign states. Capitalization is therefore always relative to who is writing the document, which is usually the Sovereign and is therefore capitalized. The exact same convention is used in the Bible, where all appellations of God are capitalized because they are sovereigns: “Jesus”, “God”, “Him”, “His”, “Father”. These words aren’t capitalized because they are proper names, but because the entity described is a sovereign or an agent or part of the sovereign. The only exception to this capitalization rule is in state revenue laws, where the state legislators use the same capitalization as the Internal Revenue Code for “State” in referring to federal enclaves within their territory because they want to scam money out of you. In state revenue laws, for instance in the California Revenue and Taxation Code (R&TC) sections 17018 and 6017, “State” means a federal State within the boundaries of California and described as part of the Buck Act of 1940 found in 4 U.S.C. §§105-113. See the following URL to see what we mean: <http://www.leginfo.ca.gov/cgi-bin/displaycode?section=rtc&group=17001-18000&file=17001-17039.1>
2. Terms in Quotation Marks: Whenever a term appears in quotation marks, we are using the statutory or regulatory definition of the term instead of the layman’s or dictionary definition. We do this to clarify which definition we mean and to avoid creating the kind of confusion with definitions that our government and the unethical lawyers who work in it are famous for. For instance, when we use say “employee”, we mean the statutory definition of that term found in 26 U.S.C. §3401(c) and 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) rather than the common definition everyone uses, which means anyone who receives compensation for their labor. “Employees” are much more narrowly defined in the Internal Revenue Code to mean elected or appointed officers of the U.S. government only. We also put terms in quotation marks if they are new or we just introduced the term, to emphasize that we are trying to explain what the word means.
3. Quotes from Clauses in the Constitution: Whenever we quote clauses from the U.S. Constitution, we use the notation “A:S:C”, for example 1:9:4:, where:
  - 3.1. A= The Article Number. In this case “1” is being referred to above.
  - 3.2. S=Section Number. In this case “9” is being referred to above.
  - 3.3. C=Clause Number. In This case “4” is being referred to above.
 For example, “1:9:4” appearing in the book would mean Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 of the U.S. Constitution.
4. Quotes from Thomas Jefferson: Most of the quotes from Thomas Jefferson appearing throughout the document were derived from the web page at <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/PoliticsLiberty/ThomasJefferson/jeffcont.htm>. The notation used after each quote in the book is explained there, as well as the source of the quote.

DEFINITIONS:

- America — means a nation of sovereign states, united under the constitution established by ‘We the People’, where all sovereignty rests with the people and all government agents are the servants (civil servants) of the people.
- Citizen — means an American of one of the preamble states of the Union of America, possessor of unalienable rights, granted by the creator and secured by law.

citizen of the United States — defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401. In the context of federal statutes: Means a person born or naturalized in the federal United States (federal zone) and a subject citizen of Congress. Typically, the U.S. government allows “nationals” or “state nationals”, who are persons born outside the federal zone and inside the 50 states to declare that they are “U.S. citizens” so that they can volunteer to become completely subject to the jurisdiction of the federal courts and become the proper subjects of the Internal Revenue Code, but technically, they are not “U.S. citizens” in the context of federal statutes as legally defined. “U.S. citizens” are possessors of statutory ‘civil’ rights and privileges granted by Congress and stipulated by statute, code or regulation, found mostly in 48 U.S.C. §1421b. In the context of the Constitution and the rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court: A “national of the United States” born in any one of the states of the Union and not on federal territory and defined under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(b) .

employee- as defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401\(c\) and 26 C.F.R. § 31.3401(c), an elected or appointed official of the U.S. government only.

federal zone- means in its territorial sense, all places and waters, continental or insular, subject to the sovereign jurisdiction of the United States under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Constitution of the United States of America. This area is also commonly but mistakenly called the “United States”. A more correct way to refer to this area is the “federal United States” to avoid confusion over terms.

gross income — means “income” that fits the description of “gross income” defined in 26 U.S.C. §61 and which derives from taxable sources clearly identified in 26 U.S.C. §861 and 26 U.S.C. §862 and the implementing regulation found in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f). Most natural persons do not make any kind of income that fits the description of “gross income” as defined here. Before a revenue source can be considered “gross income”, it must FIRST be “income” as Constitutionally defined,<sup>1</sup> which means, according to the U.S. Supreme Court, that it must be “corporate profit” connected with foreign or interstate commerce. 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f) agrees with this by showing that only “income” from Foreign Sales Corporations (FSC’s) and Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISC’s) is considered “gross income” from sources “within” the federal United States. This is consistent with two other important Constitutional constraints on federal taxing power: 1. Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3, which limits the power to tax in 1:8:1 to foreign and interstate commerce; 2. Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 and Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the Constitution, which require the apportionment of direct taxes to the states. Because Title 26, the Internal Revenue Code, is not yet enacted into positive law, it stands as only “prima facie evidence” of law. The REAL and ONLY law in regards to federal taxation is found mainly in the Statutes At Large and the Constitution. If you examine the history of the definition of “gross income”, you will find that it was first defined and used in the Revenue Act of 1918, and that the salaries of elected and appointed officers of the United States government in receipt of federal salary were the only natural persons who received “gross income”. For such a case, this is a result of a voluntary and implied employment agreement between the United States government and its officers and appointees. Over the years since then, the definition of “gross income” and the tax laws have been obfuscated to fool the average American into thinking that his pay is “gross income”, when in fact it actually isn’t. See sections 5.6.5, 5.6.6, and 5.6.13 for further details.

includes- as defined in Treasury Decision 3980, Vol. 29, January-December, 1927, pgs. 64 and 65 means the following:

“(1) To comprise, comprehend, or embrace...(2) To enclose within; contain; confine...But granting that the word ‘including’ is a term of enlargement, it is clear that it only performs that office by introducing the specific elements constituting the enlargement. It thus, and thus only, enlarges the otherwise more limited, preceding general language...The word ‘including’ is obviously used in the sense of its synonyms, comprising, comprehending, embracing.”

income — the term “income” means profit and gain severed from capital. As ruled by the U.S. Supreme Court in the Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920), “income” cannot be defined by legislation or by the Internal Revenue Code. It is instead defined by the U.S. Constitution to mean corporate profit derived from a corporation involved in foreign or interstate commerce. Natural or biological persons cannot earn “income” as defined by the constitution, but they can volunteer to call the money they earn from wages “income” if they want to pay the voluntary tax called the income tax.

law — that which is laid down, ordained, or established. A rule or method according to which phenomenon or actions co-exist or follow each other. Law, in its generic sense, is a body of rules of action or conduct prescribed by the sovereign within a jurisdiction, and having binding legal force. United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. v. Guenther, 281 U.S. 34, 50 S.Ct. 165, 74 L.Ed. 683. That which must be obeyed and followed by citizens subject to sanctions or legal consequences is a law. Law is a solemn expression of the will of the supreme power, which is the ultimate “sovereign”, of the State. Calif.Civil Code, §22. The “law” of a state is to be found in its statutory and constitutional enactments, as interpreted by its courts, and, in absence of statute law, in rulings of its courts. Dauer's Estate v. Zabel, 9 Mich.App. 176, 156 N.W.2d. 34, 37.

In the United States of America, the People, both collectively and individually are the “sovereigns”, according to the Supreme Court:

- Chisholm, Ex'r. v. Georgia, 2 Dall. (U.S.) 419, 1 L.ed. 454, 457, 471, 472) (1794): "From the differences existing between feudal sovereignties and Government founded on compacts, it necessarily follows that their respective prerogatives must differ. Sovereignty is the right to govern; a nation or State-sovereign is the person or persons in whom that resides. In Europe the sovereignty is generally ascribed to the Prince; here it rests with the people; there, the sovereign actually administers the Government; here, never in a single instance; our Governors are the agents of the people, and at most stand in the same relation to their sovereign, in which regents in Europe stand to their sovereigns. Their Princes have personal powers, dignities, and pre-eminences, our rulers have none but official; nor do they partake in the sovereignty otherwise, or in any other capacity, than as private citizens."
- Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884): “There is no such thing as a power of inherent sovereignty in the government of the United States...In this country sovereignty resides in the people, and Congress can exercise no power which they have not, by their Constitution entrusted [delegated] to it. All else is withheld.”
- Perry v. U.S., 294 U.S. 330 (1935): “In the United States, sovereignty resides in the people...the Congress cannot invoke sovereign power of the People to override their will as thus declared.”
- Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886): “Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law...While sovereign powers are delegated to...the government, sovereignty itself remains with the people.”

Therefore, the People are the authors of the law as the “sovereign” or supreme power of the state. The law constitutes essentially a binding written legal agreement or contract among the sovereigns to conduct their affairs according to some standard of conduct. The sovereign is never the proper subject or object of most laws, unless he violates the contract and thereby injures the equal rights of other fellow sovereigns. Instead, the servants of the sovereign People working in government are the main object and subject of most civil laws, and laws are enacted mainly with the purpose to delegate and confine the authority of public servants so that they do not injure or undermine the rights of the true sovereigns, the People. Furthermore, only statutes which have been enacted into “positive law” are considered binding upon all persons within the jurisdiction of the law. The legislative notes under 1 U.S.C. §204 indicate that the Internal Revenue Code is not “positive law”, and therefore it can only be described as “special law” or “private international law” (contractual law) applying to specific persons. I.R.C. Subtitle A, in fact, is limited mainly to those engaged in a “trade or business” and who work for the U.S. government as Trustees. The Internal Revenue Code cannot be described either as “law” or “positive law” unless and until:

1. The IRC is first enacted into “positive law” by a majority of the representatives of the sovereign People. This provides evidence that they voluntarily consented to enforcement actions required to implement the law. Without such consent, no enforcement actions may be attempted, because according to the Declaration of Independence, all just powers of government derive from the consent of the governed.
2. Regulations must be written by the Treasury for the enforcement provisions of the enacted positive law, and these regulations must be published in the Federal Register. This puts the public on notice of the enforcement actions that will be attempted against them in enforcing the law, as required by the Fifth Amendment due process clauses.
3. The enforcement regulations are then incorporated into the Code of Federal Regulations, Title 26.
4. Delegation of authority orders are written for all the enforcement agents within the Internal Revenue Service authorizing them to conduct enforcement actions.
5. The enforcement agents must be designated as enforcement agents by receiving a black enforcement Pocket Commission and being specially trained and commissioned as “public trust” employees.

Unless and until all of the above have occurred, the Internal Revenue Code, according to 1 U.S.C. §204 can not be described as “law” and can only be described as “prima facie evidence of law”, which is simply “presumptive” evidence of law. That means that it may be rebutted. Since “presumption” causes prejudice and prejudice is anathema to any legal proceeding and violates due process of law, then the Internal Revenue Code is not admissible as evidence of “law”, which means that it does not furnish any evidence that the people ever consented to its enforcement against them. Consequently, it is unenforceable. Until it becomes “positive law”, it can only be described as a “code”, or a “statute”, but not as “law”.

national — means a person born or naturalized outside the federal United States (federal zone) but inside the country United States and who is subject to the political but not legislative jurisdiction of the federal government at the time of birth as the Fourteenth Amendment (illegally ratified) requires. Synonymous with “American Citizen”, “American National”, “Natural Born Citizen”, or “nonresident alien”. Typically, the U.S. government allows and even encourages “nationals” to incorrectly declare that they are statutory “U.S. citizens” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401 so that they can volunteer to become completely subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the federal courts and become the proper subjects of the Internal Revenue Code, but technically, they are not statutory “U.S. citizens” as legally defined. 8 U.S.C. §1452, and 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(21\) define who are “nationals”. The following code section from 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(21\) defines the type of “national” that most Americans born in the 50 union states outside of the federal zone qualify as. It is highlighted to bring attention to it:

Sec. 1101. - Definitions

(a) As used in this chapter -

(21) The term “national” means a person owing permanent allegiance to a state.

Note that the “United States” term as used in the above section refers to the federal United States, also called the “federal zone”. 8 U.S.C. §1401 indicates that all “citizens and nationals of the United States” are also “nationals of the United States”. 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(22\) indicates that not all “nationals” are also statutory “U.S. citizens”. Throughout this book, when we use the term “national”, we mean a “citizen, but not a national, of the United States” as described in 8 U.S.C. §1452 and in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21).

pseudotaxes — a term identifying revenues to the U.S. government derived from I.R.C., Subtitles A and C and collected from nonresident aliens who are not in fact and indeed: 1. Engaged in the excise taxable activity called a “trade or business”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office”; 2. Have no income from the District of Columbia; 3. Do not have a domicile in the District of Columbia. For everyone meeting this criteria, the revenues collected under the authority of I.R.C., Subtitles A and C are not “taxes” as legally defined, but an unconstitutional abuse of federal taxing power. Public servants in the government love to call such revenues “taxes” in order to deceive the people and lend undeserved dignity to the THEFT that enforcing such a system against improper parties amounts to. This is covered in section 5.1.2 later in this book.

resident — under the Internal Revenue Code, an “alien” who is domiciled within either the District of Columbia or the territories of the United States. This “individual” has a “res” that is “identified” within federal jurisdiction, which is limited under the Internal Revenue Code to the District of Columbia and territories or possessions of the United States identified in Title 48 of the U.S. Code. Federal territories are generally identified with the term “State” in the U.S. Code, while states of the Union are identified with a lower case “state” in the U.S. Code and are treated as “foreign states”. “Residents” live exclusively in federal “States” but not in “states” of the Union and therefore are not protected by the Bill of Rights within the Constitution as per Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901). Pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.1441(c)(3)(i), an alien can be neither a “citizen” nor a “national” of the United States. The terms “alien”, “resident”, and “resident alien” are all synonymous in the Internal Revenue Code, as confirmed by 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3). “citizens of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 cannot legally be classified as “residents” under the Internal Revenue Code and are not authorized by the code to “elect” to be treated as one either. The reason is because the purpose of law is to protect, and a person cannot elect to lose their constitutional rights and protection, even if they want to! However, by filing an IRS form 1040 or 1040A, they in effect make this illegal election anyway, and the IRS looks the other way and does not prosecute such unintentional fraud because they benefit financially from it. The only way to avoid this election is to instead either file nothing or to file a 1040NR form instead of a 1040 or 1040A form. The rules for electing to be treated as a resident are found in IRS Publication 54: Tax Guide for U.S. Citizens and Resident Aliens Abroad. See Great IRS Hoax section 4.10 for further definition of this term and the following sections for amplification: 5.5.2, 5.5.3, and 5.4.12.

scumbag lawyer(s) — that subset of lawyers within the legal profession and the judiciary who entered the profession for all the wrong reasons, including: 1. Arrogance; 2. Greed; 3. Lust for power over other men. These low-lives have no scruples or morality and seldom believe in God. They are also characterized by a disinterest in and distaste for truth or the public health, welfare, or morals. They will say whatever they have to in order to get their client off in nearly all cases if they are a defense attorney. Instead, they entered the legal profession mainly for selfish reasons and will do whatever is required in order to maximize their personal profit from the profession.

sovereignty — the supreme, absolute, and uncontrollable power by which any independent state is governed; supreme political authority; paramount control of the constitution and frame of government and its administration; self sufficient source of political power, from which all specific political powers are derived; the international independence of a state, combined with the right and power of regulating its internal affairs without foreign dictation; also a political society, or state, which is sovereign and independent. Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 Dall. 455, 1 L.Ed. 440; Union Bank v. Hill, 3 Cold., Tenn 325; Moore v. Shaw, 17 Cal. 218, 79 Am.Dec. 123; State v. Dixon, 66 Mont. 76, 213 P. 227. [Black’s Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition (1951) p. 1568.]

State — in the context of federal statutes, federal court rulings, and this book means a federal State of the United States, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands, Northern Marina Islands, and includes areas within the external boundaries of a state owned by or ceded to the United States of America. Federal “States” are defined in 4 U.S.C. §110\(d\) and 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(10\). In the context of the U.S. Constitution only, “State” means a sovereign “state” as indicated below. The reason the constitution is different is because of who wrote it. The states wrote it so they are capitalized. Federal statutes are not written by the sovereign states so they use the lower case “state” to describe the sovereign 50 union states, which are foreign to the federal government and outside its territorial jurisdiction.

“It is to be noted that the statute differentiates between States of the United States and foreign states by the use of a capital S for the word when applied to a State of the United States”
 [Eisenberg v. Commercial Union Assurance Company, 189 F.Supp. 500 (1960)]

state — in the context of federal statutes, federal court rulings, and this book means a sovereign state of the Union of America under the Constitution for the United States of America 1789-1791. In the context of the U.S. Constitution only, “State” means a sovereign “state” as defined here. Below is a further clarification of the meaning of “states” as defined by the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of O’Donoghue v. United States, 289 U.S. 516 (1933), where they define what is not a “state”:

After an exhaustive review of the prior decisions of this court relating to the matter, the following propositions, among others, were stated as being established:

‘1. That the District of Columbia and the territories are not states within the judicial clause of the Constitution giving jurisdiction in cases between citizens of different states;

‘2. That territories are not states within the meaning of Rev. St. 709, permitting writs of error from this court in cases where the validity of a state statute is drawn in question;

‘3. That the District of Columbia and the territories are states as that word is used in treaties with foreign powers, with respect to the ownership, disposition, and inheritance of property;

‘4. That the territories are not within the clause of the Constitution providing for the creation of a supreme court and such inferior courts as Congress may see fit to establish.’

Below is a summary of the meanings of “state” and “State” in the context of both federal and state laws:

Table 1: Summary of meaning of "state" and "State"

Law	Federal constitution	Federal statutes	Federal regulations	State constitutions	State statutes	State regulations
Author	Union States/ "We The People"	Federal Government		"We The People"	State Government
"state"	Foreign country	Union state or foreign country	Union state or foreign country	Other Union state or federal government	Other Union state or federal government	Other Union state or federal government
"State"	Union state	Federal state	Federal state	Union state	Union state	Union state
"in this"	NA	NA	NA	NA	Federal	Federal

Law	Federal constitution	Federal statutes	Federal regulations	State constitutions	State statutes	State regulations
Author	Union States/ "We The People"	Federal Government		"We The People"	State Government
State" or "in the State" <sup>2</sup>					enclave within state	enclave within state
"State" <sup>3</sup> (State Revenue and taxation code only)	NA	NA	NA	NA	Federal enclave within state	Federal enclave within state

So what the above table clearly shows is that the word "State" in the context of federal statutes and regulations means (not includes!) federal States only under Title 48 of the U.S. Code<sup>4</sup>, and these areas do not include any of the 50 Union States. This is true in most cases and especially in the Internal Revenue Code, but there are a few minor exceptions: The word "state" in the context of federal statutes and regulations means one of the 50 union states, which are "foreign states", and "foreign countries" with respect to the federal government as clearly explained later in section 5.2.11 of this book. In the context of the above, a "Union State" means one of the 50 Union states of the United States* (the country, not the federal United States**).

State Citizen/National — A biological person who was born in the country United States and who is treated as a citizen of every state of the Union under Article IV, Section 2, Clause 1 of the United States Constitution. This person owes allegiance to his state and obedience to its laws. In exchange for this allegiance, he is entitled to demand protection from the government and the laws and that state.

State national — A biological person who was born in any state of the Union and who is treated as a citizen of every state of the Union under Article IV, Section 2, Clause 1 of the United States Constitution. This person owes allegiance to his state and obedience to its laws. In exchange for this allegiance, he is entitled to demand protection from the government and the laws and that state. He is also treated as a "national of the United States" or a "non-citizen national". "State nationals" are defined in 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21), 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22)(B), 8 U.S.C. §1452, 8 U.S.C. §1408(2), and are indirectly referenced under The Law of Nations, Book I, Section 215.

tax- a mandatory payment to the government exacted by operation of law which is not voluntary and which supports only the government. If the monies paid can be used for wealth transfer or supporting private persons or organizations, then they do not qualify as "taxes", according to the U.S. Supreme Court

To lay, with one hand, the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms.

Nor is it taxation. 'A tax,' says Webster's Dictionary, 'is a rate or sum of money assessed on the person or property of a citizen by government for the use of the nation or State.' 'Taxes are burdens or charges imposed by the Legislature upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.' Cooley, Const. Lim., 479.

Coulter, J., in Northern Liberties v. St. John's Church, 13 Pa. St., 104 says, very forcibly, 'I think the common mind has everywhere taken in the understanding that taxes are a public imposition, levied by authority of the government for the purposes of carrying on the government in all its machinery and operations—that they are imposed for a public purpose.' See, also Pray v. Northern Liberties, 31 Pa.St., 69; Matter of Mayor of N.Y., 11 Johns., 77; Camden v. Allen, 2 Dutch., 398; Sharpless v. Mayor, supra; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Ia., 47; Whiting v. Fond du Lac, supra."
 [Loan Association v. Topeka, 20 Wall. 655 (1874)]

"Taxes" which are paid voluntarily and/or which are spent on wealth transfer or to support private purposes are referred to as "donations" in this book, and when their payment is enforced, they are called extortion.

taxpayer — the term “taxpayer” means any person liable for any internal revenue tax. See 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14).

tax payer — the term “tax payer” means any person who pays an Internal Revenue tax but who is not necessarily liable for the tax. The term “nontaxpayer” is preferred over “taxpayer”.

United States — It is very important to understand that there are THREE separate and distinct CONTEXTS in which the term "United States" can be used, and each has a mutually exclusive and different meaning. These three definitions of "United States" were described by the U.S. Supreme Court in Hooven and Allison v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945):

Term	# in diagrams	Meaning
United States*	1	The country “United States” in the family of nations throughout the world.
United States	2	The “federal zone”.
United States	3	Collective states of the Union mentioned throughout the Constitution.

In addition to the above GEOGRAPHICAL context, there is also a legal, non-geographical context in which the term "United States" can be used, which is the GOVERNMENT as a legal entity. Throughout this page and this website, we identify THIS context as "United States****" or "United States<sup>4</sup>". The only types of "persons" within THIS context are public offices within the national and not state government. It is THIS context in which "sources within the United States" is used for the purposes of "income" and "gross income" within the Internal Revenue Code, as proven by:

Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020, Sections 8 through 11

The word “United States”, in most cases and especially in a GEOGRAPHIC sense, means only the federal zone. This is a direct consequence of the fact that:

1. The federal government has no police powers inside the states. See section 4.9 later.
2. The states of the union are “foreign states” with respect to the federal government for the purpose of private or special law, which includes nearly all Acts of Congress and nearly all federal statutes and regulations. See sections 5.2.2-5.2.3, 5.2.7, and 5.2.13.
3. The separation between federal and state jurisdiction is a result of the “separation of powers doctrine”, which divides power between the state and federal government in order to protect individual liberties from tyranny. See section 6.1 later.

United States of America — means the sovereign 50 states united under the Constitution of the United States of America. In a geographic sense, means all areas found within the country United States which are not part of the federal zone and are not possessions of the United States.

U.S. citizen — defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 and 8 U.S.C. §1401. In the context of federal statutes: Means a person born or naturalized in the federal United States (federal zone) and a subject citizen of Congress. Typically, the U.S. government allows “nationals”, who are persons born outside the federal zone and inside the 50 states to declare that they are “U.S. citizens” so that they can volunteer to become completely subject to the jurisdiction of the federal courts and become the proper subjects of the Internal Revenue Code, but technically, they are not “U.S. citizens” as legally defined within nearly all federal legislation and statutes. “U.S. citizens” are possessors of statutory ‘civil’ rights and privileges granted by Congress and stipulated by statute, code or regulation, found mostly in 48 U.S.C. §1421b.

void judgment — “One which has no legal force or effect, invalidity of which may be asserted by any person whose rights are affected at any time and at any place directly or collaterally. Reynolds v. Volunteer State Life Ins. Co., Tex.Civ.App., 80 S.W.2d. 1087, 1092. One which from its inception is and forever continues to be absolutely null, without legal efficacy, ineffectual to bind parties or support a right, of no legal force and effect whatever, and incapable of confirmation, ratification, or enforcement in any manner or to any degree. Judgment is a ‘void judgment’ if court that rendered judgment lacked jurisdiction of the subject matter, or of the parties, or acted in a

voluntary —“Unconstrained by interference; unimpelled by another’s influence; spontaneous; acting of oneself. Coker v. State, 199 Ga. 20, 33 S.E.2d. 171, 174. Done by design or intention. Proceeding from the free and unrestrained will of the person. Produced in or by an act of choice. Resulting from free choice, without compulsion or solicitation. The word, especially in statutes, often implies knowledge of essential facts. Without valuable consideration; gratuitous, as a voluntary conveyance. Also, having a merely nominal consideration; as, a voluntary deed.” [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1575]

1 "The power to tax is the power to destroy."
2 [John Marshall, U.S. Supreme Court Justice, M'Culloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. 316, 431]

3 Let us begin this document by explaining what we mean by "The Great IRS Hoax?". The hoax is NOT the Internal
4 Revenue Code, but the way that it is misrepresented and illegally enforced by the IRS and the Department of Justice. The
5 Internal Revenue Code itself is entirely Constitutional when interpreted and enforced consistent with the rules of statutory
6 construction and interpretation. Unfortunately, public dis-servants have been bending the rules to suit their own private 7 agenda, and this is where the hoax and the fraud extensively documented in this book originates.

8 Do you love America? How about the Internal Revenue Service? Do you think we live in a free country? Do you think
9 that you are "liable" to both file tax returns and pay income taxes to the federal government as an American Citizen (not 10 statutory U.S. citizen) domiciled and working in the 50 Union states? Do you think you fit the description of a statutory 11 "employee" found in the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle C and the implementing regulations found in 26 C.F.R.
12 §31.3401(c)? Do you think as a private (non-governmental) employer that you are liable to withhold those taxes? Do you
13 think you are a "U.S. citizen" as legally defined? Do you think that federal judges are ethical and honorable men of 14 integrity? Boy have you been deceived, and by your own government no less! So was I before my eyes were opened in 15 the process of researching and writing this book. I guarantee that the contents of this book will absolutely shock you!
16 Reading it will change your perspective forever about the government and the IRS! If you care at all about your freedom
17 and your liberty and this wonderful country of ours, then you will simply not be able to put this book down, which is the 18 same way we feel about continuing to improve and expand it! Once you learn the amazing truths in this book, you will 19 want to share it with everyone in your life, and especially those you love, because:

20 "Liberty, man's highest value, is simply love disguised."
21 [Family Guardian Fellowship]

22 Our experience has shown that once you catch what we call "the liberty bug", it's an incurable condition that you will never 23 get rid of. Eternal vigilance is the chronic symptom thereafter, because of the profound realization that you can't trust
24 government to give you liberty. Instead, you must demand it continually from the government and fight for it or lose it and 25 thereby become perpetual slaves to a false god called government.

26 "Bravery or slavery, take your pick, because your covetous government is going to force you to choose one!"
27 [Family Guardian Fellowship]

28 The only people who don't respond honorably and positively to hearing the truths in this book are those whose conscience
29 is so seared that they are only reading this book for selfish reasons, and those are precisely the people who are reading and
30 using this book in violation of the copyright! Shame on you! The reason we don't want selfish and evil people reading this 31 book is because it was selfishness and greed on the part of government "dis-servants" that put our tax system into the 32 massive legal and moral mess and conflict of interest that it is in to begin with! Instead, Christ calls us to deny ourselves
33 and our lusts and covetousness for money and wealth and take up His cross. Our cross in this case consists in being 34 persecuted, harassed, and tormented by wicked and covetous government servants for following the laws to the letter,
35 questioning authority, and pursuing justice and truth:

36 "Assuredly, I say to you that it is hard for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven. And again I say to you, it
37 is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God."
38 [Matt. 19:23-24, Bible, NKJV]

39 "If anyone desires to come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. For whoever 40 desires to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for My sake will find it."
41 [Matt. 16:24-25, Bible, NKJV]

42 "If anyone desires to come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow Me."
43 [Luke 9:23, Bible, NKJV]

44 In this book, we will tell you the truth about income taxes that the IRS and our deceitful federal and state governments
45 don't want you to hear and which they will NEVER print in any of their publications or on their websites, and this truth will 46 indeed make you free and give you peace once and for all! This truth will also sanctify you and set you apart from most of 47 the people you know and they will sense the difference in you, so much so that they may even think wrongfully that you are 48 crazy!

1                   "They are not of the world, just as I am not of the world. Sanctify them by Your truth. Your word is truth. As
 2                   You sent Me into the world, I also have sent them into the world. And for their sakes I sanctify Myself, that they
 3                   also may be sanctified by the truth."
 4                   [John 17:16-19, Bible, NKJV]

5 You will also learn that there have been many others before us who attempted to spread the truth on this subject and who
 6 were targeted for prosecution and harassment by the IRS in violation of our Constitutional First Amendment right of free
 7 speech. Like others before us, we have experienced IRS persecution ourselves, in the form of regular virus-infected
 8 emailings and cyber-attacks on our website following the release of this book, most likely by the selfsame government that
 9 is supposed to be protecting and defending our Constitution and rights.

10 The amazing findings in this document will attempt to give you plenty of reasons to love America and its prudent founding
 11 fathers who wisely framed the Constitution that started it all, while giving you plenty reasons to dislike and distrust those 12 in the government who perpetuate and protect the ongoing criminal activities documented herein. This scam started in 13 1913, when our government began pretending that there was an income tax on human beings following the fraudulent
 14 passage of the 16th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution:

15                   "The love of money is the root of all evil."
 16                   [1 Tim. 6:10, Bible, NKJV]

17 This document will examine how the U.S. Government lets the IRS (at arms' length, of course, because there is no 26
 18 U.S.C. statute giving it authority or putting it into being) do its fraudulent (lying) dirty work in getting money to fund its 19 socialist programs that abuse the law and Americans to plunder your property and we will see just how much evil there is in 20 the government's love of YOUR money. We will see:

- 21 1. How the system of checks and balances wisely envisioned by our Christian founding fathers have been
- 22 circumvented illegally by devious and dishonest lawyer/politicians in the federal government through the
- 23 federal income tax, and how this is threatening our freedoms, our privacy, and our standard of living.
- 24 2. How the evil and idolatrous socialist beast that controls the IRS and the U.S. Government and oppresses us
- 25 is fed by the usury we volunteer for called the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A.
- 26 3. How low some federal government bureaucrats will stoop to take your money from you by force or fraud
- 27 and in violation of your constitutional and due process rights and the laws that limit and define their
- 28 delegated powers.
- 29 4. How the main reason people falsely believe that there is an income tax on natural persons has to do with
- 30 their willingness to believe the lies of their tyrannical and corrupted government servants:

31                   "The simple believes every word, but the prudent considers well his steps [and reads the law for himself to see 32                   if his elected representatives are telling the truth!]."
 33                   [Prov. 14:15, Bible, NKJV]

- 34 5. That there is a tangled web of conspiracy, perjury, fraud, obfuscation, ignorance, intimidation, and violation
- 35 of due process behind how we got to the confused and deceived state most Americans and employers are in
- 36 when it comes to understanding the federal income tax code and abiding by it.
- 37 6. How the states of the Union, for the most part, have conspired with the federal government to enslave you to
- 38 an imaginary "income tax" and unjust laws by creating incentives for you to become "U.S. citizens" who
- 39 have been stripped of your sovereignty and the constitutional rights that protect your liberties. They have
- 40 done this in the name of "cooperative federalism".
- 41 7. That there are a lot of people, including those in government and the legal profession, who know the truth
- 42 but have evaded and shirked their responsibility to inform their fellow Americans and loved ones for fear of
- 43 reprisal and mockery and loss of their livelihood and professional license.

44                   "The lips of the wise disperse knowledge, but the heart of the fool does not do so."
 45                   [Prov. 15:7, Bible, NKJV]

46 We will also see how the love and covetousness of YOUR money by corrupt "public servants" in the U.S. Government
 47 leads to two other equally damaging evils and sins (violations of God's laws) on the part of the U.S. Government:

48                   "Thou shalt not steal."
 49                   [Exodus 20:15]

1 "Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor.."
2 [Exodus 20:16]

3 Later on in section 2.8.9.1, you will learn that what Jesus meant in the above is really "lusting" for money and the
4 dishonesty and evil that coveting it can lead to. There is nothing wrong with loving the process of earning an honest living,
5 as long as we are generous and charitable and prudent and honorable about how we earn it and spend it. As a matter of 6 fact, the Bible in Ecclesiastes 5:18 agrees with this conclusion:

7 "Here is what I have seen: It is good and fitting for one to eat and drink, and to enjoy the good of all his labor
8 in which he toils under the sun all the days of his life which God gives him; for it is his heritage."
9 [Ecc. 5:18, Bible, NKJV]

10 But if our agents and servants and representatives in government obtain our money through deceit, dishonesty, immorality,
11 and unlawful and evil acts, like most of the people who work for the IRS, then our means of living is counted as 12 covetousness and evil, which is a grave sin according to Jesus in Luke 12:13-21. The Bible says in no uncertain terms that
13 we should find such evil behavior contemptible and abominable and rebuke it publicly and frequently, as you will see
14 below. And for those of you who think that hating what the IRS, who is ostensibly our "servant", does to destroy our 15 liberties is not a biblical or family value or is wrong, we refer you to the following scriptures contradicting such a
16 misinformed conclusion, and notice that the focus of the hatred is not people, but bad and evil behavior and the 17 organizations and laws that foster it (God loves the sinner, but he hates the sin because sin hurts our brother and separates 18 us from God and the people around us):

19 "If God had been a Liberal, we wouldn't have had the Ten Commandments, we'd have had the Ten 20 Suggestions." [Malcolm Bradbury]

21 "Let love be without hypocrisy. Abhor what is evil. Cling to what is good."
22 [Romans 12:9, Bible, NKJV]

23 "You who love the Lord, hate evil! He preserves the souls of His saints; He delivers them out of the hand of the 24 wicked."
25 [Psalm 97:10]

26 "An unjust man is an abomination to the righteous: and he who is upright in the way is an abomination to the 27 wicked."
28 [Prov. 29:27, Bible, NKJV]

29 "The boastful shall not stand in your sight: You hate all workers of iniquity."
30 [Psalm 5:5, Bible, NKJV]

31 "Through Your precepts I get understanding: therefore I hate every false way.
32 [Psalm 119:104, Bible, NKJV]

33 "Let us hear the conclusion of this whole matter: Fear [respect] God and keep His commandments, for this is 34 man's all. For God will bring every work into judgment, including every secret thing, whether good or evil."
35 [Eccl. 12:13-14]

36 "The fear of the Lord is to hate evil: Pride and arrogance and the evil way And the perverse mouth I hate."
37 [Proverbs 8:13]

38 "Do not let your heart envy sinners, but be zealous for the fear of the Lord all the day; for surely there is a 39 hereafter, and your hope will not be cut off."
40 [Prov. 23:17]

41 "By humility and fear of the Lord are riches and honor and life."
42 [Prov. 22:4]

43 "These six things the Lord hates, yes seven are an abomination to Him:
44 A proud look,
45 A lying tongue,
46 Hands that shed innocent blood,
47 A heart that devises wicked plans, [IRS revenue agents]
48 Feet that are swift in running to evil,
49 A false witness who speaks lies, [IRS]

1 And one who sows discord among brethren. [illegally imposed income taxes and the financial problems they
2 create destroy families, and the number one cause of divorce is disputes over money]
3 [Prov. 6:16-19]

4 “Do I not hate them, O Lord, who hate You? And do I not loathe those who rise up against You? I hate them
5 with perfect hatred; I count them my enemies.”
6 [Psalm 139:21-22]

7 “I hate and abhor lying. But I love Your law.”
8 [Psalm 119:163]

9 “A righteous man hates lying. But a wicked man is loathsome and comes to shame.”
10 [Prov. 13:5]

11 “For everything there is a season, a time for every purpose under heaven: ..... A time to love, and a time to 12 hate.”
13 [Ecclesiastes 3:1-8]

14 “But those who rebuke the wicked will have delight, and a good blessing will come upon them.”
15 [Prov. 24:25]

16 “The ear that hears the rebukes of life will abide among the wise. He who disdains instruction despises his own 17 soul, but he who heeds rebuke gets understanding.”
18 [Prov. 15:31-32, Bible, NKJV]

19 “He who rebukes a man will find more favor afterward than he who flatters with the tongue.”
20 [Prov. 28:23]

21 God, in the scriptures above, even commands us to reprove and rebuke evil when we encounter it, and we can't rebuke
22 that which we can't judge, so we better judge!:

23 “Judge not according to appearance, but judge righteous judgment.”
24 [John 7:24, Jesus speaking in the Bible]

25 “Take heed to yourselves. If your brother sins against you, rebuke him; and if he repents, forgive him.”
26 [Luke 17:3, Bible, NKJV. QUESTION: How can you rebuke as Jesus commands here if you can't first judge or 27 discern bad behavior?]

28 “And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather expose [rebuke] them.”
29 [Eph. 5:11, Bible]

30 “The violence of the wicked will destroy them because they refuse to do justice.”
31 [Prov. 21:7, Bible, NKJV]

32 God's Holy word should be the only basis for our rebuke of the sin of others in the world:

33 “All Scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for 34 instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be complete, thoroughly equipped for every good work.”
35 [2 Tim. 3:16-17, Bible, NKJV]

36 Even the Apostle Paul, who some people falsely say told us not to judge, rebuked those who taught falsehoods, and his 37 words below pretty much sum up exactly the state the IRS and our deceitful government is in today and what it is doing to 38 pervert our country. Here are his strong words of rebuke, from Titus 1:10-16:

39 “For there are many unruly and vain talkers and deceivers [at 40 the IRS], specially they of the circumcision:

41 Whose mouths must be stopped, who subvert whole houses
42 [and families], teaching [and saying] things which they ought 43 not, for filthy lucre's [money's] sake.

1 One of themselves, [even] a prophet of their own [IRS Commissioner Rossotti], said, The Cretians [are] always
2 liars, evil beasts, slow bellies [the tax protesters].

3 This witness is true. Wherefore rebuke them [IRS and government] sharply,
4 that they may be sound in the faith;

5 Not giving heed to Jewish fables [in this case, the Internal Revenue Manual or the IRS Publications], and 6 commandments of men [their 800 telephone support service, that gives wrong advice over 60% of the time by 7 the IRS' own admission], that turn from the truth.

8 Unto the pure all things [are] pure: but unto them that are defiled and unbelieving [is] nothing pure [the IRS
9 and the Congress]; but even their mind and conscience is defiled [their conscience has been warped because 10 they took a bribe, in violation of Exodus 23:8].

11 They profess that they know God [and at least PRETEND that they love their brother and the people they 12 serve]; but in [EVIL] works they deny [Him], being abominable, and disobedient,
13 and unto every good work reprobate."
14 [Titus 1:10-16, Bible, NKJV]

15 Does it sound like the Apostle Paul was NOT judging above, and if he was, then why shouldn't we also? He was rebuking
16 EVIL, which is exactly what God commands us to do throughout the Bible. As a matter of fact, the only purpose of our 17 criminal justice system is to rebuke and punish evil, and our police get their delegated authority from us, the sovereign
18 people, so we must have that authority to begin with. Paul's approach derives from the following scriptures:

19 "For the commandment is a lamp, and the law [God's law] the light; Reproofs of instruction are a way of 20 life.."
21 [Prov. 6:23, Bible, NKJV]

22 "Rebuke one who has understanding and he will discern knowledge."
23 [Prov. 19:25, Bible, NKJV]

24 "You shall love your neighbor as yourself."
25 [Romans 13:9, Bible, NKJV]

26 "As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten. Therefore be zealous and repent."
27 [Rev. 3:18, Bible, NKJV]

28 If our faith be not evidenced by such righteous works of reproof and rebuke, then of what political good or relevance can 29 we be in a lost world with such DEAD faith (see James 2:17-20)? How can we as Christians be sanctified as the salt and 30 light of the world and the blessing to the world that God intended with no such works? How can we have the "fruit", which 31 is God's blessing of peace and prosperity, without the "root", which is courage and faith and morality evidenced by our 32 works and obedience to God's laws found in the Bible? Remember the parable that Jesus used about how we as Christians
33 are trees and must bear fruit or be cast into the fire?:

34 "Abide in Me, and I in you. As the branch [you] cannot bear fruit of itself, unless it abides in the vine, neither 35 can you, unless you abide in Me. I am the vine, you are the branches. He who abides in Me, and I in him,
36 bears much fruit; for without Me you can do nothing. If anyone does not abide in Me, he is cast out as a
37 branch and is withered; and they gather them and throw them into the fire, and they are burned. If you abide 38 in Me, and My words abide you, you will ask what you desire, and it shall be done for you. By this My
39 Father is glorified, that you bear much fruit; so you will be My disciples. As the Father
40 loved Me, I also have loved you; abide in My love. If you keep [DO, not just hypocritically talk about] My 41 commandments, you will abide in My love, just as I have kept my Father's commandments and abide in His 42 love. These things I have spoken to you, that My joy may remain in you, and that your joy may be full."
43 [John 15:4-11, Bible, NKJV]

44 You're not one of God's followers if you don't bear the fruit of righteousness and mercy and truth by rebuking and 45 punishing evil behavior, folks! That's what it means to be a Christian: One who regards the Bible as a law book and 46 obeys and enforces it as such. The purpose of the courts is to rebuke and punish evil, and if we are the sovereigns and
47 masters over our servant government, then we are just as entitled as the servant courts to rebuke evil. How can the servant

1 be greater than the master?<sup>1</sup> The only reason for any Christian to think otherwise is IGNORANCE of what God's word
 2 says and ignorance of the basis for our Constitutional government. Ignorance and sin are our biggest enemy, folks, and the 3 only way to eliminate these two evils are rebuke and education of those who perpetrate them to inform them of their error
 4 and encourage them to remedy it. Based on the scriptures above, if you are going to accuse the author of spreading a 5 message of hate, you will also have to:

- 6 1. Advocate the elimination of the police and the courts, whose only function is to hate evil. This would only encourage 7 lawlessness and anarchy.
- 8 2. Commit blasphemy against a sovereign God by telling Him that He is wrong. In the process of doing this, you risk
 9 suffering His wrath on judgment day. See section 1.8 later for further treatment of the sin of ignorance.

10 If you don't do both of the above, you will be accused of being a hypocrite and practicing religious discrimination. If you
 11 would like to know more about why you must rebuke and reprove and judge in order to do justice as the Lord commands, 12 read our series on "A Call for Discernment" by John MacArthur on our website at:

13 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Spirituality/Articles/Discernment/Discernment.htm>

14 How should we rebuke sin? The Bible once again tells us:

15 "And the servant of the Lord must not quarrel but be gentle to all, able to teach, patient, in humility
 16 correcting those who are in opposition, if God perhaps will grant them repentance, so that they may know the 17 truth, and that they may come to their senses and escape the snare of the devil, having been taken captive by 18 him to do his will."
 19 [2 Tim. 2:24-26, Bible, NKJV]

20 To summarize:

21 "Violation of the Constitution and the 22 Internal Revenue Code are revolting.....
 23 why aren't you?!"

24 Another good book about why you can't remain passive or politically isolated either as a citizen or as a Christian is the 25 following:

26 Why You Can't Stay Silent: A Biblical Mandate to Shape Our Culture
 27 by Tom Minnery, Tyndale House Publishers, Wheaton, Illinois, ISBN 1-56179-925-4

26 This book therefore represents my attempt to fulfill the Godly calling described above of judging and rebuking evil on a
 27 grand scale within our own government. It is not a message of hate, but of love toward hard-working Americans
 28 everywhere who deserve a lot more respect and protection of their fundamental liberties from their government than they
 29 have been getting of late. Likewise, for those of you who already have your act together and have been informed of the 30 truth by this book, our hats are off to you and we want to thank you and pray for God's blessings and His grace upon you.

31 By the time you finish chapter 2 of this book, you will realize that you as a moral person with religious faith cannot sit
 32 passively and watch your government commit all the evils documented in this book. You will realize that your passiveness,
 33 in fact, is what has allowed things to get as bad as they have become and that the only way to reverse the trend is to become 34 politically and legally active before it is simply too late. Below is a passage of the Bible that describes what will happen to 35 us if we don't begin judging, rebuking, and opposing the massive evil described in this book:

36 "Run to and fro through the streets of Jerusalem;
 37 See now and know;
 38 And seek in her open places
 39 If you can find a man,
 40 If there is anyone who executes judgment,

<sup>1</sup> In John 15:20, Jesus said: "Remember the word that I said to you: 'A servant is not greater than his master'."

Who seeks the truth,
And I will pardon her.

Though they say, "As the LORD lives," Surely they swear falsely."

O LORD, are not Your eyes on the truth?
 You have stricken them,
 But they have not grieved;
 You have consumed them,
But they have refused to receive correction.
 They have made their faces harder than rock;
 They have refused to return [to Your ways].

Therefore I said, "Surely these are poor.
They are foolish;
For they do not know the way of the LORD.
The judgment of their God.
 I will go to the great men and speak to them,
 For they have known the way of the LORD,
 The judgment of their God."

But these have altogether broken the yoke
 And burst the bonds.
Therefore a lion from the forest shall slay them,
A wolf of the deserts shall destroy them;
A leopard will watch over their cities.
Everyone who goes out from there shall be torn in pieces,
Because their transgressions are many;
Their backslidings have increased.

"How shall I pardon you for this?
 Your children have forsaken Me
 And sworn [on tax returns] by those [in government] that are not gods.
 When I had fed them to the full,
 Then they committed adultery [and fornication and sexual perversity]
 And assembled themselves by troops in the harlots' houses.
 They were like well-fed lusty stallions;
 Every one neighed after his neighbor's wife [sexual perversion].
 Shall I not punish them for these things?" says the LORD.
 "And shall I not avenge Myself on such a nation as this?"

"Go up on her walls and destroy,
 But do not make a complete end.
Take away her branches,
For they are not the LORD's.
For the house of Israel and the house of Judah
Have dealt very treacherously with Me," says the LORD.

They have lied about the LORD [evolutionism],
 And said, "It is not He.
 Neither will evil come upon us,
 Nor shall we see sword or famine.
 And the prophets become wind,
 For the word is not in them.
 Thus shall it be done to them."

Therefore thus says the LORD God of hosts:

"Because you speak this word,
 Behold, I will make My words in your mouth fire,
 And this people wood,
 And it shall devour them.
Behold, I will bring a nation [in the District of Columbia, Washington D.C.] against you from afar,
 O house of Israel," says the LORD.
 "It is a mighty nation,
 It is an ancient nation,
 A nation whose language [legalese] you do not know,
 Nor can you understand what they say [in their deceitful laws].

1           Their quiver is like an open tomb;
 2           They are all mighty [deceitful] men.
 3           And they [and the IRS, their henchmen] shall eat up your harvest and your bread,
 4           Which your sons and daughters should eat.
 5           They shall eat up your flocks and your herds;
 6           They shall eat up your vines and your fig trees;
 7           They shall destroy your fortified cities [and businesses and families],
 8           In which you trust, with the sword.

9           "Nevertheless in those days," says the LORD, "I will not make a complete end of you. <sup>19</sup>And it will be when you
 10          say, "Why does the LORD our God do all these things to us?" then you shall answer them, "Just as you have 11          forsaken Me and served foreign gods in your land, so you shall serve aliens in a land that is not yours."

12          "Declare this in the house of Jacob
 13          And proclaim it in Judah, saying,
 14          "Hear this now, O foolish people,
 15          Without understanding [ignorant and presumptuous],
 16          Who have eyes and see not,
 17          And who have ears and hear not:
 18          Do you not fear Me?" says the LORD.
 19          "Will you not tremble at My presence,
 20          Who have placed the sand as the bound of the sea,
 21          By a perpetual decree, that it cannot pass beyond it?
 22          And though its waves toss to and fro,
 23          Yet they cannot prevail;
 24          Though they roar, yet they cannot pass over it.
 25          But this people has a defiant and rebellious heart;
 26          They have revolted and departed.
 27          They do not say in their heart,
 28          "Let us now fear the LORD our God,
 29          Who gives rain, both the former and the latter, in its season.
 30          He reserves for us the appointed weeks of the harvest."
 31          Your iniquities have turned these things away,
 32          And your sins have withheld good from you.

33          "For among My people are found wicked men [the IRS, federal reserve, bankers, lawyers, and politicians];
 34          They lie in wait as one who sets snares;
 35          They set a trap;
 36          They catch men [with deceit and greed as their weapon].
 37          As a cage is full of birds,
 38          So their houses are full of deceit [IRS publications and law books and government propaganda].
 39          Therefore they have become great and grown rich [from plundering YOUR money illegally].
 40          They have grown fat, they are sleek;
 41          Yes, they surpass the deeds of the wicked;
 42          They do not plead the cause,
 43          The cause of the fatherless;
 44          Yet they prosper,
 45          And the right of the needy they do not defend.
 46          Shall I not punish them for these things?" says the LORD.
 47          "Shall I not avenge Myself on such a nation as this?"

48          "An astonishing and horrible thing
 49          Has been committed in the land:
 50          The prophets prophesy falsely,
 51          And the priests [federal judges] rule by their own power;
 52          And My people love to have it so.
 53          But what will you do in the end?"
 54          [Jeremiah 5, Bible, NKJV, Emphasis added]

55    1.1    HELP! Where can I get help with my tax problem?

56    If you want educational assistance with your immediate tax problem , then you are looking in the wrong book. You should 57    instead refer to the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 at:

Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008

<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

The Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 is only intended for “nontaxpayers” and statutory “non-resident non-persons” who are not liable under the law for federal income taxes and who are not subject to the Internal Revenue Code. We do not suggest reading or using the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual unless and until you have at least read chapters three through five of this book and tried your best to understand them. If you don’t follow this suggestion, we predict that you can and probably will do yourself harm in trying to use that book because:

“...it is not good for a soul to be without knowledge,”
[Prov. 19:2, Bible, NKJV]

“My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge.”
[Hosea 4:6, Bible, NKJV]

“One who turns his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer is an abomination.”
[Prov. 28:9, Bible, NKJV]

If you are a “nontaxpayer” and want further education or help responding to illegal IRS enforcement action, then the following website probably has the educational information you are seeking:

<http://sedm.org/>

Likewise, if you are a “taxpayer”, then you are looking in the wrong place for educational or helpful materials and should instead consult <http://www.irs.gov> for educational materials.

1.2 Summary of the Purpose of This Document

The purpose of this document is to fully expose the nature and history of the illegal and criminal mis-enforcement of the federal and state tax codes within the United States of America by both the Internal Revenue Service (I.R.S.) and state taxing authorities. This is not a “how-to” book and we will not show you how to stop the illegal activities of the I.R.S. or the state tax authorities because that topic is reserved exclusively for the book below:

<http://sedm.org/ItemInfo/Ebooks/TaxFraudPrevMan/TaxFraudPrevMan.htm>

We would also like to emphasize that this book is intended only for people who have faith in God. If you don’t believe in God, the Bible says it is entirely impossible for you to be sovereign over your own affairs. In fact, the book of Judges in the Bible teaches us that the result of not believing in and obeying God is sin, slavery, and servitude for everyone in society as follows:

1. When Israel elected their first King, Saul, and Saul transgressed and rejected the word and the commandments of God and tried to do things his way and please the people instead of please God, he was stripped of his sovereignty. The moral of the story is that sovereignty is impossible without obedience to God, and those who are more concerned about what the neighbors or the government think about them (being politically correct) than what God thinks will be punished with servitude and slavery to other men:

“Behold, to obey [God and His Law] is better than sacrifice, and to heed than the fat of rams. For rebellion [against God] is as the sin of witchcraft, and stubbornness is an iniquity and idolatry. Because you have rejected the word of the Lord, He also has rejected you from being king [or sovereign over your person and the government that is supposed to serve you].”

Then Saul [the king] said to Samuel, “I have sinned, for I have transgressed the commandment of the Lord and your words, because I feared the people [wanted to be politically correct instead of right with God] and obeyed their voice [instead of God’s voice]. Now therefore, please pardon my sin and return with me, that I may worship the Lord.” But Samuel said to Saul [the king], “I will not return with you, for you have rejected the word of the Lord, and the Lord has rejected you from being king over Israel”

1 And as Samuel turned around to go away, Saul seized the edge of his robe, and it tore. So Samuel said to him,
2 "The Lord has torn the kingdom of Israel from you today and has given it to a neighbor of yours, who is better
3 than you."
4 [1 Sam. 15:22-28, Bible, NKJV]

- 5 2. Those people who will not obey or be ruled by God will be punished by Him, and it would be an act of rebellion and 6 treason against God to interfere with the sovereign decision of God to punish them for their transgression:

7 "The Lord is well pleased for His righteousness' sake; He will exalt the law and make it honorable. But this
8 is a people robbed and plundered! [by the IRS] All of them are snared in [legal] holes [by the sophistry of 9 greedy IRS lawyers], and they are hidden in prison houses; they are for prey, and no one delivers; for 10 plunder, and no one says, "Restore!""

11 Who among you will give ear to this? Who will listen and hear for the time to come? Who gave Jacob for
12 plunder, and Israel to the robbers? [IRS] Was it not the Lord, He against whom we have sinned? For they
13 would not walk in His ways, nor were they obedient to His law, therefore He has poured on him the fury of His 14 anger and the strength of battle; it has set him on fire all around, yet he did not know; and it burned him, yet he
15 did not take it to heart."
16 [Isaiah 42:21-25, Bible, NKJV]

- 17 3. How does the Lord exalt His Law and make it holy and sanctified? The passage below says that He does this by 18 allowing people who violate His law to be persecuted in His name:

19 "For you have trusted in your wickedness; you [the IRS and our wicked government] have said, 'No one sees
20 me'; your wisdom and your knowledge have warped you; and you have said in your heart, 'I am and there is 21 no one else besides me.' Therefore evil shall come upon you; you shall not know from where it arises [Iraq?
22 Afghanistan? Who knows?]. And trouble shall come upon you; you shall not be able to put it off [war on 23 terrorism will have no end]. And desolation shall come upon you suddenly [9-11-2001 in New York City],
24 which you shall not know. Stand now with your enchantments [New Age philosophy, "people friendly"
25 churches that don't preach doctrine and God's word and have become vanity] and the multitude of your
26 sorceries [drugs], in which you have labored from your youth—perhaps you will be able to profit, perhaps you
27 will prevail. You are wearied in the multitude of your counsels [greedy lawyers and corrupt politicians who we
28 have too many of in this country]; Let now the astrologers, the stargazers [horoscopes, weathermen], and the 29 monthly prognosticators [stock market analysts] stand up and save you from these things that shall come upon
30 you. Behold, they shall be as stubble, they shall not deliver themselves from the power of the flame; it shall 31 not be a coal to be warmed by, nor a fire to sit before! Thus shall they be to you with whom you have labored, 32 your merchants from your youth; they shall wander each one to his quarter. No one shall save you."
33 [Isaiah 47:10-11, Bible, NKJV]

- 34 4. God thinks that those who try to make it without Him are fools, and His sovereign reward for those who attempt to go 35 it alone is slavery, sin, and oppression:

36 "Woe to the rebellious children," says the Lord, "Who take counsel, but not of Me, and who devise plans, but
37 not of My Spirit, that they may add sin to sin; who walk to go down to Egypt, and have not asked My advice,
38 to strengthen themselves in the strength of Pharaoh, and to trust in the shadow of Egypt! Therefore the
39 strength of Pharaoh shall be your shame, and trust in the shadow of Egypt shall be your humiliation ..."

40 Now go, write it before them on a tablet, and note it on a scroll, that it may be for time to come, forever and
41 ever: that this is a rebellious people, lying children, children who will not hear the law of the Lord; who say to
42 the seers, "Do not see," and to the prophets, "Do not prophesy to us right things" Speak to us smooth
43 [politically correct] things, prophesy deceits. Get out of the way, turn aside from the path, cause the Holy One
44 of Israel to cease from before us."

45 Therefore thus says the Holy One of Israel:

46 "Because you despise this word, and trust in oppression and perversity, and rely on them, therefore this 47 iniquity shall be to you like a breach ready to fall, a bulge in a high wall, whose breaking comes suddenly, in 48 an instant. And He shall break it like the breaking of the potter's vessel, which is broken in pieces; He shall 49 not spare. So there shall not be found among its fragments a shard to take fire from the hearth, or to take
50 water from the cistern."
51 [Isaiah 30:1-3, 8-14, Bible, NKJV]

- 52 5. Our Founding Fathers also agreed with the requirement for religious faith as a prerequisite for personal sovereignty:

53 "It is when a people forget God that tyrants forge their chains ..."
54 [Patrick Henry]

1 "Those people who are not governed by GOD will be ruled by tyrants."
2 [William Penn (after which Pennsylvania was named)]

3 "A free people [claim] their rights as derived from the laws of nature, and not as the gift of their chief
4 magistrate."
5 [Thomas Jefferson: Rights of British America, 1774. ME 1:209, Papers 1:134 ]

6 "Can the liberties of a nation be thought secure when we have removed their only firm basis, a conviction in the
7 minds of the people that these liberties are of the gift of God? That they are not to be violated but with His 8 wrath?"
9 [Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XVIII, 1782. ME 2:227 ]

10 "Resistance to tyrants is obedience to God."
11 [Benjamin Franklin]

12 "Propitious smiles of heaven can never be expected on a nation that disregards the eternal rules of order and 13 right which heaven itself has ordained."
14 [George Washington (1732-1799), First Inaugural Address]

15 This book will therefore devote itself exclusively to thoroughly convincing the reader of the following facts and 16 conclusions using authoritative evidence from the government's own mouth and using Natural Law concepts from the Bible
17 and other books:

18 1. Legal Education and Activism:

- 19 1.1. Educate the general populace on legal issues.
- 20 1.2. Encourage people to pay to the government no more than enacted, positive law requires them to pay, and to avoid 21 all voluntary financial relationships with the government.
- 22 1.3. Encourage freedom and liberty, which means promoting a much smaller and more limited federal government 23 than we have now.
- 24 1.4. Encourage the values that made this country great, including belief in God, personal responsibility, rugged 25 individualism, love for our fellow Americans, and strong reliance on family.
- 26 1.5. Educate the reader about the statutes and regulations governing federal or state income taxation.
- 27 1.6. Ensure that both the reader and more importantly their government, obeys every aspect of the laws on taxation.
- 28 1.7. Encourage people to be more involved in the political process.
- 29 1.8. Encourage an ethical and moral government that protects our Constitutional rights in its role as our fiduciary and 30 public servant.

31 2. Nature of Subtitle A Income Taxes:

- 32 2.1. The Subtitle A income tax is and always has been an indirect excise tax according to the U.S. supreme Court..
- 33 2.2. Excise taxes are taxes on privileges granted to "persons" above and beyond those enjoyed by ordinary persons.
- 34 2.3. The only "persons" in receipt of taxable government privileges are:
  - 35 2.3.1. Businesses involved in licensed foreign commerce under 26 U.S.C. §7001:
    - 36 2.3.1.1. U.S. Corporations (not state corporations) involved only in foreign commerce.
    - 37 2.3.1.2. U.S. Partnerships (not those registered by states) involved only in foreign commerce.
    - 38 2.3.1.3. Officers of corporations involved in foreign commerce.
  - 39 2.3.2. Elected or appointed officers of the US. Government holding privileged public office, which is called a 40 "trade or business" in the Internal Revenue Code.
- 41 2.4. For all other natural persons not meeting requirements defined above, filing returns and payment of Subtitle A 42 income taxes are and always have been voluntary and not mandatory.

43 3. Subtitles A and C Income Tax Jurisdiction of the U.S. Government:

- 44 3.1. The U.S. government only has authority to assess and collect I.R.C., Subtitle A federal revenues within its 45 territorial jurisdiction, which includes only the District of Columbia and other federal territories coming under 46 Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. Constitution.
- 47 3.2. Subtitles A and C of the I.R.C. only apply to:
  - 48 3.2.1. "U.S. citizens" under 8 U.S.C. §1401, "residents" (meaning "aliens") temporarily abroad under 26 C.F.R.
49 §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii) who have income effectively connected to a "trade or business", meaning that they either
50 hold or have elected to be treated as though they hold, public office in the U.S. government and are in 51 receipt of federal payments.
  - 52 3.2.2. "nonresident alien INDIVIDUALS" (meaning public officers) who receive payments from the U.S.
53 government that are connected with a "trade or business", which means a public office as shown under 26
54 U.S.C. Section 861 and the implementing regulations found in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f).

- 1 3.3. The only human beings who are statutory “U.S. citizens” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 are those who are born or
 2 naturalized in the District of Columbia or U.S. territories or other federal property subject to the exclusive
 3 legislative jurisdiction and sovereignty of the federal government (such as military bases, national parks, etc).
 4 3.4. Most human beings living in our country are not “U.S. citizens” under 8 U.S.C. §1401. They are instead
 5 “nationals” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) or under The Law of Nations, Vattel, but very few people understand
 6 this reality. Instead, most people have been deceived by a corrupt federal government and the legal profession
 7 into incorrectly believing they are “U.S. citizens” using tricky “words of art” definitions as a means of illegally
 8 expanding federal jurisdiction inside the sovereign states.
 9 3.5. The 14th Amendment was originally intended to protect former slaves in the southern states following the Civil
 10 War by allowing them to obtain federal citizenship through naturalization because their own states would not
 11 recognize their citizenship. They could then have a type of substandard citizenship that would offer them limited
 12 constitutional and statutory protections of their rights while they were living in hostile southern states who would
 13 not recognize their rights. The 14th Amendment, however, was illegally ratified at gunpoint after the civil war
 14 and at least one state supreme court (the Utah Supreme Court) has declared this fact to be the case. Ironically,
 15 following the passage of the Sixteenth Amendment in 1913, the deceitful public servants misused the language of 16 the 14th Amendment to deceive “nationals of the United States” born in states of the Union into falsely believing
 17 that they were “U.S. citizens” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 who were subject to federal laws and police powers,
 18 including the Internal Revenue Code. Scoundrels in government thereby promoted untruths about citizenship and 19 about the Fourteenth Amendment in order to spread the very slavery that the amendment was intended to 20 eliminate.
 21 3.6. State and federal territorial jurisdictions, for the purposes of Subtitles A and C of the Internal Revenue Code, are 22 mutually exclusive. The only overlapping taxing authority is for Excise taxes found in Subtitle D.
 23 3.7. The only “persons” who are “subject to” (but not necessarily liable for) state or federal income taxes for most 24 states are nonresidents of the state, who on paper live in federal areas or enclaves within the state called “this
 25 State” or “State of” (see California Revenue and Taxation Code, Sections 6017 and 17018 as an example of this 26 trick). The states have tricked Americans into misstating the facts by claiming themselves and their children to be
 27 “U.S. persons” or “U.S. citizens” and then taxing them under the Buck Act of 1940 as “U.S. citizens” living on 28 federal property. They have done this in order to get “kickbacks” from those that the IRS has deceived into 29 participating in a constructively fraudulent de facto tax system.
 30 3.8. Confusion by Americans over the jurisdiction of the U.S. government to assess and enforce Subtitles A and C of 31 the I.R.C. focuses mainly on the definition of the term “United States” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and 32 (a)(10). The legal profession has deliberately perpetuated and enlarged this confusion by removing references to 33 the definitions of “United States” from every major legal dictionary currently in print within the United States of 34 America.
 35 3.9. According to the California Revenue and Taxation Code, section 17019, “foreign country” is defined as anything
 36 outside of federal property, not outside of the 50 Union states. This is consistent with the definition of “United 37 States” found in section 7701(a)(9) of the Internal Revenue Code, and must be consistent in order for amounts on
 38 a federal tax return to transfer unaltered to a state income tax return for most amounts. It is also consistent with 40
 39 U.S.C. §255, which only gives jurisdiction to the federal government on federal property. The Internal Revenue
 40 Code does not define the term “foreign country” because our dishonest federal government doesn’t want you
 41 knowing that you are a non-resident non-person with respect to the federal government personal income tax
 42 jurisdiction:

43 “17019 ‘Foreign country’ means any jurisdiction other than one embraced within the United States.”

- 44 3.10. The Internal Revenue Code has been written in such a way that it is deliberately vague and overly complex so that 45 it creates the false impression that it has far more jurisdiction than it actually has.
 46 3.11. The deliberate vagueness of the Internal Revenue Code ensures that Americans and men of ordinary intelligence
 47 can’t understand it and are lead to the incorrect conclusion or presumption that they are liable for Subtitle A
 48 income taxes and that they are “taxpayers”. This very vagueness is the reason that the code in total should have 49 been declared “void for vagueness” long ago by the supreme Court.
 50 3.12. The vagueness of the I.R.C. also creates a windfall for the legal profession, because vagueness contributes to 51 increased litigation and an undue expansion of the influence and control of the legal profession over the rest of 52 the populace. This leads the legal profession to be able to easily plunder the assets of otherwise law abiding 53 Americans, who must hire legal counsel to defend their property rights against government extortion.

54 4. Conspiracy to protect and expand the operation of Subtitle A income taxes:

- 1 4.1. A U.S. Government conspiracy exists to protect and expand the illegal enforcement of federal income taxes inside
 2 the 50 sovereign states of the Union. This conspiracy of fraud, ignorance, and deceit is perpetuated mainly by the
 3 federal circuit courts, the IRS, and the legal profession, who all stand to gain handsomely from enforcing an
 4 otherwise illegal tax. The supreme Court is part of the conspiracy because it has neglected its duty to keep the
 5 circuit courts in line by denying appeals to it from people who have been wronged by such abuses. The Congress
 6 is part of the Conspiracy because they refuse to write clear laws and refuse to discipline errant judges who have
 7 been illegally helping them enforce an Internal Revenue Code that is not even law and does not obligate anyone 8 to do anything.
- 9 4.2. Our covetous public servants want your money and to control you so badly that they will do anything and 10 everything, which in most cases means violating enacted positive law and commit fraud and extortion. Such 11 fraud and extortion results in commission of acts of treason, war, and conspiracy against rights Americans across 12 the country. These acts are illegal and unconstitutional in every respect and should be basis enough to impeach
 13 members of Congress.

14 5. Chief tools of extortion:

- 15 5.1. Social Security Numbers and the Social Security system are the vehicle that allows all of these abuses to 16 continue.
- 17 5.2. Unless people unite and insist on their privacy and deny getting TINs and SSN's and deny illegal uses of SSNs as 18 Taxpayer Identification Numbers (TINs), then this oppressive situation will get worse.
- 19 5.3. Although the federal government has no jurisdiction to require private individuals to use social security numbers
 20 with their financial accounts, the Federal Reserve and the ignorance of bank administrators about the law and 21 unlawful coercion by the IRS causes the banks to force account holders to provide SSN's or be denied accounts in 22 many cases. This amounts to a constructive conspiracy against rights of sovereign Americans of the 50 Union
 23 states. Ignorant, unquestioning compliance by Americans also helps perpetuate this gross violation of personal 24 privacy.

25 6. Why things never get better and keep getting worse:

- 26 6.1. Judicial and official immunity on the part of judges and IRS agents and collusion by the federal courts are the 27 main reasons the abuses by these individuals are not punished and corrected and why they continue.
- 28 6.2. Sovereign immunity, ignorance of the law, collusion by the legal profession against the rights of Americans in the 29 pursuit of the almighty dollar, and the Anti-Injunction Act (26 U.S.C. §7421) are the reason why people have not 30 been successful suing the government for illegally collecting taxes.
- 31 6.3. The government has created a regulatory structure around the income tax that is a hypocritical double-standard
 32 and which does NOT implement the requirement for equal protection found in our Constitution. This regulatory 33 structure makes it more complex, costly, and frustrating to keep one's income and assets than it is to just give it
 34 away and give up the fight. For instance, the IRS issues illegal "Notice of Levies" without an actual levy issued
 35 by a court. This means they can fool employers and banks into illegally surrendering private property without a
 36 court order, and thereby force Citizens to have to litigate to get their property back, which oftentimes is more 37 expensive than the value of the property that was plundered by the government to begin with.
- 38 6.4. When faced with this unfair situation, most rather passive Americans just throw up their hands and say:

39 "I give up. Take my property but just leave me alone!"

40 Under these circumstances, income taxes become "protection money" to keep the IRS extortionists off their back.
 41 This is no different in character from the actions of the Mafia. That is why people like Irwin Schiff refers to the 42 I.R.S and corrupted judges in the federal judiciary who they control and terrorize as the "Federal Mafia".

- 43 6.5. Legal ignorance of the general populace and the deliberate technicalities of the legal profession prevent 44 Americans from litigating without counsel to protect their rights. Furthermore, the legal, tax, accounting, and 45 payroll professions, which are regulated by the government (conflict of interest) have no financial incentive to do
 46 the right thing and every incentive from the government to maintain the status quo and expand the operation of 47 the income tax illegally.

48 7. Solution:

- 49 7.1. We need to get our own act together FIRST before we expect the government to get their act together. This 50 means we need to:
- 51 7.1.1. Stop thinking like socialists.
- 52 7.1.2. Stop trying to put the government in charge of everything. The only thing the government is good at is 53 screwing things up. The more things we can privatize the better.
- 54 7.1.3. Take full and complete responsibility for supporting ourselves, our parents, and our families instead of 55 expecting the government to help us, in the form of welfare, Social Security, and Medicare.

- 1 7.1.4. Quit blaming the government for our problems and start doing what we can to fix things by getting 2 personally involved with the political process and effecting reforms.
- 3 7.2. Nothing will change without passionate involvement of the citizenry on a large scale. It's time for another 4 Boston Tea Party!
- 5 7.3. Since legal ignorance is why things have been allowed to get this bad, it's very important to get educated about 6 the law and your rights. This book is a very good place to start with your education.
- 7 7.4. We encourage you to question every source of information, including this book. Verify the facts for yourself.
 8 When you know the truth, you can have the kind of passion that persuades juries and keeps you out of legal 9 trouble.
- 10 7.5. Do your part in eliminating illegal enforcement of Subtitles A and C income taxes on Americans by the IRS:
 11 7.5.1. Follow the suggestions in this book to claim your rightful status as a non-resident non-person and then ask
 12 for a refund of all past taxes paid, and then stop withholding and paying income taxes.
 13 7.5.2. Be an active and informed citizen.
 14 7.5.3. Defend your rights and your privacy vigilantly against the IRS and the government, both in court and out of 15 court.
 16 7.5.4. Take every opportunity to expose and prosecute government corruption, malfeasance, and conflict of 17 interest wherever you find it.
 18 7.5.5. Don't misrepresent your citizenship or "taxpayer" status to public servants on government forms, because 19 you will invite further abuse.
- 20 7.6. "nontaxpayers" should make tax collection as difficult, costly, and high maintenance an activity for the IRS as 21 they can, so that the cost of collection and litigation will exceed the value of the monies collected.
- 22 7.7. Expose the truths in this book far and wide. Tell everyone you know about the fraud. When you talk to anyone 23 on the phone, give them our web address and tell them they can get legally avoid ever having to pay federal 24 income taxes by downloading and reading our free book. Most of the time, they will listen, and slowly but surely,
 25 the American public will be incentivized to get educated.
- 26 8. Conflict of interest and government corruption. Because of lust for power, greed, and dishonesty of most 27 politicians, judges, and IRS/SSA employees, you can and should expect that employees and civil "servants" will:
 28 8.1. Not disclose to citizens unless coerced the limits of their delegated authority or jurisdiction.
 29 8.2. Never tell you how to quit the Social Security Program.
 30 8.3. Never tell you how to rescind your Social Security Number.
 31 8.4. Never state the truth about income taxes documented in this book because stealing your money is the source of 32 their power.
 33 8.5. Suppress efforts by Americans to establish the limits on their authority or jurisdiction.
 34 8.6. Do everything in their power to provide as little information as possible about themselves via the Freedom Of 35 Information Act (FOIA) and other similar laws.
 36 8.7. Try through legislation and their operating procedures to maximize invasion of your privacy because this is how 37 they maximize control over your life and make you into a hunted and vulnerable animal.
 38 8.8. Ignore your correspondence or pretend like they lost it so they don't have to respond to it.
 39 8.9. Nominate less than ethical men as judges to sit on the bench in federal courtrooms and refuse to punish or 40 discipline the misconduct of those who are elected.
 41 8.10. Use unethical, tyrannical, and downright evil methods to try to convict honest people who expose the truths in 42 this book.
 43 8.11. Ignore, avoid, or hide the requirement for consent on their forms using bureaucratic red tape and "words of art".

44 Thorough research and years of work by the author and many other patriotic Americans have led to the development of this 45 document and the exposure of the Great Deception. The written law, specific court decisions, as well as case studies will 46 be used to thoroughly document the extent of the illegal conspiracy being used to defraud you of your money. The goal is 47 to build an "air tight" case that juries filled with ordinary people with little legal background can understand and trust to
 48 support the many claims that have been made in this document. This approach allows this book to be used not only as an
 49 educational vehicle for pro-se litigant Americans (notice we didn't say "taxpayers") who are affordably defending their
 50 constitutionally-guaranteed rights, but also allows it to become the starting point for any discussions that you might have
 51 with the IRS about your tax situation should you decide to undertake any of the options presented in chapter 3 of the Tax
 52 Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008. We have also numbered each line in the book so that you can refer to specific 53 passages if you decide to use this book as legal evidence or foundation of your good faith beliefs (see Cheek v. United 54 States, 498 U.S. 192 (1991)) in court against the government, and also for use in bringing to our attention any errors you
 55 might find so we can fix them in future versions of this book.

1 This document will use the written federal statutes, regulations, and U.S. Supreme Court Rulings themselves to document
2 that the scope of the federal income tax is far more limited than the American public generally believes. It will be shown
3 that while many types of "income" can be taxable, they can be taxable only if they come from specific taxable activities
4 (a.k.a. "sources"), and it will be shown that the taxable "sources" apply only to those engaged in international or foreign
5 commerce, but do not apply to American Citizens living and working exclusively within the 50 Union states and outside
6 the federal United States. This document will also trace the history of federal income tax legislation to show you in black
7 and white how the Great Deception has been craftily perfected over the years by our cunning elected representatives to be
8 more convincing. Make no mistake about it, the greedy government wants your money desperately and they will undertake 9 any number of unlawful, deceptive, and dishonest tactics to get it, including:

- 10 1. Writing deceptive and misleading and confusing statutes so they can convince you that you owe income tax to them in 11 violation of your constitutional rights.
- 12 2. Ambiguously defining terms or using their legal rather than common definition in order to perpetuate the confusion 13 and deception of people and employers, including:
  - 14 2.1 Ambiguously and incompletely defining "voluntary compliance" in IRS literature.
  - 15 2.2 Ambiguously defining the word "source" in the U.S. Code and the Code of Federal Regulations.
  - 16 2.3 Ambiguously defining the term "United States", which actually means the District of Columbia and NOT the 50
17 Union states, as far as the tax code is concerned.
  - 18 2.4 Ambiguously defining the term "States" in the Internal Revenue Code and the Code of Federal Regulations, 19 which actually means federal possessions and territories and NOT the 50 Union states.
  - 20 2.5 Not providing a positive statement anywhere in the IRS publications or the law that states that Americans with 21 income exclusively from within the 50 Union states are not subject to income tax.
  - 22 2.6 Deceptively defining the statutory word "employee" within the Internal Revenue Code and Code of Federal 23 Regulations (which is actually a federal statutory "employee" and not a private worker, as the U.S. code defines 24 it).
- 25 3. Perpetuating your ignorance about the written law by:
  - 26 3.1 Using their knowledge of the craftily worded law to convince you that you aren't "qualified" or justified in 27 interpreting the written laws that don't bind you to pay income taxes.
  - 28 3.2 Refusing to answer one simple question repeatedly: "What law in the U.S. Codes obligates me as an American 29 living in the 50 Union states liable to pay income tax on income derived from labor or investments in the 50
30 Union states?"
  - 31 3.3 Refusing to discuss or share the truth with you about the issues addressed in this document. They do this in 32 violation of the IRS regulations that require them to be responsive and thorough and honest in answering your 33 questions and justifying why you owe tax.
  - 34 3.4 Deliberately not correcting the errors made by employers in incorrectly declaring wages earned by Americans in 35 the 50 Union states as "gross income".
- 36 4. Making the process and complexity of defending oneself against unlawful IRS tactics more costly and inconvenient 37 and exasperating than just paying an unlawful income tax.
- 38 5. Using computers to automate the harassment and extortion of taxes not owed out of millions of law-abiding Americans
- 39 6. Conspiring to create whatever political emergencies, exigencies, and executive orders they can to convince you that 40 they should be permitted to bypass the constitution, property rights, and due process protections that are the 41 foundation of our republican democracy and liberties. This starts with:
  - 42 6.1 Maintaining a perpetual federal budget deficit and debt that justifies continuing to pay income taxes.
  - 43 6.2 Declaring wars and having conflicts that make people feel so threatened that they don't mind paying extra money
44 to the government for "protection". Isn't that what extortionists do? Since the government does this in a 45 cooperative, coordinated, and systematic way, doesn't that make it a conspiracy?
- 46 7. "Encrypting" and obfuscating the tax records they maintain on you (Individual Master File, or IMF) with "legalese"
47 and not publishing standards on how to interpret them so that only their own "experts", who are a trusted few that don't 48 publicize their secret or respond to questions, can understand their meaning and reach the conclusion that you owe no 49 tax.
- 50 8. Censoring and punishing whistle blowers in violation of the First Amendment to the Constitution by:
  - 51 8.1 Threatening "political" audits against detractors.
  - 52 8.2 Threatening contempt sanctions against litigants who insist on talking about the tax code in federal court.
  - 53 8.3 Writing its rules regarding religious organization tax exemptions so that churches cannot have political opinions 54 or advocate specific parties or candidates who might oppose income taxes.

9. Scheduling regular “tax lynchings” of noted personalities in using biased judges for alleged (but not actual) tax crimes, to keep the rest of us gullible sheep “volunteering” to line up and get fleeced of their hard-earned property and income on an annual basis.
10. Abusing the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) by denying access by Americans to important aspects of their administrative record and IRS Individual Master File (IMF). Forcing Americans to litigate in order to get the information the law entitles them to.
11. Abusing their power illegally to keep this issue out of higher courts to prevent people from finding out that "the emperor has no clothes" on the income tax issue. They do this by the following illegal tactics:
  - 11.1 Bypassing due process protections and effecting unauthorized and illegal tax levies (the law only allows the IRS to levy the accounts of government employees, and not private Americans).
  - 11.2 Confiscating property and records of Americans illegally without due process to build their case and cripple their defense by depriving them of evidence they need to defend themselves.
  - 11.3 Undermining one's ability to litigate by taking all his property BEFORE litigation begins so he can't afford legal representation
  - 11.4 Holding "kangaroo" tax courts where a bureaucrat judge who is bought and sold by the IRS becomes the judge, the jury, and the executioner!
  - 11.5 Intimidating Americans by making the litigation so complex and time consuming that they will want to just give up and pay the unlawful tax.
  - 11.6 Using the label of “tax protester” to create a discriminatory environment for Americans who litigate to protect their constitutional right not to pay federal income taxes. Fortunately, starting in 1998 when the IRS Restructuring and Reform Act was passed, the use of the term “tax protester” by the IRS was made illegal.

This document is a serious and scholarly study into the origins and nature of the constitutional republic of the United States of America and the foundations for the government’s authority to make Americans liable for an income tax. Throughout, we discuss the cultural and religious beliefs of the noble and honorable Christian men of faith who were our founding fathers in order to help clarify the reasoning behind why the Constitution was written the way that it was and why the U.S. Supreme Court ruled the way that it did. We also make use of frequent quotes from the Bible in order to show where their thinking was derived from. The intent of this is not to denigrate or advantage any particular religious faith, but simply to help you understand how our culture and our country and our laws evolved to the point that they are today. A large part of understanding our tax system is understanding the history behind it, including its Christian origins. The ideas we present in this book are universal and apply to all people and all faiths. While the author (like the founding fathers) is a devoted Christian, he would never condemn any other person or faith. To the contrary, we believe that:

*“Beloved, let us love one another, for love is of God; and everyone who loves is born of God and knows God.”
[1 John 4:7, Bible, NKJV]*

It is therefore our sincerest desire not to get pious or self-righteous toward any of our readers, many of whom are not Christians. In the spirit of our Founding Fathers, we will try very hard to objectively apply both God’s law and man’s law as the yardstick to determine whether the actions of our government are honorable, justifiable, and in our best interests as the sovereigns who rule that government. This book was therefore written in the spirit of 1 Corinthians 13:6, which says about love:

“Love...does not rejoice in iniquity, but rejoices in TRUTH.”

This book is about rejoicing in and understanding the TRUTH about income taxes. It is about stripping the IRS and your state taxing authorities completely naked in the room in front of you so you can clearly see every skeleton, every wart, everything they have been hiding from you through deceit and lies, and every minute detail of what they have been doing over the years with legislation and their actual behavior to either undermine, or support your rights and your liberties as they relate to income taxes. This is consistent with the Chinese proverb that says:

You can best judge a man by the work of his hands.

This document shall serve as a "60 Minutes" style documentary on the IRS and income tax scam. Throughout this document, we will emphasize the following approach toward taxation which is advocated in the Bible:

*“Better is a little with righteousness.
Than vast revenues without justice.”
[Prov. 16:8, Bible]*

1                   "He who oppresses the poor to increase his riches, and he who gives to the rich, will surely come to poverty."
 2                   [Prov. 22:16; Take a look at section 2.12 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual to find out how IRS enforcement
 3                   focuses mainly on the poor, the married, and the less educated, who are defenseless against greedy slick
 4                   lawyers who want to extort their money]

5   Despite "common knowledge" to the contrary, the earnings of most Americans is not subject to the United States federal
 6   income tax. You will be surprised to find that you were never "liable" to pay the income taxes that you have been paying
 7   all these years. Instead, the strict limits on federal power imposed by the Constitution prohibited Congress from imposing a
 8   tax on the incomes of American Citizens who live and work exclusively within the 50 Union states, and the federal statutes
 9   and regulations demonstrate that Congress did not and could not impose such a tax. This was not due to an oversight, or to 10   some technical imperfection in the legislative process. Congress never even attempted to impose such a tax. Instead, a
 11   limited income tax was imposed, and was worded in such a way that it could easily be misinterpreted, both by the public
 12   and tax professionals, to give the impression that it was applicable to the income of most Americans. The IRS's fraudulent 13   publications and misapplication of the tax code over the years also contributed to convincing and "training" us to
 14   misinterpret the tax code and unwittingly pay taxes for which we clearly were never liable. This misapplication of the tax
 15   code by the average American Citizen was also fostered and encouraged by the fact that most people have never read all
 16   9,500 pages of the Internal Revenue Codes, but instead read and rely only on the incomplete at best and fraudulent at worst
 17   IRS publications. And the IRS has been able to get away with this fraud because the federal courts have refused to hold
 18   them accountable for what they write in their publications. However, a more in-depth study of the federal tax statutes and 19   accompanying regulations reveals that the tax is far more limited in scope than the public has been deceived into believing.

20   While following the proof in this book may require concentration, it does not require any "leap of faith," or any 21   questionable "interpretation" of the law, or even a legal background. The legal system of the United States is a system of 22   written law, and the words in the law must clearly inform ordinary individuals of exactly what the law requires. No
 23   speculation or interpretation by others should be required. According to the U.S. Supreme Court, we are a government of 24   laws and not of men:

25                   "The government of the United States has been emphatically termed a government of laws, and not of men.
 26                   It will certainly cease to deserve that high appellation, if the laws furnish no remedy for the violation of a vested 27                   legal right."
 28                   [Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137, 1 Cranch 137, 2 L.Ed. 60 (1803)]

29   In order to construct a "government of laws and not of men", the laws must be written clearly and simply so that they can
 30   be understood not only by a lawyer or judge, but more importantly by the common man unaided. After all, since it is juries
 31   who must apply the law to determine guilt, the common man sitting on them must be able to understand that law unaided or
 32   he ceases to the sovereign who keeps the government in check as juries were intended to do.

33                   "A statute which either forbids or requires the doing of an act in terms so vague that men and women of
 34                   common intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning and differ as to its application, violates the first
 35                   essential of due process of law."
 36                   [Connally v General Const. Co., 269 U.S. 385 (1926)]

37   To the extent that only lawyers and judges can understand our laws is the extent to which custody of our liberties has been 38   transferred from us and the law to the subjective whims of a ruling class of individuals composed of members of a
 39   "priesthood" full of avaricious and egotistical witch doctors called lawyers, politicians, and judges.

40   Therefore, an accurate determination of what the law requires can be accomplished only by an examination of the relevant
 41   clauses of the Constitution, the statutes, and the regulations themselves, without regard for preconceived assumptions about
 42   what the law says. If we as common men cannot understand the laws as written, then the bottom line is that they quite 43   frankly must be declared unenforceable and unconstitutional because they do not meet the "void for vagueness" doctrine of 44   the U.S. Supreme Court that you will read about later in section 5.12. Despite the enormous, complex maze of federal 45   statutes and regulations built up by government lawyers and legislators over the years to "protect their turf" and "conceal
 46   the truth", written in what is virtually a foreign language to most (sometimes called "legalese"), the truth is still quite
 47   provable, as will be shown throughout the rest of this book. Furthermore, if you are a Christian and you are afraid to read
 48   or try to understand the law, then God says you are making a big mistake, so you must learn to overcome your phobia of the 49   law or suffer His wrath and fury eventually:

50                   "One who turns his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer is an abomination."
 51                   [Proverbs 28:9]

1                   “Those who forsake the law praise the wicked, but such as keep the law contend with them.”
 2                   [Prov. 28:4, Bible, NKJV]

3           Though many have complained about and/or resisted the federal income tax, the truth is that most Americans have no
 4           reason to “protest” the law at all. The federal income tax is neither invalid nor unconstitutional. The tax complies fully 5           with the strict Constitutional limitations on the power of Congress.

6           What does warrant protest and demand for correction is how the tax has been (and still is) grossly misrepresented to the
 7           American people, and illegally misapplied by federal employees in the federal judiciary and the IRS, most of whom are 8           equally ignorant of the truth. Many Americans have been harassed, robbed, and imprisoned unjustly, and the few in 9           government who knew the truth did nothing to stop it because of their covetousness for money. Political power has long
 10          been associated with dishonesty and deception, but the misrepresentation of the federal income tax
 11          (referred to below as “the Great Deception” or the “Immaculate Deception”)
 12          constitutes the most massive fraud and conspiracy in the history of the United States
 13          of America. (It is more a conspiracy of ignorance than a conspiracy of secrecy,
 14          meaning that most of those involved in the tax industry, including the IRS and tax
 15          professionals, are guilty of incompetence and ignorance, rather than intentional 16          deceit).

17          What also warrants protest by every American is the deceptive and unclear way that the laws are described in the Internal
 18          Revenue Codes, and especially the way that words are legally defined and used. The tax code is deliberately confusing
 19          because of the issues discussed in section 1.9 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005 entitled
 20          “What would it take for the IRS and the Congress to ‘come clean’?”. There is also a lot of inconsistency in the definitions
 21          between the Internal Revenue Code, Code of Federal Regulations Title 26, the IRS Publications, and the Internal Revenue
 22          Manual (IRM). All of these sources for tax code, procedure, and forms should be completely consistent because right now
 23          they definitely are not and this is a source of great confusion to the average American. This situation must be remedied
 24          immediately in order to ensure that all Americans can regain their “due process rights” and eliminate the fear, uncertainty,
 25          and unpredictability of the way the federal tax codes are implemented by the IRS and the courts.

26          We predict that there will very likely be many in government who will be embarrassed and feel convicted and even 27          threatened from a legal perspective by the evidence and conclusions in this book. Because they fear being prosecuted for 28          their misdeeds, they are likely to try to discredit and slander our work. They will feel tempted to call the research in this
 29          book “frivolous”, criminally negligent, insane, and downright wrong for lack of any other way to rationally refute it point
 30          by point. However, you will find that everything in this book and everything we assert on our website is based entirely on 31          accurate, extensively researched law and evidence that you can easily and independently validate for yourself using the 32          Internet. We even show you how to verify every claim we make yourself in chapters 3 and 8 and we encourage you to do
 33          so as so many others have. It is precisely this kind of extensive peer review that has caused the quality of this document to 34          improve over time to the point where it is now. We have yet to find one rational, sane person who has looked at the 35          research in this book and identified anything that is incorrect or frivolous. Every person we have encountered to date who 36          has a beef with this document has something to gain by doing so because they either collect a government paycheck or are
 37          atheist socialist/communist liberals who want a totalitarian government sugar daddy and false god to worship. We’re glad 38          to see such people are offended, because these are the types who ought to feel convicted and rebuked by this book.
 39          Therefore, when you are confronted by slanderous and belligerent government “servants” or socialists who are trying to
 40          brainwash and intimidate you with their lies and rhetoric, the best thing to say is what we say below. This message usually 41          scares them so bad we never hear from them again, even though we did want to hear their specific valid concerns about
 42          errors in our book:

43                   “I don’t want to hear any of your verbal abuse, propaganda, or lies. Put your money where your mouth is.
 44                   Show me any authoritative evidence, law, or court ruling from only the Supreme Court that overrules or 45                   conflicts with anything in this book or invalidates any of the main points in chapter 5. I also challenge you to 46                   disprove any of the assertions in this book by answering the Tax Deposition Questions on the Family Guardian
 47                   Website at <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/Deposition.htm>. If you can’t 48                   refute the evidence and law behind each question, then you have agreed with the conclusions of the book by
 49                   default. Unless and until you do so, remember that it’s all belligerent, violent name calling and verbal abuse,
 50                   which makes you a bully and a tyrant. Under those circumstances, your approach, not the book, is frivolous.
 51                   Also remember that Proverbs 18:13 says: ‘He that answers a matter before he hears it, it is a folly and a shame
 52                   on him.’ Have you read the questions and at least through Chapter 5 of the book before writing it off as nonsense? Any other approach would be ignorance and folly on your part according to Natural Law. Your unwillingness and complete failure to confront or refute the evidence and the truth is the very definition of ignorance in my book. Now get to work answering the questions and refuting the research and evidence or admit you are wrong and leave me alone. ”

Why haven't the truths in this book been exposed on a large scale already? We'll answer that question in great detail in section 1.11.4 but right now, suffice it to say that with the advent of the Internet, technology has now for the first time made it possible for us to read and study and search the "whole law" online from the comfort of their own home and easily and quickly learn enough on their own to understand and interpret the law for themselves and thereby end the tyranny created by the sheer volume of the various federal laws. That is how this document was prepared by the authors. Up until recently, the very latest and up-to-date legislation was difficult to get one's hands on in a law library and this promoted fear and ignorance by the common man about the law. But now, everyone in our society with a computer and Internet access has the very latest laws and news right up to the minute AT NO COST, so we no longer need to rely on a "priesthood" of lawyers, politicians, and government bureaucrats to be telling us what to do or interpreting the laws for us. Knowledge is power, and organized and useful knowledge of the kind found in this book makes the ultimate weapon against deceitful and covetous government servants!

In a sense, we are entering a renaissance of knowledge in all fields, including law, not unlike back in the first millennium (1000-1500 A.D.), where there were no printing presses and the printed word, including religious writings like the bible, were not available to the common man by other than an expensive and time consuming scribe process. This led to a caste society with no middle class and serfdom to the learned class brought about by ignorance. The advent of the printing press and public education changed all that and democratized knowledge for everyone. The Internet is doing for our society what the printing press and Gutenberg Bible did in the 1500's: breaking the tyranny and the priesthood, and the serfdom of ignorance on our lives! What a wonderful privilege it is to see how this will change the landscape for everyone!

Not only can we find the information we want from all over the world instantly, we can also publish our findings GLOBALLY at virtually NO COST! There is no longer any room for ignorance, privacy, or secrecy in today's society, and that will solve lots of our problems eventually, if of course we harness and use the power of technology wisely: Not as a means to obsess over pornography or hack information about people's personal lives, but as a way to empower and educate them. We can collaborate and help each other in ending the "conspiracy of ignorance" and tyranny created by the obfuscated tax code and encouraged by the IRS and U.S. Congress. Technology has ensured that legislators and crafty lawyers can no longer hide their intentions in abstruse and craftily-constructed legalese unavailable to most common men or keep the average American from knowing what they are up to, and praise the Lord for that!

Recall that the American Revolution in 1776 was about revolt against unjust taxation. One of the books that started that revolution was a famous book by Thomas Paine entitled Common Sense. We would like for you to regard this book as being in the same league and having the same purpose as that book, because this book is filled with common sense about the issue of income taxes. It's time for another revolution! Roll up your sleeves and start the revolt. All it will take is about 15% of Americans making a big stink and being very high maintenance for the IRS and the whole corrupt system will come crashing down. This book hopefully will give you enough information to make it more expensive for the government to collect the taxes than the money they take in.

All non-italicized comments (in brackets) within a citation in this document are comments of the author, and do not appear in the text itself. Also, all bold and underlined emphasis within citations has been added by the author.

(Throughout the document there are several "Questions for Doubters" for tax professionals or others who doubt the correctness of this document.)

AND NOW A WORD FROM OUR SPONSOR...GOD HIMSELF

Lastly and most importantly, we want you to finish this document with a deep appreciation for the Christian faith and a respect and reverence for God almighty, who is sovereign, powerful, omnipotent, just, truthful, and merciful. We want to emphasize that there is a spiritual war here on earth for the souls of men between God and the prince of darkness, death, deceit, and lust, Satan. You have no choice but to choose sides. You can serve God or you can serve Satan, but you must serve one of the two, and a failure to decide constitutes a choice for Satan.

"He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad."

1                   "Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy
 2 [against] the [Holy] Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men."

5                   "I know not your works, that you are neither cold nor hot. I could wish you were cold or hot.

 7                   So then, because you are lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will vomit you out of My mouth.

 9                   Because you say, 'I am rich, have become wealthy, and have need of nothing—and do not know that you are 10 wretched, miserable, poor, blind, and naked—

 12                   I counsel you to buy from Me gold refined in the fire, that you may be rich; and white garments, that you may 13 be clothed, that the shame of your nakedness may not be revealed; and anoint your eyes with eye salve, that you 14 may see.

15
 16                   As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten. Therefore be zealous and repent.

17
 18                   Behold, I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears My voice and opens the door, I will come in to him and 19 dine with him, and he with Me.

 21                   To him who overcomes I will grant to sit with Me on My throne, as I also overcame and sat down with My
 23 [Revelation 3:15-21, Bible, NKJV]

24 If you choose God, then you are a free man and a sovereign member of the heavenly Republic who has escaped slavery to 25 sin and ignorance and who will have a seat on the throne at the right hand of God Himself. You will have the wisest and 26 most powerful ally by your side to fight evil whenever you pray for His help. If you don't choose, or you choose Satan or 27 your own worldly gods (government, money, sex, power, hedonism, sin, etc), then you will continue to be slaves of our 28 deceitful government as God's punishment for idolatry and sin. We love the Lord Jesus Christ and we wrote this book to 29 encourage you to have a personal relationship with Him. We want you to experience the rich joy of salvation, forgiveness,
 30 and wisdom that can only come from intimacy with your Creator, like our brilliant founding fathers did.

31                   DRINKING FROM MY SAUCER

32                   I've never made a fortune and it's probably too late now.
 33 But I don't worry about that much, I'm happy anyhow.
 34 And as I go along life's way, I'm reaping better than I sowed.
 35 I'm drinking from my saucer, 'Cause my cup has overflowed.

 38                   Haven't got a lot of riches, and sometimes the going's tough.
 39 But I've got loving ones around me, and that makes me rich enough.
 40 I thank God for His blessings, and the mercies He's bestowed.
 41 I'm drinking from my saucer, 'cause my cup has overflowed.

42
 43                   O, Remember times when things went wrong, My faith wore somewhat thin.
 44 But all at once the dark clouds broke, and sun peeped through again.
 45 So Lord, help me not to gripe about the tough rows that I've hoed.
 46 I'm drinking from my saucer, 'Cause my cup has overflowed.

 48                   If God gives me strength and courage, when the way grows steep and rough.
 49 I'll not ask for other blessings, I'm already blessed enough.
 50 And may I never be too busy, to help others bear their loads.
 51 Then I'll keep drinking from my saucer, 'Cause my cup has overflowed.

 53                   A LITTLE SMILE FOR YOU
 54 to brighten your day.
 55 God Bless you!

56 Godliness with contentment is great gain! Below is the opposite that awaits you if you don't choose God:

57                   "Perverse disputings of men of corrupt minds [who work for the IRS and the government and the legal 58 profession], and destitute of the truth, supposing that gain is godliness: from such withdraw thyself.

59                   But godliness with contentment is great gain.

60                   For we brought nothing into [this] world, [and it is] certain we can carry nothing out.

1 And having food and raiment let us be therewith content.

2 But they that will be rich [at the IRS] fall into temptation and a snare, and [into] many foolish and hurtful lusts,
3 which drown men in destruction and perdition.

4 For the love of money is the root of all evil: which while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and
5 pierced themselves through with many sorrows.

6 But thou, O man of God, flee these things; and follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience,
7 meekness.

8 Fight the good fight of faith, lay hold on eternal life, whereunto thou art also called, and hast professed a 9 good profession before many witnesses.”
10 [1 Timothy 6:5-12, Bible, NKJV]

11 Your salvation and that of your loved ones is far more important to us than any amount of money you might ever save on 12 your taxes, my friend! You will have missed the most valuable and important lesson and message of this book if you
13 neglect your own salvation after learning the profound truths exposed here.

14 “For what shall it profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? “
15 [Mark 8:36]

16 If you want to accept Jesus into your heart for the first time, then please give us a call and we will pray with you and for 17 you! There is still hope for this lost world, but fixing it can only happen one soul at a time.

18 1.3 Who Is This Document Intended To Help?

19 This document is intended to help the following classes of individuals:

- 20 1. PRIVATE workers of PRIVATE companies.
- 21 2. Self-supporting people.
- 22 3. Business owners.
- 23 4. Government employees (see section 5.7: Considerations Involving Government Employees).
- 24 5. Consultants.
- 25 6. Contractors.

26 1.4 Why Should I Believe This Book or Your Website?

27 Some of our readers pick up this book for the first time and notice that the views expressed in it are so different from
28 mainstream America and so different from what they have been taught in the public schools that they erroneously conclude 29 that this book must be wrong. But we must remember that God’s views are very different from the world’s views—they are 30 foreign to nonbelievers:

31 “And do not be conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, that you may prove 32 what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God.”
33 [Romans 12:2, Bible, NKJV]

34 “Do you not know that friendship with the world is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend of 35 the world makes himself an enemy of God.”
36 [James 4:4, Bible, NKJV]

37 Why should you believe anything we are telling you or anything in this book? No doubt, there are a lot of tax scams and 38 money scams out there that have victimized many, and it is our firmest desire that none of the information in this book
39 should ever be described with such words. Why shouldn’t you view this book as just another tax scam and the author as 40 another purveyor of snake oil? These are question we sometimes get from our readers, and it’s the very same question we 41 encourage our readers frequently to be asking their government, the legal profession, and the IRS about their publications,
42 forms, arguments, and skewed propaganda:

43 ALWAYS QUESTION AUTHORITY!!!

Therefore, before we proceed further with our book, let us give you some background about us to prove to you that everything we are saying in this book is the absolute and authoritative truth. Someone once said:

"Never believe anyone who says 'Trust me!' or 'Believe me!'".

This is a contemporary version of Jesus' own words, when He said:

*"If I bear witness of Myself, My witness is not true."
[John 5:31, Bible, NKJV]*

We use this saying often ourselves. You will therefore never hear us say this. Instead, we will explain in excruciating detail the well-researched factual and legal basis of every conclusion and assertion we make in this book, and we will always try to rely on outside sources who are as unbiased as possible as the basis for our conclusions. We will use the words right out of the mouth of the government's own servants in most cases to show beyond any doubt that what we are telling you is true. We will also cite scripture where appropriate to back up our facts and conclusions, because in the final analysis, God is the ultimate and only source of Truth. We will show you by our example and what we are actually doing in our own dealings with the IRS that everything we say is true. This is the only way you will believe us anyway, in the final analysis, and the Bible confirms this:

"Ye shall know them by their fruits. Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs or thistles?"

Even so every good tree bringeth forth good fruit; but a corrupt tree bringeth forth evil fruit.

A good tree cannot bring forth evil fruit, neither [can] a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

*Wherefore by their fruits ye shall know them."
[Matt. 7:16-20]*

1.4.1 Mission Statement

This document and the Family Guardian website it was downloaded from exist as:

1. A legal education and law enforcement group focusing on both God's Laws and man's laws.
2. A free public service.
3. A nonprofit, nondenominational Christian (religious) ministry.
4. A religious fellowship in the church of the Lord Jesus Christ.
5. A religious charity
6. A First Amendment association of activists who are dedicated to political reform of our tax and legal systems
7. A whistle blowing group focused on researching, exposing, publicizing, and punishing government deception and corruption wherever it may be found, and especially in regards to matters relating law, commerce, and taxation. This is a fundamental requirement of the Bible, which says that:
  - 7.1. "Fearing the Lord" is the essence of our faith. See Deut. 6:13, 24; Deut. 10:20
  - 7.2. To "fear the Lord" is to "hate evil". See Prov. 8:13.
  - 7.3. Hating evil is the way we love and protect our neighbor, in fulfillment of the last six commandments of the ten commandments.
  - 7.4. Whistle blowing relating to evil in our government is therefore a protected First Amendment religious practice. See the following for details: <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Spirituality/Articles/HATEPub-040513.pdf>

"In the First Amendment, the Founding Fathers gave the free press the protection it must have to fulfill its essential role in our democracy. The press [and this religious ministry] was to serve the governed, not the governors. The Government's power to censor the press was abolished so that the press would remain forever free to censure the Government. The press was protected so that it could bare the secrets of government and inform the people. Only a free and unrestrained press can effectively expose deception in government. And paramount among the responsibilities of a free press is the duty to prevent any part of the government from deceiving the people and sending them off to distant lands to die of foreign fevers and foreign shot and shell. In my view, far from deserving condemnation for their courageous reporting, the New York Times, the Washington Post, and other newspapers should be commended for serving the purpose that the Founding Fathers saw so clearly. In revealing the workings of government that led to the Vietnam war, the newspapers nobly did precisely that which the Founders hoped and trusted they would do."

1 New York Times Co. v. United States, [403 U.S. 713 (1970)]

2 We view "evil" as simply the absence of truth. We seek to displace and eliminate evil by enlightening the world with 3 Truth, which God is the embodiment of.

4 "Evil is simply the absence of truth."
5 M. Scott Peck; [The Road Less Traveled]

6 "Sanctify them by Your truth. Your [God's] word is truth."
7 [John 17:17, Bible, NKJV]

8 "The entirety of Your word is truth, And every one of Your righteous judgments endures forever."
9 [Psalm 119:160, Bible, NKJV]

10 "Your righteousness is an everlasting righteousness, And Your law is truth."
11 [Psalm 119:142, Bible, NKJV]

12 We are not "tax protesters", "tax defiers", or "tax deniers". As a matter of fact, you can't even become a Member of our 13 ministry if you fit this description. We do not challenge the lawfulness or Constitutionality of any part of the Internal
14 Revenue Code or any state revenue code and we believe that these codes are completely Constitutional as written.
15 HOWEVER, we also believe that the way they are willfully MISREPRESENTED to the American public, and the way they
16 are MALADMINISTERED by the IRS and state revenue agencies are willfully and maliciously deceptive and in many
17 cases grossly illegal and injurious. If these revenue codes were truthfully represented and faithfully administered
18 completely consistent with what they say and more importantly, their legislative intent and the Constitution, then we 19 believe that there would be almost NO "taxpayers". The only reason there are "taxpayers", is because most Americans have 20 been maliciously and deliberately deceived by public servants about their true nature and the very limited audience of 21 people who are their only proper subject. Our enemy is not the government or the IRS or even taxes, but instead is:

- 22 1. Legal ignorance on the part of Americans that allows public servants to abuse their authority and violate the law. We 23 have met the enemy, and it is our own ignorance of the law.

24 "One who turns his ear from hearing the law [God's law or man's law], even his prayer is an abomination."
25 [Prov. 28:9, Bible, NKJV]

26 "But this crowd that does not know [and quote and follow and use] the law is accursed."
27 [John 7:49, Bible, NKJV]

28 "Salvation is far from the wicked, For they do not seek Your statutes."
29 [Psalm 119:155, Bible, NKJV]

30 *"Every man is supposed to know the law. A party who makes a contract or enters into a [franchise, which is 31 also a contract] with an officer [of the government] without having it reduced to writing is knowingly accessory
32 to a violation of duty on his part. Such a party aids in the violation of the law."
33 *[Clark v. United States, 95 U.S. 539 (1877)]

- 34 2. The abuse of presumption to injure the rights of sovereign Americans, in violation of due process of law and God's law
35 found in Numbers 15:30 (NKJV). Much of this presumption is compelled by the government by willfully dumbing-
36 down the average Americans about legal subjects in the public (government) schools. This makes the legal profession
37 into essentially a "priesthood" and a pagan "religion" that the average American blindly worships and obeys, without 38 ever questioning authority. It is a supreme injustice to proceed against a person without every conclusion being based 39 ONLY on fact and not presumption, opinion, or belief.

5. Willful omissions from the IRS website and publications that keep the public from hearing the whole truth. The problem is not what these sources say, but what they DON'T say. The Great IRS Hoax contains over 2,000 pages of facts that neither the IRS nor any one in government is willing to reveal to you because it would destroy the gravy train of plunder that pays their bloated salaries and fat retirement in violation of 18 U.S.C. §208.
6. The use of "words of art" to deceive the people in both government publications and the law itself. Click on the link below for examples:
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/FormsInstr-Cites.htm>
7. The lack of "equal protection of the law" in courts of justice relating to the statements and actions of public servants, whereby the IRS doesn't have to assume responsibility for its statements and actions, and yet persons who fill out tax forms can be thrown in jail and prosecuted for fraud if they emulate the IRS by being just as careless. This also includes "selective enforcement", where the DOJ positively refuses to prosecute submitters of false information returns but spends a disproportionate share of its resources prosecuting false income tax returns. They do this because they are more interested in STEALING your money than in justice. See:

8. Abuses of franchises that undermine the protection of private rights by the government and the courts:
- 8.1. Enforcing federal franchises in States of the Union, which are outside the civil jurisdiction or police powers of the federal government and result in a destruction of the separation of powers.
- 8.2. Enforcing franchises, such as a "trade or business" without requiring explicit written consent in some form, such as the issuance and voluntary signing of an application for a license.
- 8.3. Attorney licensing, which destroys the integrity of the legal profession in its role as a check and balance when the government or especially the judiciary becomes corrupt, as it is now.
- 8.4. Abuse of the federal income tax system, which is a franchise and an excise, to bribe states of the Union to give up their sovereignty, act like federal "States" and territories, and accept what amounts to federal bribes to disrespect the rights or those under their care and protection.

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030

9. Efforts to destroy the separation of powers that is the main protection for our liberties. This results in abuses of the Court system for political, rather than legal, purposes (politicization of the courts). All of the federal courts we have now are Article IV, territorial courts that are part of the Legislative, rather than Judicial Branch of the government. As

1 such, there is no separation of powers and nothing but tyranny can result. See the following for proof of this
2 destruction:

22 11.1. Counterfeit while denying to all others the right, thus creating an unconstitutional "Title of Nobility" for itself and
23 making itself into a pagan deity, and denying the equal protection to all that is the foundation of the Constitution.

24 11.2. STEAL from the American people by diluting the value of money already into circulation.

25 11.3. Exercise undue control banks and financial institutions that causes them to effectively become federal 26 employment recruiters for the federal government by compelling use of government identifying numbers for

35 Our materials are a labor of love undertaken in the spirit of Isaiah 58, Matt. 22:39, James 2:8, Matt. 7:12, and Exodus 20:12-17, which collectively command us to love and help and serve and protect our neighbor, and this includes our fellow
36 Americans. It represents the collective work and contributions of the author and many very fine and generous and spiritual
37 people who have graciously donated their materials and work and time to us over the years. The most important
38 contributor to our materials is God Himself, who inspired and lead and facilitated everything on this website through His 39 Holy Spirit. It has been an honor to serve and glorify Him in the process of compiling and publishing the materials here
40 and we hope He will bless you and encourage you through our efforts as His bondservant and fiduciary.

41 We are not a "business" or an "organization", but instead we are a "virtual assembly" and a "virtual church" of people who 42 use the internet to collaborate and help each other to learn about God's law and man's law.

43 *"We have the gift of an inner liberty so far-reaching that we can choose either to accept or reject the God who
44 gave it to us, and it would seem to follow that the Author of a liberty so radical wills that we should be equally
45 free in our relationships with other men. Spiritual liberty logically demands conditions of outer and social 46 freedom for its completion."
47 [Edmund A. Opitz]*

48 *"The heart of the righteous studies how to answer, But the mouth of the wicked pours forth evil."
49 [Prov. 15:28, Bible, NKJV]*

1 Our goal is to apply what we learn about law to do as Isaiah 58 requires: worship and glorify God by serving and protecting
2 and liberating Americans everywhere from corrupt and illegal and unconstitutional abuses by their state and federal
3 government and their fellow Americans:

4 *"Is this not the fast that I have chosen:
5 To loose the bonds of wickedness,
6 To undo the heavy burdens,
7 To let the oppressed go free,
8 And that you break every yoke?"*
9 [\[Isaiah 58:6, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

10 We want to emancipate all the slaves of sin, the government, the legal profession, and debt and thereby revitalize and 11 restore our Constitutional Republic to the greatness and glory and righteousness it once so nobly enjoyed. This cause is 12 similar to that of Jesus, who came down to earth on a mission from God to set man free from slavery to sin (John 8:31-36).
13 We solicit your dedicated and courageous help in this endeavor, because together and with a righteous cause on our side,
14 we stand a much better chance of success:

15 *"A wise man is strong,
16 Yes, a man of knowledge increases strength;
17 For by wise counsel you will wage your own war,
18 And in a multitude of counselors there is safety."*
19 [\[Prov. 24:6, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

20 *"Where there is no counsel, the people fall;
21 But in a multitude of counselors, there is safety."*
22 [\[Prov. 11:14, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

23 "One man with courage is a majority."
24 [\[President Andrew Jackson\]](#)

25 This "virtual assembly" and "virtual church" is protected from federal persecution by the First Amendment Assembly
26 clause and from state persecution by the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. It is also protected by God
27 Himself:

28 "But You, O LORD, are a shield for me, My glory and the One who lifts up my head."
29 [\[Psalm 3:3, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

30 "The LORD is my rock and my fortress and my deliverer; My God, my strength, in whom I will trust; My shield 31 and the horn of my salvation, my stronghold."
32 [\[Psalm 18:2, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

33 We and the people associated with this "virtual assembly" and "virtual church" do not intend to be "leaders" of the tax
34 honesty community in any sense of the word. We are simply God's servants and we are here to promote His sovereignty
35 over the affairs of men. The Bible says that "whoever desires to become great among you, let him be your servant" ([Matt.
36 20:26](#), Bible, NKJV), and that is exactly what we seek to be: servants. This is the same requirement that our Constitution
37 imposes on those who work in our government, which is that they be servants of the sovereign people, but they defiantly
38 refuse to assume this role and instead have usurped authority to become tyrannical Masters. We are here to help and serve
39 and protect our fellow man, and not to pad our pockets, ingratiate ourselves with vain flattery, or make ourselves look better
40 than others by criticizing and denigrating others. We are here to do God's will on Earth, and not our own:

41 *"I can of Myself do nothing. As I hear, I judge; and My judgment is righteous, because I do not seek My own
42 will, but the will of the Father who sent Me."*
43 [\[John 5:30, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

44 "Father, if it is Your will, take this cup away from Me; nevertheless not My will, but Yours, be done."
45 [\[Luke 22:42, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

46 "Except the LORD [and not us] build the house, they labour in vain that build it: except the LORD keep the city, 47 the watchman waketh but in vain."
48 [\[Psalm 127:1, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

49 Because we gather evidence of and attempt to remedy wrongs instituted by the government against its citizens, this website
50 is also protected by the First Amendment Petition For Redress of Grievances clause. We are also protected by witness

1 tampering and obstruction of justice laws such as 18 U.S.C. §§1510, 1512, 1513. The reason this "virtual assembly" of
 2 people is so desperately needed is because government servants on a large scale have violated their fiduciary duty and
 3 perjured their oath to support and defend and protect the Constitution and the American people, which is the only legitimate
 4 function and purpose of government. Usurpers in the state and federal governments have instead chosen to commit war and
 5 treason against their own constituents by illegally abusing their power to turn our Constitutional Republic into a totalitarian
 6 socialist democracy/mobocracy that plunders the rich to give to the poor and which has thus become a false god and an idol
 7 to most Americans:

8 "It must be conceded that there are rights in every free government beyond the control of the State [or a
 9 *covetous jury or majority of electors]. A government which recognized no such rights, which held the lives,
 10 liberty and property of its citizens, subject at all times to the disposition and unlimited control of even the 12 the majority, if you choose to call it so--but it is not the less a despotism."

 13 [Loan Ass'n v. Topeka, 87 U.S. (20 Wall.) 655, 665 (1874)]

14 The focus of this website is therefore to oppose such covetousness, idolatry (Col. 3:5), sin and abuse of the political process

The Philosophy of Liberty - requires the Macromedia Flash Player and sound

We seek to be self-governing men and women under God who are liberated from slavery to sin and government. We are not anti-government or anarchists, because we know that governments and laws were created to keep the "low and lawless forms of humanity" from doing violence to all, including themselves. We instead seek a small and very limited government that stays within the boundaries put around it by our Constitution and the separation of powers doctrine so that our liberties and freedoms are not oppressed or encroached by covetous politicians or a greedy majority ("mob") of socialist voters looking for a free government handout.

We are not against paying "taxes" as they are legally defined. In fact, the Bible says we should pay taxes to whom they are due:

"Therefore you must be subject, not only because of wrath but also for conscience' sake. For because of this you also pay taxes, for they are God's ministers attending continually to this very thing. Render therefore to all their due: taxes to whom taxes are due, customs to whom customs, fear to whom fear, honor to whom honor."
 [Rom. 13:5-7, Bible, NKJV. Incidentally, the "governing authorities" in this passage are the "sovereigns", who in this country are the People and not their servants working in government. See section 4.1 later for details.]

HOWEVER, what we pay under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue are not "taxes", because:

1. The money we pay doesn't support only the government, as the Supreme Court said they must in Loan Association v. Topeka, 20 Wall 655 \(1874\).

"To lay, with one hand, the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms.

Nor is it taxation. 'A tax,' says Webster's Dictionary, 'is a rate or sum of money assessed on the person or property of a citizen by government for the use of the nation or State.' 'Taxes are burdens or charges imposed by the Legislature upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.' Cooley, Const. Lim., 479.

2. Feeble attempts by the IRS to make "taxpayers" into federal government "employees" using the W-4, SSNs, and the deceptive use of the word "trade or business" amount to constructive fraud and do not satisfy the requirement that "taxes" in deed and in fact support only the government.
3. The Internal Revenue Code is not positive law but religion. It is public policy and political religion deceitfully and cleverly disguised by covetous public servants to "look" like law. Law is the only evidence that the people consented to enforcement actions by their government. There is no evidence of consent to unapportioned direct taxation of property or individuals within states of the Union either in the Constitution or in any act of Congress that implements it.

"... [the 16th Amendment] conferred no new power of taxation... [and]... prohibited the ... power of income taxation possessed by Congress from the beginning from being taken out of the category of indirect taxation to which it inherently belonged..."
 [Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103 \(1916\)]

Absent explicit consent, all enforcement actions are unjust because the Declaration of Independence says all just powers of government derive from the consent of the governed. Anything not consensual is, ipso facto unjust. Without enacted positive law to enforce, the government is simply enforcing a religion, which we call the "civil religion of socialism", in stark violation of the First Amendment. The tax "codes" (not "laws", but "codes") we have now are nothing more than mob rule cleverly disguised as law. It is a decree under legislative forms, but not law, as the U.S. Supreme Court said above.

Any revenues that our government collects under the guise of "taxes" which is paid to private parties, either to the Federal Reserve or to entitlement program beneficiaries cannot be called "taxes", and more properly is called "robbery in the name of taxation" by the U.S. Supreme Court in Loan Association v. Topeka. What our deceitful government calls "taxes" can only truthfully be called "donations" and calling them anything else amounts to constructive fraud. We believe that our tax

1 system should never be abused to promote either wealth transfer or to further the ends of socialism, because socialism
 2 ultimately leads to communism. Below is a presentation that thoroughly explains why the monies we presently pay to the 3 government are not only paid illegally and unconstitutionally, but also are paid in violation of the Bible:

What Pastors and Clergy Need to Know About Government and Taxation, Form #12.006
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

4 Both the Supreme Court in Proprietors of Charles River Bridge v. Proprietors of Warren Bridge, 36 U.S. 420 (1837) and the 5 U.S. Code in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A) admit that all governments are “corporations” and therefore for-profit businesses.
 6 We believe that government should therefore be run like any other capitalist business and that they should strictly obey
 7 their corporate charter, the United States Constitution. All the patriot rhetoric you read on the internet about freedom,
 8 taxation, and sovereignty really boils down to this one important issue. The product government "sells" to the public is 9 "protection", and like any other business, it cannot and should not be allowed to FORCE people to buy its product.
 10 Government should also not be able to criminalize non-payment for its services in the form of “taxes”, since no other 11 business can. To do otherwise is to:

- 12 1. Interfere with our sovereign right to contract or not contract as we see fit. This is a protected right under Article 1, 13 Section 10 of the Constitution.
- 14 2. Deprive "taxpayers" of equal protection.
- 15 3. Encourage an irresponsible government that is not completely and directly accountable to the people.

16 The purpose of taxation is to fund the institutionalized process of providing "protection". Like any other business, we 17 believe that people should always have the right to only pay government for what they individually want and need and have
 18 contracted in writing to receive, including in the area of "protection". At the same time, the protection services they do use
 19 from the government should always be paid for in full and refusal to pay should be nothing more than a civil matter to be
 20 handled in civil court as a matter of contract, and not right. If the government receives more money than it needs to deliver
 21 only the services demanded in writing by the citizen, then it should reduce the tax rate and refund the money. Every 22 government service should have a price tag and people should sign up for what they want and need and pay only for that 23 and nothing more. If they don't have children, for instance, then the public school assessment should be deducted from 24 their property tax bill.

25 The means of contracting with government to provide "protection" occurs when one defines their domicile on a government
 26 form to be within the jurisdiction of a specific government. Those who are party to such a contract are called "taxpayers",
 27 "citizens", "inhabitants" and "residents", all of whom have selected a "permanent abode" and therefore committed to a
 28 continuing or indefinite relationship of mutual support and allegiance between them and the government. Those who are 29 not party to this contract are called "transient foreigners". That process of contractual consent must be voluntary and fully 30 informed. The right and requirement for an person to contractually consent in writing to government protection also 31 implies the right to NOT consent, which means that if we don't contract with the government to provide protection because 32 we think their form of protection is actually harmful, then we cease to have the duty to pay taxes to support the protection
 33 that we don't want. This is the very foundation of all free governments: Consent of the governed. To approach the 34 protection issue any other way is to sanction compelled association in violation of the First Amendment to the corporate 35 charter called the United States Constitution. See the article below which very clearly explains this:

Why Domicile and Becoming a "Taxpayer" Require Your Consent, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/DomicileBasisForTaxation.htm>

36 Like our founding fathers (see Federalist Paper #10), we also oppose pure democracy, and instead endorse a "republican
 37 form of government", whereby the will of the majority during elections is strictly limited by a Bill of Rights that sets
 38 boundaries on what the majority can impose on the minority. Below is what our Founding Father said on this subject as 39 part of Federalist Paper #10:

40 If a faction consists of less than a majority, relief is supplied by the republican principle, which enables the 41 majority to defeat its sinister views by regular vote. It may clog the administration, it may convulse the society;
 42 but it will be unable to execute and mask its violence under the forms of the Constitution. When a majority is
 43 included in a faction, the form of popular government, on the other hand, enables it to sacrifice to its ruling
 44 *passion or interest both the public good and the rights of other citizens. To secure the public good and private 45 rights against the danger of such a faction, and at the same time to preserve the spirit and the form of 46 popular government, is then the great object to which our inquiries are directed. Let me add that it is the great desideratum by which this form of government can be rescued from the opprobrium under which it has so long labored, and be recommended to the esteem and adoption of mankind.

By what means is this object attainable? Evidently by one of two only. Either the existence of the same passion or interest in a majority at the same time must be prevented, or the majority, having such coexistent passion or interest, must be rendered, by their number and local situation, unable to concert and carry into effect schemes of oppression. If the impulse and the opportunity be suffered to coincide, we well know that neither moral nor religious motives can be relied on as an adequate control. They are not found to be such on the injustice and violence of individuals, and lose their efficacy in proportion to the number combined together, that is, in proportion as their efficacy becomes needful.

From this view of the subject it may be concluded that a pure democracy, by which I mean a society consisting of a small number of citizens, who assemble and administer the government in person, can admit of no cure for the mischiefs of faction. A common passion or interest will, in almost every case, be felt by a majority of the whole; a communication and concert result from the form of government itself; and there is nothing to check the inducements to sacrifice the weaker party or an obnoxious individual. Hence it is that such democracies have ever been spectacles of turbulence and contention; have ever been found incompatible with personal security or the rights of property; and have in general been as short in their lives as they have been violent in their deaths. Theoretic politicians, who have patronized this species of government, have erroneously supposed that by reducing mankind to a perfect equality in their political rights, they would, at the same time, be perfectly equalized and assimilated in their possessions, their opinions, and their passions.

A republic, by which I mean a government in which the scheme of representation takes place, opens a different prospect, and promises the cure for which we are seeking. Let us examine the points in which it varies from pure democracy, and we shall comprehend both the nature of the cure and the efficacy which it must derive from the Union.

The two great points of difference between a democracy and a republic are: first, the delegation of the government, in the latter, to a small number of citizens elected by the rest; secondly, the greater number of citizens, and greater sphere of country, over which the latter may be extended.

The chief weaknesses of democracy that Madison predicted and explained above were insightfully summarized below:

"A Democracy cannot exist as a permanent form of government. It can only exist until the voters discover that they can vote themselves largesse from the public treasury [socialism]. From that moment on the majority always vote for the candidates promising the most benefits from the public treasury, with the result that a Democracy always collapses over loose fiscal policy, always followed by a dictatorship. The average age of the world's greatest civilizations has been two hundred years. These nations have progressed through this sequence: From bondage to spiritual faith; from spiritual faith to great courage; from courage to liberty; from liberty to abundance; from abundance to selfishness; from selfishness to complacency; from complacency to apathy; from apathy to dependence; from dependency back again into bondage."
[Alexander Fraser Tytler]

Congressman Ron Paul also demonstrated how this deficient democratic political model has corrupted and will eventually destroy our once great Republic in his wonderful article below

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Politics/Articles/RonPaul-030129.htm>

The predictable and steady erosion we have seen in our country over the last 50 years has been a direct result of the excesses of a totalitarian democratic system, which has steadily undermined and encroached upon the role of the Bill of Rights and the Separation of Powers Doctrine in the protection of our liberties and God-given rights.

"The very purpose of a Bill of Rights was to withdraw certain subjects from the vicissitudes of political controversy, to place them beyond the reach of majorities and officials and to establish them as legal principles to be applied by the courts. One's right to life, liberty, and property, to free speech, a free press, freedom of worship and assembly, and other fundamental rights may not be submitted to vote; they depend on the outcome of no elections."

We do not advocate violence or terrorism or threats or unlawful activity of any kind against anyone, and especially by our government. The focus of this website is to promote the lawful and Constitutional administration of our country's tax and legal systems and to discourage unlawful activities of every kind, mostly by the government. This is exactly the same goal that the IRS at least "says" they have, and so you could say we are trying to help the IRS do its job at no cost or obligation to them:

1 "Provide America's taxpayers top quality service by helping them understand and meet their tax responsibilities
 2 and by applying the tax law with integrity and fairness to all."
 3 [Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 1.1.1.1]

4 You can't "apply the tax law with integrity" until you know and are willing to talk about the law, and that is the competency
 5 that almost no IRS employees we have ever met are skilled in, so we are trying to help this process by accelerating the legal 6 education of IRS employees and the Americans they serve on this website.

7 "Cursed is the one who does not confirm all the words of this law."
 8 "And all the people shall say, "Amen!"
 9 [Deu. 27:26, Bible, NKJV]

10 "If you do not carefully observe all the words of this law that are written in this book, that you may fear this
 11 glorious and awesome name, THE LORD YOUR GOD, then the LORD will bring upon you and your 12 descendants extraordinary plagues--great and prolonged plagues--and serious and prolonged sicknesses."
 13 [Deut. 28:58-59, Bible, NKJV]

14 Our approach is exactly the same approach as Jesus took when he came down to earth to liberate us from slavery to sin.
 15 The first sinners He met with were tax collectors and He tried to educate them that there was a Higher (God's) law that they 16 were violating and ignoring.

17 "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees [lawyers], hypocrites! For you pay tithes of mint and anise and cummin,
 18 and have neglected the weightier matters of the [God's] law: justice and mercy and faith. These you ought to 19 have done, without leaving the others undone."
 20 [Matthew 23:23, Bible, NKJV]

21 One of these tax collectors was so impressed by what Jesus said (Matthew/Levi) that he became an Apostle! That is exactly
 22 what we want to see happening to IRS agents and Americans everywhere: transformation, salvation, and conversion.

23 The only type of activity we intend to oppose is unlawful activity, and if you have a beef with what we call unlawful, we 24 simply ask that you defend your position and respect our due process rights under the Constitution by rebutting the 25 overwhelming evidence of government wrongdoing contained in:

26 Tax Deposition Questions, Family Guardian Fellowship
 27 <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/Deposition.htm>

28 in order to "answer" our collective Petition for Redress of Grievances under the First Amendment and to demonstrate 29 exactly what aspect of the extensive evidence supporting our views or opinions that you regard as incorrect or false. These 30 questions are not questions of opinion or law and we aren't asking for legal advice. They are instead questions of fact based 31 on the government's own statements and actions available from public records and we are asking you to present evidence of 32 at least equal weight to exonerate yourself of a conviction for treason, extortion, slavery, and corruption in the court of 33 public opinion. These are serious crimes that in fact warrant the death penalty if properly adjudicated by an impartial
 34 decision maker. We welcome anyone to use our Tax Deposition Questions, Family Guardian Fellowship and the 35 accompanying evidence to prove our research is wrong and when it is proven wrong with contradictory evidence of at least
 36 equal weight, we will gladly change or improve it so that our ministry doesn't hurt or mislead anyone. All of the remedies
 37 we propose to the problems our society faces as documented in our ministry materials focus on lawful, nonviolent
 38 confrontation and political and legal activism and derive directly from the word of God and the Bible.

39 The focus of this website is NOT "getting rich quick", achieving prosperity, or maximizing the property or the money you
 40 can acquire or keep. To do so would be to encourage greed, covetousness, and materialism, which are the very evils that 41 gave rise to most of the social problems we are trying to combat on this website. We want to see you blessed, but perhaps 42 that blessing may come in a form you weren't expecting.

43 "The proud have forged a lie against me, but I will keep Your precepts with my whole heart. Their heart is as 44 *fat as grease, but I delight in Your law. It is good for me that I have been afflicted, that I may learn Your 45 statutes. The law of Your mouth is better to me than thousands of coins of gold and silver."
 46 [Psalm 119:69-72, Bible, NKJV]

47 "My brethren, count it all joy when you fall into various trials, knowing that the testing of your faith produces
 48 patience. But let patience have its perfect work, that you may be perfect and complete, lacking nothing."
 49 [James 1:2-4, Bible, NKJV]

"If anyone desires to come after Me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow Me. For whoever desires to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for My sake will find it. For what profit is it to a man if he gains the whole world, and loses his own soul? Or what will a man give in exchange for his soul? <sup>27</sup>For the Son of Man will come in the glory of His Father with His angels, and then He will reward each according to his works."
[Matt. 16:24-27, Bible, NKJV]

"Blessed are you poor, for yours is the kingdom of God."
[Luke 6:20, Bible, NKJV]

"Do not lay up for yourselves treasures on earth, where moth and rust destroy and where thieves [the IRS] break in and steal; but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust destroys and where thieves do not break in and steal. For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also."
[Matt. 6:19-21, Bible, NKJV]

"If you [a rich man] want to be perfect, go, sell what you have and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow Me."
Jesus in [Matt. 19:21, Bible, NKJV]

We want to set you free from slavery to "things" (materialism) and to money. You do not own the things you have: They own you!

"Take heed and beware of covetousness, for one's life does not consist in the abundance of the things he possesses."
[Luke 12:15, Bible, NKJV]

We do not intend to make following God's laws or the tax code risk free because NO ONE can do that for you. Furthermore, even if someone could, it would render your obedience to God meaningless. The measure of our faith and obedience to God is how much we have to give up or sacrifice in adverse circumstances. We value things based on the price we had to pay to acquire them.

"If anyone desires to come after Me [God], let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me. For whoever desires to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for My sake will find it."
Jesus in [Matt. 16:24-25, Bible, NKJV]

"Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven."
[Matt. 5:10, Bible, NKJV]

"Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they shall be filled."
Jesus in [Matt. 5:6, Bible, NKJV]

We are not here to give you what you want, but what God in His infinite wisdom and authority says you need, which is contentment and peace in any circumstance (see Hebrews 13:5 and 1 Tim. 6:8). We are not here to respond to every last minute frenetic emergency of our more discontented and impatient readers who have chosen (against our advice) to procrastinate learning about the law for themselves, only to be compelled at great expense to depend at the last minute on some "guru" or "expert" to "rescue" them from their own ignorance, laziness, impatience, and greed. We think it violates God's laws to be anxious or fearful over what our corrupted public "servants" in the IRS are going to do to steal your money. Instead, we want you to be very wise about how to respond and courageous in rebuking and fighting evil:

"Behold, I send you out as sheep in the midst of wolves. Therefore be wise as serpents and harmless as doves. But beware of men, for they will deliver you up to councils and scourge you in their synagogues. You will be brought before governors and kings for My sake, as a testimony to them and to the Gentiles. But when they deliver you up, do not worry about how or what you should speak. For it will be given to you in that hour what you should speak: for it is not you who speak, but the Spirit of your Father who speaks in you. Now brother will deliver brother to death, and a father his child; and children will rise up against parents and cause them to be put to death. And you will be hated by all for My name's sake. But he who endures to the end will be saved."

We believe it is pointless and a waste of our time to try to persuade people who are impatient or selfish or arrogant or who refuse to learn how to be respectful, to listen, or to question authority. Humility, respect, patience, unselfishness, listening skills, and the strong desire to question authority are the foundation of an informed and enlightened mind and are necessary prerequisites to being a free and sovereign person or a person who will learning anything from this website.

We are not here to be a "fish supplier" to the whole world or to save the world from its own sin. It is only God and your own faith in Him and obedience to His law that can do that. Instead, we are here to teach humble and disciplined men and women with steadfast and obedient faith in God how to fish for themselves.

*"Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men."
Jesus in [Matt. 4:19, Bible, NKJV]*

Rather, we believe that liberty and freedom are and always have been a "do-it yourself" endeavor and are impossible without steadfast faith in and obedience to God and His laws over and above man's laws. The focus of our website is therefore to:

1. Show you the truth about your lawful responsibilities.
2. Encourage you to be committed in studying and knowing both God's law and man's law for yourself.
3. Encourage religious faith and complete obedience to God's laws. We can't transcend man's law without steadfast obedience to God's law or the result will be nothing but vanity and sin. As Bob Dylan says: "You gotta serve somebody."
4. Enable you to discern when man's law conflicts with God's law so that you can choose God's law over man's law in all cases.
5. Most importantly: To embolden you to passionately act in defense of justice based on the firm convictions that you develop from your own personal study of both God's and man's law

At the same time, we think "spirituality" and one's "heart condition" are more important than "legalism". "Spirituality" encourages and inspires people while "legalism" simply alienates them and is evidence of immaturity and selfishness. The man of strength will use his empathy, his leadership skills, and his good example to achieve just ends and will only use legalism as a last resort.

As a matter of fact, we discourage "labels" or "stereotypes" of any kind because we think the main motivation for using them is ARROGANCE, DISCRIMINATION, PREJUDICE, and HATE. God commands us to love our neighbor, not hate him (Lev. 19:18). If you simply can't resist using some kind of derogatory label to describe us like "frivolous", "stupid", "idiot" or "extremist", then quite frankly, you are a mentally ill person who needs psychological therapy and an attitude adjustment. Bigotry, supremacy, and inferiority complex are the characteristics of people who must compulsively use labels such as these. Labels also provide a convenient way to be INTELLECTUALLY LAZY because once you label someone, you relieve yourself from the responsibility to be intellectually honest enough to investigate and rebut their arguments and rationally show them why they are mistaken. The courts have a name for such people, and they are called terrorists, hate crime perpetrators, and verbal abusers who propagate verbal violence upon their victims and these people are sentenced to anger management courses and jail time routinely.

Flattery and "lip service" will achieve nothing with us because pride or self-aggrandizement aren't the reason for this website. This document and our website aren't about "us" or the vanity of everything man does or attempts to do. It is about knowing and glorifying and obeying the one and only God, because after all is said and done, the very essence of worship is obedience. Talk and rituals are cheap, but those who DO God's commandments are rare indeed.

*"Has the LORD as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices,
As in obeying the voice of the LORD?
Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice,
And to heed than the fat of rams.
For rebellion is as the sin of witchcraft,
And stubbornness is as iniquity and idolatry.
Because you have rejected the word of the LORD,
He also has rejected you from being king[and sovereign over your government]."
[\[1 Sam. 15:22-23, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

*"Do not love the world or the things in the world. If anyone loves [is a citizen of] the world, the love of the Father is not in Him. For all that is in the world--the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eyes, and the pride of life--is not of the Father but is of the world. And the world is passing away, and the lust of it; but he who does the will of God abides forever."
[\[1 John 2:15-17, Bible, NKJV\]](#)*

*"Let us hear the conclusion of this whole matter: Fear [respect] God and keep His commandments, for this is man's all. For God will bring every work into judgment, including every secret thing, whether good or evil."
[\[Eccl. 12:13-14, Bible, NKJV\]](#)*

Instead of saying "God bless America" we ought to be saying "America bless God":

*"I will bless the LORD at all times; His praise shall continually be in my mouth."

The way our readers can best show their appreciation for the work that God accomplishes through us and this website is to passionately ACT on what they learn from our website and to educate and encourage others to act as well in obedience to God. We want our readers to "take up arms [intellectually and figuratively] in defense of liberty" like our great forefathers did who gave us this wonderful and blessed country. The main goal is justice achieved through education and action. We will do everything we can to equip you with the tools and the truth that are needed to be effective in the battle against the evils described on this website. In the end, however, if you are unwilling to passionately act and do justice as the Lord requires of you after being exposed to the truths on this website, then you are wasting your time here and also interfering with the efforts of men more noble and worthy than yourself by wasting the precious resources that God has entrusted to us for your benefit as His fiduciary:

*"And now, Israel, what does the Lord your God require of you, but to fear the Lord your God, to walk in all His ways and to love Him, to serve the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul, and to keep the commandments of the Lord and His statutes [laws] which I command you today for your good?"

23 to Truth divides] He who loves father or mother more than Me is not worthy of Me. [and He who loves his

36 And be separate, says the Lord.

"And you shall be holy to Me, for I the Lord am holy, and have separated you from the peoples, that you should be Mine."

Do not hide Your commandments from me."

"I have become a stranger to my brothers,
And an alien to my mother's children;
Because zeal for Your house has eaten me up,
And the reproaches of those who reproach You have fallen on me."

[Psalm 69:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

The above also happens to be the admitted goal of our courts and our government, which have been heavily promoting "separation of church and state", because WE, as Christians, are the church. 1 Cor. 3:16-17 identifies our bodies as a "temple of God". A temple is a place where we worship our God.

"Do you not know that you are the temple of God and that the Spirit of God dwells in you? If anyone defiles the temple of God, God will destroy him. For the temple of God is holy, which temple you are."

[1 Cor. 3:16-17, Bible, NKJV]

"ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular [individually]"

[1 Cor. 12:27, Bible, NKJV]

Therefore, we as Christians must completely separate ourselves from the pagan state and the subsidizing of the corrupted activities of the pagan state through our earnings or our labor, which belong not to the state, but to God alone. We think THIS is what Jefferson had in mind when he said that we needed a "wall of separation between church and state". For the same reasons, we also endorse the following other forms of separation of the people and state to further promote the separation of powers doctrine:

1. Separation of the federal and state governments: Making the states of the Union once again completely sovereign and free by removing the flow of money to the federal government that is causing the states to surrender their sovereignty for money. See <http://www.freestateproject.org> as an example. See also "How Scoundrels Corrupted our Republican Government" at <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Evidence/HowScCorruptOurRepubGovt.htm>.

2. Separation of marriage and state: Eliminate state marriage licenses to remove government jurisdiction from family life. See the following for details:

Sovereign Christian Marriage, Form #06.009

3. Separation of family and state: Not making individuals subject to taxation or government regulation by correcting their citizenship status to put them outside of government jurisdiction. Showing them how to govern themselves within the family so they don't need government involvement to settle or arbitrate disputes. See our Family Constitution at <http://famguardian.org/Publications/FamilyConst/FamilyConst.htm> for details.

4. Separation of school and state: School vouchers so that people can take their children out of public schools and put them into private schools using the money they used to pay to the government. This will reintroduce our children and future generations to Christian principles so that morality and absolute standards of right and wrong can return to our society and our government. Visit the Alliance for the Separation of School and State at <http://www.sepschool.org/> for further details.

5. Separation of retirement and state: Eliminating Socialist Security and forcing people to save for and fund their own retirement. See also section 2.9 and following.

- 1 6. Separation of money and state: Return to the gold standard and elimination of the Federal Reserve. See also section
 2 2.8.9.2. Visit People for Perfect Economy at <http://www.perfecteconomy.com/> for further details.
- 3 7. Separation of commerce and state: Getting rid of social security numbers or any form of government-issued number
 4 to track people, so that their private lives will once again be completely private. If banks still think they need numbers,
 5 then transform to a privately issued number and prohibit government from accessing information about the transactions
 6 of individuals. Eliminating illegal enforcement of currency transaction laws by banks.
- 7 8. Separation of media and state: Eliminating censorship of the media through IRS persecution of media sources who 8 are "politically incorrect". See our Media and Intelligence page.

9 Government and liberal rights groups and the courts: Why don't you defend and protect our right to promote THIS
 10 particular brand of "separation of church and state"? For government to admit that we don't have the right to use our 11 property and our person in support of the above goals is to admit that we really don't have property rights, that government
 12 owns all property, and that we rent it from them through the taxes we pay. The right to exclude others or the state is the 13 essence of property rights, as a matter of fact, and the right to happiness guaranteed by our Declaration of Independence is 14 the equivalent of our property rights, according to our courts. Courts that won't defend our right to the above goals
 15 basically must admit that they are at war against our happiness.

16 All of the above goals which collectively limit the size and power and the growth of the government are the key to restoring 17 our liberties and freedoms. They are the essence and an extension of the "separation of powers doctrine".

18 "The history of liberty is the history of the limitation of governmental power, not the increase of it."
 19 [Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States]

20 The ultimate result of a complete separation of powers between God and the people from their government is the just result
 21 of being completely left alone by government, which the Supreme Court has said is the most fundamental and important
 22 right of any civilization:

23 "The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They

31 Our mission is the same as Nehemiah described in the Book of Nehemiah in the Bible, who followed God's sovereign
 32 calling and commission to rebuild the wall that protected the people in the city of Jerusalem from their surrounding heathen
 33 neighbors and governments. That wall was a figurative wall of separation between the "church", which was God's 34 followers the Israelites, and the "state", which was the rest of the foreigners and the king who did not serve God or fear
 35 Him. The religious people had neglected obeying God's laws and commandments and thereby become slaves of the 36 surrounding kings and political rulers:

37 "The survivors [Christians] who are left from the captivity in the province are there in great distress and 38 reproach. The wall [of separation between "church", which was the Jews, and "state", which was the 39 heathens around them] of Jerusalem is also broken down, and its gates are burned with fire."
 40 [Neh. 1:3, Bible, NKJV]

42 Then I said to them, "You see the distress that we are in, how Jerusalem lies waste, and its gates are burned
 43 with fire. Come and let us build the wall of [of separation in] Jerusalem that we may no longer be a reproach."
 44 And I told them of the hand of my God which had been good upon me, and also of the king's words that he had 45 spoken to me. So they said, "Let us rise up and build." Then they set their hands to this good work.

46 But when Sanballat the Horonite, Tobiah the Ammonite official, and Geshem the Arab heard of it, they laughed
 47 at us and despised us, and said, "What is this thing that you are doing? Will you rebel against the king?"

48 *So I answered them, and said to them, "The God of heaven Himself will prosper us; therefore we His servants 49 will arise and build [the wall of separation between church and state]..."
 50 [Neh. 3:17-18, Bible, NKJV]

51 Nehemiah was heavily ridiculed and persecuted by the government in his campaign to rebuild the wall.

1 But it so happened, when Sanballat [the U.S. government/IRS] heard that we were rebuilding the wall that he
 2 was furious and very indignant, and mocked the Jews [Christian patriots]. And he spoke before his brethren
 3 and the army of Samaria, and said, "What are these feeble Jews [Christian patriots] doing? Will they fortify 4 themselves? ...

5 Now Tobiah the Ammonite [part of the government] was beside him, and he said, "Whatever they build, if even 6 a fox goes up on it, he will break down their stone wall."

7 Hear, O our God, for we are despised, turn their reproach on their own heads and give them [the opponents
 8 of the wall of separation] as plunder to [their socialist fellow citizens in] a land of captivity! Do not cover
 9 their iniquity, and do not let their sin be blotted out from before You; for they have provoked You to anger
 10 before the builders [of the wall]. So we built the wall, and the entire wall was joined together up to half its 11 height, for the people had a mind to work.

12 ...and all of them conspired together to come and attack Jerusalem and create confusion.

13 And our adversaries said, "They will neither know nor see anything, till we come into their midst and kill 14 them and cause the work to cease."
 15 [Neh. 4:1-11, Bible, NKJV]

16 At one point, the heathens and nonbelievers even complained that the Jews were going to leave the tax rolls so they were 17 left holding the bag!

18 And there was a great outcry of the [socialist] people and their wives [at the voting booths and in the jury
 19 boxes] against their Jewish brethren [who were building the wall].

20 For there were those who said, "We, our sons, and our daughters are many; therefore let us get grain [through 21 government usury by unjust taxation], that we may eat and live."

22 There were also some who said, "We have mortgaged our lands and vineyards and houses, that we might buy 23 grain because of the famine."

24 There were also those who said, "We have borrowed money for the king's tax on our lands and vineyards. Yet
 25 now our flesh is as the flesh of our brethren, our children as their children; and indeed we are forcing our 26 sons and our daughters to be slaves [to the king and his taxes and the banksters], and some of our daughters
 27 have been brought into slavery. It is not in our power to redeem them, for other men have our lands and 28 vineyards."
 29 [Neh. 5:1-5, Bible, NKJV]

30 Nehemiah's righteous response was to rebuke the nobles and rulers (the government leaders and the tax collectors) for its 31 usury and extortion, as we frequently do on this website:

32 And I became very angry when I heard their outcry and these words. After serious thought, I rebuked the 33 nobles and rulers, and said to them, "Each of you is exacting usury from his brother." So I called a great 34 assembly against them [as we attempt to do here on this website].

35 And I said to them, "According to our ability we have redeemed our Jewish [Christian] brethren who were sold
 36 to the nations. Now indeed, will you even sell your brethren? Or should they be sold to us?" Then they [the 37 government leaders] were silenced [because of guilt about their usury and extortion] and found nothing to 38 say.

39 Then I said, "What you are doing is not good, Should you not walk in the fear of our God because of the 40 reproach of the nations, our enemies?

41 "I also, with my brethren and my servants, am lending them money and grain. Please, let us stop this usury
 42 [illegal and unjust taxation and government extortion]! [IRS and the government must] Restore to them,
 43 even this day, their [financial control over their labor and their] lands, their vineyards, their olive groves, and 44 their houses, also a hundredth of the money and the grain, the new wine and the oil, that you have charged 45 them."

46 So they [the government] said, "We will restore it, and will require nothing from them; we will do as you
 47 say." Then I called the priests, and required an oath from them that they would do according to this promise.

48 ...Moreover, from the time that I was appointed to be their governor in the land of Judah, from the twentieth
 49 year until the thirty-second year of King Artaxerxes, twelve years, neither I nor my brothers ate the 50 governor's provisions. But the former governors before me laid burdens on the people, and took from them bread and wine, besides forty shekels of silver. Yes, even their servants bore rule over the people, but I did not do so, because of the fear of God.

Indeed, I also continued the work on this wall, and we did not buy any land. All my servants were gathered there for the work.
[Neh. 5:6-16, Bible, NKJV]

Nehemiah's example is the solution of how to accomplish the restoration of the wall of separation between church and state. It is the model for how God has told this ministry that we must accomplish it and which we carefully follow on this website.

"And I saw the beast, the kings [heathen political rulers and the unbelieving democratic majorities who control them] of the earth [controlled by Satan], and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him [God] who sat on the horse and against His army."
[Revelation 19:19, Bible, NKJV]

"And I heard another voice from heaven [God] saying, 'Come out of her [Babylon the Great Harlot, a democratic state full of socialist non-believers], my people [Christians], lest you share in her sins, and lest you receive of her plagues."
[Revelation 18:4, Bible, NKJV]

1.4.2 Motivation and Inspiration

"Do you see a man who excels in his work? He will stand before kings; He will not stand before unknown men."
[Prov. 22:29, Bible, NKJV]

We are bondservants of Christ Jesus. We agree unconditionally with God's Word in the Holy Scriptures, even when we don't like it. If the Word of God shatters cherished beliefs then we are willing to be shattered, no matter how painful it is. God's truth is more important to us than personal belief, and loyalty to that truth more important than loyalty to traditions and the commandments of men.

"Beware lest anyone cheat you through philosophy and empty deceit, according to the tradition of men [including through man's deceptive laws written by scumbag lawyers], according to the basic principles of the world, and not according to Christ, for in Him dwells all the fullness of the Godhead bodily; and you are complete in Him, who is the head of all principality and power."
[Col. 2:8-10, Bible, NKJV]

We don't cling on to personal interpretations for fear of looking stupid in the eyes of others -- once a matter is clear, then we change as fast as possible, relying solely upon the Holy Spirit.

There is no stronger motivation or inspiration or higher purpose for our life, we feel, than to honor and glorify our God, and to realize His will in the world on a large scale through our website and our books, as revealed in His love letter to us, the Bible:

"Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage[to the government or the income tax]."
[Galatians 5:1, Bible, NKJV]

"The Spirit of the Lord God is upon Me,
Because the Lord has anointed Me
To preach good tidings to the poor;
He has sent Me to heal the brokenhearted,
To proclaim liberty to the [IRS] captives
And the opening of the prison to those who are bound;
To proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord,
And the day of vengeance of our God:"
[Isaiah 61:1-2, Bible, NKJV]

1.4.3 Ministry

"My food is to do the will of Him who sent Me, and to finish His work."
[John 4:34, Bible, NKJV]

1 What kind of ministry do we have? Well, it's not our ministry, it's Christ's ministry. We don't do anything in and of
 2 ourselves, it's all done through Him. It's not a private ministry like most of the ministries out there, which are done for
 3 "filthy lucre's sake" (Titus 1:11). We do not preach a "health and wealth gospel" either. We are very similar to the original
 4 house assemblies of the first and second century. That's where we need to get back to because;

5 "Thus saith the LORD, Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and 6 walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls."*
 7 [Jeremiah 6:16, Bible, NKJV]

8 Therefore, we strive to go back to the way the early assembly (translated "church" in most bibles) did things. We seek to be 9 self-governing men and women under God. We are not anti-government, because we know that government exists to keep 10 the "low and lawless forms of humanity" from doing violence to all, including themselves.

11 We seek to apply God's Law to our everyday lives. We try to get people to use the Scripture. It's a Law book, we want
 12 you to think of it as a Law book, we want you to use it as a Law book. That's what God intended it to be, otherwise He 13 wouldn't have called it His ordinances, His statutes, His judgments, His precepts, His commandments, His Law. All these 14 are Law terms. Here are some examples of God's Law in action, and keep in mind that "commandments" and "His Word"
 15 are synonymous with His Law:

16 Proverbs 28:9: "One who turns his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer is an abomination."

17 Prov. 28:4: "Those who forsake the law praise the wicked, but such as keep the law contend with them."

18 Exodus 18:20: "And thou shalt teach them ordinances and laws, and shalt shew them the way wherein they 19 must walk, and the work that they must do."

20 Leviticus 18:4: "Ye shall do my judgments, and keep mine ordinances, to walk therein: I [am] the LORD your 21 God."

22 2 Kings 17:37: "And the statutes, and the ordinances, and the law, and the commandment, which he wrote 23 for you, ye shall observe to do for evermore; and ye shall not fear other gods."

24 Ezekiah 11:19-20: "And I will give them one heart, and I will put a new spirit within you; and I will take the 25 *stony heart out of their flesh, and will give them an heart of flesh: That they may walk in my statutes, and keep 26 mine ordinances, and do them: and they shall be my people, and I will be their God."

27 And here are two inspirational examples of what we are talking about from the book of Psalm in the Bible:

Psalm 19:7-14:

 30 The law of the Lord is perfect converting the soul;
 31 The testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple;
 32 The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart.
 33 The commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes.
 34 The fear of the Lord is clean, enduring forever;
 35 The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.
 36 More to be desired are they than gold.
 37 Yea, than much fine gold;
 38 Sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb.
 39 Moreover by them Your servant is warned,
 40 And in keeping them there is great reward.
 41 Who can understand his errors?
 42 Cleanse me from secret faults.
 43 Keep back Your servant from presumptuous sins;
 44 Let them not have dominion over me.
 45 Then I shall be blameless,
 46 And I shall be innocent of great transgression.
 47 Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart
 48 Be acceptable in Your sight,
 49 O Lord, my strength and my Redeemer.

Psalm 119:9-16:

1                   How can a young man cleanse his way?
 2                   By taking heed according to Your word.
 3                   With my whole heart I have sought You;
 4                   Oh, let me not wander from Your commandments!
 5                   Your word I have hidden in my heart,
 6                   That I might not sin against You.
 7                   Blessed are You, O Lord!
 8                   Teach me Your statutes.
 9                   With my lips I have declared
 10                  All the judgments of Your mouth.
 11                  I have rejoiced in the way of Your testimonies.
 12                  As much as in all riches.
 13                  I will meditate on Your precepts.
 14                  And contemplate Your ways.
 15                  I will delight myself in Your statutes.
 16                  I will not forget Your word.

17 We didn't write this book. The Holy Spirit working through us wrote this book and it was done not for our glory, but for 18 the glory of the one and only God:

19                   "My doctrine is not Mine, but His who sent Me. If anyone wills to do His will, he shall know concerning the 20 doctrine, whether it is from God or whether I speak on My own authority. He who speaks from himself seeks 21 his own glory; but He who seeks the glory of the One who sent Him is true, and no unrighteousness is in 22 Him."
 23 [John 7:16-18, Bible]

24 The real and persistent problems in our contemporary society have nothing to do with law, but religion, as George
 25 Washington, a Christian, said:

26                   "One's god dictates the kind of law one implements and also controls the application and development of that 27 law over time. Given enough time, all non-Christian systems of law self-destruct in a fit of tyranny."
 28 [George Washington]

29 We believe that it would be vain and arrogant to do any of the following either on our part or on anyone else's part:

- 30 1. Claim sole authorship over anything in this website, because it represents the collective effort of many very fine people 31 who have contributed to it.
- 32 2. Claim or infer or guarantee specific results based on the use of the materials found on this website.
- 33 3. Claim that the materials on this website are entirely free of error or mistake. Anything this size is bound to have 34 defects and we invite you to contribute to correcting them as you find them.
- 35 4. Claim that our writings or our processes are any better than any other person or organization.
- 36 5. Assign values to people by comparing ourselves with anyone else in order to make ourselves look somehow "better".
- 37 6. Accept or take any more responsibility for our publications or information on this website than the government does 38 for theirs. The IRS refuses to assume responsibility for the accuracy or truthfulness any of its forms, publications,
 39 telephone support, or agent actions, and so we claim the same limited liability for our information and activities. See 40 the following for more information on this scam:
 41 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/IRSNotResponsible.htm>

42 Instead, this website represents the best and most sincere efforts of only one humble man doing everything he can to 43 understand God's will and to do it by helping and loving his fellow man. The time he spends developing this website is a
 44 tithe to the Lord:

45                   "He has shown you, O man, what is good;
 46 And what does the Lord require of you
 47 But to do justly,
 48 To love mercy,
 49 And to walk humbly with your God?"
 50 [Micah 6:8, Bible, NKJV]

51                   "Blessed are those who keep justice
 52 And he who does righteousness [not just TALKS about it, but actually DOES it] at all times!"
 53 [Psalm 106:3, Bible, NKJV]

We have nothing but the best good-faith intentions in this ministry and we hope that you will approach our ministry with the same reverent and respectful attitude. Likewise, because we are involved in a teaching ministry, we have a biblical obligation to hold ourselves to a much higher moral standard than most in order that we might have credibility and deserve your trust:

"My brethren, let not many of you become teachers, knowing that we shall receive a stricter judgment."
[James 3:1, Bible, NKJV]

"If you instruct the brethren in these things, you will be a good minister of Jesus Christ, nourished in the words of faith and of the good doctrine which you have carefully followed."
[1 Tim. 4:6, Bible, NKJV]

And remember, the only thing necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing.

"The world is a dangerous place to live; not because of the people who are evil, but because of the people who don't do anything about it."
[Albert Einstein]

We view this ministry as a metaphor for the story of David and Goliath found in the Bible, 1 Sam. 17:

1. We are David.
2. A corrupted, evil band of tyrants that have taken over our de jure government and replaced it with an unlawful de facto government is Goliath. These tyrants are at war against their own country and their own people because of their greed and selfishness. They are plundering and robbing families and businesses of their labor and property.
3. The stone that knocks out the giant Goliath is the Truth and God's law. This stone will bring down our evil Philistine government eventually and replace it with an honest and honorable one that respects the Constitution.
4. The internet is the sling that carries the stone to the weakest part of Goliath, his temple, and kills him. For the government, the weakest part is honest men and women employed with the government who will, upon hearing the truth, defect and join our movement to become insiders who will help us expose and prosecute this tyranny and fraud.

And here is how God says we should approach this spiritual battle:

"Put on the whole armor of God, that you may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we do not wrestle with flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this age, against spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places. Therefore take up the whole armor of God, that you may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand."

"Stand therefore, having girded your waist with Truth, having put on the breastplate of righteousness, and having shod your feet with the preparation of the gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith with which you will be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked one [the IRS and the Department of Justice]. And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God; praying, always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, being watchful to the end with all perseverance and supplication for all the saints—and for me, that utterance may be given to me, that I may open my mouth boldly to make known the mystery of the gospel, for which I am an ambassador in chains; that in it I may speak boldly, as I ought to speak."
[Ephesians 6:11-20, Bible, NKJV]

1.4.4 Schooling

What school did we go to, and what degrees do we have? Well, as my father used to say:

"I've got a PhD from the University of Hard Knocks (U.H.K.)!"

There's only one school mentioned in scripture, and that was a school of a tyrant (Acts 19:9). And a "degree" is a Masonic concept, not a scriptural one. Our response to this inquiry is this: in John 7:14-16, the same question was asked among those to whom Christ Jesus was preaching. Notice that Jesus did not attend any school of human understanding of the Word of God.

"...Jesus went up into the temple, and taught. And the Jews marveled, saying, How knoweth this man letters, having never learned? Jesus answered them, and said, My doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me."
[John 7:14-16]

1 Notice the scripture also says, "Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings hast thou ordained strength" (Psalm 8:2) it does
 2 not say "out of the mouth of men with degrees from schools hast thou ordained strength." It is babes innocent of the world,
 3 feeding on the milk of the living Word (1 Peter 2:1-3) whom God has appointed to rule over the affairs of men (Isaiah 3:4).

4 "In that hour Jesus rejoiced in spirit, and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou hast
 5 hid these things from the wise and prudent [of the world], and hast revealed them unto babes: even so, Father;
 6 for so it seemed good in thy sight."
 7 [Luke 10:21]

8 And who exactly are these "babes"? They are His believers and followers!:

9 "At that time the disciples came to Jesus, saying, 'Who then is greatest in the kingdom of heaven?'

10 "Then Jesus called a little child to Him, set him in the midst of them, and said, 'Assuredly, I say to you, unless 11 you are converted and become as little children, you will by no means enter the kingdom of heaven. Therefore 12 whoever humbles himself as this little child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven.'"
 13 [Matt. 18:1-4, Bible, NKJV]

14 The Apostle Paul says "That your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God" (1 Corinthians 15 2:5). We are not at all concerned about certificates of recognition from "recognized" seminaries which are, after all, the 16 creations of men and not of God. Having a certificate does not mean that I am more qualified than one who knows the same
 17 thing without a certificate. In the end it is the knowledge which qualifies us, not a piece of paper saying I understand.

18 Proud men of degrees are usually a detriment to Christ and His assembly, because he will introduce leaven into God's 19 Word, so as to make it more palatable.

20 Then Jesus said to them, "Take heed and beware of the leaven [teachings, laws, doctrine, and publications] of 21 the Pharisees [lawyers] and the Sadducees." ....How is it you do not understand that I did no speak to you
 22 concerning bread?—but to beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and the Sadducees." Then they understood
 23 that He did not tell them to beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees and Sadducees.
 24 [Matt. 16:6,11,12; Bible, NKJV]

25 God's Word has largely been lost from modern watered-down Christianity. So, if you are a proud man of degrees and 26 schooling, know that God is not a respecter of persons (Romans 2:11), therefore, your degrees mean nothing to Him, and 27 mean nothing to His servants. What is written in your heart is more important than what's written on a man-made 28 document.

29 I think we fall into error when we praise men for the word of God, rather than praise God for the work He does through 30 men. God shows His mighty works through His people, and we hope that He is doing so through us and through this book
 31 and our website.

32 1.4.5 Criticism

33 People sometimes say:

34 "Don't you have anything good to say?"

35 It makes it look like we just want to bad mouth everybody. To not rebuke or attack sin or evil (not the sinner, but the sin) is 36 to violate God's word, which says that we rebuke and chasten those we love to keep them out of harm's way:

37 "As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous therefore, and repent."
 38 [Rev. 3:19, Bible]

39 "But those who rebuke the wicked will have delight, and a good blessing will come upon them."
 40 [Prov. 24:25, Bible]

41 "And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove [rebuke] them."
 42 [Eph. 5:11, Bible]

43 The only time we bring anything up, as far as error goes, is when it is based upon the Word of God. It's not us that's doing
 44 the criticism, it's God Himself. Therefore, when we do bring up and point out errors, it is not us that's doing the criticism,

1 it's God's Word. And we always have to go to His Word for the Truth, because if it's coming from just our own opinion, it's
2 not the truth and no one will believe it anyway because they will think we have some kind of personal agenda that in fact
3 we don't have.

4 "He who rejects Me, and does not receive My words, has that which judges him—the word that I have
5 spoken will judge him in the last day. For I have not spoken on My own authority; but the Father who sent 6 Me gave me a command, what I should say and what I should speak. And I know that His command is 7 everlasting life. Therefore, whatever I speak, just as the Father has told Me, so I speak."
8 [John 12:48-50, Bible, NKJV]

9 Additionally, we're not criticizing out of a mean spirit, but rather a constructive and hopefully beneficial spirit. The proper
10 Christian attitude when one is convicted by God's word is as follows, from Psalm 141:5:

11 "Let the righteous strike me;
12 It shall be a kindness,
13 And let him rebuke me;
14 It shall be as excellent oil;
15 Let my head not refuse it."

16 In Truth you have Love. As long as you're doing everything from the Word of God and only for the glory of God and not 17 yourself or any man, you are standing in God's Truth and doing everything in Love and in righteousness.

18 The prophets of old were always misunderstood and rejected by the people of their day, and the same fate awaits any who 19 would be prophets today. But the true measure of a man's worth is not always the number of his friends but sometimes the 20 number of his foes. Jesus was the best example of that.

21 "If the world hates you, you know that it hated Me before it hated you. If you were of the world, the world
22 would love its own. Yet because you are not of the world, but I chose you out of the world, therefore the 23 world hates you. Remember the word that I said to you, 'A servant is not greater than his master.' If they
24 persecuted Me, they will also persecute you. If they kept My word, they will keep yours also. But all these 25 things they will do to you for My name's sake, because they do not know Him who sent Me. If I had not
26 come and spoken to them, they would have no sin, but now they have no excuse for their sin. He who hates
27 me hated My father also. If I had not done among them the works which no one else did, they would have no
28 sin; but now they have seen and also hated both Me and My Father. But this happened that the word might 29 *be fulfilled which is written in their law, 'They hated Me without a cause.'"
30 [John 15:18-25, Bible]*

31 Every man who lives in advance of his age is sure to be misunderstood and often persecuted. Therefore, we must expect
32 often to be unpopular, often to stand alone, even to be maligned, perhaps to be bitterly and falsely assailed and driven
33 'without the camp' even of the religious world. In response to such persecution and criticism, we can only say that:

34 "Eagles fly high above the clouds but they fly alone."
35 [Family Guardian Fellowship]

36 Christian leaders and preachers in our day are no longer like the apostles in the old days, who were "made as the filth of the 37 world" (1 Corinthians 4:13). Let us remember that greatness in man's eyes does not always mean greatness in God's eyes
38 (Luke 16:15).

39 "Arise, O Lord,
40 Do not let man prevail;
41 Let the nations be judged in Your sight.
42 Put them in fear, O Lord,
43 That the nations may know themselves to be but men."
44 [Psalm 9:19-20, Bible, NKJV]

45 1.4.6 Pricing

46 How much do we charge for material? We do not charge a price for any materials or information, because:

47 "...freely ye have received, freely give."
48 [Matthew 10:8, Bible, NKJV]

49 "Buy the truth, and sell it not."

1 [Proverbs 23:23, Bible, NKJV]

2 "What is my reward then? Verily that, when I preach the gospel, I may make the gospel of Christ without
3 charge, that I abuse not my power in the gospel."
4 [1 Corinthians 9:18, Bible, NKJV]

5 Therefore, nothing on this website can be classified as "commercial speech" and thereby excluded from First Amendment
6 protections. We believe that any amount of money we solicit for the profound gospel message we preach on this website
7 simply discredits and corrupts us. It would also needlessly give the government jurisdiction over us which is derived from
8 commerce under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution. This jurisdiction could and probably would be abused
9 by corrupt judges to subvert or stifle our gospel message and First Amendment rights, as has already happened to many 10 other freedom and sovereignty advocates. If Jesus had accepted money for His preaching, do you think we would still be 11 hearing about Him today?

12 "And you shall take no bribe, for a bribe blinds the discerning and perverts the words of the righteous."
13 [Exodus 23:8, Bible, NKJV]

14 "He who is greedy for gain troubles his own house, 15 But he who hates bribes will live."
16 [Prov. 15:27, Bible, NKJV]

17 "Surely oppression destroys a wise man's reason.
18 And a bribe debases the heart."
19 [Ecclesiastes 7:7, Bible, NKJV]

20 Consistent with His ways, the continued publishment of these matters are supported as He directs your heart, and not from 21 the burden of a price. Like the income tax and donations to any church ministry, payment for the use of this site is entirely
22 voluntary. Those who have it written on their heart to give will give (2 Corinthians 9:7). And we'll continue to do what we 23 do as long as the Lord says that we're able to do it. If you want to volunteer to help, what we most need at the moment is 24 not money, but instead is (in descending order of need):

31 1.4.7 Frequently Asked Questions About Us

32 1.4.7.1 Question 1: Do you file tax returns or pay income tax?

33 Question 1: Do you file tax returns or pay income tax?

34 Answer 1: We do not pay federal income tax because we aren't subject to the code. Nowhere within the I.R.C. are those 35 with our status listed as having a liability to do anything. Click here for details on our status and a summary of all
36 the available statuses (OFFSITE LINK). Therefore, we are purposefully excluded pursuant to the rules of statutory 37 construction:

38 "*Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one
39 thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles,
40 *170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons
41 or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be
42 inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects
43 of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded."
44 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 581]

If money was unlawfully withheld or paid from our earnings, we submit a nonresident, nonstatutory claim for return of funds unlawfully paid to the government.

1. We don't use any IRS forms, because all their forms are for franchisees (OFFSITE LINK) called "taxpayers" so that we would misrepresent our status if we used these forms. Click here for details.
2. We use a custom form that specifically says it is for use by those who are not franchisees called "taxpayers" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(14\).
3. It is a criminal offense in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912 for someone like us who is not a "public officer" and a "taxpayer" to file a statutory "return".
4. Our submission satisfies all the requirements for a valid statutory "return" even though it isn't a statutory "return". See section 5 of the following:

1.4.7.2 Question 2: Do you have any court cites favorable to your position?

Question 2: I really like your website, however, I notice there is an absence of cases cited where the taxpayer has won as against the tactics of the government. Did I miss something or have you excluded these cases from your site? Can you give me any recent decisions where the federal courts have agreed with anything you say in your pages.

Answer 2: First of all, we don't help "taxpayers" on this website. If you are a "taxpayer", please visit <http://irs.gov> for information. As far as "nontaxpayers", this question is answered most succinctly at the beginning of our Flawed Tax Arguments to Avoid, Form #08.004. The main reasons which explain why there is little or no case law at the circuit court level or below that even addresses most of the issues appearing in this book include:

1. The government doesn't want you to know. If the people knew the truth about the voluntary nature of Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code, they would choose to unvolunteer. This also explains much of the cover-ups instigated by every branch of the federal government described in Chapter 6 of this book.
2. The lack of legal education of the average American causes them to have an unreasonable aversion to being called a "non-resident non-person" or classifying themselves as a "national" but not a "citizen" under federal law. Therefore, few people even attempt maintaining this status. This leads to a dearth of case law on the subject. One payroll person we talked to with over 25 years of experience told us that in their entire career, they have never processed a W-8. New hires are simply told "W-4 or the Highway". That doesn't make the "non-resident non-person" position wrong. It's just that the IRS propaganda campaign to scare people away from it by using the word "alien" instead "state national" has been very effective, and has caused ignorant, fearful, and misinformed private employers to coerce their new hires into basically submitting withholding paperwork that in many cases they know is fraudulent because completed under illegal duress but which they are given no option to correct without being effectively FIRED.

3. The federal district and circuit courts are territorial in nature and can only rule over the federal zone, maritime jurisdiction, and issues relating to federal property and employees. Consequently, they just don't and can't speak to issues relating to "sovereigns" who are nationals but not "citizens" under 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(21\) or 8 U.S.C. §1101\(a\)\(22\)\(B\). This is discussed in sections 7.6 through 7.6.12 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008.
4. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17\(b\) says that the rules of decision in any federal court are those of the domicile of the defendant. When a person domiciled within a state of the Union is being prosecuted civilly for a tax liability, the federal courts are therefore obligated to apply state law ONLY and may NOT apply any provision of the Internal Revenue Code against the defendant. Furthermore, if the defendant is also a Christian and has claimed heaven as his domicile instead of earth, then he can only be prosecuted civilly under God's laws in the Holy Bible. Consequently, it is meaningless to quote federal cases because they are irrelevant, and only the rulings of the state courts or ecclesiastical courts are relevant for those who have the proper domicile not within the "United States", which is defined as being limited to the "District of Columbia" in 26 U.S.C. §7701\(a\)\(9\) and (a)(10).
5. There is no federal common law within states of the Union, according to the Supreme Court in Erie Railroad v. Tompkins, 304 U.S. 64 (1938), for cases where diversity of citizenship is asserted under 28 U.S.C. §1332. This kind of situation would be precisely the situation that would apply to those who use the arguments in this book or the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008. Consequently, it's meaningless to cite cases from the federal District or circuit courts anyway as evidence of what happens to people who decide to pursue the methods documented in our book. The Supreme Court says the statutory and common law of the state, and not the federal government, must be applied in cases where diversity of citizenship is claimed, including in federal tax trials.
6. The Rules of Decision Act, 28 U.S.C. §1652 says that the laws of the state and not the federal government are to be applied as the rules of decision in federal courts in cases where they apply. The section doesn't mention which cases where they apply, because they don't want to admit that these cases include those who either have a domicile in a state of the Union, or those who are "nationals" but not "citizens" of the United States. Therefore, once again, federal caselaw is irrelevant to a state citizen domiciled within his state who has corrected government records to correctly reflect that voluntary choice.
7. The IRS says in its Internal Revenue Manual \(I.R.M.\), Section 4.10.7.2.9.8, that cases below the Supreme Court may NOT be cited against anyone other than the individual who litigated. The reason it says this is that there is no federal common law in states of the Union, as indicated in the previous item.

4.10.7.2.9.8 \(05-14-1999\) Importance of Court Decisions

1. Decisions made at various levels of the court system are considered to be interpretations of tax laws and may be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position.

2. Certain court cases lend more weight to a position than others. A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts. The Internal Revenue Service must follow Supreme Court decisions. For examiners, Supreme Court decisions have the same weight as the Code.

3. Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers.

8. Most people who litigate rely on an attorney who has been just as "dumbed-down" on legal issues in law school as the average high school graduate from public "fool" system.
9. Licensed attorneys who rock the boat and challenge substantive issues relating to abuse of government power become scapegoats for the courts, so they learn quickly not to rock the boat or challenge government jurisdiction. This is explained in our revealing article "Petition for Admission to Practice".

Based on the above, when a state citizen domiciled in his state litigates in a federal court on income tax issues, the only lawful choice the federal court has is to kick it and remand it to a state court to rule on because only state law applies anyway. Sometimes the litigant will then transfer the case to state court as a Bivens Action against the agent for wrongful collection. When the state courts rule on this issue, they will often try to protect the IRS agent who violated the law by asserting sovereign or official immunity. Even though the agent did in fact violate enacted state law, ordinarily, the state courts, out of "professional courtesy" (among fellow thieves), don't like to prosecute IRS agents who are enforcing outside their authority, because the states are receiving illegal "kickbacks" and "bribes" as a reward or "incentive" under the ACTA (Agreements on Coordination of Tax Administration) agreement they have with the United States Secretary of the Treasury. These illegal bribes and kickbacks perpetuate:

- The mis-enforcement of the I.R.C. by the IRS.
- The mis-enforcement of the state revenue codes by state taxing authorities.
- Continue the breakdown of separation of powers between state and federal governments in violation of the Constitution.
- Conspiracy against and violation of rights by both state and federal governments

The IRS knows about the above ACTA scam and has tried to cover it up. They used to post the ACTA agreements on their website but took them down when people pointed out the conflict of interest (in violation of 18 U.S.C. §208) they created for public servants. These are the main reasons you won't find many federal cases that raise most of the issues raised on this website. Some secondary but less prevalent reasons for the dearth of case law are bias and favoritism on the part of judges in violation of 28 U.S.C. §455, 28 U.S.C. §144, and 18 U.S.C. §208. This bias is documented in the following sections of this book:

- Section 2.8.13: Judicial tyranny
- Section 2.8.13.8: Nonpublication of court rulings
- Section 5.10: How Can I Know When I've Discovered the Truth About Income Taxes?
- Section 6.6: Judicial Conspiracy to Protect the Income Tax.

We also describe in our article entitled "Why the federal courts can't properly address these questions", for instance, why it is literally IMPOSSIBLE to have a fair trial relating to income taxes, why federal courts seldom even have a lawfully constituted jury, and why any judge who is either subject to IRS extortion or receives benefits derived from income taxes must recuse himself:

<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/WhyCourtsCantAddressQuestions.htm>

The above references conclusively prove using enacted positive law and historical information that the federal courts are systematically suppressing information about successes using our methods, because they don't want the damn to break and a flood of liberated Americans to stop paying an illegal bribe and extortion under duress to the IRS. We explain the reasons for this in section 1.11.5 of this book entitled "Why Won't the IRS and the U.S. Congress Tell Us the Truth?". Under such circumstances, you can expect the federal courts and most attorneys to be "politically correct" by advantaging the government and publishing cases where the litigant was ignorant and an easy target and who lost, but to make unpublished verdicts that are favorable to the positions in this book. This is one of the secrets of how our deceitful public servants has been able to conceal the truth for so long. It is precisely this kind of institutionalized tyranny and lying that allowed the Soviet Union to survive for the 70 years that it did using its propaganda machine, Pravda, to spread lies and disinformation before the whole big lie collapsed in on itself and the system self-destructed from its own weight. The same fate awaits the U.S. federal government if we don't stop the tyranny now before it gets worse.

We're sure you can understand that it has been a monstrous undertaking assembling what we have so far in this book and on our website. Remember that among the important conditions we have for the privilege of you being able to use this website is that you contribute something to improving it by doing some of your own research and discovery, and that you read, understand, comply with, and obey the Copyright/Software License Agreement and Disclaimer. We would therefore insist that YOU, our readers, help us build such a database of successes because we can't do it alone, absent your involvement, in the current environment where the courts are suppressing information prejudicial to the interests of government workers by making cases unpublished. Read section 6.6.6 of our book (an interesting number!) for one example of how the government suppressed the truth in that case. It is appalling. There's an obvious cover-up going on here.

1.4.7.3 Question 3: Isn't it a contradiction for you to be working for the government on the one hand and criticizing that government on the other hand?

Question 3: Isn't it a contradiction for you, on the one hand, to be working for the government, and on the other hand to be criticizing that same government?

Answer 3: This is a free country and the First Amendment guarantees us a right of Free Speech, and especially if that speech is based on religious beliefs and it is done during my off-duty time. The First Amendment also guarantees us a right to petition our government for Redress of Grievances (wrongs) and the focus of this website is all about wrongs committed by the government and how they need to be remedied in order to restore the credibility and integrity of our government. We do not hate government. The only thing we hate is what God commands us to hate in the Bible, including:

1. Evil (Prov. 8:13)
2. A proud look (Prov. 6:17)
3. A lying tongue. (Psalm 119:163, Psalm 119:104, Prov. 13:5, Prov. 6:17)
4. Hands that shed innocent blood. (Prov. 6:17)
5. A heart that devises wicked plans. (Prov. 6:18)
6. A false witness who speaks lies. (Prov. 6:19)
7. One who sows discord among brethren. (Prov. 6:19)

All of the above things we hate are behaviors, not people. God hates sin and lawlessness but he loves the sinner and we are no different. See Sections 2.3.6, 3.7, and 5.10.14 of the Family Constitution for further details on the subject of hating and judgment as it relates to this subject. At the same time, our Christian beliefs also require us to rebuke and reprove evil when we see it:

- "As many as I love, I rebuke and chasten: be zealous therefore, and repent." [\[Rev. 3:19\]](#)
- "But those who rebuke the wicked will have delight, and a good blessing will come upon them." [\[Prov. 24:25\]](#)
- "And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove [rebuke] them." [\[Eph. 5:11\]](#)

Thomas Jefferson, one of our founding fathers, a President of the United States, a judge, a patriot, a devout Christian, and the author of our Declaration of Independence confirmed that we should be jealous of our liberties and watchful of our government for encroachment upon them when he said:

"It would be a dangerous delusion were a confidence in the men of our choice to silence our fears for the safety of our rights... Confidence is everywhere the parent of despotism. Free government is founded in jealousy, and not in confidence. It is jealousy and not confidence which prescribes limited constitutions, to bind down those whom we are obliged to trust with power... Our Constitution has accordingly fixed the limits to which, and no further, our confidence may go... In questions of power, then, let no more be heard of confidence in man, but bind him down from mischief by the chains of the Constitution."
[Thomas Jefferson: Draft Kentucky Resolutions, 1798. ME 17:388 ]

"Leave no authority existing not responsible to the people."
[Thomas Jefferson to Isaac H. Tiffany, 1816. ME 15:66]

"Unless the mass retains sufficient control over those entrusted with the powers of their government, these will be perverted to their own oppression, and to the perpetuation of wealth and power in the individuals and their families selected for the trust. Whether our Constitution has hit on the exact degree of control necessary, is yet under experiment."
[Thomas Jefferson to M. van der Kemp, 1812. ME 13:136]

Quite to the contrary, I see it as hypocritical to be working for the DOD or the government and NOT do or say the things that appear on this website. I'm a patriot and I love my country and my fellow citizens. When I joined the military, I took an oath to "Support and defend the Constitution against all enemies, foreign and domestic so help me God." Right now, the biggest enemy of our rights and freedoms is not foreign or an Afghani terrorist, it is domestic and it is treasonous employees of our very own covetous and deceitful government, who are trying very hard to transform our Republic into an atheistic socialist democracy and thereby trample on our God given Constitutional individual rights. See chapter 4, and in particular sections 4.5 and 4.7 of this book for details on this. I see it as hypocritical indeed for any employee of the government who took a similar oath to criticize the goals and objectives of this website, which are explained in our DISCLAIMER and in section 1.1 of this book and we

1 have three ex IRS agents with over 20 years of collective experience who agree with us and who resigned from the
 2 IRS after they learned the truths on this and other websites! At the same time, it isn't ALL government employees
 3 who are committing this treason. It is only selected employees working for the Congress, Treasury, IRS, and
 4 Department of [IN]justice, who obfuscate the tax code, illegally enforce it, and look the other way by not
 5 punishing those in the courts and the IRS who violate the law in the process. They are on the take, and they'll do
 6 anything to get your money, and the Bible agrees that the love of money by these crooked people is the root of all
 7 evil in 1 Tim. 6:10. There is principally no difference between all the corporate scandals we have seen of late and
 8 the cooking of the books and obfuscation of the law that surrounds collection and expenditure of the Subtitle A
 9 federal income tax. All the crooked corporations have been doing is emulating what government has been doing
 10 with Social Security since the program started in 1936. See section 2.9 of this book for further details on this 11 scandal.

12 1.4.7.4 Question 4: Isn't it a contradiction to be paid by the very tax dollars from the government that you tell
 13 people not to pay?

14 Question 4: Are you sure you don't see the moral, ethical and legal problem in your being paid by the tax dollars of 15 Americans who actually pay their taxes and your refusing to pay your own taxes and advocating that others not 16 pay theirs?

17 Answer 4: The fallacy of that question is that I, as an employee of the Department of Defense, am actually paid by Subtitle
 18 A federal income taxes. In fact, I am not. For the first 180 years of this country, defense functions of this country
 19 were paid exclusively by federal excise taxes on imports and we didn't even have personal income taxes up until 20 WW II, except during a very brief period of the Civil war as an emergency war measure enacted by President
 21 Lincoln! We believe ALL AMERICANS and EVERYONE working for the government should obey the law.
 22 Since both federal and state law clearly state that we aren't liable for Subtitle A federal income or state income
 23 taxes as natural persons and that these taxes are voluntary for such persons, then there is no cause for any legal,
 24 moral, or ethical problems with not volunteering. We devote an exhaustive amount of study in section of 1.12 of 25 this book to the subject of what would happen if the illegal enforcement of the Internal Revenue Code by the IRS
 26 were reformed to be consistent with the code itself and the Constitution and if Congress came clean and told the 27 general public the truth about personal (Subtitle A) federal income taxes. To summarize the results of our detailed 28 financial analysis in that section:

- 29 1. State income tax revenues would be reduced.
- 30 2. Medicare and Medicaid payments would need to end.
- 31 3. Social security participation would become voluntary and persons could withdraw payment at any time 32 subject to the constraint that they would be able to collect benefits only based on what they put in and how 33 much money the government has to spend at the time they retire.
- 34 4. Federal revenues would be reduced by 41%. This would necessitate a requirement for the federal government
 35 to ask the states for revenues directly and through apportionment as authorized by 1:9:4 and 1:2:3 of the U.S.
 36 Constitution. States would be likely to severely limit what they gave the feds through apportionment and take
 37 over a larger share of social services away from the federal government, thereby making state government 38 more important to the average person.
- 39 5. Congress would have to start getting much more fiscally responsible, because the budget would get much 40 tighter, and they would not be able to endlessly raise taxes to pay for increasing public debt, because most of 41 their tax revenues would come from corporate excise taxes on foreign commerce, which they would have 42 little control over.
- 43 6. Congress would have to stop its social engineering using the tax code because if people don't have to pay
 44 Subtitle A personal income taxes, then they aren't going to do crazy things anymore just to earn the right to 45 get a tax deduction. Congressional meddling in the economy would be replaced once again by an entirely free
 46 market based on capitalism. Keynesian economics and federal government meddling into our economy
 47 would also be far less frequent, because the feds would have fewer resources with which to meddle.
- 48 7. There would be a significant change in the job market:
 49 IRS staffing could be shrunk by probably 50%, because 50 percent of its revenues come from personal
 50 income taxes.
 51 7.1. Tax preparers would need to find another line of work, since they would have nothing they could charge 52 for.

- 1 7.2. Probably half of the lawyers in the country would need to find a decent and honorable line of work
2 finally. We wouldn't need probate attorneys, living trusts to escape taxes, tax shelters, or offshore bank
3 accounts or investments.
- 4 7.3. There would be massive cuts in the accounting field, since it would suddenly be much simpler to 5 comply with all the laws and regulations regarding taxes.
- 6 7.4. Companies would probably be able to lay off 2/3 of their payroll people, because this job function 7 would get much simpler without the need to deduct taxes.
- 8 8. The amount of money the federal government could borrow would be much less because its revenues would 9 be less. Just like individuals, your borrowing power depends on disposable income after making payment on 10 current debts.
- 11 9. There would be less partisanship in Congress, because there would be less money to fight about and fewer 12 ways to raise significantly more.
- 13 10. There would be a natural check on the size of federal government because most of federal revenue would 14 come from taxes on imports. If the government got too large and charged too much for import taxes, other 15 countries would be just as protective of their markets and our exports would go down. The system would 16 naturally correct itself.
- 17 11. Federal elections would cease to be a vehicle of economic equalization. For instance, there would no longer
18 be a financial incentive for older people to vote in congressmen and representatives who would perpetuate
19 robbing the rich or the young to give to the poor or old. This would eliminate the use of the government for 20 class warfare purposes, and would make politics far more objective and far less controversial.
- 21 12. Since the government would consume far less of the national income and very little personal income, federal 22 politics would become less relevant and state politics would become correspondingly more relevant for the 23 average American.
- 24 13. There would be far less reason for financial institutions to need or want a Social Security Number from 25 depositors, since very few profit generating investments would result in a federal tax liability.
- 26 14. Much greater individual freedom would be the result, as individuals (natural persons) would:
27 14.1. Have 10% more disposable income per capita.
28 14.2. Be able to use the increase in their income to:
29 14.2.1. Donate more to their favorite charity or church (which would also help take care of those with 30 medical expenses no longer covered by Medicare and Medicaid)
31 14.2.2. Put their children in private schools and get them away from the harmful effects of public 32 schools.
33 14.2.3. Help their families, and especially older people in the family who need medical care (to replace 34 Medicare and Medicaid).
- 35 14.3. Have ultimate privacy about their own financial affairs and would answer to no one.
- 36 14.4. No longer be required to incriminate themselves.
- 37 14.5. Have more autonomy, respect, and authority in their own families, because children would need to 38 depend more on their parents and other family members for charity and help until they can get on their 39 own two feet.
- 40 15. Legal effects:
41 15.1. Federal courts and judges would no longer derive their pay from income taxes paid by individuals, and
42 therefore would no longer have the conflict of interest they currently do in attempting to illegally
43 enforce a voluntary income tax against Americans. This would produce a more objective legal system.
44 15.2. Law schools would have to focus on lines of business other than taxation.
- 45 16. Business climate:
46 16.1. The rate of new business failures would go dramatically down. Income taxes are a big drain on most 47 small businesses, and it is very difficult, especially when they are first starting up, to deal with all of the 48 payroll, tax, insurance, and employee benefit drain on their income. A very high percentage of first-
49 time businesses fail because the taxes are so high. However, if there were no income taxes, then their 50 cash flow situation would be drastically improved and the complexity of managing their business would 51 be reduced, which would give most businesses more time to focus on customer satisfaction, which 52 would thereby improve their profits and viability.
53 16.2. The price of goods and services would go down probably 20-30%, because businesses would not have 54 to build in so many taxes into the price of their products and services.
55 16.3. The profitability of most small businesses would go dramatically up.

16.4. Employees would have a lot more take home pay, so they would have more spendable income, which would really promote an expansion of the economy and a redirection of income away from inefficient government projects toward a more consumer-oriented mentality.

17. Family effects:

17.1. Many families who currently have two breadwinners would only need one. The wife could quit her job and take care of the children or elderly parents. The children would turn out better than before because they would get more attention and supervision

17.2. Divorce rates would go down because there would be less financial stress on the family and because the majority of divorces are caused by disputes over money or the lack of it.

17.3. More people would choose to home school their kids, resulting in a better educational system.

17.4. More parents could afford to take their children out of public schools and put them into private schools. This would create more competition for the public schools and raise their standards.

17.5. The more traditional model for families, where the man is the breadwinner, would be much more common than it is today, because much more families could afford to implement it without paying income taxes.

We believe that all of the above changes in our political system that would inevitably result from the changes in the tax system that we advocate would be not only positive, but highly desirable and long overdue. More importantly, the number of systemic conflicts of interest would be reduced as well, including:

- Voters could no longer be tempted to vote for politicians who promise tax dollars to their favorite pet project because there wouldn't be tax dollars available for pet projects anymore. See Tax Deposition Questions, Section 5 on First Amendment, Family Guardian Fellowship, for some background on this subject.
- Federal judges would no longer be put in the awkward position of hearing tax trials while at the same time being beholden to the IRS and getting their paycheck from Subtitle A income taxes. Such a conflict of interest violates 28 U.S.C. §455. See our Tax Deposition Questions, Section 8 on Courts are Closed, for some background on this subject.
- Americans would no longer be put into a conflicted state on the one hand thinking they have Constitutional rights, but on the other hand having those rights completely disregarded by the federal courts because of 28 U.S.C. §2201, which says that judges may not rule on rights or status regarding federal tax matters. See Tax Deposition Questions, Section 4 on Fifth Amendment, Family Guardian Fellowship, for some background on this subject.
- Congress would no longer be incentivized to run up big public debt and use it to bribe constituents for their votes. Remember, this public debt has to be paid off by unborn children at interest. That violates their rights and makes them financial slaves of the government in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1581, which prohibits slavery to pay off a debt, in this case to the Federal Reserve. It also represents taxation without representation, which is the very reason this country was founded. See our Tax Deposition Questions, Section 2 on Right to Labor, Family Guardian Fellowship, for some background on this subject.
- The Congress, the Treasury, and the IRS would no longer be incentivized to obfuscate the tax code to deceive the average American into thinking that they owe taxes because they simply wouldn't. See our Tax Deposition Questions, Section 9 on Ambiguity of Law, Family Guardian Fellowship, for some background on this subject.
- The growth of government and the encroachments of liberty this represents would be stopped because the food that keeps the beast alive would be reduced. America would return to being the Constitutional Republic (NOT DEMOCRACY, but REPUBLIC) that our founding fathers originally intended. It would become a beacon and light of freedom and liberty once again revered all around the world, rather than terrorized for its socialistic intervention in the affairs of other nations.

As we explain in section 1.11 of this book, even without the Subtitle A federal income tax, our federal government would easily be able to afford to support the core functions of government identified by the founding fathers in the Constitution on the budget that would remain after Subtitle A federal income taxes would be eliminated. As a matter of fact, our government did exactly that from 1776 all the way up to 1943. Certainly it can repeat this again. Core functions of government include:

- Courts
- Prisons

- Military
- Roads
- Coast Guard

1.4.7.5 Question 5: Do you have to quote the Bible so much?

Question 5: Why do you have to quote the Bible so often in your books and your website? This offends me.

Answer 5: If you don't like God or the Bible, then this isn't the website for you! Use of our website and our books is a privilege, and not a right. Who are you to be looking a gift horse in the mouth? The only thing that educating and empowering ungrateful atheists and blasphemers like you accomplishes is to make them more vain. "Knowledge puffs up, but love edifies." 1 Cor. 8:1. We don't want you benefiting from God's wisdom without believing in Him because that would be selfishness. "For everyone to whom much [information] is given, from him much will be required; and to whom much has been committed, of him they will ask the more." Luke 12:48. Everyone has to serve someone and when there is no God, government or our own selfish hedonistic desires become our god. Christians describe this situation as idolatry, which is the worst kind of sin and is forbidden in Exodus 20:1-11. This very attitude is behind liberal efforts to remove God from our schools and public places, as a matter of fact. Furthermore, we mention in section 4.5.5 that if you are selfishly looking at our materials to get more money for yourself rather than to spend at least ten percent of the money you make on charitable causes and the Lord's causes as the Bible requires in Mal. 3:8, then you don't have our permission to use the materials on this website and have violated the user license and conditions of the copyright. Those who are selfish deserve to have a selfish government that lies to them and steals from them, because we should always reap what we sow. This is the golden rule:

"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you."
[Matt. 7:12.]

Furthermore, even if we do donate 10% of our income to charitable causes, if we tell anyone what we gave or who we gave it to rather than doing it secretly, then we have violated Matt. 6:1-4 and have a pride problem that will be our downfall eventually.

"Therefore, when you do a charitable deed, do not sound a trumpet before you as the hypocrites do in the synagogues and in the streets, that they may have glory from men. Assuredly, I say to you, they have their reward. But when you do a charitable deed, do not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing, that your charitable deed may be in secret; and your Father who sees in secret will Himself reward you openly."

1.4.7.6 Question 6: Aren't you endangering yourself by criticizing government?

Question 6: The Bible, in Prov. 20:2 says "The wrath of the king is like a roaring lion; Whoever provokes him to anger sins against his own life." Because your website appears to mock many aspects of government behavior, it would appear to me that you violate that scripture and endanger your own safety by inviting the wrath of public officials.

Answer 6: In our country the PEOPLE, not the President or the Congress, are the sovereigns and therefore the kings in a biblical sense. The government and the Congress are their servants. Even our Supreme Court agrees with this notion.

"Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law; but in our system, while sovereign powers are delegated to the agencies of government, sovereignty itself remains with the people, by whom and for whom all government exists and acts."
[Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356, 6 S.Ct. 1064 (1886)]

"The people of this State, as the successors of its former sovereign, are entitled to all the rights which formerly belonged to the King by his prerogative. Through the medium of their Legislature they may exercise all the powers which previous to the Revolution could have been exercised either by the King alone, or by him in conjunction with his Parliament; subject only to those restrictions which have been imposed by the Constitution of this State or of the U.S."
[Lansing v. Smith, 21 D. 89, 4 Wendel 9 (1829)]

The "king" has every right to do with his servants what he wishes. They are his "property" and his stewardship alone and he is answerable only to God for what he does as the sovereign. On this website and in this book, we rebuke unlawful and therefore evil BEHAVIOR rather than evil people. To condemn and legally prosecute their harmful and illegal actions is to pursue justice against our collective servants, that is our public servants. It is indeed ludicrous to suggest that corrupted and criminal servants in government are the only ones who can pursue or enforce justice and that the sovereigns are not empowered directly to do so if the servants have neglected their stewardship and attempted to take over the house. Here is what the Bible says our duty is as the sovereign when a servant gets out of line:

"But if that servant says in his heart 'My master is delaying his coming,' and begins to beat the male and female servants, and to eat and drink and be drunk, the master of that servant will come on a day when he is not looking for him, and at an hour when he is not aware, and will cut him in two and appoint him his portion with the unbelievers. And that servant who knew his master's will, and did not prepare himself or do according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes."

Trusting lawyers to police themselves or be honest and honorable is a recipe for disaster and tyranny. Does anyone like or even trust lawyers these days? All they are interested in is money and power, and they have enslaved most of our culture with their greed and sophistry:

"The Lord is well pleased for His righteousness' sake; He will exalt the law and make it honorable. But this is a people robbed and plundered! [by the IRS] All of them are snared in [legal] holes [by the sophistry of greedy IRS lawyers], and they are hidden in prison houses; they are for prey, and no one delivers; for plunder, and no one says, "Restore!""

Who among you will give ear to this? Who will listen and hear for the time to come? Who gave Jacob for plunder, and Israel to the robbers? [IRS] Was it not the Lord, He against whom we have sinned? For they would not walk in His ways, nor were they obedient to His law, therefore He has poured on him the fury of His anger and the strength of battle; it has set him on fire all around, yet he did not know; and it burned him, yet he did not take it to heart."*
[Isaiah 42:21-25, Bible, NKJV]

If these arrogant and covetous public servants who occupy public offices today really were the "king", then you would be right, but they aren't. They want to deceive everyone into believing that they are the king, but this simply is not the case: you and me are!

On the other hand, Proverbs 21:7 says:

"The violence of the wicked will destroy them because they refuse to do justice."
[Prov. 21:7]

Justice in America for our public servants is to remind them that they are precisely that: servants. We explain very clearly in sections 2.1, 2.2 and 4.1 of this book that the law imposes on our public servants and public officials a "fiduciary relationship" in relation to us as the sovereigns, and that this relationship imposes the highest standard of care under law. If they exceed their delegated authority and thereby act unlawfully, then we have a duty as the sovereigns to rebuke and punish this sin or eventually we will be destroyed by their violence because we refuse to do justice as God's law requires.

For those of you in government inclined to want to shoot the messenger and your fellow coworker (me) rather than heed the message, I'd like to remind you that it is ILLEGAL and a "prohibited personnel practice" to discriminate against whistleblowers who expose federal corruption and/or violation of law under 5 U.S.C. §2302(b)(8). Any person who engages in such illegal activities may be subject to criminal prosecution and dismissal from federal government service. Those persons who might feel inclined to contact my employer or institute disciplinary action against me for anything on this website, which collectively are a reflection of my religious and political views, is engaged in a "prohibited personnel practice" as legally defined.

1.4.7.7 Question 7: How come I can't select or copy text from the electronic version of this document?

The content of this document when in Adobe Acrobat form is copy protected. We do this deliberately to prevent violations of the copyright and more importantly, to prevent people from misusing, abusing, or censoring any portion of this document. There are persons who don't like its religious content and want to censor it out, which we will not allow. We also don't want editable versions of our document getting into the hands of persons intent on plagiarizing it or worst yet, restricting its audience by charging for it. This protection has the effect of:

1. Guaranteeing our First Amendment right of free speech.
2. Preventing those who would slander us from distorting or corrupting our message.
3. Preventing profiteers and snake-oil artists from plagiarizing our work and charging for it.
4. Making the audience for the document as large as possible by ensuring that it is ALWAYS free.

Large portions of our this book, however, are available in editable electronic form on our website in the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004, including all of chapters 6 and 8.

1.4.7.8 Question 8: I'm afraid to act on the contents of this book. What should I do?

Question 10: I'm so afraid to stop paying taxes and what the government might do to me. I would feel much better if I could sit back and wait until there is a perfect method that always works and involves no risk. What should I do?

Answer 10: People who ask this question think that there is some possibility that they can get our deceitful politicians to tell them the truth so that they don't have to take risks in order to follow what we so clearly show on this website is the law regarding income taxes. Well, I've got some disappointing news for you, folks, and please don't shoot the messenger:

1. If you wait and hold your breath for the government to one day magically admit that they have been STEALING from you all these years and that they ought to pay all of the money back to you that they stole, you will be waiting until hell literally freezes over! Think about the liability, the litigation, and the downright violence and civil anarchy that might result after people found out the truth from the government's own formal admission? There is absolutely nothing to gain and everything to lose for the average politician to tell the truth about this fraud. Do you think there is even one politician honest enough to risk upsetting the apple cart and causing the biggest meltdown and civil unrest this country has ever seen?

2. There will NEVER be a risk-free way to follow the laws on taxation. Are you listening? Read my lips again. There will NEVER be a risk-free way to follow the laws on taxation, or to live, for that matter. The whole point of the corrupt system that our lawyer-politicians have engineered over the last 80 years since they fraudulently ratified the 16th Amendment in 1913 is to make it so complicated, exasperating, and troublesome to hold on to the money you earned that you will just give it up without a fight. There is a name for that, and it is called ORGANIZED EXTORTION and RACKETEERING and it is illegal (see 18 U.S.C. §872 and 18 U.S.C. §225) and morally wrong. Who else but a lawyer would know better that he is a criminal and want to hide it? The only way they can steal your money is hold a loaded gun in your back. That gun is loaded with lies and silence about the truth and what makes you think that the gun is real is the illegal duress they apply and publicize in the form of "Notice of liens", "Notice of levies", fraudulent calls to employers, anonymous letters claiming they have authority when in fact they do not, and downright fraudulent IRS publications. The IRS and the Congress benefit too much financially from the lies to ever tell the truth or fix the problems they will try to get you to believe were just a product of incompetence and massive bureaucracy.

3. If money is your security blanket instead of God, doing justice, and loving your neighbor. If you would rather look the other way while our government rapes and pillages and enslaves your neighbor, then you are worshipping the false god of money and government, and this is idolatry in violation of the First commandment to love your God with all your heart, mind, and soul (see Exodus 20:1-11).

*"Assuredly, I say to you that it is hard for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven. And again I say to you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God."
[Matt. 19:23-24, Bible, NKJV]*

You are joined at the hip to Babylon the Great Harlot described in the Book of Revelation. You sold out. This is not a complicated issue and this is no time for excuses. You are a moral and a spiritual whore and harlot. Everyone has a price to sell out and your price just happens to be a little higher than the average druggie street bum. Face the reality and the truth and prepare for hell later on, because that will probably be your reward. Either

1 you believe God and follow his commandments and recognize His word as absolute (not relative) moral truth, or
 2 you are a hypocrite and a fraud. It's as simple as that, and God doesn't like hypocrites (Matt. 23:13-17; Matt.

4 *"If you love me, keep My commandments. And I will pray the Father, and He will give you another Helper,
 5 that He may abide with you forever—the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees
 6 Him nor knows Him; but you know Him, for He dwells with you and will be in you."
 7 [John 14:15-17, Bible, NKJV]*

8 If you love God and evidence that faith through consistent obedience to His Law, then you have satisfied the 9 greatest commandment to love God. It's as simple as that. Any other approach is just politically correct tripe
 10 designed to give you a false sense of self-esteem, and we hear a lot of that coming from the pulpit in this deluded
 11 age. See Isaiah 30:1-3 and 8-14. We as a race are all rebellious children of God who need to be more obedient to 12 Him and when we aren't, He disciplines and chastises us for that disobedience using a sinister, evil, and deceptive
 13 IRS.

14 *"The violence of the wicked will destroy them because they refuse to do justice."
 15 [Prov. 21:7, Bible, NKJV]*

16 4. The source of your fear comes from two things: 1. Ignorance; 2. The lack of God's spirit and His love in your
 17 life. The antidote for the first cause is education and the antidote for the second is faith and having a personal
 18 relationship with God. There is a more than adequate amount of materials on our website to get you educated
 19 about what you are facing, more than any other source on the subject anywhere on the internet that we have found,
 20 so ignorance can't be a legitimate excuse for your fear. Those same materials are copiously peppered with God's 21 word throughout so that you can get to know God and what He expects out of you. The only thing you have to add 22 to that is your own discipline and effort.

23 *"Enter by the narrow gate; for wide is the gate and broad is the way that leads to destruction, and there are 24 many who go in by it. Because narrow is the gate and difficult is the way which leads to life, and there are few 25 who find it."
 26 [Matt. 7:13-14, Bible, NKJV]*

27 As Franklin Delano Roosevelt liked to say: "The only thing we have to fear is fear itself." If you fail, it will not be
 28 because of your environment or the fact that the devil or a serpent made you do it. In most cases, it will be because 29 of your own laziness and apathy. People like that are called "lukewarm Christians" and Jesus said he spits them
 30 out of his mouth!:

31 *"So then, because you are lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will vomit you out of My mouth."
 32 [Rev. 3:16, Bible, NKJV]*

33 Laziness and apathy are what we are all fighting. If you can conquer this, God will call you a worthy steward and 34 bless you abundantly (see Luke 12:41-18).

35 5. "But I need someone to hold my hand. I can't do this on my own." you say? Well, as we say in our Contact us
 36 page:

- 37 1. Freedom is not a spectator sport;
 38 2. You can't have liberty without personal responsibility.

39 Depending on anyone but yourself to defend your freedom is slavery. Pestering and bothering us incessantly to 40 take responsibility for personal problems that you yourself refuse to take personal responsibility for is nothing but 41 hypocrisy. It also hurts our own efforts to take responsibility for ourselves and deprives us of the time we need to 42 help a broader audience by improving the materials and tools that everyone uses on this website. There is a cost
 43 for everything. Calling us and asking us to solve your problems makes us into a hypocrite, because we have to 44 give you favoritism that there aren't enough hours in the day for one man to give to the other hundreds of 45 thousands of readers of this website. Please don't make us into a hypocrite or force us to explain why we had to 46 help you but then didn't have the time to help the other 200,000 people who wanted similar treatment FOR FREE.
 47 We have a life too and want you to respect our sovereignty just like you want the government to respect your 48 sovereignty.

The only thing we can guarantee is that there will always be someone out there who wants to take advantage of you, and if you choose to be ignorant and dependent on others for your liberty, then you are a slave. Plain and simple. You are a slave to your own ignorance and apathy, and the government, who is the wolf in sheep's clothing, is counting on the fact that you will be thinking this way because that is how they shear the sheep and make lamb chops. Prepare for the slaughter. I'm sorry, but this is the real world folks and the naked truth that you should have learned in our defective public education system. Please don't shoot the messenger, but grow wiser and use what you have learned to help your fellow men. Gang up on this problem and form study groups in your area to help each other. One man simply cannot do all. Jesus tried to do that and look what they did to Him!

*"If a nation expects to be ignorant and free... it expects what never was and never will be."
[Thomas Jefferson]*

The gift of liberty is the greatest earthly gift you can bestow on any man, second perhaps only to that of salvation and faith in God. That is the focus of this website, and we do it by educating you and teaching you how to fish. We aren't, however, the fish supplier. You have to catch your own fish.

All of our materials are based on the word of God, and God says we should trust Him:

*"Trust in the Lord with all your heart, And lean not on your own understanding [or your own feelings]; In all your ways acknowledge Him [not just in the ways that FEEL good or are politically correct], and He [not the winds of public opinion] shall direct your paths."
[Prov. 3:5, Bible, NKJV]*

*[OBSERVATION: You can't trust the Lord with all your heart if you are focused on riches and materialism.
See Matt. 6:19-21]*

You may have to travel a few dirt roads before you develop the character necessary to appreciate this advice, but you'll be glad you did later. :-)

If you are looking for inspiration, please read our The God Memorandum, Og Mandino, which is a very powerful motivator that we read often. Good luck, and our prayers and sympathies are with you as you stretch your wings and learn to fly.

1.5 Who Is Really Liable for the Income Tax?

The only code section in all the Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code that makes any entity liable to pay a tax on income is Internal Revenue Code (IRC) section 1461 which states:

*"Every person required to deduct and withhold any tax under this chapter is hereby made liable for such tax..."
[26 U.S.C. §1461]*

And who is this "any person" that Congress made liable to "deduct" and "withhold"? I.R.C. Section 7701(a)(16) defines this person as the "withholding agent", who is"

"..required to deduct and withhold any tax under the provisions and sections 1441, 1442, and 1443."

So one looks up those three code sections and sees that code section 1441 applies to nonresident aliens, code section 1442 applies to foreign corporations, and code section 1443 applies to certain foreign tax-exempt organizations under IRC 1443. The astonishing truth is that subtitle A imposes the liability for the payment of "income" taxes on earnings of foreigners and of STATUTORY U.S. Citizens working in a foreign country that has a current tax treaty with the United States and earning over the $76,000 annual exclusion.

The Supreme Court in their 1924 decision Cook v. Tait ruled that Congress has the power to tax the "income" received by a STATUTORY Citizen of the United States domiciled abroad from property situated abroad and that the constitutional prohibition of unapportioned direct taxes within the states of the union does not apply in foreign countries.

1 There is no code section in all of Subtitle A, or anywhere else in the entire Internal Revenue Code for that matter, that
 2 makes the American national earning his or her living exclusively within the states of the Union liable for a tax on his
 3 or her own income. Period It simply doesn't exist!

4 With today's computers which can hold the entire Internal Revenue code on a single CD-ROM, it's a simple matter to
 5 search for any and all occurrences of such words as "Citizen" and "income" throughout the entire Internal Revenue code, let 6 alone just subtitle A. And, sure enough, the code section imposing a liability on a U.S. citizen for a tax on income when
 7 working within the States of the Union is just not there.

8 As further proof, the index for the Internal Revenue Code has no listing for the liability of Citizens, unless that income is 9 from insular island possessions. Check this out for yourself. Go to the index in the front of the code and look up the phrase
 10 "Liability for tax". You will not find income tax anywhere!

11 1.6 Amazing Facts About the Income Tax<sup>2</sup>

12 FACT #1: Our Founding Fathers created a constitutional REPUBLIC as our form of government. The Constitution gives
 13 the federal/national government limited powers. ALL powers not delegated to the United States are reserved to the States
 14 respectively or to the People. The Union was created to be the servant of the people! The United States Constitution is the 15 SUPREME LAW of the land. (Article VI, Clause 2.)

16 FACT #2: The Constitution gives the Congress the power to lay and collect taxes to pay the debts of the government.
 17 Provide for the common defense and general welfare of the United States subject to the following rules pertaining only to 18 the two classes of taxation permitted.

- 19 1. DIRECT TAXES, which are subject to the rule of apportionment among the states of the Union.
- 20 2. INDIRECT TAXES -- imposts, duties and excises, subject to the rule of uniformity.

21 FACT #3: The government does not allow either one of the two classifications to tax CITIZENS or PERMANENT
 22 RESIDENT ALIENS of the United States of America, DIRECTLY. The intent of the Founders was to keep the government
 23 the servant and to prevent it from becoming the master. (See Article 1, section 2, clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution.)

24 FACT #4: The CENSUS is taken every ten (10) years to determine the number of representatives to be allotted to each
 25 State and the amount of a direct tax that may be apportioned to each State. This is determined by the percentage its number 26 of representatives bears to the total membership in the House of Representatives. (Article 1, section 2, clause 3; Article 1, 27 section 9, clause 4.)

28 FACT #5: It was established in the Constitutional Convention of 1787 that the supreme Court of the United States would 29 have the power of "judicial review". Which is the power to declare laws passed by the U.S. Congress to be null and void if 30 such a law or laws was/were in violation of the Constitution. This was to be determined from the original intent as found in 31 Madison's Notes recorded during the Convention, the Federalist Papers, and the ratifying conventions found in Elliott's
 32 Debates.

33 FACT #6: Due to the characteristics of the SECOND CLASSIFICATION of taxation, the Supreme Court called it an 34 indirect tax and it is divided into three distinct taxes: IMPOSTS, DUTIES, and EXCISES. These taxes were intended to 35 provide for the operating expenses of the government of the United States. (See Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1.)

36 FACT #7: Duties and imposts are taxes laid by government on things imported into the country from abroad, and are paid 37 at the ports of entry.

1 FACT #8: The supreme Court says that excises are...taxes laid upon the manufacture, sale or consumption of commodities
2 within the country, upon licenses to pursue certain occupations and upon corporate privileges. (See Flint v. Stone Tracy
3 Co., 220 U.S. 107 (1911))

4 FACT #9: In 1862, Congress passed an Act (law) to create an "Income Duty" to help pay for the War Between the States.
5 A duty is an indirect tax, which the federal government cannot impose on citizens or residents of a State having sources of 6 income within a state of the Union.

7 FACT #10: Congress passed an Act in 1894 to impose a tax on the incomes of citizens and resident aliens of the United
8 States (the Federal Zone, NOT the United States of America, which is clarified in Section 4.6.3). The constitutionality of 9 the Act was challenged in 1895 and the Supreme Court said the law was Unconstitutional when applied within the 10 boundaries of the 50 Union states because it was a DIRECT TAX that was not apportioned as the Constitution required
11 (See Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429 (1895).)

12 FACT #11: In 1909 Congress passed the 16th Amendment to the Constitution that was allegedly ratified by 3/4 of the 13 States; it is known as "The Income Tax Amendment". However, in a book called The Law That Never Was, Bill Benson
14 presents exhaustive evidence which refutes the claim that this amendment was ever ratified. (see 15 <http://www.thelawthatneverwas.com/>)

16 FACT #12: Some officials within the Internal Revenue "Service," along with professors, teachers, politicians and some 17 judges, have said and are saying, that the 16th Amendment changed the United States Constitution to allow a DIRECT tax
18 without apportionment.

19 FACT #13: The above persons are not empowered to interpret the meaning of the United States Constitution! As stated
20 above (Fact #5), this power is granted by the Constitution to the Supreme Court, but limited to the original intent. The 21 Supreme Court has no power to function as a "social engineer" to amend or alter the Constitution as they have been doing.
22 A change or "amendment" can only be lawfully done according to the provisions of Article 5 of that document.

23 FACT #14: The U.S. Supreme Court said in 1916 that the 16th Amendment did not change the U.S. Constitution because 24 of the fact that Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3, and Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4, were not repealed or altered; the U.S.
25 Constitution cannot conflict with itself. The Court also said that the 16th Amendment merely prevented the "income duty"
26 from being taken out of the category of INDIRECT taxation. (See Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Co., 240 U.S. 1 27 (1916), page 16.)

28 FACT #15: After the Supreme Court decision, the office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue issued Treasury
29 Decision [Order] 2313 (dated March 21, 1916; Vol. 18, January-December, 1916, page 53.) It states in part; "...it is hereby 30 held that income accruing to nonresident aliens in the form of interest from the bonds and dividends on the stock of 31 domestic change corporations is subject to the income tax imposed by the act of October 3, 1913."

32 FACT #16: In another Supreme Court decision in 1916, the Court, in clear language settled the application of the 16th
33 Amendment. By the previous ruling [Brushaber] it was settled that the provisions of the Sixteenth conferred no new power
34 of taxation. Rather it simply prohibited the previous complete and plenary [full] power of income taxation possessed by 35 Congress from the beginning from being taken out of the category of indirect taxation to which it inherently belonged...
36 (See Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103 (1916))

37 FACT #17: The United States Constitution gives the federal government the exclusive authority to handle foreign affairs.
38 Congress has the power to pass laws concerning the direct or indirect taxation of foreigners doing business in the U.S. of A.
39 It has possessed this power from the beginning, needing no "amendment" (change) to the U.S. Constitution to authorize the 40 exercise of it.

FACT #18: The DIRECT classification of taxation was intended for use when unforeseen expenses or emergencies arose. Congress, needing funds to meet the emergency, can borrow money on the credit of the United States (Article 1, section 8, clause 2). The Founding Fathers intended that the budget of the United States be balanced and a deficit be paid off quickly and in an orderly fashion. Through a DIRECT tax, the tax bill is given to the States of the Union. The bill is "apportioned" by the number of Representatives of each State in Congress; therefore, each State is billed its apportioned share of the DIRECT tax equal to the number of votes its Representatives could employ to pass the tax. How the States raise the money to pay the bill is not a federal concern (Article 1, section 2, and clause 3).

FACT #19: In the Brushaber and Stanton cases, the Supreme Court said the 16th Amendment did not change income taxes to another classification. So, if the INCOME TAX is an indirect EXCISE tax, then how is it applied and collected? According to the Supreme Court, "Excises are taxes laid upon the manufacture, sale or consumption of commodities within the country, upon licenses to pursue certain occupations and upon corporate privileges; the requirement to pay such taxes involves the exercise of the privilege and if business is not done in the manner described no tax is payable...it is the privilege which is the subject of the tax and not the mere buying, selling or handling of goods." (Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107 (1911).)

QUESTION: If all RIGHTS come from GOD (citizens of the States retained all RIGHTS except those surrendered as enumerated in the United States Constitution), and PRIVILEGES are granted by government after application; THEN what is the PRIVILEGE that the "income tax" is applied against?

ANSWER: As established in the U.S. Constitution, the federal government cannot directly tax a Citizen living within the States of the Union. Citizens possess RIGHTS; these rights cannot be converted to PRIVILEGES by government. The only individuals who would not have these RIGHTS and liable to regulation by government are NONRESIDENT ALIENS doing business and working within the federal United States or receiving domestic source profits from investments, and federal United States citizens (born in federal territories) working in a foreign country and taxable under TREATIES between the two governments.

FACT #20: WITHHOLDING AGENTS withhold income taxes. The only section in the Internal Revenue Code that defines this authority is I.R.C. section 7701(a)(16).

FACT #21: Withholding of money for income tax purposes, according to section 7701(a)(16), is only authorized for sections: 1441 - NONRESIDENT ALIENS, 1442 - FOREIGN CORPORATIONS, 1443 - FOREIGN TAX-EXEMPT ORGANIZATIONS, 1461 - WITHHOLDING AGENT LIABLE FOR WITHHELD TAX.

FACT #22: Internal Revenue Manual Chapter 1100 Organization and Staffing, section 1132.75 states: The Criminal Investigation Division enforces the criminal statutes applicable to income, estate, gift, employment, and excise tax statutes involving United States citizens residing in foreign countries and nonresident aliens subject to Federal income tax filing requirements...

FACT #23: The implementation of IRS Treasury Regulation 1.1441-5 is explained in IRS Publication 515 on page 2, that "If an individual gives you [the domestic employer or withholding agent] a written statement, in duplicate, stating that he or she is a Citizen or resident of the United States, and you do not know otherwise, you may accept this statement and are relieved from the duty of withholding the tax.

FACT #24: The ONLY way a United States Citizen or permanent resident alien, living and working within a state of the Union can have taxes deducted from his/her pay, is by voluntarily making an application Form SS-5 to obtain a Social Security Number. Then by entering that number on an IRS Form W-4 and signing it to permit withholding of "Employment Taxes" -- "Form W-4 Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate" (emphasis added). That is why the IRS pressures children to apply for a Social Security Numbers, and for employers to obtain the voluntary execution of Form W-4 immediately from all those being hired. However, no federal law or regulation requires workers to have a Social Security Number or sign a Form W-4 to qualify for a job.

1 FACT #25: Karl Marx wrote in his COMMUNIST MANIFESTO, ten planks needed to create a COMMUNIST state. The
2 SECOND PLANK is A HEAVY OR PROGRESSIVE INCOME TAX, second only to the ABOLITION OF PRIVATE
3 PROPERTY.

4 FACT #26: The attorney who [in Pollock v. Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, 157 U.S. 429, 158 U.S. 601] successfully
5 challenged the Income Tax Act of 1894, Joseph H. Choate, recognized the communist hand in the shadows. He told the 6 United States Supreme Court, "The act of Congress which we are impugning [challenging as false] before you is
7 communistic in its purposes and tendencies, and is defended here upon principles as communistic, socialistic -- what shall I
8 call them -- populistic as ever have been addressed to any political assembly in the world".

9 FACT #27: The Supreme Court agreed; and Mr. Justice Field wrote the Court's opinion, concluding with these statements
10 in intensity and bitterness. Prophetic words: "Here I close my opinion. I could not say less in view of questions of such 11 gravity that go down to the very foundations of the government. If the provisions of the Constitution can be set aside by an 12 act of Congress, where is the course of usurpation to end? The present assault upon capital is but the beginning. It will be 13 but the stepping-stone to others, larger and more sweeping, till our political contests will become a war of the poor against 14 the rich; a war growing."

18 CONCLUSION OF FACTS:

19 All RIGHTS come from GOD: the United States Government can only exercise powers given to it by We The People
20 through the U.S. Constitution; the "income tax" is an INDIRECT TAX; there is NO section of law in the Internal Revenue
21 Code (Title 26 U.S.C.) making a CITIZEN or a RESIDENT working and living WITHIN A STATE OF THE *UNION,
22 LIABLE to pay the INCOME (indirect/excise/duty) TAX.

41 1.7 So if most Americans don't need to pay income tax, how could so many people be fooled for so long?

1 Many people are incredulous when they learn that income tax is voluntary for Americans living in the 50 Union states who
 2 have income from within the states. They simply can't believe that they and the entire system of lawyers, tax attorneys,
 3 accountants, informed Americans, politicians, and bureaucrats could be so deceived or ignorant about the income tax.
 4 "How could this be? I don't believe it!" they often say. "Surely, this would have been settled by the supreme court already"
 5 they frequently say. We would like to argue that there is a conspiracy going on, and it is found in the deliberate ambiguity
 6 of the tax code, and in particular, in sections 5.12 through 5.12.3 later. Below are a few possible reasons why the word
 7 hasn't yet gotten out to the average American that he or she doesn't owe income tax:

- 8 1. World War I started officially in 1916 and ended in 1918. The U.S. Government was desperately in need of revenues
 9 to fight the war. That was near the time in 1913 when the 16th Amendment was allegedly ratified. The Federal
 10 Reserve was also started the same year, in 1913. People and states were afraid America would lose the war or not be
 11 prepared to fight it. Congress was expanding the armed forces and patriotic Americans didn't mind paying an income
 12 tax, even if they didn't legally have to, because that was the only way we could win the war. Unfortunately, the income
 13 tax wasn't eliminated after the war, and greedy politicians not only kept the income tax, but tried to expand the income
 14 tax to make it even more confiscatory and communist in its application (progressive, as they say today, where to use
 15 Karl Marx statement "from each according to his ability, to each according to his need."). However, even to this day,
 16 the IRS continues to refer to the income tax as a system of "voluntary compliance", which simply means that one does 17 not have to pay it if one does not wish to.
- 18 2. World War II occurred from about 1938 to 1945. During this time, the Employment tax was instituted and it was a 19 voluntary continuation of the self-imposed Victory Tax initiated in 1942 for the war effort. Patriotic citizens
 20 voluntarily paid income tax even though they didn't legally have to in order to bolster the war effort, because their very
 21 existence was threatened. Even to this day, the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle C, chapter 24 refers to the requirement
 22 to deduct Employment taxes, which are really voluntary taxes on income that are refundable and need not be deducted.
- 23 3. Decades after all the wars are over and the need to pay income taxes is long gone, the borrow and spend bureaucrats in 24 Washington, D.C. and the IRS continue to want to extort your money out of you using your own ignorance as a
 25 weapon so badly, that they won't tell you the truth or print it in clearly in any of the IRS literature. "Caveat emptor"
 26 very much applies here, because looking out for number one is the only way you will learn of this Great Deception.
 27 Not only do they not want you to know, they also repealed one of the only remnant ways that you could find out, when 28 they repealed 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-5 in January 1999 (could they be getting wise to the patriot movement and to this 29 document?), which said that citizens who had income from sources in the United States were not subject to income tax.
- 30 4. Tax attorneys and tax preparers would be out of business or would see their business base erode considerably if they 31 were honest about telling their individual clients that they need not pay income taxes.
- 32 5. The federal government has attempted to illegally tax citizens with direct income tax many times throughout history.
 33 The constitution, however, was resistant to such abuse, even after passage of the 16th Amendment (which as we said
 34 before was really a non-amendment as far as the Supreme Court was concerned). What changed things and allowed
 35 the unlawful seizure of individual income was the absolute power granted to the IRS to terrorize the citizenry in blatant 36 violation of the law, in order to extort revenue involuntarily from them. Everyone knows that the IRS operates more as 37 a socialist gestapo organization than a government bureaucracy constrained by the balance of power found in the 38 constitution, the force of law, or the requirement for due process guaranteed by the 14th Amendment to the 39 Constitution.
- 40 6. Citizens filing returns (notice we didn't say taxpayers, because most citizens pay tax even though they don't have to)
 41 who point out the obvious fact that "the emperor has no clothes" with respect to the income tax issue will be targeted
 42 for an audit and harassment by the IRS as retribution. This is a very common occurrence for patriot organizations such 43 as Inform America and the Save-A-Patriot Fellowship. The IRS has to use fear and intimidation to make an example
 44 out of troublemakers who spread the truth in order to keep the passive flock of sheep in line and prevent a revolt.
 45 Such Fear, Uncertainty, and Doubt (FUD) tactics keep the general populace from hearing the truth.
- 46 7. If the U.S. Government told the citizens the truth: that they didn't have to pay income taxes, they would be saddled
 47 with large debts for Social Security retirement and the national debt which they could not repay. This would destroy
 48 the credit rating of the United States. Therefore, for the good of the country and because it would be extremely 49 difficult to modify the constitution to accommodate income taxes, they have to rely on keeping you ignorant and using
 50 terrorism by the IRS to keep you paying "tribute to the king". Wasn't oppressive taxes of the colonies one of the BIG
 51 reasons why we had a revolutionary war to begin with and declared independence from England? Why aren't there
 52 any patriots left who will defend our liberties at all costs? Where is the A.C.L.U. when you need them? They are 53 awfully proficient at kicking God out of everyplace but when it comes to protecting our foundational liberties, they 54 are silent. HYPOCRITES!

1 While this document proves with the law itself the limited nature of the federal "income tax," some obvious, basic questions
2 will arise in the minds of most readers.

- 3 • "If my income isn't taxable, how could my tax-preparer not know it?"
- 4 • "What kind of massive conspiracy would it take to keep such an enormous deception secret, and for so long?"

5 Such questions are irrelevant to the actual evidence presented. Nonetheless, they cause mental obstacles which stop many
6 people from even considering the possibility that the evidence proves what it appears to prove. Therefore, they will be
7 addressed briefly here to give readers a good reason to continue on and finish this entire book.

8 Questions about who knows what, and about human intentions, necessarily require an amount of theorizing (as opposed to a
9 study of the actual words in the law itself). My conclusions at present are based on my own experiences with IRS
10 employees, tax professionals, and others, as well as second-hand accounts which I consider reliable.

11 In any field of thought, it is very easy for false assumptions to be self-perpetuating. For example, for years scientists
12 searched for a substance responsible for the phenomenon called "heat." We now know there is no such substance as heat.
13 For years doctors tried to perfect blood-letting, which killed many people but was superstitiously thought to have positive
14 health effects. For hundreds of years, people believed that the world was flat, and anyone who reached any other conclusion
15 was thought to be a heretic. Now the whole world is full of "heretics"! Suggestions that the "experts" in any field are 16 missing something fundamental are usually greeted with ridicule by those "experts." The idea that little creatures too small
17 to see ("germs") were making people sick was considered absurd. The idea that the earth is a sphere revolving around the 18 sun was ridiculed. Traveling faster than the speed of sound was long considered a physical impossibility.

19 These obstacles to human understanding are due in large part to the fact that only very rarely does an individual begin to 20 study a certain subject without preconceived assumptions (whether incorrect or correct). The same is true of tax
21 professionals today. The possibility is very slim that anyone in America over the past half century received training to 22 become a tax professional without being told that most income is taxable. Instead, they started with a false assumption
23 (which they had before they had the slightest idea of what the law actually said), and then perhaps studied details in the law
24 about deductions, exemptions, etc.

25 When an assumption is strong enough, an enormous amount of direct evidence contradicting that assumption can be 26 dismissed by an individual. Perhaps the individual simply assumes that the evidence was somehow misunderstood. Or 27 perhaps the individual simply ignores whatever does not match the preconceived ideas. The human mind is very 28 resourceful when it comes to manipulating the physical evidence to match a preconceived conclusion. A scientist might 29 simply throw out some result which contradicts the bulk of his findings, and assume it was the result of some error in the 30 experiment.

31 Imagine a veteran tax professional, who all his life has heard and believed that the income of most Americans is taxable.
32 When he comes across a sentence which states that a certain part of the law "determines the sources of income for purposes
33 of the income tax," but he knows that part is not about the income of most Americans, he most likely makes a subconscious
34 choice that he isn't even aware of. Rather than accepting all evidence in order to form a conclusion, the opposite occurs. He 35 subconsciously believes it means something other than what it says, because believing otherwise could very well upset his 36 world view, quite literally.

37 A simple example is a magic show. People, when sawed in half, die. Everyone in the audience at a magic show knows this.
38 Though their eyes may tell them someone is being sawed in half, they have underlying assumptions which tell them that 39 this evidence is unreliable. The mind seeks an alternate explanation for the evidence, since it refuses to believe the 40 explanation which the immediate physical evidence tends to suggest. In this case, it is logical to do so.

41 However, the same phenomenon occurs whether the assumption is correct or not. If the magician actually did saw someone
42 in half, the audience would assume it to be a trick. The "premises" on which the human mind functions are very difficult to 43 change. Those who were convinced that the sun revolves around the earth, having never even considered the evidence,
44 imprisoned, tortured, and killed people for disagreeing. If the disagreement evolved into an examination of the evidence,
45 the truth would win. If the "tax experts" ever stop making assertions and accusations, and try to substantively respond to 46 the evidence, the truth will win.

1 But who does know the truth about this? A conspiracy of ignorance is far easier to maintain than a conspiracy of secrecy. In
2 other words, the fewer people know the truth about something, the more likely it is for the truth to remain hidden. If all
3 100,000-plus IRS employees were told that all people who are not federal employees are not the proper subject of the 4 Internal Revenue Code, there would be no chance of this remaining secret for long. If, on the other hand, the enforcers of 5 the law are just as ignorant as everyone else, they will faithfully extort their fellow man to the best of their abilities.

6 The more I learn, the fewer people I think know the truth about the limited application of the income tax code. The average
7 IRS employee knows little or nothing about the law. Because it is unlikely that anyone in the IRS will admit to knowing the 8 truth, figuring out who does know the truth requires a lot of speculation. From my experiences, I doubt anyone below the 9 level of District Director at the IRS has the slightest idea of what the truth is (at least until recently).

10 A handful of lawyers at the Department of the Treasury, as well as the actual authors of the statutes, know the truth. Beyond
11 that, I believe very few do. Federal judges have often demonstrated ignorance about tax code, and even much, if not most,
12 of Congress is most likely ignorant of the law. Again, the fewer people there are who know, the more secure the secret is.

13 If a lie survives long enough, it acquires "staying power." If some law passed yesterday was said to be deceptive, people
14 wouldn't hesitate to look into it. But a claim that an 87-year-old law has been deceptive all along, resulting in trillions of 15 dollars being unjustly taken, is likely to be unbelievable to most.

16 Suppose a mother finds $20 in her son's room. The son, having stolen it from someone, fabricates a story about how 17 someone gave it to him for saving a pet dog from drowning in a swimming pool. A small lie, and a relatively small theft.
18 But then the mother (believing her son) happens to tell the story to some of her friends, and they are so impressed by the 19 boy's bravery, that they give him another $100. The boy, of course, still doesn't admit the truth. One of those friends
20 happens to have a cousin who writes for a local newspaper, and he decides that it would be nice to write about something
21 positive for a chance, and he writes a little article, praising the boy's bravery. More donations come in, and more people
22 want to know the story. The story is a little more impressive each time the boy tells it. Then one day, a local talk show
23 offers the boy $2,000 for an interview. What do you expect him to do?

24 (Eventually, there is a chance that someone will want to interview the non-existent folks with the non-existent dog to get 25 their side of it. Then the lie comes crashing down.)

26 Once upon a time, Congress committed a relatively small deception. They wrote a statute that at first glance seemed to 27 impose a tax on the income of some U.S. citizens who lived and worked exclusively within the United States. But the tax
28 was only for a small percentage, and very few people received enough income for it to matter. And after all, Congress
29 wasn't to blame if the people didn't know that the law had to be read in light of the Constitutional limitations. If people
30 failed to look up the related federal regulations, or failed to figure out the truth, Congress wasn't to blame. All Congress did
31 was fail to publicly correct their error. Besides, why on earth would some rich, patriotic American bother to get in his horse
32 and buggy to go rummage through law books trying to get out of this tiny little tax?

33 (When people ask me why the "rich" people, who lose millions every year to this fraud, aren't aware of this stuff and using 34 it, I ask them when they last saw a multi-millionaire rummaging through income tax code books. The people who can
35 afford expensive "tax experts" are assuming they are getting their money's worth. I doubt they will be happy customers
36 when they learn the truth. It may not be long before no one admits to having been a tax professional.)

37 Then a few years went by. The rates went up a bit, and the exemption amount dropped. But it still wasn't worth
38 complaining about. Besides, if the law didn't apply to the income of all Americans, surely someone would have said so
39 before then. So in the following years, members of Congress, who weren't aware of the original deception, eagerly raised
40 the rates of a tax they didn't even understand, to get more revenue. The longer it lasted, the less people were able to 41 consider that it was all a big deception. Eventually, a multi-billion-dollar industry grew out of the lie, along with an 42 intrusive and abusive collection agency. And, for the most part, these were created and carried out by people oblivious to 43 the truth.

44 Just like the boy who didn't save any dog, what do you expect the few in government who do know the truth about the 45 "income tax" fraud to do about it now? "Oh, sorry... just kidding... it doesn't really apply to you." I don't think so.
46 Furthermore, how do you expect the tax professionals who don't know to respond to the truth? "Ah, shucks. Well, we really
47 blew it on that one. It seems our whole industry has been grossly incompetent for decades. Looks like most of my training

1 and career were based on a lie. Oh well, guess I should start looking for another job." I don't think so. That's not how 2 human nature works.

3 This fraud will end. The truth will outlive the fraud and the lies. It's only a question of time.

13 "Those who are too smart to engage in politics are punished by being governed by those who are dumber. "
14 [Plato]

15 So how does the government and the IRS get away with plundering our property and our earnings illegally? The Bible tells 16 us how:

17 "No one can enter a strong man's house and plunder his goods, unless he first binds the strong man. And then 18 he will plunder his house."
19 [Mark 3:27, Bible, NKJV]

20 How does the government and the legal profession "bind us" and make us defenseless? With our own legal ignorance and 21 their constant efforts to promote and encourage it!

22 "For my people are foolish,
23 They have not known Me.
24 They are silly children,
25 And they have no understanding,
26 They are wise to do evil,
27 But to do good they have no knowledge."
28 [Jeremiah 4:22, Bible, NKJV]

29 "...it is not good for a soul to be without knowledge,"

32 [Hosea 4:6, Bible, NKJV]

33 "One who turns his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer is an abomination."
34 [Prov. 28:9, Bible, NKJV]

35 They exploit and promote our weaknesses by deceiving us with their fraudulent IRS publications and legal treachery called 36 "words of art" (see section 3.9.1 for further details proving that the courts refuse to hold them accountable either for what is 37 in their publications or by what they say on the telephone) into thinking that we owe tax and keep us ignorant about what
38 the law REALLY says by refusing to ever discuss the very statutes which defines and limits their authority with us, and 39 which clearly shows that we aren't liable. If we then research the statutes ourselves and confront them with the truth, they
40 commit tyranny in verbally and legally abusing us when they respond by telling us we are "insane", "unreasonable", or a
41 crack-pot malcontent. They do this in front of our own peers sitting on juries, who are so ignorant and naïve that they 42 believe whatever our dishonest government tells them. After all: a majority of your ignorant peers believed a pot smoking,
43 draft dodging president Bill Clinton well enough to reelect him even after all his adulterous affairs and dirty laundry was 44 out on world TV to watch in the biggest scandal this country has ever seen. Why wouldn't these same dysfunctional
45 citizens sitting on a jury also be equally inept enough to believe a vain and junior U.S. Attorney prosecutor who is so
46 desperate to make his Mercedes payments that he would say or do anything to win his case and earn a name for himself?
47 Consequently, our naïve and simplistic desire to trust everyone and never question authority allows the government and the 48 IRS beast to perpetuate and spread this constructive fraud and federal slavery.

1                   “The only thing necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing or to trust bad men to do the right
2 thing.”

3                   [Family Guardian Fellowship]

4 The courts refuse to hold their own government brethren in the IRS liable for that fraud and deception so the IRS
5 perpetuates it with impunity and with the blessings of the Congress who oversees them. Then they rely on our own apathy
6 and laziness and disorganization to perpetuate that ignorance and misinformation. Most people are slaves to the 7 government their whole lives because of their ignorance, apathy, and laziness. Let’s face it: It’s VERY HARD WORK to
8 always be questioning authority and challenging jurisdiction, but this is what it takes to remain free, friends! As 9 confirmation of this fact, the bible passage below makes it very clear that the reward for laziness is slavery:

10                   “The hand of the diligent will rule, but the lazy man will be put to forced labor [slavery!].”

11                   [Prov. 12:24, Bible, NKJV]

12 The purpose of this book is therefore to eliminate what we call “slavery to ignorance” and to dispel the deception and 13 propaganda our government feeds us, so that we may exercise a mature love toward our fellow man:

14                   “...we should no longer be children, tossed to and fro and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the 15 trickery of men, in the cunning craftiness of deceitful plotting, but speaking the truth in love, may grow up in all
16 things into Him who is the head—Christ.”

17                   [Eph. 4:14, Bible, NKJV]

18 Make no mistake about it: ignorance is a sin that can hurt us more than any other sin. Here is what the bible says about 19 how damning ignorance and apathy can be, from Proverbs 1:20-33:

20                   “Wisdom calls aloud outside; she raises her voice in the open squares, she cries out in the chief concourses, at 21 *the openings of the gates in the city she speaks her words; how long, you simple ones, will you love simplicity?
22 For scorners delight in their scorning, and fools hate knowledge. Turn at my rebuke; surely I will pour out*
23 *my spirit on you; I will make my words known to you. Because I have called and you refused, I have stretched
24 out my hand and no one regarded, because you disdained my counsel, and would have none of my rebuke, I
25 also will laugh at your calamity; I will mock when your terror comes. When your terror comes like a storm,
26 and your destruction comes like a whirlwind, when distress and anguish come upon you. Then they will call
27 on me, but I will not answer; they will seek me diligently, but they will not find me. Because they hated
28 knowledge, and did not choose the fear of the Lord. They have none of my counsel and despised my every* 29 *rebuke. Therefore they shall eat the fruit of their own way, and be filled to the full with their own fancies. For 30 the turning away of the simple will slay [and enslave] them. And the complacency of fools will destroy them;
31 but whoever listens to me [and studies My Law, the Bible] will dwell safely, and will be secure, without fear
32 of evil.”

33                   [Prov. 1:20-33, Bible]

34 Here is the way one famous Constitutional Law attorney describes how we have become our own worst enemies by 35 maligning God and trusting in our own vanity and strength instead of the Lord:

36                   “Americans have the government officials they deserve. Our society openly castigates the Almighty, thus 37 making tolerable judicial pronouncements like that of today [6/25/2002] which banished God from our national 38 pledge. The darkness of night follows the light of day, and similarly when any nation shakes its angry fist at the 39 maker of the universe, it can expect the withdrawal of divine protection. Conditions are now riper for a strike 40 by our national tormenters.”

41                   Those who disdain our sacred pledge are no better than our enemies.”

42                   [Attorney Larry Becraft]

43 The evil government beast is simply acting as God’s avenger against sinful people who won’t be obedient to what His Law
44 and His Word say they should do. Plain and simple. We reap what we sow: We are selfish, covetous, dishonest, and lazy
45 so we get a selfish, covetous, dishonest, and lazy government that plunders and enslaves us. That’s the golden rule in 46 operation and why should we expect any different? It’s Divine Justice meted out by a Sovereign and Omnipotent God. In 47 the scientific field, this same Golden Rule was described by Sir Isaac Newton, the inventor of calculus, as part of Newton’s
48 Laws as follows:

49                   “For every action, there is an equal and opposite reaction.”

50                   [Newton’s Laws]

51 Even the Supreme Court agrees that the government we have can be no better than we ourselves are:

1 "All systems of government suppose they are to be administered by men of common sense and common
 2 honesty. In our country, as all ultimately depends on the voice of the people, they have it in their power, and it
 3 is to be presumed they generally will choose men of this description; but if they will not, the case, to be sure,
 4 is without remedy. If they choose fools, they will have foolish laws. If they choose knaves, they will have
 5 knavish ones. But this can never be the case until they are generally fools or knaves themselves, which, thank
 6 God, is not likely ever to become the character of the American people." [Justice Iredell] (Fries's Case (CC) F
 7 Cas No 5126, supra.)
 8 [Ludecke v. Watkins, 335 U.S. 160, 92 L.Ed. 1881, 1890, 68 S.Ct. 1429 (1948)]

9 We are a government "Of the people, for the people, and by the people" as Abraham Lincoln said in his Gettysburg
 10 Address. When we, as our own "rulers", choose "fools" for our public servants as the Supreme Court says above, the Bible
 11 tells us the result:

12 "A ruler who lacks understanding is a great oppressor"
 13 [Prov. 28:16, Bible, NKJV]

14 And this is exactly what we have now folks. Here's an example of that very metaphor from the Bible which explains it all:

15 "The Lord is well pleased for His righteousness' sake; He will exalt the law and make it honorable. But this
 16 is a people robbed and plundered! [by the IRS] All of them are snared in [legal] holes [by the sophistry of 17 greedy IRS and DOJ lawyers], and they are hidden in prison houses; they are for prey, and no one delivers;
 18 for plunder, and no one says, "Restore!"

19 Who among you will give ear to this? Who will listen and hear for the time to come? Who gave Jacob for
 20 plunder, and Israel to the robbers? [IRS] Was it not the Lord, He against whom we have sinned? For they
 21 would not walk in His ways, nor were they obedient to His law, therefore He has poured on him the fury of His
 22 anger and the strength of battle; it has set him on fire all around, yet he did not know; and it burned him, yet he 23 did not take it to heart."
 24 [Isaiah 42:21-25, Bible, NKJV]

25 How does the Lord "exalt the law" [His law]? By allowing Satan to plunder and harm those who don't follow it! This very 26 analogy explains why we have become a country besieged by terrorism and fear:

27 "For you have trusted in your wickedness; you [the IRS and our wicked public servants] have said, 'No one
 28 sees me'; your wisdom and your knowledge have warped you; and you have said in your heart, 'I am and 29 there is no one else besides me.' Therefore evil shall come upon you; you shall not know from where it
 30 arises [Iraq? Afghanistan? Who knows?]. And trouble shall come upon you; you shall not be able to put it off
 31 [war on terrorism will have no end]. And desolation shall come upon you suddenly [9-11-2001 in New York
 32 City], which you shall not know. Stand now with your enchantments [New Age philosophy, "people friendly"
 33 churches that don't preach doctrine and God's word and have become vanity] and the multitude of your
 34 sorceries [drugs], in which you have labored from your youth—perhaps you will be able to profit, perhaps you
 35 will prevail. You are wearied in the multitude of your counsels [greedy lawyers and corrupt politicians and
 36 judges who we have too many of in this country]; Let now the astrologers, the stargazers [horoscopes,
 37 weathermen], and the monthly prognosticators [stock market analysts] stand up and save you from these things
 38 that shall come upon you. Behold, they shall be as stubble, they shall not deliver themselves from the power
 39 of the flame; it shall not be a coal to be warmed by, nor a fire to sit before! Thus shall they be to you with 40 whom you have labored, your merchants from your youth; they shall wander each one to his quarter. No one 41 shall save you."
 42 [Isaiah 47:10-11, Bible, NKJV]

43 Extremely prophetic words indeed, friends! Because of how damning ignorance and the wrath of God that results from it
 44 can be, the Bible therefore lauds the opposite of ignorance, which is "wisdom". Here are a few scriptures on the subject of 45 wisdom:

46 "He who gets wisdom loves his own soul; he who keeps understanding will find good."
 47 [Prov. 19:8, Bible, NKJV]

48 "Wisdom is the principal thing; therefore get wisdom: and with all thy getting get understanding."
 49 [Prov. 4:7]

50 [INTERPRETATION: Get wise and get educated! Try to answer the question "why" whenever anyone from 51 the government insists that you must do something. Question their authority constantly.]

52 "The mouth of the righteous speaks wisdom, and his tongue talks of justice. The law of his God is in his heart;
 53 none of his steps shall slide. The wicked watches the righteous, and seeks to slay him. The Lord will not leave
 54 him in his hand, nor condemn him when he is judged. Wait on the Lord, and keep His way, and He shall exalt 55 you to inherit the land; when the wicked are cut off, you shall see it."

1 [Prov. 37:30-34]

2 "Honesty is the first chapter in the book of wisdom."
3 [Thomas Jefferson to Nathaniel Macon, 1819. ME 15:180 ]

4 "Wisdom is better than strength. Nevertheless the poor man's wisdom is despised, and his words are not heard.
5 Words of the wise, spoken quietly [in this book, for instance], should be heard rather than the shout of a ruler of 6 fools [the federal courts and congress?]. Wisdom is better than weapons of war; but one sinner [the IRS]
7 destroys much good."
8 [Eccl. 9:16-18, Bible, NKJV]

9 How do we obtain wisdom? Here is how:

10 "If any of you lacks wisdom, let him ask of God, who gives to all liberally and without reproach, and it will
11 be given to him. But let him ask in faith, with no doubting, for he who doubts is like a wave of the sea driven
12 and tossed by the wind. For let not that man suppose that he will receive anything from the Lord; he is a 13 double-minded man, unstable in all his ways."
14 [James 1:5-7]
15 [INTERPRETATION: Faith in God and the humility to ask God for help is the key to obtaining wisdom.]

16 "10 The fear [respect] of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom: a good understanding have all they that do his 17 commandments: His praise endureth forever."
18 [Psalm 111:10]

19 "My son, if you receive my words, and treasure my commands within you, so that you incline your ear to 20 wisdom, and apply your heart to understanding; yes, if you cry out for discernment, understanding, if you seek 21 her as silver, and search for her as for hidden treasures; then you will understand the fear of the Lord, and find
22 the knowledge of God. For the Lord gives wisdom; from His mouth come knowledge and understanding; He 23 stores up sound wisdom for the upright; he is a shield to those who walk uprightly; he guards the paths of 24 justice, and preserves the way of His saints. Then you will understand righteousness and justice, equity and 25 every good path."
26 [Prov. 2:1-9]

27 [INTERPRETATION: You can't be free and deserve your liberty without treasuring and seeking wisdom and 28 knowledge and understanding, which start with a reverence/fear and respect for God almighty!! Faith in God
29 is the foundation of all good and lasting things in life.]

30 Once we have wisdom, whose chief source comes only from God, how do we increase that wisdom and protect ourselves
31 from harm and abuse? The Bible again tells us how:

32 "Wise people store up knowledge, but the mouth of the foolish is near destruction."
33 [Prov. 10:14, Bible]

34 This book is my attempt to fulfill the very calling described above, and I hope it represents the greatest accumulation of 35 organized facts and knowledge available about the subject of income taxes and the government fraud, extortion, and 36 racketeering that perpetuates them.

37 The key to regaining our sovereignty, folks, is education and virtue. We also need to study and understand the principles of 38 Christian liberty both from the Bible and as we describe them in this book, because God says we will be greatly blessed for 39 doing so:

40 "But he who looks into the perfect law of liberty [God's law] and continues in it, and is not a forgetful hearer 41 but a doer of the work, this one will be blessed in what he does."
42 [James 1:25, Bible, NKJV]

43 The main purpose of parenting and education, for instance, is to eliminate ignorance and foolishness from our children and 44 teach them wisdom. Based on the pernicious evils we continue to allow our own public servants to foist upon us through
45 the fraud and deceit of the IRS, and in our name no less (they are our "government servants" and "agents", you know!), it's 46 clear that our culture is on the decline because we aren't investing enough time in our children to make them wise. Instead,
47 we abdicate our parenting responsibilities by putting them into the custody of the liberal media propaganda machine on
48 television and government-sanctioned monopoly called "public education". Do you think the socialist government wolves 49 who run our public schools are going to teach your children "sheep" that they are the sovereigns in charge of the 50 government? Here are a few additional secular quotes about such wisdom and knowledge:

1 "A general Dissolution of Principles and Manners will more surely overthrow the Liberties of America than the
2 whole Force of the Common Enemy. While the People are virtuous they cannot be subdued; but when they lose
3 their virtue they will be ready to surrender their Liberties to the first external or internal invader. ... If Virtue
4 and Knowledge are diffused among the People, they will never be enslaved. This will be their great Security."

6 [Samuel Adams]

7 "The important thing is not to stop questioning."
8 [Albert Einstein]

9 "Only the educated are free."
10 [Epicetus]

11 "What luck for the rulers that men do not think."
12 [Adolf Hitler]

13 "Where all men think alike, no one thinks very much."
14 [Walter Lippmann]

15 In the Parable of the Wheat and Tares found in Matt 13:24-43, the Bible confirms that we are stewards over what God has 16 given us and that we should not neglect our stewardship. Part of this stewardship involves good parenting and being 17 vigilant and highly involved with governing ourselves so that evil does not infest our government and destroy our country.
18 Here is how Jesus tells the story. You will note that the event that allowed evil to happen was the farmer went to sleep and 19 didn't pay attention to his field:

20 *The kingdom of heaven is like a man who sowed good seed in his field; but while men slept, his enemy
21 [IRS/corrupt government] came and sowed tares [weeds] among the wheat and went his way. But when the 22 grain had sprouted and produced a crop, then the tares also appeared. So the servants of the owner came and 23 said to him, "Sir, did you not sow good seed in your field? How then does it have tares?" He said to them,
24 "An enemy has done this." The servants said to him, "Do you want us then to go and gather them up?" But he
25 said, "No, lest while you gather up the tares you also uproot the wheat with them. Let both grow together until 26 the harvest, and at the time of harvest I will say to the reapers, 'First gather together the tares and bind them in 27 bundles to burn them, but gather the wheat into my barn.'"
28 [Matt 13:24-30]*

29 ...

30 Then Jesus sent the multitude away and went into the house. And his disciples came to Him, saying, "Explain 31 to us the parable of the tares of the field."

32 He answered and said to them: "He who sows the good seed is the Son of Man. The field is the world, the 33 good seeds are the sons of the kingdom, but the tares are the sons of the wicked one. The enemy who sowed
34 them is the devil, the harvest is the end of the age, and the reapers are the angels. Therefore, as the tares [the 35 evil and ignorant tyrants and liars in the government and the IRS] are gathered and burned in the fire, so it will 36 be at the end of this age. The Son of Man will send out His angels, and they will gather out of His kingdom
37 all things that offend, and those who practice lawlessness [the IRS and the government], and will cast them
38 into the furnace of fire. There will be weeping and gnashing of teeth. Then the righteous will shine forth as the 39 sun in the kingdom of their Father. He who has ears let him hear!"
40 [Matt 13:36-43, Bible, NKJV]

41 The parable has the man sowing the field (the world) as Jesus Christ, but it could just as easily be us during our brief
42 stewardship here on earth. This parable is a warning for us to not let evil go unnoticed or unpunished or unprevented or 43 unrebuked, because we make more room for Satan in our lives and eventually will be held accountable to God himself both 44 for our sins of commission, but more importantly, for sins of omission, which are the things we didn't do that we should 45 have done.

46 "The violence of the wicked will destroy them because they refuse to do justice."

1 [\[Prov. 21:7, Bible, NKJV\]](#)

2 What might those things be that we didn't do? How about voting and serving on jury duty consistently and responsibly?
 3 How about watching our politicians and whipping them into line on a regular basis? How about challenging the IRS
 4 instead of bending over and letting them screw us unlawfully on a regular basis? How about litigating pro per to defend our
 5 liberties so that greedy lawyers and politicians don't make financial slaves of us all with their tax statutes? Are we
 6 effectively asleep at the polls and in our other civic duties because we are too distracted to be responsible and vigilant
 7 citizens, while our politicians and IRS destroy our rights one by one? These are the things that good stewardship is all
 8 about. The Lord certainly has a much higher calling for us all than living our lives half-asleep in a hedonistic stupor. He 9 wants us to be vigilant stewards:

10 "Therefore let us not sleep, as others do, but let us watch and be sober. For those who sleep, sleep at night,
 11 and those who get drunk are drunk at night. But let us who are of the day be sober, putting on the breastplate
 12 of faith and love, and as a helmet the hope of salvation."

14 Red Beckman, author of Walls In Our Minds, writes:

15 "Americans are sitting in a jail cell with the door not only unlocked but wide open; but stay locked mentally in 16 their cell from fear."

17 Fear is simply the result of ignorance which comes from the Latin "ignoro", meaning "to not know." Ignorance is possibly 18 the biggest problem we have in America today. This ignorance makes us prime targets for unscrupulous and illegal tactics
 19 by IRS and government operatives. Fortunately, it's not terminal and many have gone into rapid remission with the 20 application of sufficient knowledge and the discipline and organization to systematically acquire that knowledge. It's 21 amazing how fear fades away in the face of truth and knowledge. However, we can't know the truth and eliminate the fear
 22 without knowledge and wisdom and we can't gain knowledge and wisdom if we are too lazy, disorganized, apathetic, or
 23 undisciplined to do the homework and the hard work necessary to get educated and become wise and to build a defense
 24 against the government plunder of our property and our Constitutional rights. After all, "The price of freedom is eternal 25 vigilance!", as they say. The bible confirms this:

26 "Let all things be done decently and in order."
 27 [\[1 Cor. 14:40\]](#)
 28 [INTERPRETATION: Don't be disorganized or immoral!!]

29 "Go to the ant, you sluggard! Consider her ways and be wise, which, having no captain, overseer or ruler,

 33 an armed man."

34 [\[Prov. 6:6-11, Bible, NKJV\]](#)
 35 [INTERPRETATION: Laziness allows us to be robbed of our heritage and our birthright, our dignity and our 36 sovereignty, because we are victimized by it and will end up surrendering our rights to the government out of 37 desperation in order to get the sustenance that we were otherwise unwilling to earn. This makes the 38 government into a Robinhood, which using the tools of democracy, turns a sword against its own citizens to 39 rob from the rich to give to the poor. This leads to the downfall of democracy eventually because the 40 government becomes an agent of plunder.]

41 Many vigilant and hard-working Americans have come to the realization that the fear they've been experiencing toward the 42 Internal Revenue Service (IRS) might just prove to have been F.E.A.R.--False Evidence Appearing Real. These 43 disciplined, thoughtful, and patriotic Americans have taken the time and effort to supplement their poor public
 44 (government) education to study the tax code and regulations and have become aware that they have never been made the 45 subject of the income tax or been made liable for the payment of it. They have taken the time to realize that the IRS
 46 publications and Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.) are a farce, cannot be used in court or given the authority of law (see 47 section 3.16), and do not accurately or undecitfully portray the tax code as they are written and described in chapter 3 of 48 this document. This myth and Great Deception is perpetuated mainly by the terms and definitions that are used in the 49 I.R.S. publications which aren't adequately defined anywhere but in the U.S. Code (see section 3.9.1 et seq), which the IRS
 50 and the government are hoping the average person is too lazy and apathetic to read. And even if they read it, they often
 51 refuse to organize what they have learned into a cohesive work such as this one that exposes the Great Deception clearly
 52 and in its entirety. Citizens don't want to read the tax code because these laws have been deliberately obscured and 53 obfuscated and complicated so much over the years by crafty lawyers to conceal the truth, that they believe they are incapable of figuring it out without a formal legal education. Furthermore, since most people HATE lawyers, then they have even less reason to learn about law! Add to this dismal situation the censorship of the churches by the IRS with the threat of pulling their tax exemption if they get politically involved or endorse legislation to clean things up, and you have a recipe for apathy (see section 6.6.4 entitled “Church Censorship, Manipulation, and Castration by the IRS” for further details). It’s no wonder why more people don’t vote!

Patriotic and informed citizens have learned that Congress never intended for income taxes to be imposed on Americans working within the now 50 Union states. Exhibit "A" on this issue is the definition of "individual", which is what we claim we are when we file a 1040 form. The top of this form says “U.S. Individual income tax return”. But guess what, we are lying when we claim to be an "individual" unless we are an “alien” because of the definition of the word “individual” found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441. You will learn later in section 3.9.1.10 that “individual” is defined nowhere but in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) to mean “alien” or “nonresident alien” and that the government was so concerned about you finding out this definition that they didn’t put it anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code and instead chose to bury in deep in the regulations in a section where you weren’t likely to look.

26 C.F.R. §1.1441(c)(3)(i) Alien: The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec. 1.1-1(c).

Loyal and patriotic Americans who have invested the time to learn the truth know that, just as the buying of a bottle of liquor for an alcoholic enables his disease and prevents his recovery, the income tax enables our "spendaholic" federal government, while financing its merger into an emerging "New World Order." These loyal Americans have also learned that we should not depend on the government to defend or secure our rights or provide for our prosperity but rather on liberty, the rule of law, and our own resourcefulness and vigilance to protect that liberty from tyranny, because:

“Neither the wisest Constitution or the wisest laws will secure liberty and happiness of a people whose manners are universally corrupt. He therefore is the truest friend of the liberty of his country who tries most to promote its virtues.”
[Samuel Adams]

“The sentiments of men are known not only by what they receive, but what they reject also.”
[Thomas Jefferson: Autobiography, 1821. ME 1:28 ]

[Thomas Jefferson: Virginia Board of Visitors Minutes, 1824. ME 19:449 [Are you calling your government on the carpet by bearing witness of the wrong the IRS is doing to so many Americans?]]

“The true danger is when liberty is nibbled away, for expedients, and by parts ... the only thing necessary for evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing.”
[Edmund Burke]

“Government big enough to supply everything you need is big enough to take everything you have. The course of history shows that as a government grows, liberty decreases.”
[Thomas Jefferson]

“They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety.”
[Benjamin Franklin]

“The independence and the liberty you possess are the work of ...joint efforts, of common dangers, suffering, and successes.”
[George Washington]
Interpretation: work together to secure your liberties against tyranny of the government! Join a militia and a tax honesty organization!

Finally, we’d like to emphasize that we want to discourage your participation as a freedom advocate unless you are willing, motivated, organized, and disciplined enough (called caution and discretion) to ensure that everything you say and do as part of the movement is completely consistent with the truth and the law, because this is the only way to build the credibility and the momentum of the movement and achieve its goals in our lifetime. Much damage has been done by well-intentioned but ignorant and or lazy Americans who either don’t do their homework, misquote the law, or misapply or misinterpret it when they communicate their understanding to others. The government and the IRS love seeing this happen, because it undermines and destroys the freedom movement and allows the slavery based on government fraud called the income tax to continue. Every time a freedom advocate misquotes or misinterprets the law, they undermine the credibility of EVERYONE in the movement, because they provide yet another reason for less informed citizens to view us as a bunch of ignorant, misinformed crackpot "malcontents", which is where the IRS likes to keep us. That is the reason why the IRS will refuse to discuss the law with everyone who calls them...because it perpetuates the myths, the fears, and the mistrust caused by ignorance of the law and the truth. The best way to discredit a detractor is to ignore him and keep him ignorant of the truth. Any good (and unethical) lawyer knows that the minute you start paying attention to the statements of opponents is the minute you have to begin to recognize and respond to the validity and the truth of their arguments. This obligates you to educate them on the error of their observations in order to arrive at the truth, but that process of education is what empowers them and gives them more credibility, which makes them even MORE dangerous, so why sharpen the sword of your enemy for free? By the IRS listening to or responding to their detractors, they are in effect granting them "jurisdiction" over the issues, which is not something that they want informed citizens to have. Knowledge is power and ignoring someone deprives them of learning and knowledge and keeps them powerless. Remember that whenever you interact with the IRS in the future!

1.9 Political "Tax Prisoners"

A little boy goes to his dad and asks, "What is politics?"

Dad says, "Well son, let me try to explain it this way: I'm the breadwinner of the family, so let's call me Business. Your Mom, she's the administrator of the money, so we'll call her the Government. We're here to take care of your needs, so we'll call you the people. The nanny, we'll consider her the Working Class. And your baby brother, we'll call him the Future. Now, think about that and see if that makes sense,"

So the little boy goes off to bed thinking about what dad had said. Later that night, he hears his baby brother crying, so he gets up to check on him. He finds that the baby has severely soiled his diaper.

So the little boy goes to his parents' room and finds his mother sound asleep. Not wanting to wake her, he goes to the nanny's room. Finding the door locked, he peeks in the keyhole and sees his father in bed with the nanny. He gives up and goes back to bed.

The next morning, the little boy says to his father, "Dad, I think I understand the concept of politics now."

The father says, "Good son, tell me in your own words what you think politics is all about."

The little boy replies, "Well, while Business is screwing the Working Class, the Government is sound asleep, the People are being ignored and the Future is in deep shit."

Many people have been deceived into thinking that America is a free country and that federal judges are trusted and ethical men. They think that communist and socialist countries are the only ones that have "political prisoners." They believe this because they have been spoon fed lies by the liberal media for their whole lives and never bothered to check the facts for themselves and naively believed what they heard. What they fail to realize, is that the fraud of income taxes and the slavery they produce are the main cause for many political imprisonments in the U.S. against those who protest their injustice. Those who expose the Great Deception about income taxes and want to have their constitutional rights protected and respected can and often are audited and harassed by the IRS and prosecuted and imprisoned for their "political" activity. Case in point is Dr. Phil Roberts. Below is a brief summary of his fascinating story as told directly by him and which is posted on our website (at <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/CaseStudies/PhilRoberts/PhilRoberts.htm>):

Dr. Phil Roberts filed suit against the government in 1999 after being investigated for 4 years by a local IRS agent. His suit included making this person leave him, his reputation and business alone. He also wanted the court to answer the question: "Can I be forced to sign a statement or declaration under the penalty of perjury?" He currently has a civil case on appeal at the 8th Circuit in St. Louis over the constitutional issue of forcing him to sign a 1040 form or any other form under the penalty of perjury. This case is fully briefed and has been for 1 year at the appellant court without a ruling. Actually, it will be 1 year as of January 2001.

Just so happens approximately 1 month after his case was appealed to the 8th Circuit is when he received a letter from the local Asst. Prosecuting Attorney requesting that he come in and "negotiate a plea or I will indict you!" He believes this "plea" had something to do with him dropping his case at the 8th Circuit. However, Dr. Roberts was not interested in a plea but he is very interested in having and standing up for his constitutional rights. He did not appear before the prosecutor nor before the grand jury. (He was not invited to go before the grand jury).

1 He received the indictment and was ordered to appear for an arraignment hearing. He was charged with
2 violating 26 U.S.C. 7203 which is a punishment statute. (Feel free to look it up in the law books or go to any
3 website that posts IRS Code.) At the arraignment, they tried to force him to sign another form under the penalty
4 listing all of his assets and had he made 1 mistake they could have and would have charged him with a felony
5 and imprisonment up to 5 years. He refused to sign this form stating they could not force him to be a witness
6 against himself because the constitution clearly protects him from this. The judge ordered him into custody of 7 the U.S. Marshall, without bond. He, then, was shackled at the ankles, waist and wrist and escorted to jail. The 8 U.S. Marshall said "I'm taking you out like I took out John Gotti and Noriega." Dr. Roberts said the main
9 difference is "your taking me away for a misdemeanor."

10 This all transpired on a Thursday and the judge conveniently left town on Friday. However, a habeas corpus
11 was filed at the home of a local Magistrate which just so happened to be a patient of Dr. Roberts (former 12 patient at the time since she had been notified by the IRS of the investigation). She "acted" like she was upset
13 that her chiropractor was in jail but had to wait until the "judge" returned before proceeding. On Monday,
14 Judge Robert Dawson was informed of this matter and by habeas rules he had to set a hearing and state 1) why 15 he had incarcerated Dr. Roberts or 2) let him out because he had no authority to hold him. The hearing was set
16 for Wednesday AM and instead of having a hearing and having to write an order saying he was wrong, Judge
17 Dawson faxed the orders to release Dr. Roberts on bond. He was free by 2 pm.

18 Dr. Roberts case was put on the "fast track" in the court system and went to trial in June. He was unable to put 19 witnesses on the stand, unable to present evidence of his good faith in communicating with the IRS over this 20 issue and was basically railroaded to prison after a 3 1/2 day trial. I am forwarding all transcripts that I have 21 and you will find that they make for interesting reading. His attorney repeatedly asked in the arraignment "what 22 is the law that Dr. Roberts supposedly violated?" The only response is "we will answer that at a later date" or 23 "sit down and shut up." Well, that later date never came. At trial, the government never once spoke of any law
24 and only tainted the jury with how much money he made, where he lived, what he drove and what else he had 25 purchased.

26 Throughout the trial the judge would tell his attorney "you can take that up on your appeal." (Is this not 27 directing the jury to a guilty verdict?) He would also say such things as: "if there's an objection from the 28 prosecution, I will sustain it, Mr. Stillely move on to something else." (The judge was practicing law from the 29 bench when he was objecting for the prosecution.)

30 Dr. Phil Roberts is currently in Texarkana, TX after being sentenced to 9 months for Count 1 Willful Failure to 31 File and 7 months for Count 2 Willful Failure to File. He has appealed the jury verdict based on many biased
32 issues throughout the case as you will see when you read the transcript. His appeal was filed in a timely manner
33 and according to 8th Circuit rules the gov't had 10 days to respond to his appeal. Well, 6 (six) Federal Gov't
34 Attorney's filed their response 13 days late. If Dr. Roberts' attorney's had filed his appeal late he would have
35 been denied the right to an appeal, we shall see how this plays out. YOU NOW KNOW THIS IS A BIG ISSUE IF 36 THEY HAVE 6 GOVT ATTORNEY'S RESPONDING TO THIS APPEAL FOR A MISDEMEANOR!!!!!!!!!!!!

37 I am forwarding the appeal, the gov't response and Dr. Robert's response to the gov't. Please note in the gov't
38 response the following:

39 PAGE 10: Line 6: "Allowing Fifth Amendment claims like defendant's would seriously undermine the operation 40 of the self-assessment system of income taxation."

41 PAGE 11: Line 14: "Taxpayers could immunize themselves from their reporting obligations through the simple 42 expedient of committing a failure to file misdemeanor. The tax system could not survive widespread use of such 43 a scheme."

44 PAGE 11: Line 19: "Finally, defendant's assertion that his filing returns could have subjected him to a risk of 45 prosecution if the returns were legally or factually incorrect is unavailing. A taxpayer's fear of prosecution
46 must arise from the return's disclosing criminal activities rather than the possibility of making a mistake."

47 Does anyone fear filing a tax return because they may be disclosing criminal activities? No, we fear that the tax
48 form is wrong in some way and "they will come after us!"

49 Also, his total sentence, probation etc. is approximately 3 1/2 years. The maximum under sentencing guidelines
50 is 1 year. But they really stretched it to put Dr. Roberts behind bars and keep him under their thumb for a long
51 time. After all, he is a big threat to society for expecting his privacy and his 5th Amendment rights to be 52 respected!

53 Dr. Roberts has never been assessed. At sentencing the IRS agent testified that he was not an expert in 54 assessment, was not qualified to do an assessment and had very little knowledge of the code but he did an 55 assessment anyway and came up with a $$$$ figure in order to get his sentencing points raised so that he would 56 have to do prison time.

1 Dr. Roberts' appeal was fully briefed by both sides last Tuesday and according to the clerk will go to the panel
2 of judges. This is also what they said approximately 1 year ago about his civil case. So currently, he has a civil
3 and criminal case on appeal at the 8th Circuit Court in St. Louis.

20 Can you see by reading this real-life serious anecdote that there is a war going on, and that it is a treasonous war of deceit
21 and intimidation waged by the government against its own citizens and in direct violation of the U.S. Constitution? In 22 effect, the government either through extortion or exploiting us with our own ignorance is compelling us into either being
23 financial slaves of the IRS or "political tax prisoners"? Why shouldn't the illegal and unconstitutional harassment of the 24 IRS against us be called "stalking" and why isn't it prosecuted by the Department of Justice or the Attorney general as a
25 violation of the antiterrorism bill known as the "USA Patriot Act"? Why doesn't the federal government convict itself of 26 extortion and terrorism and the IRS of money laundering (see section 5.8 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form
27 #06.008 for the basis of claims against the government) and RICO charges? We would argue it is because the money the 28 feds extort from us keeps especially the judges looking the other way! We would argue that there is a "judicial 29 conspiracy" of massive proportions to protect the income tax. We devote a large portion of the book in section 6.6 to 30 documenting this conspiracy. An example of this conspiracy in action is what happened to Dr. Phil Roberts as described 31 above. An old Chinese proverb bears this out:

32 "The mouth which eats does not talk."
33 [Chinese Proverb]

34 Judges don't talk or tell the truth because they are in effect "bribed" by our tax dollars not to declare the illegal activities of 35 the Internal Revenue Service in misenforcing our tax code unconstitutional and criminal. They are part of a massive 36 extortion ring (RICO, or Racketeer Influenced Corrupt Organization) and a judicial conspiracy to protect the income tax
37 that is so large that it boggles the mind to even conceive. It is one of the greatest frauds in the history of the world. That is 38 the only conclusion you can reach after you examine what the law itself says about your lack of tax liability as extensively
39 revealed in this document. As you will find out from reading chapter 6, this fraud and extortion involves all branches of the 40 U.S. Government: 1. The President; 2. Treasury/IRS; 3. Department of Justice; 4. Department of State; 5. Congress; 6.
41 The Federal Judiciary. All of these branches and parts of the government have a conflict of interest in upholding and 42 expanding the illegal administration of our income tax code because they are all "tax consumers" who want to pick your 43 pocket.

44 All you have to do is consider how many people are afraid of the IRS to realize that we do indeed live in a police state.
45 How is the fear of the IRS any different than the fear of the KGB? How is it that such a basic right as privacy, guaranteed
46 by the 4th Amendment to the Constitution, is something that the IRS routinely fines people $500 for wanting to have 47 respected (whenever you won't sign your income tax return, they fine you $500 under the Jurat Amendment). How is it that 48 the exercise of a right as basic as privacy can be in effect taxed and penalized by the IRS, which amounts to being 49 compelled to not exercise one's rights? Why call it a right at all if it can be taxed, penalized, or discouraged by the 50 government in any way? How is it that this same desire for privacy guaranteed by the 4th Amendment can lead to criminal

1 prosecution by the IRS and imprisonment for "Willful Failure to File" under 26 U.S.C. §7203 if you don't sign your return?
 2 When are we going to wake up and fix this as a collective before it is too late? Some people, including Paul Mitchell of
 3 the Supreme Law Firm (see <http://www.supremelaw.org/>) have made it their life's passion to educate and free these 4 political "tax" prisoners and fight government tyranny. Why can't we be just as vigilant?

5 Now a rhetorical question. One of our readers asked the following question, which we think is very enlightening and 6 thought provoking:

7 *"The courts say that the question as to the vote of the 16th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution is a political
 8 question to be handled by Congress (See U.S. v. Stahl, 792 F.2d. 1438 (1986)), and the Congress says that it is
 9 a legal question to be handled by the courts. In the meantime, people are illegally being sentenced to prison
 10 terms for willful failure to file a tax return and tax evasion for a fictitious tax that was never authorized by the 11 Constitution. Are these people political prisoners, or are they legal prisoners? Is the fraud committed by 12 former Secretary of State by Philander Knox in claiming that the Sixteenth Amendment was properly ratified a 13 legal question or a political question? I assert that it is a legal question. When is ANYONE of character and 14 principal who works for our corrupt government going to take some personal responsibility for this FRAUD
 15 and stand up to this injustice at the risk of their own career and describe it for what it is: TREASON?"*

16 Consequently, we aren't free and there is no liberty so long as there is an IRS, and we need to work together diligently to 17 eliminate the tyranny of the IRS if we want to win our constitutional freedoms back. If we don't hang together when
 18 fighting them, then you can count on the fact that the IRS will ensure that we "hang separately", and they will compel us at 19 gunpoint to subsidize our own hanging with our own tax dollars and labor! How is that different from what they did to 20 Jesus by forcing him to carry his own cross to the hill that they nailed him on?

21 However, we'd also like to emphasize as we did in the preceding section that the biggest reason the government can 22 continue to oppress us in this way is because of our own legal ignorance, disorganization, laziness, and political apathy, and 23 we have no one to blame but ourselves for that condition. That is why we say that:

24 "The price of liberty is eternal vigilance!"

25 The lack of vigilance on our part is the reason why things have gotten so bad. In fact, given the right tools and information,
 26 you can free yourself from this tyranny. Indeed, knowledge and discipline and study and vigilance are the key to ending
 27 this slavery. That is also why we say:

28 *"Income taxes are stupidity and laziness taxes. Wise and diligent people who know the law don't have to pay!
 29 The only thing the IRS does is make it more complex to keep your money, but you can still keep it."*

30 If you don't want to become a political "tax" prisoner or a slave to the IRS, then you have a civic duty as a patriotic Citizen
 31 to watch your government like a hawk and prevent it from becoming corrupt or unethical. That is the focus of the 32 following Supreme Court Ruling:

33 *"It is not the function of our Government to keep the citizen from falling into error; it is the function of the 34 citizen to keep the government from falling into error."
 35 [American Communications Association v. Douds, 339 U.S. 382, 442. (1950) ]*

36 How do we prevent the government from falling into error? We become informed citizens, vote consistently for what we 37 believe in, protect other's rights by serving on jury duty, and become litigation activists when we see our rights encroached
 38 by the government. When none of this works, it's time to organize into a militia and fight the state. None have described 39 this approach better than the quote below:

40 *"In America, freedom and justice have always come from the ballot box, the jury box, and when that fails, the 41 cartridge box."
 42 [Steve Symms, U.S. Senator, Idaho]*

43 Politicians have already taken away the jury box, by allowing the IRS to deprive us of our property without a jury trial and 44 by filtering out informed patriots from serving on jury duty, leaving nothing but ignorant socialist "U.S. citizens" sitting on
 45 the jury to assist them in their lynching and organized extortion. They have tried to take away the ballot box by convincing
 46 us that our vote doesn't matter and encouraging political apathy, so that numerous special interests can come in and use
 47 their minority vote and this political vacuum they created to hijack the government with their bribes and lies and self-
 48 seeking votes into doing their selfish bidding. The greedy politicians assist these special interests using borrowed money

1 extorted from unborn children [future taxation without representation] to bribe the votes and political clout from the rest of
 2 the population they need to perpetuate their tyranny and pad their pockets with inflated government pensions and perks.
 3 It's treason and it's a quiet but invisible [to most Americans] war fought on the economic front inside of employers, banks,
 4 and courtrooms across the country every day and the only reason they continue to win is because we continue to be ignorant
 5 and apathetic. Right now, these same tyrants are also trying to take away the cartridge box, by disarming us and passing
 6 restrictive gun control laws in direct violation of the Second Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, while telling us the 7 pompous LIE that they are doing this to protect us against ourselves. The main reason we need guns is to protect us from
 8 THEM! This same kind of scandal with gun laws is what happened in England and Canada, and we are next if we aren't 9 vigilant. When are people going to wake up? It's frightening to watch people passively and silently standing by as they 10 forfeit their liberties, one by one.

11 How should Dr. Roberts have addressed the court in his case? Below is an extremely powerful excerpt from the book by 12 Ayn Rand entitled Atlas Shrugged. The circumstances were that a Dr. Rearden, who was an entrepreneur and inventor of 13 the Rearden Metal, was indicted in court by the government for illegally selling his invention. Listen to what he says as a
 14 pro per litigant because MAN is this powerful stuff folks!:

15 According to the procedure established by directives, cases of this kind were not tried by a jury, but by a panel
 16 of three judges appointed by the Bureau of Economic Planning and National Resources; the procedure, the 17 directives had stated, was to be informal and democratic. The judge's bench had been removed from the old
 18 Philadelphia courtroom for this occasion, and replaced by a table on a wooden platform; it gave the room an 19 atmosphere suggesting the kind of meeting where a presiding body puts something over on a mentally 20 retarded membership.

21 One of the judges, acting as prosecutor, had read the charges. "You may now offer whatever plea you wish to 22 make in your own defense," he announced.

23 Facing the platform, his voice inflectionless and peculiarly clear, Hank Rearden answered:

24 "I have no defense."

25 "Do you-" The judge stumbled; he had not expected it to be that easy. "Do you throw yourself upon the mercy of 26 this court?"

27 "I do not recognize this court's right to try me"."

28 "What?"

29 "I do not recognize this court's right to try me."

30 "But, Mr. Rearden, this is the legally appointed court to try this particular category of crime."

31 "I do not recognize my action as a crime."

32 "But you have admitted that you have broken our regulations controlling the sale of your Metal."

33 "I do not recognize your right to control the sale of my Metal."

34 "Is it necessary for me to point out that your recognition was not required?"

35 "No, I am fully aware of it and I am acting accordingly."

36 He noted the stillness of the room. By the rules of the complicated pretense which all those people played for 37 one another's benefit, they should have considered his stand as incomprehensible folly; there should have 38 been rustles of astonishment and derision; there were none; they sat still; they understood.

39 "Do you mean that you are refusing to obey the law?" asked the judge.

40 "No. I am complying with the law - to the letter. Your law holds that my life, my work and my property may 41 be disposed of without my consent [this is the foundation of what it means to have a socialist democracy].
 42 Very well, you may now dispose of me without my participation in the matter. I will not play the part of 43 defending myself, where no defense is possible, and I will not simulate the illusion of dealing with a tribunal
 44 of justice."

1 "But Mr. Rearden, the law provides specifically that you are to be given an opportunity to present your side of 2 the case and to defend yourself."

3 "A prisoner brought to trial can defend himself only if there is an objective principle of justice recognized by 4 his judges, a principle upholding his rights, which they may not violate and which he can invoke. The law, by 5 which you are trying me, holds that there are no principles, that I have no rights and that you may do with
6 me whatever you please [he and everything he owns is GOVERNMENT PROPERTY, a SLAVE, as part of a
7 socialist democracy]. Very well, Do it."

8 "Mr. Rearden, the law which you are denouncing is based on the highest principle - the principle of the public 9 good."

10 "Who is the public? What does it hold as its good? There was a time when men believed that 'the good' was a 11 concept to be defined by a code of moral values and that no man had the right to seek his good through the
12 violation of the rights of another. If it is now believed that my fellow men may sacrifice me in any manner they
13 please for the sake of whatever they deem to be their own good, if they believe that they may seize my property
14 simply because they need it - well, so does any burglar. There is only this difference: the burglar does not ask 15 me to sanction his act."

16 A group of seats at the side of the courtroom was reserved for the prominent visitors who had come from New 17 York to witness the trial. Dagny sat motionless and her face showed nothing but a solemn attention, the 18 attention of listening with the knowledge that the flow of his words would determine the course of her life. Eddie
19 Willers sat beside her. James Taggart had not come. Paul Larkin sat hunched forward, his face thrust out,
20 pointed like an animal's muzzle, sharpened by a look of fear now turning into malicious hatred. Mr. Mowen,
21 who sat beside him, was a man of greater innocence and smaller understanding; his fear was of a simpler
22 nature; he listened in bewildered indignation and he whispered to Larkin, "Good God, now he's done it! Now 23 he'll convince the whole country that all businessmen are enemies of the public good!"

24 "Are we to understand," asked the judge, "that you hold your own interests above the interests of the public?"

25 "I hold that such a question can never arise except in a society of cannibals."

26 "What . . . what do you mean?"

27 "I hold that there is no clash of interests among men who do not demand the unearned and do not practice 28 human sacrifices."

29 "Are we to understand that if the public deems it necessary to curtail your profits, you do not recognize its right 30 to do so?"

31 "Why, yes, I do. The public may curtail my profits any time it wishes - by refusing to buy my product."

32 "We are speaking of . . . other methods."

33 "Any other method of curtailing profits is the method of looters - and I recognize it as such."

34 "Mr. Rearden, this is hardly the way to defend yourself."

35 "I said that I would not defend myself."

36 "But this is unheard of! Do you realize the gravity of the charge against you?"

37 "I do not care to consider it."

38 "Do you realize the possible consequences of your stand?"

39 "Fully."

40 "It is the opinion of this court that the facts presented by the prosecution seem to warrant no leniency. The 41 penalty which this court has the power to impose on you is extremely severe."

42 "Go ahead."

43 "I beg your pardon?"

1 "Impose it."

2 The three judges looked at one another. Then their spokesman turned back to Rearden. "This is unprecedented,"
3 he said.

4 "It is completely irregular," said the second judge. "The law requires you to submit a plea in your own defense.
5 Your only alternative is to state for the record that you throw yourself upon the mercy of the court."

6 "I do not."

7 "But you have to."

8 "Do you mean that what you expect from me is some sort of voluntary action?"

9 "Yes."

10 "I volunteer nothing."

11 "But the law demands that the defendant's side be represented on the record."

12 "Do you mean that you need my help to make this procedure [at least APPEAR] legal?"

13 "Well, no . . . yes . . . that is, to complete the form."

14 "I will not help you."

15 The third and youngest judge, who had acted as prosecutor, snapped impatiently, "This is ridiculous and unfair.
16 Do you want to let it look as if a man of your prominence had been railroaded without a -" He cut himself off
17 short. Somebody at the back of the courtroom emitted a long whistle.

18 "I want", said Rearden gravely, "to let the nature of this procedure appear exactly for what it is. If you need 19 my help to disguise it - I will not help you."

20 "But we are giving you a chance to defend yourself - and it is you who are rejecting it."

21 "I will not help you to pretend that I have a chance. I will not help you to preserve the appearance of 22 righteousness where rights are not recognized. I will not help you to preserve an appearance of rationality by 23 entering a debate in which a gun is the final argument. I will not help you to pretend that you are 24 administering justice."

25 "But the law compels you to volunteer a defense."

26 There was laughter at the back of the courtroom.

27 "That is the flaw in your theory, gentlemen," said Rearden gravely, "and I will not help you out of it. If you
28 choose to deal with men by means of compulsion, do so. But you will discover that you need the voluntary co-
29 operation of your victims, in many more ways than you can see at present. And your victims should discover
30 that it is their own volition - which you cannot force - that makes you possible. I choose to be consistent and I
31 will obey you in the manner you demand. Whatever you wish me to do, I will do it at the point of a gun. If 32 you sentence me to jail, you will have to send armed men to carry me there - I will not volunteer to move. If 33 you fine me, you will have to seize my property to collect the fine - I will not volunteer to pay it. If you believe 34 you have the right to force me - use your guns openly. I will not help you to disguise the nature of your 35 action."

36 The eldest judge leaned forward across the table and his voice became suavely derisive: "You speak as if you
37 were fighting for some sort of principle, Mr. Rearden, but what you're actually fighting for is only your 38 property, isn't it?"

39 "Yes, of course. I am fighting for my property. Do you know the kind of principle that represents?"

40 "You pose as a champion of freedom, but it's only the freedom to make money that you're after."

41 "Yes, of course. All I want is the freedom to make money. Do you know what that freedom implies?"

"Surely, Mr. Rearden, you wouldn't want your attitude to be misunderstood. You wouldn't want to give support to the widespread impression that you are a man devoid of social conscience, who feels no concern for the welfare of his fellows and works for nothing but his own profit."

"I work for nothing but my own profit. I earn it."

There was a gasp, not of indignation, but of astonishment, in the crowd behind him and silence from the judges he faced. He went on calmly:

"No, I do not want my attitude to be misunderstood. I shall be glad to state it for the record. I am in full agreement with the facts of everything said about me in the newspapers - with the facts, but not with the evaluation. I work for nothing but my own profit - which I make by selling a product they need to men who are willing and able to buy it. I do not produce it for their benefit at the expense of mine; I do not sacrifice my interests to them nor do they sacrifice theirs to me; we deal as equals by mutual consent to mutual advantage - and I am proud of every penny that I have earned in this manner. I am rich and I am proud of every penny I own. I made my money by my own effort, in free exchange and through the voluntary consent of every man I dealt with - the voluntary consent of those who employed me when I started, the voluntary consent of those who work for me now, the voluntary consent of those who buy my product. I shall answer all the questions you are afraid to ask me openly. Do I wish to pay my workers more than their services are worth to me? I do not. Do I wish to sell it at a loss or give it away? I do not. If this is evil, do whatever you please about me, according to whatever standards you hold. These are mine. I am earning my own living, as every honest man must. I refuse to accept as guilt the fact of my own existence and the fact that I must work in order to support it. I refuse to accept as guilt the fact that I must work in order to support it. I refuse to accept as guilt the fact that I am able to do it and do it well. I refuse to accept as guilt the fact that I am able to do it better than most people - the fact that my work is of greater value than the work of my neighbors and that more men are willing to pay me. I refuse to apologize for my money. If this is evil, make the most of it. If this is what the public finds harmful to its interest, let the public destroy me. This is my code - and I will accept no other. I could say to you that I have done more good for my fellow men that you can ever hope to accomplish - but I will not say it, because I do not seek the good of others as a sanction for my right to exist, nor do I recognize the good of others as a sanction for my right to exist, nor do I recognize the good of others as a justification for their seizure of my property or their destruction of my life. I will not say that the good of others was the purpose of my work - my own good was my purpose, and I despise the man who surrenders his. I could say to you that you do not serve the public good - that nobody's good can be achieved at the price of human sacrifices - that when you violate the rights of one man, you have violated the rights of all, and a public of rightless creatures is doomed to destruction. I could say to you that you will and can achieve nothing but universal devastation - as any looter must, when he runs out of victims. I could say it, but I won't. It is not your particular policy that I challenge, but your moral premise. If it were true that men could achieve their good by means of turning some men into sacrificial animals, and I were asked to immolate myself for the sake of creatures who wanted to survive at the price of my blood, if I were asked to serve the interests of society apart from, above and against my own - I would refuse. I would reject it as the most contemptible evil, I would fight it with every power I possess, I would fight the whole of mankind, if one minute were all I could last before I were murdered. I would fight in the full confidence of the justice of my battle and of a living being's right to exist. Let there be no misunderstanding about me. If it is now the belief of my fellow men, who call themselves the public, that their good requires victims, then I say: The public good be damned, I will have no part of it!"

The crowd burst into applause.

Rearden whirled around, more startled than his judges. He saw faces that laughed in violent excitement, and faces that pleaded for help; he saw their silent despair breaking out into the open; he saw the same anger and indignation as his own, finding release in the wild defiance of their cheering; he saw the looks of admiration and the looks of hope. There were also the faces of loose-mouthed young men and maliciously unkempt females, the kind who led the boeing in newsreel theaters at any appearance of a businessman on the screen; they did not attempt a counter-demonstration; they were silent.

As he looked at the crowd, people saw in his face what the threats of the judges had not been able to evoke: the first sign of emotion.

It was a few moments before they heard the furious beating of a gavel upon the table and one of the judges yelling:

"- or I shall have the courtroom cleared!"

As he turned back to the table, Rearden's eyes moved over the visitors' section. His glance paused on Dagny, a pause perceptible only to her, as if he were saying: It works. She would have appeared calm except that her eyes seemed to have become too large for her face. Eddie Willers was smiling the kind of smile that is a man's substitute for breaking into tears. Mr. Mowen looked stupefied. Paul Larkin was staring at the floor. There was no expression on Bertram Scudder's face - or on Lillian's. She sat at the end of a row, her legs crossed, a mink stole slanting from her right shoulder to her left hip; she looked at Rearden, not moving.

1 In the complex violence of all the things he felt, he had time to recognize a touch of regret and of longing: there
2 was a face he had hoped to see, had looked for from the start of the session, had wanted to be present more than 3 any other face around him. But Francisco d'Anconia had not come.

4 "Mr. Rearden," said the eldest judge, smiling affably, reproachfully and spreading his arms, "it is regrettable
5 that you should have misunderstood us so completely. That's the trouble - that businessmen refuse to approach
6 us in the spirit of trust and friendship. They seem to imagine that we are their enemies. Why do you speak of 7 human sacrifices? What made you go to such an extreme? We have no intention of seizing your property or 8 destroying your life. We do not seek to harm your interests. We are fully aware of your distinguished
9 achievements. Our purpose is only to balance social pressures and do justice to all. This hearing is really 10 intended, not as a trial, but as a friendly discussion aimed at mutual understanding and co-operation."

11 "I do not co-operate at the point of a gun."

12 "Why speak of guns? This matter is not serious enough to warrant such references. We are fully aware that the 13 guilt in this case lies chiefly with Mr. Kenneth Danagger, who instigated this infringement of the law, who 14 exerted pressure upon you and who confessed his guilt by disappearing in order to escape trial."

15 "No. We did it by equal, mutual, voluntary agreement."

16 "Mr. Rearden," said the second judge, "you may not share some of our ideas, but when all is said and done,
17 we're all working for the same cause. For the good of the people. We realize that you were prompted to 18 disregard the legal technicalities by the critical situation of the coal mines and the crucial importance of fuel
19 to the public welfare."

20 "No. I was prompted by my own profit and my own interests. What effect it had on the coal mines and the 21 public welfare is for you to estimate. That was not my motive."

22 Mr. Mowen stared dazedly about him and whispered to Paul Larkin, "Something's gone screwy here."

23 "Oh, shut up!" snapped Larkin.

24 "I am sure, Mr. Rearden," said the eldest judge, "that you do not really believe - nor does the public - that we
25 wish to treat you as a sacrificial victim. If anyone has been laboring under such a misapprehension, we are 26 anxious to prove that it is not true."

27 The judges retired to consider their verdict. They did not stay out long. They returned to an ominously silent
28 courtroom - and announced that a fine of $5,000 was imposed on Henry Rearden, but that the sentence was 29 suspended.

30 Streaks of jeering laughter ran through the applause that swept the courtroom. The applause was aimed at 31 Rearden, the laughter - at the judges.

32 Rearden stood motionless, not turning to the crowd, barely hearing the applause. He stood looking at the 33 judges. There was no triumph in his face, no elation, only the still intensity of contemplating a vision with a
34 bitter wonder that was almost fear. He was seeing the enormity of the smallness of the enemy who was 35 destroying the world. He felt as if, after a journey of years through a landscape of devastation, past the ruins
36 of great factories, the wrecks of powerful engines, the bodies of invincible men, he had come upon the 37 despoiler, expecting to find a giant - and had found a rat eager to scurry for cover at the first sound of a 38 human step.

39 If this is what has beaten us, he thought, the guilt is ours.

40 He was jolted back into the courtroom by the people pressing to surround him. He smiled in answer to their 41 smiles, to the frantic, tragic eagerness of their faces; there was a touch of sadness in his smile.

42 "God bless you, Mr. Rearden!" said an old woman with a ragged shawl over her head. "Can't you save us, Mr.
43 Rearden? They're eating us alive, and it's no use fooling anybody about how it's the rich that they're after - do 44 you know what's happening to us?"

45 "Listen, Mr. Rearden," said a man who looked like a factory worker, "it's the rich who're selling us down the 46 river. Tell those wealthy bastards, who're so anxious to give everything away, that when they give away their 47 palaces, they're giving away the skin off our backs."

48 "I know it," said Rearden.

The guilt is ours, he thought. If we who were the movers, the providers, the benefactors of mankind, were willing to let the brand of evil be stamped upon us and silently to bear punishment for our virtues - what sort of "good" did we expect to triumph in the world?

He looked at the people around him. They had cheered him today; they had cheered him by the side of the track of the John Galt Line. But tomorrow they would clamor for a new directive from Wesley Mouch and a free housing project from Orren Boyle, while Boyle's girders collapsed upon their heads. They would do it, because they would be told to forget, as a sin, that which had made them cheer Hank Rearden.

Why were they ready to renounce their highest moments as a sin? Why were they willing to betray the best within them? What made them believe that this earth was a realm of evil where despair was their natural fate? He could not name the reason, but he knew that it had to be named. He felt it as a huge question mark within the courtroom, which it was now his duty to answer.

This was the real sentence imposed upon him, he thought - to discover what idea, what simple idea available to the simplest man, had made mankind accept the doctrines that led it to self-destruction.

"Hank, I'll never think that it's hopeless, not ever again, said Dagny that evening, after the trial. "I'll never be tempted to quit. You've proved that the right always works and always wins -" She stopped, then added "- provided one knows what is the right."

1.10 What Attitude are Christians Expected to Have About This Document?

This document is provided free to everyone who wants it and was diligently and lovingly prepared in the spirit of Jesus' own words, found in Matt. 23:23:

"Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you pay tithes of mint and anise and cummin, and have neglected the weightier matters of the law: justice and mercy and faith. These you ought to have done, without leaving the others undone."

You will note that the Pharisees of Jesus time were the equivalent of a special interest group of lawyers who supported the scribes and rabbis in their interpretation of the Jewish law as handed down from the time of Moses. In Jesus' day, this interpretation of the law had become more authoritative and binding than the law itself. This situation repeats itself today, where what lawyers "think" the tax code, which is not "law", says means more than the actual content of the law. Jesus often challenged these traditional interpretations and the minute rules that had been issued to guide the people in every area of their behavior. Today's equivalent of the Pharisees would be the American Bar Association (ABA) and the court system. Hopefully, this helps to make the meaning of God's own words of condemnation above crystal clear.

1.10.1 Jesus Christ, The Son of God, was a Tax Protester!

Many people are surprised to learn that Jesus was, in fact, a tax protester! Here is what the people who knew Jesus said about him at the time in Luke 23:2:

And they began to accuse Him, saying "We found this fellow perverting the nation, and forbidding to pay taxes to Caesar, saying that He Himself is Christ, a King."
[Luke 23:2, Bible, NKJV]

Why did the people say this about Jesus? Because on two different occasions which we will describe shortly in the gospel of Matthew, Jesus told his disciples, in effect, that they shouldn't have to pay taxes to the government. Recall that Matthew, who wrote the book of Matthew, was one of Jesus' Apostles. He was a Roman tax collector before he became a disciple. Of all the Apostles, none understood taxation better than him.

An interesting fact for us Christians is that the concept of only taxing foreigners as the Internal Revenue Code requires is something the founding fathers got right out of the Bible! The federal taxing scheme is and always has been:

1 "Citizens abroad and foreigners here at home."

2 Jesus Christ first addressed the tax issue in Matthew, Chapter 17, verse 24 through 27, which read:

3 Peter and His Master Pay Their Taxes

4 When they [Jesus and Apostle Peter] had come to Capernaum, those [collectors] who received the temple tax
 5 [our government has become the modern day false god and Washington, D.C. is our political "temple"] came to
 6 Peter and said, "Does your Teacher [Jesus] not pay the temple tax?"

7 He [Apostle Peter] said, "Yes." [Jesus, our fearless leader as Christians, was a nontaxpayer]

8 And when he had come into the house, Jesus anticipated him, saying, "What do you think, Simon? From 9 whom do the kings [governments] of the earth [lawfully] take customs or taxes, from their sons [citizens and 10 subjects] or from strangers [aliens], which are synonymous with "residents" in the tax code, and exclude 11 "citizens" ]?"

12 Peter said to Him, "From strangers [aliens]/"residents" ONLY. See 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii) and 26
 13 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(d)(3) ]."

14 Jesus said to him, "Then the sons [citizens] of the Republic, who are all sovereign  "nationals" and 15 "nonresident aliens" under federal law] are free [sovereign over their own person and labor. e.g.
 16 SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY]. "
 17 [Matt. 17:24-27, Bible, NKJV]

18 The Founders understood because of their Christian faith that "the sons (Citizens) are exempt" and, in their wisdom,
 19 designed our Republic so that the People would be free from direct taxation by the government; so that the day-to-day
 20 operations of the federal government would be funded through indirect excise taxes in the form of duties and tariffs to be 21 paid by foreigners wishing to sell into our vast markets.

22 One of our readers, in reference to this story, sent us the following question about the Bible passage above, Matt. 17:24-27:

23 Dear sir

24 My uncle is asking me about the bible story:

25 Coin in the fish mouth to pay a tax.

26 Are you familiar and what does it mean. Of course I will research on my own also.

27 Thanks,

28 Brett Keith

29 That anecdote he refers to above comes from the tail end of the passage above at Matt. 17:27. Here was our response:

30 Brett,

31 That's a good question! Thanks for your inquiry. I've read the story. The story you refer to is found in Matt.
 32 17:27 at: http://www.blueletterbible.org/tmp\_dir/words/1010682599.html

33 I mentioned the story in section 1.10.1 in the latest version of The Great IRS Hoax Book.

34 The quote goes:

35 "Nevertheless, lest we offend them [the tax collectors], go to the sea, cast in a hook, and take the 36 fish that comes up first. And when you have opened its mouth, you will find a piece of money;
 37 take that and give it to them for Me and you."

38 The context of the story is that a tax collector for the temple tax asked Peter if Jesus does NOT pay the tax.
 39 Peter the Apostle said "yes" and then Jesus later told him "then the sons (citizens) are free" [exempt] from 40 taxes laid by Kings and governments. I believe Jesus was referring to direct taxes in this case.

1           The money appeared in the fish's mouth just as Jesus predicted as a gift from nature so that Peter, Jesus
2           disciple, would not offend the tax collector and so that Jesus would not have to pay a direct tax and make
3           Himself into a hypocrite in the process for what He had said earlier in Matt. 17:26 about not paying taxes.

4           My interpretation of this parable/anecdote is that God provided the money to pay the tax so that Jesus or Peter
5           wouldn't have to pay it as a DIRECT tax. God paid it for them as an INDIRECT tax. That is where the
6           Constitutional prohibition against direct taxes came from, I believe. Our country solved the problem of taxes
7           for our national government the same way as God did in the bible: by giving control of our coastlines and our
8           oceans to the national government, from which the resources in them and the foreign trade that traveled over
9           them would become the main source for federal government revenue under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the 10          Constitution, which empowers the federal government to regulate and tax commerce with foreign nations. I
11          believe the fish symbolizes the foreigners who want to trade with us. The hook, I believe, symbolizes the U.S.
12          customs department and the taxable privilege of trading in our country granted by our government to foreign
13          nations. The money in the fish's mouth is the indirect excise taxes and duties that are paid on goods imported 14          into our country (foreign commerce) by the foreigners (fish) usually coming in by boat over our oceans and 15          coastlines.

16          Here's the way Alexander Hamilton described it in the Federalist Paper #36:

17                   "The more intelligent adversaries of the new Constitution admit the force of this reasoning; but 18                   they qualify their admission by a distinction between what they call INTERNAL and 19                   EXTERNAL taxation. The former they would reserve to the State governments; the latter, which 20                   they explain into commercial imposts, or rather duties on imported articles, they declare
21                   themselves willing to concede to the federal head.", Alexander Hamilton, Federalist 36

22          Family Guardian Fellowship

23          One frequent comment we hear from Christians about the tax issue is that Jesus, in Matthew 22:15-22, advocated paying
24          taxes by telling us that we should "render to Caesar that which is Caesar's". Here is the scripture:

25                   "*Then the Pharisees went and plotted how they might entangle Him in His talk. And they sent to Him their 26                   disciples with the Herodians, saying, "Teacher, we know that you are true, and teach the way of God in truth;
27                   nor do You care about anyone, for You do not regard the person of men.*

28                   Tell us, therefore, what do You think? Is it lawful to pay taxes to Caesar, or not?

29                   *But Jesus perceived their wickedness and said, "Why do you test Me, you hypocrites? Show Me the tax money."
30                   So they brought Him a denarius.*

31                   And he said to them, "Whose image and inscription is this?"

32                   They said to Him, "Caesar's." And He said to them, "Render therefore to Caesar the things 33                   that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's."

34                   When they had heard these words, they marveled, and left Him and went their way.

35          What exactly belongs to Caesar?

36                   "Indeed heaven and the highest heavens belong to the Lord your God, also the earth with all that is in it."
37                   [Deuteronomy 10:14, Bible, NKJV]

38          So what is left that really belongs to Caesar? NOTHING is the answer! Interestingly, the word "Render" in the original 39          Greek and as used above actually means to "give back". Here is the way one scholar put it:

40                   But note how some other translations erroneously translate the verb in the citation below:

41                   Render therefore to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's. —NKJ

42                   Give to Caesar what is Caesar's, and to God what is God's.—NIV

43                   Give to Caesar what belongs to him. But everything that belongs to God must be given to God.—NLT

44                   Give therefore to the emperor the things that are the emperor's, and to God the things that are God's.--
45                   NRSV

1           You see, the versions of the Bible above have translated the operative verb as “to render” or “to give.” That is
2           to say, the presumption is that Caesar and God are to be “given to” in the same fashion. But only the
3           International Standard Version brings forth the marvelously subtle elements of the Greek verb here. The 4           proper word choice is not “give” but rather “give back.” And there is a world of difference.

5           Jesus was saying that everything belongs to God in the first place. In a very real sense, God is “owed”
6           everything that we have. He is our source. But in the Roman world, Caesar was God. In these passages, to 7           “give back” is the proper translation in regards to obligations to God and to Caesar for the audience to whom
8           Jesus was speaking.<sup>4</sup>

9           This puts an entirely new meaning to Jesus’ words above. There was a reason Jesus said “give back”, and why the bible
10          translators working for King James distorted Jesus’ words to pacify the King who wanted Christians to pay their taxes to 11          that King. I believe Jesus was also saying we shouldn’t use anything that had a graven image on it, such as a coin with 12          Caesar’s picture, because that would constitute idolatry by turning our government into some kind of god to be worshipped
13          every time we paid for something. Instead, I believe Jesus was telling us that we should give all the money the government
14          prints back to them and develop our own currency based on gold or barter that has value because of its own intrinsic worth
15          and scarcity rather than the edict of some bungling and dishonest government bureaucrat. The foundation of this belief is 16          found in Psalm 118:8-9, which we also mentioned in the previous section:

17                   “It is better to trust the Lord
18                   Than to put confidence in man.
19                   It is better to trust in the Lord
20                   Than to put confidence in princes.”
21                   [Psalm 118:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

22          Now that we really understand the true significance of what Jesus said, is it any wonder why He was publicly criticized and 23          scorned by both the government and the chief priests of the church and why He was crucified? Luke 23:2 says it all!
24          Furthermore, Jesus told us that we should be encouraged rather than discouraged by His example and what people did to 25          Him for telling the truth about taxes and sin and God. The priests crucified Him for taking a stance against sin and taxes
26          and the establishment and yet through His actions, He transcended this world. In Mark 8:38, Jesus said:

27                   For whoever is ashamed of Me and My words in this adulterous and sinful generation, of him the Son of Man
28                   also will be ashamed when He comes in the glory of His Father with the holy angels.
29                   [Mark 8:38, Bible, NKJV]

30          So what Jesus said here is that if we are ashamed of his stance on sin and taxes, and if we are too cowardly to confront evil
31          in our own government and be punished and ostracized by the world in the process for telling it like it is just as He Himself
32          did and was crucified for, then when it’s our turn to go to Heaven, then He will be ashamed of us and won’t vouch for us in 33          front of God!

34          Edmund Burke also said something along these lines as well:

35                   “The true danger is when liberty is nibbled away, for expedients, and by parts ... the only thing necessary for 36                   evil to triumph is for good men to do nothing.”
37                   [Edmund Burke]

38          Jesus’ life should be an inspiration and an encouragement to tax honesty fighters everywhere because of the way he was 39          treated. On a number of occasions, people in the Bible thought he was crazy! Below is one example, where Jesus’ own
40          mother and relatives said he was crazy:

41                   “But when His own people heard about this, they went out to lay hold of Him, for they said, ‘He is out of His 42                   mind.’”
43                   [Mark 3:21, Bible, NKJV]

44          You will likely experience the same kind reaction from many of the people you know as you try to share the truth about the 45          income tax fraud perpetuated by the U.S. government. After you have read this book and learned the truth for yourself,
46          people may persecute you and label you as a crackpot, like they did in the new testament as revealed in God’s own words:

47                   “A prophet is not without honor except in his own country and in his own house.”

1 [Matt. 13:57]

2 We certainly have been treated this way, but we have never allowed that to discourage us. It is precisely this kind of
3 negative and fearful reaction by people that was the reason that Jesus chose to speak to people in parables, because He
4 didn't want to alienate or offend people with the truths He was trying to share. We can take a similar approach by 5 providing testimonials, anecdotes, and stories about other people we know who have successfully gotten out of the tax
6 system using the recommendations in this book. We shouldn't be afraid to share the truth with people, because Jesus
7 certainly wasn't:

8 "Why are you so fearful? How is it that you have no faith?"
9 [Mark 5:40, Bible, NKJV]

11 1.10.2 The Fifth Apostle Jesus Called and the First "Sinners" Called to Repentance Were Tax Collectors

12 We read in the Bible, in the gospel of Mark, in chapter 2, that the fifth Apostle Jesus called was a Publican and a tax
13 collector. We learn that Matthew (also called Levi) was called by Jesus to be an Apostle in Mark. 2:14:

14 As He passed by, He saw Levi the son of Alphaeus sitting at the tax office. And He said to him, "Follow Me."
15 So he arose and followed Him.
16 [Mark 2:14, Bible, NKJV]

17 In Matthew 4:18-20, we learned that the first four Apostles were Simon, Andrew, James, and John. Recall that Matthew
18 (Levi) the tax collector wrote the first gospel or book of the New Testament (Matthew), and he also devoted more attention
19 to talking about taxes than any of the other Apostles in this gospel (see Matt. 17:24-27, Matt 22:15-22). Could this be 20 where the number of the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution came from? Sometimes we wonder! After Jesus called 21 Matthew, he dined together with Matthew and several tax collectors and sinners. Here is the story from Mark 2:16-17:

22 And when the scribes and Pharisees saw Him eating with the tax collectors and sinners,
23 they said to His disciples, "How is it that He eats and drinks with tax collectors and sinners?"

24 When Jesus heard it, He said to them:

25 "Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick. I did not come to call the 26 righteous, but sinners, to repentance."
27 [Mark 2:16-17, Bible, NKJV]

28 Did you notice that Jesus sought out the tax collector and not the other way around? Jesus said He was here to help sinners
29 and not the righteous, and He was implying here that the tax collectors were sinners. When He talked about tax collectors
30 and sinners, He used them in the same sentence, as if to imply that they were synonymous. Interestingly, tax collectors
31 were among the very first sinners Jesus met with and called to repentance! Collecting taxes apparently has always been a
32 sinful, immoral, and unethical business, even back in Jesus' time.

33 Our interpretation of the above anecdote is that we believe Jesus was also warning us that we should be vigilant to try to 34 maintain a tax collection system that is lawful, moral, honorable, sinless, and fair. One way we should try to do this by 35 ministering to, helping, befriending, and reforming IRS agents, for instance, by spending time with them like Jesus did.
36 Why? Because it will be much more difficult for them to hurt us and still have a conscience. If they don't know us, they
37 can conveniently depersonalize us by referring to everyone as "taxpayers" or by using our Social Security Number instead
38 of our name. Once depersonalized, we are then ruthlessly abused, harassed, and intimidated with computers, anonymous
39 correspondence, and legal chicanery by our own government. This was the same thing the Nazis did to the Jews...referring 40 to them as Jews instead of as human beings. On the other hand, would you as an IRS agent do that to someone you know
41 by first name and respect? In a sense, we have to become "Hogan" from the television show "Hogan's Heroes" when

1 dealing with the Gestapo IRS! The IRS is Colonel Klink and we are Hogan, and our job is to have as much fun with the
2 Colonel as we can! Disarm him with our wit and wisdom and humor.

3 Another way to view this is that Jesus was here to set the example or role model of how to behave. The first area of
4 ministry He had was to try to reform the tax collectors through preaching and his presence and example. Why shouldn't we
5 follow that example and try to reform the tax collection system and call tax collectors to repentance like Jesus did? Some
6 people would say it is because we shouldn't "judge", but this is a mistake because Jesus never said we shouldn't judge. He
7 said (in Matt. 7:1-7) that we should avoid judging only if we don't want to be judged ourselves! If you don't mind being
8 judged because you have your own act together FIRST and you are judging for the benefit of God and not yourself, then go
9 ahead and judge, but do it righteously (but not self-righteously!). Here is the foundation of why we believe this right from 10 the Bible:

11 "Ye shall do no unrighteousness in judgment: thou shalt not respect the person of the poor nor honor the 12 person of the mighty: but in righteousness shalt thou judge thy neighbor."
13 [Lev. 19:15]

14 "The lips of the righteous nourish many, but fools die for lack of judgment."
15 [Prov. 10:21, NIV]

16 "Open your mouth, judge righteously, and plead the cause of the poor and the needy."
17 [Prov. 31:9]

18 "Let us not therefore judge one another any more: but judge this rather, that no man put a stumbling block or 19 an occasion to fall in his brother's way."
20 [Rom. 14:13]

21 COMMENT: Do you think forcing a person to pay 50% of their income as taxes to an idolatrous government
22 puts a stumbling block in your brother's way? ...WE DO!

23 As Jesus explained in the Parable of the Talents found in Matthew 25:14-30, God expects us to be good stewards over our 24 government and the tax money that we give our government. That is the commission we have from God Himself to ensure 25 that the IRS behaves honorably, ethically, and morally in all its dealings with everyone within its jurisdiction and outside its 26 jurisdiction. Jesus Himself commanded us to judge righteously when he said this to one of His Apostles:

27 "Judge not according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment."
28 [John 7:24]

29 Does it sound here like Jesus was saying NOT to judge? Absolutely not! If you would like to learn more about judgment
30 and how to judge righteously, we refer you to section 3.6 of our Family Constitution, which you can download from our 31 website at <http://famguardian.org/>. The essence of judging righteously is the following, as explained by Jesus in John 5:30:

32 "I can Myself do nothing. As I hear, I judge; and My judgment is righteous, because I do not seek My own 33 will but the will of the Father."
34 [John 5:30, Bible, NKJV]

35 Therefore, if we are constantly seeking God's will, as revealed in the Bible, in all our dealings with the government and the 36 IRS, and not our own self-enrichment, then we are assured by God that we are judging the situation righteously and acting
37 righteously. Another way of saying this is that if there is no conflict of interest in what we are advocating and we are
38 seeking the fulfillment of God's will as He expresses it to us in the Bible and in our prayers, then we are doing the right
39 thing and we commit no sin. Jesus confirmed this Himself in Mark 8:35-37:

40 For whoever desires to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for My sake and the gospel's will save
41 it. For what will it profit a man if he gains the whole world, and loses his own soul? Or what will a man give 42 in exchange for his soul?

43 What Jesus was alluding to here is a concept that I call "The Let Go Principle":

44 Whenever you want something, seek God's will FIRST and either nothing or the opposite of what you want and 45 you will usually get it!

46 Below are some examples from the Bible of the paradoxical "Let Go Principle" expounded by Jesus Himself:

- 1 1. Luke 18:9-14: Parable of the Pharisee and the Tax Collector. Jesus said everyone who humbles himself will be
2 exalted and he who exalts himself will be humbled:

3 “Two men went up to the temple to pray, one a Pharisee and the other a tax collector.

4 The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself, ‘God, I thank You that I am not like other men—extortioners,
5 unjust, adulterers, or even as this tax collector.

6 ‘I fast twice a week; I give tithes of all that I possess.’

7 “And the tax collector, standing afar off, would not so much as raise his eyes to heaven, but beat his breast,
8 saying, ‘God, be merciful to me a sinner!’

9 I tell you, this man [the tax collector] went down to his house justified rather than the other; for everyone who 10 exalts himself will be humbled, and he who humbles himself will be exalted.”
11 [Luke 18:9-14, Bible, NKJV]

- 12 2. John 12:24-25, Jesus said anyone who loves his life will lose it, and anyone who hates his life in this world will keep it
13 for eternal life:

14 “Most assuredly I say to you, unless a grain of wheat falls into the ground and dies, it remains alone; but if it
15 dies, it produces much grain.

16 He who loves his life will lose it, and he who hates his life in this world will keep it for eternal life.”*
17 [John 12:24-25, Bible, NKJV]

- 18 3. Matt 20:25-28: Jesus said he who wants to be greatest among men should be a servant of all, not a dictator or a tyrant:

19 “You know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and those who are great exercise authority over
20 them. Yet it shall not be so among you; but whoever desires to become great among you, let him be your 21 servant. And whoever desires to be first among you, let him be your slave---just as the Son of Man did not 22 come to be served, but to serve, and to give His life a ransom for many.”
23 [Matthew 20:25-28, Bible, NKJV]

- 24 4. Luke 12:22-34: Jesus said that we should seek God first and everything else will be taken care of. He said if we have 25 anxiety about what we own or what we will eat tomorrow, then instead of attacking the problem directly and seeking
26 after riches to feed ourselves tomorrow, seek God, and God will supply all our needs: In short, what Jesus said here
27 was that you can solve your problems by not worrying about them and trusting God to provide!

28 “Therefore I say to you, do not worry about your life, what you will eat; nor about the body, what you will put 29 on.

30 Life is more than food, and the body is more than clothing.

31 ...

32 And which of you by worrying can add one cubit to his stature? If you then are not able to do the least [honor
33 and obey God], why are you anxious for the rest?...”

- 34 Below are just a few real world examples of The Let Go Principle in action, and it’s fascinating to watch how it operates.
35 History has shown that it always works:

- 36 1. If you want a tax refund for yourself, then focus more on doing what’s right and following God and the law rather than 37 getting your refund and maximizing your “cost-benefit ratio”. When your case gets in front of a judge or a jury, they 38 will focus on the fact that you are a person of conscience who is unselfish, principled and will do the right thing at any 39 cost, and they will not only see that but respect you for it and ultimately take your side. On the other hand, if all you
40 ever talk about is money and how you have been cheated rather than everyone else but you being cheated, they 41 probably won’t listen and will side with the government.
42 2. If you want blessing for yourself in your life, then seek God’s will and not your own. See Matt. 6:33.

3. If you want a loan from the bank, dress nicely as though you have plenty of money and present yourself as though you don't really need or want money but some outside force is causing you to have to get it and not your own will. For instance, you need it to help a relative or to help your children or your church, but only if this is really the case.
4. If you want a spouse or companion of the opposite sex, then just enjoy yourself and quit looking for one. Find an activity you enjoy and other people who enjoy it will meet you and forge a friendship that will blossom into a marriage eventually! This is called playing hard to get and most females know exactly how this works because it is one of the best weapons and best kept secrets as part of the dating game!
5. If you want your children to love you as a parent, then let go and quit trying to control and manipulate them. Give them room to develop the talents and abilities God gifted them with and nurture and encourage that growth in a way that will benefit them, rather than trying to mold them into something you want them to be but which God never intended.

Christian humor is even built around the let go principle. Below are just a few Christian jokes that point out the irony of being a Christian, and how we sometimes have to seek the opposite of what we want to get it!:

1. Give God what's right -- not what's left.
2. Man's way leads to a hopeless end -- God's way leads to an endless hope.
3. A lot of kneeling will keep you in good standing.
4. He who kneels before God can stand before anyone.
5. In the sentence of life, the devil may be a comma--but never let him be the period.
6. Don't put a question mark where God puts a period.
7. Are you wrinkled with burden? Come to the church for a face-lift.
8. When praying, don't give God instructions - just report for duty.
9. Don't wait for six strong men to take you to church.
10. We don't change God's message -- His message changes us.
11. The church is prayer-conditioned.
12. When God ordains, He sustains.
13. WARNING: Exposure to the Son may prevent burning.
14. Plan ahead -- It wasn't raining when Noah built the ark.
15. Most people want to serve God, but only in an advisory position.
16. Suffering from truth decay? Brush up on your Bible.
17. Exercise daily -- walk with the Lord.
18. Never give the devil a ride -- he will always want to drive.
19. Nothing else ruins the truth like stretching it.
20. Compassion is difficult to give away because it keeps coming back.
21. He who angers you controls you.
22. Worry is the darkroom in which negatives can develop.
23. Give Satan an inch & he'll be a ruler.
24. Be ye fishers of men -- you catch them & He'll clean them.
25. God doesn't call the qualified, He qualifies the called.
26. Read the Bible -- It will scare the hell out of you.

1.10.3 The FIRST to Be Judged By God Will Be Those Who Took The Mark of the Beast: The Socialist (Social) Security Number

As you will learn later, in section 2.8.7 entitled “The Socialist (Social) Security Number, Mark of the Beast!”, the Social Security Number the government assigns to you, sometimes within seconds after you are born (see section 2.8.7.1) is called the “Mark of the Beast” in Revelation 13:16-18. Elsewhere in the same book of Revelation found in the Bible, we find that the first “Bowl Judgment” will occur against those who accepted this sinful mark (SSN):

First Bowl

*Then I heard a loud voice from the temple saying to the seven angels, “Go and pour out the bowls of the wrath of God on the earth” So the first went and poured out his bowl upon the earth, and a foul and loathsome sore came upon the men who had the mark of the beast [SSN] and those who worshipped his image.
[Revelation 16:1-2, Bible, NKJV]

What was the “image” of the beast that people worshipped? We believe the image of the beast is found on the paper money the government prints: the graven image of our politicians on the money and idolatry that the government and the people who make up the government represent. Jesus talked about this very subject in Matthew 22:15-22, where when Jesus was asked by the Pharisees if we should pay taxes, in response, He asked for a coin (a denarius) from them and then He said

1 “Whose image is this?”.

2 This is the image.. the image of man and the worthless money he prints and all the vain and very temporal things it buys:
3 hedonistic pleasures, attractive but duplicitous companions, drugs, sin, and strife born of greed and selfishness. This vanity
4 allows Satan to deceive and mislead many, which ultimately destroys lives, families, churches, and nations. It also destroys
5 our salvation if we put money and our own vanity and personal gain above God in our priority list (see the First 6 commandment in the Ten Commandments found in Exodus 20 in the Bible).

7 1.10.4 Our Obligations as Christians

8 “When they took the fourth amendment, I was silent because I don't deal drugs.
9 When they took the sixth amendment, I kept quiet because I know I'm innocent.
10 When they took the second amendment, I said nothing because I don't own a gun.
11 Now they've come for the first amendment, and I can't say anything at all.”
12 [Tim Freeman, tsf@cs.cmu.edu]

13 The thing Christians need to ask themselves when they want a confirmation of whether the ideas advocated in this 14 document are biblical in the context of “rendering to Caesar that which is Caesar's” (see Matt 15:21), is:

15 “Who determines what is Caesar's? Is it the law or is it the arbitrary whims of individual rulers or IRS agents 16 who are acting illegally and selfishly disregarding the law and the U.S. Constitution and the will of the 17 people?”

18 As we have pointed out repeatedly throughout this document, we are advocating that Christians obey human government
19 when it does not interfere with their religious beliefs or the law or individual rather than collective rights and when it does 20 not prevent them from putting God first in their life. Below is the main scripture that talks about our responsibilities to 21 human government, 1 Peter 2:13-17:

22 “Submit yourself to every ordinance of man [which is] for the Lord's sake, whether to the king as supreme, or to
23 governors, as to those who are sent by him for the punishment of evildoers and for the praise of those who do
24 good. For it is the will of God, that by doing good you may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men--as free,
25 yet not using liberty as a cloak for vice, but as bondservants of God.

26 Honor all people. Love the brotherhood, Fear God. Honor the king.”

27 [1 Peter 2:13-17, Bible, NKJV]

28 The above scripture doesn't talk about laws that aren't for the Lords sake, but the implications are clear: disobey them.
29 And when we have to disobey man's laws in order to obey God's laws, this is called “conflict of personal laws” in the legal 30 field. We are to honor God first (Exodus 20:3), God's law second, man's law third, and the people in the government who 31 obey both God's law and man's law third (1 Peter 2:13-17). We are a country and a society of laws and not men and those 32 are our biblical priorities. Any government official who does not observe EITHER God's law first OR man's law second 33 does not deserve our obedience or cooperation and we have a duty and obligation to civil disobedience to that official.
34 Even the Declaration of Independence says so!

35 But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to 36 reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to 37 provide new Guards for their future security.

38 As a matter of fact, this country wouldn't exist if a majority of the people who founded it didn't believe that very thing—
39 they exercised civil disobedience to tyrants in Britain because of unjust laws! Jesus did the same thing against the 40 Pharisees (priests), the lawyers, and the Publicans (politicians) in his time. Here is what He said to the Pharisees, and you
41 will note that He accused them of being hypocrites because they ignored the injustice of their own government! (read the 42 whole passage yourself in Matthew 23:13-36, but here is an excerpt):

43 “But woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you shut up the kingdom of heaven against men; for 44 you neither go in yourselves, nor do you allow those who are entering to go in.

45 [...]

Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you pay tithe of mint and anise and cummin, and have neglected the weightier matters of the law: justice and mercy and faith. These you ought to have done, without leaving the others undone.

[...]

Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you are like whitewashed tombs which indeed appear beautiful outwardly, but inside are full of dead men's bones and all uncleanness.

Even so, you also outwardly appear righteous to men, but inside you are full of hypocrisy and lawlessness.

Fill up, then, the measure of your fathers' guilt. Serpents, brood of vipers! How can you escape the condemnation of hell? Therefore, indeed, I send you prophets, wise men, and scribes: some of them you will kill and crucify, and some of them you will scourge in your synagogues and persecute from city to city, that on you may come all the righteous blood shed on the earth..."

Jesus also criticized especially lawyers in Luke 11:52 (see the beginning of chapter 3 for many more quotes like that below):

"Woe to you lawyers! for you have taken away the keys of knowledge; you did not enter yourselves, and you hindered those who were entering."

[Luke 11:52, INTERPRETATION: woe unto lawyers who write a law to deliberately be confusing or who use or interpret a law that is written in a confusing way to hide the truth or deceive people for their own selfish gain]

What was this "key of knowledge" that Jesus was talking about above? It is our language. The very words we use to communicate. Using deceptive legal definitions that conflict with our common understanding of how our government operates, lawyers have destroyed our ability to describe and understand and influence what our government does on our behalf. They have hid the truth and interfered with our sovereignty using definitions! They have used legalese to elevate their profession to the level of a "priesthood" that only they understand. We believe that what Jesus was saying here is that we should be leery of lawyers because they try to control and manipulate us by keeping us ignorant and afraid using their deceptive "legalese". Lawyers, and judges, most of whom used to be lawyers, use deceptive language to enslave and intimidate us. Jesus was saying that we should NEVER ignore injustice, and especially when it is perpetrated by our own government or as a result of the laws that we need to take part in creating in order to ensure that they are just.

If we are seen as good by our neighbors, pay our church tithe, and never hurt anyone, we will still be hypocrite in Jesus' eyes if we ignore the more important matters of the laws made by our own government, such as justice and mercy. If we ignore injustice accomplished by our agents in government operating on our behalf, then we will be no better than David in the Bible was when he had Uriah killed by one of his agents: a sinner responsible for the sinful acts of another accomplished in his name.<sup>5</sup> This is where the whole notion of being an informed and involved citizen originates in our American society and why our Founding Fathers put it there. Delivering justice (which is another way or more correctly saying stopping injustice) was the very reason that God sent His son Jesus down to earth!:

Behold! My Servant whom I uphold, my Elect One in whom My soul delights! I have put My Spirit upon Him; He will bring forth justice to the Gentiles. He will not cry out, nor raise His voice, nor cause His voice to be heard in the street. ...He will bring forth justice for truth. He will not fail nor be discouraged, till He has established justice in the earth; and the coastlands shall wait for His [God's] law. Thus says God the Lord, who created the heavens and stretched them out, who spread forth the earth and that which comes from it, who gives breath to the people on it, and spirit to those who walk on it: "I, the Lord, have called You in righteousness, and will hold Your hand; I will keep You and give You as a covenant to the people, as a light to the Gentiles, to open blind eyes, to bring out [IRS] prisoners from the prison, those who sit in darkness from the prison house. I am the Lord, that is My name; and My glory I will not give to another, nor My praise to carved images. Behold, the former things have come to pass, and new things I declare; before they spring forth I tell you of them"
[Isaiah 42:1-9, Bible, NKJV]

This is where our authority and mandate to vote, to sit on a jury, to run for political office, and to serve in the military comes from...right from God! We have a commission, as ambassadors of God, citizens of heaven and not earth, and followers of Jesus Christ to execute justice and oppose injustice. Without our involvement, injustice will prevail because greedy special interests will come into the democratic vacuum created by our apathy and political inattentiveness and they will hijack our government for their own benefit and to our injury. We must be involved at every level of politics to defend our liberties successfully and expand and ensure God's dominion here on earth. We'll be just as bad as the Pharisees who Jesus criticized above if we don't act on and try to correct injustice by our agents serving us in government, and there is no place where more injustice occurs in our country's laws on a larger scale than the way that federal income taxes are illegally enforced by the IRS.

People say that Jesus loved us, but He was also a very principled man who would probably be described as the most politically incorrect person around if He were active in politics today! See the following for proof:

Jesus Is an Anarchist

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Spirituality/ChurchvState/JesusAnarchist.htm>

Shouldn't Jesus' behavior be an example to us all? Isn't loving really about telling the truth regardless of the personal cost? Doesn't it say in 1 Cor. 13: 6 that

"Love...does not rejoice in iniquity, but rejoices in truth.."

Do you think that people who rejoice about truth don't talk about it or are afraid to talk about it for fear of being politically incorrect?

The book of Isaiah, in Chapter 58 defines what it means to truly worship our God and defines our biblical priorities. The scenario in that chapter is that God's people want to know why their prayers and deeds are not recognized or rewarded by their God.

1 Tell My people their transgression
And the house of Jacob their sins.
...
2 They ask of Me the ordinances of justice;
They take delight in approaching God.
'Why have we fasted,' they say, 'and You have not seen?
3 Why have we afflicted our soul, and You take no notice?'

God responded:

3 "In fact, in the day of your fast you find pleasure,
And exploit all your laborers.
4 Indeed you fast for strife and debate,
And to strike with the fist of wickedness.

...

5 Is it a fast that I have chosen,
A day for a man to afflict his soul?
...
Would you call this a fast,

1 And an acceptable day to the Lord?

3 6 Is this not the fast that I [God] have chosen:
4 To loose the bonds of wickedness,
5 To undo the heavy burdens,
6 To let the oppressed go free,
7 And that you break every yoke?

8 Is it not to share your bread with the hungry,
9 And that you bring to your house the poor who are cast out;
10 ...

11 It's pretty clear that God is saying here that fighting injustice ought to be the main goal our religion and our worship.
12 He is saying that our religion is vain and hypocritical if we aren't focusing on eliminating injustice in our society,
13 starting with "undo[ing] heavy burdens" and "let[ting] the oppressed go free". Here's another example of God's attitude on
14 this subject:

15 *"Thus says the Lord: 'Execute judgment in the morning; and deliver him who is plundered illegally by the 16 IRS] out of the hand of the oppressor, lest my fury go forth like fire and burn so that no one can quench it,
17 because of the evil of your doings.'
18 [Jeremiah 21:12, Bible, NKJV]

19 What heavier and more oppressive burden could there be to individuals and society than an unjust and illegal and usurious
20 income tax and a government that extorts and intimidates people to pay a tax they don't owe that eats up more than half of 21 their income? As a matter of fact, we don't see any difference between modern-day slavery to the income tax and the 22 slavery of the Jews to the Egyptians, do you? Wasn't Moses' freeing of the Jewish slaves from the Egyptians (in Exodus)
23 one of the most glorious and legendary tales in the bible? Weren't the Jewish slaves afraid to leave Egypt because of what
24 might happen to them so they murmured against Moses? Isn't this very reluctance to confront evil and stay in the "comfort 25 zone" the reason that people in today's society won't try to escape slavery to the government tax by refusing to pay and
26 refusing to accept government services? Instead, people will murmur against those who do talk of justice and liberation,
27 and warn them that they might end up in prison! When they were finally free, didn't the Jews practice idolatry to a golden
28 calf in the wilderness? We were once a free country without income taxes but now hasn't Socialist Security and 29 Government in general become our golden calf or god? The Israelites didn't like hearing that they must cast away their 30 idols and I don't expect that you will either, but it's true and speaking the truth is what love is all about.

31 Have we become a society of idolatrous cowards who lack the virtues of our forefathers and don't deserve the freedom we
32 have because we refuse to take risks and confront the evil and oppressive beast of our increasingly corrupt socialist
33 government?

34 "They that can give up essential liberty to obtain a little temporary safety deserve neither liberty nor safety."
35 [Benjamin Franklin]

36 What more noble and righteous act of worship of our God could there be both for our forefathers and for us than to fight
37 slavery to the oppressive income tax with every ounce of our strength until the day we die based on the massive injustice
38 and oppression it wreaks in our society? The leading cause of marital conflict and divorce is arguments over money, and 39 most of the time it's because there isn't enough of it to go around. Does the IRS help that situation? Let's list all the things
40 that happen in our society, mainly because of illegal enforcement of the income tax by the IRS:

- 41 1. Americans of faith who are Christians can't afford to tithe to their church, because the government takes over half of 42 their income. They are then ashamed to go to church and will stay away from it as a result because they feel guilty.
43 This alienation from God produces conflict, anxiety, and eventually corrupts the morals of the family.
- 44 2. Families are destroyed because of conflict over the fact that there isn't enough money because most of it (over 50%) is 45 going to the IRS.
- 46 3. Families can't support their old-age grandparents because of the amount of income taxes they pay. They are then 47 forced to rely on a Social Security program that is a Ponzi scheme that most working people expect will be bankrupt
48 before they have a chance to collect.
- 49 4. Parents can't afford to send their children to college. Instead they have to depend on government grants or 50 scholarships or loans, and the liberal universities that give them corrupt the morals of their children. Their children also have to leave town to go to colleges offering these grants and loans, which means they are outside the influence of their parents at a very vulnerable point in their life and are more easily corrupted.

5. Most mothers, who used to stay home before the second world war, now have to go into the workplace to make up for all the income that is extorted from their working husband, leaving a latch-key environment for their children because they can't be home. Television then raises the children and they get in a lot more trouble during the two or three hours from the time they get out of school and the time at least one parent is home from work.

Here is what Jesus said about His role here on earth in Matt. 10:34-36, and keep in mind that He is our example and our role model as Christians:

"Do not think that I came to bring peace on earth. I did not come to bring peace on earth, but a sword."

For I have come to set a man against his father, a daughter against her mother, and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law; and a man's enemies will be those of his own household."
[Matt. 10:34-36, Bible, NKJV]

In the metaphor above, we like to think of the "sword" as Truth and Righteousness. What are we supposed to use the sword against? The answer is injustice and oppression in our society, starting with our government's illegal enforcement of the Internal Revenue Code.

We as Christians really need to rethink how we worship our God because the church has been silent about the biggest source of injustice and oppression in modern day society...income taxes. Instead, like the story in Isaiah 58, the church has become more a means of personal entertainment, hypocrisy, and vanity than it has become the glorious and eternal fountain of justice and mercy and truth that our God intended! Instead of being the bride of Christ, many churches have become the hedonistic prostitute of Christ. In our selfishness and shortsightedness and impatience, the Christian church has become like the poor steward in the parable of the talents in Matthew 25:14-30, who got only one talent because he lacked faith and could not be entrusted with more. Churches have cowered in the face of the IRS and our government and made themselves politically irrelevant forces because they are afraid to lose a tax exempt status they never needed if they had just studied the tax code!

"One who turns his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer is an abomination."
[Proverbs 28:9, Bible, NKJV]

I'm sure God will have some angry words to say about that kind of ignorance, indifference, sin of omission, and cowardice on judgment day! The first people He will judge, according to the book of Revelation, will be hypocrites like this who took the Mark of the Beast (the Socialist Security Number). As Eddie Kahn describes it:

"Our attitudes should be like Paul's, who told the church at Corinth in 1 Corinthians 16:13, 'Watch, stand fast in the faith, be brave, be strong.' I believe the following statement with all my heart..."

THERE WILL BE NO WIMPS IN HEAVEN!!<sup>6</sup>

It is impossible for a believer to be a good Christian and a bad Citizen at the same time. As children of God, our responsibility to human government is threefold:

1. We are to follow what the Bible says about politics and how to elect or support political leaders. See:
  - 1.1. Biblical Standards for Civil Rulers, Form #13.013
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
  - 1.2. Christian Citizenship Training Course, Forms #12.007 through 12.009
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>
2. We are to recognize and accept that the powers that be are ordained by God. "Let every soul be subject to the governing authorities[sovereigns, which YOU, not your government, are]. For there is no authority except from God, and the authorities that exist are appointed by God" (Rom. 13:1). "We the people" are the only sovereigns in this country and this fact has been recognized by the supreme Court since the foundation of this country. This commandment applies even to atheistic human governments unless, of course, the law is anti-scriptural. In that situation the believer must obey God rather than humans (Acts 4:18-20). In fact, when Paul wrote those words in Rom. 13:1, the evil Emperor Nero was on the throne. See also Titus 3:1.

3. We are to pay our legitimate (authorized by the man's POSITIVE law and consistent with God's law, not a bureaucrat) taxes to human government (see Matt. 17:24-27;22:21; Rom. 13:7). Man's law here in America does not currently authorize a direct mandatory/non-voluntary tax on wages of real people, but only on corporations. The statutory "taxpayer" is in fact a voluntary public officer of a federal corporation called "United States". The Internal Revenue Code is also not "positive law" and therefore imposes no obligation upon anyone except those who voluntarily consent to be subject to its provisions. Chapter 5 exhaustively analyzes the law to prove to you from just about every possible angle that this is indeed the case.
4. We are to pray for the leaders in human government.

"Therefore I exhort first of all that supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks be made for all men, for kings and all who are in authority, that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life in all godliness and reverence. For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Savior"
[1 Tim. 2:1-3]

1.10.5 You Can't Trust Lawyers or Most Politicians

In Jesus' time, the lawyers were called the Pharisees. Throughout the New Testament, Jesus condemns lawyers. He also warned us to beware of their doctrine, which was their teachings:

*Then Jesus said to them, "Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and the Sadducees." ....How is it you do not understand that I did not speak to you concerning bread?—but to beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and the Sadducees." Then they understood that He did not tell them to beware of the leaven of bread, but of the doctrine of the Pharisees and Sadducees.
[Matt. 16:6,11,12; Bible, NKJV]

Several times, Jesus warned us that the lawyers are vain and wicked hypocrites and man-pleasers who are going to HELL, and that friendship with the world was enmity with God:

"For I say to you, that unless your righteousness exceeds the righteousness of the scribes and Pharisees, you will by no means enter the kingdom of heaven."
[Matt. 5:20, Bible, NKJV]
[INTERPRETATION: The Pharisees are going to HELL!]

"Now you Pharisees make the outside of the cup and dish clean, but your inward part is full of greed and wickedness."
[Luke 11:39, Bible, NKJV]

"But the Pharisees and lawyers rejected the will of God for themselves, not having been baptized by him."
[Luke 7:30, Bible, NKJV]

"But woe to you scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you shut up the kingdom of heaven against men; for you neither go in yourselves, nor do you allow those who are entering to go in. Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you devour widows' houses, and for a pretense make long prayers. Therefore you will receive greater condemnation.

Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you travel land and sea to win one proselyte, and when he is won, you make him twice as much a son of hell as yourselves."

"Woe to you, blind guides, who say, 'Whoever swears by the temple, it is nothing; but whoever swears by the gold of the temple, he is obliged to perform it.' Fools and blind! For which is greater, the gold or the temple that sanctifies the gold?"
[Matt. 23:13-17, Bible, NKJV]

"Serpents, brood of vipers! How can you escape the condemnation of hell?"
[Matt. 23:33, Bible, NKJV]

Since most politicians now are also lawyers, then by implication we should also beware of politicians and legislators. The people who write the IRS publications are lawyers because these publications must be written, at least in theory, to 1 accurately portray what our tax code says. As you will find out later in section 3.16, these publications and forms, in fact,

 2 are willfully fraudulent, because if they told the truth accurately, most Americans would refuse to pay an income tax that
 3 they in fact do not owe. These publications are designed as the only teaching tool most Americans will ever read about
 4 their obligation to pay income taxes, and Jesus warned us about the teachings and doctrine of the Pharisees/lawyers. The
 5 courts (whose judges are also lawyers beholden to their law school buddies in the executive branch) have ruled repeatedly
 6 that the IRS cannot and should not be held responsible for the content of its publications, even if they are a downright
 7 fraud!

8 1.10.6 How can I wake up fellow Christians to the truths in this book?

9 Below is a very common type of correspondence we get, which we would like to respond to in advance for all the people
 10 who no doubt will feel like asking it:

11 I am _____(Christian, Evangelical, Lutheran, Episcopal, Catholic, LDS, etc) and would like to open the 12 minds of fellow members of my church. However, I have found that they don't want me to bring it up in church
 13 meetings. I am feeling very alienated as a result of knowing the truth and then being unable to express my 14 knowledge to other Christians who need to understand the constructive fraud that we are living under. Are you
 15 _____ (Christian, LDS, etc) and how are you handling this in your church? If you are not then if you
 16 have any advice other than my referring people to your website please advise...thank you!

17 Our response follows:

18 It is very difficult to express this kind of thing to people in any church, because Christians are taught to be good sheep and
 19 pastors are taught to be good shepherds and never question government authority. That is why pastors get a 501(c)(3)
 20 status and become government corporations and franchises to begin with! That passive mindset and avoidance of all risk
 21 has to be defeated before you will encounter fertile ground for further teaching and learning on the subjects found in this
 22 book. As you approach such passivity, remind people of the following:

23 "One who turns his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer is an abomination."
 24 [Proverbs 28:9, Bible]

25 We have written another free Acrobat book found on our website below that might help:

Family Constitution

<http://famguardian.org/Publications/FamilyConst/FamilyConst.htm>

26 The areas in the above book which you might want to read both yourself and to your church brethren are:

- 27 1. Section 3.7: Techniques for Correction and Encouragement
- 28 2. Chapter 7: Relationship to Governments and the World.

29 We have found that the main dogma that gets in the way of teaching people the truths in this book is the false notion that 30 we shouldn't judge as Christians. Psalm 15:1-5 provides an additional scriptural basis for judging evil:

31 "Lord, who may abide in Your tabernacle? Who may dwell in Your holy hill?

32 He who walks uprightly, and works righteousness, and speaks the truth in his heart;

33 He who does not backbite with his tongue, nor does evil to his neighbor, nor does he take up a reproach against 34 his friend;

35 In whose eyes a vile person is despised, but he honors those who fear the Lord: He who swears to his own*
 36 hurt and does not change;

37 He who does not put out his money at usury, nor does he take a bribe against the innocent.

38 He who does these things shall never be moved."
 39 [Psalm 15:1-5, Bible, NKJV]

Notice that despising and opposing a vile person, or organization like the IRS, would appear to be one of our obligations as Christians based on the above. You also might want to read to your colleagues the entire book of Esther, which is relatively short. It tells the story of how a corrupt and extortionary government official named Haman was despised (like the above scripture requires) by an honorable man named Mordecai, and how divine justice was ultimately served upon Haman, which resulted in his execution as well as the execution of all his sons. Many parallels can be found in this book of the Bible with the average believer and our current government's tax policies as follows:

1 The thing that really stands out about the above story is the example set by the Jews in rejecting the laws of the king and
2 instead being governed by God's laws. For instance, in Esther 3:2-6, Mordecai, a Jew, refused to bow to an evil ruler
3 named Haman. Then later in the book, Haman revealed disdain for all the Jews because they refused to be governed by 4 anything but God's laws rather than the king's unjust laws:

5 Then Haman said to King Ahasuerus, "There is a certain people scattered and dispersed among the people in
6 *all the provinces of your kingdom; their laws are different from all other people's, and they do not keep the
7 king's laws. Therefore it is not fitting for the king to let them remain. If it pleases the king, let a decree be*
8 written that they be destroyed, and I will pay ten thousand talents of silver into the hands of those who do the 9 work, to bring it into the king's treasuries."
10 [Esther 3:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

11 Another powerful technique to motivate your fellow Christian brothers and sisters into action is to slip them a copy of 12 Chapter 2 of The Great IRS Hoax book. That will get them mad enough at their government to make them ready to learn
13 and ready to change their passive attitude. That's why I put it close to the beginning of the book.

14 Good luck to those of you who are faced with this situation, because you have a tough road ahead of you overcoming the 15 passivity and ignorance of your fellow Christian brothers, not to mention all the people working at the IRS who don't have 16 a clue about what the law really says. The situation of church censorship by the IRS described in section 6.6.4 also 17 compounds the difficulty you face. My prayers are with you. Please proceed with love, encouragement, and lots of 18 patience. You can't undo the deliberate failings of 20 years of government/public schooling overnight.

19 1.11 Common Objections to the Recommendations In This Document With Rebuttal

20 Below are a few common objections we hear when we confront people with the truths found in this document. We'd like 21 to answer all of these objections before we launch into our detailed study and analysis, so that we will be able to hold the
22 interest and attention of our readers throughout this book by acknowledging their valid anxieties and concerns. We 23 recognize that is a difficult thing to do for such a long book, which is why we carefully organized it so that it was useful 24 also as a reference on selected tax subjects.

1.11.1 Why can't you just pay your taxes like everyone else?

These, and many other similar questions, are entirely irrelevant to the information in this document. However, because they come up so frequently, they will be briefly addressed here. Keep in mind, both the questions on this page and my responses to them have no bearing at all on what the law actually requires.

1.11.2 What do you mean my question is irrelevant?

Congress did not impose a tax on my income. I cannot, therefore, pay "my" income taxes, even if I wanted to, because they aren't "my" taxes. Why can't you just pay your whiskey-distilling taxes? Because you don't distill whiskey? Well, why should that stop you?

A "tax" is a payment required by law. Most Americans who file tax returns are paying for a "scam," not a "tax." I suppose if people want to feel noble and patriotic about being illegally defrauded of their money every year, that's their choice. But to condemn someone for not being duped and extorted is just a bit twisted.

1.11.3 How Come my Accountant or Tax Attorney Doesn't Know This?

He is truly a Fool who trusts his:

1. Soul to a Preacher !
2. Health to a Doctor !
3. Rights to a Lawyer !
4. Freedom to a Politician !
5. Money to a Banker !

Can most of the "experts" be wrong? Actually, they can. Unfortunately, like everyone else, "experts" are susceptible to some imperfect aspects of human nature. Throughout history, the so-called "experts" in medicine, science, etc. have generally ignored whatever evidence contradicted their preconceived notions. The same is true of modern-day tax "experts." When given a piece of evidence that would shatter their career (and probably their world view), it is much easier for them to just dismiss the evidence. For those tax professionals who dare to challenge their preconceived notions, or for those who would like to challenge the expertise of their favorite tax "expert," we suggest:

Test for Tax Professionals, Form #03.028
<http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

For those tax professionals who will actually address the issue using the statutes and regulations themselves, we welcome their comments, thoughts and arguments.

The American Bar Association (ABA) is the one that benefits the most financially from the illegal income tax. The more assets that the ABA can put at risk under the jurisdiction of the courts and the more complex the tax code is, the more litigation there will be and the more lawyers we will need. The law of supply and demand will raise the wages of tax attorneys, and the more money that is at risk, the more the greedy lawyers can charge! Therefore, tax lawyers promote untruth about the voluntary nature of federal income tax because they benefit significantly and personally by the complexity, uncertainty, and litigation that results from the income taxes being falsely thought of as mandatory.

These same lawyers are the ones who act as legal counsel for radio and television stations and newspapers and who interface most frequently with politicians and regulators. And most of the people in the congress and the government who are part of the legislative and judicial branches are also lawyers. The same tax attorneys who write the laws are the ones who get paid big bucks by private firms to enforce and comply with these laws. The fox is in charge of the chickens, I'm afraid. Naturally, lawyers will always promote the approach to the laws that will benefit them and their profession most, even if it hurts the consumer's interest. And if they can use legalese to keep consumers ignorant about their ruse, as they seem to have done with the federal income tax, then we won't even know about the conspiracy they have pulled on us. Shame on us for letting it continue! Our own ignorance and laziness is to blame!

If you doubt the American Bar Association's (ABA's, which is the main national organization of lawyers throughout the country) intentions, read the article below, where the ABA is volunteering with the IRS to push misinformation among young people in our schools about the tax code. Do you think they are going to tell the young people that the income taxes violate their constitutional rights or that they are voluntary if they are pushing CD-ROMS to get kids educated about how to

1 comply with the tax code, full-well knowing that they don't even need to pay? Do you think they are providing the IRS
 2 publications to the kids that fool them into thinking they owe tax while NOT providing the U.S. Codes and C.F.R.'s which
 3 clearly show that they do NOT owe tax? Do you think they would give children a copy of this document?:

35 You must remember that attorneys and accountants are part of "the system." Do you think that if either your lawyer or your 36 accountant knew or found out a way to make their services entirely irrelevant, they would tell you? Do you think that even 37 if you pointed the truth out to them that their services were no longer needed and offered them proof, do you think they 38 would want to hear it? They have Mercedes payments and spousal support payments to make, and it would be foolish to 39 commit "professional suicide"! The more of your assets that are at risk of litigation, the more business lawyers and 40 accountants get. The two biggest and best ways to put your assets at risk is either to get married or to owe taxes.
 41 Incidentally, both of these risk situations are a matter of law and involve lawyers. First, let's look at marriage.

42 ATTORNEYS:

43 A high class Madam opened the brothel door to see a frail, bookish looking, older gentleman.

44 "Can I help you?" the madam asked.

45 "I want Natalie," the old man replied.

46 "Sir, Natalie is one of our most expensive ladies, perhaps someone else..."

47 "No, I must see Natalie."

48 Just then Natalie appeared and announced to the old man that she charges $1,000 per visit. Without blinking,
 49 the man reached into his pocket and handed her ten $100 bills. The two went up to a room for an hour,
 50 whereupon the man calmly left.

51 The next night he appeared again demanding to see Natalie. Natalie explained that no one had ever come back
 52 two nights in a row and that there were no discounts...it was still $1,000 a visit.

53 Again the old man took out the money, the two went up to the room and an hour later, he left.

1                   When he showed up the third consecutive night, no one could believe it. Again he handed Natalie the money and
2                   up to the room they went.

3                   At the end of the hour Natalie questioned the old man: "No one has ever used my services three nights in a row.
4                   Where are you from?"

5                   The old man replied, "I'm from Philadelphia."

6                   "Really?" replied Natalie. "I have family who lives there."

7                   "Yes, I know," said the old man. "Your father died, and I'm your sister's attorney. She asked me to give this 8                   $3,000 to you."

9                   Moral of the story: Some things in life are certain: taxes, death and being screwed by an attorney.

10                  George Washington was married without a marriage license. Abraham Lincoln was married without a marriage license. So,
11                  how did we come to this place in America where marriage licenses are issued?

12                  Historically, all the states in America had laws outlawing the marriage of blacks and whites. In the mid-1800's, certain 13                  states began allowing interracial marriages or miscegenation as long as those marrying received a license from the state. In 14                  other words they had to receive permission to do an act which without such permission would have been illegal.

15                  Black's Law Dictionary points to this historical fact when it defines "marriage license" as:

16                                 "A license or permission granted by public authority to persons who intend to intermarry."

17                  "Intermarry" is defined in Black's Law Dictionary as:

18                                 "Miscegenation; mixed or interracial marriages."

19                  Give the State and the lawyer politicians an inch and they will take a 100 miles (or as one elderly woman once said to me
20                  "10,000 miles"). Not long after these licenses were issued, some states began requiring all people who marry to obtain a 21                  marriage license. In 1923, the Federal Government established the Uniform Marriage and Marriage License Act (they later 22                  established the Uniform Marriage and Divorce Act). By 1929, every state in the Union had adopted marriage license laws.

23                  It's quite clear that the reason for mandating marriage licenses was to: 1. Increase profits for family lawyers by increasing
24                  litigation as a result of divorce; 2. Increase the control of the state and the lawyers over your marriage, your assets, and
25                  your life. Have you ever considered that attorneys are admitted to practice by the politicians, and the laws the politicians
26                  write, after they pass the bar? Have you also considered that lawyers are simply government-recognized officers of the 27                  court, and that the court is part of the government, and that in most cases, judges are political appointees rather than elected
28                  officials? If the government wants control over your life and wants you to surrender your liberties, don't you think they'd
29                  want the lawyers to keep quiet about it and censure them for revealing where that power comes from? Couldn't that
30                  censure start by terrorizing them by threatening to take away their license to practice law if they reveal the truth or fight
31                  some new tax? If you want an example of how they terrorize lawyers who reveal the truth about the tax code, we 32                  recommend that you refer to item 232 in section 6.8 (the section entitled "Department of Justice Scandals Related to 33                  Income Taxes"). We have quotes there from the transcript of an actual Willful Failure to File trial where the judge
34                  threatened an attorney for wanting to discuss or reveal the contents of the tax code!

35                  Isn't government power (and the leverage lawyers have) really about stealing your money or putting it at risk (with taxes 36                  and high legal bills) and terrorizing and intimidating and manipulating you with your own ignorance? Doesn't that 37                  ignorance come from a public education system that the government is responsible for and wants to keep you enslaved to 38                  (by undermining and opposing school vouchers)? Aren't most politicians also lawyers? Over half of the members of both 39                  the Senate and the House of Representatives of the U.S. Congress are lawyers. Do you still trust lawyers?

40                                 Caveat emptor!

41                  Even worst yet, the President of the United States in the past has relied on referrals from the American Bar Association in 42                  the selection of Supreme Court and Federal District Court Judges. The goal of the American Bar Association is to 43                  maximize litigation and profits for lawyers, NOT to ensure truth is heard or justice is served! Do you still trust judges,

1 most of whom started out as lawyers? If you do then you ought to read section 6.9, which talks about “Judicial Conspiracy
2 to Protect the Income Tax: The Changing Definition of “Direct, Indirect, and Excise Taxes”. That section will really wake
3 you up.

4 ACCOUNTANTS AND TAX PREPARERS:

5 What about accountants? Most people need accountants so they can figure out business performance accurately so they
6 know how much tax they owe. That way they can avoid government penalties and litigation regarding income taxes, right?
7 If we didn’t owe taxes on income, then we wouldn’t have to figure out income, or at least we wouldn’t need accountants to
8 figure it out accurately, because we couldn’t be penalized for making a mistake by the IRS or the Franchise Tax Board of
9 our state. Once again, asking an accountant or tax preparer if you don’t need to pay taxes is like asking a barber if you
10 don’t need a haircut. Do you think they will commit professional suicide and say you don’t need their services? Do you
11 still trust accountants?

12 1.11.4 Why Doesn't the Media Blow the Whistle on This?

13 "Truth and news are not the same thing."
14 [Katharine Graham, owner of The Washington Post]

15 "When you control opinion, as corporate America controls opinion in the United States, by owning the media, 16 you can make the [many] believe almost anything you want, and you can guide them."
17 [The Golden Age, Gore Vidal]

18 *"Preach the Word; be prepared in season and out of season; correct, rebuke and encourage—with great
19 patience and careful instruction. For the time will come when men [in the legal profession or the judiciary]
20 will not put up with sound [legal] doctrine [such as that found in this book]. Instead, to suit their own
21 desires, they [our covetous public dis-servants] will gather around them a great number of teachers [court-
22 appointed “experts”, “licensed” government whores called attorneys and CPA’s, and educators in 23 government-run or subsidized public schools and liberal universities] to say what their itching ears want to 24 hear. They will turn their ears away from the truth and turn aside to [government and legal-profession]
25 myths. But you [the chosen of God and His servants must], keep your head in all situations, endure hardship,
26 do the work of an evangelist, discharge all the duties of your ministry."
27 [2 Tim. 4:2-5, Bible, NKJV]*

28 In 1953, John Swinton, the former Chief of Staff for the New York Times, was asked to give a toast to the independent
29 press before the New York Club. It is obvious that he believed that the concept of an “independent press” was a farce that 30 he no longer wished to be party to. Following is a quote from that monumentally revealing toast. Some of our members
31 have provided evidence about the credibility of this quote, so take it with a grain of salt:

32 *"There is no such thing, at this date of the world's history, in America, as an independent press. You know it
33 and I know it. There is not one of you who dares to write your honest opinions, and if you did, you know
34 beforehand that it would never appear in print. I am paid weekly for keeping my honest opinion out of the 35 paper. Others of you are paid similar salaries for similar things, and any of you who would be so foolish as to 36 write honest opinions would be out on the streets looking for another job. If I allowed my honest opinions to 37 appear in one issue of the paper, before twenty-four hours my occupation would be gone.*

38 The business of journalists is to destroy the truth; to lie outright; to pervert; to vilify; to fawn at the feet of 39 mammon, and to sell his country and his race for his daily bread. You know it and I know it.

40 *What folly is this, toasting to an independent press? We are the tools and vassal of rich men behind the scenes.
41 We are the jumping jacks; they pull the strings and we dance. Our talents, our possibilities and our lives are all 42 the property of other men. We are intellectual prostitutes."*

43 [John Swinton, Former Chief of Staff for the New York Times, 1953]

44 Why doesn't the media blow the whistle on this scam? Because the liberal media has no interest in reporting the truth on 45 the voluntary nature of the income tax, and on most other issues, for that matter. The media is infiltrated with liberals who 46 are promoting the following agendas: expansion of governmental powers, abortion rights, homosexuality, legalization of 47 drugs and prostitution, no restrictions on pornography on the Internet, getting prayer and morality out of the schools so
48 Satan can take over, and ever-expanding federal sponsorship of the liberal agenda and lifestyle. Taxes and government
49 advocacy are needed to promote their agendas that are financed by the federal government, so the media and liberals
50 naturally won't speak out against the socialist nature of income taxes. Also, since the media are regulated by the

1 government and influenced by the politicians who pass the laws to regulate them, they naturally will pander to the desires
2 of corrupt or amoral politicians in government over and above those of their reading or listening audience. The number one
3 cause or source of that corruption is the love of money unbridled by scruples or moral constraints.

4 1.11.5 Why Won't the IRS and the U.S. Congress Tell Us The Truth?

5 If you had someone fooled into thinking that they need to send 30% of their income to you every month with no obligation
6 on your part to do anything for that money, would you volunteer the truth to them by telling them they don't need to? If
7 they asked you the truth, would you respond with the complete and whole truth? "Why look a gift horse in the mouth?"
8 really applies here. Besides, look at all the chaos that people in government will try to convince you would happen if the 9 IRS and the U.S. Congress came clean:

- 10 1. The U.S. Congress would be on its knees begging the states for money as the founding fathers intended. This would be 11 in stark contrast to what they do now, which is twisting the arms of the states with grants of YOUR tax dollars to 12 further invade your rights. Exhibit A is the recent mandate from Congress that states won't receive welfare grants
13 unless they force everyone with a driver's license to give out their Social Security Number.
- 14 2. Several Internal Revenue Service officers would be prosecuted under the claims and laws listed in sections 5.6. These 15 would result in the agents being terminated for extortion, fraud, and racketeering. However, if they say nothing in 16 response to a Citizen's queries, they can't be prosecuted as part of this extortion "conspiracy" and can claim ignorance
17 or "plausible deniability", which by the way we can't legally use as an excuse to protect us from our ignorance of the 18 tax code.
- 19 3. There would be an avalanche of people and businesses leaving the system, and federal government revenues would dry
20 up quickly. They wouldn't be able to convince anyone to pay taxes if they found out it was just, in effect, a voluntary 21 "donation" to the federal government!
- 22 4. Millions of citizens who had income from only the 50 Union states would apply for a retroactive refund of their past
23 taxes overpaid. They could apply as far back as the statute of limitations would allow, thus increasing the financial 24 liability of the government at the time that it has no income tax revenues.
- 25 5. The federal government would not be able to pay the interest on the national debt, so it would have to beg the states for 26 a loan. If they didn't get the loan, they might have to default and their credit rating would be destroyed.
- 27 6. Creditors of the U.S. Government would call their loans once their loan payments stopped, and the government might 28 have to default at that point.
- 29 7. The states would stop getting their federal grants, because the Fed would run out of money.
- 30 8. A large part of the federal workforce would have to be let go, because the government couldn't afford to pay them.
31 That means the very IRS employees who are oppressing us now would have to be let go, and that would close the door
32 to any more coercion to pay "voluntary" taxes on the part of the IRS.
- 33 9. A lot more discipline would be required by the few remaining federal legislators to manage a very tight budget. The 34 deficit spending would have to stop immediately and they would finally HAVE to balance the budget because their 35 credit would be so bad that they couldn't borrow any more money! YEAH!
- 36 10. Federal employees would take a pay cut and cost of living increases would have to be eliminated.
- 37 11. Social security retirees would see their benefits reduced or eliminated entirely.
- 38 12. The military would need to be scaled back to a level the Fed could afford.
- 39 13. There would be chaos and civil unrest because economic circumstances would be changed considerably.

40 With change and chaos on this grand a scale caused by a massive reduction in federal revenues, there are some very good
41 reasons NOT to tell the truth!

42 The stability of our whole country and most of the economic and 43 political power of Congress rests on not telling the truth and concealing
44 the truth!

45 The above is the kind of propaganda you are likely to hear from judges and the IRS in a tax trial. However, this is NOT the 46 whole story or even the most important part of the story. As you will learn subsequently in section 1.12, the federal 47 government's revenues would only go down 41% if Subtitle A (personal) income tax were ended, and the states could pick 48 up the bill for the difference under the apportionment provisions in the federal constitution. No big deal. It turns out that
49 the judges and the IRS who will use the above Fear, Uncertainty, and Doubt (FUD) propaganda have never taken the time

1 to determine as we have in section 1.12 that the core functions of our federal government, including the military, courts,
 2 and jails, can function quite adequately and in the black without income taxes. As a matter of fact, if our spendaholic
 3 federal government hadn't tried to spend us into a hole by chronically going into debt, we would have a massive surplus!
 4 The problem is not income for our federal government. The problem is the inability of our Congress to control its
 5 spending. The problem is not Americans wanting to pay their fair share...the problem is a federal government that wants
 6 more than its fair share! Do you think we would have a more accountable and frugal and wise federal government if it had
 7 to beg the states for money?...absolutely! Do you think federal judges, prosecutors, and IRS agents want to be more
 8 accountable to the public they serve? NO!! That's why they will tell you these kinds of lies..... so they can coast along on 9 their extorted and fat government paycheck arrogantly impervious to the will of the people they serve as "public servants".

10 At this point, some of you might be saying:

11 "If it would hurt our society that badly to tell the truth to people that income taxes are completely voluntary,
 12 then why don't we make it a legal obligation to pay taxes by modifying the constitution?"

13 Our answer to that is that most of the pain caused by losing income tax revenues would come because of the chronic federal 14 deficit spending we have seen and the very large national debt that has accumulated over the years because of it. The 15 majority of this debt comes from entitlement programs like Social Security and Welfare. Most of the hurt would happen
 16 because not paying interest on the national debt to the Federal Reserve would damage our credit rating so badly that we
 17 would have to stop borrowing to pay general revenues every year as we have for decades. This deficit spending funded by 18 borrowing from the Federal Reserve is like a heroin fix our government has become addicted to and can no longer function
 19 without. Once they have to go off the drug, then the pain will be severe, but in the long run, it would be good for the 20 country. Thomas Jefferson, our founding father who wrote the Declaration of Independence even said so:

21 "The maxim of buying nothing without the money in our pockets to pay for it would make of our country one of 22 the happiest on earth."

23 [Thomas Jefferson to Alexander Donald, 1787. ME 6:192 ]

24 "I own it to be my opinion, that good will arise from the destruction of our credit. I see nothing else which can
 25 restrain our disposition to luxury, and to the change of those manners which alone can preserve republican
 26 government. As it is impossible to prevent credit, the best way would be to cure its ill effects by giving an
 27 instantaneous recovery to the creditor. This would be reducing purchases on credit to purchases for ready
 28 money. A man would then see a prison painted on everything he wished, but had not ready money to pay for."

29 [Thomas Jefferson to Archibald Stuart, 1786. ME 5:259 ]

30 If we changed the law by adding a liability statute to mandate paying federal income taxes, then no matter how much
 31 money we give the U.S. Congress and the President, it will never be enough because they will always figure out a way to 32 spend more than we give them. As we said in section 2.5.5 on Debt, having this specter of perpetual national debt over our 33 head is a political and rhetorical vehicle that our representatives will use to convince us that we should continue
 34 "volunteering" to be slaves to the government by paying our income taxes and thereby pay off that national debt. The 35 bondage will be perpetual. The only way we should therefore accept mandated federal income taxes is if all of the 36 following criteria are met:

- 37 1. There are no government entitlement programs like Welfare, Social Security, or Medicare. Churches and families take 38 responsibility for caring for the sick, the homeless, and the elderly.
- 39 2. There is a national balanced budget amendment added to the U.S. Constitution forcing congress to never borrow to 40 meet its obligations during any year.
- 41 3. A 3/4 majority in both houses of Congress is required plus a national referendum by voters to raise taxes or add new 42 taxes, but only a simple majority and no vote by citizens to lower them.
- 43 4. Taxes cannot increase by more than the rate of inflation and population growth.
- 44 5. National referendums are permitted allowing voters to approve a bill to lower their taxes over the objections of 45 congress, if they think taxes are too high.
- 46 6. Voting laws should be changed to disqualify any voter's vote from counting for any specific issue if they benefit
 47 personally from that vote. For instance, if a person is voting in favor of social security benefit increase on a national 48 referendum, they cannot be retired and receiving those benefits. This will prevent mobocracy from causing the 49 referendum process to turn our government into a Robinhood mechanism to rob from the rich and give to the poor.
 50 The ultimate end of not doing this will be socialism.

1 We would also like to point out that the fact that the Congress has mismanaged our country financially by chronic deficit
2 spending and lack of budget discipline, and that they have done it against the will of the people. The vast majority of
3 Americans for quite some time didn't approve of national deficit spending, and yet the Congress has continued to do it over
4 their objections. This has been the impetus behind the Balanced Budget Amendment, which was a grass roots effort that
5 has so far not passed, even though many states at the state level have similar amendments. There is no reason why we
6 shouldn't feel a little collective pain eventually by eliminating individual income taxes as the law requires. There is no
7 reason we shouldn't suffer for indifferently allowing our elected representatives to be so irresponsible about the best long-
8 term financial interests of this country as they borrowed us into a deep hole. Perhaps feeling some pain would help people
9 focus on where the problem is and getting it fixed! Feeling the pain as our country goes off the addictive "heroin drug" of 10 deficit spending might result in a balanced budget amendment and a permanent end to deficit spending because of the 11 public outrage and consternation that would result. It would be good for us all. Why shouldn't our federal government
12 have to do the same thing every other Citizen does in this country by balancing their budget in paying off their monthly
13 bills and not going into debt to pay those regular bills?

14 1.11.6 But how will government function if we don't pay?

15 The Constitution, in articles 1:2:3 and 1:9:4, empowers Congress to tax states through apportionment. Each state is 16 supposed to pay their fair share based on population, and the tax must be a fixed assessment on a per capita basis.
17 Apportioned direct taxes always have been the ONLY types of direct taxes authorized under the U.S. Constitution.
18 Congress has always had the power to raise revenues by sending a bill to the states under this apportionment. As a matter
19 of fact, the concept of apportionment is behind why we do a census every ten years: to calculate the number of people
20 living in each state so that each state knows what their share of the national apportionment tax is supposed to be, and to
21 determine the number of representatives for each state in the House of Representatives. However, Congress has only
22 exercised this authority to institute direct apportioned taxes on the states once in the past. Before the income tax, the 23 federal government obtained most of its revenues from tariffs. Income taxes only became commonplace in the early 1900's
24 after the passage of the 16th Amendment.

25 A federal government which can fabricate currency out of thin air (a.k.a. "monetary policy") and tax imports and income of 26 businesses related to foreign commerce (tariffs) therefore doesn't need direct taxation of citizens to pay its bills. Of course,
27 if the government printed too much money, then the result would be run-away inflation, but the general outcome is the 28 same. Whether you lose 30% of your currency through taxation, or your currency loses 30% of its value through inflation,
29 your buying power is similarly affected (of course, there are other ramifications of the two approaches).

30 With these points made clear, the question of how the government will function without income taxes is irrelevant to the 31 point of this document. The question is basically a complaint against spreading the truth, and having the people stop paying 32 for this fraud. If someone doesn't like that option, what other alternatives are there? The only other alternative is to choose
33 to be ignorant, choose to be defrauded, and choose to reward those who have perpetrated the biggest scam and extortion
34 racket in history. Of course, those who ask the question won't come right out and suggest that, but that's precisely what the 35 question implies. Congress did not impose a tax on my income, but instead created an elaborate scheme to defraud me of 36 my money. If someone objects to my refusal to pay, they must advocate that I go along with, and fund this fraud. That's the 37 only other choice.

38 For all the talk of a national sales tax, a value-added tax, a flat income tax, etc., none of them are even constitutional, for the 39 same reason Congress couldn't impose the income tax most people think exists now. Congress had to commit massive 40 fraud to get where they are now. Some seem eager to forgive and/or ignore that fraud, ignore the Constitution, or do
41 anything else they can to preserve the massive centralized government that now exists.

42 "Give me a massive government or give me death!"

43 Is that what we're advocating here, because I certainly hope not? I don't intend to stop spreading the truth based on the 44 complaints of the liberal pro-fraud lobby. Sorry. If you can't handle living in a country that has a federal government
45 strictly limited by a constitution, there are many totalitarian countries around the world where you don't have to put up with 46 that and would feel quite at home. Ironically, we are a country of refugees who came to America to escape precisely that 47 kind of political climate, so why don't you go back to where you came from if you don't like it!

48 1.11.7 What kind of benefits could the government provide WITHOUT taxes?

1                   "If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretense of taking care of 2                   them, they must become happy."
 3                   [Thomas Jefferson]

4 The statement below is an actual (funny) email from one of our readers, who clearly was rather perturbed by this book:

5                   You (the person behind this website) are such a bonehead! What kind benefits could the government provide
 6                   without taxes? I will admit that we may be over-taxed, but if nobody ever paid any taxes, we would not have a
 7                   government to SERVE US at all.

8                   Why don't you try to find something more productive to do with your time.

9                   Get real, Get a life.

10                  Daniel Williams

11 The comment above is based on the following false premises and assumptions:

- 12 1. We should get or are entitled to government "benefits". We pointed out in the preface of this book that this attitude is 13 one of the biggest enemies of republican government. People like Daniel who demand such benefits are part of the 14 problem and not part of the solution:

15                   We have met the enemy, and he is us!

16 These people, as we pointed out in the preface, want to compel their brother to be their caretakers, and that's socialism
 17 in action. It makes no difference that it was done by majority vote or democracy or in grandiose pursuit of the 18 perceived "public good", it's still un-American and socialistic and the antithesis of liberty and freedom.

- 19 2. Government benefits are indispensable. Such benefits are only indispensable for people who don't have a life and are 20 so afraid they won't be able to make it in the real world that they have been deceived into thinking that they need a big 21 government safety net to take care of them.
- 22 3. The government would receive no tax money without income taxes. Oh really? Our federal government survived 23 quite well on imposts, excises, and tariffs on foreign imports from 1776 all the way up to 1913 and never ran up
 24 significant debt. If our government wasn't so big and bloated and wasteful, it could continue to fund its programs
 25 entirely from such taxes and without the aid of personal income taxes. And if it couldn't, then apportionment is always 26 a constitutional option, but the congress would have to justify and defend their expenditures because the states would 27 be footing the bill and they would want to ensure that their tax dollars were efficiently and wisely spent. Why
 28 shouldn't our federal government be accountable directly to the state governments in such a way? Is it beneath the 29 pride of most U.S. Congressmen (the majority of which are anti-authoritarian lawyers) to grovel in their district or their 30 state for their share of apportioned funds?
- 31 4. The government effectively SERVES us with the money we pay it. We would argue that we could do a much better
 32 job providing social security, Medicare, etc. within the family and church unit than the government could ever do, if 33 the government wouldn't force everyone to participate in such ineffective programs that will soon be bankrupt.

34 The more government benefits we demand, the more taxes that must be forcibly collected from people to pay for those 35 benefits. The problem is not so much that people want government benefits. The problem is that:

- 36 1. People who want government benefits don't have to reimburse the government eventually for ALL of the benefits
 37 they draw in full, plus interest. If they don't reimburse the government, then the government becomes a
 38 Robinhood that essentially abuses its power to plunder the rich to subsidize the poor. Thomas Jefferson described 39 this evil best when he said:

40                   "It is incumbent on every generation to pay its own debts as it goes. A principle which if acted on would save
 41                   one-half the wars of the world."
 42                   [Thomas Jefferson to A. L. C. Destutt de Tracy, 1820. FE 10:175 ]

43                   "Funding I consider as limited, rightfully, to a redemption of the debt within the lives of a majority of the
 44                   generation contracting it; every generation coming equally, by the laws of the Creator of the world, to the free
 45                   possession of the earth He made for their subsistence, unencumbered by their predecessors, who, like them,
 46                   were but tenants for life."
 47                   [Thomas Jefferson to John Taylor, 1816. ME 15:18 ]

1 How come our income taxes aren't proportional to the amount of federal debt accumulated during our lifetime, so
 2 that the debt will statistically be paid off before we die? Who wants to pay off their parents debts after they die,
 3 and wouldn't that amount to peonage? We don't want to hand our children a big mountain of debt as their
 4 inheritance, do we? Wouldn't that be thievery? Don't most Americans want to hand their children a world that is
 5 better off than the one they started with and isn't that the best way to express our love for our own children? It is
 6 according to Thomas Jefferson:

7 "I sincerely believe... that banking establishments are more dangerous than standing armies, and that the
 8 principle of spending money to be paid by posterity under the name of funding is but swindling futurity on a
 9 large scale."
 10 [Thomas Jefferson to John Taylor, 1816. ME 15:23 ]

- 11 2. People who DON'T want government benefits can be forced by the government to subsidize other people who do!
 12 If ultimate sovereignty resides with the people and the government derives its powers from the consent of the 13 governed according to the Declaration of Independence, then why should the government be able to compel its 14 citizens to subsidize inefficient, wasteful, and socialist pursuits that impair their liberties? Why should 15 government be able to compel citizens to receive and pay for benefits they don't want? Is that freedom? It sounds
 16 like "involuntary servitude", which clearly violates the 13th Amendment to the Constitution.

17 People such as Daniel (and there are many socialists like him) ought to be compelled to pay 80% of their income to the 18 government in taxes and get 1/3 of the money they paid back in benefits from their wasteful government. But the rest of us
 19 sane people who are convinced we can do a better job taking care of ourselves and our families than the inefficient
 20 government ever could ought to have the freedom and the liberty to do that without subsidizing such madness or being
 21 labeled as politically incorrect radicals. Isn't complete control over one's property (income and belongings and labor) and 22 complete and personal responsibility for our own self the essence of freedom and liberty? George Washington said it best,
 23 when he warned about the chief danger of big government:

24 "Government is not reason; it is not eloquence; it is force! Like fire, it is a dangerous servant and a fearful 25 master."
 26 [George Washington]

27 Why can't the government operate more like a business and eliminate the need to use force or legal trickery to compel
 28 people? Why can't the government just send a bill to the people who want the benefits and pay only these people according 29 to what they put in, without forcing them to continue participating when they want to stop receiving benefits? That's a fine
 30 capitalist business model. If capitalism works so well in the private sector, how come we can't use it in the public sector
 31 within the confines of our own government? Visit the Social Security Administration and tell them you want to stop
 32 contributing and would be perfectly happy to collect benefits only based on what you put in up to this time. They will
 33 laugh you out of the office! Is that freedom and respect for people's property rights, or is that tyranny and economic 34 slavery disguised as government benevolence? Are we trying to prop up a giant Ponzi Robinhood scheme like Social 35 Security to delay its inevitable collapse by forcing people who are younger to stay imprisoned in such an ineffective 36 program?

37 Have you ever had the feeling that the income tax has become a political vehicle for class warfare, where the poor use the 38 power of the government to plunder the rich and thereby obtain unearned benefits? This is exactly the evil that the U.S.
 39 Supreme Court warned us of way back in 1895, when the U.S. government attempted for the first time to institute direct 40 taxes on individuals and declared them unconstitutional:

41 "Here I close my opinion. I could not say less in view of questions of such gravity that they go down to the very 42 foundations of the government. If the provisions of the Constitution can be set aside by an act of Congress,
 43 where is the course of usurpation to end?

44 The present assault upon capital is but the beginning. It will be but the stepping stone to others larger and
 45 more sweeping, until our political contest will become war of the poor against the rich; a war of growing 46 intensity and bitterness."
 47 [Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 158 U.S. 601 (1895)]

48 If you want to know more about this kind of class warfare facilitated by the abuse of government power, we recommend 49 that you read The Law, by Frederic Bastiat, which we have on our website at:

<http://famguardian.org/Publications/TheLaw/TheLaw.htm>.

Finally, here was my response to that email:

Daniel,

I'm guessing that you are a beneficiary of the largess produced by income taxes illegally collected by the IRS. Why look a gift horse in the mouth? Why question your chief benefactor?

You completely missed the entire point of the book. In the words of the Supreme Court found in section 2.11 of the book:

*"Our government is the potent, the omnipresent teacher. For good or for ill, it teaches the whole people by its example. Crime is contagious. If the government becomes a lawbreaker, it breeds contempt for the law; it invites every man to become a law unto himself; it invites anarchy. To declare that in the administration of the criminal law the end justifies the means...would bring terrible retribution. Against that pernicious doctrine this Court should resolutely set its face." Justice Brandeis, Olmstead v. United States, 277 U.S. 438, 485 (1928)*

The government is breaking the law by imposing personal income taxes unlawfully. There is no reason why they shouldn't follow the law like the rest of us and only impose constitutional taxes, which currently only include imposts, duties, and excises imposed on foreign trade. If they did this, government would be much smaller and there would be more room for personal liberty.

"Government big enough to supply everything you need is big enough to take everything you have. The course of history shows that as a government grows, liberty decreases." Thomas Jefferson

If you like big government, why don't you find a socialist country to live in like England or France, where guns are illegal and citizens are economic slaves and wards of the state.

God Bless You,

1.11.8 I Believe You But I'm Too Afraid to Confront the IRS

By: Devvy Kidd

June 6, 1999

As news of the IRS Showdown at the National Press Club in July 2000 spread across America, now comes the "I'm too afraid" brigade. These are the people who have already contacted me with: "Everything you're saying Devvy is true. I've known it for years but I'm too afraid not to voluntarily file my income tax returns." "You're right Devvy. Millions of us know that we're being forced against our will, in an unlawful manner sanctioned by the U.S. Congress, to file tax returns when there is no law that compels us to do it. But, I'm too afraid. If I don't file, they will take my house and my bank accounts."

This is what I have to say to those of you who are "too afraid":

Don't confuse fear with cowardice.

Do you think that the men who stood their ground at Lexington & Concord, April 19, 1775 didn't experience fear? Of course they did. But, they didn't let their fear rule them and yes, they knew they would probably die, not just give up four walls and a few pieces of paper.

Do you think the 558,000+ men who served in Viet Nam weren't afraid in the jungles of Viet Nam or our fighting forces at Guadacanal, in Italy, Guam, during WWI, Korea or any of the other unholy wars the bankers have orchestrated? Of course they were. But, they didn't let their fear rule them and yes, hundreds of thousands have died on the battlefields around this globe - to keep America free. To keep you free.

Do you think that Bill Benson, former Congressman George Hansen, John Voss, and tens and tens of thousands of other Americans who broke no law, had this corrupt government come after them, destroy their families and their lives and throw

1 them in jail - do you think they felt no fear? Of course they did. But, being men of conviction, honor and integrity, they had
2 to do what was right. As men who value truth and freedom above lies, deceit and corruption, they knew the price they
3 would have to pay and they did.

4 Do you think that Patrick Henry wasn't afraid deep down inside the pit of his gut when he gave his "Give Me Liberty or
5 Give Me Death" speech on March 23, 1775? It would have been easier for Henry and the others to just get on their knees
6 and settle for the scraps from the table of King George III. But, they couldn't do that - the fire in their belly which burned
7 for freedom was stronger than their fear.

8 Do you think that firemen and policemen don't feel that clawing, terrible, tangible fear moving up their belly when they are 9 called upon to fight a fire or stop criminals or rescue someone? What would happen if they allowed that fear to turn to 10 cowardice and simply walked away?

11 What if everyone who ever felt fear, simply took the easy way out? What if everyone who ever felt fear, just gave up and
12 said, "I can live on my knees. At least I will be alive and comfortable." That reminds me of the movie, The Magnificent 13 Seven. After Eli Wallach, the bad bandito, comes in and shoots up the village and kills one of the peons, the village men
14 stand around looking at each other. One man sheepishly and in a cowardly fashion says, "It's not so bad. They do leave us a 15 little to eat."

16 Is that what we've reduced our great society down to? So what if the government is raining tyranny against her people? As 17 long as we are left a few crumbs, we should get on our knees and accept it - we the people of the once great and mighty
18 United States of America? This is cowardice.

19 What is it you are protecting? The continued destruction of our natural born rights? Our guns are the last thing between 20 us and them and anyone who doubts that lives in a state of blind stupidity. We know that all these gun laws are 21 unconstitutional, yet it will continue until the shadow government finally reaches the point where they have orchestrated a
22 situation in this country where full confiscation will take place. Without our guns, we will be toast. Deep in your heart, you
23 know this.

24 Their ability to buy politicians and special interest groups comes from money. Their ability to enslave us, keep us working
25 two and three jobs just to make ends meet, their ability to instill fear in US through all these draconian federal junk laws -
26 it all comes from money. The continuation of this assault on our freedom will mushroom unchecked because it is being 27 protected by your fear.

28 How about this continued hoax called "fair and equal elections?" The continued dumbing down of our children in the 29 government's cesspool system called schools? The continued destruction of our national security and espionage at the 30 highest levels of this government - in exchange for what? Higher returns on mutual funds? The continued killing of 31 Americans by this government, i.e. Ruby Ridge, Waco, OKC - with no one held accountable because it is being protected 32 by your fear.

33 How do you feel about this war in Kosovo? Where do you think the money for this comes from? That's right. Since there
34 isn't any, Congress will just continue borrowing from this unconstitutional private banking/accounting firm called the 35 "FED," and you will continue groping on your knees to keep paying the IRS to pay them. Is this what you're protecting 36 with your fear?

37 How do you feel about the billions being thrown to the IMF, then outright given to the Ruskies and select individuals over
38 there in Moscow who have stolen billions and put it into Swiss bank accounts? We know this to be true from the 39 outstanding, intense and thorough research done by dedicated journalists. Is this what you want to keep protecting with 40 your fear? It will not stop until this unholy alliance, the IRS/FED swindle is shut down.

41 How do you feel about multi-millions upon millions of dollars thrown into that unconstitutional sewer called the National 42 Endowment for the Arts? How about the billions and billions being given to the non-productive in this country? To non-
43 citizens who have no constitutional right to anything - how about those billions? How about all the money being thrown 44 at 20,000 refugees made homeless by this adulterous liar in the White House? There isn't a scintilla of constitutional
45 authority for any of this. Think it will stop? Not a chance, not until we pull the plug on the money machine. Remember the 46 words of Davy Crockett. We are either going to be a society of laws or we will continue to see certain groups receive the largess of the population because the lawmakers now make up the rules as they go to suit their agenda. If you let your fear take over, this is what you will continue to protect.

How do you feel about the destruction of our military? Our military, who while on active duty, are forced onto food stamps? Oh, you didn't know that? Well, let me tell you that I could fill your ears about what goes on in the military and not just from the time when I worked for DoD. It makes me sick but your fear will protect these destructive policies coming out of Washington, DC because it all starts with the money.

What is it you are protecting with your fear? That weekend on the fishing boat? The environmental wackos carrying out the agenda of the one-worlders who are destroying every precious tenet this country was built upon and our God-given right to private property ownership? The television night after night, filled with mindless drivel? This Saturday on the golf course? Do you know or understand that once this "one world government" is fully in place and functional, these pursuits of yours will be dictated by a Gestapo-style "international" police force that will even regulate your thought process? Is this what you're protecting with your fear?

What is it you are protecting with your fear? The pursuit of life, liberty and happiness? Where, I ask you? When you are so afraid of your own government that you cower at the mere thought of, not even taking up arms, but following the law and standing up to a corrupt body of lawbreakers? Just what is this so-called "pursuit of life, liberty and happiness"? I used to know before I found out the truth about this agenda of the one-worlders and people like Bill & Hill Clinton, the Rockefeller's, the Rothschild's, the C.F.R. and the corrupt 50 state legislatures full of politicians whose political ideology is Fascism/Socialism.

You say you are protecting everything you've ever worked for? Yes, I understand this. From a security/monetary standpoint, John and I have a lot to lose. You say you are protecting the roof over your head, your car, your savings account. Yes, I understand this. But, you understand this: Anyone who thinks 1929 was some sort of financial anomaly and it can't happen again, hasn't done their homework. The "crash" in 1929 was very carefully orchestrated and it was done to set the stage for implementing "The New Deal"- America's first gigantic step towards Nazism. This fiat money system, fed from the sweat off your back, is nothing more than a house of cards waiting for a good puff of wind to come along. We can never be free until we are free of this destructive IRS/FED mechanism. Period...

Let's not forget the policies of The Masters of the Game who own our State Department - that rotten, corrupt cabinet conducting and fulfilling the wishes of the one-worlders, while America hangs glued to MTV's daily porn, sports or shopping at the mall. Just look at the destruction already rained down by that fool, Madeleine Half-Bright. But, the bankers love it. Know why? Because talk is already underway about the billions you and I will sweat to hand over to Kosovo to "rebuild" what we have destroyed. Who will profit the most? That's right - the banker barons via you and me - funneled through the IMF.

We know that the law says having a social security number is voluntary. Yet, the states of the Union now force it's citizenry to volunteer into a federal program or be denied a driver's license. And, what have the citizens of those states done about this? Not a damn thing. They just continue to give up their rights incrementally either "for the children" or because they're too lazy to stand up for their own privacy rights. They allow these corrupt judges to sit on the state benches without getting out and either recalling them or making sure they don't get reelected. That appears to be too much trouble. When one of these leftist judges hallucinates a decision, it's much easier just to call talk radio and complain.

We know that it is the social security number that is used to trick people into voluntarily filing W-4 Voluntary Withholding Certificates and that's how the IRS keeps track of your earnings so they can unlawfully apply Title 26 against you and literally steal what does not belong to them. Is this what your fear is protecting? It must be because if we don't stop it, no one will. It won't come from Congress, their cowardice in standing up to the bankers is so palatable you can almost reach out and touch it. Not to mention the fact that most of them are so factually challenged and mentally shallow, they don't have a clue as to what Title 26, Title 42 or any other law says. The concern for these 534 people back there in Babylon by the Potomac is "reelection." If you haven't figured that out by now, you are willfully accepting lies.

If you're going to be one of the "I'm too afraid" brigade, quit calling talk radio and complaining. Quit attending "patriot" meetings or political meetings where you spend an hour or two venting your spleen and then go on home feeling much better because you have told everyone how you feel and how you're so "sick and tired of all this government corruption." The truth be told, though, that appears to be all you're willing to do - eat, meet and retreat. I guess that's how you will get by looking in the mirror every morning - you called talk radio, you attended a town hall meeting, you practiced cosmetic

1 patriotism last Sunday at the ballpark when you stood up and sang the National Anthem. But in the end, you're too afraid
2 to do the one thing that must be done to begin curing the cancer instead of just continuing to treat the symptoms.

3 Do you know that the corrupt, shadow government running this country must be smiling like the cat that licked the cream?
4 Why? Because, America, if you show them that you're too afraid to follow the law and that you have given up without a
5 whimper - they know they have already won.

6 They will continue plundering our country and sending you or your sons to some foreign country to die over a 600-year old
7 religious fight because you're too afraid to stand up and do what has to be done and now they know it. We can win
8 but it will take every man and woman in this country to put their fear aside and stand up for what's right and follow the law.

9 Remember the words of Abraham Lincoln when he said: "To sin by silence when they should protest makes cowards of 10 men." Your protest against this tyranny is not guns, but following the law.

11 It is said the eyes are the mirror to the soul. The next time you look in the mirror, look into your eyes and ask yourself if 12 you can live with fear and wonder how long before you fear a knock on the door in the middle of the night by some 13 international police force? Think it can't or won't happen here in the good old US of A? Well, by God, it is happening and 14 the agenda will be accelerated once the corrupters know America's people will not stand up to tyranny.

15 This is how we reward all of our brave and courageous veterans, our Founding Fathers and the millions who have fought
16 for us to remain free? We trash their sacrifices because we have become a country who values material goods over freedom
17 and because we allowed fear to manifest itself in cowardice? This is how we will bow to bondage because when push
18 comes to shove, the People rolled over instead of stood our ground by following the law? Personally, I weep just thinking
19 of this shame. Today I heard Taps being played and it sent chills up my spine. Today is good times, guzzling beer and 20 tomorrow is another day off work. Do you remember the last time you heard Taps? Did it not touch your soul and make 21 you yearn to protect our Children's birthright by doing as those before us - stand up against tyranny?

22 Let me again use the words of a man who must have known great fear in his time because his skin was black:

23 "Power concedes nothing without a demand. It never did, and it never will. Find out just what the people will
24 submit to and you have found out the exact amount of injustice and wrong which will be imposed upon them;
25 and these will continue till they have resisted with either words or blows, or by both. The limits of tyrants are 26 prescribed by the endurance of those whom they suppress."
27 [Frederick Douglass, 1849]

28 I guess I see what my country is willing to submit to: Let the plunder and destruction of our God- given rights go on - after 29 all, they are leaving you a little to eat and a comfortable illusion of freedom. At least for a while.

30 You may be able to look in the mirror and live with what you see, but I cannot. I cannot because I would rather die than 31 appear a coward in the eyes of Almighty God. I cannot because I would rather die than appear a coward in the eyes of my 32 daughter, my family and my country...

33 But the rest of you in the "I'm too afraid" brigade: Do you expect just a percentage of this population to protect your rights?
34 Do you think it's your due that because you're afraid, then me, Larry Becraft, Bill Benson, Steffen Bertsch and millions of 35 others should take your place and stand up for your freedom because you have confused fear with cowardice? Better think 36 again - it's everyone's responsibility.

37 1.11.9 The Views Expressed in This Book are Overly Dogmatic or Extreme

38 Some of our readers after viewing our book or our website state something like the following:

39 "The views expressed in your The Great IRS Hoax book and on your website seem overly dogmatic. Some 40 people, and especially those from the government, might try to use this characteristic about your writings to 41 describe you as an extremist. What do you have to say to them about this?"

42 The fact of the matter is that the Truth does tend to appear dogmatic no matter what field you are in. Jesus Himself
43 acknowledged this fact when he stated the following in Matt. 10:34-38:

1                   “Do not think that I came to bring peace on earth. I did not come to bring peace but a sword. For I have come
 2 to set a man against his father, a daughter against her mother, and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-
 3 law; and a man’s enemies will be those of his own household. He who loves father or mother more than Me is
 4 not worthy of Me. And he who loves son or daughter more than Me is not worthy of Me. And he who does not
 5 take his cross and follow after Me is not worthy of Me.”
 6 [Matt. 10:34-38, Bible, NKJV]

7 What I believe Jesus was referring to in the passage above was Truth, because in another passage He said:

8                   “I am the way, the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through Me.”
 9 [John 14:6, NKJV]

10 Truth has a natural tendency to divide and polarize people just like Jesus did, because both Truth and Jesus were 11 synonymous. The reason for this is that when we claim that something is true, any contrary or conflicting opinion
 12 expressed by anyone else must by implication be false or wrong.

13                   “Remember the word that I said to you , ‘A servant is not greater than his master.’ If they persecuted Me, they
 14 will also persecute you. If they kept My word, they will keep yours also. But all these things they will do to you
 15 for My name’s sake, because they do not know Him who sent Me.

16                   If I had not come and spoken to them, they would have no sin, but now they have no excuse for their sin. He*
 17 who hates Me hates My Father also. If I had not done among them the works which no one else did, they would
 18 have no sin; but now they have seen and also hated both Me and My Father. But this happened that the word
 19 might be fulfilled which is written in their law, ‘They hated Me without a cause.’”
 20 [John 15:20-21, Bible, NKJV]

21 Most people do not enjoy being accused of making false or wrong statements (which are both sins) and therefore may react
 22 strongly to our true claims or statements, just like people from the government especially reacted strongly to what Jesus
 23 said.

24 In most cases, the reason people will confront and criticize those who claim to be making true statements is that they have a
 25 personal and often financial stake in the outcome which qualifies them to be described as having a conflict of interest and to
 26 be judging “unrighteously”. Persons who have such a conflict of interest cannot judge righteously and will often feel guilty
 27 enough about this conflict to be reluctant to admit or identify the extent of their personal interest because this could then be
 28 used as a means to discredit their comments. Consequently, they will try to conceal the extent of the personal or financial 29 involvement in the issues under discussion. When you hear anyone criticizing our work for being dogmatic, you might 30 want to ask them the following simple questions. If they either refuse to answer or answer any of the questions in the 31 affirmative, then their comments or opinions should be discounted and not be taken seriously because of an obvious
 32 conflict of interest:

- 33 1. Would you gain financially or personally, either directly or indirectly, if The Great IRS Hoax book or the Family
 34 Guardian Website were discredited? (circle one) Yes No
- 35 2. Are you a federal government employee whose pay derives from income taxes? (Circle one) Yes No
- 36 3. Has my employer threatened disciplinary action or demotion if I advocated or agreed with or acted upon any of the 37 views expressed in The Great IRS Hoax book or on the Family Guardian Website? (circle one) Yes No
- 38 4. Have lenders threatened to withdraw credit already extended to you if you advocated or agreed with or acted upon any 39 of the views expressed in The Great IRS Hoax book or on the Family Guardian Website? (circle one) Yes No

41                   *“The worst form of inequality is to try to make unequal things equal.” *

43 This section is devoted to a thorough analysis of what would happen to this country financially if people followed the 44 recommendations in this book and stopped paying income taxes. It shows current federal receipts and outlays, analyzes
 45 trends over time, and projects into the future the longer term-affects. You can download an editable copy of the table below

ANALYSIS OF FINANCIAL IMPACT OF ENDING FEDERAL INCOME TAXES

By: Family Guardian Fellowship

<http://famguardian.org/>

Assumptions:

1. Federal personal, estate, and gift taxes ended.
2. Medicare, Medicaid ended and families and churches take responsibility for care of older Americans like it used to be.
3. Social security and disability insurance participation is made voluntary and people can stop contributing at any time and collect income based both on their contributions to date and what government can afford to pay them.
4. Social security benefits may need to be reduced in order to balance federal budget.
5. There are other ways to balance the budget after eliminating personal income taxes and we don't advocate any one specific approach. The above assumptions are only one specific example of how to balance the federal budget after the change.

11. Percent of personal income spent on state and federal taxes
12. Value includes adjustment for inflation rate by projecting average inflation rate into future.

From the above facts and analysis, we can draw the following conclusions about what would happen if Subtitle A federal income taxes were ended and the IRS were forced to comply with existing law by admitting that the income tax is entirely voluntary:

1. Ending the federal income tax would decrease net federal revenues by only 41% and an amount of $716 billion.
2. A reduction of 41% in federal revenues could be made up for by:
  - 2.1. An apportioned direct tax against each state based on population as permitted by the U.S. Constitution in Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 and Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4.
  - 2.2. A large cut in federal spending.
3. If the federal government was more accountable to the states for its income because of the requirement for apportionment, it would be:
  - 3.1. Less likely to be tyrannical with state's rights or jerk around the states with such things as acts that require states to collect Social Security Numbers from persons who are getting their driver's license.
  - 3.2. More likely to limit its own spending and to avoid deficit spending, because it would have fewer ways to raise significantly more revenue.
4. Since liability for most state income taxes is contingent on payment of federal income taxes, then state income tax liability would be eliminated also.
5. Affects on the Federal Reserve:
  - 5.1. The Federal Reserve, which is a PRIVATE corporation, would lose significant control over most banks worldwide, because:
    - 5.1.1. Congress could no longer afford to borrow as much money because their revenues would be reduced by 41%.
    - 5.1.2. Without income tax liabilities, most banks could no longer demand social security numbers to comply with tax code so you wouldn't have to provide it.
  - 5.2. The federal government would have to curtail the use of monetary policy through the Federal Reserve because it could not afford to monkey with the economy by using debt to counter adverse business cycles. This country's Keynesian economics would then fall out of favor because the public debt needed to perpetuate it could no longer exist.
6. There would be a significant change in the job market:
  - 6.1. IRS staffing could be shrunk by probably 50%, because 50 percent of its revenues come from personal income taxes.
  - 6.2. Tax preparers would need to find another line of work, since they would have nothing they could charge for.
  - 6.3. Probably half of the lawyers in the country would need to find a decent and honorable line of work finally. We wouldn't need probate attorneys, living trusts to escape taxes, tax shelters, or offshore bank accounts or investments.
  - 6.4. There would be massive cuts in the accounting field, since it would suddenly be much simpler to comply with all the laws and regulations regarding taxes.
  - 6.5. Companies would probably be able to lay off 2/3 of their payroll people, because this job function would get much simpler without the need to deduct taxes.
7. There would be far less reason for financial institutions to need or want a Social Security Number from depositors, since very few profit generating investments would result in a federal tax liability.
8. Much greater individual freedom would be the result, as individuals (natural persons) would:
  - 8.1. Have 10% more disposable income per capita.
  - 8.2. Could use the increase in their income to:
    - 8.2.1. Donate more to their favorite charity or church (which would also help take care of those with medical expenses no longer covered by Medicare and Medicaid)
    - 8.2.2. Put their children in private schools and get them away from the harmful effects of public schools.
    - 8.2.3. Help their families, and especially older people in the family who need medical care (to replace Medicare and Medicaid).
  - 8.3. Have ultimate privacy about their own financial affairs and would answer to no one.
  - 8.4. Would no longer be required to incriminate themselves.
  - 8.5. Would have more autonomy, respect, and authority in their own families, because children would need to depend more on their parents and other family members for charity and help until they can get on their own two feet.

1 9. Political effects of the changes would be as follows:

- 2 9.1. Terrorism would decline, because our federal government would have far fewer resources to meddle militarily in the affairs of other countries. Since we would 3 then have to leave these countries alone, they would quit getting pissed at us and hijacking our planes.
- 4 9.2. The country would still be able to afford the defense system it has now, and its security would not be jeopardized.
- 5 9.3. The financial interests who benefit from perpetuating the tax system would lose their financial power and their financial grip over politicians through campaign
6 contributions. Such special interest (PAC) groups include accountants, tax preparers, legal book publishers, law schools, tax and estate and trust attorneys, payroll
7 people, and payroll software companies.
- 8 9.4. There would be fewer lobbyists in Washington, because there would be far less government cash to spend.
- 9 9.5. Our federal government would have to go back to focusing on its core functions:
- 10 9.5.1. Defense.
- 11 9.5.2. Courts.
- 12 9.5.3. Criminal justice.
- 13 9.5.4. Promotion of trade and commerce.
- 14 9.6. The amount of money the federal government could borrow would be much less because its revenues would be less. Just like individuals, your borrowing power 15 depends on disposable income after making payment on current debts.
- 16 9.7. There would be less partisanship in Congress, because there would be less money to fight about and fewer ways to raise significantly more.
- 17 9.8. There would be a natural check on the size of federal government because most of federal revenue would come from taxes on imports. If the government got too
18 large and charged too much for import taxes, other countries would be just as protective of their markets and our exports would go down. The system would 19 naturally correct itself.
- 20 9.9. Mostly social programs would need to be cut and maybe even completely privatized in recognition of the fact that the Ponzi Scheme called Socialist Security 21 would no longer be financially viable.
- 22 9.10. Keynesian economics and federal government meddling into our economy would be far less frequent, because the feds would have fewer resources with which to 23 meddle.
- 24 9.11. Federal elections would cease to be a vehicle of economic equalization. For instance, there would no longer be a financial incentive for older people to vote in 25 congressmen and representatives who would perpetuate robbing the rich or the young to give to the poor or old. This would eliminate the use of the government
26 for class warfare purposes, and would make politics far more objective and far less controversial.
- 27 9.12. Since the government would consume far less of the national income and very little personal income, federal politics would become less relevant and state politics
28 would become correspondingly more relevant for the average American.

29 10. Legal affects:

- 30 10.1. Federal courts and judges would no longer derive their pay from income taxes paid by individuals, and therefore would no longer have the conflict of interest they 31 currently do in attempting to illegally enforce a voluntary income tax against Americans. This would produce a more objective legal system.
- 32 10.2. Law schools would have to focus on lines of business other than taxation.

33 11. Business climate:

- 34 11.1. The rate of new business failures would go dramatically down. Income taxes are a big drain on most small businesses, and it is very difficult, especially when 35 they are first starting up, to deal with all of the payroll, tax, insurance, and employee benefit drain on their income. A very high percentage of first-time
36 businesses fail because the taxes are so high. However, if there were no income taxes, then their cash flow situation would be drastically improved and the 37 complexity of managing their business would be reduced, which would give most businesses more time to focus on customer satisfaction, which would thereby 38 improve their profits and viability.
- 39 11.2. The price of goods and services would go down probably 20-30%, because businesses would not have to build in so many taxes into the price of their products 40 and services.
- 41 11.3. The profitability of most small businesses would go dramatically up.

11.4. Employees would have a lot more take home pay, so they would have more spendable income, which would really promote an expansion of the economy and a redirection of income away from inefficient government projects toward a more consumer-oriented mentality.

12. Family affects:

12.1. Many families who currently have two breadwinners would only need one. The wife could quit her job and take care of the children or elderly parents. Surveys indicate that a majority of women would stay home to raise their children if it was economically feasible, and elimination of income taxes would make this situation a reality. The children would turn out better than before because they would get more attention and supervision. Traffic congestion on our freeways would go down because with fewer women in the workforce, the traffic would be reduced by probably 1/3.

12.2. Divorce rates would go down because there would be less financial stress on the family and because the majority of divorces are caused by disputes over money or the lack of it. With a lower divorce rate, more people would get married because there would be a renewed faith in marriage.

12.3. More people would choose to home school their kids, resulting in a better educational system.

12.4. More parents could afford to take their children out of public schools and put them into private schools. This would create more competition for the public schools and raise their standards.

12.5. The more traditional model for families, where the man is the breadwinner, would be much more common than it is today, because much more families could afford to implement it without paying income taxes.

Of the above changes and affects, the ones most likely to produce grass-roots criticism are the elimination of Medicare and Medicaid. Older people are likely to try to use guilt and demagoguery to claim that they have been abandoned by their society and their government and aren't being taken care of. They will try to state that they have a "right" to collect these benefits and to expect to be taken care of by their government. We definitely think older people should be taken care of, but not by the bungling and inept government. Remember the following when you hear this kind of demagoguery and socialist mantras:

1. The family and the church are and always have been the only proper place to deal with the needs of the elderly, the young, and disadvantaged, and not the government. This is so because they enforce accountability, compassion, and personal responsibility, which the government has never been (and simply can't) be good at fostering. Charity must be voluntary to be effective. Grace and the operation of the law by force are fundamentally incompatible with each other. Charity mandated through the force of law is not charity, but extortion and plunder that encroach on our freedom and liberty, plain and simple.
2. The Supreme Court ruled in the case of Helvering v. Davis, 301 U.S. 619 (1937) and Flemming v. Nestor, 363 U.S. 603 (1960), that Social Security (and by implication all other government social programs!) are NOT insurance and are NOT a contract. The government isn't obligated to pay you back anything, much less even the amount of money you put into any social (or should we say socialist?) program (see section 2.9.1 for further details on this).
3. It's unethical and immoral for older people who can't afford their own medical bills to misuse their electoral power to compel the government to extort money from younger or working people to support them. It is unethical and a conflict of interest for any individual to vote in a favor of any law or politician who promises them any kind of financial or personal benefit. Such a conflict of interest can produce nothing but tyranny, slavery, and socialism in our country and ought to be against the law, plain and simple. This very idea undermines our republican form of government by turning a REPUBLIC into a TOTALITARIAN SOCIALIST DEMOCRACY. The cause of liberty in a free country should always be superior to the needs of individuals. That is why we believe that any person who stands to gain financially or directly by voting in a referendum on a particular piece of welfare legislation that would benefit them ought to be mandatorily disqualified from voting on that issue, or any candidate who is promoting that issue in order to prevent abuses of electoral power. This would prevent the spread of socialism and tyranny and excessive taxation of the rich for the benefit of the poor. For the same reason, anyone who takes more from the government than they earn in wages from private employment also ought to be disqualified from voting. This was how our country started out, if you look at the Article IV of the Articles of Confederation, privileges of citizenship (and also voting) were extended to inhabitants with the following phrase:

"... the free inhabitants of each of these states, paupers, vagabonds and fugitives from Justice excepted, shall be entitled to all privileges and immunities of free citizens in the several states"

43 The goal of this chapter is to firmly establish both present and past very serious criminal and corrupt behavior of persons in 44 our federal government and how this corrupt behavior is prejudicing and damaging our Constitutional rights on a massive 45 scale. We will show that because the corruption is happening from within our government, then we can't rely on the 46 government to fix itself. By doing so, we will hopefully convince you that serious problems exist with our government
 47 which require the focused attention and political activism of every American in order to eliminate. We will break the 48 corruption down into all its specific individual elements and behaviors to show how the summation of all these elements
 49 acting on the people is completely oppressive and tyrannical. A knowledge of the individual elements of this tyranny will 50 then enable you to know what behaviors you need to fight politically and legally.

1 The impetus for reform and change must come from without, and must originate from the sovereign people who created the
2 government in the first place: YOU!

3 According to Edward Gibbon, the author of "The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire", there were 5 major contributing 4 factors to the decline of every civilization:

- 5 1. Debasement of money.
- 6 2. Debasement of religion.
- 7 3. Confiscatory levels of taxation.
- 8 4. Decline of morals.
- 9 5. Rampant crime and corruption.

10 How many of these factors do YOU see in operation in the U.S. today? The average lifespan of nation-states is 200 years.
11 The U.S. is 228 years old. We'll cover many of the factors that are leading to our decline in this chapter. If you would like 12 to read an online version of Mr. Gibbon's book, you can do so at:

14 2.1 Code of Ethics for Government Service

15 *"Sifting through the blather, the political paradigm has devolved into saying what you must to get elected,
16 passing legislation that may or may not be good for the country, and staying in office. Analyzing this sorry
17 spectacle every four years, it appears that too many Americans are willing to put their faith in a power-seeking,
18 mandarin class of second- and third-rate professional careerist politicians whose primary allegiance, I'm 19 afraid, is to themselves. What is needed are persons of impeccable, statesman-like character and reasoned 20 judgment -- people, for the most part, who would be instinctively repelled by the political process."
21 [Barrett Kallellis]*

22 This section concerns itself with the moral and ethical requirements which must be met by employees of our federal
23 government. Later on in section 4.1, you will learn that all of the ethics laws and rules we list in this section collectively
24 describe the characteristics of what is called a "fiduciary relationship", and that public servants are "trustees" of what is
25 called the "public trust". The "beneficiaries" of the "public trust" are the constituents of the "public servant". A fiduciary
26 is someone bound by contract to act primarily for another's benefit. In the case of "public servants", the contract that binds
27 them is the U.S. Constitution, and the person they are acting on behalf of is their constituents. Any violation of trust or 28 injury caused by public servants against the rights of the beneficiaries of the trust (constituents) is called a "breach of 29 fiduciary duty" and is treated by the courts as a tort or injury for which public servants can be held liable in court. This will
30 become important in chapter 3 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008, where we talk about remedies for those 31 who have been wronged and injured by the illegal acts of IRS agents, judges, and attorneys working for the Department of 32 Justice.

33 Below is the Code of Ethics for Government Service, Public Law 96-303. This is the moral and ethical standard by which 34 the performance of all government employees is measured. We ask you to consider this carefully as you read through the 35 following chapters and learn what the "public servants" in the U.S. Congress and the IRS have been doing to your 36 constitutional rights and the fraudulent and illegal taking of your property with federal income taxes.

16 In addition, Presidential Executive Order 12731, issued by George Bush on October 17, 1990, entitled "Principles of 17 Ethical Conduct for Government Officers and Employees", identifies ethics rules applicable to government employees.

Another source of ethical standards for U.S. Government Service can be found in 5 CFR, Chapter XVI, Subchapter B, Part 2635. Here is an excerpt from the first section in that part:

TITLE 5--ADMINISTRATIVE PERSONNEL
CHAPTER XVI--OFFICE OF GOVERNMENT ETHICS
PART 2635--STANDARDS OF ETHICAL CONDUCT FOR EMPLOYEES OF THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH--Table of Contents
Subpart A--General Provisions
Sec. 2635.101 Basic obligation of public service.

(a) Public service is a public trust. Each employee has a responsibility to the United States Government and its citizens to place loyalty to the Constitution, laws and ethical principles above private gain. To ensure that every citizen can have complete confidence in the integrity of the Federal Government, each employee shall respect and adhere to the principles of ethical conduct set forth in this section, as well as the implementing standards contained in this part and in supplemental agency regulations.

(b) General principles. The following general principles apply to every employee and may form the basis for the standards contained in this part. Where a situation is not covered by the standards set forth in this part, employees shall apply the principles set forth in this section in determining whether their conduct is proper.

(1) Public service is a public trust, requiring employees to place loyalty to the Constitution, the laws and ethical principles above private gain.

(2) Employees shall not hold financial interests that conflict with the conscientious performance of duty.

(3) Employees shall not engage in financial transactions using nonpublic Government information or allow the improper use of such information to further any private interest.

(4) An employee shall not, except as permitted by subpart B of this part, solicit or accept any gift or other item of monetary value from any person or entity seeking official action from, doing business with, or conducting activities regulated by the employee's agency, or whose interests may be substantially affected by the performance or nonperformance of the employee's duties.

(5) Employees shall put forth honest effort in the performance of their duties.

(6) Employees shall not knowingly make unauthorized commitments or promises of any kind purporting to bind the Government.

(7) Employees shall not use public office for private gain.

(8) Employees shall act impartially and not give preferential treatment to any private organization or individual.

(9) Employees shall protect and conserve Federal property and shall not use it for other than authorized activities.

(10) Employees shall not engage in outside employment or activities, including seeking or negotiating for employment, that conflict with official Government duties and responsibilities.

(11) Employees shall disclose waste, fraud, abuse, and corruption to appropriate authorities.

(12) Employees shall satisfy in good faith their obligations as citizens, including all just financial obligations, especially those--such as Federal, State, or local taxes--that are imposed by law.

(13) Employees shall adhere to all laws and regulations that provide equal opportunity for all Americans regardless of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, age, or handicap.

(14) Employees shall endeavor to avoid any actions creating the appearance that they are violating the law or the ethical standards set forth in this part. Whether particular circumstances create an appearance that the law or these standards have been violated shall be determined from the perspective of a reasonable person with knowledge of the relevant facts.

(c) Related statutes. In addition to the standards of ethical conduct set forth in this part, there are conflict of interest statutes that prohibit certain conduct. Criminal conflict of interest statutes of general applicability to all employees, 18 U.S.C. 201, 203, 205, 208, and 209, are summarized in the appropriate subparts of this part and must be taken into consideration in determining whether conduct is proper. Citations to other generally applicable statutes relating to employee conduct are set forth in subpart I and employees are further cautioned that there may be additional statutory and regulatory restrictions applicable to them generally or as employees of their specific agencies. Because an employee is considered to be on notice of the requirements of any statute, an employee should not rely upon any description or synopsis of a statutory restriction, but should refer to the statute itself and obtain the advice of an agency ethics official as needed.

Based on the above ethics requirements for government employees, we can safely reach the following conclusions about the proper conduct of government officials and employees:

1. Government employees have a duty to write laws that are as brief and simple as possible so that all Citizens with very minimal education can read and understand them without the aid of a "priest" from the "priesthood of lawyers" known as the American Bar Association. This will ensure a civil society with a minimum of police, litigation, lawyers, conflict, courts, and laws. It will also prevent Citizens from becoming financial slaves to the legal profession in understanding and defending their legal rights.
2. Government agencies and employees should be familiar with the laws that regulate and define their duties, and should be able to clearly explain to Citizens when asked, the legal basis for their delegated authority and the bounds of that authority. They should also be able to provide to the Citizen upon demand the laws that regulate their authority. This requirement also reinforces the need for the laws to be simple so that the average government employee can read and understand them himself.
3. If a Citizen asks a government employee what authority he has to make a certain decision and from where that authority derives, and the government employee or officer can't explain or provide legal evidence of that authority, then the Citizen can safely assume the employee or officer has NO authority to make the decision or impose the obligation on the Citizen.
4. Government employees should encourage Citizens to question their authority at all times, so that they can be held accountable to the public for the job they do and will consistently behave within their lawfully delegated authority.
5. If a fraud or even a deliberate deception has been committed by the government and against Citizens, and especially if this fraud or deception occurs because of laws that are too complex or designed to mislead, the only ethical or proper action for government employees and Citizens to take is to expose it and see that it is corrected promptly and in the meantime, to NOT enforce the law until it is clarified and simplified (this is called the "void for vagueness doctrine" by the Supreme Court). This is the only way to restore and maintain trust of Citizens in their government. Correcting such mistakes or deception includes:

- 5.1. Updating all government publications to consistently portray and clarify the complete truth about tax matters that the public is clearly confused over. One way to identify where confusion lies is to look at whether court rulings are consistent in a particular area or are erratic and unpredictable or do not agree from one circuit court to the next. The goal should be to minimize the need for expensive litigation and minimize risks individuals must take to obey what they think or believe is the law.
  - 5.2. Simplifying laws to make them easier to understand.
  - 5.3. Using non-lawyers to review the laws as written and help simplify them before they are enacted.
  - 5.4. The courts holding employees in the government and agencies collectively liable and accountable for whatever they say on ANY publication or form that are provided to the public. For instance, if a member of the public relies on the IRS publications to reach a conclusion, and the IRS misleads the public about their tax liability in those publications, then the IRS and the supervisor in the IRS who approved the publication should be either held personally liable or should be FIRED for the constructive fraud that caused the breach of public trust and injury to the Citizen.
6. If a Citizen, through deception by the government, falls into error and states a fact or makes an assertion about himself that is not strictly true from a legal perspective, it is the duty and the obligation of the government employee, if he is aware of this mistake, to bring it to the attention of his supervisor and the Citizen in order to prevent needless injury to the Citizen. This reinforces the idea that there is a fiduciary relationship and public trust that exists between Citizens and their government.
  7. Government supervisors who penalize, harass, demote, or fire employees who enforce or conform to any government ethics requirement should be promptly disciplined by an independent investigative agency outside of their chain of command, not unlike the way sexual harassment charges are handled.

2.2 The Limited Powers and Sovereignty of the U.S. Government

"The ultimate authority...resides in the people alone..."
[James Madison, Federalist Paper No. 46]

The Christian founding fathers wanted a federal government of very limited and precisely defined powers. Why? It was based on their Christian beliefs! The quote below directly from the mouth of Jesus (God) Himself in the Bible affirms and reveals God's will with regard to human government:

"You know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and those who are great exercise authority over them. Yet it shall not be so among you; but whoever desires to become great among you, let him be your servant. And whoever desires to be first among you, let him be your slave--just as the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give His life a ransom for many."

It is the above quote from the Bible, we believe, that formed the basis for the prudent desire of the founding fathers to build so many checks and balances into the Constitution to protect us from the government. They wanted to make sure that the government would always continue to be our servant. They wanted to ensure that the power of the government would be constrained and restrained very carefully in order to keep government and the people serving in government in their proper role as servants of the Sovereign People rather than masters or dictators over them. Thomas Jefferson, a Christian man and author of the Declaration of Independence, defined precisely the intent of the founding fathers in this regard as follows:

"It would be a dangerous delusion were a confidence in the men of our choice to silence our fears for the safety of our rights... Confidence is everywhere the parent of despotism. Free government is founded in jealousy, and not in confidence. It is jealousy and not confidence which prescribes limited constitutions, to bind down those whom we are obliged to trust with power... Our Constitution has accordingly fixed the limits to which, and no further, our confidence may go... In questions of power, then, let no more be heard of confidence in man, but bind him down from mischief by the chains of the Constitution."
[Thomas Jefferson: Draft Kentucky Resolutions, 1798. ME 17:388 ]

Jefferson also defined what he believed were the very limited and defined powers of the federal government as a whole in a letter to Major John Cartwright in June 5, 1824:

"With respect to our State and federal governments, I do not think their relations are correctly understood by foreigners. They generally suppose the former subordinate to the latter. But this is not the case. They are coordinate departments of one simple and integral whole. To the State governments are reserved all legislative and administration, in affairs which concern their own citizens only, and to the federal government is given

1 whatever concerns foreigners, or the citizens of the other States; these functions alone being made federal. The
 2 one is domestic, the other the foreign branch of the same government; neither having control over the other, but
 3 within its own department."
 4 [Thomas Jefferson, "Writing of Thomas Jefferson" pub by Taylor & Maury, Washington DC, 1854, quote
 5 number VII 355-61, from correspondence to Major John Cartwright, June 5, 1824.]

6 The below cites from several court rulings help to further define and circumscribe the limits of the powers of the federal
 7 government:

8 "There is no such thing as a power of inherent Sovereignty in the government of the United States. In this
 9 country sovereignty resides in the People, and Congress can exercise no power which they have not, by their
 10 Constitution entrusted to it: All else is withheld."
 11 [Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884)]

12 "Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law for it is the author and source of law;"
 13 [Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

14 "Under our form of government, the legislature is NOT supreme. It is only one of the organs of that 15 ABSOLUTE SOVEREIGNTY which resides in the whole body of the PEOPLE; like other bodies of the 16 government, it can only exercise such powers as have been delegated to it, and when it steps beyond that 17 boundary, its acts, are utterly VOID."
 18 [Billings v. Hall, 7 CA. 1]

19 "In Europe, the executive is synonymous with the sovereign power of a state...where it is too commonly 20 acquired by force or fraud, or both...In America, however the case is widely different. Our government is 21 founded upon compact. Sovereignty was, and is, in the people."
 22 [The Betsy, 3 Dall 6]

23 The United States Government that we the Sovereign People created and entrusted to protect our fundamental rights, has 24 falsely misled us into believing that the Government is Sovereign and we the People are "persons" subject to its [the United
 25 States] territorial or subject matter jurisdiction who are also called "subjects". What is their motivation for this mass
 26 deception? It is a maxim of law that the Rights of Sovereigns cannot be taxed or regulated by the Government. Only 27 government granted privileges can be taxed and regulated by the government. In law, a "human" person is called a "natural 28 person." The "person," referred to in Codes, unless a counter intent is evident, is a corporate or juristic entity with only
 29 legislative rights. By creating a "legal term" for a person that excluded the Sovereign, the Government has been able to 30 create vast volumes of government rules and regulations for the "person" to pay income tax, property tax, license and
 31 registration fees, business license fees, marriage license fees, dog license fees, etc. It is also this juristic (recognized at law)
 32 "person" that the government can jail as an incentive to comply with its "Codes." The Sovereign is NOT the legislative 33 "person".

34 If you doubt the above assertion, take a look at 4 U.S.C. §110(a), which defines the term "person". It points to 26 U.S.C.
 35 §3797 for the definition, which was mysteriously repealed. Could it be that Congress DOESN'T want you to know that the 36 word "person" doesn't include you, so they won't define it for you?

The Term Person does not include the Sovereign!

"Since in common usage, the term person does not include the sovereign, statutes not employing the phrase are ordinarily construed to exclude it."

[United States v. Cooper Corporation, 312 U.S. 600 (1941)]

37 By way of clarification, the above cite refers to a state and not a natural person, but we use it here to clarify the concept of 38 personal sovereignty which we are trying to explain.

2.3 Thomas Jefferson on Property Rights and the Foundations of Our Government

40 Thomas Jefferson was the wise and brilliant man who wrote the Declaration of Independence of the United States. Before 41 we launch into what our government is doing to violate our property rights with its illegal taxation policies, let's look at 42 what he had to say about property rights:

"The whole art of government consists in the art of being honest."

1 [Thomas Jefferson: Rights of British America, 1774. ME 1:209, Papers 1:134 ]

2 "With all [our] blessings, what more is necessary to make us a happy and a prosperous people? Still one thing
3 more, fellow citizens--a wise and frugal Government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, shall
4 leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from
5 the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government, and this is necessary to close
6 the circle of our felicities."

7 [Thomas Jefferson: 1st Inaugural, 1801. ME 3:320 ]

8 "Our wish... is, that the public efforts may be directed honestly to the public good, that peace be cultivated, civil 9 and religious liberty unassailed, law and order preserved, equality of rights maintained, and that state of 10 property, equal or unequal, which results to every man from his own industry, or that of his fathers."

11 [Thomas Jefferson: 2nd Inaugural, 1805. ME 3:382 ]

12 "The true foundation of republican government is the equal right of every citizen in his person and property and 13 in their management."

14 [Thomas Jefferson to Samuel Kercheval, 1816. ME 15:36 ]

15 The right to procure property and to use it for one's own enjoyment is essential to the freedom of every person,
16 and our other rights would mean little without these rights of property ownership. It is also for these reasons
17 that the government's power to tax property is placed in those representatives most frequently and directly 18 responsible to the people, since it is the people themselves who must pay those taxes out of their holdings of 19 property.

20 "Persons and property make the sum of the objects of government."

21 [Thomas Jefferson to James Madison, 1789. ME 7:459 ]

22 "Nothing is ours, which another may deprive us of."

23 [Thomas Jefferson to Maria Cosway, 1786. ME 5:440 ]

24 By nature's law, every man has a right to seize and retake by force his own property taken from him by another
25 by force or fraud. Nor is this natural right among the first which is taken into the hands of regular government
26 after it is instituted. It was long retained by our ancestors. It was a part of their common law, laid down in their 27 books, recognized by all the authorities, and regulated as to circumstances of practice."

28 [Thomas Jefferson: Batture at New Orleans, 1812. ME 18:104 ]

29 "To take from one because it is thought that his own industry and that of his father's has acquired too much, in 30 order to spare to others, who, or whose fathers have not exercised equal industry and skill, is to violate 31 arbitrarily the first principle of association--'the guarantee to every one of a free exercise of his industry and the 32 fruits acquired by it.'"

33 [Thomas Jefferson: Note in Destutt de Tracy's "Political Economy," 1816. ME 14:466 ]

34 "[The] rights [of the people] to the exercise and fruits of their own industry can never be protected against the 35 selfishness of rulers not subject to their control at short periods."

36 [Thomas Jefferson to Isaac H. Tiffany, 1816.]

37 "Our wish... is that... equality of rights [be] maintained, and that state of property, equal or unequal, which 38 results to every man from his own industry or that of his fathers."

39 [Thomas Jefferson: 2nd Inaugural Address, 1805. ME 3:382 ]

40 "If the overgrown wealth of an individual is deemed dangerous to the State, the best corrective is the law of 41 equal inheritance to all in equal degree; and the better, as this enforces a law of nature, while extra-taxation
42 violates it."

44 2.4 The Freedom Test

45 "I may die a beggar, but with the Grace of God, I will not die a slave."

46 "There is a growing sense of outrage in this country. The working people are being crushed. Let the 47 congressmen who won office by promises of benefits and programs, pay for them out of their pocket. Such 48 promises should not, CANNOT, AND WILL NOT be yokes of slavery, borne upon the backs of the men and 49 women who labor each day to put bread on their table!"

50 2.4.1 Are You Free or Do You Just Think You Are?

2.4.2 Key to Answers

1. YES. In the United States today the average individual pays nearly 50% of his or her income in taxes of one form or another. When 50% of your work day (4 of every 8 hours) is forcibly being taken from you by your government, is that not state sponsored slavery?

The successful examples of the United States (1800-1929) and modern day Hong Kong have proven that the legitimate operations of government can be funded by a total individual tax of 15% or less of income. Why, and from what authority, are we being forced to pay more?

Please note that the federal income tax in the United States is only half of the tax picture, for one must also consider the following: state income taxes, state disability taxes, social security taxes, Medicare taxes, Medicaid taxes, unemployment insurance taxes, local taxes, property taxes, capital gains taxes, estate and inheritance taxes, gift taxes, sales taxes, electricity taxes, water taxes, sewage taxes, telephone taxes, cable taxes, corporate taxes, import taxes, export taxes, luxury taxes, gasoline taxes, alcohol taxes, tobacco taxes, vehicle registration taxes, hotel accommodation taxes, airplane ticket taxes, rental car taxes, building permit taxes, regulation taxes, licensing taxes, parking taxes, etc. (Note that the average individual in Europe pays far more than 50%.)

2. YES. When Social Security was first enacted in 1935 it was funded by a 2% payroll tax, today it is funded by a 12.4% payroll tax. The Social Security tax has been raised 54 times in a mere 65 years, measuring a staggering 520% increase. It is now the largest single tax for seven out of 10 taxpaying households. In 1935 only the first $3,000 of taxpayer income was subject to Social Security taxes, by 1971 it was the first $7,800, and today it is the first $72,600. Medicare/Medicaid, started in 1965, was initially funded by a 2.9% payroll tax, with only the first $4,800 of taxpayer income subject to it. Today the rate is the same, however the income cap has been removed. Even with these dramatic expansions of taxation, both programs are still on the verge of bankruptcy. (This means more tax increases to come in the next economic downturn.) Because you are forced to participate, Social Security and Medicare are without a doubt the largest PONZI SCHEMES ever conceived of. Yet no politician will dare say so. Who is going to pay the Social Security and Medicare benefits for the 78 million baby boomers set to begin retiring in 2010?
3. YES. Try to get a job, open a bank or brokerage account, or buy a home without one.
4. YES. Take a hard look at the new FBI system known as Carnivore. Once it is connected to an ISP network it has the potential to monitor all communications on that network. Earthlink Inc. has already refused to install this FBI system, saying it had no way of knowing whether it was in fact limiting its surveillance operations to the criminal investigation at hand, or trolling more broadly. (What happened to the protections guaranteed us by the 4th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution?)

5. YES. If you doubt this, try crossing from Mexico to the U.S. in an older model van with tinted windows. (What happened to the protections guaranteed us by the 4th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution?)
6. YES. The state, city and local governments of the United States have completely undermined the sacred principle of 'property rights' by forcing us to seek government permission to carry out routine additions and changes to our private property, by forcing us to pay building permit taxes for the right to do so, and by forcing us to pay property taxes or face its confiscation.
7. YES. Take a close look at the taxes you are forced to pay for both your wired and wireless phone services. Also note the United Nations report of July 1999 which specifically endorses a tax of one American cent to be levied on all lengthy e-mails. E-mail taxes are next if we let down our guard.
8. YES. Government first rationalized the existence of slavery, then it rationalized the existence of segregation, and now it rationalizes the existence of affirmative action and quotas. ALL are discrimination, and ALL are wrong.
9. YES. for most of us. Is it really 'Freedom of Speech' when you are afraid to speak your mind?
10. YES. As of September 1, 2000 the U.S. National Debt was over $5.64
11. TRILLION and growing by an average of $45 million per day. With the U.S. population estimated to be 276,299,415, that means each Citizen's share of this debt is over $20,425. Ignore the rhetoric of the politicians when they claim to be paying down this debt with the budget surpluses, because they are NOT. In fact this Congress, the Republican majority 106th, has become the largest domestic spending Congress since the late 1970's.
12. YES. Take a hard look at the politicians and their voting records if you doubt this.
13. NO, we are not free, we only think we are. The time has come for us to face this difficult truth and start doing something about it.

2.4.3 Do You Still Think You are Free?

ARE YOU TRULY FREE... when over half of your hard earned "money" is stolen, directly and indirectly, by "legalized fraud" called "income taxes" to support unconscionable spending habits of career politicians... and rulers around the world? And,

ARE YOU TRULY FREE...when government agents falsely accuse people of "crimes" shoot and kill a nursing mother and child (Weaver), use banned gas to burn out over 80 people (Waco Holocaust), Gordon Call, etc. And,

ARE YOU TRULY FREE...when you are deprived of your currency which you worked hard for, paid taxes on? The $1,000 and $500 bills were slyly taken out of circulation. When anyone DOES NOT want to play the game of "cashless, checkless society" he is accused of "breaking the law". Plastic strips are now inserted in the new currency. Bankers/government claim anyone with a large amount of cash is a criminal. This violates many religious beliefs such as Rev.,13:16-18. The conspirators' real purpose is to work for the private bankers, putting us in a cashless, checkless society. And,

WHEN...in our "LAND OF THE FREE" you can no longer drive on freeways or public street without buying a driver's license and car registration from bureaucrats...giving them LEGAL TITLE of OWNERSHIP to your car in exchange for a "certificate of title" that shows you gave your "true ownership" AWAY? And,

WHEN...BUREAUCRATS MAKE YOU PAY legal ransom to a private insurance-company so you can drive your car? And,

WHEN...in our "LAND OF THE FREE" you must send your children to a licensed school or bureaucrats can/will legally kidnap your children, confiscate your property and put you in jail? And,

When...you must read non-mainstream publications in order to learn THE TRUTH, because the national news media tells only what the "political establishment" allows it's public to see or hear as "news"..? And,

WHEN...OUR "LAND OF THE FREE" has more political-prisoners than other nations; more slave-labor-camp-prisons (UNICOR) are being built every year? And,

WHEN...bureaucrats claim a crime needs 'no victim' by claiming a crime is an offense against an abstract (legal fiction) called the state? And,

WHEN...business-income taxes are piled on top of each other...hidden in the prices of every American product, GROSSLY INFLATING costs, forcing industries to leave our country...taking millions of our best jobs with them? And,

- 1 WHEN... in our “LAND OF THE FREE” bureaucrats can know most of your financial transactions and “legally pry” into 2 your bank records without your knowledge or consent? (violating a sacred trust, your privacy, and 4th amendment right).
3 And,
- 4 WHEN ...you believe the BIG-LIE that your RIGHTS come from “public servants” instead of from ALMIGHTY GOD,
5 Creator of all nature? And,
- 6 WHEN you “pay” your debts with dollar bills which are notices of debt you owe to the PRIVATELY OWNED Federal 7 Reserve Banks (a private corporation) which pay no income taxes...and who create money out of thin air? And,
- 8 WHEN...in our “LAND OF THE FREE” “public servants” have created a spider web of over TWO MILLION laws and 9 rules entangling every part of your life with entrapment schemes, (Road Blocks)-etc., while “COURTS:Supreme Court”
10 judges seldom agree on the meaning of any of them? And,
- 11 WHEN...if you don't pay your taxes (rent) the real owner of your property shows up, takes it from you, violating Allodial
12 Land Rights ... and may/will shoot you, or put you in jail. And,
- 13 WHEN...in our “LAND OF THE FREE” it’s okay to legally murder unborn babies, cleverly calling aborticide “abortion”
14 And,
- 15 WHEN... “public-servant judges” illegally guide votes of Citizen Jurors by LYING, telling them they must vote to enforce 16 the “alleged laws” of the case (even if it violates Rights secured by the constitution)? And,
- 17 WHEN...the word “person” is “legally defined” as a “corporation” and judges and government lawyers Coerce Juries into 18 jailing fellow Americans for disobeying laws made for private bankers and private corporations to CONTROL our once
19 FREE PEOPLE? And,
- 20 WHEN...your church must get a 501-C3 license (tax exempt) so its members can “write off gifts”-legally worship the “state 21 god”, not ALMIGHTY GOD, Creator of all nature? And,
- 22 WHEN...career-politicians, tax collectors, police and courts (judges) are more of a threat to life, liberty and property than a 23 thief in the night? (Been in court lately?) And,
- 24 WHEN you SADLY LEARN.. More crimes occur in American court rooms in one day than in the streets in a whole year?
- 25 WHEN...in our “LAND OF THE FREE” your children are a ward of the state because you used a marriage license? (Your 26 children are not your children because of that license!) And,
- 27 WHEN...you are jailed for exercising your God-given Constitutionally secured Rights if you don’t “grease the palms”
28 (fines=mulct) of bureaucrats? And,
- 29 WHEN...in our “LAND OF THE FREE” YOU CAN NO LONGER PRACTICE Free Enterprise or work without the SS-ID
30 number, “Mark of the Beast”, and you are forced to buy a permit or license from bureaucrats or go to jail? And,
- 31 WHEN everything you and your children will ever “own” is mortgaged to foreign bankers who own the private Federal 32 Reserve Banks, your loan could be due and collectible on demand...BECAUSE THE CONGRESS REFUSES to OBEY the 33 CONSTITUTION providing our country with a debt-free, Honest money system! And,
- 34 WHEN...you could be dying from a disease (cancer) that is curable in other countries (suppressed in AmeriKa since the 35 early 30's) with certain medicines, nutrients, and vitamins which, if used to save your life, is a crime in our “LAND OF 36 THE FREE” stripping us of our 1st and 9th amendment Rights, FREEDOM of CHOICE? And,
- 37 WHEN... if you say something publicly that is not “Politically Correct”, the news-media can publicly condemn you without 38 a trial, by implying you are a racist, cultist, neo-Nazi, anti-Semitic, hate monger, bigot, radical, armed and dangerous, 39 extreme-right-winger, tax-protester, un-American...etc.? And,

1 WHEN...the Federal Government pretends to wage a “War On Drugs” (actually promoting drugs) as an excuse to make
 2 laws that deprive us of our God-given RIGHTS to Life, Liberty, and Property ...Freedom to Choose and to be Left Alone?
 3 And,

4 WHEN...CRIME PAYS BIG... for Big Brother Government, lying politicians, judges, government lawyers,
 5 police...because every new law causes many more victimless crimes as an excuse for higher and higher taxes, supposedly
 6 used to punish the violators (victims) of newly invented crimes, which God never thought of, against a legal fiction, the 7 State? And,

8 WHEN...in our “LAND OF THE FREE” the flag displayed in court rooms and other public buildings has a gold fringe
 9 border, which is NOT the American flag, indicating that we are under Martial Law unannounced? And,

10 WHEN..... you must ask and pay bureaucrats for legal permission to get married, even though marriage is a sacrament
 11 directly from our loving father, ALMIGHTY GOD? And,

12 WHEN...Republican and Democratic Presidents give your taxes to foreign countries, food that should be given to our needy
 13 is given to foreign nations, destroying our own people...our self-defense arms are confiscated...creating wars and riots; the

25 2.5 14 Signposts to Slavery

26 In 1972 a wonderful little book was published. It arrived with little fanfare yet somehow it has managed to survive all these 27 years. Most people have never read it. These are the same people who today are asking questions about what went wrong
 28 with America. These are the same people who today find that their plans for the future, no matter how hard they have 29 worked to make those plans a reality, have vanished into thin air. These are the same people who are working 3 jobs to 30 keep what one job secured for them 20 years ago.....These people are you and I, the working middle class, the "We the 31 People."

32 The book is titled "None Dare Call It Conspiracy," and was authored by Gary Allen with Larry Abraham. It was 33 considered very controversial back when it was published. In retrospect it appears to have been a blueprint for the future of 34 America. That America is perhaps where we are all living today.

35 If you doubt the possibility of a conspiracy to bring America to its knees and perhaps install a totalitarian dictatorship
 36 through the conversion of our republic into a democracy you need only look to the changes in our laws. Gary Allen
 37 provided his readers with fourteen signposts on the road to totalitarianism. They were compiled by Dr. Warren Carroll, a
 38 refugee from Yugoslavian communism. The list is in no particular order. However, nothing on the list existed in American
 39 law at the time the list was compiled. Read it now, experience it for yourself. Any one of the listed items would be a clear
 40 warning that the totalitarian state is very near, and a significant number of perhaps five or more could possibly suggest that
 41 the freedom we have once enjoyed and the preservation of our Great Republic has been lost.

1. Restrictions on taking money out of the country and on the establishment or retention of a foreign bank account by an American citizen.
2. Abolition of private ownership of hand guns.
3. Detention of individuals without judicial process.
4. Requirements that private financial transactions be keyed to social security numbers or other government identification so that government records of these transactions can be fed into a computer.
5. Use of compulsory education laws to forbid attendance at presently existing private school.
6. Compulsory non-military service.
7. Compulsory psychological treatment for non-government workers or public school children.
8. An official declaration that anti-communist organizations are subversive and subsequent legal action taken to suppress them.
9. Laws limiting the number of people allowed to meet in a private home.
10. Any significant change in passport regulations to make passports more difficult to obtain.
11. Wage and price controls, especially in a non-wartime situation.
12. Any kind of compulsory registration with the government of where individuals work.
13. Any attempt to restrict freedom of movement within the United States.
14. Any attempt to make a new major law by executive decree ( that is, actually put into effect, not merely authorized as by existing executive orders.)

President Nixon invoked numbers 1, 11 and 14. As of January 1,1972, banks must report to the government any deposit or withdrawal over $5,000. That number has since been reduced to $3,000. Any purchase over $10,000 made in cash must also be reported to the federal government. Courts have in some instances ordered individuals without bank accounts to open one under threat of incarceration through charges of Civil contempt.

This government is presently attempting to end private handgun ownership (#2) in America through federal legislation. Recent destruction of Habeas Corpus has made signpost #3 a reality. Federal banking laws have made signpost #4 the law of the land. President Clinton's "America in Service" legislation has made signpost #6 an expected part of American behavior. Federal civil rights legislation in regard to helping young children deal with alternative life styles of adults ( Suzie's two mommies/daddies) has made signpost #7 a part of the new American landscape. The EPA's trip reduction legislation, which limits an individual's right to travel freely on the highway is a perfect example of signpost #13. Road blocks or check points set up by either local or state police under the guise to search for drugs or drunk drivers, while appearing to be in the service of society are in truth an invasion of our freedom to travel.

The truth speaks for itself.....America may be lost.....We may now be living under totalitarian rule. Some of us will recognize the truth. Some of us will continue to be in denial of the truth. Too few of us will fight back to regain the freedoms we have lost. The only thing you can be sure of is that this government will continue in its relentless march over whatever may be left of this once great Republic until we are all slaves on the land our fathers fought to make free.

Winston Churchill, speaking to the English people as they were about to become involved in World War II proclaimed:

1 "If you will not fight for right when you can easily win without bloodshed; if you will not fight when your victory
 2 will be sure and not to costly; you may come to the moment when you will have to fight with all odds against
 3 you and only a precarious chance of survival."

4 Because the American people have ignored warning after warning, we have finally come to that place in time where we are
 5 beginning to ask where our freedoms have gone. Unless we begin to take action now against unconstitutional acts on the 6 part of our elected public servants, we will face a future choice, also described by Mr Churchill. He said:

7 "There may be even a worse fate. You may have to fight when there is no hope of victory, because it is better to 8 perish then to live as slaves."

9 2.6 The Mind-Boggling Burden to Society of Slavery to the Federal Income Tax

10 "Never before have so many drunk so deeply from the poison cup of socialism, licked their lips, and begged for 11 more." Family Guardian Fellowship

12 The Gettysburg address is 269 words, the Declaration of Independence is 1,337 words, and the Holy Bible is only 773,000
 13 words. However, the Internal Revenue Code has grown from 11,400 words in 1913, to 7 million words today.

14 There are at least 480 different tax forms, each with many pages of instructions.

15 Even the easiest form, the 1040E has 33 pages in instructions, and all in fine print.

16 The IRS sends out 8 billion pages of forms and instructions each year. Laid end to end, they would stretch 28 times around 17 the earth.

18 Nearly 300,000 trees are cut down yearly to produce the paper for all the IRS forms and instructions.

19 American taxpayers spend $200 billion and 5.4 billion hours working to comply with federal taxes each year, more than it
 20 takes to produce every car, truck, and van in the United States.

21 The burden of compliance is the equivalent to a staff of 3 million people working full time for a year, just to comply with 22 the taxes on individuals and businesses.

23 The IRS employs 114,000 people; that's twice as many as the CIA and five times more than the FBI.

24 60% of taxpayers must hire a professional to get through their own return.

25 Taxes eat up 38.2% of the average family's income; that's more than for food, clothing and shelter combined.

26 AND THAT IS ONLY THE FEDERAL TAX---NOT COUNTING STATE, LOCAL, PROPERTY, SALES TAX, ETC.

27 2.7 Amerika: Home of the Slave and Hazard to the Brave

28 "Education is the best security for maintaining liberties, and, 'a nation of well-informed men who have been 29 taught to know and prize the rights which God has given them cannot be enslaved. It is in the region of 30 ignorance that tyranny reigns."
 31 [Benjamin Franklin, Autobiography]

32 "We have staked the whole future of American Civilization not upon the power of Government, far from it. We 33 have staked the future... upon the capacity of each and all of us to govern ourselves according to the Ten 34 Commandments of God."
 35 [James Madison (1751-1863)]

36 We used to call America "land of the free and the home of the brave". Not so anymore. Now the only proper name for it is 37 "land of the slave and hazard to the brave". A generation of prosperity following WWII, removal of God from the schools
 38 and public life by the supreme Court in 1962, disintegrating families caused by widespread defiance of God's plan for the 39 family in the Bible, and passivity by Christians toward liberalization of our culture has allowed evil to flourish to the severe
 40 detriment of everyone in society. It has created a "me generation" which selfishly thinks only about #1, and leaves

1 everyone else, including our own children, up to a gigantic, monolithic and constantly growing totalitarian socialist
2 democratic government.

3 "Am I my brother's keeper?"

4 Where have we heard that before? For a clue, see Gen. 4:9, where Cain, who murdered his brother, said that very same
5 thing. We would argue that most people with that attitude are selfish murderers just like Cain.

6 At this time in our young country's history, 70% of Americans now believe there is no absolute standard of right and
7 wrong. This was not always so. Moral relativism, a.k.a. "immorality", is the result, and it is a cancer on the body politic
8 every bit as evil and insidious as the income tax itself. Is it any wonder then why we now see so much scandal and
9 corruption in political and corporate life? That is what happens when we turn our backs on God: "Self" and an idolatrous
10 government that glorifies "self" then takes over as a counterfeit god. See the article below on our website for more insight
11 on this subject, entitled "The New Jesus Called Tolerance":

12 <http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Spirituality/ChurchvState/TheNewJesus.htm>

13 But we must remember what it means to be brave as Americans. We must be vigilant to protect our liberties by continually
14 doing things that make us worthy to be called "brave" Americans. Here are a few examples of "brave behaviors":

- 15 1. Serve enthusiastically in the military and defend your country and your God-given rights.
- 16 2. Serve on jury duty enthusiastically when called so you protect one more person from government abuse caused by a 17 misinformed populace that trusts the attorney general more than he deserves.
- 18 3. Don't steal from the next generation to fund your own high-rolling lifestyle. You should leave more than just a legacy
19 of debt to your children and grandchildren and we all have a moral obligation to leave the world better than we found
20 it. If debt is all you have left them when you die, then your chief gift will be financial slavery to pay off the debt. This 21 applies to both public/government as well as private debts.
- 22 4. Watch your elected representatives like a hawk and torment them mercilessly when they get out of line.
- 23 5. Involve yourself in political life and/or run for office to make a positive difference in your community.
- 24 6. Take 100% responsibility for yourself and don't rely on any government handout or program, including Socialist 25 Security.
- 26 7. When you do something wrong, admit it completely and truthfully and take your licks. We would need far fewer 27 lawyers, courts, and government servants if more people did this.
- 28 8. When someone you know and/or love does something wrong, then rebuke them as the Apostle Paul says in Eph. 5:11.
29 If you remain silent when you see people sin, then you have acquiesced to their sin and it will spread.
- 30 9. Don't expect the government to educate your kids properly in the public schools because it is a conflict of interest for 31 them to do so. Put your kids in private schools and petition vociferously for school vouchers to take your hard earned
32 money out of the public schools and put it in the private schools
- 33 10. Help your neighbor and the less fortunate on a routine basis by giving to your favorite charity either your time or 34 money or both.
- 35 11. Transmit your values and the lessons you have learned during your long life to your children and grandchildren. This 36 is the most lasting and valuable contribution you can make to the good of mankind.

37 The above items are what being a "brave" American is all about in our opinion. Those who haven't done any of the above
38 things frequently or even thought about doing them aren't "brave" and don't deserve to be called American for that matter.
39 Socialist maybe, but not brave and not American. This section painfully demonstrates the immediate and direct
40 consequences of not being brave on a large scale: universal slavery to a ruling class, who in America have done an 41 excellent job at making themselves invisible and untouchable so the slaves never wise up and break their chains.

42 2.7.1 Karl Marx's Communist Manifesto: Alive and Well In America<sup>7</sup>

43 Title 8 United States Code Section 1101(a)(40).

1                    "The term 'world communism' means a revolutionary movement, the purpose of which is to establish eventually
 2                    a Communist totalitarian dictatorship in any or all the countries of the world through the medium of an
 3                    internationally coordinated Communist political movement."

4 Most Americans are completely unaware that the graduated income tax we have in America today is the 2nd plank in the 5 10-plank Communist Manifesto, written by Karl Marx in 1848 as the very blueprint for socialism.

THE COMMUNIST MANIFESTO

1. Abolition of property in land and application of all rents of land to public purposes.
  2. A heavy progressive or graduated income tax.
  3. Abolition of all rights of inheritance.
  4. Confiscation of the property of all emigrants and rebels.
  5. Centralization of credit in the banks of the state, by means of a national bank with state capital and an exclusive monopoly.
  6. Centralization of the means of communication and transport in the hands of the state.
  7. Extension of factories and instruments of production owned by the state. The Bringing into cultivation of waste lands, and improvement of the soil generally in accordance with a common plan.
  8. Equal obligation of all to work. Establishment of industrial armies, especially for agriculture.
  9. Combination of agriculture with manufacturing industries, Gradual abolition of all the distinction between town and country by a more equitable distribution of the populace over the country.
  10. Free education for all children in public schools. Abolition of Children's factory labor in its present form. Combination of education with the industrial production.

6 T. Coleman Andrews, former Commissioner of the Internal Revenue, understood this perfectly as exemplified in the 7 following quote printed in the May 24, 1956 issue of the U.S. News & World Report:

8                    "I don't like the income tax. Every time we talk about these taxes we get around to the idea of 'from each
 9                    according to his capacity and to each according to his needs'. That's socialism--its written into the Communist
 10                    Manifesto. Maybe we ought to see that every person who gets a tax return receives a copy of the Communist 11                    Manifesto with it so he can see what's happening to him."

12 And leaving office, Mr. Andrews began to speak out against what he perceived as being "rapacious tax enactments. In the 13 article he wrote in the April 22, 1956 issue of The American Weekly, he shared these reflections:

14                    "As Commissioner of Internal Revenue I often thought how far we have gone toward excessive and unjust
 15                    taxation. We have failed to realize, it seems to me, that through our tax system we have been playing right into 16                    the hands of the Marxists, who gleefully hail the income tax as the one sure instrument that will bring 17                    capitalism to its knees."

18 Mr. Andrews also explained how special-interest groups have exempted themselves from taxation, and that the true targets
 19 of the Internal Revenue Code are the middle class. He stated:

20                    "Whether you believe it or not, everybody is being overtaxed and the middle class is being taxed out of 21                    existence, and the nation, thereby, is being robbed of its surest guarantee of continued sound economic 22                    development and growth and its staunchest bulwark against the ascendancy of socialism."

23 Probably, one of the finest exposes of special interest groups receiving tax deductions, credits, and partial or total
 24 exemptions can be found in the Philadelphia Enquirer in an article called "The Great Tax Giveaway" which ran in that
 25 paper April 10th through the 16th, 1988. Thirty-six pages in length, it cited specific passages in the Internal Revenue Code
 26 proving that equality in the tax code does not exist.

27 For example, specific items controlled by specific friends of certain influential congressmen were exempted from particular
 28 tax, such as any ship manufactured at certain place on certain date and being of such an exact length and of precisely so
 29 many tons. Of course, there was only one vessel in existence that matched these exact criteria. The newspaper ran 30 photographs of the CEO's of corporations for whom such exclusive legislation was personally written, posing at the end of 31 their mahogany board room tables, smiling from ear to ear.

1 Author and researcher Gary Allen explains in his landmark book None Dare Call It Conspiracy that Karl Marx was hired
 2 by a mysterious group who called themselves the League of Just Men. This secret society was simply an extension of the 3 Order of the Illuminati founded seventy two years earlier on May 1st, 1776 by Adam Wishaupt as an ultra-secret society
 4 formed to plan eventual world conquest.

5 All Marx really did was to codify the same revolutionary plan that had been laid down by Wishaupt. Marx understood that
 6 the greatest threat and obstacle to the wealthy ruling class was the middle class, if left affluent enough to afford the leisure
 7 time to read, study and vigilantly assert and defend its freedoms. But with the wealthy of the middle class gradually eroded
 8 through a steady, persistent combination of engineered devaluation of the money supply coupled with a gradual income tax,
 9 the majority of families would eventually require not one, but two breadwinners each of whom would likely have more than 10 one job. Sound familiar?

11 The children of many such families would spend more time most days with teachers in a government funded public school
 12 or with day care workers than they would with their own parents. The Census Bureau reports that during the fifteen year
 13 period from 1979 to 1994, the top 5% of income earners in the U.S. enjoyed a 45% increase income while the bottom 40%
 14 dropped 18.5%. Could this have resulted by sheer accident? Or could it have been planned?

15 The 10th plank in Marx's Communist Manifesto called for free government funded public education, to ensure that a 16 government's agenda would be inculcated into young minds from kindergarten.

17 Vladimir Lenin once said:

18 "Give me your four year-olds and in a generation I will build a socialist state..destroy the family and the society
 19 will collapse."

20 Ironically, isn't the above exactly what we are doing by:

- 21 1. Keeping prayer and God out of the schools (communists are atheists)?
- 22 2. Letting the government decide how to educate our children? (letting our children be propagandized)
- 23 3. Letting homosexuals and liberals educate them and giving them birth control pills and even abortions at school without 24 telling the parents? (corrupting their morals)
- 25 4. Suppressing school choice by preventing school vouchers because of powerful teacher union lobbies that slander
 26 school voucher campaigns every time they get on the ballot, for instance in California and Michigan in the most recent 27 election of 2000?

28 2.7.2 Public (Government) Schooling<sup>8</sup>

29 "Give me your four year-olds and in a generation I will build a socialist state ... destroy the family and the 30 society will collapse."
 31 [Vladimir Lenin

32 "Above all things I hope the education of the common people will be attended to; convinced that on their good 33 sense we may rely with the most security for the preservation of a due degree of liberty."
 34 [Thomas Jefferson to James Madison, 1787. Madison Version FE 4:480 ]

35 "Enlighten the people generally, and tyranny and oppressions of body and mind will vanish like evil spirits at 36 the dawn of day."
 37 [Thomas Jefferson to Pierre Samuel Dupont de Nemours, 1816. ME 14:491 ]

38 "Our schools have been scientifically designed to prevent overeducation from happening. The average

 40 other role."
 41 [U.S. Commissioner of Education, William T. Harris, 1889]

42 "The children who know how to think for themselves spoil the harmony of the collective society that is coming,
 43 where everyone would be interdependent. [1899]

1 Independent self-reliant people would be a counterproductive anachronism in the collective society of the future
 2 where people will be defined by their associations."
 3 [John Dewey, educational philosopher, proponent of modern public schools, 1896]

4 "A general State education is a mere contrivance for molding people to be exactly like one another; and as the
 5 mold in which it casts them is that which pleases the dominant power in the government, whether this be a
 6 monarch, an aristocracy, or a majority of the existing generation; in proportion as it is efficient and successful,
 7 it establishes a despotism over the mind, leading by a natural tendency to one over the body."
 8 [John Stuart Mill, 1859]

9 "Every child in America entering school at the age of five is insane because he comes to school with certain
 10 allegiances toward our Founding Fathers, toward his parents, toward our elected officials, toward a belief in a
 11 supernatural being, and toward the sovereignty of this nation as a separate entity. It's up to you, teachers, to 12 make all these sick children well by creating the international child of the future."
 13 [Chester Pierce, a Professor of Educational Psychiatry at Harvard]

14 "Education is what you must acquire without any interference from your schooling. "
 15 [Mark Twain]

16 Under the Department of Education's Goals 2000 and Outcome Based Education programs, today's public schools more
 17 often than not emphasize how the student feels about learning rather than the acquisition of such basic skills as reading,
 18 writing, arithmetic and analytical thinking. Math and verbal S.A.T. scores have steadily plummeted since 1963 when
 19 federal legislation placed psychiatrists, psychologists and their programs directly into the public schools. Supreme court
 20 rulings around that time also took prayer and God out of the schools, making them essentially into breeding grounds for 21 atheistic evolutionists teaching. 100 points were recently added to all S.A.T. scores across the board in an attempt to make 22 up for this national embarrassment.

23 Has the psychiatric profession had a role in the process of converting our public schools into government funded, mental
 24 health laboratories? Consider that there is now a large set of officially categorized psychiatric disorders for public school
 25 children. Find a diagnostic pigeonhole to place the student in, and the school becomes eligible for federal funding. One
 26 disorder is known as Opposition Defiance Disorder which in my day was simply talking back to parents or teachers.
 27 Another is Arithmetic Dysphoric Disorder, where a child may be slow in learning math. Another diagnosed malady is the 28 now famous Attention Deficit Disorder.

29 How about you? Did you ever exhibit any of these behaviors as a child during certain developmental stages? Did you ever
 30 talk back, fidget or fail to complete an assignment? Were you a little slow in learning trigonometry? Whatever happened
 31 to tutoring?

32 And what is today's solution? Make that behavior into a disease or a mental illness and prescribe a mind altering drug for 33 it! Over two million public school students are currently on Ritalin and other mind altering drugs. Is there an agenda 34 behind this?

35 GET YOUR CHILDREN OUT OF THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS AS FAST AS YOU CAN!

36 2.7.3 The Socialist's Plan to Make America Communist

37 "For every new mouth to feed, there are two hands to produce."
 38 [Peter T. Bauer]

39 "Intelligence and wisdom differ in that the former is the understanding of a thing and the latter is the judgment
 40 of the thing understood. Thus, the problem with Leftists isn't stupidity, but a lack of wisdom. In essence, Leftism 41 is intelligence without wisdom, which is a poison without an antidote."
 42 [Barrett Kalellis]

43 So it would appear that the 10th plank of Karl Marx's Communist Manifesto calling for government controlled public
 44 school education has pretty well been nailed down, too. And just how well have Marx's other planks been implemented in 45 modern America?

46 You might find it interesting to note that all ten planks have now been fully installed. The absolute right to inheritance has 47 been compromised through estate taxes, although such taxes are being misapplied against citizens within the states of the

1 union since they are a direct tax on property and, as such, are prohibited under Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the 2 Constitution as we will learn later.

3 The absolute right to the ownership of private property has been obliterated through laws allowing dozens of federal
4 agencies to seize private property with no charges brought against the owner, in total violation of the 5th Amendment
5 which states that private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation.

6 As much as the television- and internet pornography- and sports-addicted citizenry of our country--supposedly the greatest
7 and freest on earth--don't want to believe it, government-sanctioned theft happens every day. So I guess the first of Marx's
8 ten planks, abolition of private property, is pretty well in place, too.

9 As to Marx's remaining planks, the centralization of credit in the hands of a national bank and the central planner's control
10 over the means of communication, transportation, production, agriculture and labor are all firmly in the grip of the Federal 11 Reserve System, the Federal Communications Commission, the Department of Commerce, the Department of Energy, the 12 Department of Agriculture, and the Department of Labor.

13 Normal Thomas, for many years the U.S Socialist Presidential candidate, once stated:

14 The American people will never knowingly adopt socialism. But, under the name of "liberalism", they will adopt
15 every fragment of the socialist program, until one day America will be a socialist nation, without knowing how 16 it happened.

17 In 1928, Thomas wrote a pamphlet titled Democratic Socialism in which he stated:

18 "..here in America, more measures once praised and denounced as Socialist have been adopted than once I
19 should have thought possible, short of a Socialist victory at the polls."

20 In the Congressional Record for April 17, 1958, Thomas is quoted as stating:

21 "The United States is making greater strides toward Socialism under Eisenhower than ever under Roosevelt, 22 particularly in the fields of federal spending and welfare legislation."

23 And in the October 19, 1962 issue of the Cleveland Plan Dealer, Thomas is quoted as follows:

24 "The difference between Democrats and Republicans is [that] Democrats have accepted some ideas of 25 Socialism cheerfully, while Republicans have accepted them reluctantly.

26 I believe it was the former Premiere of the Soviet Union, Nikita Kruschev, who stated that communism was merely 27 socialism in a hurry.

28 2.7.4 The Commie Lesson

29 "There's only one way to kill capitalism-- by taxes, taxes, and more taxes."
30 [Karl Marx ]

31 I ACTUALLY AM A VISITOR FROM ANOTHER PLANET. This is not too hard to believe, as my critics, who are many,
32 will tell you without blushing that I am definitely something from another planet.

33 Now, correct me if I'm wrong, I am told that you people spend somewhere approaching a quarter Trillion dollars a year
34 (that's 250 Billion with a "B" dollars per year) on a military establishment. And I was in the restaurant here, being from 35 outer space, I was talking to this fellow, who told me he was a Christian, and he apparently thought this was great.

36 So I asked him, "why do you spend all this money?"

37 And he scratched his head, and said "Well gee, now that the Soviet Union is all dissolved, I don't know."

38 I said "well, why did you used to spend a quarter Trillion dollars a year on your military establishment?" And he said "Oh!
39 We wanted to defend ourselves from communism!"

1 And I asked "what is communism?"

2 And he said "Communism is a foreign and alien ideology that threatens by military force to impose itself over our objection
3 and against our will."

4 I thought that was kind of interesting, and I told him that I know a little something about communism, and I asked him if he
5 knew what communism was and he said, "well, no".

6 And I asked him if he had been trained in the public schools, and he said "yes." So I walked him through the communist
7 manifesto, as I will you now.

8 The communist manifesto was created by a fellow named Moses Mordecai Levi. You Americans out here know him as 9 Karl Marx, he was the son of a rabbi, and I asked why this guy went by an alias? The discussion fairly quickly elevated to 10 the status level of Battle-Stations Missile:

11 I said, "The first plank of the communist manifesto is:

12 Abolition of all property and land ownership and the application of all rents for public purposes."

13 And I asked this Christian, "Do you own your own home?"

14 He said "Yep."

15 I said, "What happens if you stop paying the property tax?"

16 He said "The sheriff will sell it."

17 I said, "I am woefully confused, of course, I am from another planet. How can the sheriff sell what you own?"

18 He was sorrowfully silent. So I said "isn't it a fact that you hold title and that you are not an "allod" on the land and isn't 19 your problem actually that you have an equity position in real property and the state wherein you live owns the land and
20 that's why they can move your butt off of it when you don't pay their rent?" And as he stared into the ceiling, I said "if you
21 pay property tax you practice the first plank of the communist manifesto. On the spaceship down here I was reading this big 22 thick book called the Bible, the Bible you Christians use, and I understand that you are in violation of Leviticus 25:23 if 23 you do that." He looked puzzled...

24 The second plank of the communist manifest is: Heavy progressive income tax.

25 You people don't fill out Illinois state form 1040's here do you, and you don't fill out form 1040's for the federal 26 government do you? Because if you do, you practice the second plank of the communist manifesto and you are in violation 27 of your Bible at Malachi 3:8 and Deuteronomy 4:13.

28 He loosened his tie...

29 I said the third plank of the communist manifesto is: Abolition of all rights of inheritance.

30 I said "How long have you lived in Illinois?" He said "All my life." I said "You don't have any probate courts here, do you?
31 You don't have a legal profession that is wall to wall teaching you to fill out wills instead of create trusts, do you? Because 32 if you know anyone who has been through probate court, or if you have personally been through probate court, you have
33 practiced the third plank of the communist manifesto and you are in violation of Deuteronomy 21:15-17 and Numbers
34 18:20-24." . He loosened his tie a little more...

35 The fourth plank of the communist manifesto is: Confiscation of property of all immigrants & rebels.

36 "You don't turn on the TV around April 1st in Illinois and see them drag some tax protestor off to jail, do you?" "Annually," 37 was the reply. "Well", I said, "if you participate in that or allow that to happen, or if that has happened to you, that's the

1 fourth plank of the communist manifesto, and it is a violation of Leviticus 26:17 and Proverbs 28:1." His eyes started to 2 glaze over.

3 I looked at him and said the fifth plank of the communist manifesto is: Centralization of credit by the creation of a national 4 bank.

5 I said, "You pay your debts at law, in silver, don't you? You don't discharge your obligations in equity, do you?" He started
6 to squirm. I said "if you rely on this green paper money for your sustenance, if your mind thinks in terms of this green paper
7 when you go to purchase things, you practice the fifth plank of the communist manifesto, and you are in violation of 8 Leviticus 19:35-36, Deuteronomy 25:13-16 and the aforementioned nasty and nefarious Exodus 20:15.

9 EXODUS 20: 15 reads "THOU SHALT NOT STEAL."

10 He started to become uneasy....

11 I said, the sixth plank of the communist manifesto is: Centralization of the means of communication & transport in the 12 hands of the state.

13 "You don't have ports of entry out here on the Interstate, do you? Your trucks don't have to drive in and out of these scales,
14 do you? You don't drive automobiles with the admiralty flag of the state of Illinois on the back with the yearly rental fee
15 stuck in the middle on a sticker, do you? Because if you do, you practice the sixth plank of the communist manifesto and 16 you are in violation of Deuteronomy 7:2 and Exodus 23:32-33." He started to fidget uncomfortably.

17 I said the seventh plank of the communist manifesto is: Government control of factories and the instruments of production
18 owned by the state; the bringing in to cultivation of wastelands and the improvement of the soil generally in accordance 19 with a common plan.

20 I said, "You don't have a Bureau of Land management, do you? You don't live under the administrative circumstance of the 21 Department of Agriculture, do you? And you don't have companion circumstances in the state law along with EPA and a
22 host of other things, because if you allow yourself to live under that system, you practice the seventh plank of the 23 communist manifesto and you are in violation of Leviticus 25: 1-7, actually Leviticus 25: 1-10. He closed his eyes.

24 I said the eighth plank of the communist manifesto reads: Equal obligation of all to work. Establishment of industrial armies,
25 especially for agriculture.

26 I said, "Do you have a Social Security number?" He shook his head up and down sorrowfully, I said "well doesn't that mean
27 that you're a fourteenth Amendment juristic person a merchant in interstate commerce under contract over time for profit
28 and gain in a regulated enterprise and you have waived all your constitutional rights under contract in exchange for 29 privileges, franchises and immunities?" He said "Privileges?" I said "yes, privilege! PRIVATE LAW: Privilege." He put his 30 chin in his solar plexus. I said "If you have a Social Security number, you practice the eighth plank of the communist 31 manifesto, and you are in violation of your Bible at Leviticus 19:13 and Deuteronomy 24:14&15." He became physically 32 agitated.

33 Number nine, I said: A combination of agriculture with manufacturing industries. Gradual abolition of the distinction
34 between town and country by a more equitable distribution of population over the country.

35 "You don't have a Federal Emergency Management Agency in Illinois, Do you? You don't have FEMA at the state level, do
36 you? Because if you do, you practice the ninth plank of the communist manifesto and you're in violation of [Leviticus 25: 1-
37 7](#). By this time he was just plain angry.

38 I finished by quoting the tenth plank of the communist manifesto: Free education for all children in public schools.
39 Abolition of Children's factory labor in its present form. Conform education with industrial productions.

40 I said "Are you a homeowner?" He said "yeah." I said "you pay the property tax?" He said "Yeah." I said "Do you know
41 where 75% of the property tax goes in this state?" He said "no." I said "It goes to support the public fool ..ahh .. the public
42 school system. I looked at him, I said "You don't tithe your children to the state, do you? You raise them at home the way
43 Yahweh told Moses to tell you to do, don't you?" As he got up and walked away, I said "If you support the public education

1 establishment, you are in violation of Deuteronomy 4:9-10, Deuteronomy 6: 1-25 and Deuteronomy 11:19. And you
2 practice the tenth plank of the communist manifesto."

3 And I went and got him and brought him back and sat him down and I said "You know, I am from outer space and one of
4 the reasons they sent me to this planet is that I'm not the brightest firecracker that ever went off in our galaxy. But what I'm
5 trying to figure out is why the hell would you spend 250 Billion "Dollars" a year defending yourselves against something
6 that you willfully and premeditatively do, under the color of law, and practice every second of every minute of every hour
7 of every day all year long?"

8 He said, "My God, I never thought about that! What do you think we should do?"

9 I said, "I don't know. Did the communists ever run a presidential candidate?" He said, "Oh yeah, Gus Hall, the venerable
10 ancient 80 year old president of the communist party used to run every time until the Democrats took over the Congress
11 after WWII."

12 I said to him, "If Gus Hall would have been elected President of the United States, do you think he would have abolished
13 property tax, do you think he would have abolished the income tax, do you think he would have instructed the legal
14 profession to only create trusts for families to hold property in, and that he would have abolished the probate courts? Do
15 you think he would have stopped the incarceration of so-called Tax rebels? Do you think Gus Hall would have closed the 16 federal reserve? Do you think he would have shut down the federal communications commission and allowed you to flip
17 through the dials on your TVs here in Chicago and watch television stations unlicensed by the government? Do you think
18 he would have eliminated all the bureaucracies that control trade, commerce, business, industry and agriculture? Do you
19 think he would have dumped the Social Security Administration and admitted that there was no trust fund, and that the 20 whole thing was just a gigantic chain letter used to alter your citizenship status in the thirties and redistribute your wealth?
21 That Roosevelt, he was a pretty crafty guy, wasn't he?"

22 I said "Do you think Gus Hall would have closed the public school system and sold the public schools back to the families
23 in the neighborhoods wherein they existed?" As I opened up the copy of the Bible the motel clerk told me I could keep for 24 free, my Christian friend got up and left, and I couldn't bring him back.

39 2.7.5 IRS Secret Police/KGB in Action!

40 "The tax collector must love poor people--he's creating so many of them."
41 [Bill Vaughan]

42 "In a free society, government protects citizens from threats against their persons and property. In a police
43 state, government deploys its law enforcement assets to protect itself against the "threat" posed by its own 44 subjects."
45 [W.N. Grigg]

46 The following article was extracted off the MSN Money website verbatim. It helps to show that the IRS doesn't hesitate to 47 use the same tactics as the Communists to enforce the payment of its slave tax, the income tax. Recall that the Communists

1 in the Soviet Union made everyone into informants by paying family members to snitch on each other! Would anyone
2 argue that isn't exactly what is going on below?

3 IRS pays informants to squeal on tax cheats

4 While it may seem Orwellian, thousands of people each year take advantage of the IRS program. Here's how it works.

5 By Jeff Schnepfer

6 <http://moneycentral.msn.com/articles/tax/basics/5399.asp>

7 "He's dead meat if he doesn't pay me. I won't sue him . . . I'll destroy him with one phone call!"

8 Don't make Dave Cohen angry.

9 *Dave is a New Jersey tax attorney. His clients pay their bills or they suffer the hell of an IRS civil and criminal
10 investigation. What Dave does is clearly unethical (that's why we can't use his real name), but he can't be caught. Dave is a 11 snitch for the IRS.*

12 Dave had a client who was a restaurant owner. He gave Dave a $1,000 cash deposit, but refused to pay the balance of his 13 bill. The restaurant owner was pocketing lots of cash income that never made it to his tax return -- a clear civil and 14 criminal violation. As an attorney, Dave couldn't publicly violate attorney-client privilege, so he had a friend call the IRS 15 with enough information to start an investigation.

16 Swarms of agents descend

17 Tips are important to the IRS. Annually, it collects more than $100 million and pays out from $2 million to $5 million to 18 snitches. If you've ever heard the horror stories about the invasiveness of a normal IRS audit, they pale in comparison to a 19 criminal investigation.

20 In the case of the not-so-innocent restaurant owner, swarms of agents descended upon and paralyzed his business. For the 21 next nine months, the owner endured the torture of Treasury agents peeling away every layer of his financial life, resulting 22 in multiple thousands of dollars in taxes, fines, penalties and interest.

23 He avoided jail only by hiring another attorney to negotiate a settlement with the IRS. The non-paying owner ended up 24 spending more money on legal fees than on the tax he should have paid originally.

25 Dave's friend even received a substantial reward for the information. And, of course, Dave's legal bill was finally paid.

26 Motive isn't profit but revenge

27 While the Internal Revenue Service doesn't publicly encourage tax informers, its representatives admit that many 28 investigations couldn't be successfully conducted, or even started, without the use of paid informants or the direct purchase 29 of evidence.

30 Most informants are former employees of a business that has been underreporting its income. A disgruntled employee who 31 doesn't inform on the business itself may squeal on its owner or a disliked manager.

32 But a neighbor who objects to your loud stereo at midnight or becomes jealous of your new car each year may just as 33 quickly turn informer. The emotional whirlpool of divorce is another great breeding ground for IRS informants, so be kind 34 to your former spouse.

35 *Anyone who provides information that leads to the detection and punishment of any violation of the tax code may be
36 eligible for a reward (except for federal workers who get the information in pursuit of their duties). However, don't think 37 this is the path to riches. Since 1960, only about 8% of filed claims have resulted in rewards.*

38 How to claim a reward

39 *IRS Publication 733 details the regulations for claiming a reward. You must complete Form 211, Application for a Reward
40 for Original Information, which can be requested from the IRS by calling (800) TAX-FORM. Neither document is available
41 on the IRS Web site. Your information can be delivered personally to any IRS office, or in writing to:*

42 *Head of the Criminal Investigation Division
43 Internal Revenue Service
44 Washington, DC 20224*

If a recovery is made as a direct result of information you provided, you may qualify for a reward of 15% of the amount recovered including taxes, fines and penalties, but not interest -- with a maximum payment of $2 million.

If your information was valuable, although not specific, in determining liability, you may be rewarded with as much as 10% of the amount recovered, again with a $2 million cap.

If your information was the originating cause of the investigation, but had no direct relationship to the determination of tax liability, the reward is 1% of the amount recovered, again with that $2 million limit.

Using an assumed name

If you're not claiming a reward for the information, you can use an assumed name. But if you want to claim a reward, you must use your own name. The IRS is legally prohibited from disclosing the identity of an informer to unauthorized persons.

The IRS heard from 9,530 informants and paid out 650 rewards totaling $3.5 million in the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, 1996, the most recent year for which statistics were available. In that year, the IRS collected an extra $102.7 million in taxes, fines and penalties because of the informants.

No matter what you tell the IRS, and no matter how much they collect, all rewards are discretionary, not mandatory. The IRS is never obligated to pay a reward, unless you negotiate a signed contract in advance of providing the information. Moreover, all rewards are taxable income.

Reasons why a reward might not be paid include:

- The information was of no value, or
- The information was already known by the IRS, or
- The information was available in public records.

Rewards are paid only after the tax is recovered, and that can take as long as five years or more. The informant isn't kept posted as to the progress of the investigation, but can check to see if the claim for a reward is still under active IRS consideration.

The idea of informing on neighbors, colleagues or business associates is distasteful to most people; it's Orwellian. Yet, it's the honest taxpayer who winds up paying for tax fraud, and it's not just nickels and dimes. The IRS estimates that the gap between taxes owed and taxes paid is $127 billion. That's $1,000 extra in taxes for every individual return filed last year.

And by the way, I always pay "Dave."

2.7.6 U.S. Government Communists Can Legally Install Surreptitious Tracking Devices on Your Car!

IRS Criminal Tax Bulletin number 200007002 reveals that the communist IRS has authority from our corrupt courts to install electronic tracking devices on your vehicle to learn everything they want about where you travel. Here is the summary of the court ruling from their bulletin:

No Fourth Amendment Violation in Placing a Tracking Device on a Suspect's Vehicle

In United States v. McIver, 186 F.3d. 1119 (9th Cir. 199), United States Forest Service officers identified McIver's vehicle from surveillance video taken of a marijuana patch located in a national forest. They traced the tag and learned McIver's address. The officers surreptitiously placed two tracking devices on the undercarriage of McIver's vehicle which was parked outside the curtilage of his residence. McIver ultimately was convicted of conspiracy to manufacture marijuana and appealed his conviction to the Ninth Circuit arguing, among other things, the warrantless placement of the tracking devices on his vehicle constituted an unreasonable search and seizure.

Though a question of first impression, the Ninth Circuit found adequate precedent to rule the placement of the devices on the vehicle did not constitute a search. There is no reasonable expectation of privacy in the exterior of a car because the exterior of a car is thrust into the public eye and thus to examine it does not constitute search. United States v. Class, 475 U.S. 106 (1986). The undercarriage is part of the car's exterior, and as such, is not afforded a reasonable expectation of privacy. United States Rascon-Ortiz, 944 F.2d. 749 (19th Cir. 1993). Here, the officers do not pry into a hidden or enclosed area and McIver produced no evidence to show he intended to shield the undercarriage of his vehicle from inspection by others.

The court also rejected McIver's assertion that the placement of the devices on the vehicle constituted a unlawful seizure. In United States v. Kar, 468 U.S. 706 (1984) the Supreme Court held a "seizure" occurs when there is some meaningful interference with an individual's possessory interests in property. The Karo court ruled the placement of a beeper in a can of ether before selling and tracking it to the suspect, was at most a technical trespass on the space occupied by the beeper and was of marginal relevance to establishing constitutional violation. Applying this principle, the Ninth Circuit found McIver presented no evidence the device deprived him of dominion and control of his vehicle or caused any damage to the electronic components in the vehicle. Thus, no seizure occurred because there was no meaningful interference with McIver's possessory interest in the vehicle.

We live in a police state, folks. The communists have already taken over! There is a clear violation of the Constitution, ethics, and morality here, no matter how technical the courts got on the issue to evade the truth. The First Amendment guarantees us a right of free speech and free expression. That right includes the right to NOT communicate with your government. What the government has done in the above anecdote, not unlike what the Communists did in the Soviet Union, is created a society of snitches and informants by turning both people and things against others. The Soviets used people as informants and our communist U.S. government is just a little more sophisticated than that: they engineer and employ things instead of people as snitches, but the result is the same: violation of the First Amendment right to NOT communicate with your government. George Orwell's 1984 book predicted this kind of tyranny would happen and it's in our midst now. What are we going to do about it? Recall that in Orwell's book, a camera watched your every move in your own home and if you did anything unauthorized, the government would persecute and punish you. Today's government is doing exactly that already by making a person's property into a snitch and an informant on its owner. This transgression will become increasingly important in a computer and technological age, where no doubt the government will eventually try to install ID chips inside of people and pass laws to force software manufacturers to program their applications to snitch on their owners. This causes one's "property", in effect to "express" the location of its owner to the government, and this violates "freedom of expression" guaranteed by the First Amendment. Freedom of expression involves more than just speaking, it involves any type of communication or conveyance of intelligence or information, including computer transmissions, radio transmitters, and GPS tracking device records: all of these devices express information about the owner of the property to the government in an unwanted manner.

Expression. 1 a: an act, process, or instance of representing in a medium (as words): UTTERANCE <freedom of ~> b (1): something that manifests, embodies, or symbolizes something else <this gift is an ~ of my admiration for you> (2): a significant word or phrase (3): a mathematical or logical symbol or a meaningful combination of symbols (4): the detectable effect of a gene: also EXPRESSIVITY 2 a: a mode, means, or use of significant representation or symbolism: esp: felicitous or vivid indication or depiction of mood or sentiment <read the poem with ~> b (1): the quality or fact of being expressive (2): facial aspect or vocal intonation as indicative of feeling 3: an act or product of pressing out—expressional.

The natural right of the ownership of "property" includes the right of "enjoyment" of it. Look at the definition of "property" and see for yourself:

"Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belongs exclusively to one. In the strict legal sense, an aggregate of rights [including First Amendment rights] which are guaranteed and protected by the government. Fulton Light, Heat & Power Co. v. State, 65 Misc.Rep. 263, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude every one else from interfering with it [including causing it to communicate or express your whereabouts]. That dominion or indefinite right [unlimited, including the right to NOT communicate with your possessions] of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or subjects. The exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. The highest right a man can have to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which no way depend on another man's courtesy...."

"Property embraces everything which is or may be the subject of ownership, whether a legal ownership, or whether beneficial, or a private ownership...."
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, pp. 1216-1218]

How can the owner of property "enjoy" having property that snitches on him or her? The only thing that kind of ownership implies is anxiety and fear of government persecution. This is clearly tyranny and must be stopped, folks! It impinges on our sovereignty and makes us live a life of fear and oppression. The exercise of one right, that is the right of property, cannot and should not imply the oppression or denigration of any other right, and especially if that oppression of other rights, such as First Amendment rights, was not done deliberately and willfully by the owner of the property. In the above case, the exercise of property rights by the owner became a means to eliminate other rights of the owner, in this case First Amendment rights, and this case makes the whole Bill of Rights inconsistent with itself and eliminates the possibility that all of our rights can peacefully coexist together without impingement from the government. In the words of the Supreme Court, the purpose of the Bill of Rights is to “keep the government off our backs.” How does the above ruling further that end?

“The First Amendment was designed to allow rebellion to remain as our Heritage. The Constitution was designed to keep the government off the backs of the people. The Bill of Rights was added to keep the precincts of belief and expression, of the press, of political and social activities free from surveillance. The Bill of Rights was designed to keep agents of government and official eavesdroppers away from Assemblies of People. The aim was to allow men to be free and independent to assert their rights against government. There can be no influence more paralyzing of that objective than Army [government] surveillance. When an intelligence officer looks over every nonconformist’s shoulder in the library, or walks invisibly by his side in a picket line, or infiltrates his club [or forces him to submit an income tax return and then scrutinizes it for personal information or illegal activity], the America once extolled as the voice of liberty heard around the world no longer is [408 U.S. 1, 29] cast in the image which Jefferson and Madison designed, but more in the Russian [Communist!] image, depicted in Appendix III to this opinion.”
[Laird v. Tatum, 408 U.S. 1; 92 S.Ct. 2318 (1972)]

2.8 Sources of Government Tyranny and Oppression

“Society in every state is a blessing, but government, even in its best state is but a necessary evil; in its worst state, an intolerable one.”
[Thomas Paine (1737-1809)]

How did we get to be a socialist/communist country full of people who are slaves and serfs to an invisible ruling class of politicians and bankers in Washington D.C.? What are the means they used to enslave us? Below is a succinct list of the six main weapons they used to enslave us, and they are all propaganda weapons. In a free country where open violence is a criminal act, these are the only weapons you can use without blatantly violating the law and exposing yourself to negative political repercussions:

1. Presumption: The government will steal ordinary terms from our language, create a legal definition for them that is entirely different from the common usage, and then encourage people to continue using the common definition of the term, usually at great injury to themselves. People don’t bother to verify or ask the basis for the definition of the terms the government is using because they inherently “trust” the government, which we will show is a BIG mistake. In effect, the government “steals” our language and uses it to enslave us. The feds did this with the terms “United States”, “State”, “U.S. citizen”, “employee”, “income”, “individual”, “trade or business”, and “tax” in the Internal Revenue Code, for instance, as you will see later in section 3.9.1 and following. The way to fight this kind of presumption is that whenever you are communicating with a representative from the government,
  - 1.1. Precisely define all of the important terms you are using in correspondence you send.
  - 1.2. For correspondence they send or things they say, demand that they provide either a definition for the terms they are using out of only the law (so it doesn’t depend on the whims of a man). If they won’t, you can assume they are trying to deceive you and that you should read the law and expose their constructive fraud by complaining to their supervisor and to your elected representatives.

“The greatest enemy of the truth is very often not the lie - deliberate, contrived and dishonest - but the myth - persistent, persuasive and unrealistic.”
[President John F. Kennedy, at Yale University on June 11, 1962]

2. Partial truth: The courts do not tell the whole truth in their rulings. For instance, they don’t document their “presumptions” about their jurisdiction, the physical location of the property they are ruling on (which is the federal zone for most federal rulings), your citizenship status, or your “taxpayer” status in their rulings, because if they did, they would not only make themselves criminally liable for conspiracy to against rights, but would also undermine efforts to expand the illegal enforcement of income tax and their jurisdiction.

“The secret of success is sincerity. If you can fake that, you’ve got it made!”

3. Deception: Courts and politicians are famous for deception relating to jurisdiction or income taxes, because both are the source of their power. This explains why politicians and lawyers are at the bottom of the credibility list in every poll of the American public. The Office of Law Revision Counsel (L.R.C., see <http://uscode.house.gov/uscode.htm>) of the House of Representatives, which is responsible for amending the U.S. Codes, has progressively and deliberately obfuscated the Internal Revenue Code, Title 26 of the U.S. Code, to conceal the truth from the average American that the law does not require them to pay income taxes. In effect, the LRC is abusing the law to make it a vehicle for propaganda.

*"The law is anything that can be boldly asserted and plausibly maintained."
[Michal S. Josephson, Bar Review Course, 1979]*

4. Silence: Politicians, lawyers, and IRS agents will remain silent when questioned about matters in this book, or will respond with a form letter totally unrelated to the subject matter of your inquiry. That way, they can at least "look" like they tried to help you but in fact, tried to contribute to deceiving you or maintaining your ignorance of the law and your rights. Courts do the same thing: when the U.S. Supreme Court gets an appeal or "writ of certiorari" from a circuit or state court relating to income taxes that clearly violates the constitutional rights of an American and relates to a matter obviously outside their jurisdiction, they will deny the appeal and not explain why. This is called a "sin of omission", which is an abrogation of a legal duty by a failure to act.

*"Silence is a species of conduct, and constitutes and implied representation of the existence of facts in question. When silence is of such character, and under such circumstances that it would become a fraud, it will operate as an Estoppel."
[Carmine v. Bowen, 64 A. 932]*

5. Fear: The effect of the above tactics are magnified and spread and encouraged through fear. After IRS has twisted the arms of private employers by misenforcing and misrepresenting the nature of bogus levies and liens, then they will use the fear of the private employers to enslave their employees. The private employers will be so scared not to comply with the IRS that they will either fire employees who refuse to withhold or provide Socialist Security Numbers or blatantly discriminate against them by refusing to accept their W-8 or W-4 Exempt forms stopping withholding. They will also use fear within families by using the security instinct that females have and playing this against the male in the family who is the breadwinner and wants to either stop withholding or paying.
6. Envy. The original income tax had its roots in 1909, when the Sixteenth Amendment was sent to the states for ratification. If you read through the Congressional Record of debates surrounding the Sixteenth Amendment, the Democrats of that time used envy of the wealth of big corporations as an excuse to introduce the income tax amendment. In effect, they slandered and vilified the "robber barons" like J.P. Morgan, Carnegie, etc. so that the average American thought they had outrageous wealth and should share it with everyone else. In effect, the Democrats tried to turn the government into an agent of plunder in order to equalize outcomes instead of opportunity. This is a recipe for socialism.

*"A tax, in the general understanding of the term and as used in the constitution, signifies an exaction for the support of the government. The word has never thought to connote the expropriation of money from one group for the benefit of another."
[U.S. Supreme Court in United States v. William M. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 (1936)]*

*"A democracy cannot exist as a permanent form of government. It can only exist until the voters discover that they can vote themselves money from the Public Treasury. From that moment on, the majority always votes for the candidate promising the most benefits from the Public Treasury with the result that a democracy always collapses over loose fiscal policy always followed by dictatorship."
[Alexander Fraser Tytler, "The Decline and Fall of the Athenian Republic"]*

All of the above weapons are employed through the use of a liberal American Media Machine and through the obfuscation of the law, and they are facilitated and encouraged by your own ignorance and apathy generated in you by a communist public school system that is run by the government. Only among the human species are parents stupid enough to turn over their children to be raised and propagandized by their enemies. The following subsections will expand upon the above elements or tools for tyranny by which we have been deceived and subsequently enslaved.

2.8.1 Deception: The Religion of SATAN and our government

Question: How can you tell if either a lawyer or a politician are lying?

*Answer: Their lips are moving.
[Anonymous]*

1 Satan is referred to by many names throughout the Bible, as indicated below:

- 2 1. Lawless one (2 Thess. 2:3-17)
- 3 2. Adversary (1 Pet. 5:8)
- 4 3. Accuser (Rev. 12:10)
- 5 4. Wicked one (Matt. 13:19)
- 6 5. Murderer (John 8:44)

7 In his essence, Satan is a false accuser, a slanderer, an adversary, and a liar. Satan's chief weapon in perpetrating his 8 opposition to the will of God is deception.

9 "You are of your father the devil, and the desires of your father you want to do. He was a murderer from the 10 beginning, and does not stand in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaks a lie, he speaks 11 from his own resources, for he is a liar and the father of it."
12 [John 8:44, Bible, NKJV]

13 The definition of "Devil" further explains these conclusions from Strong's Concordance of the Bible:

14 Devil, diabolos (dee-ab-ol-oss). This adjective, which literally means "slanderous", is derived from the verb*
15 diaballo, "to bring charges with hostile intent" (justly or slanderously, usually the latter). Although diabolos
16 retains its adjectival meaning occasionally in the NT (1 Tim. 3:11; Titus 2:3), in most instances it is used
17 substantively as a proper name for a specific "slanderer"—the "devil" (Matt. 4; Luke 4; Eph. 6:11). This use
18 of the word is already established in the Septuagint, where it occurs frequently as a translation of the Heb.
19 Satan ("adversary"). The association of the "devil" with Satan continues in the NT (e.g., John 13:2, 27; Rev.
20 20:2). (Strongs #1228)
21 [Strongs Concordance of the Bible, #1228]

22 Obviously, in order to successfully slander someone, one must be a bold, arrogant, conceited, and convincing liar. In some 23 cases, people make such evil into a profession. They walk around with suits and ties and briefcases slandering their 24 opponents in front of juries, judges, and the media using lies and charging exorbitant amounts for their dis-service to 25 society. The name of such professions are:

- 26 1. Politicians
- 27 2. Democrats
- 28 3. Judges
- 29 4. Attorneys
- 30 5. Lawyers

31 respectively! The only profession ever criticized in the bible by Jesus was the practice of law, as a matter of fact, and now
32 you know why. Also keep in mind that the majority of politicians and nearly all judges are or were also lawyers. See Matt.
33 23:23 to learn what Jesus thought of these people, and it's not pretty!

34 The following scripture compares and contrasts liars from the righteous to help you discern them:

35 "He who speaks truth declares righteousness,
36 But a false witness deceit.
37 There is one who speaks like the piercings of a sword,
38 But the tongue of the wise promotes health.
39 The truthful lip shall be established forever,
40 But a lying tongue is but for a moment.
41 Deceit is in the heart of those who devise evil.
42 But counselors of peace have joy.
43 No grave trouble will overtake the righteous,
44 But the wicked shall be filled with evil.
45 Lying lips are an abomination to the Lord,
46 but those who deal truthfully are His delight."
47 [Prov. 12:17-22, Bible, NKJV]

48 "The righteous man hates lying."
49 [Prov. 13:5, Bible, NKJV]

50 The Apostle James explains what Satan's religion is, which is Deception, in James 1:26:

1                   "If any among you thinks he is religious, and does not bridle his tongue but deceives his own heart, this one's
 2                   religion is useless."
 3                   [James 1:26, Bible, NKJV]

4 Notice that James above would appear to have referred to "deception" as a religion and he called it "useless". Other
 5 versions of the bible replace the word "useless" with "vain". Vanity is sometimes synonymous with "pride". It was 6 Satan's pride that caused him to rebel against God and slander God.

7                   "In the mouth of a fool is a rod of pride.
 8                   But the lips of the wise will preserve them."
 9                   [Prov. 14:3, Bible, NKJV]

10                   "Pride goes before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall. Better to be of a humble spirit with the lowly,
 11                   than to divide the spoil with the proud."
 12                   [Prov. 16:18-19, Bible, NKJV]

13 Our politicians and their slavery mongers and Mafioso extortionists at the IRS have the same motives as Satan: pride and 14 covetousness, which are manifested or evidenced by slander, lies, and deception. Satan coveted God's power and authority
 15 and he wanted to be God and replace God. Everything he does is a cheap imitation of God's true sovereignty and is based 16 on deceit and deception. He is a rebel at heart and he lusts after God's power. Our politicians are no different: they lust
 17 after power and prestige, which means they can't act like the public servants that they are. They commonly try to deceive
 18 their constituents into thinking, for instance, that they are the equivalent of gods and kings. They want you to think that
 19 they are the sovereigns and you are the servants, even though you will find out later in chapter 4 that the opposite is actually
 20 true, and the only reason people believe otherwise is their own legal ignorance. The scumbag politicians and lawyers do
 21 this by boldly going around and lying about their authority and what the law says. And if the law too clearly states the
 22 truth, then they will try to obfuscate it so that you have to rely on them to "interpret it" for you, and what do you think they
 23 are going to say that it says: "They are the sovereigns and you are 'subject to' them and their laws". And when the truth
 24 comes out occasionally about how very little authority they really have, then they try to silence the messenger rather than 25 agree with the message using the press and lots of false propaganda. The Department of Justice has a whole section of their 26 website devoted to such deceptive LIES and propaganda at the web address below:

27 http://www.usdoj.gov/03press/03\_1\_1.html

28 Power in the political realm is summarized in one word: jurisdiction. Politicians know that most of their power and 29 jurisdiction derives from economic means. To the extent that they control the money is the extent to which they think that 30 they run the country. They use money as a means to create "privilege-induced slavery", where they make it a "taxable 31 privilege" to receive some kind of government benefit or a "privilege" in order to keep the money that is rightfully yours,
 32 and then they force you to do something under the color of law in order to qualify for the "privilege". Unfortunately, the 33 things that they make into "privileges" are your "rights", which means you have no liberties left after they fiddle with the 34 laws!

35 When you do your research and uncover their lies and their fraud, since they don't want to be exposed or convicted for 36 committing perjury or fraud, then they instead will create a big bureaucracy to respond to your issues to make it at least
 37 "appear" that they are "trying" to help you, and then they deliberately make it so big and inefficient and wasteful and
 38 unresponsive that it never responds to any of your concerns. That way, what is really an evasion of the truth, an outright
 39 acquiescence to a lie, a constructive fraud, and an oppression of your rights looks far more innocuous and can be described
 40 with far gentler words like "inefficiency" and "bureaucracy" and "an opportunity for improvement". They will hire
 41 "clerks" within these bloated bureaucracies to respond who are so under-qualified and underpaid that they make easy
 42 scapegoats for the fraud of their superiors. Then when you litigate and expose the fraud to juries, they will do the same
 43 thing that Satan tries to do: slander and discredit and murder your character with lies and threaten the judge with an audit
 44 and collection activity if he doesn't go along with the game. This is the very definition of evil, if you ask us, and the 45 foundation of it is the religion of deception that perpetuates the power, the money, and the prestige that so many politicians
 46 covet but seldom obtain. The Bible in 2 Tim. 3:1-9 describes all of the personality characteristics of the kind of warped
 47 people we have elected to be our contemporary politicians and the kind of DOJ lawyers that they have working for them to 48 perpetrate such EVIL:

49                   "But know this, that in the last days perilous times will come: for men will be lovers of themselves, lovers of 50                   money, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents, unthankful, unholy, unloving, unforgiving,
 51                   slanderers, without self-control, brutal, despisers of good, traitors, headstrong, haughty, lovers of pleasure

1 rather than lovers of God, having a form of godliness but denying its power [God's sovereignty over them
 2 and the government]. And from such people turn away! For of this sort are those who creep
 3 into households and make captives of gullible women loaded down with sins, led away by various lusts, always
 4 learning and never able to come to the knowledge of truth. Now as Jannes and Jambres resisted Moses, so do
 5 these also resist the truth: men of corrupt minds, disapproved concerning the faith; but they will progress no
 6 further, for their folly will be manifest to all, as theirs also was.
 7 [2 Tim. 3:1-9, Bible, NKJV]

8 The bible also describes the collective governments and corrupted politicians in them who are at war with God because of 9 their evil deceit, sinfulness, and idolatry described above. It calls them the “beast” in the book of Revelation.

10 “And I saw the beast, the kings [political rulers] of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make
 11 war against Him [God] who sat on the horse and against His army.”
 12 [Revelation 19:19, Bible, NKJV]

13 Incidentally, it is this same “beast” that issues its mark to all its followers: the Socialist Security Number. What makes the 14 “beast” to be at war with God is the vain use of the religion of deception and the encouragement of the sheep in God’s flock
 15 to practice idolatry toward government by making government into a false god.

16 “Cursed is the one who trusts in man [or man-made government], who depends on flesh for his strength and
 17 whose heart turns away from the Lord. He will be like a bush in the wastelands; he will not see prosperity
 18 when it comes. He will dwell in the parched places of the desert, in a salt land where no one lives. But blessed
 19 is the man who trusts in the Lord, whose confidence is in Him. He will be like a tree planted by the water that 20 sends out its roots by the stream. It does not fear when heat comes; its leaves are always green. It has no
 21 worries in a year of drought and never fails to bear fruit.”
 22 [Jeremiah 17:5-8, Bible, NIV]

23 People in government want to be worshipped and feared just like the God they are imitating and competing with, so they 24 will make the people afraid for their safety and then offer their false power and sovereignty and protection as a cheap
 25 substitute for the real God. Remember, the purpose of governments, like God, is to protect the people. God goes one step
 26 beyond government by actually loving the people too, in fulfillment of the second greatest commandment found in Matt
 27 22:39. Atheistic and socialistic governments forget that part of their stewardship and in so doing, destroy the people and 28 the countries they are there to protect because of their greed and lust. In the process of imitating and trying to replace God,
 29 these covetous and proud and selfish politicians slap the real God in the face and give the people a false sense of security.

30 “PRESS RELEASE: WASHINGTON, D.C.

31 The U.S. government announced today that it is changing its emblem to a condom. The President explained
 32 that the condom more clearly reflects the government's political stance. A condom stands up to inflation, halts
 33 production, destroys the next generation, protects a bunch of pricks, and gives you a sense of security while it's 34 actually screwing you.”

35 The people were forewarned by God that this would happen, but because they preferred pleasure and hedonism over the 36 truth or God, they allow themselves to be deceived and enslaved. The Apostle Paul, as a matter of fact, vividly described 37 exactly the techniques that our satanic government presently employs and what we should do about it:

38 “Let no one deceive you by any means; for the Day will not come unless the falling away comes first, and the
 39 man of sin is revealed, the son of perdition [Satan], who exalts himself above all that is called God or that is
 40 worshipped so that he sits as God in the temple of God, showing himself that he is God. [does this sound like
 41 our politicians in their piousness in Washington, D.C.]

42 “Do you not remember that when I was still with you I told you these things? And now you know what is 43 restraining, that he may be revealed in his own time.

44 “For the mystery of lawlessness is already at work; only He [God] who now restrains will do so until He is 45 taken out of the way. And then the lawless one [Satan] will be revealed, whom the Lord will consume with the 46 breath of His mouth and destroy with the brightness of His coming. The coming of the lawless one [Satan] is
 47 according to the working of Satan, with all power, signs, and lying wonders, and with all unrighteous
 48 deception among those who perish, because they did not receive the love of the truth, that they might be saved
 49 [don't be one of them!]. And for this reason God will send them strong delusion [from their own
 50 government], that they should believe a lie, that they all may be condemned who did not believe the truth but 51 had pleasure in unrighteousness.”
 52 [2 Thess. 2:3-17, Bible, NKJV]

1 And keep in mind that the phrase "the love of the truth" means the love of God's law and His word in the Bible and the
2 saving faith that it originates from. Paul again warns us not to either deceive or be deceived in the book of Colossians:

3 "Do not lie to one another, since you have put off the old man with his deeds, and have put on the new man who
4 is renewed in knowledge according to the image of Him who created him."
5 [Col. 3:9, Bible, NKJV]

6 "Beware lest anyone cheat you through philosophy and empty deceit, according to the tradition of men,
7 according to the basic principles of the world, and not according to Christ."
8 [Col. 2:8, Bible, NKJV]

9 Psalm 52 in the Bible also describes what will happen to people who disregard Paul's admonition and deceive anyway:

10 Why do you boast in evil, O mighty man?
11 The goodness of God endures continually,
12 Your tongue devises destruction,
13 Like a sharp razor, working deceitfully.
14 You love evil more than good,
15 Lying rather than speaking righteousness,
16 You love all devouring words,
17 You deceitful tongue.

18 God shall likewise destroy you forever;
19 He shall take you away, and pluck you out of your dwelling place,
20 And uproot you from the land of the living.
21 The righteous also shall see and fear,
22 And shall laugh at him, saying,
23 "Here is the man who did not make God his strength,
24 But trusted in the abundance of his riches,
25 And strengthened himself in his wickedness."

26 But I am like a green olive tree in the house of God;
27 I trust in the mercy of God forever and ever.
28 I will praise You forever,
29 Because You have done it;
30 and in the presence of Your saints
31 I will wait on Your name, for it is good."
32 [Psalm 52, Bible, NKJV]

33 Why do Americans tolerate deceit from their government? The answer is simple: They have turned away from God and 34 no longer use their faith in God as the primary arbiter of truth and morality, and this is even true of professed
35 "Christians". Scientific statistics powerfully confirm this conclusion. George Barna of Barna Research
36 (<http://www.barna.org>) has done a poll of Americans on how they come to conclusions about right and wrong and truth and 37 morality at:

38 <http://www.barna.org/cgi-bin/PagePressRelease.asp?PressReleaseID=106&Reference=D>

39 His findings are surprising and you should look at them in order to determine and understand why Americans are so willing 40 to trust and believe a lying government. Below is an excerpt from his article:

41 Americans are Most Likely to Base Truth on Feelings

42 Americans unanimously denounced the September 11 terrorist attacks as a textbook example of evil, suggesting 43 that there is a foundational belief in an absolute standard of right and wrong. Subsequent research, however,
44 has shown that in the aftermath of the attacks, a minority of Americans believes in the existence of absolute
45 moral truth. Even more surprising, the data from a pair of nationwide studies conducted by the Barna Research
46 Group of Ventura, California showed that less than one out of three born again Christians adopt the notion of 47 absolute moral truth. The surveys also found that few Americans turn to their faith as the primary guide for 48 their moral and ethical decisions.

49 Truth Is Relative, Say Americans

50 In two national surveys conducted by Barna Research, one among adults and one among teenagers, people
51 were asked if they believe that there are moral absolutes that are unchanging or that moral truth is relative to the circumstances. By a 3-to-1 margin (64% vs. 22%) adults said truth is always relative to the person and their situation. The perspective was even more lopsided among teenagers, 83% of whom said moral truth depends on the circumstances, and only 6% of whom said moral truth is absolute.

The gap between teen and adult views was not surprising, however, when the adult views are considered by generation. While six out of ten people 36 and older embraced moral relativism, 75% of the adults 18 to 35 did so. Thus, it appears that relativism is gaining ground, largely because relativism appears to have taken root with the generation that preceded today's teens.

The Barna study also showed that there is a racial component to this issue, as well. Among whites, 60% endorse relativism, compared to 26% who adopt absolutism. Among non-whites, however, 74% support relativism and just 15% believe in absolute morality. (Fifteen percent of Hispanic adults and only 10% of African-American adults contended that moral truth is absolute.)

Not surprisingly, born again Christians were more likely than non-born again individuals to accept moral absolutes. Among adults, 32% of those who were born again said they believe in moral absolutes, compared to just half as many (15%) among the non-born again contingent. Among teenagers, there was still a 2-to-1 ratio evident, but the numbers were much less impressive: only 9% of born again teens believe in moral absolutes versus 4% of the non-born again teens.

Moral Decision-Making

The surveys also asked people to indicate the basis on which they make their moral and ethical decisions. Six different approaches were listed by at least 5% of the teenagers interviewed, and eight approaches were listed by at least 5% of adults. In spite of the variety communicated, there was a clear pattern within both groups. By far the most common basis for moral decision-making was doing whatever feels right or comfortable in a situation. Nearly four out of ten teens (38%) and three out of ten adults (31%) described that as their primary consideration.

Among adults, other popular means of moral decision-making were on the basis of the values they had learned from their parents (15%), on the basis of principles taught in the Bible (13%), and based on whatever outcome would produce the most personally beneficial results (10%).

Teenagers were slightly different in their approach. One out of six (16%) said they made their choices on the basis of whatever would produce the most beneficial results for them [is it any surprise why we have Enrons with this kind of attitude? Standby for MORE!]. Three alternative foundations were each identified by one out of ten teens: whatever would make the most people happy, whatever they thought their family and friends expected of them, and on the basis of the values taught by their parents. Just 7% of teenagers said their moral choices were based on biblical principles.

Once again, the age pattern was evident. People 36 or older were more than twice as likely as adults in the 18-to-35 age group to identify the Bible as their basis of moral choices (18% vs. 7%). The proportion of young adults who selected the Bible as their primary moral filter was identical to that of teenagers. In contrast, more than half of the young adults (52%) and teenagers (54%) base their moral choices on feelings and beneficial outcomes compared to just one-third of adults 36 and older who do so (32%). [SCARY!]

The racial pattern was evident on this matter, too. White adults were nearly three times as likely as non-white adults to base their moral choices on the Bible (17% vs. 6%). Blacks were four times more likely than whites (23% vs. 6%), and Hispanics were more than twice as likely as whites (16% vs. 6%) to base their moral decisions on the potential benefits of their choice.

What It Means

These figures were cited by George Barna, whose firm conducted the research, as a major reason underlying the data he released in a controversial recent public presentation about the moral views and behaviors of Christians. In that forum, which is now available on videotape from Barna Research ("Morality and the Church"), Barna noted that substantial numbers of Christians believe that activities such as abortion, gay sex, sexual fantasies, cohabitation, drunkenness and viewing pornography are morally acceptable. "Without some firm and compelling basis for suggesting that such acts are inappropriate, people are left with philosophies such as 'if it feels good, do it,' 'everyone else is doing it' or 'as long as it doesn't hurt anyone else, it's permissible.' In fact, the alarmingly fast decline of moral foundations among our young people has culminated in a one-word worldview: 'whatever.' The result is a mentality that esteems pluralism, relativism, tolerance, and diversity without critical reflection of the implications of particular views and actions."

Barna emphasized the importance of the data related to the views of teenagers and the born again population. "Just one out of ten of our country's born again teenagers believe in absolute moral truth - a statistic that is nearly identical to that of non-born again teens. Christian families, educators and churches must prioritize

1 this matter if the Christian community hopes to have any distinctiveness in our culture. The virtual
 2 disappearance of this cornerstone of the Christian faith - that is, God has communicated a series of moral
 3 principles in the Bible that are meant to be the basis of our thoughts and actions, regardless of our
 4 preferences, feelings or situations - is probably the best indicator of the waning strength of the Christian
 5 Church in America today."

6 The researcher stated that the difference in truth views between born again and non-born again adults was 7 statistically significant, but not much to cheer about. "When a majority of Christian adults, including three
 8 out of four born again Baby Busters, as well as three out of four born again teens proudly cast their vote for
 9 moral relativism, the Church is in trouble. Continuing to preach more sermons, teach more Sunday school
 10 classes and enroll more people in Bible study groups won't solve the problem since most of these people don't
 11 accept the basis of the principles being taught in those venues. The failure to address this issue at its root,
 12 and to do so quickly and persuasively, will undermine the strength of the church for at least another 13 generation, and probably longer."

14 Barna also reported that compared to a similar study his firm conducted a decade ago, the basis of people's 15 moral and ethical decisions these days is more likely to be feelings and less likely to be the Bible.

16 The above very disturbing research simply confirms that the faith and convictions of Christians, much less Americans,
 17 toward God have gone sour. Christians have sold out to a corrupted culture and a corrupted world, and the sincere ones
 18 who rely on God's word are dying out as the statistics show. They are no longer "sanctified" and set apart by their faith
 19 (see John 17:13-19) and simply go to church for entertainment and convenience and vanity. Their prosperity has corrupted
 20 them and their churches have become social clubs and mutual admiration societies instead of being the salt and light of the 21 world to bring the Lord's truth and justice and mercy. They are therefore heading for HELL and have become disobedient
 22 to God's commandments:

23 "Woe to the rebellious children," says the Lord, "Who take counsel, but not of Me, and who devise plans, but
 24 not of My Spirit, that they may add sin to sin; who walk to go down to Egypt, and have not asked My advice,
 25 to strengthen themselves in the strength of Pharaoh, and to trust in the shadow of Egypt! Therefore the
 26 strength of Pharaoh shall be your shame, and trust in the shadow of Egypt shall be your humiliation ...

27 Now go, write it before them on a tablet, and note it on a scroll, that it may be for time to come, forever and
 28 ever: that this is a rebellious people, lying children, children who will not hear the law of the Lord; who say to
 29 *the seers, "Do not see," and to the prophets, "Do not prophesy to us right things' Speak to us smooth
 30 [politically correct] things, prophesy deceits. Get out of the way, turn aside from the path, cause the Holy One*
 31 of Israel to cease from before us."

32 Therefore thus says the Holy One of Israel:

33 "Because you despise this word, and trust in oppression and perversity, and rely on them, therefore this iniquity
 34 shall be to you like a breach ready to fall, a bulge in a high wall, whose breaking comes suddenly, in an instant.
 35 And He shall break it like the breaking of the potter's vessel, which is broken in pieces; He shall not spare. So
 36 there shall not be found among its fragments a shard to take fire from the hearth, or to take water from the 37 cistern."
 38 [Isaiah 30:1-3, 8-14, Bible, NKJV]

39 But the Lord has a much higher calling for us all:

40 "If you love me, keep My commandments. And I will pray the Father, and He will give you another Helper,
 41 that He may abide with you forever—the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees
 42 Him nor knows Him; but you know Him, for He dwells with you and will be in you."
 43 [John 14:15-17, Bible, NKJV]

44 Barna's research explains where we must begin if we are to fix our corrupted culture and reform our churches to put them
 45 back on track. We can't fix our government until we fix ourselves because the government is US since we are the 46 sovereigns!

47 "We have met the enemy, and he is US!"

48 Don't go pointing the finger at our government until you have your OWN act together first, or you will be despised as a
 49 hypocrite and railroaded in front of juries and judges by the government's wicked lawyers. This very brand of state-
 50 sponsored terrorism is precisely how our government keeps the sheep in line and enslaved to the income tax, as a matter of 51 fact.

Americans no longer trust God as the absolute, unquestioned, and exclusive source of all moral truth, but instead prefer to vainly trust their “feelings”, “science”, a so-called heathen “expert”, or their idolatrous government above and beyond their God. This violates the first commandment revealed by Jesus in Matt. 22:36-38 and also the following scripture:

“Trust in the Lord with all your heart. And lean not on your own understanding [or your own feelings]; In all your ways acknowledge Him [not just in the ways that FEEL good or are politically correct], and He [not the winds of public opinion] shall direct your paths.”
[Prov. 3:5, Bible, NKJV]

If you want to know what God does to idolaters who are like the majority of Americans today that Barna described above, then read the books of Ezekial and Judges to get some fear and respect for God. This may not be a message that most people want to hear, but it is at the heart of why God gave us a deceitful government and why we are being punished for our unbelief: we are reaping what we sowed.<sup>9</sup> The book of Judges especially shows what happens to a culture that trusts in man and the flesh and their own feelings rather than in God for their sense of morality. Below is an excerpt from our bible introducing the Book of Judges to make the moral lessons contained in the book crystal clear:

The Book of Judges stands in stark contrast to Joshua. In Joshua an obedient people conquered the land through trust in the power of God. In Judges, however, a disobedient and idolatrous people are defeated time and time again because of their rebellion against God.

In seven distinct cycles of sin to salvation, Judges shows how Israel had set aside God’s law and in its place substituted “what was right in his own eyes” (21:25). The recurring result of abandonment from God’s law is corruption from within and oppression from without. During the nearly four centuries spanned by this book, God raises up military champions to throw off the yoke of bondage and to restore the nation to pure worship. But all too soon the “sin cycle” begins again as the nation’s spiritual temperance grows steadily colder.

The Book of Judges could also appropriately be titled “The Book of Failure.”

Deterioration (1:1-3:4). Judges begins with short-lived military successes after Joshua’s death, but quickly turns to the repeated failure of all the tribes to drive out their enemies. The people feel the lack of a unified central leader, but the primary reasons for their failure are a lack of faith in God and lack of obedience to Him (2:1-2). Compromise leads to conflict and chaos. Israel does not drive out the inhabitants (1:21, 27, 29, 30); instead of removing the moral cancer [IRS, Federal Reserve?] spread by the inhabitants of Canaan, they contract the disease. The Canaanite gods [money, sex, covetousness] literally become a snare to them (2:3). Judges 2:11-23 is a microcosm of the pattern found in Judges 3-16.

Deliverance (3:5-16:31). In verses 3:5 through 16:31 of the Book of Judges, seven apostasies (fallings away from God) are described, seven servitudes, and seven deliverances. Each of the seven cycles has five steps: sin, servitude, supplication, salvation, and silence. These also can be described by the words rebellion, retribution, repentance, restoration, and rest. The seven cycles connect together as a descending spiral of sin (2:19). Israel vacillates between obedience and apostasy as the people continually fail to learn from their mistakes. Apostasy grows, but the rebellion is not continual. The times of rest and peace are longer than the times of bondage. The monotony of Israel’s sins can be contrasted with the creativity of God’s methods of deliverance.

Depravity (17:1-21:25). Judges 17:1 through 21:25 illustrate (1) religious apostasy (17 and 18) and (2) social and moral depravity (19-21) during the period of the judges. Chapters 19-21 contain one of the worst tales of degradation in the Bible. Judges closes with a key to understanding the period: “everyone did what was right in his own eyes” (21:25) [a.k.a. “what FEELS good”]. The people are not doing what is wrong in their own eyes, but what is “evil in the sight of the Lord” (2:11).

Just like the depravity and corruption that happened to the Israelites in the Book of Judges because of relying on their own desires instead of God’s commands as their guide, the price for the vain sin of moral relativism that Barna describes happening right here in America as we speak will be eventual deception and damnation for many.

“The coming of the lawless one is according to the working of Satan, with all power, signs, and lying wonders, and with all unrighteous deception among those who perish, because they did not receive the love of the truth [God’s truth], that they might be saved.

<sup>9</sup> See Gal. 6:7, which says: “Do not be deceived, God is not mocked; for whatever a man sows, that he will also reap.”

1 And for this reason God will send them strong delusion, that they should believe the lie, that they all may be
 2 condemned who did not believe the truth but had pleasure in unrighteousness.”
 3 [2 Thess. 2:9-12, Bible, NKJV]

4 Unless God is the foundation of all truth and unless He is our absolute source of truth and our moral compass in everything
 5 we do, then this country is doomed to believe the BIG LIE mentioned earlier in 2 Thess. 2:3-17. Recall that here is what
 6 God said on this subject:

7 “I am the way, the [only moral] Truth, and the life. No one comes to the father but by me.”
 8 [John 14:6, Bible, NKJV]

9 Finally, let us not forget the words of our beloved founder George Washington on this subject in his Farewell Address:

10 Of all the dispositions and habits which lead to political prosperity, religion and morality are indispensable
 11 supports. In vain would that man claim the tribute of patriotism who should labor to subvert these great 12 pillars of human happiness—these firmest props of the duties of men and citizens. The mere politician,
 13 equally with the pious man, ought to respect and to cherish them. A volume could not trace all their 14 connections with private and public felicity. Let it simply be asked, “where is the security for property, for 15 reputation, for life, if the sense of religious obligation desert the oaths which are the instruments of 16 investigation in courts of justice?” And let us with caution indulge the supposition that morality can be
 17 maintained without religion. Whatever may be conceded to the influence of refined education on minds of 18 peculiar structure, reason and experience both forbid us to expect that national morality can prevail in 19 exclusion of religious principle.

20 It is substantially true that virtue or morality is a necessary spring of popular government. The rule indeed
 21 extends with more or less force to every species of free government. Who that is a sincere friend to it can look 22 with indifference upon attempts to shake the foundation of the fabric?

23 Promote, then, as an object of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge. In 24 proportion as the structure of a government gives force to public opinion, it is essential that public opinion
 25 should be enlightened.

26 There can be no religion and morality without absolute truth, and God is the only source of moral truth. Wake up, people!

27 Diligent followers of Christ who have taken the time to read and study the law and the truth of God will recognize the 28 government deception and obfuscation for what it is and will publicly expose and condemn it. They will also take the time
 29 to reveal the results of their discovery to the public and the mass media as we have done here so that such harmful untruths
 30 do not spread like a cancer and destroy our society and our freedoms:

31 “Be diligent to present yourself approved to God, a worker who does not need to be ashamed, rightly dividing
 32 the word of truth. But shun profane babblings for they will increase to more ungodliness. And their 33 message will spread like cancer.”
 34 [2 Tim. 2:15-17, Bible, NKJV]

35 2.8.2 Presumption

36 “The greatest enemy of the truth is very often not the lie - deliberate, contrived and dishonest - but the myth -
 37 persistent, persuasive and unrealistic.”
 38 [President John F. Kennedy, at Yale University on June 11, 1962]

39 The purpose of lying is to develop in the hearts and minds of the hearers a false presumption. The more ignorant and 40 unwise and godless the hearers, the more likely they are to believe this false presumption. Those who promote such lies 41 will do so for selfish reasons but ultimately their purposes are harmful and hateful.

42 “A lying tongue hates those who are crushed by it, and a flattering mouth works ruin.”
 43 [Prov. 26:28, Bible, NKJV]

44 Most frequently, we also acquire false presumptions by less dishonest or more casual means. For instance, we acquire false
 45 presumptions mainly from the media and our associates in our normal interactions. This method is the most popular
 46 technique used by our government to brainwash the sheeple, I mean people. When our government does it, it is called 47 “propaganda”. The reason more informal techniques such as this are most successful is that we just accept what people say
 48 without thinking critically about it and without questioning it. We are among people and organizations that we supposedly 49 love or trust and so our intellectual defenses are down. In effect, we are intellectually lazy and don’t bother to process or

1 analyze or question new ideas or look what God’s word says about them before we commit them to our memory banks as 2 truth.

3 Another very popular propaganda tool for creating false presumptions are the public schools which are run by our
4 government. Good parents will take the time to counteract the myths and false presumptions that liberal teachers will try to
5 program our children with, but Satan still gets his foot in the door because many children grow up in single parent families
6 where the one parent who is present doesn’t have the energy to counteract the government brainwashing on a regular basis.

7 The Bible has some very convicting things to say about presumption that every Christian ought to teach their children, and 8 which should also be part of the jury instructions that every jury hears:

9 “Who can understand his errors? Cleanse me from secret faults. Keep back Your servant also from 10 presumptuous sins; Let them not have dominion over me. Then I shall be blameless, and I shall be innocent 11 of great transgression.”
12 [Psalm 19:12-13, Bible, NKJV]

13 Evidently, being presumptuous is a sin for which God takes offense. Our King James Bible has a footnote under the above
14 passage that says: “The right response to God’s revelation is to pray for His help with errors, faults, and sins.” That same
15 passage above under the word “presumptuous” then points to Num. 15:30, which tells the rest of the very telling story on 16 this subject:

17 “But the person who does anything presumptuously, whether he is native-born or a stranger, that one brings 18 reproach on the Lord, and he shall be cut off from among his people.”
19 [Numbers 15:30, Bible, NKJV]

20 So evidently, we’re dealing with very serious sin here, folks. Presumption evidently is a very big offense to the Lord. If 21 you further research the meaning of “presumptuous”, you will find in Numbers 14:44 that it means defiance and
22 disobedience to God’s laws, the Bible, His commandments, and His will revealed to us by the Holy Spirit, and through His 23 prophets.

24 The bedrock of our system of jurisprudence is the fundamental presumption of “innocent until proven guilty beyond a
25 reasonable doubt”. The Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution then guarantees us a right of due process of law.
26 Fundamental to the notion of due process of law is the absence of presumption of fact or law. Absolutely everything that is 27 offered as proof or evidence of guilt must be demonstrated and revealed with evidence, and nothing can or should be based
28 on presumption, or especially false presumption. The extent to which presumption is used to establish guilt is the extent
29 to which our due process rights have been violated. Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, on page 500 under the term
30 “due process” confirms these conclusions:

31 “If any question of fact or liability be conclusively be presumed [rather than proven] against him, this is not 32 due process of law.”
33 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 500 under “due process”]

34 In our legal system, our government goes out of its way to create and perpetuate false presumptions to bias the legal system
35 in their favor, and in so doing, based on the above, they commit a grave sin and violation of God’s laws. The only reason
36 they get away with this tyranny in most cases is because of our own legal ignorance along with corrupted government
37 judges and lawyers who allow and encourage and facilitate this kind of abuse of our due process rights. Below are some 38 examples of how they do this:

39 1. False presumptions that the Internal Revenue Code is law. The Internal Revenue Code has not been enacted into 40 positive law. It says that at the beginning of the Title. Any title not enacted into “positive law” is described as “prima 41 facie evidence” of law. That means it is “presumptive” evidence that is rebuttable:

42 *“Prima facie. Lat. At first sight on the first appearance; on the face of it; so far as can be judged from the first
43 disclosure; presumably; a fact presumed to be true unless disproved by some evidence to the contrary. State
44 ex rel. Herbert v. Whims, 68 Ohio.App. 39, 38 N.E.2d. 596, 499, 22 O.O. 110. See also Presumption.”*
45 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1189]

46 Since Christians are not allowed to presume anything, then they can’t be allowed to presume that the Internal Revenue
47 Code is “law” or that it even applies to them. Technically, the Internal Revenue Code can only be described as a
48 “statute” or “code”, but not as “law”. Here is the way the Supreme Court describes it:

"To lay, with one hand, the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms.

Nor is it taxation. 'A tax,' says Webster's Dictionary, 'is a rate or sum of money assessed on the person or property of a citizen by government for the use of the nation or State.' 'Taxes are burdens or charges imposed by the Legislature upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.' Cooley, Const. Lim., 479."

Law is evidence of explicit consent by the people. For a statute to be enacted into positive law, a majority of the people or their representatives must consent to it by voting in favor of it. When a statute is not enacted into positive law, this simply means that the people never collectively and explicitly consented to the enforcement of it. Consequently, they cannot be expected to accept any adverse impact on their rights that such legislation but not "law" might have on them. In a system of government based only on consent of the governed such as we have, such "legislation" and "presumptive evidence of law" is unenforceable and becomes mainly a political statement of public policy that acquires the "force of law" only by consent. This is a polite way of saying that the Internal Revenue Code is simply an unenforceable, state-sponsored federal voluntary religion that has no force on the average American. Like the Bible itself, the Internal Revenue Code therefore only applies to people who volunteer or choose to "believe" in or accept its terms. To treat the I.R.C. any other way is essentially to hurt your neighbor and disrespect his sovereignty and his rights. Christians don't force things upon others who never consented. People in the legal profession and the tax profession will readily and frequently sin all the time by making false presumptions about the liability of people under Internal Revenue Code and they will falsely assume that the I.R.C. is "law". Indirectly, they are falsely "presuming" that the target of the IRS enforcement action "consented", which is a complete lie in most cases. This type of presumptuous behavior is forbidden to Christians under God's law because it violates the second great commandment to love our neighbor and not hurt him (see Bible, Gal. 5:14). Consequently, the Internal Revenue Code cannot be treated as "law" by Christians and shouldn't be treated as "law" by the courts either. To do so would constitute sin and idolatry toward any judge that might try to coerce either jurists or the accused to make such "presumptions". Since the I.R.C. is "presumptive evidence" of law, the easy way to disprove that it is law is to demand evidence that the people consented to it. The Supreme Court said the Sixteenth Amendment didn't constitute evidence of consent. The Congress cannot enact a law that applies in states of the Union without explicit evidence of consent found in the Constitution, and there is none according to the Supreme Court, as you will learn later in sections 3.8.11 and following. If you would like to know more about the subject of the Internal Revenue Code not being "law", see sections 5.4.1 through 5.4.1.4 later.

2. IRS authority to make assessments or to change your self-assessment presumptions. Because our income tax system is based on voluntary self-assessment and payment, according to the Supreme Court in Flora v. United States, 362 U.S. 145 (1960) , then the only person who can assess you, a natural person, with a liability under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code is YOU and only YOU and the only person who can file a return with your name on it is you. The IRS' own Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 5.1.11.6.8 clearly shows that Substitute For Returns (SFRs), which are returns filed in place of those which "taxpayers" refuse to file, cannot be filed for any specie of 1040 forms (1040, 1040A, 1040EZ, etc) and the reason is because the tax is voluntary, which is to say more properly that it is a DONATION and not a TAX. Once you make this "assessment" as authorized by 26 U.S.C. §6201(a)(1) and send it in, the IRS has no lawful authority to change or adjust the assessment, even if they believe you made an error, without your permission! You can search for implementing regulations under 26 C.F.R. 1.X until the cows come home and you won't find a regulation that authorizes them to change your self-assessment! Your average misinformed American, however, naturally "assumes" that the IRS has the authority to change it whether you want to or not. If the IRS then finds that you did make an error, they will "presume" that they have the lawful authority to change it by typically sending back a revised assessment and give you a certain amount of time to respond or protest it before it becomes cast in stone. When they do this, they are basically asking you for permission to make the change, and your silence or acquiescence constitutes implied consent to the change. This whole scheme works in the IRS' favor because of the ignorance of the average American about what the law really says. It seems that too many people have been relying on IRS publications rather than reading the law for themselves. BUT, you can shift this contemptible situation completely around the other way in your favor by knowing the law! All you have to do is attach to your return specific instructions stating specifically and clearly that the IRS:
  - o May NOT change or especially increase the amount of "income" on the return without invalidating EVERYTHING on the return and causing you to withdraw your consent. This makes the return to be

1 filed under duress and inadmissible as evidence in court according to the Supreme Court in Weeks v.
 2 United States, 232 U.S. 383 (1914).

- 3 ○ May not rely on hearsay evidence of receipt of funds from employers in the form of W-2 or 1099 forms, 4 because they are not authenticated with a notary affidavit.
- 5 ○ May not file a Substitute for Return (SFR) in place of your return because there is no statute or 6 implementing regulation authorizing it and section 5.1.11.6.10 of the Internal Revenue Manual does not 7 allow it either.
- 8 ○ Should not assume that the form or ANY information on it is accurate if the form IN TOTAL is not 9 accurate and acceptable AS SUBMITTED.
- 10 ○ Is not authorized to “propose” any changes, only to file the return IN TOTAL in your administrative 11 record and send you a letter explaining what they disagree with and the authorities (statutes and 12 regulations and IRM sections and Supreme Court rulings) their determination is based on.
- 13 ○ If they protest the amount of “income” on the return, must provide a definition of “income” that is 14 consistent with the following web address and with the Constitutional definition made by the Supreme
 15 Court:
 16 <http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/income.htm>
- 17 ○ Any protests or disagreements they make must include a cite of the specific statutes AND implementing 18 regulations AND the section from the Internal Revenue Manual which document and authorize their 19 position or their position be will presumed in the absence of evidence to the contrary to be illegal, 20 unlawful, not authorized by law, null and void, and frivolous.
- 21 ○ May not cite any court case below the Supreme Court as justification for their position, based on the 22 content of their own Internal Revenue Manual.
- 23 ○ May not institute penalties because they violate the prohibition on Bills of Attainder under Article 1,
 24 Section 9, Clause 3 of the Constitution and because such penalties can only apply to employees of a
 25 corporation per 26 C.F.R. §301.6671-1(b), which you are not until proven otherwise, with EVIDENCE.

26 If you use the above tactics and file a return with a 1 cent “income” and ask for all your money back, that along
 27 with the above tactics will drive the average IRS agent bonkers and he simply won’t know what to do and he will 28 have no choice but to give you your ALL your withheld tax back!

- 29 3. Presumption of correctness of IRS assessments. The federal courts assume that the IRS’ assessments are correct, but 30 the IRS must provide facts to support the assessment and it must appear on an IRS 23C Assessment Form that is signed
 31 and certified by an assessment officer.

32 “The tax collector’s presumption of correctness has a Herculean masculinity of Goliathlike reach, but we strike
 33 an Achilles’ heel when we find no muscles, no tendons, no ligaments of fact.”
 34 [Portillo v. C.I.R., 932 F.2d. 1128 (5th Cir. 1991)]

35 “Presumption of correctness which attends determination of Commissioner of Internal Revenue may be 36 rebutted by showing that such determination is arbitrary or erroneous.”
 37 [United States v. Hover, 268 F.2d. 657 (1959)]

38 However, the presumption of correctness is easily overcome by looking at the government’s own audits of the IRS.
 39 We have several documents on our website from the Government Accountability Office (GAO) showing that the IRS
 40 is unable to properly account for its revenues or protect the security of its taxpayer records. Presenting these reports in 41 court is a sure way to derail the presumption of correctness of any alleged assessment the IRS may say they have on 42 you. You can examine these reports for yourself on our website at:

<http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/GAO/GAO.htm>

- 43 4. Legitimate authority presumptions: When an IRS agent or investigator contacts someone to investigate a tax matter, 44 the average Joe six-pack citizen “presumes” that they have authority to do what they are doing. After all, the agent will
 45 pull out a rather official looking “pocket commission” that makes it look like they are official. However, in most cases
 46 this pocket commission is an “Administrative” commission issued to administrative IRS employees who have no
 47 authority whatsoever to be doing any kind of enforcement actions such as investigations, seizures, liens, and levies.
 48 Administrative pocket commissions are easily recognizable because they have a serial number that begins with the 49 letter “A”, indicating that they are Administrative rather than “E”, which means Enforcement. Enforcement Pocket
 50 Commissions are black instead of Red in color. We cover this in section 5.4.9 later. Whenever you talk with an IRS
 51 agent in person or on the phone, demand to see their pocket commission and get the serial number of their pocket
 52 commission for your records so you can sue the bastard if he illegally institutes collection actions in violation of 26

U.S.C. §7433 and 26 U.S.C. §7214. When they appear or call for questions, tell them you are really glad to see them and say that you will be cooperating fully with them AFTER they answer your questions first which will prove they have authority to be doing what they are doing. This amounts to a conditional acceptance and it will be very hard for them to argue with you. This is the way that you can “question authority” if you have an IRS agent breathing down your neck. Then when they start answering your questions about their authority to investigate, grill them on camera or using a tape recorder with witnesses present in the room using the following on our website at:

Tax Deposition Questions, Family Guardian Fellowship
<http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/Deposition.htm>

5. Court jurisdiction presumptions. If you appear in front of a federal court that has no jurisdiction over you and you make a general appearance and do not challenge jurisdiction, you are “presumed” to voluntarily consent to the jurisdiction of the court, even though that court in most cases doesn’t have any jurisdiction whatsoever over you, including in personam or subject matter jurisdiction. Your ignorant and/or greedy attorney won’t even tell you that you have the option to make a special appearance instead of a general appearance or to challenge jurisdiction because it would threaten his profits and maybe even his license to practice law. You have to know this, and what you don’t know will definitely hurt you! However, even some federal courts admit the real truth of this matter:

“If parties do not raise question of lack of jurisdiction, it is the duty of the federal court to determine the matter sua sponte. 28 U.S.C.A. §1332.”

“Lack of jurisdiction cannot be waived and jurisdiction cannot be conferred upon a federal court by consent, inaction, or stipulation. 28 U.S.C.A. §1332.”

*“Although defendant did not present evidence to support dismissal for lack of jurisdiction, burden rested with plaintiffs to prove affirmatively that jurisdiction did exist. 28 U.S.C.A. §1332.”
 [Basso v. Utah Power and Light Company, 495 F.2d. 906 (1974)]*

6. U.S. Supreme Court “cert denied” presumptions. We talk about this scandal in detail later in section 6.4.1 where we talk about the Certiorari Act of 1925. When a case is lost at the federal district or circuit court level, frequently it is appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court on what is called a “writ of certiorari”. When the Supreme Court doesn’t want to hear the case, they will “deny the cert”, which is often abbreviated “cert denied”. A famous and evil and unethical tactic by the IRS and DOJ is to cite as an authority a “cert denied” and then “presume” or “assume” that because the Supreme Court wouldn’t hear the appeal, then they agree with the findings of the lower court. An example of that tactic is found in the IRS’ famous document on their website entitled The Truth About Frivolous Tax Arguments, for instance, which we rebutted on our website at: http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/IRS/friv\_tax\_rebutts.pdf. However, this fallacious logic simply is not a valid presumption or inference to make absent a detailed explanation from the Supreme Court itself of why they denied the cert, and frequently they won’t explain why they denied the appeal because it would be a public embarrassment for the government to do so! For instance, if a person declares themselves to be a “nontaxpayer” and a “non-resident non-person”, does not file a return, and challenges the authority of the IRS and litigates his case all the way up to the Supreme Court to prove that the IRS has no assessment authority on him, do you think the Supreme Court is going to want most Americans to hear the truth by ruling in his favor and causing our income tax system to self-destruct? Rule 10 of the U.S. Supreme Court reveals some, but not all of the reasons why they might deny a cert., but there are a lot more reasons they don’t list, and the rule even admits that the reasons listed are incomplete. The bold-faced type emphasizes the point we are trying to make here:

Rule 10. Considerations Governing Review on Writ of Certiorari

Review on a writ of certiorari is not a matter of right, but of judicial discretion. A petition for a writ of certiorari will be granted only for compelling reasons. The following, although neither controlling nor fully measuring the Court’s discretion, indicate the character of the reasons the Court considers:

(a) a United States court of appeals has entered a decision in conflict with the decision of another United States court of appeals on the same important matter; has decided an important federal question in a way that conflicts with a decision by a state court of last resort; or has so far departed from the accepted and usual course of judicial proceedings, or sanctioned such a departure by a lower court, as to call for an exercise of this Court’s supervisory power;

(b) a state court of last resort has decided an important federal question in a way that conflicts with the decision of another state court of last resort or of a United States court of appeals;

(c) a state court or a United States court of appeals has decided an important question of federal law that has not been, but should be, settled by this Court, or has decided an important federal question in a way that conflicts with relevant decisions of this Court.

A petition for a writ of certiorari is rarely granted when the asserted error consists of erroneous factual findings or the misapplication of a properly stated rule of law.

In the above, DISCRETION=REASON. The above list of reasons, by the court's own admission, is incomplete. Furthermore, there is no U.S. Supreme Court rule that says they have to list ALL their reasons for not granting a writ. This very defect, in fact, is how the government has transformed us into a society of men and no laws, in conflict with the intent of the founding fathers expressed in Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137 (1803):

"The Government of the United States has been emphatically termed a government of laws, and not of men. It will certainly cease to deserve this high appellation if the laws furnish no remedy for the violation of a vested legal right."
[Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137 (1803)]

So don't let the IRS trick you into "assuming" that the supreme court agreed with them if an appeal was denied to it from a lower court that was ruled in the IRS' favor. The lower courts are obligated to follow the precedents established by the Supreme Court but frequently they don't. Rulings against gun ownership and the pledge of allegiance in 2002 coming from the radical and socialist Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals are good examples that contradict such a conclusion.

7. "U.S. citizen" presumptions. There is a very common misconception that we are all "U.S. citizens". In most cases, judges will insist that the only way that you cannot be one is if you meet the burden of proving that you aren't. As you will learn later in section 4.13.12 and subsections, this presumption is completely false and is undertaken to illegally pull you inside the corrupt jurisdiction of the federal courts in order to rape and pillage your liberty and your property.

"Unless the defendant can prove he is not a citizen of the United States, the IRS has the right to inquire and determine a tax liability."
[U.S. v. Slater, 545 Fed.Supp. 179,182 (1982).]

8. Social Security Number presumptions. The Treasury Regulations in 26 C.F.R. contain a presumption that if you have a Socialist Security Number, then you must be a "U.S. citizen":

26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1\(g\)

(g) Special rules for taxpayer identifying numbers issued to foreign persons—

(1) General rule—

(i) Social security number. A social security number is generally identified in the records and database of the Internal Revenue Service as a number belonging to a U.S. citizen or resident alien individual. A person may establish a different status for the number by providing proof of foreign status with the Internal Revenue Service under such procedures as the Internal Revenue Service shall prescribe, including the use of a form as the Internal Revenue Service may specify. Upon accepting an individual as a nonresident alien individual, the Internal Revenue Service will assign this status to the individual's social security number.

9. "Taxpayer" presumptions. The IRS refers to everyone as "taxpayers", creating a false presumption on everyone's part that we indeed are. As you will learn later in section 5.6.1, there is no statute making anyone liable for paying Subtitle A income taxes and without a liability statute, then no one is "subject to" that part of the Internal Revenue Code unless they volunteer to be. We also show in section 5.3.1 that the only person who can lawfully identify you as a "taxpayer" is you, and that the government has no authority to use this word to describe you without your consent. In most tax trials, the judges or juries will seldom question the determinations of the IRS. Instead, the burden falls on the "taxpayer" to prove that the IRS' determinations were incorrect. Then the IRS will refuse to provide evidence to this alleged "taxpayer" that is needed for him to prove that they are wrong. Here is how the Supreme Court describes this scandal in Bull v. United States, 295 U.S. 247 (1935):

1 Thus, the usual procedure for the recovery of debts is reversed in the field of taxation. Payment precedes
2 defense, and the burden of proof, normally on the claimant, is shifted to the taxpayer.

3 The [tax] assessment supersedes the pleading, proof, and judgment necessary in an action at law, and has the
4 force of such a judgment. The ordinary defendant stands in judgment only after a hearing. The taxpayer often is
5 afforded his hearing after judgment and after payment, and his only redress for unjust administrative action is 6 the right to claim restitution.<sup>10</sup>

- 7 10. Burden of proof presumptions. Later in section 5.6.15, we describe a scandal in the Internal Revenue Code, where 8 section 7491 places the burden of proving nonliability on the “taxpayer”. Note that this section of the code never 9 requires the government to first prove that a natural person is a “taxpayer” BEFORE the burden of proof is shifted to 10 the taxpayer. Here is the content of that section:

11 If, in any court proceeding, a taxpayer introduces credible evidence with respect to any factual issue relevant to 12 ascertaining the liability of the taxpayer for any tax imposed by subtitle A or B, the Secretary shall have the 13 burden of proof with respect to such issue.

- 14 11. Consent for withholding of Social Security Insurance Premiums presumption. If one is hired on to work for the 15 government, then under 5 U.S.C. §8422, they are “deemed” to consent to the withholding of Social Security and 16 Medicare and are never even asked whether they want to do so. Use of the word “deemed” is legalese for “presumed”.
17 Below is the content of that section. Refer to section 5.9.7 for further details on this conspiracy against your property
18 rights:

19 5 U.S.C. §8422 Deductions of OASDI for Federal Employees

20 (b) Each employee or Member is deemed to consent and agree to the deductions under subsection (a).
21 Notwithstanding any law or regulation affecting the pay of an employee or Member, payment less such
22 deductions is a full and complete discharge and acquittance of all claims and demands for regular services
23 during the period covered by the payment, except the right to any benefits under this subchapter, or under 24 subchapter IV or V of this chapter, based on the service of the employee or Member.

- 25 12. Government form presumptions. Filling out of most government forms is in most cases completely voluntary and 26 unnecessary. Whenever you submit a government form, you are “presumed” to be in pursuit of a government
27 “privilege” and consent to be bound by all laws of the government that produced that form, even if you would not
28 otherwise be so! For instance, if you submit an IRS form 1040, you are “presumed” to be a “taxpayer” who is “subject
29 to” the Internal Revenue Code, even though if you had not done so, you would not be. The Department of State DS-11
30 form used for obtaining a U.S. passport has only one block for indicating your citizenship, which contains “U.S.
31 citizen” and NO blocks for specifying that you are a “national”, creating a presumption that the only thing you can be 32 in order to get a passport is a “U.S. citizen”. The IRS W-8BEN creates a presumption that you are a “beneficial
33 owner”, which is then defined as someone who has to include ALL income as gross income on their tax return, even 34 though the law says this is not required. All of these are major, very serious, and FALSE presumptions that
35 significantly prejudice and abuse your rights. The government only gets away with this type of fraud and abuse
36 because the people filling out the forms don’t question authority or challenge the presumptions on the form. We have 37 successfully overcome most of these presumptions by modifying or redesigning the forms in original print to shift the 38 presumption in our favor before we submit it. The modified forms then slip by inattentive and underpaid government
39 clerks and we can then use this as evidence in our favor. Fight fire with fire!

40 There are many other similar “presumptions” like those above that we haven’t documented. We include these here only as 41 examples so you can see how the scandal and violation of your rights and liberties is perpetrated by evil tyrants in our
42 government who have transformed it into a socialist beast. Whatever the case, the Bible is very explicit about what we 43 should do with those who act presumptuously: Rebuke and banish them from society. What does this mean in the case of 44 juries and during court trials? It means that during the voir dire process of interviewing the jurors and the judges, they must 45 both be asked about their presumptions and biases, and those who have such biases and presumptions should be banished
46 from the jury and the case. If the judge has a bias or presumption in favor of the government’s position, such as those listed
47 above, then he too should be removed for conflict of interest under 28 U.S.C. §455 and bias and prejudice under 28 U.S.C.
48 §144. Likewise, if you ever hear a government prosecutor use the phrase “everyone knows”, then a BIG red flag should go
49 up in your mind’s eye because you are dealing with a presumption. When this happens in a courtroom, you ought to stand up and object to such nonsense immediately because your WICKED opponent is trying to frame you with presumptions and thereby violate your due process rights under the Fifth Amendment!

The reason this book is so large and extensive in its research and authorities is because we have made a disciplined effort to avoid presumptions. We have, in fact, used evidence derived from the government's own laws, spokespersons, and courts to prove nearly every point we make in this book. This ensures that you don't have to "assume" anything and can examine the facts and evidence for yourself and reach your own independent conclusions about the truth of what we are saying. In effect, we have pretended that we are the prosecuting attorney and you are the jury and the "court" is the "court of public opinion". This provides excellent practice and preparation for a real trial, because we assume these materials will also be used in a real court to prosecute specific government servants for wrongdoing.

2.8.3 Illegal Acts and Legal Obfuscation

*"[American tax statutes] are constantly changing as our elected representatives seek new ways to ensure that whatever tax advice we receive is incorrect."
[Dave Barry]*

Our system of government is one of delegated powers that are strictly limited under a written Constitution. The original source of all power is the people themselves, according to the Supreme Court.

"When we consider the nature and the theory of our institutions of government, the principles on which they are supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are constrained to conclude that they do not mean to leave room for the play and action of purely personal and arbitrary power. Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law; but in our system, while sovereign powers are delegated to the agencies of government, sovereignty itself remains with the people, by whom and for whom all government exists and acts. And the law is the definition and limitation of power. It is, indeed, quite true that there must always be lodged somewhere, and in some person or body, the authority of final decision; and in many cases of mere administration, the responsibility is purely political, no appeal lying except to the ultimate tribunal of the public judgment, exercised either in the pressure of opinion, or by means of the suffrage. But the fundamental rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, considered as individual possessions, are secured by those maxims of constitutional law which are the monuments showing the victorious progress of the race in securing to men the blessings of civilization under the reign of just and equal laws, so that, in the famous language of the Massachusetts bill of rights, the government of the commonwealth 'may be a government of laws and not of men.' For the very idea that one man may be compelled to hold his life, or the means of living, or any material right essential to the enjoyment of life, at the mere will of another, seems to be intolerable in any country where freedom prevails, as being the essence of slavery itself."
[Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

"There is no such thing as a power of inherent sovereignty in the government of the United States...In this country sovereignty resides in the people, and Congress can exercise no power which they have not, by their Constitution entrusted to it. All else is withheld."
[Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884)]

With the above in mind, any act of the federal government or its agents (including its employees, banks and employers acting under the alleged authority or "color" of law as indicated by a government agent) not specifically authorized by the Constitution or by the statutes which implement the Constitution is null, void, illegal, and unlawful. The definition of "illegal" in Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 747 confirms this:

"Illegal. Against or not authorized by law."

The definition of "unlawful" on page 1536 of Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, also confirms the same conclusion:

Unlawful. That which is contrary to, prohibited, or unauthorized by law. That which is not lawful. The acting contrary to, or in defiance of the law; disobeying or disregarding the law. Term is equivalent to "without excuse or justification." State v. Noble, 90 N.M. 360, 563 P.2d. 1153, 1157. While necessarily not implying the element of criminality, it is broad enough to include it.
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1536]

Most Americans incorrectly believe that the acts of a government official are not criminal or illegal unless they VIOLATE a specific law that prohibits that behavior. We now know based on the above that this is yet another lie and myth that our

1 government-run and deficient public education system taught us as we were growing up. In fact, any government servant
 2 who attempts an act or makes a request which the Constitution or statutes does not SPECIFICALLY AUTHORIZE in
 3 writing has committed a crime and can be fired from office for malfeasance and breaking the law if their actions injure
 4 the rights of others! This is the very essence of having a society of laws and not of men as the supreme Court mentions
 5 above!

6 Why don't more government "servants" get fired for doing this? The main reason is that judges are corrupt and run a
 7 "mafia protection racket" for the wrongdoing of their coworkers in other agencies of their government employer. This is 8 perpetuated by three different conflicts of interest in direct violation of 28 U.S.C. §455:

- 9 1. In most cases, they pay federal income taxes, and could be audited or threatened by the IRS if they rule against the 10 IRS.
- 11 2. Their paycheck comes from income taxes, and would probably be reduced if they didn't assist the IRS in the extortion 12 that it imposes on the average American.
- 13 3. If they do convict or penalize their fellow federal workers, they could be removed from office by the very same 14 legislators who approved their appointment to the bench to begin with. See section 5.3.1 of the Tax Fraud Prevention
 15 Manual, Form #06.008 for information on how judge get appointed, for instance.

16 In order to oppose this kind of tyranny, we must first understand how it is perpetrated. It is quite common for tyrannical 17 public servants to try to exceed their authority by trying to:

- 18 1. Fool third parties, such as employers, into committing acts as their agents by telling them that the law says they are 19 supposed to do things that they in fact are not obligated to do. For instance, the IRS fools private employers into using 20 W-4 forms that technically only apply to federal employers. They also fool private banks into thinking that they must 21 report currency transactions in excess of $3,000 when in fact only banks in federal receivership and on federal land
 22 must do so. If prosecuted for such a crime, they will try to blame the agent who was acting in their behalf in order to
 23 evade liability. The courts encourage this kind of abuse by refusing to hold federal employees individually liable for 24 giving false information or advice.
- 25 2. Write ambiguous laws which the average man cannot understand without the aid of a lawyer. This makes them
 26 subjective to enforce, arbitrary, and a tool of arbitrary abuse of the populace. Ayn Rand in her book Atlas Shrugged
 27 provides a very good explanation of this kind of trickery:

28 "Did you really think that we want those laws to be observed?" said Dr. Ferris. "We want them broken. You'd 29 better get it straight that it's not a bunch of boy scouts you're up against - then you'll know that this is not the 30 age for beautiful gestures. We're after power and we mean it. You fellows were pikers, but we know the real
 31 trick, and you'd better get wise to it. There's no way to rule innocent men. The only power any government
 32 has is the power to crack down on criminals. Well, when there aren't enough criminals, one makes them.
 33 One declares so many things to be a crime that it becomes impossible for men to live without breaking laws.
 34 Who wants a nation of law-abiding citizens? What's there in that for anyone? But just pass the kind of laws
 35 that can neither be observed nor enforced nor objectively interpreted - and you create a nation of law-
 36 breakers - and then you cash in on guilt. Now, that's the system. Mr. Rearden, that's the game, and once you 37 understand it, you'll be much easier to deal with."

38 [Atlas Shrugged, Ayn Rand, page 411 of the 35th Anniversary Edition]

- 39 3. Undermine the integrity of the public education system by eliminating or weakening curricula about sovereignty,
 40 citizenship, Constitutional and legal issues in the public schools so that the average American isn't able to challenge
 41 their authority or defend himself in court without the aid of a lawyer. Eliminating prayer, God, and religious studies
 42 from schools and keeping students distracted with promiscuous sex, handing out birth control pills, and letting them get 43 abortions without parental notification also helps kids be bad citizens that can easily be manipulated by the government
 44 because of their ignorance.

45 Whatever techniques our deceitful and covetous government might use to hide the truth contained in the law or to 46 manipulate public opinion and courtroom results, those who read and know and love the law of God simply cannot be 47 deceived. They know that:

48 "One who turns his ear from hearing the law, even his prayer is an abomination."
 49 [Proverbs 28:9]

2.8.4 Propaganda and Political Warfare

“The king establishes the land by justice, but he who receives bribes overthrows it.”
[Prov. 29:4, Bible, NKJV]

Propaganda is a vehicle for deception, and political warfare is the tool used to ostracize and punish those who refuse to think and act the way the covetous government wants them to act. Under such circumstances, our government transforms itself into the thought police, and mercilessly punishes all those who dare to be “politically incorrect” using the media and other clandestine and indirect means.

Once our government obfuscates the laws to disguise their lack of jurisdiction to impose an income tax, they then must erect a propaganda machine to perpetuate the false presumption and myth that the tax code really does create this false fiction of law in the minds of average Americans. For this, they resort to the same propaganda tactics as the communists, and for that, they should be called communists. The end result they seek through such propaganda is the ability to act under the “color or law” to further their selfish interest without the ignorant and misinformed public knowing that they are in fact acting without lawful authority. They use the media to create an illusion that the laws say they are authorized to do that which they are doing and also confuse people about what it means to say something is “illegal” or “unlawful”, as we point out in the previous section. In order for the propaganda campaign to be successful, the following insidious elements must exist:

1. Young minds in the schools must be inculcated to “assume” that there is a liability to pay taxes. The American Bar Association (ABA) travels around the country hand-in-hand with the IRS visiting schools to propagandize impressionable minds absent opposition like the pied piper, and handing out CD-ROMs that make it easy for high school students just starting their first job to “comply” with the tax code, which isn’t even a law. Do you think they are telling these young minds the truth that the income tax in fact isn’t even a tax, but a donation program? See section 1.11.3 for details on this scam.
2. Through decades of amendments and complicated exceptions to the tax code, and legal obfuscation, the law is then rendered so complicated and voluminous that so-called “experts” and specialized computer programs must be relied upon by the average American to understand what the law requires of them.
3. The government must then structure the professions of these “experts” to bring them under their control through licensing and regulation under the pretenses of “public protection”...what a joke! For instance, the IRS has an “Enrolled Agent Program” in which tax professionals who meet their mandatory criterias and do everything the IRS insists that they do, are given special privileges and preferential treatment. More “privilege-induced slavery and tyranny”. If you aren’t an “Enrolled agent” trying to help someone else out as a tax professional, they won’t even talk to you!
4. The government then coddles these professionals with propaganda materials such as fraudulent IRS publications, to program them into falsely believing that a liability exists. They subsidize the education of these professionals, attend their propaganda sessions, I mean conferences, and go after the dissidents who leak out the truth to keep the truth from coming out. An example of this kind of program is the IRS’ program called “Tax Talk Today”, which you can participate in at: <http://www.taxtalktoday.tv/>.
5. If the “experts” get out of line, the government then pulls the license of the “expert” in order to punish them for dissent. They do this to CPA’s and lawyers, for instance. In fact, they tried this tactic against a defecting IRS Criminal Investigator named Joe Banister, who left the IRS after he uncovered the fraud for himself. They tried to pull his CPA license in 2003 and 2004.

Does the above sound like liberal socialists and communists have infiltrated our educational and legal professions? That is exactly the way that it appears to us. In addition to the above techniques, more subtle and insidious methods are also used to fight the dissidents of this state-endorsed legal slavery and terrorism. These techniques collectively are called “psyops”, or “political warfare”. Our government can’t openly instigate physical violence against the populace to terrorize the dissident sheep into “volunteering” for the government slavery called income tax. Therefore, greedy politicians intent on perpetuating and expanding their power will resort to the same kinds of tactics the Communists used in the former Soviet Union against their dissenters, including some combination of the following methods:

1. Media propaganda, including lies and distortions of the truth to accomplish political ends. For instance, see:
  - 1.1. Department of Justice (DOJ) Press Releases Website:
http://www.ustreas.gov/irs/ci/tax\_fraud/2002hearings/doj\_releases.htm

1.2. Tax Scam Hearings held annually by the Senate Finance Committee in April: <http://www.senate.gov/~finance/fin-comm.htm>. In April 2002, the Senate Finance Committee hauled a chain-bound political tax prisoner in front of the camera to scare the sheep into submission.

2. Government literature and communications propaganda

2.1. IRS publications incorrectly describe and portray the legal tax liabilities of the average American. This leads amounts to a constructive fraud. The courts then refuse to hold the government collectively responsible for the incorrect content of these publications.

2.2. The IRS telephone support 800 number routinely gives incorrect advice about the true requirements of our tax code and creates a false presumption on the part of Americans calling in that they are “liable” for income taxes when in fact they are not. The federal courts absolutely refuse to hold individuals who render such advice liable for their fraudulent and deceptive portrayal of what the law requires.

3. Verbal abuse

3.1. Anyone who has been late paying their taxes has seen the kinds of verbally abusive, anonymous, threatening letters and correspondence the IRS sends out.

3.2. If you call up the IRS 800 number or visit a local IRS agent and say that you are not a “U.S. citizen”, they will frequently verbally abuse you and call you a derelict for not paying your “fair share”, even though the law defines what your fair share is and it says you owe NOTHING. When you turn it around and say that they want more than their fair share, they will hang up on you.

4. Persecution of dissenters

4.1. Persons protesting illegal government taxes (called “Illegal Tax Protesters”) are regularly harassed, threatened, and intimidated by the DOJ and the IRS. They are frightened with frivolous charges of Willful Failure to File (26 U.S.C. §7203), Tax Evasion (26 U.S.C. §7201), and Obstruction of Justice (18 U.S.C. Chapter 73) because of their uncooperativeness, even though the Department of Justice’s own U.S. Attorney Manual, Section 9-4.139 clearly states that no federal agency has investigative jurisdiction for these alleged crimes. The reason is clearly because 26 U.S.C. §7805 empowers the Secretary of the Treasury to write needful implementing regulations to enforce these alleged crimes but he has never done so, and without regulations applying these statutes to specific taxes and situations, these statutes are unenforceable.

4.2. Individuals who market sovereignty methods such as trusts, offshore bank accounts, etc. are routinely illegally raided by the Department of Justice with an insufficient and or nonexistent warrant for an area outside of the territorial jurisdiction of the federal government for acts that aren’t crimes, because there aren’t any implementing regulations for any of the tax crimes found in 26 U.S.C. §7201-7206. Judges hush-hush this and sanction persecuted individuals for daring to challenge the jurisdiction of the IRS or the DOJ to institute such violence against the rights of sovereign Americans.

4.3. Evidence illegally obtained during illegal raids above is then used to go on a fishing expedition to dredge up incriminating evidence or even falsify evidence, and corrupt federal judges then allow such illegally obtained or manipulated evidence to be admitted into evidence, in spite of the fact that the U.S. Supreme Court has repeatedly ruled that such evidence cannot be used<sup>11</sup>. This was the tactic used against Lynne Meredith in 2002, who marketed trusts and detaxing packages. The IRS raided her premises illegally in 1999, and used the evidence illegally obtained in the raid to indict her in 2002.

5. Military intimidation

5.1. The establishment of a Department of Homeland Security and the USA Patriot Act has put the U.S. government at war with its own citizens and in conflict with the Constitution and the Bill of Rights. This Act allows the government to surreptitiously eavesdrop on the conversations and correspondence of innocent Americans without probable cause.

5.2. The money extorted from us to pay illegal income taxes funds a military machine that keeps us afraid of our own government and intent on spreading its totalitarian enslavement to the rest of the world. Is it any wonder why terrorists revolt against interference into their sovereignty by our government using the war-chest of extorted money that it stole from us?

6. Police intimidation or brutality

6.1. When IRS agents attempt to seize property or conduct a search warrant outside their territorial jurisdiction, they regularly involve local police, to add a color of authority to their illegal actions. This also allows them to claim plausible deniability and blame the local police if something goes wrong.

6.2. When 500 political protesters in Washington D.C. peacefully converged to protest a meeting of the World Bank in September 2002, they were overwhelmed by 1,700 police wielding batons, guns, rubber bullets, and teargas because they protested “illegally”. This is a clear violation of the First Amendment.

7. Outlawing gun ownership

7.1. A number of democrats have proposed outlawing or restricting gun ownership, even though the Second Amendment forbids it. They have tried to ban “assault weapons”, but if they are going to ban weapons, then they better ban government ownership of the same types of weapons in order to keep the playing field even. The reason is that Thomas Jefferson said:

"What country can preserve its liberties if its rulers are not warned from time to time that their people preserve the spirit of resistance? Let them take arms. The remedy is to set them right as to facts, pardon and pacify them."

[Thomas Jefferson to William Stephens Smith, 1787. ME 6:373, Papers 12:356]

7.2. A disarmed populace is powerless to resist the abuses of armed government agents intent on illegally seizing their property in satisfaction of a fictional tax debt.

All of these tactics are used by the IRS and federal government to maintain and expand its power. Politicians know that the source of nearly ALL political power is economic, and that when you take away most of people’s money and give it to government, they can make you surrender nearly every one of your rights in order to receive the taxable government “privilege” of getting your money back!

"To preserve [the] independence [of the people,] we must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debt. We must make our election between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude. If we run into such debts as that we must be taxed in our meat and in our drink, in our necessities and our comforts, in our labors and our amusements, for our callings and our creeds, as the people of England are, our people, like them, must come to labor sixteen hours in the twenty-four, give the earnings of fifteen of these to the government for their debts and daily expenses, and the sixteenth being insufficient to afford us bread, we must live, as they now do, on oatmeal and potatoes, have no time to think, no means of calling the mismanagers to account, but be glad to obtain subsistence by hiring ourselves to rivet their chains on the necks of our fellow-sufferers."

[Thomas Jefferson to Samuel Kercheval, 1816. ME 15:39]

If you exercise your sovereignty and don’t pay the what the government falsely calls “tax” but which is actually a “donation” and protest the indebtedness our corrupt politicians have put us into, the IRS frequently persecutes you mercilessly with endless automated anonymous and threatening letters in violation of 28 U.S.C. §876, and eventually they will try to throw you in jail for not “volunteering” using laws that don’t even have any implementing regulations that are illegally enforced outside of their Constitutionally mandated territorial jurisdiction. It’s vicious, its violent, and it’s unconscionable tyranny and it must be stopped immediately because it is an act of treason and war on the American people which will eventually dissolve the country and the Union if permitted to take its course. The U.S. Supreme Court described the elements of this war in its landmark ruling of Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan and Trust, 157 U.S. 429 (1895):

"The present assault [that is WAR!!!] upon capital is but the beginning. It will be but the stepping stone to others larger and more sweeping, until our political contest will become war of the poor against the rich; a war of growing intensity and bitterness.

The legislation, in the discrimination it makes, is class legislation. Whenever a distinction is made in the burdens a law imposes or in the benefits it confers on any citizens by reason of their birth, or wealth, or religion, it is class legislation, and leads inevitably to oppression and abuses, and to general unrest and disturbance in society."

The above is how our evil government runs the Socialist Security Program: like a war on the rich and the wage earners for the benefit of those too lazy to take responsibility for their own retirement. Our government becomes the Robinhood and the war is called “class warfare”, but it is nevertheless still “warfare” that is completely inappropriate in a free society. They try to get you to “volunteer” into their fraudulent system before you are even of the age to be a consenting adult by applying for a number. They have attorneys and IRS agents traveling around the country to convince adolescents that they should sign up for this slavery. Even if it was a contract at that point, the Socialist Security application isn’t enforceable because you weren’t of the age of consent, nor will they later give you an opportunity once you reach adulthood to change your mind. Then they assign you the Socialist Security Number, the Mark of the Beast (Revelation 13:16-18). Once you have the Slave Surveillance Number, the IRS calls it a “taxpayer ID number” in order to create a false presumption that you are “liable” and a “taxpayer”, which incidentally is a violation of your Due Process rights under the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Once you become a “presumed” taxpayer, they write the law so as to fool you and your propagandized attorney into believing that the burden of proof falls on you to prove that you are NOT liable. This completely turns the

1 whole premise of our legal system upside down in this country, because we are all presumed to be innocent until proven
 2 guilty. Instead, those who volunteer (under duress, of course, because in most cases they were coerced and couldn't get a
 3 job without doing so) are assumed to be guilty until THEY prove themselves innocent. That's like telling someone they are 4 a convicted prostitute (government whore) unless they prove that they aren't. It's downright EVIL!

5 After you sign up for this Slave Surveillance Number (SSN), the government first steals your money and makes it
 6 effectively illegal to stop contributing, thus outlawing personal responsibility and one's ownership over one's labor and
 7 person. They will try to slap illegal fines and penalties on you for telling the truth on your tax return that you have no
 8 taxable income, for instance, in violation of Article 1, Section 9, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution. If you even THINK
 9 about dis-enrolling, they will get all over your employer's payroll department and slander you in front of your boss, at the 10 same time being unwilling to cite their legal authority for doing so, which by the way doesn't exist. Then they use the 11 leverage gained by stealing your money to place all kinds of conditions on getting your own money back. For instance, if 12 you are sentenced to jail for crimes, the federal government unilaterally terminates your socialist benefits and forces you in 13 effect to subsidize your own incarceration with the social security checks they intercept! That's like what they forced Jesus
 14 to do: Manufacture his own cross and then nail Him to it! When you realize how manipulative their system is and want to 15 quit, the totalitarian Social Security Administration (SSA) provides no lawful way to quit the program, have your money
 16 refunded, and rescind your Slave Surveillance Number, and yet they lie by saying that the program is "voluntary". That is 17 constructive fraud because your compliance isn't voluntary, but compelled, plain and simple. Nothing can be voluntary if 18 there is no legal way to quit, even though no government person can ever show you any kind of contract you ever signed
 19 that said that joining was irrevocable. That's tyranny, totalitarianism, and communism, plain and simple.

20 The common denominator of all of the political warfare and "psyops" (psychological operations) tactics described above is 21 that all of these techniques involve some combination of force or fraud, both of which constitute treason against the 22 Constitutional rights of Americans. Here is how one respected member of the academic community described the terms of 23 this warfare against the American people:

24 "Warfare is often defined as the employment of military means to advance political ends... Another, more subtle
 25 means -- political warfare -- uses images, ideas, speeches, slogans, propaganda, economic pressures, even 26 advertising techniques to influence the political will of an adversary."
 27 [James A. Baldwin, Vice Admiral, U.S. Navy in forward to On Political War by Paul A. Smith, National 28 Defense University (1990)]

37 2.8.5 Willful Ignorance of Public Servants

38 We covered the topic of ignorance earlier in section 1.8 in the context of our own ignorance as Americans. The same
 39 concepts discussed there generally apply toward the government, as well. The differences between our ignorance and that 40 of government servants are distinguished below:

41 1. When we are ignorant, the result will be intellectual and financial slavery to the government and the legal profession.

2. When government servants at the bottom of the food chain are ignorant, they are susceptible to being fooled into breaking the laws by greedy and covetous supervisors above them. The result is tyranny on the part of the government, because the government then erroneously acts as through it has far more authority and power than it lawfully has.

Several IRS agents we spoke with indicated that they are trained on procedures but not law. This, in spite of the fact that the government's own courts say the following about our responsibility to know the law:

"Every citizen of the United States is supposed to know the law,..."
[Pierce v. United States, 7 Wall (74 U.S. 169) 666 (1869)]

As long as the procedures of the IRS (found in the Internal Revenue Manual, for instance) illegally perpetuate and expand the power of the IRS and so long as the federal and state courts continue to refuse to hold the supervisors who write these procedures liable and accountable for their breach of fiduciary duty and resulting injury to our rights that bad procedures can produce, then widespread evil, injustice, and violation of due process on the part of government will continue to expand. In such an environment, there will be a built-in incentive for high-level managers at the IRS to:

1. Write internal rules and procedures (Internal Revenue Manual) that violate the law and maximize their revenues, their perceived authority, and their damage to our constitutional rights.
2. Hire people who are ignorant of the laws to administer particularly unethical and illegal areas of government administration, such as income tax collection and assessment.
3. Not train IRS agents on the law but only on procedures so they remain ignorant of the illegal nature of what they are being asked to do.
4. When the deliberately dumbed-down IRS agent finally discovers through his own research and talking with "taxpayers" that what he is being asked to do in the written procedures is illegal, then he is asked to resign and the procedures are never corrected. This is a clear effort to obstruct justice and cover-up wrongdoing. He is treated as a whistleblower and punished and slandered. This is what happened to Joe Banister, the X IRS Criminal Investigator who discovered after working for the IRS for four years that the IRS was actually committing fraud and extortion and he was asked to resign (see <http://www.freedomabovefortune.com/>).
5. Not update their training materials to accurately and completely reflect the very limited lawful jurisdiction and authority of the government to collect and assess income taxes.
6. Slander, persecute, and harass "taxpayers" who bring up the truth about their limited liabilities using anonymous threatening letters, unjustified and illegal penalties and interest, and threatened civil litigation and criminal prosecution.
7. Claim ignorance of the law when prosecution for wrongdoing is attempted on both government supervisors and their subordinates.

Incidentally, when government is attempting to prosecute a person for tax evasion and the person manifests complete and deliberate ignorance of the tax code or any violations of it, this situation is known as "willful blindness", and it's existence can be used as a fact to be proved by the jury in the process of satisfying the elements of a claim of "willfulness" in the context of tax evasion or fraud. We think the same concept should apply toward government servants who are grossly negligent and deliberately ignorant about and evasive of the tax code. See the at the following for a definition of "willful blindness":

Department of Justice, Tax Division, Criminal Tax Manual, Section 8.06[4]
[http://famguardian.org/Publications/DOJTDCTM/taxc08.htm - 8.06\[4\]](http://famguardian.org/Publications/DOJTDCTM/taxc08.htm - 8.06[4])

Below is what the Criminal Tax Manual says on the subject of "willful blindness" in the above referenced section:

8.04[4] Willful Blindness

It is a defense to a finding of willfulness that the defendant was ignorant of the law or of facts which made the conduct illegal, since willfulness requires a voluntary and intentional violation of a known legal duty. However, if the defendant deliberately avoided acquiring knowledge of a fact or the law, then the jury may infer that he actually knew it and that he was merely trying to avoid giving the appearance (and incurring the consequences) of knowledge. See United States v. Ramsey, 785 F.2d. 184, 189 (7th Cir.), cert. denied sub nom. McCreary v. United States, 476 U.S. 1186 (1986).<sup>(6)</sup>

In such a case, the use of an "ostrich instruction" -- also known as a deliberate ignorance, conscious avoidance, willful blindness, or a Jewell instruction (see United States v. Jewell, 532 F.2d. 697 (9th Cir.), cert. denied, 426 U.S. 951 (1976) -- may be appropriate.

A number of courts have approved the use of such instructions under proper circumstances. See, e.g., United States v. Picciandra, 788 F.2d. 39, 46 (1st Cir.), cert. denied, 479 U.S. 847 (1986); United States v. MacKenzie, 777 F.2d. 811, 818-19 (2d Cir.), cert. denied, 476 U.S. 1169 (1986); United States v. Callahan, 588 F.2d. 1078 (5th Cir. 1979); United States v. Dube, 820 F.2d. 886, 892 (7th Cir. 1987); United States v. Bussey, 942 F.2d. 1241, 1246 (8th Cir.), cert. denied, 112 S.Ct. 1936 (1991) (post-Cheek decision); United States v. Fingado, 934 F.2d. 1163, 1166-1167 (10th Cir.), cert. denied, 112 S.Ct. 320 (1991). However, it has also been said that the use of such instructions is "rarely appropriate." United States v. deFrancisco-Lopez, 939 F.2d. 1405, 1409 (10th Cir. 1991) (relying on several 9th Circuit cases).<sup>(2)</sup> Thus, it is advisable not to request such an instruction unless it is clearly warranted by the evidence in a particular case. Furthermore, the language of any deliberate ignorance instruction in a criminal tax case must comport with the Government's obligation to prove the voluntary, intentional violation of a known legal duty. The deliberate ignorance instruction set forth in United States v. Fingado, 934 F.2d. at 1166, appears to be suitable for a criminal tax case.<sup>(3)</sup> Further, to avoid potential confusion with the meaning of "willfulness" as it relates to the defendant's intent, it may be wise to avoid use of the phrase "willful blindness," using instead such phrases as "deliberate ignorance" or "conscious avoidance."<sup>(4)</sup>

How do the federal courts view this despicable "willful ignorance" and the misapplication of the law by federal employees who practice it? Here is what one judge said about private individuals who practiced the same despicable behavior. You be the judge!

"Additionally, honesty is inconsistent with willful ignorance of the facts and circumstances available to the creditor, and thus the facts and circumstances that reasonable investigation would have disclosed may be relevant. While 'honesty' may require no more than a pure heart, it is questionable that a pure heart can co-exist with closed eyes. It is not honest to close one's eyes so as to maintain an empty head."
[Hale Contracting v. United New Mexico Bank, 799 P.2d. 581 (1990)]

Another way to describe government employees who practice "willful ignorance" is to say that they are operating in "bad faith", as opposed to "good faith".

2.8.6 Compelled Income Taxes on Labor (slavery)

"Taxation of earnings from labor is on a par with forced labor. Seizing the results of someone's labor is equivalent to seizing hours from him and directing him to carry on various activities."
[Robert Nozick, Harvard philosopher]

"The essential element in war is not killing per se, but rather the compelling of an opponent to do one's will... The essence is a contest of political will, whose means may involve varying forms and degrees of compulsion."
[Paul A. Smith, Jr., On Political War, National Defense University Press]

Notice we didn't say "taxes", but rather "income taxes" based on wage? We're not objecting to "taxes", but to involuntary or compelled payment to the government based on earnings from labor. Taxes in proportion to one's earnings for labor, as you will find out later, amount to slavery. If one's income tax bracket is 28%, then they are a slave to the government for the first 28% of the year. There is no other way to look at it. But wait a minute, you say, the Thirteenth amendment and the civil war ended slavery, right? Economic slavery is still slavery, no matter how you want to look at it! That's why the Constitution forbids direct taxes by the federal government on natural persons (people like you and I)..because our founding fathers wisely understood this relationship between income from labor and direct taxes on that income by the government.

Interestingly, if you look up the word slave in the dictionary, you will find out that the word refers to a person who has no property rights. Labor has intrinsic value because you can exchange it for money. Even the U.S. Supreme Court agrees that labor is property. However, the exchange of labor for money doesn't involve profit in the taxable sense, because it is an equal exchange, especially when you consider the cost of producing the labor, such as food, rent, education, etc. Therefore, any attempt by the government to tax income from the equal exchange of one type of property for another amounts to tyranny and slavery. This was made very clear by the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Butchers' Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884)

"Among these unalienable rights, as proclaimed in that great document [the Declaration of Independence] is the right of men to pursue their happiness, by which is meant, the right any lawful business or vocation, in any manner not inconsistent with the equal rights of others, which may increase their prosperity or develop their faculties, so as to give them their highest enjoyment...It has been well said that, THE PROPERTY WHICH EVERY MAN HAS IN HIS OWN LABOR, AS IT IS THE ORIGINAL FOUNDATION OF ALL OTHER PROPERTY SO IT IS THE MOST SACRED AND INVIOABLE..."
[Butchers' Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884)]

2.8.7 The Socialist (Social) Security Number: Mark of the Beast

"And he causeth all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads:

And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name.

Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six."
[Revelation 13:16-18, the Bible]

The Socialist Security Number in today's society has become a very powerful tool for restraint of individual liberties and for tracking people down mercilessly like hunted animals and then controlling and abusing them. The Bible calls this mark the "Mark of the Beast", as shown above in Rev. 13:16-18. The Bible even identifies who the "beast" is!:

"And I saw the beast, the kings [political rulers] of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him [Jesus] who sat on the horse and against His army."
[Revelation 19:19, Bible, NKJV]

The beast therefore consists of corrupt totalitarian governments, their armies, and the politicians who run them who are against God and His Law. The Socialist Security Number has basically become the chief tool of organized extortion by these Satanic government "beasts". It is a key tool used by law enforcement, for instance, for locating individuals who are wanted. Given a person's social security number, you can, for a fee, use national databases to determine the following information about a person without their consent:

1. Credit cards and loans.
2. Credit history.
3. Income tax returns filed.
4. Government benefits received, including social security and Medicare benefits.
5. Vehicles that have loans on them.
6. Real property that has loans on it.
7. Bank accounts.
8. Safe deposit boxes.
9. Driver's licenses and current address using driver's license number.

This information is most useful to the IRS in tracking tax protesters down and destroying their lives by confiscating and levying their assets, even if they owe no taxes, without a trial or due process of law. The only way for a person to protect his or her privacy from such abuse is to ensure that they never apply for or use a social security number, do not provide it when asked for it, and remove themselves from the Social Security System immediately so they can get rid of the "mark of the beast". One has to wonder, doesn't the 4th Amendment protect our privacy? How is it that a bank can legally refuse serving us and force us to give up our privacy and get a number on our forehead just to be able to have a bank account?

For detailed information on Socialist Security Numbers, refer to the website: <http://www.nossn.com/>. This site is very interesting. Also, if you want to free yourself of the coercion you feel about having to participate in social security, refer to:

2.8.7.1 Coercion: The Enumeration At Birth Program

Under the Enumeration at Birth Program, the U.S. government has instituted a means to in effect "bar code" babies (mark of the beast, Rev. 13:16-18) when they are born right there at the hospital so they can get into the tax system immediately and be tracked by government computers as "wards of the state".

The Social Security Administration will always tell you that getting an SSN is strictly voluntary. The following page on their website even states that you don't have to get one for your children:

<http://www.ssa.gov/pubs/10023.html>

They will also tell you that no one is required to get a SSN to live and work in the United States. The law will confirm this. The only people required to get a SSN is aliens upon admission into the United States and "All other Applicants". What they will not do is tell you that they are going to do everything in their power to make sure that everyone is enumerated. For example, here is the procedure if a parent objects to a newborn getting a SSN under the "Enumeration at Birth Program." Notice how they will pretend that the state inadvertently keyed "yes." And this is what our hospitals are instructed to do! You can't even have a baby without the state trying to assign a Socialist Security Number! Of course, you have the right to object as a parent to assigning an SSN, but the fact is that they already have a number and a card assigned before they ask you if you want one and make it inconvenient to say no.

THE SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER POLICY AND GENERAL PROCEDURES

00205.100 PARENT OBJECTS TO ASSIGNMENT OF SSN TO CHILD
UNDER THE ENUMERATION AT BIRTH PROGRAM

A. POLICY SSA does not change, void or cancel SSNs. In special situations, SSA will delete the applicant information from the SSN record.

B. PROCEDURE A parent may object when a child is assigned an SSN.

If a child is issued an SSN card via the Enumeration at Birth program (the online NUMIDENT shows "FMC:6" for Enumeration at Birth items) and the mother states she answered "no" to the enumeration question when providing birth information for the newborn, assume that the State inadvertently keyed "yes", and follow these steps:

STEP ACTION

1 Explain that the child will need an SSN, by at least age 2, if he/she will be listed as a dependent on an income tax return.

* If the parent accepts this explanation and will keep the SSN card, stop.

* If this is not acceptable, go to step 2.

2 Explain that on SSA's records, the account will remain dormant, unless earnings are posted on the record.

* If the parent accepts this explanation and will keep the card, stop.

* If the parent accepts the explanation but does want the SSN card, take the card and destroy the card (RM 00201.060). Explain that when an application is later made for an SSN card the same number will be assigned.

* If the parent insists that we delete the SSN

1 record, explain that the deletion action may
2 take several months. (Go to step 3.)

3 -----
4 3 * Document the parent's objection and advise the 5 parent that the case must be sent to central
6 office (CO) for review.

8 * Explain to the parent that if we delete the 9 applicant information from the SSN record, a
10 subsequent SSN request (likely before the child 11 is age 2) will result in a different SSN. In 12 addition, if and when the parent files for an 13 SSN for the child in the future, he/she should 14 enter "no" in item 10 on the SS-5.

16 * Forward all material pertinent to the situation
17 (including the FO observation and recommendation)
18 to CO at:

25 -----

26 4 Request review of the case and action concerning the 27 parent's request for deletion of the data from the 28 SSN record. Send a copy of the entire file to the 29 appropriate regional office so that they can discuss
30 ongoing problems with the involved State.

31 The above page was reprinted (without permission) from the SSA website. Of course this will confirm that it is voluntary. It
32 certainly doesn't seem that way. I have talked to many parents who were told that they could not leave the hospital without 33 getting a SSN for their newborn. Do I detect shades of Nazi Germany here somewhere?

34 2.8.7.2 Coercion: Denying Benefits for Those who Refuse to Provide Socialist Security Numbers

35 While there are no laws forcing citizens to obtain or use their Socialist Security Number, for all practical purposes, its use
36 has become mandatory. Consider the following scenarios that mitigate against functioning in our culture without a social 37 security number:

- 38 1. You cannot obtain a loan or a credit card or open a bank or checking account at the vast majority of U.S. Banks, 39 without a Socialist Security Number, even if your credit expenditures are guaranteed by collateral deposits. If you ask
40 the banks why, they will say: "Well, the only way we can get information about your credit history is with your social
41 security number. Furthermore, we're not denying you a privilege like loans, because you can always go to another
42 bank." That's just a smokescreen, of course, because if you ask them who grants credit or bank accounts without a 43 social security number, they will know of no one to refer you to, because there aren't any banks in the U.S. that would.
44 This amounts to legalized discrimination that ought to be punished by court sanctions.
- 45 2. There are no banks that will allow you to have a safe deposit box without a social security number.
- 46 3. You can't claim your children as tax deductions on your federal income tax returns without providing their social 47 security number. Of course, no one at the IRS advertises that you don't need the social security and can substitute an 48 affidavit and a copy of the birth certificate, because they don't want you knowing that you don't need a socialist 49 security number for your child.
- 50 4. Some employers will say they can't hire you unless they have a social security number, even though they are mistaken 51 and the law says they can't do this.
- 52 5. In some states now, you cannot get a driver's license without a social security number. The justification the courts and 53 states use is that they need to be able to do this so that "deadbeat dads" will lose their driver's license if they don't pay

- child support, but the fact of the matter is that they insist on your socialist security number even if you aren't a parent and don't plan on being one. That is because this gives them one more way to find you and one less way you can hide.
6. You cannot get a mailbox without at least two forms of identification AND a home address where you live, as per Postal Service Form 1583. Acceptable forms of identification include government civilian or military ID cards, which have your social security number on them. Furthermore, a copy of the holder's identifying information must be provided to the postal service on a copy of the application.
  7. You cannot get student loans without a social security number.
  8. You can't apply for AFDC, Medicaid, unemployment compensation, food stamps, or state programs without a socialist security number.
  9. You can't be an officer of a food retail store that accepts food stamps without having a social security number.
  10. You can't serve on a jury without someone asking you for your SSN.
  11. You can't apply for a HUD program without providing your SSN.

However, the law says you can't be discriminated against for failure to provide or use a Social Security Number. Public Law 94-455 at section 1211 "Use of Social Security Numbers?" states:

Under the Privacy Act of 1974, it is unlawful for a Federal, State, or local government agency to deny to any individual any right, benefit, or privilege provided by Law because of the individual's refusal to disclose his social security account number...".
[Public Law 94-455, Section 1211]

So how can one survive without social security numbers? Here are some ideas:

1. Use cash or gold for all financial transactions.
2. Refuse to divulge your social security number to anyone.
3. Have offshore bank accounts and credit cards from banks that do not require social security numbers and which will respect your privacy and not divulge your transactions to the IRS.
4. When claiming your children as tax deductions, do not obtain or use their social security number on your income tax return, if you submit one of course. Instead, submit a copy of the birth certificate for each child along with an affidavit claiming you are the parent of that child.
5. Do not provide your social security number on your income tax returns. Also, do not provide your direct home address on your income tax returns in order to preserve your privacy. Give your overseas mail forwarder address instead.
6. Do not file a W-4 to institute withholding at your employer. Filing of this form is voluntary. If you do file the form or are forced to, refuse to provide your social security number.
7. Obtain an overseas driver's license so you don't need a local one that requires divulging your social security number.
8. Avoid putting anything in a local bank account or safe deposit box, and if you do, assume it will be confiscated by the government or the I.R.S. illegally.
9. Use offshore postal forwarders, who will respect your privacy and forward your mail confidentially to your local address.
10. Prosecute employers vigorously who discriminate against employees who do not have or will not provide their social security number. This behavior is clearly illegal.

2.8.8 National ID Cards

National ID cards would accomplish the same function as Socialist Security Numbers, and in most cases, would just be a vehicle to automate the computerized tracking of individuals and expand the Mark of the Beast to new areas of people's lives heretofore not seen. National ID cards extend the tracking of individuals and further invade privacy, because they can be used to store information about individuals. National ID cards should therefore be avoided by all for the same reason that Socialist Security Numbers should be avoided.

2.8.9 Paper Money

"We make money the old fashioned way. We print it".
[Art Rolnick, former Chief Economist, Minneapolis Federal Reserve Bank]

"The abandonment of the gold standard made it possible for the welfare-statists (government bureaucrats) to use the banking system as an unlimited expansion of credit. In the absence of the gold standard, there is no way to protect savings from confiscation through inflation... Deficit spending is simply a scheme for the "hidden" confiscation of wealth. Gold stands in the way of this insidious process."

1 [Alan Greenspan]

2 Here's an interesting and funny comment that one of our readers said about tax protesters as it relates to the money issue:

3 Are you aware that government needs tax protesters?

4 To protest taxes maintains the fiction that IRS collects [lawful] money and that government spends [lawful]
5 money. IRS does not ask for money, they ask for checks or money orders. WHY?

6 They know that we have no [lawful] money. If you owed them one thousand dollars and appeared at their office
7 with 1000 dollars of silver, they would not know what to do with the coins and I understand that they can not
8 take Fed notes!

9 I offer by newspapers and internet, 100 pounds of money to each person who just describes the money that 10 government spends and I get no takers! Care to try?

11 Do you know the purpose of the Imaginary Revenue Scum (IRS)?
12 [Winston Smith]

13 Hilarious! This simply reinforces the idea that we aren't really using lawful money, as the Constitution, Article I, section
14 10 reads says:

15 "No state shall...coin money, emit bills of credit, make any thing but gold and silver a tender in payment of 16 debts..."

17 The money you use is fiat money and is unconstitutional! You are using monopoly money that isn't worth anything.

18 2.8.9.1 What is Money?

19 The most powerful and enlightening discussion of money we have ever seen comes from a book by Ayn Rand entitled Atlas
20 Shrugged. This book is highly recommended for freedom fighters and we guarantee it will change your view of the world
21 forever. The theme of the book is laissez faire capitalism v. socialism and it does a very good job comparing the two in a
22 practical sense by showing why capitalism is the only one of the two that is compatible with having a free country. It is a
23 fiction book but it has a powerful non-fiction message we are sure you will enjoy. Below is an excerpt from that marvelous
24 book on page 387 of the 35th Anniversary Edition.

25 Rearden heard Bertram Scudder, outside the group, say to a girl who made some sound of indignation, "Don't 26 let him disturb you. You know, money is the root of all evil--and he's the typical product of money."

27 Rearden did not think that Francisco could have heard it, but he saw Francisco turning to them with a gravely
28 courteous smile.

29 "So you think that money is the root of all evil?" said Francisco d'Aconia. "Have you ever asked what is the 30 root of money? Money is a tool of exchange, which can't exist unless there are goods produced and men able 31 to produce them. Money is the material shape of the principle that men who wish to deal with one another
32 must deal by trade and give value for value. Money is not the tool of the moochers [the politicians and 33 demagogues], who claim your product by tears, or of the looters [the IRS], who take it from you by force.
34 Money is made possible only by the men who produce [not STEAL]. Is this what you consider evil?"

35 "When you accept money in payment for your effort, you do so only on the conviction that you will exchange
36 it for the product of the effort of others. It is not the moochers or the looters who give value to money. Not an 37 ocean of tears nor all the guns in the world can transform those pieces of paper in your wallet into the bread
38 you will need to survive tomorrow. Those pieces of paper, which should have been gold, are a token of 39 honor-- your claim upon the energy of the men who produce. Your wallet is your statement of hope that 40 somewhere in the world around you there are men who will not default on that moral principle which is the 41 root of money. Is this what you consider evil?"

42 "Have you ever looked for the root of production? Take a look at an electric generator and dare tell yourself
43 that it was created by the muscular effort of unthinking brutes. Try to grow a seed of wheat without the 44 knowledge left to you by men who had to discover it for the first time. Try to obtain your food by means of 45 nothing but physical motions--and you'll learn that man's mind is the root of all the goods produced and of all
46 the wealth that has ever existed on earth.

1 "But you say that money is made by the strong at the expense of the weak? What strength do you mean? It is not
 2 the strength of guns or muscles. Wealth is the product of man's capacity to think. Then is money made by the
 3 man who invents a motor at the expense of those who did not invent it? Is money made by the intelligent at the 4 expense of the fools? By the able at the expense of the incompetent? By the ambitious at the expense of the lazy?
 5 Money is MADE--before it can be looted or mooched--made by the effort of every honest man, each to the
 6 extent of his ability. An honest man is one who knows that he can't consume more than he has produced
 7 [like the government has been doing for decades with inflation and deficit spending].

8 "To trade by means of money is the code of the men of good will. Money rests on the axiom that every man is
 9 the owner of his mind and his effort. Money allows no power to prescribe the value of your effort except by 10 the voluntary choice of the man who is willing to trade you his effort in return. Money permits you to obtain
 11 for your goods and your labor that which they are worth to the men who buy them, but no more. Money
 12 permits no deals except those to mutual benefit by the unforced judgment of the traders. Money demands of 13 you the recognition that men must work for their own benefit, not for their own injury, for their gain, not
 14 their loss--the recognition that they are not beasts of burden, born to carry the weight of your misery--that 15 you must offer them values, not wounds--that the common bond among men is not the exchange of 16 suffering, but the exchange of GOODS. Money demands that you sell, not your weakness to men's stupidity,
 17 but your talent to their reason; it demands that you buy, not the shoddiest they offer, but the best your money
 18 can find. And when men live by trade--with reason, not force, as their final arbiter--it is the best product that
 19 wins, the best performance, the man of best judgment and highest ability--and the degree of a man's 20 productiveness is the degree of his reward. This is the code of existence whose tool and symbol is money. Is 21 this what you consider evil?

22 "But money is only a tool. It will take you wherever you wish, but it will not replace you as the driver. It will
 23 give you the means for the satisfaction of your desires, but it will not provide you with desires. Money is the 24 scourge of the men who attempt to reverse the law of causality--the men who seek to replace the mind by 25 seizing the products of the mind.

26 "Money will not purchase happiness for the man who has no concept of what he wants; money will not give
 27 him a code of values, if he's evaded the knowledge of what to value, and it will not provide him with a
 28 purpose, if he's evaded the choice of what to seek. Money will not buy intelligence for the fool, or admiration
 29 for the coward, or respect for the incompetent. The man who attempts to purchase the brains of his superiors
 30 to serve him, with his money replacing his judgment, ends up by becoming the victim of his inferiors. The 31 men of intelligence desert him, but the cheats and the frauds come flocking to him, drawn by a law which he 32 has not discovered: that no man may be smaller than his money. Is this the reason why you call it evil?

33 "Only the man who does not need it, is fit to inherit wealth--the man who would make his own fortune no
 34 matter where he started. If an heir is equal to his money, it serves him; if not, it destroys him. But you look
 35 on and you cry that money corrupted him. Did it? Or did he corrupt his money? Do not envy a worthless
 36 heir; his wealth is not yours and you would have done no better with it. Do not think that it should have been
 37 distributed among you; loading the world with fifty parasites instead of one, would not bring back the dead
 38 virtue which was the fortune. Money is a living power that dies without its root. Money will not serve that 39 mind that cannot match it. Is this the reason why you call it evil?

40 "Money is your means of survival. The verdict which you pronounce upon the source of your livelihood is 41 the verdict you pronounce upon your life. If the source is corrupt, you have damned your own existence. Did
 42 you get your money by fraud? By pandering to men's vices or men's stupidity? By catering to fools, in the 43 hope of getting more than your ability deserves? By lowering your standards? By doing work you despise for 44 purchasers you scorn? If so, then your money will not give you a moment's or a penny's worth of joy. Then
 45 all the things you buy will become, not a tribute to you, but a reproach; not an achievement, but a reminder
 46 of shame. Then you'll scream that money is evil. Evil, because it would not pinch-hit for your self-respect?
 47 Evil, because it would not let you enjoy your depravity? Is this the root of your hatred of money?

48 "Money will always remain an effect and refuse to replace you as the cause. Money is the product of virtue,
 49 but it will not give you virtue and it will not redeem your vices. Money will not give you the unearned, neither
 50 in matter nor in spirit. Is this the root of your hatred of money?

51 "Or did you say it's the LOVE of money that's the root of all evil? To love a thing is to know and love its nature.
 52 To love money is to know and love the fact that money is the creation of the best power within you, and your
 53 passkey to trade your effort for the effort of the best among men. It's the person who would sell his soul for a
 54 nickel, who is the loudest in proclaiming his hatred of money--and he has good reason to hate it. The lovers
 55 of money are willing to work for it. They know they are able to deserve it."

56 "Let me give you a tip on a clue to men's characters: the man who damns money has obtained it dishonorably;
 57 the man who respects it has earned it.

58 "Run for your life from any man who tells you that money is evil. That sentence is the leper's bell of an
 59 approaching looter. So long as men live together on earth and need means to deal with one another--their 60 only substitute, if they abandon money, is the muzzle of a gun.

1 "But money demands of you the highest virtues, if you wish to make it or to keep it. Men who have no
 2 courage, pride, or self-esteem, men who have no moral sense of their right to their money and are not willing
 3 to defend it as they defend their life, men who apologize for being rich--will not remain rich for long. They
 4 are the natural bait for the swarms of looters that stay under rocks for centuries, but come crawling out at
 5 the first smell of a man who begs to be forgiven for the guilt of owning wealth. They will hasten to relieve 6 him of the guilt--and of his life, as he deserves.

7 "Then you will see the rise of the double standard--the men who live by force [the government and the IRS
 8 and scumbag lawyers], yet count on those who live by trade to create the value of their looted money--the 9 men who are the hitchhikers of virtue. In a moral society, these are the criminals, and the statutes are written
 10 to protect you against them. But when a society establishes criminals-by-right and looters-by-law--men who
 11 use force to seize the wealth of DISARMED victims--then money becomes its creators' avenger. Such looters
 12 [IRS] believe it safe to rob defenseless [made ignorant of the law by sneaky lawyers and politicians who run
 13 the public education system, in this case] men, once they've passed a law to disarm them. But their loot
 14 becomes the magnet for other looters, who get it from them as they got it. Then the race goes, not to the 15 ablest at production, but to those most ruthless at brutality. When force is the standard, the murderer wins
 16 over the pickpocket. And then that society vanishes, in a spread of ruins and slaughter.

17 "Do you wish to know whether that day is coming? Watch money. Money is the barometer of a society's
 18 virtue. When you see that trading is done, not by consent, but by compulsion--when you see that in order to 19 produce, you need to obtain permission from men who produce nothing--when you see that money is flowing
 20 to those who deal, not in goods, but in favors--when you see that men get richer by graft and by pull than by 21 work, and your laws don't protect you against them, but protect them against you--when you see corruption
 22 being rewarded and honesty becoming a self-sacrifice--you may know that your society is doomed. Money is 23 so noble a medium that it does not compete with guns and it does not make terms with brutality. It will not
 24 permit a country to survive as half-property, half-loot.

25 "Whenever destroyers the [IRS, the Federal Reserve, and the Dept of Justice] appear among men, they start
 26 by destroying money, for money is men's protection and the base of a moral existence. Destroyers seize gold
 27 and leave to its owners a counterfeit pile of paper. This kills all objective standards and delivers men into the 28 arbitrary power of an arbitrary setter of values. Gold was an objective value, an equivalent of wealth
 29 produced. Paper is a mortgage on wealth that does not exist, backed by a gun aimed at those who are 30 expected to produce it. Paper is a check drawn by legal looters upon an account which is not theirs: upon the 31 virtue of the victims. Watch for the day when it becomes, marked: 'Account overdrawn.'

32 "When you have made evil [government looting through fraud, obfuscation and complication of the tax laws,
 33 and through vote for sugar-daddies who promise loot] the means of survival, do not expect men to remain
 34 good. Do not expect them to stay moral and lose their lives for the purpose of becoming the fodder of the 35 immoral. Do not expect them to produce, when production is punished and looting rewarded. Do not ask,
 36 'Who is destroying the world?' You are.

37 "You stand in the midst of the greatest achievements of the greatest productive civilization and you wonder
 38 why it's crumbling around you, while you're damning its life-blood--money. You look upon money as the 39 savages did before you, and you wonder why the jungle is creeping back to the edge of your cities.
 40 Throughout men's history, money was always seized by looters of one brand or another, but whose method
 41 remained the same: to seize wealth by force and to keep the producers bound, demeaned, defamed, deprived
 42 of honor. That phrase about the evil of money, which you mouth with such righteous recklessness, comes 43 from a time when wealth was produced by the labor of slaves--slaves who repeated the motions once
 44 discovered by somebody's mind and left unimproved for centuries. So long as production was ruled by force,
 45 and wealth was obtained by conquest, there was little to conquer. Yet through all the centuries of stagnation
 46 and starvation, men exalted the looters, as aristocrats of the sword, as aristocrats of birth, as aristocrats of 47 the bureau, and despised the producers, as slaves, as traders, as shopkeepers--as industrialists.

48 "To the glory of mankind, there was, for the first and only time in history, a COUNTRY OF MONEY--and I
 49 have no higher, more reverent tribute to pay to America, for this means: a country of reason, justice,
 50 freedom, production, achievement. For the first time, man's mind and money were set free, and there were
 51 no fortunes-by-conquest, but only fortunes-by-work, and instead of swordsmen and slaves, there appeared 52 the real maker of wealth, the greatest worker, the highest type of human being--the self-made man--the 53 American industrialist.

54 "If you ask me to name the proudest distinction of Americans, I would choose--because it contains all the
 55 others--the fact that they were the people who created the phrase 'to MAKE money.' No other language or 56 nation had ever used these words before; men had always thought of wealth as a static quantity--to be seized,
 57 begged, inherited, shared, looted, or obtained as a favor. Americans were the first to understand that wealth
 58 has to be created. The words 'to make money' hold the essence of human morality.

59 "Yet these were the words for which Americans were denounced by the rotted cultures of the looters'
 60 continents. Now the looters' credo has brought you to regard your proudest [capitalist] achievements as a
 61 hallmark of shame, your prosperity as guilt, your greatest men, the industrialists, as blackguards, and your

1 magnificent factories as the product and property of muscular labor, the labor of whip-driven slaves, like the
 2 pyramids of Egypt. The rotter the [IRS and the federal and state governments] who simpers that he sees no
 3 difference between the power of the dollar and the power of the whip, ought to learn the difference on his
 4 own hide-as, I think, he will.

5 "Until and unless you discover that money is the root of all good, you ask for your own destruction. When
 6 money ceases to be the tool by which men deal with one another, then men become the tools of men. Blood,
 7 whips and guns--or dollars. Take your choice--there is no other--and your time is running out."

9 2.8.9.2 "Separation of Money and State"

10 A very popular term in our age of political correctness is the term "separation of church and state". This term was first
 11 coined by Thomas Jefferson in a letter to the Danbury Baptist Church on October 7, 1801 and has been cited in several 12 subsequent rulings by the Supreme Court which removed prayer from the schools and from other aspects of public life.
 13 However, how many people know that in addition to "separation of church and state", our founders also sought "separation
 14 of money and state"? Very few people understand this concept and why it is so important, so we will devote this section to 15 this fascinating concept.

16 The original purposes of currency were simple, but complete insofar as serving the purposes of involved parties. The 17 original forms of currency arose spontaneously in accord with the desired structure of trade. In such an original form, the 18 money, if any, was a token of value. No party which contributed nothing to the trade, profited from it.

19 Ultimately, governments would come to regulate monetary circulations. In very many cases, because the power to issue
 20 currencies is the opportunity to take tremendous unearned profit from entire nations, the advantages of a circulation
 21 which could be honored by — and which could fully serve — a broad trade system, were subverted and abused.

22 The colonies of the United States of America were unique among the nations and nations-to-be of the world, as they
 23 modeled their currency to replicate solely, trade between consenting parties, that no party extrinsic to the trade profited
 24 unjustly from it. This is what we call "separation of money and state": a situation where even though the government
 25 created the money, they could not manipulate its value to their advantage because they could not arbitrarily create more
 26 money with a printing press. If they could arbitrarily print more money, then they would lower the value of the money in 27 circulation and thereby "tax" all the money in existence.

28 The virtues of the near perfect American Colonial system therefore comprised the greatest possible threat to systems of 29 multiplying indebtedness, because the very complete freedom to prosper without impediment, inherent solely to the 30 perfected attributes exemplified by the American Colonial system, vibrantly demonstrated the iniquities of unjust profit
 31 rendered by the multiplication of debt inherent to, and irreversible within, central banking systems.

32 The money of the American Colonies thus became the principal cause of the American Revolution.

33 On behalf of the Bank of England, British Parliament ordered the colonists to give up their interest-free currency. No such 34 system as the colonists had devised could be allowed to demonstrate the impoverishing costs imposed by the plutocrats, of 35 a currency subject to multiplied, unearned profit. By dictate of the plutocracy of England, in America, as everywhere else in 36 the world, debt would be perpetually and irreversibly multiplied upon the un-assenting subjects of the system, to their ever
 37 greater detriment.

38 The colonists would pay some thirty-percent annual interest for the imposed currency. Benjamin Franklin reported, "Within 39 a year, the poor houses were filled. The hungry and homeless walked the streets everywhere." He later explained, "We 40 would have gladly borne the little tax on tea and other matters, if it had not been that they took from us our money, which 41 created great unemployment and dissatisfaction."

1 How did the concept of money first originate, and what is the vital difference between such a money as the colonists
2 devised, and the more convoluted instrument issued in its stead by the Bank of England — prototype of the central banking
3 systems of the present world?

4 One day, a producer of a given product was approached by another. The latter said, "I have not yet produced the thing(s)
5 which I will in turn present to you, which I can produce if you first produce the thing(s) I ask of you."

6 The first saw the prospective benefit of this commitment, should the second be so good as to perform the resultant
7 obligation. Trust was involved; and the "money" that was thus created was comprised of the incumbent trust.

8 Money was created when the debtor was willing to attest to their obligation. The obligation was so much as penned to 9 paper, which in turn represented the value, and very immutable units of, that which they promised to deliver. The paper,
10 new money itself, held by the creditor party of the trade, was evidence of the debt. The value of the money held by the 11 creditor was a promise to pay — a note<sup>12</sup>.

12 A note is only so good as the integrity and capacity of the debtor to fulfill their obligation. No note, regardless of who 13 issues it, is any better.

14 How do we emulate free, unimpeded trade by management of a circulation; and what properties must a commerce system
15 provide, that it not impose injustice on its subjects?

16 If the value of our original note were diminished over time, the creditor might receive less than the intended obligation of 17 the debtor, or vice versa. In order not to subvert the purposes of trade commitments or corrupt the value or cost of 18 accumulated savings or assets, the value of currency must be consistent across time.

19 How is money to be introduced to the circulation?

20 The answer to this question rests on the further questions, must money represent debt; and when should money come into 21 existence?

22 When new prosperity is rendered, and if money is to represent debt, and if the circulation is to represent the value of all
23 things related to it, the singular place and time money can be and must be introduced to circulation, is when new wealth is
24 created. If a circulation is to represent the value of things in part by constant proportion to those things, and if it is
25 undesirable that a circulation impede trade, then the volume of circulation must be equal to the value of the volume of 26 things for which it was created, and which might be traded, all at once, by it. Nothing less than such a circulation provides 27 for full, immediate trade.

28 The need for further circulation thus coincides with the production of new wealth. This therefore is when new circulation
29 must be introduced; and the quantity to be introduced must be equal to the new wealth.

30 Distribution of the circulation is readily solved. Where new circulation is required, it is distributed to the producer of the 31 wealth, and the consumer of the wealth assumes a debt equal to the original value of the wealth.

32 Rate of payment is also readily solved. Only by paying against just such debts at the rate of consumption, is money in 33 circulation kept equal to the current value of debt-related wealth; and then, and then only, are we paying only for what we 34 consume, with an equal measure of our own production.

35 Only in such a system is the circulation always adequate to pay all debt; is there no inflation or deflation; is there no
36 manipulation of value or cost by scarcity of circulation; is there no impediment to prosperity for scarcity of circulation; and 37 is there no multiplication of debt in proportion to commerce, as inherent to interest.

38 Here and here alone, have we replicated entirely the conditions and interaction of our original two, unimpeded traders.

<sup>12</sup>note: A note is a promise to pay. Modern currencies are originally issued as debts. The value of the currency is comprised of, and represents, the original commitment of the debtor to fulfill the obligation.

1 By agreeing together to issue and regulate such a currency by such a prescription, the integrity of the currency is further
 2 assured by society together (government) holding debtors accountable to fulfill the obligations represented by the "money."
 3 This was the apparent conviction of the American Colonists, who fought a revolution to defend their currency.

4 A government of free people and representing free people, such as the original United States Government, was not
 5 established to profit from the people. It could not enrich itself from their trades because all of its money had to be gold and 6 silver.

7 The history of the American "Economy" led indirectly to a far different end than the founders fought for. In a century of 8 strife, descendants of the original central bankers the American public had cast off, ultimately were successful in imposing 9 just such a privately owned "banking" system as necessary to issue a currency with the additional attribute and
 10 ramifications of "interest."

11 Under the so-called "Federal Reserve" System — a conglomerate of international banks — a currency would be issued such 12 as engendered the hunger and homelessness Franklin explained compelled the American Revolution.

13 What is the distinct nature of the central banker's interest bearing debt currency<sup>13</sup>; and what are the consequences of it?

14 The currency and interaction of modern central banks is analogous to a third party imposing upon our original two-party
 15 trade.

16 This third party, by nature extrinsic to the trade, produces nothing, and intrinsically contributes nothing to commerce. The 17 extrinsic party writes the obligation to pay for the debtor party, and makes the obligation to pay no better than the debtor
 18 party's original promise, but adds to the cost of the transaction, whatever "interest" they coerce from the debtor by virtue of 19 the need for such a token of exchange, as necessary to convey the diverse and dissimilar products of modern commerce.

20 The entire body of vying commerce then is reduced to a pool of debtors committed to deliver debt-and-interest obligations
 21 which, from the very beginning, exceed the entire such circulation.

22 The central banker has provided the original traders nothing they aren't fully capable of providing themselves, and
 23 something they certainly are fully capable of providing, in concert with further traders, to all commerce together. But by 24 displacing such an equitable system with a paper or coin currency, the essential promises of which no banker fulfills, the 25 system is subject to profit by interest, and the additional ramifications of interest — whatever those ramifications be.

26 What are the ramifications of "interest?"

27 In order to maintain the circulation vital to repaying their debts, and vital to sustaining the further, greater commerce
 28 necessary to repaying the obligations of those debts, which include interest, the subjects of the system are compelled to re-
 29 borrow what they pay against principal and interest as subsequent debts, increased so much as periodic interest<sup>14</sup>.

30 So long as the system exists — so long as interest exists — debt is multiplied in proportion to a circulation, or the 31 commerce which can be sustained by it. Ever more of the circulation must be devoted to servicing debt, altogether, at the 32 ever greater profit of the central bankers, who provide no contribution to prosperity, for the mere, ostensible service of 33 qualifying our credit-worthiness, and counting what we pay them in multiples of our own production.

34 As the sum of debt is multiplied, greater sums of interest are paid and re-borrowed; and thus debt increases by ever greater 35 increments of periodic interest.

36 Ultimately, one thing — debt service — increasing in proportion to another — the capacity of commerce to support and 37 survive debt — exceeds the latter.

38 While a society might issue and regulate its circulation without limitation and for the mere costs of qualifying 39 creditworthiness (without impeding credit-worthiness) and accounting for (far less) payment of debt... from the very beginning a central banking system establishes total debts (principal plus interest) which cannot be paid by the circulation, and which, in order to maintain the vital circulation, inherently and irreversibly multiply debt to our ever greater detriment, and ultimate imposition of system-wide insoluble debt.

So, we see, modern "capitalism" is not true, free enterprise; and the nature of money is critical to the vitality and freedom of enterprise. By mandating that gold and silver be the basis for all money in the American Constitution, and because gold and silver are limited commodities that cannot arbitrarily be created, the founders endowed us with a monetary system that provided "perfect separation between money and state", which kept politicians from interfering with and profiting unjustly from our trade. Because this system was so perfect in isolating money from politics, the politicians had to invent a way to end the coupling of gold with money, and they did this through a succession of devious machinations over the years:

1. The Federal Reserve Act was passed in 1913 right after the Sixteenth Amendment was passed allegedly authorizing an income tax. See sections 2.8.10 and 6.4.1 for further details. The income tax provided a way to "sop up" excess government dollars in circulation put there by a spend-a-holic government so that hyperinflation could be prevented if government printing of money got out of control.
2. The coupling of gold to money was undermined in 1933 when Franklin D. Roosevelt introduced the Trading with the Enemy Act and recalled all the gold in circulation as currency and made it illegal inside the federal zone to own gold. See section 6.4.2 for further details on this scam.
3. President Nixon completely eliminated the coupling of gold to money in 1971 by outlawing the redemption of federal reserve notes for gold.

After these "reforms and improvements" were made to our monetary system, we were transformed to more closely follow the central banking model used by most other tyrannical socialistic European governments at the time. We also had an economy ripe for inflation and instability and one where our government could print as much money as it wanted and thereby lower the value of the currency in exchange, and this is exactly what they did. In the early 1980's following President Nixon's decision to eliminate redeemability of Federal Reserve Notes in gold, interest and inflation rates climbed as high as 20% per year and this had been unheard of in all the previous history of America when we were on the gold standard.

2.8.9.3 The Founders Rejected Paper Currency

Today, inflation is a way of life and America isn't just swimming in debt, it's drowning. Consumer credit debt and business loans are at an all time high. Many state and city governments are nearly broke and Orange County, California declared bankruptcy at one time.

Everyone knows that borrowing results in debt. But does anyone know what it is that is actually being borrowed?

- Is it credit or money?
- And is there any difference?
- What exactly is money?
- A circulating medium of exchange?
- A store of intrinsic value?
- Evidence of credit or debt, or all of these?

Gold and silver, on the other hand, represent a finite amount of stored value that has been mined and refined through the toil and sweat of human labor and cannot simply be printed into existence as needed. Precious metals have intrinsic, inherent value. Inflation is the condition where each newly printed and circulating paper dollar reduces the value of all other dollars already in circulation.

1 The Founders expressly state their firm desire to never allow a paper currency here in America. According to the records of
 2 the Constitutional Convention, the suggestion that the federal government be given the power to "emit bills of credit"--
 3 meaning to issue paper money--was angrily denounced and voted down. One of the reasons the constitutional convention
 4 was called was that the Continental Dollar had just collapsed, having gone from 8:1 against the Spanish milled dollar to 5 1,000:1 within just one year. Barber shops and other establishments were wallpapering their rooms with Continentals, they 6 were so worthless.

7 The Founder's personal experience with the then recent hyperinflation and collapse of the paper Continental Dollar,
 8 combined with their knowledge of the inflationary history of central governments in England and Europe, had taught them
 9 that rulers inevitably resort to the printing press to create as much new money as needed until their inflated paper currencies
 10 became worthless. The Founders knew that paper money is artificial money, unlike gold and silver which are valuable,
 11 durable, and limited in supply. This was exemplified in the writings of Thomas Jefferson, the author of our Declaration of 12 Independence:

13 "Paper is poverty,... it is only the ghost of money, and not money itself."
 14 [Thomas Jefferson to Edward Carrington, 1788. ME 7:36 ]

15 "That paper money has some advantages is admitted. But that its abuses also are inevitable and, by breaking up 16 the measure of value, makes a lottery of all private property, cannot be denied."
 17 [Thomas Jefferson to Josephus B. Stuart, 1817. ME 15:113 ]

18 "It is a cruel thought, that, when we feel ourselves standing on the firmest ground in every respect, the cursed 19 arts of our secret enemies, combining with other causes, should effect, by depreciating our money, what the 20 open arms of a powerful enemy could not."
 21 [Thomas Jefferson to Richard Henry Lee, 1779. ME 4:298, Papers 2:298 ]

22 In How To Achieve Personal and Financial Privacy In a Public Age, author Mark Nestmann writes:

23 Gold is still the ultimate store of wealth. It's the world's only true money. And there isn't much of it to go
 24 around. All of it ever mined would fit into a small building --a 56 foot cube. The annual world production
 25 would fit into a 14 foot cube, roughly the size of an ordinary living room. If each Chinese citizen were to buy 26 just one ounce, it would take up the annual supply for the next 200 years.
 27 [How To Achieve Personal and Financial Privacy In a Public Age, Mark Nestmann]

28 Making Sense Out Of The Dollar, published in September 1, 1980, by the American Institute For Economic Research,
 29 Great Barrington, Massachusetts, stated:

30 When President Nixon nullified the U.S. promise to pay dollars for dollar claims in 1971, the U.S. monetary
 31 unit was changed from gold to a nothing. Obviously the two monetary units are vastly different, inasmuch as 32 the former was a "dollar," the later cannot also be a "dollar." Fiat monetary units have a perfect record of 33 failure, and when they are viewed as nothing units, that outcome is more plainly understandable.

34 How was the dollar once connected to gold? The U.S. Congress authorized the minting of gold coins on April
 35 1, 1792, with a dollar specified as 24.75 grains of pure gold. this established a "price" for gold of $19.39 per 36 troy ounce (480 grains per troy ounce divided by 24.785 grains per dollar equals 19.39 dollars per troy ounce).

37 In 1834 the gold content of the ten dollar coin produced by the U.S. Mint, the "eagle," was reduced from 247.5
 38 grains to 232 grains of pure gold, establishing one dollar as 23.20 grains and a gold price of $20.67 per ounce.
 39 In 1934 President Roosevelt devalued the dollar to 13.71 grains of pure gold. This raised the "price" to $35.00
 40 per ounce.

41 On August 15 , 1971 President Nixon declared that the U.S. Treasury no longer would meet its promise to pay
 42 gold, in exchange for dollar claims. By 1971, nearly all of the paper currency in circulation consisted of 43 Federal Reserve Notes in various denominations. A demand "note" ordinarily is evidence of a promise to pay
 44 or to deliver something on demand. For many years this was indicated by a printed statement on the paper
 45 currency to the effect that the U.S. Treasury would deliver the indicated number of dollars (amount of gold) on 46 demand in exchange for the paper claims to the dollars.

47 As new paper currency was printed after 1971, the promise to pay was deleted from the Federal Reserve notes.
 48 Although still designated as a "note," which ordinarily implies a promise to pay something on demand or at 49 some designated future time, the Federal Reserve notes now issued not only do not represent anything (as did 50 gold certificates or silver certificates) but also they do not promise anything. They do not even purport to be 51 anything other than identical pieces of paper printed with varying numbers.

1 Such a piece of paper currency is a no-thing having exchange value as a physical substance. Moreover, it does
 2 not even purport to be a claim on any thing. Today's dollar is totally a fiat currency. Fiat money is
 3 nonredeemable paper, a no-thing. As long as people will continue to give something for nothing, as long as
 4 there are human "sheep" willing to be shorn, as long as savings can so readily be embezzled by depreciating the 5 money in use, the "game" can go on.

6 2.8.9.4 War of Independence Fought Over Paper Money

7 Most Americans are never taught that the real reason the War For Independence was fought was over paper money. In his
 8 book The Almighty Buck, Nord Davis writes:

9 In 1763, Benjamin Franklin, a patriot who spoke too frankly, was in England and approached by a Rothschild
 10 banker who asked him the reason for the prosperity of the colonies. Franklin replied: "That is simple. In the 11 Colonies we issue our own money called colonial scrip. We issue it in proportion to the demands of trade and 12 industry."

13 It didn't take long for the Rothschilds to react to that bit of information. In 1764, the Rothschild Bank of England used its 14 influence on the Crown of England to have a Law passed which prohibited the American colonies from issuing their own
 15 temporary legal tender scrip and making it compulsory for the colonies to obtain all their currency at interest from the Bank
 16 of England.

17 Our American forefathers were obliged to surrender their colonial scrip and then to mortgage their colonial assets and 18 securities to the Bank of England just to borrow the money to carry on business. According to Franklin:

19 "One year the conditions were so reversed that the era of Prosperity ended, and a depression set in, to such an
 20 extent that the streets were filled with unemployed. The Bank of England refused to give more than 50% of the 21 face value of the scrip when turned over as required by law. The circulating medium was thus cut in half..."

22 The famous lexicographer, Daniel Webster, issued the following warning:

23 Of all contrivances for cheating the laboring classes of mankind, none has been more effective than that which 24 deludes them with paper money.

25 Quoting from Economic Solutions by Peter Kershaw:

26 The Founding Fathers of this great land had no difficulty whatsoever understanding the agenda of bankers, and 27 they frequently referred to them and their kind as, quote, 'friends of paper money.'

28 They hated the Bank of England, in particular, and felt that even were we successful in winning our 29 independence from England and King George, we could never truly be a nation of freemen unless we had an 30 honest money system.
 31 [Economic Solutions, Peter Kershaw]

32 John Adams wrote in a letter to Thomas Jefferson in 1787:

33 All the perplexities, confusion and distress in America rise, not from defects in their Constitution or 34 Confederation, not from want of honor or virtue, so much as from downright ignorance of the nature of coin,
 35 credit, and circulation.

36 The founders emblazoned their clear understanding of the necessity of a stable commodity money in the form of gold and
 37 silver by explicitly stating in the Constitution under Article 1, Section 8 that the federal government may "coin money" and 38 "regulate the value thereof" and under Article 1, Section 10, that the States are forbidden.. forbidden, mind you, to "make 39 any thing but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts."

40 Author Byron Dale in his book Bashed By the Bankers, writes:

41 During the years immediately preceding adoption of the Constitution, mobs drove our Congress from 42 Philadelphia into New Jersey and shot up the courthouses in Massachusetts. These events were illustrative of 43 the general situation existing throughout the country with respect to Law and order. Money was worth
 44 anywhere from two and a half cents on the dollar down to nothing. Credit was ruined, trade paralyzed and 45 discipline at a low ebb. Anarchy, bankruptcy and confusion prevailed.

1 On February 3, 1787, George Washington wrote to Henry Knox as follows:

2 If any.. person had told me that there would have been such formidable rebellion as exists, I would have thought
3 him a ...fit subject for a mad house.

4 Washington then wrote several letters over the next few years in which he said that if anyone had predicted the stunningly
5 fast and enormous improvements in the economy brought about by the gold clause in the Constitution:

6 "...it would have been considered a species of madness."

7 Three short years after the Constitution had been written and ratified and the new government set up, Washington wrote on 8 June 3, 1790 to the Marquis de LaFayette:

9 You have doubtless been informed...of the happy progress of our affairs...our revenues have been considerably
10 more productive than it was imagined they would be.

11 On July 19, 1791, Washington wrote to Catherine Macauloy Graham, saying:

12 The United States enjoys a scene of prosperity and tranquility under the new government that could hardly have 13 been hoped for.

14 [George Washington in a letter to Catherine Macauloy Graham]

15 On December 16, 1789, the Pennsylvania Gazette wrote:

16 Since the federal constitution has removed all danger of our having paper tender, our trade is advanced fifty 17 percent...

18 With sound, commodity money restored and paper eliminated, the United States was enjoying "prosperity" and 19 "tranquility." So has the wisdom of the Founders ultimately prevailed in absolutely preventing paper currency from ever
20 again appearing here in America?

21 2.8.9.5 President Thomas Jefferson: Foe of Paper Money

22 In 1791, Congress passed a Law chartering the Bank of the United States. The bill was drafted by Alexander Hamilton, a
23 monarchist, and then Secretary of the Treasury. It was opposed by Secretary of State, Thomas Jefferson who claimed it
24 was unconstitutional and created a powerful agency for the monopoly of money.

25 After a long debate, Congress passed the bill establishing a twenty-year charter for the first United States Bank. It was not
26 owned by the United States government, but by the private individuals who owned stock in the bank, many of whom lived
27 in England and also owned stock in the Bank of England.

28 In 1802, Thomas Jefferson wrote in a letter to then Secretary of Treasury Albert Gallatin:

29 If the American people ever allow private banks to control the issue of their currency, first by inflation and then
30 by deflation, the banks and corporations that will grow up around them will deprive the people of all property
31 until their children will wake up homeless on the continent their fathers conquered.

32 Mr. Jefferson also warned:

33 I believe that banking institutions are more dangerous to our liberties than standing armies...the issuing of 34 power should be taken from the banks and restored to the people to whom it properly belongs.

35 In 1792, a bill came before Congress to renew the charter which was to expire in 1811. During consideration of the bill, 36 Mr. Porter, a member of Congress, stated that it would:

37 Plant in the bosom of the Constitution a viper which...will sting the liberties of this country to the heart.

38 Mr. Wright said: "The charter is a cancer upon the body politic."

1 Mr. Boyd stated: "The bank is a great swindle."

2 The bill was killed.

3 2.8.9.6 Wealth confiscation through inflation

4 "Inflation is the one form of taxation that can be imposed without legislation." -- Milton Friedman

5 "By a continuing process of inflation, governments can confiscate, secretly and unobserved, an important part
 6 of the wealth of their citizens. There is no subtler, no surer means of overturning the existing basis of society
 7 than to debauch the currency. The process engages all the hidden forces of economic law on the side of 8 destruction, and does it in a manner which not one man in a million is able to diagnose".
 9 [John Maynard Keynes, economist and author of "The Economic Consequences Of The Peace"]

10 Kenneth Gerbino, former chairman of the American Economic council stated:

11 Historically, the United States has been a hard money country. Only [since 1913] has the United States
 12 operated on a fiat money system. During this period, paper money has depreciated over 87%. During the 13 preceding 140 year period, the hard currency of the United States had actually maintained its value. Wholesale 14 prices in 1913...were the same as in 1787."

15 Quoting from The Creature From Jekyll Island, author G. Edward Griffin writes:

16 Inflation has now been institutionalized at a fairly constant 5% per year. This has been scientifically
 17 determined to be the optimum level for generating the most revenue without causing public alarm.

18 A 5% devaluation applies, not only to the money earned this year, but to all that is left over from previous 19 years. At the end of the first year, a dollar is worth 95 cents. At the end of the second year, the 95 cents is 20 reduced again by 5%, leaving its worth at 90 cents, and so on. By the time a person has worked 20 years, the 21 government will have confiscated 64% of every dollar he saved over those years. By the time he has worked 45
 22 years, the hidden tax will be 90%.

23 The government will take virtually everything a person saves over a lifetime.

24 In 1920, at the conclusion of World War I, noted economist John Maynard Keynes stated in his book The Economic
 25 Consequences of the Peace:

26 By a continuing process of inflation, governments can confiscate secretly and unobserved, an important part of 27 the wealth of their citizens. There is no subtler, no surer means of overturning the existing basis of society than 28 to debauch the currency.

29 The process engages all the hidden forces of economic Law on the side of destruction, and does it in a manner
 30 which not one man in a million is able to diagnose.

31 In that same book, Keynes also wrote:

32 If governments should refrain from regulation...the worthlessness of the money becomes apparent and the fraud
 33 upon the public can be concealed no longer.

34 In 1946, a postage stamp cost 3 cents, a one pound loaf of bread 10 cents, a quart of milk 18 cents, a gallon of gas 21 cents,
 35 an average new home $12,638, and the average new car $1,649. Compare those prices to today's costs for the same items.

36 Today's Federal Reserve Note will purchase less than 10 cents of what it would buy as recently as 1940. Workers earn
 37 more today than in the 40's, but their salaries have not kept up with inflation. Therefore, the average American is slipping
 38 further and further toward poverty.

39 In 1946, a man could easily support his family with just one job. Today, it is the norm for both parents to be forced to work
 40 at least one job each just to make ends meet.

41 Have you ever stopped to think that this massive inflation has literally stolen trillions of dollars of America's wealth and 42 productivity over the course of just a few generations? It may well be the most insidious tax ever collected.

2.8.9.7 The Most Dangerous Man in the Mid South<sup>15</sup>

(from the 2/97 Chronicles, the American Culture Magazine)

By Franklin Sanders

In 1967, Alan Greenspan was already a fairly well known economic consultant. In the 1970s, President Ford appointed him to his Council of Economic Advisors. In 1987, Alan Greenspan was appointed Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board of Governors.

Funny, he doesn't talk much about gold anymore.

In 1967, I was a college senior. Susan and I were married on December 16th, and when I graduated in 1968 the draft board gave me 30 days' to frolic before conscription. I arrived at Fort Polk, Louisiana one hot October night, caught the Army bus out to the post and sat down behind the driver, facing across the bus. I opened my copy of Aristotle's Works and began reading.

I noticed I was the only man on board with hair. The fellow sitting across from me asked, "Whatcha reading?" Wordlessly, I flipped up the book so he could read the title on the spine. "Boy, he said without any reflection. "Have you come to the wrong place."

In 1969 I retired from the Army to attend graduate school in German at Tulane University. The next year I received a full scholarship to the Free University in West Berlin, where I saw firsthand what unchallenged state power could do. The West was pulsing with life and light, the East dead and empty. In the Museum of the Wall at Checkpoint Charlie I read the last radio message from the Free Hungarians in 1956: "Tell Europe we are dying for them."

After Susan and I came home late in 1973 I worked in several businesses, learning firsthand what it means to "make your way in the world." I kept studying economics and monetary systems, on my own and in graduate classes.

In 1980 I opened my own business in West Memphis, Arkansas, across the Mississippi from Memphis, selling physical gold and silver. First thing I did was write to the Arkansas Attorney General to explain that I thought exchanges of gold and silver money for paper money weren't subject to the sales tax, since they were exchanges of money for money. What was his official position?

He never bothered to answer my certified letter. Or the second. Or the third.

When he finally responded, it was only to say he wouldn't answer. I wrote to the Commissioner of Revenue, and told him what I was doing. Nobody ever bothered to answer that certified letter either, so I reported all my sales as "exempt". Every month.

A year later, in 1981, a Revenue officer showed up to audit my books. I told her what I did wasn't taxable, and that every trade contract contained a confidentiality guarantee to my customer. She could see them if she would indemnify me in case some customer sued for breach of contract. Alas, she didn't want to co-operate, so she just multiplied all my "exempt" sales by the sales tax percentage, added penalties and interest, and sent me a bill for about $30,000.

Thus began my merry pilgrimage through the courts. I had landed smack in the middle of Legal Never-Neverland: monetary law. Of course Article I, Section 10 of the U.S. Constitution says, "No State shall make any Thing but Gold and Silver Coin a tender in payment of debt." Of course the definition of "money" at the head of the Arkansas tax title says, "The term `money' or `monies' shall be had to mean and include gold and silver coin." Of course the Title 12 or the U.S. Code, Section 152 says that "lawful money" means gold and silver coin of the United States.

Of course, of course, of course . . . it goes on and on. State and federal constitutions, state and federal statutes, state and federal court decisions, US supreme court decisions, all speak with one voice: gold and silver coin are money, bank notes are not money. But whether I raised the issue in a Revenue Department administrative court, chancery court, or federal

1 district court, I ran into the same terrified reaction. "The monetary emperor is naked! Federal Reserve notes aren't really
2 money! Quick, rule against this clown and drag him out of here!"

3 I appealed the agent's assessment, and lost at the administrative level. Then at the administrative court, too. I appealed to 4 chancery court. Had a trial. Lost there, too. By then it was December, 1983, and I received a letter from the Arkansas
5 Revenue Department demanding I fork over $120,000!

6 A few days later two deputies came to collect their "judgment." Through several well-nigh miraculous providences, they
7 got nothing. That night, I decamped from Arkansas. I was so amazed at God's protection through this event that I wrote a
8 friend a long letter about it. Remember that letter.

9 I moved my business to Tennessee, doing exactly the same thing, exchanging gold and silver money for federal reserve
10 notes. By this time I had realized that although every American had a constitutional and legal right to gold and silver
11 money, the problem was, you couldn't use them in everyday business. We had the right to sound money, but no means. We 12 needed an interface between the paper system and gold and silver.

13 So in May, 1984 I opened a gold and silver bank. It attracted depositors like wildfire, but somebody didn't like my idea. On 14 June 18, 1985, two IRS Criminal Investigation Division (CID) agents popped in to announce that I was under criminal
15 investigation. ["Surprise! We just dropped by to pull out your fingernails with pliers!"].

16 In the next three years IRS treated me to the full court press. They got my bank records, and on US attorney's stationery
17 wrote all my customers, demanding that they send records from their dealings with me to the IRS CID agent and 18 threatening the recalcitrant with subpoenas. These letters remarkably chilled my customers' enthusiasm. It got harder and 19 harder to make a living.

20 On September 18, 1986, five agents from the Tennessee Revenue Department appeared at my office with a search warrant,
21 pawed my files and records for two hours, and hauled off boxes of personal papers. That was the first -- and last -- I heard
22 of them for a long time. They immediately turned over my papers to the IRS.

23 In the spring of 1988 the IRS and the US Attorney's office leap-frogged their investigation from me to my church. There
24 was nothing unusual about the church. It wasn't a "tax protest" church, just a member congregation of the conservative
25 Presbyterian Church in America. The assistant US attorney subpoenaed church members before the grand jury and grilled
26 them about what the church taught. Did the pastor teach people how to not file income tax returns? Did the church have 27 militia practice in the woods? Survival training? Did the church hand back contributions under the table? About the only 28 thing they didn't accuse us of was trafficking in nuclear warheads.

29 We landed in the Catch 22 maelstrom of official suspicion. The more the pastor and the elders proved to the US attorney's 30 office that these accusations were lies, the more convinced they became that we were such clever conspirators that their
31 suspicions must be true. The assistant US attorney issued a subpoena to the church for all her records: counseling, sessional,
32 financial, everything. The session of the church offered to consider any request for specific documents, but refused to open
33 the Bride of Christ up to a fishing expedition.

34 On January 9, 1990, just at dawn, the IRS struck. Although the agent investigating me knew very well that I was not
35 violent, IRS agents and Tennessee Revenue Department agents roared in my driveway while the SWAT team in their black
36 ninja suits poured out of the woods on either side of my house.

37 They attacked with reckless, malicious disregard for the safety of my wife and seven (7) children. All they needed to do
38 was pick up the phone and tell me I had been indicted, and I would have gone downtown. No, these IRS thugs wanted
39 headlines from a sensational "pre-dawn raid" to scare the sheep for tax season, and to make me and my wife, the mother of 40 my seven children, look violent and dangerous.

41 After they arrested me and Susan, the IRS refused to leave my home. Contrary to the law and over the protest of my spunky
42 15 year old daughter, Liberty, three IRS agents stayed and held my children hostage until the end of the day. They were 43 waiting for a search warrant so they could come back and steal my records and my computer.

44 On the ride downtown I had no idea what was going on. Why would they arrest Susan? She had never done anything other 45 than minor secretarial work in my business, and spent all her waking hours home-schooling and raising children.

1 When I stepped into the jail cell, I began to understand. They had indicted her to blackmail me. My friends, customers of
2 the gold and silver bank, and numerous church members were already there, including my pastor and assistant pastor. The
3 indictment was an inch thick. In 72 pages it charged 26 defendants with conspiracy to defraud the government, willful
4 failure to file, and diverse other malefactions.

5 The government claimed that the gold and silver bank was a tax evasion scheme to hide income. Not even two years in the 6 US Army had prepared me for stupidity of this magnitude. How could we hide income when almost everything we took in
7 was in checks, and we deposited the checks into our bank account? Oh, yes, we did pass some of the checks along to other
8 dealers to pay for gold or silver we bought for them, a common practice in the industry and perfectly legal. This, the 9 government taught us, was "laundering checks," a sinister activity proving we were up to no good. But every bank deposit I
10 had made was a count on the indictment! And Susan -- poor home-making, home-schooling, never-stop-running Susan --
11 was the Number Two conspirator, right after me!

12 My bond was set at $150,000, fully secured. For comparison, that same day they arrested a child molester and set his bond
13 at $10,000, not secured. I stayed in jail from Tuesday until Friday, when my parents put up their house to get me out of jail.
14 When the Federal marshals released me at 5:00 p.m., sheriff's deputies were waiting to arrest me, and me alone, on state 15 charges.

16 I believe but cannot yet prove that an ex-IRS agent had been sent to work for the Tennessee revenue department to get the 17 search warrant IRS couldn't get, and to figure out some way to charge me under state law. (You're not paranoid if 18 somebody is really persecuting you.) I was charged with violating a statute that had been on the books nineteen years: TCA
19 67-1-1440(d), "delaying and depriving the state of revenue to which it was lawfully entitled at the time it was lawfully
20 entitled thereto." In all those 19 years, not a single Tennessean had discovered how to violate it, but I had. Truth to tell, I
21 hadn't even figured it out, since I was accused of "delaying & depriving" the state of revenue the amount of which was 22 unknown and to which the state had never become lawfully entitled. They accused me of a crime I could not possibly have 23 committed because I didn't know it existed. Never mind, due process just slows things down

24 They were charging me with not collecting sales tax on exchanges of gold and silver money for paper money. You know --
25 like when you go to the bank, and give the teller a twenty and she gives you back a ten and two fives, less sales tax. What?
26 She doesn't charge you sales tax? Of course not, because it's an exchange of money for money.

27 But neither the state of Tennessee nor any other state can admit that gold and silver coin are money. If they do, they will
28 admit they are operating outside the law. The monetary emperor is naked, and state officials from the Chief Justice of the 29 supreme court to the governor to the second assistant tire checker are afraid to tell him. They should be afraid, because the 30 monopoly on money creation is the jugular vein of the American fascist state.

31 But in January, 1990, I didn't have time to worry about state charges. Susan and I were both facing 19 years in jail if 32 convicted in federal court. We knew the statistics, too. Humanly speaking, we had no chance. Ninety-eight percent of 33 federal tax prosecutions end in guilty verdicts.

34 The next year and a half was a wretched struggle to persevere without despair. Only a survivor of a criminal prosecution
35 could understand how it hammers your soul. Most defendants never make it to trial. Through the investigation alone,
36 federal agents and prosecutors can destroy their businesses and their families, and break their spirit. Stripped of business,
37 money, family, and hope, most plead guilty just to end the nightmare. In our case one poor defendant pled guilty with no
38 idea what it meant. When a defense attorney asked him who he had conspired with, he screwed up his face in confusion and 39 paused several minutes. "I dunno. Myself, I guess!"

40 Our trial began on February 26, 1991, over a year after our arrest. Right after the noon break that first day, I received word
41 that our sons Wright (10) and Christian (8) had been severely burned playing with gasoline. Susan spent the first two weeks
42 of trial with them in the hospital.

43 Just when it seemed that things couldn't get worse, they did. Day after day I had to listen as the prosecutor hatefully twisted
44 everything I had ever done into something evil -- including the good things. This went on for four and a half long months.
45 The government entered immaterial documents by the hundredweight.

46 The vast but tediously shallow silliness of the whole farce made me the maddest. Do you remember in C.S. Lewis'
47 Perelandra, when the Unman is struggling to convince the Green Lady to disobey Maleldil's command not to spend the

1 night on the land? Ransom notes with dismay the childish silliness of evil. Throughout the night while the Green Lady
2 sleeps, the Unman repeats, "Ransom? Ransom?" When Ransom answers, "What?", the Unman responds, "Nothing." At its
3 depths, evil is not noble or grand. It's merely a silly, spoiled child, flicking boogers at his betters.

4 To the charges of "willful failure to file income tax returns" we argued that no statute makes anyone liable for an income
5 tax (except "foreign withholding agents"). No one -- not the federal district court judge, not the assistant US attorney, not
6 the IRS, no one -- was able to point out that statute, because it doesn't exist.

7 Here was a "man bites dog" story if ever there was one, but was the local media interested? Hardly. The first day of trial
8 was covered by an old reporter for the Commercial Appeal who with great insight described issues and characters. Next day
9 he was yanked off the case and replaced with a Stalinist "comrade" who loyally published whatever official line the US
10 attorney's office gave him.

11 But our jury was more open-minded. On July 9, 1991, the jury returned its verdict: seventeen defendants not guilty on all
12 counts! To God be the glory! We threw an enormous party and that Sunday had one bodacious worship service.

13 I still had to face a state trial. I no more than caught my breath when I had to dive back down into the sewage of the "justice 14 system."

15 The trial started in May, 1992, and lasted three weeks. The judge and the prosecution did their best to keep out my evidence
16 -- evidence that showed how many hundreds of hours I had haunted the law library to study out my position and make sure 17 I was right.

18 It did little good. Remember the letter I wrote a friend when I escaped from Arkansas? The Revenue Department had seized
19 it in 1986, and the prosecutrix used it to make me look like a hypocrite.

20 Even at that, three jurors held out for three days. I later talked to one of the holdouts, and he said that one of the women
21 who gave up said, "Oh, well, he'll get another trial on appeal." Can people really be that ignorant, or will they just use any 22 excuse to justify their own cowardice? On May 18, 1992 I was convicted on two counts of "delaying and depriving."

23 A month later the judge sentenced me to two years in jail, but he suspended all but 30 days, provided I would pay $1,000 a
24 month for 73 months as "restitution" and do 1,000 hours (half a year's work) of community service. With seven children to 25 support, it was a deal I couldn't refuse.

26 I appealed. In August, 1994 the Court of Criminal Appeals overturned one count of the conviction for double jeopardy. I
27 couldn't be guilty of one count of "delaying" and one count of "depriving" for the very same conduct. On the money issue,
28 however, the real heart of the case, the court dodged and denied all my arguments.

29 We appealed to the Tennessee Supreme Court, and they heard the case on All Saints Day, 1995. Dr. Edwin Vieira, Jr.,
30 constitutional attorney and America's foremost expert on monetary law, prepared the briefs and argued the case. For over 6
31 months we heard nothing. Then on May 28, 1996 the Supreme Court affirmed my conviction, once again dodging the 32 money issue.

33 I am still appealing, this time into the federal system, but the appeal couldn't be filed quickly enough to prevent my arrest
34 on June 28, 1996. The petition for habeas corpus in federal district court was assigned to the same judge who had tried our 35 federal case. She took jurisdiction of the appeal, but refused to order my release. From June 28th until July 23rd, I was a
36 guest of the Shelby County Jail and the Shelby County Penal Farm.

37 The next hurdle is securing a stay of execution on the $72,000 fine. Failing that, I go back to jail for another eleven months 38 while the appeal goes on.

39 Why keep on fighting? After 15 years, why not just put down the load and forget it?

40 Because the fiat money system is both the strength and weakness of America's tyrants. It bleeds the people's wealth and 41 labor, but it also threatens to collapse under its own weight -- or whenever the scales fall off the people's eyes. With its 42 green engravings of famous Americans, electrons whirling around in bank computers, and loans created out of thin air, it is

1 one vast confidence game. As long as the people believe they can't see the emperor's naked pink flesh, his power and
2 dignity will be preserved. But let one little boy hollers, "Hey, he's nekkid!" and the tyranny collapses.

3 I didn't sally forth looking for dragons to slay. The dragon came to me. He came with a lie, and either you oppose a lie, or 4 you become a liar. You can kid yourself and say I'm only going along because they have all the guns, but day by day, year
5 by year, your integrity erodes. Finally, you become like the tyrants: just one more liar.

6 Even if you have no chance to win, you have to fight. Not many are willing, but even a few keep the tyrants from sleeping
7 at night. If we don't fight, how many more Ruby Ridges and Wacos will there be? How many more SWAT team attacks?
8 How many more police check points? How many more bureaucrats watching your bank account and your finances? How 9 many more children held hostage by IRS agents? The bill of rights is already dead. Will it be time to fight when your wife
10 and children are dead, too?

11 The US government spent millions of dollars trying to jail me and my wife and my pastor and assistant pastor. The assistant
12 US attorney here told one lawyer that I was "the most dangerous man in the mid-South." In a four and a half year
13 investigation the government spent $5 - $10 million, maybe more. We heard they spent nearly two million on the trial
14 alone.

15 We can't both be right. Either the government is right and gold and silver coin is not money, or I am right. This is not a
16 gentlemen's "difference of opinion."

17 If I'm right, and if I win in the courts, then no state will ever be able to charge sales tax on gold and silver coin again. The 18 greatest disability to free trade in gold and silver will have been removed. We will have broken down the last illegal
19 roadblock to sound metallic money.

20 Postscript: Because the conditions of probation were so burdensome on him and his family, Mr. Sanders returned to jail and 21 was relocated to a medium-security prison on November 4, 1996. He was released on December 20, 1996.

22 2.8.9.8 What Type of "Money" Do You Pay Your Taxes With to the IRS?

23 Here is what the Constitution says about the federal authority to coin money in Article 1, Section 8, Clauses 5 and 18:

24 1 The Congress shall have Power To lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and
25 provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises
26 shall be uniform throughout the United States;

27 5 To coin Money, regulate the Value thereof, and of foreign Coin, and fix the Standard of Weights and 28 Measures;

29 ...

30 18 To make all Laws which shall be necessary and proper for carrying into Execution the foregoing Powers
31 and all other Powers vested by this Constitution in the Government of the United States, or in any Department
32 or Officer thereof.

33 And in Article 1, Section 10 of the U.S. Constitution, we find:

34 "No State shall enter into any treaty, alliance, or confederation; grant letters of marque and reprisal; coin
35 money; emit letters of credit; make any thing but gold and silver coin a tender in payment of debts; pass any 36 bill of attainder, ex post facto law, or law impairing the obligation of contracts, or grant any title of nobility."

37 Sounds pretty basic to us. All money MUST be gold or silver or it isn't money. In spite of this, the federal courts have still 38 managed to sidestep this requirement and authorize paper money. The following cite from the case of Mathes v.
39 Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 576 F.2d. 70 \(1978\) establishes that even though the Constitution requires all money to 40 be backed by gold, the government can ignore that requirement completely anyway!

41 Taxpayers first assert that they have a legal right to choose a lawful method of reporting income which in their
42 case is to report their income of "notes" in terms of lawful, statutory dollars. Taxpayers correctly state that "the 43 legal right of a taxpayer to decrease the amount of what otherwise would be his taxes, or altogether avoid them,
44 by means which the law permits, cannot be doubted." Gregory v. Helvering, 293 U.S. 465, 469, 55 S.Ct. 266,

1 267, 79 L.Ed. 596 (1935). However, the method used by these taxpayers to reduce their taxes is not a legal 2 method.

3 [Mathes v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 576 F.2d. 70 \(1978\)]

4 Close to a century ago, the Supreme Court stated:

5 "Under the power to borrow money on the credit of the United States, and to issue circulating notes for the 6 money borrowed, [Congress'] power to define the quality and force of those notes as currency is as broad as
7 the like power over a metallic currency under the power to coin money and to regulate the value thereof.
8 Under the two powers, taken together, Congress is authorized to establish a national currency, either in coin
9 or in paper, and to make that currency lawful money for all purposes, as regards the national government or 10 private individuals." . . . (Emphasis added)
11 [Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421, 448, 4 S.Ct. 122, 130, 28 L.Ed. 204 (1884)]

12 2.8.10 The Federal Reserve

13 "About all a Federal Reserve note can legally do is wipe out one debt and replace it with itself another debt, a 14 note that promises nothing. If anything's been paid, the payment occurs only in the minds of the parties..."
15 [Tupper Saucy, author of "The Miracle On Main Street"]

16 "Freedom is the absence of the awareness of restraint."
17 [David Rockefeller]

18 "The few who understand the system, will either be so interested from it's profits or so dependant on it's favors,
19 that there will be no opposition from that class."
20 [Rothschild Brothers of London (1863)]

21 The key dates in the devolution of the Federal Reserve System (FRS) are as follows:

22 1913 - Congress creates the FRS; permits the emission of FRNs (Federal Reserve Notes), redeemable in "lawful
23 money"; and declares FRNs to be "obligations of the United States", but not "legal tender". In practice, the Federal 24 Reserve Banks and the United States Treasury redeem FRNs for gold coin on demand. FRNs are a fiduciary currency.

25 1933 - Congress repudiates redemption of FRNs in gold for United States citizens, and declares that FRNs shall be
26 "legal tender". The government continues to redeem FRNs in gold for foreigners; and United States citizens can
27 redeem FRNs for "lawful money" (such as United States Treasury Notes and silver certificates), which is redeemable
28 in silver coins. Therefore, FRNs remain a fiduciary currency, redeemable directly in gold internationally and indirectly 29 in silver domestically.

30 1968 - Congress repudiates redemption of all forms of "lawful money" in silver, thus turning FRNs into a fiat currency
31 domestically for the first time.

32 1971 - President Nixon repudiates redemption of FRNs in gold, thus turning FRNs into a fiat currency internationally
33 for the first time.

34 If you would like to learn more about the federal reserve after reading the following subsections, we refer you to two 35 excellent books on the subject:

- 36 1. High Priests of Treason: The Federal Reserve, Mel Stamper, J.D.; Documentary Legal Services Publishing, 4457 US 1
37 South, Suite 103, St. Augustine, Florida 32086; ISBN 0-9647128-5-7. Mel Stamper admits he was compelled to write
38 this book. He spent five years in the research and one year in the writing. In 1989, he stumbled upon a case of an
39 income tax protester who had gone to prison on a charge of willful failure to file a tax return. The man's name was Bill
40 Benson, and he and Red Beckman had written a book proving the 16th Amendment was a fraud. Becoming consumed
41 with the story and its historical implications on American Society, he continued his investigation. The full impact of 42 the conspiracy by the international bankers, and the high treason which resulted and continues, help create High Priests
43 of Treason: The Federal Reserve
- 44 2. The Creature from Jekyll Island, G. Edward Griffin, 1998; American Media, P.O. Box 4646, Westlake Village, 45 California 91359-1646; ISBN 0-912986-21-2. Where does money come from? Where does it go? Who makes it?
46 The money magicians' secrets are unveiled. Here is a close look at their mirrors and smoke machines, the pulleys, cogs, and wheels that create the grand illusion called money. A boring subject? Just wait! You'll be hooked in five minutes. Reads like a detective story-which it really is. But it's all true. This book is about the most blatant scam of history. It's all here: the cause of wars, boom-bust cycles, inflation, depression, prosperity. Your world view will definitely change. Putting it quite simply: this may be the most important book on world affairs you will ever read.

2.8.10.1 Federal Reserve System Explained<sup>16</sup>

The Federal Reserve System, America's new private, central bank, was modeled almost precisely after the Rothschilds' Bank of England and German's Reichsbank, the central bank which controlled money and credit in Germany, and whose principal stockholders were members of the Warburg family.

In Billions For the Bankers, Debts For the People, author Sheldon Emery writes:

"An economic conquest takes place when nations are placed under 'tribute' without the use of visual force, so that victims do not realize that they've been conquered. The conquest begins when the conquerors gain control of the monetary system of the nation.

The conquerors do not want to arouse suspicion, so they make gradual changes to their benefit. They slowly usurp financial assets of a nation. Tribute is collected from them in the form of 'legal' debts and taxes, which the people are led to believe is for their own good...although this method is much slower than a military conquest, it is longer lasting because the captives do not see any military force used against them.

The people are free to participate in the election of their rulers although the outcome is manipulated by those in control. Without realizing it, a nation is conquered. Their wealth is transferred to their captors and the conquest is complete."

The powerful European families who had backed England's losing military effort during the Revolutionary War would not patiently regain the American colony without firing a single shot. Three years after that still secret meeting, a mere handful of Senators, including none other than Senator Aldrich, rammed the Federal Reserve Act through Congress, after the opposition had already gone home for the holidays.

As author Devvy Kidd states in her booklet Why a Bankrupt America:

*"At 6:00pm on December 23, 1913, while Congress was out of session, three Senators took it upon themselves to pass, by voice vote, the Federal Reserve Act of 1913. These three individuals handed over America's future and our economic system to a handful of private domestic individuals and foreign banking interests. Our Founding Fathers would have shouted: 'Treason!'.
[Why a Bankrupt America, Devvy Kidd]*

President Wilson, born in 1856, just 80 years after the signing of the Declaration of Independence, was a minister's son, a former historian, an educator and the author of the 1902 work A History of the American People in which he extolled Lincoln's debt-free "green-backs."

As a presidential candidate the People trusted when he pledged a money and credit system free from the influence of Wall Street, President Wilson was waiting in the Oval Office for the bill and signed it into Law one hour after its passage, thereby placing the U.S. into dependent debt slavery to foreign bankers.

Senator Charles Lindbergh, Sr., father of the famous aviator, and a fierce opponent of the bill, stated after its passage, and I quote:

*"This Act establishes the most gigantic trust on earth...the invisible government by the money power will [now] be legalized. The new Law will create inflation whenever the trusts want inflation. From now on, depressions will be scientifically created."
[Senator Charles Lindbergh]*

2.8.10.2 Lewis v. United States Ruling

by: Jim Townsend

1 Redeem Our Country (ROC) National Chairman

2 The Federal Reserve banks are privately owned, locally controlled, separate corporations. Who says so? In Lewis vs.
3 United States, the Ninth Circuit Court says so. See Lewis v. U.S., 680 F.2d. 1238, 1241 (1982).

4 Thus, after years of senators and members of the House of Representatives denying the Federal Reserve banks were
5 privately owned, the Ninth Circuit Court has finally, officially, given the lie to the scam imposed on the people of this 6 country 70 years ago.

7 The court's decision has vast implications. Now that the bankers' hoax has been legally exposed, what impact will it have
8 on the paper issued as Federal Reserve notes? As private bankers, it would appear they have no more right to issue and 9 circulate their paper than does the local counterfeiter. IN fact, if one could choose between the two, the local counterfeiter
10 would be the one chosen, because he charges no interest on his paper. The Federal Reserve counterfeiter not only 11 distributes worthless paper, he collects interest by loaning it into circulation.

12 The court decision has been known for more than three months, but the media has been as quiet as a mouse. Neither the 13 printed nor electronic media has found it newsworthy, even though the ramifications will be mind boggling if the court
14 decision stands.

15 Key members of the two houses of Congress were advised of the court findings, but, the public had not heard even a peep
16 from the guardians of the public welfare. In fact, no one will admit to knowing anything about it. But they do know, and 17 the question is:

18 "What are they going to do about it?"

19 There are so many things that come to mind when one realizes the Federal Reserve banks have been operating un-
20 Constitutionally for all these years, that it staggers the imagination. What about homes the Federal Reserve member banks
21 have foreclosed? What about the interest the United States has been paying on foreign loans negotiated by the same private 22 bankers? Is this not a gift of the people's funds? What about the interest the Federal Reserve banks now collect on the 23 national debt...would that not be declared illegal under the circuit court decision?

24 COURT QUOTED

25 Below, for the benefit of our readers, we are reprinting the main part of the Ninth Circuit Court's findings:

26 Examining the organization and function of the Federal Reserve Banks, and applying the relevant factors, we
27 conclude that the Reserve Banks are not federal instrumentalities for purposes of the FTCA, but are 28 independent, privately owned and locally controlled corporations.

29 Each Federal Reserve Bank is a separate corporation owned by commercial banks in its region. The 30 stockholding commercial banks elect two thirds of each Bank's nine member board of directors. The remaining
31 three directors are appointed but the Federal Reserve Board regulates the Reserve Banks, but direct
32 supervision and control of each Bank is exercised by its board of directors. See 12 U.S.C. §301. The directors
33 enact bylaws regulating the manner of conducting general Bank business, 12 U.S.C. §341, and appoint officers
34 to implement and supervise daily Bank activities. These activities include collecting and clearing checks,
35 making advances to private and commercial entities, holding reserves for member banks, discounting the notes
36 of member banks, and buying and selling securities on the open market. See 12 U.S.C. §341-361.

37 Each Bank is statutorily empowered to conduct these activities without day to day direction from the federal
38 government. Thus, for example, the interest rates on advances to member banks, individuals, partnerships, and 39 corporations are set by each Reserve Bank and their decisions regarding the purchase and sale of securities are 40 likewise independently made.

41 It is evident from the legislative history of the Federal Reserve Act that Congress did not intend to give the 42 federal government direction over the daily operation of the Reserve Banks.

43 It is proposed that the Government shall retain sufficient power over the reserve banks to enable it to exercise a
44 direct authority when necessary to do so, but that it shall in no way attempt to carry on through its own
45 mechanism the routine operations and banking which require detailed knowledge of local and individual credit
46 and which determine the funds of the community in any given instance. In other words, the reserve-bank plan
47 retains to the Government power over the exercise of the broader banking functions, while it leaves to

1 individuals and privately owned institutions the actual direction of routine"--H.R. Report No. 69, 63 Cong. 1st
2 Sess. 18-19 (1913)

3 The fact that the federal reserve Board regulates the Reserve Banks does not make them federal agencies under
4 the Act. In United States v. Orleans, 425 U.S. 807, 96 S.Ct. 1971, 48 L.Ed.2d. 390 (1976), the Supreme Court
5 held that a community action agency was organized under federal regulations and heavily funded by the federal
6 government. Because the agency's day to day operation was not supervised by the federal government, but by 7 local officials, the Court refused to extend federal tort liability for negligence of the agency's employees.
8 Similarly, the Federal Reserve Banks, though heavily regulated, are locally controlled by their member banks.
9 Unlike typical federal agencies, each bank is empowered to hire and fire employees at will. Bank employees do
10 not participate in the Civil Service Retirement System. They are covered by worker's compensation insurance,
11 purchased by the Bank, rather than the Federal Employees Compensation Act. Employees traveling on Bank 12 business are not subject to federal travel regulations and to not receive government employee discounts on 13 lodgings and services.

14 (The FTCA is the Federal Tort Claims Act)

15 There you have it. The high binding, swindling Federal Reserve banks are just what we have for years said they were,
16 private corporations, which have bankrupted the country (SPOTLIGHT, July 30, 1979 and others). We now owe a bigger
17 debt than the total net worth of the country. We pay this privileged and pampered class of counterfeiters almost 20 cents of 18 every tax dollar collected--and it's going up.

19 END FOOLISHNESS

20 As Thomas Edison said:

21 "It's foolish to say we can issue a bond that is good, but not a dollar bill."

22 The time has come to return to a Constitutional money system that puts into circulation a debt-free dollar. Debt-free money
23 would save the Social Security System, and put the 14 million unemployed workers back to work. Send your congressman
24 a copy of the Ninth Circuit Court's decision and ask him what he is going to do about this private banking system. If he's 25 for keeping it, you'll know what to do about him the next time you go to the polls.

26 (The SPOTLIGHT and the "National Educator" are the only two papers to carry this sensational information. Were it not 27 for a tiny handful of such populist newspapers, who would tell you the truth? As H.L. Mencken once said, "I feel sorry for 28 the man who, after reading the daily newspaper, goes to bed believing he knows something of what's going on in the 29 world.")

30 _____

31 After having read this article, it's natural to ask: Who gave Congress, the Legislative branch, the authority to delegate to a
32 private corporation a function that is actually authorized to be accomplished ONLY by the Treasury, which is part of the 33 Executive Branch? According to the Supreme Court, they can't! The fact that the Federal Reserve even exists is a clear
34 violation of the Constitution. Here is what the court said about a similar, though not identical subject in the case of 35 Butchers' Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884):

36 It cannot be permitted that, when the constitution of a state, the fundamental law of the land, has imposed upon 37 its legislature the duty of guarding, by suitable laws, the health of its citizens, especially in crowded cities, and
38 the protection of their person and property by suppressing and preventing crime, that the power which enables
39 it to perform this duty can be sold, bargained away, under any circumstances, as if it were a mere privilege
40 which the legislator could dispose of at his pleasure. This principle has been asserted and repeated in this court
41 in the last few years in no ambiguous terms. The first time it seems to have been distinctly and clearly presented 42 *was in the case of Boyd v. Alabama, 94 U.S. 646.*

43 ...

44 *'Whatever differences of opinion,' said the court, in the case of Beer Co. v. Massachusetts, [97 U.S. 28] 'may*
45 exist as to the extent and boundaries of the police power, and however difficult it may be to render a
46 satisfactory definition of it, there seems to be no doubt that it does extend to the protection of the lives, health,
47 and property of the citizens, and to the preservation of good order and public morals. The legislature cannot by 48 any contract divest itself of the power to provide for these objects. They belong emphatically to that class of 49 objects which demand the application of the maxim, salus populi suprema lex, and they are to be attained and provided for by such appropriate means as the legislative discretion may devise. That discretion can no more be bargained away than the power itself.'

In the still more recent case of Stone v. Mississippi, 101 U.S. 814, the whole subject is reviewed in the opinion delivered [111 U.S. 746, 753] by the chief justice. That also was a case of a chartered lottery, whose charter was repealed by a constitution of the state subsequently adopted. It came here for relief, relying on the clause of the federal constitution against impairing the obligation of contracts. The question is therefore presented, (says the opinion,) whether, in view of these facts, the legislature of a state can, by the charter of a lottery company, defeat the will of the people authoritatively expressed, in relation to the further continuance of such business in their midst. We think it cannot. No legislature can bargain away the public health or the public morals. The people themselves cannot do it, much less their servants. The supervision of both these subjects of governmental power is continuing in its nature, and they are to be dealt with as the special exigencies of the moment may require. Government is organized with a view to their preservation, and cannot divest itself of the power to provide for them. For this purpose the legislative discretion is allowed, and the discretion cannot be parted with any more than the power itself.'

[Butchers' Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884)]

The above case is not specifically about the Federal Reserve, but it helps illustrate the point we are trying to make. The point is that when the Congress delegated the powers of the Treasury to manage the U.S. Bank to the Federal Reserve with the passage of the Federal Reserve Act in 1913, they in effect created a private, for-profit monopoly over our money system that was delegated to a private corporation. This private corporation, the Federal Reserve, wields enormous power and certainly affects public (emotional) health and morals. The absence of a stable monetary system can wreak havoc and destroy a country with even greater force than any war ever could, which means that control over our banking system can be far more important and influential to public health and safety and morals than the far more limited issues discussed in the above case. Yet, in the above case, the court would not allow a government to delegate the power to regulate aspects of the public health to private corporations. For the same reason, the U.S. Congress should not have and cannot lawfully delegate to a private, for-profit corporation, the responsibility of the U.S. Government to regulate the value of our money. The scoundrels who did this should be tried for treason.

2.8.10.3 Federal Reserve Never Audited<sup>17</sup>

The fed has never to this day been audited by the General Accounting Office. Why not? Because Congress doesn't have the power to audit it, and they know it.

In July 1996, a Senate oversight committee chaired by Alphonse D'Amato examined the Federal Reserve System for the first time, noting a few discrepancies but totally avoiding and ignoring any meaningful examination of the fiat creation of our money.

The National Educator in its August-September 1996 issue states:

At the request of two U.S. Senators, the government Accounting Office has just completed a study of the Federal Reserve System...the revealing study explains that the reason the Fed was created was 'to furnish an elastic currency', so that, in essence, the value of the money can be changed. This defrauds the American people just as deliberately as if the government changed a foot to ten inches or a pound to fourteen ounces. When a businessman deliberately cheats his customers, he is called a criminal. Not so with the network of power inside brokers who use the Federal Reserve Banks to inflate the dollar with elastic currency.

For example, a $20,000 wage earner in 1980 would have had to earn $34,000 in 1990 just to stay even. In just the last six years, the Federal Reserve Note has lost approximately 20 percent of its purchasing power.

The GAO report states that the Federal Reserve Banks are not owned by the federal government as many Americans believe but are actually owned by privately held banks and a few wealthy individuals. According to the GAO reports, the Fed profits go to the privately held banks. In 1993, at our request, a senior congressional staffer made an official request to House Banking Committee Chairman Henry Gonzalez's office for a current list of the Class A stockholders of the Fed Banks. His office refused to supply the list of owners and implied that asking for such information was dangerous.

2.8.11 Debt

1 "Owe no one anything except to love one another, for he who loves another has fulfilled the law."
 2 [Romans 13:8, Bible, NKJV]

3 People, businesses, and countries with debts become slaves of their debts and to the lender. Here is the scripture that 4 verifies this:

5 "The rich ruleth over the poor, and the borrower [is] servant to the lender."
 6 [Prov. 22:7, Bible, NKJV]

7 The lender above, in the case of our federal government, is the private corporation known as the Federal Reserve. By 8 becoming irresponsible in perpetually borrowing money to pay off its regular bills, our federal government has surrendered
 9 its sovereignty to the banksters. These same corrupted politicians who are surrendering our sovereignty and borrowing us
 10 deeper into the hole continually passed a Constitutional Amendment that says you have no right to question the debts they 11 run up, but are obligated to pay them no matter what! Here it is, from Section 4 of the Fourteenth Amendment, which 12 incidentally the southern states were FORCED to ratify at gun point while they were occupied by hostile northern forces
 13 during our civil war:

14 Section. 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for
 15 payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be
 16 questioned. But neither the United States nor any State shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in 17 aid of insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any 18 slave; but all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void.

19 Why is debt bad? When there are payments on debts that need to be made, then we often aren't able to meet our immediate 20 obligations, especially if the payments or interest rates are excessive. Politicians like debt as a tool for political leverage
 21 because if they can put our country into a financial crisis or emergency by running up the debt, they can justify all kinds of 22 unethical tactics that violate many different laws and Constitutional rights in the name of that crisis or emergency. Our 23 whole civil framework goes out the window when there are national emergencies (read the War Powers Act of December 24 18, 1941, if you want more information about this, for instance), and yet a great many citizens are blissfully unaware of this
 25 fact because they have never been through a crisis situation. If you doubt this, go on the Internet and read some of the 26 President's Executive Orders for cases of emergency and national crisis. A financial crisis caused by debt is the #1 vehicle
 27 or excuse politicians will use to create the "New World Order" in the coming years. The Federal Reserve, we predict, will 28 be the vehicle used to institute the next depression. Recall that it was the first Great Depression which caused the people to 29 be so willing to give up their rights and liberties for a socialistic government handout in the form of Social Security. The 30 idea of "buying votes" using welfare and socialist security (socialism, in effect) was what caused President Roosevelt to be 31 reelected three times in a row! This tactic, by the way, is ILLEGAL under 18 U.S.C. §597 entitled "Expenditures to 32 influence voting". Why wasn't Roosevelt prosecuted for this?

33 One of the frequent vehicles that politicians use to argue that we need to continue paying voluntary federal income taxes is 34 the idea that we have all this federal debt that needs to be paid off, and that the debt keeps growing rather than shrinking.
 35 They will state that if we don't continue paying, then the credit rating of the United States would be ruined. If ruining the 36 credit rating of the United States is the only way to get our national leaders to be fiscally responsible, then it can't happen
 37 soon enough, as far as we are concerned, because it concerns us deeply that in a time of peace with no major wars going
 38 on, we continue to run up the national debt because that debt is a threat to our national sovereignty and our individual
 39 liberties. Of course, these same politicians will never talk instead about the urgency of keeping the federal budget balanced
 40 so we don't chronically have to borrow to fund our annual expenditures, and they will oppose balanced budget amendments
 41 over the objections of the vast majority of citizens. Their concept of paying off the debt is to inflate it away by printing
 42 more money, rather than taking the non-inflationary and fiscally responsible approach of simply paying it off.

43 For those of you who are Christians, we'd like to remind you of the following scriptures, which clearly say that borrowing
 44 is wrong because it is slavery, and that if you loan you should not charge interest to your brother but you can do so of a
 45 foreigner:

46 "For the Lord your God will bless you just as He promised you; you shall lend to many nations, but you shall 47 not borrow; you shall reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over you."
 48 [Deut. 15:6, Bible, NKJV]

49 "The Lord will open to you His good treasure, the heavens, to give the rain to your land in its season, and to 50 bless all the work of your hand. You shall lend to many nations, but you shall not borrow."
 51 [Deut. 28:12, Bible, NKJV]

1 "You shall not charge interest to your brother--interest on money or food or anything that is lent out at 2 interest."

3 [Deut. 23:19, Bible, NKJV ]

4 "To a foreigner you may charge interest, but to your brother you shall not charge interest, that the Lord your
 5 God may bless you in all to which you set your hand in the land which you are entering to possess."

6 [Deut. 23:20, Bible, NKJV]

7 Who are we in debt to? The Federal Reserve. In the context of the above, who is the Federal Reserve? They are
 8 FOREIGNERS. The federal courts have ruled that the Federal Reserve is not part of the U.S. government. Our own
 9 government is putting us into debt and slavery to foreigners, and because they are foreigners, they can charge interest
 10 according to the above scriptures. We contend that the Federal Reserve ought to be a part of the U.S. government, and not 11 a private, for-profit corporation.

12 The debt that our politicians have put us in only incentivizes our government to violate our rights to make payments on the 13 debt and perpetually raise our income taxes to pay for debts caused by their lack of ability to balance the federal budget and
 14 chronically deficit spend. It ought to be clear that politicians, by advocating chronic and growing public debt, are violating
 15 the above scriptures and being irresponsible in their public office. They are advocating loaning to our brother at interest
 16 and that debt becomes a tool for political leverage to be used to cause us to surrender our sovereign rights to the 17 government and turn us all into slaves and servants of the politicians and the Federal Reserve. Thomas Jefferson put it very 18 well in describing the evils of public debt:

19 "I sincerely believe... that banking establishments are more dangerous than standing armies, and that the
 20 principle of spending money to be paid by posterity under the name of funding is but swindling futurity on a
 21 large scale."

22 [Thomas Jefferson to John Taylor, 1816. ME 15:23]

23 "Funding I consider as limited, rightfully, to a redemption of the debt within the lives of a majority of the
 24 generation contracting it; every generation coming equally, by the laws of the Creator of the world, to the free
 25 possession of the earth He made for their subsistence, unencumbered by their predecessors, who, like them,
 26 were but tenants for life."

27 [Thomas Jefferson to John Taylor, 1816. ME 15:18]

28 "[The natural right to be free of the debts of a previous generation is] a salutary curb on the spirit of war and
 29 indebtedment, which, since the modern theory of the perpetuation of debt, has drenched the earth with blood, and 30 crushed its inhabitants under burdens ever accumulating."

31 [Thomas Jefferson to John Wayles Eppes, 1813. ME 13:272 ]

32 "We believe--or we act as if we believed--that although an individual father cannot alienate the labor of his son,
 33 the aggregate body of fathers may alienate the labor of all their sons, of their posterity, in the aggregate, and
 34 oblige them to pay for all the enterprises, just or unjust, profitable or ruinous, into which our vices, our 35 passions or our personal interests may lead us. But I trust that this proposition needs only to be looked at by an
 36 American to be seen in its true point of view, and that we shall all consider ourselves unauthorized to saddle
 37 posterity with our debts, and morally bound to pay them ourselves; and consequently within what may be 38 deemed the period of a generation, or the life of the majority."

39 [Thomas Jefferson to John Wayles Eppes, 1813. ME 13:357]

40 "It is incumbent on every generation to pay its own debts as it goes. A principle which if acted on would save
 41 one-half the wars of the world."

42 [Thomas Jefferson to A. L. C. Destutt de Tracy, 1820. FE 10:175 ]

43 To preserve [the] independence [of the people,] we must not let our rulers load us with perpetual debt. We must
 44 make our election between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude. If we run into such debts as that we
 45 must be taxed in our meat and in our drink, in our necessities and our comforts, in our labors and our
 46 amusements, for our callings and our creeds, as the people of England are, our people, like them, must come to 47 labor sixteen hours in the twenty-four, give the earnings of fifteen of these to the government for their debts and
 48 daily expenses, and the sixteenth being insufficient to afford us bread, we must live, as they now do, on oatmeal
 49 and potatoes, have no time to think, no means of calling the mismanagers to account, but be glad to obtain 50 subsistence by hiring ourselves to rivet their chains on the necks of our fellow-sufferers."

51 [Thomas Jefferson to Samuel Kercheval, 1816. ME 15:39]

52 The Bible also condemns "surety", which means that we aren't allowed to be a cosigner for our friend or family member.
 53 Here is the definition of surety:

1           “surety. One who at the request of another, and for the purpose of securing to him a benefit, becomes
2 responsible for the performance by the latter of some act in favor of a third person, or hypothecates property as
3 security therefore. One who undertakes to pay money or to do any other act in event that his principal fails
4 therein. A person who is primarily liable for payment of debt or performance of obligation of another.”
5 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1441]

6 Below is some biblical wisdom about surety:

7           “A man devoid of understanding shakes hands in a pledge, and becomes surety for his friend.”
8 [Proverbs 17:18, Bible, NKJV]

9           “He who is surety for a stranger will suffer, but one who hates being surety is secure.”
10 [Prov. 11:15, NKJV]

11 When we have committed the sin and the mistake of becoming surety for anyone, the Bible emphatically tells us what we 12 must do in no uncertain terms:

13           “My son, if you become surety for your friend, if you have shaken hands in pledge for a stranger, you are
14 snared by the words of your mouth; you are taken by the words of your mouth. So do this, my son, and deliver
15 yourself; for you have come into the hand of your friend [slavery!]: Go and humble yourself; plead with your 16 friend. Give no sleep to your eyes, nor slumber to your eyelids. Deliver yourself like a gazelle from the hand of 17 the hunter; and like a bird from the hand of the fowler.”
18 [Prov. 6:1-5, Bible, NKJV]

19 So the Bible describes those who loan money, which in this case is the Federal Reserve, as a “hunter”. A more modern 20 term is a “predator”! Our national debt to the private corporation called the Federal Reserve has made us surety and 21 collateral for our friend, or in this case, our fellow citizens and politicians. The Bible says we have an obligation
22 to eliminate this surety as quickly as we can and to not sleep until it has been eliminated! Why? Because our lives will be
23 consumed with anxiety about meeting the debt obligation so that we may not focus on the things of the Lord or on our
24 responsibilities to our families. It will also cloud our judgment and cause us to lose our objectivity. If we lose our job or 25 our income source and are unable to replace it, our whole world will come crashing down around us! The security of our 26 entire family will consequently be threatened and we are told in no uncertain terms in the Bible by God that we cannot 27 permit this:

28           “But if anyone does not provide for his own, and especially for those of his own household, he has denied the 29 faith and is worse than an unbeliever.”
30 [1 Tim. 5:8, Bible, KJV]

31 When we either load ourselves with debt or we become surety for our friend, then we have in effect become citizens of 32 Babylon, the worldly cosmopolitan city ruled by Satan which the Bible describes in Revelation as “The Great Harlot”.
33 Have you prostituted yourself to “mammon”, “sex”, “money”, or “debt” or the cares of the world, and ignored your 34 spiritual obligations to the Lord? This is idolatry and violates the first commandment to put God first in your life.
35 Revelation 18:1-8 confirms that a great and sudden disaster will destroy this city like what happened to Sodom and
36 Gomorrah, and we predict the disaster will happen because this “city” will be deep in debt and when the business climate is 37 disrupted, the whole big mess will implode on itself:

38           After these things I saw another angel coming down from heaven, having great authority, and the earth was 39 illuminated with his glory.

40           And he cried mightily with a loud voice saying, ‘Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and has become a
41 dwelling place of demons, a prison for every foul spirit, and a cage for every unclean and hated bird!’

42           “For all the nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, the kings [politicians, who load us
43 with debt] of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth have become rich
44 through the abundance of her luxury.’

45           *And I heard another voice from heaven saying, ‘Come out of her, my people, lest you share in her sins, and 46 lest you receive her plagues.

47           “For her sins have reached to heaven, and God has remembered her iniquities.

48           “Render to her just as she rendered to you, and repay her double according to her works; in the cup which she 49 has mixed, mix double for her.

1                   "In the measure that she glorified herself and lived luxuriously, in the same measure give her torment and
 2                   sorrow; for she says in her heart, 'I sit as queen, and am no widow, and will not see sorrow.'

3                   "Therefore her plagues [economic or stock market collapses] will come in one day—death and mourning and
 4                   famine. And she will be utterly burned with fire [looting from all the greedy people who mortgaged themselves
 5                   to the hilt and put their children into debt slavery to pay for their luxuries], for strong is the Lord God who 6                   judges her."

7 So Jesus is saying we should flee this city and pursue Christian liberty to serve our God instead of the false gods of money,
 8 sex, power, career, and new age philosophy. We must get ourselves out of debt and free from surety as quickly as possible
 9 or we are in peril of being destroyed when Babylon is destroyed! This means that we cannot be

10 2.8.12 Surrendering Freedoms in the Name of "Government-Induced Crises"

11                   "Necessity is the plea for every infringement of human freedom. It is the argument of tyrants; it is the creed of 12                   slaves."
 13                   [William Pitt, 18 Nov 1783]

14                   "The government turns every contingency into an excuse for enhancing power in itself."
 15                   [John Adams]

16 Most of the damage to our constitutional liberties and freedoms over the years came during the early 1900's, and most of 17 this damage was done in the name of one or another type of financial emergency or global conflict induced directly or 18 indirectly by the government, which gave the government the authority to ask citizens to give up their constitutional 19 liberties as a patriotic duty to save the country. For instance:

- 20 1. The Federal Reserve was instituted in 1913, the same year that the 16th Amendment was fraudulently ratified.
 21 Very shortly thereafter, there was a massive and deliberate contraction of the money supply by the Federal 22 Reserve, which quickly precipitated the Great Depression of 1929. As a consequence of this crisis, Franklin D.
 23 Roosevelt outlawed holding gold and demanded that all citizens turn in all of their gold to the government at a
 24 government mandated price. Prior to that, we had been on the gold standard, where all of our currency was backed
 25 by gold held in Fort Knox, and could be redeemed directly for value in gold. This, of course, was just a trick to 26 force everyone to accept paper money, which further expanded the power of the government, because the 27 Department of the Treasury was the only organization in the country that could print this money. Once the 28 government could get people using paper money, they could manufacture money out of thin air and deficit spend
 29 like crazy by printing more money! They could also use the money they printed to buy votes in favor of more 30 socialism by instituting welfare and entitlement programs that would endear people to the expansion of 31 government programs and the eventual income taxes needed to pay for them.
- 32 2. In the midst of the Great Depression starting in 1929, when people were watching their family members starving
 33 and suffering and out of work, the government stepped in again in 1935 with the Social Security program, which 34 was "voluntary". You had to apply for a "number" to enroll. To keep the courts from fighting against his social 35 reforms, Franklin D. Roosevelt stacked the Supreme Court, which is to say that he doubled its size with his own
 36 set of "cronies" so that no challenges to his social programs in court would win. He knew he could get away with 37 this supposedly because the constitution didn't specify how many justices were on the Supreme Court. The 38 majority of people were suffering with the depression so most people were willing to go in and get a Social 39 Security Number so they could get a free handout from the government at a time when they needed it most. Of 40 course, the government never would have been able to afford to give everyone this kind of handout if they hadn't
 41 eliminated gold and forced everyone to accept paper money only a few years earlier at the start of the Great 42 Depression. The expansion of government power at this time in American history was unprecedented.
- 43 3. During World War II, the U.S. Congress instituted a voluntary income tax called the "Victory Tax", which 44 incidentally still is mentioned to this day in the Internal Revenue Code (26 U.S. Code). People were told by the 45 government that it was their patriotic duty to pay income taxes to finance the war. The tax was intended to finance
 46 the war, and included employer withholding participation. This tax was the precursor to the income tax we have 47 today. Unfortunately, the tax was repealed after the war but citizens were never told about it. Why?.. because we
 48 had to pay off the war debt! Our country has remained in perpetual debt ever since, presumably as a justification
 49 for continuing the income tax! As long as Congress continues to deficit spend in a time of peace and not focus on
 50 paying down the national debt, then there will always be a justification for demagoguery about why we need to 51 continue the income tax.

4. Congress passed a bill called the War Powers Act in December 18, 1941, which gives them the right to do virtually anything they want with you or your property in the name of defending the country. It was instituted during World War II.
5. The President of the United States is authorized to execute Executive Orders. Every new president who comes along adds to the long list of Executive Orders already in place. Very seldom are these orders ever repealed. Have you ever looked through the long series of executive orders signed by each president that even to this day are still in effect? Reading these orders is truly frightening! Many of them list what happens mainly during national emergencies. It is of great concern reading these orders to think just how many of our freedoms can be taken away very easily and quickly in the event of national emergencies!

2.8.13 Judicial Tyranny

Judicial tyranny is what allows corruption in the government to flourish and grow, because judicial tyranny protects wrongdoing by public servants throughout the government. Judicial tyranny is the most pervasive and necessary type of tyranny in order for tyranny elsewhere in the government to exist because:

1. It protects judges from being prosecuted for treason and conspiracy against rights by persons who have been injured by government wrongdoing.
2. It facilitates the official cover-up of government wrongdoing by using protective orders, nonpublication of cases, and suppression of incriminating evidence against government wrongdoing
3. It screens juries to ensure only biased jurists hear cases and rule in the government's favor, when there is a jury trial.
4. Allows corrupt judges to dismiss cases before they are heard, so that discovery of the wrongdoing can never occur.
5. Courts punish and persecute attorneys who try to prosecute government officials or agencies for wrongdoing by pulling their license to practice law.
6. Courts cannot pull licenses of pro per litigants. They will frequently but illegally penalize them under Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure for "frivolous pleadings" or they also grant motions to strike pleadings by the government so that pro per litigants are left with nothing to argue.

The above types of evil are the worst types of tyranny found anywhere in the government, because the collective net effect of them has a very repressive effect on society. Thomas Jefferson warned us that our federal judiciary would get out of control when he made the following statements about the federal judiciary:

"Contrary to all correct example, [the Federal judiciary] are in the habit of going out of the question before them, to throw an anchor ahead and grapple further hold for future advances of power. They are then in fact the corps of sappers and miners, steadily working to undermine the independent rights of the States and to consolidate all power in the hands of that government in which they have so important a freehold estate."
[Thomas Jefferson: Autobiography, 1821. ME 1:121 ]

"We all know that permanent judges acquire an esprit de corps; that, being known, they are liable to be tempted by bribery; that they are misled by favor, by relationship, by a spirit of party, by a devotion to the executive or legislative; that it is better to leave a cause to the decision of cross and pile than to that of a judge biased to one side; and that the opinion of twelve honest jurymen gives still a better hope of right than cross and pile does."
[Thomas Jefferson to Abbe Arnoux, 1789. ME 7:423, Papers 15:283 ]

"It is not enough that honest men are appointed judges. All know the influence of interest on the mind of man, and how unconsciously his judgment is warped by that influence. To this bias add that of the esprit de corps, of their peculiar maxim and creed that 'it is the office of a good judge to enlarge his jurisdiction,' and the absence of responsibility, and how can we expect impartial decision between the General government, of which they are themselves so eminent a part, and an individual state from which they have nothing to hope or fear?"
[Thomas Jefferson: Autobiography, 1821. ME 1:121 ]

"At the establishment of our Constitutions, the judiciary bodies were supposed to be the most helpless and harmless members of the government. Experience, however, soon showed in what way they were to become the most dangerous; that the insufficiency of the means provided for their removal gave them a freehold and irresponsibility in office; that their decisions, seeming to concern individual suitors only, pass silent and unheeded by the public at large; that these decisions nevertheless become law by precedent, sapping by little and little the foundations of the Constitution and working its change by construction before any one has perceived that that invisible and helpless worm has been busily employed in consuming its substance. In truth, man is not made to be trusted for life if secured against all liability to account."
[Thomas Jefferson to A. Coray, 1823. ME 15:486 ]

1 "I do not charge the judges with willful and ill-intentioned error; but honest error must be arrested where its
 2 toleration leads to public ruin. As for the safety of society, we commit honest maniacs to Bedlam; so judges
 3 should be withdrawn from their bench whose erroneous biases are leading us to dissolution. It may, indeed,
 4 injure them in fame or in fortune; but it saves the republic, which is the first and supreme law."
 5 [Thomas Jefferson: Autobiography, 1821. ME 1:122 ]

6 "The original error [was in] establishing a judiciary independent of the nation, and which, from the citadel
 7 of the law, can turn its guns on those they were meant to defend, and control and fashion their proceedings
 8 to its own will."

9 [Thomas Jefferson to John Wayles Eppes, 1807. FE 9:68 ]

10 "It is a misnomer to call a government republican in which a branch of the supreme power [the Federal 11 Judiciary] is independent of the nation."

12 [Thomas Jefferson to James Pleasants, 1821. FE 10:198 ]

13 "It is left... to the juries, if they think the permanent judges are under any bias whatever in any cause, to take
 14 on themselves to judge the law as well as the fact. They never exercise this power but when they suspect
 15 partiality in the judges; and by the exercise of this power they have been the firmest bulwarks of English
 16 liberty."

17 [Thomas Jefferson to Abbe Arnoux, 1789. ME 7:423, Papers 15:283 ]

18 Very wise words indeed! Thomas Jefferson's warnings and predictions above were prophetic, because today we have a
 19 federal judiciary that is completely out of control with respect to income tax matters, which happens to be the area of law
 20 possessing the greatest conflict of interest universally for all federal judges, as we will explain.

21 We'll now examine in greater detail how judicial tyranny is perpetuated and expanded in today's federal courts to show just 22 how far the tyranny predicted by Jefferson has taken us. The abuses and usurpations of power are very numerous but 23 carefully concealed by most judges so that they are out of public view. Collectively, these usurpations constitute a massive 24 conspiracy against the rights of the sovereign people that is a treasonable offense, and they also explain why:

25 "Absolute power corrupts absolutely."

26 and why the founding fathers went to such extensive means to separate sovereign powers in our government to prevent
 27 corruption and conspiracy of the kind that is commonplace today. As you read through the following subsections and 28 witness all the antics and corruption of our judiciary, compare this with what God in His sovereignty requires of these same
 29 judges in the following scripture:

30 Psalm 82 [Amplified Bible]

31 A Psalm of Asaph.

32 1 GOD STANDS in the assembly [of the representatives] of God; in the midst of the magistrates or judges He 33 gives judgment [as] among the gods.

34 2 How long will you [magistrates or judges] judge unjustly and show partiality to the wicked? Selah [pause, 35 and calmly think of that]!

36 3 Do justice to the weak (poor) and fatherless; maintain the rights of the afflicted and needy.

37 4 Deliver the poor and needy; rescue them out of the hand of the wicked.

38 5 [The magistrates and judges] know not, neither will they understand; they walk on in the darkness [of 39 complacent satisfaction]; all the foundations of the earth [the fundamental principles upon which rests the 40 administration of justice] are shaking.

41 6 I said, You are gods [since you judge on My behalf, as My representatives]; indeed, all of you are children of 42 the Most High.<sup>(1<sup>18</sup>)</sup>

43 7 But you shall die as men and fall as one of the princes.

44 8 Arise, O God, judge the earth! For to You belong all the nations.<sup>19</sup>

1 After you have read this scripture, pray about it and then ask yourself the following questions:

- 2 • What can we do to punish these tyrants?
- 3 • How can we reform our corrupted system to eliminate or at least reduce such abuses?
- 4 • How can we eliminate the inherent conflict of interest that exists because judges are paid by the income tax and
- 5 are beholden to the IRS if they rule against it?

6 Also consider that the answer cannot rely on the judges or the legal profession they come from, because they have already
7 demonstrated that they can't be trusted and have become corrupted, mostly by the love of money.

8 2.8.13.1 Conflict of Interest and Bias of Federal Judges

9 "The king establishes the land by justice, but he who receives bribes overthrows it."
10 [Prov. 29:4, Bible, NKJV]

11 Federal law prohibits conflict of interest or bias on the part of judges as follows:

- 12 1. 28 U.S.C. §144: Bias or prejudice of judge
- 13 2. 28 U.S.C. §455: Disqualification of justice, judge, or magistrate judge

14 If you would like to learn what the courts think of the use of these statutes against judges, look at the link below on our 15 website:

Recusal: Analysis of Case Law Under 28 U.S.C. §§455 & 144, Federal Judicial Center, 2002
<http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/FJC/Recusal.pdf>

16 When judges possess a conflict of interest, they are more likely to judge unrighteously and in favor of their selfish interest
17 over and above the interests of justice. Below are some of the more prevalent sources of conflicts of interest:

- 18 1. Many judges believe that their pay or benefits are derived from income taxes and that if they rule against the income
19 tax, they will harm their employer and jeopardize future pay increases. Article III, Section I of the Constitution 20 prevents the salaries of judges from being reduced while in office, but their future pay increases can be reduced.
- 21 2. When a judge rules against the government's interest too often, one of two things will happen to them:
22 2.1. They will be removed from office for bad behavior under 28 U.S.C. §44\(b\).
23 2.2. The Department of Justice will frame the judge so that he gets removed from office. There are many examples of 24 this happening to judges, and one example is mentioned in the We The People Truth in Taxation hearings in 25 which a judge was framed, according to Attorney Larry Becraft.
26 2.3. They will be threatened with an IRS audit or collection action unless they cooperate. Remember that the IRS is 27 part of the Executive branch of the government and performs a function delegated from Congress to collect taxes.
28 The ability of the Executive branch to influence or coerce members of the judiciary using the power of the IRS
29 becomes a financial terrorism vehicle that few judges will resist.

30 "In the general course of human nature, A POWER OVER A MAN'S SUBSISTENCE AMOUNTS TO A POWER
31 OVER HIS WILL."
32 [Alexander Hamilton, The Federalist, No. 79]

- 33 Furthermore, it is a well established precedent that a judge whose salary can be diminished by legislation or who 34 holds office for other than a lifetime cannot be an Article III judge who can rule on the rights or status of a person
35 in the Union states. He can only rule on Article I or Article IV issues relating to the federal zone.
- 36 3. Most judges were lawyers at one time. In many cases, they were federal prosecutors and they have college buddies
37 who are in private practice who they may feel inclined to help. Because of this, they are inclined to want to protect and 38 rule in favor of their former coworker attorneys in the Department of Justice.
  - 39 4. The more litigation there is, the more prosperous it is for lawyers. One way to increase litigation is to increase 40 injustice in the courts or to rule excessively in favor of the government, so that citizens litigating against government
41 corruption will want to appeal to the circuit courts and run up even more legal fees. This means lawyers will make 42 more money and the legal profession will need more lawyers, and what lawyer, whether a judge or not, wouldn't want that? Therefore, judges who were once lawyers will be inclined to want to benefit their profession and expand its power and totalitarian control and economic power over our government and the people. They do this through:

4.1. Ruling in favor of the government when it would be unjust.

4.2. Punishing litigants who practice law without a license granted by them.

5. We mentioned earlier in section 2.8.11 that the federal government is in deep debt and that the goal of our politicians is to spend us into a deep hole and put us into massive debt slavery to the privately owned Federal Reserve. We also mentioned that the Bible says this creates a conflict of interest:

*"The rich ruleth over the poor, and the borrower [is] servant to the lender."
[Prov. 22:7, Bible, NKJV]*

Federal judges know that if they rule against the illegal enforcement of Internal Revenue Code and thereby reduce federal revenues, they may threaten the solvency of their employer and cause bankruptcy, civil unrest, and chaos in our society. By doing so, they compromise the integrity of the federal judiciary today to prevent the inevitable collapse of the communist system later.

6. Judges know that pro per or pro se litigants are the most dangerous types of litigants because they: 1. Do not economically benefit the legal profession by doing all their own litigation; 2. Have a potential to clog the courts for years because there are far more of them than there are lawyers; 3. Are more likely to bring up issues that will embarrass the government because they have no license they could lose and can be more independent and objective than most attorneys. Therefore, judges have a vested interest in sanctioning and penalizing pro per litigants in order to maintain their iron fist control over the courtroom and to ensure that only attorneys THEY license can appear in court, and these attorneys will always litigate in favor of the government or have their license pulled to practice law and starve to death. Tyranny.

All of the above conflicts of interest create severe biases and prejudices against justice in federal courtrooms all over the country and explain the irrational, tyrannical rulings relating to income tax that are so prevalent. Irwin Schiff, as a matter of fact, is famous for saying "More crimes occur in federal courtrooms every day than anywhere else in the country!" and we believe he is right. The only way to eliminate these conflicts of interest completely is:

1. Eliminate the requirement for jurors to be "U.S. citizens", because this creates a bias and prejudice against those who are "nationals" ONLY because the juries are not juries of peers.
2. Require jury trials for all tax matters so that judges don't have to decide the case. Currently, jury trials are optional but not mandatory under 28 U.S.C. §2402.
3. Eliminate attorney licensing. This is a scam that does nothing but undermine our First Amendment rights of freedom of speech and our right to contract under Article 1, Section 10 of the U.S. Constitution.
4. Eliminate the ability to sanction pro per litigants under Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.
5. Repudiate the national debt and make it illegal for our Congressmen to borrow more money except with the consent of the voters and a three fourths vote by the Congress.
6. Make judges directly accountable to the people they serve by making them elected by the people in their district rather than appointed by the President. This is the focus of the Judicial Accountability Initiative Law (J.A.I.L.), which you can read about at <http://www.jail4judges.org/>.

2.8.13.2 Sovereign and Official Immunity

Sovereign immunity is defined in Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 1396 as follows:

Sovereign immunity. A judicial doctrine which precludes bringing suit against the government without its consent. Founded on the ancient principle that "the King can do no wrong," it bars holding the government or its political subdivisions liable for the torts of its officers or agents unless such immunity is expressly waived by statute or by necessary inference from legislative enactment. Maryland Port Admin. V. I.T.O. Corp. Of Baltimore, 40 Md.App. 697, 395 A.2d. 145, 149. The federal government has generally waived its non-tort action immunity in the Tucker Act, 28 U.S.C.A. §1346(a)(2), 1491, and its tort immunity in the Federal Tort Claims Act, 28 U.S.C.A. §1346(b), 2674. Most states have also waived immunity in various degrees at both the state and local government levels.

The immunity from certain suits in federal court ranted to states by the Eleventh Amendment to the United States Constitution.

1 This sounds reasonable on the surface, but remember that the government is NOT the king in our system of government,
 2 which is a republican democracy founded on individual rights. The PEOPLE are the sovereigns and the king, and the
 3 government exists and acts on their behalf as a fiduciary. The contract which limits and defines the powers of government
 4 officers as fiduciaries is the Constitution. We discussed the subject of fiduciary duty of individual government employees
 5 in detail earlier in section 2.1. The supreme Court also agreed with the conclusion that the people are the sovereigns and 6 the government servants are fiduciaries in the case of Yick Wo v. Hopkins in 1886:

7 "When we consider the nature and the theory of our institutions of government, the principles on which they are
 8 supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are constrained to conclude that they do not
 9 mean to leave room for the play and action of purely personal and arbitrary power. Sovereignty itself is, of 10 course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law; but in our system, while sovereign powers
 11 are delegated to the agencies of government, sovereignty itself remains with the people, by whom and for 12 whom all government exists and acts. And the law is the definition and limitation of power. It is, indeed, quite 13 true that there must always be lodged somewhere, and in some person or body, the authority of final decision;
 14 and in many cases of mere administration, the responsibility is purely political, no appeal lying except to the 15 ultimate tribunal of the public judgment, exercised either in the pressure of opinion, or by means of the 16 suffrage. But the fundamental rights to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, considered as individual
 17 possessions, are secured by those maxims of constitutional law which are the monuments showing the victorious
 18 progress of the race in securing to men the blessings of civilization under the reign of just and equal laws, so
 19 that, in the famous language of the Massachusetts bill of rights, the government of the commonwealth 'may be a
 20 government of laws and not of men.' For the very idea that one man may be compelled to hold his life, or the 21 means of living, or any material right essential to the enjoyment of life, at the mere will of another, seems to be 22 intolerable in any country where freedom prevails, as being the essence of slavery itself."
 23 [Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

24 And in 1884, the supreme Court repeated this doctrine again:

25 "There is no such thing as a power of inherent sovereignty in the government of the United States ...In this
 26 country sovereignty resides in the people, and Congress can exercise no power which they have not, by their
 27 Constitution entrusted to it. All else is withheld."
 28 [Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884)]

29 Therefore, THE PEOPLE are the ones who should have sovereign immunity, and not the government but tyrannical judges
 30 try to twist this around for their personal benefit. It ought to be obvious, though, that the doctrine of sovereign immunity
 31 competes directly with the goal of the written social contract called the Constitution, which is to define and limit the 32 delegated powers of government officers acting as fiduciaries of the people. The officers individually may be tried for their
 33 torts (injurious actions) if they are acting outside of their lawful delegated authority and so may the government they work
 34 for under the Federal Tort Claims Act, 28 U.S.C.A. §1346(b). Here is the way one court described it:

35 "The doctrine of sovereign immunity, raised by defendants, is inapplicable since plaintiffs contend that the 36 defendants' action were beyond the scope of their authority or they were acting unconstitutionally."
 37 [Berends v. Butz, 357 F.Supp. 143 (1973)]

38 However, in many cases, federal judges often will try assert sovereign immunity anyway or they will allow or encourage 39 the government to substitute the United States as defendant when an injured party tries to civilly prosecute an individual
 40 government employee who was acting illegally. This, of course, violates common sense and principles of equity but 41 happens quite often. When it does happen, the supreme Court says it amounts to communism!:

42 "... the maxim that the King can do no wrong has no place in our system of government; yet it is also true, in
 43 respect to the State itself, that whatever wrong is attempted in its name is imputable to its government and not 44 to the State, for, as it can speak and act only by law, whatever it does say and do must be lawful. That which 45 therefore is unlawful because made so by the supreme law, the Constitution of the United States, is not the 46 word or deed of the State, but is the mere wrong and trespass of those individual persons who falsely spread 47 and act in its name."

48 "This distinction is essential to the idea of constitutional government. To deny it or blot it out obliterates the 49 line of demarcation that separates constitutional government from absolutism, free self- government based on
 50 the sovereignty of the people from that despotism, whether of the one or the many, which enables the agent of 51 the state to declare and decree that he is the state; to say 'L'Etat, c'est moi.' Of what avail are written 52 constitutions, whose bills of right, for the security of individual liberty, have been written too often with the 53 blood of martyrs shed upon the battle-field and the scaffold, if their limitations and restraints upon power may
 54 be overpassed with impunity by the very agencies created and appointed to guard, defend, and enforce them;
 55 and that, too, with the sacred authority of law, not only compelling obedience, but entitled to respect? And how
 56 else can these principles of individual liberty and right be maintained, if, when violated, the judicial tribunals
 57 are forbidden to visit penalties upon individual offenders, who are the instruments of wrong, whenever they interpose the shield of the state? The doctrine is not to be tolerated. The whole frame and scheme of the political institutions of this country, state and federal, protest against it. Their continued existence is not compatible with it. It is the doctrine of absolutism, pure, simple, and naked, and of communism which is its twin, the double progeny of the same evil birth."

[\[Poindexter v. Greenhow, 114 U.S. 270, 5 S.Ct. 903 \(1885\)\]](#)

Even so, it isn't unusual when a lower court such as a district or circuit court abuses a litigant by abusing sovereign immunity that when the case is appealed, the supreme Court in effect sanctions and encourages the abuse by refusing to hear the appeal or grant the case a writ of certiorari. The sin in such a case becomes an act of omission rather than commission, but it is still a sin and a wrong by any moral standard. All of this explains a rather wise comment one of our colleagues made when he said about man's law (rather than God's law):

"The first casualty of man's law is always truth and justice."

A related type of abuse occurs when the court asserts "official immunity", the purpose of which is to insulate from liability a government employee for acts done while in office, even if those acts are injurious and unlawful. We discuss this subject further in section 6.6.3.

2.8.13.3 Cases Tried Without Jury

Another cruel abuse that tyrannical judges impose in the courtroom is to eliminate the use of juries when it is being prosecuted civilly and is the defendant, even though the intent of the Seventh Amendment was to guarantee a jury trial for any matter over $20. We talk about this kind of abuse later in section 6.9.2, where we say that the federal courts stole your right to a trial by jury. This is hypocrisy at its finest and the most blatant conflict of interest imaginable: putting a single judge in charge of ruling or deciding whether he should bite the hand that feeds him, which is his government employer, by ruling against it. What do you think he is going to do, especially if this very same hand that feeds him can have him removed from office for bad behavior (28 U.S.C. §134\(a\)), blacklisted, and framed by false witnesses who were secretly pressured by the DOJ and FBI? This is what the government often does to judges and even Congressmen who are honest about the fraud of the income tax. Case in point is what happened to Congressman James Traficant from Ohio. We have the complete docket of pleadings for his case posted on our website at:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/CaseStudies/JamesTraficant/JamesTraficant.htm>

Here is the way one corrupt judge unethically and immorally wiggled out of the requirement for jury trials with the government as defendant:

*Taxpayers also assert they were denied their Seventh Amendment right to trial by jury before the Tax Court. The Seventh Amendment preserves the right to jury trial "in suits at common law." Since there was no right of action at common law against a sovereign, enforceable by jury trial or otherwise, there is no constitutional right to a jury trial in a suit against the United States. See 9 C. Wright & A. Miller, Federal Practice & Procedure § 2314, at 68-69 (1971). Thus, there is a right to a jury trial in actions against the United States only if a statute so provides. Congress has not so provided when the taxpayer elects not to pay the assessment and sue for a redetermination in the Tax Court. For a taxpayer to obtain a trial by jury, he must pay the tax allegedly owed and sue for a refund in district court. 28 U.S.C. §§ 2402 and 1346(a)(1). The law is therefore clear that a taxpayer who elects to bring his suit in the Tax Court has no right, statutory or constitutional, to a trial by jury. Phillips v. Commissioner, 283 U.S. 589, 599 n. 9, 51 S.Ct. 608, 75 L.Ed. 1289 (1931); Wickwire v. Reinecke, 275 U.S. 101, 105-106, 48 S.Ct. 43, 72 L.Ed. 184 (1927); Dorl v. Commissioner, 507 F.2d. 406, 407 (2d Cir. 1974) (holding it "elementary that there is no right to a jury trial in the Tax Court.").
*[Mathes v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 576 F.2d. 70 (1978)]

The above ruling does nothing but encourage irresponsibility and hypocrisy in our own government, and takes government employees out of their role as servants and fiduciaries of the sovereign people and makes them into communist tyrants, to use the words of the supreme Court, who can't be called to account for their wrongs. Treason! By natural law, the judge that made the above ruling deserves to be executed under Article III of the Constitution.

2.8.13.4 Attorney Licensing

1 Another area of massive conflict of interest in the courtroom that promotes injustice is the notion of attorney licensing by
 2 the same court that hears cases by the licensed attorney. What do you think a judge is going to do if the attorney that the
 3 court licensed brings a civil suit against the government or a government officer? They are going to pull his license to
 4 practice law or at least threaten to pull it if he won't withdraw his case. This is exactly what happened to the attorney who
 5 defended Congressman James Traficant of Ohio in July of 2002. She had her license pulled because Traficant was a
 6 scapegoat who they wanted to make into a public outcast by leaving him without legal representation so that he would have
 7 to defend himself in the courtroom and would be more likely to lose!

8 Let's think about this for a minute folks. The First Amendment guarantees us a right of free speech. The right of free
 9 speech includes the right to either not speak or to appoint someone else to speak for us. When we hire an attorney to speak
 10 for us, it shouldn't matter whether he is "deemed licensed" to practice law by anyone, because we are paying the money to
 11 hire him. The government and the bar association who is in bed with them uses the "magnanimous" but fraudulent and
 12 ridiculous excuse that they have to license attorneys to protect us from predators and from our own indiscriminate taste in 13 lawyers so that only ethical and upstanding lawyers can "practice" law. This just interferes with the rule of supply and 14 demand and jacks up the price. The only reason to license lawyers is because:

- 15 1. It restricts the supply of lawyers so that the price is jacked up, which makes legal representation unaffordable for the 16 vast majority of individuals.
- 17 2. It creates a source of additional leverage for the government when the government or its officers are prosecuted for 18 wrongdoing.
- 19 3. Because malpractice insurance companies may charge higher premiums to insure lawyers who aren't licensed.

20 But remember that a license is legally defined as "permission from the state to do that which otherwise illegal", and the 21 implication is that it is illegal for an unlicensed attorney to talk in front of a judge or jury. Common sense tells us that this
 22 violates the First Amendment guarantee of free speech. As reasonable men, we must therefore conclude that the American
 23 Bar Association (ABA) is nothing but a lawyer union that wants to jack up its own salaries by restricting the supply of 24 lawyers and which is in bed with federal judges to help illegally expand their jurisdiction in return for the privilege of 25 having those inflated salaries.

26 The following supreme Court cases held that a State may not pass statutes prohibiting the unauthorized practice of law or to 27 interfere with the Right to freedom of speech, secured in the First Amendment: United Mine Workers v. Illinois Bar
 28 Association, 389 U.S. 217, and NAACP v. Button, 371 U.S. 415, and also in Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen v. Virginia
 29 State Bar, 377 U.S. 1 (1964).

30 2.8.13.5 Protective Orders and Motions in Limine

31 The most common thing that people want to do who know they are doing wrong is hide the evidence. This was true of the 32 first sinner Eve and every human after her who sinned. The book of Genesis chapter 3, verses 6 through 19, in the Bible
 33 records that the first human to sin, Eve, after she sinned by disobeying God and eating the fruit from the tree of the 34 knowledge of good and evil, first hid her shameful nakedness with a leaf, and then hid with Adam when God approached.
 35 Sinners have been hiding the evidence ever since, and defense lawyers actually make a large part of their livelihood from 36 being good at hiding evidence and avoiding direct or revealing answers in depositions. No doubt, we would need a LOT
 37 fewer lawyers and judges if people just told the truth and did the right thing to begin with. We must remember that a "lying 38 tongue" is one of the seven things that God hates (see Prov. 6:19). Why then would we want to violate God's law by using 39 man's laws or our legal system to encourage or protect fraud by allowing for protective orders?

40 Jesus in the Bible repeats this same theme of the desire to hide evidence as being the hallmark of sinners and wrongdoers
 41 again in John 3:18-21:

42 "He who believes in Him [Jesus, the Son of God] is not condemned; but he who does not believe is condemned
 43 already, because he has not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God. And this is the 44 condemnation, that the light has come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because 45 their deeds were evil. For everyone practicing evil hates the light and 46 does not come to the light, lest his deeds should be exposed. But 47 he who does the truth comes to the light, that his deeds may be clearly seen, that they have been done in God."
 48 [John 3:18-21, Bible]

1 In a massive conflict of interest, judges in federal courts very often do the same thing that Eve did by conspiring with the
 2 government prosecutor (usually from the DOJ) to try to hide evidence of wrongdoing by either the government or by
 3 employees of the government. The easiest way for them to conspire in this cover-up is to grant a pre-trial motion by the
 4 Department of Justice for a protective order, often without argument or explanation, and even as an Ex Parte emergency
 5 motion so that the opposing side doesn't even have a chance to prepare for the hearing. A protective order is an order by
 6 the court to cease certain types of discovery of evidence for use in trial. A protective order might be issued, for instance, to 7 bar the plaintiff in a civil suit from deposing a government witness to ask him questions or it might prevent the subpoena of
 8 government documents related to the government wrongdoing. Because the protective order is issued BEFORE the trial,
 9 the truth is suppressed before the jury ever has a chance to hear it. This is what they did at Congressman Traficant's trial in 10 July 2002, who was a vocal opponent of the IRS and the income tax.

11 Another type of order by the judge that biases a case in the government's favor is what is called a "motion in limine",
 12 whereby the government prosecutor before the trial asks to exclude certain pieces of evidence from the upcoming trial that
 13 would cause the government to lose its case. This happens very often with evidence that is totally credible but would be 14 disadvantageous to the government. The way to prevent being victimized by such tactics is to ensure that you keep the 15 ORIGINAL copy of all correspondence you send the government, and send it with a Certificate of Service documenting 16 everything you sent. Typically, judges will use the excuse in granting a motion in limine that the documents are 17 photocopies and that the chain of custody and therefore the foundation of the evidence is untrustworthy.

18 Federal judges seldom have to even justify why they granted the order and even the fact that the order was granted is not
 19 allowed by the judge to be revealed to the jury even though it should because it constitutes evidence of massive conflict of 20 interest and obstruction of justice. When they make the protective order, they will often tell the clerk of the court to make 21 their comments off the record so they can't be prosecuted for doing so. When this happens, you ought to tape record it and
 22 prosecute them for conflict of interest (28 U.S.C. §455) and obstruction of justice! If the party who is wronged by the 23 protective order then tries to prosecute the judge for wrongdoing and obstruction of justice, his license to practice law is 24 pulled if he is an attorney. If he is a pro per litigant representing himself, he is fined by the court for submitting "frivolous
 25 pleadings" as an unethical and immoral way to silence him in violation of the First Amendment and strike (remove) his 26 pleadings from the record so there is no evidence or argument to convict the judge with! Judges look out for each other and 27 play golf together, you know. It's a good old boy network that MUST be eliminated if we are ever to have justice and 28 equality of rights under the law and restore our society to the status of being a government of laws rather than men.

29 All of this discussion underscores the following words of wisdom:

30 "There can be no justice without truth."

31 If the judge won't allow the truth to be admitted into evidence during the trial or discussed, he is simply inviting more
 32 litigation and not allowing the issue to be resolved. This does a disservice to our justice system, undermines its credibility,
 33 and causes massive injustice against the rights and liberties of Americans everywhere. It is a treasonable offense also
 34 because it covers up a violation of the oath of office for the judge in question. In most cases, juries decide only the facts
 35 and apply the law as given to them by the judge. But if the judge is corrupt and biased and the jury detects that the judge is 36 involved in this kind of cover-up, then Thomas Jefferson said that the jury then has the duty to decide both the facts AND 37 the law, and in many cases, to rule against the law as being unjust or at least rule that a different judge is needed to hear the 38 case:

39 "It is left... to the juries, if they think the permanent judges are under any bias whatever in any cause, to take
 40 on themselves to judge the law as well as the fact. They never exercise this power but when they suspect
 41 partiality in the judges; and by the exercise of this power they have been the firmest bulwarks of English
 42 liberty."

43 [Thomas Jefferson to Abbe Arnoux, 1789. ME 7:423, Papers 15:283 ]

44 2.8.13.6 "Frivolous" Penalties

45 The First Amendment guarantees every American the right to petition their government for Redress of Grievances/wrongs.
 46 Because this amendment recognizes but not creates a right, and because the exercise of rights cannot be legally penalized or
 47 taxed or restricted or regulated by the government, then at least theoretically, it is illegal for a judge to fine or sanction a
 48 litigant no matter what he says in his pleadings, and even if they are totally without merit! This isn't true of his
 49 GOVERNMENT LICENSED (conflict of interest!) attorney, but it is certainly true of the litigant who is represented by
 50 the attorney. However, in some instances, federal judges have been known to fine litigants up to $25,000 for frivolous

1 pleadings if they are litigating a very embarrassing issue against the government. An example of such an embarrassing
 2 issue would be the 861 source position described later in Chapter 5 or any other issue that would destroy government
 3 revenues from income taxes. Corrupt federal judges use frivolous penalties in order to:

- 4 1. Protect the government or its employees from prosecution.
- 5 2. Avoid having to tell the truth or rule on a “hot-potato” issue that could threaten their job
- 6 3. Discourage future lawsuits on the same subject.

7 What often happens is the judge will sanction the attorney rather than the litigant because they can't fine the litigant, who
 8 has First Amendment rights, and of course the attorney passes on the cost to the litigant. Even if the case is a good one
 9 with legal merit and good arguments, many attorneys will refuse to take the case if they think the judge will be biased or 10 could sanction them. This further discourages future suits on the same subject.

11 We must remember, however, what it means to be frivolous:

12 frivolous:

13 Of little weight or importance. A pleading is "frivolous" when it is clearly insufficient on its face and does not
 14 controvert the material points of the opposite pleading, and is presumably interposed for mere purposes of 15 delay or to embarrass the opponent. A claim or defense is frivolous if a proponent can present no rational
 16 argument based upon the evidence or law in support of that claim or defense. Liebowitz v. Aimexco Inc.,
 17 Col.App., 701 P.2d. 140, 142. Frivolous pleadings may be amended to proper form or ordered stricken under 18 federal and state rules of civil procedure."
 19 [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 668]

20 Even though the pleading is rational, organized, and focused on substantive legal issues, judges will routinely try to 21 sanction pro per litigants who are defending themselves without a lawyer. They will use the excuse that the litigant is 22 inexperienced, incompetent, and every other type of verbally abusive but unsubstantiated rhetoric they can think of. They 23 have to do this because pro per litigants are the most dangerous type of litigants since they:

- 24 1. Don't have any legal fees, they can litigate endlessly against the government and must be discouraged from doing so.
- 25 2. Aren't licensed like typical attorneys, the court can't threaten to pull their license if they don't like the subject of the 26 suit or its adverse impact on the government.
- 27 3. Haven't given jurisdiction to the court by hiring an attorney. All persons who hire an attorney automatically admit the 28 jurisdiction of the court over them and therefore cannot challenge the court's jurisdiction:

29 In Propria Persona. In one's own proper person. It is a rule in pleading that pleads to the jurisdiction of the 30 court must be plead in propria persona, because if pleaded by an attorney they admit the jurisdiction, as an 31 attorney is an officer of the court, and he is presumed to plead after having obtained leave, which admits the 32 jurisdiction. Lawes, Pl. 91.
 33 [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 900]

34 Therefore, frivolous penalties are the most prevalent kind of violation of the First Amendment that federal judges like to 35 use to gag pro per litigants, and especially if they are vexatious (outspoken, articulate, organized, and very combative). It's 36 an obvious conflict of interest where the suit is against the government or one of its employees, and for that reason, it may 37 be preferable to pursue your suit against the government agent as a private person and ensure that you get a jury trial to 38 make the ruling as unbiased as possible.

39 Lastly, if you are sanctioned with frivolous penalties and then try to litigate the same matter again, then tyrannical judges
 40 sometimes will increase the sanctions and justify their action by saying that the matters you litigated were already resolved.
 41 In most cases, they will not be resolved from the previous ruling because in most cases, any time you litigate matters found
 42 in this book, they will collude in the cover-up of these materials and try to use protective orders to keep you from doing
 43 complete discovery. If they had not attempted the protective order and had allowed your evidence and findings into the 44 court record and had published that court record, then they would be correct in saying that the matters were resolved and in 45 instituting additional sanctions, but this combination of factors seldom happens with tax honesty advocates because of the 46 government cover-up of the truth and tyranny in maintaining their power. Remember:

47 "There can be no justice without truth, "

If the judge will not allow the truth or evidence of the truth to be admitted into evidence or discussed in the courtroom, then the issues you are litigating have not been resolved and no sanction should therefore be instituted unless and until the truth is fully explored, exposed, and decided upon by an impartial jury. Sometimes the judge will cite previous cases as his authority or excuse why he doesn't have to deal with your issues and say it has been decided already, but in many cases, he will cite unpublished cases, which doesn't expose the truth, or the case won't have explored the truth at all and he will be hoping you don't know how to do case research to discover their fraud and obstruction of justice.

2.8.13.7 Fifth Amendment Abuses

"Constitutional privilege against self-incrimination applies to civil as well as criminal proceedings"
 [McCarthy v. Arndstein, 266 U.S. 34, 45 S.Ct. 16 (1924)]

Judges and government lawyers are aided in their abuse of our liberties by deliberate and flagrant violations of the Fifth Amendment. The Fifth Amendment says:

"No person shall be ... compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself,"
 [Fifth Amendment]

What they will tell ignorant litigants opposing the government is that the Fifth Amendment only protects testimony in a criminal trial, not a civil trial such as those involving taxes. The judge will then threaten to sanction such a litigant for contempt of court if he does not testify, hoping that he will provide enough information to make the government's case. However, this approach violates the precedents of the United States supreme Court, which said on the subject:

"The [Fifth Amendment] privilege reflects a complex of our fundamental values and aspirations, and marks an important advance in the development of our liberty. It can be asserted in any proceeding, civil or criminal, administrative or judicial, investigatory or adjudicatory; and it [406 U.S. 441, 445] protects against any disclosures that the witness reasonably believes could be used in a criminal prosecution or could lead to other evidence that might be so used. This Court has been zealous to safeguard the values that underlie the privilege."
 [Kastigar v. United States, 406 U.S. 441 (1972)]

Why do you think the Fifth Amendment protects testimony even in a civil or tax trial? The reason is because a criminal trial could result from the testimony in a civil trial! This is what the supreme Court calls a "derivative use". If the government puts you on the stand in a civil trial related to the imposition of penalties and the payment of a tax, and finds out that you committed criminal fraud based on your testimony, then they might later decide to indict you based on your testimony for a criminal offense and use your own testimony as evidence. Consequently, you can confidently assert the privilege in either a civil or a criminal trial and if the government wants to compel you, then all you have to do is demand immunity under 18 U.S.C. §6002. The ruling in Kastigar upholds the doctrine that such immunity, although granted by the federal government as the sovereign, also affords immunity from state prosecution as well.

"[A] state witness may not be compelled to give testimony which may be incriminating under federal law unless the compelled testimony and its fruits cannot be used in any manner by federal officials in connection with a criminal prosecution against him. We conclude, moreover, that in order to implement this constitutional rule and accommodate the interests of the State and Federal Governments in investigating and prosecuting crime, the Federal Government must be prohibited from making any such use of compelled testimony and its fruits." 43 378 U.S., at 79."
 [Kastigar v. United States, 406 U.S. 441 (1972)]

Furthermore, if the state or federal governments attempt to introduce evidence in a criminal or civil proceeding where there was previous testimony under which immunity was granted, they have an affirmative duty as follows, citing again from Kastigar:

A person accorded this immunity under 18 U.S.C. 6002, and subsequently prosecuted, is not dependent for the preservation of his rights upon the integrity and good faith of the prosecuting authorities. As stated in Murphy:

"Once a defendant demonstrates that he has testified, under a state grant of immunity, to matters related to the federal prosecution, the federal authorities have the burden of showing that their evidence is not tainted by establishing that they had an independent, legitimate source for the disputed evidence." 378 U.S., at 79 n. 18.

This burden of proof, which we reaffirm as appropriate, is not limited to a negation of taint; rather, it imposes on the prosecution the affirmative duty to prove that the evidence it proposes to use is derived from a legitimate source wholly independent of the compelled testimony. [406 U.S. 441, 461]

Consequently, if a judge in a civil trial tries to compel you as a litigant and not a third party witness to testify after you have asserted your Fifth Amendment rights by saying that those rights only apply to criminal trials, then he is either ignorant, incompetent, or corrupt, or any combination of the foregoing.

Along the same lines, corrupt judges will also try to assert that being compelled to submit tax returns is not a violation of the Fifth Amendment. We know from the U.S. supreme Court ruling in Garner v. U.S., 424 U.S. 648 (1976), however, that tax returns constitute the compelled testimony of a witness. Several cases have litigated this issue, including William Conklin v. IRS, No. 89N 1514 (unpublished), U.S. v. Troescher, No. 95-55609 (unpublished), etc., and in all cases, the government has wiggled out of claiming that tax returns don't violate the Fifth Amendment because they are voluntary, which just reinforces our point throughout all of Chapter 5 that income taxes under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code are and always have been voluntary and that calling them a "tax" is a misnomer, because they are really just a "donation"! This provides a good transition into our next section about nonpublication of court rulings, because both of these cases were unpublished for the obvious reason that the government doesn't want the average American to know that income taxes are voluntary so they made the rulings in the above cases unpublished so that it could not be cited as an authority in later cases.

2.8.13.8 Nonpublication of Court Rulings

Nonpublication is the act by a judge of making a ruling without putting the pleadings or ruling of the case into the official, published government court record accessible to the general public. Nonpublication is very commonly used in our courts today, and especially in the federal courts on cases involving income tax issues. The reasons for this are clear: Federal judges work hand in hand with the IRS to mistreat and abuse Americans by denying their constitutional rights to life, liberty and property and then cover up that fact in order to escape culpability and prevent successful techniques or information used against the government from being learned about or reused by other freedom fighters. This section summarizes some of the issues related to nonpublication by our courts. You can obtain further information about this subject on our website at:

<http://famguardian.org/Subjects/LawAndGovt/LegalEthics/Nonpublication/Arguments/index.htm>

2.8.13.8.1 Background

1. From time immemorial, the test of fair judgment has been the willingness of a court to apply the same rules consistently.
2. Our legal system is based on the principle that each of us is allowed our day in court. Secret opinions destroy this principle because our day in court is no longer open.
3. Selected publication policies of the courts imply that every court of appeal opinion is presumptively unworthy of publication, unless such opinion meets an arbitrary standard that it (1) establishes a new rule of law or alters or modifies an existing rule, 2) involves a legal issue of continuing public interest, or (3) criticizes existing law.

2.8.13.8.2 Publication Procedures Have Been Changed Unilaterally

1. The transition to a policy that comes close to uniform non-publication has been so gradual that very few lawyers, let alone members of the general public, have any idea that this destruction of the appellate system of law has taken place.
2. The movement toward limited publication is usually traced back to the 1971 Annual Report by the Federal Judicial Center.
3. Only a third of federal courts' opinions are now published.
4. In 1997, 93 percent of the opinions and handed down by California appellate justices were unpublished.

- 1 5. Changes in reporting procedures have been put in place throughout the United States unilaterally, only in the last three 2 decades, without any public or legislative input.

3 2.8.13.8.3 Publication is Essential to a Legal System Based on Precedent

- 4 1. The notion and that rulings that are inconsistent with precedent should not be published goes against a fundamental 5 reality: decisions that are inconsistent with the weight of precedent are, by definition, law-making.
6 2. The weight of precedent on a point of law hardens it, making it more difficult to overturn. The sheer number of 7 affirmations allow attorneys to rely on the stability of a doctrine with greater confidence.
8 3. Put a different way: a court may ignore one precedent but rarely a dozen.
9 4. Later cases help flesh out a precedent, and help to make it more understandable.
10 5. The sheer accumulation of a number of seemingly routine decisions on a particular point of law may suggest to the 11 courts, legal practitioners, scholars, the legislature, or the public that problems exist in this area. This may set in motion 12 reform.
13 6. Publication furthers an important institutional goal: maintaining the appearance that justice has been done. Publication
14 is a signal to litigants and observers that court has nothing tied, that the quality of its work in a case is open for public 15 inspection.

16 2.8.13.8.4 Citizens In A Democracy are Entitled to Consistent Treatment from the Courts

- 17 1. The federal courts are not works of art to be protected from the profane and the trivial. Nor are they debating or learned 18 societies that exist to enhance the professional satisfaction of the judges. They are a public resource.
19 2. Explanation is fundamental to our system of justice.
20 3. The signed the opinion assigns responsibility. The author of a bad opinion cannot behind the shield of anonymity;
21 blame or praise worthiness is there for all to see.
22 4. Similarly situated parties are entitled to receive like treatment in the courts. Where there is no assurance that an opinion
23 will be published, no litigant can be certain that his case will be decided by the Court of Appeal in accordance with 24 principles of law followed in similar cases.
25 5. If an appeals court unilaterally changes public law by a decision and then marks that opinions "not for publication," it
26 effectively rules that its changes do not apply to all similar circumstances, but instead, apply only to the appellant.
27 6. An unreported decision means that judgment may be completely different from one person to another even if the facts
28 are exactly the same. By declaring itself unbound by precedent and uncommitted to the future use of precedent, the 29 court makes law for one person only. This is, de facto, a judicial bill of attainder.

30 2.8.13.8.5 Operational Realities of Non-Publication

- 31 1. Nearly all circuits use staff attorneys or staff law clerks to help screen cases for full or summary appellate procedure.
32 The screening decision inevitably coincides to a great extent with the publication decision. Thus, the reliance upon 33 staff attorneys combined with a predisposition toward non-publication seriously diminishes the responsibility that the 34 judge bears for his decisions.
35 2. Because law clerk influence is likely to be the greatest in less important cases, which are not argued and will not be
36 published, diminished quality, once again, will be most prevalent there.
37 3. In practice, publication decisions, once made, are usually cast in concrete, and a party seeking reconsideration is 38 perceived as adverse and meets solid resistance in the court.
39 4. Selective publication undermines fundamental legal functions by limiting the Supreme Court's ability to correct
40 inconsistent appellate decisions where there is no petition for hearing.
41 5. Litigants whose situation is complicated by an unpublished opinion can count on the Supreme Court for relief only in 42 theory. High courts take a few cases, and even fewer that have not been published. For most litigants, then, a court of 43 appeal is the court of last resort.
44 6. Non-publication raises the genuine possibility that a subsequent panel, unaware of a prior result, might reach a contrary
45 result, creating a conflict in the law.
46 7. If there is only one circuit court opinion on issue, another court might feel justified in reaching a different result.
47 However, in several panels or circuit has spoken on different variations of the issue, it will be the rare court which will
48 take a different path. Thus, more published opinions make the law more stable. And conversely, more unpublished 49 opinions destabilize the law.

- 1 8. Non-publication also creates the possibility that a court may decline to publish an opinion to avoid calling attention to 2 the fact that its opinion conflicts with a prior holding.
- 3 9. Judges appear to be caught in a serious dilemma: if they pay no attention to their unpublished decisions, they risk 4 inconsistency; if they consult those opinions, they appear to be using them as precedent.
- 5 10. No citation rules significantly diminish the possibility of review based upon conflict among the circuits. The very 6 notion of a conflict is theoretically attenuated; can be said, for instance, that conflict exists between two circuit courts
7 that have come to opposite results on a single issue when each one insists that its determination is not precedential?
- 8 11. An attorney seeking a writ of certiorari is unlikely to know of the unpublished law of other circuits and therefore, will 9 be unable to draw the Supreme Court's attention to the existence of a conflict.
- 10 12. Similarly, the fact that unpublished opinions are typically not as thorough or as elaborate as reported opinions makes it
11 more difficult for the Supreme Court to determine exactly what the lower court has done and accept the case for 12 review.

13 2.8.13.8.6 Impact Of Non-Publication Inside the Courts

- 14 1. Those who choose what opinions to publish may consciously decide to suppress an opinion they know to be significant 15 enough to publish either to escape review by a higher court, to escape criticism for a controversial decision, or even to 16 allow a court to get away with making a decision contrary to prevailing law.
- 17 2. Unpublished opinions inevitably contribute to conflicts of decision. Unpublished opinions may conflict with other 18 unpublished opinions; worse, existing conflicts between unpublished opinions, and prior, published opinions are 19 considerably more difficult to justify.
- 20 3. The refusal to publish undercuts the ability of appellate divisions to cross check on each court's acumen. This further 21 erodes quality-control.
- 22 4. Many unpublished opinions have been found to be dreadful in quality, clearly falling below minimal standards of legal 23 scholarship and consistency.
- 24 5. The poor writing quality or unnecessary brevity of most unpublished opinions makes it difficult to identify examples of 25 inconsistency or suppressed precedent. Lack of publication thus compounds inequitable treatment under the law.
- 26 6. When errors are not brought to public attention via publication, courts may continue to decide low-profile cases 27 wrongly for years.
- 28 7. Inequality of publication rates within appellate divisions in larger states further compounds the essential inequality of 29 the basic practice of nonpublication. In some California appellate divisions, fewer than 3% of cases are published. This 30 raises fundamental questions about whether the court is fulfilling its constitutional duty.
- 31 8. The criteria for publication cannot help but be applied unevenly. Cases that qualify for publication remained 32 unpublished.
- 33 9. Similarly, procedures for requesting publication work unequally and capriciously. Even if the court is inclined to 34 permit publication (an uncommon occurrence) only the parties and institutional litigants have practical access to 35 unpublished opinions, and they frequently do not have an interest in seeking publication.
- 36 10. Depublication rules have been used by the California Supreme Court and by the appellate courts in order to silence 37 criticism of their own rules by lower courts.

38 2.8.13.8.7 Openness

- 39 1. There is no difference between non-publication of judicial decisions and any other instance of unjustified secrecy in 40 government.
- 41 2. The argument that public interest must be distinguished from public curiosity is without value: it reflects a disregard 42 for the people's right and ability to decide for themselves what aspects of their government's activities are worthy of 43 their attention.
- 44 3. There is no such thing as unnecessary public curiosity with regard to the courts: unlike matters of national security or 45 police intelligence, the courts have nothing to hide.
- 46 4. What goes on in the courts is public business and therefore, unpublished appellate opinions -- whether cut-and-dried or 47 not -- which contain any matters that arguably provide insight into the judicial process should be freely citable, and 48 should -- the same as any other acts of government -- been subject to open public scrutiny and discussion.
- 49 5. Wide publication would reduce, if not eliminate, the wasted time, money, and human effort that is expended daily in 50 pursuing, administering, and terminating fruitless appeals, whose points of law already have been decided in prior 51 unpublished opinions.

6. If a court is not willing to stand by a decision as a valid precedent for all, then the decision should not be made or should be regarded as unenforceable.
7. The lasting authority of a decision depends largely on the quality of its reasoning, which can be evaluated only by reading the opinion.

2.8.13.8.8 Constitutional Considerations

1. Inefficiency of judicial operations is certainly not a desirable objective; it may, however, be a price worth paying if it buys or helps to buy individual liberty.
2. Inequities in publication consist of concerns over fundamental First Amendment rights of petition for redress of grievances and over equal access to the courts which involve both the procedural and the substantial due process provision.
3. Inequities in publication also involve the equal protection provision of the Fourteenth Amendment.
4. Inequities in publication present a challenge to the constitutional strictures that prescribe the duty of adjudication and demand a separation of powers between the legislative and judicial branches of government.
5. The Supreme Court of United States has held repeatedly that the due process clauses of the fifth and fourteenth amendments to the United States Constitution prohibit a vague law because it is like a secret law to which no one has access.
6. Many legal doctrines illustrate the importance of the law being knowable and accessible: for example, the void for vagueness doctrine, limitations on retroactive legislation, restrictions on retroactive overruling of judicial decisions, and requirements regarding prison law libraries.
7. An unpublished appellate decision may create new law de facto, but is unexposed to the scrutiny of the public or the legislature. Moreover, the refusal to publish sends a message that the public in general and other potentially interested parties will never be affected by the law promulgated in this situation.
8. An ever-growing body of decisional law is invaluable asset and the essence of a stable system that renders consistent judgments. New democracies throughout the world specifically bemoan a lack of such precedents. Totalitarian regimes, by definition, act unilaterally, are bound by no precedents, and are unaccountable.

2.8.13.8.9 Opinions Are Necessary, Even in "Insignificant Matters"

1. It is false to condition non-publication on the assumption that most decisions only serve a dispute-settling function among two parties. Readers can compare and evaluate the majority opinion alongside any concurring or dissenting opinions to determine precisely what the court decided, and how far its decision may extend in future cases.
2. Opinions facilitate the discovery of conflicts in the law.
3. Opinions also permit readers to view the law's historical development and trace its impact on the society.
4. Opinions that create inconsistencies must be considered law-making opinions; by definition, they depart noticeably from the established course of decisions. Such opinion should always be published.
5. Unpublished opinions, especially ones that cannot be cited, will generally not receive critical commentary from the bench, the bar, scholars, and the public, for the obvious reason that they will go unnoticed. Moreover, there's little incentive to comment upon an opinion that is not "law."

2.8.13.8.10 Impact On The Legal System In Society

1. Selective publication creates inequality of access to case law by making pertinent and unpublished opinions available largely to institutional and specialized lawyers
2. Selective publication deprives trial judges, lawyers, litigants, and members of society of guidance.
3. Selective publication decreases trial court compliance with the law, thus contributing to increased appellate litigation.
4. The loss of precedent has driven many parties into alternative methods of dispute resolution. Simultaneously, it has made litigation to final judgment after appeal unavoidable because results have become random.
5. Non-publication guarantees inequity in the legal establishment. It produces two classes of lawyers: the uninitiated ordinary practitioner who keeps up with the advance sheets and knows only what he reads there, and the specialist-insider who collects unpublished opinions in his field as well, and therefore possesses a special insight into the thinking of the intermediate appellate courts.
6. Widespread uncertainty in the law erodes professional competence and the confidence of lawyers in the quality of their work. This, in turn, feeds misconduct, which is tolerated until it becomes the norm.

7. Moreover, unequal access to unpublished decisions creates a "grapevine" among appellate judges and their research attorneys, and among attorneys who practice solely in one particular area of the law, whereby earlier unpublished opinions are relied on expressly or implicitly.
8. Nonpublication subverts one of the most important forces in the development of the law: scholarly commentary. One of the most potent analytical tools in the hands of a legal commentator is an abundance of decisional law from which he can extract trends in the law, based on an assessment of how the rule of law is being judicially articulated, or how it may be operating in application.
9. Most important of all, selective publication contributes to popular distrust of the courts.

2.8.13.8.11 Questions to Ponder

1. How can we have the equal protection of the law if the courts have no institutional memory of the manner in which the laws are applied in similar cases?
2. How can we be certain that our judges correctly and honestly state the law, if their decisions are not put out to the people for criticism?
3. How can we ask our legislators to correct the law if we cannot know how the law is actually being applied by our courts?
4. What effect does our right to equal protection of the law have if law can be applied to one person without immediately causing others who would otherwise be affected to complain on that person's behalf when the rule used is illegal, unconstitutional, or unjust?
5. If experience shows that unpublished rulings truly add nothing to law, why do lawyers and judges continue to research unpublished opinions in preparing their briefs?

2.9 The Social Security Fraud

"All socialism involves slavery."
[Herbert Spencer]

"The government that robs Peter to pay Paul can always depend on the support of Paul."
[George Bernard Shaw]

"A democracy cannot exist as a permanent form of government. It can only exist until the voters discover that they can vote themselves money from the Public Treasury. From that moment on, the majority always votes for the candidate promising the most benefits from the Public Treasury with the result that a democracy always collapses over loose fiscal policy always followed by dictatorship."
[Alexander Fraser Tytler, "The Decline and Fall of the Athenian Republic"]

"A tax, in the general understanding of the term and as used in the constitution, signifies an exaction for the support of the government. The word has never thought to connote the expropriation of money from one group for the benefit of another."
[U.S. Supreme Court in United States v. William M. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 (1936)]

2.9.1 Social Security is NOT a contract

We the People were warned by the supreme Court in Helvering v. Davis, 301 U.S. 619, 81 L.Ed. 1307, 57 S.Ct. 904 that Social Security is not insurance but "welfare;" and in Flemming v. Nestor, 363 U.S. 603, 4 L.Ed.2d. 1435, 80 S.Ct. 1367 (1960) that we have no vested interest. Having no vested interest informs us that payment from the Social Security system is discretionary and not obligatory. Congress can change the laws at any time without our consent. Thus, by law and contract, when you retire FICA is not required to compensate you at all!

This leads one to question why we should pay ANYTHING into Social Security and why the government hypocritically regards the Citizen's participation as contractual. After all, when people refuse to contribute to or participate in the voluntary Social Security insurance program, the government and the IRS goes after them as if some kind of unwritten contract that they never explicitly signed has been violated! But how could it be a contract? In most cases, we never signed up. Our parents signed us up, so our explicit consent as an adult was never obtained. A contract based on an application we never personally even completed has to be a fraud. That fraud is described in detail in:

2.9.2 Social Security is Voluntary Not Mandatory

EEOC vs. Information Systems Consulting, Inc.

Because SOCIAL SECURITY IS VOLUNTARY, the Justice Department argued for the EEOC (Equal Employment Opportunity Commission) against an employer in Texas who had, under IRS advice, refused to hire an individual who would not provide a social security number. The complaint was styled as a DISCRIMINATION action.

The discrimination involves both religious convictions, and national origins (Americans are not required).

The IRS refused to appear in court to defend its advice to the employer, who immediately folded when confronted in court with a team of Justice Department lawyers suing him for discrimination. (Who wants to be in court against the Justice Department without any legal facts to stand on ?)

The case proves beyond the shadow of any doubt whatsoever that it is NOT necessary to use a social security number in association with your personal finances and earnings, IF YOU CHOOSE NOT TO, because Social Security IS STRICTLY A VOLUNTARY SYSTEM AND YOU MUST SPECIFICALLY MAKE APPLICATION FOR "BENEFITS" TO PARTICIPATE. If you DO NOT make application, can you be FORCED by the government to take a number ? NO ! Can you be forced to use and supply a number that you do not have, and do not HAVE to have ? NO ! WHY DID YOU APPLY CITIZEN IS SOVEREIGN IN THIS LAND, the first COUNTRY OF KINGS.!

1. From the EEOC's Letter of Determination, Dated May 2, 1990 (p.2):

The evidence supports the charge that there is a violation of Title VII of the 1964 Civil Rights Act, as amended,... Section 706(b) of Title VII requires that if the commission determines there is a reasonable cause to believe that the charge is true, it shall endeavor to eliminate the alleged unlawful employment practice by informal methods, of conference, conciliation, and persuasion, having determined there is reasonable cause to believe the charge is true, the Commission now invites the parties to join with it in a collective effort toward a just resolution of this matter.

2. From the Affidavit of Tim Fitzpatrick, September 29, 1989 (p.3):

After discussions with the IRS, the company discovered that if Mr. Hanson did not provide the company with a Social Security number, the company would be in violation of the Internal Revenue Regulations and subject to various penalties.

3. From the Plaintiff's Response to Defendant's Motion to Dismiss, April 1, 1992 (p.8-9)

"...the Internal Revenue Code and the Regulations promulgated pursuant to the code do not contain an absolute requirement that an employer provide an employee social security number to the IRS.

Internal Revenue Code Section 6109(a)(3) states:

"Any person required under the authority of this title to make a return, statement or other document with respect to another person, shall request from such person, and include in any such return, statement or document, such identifying number as may be prescribed for securing proper identification of such person."
[26 U.S.C. §6109(a)(3) (Supp. 1992)]

The IRS regulation interpreting section 6109 provides:

"If he does not know the taxpayer identifying number of the other person, he shall request such number of the other person. A request should state that the identifying number is required to be furnished under the law. When the person filing the return, statement, or other document does not know the number of the other person, and has complied with the request provision of this paragraph, he shall sign an affidavit on the transmittal document forwarding such returns, statements, or other documents to the Internal Revenue Service so stating.."
[Treas. Reg. 301.6109-1(c) (1991)]

"The applicable IRS statute and regulation place a duty on the employer to request a taxpayer identifying number from the employee. If document must be filed and the employer has been unable to obtain the number but has made the request then the employer need only include as affidavit stating that the request was made."

The Government also avers that:

"In 1989, Internal Revenue Code, Section 6676, 26 U.S.C. and 6676 (1989), set forth the penalties for failing to supply the IRS with identifying numbers as required by the code....a $50.00 penalty will be imposed for failure of an employer to provide an identifying number on any document filed with the IRS unless it is shown that the failure was due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect. The Treasury Regulation interpreting the Statute states:

Under Section 301.609-1(c) a payor is required to request the identifying number of the payee. If after such a request has been made, the payee does not furnish the payor with his identifying number, the penalty will not be assessed against the payor.

However, Internal Revenue Code Section 6724, 26 U.S.C. 6724 (Supp. 1992), provides for a waiver of any penalties assessed under the code upon a showing of reasonable cause. Section 6724(a) provides:

No penalty shall be imposed under this part with respect to any failure if it is shown that such failure is due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect.

4.) From the Consent Decree, dated November 4, 1992 (p.4)

The defendant ... shall be permanently enjoined from terminating an employee or refusing to hire an individual for failure to provide a social security number.... If an employee or applicant for employment advises the defendant that he does not have a social security number....., the defendant shall request, pursuant to Section 6724 of the Internal Revenue Service Code {sic}, 26 U.S.C. §6724, a waiver of any penalties that may be imposed for failing to include an employee social security number on forms and documents submitted to the IRS.

2.9.3 A Legal Con Game (Forbes Magazine, March 27, 1995)

by: Dr. Thomas Sowell. An economist and a senior fellow at the Hoover Institution in Stanford, CA.

"If Social Security were run by private business people, they would have been locked up long ago."

Even the most gung ho budget-cutters in Washington make it a point to say that Social Security is off-limits. From a purely political point of view, it is easy to see why. People who are retired and dependent for at least part of their support (or amenities) on their Social Security checks would of course be outraged and up in arms if the federal government reneged on its promises and pulled the rug out from under them.

While this is the strongest argument against cutting Social Security, it is also the most transient argument. If we are trapped by the promises of the past, we can at least stop making the same promises for the future. Assure all those currently

1 receiving Social Security checks that they will not lose one red cent. Say it loud and clear. Say it on every appropriate
2 occasion and on a few inappropriate ones.

3 Give the same assurances to those within a decade of their eligibility for Social Security. But there is no reason to continue
4 forever subsidizing everyone who reaches a certain age--and it is certainly unconscionable to do so with a regressive tax on
5 the young, who generally have lower incomes and fewer assets than their elders, whom they are subsidizing.

6 If there are elderly people who are needy, let them be subsidized out of general revenues, from which a transitional phase
7 out of Social Security could also be financed.

8 Among those who want Social Security to be left alone, Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan makes the case as well as it can
9 be made when he says that "welfare is not the idea behind Social Security," that it was "envisioned from the beginning as a
10 social-insurance" is not the same thing as an "entitlement." But even this strongest case cannot withstand scrutiny.

11 What does it matter what Social Security was envisioned as? I may envision myself as another Rudolf Nureyev, but that 12 will not stop others from saying that I am a klutz on the dance floor.

13 As for the argument that people who have put contributions in are not welfare recipients when they take money out, that of 14 course all depends on how much they put in and how much they take out. I have been faithfully putting money into a local 15 bank for more than a decade, but if I present the teller with a withdrawal slip for a million dollars, the bank is not about to 16 honor it.

17 Even if I were as eloquent as senator Moynihan, it would remain stubbornly unconvinced and remind me that I never put a 18 million in.

19 The clincher for those who argue like Senator Moynihan is that Social Security is currently running a surplus and that its 20 reserve is expected to reach $3 trillion by the year 2020. Even if we assume that foresight, like hindsight, is 20/20, there is 21 still a lot less to this argument than meets the eye.

22 All of us can run a surplus, if we are allowed to count all our assets and ignore enough of our liabilities. No insurance
23 company can make up its own accounting rules, ignore its accrued liabilities represented by the policies it has promised to 24 pay off, and say that it has a surplus whenever the money it takes in during the morning covers the checks it writes in the 25 afternoon.

26 As for the assets of the Social Security fund, $3 trillion is certainly a lot of money--but not if you owe $4 trillion.

27 The words "insurance" and "contribution"--as in the Federal Insurance Contribution Act (FICA)--are among the political 28 strokes of genius which have made Social Security sacrosanct. Like so much political genius, these words represent pure
29 fraud.

30 The word "insurance serves the political purpose of removing the onus of its being a handout like welfare or other
31 entitlement programs. But a genuine insurance system collects money and invests it in assets which cover its liabilities. It
32 is not insurance but a pyramid scheme in which those who enrolled earlier get what is paid in by those who enroll later.

33 This worked like a charm as long as the pyramid kept expanding, with the baby boomers' contribution being used to support
34 the smaller generation before it. Not only could the first generation receive back far more than it put in, all sorts of new 35 goodies could be added to the Social Security program by a bountiful Congress. But when the baby boomers themselves 36 reach their retirement age, the system will be faced with the same financial problems as other pyramid schemes when the 37 pyramid stops growing.

38 Senator Moynihan says that any future problems can be taken care of if we just "bump up the contribution rate a little." But 39 why is such "bumping up" even necessary, if all the talk about a "surplus" and about people getting back what they 40 contributed is not just political smoke and mirrors?

41 If a system is said to be sound because it can always be rescued later with more tax money, then the same could have been 42 said of the savings and loan industry before its debacle.

2.9.4 The Legal Ponzi Scheme (Forbes Magazine, October 9, 1995)

by: Rita Koseika.

"Younger Americans have come to understand that for them, Social Security isn't a benefit, it's just another tax."

IF the U.S. Government were required to keep its books the way businesses are required to keep theirs, the national debt wouldn't be $5 trillion. It would be about $17 trillion, an amount equal to about 2.5 times the country's gross domestic product.

That $12 trillion difference is the estimated obligation of the government for its unfunded pension liabilities under Social Security.

Karl Borden, a professor of financial economics at the University of Nebraska, has a modest proposal for knocking that number down by a nice round $6 trillion. The Feds, he says, should offer a deal to all Americans under, say, 47. If they would agree to forgo the right to Social Security, they would no longer have to pay their share of payroll taxes. They could keep the 12.4% that Social Security docks from them and their employers on their before-tax incomes. "They could keep just half of that and they'd be better off," he emphasizes.

Without Social Security, who would fund their retirement? They would themselves. They would be allowed to put pretax income into IRA-type accounts. In place of a government pension, they would have a personal nest egg to draw on the retirement. With any luck they would earn a much higher return than their money is worth in the Social Security system.

But why would millions of people want to give up their pension rights, after having paid into Social Security for years? "It's a sucker bet for most of the population," Borden says.

When President Clinton pushed his big tax increase through Congress in 1993, 85% of the Social Security pension became taxable income to people with substantial amounts of other income. This despite the fact that they had already been taxed on the money they put in. If you have savings and a private pension, the U.S. government taxes your Social Security contributions twice--before they go in and when they come out.

That broken promise is probably only a starter. Congress will almost certainly do such things as raise the pensionable retirement age and make Social Security need-based--a safety net rather than a pension plan. In the end only the disabled and seriously needy 70-year olds may get the pension we all paid for.

Uncle Sam won't have much choice but to renege. That $12 trillion in unfunded pension liabilities grows every year with the number of workers who enter the system.

Even if they don't know the specifics, most younger Americans have very low expectations of Social Security. Millions of them might well give up their claims in return for being allowed out of the system.

In our system there is no automatic accounting to the individual, and what he gets at the other end is presented as largesse from our kind Uncle Sam.

Under Borden's proposals the Social Security dropouts, as well as new entrants to the labor force, would join a system modeled after Chile's, which privatized its bankrupt social security system in 1981. In Chile, workers are required to put 10% of their pretax wages in private pension funds; New York based Bankers Trust owns one of the largest fund managers. The funds are carefully regulated, and workers can switch among them for better returns and lower costs. They get periodic statements.

At retirement, Chileans take their money to buy an annuity. Whatever is left can be passed on to their heirs. If there isn't enough to provide a decent living, the government steps in, guaranteeing a minimum.

Note the critical difference between Chile's system and ours. In ours, your Social Security dollars go to help fund the federal deficit. Thus the only assets of the Social Security trust fund are a log of federal I.O.U.s. The trust fund invests not a penny in productive assets. The average current return on that federal paper in the trust fund is around 8%. Had the

1 money been invested in stocks, over the past 25 years the average return would have been more like 11.5% and the
2 pensions would have been far more generous.

3 While you can't credit the entire advantage to its revamped social security system, Chile enjoys a wonderfully high savings
4 rate, well over 20% of gross domestic product. Contrast that with the U.S.' abysmal 3.2%.

5 "Social Security has been a horrifically bad investment for Americans," says economist William Shipman, who co-chairs a
6 study project on Social Security privatization financed by Washington's Cato Institute think tank.

7 "Social Security is the classic playout of a Ponzi pyramid scheme," says Borden. "There are only a few things you can do
8 at this state. One is look for new suckers." His proposal would enable the younger suckers to escape.

9 Borden has nothing but scorn for the Social Security "reform" proposed in May by senators Bob Kerry and Alan Simpson.
10 It would actually broaden the system by including state and local employees in Social Security. Affluent retirees--those 11 earning in the top two-thirds--would have to keep paying into the fund. About the only advantage of this "reform" is that it
12 strips away the pretense that Social Security payments are anything other than another federal tax.

13 A shift to a private system would not be without its problems. Pensions would be vulnerable to a stock market crash and to 14 stock market booms and busts. People could lose their nest eggs by picking the wrong stocks at the wrong time. But 15 averaged over time, the returns will fund higher benefits than pensions in the current system. Also, the private pension
16 money would find its way into investment rather than into financing the federal deficit, and those investments could only
17 raise productivity and the overall American standard of living.

18 Such reforms would not solve the problem of current retirees who have been promised benefits from money that has been,
19 essentially, wasted by the government. Forbes columnist Steven Hanke has a partial solution for this: He says the federal 20 government could sell off some of its huge land holdings and earmark the proceeds for funding the unfunded pensions.
21 "We're not talking about Yosemite here, just the commercially used federal land. Old Faithful is not going on the block,"
22 Hanke assures those who worry about preserving the American wilderness.

23 But however we fund it, the money will have to be found. Says Borden: "That debt exists. Its' s sunk cost. Whatever 24 changes, we still owe people $12 trillion."

25 2.9.5 The Social Security Mess: A Way Out, (Reader's Digest, December 1995)

26 Last year, when a national poll asked adults ages 18 through 34 if they thought Social Security would provide for their 27 retirement, only 28 percent said yes. A higher proportion, 46 percent, believed in UFOs.

28 This skepticism is not confined to young adults. The same poll revealed that half of the current Social Security recipients
29 don't believe the program will exist when their grandchildren retire.

30 Unfortunately, the facts back them up. Government figures clearly show that the long-term financing of Social Security is 31 not secure, and that the shoe will start pinching sooner than many people think.

32 The best-known reason for financing crisis is the huge baby-boom generation. Sometime between 2020 and 2015, the baby
33 boomers will begin to retire, causing Social Security benefit expenditures to explode.

34 But the generation of workers that follows them--and is supposed to pay the taxes to finance the boomers' retirement--will
35 be much smaller, thanks to the birth-control pill and the legalization of abortion. As a result, Social Security contributions 36 will fall short of benefits.

37 Rosy Assumption: Given the advances in biotechnology, genetics and other medical fields, Americans will likely live
38 longer in retirement. That's good news, but if 40 years from now the average baby boomer lives even a few more years
39 than actuaries currently assume, Social Security financing will be overwhelmed.

40 In 1977 and 1982, the Social Security system faced bankruptcy. Both times, payroll taxes were hiked and benefits trimmed
41 to keep the program afloat. The Social Security Administration's latest annual report indicates that in 2030 the SSA will

1 run far short of the funds it needs to pay monthly benefits. By the time today's young workers retire, payroll-tax rates will
2 have to almost double--to nearly 27 percent--to cover all the promised retirement benefits.

3 But even that may be too rosy a scenario. In projecting payroll-tax revenues, the SSA assumes that real wages will grow
4 one percent per year. That's almost twice as fast as they've grown over the past 25 years. If more realistic numbers are
5 used, retirement funds will run short in 2026, and payroll taxes will have to be almost tripled --to more than 40 percent--to 6 cover SSA commitments.

7 "There is no prospect that today's younger workers will receive all the Social Security and Medicare benefits currently
8 promised them," concludes former U.S. Social Security Commissioner Dorcas R. Hardy. "Without fundamental reforms, 9 both programs will be bankrupt before these people retire."

10 The Big Lie. Because today's payroll taxes are projected to cover benefits for another 20 or 30 years, politicians would
11 rather avoid facing the problem. There's only one hitch: the SSA's little-underground trust funds--the Old Age Survivors
12 Insurance (OASDI) Trust Fund, which pays retirement benefits; the Disability Insurance (DI) Trust Fund, which pays
13 disability benefits; and the Hospital Insurance (HI) Trust Fund, which pays Medicare hospitalization benefits.

14 When payroll taxes are collected from today's workers, the cash is deposited in these trust-fund accounts, then paid out as
15 benefits to current retirees. Since 1983 these funds have accumulated huge surpluses. But the surpluses don't sit there
16 waiting for rainy decades when revenues will fall short of payouts. Instead, the SSA lends the cash to the federal 17 government in return for specially issued U.S. Treasury bonds. The trust funds hold these paper promises while the federal 18 government spends the money.

19 But sometime in 2000, tax revenues for all three trust funds combined won't cover the programs' obligations, and the bonds
20 will have to be cashed in. That's when everyone will learn that the federal government holds no cash or other assets to back
21 up the trust-fund bonds. Where will it get the money? Only by increased federal borrowing and a bigger deficit, or by 22 higher taxes and spending cuts. In other words, when the SSA reports a $1 trillion trust fund surplus, it doesn't mean the 23 system is rolling in dough--it's rolling in IOUs signed by us taxpayers.

24 A Fool's Investment. In 2000, the SSA will "cash in" relatively few Treasury bonds, about $1 billion. But these 25 redemptions will rise dramatically--to $51 billion in 2010 and $122 billion by 2015. To put that number in perspective, the 26 entire annual federal deficit currently stands at about $200 billion.

27 But even that's not the whole story, Medicare will be a further strain, because only part of it (hospitalization) is paid by 28 cashing in those IOUs we signed. The rest must be covered by Medicare's Supplementary Medical Insurance (SMI)
29 program, which is bankrolled in part by--you guessed it--general tax revenues. By 2015 the combination of Social Security
30 trust fund withdrawals and Medicare SMI would increase the federal deficit by a mind-boggling $270 billion. AT that 31 point, the taxes necessary to keep the system solvent could sink the economy.

32 The final irony is that even if all these future problems didn't exist, Social Security is still a bad deal for today's young
33 workers. If you treated their payroll taxes as an investment, the real rate of return upon payment of benefits would be one
34 percent or less. For many, the real return would be zero or even negative.

35 "At the average return earned on stocks or bonds over the past 45 years," notes Bill Shipman, a principal with State Street
36 Global Advisors, one of the world's largest pension management investment firms, "Today's young workers would earn 37 much higher benefits investing on their own rather than through Social Security."

38 Take an example from a study by the National Chamber Foundation: a couple entering the work force and earning average
39 incomes in the mid 1980s. If they privately invested in the stock market all the payroll taxes they and their employer would 40 otherwise have paid into Social Security--even at a mere four-percent return (just over half the stock-market performance
41 over the past 70 years)--they would retire with a nest egg of more than $1 million in today's dollars. The interest alone
42 from the nest egg would be higher than Social Security. The whole fund could be used to pay three times the benefits
43 Social Security promises.

44 Low-income workers could be far better off too. According to Shipman, a low-income couple who put their payroll taxes
45 into a modest-return bond fund would receive almost 50-percent more in benefits than they would get from Social Security.

1 A Proven Alternative. Last year the Bipartisan Commission on Entitlement and Tax Reform looked into the long-range
2 fiscal ills of the Social Security. No single answer emerged, but the press focused mostly on a proposal by the
3 commission's co-chairmen, Sen. Bob Kerrey (D., Neb.) and then-Senator John Danforth (R. Mo.), to sharply cut future
4 benefits while maintaining today's payroll taxes.

5 These changes might solve the long-term financing problem, but they would make Social Security an even worse deal than 6 it already is.

7 The one bright spot in the commission's hearings was a proposal to let workers shift their payroll taxes into personal
8 investments similar to Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA).

9 To most Americans having grown up under Social Security, such a "privatized" pension program might seem hopelessly
10 utopian. But one program of this type already exists--and flourishes--south of our border.

11 By the late 1970s, Chile's social security system had many of the same problems that beset ours today. Payroll taxes
12 exceeded 26 percent, but the system had to be supplemented with large subsidies, ballooning the national deficit. That's 13 when some U.S. -educated Chilean economists persuaded the government there was a way out of its social-security mess:
14 allow workers to opt out of the government system and invest for retirement in IRAs. The plan was enacted in 1981.

15 Under its provisions, Chilean workers who enter the labor market or decide to leave the state-run system are required to put 16 at least ten percent of their paycheck into an IRA managed by any of 21 authorized private investment companies. The 17 companies are regulated to ensure at least a minimum in returns.

18 Chile's retirement age is 65 for men and 60 for women, but workers may retire earlier once they accumulate sufficient funds
19 to pay a minimum level of benefits through extra, voluntary contributions or by higher-than-expected investment
20 performance. Workers' accounts also fund the purchase of life, disability and health insurance. This private coverage
21 replaces government benefits paid under the old system.

22 All benefits under Chile's private system are raised annually by a cost-of-living adjustment. This has been possible because 23 the investments in the individual pension accounts have outpaced inflation. Unpaid benefits owed by the old system are 24 covered by general tax revenues and the issuance of government bonds.

25 The Chilean experience shows it is possible to fulfill the obligations made to retirees in a government-run system while still 26 letting workers move into a new privatized one--all without suffocatingly high taxes.

27 Chile's innovative system is highly popular--about 90 percent of workers are not in the new system, and it is expected that 28 the government alternative will disappear in time. That's not surprising, since the old system collects up to about two-thirds 29 more in taxes, yet ultimately pays back about 40 percent less.

30 Seizing on Chile's experience, Argentina and Peru are implementing private systems, and there is support for such reform in 31 the United States as well. The same survey that showed such pessimism about the U.S. Social Security system found that 32 young and old alike favor privatization far more than delaying the retirement age or scaling back benefits.

33 "Chile has demonstrated that a private option for Social Security can be highly successful and beneficial," says Norman
34 Ture, former U.S. Undersecretary of the treasury, "We should begin seriously considering one ourselves."

41 [James Madison]

42
43 "Democracy is a form of government that cannot long survive, for as soon as the people learn that they have a voice in the

20 2.11 Evidence of How Our System Has Been Corrupted and what we need to fix

21 We will now give you a few anecdotes and pearls of wisdom that help reveal from a spiritual perspective why our system of government in the United States of America has become totally corrupted and unrecognizable from its de jure Constitutional foundations. This will help us focus in later chapters upon what we need to fix and how we need to fix it.

24 2.11.1 The Bill of No Rights

25 "We, the sensible people of the United States, in an attempt to help everyone get along, restore some semblance of Justice, avoid any more riots, keep our country safe, promote positive behavior, and secure the blessings of debt-free liberty to ourselves and our great-great-great-grandchildren, hereby try one more time to ordain and establish some common sense guidelines for the terminally whiny, guilt-ridden, deluded, and other liberal Bed-wetters.

26
27
28 We hold these truths to be self-evident: that a whole lot of people are confused by the Bill of Rights and are so dim that they require a Bill of No Rights."

29
30
31 ARTICLE I: You do not have the right to a new car, big screen TV or any other form of wealth. More power to you if you can legally acquire them, but no one is guaranteeing anything.

32
33 ARTICLE II: You do not have the right to never be offended. This country is based on freedom, and that means freedom for everyone - not just you! You may leave the room, change the channel, express a different opinion, etc., but the world is full of idiots, and probably always will be.

34
36 ARTICLE III: You do not have the right to be free from harm. If you stick a screwdriver in your eye, learn to be more careful. Do not expect the tool manufacturer to make you and all your relatives independently wealthy.

37
38 ARTICLE IV: You do not have the right to free food and housing. Americans are the most charitable people to be found, and will gladly help anyone in need, but we are quickly growing weary of subsidizing generation after generation of professional couch potatoes who achieve nothing more than the creation of another generation of professional couch potatoes.

39
41
42 ARTICLE V: You do not have the right to free health care. That would be nice, but from the looks of public housing, we're just not interested in public health care.

43
44 ARTICLE VI: You do not have the right to physically harm other people. If you kidnap, rape, intentionally maim, or kill someone, don't be surprised if the rest of us want to see you fry in the electric chair.

ARTICLE VII: You do not have the right to the possessions of others. If you rob, cheat or coerce away the goods or services of other citizens, don't be surprised if the rest of us get together and lock you away in a place where you still won't have the right to a big screen color TV or a life of leisure.

ARTICLE VIII: You don't have the right to demand that our children risk their lives in foreign wars to soothe your aching conscience. We hate oppressive governments and won't lift a finger to stop you from going to fight if you'd like. However, we do not enjoy parenting the entire world and do not want to spend so much of our time battling each and every little tyrant with a military uniform and a funny hat.

ARTICLE IX: You don't have the right to a job. All of us sure want all of you to have one, and will gladly help you along in hard times, but we expect you to take advantage of the opportunities of education and vocational training laid before you to make yourself useful.

ARTICLE X: You do not have the right to happiness. Being an American means that you have the right to pursue happiness -- which, by the way, is a lot easier if you are unencumbered by an overabundance of idiotic laws created by those of you who were confused by the Bill of Rights.

2.11.2 Am I A Bad American?-Absolutely NOT!

Someone sent us this via email and we think it is so insightful and so descriptive about our social responsibilities here in America, we wanted to share it with all of you:

AM I A BAD AMERICAN?...I'M THINKING NOT!

I believe the money I make belongs to me and my family, not some middle-aged governmental functionary with a bad comb-over who wants to give it away to crack addicts making babies so that I can help support them.

I don't care about appearing compassionate. I already support causes that I believe are worthwhile, charitable, educational, and religious. I don't need any liberal minion on the government payroll to tell me how, when, or where I need to show compassion.

I think I'm doing better than the homeless and I absolutely should not feel guilty about it.

I don't think being a minority makes you noble nor victimized.

I don't think playing with toy guns makes you a killer.

I believe it's called the Boy Scouts for a reason.

I have the right not to be tolerant of others. There are a lot of screwed up people out there; card-carrying members of the largest cult in society - dysfunction. As long as I'm responsible for me and my own legal behavior, I don't have to tolerate those assholes, no matter their race, creed, or color.

I like big houses, cars, boats, and planes.

I believe that if you are selling me Dairy Queen ice cream, a KFC box of chicken, or a hotel room - you do it in English. As a matter of fact, if you are going to live in this country, you should learn to read and speak English. That would be the civil thing to do. English happens to also be the dominant language on the Internet. Gee, I wonder why? Our ancestors did not have to die in vain so that someone could leave the country they were born in to come here and disrespect ours.

I think the cops have every right to shoot your sorry ass if you're running from them after they tell you to stop. If you can't understand the word "freeze," or "stop!" in English, see the previous line.

I don't use the excuse "it's for the children" as a shield for stupid opinions or actions.

If I received oral sex from one of my subordinate employees in my office, it wouldn't be "a private matter" or my "personal business." I would have been FIRED immediately.

I know what the definition of lying is. I know what the definition of "is" is, too...

1 I don't think that just because you were not born in this country, you qualify for some special loan program,
 2 government sponsored bank loan, etc., so you can open a hotel, convenience store, trinket shop, or anything
 3 else. That is bullshit.

4 I believe that no one ever died because of something Ozzy Osbourne, Eminem or Marilyn Manson sang, but that
 5 doesn't mean I want to listen to that crap from someone else's car when I'm stopped at a red light. But I respect
 6 your right to be really stupid.

7 I don't think that being a student gives you any more enlightenment than working at Blockbuster Video or Jack
 8 In The Box.

9 We did not go to some foreign country and risk lives in vain to defend our constitution so that decades later you
 10 can tell us it's a living document ever changing and is open to interpretation.

11 I don't hate the rich. If they invented it, built it, sold it, and/or serviced it - I respect them. The only rich I cannot 12 respect are those who inherited it.

13 I don't pity the poor.

14 I've never owned a slave. Neither did my father, or his father, or his father, etc. If you go back far enough you
 15 can find shitty circumstances that impacted most of our predecessors' lives. Get over it. Equal opportunity
 16 means you do the same and you get the same - not you do less and expect more.

17 I believe a self-righteous liberal with a cause is more dangerous than an armed Hell's Angel with an attitude.

18 I own a gun, you can own a gun, and any red blooded American should be allowed to own a gun, but if you use
 19 it in a crime then you will serve the time. Not probation and not a plea bargain - you serve time. And clean up
 20 our highways while you do the time. By the way, a rubber band and a sharp paper clip is a dangerous weapon
 21 in the hands of someone with malicious intent.

22 I worry about dying before I get even.

23 I think Bill Gates has every right to keep every penny he made and continue to make more. If it pisses you off,
 24 invent something better and put your name on the building.

25 We don't need more laws ! Let's enforce the ones we already have.

26 It doesn't take a village to raise a child, it takes a parent with the balls to stand up to the kid and spank his butt
 27 and say "NO !" Discipline means to instruct, correct and punish. Good parents do that.

28 I think tattoos and piercing are fine if you want them, but please don't pretend they are a political statement.

29 I didn't realize Dr. Seuss was a genius until I had a kid.

30 I will not be frowned upon or be looked down upon or be made to keep silent because I have these beliefs and 31 opinions. This country guarantees me that right. I will not conform or compromise just to keep from hurting
 32 somebody's feelings. We, the silent responsible majority, expect reasonable, moderate behavior from our 33 friends and our neighbors, not to mention our politicians.

34 Don't take my time or tax dollars for anything else.

35 I am sick to death of "Political Correctness."

36 I'm neither angry nor disenfranchised, no matter how desperately the media would like the world to believe 37 otherwise.

38 I am not a bad American, I am a Great American !!

39 2.11.3 How to Teach Your Child About Politics<sup>21</sup>

40 Because I write about politics, people are forever asking me the best way to teach children how our system of 41 government works. I tell them that they can give their own children a basic civics course right in their own homes. In my own experience as a father, I have discovered several simple devices that can illustrate to a child's mind the principles on which the modern state deals with its citizens. You may find them helpful, too.

For example, I used to play the simple card game WAR with my son. After a while, when he thoroughly understood that the higher ranking cards beat the lower ranking ones, I created a new game I called GOVERNMENT. In this game, I was Government, and I won every trick, regardless of who had the better card. My boy soon lost interest in my new game, but I like to think it taught him a valuable lesson for later in life.

When your child is a little older, you can teach him about our tax system in a way that is easy to grasp. Offer him, say, $10 to mow the lawn. When he has mowed it and asks to be paid, withhold $5 and explain that this is income tax. Give $1 to his younger brother, and tell him that this is "fair". Also, explain that you need the other $4 yourself to cover the administrative costs of dividing the money. When he cries, tell him he is being "selfish" and "greedy". Later in life he will thank you.

Make as many rules as possible. Leave the reasons for them obscure. Enforce them arbitrarily. Accuse your child of breaking rules you have never told him about. Keep him anxious that he may be violating commands you haven't yet issued. Instill in him the feeling that rules are utterly irrational. This will prepare him for living under democratic government.

When your child has matured sufficiently to understand how the judicial system works, set a bedtime for him and then send him to bed an hour early. When he tearfully accuses you of breaking the rules, explain that you made the rules and you can interpret them in any way that seems appropriate to you, according to changing conditions. This will prepare him for the Supreme Court's concept of the U.S. Constitution as a "living document". Promise often to take him to the movies or the zoo, and then, at the appointed hour, recline in an easy chair with a newspaper and tell him you have changed your plans. When he screams, "But you promised!", explain to him that it was a campaign promise. Every now and then, without warning, slap your child. Then explain that this is defense. Tell him that you must be vigilant at all times to stop any potential enemy before he gets big enough to hurt you. This, too, your child will appreciate, not right at that moment, maybe, but later in life. At times your child will naturally express discontent with your methods. He may even give voice to a petulant wish that he lived with another family. To forestall and minimize this reaction, tell him how lucky he is to be with you the most loving and indulgent parent in the world, and recount lurid stories of the cruelties of other parents. This will make him loyal to you and, later, receptive to schoolroom claims that the America of the postmodern welfare state is still the best and freest country on Earth.

This brings me to the most important child-rearing technique of all: lying. Lie to your child constantly. Teach him that words mean nothing - or rather that the meanings of words are continually "evolving", and may be tomorrow the opposite of what they are today.

Some readers may object that this is a poor way to raise a child. A few may even call it child abuse. But that's the whole point: Child abuse is the best preparation for adult life under our form of GOVERNMENT.

That having been said, let's compare what the Supreme Court has to say about this kind of despicable behavior by the government:

"Decency, Security, and liberty alike demand that government officials shall be subjected to the same rules of conduct that are commands to the citizen. In a government of laws, existence of the government will be imperiled if it fails to observe the law scrupulously. Our government is the potent, the omnipresent teacher. For good or for ill, it teaches the whole people by its example. Crime is contagious. If the government becomes a lawbreaker, it breeds contempt for the law; it invites every man to become a law unto himself; it invites anarchy. To declare that in the administration of the criminal law the end justifies the means...would bring terrible retribution. Against that pernicious doctrine this Court should resolutely set its face."
[Justice Brandeis, Olmstead v. United States, 277 U.S. 438, 485 (1928)]

2.11.4 If Noah Were Alive Today

And the Lord spoke to Noah and said, "In one year, I am going to make it Rain and cover the whole earth with water until all flesh is destroyed.

But I want you to save the righteous people and two of every kind of living Thing on the earth. Therefore, I am commanding you to build an Ark." In a flash of lightening, God delivered the specifications for an Ark. In fear and trembling, Noah took the plans and agreed to build the Ark. "Remember" said the Lord, "You must complete the Ark and bring everything aboard in one year." Exactly one-year later, fierce storm clouds covered the earth and all the seas of the earth went into a tumult. The Lord saw that Noah was sitting in his front yard weeping. "CHRISTIANS:Noah", He shouted. "Where is the Ark?"

"Lord, please forgive me!" cried Noah. "I did my best, but there were big problems. First, I had to get a permit for construction and your plans did not meet the codes. I had to hire an engineering firm and redraw the plans.

Then I got into a fight with OSHA over whether or not the Ark needed a Fire sprinkler system and floatation devices. Then my neighbor objected, claiming I was violating zoning ordinances by building the Ark in my front yard, so I had to get a variance from the city planning commission. Then I had problems getting enough wood for the Ark, because there was a ban on cutting trees to protect the Spotted Owl. I finally convinced the US Forest Service that I needed the wood to save the owls. However, the Fish and Wildlife Service won't let me catch any owls. So, no owls. The carpenters formed a union and went out on strike. I had to negotiate a settlement with the National Labor Relations Board before anyone would pick up a saw or a hammer. Now I have 16 carpenters on the Ark, but still no owls.

When I started rounding up the other animals, I was sued by an animal rights group. They objected to me only taking two of each kind aboard. Just when I got the suit dismissed, the EPA notified me that I could not complete the Ark without filing an Environmental impact statement on your proposed flood. They didn't taken very kindly to The idea that they had no jurisdiction over the conduct of the Creator of The universe. Then the Army Engineers demanded a map of the proposed new Flood plain. I sent them a globe. Right now, I am trying to resolve a Complaint filed with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission that I am practicing discrimination by not taking godless, unbelieving people aboard.

The IRS has seized my assets, claiming that I'm building the Ark in preparation to Flee the country to avoid paying taxes. I just got a notice from the state that I owe them some kind of user tax and failed to register the Ark as a "recreational water craft." Finally, the ACLU (the American Communist Lawyers Union) got the courts to issue an injunction against further construction of the Ark, saying that since God is flooding the earth, it is a religious event and therefore, unconstitutional. I really don't think I can finish the Ark for another five or six years." Noah wailed. The sky began to clear; the sun began to shine and the seas began to calm. A rainbow arched across the sky. Noah looked up hopefully.

"You mean You are not going to destroy the earth Lord?"

"No," said the Lord sadly. "I don't have to. The government already has."

2.11.5 Prayer at the Opening of the Kansas Senate

When minister Joe Wright was asked to open the new session of the Kansas Senate, everyone was expecting the usual politically correct generalities, but what they heard instead was a stirring prayer, passionately calling our country to repentance and righteousness.

The response was immediate. A number of legislators walked out during the prayer in protest. In six short weeks, the Central Christian Church had logged more than 5,000 phone calls with only 47 of those calls responding negatively. The church is now receiving international requests for copies of the prayer from India, Africa and Korea.

Commentator PAUL HARVEY aired the prayer on The Rest of the Story on the radio and received a larger response to this program than any other he has ever aired!

THE PRAYER

Heavenly Father, we come before you today to ask Your forgiveness and to seek Your direction and guidance. We know Your Word says, "Woe on those who call evil good," but that's exactly what we have done. We have lost our spiritual equilibrium and reversed our values. We confess that:

We have ridiculed the absolute truth of Your Word and called it pluralism.

We have worshiped other gods and called it multiculturalism.

We have endorsed perversion and called it an alternative lifestyle.

We have exploited the poor and called it the lottery.

We have neglected the needy and called it self-preservation.

1                    We have rewarded laziness and called it welfare.

2                    We have killed our unborn children and called it a choice.

3                    We have shot abortionists and called it justifiable.

4                    We have neglected to discipline our children and called it building self-esteem.

5                    We have abused power and called it political savvy.

6                    We have coveted our neighbor's possessions and called it ambition.

7                    We have polluted the air with profanity and pornography and called it freedom of expression.

8                    We have ridiculed the time-honored values of our forefathers and called it enlightenment.

9                    Search us, O God, and know our hearts today; cleanse us from every sin and set us free. Guide and bless these
 10                    men and women who have been sent to direct us to the center of Your will. I ask it in the name of Your Son, the 11                    living Savior, Jesus Christ. Amen.

12    2.11.6    The Ghost of Valley Forge

13
 14    I had a dream the other night I didn't understand,
 15    A figure walking through the mist, with flintlock in his hand.

16    His clothes were torn and dirty, as he stood there by my bed,
 17    He took off his three-cornered hat, and speaking low he said:

18    "We fought a revolution to secure our liberty,
 19    We wrote the Constitution, as a shield from tyranny.

20    For future generations, this legacy we gave,
 21    In this, the land of the free and home of the brave.

22    The freedom we secured for you, we hoped you'd always keep,
 23    But tyrants labored endlessly while your parents were asleep.

24    Your freedom gone -- your courage lost -- you're no more than a slave,
 25    In this, the land of the free and the home of the brave.

1 You buy permits to travel, and permits to own a gun,
2 Permits to start a business, or to build a place for one.

3 On land that you believe you own, you pay a yearly rent,
4 Although you have no voice in choosing how the money's spent.

5 Your children must attend a school that doesn't educate,
6 Your moral values can't be taught, according to the state.

7 You read about the current "news" in a very biased press,
8 You pay a tax you do not owe, to please the IRS.

9 Your money is no longer made of silver or of gold,
10 You trade your wealth for paper, so life can be controlled.

11 You pay for crimes that make our Country turn from God to shame,
12 You've taken Satan's number, as you've traded in your name.

13 You've given government control to those who do you harm,
14 So they can padlock churches, and steal the family farm.

15 And keep our country deep in debt, put men of God in jail,
16 Harass your fellow countryman while corrupted courts prevail.

17 Your public servants don't uphold the solemn oath they've sworn,
18 Your daughters visit doctors so children won't be born.

19 Your leaders ship artillery and guns to foreign shores,
20 And send your sons to slaughter, fighting other people's wars.

21 Can you regain your Freedom for which we fought and died?
22 Or don't you have the courage, or the faith to stand with pride?

23 Are there no more values for which you'll fight to save?
24 Or do you wish your children live in fear and be a slave?

25 Sons of the Republic, arise and take a stand!
26 Defend the Constitution, the Supreme Law of the Land!

27 Preserve our Republic, and each God-given right!
28 And pray to God to keep the torch of freedom burning bright!"

29 As I awoke he vanished, in the mist from whence he came,
30 His words were true, we are not free, and we have ourselves to blame.

31 For even now as tyrants trample each God-given right,
32 We only watch and tremble -- too afraid to stand and fight.

33 If he stood by your bedside in a dream while you're asleep,
34 And wonder what remains of your right he fought to keep.

35 What would be your answer if he called out from the grave?
36 Is this still the land of the free and home of the brave?

Last Will and Testament Of Jesse Franklin Cornish

9 I, Jesse Cornish, being of sound mind. do of my own accord, make this last will, bequeathing all of my earthly possessions
10 as follows:

11 To my son, Jesse, and my daughter, Candy, I leave all my owned real estate and equities and all my liquid assets in the 12 form of checking, savings, and other money accounts to share and share alike.

13 To my son, Jesse, I leave my guns, fishing gear, boats and all other personal effects a father would normally pass on to his 14 son.

15 To my daughter, Candy, I leave the things her mother left. I leave her also certain family treasures, and pieces or collected
16 art described on the attached sheets.

17 To both my son, Jesse, and my daughter, Candy, I leave my total collection of African art goods. my automobiles. items of 18 jewelry, photographs, music albums, and all household valuables to share and share alike.

19 To my grandchildren, I leave the faith and hope that your parents will pass on to you whatever is left of this bequest on 20 their demise. And to this I pray that they will add their lot. The bequests I have named appear in the will that is it be 21 probated. It is already in the hands of my lawyers who will see it through for you.

22 In your own safe-deposit boxes, where you found this private copy is a sealed letter addressed to each of you. You may 23 open it now. Inside you will find specific instructions leading you to the location of special forms of assets I have secured
24 and left for you. This wealth may well be the only thing of real value I have to pass on to you.

25 It is in the form of gold and silver coins and bullion. Nobody knows I bought it, there is no record of them, and nobody 26 knows where they are except you today.

27 I did not buy it to speculate. I bought it to get out of paper assets and to preserve capital.

28 The bullion coins are worth five times what I paid for them and some or the numismatic coins have appreciated over 6000
29 percent in the last ten years. As the next inflationary cycle reaches double digit, their values will also double.

30 The numismatic, rare coins along with their certification are in the packets here that bear your names. In your names also
31 are these storage receipts from the warehouses in Montreal and Dallas. They represent the numerous pieces of fine ivory
32 and ebony art carvings I brought out of Africa over the years. You may claim them in person at any time. All of these items
33 are in demand and maintain high liquidity.

34 I depart this life with the prayer that you will have the foresight and self-discipline to leave it as it is until this country
35 regains fiscal sanity. When that finally comes about, there will be complete monetary reform.

36 Your gold, silver, and ivory will buy this new form of currency and could well be your only hope for financial survival.
37 When I purchased the uncirculated coins to put away for you, I was afraid and didn't buy enough. Now I see they have 38 provided the highest appreciation of all, and any further additions to this private part of my bequests to you will include
39 more of the same. It grieves me to inform you that I have also passed on to you a "Legacy of Debt."

40 My generation found a way to lead the good life by borrowing from yours. We have lived out the last thirty years in a credit
41 "dream world" of luxury and affluence and monetized the massive debt by offering the next two generations as collateral.

1 The material wealth I leave to you will not even begin to pay your share of the bill we ran up during your lifetime and it
2 will haunt you and cause you to ask, "How could my dad do this?"

3 Please know it was not what I did, but rather, what I failed to do. I just didn't bother to get personally involved in the affairs
4 of government at any level.

5 I filled my days to earn large sums of dollars and spent too many nights celebrating when I did. Like millions of others, I
6 stood by as inept elected officials bought votes with your money and changed America from a capitalistic, free enterprise
7 country to a land ever-approaching mandated socialism.

8 The conventional investments I planned for your future failed the break-even point years ago. Savings, common stocks, and 9 money funds were tied to the shrinking dollar and eroded away with inflation and taxes, just as they will when this
10 economy turns around to monetize the most massive debt in history.

11 Over the past 15 years, most of my income was taken away in taxes to finance the enormous bureaucracy that now has a
12 strangle hold on every aspect of our economy.

13 Even as I write this. I see the vultures circling -waiting to pick apart the probated portion of this will that was already 14 riddled with taxes as I tried to keep it alive.

15 My final prayer is that you will use my shortcomings as a warning light to guide your way. And that you will try to find
16 forgiveness in your hearts for the things I failed to do.

17 Get involved. Help get America back into the hands of the earners and the producers.

18 From my generation you have learned that you cannot feed and house the whole world. You also learned that the country's 19 banks do not deserve blind faith. 60 of them failed this past year and 750 more are in trouble with assets represented by 20 over-extended credit.

21 Don't be afraid of what lies out there ahead, and don't ever feel guilty about what you earned yourself. Don't let elected
22 officials give it away to the plunderers for the sake of re-election and self-enrichment.

23 When the day comes for you to retire, the Social Security program will be bankrupt and gone. I paid into it for nearly forty 24 years but never withdrew a dime.

25 There is an automatic $275 burial fee you could withdraw for my funeral expenses. I have already designated funds to 26 cover this so please turn it down and afford me the last dignity of paying my own way out.

27 In everlasting love,

28
29
30 Your dad,

31

39 2.11.8 America?

40 Is the America described below the type of place you would be proud to call your home and your country? Is it still the 41 "land of the free and home of the brave?" We don't think so. Instead, our government steals our money, uses it to 42 subsidize failure and socialism, and then asks for yet more money to correct the problems that such failed policies produce.

1 Any civilization that subsidizes and encourages failure and irresponsibility and decadence on the scale and of the kind
2 described below is doomed to certain self destruction. The question is not if our society will collapse, but how long, unless
3 we mend our ways, repent for our sins, and engage ourselves politically to force change and capitalism once again.

4 I come for visit, get treated regal,
5 So I stay, who care I illegal?
6 I cross border, poor and broke,
7 Take bus, see employment folk.

8 Nice man treat me good in there,
9 Say I need to see welfare.
10 Welfare say, "You come no more,
11 We send cash right to your door."

12 Welfare checks, they make you wealthy,
13 Medicaid it keep you healthy!
14 By and by, I got plenty money,
15 Thanks to you, American dummy.

16 Write to friends in motherland,
17 Tell them come as fast as you can.
18 They come in rags and Chebby trucks,
19 I buy big house with welfare bucks.

20 They come here, we live together,
21 More welfare checks, it gets better!
22 Fourteen families they moving in,
23 But neighbor's patience wearing thin.

24 Finally, white guy moves away,
25 Now I buy his house, and then I say,
26 "Find more aliens for house to rent."
27 And in the yard I put a tent.

28 Send for family (they just trash),
29 But they, too, draw the welfare cash!
30 Everything is mucho good,
31 And soon we own the neighborhood.

32 We have hobby--it's called breeding,
33 Welfare pay for baby feeding.
34 Kids need dentist? Wife need pills?
35 We get free! We got no bills!

36 American crazy! He pay all year,
37 To keep welfare running here.
38 We think America darn good place!
39 Too darn good for the white man race.

40 If they no like us, they can go,
41 Got lots of room in Mexico.

42 SEND THIS TO EVERY AMERICAN TAXPAYER YOU KNOW.

43 2.11.9 Grateful Slave

44 We downloaded the poem below off the internet. Replace "Master" with "IRS" and "Federal Reserve" and you will know
45 what the point of this book is all about. Our public servants have sold out our country chasing after the almighty dollar.
46 We have become slaves of debt and slaves of the IRS and the Federal Reserve in the process.

47 GRATEFUL SLAVE

48 I am a grateful slave.
49 My master is a good man.

1 He gives me food, shelter, work and other things.
2 All he requires in return is that I obey him.
3 I am told he has the power to control my life.
4 I look up to him, and wish that I were so powerful.

5 My master must understand the world better than I,
6 because he was chosen by many others for his respected position.
7 I sometimes complain, but fear I cannot live without his help.
8 He is a good man.

9 My master protects my money from theft, before and after he takes half of it.
10 Before taking his half, he says only he can protect my money.
11 After taking it, he says it is still mine.
12 When he spends my money, he says I own the things he has bought.
13 I don't understand this, but I believe him.
14 He is a good man.

15 I need my master for protection, because others would hurt me.
16 Or, they would take my money and use it for themselves.
17 My master is better than them:
18 When my master takes my money, I still own it.
19 The things he buys are mine.
20 I cannot sell them, or decide how they are used, but they are mine.
21 My master tells me so, and I believe him.
22 He is a good man.

23 My master provides free education for my children.
24 He teaches them to respect and obey him and all future masters they will have.
25 He says they are being taught well; learning things they will need to know in the future.
26 I believe him.
27 He is a good man.

28 My master cares about other masters, who don't have good slaves.
29 He makes me contribute to their support.
30 I don't understand why slaves must work for more than one master, but my master says it is necessary.
31 I believe him.
32 He is a good man.

33 Other slaves ask my master for some of my money.
34 Since he is good to them as he is to me, he agrees.
35 This means he must take more of my money; but he says this is good for me.
36 I ask my master why it would not be better to let each of us keep our own money.
37 He says it is because he knows what is best for each of us.
38 We believe him.
39 He is a good man.

40 My master tells me:
41 Evil masters in other places are not as good as he; they threaten our comfortable lifestyle and peace.
42 So, he sends my children to fight the slaves of evil masters.
43 I mourn their deaths, but my master says it is necessary.
44 He gives me medals for their sacrifice, and I believe him.
45 He is a good man.

46 Good masters sometimes have to kill evil masters, and their slaves.
47 This is necessary to preserve our way of life; to show others that our version of slavery is the best.
48 I asked my master:
49 Why do evil masters' slaves have to be killed, along with their evil master?

1 He said: "Because they carry out his evil deeds."
2 "Besides, they could never learn our system; they have been indoctrinated to believe that only their master is good."
3 My master knows what is best.
4 He protects me and my children.
5 He is a good man.

6 My master lets me vote for a new master, every few years.
7 I cannot vote to have no master, but he generously lets me choose between two candidates he has selected.
8 I eagerly wait until election day, since voting allows me to forget that I am a slave.
9 Until then, my current master tells me what to do.
10 I accept this.
11 It has always been so, and I would not change tradition.
12 My master is a good man.

13 At the last election, about half the slaves were allowed to vote.
14 The other half had broken rules set by the master, or were not thought by him to be fit.
15 Those who break the rules should know better than to disobey!
16 Those not considered fit should gratefully accept the master chosen for them by others.
17 It is right, because we have always done it this way.
18 My master is a good man.

19 There were two candidates.
20 One received a majority of the vote - about one-fourth of the slave population.
21 I asked why the new master can rule over all the slaves, if he only received votes from one-fourth of them?
22 My master said: "Because some wise masters long ago did it that way."
23 "Besides, you are the slaves; and we are the master."
24 I did not understand his answer, but I believed him.
25 My master knows what is best for me.
26 He is a good man.

27 Some slaves have evil masters.
28 They take more than half of their slaves' money and are chosen by only one-tenth, rather than one-fourth, of their slaves.
29 My master says they are different from him.
30 I believe him.
31 He is a good man.

32 I asked if I could ever become a master, instead of a slave.
33 My master said, "Yes, anything is possible."
34 "But first you must pledge allegiance to your present master, and promise not to abandon the system that made you a 35 slave."
36 I am encouraged by this possibility.
37 My master is a good man.

38 He tells me slaves are the real masters, because they can vote for their masters.
39 I do not understand this, but I believe him.
40 He is a good man; who lives for no other purpose than to make his slaves happy.

41 I asked if I could be neither a master nor a slave.
42 My master said, "No, you must be one or the other."
43 "There are no other choices."
44 I believe him.
45 He knows best.
46 He is a good man.

47 I asked my master how our system is different, from those evil masters.
48 He said: "In our system, masters work for the slaves."
49 No longer confused, I am beginning to accept his logic.

1 Now I see it!
2 Slaves are in control of their masters, because they can choose new masters every few years.
3 When the masters appear to control the slaves in between elections, it is all a grand delusion!
4 In reality, they are carrying out the slaves' desires.
5 For if this were not so, they would not have been chosen in the last election.
6 How clear it is to me now!
7 I shall never doubt the system again.
8 My master is a good man.

9 2.11.10 Economics 101

10 Suppose that every day 10 men go to a restaurant for dinner. The bill for all ten comes to $100. If it was paid the way we 11 pay our taxes, the first four men would pay nothing; the fifth would pay $1; the sixth would pay $3; the seventh $7; the 12 eighth $12; the ninth $18. The tenth man, the richest, would pay $59.

13 The 10 men ate dinner in the restaurant every day and seemed quite happy with the arrangement until the owner threw them
14 a curve. "Since you are all such good customers", he said, "I'm going to reduce the cost of your daily meal by $20." Now,
15 dinner for the 10 only costs $80.

16 The first four are unaffected. They still eat for free. Can you figure out how to divvy up the $20 savings among the
17 remaining six so that everyone gets his fair share? The men realize that $20 divided by 6 is $3.33, but if they subtract that
18 from everybody's share, then the fifth man and the sixth man would end up being paid to eat their meal. The restaurant
19 owner suggested that it would be fair to reduce each man's bill by roughly the same amount, and he proceeded to work out
20 the amounts each should pay. Now, the fifth man paid nothing, the sixth pitched in $2, the seventh paid $5, the eighth paid
21 $9, the ninth paid $12, leaving the tenth man, the richest, with a bill of $52 instead of $59.

22 Outside the restaurant, the men began to compare their savings. "I only got a dollar out of the $20," complained the sixth
23 man, pointing to the tenth, "and he got $7!" "Yeah, that's right," exclaimed the fifth man.

24 "I only saved a dollar, too. It's unfair that he got seven times more than me!"

25 "That's true," shouted the seventh man.

26 "Why should he get $7 back when I got only $2? The wealthy get all the breaks!"

27 "Wait a minute," yelled the first four men in unison. "We didn't get anything at all. The system exploits the poor." The nine
28 men surrounded the tenth and beat him up. The next night he didn't show up for dinner, so the nine sat down and ate
29 without him. But when it came time to pay the bill, they discovered something important. They were $52 short!

30 And that, boys, girls, college instructors and assorted totalitarian democrats, is how America's tax system works. The 31 people who pay the highest taxes get the most benefit from a tax reduction. Tax them too much, attack them for being 32 wealthy, and they just may not show up at the table any more. There are lots of good restaurants in Switzerland and the 33 Caribbean.

1 "Bad laws are the worst sort of tyranny."
2 [Edmund Burke]

3 "Whoever therefore breaks one of the least of these commandments, and teaches men so, shall be called least in 4 the kingdom of heaven; but whosoever does and teaches them, he shall be called great in the kingdom of 5 heaven."
6 [Matt. 5:19, Bible]

7 "When words lose their meaning, people will lose their liberty."
8 [Confucius, 500 B.C.]

9 "Good law makes good neighbors."
10 [James Dobson]

11 "99 percent of lawyers give the rest a bad name."
12 [Steven Wright]

13 "99 percent of IRS agents give the rest a bad name."
14 [Family Guardian Fellowship]

15 "75 to 90 percent of American Trial Lawyers are incompetent, dishonest, or both"
16 [Chief Justice Warren Burger, U.S. Supreme Court]

17 "He who covers his sins will not prosper, but whoever confesses and forsakes them will have mercy."
18 [Prov. 28:13. This means the Congress and IRS ought to confess the fraud they have foisted upon us and come 19 clean, because they will be cursed if they don't]

20 "Woe to you lawyers! for you have taken away the keys of knowledge;
21 you did not enter yourselves, and you hindered those who were entering."
22 [Luke 11:52. Woe unto lawyers who write a law to deliberately be confusing or who use or interpret a law that 23 is written in a confusing way to hide the truth or deceive people for their own selfish gain]

24 "For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who 25 suppress the truth in unrighteousness."
26 [Romans 1:18. Anyone in politics or in the IRS who suppresses the truths in this book from the general
27 population, and maintains "plausible deniability" for their own self-protection, will be cursed by God]

28 "Woe to those who decree unrighteous decrees [judges and lawyers], who 29 write misfortune, which they have prescribed to rob the needy of justice,
30 and to take what is right from the poor of My people. That widows may be their 31 prey, and that they may rob the fatherless. What will you do in the day of punishment, and in the desolation
32 which will come from afar? To whom will you flee for help? And where will you leave your glory? Without 33 Me they shall bow down among the prisoners, and they shall fall among the slain. For all this His anger is not 34 turned away, but His hand is stretched out still."
35 [Isaiah 10:1-4. All the judges in Tax Court and Federal District Court who handle income tax cases against 36 taxpayers who don't really owe tax will end up in desolation among prisoners and will fall among the slain
37 eventually]

38 "But in accordance with your hardness and your impenitent heart you 39 are treasuring up for yourself wrath in the day of wrath and revelation
40 of the righteous judgment of God, who will render to each one according to his deeds: eternal 41 life to those who by patient continuance in doing good seek for glory, honor, and immortality; but to 42 those who are self-seeking and do not obey the truth, but obey
43 unrighteousness--indignation and wrath, tribulation and anguish, on 44 every soul of man who does evil, of the Jew first and also of the Greek;
45 but glory, honor, and peace to everyone who works what is good, to the Jew first and also to the Greek."
46 [Romans 2:5-10. Self-seeking government bureaucrats who write crafty tax laws that conceal the real truth will 47 incur the wrath and indignation of God and suffer anguish and tribulation eventually]

11 This chapter concerns itself with the legal foundation and authority for income taxes in the United States. By "United 12 States", we mean federal territories and possessions and federal areas within the exterior limits of states of the Union and 13 intend to exclude from the definition states of the Union. As you will learn in Chapter 5 later, the U.S. government has no
 14 power of income taxation under Subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code on land that is not federal territory within the 15 exterior limits of a state of the Union.

16 The sections in this chapter are organized in precedence order, whereby laws listed first have a higher statutory authority
 17 than laws listed last. For instance, the U.S. Constitution appears first because it supersedes the U.S. Code, which in turn
 18 supersedes the C.F.R.'s that are listed after that. Laws with a higher precedence or authority overrule or supersede laws
 19 with a lower authority where there are conflicts in terms and definitions or the application of the law. All courts are very 20 aware of this fact in making their rulings. As you read the law, keep in mind the following words of wisdom:

21 The big print giveth...

22 And the small print taketh away.

23 Therefore, read the small print FIRST!

24 What is the big print? It's the Internal Revenue Code (I.R.C.), also known as 26 U.S.C. What is the small print? It's the 25 implementing regulations found in 26 C.F.R. Most of the secrets the IRS doesn't want you to know about are buried deep
 26 in the disorganized and confusing regulations that they hope you will never read, and as we say in section 3.12.2 entitled
 27 "You Cannot Be Prosecuted for Violating an Act Unless You Violate It's Implementing Regulations", the regulations are 28 the only thing the courts can enforce anyway, and not the statutes found in the I.R.C. One of our astute readers described 29 this situation quite insightfully when he said:

30 "They point what you think is a loaded and lethal gun in your face that is represented by the U.S. Codes and
 31 Internal Revenue Code, and try to terrorize and coerce you into 'volunteering' into their jurisdiction by signing
 32 a fraudulent 1040 form that basically says that you are 'an elected or appointed political officer living in the 33 District of Columbia'. But they don't even have the decency or the integrity to dare tell their ignorant victims
 34 that the gun isn't loaded, because the bullets represented by the insipid regulations are 'blanks' that clearly
 35 show that the IRS and the Department of the Treasury have no lawful authority to levy income taxes on private 36 American citizens residing in nonfederal areas of the sovereign 50 state, and that the Department of Justice has 37 no authority to prosecute Subtitle A tax crimes in these areas either! The IRS also unscrupulously won't tell
 38 you that their convincing fraud of a gun is really a plastic squirtgun that won't even accept bullets because the 39 U.S. federal courts have no jurisdiction to enforce Subtitle A income taxes inside the nonfederal areas of the 50
 40 Union states against private state Citizens, but do you think they tell them that? Instead, the courts commit
 41 fraud and extortion at the urging of the IRS by literally lynching anyone stupid enough not to challenge their 42 jurisdiction so they can make an example out of them to scare the rest of the other sheep into fearful and 43 ignorant submission and victimization. Then if the victim criminally prosecutes the IRS for illegally being
 44 robbed, by them, the robber claims that their victim 'volunteered' and denies any wrongdoing with impunity
 45 because of 'official immunity'! The courts assist the criminal IRS with perpetrating this fraud by preventing the 46 aggrieved citizens from talking in court about the very laws that they as "public servants" are sworn to support
 47 and defend! How can you support and defend [their oath of office says 'I solemnly swear that I will support
 48 and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic, so help me God!']
 49 something you refuse to talk about in front of juries? Hogwash!!"

1 Thomas Jefferson was the wise and brilliant man who wrote our Declaration of Independence. Below are some of the 2 fascinating things that he had to say about the foundations of the laws upon which our country is based.

3 "Common sense [is] the foundation of all authorities, of the laws themselves, and of their construction."
4 [Thomas Jefferson: Batture at New Orleans, 1812. ME 18:92]

5 "It was understood to be a rule of law that where the words of a statute admit of two constructions, the one just 6 and the other unjust, the former is to be given them."
7 [Thomas Jefferson to Isaac McPherson, 1813. ME 13:326]

8 "Law is often but the tyrant's will, and always so when it violates the right of an individual."

15 "While the laws shall be obeyed, all will be safe. He alone is your enemy who disobeys them."
16 [Thomas Jefferson: Misc. Notes, 1801?. FE 8:1]

17 "On every unauthoritative exercise of power by the legislature must the people rise in rebellion or their silence
18 be construed into a surrender of that power to them? If so, how many rebellions should we have had already?"
19 [Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XIII, 1782. ME 2:171]

20 "The [legislature's] laws have always some rational object in view; and are so to be construed as to produce 21 order and justice."
22 [Thomas Jefferson: Batture at New Orleans, 1812. ME 18:122]

23 "It is not honorable to take a mere legal advantage, when it happens to be contrary to justice."
24 [Thomas Jefferson: Opinion on Debts due to Soldiers, 1790. ME 3:25]

25 "The general rule, in the construction of instruments, [is] to leave no words merely useless, for which any 26 rational meaning can be found."

30 3.2 Biblical Law: The Foundation of ALL Law

31 "But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the law."
32 [Gal. 5:18, Bible, NKJV]

33 "...the law is not made for a righteous person, but for the lawless and insubordinate, for the ungodly and for
34 sinner, for the unholy and profane, for murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, for manslayers, for
35 fornicators, for sodomites, for kidnappers, for liars, for perjurers, and if there is any other thing that is contrary
36 to sound doctrine, according to the glorious gospel of the blessed God which has committed to my trust."
37 [1 Tim. 1:9-11, Bible, NKJV]

38 The essence of law can be distilled down to its most basic spiritual concepts: covenants. All law is a covenant or contract
39 of some kind. The following hierarchical list helps to illustrate the basic purposes of law, both from a spiritual as well as 40 legal perspective. The word "covenant", as used in the list below, is the equivalent of "contract" in the legal field:

- 41 1. God's Sovereign Creation as Sovereign Creator (Genesis 1)
- 42 2. Rights and privileges of being a created being (Genesis 2)
- 43 3. The right to contract/covenant with God and man in marriage and work (Genesis 2).
- 44 4. Duties and responsibilities and liabilities of covenants.
- 45 5. Consequences of breaking covenants and remedies (Genesis 3)
- 46 6. Common law duties toward our fellow man (Genesis 4)
- 47 7. Judgment and punishment for breaking covenants (Genesis 4-8)

- 1 8. Government as a covenant and duty to protect life (Genesis 9), reward good and punish the bad (I Pet. 2).
 2 9. Citizenship as a covenant

3 The New Testament boils down the above list to an even simpler basis for all law as follow:

4 James 2:8: “If ye fulfill the royal law according to the scripture, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself, ye do
 5 well.”

6 Matthew 7:12: “Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them: this
 7 is the law.”

8 Matthew 22:36-40: (36) “Master, which is the greatest commandment in the law? (37) Jesus said to him,
 9 Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul and with all thy mind [See. Exodus
 10 20:3-11]. (38) This is the first and great commandment. (39) And the second is like unto it, Though shalt
 11 love thy neighbor as thyself. (40) On these two commandments hang all law...”

12 Essentially, all law is classified into one of two categories: Our vertical relationship with our God and our horizontal 13 relationship with our neighbor. The second commandment above to love our neighbor derives from the last six
 14 commandments of the Ten Commandments found in Exodus 20:12-17, which describe for us HOW to love our neighbor:

15 12 Honor your father and your mother, that your days may be long upon the land which the Lord your God is 16 giving you.

17 13 You shall not murder.

18 14 You shall not commit adultery.

19 15 You shall not steal.

20 16 You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor.

21 17 You shall not covet your neighbor's house; you shall not covet your neighbor's wife, nor his male servant,
 22 nor is female servant, nor his ox, nor his donkey, nor anything that is your neighbor's.

23 The government's moral authority to pass laws therefore derives directly and exclusively from God's commandments,
 24 which are found in the Ten Commandments in the Bible: loving our neighbor and protecting him from harm. God is our 25 one and only Lawgiver:

26 “For the Lord is our Judge, the Lord is our Lawgiver, The Lord is our King; He will save [and protect] us.”
 27 [Isaiah 33:22, Bible, NKJV]

28 The Ten Commandments are a treaty or covenant between us and our God. In it, God delegated authority and sovereignty
 29 to us to rule ourselves, provided that we obey His laws. God told us very succinctly in the Ten Commandments, which are 30 His Divine Law, how to love our neighbor. Any violation of these commandments or the covenant they embody is 31 considered “sin” in a Christian sense. All sin is a violation of our covenant with God documented in the Bible. Likewise,
 32 in the context of human government, the foundation of all criminal laws and the existence of the District Attorney is a
 33 fulfillment of the second of the two great commandments to love our neighbor by keeping us from hurting each other.
 34 Anything that violates these six commandments above relating to human relationships in most good human governments is 35 considered a crime. Unfortunately, when human governments make law, they always take out the main spiritual motivation
 36 behind them, which is love, and leave behind only naked force and coercion. Law is force, as you will see in the next
 37 section, but most governments don't publish along with their laws the way in which we are loving our neighbor or 38 protecting him from harm by following the law. In most cases, they leave it up to you to answer that question and in many 39 cases, the answer isn't obvious at all.

40 Now let's apply what we have learned in a practical sense. How can we know whether man's law conflicts with God's law
 41 and what should we do if it does? As we clearly explain later in section 4.5.11, when man's law conflicts with God's law,
 42 then God's law MUST prevail. This is a logical consequence of both Natural Law, which we describe later in section 3.4
 43 and Natural Order, which we describe later in section 4.1. Below are some questions you should ask yourself based on this 44 section, to determine whether man's law conflicts with God's law:

1. Does this law interfere with my ability to worship my God? (the first of the two great commandments)
2. Does this law cause me to commit idolatry by putting government higher than God?
3. Does this law cause me to sin against my neighbor based on the biblical definition of sin? Does it force me to do something that is sinful, or prevent me from doing something the bible says I should do?
4. Will following this law not demonstrate love and compassion for my fellow man? For instance, would the law cause innocent unborn children to be responsible for debts that were incurred during our lifetime, resulting in financial slavery?

If the answer to any of the above questions is YES, then you shouldn't follow the law and should do everything you can to defeat, eliminate, and undermine that law. Here are just a few examples of how to effectively resist and undermine and protest an unjust law:

1. Picket it.
2. Refuse to subsidize the enforcement of it with our tax dollars by terminating our status as a "taxpayer".
3. Run for political office and eliminate it once elected.
4. Write our Congressman to complain about it.
5. Vote against it in the ballot box.
6. If the law comes in front of a jury that we are sitting on, we should vote against enforcing it.

We can't put it any simpler than that.

3.3 The Purpose of Law

What is the purpose of law? First, let's define it:

Law. That which is laid down, ordained, or established. A rule or method according to which phenomenon or actions co-exist or follow each other. Law, in its generic sense, is a body of rules of action or conduct prescribed by controlling authority[the "sovereign"], and having binding legal force. United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co. v. Guenther, 281 U.S. 34, 50 S.Ct. 165, 74 L.Ed. 683. That which must be obeyed and followed by citizens subject to sanctions or legal consequences is a law. Law is a solemn expression of the will of the supreme [sovereign] power of the State. Calif.Civil Code, §22.*

*The "law" of a state is to be found in its statutory and constitutional enactments, as interpreted by its courts, and, in absence of statute law, in rulings of its courts. Dauer's Estate v. Zabel, 9 Mich.App. 176, 156 N.W.2d 34, 37.
[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 884]*

In other words, the "sovereign" within any nation or state is the ruler of that state and makes all the rules and laws with the explicit intention to provide the most complete protection for his, her, or their rights to life, liberty, and property. Different political systems have different sovereigns. In England, which is a monarchy, the sovereign is the King so all laws are enacted by Parliament by or through his delegated authority. In America, the "sovereign" is the People both individually and collectively, "We the People", who created government to protect their collective and individual rights to life, liberty and property. Here is how the Supreme Court describes it:

*"Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law; but in our system, while sovereign powers are delegated to the agencies of government, sovereignty itself remains with the people, by whom and for whom all government exists and acts."
Yick Wo v. Hopkins, [118 U.S. 356; 6 S.Ct. 1064 (1886)]*

Because the People in America are the sovereigns, because we are all equal under the law, and because we have no kings or rulers above us, and because all people have a natural, God given, inviolable right to contract, then the Constitution was used as the vehicle by which the people got together to exercise their sovereignty and power to contract in order to delegate very limited and specific authority to the federal government. Any act done and any law passed by the federal government which is not authorized by the Constitution is unlawful, because not authorized by the written contract called the Constitution that is the source of ALL of their delegated authority. Again, here is how the Supreme Court describes our system of government, which it says is based on "compact".

"In Europe, the executive is synonymous with the sovereign power of a state...where it is too commonly acquired by force or fraud, or both...In America, however the case is widely different. Our government is

1 founded upon compact [consent expressed in a written contract called a Constitution or in positive law].
 2 Sovereignty was, and is, in the people.”
 3 [Glass v. The Sloop Betsey, 3 (U.S.) Dall 6]

4 Below is the legal definition of “compact” to prove our point that the Constitution and all federal law written in furtherance
 5 of it are indeed a “contract”:

6 “Compact, n. An agreement or contract between persons, nations, or states. Commonly applied to working
 7 agreements between and among states concerning matters of mutual concern. A contract between parties,
 8 which creates obligations and rights capable of being enforced and contemplated as such between the parties,
 9 in their distinct and independent characters. A mutual consent of parties concerned respecting some property
 10 or right that is the object of the stipulation, or something that is to be done or forborne. See also Compact
 11 clause; Confederacy; Interstate compact; Treaty.”
 12 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 281]

13 Enacting a mutual agreement into positive law and which takes the form of a Constitution, then, becomes the vehicle for 14 proving the fact that the People collectively agreed and directly consented to allow the government to pass laws that will
 15 protect their rights. When our federal government then passes laws or “acts”, the Congressional Record becomes the legal 16 evidence or proof of all of the elected representatives who consented to the agreement. Since we sent these representatives
 17 to Washington D.C. to represent our interests, then the result is that we indirectly consented to allow them to bind us to any 18 new agreements or contracts (called statutes) written in furtherance of our interests. If the statute or law passed by 19 Congress will have an adverse impact on our rights, it can then be said that indirectly we consented or agreed to any 20 adverse impact, because the majority voted in favor of their elected representatives.

21 Public servants then, are just the apparatus or tool or machinery that the sovereign People use for protecting their life,
 22 liberty, and property and thereby governing themselves. It is ironic that the most important single force that law is there to
 23 protect from is disobedient public servants who want to usurp authority from the people. Our federal government
 24 essentially is structured as an independent contractor to the sovereign states, and the contract is the Constitution. The 25 Contract delegated authority or jurisdiction only over foreign affairs and foreign commerce. There are a few very minor
 26 exceptions to this general rule which we will discuss subsequently. As the definition above shows, the apparatus and 27 machinery of government is simply the “rudder” that steers the ship, but the Captain of the ship is the People individually
 28 and collectively. In a true Republican Form of Government, the REAL government is the people individually and 29 collectively, and not their public servants.

30 Law is therefore the contractual method used by the sovereign for delegating his authority to those under him and for 31 governing and ruling the nation. Frederick Bastiat in his book The Law, further helps us define and understand the purpose
 32 of law:

33 We must remember that law is force, and that, consequently, the proper functions of the law cannot lawfully
 34 extend beyond the proper functions of force. When law and force keep a person within the bounds of justice,
 35 they impose nothing but a mere negation. They oblige him only to abstain from harming others. They violate
 36 neither his personality, his liberty nor his property. They safeguard all of these. They are defensive; they
 37 defend equally the rights of all.<sup>22</sup>

38 So we can see that law is force and that it must apply equally to all if liberty is to be protected. If it applies unequally to 39 one class of persons over another, then it turns from being an instrument of liberty to an instrument of oppression and 40 tyranny.

41 Many people think the purpose of law is to promote public policy. According to Bastiat, the purpose of law is to remedy
 42 injustice after it occurs, and there is a world of difference between these two opposing views. The law, in fact, is only there
 43 for public protection, but NOT for public advocacy of what some bureaucrat “thinks” would be good. Law is a negative
 44 concept and not a positive concept. Law is there to prevent harm, not to encourage or mandate good. Even the Bible
 45 agrees with this conclusion, where the Apostle Paul says:

46 For the commandments, “You shall not commit adultery,” “You shall not murder,” “You shall not steal,” “You
 47 shall not bear false witness,” “You shall not covet,” and if there is any other commandment, are all summed up
 48 in this saying, namely, “You shall love your neighbor as yourself.”

Love does no harm to a neighbor; therefore love is the fulfillment of the law.
 [Romans 13:9-10, Bible, NKJV]

“Do not strive with a man without cause, if he has done you no harm.”
 [Prov. 3:30, Bible, NKJV]

Our interpretation of what the above scriptures are saying is that you should not confront, interfere with, strive, or oppose a man unless he has done you some personal harm or is about to cause you harm and you want to prevent it. Your legal rights define and circumscribe the boundary over which he cannot cross without doing you harm. The act of him doing you harm is referred to as “evil”. The law is the vehicle for rebuking and correcting the evil and harm under such circumstances and that is its only legitimate purpose. As we made plain in the introduction to Chapter 1, Christians are commanded in Eccl. 12:13-14 to “fear the Lord”, and “fearing the Lord” is defined in Prov. 8:13 as “hating evil”, which means eliminating and opposing it at every opportunity. The process of acquiring knowledge about what is evil and hating evil is called “morality”, and it is the purpose of parenting and every good government to develop and encourage morality in everyone in society.

Consequently, the purpose of the law from a spiritual and legal perspective is only to prevent harm, and NOT to promote good. Here is another excerpt from Bastiat’s book, The Law, that explains this assertion:

Law Is a Negative Concept

The harmlessness of the mission performed by law and lawful defense is self-evident; the usefulness is obvious; and the legitimacy cannot be disputed.

As a friend of mine once remarked, this negative concept of law is so true that the statement, the purpose of the law is to cause justice to reign, is not a rigorously accurate statement. It ought to be stated that the purpose of the law is to prevent injustice from reigning. In fact, it is injustice, instead of justice, that has an existence of its own. Justice is achieved only when injustice is absent.

But when the law, by means of its necessary agent, force, imposes upon men a regulation of labor, a method or a subject of education, a religious faith or creed - then the law is no longer negative; it acts positively upon people. It substitutes the will of the legislator for their own initiatives. When this happens, the people no longer need to discuss, to compare, to plan ahead; the law does all this for them. Intelligence becomes a useless prop for the people; they cease to be men; they lose their personality, their liberty, their property.

Try to imagine a regulation of labor imposed by force that is not a violation of liberty; a transfer of wealth imposed by force that is not a violation of property. If you cannot reconcile these contradictions, then you must conclude that the law cannot organize labor and industry without organizing injustice.

Thomas Jefferson, one of our founding fathers, agreed with this philosophy when he said:

“With all [our] blessings, what more is necessary to make us a happy and a prosperous people? Still one thing more, fellow citizens--a wise and frugal Government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another [prevent injustice, NOT promote justice], shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government, and this is necessary to close the circle of our felicities.”
 [Thomas Jefferson: 1st Inaugural, 1801. ME 3:320]

The purpose of the law also cannot be to promote charity, because charity and force are incompatible. Promoting charity with the law is promoting justice, which cannot be the proper role of law. Law should only be used to prevent injustice. Here is Bastiat’s perspective from The Law again:

The Law and Charity

*You say: “There are persons who have no money,” and you turn to the law, but the law is not a breast that fills itself with milk. Nor are the lacteal veins of the law supplied with milk from a source outside the society. Nothing can enter the public treasury for the benefit of one citizen or one class unless other citizens and other classes have been forced to send it in. If every person draws from the treasury the amount that he has put in it, it is true that the law then plunders nobody. But this procedure does nothing for the persons who have no money. It does not promote equality of income. The law can be an instrument of equalization only as it takes from some persons and gives to other persons. When the law does this, it is an instrument of plunder.

Another word for plunder is theft. Whenever the government or the people use the law as an instrument of theft, and the government as a Robinhood, then the purpose of government turns from preventing injustice to:

1. Punishing success by making people who work harder and earn more pay a higher percentage of their income in taxes. This discourages a proper work ethic.
2. Robbing the rich to give to those who have the most votes. This causes democracies to devolve into “mobocracies” eventually, as low income persons vote for persons who will rob the rich and give them something for nothing. (We already have this, in that older people vote consistently for politicians who will expand and protect their social security benefits, which aren’t a trust fund at all, but instead are a Ponzi scheme paid for by younger workers, moving money from hand-to-mouth).”
3. An agent of organized extortion and lawlessness.
4. A destabilizing force in society that undermines public trust and encourages political apathy (voter participation is the lowest it has been in years.. ever wonder why).

Here is what the Supreme Court had to say about this type of plunder:

*"To lay with one hand the power of government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it on favored individuals.. is none the less robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms."
[Loan Association v. Topeka, 20 Wall. 655 (1874)]*

*"A tax, in the general understanding of the term and as used in the constitution, signifies an exaction for the support of the government. The word [tax] has never thought to connote the expropriation of money from one group for the benefit of another."
[U.S. v. Butler, 297 U.S. 1 (1936)]*

The U.S. Supreme Court in the landmark case of Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan and Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429 (1895) said the following regarding what happens when the government becomes a Robinhood and tries to promote equality of result rather than equality of opportunity. We end up with class warfare in society done using the force of law and a mobocracy mentality:

"The present assault upon capital is but the beginning. It will be but the stepping stone to others larger and more sweeping, until our political contest will become war of the poor against the rich; a war of growing intensity and bitterness.

The legislation, in the discrimination it makes, is class legislation. Whenever a distinction is made in the burdens a law imposes or in the benefits it confers on any citizens by reason of their birth, or wealth, or religion, it is class legislation, and leads inevitably to oppression and abuses, and to general unrest and disturbance in society."

Routine use of government as a means to plunder and rob from its people through taxation is the foundation of socialism. Socialism, therefore, is a form of institutionalized or organized crime. Socialism is also incompatible with Christianity, as we will discuss subsequently in section 4.5.14. Social Security, Medicare, Unemployment taxes and other government entitlement programs are examples of socialist programs which amount to organized crime to the extent that participation in them is compulsory or mandatory. For all practical purposes in today’s society, participation in these programs is mandatory for the average employee. Therefore, our government has become an organized crime ring that can and should be prosecuted under RICO laws (18 U.S.C. §225) for racketeering and extortion.

3.4 Natural Law

*"Men do not make laws. They do but discover them. Laws must be justified by something more than the will of the majority. They must rest on the eternal foundation of righteousness. That state is most fortunate in its form of government which has the aptest instruments for the discovery of law."
[Calvin Coolidge, to the Massachusetts State Senate, January 7, 1914]*

Natural law is the origin of the concept and science of justice. It is the source of moral authority from which the government derives its ability to legislate. Bouvier’s Law Dictionary (1856) defines Natural Law as follows:

NATURAL LAW: A rule of conduct arising out of natural relations of human beings, established by the Creator, and existing prior to any positive precept. Webster. The foundation of this law is placed by the best writers in the will of God, discovered by reason, and aided by divine revelation: and its principles, when applicable, apply with equal obligation to individuals and to nations. 1 Kent. Comm. 2, note: Id. 4, note. See Jus Naturale.

The rule and dictate of right reason showing the moral deformity of moral necessity there is in any act, according to its suitableness or unsuitableness to a reasonable nature. Tayl. Civil Law, 99.

This expression, "natural law," or jus naturale, was largely used in the philosophical speculations of the Roman jurists of the Attonine age, and was intended to denote a system of rules and principles for the guidance of human conduct which, independently of enacted law or of the systems peculiar to any one people, might be discovered by the rational intelligence of man, and would be found to grow out of and conform to his nature, meaning by that word his whole mental, moral, and physical constitution. The point of departure for this conception was the Stoic doctrine of a life ordered "according to nature," which in its turn rested upon the purely suppositious existence, in primitive times, of a "state of nature;" that is, a condition of society in which men universally were governed solely by a rational and consistent obedience to the needs, impulses, and promptings of their true nature, such nature being as yet undefaced by dishonesty, falsehood, or indulgence of the baser passions. See Maine, Anc. Law, 50 et seq.

We understand all laws to be either human or divine, according as they have man or God for their author; and divine laws are of two kinds, that is to say: (1) Natural laws; (2) positive or revealed laws. A natural law is deemed to Burlamaqui to be "a rule which so necessarily agrees with the nature and state of man that, without observing its maxims, the peace and happiness of society can never be preserved." And he says that these are called "natural laws" because a knowledge of them may be attained merely by the light of reason, from the fact of their essential agreeableness with the constitution of human nature; while, on the contrary, positive or revealed laws are not founded upon the general constitution of human nature, but only upon the will of God; though in other respects such law is established upon very good reason, and procures the advantage of those to whom it is sent. The ceremonial or political laws of the Jews are of this latter class. Borden v. State, 11 Ark. 527, 44 Am. Dec. 217.
[Bouvier's Law Dictionary (1856)]

Natural law is necessarily immutable and unchangeable, because it is based on our nature as human beings the way God created us, which doesn't change. A legislature can no more pass a law changing natural law than man can renounce or violate the law of gravity. Here is the way Lysander Spooner very lucidly explains the concept of natural law:

"If there be any such principle as justice, it is, of necessity, a natural principle; and, as such, it is a matter of science, to be learned and applied like any other science. And to talk of either adding to, or taking from, it, by legislation, is just as false, absurd, and ridiculous as it would be to talk of adding to, or taking away from, mathematics, chemistry, or any other science, by legislation.

If there be in nature such a principle as justice, nothing can be added to, or taken from, its supreme authority by all the legislation of which the entire human race united are capable. And all the attempts of the human race, or of any portion of it, to add to, or take from, the supreme authority of justice, in any case whatever, is of no more obligation upon any single human being than is the idle wind.

If there be such a principle as justice, or natural law, it is the principle, or law, that tells us what rights were given to every human being at his birth; what rights are, therefore, inherent in him as a human being, necessarily remain with him during life; and, however capable of being trampled upon, are incapable of being blotted out, extinguished, annihilated, or separated or eliminated from his nature as a human being, or deprived of their inherent authority or obligation.

On the other hand, if there be no such principle as justice, or natural law, then every human being came into the world utterly destitute of rights; and coming into the world destitute of rights, he must necessarily forever remain so. For if no one brings any rights with him into the world, clearly no one can ever have any rights of his own, or give any to another. And the consequence would be that mankind could never have any rights; and for them to talk of any such things as their rights, would be to talk of things that never had, never will, and never can have any existence.

If there be such a natural principle as justice, it is necessarily the highest, and consequently the only and universal, law for all those to which it is naturally applicable. And, consequently, all human legislation is simply and always an assumption of authority and dominion, where no right of authority or dominion exists. It is, therefore, simply and always an intrusion, an absurdity, an usurpation and a crime.

On the other hand, if there be no such natural principle as justice, there can be no such thing as injustice. If there be no such natural principle as honesty, there can be no such thing as dishonesty; and no possible act of either force or fraud, committed by one man against the person or property of another, can be said to be unjust or dishonest; or be complained of, or prohibited, or punished as such. In short, if there be no such principle as justice, there can be no such acts as crimes; and all the professions of governments, so called, that they exist,

1            either in whole or in part, for the punishment or prevention of crimes, are professions that they exist for the
 2            punishment or prevention of what never existed, nor ever can exist. Such professions are therefore confessions
 3            that, so far as crimes are concerned, governments have no occasion to exist; that there is nothing for them to
 4            do, and that there is nothing that they can do. They are confessions that the governments exist for the 5            punishment and prevention of acts that are, in their nature, simple impossibilities.”<sup>23</sup>

6 Natural law is based on three main elements, according to Spooner. Underneath these three main elements, we have 7 assigned the Ten Commandments and other moral laws found in the Bible (in Exodus 20) to show you how they relate:

8 1. Live honestly.

- 9 1.1. Tell the truth and do not lie (Exodus 20:16; Exodus 34:6-7; Prov. 19:9).
 10 1.2. Make your actions consistent with your words. Make no promises you can't keep. (integrity, Prov. 28:6).
 11 1.3. Be a good example to others (Matt. 5:16).

12 2. Hurt no one.

- 13 2.1. Do not violate the equal rights of others to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness (love your neighbor as 14 yourself, Matt. 22:39; don't plot evil Zech. 8:17).
 15 2.2. Don't kill (Exodus 20:13).
 16 2.3. Don't steal (Exodus 20:15).
 17 2.4. Take full and complete responsibility for yourself at all times. Don't expect or require your neighbor to take care
 18 of yourself, because this will lead you to steal from your neighbor (1 Tim. 5:8).
 19 2.5. Don't commit adultery (Exodus 20:17).
 20 2.6. Don't lust after property or sex or money (Exodus 20:17; Prov. 15:27).

21 3. Give everyone his due.

- 22 3.1. Put God FIRST on your priority list (Exodus 20:3-11)
 23 3.2. Respect authority when it agrees with natural law (1 Peter 2:13-17).
 24 3.3. Honor all your agreements (Num. 30:2).
 25 3.4. Promote justice by rebuking/punishing people who hurt others (Prov. 24:25; Romans 13:4; Psalm 5:5-6).
 26 3.5. Show mercy and help the less-fortunate when they are down (Psalm 89:14-15).

27 Natural law derives from our conscience, which Christians call the “Holy Spirit”. The author who most eloquently
 28 described and explained natural law was Lysander Spooner. A favorite book which contains most of his better writings is
 29 The Lysander Spooner Reader, ISBN 0-930073-06-1, Fox & Wilkes, 938 Howard Street, Ste. 202; San Francisco, CA
 30 94103. The section in that book entitled “Natural Law” beginning on page 11 is most enlightening on the subject of natural 31 law.

32 Man-made laws which conform to Natural Law are called “malum in se” laws:

33            “Malum in se. A wrong in itself; an act or case involving illegality from the very nature of the transaction,
 34            upon principles of natural moral, and public law. Grindstaff v. State, 214 Tenn. 58, 377 S.W.2d. 921, 926;
 35            State v. Shedouy, 45 N.M. 516, 118 P.2d. 280, 287. An act is said to be malum in se when it is inherently and
 36            essentially evil, that is, immoral in its nature and injurious in its consequences, without any regard to the fact of 37            its being noticed or punished by the law of the state. Such are most or all of the offenses cognizable at common
 38            law (without the denouncement of a statute); as murder, larceny, etc. Compare Malum prohibitum”
 39            [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 959]

40 3.5 The Law of Tyrants

41 The antithesis of natural law described above is the Law of Tyrants, which says that:

42            “Law emanates from the barrel of my gun. All law is force, and he who can exercise the most force will have 43            the only legitimate authority to make de facto law in any society.”

44 The foundation of the Law of Tyrants is the following:

45            “Surely oppression destroys a wise man's reason. ”
 46            [Ecclesiastes 7:7, Bible, NKJV]

47 Thomas Jefferson described the Law of Tyrants a little differently:

1                   "Of liberty I would say that, in the whole plenitude of its extent, it is unobstructed action according to our will.
 2                   But rightful liberty is unobstructed action according to our will within limits drawn around us by the equal
 3                   rights of others. I do not add 'within the limits of the law,' because law is often but the tyrant's will, and always 4                   so when it violates the right of an individual."
 5                   [Thomas Jefferson to Isaac H. Tiffany, 1819. ]

6 Of course, we know that the Law of Tyrants is cruel, satanic, evil, and is condemned in the Bible and by most of the 7 world's religions. It is condemned because it is oppressive and because it violates the rights of others. Nevertheless, it
 8 thrives in third world countries all over the globe. This law has also demonstrated itself in our own country. For instance:

- 9           • During the Civil War, Abraham Lincoln used force to prevent southern states from seceding from the Union. He 10           was renounced twice for doing so by the Supreme Court, and yet he ignored the Supreme Court.
- 11           • In 1913, when the Federal Reserve Act and the Sixteenth Amendment was passed. This created a private federal 12           reserve which loans money to our government at interest. The Sixteenth Amendment creates an income tax to pay
 13           off the debt that is run up by our government, often against the will and wishes of the people. This makes them, in 14           effect, into slaves and peons to pay off that debt, and they do so at the point of a gun held by the IRS.

15 Those who promote the Law of Tyrants are likely to make tyrannical statements like the following:

16                   "The law is anything that can be boldly asserted and plausibly maintained."
 17                   [Michal S. Josephson, Bar Review Course, 1979]

18 Man-made laws which conform to the law of tyrants are also called "malum prohibitum" laws:

19                   "Malum prohibitum. A wrong prohibited; a thing which is wrong because prohibited; an act which is not
 20                   inherently immoral, but becomes so because its commission is expressly forbidden by positive law; an act
 21                   involving an illegality resulting from positive law. Compare Malum in se. "
 22                   [Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 960]

23 In our present day society, "malum prohibitum" laws are most often the product of socialistic, collectivistic, and humanistic
 24 thinking, and they are most often the result of "judge made law" rather than "positive law". We cover this subject in 25 greater detail later in sections 4.5.9 and 4.5.10. The tyranny that happens every day in federal courtrooms throughout the 26 United States of America relating to the illegal mis-enforcement of the Internal Revenue Code is the best possible example
 27 of the Law of Tyrants and of "malum prohibitum laws" in operation.

28 The main goal of this book is to expose the existence of the Law of Tyrants within our own government and to offer
 29 solutions and techniques for eliminating it. We expand upon the Law of Tyrants in section 6.3, where we list the "laws of 30 tyranny", which prescribe how tyranny is implemented.

31   3.6    Basics of Federal Law

32 The U.S. Constitution is the foundation of all laws in the United States and is the supreme law of the land. It supersedes all 33 other laws passed by Congress to implement the U.S. Constitution.

34 The laws enacted by Congress through the legislative process are compiled into statutes in the 50 "Titles" of the United 35 States Code. (Each "Title" deals with a category of law, and Title 26 is the federal tax title, often called the "Internal 36 Revenue Code.") A federal agency then has the duty (assigned by Congress) to implement and enforce the statutes by
 37 writing and publishing regulations, which explain that agency's interpretation of the statutes, as well as setting the rules
 38 which govern how the agency will enforce the statutes. The regulations, when published in the Federal Register, are the 39 official notice to the public of what the law requires, and are binding on the federal agencies (including the IRS). These 40 regulations are then incorporated into the Code of Federal Regulations, or C.F.R. For federal taxes, the Secretary of the 41 Treasury is authorized to write such regulations.

42   3.6.1   Precedence of law

43 The precedence and hierarchy of law, like the hierarchy of sovereignty described in section 4.1 of the Great IRS Hoax on 44 Natural Order, follows the sequence that it is created.

- 1 1. The Common Law trumps all statutory law, and is the primary vehicle used for the protection of PRIVATE RIGHTS.
 2 Statutory civil law protects only PUBLIC RIGHTS and all those subject to it are franchisees and public officers within 3 the government. See:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037

DIRECT LINK: <http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/StatLawGovt.pdf>

FORMS PAGE: <http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm>

- 4 2. Where there are conflicts of law, the U.S. Constitution is the Supreme Law of the Land because it was created first by 5 the sovereign people. It says so right in the document itself.

6 "This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; and all
 7 Treaties made, or which shall be made, under the Authority of the United States, shall be the supreme Law of
 8 the Land; and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, any Thing in the Constitution or Laws of any 9 state to the Contrary notwithstanding."
 10 [Article VI, United States Constitution ]

- 11 3. The Statutes at Large have the next highest precedence, because they are created by Congress from the authority
 12 derived from the U.S. Constitution.
 13 4. Next comes the U.S. Code, which implements the Statutes at Large. The U.S. code is written by the Law Revision
 14 Council of the House of Representatives.
 15 5. The U.S. Code then takes precedence over the Code of Federal Regulations \(C.F.R.\)
 16 6. The Code of Federal Regulations \(C.F.R.\) then takes precedence over every IRS publication. The Code of Federal 17 Regulations are written by the particular Executive Branch agency responsible for implementing the statutes in the U.S.
 18 Code.

19 Understanding this hierarchy is very important when one considers the definitions of terms. Generally, terms used
 20 throughout the CFR's and IRS publications are derived from the U.S. Codes, which in turn are derived from the Statutes at 21 Large.

22 The C.F.R. is intended to administratively implement the statutes found in the U.S. Code and is subordinate to the U.S.
 23 Code. That is why it is often called an "implementing regulation" instead of a Public Law. This fact is very important
 24 whenever there are disputes of law with the IRS or its agents. Furthermore, all IRS publications must be consistent in their
 25 entirety with both the U.S. Code and the C.F.R. Where there are conflicts of law, the Constitution has highest precedence,
 26 followed by the Statutes at Large, followed by the U.S. Code that implements the Statutes at Large. The U.S. Code then
 27 takes precedence over the CFR, which takes precedence over every IRS publication. This is also a very important fact
 28 when one considers the definitions of terms. Generally, terms used throughout the C.F.R.'s and IRS publications are 29 derived from the U.S. Codes, which in turn are derived from the Statutes at Large. Federal courts will, upon occasion, hold
 30 that regulations which appear in the Code of Federal Regulations are invalid because they conflict with either the U.S.
 31 Codes or the Statutes at Large that they derive from.

32 Below is a tabular summary of what we just explained to help you visualize what we mean. We jumped the gun on a few 33 of the items listed but this provides a good reference and starting point for later sections. The items below are in 34 precedence order, where the lower numbered items appearing first are of higher precedence than later or higher numbered 35 items:

NOTES:

- Only have the force of law if enacted into positive law. The Internal Revenue Code is not enacted into positive law, but is only prima facie evidence of law.
- Only have the force of law if published and promulgated by the Secretary of the Treasury in the Federal Register in accordance with the Administrative Procedures Act, 5 U.S.C. §553. All regulations promulgated in the Federal Register are "legislative regulations".
- The federal Statutes at Large are not available online from the government for any year after 1874. Our link above to the Statutes at Large is for the period 1789-1873.
- The internal procedures of the federal agency MUST be followed in any agency action that adversely affects the rights of individuals. See Morton v. Ruiz, shown below. Consequently, all enforcement actions attempted by the

1 IRS must be in strict accordance with the Internal Revenue Manual and part 601 of 26 CFR, or the revenue agents
2 can be held personally liable for deprivations of rights under 42 U.S.C. §1983.

22 Most of the definitions for income taxes come from 26 U.S.C Sections 3401 and 7701, to be precise, but guess what, you
23 won't find pointers in the C.F.R.'s or IRS publications back to these original and "foundational" definitions in the U.S.
24 Code. The terms "employer" and "employee" have a much more restrictive meaning in 26 U.S.C. Secs. 3401 and 7701 than 25 they do in the CFR's or the IRS publications. Some definitions, like that for "withholding agent" only appear in the 26 U.S.
26 Code and not in the 26 CFR. We assume this is the case in order to make the C.F.R.'s more confusing for IRS personnel as 27 a way to encourage them to misinterpret the tax code in a manner that advantages the government financially. Also, if the 28 IRS doesn't define their terms, then the concept of "willfulness" as it relates to violating Citizen's rights by wrongfully
29 taking more taxes than is owed becomes less threatening for IRS agents. They can just "claim ignorance" when prosecuted
30 for malfeasance, which is something we citizens could never do as it relates to paying our taxes! This devious tactic is 31 called "plausible deniability".

36 3.6.2 Legal Language: Rules of Statutory Construction

37 There is no 'interpretation' of law by any court.. including the U.S. Supreme Court. The laws simply mean what they say.
38 Below is a group of U.S. Supreme Court cases which prove that the words in the laws indicate that which the law means.
39 Also, this can tie into the "void of vagueness" point, as it is then a concrete concept of law that the laws mean exactly what 40 they say as this is the federal standard of statutory construction, and any law which cannot be understood must be void, as 41 the law is not communicating a required act or prohibited act.

42 "For purposes of statutory construction, a statute's subsequent [after enactment] legislative history is an 43 unreliable guide to legislative intent."
44 [Chapman v United States, 500 U.S. 114 L.Ed.2d. 524, 111 S.Ct. (1991)]

45 "Going behind the plain language of a statute in search of a possibly contrary congressional intent is "a step
46 to be taken cautiously" even under the best of circumstances."
47 [Piper v. Chris-Craft Industries, Inc., 430 U.S. 1, 26, 51 L.Ed.2d. 124, 97 S.Ct. 926 (1977). (emphasis added)]

1 "The name given to a congressional enactment by way of designation or description in the act or the report of
 2 the committee accompanying the introduction of the bill into the House of Representatives cannot change the
 3 plain implication of the words of the statute." (emphasis added)
 4 [For other cases, see statutes, 154-160, 249-255, 354-372, in Digest Sup.Ct. 1908.]

5 "...courts do not resort to legislative history to cloud a statutory text that is clear"
 6 [Ratzlaf v. United States, 510 U.S. 135, 126 L.Ed.2d. 615 (1994). (emphasis added)]

7 "The title of a statute and the history leading up to its adoption, as aids to statutory construction, are to be
 8 resorted to only for the purpose of resolving doubts as to the meaning of the words used in the act in case of 9 ambiguity."
 10 [Fairport, P. & E. R. Co. v. Meredith, 292 U.S. 589, p. 589, 78 L. 1434 (1934) (emphasis added)]

11 "In deciding a question of statutory construction, we begin of course with the language of the statute."
 12 [Demarest v. Manspeaker, 498 U.S. 184, 112 L.Ed.2d. 608, 111 S.Ct. 599, (1991) (emphasis added)]

13 "When the words of a statute are unambiguous, the first canon of statutory construction--that courts must 14 presume that a legislature says in a statute what it means and means in a statute what it says there--is also the 15 last, and judicial inquiry is complete."
 16 [Connecticut National Bank v. Germain, 503 U.S. 249, 117 L.Ed.2nd. 391(1992) (emphasis added)]

17 "Rules of statutory construction are to be invoked as aids to the ascertainment of the meaning or application of 18 words otherwise obscure or doubtful. They have no place, as this court has many times held, except in the 19 domain of ambiguity."
 20 [Hamilton v. Rathbone, 175 U.S. 414, 421, 44 L.Ed. 219, 222, 20 Sup.Ct.Rep. 155; United States v. Barnes, 222

 22 514, pp. 517]

23 "In construing a federal statute, it is presumable that Congress legislates with knowledge of the United States
 24 Supreme Court's basic rules of statutory construction."
 25 [McNary v. Haitian Refugee Center, 498 U.S. 479, 112 L.Ed.2d. 1005, 111 S.Ct. 888 (1991) (emphasis added)]

26 As in all cases involving statutory construction, "our starting point must be the language employed by 27 Congress," Reiter v Sonotone Corp., 442 U.S. 330, 337, 60 L.Ed.2d. 931, 99 S.Ct. 2326 (1979) (emphasis 28 added), and we assume "that the legislative purpose is expressed by the ordinary meaning of the words used."
 29 [Richards v. United States, 369 U.S. 1, 9, 7 L.Ed.2d. 492, 82 S.Ct. 585 (1962) (emphasis added)]

30 Thus "[a]bsent a clearly expressed legislative intention to the contrary, that language must ordinarily be 31 regarded as conclusive."
 32 [Consumer Product Safety Comm'n v GTE Sylvania, Inc., 447 U.S. 102, 108, 64 L.Ed.2d. 766, 100 S.Ct. 2051
 33 (1980). (remarks of Sen. Dirksen). As Senator (emphasis added)]

34 "When the terms of a statute are unambiguous, judicial inquiry is complete except in rare and exceptional 35 circumstances."
 36 [Freytag v. Commissioner, 501 U.S. 115 L.Ed.2d. 764, pp. 767 - 9/73]

37 "In a statutory construction case, the beginning point must be the language of the statute, and when a statute
 38 speaks with clarity to an issue, judicial inquiry into the statute's meaning--in all but the most extraordinary 39 circumstance--is finished; courts must give effect to the clear meaning of statutes as written."
 40 [Estate of Cowart v. Nicklos Drilling Co., 505 U.S. 120 L.Ed.2d. 379, 112 S.Ct. 2589 (1992) (emphasis added)]

41 "It is not a function of the United States Supreme Court to sit as a super-legislature and create statutory 42 distinctions where none were intended."
 43 [American Tobacco Co. v. Patterson, 456 U.S. 63, 71 L.Ed.2d. 748, 102 S.Ct. 1534 (emphasis added)]

44 "(T)he court's task is to determine whether the language the legislators actually enacted has a plain, 45 unambiguous meaning."
 46 [Beecham v. United States, 511 U.S. 128 L.Ed.2d. 383 (1994). (emphasis added)]

47 "The United States Supreme Court cannot supply what Congress has studiously omitted in a statute."
 48 [Federal Trade Com. v Simplicity Pattern Co., 360 U.S. 55 (1959), p. 55, (emphasis added)]

49 "The starting point in any endeavor to construe a Statute is always the words of the Statute itself; unless 50 Congress has clearly indicated that its intentions are contrary to the words it employed in the Statute, this is the 51 ending point of interpretation."
 52 [Fuller v. United States, 615 F.Supp. 1054 (D.C. Cal 1985) , West's Key 188 quoting Richards v. United States,

1 "The starting point for interpreting a statute is the language of the statute itself; absent a clearly expressed
 2 legislative intention to the contrary, that language must ordinarily be regarded as conclusive."
 3 [Product Safety Comm'n v. GTE Sylvania, 447 U.S. 102, 64 L.Ed.2d. 766, 100 S.Ct. 2051 (1980) (emphasis

5 "Words used in the statute are to be given their proper signification and effect."
 6 [Washington Market Co. v. Hoffman, 101 U.S. 112, 115 (1879), 25 L.Ed. 782, 783. (emphasis added)]

7 "The construction of a statute by those charged with its execution should be followed unless there are 8 compelling indications that it is wrong, especially when Congress has refused to alter the administrative 9 construction, and such deference is particularly appropriate where an agency's interpretation involves issues of 10 considerable public controversy and Congress has not acted to correct any misperception of its statutory 11 objectives."
 12 [CBS, Inc. v. FCC, 453 U.S. 367 (1981), p. 367, 69 L.Ed.2d. 706, p. 709 (emphasis added)]

13 "We are not at liberty to construe any statute so as to deny effect to any part of its language. It is a cardinal
 14 rule of statutory construction that significance and effect shall, if possible, be accorded to every word. As 15 early as in Bacon's Abridgment, § 2, it was said that 'a statute ought, upon the whole, to be so construed that, if 16 it can be prevented, no clause, sentence, or word, shall be superfluous, void, or insignificant.' This rule has 17 been repeated innumerable times."
 18 [Justice Strong, United States v. Lexington Mill & E. Co., 232 U.S. 399, pp. 409. (1914) (emphasis added)]

19 Judges "are not at liberty to pick and choose among congressional enactments, and when two [or more]
 20 statutes are capable of co-existence, it is the duty of the courts, absent a clearly expressed congressional 21 intention to the contrary, to regard each as effective."
 22 [Morton v. Mancari, 417 U.S. 535, 551, 41 L.Ed.2d. 290, 94 S.Ct. 2474 (1974). County of Yakima v Yakima
 23 Nation, 502 U.S. 251, 116 L.Ed.2d. 687 (1992) (emphasis added)]

24 "Keeping in mind the well-settled rule that the citizen is exempt from taxation unless the same is imposed by 25 clear and unequivocal language, and that where the construction of a tax law is doubtful, the doubt is to be 26 resolved in favor of those upon whom the tax is sought to be laid."
 27 [Spreckels Sugar Refining Co. v. McClain, 192 U.S. 397 (1904)]

28 This fact only underscores our duty to refrain from reading a phrase into the statute when Congress has left it
 29 out. " [W]here Congress includes particular language in one section of a statute but omits it in another ..., it is 30 generally presumed that Congress acts intentionally and purposely in the disparate inclusion or exclusion."
 31 [Russello v. United States, 464 U.S. 16, 23, 78 L.Ed.2d. 17, 104 S.Ct. 296 (1983) (citation omitted). Keene

33 Remember, we are here to point out that while the law may be obscured by the government, media, lawyers, and those who
 34 have a financial interest in fighting government agencies, the law is not really all that complicated. It means exactly what it
 35 says. It says the things you really want to hear, if you are either a "U.S. Citizen" or a "national", and it does not need to be 36 changed. It just needs to be implemented as it was written by the Congress and understood by the American public in order
 37 to fix the many problems complained about in this book.

38 Below is a summary of some of the many rules of statutory construction as we understand them from the above cites and 39 other sources, simplified for your reading pleasure:

- 40 1. The law should be given it's plain meaning wherever possible.
- 41 2. Presumption may not be employed in determining the meaning of an ambiguous or uncertain statute. Doing otherwise
 42 is a violation of due process and a religious sin under Numbers 15:30 (Bible). A person reading a statute cannot be 43 required by statute or by "judge made law" to read anything into a Title of the U.S. Code that is not expressly spelled 44 out.
- 45 3. Every word within a statute is there for a purpose and should be given its due significance.
- 46 4. All laws are to be interpreted consistent with the legislative intent for which they were originally passed, as revealed in 47 the Congressional Record prior to the passage. The passage of no amount of time can change the original legislative 48 intent of a law.
- 49 5. The proper audience to turn to deduce the meaning of a statute are the persons who are the subject of the law, and not a
 50 judge. Laws are supposed to be understandable by the common man because the common man is the proper subject of 51 most laws. Judges are NOT common men.

52 "It is a basic principle of due process that an enactment [435 U.S. 982 , 986] is void for vagueness if its 53 prohibitions are not clearly defined. Vague laws offend several important values. First, because we assume that 54 man is free to steer between lawful and unlawful conduct, we insist that laws give the person of ordinary intelligence a reasonable opportunity to know what is prohibited, so that he may act accordingly. Vague laws may trap the innocent by not providing fair warning. Second, if arbitrary and discriminatory enforcement is to be prevented, laws must provide explicit standards for those who apply them. A vague law impermissibly delegates basic policy matters to policemen, judges, and juries for resolution on an ad hoc and subjective basis, with the attendant dangers of arbitrary and discriminatory application."

[Grayned v. City of Rockford, 408 U.S. 104, 108 (1972)]

". . .whether right or wrong, the premise underlying the constitutional method for determining guilt or innocence in federal courts is that laymen are better than specialists to perform this task."
[United States ex rel. Toth v. Quarles, 350 U.S. 11, 18 (1955)]

6. The purpose for defining a word within a statute is so that its ordinary (dictionary) meaning is not implied or assumed by the reader.
7. The term "includes" is a term of limitation and not enlargement. Where it is used, it prescribes all of the things or classes of things to which the statute pertains. All other possible objects of the statute are thereby excluded, by implication.

"expressio unius, exclusio alterius"—if one or more items is specifically listed, omitted items are purposely excluded. Becker v. United States, 451 U.S. 1306 (1981)

8. Laws that do not specifically identify ALL of the things or classes of things or persons to whom they apply are considered "void for vagueness"
9. When a term is defined within a statute, that definition is provided to supersede and not enlarge other definitions of the word found elsewhere, such as in other Titles or Codes.
10. Judges may not extend the meaning of words used within a statute, but must resort ONLY to the meaning clearly indicated in the law itself.
11. Citizens [not "taxpayers", but "citizens"] are presumed to be exempt from taxation unless a clear intent to the contrary is manifested in a positive law taxing statute.

"In the interpretation of statutes levying taxes, it is the established rule not to extend their provisions by implication beyond the clear import of the language used, or to enlarge their operations so as to embrace matters not specifically pointed out. In case of doubt they are construed most strongly against the government and in favor of the citizen."
[Gould v. Gould, 245 U.S. 151, at 153 (1917)]

12. When Congress intends, by one of its Acts, to supersede the police powers of a state of the Union, it must do so very clearly.

"If Congress is authorized to act in a field, it should manifest its intention clearly. It will not be presumed that a federal statute was intended to supersede the exercise of the power of the state unless there is a clear manifestation of intention to do so. The exercise of federal supremacy is not lightly to be presumed."
[Schwartz v. Texas, 344 U.S. 199, 202-203 (1952)]

The two U.S. Supreme Court cases below reveal that the income which is taxed under the Internal Revenue Code must come from a "source", as the law means exactly what is said,

"...the Sixteenth Amendment, which grants Congress the power "to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived..." Helvering v. Clifford, 309 U.S. 331, 334; Douglas v. Willcuts, 296 U.S. 1,9. It has long been settled that Congress' broad statutory definitions of taxable income were intended "to use the full measure of taxing power." The Sixteenth Amendment is to be taken as written and is not to be extended beyond the meaning clearly indicated by the language used." Edwards v. Cuba R. Co. 268 U.S. 628, 631 [From separate opinion by Whittaker, Black, and Douglas, JJ.](Emphasis added)
[James v. United States, 366 U.S. 213, p. 213, 6 L.Ed.2d. 246 (1961)]

"Congress' intent through § 61 of the Internal Revenue Code (26 USCS § 61(a))--which provides that gross income means all income from whatever source derived, subject to only the exclusions specifically enumerated elsewhere in the Code...and § 61(a)'s statutory precursors..."
[United States v. Burke, 504 U.S. 229, 119 L.Ed.2d. 34, 112 S.Ct. 1867 (1992) (emphasis added)]

Since the laws simply mean what the words in them say, why then is it that lawyers do not know the law as pointed out in the Bursten case?

1                   "We must note here, as a matter of judicial knowledge, that most lawyers have only scant knowledge of tax
 2                   law."
 3                   [Bursten v. U.S., 395 F.2d. 976, 981 (5th Cir., 1968)]

4 In a "Tax Policy Lecture" before Southern Methodist University, on April 14, 1993, by Shirley D. Peterson, who was the 5 former head of the Tax Crimes Division at the Department of Justice and former Commissioner of the IRS, stated:

6                   "...Eight decades of amendments and accretions to the Code have produced a virtually impenetrable maze. The
 7                   rules are unintelligible to most citizens - Including those who hold advanced degrees and Including many who
 8                   specialize in tax law. The rules are equally mysterious to many government employees who are charged with 9                   administering and enforcing the law."

10 It is also a known fact that the Internal Revenue Code is a very easily misunderstood area of law, even misunderstood by 11 trained professionals. Judges and lawyers admittedly do not know the tax code.

12 Why is this, when it is so simple to understand? Are people just making excuses, or is an entire industry interested in 13 maintaining our ignorance of the law? Frankly, it really doesn't matter all that much... what matters is what we do from this
 14 point on... we know what the laws are and how they were meant to be enforced, we have the tools to contact our elected
 15 officials to inform them of our distaste of their 'folding like a cheap camera', they will realize that they must uphold the 16 laws as written and specified or they are out of office and disgraced! Simple.

17 3.6.3    How Laws Are Made

18                   "The less people know about how sausages and laws are made, the better they'll sleep at night."
 19                   [Otto Von Bismarck]

20 The following process describes how federal laws are made. Understanding this process is extremely important!:

- 21 1. Congress passes a law. It is broken down into sections called STATUTES. There are two types of laws they can pass:
  - 22 1.1. "Public" laws: Apply generally to everyone in the country.
  - 23 1.2. "Private" or "special" laws, which apply to a subset of all persons. For instance, most the Internal Revenue Code
 24 is private or special law that applies only within the District of Columbia. The only part that is public law is 25 Subtitle D, which is excise taxes on gasoline.
- 26 2. The Agency that is delegated the power to ENFORCE the STATUTES then drafts IMPLEMENTING (e.g., 27 ENFORCEMENT REGULATIONS).
- 28 3. The ENFORCEMENT REGULATIONS are required by law to be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER so those 29 parties who would be affected by the law can voice objections and ask for changes BEFORE IT GOES INTO 30 EFFECT.
- 31 4. The REGULATIONS must be very SPECIFIC as to who is SUBJECT to the STATUTE.
- 32 5. If the Agency requires information from someone subject to that statute, it MUST have the information gathering form
 33 approved by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), because of the Paperwork Reduction Act and the Privacy
 34 Act (5 U.S.C. 552).
- 35 6. Once approved, the OMB assigns a control number to THAT PARTICULAR FORM. (No other form will have that 36 number.)
- 37 7. For reference purposes, there are parallel tables inserted into the Code of Federal Regulations so anyone can see at a 38 glance:
  - 39 7.1. The STATUTE and the IMPLEMENTING REGULATION FOR THAT STATUTE.
  - 40 7.2. The IMPLEMENTING REGULATION and the OMB NUMBER OF THE APPROVED INFORMATION 41 GATHERING FORM.
  - 42 7.3. The STATUTE and the SPECIFIC PARTIES FROM WHOM THE STATUTE CAN REQUIRE 43 INFORMATION.

44 3.6.4    Positive Law

45 There are only two types of governments: government by consent (contract) or government by force/fraud. All
 46 governments that operate by force or fraud rather than consent are terrorist governments. The Declaration of Independence
 47 says that all just powers of the United States government derive from the consent of the governed.

1                   “That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent
 2 of the governed.”
 3 [Declaration of Independence]

4 Absent individual, explicit, and voluntary consent for everything that government does in this country, a law may not be
 5 enforced and may not adversely affect our Constitutional rights to life, liberty or property. In a Republic of free and
 6 sovereign People who have rights, any government that disregards the requirement for consent is essentially acting unjustly
 7 and involving itself in organized crime, extortion, and terrorism. A law which is enforceable because the people either
 8 individually or collectively consented explicitly to it is called positive law:

9                   “Positive law. Law actually and specifically enacted or adopted [consented to] by proper authority for the 10 government of an organized jural society. See also Legislation.”
 11 [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1162]

12 Titles that are enacted into positive law are identified both in 1 U.S.C. §204 and on the House of Representatives Website.

13                   About the Office and the United States Code

14                   The Office of the Law Revision Counsel of the U.S. House of Representatives prepares and publishes the United
 15 States Code pursuant to section 285b of title 2 of the Code. The Code is a consolidation and codification by 16 subject matter of the general and permanent laws of the United States.

17                   The Code does not include regulations issued by executive branch agencies, decisions of the Federal courts,
 18 treaties, or laws enacted by State or local governments. Regulations issued by executive branch agencies are 19 available in the Code of Federal Regulations. Proposed and recently adopted regulations may be found in the 20 Federal Register.

21                   Certain titles of the Code have been enacted into positive law, and pursuant to section 204 of title 1 of the Code,
 22 the text of those titles is legal evidence of the law contained in those titles. The other titles of the Code are
 23 prima facie evidence of the laws contained in those titles. The following titles of the Code have been enacted 24 into positive law: 1, 3, 4, 5, 9, 10, 11, 13, 14, 17, 18, 23, 28, 31, 32, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 44, 46, and 49.

26 The purpose of positive Law Codification is described on the U.S. House of Representatives Website as follows:

27                   Codification Legislation
 28                   Office of the Law Revision Counsel

29                   What is Positive Law Codification?

30                   Positive law codification is the process of preparing and enacting, one title at a time, a revision and restatement
 31 of the general and permanent laws of the United States.

32                   Because many of the general and permanent laws that are required to be incorporated into the United States
 33 Code are inconsistent, redundant, and obsolete, the Office of the Law Revision Counsel of the House of 34 Representatives has been engaged in a continuing comprehensive project authorized by law to revise and
 35 codify, for enactment into positive law, each title of the Code. When this project is completed, all the titles of the 36 Code will be legal evidence of the general and permanent laws and recourse to the numerous volumes of the 37 United States Statutes at Large for this purpose will no longer be necessary.*

38                   Positive law codification bills prepared by the Office do not change the meaning or legal effect of a statute
 39 being revised and restated. Rather, the purpose is to remove ambiguities, contradictions, and other

42 3.6.5 Discerning Legislative Intent and Resolving conflicts between the U.S. Code and the Statutes At 43 Large(SAL)

44 When litigating a federal issue in a federal court, one very important issue is understanding how to determine the validity of 45 a statute in the U.S. Code for use as “legal evidence”. By “legal evidence”, we really mean “evidence of consent of the 46 sovereign, who is We the People” as a collective, and acting through their elected representatives.

47                   “In the United States, sovereignty resides in the people...the Congress cannot invoke sovereign power of the 48 People to override their will as thus declared.”

1 [Perry v. U.S., 294 U.S. 330 (1935)]

2 “Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law, for it is the author and source of law...While sovereign
3 powers are delegated to...the government, sovereignty itself remains with the people.”
4 [Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

5 “The words ‘people of the United States’ and ‘citizens,’ are synonymous terms, and mean the same thing. They 6 both describe the political body who, according to our republican institutions, form the sovereignty, and who
7 hold the power and conduct the government through their representatives. They are what we familiarly call the 8 ‘sovereign people,’ and every citizen is one of this people, and a constituent member of this sovereignty. ...”
9 [Boyd v. State of Nebraska, 143 U.S. 135 (1892)]

10 Often, statutes in the U.S. Code are engineered to be deliberately vague in order to allow corrupt legislators in Congress to 11 stealthily give judges wiggle room to violate the Constitution and the legislative intent and thereby illegally or improperly
12 administer the statute. This section will provide a starting point for those who wish to verify the legislative intent of a
13 section of the U.S. Code from the Statutes At Large, and will describe how to reconcile conflicts between the two.

14 All laws enacted by Congress pursuant to the authority delegated to them by the Constitution are published in the Statutes
15 At Large. After they have been published, the Law Revision Counsel of U.S. House of Representatives examines the new 16 enactment and adds language to the U.S. Code which reflects the requirement of the new law. The U.S. Code is, in effect, a
17 representation or rendition of what appears in the Statutes At Large which has been organized by subject in order to make it
18 easy to find. Each statute in the U.S. Code contains a legislative notes section that points back to the original enactment of 19 the Statutes At Large from which it derives. This makes the U.S. Code into a convenient place to start when researching
20 any legal subject, because it points legal researchers back to the enactments in the Statutes At Large from which each 21 section was derived.

22 The 3 branches of government, Executive, Legislative, and Judicial, are supposed to be designed to promote checks and
23 balance in fulfillment of the separation of powers doctrine. The legislature can make laws and the judges
24 administer/interpret those laws. Within the judicial administration of law ONLY 2 things are required.

- 25 1. To make sure the legislative statute passes the constitutional test. Ie: doesn’t violate the constitution(s). This MUST be 26 done FIRST. Why go to 2 if 1 does not pass the test?
- 27 2. Once 1 above is known then move forward to see if there is in fact, not presumed, and not just prima facie, a violation 28 of the constitutionally tested and passed statute.

29 The Executive Branch is set up basically to be an overseer ONLY. It cannot pass laws nor can it administer the laws. A
30 big problem is that people have totally forgotten about the 4th Branch of Government. WE THE PEOPLE. If a judge can
31 do and say as he pleases, make his own laws, etc, then there would be no need at all for a Congress or a JURY. Yes a jury
32 has the right to judge both the facts and the law itself.

33 The problem with the judiciary and all the ABA’s is that the judiciary is supposed to be independent, and yet if a judge is to 34 be challenged he goes to a bunch of other lawyers for the complaint to be heard. This, folks is no different than asking the 35 fox to guard the chicken house or like asking a thief to put in all the burglar alarms across the nation. It just don’t fit. The 36 INDEPENDENT ones are THE PEOPLE period. The people are the ones who say what goes and what does not go. The 37 people must reassert their sovereignty over all of the branches of the government by being a check on bad laws and bad
38 judges.

39 Now for folks that do understand law or can convince an attorney to help, they can have much better possibility for a better
40 decision IF they know how to have a judge ADMINISTER the law and ONLY administer the law. Most people I know do
41 not bring forth the congressional intent of a statute to begin with. Then they also neglect to see if: 1. The statute has passed
42 the constitutional test. and 2. If applicable, see if it even applies and then and ONLY then, get to any possible violation(s)
43 of a Congressionally intended AND Constitutionally mandated statute. This process should be PARAMOUNT in 44 determining the validity of anything we hear or read in Court rulings. These simple steps will ensure intent of the 45 legislature, test the Constitutionality of the statute, prove standing, jurisdiction and venue, and also COMPEL the judge to 46 ONLY administer the law. Now his opinion is irrelevant because HE HAS FACTS/LEGAL EVIDENCE of the INTENT
47 of the legislature as well as the, Constitutionality and applicability of the intent as well as, and only now IF there was in fact
48 and not presumed, a possible violation of the intent of the legislature.

Without this being done a judge CAN AND WILL DO AS HE PERSONALLY WISHES and will base the case on the evidence given at trial which is ONLY prima facie and not LEGAL EVIDENCE, so he does NOT have to administer the law BECAUSE NO LAW WAS GIVEN TO HIM TO ADMINISTER.

There are certain rules for discerning the legislative intent of a code or statute and whether a law is admissible as evidence in a court trial.

1. The Statutes At Large is the official source for United States laws. All enactments within the U.S. Code are to be read in light of the Statutes At Large.

Official source for the United States laws is Statute at Large and United States Code is only prima facie evidence of such laws.
[Royer's Inc. v. United States (1959, CA3 Pa), 265 F.2d. 615, 59-1 U.S.T.C. 9371, 3 A.F.T.R.2d. 1137]

Statutes at Large are "legal evidence" of laws contained therein and are accepted as proof of those laws in any court of United States.
[Bear v. United States (1985, DC Neb) 611 F.Supp. 589]

2. Wherever possible, sections from the U.S. Code that are based on enactments from the Statutes At Large should preserve as much of the original language of the Statutes At Large as possible. The purpose or driving force behind this policy is to present and preserve federal statutes in their most accurate form.
3. A statute from the U.S. Code which is enacted into positive law is legal evidence of the law. This is stated in 1 U.S.C. §204.

TITLE 1 > CHAPTER 3 > § 204
§ 204. Codes and Supplements as evidence of the laws of United States and District of Columbia; citation of Codes and Supplements

In all courts, tribunals, and public offices of the United States, at home or abroad, of the District of Columbia, and of each State, Territory, or insular possession of the United States—

*(a) United States Code.— The matter set forth in the edition of the Code of Laws of the United States current at any time shall, together with the then current supplement, if any, establish prima facie the laws of the United States, general and permanent in their nature, in force on the day preceding the commencement of the session following the last session the legislation of which is included: Provided, however, That whenever titles of such Code shall have been enacted into positive law the text thereof shall be legal evidence of the laws therein contained, in all the courts of the United States, the several States, and the Territories and insular possessions of the United States.

4. When a statute from the U.S. Code is not enacted into positive law, it becomes “prima facie evidence of law”, which means that it is “presumed” to be law unless and until proven otherwise. This is stated in 1 U.S.C. §204 above and in the cases below.

“Unless Congress affirmatively enacts title of United States Code into law, title is only prima facie” evidence of law.”
[Preston v. Heckler (1984, CA9 Alaska), 734 F.2d. 1359, 34 CCH EPD 34433, later proceeding (1984, DC Alaska) 596 F.Supp. 1158]

“Where title has not been enacted into positive law, title is only prima facie or rebuttable evidence of law, and if construction is necessary, recourse may be had to original statutes themselves.”
[United States v. Zuger (1984, DC Conn) 602 F.Supp. 889, affd without op (1985, CA2 Conn) 755 F.2d. 915, cert den and app dismd (1985), 474 U.S. 805, 88 L.Ed.2d. 32, 106 S.Ct. 38.]

5. Even codification into positive law will not give code precedence where there is conflict between codification and Statutes at Large. See: Warner v. Goltra (1934), 293 U.S. 155, 79 L.Ed. 254, 55 S.Ct. 46; Stephan v. United States (1943), 319 U.S. 423, 87 L.Ed. 1490, 63 S.Ct. 1135; United States v. Welden (1964), 377 U.S. 95, 12 L.Ed.2d. 152, 84 S.Ct. 1082.
6. When courts wish to interpret the meaning of a section from the U.S. Code that is not enacted into positive law, they must refer back to the positive law from which the section derived, found in the Statutes At Large. The Statutes At Large always take precedence over any statute from the U.S. Code that is not enacted into positive law.

1 “.....[T]his codification seems to us, for the reasons set forth in this opinion, to be manifested inconsistent with
2 the Robinson-Patman Act, and in such circumstances Congress has specifically provided that the underlying
3 statute must prevail.”
4 [Nashville Milk Co. v. Carnation Co., 355 U.S. 373, 379 78 S.Ct. 352, 356, 2 L.Ed.2d. 340, 345 (US Ill, 1958)]

5 ‘...The fact that the words of 18 USC 681 have lingered on in the successive editions of the United States Code
6 is immaterial. By 1 U.S.C.A. 54(a) the Code establishing ‘prima facie’ the laws of the United States. But the 7 very meaning of ‘prima facie’ is that the Code cannot prevail over the Statutes at Large when the two are 8 inconsistent.”
9 [Stephan v United States, 319 U.S. 423, 426, 63 S.Ct. 1135, 1137, 87 L.Ed. 1490, 1491 (U.S.Mich., 1943)]

10 7. The following cases either expressly hold or support the proposition that when a conflict exists between the Statutes at 11 Large (or Revised Statutes) and provisions of a non-positive law title of the United States Code, the provisions of the 12 Statutes at Large (or Revised Statutes) prevail:

8. Most taxing and licensing statutes are “private law” or “special law”, that only applies to specific persons and things and not to everyone individually. The only way a person can become subject to them is by their individual consent in some form. Hence, true judicial power cannot be exercised in their enforcement within any real court and the matter can therefore only be heard in a legislative franchise court not within the judicial branch:

“Statutes are public or private. A private statute is one which concerns only certain designated individuals, and affects only their private rights. All other statutes are public, in which are included statutes creating or affecting corporations.”
 [Ca. Code of Civil Procedure §1898]

“Moreover, even if the parties were to do what is virtually inconceivable by expressly agreeing that the arbitrator’s award would be binding even if substantially unjust, the agreement would not bind the judiciary. The exercise of judicial power cannot be controlled or compelled by private agreement or stipulation. (See California State Auto. Assn. Inter-Ins. Bureau v. Superior Court (1990) 50 Cal.3d 658, 664 [268 Cal. Rptr. 284, 788 P.2d. 1156]; Clarendon Ltd. v. Nu-West Industries, Inc. (3d Cir.1991) 936 F.2d. 127, 129 [“action by the court can be neither purchased nor parleyed by the parties”].) As the United States Supreme Court has remarked, a court should refuse to be “the abettor of iniquity.” (Precision Co. v. Automotive Co. (1945) 324 U.S. 806, 814 [89 L.Ed. 1381, 1386, 65 S.Ct. 993].)”
 [Moncharsh v. Heily & Blase, 832 P. 2d 899 - Cal: Supreme Court 1992; KENNARD, J. Dissent at 36.]

9. Some sources of the U.S. Code are not admissible, even if enacted into positive law, because they derive from unofficial sources. All official sources must be identified in an enactment of Congress.

TITLE 1 > CHAPTER 2 > § 113

§ 113. “Little and Brown’s” edition of laws and treaties; slip laws; Treaties and Other International Acts Series; admissibility in evidence

The edition of the laws and treaties of the United States, published by Little and Brown, and the publications in slip or pamphlet form of the laws of the United States issued under the authority of the Archivist of the United States, and the Treaties and Other International Acts Series issued under the authority of the Secretary of State shall be competent evidence of the several public and private Acts of Congress, and of the treaties, international agreements other than treaties, and proclamations by the President of such treaties and international agreements other than treaties, as the case may be, therein contained, in all the courts of law and equity and of maritime jurisdiction, and in all the tribunals and public offices of the United States, and of the several States, without any further proof or authentication thereof.

“The statute is correctly reproduced in the United States Code Annotated. 45 USCA 441(b)(1). The statute is incorrectly reproduced in the United States Service and in the Lexis Code Library.”
 [Springfield Terminal Railway Co. v United Transportation Union. 767 F.Supp. 333, 346 (D Me, 1991), 45 USCA 441(b)(1)]

10. Debates from the Congressional Record concerning the enactment of a proposed law must be used to establish the legislative intent of a law from the Statutes At Large. Courts must interpret laws from the Statutes At Large and the U.S. Code Sections which implement them consistent with the legislative intent. See Kaufman v. Performance Plastering, Inc, No. C049391 (Cal. 3d App Dist. Oct 03, 2005).

This distinction between the Statutes at Large and the U.S.C. can be better understood in the context of positive and non-positive law. A non-positive law title of the Code (such as Title 29 -- Labor, for example) consists of Statutes at Large which have not been enacted directly to such title, but which have been codified to such title by the Law Revision Council. On the other hand, in a positive law title (such as Title 10 -- Armed Forces), Statutes at Large have been enacted directly to such title. Because of this distinction, it is not uncommon to find such words as title or Act appearing in the text of a Statutes at Large which have been codified to a non-positive law title of the Code. While such language is preserved in the U.S.C.S., the compilers of the U.S.C. substitute words such as 'chapter' or 'subchapter.' This substitutionary policy has, on several occasions, resulted in conflict between the U.S.C. and the Statutes at Large. For example, in one case it was held that use of the word 'Act' in the Statutes at Large prevailed over substitution of the word 'chapter' by the compilers of the Code (see United States v. Vivian (1955, CA7 Ill.), 224 F.2d. 53, cert den 350 U.S. 953, 100 L.Ed. 830, 76 S.Ct. 340 (1956)).

3.7 Declaration of Independence

The Declaration of Independence, as the first document of our organic law, presents a spiritual formal statement of the relationship between God the Creator, the People and their government. People have God given rights and these rights are as permanent and glorious as only God can make them. When government stops protecting those rights it is the duty of the people to alter or abolish that government. The purpose of government is to protect and secure these Rights. Furthermore, if a form of government becomes destructive of the Rights of the People it is the Right of the People to alter or abolish it. The statement of independence that was to announce the opening of formal hostilities with the world's greatest military power severed the connection with Great Britain. The Supreme Court has said the following about the Declaration of Independence"

"The equal protection demanded by the fourteenth amendment forbids this. No language is more worthy of frequent and thoughtful consideration than these words of Mr. Justice Matthews, speaking for this court, in Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356, 369, 6 S.Sup.Ct. 1064, 1071: 'When we consider the nature and the theory of our institutions of government, the principles upon which they are supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are constrained to conclude that they do not mean to leave room for the play and action of purely personal and arbitrary power.' The first official action of this nation declared the foundation of government in these words: 'We hold these truths to be self-evident, [165 U.S. 150, 160] that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.' While such declaration of principles may not have the force of organic law, or be made the basis of judicial decision as to the limits of right and duty, and while in all cases reference must be had to the organic law of the nation for such limits, yet the latter is but the body and the letter of which the former is the thought and the spirit, and it is always safe to read the letter of the constitution in the spirit of the Declaration of Independence. No duty rests more imperatively upon the courts than the enforcement of those constitutional provisions intended to secure that equality of rights which is the foundation of free government."
 [Gulf, C. & S.F.R. Co. v. Ellis, 165 U.S. 150 (1897) ]

3.7.1 Dysfunctional Government

You will find in the Declaration of Independence, following the second paragraph, a long list of injuries, including one which imposed, "...Taxes on us without our Consent," the intent of which was, "...the Establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States", by the King of Great Britain. Taxes have that power when the sovereign is a king. The Declaration of Independence removed the King as sovereign and replaced him with the People. The American Revolution was fought to establish what had already been declared. Despotism, bureaucratic tax agents belittle our claims to be individual sovereign state citizens. That is exactly what we are and the Declaration of Independence proves it.

3.7.2 God Given Rights

Inviolable Rights of Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness were obtained directly from God. This is what the governments of the thirteen original States were founded to protect and this is what they would continue to do. Governments are expendable, but not the People's rights. The king wouldn't secure their God given rights, so the People have the right to institute new government. On this subject, Thomas Jefferson, who authored our Declaration of Independence, wrote:

"Can the liberties of a nation be thought secure when we have removed their only firm basis, a conviction in the minds of the people that these liberties are of the gift of God? That they are not to be violated but with His wrath?"
 [Thomas Jefferson: Notes on Virginia Q.XVIII, 1782. ME 2:227 ]

Read the first, second and last paragraphs again with these thoughts: all people, including the king, are equal before God, the people have all God given rights and governments exist only to preserve the rights of the people or the people will establish new government. What you don't find there is also very important. They have no duty or obligation to government. The only duty that the People have is to throw off despotic Government. Government only exists to protect the rights of the People. Having done that it must leave the People alone. There are a few things the People must do. They owe allegiance and defense to each other, which they discharge by their allegiance to the country, and they must sit as sovereigns on juries, when capable, to fully preserve their sovereignty.

3.7.3 Taxation Without Consent

One of the great usurpations and abuses that was complained of was the imposition of Taxes without consent. That was an acknowledgment that taxation had to meet constitutional criteria and conformance with law. In a free country all taxation is voluntary. In colonial America, income taxes were collected by promise or agreement. Thomas Paine had been such a tax collector in England when he had been employed as an excise officer.

As a consumer you pay taxes you are not fully aware of because the tax is hidden in the cost of goods and services. The payment of indirect taxes is fair because you are always free to buy or not. The People can alter or abolish government. The basic premise in American government is that the People always have the power to change government when it becomes destructive of the Rights of the People. The People can do it on a grand republican scale by electing a brand new House of Representatives every two years. The People speak through their new Congress. The People can also exercise the power of government on an individual basis when they sit on a jury or by simply not buying a taxed commodity when they feel the tax is wrong or just too high. The People can change government by the taxes they pay or refuse to pay. No tax has permitted fewer choices or has caused more problems than the tax called the income tax.

3.8 U.S. Constitution

*"The Bible is the bed-rock on which our Republic rests."
[Andrew Jackson (1767-1845)]*

*"The moral principles and precepts contained in the Scriptures ought to form the basis of all our civil constitutions and laws. All the miseries and evils which men suffer from vice, crime, ambition, injustice, oppression, slavery, and war, proceed from their despising or neglecting the precepts contained in the Bible."
[Noah Webster]*

*"Good intentions will always be pleaded for every assumption of authority. It is hardly too strong to say that the Constitution was made to guard the people against the dangers of good intentions. There are men in all ages who mean to govern well, but they mean to govern. They promise to be good masters, but they mean to be masters."
[Noah Webster]*

*"We have the Bill of Rights. What we need is a Bill of Responsibilities."
[Bill Maher, comedian and commentator, 1995]*

The U.S. Constitution is the Supreme law of the land and supersedes all other laws. You can read it for yourself at the following website:

<http://www.access.gpo.gov/congress/senate/constitution/toc.html>

The courts have said the following about laws that conflict with the Constitution:

*"A judge has no more right to disregard the Constitution than a criminal has to violate the law."
[People ex rel. Sammons v. Snow, 72 A.L.R. 798]*

*"An unconstitutional act is not a law; it confers no rights; it imposes no duties; it affords no protection; it creates no office; it is in legal contemplation, as inoperative as though it had never been passed."
[Norton v. Shelby County, 118 U.S. 425 (1885)]*

*"No higher duty, or more solemn responsibility, rest upon this Court than that of translating into living law and maintaining this Constitutional shield deliberately planned and inscribed for the benefit of every human being subject to our Constitution-of whatever race, creed or persuasion."
[Chambers v. Florida, 309 U.S. 227 (1938)]*

"And the Constitution itself is in every real sense a law-the lawmakers being the people themselves, in whom under our system all political power and sovereignty primarily resides, and through whom such power and sovereignty primarily speaks. It is by that law, and not otherwise, that the legislative, executive, and judicial agencies which it created exercise such political authority as they have been permitted to possess. The Constitution speaks for itself in terms so plain that to misunderstand their import is not rationally possible. 'We the People of the United States,' it says, 'do ordain and establish this Constitution.' Ordain and establish! These are definite words of enactment, and without more would stamp what follows with the dignity and

1 character of law. The framers of the Constitution, however, were not content to let the matter rest here, but
 2 provided explicitly-*'This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance
 3 thereof; ... shall be the supreme Law of the Land.'* (Const. art. 6, cl. 2.) The supremacy of the Constitution as
 4 law is thus declared without qualification. That supremacy is absolute; the supremacy of a statute enacted by
 5 Congress is not absolute but conditioned upon its being made in pursuance of the Constitution. And a
 6 judicial tribunal, clothed by that instrument with complete judicial power, and, therefore, by the very nature of 7 the power, required to ascertain and apply the law to the facts in every case or proceeding properly brought for 8 adjudication, must apply the supreme law and reject the inferior stat- [298 U.S. 238, 297] ute whenever

15 3.8.1 Constitutional Government

16 The People should rule themselves but not as a mob. The Framers of the Constitution did not establish a democracy for they 17 knew that would be a government of many possible tyrants. Ultimately, We the People of the United States established the 18 Constitution for the United States of America and created a republic. That great document is both a limitation and 19 prohibition on the federal government.

20 3.8.2 Enumerated Powers, Four Taxes & Two Rules

21 The Framers of the Constitution came up with ingenious plans for protecting themselves, their children and us from 22 despotic government and unreasonable taxation. Their plans were simple, effective and they're still in the Constitution.
 23 Government is limited to specific powers and taxation is limited to four taxes imposed using two rules. The federal
 24 government is given the exclusive power to tax imports using the two taxes on imports, imposts and duties. Specific 25 activities, commodities, employments, professions and vocations may be taxed by excise. When people or property are 26 taxed, specific amounts are to be apportioned among the States. The federal government was not given the general police
 27 power which is what the states use to rule. The states can use the police power to create new excises.

28 3.8.3 Constitutional Taxation Protection

29 There are three clauses in the Constitution that protect "We the people", from the passage of unfair taxes by Congress. The 30 first one is located at Article I, Section 2, Clause 3. It commands that Representatives and direct taxes are to be apportioned
 31 among the several States. This clause is also very important because it is the first place where we'll see how the text of the 32 original Constitution looks after it has been amended. The original will be marked in some way, usually by an asterisk or by 33 italics and reference will be made to an amendment. Clause 3 was amended by Section 2 of the Fourteenth Amendment. If 34 you look up that section in the Fourteenth Amendment you will see that no change was made in the requirement that direct
 35 taxes be apportioned. It is extremely important that only Constitutions which have been printed by the U.S. Government
 36 Printing Office be used. This subsection will establish that none of the taxing clauses of the Constitution were changed by 37 the Sixteenth Amendment.

38 The second clause appears at Article I, Section 8, Clause 1. This clause establishes Congressional power to lay and collect
 39 taxes. The clause names "Taxes", which mean direct taxes and the three types of indirect taxes: Duties, Imposts and Excises
 40 and requires that they be uniform throughout the United States. Once you go through the entire Chapter 5 of this document, 41 you will see why Chief Justice Melville Fuller said in Pollock v. Farmers' Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429 (1895), there are 42 only four taxes.

43 The third taxing clause appears at Article I, Section 9, Clause 4. It states again, that all direct taxes have to be apportioned
 44 among the several states according to the census. Why is it that the founding fathers put so many protections into the 45 constitution to precisely define the extent of authorized federal taxation and require that all direct federal taxes must be
 46 done through apportionment? Here are a few reasons:

47 "No servant can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to 48 the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon."
 49 [Jesus [God] speaking in the Bible, Luke 16:13, NOTE: According to Webster's dictionary, "mammon" is 50 defined as "material wealth or possessions esp. as having a debasing influence"]

1 By requiring apportionment when assessing direct federal taxes against people or property in the states, the founders
 2 ensured that the only income taxing authority that individuals were directly accountable to was their state government. The
 3 apportionment requirement also ensured that tax bills, like representation of the people in the states within the House of 4 Representatives, was proportional to population of each state. The state government then acted as the intermediary for state
 5 Citizens with the federal government, and the federal government's role was then to handle foreign relations, war, and the 6 military and to have no police powers, jurisdiction, or authority within the borders of the states. Why?:

- 7 1. They didn't want TWO masters, both of whom would oppressively tax them.
- 8 2. Their state governments would be closer, more accessible, and more accountable to them than a distant and detached 9 federal government, and therefore would be less likely to abusively tax them.
- 10 3. They wanted checks and balances in the power structure, where lawyers in their state legislature would keep in check
 11 unethical lawyers in the federal government, so that neither one of the two would gain too much money or too much
 12 power in the event that corruption occurred.

13 3.8.4 Colonial Taxation Light

14 It is now generally recognized by historians that compared to us the people in the Colonies were not heavily taxed. Taxes,
 15 then, were perceived as a great governmental interference with their lives. The Revolution was fought to be free from 16 taxation without representation. It is very likely that everyone knew, then, a lot more about taxes than we know today.
 17 Back then property owners absolutely knew that the apportionment process protected them from confiscation by taxation of 18 their property. We must always remember that our Revolution was a revolt instigated by property owners to protect the 19 freedom to acquire and protect property.

20 Today, we're heavily taxed and the people still don't know the difference. All tax authorities agree that people, through a 21 capitation tax or property by a property tax are the subjects of direct taxes, and activities, occasions and events are the 22 subjects of indirect taxes.

23 3.8.5 Taxation Recapitulation

24 This then, is the taxing scheme devised by the Framers of the Constitution: Congress has exclusive power to impose duties
 25 and imposts on imports. Indirect taxes on harmful or regulated activities can bring in additional steady, regular money.
 26 Direct taxation of people or property is available on an as needed basis but the tax has to be apportioned. Taxes on imports
 27 at various times in the country's history are sufficient to supply all the revenue needed by the federal government so that the 28 excises on alcohol and tobacco are lifted. Indirect taxes bring in so much money that direct taxes have only been used
 29 infrequently. The last time was during the Civil War. Indirect taxes are the kind the Citizen can easily live with, because 30 they can be avoided. In a free country all taxes must be voluntary, in the sense of the Declaration of Independence. Consent
 31 to tax is given when we own real property knowing it will be taxed according to its value. We consent to indirect taxes,
 32 when we purchase the product whose price holds the hidden tax. To avoid the tax just don't buy the commodity that is the 33 product of the taxed activity. Don't smoke tobacco products or drink alcoholic spirits and you won't have to pay the 34 indirect excise tax hidden in the purchase price or suffer the ill health they cause.

35 The Framers of the Constitution placed the apportionment requirement in two places of the Constitution. That tells us how 36 important they felt it was to protect the limitation of direct taxes on real or personal property.

37 3.8.6 Direct vs. Indirect Taxes

38 Under the Constitution, Congress can impose two-and only two-different classes of taxes-direct taxes and indirect taxes.
 39 Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the Constitution states:

40 Representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several States..."

41 Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 states:

42 "No Capitation or other direct tax shall be laid unless in proportion to the Census or Enumeration herein
 43 before directed to be taken."

Americans are a highly mobile society, so some states could lose population over time while other states gained it. That's why there's a national census every ten years. Not to determine the number of pets, TV sets or bathrooms in your private residence—to determine both the number of Representatives to be elected from each state and the proportionate share of each states' direct tax burden, should Congress decide to impose a direct tax.

The meaning of direct taxes was alleged by the Supreme Court to not be clearly defined by the framers of the constitution. Most of the understanding we have of the meaning of “direct taxes” comes from the findings of the Supreme Court in several of the cases it has heard over the years. Let’s look further at a few prominent Supreme Court cases to help define clearly what a direct tax is. First we will look at the case of Veazie Bank v. Fenno, 75 U.S. 533 (1869):

This review shows that personal property, contracts, occupations, and the like, have never been regarded by Congress as proper subjects of direct tax.

It may be rightly affirmed, therefore, that in the practical construction of the Constitution by Congress, direct taxes have been limited to taxes on land and appurtenances, and taxes on polls, or capitation taxes.

From the above discussion, we can see that the definition of “direct tax” has evolved over the years because it was not adequately defined by the framers of the Constitution, either during the Constitutional convention or in the Constitution itself. Therefore, it is probably pointless to focus on the “direct tax” issue in your litigation or involvement with the IRS. A more productive approach for tax honesty advocates is to focus on the limits of the authority of the federal government imposed by clauses within the Constitution:

1. Article I, Section 8, Clause 1.
2. Article I, Section 8, Clause 3.

These clauses clearly spell out those “sources” or conditions which may be subject to regulation (and consequently taxation) by the federal government. They are the subject of the next section.

3.8.7 Article I, Section 8, Clauses 1 and 3: The Power to Tax and Regulate Commerce

Article I, Section 8, Clause 1: “The Congress shall have Power To lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform throughout the United States; “

This clause serves a two-fold purpose: it is the direct source of the most important powers that the Federal Government exercises in peacetime, and, except for the due process and equal protection clauses of the Fourteenth Amendment, it is the most important limitation imposed by the Constitution on the exercise of the U.S. Government’s taxing power. The latter, restrictive operation of the clause was long the more important one from the point of view of the constitutional lawyer. Of the approximately 1400 cases which reached the Supreme Court under the clause prior to 1900, the overwhelming proportion stemmed from state legislation. The result was that, generally, the guiding lines in construction of the clause were initially laid down in the context of curbing state power rather than in that of its operation as a source of national power. The consequence of this historical progression was that the word “commerce” came to dominate the clause while the word “regulate” remained in the background. The so-called “constitutional revolution” of the 1930s, however, brought the latter word to its present prominence.

Article I, Section 8, Clause 3: “To regulate Commerce with foreign Nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian Tribes;”

You will note that the above precludes regulating commerce “within” states, but only “among” or “between” states. In Gibbons v. Ogden, Chief Justice Marshall observed that the phrase “among the several States” was “not one which would probably have been selected to indicate the completely interior traffic of a state.” It must therefore have been selected to demark “the exclusively internal commerce of a state.” While, of course, the phrase “may very properly be restricted to that commerce which concerns more states than one,” it is obvious that “[c]ommerce among the states, cannot stop at the exterior boundary line of each state, but may be introduced into the interior.” The Chief Justice then succinctly stated the rule, which, though restricted in some periods, continues to govern the interpretation of the clause. “The genius and character of the whole government seem to be, that its action is to be applied to all the external concerns of the nation, and to those internal concerns which affect the states generally; but not to those which are completely within a particular state,

1 which do not affect other states, and with which it is not necessary to interfere, for the purpose of executing some of the
 2 general powers of the government." The implication of these conclusions therefore are that the Congress can tax imports
 3 into states from outside the country but not exports from states or economic activity within states, as shown by Article 1,
 4 Section 9, Clause 5 of the Constitution:

5 Article 1, Section 9, Clause 5: No Tax or Duty shall be laid on Articles exported from any State.

6 Recognition of an "exclusively internal" commerce of a State, or "intrastate commerce" in today's terms, was at times
 7 regarded as setting out an area of state concern that Congress was precluded from reaching. While these cases seemingly
 8 visualized Congress' power arising only when there was an actual crossing of state boundaries, this view ignored the 9 Marshall's equation of "intrastate commerce," which "affect[s] other states" or "with which it is necessary to interfere" in 10 order to effectuate congressional power, with those actions that are "purely" interstate. This equation came back into its 11 own, both with the Court's stress on the "current of commerce" bringing each element in the current within Congress'
 12 regulatory power, with the emphasis on the interrelationships of industrial production to interstate commerce but especially
 13 with the emphasis that even minor transactions have an effect on interstate commerce and that the cumulative effect of 14 many minor transactions with no separate effect on interstate commerce, when they are viewed as a class, may be sufficient
 15 to merit congressional regulation. "Commerce among the states must, of necessity, be commerce with[in] the states. . . . The 16 power of congress, then, whatever it may be, must be exercised within the territorial jurisdiction of the several states."

17 This clause of the constitution is extremely important, because it is the source from which the authority for ALL of the U.S.
 18 Codes and the C.F.R.'s are derived relative to taxation. It also serves to explain the constraints imposed by the following 19 cites from these statutes and regulations:

- 20 1. 26 U.S.C. §861, which limits taxable "sources" to foreign sources and interstate commerce, and not income of citizens
 21 from within the 50 Union states.
- 22 2. 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8, which limits taxable "sources" to foreign sources, and not income of citizens from within the 50
 23 Union states.
- 24 3. 26 C.F.R. §1.863-1, which describes how to compute taxable income form sources within the United States.
- 25 4. The definition of "Employee" found in 26 U.S.C. §3401(c ). An "employee" within the I.R.C. is someone who works
 26 for the federal government, because the U.S. Government has no right to regulate the activities of private companies 27 within a state or individual states!
- 28 5. The definition of "Withholding agent" in 26 U.S.C. §7701. This person is responsible under 26 U.S.C. §1441, 1442, 29 1443, and 1461, to withhold on income of persons from foreign sources.

30 This clause, therefore, forms the foundation and the bedrock of the ALL of the "source" arguments described throughout 31 this document!

34 3.8.8 Bill of Rights

35 "The very purpose of the Bill of Rights was to withdraw certain subjects from the vicissitudes of political 36 controversy, to place them beyond the reach of majorities and officials and to establish them as legal principles
 37 to be applied by the courts. One's right to life, liberty, and property, to free speech, a free press, freedom of 38 worship and assembly, and other fundamental rights may not be submitted to vote; they depend on the 39 outcome of no elections for Congressional statutes or laws either, as was the case above!"
 40 [West Virginia State Board of Education v. Barnette, 319 U.S. 624, 63 S.Ct. 1178 (1943)]

41 The first ten amendments to the U.S. Constitution are collectively called the Bill of Rights. The Bill of Rights are restraints 42 on the powers of the federal government in relation to citizens in the 50 states of the Union. Until the Fourteenth
 43 Amendment was passed, they did not constrain the powers of state governments with respect to their citizens. Up until the 44 passage of the Fourteenth Amendment, the only constraint on state powers were the Constitutions of each respective state.

45 It is very important to consider where the Bill of Rights apply. Many Americans mistakenly believe that the Bill of Rights
 46 apply everywhere in the United States* (the country) and are a result of our citizenship. In fact, the Bill of Rights have very 47 little to do with our citizenship and everything to do with where you live as you will learn in chapter 4. The Bill of Rights

IMPORTANT: Those areas listed above where there are no Constitutional rights are the only areas where direct income taxes under Subtitle A can be applied to individuals without apportionment and without violating (clauses 1:9:4 and 1:2:3 of) the Constitution. Everyplace else, it isn't a tax, but a donation.

The above table is also a consequence of Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Constitution, which empowers Congress with exclusive legislative and territorial jurisdiction over its property and the people living on it. We cover this matter later in more detail in sections 4.6.3, 4.9, and 6.5.2.

3.8.8.1 1st Amendment: The Right to Petition the Government for Redress of Grievances

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

[First Amendment, Emphasis added]

This amendment is intended to allow ordinary citizens, through the legal and judicial processes in place, to petition the government for redress of their grievances. This includes grievances related to the injustice and unconstitutionality of income taxes as they are currently being enforced by the IRS. As we point out in great detail in section 6.9, there is in reality a “judicial conspiracy” by the federal courts to skirt addressing the unconstitutionality of the income taxes, which directly violates the First Amendment to the Constitution and represents “institutional treason” by the courts. We believe that the origin of this has to do with the fact that federal judges are appointed rather than elected by politicians in the U.S. government. This leads to them wanting to pander to the desires of the federal politicians who appointed them rather than the voters and citizens who they are there to protect and defend. This leads to the conclusion that the separation of powers built into our federal system has not worked, and has been transcended by a conspiracy to extort money out of U.S. citizens in a federal income tax racketeering scheme unprecedented in the history of the world.

The First Amendment involves your freedom to speak to your government. It also includes your right not to speak to your government (on a Form 1040). Forcing you to speak on a 1040 would violate your First Amendment rights. The following excerpt from the U.S. supreme Court clearly identifies the intent of the First Amendment.

1                   "This case involves a cancer in our body politic. It is a measure of the disease which afflicts us. ... Those who
 2 already walk submissively will say there is no cause for alarm. But submissiveness is not our heritage. The First
 3 Amendment was designed to allow rebellion to remain as our heritage. The Constitution was designed to keep
 4 the government off the backs of the people. ... The Bill of Rights was designed to keep agents of government and
 5 official eavesdroppers away from assemblies of people. The aim was to allow men to be free and independent
 6 and to assert their rights against government. ... When an intelligence [or IRS agent] officer looks over every 7 nonconformist's shoulder... the America once extolled as the voice of liberty heard around the world no longer
 8 is cast in the image which Jefferson and Madison designed, but more in the Russian image...."
 9 [US Supreme Court, Laird v. Tatum, 408 U.S. 1, page 28 additional comments added for emphasis]

10 Please refer to section 6.9 entitled "Judicial Conspiracy to Protect the Income Tax: The Changing Definition of 'Direct,
 11 Indirect, and Excise Taxes'" and section 5.12 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 entitled "How the 12 Federal Judiciary Stole the Right to Petition" for a more detailed, fascinating, and scholarly treatment of how the First 13 Amendment is being violated by the federal courts.

14 3.8.8.2 4th Amendment: Prohibition Against Violation of Privacy and Unreasonable Search and Seizure 15 Without Probable Cause

16                   The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches
 17 and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by Oath or 18 affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.
 19 [Fourth Amendment, Emphasis added]

20 Collection activity of income taxes by the IRS, if it occurs outside of the federal zone, is clearly implemented in a way that 21 violates the 4th Amendment. This is because it is quite common for the IRS to unlawfully search and seize property of 22 persons who have not paid their taxes without a search warrant. For examples of such abuse, refer to the following website:

23 Violation of Due Process Examples: <http://www.neo-tech.com/irs-class-action/>

24 3.8.8.3 5th Amendment: Self Incrimination and Due Process Rights

25 3.8.8.3.1 Introduction

26                   No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or
 27 indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual
 28 service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in
 29 jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be
 30 deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public
 31 use, without just compensation.
 32 [Fifth Amendment, Emphasis added]

33 Income taxes are clearly illegal from the perspective that compelling people (under threat of penalties and fines if they 34 don't) to file 1040 income tax forms each year under penalty of perjury is in effect forcing them to act as a witness against
 35 themselves and incriminate themselves under penalty of perjury. This finding is in agreement with the U.S. Supreme 36 Court's ruling in the case of Garner v. United States, 424 U.S. 648 (1976), in which the court said that tax returns are 37 compelled and constitute the testimony of a witness. Income taxes are also unconstitutional because the IRS often takes 38 people's private property without due process of law (a court hearing) or just compensation.

39 3.8.8.3.2 More IRS Double-Speak/Illogic

40 The IRS, however, often attempts to downplay their routine violation of these rights of the people. Below is the IRS'
 41 official response, gleaned from one of their pamphlets on tax protesters, that directly addresses the issue of one's right not to 42 incriminate oneself:<sup>24</sup>

43                   Protester Claim: Filing a form 1040 violates the Fifth Amendment right to self-incrimination and the Fourth
 44 Amendment right to privacy.

*IRS Official Response: "There is no Constitutional right to refuse to file an income return because of the Fifth Amendment. The courts have uniformly held that disclosure of the type of routine financial information required on a tax return does not, in and of itself, incriminate an individual and does not violate either one's Fifth or Fourth Amendment rights.
[United States v. Neff, United States v. Turk, Hallowell v. Commissioner, Baker v. Commissioner, Brushaber v. Union Pacific RR]"*

The point of the above Alice in Wonderland double-speak is, that the main entities or "persons" (note that corporations and partnerships also qualify as "persons") who are liable to file income tax returns have NO constitutionally protected rights because they:

1. Are citizens living overseas or in federal territories and have no constitutional rights per the Supreme Court Case of Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901) mentioned in section 3.14.6. This includes those living in the in Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico, or District of Columbia.
2. As "legal fictions", they are required to rely on a benefit or privilege bestowed by the government for their existence or livelihood. For instance, corporations, trusts, and partnerships must file because they are "creatures or creations of the state" who owe their very existence to the state, as described in the U.S. Supreme Court case of Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43 (1906) appearing in section 3.14.7.

For both of these types of "persons", YES, they should rightfully file income tax returns and can be compelled by the government to do so, and also fall under the ambit of the 16th Amendment.

3.8.8.3 IRS Fear Tactics to Keep You "Volunteering"

But what about "natural persons" such as you and I? Did you notice that the IRS bubbas didn't remind you that you had a right as a natural born Citizen of one of a states within the united States, to refuse to SIGN the returns under penalty of perjury because of your Fifth Amendment right to not become a witness against yourself? Interestingly, they didn't mention that when you do this, based on their regulations, they in effect pretend like you didn't "file" at all and can prosecute you for "willful failure to file" under 26 U.S. Code §7203! There is also $500 fine for not signing a return or providing a frivolous return (called the Jurat amendment). But if non-incrimination is a right, how can they tax or penalize or fine or criminalize the exercise of it? The fact of the matter is that they can't because that would put them at odds with the Constitution! They know that you can't be compelled to sign the return because of your 5th Amendment rights, and if you don't sign it, the return is worthless in a court of law and doesn't qualify for use as evidence against you, so they scare the hell out of you with the "willful failure to file" threat and then out of the other side of their mouth pretend like you "volunteered"! But then if you don't sign it, they treat it as a valid return anyway for the purposes of prosecuting you under 26 U.S.C. §6702 for a frivolous return (see the case of Lovell v. United States, 755 F.2d. 517). Isn't that twisted illogic on their part? Not signing the return you are compelled to provide is the only way you can protect your Constitutional right to not incriminate yourself as a natural born person, not to mention your loved ones, because your return can be used as evidence against others as well. However, if you choose not to sign the return, you need some way to authenticate that it was you who provided it. Therefore, we recommend that you file a separate affidavit with it from a notary public proving that you were the one who provided the form to the IRS, so they can at least have assurances that you provided the form.

Each year the IRS indicts several hundred individuals who have not filed tax returns in order to keep a degree of fear alive in the general public and keep them "volunteering". Although the IRS refers to the filing of returns as "voluntary", it has both criminal and civil statutory penalties under Subtitle F of the Internal Revenue Code for those individuals who do not "volunteer". What the IRS and the government don't tell you is that these statutory penalties have no implementing regulations that apply them to the Income tax in Subtitle A! It's all a big bluff. Some people have made an entire profession out of pointing this fact out and using it as a very effective administrative defense. Most of the people who are harmed by illegal IRS enforcement don't know about the nonexistence of implementing regulations. That is why any challenge or stand you make for the truth and the Bill of Rights is serious business, and why you must know what you are doing. You are dealing with a corrupt government agency and a major judicial conspiracy to protect the income tax. The actions of both the IRS and the courts have the blessing of our elected representatives. That is why this situation can only be changed by the people themselves.

3.8.8.4 Non-Self-Incrimination Right (not PRIVILEGE, but RIGHT) Defined

Barron's law dictionary explains the application of the 5th amendment quite succinctly, and we repeat it here for your benefit:<sup>25</sup>

SELF-INCRIMINATION, PRIVILEGE AGAINST:

the constitutional right of a person [in this case they mean a natural born person, instead of a "corporation", which is also a "person" from the perspective of the tax code] to refuse to answer questions or otherwise give testimony against himself or herself which will subject him or her to an incrimination. This right under the Fifth Amendment (often called simply PLEADING THE FIFTH AMENDMENT) is now applicable to the states through the due process clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, 378 U.S. 1, 8, and is applicable in any situation, civil or criminal, where the state attempts to compel incriminating testimony. See 378 U.S. 52, 94. The right may be waived where the defendant testifies, 356 U.S. 148, 157, and the privilege does not preclude the use of voluntary confessions, provided that the requirements of the Miranda rule have been complied with. 384 U.S. 436, 478.

The requisite compulsion will include any threat calculated to interfere with the unfettered free will of the suspect. Thus, the privilege has been held to bar the dismissal of a police officer for refusal to testify regarding matters that might incriminate him or her and for refusal to waive immunity from prosecution if forced to testify. 392 U.S. 273. The testimony could not validly be used, as "the protection of the individual under the Fourteenth Amendment against coerced statements prohibits use in subsequent criminal proceedings of statements obtained under threat of removal from office, and that extends to all, whether they are policemen or members of our body politic. 385 U.S. 493, 500.

In general, only criminal sanctions are within privilege and testimony can be compelled despite the personal, social, or economic costs to the witness. For example, a mother having no statutory evidentiary privilege could be compelled to testify against her child and would not be able to plead the privilege against self-incrimination unless she too feared a personal criminal sanction. If she persisted in her refusal to testify, she could be found in contempt

[...skipped irrelevant sections...]

The privilege can be displaced by a grant of TESTIMONIAL [USE] IMMUNITY which guarantees that neither the compelled testimony nor any fruits will be used against the witness. Given such immunity, the witness can no longer fear incrimination and thus cannot plead the privilege against self-incrimination, 406 U.S. 441; 406 U.S. 472. Some states give such witnesses a broader form of TRANSACTIONAL IMMUNITY which protects them not merely from use of their testimony but from any prosecution brought about relating to transactions about which relevant testimony was elicited. see, e.g. N.Y. Crim. Proc. Law §50.10 (McKinney). Transactional immunity was previously the federal standard, 18 U.S.C. §2514, but was replaced in 1970 by testimonial immunity, 18 U.S.C. §6002. Immunity from federal prosecution may only be given by a federal prosecutor, not a judge. As such, a witness may invoke a broad self-incrimination privilege in a civil suit, in which the federal prosecutor is not involved. See 103 S.Ct. 608. Once granted immunity, a witness who refuses to testify can be punished for contempt. The privilege against self-incrimination, like all constitutional rights, may be waived. Miranda warnings are generally necessary before such a waiver will be found to qualify a confession as admissible evidence for a criminal trial.

The rule does not extend to nontestimonial compulsion. Thus, blood tests may be compelled from the accused because they are "noncommunicative," i.e., the evidence is considered physical or real and not testimonial so as to invoke the protection of the privilege. On the same reasoning, the Court has permitted compelled line-ups, 388 U.S. 218, 221, and handwritten exemplars. 388 U.S. 263, 266.

First of all, you will note that the 5th Amendment right, is referred to as a "privilege" in the definition above from the legal dictionary. This kind of language is problem #1 with the legal profession as a whole, in that the government, aided and abetted by the legal profession and the American BAR Association, has apparently tried to make the exercise of our rights into privileges granted by the government, which is socialism, totalitarianism, and tyranny in action.

What the above definition clearly says is that the rights (not government-granted privileges, but rights) guaranteed by the Fifth Amendment involve both civil and criminal testimony. This was confirmed by the U.S. Supreme Court as well in Maness v. Meyers, 419 U.S. 449, 42 L.Ed.2d. 574, 95 S.Ct. 584 (1975):

"In Kastigar v. United States, 406 U.S. 441, 92 S.Ct. 1653, 32 L.Ed.2d. 212 (1972), we recently reaffirmed the principle that the privilege against self-incrimination can be asserted 'in any proceeding, civil or criminal, administrative or judicial, investigatory or adjudicatory.’ Id., at 444, 92 S.Ct., at 1656; Lefkowitz v. Turley, 414 U.S. 70, 77, 94 S.Ct. 316, 322, 38 L.Ed.2d. 274 (1973); Murphy v. Waterfront Comm’n, 378 U.S. 52, 94; 84 S.Ct. 1594, 1611, 12 L.Ed.2d. 678 (1964)(White, J., concurring); McCarthy v. Arndstein, 266 U.S. 34, 40, 45 S.Ct. 16, 17, 69 L.Ed. 158 (1924); United States v. Saline Bank, 1 Pet. 100, 7 L.Ed. 69 (1828); cf. Gardner v. Broderick, 392 U.S. 273, 88 S.Ct. 1913, 20 L.Ed.2d. 1082 (1968).”

“The privilege against compelled self-incrimination would be drained of its meaning if counsel, being lawfully present, as here, could be penalized for advising his client in good faith to assert it. The assertion of a testimonial privilege, as of many other rights, often depends upon legal advice from someone who is trained and skilled in the subject matter, and who may offer a more objective opinion. A layman may not be aware of the precise scope, the nuances, the boundaries of his Fifth Amendment privilege. It is not a self-executing mechanism; it can be affirmatively waived, or lost by not asserting it in a timely fashion. If performance of a lawyer’s duty to advise a client that a privilege is available exposes a lawyer to the threat of contempt for giving honest advice it is hardly debatable that some advocates may lose their zeal for forthrightness and independence.”

“There is a crucial distinction between citing a recalcitrant witness for contempt, United States v. Ryan, supra [402 U.S. 530; 91 S.Ct. 1580; 29 L.Ed.2d. 85 (1971)], and citing the witness’ lawyer for contempt based only on advice given in good faith to assert the privilege against self-incrimination.”

The IRS often tries to trick people into waiving this right and incriminating themselves by saying that "the 5th amendment only protects one from criminal prosecution and not civil prosecution", but as we can see from above, this is not true. Therefore, testimony cannot be compelled without a deliberate waiver of one's 5th Amendment right.

One tactic the IRS and the courts (judicial conspiracy to protect the income tax) have used to undermine the 5th Amendment protections of “natural persons” is to claim that the 5th Amendment only applies to “testimony”, and not to writings signed under penalty of perjury, such as tax returns. Testimony is defined in a legal dictionary as follows:

“a statement made by a witness under oath, usually related to a legal proceeding or legislative hearing. Evidence given by a competent witness under oath or affirmation as distinguished from evidence derived from writing and other sources...Although ‘testimony’ and ‘evidence’ are frequently used synonymously, the terms are not synonymous...Evidence is the broader term and includes all testimony, which is one species of evidence.” 470 S.W.2d. 679, 682. <sup>26</sup>

One interesting way of dealing with this type of legal argument and devious maneuvering by the government is to ensure that all your tax returns are submitted under oath, which makes them testimony that is immune to use in a court of law under the 5th Amendment. You will note that the statement at the end of the form 1040 does not contain an oath. This is deliberate. But you can add one by attaching a statement to your tax return and putting a note on the return saying that it is not valid without the attached statement, which has the oath and an affidavit from a notary public. The oath simply needs to state the same thing that they ask you to say before you testify in court, and should be notarized for authenticity:

“I, <<NAME>> do solemnly swear to tell the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help me God.”

Barron’s legal dictionary defines “oath” as follows:

“swearing to the truth of a statement; if one makes a statement under oath and knows it to be false, one may be subjected to a prosecution for perjury or other legal proceedings. Writings, (e.g. affidavits) as well as oral testimony may be made “under oath.” Compare affirmation. <sup>27</sup>

You will note that the IRS’ argument that a 1040 tax return does not constitute “testimony” because it is not given under oath is nonsense, because the statement at the end of the tax return states:

“Under penalties of perjury, I declare that I have examined this return and accompanying schedules and statements, and to the best of my knowledge and belief, they are true, correct, and complete. Declaration of preparer (other than taxpayer) is based on all information of which preparer has any knowledge”.

The essential feature of an oath is that it is a declaration (statement) given under penalty of perjury. A tax return is simply a written record, in effect, of a statement or testimony made by a “natural person” under penalty of perjury. The fact that penalty of perjury is involved is what gives the tax return the property of being useful as evidence in a court of law, which

1 in turn allows it to be used to criminally prosecute the Citizen who signs it. Therefore, once again, the 1040 form clearly
 2 violates the Fifth Amendment right to not incriminate oneself. Interestingly, the bible emphatically says we should not take
 3 oaths! Here are the words of Jesus himself on the subject, found in Matt. 5:33-37 (remember, the writer of this passage was 4 Matthew, who was formerly a tax collector before he became an apostle!):

5 *"Again you have heard that it was said to those of old, 'You shall not swear falsely, but shall perform your oaths
 6 to the Lord.'*

7 *"But I say to you, do not swear at all: neither by heaven, for it is God's throne; 35 nor by the earth, for it is 8 His footstool; nor by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great King.

9 "Nor shall you swear by your head, because you cannot make one hair white or black.

10 *"But let your 'Yes' be 'Yes,' and your 'No,' 'No.' For whatever is more than these is from the evil one.
 11 [Matt. 5:33-37, Bible, NKJV]*

12 One could therefore say that requiring an oath at the bottom of a tax return violates Christian beliefs!

13 The U.S. Supreme Court has repeatedly held that the mandate of the Fifth Amendment, which protects "persons" from 14 compulsory self-incrimination, applies only to "natural people" and not to "fictions". Therefore, individuals, trusts, estate,
 15 partnerships, and association, companies or corporations, limited liability companies and other kinds of business
 16 organizations recognized by the courts and the government are treated differently from individuals for Fifth Amendment
 17 purposes. The concept is known as the "Collective Entity Rule." See section 3.17.3 for more information on the Collective 18 Entity Rule.

19 Based on the above, you might want to obtain a grant of "TESTIMONIAL IMMUNITY" from the IRS prior to answering 20 any of their tax questions about you or signing your tax return, where they agree not to criminally prosecute you (or anyone
 21 else, for that matter) for anything you put on your tax return or which you testify about relative to the payment of income
 22 taxes. This kind of immunity can be both requested and granted under 18 U.S.C. Section 6002-6003, as described later in 23 section 3.10.1. That is why we refer to the Fifth Amendment issue as an important element in the concept of "voluntary
 24 compliance" that the IRS likes to obfuscate and confuse people about. However, we'd like to emphasize that Fifth
 25 Amendment rights do not extend to the right not to testify about OTHERS' income tax liabilities or financial information.
 26 For instance, if you have personal knowledge about someone else's earnings or tax liabilities, you can be compelled to 27 reveal that knowledge if it does not incriminate you personally. This might be one very good reason to file separate tax
 28 returns, even if you are married, and to ensure that your spouse doesn't know what is on the return—so he/she can't be
 29 implicated as a witness against you. This would apply to employers, for instance, with respect to information about their 30 employees. Under these circumstance, these employers can legally and rightfully be held in contempt of court for not 31 providing information about their employees. That is why it is best to give your employer as little information about 32 yourself as you can get by with.

33 Interestingly enough, if you refuse to file or sign a 1040 form and thereby exercise your Fifth Amendment right to not
 34 incriminate yourself, then the IRS often illegally files a Substitute for return on your behalf. They exceed their lawful
 35 authority found in 26 U.S.C. §6201 in doing so, because this section doesn't allow substitute for returns for Subtitle A
 36 income taxes. If you file without signing, the IRS treats you as though you didn't file at all. But guess what? They don't 37 sign it either! The hypocrites don't even follow their own laws unless the laws favor them! Remember that "absolute 38 power corrupts absolutely."

39 3.8.8.3.5 The Privacy Act Notice

40 Below is an excerpt from the Privacy Act Notice that appears in the 1040 Instruction Booklet:

41 *"We may give the information to the Department of Justice and to other Federal agencies, as provided by law.
 42 We may also give it to cities, states, the District of Columbia, U.S. Commonwealths or possessions, and certain 43 foreign governments to carry out their tax laws.*

44 If you do not file a return, do not give the information asked for, or give false information, you may be charged 45 penalties and you may be subject to criminal prosecution.."

1 The IRS is very aware of the fact that it has a legal right to use any information provided on a 1040 Form. The IRS is also
 2 aware that the Privacy Act requires all government agencies to inform the public about the law and to tell the public what
 3 the agency might do with the information requested, as well as to advise the public of the consequences of disobeying the
 4 law. That is why the IRS warns us that information on tax returns may be given to the Department of Justice.

5 The IRS goes to great lengths in its Privacy Act Notice to create a confusing situation. After all, the IRS wants you to think
 6 that you are required to file a return. At the same time, the IRS warns you that you are giving it information that it can use
 7 in a criminal case—yours! The Privacy Act Notice also states that individuals are required to file a return “for any tax for 8 which you are liable.” You are referred to I.R.C. Sections 6001, 6002, and 6012.

9 Get a copy of the IRS Code in the law library and read those sections. Chapter 13 also tells where you can buy one. Do
 10 you see a section anywhere in the Code that makes you liable to file a return? Only a few sections actually come close, but 11 they do not actually require you to file the return; the sections simply state that if you are liable, then you must file. The 12 reason they can’t require you to file a return is that then, you could say that you were compelled to testify against yourself!

13 Discuss these sections with your attorney, if you have one. Your attorney will have to conclude that in and of itself, the 14 language of these sections does not make you liable to pay an income tax.<sup>28</sup> Your attorney will likely further conclude that 15 you are not liable for the tax unless and until you voluntarily file a return. Such action is what assesses or bills you—by 16 signing the bill, you are making a promise to pay. Again, there is no section in the Internal Revenue Code that generally 17 makes individuals liable to pay an income tax.

18 3.8.8.3.6 IRS Deception In The Privacy Act Notice

19 The Privacy Act Notice by the IRS does not mention that the only purpose of the Department of Justice is to investigate and 20 prosecute crimes. If it did so, more folks might pause and ask why the IRS would be alerting them to the possible sharing
 21 of their individual return information with that prosecutorial agency. This is clearly deceitful. The IRS does not really
 22 want you to know that you are providing information that it can and will use against you. However, the IRS knows that
 23 it must have something in print to point to in the event you later try to claim you were never told that you were waiving
 24 your Fifth Amendment protections of your rights by “volunteering” the information. Note that the Fifth Amendment states
 25 that you cannot be compelled to witness against yourself; and note further that the Fifth Amendment protections do not
 26 apply if you can be tricked into voluntarily witnessing against yourself. Doesn’t this make you just a teensy bit mad?

27 At the risk of belaboring this point, the IRS would not be required to give the warning that information may be given to the 28 Department of Justice unless it were allowed to use information on tax returns for criminal cases. So when we read the 29 Privacy Act Notice, we should know beyond a doubt that filing returns is indeed “voluntary” because the IRS is warning us
 30 that it can give the information to the Department of Justice. To say it one more time: when you send in a tax return, you
 31 have been forewarned how the information may be used. Since, in spite of that warning, you have voluntarily given the 32 information on the return to the government, you cannot later object if the IRS or the Department of Justice later decide to 33 use the information against you in a criminal prosecution.

34 3.8.8.3.7 Jesus’ Approach to the 5th Amendment Issue

35 For Christians, what is the biblical/God-endorsed model for self-incrimination? We find this in Mark 15:3-5 in the words
 36 and actions of Jesus Himself when he was tried before the Chief Priests:

37 "And the Chief Priests accused Jesus of many things: but he answered them nothing.

38 And Pilate asked him again saying, 'Answerest thou nothing?' Behold how many things they witness against 39 thee. But Jesus yet answered nothing; so Pilate marveled."
 40 [Mark 15:3-5, Bible, NKJV]

41 Jesus, at his trial before the Court of Pilate, said nothing. He stood mute. The record shows that this act was so unusual, so
 42 wise, that the Judge of His case marveled. The Greek word used here is "thaumazo" meaning, by implication, to admire.
 43 Have you ever wondered about that, this curious marveling by Pilate? You see, Jesus refused to testify into Pilate's
 44 jurisdiction!

<sup>28</sup> The lawmakers did not simply misspeak here. Contrast these sections with Section 5005, for example, which very clearly specifies that if you distill or import distilled spirits, such action makes you liable for the tax.

1 Yet, there are Christians today, when compelled into court, who seem to be prone to keep talking until by their very words
2 there is enough evidence admitted into the record to convict them without any further witnesses. Did you know that 90% of
3 all convictions are obtained by admissions and confessions, generally unwittingly, obtained from the defendant himself? It
4 is almost an axiom of law that all of the evidence that will ever be used against a defendant will be furnished by the
5 defendant. This is why the government and local police investigators do all they can to get you to talk to them about the
6 case, giving them your side of the story. Even if you are innocent, it is your words, uttered during the frustration of being
7 incarcerated and not knowing what will happen next, that will be pieced together to frame up a case against you. Therefore,
8 when you are in custody of the police or federal agents of any kind, do not make any statements or answer any questions,
9 even as to the weather or where you live. You are to stand mute, say nothing, and keep your mouth shut on any and all
10 subjects just as Jesus did. Do not demand a lawyer or permit yourself to be released on bond, for in so doing you may grant
11 them jurisdiction that they might not otherwise have, and thereby forfeit one of your rights under the Common Law.

12 Like Jesus, we should stand mute even though you are threatened with contempt of court or even if you think you can
13 answer the questions to your legal advantage. The very first question from the judge that you answer, even to make a plea
14 of "not guilty," is an admission that this court has jurisdiction over you. Jurisdiction is a legal point of law that must be 15 determined by the court before it can move forward with your case. If that cannot be proven, the case must be dismissed.
16 Therefore, why volunteer to prove that point for them by answering questions of the court?

17 Further, if you answer as to how you plead, you not only admit to jurisdiction, but you admit to understanding the charges
18 that have been placed against you, and that you are therefore mentally competent to stand trial.

19 Remember the Chief Priests in their black robes are not going to appreciate what I have instructed you in these few
20 paragraphs. They want you to make admissions, even that you are not guilty, so that they can establish jurisdiction over 21 your person. They want you to volunteer evidence, such as fingerprints and photographs, without counsel of your choice
22 being present.

23 They are professionals at the use of words, fears, anxieties and threats to trick you into giving the admissions and
24 confessions they really need to get a conviction. The problem is that you assume that you are innocent until proven guilty or 25 that they will accept your simple explanation and drop the whole thing. Don't be so naive or take such a chance with your 26 future. Stand mute as Christ taught us and maybe even the court will marvel!

27 3.8.8.3.8 Conclusion

28 If you want more interesting reading on the subject of self-incrimination as it pertains to taxes, we refer you to the case of 29 U.S. v. Troescher, No. 95-55609, a case in which the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals agreed with Mr. Troescher's Fifth
30 Amendment defense against producing books and records, stating clearly that there was no "Tax Crime Exception" to the 31 Fifth Amendment -- a severe blow to IRS "tax crime" prosecutions. In support of the notion that there is a judicial 32 conspiracy to protect the income tax, the Troescher case was unpublished, because the judge didn't want others to be able 33 to read a success story like Mr. Troescher's. Therefore, you will either have to request the copy of the case directly from 34 the Ninth Circuit and won't find it in any electronic case database.

35 WARNING! If the IRS comes knocking, and you admit that you have business records, they can legally compel you to
36 produce them with a subpoena, and the courts will not regard the act of compelling you to produce them as a violation of 37 your Fifth Amendment rights! See Fisher v. United States, 425 U.S. 391 or U.S. v. Doe, 465 U.S. 605. If the act of making
38 or keeping the records in the first place was compelled and you make this clear, then you don't have to give them the
39 records because this violates the 5th Amendment. However, the IRS can't compel you to admit that you have records, and
40 their subpoena must specifically identify the records that they are requesting. Therefore, we advise NEVER admitting to
41 anyone whether or not you have business records, even if you indeed do have them. If they issue a summons to call you in 42 for questioning, then you can be compelled appear at the deposition but you are well within your rights to claim the Fifth 43 Amendment as an answer to every question.

44 Finally, the Fifth Amendment due process clause of the Constitution, demands reasonable specificity in criminal
45 prohibitions to enable a Citizen to conform to the law. The U.S. Supreme Court amplified this conclusion in the case of 46 Connally v. General Construction Co., 269 U.S. 385 (1926):

1 "A statute which either forbids or requires the doing of an act in terms so vague that men and women of
2 common intelligence must necessarily guess at its meaning and differ as to its application, violates the first
3 essential of due process of law."

4 [Connally v. General Construction Co., 269 U.S. 385 (1926)]

5 There have been many instances of due process abuse by the IRS and state taxing authorities in the collection of taxes that
6 were not owed by Americans. It is quite common for the IRS to send a "Notice of Levy" to banks or lien to county
7 recorders without a court order or a jury trial in order to seize property of sovereign American Nationals ("nationals") who
8 are not legally required to pay income taxes. Much of the IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998 was intended to 9 eliminate the absence of due process in the tax enforcement activities of the IRS. See the following websites for further

25 3.8.8.5 10th Amendment: Reservation of State's Rights

26 The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are 27 reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.

28 [Tenth Amendment, Emphasis added]

29 "The Tenth Amendment was intended to confirm the understanding of the people at the time the Constitution was adopted,
30 that powers not granted to the United States were reserved to the States or to the people. It added nothing to the instrument
31 as originally ratified."<sup>29</sup> "The amendment states but a truism that all is retained which has not been surrendered. There is 32 nothing in the history of its adoption to suggest that it was more than declaratory of the relationship between the national
33 and state governments as it had been established by the Constitution before the amendment or that its purpose was other
34 than to allay fears that the new federal government might seek to exercise powers not granted, and that the states might not
35 be able to exercise fully their reserved powers."<sup>30</sup> That this provision was not conceived to be a yardstick for measuring the 36 powers granted to the Federal Government or reserved to the States was firmly settled by the refusal of both Houses of 37 Congress to insert the word "expressly" before the word "delegated,"<sup>31</sup> and was confirmed by Madison's remarks in the 38 course of the debate which took place while the proposed amendment was pending concerning Hamilton's plan to establish 39 a national bank. "Interference with the power of the States was no constitutional criterion of the power of Congress. If the 40 power was not given, Congress could not exercise it; if given, they might exercise it, although it should not interfere with

<sup>30</sup> United States v. Darby, 312 U.S. 100, 124 (1941). "While the Tenth Amendment has been characterized as a 'truism,' stating merely that 'all is retained which has not been surrendered,' [citing Darby], it is not without significance. The Amendment expressly declares the constitutional policy that Congress may not exercise power in a fashion that impairs the States' integrity or their ability to function effectively in a federal system." Fry v. United States, 421 U.S. 542, 547 n.7 (1975). This policy was effectuated, at least for a time, in National League of Cities v. Usery, 426 U.S. 833 (1976).

<sup>31</sup> Annals of Congress 767-68 (1789) (defeated in House 17 to 32); 2 B. Schwartz, The Bill of Rights: A Documentary History 1150-51 (1971) (defeated in Senate by unrecorded vote).

1 the laws, or even the Constitutions of the States."<sup>32</sup> Nevertheless, for approximately a century, from the death of Marshall
 2 until 1937, the Tenth Amendment was frequently invoked to curtail powers expressly granted to Congress, notably the 3 powers to regulate commerce, to enforce the Fourteenth Amendment, and to lay and collect taxes.

4 In McCulloch v. Maryland<sup>33</sup>, Marshall rejected the proffer of a Tenth Amendment objection and offered instead an
 5 expansive interpretation of the necessary and proper clause<sup>34</sup> [http://caselaw.lp.findlaw.com/data/constitution/amendment10/
 6 -f6](http://caselaw.lp.findlaw.com/data/constitution/amendment10/-f6) to counter the argument. The counsel for the state of Maryland cited fears of opponents of ratification of the 7 Constitution about the possible swallowing up of states' rights and referred to the Tenth Amendment to allay these
 8 apprehensions, all in support of his claim that the power to create corporations was reserved by that Amendment to the 9 States<sup>35</sup>. Stressing the fact that the Amendment, unlike the cognate section of the Articles of Confederation, omitted the 10 word "expressly" as a qualification of granted powers, Marshall declared that its effect was to leave the question "whether 11 the particular power which may become the subject of contest has been delegated to the one government, or prohibited to 12 the other, to depend upon a fair construction of the whole instrument."<sup>36</sup>

13 Federal Taxing Power --Not until after the Civil War was the idea that the reserved powers of the States comprise an 14 independent qualification of otherwise constitutional acts of the Federal Government actually applied to nullify, in part, an
 15 act of Congress. This result was first reached in a tax case--Collector v. Day. Holding that a national income tax, in itself
 16 valid, could not be constitutionally levied upon the official salaries of state officers, Justice Nelson made the sweeping
 17 statement that "the States within the limits of their powers not granted, or, in the language of the Tenth Amendment,
 18 'reserved,' are as independent of the general government as that government within its sphere is independent of the States."
 19 In 1939, Collector v. Day was expressly overruled. Nevertheless, the problem of reconciling state and national interest still 20 confronts the Court occasionally, and was elaborately considered in New York v. United States, where, by a vote of six-to-
 21 two, the Court upheld the right of the United States to tax the sale of mineral waters taken from property owned by a State.
 22 Speaking for four members of the Court, Chief Justice Stone justified the tax on the ground that "[t]he national taxing
 23 power would be unduly curtailed if the State, by extending its activities, could withdraw from it subjects of taxation
 24 traditionally within it." Justices Frankfurter and Rutledge found in the Tenth Amendment "no restriction upon Congress to 25 include the States in levying a tax exacted equally from private persons upon the same subject matter." Justices Douglas and 26 Black dissented, saying:

27 "If the power of the federal government to tax the States is conceded, the reserved power of the States
 28 guaranteed by the Tenth Amendment does not give them the independence which they have always been 29 assumed to have."

30 3.8.9 13th Amendment: Abolition of Slavery

31 Section 1. Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall 32 have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction. Section
 33 2. Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.
 34 [Thirteenth Amendment, Emphasis added]

35 Have you ever considered that being forced to pay income taxes to the state on the basis of wage income constitutes 36 slavery? It may not be physical slavery but it constitutes financial slavery. Merriam Webster defines slavery as follows:

37 slave 1: a person held in servitude as the chattel of another: BONDMAN 2: one that is completely subservient
 38 to a dominating influence.<sup>37</sup>

39 slavery 1: DRUDGERY, TOIL 2: submission to a dominating influence 3 a: the state of a person who is a

It then defines "servitude" as follows:

ser-vi-tude Pronunciation: 's&r-v&-"tüid, -"tyüid

Function: noun

Etymology: Middle English, from Middle French, from Latin servitudo slavery, from servus slave

Date: 15th century

1 : a condition in which one lacks liberty especially to determine one's course of action or way of life

2 : a right by which something (as a piece of land) owned by one person is subject to a specified use or enjoyment by another

From the above definition, you can see that servitude, or slavery, encompasses not only surrendering control of one's body and time to another, but it also involves the right of use and beneficial enjoyment of one's property as well. Servitude is a condition where we have been involuntarily deprived of liberty. Black's Law Dictionary defines slavery as follows:

slavery: The condition of a slave; that civil relation in which one man has absolute power over the life, fortune, and liberty of another. The 13th Amendment abolished slavery.

slave: A person who is wholly subject to the will of another; one who has no freedom of action, but whose person and services are wholly under the control of another. One who is under the power of a master, and who belongs to him; so that the master may sell and dispose of his person, of his industry, and of his labor, without his being able to do anything, have anything, or acquire anything, but what must belong to his master. The 13th Amendment abolished slavery.

[Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1388]

The condition of slavery is referred to in the U.S. Code, Title 18, Chapter 77 (sections 1581 through 1588) as "peonage", which is defined as follows:

peonage 1 a: the use of laborers bound in servitude because of debt b: a system of convict labor by which convicts are leased to contractors 2: the condition of a peon.

peon 3 a: a person held in compulsory servitude to a master for the working out of an indebtedness b: DRUDGE, MENIAL

[Webster's Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary, ISBN 0-87779-510-X, 1983, p. 871]

Would anyone argue that we aren't peons who are slaves to the Federal Reserve and who owe income taxes to pay off the debts of the U.S. government to the privately owned Federal Reserve? Isn't peonage against the law, but that's what the U.S. Congress legalized when it nearly simultaneously passed the Federal Reserve Act and the Income Tax in 1913? The two are linked together because if you are going to run up a big public debt, then peons are needed to pay it off.

Notice that the key to being a slave is the absence of property rights, and the most sacred kind of property is one's labor, as confirmed in the supreme Court case of Butchers' Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746, 1883. Thomas Jefferson, the author of our Declaration of Independence, confirmed the foundation of our political system is the ownership and complete control over one's property when he said the following:

"The true foundation of republican government is the equal right of every citizen in his person and property and in their management."

[Thomas Jefferson to Samuel Kercheval, 1816. ME 15:36 ]

"Nothing is ours, which another may deprive us of."

[Thomas Jefferson to Maria Cosway, 1786. ME 5:440 ]

"He who is permitted by law to have no property of his own can with difficulty conceive that property is founded in anything but force."

[Thomas Jefferson to Edward Bancroft, 1788. ME 19:41 ]

The U.S. supreme Court agreed with the view that sovereignty of the Citizen over his property (including his labor and the wages resulting from his labor) is the foundation of all liberty:

"For the very idea that one man may be compelled to hold his life, or the means of living, or any material right essential to the enjoyment of life, at the mere will of another, seems to be intolerable in any country where freedom prevails, as being the essence of slavery itself."

1 [Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

2 The government attempts to make it appear that the tax system is based on "voluntary compliance", but they never
3 adequately define what "voluntary" means or why they put the word "compliance" after it to confuse things. They also
4 attempt to make it look voluntary by illegally coercing and threatening employees to complete a W-4 "Withholding
5 Allowance" certificate, which in effect gives the government the permission from the employee to withhold income taxes
6 from their pay. However, there have been several cases where employees have refused to complete the W-4, and the 7 employers have consulted the IRS, only to be told that they can't hire a person who won't complete and sign the W-4 (see
8 section EEOC v. Information Systems Consulting, Inc., CA3-92-0169-T, United States Court Northern District of Texas,
9 Dallas Division; mentioned in section 2.9.2). The courts have ruled in the case of *EEOC v. Information Systems
10 Consulting, Inc.*, that it is considered illegal NOT to hire someone who refused to complete a W-4 form because it violates 11 a person's civil rights!

12 Here is another way to look at it. Income taxes as they are currently (illegally, I might add) being implemented by the IRS
13 effectively assess taxes on employment wages on the basis of or in proportion to the hours worked. For instance, if I am in 14 the 28% tax bracket, then I am a slave to the IRS for 28% of the year. Every year, the media refers to what they call "tax
15 freedom day", which is the day during the year at which everyone in America has paid off all their taxes to the federal 16 government and everything they take home from that point is considered to be theirs. If income taxes are assessed on the 17 basis of labor or as an equivalent percentage of labor, then in effect, for a portion of a person's work year that is in
18 proportion to their income tax rate or percentage, the person being taxed in effect becomes a slave or involuntary servant
19 of the government for the portion of the year corresponding to their tax percentage rate. The only way they could pay
20 any kind of taxes and not be a slave to the government is if the taxes are excises (indirect) based on sales of goods, because
21 then people have the discretion or choice as to whether they want to buy something or not, without the threat of coercion
22 from the government to mandatorily pay a tax. Right now with the income taxes based on wages, all Congress has to do is 23 make the income tax rate 100% and we all become INSTANT SLAVES of the government for the entire year, and people
24 will have absolutely nothing they can do about it and we would all starve to death! And when you have no money, you can't 25 afford to litigate to protect your rights either so you are likely to stay in that state indefinitely. The condition of financial 26 slavery is therefore self-perpetuating.

27 Another thing to consider is that the income taxes on individuals are frequently used, in effect, for social engineering
28 purposes that compel people to do things they would not otherwise do in every conceivable area of life! In this sense,
29 people also become slaves using income taxes. All that is needed for this type of coercion is some new tax credit or tax
30 penalty for a particular type of financial, moral, or economic activity. For instance, if congress wants to outlaw smoking,
31 then all they have to do is make the price of continuing to smoke so high using a tax credit that no one will want to
32 continue. They could offer a 10% additional charge to income taxes for people who smoke, which makes the cost of 33 continuing to smoke so exorbitant that everyone would be compelled to quit! They could also do it, as Canada did, by an 34 oppressively high type of income tax on smokers. This leads us to the conclusion that with direct income taxes, there is no
35 such thing as freedom or privacy and the government has ultimate control over every aspect of our lives and can regulate 36 every aspect of our behavior through taxation. This consideration is also behind the idea that it is unconstitutional for the 37 government to either tax, penalize, or fine the exercise of constitutionally guaranteed rights.

38 Refer to section 2.4: The Freedom Test, to see whether you are a slave who has been deceived or deluded into thinking he is 39 free. The slavery comes in many forms, and the main impetus behind continuing the financial slavery to the IRS that 40 politicians will often talk about is paying off the national debt. As long as people believe that the national debt is large and
41 needs to continue to be paid off, then they will be less likely to question the encroachment of their due process and 5th and 42 14th Amendment protections by the IRS in the process of illegally implementing the income tax code. Citizens will be
43 more likely to agree with the need to pay taxes they wouldn't otherwise owe. Never mind the fact that no matter how much
44 money you give the politicians, they will always find excuses to deficit spend and will never pay off the debt! As long as the 45 politicians are spending "other people's money" derived through income taxes with no constitutional or statutory obligation
46 to balance the budget, they will continue to destroy the credit of the United States and force the national debt and public
47 spending ever higher. This will ensure that the financial slavery and tax rates becomes more and more oppressive every 48 year using the excuse that the budget isn't balanced. The more we borrow and the greater the interest on the national debt
49 we have, the harder it will be to pay off current obligations without increasing taxes continually. The only way to stop this
50 vicious cycle is to end the fiscal irresponsibility and lack of discipline or accountability of the fat-cat lawyers in 51 Washington, D.C. Refer to section 2.8.11 Debt, for information about how government oppression is perpetuated and 52 expanded in the name of public debt.

1 Based on the preceding discussion as a background, it is very easy to understand why the prudent founding fathers included
 2 a prohibition against direct taxes of the population by the U.S. Government in Article I, Section 2, Clause 3 of the 3 constitution. It would appear they wanted to prevent involuntary financial slavery of individuals to the federal government,
 4 especially based on direct taxes on wages derived from employment. See section 3.8.1: Constitutional Government, for 5 further discussion of this subject.

10 3.8.10 14th Amendment: Citizenship and Equal Protection

11 Below is the text of the Fourteenth Amendment:

12 Section 1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are 13 citizens of the United States and of the state wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which
 14 shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any 15 person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the 16 equal protection of the laws.

17 Section 2. Representatives shall be apportioned among the several states according to their respective numbers,
 18 counting the whole number of persons in each state, excluding Indians not taxed. But when the right to vote at 19 any election for the choice of electors for President and Vice President of the United States, Representatives in 20 Congress, the executive and judicial officers of a state, or the members of the legislature thereof, is denied to
 21 any of the male inhabitants of such state, being twenty-one years of age, and citizens of the United States, or in
 22 any way abridged, except for participation in rebellion, or other crime, the basis of representation therein shall
 23 be reduced in the proportion which the number of such male citizens shall bear to the whole number of male
 24 citizens twenty-one years of age in such state.

25 Section 3. No person shall be a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector of President and Vice
 26 President, or hold any office, civil or military, under the United States, or under any state, who, having 27 previously taken an oath, as a member of Congress, or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any
 28 state legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any state, to support the Constitution of the United
 29 States, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies
 30 thereof. But Congress may by a vote of two-thirds of each House, remove such disability.

31 Section 4. The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for
 32 payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned.
 33 But neither the United States nor any state shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in aid of 34 insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any slave; but 35 all such debts, obligations and claims shall be held illegal and void.

36 Section 5. The Congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provisions of this article.

37 Article IV of the Articles of Confederation extended privileges of citizenship to mere inhabitants, with this phrase:

38 "... the free inhabitants of each of these states, paupers, vagabonds and fugitives from Justice excepted, shall be
 39 entitled to all privileges and immunities of free citizens in the several states"

40 The Articles of Confederation uses phrases in which nouns are not capitalized proper nouns, and never use the preposition
 41 "of", examples:

- 42 1. "states in this union"
- 43 2. "free inhabitants"
- 44 3. "free citizens"

45 The US Constitution omits references to the word "free", and instead uses phrases with proper capitalized nouns, and often 46 use the preposition "of":

- 1 1. "Citizen of the United States"
- 2 2. "Inhabitant of that State"
- 3 3. "Resident within the United States"
- 4 4. "People of the several States"
- 5 5. "residents of the same state"

6 The 14th amendment did not create a new type of "citizenship" or in any way adversely affect our civil rights but it simply 7 extended citizenship to people of all races and creeds rather than just to whites. Some people mistakenly believe that the 8 Fourteenth Amendment Section 1 created a new inferior type of citizenship analogous to ownership. In fact, this is not the 9 case, as we will explain exhaustively later in section 4.10 and following.

10 Equal protection under the law? Lawyers will tell you that the 14th amendment was the great equalizer. They will tell you
 11 that your rights to equal protection under the law come from the 14th amendment. They will then ask you why you would 12 question such strong protections?

13 Compare the following two quotes that acknowledge equal protection under the law:

- 14 1. The 14th Amendment section 1, "... nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due 15 process of law... "
- 16 2. The 5th Amendment "... nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law..."

17 The U.S. Supreme Court in 1878 case of Davidson v. New Orleans stated that your Constitution is not redundant. They 18 mean different things.

19 Here is how the California Supreme Court describes the purpose of the Fourteenth Amendment in Van Valkenburg v.
 20 Brown, 43 Cal. 43 (1872):

21 "The history and aim of the Fourteenth Amendment is well known, and the purpose had in view in its adoption
 22 well understood. That purpose was to confer the status of citizenship upon a numerous class of persons
 23 domiciled within the limits of the United States [the federal United States], who could not be brought within 24 the operation of the naturalization laws because native born, and whose birth, though native, had at the 25 same time left them without the status of citizenship. These persons were not white persons, but were, in the 26 main, persons of African descent, who had been held in slavery in this country, or, if having themselves
 27 never been held in slavery, were the native-born descendents of slaves. Prior to the adoption of the 28 Fourteenth Amendment it was settled that neither slaves, nor those who had been such, nor the descendants of 29 these, though native and free born, were capable of becoming citizens of the United States. (Dread Scott v.
 30 Sanford, 19 How. 393). The Thirteenth Amendment, though conferring the boon of freedom upon native-born
 31 persons of African blood, had yet left them under an insuperable bar as to citizenship; and it was mainly to 32 remedy this condition that the Fourteenth Amendment was adopted." [emphasis added]

33 Here is what some state courts have said about this amendment:

34 "I cannot believe that any court in full possession of all its faculties, would ever rule that the (14th) Amendment 35 was properly approved and adopted."
 36 [State v. Phillips, 540 P.2d. 936; Dyett v. Turner, 439 P.2d. 266. [The court in this case was the Utah Supreme
 37 Court.]]

38 Further, in 1967, Congress tried to repeal the 14th Amendment on the ground that it is invalid, void, and unconstitutional.
 39 CONGRESSIONAL RECORD -- HOUSE, June 13, 1967, pg. 15641.

40 The portion of the 14th Amendment that draws the most attention within the freedom community reads in pertinent part,

41 "All persons, born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the 42 United States and of the State wherein they reside....The validity of the public debt of the United States...shall 43 not be questioned."

44 The words "and subject to the jurisdiction thereof" were further clarified in U.S. v. Wong Kim Ark, 169 U.S. 649 (1898) as 45 follows, and note that "subject to the jurisdiction thereof" includes people born in a state of the Union:

46 "It is impossible to construe the words 'subject to the jurisdiction thereof,' in the opening sentence [of the 47 Fourteenth Amendment], as less comprehensive than the words 'within its jurisdiction,' in the concluding

1 *sentence of the same section; or to hold that persons 'within the jurisdiction' of one of the states of the Union
 2 are not 'subject to the jurisdiction of the United States.'
 3 [U.S. v. Wong Kim Ark, 169 U.S. 649 (1898)]

4 In Powe v. U.S., 109 F.2d. 147, 149 (1940) the court determined what the term 'citizen' means in federal statutes. Notice
 5 that the term 'citizen', when used in federal laws, excludes State citizens:

6 "... a construction is to be avoided, if possible, that would render the law unconstitutional, or raise grave doubts
 7 *thereabout. In view of these rules it is held that 'citizen' means 'citizen of the United States,' and not a person
 8 generally, nor citizen of a State ..."

9 Why did the framers of the Fourteenth Amendment word it the way they did? Following the end of the Civil War in 1865,
 10 several rebellious southern states refused to pass laws allowing blacks to have citizenship in the state, and if they couldn't
 11 be state citizens, then they also couldn't be "nationals of the United States", vote, or serve on juries. This meant that even 12 though blacks technically were free, they had no rights. The Fourteenth Amendment was an attempt to remedy mainly this 13 situation by conveying the privileges of nationality and "citizen" status to blacks. If you go back and look at the Fourteenth
 14 Amendment, section 1, you will see how this was accomplished.

15 "All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the 16 United States and of the state wherein they reside."

17 Congress' plan was to naturalize all the blacks into being citizens of the federal United States** and then force the states to 18 treat them like citizens of the state they resided in by virtue of them being "U.S. citizens". The other part of Section 1 of 19 the Fourteenth Amendment confirms this:

20 No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the 21 United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law;*
 22 nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

23 Since Congress was empowered by Article 1, Section 8, Clause 4 of the Constitution

24 "To establish an uniform Rule of Naturalization, and uniform Laws on the subject of Bankruptcies throughout 25 the United States;"

26 then they had the Constitutional authority to naturalize the blacks to be federal/U.S.** citizens, even though they weren't 27 state citizens. The Civil Rights Act of 1866 on April 9, 1866, 14 Stat. 27 collectively naturalized blacks so they could be 28 protected from state government abuses of their natural rights.

29 "By the act of April 9, 1866, entitled 'An act to protect all persons in the United States in their civil rights, and
 30 furnish means for their vindication,' (14 St. 27.) it is provided that 'all persons born in the United States, and
 31 not subject to any foreign power, excluding Indians not taxed, are hereby declared to be citizens of the United

 33 the United States. Numerous statutes and treaties previously provided for all the individual members of

39 The most frequent confusion we see within the freedom community over the issue of Fourteenth Amendment citizenship is 40 misunderstanding of the differences between "United States" in the Constitution and "United States" in federal statutes. In 41 the Constitution, the term means the states of the Union, while in federal statutes, it refers to what we call the "federal 42 zone" or federal United States. This is a direct result of the fact that the federal government has no police powers within 43 states of the Union, as we will point out later in section 4.9. The government contributes to this confusion by using terms
 44 on their forms and in their court rulings that they refuse to define or which they define ambiguously. To prevent this 45 problem, you can simply define the terms you are using on any form by attaching a definition of all terms to every federal 46 form you submit. Otherwise, we can guarantee that what you put on the form will be misconstrued by the public servant
 47 reading it, usually to the injury of your rights.

48 Unfortunately, there was an unwanted side effect to the Fourteenth Amendment much later on because long after black
 49 slavery was eliminated in the southern states following the Civil War, our greedy elected officials used confusion over

1 citizenship terms used in the 14th Amendment to obtain federal jurisdiction over everyone in the country, and that is where
 2 they got the nexus to tax us all and circumvent the Constitutional limitations on direct taxation found in 1:9:4 and 1:2:3 of
 3 the Constitution! They did this by deceiving lawyers and people to believe that a “citizen of the United States” under the
 4 Fourteenth Amendment is the same as a “U.S. citizen” or “citizen of the United States” under federal statutes and “acts of 5 Congress”. The greedy politicians just couldn’t keep their hands out of your pocket, could they? In order to spread this
 6 kind of financial slavery, they relied on the ignorance of an ill-informed populace to spread the myth that everyone was a
 7 “U.S. citizen”, instead of a “national”, and that is where our troubles began, because this created a new pecking order that
 8 took away our Constitutional rights in the context of federal income taxes. This made us all second class federal “U.S.
 9 citizens” subject to “acts of Congress” instead of “Natural Born Sovereign American”.

10 Because of the differences in meaning of the term “United States” in the Constitution and “United States” in federal 11 statutes, you must be careful how you describe your citizenship. We’ll get into that in much more detail later in section
 12 4.10 and following. For now, however, we must understand what a “citizen of the United States” is under federal statutes,
 13 and particularly under 8 U.S.C. §1401, keeping in mind that “United States” in that context and as defined in 8 U.S.C.
 14 §1101(a)(38) and 8 C.F.R. §215.1(f) means only the federal United States. A “citizen of the United States” under federal 15 statutes can be any one of the following types of people:

- 16 1. Persons who are actually “nationals” but who volunteer or elect to be treated as U.S. citizens, which fits the vast 17 majority of persons in this country at this time. These people live in the 50 Union states and outside of federal 18 enclaves in those states, but are treated by the federal government as federal territory or property (slaves).
- 19 2. Persons who were born on federal property subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States under 20 Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Constitution. The only time the federal government actually has exclusive
 21 jurisdiction over these people living in states of the Union is when the federal property they are living in is part of a
 22 federal enclave within a state that comes under both federal and state law under either the Buck Act (4 U.S.C. §105
 23 through 4 U.S.C. §113).
- 24 3. People who are federal property/territory (slaves). These people can properly be described as “federal property” or 25 “territory over which the United States is sovereign” coming under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the Constitution.
 26 You thought the Thirteenth Amendment outlawed slavery, didn’t you? Well it didn’t outlaw voluntary slavery, and 27 that is what you become if you elect to be a “U.S. citizen”.

28 If you closely examine the citizenship application forms used by the U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS):

29 <http://uscis.gov/graphics/formsfee/forms/index.htm>

30 then you will find that the sneaky federal government doesn’t even mention a word about “nationals” on their form N-400,
 31 which is entitled “Application for Naturalization”. If you call them up like we did and ask them how to become a
 32 “national” instead of the taxable “U.S. citizen” they desperately want you to be and what you should put on the form in 33 order to guarantee that, they will refuse to directly answer your question and run you in circles hoping you’ll just give up!

34 If you research the terms "resident" and "legal residence", you find that it is the nexus that binds us all to the state and
 35 federal enforcement of commercial law statutes today. "Resident" is the short form of "Resident Alien" and is used in State
 36 statutes to mean someone who exhibits actual presence in an area belonging to one nation while retaining a
 37 domicile/citizenship status within another foreign nation [The United States/District of Columbia]. The federal income tax
 38 under Title 26, in fact, defines the term “individual” as either an alien or a nonresident alien and does not even refer to 39 citizens!<sup>39</sup> The term "legal residence" further indicates that these two terms may be applied either to a geographical 40 jurisdiction, or, a political jurisdiction. An individual may reside in one or the other, or in both at the same time. In 41 California, Government Code, section 126, sets forth the essential elements of a compact between this State and the federal 42 government allowing reciprocal taxation of certain entities, and provide for concurrent jurisdiction within geographical 43 boundaries.
