

WHO ARE THE JEWS?

Posted on December 29, 2013 by svenlongshanks

Judea was a multicultural state by the time of Christ.

Jesus Was Not a Jew

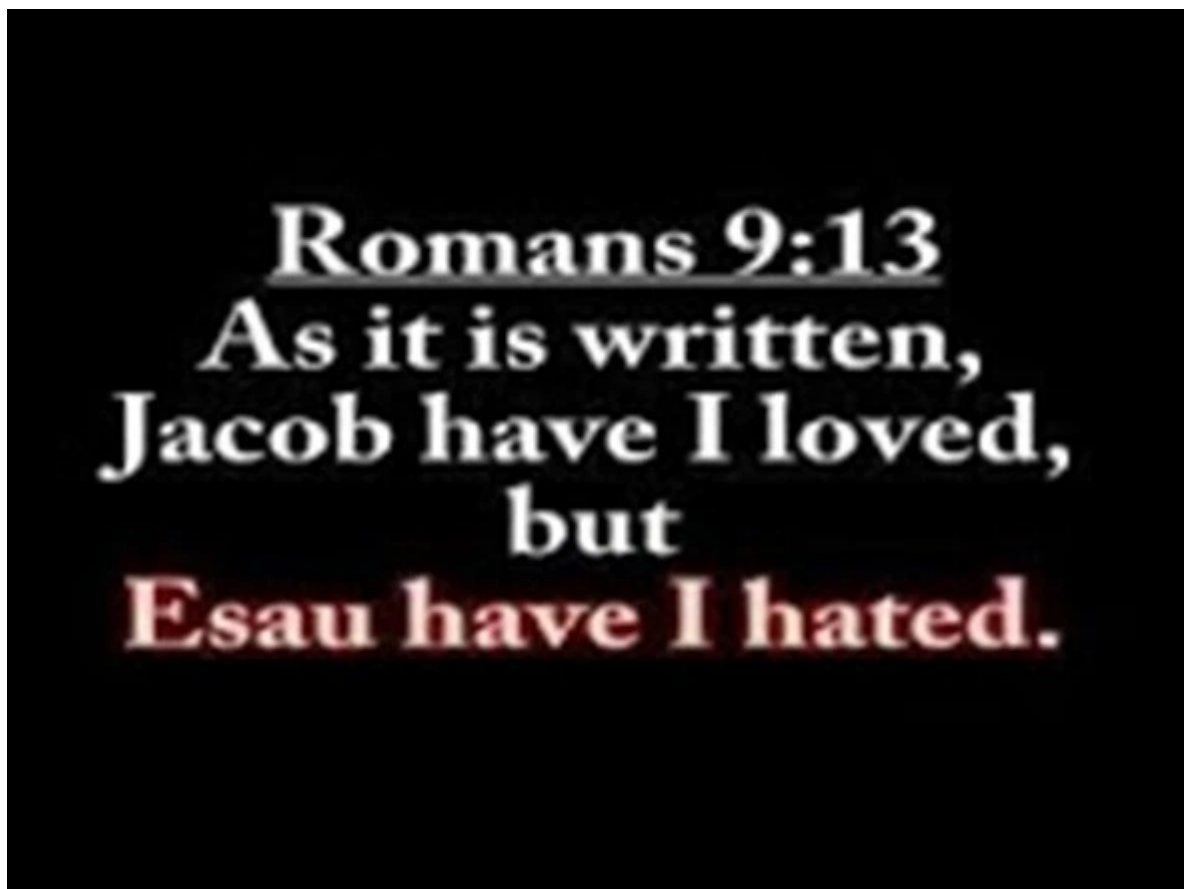

There is a common misconception that today's 'Jews' are in some way the descendants of the biblical children of Israel. This could not be more wrong and can be demonstrated in a variety of ways from credible sources. Jesus was also not a Jew, although he is commonly misidentified as such.

Jesus was a Galilean living in the Roman Protectorate of Judea, where up to five different peoples lived at different times, all commonly known as Judeans, after the land of their nativity and not due to their actual genetic heritage. Jesus' lineage through his mother was of the tribe of Judah, making him a 'Galilean Judahite'.

The New Testament often mixes up Jew, Judean and Judahite by calling them all 'Jew'. This can be shown by the way Jews are mainly utterly condemned in the New Testament, as well as them being specifically told that they do not have the same heritage as Jesus, and that his message is not for them. At the same time, in a minority of places Jews are identified as being good. There are also the verses in Revelations, referencing those who say they are Jews but are not, who are the synagogue of Satan. These verses cannot all be talking about the same people.

So if the New Testament Jews are not of the tribe of Judah, then who were they? The priests and the Herodian kings are named as Jews in the Bible, as well as by Jewish sources yet they were Idumeans, which is the Greek word for Edomites, who were of the tribe of Edom. The King James Bible of 1934 sleeve notes explain how Herod was an Idumean stranger who with the help of Rome, had taken over the Judahite monarchy and the priesthood, appointing other Edomites to all the important positions in the State. 'So Herod, a descendant of Edom, tried to wrest from Jacob the forfeited blessing, by setting up an earthly kingdom on a professed Jewish basis, to supplant Messiah's spiritual kingdom.'

You can't get clearer than that.

The Edomites/Idumeans

The Edomites were descended from Esau, Jacob-Israel's brother. Esau married Canaanite women and thus broke the first law, which is that each should produce only after their own kind, of only one kind of flesh, not mixing seed with another kind. These wives of his were 'a grief of mind to Isaac and Rebecca', his parents. Because he was unrighteous and polluted his bloodline, Rebecca knew that he should not be given the traditional blessing of the first born, and she instructed Jacob on how he could obtain it instead. This added to the jealousy that Esau had for Jacob and continues right through to the present day in the hatred that Jews have for the Europeans.

The tribe of Edom are called the people of God's curse in the Old Testament, they repeatedly helped Israel's enemies and joined in the plunder of the Israelites. The first of many wars they made against Israel was following Jacob-Israel's father Isaac's death, right after promising him that they would not make war on Jacob's tribe, referenced in the book of Jubilees.

130 years before Christ was born, there was a final battle with the Edomites whose homeland (Edom/Idumea) was right next to Judea. The Judahites won, but their chiefs had become so estranged from God's law by then that they thought they could force the Edomites to convert to the Judahite religion at sword point, circumcisions and all.

This is explicitly against God's covenant with the children of Israel as they are not to take strange wives or to accept strangers into their tribe or religion, especially from the children of Esau. The promises and covenants were made to Jacob Israel and his seed alone, if they married out of their nation then the seed was no longer just of Jacob and the promises no longer applied.

As well as polluting the bloodline and destroying the biological heritage of the Judahites, forcing the Edomites into the Israelite religion meant that they brought strange customs and idolatry into it too, which eventually became the basis for the Talmud.

At the Time of Christ

The Edomites had a reputation for subversion, corruption and treachery and they were not among Israel for long before they had taken over both the priesthood and the puppet monarchy. This was achieved through bribing the Romans, who governed the province of Judea, which by now included both the original land of Judah and Idumea, the homeland of the Edomites.

The true Israelites recognised and welcomed Jesus as the fulfilment of prophecy, but the Edomite Jews hated him and sought to kill him. Herod was the first to do this and then the Pharisees after him, as Jesus excluded them entirely from his message by saying that he had come only for the lost sheep of the house (family) of Israel.

The Edomites were already a mixed race, unlike the observant Israelites who had continued to observe the strict racial purity laws of the Old Testament. Jesus reminded the Israelites of these laws and the covenant that had been made with their fathers, repeatedly saying that he came ‘not to any, but to the lost sheep of the house of Israel’, as well as speaking in parables that only they could understand.

Khazaria. The Khazars converted to Judaism and interbred with the already adulterated bloodline of the Edomite Jews.

The Khazars

After Rome’s conversion to Christianity, the Edomite Jews were prevented from holding any civic office, building synagogues or even doing business, by the Byzantine Christians who knew only too well how they operated. Usury and slave ownership were also unlawful under them, which prevented the Jews from being able to get up to much in the Byzantine Empire.

Due to this effective banishment from taking part in public discourse, the Edomites moved to the kingdom of Khazaria, where the King and his people converted to the Talmud, as it condoned and encouraged their own customs of slave trading and usury. To the west of them were the Christians and to the east were the Muslims, who also forbade usury.

These Khazars were part Monghol, part Turkish and now they had part Edomite to add to the mix. Recent genetic tests of today's Jews show a common heritage from each of these different races, along with European blood, from when they later moved into Europe. This proves that they cannot be God's chosen people, since one of the most important commandments for God's people was not to mix their blood with strangers.

What Does God Think of Race Mixing?

It was race mixing between the sons of God and the children of men that was the cause of the flood, which is interpreted as meaning it was between Seth's sons and Cain's daughters, according to the earliest Christian sources. Noah was 'perfect in his generation', meaning that his blood was not mixed and neither was his children's.

Lot's daughters had to resort to raping their father in order to ensure that their offspring would be of pure blood, as there was so much race mixing going on around them in the area of Sodom and Zoar, that they could not be sure of keeping their posterity unadulterated otherwise.

The Book of Ezra tells us that after the tribe of Judah were allowed to go back and rebuild Jerusalem after the Babylonian dispersion, it was discovered that many of the people had taken strange wives and had children by them. The high priest hears of this and is terrified of what will happen to them because of this sin and the strange wives and children are banished. (They probably moved to the nearby land of the mixed race Edomites, taking back a mix of their own customs, which would have been pagan, alongside some of the Judahite ones, to form the beginnings of what would later become the Talmud.)

The Book of Jubilees has a whole chapter devoted to praising the slaughter of an entire tribe for not just for the crime of raping an Israelite woman, but because the offspring's generations would have had polluted blood for ever more.

An everlasting covenant is made with a man called Phineas, and all his seed after him, for zealously spearing two race mixers through in Numbers ch 25.

The word 'bastard' in modern bibles is translated from 'mamzer' which means 'mongrel'. Deuteronomy ch 23 v 2 tells us 'A bastard shall not enter into the congregation of the Lord; even to his tenth generation shall he not enter into the congregation of the Lord.'

When the Bible mentions fornication, this means 'joining with strange flesh' and the commandment to not adulterate means to not adulterate anything, including and most importantly the blood.

It all depends on your ancestors righteousness whether you are a part of the tower of Babylon, or the holy mountain of God.

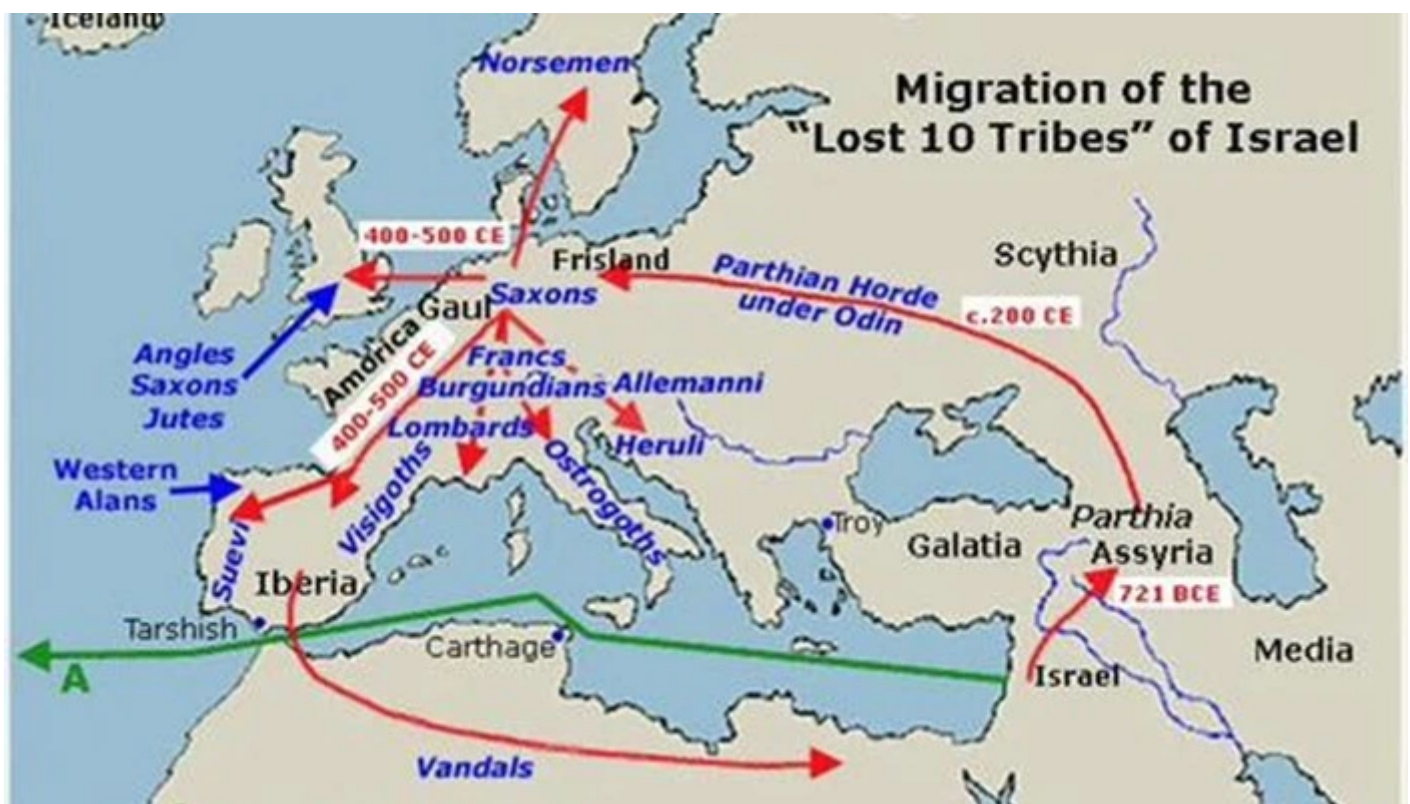

The confusion of tongues at Babel was to prevent race mixing and to thwart Nimrod's attempt to make a nation himself out of mingling the ones already provided. In the previous chapter all the separate Adamite nations are named and then Nimrod tries to make 'a name of their own'. This is the original source of the globalist agenda to do the same today, reducing everyone to the level of 'just a human being' with no heritage, allegiance or identity.

Today's Jews

Today's Jews very biology itself proves that they are not God's chosen people from the Bible and cannot possibly be the children of Israel, in either a physical or a spiritual sense. The Edomite connection is also confirmed in the Jewish encyclopaedia where it says that 'Edom is in modern Jewry'.

If I can find out about this I am sure that the Rabbis are also aware, that they are hated by God for violating the laws of his creation. Their hatred and resentment of those who have kept the laws of nature and are loved by God, is as old as they are, from way back when Esau, the father of Edom, married Canaanites to spite God and consigned his offspring to the same fate.

This is reflected in their aggressively promoted race mixing agenda for everyone else, that forms a part of all government policies, education and mass-media, in the countries where Jews are vastly over-represented for their small population percentage, in government, education and the mass media.

The ten tribes are not 'lost', they are the European nations of today.

Aryan Israel

The true descendants of Israel are now called by a new name, just as it said in the Bible they would be. That name is Anglo-Saxon, Anglo from Angel, denoting descent from Seth (since the children of Seth were among the first to be described as Angels) and Saxon from Isaac's son. Please read the articles that follow for more details. Their migration to Europe can be traced through the Israel pass in the Caucasus mountains and is written about in various Apocryphal books and contemporary Greek and Roman sources, as well as being referenced in the Bible. This explains the Hebrew roots of the English language and the Hebrew place names that predate Christianity, as well as the Mesopotamian names of some of the European pagan deities and festivals.

Today the Roman Catholic church calls the Jews the ‘elder brother in faith’ when in reality they are the elder brother who rejected the faith, the law and the birth-right, and has been covertly at war with us ever since.
