COMPLIMENTS OF

S. C. SCOTT MFG. CO.

Makers of Diamond Jewelry,

9, 11, 13 MAIDEN LANE,

NEW YORK.

We take pleasure in handing you our second pocket catalogue and memorandum book combined. We will guarantee any of the goods shown herein to be as represented, and if any cause for complaint should arise we will gladly exchange or return the money at any time.

You will please notice that the prices are quoted for mountings separate. Dealers will find this a great advantage, as it will enable them to give estimates for remounting diamonds.

We have the very best facilities for doing all kinds of new or repair work in diamond mountings, and should be pleased to submit special designs and estimates when desired. If any diamonds are sent to us we will see to having them carefully mounted.

We are always glad to send a selection of any of the goods illustrated herein on approval when you have a prospective sale. Memorandum goods should be returned to us in sealed packages by express, but omit value, as our goods are insured in transit.

We desire to call your attention to our grades I and C qualities of diamonds per chart on page 1. When you have a sale for a fine diamond please favor us with a trial order, as we have made such arrangements for furnishing these grades of goods that we believe we can offer special inducements in the way of prices.

We should be pleased to have an order from you, and if we have never had any dealings with you, will you please accompany it with New York City or other references.

Owing to the advance in prices of diamonds and pearls since our last issue, we have had to increase some of our prices to correspond. Should there be any further advance, the prices herein are subject to change.

Your attention is directed to our system of grading diamonds as illustrated on page 1. Please read the endorsements on pages 2 and 3.

Thanking you for past favors, and hoping for a continuance of the same, we remain,

Yours truly,

Endorsements of Diamond Chart.

Gentlemen:

I find your system of grading diamonds of great advantage in making sales. It gives both myself and customers more confidence by having the guarantee of a reliable firm that the stones are as represented, and is also a great help in ordering diamonds, as I can tell you just what I want.

Yours truly,
Saratoga Springs, N. Y., F. C. MAYNARD.
Sept. 29, 1898.

---

Dear Sirs:

Your chart for grading diamonds seems to us a very practical thing. We like it very much indeed and believe it quite a necessary help, especially to dealers who are not expert in making sales. We cannot see how the system could possibly be improved upon.

Yours respectfully,
Roswell, New Mex., JOYCE, FRUIT & CO.
Oct. 3, 1898.

---

Dear Sirs:

It is with the greatest of pleasure that I renew my former endorsement of your system of grading diamonds which I have found entirely satisfactory, always finding the quality of the stone to correspond as marked in your chart.

Yours,
Tiffin, O., L. SEEWALD.
Nov. 2, 1898.

---

Gentlemen:

Your system of separating and grading of diamonds, which enables the buyer to know exactly what he is buying, has given me entire satisfaction, which you surely know by the number I have purchased from you.

Respectfully yours,
Washington, Pa., F. B. MCKINLEY.
Sept. 27, 1898.

---

My Dear Sirs:

I have found your chart a great help in selling diamonds. They accept them with fewer questions and I sell them easier. It gives me pleasure to say a few words of endorsement in its favor and I hope you will continue to use this system.

Yours respectfully,
Medina, N. Y., C. F. HURD.
Nov. 7, 1898.

---

Dear Sirs:

Dear Sirs:

Your chart for grading diamonds is certainly a success, and has been of much advantage to me both in buying and selling. It is so simple and plain that anybody can understand it, and know exactly what he is buying. I cannot speak too highly of it.

Yours truly,

York, Pa.,

October 15th, 1899.

H. M. REBERT.

Dear Sirs:

We are well pleased with your method of grading diamonds and find it helps us to gain the confidence of our customers. It saves us time and is a great convenience, and we can recommend any one desiring to purchase diamonds to give it a trial.

Dear Sirs:

Regarding your system of grading diamonds I will say that a person not competent to rely on his own judgment readily finds the chart a great assistance for he knows "where he is at," as it were, and can speak intelligently regarding the quality.

Yours truly,

Fernandina, Fla.,

Oct. 7, 1898.

J. G. SUHRER.

---

Dear Sirs:

Your diamond chart has proved a success with us, and I am pleased to say the quality of the goods purchased of you by means of it, has always been fully up to the grade represented.

Very truly,

Rochester, Pa.,

Sept. 28, 1898.

Dear Sirs:

I am very much pleased with your chart for the grading of diamonds. It is a time-saver for the expert jeweler and a safe and sure guide for the inexperienced.

Respectfully,

St. Clairsville, Ohio,

Oct. 1, 1898.

R. A. KERR.

---

Gentlemen:

I want to say a good word for the "chart." I think I could not have sold such good stones or so many as I have done were it not for its use. I find it is much easier to make sales where the diamonds are graded in this way. With thanks for favors,

I am, yours truly,

Gouverneur, N. Y.,

July 17, 1899.

No. 1503 $33.50

Roman Color, Chased, 14k all Gold,  $\frac{1}{8}$  ct. Diamond Center.

No. 1.

No. 2.

No. 3.

No. 4.

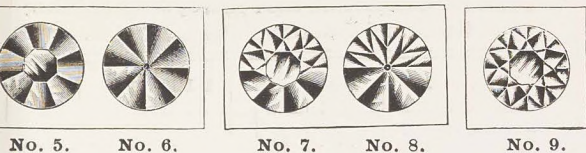

No. 1 shows the diamond in the rough, just as it is found at the mines, before any cutting or polishing has been done. In its rough state it has the appearance of a piece of crystal or glass. The weight of the above diamond before cutting was  $10\frac{1}{2}$  carats.

No. 2 shows the same stone as illustrated in No. 1, after the first process, which is called "cutting." This is done by the workman taking two diamonds in the rough state and rubbing them together. They are both rubbed or ground at the same time until they are both nearly round, as shown in cut No. 2. This process was formerly done by hand, but it is now done by machinery, one diamond being set in a revolving lathe, the other diamond being held by the workman in a tool in the same way as a wood turner turns down a piece of wood. This illustrates the old saying of "diamond cut diamond," as the diamond being the hardest of all precious stones can only be cut by rubbing with another diamond. The weight of the above diamond after this process was  $8\frac{3}{4}$  carats.

Nos. 3 and 4 show the same stone after the next process, called "polishing." The polishing wheel is made of cast iron, and is about twelve inches in diameter, and revolves horizontally. A mixture of diamond dust and oil is used on the wheel for polishing. The diamond as shown in cut No. 2, is set in the polishing tool in a lead composition, exposing just enough of the stone to allow the polishing of one facet. It is necessary to reset or turn the diamond in the lead composition before another facet can be polished. No. 3 shows the front view of the diamond and No. 4 the back view after the first process of polishing. The weight of the above diamond, after this process, was  $5\frac{3}{8}.\frac{1}{16}$  carats.

Nos. 5 and 6 show the same stone after the next process of polishing. No. 5 shows the front view and No. 6 the back view. The weight of the above diamond, after this process, was  $4\frac{1}{4}$  carats.

Nos. 7 and 8 show the next process of polishing of the facets, only one-half of the stone is finished in order to show how the facets are made.

No. 9 shows the same stone after the final process of polishing. The weight after this process was 4 carats.

Diamonds are found in India, Borneo, Sumatra, Brazil, South Africa and Australia. Diamonds are the only class of merchandise which show no sign of wear and tear, and which never depreciate in value. They are always worth within a reasonable amount of their cost if purchased of the right parties and for a fair price.

We are now cutting our own diamonds, and so are enabled to sell at the lowest market price. Our aim is to cater for the trade of those dealers who do not carry a full assortment of diamond goods in stock, and who send for an assortment on memorandum when they have a sale for diamonds or precious stones.

When you are thinking of purchasing any diamonds, or have a prospective sale for anything in this line, kindly favor us with a trial order.
